Manchester's Total Contributions Now $2,082.00; Town Gives Twice the Amount of Its Quota.

G. S. Bohl, president of the Manchester chapter of the American Red Cross, announced today that he had received a contribution of $1,000 from Cheney Brothers for Florida hurricane and flood relief. This raises the total of Manchester contributions for the emergency fund to $2,082.00, double the town's quota which was set at $1,000.00.

"Over the Top" When the first call for funds came from John Barton, Payne, president of the American Red Cross, the local chapter immediately dispatched $500 from its treasury. This is money that has been contributed to the work of the Red Cross by local people at various times. Other contributions from Manchester people totaled $522.00, and now the Cheney Brothers check for $1,000 puts Manchester away "over the top" to the $2,082.00 mark.

Contributions are still being received by Lucius Pinney, treasurer of the fund. They may be addressed to him at his home at 84 Prospect street. As the storm struck areas are being entered by relief workers a great need for rehabilitation funds is found. An increase of the original national quota from five millions to 12 millions of dollars is now expected.

Beats Bristol Manchester's first work in the campaign for relief funds can best be realized by comparing this town with Bristol. Bristol, a little larger in population than Manchester, was given a quota of $1,250 against Manchester's quota of $1,000. Bristol has raised $476.00 against Manchester's $2,082.00. Inasmuch as a call for more funds is expected from Red Cross national headquarters, further appeals are to be sent to local people through the press.

GIL IS ELECTED MEX. PRESIDENT

Only 37 Years Old But Has Long Been Active in Public Affairs.

Mexico City, Sept. 26.—Emilio Portes Gil, secretary of the interior in the Calles Cabinet, will become provisional president of Mexico on December 1. During a joint session of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies last night, he was unanimously elected to succeed President Calles by 277 members of Congress present.

When he takes the oath of office, Gil will be the youngest man ever to have become president of Mexico. He is only 37. He will serve until Feb. 5, 1930. The balance of the full term of six years ending Nov. 30, 1934 will be served by a constitutional president who will be elected at extraordinary elections to be held the end of November, 1929.

Gil's election was widely acclaimed by both the Senators and deputies who also cheered President Calles and the name of the late President-Elect, General Alvaro Obregon.

Long Public Career Despite his youth, Gil has had a long and active public career. He is said to have liberal views and a great regard for the friendship of the United States. During his two terms as governor of the State of Tamaulipas he showed great activity in curbing vice conditions, improving child welfare and establishing unusual liberty of the press within the state.

During his political career, Gil has served four terms as member of the Chamber of Deputies and held numerous important political and military offices. His election is regarded as a victory for President Calles, who was his staunchest supporter.

Gil is a teetotaler. He neither drinks nor smokes.

FOUND ON SON'S GRAVE

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 26.—John Tashko, 34, a World War veteran, is being held by police pending an examination as to his mental condition. John was reported to police as spending much time lying on the grave of a son in a local cemetery.

Police investigated and found him there. John put up a hard struggle and finally landed in police headquarters, tried to ram his head against the wall, all the time insisting that some Hartford physician had poisoned his son.

SELECTMEN WIN POINT IN FIGHT OVER CROSSINGS

New Haven Road Orders 24 Hours Gate Protection at Main Street and Longer Flagging at Oakland St.

Manchester's Board of Selectmen gained a point today in their fight for better railroad crossing protection at Oakland street. The New Haven road today ordered 24 hours gate protection at the Main street crossing and also ordered an extension of the time during which the Oakland street crossing is protected by a flagman from 5 a. m. until 11 p. m. Previously the Oakland crossing was protected by a tender from 6 a. m. until 6 p. m.

To Discuss Bridge Perhaps more important in their discussion with the Public Utilities Commission and the New Haven Road is the desire expressed by the railroad authorities to confer with the Selectmen with regard to the elimination of the Oakland street crossing and the construction of a bridge at North Elm street. A letter addressed to the Selectmen today tells about the new orders which are being issued with regard to protection by gates at Main street and by flagmen at Oakland street and effective on Sunday. The letter also informs the Selectmen that the New Haven Road stands ready to investigate the possibilities of a bridge cross-over at North Elm street.

Conditions Better The Selectmen's committee on the crossing investigation has met with the Public Utilities Commission and has placed its case before that board. The P. U. commission was impressed with the Selectmen's arguments opposing the elimination entirely of the Oakland street crossing and the immediate suggestion of the New Haven Road that the above-named changes be made. The New Haven Road lost no time in complying with the P. U. commission's suggestion, and it is possible that the crossing situation here may be satisfactorily remedied in a short time through the efforts of the Selectmen.

LOEB AND LEOPOLD WILL NOT GO FREE

Reports That Thrill Slayers Were Eligible for Parole, Denied by Authorities.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The faint flickering light which pierced the grim walls of Joliet penitentiary bringing hope to Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb they might be free within six years, flickered again today and then became extinguished.

Following the statement of Hinton G. Clabaugh, director of pardons and paroles, that because of an "error" in the minutes dealing with the two college youths to prison for the brutal slaying of Little Bobby Franks four years ago, the murderers might be eligible for parole after serving eleven years, there rose today a storm of protest which swept Chicago.

Are Molly-Coddled. Clabaugh charged flatly the two sons of wealthy parents were being "molly-coddled" in the penitentiary, that they had been given prison positions where little work was expected of them and that they were building up a "good behavior" record which would warrant their consideration for a parole six years hence.

The parole director based his declaration upon the fact that the "error" was committed in the minutes not stating the sentences of the youths were to be consecutive and not concurrent. They have been sentenced to serve life for murder and 99 years for kidnaping. However, of the two sentences, technically "life" is the longest one, human beings have been known to live longer than 99 years, and thus "life" would be the means of reckoning their parole.

Darrows Opinion. Clarence Darrows, veteran criminal attorney, whose golden pleas to Judge John Caverly in behalf of Leopold and Loeb undoubtedly saved them from a hanging sentence.

When the "Windmill" Airship Reached Paris

Here is an interesting close-up of the famous Cierva autogiro, the "windmill" flying machine that crashed soon after it had completed a London-Paris flight to win the acclaim of aeronautical science. It is shown at Le Bourget field, near Paris, just after Juan de la Cierva (front seat) and his passenger landed. Above the ordinary fuselage is the horizontal windmill that, by revolving, keeps the machine in the air. It was because it didn't revolve fast enough that the autogiro crashed in a later landing.

G. O. P. NOT TO INTERFERE IN THE WILLEBRANDT CASE

Hands Off Policy at Present; Leaders Divided on Question of Curbing Her Drive Against Smith.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The Republican national committee has adopted a "hands off" policy, for the present, toward Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt and her single-handed prohibition crusade against the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

This became known today at Herbert Hoover's headquarters as the Republican nominee continued to work upon his Elizabethton, Tenn., speech. It was learned today that the Hoover advisers have split upon the question of curbing Mrs. Willebrandt or giving her a free rein in the campaign.

Hoover personally has declared himself opposed to "personalities" in the campaign and frequently has announced himself in favor of the national committee, which is conducting his campaign. He has decided to follow this advice, it was said.

USED FAKE NAME TO LURE VICTIM

Police Believe There is No Such Person as "James R. Murphy."

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 26.—Police search for the mysterious "James R. Murphy" whom the murdered Mrs. Catherine Clark, of Boston, was to have married, was continued here today, but officers themselves believed that Murphy was the convenient brain child of Archie F. Mook, created to lure Mrs. Clark here for the purpose of robbing her.

Mook is in jail facing a murder charge and is asserted to have carried on the correspondence with the Boston divorcee through a matrimonial agency under the name of Murphy.

Money Found Discovery of $1,390 and fragments of love letters in the yard of the Mook home aided police in establishing their theory. Mrs. Clark was said to have been robbed after she was killed. The torn love letters will be examined by experts today in an attempt to prove that the handwriting is that of Mook. The letters are believed to have been written to Mrs. Clark and brought by her from her eastern home.

Mook, a mill worker, is married and the father of three children. He maintains that he was merely a "go-between" in the postal romance of Mrs. Clark and "Murphy" but has been unable to produce Murphy. Meanwhile Mrs. Mook is standing steadfastly by her husband and (Continued on page 2)

ICE BOX BANDITS' FATE NOW RESTS WITH JURY

Big Zeppelin To Visit Eight American Cities

Berlin, Sept. 26.—A large section of the United States will have an opportunity to see the world's biggest dirigible—the "Count Zeppelin" in action when Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin Works, takes the balloon to the United States on a trans-Atlantic flight next month.

To a certain extent the American itinerary will depend upon the weather and the amount of time at the disposal of the Germans. Tentative plans include visits to New York, Lakehurst, N. J., Washington, Boston, Detroit and Chicago, and possibly, a trip to Philadelphia, Syracuse and Cincinnati.

It had been reported that Dr. Eckener, who will be in charge of the airship, contemplated a flight across the American continent, possibly as far as Los Angeles or San Francisco, but it is doubtful if such an ambitious plan will be attempted.

Dr. Eckener is anxious to make two and possibly three trans-Atlantic flights between Germany and New York before autumn storms put an end to the flying for the winter. Consequently, the flight will have no time for a long 3,000 mile flight from New York to California and return.

On account of the delay in blue gas production, the Zeppelin probably will not be able to start for the United States until some time between the 12th and the 15th of October.

In the meantime two and possibly four trial flights will be made on this side of the Atlantic to give the great stater the final tests. The crew may take the Zeppelin to Berlin on Friday if the weather is favorable.

Willimantic, Conn., Sept. 26.—The Superior Court Jury trying Albert J. Raymond and Alfred G. Lalone, of Worcester for the murder of Irving H. Nelson, state policeman, retired for deliberations this afternoon.

The case came to an end at lunch time today. Two addresses to the jury, one by John M. Hall, of Worcester, for the defense, and another by Samuel B. Harvey, for the state, ended quickly. Mr. Hall talked for sixty-five minutes and Mr. Harvey for ninety minutes.

Judge E. M. Yeomans, of Andover, presiding, announced that he would charge the jury, starting promptly at two o'clock. The jury will be locked up after five o'clock.

Mexico City, Sept. 26.—Charged with complicity in the assassination of President Elect Alvaro Obregon on July 17, Mother Superior Concepcion Acevedo de la Lita, a Catholic nun, was arraigned for preliminary hearing in the San Angel district court today and pleaded not guilty.

The opening session was enlivened by a spirited tilt between the nun and the federal prosecutor, Juan Correa Nieto, during which the former denounced her religion.

"Although the federal prosecutor is under obligation to know something about his religion I regret to say that he is not truthful," said the defendant. She made this statement after the prosecutor had alleged that a religious cabal plotted not only the death of Gen. Obregon but President Calles as well.

Acted Alone "I acted alone," said Lita in an effort to clear the abess of any complicity. "I think proving that my friends all were surprised that any one so timid as I am could do what I did. I am a devout Catholic therefore I could not swear falsely. When I made my confession to the police I believed they were the last words I would ever utter. I swore to the truth upon my immortal soul and my hopes for salvation. I have no desire to add anything to my statement nor to change it in any way. Well, it might not be the absolute truth to say I worked entirely alone. I worked with God at my side. I would not have had the strength of purpose to do it alone."

