

$50,000 CHENEY GIFT FOR TOWN LIBRARY

Silk Firm Condition Offer on Consolidation; Would Be In Lieu of Old Sporting Agreement With Ninth District; Also Give West Side Land on Same Condi- tion.

A gift of $50,000 to the Town of Manchester for the construction of a library building, or for an endowment fund for the purchase of books for a town library, was publicly announced by Cheney Brothers last night, provided that certain understandings with the Ninth district can be arranged, and also provided that the consolidation of the town's schools and libraries is effected.

An unwritten agreement exists between Cheney Brothers and the Ninth school district that the local silk firm erect, furnish and rent to the district at a nominal sum a library building. This understanding came about following the destruction of the school and library buildings in the Ninth district by the great fire of 1913. The firm did not find it practicable to construct a library building during the war period, and now offers to substitute this offer of a lump sum towards a town library, if the Ninth district is willing and if consolidation is brought about.

Transfer of Understanding.
This new offer in reality simply transfers the understanding with Cheney Brothers from the Ninth district to the town. Although no contract exists the firm takes the position that morally it owes the Ninth district a library, since, in the original plan of the buildings grouped around Educational Square a library building was provided for. Since, within the near future, the Ninth school district will be asked to purchase the Cheney owned school buildings, and no library building is included among them, Cheney Brothers feel that they should make some sort of compensation for the original offer.

The town can make use of this gift, as will be pointed out in the wording of the offer, only after the libraries of the town and the schools are consolidated. This is a natural condition. The rest of the town outside the Ninth district could not expect those within the district to relinquish their rights in the contract for a library among them. The district agreed to a consolidation of interests. This consolidation will be voted upon at a special town meeting to be held within a short time.

Many Factors.
Although this one point alone is a strong argument in favor of the consolidation of the libraries in town many other factors enter into

HOUSE WILL OPPOSE BIG DRY BUDGET

Leaders Say They Will Not Stand for the Foolish Ac- tion of the Senate.

Washington, Jan. 23.—A well-sustained effort will be made in the House to kill the $24,000,000 prohibition fund added to the deficiency bill by the Senate.

House administration leaders said today they would not "stand for the foolish action of the Senate."

The measure must go to conference between the two Houses before it can be finally passed, in the conference House managers will attempt to eliminate the increase.

La Guardia's Plan.
At the same time Rep. La Guardia (R) of New York, who started the rumpus early in the session in the House by demanding $250,000,000 be provided for the Dry Bureau on the ground that it would show that the law could not be enforced, planned to make a new effort to retain the $24,000,000 boost.

Rep. Wood of Indiana, ranking Republican on the House appropriations committee, declared the Senate's action would be rejected.

"It is foolishness to force the money upon the secretary of the treasury in charge of enforcement of the 18th Amendment," said Wood.

"More than $20,000,000 now is provided for the prohibition bureau and for the Coast Guard's functions in enforcing the law.

"No organization of the government can be efficiently expanded at

HOOVER KEEPS IN SECLUSION ON FIRST DAY

President-Elect Tired Out After Wonderful Reception He Received When He Arrived at Miami, Fla.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 23.—Herbert Hoover went into seclusion today.

On Belle Isle, in the middle of Biscayne Bay, the President-elect turned his back on all engagements, denied himself to all visitors, and settled down to a month's relaxation and contemplation of the problems that will be his after the fourth of March next. He plans to do a lot of fishing. But not even this activity could entice him today away from the luxurious lodge that is to be his home for the next four weeks.

Ideal Retreat

Mr. Hoover's pre-inaugural retreat is ideally situated for his purpose. He wants quiet and solitude. The Pennycuik estate on Belle Isle is but one entrance to it, and that is guarded by Secret Service operatives and Florida state police. Callers must identify themselves and disclose their business, if any, before being admitted to the grounds. All around him are the blue waters of the bay.

The island is reached only by a causeway over which there is comparatively little traffic.

To Study Data

In this sub-tropical setting, with its waving palms and masses of flowers, during the next few weeks, Mr. Hoover will mull over the ton of data which he brought south with him after two weeks of conferences with the politicians of Washington. Here the Cabinet's chances of a score of aspirants are to be weighed in the balance and the policies of the new administration upon a score of problems probably to be determined.

Wonderful Welcome

Mr. Hoover was greatly pleased by his welcome to Florida, which outdid even the elaborate reception which was given to President Coolidge on his fleeting visit of last year. It has been several years since the state, and particularly Miami Beach, has had an opportunity to entertain a chief executive and it is making the most of it.

Upwards of 50,000 persons lined the streets and the causeway yesterday when Mr. Hoover arrived, following what amounted almost to a triumphal tour down the east coast. He was greeted by the mayors of the twin cities, given the keys to both, as well as an expensive fishing outfit which he hopes to utilize later during his stay.

Tomorrow Mr. Hoover hopes to get in some fishing. Today he planned to get acquainted with his island and the surroundings. He had engaged entertainers and no scheduled callers.

CRAMER MENTIONED FOR CABINET POST

Wealthy North Carolinian Has Luncheon With Hoover Today.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 23.—Herbert Hoover interrupted his island seclusion today long enough to have luncheon with an American who is regarded as a distinct Cabinet possibility—Stuart W. Cramer, wealthy North Carolina cotton manufacturer.

Speculation has centered about Cramer as a possible secretary of the navy. He is a graduate of the Naval Academy, but resigned years ago to enter the cotton manufacturing business in which he has achieved outstanding success in the south.

Cramer was one of the chief financial backers of the Hoover campaign in North Carolina, and was instrumental in procuring the Republican victory there. If the "new republic" is to be awarded a Cabinet post in recognition of its political conversion, Cramer's appointment might take care of the situation. Mr. Hoover had not planned any conferences today, but learning that Cramer was in Miami Beach he abandoned his fishing preparations long enough to have him come to Belle Isle.

His Fishing Trip

Tomorrow, it is probable Mr. Hoover and a few personal friends will shove off in the houseboat Antile, owned by Joseph H. Adams, for Angel Fish Creek, some 40

Laddie Boy, Harding's Dog, Dies; Victim Of Old Age

Newton, Mass., Jan. 23.—"Laddie Boy" is dead.

The famous White House alre-die, friend and pet of the late President Warren G. Harding, passed away quietly at the home of Harry L. Baker, the Secret Service man to whose care "Laddie Boy" was given seven years ago when President Harding died.

"Laddie Boy" died with his head resting on the arms of Mrs. Barker, who had nursed him through an old age ailment.

"Laddie Boy," who was a half brother to President Coolidge's dog, "Laddie Duck," came to the White House on March 4, 1921, a gift to President Harding from Charles W. Quetsche, an Ohio admirer, presented on the day of the chief executive's inauguration.

"Laddie Boy" had two great loves—the love of children and coffee, with cream and sugar. He had his coffee and sugar a few hours before he died.

The Harding Memorial Society planned to preserve "Laddie Boy" to posterity but he had grown so lean and scrawny it was decided to bury him today.

WOULD HAVE NEW LONDON A HORSE RACING CENTER

Bill in State Legislature Pro- vides for Racing Commis- sion; Telephone Co. Would Increase Its Capital.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 23.—New London as a horse racing center is indicated in a bill introduced into the Lower House of the State Legislature today to provide a racing commission for New London county.

The bill was declared similar to one that two years ago was presented to make horse racing possible throughout the state.

In the Senate the Southern New England Telephone Company's request for the right to have a capital of $400,000,000 was presented in the form of a bill. The company now has a capital of $40,000,000 of which $35,000,000 is outstanding at eight per cent interest. The increased stock would be issued from time to time as occasion may require. Proposed improvements, it was explained, will take more capital than the company can secure by issuing the present stock available.

The House received a score of judgeship resolutions, and the Senate received but a pair, those of the Bridgeport City Court.

THE SENATE

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 23.—The State Senate today received a bill which would allow the Southern New England Telephone Company to increase its capital stock from $40,000,000 to $400,000,000 from time to time, to meet the company's financial requirements.

Another bill permits Bridgeport to issue $250,000 in pavement bonds, while another lets that city issue $150,000 in street extension bonds, school bonds in the same amount, park bonds to the amount of $100,000 and Yellow Mill bridge bonds $250,000.

The New Haven Clock Company seeks the right to increase its capital.

The Woman Jury Bill came to the Senate. Miss Mary B. Weaver, the one woman Senator, brought the bill in today.

BILL TO STRIP THE TREASURY OF ITS POWER

Democratic-Insurgent Bloc In the Senate Demands That Secretary Mellon's Power Be Curtailed.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Having authorized a $24,000,000 increase in prohibition enforcement funds, a Democratic-Insurgent coalition in the Senate today sought to strip Secretary of Treasury Mellon of all authority over tax refunds in excess of $10,000—a power under which he has refunded $2,614,000,000 in the last six years.

An amendment to the first deficiency appropriation bill, proposed by Senator McKellar (D) of Tenn., brought the subject before the Senate. In order to attach his measure to the appropriation bill, McKellar faced the task of gaining the rules of the Senate. He predicted success, since the deficiency bill carries $75,000,000 to pay the last quota of refunds.

Big Dry Fund

The $24,000,000 increase in dry funds was written into the same bill by a vote of 50 to 27, when both Wets and Drys joined hands to support it over Mellon's opposition. The fund was placed at the disposal of the President and was made available until June 30, 1930, so that President-Elect Hoover probably will direct its expenditure. The fund however must be approved by the House before it becomes effective.

The Senate also inserted a $250,000 appropriation in the bill to pay the expenses of the proposed prohibition amendment. This money also was made available until June 30, 1930, so that it can be used by Hoover to finance his proposed nationwide prohibition inquiry.

Threaten Night Session

The fight over Mellon tax refunds delayed action on the administration's new cruiser bill. The naval measure has been sidetracked for the past week, after being pigeon-holed for the first two weeks of the year to allow ratification of the Kellogg peace treaty. Administration leaders have threatened night sessions to speed a the Senate's legislative wheels but the threats failed to shut off debate.

Leaders of the Democratic-Insurgent coalition declared the McKellar proposal was the "most important to come before Congress this session." They charged Mellon with responsibility for refunding taxes totaling more than the total annual revenue of the government in years before the war. All the refunds, under existing law and by no fault of Mellon's, have been decided secretly, paid out secretly and the details withheld even from Congress. Now the coalition demands that the whole system be changed.

The McKellar Plan

The McKellar proposal would give the Federal Board of Tax Appeals authority over all refunds and rebates in excess of $10,000. Mellon would retain authority over refunds below that amount. This change would allow for public hearings on claims for huge rebates, would provide a public record of the cases and permit publicity on the decisions.

McKellar, in defending his plan, declared the present system constituted a "scandal" and "provided wide opportunity for graft, fraud and favoritism." He told how treasury employees had resigned, obtained jobs with great corporations and then showed the corporation how to obtain secretly huge refunds of taxes, most of which had been paid and considered closed years ago. McKellar did not attack Mellon personally but directed all his arguments "against the system."

Calls Them Favors

"These tax refunds," he said, "are in the nature of favors granted special taxpayers. Those who are on the inside know how to get the returns. The way it is conducted, it is really a species of graft, obtained in secret, bartered for in secret, and money paid in secret, and with elude police."

He also said that he participated in a bank robbery in San Francisco in 1920 and that he had been a "hold-up man" all his life.

FOUR KILLED IN CRASH

Ohio's Greatest Bus Disaster; Auto Is Struck by an Elec- tric Car.

Bellevue, Ohio, Jan. 23.—Four persons, two men and two young girls, were killed here this morning when a Lake Shore electric car at a crossing two miles east of here, Teddy Brawski, 251 Nassau street, Brooklyn, and Richard Freeman, 1227 E. Boulevard, Cleveland, died in the hospital today.

Albert Engelman, 25, Charles Walker, 18, Effie Powers, 21, and Ruth Somers, 12.

All were killed instantly and the bodies were badly mangled. The two couples were believed to have been returning from a dance. The driver's vision is thought to have been obscured because of the overcrowded condition of the coupe.

THREE ARE KILLED WHEN 'NEW HAVEN' ENGINE OVERTURNS

TWO VESSELS SAVED; OTHER THOUGHT LOST

No Word for Three Days from Ship Off Cape Race; Had Crew of 30—Word from Others Received.

New York, Jan. 23.—Radio flashes revealed with dramatic suddenness today that sturdy ships and stout hearts of sea faring men are winning a grim battle over a North Atlantic hurricane which took one vessel and thrice lives as its toll, and put two others in distress.

After nine hours of silence from rescue ships that gave rise to grave fears, the heartening news crackled through the ether shortly before noon that the American tanker Dannedaika "is proceeding to Bermuda."

That meant the Dannedaika with 32 men aboard had been rescued, or had repaired itself. Hours before about noon yesterday—the Dannedaika had flashed a S O S: "We are sinking. Help!"

More Good News

Good news also came to land concerning Italian cargo boat Florida, fighting the mountainous seas with a crew of 30 aboard.

But nothing further was heard of the British freighter Teesbridge and its crew of thirty which is believed to have gone down 300 miles due east of Cape Race.

But hope had not been given up for the Florida. For in a short time later a message came from another rescue ship, the S. S. America, commanded by Captain George Fried, hero of the famous Antioch rescue. He wirelessed:

Fried's Message

"We are still going to the Florida and expect to reach there in couple hours. Dannedaika has jury rig (makeshift rudder) out and is attempting to make Bermuda under her own steam. President Harrison does not know if he is still proceeding toward her or not. I will let us know shortly."

