

TRIES TO TAKE LIFE TWICE IN LOCAL LOCK-UP

Earl W. Howell Thought He Was Being Persecuted, So Attempted Suicide — Is Committed Today.

Earl W. Howell, local young man with a lengthy police court record, believed that persecution was his lot for the rest of his life, and decided to end it all. Yesterday afternoon, after a day and night of brooding, he attempted suicide while confined in a cell at police headquarters here. Falling in that, because of quick detection, he tried again later in the day to take his life. Dr. D. C. Y. Moore and Dr. T. H. Weldon interviewed him at the request of the court this morning and declared him insane. He will be committed to a state institution later in the day.

The first attempt at suicide came early yesterday afternoon. Coffee had been given him, with his lunch, in a milk bottle. Evidently trying to find some instrument of death Howell seized upon the bottle, broke it and slashed his wrists. Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon went to Howell's cell shortly after the deed had been committed and immediately called a doctor who closed the wounds.

Traces Hanging.

Later in the afternoon Howell took a wash towel, made a noose, climbed up on a chair and attached it to the bars at the top of the room. Then he kicked the chair away. The noise of the falling chair attracted Chief Gordon again and when he hurried to the cell he found Howell in a semi-conscious state. He was revived and then a policeman was stationed at the cell to prevent any further attempts at suicide.

When Howell's case was called this morning the court suspended its judgment until an examination could be made. This was done shortly after 1 o'clock and the young man was ordered committed.

Howell was brought into court to face a non-support charge. Twice before he has faced this same charge and he suffered under the delusion that his youthful wife was persecuting him. It was feared he might violently attack her, and this was reason for committing him to an asylum. He had just returned to town Saturday night having been in New York City.

His Record.

Howell's record indicates that he was imbued with foolish notions more than a hankering for being bad. His first police court record followed the theft of automobiles. He, in company with other boys, stole local machines, removed parts from them and built another car, burying the old parts in the woods.

GILBERT TO REPORT ON THE DAWES PLAN

Says Germany is Well Able to Pay Its Debts to the Allies.

Paris, Jan. 2.—The annual report of S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations payments under the Dawes plan, which states that Germany is now on a sound financial and economic basis and is well able to pay the annual installments of about $800,000,000, will play an important part in the new reparations, it was understood here today.

This report was made public late Tuesday. It summarizes an analytical study of Germany's industrial and fiscal position. It revealed that Germany's national debt is only $2,000,000,000, which is regarded as comparatively small in view of the burden imposed upon that nation by the great war.

Incidentally, the report criticizes the Berlin government for its failure to inaugurate more drastic economies in state expenditures, indicating that such retrenchments are possible.

To Use the Data

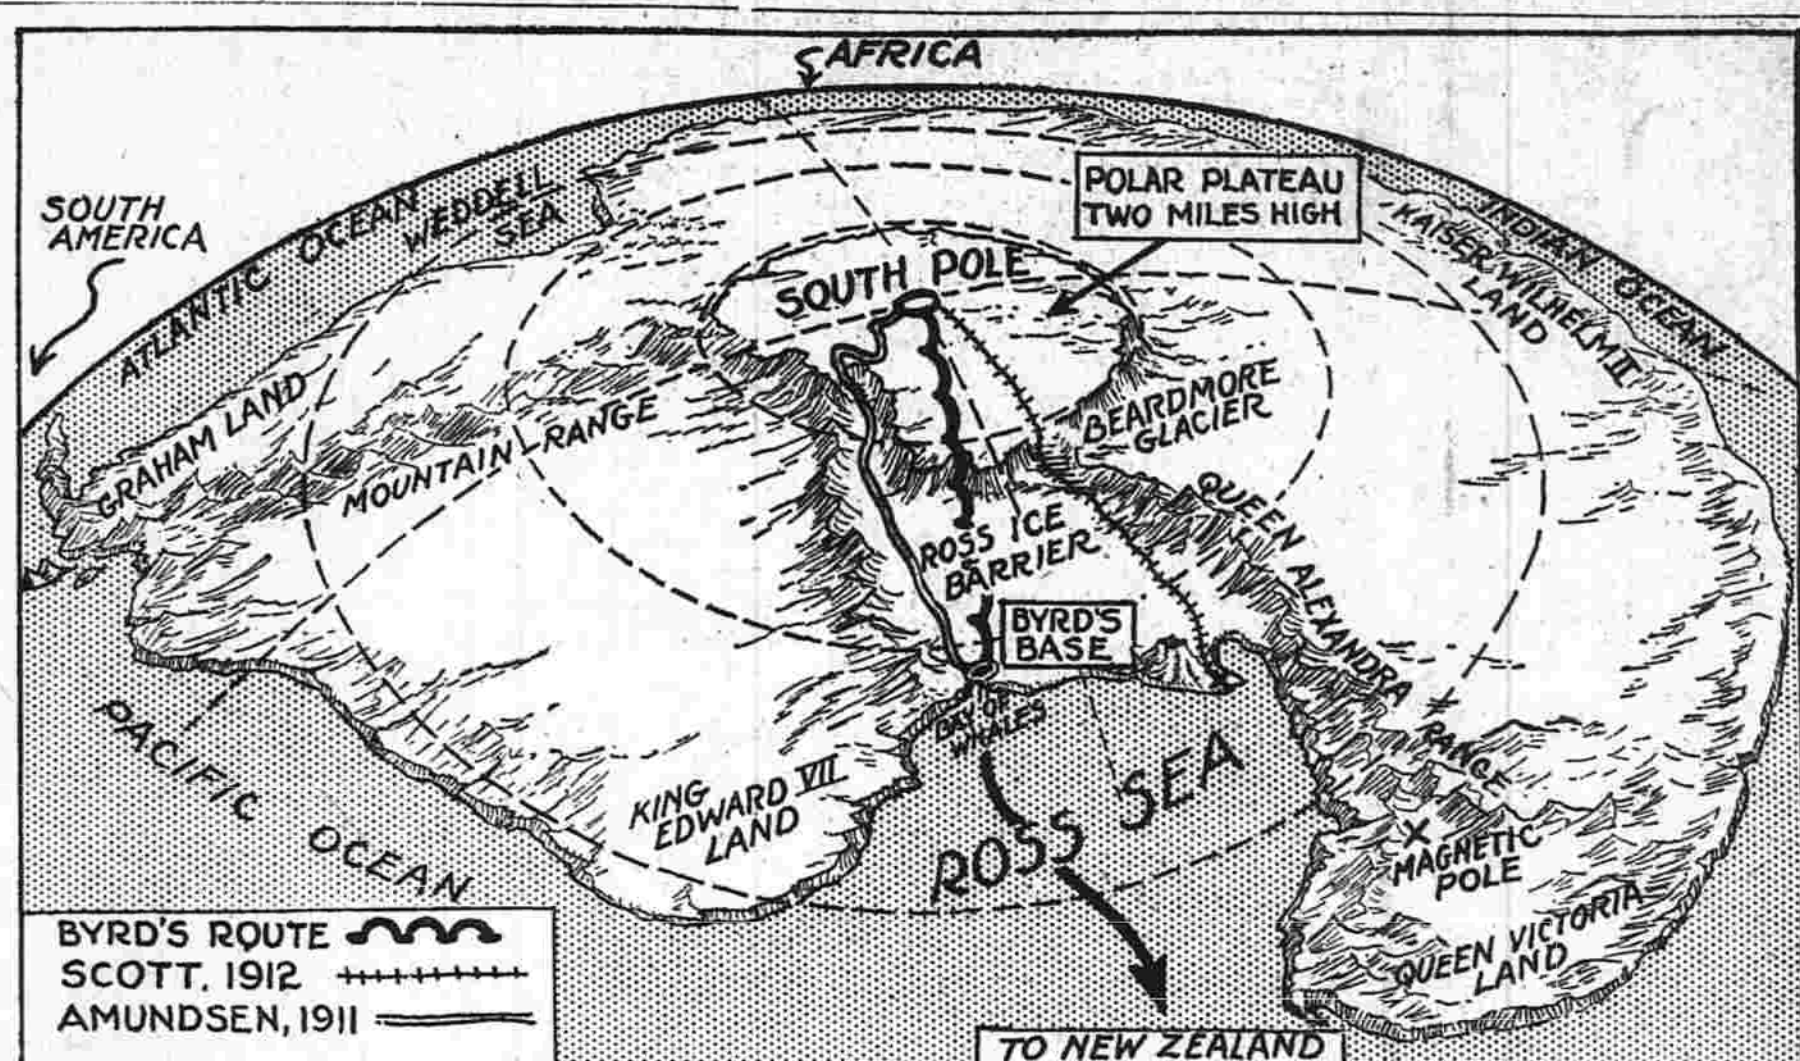

Data contained in the report will be used by the allied experts in combatting Germany's contention for decreased reparations payments. It is currently believed.

The new reparations commission, which will revise the Dawes plan and settle the reparations question definitely for all time, will begin to function some time this month.

Mr. Gilbert is now enroute for Washington to confer with President Coolidge and President-elect

WITH BIRD AT THE BOTTOM OF THE WORLD

This map shows the scene of one of the greatest adventures of an adventurous age, Commander Richard E. Byrd's conquest of the South Pole area by airplane. Byrd has established his base at the Bay of Whales, 800 miles from the pole, and plans emergency landing stations at 100-mile intervals. He will have to fly above the great polar plateau, a circular mass of ice nearly two miles high. He also plans to explore some of the surrounding Antarctic continent, desolate wastes of mountains and ice that are swept by terrific blizzards. The routes of Amundsen and Scott, who reached the pole by dog sled, are shown. Capt. Wilkins, rival polar explorer, has established his airplane base on an island in Weddell Sea (upper left) and plans to fly to the pole from that direction.

FOREIGN RUM RUNNERS BARRED FROM AMERICA

New Punishment Falls Hard On Canadians and Britons Doing Business in West Indies.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Barring of American ports to foreigners who conspire to violate the liquor laws of the country constitutes one of the most annoying punishments yet employed by the Treasury Department in the enforcement of prohibition.

This was indirectly disclosed today when it was learned that a British citizen, resident of Bermuda, indicted for a liquor conspiracy in connection with smuggling, has informed the government that he "will do anything but go to jail," if permitted to visit the United States without danger of arrest.

The Bermudian has extensive business interests in United States and formerly made frequent visits here until the rum indictment forced him to stay out or fall in the hands of the federal authorities.

Adds to Desire.

"The mere fact that he can't come in without facing arrest adds materially to his desire to enter the United States," a Treasury official said.

Whether the Treasury will agree to a compromise under which the alleged rum conspirator will be permitted to pay a fine and thus satisfy his obligation to the government was not disclosed.

Through the same method the government in effect has exiled a large number of Americans who have been smuggling from foreign territory adjacent to this country.

Canadians Barred.

A number of widely known Canadian distillers also were indicted for conspiracy at Buffalo, automatically barring them from the United States. Most of them, like the Bermudian, had considerable business interests in United States. The Buffalo indictments are held by officials here to be a definite bar against the negotiation of a new extradition treaty with Canada when American and Dominion officials confer this month in Ottawa.

Law Not Recognized.

This government hoped to obtain a revision of the old extradition treaty whereby the United States could extradite from Canada persons convicted of rum conspiracies. Canada, under the present treaty, does not recognize the American prohibition law.

The Buffalo indictments created wide resentment throughout Canada.

TO DISCUSS LAWS

Stamford, Conn., Jan. 2.—Seeking the co-ordination of courts in Fairfield county, three judges in this district have asked all city, town and borough court judges in Fairfield county to meet at the University Club in Bridgeport Saturday afternoon to discuss their problems. Judge Charles Bates Dana, of Darien; Judge Nehemiah Candee, of Norwalk; and Judge James E. Brinkerhoff, of Stamford, meeting recently, conceived the idea of an organization to consider matters pertaining to criminal, civil, juvenile, small claims and domestic relations sessions of the courts. Chief Justice George W. Wheeler has been asked to meet with the judges.

