

OUR TOWN SEEKS PAPER BALLOTS FOR EMERGENCY

Town Clerk Turkington Makes Application for 3,500 So That All Votes Here May Be Polled.

Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington today applied to the office of Secretary of State Francis Pallotti for 3,500 paper ballots for the Presidential election to take place on November 6. Town Clerk Turkington asked for these ballots so that the election officials here may be well equipped for an emergency should Manchester's eight voting machines prove to be not adequate to poll the total vote here.

9,200 Voters

A statute provision makes possible the use of both voting machines and paper ballots in event of an emergency. With 9,200 voters on Manchester's lists it was believed by Mr. Turkington that there was a possibility that a rush of voters during the last few hours of the election would swamp the polls. Consequently he took the added protection of providing paper ballots. Booths will be erected so that these can be used in case the paper ballots are necessary.

Manchester was the first town to ask for these emergency ballots. New London quickly followed Manchester's application and any other town may secure paper ballots if they are applied for by Tuesday before election. This added precaution assures that there will be no danger of a breakdown of the election machinery of the state, according to the Secretary of State's office.

COAST TO COAST RECORD SMASHED

Collyer and Tucker Beat Army Mark by Two Hours; Do It in a Day.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 26—Captain C. B. D. Collyer of round the world fame and pilot of the "Yankee Doodle" monoplane is resting here today after his flight across the continent in 24 hours and 51 minutes.

The huge red, white and blue monoplane landed at the Los Angeles municipal airport yesterday after flying from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Harry Tucker, Santa Monica sportsman and owner of the ship, was a passenger.

The two hopped off at Roosevelt Field, New York at 4:17 p. m., Wednesday to break the coast to coast record established by the Army flyers John MacReady and Oakley Kelly. They made the flight in 26 hours and 50 minutes.

Captain Collyer established a new east to west record, but failed to better its time on the west to east flight, when Art Goebel and Harry Tucker made the trip in the same Lockheed plane in 18 hours and 51 minutes.

The plane carried a fuel supply of 255 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of oil when it took off. The ship had gas enough for another hour and a half's flying when it landed.

"HOOVER IN A WALK" LONGWORTH DECLARES

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House, in his first visit here since the presidential campaign swung into "high," predicted today that Herbert Hoover will carry all of the eastern states with the possible exception of Massachusetts, which he considered doubtful.

"I am confident the Hoover-Curtis ticket will capture New York state," Longworth said before boarding a train for Milwaukee where he speaks tonight. "I made a bet to that effect yesterday," he said.

The one outstanding issue, said Longworth, is "Tammany." "Let the American people see to it that the claws of the Tammany tiger are kept out of the American treasury," was Longworth's appeal to the voters.

JUDGE QUITS BENCH

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 26.—S. Harris Warner today ended twenty years of service in the City Court here and swore in Carl F. Anderson as his successor, and Israel Pollner as associate judge.

DINNER PAILS WERE FILLED

But With Good Old Canadian Booze—Fake Workers Were Rum Runners.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—A story of full dinner pails that has nothing to do with politics was uncovered today.

Observing that many of the "workers" commuting between Windsor and Detroit, carrying dinner pails, were not wearing factory workers clothing, customs officers decided to investigate.

As a result four Canadians are charged with bringing small amounts of rum into this country. The dinner pails were filled with liquor.

Other "full dinner pails" were thrown from the dock when word of the investigation spread.

PHILLY NEXT STOP FOR SMITH SPECIAL

Governor Tired After His Trip Through New Eng- land—Gets Big Ovations.

New York, Oct. 26.—The first phase of Gov. Al Smith's battle for the Atlantic seaboard ended today with the Democratic nominee more confident than ever of the triumph of his cause.

The governor came into his native New York today for a brief rest before venturing out again on the conquest of the seaboard states that mean so much to his candidacy. Tomorrow night he speaks in Philadelphia. The speech is to be preceded by a reception and parade in that Republican city which promises to set a record for Philadelphia.

Democratic candidates for the presidency don't usually speak in Pennsylvania. They consider it a waste of time. But not so with Gov. Smith. He not only doesn't consider it a waste of time but believes he will carry the state ten days hence, notwithstanding that no Democrat has ever carried it for the presidency.

Only once in modern political history has Pennsylvania strayed from the path of normal Republicanism. That was in 1912, the year of Republican schism. Even then Wilson lost the state to Roosevelt.

But Al Smith thinks he is going to carry Pennsylvania, with its 38 electoral votes. His confidence amazes even his intimates. Pennsylvania that was the Vars victory of 1926 demonstrated that it is also independent, as demonstrated by Roosevelt in 1912. But it is also Republican, as demonstrated in every year before and since 1912.

Gov. Smith reached New York at midnight in a satisfied frame of mind.

He was glowing from the warmth of the receptions accorded him all of yesterday through Rhode Island and Connecticut. Certainly no Democratic, and few, if any Republican candidates for the presidency, ever received the acclaim that was given Gov. Smith in New England yesterday.

Big Receptions

From Boston to New York, through the Blackstone river valley of Rhode Island and the industrial cities of Connecticut, enormous crowds greeted him at every stop, and seemed to vie each other with the fervor of their receptions.

Hartford was a miniature Boston. The parade there was more of a riot than a parade, with thousands trudging along in the wake of his car. Police lines meant a great deal less than nothing. Members of the governor's party were mauled and piled about so much that the train finally left Hartford without eight of them. It was necessary to back up three miles before the party could be collected again.

At New Haven, Bridgeport, South Norwalk and Stamford the scenes were relatively the same. The principal difference was that Gov. Smith did not leave his train at these latter points. He simply came to the rear platform and waved the brown derby at the thousands who thronged the station and the adjacent streets to greet him.

Wearied by the continual round of receptions and ovations, the governor planned to sleep late today. Later there will be conferences in his hotel suite with national leaders.

Steel King Is An Indian Now

After the ceremony of opening the international petroleum exposition at Tulsa, Oklahoma, had been performed, Charles Schwab, steel magnate, was accepted as a member of an Indian tribe and shook hands with a princess. Mr. Schwab is at the right. Next to him is Fred Skelly, one of the richest oil men in the world.

Women Visit Monastery First Time In Centuries

Cannes, France, Oct. 26.—Women have just been temporarily admitted into the Cistercian monastery on the island of Saint Honorat, off these shores, for the first time in nine centuries.

Hundreds of visitors have been taken within the venerable enclosure, and because of the importance of this occasion in the long history of the monastery, it was decided to permit visits by women. The strict rule of monasticism will never be lifted again and that a woman's voice will be heard there nevermore.

The monastery was rebuilt little by little around a cloister dating from the eighth century until a few months ago when brown robed monks—those who have not been ordained—began the construction of a new chapel.

A week was set aside for the ceremony of consecrating the chapel, and because of the importance of this occasion in the long history of the monastery, it was decided to permit visits by women. The strict rule of monasticism will never be lifted again and that a woman's voice will be heard there nevermore.

LOANED MONEY WORRIES WASHINGTON'S OFFICIALS

Loans From New York Banks Alone Nearly Five Billions—Fear Too Much Speculation.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—Congress will have plenty to worry about over the brokers' loan situation when it goes into session in December.

Speculative loans from the New York Federal Reserve member banks alone were nearly $5,000,000,000 today, while Stock Market loans are considerably beyond that figure.

For three successive weeks new records have been established, the last jump reported by the Federal Reserve Board having been about $108,000,000.

This tremendous use of borrowed money for speculative activities has come in spite of action in the eastern reserve banks in establishing the highest rediscount rates since 1921, and in the policy of buying to avoid any open market board policies in relation to United States bonds, which would add cash to the credit market.

Probe Ordered

At the last session of Congress when the member bank brokers' loans passed the $5,500,000,000 mark the banking and currency committees were materially disturbed and ordered an investigation. A Senate sub-committee conducted long hearings.

Many Senators and Congressmen felt that the large volume of money going into speculative loans was depriving the agricultural regions of necessary cash, although officials are now inclined to discount this claim. They point out that $2,000,000,000 of the brokers' loans reported from member banks are from non-banking sources, such as foreign capital, surplus money of corporations and other organizations and individuals who desire to take advantage of the high rates in New York.

Draw Bank Money

There is no doubt, however, but that the speculative loans draw a vast amount of money from banks other than those in New York.

SAY DEMOCRATS ARE IMPORTING MANY FLOATERS

Indiana Newspapers Make Startling Statements of Alleged Pre-Election Cor- ruption in State.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 26.—Oscar G. Foellinger, publisher of the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel and Herbert Hoover's Indiana manager, and six other men, including five newspapermen, were subpoenaed by Prosecutor Samuel Schwartz, Democrat, here today to appear in Superior Court No. 2 this afternoon and explain the sources of sensational stories of alleged pre-election corruption in local Democratic political circles.

The stories, written by William Gross, staff correspondent of the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel and reprinted by the South Bend Tribune, alleged that St. Joseph Democrats already had imported hundreds of "floaters" to "swell the ranks of Democratic voters and that more will certainly arrive for duty on election day." The stories also quoted William Bertsch, St. Joseph county Republican, chairman, as saying that "We'll carry the county by as much as Coolidge carried it unless the Democrats succeed in stealing the election from us."

Criminal libel action may follow if the stories are proved true. They fail to prove the charges aired in their stories it was intimated at Schwartz's office today.

Prosecutor Schwartz pointed out that the inquiry might lead to a Grand Jury investigation of the alleged scandalous conditions in Democratic political circles in this county if any evidence of value was forthcoming.

Democratic office holders virtually control the county government here.

In 1924 Coolidge carried South Bend proper by a majority of 5,097 votes and the county by 8,626.

The action of the General Electric Company in negotiating a $22,000,000 contract with the Soviets has led to reports that "big business" will seek the reestablishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia in the near future. Friends of the Republican nominee however, declared he stood irrevocably opposed to recognition until Russia established a government, which would enable her people to maintain commerce with the rest of the world, and until she has acknowledged all outstanding national obligations.

"The Coolidge administration has stood against recognition of Russia until her people establish a government guaranteeing safety of life, the sanctity of private property and private contracts and the rights of the free laborer," said one of Hoover's advisers. "Mr. Hoover will continue that policy toward Russia, if he is elected president."

Some Rumors

There have been rumors in Washington, since Senator William E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, took the stump for Hoover, that the Republican nominee had been recognized by Russia. These rumors sprang from the fact that Borah has been the chief proponent of a Russian recognition and has been a close adviser of Hoover in the presidential campaign. The nominee's friends, however, declared Hoover did not share Borah's views toward Russia. As early as 1922, Hoover stated his views in no uncertain terms and then he declared against recognition.

It seems to be believed by some people that if we would go one step further in relations and establish in Washington the purely political relationship by a Soviet ambassador, Hoover said, then goods would begin to flow—but goods do not flow in an economic vacuum. More political officials will not solve this issue; it requires economic relationships and this requires the restoration of the dynamic forces of productivity and the establishment of security for investment. The foundation of these things must be laid in Russia; it cannot arise in the United States."

Another Speech

On another occasion, speaking against recognition, Hoover declared: "Our citizens naturally raise the question of the treatment of our fellow countrymen who have already invested their savings in Russia, not alone because of any solicitude for the comparatively small amount of such investment, but because their treatment will be the index of confidence to others, and far beyond this, because their lives here a principle to which the American people must need take heed."

"This principle is that unless foreign merchants and investors may enjoy property and security of contract under the terms of the institution by which they acquired them, or alternatively, receive compensation for the loss of them, then the whole fabric of international trade and commerce will disappear and the world will go up in chaos. It is impossible to conceive commerce between nations that is not founded upon the right of property and upon the sanctity of contract. Our only course is to decline political relationships until these things are maintained."

Yours very truly,
HAROLD C. ALVORD,
Treasurer Finance Committee.

ZEPPELIN'S TRIP WEST FINALLY CANCELLED

Seventy-eight Killed In Bucharest Wreck

Bucharest, Oct. 26.—Seventy-eight persons were reported killed or seriously injured today in a head-on collision of the famous Orient Express and another train at Slantina, 100 miles west of Bucharest. The smash-up, which telescoped two passenger coaches and destroyed a freight car, occurred at two a. m.

Among the dead is the director of the Ford works in Bucharest. Others are the Rumanian military attaché in Paris and a French journalist named La Coste.

The dead were in a through sleeper from Paris whose passengers were asleep when the crash occurred.

The task of recovering the bodies and rescuing the injured was carried out under the flickering glare of torches and lanterns. Many of the injured were jammed under piles of wreckage. Some were conscious and their screams of agony and pleas for help could be heard for hours before the workmen reached them.

An investigation into the disaster was immediately ordered. The exact cause was unknown, but it was believed due to a switchman's error.

HOOVER, IF HE'S ELECTED, NOT TO RECOGNIZE REDS

To Follow Coolidge Policy Toward Russia—Soviets Must First Pay What They Owe the U. S.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The administration of Herbert Hoover, if he is elected president, will continue the Coolidge administration's policy of refusing recognition to the Soviet Republic of Russia, until it has acknowledged debts of the old Zaratist government, it was learned today.

The action of the General Electric Company in negotiating a $22,000,000 contract with the Soviets has led to reports that "big business" will seek the reestablishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia in the near future. Friends of the Republican nominee however, declared he stood irrevocably opposed to recognition until Russia established a government, which would enable her people to maintain commerce with the rest of the world, and until she has acknowledged all outstanding national obligations.

"The Coolidge administration has stood against recognition of Russia until her people establish a government guaranteeing safety of life, the sanctity of private property and private contracts and the rights of the free laborer," said one of Hoover's advisers. Bad Weather for Last Few Days Forces Dr. Eckener to Abandon Journey; Guests Disappointed; Air- ship to Return to Ger- many Early Next Week.

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 26.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, announced today that the proposed flight of the dirigible over the middle west had been cancelled.

