

INVITES FOOT GUARD TO INAUGURATION

Hoover Asked Governor to Send Them to Washington and Legislature Votes to Pay Their Expenses.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 6.—The Governor's Foot Guard are going to Washington to participate in the parade that escorts Herbert Hoover to be inaugurated President of the United States. Both Houses of the Legislature took favorable action today on a bill appropriating $10,000 to enable the two companies of Foot Guard to make the trip. The joint committee on appropriations made a favorable report on the bill which the House and Senate were prompt to adopt.

Senator Christ of New Britain, in speaking to the Senate in favor of the appropriation, announced that Governor Trumbull had called on Mr. Hoover during the governor's recent visit to Florida, and received the urgent invitation of the President-Elect to participate in the inaugural with his Foot Guard. Meanwhile the city of New Haven has appropriated funds to send Troop A, Connecticut National Guard, down to the inaugural also.

Both branches of the legislature, in a brief session today voted the election of George H. Bradford, of Montville, to be county commissioner for New London county. The Senate voted on a number of city and town court judgments, and elected judges of the Common Pleas court for New London and New Haven counties.

Senator Frank H. Bergin, of New Haven, called the attention of the Senate to a number of errors in committee assignments in the printed calendars. Ernest E. Rogers, lieutenant-governor, appointed Senator Bergin a committee of one to investigate and correct the errors.

THE SENATE

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 6.—The Senate today received from Governor Trumbull the nominations of Richard P. Higgins, of Winsted, to be public utilities commissioner for six years; Robbins B. Stoeckel, of Norfolk, to be motor vehicle commissioner for four years; George T. Kimball of New Britain, to be commissioner of the state water commission for six years; and William H. Blodgett, of Winsted, to be tax commissioner for four years. All are renominations.

The Senate also received favorable reports on a number of judgeship resolutions, as follows: Bridgeport: Albert J. Merritt, and William J. Buckley, Judges.

New Britain: Morris D. Saxe, and Stanley J. Tracecki, Judges.

The Senate voted on Judge's Walker and Pickett of the New London and New Haven County Pleas Courts, electing both men. Then the Senate concurred with the House in electing a number of town and city court judges, as reported from the House.

THE HOUSE

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 6.—The House acted on a deficiency bill of $1,022,255 presented by Elwyn T. Clark, of Haddam, as a favorable report from the appropriations com-

BARON HUENEFELD DIES IN GERMANY

Was One of Three Who Made First East to West Atlantic Flight.

Berlin, Feb. 6.—The death of Baron Ehrenfried Gunther Von Huenefeld, who with Captain Hermann Koehl and Major James E. Fitzmaurice made the first successful east to west flight across the Atlantic last April, was mourned throughout Germany today.

The Baron who for several months last year was feted in many parts of the world for his part in the epochal flight of the monoplane Bremen, died in a sanitarium here last night following an intestinal operation.

SENATE PASSES CRUISER BILL BY LARGE VOTE

America Starts Out to Build a Navy Second to None in the World—The Program.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The American government appeared to be on its way today to the construction of an American Navy "second to none in the world"—unless a new disarmament conference is held.

The administration's new cruiser bill, passed by an overwhelming vote of the Senate, was sent to conference today to iron out minor differences in the measure as it passed the two branches of Congress. It probably will be finally enacted and sent to the White House for President Coolidge's signature before the end of the week.

The bill will add fifteen fast 10,000 ton cruisers, carrying eight-inch guns, to the American Navy, supplanting old worn-out warships, some of which date back a quarter of a century. A modern giant aircraft carrier was authorized too.

Peace Notes.

There were two distinct notes of peace in the bill however—a provision that the President shall suspend all or part of the construction program if a new disarmament agreement is reached among the nations, and the Reed amendment, proposing international treaties to guarantee the rights of neutrals and private property on the sea in time of war. The President likewise was "encouraged" to arrange another disarmament conference.

The vote enacting the bill was 68 to 12, bearing out International News Service forecasts. All efforts to soften the building program were defeated as its warm advocates declared the measure, by placing an adequate American Navy on the high seas, would tend to promote world peace.

Unfinished Business.

The Senate meanwhile turned to its remaining legislative duties. The

CABINET IS NEW FLORIDA SICKNESS

Leaders from All Over the Country Rushing to Miami to Advise Hoover.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 6.—The medico-political profession in and around Miami Beach was studying a new and strange disease today. It is known as "Cabinets."

"Cabinets" manifests itself in two ways. First, there is a form of hysteria induced by fruitless efforts to read the mind of President-Elect Hoover—who happens to be "taking a breathing spell" hereabouts—and, second, there is a strong rash which breaks out on gentlemen who come to Florida with Cabinet aspirations, and don't quite know how to make them stick.

Thus far, the Cabinet hysteria has shown the greater indication of developing into an epidemic. Mr. Hoover has been at Miami Beach two weeks plus a day, supposedly deciding upon the make-up of his Cabinet and to date no word has been forthcoming from the Belle Island headquarters as to a single name of its personnel. The President-Elect has not informed any of the many cabinet followers as to who will man the governmental departments under his administration.

Many Guesses.

This fact has not checked the spread of "Cabinets" in the east. The frequenters of headquarters have picked a Cabinet for Mr. Hoover three times over. The stage has even been reached where the suggestion has gone forward that he have three Cabinets to accommodate all of the names which have been mentioned as sure bets. At least half a dozen names have been advanced for secretary of state, with Henry W. Stimson, present governor-general of the Philippines, as seemingly the outstanding nominee.

Woman Mentioned.

Three men and one woman have been mentioned for the secretaryship of interior, with last-minute information passed out that Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stan-

2 MEN ESCAPE FROM S-4 ON SEA'S BOTTOM

Were in 40 Feet of Water; Today the Men Will Attempt Test in 75 Feet; New Invention.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 6.—Can a man escaped from a submerged submarine 75 feet under the sea and live to tell about it?

That question will be decided off the Key West coast today in a series of experiments with the rejuvenated submarine S-4 which one year ago sank with the loss of forty lives.

Lata yesterday the demonstration was accomplished at a depth of forty feet, but today the same experiment will be made at a greater depth.

Edward Kolinoski, chief torpedoman, freed himself from the submarine by means of a newly-perfected escape hatch, and wearing a "lung" similar to a gas mask, also newly-invented, came to the surface. He was followed a minute later by Lieut. G. B. Mowson, inventor of the "lung." Then, discarding the lungs, and donning a diver's helmet, they descended to the sea bottom and reentered the submarine, closing the escape hatch behind them.

Tests Successful.

The tests so far, according to Lieutenant Commander P. H. Dunbar, in charge of the experiments, have been a "huge success." The tests will continue through Friday, he said, unless they all can be completed before that time.

The Mallard stood by while the tests were in progress.

In further tests, it was stated by Lieut. Comm. Dunbar, the men were to leave their way to safety from the torpedo room and other compartments of the submarine. The experiment yesterday, in charge of Lieutenant Commander Palmer H. Dunbar, involved principally the escape hatch. The S-4 began slowly to submerge at 11:25 a. m., stern first. At 11:31 she had passed beneath the surface into forty feet of water, fourteen

HAWKS SHATTERS NON STOP RECORD

Despite Storm They Arrive from Coast in 18 Hours and 21 Minutes.

New York, Feb. 6.—America's newest air heroes, Captain Frank Hawks and his mechanic, Oscar E. Grubb, who shattered the trans-continental non-stop record by covering the 2,700 miles from Los Angeles to New York in the phenominal time of 18 hours 21 minutes and 57 seconds were to be officially congratulated at City Hall this afternoon by Mayor James J. Walker.

After the ceremony the flyers, who are bearing their honors modestly, will proceed to Grand Central Palace where their big, red and silver monoplane holds a position of honor as a feature exhibit of the aviation show which opened today.

Pleased With Reception.

Refreshed after a good night's sleep, Captain Hawks and Grubb arose early this morning, and expressed themselves as pleased with the reception accorded them by aviation enthusiasts here, and the interest of the general public in their flight.

In spite of storms more than half of the way, Hawks in his Lockheed Vega air express bettered by about 37 minutes the record established last August by Arthur Goebel and the late Harry Tucker in another Lockheed, the Yankee Doodle.

Run Into Storm.

The weather was perfect until Hawks and Grubb struck over Roswell, N. M. There, while speeding at almost three miles a minute, they ran into storm conditions—low clouds, snow and intermittent rainstorms. But they were not to be stopped.

Up they climbed—over the storm area, and, sticking to their course, they headed eastward. They went higher and higher, going up eight, ten, twelve and then fourteen thousand feet. Over cloud peaks, and beneath a star light sky, they roared.

In one great leap they shot over a thousand miles of storm, crossing a part of Texas, swinging north over the edges of Oklahoma and Missouri, skirted Illinois and Indiana, and then over Ohio where strong winds blew them south of their course.

Tomorrow night Hawks is to speak over Radio station WOR. He will go on the air at 7:15 and talk for fifteen minutes.

"Wonderful" Coolidge Tells Skipper

Captain George Fried's "wonderful service as master of the steamship America" earned the congratulations of President Coolidge, left, when the hero of two stirring sea rescues called at the White House. Immediately after this meeting Captain Fried left Washington to begin a tour of inland cities.

Boston Acclaims Fried As Hero Of Sea Rescue

Boston, Feb. 6.—A former Massachusetts newsboy came home to his native state today acclaimed as a hero of the sea.

State and city joined in paying tribute to Captain George Fried, hero of the Italian freighter Florida rescue.

The gallant commander of an ocean liner, who once sold newspapers on the streets of Worcester and who saw his first ship in Boston was the central figure in an almost continual round of feting, and it will continue tomorrow in his "old home town."

Mrs. Fried, wife of the commander of the steamship America, had a share in the honors heaped upon her famous husband.

Tomorrow, Captain Fried will visit Worcester, his native city, where his sister makes her home, and the following day he will go to Providence, R. I.

Captain Fried planned to leave New York for Cincinnati on Monday, but he will rest until time to assume command of the America again on March 1.

HINTS AT REASON FOR S. O. DISPUTE

Stockholder Thinks Rockefeller is Trying to Get Control of Stewart's Co.