Ford Hires Only 500 Today Out Of 12,000 Job Seekers

Detroit, Jan. 2.—Nearly 12,000 job seekers, many of whom had kept an all night vigil, ankle deep in snow, today were massed outside the gates of the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company here as the result of an announcement that 30,000 additional men are to be employed in the plant.

Only 500 to 600 were to be hired today, and the thousands of others were to be sent home. "It will take us only about a half hour to plan out the men we need," was the comment of A. E. Wilson, employment manager at the plant. "The others will be told to go home and come back again." It is planned to hire about 400 men a day until March 1, Wilson said.

HAY FEVER CURE HAS BEEN FOUND

New York Doctor Says Disease Can Now Be Prevented by Inoculation.

New York, Jan. 2.—Scientific research has revealed that hay fever—that annoying affection of the mucous membrane of the eyes and nose that annually makes life miserable for millions of American sufferers—can be prevented by inoculation.

This information was disclosed today by Dr. R. P. Wodehouse of New York to the noted scientists attending the seven-day session of the American association for the advancement of science.

"Hay fever can be prevented by inoculating the sufferers with extracts of pollen grains which cause the affection," Dr. Wodehouse declared. "Although the symptoms of hay fever belong to summer, now is the time to take preventive treatment. Specific tests to learn the plants which cause people to contract hay fever need to be made in winter or early spring."

Studied Pollen

Dr. Wodehouse has been observing the microscope at the New York Botanical Garden the peculiarities of the minute dust-like pollen grains which cause hay fever and this morning informed International News Service of the result of his investigations.

"Hay fever is not a fever, and it is not caused by hay," said Dr. Wodehouse. "The real cause of hay fever is the fine dust-like pollen grains of various plants that float around in the air, get into people's noses and set up irritation."

"The fragrance of flowers, the smell of hay and a number of other things have been blamed for the cause of hay fever. Fragrant flowers do seem to aggravate hay fever, but do not cause it."

Study of hay fever, according to Dr. Wodehouse, "has opened up new fields in the study of botany itself."

The convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science will come to a close this evening. The next session will be held in about one year at Des Moines, Iowa. Many of the delegates were returning to their homes this morning and only a few departmental meetings were held today.

AMBASSADOR DYING

Cleveland, O., Jan. 2.—Myron T. Herrick, U. S. ambassador to France, was reported near death at his home in Chagrin Falls, near here today.

Herrick, who is 74, suffered an attack of bronchitis about 10 days ago, it was learned, and has been confined to his home since that time. Two tanks of oxygen were rushed from emergency clinic hospital here to the Herrick home early this morning. A nurse also was sent from the hospital.

G. O. P. EXPENSES.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The Republican campaign to elect Herbert Hoover president cost approximately $4,230,000. The House campaign funds committee was advised today by J. R. Nutt, Cleveland, treasurer of the Republican national committee.

The committee received $8,541,748 from 114,124 contributors; and returned $1,697,247. A balance of $285,627 is on hand.

VARE PROBE MAY HALT KELLOGG'S PEACE PACT

Hearst Offers $25,000 To Solve Dry Problem

New York, Jan. 2.—William Randolph Hearst today through his newspapers, offered a $25,000 prize "for the best plan to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and substitute in place of prohibition a more liberal and more American measure, which will secure for the public more genuine temperance." The offer was made in a telegram sent by Mr. Hearst to Edwin J. Clapp, famous publicist, in making the offer, Mr. Hearst wrote:

"I consider the Eighteenth Amendment not only the most flagrant violation of the basic American principle of personal liberty that has ever been imposed upon the American public, but the most complete failure as a temperance measure that has ever been conceived and put into impractical operation."

"Therefore, I would like to offer, and hereby do offer, a prize of $25,000 for the best plan to repeal the 18th Amendment and substitute in place of prohibition a more liberal and more American measure, which will secure for the public more genuine temperance, with less offensive interference with the fundamental liberties of the citizen."

Slush Fund Investigation Will Also Delay Passage of the New Cruiser Bill; Senator Reed to Use Penn- sylvanian's Case as His Valedictory.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Prospects for early enactment of the new cruiser bill and early ratification of the Kellogg Anti-War Treaty were dimmed today by indications that the Vare slush-fund case will be brought into the Senate for a decision within two weeks.

The Vare case—involving the seating of Senator-elect William S. Vare (R) of Pennsylvania, has been pending since 1927, and once called up, takes precedence over all other legislative matters. If projected into debate, valuable time will be consumed and the Coolidge legislative program will face fresh obstacles to enactment.

Reed's Farewell

Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri, who is concluding his Senatorial career at this session of Congress, probably will use the Vare case as a valedictory to his long public service. Reed, as chairman of a special slush fund committee, conducted an inquiry two years ago into the Pennsylvania primary at which Vare won the Republican Senatorial nomination. Reed's inquiry revealed Vare's organization had spent more than $1,000,000 to win him the nomination. As a result of the disclosure, Vare was denied the oath of office in December, 1927, and he has remained a Senator-elect ever since.

Committee To Meet

The Reed committee will meet tomorrow morning for a final session. The Senator-elect has invited Vare to make a personal appearance before the Pennsylvania, in Ill-health for many months, has gone to Florida. He may be represented by attorneys, who undoubtedly will seek a further delay in the case.

The contest of William E. Wilson, a Wilson County official, who lost to Vare in the 1928 election, has been considered by a deficient committee. If Vare is finally denied his seat, the Wilson contest probably will be dismissed.

May Rap Hoover

Rumors have persisted that in debating the Vare case, Reed will take a parting shot at President Hoover. In the pre-primary days of last spring, Reed frequently excooriated Hoover and during the presidential campaign, the Missouriian was Hoover's most outspoken critic. Reed probably will comment at length upon the disclosure, endorsement of Hoover at the Kansas City convention—an endorsement that threw Pennsylvania's huge delegation into the Hoover column; forced Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon to support Hoover and speeded his nomination.

With the Vare case under debate, all action on the cruiser bill and the Kellogg pact will be held in abeyance. It would surprise no one on Capitol Hill if this delay, while having little or no effect on ultimate ratification of the treaty, would effectively block passage of the cruiser bill.

THOMAS WRIGHT IS DEAD TODAY

Manchester Builder Succumbs to Embolism Early This Morning.

Thomas Wright, well known Manchester building contractor, died at his home at 29 Pearl street at 3:15 this morning. Death was due to embolism. He was in his 57th year.

Mr. Wright had not been able to engage in active work for the past eight months, but had been confined to his bed for only a week. A week ago this morning, Mr. Wright was stricken with a severe attack from which he was unable to recover.

TODAY REALLY ELECTION DAY

Presidential Electors Are Casting Their Votes for President and Vice President.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The election of Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis, which many people thought was accomplished last November, is really taking place today throughout the country.

In each of the 48 states, the presidential electors meet today and go through the motions of selecting the new president and vice president. The electors actually and constitutionally choose the president and the vice president.

After they vote, the ballots are forwarded to Washington, and at a joint session of the hours of Congress on February 13, the ballots will be tabulated. Then, and not until then, will the election of Hoover and Curtis really become official.

The cumbersome process is a relic of the days when it used to take many days of stagecoach and horseback travel to reach the capital with the votes.

COOLIDGE ON WAY BACK TO CAPITAL

Cuts Holiday Short to Be in Washington by the Time Congress Reconvenes.

Abroad the Presidential Special Enroute to Washington, Jan. 2.—A re-assembling Congress was calling President Coolidge back to Washington today. For the past week he and Mrs. Coolidge have been vacationing on the island chain off the south coast of Georgia, but the legislative situation impelled him to cut the holiday short.

Tomorrow, Congress reconvenes following the Christmas-New Year recess. Political trading as a result of the twin light over ratification of the Kellogg Anti-War Treaty and passage of the "Big Navy" Bill has made the President desirous to get back to the capitol and direct the administration forces in person. His special train is due in at Washington shortly before two o'clock this afternoon.

ELECTORS OF STATE GET TEN DOLLAR FEE

Certify That Connecticut's Majority Had Been Cast for Hoover and Curtis.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 2.—Seven citizens of Connecticut today received ten dollars each from the state controller. They were paid for their services as presidential electors after they had certified to the results of the state election and announced that Connecticut's majority had been cast for Hoover and Curtis.

Elmer H. Lonsbury, deputy secretary of state, swore in the seven electors who promptly elected Benjamin M. Holden, of Hartford as chairman of their meeting. As soon as the vote was certified, the controller's office force handed out the pay, and the electors adjourned for lunch.

The following states submitted reports on flu cases today: Tennessee, 5,205, an increase of approximately 1,100 from a week ago; Mississippi, 22,034; an increase of 20,000; and South Dakota 253, an increase of approximately 100.

PLANE STILL UP

Metroplitan Airport, Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—In its three engines functioning perfectly, the Army endurance plane "Question Mark" early today appeared over the field here, almost 24 hours from the time it took off yesterday morning. The plane had been re- fueled over Delmar near San Diego shortly after midnight for the fifth time. This was not scheduled and enabled the ship to fly long after dawn, without further replenishing of its gasoline supply.

THREE GIRL STUDENTS ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Monmouth, Oregon, Jan. 2.—Three young women, students of the Oregon normal school, are dead today, burned to death in the house of Mrs. Minnie Mack, where a number of girl students lived.

Mrs. Mack was severely burned while trying to extinguish the blaze which was started by Christmas tree candles.

The dead: Miss Florence Graham, Newport, Ore.; Miss Evelyn Ohman, Portland, Ore.; Miss Margaret Hemmers, Gresham, Ore.

Six other young women narrowly escaped a like fate by leaping from rear porch in their night clothes.

COURTED IN AIRPLANE NOW WOULD BE FREE

Wife of Stock Broker Brings Suit for Alimony in New York Court.

New York, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Percy C. Healy, wife of one of Wall street's best known stock market operators, made known today that she will file a Supreme Court petition tomorrow for alimony and counsel fees pending trial of her husband's suit for annulment.

Healy, who owns a seat on the New York Produce Exchange, and is manager of the bond department of Dominick & Dominick, filed his action some time ago. Mrs. Healy, who was a divorcee, married Healy on August 2 last in Greenwich, Conn., after a brief, but hectic courtship, in which the woman says she was flying in an airplane 5,000 feet above Keyport, N. J.

Herbert Hoover. He is due to land at New York today or tomorrow. These conferences will relate to the forthcoming meetings of the new reparations commission where America will be represented by two observers. Six other nations will take part in the conferences—Britain, France, Japan, Italy, Belgium and Germany.

LONDON'S VIEW.

London, Jan. 2.—Publication of the Gilbert reparations report will undoubtedly affect the views of the experts when they meet to set the future annual sums Germany must pay and the length of time payments shall continue. It was stated in well informed circles today.

It is understood here that the new reparations commission may not meet until February when the first sessions will be held in Paris for organization purposes.

British official circles feel that Germany is able to afford the present scale of payments as fixed by the Dawes plan. It is held, also, that France is enjoying a similar state of prosperity and is thus able to make adequate payments upon her war debts.

It was authoritatively stated that the allied governments have long known the facts regarding Germany's financial and economic "Come back" and that the optimistic news of German prosperity in the Gilbert report was no secret.

in the southwest section of the town.

He is the young man who stole two five-toes from the Perrett and Glenney street Summer street. One became stuck in the mud when he started out for a joy-ride and he was forced to return and steal another truck to try to get first out. His wife then had him arrested for non-support and he failed to make the payments the court had ordered.