A second dispatch from the America's wireless indicated that her operator was "working" the Florida.

These fears were being put to rest that the Dannedaika and the Florida had met the apparent fate of the Teesbridge. It had not been determined for a certainty that the Teesbridge sank with all aboard but marine men are convinced that if she had been saved they would have heard from her long since, for she had reported herself in distress three days ago.

New York, Jan. 23.—Another epic drama of the North Atlantic was being staged today behind a veil of mystery. For grim silence fell this morning between radio stations on land and rescue ships that were spending the storm-lashed scene some 700 miles off shore where two stricken vessels were struggling to keep afloat.

One other vessel has been swallowed up by the angry sea with a

CALL FIVE CENT CIGAR BACKBONE OF INDUSTRY

Tobacco Men Say American Grown Weed Goes in to Make All the Fillers.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The philosophy of the late Vice President Thomas Marshall was called to the aid of five cent cigar manufacturers in appealing to the House ways and means committee today for a reduction in the tariff upon imported wrappers from $2.10 to $1.50 a pound.

Recalling that Marshall said that "what this country needs is a good five cent cigar," the manufacturers said they were ready to provide it.

The committee was somewhat surprised to hear the manufacturers' representatives declare that despite opinion to the contrary the five cent cigar is still the backbone of the industry.

Harvey L. Hurst of Philadelphia explained that American tobacco is used to fill five cent cigars but that imported Sumatra wrappers are used.

Some growers' associations supported the plea while others opposed it. The hearing developed the usual general division, however, with producers wanting a low tariff and manufacturers a high tariff on raw material and high tariff upon manufactured imports.

Engineer, Fireman and a Passenger Meet Death at Thomaston, This State; Five Passengers Serious- ly Injured in Waterbury Hospital—C o a c h Tele- scopes Onto Engine and Catches Fire; Many Hero- ic Rescues.

Thomaston, Conn., Jan. 23.—Three people, one a passenger, and the others the engine crew, were instantly killed today when the Waterbury-Winsted morning train was derailed at Castle Bridge here.

The Dead

The dead are:
John H. Geddes, 14 Weyman street, Waterbury, foreman in the American Brass Company plant here, and brother of High Sheriff James Geddes, of New Haven county.

Wilson Burns, of 84 Forbes street, Bridgeport, a veteran of fifty years service with the New Haven railroad, engineer of the train.

P. J. Shortell, of 671 Broad street, Bridgeport, fireman.

Five passengers, all seriously injured, were taken to Waterbury hospital.

Engine Leaves Rails

The train is a daily running between Waterbury and Winsted, leaving Waterbury at 7:55 a. m., and due at Winsted at 8:40. For some reason that has not yet been determined, the engine left the rails at the overhead bridge carrying the state highway across the rail line, and rolled on its side. Immediately the passenger car next to the engine crashed on top of the engine and caught fire. A combination baggage and passenger coach which completed the train and landed on the rails, an embankment of about ten feet, carries the railroad at the point of the accident.

The wreck occurred about fifteen feet north of Castle Bridge where the railroad curves toward the river, and then makes a reverse curve to the northwest. The engine failed to keep the rails at the first curve and plunged against a dirt bank some ten feet beyond, rebounding and toppling on its back with wheels spinning in air.

Coach Telescopes

The combination coach broke its coupling as the engine left the rails and stayed on the track. The first coach rose into the air and crashed forward with wheels up, clearing the tender of the engine and landing on the fire box. The coach was splintered and fire swept through, sending flames high into the air.

Passengers who had been riding in the day coach plunged to the aid of those in the burning car, and performed some heroic rescues. One passenger crossed the lots and telephoned news of the wreck, asking immediate aid. Local firemen sped and ambulances were called from Torrington and Waterbury.

The body of a man lay on the road some distance beyond the wreck. He was identified as J. H. Geddes, of Waterbury. His body appeared to have been flung through the battered side of the coach that crashed onto the engine. Within a short distance of the wreck, many other forms snatched these survivors and to the hospital.

William Rock, of Bridgeport, conductor of the train was the sole survivor of the crew. He was collecting tickets in the combination coach when the crash came.

The Injured

The injured are:
Frederick C. Boyce, 459 High street, Newark, N. J., in Charlotte Hungerford hospital, Torrington, condition reported serious.

Rev. David R. Overton, 67 Brightwood avenue, Torrington, in Charlotte Hungerford hospital, condition fair.

Mrs. Anna Wood, 100 White street, West Haven, arms, hands and chest burnt, condition serious, in Waterbury hospital.

Scott Weed, 15 and Joseph Magdanz 16 both of Torrington, pupils in Torrington state trade school, treated at Torrington, and sent home, not serious.

Edward McEllen, 1440 Broadway, New York, and N. G. Wilson, Plainville, seriously shaken up, given hospital treatment and sent home.

LUTHERS MUST SELECT NEW HEAD; PEARSON OUT

Rev. Truman Woodward, pastor of the East Hartford Congregational church, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Swedish Lutheran Church League, Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The annual election of officers will be held at this meeting. Helge Pearson, president for the past three years, has stated that he will not accept the position again, leaving the field open to other league members.

Fillmore Gustafson is chairman of the program committee and will also have charge of the games. Refreshments will be served by the social committee.

TOWN TO VOTE ON NINE MAJOR LAW CHANGES

stead of annually as at present. Town elections would then come on the years when there are state elections. A saving in time and expense would be effected.

Consolidation. The third, fourth, fifth and sixth topics deal with the general subject of consolidation. They will be voted on separately, however. It is proposed to consolidate the sewer, school and fire districts and the library interests of the town so that each of these districts and the libraries will, hereafter, be governed as a unit and not by the district system as at present.

Seventh, a town planning commission is proposed. This commission would be appointed by the Board of Selectmen and its powers would be in accordance with the powers granted under the General Statutes. Eighth, a Board of Finance for planning the town's budget of expenses and laying a tax rate would be created. This Board of Finance would be appointed by the Selectmen, and would be composed of electors holding no other offices in the town or city government. A referendum on the Board of Finance decisions by a petition of 100 voters is provided. Ninth, it is proposed that this Board of Finance have the power to authorize bond issues, only after a town meeting has authorized the appropriation for which the bonds are to be issued.

With the consolidation of the schools, fire departments, sewer systems and libraries proposed, it may readily be seen that the entire proposed charter for Manchester is based upon the supposition that such consolidations will be approved by the voters of the town. Should consolidation be rejected it would be necessary for the revision committee to revamp its entire work.

Other Features. Features, of lesser importance, in the revised charter, include the proposal to eliminate the present town by-law with reference to the cleaning of sidewalks, and substitute a law with "teeth" in it. One method of assessments against property owners for public improvements will be followed instead of several methods of procedure as at present.

Although it is proposed to elect all town officials every two years not all appointments to be made by the Selectmen will be for two years. Some appointments will be for one year, some for two years, and others for three years. In many instances hold-over boards or committees would be named so that at no time could all the committee members be entirely new to the work they are to do.

Obsolete Laws. Several obsolete, and some misunderstood amendments or by-laws are eliminated from the charter, as, among them being one which gives

MUST BE A JOKE IN FOURACRES, NURSERYMAN.

In the Classified department of the new Telephone Directory, there appears under the caption "Nurserymen" the line "Fouracres, 140 Cooper street, Manchester 988." Since Fouracres is a women's boarding house, owned by Cheney Brothers, the whole staff of this newspaper has been trying to locate the inevitable but elusive joke in the mix-up, but the quip keeps just out of reach, even though many of the residents at Fouracres are very youthful.

Perhaps somebody can supply the big idea. The entire authority for the hiring of school teachers in the first eight school districts to the superintendent of schools. It is general to have the hiring of teachers supervised by the school committee. With consolidation this would automatically be taken care of by the town school committee.

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE ON HIS WAY TO WORK

William Silurpa of North Main Street in Hospital But Not Seriously Hurt.

William Silurpa, 34 of 631 North Main street, is in the Memorial hospital with a concussion of the brain and a head laceration as a result of being struck by an automobile early today. His condition is not regarded as serious.

Silurpa was walking along the highway on Toland Turnpike on his way to Hackett Brothers' tobacco plantation where he is employed, when the accident happened. The automobile which struck him is owned by Wacław Rubacha of 96 North street and is said to have been operated by his wife, Lena.

Silurpa said he was confused by an approaching truck and did not see the automobile. The woman stopped the car, and with the assistance of her husband, picked up the injured man and took him to the hospital. The wound was dressed and Silurpa permitted to leave. However, Silurpa became quite dizzy at home and a doctor was called. He advised that the man be again taken to the hospital. This was done at 1:45 this afternoon.

It was stated at the hospital this afternoon that X-ray pictures have not yet been taken and therefore the full extent of the injury is not yet known. It may be either a fracture of the skull or a brain concussion, probably the latter, hospital authorities stated.

Silurpa is married and has two children besides his wife. One is a boy, six years old and the other, a daughter, two years old. No police investigation was made, the accident being reported to police headquarters by Rubacha.

miles south of Miami toward the Keyes. He probably will be out several days before he is expected to see Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, who will stop off here for a few hours enroute northward for Nassau. Morrow's name was figured prominently in Cabinet speculation, particularly with reference to the secretaryship of state.

There is reason to believe, however, that if Mr. Hoover avails himself of Morrow's services after March 4, it will be in a capacity other than that of foreign minister in the new administration.

loss of thirty lives, it is believed this was the British freighter Teesbridge, reported "missing without trace" by ships that had rushed to the position given by the Teesbridge when she flashed her signals of distress.

Others in Danger. Anxiety over the fate of the American tanker Dannedalke, with 32 officers and men aboard, and the Italian cargo boat Florida, carrying a crew of about 30, increased as hour after hour passed without word from the ships had reached to their rescue.

Up to shortly before 11 o'clock this morning no encouraging information had come from the ships that had previously reported they were heading to the rescue of the Dannedalke and the Florida. One of the rescue ships, the United States liner America, commanded by Captain George Fried, the hero of the famous Antlone rescue, should have been alongside the Dannedalke at daybreak, according to computations of probable speed and distance.

Last Message. The last message of encouragement was received at 3 o'clock this morning when the Radio Corporation of America learned that Captain Fried was then in communication with both the Dannedalke and the Florida.

"Still all right so far," was the brave reply of the Dannedalke to Captain Fried's query. But that was hours ago. While the liner America was last reported heading toward the Dannedalke, the Dollar liner President Harrison was heading at fast possible speed toward the last position given by the stricken Florida. A third vessel in the race against death is the German steamship York which was only 180 miles from the source of the S. O. S. signals but, because of her smaller turbines, she was not expected to reach the scene until mid-afternoon.

Tough Seas. All three rescue ships were making slow progress because of the mountainous seas and the wind which reached a hurricane velocity. Operators at radio stations on shore strained their ears, meanwhile, for news flashes from the rescue ships.

The Teesbridge, which is believed lost with all aboard, first sent out an S. O. S. call Sunday night giving her position some 300 miles due east of Cape Race. The freighter Maine reported she reached the Teesbridge's position on Monday afternoon and that having found no trace of her, resumed her course.

HOPE ABANDONED.

St. Johns N. F., Jan. 23.—Hope of the rescue of the 35 men of the crew of the British freighter Teesbridge was abandoned here today. Radio messages received at Cape Race from the Belgian steamer Calcasier and Atlantic transport Freighter Maine indicated that they had abandoned their search for the British freighter. The Calcasier and Maine had been searching for signs of the Teesbridge since receiving an S. O. S. from that vessel stating she was helpless in raging seas with her hatches gone and stovehold flooded.

Latest radio advices received at Cape Race stated that the United States liner America, the Dollar liner President Harrison and the North German Lloyd freighter York were encountering heavy seas in their struggles to reach the Italian freighter Florida and an American tanker Dannedalke which is reported being in distress about 700 miles off the Virginia Capes. No estimates of the respective distances of the rescue ships from the distressed vessel was given.

The trunk line system, in another bill. The Waterbury hospital would amend its charter so that forty people may be members of the board of trustees with the right to fill vacancies for themselves.

Voting Districts

The Town of Greenwich asks the right to establish voting districts. The Borough of Deer Island, in Town of Morris is suggested in another bill which asks the right to incorporate the section in such a way.

A bill provides a pension for Margaret T. Burgess of Bridgeport, the payment to be $950 a year.

A validating act for the certificate of organization of the Treverton Coal Co. of New Haven, was submitted in a bill.

An act providing a jail sentence of one year for desertion of wife and children also was presented, as were bills as follows: Two resolutions on City Court judgeships in Bridgeport, one appointing Albert J. Merritt, judge, and William J. Buckley, a judge of the same court.

IN THE HOUSE.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 23.—The House today received resolutions as follows:

Appointment of Albert C. Snyder, judge of Bloomfield town court; Albert S. Bill, judge of West Hartford town court; Frank H. Foss, judge, and Russell A. Andrews, deputy judge of Willimantic police court; Frederick Schofield, judge, and Stanley Morgan, deputy judge, of Waterford town court; Seth B. Beecher, deputy judge of Seymour town court; Levi P. M. Hickey, judge, and Stanley N. Brainard, deputy judge of East Hartford town court; William C. Duff, judge, and Robert E. Ayer, deputy judge of Unionville borough court; William E. Heald, judge, and Ernest K. Taft, deputy judge of the Stafford Springs borough court; John T. Barry, judge, and James H. Shea, deputy judge of Griswold town court; Michael T. Downes, judge, and Lois Boyarsky, deputy judge of Wallingford borough court.