Unfavorable weather existed again today and, after studying the map this morning Dr. Eckener announced a few minutes after 10:30 that the inland trip was definitely off. He made the decision reluctantly as he had hoped to be able to give the people of the middle west an opportunity to view the huge, silver-hulled air liner which recently made a historical flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst.

The desire to make the return flight to Germany as soon as possible—probably early next week—was an influencing factor in Dr. Eckener's decision.

All in Readiness

A low pressure area over the great lakes region resulted in the inland trip being called off at the last minute last night after some of the 21 invited passengers and guests were abroad. Everything had been in readiness for the flight, food and passenger belongings having been stored in the dirigible.

This morning the passengers were again ready but reports were that the weather was no better and shortly before Dr. Eckener announced that the middle west flight was off some of the passengers began making arrangements to return to their homes.

After informing newspapermen of cancellation of the trip Dr. Eckener went to an office in the hangar to prepare an official statement.

"If the weather is favorable we will start for Germany Monday provided, of course, that the ship is ready," said Dr. Eckener.

The crew of the Graf Zeppelin, assisted by members of the crew of the dirigible Los Angeles, began replacing gasoline with gaseous fuel immediately after the cancellation had called off the middle west flight.

About fifty hours will be required for the fueling and general preparation of the Graf Zeppelin for the trans-Atlantic flight, Eckener estimated.

Guests Disappointed

Many of the persons who had expected to be guests on the projected mid-western trip had remained at Lakehurst for several days and they were buoyed up at the prospect of the adventure. They were visibly disappointed when the tour was cancelled.

Dr. Eckener expressed regret at having to disappoint them but explained that he plans to make several trips across Europe in the ship before the heavy winter storms set in. Such storms usually begin late in November.

Shortly after Dr. Eckener announced cancellation of the Graf Zeppelin's flight to the middle west, he issued the following statement:

Official Statement

"The primary object of the flight of the Graf Zeppelin to America has been to give a demonstration that modern rigid airships can be operated across the north Atlantic and on other oceanic passages with safety and reliability. To accomplish that object, I consider it essential that the return to Europe be made without unreasonable delay.

"We are preparing to show that repeated Atlantic crossings can be made at short intervals and to that end I prefer not to prolong my stay in this hospitable country for more than about two weeks at the present time. I have therefore reluctantly reached the conclusion that it will be advisable not to make the mid-western trip which we had planned and which has had to be twice postponed. The first time primarily on account of cloudy and rainy weather unfavorable for sight-seeing and subsequently because the strength and direction of the wind made it temporarily impracticable to remove the ship from the hangar.

"I bitterly regret the failure to show the Graf Zeppelin to the people of the mid-western cities which have displayed such enthusiasm for the ship and her flight. Our visit to the interior of the United States is postponed, but not abandoned. We shall look forward to making it when our ship has been proven by another round trip over the Atlantic."

STEAL PAYROLL

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Four armed bandits today backed ten employees of the Cutler Deak Company up against the wall of their office and escaped with a $2,500 payroll. The payroll was just being made up when the bandits burst into the office.

ABOUT TOWN

The regular Friday evening class meeting of the Church of the Nazarene will be held this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Fish of 12 Moore street, on the west side.

The Lindy Social club will give a Hallow'en masquerade tomorrow evening at the old Buckland schoolhouse. They will offer three prizes, one for the best costume, one for the funniest and one for the most original. The committee includes Edward D. Hogan, David Dickson, Joseph Wright, Miss Doris Chambers and Edward W. Hogan.

Manchester Garden club members received notices by mail today of an advance in the date of the November meeting, from the second Monday which is the 12th and a holiday here, to Monday November 5. The meeting will be held at 7:30 at the Manchester Community clubhouse and the speaker will be Fred Gross, formerly landscape gardener with the C. E. Wilson nurseries. His subject will be "Fall Work in the Garden." The program committee is composed of W. E. Buckley, George E. Rix, Miss Mary Palmer and Mrs. C. E. Wilson.

Among those going to the Yale-Army football game at New Haven tomorrow are Phillip Nelson, Miss Ruth Holmes, Herbert Carlson and Miss Linnea Carlson. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ballsieper, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ballsieper, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ballsieper and Edward Ballsieper, Sr.

Samuel Richardson of Cooper Hill street has received word from Portadown, Ireland, that his mother is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Flavell who were called to Flint, Michigan, by the serious illness of their son Herbert, returned this morning and report that he is much improved. The telegram which they received conveyed the information that his condition was critical and if they wished to see him alive they must come at once. They left Manchester at 10:30 at night by automobile and made the trip to Flint, a distance of almost 800 miles in 23 hours. Returning their mileage was cut down about 75 miles by a more direct route but they took 26 hours for the trip.

THIEVES KILL WATCHMAN

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 25.—Thieves who stole valuable tools from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway Company's plant transformer building here today killed George Day, 59, night watchman of the building. Day's body was found with a bullet hole in his left temple. Two empty cartridges in the watchman's revolver and a trail of blood led police to believe that Day had given battle and wounded one of the robbers who made their escape in a motorboat they had used to reach the building, which is on the water front.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS

Washington, Oct. 26.—The public was warned of the circulation of two new counterfeit federal reserve notes by Chief W. H. Moran of the Secret Service today. One issue was of $20 denomination on the New York Federal Reserve bank and the other a $10 note on the St. Louis Federal Reserve bank. Neither should receive a careful handler of currency, Moran said.

ANOTHER CHICAGO BLAST

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Two families were hurried from their beds early today by a terrific bomb blast which wrecked the entire front of a building and shattered glass in a radius of a mile. The explosion was caused by a dynamite bomb placed in the doorway of a store which had been used as a soft drink parlor until ten days ago. Walter Hackett, owner of the building, told police investigating the blast that he could assign no reason for the bombing.

NEW NAVAL ACCORD

London, Oct. 26.—England and France may formulate a new naval accord to take the place of the proposals rejected by the United States. It was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon by International News Service. British officials, it was said, are not completely disheartened over the unfavorable reception accorded the Anglo-French naval agreement in the United States and the Washington note rejecting it as the basis of future negotiations for limitation of naval armaments. The American communication, it is understood, is still under scrutiny by the naval experts of both England and France and informal exchanges bearing upon the note are going forward between London and Paris.

GENTLEMEN BANDITS

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Chicago police are today seeking two "gentlemen bandits" who held up and robbed Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, and J. F. Hager, vice president of the bank, and their wives. The hold-up men escaped with more than $2,000 in jewelry from the women and considerable cash from the men. The robbery occurred in front of the Hager home when the two couples and a chauffeur were seated in an automobile. After robbing their victims the bandits locked them up in the auto to prevent pursuit. They were released by a passerby.

MADAM BLUEBEARD DYING IN PRISON

Picture company sought to adapt to a Hollywood scenario, offering Pauline a leading role in the film—the role, which, in act, she was believed to have played in real life. Pauline was alleged to have aided her mother in putting the body of the victim, Bessarabo, her stepfather, in a trunk and in arranging to have it sent to Nancy from Paris.

Shot to Death

Bessarabo was shot to death in August, 1926. The body was crammed into a trunk and put upon a train. The odor of decomposition led to the discovery of the murder before the gruesome consignment reached its destination. Mme. Bessarabo stepped from her salon, one of the foremost of the Parc Monceau district of Paris, into the limelight to be hailed as "Mme. Bluebeard" or the "Female Elandry," the latter because her case followed the guillotining of the bearded slayer of twenty women.

Mme. Bessarabo was arrested. She made a confession, but later repudiated it, Pauline was arrested as an accomplice, but was acquitted. After being convicted on circumstantial evidence and sent to prison Mme. Bessarabo obtained a lock of hair from the head of Elis Carrara, a cellmate, who was pardoned after serving 50 years for aiding her lover to kill a collector. Mme. Bessarabo hoped the wisp of hair would bring her good fortune.

GETS TWENTY YEARS FOR KILLING FATHER

Quebec, Que., Oct. 26.—Rodolphe Perrin, 14-year-old youngster, today was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment at hard labor for the killing of his father April 3, last. He was found guilty of manslaughter.

The boy maintained that his father was killed after a drinking bout at their home in Lotbiniere county by being kicked in the head by a horse.

He sat quietly in the dock, with a sneer on his face, as the crowd sought to prove that he had crushed in his father's skull with a liquor crock. The crock was introduced as one of the star exhibits of the trial. Rodolphe received the long sentence calmly.

SLANDER SUIT STANDS

Washington, Oct. 26.—Following his recent decision that Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, who is being sued for $500,000 damages for slander by Howe P. Cochrane, tax consultant, must stand trial despite his plea of Senatorial immunity, Justice Wendell P. Stafford in Circuit Court today decided that Cochrane's declaration should be amended to state whether the words complained of were "uttered in the course of speech or debate on the floor of the Senate." Cochrane filed his suit at the close of the last session of Congress charging that the Senator had slandered him in a speech accusing him of unethical conduct.

WARD STORE OPENS TOMORROW

New Department Establishment Offers Special Inducements for Event.

The new store of Montgomery Ward and Company located on the west side of Main street near Park will be formally opened to the public of Manchester and vicinity tomorrow. The store hours will be the same as in other stores in Manchester—tomorrow from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. Special introductory offers are made in all departments of the store as announced in yesterday's two page advertisement in The Herald.

F. J. Wilkie is manager of the store, R. J. Farrell, assistant manager, and J. A. Warlow is merchandise manager. All will make their homes here. The rest of the store's employees are largely local residents.

Montgomery Ward & Company opened the first store of this kind a little over a year ago in Marysville, Kansas, a town of about 5,000 population. The opening attracted more than 6,000 visitors the first day and more than 60 per cent. of them came from points far distant from Marysville. Some from distances as great as fifty and sixty miles.

The Secretary of the Marysville Chamber of Commerce in response to inquiries from other towns as to the effect of the Montgomery Ward & Company store has, in several instances, sent the following telegram: "We are of Montgomery Ward & Company our best co-operation, finding to date it has increased our trading radius to forty miles which proves beneficial to any community. Marysville is being visited daily by people whom local merchants were unable to draw until the opening of Ward's store."

When it was announced that the Company would open a store in Arkansas City, the Arkansas City Retailers Association passed a resolution endorsing the Montgomery Ward & Company store as a decided asset to the city. More than 18,000 people attended the opening at Arkansas City and the merchants all reported unprecedented business. Mr. Wilkie states today that the friendly attitude of the merchants wherever these stores have been established is very gratifying. Attention is called to the full page greeting which is addressed to Montgomery Ward & Company by local business houses on page eleven of today's Herald.

REPUBLICANS INVITED INDEPENDENTS INVITED

SPEAKERS
HON. HERMAN KOPPLEMAN
Mr. Koppleman is our Candidate for Congress. He is one of Hartford's leading business men. He has served in both branches of the Connecticut Legislature.

MRS. E. H. T. WALLACE
Mrs. Wallace is one of the leading women speakers in the campaign. She was associated with Mrs. Pankhurst in England's fight for Woman Suffrage.

HON. AUGUSTINE LONERGAN
Mr. Lonergan hardly needs an introduction in this town. Three times our Congressman and now our Candidate for United States Senate. He has a stirring message and you will be well repaid in having heard him. Let us all give him, who has served us so well, a hearty welcome.

POTATO PRICES NOW
LOWEST IN 13 YEARS

In these days of high prices Connecticut consumers will welcome the news that Green Mountain potatoes have reached the lowest level during a period of thirteen years.

This information, furnished by the Connecticut Department of Agriculture, is based upon market reports over a series of years covering the principal markets in this state. Increased acreage and a favorable growing season account in a large measure for this condition.

Of added interest to the consumer is the fact that native potatoes are appearing on the market in excellent condition from home storage.

While fall prices in recent years may not have warranted the home storage of this universal staple product, present prices would seem to encourage a return of this former practice which is merely another example of New England thrift.

It is far better business under present conditions for the Connecticut housewife to purchase for home storage potatoes of known origin, grown under favorable conditions and freed from disease than to experiment with potatoes, the keeping qualities of which are more or less uncertain.

True economy is not always expressed by purchasing the cheapest stock on the market, especially for storage purposes. High quality native stock is at present so reasonable in price that practically every housewife can afford to use plenty of such potatoes this fall and winter.

AD BROUGHT DIAMOND
THOUGH NEVER PRINTED

Advertising pays, is the honest belief of Reuben Bronke, local restaurateur. At 11 o'clock last night he was like the old woman in the Bible sweeping her house trying to find a lost coin, only in this case Bronke was trying to find a gold insignia ring with a diamond in it. He had been hunting for about an hour, he said, when a Herald representative walked in and the sight of him suggested the insertion of an advertisement. That matter attended to Bronke said, "Well, that will find it."

At 10:30 this morning Bronke went into the alleyway to clean up some rubbish he had swept out. There, in a dark, was the diamond, sparkling.

The advertisement was killed but Bronke figures that if he hadn't broken the routine of his night to give the advertisement his subsequent movements would not have been precisely what they were, and he might never have stood in exactly the right spot to have caught the gleam of the stone in the single ray of light that fell on it. Of course advertising pays.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Junior Class party was held last evening in the Assembly Hall. The program committee has planned a very entertaining program. The first number was a one act play, "Mrs. Stubbins' Book Agent." The setting of the play is in the sitting room of the Stubbins and the story portrays the efforts of an author to sell his only work, "From the Cradle to the Grave." The part of the book agent is taken very capably by Carle Cubberly and Harry Howland as "Miss Amelia Maryne" also did a fine piece of acting. The cast comprised the following: Reginald West, Carle Cubberly, Raymond Johnson, Michael Bugchino, and Harry Howland.

Miss Margaret Henry gave a very amusing monologue, "The Party Line." It kept the audience in continual laughter. Miss Henry showed real talent as a reader. The play "College Saps" was next given and the seven male parts were taken all by girls. This play, too, was very entertaining and was well received. The cast comprised the following: Gertrude Campbell, Stella Gray, Olga Haef, Elizabeth Litwinski, Agnes Pongratz, Mary Tierney, Elizabeth Washkeiwich.

