

ALL HAIL BERMUDA!

Bermuda.—This commonwealth takes credit for another great scientific discovery. A negro fisherman, named Jimmy Cann, has exhibited an unusually large lobster which whistled like the wind coming in around your windshield on a stormy day. If you don't believe it, look up Jimmy the next time you visit Bermuda.

FOR ERRING HUSBANDS.

London.—The Mothers' Union has devised a new method of keeping husbands and wives to the straight and narrow. It is in the form of a small card which records names of the couple, date and place of marriage and essential portions of marriage vows.

SISTER OF EX-KAISER IS SEEKING SECLUSION

To Go to the Belgian Congo With Young Husband to Escape Crowds.

Antwerp, Belgium, Jan. 4.—"We are going to the Belgian Congo in the hope of starting a new life far from curious eyes."

With these parting words, Princess Victoria of Schaumburg-Lippe, 63-year-old sister of the former Kaiser of Germany and Alexander Zubkoff, her 28-year-old husband, sailed today aboard the liner Anversville.

It is understood that Zubkoff has obtained a position with a business house in the Congo.

The marriage of the middle-aged Prussian princess to the youthful Russian exile in November, 1927, created widespread comment because of the disparity in their ages. Later Zubkoff was ordered out of Germany by the police. He and his bride have been residing in Belgium most of the time since.

WATER FOR COAL

London.—A prediction has been offered by Dr. von Hohenau, Brazilian, that some day water will replace coal as fuel. He has succeeded, he says, in applying to water a very high vibration, releasing the hydrogen, extracting further oxygen from the hydrogen, and then using the hydrogen as a fuel gas.

TEST STEAM POWER BUS TO CARRY 40 PASSENGERS

Indianapolis, Ind.—Construction of passenger buses propelled by steam power is being tested here by the Automotive Syndicate, Ltd., preparatory to manufacturing the new kind of highway transportation vehicles.

The bus being tested will carry 40 passengers and is equipped with electro-steam power.

Officials of the company claim many advantages for the new steam bus. The vehicle was designed and constructed by D. McCall White, former chief engineer of the General Motors Corporation.

Speaking in post-Christmas reflection, it certainly is amazing the number of nice things you can trade incense burners for.

How to Escape FLU

- 1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most apt to be; crowded cars, public meeting places, warm, stuffy rooms.
- 2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers. Breathe through the nose.
- 3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take every precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs.
- 4 Above all, avoid catching cold. Any cold may be the forerunner of flu. Take Bayer Aspirin at the first sign of a cold and you can ward it off. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at first sign of sore throat as this will remove the infection.
- 5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor.

SOVIETS BOOST TAXES ON VODKA TO GET REVENUE

Moscow.—The jovial Russian people, for whom drinking is a major occupation, are going to pay thirty per cent more for their vodka. Like other nations the Soviet government has agreed on a policy of attempting to tax people into sobriety, prohibition by law having failed.

Incidentally the increased liquor tax is expected to boost the treasury's revenues $100,000,000 to a total of $400,000,000 a year. The tax on a short quart bottle of vodka, which ordinarily contains 40 percent alcohol, is now 60 cents. A bottle retails at about $1, the world's cheapest kiel considering the fact that a single bottle imbues even hardened Russians with enough courage to battle a lion. Vodka with more than 40 percent alcohol is taxed proportionately more.

Anti-Alcohol Propaganda
Anti-alcohol propaganda is producing results; yet one billion liters of bonded vodka were sold this year, a record for all time. The Central Statistical department announced that only one million liters were sold in bond in 1924. Bonded vodka is only a part of the actual heavy drink consumption of the country at that.

Throughout the length and breadth of the land peasants distill their own samogon, a poor quality of vodka on which the government has found it practically impossible to collect a tax, since it is brewed illicitly. Samogon production seriously curtails the supply of potatoes, wheat, rye and other grains which are urgently needed to feed the people.

Drink and Eat
The Russian drinks vodka only with something to eat, it is especially appropriate with caviar, roach or sausage. But the taste of the stuff is universally disliked and to such an extent that a wine glassful is gulped down like a pill.

Greenhorn foreign visitors who insist on sipping vodka because their stomachs are insufficiently carbonated, always get the laugh. Yet the veterans, born and bred in Russia, according to police reports, frequently lie unconscious in hospitals for 48 hours after a drinking bout. And the factory laborer who shows up on Tuesday morning hinking it is Monday, is an amusing sight that Soviet officials no longer regard him as a joke.

U. S. ATTORNEY STARTS LEGAL BATTLE AGAINST MALT AND HOPS TRADE

Co-ington, Ky.—A legal assault upon the malt and hops business, has been launched here by Sawyer A. Smith, Federal district attorney. Smith contends that the malt and hops business is based upon the use of those commodities for illegal home brewing of beer and has ruled that arrests of sellers of malt and hops should proceed. On this theory, Anthony Droege, local grocery store owner, was arrested and Federal prohibition agents are threatening to arrest managers of a number of chain grocery stores in this vicinity.

The malt and hops dealers contend that their wares are used in preparing many food products and that they are engaged in a legitimate business.

CRIPPLE CREEK DAYS RECALLED BY BIG ORE VEIN

Cripple Creek, Colo.—Memories of the glamorous days in Cripple Creek when millionaires were made overnight by fabulous gold strikes have been revived by the recent discovery of a two foot ore vein in the Dead Pine mine operated by California capitalists under the name of the Concordia-Dead Pine company.

It was the high grade gold uncovered in the Dead Pine 25 years ago that started the spectacular and bloody war of 1904 on Bull Hill. The mine was then operated by the late Charles M. MacNeill, president of Utah Copper, Spencer Penrose, brother of the late Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, C. L. Tutt and associates. The ore was so rich that the Western Federation miners employed on the property were making fortunes every week by packing the high grade ore in their boots, their shirts and the dinner buckets.

Closed Mine.

MacNeill and Penrose were not the kind of men to be dispossessed without a struggle so they closed the mine down, banded the mine owners together in a cordon of self defense and proceeded to root out the Western Federation from the camp. The bloodshed and outrage in the two years that followed are matters of vivid memory to the men who participated on both sides.