The Bills. Among bills in the House was one providing a closed season on ruffed grouse until October 8, 1931. Another bill will reimburse the Jordan Hardware Co. of Willmanic, for supplies furnished the State Board of Education. Other bills are:

Reimbursing Miss Elizabeth Sutton, of Willimantic, for injuries received while on duty at Willimantic Normal school; authorizing the Ailingtown, West Haven, fire department to issue $45,000 in bonds to build a fire house; amending the charter of the Litchfield Electric Light and Power company, to allow it to make and sell gas in Litchfield, Morris, and Goshen; including in the trunk line system the highway from Thomaston to Starr Corner, Cornwall; providing a new salary schedule for Southington town court officials; exempting volunteer firemen from personal taxes; providing salaries for Waterbury city court judges: Judge, $4,500; deputy judge, $3,500; clerk, $3,000; prosecutor $3,500; assistant, $2,500; probation officer, $2,500, and woman probation officer, $2,200.

Racing Commission

Including in the trunk line system the highway from Terryville to East School, Harwinton; establishing a New London county racing commission; authorizing Norwich to issue $65,000 in redeeming bonds; revising the Norwich City charter; making the number of deputy sheriffs in New Haven county 35; create zoning districts in Norwich; providing compensation for towns to offset loss of taxes on state property; providing a department of police in Branford; authorizing any town to establish an advisory highway commission; providing a town court for Seymour; allowing the Century Indemnity Co. of Hartford, to increase capital from time to time to the amount of ten millions; allowing Norwich to issue $140,000 in court house redeeming bonds; allowing a $250,000 bond issue for Norwich to redeem its gas and electric plant; providing a penalty of $250 for cropping the ears of a dog, unless done by a duly registered veterinarian; outlining the appointment and duties of a board of public works in Waterbury authorizing any county through its legislators, to establish an old age pension law, payments not to exceed $1.50 a day to be paid after a person is 72 years and has been a resident of this country for at least 15 years; providing for the teaching of the flag code in the public schools.

A bill providing a nine hour day and a 49 1-2 hours week for women and minors employed in manufacturing and mercantile establishments was presented to the House also. Another bill authorizes the tax commissioner to order an investigation into the affairs of any city when it is indicated that any official is unfaithful in the performance of his duty. When a special audit is made by an outside firm a copy of the report must be sent to the state tax commissioner, according to the provisions of still another House bill.

A bill consolidating the town and borough of New Canaan was presented, as well as a resolution making John D. Fearake, judge of the New Canaan Town Court. Before adjournment at noon, Judge Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester, announced to the House that the Legislature would have no Friday session this week.

EIGHTH POULTRY SHOW OPENS AT THE ARMORY

With roosters crowing with might and main, wings of pigeons whirring as they flutter about their cages, and unheeding rabbits, munching cabbage leaves the eighth annual show of the Manchester Poultry Club got under way at the State Armory today. As you enter the door hens cackle.

On each side of the entrance, farm machinery and implements are exhibited. In the center of the floor are poultry displays. There are eleven long rows of coops, seven being taken up by fowls, two by rabbits and two by pigeons, arranged in the order named. Along the side walls, on the left hand side are feed exhibits; on the right, automobiles.

The show will continue until Friday night and will be open day and night. Admission price is twenty-five cents.

SKATING CONDITIONS AT THE CENTER "RINK"

The largest crowd of the season skated at Center Springs pond last evening. Frank Walleit estimated it at close to a thousand persons. The night was comparatively warm and the ice perfect. There will be skating tonight despite last night's snowfall. This was removed during the day and Walleit assures the skaters that the pond will be "okay" for this evening. Senior qualifying events for the town speed skating championships will be held tonight at 7:30.

ABOUT TOWN

Temple Chapter, O. E. S., will hold its regular business meeting in the Masonic Temple at eight o'clock tonight.

The Wapping Parent Teachers association will hold a bridge and whist party in the school hall at eight o'clock Friday night. The proceeds will go towards the Junior Achievement fund. The committee is Mrs. Donald Grant, Mrs. John Collins, and Mrs. Mae Holden.

A typographical error appearing in an account of the election of the officers and directors of the Home Bank and Trust Company in The Herald yesterday eliminated the name of the president of the concern. George W. Strant was re-elected as head of the company.

Mrs. Mabel Case Viot returned last evening to her home in Highland Park after a two months' absence during which, in company with relatives, she took a sea trip to the Pacific coast and Honolulu.

A nine pound son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forbes of 6 Bank street.

Merton H. Strickland, local representative of the Williams Oilomatic and Torridheat oil burning apparatus, gave a practical lecture-demonstration this morning and afternoon at his Main street store, to three groups of boys and girls from the freshman science class at the Manchester High school. Miss Oberempt, teacher. The classes are just at present making a study of the science and principles of oil as a heating and cooking fuel, and Mr. Strickland's talk on the subject and demonstrations of the apparatus in actual operation were interesting and instructive to the young students.

The Town Players will meet tonight at 7:30 at the School St. Rec to make plans for their next production.

MURDER MYSTERY.

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 23.—A murder mystery of the early part of the Nineteenth Century was uncovered here today with the finding of three skeletons by a man who was digging a sewer. The skeletons which were buried in a trench, the feet of one against the heads of the others, were not Indian burials, according to attaches of the sheriff's office.

CREDIT-COLLECTION BUREAU IS FORMED

Starts Off With $100,000 in Slow Accounts; $30,000 from Physicians Alone.

A local organization which will be known as the Manchester Credit Bureau is now in formation and will be in operation, it is expected, by February 1. Already the new agency has been given bills to the amount of $100,018 to collect. Of this amount, it is stated, $30,000 worth of bills have come from physicians alone.

While furniture houses, garages and accessory dealers have taken second place in the list, as far as amounts are concerned, there are many other accounts from nearly every line of business that have helped to pile up the total already listed. And only a small portion of the town has been covered.

The plan has the backing of the Merchant's Division of the Chamber of Commerce. The bureau will furnish credit information to its clients as well as acting as a collecting agency.

James J. Foley, 27 Emerson street, is ill with pneumonia at his home. He is under the care of two nurses and his condition is serious.

MILLENIUM AT HAND

Waynesburg, Pa., Jan. 23.—Residents of this collegiate town are convinced today that the millennium is at hand. The girls of Waynesburg college have decided to make their annual prom strictly girl—that is there will be no male guests invited. Half the girls who will attend will appear in masculine clothes and act as escorts. The boys blame the boycott on their habit of bringing outside girls to college affairs.

VANDERBILT FEUD BROKEN IN COURT

Daughter of George Jay Could Meet Member of Rival Family in Reno.

Reno, Nevada, Jan. 23.—Some 75 years ago, while warring for control for railroads, a rift developed between the paternal heads of the Vanderbilt and Gould families that was broken here for the first time yesterday by members of each family.

Gloria Gould Bishop, daughter of George Jay Gould, was in court to receive her final divorce decree from Henry A. Bishop, Jr., of New York City. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., came into the court as a visitor and was introduced to Mrs. Bishop by Judge George A. Bartlett just before he granted Mrs. Bishop her divorce.

Vanderbilt and Mrs. Bishop had a brief but amiable talk before Judge Bartlett beckoned Mrs. Bishop to follow him into the chambers where the divorce was granted.

Judge's Comment
In commenting on the introduction, Judge Bartlett said: "I took it upon myself to end the feud just for the fun of the thing. There was no sense, as far as I could see, of the two families prolonging a quarrel that began years and years ago."

And thus a conversation lapse which started between the families years ago in New York came to an end in a Reno divorce court.

Mrs. Bishop was awarded her divorce decree on the grounds of cruelty. Her complaint recited that Bishop had subjected her to insulting language, and that on one occasion he grabbed her by the neck and shook her. The complaint said she separated a short time after the latter incident.

The Bishops were married in 1923.

Mrs. Bishop was awarded custody of their three and one-half year old daughter. No alimony was asked.

ANDOVER

Mrs. George Platt and Mrs. Raymond Goodale were visitors in Manchester Saturday.

Orrin Smith has been confined to his grandmother's home with the grip.

Mrs. Ellen Jones was at her home here for a short time Saturday. Mrs. Jones went to Stamford Sunday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Coppell. Mrs. Coppell is soon to go to the hospital for observation and treatment.

Mrs. John Gasper is confined to her home with bronchial pneumonia. Saturday she was reported as being slightly better.

Miss Mildred Hamilton, an employee of the Phoenix Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, is ill at her home with the mumps.

The Christian Endeavor Society Sunday evening was led by Charles Phelps, as the Young People of the Center church, in Hartford, were unable to attend the meeting as they had previously intended to do.

Andover Grange, No. 76, held its regular semi-monthly meeting in the town hall, Monday evening. A supper was served to the Grangers at seven o'clock, and the business meeting began at eight o'clock. Harold Hanson had charge of the annual installation of officers.

A. E. Frink spent Sunday in Manchester. Mrs. Frink, who has been ill at the home of her daughter, was taken to the Memorial hospital Sunday afternoon for observation and X-rays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Frink and son, of Hartford, and Mr. John T. Murphy, of Bristol, were visitors in town Sunday afternoon.

AVOID TOO MUCH DOSING FOR FLU SAY PHYSICIANS

Its Toxins Upset Stomach and Constant Dosing Further Disturbs Digestion.

According to health authorities, a peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system, especially in the case of children. Too much "dosing" still further disturbs the digestion, and should be avoided except on advice of a physician.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable because it is applied externally and can be used freely with no risk of upsetting the digestion. Nor can it interfere with any other treatment your doctor may prescribe.

Rubbed on the throat and chest, Vicks acts two ways at once: (1) through the skin like a poultice, and (2) by means of its medicated vapors, released by body-heat and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

In the present epidemic, as in 1918, Vicks is proving its usefulness in millions of homes. In spite of vastly increased capacity, it is again necessary to run the laboratories all night long, as the public now demands over 375,000 jars every 24 hours.

JAIL FOR CRUELTY TO CHILDREN ASKED

Miss Cheney Introduces a Bill With Teeth in It; Legislative Measures.

Among bills introduced into the House of Representatives at Hartford yesterday was one, offered by Rep. Johnson of Manchester, providing for extension until June 1, 1929, of the time for qualifying of justices of the peace elected at the last state election. The bill is of general rather than special application and is a routine matter.

Another bill offered by Mr. Johnson would require that notes of a municipality be considered along with its bonds in determining the relationship of funded debt to the bonding limit of the municipality.

A bill of general interest is one providing forfeiture of office and other penalties for registering officials who conceal applications for marriage.

Rep. Marjory Cheney of Manchester introduced a bill providing a fine of $500 or a year in jail for cruelty to children.

Town clerks who delay filing notices of corporation reports filed with them would be fined $10 for each day of the delinquency under another bill introduced into the House. A House bill authorizes an increase to $1,000,000 the capital of the Manchester Electric Company.

Proposed Pensions.
A bill was sent to the Military Affairs committee which provides for the paying of a state pension of $15 a month to disabled war veterans. Another general interest bill provides for the exemption of widows and married women from paying the personal tax.

A House bill renews the attempt to regulate amateur boxing. It provides that amateur boxing and wrestling matches shall be subject to the control of the State Athletic Commission and prohibits persons under sixteen from engaging in amateur bouts and those under eighteen from engaging in professional exhibitions.

Among the judgeship resolutions introduced was one re-appointing Judge Raymond A. Johnson as judge and Thomas Ferguson as deputy judge of the Manchester town court.

In the Senate several automobile measures were introduced. One would limit the damages in all actions for injuries resulting in death to $25,000. Another provides that any person operating a motor vehicle belonging to another shall be presumed to be the only authorized owner of the vehicle.

Highway Footpaths.
Another, which will be widely discussed, provides that a strip of highway three feet in width shall be constructed by the State Highway Department to be used by pedestrians on any trunk line, state aid or other road over which the Highway Commissioner has jurisdiction.

There is re-introduced the bill requiring owners of automobiles to furnish proof of financial responsibility to satisfy claims of at least $5,000 for injury or death to one person or $10,000 for more than one person and $1,000 property damage.

Another motor bill introduced provides for the repeal of the act which requires the proving of negligence on the part of the driver of an automobile before actions for damages can be brought by a non-paying passenger.

Movies Can Grow Spanish Types Right Here at Home

Dorothy Burgess... when she puts on the henna she's a Spaniard.

BY GENE COHN
New York, Jan. 22.—Why go to Spain for a Spaniard? We have better Spaniards right here at home.
Which is to tell the story of Dorothy Burgess who—unless this critic errs—will soon be heard from far and wide.
She got her chance in "In Old Arizona," the Fox all-talkie feature—and the best talkie to date, it seemed to me—quite by accident. It had been the intention to make a silent film story. But along came the "alkie" rage and turned everything upside down. Several Mexican and Spanish stars, including Raquel Torres, were considered, but the director insisted on a player who did not speak with an accent. So Dorothy put on her henna complexion and went before the camera.

Her performance, already, has attracted widespread critical attention. She's an actress to watch.

RICH MAN'S DAUGHTER MARRIES POOR ARTIST

London Courtship Lasted But Three Weeks—Her Parents Surprised at News.

