

STORM FLOODS CELLARS AND STREETS HERE

Heavy Rainfall Gives Plenty of Trouble All Over Town; Water Backs Up In Sew- ers.

Although the unusually heavy rain storm last night removed the coating of ice which has made many highways here treacherous for travel, it also did some damage and caused a great deal of inconvenience. The cellars of many homes were flooded in the lower sections of the town where surface water sewers are lacking.

Probably the places most seriously affected was the hollow below Cooper and West Center streets where the storm water rushing down High streets overflowed the highway and went into adjacent lots on both sides of the street, especially the south side.

Forms Big Pond.

A pond two or three acres in area was created beside the home of Oscar Schuetz at 82 West Center street flooding the cellar to the extent of over two feet. Mr. Schuetz said it was the worst he has known in 18 years. The water was so deep it was impossible to get into the cellar to turn off the gas. Vegetables stored in the cellar were badly damaged.

The water came close to several other houses in the vicinity and entered the cellar of the new house owned by E. J. Holl which he bought recently from Andrew Rakuski and which is not occupied at present. The West Side playgrounds were flooded over on the south side and in some cases came shortly. Manchester people will have an excellent place for skating with bleachers also provided.

Fell All Night

The rain fell from early last evening intermittently until about 11 o'clock this morning when it turned into a drizzle. During the night the rain fell in torrents, especially in the wee hours of the morning. Daybreak found the gutters a whirling stream of water which in many cases covered the entire streets and in a few instances even overflowed the curbs.

The storm put an end to ice harvesting and also to skating. The latter sport has been enjoyed over a longer period this season than in ten or fifteen years, it is believed. L. T. Wood, Manchester's biggest ice dealer, had planned to start his major harvest at Globe Hollow Reservoir this morning but it will require at least a week of cold weather to make the ice suitable

LINDY FINISHES PANAMA FLIGHT

Delivers First Mail Ever Flown from United States to Canal Zone.

Balboa, Canal Zone, Feb. 7.—Having delivered the first consignment of air mail ever flown from the United States to the Panama Canal Zone, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today rested from his arduous three day journey by watching the maneuvers of the United States fleet in Panama bay from the airplane-carrier Saratoga.

Landing at France Field near Cristobal and Miami Sunday morning, he will follow the same route as on the way down. Col. John A. Hambleton, vice-president of the Pan American Airways, and H. L. Buskey, the radio operator and mechanic, who made the flight from Miami, will make the return flight. The mail plane is expected back in Miami late Tuesday.

About 700 miles were covered yesterday in 6 hours and 45 minutes. The mail plane left Managua at 6:40 a. m., reached Punta Arenas, Costa Rica at 3:27 a. m., soared aloft again at 10:15 a. m., arriving at David, Panama at 12:45 p. m., and leaving that place on the last leg to the Canal Zone at 1:40 p. m.

Col. Lindbergh stated that he encountered good weather all the way down from Miami.

POST SEEKERS ARE BOTHERING NEW PRESIDENT

Southern Leaders Demand Recognition Because of Upset in Election—More Candidates in the Field.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 7.—A large thorn known as southern patronage appeared to be marring the peace and comfort of President-Elect Hoover today. In fact, it seemed to have driven so deep into the pre-inauguration vacation here in Florida that it was generally regarded as being responsible for Mr. Hoover's sudden decision to isolate himself from all visitors for the greater part of next week.

Demand after demand is pouring into Hoover headquarters here for bigger and better recognition of the south in the matter of doling out federal jobs of all descriptions. The fact that Florida, Virginia, North Carolina, Texas and Tennessee went Republican last fall has given certain southern Republicans a lever that is proving more embarrassing to Mr. Hoover than he imagined during the first few days after the votes were in. These groups were responsible for the Hoover victory in certain southern sections.