Carlos Castro Balda, who is charged with complicity in the bombing of the Chamber of Deputies last May and General Obregon's political headquarters, attacked the Mexican police. He said the men at police headquarters were "just like the Russian Gpu"—Soviet Secret Service.

RICH COUPLE SEEK DIVORCE. New York, Sept. 26.—Ray H. Arnold, millionaire head of the investment firm of R. H. Arnold & Co., with offices in Los Angeles, Washington and New York City, has been sued for divorce by Mrs. Jessie B. Arnold who charges him with infidelity, naming a Mrs. Margaret Crenshaw West.

Arnold, denying his wife's accusation, filed a counter suit, naming Charles Hahn, Jr., an attorney of New York City.

Filing of the suit became known today when Supreme Court Justice Callahan named a referee to inquire into Arnold's income, said by his wife to be $200,000 a year. She estimates her husband's fortune at $3,500,000. The Arnolds were married in Los Angeles in 1903. They have three children, the eldest being 22.

NOTED ARTIST DEAD. New York, Sept. 26.—Richard F. Outcault, creator of "Buster Brown," "Hogan's Alley," "The Yellow Kid," and other noted newspaper comics, is dead.

He died yesterday in his home in Flushing after an illness of two months. Outcault was born in Lancaster, Ohio, 65 years ago.

SMITH SPECIAL SWINGS TOWARD THE NORTHWEST

Today Candidate Is In the Heart of Progressive Territory—Candidate Thinks Montana Is for Him.

Billings, Mont., Sept. 26.—En Route with Gov. Smith to Minneapolis—Gov. Smith swung into the heart of the Progressive northwest today, still hot on the trail of the LaFollette Independent vote of 1924, which is necessary to his candidacy if it is to be successful west of the Mississippi river in November.

During the night, the Smith special left Montana and entered North Dakota, home of the old Non-Partisan League, and a home also of a good part of the insurgency against Republican national administrations for the past two decades. His route today carried him through the center of the state, from east to west, along the line of the Northern Pacific and the wheat country on either side.

The governor left Montana after two days well satisfied. He entered North Dakota with hopes high. "Montana looks all right to me," he told newspapermen as his train sped along. "But ask Senator Wheeler here, he knows more about the state than I do."

Montana Safe Senator Wheeler, vice presidential candidate on the LaFollette ticket four years ago, declared with great positiveness: "Montana is safe for Gov. Smith."

The Montana went further. He said he was convinced Gov. Smith would carry North Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota six weeks hence, and possibly South Dakota.

TWENTY-THREE COPS JAILED IN PHILLY

Are Charged With Bribery, Extortion and Conspiracy By Dist. Attorney.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26.—Twenty-three Philadelphia policemen, arrested and jailed last night on charges of bribery, extortion and conspiracy as the climax of the Grand Jury investigation of the city's "Rum Ring," were to be arraigned today before Judge Edwin O. Lewis. District Attorney John Monaghan said they had confessed that they had participated in a grafting scheme which had yielded thousands of dollars in the Fourth Street and Snyder Avenue precinct.

District Attorney Monaghan declared the extent of grafting by police in that district was "tremendous." He said it was the worst scandal yet uncovered in the investigation of conditions resulting from bootleggers' activities.

The arrested men were lodged in a cell at the City Hall. There were one police captain, seven sergeants, twelve patrolmen and three detectives. Federal agents found their names in a "little black book" confiscated in a raid.

Those Arrested The arrested men are: Captain Charles Cohen, former commander of the South Philadelphia station; Detectives Albert Long, Thomas Collins and Thomas Mason; Sergeants Albert M. Barrin, Frank Kolosky, Charles Gallagher, Joseph J. Archdeacon, William J. Hart, Thomas Whalen and Bernard J. Shade, and Patrolmen Frank Derose, James Raglin, William Mitchell, Joseph Thompson, James Casper, Richard Lawrence, Joseph Miller, John Mastriano, Thomas Meary, Barry Scott, Jacob Berkowitz and James J. Brennan.

These wholesale arrests came on the heels of the surrender of State Representative Matthew Patterson, political leader of the 19th Ward, in the district attorney's office to answer charges of extortion and bribery. He waived a hearing and was held in $15,000 bail.

At the same time, Joel D. Kerper, "society bootlegger," pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition laws. Previously he had denied his guilt. He will be sentenced on Friday.

FLORIDA'S NEEDS

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 26.—Florida's hurricane area needs $12,000,000 to complete the work of restoring 2,831 homes, aiding refugees and finishing the burying of its nearly 2,400 dead. Howard W. Selby, chairman of the local Chapter of the Red Cross declared today in a letter to John Barton, national chairman.

Selby now is on his way to Washington where he will discuss his complete report with Judge Payne. The report paints a picture of extreme desolation in the storm area.

FEAKISH WEATHER IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—Freak weather hovered over Massachusetts today. Snow fell in the Berkshires hills. Water froze in pails in some Berkshire hill towns. Rain fell throughout the night and continued today in the eastern section.

In some of the eastern valleys frost caused damage to truck gardens but failed to touch the fruit orchards.

ANGLO-FRENCH PACT AIMED AGAINST U. S.

Rep. Britten Says It Is First Step Toward the Old Balance of Power in Europe.

Cherbourg, France, Sept. 26.—Representative Frederick A. Britten, chairman of the House committee on naval affairs, who arrived here today, enroute home from England described the Anglo-French naval agreement as the first step toward the old balance of power in Europe "which rocked the world in 1914."

Congressman Britten, who has been making a study of European affairs, made the following statement to International News Service: "Unless their respective consciences are troubling them, I do not see any reason why the French and British statesmen should feel chagrined over the publicity given to the Anglo-French agreement. There is no reason why they should feel bothered over the leak which started the disclosure. The agreement not only tends toward co-operation in the land and sea forces of France and England but also points towards the inference that the combination will attempt to submerge the world influence of the United States—at least insofar as the American navy is concerned."

Deliberate Publicity "I would not be surprised to learn that the publicity was deliberate rather than accidental. Surely French statesmen must realize that lending themselves to any British scheme to put America in the whole must ultimately rebound to the detriment of French credit abroad."

"Any French promise to vote with England against the best wishes of the United States is incomprehensible to me. But, with France owing us $4,000,000,000 she might be expected to combine against the United States. The disclosures which I am convinced are sure to come will reveal plans for British protection of France conditional upon American acceptance of the Anglo-French pact limiting the construction of 10,000 ton cruisers."

"Just how far that protection goes is problematical. British statesmen appear to have greater fear of limited American cruisers than unlimited French submarines. This is quite a back-sourment for British statesmanship. Perhaps the friendship of France is more important to Great Britain than the present whole-hearted co-operation and friendship of the United States."

"The whole matter resembles a return to old-fashioned statesmanship, which made Europe a bloody volcano and will surely return to that condition if the chaos continues."

NOT GUILTY PLEA BY MEXICAN NUN

Says She Was Not Connected With Plot to Assassinate President.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Medical research workers may well study the fundamentals of the success of Henry Ford and strive for standardization of medicine to take the guess work out of healing. Dr. Preston Reed Hubbell, Detroit, declared here today in an address before physicians from all parts of the country at the fifth annual convention of the American Electro-Research Association.

"Mr. Ford is probably the greatest exponent of standardization in the industrial world," Dr. Hubbell said, "and while the task of standardizing medicine is quite different from standardizing an automobile, yet the fundamentals are the same in all fields."

Need Harmony "The laws of healing require that all parts of the body must be in harmony. There are various modalities of treatment which will produce this harmony. The first step is to know the law, then use the modality which will produce the harmony. Heretofore all schools of medicine have been discussing modalities of treatment but not fundamental laws."

Operations Unnecessary Surgery has been standardized. Dr. Hubbell said, but surgery does not cure disease; it merely cuts out the results of disease. Promiscuous surgery was condemned by the speaker, who declared that 75 per cent of the operations performed today are unnecessary and simply wound the body.

A man is as old as his glands and just as storage battery may be recharged and maintained at a high point of efficiency and long life, so can the gland and body of man be charged with vigor. Dr. A. J. Molyneux of Jersey City, N. J., told the convention.

CALL HARTFORD GIRL AS MURDER WITNESS

Sweetheart of Hoppe, Notorious Jail Breaker, Is to Testify at Trial.

Dedham, Mass., Sept. 26.—Miss Helen E. Bradshaw, Hartford, Conn., sweetheart of Stephen J. Hoppe, on trial charged with the slaying of Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis at Quiney, was summoned to Dedham today to testify.

The girl, who was called by both sides, was to be questioned as to what she knows about the movements of Hoppe on the night the patrolman was shot by a burglar. The state alleges that three days after the slaying, Hoppe sent for the girl and revealed to her the details of the crime.

Hoppe, who has escaped from several New England jails, is constantly guarded in the courtroom. He remained perfectly calm when Assistant District Attorney William P. Kelley stated that the prosecution would show that Hoppe cultivated in New Haven, Conn., were found three German-made bullets similar to one found in Patrolman Hollis' body and bearing the same markings.

LINK ANOTHER VICTIM TO THE APE MAN'S CASE

Wealthy Baker Found Dead on May 23 Near Scene of Other Crimes.

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 26.—While machinery was in motion to enable the extradition of Gordon Stewart Northcott, and his mother, Mrs. Louise Northcott, from Canada where they are being held, investigators of the asserted wholesale butchery at the Wineville murder farm near Riverside, Calif., announced additional discoveries.

On the murder farm, detectives were dragging a stagnant hole in an attempt to find human bodies thought to have been concealed there. Other bits of evidence were unearthed from a rubbish pile.

One angle of the amazing case appeared to have been cleared up when it was announced that a telegram from Philip Scott and his three sons had been received by his brother, Albert Scott, saying the father and boys were alive and well in Richmond, Va. The Scotts were for a time believed to have perished on the murder farm.

NOT TO INTERFERE IN WILLEBRANDT CASE

Hubert Work, national chairman, and his associates however, was to discontinue the handling of the speeches, in which she attacks the prohibition record of Gov. Smith. One of these speeches was given out at the committee's Chicago headquarters and afterwards, an attempt was made to withdraw it. The committee however will not attempt to halt her speaking activities, at least, for the present.

One group of the Hoover managers, meanwhile, believing that her utterances will hurt his candidacy, have demanded that she be silenced. Others, believing that she will solidify the dry vote of both parties behind Hoover's candidacy, want to give her a free rein.

Her Position Two things have deterred the movement to silence Mrs. Willebrandt. First, she has made her own speaking engagements before ministerial associations, and second, she has the unqualified endorsement of Anti-Saloon League leaders in her crusade against Smith. Any move to curb her might alienate the dry league's leaders, who have sponsored her recent appearances in Ohio.

The public attitude of Hoover leaders toward Mrs. Willebrandt was well illustrated by Chairman Work in an interview given at Hoover headquarters, following a conference with the Republican nominee.

"What's the news today?" Work asked, in opening the interview. "How about Mrs. Willebrandt?" one reporter asked. "She's always news. What have you to say about her speeches?"