London, Jan. 23.—Following a whirlwind courtship of three months, Miss Meraud Guinness, 24-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Guinness, of New York and London, was married today to Alvaro Guevara, a 35-year-old Chilean artist.
The ceremony was performed at the Henrietta street registry office. Only friends of the couple attended. Miss Guinness and Senor Guevara kept their engagement secret until it was revealed by the application for a marriage license.
Miss Guinness is an artist of marked ability.
She stated she had informed her parents of her coming marriage by mail.
The Guinness fortune is reputed to be in the multi-millionaire class. The prospective bride's mother is one of London's most prominent hostesses.
Senor Guevara is not prominent as an artist here. Miss Guinness is an amateur artist. The common bond of art is believed to have drawn the two together.

ACID STOMACH RUINS APPETITE

Thin, pale people—the despondent sort who never have an appetite, and complain of headaches, indigestion, dizziness, biliousness, usually have too much acid in their stomach. And unless they displace it, any food they eat turns into sour bile and foul gases, which poison their system.
Pape's Diapensin dissolves that poisonous acid, sweetens the stomach and digests your meals. Many thousands of people have brought back the appetite of their youth and gained weight simply by chewing one of the pleasant tablets of Pape's Diapensin after meals.
It does what it promises. That's the reason 5 million packages are used a year—ask your nearest druggist for it.

CHORAL CLUB 5TH SEASON TO START

Monday's Concert "on Own" Affair That Admirers Have Long Awaited.

Standing on the merits of its own gifts and training and its own capacity to provide a concert of interest and charm, the Manchester Choral Club, in its first program of the season at High school hall next Monday evening, will be meeting a desire long expressed by admirers of the organization. Hundreds of music lovers here have been anxious to have the Choral club give one full concert "on its own," without addition to the program of outstanding stars of the musical world whose prestige as soloists could hardly help "stealing the show" from the local organization no matter how excellent its work.

Monday's program, to be sure, is to have brilliant flip from the addition of several two-piano numbers by Mrs. Burton Yaw and Mosche Paronov, Hartford artists of extraordinary merit, but the vocal offerings are to be given entirely by the Choral Club. And that the Men's Choral Club of Manchester is capable of giving an absorbingly interesting program everybody knows who has heard its past performances.

Opens Fifth Season
The club gave its first concert on October 27, 1924. At that time there was no formal organization, and the program was sung more or less as a "fir-out." Fred Patton was engaged as soloist of the occasion, and the whole town went, partly to hear the new club and partly to pay tribute to Mr. Patton, a former Manchester boy, become famous as a baritone.
The affair was a huge success.

both artistically and financially. The club elected officers and started regular rehearsals, assuring itself of financial support by a large list of "associate" or subscribing members. Two more concerts were given that season, one in January and one in May.

The musical success of the club was pronounced, and each year since then two concerts have been presented. The programs have been varied, the compositions chosen from the best male-voice repertoire. Each evening has put before the music lovers of Manchester from twelve to fourteen numbers, culled from the works of the old classic masters of the Italian and German school of Sullivan and Fletcher to English composers, liberally interspersed with examples of the best in American music.
The club owns its own library, and has from time to time taken great pleasure in reviewing some of the more popular numbers. The program for next Monday night ranges from Wagner's "Battle Hymn" from "Rienzi" and the English school of Sullivan and Fletcher to the realm of the American Negro spiritual. Two American women composers are represented, Harriet Ware and Florence Turner-Maley.

The club is under the musical direction of Archibald Sessions, and is accompanied by Mrs. Burton Yaw. Mrs. Yaw with Mr. Paronov will contribute some stunning works for two pianos and some two-piano accompaniments for club numbers.
Following is list of club members who will participate in the January concert:
First Tenor—Edward Agnew, Frank Conkey, George Duncan, John Munsie, Sydney W. Strickland, Edward F. Taylor, Paul J. Volquardsen, Watson Woodford.
First Bass—Fayette B. Clarke, Robert J. Gordon, Charles W. Holman, Thomas McGill, Jr., Robert E. Purinton, Arthur Schmalz, Edward E. Segar, Harry R. Trotter, Robert Von Deck.

Second Tenor—Harry Armstrong, Ralph Brown, Ernest D. Clough, Albert L. Crowell, Ellery J. Donahue, Maurice A. Ferris, John A. Hood, Rev. James S. Neill, James W. Stevenson, William J. Taylor.
Second Bass—Fred J. Bendall, Samuel Cole, Thomas Gordon, J.

Howard Keith, Herman E. Montle, Charles A. Robbins, Fred W. Sadler, C. Elmore Watkins.
KING'S CONDITION.
London, Jan. 23.—King George's progress is maintained, it was officially stated at Buckingham palace at noon today.

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There is a way of overcoming the tendency of constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.
The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.
What happens when you cascade the bowels? They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no larger, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end. So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy Cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose. And EVERY drug store has them.

"CLEANING UP" CITIES

In one night in Chicago the police rounded up 3,394 gangsters, racketeers, gunmen, stick-ups and plain suspects, looked them over carefully and paraded them on two stages and in a courtroom at police headquarters for the inspection of 500 persons recently robbed. They found among the harvest several "wanted" persons and asserted afterward that 36 per cent of the lot proved to be crooks with criminal records. The Police Commissioner declares that the job won't be finished "till we put every criminal in Chicago behind the bars or have chased them out of the city for good."

This and a somewhat similar war cry from Commissioner Whalen in New York the other day may provide food for thought—outside Chicago, New York and similar cities.

If Commissioner Russell in Chicago and Commissioner Whalen in New York would tell the rest of the country where they propose to drive those crooks, besides "out," possibly it might set at rest some measure of apprehension. If, for example, Russell proposed to drive them into Lake Michigan and Whalen to drive them into the East or North river, there would be no occasion for the rest of the country to call up its reserves, so to speak. But there is no such promise and no likelihood of any such event. If Chicago and New York drive out their crooks they are, quite without question, going to dump them on other communities where they are likely to prove a more disturbing element than they ever could be in either New York or Chicago, both fairly well habituated to the presence of a considerable percentage of criminal population and, one might almost say, more or less adjusted to the experience of being held up, shot and robbed.

Possibly the moral tone of Chicago and New York would be improved by the absence of their criminals. But is it a quibble to ask whether there is any genuine righteousness in so running a town for twenty years that there is bred within it a murderous, thieving, violent element, running far into the thousands in numbers, and then suddenly dumping that home-raised crop onto communities that have had no share whatever in creating it?

Frankly we haven't the least admiration for this grim determination on the part of these police commissioners to spread far and near the germs of criminalism incubated by their halliwicks over long periods of time. The citizen who cleans up his premises by throwing his garbage and rubbish over the fence into his neighbor's yard can be haled into court for the proceeding. It would not be surprising if the time should come when the courts would hold it actionable for one community to eject upon some other community its criminals as well as its paupers.

"AMATEUR" BOXING
 An attempt is to be made at this session of the Legislature to pass a bill placing amateur boxing exhibitions under control of the State Athletic Commission. This bill failed of passage in the General Assembly two years ago, probably because few legislators understood the necessity of it and because a little handful of so-called sports promoters with an axe to grind succeeded in arresting the interest of two or three influential members in their behalf.
 "Amateur" boxing, as conducted in Connecticut and Massachusetts, is merely a device, as every boxing fan in this territory knows, for the giving of camouflaged professional boxing shows without submitting to the supervision and safeguards imposed on confessedly professional exhibitions.

There are perhaps half a hundred fighters who box all around the circuit, appearing in shows at New Haven, Bridgeport, Waterbury, Hartford, Meriden, Willimantic, Holyoke and Springfield, or at most of these towns, with a regularity accountable for in no other way than that they are making their living in the ring. Some of them change their names with the greatest freedom. Some of them also are unfit physically.

There are, of course, others who are bona fide amateurs insofar that they hold jobs and fight only occasionally. But the atmosphere of this "amateur" boxing is substantially that of the old-time professional "smokers" where third-rate fighters mauled each other without let or hindrance before professional boxing was put under state control.

This newspaper is not prepared to denounce all boxing as degrading. It admits the possibility of inherent merit in the sport. It would not, if it could, take measures to prevent its being carried on, either professionally or non-professionally. But it does agree with the contention that boxing, or prize-fighting, must be regulated if we are to escape a swarm of evils not actually essential to the game but inseparable from it if the law but turns its face the other way.

Professional boxing, so long as it admits its professional quality, is well and properly conducted in this state under the law and under the present boxing commissioner. But professional boxing masquerading as amateur sport is getting away with murder, figuratively and in some instances very nearly literally. The "amateurs" should be brought under the operation of the supervisory law.

NICARAGUA AGAIN

We have been assured a thousand times over that there is no such thing as a state of war in existence between the United States and any part of the people of Nicaragua. Wherefore those measures of secrecy which traditionally must surround military movements against an enemy have nothing to do with the situation down there. When United States Marines are killed in the performance of police duty in the Nicaraguan jungles a reasonably explicit explanation to the people would seem to be due from the government. None is made. In December and again within the last few days a Marine has been killed. Other than that the act was committed by "outlaws" no information is vouchsafed.

What are United States Marines doing in Nicaragua now, anyhow? They were kept down there for six months after pacification was supposed to have been complete, for the purpose of guaranteeing the validity of the national election. The election has come and gone, long ago, and the new government is functioning.

What are American Marines doing in the jungles of northern Nicaragua? Why are their lives being wasted there? Why are they being retained in a demoralizing duty for which there is not the slightest obvious justification? Are we ever in the world going to keep our promises of taking our fingers out of Central American politics?

EVERYBODY'S

We haven't the remotest idea who is slated to give Helen Wills in marriage on the occasion of that young woman's wedding, but we respectfully submit that the President of the United States is about the only person carrying a sufficient mandate to warrant his acting for all the parties in interest—which means everybody in America. Helen belongs to the nation.

"CAN'T"

"Let us hasten to get the government out of the shipping business," has been so nearly unanimous a cry that nobody could oppose it without being swamped under a storm of denunciation as a socialist. "Never in the world can the government run ships at anything but a loss," has come to be one of the articles in the hundred-percenter's confession of faith.
 We have often and often wondered why this should be so—whether the government couldn't, under any conceivable circumstances, operate ships successfully; provided, of course, that there was anybody who wanted government operation to succeed. And we have been told that one reason is because the government cannot or will not pay the salaries that can be commanded by men competent to manage ships and make a profit

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(210) Connecticut's Part in the World of Music

The history of music in Connecticut dates back to the early settlers who sang hymns brought over from England. During the Revolution, the Puritans, suspicious of music as being an evil influence, destroyed organs, burned music books, dissolved church choirs and chased musicians from the organ gallery, allowing only simple, inelaborate hymns to be sung. Due to the musical influence produced by German compositions, however, the Puritans gradually progressed from the rude and dolorous tunes to a superior knowledge of music. The climb was a long one and entailed many bitter debates and political strife. Singing schools were established in 1720 and with them came choirs and the publishing of more elaborate works.

Connecticut early felt the impulse of the European operas and soon music was cultivated in the public schools and pianos multiplied in the homes. A most eminent composer of the modern period was Dudley Buck, born in Hartford in 1839, studied at Trinity College, and later in Europe. After which he returned to Hartford where he became a church organist and teacher of music. His sacred compositions hold a high place in the music world today.

An important movement of recent years was the Litchfield County Choral Union, with 425 members, which has given 75 instrumental concerts each year for a number of years in Norfolk. These concert festivals brought about a marked improvement in church music throughout the country. The Yale School of Music has also had a wide and powerful influence. Today music is an important part of public school curriculum.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 23.—The show boat people of the Mississippi seem, somehow, strangely framed in the hectic Broadway picture. There is an allure tuned to the shriek of a callope over still waters; of gay lights that seem gay because they flare over particularly dark spots; of unreality brought into lonesome places.

Pitched into Broadway, as one show boat company now is, they seem out of place upon a stage that looks down upon vast rows of seats. A self-consciousness seems to possess some of them. It is the first time a show boat troupe has come to the "big street." It is the first time, perhaps, that many of the actors have looked out upon an audience dressed in costly gowns and high hats.

To these audiences there is something riotously funny in lines that go something like this—"Oh, I am so unworthy. Your words torture my soul. . . . If you are men with hearts, stop, stop, for the love of God."
 Broadway rocks merrily. It is a novelty. A new toy. And that's all.

Broadway laughs loud and long again at a notice upon the play bill which reads . . . "There is not a single bluish or offending remark in our shows. Everything is clean, moral and refined."
 To the folk who come down from the hills, with the "wickedness" of the theatre grained in their very blood, this is an all important admission. To Broadway, quite naturally, it's quaint and funny.

Now take, for instance, Ma Webster—Mrs. Flora Webster, if you prefer—who sits staidly, if uncomfortable, in a Broadway playhouse. You'd not be fooled for a moment by her bobbed hair. On a soft river night, misty and moon dipped, Ma Webster, I am sure, would seem very much like Ma Webster perched in a showboat ticket window.

But sitting in a Broadway theatre, rehearsing a river boat show, she's a little lost and confused and even uncomfortable.

And there is, if you please, also "Captain" Thom or Norman Thom—and along the river stops they call him, "the John Drew of the river." He's been trouping thus for 25 years—or did he say 30. At any rate, his hair is long, after the manner of the old-time trouper—those you see in the comic paper cartoons.