Not since that memorable day when the Dead Pine locked its doors and sealed its shaft house, has the property been explored until a bond and lease was obtained last spring by the California men of the Concordia-Dead Pine company. They reentered the shaft, cleaned out the workings and proceeded to exploit the veins at the point where MacNeill and associates closed down and ordered the high graders off the hill. They recommenced where MacNeill left off and the result has been the uncovering of a two-foot vein of gold ore having a high grade core running to 5,000 ounces to the ton or the equivalent of $100,000 for each 2,000 pounds making the highest record in the history of even this spectacular camp.

The romantic character of the operations in the Dead Pine is enhanced by the fact that the California operators, now working the property made much of their money from the famous Comstock mine in Nevada that produced 600 million dollars in gold, and it is Comstock money that is developing the sister mine in Cripple Creek.

Men of Nerve.

Flood, Fair, Mackey, O'Brien, and other—names to conjure with in the great fortunes that were amassed in the mining industry in the west—rapidly became millionaires from the Comstock, and their successors in the new development in Cripple Creek are men of equal nerve and their interest here in bringing the old camp of Cripple Creek back to fever heat.

The entry of California capital to the gold camp marks a new era in its history for this is the first time that California capital has migrated to Colorado looking for fortune. Some of the same group are also operating the famous Placerville and the Consolidated Extension on the north coast and their success has brought a flood of operators to the long-neglected portion of the gold crater that made millions for Cripple Creek.

The men operating under the name of the "Concordia-Dead Pine" company, are J. T. Shale, John McKeown, F. V. Gordon, all prominent mining and oil men of Los Angeles; Fred Vincent, Zen Kendall, Walter Cole and Thomas Pierce, well known capitalists of San Francisco.

A woman graduate of Glasgow University has become Scotland's first woman minister.

Crosby High Game Cancelled Because Of Illness

Brass City Aggregation Undefeated In Six Games

Illness of Coach Clarke and Six of Eight Regulars Deems Postponement Advisable.

The Manchester-Crosby basketball game was called off late this morning owing to the influenza epidemic which has struck the local school. Coach Wilfred J. Clarke and six of the eight men on the first team are ill. When informed of the conditions, Crosby officials were also anxious to call off the game.

Manchester basketball fans have but one attraction to store for tonight this week. That comes when Crosby High of Waterbury comes here for the first of a home and home series. Last season, Manchester won both games.

It may be a different story tonight, however, for Manchester has a weaker team than a year ago while Crosby boasts the best in several years. The brass city combine has won all of its six games.

Of the six victories, gained this year five were against fairly weak opponents at Waterbury, Connecticut, Shelton and Derby, ordinarily not in Crosby's class on the basketball court. The fifth victory, however, was scored against the Alumni, who counted in their numbers some of the finest players ever developed at Crosby. A team composed of Henry Carrington, "Gimp" Carrington, Bill Tracey, Billie Dillon and Joe Navin are a setup for nobody. This was the lineup which faced Crosby Christmas night and went down to defeat in a ding-dong battle by a 25-25 score.

Team Built Around Huey
Captain Harry Huey, who jumped center against the Alumni, is playing vastly improved player. Playing against Bill Tracey, former Crosby captain, and at present playing for the Villanova freshmen, Huey played a stellar game. Cool and confident, he is more aggressive, passes accurately and has a good eye for the basket. In the Alumni game most of the plays seemed to be built around Huey.

In the forward positions Dobkins and Dunn are a snappy pair. Both break for the basket with remarkable speed, they are clever and work very well together. In the back court, Ike Kern, Colby, and Carney seem to have the call. Kern is tall and rangy, covers the court well and is a hard man to get by. Colby, though rather small for a guard, is extremely fast. Carney is husky, has played plenty of basketball, and should develop into a capable guard.

It is possible that Huey will be moved back to guard, once Curtis rounds into form. Curtis was on the sick list Christmas night, so we have no chance to see him work. If he is a better center than Huey, he must be good indeed.

Coach Wilfred J. Clarke has not announced any change in the lineup of the Manchester team for the Crosby game. In all probability all ten players on the squad will see service. The coach and players are not discouraged over their bad defeat in Bristol Tuesday night. They realize it was simply a case of bowing to a superior team. It was the first defeat for the team in three games.

Charles T. Fisher, vice president of General Motors, recently bought several racing thoroughbreds at a price reported to be around half a million of those good silver disc wheels. Somebody must have told him to get a horse.

Don't be surprised some day if you pick up a sport page and read: LEXINGTON, June 90—FRIGID AIR UNDER WRAPS. FRIGID AIR LOST BY A WHISKER TO THE GREAT GALLOPER CADILLAC IN AN UNOFFICIAL WORK-OUT THIS MORNING. THE CLOCKERS SAY FRIGIDAIRE COULDN'T GET WARMED UP.

LOUISVILLE, June 00—Glands from G. M. C. trucks were transplanted to Yellow Kab here the other day. In a workout next morning Yellow Kab tore down the starting gate, four fences and smashed in the side of a barn before they could stop her.

LAUREL, Md., June 00—Oakland, favorite two-year-old, in the Futurity yesterday, was beaten by a fender, Chevy, second choice, ran out of gas.

LATONIA, May 00—After being administered a crushing defeat by Oldsmobile, it is reported that La Salle needs a change of Oil. Jockey B. Oldfield was accused by the stewards of using the brakes on La Salle.

BOWIE, Md., June 00—Jockey Luke McLuke has been barred for 90 days. He was accused of rough riding on Model T.

quintet advanced into sole possession of first place last night in the Herald League when Manchester Green and the Sons of Italy stumbled badly. The soap-makers knocked the Charter Oaks goofy in all three games to take four points and were the only team in the league to hit over sixteen hundred.

Tommy Conran, their anchor man, rolled 357 against 296 for Curtis and according to unofficial averages is now leading the "Big Ten" list with 115.14 against 115.13 for Curtis, a difference of but one pin! Shute and Kebart also rolled high scores for the winners. Anderson was best for the losers.

The Night Hawks, who tumbled out of first place last week, kept in the running for the title when they surprised the league followers by taking three out of four points from the Sons of Italy who were occupying first place. The Sons rolled the lowest scores they have hit in the league; also the lowest in the league last night. All of their scores were in the four hundreds and only five men hit over a hundred. The Night Hawks faltered badly in the last game, else they would have won four points.