"I have nothing to say about them or her," replied the chairman. "What is her status?" "She is an official of the Department of Justice," replied Work. "Sometimes she goes out on her own hook and sometimes the Chicago Speakers Bureau sends her out. She's a sort of free lance."

"Does Walter Newton have charge of her speaking dates?" "Yes, when she speaks for the committee."

"Do you approve of her speeches against Smith?" "Do you mean the ones she has made or the ones she is going to make?" "The ones she made," the reporter explained.

"Oh, I haven't read them," Work declared. "So I couldn't answer that question."

"Are her traveling expenses paid by the national committee?" "I don't know. Newton will have to answer that."

"Is it fair to assume that they're paid?" "No, because we have more voluntary speakers than paid speakers."

"Well," said one correspondent, "you will find her speeches interesting reading, when you get around to them."

"That will have to be after the campaign is ended," concluded Work.

Encouraging Reports Hoover meanwhile received encouraging reports from Wisconsin, one of the "wet" strongholds that Smith's supporters have claimed.

Walter J. Kohler, the Republican nominee for governor, told him the state was safe for the Republican ticket, if the organization there performed its duty in getting out the vote.

Threatened Him The prospective bridegroom, however, claimed that Mrs. Clark knew he was married and pleaded with him to leave his wife and children and go to California to start life anew.

Attorney General Sargent clearly indicated that he intends to disregard demands for her resignation. That Mrs. Willebrandt's speeches in the south will be no less belligerent than those in Ohio when she accused Smith of "hiding behind his religion," was indicated.

Paying Own Bills. At the Department of Justice it was stated that Mrs. Willebrandt is not receiving her expenses from the Republican national committee nor is she traveling on government transportation.

During the crisis of suffering in Florida a member of the relief committee requested Mrs. Willebrandt, over long-distance telephone, to order the release of all the smuggled liquor held by the federal courts.

At the Justice Department it was stated that nothing has developed since Mrs. Willebrandt opened up on Gov. Smith in Ohio to indicate that she will not fill the southern engagements.

declares that she is sure that he is innocent of murder.

The appearance of James Murphy was promised today by Mook's attorney.

VICTIM OF GANG Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Catherine Clark, attractive blonde haired Boston divorcee, was lured to her death outside Spokane, Wash., by members of a gang having nationwide ramifications and specializing in ambushing and robbing sentimental women, who seek husbands through matrimonial agencies.

This theory was advanced today by investigators when suspicion arose that a Boston confederate helped in luring the victim to the "hatchet murder" to go across the continent on the promise of winning a $100,000 husband and a European honeymoon.

Mrs. Ruth Remick, a local friend of Mrs. Clark, gave the information that before the latter started west a young man in the south end offered to sell her for $50 a ticket to Seattle. He claimed to have found the ticket on the street.

Mrs. Clark had agreed to go to Spokane with $2,000 which was to be placed with $9,000 of her "mail sweet heart," James R. Murphy, of Spokane. With the $11,000 Murphy was to have released a fortune of $100,000. The couple were then to marry.

"She was man and money mad," said Mrs. Remick. "She worked hard at her rug business and saved her earnings. She was generous. She had saved up $10,000 but the men did not suit her. One was an automobile man of Canada and another was a farmer of Thomaston, Ga. She met them through matrimonial agencies."

Mrs. Clark expected to marry a Boston man last Christmas. She had her wedding trousseau prepared when she learned that he had a wife and two children. Her friends said that this caused her to have nervous breakdown and she subsequently she began subscribing to matrimonial papers published in Los Angeles, St. Louis and Chicago.

The Manchester City club will hold its first fall dinner on Tuesday evening, October 2. A special menu is being prepared by Chef Urbano Osano, and an unusual entertainment program has been planned.

Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon left this afternoon for Bridgeport where he will attend the third semi-annual convention of the New England Association of Chiefs of Police, set for October 2 and 3. He will be 350 police executives present. Every city and town in New England will be represented. It is the first time the meeting of this association has been held in Connecticut.

"In the first place," Darrow said with a picturesque hitch of his famous "gallows," "nobody wants them paroled and I don't think their families do either. This mitimus error has no bearing upon the release of the prisoners. The prison would be a vast miscarriage of justice."

Chief Justice John L. Sullivan of the Criminal Court stated it would be "absurd" to release the "trill" slayers.

ABOUT TOWN

Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Weldon and their daughter Mary, have returned from Crescent Beach where they spent the past six weeks at their cottage.

characterized Clabaugh's declaration as "pure nonsense."

"In the first place," Darrow said with a picturesque hitch of his famous "gallows," "nobody wants them paroled and I don't think their families do either. This mitimus error has no bearing upon the release of the prisoners. The prison would be a vast miscarriage of justice."

Chief Justice John L. Sullivan of the Criminal Court stated it would be "absurd" to release the "trill" slayers.

Clabaugh insisted the two youths were pampered pets at the prison. "It's a farce," he said. "These boys are already building up fine reputations with a view of seeking parole. Somebody is using their influence and it is not their parents."

FIRST DISTRICT TAX PULLS ALL IN LINE

Every School Division to Lay Levy for First Time in Ten Years.

Every school district in Manchester is laying a school tax this year and for the first time in over ten years a tax will be laid in the First or Oakland District. So uncommon is it to have a tax laid in this district that the selection, in making up their budget and figuring out the portion of the state stock tax that will go to the different taxing districts in Manchester, have not included the First District in the list.

The inspection made by Dr. Le Verne Holmes of the different districts results in a recommendation concerning the water supply and the condition of the floors of the First District schoolhouse. The number of pupils that attend this school is not as large as it was when the school was first built, as at one time the First was a joint district of the towns of Manchester and South Windsor, until last month Windsor built its school at Wapping Center.

The closing down of the mill in Oakland resulted in families moving away and this took away children so that only one teacher is now engaged there. The tax to be laid will be used to pay for physical changes already made, as no district can lay a tax until a debt has been created. It can not lay a tax in anticipation of a debt.

This year a tax will be collected in the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth. The Sixth District now pays its taxes with the Ninth District and having paid its special bill to the Ninth District last year will not have a separate tax to pay this year.

BEG HERE FOR CHURCH OF MOHEGAN REMNANT

Canvassers for Thamesville Institution Come a Long Way From Home.

Manchester is being canvassed by members of the Mohegan church at Thamesville, between Norwich and New London, who explain that their church is in particular need of funds and offer cards on which is printed a poem about "Mother Earth," in exchange for slight donations.

The financial need of their church is true enough but the reason for canvassing Manchester, a town nowhere near their home, is instead of Norwich or New London, has not been satisfactorily explained. Secretary George H. Rix of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce has had several reports as to their activities. He says he does not condemn their activities but can see no reason why anyone should feel obligated to donate.

The real Mohegan Indians have practically disappeared and the descendants living on the reservation have very little Indian blood. The church has too small an attendance to keep it on a paying basis, yet its members refuse to attend some other church. Hence this solicitation of funds at a distance.

SMITH CLUB PARTY

Twelve tables were filled with players at the first of the series of card parties by ladies of the Al. Smith club, held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Spillane of Strickland street. Miss Grace Spillane and Mrs. Helen DeHope were in charge. Mrs. Frank Sweeney of Cambridge street won the first prize in bridge and the consolation fell to Mrs. H. DeNeville. The highest score of 100 was made by Miss Nellie Smith of Buckland and the consolation fell to Miss Mary Holloran. Coffee and cake were served at the close of the games. Another whist in the series will be held next week at the home of Mrs. Andrew Healey in Buckland.

BIG FIRE IN HANKOW

London, Sept. 26.—Soldiers and police are searching for the ruins of the 2,000 houses and shops in the native quarter of Hankow for victims of the fire which swept that district yesterday, according to advices from Shanghai this afternoon. The number of deaths is not known, but the dispatches said that some bodies had been recovered. Many hundreds are homeless.

WAPPING

One hundred and eighty attended the service in the Federated Church Sunday evening when the Hartford County Choral Society and orchestra gave a two-hour concert. The orchestra played "Simple Consolation" and "The Dance of the Honey Bees." A trio consisting of Miss Mildred Sage, violinist, Richard Wander, Cellist, and Mrs. W. P. Robertson, pianist, rendered selections. Fred Smith of Unionville sang "A Little While."

The feature of the evening was the "Mass in E Flat" composed and directed by G. C. Munson of Hillside avenue, Hartford. Fifty-five people took part in the choral and orchestra. Ten dollars from the evening offering was sent to the Red Cross for Florida relief work.

The Federated Workers will give a supper in the parish house Friday night for the nominal cost of thirty cents. Following the supper all interested in the local Sunday school are invited to remain for a short program of singing and speaking. Wallace I. Woodin of the State Sunday School Association will give a short inspirational address and follow it in a lighter vein with readings from James Whitcomb Riley. The evening will close with an hour of games. In preparation for these events the dining-hall of the parish house is being painted. The supper will be the first one ever served in the parish house since the local churches federated five years ago. Extensive alterations made last spring make this possible.

Robert P. Valentine has entered his chrysanthemums, celosia, pink asters and French marigolds at the Rockville fair this week. The Evergreen Lodge of Masons, A. F. and A. M. No. 113, held their regular meeting at the temple at East Windsor Hill last Monday evening.

TALCOTTVILLE

Miss Florence A. Moore recently returned from a week's vacation spent in Pigeon Cove, Mass. An interesting meeting of the Missionary Societies of the church was held on Friday evening at the church parlors. The devotional service was led by Miss Emily Rice, president of the Golden Rule club. Mrs. C. O. Britton, president of the society outlined the plans for the coming season.

Moore, chairman of the Foreign Branch spoke of "Projects," Miss Alice Dexter reported the meeting of the executive committee of the Hartford Branch, which was held at Center church house on September 18th. Miss Dexter also spoke interspersing with Miss Clara Labaree who addressed the latter meeting. Miss Alice Doggart gave a report of the commission service for Miss Katherine Mix which she attended at Northfield in July. Mrs. Bacheier spoke of the devastation in Porto Rico and the appeal for funds by the American Missionary Association. A social hour followed. Ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. William Custer has returned home from the Manchester Memorial hospital. The Talcott Brothers Company and the public school in this village were closed today (Wednesday) on account of the Rockville Fair. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Blankenbush and Charles MacCallum spent Sunday in Worcester, Mass. Miss Margaret Welles of Avery street, has accepted a position with the Phoenix Mutual Insurance Company of Hartford.

RUN BIDS WILL SHIFT LOCAL TROLLEY MEN

Waltz and Slayden Only Ones Who Won't Be Taken Away From Town.

Bids that are now being made for runs on the lines of the Connecticut Company, which will be completed tonight, will take all but two of the Manchester men who have been running on South Manchester, Cross Town or Manchester Green lines away from Manchester. Some of them to run in Hartford, others taking bus runs to New Britain and some go on the Rockville and East Windsor Hill lines. Frank Nichols, who for years has run the express car, comes back to the Crosstown line, as the trolley express is to be discontinued at the end of this week.

Under the changes resulting from the bids Harry Slayden, who has been running the Crosstown line days, takes the relief run on the Crosstown and the Manchester Green lines, replacing Fred Dart who goes to Hartford and will have a one-man car run on Sisson avenue. Gus Waltz, who for years ran the Crosstown line, will continue on the Manchester Green line.