A Different Story.
Meanwhile in Washington, the special Brookhart committee of the Senate is turning up charge after charge of Republican job bartering by very shady politics in the not-so-south-south. Virtually everyone of the recognized veterans Republican leaders in Dixie has received at least a smattering of the tar brush. Mr. Hoover is being besieged not only by this element but by the reform element as well. The former want any, and everything they can lay their hands on; the other group want Cabinet recognition, with the appointment going to some outstanding man not generally regarded as practical politician.

New Candidates.
The latest southern politician to see the president-elect was Claudius Huston, now of New York, but formerly of Tennessee. Huston, who was one of "Gold Dust Twins" who raised most of the tremendous Harding campaign fund in 1920, likewise is the man who introduced Mr. Hoover to Col. Horace A. Mann and thus brought about the latter's appointment as a southern campaign manager last year.

Just before Huston's visit, Mr. Hoover conferred with Col. Henry W. Anderson, one-time candidate for governor of Virginia on a "reform" platform which would restore the negro's franchise. What Huston wanted, if anything, he failed to reveal, but Anderson was more outspoken. Anderson thought the south should be represented in the Cabinet, and many interpreted the interview to mean he would not advocate to being the lucky man himself.

Another Caller.
Glenn B. Skipper, Republican national committeeman for Florida, as a result of the "reform" movement, the sweep George Bean out of that office, also has been a caller

STEWART'S CHANCES FOR VICTORY GOOD

Fighting Colonel's Move in Cutting Big Melon to Help His Side.

BY W. S. COUSINS.
I. N. S. Financial Editor.

New York, Feb. 7.—The "Battle of the Century" in the business world, the fight of the Rockefeller, senior and junior, to force Col. Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana board, enters upon its last lap today, with the battle line sharply drawn and the opposing forces training their biggest guns upon the camps of their opponents.

From conversations I have had with Col. Robert Stewart, his legal representatives and prominent backers in Wall street, and from calculations made by the avowed supporters of the Rockefellers in and out of Wall street, I estimate that at this writing the Rockefeller side have not better than a fifty-fifty chance to oust the fighting colonel from the post he has occupied as head of the most progressive and fastest-growing of the Standard Oil family. Col. Stewart was in town today but does not wish to discuss the situation at this time.

Colonel in Power.
It is, of course, difficult to lay a direct finger upon the attachment and leanings of holders of thousands of shares of stock; but there is no doubt that the colonel has made a master stroke by order-

Toral Gets Respite

Pictures from the trial of Jose de Leon Toral, sentenced to death for assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon of Mexico, are shown here. Toral was to have been executed by a firing squad at daybreak but a last minute respite delayed the action. Mother Maria Concepcion, accomplice, was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. Toral is shown above appealing to the jury and sitting in his cell. Mother Concepcion is pictured to the right with the soldier.

CHURCH-STATE DISPUTE IN ITALY NOW SETTLED

Conflict That Lasted Over Half a Century Finally Ended—To Form a "Vati- can City."

Rome, Feb. 7.—The conflict existing between the Catholic church and the Italian state for upwards of half a century has been settled. Announcement of a solution of the Roman question was made today by Cardinal Gasparri, Papal secretary of state, to the diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican.

It is understood that Pope Pius XI will hold a secret consistory at the Vatican on Tuesday when announcement of the settlement will be made to the Cardinals.

Cardinal Gasparri stated that all the nuncios had received instructions to inform their respective governments of the settlement. The cardinal, however, did not detail the terms.

Important Event
Settlement of this long standing conflict is regarded as one of the most important events in modern church history as it elevates the Holy See to the power and prestige it held before 1870 when the Pontiffs held temporal sway.

It is understood there are some details of the general treaty still to be worked out, notably the rights of Catholic ecclesiastics.

Immediately after signing the agreement steps will be taken to

TO REMOVE KING

London, Feb. 7.—That King George will be removed to the sea coast soon was indicated by the following official medical bulletin issued by royal physicians at Buckingham palace at 11:45 o'clock this forenoon.

"Though the stage of convalescence has not yet arrived, His Majesty's progress is such that the proposed change to the south coast is now desirable."