After the entertainment refreshments were served and Vic Swanson and his orchestra played for dancing.

A triumphal procession and victory celebration comparable to no other high school celebration of its kind ever before held in this town, was staged last night to celebrate the conquest of the local football team over West Hartford, which gave the local high school the championship of the C. C. I. S. at about seven o'clock several hundred students formed a parade in back of the high school band and made a victory march as far as the Center and then back to the high school. Here the large assemblage was addressed in turn by Principal Quimby, Superintendent, Verplanck, Mr. Lupien, "Jerry" Fay, Coach Kelley, and Captain "Bob" Treat. Flares were lighted and with these as illumination the speakers addressed the crowd from the entrance to the building. The celebration yesterday serves to show that the students of the local high school lack little when it comes to showing appreciation for a team that has done its best to secure a championship for the school.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland and Washington, president of the National League of Women Voters, is to be a guest of honor at the eighth annual convention of the Connecticut League to be held in New London, November 14, 15 and 16. She will speak at a luncheon on Thursday, the second day of the convention, at the Hotel Mohican.

A miscellaneous shower was given last night in honor of Mrs. A. Edward Crawford, of 349 East Center street, at the home of Mrs. Robert Burnham of East Hartford, by friends and business associates in the Hartford Bank and Trust Co., Hartford. About 20 persons were present. Mrs. Crawford was formerly Miss Viola Johnson. The party was in charge of Mrs. Carl Leavack and Miss Gladys Rice. Under their direction the home had been decorated in Halloween style. Mrs. Crawford received a great many gifts.

Mrs. Adam Schaefer of 20 Flower street is confined to her home and is under the care of Dr. D. C. Y. Moore.

The Good Will club, the Parent-Teacher association in the Fifth District, will run a public whist and dance this evening at the City View dance hall on Keeney street. Playing will begin at 8:15. Six prizes will be given and refreshments served under the direction of Mrs. Sidney Hagenow and Mrs. Ernest Jacobs. Dancing music by a three piece orchestra will follow card playing. William Hagenow heads the floor committee.

Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, will hold its regular business meeting in the K. of C. clubrooms in the State theater building this evening.

At the second of the series of whists given last evening at Odd Fellows hall by the Rebekahs and Odd-Fellows, first prizes were captured by Mrs. Clara Ritchie and F. M. Young; second by Mrs. A. Miner and Edward Stein and consolation, Mrs. Ruth Bunce and Andrew Swanson. After the games the committee served saltine sandwiches, gingerbread with whipped cream and coffee. The third whist will be given Thursday evening of next week.

The boys and girls of the King's Heralds at the South Methodist church will have a Halloween masquerade on Thursday, October 26, at 8:30. The social will be in the gymnasium and it is hoped every one who belongs to this organization will come and have a jolly time. Appropriate games and refreshments will be provided and a prize will be given to the girl and the boy wearing the most unique costume.

Raymond Coleman of 135 Hilliard street is now back on his feet after an injury he received in a football game two Sundays ago at Hickey's Grove. Coleman was playing with the Majors team and was carrying the ball when he sprained his foot. The injury kept him away from his work at the Bon Ami plant where he is employed, for 13 days.

A special meeting of Helen Davidson lodge Daughters of Scotia, will be held Monday evening at eight o'clock at the home of Chief Daughter Mrs. Margaret Sutherland, of 163 Eldridge street. The meeting is important and all members of the lodge are urged to attend.

Loyal Circle of King's Daughters will hold a special meeting Monday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. John A. Wood.

The Manchester Green Community club will sponsor a Halloween whist in the school hall this evening, and a dance tomorrow night, with special and appropriate prizes for both events. Mrs. Fred Mohr heads the whist committee and John Boyle is chairman of the dance committee.

Members of the Society Seger are urged to attend the meeting tomorrow night in Orange hall, when it is proposed to revise the ritual.

A Halloween costume party for the members of the Junior department of the Sunday school will be held at the Center church this evening from 7 to 8:30. Arrangements will be made by the Junior Council.

A well set finger wave adds charm to the smart bob. Performed by Mrs. Pettijean's, the wave is an expression of your own personality, as well as the mode.

GLITTERING DRAMA
OF STAGE LIFE COMING

"Hit of the Show" at Circle Saturday and Sunday.

How many people in America realize that behind the pulsing shams of Broadway, there is a heart that beats as warmly as their own?

And again, how many pause to think of the price that has been paid for the tinsel and glitter of one little hour in the spotlights of the Great White Way?

We can safely say that there are not many. Little does an audience know of what goes on behind the curtains of a theater. Little do they know of the hardships that were confronted by their favorite stars when they were striving to reach the top rung in the ladder of success.

In "Hit of the Show" one of the feature films at the Circle Theater for Saturday and Sunday, the audience finds itself placed in the glare of jazz drums and the clamorous applause of a crowded theater. And then at the same time the same audience is taken backstage to where a little dancer is dying because he was man enough to sacrifice himself for the happiness of the girl he loved.

Such is the stirring theme of this dramatic picture of everyday life living in a world of make-believe. They are not any different than their ordinary human beings. They, too, have their joys, their sorrows, and their ambitions. And yet, through their hearts are aching with remorse and grief, these people must face it with a smile, for the world must be entertained.

"Hit of the Show" boasts of an unusually fine cast of selected players including Joe E. Brown, famous stage star, Gertrude Olmstead, Daphne Pollard and Gertrude Astor. Ralph Ince directed.

The associate film feature at the Circle for Saturday and Sunday brings Ranger, the popular dog star, in his latest FBO starring production, "Ranger of the North."

Thrills, romance and laughter are packed into this gripping drama of love and intrigue in the Canadian Northwest. The second chapter of "The Haunted Island," that great mystery serial, and a rip-roaring comedy will round out the program. There will be a continuous performance on Saturday from 2:15 until 10:30 and two shows Sunday evening, at 7:00 and 9:00.

BOLTON

The following children were perfect in attendance through September: Junior Jones, Frederick and Raymond Lewis, Angelo Massolini, Louis Massoli, Edna Lee, Evelyn Lee, Ella Lewis, Laura Lewis, Margaret Massey, Irma Massolini, Josephine Massolini, Irma Morra, Hattie Lee.

Miss Anderson and Miss Boula of the Willamette Normal school are receiving their rural training at the Center school under the direction of Miss Florence Glenney. Mrs. Ruth Welles, music teacher, visited schools in town this week. Supervisor L. T. Garrison visited schools in town this week.

WAREHOUSE OWNERS
FIND LITTLE TO DO

Meeting the requirements of the by-laws of the Buckland-Wapping Warehouse Association, owners of the tobacco warehouse in Buckland, built for storing, storing and shipping tobacco, the majority of the stockholders gathered in the Buckland school building, heard the formal report that the building had been leased and the rent being paid on time, and then adjourned for a year.

A year ago the association tried to sell the warehouse. There were no buyers and the executive body was empowered to lease it, which it did. This lease has run a little over a year and has another year to run.

Clarence Johnson was re-elected president of the association and the meeting adjourned to meet one year from now.

THRILLS AND CHILLS
ON STATE PROGRAM

"13 Washington Square" and "Silver Comes Thru" Tomorrow; Benefit Tonight.

Yes sir, it's a house of mystery, a house of thrills and a house of laughs.

That's "13 Washington Square," the spooky, eerie film starring Jean Hersholt and Alice Joyce, which heads a double feature program at the State theater for tomorrow.

When you're not screaming, you're laughing and when others scream you laugh—both with them and at them. Taken all in all, "13 Washington Square" is as thoroughly entertaining as any picture which has played here for months.

It has its serious moments, of course, and Jean Hersholt and Alice Joyce give two fine performances full of really human touches. Hersholt enacts the role of a picture who tries to rob the house owned by Miss Joyce who believes he is after her jewels.

There is a young couple in love, very capably played by George Lewis and Helen Foster. Others in the cast are Zabu Pitts, Tom McGuire and Jack McDermott. Melville Brown directed the production.

The companion feature at the State for tomorrow presents Fred Thomson, popular western star, in "Silver Comes Thru," a thrilling and powerful drama of ranch life that just fairly sizzles with romance and speed. Thomson is supported by his wonderful horse, Silver King, who needs no introduction to film fans.

Tonight marks the final benefit performance for Stanley Jamroga, injured Cloverleaf football star. The features are Colleen Moore in "Oh Kay" and Rudolph Schildkraut in "A Ship Comes In."

WAPPING

The play, which the Federated Workers are rehearsing is not to be given Friday evening in connection with the chicken pie supper, but will be given later on in November. The name of the play is "Diamonds and Detectives" or "The Ladies Give a Show." The supper will be served this evening from six to eight o'clock, and the menu will include: Fruit cocktail, chicken pie, mashed potatoes and turkeys, salads, celery, relishes, squash and apple pie, coffee, biscuits, nuts and after dinner nibs. The sale of aprons and useful articles will be in charge of Mrs. Albert Stiles and Mrs. Robert Valentine; home made candy, Mrs. Truman Woodward and Mrs. Walden Collins; home made food, Mrs. Walter Foster and Mrs. Edward P. Collins; grab bag for the children, Mrs. Frank Congdon and Mrs. Henry Chandler; entertainment, Mrs. Frank Congdon, Mrs. Marion F. Pierce, Mrs. Clarence W. Johnson and Mrs. John A. Collins. Watkins Brothers of Manchester will provide an Orthophone to provide instrumental music during the evening.

At a meeting of the Federated Church held at the close of the church service last Sunday morning, they voted to accept the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Truman H. Woodward, to take effect the first of December. A meeting of the committee of six was called for Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. W. W. Grant.

There were thirty six new voters made last Saturday at the town hall in South Windsor. This was the last opportunity before the presidential election.

The Pleasant Valley Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Thoresa Grisel of Long Hill street on Wednesday afternoon. Last year the club took in from food sales and whists, six hundred dollars, with expenses of three hundred, leaving a balance of three hundred for the treasury.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Burnham returned recently from a trip through southern Vermont.

The town of South Windsor has been laying walks at the Pleasant Valley school house recently which will be greatly appreciated by teachers and pupils.

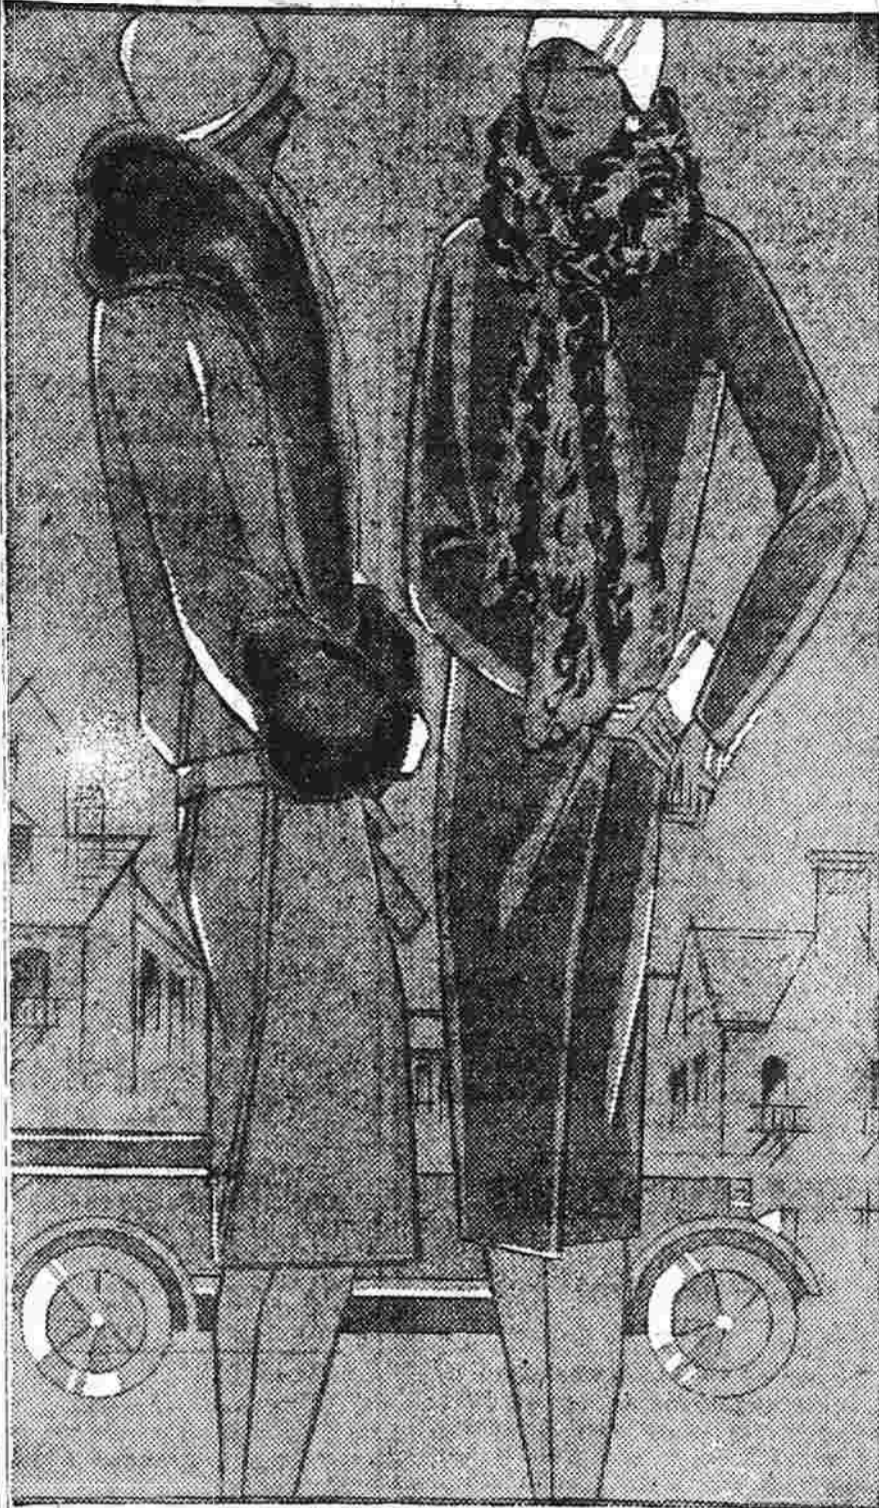

At the Democratic caucus held last week Friday evening at the town hall, Frederick C. Jones, was nominated for representative, John F. Riordan and Edward Carney for Justices of the Peace.