James Adamson is to operate a one-man car on the Ashley street line and George Tedford a one-man car on the Zion street line, Hartford. Leonard Lieberg, who has a night run on the South Manchester line, goes to a bus job on the New Britain line as does Charles Howard, another night man. Al Gilman and Dan Sweeney run together. They take out the first car from Manchester in the morning and run to Rockville and East Windsor Hill. Manchester spare list men have now dropped to thirty points below their standing while in Manchester.

MIXUP IN BAGGAGE New York, Sept. 26.—A radio-gram went today to Miss Polly Lauder, fiancee of Gene Tunney, at sea on the liner Saturnia bound for Europe and her maid claiming the reputed heavyweight champion.

The radiogram said: "Please return Tuxedo and package of man's laundry." It appears that the doorman at the Hotel Drake made a slight mistake when he was forwarding packages of Miss Lauder's trousseau to the boat before she sailed last Friday. In some manner two packages containing a Tuxedo and laundry belonging to another guest at the hotel were included with Miss Lauder's trousseau.

CITIZENSHIP, VOTE MIXED BY WOMEN

Even Political Canvassers Here Make Mistakes on Eligibility Questions.

The difference between becoming a citizen of the United States and being made a voter is causing confusion among the workers who are making a canvass of women in Manchester with a view to having them made voters. The two are entirely separate functions.

A woman, though she be an American born citizen, loses her citizenship when she marries a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and a woman who was not a citizen of the United States, who married a citizen of the United States previous to September 22, 1922, was allowed to be made a voter and can be made a voter today.

The fact that a woman married a man who was not made a voter until October, 1922, does not, in all cases, prevent her from being a voter, or being made a voter, if they were married before September 22, 1922.

Must Be Citizen
Before a person can be made a voter, if not a native born American, he must take out his full citizenship papers. These papers may be granted to him during the late fall, early spring or during the special sessions. In such cases the person could not be made a voter in an election of state or national officers, in towns the size of Manchester, until October, but if he had his naturalization papers before September 22, 1922, the wife of such a person can be made a voter.

In instances where an alien enlisted in the United States service during the World War, he could have claimed exemption on the grounds that he was an alien, but have waived this right. Uncle Sam says fit reward him with full citizenship and all persons with honorable discharges were given such papers. They might not have been made voters in 1918 or 1919, but made later on. If they married in 1921, as was the case in the case referred to, the wife of such a man is entitled to be made a voter, although she was assured by a woman canvasser that she was not.

HOMESTEAD PARK MIXUP HAS POLICE GUESSING

Divorced Man Wants Authorities to Find "Wife" Who Has Left His Home.

Although Tony Mesillo is not, according to the records of the state of Connecticut, a married man, he has complained to the police that his "wife" has run away with a male boarder and he wants the police to try and locate her.

Tony was before the Manchester town court early this summer on a charge of non support. He did not live up to his probation and was sent to jail. His wife had ordered him from the house and had started divorce proceedings against him. While he was in jail the divorce was granted and she was also allowed $400 alimony.

Tony finished his trick in jail, came back to Manchester and went to his old home to live with his wife and children. There was a man boarder there, but Tony lived there too, and according to the story he told the police, Tony furnished money for the support of his "wife."

Yesterday, he says, she left town with the boarder and he expected that she would be back last night, but she did not and now he feels sure that she has left him for good. As he paid the $400, has since been living at home and helping in her support he feels that she is still his wife so he wants to get her back.

Mrs. Florence Brooks, regent of the local branch of the Women of Mooseheart Legion, opened her home on Orchard street, last evening for the regular meeting, which took the form of a "shower" for Miss Lillian Grabowski of Division street who on October 10 is to become the bride of Captain John Pentland. The members presented her with towels, Turkish, hand-embroidered, crocheted, and with colored borders, all useful and acceptable gifts. After Miss Grabowski had opened all the packages and read the cards and admired the towels, a social time was enjoyed with refreshments.

Modern and old-fashioned dances will start again this season at the Manchester Green school Saturday evening, Sept. 29. Wehr's orchestra will furnish the music and Dan Miller will act as prompter. This Saturday night affair each week is one of the big events of the week at the Green.

It was announced this morning by Principal A. N. Potter. Mr. Potter will be in Superintendent F. A. Verplanck's office in the High School building from 7 until 9 o'clock both tonight and tomorrow for this purpose. Opportunity to enroll will also be allowed on next Monday evening, which is the first session of the Evening School 1928-29 schedule.

Announcement is made of the marriage on September 18, at St. James' Church by Rev. William P. Reidy, pastor, of Miss Mary Johnson of East Windsor Hill and J. Edward Kilduff of West Hartford.

MANCHESTER GREEN MILL TO RESUME

Glastenbury Knitting Company Now Equipped to Make All Types of Underclothing.

The Manchester Green mill of the Glastenbury Knitting Co., which was run on short time for several months and which has been closed down entirely for the past six weeks, will resume full operation with fifty employees on Monday. On Friday the carding department will start operation to get stock ahead for the roving and spinners so there will be no delay in getting the other departments in operation in full on Monday. The company has changed its policy materials to be manufactured for instead of making only the heavy grades of underclothing which gave the company a national reputation, they are now changing their product to meet the demands of the present fashions and will make a lighter grade of underclothing and of different materials. To do this it was necessary to change most of the machinery, and this has now been done. Elmer Robinson, who is acting president of the Glastenbury Knitting Company since the death of Walter Coburn, is also the general manager of the company. In resuming operations of the mill in Manchester and the one in Addison which has also been shut down, the company is doing so with a good supply of orders in advance and also has prospects for a further development and continuation of the old and new lines.

In buying an oil burner—like building a home—every detail is important. Owners of Super Oil Heaters enthuse about their compact construction. No parts extend into the cellar to take up room. Children and unauthorized persons cannot tamper with vital parts. Yet every part is easily accessible to a trained service man, should it ever be necessary. Owners of Super Oil Heaters have turned their cellars into dens and billiard rooms. Coal bins, ashes, and dust have been banished forever. The quiet, compact Super Oil Heater has added another room to the house.

Just what is heating comfort? To really have a comfortably heated home the heat itself must be kept at a certain comfortable temperature all the time. Secondly you must have absolute freedom from labor and anxiety in connection with the heating system. Neither of these requirements can be obtained with coal, yet both of them can be obtained to perfection with the SUPER OIL HEATER. Fuel oil is about 2c a gallon cheaper than furnace oil. The SUPER OIL HEATER burns fuel oil efficiently, due to the arrangement of its burner, which produces a more intense heat than any other type of burner, thus making the most economical HEATER in existence.

Meets Chinese Star at Velodrome in Six Round Feature.

Brownie Tucker, fresh from two more knockout victories — these latest scored at Holyoke and Waterbury—battles Hap Woo, Chinese bantamweight, at the Hartford Velodrome, Thursday night.

The Tucker-Hap-Woo bout is one of three feature scraps of six rounds each, which will headline the popular-priced, new-talent show at the Velodrome and which, it is expected, will be the last of the open-air boxing shows in Greater Hartford this summer.

Tucker, practically unknown at the outset of the summer season, has been the sensation of summer boxing in these parts. He has yet to suffer a defeat and has run up an imposing array of knockouts. In his last Velodrome appearance, he tipped over Del Poullet of New Britain, who recently had knocked out Roland Roche of Holyoke.

The past two weeks Tucker took a vacation from his "duties" at the Velodrome and skipped up to Holyoke and over to Waterbury to claim two more kazo victims.

In another of the six-round features, Joe Zoter of New Britain meets Marino Pagoni of Springfield. Zoter came into the limelight several weeks ago, when going into a bout as a substitute, he handily defeated Pancho Villa. Pagoni has fought Villa at least half a dozen times and lost but once to the aggressive Hartford lightweight.

Eddie Elie of Springfield meets Lucien Lariviere of Waterbury in the other six-rounder. Elie recently knocked out Ray Sanborn and won a decision over Vic Carlson of Terryville.

There will be six other four-round bouts on the under card, bringing into action several former stars of the amateur ranks.

The first bout is set for 8:15 and ladies, if accompanied by escorts, will be admitted to the reserved seat section free.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They were the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

J. C. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 83

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. It is mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and crain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or this coupon brings a bottle for free trial:

ASSESSORS' PAY

The Herald finds it impossible to enthuse over the demand of the assessors of the Town of Manchester for an increase of salary to double the present amount and, in addition, the employment of a permanent clerk.

Before these gentlemen go before the town meeting with such a request we advise them to be prepared to tell inquirers among the voters, not how many months in the year they are employed in the business of evaluating taxable property, but how many hours of actual work they put in. Because they will quite surely be quizzed on that subject, and possibly asked by some hard driven taxpayer, into the bargain, whether their conception of work is work or just sitting around an office with plenty of steam heat and no "No Smoking" sign in evidence.

There is a prevailing impression that the job of an assessor in Manchester, with the clerical work all attended to, is considerably less exhausting than standing eight or nine hours a day at a loom, driving a truck or quite a number of other activities in which Manchester people earn their daily bread.

Perhaps the assessors can convince the voters that they are actually underpaid, on a basis of hours of actual work done. If they can, all right. They will perhaps get the thousand a year each—besides getting a clerk to carry the bulk of their burden. But we have a shrewd suspicion that if the voters do become thus lavish with their own money, it will take considerable hustling on the part of the present members to keep their jobs after their respective terms are up. Because there are quite a number of bright young men, and some not so young, who will, in such event, look at the assessorship as a nice fat plum worth making a fight for politically.

This town hasn't now and isn't likely to have a single dollar to spend without getting something for it. The assessors will have to show something in order to get that increase.

OH YES, WE WILL

Former State Senator Herman H. Kopplemann of Hartford, nominated yesterday by First District Democrats as their candidate for representative in Congress, takes a singular view of the ethics of politics when he says, as he did in an acceptance speech, "No Republican has the right to say I or any other Democrat is opposed to the protective tariff."

Any Republican has that right, and complete moral justification, besides, for refusing flatly to accept the tariff straddle of the Houston convention as good evidence of a reversal of the Democratic party's historic tariff policy in one opportunity day.

What is in Mr. Kopplemann's own mind with reference to the tariff he, of course, knows best. Nevertheless it is perfectly competent for any Republican to question his availability as representative of a highly industrialized congressional district, solely on this same tariff ground if on no other. Because what we have said in the past concerning the helplessness of former Representative Lonergan to resist the tariff activities of a party in Congress dominated by Southern free traders applies with, at least equal force to the candidacy of Mr. Kopplemann.

The Democratic party has been a confirmed opponent of the principles of the protective tariff ever since 1816, when that policy was definitely formulated by Henry Clay. The Democratic personnel in the next Congress will consist very largely at least of individuals who have been bred to opposition to protection and who have made that opposition their political religion all their lives. Does any thinking Connecticut voter believe for an instant that the tariff would be in the hands of its friends if, the Democrats were to obtain a majority in the next Congress? The Houston platform's verbal acceptance of the Republican theory of the tariff was exactly the same kind of a political trick as its declaration on prohibition enforcement. The southern free traders acquiesced in the tariff plank with their tongues in their cheeks precisely as the Tammany wets acquiesced in the dry plank.