Lord Dawson of Penn personally selected the specially built ambulance in which King George will be carried to Craigwell House, Bognor, on the Sussex coast.

No decision has been reached as to the date when the King will be taken to Bognor.

PROF. PHELPS BETTER.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 7.—Professor William Lyon Phelps came back to Yale today after an illness of six weeks in Savannah, Ga., where he suffered three separate attacks of influenza.

BRIEF SESSION OF LEGISLATURE SETS A RECORD

Members Take But 15 Min- utes to Handle All the Business Before Them; Several Re-appointments.

Hartford, Feb. 7.—Fifteen minutes of actual sitting was the record set by the State Legislature today. The Senate recessed twice and the House once during the morning, and then accomplished all the business handed in for action. The motor vehicle commissioner and the tax commissioner were assured of continuing in office as the Senate voted unanimous approval of their re-appointments by Governor John H. Trumbull, and a number of judgeship resolutions were adopted.

THE SENATE.

Hartford, Feb. 7.—The Senate today received favorable reports from the judiciary committee and passed two judgeship resolutions: Abner P. Hayes, and John F. McGrath to be judges of the City Court of Waterbury.

The judiciary committee sent the Senate favorable reports on Governor Trumbull's nominations of George B. Kimball, of New Britain, to be state water commissioner for six years; William H. Blodgett, of Winsted, to be tax commissioner for four years; and Robbins B. Siockel, of Norfolk, to be motor vehicle commissioner for four years. In each case the report was accepted and the nomination approved by the Senate.

City Court Judges.

The governor transmitted to the Senate recommendation for the appointment of Stanley P. Dunn and Sheridan T. Whitaker, to be judges of the City Court of New Haven, for two years. These were referred to the judiciary committee.

THE HOUSE.

Hartford, Feb. 7.—The House today received a favorable report from the judiciary committee on a group of resolutions and passed them under suspension of rules as follows:

John E. Fiske, judge of the City Court of Rocky Hill, and Edgar B. Dawkins, associate judge to fill a vacancy and also for a full term.

George R. Torrey, judge, and

U. S. NAVY IN NEED OF 10,000 SAILORS

Big Problem is to Find the Men to Man the New Cruisers.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The Navy's greatest problem in connection with carrying out the new cruiser program, was declared today to be finding the men to man the ships.

Even before the fifteen new cruisers will be completed, the navy will need 2,000 enlisted men to man the five 10,000 ton cruisers out of the eight now building which will be ready within the next 18 months, it was said.

So serious is the situation with regard to these five ships that Captain R. A. Koch, of the planning section of the enlisted personnel division, has just completed a tour of naval stations to see if 2,000 men could be withdrawn from other duty.

Two Women Killed In A Duel With Axes

Both women were prospective mothers. The man involved, said

NEGRO KID FINDS $18,000 IN GEMS

Gives Them Away to His Friends But They Are Re- covered and He Gets $3,000 Reward.

Fredericksburg, Va., Feb. 7.—Clifton Tyler, eight years old and as black as the earth, became possessed today of more money than he ever knew there was in his wide, white world.

A generous lady in the person of Mrs. J. M. Ansell of Bridgeport, Conn., thankfully retrieved a purse containing about $18,000 in jewels, lost while motoring between here and Richmond, and Clifton was lifted to sudden and undreamed affluence by a reward said to be $3,000.

Clifton is of a generous turn of mind, too. He found the bag while going to school. The trinkets and things were pretty, so he distributed them generously among his small colored acquaintances. He kept only one diamond ring for himself.

Prices rounded up the jewels without much difficulty when they learned of it.

RICE CASE IS DUE FOR SPEEDY TRIAL

Bench Warrant May Take Case Directly to Hartford Superior Court.