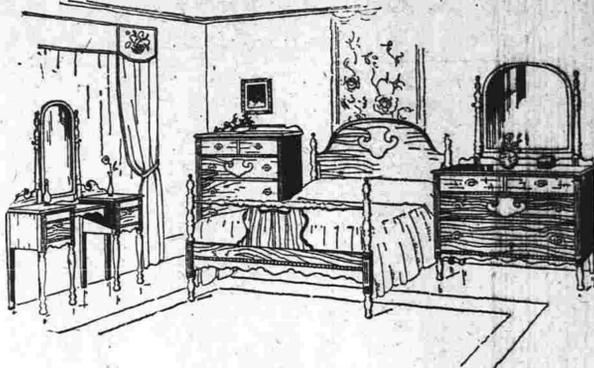

"He gets 15,000 mash notes a year from the girls of the river town," they'll tell you with a sly wink. And with a rapturous sly wink you'll walk out into Broadway—pondering on the strange unrealities of that hectic highway.

THE PROTECTIVE CITRUS FRUITS.

Only a few years ago oranges and grapefruit were considered expensive delicacies to be used on special holidays, but now oranges, orange juice, and grapefruit are served at every good restaurant, club and cafeteria.

It has been estimated that at least seventy-five out of every hundred people use some of these either for breakfast or at some time during the day. The public is becoming convinced that these are helpful fruits. Many people have arrived at this opinion because of their own experience and others have been convinced because of the wide publicity that has recently been given to the scientific investigations about the value of citrus fruits.

days exclusively on a citrus diet and after the fruit fast it is a wise thing for one with a tendency to liver derangements, to take at least one meal a day of oranges or grapefruit until the trouble has been entirely remedied.

A citrus fruit fast can also be used to advantage in many other diseases since it produces a rapid increase in the blood's alkalinity perhaps more speedily than any other healthful method. But only will this exclusive diet result in increasing the alkalinity of the blood, but it will give your intestines and alimentary canal a rest and you will eliminate vast quantities of toxins from your body and will in this way assist in the cure of many disorders.

 Answer: It is possible to contract certain kinds of infections from the discharge from a cancerous lesion but there is no possibility of contracting cancer in this way.

Iodine, Food or Medicine?
 Question: S. J. asks: "Would the constant use of iodine salt be harmful to anyone? It is about the same price as the ordinary salt and some people use it in the seasoning of food as well as on the table. Is it right for people without symptoms of goitre to use this iodized salt in daily food?"
 Answer: It is not advisable to use iodine either in salt or any other preparation except under the advice of a physician.

Question: Reader asks: "Have you ever published an article on gland transplanting? If so, under what date? If not, will you give an idea of the results? Are the looks rejuvenated?"
 Answer: I have written many articles on the subject. When gland transplantation is successful the patient always experiences a short period of rejuvenation, but it is far better for the patient to depend upon developing his own glands through the rejuvenating effect of healthful living.

HEBRON

A real January thaw set in the last of the week. Saturday was as warm as a warm spring day, and every vestige of snow had disappeared early in the morning. The thermometer was well up towards sixty above zero.

The place known as the Morita Friedman farm, owned by Mrs. Rose Morgenbesser of New York City, and located about half a mile south of Hebron center has been sold to Max Cohen of New York. The farm is of about sixty acres, with dwelling house and farm buildings. It was owned by Henry Spafard, now of Glastonbury, at one time.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Raphael and Jacob Ginsberg, all of New York City have quit claimed to Leon Broder of Colchester fifteen acres of land on the old Colchester road. A meeting of the local organization of the Red Cross will be held at the Congregational chapel at Hebron Green on Wednesday, Jan. 23, to elect officers for the coming year. Mrs. Edwin F. Smith has held office of president since the organization of the society here during war times.

The Rev. T. D. Martin preached the sermon for the service at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Winthrop Sunday morning, assisting the Rev. Mr. Williams, rector. Several of Mr. Martin's Hebron parishioners were also present at the service, the morning service at Hebron having been omitted on account of trouble with the heating arrangements.

Mrs. Lucius W. Robbison of Columbia spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lord.

Mrs. Mary E. Cummings was leader at the Christian Endeavor service at the center Sunday evening, with the topic, "Seeing the Good in Men Everywhere." The Rev. T. D. Martin sang a solo, and Jared Tennant, Jr., played the violin.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Hewett of New London were week end visitors at their former home here. Mr. Hewitt attending the special meeting of the American Legion of which he is a member.

County Agent E. A. Zimmerman was present at the meeting of the American Legion held on Sunday, and talked on the membership campaign. Officers were elected for the year as follows: Winthrop Porter, commander; Ray Lyman, first vice commander; W. E. Griffing, second; Phillip Clark, adjutant; Allen W. H. Sterry, treasurer; Aubrey Winter, assistant treasurer; Phillip Clark, chaplain; Howard Thompson, sergeant at arms; Allen Sterry, historian; Phillip Clark, auditor. It was voted to appropriate $12 to send one member to the Junior 4-H Short Course at Storrs, next summer. County Agent Donald P. Gaylord to act as judge in the selection of candidate.

VITAPHONE SPECIAL

Is One of Two Features at State Today and Tomorrow.

A highly entertaining comedy-drama laid in the romantic southland and involving the adventures of a modern rider of the air is "The Little Wildcat." Warner Brothers' all-star Vitaphone production, which comes to the State Theatre today and tomorrow.

Audrey Ferris, Doris Dawson, James Murray, George Fawcett and Robert Edeson appear in the important roles. Miss Ferris and Miss Dawson are cast as sisters whose flirtatious inclinations give rise to many delightful situations. Murray appears as a young flier, who, with ambitions to establish an airport, bumps into the irascible Judge Holt, grandfather to the girls. This part is handled to absolute perfection by George Fawcett. Robert Edeson also comes in for a large share of the comedy by portraying the part of Judge Holt's lifetime friend.

"The Little Wildcat" sparkles with humor of the most spontaneous character. High spots of the production are made more realistic when the stars speak their lines through the magic voice of Vitaphone.

While its cast is particularly well chosen and talented, credit is also due Ray Enright, the director and Gene Wright, the author of the story. Louis Silvers and the Vitaphone Symphony orchestra are responsible for the charming musical interpretations.

Billie Dove, acclaimed by many of the leading critics to be the most beautiful actress on the screen, is seen to the best of her dramatic ability in "Adoration," her latest First National picture. This passionate love story is to be the associate film feature at the State today and tomorrow.

"Adoration" is a powerful drama of love, hate and intrigue with its colorful and thrilling background. Gorgeous scenes and magnificent settings are prominent throughout.

Miss Dove is supported by an excellent cast of screen favorites, including Antonio Moreno, Lucy Dorraine and Emile Chautard. Frank J. Lloyd directed.

A Chiffoleau Color Classic will complete the program.

Friday and Saturday the State will present "Four Sons," first of the Fox-Movietone productions.

Constipation Is Hard to Detect

Regular Elimination Alone
Is Not Enough

Forty or more different ailments, many dangerous and some serious enough to cause permanent ill health, may be brought on by chronic constipation.

You may suffer from constipation for years and not find it out until serious trouble has developed. Even if your bowel actions are regular, they may be entirely insufficient.

If your eyes have a yellow tinge, or your tongue is coated, if you have a nasty taste in your mouth, or if you suffer from liver trouble, biliousness, indigestion or sick-headache you'd better do something about it.

INVOKE FRENCH LAW
IN KIDNAPING CASE

Paris, Jan. 23.—The French law was invoked today by counsel for Frank Woodward, of Rochester, N. Y., in defence of Woodward's seizure of his two children, Frank, Jr., and Ruth.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodward are estranged. It is understood that the former has filed or is about to file a divorce action in New York state. Mr. Woodward and the two children were still missing today. A police search is being made for them.

The "kidnapping" took place yesterday morning just as the children were about to enter the MacJannet private school. A limousine with five men—one of them Woodward—was waiting outside. The children were seized and carried off despite the interference of Emory Foster, one of the teachers, who was injured in the struggle.

"We stand upon Article 373 of the French code under which 'the father alone exercises authority over his children during marriage.'" Leslie Nafziger, counsel for Woodward, told International News Service. Nafziger was one of the men with Woodward when the children were carried off.

Halftime score: Rec 17, Middletown 16.
Personal fouls: Middletown 14, Rec 9.
Referee: Johnny Manion, East Hartford.

The Rec Five had its closest call from defeat on its home floor this season last night when it finally succeeded in defeating the Middletown Red Wings 36 to 31. In the preliminary game, the Rec Girls were outclassed by the Insilcos of Holyoke, 26 to 19. Both Rec teams swung into action again Friday night when they met the Falcons in Holyoke.

Last night's triumph marked the eleventh win out of twelve games for the Rec Five. The game, while both exciting and interesting because of the closeness of the score, was poorly played, the ball being very loosely handled at times. It was also a rough game with plenty of fouling, intentional and otherwise. At times, it even got away from the referee.

Win Although Off
It was quite evident that the Rec was having an off night last night and if they can win the women's games, all the more credit to them. Manchester started off strong running up a good sized lead but Middletown spurted about the middle of the first half and knotted the count. From then on, it was anybody's ball game. Middletown forged into the lead in the second half and, although the lead changed hands a few times, the visitors were in the lead most of the time.

The largest lead, Middletown managed to get was four points and every time the girls went ahead the Rec managed to tie the score. Once Stavitsky was fouled in the act of making a field goal and given two free tries that put Manchester ahead three points. Luke of Middletown emulated George but went home one better getting both fouls and once more Middletown was leading. McCann's foul game tied the score.

Only three minutes remained to play and things looked rather dark to say the least for the locals. However, Ty Holland stepped into the picture at the right moment flipping in one of his noted side-court shots. This was closely followed by a field goal by McCann and a foul by Norris putting the game on ice. Jack Carlson was the star for Middletown. Five of his six baskets were thrown in over his head. Merv Taylor and Luke did the rest of the scoring for the visitors.

McCann, Holland Star
McCann led the scoring for Manchester with five buckets—this in addition to playing a whole of a floor game, holding Sturm scoreless. Holland made two and held his opponents scoreless. These two chaps contributed two spectacular shots in the first half which brought the house to its feet. The Rec's defense was not as effective as usual, but any team is bound to have an off day once in a while.

So far as the Rec Girls' defeat is concerned, that was simply due to meeting a superior team. The Insilcos washed a splendid brand of passwork—the best seen on the local floor this season. All but one of their players took part in the scoring with Grace Gustafson doing the most damage through five field goals.

Miriam Welles was outstanding in the Rec's defeat. She scored five from the field and three from the free throw line to lead both teams in scoring. In addition, she held her opponent, Catherine Baldwin, to one goal. Estelle Jackson and Peggy McLaughlin did well. Catherine Brys, captain and leading scorer on the Insilcos, only played a few minutes, due to a sprained wrist. The defeat was the second of the season for the Rec in nine games, the Falcons being the other team to perform the trick.

KAUFMAN-PORTELL INTEREST IS BIG

Old Feud Makes Battle Thursday Night Most Promising of Season.

Hartford, Jan. 23.—Pinky Kaufman, New York welter, formerly of this city and popular Jewish welter will meet his arch rival Frankie Portell of this city in the star bout of ten rounds in the feature of a six foot card of thirty-six rounds, at Foot Guard hall Thursday night.

The Kaufman and Portell rivalry dates back to the amateur days when Kaufman was a real good amateur boxer and Portell was an amateur referee and the trainer of amateur fighters with plenty of jealousy between each. This bout has been suggested to the both camps on numerous times with the Kaufman camp always willing but the Portell camp holding out for a weight agreement of 142 pounds which was finally agreed upon last Wednesday after Kaufman weighed 139 fighting the star bout at Reading, Pa.

Nick Christy the popular featherweight of Bristol will meet Rene Luke of New Haven who appeared here early in the season in an impressive showing against Frankie Marchese of New York whom he defeated in a decisive manner. Eddie Reed of this city who has been making rapid strides in the game of late will meet Kewpie Ledoux of Holyoke who on last summer in the star bout at the Velodrome defeated Ruby Bradley of Holyoke. This will be a special bout of four rounds.

Local Sport Clatter

George Stavitsky's string of 13 straight fouls with the Rec Five was broken last night when he missed two out of two.

Tommy Conran says he and Charlie Kebart stand willing and anxious to meet Howard Murphy and Jack Saidella in a home and home bowling match.

Speaking about good bowling, did you know that back in 1920, Tommy Conran broke the state record with an average of 124.4 for six consecutive games, rolling 110, 140, 116, 144 and 133; also that Conran once overcame an 87 pin lead in 16 boxes of a town title match with Murphy and went on to win by 131 pins; also that Charlie Kebart rolled the enviable score of 99 last Friday night without a mark or even the resemblance of one—the pin which didn't fall actually bowled before it gained its balance?

The Rec pool tournament is scheduled to get under way tonight but the pairings have not yet been announced.

The New Britain Pros will appear here a week from next Tuesday night (on February 5) to oppose the Rec Five. The St. Michaels of New Haven are booked to play here.

The High school basketballers meet Middletown High here Friday night and Saturday trek to Williamantic.

