

RAIN WASHES OUT 4TH GAME AT ST. LOUIS

Wet Weather Postpones World Series Game Sched- uled for Day—Cardinals Have Little Chance to Win

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 8.—Just when everything seemed in readiness to place the rope about the neck of the condemned, the weather man came galloping up with a stay of execution today and, as a result, the World Series hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals lived and breathed for at least another 24 hours. It rained steadily all night and through the morning, leaving Judge Landis no alternative but to declare the fourth game of the series between the Cardinals and New York officially off and out until tomorrow.

The postponement came as an undeniable boon to a ball club that appeared due to be marched to the scaffold, en masse, but it wasn't a full pardon, merely a reprieve.

Little Chance to Win

Sooner or later, the avid adherents must get together for this fourth meeting and, with the Yankees having won the first three almost by acclamation, hope for the life of the condemned hangs all but dead. Their dissolute performance behind Haines yesterday, after they had returned home to a welcome that must have impressed them with its volume and spontaneity, clearly indicated that much the better ball club was winning these games.

Cardinals Outclassed

St. Louis, meaning the ball club, has been outclassed in every respect. But St. Louis, meaning the town, has finished second to none in fan spirit. The town simply left its homes unguarded on Saturday afternoon to congest the railroad station and line the streets for as vociferous a reception as ever a conqueror received. Yesterday, they set a local record in attendance and sat grimly but ever-encouragingly through as lurid a performance as a World Series club has given and, far from undaunted, they were standing in the rain this morning at the general admission gates when Judge Landis spoke for a moratorium.

This favored the Cardinals only because any delay must come as a break for a losing team, actually, it did not give either of the contenders a decided advantage, since Waite Hoyt, the Yankee bellwether, received thereby an extra day's rest, which he probably didn't need. He pitched the first game last Thursday and would have been ready to go again this afternoon. The postponement merely granted a similar boon to Willie Sherdel, who was equally ready.

Situation Unchanged

As a matter of fact, each club faced a pitch situation that was at all vital. The Yankees had their winners ready to step the rest of the way; the Cardinals were equally situated with their losers.

However, the delay gave the Cards an overnight chance for a much needed re-organization while, to the Yankees, it simply meant that they must wait a trifle longer for what they consider an ultimate victory. They already are well organized.

It wasn't considered likely that the postponement will change McKechnie's pitching plans. He will have to go with Sherdel tomorrow, because if he doesn't win this one, there will be no more and Sherdel to date has been the only pitcher able to keep Ruth and Gehrig in any degree of control. It was the hitting of this pair that beat him on Thursday, yet perfect outfielding would be nullified at least one of Ruth's doubles on that occasion and a few hits against Hoyt would have made Sherdel's effort the subject of eulogies, instead of regrets. It was much the same with him in the 1926 series, so it may be assumed that Sherdel's ability to constrain the Yankees has some degree of permanence.

The gamblers evidently thought so too, for local bookmakers offered four to five on tomorrow's game, with the privilege of allowing one to take his choice. Perhaps, however, they were reckoning a bit on the law of averages, in quoting these figures.

STILL EXPLODES; ONE DEAD

Amsterdam, N. Y., Oct. 8.—One man is dead today and the ruins of a two-story frame building are being searched for other bodies as a result, police said, of the explosion of a still.

The dead man is Tony Slesiani, 45, of Sawn street in this city. He is believed to have been the watchman. A large still and eight vats were found in the partially wrecked building, Chief of Police William Cline said.

Indian Princess Greets Curtis

While Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice presidential nominee, was in Chicago on his campaign tour, he was visited by Princess Tsarina, Cherokee and Creek Indian of Muskogee, Okla. The princess is shown shaking Senator Curtis' left hand, his right hand having been injured when a friend slammed an automobile door against it.

DEMPSEY, LOOKS AHEAD; WONDERS WHAT HE'LL DO

Former Boxing Champion Says He'll Quit the Stage At the End of a Year, The Interview.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of three human interest stories based on an interview with Jack Dempsey.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN

New York, Oct. 8.—Jack Dempsey revealed in an exclusive interview today that he expects to be at the "cross roads" of his glamorous career in just about a year. He will have $1,000,000 or more but no job and he recoils at the idea of being an unemployed millionaire.

He will be 34 years old in another year, perhaps an actor no longer and he will be through forever with the ring. He will be seriously asking himself the question:

"What will I do?"

He will have wealth, robust health, fame no doubt, friends galore and a loyal and talented wife but he will be like a fish out of water. Money isn't everything with Jack. He will be eager and restless to do something worth while but, as he rather plaintively explained today, he will find himself untrained for business and unfitted for a professional career.

Starting Over Again

"I will be starting all over again, a graduate of the college of hard knocks, and ambitious to succeed in some worth-while line of endeavor," said the former heavy-weight champion of the world.

"What I will do I frankly don't know but I'm giving it plenty of thought. I'm going to try hard and I think I'll make good."

Dempsey figures he has just about a year to go as an actor. Part of that time in the play in which he is starring on Broadway, and the rest making a "talkie" or two.

Producers are after both Dempsey and his wife, the dark-eyed, radiant Estelle Taylor, to do a talking motion picture or two. After that, Dempsey wonders—what?

The affable and unassuming champion not only frankly discussed his uncertain future but chatted

ZEPPELIN ON ANOTHER TRIAL FLIGHT TODAY

Wives of Officers and Men Taken Up to Show Them How Safe It Is.

Friedrichshafen, Oct. 8.—Today is "Ladies Day" aboard the giant dirigible Graf (Count) Zeppelin, which is scheduled to start across the Atlantic ocean for the United States Wednesday morning if conditions permit.

The airship is to make a short flight today mainly for the purpose of giving the crew a chance to make a final check on navigating and other instruments. Most of the passengers taken up today will be wives of the officers and men of the dirigible's crew. The purpose of taking them up is to demonstrate to them how secure the Zeppelin is so that they do not worry about their husbands during the trans-Atlantic flight.

Meanwhile, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the huge craft, is studying all weather reports closely. He is extremely confident of the success of the venture. He has announced that slight alterations in the interior of the ship, which were made to increase the comfort of the twenty passengers and forty members of the crew, have been completed.

G. O. P. BEGINS BIG DRIVE IN AL'S BALLIWICK

To Hold Continuous Speak- ing Rallies in the Heart of Metropolitan's Biggest District.

New York, Oct. 8.—Continuous speaking daily from noon 'till six p. m. in the crowded Grand Central area—the busiest spot in the world—is part of the Republican program for the Hoover-Curtis offensive in Al Smith's own Manhattan.

Coupled with the announcement by the Republican state headquarters today that fifteen sub-headquarters will be established on Manhattan, National Committee-man Charles D. Hilles revealed the plan for the "continuous performance" program at 10 East 45th street, which is to be opened Wednesday as the headquarters for a drive for $1,500,000 in $1 subscriptions to the G. O. P. war chest.

Besides broadcasting continuous speeches, these headquarters will exhibit "Hoover, the Master of Emergencies," the campaign film depicting the career of the Republican nominee during the last ten years.

Densely Populated Republican Managers Estimate that because of its strategic location in one of the most densely populated sections of New York, the non-stop campaign headquar- ters will serve approximately 10,000 prospective voters daily. More than 100,000 will pass the elaborately decorated headquarters win- dows every business day. Never be- fore has the formula of business been more rigidly applied to poli-

HOOPER IS CERTAIN OF SPLITTING SOUTH

Sure of Tennessee and Vir- ginia; Even Chance in Ala- bama and North Carolina.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Herbert Hoover is certain to carry Tennessee and Virginia and has an "even chance" of winning North Carolina and Alabama, it was declared here today by members of his "board" of strategy.

In summarizing the effects of his one-day invasion of the Solid South, the Hoover advisers were highly pleased with conditions in the south and optimistically predicted Hoover would be the first Republican nominee since before the Civil War to smash through the traditions that have kept Dixie Democrats for sixty years. Hoover was cheered as hundreds of telegrams reached him with congratulations on his Elizabethton, Tenn., speech.

In High Gear

The Hoover campaign meanwhile roared into high gear. Charles Evans Hughes, standard-bearer of the 1916 campaign, and William E. Borah, the "Lone Wolf" of Idaho, will share the limelight with the nominee during the last month of the campaign. Other speakers will be broadcasted in the east and west, every morning and evening up until election day.

Borah, just concluding a long swing through the west, will return here this week to confer with Hoover. Then he will leave again

TROUBLE AT REOPENING OF NEW BEDFORD MILLS

Strike Ends After 26 Weeks. 28 Workers Arrested This Morning.

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 8.—Clashes between police and members of the textile mills committee marked the reopening of a majority of the 56 mill units here today at the end of the strike of 27,000 operatives, which had been in effect for 26 weeks.

Unions affiliated with the New Bedford Textile Council had voted to accept a five per cent wage reduction as a compromise for the original ten per cent cut and when they attempted to enter the mill gates today they were met by hundreds of pickets from the ranks of the T. M. C., the so-called Radical wing of the strike.

NEW PARALYSIS CASES

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 8.—Six new cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the State Board of Health during the past week, five from Hartford county and one from Middlesex county, according to the weekly morbidity report of the board issued here today. Health authorities announced that the number of cases is not looked upon as unusual.

OVER HUNDRED SALOONS FOUND IN SMALL AREA

New Dry Head Says Con- ditions in Boston Worse Now Than Ever—Report Made of His Probe.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8.—A total of 115 saloons and speakies were found on the two and one-quarter mile stretch from Sullivan Square, Charlestown to the Medford street entrance of the Charlestown Navy Yard by "under-cover agents" of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, according to complaints filed with police today.

Rev. Jonathan Lewis, the new prohibition director for New England, presented the Willebrandt report to Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson. The report stated, it was said, that liquor conditions in Boston were the worst since the inauguration of prohibition.

Police Commissioner Wilson made a personal tour of the district in Charlestown mentioned in the report but found only fifteen speakies. He stated that conditions were "not so bad" as reported but that the courts settled a controversy over the legality of the new padlock law. Until that time, Commissioner Wilson stated the police were unable to operate against the speakies with any marked success.

TUNNEYS ENJOYING ITALIAN SCENERY

Polly Invites Mother and Brother to Join Them at Merano.

Rome, Oct. 8.—The beauty of the scenery about the city of Merano has so captivated Mrs. "Polly" Tunney that she sent a telegram to her mother and her brother to go there to enjoy the view.

The former heavyweight champion and his bride have remained longer at Merano than any other place they have visited upon their honeymoon. This was due to the double fact that the scenery is wonderful and that the reporters and photographers have not bothered them there.

To Join Honeymooners.

It is expected that Mrs. Lauder, mother of the bride, and her brother-in-law, who remained in Rome after the marriage last week, will go to northern Italy to join the honeymooners.

Some of the members of the Tunney nuptial party were received in audience by Pope Pius XI on Saturday. Mrs. Lauder, mother of the bride, was not in the party. They were conducted by Monsignor Joseph Breslin, vice rector of the American College.

Last night Thornton Willer, friend and companion of Tunney, was entertained at a farewell dinner.

It was stated that Gene and "Polly" communicate daily with Mrs. Lauder and that both are "ecstatically happy."

Cannon Used to Curb Riots in Austrian City

Vienna, Oct. 8.—Bayonets, machine guns and cannon have kept the peace at Wiener Neustadt, over the week-end despite the threat of hostilities during the counter demonstrations of Socialists and Fascists.

Nearly 70,000 persons took part in the demonstrations on Sunday while more than 12,000 soldiers stood guard and reinforced hospital forces were ready to care for the wounded.

LARRY SEMON DEAD, NOTED SCREEN STAR

Sober Faced Comedian Pass- es Away After Long Ill- ness in California.

Victorville, Calif., Oct. 8.—Larry Semon, noted "sober-faced" comedian of the silversheet, died near here at three o'clock this morning following a prolonged illness.

At his bedside were his beautiful wife, Dorothy Dwan, motion picture star, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Nancy Smith.

Death was due to pneumonia, which in turn developed from a nervous breakdown suffered by the comedian last August.

WAR VETS. GATHERING IN SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

Thousands of Legionnaires At- tending Their Eighth An- nual Convention.

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 8.—Thousands of men who wore the khaki of the Army, the blue of the Navy or the olive green of the Marine corps made their way to San Antonio today to attend the eighth annual convention of the American Legion.

In addition to the great host traveling by automobile from points as far distant as Maine and Seattle, special trains are arriving hourly and disgorging other thousands of veterans and members of their families. And the auto and the train do not bring them all for at almost every flying field scores of airplanes bearing Legionnaires, are landing hourly.

50 PERSONS POISONED BY BOOZE IN NEW YORK

Heaviest Toll Ever Recorded Over Non-Holiday Week- End—13 Dead.

New York, Oct. 8.—With more than fifty persons still in hospitals here from the effects of drinking what police say was poison liquor the death toll today stood at 13 with prospects of mounting.

It was the heaviest toll from bad liquor ever recorded over a non-holiday week-end.

As a result of the appearance of the deadly bootleg police were planning a cleanup of drinkeries in the waterfront districts of the lower east side whence most of the cases were recorded.

WOULD NOT SHAKE LINDBERGH'S HAND

Camera Man Refuses Because Famous Flyer Came Out for Hoover.

New York, Oct. 8.—Many a man who has shaken hands with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh feels that he ought to put his own hand away in the family album.

Even so, there is one man who refused to shake hands with the famous flyer. He is Herbert McGory, a newspaper photographer, and an old friend of Lindbergh, above else, a Democrat.

When Lindbergh landed at Roosevelt Field yesterday he held out his hand to McGory, but the latter backed away. "I don't know that I want to shake hands with you since you've come out for Hoover," he said.

"That's all right," Lindbergh said. "Politics ought not separate friends. We're going to beat you, anyway."

They finally "shook."

SMITH'S BIG DRIVE BEGINS THIS WEEK

To Invade Border States, Most Important in the Present Campaign.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Governor Al Smith's real drive for the presidency gets under way this week.

The west is behind him. The border states are at hand. The east is ahead.

This week the Democratic nominee invades the border country. It is doubtful. It is also necessary to his candidacy if it is to be successful in November. Figure as they will, the Democratic managers cannot envision Democratic success in November without some of the border states.

The Border States

Next Saturday Gov. Smith will be in Louisville, Ky., all of Friday will be spent in Tennessee. The week following will see him in Missouri. He already has been in Oklahoma, Maryland, another important border state, is being saved until later in the campaign.

Gov. Smith probably will speak on the tariff at Louisville. There in the Blue Grass country, he will lay low the charge that he is a "tariff for revenue only" Democrat, and blossom forth as a protectionist. That least is the prospect.

The itinerary for Gov. Smith's second week on the road was still undecided today. Sedalia, Mo., and Chicago are still on the schedule for the second week, but whether there will be other dates appeared doubtful today.

There has been a good deal of dickered over an Ohio date, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus are being considered. Today it appeared problematic whether Gov. Smith will speak at all in the state, similarly with Indiana.

Series Broadcast

World Series radio returns will be broadcast at the branch office of The Manchester Evening Herald on Bissell street tomorrow afternoon. The play by play description of what may be the final game of the series will come from the lips of Graham McNamee and Philip Garbin at Sportsmen's Park in St. Louis where the Yankees and the Cardinals will renew their one-sided argument, rain having postponed today's game.