Willimantic, Conn., Feb. 7.—Indications today point to the possibility that the trial of Trenor Rice will be transferred from a town court hearing here to the Superior Court in Hartford. Should Rice be indicted for the murder of his friend, County Detective William Jackson, by the special Grand Jury which will assemble next Monday, County Attorney Howard S. Bradford will request a bench warrant for the arrest of Rice and move for a speedy trial before the Superior Court.

A State Victory

This would also rob the defense counsel of any knowledge of the State's case against the accused man. It would prove an initial victory for the State, because the defense would not know the details of the State's case until Rice goes to trial in Superior Court. One of the State's most important witnesses, it is said, will be Miss Eva Ellis of 38 Mansfield avenue, who reported that she saw the figure of a man walking swiftly in the rear of the State Club in Willimantic in a direct line between the Jackson

EXTERMINATORS HELD IN OLD WOMAN'S DEATH

Used Cyanide Gas to Kill Pests and Woman Upstairs Is Killed.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 7.—Employees of the Birchard System Co., a concern doing a large business in exterminating house pests, were summoned before Coroner James J. Corrigan today to explain circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. John Shelly, 22, who was overcome apparently by cyanide gas in her apartment at 1036 Chapel street, late yesterday, and died despite medical attention. Barney Powell and Elmer Skog, the men who applied the gas to an apartment beneath the Shelly apartment, were closely questioned behind closed doors. Warrants are expected to be issued as a result of the examination.

Mrs. Catherine S. Nolan, 51, daughter of Mrs. Shelly, also was overcome and is in St. Raphael's hospital where her recovery is expected. Mrs. Nolan told officials she had not been warned of the application of gas in the apartment below hers.

HERO BACK HOME

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 7.—Captain George Fried came back to his childhood haunts today.

The rescuer of the crew of the Italian freighter Florida, accompanied by Mrs. Fried, returned to his "old home town," where as a small boy, he sold newspapers.

It was Worcester's second reception to the modest sea hero. Three years ago, following his rescue of the crew of the British steamship Antiope, Captain Fried was given a great welcome by the citizens of Worcester, where lives his sister.

Federal Reserve Board's Warning Creates Wildest Confusion in Wall Street; Prices Drop from 5 to 15 Points at Opening of Ex- change—Bank of England Raises Its Rates to Stop Exportation of Gold.

New York, Feb. 7.—With the Stock Market crashing wide open at times and prices dropping anywhere from one to 25 points, Wall street today experienced what perhaps the most spectacular session since the big Hoover "Bull" markets last November.

The "bears" were in the saddle today, however. It was unique in that the heavy selling was caused by the publication of opinions rather than an unfavorable development in business, such as the failure of a big company or the loss of money in an ambitious venture. The opinion was expressed by the Federal Reserve Bank Board that too much bank credit has been used in stock speculation. This "Broke" the market.

Prices slumped 1 to 15 points at the opening. At midday they rallied, recovering about half of these losses. In early afternoon they fell off again, this latter weakness being induced by the possibility that directors of the New York Federal Reserve bank might raise the rediscount rate after the close of the market.

At 2 p. m., an hour before the close, the market was at the weak point of the session so far, with Radio Corporation of America selling at 34 1/2, a decline of 25 points from last night's close. U. S. Steel was down 7 points to 174 3/4; American Can down 4 1/2 to 111 1/2; Westinghouse down 11 to 143 1/2; Wright Aero 14 down to 270; General Electric off 13 to 235; Chrysler Motor down 5 to 165 1/2 and Bethlehem Steel off 4 1/2 to 87.

STOCK MARKET BREAKS

New York, Feb. 7.—One of the severest breaks in Stock Market history occurred at the opening of the market today when thousands of shares of speculative stocks thrown on the market for whatever they would bring, tumbled all the way from 5 to 15 points.

The Reserve Board's latest "warning" couched in the severest language ever used by a governmental agency, left no room for doubt as to the next step to be taken to squeeze the speculative loan bubble. Banks which held in the Stock Market are now expected a penny of redemptions from the reserve system, it said in effect, and backed up its statement with a demand that speculative loans must be reduced.