Washington, Feb. 6.—A thinly veiled charge that there is something more than "a great moral issue" behind the fight of John D. Rockefeller Jr., to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart from control of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana was aired here today by Louis S. Owsley, retired capitalist, and one of the old stockholders in the parent Standard company.

Owsley, who was solicited for his proxies by Rockefeller interests, addressed a questionnaire to John D. Rockefeller Jr., in which he strongly intimated that the Stewart-Rockefeller fight is one to wrest control of the Indiana company to the benefit of the Standard of New Jersey.

The questionnaire was sent by Owsley in a registered envelope. It was returned to him by the post office marked "refused."

Included in the series of questions, all of which aimed at eliciting information concerning Rockefeller interests in the various Standard companies, were these two:

"Is it not true that you control ten times as much stock in the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey as you hold in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana?"

SUMMON GRAND JURY FOR JACKSON MURDER

Man Tries To Smash Red Leader's Coffin

Moscow, Feb. 6.—A man who was arrested for attempting to smash Nikolai Lenin's glass coffin and disfigure the features of the famous Red leader, is believed to be insane. It is understood he has been confined to an asylum.

Lenin's tomb in the Red square was mysteriously closed for two days. Rumors were current that an attempt was made to desecrate the body. These rumors have since been substantiated.

While the customary long line of homage-payers at sundown was passing in single file, down into the vault beneath the street level, then up a few steps to a platform about the body, there was suddenly the crash of heavy plate glass.

Some fanatic had taken a stone from his pocket and hurled it through the glass enclosed bier. The stone missed Lenin's head by inches.

The body was not disturbed. Others in line grabbed the man. In a second two of three guards arrested him. The gates were closed until it was established that the man had no accomplices.

Then the tomb was cleared.

In the five years that the body has been on view more than 2,500,000 persons have viewed the 0000 features of the man who created the Soviet government.

LINDBERGH ON LAST LEG ON HIS TRIP TO PANAMA

Reaches Punta, Arenas, Costa Rica and After Refueling Hops Off Again—His First Hop Uneventful.

Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, Feb. 6.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from here at 10:30 o'clock this morning for David, Panama, on the final leg of his flight from Miami to Christal.

The big amphibian plane remained at the local field an hour and ten minutes. It was just 9:20 o'clock when "Lindy" at the controls brought the plane to earth after an uneventful flight from Managua, Nicaragua, which occupied two hours and forty minutes.

EARLY BULLETIN

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 6.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today was by here to Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone, on the third leg of the first air mail flight from the United States to Central America.

He will stop enroute at Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, and David, Panama, to refuel the giant du-motored Sikorsky amphibian plane.

He was to take off from here early today, and is expected to complete his journey to the Canal Zone between three and four o'clock this afternoon.

The famous "trail-blazer of the air" encountered no difficulties yesterday in his flight here from Belize, B. H., with a stop at Tela, E. H.

After the journey over the trackless jungles he made a perfect landing at Marine Field here at 3 p. m., (local time). A large crowd was on hand to greet the famous flyer.

Col. Lindbergh and his companions, Col. John A. Hambleton, vice-president of the Pan-American Airways, and Henry Leo Buskey, mechanic and radio operator, were guests at a private dinner at the American Legation last evening. They spent the night at the legation.

No Ceremonies

At Lindbergh's request, there were no ceremonies here.

ORDER GENERAL STRIKE OF GARMENT WORKERS

Ten Women and Two Men Arrested for Giving Out Circulars in New York.

New York, Feb. 6.—The garment center district was the scene of a melee today when police rounded up ten women and two men at the very hour when a general strike order affecting ever branch of the dressmaking industry was to become effective.

The prisoners were charged with littering up the streets in violation of a municipal ordinance.

As hundreds of workers went to work today they were handed circulars calling for a general strike in the dress industry here effective at 10 a. m. today.

The strike order was signed by Louis Hyman, chairman of the general strike committee of the cloak, dress and fur workers' union of the N. W. I. U.

The aim of the strike, the circular said, is the establishment of a 40-hour week and the setting up of a definite wage scale. The circulars were printed in English, Yiddish, and Italian.

Meetings of the strikers will be held in various halls and leaders say that until the registrations are all in it will be impossible to estimate the number of persons who have walked out.

ART EXPERT SHOWS HE KNOWS BUSINESS

Without Notes He Tells the Histories of All the Famous Old Masters.

New York, Feb. 6.—Sir Joseph Duveen's post graduate course in art earned him high marks in the Supreme Court today. With no notes to refer to, he gave the history of picture after picture under questioning by S. Lawrence Miller, attorney for Mrs. Andrew Larboux Hahn, of Kansas City, who is suing Sir Joseph for $500,000.

Sir Joseph paraded his knowledge to show that he knew what he was talking about when he said that the picture, "La Belle Ferroniere" (The Blacksmith's daughter) owned by Mrs. Hahn, was not painted by Leonardo Da Vinci but is only a copy of the original.

His "thumbs down" is the basis of the $500,000 suit as it prevented Mrs. Hahn from selling the picture to the Kansas City Museum of Art.

Attorney Miller asked Sir Joseph about a Da Vinci portrait, which turned up several years ago in Russia and was eventually sold to the then Czar after he, as Sir Joseph, had offered $1,500,000 for it.

Knew Its History

Sir Joseph said that he knew the history of the painting in question as well as other Leonardo's through the writings of Italian experts who were criticizing pictures at the time Da Vinci painted.

The witness also testified regarding the number of art sales he attended each year and how he determined the authenticity of pictures offered for sale. He said that at the De Ridder sale in France experts had been appointed to pass on the saleable pictures by the French government.

His testimony along this line led Mrs. Hahn's counsel to ask him if an expert's opinion was responsible for the value of a picture, but his attorneys succeeded in having the question overruled.

Police of Greenwich Says He Drove Gunman Who Shot Patrolman McCormick.

Greenwich, Conn., Feb. 6.—Eddie Kane came back to Greenwich early this afternoon. The man who is supposed to have driven the car in which gunmen operated when they shot Policeman Joseph McCormick here in May, 1927, was escorted by Sergeant John Souley, and four other Greenwich policemen. The police escort brought Kane here from Mineola, L. I., where recently he was tried as an accomplice in the famous Livermore jewel robbery, and acquitted.

Kane, charged here with being an accessory to the shooting of Policeman McCormick, will be given a hearing in Town Court tomorrow morning. The state will produce statements by "Billy" Williams and Arthur Barry, now serving long terms in Sing Sing, in which they declare Kane drove them after the shooting of McCormick to Norwalk.

McCormick, paralyzed in both legs from his bullet wound, is under treatment in the neurological hospital in New York.

KANE BROUGHT BACK TO SCENE OF CRIME

The brother Frederick in talking about his grandfather said that he came to this country at the age of eight from Ireland with a total capital of two English pennies. In some way he cultivated considerable dancing ability and was dancing instructor to New York's Poor Hundred. In fact, he numbered among his pupils Cornelius and William K. Vanderbilt, and Chauncey M. Depew, and he gave lessons to Theodore Roosevelt.

Abandoning this profession he began to accumulate real estate and other property and in 1874 he had a fortune estimated at $3,000,000, but the panic of this year wiped it out and with Irish determination, it is said, he started again to give dancing lessons and was soon on the way to wealth again. He is said to have built the first flat house ever put up in New York when he erected this type of building in 1859 at Sixth Avenue and Forty-Eighth street.

The grandfather after whom Detective Rice was named was a determined and picturesque character of New Rochelle. Once in order to save a tree in that town he decided to cut the city about 300 square feet of land, and again he stirred the town by attempting forcibly to prevent the telephone company from erecting telephone poles in front of his home.

LEAN 1929 FOR LONDON CROOKS, 'YARD' PROMISES

London.—English criminals are promised a lean 1929. With the New Year reforms were introduced at Scotland Yard, Britain's famed criminal intelligence headquarters, where an intensified campaign against crime has just been launched.

Among the reforms launched or contemplated are: 100 per cent increase in personnel and transport of the Flying Squad, the famous automobile squad which has struck terror into English criminals.

Provision of a ring of police telephone boxes around London. Extension of night automobile patrols, especially in the suburbs of the great cities.

Development of automobile transport for non-uniformed detectives. Utilization of police officers with special qualifications (languages, etc.) in spheres where they will be most useful.

Reorganization of the Scotland Yard Press Bureau to make it a real and vital force.

In the opinion of police chiefs, when the new system of telephone boxes come into effect, it will be possible to close all roads around London at a moment's notice by flashing messages to police boxes at strategic points. In this way it is hoped to cope with the automobile bandit, who nine times out of ten succeeds in getting clean away.

Lord Byng, the new police commissioner, who made his name during the world war as the leader of the Canadian troops, is declared to be determined that there shall be the highest standard of efficiency at the "Yard."

Young officers will be encouraged if they show ability, enthusiasm, initiative and energy, according to the new commissioner's plan of campaign. The retirement of old officers is being encouraged.

In Lord Byng's opinion, "the machinery at the 'Yard' is all right, but it wants a few adjustments." It is these adjustments which he is now making.

Don't lead with your chin, says an article in a golfer's magazine. It's a good axiom for boxing, too.

BRITISH BOXERS NEVER FALL INTO THAT ERROR. THEY LEAD. THEIR LEADING ASSETS ARE THEIR JACKS.

Kearns has adopted the Three Musketeers' motto for his stable: "One for all, all for one." We can understand that.

If Bobby Jones becomes president of the golf association, in 1935 he will have to go through the strange rite of presenting himself a cup. Maybe he can study up on the speeches of Jack Sharkey and find out how one gives one's self a bouquet.

Basketball fans at the University of Pennsylvania are given printed slips before each game, asking them to refrain from booing, hissing, etc. If this wave of politeness continues, pretty soon a fellow may not even have the right to slay an umpire occasionally.

The boxers can take a lesson in suffering from Jack Sharkey in regard to booing. "Let them boo," says the Loud-mouthed Lith. "I get their money."

A former champion pugilist, now in Europe, says he isn't coming back to the United States until everybody has forgotten him. How can he forget him when we see his name in the vegetable oil ads every day?