Caught Like Rats in Trap, 20 Prisoners Reported Missing; 17 Dead, Others May Have Escaped; Con- vict Leads Fight to Save Men in Flimsy Structure.

Junction City, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Heroism and loyalty of William O'Malley, 35, convict trusty, assisted by Chester F. Welch, 30, also a trusty, were held responsible for the escape of 256 prisoners from the holocaust which resulted when a dormitory at the brick plant here, a branch of Ohio State Penitentiary, was swept by flames this morning.

Twenty prisoners are missing, of whom seven are believed to have met death and three to have gone "over the wall" during the pandemonium which followed the discovery of the blaze.

Caught like rats in a trap in the frame building, the prisoners shrieked and screamed as the structure became filled with choking fumes and stamped from one end of the dormitory to the other seeking escape from the flames which, licking at the supports of the building, threatened to send the dormitory crashing to the ground.

O'Malley, baker of Cleveland, under sentence of 3 to 5 years for stealing automobiles, was baking bread in the bakery which, with the warden's office, was located in a corner of the dormitory building when he smelled smoke and heard the crackling of the flames.

Many convicts were believed to have been trampled to death in the rush for safety, others were thought to have been killed by falling debris and still others, unable to squirm their way through the mass of struggling, panic-stricken prisoners at the door, are thought to have met death in the building. Three of those who were rescued by the efforts of O'Malley are said to have taken the opportunity to scale the prison walls and make a bid for liberty, fleeing to the surrounding farms.

When the prisoners streamed out of the dormitory, Trusty Welch formed a volunteer fire force and attempted to beat out the flames but the flimsy structure burned with the rapidity of pitch and was soon reduced to ashes.

Dawns showed blackened, charred heap of smouldering ruins of what was once the dormitory and disclosed gruesome spectacles in the smoking debris.

Whole skeletons, skulls and bones scattered throughout the pile of smoking timbers showed where many of the prisoners met death as they attempted to gain the door and freedom. It was impossible for officials at the prison to compute the exact number of dead until a checkup is made with the warden's roster which was saved by H. C. Blosser, deputy warden, who was in charge of the prison when the flames broke out.

It was at first believed that the dormitory had been set afire by a group of prisoners who sought in this way to make their escape but officials at the institution were inclined to doubt this theory and declared they believed the blaze was due to defective wiring.

A searching investigation has been started to determine the exact cause of the fire.

Junction City, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Charred and blackened beyond recognition, twelve skeletons were taken from the ruins of the dormitory at the brick plant, a branch of Ohio State penitentiary here today. Prison officials were determined upon an investigation of the origin of the blaze as rumors were heard that the fire was part of a pre-arranged plot by the prisoners and a high combustible cleaning fluid, obtained by stealth from the clothes room of the dormitory, had been used to ignite the blaze.

If such was the case, officials indicated, the roaring inferno which reared, did its work only too well, spreading so quickly that the building was enveloped in flames within a few minutes of discovery of the blaze.

BANK CALL

Washington, Oct. 8.—The comptroller of currency today issued a call for condition of national banks as of October Third.

LINDY AS PASSENGER

New York, Oct. 8.—Sixteen-year-old Eleanor Hoyt, daughter of Richard F. Hoyt, sportsman and banker, had Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a passenger when she made three flights at Port Washington, L. I.

He congratulated Miss Hoyt on her dexterity with the heavy amphibian after the flights were over.

CATHOLIC DEFENDS MRS. WILLEBRANDT

Southern Dry Says He Read No Attack Against Religion in Her Speech.

Hardinburg, Kentucky, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, around whom has raged a storm because of her anti-Smith attacks, carried her fight into the south today.

In a speech here, she called for her defense a Catholic leader, P. H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., who directed the Knights of Columbus during the war. He is a dry.

She produced a letter from Callahan in which he said, referring to her speeches: "I cannot find where you had any criticism whatever of the Catholic church."

Callahan declared he had read Mrs. Willebrandt's speeches carefully, and failed to discover where she had defamed the religion of the Democratic candidate or his campaign managers.

His letter:

"I know from intimate acquaintance that the Methodist church has been fighting liquor and the liquor people for a generation or two, until now prohibition is as much of an institution to the Methodists as the parochial schools are to the Catholics." Callahan's letter said.

"It is very easy for me to imagine that there was a candidate for president making a fight against the parochial schools, which mean so much to the Catholic church, that it would be in order for any speaker before a Catholic conference, to urge the defeat of such a candidate."

"There are so many anti-prohibitionists who seem never to realize that we are earnestly and honestly engaged in a movement to do something for the future generation."

Mrs. Willebrandt said she was attacked by the Democratic presidential candidate because she spoke against his liquor proposals at a meeting sponsored by Methodists.

"Accusation Unfounded"

"He insinuated my appeal was because of his religion," Mrs. Willebrandt said. He made an accusation entirely unfounded. It could only have been designed to confuse people who had not read my speech and to make them think I said something I did not say. I know it was not Gov. Smith's religion that prompted this unspurious attack.

"May it be said to Mr. Smith's everlasting credit that he does not run from the opposition created by his prohibition stand; but he does resort to the well-known Tammany methods of deflecting the public attention from the real point and arousing prejudice.

"In this case he is doing the unfair thing to his church by trying to hide behind it, and make it appear that all of those who oppose him for just causes are really striking at his church. I resent the suggestion that the daily swelling tide of opposition to Mr. Smith may be classed as an anti-Catholic vote. Such a suggestion for him is an injustice to his church and the American people alike. This opposition is gathering because of Gov. Smith's stand on immigration, his Tammany allegiance, and his attack upon the 18th Amendment."

on a tour of six states—West Virginia, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. He will speak in New York City toward the close of the campaign.

Hughes will open his speaking tour in behalf of Hoover at Sedalia, Mo., within the next two weeks. Then he will make four more prepared addresses, closing the campaign in Brooklyn. He also will speak in Massachusetts and upstate New York, according to present plans.

Hoover himself will make two more speeches in the east on his tour in New York City, October 22. He may add a third for the last week of October, before he leaves for his California home to vote.

MRS. LADD TO SPEAK TO MOTHERS' CLUB

Mrs. Robert Gadd of Hartford, well known clubwoman, will be the speaker at the October meeting of the Manchester Mothers club Friday evening at the South Methodist church.

Mrs. Gadd has chosen for her subject "The Business of Being a Clubwoman." She is well fitted to discuss such a subject having been the former president of the Hartford Woman's club, chairman of the Hartford Council of the Parent-Teacher association, and a leader in other women's organizations in the neighboring city. The meeting will be held at 7:45.

Mrs. W. R. Mitchell is chairman of the hostesses. The others are Mrs. Stuart Corbier, Mrs. Axel Carlson, Mrs. Louis Carter, Mrs. L. A. Cleveland, Mrs. B. L. Knight, Mrs. Elmer Anderson, Mrs. Leonard Lieberg, Mrs. B. F. Andrews, Mrs. F. J. McEvitt, Mrs. Hamilton Metcalf, Mrs. David McCann, Mrs. W. J. Renig, Mrs. William Stevenson, Mrs. Thomas Weir, Mrs. W. J. Buckley, Mrs. John Olson, Mrs. William McCann.

RIOT IN GREEK CHURCH

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 8.—Extra precautions were taken by police today to prevent a disturbance in the court room, when the eight persons arrested yesterday in the riot at the Holy Trinity Greek church were arraigned.

More than 800 men and women battled with police. The police swung their clubs and dodged stones. Several persons were injured by being slugged or trampled on. Archbishop Vasilios, patriarch of the Independent Greek church was struck by a brick connected in a handkerchief and held by a woman. Among those arrested was a 20-year-old girl.

The appearance on the church steps of Archbishop Vasilios leader of one faction in the civil strife that has rocked the community for several months, while the Rev. Joachim Malakias was conducting a service inside for the Mallicourts faction, incited the riot police said.

IN NEW ENGLAND

The Hoover leaders hope he will make as favorable an impression on New England as he did upon the south. They shared the opinion of Rep. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, chairman of the Republican Speakers Bureau at New York, who said: "Mr. Hoover will carry Tennessee by a larger majority than that won by President Harding." He will carry Virginia too. In North Carolina and Alabama, he looks a victor too, and unless there is a last minute change, he will carry both of these states.

George Fort Milton, Chattanooga publisher and Democratic leader, and a close friend of William Gibbs McAdoo, expressed the same opinion. He predicted Hoover would carry Tennessee by 15,000 plurality and Virginia by a similar margin. He classed North Carolina and Alabama as "doubtful" states but expressed the opinion that Democratic leaders might subdue the Hoover sentiment there before election day and keep both states Democratic.

WINTER VACATIONS HAVE NOW COME TO STOP

One large American employer, who has received thousands of reports that his employees take their vacations between October and April.

LOCAL D. A. R. HOLD OCTOBER MEETING

Hear Report of State Meeting and Miss Dexter Tells of European Trip.

Orford Parish Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held its October meeting at Center church Saturday afternoon. The lecture room in which the meeting was held was comfortably filled and the hostesses in charge had decorated it beautifully with quantities of sumach, wild red flowers, daisies and other late fall flowers.

Mrs. H. A. Cook one of the delegates at the 35th annual state meeting in Greenwich Friday gave an interesting report. In addition to a number of the national officers present at the meeting, there were state regents from Florida, Vermont, Maine, New Jersey, Connecticut and Rhode Island, and all brought greetings from their home state.

Mrs. Charles F. Sumner, chairman of the hostesses for Saturday's meeting, presented an excellent paper on Caroline Elizabeth Harwar, wife of the late president Benjamin Harrison and founder of the organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Miss Alice Dexter, late regent of Orford Parish Chapter, gave a talk of a half hour on the trip she took to Europe this summer, telling of the high spots among the places she visited and relating her experiences in a chatty, humorous way that held the close attention of her audience.

HOOPER'S VISIT TO NEW ENGLAND

It is expected that at the November meeting the state regent and vice regent will be present. Every member should reserve the date so that there will be a large number present to greet them.

Mrs. Sumner, Mrs. H. B. House and Miss Emma Eldridge, the committee for Saturday, served ice cream and assorted fancy cakes.

APPEAL FOR HICKMAN IS DENIED BY COURT

Washington, Oct. 8.—Supreme Court Justice Sutherland today denied an appeal and stay of execution for William Edwin Hickman, sentenced to die in Los Angeles, October 19 for the kidnaping and murder of 12-year-old Marion Parker.

The move to save young Hickman was presented to Justice Sutherland by attorneys for the right to appeal from the California Supreme Court, which refused to change the death sentence of a Los Angeles jury.

Had the petition been granted a stay of execution would automatically have followed according to Jerome K. Walsh, of Kansas City, Hickman's attorney.

Still clinging to the hope he may save Hickman, Walsh planned to make a similar appeal for a stay from some other justice of the Supreme Court.

Walsh exhausted every effort in the California courts to save his client.

RELEASED FROM PLEDGES

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—Farmer-Labor voters of Minnesota were released today from all obligations to support the party's ticket in the presidential race, thus allowing the major portion of the "progressive" vote to be cast for Democratic and Republican nominees.

In the last presidential election the Farmer-Labor Party in Minnesota led the way in amassing 139,192 votes for Senator Robert M. LaFollette, who finished 80,000 votes behind President Coolidge in the state.

The state committee of the Farmer-Labor Party announced today that its failure to file presidential electors with the secretary of state follows as a result of a decision to remain out of the presidential fight Saturday was the last day which electors could be legally filed.

PARENTS MEET AT FUNERAL

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 8.—The mother and father of George Knox, 19-year-old Williston Academy graduate, met today at the youth's funeral for the first time since their separation and Mrs. Knox's action for divorce. The boy was found shot to death with Mrs. Margaret Pacey, his landlady in Peterboro, Ont. Police of that city said first that it was a case of murder and suicide over love basing their theory on a note found near the bodies. Later they announced that new and startling evidence would be presented at an inquest.

STRIKE SPREADING

Warsaw, Oct. 8.—The Lodz textile strike is steadily extending. It was estimated today that 100,000 workers are now idle throughout the country. Communists are attempting to gain control of the strikers.

LADY HEATH FIRST PROFESSIONAL AIR PILOT AMONG EUROPEAN WOMEN.

London.—By flying a large passenger plane from Amsterdam to London, Lady Heath, noted English airwoman, has gained the distinction of being Europe's first woman professional air pilot.

Lady Heath, who as Mrs. Elliott-Lynn accomplished many long-distance flights, is shortly attempting a 20,000 mile flight in a large plane, and for this reason desisted to handle the controls of one of the regular air liners.

Fifteen passengers, including eleven women, expressed their admiration of her flying skill when the plane landed at the Croyden air station here.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. William McGuire

Mrs. Anna Macken McGuire, wife of William McGuire of 206 Main street, assistant superintendent of the E. E. Hilliard company's mill, died at her home this afternoon at 2:15 after a long illness. Mrs. McGuire was one of Manchester's Gold Star mothers, her son William having died of influenza while in service at the time of the World War, and her other son Patrick saw service at the front. Born in Hinsdale, Mass., 62 years ago she moved to Manchester with her husband and older children 33 years ago.

Mrs. McGuire was a quiet, home-loving wife and mother. Aside from her membership in St. Bridget's church, she was affiliated with no fraternal or social orders, but was respected and well liked by those who knew her best.

Mrs. McGuire leaves beside her husband, three daughters, a son and one grandchild. They are Mrs. John McGuire, a teacher in the high school of Hinsdale, Mass.; Catherine McGuire, both teachers in local schools; Patrick McGuire, her son is married and lives in Bridgeport and has a young son. Mrs. McGuire's mother is still living as well as two sisters and three brothers, whose homes are in Pittsfield and Boston.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at this time.

Mrs. Ella F. Malley

Mrs. Ella F. Malley, 70, of 7 Lydall street, died at her home Saturday night, following a lingering illness. In addition to her husband, Michael, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Annie Grubb and Mrs. Sabina Maher, both of whom live in New York City.

The funeral will be held at 8:30 tomorrow morning from the undertaking parlors of William P. Quish and at St. Bridget's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

STATE C. OF C. STUDIES OUR BANKING LAWS

Hartford, Oct. 8.—The first meeting of the Special Committee of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce which will study and suggest possible changes in the State banking laws at the 1929 Legislature, was held in Hartford this afternoon. At this meeting the committee will define its objectives, determine the scope of its investigation and what reports, if any, it will call for at its future meetings.

This special committee was authorized at the annual meeting of the State Chamber at Hartford on May 17 this year. The members of the committee were subsequently appointed by President Arthur R. Kimball of Waterbury.

Goodwin B. Beach of Hartford, a prominent stockbroker and former president of the Connecticut Investment Bankers Association, is chairman of the committee. John B. Byrne, vice-president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust Company and former State Bank Commissioner, is vice-chairman. Both Mr. Beach and Mr. Byrne are directors of the State Chamber. Mr. Byrne is a member of its executive committee.