P. J. Ahern of South Windsor has been visiting his daughter, in Newark, N. J.

TWO WIVES DIVORCED FROM SAME HUSBAND

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 26.—Strange marital ties were dissolved by Judge E. L. Dickenson, in Superior Court here today when he granted decrees of divorce to Helen Hayes Chandler and Marie Louise Chandler, freeing them of the same husband, one Powell Chandler, now of parts unknown. During the course of the hearing Judge Dickenson was shown evidence that Powell Chandler had previously married a woman in Dulwich, England.

According to the testimony Helen Hayes married Chandler on May 25, 1921, Marie Goodman married him on June 25, 1925, and the woman in England married him on April 21, 1900. Judge Dickenson gave Mrs. Hayes Chandler the custody of two minor children and Mrs. Marie Goodman Chandler the custody of one minor child. Both women asked the right to keep the name of Chandler.

Judge Dickenson also granted a divorce to Vincent Libonati from Jane Barbour Libonati who were married on October 3, 1923. The plaintiff charged that his wife later went through a marriage ceremony with Carroll E. Van Scoy, on June 4, 1927.

PROVIDE FOR CHILDREN AFFECTED BY DIVORCE

Ipswich, Mass., Oct. 26.—Records at the town clerk's office here today disclosed that before their marriage yesterday Frederick B. Patterson, millionaire head of a nationally known cash register company and Mrs. Arnela Wood Gorman submitted affidavits that the five small children affected by the divorce were properly provided for.

Patterson, it was learned, filed papers showing that he had settled a sum on the young wife who divorced him in lieu of alimony and for the support of their two adopted daughters.

The amount of the settlement was reported to have been large, perhaps in the millions, in order to take care of the property rights of the first Mrs. Patterson as stated by an affidavit by Judge Arthur Mackey, of Dayton, Ohio. The affidavit which Mrs. Gorman filed before receiving a license to wed Patterson recorded her divorce from E. J. P. Gorman, of Dayton, and added that the Gormans executed a written agreement as to the custody and care of their children a small girl and two boys. The Gormans had been close friends of the Pattersons in Dayton.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Friday, October 26.

"I Wish I Were Single Again," a comedy solo by Ed. Pickard, and the versatile Pickard family, will be a feature of the program to be broadcast through WJZ and associated stations at 8 o'clock Friday night. "Steamboat Bill," the song story of the race between Robert E. Lee and Stacey Lee, will be presented by the entire ensemble of the Pickard family. "Smoky Mokes," a characteristic cokes-walk of the South; "Sounds From Home," a medley of reels, familiar, gay, fascinating and a brilliant minuet by Severac will be played by the orchestra group. "Does the Woman Pay? Nay?" is the title of this week's comedy musical presentation by Larry Eriery. Tunes of the trope to be broadcast through the WEAF chain at 9:30. Other features for the same time will be a Navy Day program through WOC and a fourth anniversary celebration through WGBS at 9:30. In the latter program will be presented famous celebrities of the Great White Way. Ten o'clock will find the Caldwell Family phony orchestra in charge of the microphones of WSM and one hour later WEAS listeners may tune in songs by the Presbyterian Church choir. A late highlight well worth staying awake for will be the program by the Pullman Porters male quartet with Con. Sanders. Nightingales through WEN-WEBS at 12:15. Early evening features will be broadcast through WJZ at 7, WYAC at 7:30, and WJWL at 7:45.

Black face type indicates best features.

MENUS For Good Health

A Week's Supply Recommended By Dr. Frank B. McCoy

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Oct. 28.

Sunday

Breakfast—Coddled eggs, Melba toast, apple sauce.
Lunch—Combination vegetable salad of lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers and celery, glass of sweet milk.
Dinner—Roast pork, mashed turnips, spinach, salad of head lettuce, Jello or Jell-Well, no cream.

Monday

Breakfast—Oatmeal, cooked at least one hour and served with butter or cream, but no sugar.
Lunch—Cooked string beans, buttered beets, raw celery.
Dinner—Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, cooked celery, steamed carrots, McCoy salad, prune whip.

Tuesday

Breakfast—French omelet, waffle (browned through), dish of berries (canned).
Lunch—Potato soup, cooked beet tops, salad of cold cooked asparagus.
Dinner—Roast beef, cooked string beans, baked egg plant, salad of molded vegetables (celery, string beans, cucumbers), peach whip.

Wednesday

Breakfast—Wholewheat mush with milk or cream, baked apple.
Lunch—Cooked lettuce, cooked salad.
Dinner—Mushroom soup, broiled lamb chops, cooked okra, cauliflower salad, pear sauce.

Thursday

Breakfast—Poached eggs on Melba toast, stewed figs.
Lunch—Wholewheat bread and peanut butter sandwiches, combination salad (lettuce, celery, cucumbers).
Dinner—Jellied tomato consommé, baked sea bass, spinach, cooked celery, salad of sliced tomatoes, no dessert.

Friday

Breakfast—Re-toasted breakfast food, with milk or cream, stewed prunes.
Lunch—Oranges or apples as desired.
Dinner—Vegetable soup, broiled steak with mushrooms, stewed tomatoes, salad of celery and ripe olives, pineapple gelatin, with cream.

Saturday

Breakfast—Poached eggs on Melba toast, stewed figs.
Lunch—Wholewheat bread and peanut butter sandwiches, combination salad (lettuce, celery, cucumbers).
Dinner—Jellied tomato consommé, baked sea bass, spinach, cooked celery, salad of sliced tomatoes, no dessert.

CELERY AND NUT SALAD

Slice celery in quarter inch pieces. Mix with the desired quantity of chopped nuts that have been roasted in a pan in the oven until brown. By this process, much of the protein is destroyed, leaving behind a flavoring mixed with the dextrose which is very agreeable to the taste, and is a food which may be used with almost any meal. Heap the celery and nut mixture on beds of shredded lettuce. The addition of chopped parsley adds a pleasing taste.

SHOCKING TO PESTS

London. — A new electrically charged plow is claimed to be death to pests and a boon to crops. Experiments show that as the two blades of the plow pass through the soil, an electrical field is created, which kills insects and weeds and puts nitrogen into the soil.

SIT NOT TOO SOFT

It is well for the prospects of Mr. Hoover and Republican tickets generally, throughout the country, that this campaign has been fought and is being fought with more energy almost everywhere else than in Connecticut.

The World war has been called "an enlisted man's war," the meaning of the phrase being that, to an extent greater than ever before known, it was carried on by conscripts and private soldiers. So far as the Republican side of it is concerned, this campaign is being carried on, in Connecticut, very largely by the newspapers and the individual voters. There has been a conspicuous paucity of visible effort on the part of party leaders who might have been expected to be in the battle up to their necks.

There is no imaginable reason for this lack of activity aside from a smug and lazy confidence born of many easily won victories and the feeling that the party's huge Connecticut majorities in recent national elections provide a safe cushion against any possible assaults. This sort of confidence has lost more than one prize-fight, one horse-race and one election.

Right here in Manchester, for example, there has not been a single general Republican rally—and so far as known there is no intention to hold one. The machinery of campaign management is running smoothly enough, no doubt. But it is running on anything but a wide-open throttle. It needs more gas. The crucial week of the campaign lies ahead. There is still time to stir up a little enthusiasm. And enthusiasm is needed if every Hoover vote, potential in Connecticut, is to be polled on election day. Perhaps not every last Republican vote will be needed to keep this state in the Republican column, but be assured that every last one will be needed in order to give Hoover a majority like that given four years ago to Calvin Coolidge. And no human knowledge is great enough to be absolutely sure that that last Republican vote might not be needed to carry the state at all.

SMITH'S FLIT

This is a new kind of campaigning that Governor Smith has been doing in New England—new to this section and new, as a fixed campaign policy, to the country—this system of voiceless parades of a candidate, of bowing and smiling from a vehicle, of waving of a distinctive style of hat, of the smoking of endless cigars in public; of uttering no word whatever on these occasions.

We have no criticism whatever to make of this kind of campaigning but we have been wondering what, if anything, is its significance; what, if any, is its election day worth. It is not as if the sight of a candidate carried the value that it would have carried thirty years ago, because it does not. The movies have made the actual appearance of both the Presidential candidates, as familiar to the whole nation as is that of the village constable to his fellow citizens. Not one person in the crowd that greeted Governor Smith at Hartford yesterday beheld a stranger. Nor is it as if the people sought to receive from the candidate some special political message of peculiar application to their peculiar needs. There was to be no message and they all knew it.

Nor was it to be expected—nor in all probability did the Democratic managers hold any such expectation—that the personal sight of Governor Smith and Mrs. Smith would cause a single Hartford Republican to change his political views and his vote.

Yet we are far from convinced that this kind of campaigning is without its strategic value. For the simple reason that it stirs up enthusiasm, makes for that indescribable but very real factor which, in warfare, has so much to do with the winning or losing of campaigns and wars, and which for want of a better term is called morale.

You can't make rock candy without a string for the sugar crystals to gather on. It is difficult to crystallize the fighting spirit of the masses of a political party without a tangible core.

There isn't a question that the mere appearance of Governor Smith on the streets of Hartford and on the car platform in the towns of the Naugatuck Valley and the western Sound shore, yesterday, added something to the spirit of regimentation among Connecticut Democrats. The question, of course, is, How much?

Not enough, we should guess, to materially affect the result of the election a week from Tuesday. Not enough to endanger the status of Connecticut as a safely republican state—there were too many Hoover buttons in the Hartford street crowds, too many tolerant smiles on manifestly Republican faces, for any implication that a brown derby, waved, will convert anybody. But enough, we should say, to convey the message to the Republican party of Connecticut that on election day what Smith Democrats there are in Connecticut will be extremely likely to get to the polls, somehow or other and vote for the last man and woman.

The Smith adventure in Connecticut may seem inadequate in many ways. But at least it was a better gesture than any made in this state by the Republican campaign managers. The waving of the brown derby at any rate made enough of a swish in the air to wake up the sleepers.

NOW AND THEN

The following paragraph is taken from the stenographic report of Gov. Smith's Chicago speech on October 19:

"Back in 1925—you know men will talk when Presidential elections are away off, that is a great habit of public men—in the year following the national contest, when everything is settled for four years, that is the time they do the talking. That is the time, to my way of thinking, that they say what they really mean."

Governor Smith is a public man. With the "great habit of public men" he is apparently not now saying what he really means, because the country is in the midst of a Presidential contest. Applying this to the tariff in particular, to ascertain Governor Smith's real tariff attitude and convictions, it is necessary to go back to a time when the Presidential elections were "away off." The year 1922 would seem to be such a time, for so far as Governor Smith is concerned a Presidential election was then six years off. On November 2 of that year, in a speech at Stapleton, New York, Governor Smith is on record on the tariff with the following question and answer:

"What is the truth about the tariff? The fact is that it is a cold-blooded and deliberate holdup of the whole American people in the interest of the few who were only too well represented in Washington. Upon the theory that it will produce revenue to the government $400,000,000, it exacts from the pocketbooks of the people least able to bear it an annual tax of $4,000,000,000. The difference between these figures represents the profits of the special interests that had their affairs cared for in the writing of the schedules."

Remember—"that is the time they do the talking. That is the time to my way of thinking, that they say what they really mean." So says the governor. He ought to know.

NAVAL ARMS

It now develops that the only sinister thing about the secret tentative military-naval agreement between Great Britain and France was its secrecy. Apparently the pre-war habit of stealthy diplomacy was so strongly entrenched in official minds in both France and Britain that they reverted to it out of sheer instinct, for there is nothing in the so-called agreement that couldn't have been broadcast. France grants that reserve troops shall be counted in negotiations looking to limitation of land forces. Britain, in return, yields to France's insistence that naval limitation shall be as to total tonnage instead of to tonnage by classes.

The two nations have agreed or promised to work together on such a basis in future international conferences on disarmament. That's about all there is to an incident the significance of which has been a hundred times exaggerated.

There is a disposition in this country to sneer at the agreement as of no account because it does not meet the American position on naval arms limitation. We hear it altogether too often said, "We are not likely to alter our position." That is an arrogant attitude. There is no use in talking about disarmament if, in advance, it is settled that the conference must end in everybody yielding to us or else in failure.

It is our considered belief that if Herbert Hoover is elected President of the United States on Nov. 6 this government will assume a very different position from that Hoover has proven himself one of the greatest negotiators in the world. He has won some miraculous victories. He never did it by notifying the other parties in advance that there was no use in sitting down to the conference table unless they were prepared to give him his way in all details.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

RINGWORM

It has been estimated that practically one half of the adult population of the United States has had ringworm sometime during life. This is a popular name for several diseases of the skin caused by small vegetable fungi or molds.

All forms of ringworm are very contagious and are easily transmitted from one person to another. These diseases are frequently found on cats, dogs, cattle, and birds, and are sometimes conveyed, by handling, to humans.

The ringworm of the foot is a frequent occurrence wherever people use common dressing and bathing rooms. Infected premises should be thoroughly scrubbed with some powerful disinfecting agent. Ringworm of the body is easily cured by the use of a cleansing diet to clear up the condition of acidosis which is always present and painting the infected area night and morning with a solution of silver nitrate, iodine or mercuric bichloride.

Ringworm of the body usually begins with a small patch which spreads out in a circle, with a red, scaly margin. The skin toward the center of the patch may have partly recovered and appear normal. This gives the disease its characteristic ring-like form.

Persons with thin, light hair are much more susceptible to ringworm of the scalp than are brunettes. This form of the disease usually only occurs to children under the age of fourteen, and is frequently carried from one child to another by combs, brushes, and hats.