THERE HAVE BEEN INNUMERABLE OIL CANS IN THE FLATNOSE RACKET, BUT THIS IS THE FIRST ONE WE EVER KNEW TO FILL HIMSELF UP WITH VEGETABLE OILS.

A headline in a New York newspaper says "Women Golfers to Play." Which, says O'Goody, is news.

Madison Square Garden now is the scene of both wrestling and boxing shows. This shouldn't be confusing, however, as the wrestlers never wear gloves.

The season is almost at hand when some of the boys who have been holding out will be holding on.

"I sure wish I could get a crack at Gene Tunney."—Ditto.

"I certainly would have liked to fight Dempsey when he was the way he was in the Firpo fight."—Ditto.

Miss Borden Fools Film Executives And Gossips

Olive Borden... "and such beautiful brown eyes!"

BY DAN THOMAS
Hollywood, Calif.—"She's temperamental—difficult to handle."

That's what Fox executive said about a year ago when they placed Olive Borden's name on their list of ex-stars.

"There goes the house—the car will be next."

That's what Hollywood gossips said when Miss Borden sold her Beverly Hills mansion and moved to the beach.

Both Wrong
Both the Fox executives and the Hollywood gossips were wrong, as Olive has proved during the past year. She is still in Sig demand. She still rides around in her luxurious car.

A year ago I would have said yes, Olive replied to my question as to whether or not she actually is temperamental. "But now I can emphatically say no. When I left the Fox last about a year ago I was so nervous I didn't know whether I was temperamental or not. So I moved to the beach for three months and became just a kid again, doing the things kids like to do and enjoying myself generally. Then I came back and went to work because I wanted to prove myself that I am not temperamental."

During 1923 the vivacious brunette actress made six pictures and not once did she have any trouble with a director or producer. Olive never was temperamental—she just knew how to say no, an almost criminal offense in movieland.

DENY REVOLT REPORT.

Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, Feb. 6.—Rumors of a new revolutionary outbreak in northwestern Mexico were denied here today by Gilberto Valenzuela, reported leader of the revolt and candidate for the presidency on the revolutionary ticket.

Valenzuela's departure from Mexico City for the State of Sonora, where he was born, gave rise to the reports of a fomenting insurrection.

A noted lawyer, Valenzuela opened his presidential campaign here last night with a speech delivered before an enthusiastic throng of supporters. The candidate promised to prolong the policies of the late President-Elect General Avaro Obregon, who was assassinated last summer.

Belfast, Ulster, Ireland, Feb. 6.—Eamonn de Valera, leader of the Irish Republicans, who was arrested on the border and lodged in jail here while trying to cross into Ulster, is refusing to eat, it was reported today. His arraignment probably will be deferred until tomorrow. The government is determined to prosecute De Valera for violating the exclusion order issued against him by the Ulster government several years ago.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Feb. 6.—Wall street worked itself up into a nervous fit over the money situation today and sold stocks in such abundance that prices of the market favorites tumbled 3 to 15 points. Everything was running along smoothly until the word was passed around that the reserve board would issue another blast against the ballooning of bank credit in stock market speculation, and that the Bank of England directors would take steps to stop the drainage of gold from London to New York. Then the flood gates of selling were opened, and the bears rode high-minded in a falling market.

The bears directed their strongest shafts against the industrial stocks and specialties which have been in the lead of the upward movement since the middle of January. The big professionals got the "jump on the bulls" by scattering a big volume of selling orders all over the industrial list in the first hour, receiving the best prices of the day for their short sales. When the selling broke out the heaviest in the early afternoon, the bulls were already loaded with their favorite stocks and had little room for more.

U. S. Steel was hard pressed, opening at 184 1-2, this market leader was battered down 5 points to 179 1-2, shortly after the noon period. Wright Aero tumbled 13 points to 230, losing all of yesterday's gain. Bethlehem steel was unable to stand up under the selling weight and lost 4 points at 89 1-2. Losses of 2 to 5 points were recorded in a score or more of the Motor Car, Oil, equipment and utility stocks. The Bulls also joined the downward procession.

Selling of stocks today had all the appearance of an old-fashioned "shake out," the so-called healthy reaction—which is anything but healthy for those who are shook out of their stocks at falling prices.

It made little difference to the Street that there was plenty of money available for stock market purposes at 7 per cent or less, the rate having been marked down 5 per cent shortly after one o'clock.

Copper stocks started the day at higher prices. Anaconda and Andes sold up about a point each; American Smelting rose 3 points to 124, partly as the result of the 10-point jump in lead prices. Low priced Coppers like Tennessee and Nevada reached new high prices for the year before being pushed off with the rest of the list.

Three day's declines have brought the high grade railroad stocks from 6 to 10 points below the peaks of last week, though as a rule the volume of selling on the down movement has been small. At 197, New York Central showed a loss of 7 points from the high of the move, and slightly smaller losses were recorded for Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, New Haven and other of last week's favorites. Rock Island was unable to respond to the boosting of the annual dividend rate to 37 a share, though little stock was offered for sale around 135.

PREPARE SPECIFICATIONS FOR SCHOOL BIDDERS

Monday Night's Meeting Has No Bearing on Letting of Contract—Change of Opinion Noted.

The order has been placed for six sets of drawings and specifications for the eight room addition to the Hollister street school in the Eighth District, for the use of bidders. A large number will be supplied, if needed, but on the occasion of the previous bidding, when all plans were rejected, there were six bidders and the committee does not expect that there will be more than that.

This was the understanding of the building committee at its meeting on Monday night for the call that made provision for the erection of the school specified that the contract would be subject to competitive bids and the committee had the right to accept or reject all bids.

A change in the opinion that exists on construction has been noted in the Eighth district where strong opposition to merging the districts in town has prevailed, according to those who are in touch with district affairs. For that reason it is believed the Eighth district will not oppose the building of the school, the attitude that should consolidation come the district might just as well have the school built and not take a chance of not having it erected after consolidation.

ANOTHER FORD RELIC.

Willimantic, Conn., Feb. 6.—The fourth steam engine secured in this district by Henry Ford in less than a year was reported today by William W. Taylor, eastern agent for Mr. Ford. The latest acquisition is a Greene engine bought at the E. A. Tracey woolen mills in South Coventry, an institution that has been closed for five years. Mr. Taylor is taking steps to have the engine dismantled to ship to the Ford industrial museum at Dearborn, Mich.

The first Ford engine purchase here occurred in June, and came from the west mills of the Holland Silk Co.

miles off Key West, in the blue waters of the Gulf Stream. Buoy shoots to surface. A small launch tender put out from the Mallard, and came alongside the spot where the submarine's periscope was last seen. At 11:56 a black buoy shot to the surface of the water and was hauled on board the launch. The buoy was an indication that the safety hatch had been opened and that the first man ever to leave a submarine under water in test operations was preparing to make his exit.

Three minutes after the black buoy had been hauled on board, the head of a man wearing the mechanical lung came to the surface. It was Chief Torpedoman, Kollinowski. One minute later Lieutenant Momen, inventor of the lung, shot up from the S-4 and was also pulled aboard the launch.

The oxygen is inhaled through one tube and the exhaled air is passed back into the bag by another tube. The entire arrangement is water tight and contains sufficient oxygen to sustain life for one hour and a half. Tests have previously been made under all pressures and under water.

The safety hatch, known as the "trunk" consists of an exit door by which the trapped crew of a submarine can escape. All of the new submarines of the Y-type are being equipped with four of the trunks, one for each compartment.

Ladder Leads from Compartment. The trunk protrudes a few feet above the upper surface of the submarine. A ladder leads from the compartment. When a man is to leave by the trunk, he opens a flood valve until the water is stopped by air pressure in the top of the trunk, opens a side door and escapes. The side door can be closed from the compartment of the submarine, and the lower side opened, allowing a small amount of water to fall into the compartment and the trunk is ready to save another man.

The trunk has been perfected so that all men trapped in one compartment, can free themselves within a few minutes.

Tests made last September by Lieutenant Momen, of the Bureau of Construction and Repairs, when he and two others ascended with the mechanical lung from depths ranging from 150 to 165 feet in Chesapeake Bay, indicated the practicability of this device. At that time the men descended in a diving bell.

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is Col. Stewart's expansion plans in the Standard of Indiana should be curbed or ceased?

"In view of my failure to get an answer from Rockefeller I sent the letter, still unopened, to the Standard of Indiana in Chicago, and asked it to throw some light on the matter," Owsley said. "I was informed as to the Indiana company holdings but not the New Jersey holdings."

The Indiana company replied that in 1911, the year the old Standard Oil was dissolved, Rockefeller owned 20 per cent of the stock of that company. He now owns in his own name only 10 per cent and 10 per cent is owned by the Rockefeller beneficiaries.

"According to these figures," Owsley said, "approximately 15 per cent was either sold or given away."

30 YEARS AUTO DRIVER WITHOUT AN ACCIDENT

Harry Bellamy Refutes Official's Contention Autoist Goes Back After 10 Years.

When George A. Parker, Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles, says a motorist begins to lose his ability to drive after ten years he's "all well," according to one local automobilist. Harry Bellamy, mechanic at Madden Brothers' Nash service station here, has been driving an automobile just 30 years, and he believes he can operate with the best of them today. And, moreover, in thirty years of driving Bellamy hasn't had a driving accident.

Bellamy took out his first operator's license from the London County Council, London, England, in 1893. He was under age when he took out the license, but managed to pass the examining board. The time limit, previously approved by the House, was retained by the Senate over the opposition of President Coolidge. This provided that five cruises be started this year, five more in 1930 and the last five in 1931. The aircraft carrier will be started prior to June 30, 1930.

Surprise Party. Mrs. John Gowans, of Hollister street, who with the members of her family is leaving town shortly to live in Hartford, was the guest of honor at a surprise party which was to have been held at the home of Mrs. H. S. Cahoon on East Center street had the plans not been carried. Mrs. Gowans since coming here a few years ago has made a host of friends. They accordingly arranged a little party and Mrs. Cahoon had invited her to supper last night. Mrs. Gowans had been to Hartford yesterday and as she was tired she requested Mrs. Cahoon to excuse her, and the surprise necessarily was held at her home on Hollister street. The decorations and food were transported over there. Everybody had a jolly evening with the aid of games and music, and they departed leaving with them gifts for Mrs. Gowans and good wishes for her future prosperity.