The eleven other members of the committee are as follows: Eugene Ballard, Ballard & Company, Hartford stockbrokers and president of Hartford Stock Exchange; John N. Brooks, president, Brooks, Brooks & Trust Company, Torrington; Charles R. Butts, president, Norwich Savings Bank; Louis J. Curtis, president, Fidelity Title & Trust Company and president of Stamford Clearing House Association; Frank J. Green, secretary, Waterbury Chamber of Commerce; William T. Hincks, Hincks Brothers Company, investment brokers and director of the Connecticut Investment Bankers Association; J. M. Linton, president, Hartford Better Business Bureau; John J. McKeon, senior partner, Charles W. Scranton & Company, stockbrokers, New Haven; Arthur H. Merrill, of Adams, Merrill & Company, stockbrokers, Hartford, and president, Connecticut Investment Bankers Association; R. LaMotte Russell, president, Manchester Trust Company, and treasurer and director of the state Chamber; and Heywood H. Whipples of Roy T. H. Barnes & Company, Hartford, and chairman, Investors Protective committee of the Hartford Chamber.

COP SLAYING CASE GOES TO THE JURY

Hoppe Will Know His Fate Before Night, Court Officials Believe.

Dedham, Mass., Oct. 8.—The case of Stephen J. Hoppe, jail breaker extraordinary, accused of the slaying of Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis during a store burglary in Quincy, went to the jury at 1:40 p. m. today.

Before the jury got the case however, Hoppe had made a dramatic final appearance and statement.

Judge Patrick M. Keating had delivered his charge and asked Hoppe if he had anything to say.

Hoppe arose in his cage and said: "I have already testified. I was not in Quincy when Hollis was shot. I repeat, I was not there and I did not shoot Officer Hollis."

Hoppe sat down and within a few moments the jury retired for luncheon and deliberation.

Prospects were, according to court observers that the defendant would know his fate late this afternoon or this evening.

Throughout the trial Hoppe has been closely guarded as he had already negotiated four jail breaks in New England and had been talked in a fifth.

The cradle of mankind is being sought in Africa. And here we thought all the time it was Tommy Hall.

MAY BANKRUPT COMPANIES

Washington, Oct. 8.—Continuation of the 5-cent fare on New York subway and elevated lines may throw the Interborough Rapid Transit Company into receivership, attorney for the company declared in a brief filed in the Supreme court today.

The brief was filed in anticipation of oral argument set for October 15 in the appeal from a lower Federal Court order boosting subway and elevated fares to seven cents. A separate brief was filed for the Manhattan Railway Co., owning elevated lines leased to the Interborough.

PRINCE, GOVERNOR, FIGHT REAL DUEL

Former Wounded Three Times in Fight That Lasted 31 Rounds.

Rome, Oct. 8.—Prince Lancelotti, who had made remarks disparaging the administration of Prince Potenziani, former governor of Rome, is suffering today from three wounds received in a duel with the former governor at noon yesterday.

The combat was one of the fiercest on the Italian field of honor in recent years. It lasted 31 rounds and Prince Potenziani demonstrated superior skill with the rapier throughout. It looked like a scene from medieval history.

"Three Wounds"

For round after round nothing could be heard but the grinding clash of steel upon steel and the hurried breathing of the two combatants. In the fifteenth round Prince Lancelotti received a wound in the wrist. A little later he received a more serious wound in the elbow. In the thirty-first round Prince Potenziani lunged past his adversary's guard planting him in the shoulder. The blade penetrated nearly two inches.

The seconds and physicians then ordered the duel stopped.

The previous day Prince Lancelotti had won a duel with Col. Count di Sambuy.

stantly to cut down the number of speeches originally mapped out for him by the national committee. He intends to make at most not to exceed 18 speeches during the campaign. Six of those he has delivered in the west. He figures on four more in the border states, leaving the rest to be scattered throughout the east in the final two weeks of the campaign.

Gov. Smith will leave Albany tomorrow on the first leg of his second tour. He will go to New York for conferences with party leaders before proceeding on to Tennessee Thursday.

HOLD FOURTEEN NUNS FOR VIOLATING LAWS

Mexico City, Oct. 8.—Fourteen Catholic nuns, who were arrested at Guanajuato charged with violation of the religious laws and rebellious activities against the government, will be brought here today for trial upon orders from Emilio Fortes Gil, minister of Gobernacion, who was recently designated presidential president by the National Congress to succeed President Calles when his term expires on December 1.

The nuns were captured in a roundup by Gen. Juan Dominguez, chief of military operations in the State of Guanajuato. The military authorities accused the women of implication in plotting.

As soon as the war office was apprised of the arrests the minister of Gobernacion ordered the prisoners brought to this city.

NIGHT CLERK BEATEN

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 8.—After beating night clerk Francis I. Schuster to the point of death because he refused to divulge the safe combination, three masked bandits rifled the Stratford-Arms hotel cash drawer of $100 and escaped early today. Schuster's chance of recovery is small.

2-3 COURT CASES RESULT OF BOOZE

Liquor Figures in 4 Out of 6 Today—Largely Mixed With Gasolene.

Intoxication was responsible for four of the cases heard before the Manchester town court, a larger percentage than was the rule on a Monday morning before prohibition times. Driving while under the influence of liquor resulted in fines being imposed in two cases and in one, a second offender, was given a ten days jail sentence. A ten days jail sentence was suspended in another case.

In one case where intoxication was charged the person had been able to get his liquor because of being a passenger in an automobile and with the exception of one plain drunk, automobiles figured in all the cases before the court.

Waiting for "a friend" Alexander M. Reed of Manchester took his automobile out Saturday night and got drunk. Then something went wrong with the car and he became stranded on Center street, west of Adams. He was trying to push the automobile off the road and had it so turned that he blocked both ways. He assured those who offered to help him that he was waiting for a friend, who was coming back.

The "friend" proved to be Officer Martin who placed Mulrhead under arrest. In court this morning Mulrhead pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor and was given ten days and fined $100 and costs. Attorney John Foley spoke for him and pointed out that Mulrhead's family was in need of his help. He said a long jail sentence would reflect on them.

Michael Russell of Brew street, East Hartford, pleaded not guilty to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, but Dr. LeVerne Holmes, Officer Seymour and Officer Fitzgerald all testified that he was drunk.

The arrest was made at 2:30 this morning. Officer Seymour said he saw a car drive up to a restaurant on Depot street and two men and a woman got out. They appeared to be drunk. Seymour testified he watched and when Russell undertook to drive the car he placed him under arrest. Russell was examined by Dr. Holmes, who said he was not in any proper condition to drive a car. A fine of $125 and costs was imposed and a jail sentence of ten days suspended.

Passenger Marooned John Kachen, who was a passenger in the Russell car was not able to proceed when his means of transportation was taken away from him with the arrest of Russell and he was before the court this morning charged with intoxication. He pleaded not guilty, was found guilty and fined $100 and costs.

Frank Giblin, charged with intoxication, was picked up by Officer Michael Fitzgerald yesterday afternoon. He was "cast" and unable to proceed under the influence of power that furnished by the police automobile. He pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Max Schaller of 53 Walker street, was unable to stop his automobile before it hit the rear of another that had come to a stop behind a trolley car Saturday afternoon. Officer Roberts saw the incident, had the brakes tested and as a result Schaller paid $25 and costs for operating without proper brakes.

A boy, under 16 years, was given a hearing in chambers. He was accused of driving without a license.

84 PRISONERS APPEAL FOR PARDONS IN STATE

Wethersfield, Conn., Oct. 8.—Eighty-four prisoners in the state prison here have appealed for pardons or commutation of sentences according to the State Board of Pardons today. The board will meet here on November 5th to consider the cases.

A case leading in interest is that of Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, who was sentenced last April to life imprisonment for the murder of Mrs. Claire Gaudet, of New Haven. The doctor was tried by three judges.

Fairfield county has twenty-one cases; New Haven county has twenty-two, of which five are from the Waterbury side; eighteen come from Hartford county; six from New London; six from Litchfield; four from Middlesex, and one each from Windham and Tolland counties.

Most of the cases are of prisoners who previously have asked pardons.

OLD MURDER MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED SOON

Great Barrington, Mass., Oct. 8.—The Berkshire hills in this vicinity were combed today for a third suspect in connection with the reopening of a 15-year-old murder mystery. The man sought had been living in a shack near Alford.

Fred Eichstedt, prosperous farmer, father of a large family, and Ralph Round, former employee of the farmer were held in connection with the alleged murder.

The murder victim was believed to be Charles Corson, itinerant peddler of Bridgeport, Conn. Two bodies had been exhumed from Potters Field and other bodies will be brought up in an effort to discover whether there was a bullet hole in the forehead of the murder victim. Authorities were hampered in determining the body of the peddler because the cemetery records not available.

CASPERSON-BIRATH

Miss Alma M. Birath of 62 Bridge street and Conrad S. Casperson, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Casperson of 8 Village street were married at the home of the bride's foster-sister, Mrs. Hemming Anderson of 85 East Middle Turnpike, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. P. J. O'Connell, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church. The bridal attendants were Miss Gertrude Birath of Hartford, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Carl Casperson, brother of the bridegroom as best man.

The home of Mrs. Anderson was beautifully decorated with roses, ferns and palms. The bride party stood before wedding gates arranged in the living room with a background of palms and ferns.

The bride who was given in marriage by her foster-brother, Clifford S. Sault, was attired in a gown of white satin, pearl trimmed. Her veil of tulle and princess lace fell from cap of lace and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and gardenias, with shower of lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was dressed in perle georgette and gold lace over black colored silk and carried an arm bouquet of Madams Butterfly roses.

The reception which followed the ceremony was attended by about 100 guests from Hartford, Worcester and Manchester. The bride and groom left later on an unannounced wedding trip. The bride wearing a brown tulle costume with hat to match. They will be at home after November 1st at their recently built home on Spring street in the Lakeview section.

The bride has been employed in the National Fire Insurance company of Hartford and the bridegroom is with the Manchester Construction company.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR SCHOOL JOB

Boston Concern to Install Heating System in Hollister Street School.

The Files Engineering Company of Boston has been awarded the contract for improving the heating and ventilating system at the Hollister Street school. It was announced today. Work will begin Monday and will not interfere with school session operations.

In speaking about the work this afternoon, William Foulds, Jr., said that by awarding the contract to the Boston concern, the Eighth School and Utilities District had saved $3,000 inasmuch as the appropriation was $10,000 and the work is to be done for about $7,000. It is expected that the heating and ventilating system will be re-modeled in such a way as to prepare for the eight room addition voted April 20, but so far, yet to materialize. Mr. Foulds and William McGuire have been appointed a committee to investigate the details.

REDECORATING STATE THEATER'S LOBBIES

The lobbies of the State theater are being entirely redecorated by the Manchester Decorating Co. The work was started this morning and it is expected that it will be completed by the last of the week. The work is being done with texture and will be finished with Tiffany blend. This is the same type of work that was done in the lobbies of the larger Hoffman houses throughout the state particularly in the New Britain houses which has been spoken of as one of the best theaters in New England.

The lobby of the State while not as pretentious as that at the New Britain house will have that same rich finish on the walls. The redecorating of the lobby combined with the work on the stair railings and woodwork in the theater proper will go a long way towards making the State theater have a beauty to it that will be a source of pride to Manchester theatergoers. The refitting of the pipes leading to the boiler will assure patrons of the State a cozy theater this winter.

WAPPING Mr. and Mrs. Judson G. Files, left last Thursday for Bangor, Maine, where they will spend two weeks with Mrs. Files' parents.

TAKES HER LIFE BY WALKING INTO POND

Mrs. Rebecca Sardella, Leaves Home at Dawn, Drowns Herself.

Mrs. Rebecca Sardella, 73, of 73 Cottage street, widow of Joseph Sardella, committed suicide, Saturday morning by drowning, walking into the ice pond of the Globe Hollow group of ponds, just west of South Main street. She walked into a section where there is a tall growth of rushes. The body was concealed from view from the street and was not found until the afternoon, though it was only partly under water.

A 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Mrs. Sardella, who has been in poor health and troubled with headaches, entered the room of her son and gave him a purse containing money to pay for the painting of one of several houses she owned. At the same time she remarked that she was not feeling well and was going out to get the air. She said she felt that she was going to die.

Search Fruitless Mrs. Sardella was fully dressed and before her son could get dressed, she had left the house. It was later learned that she had gone up Oak street to Main and walked south on the street to the ice pond. Her son started a search for her, looking in the garden. Not finding her there he called at several neighbors' homes. Getting no trace of his mother at any of these places he continued searching, accompanied by a friend.

In the afternoon Jerry, walking along the banks of the Globe Hollow pond, came upon the body. It was frozen ashore where the medical examiner, Dr. W. R. Tucker, viewed it and gave permission to have it removed to the undertaking home of William P. Quish.

Mrs. Sardella was the widow of Joseph Sardella, who died two years ago next January and was among the early Italian residents of Manchester. Living for many years in Manchester, she and her late husband moved to the South end where he purchased houses on Cottage street.

The funeral will held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. James' church with burial in St. James' cemetery.

CHOIR GIVES PARTY FOR MRS. ANDERSON

Mrs. R. K. Anderson, who has been acting as organist and musical director at the South Methodist church since early in May, during the absence of the regular organist, Arlethid Sessions, was pleasantly remembered by the choir members at the church Saturday evening.

The party was given as much for Mrs. Anderson as Mr. Sessions who the day previous had arrived from a globe tour and was conducting the rehearsal for Sunday's choir work.

Tables had been set up in one of the supper rooms and were prettily decorated, and the choir adjourned here after the rehearsal. Miss Eleanor Willard, soprano soloist of the choir, in a graceful little speech, presented to Mrs. Anderson a handsome pen and pencil set in blue enamel and gold. Mrs. Anderson expressed her appreciation for the thoughtful gift and the choir members in making her such an acceptable gift and in arranging for the hour of sociability for Mr. Sessions and herself.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Cecil Gates, Mrs. Estelle Lyman and Miss Gertrude Gates of Hartford, spent the week end at their Columbia cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutchins and family spent Sunday with friends in Jewett City.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lyman of Plainfield spent the week end at the home of James Utley.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ericson and two daughters of Berlin were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hutchins.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gillette and three daughters of Spring Hill were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Isham.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lyman of Hartford spent the week-end with relatives in town.

But he has been filling a silo for William Wolff.

Miss Elizabeth Bertsch, who is teaching Jones Street school in Hebron spent the week-end at her home here.

Mrs. Charles Fox is spending a few days with friends in Middletown.

The new Columbia pastor, Rev. John Howell, gave a very inspiring sermon Sunday morning on the subject "What are you worth." His talk to the children was "The house with the golden windows."

Mrs. Julia Little has closed her Columbia home and returned to Hartford for the winter.

LOCAL MAN CHAMP AT BOWLING ON THE GREEN

John E. Hood Wins Thistle Club's Singles Cup in Match on Saturday.

John E. Hood of 10 Elm Terrace is the champion bowler of the Thistle Bowling Club of Hartford. That just about makes him the champion of these parts at bowling on the green. The Thistle club's annual tournament was held at Elizabeth Park Hartford, Saturday afternoon and John Hood walked away with the singles cup. Mr. Hood claims to have gained his technique playing the piano for Herb Ingham singing his famous song "Martha."

entertainingly about his past. Among other things he said: 1. That Tex Rickard is the "outstanding personality" he has ever met.

Biggest Thrill 2. That the "biggest thrill" of his sensational career to him was when he knocked out Jess Willard in Toledo, Ohio, on July 4, 1919, and won the championship.