Ringworm of the beard, or barber's itch, is frequently conveyed by means of the common lather brush used in barber shops. Many boards of health now insist on a thorough sterilization of all brushes and utensils used in barber shops. This ringworm of the beard produces great irritation, and each hair is surrounded by a small capsule of pus.

The fingernails are sometimes attacked by ringworm parasites and become discolored, thin and brittle. When this parasite attacks scalp, beard and nails, it is much harder to eradicate than when the body is attacked, and a course of many months or years of treatment may be necessary. The hair should be cut short and the affected area treated carefully.

Only those children who have been fed on improper combinations develop ringworm. In the rare cases where close physical contact with another child suffering from ringworm produces the disease, the ringworm on the child with healthy blood usually quickly disappears.

Unless the systemic condition is removed by diet, the disease although cured in one place, will usually reappear in another.

Questions and Answers Question: Mrs. L. A. asks: "Could you please tell me what causes cold hands and feet? My hands and feet are cold in even the warmest part of the summer. Is there a cure for this?"

Answer: You undoubtedly suffer from defective circulation. I would advise you to take additional exercise, especially systematic calisthenic exercises for all of the muscles of the body. This, of course, increases the flow of blood to the extremities, and should overcome your tendency to cold hands and feet.

Question: Mrs. B. V. writes: "My child who is just of school age likes orange juice every morning. Is it best to put a little sugar and water into it, and how long should she have it before milk and cereal?"

Answer: It is all right to take pure orange juice a half hour before breakfast, but no sugar or water should be added. Use only whole grain cereal and season it with cream—and again, no sugar!

A silk stocking was used by a Kansas woman to hane herself, but unfortunately the manufacturer can't use the incident in his advertising notes.

This is the first of several stories outlining the political situation in various sections during the closing days of the campaign.

By RODNEY DUTCHEK.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Maine has 6 electoral votes, New Hampshire 4, Vermont 4, Massachusetts 18, Rhode 5 and Connecticut 7.

Herbert Hoover will carry Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. But Alfred E. Smith is giving him a hard a hard fight for New England's remaining 30 votes, hoping to beat down Hoover's victories in the townships with heavy city majorities. On the eve of Smith's personal visit to this battleground it appeared that the Democratic candidate had a slight edge in Rhode Island, that Hoover had the better chance in Connecticut and that Massachusetts was a horse race.

If Smith has any chance at all in the first three states mentioned it lies in New Hampshire. But it is not a bright chance and the Democrats will be surprised if they win the state of Senator George Moses.

Massachusetts is one of those states which Smith is almost compelled to win if he is to be elected. It is much easier to imagine Hoover winning it, although his managers have done plenty of worrying there.

The Republicans count on the villages and small towns to vote more heavily than ever for their candidate, spurred by the issues of religion and prohibition. The impossibility of determining the strength of the wet vote and the dry vote and counting in the effect of religion is the principal reason why political experts are all puzzled about Massachusetts.

The Bay State in 1924 gave Coolidge a majority of 28,000 over the combined Davis and LaFollette vote. Since that time conditions affecting a presidential election have changed, so that no majority of anywhere near such proportions is in sight this year. Among the factors encouraging Democrats are the continued depression in the textile industry; the strength of Senator David I. Walsh, who is up again for reelection after losing President Coolidge's friend, William M. Butler, in 1926; the fact that many voters are immigrants or children of immigrants, and some Republican factional strife.

The Democrats were careful to nominate a Protestant for governor, inasmuch as Smith and Walsh are both Catholics. The population of the state is more than a third Catholic and the Democrats claim that they will have this year the normally Republican vote of the Italian, French and Portuguese elements, because the religious issue was promoted against Smith.

Forty Harvard professors, including Felix Frankfurter and F. W. Taussig, have declared for Smith. It does not appear that President Coolidge's influence in his own state will have any great effect on the result.

Such factors as these, favoring Smith, must be cited in order to show how he can hope to overturn normally large Republican majorities. The Republicans reply that many wets will vote for Hoover, that the G. O. P. is experienced in holding the foreign vote in line and that the women and the churches can be depended upon to get out an enormous vote against Smith.

Basic conditions in Rhode Island and Connecticut are not dissimilar from those in Massachusetts. Over a third of Connecticut's population is Catholic and nearly half of Rhode Island's. The tariff is an important issue in these states as well as in Massachusetts.

Rhode Island is wet. No state has a larger proportion of immigrant stock. Congressman Monast is quoted as telling a Republican group that "the Democrats can't give us better beer than we are getting today." The Democratic answer seems to be that the price is too high.

The Democrats have nominated a candidate of French descent for governor and the Republican answer is to oppose Senator Peter Gerry. Senator Metcalf and Fred Peck are fighting each other for control of the G. O. P. organization. The French vote probably will decide the fight between Smith and Hoover. Rhode Island is normally Republican in presidential elections by about 35,000. Meanwhile, Democrats expect Smith's New England trip to cinch the state for him.

Republicans are counting on the small town vote to hold Connecticut by 136,000 in 1924. The state is regarded as leaning to Hoover.

National Committeeman J. Henry Rohrbach, who opposed Hoover before the Kansas City convention, appears still in full control of the state machine and anxious to carry it for the national ticket.

Democratic Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy and Augustine Longeman to nominate Smith against Senator McLean this year, but both are strong admirers of Smith and are working hard for him.

Manchester Plumbing & Supply Co.

877 MAIN STREET

South Manchester, as a trading center

In 1895 the writer established the first store in South Manchester, devoted exclusively to Hardware. Even back in those days, South Manchester enjoyed an enviable reputation as a trading center and a home market for the products of the outlying communities. Since that date our commercial and business interests have made steady progress, from a few scattered stores on our Main Street, today we have a central business district entirely built up with modern business and office buildings for a distance of approximately one mile.

As I look back over this period of expansion I ask myself, have the merchants of South Manchester, fulfilled their full obligations to the community they serve, have they rendered full service to the people (their customers) who made this growth and business expansion possible? Have we fulfilled our full mission, and are we entitled to the continued confidence and patronage, as in the past?

Speaking for my own business interests, have we rendered to our many friends that have trusted their business to us, a brand of real service? Have we at any time failed to correct a mistake or to adjust any unsatisfactory purchase, during the many years of our business relations? Have we made of our store a friendly store — one that evidences a spirit of friendliness and fair play? We welcome criticism and want our friends to tell us wherein we have failed of this right spirit.

South Manchester is entering a new era as a Trading Center. Our Merchants can supply every want. The Manchester Plumbing & Supply Company desires to extend their welcome to Montgomery Ward & Co. and to co-operate with them and our other merchants as well, to make South Manchester the premier Trading Center of Connecticut.

a 4-foot board

that will save you $200 in paint costs

MAKE this test before you buy: Take two ordinary 4-foot boards. Measure out into a clean cup one ounce of Bay State Liquid Paint—and then into another cup one ounce of ordinary house paint. Apply with separate brushes—and see which cup of paint will spread and cover properly the most surface.

Right before your eyes you'll see demonstrated Bay State's wonderful spreading and covering ability. For it will paint—and paint thoroughly—from 25% to 33 1-3% more surface.

In addition—we guarantee right now that Bay State will wear from two to three times as long as ordinary paint. Do you wonder that people who buy Bay State from us always come back for more?

Whether you're painting your house or lacquering a chair, there is a Bay State Paint and Varnish Product especially designed for that particular job—and perfected in the great Bay State laboratories to do that job as well as it can be done. Come in and let us demonstrate them for you.

MADDEN BROTHERS
COR. MAIN ST. AND BRAINARD PLACE, SOUTH MANCHESTER

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 26.—There are hundreds in New York who commercialize their failures.

In most places, particularly small towns, a failure is something to weep about, to bring a sense of shame and to cause a hanging of the head. True, Manhattan has its quota of men who and their lives after a heavy Wall Street defeat. But a singular number trade upon failure as a means of returning to success.

One bright gentleman lectures a business class on failure. Whereas the market is full of "success" lecturers, this man gives advice on how to keep from failing and uses his own life as a "horrible example." He does very well at it, too.

A few years ago a prominent Broadway producer found himself in a not unfamiliar situation—that is, not unfamiliar to producers. He was without money. He bought up large advertising space in the newspapers on borrowed money. He berated the methods in vogue for raising money for theater productions. He told of his failure due to exorbitant rates of interest and pressure from business sources. He appealed to the public to invest in a future production.

And out of failure came success. That producer now puts on extravagant productions from time to time.

A man who had been wrecked in Wall Street immediately turned his losses into gain by writing a book on inside Wall Street methods. Its appeal was so general, and it was so successful that he began to cash in on advice to "suckers."

A Broadway playwright, failing to attract crowds to his theater, appeared in the bright lights belt wearing a sandwich sign to attract attention.

Defeated champions open classes in boxing, tennis or golf. Jack Dempsey and a score of others have cashed in, despite defeat, by going on the stage or into the movies. Any number of teachers of professions, from journalism to law, are men who didn't do particularly well in those professions. Two of the most successful I know would have difficulty getting a job.

Failure, then, can be an excellent lesson, an accident or a turn of Fate's wheel—it is, in no sense, indicative of an individual's end. Perhaps 80 per cent of Broadway's theater folk fall at some time or other, dropping fortunes in a single production. But they're back for more.

Arthur Hopkins is a classic example. Perhaps the finest producer in New York, he has taken many a licking in the interest of art. A couple of seasons ago his "Jazz Opera," "Deep River," dropped something like $150,000 in an already bad season. Hopkins was not heard from for the rest of the year. Some Broadwayites went so far as to say this "hop" would finish him. But he was back last year with "Paris Bound" and "Burlesque," both of which were fortune makers.

George Tyler, after a couple of hard raps, bethought himself of the audiences in the rest of the country, and, getting together a cast of actors whose reputations had once headed the theatrical list, he sent them on a tour in a series of revivals. The venture was highly successful.

Of all the players in or out of Broadway, the only one I know who has never tasted of failure is Ina Claire. She is known as the "success girl." This is largely due to the fact that she insists on personally going over the manuscripts of plays in which she is to appear. Her judgment on public taste is said to be uncanny. Her insistence has led to many arguments and to the sacrifice of excellent roles. But she'd rather wait on stage than fall on stage.

LEAVES FOUR MILLION TO HIS DIVORCED WIFE

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 26.—Investigation of the authenticity of a secret will of the late James A. Allison, Indianapolis, a Florida capitalist which bequeaths more than half of his four million dollar estate to his first, and divorced wife, Mrs. Sara Allison is at issue here today.

The will was produced in Probate Court here yesterday by Eugene Iglehart, one of the co-administrators of the Allison estate. The testimony bears Allison's signature to the main body, but all but part of the letter "J" of the first name is torn from the codicil.

Mrs. Lucille Mussette Allison, of Miami, Fla., 20-year-old second wife who was formerly Allison's stenographer and who has been sued for $2,000,000 by the first wife for alleged alienation of her husband's affections, is fighting to retain the entire estate.

"KING OF KINGS" COMING TO STATE

Mighty Picture Epic Here 3 Days Starting Sunday.

Hailed from coast to coast as the greatest screen spectacle of all time and featuring a cast of over eighteen popular stars and 5,000 people, Cecil B. De Mille's production, "King of Kings," will come to the State theater for a special three-day engagement, commencing on Sunday evening.

This beautiful and inspiring drama, which is based on the life of Christ, comes to town with a wonderful recommendation from leading citizens and clergymen everywhere. It broke all attendance records at the Gaety theater, New York, during its run there and established a record of its own in Philadelphia at the Aldine theater.

doubtedly, this is the finest piece of dramatic acting that Warner has ever accomplished.

Jacqueline Logan, beautiful and talented, is seen as Mary Magdalene. Victor Varconi is cast as Pilot and Ernest Torrence is responsible for the part of Simon Peter.

Others appearing in excellent roles are Rudolph Schildkraut, Julia Faye, Joseph Schildkraut, William Boyd, Kenneth Thomson, Casson Furguson, Montague Love, George Seligman and Bryant Washburn.

"King of Kings" will be presented twice Sunday evening at 8:45 and 9:00, and three times daily thereafter at 2:15, 7:00 and 9:15.

CHILDREN BURNED Harrow, Ont., Oct. 26.—Three small sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Talbot are dead today after having been trapped in their beds by flames which destroyed the Talbot home last night. The dead are Paul 5, Darwin 3, and Francis, 5 months. The cause of the fire is unknown. The Talbots are negroes.

LaFOLLETTE SILENT AS TO HIS SUPPORT

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—Regardless of whether Herbert Hoover or Alfred Smith is elected president of the United States, the Progressive group in Congress will remain the chief point of importance as far as Progressive principles are concerned, Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., declared today in an editorial in La Follette's Magazine.

Senator La Follette discussed the two presidential candidates saying that Mr. Hoover is pledged to the Coolidge policies to which La Follette is opposed and that "Gov. Smith has made public declarations and definite commitments which are in substantial accord with the Progressive view on water power, farm relief, the injunction in labor disputes, corruption in the public service, and abuse of the presidential power in Nicaragua."

Non-Committal Senator La Follette did not commit himself as to whom he is supporting for president. Neither party is today on record as party in favor of Progressive principles, the Senator said. He declared that Progressivism is an issue in the presidential campaign today, not because of the courage or patriotism of either of the parties, but because Progressives of both parties have forced the issues into the open for consideration at the polls.

Since the convention, Mr. Hoover has repeatedly pledged the continuance of the Coolidge policies and stated his belief in their wisdom and justice," Senator La Follette said.

"On not one of the important issues at stake has he departed from the recorded position of the present administration, which I have found it necessary to resist as a member of the United States Senate. I have, therefore, dissociated myself from the Republican national ticket and platform throughout this campaign.