Remained in New York. Later he was sent to New York to bring back an automobile and was given $10 expense money. He went to New York, spent the money, forgot all about the automobile he was to get, and started wandering the streets. He was finally picked up by the Salvation Army and given food and a bed. Saturday night he returned to Manchester only to face another non-support warrant.

Since being confined his delusions have been quite noticeable, and the commitment to an asylum today resulted.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 2.—The first market of the new year witnessed another skyrocketing of prices of a few of the speculative favorites and a steady jacking up of values of the well-known Motor Car, Copper, oil and Electrical stocks in a session which promised to equal some of the 6,000,000-share sessions of last month.

Radio's 20-point jump to 395 was the outstanding performance of the day, most of the other high-priced favorites meeting continued opposition as the day advanced. Confident buying of the motor stocks sent General Motors to 206, the highest price in six weeks, while Packard climbed 3 1/4 to 153, Chrysler to around 125 and other motor favorites a point or more.

The biggest turnover of the day was in the motor shares, an excellent advertisement for the big motor show starting Saturday of this week.

Heavy buying of General Electric forced that stock up 8 points to 229 as reports reached the financial district of a new split-up.

Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck remained close to the home base as measured by Monday's closing prices.

Nineteen cents a pound is Wall street's latest guess on the copper market situation. Vanishing surplus of the red metal, with increasing demand in home and foreign markets, will eventually force the price much higher, say the copper bulls, as they pushed up prices of Anaconda, Andes and other copper stocks today.

American Smelting directors placed the New stock on a 4 per cent dividend basis today, equivalent to 12 per cent for the present stock. Good buying of "smelters" followed this announcement, the stock having been one of the favorites in the latest upward surge of the market. Chile Copper and Inspiration were also in big demand.

Sinclair and Pan-American B ran a stiff race for the position of favorite in the independent Oil, each gaining 2 points in a rapid turnover. Sinclair is expected to go on a cash dividend basis in the near future. Atlantic Refining forged ahead to around 63 as the leader of the Standard Oils, while Standard of New York was unable to keep up the hot pace established last week.

Steel mills are running at 85 per cent capacity, with every prospect of heavier operations in January according to the Iron Age, which figured the 1928 steel ingot production at 50,000,000 tons, the highest on record. This was good news for the steel stock bulls, who proceeded forthwith to mark up the prices of U. S. Steel, Vandalia, Bethlehem, Youngstown and other favorites in this list.

Call money ruled at 12 per cent, with a prospect of an easing up in the rate later in the week.

MILK TRUCK SKIDS, SPILLS 800 QUARTS

Local Dealer's Auto Overturns in North Coventry; Driver Is Unhurt.

Eight hundred quarts of milk went to waste yesterday morning when a milk truck owned by W. K. Straughan of 315 East Center street overturned on the east knoll of Twin Hills on the Manchester-Willimantic road in North Coventry. Wallace S. Tracy of 87 Spruce street, driver of the Reo truck, said that the accident resulted when the rear wheels locked. This caused the car to leave the highway and overturn. Although the milk was lost, fortunately Tracy escaped injury. The truck was only slightly damaged. The milk loss runs well over a hundred dollars.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Jan. 2.—The motor stocks led the upward procession in prices at the opening of the first market of 1929 today. The market rose 2 1/4 to 134 1/4; Briggs up 1 1/4 to 61 1/4; Hupp up 1/2 to 81; Packard up 3/4 to 153; Studebaker up 1/2 to 78 1/2. Radio gained 1 1/2 to 376; Greene Cananea Copper was up 2 1/2 to 176; Anaconda up 1/2 to 129 1/4; Pan-American B up 1/2 to 49 1/2. Rails and Oils were inactive.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Jan. 2.—Bulls in the Stock Market tumbled over themselves in the first session of 1929 to buy their favorite stocks. The opening today found a heap of buying orders in the Motor, Cooper and Oil shares awaiting attention, with the Motors the choice of the prices. As a consequence, sales in the first half hour totalled 900,000 shares, or at the rate of a 9,000,000 share day if sustained.

With the period of tight money drawing to a close and business leaders bubbling over with optimism for the New Year, the bulls found it comparatively easy to push prices higher. In the annual "window dressing" for the big auto show in this town beginning Saturday, the motor stocks were confidently boosting over with prices ranging about 2 1/2 to 206; Packard up 3 1/2 to 153 Chrysler and Briggs up 2 each; Studebaker and Willys Overland fractionally higher.

With another huge gas and electric light merger looming, the stocks of Metropolitan Lighting Companies were again bought in large blocks. The Oils were strong, with Pan American B up 3 points at 5 1/2 and Standard of New York again turned over in tremendous quantities. Sinclair did the best in the independent oil group and Atlantic Refining was in demand at 67 1/2, up 1 1/2.

Enthusiasm was chilled by the 12 per cent renewal money rate but Wall street believes that a day or two will make a big difference in the money market situation.

Most of the high-priced specialties ran into a stone wall of profit-taking and speculative selling in the second period and could make little progress. Radio, Montgomery Ward, Wright Aero and other performers did not stray very far from Saturday's closing prices, and the turnover was comparatively small.

Pennsylvania Railroad common sold up about 2 points in the lead of the rails, and Great Northern Preferred was also a leader. Stocks of the New York City street railways sold higher on the 7-cent fare prospect.

Trading increased in this period and the ticker fell back about 20 minutes. Commodity markets were irregular, with cotton higher at the opening and a gradually slumping to lower levels, and grain prices fractionally lower from the start.

FRIENDS GIVE PARTY FOR MRS. MARION CURRY

Invalid Is Visited on New Year's Day by Group of Her Kinswomen.

Mrs. Marion Curry of 7 Ford street was honored again yesterday by relatives and friends whose custom it is to gather at her home each New Year's day since she has been a shut-in. Mrs. Curry has been confined to her home for the greater part of the last 15 years but has borne her crippled condition with the greatest patience and fortitude. She is at all times cheerful and thankful for the blessings that remain to her, and keeps her fingers busy fashioning pretty crocheted or knitted articles when she isn't reading.

In her old home in Scotland New Year's day is celebrated perhaps more than any other holiday in the year. It is a day of visiting and good fellowship as well as feasting. Her kinswomen sometimes prepare for her the Scotch dainties she is no longer able to cook for herself, combine in giving her some useful gift or make individual presents.

Yesterday they brought the essentials for a nice supper, including a baked meat pie, scalloped potatoes, fruit cake and bread and other good things and Mrs. Curry as well as her guests thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

SCIENCE MAY PROVE GUILT OF "APE MAN"

Northcott is believed to have slain. Although living witnesses were ready to accuse the 21-year-old Canadian youth, the prosecution will depend largely upon the mute evidence of science in an attempt to prove charges that Northcott slew little boys on his Wineville chicken ranch.

Scientific Evidence
Fragments of broken bones, wisps of hair and sweepings from blood-stained flooring have been assembled, placed under microscope examination and declared by prosecution experts to bear out the charges that human lives were taken on the desolate Northcott farm.

The prosecution has not overlooked the importance of such evidence and even a single strand of hair has been photographed and enlarged to such size as to permit a cross-sectional view for analytical testimony.

While the body of only one of Northcott's four alleged victims has been discovered, it is upon the minute findings which scientists scaped from the three-acre farm that the state expects to establish the corpus delicti of the others. Lawyers insist this must be shown before murder can be proven.

THREE DIE IN FIRE

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 2.—Samuel Scott, of San Antonio, and James Martin, of Itasca, both medical students at Baylor Medical College here, were burned to death, and 15 persons were injured, in a fire that razed three hotels and rooming houses here today.

The bodies were found in the ruins and were identified by classmates.

The buildings destroyed were across the street from the medical college and Baylor School for Nurses.

ada. It is admitted that United States had little chance for a treaty to add to the enforcement of prohibition, even before these indictments, and that now whatever small chance that existed has vanished.

The Ottawa conference will hardly amount to more than an exchange of views of the government. An effort later may be made by the United States to obtain an agreement from Canada that the Dominion customs authorities will refuse clearances of liquor to United States.

Officials said this might help some, although the liquor would be cleared for the West Indies from Canada and probably about the same amount would reach the United States.

FARMER KILLED

Holyoke, Mass., Jan. 2.—Sliding on the icy road as he swung to enter a gasoline filling station today, John F. Edmunds, 32, a farmer of Palmer, was instantly killed when his automobile was struck by a motor truck driven by Homer D. Dodge, of Northampton. Yesterday Harold Edmunds, a brother, nearly lost his life when he was accidentally shot.

Pick Jan. 30, 31, Feb. 1 and 2 as Dates for Annual Exhibit at Armory.

An important meeting of the Manchester Automobile Dealers' association was held at the Sheridan Hotel this noon.

A new layout for this year's show has been perfected. There will be a double aisle down through the armory floor with booths around the four sides of the building and three center booths between the aisles.

There will be twelve exhibitors this year. The spaces were drawn for and it has been definitely decided that no changes will be made in the layout from the present plan.

CREDIT PURCHASE RAISES OLD POINT

Ring Bought on Time and Given to Girl Taken Back As Payments Fail.

One girl in Manchester who was wearing a diamond ring just before Christmas is without that ring now and behind the reason is a question of law.

The terms were agreed upon, but because the payments would start before the first of the year the suggestion was made that the ring be held until December 24, when the first payment could be made and the ring taken.

The girl was presented in due course of time, a little ahead of Christmas and then Constable James Duffy appeared on the scene. It seems that there was $3 to be paid each week on the ring, and there had been no other payment made outside of the $50 when it was purchased.

After bringing both to the police station—which was a good way to show that there was some law concerned in the case—an appointment was made to have all concerned meet in the jewelry shop the next morning.

AUTO TOURISTS TO NEW ENGLAND NUMBER 205,000

Boston—More than 205,000 visiting motorists, or an increase of more than 10 per cent compared with the same period in 1927, toured New England during the past summer, according to a report by the American Automobile Association. The national motoring body based its statement on the checkup made by the A. A. clubs in New England from June 1 to October 31, 1928.

"The upward trend in the tide of motor travel in New England," the report stated, "is largely due to the program of 'selling New England' launched over a year ago by 18 affiliated motor clubs in cooperation with 205,000 motorists who called for service."

Aggressive Program
With a view to the adoption of a more aggressive program to popularize the recreational assets of New England, the national motoring body has prepared a series of tabulated charts showing the origin of the motor tourist business and the areas patronized.

The following outstanding facts were brought out:
First, of the total number of 206,950 motor tourists handled by the motor clubs, 175,234 or 85 per cent came from the populous centers east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river, and 14,001 or six per cent from the region east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio.

Second of the total number, 120,619 or 59 per cent declared in registering that they were "on a general tour" of New England and had no specific destination.

Third, in the case of the motor tourists with specific destinations Massachusetts led all the New England states with 31,746 or 15 per cent of the total volume handled through the motor club agencies. Maine was a close second with 27,291 or 13 per cent, while New Hampshire was third with 16,189 or 8 per cent.

Fourth, a large volume of the motor tourist travel in New England continued through September, and into October, a fact which was declared to demonstrate that the motorists are lengthening the New England vacation season.

A definite figure for the money value of the motor tourist business handled by the clubs was not given in the tabulations, but it was estimated that it would total close to $20,250,000.

SIDEWALKS SANDED EARLY THIS MORNING

Town Men Out Bright and Early to Cover Slippery Walks for Town's Protection

Men in the employ of the town were out early this morning sanding the sidewalks which still were in a slippery condition. It was even necessary to do this along the business section of Manchester.

The law requires the cleaning of walks within 24 hours of the ending of a storm and provides that unless this is done the town has a right to come in and clean the walks and charge the cost against the abutting property owners. In the meantime, if there is any damage done the abutting property owner is not held responsible.