3. That big, hairy-chested Luis Firpo of the Argentine came nearer to knocking him out than any other man.

4. That he likes the public. 5. That he feels perfectly at home with prize fighters, actors and newspaper men.

6. That exercise is his hobby. 7. That football is his favorite sport.

The writer met Dempsey in front of the Savoy Plaza Hotel as he was hailing a taxi "Hop In," said Paek, and, after parking his feet on the seat ahead said: "Shoot!"

"How do you like being an actor?" he was asked. "I rather like it—it isn't bad. I'm in there trying."

"The critics say you're good." "Not all of them," smiled Jack. "Are you going to make acting your life vocation—planning to be a second James J. Corbett?"

"No, I'm afraid I'll never be as good an actor as Jim Corbett," replied Dempsey. "Still I don't think I'm hopeless or anything like that. And I'm learning. Some parts of my show I play very natural. I feel like a home exhibition at the Times Square barber shop in the first act and I'm really myself when I strip to tights and climb through the ropes in the last act. But in act two they make me sit there like a dumbbell and listen to my manager and a gambler talk about me throwing a fight. It wouldn't be natural for me to sit there so dumb. I'd get the idea quicker. And instead of doing what I do in the show I get up and sock somebody on the button. When I act I like to act natural. I've just got to be myself, even on the stage."

It was at this juncture that Dempsey said he believed he had about a year to go as an actor and that he would then be at the cross roads of his career.

Confident of a safe majority in the up-state counties, the Republican strategy aims at a herculean assault upon the Al Smith edge of approximately half a million votes in the five boroughs of the metropolitan area. Attorney General Albert Ottinger, a native of New York, and prominently identified with organized Jewish activities in the city, will center his campaign against Franklin D. Roosevelt in the city.

Announcement that a second Cabot had joined the Smith forces in Massachusetts, was the news of highest morale value from Democratic national headquarters today. Miss Maud Cabot, daughter of Francis Higginson Cabot of Boston, and a graduate of Barnard in '25, left here today with Miss Marguerite Woolley, for Concord, N. H., where the young women plan an extensive Smith campaign in the rural sections of the state.

They plan three speeches daily in their automobile campaign, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Jackson, national committee woman. Meanwhile, Miss Sally Cabot, a sister of Maud, is working daily in Smith headquarters in Boston.

DISCUSSES CONSTITUTION BEFORE KIWANIS CLUB

A. N. Potter Relates Interesting Incidents About Famous Document; Hear of Convention.

A. N. Potter, local Americanization director and member of the High school faculty, gave the Kiwanians this noon at their get-together at the Hotel Sheridan, a scholarly discourse on the "Constitution of the United States." Mr. Potter has made a deep study of this subject and he covered it from the time of the convention, prior to the making up of the constitution. He told of the delegates who made up that convention and referred to them as one of the "strongest bodies of men who had ever come together for anything of the sort prior to that time or since."

He went on to tell of the attributes of the individual members, such as Washington, Benjamin Franklin, James Wilson, Alexander Hamilton, James Monroe and others, then discussed the amendments to the constitution. He told how they were ratified and of the difficulty in getting them ratified or of trying to repeal any of them. Mr. Potter confined his remarks entirely to the constitution and at the close he received a hearty round of applause for his enlightening talk.

MONTGOMERY WARD STORE BUSY PLACE

Arrival of Fixtures and Stock Keeps Force of Local Help Hustling.

F. J. Wilkie of Chicago, who is to be the manager of the Manchester store of the Montgomery Ward Company, arrived in town last night, and this morning was at the new store supervising the unpacking of merchandise already received, and laying out the fixtures. He is being assisted by two other men from the Chicago headquarters, whose business it is to open new stores.

Twenty Manchester men were employed this morning helping in the unpacking and placing of merchandise. Already four freight car loads of stock are in the store and others are being shipped and will arrive daily.

The upper floor is complete with the exception of the electric lighting fixtures and there the work of arranging the stock will first be done.

Opening Oct. 20. The tentative date for opening the store, October 15, has been changed. An effort will be made to have the formal opening on October 20 or on October 27 at the latest. When it was learned that the building would not be ready October 1 the opening date was set by the Chicago office as of October 20 and the work of mailing notices to all patrons on their mailing lists within a radius of 100 miles of Manchester was started. It is expected that there will be a great many visitors in Manchester on the opening day.

There will be about 200 employees the opening day. The number of these that will be regularly retained, however, will depend on the amount of business the store does when it has been settled down to a regular working basis. As far as possible the employees will be local men and women.

Many questions have been asked concerning the character of the business conducted at the store here. Manager Wilkie said this morning that the store would carry on both a mail order business and a direct retail business in Manchester, just as at their home stores in Chicago. This means, he said, that the 32,000 names that they now have on their mailing list within a radius of twenty miles of Manchester could now send their mail orders here and the orders would be supplied from the local store. In addition to those who will order by mail the company feels that a large number of persons who have been sending in orders by mail will come to Manchester and do their buying direct, bringing to the town a large number of strangers who have never been here. It has been the experience of the company, he said to find that where stores of this kind have been opened merchants who had been hostile have become their friends, as it results in creating a larger trading center and a mass of additional business that is done on a cash basis.

Will Use Three Floors. Three floors will be used in the display of merchandise. In addition to the main floor, where scores of display counters will be located, and the second floor, where there will be displays of heavier and bulkier merchandise, there will also be used the basement of the store which will have display counters.

For access to the different floors, an elevator is located in the southeast corner of the building. A stairway also leads from the main floor to the second story and another to the basement.

The store was a busy place today. The goods, fixtures and merchandise from the Chicago warehouse are shipped that the fixtures and such articles as will be displayed on them are arriving first. To get the fixtures unpacked and assembled and the goods out of the way before the other shipments arrive is a big and hurrying job.

TALCOTTVILLE

All ladies of the community are invited to meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. An appeal has been received for hospital supplies, such as bandages, compresses and garments for the hospitals at Porto Rico. The need is desperate. Many are suffering from injuries received during the recent hurricane. The meeting tomorrow will be in charge of Miss Bertha Dart, Mrs. William Lee and Mrs. James Wood. The hostesses will be Mrs. Charles Pitkin, Mrs. George Smith. A social period will follow the business.

A daughter, Marilyn Dorothy, was born Saturday at the Manchester Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin E. Wells, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Wells have the congratulations of many Talcottville friends.

TWO FEATURES AT STATE TOMORROW

"Jazz Mad" and "Big Killing" Here Two Days; Also Gift Night.

Sean Hersholt, recognized as one of the greatest character actors in motion pictures, will appear at the State Theater starting tomorrow in the production called by critics to be his finest for the screen, and one of the most outstanding of the year—"Jazz Mad." This vehicle is here for a special two day engagement, along with another brilliant feature attraction.

Provided with the finest sympathetic and human role he had ever been asked to portray, Hersholt knew the chance had come to do his greatest characterization. "Jazz Mad" revolves around the story of an old musician, although the romantic elements, provided by the musician's daughter and her betrothed, strongly predominate in the scenes. After reading the story directors of the world-famed Hollywood Bowl co-operated in lending the use of the gigantic amphitheatre for the production.

The theme of "Jazz Mad" is outstanding because of its beauty and sincerity. There are no blood-curdling situations, no visions of life on its ugly side—only great drama at its highest pitch.

Besides Hersholt, the cast includes George Lewis, Marlon Nixon, Charles Clary, Patricia Garon and Roscoe Kearns.

The associate film feature for tomorrow and Wednesday is one that should drive all the blues out of your system. The title of the production is "The Big Killing," and it features those two famous funsters—Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton.

"The Big Killing" is a picture that is absolutely guaranteed by its producers to furnish you with enough laughs and thrills to last a lifetime. Beery and Hatton blur through a series of hilarious adventures, amidst plenty of action and excitement. Pretty little Mary Brian and handsome Lane Chandler furnish the love interest that prevails throughout the picture. F. Richard Jones was responsible for the direction and has certainly turned out an excellent job.

As an added attraction for tomorrow night, the State will again present another of its popular Merchants and State Theater Gift Nights, with bigger and better presents than ever before.

Richard Dix in "Warming Up" will have its final showings tonight at 7:00 and 9:00.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION HERE

Large Representations From Churches All Over the Districts Attend.

The annual convention of the Norwich District Epworth League was held Saturday afternoon and evening at South Methodist Episcopal church. There was a large representation from churches all over the district. Among the leagues represented were those from New London, Westerly, Niantic, Willimantic, Hockanum, Thompsonville, North and South Methodist of Manchester, Burnside, East Hartford, Quarryville, and Hazardville. The District President, Rev. Marion J. Creeger, of Hazardville, occupied the chair, and the secretary, Miss Marion Tyler, of Manchester was at her desk as secretary. The afternoon session was held at 2 o'clock, and included a service of worship and a business session. During the former an inspiring address was given by the president, showing progress in the league work of Norwich District.

"During the business session there was a roll call of the various chapters in the district, and reports of Cabinet officers. These were followed by departmental conferences, and a social half hour. At six o'clock a fine banquet was served by South church ladies to over one hundred delegates and friends. At its close President Creeger called upon Rev. J. S. Pennepacker, of Niantic, to act as toastmaster. With wit and wisdom he introduced several young people from the local and other leagues in the district who responded to the general theme of "Gleanings" we should all follow—friendship, achievement, the kingdom of God, and others.

The evening service at seven o'clock was held in the assembly room up stairs, and the election and installation of the new district officers occupied the first part of the program. Rev. Myron E. Genter, superintendent of Norwich District, employed a ritual service in the installing of the newly elected cabinet officers of the Norwich District, which was very impressive. These young men and women who had been chosen at the business meeting are: President, Rev. Frank W. League, of Burnside; 1st vice-president, Rev. J. E. Pennepacker of Niantic; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter, of Norwich; 3rd vice-president, Marshall Ferguson, New London; 4th vice-president, Rev. James E. Greer, South Manchester; secretary, Miss Marion Tyler, Manchester; treasurer, Miss Violet Dowling, of Westerly. After the installation of the new Cabinet officers came the address of the evening, which was a strong earnest exhortation to the young people to go out into life to discover "Whole Continents Unexplored." The speaker was Rev. Blake Smith, of Rockville Baptist church.

Dr. Colpitts Speaks Out. On Sunday evening at the South Methodist church the pastor, Rev. Robert A. Colpitts addressed an audience filling nearly all the seats in the chapel upon "Saloon Froth" and "Has Canada Solved the Saloon Problem?"

"The control of liquor traffic is the greatest problem of the human race," so the speaker affirmed. From the time of the degradation of the family of Lot by drunkenness till now the human family have been finding reasons for the necessity of controlling this abominable devil. In the first place it is the traffic in liquor that is the cause of the degradation of men and women, and of the degradation of mothers and children. Then the saloon was always an impudent institution, always lawless, never law-abiding even under license. Liquor men always disobeyed whatever laws were against their nefarious traffic in any way, even as they disobey prohibitory law. They find fault with the "one half of one per cent." idea, yet the brewers fixed that amount years ago as the point which liquor would become intoxicating. Mr. Colpitts answered the charge that prohibition was put over when the "boys were over seas" by calling attention to the fact that before the boys went across eighty per cent. of the country was dry, and that license was largely in the big cities.

Mr. Colpitts mentioned no names, but said one candidate stood squarely for the enforcement of the law, while the other favored nullification and repeal—"saloon froth," and immediately upon nomination declared he would not be governed by the platform of his own party.

When the speaker touched upon what many people term the "Canadian System," he declared there was none. There are nine provinces in Canada, and each one has its own enforcement law. The province of Quebec never had prohibition. Nova Scotia and Prince Edward's Island are the only dry provinces at present. New Brunswick was, but its present Governor Baxter, elected in a dry platform repudiated it, and went in for Government control, even as is intimated a U. S. presidential candidate desires to do. Dr. Colpitts said he spends his vacations at his boyhood home in New Brunswick, and has had opportunity to observe with his own eyes the failure of the law there. The folks there are supposed not to open what they buy in the 25 liquor stores run by the Government throughout New Brunswick until they arrive at their homes, but that law is flouted of every hand. The awful conditions resulting from license laws and their evasion are seen in Ontario, in British Columbia, in all so-called regulated-by-government provinces. The speaker feelingly told how the "Sword" had entered his own soul also, because relatives and friends with high salaries had lost their positions through liquor, and become lumber-jacks.

SAYS CANADA'S SYSTEM FOSTERS THE BLIND PIG

Rev. R. A. Colpitts Tells Parishioners Bootleggers Flourish—Friendship Club.

Rev. Robert A. Colpitts of the South Methodist church spoke at the evening service on personal observations made by himself on the success of government control of liquor in Canada, particularly in the provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick and British Columbia. Mr. Colpitts brought out forcibly that even government control of liquor, as exemplified by that in practice by the Canadian government, does not do away with the "blind pig" of the bootlegger and that in Canada the bootlegger carries on a thriving trade.

The meeting was exceptionally well attended and the address, the topic of which was "Has Canada solved the liquor problem," was very favorably received.

The Men's Friendship Club will hold its first monthly meeting of the season at the South Methodist church this evening at 7 o'clock. The customary early supper will be omitted and refreshments will be served at the close of the evening address, which will be by Rev. Cooper, former pastor, who will speak about his recent trip to Europe. The men will meet at 7 o'clock for a business conference. At 7:30 they will adjourn to the large hall where they will hear the address. The women and friends of the church are invited to attend the second meeting.

The Manchester Men's Choral club, it is expected, will contribute to the evening's program.

A Waterman's Fountain Pen

The first thing I can remember is finding myself being carefully put in a long narrow box, then the lid was put on and all was dark. After many days of listening to conversation (the speakers I could not see) I felt myself being lifted down from my shelf and for the first time in months I saw daylight.

After quite a bit of talking (mostly about me) a young man bought me and shoved me in his pocket. For a couple of years I was kept busy writing letters and signing checks and other papers.

One fine spring morning the birds were singing and everyone was happy and I guess my owner was overly anxious to get out of doors. He put me in his pocket very carelessly and before he'd gone very far out I dropped. It was in the garden I landed and after lying there for a couple of days there came a heavy rain which caused me to be completely covered over with mud. There I lay covered up with that dirty soil for nearly two years, but one day I found the earth being dug off me. Suddenly as the spade struck me the man saw me. He took me into the house and gave me to the young man who owned me and my but he was pleased to see me again. He at once washed and cleaned me up to see if I would write. and outside of being a little discolored I am just as good a pen as the day he dropped me for Waterman's make their pens durable. My advice to you is when you want a fountain pen buy a Waterman's.

DEALERS OBSERVE
CANDY WEEK HERE
Special Offers in Sweets Being Made—Saturday "Sweetest Day."

From October 7 to 13, the period designated as Candy Week and culminating on Saturday, "The Sweetest Day in the Year," good cheer will be spread through the medium of candy to hundreds of thousands, including orphans, crippled, children, old folks, shut-ins, and other unfortunate persons. Manchester dealers in sweets are making special offers this week. Attention is called to their advertisements on Page Seven today.

Reports received by the National Confectioners' Association indicate that the observance this year will be on a nation-wide scale. This is credited in large measure to the growth of the candy trade, which now does a business of close to one billion dollars annually.