HIGH FLIGHT

1928 By NEA Service Inc. RUTH DEWEY GROVES "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" LOVE FOR TWO ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

JERRY RAY decides that love is a delusion and makes up her mind to marry for money. She works in a store and denies herself petty luxuries to save for a vacation at Atlantic City. But her money is stolen the night before her departure, and she is room-mate, MYRTLE, on the north shore of Long Island.

But their camp is wrecked the first evening when an airplane crashes into it. Young ALFRED CARSTAIRS, from the adjoining estate, was taking a lesson from his pilot, DAN HARVEY. They escape injury; also Myrtle, but Dan picks Jerry up unconscious from a blow on the head, and she comes to in his arms.

Then Alister orders Dan to go for the doctor and promises Myrtle to make good the damage to the camp. The doctor finds Jerry not seriously injured, but asks her to see him next day. Myrtle drives her to his office and afterward insists on taking her to an inn for dinner. He is amused when Jerry refuses a drink, and introduces her to the hostess, LEONTINE LEBAUDY.

Jerry feels that Leontine resembles Alister's interest in her, and is relieved when Dan arrives, although this gives Leontine a chance to dance with Alister. After the dance, Jerry is surprised when Leontine acts more friendly and invites her to a party, but she did not know that Leontine was hoping that Jerry's poor clothes would embarrass Alister and break their friendship.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

On the drive back to camp from the Rolling Stone Inn Alister asked Jerry to go with him to Leontine's party.

Jerry scarcely knew what to say. She wanted to go... she'd never been to a real party where the men wore evening clothes and the women had on low cut dresses. Moreover she thought it could be no over on her part to refuse unless she had a real reason for not wishing to go.

Alister had surprised her with his unexpected solicitude when she came down from Leontine's room. Jerry had begun to suspect him of being self-centered. But she showed such concern all through dinner, which was served quickly when Jerry expressed a desire to get back and see if Myrtle and George were waiting for her, that she reserved her opinion.

"I'm thoroughly ashamed of my thoughtlessness," he told her when they were in the car. Jerry wondered for a moment if Dan Harvey had said anything to Alister about her condition while she was upstairs with Leontine. Dan was not there when she and Leontine came down and no one spoke of him.

Had she looked around when she and Alister drove away in the black car Dan had asked to bring Dr. Beldegn to camp parked off at one side.

A few minutes after Alister's motor roared away from the inn Dan left the place where he had stood leaning against a stone coping, puffing on a coil pipe. He got into his car and drove leisurely in the direction Alister and Jerry had taken.

"Well, will you come?" Alister pressed, referring to Leontine's party.

"Why... I... I don't know," Jerry stammered. Inwardly she was asking herself why she was being such a fool. Wasn't it just what she'd been planning for? Better, even?

Alister read an entirely erroneous interpretation into her reluctance to answer. Her costume! He believed that was troubling her.

"Of course you must have lost most of your wardrobe when your tent was torn to pieces," he said, to afford her a pretext for accepting an evening outfit from him.

He doubted if she'd ever owned an evening dress. Myrtle had gratefully informed him of their connection with Fane's department store—but he could not crudely offer to buy her one, he understood.

"You must let me replace everything you lost," he went on. "It's bad enough to have me make good for you without putting you to any financial loss."

Jerry searched his face before replying, as well as she could without betraying her doubt of his sincerity. He must surely know that she hadn't lost much, she thought. And what he already had paid Myrtle was too much. She had not set out to be a petty grafter. She must put him right about that.

"My clothes are in New York," she said simply. "But I don't think Miss Leboudy really wants me at her party."

"Nonsense!" Alister exclaimed impatiently. "But it's only semi-private anyhow and I want you there."

There was conviction in his voice and he dropped his right hand from the wheel to reach for one of hers. Jerry let him hold it.

Before they reached the camp he stopped the car in a dark spot at the side of the road and put an arm along the seat at Jerry's back. She stiffened nervously.

"What's the matter, afraid?" he teased. Jerry regretted having let him hold her hand. It always led to greater familiarity. She had discovered that long ago. She wasn't surprised at what he did, but she hadn't expected Alister Carstairs to cover his acts with the same sort of banter and chaff that boys of her class employed.

"No," she said jolly. "I'm not afraid, because you are going to stop right now or I'll get out and walk the rest of the way."

Alister drew his hand from her shoulder and sat back to regard her soberly.

"But you know," he said in an injured tone, "I'd love to kiss you... Jerry."

Her name slipped softly from his lips and Jerry thought for an instant it might be nice to let him kiss her. It was only for an instant, however. The temptation disappeared almost as soon as it had come.

But the brief instant startled her. She wasn't in love with him. What had made her think that kissing would be nice? It had always been wholly repugnant to her before when one of the boys had tried to paw her or possess her lips.

"Take me home," she said, so sharply that Alister obeyed her in silence.

It was a new experience to him to have his caresses refused. Why in thunder did he want to waste his time on a little prude like this girl?

Jerry was sorry for her temper before they reached camp. As far as she knew there was no reason why they shouldn't kiss each other if they wanted to. She needn't have acted as if he'd insulted her.

She smiled up at his glowing countenance so beseechingly that Alister, glimpsing her expression from the corner of his eye, was somewhat mollified.

"Sorry," he asked.

"Not exactly," Jerry returned demurely. "I don't want you to be angry, but I don't get and I don't like to be kissed."

Alister ground on the brakes at the car camp to a standstill before the house she was camping in.

"You're either an awful little fraud or you're a girl in a million," he said, turning to face her.

"I don't think I'm there," she returned, flushing. "There are lots of girls who wouldn't let if they didn't think they had to or not have any boy friends at all."

Alister smiled.

"Well, how about you? Have you found the exception among us?"

"I haven't any boy friends," Jerry said directly.

"Because you wouldn't let?" Alister quizzed her.

"Because I... had other things to think about," Jerry evaded.

"A career, perhaps?"

Jerry hesitated over her answer.

"Yes," she said slowly, "a career to be successful."

Alister, too, paused a while.

"Well, it's lucky for you, Jerry my girl," he said, "that you're so confidently attractive. People won't climb for the highest fruit unless it's tempting. Some of the little ladies have to make a play for their happiness if they're to get it."

Jerry sighed.

"Happiness," she repeated. "Is there such a thing?"

"Stop it," Alister begged. "You're getting me groggy. I thought that no one but our burned-out modern youth ever got bored with life."

"I'm not bored," Jerry denied. "I dream of thrills, but I don't believe in happiness the way most people think of it."

"Well," Alister said, "I do. I'm happy to see that your friends have departed for the wicked city if the absence of all signs of life hereabout means anything. Shall we follow or could I entice you to sit on yonder porch and delve deeper into this fascinating subject?"

Jerry laughed.

"I must go to town," she said.

"Can't you phone a message to Miss Crane to bring what you want? Then we could go for a moonlight sail there's just wind enough," Alister coaxed.

"Gee, that would be great," Jerry cried, forgetting how tired she'd been and that she was trying not to say, "Gee."

"Get in," Alister said, motioning toward the roadster. "We'll go to the city and get a telephone. Then I'll drive you back here to wait and I'll go over to the boathouse for the Sprite. I'll send a man ashore for you in the dingy."

Less than half an hour later they were back. Myrtle, engaged in packing her own things when Jerry telephoned, had promised to bring out what she wanted.

"Have you a warm sweater?" Alister asked before he left her.

"You know I believe you're being up with me. It's only fair to let me replace what my plane destroyed."

"You can lend me a sweater tonight," Jerry appeased him.

"Wait for the dingy down by the water," he called from the roadster as he tore down the old driveway.

It was only after he was gone that Jerry realized he might have taken her with him if—had he wanted to take her to his home! The boathouse was at Carmoor, of course.

Suddenly, waiting for him at the water's edge seemed questionable to her. Why, it was just like waiting for a man on a street corner. Some boys didn't know better than to ask a girl to do that, she told herself. But Alister Carstairs did. Myrtle had warned her, she remembered. Well, if he had an idea that she was cheap...

Jerry's unpleasant reflections were interrupted by a sound on the highway. It was not a familiar sound, in a sense, but when Jerry looked in the direction whence it came she couldn't have told whether she was pleased at what was revealed to her, or whether she was vexed about it.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

PUNCHES IN PRIZE RING OFTEN INJURE BRAIN

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Pugilists know the condition that results from a terrific pounding in the prize ring in which the recipient of the mauling suddenly finds himself unable to move his legs, dizzy, or as it is commonly expressed, "out on his feet."

Dr. Harrison S. Martland recently read before the Pathologic Society of New York a discussion of the condition called "punch drunk," which the fighters themselves all characterize by the terms "leucok," "gooey," "cutting paper dolls," or "sling nutty."

He points out that the condition usually affects fighters of the slug type who are usually poor boxers and who take considerable head punishment, seeking only to return a knockout blow.

It usually takes the fighter one or two hours to recover from a severe blow on the head or jaw. If he has been "punch drunk," he may notice later a flopping of one foot or leg in walking, and sometimes mental confusion lasting several days.

Dr. Martland is convinced that the condition called "punch drunk" results from a definite brain injury due to a single or repeated blows on the head or jaw which cause multiple small hemorrhages in the deeper parts of the brain.

Resembles Palsy
In the late stages, therefore, the disease resembles the condition known as shaking palsy or Parkinson's disease.

He has presented microscopic studies of the brains of persons who have developed this condition, showing the pathologic changes which occurred in the brain, and which substantiate his point of view.

Furthermore, he presents the names of 23 fighters who have been "punch drunk," and their present condition indicates the permanence of the physical changes.

WESTERN WOMAN LAUDS HOOVER'S FIRM POSITION ON WATERWAYS

Women in general are supporting Hoover because of his high character and his executive record, but if you are a farmer's wife you should vote for Hoover to protect the family income in the next twenty years, according to Mrs. Hugh Eldridge of Bellinham, Wash.

The development of our inland waterways, she says, "is imperative if our farmers are to make a livelihood. Hoover himself has said that there is no more vital method of farm relief. The modernization of the Mississippi system, and of a shipway on the Great Lakes to the Atlantic, would enable the farmer to move his products to market far cheaper than he can now. This means bigger profits, more comforts in the home, greater opportunities for the children."

"Twenty interior states will be affected by the development of these waterways. Can you expect a New Yorker to assist in making Chicago as important a port as New York, or in having shipped from Chicago the grain that now is shipped from New York?" Herbert Hoover is the man to entrust with this great task.

ANCIENT P. O. FORD ALL SET FOR WINTER

Has a Home, Two Other Tires, and Some Anti-Freeze to Warm Its Old Bones.

The antiquated Ford delivery truck lately added to the equipment of the So. Manchester postoffice is "set" for the winter. The contract for the gasoline, which is furnished without state, national or other tax, has been awarded. Two slight break has been decided upon.

With these matters out of the way the truck should continue to ramble about Manchester for some days before it falls apart, unless it becomes homesick and returns to either Syracuse or Buffalo, where it did service for about five years before it was "reconditioned" and sent to Manchester.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

A certain doctor rebuked a mother who had selfishly commanded her son's every free moment, by the sharp words, "Excuse me, Madam, but you know you don't own your boy."

What he meant was, of course, that no human being can regard another "man being as chattel."

In this case there had been trouble. The son, a generously inclined boy had been continuously deprived of every second of free time for years.

As he grew older his mother's demands had grown accordingly until in very truth he couldn't call his soul his own.

Then finally had come rebellion. His mother's bossing then allied itself with scolding and threats. What he had given willingly at first she obtained now by more strenuous methods.

One day when he had been given a prize of five dollars for a composition in a contest at school and proudly announced that he was going to buy a long-coveted fountain pen with it she took the money. Then trouble started in earnest. The case became complicated.

And it was in answer to the mother's statement, "He's my boy and I shall do as I please with him," that a member of the school board, a doctor, made the above statement.

If a parent takes the attitude that everything a child does, every thought he thinks, every breath he takes, and every object he owns belongs to his parents, there is probably no law in the land to dispute it.

But morally it is wrong.

He has time for school, and time for chores, and time for his studying. He still should have a few minutes a day to live for himself. He has a right to that. Every body has a right to that.

Not only that but he should have rights of possession. Certain things should be his sacred property. That money morally belonged to the boy. The mother actually did not need it.

Some mothers dread the moment when their children achieve independence and start to think and act for themselves. Perhaps that is accountable for just such instances as this.

It probably is caused primarily by a mistaken mother love that tries to keep "her baby" on into maturity. She will sacrifice his happiness to do it.

Children must have supervision. They must have certain laws to live by, and certain obligations to live up to. But their lives are their own. Neither age, custom, nor sentiment should cause us to lose sight of that.

HE KNOWS 'EM

Wife: Remember now, meet me at the Biltmore for lunch, at twelve.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SJAUNER

How the shades of our great-grandmothers must have danced and shuddered when the papers announced that Lady Drummond-Hay came across the Atlantic on the Graf Zeppelin, sole lady passenger among some 50 men!

A very few decades ago no lady who cared for her reputation would have dreamed of doing such a thing. Even if she had taken a "female companion" and a couple of maids, she still would have been censured for making the trip in an unorthodox and publicity-producing manner. But to travel all alone—it simply would have been unheard of!

But today it arouses only admiring comment.

Nothing could illustrate much better how sharply present-day traditions have broken with the traditions of the past.

And, while we're speaking of the changed attitude in regard to women who refuse to sit at home and stagnate, here is a bulletin from Yale University that is interesting. It details the activities at Yale of 40 graduate students who are conducting research into scientific and literary problems, and in it I find such items as these:

"Mary Elizabeth Reid, Ph. D., University of Wisconsin, is continuing her study of the nitrogenous metabolism of seedlings."

"Miss Georgia Harkness, Ph. D., Boston University, is studying the influence of the social ethics of Calvinism upon the social ethics of present-day Protestant thought."

"Miss Florence Grace Smith, Ph. D., University of Chicago, holds a Bishop Museum Fellowship for the study of the morphological problem connected with the Peridiphytes in the Islands of the Pacific."

Verily, my sisters, the world has changed!