The West Sides won two points from Manchester Green, winning the first game by 44 pins and total pinfall by four timbers. The Green took the other two games by margins of 34 and six. Schubert and Wilkie were the best.

Trailing by 58 pins after the end of the first game, with the Construction, the Center Church won the next of 11 pins and overcame the 47 pins difference by one pin, winning the last game 577 to 529, thanks to T. Anderson and O. Nelson. This saved them total pinfall by one point. Axel Anderson and Sam Mason rolled good scores.

The Independents, successors to Highland Park in the league, won two points from the Beethoven. Emil Pitt's new team won two games but lost the other and then total pinfall by the narrow margin of one point. Pitt and Mathieson were the best.

Next Thursday's matches will conclude the first half of the schedule. It will also be the final opportunity to obtain new bowlers. The league rules state that each team must have its list of ten eligible players ready at that time with which to complete the schedule. This is to prevent strengthening as the teams fly down the home stretch. The schedule for the second round will be announced shortly.

Here are the total three-string scores for last night:

Bon Ami	1,684
West Sides	1,599
Man. Green	1,595
Center Church	1,555
Construction	1,554
Charter Oaks	1,527
Beethoven	1,514

Night Hawks	1,484

BOWLING NOTES

Wonder when we're going to have another bowling match for the town title?

The City Club has a team that desires a crack at either the British American or Army and Navy Club. Dennis Murphy or Harry Johnson are the boys to see about a match.

Hale's store seeks a match with the Economy or A. & P. John Andis is the manager. The John Hancock Insurance Company likewise is hot after the Prudential and Metropolitan.

A league of five man teams representing Manchester, Rockville and Willimantic is to be formed. Conran and Farr will enter local teams.

The Charter Oak pinboys challenge any team of pinboys in town. See Walter Kotchka or call 1117-5.

Ruth Gives One Glance At Next Year's Pennant

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.
New York, Jan. 4.—"Who's going to beat us?"

It's funny about things like that. George Ruth, the baseball player, was carefully concealing his real purpose behind a mask of indifference but a clever student of humanity, schooled to look for nuances and hidden meanings, generally is equal to an emergency. For example, I have an idea that what he really wanted to know was, who was going to beat them.

It wasn't a question, as a matter of fact. It was an answer. It merely was George's way of saying that nobody was going to beat the New York Yankees for the simple reason that, in his opinion they had precisely nobody to beat.

"The Philadelphia Athletics," the writer suggested tentatively.

Ruth sniffed. Only a man versed in the language of the sniff—a man like myself who has studied the sniff in its home life from the cover of a nearby tree—could have understood the nature of this sniff. It was rhetorical, eloquent. Hearing it, one got the impression that Marc Antony wasted his time over the body of Caesar. He should have sniffed.

Be that as it might, the writer was not yet nonplussed. Favoring attack as the strongest defense, he told George that his own team had more holes than an oil field. He pointed out that Penneck and Lazzeri were uncertain until they had proved definitely that their "temporary injuries" were not permanent. Where's your catcher, asked he, and what about this Larry?

"Who's Larry?" countered Mr. Ruth, brightly.

Realizing that the boy friend was leveling, I informed him very civilly that Larry was the lad for whom the club had laid out upward of 100,000, cakes or smackers; that, in fact, Larry was his new shortstop.

He replied reflectively that

"Koenig" was a pretty good shortstop. I answered that Koenig was to be the third baseman. He arched his brow at me, astounded.

"Koenig is a pretty good shortstop," observed he, threateningly. I didn't see where any purpose could be served by pursuing the matter further.

"Fessal," said Mr. Ruth, finding at last that he was in the company of one who understands thoroughly. "We have the same team that won the pennant last year. Lazzeri and Penneck got hurt but we won without them, anyhow, didn't we? We've got the pitching and we've got the hitting and that's about all you need nowadays. Besides, who's going to beat us?"

I knew it. He was trying to fool me again. If I hadn't been on my guard, as a matter of fact, I would have been convinced that what he really wanted to know was, who was going to beat them.

He repeated reflectively that

Captainless Teams Coming Into Favor

Four Washington Coaches Express Different Ideas About Leadership Question.

By BOB MATHERNE

The football teams at Oregon State haven't had a regularly elected captain in recent years. Coach Paul Schissler appoints a player leader for each game.

Ohio State didn't have a captain this year and Allen Holman, sophomore quarterback, was nominal captain for Dr. Jack Wilc in nearly every game. At the end of the season, in order "to keep the record straight," an honorary captain was elected.

Judge Wally Steffens has announced that there won't be any captain at Carnegie Tech next year. The Minnesota officials sent out the news that the football boys wouldn't be allowed to elect a captain because of fraternity politics. And there has been some talk that Pittsburgh will follow the Ohio State plan next fall.

These little items brought forth a mild discussion out in Seattle recently among the head coaches of athletics there. It is interesting to note that some of the head men thought captains were a necessary evil and some of them thought it was an evil that could be avoided.

Bagshaw Wants a Captain

Enoch Bagshaw, football coach, is all for the captain idea. So is Al Ubrickson, crew coach. Tubby Graves, baseball and freshman coach, said "yes and no." Heck Edmundson, track and basketball coach, believes different circumstances warrant different action.

"College athletics have been drifting into the commercial class fast enough without trimming the last bit of sentiment from the sport by eliminating the captain," says Bagshaw.

"I have found that the captain is an excellent go-between in learning more fully the problems of the men. The fellows have a spokesman whose duty it is to give the coaches ideas of the men which they as individuals may not wish to express. I'll never cut out the captain as long as I can keep him in the scheme of things."

Edmundson doesn't believe in captains for basketball teams because he thinks that it is a good idea to pass the honor around and that the responsibility of a captainship often hampers one's play. However, he wants a captain in track because he doesn't think track carries the same strain that basketball does.

Minus Politics, Okay

Graves says yes and no—no captains for freshmen athletics but a captain for the baseball team. However, he says electing captains works only when politics doesn't enter into it.

Ubrickson says yes for the reasons that a crew is much a matter of team play and a captain binds them together.