The bank of England raised its rate from 4 1-2 to 5 1-2 per cent in order to stop the exportation of gold from London to New York and Wall street bulls saw themselves in a "hole" and a deep one at that.

For most of the active shares, the lowest prices of the first hour were recorded at the opening. United States Steel crashed 6 points to 175 1-2, but recovered in short order to 178 1-4. American Can dropped 5 1-2 points to 110 1-2 and recovered to 113 1-2. Other heavy losses in the first period included a 15-point drop in Case Threshing Machine to 450; an 11-point drop in Westinghouse to 148; a loss of 17 points in General Electric to 231; a 5-point decline in Bethlehem Steel to 86 1-4; an 8-point decline in Union Pacific railroad to 220.

Wild Scenes

Pandemonium broke loose in the market as soon as the opening gong sounded. An inkling of the Reserve Board's statement had filtered in Wall street in the last day or two, and some of the big professionals took advantage of this by selling stocks heavily all day yesterday. It was a very profitable "leak" for them, since Wall street little expected such a severe arrangement of the reserve system members bank over the speculative loan situation.

In the brokerage houses it was frankly stated that the Reserve Board had over-shot its marks, since out of a total of $5,539,000,000 of brokers loans, as of the last report, only $1,091,000,000 was furnished by New York member banks, the balance having been furnished by out-of-town banks and industrial corporations. The "outsiders" are loaning $2,618,000,000 on which they are making an annual profit of $183,000,000 at 7 per cent.

Stock sales in the first half hour aggregated 1,325,000 shares, or at the rate of over 15,000,000 shares for full session. Before the end of the first hour, the word went out that the "worst is over" as moderate rallies were under way in many of the active stocks.

Government was arrayed today against the speculative orgy in the New York Stock Market in one of the financial battles of the century.

Portable Dental Chair Wins Prize For Clemson

For the Eighth Year in Succession North End Young Man Captures St. Mary's Prize For Most Comical Get-Up.

The reason why Harold Clemson couldn't be located by scribes at his home on North Elm street yesterday is now as plain as day. Instead of alternating himself in Birch Mountain to learn the tricks of wild animal life, Clemson was completing a course at the Hebron Dental College.

This all came to light last night when Clemson opened his novel portable dental office for business in Manchester. His debut in the profession was made at the 33rd annual masquerade ball of St. Mary's Young Men's club at Cheney hall. The opening night was given over entirely to demonstrations.

No Opposition
That Clemson's efforts were highly successful is seen in the fact that he was unanimously voted the $10 prize for the most comical man's make-up. It was the eighth straight year that Clemson has won the prize. Apparently it had reached a stage where Clemson's superiority in this field is totally undisputed. At least he had no opposition whatsoever last night. And perhaps it is just as well, for Clemson's contraption was well-nigh unbeat-able.

Garbed in a white dentist's uniform with a clownish make-up, Clemson appeared shortly after 8:30 pushing his dental office before him in baby-carriage fashion. His entrance was greeted by a burst of applause mingled with laughter. The dental office consisted of an old arm-chair with dental paraphernalia in front. Nervously seated in the chair was "Maggie," a dummy representing a shabbily dressed young woman.

Delicate Instruments
Like many young men who start out in a new business, Clemson apparently did not have much money with which to buy the necessary equipment. Therefore he had to make the best of the situation by using such "delicate" instruments as monkey-wrench, auger, automobile revolver, hot-water bag containing gas, automobile motor fan for cooling purposes, bottle of poison which he used for want of either, not to mention numerous other articles less conspicuous.

New Britain, Conn., Feb. 7.—Rains descended on this district today, did thousands of dollars damage, crippled industry, closed the schools, and kept firemen busy making repairs. at Belle Isle. His visit recalled the fact that although he had shoved Bean out the latter still had enough influence in Washington to put over the latest two judgeship nominations for the state. A bitter fight is now on over their confirmation, with a strong effort being made to drag Mr. Hoover into the controversy.