For Mr. Kopplemann to declare himself a protectionist—which he didn't quite do, by the way—would be one thing. To convince the people of this district that he would be of the slightest use to them in preserving protection for their industries and their jobs is quite another thing.

Whether Mr. Kopplemann thinks Republicans have or have not a right to question the tariff position of a Democratic candidate or the Democratic party, Republican voters in this district will continue to do so, very seriously indeed.

CRUCIAL

Of great interest in this country is the information that the entire German nation is likely soon to vote on the question of continuing the republic or returning to a monarchical form of government.

American public opinion is at a loss concerning a great many European questions because it is altogether unsure as to what to expect in the future from Germany. Understanding the German character sufficiently well from association here with so many persons of that blood, the people of the United States feel perfectly confident that nothing but peace and good will and reasonableness would ever rule the course of the German nation so long as the people themselves were in control of their government.

The disturbing element is lack of any real knowledge as to the extent to which popular rule actually does exist there and how strong the determination may be to continue that rule.

Such a plebiscite as is now planned may clarify the situation and give Americans, as well as neighboring European nations, some valid basis for a definite attitude toward Germany.

The proposed referendum is to be brought about at the instigation of the Steel Helmet, reactionary, monarchistic war veteran organization to which several of the sons of the former kaiser belong. It is accepted that this body can obtain the needed ten per cent of the electorate as signers of the referendum petition.

If the plebiscite is held and it shows an overwhelming majority of the German people in favor of continuing the republic, it will be safe enough for the rest of the world to proceed on the theory that Germany is eliminated as a militaristic menace to France or anybody else. If, however, the monarchists poll enough of the vote to bring about the restoration of the monarchy or even enough to show that the German people are uncertain and wavering, that will be in itself notice that the only way to prevent a new war of revenge will be to keep the German nation in irons for another generation.

A vote to re-establish Hohenzollernism in Germany would be ample justification for France to mobilize and march—and for her rollies of 1914 to set the drums to rolling again.

INTER-CAMP ROW

"Now," said the Democrats, when they had succeeded in nominating Governor Smith and had appointed the non-political Mr. Raskob as the captain of their campaign, "we do hope this will be a clean campaign. Cut out the personalities and the mud and we shall be content to abide by the result."

The most able and most powerful Democratic journalistic force in the country is the New York World. Yesterday the World found it necessary to say this:

For several days now the Democratic National Committee in Washington has been digging up old bones and displaying them with gusto. These treasures consist of remarks made by various Republican statesmen, either in the ancient past or the recent past, which are highly unflattering to Mr. Hoover. Some of them are not only very old but very cheap and very silly. It is difficult to tell from the manner in which this material is published just when the Democratic Committee is quoting some Republican and when it is adding some brilliant footnote of its own, but in either case there are references here to Mr. Hoover which are both unfair and vulgar. He is described, for example as a "quaking Quaker in the war" and as "the fat candidate from Piccadilly."

For the Democratic National Committee to peddle such stuff is indecent, stupid and contemptible. If this is the best the committee can do, it had better shut up its shop and go home.

If this is the attitude that the World is going to occupy right along we shall expect, about the next time Governor Smith tries to pin the oil scandals onto Herbert Hoover's coat tails, to find that newspaper advising its own Presdential candidate to likewise shut up and go home. Because the "quaking Quaker" stuff and the oil scandal stuff are off the same cheap and dirty piece.

HIS DUE

Once in a while an automobile tragedy is, ruthless as it may seem to say so, almost if not quite satisfactory.

A New York theatrical photographer, driving back to the city from a Long Island suburb at three o'clock in the morning, insisted on keeping his car at a speed of seventy miles an hour despite the remonstrances of his companion, an actress. The car skidded and turned over. The photographer was instantly killed but the young woman escaped without serious injury.

Aside from the shock to the actress' nerves and the possibility of a slight cut on her forehead proving disfiguring, we are inclined to vote in favor of such consequences of such performances.

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Business men and farm leaders appear to comprise the two most important elements among the more important Republicans who have bolted to Al Smith.

In a preceding story which enumerated the most prominent "Hoover Democrats" as listed by Republican national headquarters here, it was shown that the Democratic bolters were led principally by dry crusaders, Methodist bishops and politicians not now holding office.

Following is the list of Smith recruits from Republican ranks as submitted by Democrats:

William H. Woodin, president of the American Car & Foundry Co. August Heckscher, the New York philanthropist.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Herald. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

TUBERCULOSIS

The number of deaths from tuberculosis per thousand population is steadily decreasing each year. In 1912 the number of deaths per 100,000 was 130, and the number has gradually decreased until the latest censuses have shown a reduction to 75.7 per 100,000. This steady decrease in the number of deaths is probably due to improved sanitary measures that are now being employed throughout the world, and to a better understanding by the general public as to good foods.

The anti-tuberculosis societies have been of much value in spreading information about this disease and in teaching people to avoid becoming overly tired. It is likely that the number of deaths from this disease will be still further reduced as the information about how to build and maintain health becomes more popular.

From my personal experience in diagnosing and treating thousands of cases of tuberculosis, I have been forced to believe that the most common causes of tuberculosis are: first, an immovable diaphragm and a small chest cavity; second, becoming over tired, which lowers the resistance and permits the toxins to accumulate within the body; third, wrong eating, which permits the body to become seriously deficient in alkaline elements.

Tuberculosis of the lungs originates with foreign material which accumulates in the lungs of the sufferer. I do not believe that the bacillus of tuberculosis is a primary cause of this trouble, since I have seen many advanced cases where it has been impossible to find any trace of this bacillus.

A quick form of tuberculosis known as galloping consumption usually causes death between the first and third months. Those cases which recover usually settle into chronic tuberculosis.

This disease may lurk in any portion of the body, but is most frequently found in the lungs, usually beginning in the apex or upper lobe. The onset is quite gradual and there usually is a period of months or even years of a noticeable tendency to become easily tired. This condition, accompanied by a persistent cough and large quantities of mucus should arouse suspicion and one should immediately begin a process of strengthening the body.

Night sweats often occur in the earlier stages of the disease and a patient usually is tired in the morning when he rises.

Food which gives plenty of warning, and one who has a tendency to have this trouble should lose no time in attempting to overcome the condition.

In tomorrow's article I will give you the dietetic and hygienic measures which I have found most satisfactory in preventing the serious development of tuberculosis.

Questions and Answers

Question: H. A. asks: "Can you give me a little information about St. John's Bread?"

Answer: St. John's Bread is the common name for the fruit of the alfalfa tree. Although a tree in its natural state, it is a species of legume and is shaped like a bean.

It is very beautiful and is used to some extent as a food. They are very productive in arid climates. The alfalfa tree from Europe is of a different variety and full of crude oil.

Alfalfa trees are now being planted in California and in the United States.

The fruit contains as high as 52 per cent of sugar. With the process of cultivation, it is likely that this fruit will become valuable. It can be made into a very good substitute for maple syrup.

Question: Mrs. K. J. writes: "On three occasions during the past year I have been awakened from sleep with a numbness creeping over me. Have tried to call for help but cannot move my lips, neither could I raise my hand or any part of my body for about a minute. I would appreciate it if you would inform me of the cause, and if there is danger of paralysis. I am thirty years old and weigh 130 pounds."

Answer: The numb attacks you have at night are probably caused from nervousness and would be classed under the name of hysteria. There is no reason for suspecting you are subject to paralysis because of this, but you certainly should have a good diagnosis made and study how to remove the cause of your nervousness.

Question: J. L. asks: "Can a loop in the colon be cured by diet?"

Answer: A loop in the colon can be corrected through proper manipulative treatment, supplemented in some cases by certain electrical treatments. If these treatments are not taken we cannot expect diet to produce a cure, although one with a kinked or looped colon will certainly be in better health on a well-balanced diet than when eating haphazardly.

Dugan And Lindstrom Best Third Sackers

So Says Farrell In Discussing Possible World's Series Players for Herald.

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles by Henry L. Farrell, NEA Service and Evening Herald sports writer, comparing the players of the six clubs who are in the major league pennant races. The third basemen are discussed in this article.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

Three of the very best third basemen in baseball play on teams that have a chance to get into the world series. If the American League is to be represented by the Yankees and the National League colors are to be worn by either the Giants or the Pirates the customers ought to enjoy almost perfect mechanics at a position that is built for the spectacular.

There should be little dispute offered against the statement that young Freddy Lindstrom of the Giants is the greatest third baseman of the season. It is not pertinent to argue here whether he is the greatest of all time and the same holds good for Joe Dugan of the Yankees and Pie Traynor of the Pirates. It is enough to say that they are the best of all right now.

By the application of personal opinion, instead of cold figures, the third basemen of the contending teams might be ranked as follows:

- Dugan, Yankees ..... 2
- Lindstrom, Giants ..... 1
- Traynor, Pirates ..... 2 plus
- Dugan, Yankees ..... 3
- Dykes, Fox or Hale ..... 2
- High or Holm, Cards ..... 3
- Heck, Cubs ..... 3

Lindstrom's brilliant fielding and hard hitting were most important factors in making possible the spirited battle which the New York club offered for the pennant. Lindstrom has proved for several years to become the ranking third baseman of the game but he was handicapped by a physical weakness of his back which seems to have been corrected this year with a great flourish.

The young man can do overthink well and from his performance this year it would seem that Rogers Hornsby was incorrect when he said last year that the boy was a cry-baby and did not want to play when he wasn't hitting.

Pie Traynor, who has been a brilliant performer through the course of a number of seasons, is given a slight preference over old Joe Dugan because of his batting average. Traynor hasn't been up to his usual quality of play this year but he has been good enough to make his boss perfectly satisfied with the manner in which his job was handled.

Dugan is no young kid and he has had legs but he can still play a wov of a game through a short series when there is a lot of dough riding on every ball that whistles down the infield to him.

If we had a club in the world series and were allowed to pick from Dugan, Lindstrom and Traynor for a third basemen, we believe we would gamble on Dugan. He doesn't bat safely as often as Lindstrom or Traynor but he certainly is no sucker at the bat.

And Dugan, never will throw to the wrong base.

Lindstrom and Traynor are also experienced money players, they can throw and they can come up with most anything that Dugan can get but Dugan and Traynor are not as sprightly as young Lindstrom and in a world series a lot of dough goes with the player who can get that extra step to the right or left or in can get that necessary jump in on the grass.

Dugan, particularly, and Traynor also have the advantage over Lindstrom in height and in the ability to get up quickly for a line drive. If there is any one weakness in the mechanics of Lindstrom it seems to be in his inability to straighten up quickly or jump up for a quick bounding ball. The two smashes that went over his head after hitting a pop in another world series are well remembered. It may have been, however, that the structural deformity in his back caused him to be slow in straightening up.

If Lindstrom, Traynor or Dugan are not in the series, the third base play may be just so-so. The Athletics have been using Fox and Dykes in place of Hale and it is no secret that Hale is not at his best in a pinch and the A's have been in a tight place all season.