It may not have been said but the reasons many colleges lean toward the idea of not having a captain is because of politics among the students in electing a captain. Being captain of an athletic team in college is one of the highest honors possible, and to some students the highest, and the scheming and swapping that goes on for a post often causes dissension in the ranks.

Dissension can ruin many an athletic team and the silent records are filled with instances of teams that should have been great ones but were not because the fellows didn't pull together.

Avoiding election of a captain may be one way of stamping out any trouble from this angle, but the method used by a southern coach a few years back seems as good as any.

No Trouble to This Coach

Players on this coach's team were divided into two cliques. Each wanted a different fellow for captain and there wasn't any let down in their demands. This coach saw the situation, talked it over with his assistant, and then told the two factions this:

"After this, the coaches are going to vote for a captain also. Each coach will have so many votes and those votes will be cast for the same man and the man which we think will make the best captain, regardless of his fraternity, his position or any other factor except qualifications."

Since then there has been no trouble in the ranks. The ultimatum virtually amounted to the coaches telling the fellows whom to elect.

It may come about in the next few years that more major teams will be captainless, but it does seem a shame, as Coach Bagshaw says, to take away this honor from one of the fellows each year.

But, as Edmundson says—different situations warrant different action.

AUTOMATIC COCKTAILS.

London.—An automatic cocktail shaker, which will mix and serve any one of a number of concoctions and operate only during the hours permitted by law, has been perfected by a British inventor. You simply put your money in the slot, press a button, wait a few minutes while the stuff is being mixed, press another button and out comes your drink, ready for consumption.

BLACK CAT LUCK

"Slim" Harris, baseball's tallest twirler, has passed from the major league picture. Recently he was sent to the Minneapolis club of the American Association by the Boston Red Sox in a trade involving the shifting of several players.

Harris, stretched out to the limit, measured six feet six inches and tipped the scales at 185. He could have carried 50 pounds more and wouldn't have been considered fat. It is the opinion that too much height and too little weight were his greatest handicaps.

The passing of Harris to the minors is another case of a pitcher who had all the stuff in the world to make him an outstanding hurler in the majors but who never got beyond the mediocre class. In 1925, his best year, he won 19 while losing 12 for the Philadelphia Athletics and gave every evidence of having arrived. However, that big year was but a flash in the pan.

Was Exceptional Hurler

Few pitchers in the history of the game had more speed and I can recall no right hander who had a faster breaking curve ball. His great size added to his deception, for the ball would come at the batsman from a peculiar and unusual angle, since few pitchers measure six feet six inches.

As would be expected, Harris was anything but a great fielder and opposing teams who could bunt, made plenty of trouble for the tall heaver. It is no easy task to bend over one's six feet six inches and handle a well placed dasher madly for first base. The only thing that saved Harris from being bunted out of the league was the great stuff he possessed, making it exceedingly difficult to bunt his delivery.

Nine Years in Majors

Harris came to the Athletics in 1920 and has spent nine years in the majors. A few years ago he was passed on to the Boston Red Sox by Connie Mack. Due to the scarcity of twirlers, as proved by the roster of several major league clubs, it was a bit of surprise that all 15 clubs waived on him.

Throughout Harris' big league career he has heard often mention of the woe that comes to one who kills a black cat. I have no doubt but that the constant repetition of the affair did get on "Slim's" nerves and in a way affected his work.

He Killed Black Cat

These and many other such expressions would be repeated over and over again by the opposition in any game that Harris worked. While "Slim" always smiled and gave no outward evidence of being bothered, his pitching, didn't always make it seem as if he wasn't bothered inwardly.

The story is that one winter down Texas way, Harris, amusing himself with a slingshot that he had asked a youngster to let him take, took a shot at a black cat that hailed to eight and killed it. The news got out and Harris was singled out by the players as the pitcher with the black cat jinx on his trail.

Possibly "Slim's" passing from the majors can be blamed on the hoodoo that the killing of the black cat cast over his career.

VERY NICE JOB.

Paris.—M. Schultz, 32, has a very nice job. He is the champion wine taster of France. He recently won a contest, against 94 others, in which it was necessary to sample many kinds of wine, tell what vintage it was, from where it came and what price it should bring. Despite Schultz' occupation, he is a dry, never touching liquor except when on his "testing," carousals.

CURTIS MATCHED AGAINST KEBART

Start 20 Game Match Tomorrow Afternoon at Charter Oak Alleys.

Arrangements were completed today for a special twenty-game home and home bowling match between Charlie Kebart of the north end and Norman Curtis of the south end.

The first ten games will be rolled at 2:30, tomorrow afternoon at the Charter Oak alleys with the final ten at Conran's alleys next Wednesday evening. A purse of $50 is at stake.

Curtis has been leading the Herald Bowling League with a mark of over 115 while Kebart, although not in the first ten, has been hitting high scores in Conran's League. He recently rolled a three string of 424 and a single of 165.

Curtis is favored to win because of his splendid showing in the Herald League, but Kebart is far from a better man. This will be the first north-south match of the season and is expected to attract considerable interest.

GAWGE DID IT

The beating that Jawn Risko, the Cleveland baker, took from large Gawge Godfrey is being advanced as the reason for his quick descent from the group of ranking contenders for the heavyweight title to the larger and less distinguished class of small club bams.

If you want to look at it that way, Risko hasn't been worth much since he stopped a dozen or two of Godfrey's letty body socks. He took a long vacation after the fight and there was no doubt that he needed it, because he had been through a terrific year.

Returning to the ring he picked out old Tut Jackson, the well-known swan diver, for a warm-up bout, and old Tut succeeded in surviving, and in the surviving he looked better than the winner.

Risko then went to Boston to fight Jim Maloney, and his manager warned that it would be a sucker match. The home town boys told him that he could never sneak a decision in Boston unless he knocked Maloney stiff, and that if he did stiffen him there would be little credit gathered in the performance. But they went on to Boston and were licked by Maloney.

Then they went back to Boston to fight Ernie Schaaf and Risko got trimmed again. He claimed that the decisions were too close in each fight to be given against him, but that doesn't count on the books.

This time last year Risko was in what he fondly called the big dough. He was a hundred grand fella. He had licked a lot of the good ones and he was heading for a lot more hundred grands even if he never attained the dignity of a champion. Now he is a $1,500 fighter and the home town folks, who always have been more or less critical of the methods of Danny Dunn, his manager, blamed his relapse upon the Godfrey match.