About Town. A substantial turkey supper from 5:30 to 6:30 at the South Methodist church tonight. The tickets will include a play in two acts, entitled "They Do Say." The cast has been coached by Mrs. John Dowd and the play is believed will prove mirth-provoking, dealing as it does with rural life and village gossip 40 or 50 years ago.

WAR DEPT. SILENT. Washington, Feb. 6.—The War Department today professed complete ignorance concerning the immediate or future plans of Henry L. Stimson, governor general of the Philippines, and who is considered the probable secretary of state in the Hoover Cabinet.

Governors general of the Philippines usually inform the War Department of their movements, the islands being under departmental supervision, but its most prominent officials said today they were not even aware of Gov. Stimson's plans to return to Washington.

And as he is returning in press dispatches, he is retaining his other duties, they have not been advised of it.

O. K. BOX BILL. Washington, Feb. 6.—The Box bill limiting rights of foreigners to enter the United States temporarily was reported favorably by the House immigration committee today.

The bill provides that "no alien shall be considered as visiting the United States temporarily for business or pleasure if he is coming to engage on existing employment or employment under an agreement already made."

Committee members said it would not prevent Canadians from entering at will but would restrain entry of other foreigners from Canada.

SENATE PASSES CRUISER BILL BY LARGE VOTE. Caraway anti-grain gambling bill was made the "unfinished business" but the War Department appropriation bill was taken up for immediate consideration.

In conference, the House and Senate must agree upon two Senate amendments. One was the Reed amendment, and the other would allow the navy yards to buy any special equipment for the new warships from private manufacturers if the bill found this course economical. Both amendments undoubtedly will be accepted by the House.

The cruisers will each cost $17,000,000 and the aircraft carrier, $19,000,000, making $274,000,000 in all. Half of the vessels will be built in government yards and half in private yards, thus scattering the building activity all over the country.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Feb. 7.—Industrial stocks moved upward under the lead of the Coppers this morning. Buying orders flooded the market at the opening piling up heavy turnovers for many of the active shares, and setting the ticker back about 15 minutes in the first hour. The rail and the specialties were in good demand all the way through, while the Oils slumped off under the handicap of record-breaking crude oil production.

New gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded in the well known Copper shares, including Anaconda, Greene Cananea, American Smelting, Andes, Kennecott, Tennessee Copper and Chemical. Inspiration and Centro De Pachuca. Strength of American Smelting was due in part to the new 10-point advance in lead metal prices. A new move in Bethlehem Steel brought the price of that stock up to 93 1/2, the highest price since its entrance into the dividend class.

The motor stocks ran into a heavy load of profit taking and short selling in the second hour, and further progress was out of the question. U. S. Steel also lagged and lost about 2 points. American Can, Mack Trucks and other favorites also lost ground.

Call money was in good supply at 7 per cent.

CROSSED EYES IN CHILDREN

The subject of crossed eyes is receiving more attention today because of the increasing number of such cases. There are so many angles to this type of defect that only one will be discussed in this article, that of crossed eyes in children, because the child's problem is by far the greatest of those suffering from the distressing effect of crossed eyes.

In order to understand the abnormal conditions under which the eyes are forced to work, we must first know something about the normal way eyes function. In brief, let us consider the act of seeing with both eyes at the same time, this being termed single binocular vision. We have two eyes and each eye has a separate "picture" of external objects. Suppose we look at a tree—each eye has its own "picture"—but we only see one tree and not two. It is necessary for some reason to join the two pictures so that we only see one. This agency is called the fusion sense. Without it we could not judge depth or distance (stereoscopic vision). Without this fusion ability we could not hope to control the movements of our eyes. This fact is readily observed in babies whose eyes wander in any direction. The fusion sense does not usually reach its fullest development until the child is six years old, and it is in this six years period that most cases of crossed eyes occur. Fortunately, it is just this very type of case that offers the best field for correction.

Before the fusion sense in the brain can join the two pictures (one for each eye) and make one there must be similarity of focus; in other words, both eyes must see with equal clearness. If there is a high optical defect in either, or both eyes, this similarity of the two pictures is impossible, and the brain is confused in its desire to "fuse" and see one object clearly. The vision in the most defective eye is then "suppressed mentally," that is, the blurred picture is disregarded and the attention directed to the clearer one. Thus freed of the seeing instinct, the poorer eye is allowed to turn in the direction of the pull of the dominant muscle—usually inward toward the nose. If the optical error is high, and about the same in each eye, the "crossing" is more apt to be alternating, that is first one eye turns in and then the other.

Sometimes parents do not know of this predisposing cause of "crossed eyes" until the eyes have deviated; this points to the need for an early survey under the competent refractionist of the visual condition of the eyes of children.

A child whose eyes cross in early life suffers a very heavy handicap. Not only is such a child an object of ridicule by other children, but unless the case is taken in hand early enough, serious damage will be done. No one would desire to go through life crossed-eyed because of the disfigurement, but this is not the greatest hardship inflicted upon anyone whose eyes are allowed to stay crossed from childhood. As a rule the vision in the eyes that turns is very much below normal and if the good eye should be injured or the sight destroyed, then the person would be, in some cases, totally blind.

The common idea that crossed eyes in children can only be cured by surgical operation is both dangerous and incorrect. The most "successful operation" can only accomplish one good effect—that of having the eyes straight, but without the ability to see at the same time. In other words, in a case of this kind the person is actually "one-eyed," his vision alternating from one eye to the other, if he is fortunate in having equal vision in the two eyes.

The success in curing crossed eyes without an operation will depend almost entirely upon getting the child young enough so as to begin education of the brain centers governing vision.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Kidney Stones and Oxalic Acid
Question: Interested Reader writes: "Please explain the difference, if any, between kidney stones and oxalic acid. What is the cause of their formation and what should a person subject to kidney attacks do?"

Answer: Kidney stones and renal gravel are caused by the same condition. There is usually a lowered alkalinity of the blood and possibly an excess of oxalic acid in the diet. Avoid the following foods: Rhubarb, sorrel, tea, coffee, pepper, chocolate, spinach and cranberries. No other foods contain sufficient oxalic acid to be injurious. Oxalic acid can only accumulate when the metabolism of the body is faulty.

Oleomargarine
Question: Miss C. G. G. asks: "Would you recommend Oleomargarine as being healthful?"

Answer: In the experiments which I have conducted with oleomargarine I have found it to be quite a wholesome substitute for butter if used in an otherwise balanced diet.

Stinging Tongue
Question: Reader: "I have been troubled with my tongue for a long time, with a stinging feeling. It is getting on my nerves so I can't stand it. I have tried the best doctors in Montreal and in Buffalo, and they can't help me, so they told me to write to you."

Answer: There may be a number of causes for the stinging sensation of your tongue. I appreciate the expression of confidence from your doctors and if you will send me their diagnosis of your case I will be very pleased to give you my advice.

They're Getting Back to Nature

Well, it's a nice day. The sun is shining and everything. See the boats out in the harbor? Notice the way the sky and the water seem to blend together. It's funny about things like that. And look at those islands out there, too. Those are palm trees you see on them—this being Miami Beach, Fla. And say, by the way, there are some girls in the picture, too. Had you noticed them? They're taking their daily sun baths in the name of health and beauty on the roof of one of the resort hotels.

MARLBOROUGH

Jesse Hoadley of Westchester, age 96, formerly a resident of this place died from the effects of grip at his home in Westchester Saturday evening. Mrs. Hoadley who is 92 years old is critically ill with grip. If Mr. Hoadley had lived until April they would have been married 70 years.

Among the recent victims of grip are William Bolles, Clayton Bolles and Natalie Infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Olshay.

Miss Fanny A. Ellis, a teacher in Glastonbury spent the week-end at her home here.

Misses Rebecca and Doris Buell, Lydia Lord and Mae Hannon all of Hartford spent the week-end at their homes here.

HOT DOGS!

For over half an hour a small boy had been persistently whistling outside the butcher's shop. Finally, the butcher could stand it no longer. He rushed out into the street. "Stop making that confounded noise, you little wretch!" he shouted. "I've lost me dog," said the boy. "Well, do you think I've got your dog, then?" "I dunno," muttered the boy. "But every time I whistle those sausages of yours move."—Answers.

Curious Scribe Discovers Our Safest Coasting Spot

Cautious Kiddies Use Storm Water Sewer to Do Their Sliding—Dark as Pitch But the Youngsters Are Not Afraid.

Och! Turn 'round. Stop it! Stop other.

The well or yells seemed to be issuing from the clear sky. Not a soul was in sight, not a soul but a mere reporter strolling dreamily along Cottage street.

"Arrabon! ! ! ! !"

Again the raucous cries. The reporter's blood chilled. He turned, bent on setting a dash record for all time.

The street lay bathed in the afternoon sunlight . . . darkness was many hours away . . . no ghosts could be abroad at that hour.

Knowledge of this set his blood circulating, his heart resumed its steady beating. Facing about resolutely he rang to his feet for "full speed ahead."

Come from Manhole. The noise came again. This time the reporter became aware that the sound was coming from a manhole at his feet. His right hand ran a long cement culvert. Walking hurriedly he saw a gaping hole, very wide and very low, from which the sewer water rushes "in the good old summer time," water now held in the grip of winter.

Suddenly, from the Stygian darkness, rushing with the "peep of an express train, out from the very bowels of the earth, came a yell followed by another and yet another.

Tunnel Coasting.

Ah, ha, a pat on the back, Watson, the mystery is solved. 'Tis an underground sliding place.

"Ya see," replied one of the "kids" to the reporter's inquiry.

"When we slide in the road our Ma's give us heck, an' so we hadda find some 'eres else where we wouldn't get hit by no autos."

"Yab," chimed in another, "we lay on our backs on the sleds and then push on the wall 'til we come to the manhole, then we come back again, and boy! do we tear!"