Fox went brilliantly until he began to tighten up from nervousness and Dykes, capable though he may be at any position, hasn't played third enough to be a finished artist.

High and Holm of the Cardinals are only ordinary workmen and so is Beck of the Cubs.

In the next article the outfield combinations of the contending clubs will be discussed.

MORRISON EXPECTS STRONG OPPOSITION IN THE SOUTHWEST

All Seven Conference Elevens Have Good Chance to Beat Last Year's Champ.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles in which seven nationally known football coaches outline the football situation in their respective sections for NEA Service and The Herald readers. Ray Morrison, author of this article, enjoys national fame because of the powerful teams he has assembled at Southern Methodist University in recent years. Morrison developed one of the greatest quarterbacks of recent years last year in Gerald Mann. He reviews southwestern football in this article with authority.

BY RAY MORRISON

Coach, Southern Methodist University

Not one of the seven members of the Southern Conference will present a weak football team this year. As a result, there will be a close fight for the championship won by Texas A. & M. last year.

Each team plays at least five games with rival conference teams and a number of inter-sectional games are included on the schedules. Among these games we find Texas playing Vanderbilt and the Texas Aggies playing Sewanee, both being annual games, and Southern Methodist journeying to West Point to play Army early in the year.

Texas Aggies and Southern Methodist have dominated southern football in recent years, but it will not be surprising to find Texas, Baylor and Texas Christians around the top this year.

Dana X. Bible, who is a member of the National Football Rules Committee and coach at Texas A. & M., has made an enviable record with his football teams at College Station. His team is the only conference team to defeat S. M. U. in the past five years.

While the Aggies will be without Joe Hunt, their great quarterback last year, as well as their crack linemen, Bible has sufficient experienced material from the reserves and promising freshmen to expect another great team.

The Aggies have such a fine array of players that they will not be missed. Perry and Alexander, who are clever pass catchers and assure a continuance of Bible's open game.

My teams at Southern Methodist usually given credit for having done the most to develop the air game in this section. Last year they were users of the "backward pass" under the leadership of Gerald Mann, probably the greatest passer and quarterback of all time in this section, to great advantage.

Mann will be absent this year, but S. M. U. expects Redman Hume, a great back last fall, to be one of the most dangerous backs of the season.

Texas Should Have Nice Outfit

Thirteen veterans of last year's team return. As Watters is the only end returning, the Mustangs must dig up some more ends. If they do and manage to enjoy reasonable good fortune, they should have another great year.

Texas has 16 lettermen returning and an imposing sophomore squad. They have a great chance to equal their great 1920 record. Clyde Littlefield, who will coach the Longhorns for his second year, seems to have an unbeatable combination.

Texas will have Rufus King, a new 200-pound back, in the line plugging, a great passer and kicker in Baldwin, and two speedy boys in Beular and Boyles for its backfield. The most important men in the line will be Brown and Wray. The ends at Texas will be better taken care of than those of any other school with Rhodes, Rose and Reese on hand.

Local High Opens Grid Schedule On Friday Afternoon

Walsh Thinks Giants Cannot Keep Getting the Breaks All the Time.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Sept. 26.—No matter which way the cat jumps now, and the St. Louis Cardinals should be the last to attempt calling the turn after being forced to go fifteen innings yesterday to protect their one game lead, the post mortem ad-

Who Has "It"? It is at just about this point that the question will come down to a decision on the matter of which club has most of the fatal "it."

NAB AUTO THIEVES Stamford, Conn., Sept. 26.—Two New Britain youths captured here today after a race against two motorcycle policemen which was halted only when police bullets had punctured the tires of the fleeing car.

from under him. Yesterday, he went in there out of turn and pitched fifteen winning innings. He isn't as youthful as of yore but his record is 29 useful innings in the last five days and that kind of thing is Panny Warding the situation, if you want my ballot.

His Reasons for the pennant yesterday simply because it doesn't seem possible that the Cardinals aren't riding full on upon a cropper. They have been drawing every decision finer than a gossamer thread, which indicates two things:

1. The Giants are a game ball club. 2. They are getting the breaks. They will need both against the kind of pitching the Cubs will show them, starting tomorrow, and somehow one can't expect too much to come to a club that has fought its fate the way the Giants have been forced to do since last Thursday.

Two runs back of Alexander in the eighth on Thursday last, they riled the bases on Maranville's error and Hogan hit one off the lot. They pulled out another on Saturday, after being two runs behind in the fifth, and then on Sunday, Walsh threw a perfect strike to the plate on a long sacrifice fly, cutting down what would have been the winning run. That was cold courage and their victory over Luque in the fourteenth was more of it.

You can't even run that kind of stuff a close second, yet there is little reason to suspect that it will go on indefinitely. The club gets a welcome respite today and has some reason to hope that Vance, having forced McWeeny to pitch out of turn yesterday, will overcome his conscientious scruples and try to beat the Cards this afternoon. With all other members of the staff unavailable, fate simply is giving this poor fellow a fast count. It looks now as though he actually may be forced to pitch against a club he thinks he mightn't be able to beat.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 26.—They have tucked Coney Island into bed for another winter. And it takes a cold wind, some 200,000 people, a few million tiny circles of confetti and a few hundred miles of serpentine to solemnize this annual hibernation.

Nothing is, at least to me, more melancholy than Coney on those drear, dripping days of early autumn. The sea laps greedily at the long stretch of abandoned sand.

The surf now makes its voice heard, for in the mad mid-summer scramble it is shouted down by the voices of the crowds. Coney again becomes a symbol of the changing seasons!

SEN. CURTIS INVADES AGRICULTURAL STATE

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 26.—Senator Charles E. Curtis, Republican vice presidential candidate, invaded this agricultural state last night with an appeal to the voters on the merits of the Republican Party in providing adequate farm aid through the means of the tariff protection.

He cited the Fordney-McCumber tariff as being the guardian of the rapidly growing sheep industry. Export and import figures, enough to make his auditors dizzy, were cited on the status of agriculture to show that the traditional tariff policy of the Republican Party was advantageous to the farmer whether it directly applied to his calable products or what he was forced to purchase.

BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SYBIL THORNE, secret bride, discovers she is going to have a child. She confides in MABEL BLAKE, a social worker with whom she took the trip to Havana on which she met her husband. RICHARD EUSTIS, whom she married after a shipboard courtship, proved so despicable a husband that Sybil left him after a two-weeks honeymoon.

Pledging Mabel to secrecy, she returned to Boston, where CRAIG NEWHALL lives. Craig has loved Sybil for years—in fact they were informally engaged—when she sailed away to Cuba—and met Richard Eustis. She has tried to tell Craig of her marriage, but—completely misunderstanding—has begged her not to joke of such things. And, after that particular incident he seems inclined to avoid her.

Sybil hates her husband and has never heard from him since the dreadful day she left him, sleeping drunkenly in their hotel in Havana. She is furiously rebellious about having a child.

But at Christmas time her heart softens, and to her own utter amazement she no longer hates the thought of Richard and Tad, though Mabel urges Sybil to tell her family, and to tell Craig.

"Right after Christmas," she promises. "I can't bear to spoil that day for them. But the very next day I'll tell."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

told them yesterday. Val was simply scandalized. I mean she said she was. You never saw a girl act so in all your life. Of course she was tickled to death—but, my dear, you'd have thought to hear her, the whole thing was a personal affront. And that I'd done it all just to embarrass her. Some day I'll kill that woman—I know I will."

Sybil rolled her gloves into a little ball, and tossed them on Mabel's desk.

"Tad was absolutely wonderful," she continued. "And Mother's down at Bigelow's this morning to see about having announcements printed. First time she's been out of the house for weeks."

"Poor Mums—I guess she felt there wasn't a minute to lose. They seem determined to put on a brave face, and make the best of a tough proposition. But Val's martyr-like air is a joke. You'd think I'd outraged her sense of decency. She gives me a pain, Mab. I do feel sorry for Mums and Tad, though."

Mabel looked relieved. "Well, thank goodness that's over with. I should say your mother had been quite wonderful about it."

"Oh, she cried half the night. To tell the truth, I was afraid they'd think I hadn't been married. But Val seemed to be the only one who entertained any doubts on that score. It wasn't what she said—but the way she LOOKED."

"You've never heard from Rich, Sybil?"

"Not a word."

Mabel was counting on her fingers. "Are you frightened, dear?"

"Oh—sort of. I don't imagine it's going to be much fun, with the whole town talking, and mother acting like a tragedy queen. Val will have a good time, though—that's something, of course. By the way, I saw Hilda Burgess the other day. It seems my sweet sister-in-law had quite an affair in New Haven last month. Gosh, I pity Tad!"

Sybil gazed reflectively at the swirling snow that beat against the windows. "There'll be a smash-up there, Mab," she predicted, "as sure as you're a foot high."

"That evening Sybil met Craig. "I'd rather be cut in little pieces," she told Mabel. "I'm having dinner with him at the Copley. I don't know how I'm going through with it."

She wore a black dress, with pearls in her ears and at her throat. She was deathly pale, though her lips were scarlet, and the dark circles beneath her eyes gave her a tragic loveliness. Like all beautiful women, Sybil was appreciative, in life's darkest moments, of effect.

"I look like Mona Lisa," she thought, and smiled sadly in the mirror.

She took a taxi down, and found Craig waiting in the lobby. In evening clothes he always struck her as being rather magnificent. "Hello, Handsome!"

"Hello, yourself," Sybil called, and he greeted her gaily. "Hello, darling!"

His concern was reassuring. She forced a small smile, conscious of the fitness of the thing—a tremulous little smile.

"I've something awful to tell you, Craig."

"What is it, dear?"

He drew her to one of the broad seats in Peacock Alley.

"No. Let's go in the dining room. I want music and people around and nice, hot smells. It's sort of barren out here."

The head waiter led them to their favorite table, in a corner removed from the orchestra, and lit the candles, and brought pink roses in a silver vase.

Sybil leaned her elbows on the table.

"Craig, I'm going to hurt you awfully."

She cupped her chin in her hands and swallowed resolutely—and began again.

"I—I—Craig, I was married last summer."

He had been searching her pale features with a puzzled, kind concern. Now it seemed to her that his face grew hard and cold, as if it had been frozen, or carved from stone.

Bravely she held his eyes with hers. Her throat was dry, and somewhere in the back of it was a great choking lump. She moistened her lips with the tip of her tongue, and they felt parched and dry like chalk. Her tongue was dry, too. And her mouth filled sickeningly with saliva that flowed from inside her cheeks.

Craig, across the table, never took his eyes from her face. His cheeks were white. The seconds dragged like minutes.

"And now," she said, "I'm—I'm going to have a baby, Craig."

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

"Why are you so late, Buddy?" "I was kept in."

"Again! What for?"

"Spelling! What?"

"And so," said Buddy's mother, to his father that night, "because the child can't spell he has to stay in school six hours a day instead of five and a half. Indeed, today he had to stay in a whole hour. It's a high price to pay for something he can't help."

Behind Buddy's incarceration was, of course, the teacher. But behind the teacher? Let us see if we may not find the real reason. At the end of each month the children are given a test. At the end of each term, another. If a certain percentage of children do not make certain marks the teacher's report book looks very bad. She is required to give a very good explanation of her failure.