Maybe Godfrey did ruin him. There used to be a legend that a great puncher could ruin every man he punished. It has been told many times that Dempsey ruined every man he ever hit, but the facts do not back it up.

Risko says he was not hurt by Godfrey.

"There ain't nothing wrong with me," he said a few days ago. "I ain't just got goin' again, that's all."

The chances are that he isn't going to get goin' again. Unless he changes his whole attitude toward his business, he's through. He's not mbumbling or stumbling on his heels, and he never will be because he's too smart with stuff that you don't get out of books.

He has more money than he ever thought he would have his hands on. He got tired of training when he got all that wealth. He went through the same experience that Sharkey did when he began to experience the feel of big money. Sharkey went through a period when the ring meant nothing to him and it ruined his chance of becoming the champion.

Sharkey, however, tried to get back into the harness. He had some pride in his art, if you want to call it that. But Risko hasn't any professional pride in his business. He seems to be more than satisfied with what he has.

TRAINED WOLVES.

Cobalt, Ont.—Two wolves, trained in Hollywood and imported by Burden Pictures for star roles in a movie being filmed at the mouth of the Kipawa river, are victims to an overwhelming desire for chicken meat and a farmer's shotgun. The animals left their cages at Cille Marie, headed for a nearby chicken yard and were brought to earth by the alert farmer shortly after the raid.

A girl mentioned in the Rothstein case told police she had lived in Chicago since she was 16 years old and never had been mixed up in a murder case. What a singular person!

Dr. Will Durant calls thinking the greatest adventure. It's a timid

SUBSTITUTE FOR REAL COTTON IS SOON ON MARKET

Paris.—A cotton substitute that can be grown in Iceland, and sold for forty dollars per ton at a profit, and crops that can be determined in advance to within a few pounds, with no boll weevil, is the promise held out to the cotton growing world by Dr. C. J. Hedley-Thornton, the "British Luther Burbank."

Dr. Hedley-Thornton has produced a fibre now known as artificial cotton, for which he claims equality to cotton and, in many respects superiority.

Dr. Hedley-Thornton, now in Paris en route to Egypt to confer with leading cotton growers, has told International News Service the history of his discovery, hitherto shrouded in a veil of mystery that even British Parliament investigations had been unable to rip apart.

Watched Humming Bird.

"While prospecting in British

Gulana nine years ago, I noted a humming bird nest which seemed to be made out of cotton of the roughest sort. Astonished, I decided to find out how the bird made his nest. I found that he used the wood from a form of the bast family. By treating this weed with the water in a nearby pool, he obtained the cotton-like material.

"Our experiments which have been conducted for nine years, are only an improvement on the humming bird methods. Today, we have passed the experimental stage, and the Artificial Cotton Corporation is ready to do business."

Dr. Hedley-Thornton also supplied some technical details on the artificial cotton.

"With this fibre we obtain 890 pounds of cotton from one acre. A cotton grower may get from 350 to 400 pounds if he's lucky. The second year, due to multiplication of roots, we triple harvest."

Roots Are Treated.

"The roots are chemically treated before they are planted, ten feet apart. Four months after planting we are ready for the harvest. In climates already favorable to cotton growing we can get two crops per year in other countries we do not expect more than one crop per year, or possibly three crops in two years.

"Unlike the cotton plant, the weed thrives in any kind of climate and soil. Clay soil is very favorable."

"We mean to sell the cotton substitute to spinners at 12 cents per pound. Should a price war result we can sell as low as 2 cents per

The medical scientists have been doing a good bit of investigating of preserved food in the last year and they have reached a conclusion quite different from that very generally held until recently.

A perfect example of this is Hunt's and Ferdel ALL GREEN ASPARAGUS, sold by Pinehurst—it is almost impossible to tell it from the finest "grass" fresh from the garden—and it's far better than much of the "fresh" which is marketed.

ART LOVERS OF WORLD TO VISIT LONDON EXHIBIT

London.—Art lovers from all over the world are expected to attend the exhibition of Dutch masterpieces which is to be held at Burlington House here on January 4 next.

In order to make the exhibition the finest of its kind ever held, the Dutch authorities have agreed to lend the best examples in their possession, and many important dealers and collectors in Great Britain have also promised to loan their finest works.

Although many of the pictures to be shown have reached that stage of rarity and antiquity where they may be said to be priceless, some indication of the monetary value of the pictures to be shown may be gleaned from the fact that the collection will be insured for more than $15,000,000.

The most important contributions from Holland will be those from the Amsterdam Museum, which is sending four Rembrandts, including the Jewish Bride and Rembrandt's mother, The Merry Drinker and Young Cople, both by Franz Hals, and four paintings by Vermeer.

The Hague is sending two Rembrandts, a Vermeer, three paintings by Van Ostade and a Fabritius. The National Gallery of Scotland will be the largest British contributor. This institution is sending the world-famous painting of Christ, Mary and Martha by Vermeer, and a Hals, and a beautiful Rembrandt are being loaned by the Glasgow Corporation Art Gallery.

America will be represented by seven or eight pictures, brought through the medium of Sir Joseph Duveen. Several paintings by Terborch, and a Hals are included in the American lot.

Arnold Bennett can claim the tennis championship of the world for authors over sixty.

Bennet won all the money in a recent three cornered tournament with H. G. Wells and A. G. Gardner. Bennett is only 61, while Wells is 62 and Gardner 63.

Gardner defeated Wells, 6-2, 6-5. Wells explaining he played below his usual form. Then Bennett defeated Gardner 6-4. There is no explanation as to why they played only one set.

Gardner attributed his defeat to Bennett's disconcerting habit of using both hands. When Gardner sent down a snappy return to Bennett's back hand the imperturbable Bennett calmly switched his racket to his left hand, thus making the return a forearm stroke.

The Willesden Guardians of the Poor have asked the Ministry of Health to remove from their care a child of 2 1/2, whose continued presence in their hospital they state is injurious both to herself and other children.

It is reported to the Ministry that the child is an example of Atavism, a return to the primitive state. In her habits she is a little animal, although pretty and the picture of health.