Did you know that the Rec Five has played quite an assortment of teams this season from a standpoint of nationality. They have met Helians, Jews, Negroes, Swedes and Lithuanians in the following teams respectively: St. Michaels of New Haven, Heller Brothers of Williamantic, Olson's Terrible Swedes of Joplin, Missouri, and the Knights of Lithuania of Hartford? Probably no other team in the state boasts such a unique record.

The De Molay basketball team will practice at the Rec at 8:30 tonight. All members are requested to report.

Christner Kayoed 37 In Forty-Four Bouts

Akron Tire Man Has Been In Game Only Four Years and Last One as Professional Boxer.

BY SID MERCER.

New York, Jan. 23.—Up to the time he was thirty years old Meyer Wilson Christner did not know the feel of a boxing glove. He is 34 now and has been fighting professionally only a little more than a year. The ex-rubber worker of Akron, Ohio, bridged the gap from his fourteenth professional fight to headline billing at Madison Square Garden by knocking out Knute Hansen in Cleveland last month. That led to his match with Jack Sharkey at the Garden next Friday night.

Betting Odds.
They are betting three to one that Christner will not win from Sharkey and even money that he will not go the limit. "They" also say he is no boxer, is wide open for the left hook that Sharkey specializes in and hadn't the experience to cope with the crafty veteran.

But Kayo Christner, with quiet confidence, says Sharkey can be hit, too. "He'll fall just as quickly as the others when I tab him," Kayo asserts. "You can't trust a jaw to outpoint a pile driver."

His First Fight.
It was not until two years ago that Christner took up boxing. One night he put on the gloves at a factory smoker and knocked out his man. After that he was in great demand at smokers and the idea of capitalizing his popularity began to appeal to him as he moved down one opponent after another.

In forty-four bouts, including fifteen as a professional, he flattened thirty-seven opponents. Spars Dempsey.
Early in the fall of 1927 Christner was only a raw beginner and had not thought of turning professional. He wanted to see the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, so he journeyed to Lincoln Field and offered his services to Dempsey as a sparring partner. He lasted only a few days, as Dempsey considered him too crude. Leo Flynn, who was in charge of the Lincoln Field camp, remembers Christner well.

"Yes, indeed, I do," chirps Flynn. "He socked our Jacko on the line one day and Dempsey had to grab to keep his feet." Christner received an education at St. Mary's Industrial school near Baltimore—the same institution that gave Babe Ruth to baseball. As a small boy at St. Mary's he remembers Al Joison as the school's best singer. Later he "slept two beds away" from Babe Ruth in a dormitory. He used to catch Ruth when the Babe pitched for the school team.

BROTHERS REACH BRITISH FINALS

Cardiff, Wales, Jan. 23.—Brother will be pitted against brother for the flyweight championship of Wales should the British Boxing Board of Control decide that Eddie John, of Rhondda, shall meet his brother Phineas, in the arena.

The brothers won the elimination competitions and have been automatically matched for the championship. Their father, however, refused to allow the fight to take place. If the British Boxing Board of Control decides that the youths should battle it out, the father may relent. Never in British history have brothers met in a championship fight.

ICE CARNIVAL PROGRAM BEST EVER OFFERED LOCAL PEOPLE

Six Out-of-Town Skaters on Program; Baptie and Lamb Head Group; Wide Reputation.

Arrangements have been completed for the mammoth ice carnival to be held at the Center Springs Pond next Sunday afternoon. If the weather man behaves, indications are that the carnival this year will exceed all others in previous years by a wide margin. John Walleit, chairman of the publicity committee, said this morning that at least six noted skaters from out of town will be in the program in addition to the local championship speed events. Heading the list, of course, is the team of Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb of New York, who come here with a world-wide reputation. The Manchester Skating Club is going to considerable expense in booking this high grade attraction for Manchester and hopes that the crowd will appreciate their efforts by doing whatever they can to make ends meet. The program includes Harold Davenport and Miss Margaret Ganley of Springfield; Miss Marion Davenport, Springfield's little queen of the ice, who will skate with Frank Walleit, Manchester's noted fancy skater; Leo LeBell of Hartford, who can clear eight barrels, will also appear here.

The program will open with the speed events for the local championship at 1:30 prompt and then will follow the exhibitions. Both Mr. Norval and Miss Lamb are doubles. No opportunity has ever before been offered Manchester people to see an attraction of this class. It will be by far the best that ever took place here. The Norval-Baptie combination is booked almost every night in the week. Their "home" is at Iceland, New York's famous skating palace, and they appear between the halves of the hockey games at Madison Square Garden regularly. In fact, they are booked for an exhibition there Sunday night after their performance here.

They bought and bought heavily of our stock knowing the quality and freshness of the merchandise. Suits, Overcoats, Shirts, Leather Coats, Winter Underwear, Flannel Shirts and Gloves have been reduced to the limit for this event.

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

All sorts of things are happening to ASHTORETH ASHE. First she gets herself engaged to a multi-millionaire—the famous HOLLIS HART. Then an ex-sweetheart, MONTY ENGLISH, appears upon the scene.

Ashtoreth leaves Hollis in New York, and returns by train to Boston, following their arrival in America from a cruise to the West Indies. Hollis means to fly to Boston.

When Ashtoreth reaches home, she learns that Monty is also flying that night to Boston, determined, he writes, to see her on an important matter. . . . Ashtoreth and her mother, with SADIE MORTON, are listening to the radio when the broadcaster of the BOSTON NEWS announces that a plane, in flight from New York to Boston, has been lost. Mrs. Ashe telephones the paper for further information, and learns something else from the city editor.

The News has received information about Hollis Hart and Ashtoreth. There has been a scandalous story already printed in afternoon papers in New York. The Boston papers will have it next morning.

Mrs. Ashe, heartbroken and aghast, appeals to her daughter. "It isn't true, what he says? Say it isn't true, Ashtoreth!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Ashtoreth faced them like an outraged goddess. Tall and slim, and white as marble. "It's a lie, of course," she said. "Was Holly there?" demanded Sadie shrewdly.

"Yes, he was there," Ashtoreth turned on her defiantly. "But you know perfectly well, Sadie, that everything was all right."

"I know your dam' sight smarter than I am—that's what I know. And not a dam bit better. Just smarter, that's all." "It's a lie," repeated Ashtoreth. "Not a bit of truth?"

Ashtoreth shrugged. "Oh, it's half the truth, all right," she admitted. "Half the truth! I bet it is!"

"Excuse me, when I wanted a little cash? Gee, no wonder!" "None of that!" she ordered. "None of your cheap talk, Sadie Morton!"

But Sadie would not be silenced. "Ask her about the tropical island love nest!" she taunted. "Ask your lily white daughter that, Mrs. Ashe."

"See here!" Ashtoreth turned on them proudly. "Hollis and I are engaged. We're going to be married. . . . Sudden! she crumpled, and her chin dropped in a frightened sort of way. "He's flying over from New York," she said. "That's why I was so worried. Mums. He—he—may be dead."

"Maybe!" Sadie was still and unfeeling. And her voice pierced like a cruel shaft. "That would be a good break, wouldn't it, Ash? Dead men tell no tales. They don't even deny engagements. Why don't you say he married you, Ash? You'd better wait, though—he might be alive, you know. Maybe it was only Monty that got killed. The poor sucker!"

Maizie clucked her hand roughly over the girl's painted mouth. "No more of that from you, young lady! You're a guest in my house, and I don't want to have to put you out."

Sadie subsided, with a final shot. . . . "Where's your ring, Ash? I never knew a millionaire that didn't give a girl a diamond!"

Maizie was quieter now. "Mr. Burton is going to call back in 10 minutes," she said. "I told him we'd have a statement for him. Is it true, Ashtoreth, that Mr. Hart has asked you to marry him?"

Ashtoreth inclined her head. "Of course it is, Mother. But we weren't going to say anything about it."

"I bet you weren't!" interrupted Sadie. "I wanted to tell you first," continued Ashtoreth. "Hollis said there'd be an awful lot of publicity, and we would both hate that. We don't want to make any announcement at all."

"Do you love him, Ashtoreth?" Maizie was half a head shorter than her daughter. But she put her head back and searched her child's eyes. And she put her plump hands on Ashtoreth's slim shoulders and held them firmly. Comfortingly.

"You love him better than Monty? You didn't promise him because he was rich? It's him you love, Ashtoreth—not his money?" "Of course I love him!" Ashtoreth spoke sharply. "But, Mums, I don't want to announce our engagement without his knowledge. Maybe he's at the club now. I was to telephone him there. I asked him not to call me. I'll try to get him now."

Maizie shook her head. "Mr. Burton said he wasn't in Boston," she said. "They'd tried the boat in New York and left the Ritz. He checked out a few hours later. Then he dropped from sight. His valet hasn't heard from him, or his chauffeur. They couldn't get any information from his office."

Ashtoreth moaned. "Then he took the missing plane," she said quietly. "And Monty, I think, is with him."

Sadie laughed harshly. "It ain't every girl has a couple of lovers that nose dive together," she observed. "Just like the movies, Mrs. Ashe!"

Ashtoreth turned her back on the girl and spoke to her mother. "I'll tell you all the details later, Mums. She promised. . . . But I should think it would be enough for the papers if you said I met Mr. Hart, quite by accident, on a trip to the West Indies. That I visited his plantation at Dominica and returned today to Boston."

"What about the engagement?" interrupted Maizie. "Oh, dear—I don't know what to say. What if it society people say when the newspapers anticipate announcements? I know!—tell him you're no statement to make. That you refuse to be interviewed."

"And I'll tell him—Maizie warmed to the subject—"That if he prints one word that isn't true we'll sue for defamation of character."

"Hear! Hear!" applauded Sadie. "I've a darn good mind to make a statement myself. . . . Tell him, Mrs. Ashe, that Miss Morton, a friend of your daughter's, is filling suit against Mr. Hart. . . . I'll give him a good story!"

"Sadie!" Ashtoreth's tone was threatening. "If you caused a thing like that to be published, Mr. Hart could send you to jail for the rest of your life!"

"He could not!" "Oh, yes he could," insisted Ashtoreth. "You haven't any case against him, and you know it. You'll never be able to get a lawyer to bring suit, and Mr. Hart could have you arrested for threatening."

"There's the telephone!" . . . Maizie had the receiver off before it stopped ringing. . . . "Hello. Yes, Mr. Burton. My daughter and I have been talking things over. Mr. Burton, and we have decided to make no statement. No—we've absolutely nothing to say. Miss Ashe refuses to be interviewed. . . . What? . . . Well, that's different. Wait a minute. They're all right, you say? No body hurt? Oh, the pilot—that's terrible. What was the other passenger, Mr. Burton? A Mr. English?"

Maizie's color was returning. She glanced over her shoulder at Ashtoreth. And she kept nodding into the telephone, smiling. Her voice changed and became soft and cozy again.

"Well, that's all right, Mr. Burton. No—no—I understand. It is your duty, of course. Oh, I know all about the things newspaper men have to do. Wasn't my Joe on the paper for 15 years? Well, of course anything Mr. Hart says is all right. No, she just took a little trip. For her health, Mr. Burton. Oh, no—it's very sudden. Love at first sight?—well, I suppose you might."

"But listen, Mr. Burton—just as a favor to Joe's wife and little girl—don't say anything about a love nest, will you, Mr. Burton? It sounds so cheap, don't it? Oh, awful. Pictures? I don't know as we have any. Oh, not tonight—she's too tired. Well, maybe. No—little girl is right here. But that's all right. No harm done. Yes—yes, all right, Mr. Burton."

Maizie slipped the receiver on its hook. Her face was glowing. "It's all right, honey. Mr. Hart's all right. And Monty. They took it the same plane. Mr. Burton says they're flying somewhere over Connecticut, when the motor died. The ship went into a nose dive, he says, and crashed down through the trees. They were over a woods. I guess the poor pilot got hurt. But the passengers only got shaken up."

Mr. Burton says they hiked through the woods out on to a road, and stopped an automobile, that went back and got the pilot. They sent him to a hospital. And the reporters down there talked with Mr. Hart and Monty. Of course Mr. Burton don't know about other passengers. . . . Mr. English. They just got a flash on it. He says there'll be more news pretty soon."

"Oh, thank God!" Ashtoreth's lips moved in soundless prayer. . . . Sadie had buried her head on the arm of the divan, and was crying softly. "I'm a awful g-g-glad," she sobbed. "H-Honest, I am."

Maizie comforted her roughly. "Of course you are. Dry your eyes, and stop your nonsense. And tell Ashtoreth you didn't mean any of the nasty things you said."

"I didn't, Ash. I'm just a egg—that's all. But, honest, Ash, I didn't. You—you just sort of g-got my goat—that's all."

Sadie dried her eyes on the starched cuff of her pretty blouse, and wiped her little red nose on her sleeve.

Now Maizie was crying, with her arms about Ashtoreth. And Ashtoreth, over her mother's shoulders, was blinking through a haze of tears.

"Here, pipe down, you two!" Sadie was in command of the field again. "Cut it out. What do you think this is—a howling fest? Oh, my gosh, there's that phone again!"

Ashtoreth answered, choking back a sob. "Yes—this is Kenmore 05103. Connecticut calling?"

She clasped her hand joyously over the mouthpiece. "Connecticut!" she told them gladly. . . . "Hello. Oh, hello, Sweetness. How are you? Oh, my goodness, yes—we know all about it. You weren't hurt? Not a bit? He's with you now—oh, that's wonderful. Let me speak to him, Hollis. No—not now, dear. Before you shut off, I mean. Oh, I'm so glad to hear your voice. I've been frightened to death."