"Do you go any further than the manhole," asked the reporter.

A Dark Hole. "Say, take a look in there," said a third, with a jerk of his thumb at the opening, "it's darkern the closet pa put me in last night."

"Gee wilkens, yab, but ya kin go as far as the school, but I get scared skinny when I get to the manhole," put in the first speaker with a glance at the nearest way of escape added, "And so does Freddy 'ere."

"I do not!"

"Ya do."

"Jimeee!" the call of an irate mother broke up what looked like a real Dempsey-Tunney battle (one running in a circle the other following "Jimeee" beat it for home.

FLU ON THE WANE

Washington, Feb. 6.—The present flu epidemic is definitely on the wane, the U. S. Public Health Service announced today after receiving figures for the week ending, Feb. 2. Only 24,998 new cases were reported for that week, from 43 states, as compared with 54,582 for the preceding week.

There was a noticeable drop in deaths, too, figures from 65 cities showing only 498, as compared with 745 for the preceding week. New York led with 124 deaths. Health officials characterized conditions as "very encouraging," although warning there may be another epidemic later in the season.

What Doctors Say About the Laxative Habit

What do YOU do when the bowels need a little assistance? If you clear-up the condition with some laxative made with CASCARET, there is nothing better for the system—for the blood.

But if you don't KNOW the laxative you have learned to depend on is of harmless cascara, here's some truly valuable advice:

The bark of a tree called cascara is the most marvelous conditioner mankind has yet found. It stimulates the bowel's muscular action, but does NOT weaken. A violent laxative forms the laxative HABIT. You always need more on the morrow. With cascara, you don't. Its gentle influence carries on some times for days. With less and less need of any aid, as time goes on.

So, the very next time you feel sluggish, take only a candy Cascarets. Delightful to the taste, sweet and acceptable to any stomach, and just as efficient as the powerful purges that fairly paralyze the peristaltic walls of one's intestines.

The only habit you'll get from Cascarets is the one of going weeks and months without ANY help of the kind. And when you do invoke their aid again, the same small dose suffices. Any doctor can tell you about cascara; and any druggist has the candy Cascarets.

CASCARETS They Work While You Sleep!

Husband (after quarrel): You must not misunderstand me, darling. Lying is not one of my weaknesses.

Wife: No, it is your strong point.—Passing Show.

CUTS MAN'S THROAT; LEAVES HIM IN CAR

Odd Story Told by Rich Manufacturer Found Dying in His Parked Auto.

New York, Feb. 6 — Nathan Alper, 50, wealthy manufacturer, whose throat was slit last night in an automobile parked in "Lover's Lane" in Brooklyn, lay at the point of death in a hospital this morning while a dozen detectives hunted a young woman seen fleeing the scene. No knife was found and the victim's money and jewelry were not taken.

After receiving first aid treatment Alper said he left his factory yesterday evening and drove his foreman, Reuben Epstein, to his home.

After leaving Epstein he said, he had driven a short distance when an unknown man leaped on the running board and asked for a lift.

As soon as he admitted him to the car, Alper said, the man dragged him from the wheel and took his place.

The stranger suddenly pulled out a sharp instrument of some kind and drew it across his throat, Alper said.

OUT OF LUCK

Frederick S. Rice of New York or thereabouts, brother of Deputy Sheriff Trenor A. Rice, who is charged with the murder of Windham County Detective William A. Jackson, declares that he is going to have Samuel B. Untermyer of New York and Clarence Darrow of Chicago defend his brother. Perhaps, though it will probably develop that Mr. Untermyer is not exactly available for a criminal trial. Still, it is to be regretted that if Mr. Rice can afford the advice of so eminent a lawyer and such high-priced one, he did not seek his counsel before opening his campaign with all this blustering talk about a million dollar defense fund and the huge calibre of the legal guns he proposed to bring into the case. Because Mr. Rice is doing his brother's case not the slightest bit of good by this sort of windy bluffing.

No doubt for excellent reasons the Windham county authorities have not seen fit to disclose their case against Trenor Rice. It is to be presumed that they have ample grounds for laying the murder charge against the deputy sheriff, but that does not by any means carry with it the certainty that he is guilty. Up to the present the public mind as to his guilt or innocence is completely open. In Connecticut he is fully assured of a fair trial, if indicted. There is no outrage in his arrest, even if he should be able to disprove the charge against him.

In these circumstances it is not only the height of bad taste for his relative to come storming into the situation with loud shrieks about the fortune that stands at the back of the accused man and about the great big lawyers who are to come to Connecticut to shake the daylight out of law officers who dare to arrest a partner in a million dollar trust fund; it is also prejudicial to the interests of the man in jail. Frederick Rice is doing his ignorant best to set up, in the minds of Windham county people, a prejudice against the house of Rice—a lamentable thing to have exist in case the deputy sheriff is put on trial for his life. Any good lawyer—any half way good lawyer—would have sat on Mr. Rice and had him gagged, if necessary, rather than have permitted him to come blustering and threatening into the state the way he has done. Trenor Rice is obviously out of luck in his relationship.

LIFTING SUB CURSE

The successful escape of a commissioned officer and an enlisted man from the Submarine S-4, rescue experiment ship, while she lay on the bottom in forty feet of water, marks the most important epoch in submarine development since they taught ships to dive and travel under water.

It does not by any means eliminate all the special dangers of submarine service, but it spells the end of the long period of unspeakable dread which has attached to that service—the horror of imprisonment and slow torture, the unimaginable mental agony which, preceding death, must be a thousand times worse than death itself, and realization of which has made the operation of undersea craft such a sinister and harrowing business.

If men can now emerge from a sunken submarine and gain the surface, as seems to have been pretty well demonstrated, nine-tenths of the battle is won. Their chances thereafter may be slender, but they are the same chances that shipwrecked sailors must take and are willing to take always, and which bear, for them, no special dread. It has never been the thought of drowning that has made the men of the submarine service conscious of being a race apart, sitting under the shadow of an awful doom. It has never been the fear that their loved ones might lose their lives, seaman fashion, which has haunted the relatives of submarine sailors by day and by night; it has been the consciousness that always there was the peril of those soul-blighting tragedies of slow suffocation, madness, torture piled on torture.

Now that a way has been found by which men may reach the surface alive and in their strength, almost all of the horror is dissipated. It should be no great problem to provide them with something to cling to, something to sustain them for a while on the waves, till perhaps help may come; at worst the chance to die as brave men should, fighting for life.

And now that the way has been found every submarine in the Navy should be, must be, equipped at once with the new rescue devices—or scrapped. A nation which can spend hundreds of millions on useless cruisers surely will not hesitate at the few hundred thousands which will be needed to free the submarines from their traditional curse.

HUENEFELD'S STAKE

At some risk, perhaps, of seeming unkind but without the slightest intention of being so, we are impelled to remark that the death of Baron Ehrenfried Gunther Von Huenefeld, one of the three men who crossed the Atlantic in the airplane Bremen, contributes somewhat to the solution of the mystery of the baron's nerve in making that flight.

At the time, thousands were struck by the incompatibility between Von Huenefeld's personality and the enterprise in which he was engaged. A shrinking, hypersensitive, frail little man, exhibiting at no time any of those flashes of excited daring which sometimes mark the embattled physical weakling, he faced, none the less, all the perils and hardships of that famous voyage like a man of iron. It was difficult to get a line on him to account for him.

Now, however, it develops that the illness which carried off Baron Von Huenefeld was of many years standing, and incurable. His hold on life at best was very slender. He was likely to fade out at any time, during a number of recent years. He had, in a word, no expectancy of life.

In such circumstances it is readily understandable that one with an heroic soul in a pulling body might gladly undertake such risks as those of the Bremen's voyage, though they might repel stronger and nervier men whose grip on existence was far stronger.

His stake was so much smaller than that which a more vigorous person would have had to put in to the game.

AIR BOMBERS

The little wars transpiring now and then throughout the world have at least one small element of value. They are demonstrating, to some extent, the problem of air attacks on infantry or the equivalent of infantry.

The latest report of this sort of warfare comes from Jerusalem, whence word is sent that British air bombers—number not stated but presumably not above half a dozen planes, perhaps only two or three—have just killed 85 Arab camel riders believed to have been members of the raiding party of Wahabes which murdered Rev. Henry A. Bilkert, American missionary, recently.

Many problems are presented by the development of air bombing since the World war. One is impressed by the question whether the grey divisions of the Kaiser, or the rushing doughboys of Uncle Sam, would have been much better equipped for defense against accurately directed bombs from the air than were these Wahabi camel riders.