She prowls round her cot, being more or less wild, and no matter what material she is dressed in or covered with she succeeds in tearing it up. In this way alone she is costing the Guardians five dollars a week.

Racing circles throughout England were surprised to hear of the decision of Sir Abe Bailey, the

ADVANCES OF SCIENCE IN 1928

By ISRAEL KLEIN. Science Editor, NEA Service.

Aviation, agriculture and industry have benefited enormously from the novel ideas that sprang out of the world's scientific laboratories during 1928.

By far the greatest scientific progress has been made in aviation. The impetus given flying by Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic hop in June, 1927, has not spent itself. Yet additional record flights, almost as startling as Lindbergh's, have pushed popular aviation ahead so fast that manufacturers can't keep up with the demand for more planes.

In his latest review of this situation in America, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics William P. McCracken, Jr., reports the scheduled route mileage for air transport service has increased in one year from 8396 to 11,191. Eighty-three cities are directly served by these routes, including a total trading area population of 80,000,000.

More Than 1,000 Airports Soon. Yet this is only one-tenth of all civil flying in this country during 1928, he adds. While 1927 saw an increase in flying mileage from twelve to thirty million, the last year experienced an even greater increase to beyond the 50 million mark. Already there are 352 municipal airports with a scheduled 890 more.

More than 5,000 applications for licensing airplanes are on file at the Department of Commerce, an increase of 400 per cent. over 1927. Scientists in their laboratories and pilots on trial flights have done just as well in their fields. The slotted wing for the assurance of safety, has been quite generally adopted. Cruising speeds have been increased and the power plants improved.

Outstanding in this development is the air-cooled radial Diesel, or oil burning, motor announced by Packard. Greater economy and protection against fire are promised.

The Windmill Airplane. Twenty-five years ago, the Wright brothers made their first flight with a box-kite type of airplane at Kitty Hawk, N. C. On the twenty-fifth anniversary of this adventure, we read of another almost as revolutionary—the from London

South African magnate, to sell all his horses and retire permanently from the track. Sir Abe has been racing in South Africa for more than forty years, and in England for almost thirty-five. All his yearlings and horses in training, including Tourist, the present favorite for the Cesarewitch, will be sold toward the end of October, while the mares and foals will be sold in December. Altogether, perhaps sixty blood-horses will be put on the block.

Ill health is the only reason for his retirement, Sir Abe declared. He has been a sufferer from arthritis for many years, and his condition has been aggravated by phlebitis.

NEW HELP FOR BOSS London.—A British inventor has perfected a new aid to factory bosses. Jim Williams' "ball of the woods" will be passed when it comes into general use. The device keeps a graphic record of all equipment in the shop, and indicates at a glance the operation record of each machine.

to Paris of Cierva's "autogiro" or windmill airplane. Perhaps in 25 years more, this type of airplane will have effected as much progress as the Wright invention.

Further in aviation's advance may be mentioned such epochal flights as that of the Bremen; Captain George Wilkins' flight over the North Pole; the non-stop flight of two Italians from Rome to Brazil, a distance of 4,475 miles; the record non-stop flight of Art Goebel from Los Angeles to New York and that of the ill-fated Capt. Collyer and his companion from New York to Los Angeles.

The visit of the Graf Zeppelin, with a full crew and passenger list, from Germany and its return flight marked a great step forward in lighter than air long distance transportation. Yet the success of Capt. Eckener could not blot out the memory of that fateful flight of Commander Noble in his dirigible to the North Pole. For this ended in the loss of Roald Amundsen, world's greatest explorer, who had gone in search of Noble.

Both federal and civil scientists have been developing such helpful safety measures as the radio beacon, broadcasting of weather forecasts, the "height-sounder" and a new type of airplane aerial for reception of radio messages. They are working on such problems as fog flying and formation of sleet on wings to make aviation even safer.

Man's growing confidence in aviation can no longer be attested than by the examples of Commander Byrd and Capt. Wilkins, who are leading aerial expeditions into the Antarctic.

Advances in Agriculture. Second to aviation is the remarkable progress science has brought to agriculture. In fact agriculture has been industrialized by science. This has been done in two directions—the conversion of the farm's waste material into useful products and the increased use of the "combine" in agricultural operations.

Commercial production of synthetic nitrogenous fertilizers has reduced the cost of this element in farming. "Slidding" of cotton has done away with hand picking in a large part of the south, while improved ginning has speeded up this phase of agriculture tremendously. Researches on vitamins and ultra-violet light have advanced the feeding and care of livestock and poultry, not only overcoming certain deficiency diseases of such stock but increasing their production.

Many remarkable achievements have been recorded in chemistry during 1928. Dr. Claude S. Hudson of the U. S. Health Service, who won the Willard Gibbs Gold Medal for 1928, the highest honor in chemical science, has been able to synthesize, or form artificially, several sugars that heretofore had been regarded rare and costly. Among these are xylose and mannose.

The outstanding feat in pure chemistry, however, is said to be the synthesis of saccharose or cane sugar by Pictet in Switzerland.

Producing Vitamins. Vitamin D and the production of protein foods from yeast have also encouraged industrial adoption of chemical discoveries. Vitamin D, important in our diet, has been produced commercially through the aid of ultra-violet light.

Close allied to chemistry is physics, in both of which science may be placed the work of Prof. Robert A. Millikan on the mysterious cosmic rays, the thinnest elements known to man. Although he has been at his work for some years, we now are told that these little rays have been keeping this world of ours going for millions, perhaps billions of years, and will keep it going to an endless eternity.

That brings us into the realm of astronomy, where we find scientists who work over still puzzling over the origin of our earth and still at odds over various theories. The latest development concerning the world's creation came recently from Professor Thomas C. Chamberlin of Chicago university, who died abruptly after he related a complete analysis of his planetesimal theory.

Backs Einstein Theory. Shortly after this Professor Albert A. Michelson, also of Chicago, startled the scientific world by reporting his failure to find any deviation of light from the Einstein theory as Dr. Dayton C. Miller of Case has, by use of the interferometer. Yet Michelson still affirms his belief in the all-pervading presence of an ether, contrary to that of Einstein.

At the same time other astronomers have been peering farther into the heavens and find clouds of stars up to a hundred million light years away. To realize how inconceivably distant that is, it may be added that in a single year, light is equal to six million million miles!