"No, we heard it over the radio—that the plane was missing, I mean. Oh, about the accident—no, we got that over the phone. One of the papers called us. You're talking with a reporter? Oh, isn't it wonderful! What did you tell him, Holly? You did! Really and truly! That's wonderful, Holly. Oh, the papers here have it, too."

"No, I don't think they'll use it. I don't know. They might of course. You never can tell. . . . Listen, Holly—does Monty . . . Wasn't it just the strangest thing—that you should meet him, I mean. . . . My love! When did you discover who he was? . . . Well, let me speak to him then. . . . Tonight? Oh, that's wonderful! You'll come right here? . . . Oh, Holly, I'm so excited, yes, dear. Of course I do. . . ."

"Oh, hello, Monty. Hello. This is Ashtoreth. No—ASHTORETH. Oh, excuse me—I'll call her. . . ."

Ashtoreth turned from the phone. Monty wants to speak to you, Mother."

Sadie was powdering her nose, and trying desperately to appear uninterested. "Oh, Sadie!" Ashtoreth had forgotten her anger, and all her grievances. "Holly's coming here tonight."

Maizie turned from the telephone. "He's gone," she said. "Monty got lost in the woods. . . . Sadie was slipping into her coat. "I just happened to think," she exclaimed. "I got a date to spend the night with Eloise Brooks. Honest, Mrs. Ashe, I forgot all about it. You let them dishes go, and I'll be back in the morning."

She had slipped away almost before they knew. Then Ashtoreth turned to her mother, and her face was glowing, like a saint's at prayer.

"Holly's going to get the five-day law waived," she cried. "And we're going to be married tomorrow."

an even body temperature, to serve as protection from temperature lower than the normal body temperature. It should provide comfort and should not cause overheat perspiration. Many children are over-dressed, which is not desirable and may cause serious results.

"Wool need not be used, although it absorbs moisture readily and provides extra warmth with decreased weight and bulk. The average child living in the central states in the average home does not need undergarments that contain more than 30 per cent wool.

"Underwear should have full length arms and legs in most cases. Long stockings, which may be partly wool, may keep the legs comfortably warm with knee-length underwear. Cotton outer clothing is all that is necessary.

For the Little Fellow. "For outdoor wear, leggings that come to the ankles are desirable for the 2 or 3-year-old child. These may be knitted or fleeced. The latter may be obtained with zipper fastenings, which are most convenient.

The coat should be wool, knee-length, with full length sleeves and should be one that may be fastened about the neck. It is wise to provide a size that will allow a knitted sweater underneath on cold days. A cap fitting well down over the head is best in cold weather. The ears should be covered. A muffler may be used if the coat does not fit well about the neck.

Mittens are more desirable than gloves. Shoes for small children have comparatively thin soles and in cold weather overshoes should be worn to keep the feet warm."

Professor Einstein, after 10 years of laboratory work, offers a five-page manuscript supplementing his relativity theory. We know men who can think up five pages of wonderful theories in just a few minutes on their way home at a. m.

Anyone who waits for times to get normal before doing something will never do anything.

"In addition, the child should be clothed as an individual. Poorly nourished children as a rule need warmer winter clothing. Children that are active need less than those that are not as active.

"I don't know what I'm going to do with this," wailed his mother. "He grows more selfish every day."

"You aren't strict enough with him," answered his father. "You have to make him give things up."

"I do over and over again. I'm always grabbing toys out of his hands and making him give them to other children. Not only that, but he's always after Albert's things. There! Listen to that rumpus! I'll bet he's got Albert's airplane again. He knows he's not allowed to touch it."

A frantic cry of "Mom, oh, Mom!" from Albert verified this.

Uncle Ed Speculates. By this time Uncle Ed had his cigar lit and was tugging his hat on the table. But at the beginning of the little drama, he decided to wait and see what happened. He had two boys of his own at home.

Teddy came springing in with—no!—the airplane, Albert just two jumps behind.

Mother grabbed the toy out of Teddy's hands and gave him a slap. "Shame on you, you bad boy! Don't you know you're not allowed to touch this? You'll break it. If you do that again Daddy will spank you, won't you, Daddy? Here, Albert, put it away, up high, where Ted can't reach it."

When they were gone Uncle Ed had his say. "Look here, Emma, I'm not up on this training stuff much, but I have a pretty good plan for our kids at home and it's worked out far by well."

"It's just this: I try to remember the things that got me when I was a boy. I think all boys are alike more or less, and twenty years hasn't changed the breed a whole lot. And the things I hated then, I try to avoid with our boys now."

Recalls Own Boyhood. "One of the things I hated most of all when I was a little tyke was not to be allowed to touch Tom's property." He looked over at his brother. "I felt that the family did not trust me and that brought out the old Harry in me. I was a tough kid, all right."

Both men laughed, but "Emma" sat up and took notice. "I believe that's right," she said thoughtfully. "We really have a feeling that everything must be put beyond Ted's reach. We don't trust him for a second, that's a fact. And I suppose he's just giving the kind of treatment he gets, being selfish with other children and not allowing them to touch his toys either."

She was reasoning pretty close to the line and I think Teddy's selfishness is in a fair way to be cured.

There are as nearly as can be figured, 62 million Americans whose lives are insured in some way, for a total of nearly 90 billion dollars.

Louis XV Furniture Gives Effect of Refinement

Louis XV's reign produced more beauty than that of the preceding monarchs. Color, line and form reached heights not attained before.

The influence was again feminine, the king himself possessing a flair for the delicate and beautiful, and the influence upon him of many court favorites was powerful.

Walnut in natural color as well as painted furniture was much used. The lines are graceful and sinuous; fine carving, with little decorative motifs—the rock, shell and scroll combined—predominated; lacquer and ornaments of metal were used effectively; tapestries, printed linens, light damasks, color-brocades, fine taffetas. Colors were used to great advantage; and these were combined pleasantly to give beautiful effects.

As in American Colonial and the Georgian furniture of Britain, reproductions are successfully adapted to modern use. The furniture of the period, made today, is as beautiful as that from which it is derived, and infinitely more practical.

A background such as carved oak, painted ream, varicolored marble fireplace, large mirrors, with gilded frames, scrolled wall lights and upholstery of tapestry, fine taffeta or brocade is necessary for a Louis XV room. Naturally this background is more expensive than the ordinary home can afford, but an adaptation of the style is sometimes successfully employed in club houses and hotels.

In small rooms the Louis XV scheme may be used attractively to give the effect of intimacy, refinement, femininity, and richness.

Mrs. Simpson Tells How to Save Clothes and Hands. "My grocer recommended Rinso to me because it makes the clothes white, sweet and clean, and takes dirt out without boiling. No hard scrubbing to do either. I have used it steadily for years in my washer. It's very easy on hands. The suds are thick and lasting. I use a large package a week. The best thing I like about Rinso is the sweet smell it gives the clothes. It's good for most anything—dishes, floors, woodwork, bathtubs. I gladly recommend it to friends because I know Rinso makes the clothes white with very little hard work."

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUGNER

The layman struggling with the mid-year bills reads that President-elect Hoover will probably tour the West Indies for a rest after his rest in Florida following the picking of his cabinet after his rest on the South American Good Will tour.

The layman, stoking his furnace, doing chores over the grocery bill, and wondering if he'll get laid off the job with the rest of the boys next week, probably finds all this a bit bewildering and questions just why one needs constant rest from other rest spells.

IT'S THE TRUTH. And yet it's no exaggeration to say that if confronted with Hoover's job, and even if a Hoover himself and hence capable of it, the layman would find himself envying the comparatively simple life he had known as a mere humble laborer, just as Hoover right now probably envies what seems to him the unharassed life of the private citizen.

FAR PASTURES. Just the old story of "far pastures looking greener." Perhaps, in proportion to his abilities, each human has about the same lot with which to contend. While the layman who never travels looks at other people's travels as the embodiment of pleasure, travel can really become something from which to rest for the man who has too much of it. Hotel life, so glamorous to many, is bleak and dismal to the traveling man. And here you are!

MONEY TROUBLE. Police were called to a certain home in a certain city the other night by a shooting. They discovered that a husband had shot his wife. "Just to scare her," he explained, because he had just learned that their bank account was not a joint one, as he had believed, but was entirely in her own name.

We hear a great deal about poor, down-trodden woman and the shabby deals of finance put over on her, the nickels doled out for home-making needs, with it "up to her" to make up the deficit somehow if five dollars a week means that she must get by on a couple of dollars a week. But occasionally one catches a glimpse of the fact that women can do their own shabby money stuff pretty well, from rifling pant pockets to getting house deeds in their own names, and proceeding to evict papa. The question is, who started it? Do women have to do such things, in self-defense? I'm inclined to think so.

FILIAL LOVE. Margaret R.aine, musical director of a school in Kyoto, Japan, is rushing over a journey of more than 7000 miles in order to reach her mother who is dying in Miami, Florida, before it is too late. Perhaps nothing so unusual in that story. We are rather accustomed to our acceptance of the comparative lukewarmness of filial devotion as contrasted with parental. We take it for granted that a parent will dash through fire and water to meet the needs of a child, but find it more surprising when a child feels the same compelling urge towards a parent. We're probably right, too. It is rarer.

ANOTHER FLIGHT. Here's the story of a woman who recently took another kind of a journey, fighting time and space to get away from someone rather than to get to them. Mrs. M. Samson tramped nearly 50 miles through the icy forests of Quebec the other day in order to get away from her husband.

Only 22, she claimed that her 45-year-old husband forced her to cook for 15 lumberjacks, giving her constant blows and all forms

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

HOW CHILD SHOULD BE CLOTHED IN WINTER.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN. Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Styles in children's wearing apparel have changed as greatly in recent years as have those of their mothers.

Many women believe it is of importance to have the child wear short socks in the winter so as to harden it against the climate; others bundle the child in layer after layer of wrappings so that it can hardly excrete any perspiration from its body.

Dr. Julius Hess has given special consideration to this subject in a recent issue of Hygeia. He points out the following:

"Clothing should be comfortable to the child, not too tight or loose, and should not endanger good posture by improper fitting. Children should be active and their clothing should be such that they are not conscious of its interference. To Maintain Comfort.

"In addition, the child should be clothed as an individual. Poorly nourished children as a rule need warmer winter clothing. Children that are active need less than those that are not as active.

"Clothing is worn to maintain an even body temperature, to serve as protection from temperature lower than the normal body temperature. It should provide comfort and should not cause overheat perspiration. Many children are over-dressed, which is not desirable and may cause serious results.

"Wool need not be used, although it absorbs moisture readily and provides extra warmth with decreased weight and bulk. The average child living in the central states in the average home does not need undergarments that contain more than 30 per cent wool.

"Underwear should have full length arms and legs

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Wednesday, January 23. Starting with "Nellie Was a Lady," a series of old time pictures of old time people will be presented by "Dignified Portraits and Silhouettes" in their broadcast at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. Old-fashioned portraits of Civil War days will be reconstructed by "The Back Your Gold" and "Rosie O'Grady." Then will follow "The Skater's Waltz," "The Fireman's Yolk" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." The program will close with another interpretation of the opening number. Half an hour later the same group of stations will introduce Clayton Jackson and Durante, three masters of nonsense, long famous along Broadway. Lou Clayton of the busy voice specialties in gas and humorous songs; Eddie Jackson is the vocal star, and Jimmie Durante, in the crown of the trio and the height of idiosyncrasy, will recall with music the act of the senior organ. Fringed lambskin and wax flowers. The artists to be heard will be Thelma Malone Davies, "Viva" vocal, and the studio instrumental quintet. Among the selections to be presented will be "One Horse Show" and "The Quilting Party." Jimmie Walker, mayor of New York, will be the principal speaker in the Chamber of Commerce annual dinner to be made public by WYCF at 8:45. The address will be given by E. Y. R. R. and L. C. L. Smith, president of the Chamber. The grand opera will be delighted to learn that "Aida," by the Chicago Civic Opera Company, may be turned in from WJZ at 7:30. Black face type indicates best features. All programs Eastern Standard Time.