Sidewalks were ordered laid by the Selectmen, the town's agents, and for this work the town pays one-third of the cost and the abutting property owner pays the other two-thirds. The walks are built under direction of the town, which throws the liability back against the town. Thus the sanding protection.

Water is termed "warm" at 98 degrees F., "tepid" at 87 degrees and "hot" at 105 degrees.

A Revolution In Electrical Home Service

COMplete electric service in all homes presents an entirely new picture with our new domestic schedules just announced. Years ago electricity was expensive, and general use for all purposes was only possible for the wealthy. Step by step, four times in less than seven years, domestic meter rates have been reduced, until now these new prices make it really practical for thousands of our customers, in small or large houses, to have all the advantages of complete electric service at a cost within their means. All customers who are already using electricity extensively will have their bills reduced. All will be able to extend their uses of electricity still further to include many household services which they have hitherto done by hand or by other means. All can now obtain this added energy at lower meter rates than have ever been offered them before. These new rates are based on a new, revolutionary idea—that every home, from the most modest to the wealthiest, can have the enjoyment of complete electric service at a price which is fair and reasonable.

The "Full-Use Rate"

FOR those of our customers who want to "Do it Electrically," the "Full-Use" rate is the answer. These remarkable new prices are as follows:—

Meter Rates, 3 cents per kilowatt-hour for the first 200 kilowatt hours, 2 cents per kilowatt-hour for all additional, with a monthly flat rate of 20c per 100 square feet of billing area.

These prices reduce the bills of all customers, in large and small homes, who already make considerable use of electric service for various purposes in addition to the usual lighting. The new prices are particularly low for more complete service such as cooking, refrigeration, hot water heating, etc. much of which can be obtained at the new 2c price.

For the average customer who electrifies completely, the overall price, including the flat rate charge, would be less than 3 cent. per kilowatt hour.

For all who want it, here is complete electric service at a price which is revolutionary.

The "Partial-Use Rate"

For those who are not yet fully equipped for electric home service, the "Partial-Use" rate is the answer. It is as follows:—

Meter Rate 4c per kilowatt-hour, with a monthly flat rate of 9c per 100 square feet of billing area.

This schedule, with its low meter rate of 4c, was formerly offered only to customers who had electric cooking or refrigeration in addition to the usual lighting. Now we have removed all restrictions and these prices are offered for any home uses.

These prices reduce the bills of all customers who use a normal amount of electricity, and also are very low for any added use that is desired for lighting or electric appliances, until such time as the increase in the electrical habit will make the Full-Use Schedule more economical.

This is the way to begin to make use of electricity as a universal servant.

ALARGE proportion of our domestic bills in January are being made out on the above schedules. Those accounts which indicate the use of electricity for many purposes are being billed on the "Full-Use" Schedule, while those whose use is not so general will be billed on the "Partial-Use" Schedule.

The old 5 1-2 cent meter rate with the 6 1-2 cent flat rate now called the "Limited-Use" Schedule, will be used for those customers whose use of electricity remains too small to take advantage of either of the above schedules.

Customers will be transferred from one schedule to another on request during 1929 with adjustment on the back bills from January 1, 1929.

Unlimited Opportunities For Electricity At Low Prices

OUR customers have unlimited possibilities on the new "Full-Use" and "Partial-Use" rates. They can make an end to drudgery, they can have all the newest services such as refrigeration, electric cooking and water heating. They can brighten their homes with the best of light, all at a cost which they can afford. Electricity becomes the universal servant, whose labors are limited only by the desire of the customer.

SUCH possibilities cannot but change entire problems of household management. Our prices have been reduced four times in less than seven years, and each time our customers have shown their approval by using more and more electricity. We believe that they have indicated they want the ultimate in electric service at a price which is fair and reasonable.

This is our answer—Complete electric home service available for every home at a price all can afford.

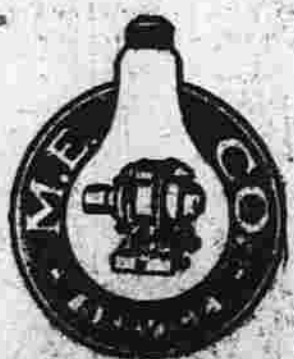

And, even with these reduced rates, our liberal lamp renewal policy and trouble service continue as heretofore.

GILBERT'S MISSION

S. Parker Gilbert, brilliant young agent-general for reparations payments, is on his way to the United States on a mission which it is sincerely to be hoped will not be rendered fruitless by too much preconception and too much obstinacy in Washington. There are many Americans who cannot refrain from wishing that the development of the reparations question in Europe had been delayed by enough weeks to bring Mr. Gilbert here after the Fourth of March. Many admirable qualities as Mr. Coolidge possesses, imagination is scarcely to be regarded as one of them, and it is extremely probable that his successor in the Presidential office will have a livelier and more imaginative conception of the debt-reparation problem than is expressed in Mr. Coolidge's somewhat well known analysis—"They hired the money of us, didn't they?"

Mr. Hoover is often and widely quoted as expressing himself in opposition to debt reduction. However, the proposal that Mr. Gilbert brings is not likely to be one of debt reduction but of debt payment "at present value." The present value of European debts to America cannot be determined by any rule of arithmetic; because there are factors in the situation which which arithmetics have nothing to do.

It is simply inconceivable that European nations will go on paying us huge sums of money, part being payments on principal but the greater part interest, through two generations. They will not, because it isn't human nature to do it. If no other solution is ever reached, they will simply get together some time in the future and agree to repudiate. That would be no more than many of our own states have done in the past. Those states did it because they had to. Europe will do it, inevitably, because she considers that she has to, in order not to sacrifice her populations to the penalties of a war of a past generation.

Wherefore the present value of our European debts is not to be determined by figuring discount rate on payments deferred over sixty years. It can be determined only by weighing, along with the figures, the element of humanism, the rights of unborn millions. Mr. Coolidge's formula does not meet the problem at all. It is infinitely to be hoped that Mr. Hoover will have one that will.

And nothing is more unlikely that Mr. Coolidge will choose to meet the proposals of Mr. Gilbert, whatever they are, with that ancient answer unqualified by any opinion of his early successor. As a matter of fact, if he is guided by his customary good sense, he will so arrange matters that the dealings of the reparations agent will be in effect, if not in appearance, with the incoming President.

Upon America's estimate of the present values of her numerous European credits depends the probable pay-off, within the next year or so, of the whole harassing business of debts and reparations, which ever since the war have been a drag on civilization, a handicap on world prosperity and a menace to peace. It will be Hoover's job. It is no reflection on the all-around capacity of Mr. Coolidge to admit that Mr. Hoover is, by all his experiences, far better equipped to handle it than the present President, whose view of the problem is not only rigid but limited.

THE DRAGNET

As the New York police department is inevitably and at all times the observed of all observers who possess an interest in the treatment of crime and the maintenance of good order, the dragnetting of the big city under the new Whalen police regime commands the attention of thousands throughout the country. One naturally feels a keen curiosity, difficult to assuage, about these wholesale raids on the underworld where literally hundreds of persons with criminal records are being brought in, looked over by a regiment of detectives, and in many cases turned over to the courts for prosecution. Whether, among the lot, are many, or any, of that pitiful class so often exploited in play and story, the ex-convicts who have paid the price for their sins, who are trying to go straight and who are hounded from pillar to post and driven anew to crime by the malevolence of the "bulls."

Frankly, we wish we knew. We should like exceedingly to be sure that Mr. Whalen's morning line-up consisted only of crooks, active and by present purpose, and that the police, in their eagerness to stand in with the new commissioner, are not doing so somewhat at the expense of unfortunates.

Still and all, the chances are that in pretty much every case the fish coming to the police net deserve the catching. A somewhat extended and general experience with police and police methods convinces us that even the hardest-boiled "dick" will very seldom indeed refuse to give the ex-convict a decent "break" if he deserves it. We have always been more or less skeptical concerning the "persecuted" jailbird. That he is anything but an isolated incident we frankly doubt.

So that, though an element of faint doubt will probably intrude as to the justice of the dragnet operations, it is almost safe to take it for granted that nineteen-twentieths of their victims are of a sort that would be far more useful to society behind bars than in front of them.

IMMIGRATION

Promoted simultaneously from several sources, one of the leaders in the movement being Rep. Albert Johnson of the state of Washington, a movement has suddenly arisen looking to the complete and abrupt stoppage of all immigration for a period of years, the only exemptions to be made being the closest relatives of persons of foreign origin already in this country.

It is perhaps to be doubted whether the advocates of complete suspension of immigration expect to bring it to pass. More likely they are adopting the military theory that an energetic offensive constitutes the most effective defense. We are not at all sure but that they are right.

The same element to which Candidate Alfred E. Smith yielded in condemning the 1890 quota basis at the beginning of the present campaign—a yielding that probably cost him far more votes than it gained—is eternally at work on Congress, bringing to bear every conceivable sort of pressure, in hope of having the immigration quotas based on the census of 1910 or even on that of 1920. Notoriously this would operate to exclude north and west Europeans and admit more of the "newest immigration," members of the hybrid races of southern and eastern Europe, the Balkans, Asia Minor and the Mediterranean Levant.

While it would seem to be unthinkable that such pressure as this, frankly working in the interests of a new, little assimilated and entirely selfish minority, should stand a chance of succeeding, it is not to be overlooked that considerable of it comes from large interests concerned with obtaining a constant supply of labor of the cheapest kind. It is not exerted solely by newcomers to the country. And it works subtly.

pected to determine the future plan of headship for the Salvation Army—whether it shall continue to have its leadership confined by Army law to the Booth family, to be passed along from father to son, or whether the organization shall be controlled by an elected group of Army leaders.

The entire American division of the Army is said to be united in favor of the latter theory of control and in support of Commander Evangeline Booth who, in the matter of succession to Army headship, is directly opposed to the present Army head, her brother, Gen. Bramwell Booth.

The possibility that the Council may, by a three-fourths vote of its 64 members, depose Gen. Booth, who is ill, and choose a new head for the organization on the ground that he is physically incapacitated, is another question which is being agitated, pro and con, on both sides of the water.

A BIT THICK

It is announced that one of the first acts of the incoming Legislature will be the passage of an amendment to the Connecticut National Guard law to provide for a new position on the governor's staff, that of an aide-de-camp with the rank of major, to represent training camp service. It is further said that this position on the staff is being created with a view to having John Coolidge, son of the President of the United States, appointed to it.

While it may be true that young Mr. Coolidge possesses qualifications which make him indispensable on the governor's staff it seems to us that the projectors of this rather extraordinary act of courtesy are quite overlooking the fact that he has been a resident of this state only since last June. In other words, it would appear to be piling it on a bit thick, as the English say.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 2.—Manhattan has grown handsomer with its wrecking tools than its traditions. It has few songs to sing to the past. Its voice is raised to the future and the transient present. The few hymns that rise to the city's yesterdays come from men whose hair is growing thin or whose long since parted white—or from columnists like myself who are called sentimental, or something like that.

The city's chant is "Tear down and build up." Tear down and build up. So the old mansions and the old landmarks go, and even the Waldorf Astoria, which was considered inviolate, will soon pass. And the Waldorf is to hostilities what petticoats were to grandmas' dimity. But such has been the story ever since those days after the Revolution when New York decided to grow up and become civilized.

In the "thirties" it was the United States Hotel that took the breaths of the natives. Located in the downtown belt, where skyscrapers pierce the clouds, it was called "Holt's Polly." The builder was credited with unheard of audacity in putting up so fancy and extravagant a hostelry.

The colony grew into a town and crept slowly up Broadway toward 14th street. It's first daring spurt was as far up as the site of the present World Building in Park row, where the forgotten French Hotel once stood. Then the van-guard of pomp and pretension conceived the Metropolitan Hotel at Broadway and Prince street, of which Irving Cobb once wrote that "it had a dining room only slightly smaller than the state of Rhode Island." The courtyard of this hotel became the original historic Niblo's Garden, first of Manhattan's swanky theater resorts.