Developed Television.

In the past year television has been developed to a point where it soon will become a commercial practicality. Then there is the televox, or mechanical man, for automatically controlling electrical equipment. They have crossed the Atlantic by radio in telephony, have applied the vacuum tube to many new fields, have developed a million volt cathode ray tube which is already being used for treatment of certain diseases, and they have advanced the study of lightning for the prevention of its hazards in the oil fields.

The Moffat tunnel through the Rockies, and the Cascade tunnel in Washington, both electrified, mark a definite advance in railroading. Archaeologists have continued digging of the remains of the past, showing the remarkable state of civilization that existed in the Near East thousands of years ago. Others in America have destroyed signs of man who lived here 50,000 years ago.

New Gold Inlay Technique.

In much of this work the Bureau of Standards has done much for the aid of American industry. The scientists there have delved into every conceivable problem presented to them by manufacturers of the country. They work with some 1,000 industrial scientists and over 200 related organizations and have produced results effecting annual savings to industry ranging from $1,000,000 by the perfection of a new solvent formula to $50,000,000 to the dental profession and the public through an improved technique in gold inlay work.

The bureau's scientists have helped reduce the cost of helium production from about $2,000 a cubic foot to only a few cents. They have found a new fabric for driftnets to replace the costly goldbeater skin. They have produced various sugars from heretofore unknown sources. They have further developed some 40 instruments for the improvement and safety of flying.

COULDN'T STOP IT.

Louisville, Ky.—Although J. L. Skinner, 101, has smoked and chewed tobacco since 1862, he blames relatives for the fact that he still uses the filthy weed. On his 100th birthday he had determined to quit lady nicotine. Before the day was out he became ill. His kith and kin insisted that he resume smoking and forget his "fool notion"—which he did.

London.—Woolley, a little hamlet in Somerset, is a community without an eligible bride. Would-be male lovers must journey out of town to find suitable girls. Besides having no young ladies, Woolley has no postoffice, no mail-box, no school or public house. Two radio sets have been installed, however.

W. H. Hudson, the naturalist, was partial to riding rather than walking for ideas, and especially riding in a high wind.

WOMEN PROTEST BIRTH CONTROL JAIL SENTENCE

Chicago.—Judge Harrison Ewing of Cleveland, reported to have threatened a young couple with prison jail sentences if they did not practice birth control, has aroused the ire of some Chicago leaders. When told that Judge Ewing had warned Otto Kouris, 28, and his wife, Helen, 22, parents of three children, that if they had any more children he would bring them into court for an explanation, Mrs. William S. Heferman, member of the board of education in Chicago, said:

"I do not believe in birth control under any circumstances. This Cleveland judge should not discuss people's personal habits. The early pioneers of America, our ancestors, who were the finest stock, did not worry about birth control. Judge Scored.

"Some had large, large families, but there never was any question about the salary the father was getting or about birth control. Some of our laboring men have large families, and are our finest citizens. The judge would be better off if he stuck to judicial matters and left alone domestic affairs."

Mrs. Leona E. Meder said: "I believe Judge Ewing has dementia praecox. He is a disgrace to the bench and as soon as possible he should be removed. Any judge who takes birth control into court should be ousted. The laws of God and the laws of man never come together in the same case. A lunacy commission should try this judge. Anyone who follows statistics in the courts of domestic relations will find there is less trouble in families where there are eight or ten children than where there are one or two or none."

Has A Supporter. Mrs. Charles Wendall Holmes, president of the National Patriotic Association supported Judge Ewing. She declared:

"Because ours is a nation founded on home and the family life of our people, we have achieved almost universal advancement unknown anywhere else in the world today. Poverty and ignorance go hand in hand and where the requirements of a family exceed the earning capacity of the legal provider, we find a lowering of the economic standard and this is detrimental nationally. The judge would seem to have acted in accordance with the status of the state in which he presides."

Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue, also supported the judge. She said:

"I agree with Judge Ewing perfectly and I predict that the young live up to the judge's warning that they have no more children. No home can be a home without the necessities of life and the $24 a week which the husband of the couple is earning does not provide that."

SCOT STARTED IT ALL?

London.—Now we know who started the Charleston. According to the version offered by G. E. Emery of Melbourne, it was a Scots girl with a thirly mind. "She sighted a threepenny piece on the floor while dancing," he says, "and putting her foot on it, worked it off the floor and quietly picked it up."

Science is now experimenting to produce milk in powdered form to simplify the problem and save costs of distribution.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Jan. 4.—Only a mild lull was administered to the Stock Market at the beginning of trading today by the reported increase of $238,000,000 in brokers' loans. The market favorites sold off from 1 to 7 points at the opening, but good buying power swung in behind the active shares in the first half-hour, recovering the bulk of the early losses. Wall street set up the claim that the January financing and other matters were more responsible for the big increases in "speculative borrowing" than buying of stocks in the big market.

The copper stocks and the Rails swung into their stride with a sharp rally from the low prices of the day. Attention was again riveted on Radio and Victor Talking as directors of the former company met for their regular monthly session. Radio opened at 39, down 7 points from the previous close, but recovered without much trouble to 39, as Victor also jumped ahead 4 or five points from the opening price. General Electric dropped back 5 points at the start but was in line with Thursday's close before the end of the first hour.

International Nickel, new stock, was a star performer in the metals' stocks, selling in good volume above 55. The principal market for this stock is in Toronto and London, with professionals here taking advantage of its strong technical position.

The steel stocks and the oils lost no time in recovering their early losses, though trading in neither section of the market was very brisk. Canadian Steel was a strong favorite in the independent steels, selling in good volume above 101.

Marland Oil and Sinclair led the rally in the independent oils and Studebaker was a favorite in the low priced motors.

Call money renewals went back to 3 per cent, for money loaned over the week-end, but an easier market is expected next week. Transactions in the first half hour totaled $45,000 shares, against 1,000,000 shares in the same period yesterday.

DIAMOND MEN HUNT LOST HALF OF BIG BRITISH CROWN GEM

Johannesburg—Two rival diamond syndicates are conducting vigorous searches for a diamond of more than a thousand carats, believed to be the missing half of the famous Cullinan diamond, which is now among the Crown jewels of England.