Candy classes will be given away to 250,000 school children in Detroit. In Chicago sixty vaudeville entertainers have volunteered to visit the inmates of charitable institutions and mingle songs and dances with the candy donated by local manufacturers. An airplane will ride the skies about Atlanta and drop candy kisses to the pedestrians. In Denver the members of the American Legion will take charge of the distribution of candy to more than 1,000 disabled ex-service men and to all the city's dependents. In other cities newboys will be given free picture shows accompanied by lollypops, licorice, and chocolate bars. Special committees have been organized to visit hospitals, and old folks' homes, and to hunt up others who like candy but whom the world passes by.

Some of the finest samples of the modern candy-makers' art will be presented to public officials and other persons of prominence. New York City manufacturers have prepared special de luxe boxes of candy for the First Ladies of the Land, present, and future. Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Hoover, and Mrs. Smith.

Official proclamations calling public attention to Candy Week and Sweetest Day have been issued by mayors of a number of cities, urging people to think of others and share in the movement to "Make Somebody Happy."

Celebration of the week follows immediately after the second National Candy Industries' Exposition, held in New York October 1 to 6, members of the confectionery and allied trades displayed to the public some of the steps in the manufacture of their favorite sweets, and exhibited the largest candy box in the world—a mammoth case holding 500 pounds of confectionery specially manufactured on a scale suitable to the size of the box.

Pointing to the honey bee as the first candy maker, confectioners declare that theirs is one of the most ancient of callings, as well as one of the most popular. This popularity, they feel convinced, rests not only on the demonstrated food value of the sugar, milk, nuts, and other ingredients that are used, but also on the fact that a gift of candy is the universal token of affection and good will.

ITALIAN BAZAAR GIVES ARMISTICE DAY FUND

The United Italian Societies, comprising the Sons of Italy, the Daughters of Italy, the Sub-Alpine club, the Christopher Columbus Society, the Fubinese society and the Italian American society, opened a two-night bazaar at the Sub-Alpine Club on Eldridge street Saturday night. It continued through last night.

Each session was attended by more than 500 persons. The purpose was to raise funds to defray the cost of participation by the Italians of Manchester in the Armistice day celebration.

Entertainment at the bazaar consisted of dancing, a set back tournament and a bowling match. The hall was decorated and at several booths candy and refreshments were sold. A large amount of the money taken in was realized from the booths. The music for dancing was by Weiman's orchestra.

The success of the bazaar was largely due to the work of the woman members of the various societies.

"Leave your dog in the cloakroom" reads a sign in a Paris cinema theater. Lapdogs and wolfhounds can howl their loudest in the kennel in which the management has arranged to keep them from annoying the audience.

CANADA HAS ITS FIGHT FOR BAN ON BOOTLEGGING

Montreal.—Canada, especially Quebec province, may soon have its own bootlegging problem.

Already in Montreal and Quebec blind-pigs and speak-easies are on the increase and Canadian law-enforcers daily are confronted with violators of the Quebec liquor law, which until recently has been considered ideal.

Under the Quebec law beer and wines are sold in parlors, where there are tables but no old-fashioned bars. Hard liquor—whiskies, gins and brandies—are sold at government-operated stores, just as groceries are sold in the United States. Mixed drinks, hard liquor and beer and wine are sold at hotels and clubs.

The beer parlors close at 10 o'clock at night; the liquor stores close at six in the evening and all day Sundays and very few of the cafes keep open all night.

Blind Pigs Open
As a consequence blind pigs are found running, especially in the large cities, after the regular liquor places are closed.

In Montreal one may find blind pigs throughout the city and many of these run day and night. They are located in sections of the city where hotels, beer palaces and hotels are few and therefore are largely patronized by those who find they want a drink and want it quickly.

Mixed drinks in the bootleg places are sold at 50 cents each and hard liquor is sold by the bottle at an advance of 50 cents or more over the regular government store price.

A list of the blind pigs is kept by many taxi-cab drivers in Montreal and Quebec and visitors are quickly driven to the blind pigs after the liquor stores and beer houses are closed for the night. It is reported that Americans keep the blind pigs busy, as they find the regular hours of the saloons and liquor stores insufficient to satisfy their thirst.

Vigorous Fight
The blind pigs in Montreal are similar to the beer flats common in Chicago and are generally located in the rear of a residence or rooming house. They are more elaborately equipped than American blind-pigs and boast small bars and beer and wine tables and booths. Some of Montreal's blind pigs do a large business in whiskies and gins. At the liquor stores operated by the government only one bottle per day is sold each person, while the bootleg establishments any number of bottles may be purchased.

Vigorous fight is being made by Canadian authorities against the blind pigs in Montreal and Quebec but it is admitted they are constantly growing. Canadians blame American visitors for their popularity.

ASK CHAMBER FIRST,
NOT AFTER ORDERING

Recently a Manchester woman, who had been asked by a book agent $18 for a certain volume, learned through the Chamber of Commerce where the same book in the same binding could be bought for $3.50. Since the publication of that incident Secretary Rix of the Chamber has received inquiries from several women who wanted to know if the Chamber could help them back deposits that they had paid on books ordered from agents. In none of these cases did there appear to be anything fraudulent about the transactions and so there was nothing the Chamber could do.

Secretary Rix says the Chamber is willing to give advice in such matters where it can get reliable information, but is not in the business of trying to help book buyers get out of legitimate contracts after they have been signed. The time to consult the Chamber is before signing the order.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The Supreme Court, by denying the government's petition for review, in effect today held that Canadian citizens crossing the border to the United States to work each day may do so without complying with American immigration laws.

The case originated when Mary Cook and Antonio Danelon, Canadians, were stopped by American officers from crossing to Buffalo, N. Y., each day to work. The second Circuit Court held they were free to come and go under a treaty with Great Britain. This decision stands.

DURANT
Models Four and "60" now on display?

We offer the following improvements without extra cost on the four cylinder line and at less cost on the six cylinder:

QUIET . . . the most remarkable advance in automobile construction . . . a new method of body-construction worked out by Durant engineers over a period of years . . . for the elimination of body noises.

This unequalled feature, coupled with a rubber-mounted motor on the Four and Lanchester damper on the "60", straight line drive, quiet transmission and differential gears, long springs with quiet shackles, and balloon tires, produces the most luxuriously quiet automobile in the history of transportation.

THE MOST COMPLETE LINE OF STANDARD AND DE LUXE BODIES • BEAUTIFUL STYLES AND COLORS • CHROMIUM REPLACING NICKEL ON ALL FITTINGS • COWL LAMPS • NEW TAIL AND STOP LIGHTS • NEW AND MORE EFFECTIVE BUMPER • NEW MODERN LARGER STEERING WHEEL • NEW INSTRUMENT PANEL IMPROVED IGNITION LOCK • MORE REFINED BODY HARDWARE • LANDAU IRONS ON COACHES

DE LUXE roadster and sedan models are fitted with wire wheels, with two extra wheels mounted in fender wells, full-sized bumper and trunk rack on the rear, and chromium cowl band.

The brilliant new Durant "60" has a longer wheelbase, with all that this implies in finer riding and driving qualities.

And both Fours and Sixes retain these well-known features:

The famous Million Dollar Motor, more perfectly balanced—straight line drive assuring remarkable smoothness of operation and freedom from repair. Bendix quiet, positive mechanical 4-wheel brakes, long elliptical springs, balloon tires and the perfect proportion of weight and power that results in unparalleled Durant performance.

MONDAY, OCT. 8, 1928

"MAIN STREET"

No one has ever attributed to Herbert Hoover the quality of extraordinary subtlety. Rather to the contrary, Americans are accustomed to think of him as a man who attacks his ends by extraordinary directness. Yet when his record is studied there appear numerous occasions on which he has displayed an almost uncanny understanding of human psychology and has responded with the most skillful sort of diplomacy.

Here again the engineering mind manifests itself—the unerring ability to select the right method and the right tool for the particular problem.

One of the most tremendous of Hoover's achievements was when he prevented the allied European governments from abruptly canceling their huge contracts for American food supplies almost immediately after the armistice.

That contemplated proceeding would have brought about the most disastrous reaction that the agricultural interests of this country ever suffered. Just how Hoover, instantly alive to the situation, succeeded in causing those governments to reverse their open intention of letting the American farmer and shipper hold the bag has never been explained in its entirety.

It was a proceeding that called for both subtlety and directness of action, one complementary to the other, in an extraordinary degree. And certainly he did it alone.

We suspect there was something of this same masterly subtlety in Hoover's Elizabethan speech on Saturday. There is nothing highly remarkable about that address—save that it displays a marked degree of oratorical and literary ability—until its concluding paragraphs are reached.

A good, sound, frank speech it was, to be sure, and especially convincing in its treatment of the tariff question. But it strikes us that it was written and delivered largely for the opportunity it created for addressing the dweller on "Main Street."

More particularly have I resented the sneers at Main Street. For I have known that in the cottages that lay behind the street rested the strength of our national character.

"In no country does there exist the intelligence, the devotion, the probity, the ability to arise to a great emergency that exists in the Main Street of the American town and village."

What other candidate for the Presidency of the United States has ever had the perspicacity to realize that the actually preponderant class of American citizens was being perpetually overlooked in the quadrennial appeal for political support?

It is quite conceivable that Governor Smith may appeal more directly to the prejudices and impulses of the semi-alien populations of the "east sides" of the country than will Herbert Hoover. But the thoroughly American villages and towns will instantly recognize the fact that in the latter, for the first time, they have a champion.

SMITH'S CONTRIBUTORS Supporters of Governor Smith contributed $889,132 to the Democratic campaign fund in September, according to the statement of the national committee of that party. By far the greater part of this was in gifts made by 154 persons in payments from $50,000 and including $1,000, of which latter there were many.

It is interesting and perhaps significant that 105 of these 154 contributors were made by residents of New York City and that thirteen of the remaining fifty were made by persons living elsewhere in New York state.

New England contributed only two of the large gifts, both of them being made by Boston men. Aside from Winston-Salem, N. C., which is a resort for wealthy Northerners and turned in three contributions of a thousand dollars or more, and a single individual in Texas, there appear to have been none of the large donations to the Smith fund from the strictly Solid South, since the one $1,000 gift from Tennessee comes out of a probably Republican state.

There are a good many people who from the first have believed that the singular popularity and political strength of Governor Smith was very largely indeed a New York phenomenon. While, of course much allowance is to be made for the fact that there are many more New Yorkers who are rich than there are rich people in several other large cities put together, it is still permissible to guess that the proportion of big contributions throughout the country and in New York may be a pretty fair indication of the general political trend.

GRAF ZEPPELIN

For the next four weeks the American people have every reason to be busy with their own affairs. They have to pick an administrator for the biggest business enterprise on the face of the earth—the government of the United States. It is entirely possible for them to make a serious mistake—one that will affect adversely their happiness and their well-being over a long term of years.

It is submitted therefore that efforts to stir up a great wave of artificial excitement over the proposed flight of a German Zeppelin across the Atlantic to this country is neither practicable nor well advised. At another time the adventure of the Graf Zeppelin might reasonably arouse a certain degree of enthusiasm. But dirigibles have crossed the Atlantic before and probably will again, with any reasonable amount of luck; and we fail to see any sound reason for getting all stirred up about this one.

Especially is this the case when it is not at all certain that the Zeppelin trip and its tremendous amount of press-agenting are not part of a wave of pro-German propaganda not remotely dissociated from reparations.

If the German airship and its company get safely across they will undoubtedly be received cordially. Everybody will be glad that they are safe and everybody will be friendly and courteous. This is as it should be. But there isn't the slightest sound reason for allowing this to be made the occasion for a lot of international guff and gush, as is evidently the intention of interests on both sides of the sea.

THE WILL TO STOP IT

Five dead, several others very seriously injured, constitute Connecticut's latest week-end payment for the privilege to people of riding out in the most beautiful weather of the year.

The question is not whether this ghastly toll of deaths on the road can be stopped. It is whether the people and the legislative and executive authorities of the state have the will to stop it.

Of course it can be stopped. To admit it cannot would be to admit a state of anarchy.

It can be stopped the same as the sale of liquor could be stopped—if it were the will of the people to stop it.

If it is the will of the people of Connecticut that hundreds of lives shall be sacrificed to what they regard as the "freedom" of the road, then of course authority itself will be helpless. But there isn't the slightest reason to believe that the people are anxious to put their "freedom of the road" before all considerations of humanity, before the life and limb of their neighbors or their own kin.

What is needed in Connecticut is leadership for reform of motoring conditions on the streets and highways of this commonwealth. At present there is none. The interests of the speed-maniacs, the manufacturers and dealers in speed-adapted cars, the builders of state-owned racetracks by courtesy called roads, have so far been paramount. It is high time there was a change.

We shall continue to kill more and more of our people, needlessly, brutally, cynically, till we make up our minds to stop the slaughter. Then it will be stopped. And the people of this state will look back on the present era of highway anarchy with incredulity, as we now look back with incredulity or utter amazement at the burning of witches.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 8.—A member of the cabinet or one of the departmental assistant secretaries can stop to dash about the country delivering rabidly partisan campaign speeches. He can peddle large doses of bunk to the people who pay his salary and speak with little regard for the truth, as many politicians do. And when he returns to his desk in Washington he is patted on the back.

But if some lowly government clerk or inoffensive stenographer wears a Hoover button or a Smith button or drives with a partisan automobile tag, that is quite another matter. The perpetrator of such a misdemeanor is technically subject to discharge for violating the rules of the Civil Service Commission.

A number of classified civil service employees already have been ordered to remove such tags and buttons and 75,000 printed warnings have been broadcast through the government offices over the country. There are about 425,000 civil service employees among the government's 548,000 public servants.

Naturally, the apparent discrimination against the classified employee as distinguished from the officials not under classified civil service has often aroused criticism. But there are important compensations for the former, as has been pointed out by Chairman William C. Deming of the Civil Service Commission.

As long as they function efficiently, the 425,000 classified employees are technically sure of their jobs. The higher executives however, must be prepared to give up their position with a partisan change of administration. The commission has no control over them and they are thus permitted to go out and work to save their jobs in every political campaign.

The commission's rules governing political activities are designed to keep politics out of the classified service. If political activities were permitted, the commission holds, office executives would be able, in spite of the law, to compel minor employees to participate in politics and virtual compulsion would be exerted over neutral employees or those of opposite faith.

In a short time the classified service might be in politics up to its neck. There are plenty of opportunities for favoritism and partiality in the federal promotion system, without adding new partisan complications.

Theodore Roosevelt once held that classified employees should not participate in politics "for precisely the same reasons that a judge, an army officer, a regular soldier or a policeman is barred from taking an active part." As a public servant, he held, such an employee should not turn his official service to the benefit of one of the parties in which the whole public was divided.

Roosevelt's views became a formal regulation in 1905. That rule, still in effect, said:

"No person in the executive civil service shall use his official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with an election or affecting the results thereof. Persons who by the provisions of these rules are in the competitive classified service, while retaining the right to vote as they please and to express privately their opinions on all political subjects, shall take no active part in political management or in political campaigns.

The Civil Service Commission, in its most recent warning based on that rule, held that the following activities were forbidden:

Service on or for political committees, officership or active part in a political club, any part in a political meeting except as a spectator, public expression of political views, offensive activity or party service at the polls, serving as an election officer, writing or publishing political material, candidacy for nomination or election for office, "distribution of campaign literature, badges or buttons, or wearing such badge or button," "distribution or display of campaign 'stickers' or signs on automobiles," circulation of political petitions and political leadership of all kinds.