If you've never heard of "The Block Crook," just ask grandpa. He'll tell you all about the fame of that theatrical enterprise, which still finds its way into theatrical members. First of all the spectacular burlesques it was, and it was staged in the Niblo Gardens.

Fifth Avenue was quite too private a thoroughfare to be invaded by Inns, so they clung to Broadway, evolving the Continental and perhaps the most famous of them all—the Hoffman House. As the years rolled by Broadway grew too congested for the aristocracy. A street car line had actually appeared to complicate matters. The shrewd innkeepers began to turn their eyes to the ritzy environs of Fifth avenue.

In rapid succession came the Fifth Avenue, the Hoffman and the Brevoort. Here social tradition was born and fostered. The Fifth avenue hotels became the rendezvous of the epicures.

And so it has gone. When the Waldorf appeared it was, to be sure, something to take the breaths of the hot-polled. No one had dreamed that a hotel might one day rise in an aristocratic residence belt, any more than anyone ever dreamed that the Waldorf might one day be doomed to extinction, like all the other landmarks in New York.

Meanwhile, the last word in splendor attaches to the extravagant new skytouchers that rise everywhere. What with gold-revolving doors, gem-studded keys and comforts beyond dreams, they tower in imagination as in size. Yet such are the changing times that in this strange day and age a gang murder is staged in the room of one of the gilded palaces and a drug runner is found hiding in another.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

WHY COLDS IN WINTER?

Why is it that most of the colds, influenza and pneumonias occur during the months of December, January and February? Many people believe that these illnesses occur because of the cooler weather, but scientists are now coming to the belief that the body is less resistant to these diseases when it is deprived of the normal amount of sunshine present during the summer months.

In many parts of the north only one-half to one-third of the amount of sunshine reaches the earth's surface in winter as in summer. In the cities the amount reaching the earth is even less than this because of the thick curtain of smoke overlying the industrial districts.

It is well known that the ultraviolet light, by reaching the skin, produces practically the same effect as vitamin D, which is present in many food substances. This lack of sunlight would not be a serious factor if the diet of the winter months were as well balanced as the diet of summer.

When the colder weather comes on, everyone develops an appetite for the heavy starchy foods, lacking in vitamins and alkaline elements, and these almost invariably form the principal part of every meal. This instinctive desire for the richer foods is made worse because most of the protective foods, such as the vegetables and fruits, are either unobtainable during the winter months or they are sold at such an exorbitant price that the buyer for the family does not feel that it is a good investment to purchase them.

During the cold months people spend very little time out of doors, preferring to stay within heated rooms where the air is none too fresh. You have probably noticed that your first serious cold of winter occurred immediately after the heating plant started its operations.

If you wish to guard against the disorders of winter, you should see to it that your diet contains a large amount of the protective vegetables and fruits, such as lettuce, spinach, carrots, oranges and grapefruit. Also, it would be well not to use too many of the starchy foods but to use a fair amount of the protein foods and a larger amount of the vegetable oils.

Even during the winter months it is possible to obtain sun-baths by exercising in the open air in a bathing suit, or without clothes if you have sufficient privacy. There are several institutions where tubercular children play and have school in the snow during the winter months. Some of these are located on the snowy, sunny banks of the Alps in Switzerland and in the Adirondacks of the United States. In these institutions the children play in the snow with only a loin cloth and do not catch cold. In fact, there have been many remarkable cures of tuberculosis and scurvy, among these children. Of course, when they are inactive and not playing, their bodies are kept warm by protective garments and furs.

Let these facts be an inspiration to all of us. Most of our sickness results from physical or mental inertia and we should take the proper precautions, not by leading an inactive existence, but by a stuffy hot room and eating rich foods, but by seeking the active life and eating a well balanced diet. One who understands and really carries out these suggestions, not to the extreme of being a "crank," but in moderation, should be no more troubled by sickness during the winter months than at any other time of the year.

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet addressed to him in care of The Herald. Enclose large self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Body Oils.

Question: Sensitive writes: "In your health column you would greatly assist the hygienic conditions of all concerned if you would drive home the question of personal cleanliness. There are often the foul odors from humans from lack of soap and water. I understand that the persons concerned do not detect his or her odor, therefore it is more difficult to overcome."

Answer: It is not always because of lack of soap and water but often from internal uncleanness. Even if one's friends do not tell him they often sidestep, and many a sweet-heart is lost in this way. Certain odors are associated with certain diseases, but a full colon is the principal cause of all repulsive bodily odors. The remedy is diet and intestinal cleanliness.

Wheat Bread or Rye.

Question: U. J. asks: "Which is best, rye or wholewheat bread, or rice?"

Answer: Wholewheat bread is superior to any other kind of bread sold in the market. There are very few places in this country where you can secure pure rye bread. It is usually made by mixing a small amount of rye flour with a large amount of white flour. Rice is an excellent cereal but you should secure the whole or unpolished rice.

Vein on Nose.

Question: Reader asks: "What can be done to an enlarged vein on the very tip of the nose, which has the aspect of a spider?"

Answer: A dermatologist or plastic surgeon should be able to get rid of the large vein for you. These veins can be reduced through electrical treatments or destroyed through burning with the electrical high frequency spark.

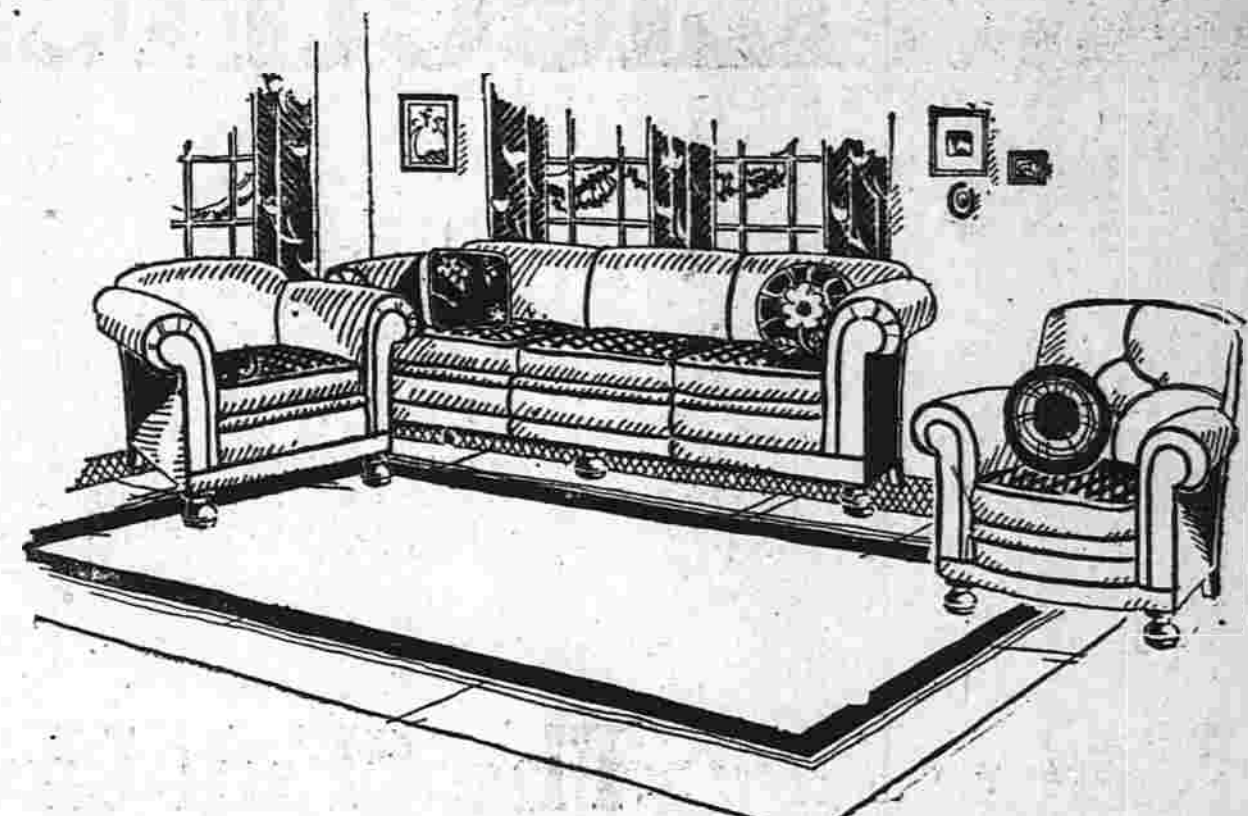

The new 13-month calendar idea surely will fall. What we need is fewer first-of-the-month, rather than more.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc.

54 YEARS at SOUTH MANCHESTER

INVITE NATIONS IN PROGRAM TO HONOR GORGAS

New York—Invitations to nineteen Central and South American countries to participate in the maintenance of the new Gorgas Memorial Laboratory at Panama have been issued under the signature of Dr. Franklin Martin, chairman of the board of directors of the Gorgas Memorial Institute of Tropical and Preventative Medicine, Inc., which has executive offices in Washington.

The Republic of Panama and the United States government are already collaborating in the establishment and maintenance of this Laboratory, and officials of the Institute hope to make it an Allied-American affair.

It was announced from Washington that already the Presidents of several of the Latin American countries have signified their desire to join with Panama and the United States in the movement which has as its chief aim the prevention of disease throughout the world.

Memorial Institute

The Institute is named after Major General William Crawford Gorgas, the great sanitarian who took the mosquito theory of the transmission of yellow fever and malaria and gave it practical application in Havana and Panama. Gorgas made possible the building of the Canal. In making these places "the healthiest under tropical skies" he saved tens of thousands of American lives as well as millions of dollars. The Gorgas Memorial Institute is a tribute to his work.

One of the "unusual" aims of the Institute is to "save the 750,000 lives lost annually in the United States, due to preventable disease." Another is to "increase the span of life from fifty-eight years, its present average to sixty-five or seventy by educating the public to adopt the annual health audit by the family physician."

Dr. Martin, in his letter to the nineteen Central and South American countries, said in part: "At the last session of Congress of the United States a bill was passed by unanimous vote in both Houses, and signed by President Coolidge on May 8, 1923, providing for the establishment of a Gorgas Memorial Institute Laboratory at Panama."

$50,000 Appropriation

"The Congress provided an annual appropriation of $50,000 for this purpose, and by the provisions of the Act, all of the countries of South and Central America were invited to join in the maintenance of this Laboratory by contributing a certain annual sum on a pro rata basis, according to population."

"This letter will serve as an official request from the officers and board of directors of the Institute for the participation of your country in a fund to operate and maintain the Laboratory."

"This international health project honors a man who has rendered a tremendous service in life saving throughout all our countries—Dr. William Crawford Gorgas. His work in Havana, in Panama, and in various other countries in South America in the fight against yellow fever and other tropical diseases brought him world fame, but particularly impressed the people of the Americas. It is only fitting that his great efforts in the field of preventative medicine should be maintained, especially in the tropics, where his achievements were noteworthy."

ANOTHER VITAPHONE SUCCESS AT STATE

"Women They Talk About"
Here Tonight and Tomorrow

"Women They Talk About," Warner Brothers' up-to-the-minute drama of political life, which comes to the State Theatre today and tomorrow, is augmented not only by the symphonic accompaniment of Vitaphone, but in high spots in the action by the voices of the players themselves.

Irene Rich and Audrey Ferris head the cast, which also includes William Collier, Jr., Claude Gillingwater, Anders Randolf, Jack San-toro and John Milljan. Anthony Coldeway did the story. The filmization is by Robert Lord and Lloyd Bacon directed.