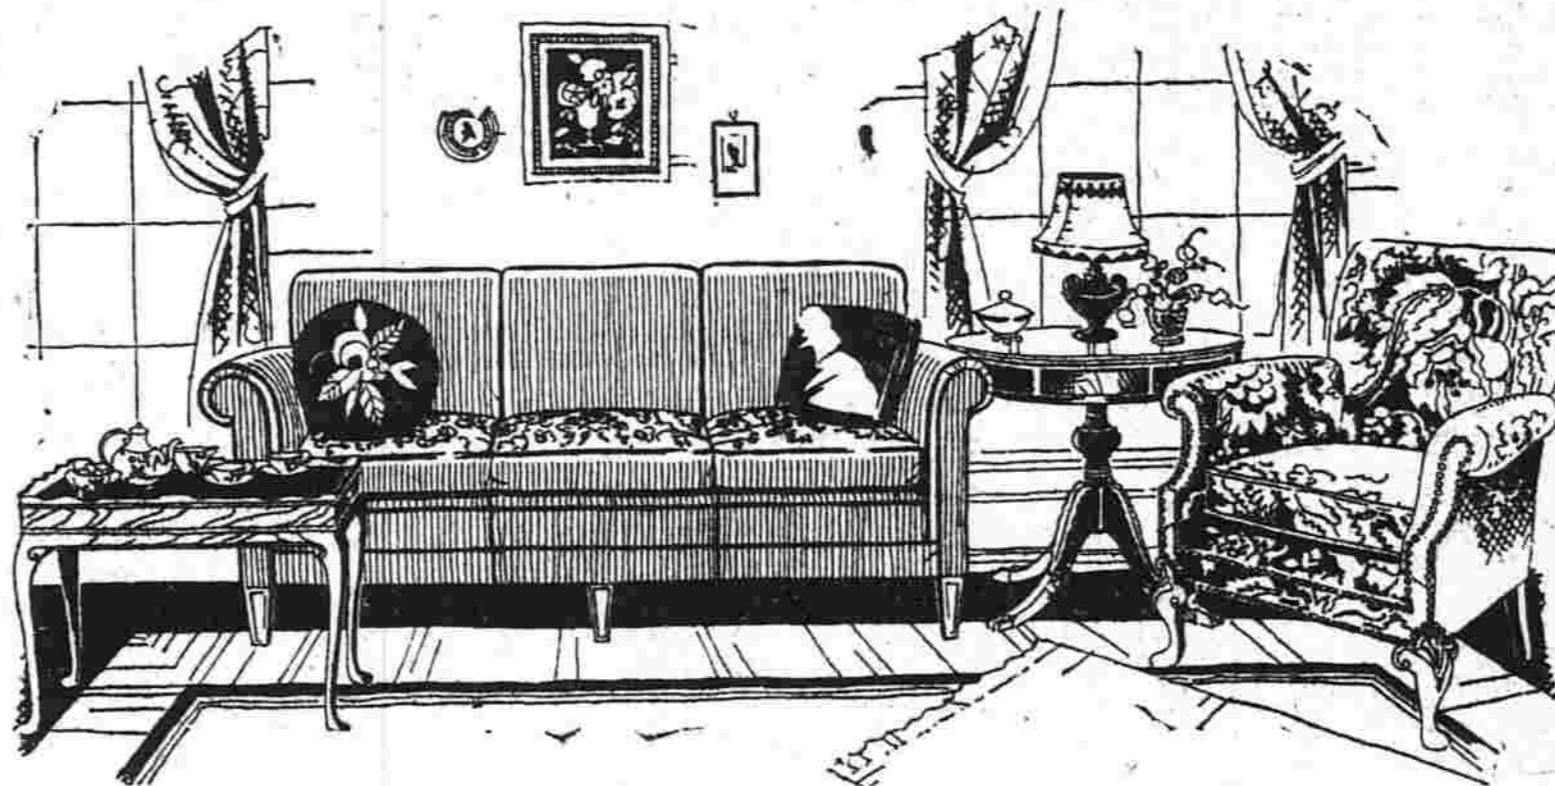

OUT-WESTERNED

That there are to be no more "westerns" seems to be the decision of the motion picture producers. The grey-eyed cowboy with the lightning pull is to shoot the bad two-gun man through the midriff no more. The broncho will have to chase his oats somewhere besides on the screen. The cow-girl must get a job with a circus or in a lingerie shop. The mining camp dance hall's lights are out. The false fronts on the movie lots will have to change their signs from "Last Chance" to "Hot Dogs." The end of a great and stirring epoch has been reached. And how?

Because the six-shooter is a dud alongside the machine gun; the

IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 6.—It was the brisk little city of Rushville, Ill., if you please, that presented New York with its most socially elegant and exclusive musicals.
And when the other day Albert Bagby gave the last of the Waldorf's "musical mornings," the mauve decade moved even a little closer to its fading horizon.
For Bagby it was who came an unknown lad to New York to breed a taste for culture into that particular circle which has lived in tradition as "the social 400." Himself a struggling music student, he had first gone to Germany to study and there had been a pupil of the immortal Liszt. Returning to Manhattan in the days of the "carriage trade," he made his modest bow as impresario and mentor at a time when the Waldorf was seeking to be the center of exclusive society at first.

The dowagers who led the New York parade hesitated about "taking up" this innovation. Music in the morning was unheard of, and there was much timidly associated with its final endorsement. One by one, however, the "better" people began to appear—and the rest felt they had to follow. Joon Bagby was bringing the world's most famous artists to their doors—Calve, Nordica, Melba and Sembrich.
To this day, the musical mornings have remained ultra-exclusive

—one of the few fashions of the nice nineties to survive the years. Now, they, too, are gone.
Speaking of things musical, the new Metropolitan Opera House which the Rockefellerers are engineering for Manhattan will be a veritable "music city."
Recently the oil kings, junior and senior, whose names have been almost foreign to operatic affairs, appeared suddenly upon the scene as heroes of a situation which had given considerable anxiety. For several seasons the Met has sought to leave behind its famous old quarters in midtown and build a newer and more modern house. On several occasions Otto Kahn, whom some have facetiously referred to as "the ghost of the opera," seemed to have dealt all out consummated, only to have them fail through. Then, almost out of a clear sky came the Rockefellerers with a big purchase of land in a section bounded by 43rd and 51st streets, Fifth and Sixth avenues.

This I am told, will be known as "Rockefeller City," a space encompassing something like 11 acres in the heart of the city. The new Met will center this area, so I am informed.
The plan for the opera itself, will be taken from the curious and world-famous medieval structure at Chester, England, a survival of the Roman occupation. Since the original was a military colony, a quaint and elaborate series of over-head sidewalks wove through the Chester buildings.

The same idea will be used in New York, connecting scores of mezzanine shops—most of which will be devoted to music. It will use the double advantage of greatly assisting the traffic condition, inasmuch as shoppers and browsers will be above the pavement—the first of the long suggested "overhead sidewalks" by the way. Death will be thorough.
Automobiles—and lines will get of the early conceptions of civilization be introduced to aid the last word in modern confusion.

Mothers Warned Against Too Much Dosing for Flu

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic lies in the complications which attack the weakened system. A peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestion, especially in case of children.

Too much "dosing" further upsets the digestive system and lowers the resistance to more serious diseases, such as bronchitis, sinus trouble, abscess of the middle ear, or even pneumonia.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting the digestion. Nor can it interfere with any other treatment your doctor may prescribe. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed. While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

J. C. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 93

He's The Man Who Knows Coolidge

James Lucey, Northampton Shoemaker Whose Homely Philosophy Helped Cal Int White House, Eagerly Awaits His Return.

Business is a little slack just now for James Lucey, Northampton, Mass., shoemaker, but he's happy because Calvin Coolidge, for 36 years a protégé of his, is coming back to live in the old home town.

Upper right is the Coolidge home in Northampton to which the president and his wife already are sending some of their furnishings.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

Northampton, Mass.—When Calvin Coolidge left the town, eight years ago to serve as vice-president, his old friend, the shoemaker James Lucey, accompanied him to the station and was the last to shake his hand. He wants to be the first to welcome him home after March fourth.

And when the boxes and crates from Washington are delivered at the Coolidge home, Lucey realizes the time is growing near, and that the man who, as president, wrote to him, "If it were not for you I would not be here," is actually coming back.

They Talked Together
For years ago, when Coolidge was a student and later a young politician, he made a habit of dropping into Lucey's shop and listening to the homely philosophies of the shoemaker.

"He could make his home anywhere in the world, and associate with the most famous, but he chooses to come home to his own folks," said Lucey.

The boxes and the reconditioning of the Coolidge home here are not the only foundation for his hopes. Lucey recently saw Coolidge in Washington.

She Remembered Them
"And all he talked about was his old Northampton friends," the shoemaker declared. "Why, he asked for everyone in town—hadn't forgotten a soul. If he had, Mrs. Coolidge remembered them. And she laughed about how when she was teaching here, before she was married, she used to walk down the hill past my shop, and leave her shoes to be fixed—that was before she knew Coolidge at all. And I swear, she is just as pretty and as lively as she was then."

This recent visit to Washington was one of three trips Lucey has made out of his native city. It was the high spot in a life that has not been colorful, except for its friendship with the president. Lucey regards Coolidge as the greatest man who has ever lived. And Lucey's white-haired companions regard Lucey with a not unflattering awe, because of his associations with greatness. Lucey asks no further favors from fate.

"I've wanted to see Coolidge—wanted to see him in his big chair ever since he was president," said Lucey, "but I didn't want to rush down as if I had an axe to grind. So I waited until he was about ready to get out. And the thing that pleased me most when I saw him was that he looked better than I ever saw him look."
"When he came in my shop once—after he'd taken the upper perch, I said to him, 'I'm giving you no advice about this nation, Cal, but about yourself. Don't wear yourself out on the job. It's killed some of our best men.' I guess he followed it, for he looks fine and healthy, and I can't see where he's put on a year."
Lucey stayed for lunch at the White House.

"Mrs. Coolidge had given a dinner for 78 people in the same room the night before, so the four of us that sat down were just a speck in the big room. The White House is beautiful, but not exactly homelike. I bet Mrs. Coolidge will be glad to be back in a more cozy place."

Lucey doesn't remember what they had to eat, except that they had plenty. He has an impression of shining silver and flowers, and such a succession of courses that his dessert went untouched.

Had Official Car
After luncheon Lucey found the president's car at his disposal for sightseeing. On his other two days he had an official car.

"I didn't ask the president about his plans for the future," Lucey became dignified and aloof as the very idea. "I've known him now for 36 years—too long and too well to ask about his own affairs. He's quiet, and he's careful, and he isn't always having to take back what he says. That's why he is where he is today. He was sensible, always. When the other young bloods around here were talking about what they were going to do, he was keeping quiet and doing things."

The town will be mighty proud to have him back, and Mrs. Coolidge will be glad to be where she can see her mother often and look after her. She's been in the hospital here, you know, for more than a year."

Few Shoes to Mend
In Lucey's shop are autographed pictures of Coolidge, the framed letter in which he credits Lucey with a part in his success, and pictures of the home folks saying good-bye to Coolidge when he went to Washington. "That's me right beside him," Lucey points out eagerly.

Lucey is 19 years older than the president, and admits he is getting on in years, though he feels as fit as ever. If business is slack now, and rubbers keep soles and heels from needing repair work, he doesn't mind because it gives him more time to discuss weighty matters with the old customers that drop in for a talk instead of a half-sole.