Congressman Addison Simms of Idaho has charged that these rules made "political eunuchs" of federal employees.

Political activity has in more than one instance cost federal workers their jobs. A large number in the San Francisco postoffice were active in a majority campaign early this year. As a result two assistant superintendents of mails were discharged, seven other officials and clerks reduced in grade, salary or both, and 14 others admonished and warned.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Herald. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

ANY DAY IS FISH DAY

It is probable that over two billion, two hundred thousand pounds of fish are used in North America each year. Even if the amount used were doubled or tripled it is unlikely that the available supply of fish would be exhausted for many years. There are now many Government Bureaus for the purpose of maintaining fish hatcheries to stock the edible fish in the rivers and lakes. This is an admirable measure of precaution since fish form a very valuable part of our diet.

The composition of fish very closely resembles that of lean meat. The average fish is four-fifths water, contains about the same amount of protein as lean meat and, with the exception of salmon, herring and mackerel (fat fish), about the same amount of fat. The protein of fish is particularly valuable because it is free from any mixture with starch.

Fish is rich in potassium, phosphorus and sulphur, but is deficient in sodium, iron and silicon. For this reason a fish meal should always be accompanied by the leafy vegetable foods that are rich in the latter elements.

There is a popular superstition that fish is a brain stimulant because of the amount of phosphorus it contains, but this is erroneous since there is no more phosphorus in fish than there is in lean meat. When buying fish one should avoid using those that do not have a bright appearance of the eyes and skin. The flesh should be so firm that the pressure of the finger will leave no indentation.

Fresh fish is easier to digest than that which has been pickled, smoked, dried or canned in oil. The fish with the finest texture is most easily digested.

The ordinary refrigerator is not cold enough to keep fish for any great length of time, and it is best to pack the fish as soon as possible in chilled ice and keep it there until it is needed. Commercial shipments of fish are usually completely frozen and stored at a temperature of from 5 degrees to 10 degrees F.

Fish is an inexpensive protein food that could be used many times per week. It is likely that if the public overcame the one-day-a-week idea about fish the price would be still further reduced, since there is considerable spoilage with only a one day market.

It is best not to use any starches with a fish meal, but as many cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables may be used as desired. No milk should be used with the fish meal as this combination is apt to be particularly bad.

Questions and Answers

Question: K. H. asks: "Will you tell me the cause of nervousness after doing various exercises before retiring at night? This nervousness lasts only about ten minutes after I do these exercises. Is it some nervous trouble?"

Answer: It is best to take your exercises early in the evening at least an hour before going to bed, or better yet, do them before dinner. The exercises if taken just before going to bed will stimulate you so much that you will probably stay awake for an hour or so. They do not make you really nervous, but simply increase your strength and endurance to such an extent that you feel so much stronger and it is difficult to relax.

Question: D. G. writes: "I would like to know how a person is to know what to eat if he is not sure of what his trouble is, as even doctors do not agree on what the trouble is."

Answer: You will be perfectly safe in following the diet as recommended in my weekly menus which are published in this paper each Friday. Have as many diagnoses made as necessary until you find some physician who can properly analyze your case.

Question: A Reader asks: "Would a continued moderate use of milk of magnesia (after meals) augment the hardening of the arteries?"

Answer: Hardening of the arteries is produced by the deposit of minerals in the arterial walls. The minerals in milk of magnesia can never reach the arteries, as they are inert substances and pass through the alimentary canal without being assimilated.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 8.—In the back of most Broadway theater programs there is printed a department called "The Stagehand Scrapbook." And there, if you read closely night after night, you will find a continuation of the story of how Main Street provides the Great White Way with its entertainment. Glancing casually over a couple of them, I come across these notations, for instance:

Shack Patterson—born in Memphis, Tenn. Graduated from the University of Virginia.

George Houston, son of Rev. Thomas Houston, the blind evangelist and singer. Graduated from Rutgers and taught school for four years. Made his professional debut in Rochester, N. Y., in 1925. . . . There's really more than a passing paragraph in that, it seems to me. Son of a blind evangelist, singing in the Broadway merry serings, surrounded by kicking, gurgling chorines. Oh well.

William Williams—born in Pittsburgh, Pa., and graduated from Harvard.

George Hassell, born in Birmingham, Eng., and graduated from Malvern College, England. Helen Ford, born in Troy, N. Y., and known as the town's musical protegee throughout her girlhood.

William Hamilton—born in India, and graduated from the ministry in the Presbyterian Church at Hamilton College, but turned to the stage. Just a sample there. Every man mentioned in the program a college graduate and two of them with religious training. Yet all winding up, at last, in a musical show.

That's Broadway for you.

Random notes from a Manhattan rambler.—The impersonator of Abe Lincoln who appears nightly in a Broadway chop suey house. . . . Those $7,000 furs in Fifth Avenue windows. . . . And the great array of night schools on the fringe of the East Side. . . . After a hard day's work, hundreds trail in long lines, school books in hand, to learn the language of a new land. . . . No, all girls aren't flappers; nor are all young men sheiks. . . . Thousands toil and struggle to make a niche for themselves in the life of the city.

They work with their hands by day and toil with their minds by night. . . . The great East Side is pouring tens of thousands of our most earnest citizens into the city's highways.

The little cluster of poets and near poets and never-will-be poets that gather around the round table of the Grubstreet Club each Monday night. . . . And read verses which might just as well go unread. . . . Or unwritten, for the matter. . . . Or at least most of them!

Squirrels busying themselves in Bronx park. . . . And the horde of youngsters going about with little cartloads of wood. . . . They are Manhattan's real harbingers of winter. . . . With the first chill winds they are out in the streets until midnight, gathering the boxes and driftwood, chopping and sawing and going from door to door. . . . For official steam heat time is October 15 and wood can be sold to the owners of fireplaces. . . . The little wood scavengers sell their bundles for 25 and 50 cents—all profit, since their wares have been filched from some building under construction or some house under repairs. . . . Just now the new subway keeps them well supplied.

INTERIOR DECORATING: Experienced decorators are at your service gratis, whether you wish to consult them on a single small problem or the furnishing of a complete home or public building.

TELEPHONES: Phone connections with all departments can be quickly made through our switchboard. From points east of the Connecticut river call Manchester 500. From points west, call Hartford 3-4300.

PARKING: We maintain a private parking space at the rear of our store. In addition, there is always plenty of unrestricted space on the wide boulevard fronting our store and the many nearby streets.

DELIVERIES: Deliveries are made free of charge by our own trucks to any city or town within a radius of 50 miles. Shipments to further points are made by prepaid freight or express.

STORAGE: If you wish to make selections now for later delivery, we will gladly store the things you choose in our modern, fire-proof warehouses fully protected by insurance, without charge.

SHOPPING SERVICE: Perhaps you have some particular item of furniture in mind that you have never been able to find. If it is made our buyers will search it out, or we will make it to your order.

FIFTY-FOUR years ago today, in a small dwelling house of two floors on one of the side streets of South Manchester, two brothers began a woodworking enterprise, establishing the furniture business which today bears their names, Watkins Brothers, Incorporated. From that day to this, the management of this ever-growing concern has been in the hands of the Watkins family.

Little did these two boys realize the important part the institution they had founded would have in the making of happy homes. Little did they dream of the leadership it would hold in the furniture industry.

Today, stores large and small, concede that here in South Manchester is one of the finest, most up-to-date furniture establishments in the country, a store that has always pioneered in such institutions as model homes, interior decorating services and an antique furniture department.

Today, October 8th, the actual fifty-fourth anniversary of the founding of Watkins Brothers, and for 9 days following, we will hold our annual Anniversary celebration. "The Cottage" and all the other model display rooms will be redecorated for the event. Every department throughout the store will be ready with displays of the newest Fall fashions in furniture, draperies, floor coverings and musical instruments. Specially priced articles will be on sale throughout the many departments.

Won't you make it a point to visit us on one of the Anniversary days... just to browse around among the new things... or to secure a bit or two of furniture at the special prices, if you wish?

CREDIT SERVICE: The Watkins Plan of Easy Payments offers a simple, dignified way to pay for your furnishings weekly or monthly, while you use them. Ask about this helpful plan.

MAIL AND PHONE ORDERS: Mail and Phone orders are given prompt and personal attention. The things you order from Watkins Brothers will be just as represented in our advertisements and other announcements.

STORE HOURS: Open Thursday and Saturday nights until 9 p. m. Open all other week days from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Appointments for other evenings can be arranged by calling Manchester 500 or Hartford 3-4300.

ANTIQUE FURNITURE: Here at Watkins you will find a large department devoted to antique furniture. We also maintain a repair department for the restoring and refinishing of antiques.

DRAPERY SERVICE: Bring in your drapery problems and let our experts help you solve them. Our competent drapery workroom force does all kinds of drapery and slip-cover work.

54 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

First Glimpse of New Worlds Will Cost 12 Million Dollars

Francis G. Pease, designer of the proposed $12,000,000 telescope . . . making observations with the 100-inch Mt. Wilson telescope, the largest in the world.

By JAMES STOKLEY

HUGE new telescopes, already planned, will reveal thousands of "universes" of stars now beyond our reach. Probably it will not be long—a year or so, perhaps—before the construction of one of these great instruments is actually begun.

Already such large instruments as the 100-inch reflector at Mt. Wilson, now the world's greatest, can reach out and record on the astronomer's sensitive photographic plates objects so distant that their light started on its way millions of years ago when the earth was in the making.

But these big telescopes will not only be useful for revealing heavenly objects now beyond the reach of astronomers. They will be just as useful in revealing the closer objects with a now unobtainable wealth of detail. Mars will be brought so close that the mystery of its canals should be definitely settled when the telescope is first turned on that neighboring planet.

Through the projected telescopes Jupiter will appear greatly enhanced in size. As compared with its appearance through present large instruments, the improvement will be as striking as was Galileo's first telescopic sight of it in 1610 contrasted with the best naked eye view of previous days!

The huge reflecting telescope may seem a modern invention. The fact is that until about 1915 the largest telescope that had ever been made was one built by the Earl of Rosse, an Irish nobleman, about 80 years ago. This was erected, at his ancestral estate at Parsonstown, Ireland, about 70 miles west of Dublin, and had a concave mirror six feet in diameter. Although it was so large, and important discoveries were made with it, it was really very crude, compared with modern instruments.

About 10 years ago this instrument was equalled in size, even though it had been equalled in performance long before. Then there was built, for the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, at Victoria, British Columbia, a modern reflecting telescope, with a six-foot mirror.

This was of American construction, for the mounting was made in Cleveland and the mirror in Pittsburgh. As the Parsonstown reflector had long previously fallen into disuse, the Victoria telescope was thus the largest in the world at the time of its completion in 1918.

It did not hold this position long. The following year the 100-inch reflector of the Mt. Wilson Observatory in California was completed and placed in operation, and since then it has held the record.

In the years since its completion, the two men most concerned with the design and construction of this 100-inch telescope have both been working on methods of making still larger instruments. One is Prof. George W. Ritchey, who built the 60-inch telescope at Mt. Wilson and who made the optical parts of the 100-inch; and the other is Francis G. Pease, who designed the mechanical parts of the latter instrument.

A year or two after the 100-inch was completed, Prof. Ritchey left Mt. Wilson, and went to France. There plans were being formulated for a great telescope, larger than any in the world, that was to be built on Mt. Saleve in the French Alps. Prof. Ritchey was given space for a laboratory at the Paris Observatory, and a large staff of assistants, with whom he began to work out new ways of making great mirrors, as well as new designs for such an instrument.

In the past a mirror has always been made of solid glass. The disc from which the 100-inch mirror was made was, for instance, 101 inches in diameter, 13 inches thick, and weighed nearly five tons. Though it was not a perfect piece of glass, it was used because the makers, at Saint Gobain, France, were unable to cast a perfect disc of the required thickness.

Several attempts were made to cast a disc for the 100-inch. The huge pots of glass were prepared, then poured into the molds, and the cooling begun, only to find months later, when the disc was uncovered, that it had cracked in the annealing.

Finally a disc was safely brought through this critical stage. It was the required thickness, but in casting it, three separate pots of glass had been used. One after the other had been poured into the mold. In this process layers of air bubbles had been carried to the mold, so when the disc cooled, it was like a three-story cake, with air bubbles for the filling.

EVEN though it was defective, the disc seemed to be the best that could be obtained, and so it was sent from France to Pasadena, where the observatory shops are located. The authorities saw the bubbles and rejected it, sending word to Saint Gobain to try again.

Try again they did, and finally did cast a perfect disc seven inches thick, but failed to make one of 13 inches. The seven-inch-thick disc was considered too thin, so the observatory authorities looked at the one with the bubbles.

After tests, they found that in making it of the necessary dish-shape, they would not reach one of the bubble layers, and so they would not interfere. In 1910, under Prof. Ritchey's direction, the work of grinding began, to be completed six years later. Within a few years the mounting had been completed, under Mr. Pease's direction.

Finally the instrument was completed. The time for the first trial of it and the test proved that their labor had not been in vain. Since then the instrument has been in continual use, and with it many important discoveries have been made.

With so much difficulty involved in making the glass for the 100-inch telescope, it became apparent that still larger ones would be nearly impossible. Since that time there have been same size out of solid glass. Thus he could compare their performance. These he made several years ago, and immediately made on them an exhaustive series of delicate tests, which showed that the built-up mirror gave just as good an image as the solid one.

BUT a reflecting telescope is more than a mirror. There must be a mounting for it, so that it can be pointed at the stars, and bring the light rays to the photographic plate. In a large telescope such a mounting is a formidable affair. The moving parts of the 100-inch telescope weigh something like 200 tons.

A larger telescope might be made out of some light and strong alloy like duralumin, which has been employed in the larger and more modern dirigibles. Even so, the mounting for a mirror of 25 feet or so diameter would be rather a considerable engineering problem, though one not more difficult than many that have been successfully solved.

The telescope that Mr. Pease has designed, and which, he announces, can be started just as soon as the funds—about $12,000,000—are in hand, follows the usual principle of moving the entire instrument to point to the star. The mounting he has designed is one that is particularly adapted to large instruments. It was originally proposed some years ago by Russell W. Porter, an amateur telescope maker of Springfield, Vermont.

It has been under Mr. Porter's expert guidance that a large number of amateur telescope makers have arisen throughout the United States.

But there is another way of using a large mirror, and one which Prof. Ritchey thinks to be the ideal method. He has worked out a design for a large telescope which also follows the orthodox method. By the use of new curves that are neither paraboloids or spheres, he has found a way of making the instrument much shorter, and hence lighter, than in a telescope such as the 100-inch.

His ideal, however, is a form of coelostat telescope, as the astronomer calls it. In this a pair of flat mirrors at the top of a tower pick up the light from the heavenly body, and reflect it into a fixed and vertical telescope. Two such telescopes, but using lenses, and not mirrors, are already in use at Mt. Wilson for studying the sun. Another one, also using a lens, is used both for the sun and stars at Potsdam, Germany.

PROF. RITCHEY has designed such a telescope for use with great mirrors. The flat mirrors at the top are much easier to turn than a huge telescope, and so it is much more convenient to use. But one of the principal advantages, in his estimation, comes from the fact that a whole battery of mirrors can be used. Instead of one, as in all present instruments, a half a dozen or so, each with a different focus, and magnifying a different amount, can be kept constantly at hand. Nights vary. Sometimes the atmospheric conditions are such that only a lower power may be used to advantage. Then conditions of almost perfect "seeing" may arise for a time.