The cause of the feminists is the basis of the story which has to do with the race for political favor between a woman of the aristocracy and a self-made man, who had at one time been her father's office boy and a suitor for her hand. Miss Rich plays the part. In trying to straighten out a quarrel between her father and the mayor, the latter casts slurring remarks, which decide her to enter the race against him.

Complications come about by way of the mayor's son and the lady candidate's daughter, who are in love. Henchmen of the mayor seek to prevent the romance by employing crooked means of disaster.

This furnishes the exciting climax to the picture.

William Collier, Jr., and Audrey Ferris are the two young lovers. Both give splendid characterizations.

The co-feature for today and tomorrow is "The Air Legion," an exciting and red-blooded drama of the aviation service. Antonio Moreno has the principle role, with Martha Steeper and Ben Lyon in the supporting cast. "The Air Legion" is on FBO special production and was directed by Bert Glennon.

"Girls of Today," a Tiffany-Stahl Color Gem, will be shown in addition to the two features.

On Friday and Saturday the State will present another Warner Brothers' Vitaphone production, "State Street Sadie."

EXPECT AN ANSWER FROM PROF. BARNES

New York, Jan. 2.—Both religious and scientific circles were waiting today for another expression from Prof. Harry Elmer Barnes, Smith college sociologist, who in declaring that "God is a myth," provoked a controversy between the clergy here and the scientific bodies now in convention.

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn has rebuked Barnes for speaking on a "non-scientific subject." Dr. Osborn is the retiring president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Prof. Barnes took an unwarranted liberty in intruding in the convention a metaphysical, philosophical and religious subject," Dr. Osborn said. "As president of the Association for the Advancement of Science I desire to protest and have the public understand that he was entirely wrong to take the platform of this scientific organization and to put out his views on a subject totally unrelated to the subjects under discussion.

"We were very desirous of requesting the clergy to relieve the public mind concerning the possibility of any antagonism between science and religion. There is none and there can be none. Some of the greatest men of science have been very religious."

MAYTAG SPONSORS NEW TYPE RADIO PROGRAM

Radio audiences in all sections of the country are getting new thrills of delight due to the introduction of an entirely new type of radio broadcasting by The Maytag Company, washer manufacturers of Newton, Iowa. The introductory program broadcast recently from K D K A, Pittsburgh, and K Y W, Chicago, were so successfully presented and so enthusiastically received that the new system bids fair to revolutionize present broadcasting methods.

The new type of radio broadcasting, perfected after two years of study and experimentation, is known as the So-A-Tonic process, and is exclusively controlled by National Radio Advertising, Inc., of Chicago. The new process permits the assembling of talent in the larger cities, where a transcription is made by electrical reproduction and transported to the various stations selected to broadcast the Maytag programs. Some idea of the importance of the new process is indicated by the fact that certain rulings by the Federal Radio Commission were necessary before it could be used.

The 1929 radio program for the Maytag Company calls for broadcasting under the So-A-Tonic process from over 50 of the principal stations throughout the United States and in Canada. This constitutes the largest independent radio schedule in the world. The appointment of stations and hours of broadcasting will be announced in newspapers from time to time. Watch the radio announcements and be ready to listen in when your favorite station begins to broadcast the Maytag programs.

The initial broadcast was a dramatization of "The Yellow Streak," a thrilling story written exclusively for the Maytag Company program by Courtney Ryley Cooper, nationally known writer of circus stories. A circus band furnishes the musical background. The second program dramatized "The Kiss," a story with collegiate atmosphere and a distinctive musical setting, written by Pat Barnes, popular radio announcer. Mr. Barnes also directed the production of his story and acted a prominent part in the play.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The Jints wouldn't mind having Steve Swetonic, who threw for the Indianapolis last year... Dempsey is going to get 60 grand for starting the dog races in Florida... And that will help him buy some more boxes of candy for Estelle... At 250 berries per box... Which he paid for one five-pound box recently... Rickard wants the Demps to referee the fight in Miami... He referred one in Detroit for Floyd Fitzsimmons... And Gus Wilson said he started to hook his right two or three times during the bout... Mike McTigue has a new heavyweight prospect direct from Ireland... And Mike's brogue is so thick the Irishman from the sod can't understand him... Georges Carpenter is doing the music halls in London now with "a singing, dancing and boxing interlude"... And he bills himself as "the light heavyweight champion"... Tommy Loughran is the champion and Tommy probably can out-sing him and out-dance him and out-intellect him... Whatever that is.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ASHTROETH ASHE, adventurer-stenographer, becomes involved in a dramatic affair on shipboard. Ashotreth is taking a cruise to the West Indies and has encountered two particularly interesting people.

MONA DE MUSSET, with whom she rooms, is a mysterious lady of exceptional beauty, who possesses rare charm and priceless pearls.

JACK SMYTHE, an Englishman, wants Ashotreth against Mona, and declares that the girl is notorious. Ashotreth is naturally shocked, but Mona has been so kind to her that she declines to sever their brief friendship. In a few days Mona will have left the ship at the island of Guadeloupe, a French possession in the Indies. Ashotreth resolves to treat her as usual.

Smythe, who has already kissed Ashotreth once, persuades her to go on the lonely boat deck with him. And there he makes love in a fashion utterly new and thrilling for Ashotreth.

Suddenly, from the shadows, a woman approaches them. It is Mona, who turns on Jack in uncontrollable fury.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

"Now, Mona."

Jack Smythe spoke soothingly, as one humoring a recalcitrant child. He even touched her shoulder.

"Don't you Moná me!" she cried. And drew away as though his touch had burned her. "You—you—"

"No scenes!" he commanded curtly. "And you'd better get out of this, you know. It's none of your business, Mona."

Her dark skin was livid with fury. And her nostrils quivered with the excitement of her unleashed emotions.

"Easy now," he cautioned.

"Easy," she hissed.

"There was something dreadfully primitive about her 'blatant fury.' Smythe turned to Ashotreth.

"The woman seems determined to make an exhibition of herself," he said. "Perhaps, Miss Ashe, you'd better go below."

But Mona had snatched Ashotreth's wrists.

"No!" she ordered. "She'll stay here."

The Englishman had grown very pale in the moonlight. Philosophers say that the superior man can find himself in no situation in which he is not master of himself. But there is no superiority born of man to rattle the fury of an angry woman. And no one, assuredly, had ever mastered Mona in a rage. Smythe's poise seemed to increase her agitation.

Now she wheeled on Ashotreth like a vortex.

"I told you," she cried, "that he was a bad man. He made love to me, like to you. And then he put it in a book—and sell it. People buy his book to read why I go wrong. And he make money."

The vehemence of her tirade choked her, and she stopped for breath. She put her handkerchief against her mouth, and when she took it away, Ashotreth saw that there was blood on it.

"Mona!" she cried.

But the other girl shrugged impatiently.

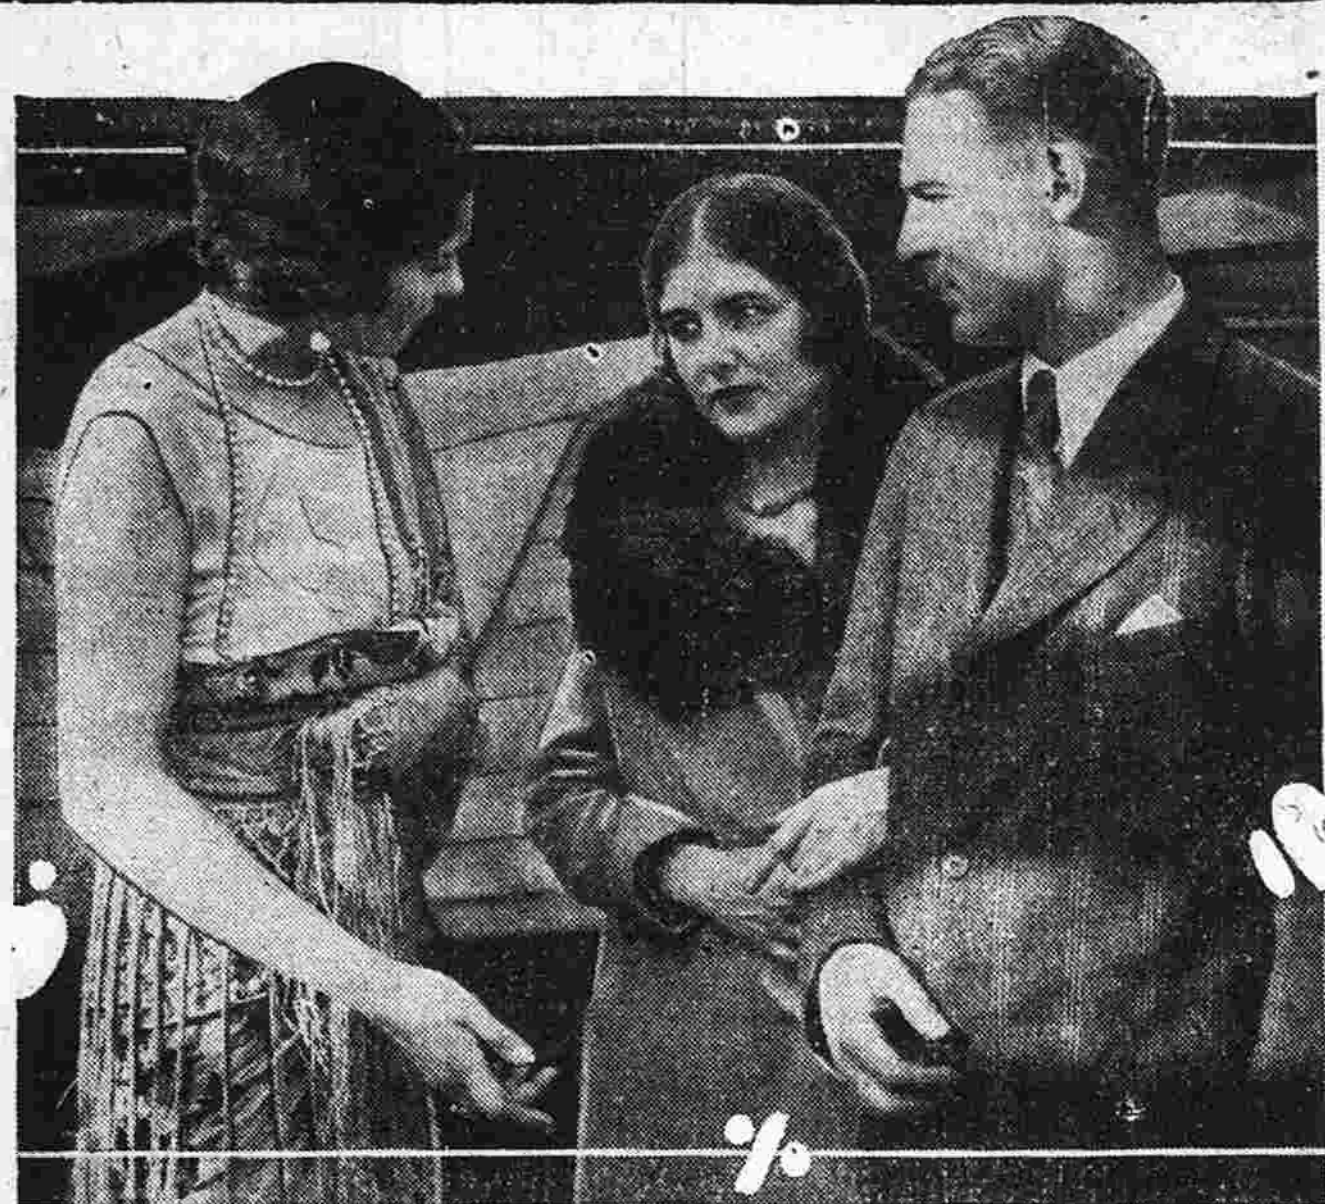

"It is nothing," she said.