Even since the famous gem was discovered in 1905, there have been reports that the one-half of the stone was stolen by a native and is still in his possession. The stone when first found weighed 3,026 carats. The gem that is now among the Crown Jewels, and guarded night and day in the Tower of London, has been divided into two sections, one weighing 516½ and the other 309 carats.

Each of the two rival syndicates now claim that it has definite information as to the whereabouts of the native who is believed to possess the missing half of the diamond, whose value is too great to be estimated in gold standards. The Premier Diamond company, who from the field where the Cullinan diamond was discovered, are stated to have spent large sums in an effort to find the missing half.

MASSACHUSETTS TO CELEBRATE TRICENTENARY

Boston.—Plans for the state-wide celebration in 1930 of the Tercentenary of Massachusetts are fast nearing completion. It was announced by the Tercentenary corporation.

A Ways and Means Committee was appointed and is now organized, consisting of a group of business men, namely: Charles E. Fay, of Watertown, John F. Tinsley, of Worcester, George Endicott of Andover, Samuel H. Thompson of Lowell, Frank R. Shepard, of Lexington, and Gerrit Ford and Bradbury F. Cushing both of Boston.

Build Puritan Village.

Plans for the construction of the Puritan Colonial village, the 17th century Indian village, and a series of six or eight national hamlets have been completed, and indications are that the Puritan village will be constructed in the summer of 1929. Three of the villages will honor the countries from which people have come to Massachusetts during the 300 years since the arrival of the Puritans. Expectations were that active work on all proposed groups would start early in the spring.

The interest of Springfield in the state-wide plans for the 300th anniversary of the establishment of the Bay Colony is both sentimental and of a 20th century nature.

Springfield also intends to be the center for western Massachusetts during the Tercentenary year and to attract attention to the industrial, educational and civic advantages that have developed there during the 300 years, it was declared.

Customs and historical incidents will be re-enacted; pageantry and parades, making of sites and buildings, school features, publications and souvenir medals were proposed for Springfield's celebration.

Pychon Memorial.

A permanent memorial to Wil-

Ham Pychon, the Roxbury man who founded the city in 1636, was also proposed.

Town meeting action by citizens of Watertown has resulted in advancing local plans for its own 300th anniversary in 1930, which will join the state-wide plans and be coordinated with the celebration of other communities especially in the form of regional programs to embrace Watertown, Newton, Cambridge, Belmont, Waltham, Weston and Lincoln. Watertown was one of three settlements or towns established at the same time and by the same vote of the colony General Court; the other two being Boston and Dorchester.

PIGS GROW LEAN.

Kansas City.—Even pigs are being forced into the "leaner column." No less an authority than E. Z. Russell, swine inspector for the Department of Agriculture, says that pigs are being forced to reduce. The reason, is "this prosperous country demands high priced pork and since hog fat has met serious competition in vegetable fats," it remains for the pig to produce more meat and less grease.

Belleisle, Ont., Jan. 4.—Dr. Charles W. Twells, qualified physician and alleged slayer of his two sons, Kenneth, 11, and Colin, 7, was held in jail on a murder charge here today following his appearance in court late yesterday. Dr. Twells was remanded by the court on the murder charge.

Twells gave up the practice of medicine in India to come to Canada and operate a farm, it is said.

A peculiar angle was added to the case when Twells, whose farm is one of the most modern in point of equipment and whose home is lavishly furnished, was alleged to have shot and seriously wounded his brother-in-law and farming partner, Arthur Corfield, in a quarrel over a few hundred dollars. What prompted the fatal wounding of the two lads, following the shooting of Corfield, has not yet been determined.

Three men started digging through the ice for a grave but made little progress and finally blasted.

The dynamite revealed a buried glacier which must have been there, unmelted and unaltered, for centuries.

Borchgrevink's party were the first to witness the arrival of the penguins, the only creatures that endure winter in Antarctica. They met millions of them where they had marched inland over the ice. For fourteen days and fourteen nights the strange procession went on through the bleak wastes. (To Be Continued)

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Though her beauty speaks for itself, the saxophone girl has to toot her own horn.

LETTER GOLF

Anybody's FULL NAME can be made the subject of letter golf. Par is five and one solution is on another page:

Letter Golf grid with 'FULL' and 'NAME' words.

THE RULES. 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW HEW, HEN.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Misunderstood. He—"I talked with a very interesting man today. He was a Bud-dist."

A False Security. We are an old-fashioned man and never yet have we dared to look to see where a well-filled one-piece bathing suit buttons up or snaps on or hooks over, whatever it does and how firmly.

Your own life is doing much to decide what you will be a customer for, but advertising is doing most to decide whose customer you are going to be.

Couldn't Fool Her. Uncle: "The modern girl doesn't know what needles are for."

A man up in Ohio says he will live on onions alone. Alone is right. Men will stand for anything if they'll stand for stenographers who fill the office with the smell of cashmere bouquet soap.

There's A Limit. "Do you think you could care for a chap like me?" "Oh, I think so—if he wasn't too much like you."

It isn't so much prohibition that makes the wets unhappy, as it is the liquor they get now.

Grandmother: "Now, Mary, when I was a girl, nice girls did not hold hands."

They were making a match. "One of these golfers says he ought to shoot the course in 80, and the other one claims that he'll be happy if he shoots 95. Which one do you want for a partner?"

"You can have the eighty man. I'd rather trust to the liar who claims to be worse than he is than depend on the liar who claims to be better than he is."

Maybe the reason church attendance is so small is because people have somehow grown to dislike being preached either to or at.

Opportunity may have knocked at your door the day you were down the street telling a hard-luck story.

Jack: "I called on Mabel last evening and I wasn't any more than inside the door when her mother asked me my intentions."

Alec: "That must have been embarrassing." Jack: "Yes, but that's not the worst of it. Mabel called from upstairs and said, 'That isn't the one, Mother!'"

Witness: "Then he up and knocked me down with a leaf."

Judge: "With a leaf?" Witness: "Yes, your honor. With a leaf from the table."

Tall buildings do not make a great city. It's the people in them.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The Tinies now felt right at home. Said Copsy, "Every time we roam we meet some dandy people. We're a lucky lot. I think I see a stream, far, far below, and I suggest that's where we go. I'm feeling very thirsty, and I want to get a drink."