All of this is more or less old stuff, to be sure. The fact that a woman can fly across the Atlantic or become a scholarly specialist in a research without exciting comment is surely not very new. But I think that we often miss the point of it all, even so.

We are, I think, moving into a vastly more healthful sphere. We are beginning to remember that we are people, first of all, and women second. The girl who takes a job as stenographer just to kill a few years and have a little spending money while she waits to get married may, indeed, rely upon her sex in her office contacts; but the ambitious girl who wants to carve out some kind of career does no such thing. During office hours she forgets her sex entirely and becomes a worker among workers, not a woman among men.

Better yet, the men are adopting this attitude, too. And, as I say, a more healthful atmosphere is the result; a healthful atmosphere that is the chief boon of this "new freedom" we talk about so glibly. It's a good thing for us to keep in mind.

The husband's residence continues to be the residence of the wife, no matter how long she tarries elsewhere, according to ruling levied by the U. S. Customs Bureau in the famous Ganna Walska (Mrs. Harold McCormick) case. The Wife: "Why is a good pie like a flapper's skirt?"

Mrs. Wm. J. Gleason of 13 Holly Street, Stamford, Conn., Tells How the New Medicine, ERBJUS, Fixed Her Up and Fixed Her Up Very Quickly, for Indigestion and Stomach Trouble.

Mrs. Gleason says: "For thirty years I suffered with a bad case of indigestion. I had taken everything on earth, but nothing ever did me any good. The gas in my stomach was terrible—I would almost strangle at night before I could get my breath.

"I would lie awake for hours at a time and could not go to sleep. Things have changed now—I have taken 13 bottles of ERBJUS and I have no trouble with any of my old complaints.

"I heartily endorse this medicine as being a wonderful remedy and it is with the greatest of pleasure that I testify for this remedy to the Stamford public."

Manchester Crushes West Hartford High, 26 To 6

UNLOOSEN BRILLIANT OFFENSE TO BEWILDER VISITING OUTFIT

Captain Treat, Johnson, Dowd Outstanding; First Half Close, Second Walk-away; Loose Tackling; Colorful Crowd.

Coach Tom Kelley's powerful grid machine representing Manchester High School conclusively proved yesterday that it is easily the best team in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League and that it is most deserving of the championship trophy. The first football pennant in the history of the local institution was realized without a single defeat when the crimson-clad warriors crushed West Hartford High by the overwhelming score of 26 to 6 at the West Side grounds before the largest, most colorful and enthusiastic crowd of the season.

While not the best played of the season, the game was easily the most spectacular. It was filled with all sorts of plays, good, bad and otherwise. It was very evident that the players on both teams were at a tension, because there was quite a bit of fumbling and poor tackling. Although leaving the field trailing by 12 to 6, West Hartford had the edge in the first half. The team worked smoothly and gained more yardage than Manchester, but in the second half, there was no comparison, the local outfit completely outplayed West Hartford in every department of the game.

Earned Three Touchdowns
Manchester made four touchdowns and earned three of them. The other came as the result of a West Hartford fumble. The only score which West Hartford made would not have been scored but for poor tackling by two Manchester players. Manchester's lucky touchdown came the first three minutes of play and perhaps had a lot to do with deciding the game. It certainly must have given the Kellyites plenty of confidence and something to fight for.

First Score Lucky
West Hartford had the ball near midfield and signals were called for a left end run. Morander, West Hartford, left tackle was offside as the ball was snapped. Head-lineman Larry Amann tooted his whistle. Young was carrying the ball and he fumbled when tackled hard. Billy Johnson, Manchester halfback, was on the alert. Picking up the ball, he hit a bee-line for the goal line, 55 yards away, negotiating the distance through a clear field. Quite naturally, Captain Bob Treat took the gain instead of the penalty.

West Hartford Evens
Manchester fans had scarcely got through cheering when Denne, visiting half-back, snared a ten yard pass on his own thirty yard line, broke away from two Manchester tacklers who should have dropped him in his tracks, and raced sixty yards through a partly broken field before he was spilled from behind by Treat on Manchester's ten yard line. On the next play Manchester was over-anxious and paid five costly yards for being offside. Drago hurled himself into the heavy crimson line twice and went over the second time only to have the officials rule no score when both teams were offside. Denne took it over on the next play and when Spencer blocked Collins's attempted place-kick, the score was deadlocked.

Coach Tom Kelley

Johnson In Limelight
Shortly afterward, Johnson skirted his own left end for thirty yards, running behind perfect interference. A moment later, he plucked a neatly thrown forward pass from Ernie Dowd out of the ozone and ran from midfield to the nine yard line where Collins brought him down. Two slashes by Captain Treat through tackle brought the pigskin to within three feet of the double-stripe. Here the period ended. The teams changed goals and in the next play, Treat crashed through all but two inches of the distance. On a direct pass, Quarterback Dowd dove between Mercer's legs for the remaining distance, but once more Johnson's drop-kick was a failure.

Visitor's Big March
West Hartford launched a determined and what later proved to be a heart-breaking march toward Manchester's goal a few minutes before the half ended. Four first downs in quick succession brought the ball to within nine yards of a touchdown that would at least have tied the score, if not put the visitors ahead. Here, however, the West Hartford field general, Collins, showed poor judgment.

6 Inches From Score
The first plunge through the line was just short of a touchdown, but the Manchester line stopped the next two line smashes without an inch gain. West Hartford was using a mass attack at the center of the line and the Manchester backs were in close behind the line. It seemed that any other kind of a play except a thrust at the center would bring a score, but Collins again tied the line on the fourth down and surrendered the ball six inches away from the goal. Ted Lupien punted out to the twenty-five yard line and the half ended.

Squatrito Goes Over
Between the halves, Coach Kelley gave his cohorts a lecture that would have won a presidential election single-handed. It had its intended effect, for the second half was as different from the first as day from night. Sully Squatrito received the ball at the kick-off and dodged his way thirty yards to midfield. A first down followed in three line thrusts and then the brilliant local signal barker, Ernie Dowd, skirted his right end to 12 yards from West Hartford's goal. Treat made two big line gains and then Squatrito crashed over. Dowd drop-kicked the point.

Treat Breaks Away
It wasn't much later in the period that Manchester started another march that ended in a touchdown. A beautiful 27 yard plunge through the center of the line by Treat, which required some fine footwork, was the principal factor in bringing about the scoring opportunity. Johnson made some big gains off tackle and then Dowd ran around his left end the remaining 18 yards for Manchester's fourth and final touchdown. Two tacklers had a grip on him at the seven yard line but Dowd broke away. He then drop-kicked another point to make the final score 26 to 6.

Subs Get Chance
From that moment on, West Hartford was hopelessly beaten. The visitors took to the air but with little or no success. Manchester's cause was not to be denied. The better team had won and it was only a question of time. Coach Kelley sent in several of his substitutes in the closing minutes. Every player on both teams played his utmost, but the work of Treat, Johnson, Dowd in the local backfield and Collins, Drago and Denne for the visitors was outstanding. Healey and Mercer tackled best, but Cheney, Spencer, Robertson and Johnston were a tower of strength on the defense. Ted Lupien's long distance kicking was a feature of the game. He didn't fall once and made good yardage on all of his boots.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS
At London—Jack Hood, British welterweight champion, scored technical knockout over Bruno Frattini, of Italy, 3.
At Elam, Pa.—Young Ketchel, of Chester, Pa., won from Gehene Mandot, French welterweight, by technical knockout, 8.

YES, I NEED

Waiter: No, but your friend, Professor X has been waiting here for three hours for you.

JOTTED FROM SIDELINES

The local students made a striking appearance in their red and white berets which were donated by Frank Anderson, class of '05. Their cheering and songs lent a college aspect to the struggle. Jimmy Wilson and Bea La Shay kept the cheering section in action.

Both schools had their bands out for the occasion. Each was dressed up in clean uniforms. Between the halves, the visiting band paraded up and down the field and West Hartford rooters formed college make marches. One would have thought they were ahead by the pep they displayed.

There wasn't a happier man in town last night than Tom Kelley, local coach. Tom was on pins and needles throughout the first half and seldom sat on the bench, preferring to stand most of the time. His face was beaming with smiles the second half, and little wonder. Tom deserves a lot of credit for his part in building up the best team that ever represented the school on the gridiron.

The celebrating did not end with the game. Last night, the students headed by the school band formed a street parade and marched up Main street, cheering and singing for all they were worth. It reminded one of the Cubans celebrating their triumph over the Cloverleaves, although on a much smaller scale.

Kelley is a most likable chap, but he is inclined to be superstitious. He refused to allow a picture to be taken of his team before the game and consequently this edition is minus one tonight. He said last night "You can take as many as you want to now." But try and find the players.

Kelley may be superstitious but evidently his captain, Bob Treat, is quite the opposite. Bob wore the supposedly unlucky numeral 13 on the back of his jersey. Judging from his great playing, that figure is any thing but unlucky.

The weather man was kind. Rain fell in a drizzle a half an hour before the start of the game, but then the sky cleared and was perfect. During the second half, the moon came up, although its light was not needed.

Louie Cheney played under a severe handicap at tackle. He received a "shiner" in the first quarter but gamely finished the route. Judging from the way Louie played with one eye, West Hartford was lucky he couldn't see out of both.

Principal Quimby of the local school was quite busy during the game and beforehand with his motion picture machine in pping various views and persons. The film ought to be worth seeing.

Coach Eric Nordfeldt of West Hartford was a pretty discouraged man after the game. He had plenty of confidence before the contest, but said little afterward. It was a bitter pill to swallow, especially after sending his players out here to scout a practice session Monday afternoon.

Tomorrow, the regular members of the High School team will see the Army and Yale play at New Haven. They get in free save for the little work of acting as ushers.

Four more games remain on the local schedule, Naugatuck, Warren Harding of Bridgeport, Buckley of New London and Windham. If the locals get through that quartet, they will have a mighty good claim on the state championship.

Ernie Dowd left the game in the last quarter with a leg injury, but was nothing serious. He was thrown hard in running back a punt and cramps resulted.

"Tubby" Johnson played the best game of his career with the local team. He hit the line for substantial gains and tore around the end goal. He showed that he had his thinking cap on when he picked up the fumble and raced for a touchdown after the linesman's whistle had blown.

West Hartford should not have scored at all. Two Manchester tacklers had a hold of Denne when he caught the pass, but the West Hartford lad broke away from them and raced sixty yards for what resulted in their only score. However, it's all in the game.

In this moment of supreme satisfaction and happiness at Manchester High, it shouldn't be forgotten that Ed Bailey, faculty manager, comes in for a bit of the credit. He arranged the schedule perfectly. Not a single non-league game came during the league schedule. Just one might have been enough to spoil everything.

Sully Squatrito played a whale of a game for Manchester. This chap is only a freshman and he ought to be a pretty nifty player before he graduates. He's no ham now, by any means.

While everybody comes in for his share of the credit, nobody played harder than Captain Bob Treat. His Line plunging and vicious tackling were most conspicuous.

The parade which the local students held before the game was the biggest and best in the history of the school. But once again, it must be admitted that the girls were more conspicuous than the boys. The fairer sex sure has plenty of school spirit here.

Manchester's next game will be in Bridgeport against Warren Harding a week from Saturday.

Manchester made ten first downs compared to seven for West Hartford. Manchester made good two out of four passes. West Hartford made four out of thirteen.

Meriden won the league championship in straight victories last year and the year before.

Football was revived at the local high school six years ago. Wilfred Clarke coached the team the first two years and Louie Keeney the third. Then Kelley took over the job. This is his third year.

Nine Teams Enroll In Herald Bowling League At Meeting

Five More Teams Sought to Make Fourteen in Circuit; Favor Friday Night Instead of Thursday.

Nine teams signified their intentions of entering the Herald bowling league at a reorganization meeting held last night. They are the Bon Ami, Cloverleaves, North Ends, Sons of Italy, West Sides, Casinos, Charter Oaks, Center Church and Manchester Green.

In view of the fact that enough of the representatives were not present, no action was taken and another meeting is set for 7:30 next Tuesday night. The opinion of those present seemed to favor bowling on Friday nights instead of Thursdays this season. This is because the stores are open that night which makes it a poor night for alley managers to become tied up with leagues. When the league started last fall, the stores were closed on Thursday, although they opened later.

Joe Farr, representing the Charter Oak alleys, and Arnold Pagan, manager of the Casino alleys were present in addition to Howard Murphy and Tommy Conran at whose places of business the league operated last season. The Herald having bought the K. of C. home for its new newspaper plant, the alleys in that building no longer exist and it is possible that the teams will roll a match at Pagan's Casino alleys. If fourteen teams can be obtained, they will probably be distributed as follows, two at Murphy's, two at

TOXY PHANN

One trouble with motoring is that some cars persist in keeping you in the open.

Farr's, two at Conran's and one at Pagan's.

In addition to the nine teams mentioned, it is very probable that the British American club will enter again. The Beethoven, Highland Park, Knights of Pythias, St. Bridget's, K. of C. Cubs and Masons were not represented. The latter team won the championship last year, but entered with the idea that the organization was to be a fraternal league. This later proved impossible but the Masons finished the league. It is understood that the players who were on the Mason team have already been signed by a new league entry.

The Tall Cedars of Lebanon will hold their first social affair here since their institution tonight in the Masonic Temple. A large advance sale of tickets has been reported and a large dance crowd is expected to be present.

The Ten Foresters a dance orchestra most of whose members play in Colt's Band in Hartford will furnish the music. The orchestra is peppy and one that all the dancers are assured of enjoying to the fullest extent.

The Temple has been beautifully decorated for the dance tonight. Cedar trees and branches are spread throughout the large hall and the orchestra will sit on a dais under a canopy effect made of cedar branches. All members of the local Forest are asked to wear their pyramids tonight. There will be several novelty dances and refreshments will be served.

glimpse of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic Presidential candidate, yesterday afternoon at the railroad station at the north end.

The special train carrying the governor and his party was due to pass through Manchester about quarter of four, but it was not until 4:30 that the train reached Manchester. The crowd had diminished somewhat by that time, but a large number, many of which were school children, waited patiently hoping that the Democratic candidate would come to the platform as the train passed through Manchester, even if it did not stop.