We are a great people to spell success with an "r"—namely, results.

No other educational system ever has been found to keep up the standard of efficiency like the one of giving examinations. It seems. They extend all the way from 1B to the primary grade to the B. A. of college, and they extend impartially to all schools all over the land.

But millions of Buddys are paying millions of extra hours after school to this great god of marks, so there must be a hitch somewhere.

Teachers don't like to "keep in" children. Remember, they are keeping themselves in, too. But they must see that the Buddys get their spelling, or their arithmetic, or geography, somehow, somehow, somehow.

But a school scheduled to dismiss at four should dismiss at four. Children need to get out into the open air and so do teachers.

Parents may say, "We can't help Buddy. If the teacher can't teach him, why should we?" And I am afraid some of them go so far as to say, "It's what she is paid for."

Well, it is only a suggestion, but they might better just enough to save Buddy, and the teacher, too, that extra half hour.

TEACHERS NEED PARENTS' AID IN CAMPAIGN FOR SAFETY

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
 Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

A decline in the number of injuries and deaths of children of elementary school age, from six to 14 years, has gradually taken place in all cities with the introduction of complete plans of safety instruction.

Hardly an accident occurs to the child that is not preventable with proper caution.

The crossing of streets at other places than suitable crossings, the playing of games in the roadway, running of the sidewalk into the street, stealing rides on automobiles and wagons, roller skating, coasting and bicycle riding carelessly, jumping on or off street cars in motion, climbing trees, poles and fences are some of the main sources of accidents to school children.

In New York, from March 1 to Dec. 31, 1923, 750 children were killed and 20,784 injured from these causes.

It is obviously of the greatest importance for parents to work with their children in accidents prevention. When a man 100 years of age was asked for an explanation as to his long life, he pointed out that during the first 75 years there were no automobiles and that during the last 25 years, because of his age, he had been compelled to stay indoors.

When the parents of the present generation were growing up there were few such dangers as exist today. Street cars traveled more slowly and there were no automobiles, airplanes had not been heard of, and the bicycle was ridden slowly by gentlemen and ladies attired in sufficient clothing to make fast riding impossible.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Tad carved a monstrous turkey and pulled on the wishbone with Sybil. They had their gifts before dinner on their chairs in the dining room, and ate among tissue wrappings and red ribbons, with scattered all about the floor, and unseled cord steaming everywhere.

There were wreaths in the windows, and bay candles on the mantel. And after the dinner was a steaming plum pudding with rum blazing merrily. Sybil had tried very hard to make things festive.

But Mrs. Thorne wept salt tears into her punch, and Valeria sulked because the little locket watch Tad had given her was exactly like Lili Billings'.

"You know perfectly well," she wailed, "that I wanted one of those French enameled things. Goodness, I've talked enough about it! It's just that you don't even bother trying to please me any more. Lili will think I'm copying hers, and that would be bad enough if I liked the darn thing! But I simply despise platinum and diamonds!"

Tad looked darkly at the neckties that were his gift from his wife, and exchanged glances with Sybil. She could have cried when she saw the piteous little droop to his mouth. She calculated the worth of Valeria's despised trinket and felt that murder was a thoroughly justifiable procedure.

Sybil had given her brother a lounging robe of broadened satin, and he had chosen his gift to her—a crimson negligee of chiffon velvet, faced with palest pink. Mrs. Thorne had the usual assortment of scarves and gloves and books, with a gold locket from Tad, and a woolly afghan the color of young violets from Sybil.

Valerie had given her a bottle of exotic French perfume that hinted of languorous trysts and dusky secrets. Mrs. Thorne would continue to use her own brand all the days of her life, but the other would not be wasted. After a decent interval she would beg Val, a bit apologetically, to use it herself.

After dinner there were roses delivered from Craig, and Eustis, and Lili, blooming at Christmas time, and great boxes of bon-bons and sugared fruits.

After Sybil had arranged the flowers, they drove to the cemetery with laurel wreaths and red roses and a small fir tree. Valerie went out to a Christmas tea, and Tad, donning the broadened robe, tuned in on all the psalm singing universe.

When Valerie came in, Sybil was wearing the negligee Tad had given her. She thought he had worn his dressing gown to please her, and so she had shaken out the crimson folds of her flaming tea gown, and, standing in front of the mirror, had wrapped it softly about her. She was going to the library, where he sat in front of the radio, to show him, when she encountered Valerie in the hall.

"My goodness, Sybil!" Val stopped her with outstretched arm. "That's a vamped looking outfit—but, heavens, Sib, you're getting fat! And that red makes you look awfully pale. You don't look a bit well—does she say?"

Tad looked up from his dials. "You're a knockout, Sis," he cried, and surveyed his gift judiciously. "That thing just suits you. Val looks like a hag in a wrapper. She's too darn skinny. A man likes a girl with a few curves." Nonchalantly he bent to his dials. "Just got Havana on here. Come on in—I like to look at you."

"You t w o!" scoffed Valerie. "Dressed up like a couple of Christmas trees!"

"Well, Sib, Tad may like 'em curve, but if I were you, dear, I'd start dieting."

She hung down the hall to Mrs. Thorne's room, and Sybil wondered miserably if it were possible that she could have guessed. Tad drew a chair for her in front of the fireplace, and she sat there, with her elbows on her knees, gazing wretchedly into the flames, and pale like a solid thing wedged up within and filling her body with a full, stifling ache.

And so the Christmas holidays passed. And New Year's came.

On the second of January, Sybil went again to Wester House. Mabel kissed her solicitously, and Sybil saw the worried question in her eyes.

"Oh, it's all right, Mab," she said, and began to pull off her eyes to hide her confusion.

The WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Married women no longer will be employed by the Long Island Railroad if a proposed rule which will mean the dismissal after December 31st of all married women, is adopted. The fact that only ten married women employ as clerks in the Long Island freight office would be affected, does not lessen the significance of this move.

This shall-married-women-be-employed-outside-the-home controversy has long been a thorn in the side of women outside the home, and has been more tenaciously than any other social question. The same old arguments pro and con are heard.

If a man can't get a job he blames married women who, enabled to take a smaller salary than a man who is sole support of his home, naturally get the job first. If that man can't get a job, his wife jumps into the fray with all her back hair on end and huris insults at women outside the home. The fact that she herself has the same privilege of going forth and battling for her daily hire does not seem to bother her, even if she lives in a modern apartment, has one or no children, and complains about being bored.

The disgruntlers are convinced that the working wife does nothing with her money but buy such fo-fol-de-ros as silk stockings, cold cream, jasmine bath salts, lobster salad, matinee tickets and taxi bills. As a matter of fact, in the case of the Long Island railroad controversy, it seems to be the male clerks who are most disgruntled and for aforesaid reason.

Russell Shultz, general chairman of the Committee of the Clerks' Association, voices their grievance thus:

"Most of the married women working for this company as clerks are being supported by their husbands and use the money they themselves earn to buy automobiles and clothes. We do not think it is fair for married men to be discharged because they work for the sake of providing themselves with luxuries."

It would be interesting to know how Mr. Shultz manages to support his automobile and how he meets all the other economic demands of modern living without his wife's help and on a clerk's salary. It is exactly because most families have not been able to manage that wives are working.

E. A. Ross of the sociological department of the University of Wisconsin, in discussing the employed wife question, reminds us that federal statistics show that the working wife is always a phenomenon of "hard times," meaning that she works from necessity and not from choice, for baby shoes and stew pans and flannel underwear and coal and hamburger, not for permanent waves and freesia toilet water and incense burners and peach crepe de chine teds.

To be sure, Ross and federal statistics and one Allene Sumner are talking of majorities. To be sure, we do know there are thousands of married women working for luxuries and not necessities. But when the great middle class standard living of today makes luxuries necessities, and since our peace of mind is in proportion to our conformity to standards and our similarity to other people, it is hard to say just what a luxury is.

The very fact that the working wife problem exists is in itself proof that the home can no longer absorb woman power and that women are needed outside the home.

A few toes will be stepped upon in the transition period, but all the gable-isms because people will not accept the new demands of a new day, but insist that we continue deporting ourselves in this matter of who is bread winner and who is bread mixer as we did in a by-gone day.

It is interesting to note that single women have raised no voice in the Long Island railroad fight. Misses pyorrhoea, often referred to as affecting four out of every five people.

Dr. George Faustmann in the English Journal of the Medical Association of South Africa points out that this disease which is causing many people to lose their teeth at the present time, may be simply the thing that happens when any part of the body is unused, according to Lamarch's theory.

"If we can convince Nature by the character of our diet that we do require our teeth, then pyorrhoea, the degeneration of the binding tissues, may become a thing of the past," says Dr. Faustmann.

"The conscious effort that should be made to exercise our jaws and teeth by chewing and eating hard substances such as whole grain cereals, hard fruits such as apples, nuts, and raw vegetables, has been one of the principles of sound teeth preservation which medical men and food experts have been bringing before the public for several years," says Mrs. Eleanor Smith Clay of Cincinnati, Ohio.

It is interesting to note that these same foods which are advised for the maintenance of good teeth, are also the foods that are rich in minerals which help in strong teeth building. The only notable food which makes an exception to this is whole milk, which is the most important source of calcium for tooth building and still cannot claim any need for tooth or jaw exercise when it is eaten. The best nutrition authorities do urge us to "chew our milk"—that is swallow it slowly to aid in its digestion.

TAKING OUT A NO TRUMP

It is worth one trick more to play the hand in a suit than in a no-trump. When you hold a two-suit (that is, two suits each of five or more cards) it is usually more advisable to play the hand in a suit. It is worth about three tricks more to play the hand in one of the suits when holding a two-suit than in a no-trump.

Bearing this in mind, when you hold two five-card suits, take out partner's untested no-trump in a suit if:

- 1—Both suits are majors;
- 2—One suit is a major and the other is a minor with some top strength;
- 3—Both suits are minors with both suits containing some top strength.

Bear in mind that in the last analysis the probability of making game and not the chance possibility should be the determining factor in the take-out. If you take out on nothing it may lead to nothing. Your take-out must not be based on whims. If the desire to "show" be present, it must be restrained. The urge to play the hand should not encourage you to make a declaration.

The foregoing is but a guide in taking out a no-trump. It may be epitomized by saying that your take-out should convey clear and definite information as to the major take-out should denote strength and a minor take-out general weakness. If your take-out is as changeable as the weather your partner will have to be a mind reader to get intelligently.

A difference of opinion may arise as to the advisability of shading slightly some of the requirements above set forth, but this can only be answered by good judgment developed by experience and not by opinion.

SMITH SPECIAL SWINGS TOWARD THE NORTHWEST

primarily upon three factors. They are:

1. The great race that La Follette ran in the state four years ago. He came within 5,000 votes of carrying the state against Coolidge, notwithstanding the Republican sweep of that year. The La Follette ticket polled $9,922 votes, as against 94,931 for Coolidge, and 13,858 for Davis.

Supports Smith
2. Gov. Walter Maddox, elected as lieutenant-governor two years ago on a Republican-No-Partisan League fusion ticket, is now standing for re-election as Democrat and is heartily supporting Gov. Smith. Maddox succeeded to the governorship recently upon the death of Gov. A. C. Soelle.