With the Ritchey telescope, the highest power could be put in place in a moment, and the fullest advantage taken of the exceptional conditions.

Thus the telescope would always be used at its greatest efficiency. Another advantage is that the observing chamber could be underground. All sorts of instruments, like spectroscopes and plateholders, could be kept at hand like the mirrors, ready to slide into place at a moment's notice.

So far no estimate has been made of the cost of such instruments as Ritchey proposes, but it would undoubtedly run well into millions and millions of dollars. Its cost might even approach the cost of a modern battleship! And how much more useful in the development of mankind, in the extension of human knowledge, would such an instrument be than a whole fleet of dreadnaughts!

Astronomer George W. Ritchey . . . He worked out another method of making big, fine mirrors.

partitions in an ordinary egg box. The tops of the glass partitions are lower in the center, so as to roughly correspond to the eventual concavity of the mirror. On the top he then cements a thin, round, dish-shaped piece of glass of the same diameter as the lower one. The entire structure is baked in the cement, which is an invention of Prof. Ritchey's, and then the top surface is ground to the proper concavity.

The concave surface of a telescope mirror is not round. That is, it is not part of a sphere. Instead, it is what is called a paraboloid, the same shape as the reflector of an automobile headlight, though the telescope mirror is much flatter.

The advantage of the paraboloid, which is made use of in the headlight, as well as the telescope mirror, is that it can bring a parallel beam of light to a focus at a point.

In the headlight, the light starts from the focus, and is reflected to form a parallel beam which can travel much farther than if the light is allowed to spread out, as it would from a bare lamp. In the telescope mirror the light from the star, practically parallel because it has traveled such a long distance, is brought to a focus on the photographic plate, where it forms an image of the star.

Prof. Ritchey's first mirror of this kind, a small one, was made while he was in the United States. In Paris he made one of a fairly good size—about 40 inches—and one of the great improvements in glass making. Mr. Pease thinks that a disc as large as 25 feet in diameter could be cast now.

However, it cannot be denied that the casting of a disc so large would be attended with considerable difficulties, even though they could doubtless be overcome. Prof. Ritchey has therefore worked out another method of making large mirrors. The trouble in making the large discs is to get them of large diameter, and at the same time sufficiently thick. A piece of glass only an inch or so thick could easily be made as large as desired, but a disc so thin could not be used for a mirror. Glass is slightly flexible and it would bend enough to throw the image out of focus when in use.

PROF. RITCHEY'S method is to provide a support for such a thin mirror. He takes a thin, flat piece of glass of the required diameter. On top of this he cements vertical partitions of thin glass in the same form as the cardboard

WHIRLWIND

BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

SYBIL THORNE, Boston society girl, has brought suit for divorce against RICHARD EUSTIS, whom she married secretly, and with whom she lived only two weeks. She has petitioned also for custody of her child, TEDDY, whom Richard has never seen.

The case is replete with sensations, and society is all agog. Much of the drama, however, will be veiled in secrecy. No one will learn of the months when Richard Eustis wooed VALERIE, Sybil's sister-in-law. Nor will it ever be revealed that Valerie very nearly deserted TAD, Sybil's adored brother. But people will surely believe the worst of CRAIG NEWHALL, Sybil's old sweetheart, who has loved her devotedly and purely for years.

Everything is ready for the opening of the case, and MRS. PETERSON, Sybil's attorney, sends for her to give last minute instructions.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The old lawyer surveyed his client appraisingly.

"I've sent for you," he told her unexpectedly, "to talk about your clothes and deportment."

Sybil gasped.

"My goodness!" she said. "What's the matter with them?"

"The appearance of a woman in a divorce case," explained Mr. Peterson gravely, "is of the utmost importance. I do not want you to be too modish. There are jurymen who confuse chiffon hose and lipstick with worse things. Nine men out of 12 on every jury are provincial. Please use very little rouge. No lipstick. And that stuff women put on their eyes—not a bit. You understand?"

"Now about your clothes—a dark dress is best for court. And that black hat you wore the other day—the one with the white things on it—you'd better wear that. It makes you look very young and innocent."

Sybil suppressed a smile. Mr. Peterson was so naive.

"That's all right," he blustered defensively. "You'd be surprised at the difference a thing like that makes."

"Now, you want to remember that your husband may bring entirely unsubstantiated charges against you. Before we counter with one word in your defense, I want you to refute by demure appearance and womanly assurance every charge of disgrace."

"Please for divorce and been entered on grounds of gross and confirmed habits of intoxication."

Mabel Moore was to testify regarding the debauches in Havana that began on Sybil's wedding night, and Sybil's confession of her husband on the night she left him.

Fortunately the San Genito was in dry dock, so that Bill Grimm, a bedroom steward, was summoned to testify regarding the number of cocktails served in the state-room occupied by John Arnold and Richard Eustis.

Various people from New Haven were to be called, and Richard's record, obtained from the probation officer, would stand as evidence in court of his drunkenness and disorderly conduct. His automobile license had been revoked for driving under the influence of liquor.

Mr. Peterson had unearthed abundant evidence of various indiscretions, all admitted by Sybil in the charge on which Sybil pleaded her plea for divorce. It looked as though Richard had not, as they say, a leg to stand on.

And then, like Macchiavelli, hatching machinations, that game man played his rump card. It came in the form of a letter from the man with the ferret face.

"My client begs to inform you that, unless all divorce proceedings are dropped immediately, he will institute suit against Mrs. Craig Newhall, of your city, for alienation of affections asking damages in the sum of $100,000. Expecting a favorable reply by return mail, we beg to remain . . ."

It was the day before the opening of the trial.

Valerie, hurried at the prospect of facing Richard in court, had begged to stay at home with Teddy. Sybil was to sit with Tad and her mother.

"Mothers lend respectability to trials like this," explained Mr. Peterson suavely. "A little gray-haired woman with a handkerchief at her eyes, is an ace in the hole."

"Carry yourself proudly," he admonished Sybil, "but not arrogantly. And when I call you to the stand, smile at the jury. There's a human element that's stronger than statute. You've got to sell yourself to that jury."

Mr. Peterson had exploded vociferously when Sybil showed him the letter threatening suit for alienation.

"The little whipper-snapper! Think he can frighten us that way, does he? Well! I'll show him!"

"But—but—" Sybil stammered. "What if he DID bring suit?"

"No grounds to bring it on, has he? Most ridiculous thing I ever heard of. Poppycock!"

"But I think I'd better tell Craig. It would be awful if Richard dragged him into this. I'd rather drop everything than have my friends involved."

The lawyer picked up his phone. "Get Mr. Craig Newhall," he directed the operator, "and tell him I must see him at once."

"Now, run along home," he told her kindly, "and don't bother your pretty head any more. I want you to be rested and charming tomorrow. Can't you see that this is only a desperate maneuver to rout you completely?" "I'll send young Newhall around to see you, after I finish with him."

"Oh, don't do that," she protested. "He mightn't want to."

It was mid-afternoon, and she and Teddy were scuffling through the leaves under the maples. Teddy's teddy-bear suit was scarlet, and matched the hat his mother wore. As Craig swung up the street he thought they made a very pretty picture. What a shame the whole thing was!

"Hello, Sib, Well, Teddy, old man—how's the boy?"

Sybil greeted him apprehensively. Had he seen Mr. Peterson? Yep—just came from there. Had Sybil seen the errand papers? He extended them eagerly. "Filthy sheets! There, Sib—steady, old girl."

A picture of her on the front page. The one taken the winter she came out. Craig is going mad, taking the day of the tournament at the Country Club. A portrait study of Richard, shirt open at the throat, a cigaret at his lips. Grouped triad fashion. Surmounted by flaming headlines:

"NEW HAVEN MAN ASKS $100,000 FOR ALIENATION OF YOUNG WIFE'S LOVE."

"Craig Newhall Said to Have Stolen Love of Pretty Matron."

"Sensational Divorce Trial Interests Boston Society"

"Richard Eustis Says Sybil Thorne Deserted Him on Their Honeymoon."

"New Haven, Ct., Nov. 2.—Richard Eustis, young man defendant in the divorce case in the history of jurisprudence, defended himself today against charges brought by his wife, formerly Sybil Thorne, beautiful Boston society girl. The case, which is of the utmost importance, promises to attract wide attention. Mrs. Eustis, alleging gross and confirmed habits of intoxication, has petitioned for the custody of Teddy, infant son of the couple. She wishes to restore to her the custody of her child. Moreover, she declares, he was unaware of the existence of his wife until Mrs. Eustis brought suit. The tale of the marriage of the young couple rivals the most lurid fiction. And now the aftermath of their strange union, reads like a movie scenario.

"Mr. Eustis declares that his lovely bride deserted him on their wedding trip. That subsequently—and prior to the birth of the child, Teddy—she was wooed by Craig Newhall, a childhood sweetheart.

"Mr. Newhall, prominent in the political and social life of Boston . . .

"My God, Craig!"

"Oh, Craig, it's awful! Awful!"

"Peterson says he may get in trouble for contempt of court. I can't tell you, you know, to try a case in the newspapers.

"But the harm's done! Oh, Craig, can you ever forgive me?"

"Forgive you, you poor darlings! But I'll write his neck into it. I swear I will. Dragging the baby into it this way. He ought to get shot. It's the rottenest thing in the world. Heaping insults on you. The dirty, lying . . .

A man came down the street with a camera. A huge, heavy thing that dragged one's shoulder down. He ought to give you tell me where the Thornes live?"

"You're from a paper, I suppose?"

The man's quick intelligence took in the situation.

"You said it," he agreed, and hastily hid the plate into his camera.

"I thought so. Well, I'm Craig Newhall, and the young lady is Miss Thorne. The little boy is hers. Now if you click that camera of yours, I'll smash it to smithereens, and every bone in your body with it!"

(In the next chapter Mr. Cranford, the psycho-analyst, does his bit. And the courtroom scene is the dingy courtroom.)

HOOVER HOSTESSES PUT RADIO TO WORK

Washington, D. C.—If you have a radio in your home, you're eligible for membership in the "Hoover Hostesses," a campaign organization that aims to enlist one million women within the next few weeks.

Mrs. Silas H. Strawn of Chicago heads the movement. The sole obligation of members is to give radio parties when political talks are being broadcast, to which they will invite small groups of women.

The Hoover Hostess movement is gaining rapid headway in cities. Mrs. Strawn says, and she is particularly interested now in having it extended to rural districts. Newspaper announcements give the time of radio talks. Other information may be obtained from Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Director, Hoover Hostesses, Western Division Headquarters of the Republican National Committee, 333 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

The WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUMNER

The society columns of the metropolitan dailies inform us that the "social season" is about to begin once more. The "important people" having returned from vacations at the seashore, abroad or in the north woods, everything is set for a new round of entertainments, teas, luncheons and what not.

Nothing sounds quite as snobbish as the tone used by some society editors. There is a bland assumption that only a few wealthy and fortunate women really matter—and assumption that reminds one of the indignation which made O. Henry reply to Ward McAllister's remark that there were "only 400 people in New York who count" with the fibe that the census taker said there were 4,000,000.

Nevertheless, there is a sort of glitter to the items in the society column that attracts most of us, I imagine, a good share of the time. The woman who manages a house and raises a brood of children on the average middle-class salary can hardly help, new and then, thinking: "How heavenly it must be to have nothing on earth to do but, give and attend luncheons, bridge parties, teas and theater parties! And how heavenly not to have to worry about the cost of any of it, and not to have to do any real work connected with it!"

Emerson's law of compensation, however, applies in this as in everything else.

Every large city—New York, being our largest, can serve as an example—has a veritable army of high-priced, fashionable and prosperous physicians. Included in this list are many nerve specialists. Their patronage comes largely from the society women. These women are constantly developing nervous ailments or at least they are imagining it, which is just as bad. They spend huge sums for treatment, and more than one quack rides in a $5000 limousine because he has found how to cater to their desire to appear ill.

All of this simply means that the delightful whirl of entertainment in which these women indulge is not satisfying. It does not make for a happy, contented life. Nervous disorders, real or imagined, arise only from deep inner dissatisfaction and unrest.

A woman who feels that she has achieved something definite and positive may never become carefree, but she at least does not have to conceal her discontent by running to a nurse specialist.

What a vast difference a little sympathy makes especially if it be accompanied by a smoothing of some physical tension!

A Detroit widow, out of work, went to Cleveland with a man who had promised to marry her. He was penniless. After enduring a day and night of hunger and loneliness, she went out on a bridge over the harbor and tried to throw herself into the river.

Frustrated by a watchful policeman, she was taken to the headquarters of the police women's bureau. There, at first, she spurned every attempt to question her on reason with her.

But the policeman in charge of the bureau was wise. She went out and got a tray loaded with good things to eat—a steaming cup of coffee, a plate of bacon and eggs, some crisp toast, a dish of marmalade—and put in on the table in front of her.

An hour later she was herself again.

"What a fool I was!" she said, with a smile. "Now I'm sure that my troubles are behind me. I'll be all right now."

The combination of human sympathy and a good breakfast is hard to resist!

WOMEN'S POLITICAL QUESTION BOX

Q.—Has Mr. Hoover ever expressed himself on the condition and needs of working women? There are about ten millions of us.

A.—Yes, in his speech on labor made at Newark, N. J., September 17. This speech has been printed and a copy will be sent to any reader of this paper on receipt of address. Write to Women's Information Bureau, Barr Building, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Was Senator Curtis a dirt farmer?

A.—Senator Curtis was born and raised on a farm. His Kansas constituents have always been farmers and he knows their problems.

Q.—Where can I get a copy of the statement or statements which Mr. Hoover has made on law enforcement?

A.—In his Acceptance Speech, copy of which will be sent you on receipt of name and address.

NOTE—Questions on campaign subjects will be answered personally if a self-addressed envelope is sent to the Women's Information Bureau, Barr Building, Washington, D. C., and the needed literature will be enclosed.

Madonna Type of Brunette Beauty Should Wear Red

Marjorie Mulhall, Johnston's "Madonna type" of brunet.

By ALFRED CHENEY JOHNSTON

In preceding articles I discussed the Gainsborough blonde and the Greuze brunet. The one I am about to discuss is ageless. She has beautifully defined features, and expression soft as a dove's, and a figure that is supremely graceful. I call her the "Madonna" beauty, because all of the great masters of religious painting, whether Latin or Nordic origin, have pictured the Madonna in this way. She is a brunet, but neither typically Italian, Spanish, French or Irish—but rather a combination of all four.

Such a beauty is Marjorie Mulhall, who poses for many of my pictures. She is about five feet, seven inches tall, has dark brown hair and dark eyes that are very beautiful in expression. Her skin is rich in coloring, with that sun-kissed hue so many girls try to attain by exposing themselves to the elements.

Naturally this type will use only an ochre powder for daytime. In the evenings, the ochre powder should carry a tinge of rose in its foundation to best bring out the beauty of her skin under electric lights. If any rouge is used, it should be more or less of an orange-tinted one, especially for evening. Frequently, this type can renounce rouge entirely and make up her lips alluring but quietly in its stead. Her dusky hair, rich skin, soft eyes and pomegranate mouth are attractive either way.