LUCKY MARQUIS AT 65 WINS IN SPAIN'S LOTTERY

Paris.—When the Marquis de San Miguel, noble of Spain and godson of Lady Luck, placed $200 in a Spanish lottery ticket, he crowned a career of spectacular chance. For that ticket drew the capital prize in this year's Christmas lottery, and the Marquis will collect $1,150,000 as his share. It is said that the Marquis is a youngster fell into a muddy ditch and was fished out, clutching a gold peseta in his fingers. Whether the story is true or not, it illustrates the singular good luck of the Spanish nobleman. The life of the Marquis, who is now sixty-five years old, is crowded with strokes of good fortune. A few years ago he found himself in Deauville with nothing to do and $800 cash in his pockets. He decided to play baccarat. In a few hours the $800 had grown to $68,000. He has owned a racing stable for several years, and his wins have always been remarkable by their quality. One day in Saint-Cloud, his Kirubbin beat the "unbeatable" Ksar, the latter backed down to Ksar by the public. Ksar is conceded to have been in a class by himself, but San Miguel luck defeated him. As soon as it became known that the Marquis was part holder of the lucky ticket, his Paris residence, where he is now staying, was besieged by an army of beggars and schemers, but they were bound for disappointment. The Marquis would receive none but his intimate friends. As accustomed as he is to good luck, he has a windfall of 1 1/4 million dollars has not shaken the Marquis visibly. "Just another piece of good luck," he explains philosophically with a shrug of his aristocratic shoulders. Maurice Maeterlinck's famous play "Blue Bird" was a success with his first wife in the leading role when it was first produced and equally acclaimed in a revival, with the second Mme. Maeterlinck playing the same part. By an ironic twist of fate the revival was placed on the market by the coaching of her playwright husband's former mate. Years ago Gergette Leblanc portrayed the little girl who in a dream chases the rainbow of happiness with Mayor Walker. Mme. Renee Dahon was a fervent admirer of Mme. Maeterlinck's talent, and the star took the young aspirant under her wing. Behind the scenes, the Maeterlinck family life underwent a change. Mme. Dahon became the wife of the playwright. Maeterlinck superseded Gergette Leblanc as Mme. Dahon's instructor. When the curtain again went up on "Blue Bird," at the Odéon, a new but equally successful Mme. Maeterlinck brought down the house. Should a sixteen year old girl marry, and can she do so without injury, physical and moral, to herself. She not only can and should, says Professor Pinard, recognized Paris authority on the marriage subject, but it is advisable for her not to wait any longer. "Already at the age of thirteen, a girl is ready for the task of procreation," says Professor Pinard. "In the hospitals I have even seen girl mothers of twelve getting along splendidly, as well as their progeny. "Certainly, I do not praise motherhood at such an early age. But I do not hold that it is best for a woman's physical and mental equilibrium to have known motherhood before the age of twenty-five. In any case, I cannot see any danger, only the contrary, from the sixteenth year on." Madame Lucille Tinsaye, a woman lawyer well known in the Parisian courts, does not share the views of Professor Pinard. "A girl marry at sixteen? That would be insane. I claim that a man should always be five or six years older than his wife. Well, a husband of twenty-one is just as ridiculous as a wife of sixteen. Fortunately, these child marriages are rare in France. "In my estimation, the ideal ages for marriage are 21 for the woman, and 26 or 27 for the man."

CLOVERLEAVES EXTEND ATHLETIC INTERESTS

Dr. Arthur B. Moran was re-elected president of the Cloverleaves Athletic Club at the annual meeting of that organization held last evening at the fire house at the north end. Plans were perfected for permanent maintenance of the club, which is to operate in all branches of sports. Hitherto, football has been the sole activity of the Cloverleaves. Other officers elected last night were Mark Holmes, vice-president; Charles McCarthy, treasurer; Michael Sheehan, financial secretary, and Francis J. Hart, secretary. A board of governors consisting of Samuel Harrison, John Benvenuto and Michael Sheehan was named. It was decided to rent quarters for a clubhouse to keep interest in the organization. Prior to the business session last night, the members of the club enjoyed a roast beef supper served by Chef William Griffin, manager of the football team last year, and his assistant, Arthur Cosco. It was said afterward that nearly 100 men joined the club at the meeting.

CAPTURE 2 CONVICTS WHO FLED SING SING

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The second of three prisoners who escaped from Sing Sing last night, in one of the most daring breaks in the history of the prison, was captured at 6:30 a. m., today, by Keeper Paul Wilson, as he fled along the New York Central tracks at Phillippe Manor, 2 1/4 miles south of the prison. The prisoner is Frank Hawkes, 25. The third man, George Price, 25, who is serving twenty years to life for a murder in Manhattan, is still at liberty, but Warden Lewis B. Lawes was content this morning that he is surrounded by posse. Wilson, who frustrated the attempt of three men to escape a month ago, was lying low behind a rock at the side of the railroad when he saw Hawkes approaching, running toward New York. A school is to be established at Tingara, Peru, for training in agriculture and the breeding and care of livestock in the Andean Mountain region.

Guard Against 'Flu' With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole. Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister. First you feel a warm tingle as the heating ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. Jars & Tubes. Better than a mustard plaster.

ENGINE CREW KILLED. New Haven, Conn., Jan. 23.—The engineer and fireman of the Waterbury and Winsted train leaving the former city at 7:55 a. m., were killed two miles north of Thomaston shortly after 8 o'clock this morning when the locomotive left the tracks and turned over. Railroad officials here made the announcement. The train was due in Winsted at 8:45 a. m.

OLD FOLKS SAY DOCTOR CALDWELL WAS RIGHT The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin. The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the general bottles. Do give it a trial, to prove how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

"Take The Afternoon Off—I'll Watch The Oven" "What delicious surprise are you planning for your family for dinner this evening? A fluffy new cake? A new kind of pie? An unusual pudding? All right—just stir up the ingredients, put them in the oven, and go where you please. I'll watch the baking. And the heat won't vary one whit while you're gone." So says this helpful little elf of the modern Gas Range, Oven Heat Control. Oven Heat Control has given women more freedom than any other modern appliance. Think of it! Afternoons off to shop, to visit, to do what you will. And the baking goes on as if you were still in the kitchen. You can buy on a small down payment, the balance in small amounts with your monthly gas bills. The Manchester Gas Co.

"Here!" shouted the railroad official, "what do you mean by throwing those trunks about like that?"

The porter gasped in astonishment, and several passengers pinched themselves to make sure that it was real. The official again spoke to the porter:

"Don't you see that you're making big dents in the concrete platform?"

"How's your business going?" "Like clockwork." "Why, I heard you had failed."

ABOUT TOWN

The annual meeting of the Manchester Improvement Association will be held in the meeting hall of the fire house at Main and Hilliard street Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the second meeting held by the association since the election of officers a year ago. The association plans to take up work started sometime ago for the improvement of conditions of the north end and a large attendance of members is asked.

The Girl Scout Drum and Bugle corps will meet at the Franklin school tomorrow evening at 6:30 for practice, on account of the poultry show at the State Armory.

The monthly business meeting of the W. B. A. Guard club will be held Friday evening of this week with Mrs. P. McLaan, 48 Woodland street. Mrs. Irene Vineck will assist the hostess.

Local housewives are reminded of the third cooking lesson in the series by Mrs. Anna Sutton Mixer of the Hartford Gas Company at the Manchester Community club tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. Mixer will prepare a grill dinner and additional dishes. These lecture-demonstrations are open to all interested. Miss Christine Mason, director at the White House has also arranged for a display of hand-looked rugs at 4 o'clock, just after the cooking lesson. The collection is from the Allen studio on South Main street.

Linne Lodge, No. 72, Knights of Pythias will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in Orange hall.

The Beethoven Glee club will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Swedish Lutheran church.

Troop 3, Boy Scouts, will meet at the Center church tonight at 7 o'clock.

Mary C. Keeney Tent, Daughters of Union War Veterans, will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Loveland of Elro street. This will take the place of the meeting scheduled for last week and postponed on account of so much illness. The business tomorrow evening will include a discussion of ways and means of earning money during the year 1929. A social time and refreshments will follow.

W. A. Corliss, tender at Apel's railroad crossing, is seriously ill at his home. His condition is such that no one is allowed to see him.

The women of St. James's parish will run another card party at the hall on Park street this evening. Straight whist, bridge whist and setback will be played with prizes in each section. A social time with refreshments will follow the games.

The Connecticut League of Women Voters has invited the women legislators to be its guests at a luncheon to be held tomorrow at 12:45 at the Hotel Bond.

About 50 relatives and friends of Miss Margaret Carries, tendered her a miscellaneous shower last evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Suzas of Woodland street. The evening's pastimes included a mock marriage, games, singing and dancing and a luncheon. Miss Carries who is to be married on February 4 to Michael Getzke of Hartford, received a choice collection of beautiful and useful gifts.

Alexander Cole, proprietor of the Oaklyn Filling Station, has just returned from a three-days business trip to New York City during which he witnessed the Lonski-Braddock prizefight at Madison Square Garden.

The Army and Navy Club made a clean sweep in its three-sittings setback tournament with the Rockville A. A. last night by winning by 252 points, 4,351 to 3,999 in the final of the series held here. The total difference in points was 1,195. A week from Saturday night, Feb. 2, the Rockville players will be treated to a supper at the local club. At this time, volley-ball and pocket billiards games will be played.

The North End football club will hold an important meeting at 7:30 tomorrow evening at the Community Club at the North End.

Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus will seat its new officers at a meeting in St. James's school hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The work will be in charge of Miss Margaret Crane, state president. Rockville and Hartford assemblies have been invited. The ceremonial will be followed by a roast beef supper. Friday evening the assembly will hold its regular meeting.

The Saturday evening dances at the Manchester Green school, managed by the young men members of the Community club, seem to be growing in popularity. Last week they ran a novelty dance which was unusually well attended. Saturday evening both modern and old-fashioned numbers will be on the program with Dan Miller to prompt and Wehr's orchestra to provide music.

The second meeting of the Nutmeg Trail mid-winter institute will be held Friday evening at the North Methodist church. Rev. Truman Woodward of East Hartford will give the address. Supper will be served in the vestry at 6:30. The faculty of the institute this year is as follows: Teacher of the Bible, Rev. George S. Brooks, pastor of the Union Congregational church of Rockville; teachers of Epworth League methods, Rev. F. O. Burdett of the Hockanum Methodist church; recreational director, Emil Kroyman; treasurer, Miss Helen Brewer; Dean, Rev. M. E. Osborne, pastor of the Rockville Methodist Episcopal church; president of Norwich district Epworth League, Rev. Frank W. Gray; president of the Nutmeg Trail, Harold J. House.

Word has been received here of the safe arrival of Thomas J. Cole of 10 Middle Turnpike West in California Monday afternoon. He reported that he had a fine trip through the Panama Canal. The journey by boat lasted four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Maxwell who were married in Hartford Tuesday are spending their honeymoon in Boston. On their return they will make their home at 172 Cooper street.

TYLER-GRIFFIN

Miss Helen Gertrude Griffin, daughter of Mrs. Mary Griffin of East Middle Turnpike and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Tyler of Broad Brook were married at St. Bridget's church this morning at 9 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. T. McCann in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The attendants were Miss Irene Catherine Griffin, sister of the bride, and the best man was Lester Tyler, brother of the bridegroom. The bride wore a gown of light blue georgette with close-fitting hat to match. She carried a bouquet of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore tan georgette with hat to match and carried Madame Butterfly roses.

Following the ceremony at the church a wedding breakfast and reception for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank Oakes of East Middle Turnpike. On their return from an unannounced motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler will make their home for the present with Mr. Tyler's parents in Broad Brook.

"DOC" SHEA GETS JAIL SENTENCE AS VAGRANT

Picked Up Suffering With Hunger and Cold—Will Get Attention for Next 60 Days.

Fred Shea, familiarly called "Doc," was given a jail sentence of 60 days for vagrancy by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in the Manchester Police Court this morning. Shea was picked up by Officer Galigan yesterday on Main street. The man was hungry and suffering from a severe cold. In court this morning he was unable to speak above a whisper. Shea has been before the local court repeatedly. He has no home and sleeps in any convenient place he can find. He works for anybody who will give him a job but has been unable to obtain work of late. The judge believed that in his present condition Shea would be much better off in jail where he will have a warm place to sleep and will receive medical attention.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

THE MID-WEEK JAZZ-UP
The mid-week whoopee is working all right. With snow on the ground we didn't exactly have to have a cop on the door to control the besleeking throngs and customers weren't mauling each other inside like you hear about at department store bargain fights, but the telephone bells did some jingling today and a lot of regular week-enders switched some of their marketing to week-mid, which was exactly what Pinehurst was after. All those special prices hold good tomorrow.

Many of the specials are on fruits and vegetables—and everybody is eating more fruits and vegetables now than ordinarily, as a wise precaution against flu. Let the good work keep up.

We got an extraordinary addition to the list of specials, all unexpectedly. A. E. Skinner drove down here from Underhill, Vt., with a load of that ABSOLUTELY PURE Vermont Maple Syrup and Sugar, which we have had from him before. He got a phone call that made a quick return home imperative and we made a quick deal for his whole load at a considerable cash discount.

Now the "direct shippers" of this grade of syrup in Vermont are getting $2.50 a gallon and it costs about 19 cents a gallon to get it here. That makes the price to the customer $2.69 when you buy it direct. PINEHURST IS OFFERING IT at a special for $2.39 a gallon. Half gallons are $1.29, Quarts are 75 cents. Pints are 49 cents. Of course the smaller containers cost proportionately a good deal more than the larger ones, which accounts largely for the proportionate advance in price for smaller quantities. Cake sugar is 39 cents a pound. Little cakes are 3 for 10 cents. This is wonderful Maple Syrup—and makes a peach of an addition to the specials which run all day tomorrow.

Phone 2000 and have your mid-week order delivered at your own time and convenience.

Eight Youthful Models

Hale's Apron Sale—Main Floor

Last year we sold five hundred aprons during the three days they were placed on sale. Tomorrow we are again offering to our customers another lot of these youthful aprons at the same low price—2 for 88c. Eight attractive styles in neat cotton prints—guaranteed color fast—from which to make your selections. At this writing we have not a sketch of one of our most popular styles—a large cover-all apron with set-in side panels. These aprons are made from good quality cotton fabrics, well made, and are finished with white or colored bindings. Plain or scalloped hems complete with patch pockets. We have also included in this sale our regular stock of $1.00 cretonne aprons in good looking styles. You will want six to twelve at this low price. They are just the styles you like to wear when serving lunch when the crowd drops in. Remember! On sale at this price for three days only—Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Come early for best selections.