A QUICK WAY TO END BABY'S UPSET SPELLS

"Like other young mothers, I worried every time Baby cried," says a Syracuse, N. Y., woman. "Several times when she was upset or constipated, I tried castor oil but she couldn't retain it. Our doctor told me to try Fletcher's Castoria because it is harmless and babies like it. That ended my worries and I've used it since for all my children." Castoria never fails to delight mothers by the quick way it ends those upsets of babies and children, such as colic, constipation, colds, etc. That's the reason for its tremendous sale and popularity. Like all good things, it's limited, but genuine Castoria—the purely-vegetable product—always bears the Fletcher signature.

"WHITE SHADOWS" IS COLORFUL PICTURE

Opens at State Today With Music and Sound Effects.

Love under the tropic moon—grim shadows of the money-hungry white man—fantastic scenery; for a long, gorgeous, but terrible—thrilling drama of a dying race.

These factors all contribute to make "White Shadows in the South Seas" one of the most spectacular films of the current season.

In addition to this, the entire production was filmed with special synchronized music and sound effects. Not only do you actually see the dramatic thrills that occur throughout the production, but you hear the lilting strains of dreamy Hawaiian guitars, the singing of the natives and many other notable features.

"White Shadows" has the reputation of being the only picture of its kind that was "made where the story's laid." The beautiful and picturesque Hawaiian islands were used by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer during the filming of the photoplay.

Monte Blue and beautiful Raquel Torres have the leading roles and the supporting cast is made up entirely of real genuine Hawaiian native actors. W. S. Van Dyke directed.

THE BLACK PIGEON

©1929 By NEA Service, Inc. ANNE AUSTIN

Even in death he looked handsome. His still face, very white against the polished dark brown wood of the floor.

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

RUTH LESTER, beautiful secretary to "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter of dubious stock companies, becomes engaged to JACK HAYWARD, whose office is just across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

On a Saturday morning in January, Borden has two women callers. The first is RITA DU-BOIS, night club dancer, who is to accompany him for a week-end at Winter Haven. The second caller is MRS. BORDEN, Borden's wife and mother of his two children, who comes for her monthly allowance which the promoter forces her to ask for his person.

Learning her husband is busy she agrees to return, but before leaving glimpses a pistol in Ruth's desk. Rita leaves and Borden waves goodbye with a torn bank note, reminding her of her "bar-gain."

While Ruth takes dictation, Borden makes a playful pass at her and she screams, attracting Jack's attention in the opposite office. Jack is furious and threatens Borden across the way. He is still angry when he tells him for lunch. Ruth forgets her bank book and rushes back to the office where she brushes her lip. Jack believes Borden hurt her but Ruth insists he is wrong. At the luncheon table Jack says he left their theater tickets on his desk and returns in 29 minutes, returning strangely perturbed. This mood persists throughout the matinee and re-appears again when he calls Sunday night. At the office Monday morning Ruth gets on Borden's private office and rummages for pictures that gather on the window ledge. Her eyes fix in horror on the thing sprawled near the window on the floor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII
Slowly, the stiff feeling as stiff and cold, Ruth Lester backed toward the door which led into her own office, her hand groping for the knob, in a desperate need for something to cling to. For her whole world was whirling madly about her. But her staring, un-winking blue eyes could not tear themselves away from the sight which filled them—the prostrate body of her employer, "Handsome Harry" Borden.

Even in death he looked handsome. His still face, very white against the polished dark brown wood of the floor and in contrast with the sleek blackness of his un-ruffled hair, was pillowed upon his up-flung left arm, so that he looked as if he slept. But the right arm, not that of a man, but of a creature of the peace of sleep. From beneath the slightly raised right shoulder she had fallen upon his side—something which had once been warm and red had spurted, forming a dark, irregularly shaped pool, dry now at the edges.

Her groping hand found the door knob, and she swung it, swaying dizzily for a moment. Then, frenziedly taking the place of stunned horror, she banged the door upon that ghastly sight and staggered across her own office, both hands reaching for the outer door.

When she had come in, she had left it on the latch, so that visitors to the office might gain access, and as she let it swing shut behind her fleeing, horror-stricken figure, she had the impulse, born of long habit, to click on the latch, so that no one could enter during her absence. "Nobody can hurt him now. He needn't be afraid of unlocked doors any more." Ruth's mind bubbled crazily, as she ran down the hall, past the suite of offices that lay beyond Borden's, toward the corner, raced on.

From the very first moment of discovery there had been only one thing that had been clear to her. The journey along the two corridors had never seemed long to her before, but now she felt as if she would never reach the man she was engaged to, the man who was to be her husband. She must see Jack. The man who had been pushed upward from her sub-conscious mind, she veered her thoughts.

Two men who had offices in Jack's wing of the Starbridge Building looked at the white-faced, running girl, but she did not see them, did not hear one of them call out to her. If she had, she would not have answered. No one but Jack would do now, and he . . . Oh, no, no!

She found his outer office door closed, but not locked, tore it open, gasped out Jack's name to the girl who was calmly opening mail.

"Mr. Hayward? Yes, he's here, or rather, he's in the building. Just stepped out of the office a minute. Won't you wait for him?" Miss Barnes asked, her light-brown eyes talking Ruth in curiously, then with a little cynical half smile, which betrayed her thought that the engaged couple had quarreled already. "Go right into his private office, Miss Lester. I'll see if I can find him for you. I think he went into the typewriter agency next door."

Ruth had no power to listen, did not know that she shut the door of Jack's private office upon the uncompleted sentence of his secretary. Gasping, her hand pressed hard upon her heart, she sank down into Jack's desk chair, her whole body trembling so that the chair quivered and squeaked.

If only Jack would come! Come quickly and take her in his arms, and tell her what to do, tell her that he had not been hurt; not that! She mustn't go mad, with so much to do. . . . Afterwards, Ruth had no memory of reaching a shaking hand down, down to the bottom drawer of Jack Hayward's desk, no memory at all of jerking it open. But her memory began, receding to a moment of such transcendent horror as was never to be entirely erased from her mind.

Every finger of her groping hand seemed to have an eye, as if her wide, terrified blue eyes were not enough to see all the ways in the world could not have found a automatic pistol in the drawer, for it was not there.

For a frantic minute, kneeling now beside that pulled-out drawer, she pawed among the soiled towels and rubber-banded bundles of ancient life insurance "literature" but she knew that the thing she had never had the courage to touch but which she would do now, if she had found it, have hugged to her breast in a transport of relief and joy, was not there—not there.

She heard Jack's voice in the outer office. Rose trembling and nauseated, from her kneeling position. Held tightly to his desk for support as she faced him.

"Hello, darling! Sweet of you to pay me a good morning visit." His cheerful voice began. Then he saw her white, stricken face, the horror in her widened blue eyes. "What's up, what's up, Ruth? Wait! Hold everything! Jack's here, sweet!"

And his arms were about her, steadying her, holding her close against his heart. Her fingers dug into his shoulders. "Mr. Borden! He's dead! Murdered! Blood! Jack—oh! What am I to do? The police—oh, Jack!"

The young man's arms went lax for a moment, then tightened about her so that she gasped for breath. "God! That you had to see it!" His exclamation, uttered on jerky breath, might mean anything—anything!

Ruth struggled in his arms, hid her eyes against her elbow. "My fault! I—I screamed! If only I hadn't screamed, Jack! I won't have to tell the police, will I, Jack? I'll lie, Jack! Nobody will have a know! I'll lie!"

As from a great distance, Ruth heard him turn the knob of the door which she had closed upon the thing which had been "Handsome Harry" Borden.

He must be looking . . . Oh, how could he? His automatic gone from the drawer of his desk. . . . That heavy briefcase which he had not let out of his possession in after he had returned to her at luncheon, during the whole of the matinee. . . . "Check your hat and coat and bag, sir. . . . Jack's scowl at the boy, his curt refusal, and all the time, even when they were holding hands across the briefcase, that horrible thing of blue steel had been there.

Oh, no, no! Ruth wrenched her mind back, forced it to reconstruct the events of Saturday afternoon. But that, too, was more than her mind could bear, without shuddering away and being dragged back. . . . Her bruised lip, Jack's white-hot anger against Borden, his refusal to believe that it had not been Borden who had hurt her. . . . His threats, insanely uttered in the presence of Mickey Moran, the elevator operator. . . . She had to hold him back with all her strength to keep him from forcing his way into Borden's offices. . . . His declaration that he had forgotten the theater tickets, his return to his office to get them, or had he intended to do what—oh, she mustn't say it, even to herself! Again that agonized wrenching of her mind, to bring it back to the subject, no matter how horrible it was. . . . Had Jack seen Borden near the stairs?

Oh, God, why had the architect set two windows exactly opposite each other, so terribly close? . . . Had Jack furiously delivered an ultimatum to Borden about her? Had they quarreled then, so that Jack's fury became insanity? That was easier than to snatch his automatic from the drawer of his desk and fire at Borden, drawn to his own window by the quarrel?

Suddenly Ruth's small body was galvanized with purpose. If Jack had done this thing, he had done it for her—for her! He had committed a deadly sin, but he had done it to protect her. And now, before the police came, she could do something for him.

"Where are you going, Ruth?" Jack demanded harshly. "Stay out of this! It's no sight for your eyes. Stop, I tell you!"

"Oh, let me go!" Ruth sobbed, tearing at his hands. "I've got to go! I've got to do it before the police come! Don't you understand?"

"For what? Are you crazy? Please, darling, get control of yourself! It wasn't your fault, really! The man deserved to die."

"Don't say that again! I can't bear it!" Ruth screamed. "Don't you realize?—I've got to close the window before the police come!"

He let her go, or her strength for the moment was greater than his, for she flung herself upon the connecting door, tore at the knob until it yielded, stepped in—then stumbled backward into Jack's arms.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

FOREIGN BODIES FOUND IN HEAD, LUNGS, HEART.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Children not infrequently swallow all sorts of unusual substances. Workers in factories occasionally are penetrated by flying portions of machinery; soldiers are hit by missiles of one type or another, and these may remain over long periods of time in the human body without causing any disturbance. Eventually reactions may begin which result in death. Sometimes bullets or nails get into the body and may be carried along, by the blood stream to the lungs or to the heart, and there be lodged temporarily without immediate effect, later setting up disturbances which may cause death.