With an oval face and beautifully shaped ears like Miss Mulhall's, the "Madonna" type of girl looks best with slight "sideburns," the hair drawn back to reveal the ears, and caught in a graceful knot at the nape of the neck. Earrings are always attractive on this type.

Burgundy reds and brighter red shades with a suggestion of blue in their depths are good colors for her. Black and white make a stunning combination, as do orange and brown, but there are very few shades of blue or green that do not have a tendency to make her creamy skin look muddy. Yellows, browns and beige are becoming, but grey should be avoided.

She wears tailored costumes to perfection.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL

by World Famed Authority

TO THOSE WHO CAN'T TELL COLOR OF TRAFFIC LIGHTS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Some people are unable to distinguish between red and green, others between blue and yellow. The common form of color blindness is that involving the red and green distinction.

The blue-yellow difficulty is much rarer. Some people, very few, are totally color blind. They are unable to distinguish between colors, everything having about the appearance of objects seen by a normal person at twilight.

Effect of Shades

In a recent investigation of the subject, Dr. S. J. Beach points out that there is a loss in such persons of what is called central vision. By day if we catch a glimpse of an object to one side we can, by looking directly at it, see it much more clearly. At twilight, on the contrary, it becomes still less distinct to the direct gaze.

Persons with total color blindness see objects as lighter or darker, but are unable to distinguish the shades having to do with the spectrum. Such color blindness tends to appear in families, so that heredity seems to play some part in its development.

Unfortunately there is little that can be done for a person with such a defect of vision. Because they are adapted to the dark rather than to the light, it has been found that cutting down of the light with shaded lenses helps the vision.

Doctor Beach described one patient who was able to thread a needle and do some sewing, the family telling her the colors of the thread which she was able to remember by having each color in a certain place in the workbox. She was also able to distinguish by varying degrees of brightness.

Persons who are color blind are sometimes able to distinguish between red and green signals on roadways through their variation in brightness.

KING AMANULLAH BANNING AFGHAN NATIVE COSTUME

London.—Remarkable efforts of an Eastern King to westernize his people as a result of enlightenment he received during a European tour are described by a correspondent of the London Daily Mail lately returned from Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, the wild mountainous State on the borders of Soviet Russia and India.

Amanullah, the king in question, recently returned to his capital after a lengthy visit to the principal European countries, during which he was received in full state by the rulers and Governments. He is now making sweeping changes in the social life of his country, waging war against the mullahs and other religious heads who would keep his subjects in the darkness of the Middle Ages.

Quit Flowing Robes

By the king's orders, the correspondent relates, tribesmen summoned to attend the triennial Parliament were supplied with frock coats and soft hats to replace their flowing robes and turbans. At the royal wish some of them even were shaven of their heavy beards, a tremendous sacrifice in Afghanistan, where a heavy beard is looked upon as a sign of valor and manliness.

Striking reforms have also been introduced in educational, administrative and other matters, and the Queen has set the example to the women of the country by appearing in public without the veil traditionally worn by women in the East. It is even reported the Queen will shortly announce the intention of the women members of the Royal Family not to wear the veil in future.

European clothes, according to the correspondent, are now made a condition of entry to all functions at which the king and queen are present, including garden parties and fireworks displays. The correspondent paints a delicious word-picture of the scene at the first garden party at which the new condition of affairs obtains.

European Customs

"The result," he writes, "of a clerical assembly," he writes of several hundred of these men from the remote fastnesses of the country solemnly wearing European clothes for the first time in their lives.

"Those present were obliged to observe European customs suitable to their attire, and the police had a busy time preventing them from sitting on the grassy slopes instead of on the wooden forms provided for them. It was the policemen's first experience of anything other than Mother Earth on which to rest but after their first astonishment they readily acquiesced. They did not so readily understand how to manage cups and saucers and spoons."

Another innovation of King Amanullah's is to shake people by the hand instead of allowing them to kiss the royal hand.

SNAPPY CANTALOUP

Cantaloupe is excellent served with grated ginger and lime juice. Serve a slice of lime and fill a pepper shaker with the ginger for serving.

TRAINING VINES

If your vines run along the ground, instead of a brick house or wall, try slipping an invisible hairpin over the stems and sticking it into the chinks of the brick.

COLORFUL BUBBLES

When rainy days come, start the children blowing soap bubbles and then color the soap suds for them. Any gay vegetable coloring will do and they adore bright yellow, red and other cheerful bubbles.

HOOVER RETTES

By Anna Sfeese Richardson

Of all the women in the United States, none faces the delicate situations which constantly confront the First Lady of the Land. One characteristic which has endeared Mrs. Coolidge to women who have visited the White House and women who wish they might meet the President's wife but must be content to read of her graciousness, has been her tact.

It is therefore interesting to discover that Mrs. Hoover possesses the same happy faculty. It was shown just before she and Secretary Hoover left for Palo Alto for the notification ceremonies. Each year the more prominent women of Washington and especially those in official circles give teas for the Women's Press Club. The membership of this club is limited to women writers for the Washington papers and the out-of-town correspondents to read of her graciousness, has been her tact.

About half of the guests had arrived when an odd figure presented herself to Mrs. Hoover, a quaint, elderly woman dressed in the style known as mid-Victorian. She had arrived that morning on a sightseeing trip from a nearby state, had read in the society column that Mrs. Hoover was "at home" that afternoon and ignoring the additional line, "to members of the Women's Press Club," she had decided to have a glimpse of the lady who has every prospect of presiding in the White House. When the wives of officials are "at home" by announcement in the paper any well behaved woman might call, so she understood.

All of which she explained in precise phrases to Mrs. Hoover who listened quietly and then replied that her unexpected caller was quite welcome. Would she step into the dining room and have a cup of tea?

The delighted visitor promptly removed her bonnet and laid it on the piano. Then, having had her tea, she took up her position on a chair near the door where Mrs. Hoover was receiving late comers and watched her hostess with approving eyes.

WOMEN VOTERS ORGAN COMPARES PLATFORM

New Bulletin for October Parallels Subject Matter for Easy Digest.

Those parts of the state party platform which deal with the subject matter of the planks suggested by the Connecticut League of Women Voters appear in the October issue of "The Woman Voter's Bulletin," the organ of the League. Under headings which indicate the tent, planks from Republican, Democratic and Socialist platforms are printed for comparison in paralleled columns.

Planks favoring jury service for women, which has been a major legislative activity of the League, appear in the Socialist and in the Democratic platforms. A plank calling for shorter hours for women is included in the Republican and Democratic platforms. The interest of the League appears only in the Socialist platform.

On the question of state aid for education, the Republicans favor "such distribution as shall secure better opportunities of education for all children in Connecticut," and the Democrats the verbatim statement of the League, "such redistribution as shall secure more equitable opportunities for all children."

None of the platforms include the suggested plank calling for state aid for special classes for mentally handicapped children.

The Republicans, after praising the administration of state institutions, include in their platform the League's plank which called for the "development of a comprehensive preventive program with increased appropriation for state departments and the institutions responsible for carrying out such a program."

The Democrats state that the Republicans have "consistently cut down on appropriations requested by agencies which care for dependents, defectives and delinquents" and that "it would be economical as well as charitable to undertake more constructive and preventive work in the field of public health."

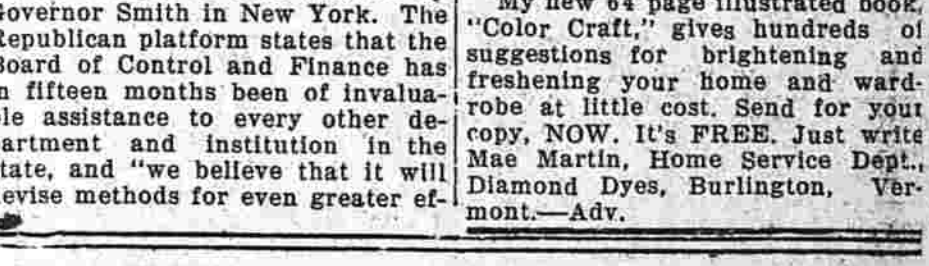

The Democratic platform calls for a commission to study tax conditions and to make recommendations, which was urged by the League. The Republican platform promises continuation of "improvements in methods of taxation."

The League asked for "continued effort to determine what consolidation of departments of the state will secure greater economy and efficiency." The Democrats after stating that there are seventy-nine commissions and boards concerned in the government of the state, pledges itself to work for a re-organization of the executive side of the state on the model of that effected by Governor Smith in New York.

The Republican platform states that the Board of Control and Finance has in fifteen months been of invaluable assistance to every other department and institution in the state, and "we believe that it will devise methods for even greater efficiency."

Nothing keeps you looking fresh and youthful like stylish clothes. And with little money and no ability to sew, thousands of women are keeping abreast of the shifting tide of style. Their secret is the art of home tinting and dyeing, which is made so simple by true, fadeless Diamond Dyes. Dresses, blouses, stockings, and even coats, that are out of style or faded in color, are made fresh and new looking with a few cents worth of Diamond Dyes. Anyone can do it. Diamond Dyes are so easy to use, they never fade. Gorgeous new colors appear like magic, right over the old, dull or faded ones. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is as easy as blueing, and it takes just a little longer to "set" the colors in dyeing. They are true dyes, the kind used when the cloth was made. B. tested covers were exhibited, there was very little competition. C. Daniel Wray, Charles I. Burt, Edmund Horton, Claude Jones and Maurice Keeffe were the principal exhibitors. Wray and Burt received many of the premiums.

Norman Lyman who has been at his home for several weeks of account of an injury to his hand will return to his work in Hartford, Monday.

M. and Mrs. Philip Hubbard of New York City spent the week-end with his mother Mrs. Bertha Hubbard.

STATE COMPLETES LIST OF HOMES FOR AGED

The State Department of Public Welfare has just completed for distribution a list of the licensed boarding-homes for the aged under supervision. There are 85 such homes now in use with total accommodations for 500 people. These homes are an important factor in the social service structure because of lack of capacity in the private institutional homes for the aged. At present, there are 35 institutional homes for the aged in Connecticut with a total capacity of 1117 people.

Hard work is the secret of success, says Henry Ford. Just as we suspected; there's a catch in it.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (410) Our Presidents

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

The war with Spain was brief. It ended in a few months by Spain's giving Cuba her freedom and selling the Philippines, Porto Rico and another small island to the United States for $20,000,000. Before the end of the war with Spain, the United States also came into possession of the Hawaiian Islands.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

There's many a slip 'twixt ship and hip.

SENSE and NONSENSE

"May I take your picture?" ... "Yes," said the voice with the smile, while she tried to wheel her steed into line.

HIS FOND IMPRESSION While man has seven ages, A woman has but three; Her real one, what her friends think, And what she claimed to be.

Bold Suitor: "Dearest, I love you! What is more, I'm going to marry you."

"Why on earth couldn't you jump out of the way of that tractor?" ... "I'd just come out of a movie where they were showing some of these slow-motion pictures."

A local flapper who was out boat riding the other evening said the young chap who handled the boat didn't have nerve enough to even hug the shore.

Health may be purchased But not from a shelf; The price is prevention— Take care of yourself.

Restaurants should be prohibited from serving spinach save on a doctor's prescription. Figures don't lie, but oh you figures!

"Look here, Smith," said the boss, "you and Jones both started diggin' at the same time, an' he's now got a bigger pile of dirt than you have."

Reading in the news dispatches that the milliners' convention have decreed that "a woman must have a hat for every occasion," Old Bill Bezer triumphantly exclaimed: "My wife has had that kind of a hat for the last three years, and it's a good hat yet."

"Are you a special friend of the groom's?" inquired an usher, who had come out of town to help at his friend's church wedding not long ago in Manchester, of a cold and dignified lady who entered the church with an air of authority to sit in a front pew.

Even if the bootleggers should start advertising, they would hardly have the nerve to declare that there was not a cough in a carload of their stuff.

LETTER GOLF

MOCK JEER grid

THIS ONE IS INSULTING

It's easy to MOCK and JEER at one's best golfing efforts, and you don't need today's par six to prove it.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

"The man who works like a horse usually has a stable business."

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The crane soon set the tool box down, and then the bunch saw Clowdy frown. "Now, just what are you peevish about?" asked Scouty.

GEORGE WILLIAMS MAKES UP WHOLE GYM CLASS

Nobody Else Shows Up—Fall and Winter Regular Classes Begin Tonight.

If George H. Williams, well known local clothing dealer, appeared a bit slimmer about the waist line today it was to be accounted for.

Director Lewis Lloyd of the Recreation Centers has organized a special morning gym class for business men, to be held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning from 7:15 until 8 o'clock.

Mr. Williams was the only man to appear. Others had promised to attend, but had misunderstood the hour.

The registrars of voters will be in session at the Municipal building tomorrow until 5 p. m., this being the last opportunity that new voters will have of presenting their names.

Through it is entirely apart from his official duties, Town Clerk Turkington, in addition to his regular work, has been receiving the names of a large number of applicants for presentation to the registrars.

The last previous meeting of the registrars showed 900 names for the to-be-made list. The town clerk's list will almost equal this, as he has about 800 names to be turned over to the registrars tomorrow.

ONLY TWO SCHOOLS UP TO FULL SAVINGS MARK

The race for honors among the public schools in Manchester in connection with the School Savings System was more even than usual today when the summary for the week ending October 2 was announced at the Savings Bank of Manchester.

Only two schools, Manchester Green and South Main, attained a hundred per cent, but all the rest, except four were in the nineties.

Only three schools were below eighty—Barnard, Bunce and Lincoln—but they are trying hard to climb to a more creditable elevation.

FOOTBALL PLAYER IS BADLY INJURED

Stanley Jamroga of Cloverleaf Team Paralyzed After a Scrimmage.

Football, roughest of all major sports, caused injuries which sent two Manchester players to St. Francis Hospital in Hartford over the week-end.

Stanley Jamroga, 23, of 471 North Main street, was knocked unconscious on the first play after being substituted at tackle in the Cloverleaves' lineup against Meriden yesterday afternoon at Hickey's Grove.

Jamroga was injured when a line buck went through his position, tripping him beneath.

When the plans are OK

—building material is the next thing to consider. Lumber forms a big part of the house, and should be selected with care.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

CAKE AND SAUSAGE TIME.

When the gold and crimson get into the trees and the frost lies like snow on the grape trellis, the morning appetite turns, as the magnetic needle to the pole, toward Cakes and Sausage for breakfast.

Lives there a man with soul so dead That he can smell 'em and stay in bed?

Meadowbrook Sausage Meat, seasoned to the thousandth of a degree of nicety, clean as a polished window and sweet as a June rose. It's 39 cents a pound. M-m-m!

Little Crow and Embassy's Pancake Flour. All ready to wet and stir and drop on the griddle.

Pinehurst has a beautiful lot of Stew Meats just now. Call and inquire or call up and do likewise.

TWO CRASHES OCCUR WITHIN HALF HOUR

Also Within Ten Yards at the Center on Saturday Night; No Arrests.

Two automobile accidents occurred last night, within ten yards of the same spot and within half an hour.

Fifteen minutes later an automobile driven by George Edmanston of Quincy, Mass., was struck by a car driven by Frank Heller of 219 Lake street, Manchester.

Heller was taken to the police station and questioned but was not held.