3. The dissatisfaction of the wheat farmers of the state over the present market price for their principal commodity.

Against these favorable factors, however, the Smith managers have to contend with the influence of both North Dakota Senators, Frazer and Nye. Although they are both Republican insurgents at Washington and both were lieutenants of La Follette, they have announced their support of Hoover. Gov. Maddox is due to board the Smith Special at Bismarck, the state capital, this afternoon and travel with Gov. Smith as far as Fargo, the last North Dakota stop before the Smith Special crosses into Minnesota. Other North Dakotans who will board the train are J. N. Kelly, Democratic national committeeman; Miss Nellie Daugherty, national committeewoman; State Chairman H. H. Berry, R. B. Murphy of Bismarck, and Dunbar Cole of Fargo.

Tomorrow night in St. Paul, Gov. Smith will deliver the fifth major speech of his western tour, and while no announcement has been made of the subject, it is understood that like most of the other western speeches it will be so framed as to attract the independent progressive vote of this section.

It is believed, however, that the Democratic nominee will speak on transportation and inland waterways at the twin cities. The twin cities stand at the head waters of the Mississippi, and they as well as the great farming country that surrounds them are vitally interested in cheaper transportation.

Gov. Smith is convinced as a result of a week's journeying through the grain country that there is a real agricultural problem. He made this clear in a press conference late last night as his train rolled along. A Chicago reporter queried him as to whether he had actually seen "any evidence of distress among the farmers."

"What do you mean—evidence," Gov. Smith shot back. "Physical evidence?"

"Yes, lack of painted houses, run-down conditions of farms, fences and so forth."

Saw Few Farms
"I haven't seen many farms. They are too far away from the railroad track to tell whether they were painted, run-down or not. I haven't been looking out of car windows as we go along, anyway. I've been working."

After considerable argument, Gov. Smith finally observed with some asperity:

"If there is any doubt about there being a farm problem, why do both parties admit it. You don't have to go looking for it."

A group of Minnesotans also were scheduled to board the Smith Special as it rolled through North Dakota today, and to accompany the candidate into the twin cities. Among them were Joseph Wolf, national committeeman; Andrew Nelson, Democratic candidate for governor, and Mrs. S. V. Hodges, national committeewoman. North Dakota stops scheduled for today included Mandan, Bismarck, Jamestown, Valley City and Fargo.

P. U. C. TO DECIDE ON AMOUNT OF GAS

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 26.—The Public Utilities Commission has been asked to decide what is a reasonable amount of gas for a household to use in order to eliminate a service charge by a gas light company. Harry S. Rosenthal, of New Haven, has asked the question and the commission will hold a hearing here on October 11 to consider the question. The New Haven Gaslight Company is involved.

Antonio De Leon wants to transfer his Bridgeport-Easton bus certificate to Des Moines, and the commission will hear his application on October 11. On the same day it will hear the New England Transportation Company's plea for the right to discontinue "train service" between Phelps Corner and Rockville.

The Connecticut Company would operate school busses in Waterbury.

West Hartford and Hartford, under "G" instead of "O" licenses, and would run a bus route along Farmington avenue, Broad street, Main street, and West Main street, New Britain. Both requests will be heard on October 4.

New Britain's mayor asks permission to construct a commercial side track at the rear of 1,000 West Main street, and the commission will learn the details on October 4, also.

The Highway Commissioner is asking permission to eliminate a grade crossing north of the Thomaston railroad station and will appear before the Public Utilities Commission on October 11th.

FLATS STATION THIEVES GO ON TRIAL TOMORROW

The three men who were captured by the Rockville police last week who admitted breaking and entering the Flats Filling station on Oakland street on September 12 and who attempted to rob the House Filling station in Buckland, will go on trial in Hartford police court tomorrow morning.

The boys, when arrested, admitted they had no trouble in disposing of the stolen goods to a pool room owner in Hartford. The Hartford police last week secured a warrant for the pool room keeper. He was arrested Monday night in Hartford, brought before the Hartford police court on Tuesday and his case was continued until tomorrow morning, when he will also be given a hearing.

The fact that automobiles have been traced to the gang as being stolen in different places in the county and their admitting stealing four cars in Hartford alone, will result in their being bound over to the Superior Court.

SLAIN GIRL BURIED

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 26.—Helen Szalay, murdered by her fiance on Sunday in her own home, was buried today from St. Stephen's church where over two hundred friends attended funeral services. As the girl's body was being taken from the church Miss Elizabeth Araceta, 18, an honorary pall-bearer, collapsed because of grief, and was taken home for treatment.

TRYING TO SETTLE NEW BEDFORD STRIKE

New Bedford, Mass., Sept. 26.—Efforts were being made today to settle the strike of 27,000 textile operatives.

The advisory committee of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association agreed to a five per cent wage reduction instead of the ten per cent reduction, which caused the walk-out.

The proposal was rejected by the executive committee of the textile council.

The State Board of Conciliation and arbitration and the New Bedford Citizens' Mediation Committee refused to accept the decision as final. At the suggestion of the two groups of mediators the compromise proposal today went before the full membership of the Textile Council for action.

The strike was in its 163rd day today. Fifty-five mill units have been closed. Loss in wages to date was estimated at $45,000,300.

Samuel Ross, a member of the state board, declared that the specialization system, which has previously been used as the basis for negotiations, did not enter into the new discussion.

SUSPECT'S WIFE HELD IN KIDNAPING CASE

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Angelo Pettiti, wife of the man now under indictment and heavy ball for the kidnaping for ransom of 10-year-old Billy Ranieri, was arrested here today when it was recalled that when Pettiti was first taken into custody, the woman had offered to disclose the whereabouts of the "kidnapers' farm" where little Billy had been held 13 days if police would allow her husband to go free.

In the meantime, Billy and his father, with police, were scouring the countryside in an airplane hoping the boy might recognize the farm.

Pettiti and Pasquale Potosti are lodged in the county jail awaiting trial for the kidnaping while police are endeavoring to round up other members of the Mafia band of extortionists.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

They giggled when I sat down to the piano, but when I began to play the lessons I learned from the Sure-fire Correspondence School, they laughed right out loud.

You've Seen Nothing to Compare with the NEW 1929 CENTURY HUPMOBILES

With a majority of 1929 models revealed, Hupmobile relinquishes not one iota of the style and value leadership it has held among fine cars since the first Century models were announced last fall. Brilliantly refined in tailored metal appearance and luxury of appointments, the new 1929 Century Six and Eight now more than ever present the century's greatest advance in mechanical excellence, body design and beauty. By direct comparison and your own sense of values, you will select a new Century Six or Eight as the most modern development of twentieth century transportation. Forty-two body and equipment combinations, standard and custom on each line. Six of the Century, $1345 to $1645. Century Eight, $1825 to $2125. All prices f. o. b. Detroit.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (401) Our Presidents

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

At the expiration of Johnson's term, Ulysses S. Grant, the man who had led the northern armies during the war, was elected president. Grant was a Republican and the year the war broke out was working as a clerk in his father's leather store in Galena, Ill. He had attended West Point, however, and seen army service and rose rapidly to the rank of commanding officer.

40 KILLED BY BLAST

Madrid, Sept. 26.—Forty persons were killed and two hundred injured by the explosion of a powder magazine in a Spanish military reservation at Mellilla, Morocco, today.

President Grant soon found that Congress was not so easily disciplined as a body of eager recruits. Bitter fights resulted.

There came a period of hard times. Many banks failed. The government ceased coining silver dollars. The Indians began to give trouble.

By Frank Beck

During the two terms Grant held office the first railroads running across the country were completed. The Philadelphia Exposition, commemorating 100 years since the signing of the Declaration of Independence, was a great success. Grant often was tricked by men he called friends, but he remained loyal to them in bitter Congressional battles. (To Be Continued)

OH—IF IT WERE ONLY FROM VIOLA—HOW SWEET!

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

Two colored gentlemen were talking about automobiles owned by their respective employees. "And then he brought dis new coop."

The porters are not on strike. The information is printed for the benefit of unimportant looking travelers who might have failed to notice the difference.

And on the other hand, there is the story of the dusky lady who asked the drug store clerk for a penny's worth of insect powder.

"Boss, does Yo' want any spadin' done dis mawning?" "I haven't anything to spade, Uncle. I live in a flat."

HIGH, DRY AND LONESOME A darky was making an appeal to a gentleman for a donation. The gentleman, knowing him somewhat, said: "Why, Sam, you don't mean to tell me you've taken up begging?"

FITTING RETORT The following reply was received by a bank that had notified a depositor that his account was overdrawn.

"Do you think that's a nice thing to spring on a fellow when he is a little bit out of luck anyway?"

He (at a party)—I made an awful mistake just now. I told a man I thought the host was a stingy old blighter, and it happened to be the host I spoke to.

"So you want to marry my daughter?" "Yes."

Cupid runs a two-ring circus; engagement and wedding.

LETTER GOLF

Every golf hole has its FLAG POLE, so why not have one in this letter golf? Par is six and one solution is on another page.

Grid for letter golf puzzle with words FLAG and POLE.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus changes, COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

"Now there's a dandy dinner pall, madam—" "But it is round! My husband wants something that will hold a square meal!"

They named him Bill because it cost so much to bring him into the world.

The Tinymites looked on with awe at all the cats and dogs they saw. "Well, say, if they are bound for school, let's follow them," said one. "It's likely not a distant hike. I wonder what their school is like. It would be real fun."

Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

GETTING THE HABIT

Pinehurst's fish business has been gaining at a rate which convinces us that the people of this community are steadily becoming fish eaters to a greater and still greater extent. We know we are selling seafood regularly to a good many folks who, two or three years ago, scarcely ever thought of it—unless perhaps on a holiday outing a "shore dinner" became one of the features.

Two reasons contribute, probably. One is the growing realization everywhere that a varied diet is best and that the fish element is a natural and essential one in such a diet. Another reason is the superior condition in which fish now arrives in Manchester and its perfect keeping through perfect refrigeration.

Tomorrow and Friday we will have the usual weekly big line of fresh fish—and "fresh" nowadays means fresh. Almost every variety of sea fish is at its very best in the fall. The fish is firm and hard, the flavor at its perfection.

Fish orders can be filled absolutely as well if phoned as if given in person.

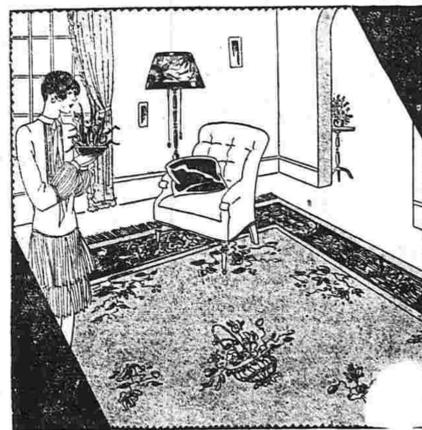

Peterson is bringing in some of the most beautiful spinach ever grown in this vicinity or anywhere else. Quantities of it and of such a quality as is rarely seen.

The first native turnips are here now. Sweet, succulent, and perfect in texture. Don't forget to include a few in the order.