However, Governor Smith was evidently otherwise engaged and did not come to the platform. So far as could be learned nobody here caught even a glimpse of him, or his brown derby, through a car window.

PHONES Pinehurst

"GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

LAZY OLD SUN

If old Mr. Sun were on Pinehurst's payroll, these days, he'd be docked for being late in the morning on Saturdays. Before he climbs out of his bed on the eastern horizon a lot of work has been done at Pinehurst on those Friday night 'phone orders. And before he has shaken himself awake the trucks are fitting. They start just the instant that the milk and cream and bakery deliveries are made to us — and those folks work by starlight.

It's a great scheme, this 'phoning in of week-end orders Friday evenings. Three phones work taking the orders up to 9 o'clock Friday night, though the store, of course, is closed. The goods are in your kitchens and the hurry and annoyance of Saturday marketing all disposed of, as a clean start for the day on Saturday, right after breakfast. If you haven't tried it yet, try it to-night.

PORK and LAMB are the leading meat suggestions for this week-end. We will have another fresh lot of that fancy Omaha Sinclair Pork, from right in the middle of the Corn Belt where they turn the best maize in the world into the best pig products. There will be nice cuts to roast, and just as nice tender juicy chops; slices of fresh hams or pieces of the fresh hams to bake; shoulders of fresh pork fixed to stuff are finding a brisk demand here — last week we sold out early on this item and the sooner the 'phone the more likely you'll be to make sure of one.

Then we have some of those SMALL LEGS of LAMB that often seem so hard to find, though we usually have them. So many families are too small to use a big leg of lamb. Shoulders of lamb we cut any size to suit your ideas. We are to have some especially nice fresh CHICKENS, 4 to 5 pounds, for roasting. Tender milk fed fowls for fricassee.

PHONE TWO THOUSAND.

BEGIN TO GET NOTICES OF VOTERS' REMOVALS

Notification of the registration in other towns of persons who have voted in Manchester are beginning to come in to Town Clerk Turkington. Under the law, when a voter moves from one town to another in the state and is made a voter in his new place of residence it becomes the duty of the authorities there to notify the town clerk in the town whence he comes, so that he may be taken off the voting list in that town.

The small towns are always first to report these changes, as they can complete their registration work earlier than the larger ones. Town Clerk Turkington has received about a dozen notifications of the registration of former Manchester voters in the smaller towns of the state. Only one has come from a larger place, that being New London.

Among the former Manchester voters reported as being registered elsewhere is a man who, though an elector of the town, hasn't been known to vote since the Eighteenth amendment put an end to local option voting on the license question. He was a wet.

Bran muffins

This recipe makes the best you ever ate.
2 tablespoons shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar milk, 1 cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 1 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder.
Cream shortening and sugar together, add egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt and baking powder. To creamed mixture add ALL-BRAN, then milk, alternately, with sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tin and bake in moderate oven (375° F.) for 20 minutes. Yield: either 8 large or 12 medium size muffins. If sweet milk is used instead of sour, omit soda and use 3 teaspoons baking powder.

health when eaten as a cereal. Doctors recommend it. But be sure you get the genuine Kellogg's. It is 100% bran and furnishes "bulk" in generous quantities. Part-bran products, at best, can only be part-way effective. Just eat two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily (chronic cases of constipation, with every meal). Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added.

Grocers everywhere sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Use it and you'll free yourself from constipation. Also from the use of habit-forming cathartics. For Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works as nature works. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. It does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

There were two automobile accidents last night, one resulting in a police court case this morning when John E. Sheridan of 40 Vernon street, Hartford, was found guilty on the charge of reckless driving. He was in a collision with Rudolph Kissman, who was driving a truck owned by Joseph Wilson. The truck was about to turn into Foster street when Sheridan, coming from the east, crashed into the truck. The judge imposed a fine of $25 and then remitted $17 of the fine.

At 1:15 this morning two automobiles, one owned by Michael Smith of Derby and the other by Joseph Toymkow of 1129 Main street, Hartford, came together in the underpass under the South Manchester Railroad on Center street. Nobody was injured and the damage was settled between them. There were no arrests.

REC NOTES

Mrs. J. Anderson won first prize and Mrs. Hulander second at yesterday afternoon's card party at the West Side Recreation Center.

The archery class meets at the East Side Recreation Center tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The equipment for the archery class has all arrived and all who signed for this are urged to be present at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

FOUR MEN ADDRESS

GET TOGETHER CLUB

Members Hear of Round World Trip, Raw Silk, China and Humidity.

Members of Cheney Brothers Get Together club were given informal talks on a wide variety of subjects following their first dinner in Cheney Hall last night. Archibald Sessions, music director of the South Methodist church, was the first speaker, telling of his recent trip around the world. The other speakers were Col. William C. Cheney and two out of town men, Mr. Lee a representative of his father's silk flature in China, was Mr. Francis, representing the Parks-Cramer Company, of Fitchburg, manufacturers of humidifiers.

New Officers.

The talks followed a roast turkey dinner prepared by Ursula Osano and served by the Maintenance department. About 110 were present for the dinner. Music was furnished by Bill Wadell's orchestra and chorus singing just previous to the speaking program was led by Thomas McGill, President, Montie president and announced that the second meeting, on Dec. 6, would be annual election of officers. Herbert Ingraham, chairman of the nominating committee, proposed William J. McKinney for president, Frank Cheney for first vice-president and Franklin Dexter for second vice-president. John Echnallman was nominated for secretary, Frank J. Maloney, assistant, Raymond Bidwell for treasurer, Herbert Leggett, his assistant. Melville Stacey was proposed for commissary and U. J. Lupien for lecturers committee.

Mr. Sessions talk carried his audience across the continent to San Francisco with short stops en route. He sailed from San Francisco to Honolulu and described the entrance to the harbor at Honolulu as one of the most marvelous sights in the world. He also visited Kingman Smith in his plane "Southern Cross" land at Wheeler Field on its trans-Pacific flight.

In Sydney

Mr. Sessions then sailed down through the Fiji Islands to Auckland and Island which is at the northern end of New Zealand. He described Sydney, Australia, as another marvelous city with a different harbor. He remarked that it was necessary to change trains frequently in Australia because all the railroads are of different gauges. From Australia where Mr. Sessions visited with a sister he sailed past Thursday Island through the East Indies and to Java.

From Java he went to Singapore and then through the Indian ocean to the Red Sea. He was forced to abandon a trip to Ceylon because of the monsoons which were then reported raging in that section. He sailed through the Suez canal by moonlight and landed the next day at Port Said. He took the opportunity to visit several mosques and remarked about one in particular built completely of alabaster. He also took a trip into the Sahara and saw the treasures which were brought out of King Tut's tomb.

Round the World

From Cairo Mr. Sessions went to Italy, visited in Venice and swam at the Lido. He said he was nearly lost in the famous Catacombs in Rome and then went on to Paris, which city he found was not so gay as before the war. "It's plenty gay enough, though, if you're planning a trip to Paris," Mr. Sessions remarked. Mr. Sessions was greatly impressed with the change in London which he found to be a gorgeous city. He sailed from Southampton to New York, completing his trip round the world. Mr. Sessions was roundly applauded for his talk.

The next speaker, Mr. Lee, a guest of Col. W. C. Cheney, said that the new China is attempting to produce raw silk which will meet the requirements of American manufacturers. The Japanese have a monopoly on the raw silk industry and the Chinese are now studying the needs of the factories here with the hope that they can produce silk in the raw form to meet those needs.

Tribute to Cheney

Col. W. C. Cheney paid a high tribute to the Chinese people and said that it would pay us to help the Chinese because they will need the products of American mills and that will add greatly to our prosperity.

WTIC LIKELY TO GO TO TALCOTT MOUNTAIN

Hartford Station Gets Tentative Approval of Radio Commission for High Location.

Judging from a Washington news dispatch from Washington, D. C., today, Manchester has probably been eliminated from any possibility of being the site for the relocation of Traveler's Broadcasting Station. The latest information is that the Federal Radio Commission may shortly approve Talcott Mountain as the site for the proposed 50,000 watt broadcasting station, which was at one time considering Manchester as its new home.

Radio Commissioner Caldwell, whose zone includes New England, said last night that from the reports he had the Talcott Mountain location "appears to be an excellent" one station. He said however that he considered it proper to refer the application for this site to the engineering division.

Officials of the station have written Mr. Caldwell that the location on Talcott Mountain, near the famous Heublein Tower, is removed from any residences, not a single one being visible in any direction except towards the West. The mountain, with an elevation of 700 feet, is about eight miles west of Hartford.

In a revised list of broadcasting stations by frequencies, effective November 11, issued today by the Radio Commission, Connecticut stations are listed as follows: WTIC, Hartford, temporary assignment, 600 kilocycles, when new station completed, 1060 kilocycles; WDRG, New Haven, and WCAC, Storrs, divided with each other on 1330 kilocycles; WICC, Easton, divides with WBRU of Tilton, N. H., on 1430 kilocycles.

TEXAS STARTS SUIT

WOMEN'S CLUB ELECT

Torrington, Conn., Oct. 26.—Eight new committee chairman were introduced to the state federation of women's clubs during the morning session of the annual fall meeting, held in Torrington parish house here today with Miss Emily Louise Plumley, of Gleanbrook, presiding.

The committee leaders who faced the gathering today are: Mrs. Harry E. Torbox, of Greenwich, fine arts; Mrs. John S. Montgomery, of Riverside, literature; Mrs. F. J. Morrison, Norwich, music; Miss Bertha E. Landers, New Haven art; Mrs. Pennington Gage, Suffield, international relations; Mrs. Chas. W. Bennett, New Haven, editor and publisher, Connecticut Club Federer; Mrs. Henry M. Bullard, New Haven, business manager; Courier; and Mrs. Roy L. Clark, Bridgeport, public health.

Visiting speakers at the gathering were Mrs. John F. Sipple, Baltimore, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Julia K. Jaffray, executive secretary national prison board; and Miss Ruth Penneyacker.

ASK FOR SERVICE

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 26.—Residents of the Landon Hill and Long Pond districts of Lyford and North Stonington appeared in force before the Public Utilities Commission today to ask for electric service in their homes.

The commission found that both the Mystic Power Co., and the Eastern Connecticut Power Company has jurisdiction in the region and both are willing either to furnish power or let the other commission furnish it. The commission will now decide which should get the job.

SNOW IN BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The first snow of the season fell in Buffalo and environs today. The temperature stood at 35 degrees.

4 Family House $7000

Each tenement rents for $20.00. Why pay rent. Give us a small cash payment and the rent should pay the balance.

2 family, 12 rooms, only $6,000, near car line. Also garage. We are offering it at $6,000.

Single six rooms, steam heat, gas, sewer, sidewalk, oak floors and trim, first floor, 2 car garage, $6,700, $590-cash down.

Foster Street, two houses, one single and one double, now offered at $12,000. This is a 10% proposition as well as a home.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: "Famous First Ladies"

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

The rooms of the White House overflow with memories of the hostesses who, as the wives of presidents, have dispensed the hospitality of the nation. We never can speak of the White House without seeing in our minds visions of those women whose names are interwoven with its history. Some writers say the name of the White House owes its origin to Martha Washington.

HIGH SCHOOL ROOTERS CELEBRATE VICTORY

Hundreds of Boys and Girls Hold Street Jubilee Over Football Triumph

Manchester High School celebrated its first Central Connecticut Interscholastic League football championship in proper style last night. Several hundred students, boys and girls, formed a parade at the High School and marched to the Center and back, headed by the school band and followed by the members of the victorious team riding in automobiles.

It was a noisy, exhilarating, the students shouting, cheering and singing, and adding to the din with noise-making contraptions. It was the first time in the history of the local institution that a football team has won the honor. The 1928 title was won without a single defeat.

Back at the High School after completing automobile and trolley traffic for nearly half the hour, the students gathered in front of the steps at the main entrance where they were addressed by Superintendent F. A. Verplanck, Principal C. P. Quimby, Coach Thomas F. Kelly, Captain Robert Treat, J. Leo Fay and others. Each praised the great record made by the school's team, which clinched the pennant by overwhelming West Hartford High yesterday afternoon at the West Side playgrounds, 26 to 6.

LETTER GOLF

If the WHIP won't make the mare go, try a SPUR. It's easy to get one if you have the whip. Easy in letter golf, at least. Par is five and one solution is another five.

Grid for letter golf puzzle with words WHIP and SPUR.

THE RULES
1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in pairs, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Quite a lot of people have recovered from their vacations, even though their bank accounts haven't. And by the way, it might be quite a shock to one-half of the world to find out how the other half lives.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)
"Oh, my!" cried Cloway. "I'll bet that we will all get soaking wet. The waves are splashing near us. I am sure I felt a spray. Why did we ever get inside this crazy plane to take a ride. If we could just land safely, it would be a happy day."

Sunday Statistics
If all the men in the world were laid end to end, it would be Sunday afternoon.
If all the Sunday newspapers were put in one pile w'd touch a match to them.

An honest confession is good for the soul, but sometimes bad on the reputation.
Many a bachelor who has been thought matrimonially dead has been married alive!

Why must secrets worry us? They are nothing to speak of.

POLICE COURT

Francis J. Sheridan, 18 years old, of Vernon street, Hartford, was found guilty of reckless driving in the Manchester police court this morning. The accident that brought him into court occurred at Center and Foster streets last evening. Young Sheridan was on his way to Hartford from Andover when the car he was driving ran into a truck owned by Joseph Wilson the plumber and driven by Rudolph Klismann. The evidence showed that Sheridan had been driving at a fast rate of speed. Probation Officer Elliott made a plea for leniency. He said the boy had done all he could to avoid the accident. Judge Johnson found him guilty and imposed a fine of $25. He remitted $15 of the fine. The case of Michael Smith, also of Hartford, charged with reckless driving was continued until October 29.