The Soldiers' Heads. Two French investigators examined by the use of the X-ray the heads of 20 soldiers who were suffering with mental disturbance, and found foreign bodies in the heads of thirty, in only one of whom there was any suspicion that a portion of a bullet might be within the skull.

In 19 cases the missiles were in the soft part of the bone near the eye, and in eight within the skull itself. One soldier was troubled by a bullet found in his buttock, the bullet having entered through one shoulder while he was lying on the ground. Another soldier had a certificate stating that a piece of shrapnel was in his right lung, and the fragment was found in his hip. In the heart. In three cases pieces of shell were found by the X-ray to be within the heart, where they moved about constantly with the motion of the blood.

Examination of one of the soldiers with a piece of shell in the heart one year later indicated that

Q.—What causes itching of the skin?
A.—There are numerous causes of itching of the skin, varying from infestation or infection to causes within the body. Extreme itching is a problem for careful medical diagnosis.

the piece of metal had become anchored. None of the three men with pieces of shell in the heart had any idea of the presence of the foreign substances, nor did it seem to discommode them in any way.

Such investigations are an indication of the great resistance of the human body to disturbances of various sorts. Were it not for this fact, the amount of sickness and death would be far greater than it is.

NO SMELL.

Cabbage is perfectly delicious, and has no smell whatsoever when cooking if you cut it in small bits and cook 12 minutes in boiling salt water, uncovered. Serve with butter. If you have never known cabbage cooked in this way you will be surprised at what a delicate dish it is.

Simplicity Is Keynote of Jacobean Furniture

The same simplicity and restraint which characterized the Colonial period in the Americas is seen in Britain's Jacobean era, which mirrored the history of the island kingdom in the seventeenth century. The period has three divisions: Stuart, Cromwell, and Restoration, and while little of importance developed in comparison with the work of the 18th century craftsmen the period is interesting for the rise of many motifs now considered fundamental. Straight, high-seated chairs of solid wood and very rectangular with footstools; modifications of the Italian; melon-legged refectory tables are the contribution of the first portion of the period. Anything lavish or showy in furniture disappeared under the stern and puritanical Cromwell.

In the reign of Charles II, with the restoration came the Flemish influence. Cabinet makers from Flanders brought with them to England, the scroll in the form of the letter S, and the spiral twist—(carving in the leg of a chair or table like the spiral puttee of the American doughboy).

Like Tudor furniture Jacobean is usually oak although some walnut was used mahogany pieces and rocking chairs in the Jacobean style can be bought but are not authentic historically. Rocking chairs were an Early American invention. Large interiors, dining rooms with paneled walls and beam ceilings are needed as a setting for Jacobean suites.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SCHUBERT

The Secretary of Labor is playing a role of grand arbitrator in one of these "fool women" quarrels. To be sure, he's too polite to call it that, but we can just imagine. The Women's Bureau of the department of labor recently finished a job of research on the effects of labor legislation upon the employment opportunities of women. The report was to the effect that such legislation helped rather than retarded woman's employment opportunities.

Claim Report Blasted The National Woman's Party which, of course, resents special protective legislation for women, claiming that women lose jobs, cannot get jobs, and must take lower wages than men because of this so-called protective legislation, claims that the report was biased, being made by an association which has always sponsored protective legislation and which, therefore, would not report any findings contrary to their own platform.

How About It? Well, how about it, all ye poor working girls, have you suffered or benefitted most from laws which protect you in industry? Have you been unable to find and keep jobs because of these laws, or do they merely make you less someone responsible for sanitary wash rooms, comfortable chairs, and shorter working days?

'Nother Row Here's another cute little row in the works. The United Restaurant Owners' Association vigorously protests to the Federal Radio Commission the permitting of cigaret propaganda on the air. The association calls the cigaret talks "a flagrant assault against public welfare, trying to transform the school girls, the growing boys and the youth of the country into confirmed cigaret addicts, regardless of the

by Olive Roberts Barton

"I don't want to go to a girl's party."
"But, Richard, it's Jane's party. You know Jane so well—you've played with her all your life. Jane isn't just a girl."
"Yes, she is. None of the fellows want to go. They don't like girl's parties. They don't like girls at all."
"Well, what on earth has come over all of you? I declare I can't understand it. I thought your crowd were all little gentlemen, but you're acting like a bunch of ninnyes. Jane's mother has gone to a lot of trouble and I know she won't understand it. You'll just have to go, Richard, whether you want to or not. And I think the other boys' mothers will make them go too."
And so it happened. The boys all went, but they hung around like clodhoppers and were about as agreeable and polite as young Tomcats.

Never had a crowd of boys acted so terribly before! They were literally bored to death! Never would Jane's mother invite one of them to her house again! Word went round to the various mothers, who in turn were so chagrined they didn't know what to do. They didn't know that all over Christendom, and then some, other groups of mothers were despairing about other groups of "ungentlemanly" boys who had lost their taste for girls, just as these were now doing. And that mothers of girls were almost as desperate because their daughters had turned shy and awkward and self-conscious and lost their ability to be pals with the boys they had always played with.

The Old Story It will always be so. Boys and girls play together almost unconsciously of each other until they are ten or eleven or twelve years old. Then comes the dawning of difference which we are pleased to call sex.

The first reaction to it is this withdrawal, that perplexes so many parents. It is entirely natural, but it will disappear. Later they will be friends again but in a newer relation. During this time it is excellent for parents to become very close and companionable to their developing children, and in a tactful, kindly way, as friend to friend, tell them some of the truths of life.

A book on Social Hygiene would be of help.

OUT OF THE PAST

This picture is not particularly antique, but it is one of the rarest and most remarkable that ever has been taken. It is one of the few pictures in existence that shows Joe Beckett, the former British heavyweight champion, in the ring — ON HIS FEET.

Beckett was probably the most knocked-out champion in the history of fistcuffs. When he finished his bout in a vertical position, it was regarded as a worthy achievement, and when he stopped an opponent the news was heralded far and wide as an unparalleled novelty.

At least, Beckett can point with pride to the prominent names in the list of those who have sent him to dreamland. Georges Carpentier stopped him in a few seconds. It took Frank Moran two rounds, however, to turn the trick, which stands as one of the black marks on his record.

But this picture proves that the impossible can happen. To the amazement of the spectators, Beckett knocked out Sergeant Dick Smith. He had just delivered the K. O. wallop when the cameraman got busy.

Locals Ahead Until Last Ten Minutes; Addition of Donahue Great Help to Winners; Experience Telling Factor; Bristol Saturday.

Strengthened greatly on the defense by the acquisition of "Jiggs" Donahue of Holyoke, former Bristol Endee center, New Britain succeeded in handing the Rec Five its first defeat on the Rec court last night in a bitterly-fought struggle which ended with New Britain resting comfortable on the top of a 38 to 30 score.

By TOM STOWE

Age and experience were a telling factor in deciding the struggle and Al Sloman of Hudson, N. Y., now enrolled at Arnold's College in New Haven, was the hero of the day for New Britain. This Jewish lad, held scoreless the first half by Captain "Hap" Madden, broke loose the second half and tossed in seven field goals. Two were made off Ev Strange who entered the game when Madden went out on personal fouls with eight minutes left to play.

The defeat was the second for the Rec in 16 games and the first suffered on its own floor. They can't win 'em all, you know. The largest crowd of the season overtopped the Rec gymnasium. It was officially stated that the attendance was over 700. Saturday night the Rec Five is scheduled to meet the powerful Bristol Endees in the Bell City. A victory for the Rec in this game would greatly offset the result of last night's game. However, Bristol is probably the strongest team in the state at present and rules a big favorite to beat the Rec.

YOU and BASKETBALL

By H. C. Carlson, M. D. University of Pittsburgh Coach.

In the four-man offensive—man ahead of the ball—four men are used in combination in handling the ball and the fifth is in defensive territory. The man handling the ball has two men on one side of the floor in front of him and one man opposite the two men.

You can follow, on the accompanying diagram, the working of this four-man defense. Note in "a" that No. 1 makes his pass to No. 2 alone on his side. No. 1 makes the pass but does not advance too far because he may need to cut back very quickly. No. 2 fakes to No. 4 close to the basket, but passes back to No. 3, as you can see in "b."

Men of the employ of the Manchester Electric Company are at work this morning changing the location of the wires on the pole on Park street, just opposite Church street, to prevent a conflict with the telephone cable and wires and those of the South Manchester fire alarm system.

The inspection that was made after the small fire at West Center and Dougherty streets, has proved that Building Inspector Edward C. Elliott, Jr., and L. N. Heebner, of the Manchester Electric Company, were correct in believing that the wiring was not defective. They have seen the cable through which the wire was run and have found that a nail was driven through it and that this broke the small wires inside, but not sufficient, they feel, to cause the fire. A new section of cable and wire has been put in and the section where the nail was driven through is being kept as an exhibit of the care that should be taken in driving nails to connect the cables in a building.

PHONES Pinehurst
"GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

NEARLY A DECADE.

Almost ten years ago Pinehurst began business on this assumption—that in Manchester there were many people too busy with the more important affairs of life to waste thousands of their hours in the physical details of marketing; people who would gladly avail themselves of real service—time saving, thought saving service—combined with absolute assurance of food qualities and of honorable fair dealing and fair pricing along with the "Good Things to Eat." And that there were enough such people to assure such a store of a sound business, if it could obtain their patronage.

We were right. For those almost ten years Pinehurst's patronage has been steadily growing—not in great leaps nor by fits and starts, but continually, evenly. Its business is still gradually growing, each month, each year showing a gain. Service, fair dealing, fair pricing and absolute fidelity to quality standards in all foods sold—these things have done the trick.

One of the elements of service that has been helping to make the business grow of late are the two new deliveries. One at 8 o'clock in the morning which brings your order, phoned overnight or very early in the day, to your kitchen door long before the noon meal; so long before that all haste and worry are avoided. Another is at 1 in the afternoon reaching the home so early that Madame the Housewife has the goods in her home before she goes out for the afternoon to theater, to bridge, to shop or whatever. Scores of friends have been made for Pinehurst by these two conveniences alone. There are other deliveries, of course. All day.