Mr. Hoover will leave Miami Beach Saturday morning and be out of reach to callers until a week from next Monday, with the exception of Thursday afternoon. Saturday, he entrains for Long Key and there boards his house boat, which will take him leisurely around the tip of Florida. An anchoring Sunday night somewhere off the west coast, on Monday about noon, he will land at Fort Myers, and there attend the luncheon in celebration of the 82nd birthday of Thomas A. Edison, the world-famous inventor.

JAM IN CONGRESS KILLS MANY BILLS

Only a Month Remains to Push Through the Most Important Measures.

Washington, Feb. 7.—With adjournment less than a month away, the Seventieth Congress has apparently written its legislative record upon the statute books, with the exception of personal measures and appropriation bills. The administration's major program has been completed, although a finishing touch must be given the new cruiser bill. The second session, which began last December and ends March 4, therefore, will have as its outstanding achievement passage of the cruiser bill, ratification of the Kellogg-Brand peace treaty and enactment of the Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam bill.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

Danbury, Feb. 7.—Coroner John J. Phelan, of Bridgeport today indicated he would return a decision of accidental death in the case of Vincent Bigliarzeri, who was electrocuted in the Lemme hat plant here on Saturday afternoon. Physicians who attended the man told the coroner they could not explain the man's death. An examination disclosed his physical condition perfect, they said. Electrical experts reported a 40-volt leakage in the plant, and declared the condition should not have caused death.

LARGE NUMBER ATTENDS LADIES AID'S DINNER

The annual turkey dinner of the South Methodist Ladies Aid society in the church banquet hall last evening was well patronized. The tables were gay with red candles and napkins and favors appropriate to the Valentine season. During the meal a trio played a number of musical selections, and a play in two scenes followed under the direction of Mrs. John Dowd. Local hits were introduced in the dialogue, which in the main illustrated how gossip gains in circulation from one tongue to another. The seven ladies of the cast took their parts well, and everybody who had invested in tickets for the supper and entertainment felt that they had received their money's worth.

King George Favors American Hostesses

By MILTON BRONER.

London.—English society people who are gratified by the prominent play American newspapers are giving to the King's illness and by the widespread interest Americans have displayed in his gallant fight, always add:

"It's no more than right. The present King knows more Americans than any sovereign who has reigned since the United States was an independent country. More American debutantes have been presented at his court than at any other. And in the inner circle of his intimate friends, he and the Queen number more Americans than any reigning pair, in history.

Few Met Royalty. Which is literally true. In the early years of the republic, about the only people from the United States to meet British sovereigns were the Ministers to the Court of St. James's. Even in Queen Victoria's day contacts were few. Her successor, King Edward VII, when Prince of Wales, had a wonderful reception in the United States, but when he gained the throne he numbered no Americans in his intimate circle.

With the present King and Queen, all things changed. To begin with, the relations between England and the United States became very close after we entered the war. Recently, rich Americans have swarmed to England as never before. Dozens of American debutantes have had the coveted

A Good-Will Diner. She comes nearer to having a salon, in the old 18th century term of the word, than any woman in British society. Back in 1924 she saw that a Labor Socialist government was inevitable. So she gave a great dinner at which the King and Queen were the guests of honor and all the other guests were leaders of the Labor party. One who was there told me he never saw the King enjoy himself so much and laugh so heartily as he did that night.

The Labor leaders many of whom started out in life at most humble tasks, told the King stories of the soil and of the plain people. They found him a very human King. He found them very companionable men. A few months later, when the Labor government took hold, both sides approached each other not as enemies, but as friends.

Morrow Happy to Remain as Envoy

Just as informal and straightforward as "the key-man of Latin-American diplomacy" himself, this photo of Dwight W. Morrow shows him after his conference with President-elect Hoover on Belle Isle, Fla. If Morrow looks particularly well pleased, it's probably because it had just been decided definitely that he should remain in his post of U. S. Ambassador to Mexico.

privilege of being presented at court. A potent influence in this direction has been the King's heir, the Prince of Wales, who likes Americans and is liked by them.