Ashotreth shuddered.

"Please," she begged, "don't be so excited. You've made yourself ill. It's awfully dangerous, Mona—blood in your mouth, like that. It might be from your lungs you know. A hemorrhage!"

Mona moved indifferently to the rail and put her arm about Ashotreth.

"It's all right, ma cherie," she

"Maybe Meester Smythe can write a story about a bad woman and a good little girl. . . . And a man who made love to them both."

whispered. Her voice had grown weak, with exhaustion or fright. "A short life and merry one, mon petit chon."

Smythe cleared his throat.

"You ought to see the doctor, Mona," he declared. "If you will go to your cabin, I will ask him to attend you immediately. It's suicidal, you know—taxing your strength this way. My God, you ought to get yourself under control!"

Mona laughed mirthlessly.

"Swine!" she retorted.

Smythe looked at her coolly, and turned to Ashotreth.

"Mademoiselle," he observed "seems to imply that—"

But Mona cut in hotly upon his imperturbable humor.

"Gut!" she shrieked.

"Please, Ashotreth," he besought, "take her down with you. She's simply killing herself."

Mona swallowed with difficulty, pressing her fingers against her lips. Her color had faded, and her skin had taken on the tinge of old parchment.

"You know ze frenzy of my blood," she told him calmly. "You—so smug! So self-sufficed!"

"Please Mona—dear."

Ashotreth pleaded brokenly, dangerously near tears. The scene had completely upset her, and she felt overwhelmingly sorry for the girl.

"Please," she coaxed, "come down to our room. I'm so worried about you. Please come, Mona."

The Frenchwoman put her hands behind her on the rail.

"In one little moment," she promised. "But first I must tell you that Meester Smythe will hear—"

"But I don't care, Mona! I don't care, Mona! I don't care. You can tell me anything when you feel better. If he's been your sweetheart, Mona—and you're hurt, dear—I shan't ever see him again. I swear."

Ashotreth drew Mona toward the companionway.

"My sweetheart!" Mona laughed. "I have had plenty of sweethearts ma cherie—and some I have loved. But I spit on Meester Smythe!"

She spat.

"I hate hem!" she said.

"Listen, Ashotreth—the woman's crazy."

Smythe spoke placatingly. "If she's trying to make you think I—"

Mona laughed in his face. "He put me in a book," she repeated, "and sell it. He call me 'poor girl'—and psalm-sing through his nose."

"I wrote a book," explained Smythe. "Mona imagines that it was she of whom I wrote. It was published last year. And Mona seems to have been considerably incensed."

"He make love to me," insisted Mona stubbornly. "And put it in a book—to make money. Now he make love to you. . . . and put it in another book."

Smythe's mouth tightened at the corners.

"That's absurd," he declared. "I refuse to discuss it any further. You're utterly preposterous, Mona. I've told you already that your imagination has simply run away with you. You're talking like a fool."

"I talk to him before," explained Mona, "when you go to bed, ma cherie. And I make him promise to keep his hands off you. He promised—and I say, 'Very well—then I shall not tell.'"

"And then," flared Smythe, "you came sneaking back from shore, to spy on us!"

"I do it to take care of Mademoiselle," explained Mona, quite unruffled. "She is one good girl."

"You're a great one to take care of anyone!"

Smythe turned on his heel. . . . "You can't even take care of yourself."

"No?" Mona's voice was soft again, and throaty with that curiously thrilling quality that Ashotreth had noticed the first night. "I take very good care of myself, Meester Smythe."

"Oh yes," he retorted brutally.

(To be Continued)
(Mona talks of life and love in the next chapter, and Ashotreth hears the philosophy of an outcast.)

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SCULNER

Being the wife of even so famous a man as a "millionaire hobo" seems not to have been all sunshine and roses, according to Mrs. James Eads How who was just granted a divorce from her famous hobo husband. She charged that he often brought "hoboes" home to dinner, that on their wedding trip he embarrassed her by eating bread crusts which he took from a bandanna in the diner, and other sins were enumerated.

It would seem that having a congenial flair for hoboes is as necessary when one marries a man with such a flair as sharing similar tastes is rather necessary in other marriages in which the flair is not so eccentric. The moral seems to be that if one marries a "millionaire hobo" one must accept such things.

"DEAR ANYBODY"

Twenty-year-old Frances Sharpe came down from her hamlet town in Newfoundland to New York, all set to become rich and famous. She wanted to get into the movies. She couldn't. So she put a tube from the gas jet into her mouth and left a note addressed to "Dear Anybody," telling just why she did it.

It's that "Dear Anybody" note which makes us laugh rather than pity. "Cheap melodrama," we call it. But still—what is the answer for the thousands of girls—and boys, too—with just enough ambition to be desperate when defeated, unable to live the garden variety lives which are the only sort possible for most of us?

A rich man of Seattle, Wash., has been spending no little time since yuletide sending back all presents received by him which seemed to cost more than a dollar. He's in the same boat as various ladies' organizations which stipulate that each member may bring only a quarter gift to the Christmas party, but which must always have the cudgel ready for the sisters who, carried away by the season of wasail and revelry, try to slip in a pair of half-dollar shoes or shirred shoe trees.

Sometimes one's inclination to believe that the one who spends more than is so stipulated in the bond has more real Christmas spirit in the bosom than the one who makes the to-do about Christmas being measured by price tags, and who proceeds to figure up the gift cost.

"LOVE IS ENOUGH"

Somewhat in the same vein is the story of the will of Fred Thomson, husband of Frances Marion, well-known scenario writer. Thomson willed all his property to his mother and little son, explaining that he did it at the request of his wife and in the knowledge that she was adequately provided for. He did leave her "my love and affection."

Willis like that don't hurt wives as long as the whole world knows the why. It's a will which insultingly overlooks them entirely, or the lack of a will at all, announcing to the world that the husband's disregard of the wife, that cuts.

On TIPPING

This tipping question breaks out afresh. Many of us have time and again expressed a preference for the automatic adding of the tip to the bill, thereby cancelling any bother and uncertainty as to just what is expected of us. But French waiters and porters and elevator operators and maids claim that in many cases they see no glimmer of their share of ten per cent. They point to the American custom of having the dime stuck under the plate as what they would prefer.

The real solution would seem to be to cancel the whole system, employ insisting on higher wages in lieu. Even if we, the consumers, helped pay the higher wages we'd prefer it to the present system.

MEN'S JOBS

Lord Burch, 22, and six feet and five inches tall, has opened a hat shop in London. The signal now is to snicker. But why? Especially why should the girls snicker who get peeved as the proverbial wet hens whenever they are snickered at for entering professions held traditionally masculine?

It's a fact, too, isn't it, that more women are engaged today in jobs more or less traditionally masculine than men in jobs deemed utterly feminine? Does it mean that women mind being snickered at less than men, or does it mean a more liberal attitude towards women than men—and the universal granting to them of most anything they want, whereas men haven't been given this carte blanche?

SUSPENDER SUIT

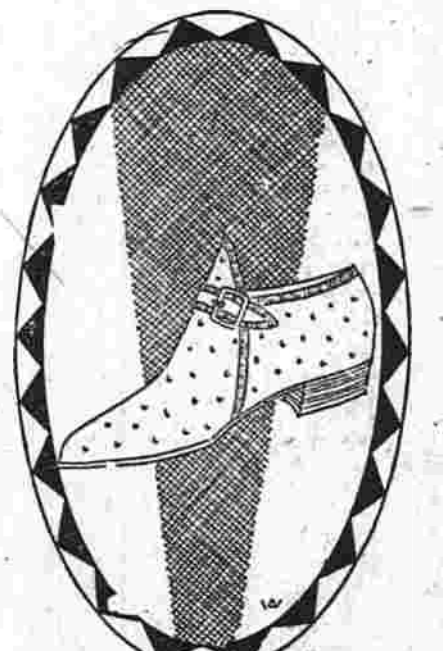

A new bathing suit is called the "suspender suit." Its wool jersey shorts are of deep green, with modernistic motifs in four shades of lighter green. Its pale green tuck-in jumper has suspenders of the dark green buttoning on the shorts.

QUILTED CALICO

The chic woman simply must have some bits of quilted calico in her wardrobe. Shopping bags, hats, beach robes, boudoir mules, and other accessories are now made of quaint, dainty quilted calico.

PINK FUR

Fox, dyed to match the velvet of a sumptuous coat, makes a stunning cushion collar and deep cuffs for it.

A "MONK" SHOE that smart English sportswomen now are wearing is made of ostrich leather with a metal buckle and a low leather heel.

LACE SLEEVES

Cream lace flaring sleeves give a rich touch to a black velvet afternoon gown fashioned with snug hipline and irregularly hemmed skirt. A touch of cream in the form of a little jabot enriches it further.

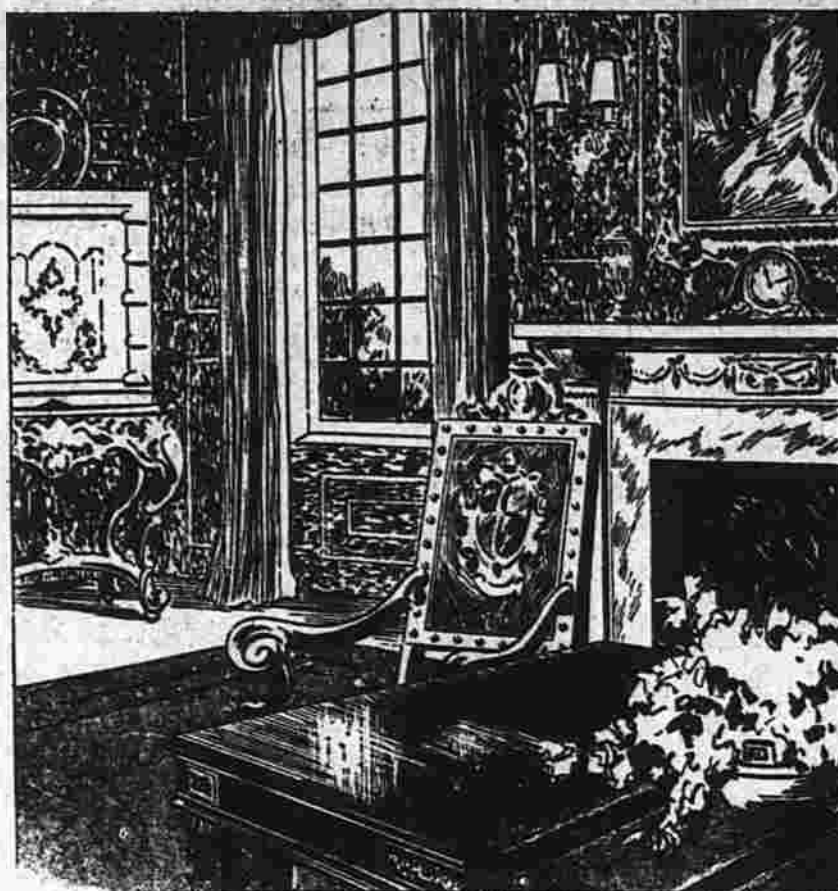

SASHES APPEAR

The colored sash, tied like a little girl's in a bow in the back, lives—many of the new lace and chiffon frocks.

ANKLE SOCKS

Angora ankle socks are making a real place for themselves in the current mode. Worn over silk stockings in the north, they are a winter accessory. Worn on bare legs at southern resorts, they are indispensable for sports.

COLOR CONTRASTS ACHIEVE HARMONY WITHIN ROOM

In this Tudor room a scarlet lacquer cabinet, deep red curtains and red table runner are complemented by a green rug and occasional green bric-a-brac.

By WILLIAM H. WILSON

Perhaps it is for that reason that it is at the present time so popular for use in kitchens and bathrooms.

Violet or purple is the complement of yellow. It is the royal color. It has dignity and belongs in a dignified setting. Rich purple textiles may be appropriately used with elaborately carved Renaissance furniture, of with the fine productions of the Georgian period. With Early American or Provincial furniture it is entirely out of place. Lavender, however, is well suited to use in rooms of quaint simplicity.

Orange, the complement of blue, contains the elements of light and heat. It is similar to red and should be used, as has been suggested, in creating accents of interest in a room.

In using three colors, it is best to use two blends and one contrast, as: dark blue, light blue and tan. The old-fashioned room employing only shades of the same color such as the all blue bedroom, the brown dining room and the taupe living room has fortunately gone out of style. The new color combinations are more interesting and stimulating.

SCIENCE STUDIES GOLF IN RELATIONSHIP TO HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Today golf is probably the most popular sport in America, if one takes into account the actual number of persons who play as compared with the number that look on at other games as played by professionals.

There is no actual scientific evidence as to the value of golf as a sport from the health point of view, although there is a tremendous amount of opinion on the subject that it is a safe and satisfactory sport for men and women of all ages.

Seek to Chart Merits

It therefore seems worth while to the Sturgis Research Fund of the Burke Relief Foundation to provide for a series of careful investigations to indicate the exact merits of golf in relationship to health. The experiments were carried out on a series of different golf courses, which offered ideal opportunity for the test, in that they provided courses of various lengths, some of which were hilly and well trapped, others flat and with but few traps.

The major problem seemed to be to find the reactions of the heart and blood vessels to the game, and at the same time to test its effects on the kidneys.

The examinations made included studies of the weight, height, pulse rate and blood pressure under various circumstances, and also a special test for the efficiency of the heart, known as the Schneider test.

It was found that vigorous practice and actual shots tend to accelerate the pulse rate and that casual climbing of hills, heat and wind will do the same.

Periods of relative rest while waiting for the rest of the foursome to shoot tend to lower the pulse rate.

Emotional Reaction

There is, however, one uncontrolled factor in the game which has general definite effects on the rate of the pulse and which makes any scientific study difficult, that is the emotional reaction, which varies with every player. It is possible for some to become so disturbed on the course that the pulse rate is accelerated tremendously.

A comparison between men and women golfers shows that women golfers spend less energy on the game than do men.

Patients who were convalescing from heart disease or from other conditions playing on a special course which was more flat and less difficult than the ordinary course responded well to the exercise, indeed so well that the exercise was considered highly beneficial for them.

TOMORROW: Blood Pressure.

"Mother, I want to go over to Dorothy's and play."

"No, you can't go. Her brother's sick."

"Oh, Dorothy's brother isn't very sick. I saw him out on the porch. Can't I go, Mother? I haven't seen Dorothy's new doll or anything."

"No, you can't go. They've had the flu over there and I wouldn't be surprised if Jim's getting it now. I don't want you to get sick. Now run and play. I want to finish this ironing."

Betty went back to her playthings pouting. After a while she went to the window and gazed longingly across the lot to Dorothy's house. There was Dorothy at her window beckoning.

"Mother, may I go over and stand outside and let Dorothy show me her doll from the window?"

"Oh goodness! Are you still talking about that? No, you'd better wait a day or two and then go. Ask Dorothy to come over here."

"You mean I can't go in because Jim's sick?"

"Certainly. That's what I've been saying right along. The house is full of flu, I'm sure. They've all had it."

Betty didn't answer. She was inside her coat by this time. Grabbing up her tam, she tore out of the door.

In a second she was back. "Mother, Mother! There goes Jim. He's going down the street. Now can I go in?"

Her mother looked out dubiously.

Yes. There was Jim bundled up, head down, and walking very slowly. A sick-looking Jim, but Jim anyway. As it happened he was heading for the drugstore at the corner.

"Well, just a peep at Dorothy's playthings," she conceded. "Don't stay. Come right home. You know that house is full of flu."

Betty stayed an hour. Jim came back and went to bed. Dorothy, too, was sniffing and coughing. Betty too influenza; so did her parents.

When parents say "no," it should mean no and not maybe. Don't allow children to coax. If you do, your authority and better judgment are undermined from the beginning.

One of the great figures of early Antarctic discovery was Sir James Clark Ross. In 1839 the British Admiralty sent him to find the South Magnetic Pole. With his two little ships, the Erebus and the Terror, he battled with unknown tides, desperate winds, huge ice floes and bergs. Land stopped him at what we now call Cape Adare.

SENSE and NONSENSE

A good-natured traveler asked a Pullman porter the amount of his average tip. The negro replied that the average amount was one dollar. The man handed him a one-dollar bill.

A policeman brought in a negro woman. The desk sergeant scowled and roared at her: "Liza, you've been brought in for intoxication."

During the war the officers frequently had difficulty in getting the proper salutes from the negro recruits. One bright morning a negro private met the colonel of his regiment, and greeted him with "Howdy, boss."

Two gentlemen were engaged in conversation when one of them became very much annoyed by the persistent attentions of a large fly.

An old Virginia darkey got up in meeting one night and said: "Brothers an' sisters, you know an' I know I ain't been what I oughter been."

Two southern darkeys were discussing their banker. "Dey say he's kinda tight," said one.

"Brother Jones," said the deacon, "can't you all donate some small contribution to de fund for fencing in the culud cemetery?"

"I dunno as I can," replied brother Jones. "I don't see no use in a fence around a cemetery. You see, dem what's in there can't get out, an' dem what's out sho' doan wanta get in."

LETTER GOLF

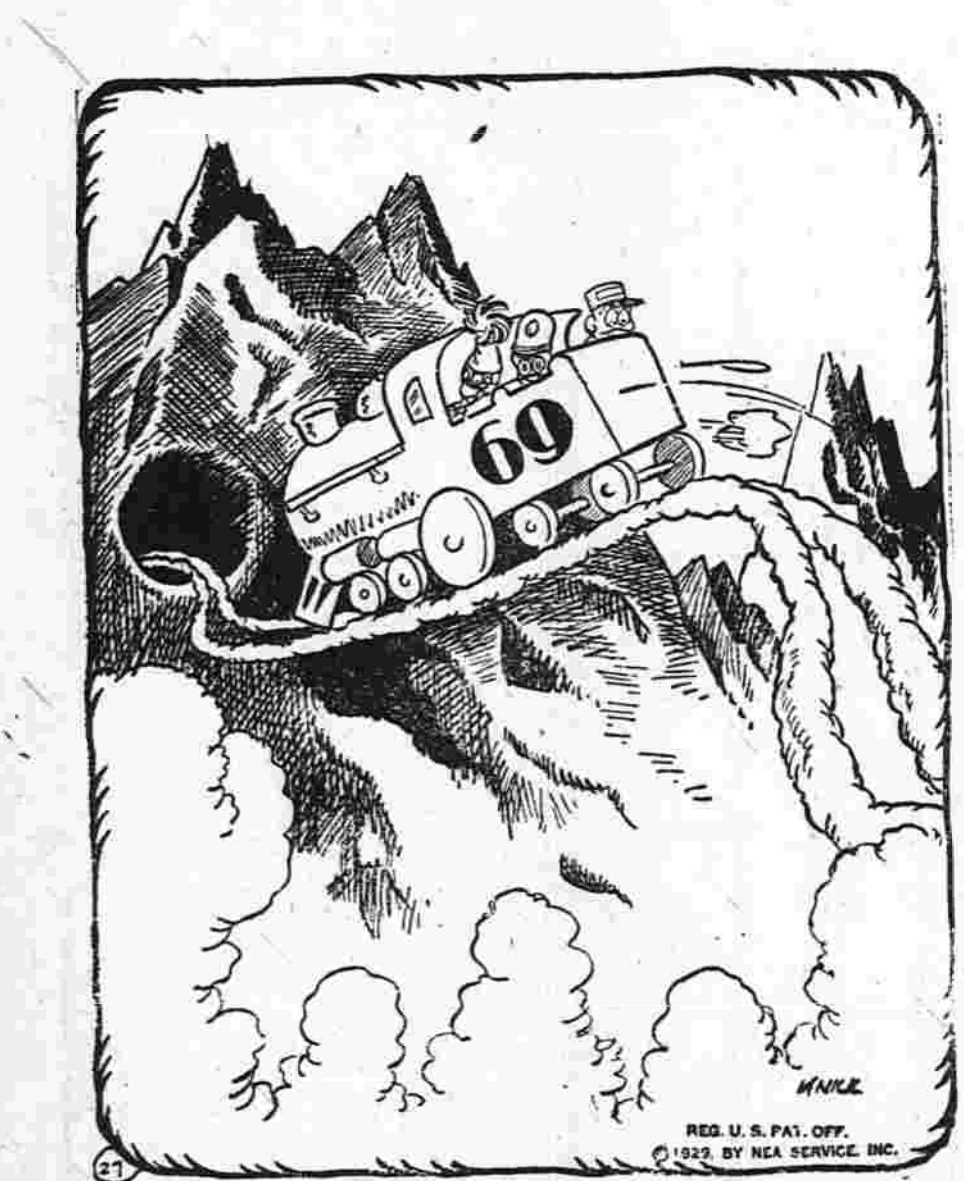

It's easy to play golf at night—letter golf, at least. All you need is a LAMP BULB and here it is. Par is seven and one solution is on another page:

Letter Golf grid with letters L, A, M, P and B, U, L, B.

THE RULES. 1—The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par a given number of strokes. Thus change COW to HEN in three strokes, COW, HOW HEW, HEN.

HOMEWARD BOUND. "How did your host greet you?" "With a salute of twenty-one guns."—Life.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The train kept running up-side-down till Cloway shouted, with a frown, "Oh, I am getting tired of this. I wish this ride was o'er. I'd rather be on earth instead. The blood keeps rushing to my head. Can anybody tell me what we really started for?"

PHONES Pinehurst
"GOOD THINGS TO EAT"
A CONSCIENCE EASER

Pinehurst has a conscience, and to tell the truth it gets pretty well mused up, sometimes, at the prices we are compelled to get for strictly fresh eggs. We can sympathize with customers who get good and mad at egg prices—but what can we do about it? Nothing, of course, except to shave the small egg profit down to the lowest possible notch. We feel a little bit better right now because we have made a deal in eggs whereby we can supply LARGE and STRICTLY FRESH ones today and all the rest of this week for 65 cents a dozen. We are glad to be able to do this much in amelioration of the Hens' Union holdup.

Brown's celebrated Butter, 60 cents a pound. Brown's unsalted butter is also always available, on special order. Let us know a day ahead if you have a taste for the unsalted kind.

Cloverbloom Butter—and Pinehurst customers know how good it is—at 56 cents.

There have just arrived a lot of those little, extremely convenient Ten Cent items in tinned and glassed foods. They are extremely convenient for small families and the handiest imaginable thing to have an assortment of in the house, for "snacks." It should be remembered that all these items are High Quality goods—not at all like the earlier Ten Cent varieties. Included are: Spinach, Stuffed Olives, Tidbit Pineapple Cubes, Crushed Pineapple, Assorted Jams, Brown Bread and Puddings. We will have Peas and Stringbeans also, in a day or two.

Pinehurst suggests to Madame the Housewife the plan of putting in a regular stock of these little cans and jars—to be renewed from time to time.

Here's another suggestion: If you want a tender Lamb or Beef stew for the noon dinner, call for the 8 O'Clock Delivery, so as to give the materials plenty of time over the fire.

Phone two thousand.

Strong or Mild American Cheese.
53c Table Raisins—Special, 39c.
Large Brazil Nuts, 33c a pound.
Sweet Florida Oranges, 39c a dozen.
Pinehurst Hamburg, 30c a pound.
Meadowbrook Sausage Meat, 28c a pound.
Try a pound or two of this Sausage meat. It certainly is as good as any you can buy.