The present rulers have had one of the cleanest courts in all British history. Persons with scandal attached to their names and doings have not been welcome at Buckingham Palace. Even American women who have exchanged their wealth for a half mortgaged British coronet are little favored.

Three American Wives. Among the six or seven great hosts the royal pair have been particularly pleased to honor with visits, three stand out—the Duke of Roxeburgh, the Earl of Granard and Viscount Astor. In each case these hosts have American wives. In each case their marriages have been peculiarly happy ones. And in no case can it be said that the British husbands married American wives for the money that would be brought into the family.

Twenty-five years ago, the present Duke of Roxeburgh married Miss May Goelet, daughter of Ogden Goelet, the New York millionaire financier. But the Duke was probably far wealthier than his meretricious first wife, being the owner of over 60,000 acres. His historic Scotch mansion, Floors Castle, has been the scene of hospitality not only to the present King, but to many former British monarchs.

The Earl of Granard has been in close contact not only with the present King, whom he served as Master of the Horse, but with King Edward, whom he served as Lord-in-Waiting. In 1920 he was England's special ambassador to the courts of Lisbon, Madrid, The Hague, Brussels, Copenhagen, Stockholm and Oslo to announce the accession of King George to the throne. Nineteen years ago he married Miss Beatrice Mills, daughter of the New York millionaire, Ogden Mills. But the Earl was himself a wealthy man, owning over 21,000 acres.

Viscount Astor is a British nobleman of American birth and American blood on both sides of his family. His father, William Waldorf Astor, the great real estate millionaire of New York City, served his state in the legislature and afterwards was American Minister to Italy. Later he moved to England, became a naturalized British subject and was ennobled. His son, the present Viscount, after a brilliant record at Eton and Oxford, made an equally fine record in the House of Commons, where he was parliamentary secretary to the Prime Minister in 1918. In 1919 he had to give up his House of Commons ambitions, because the death of his father translated him into the House of Lords. Twenty-two years ago he

CUPID GROWING SHY, MARRIAGE FIGURES SHOW

Sacramento, Cal. — Marriage, companionate or permanent, is becoming more and more a non grata with Californians!

Cupid is getting shyer and more shy of entering the holy bonds of matrimony.

And once altar-bound the winking god of love struggles more frequently to break the tie that binds. Such is the unhappy marriage tale revealed by statistics today in the office of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

So startling is the yen for freedom from wed-lock among Californians that legislature investigation of the growing divorce evil and slump in marriages is imminent, a number of prominent legislators admitted today.

To Study Problem The why and wherefore causing Californians to choose not to marry or once married to choose not to stay married will be thoroughly sifted the solons declared.

With the divorce rate jumping over 13 per cent annually according to the latest federal figures on California's matrimonial shipwrecks, something must be done about it, the legislators insist.

While in 1925 there were 10,624 divorces granted in this state, by the following year the divorce figures had mounted to 12,065 in addition to 1,281 marriages dissolved by annulment suits.

Meanwhile the marriage barometer has been steadily on the decline. In 1925 there were some 55,080 California brides led to the altar; and in 1926, in spite of the great increase in population there were only 56,664 weddings in the state, a gain of 2.9 per cent. Since 1929, the number of marriages in California has been steadily on the decline according to state statistics. During 1927, there were but 53,498 couples united, a net decline of 3,168 from the previous year. Although the statistics for 1928 are not yet compiled by the state bureau advance information gathered by the assembling legislators indicated that matrimonial stock went down still further during the past twelve months.

Divorce Haven Although out-of-state weddings may give Californians actually a higher marriage rate than appears, there is no glossing over the fact that the Golden state is one of the leading divorce havens of the United States.

"How to make California happy though married" will be one of the major problems confronting the coming Legislature. Among the panaceas being proposed are many varied and conflicting measures. One to repeal the "Gin-marriage" law, sponsored by Assemblyman H. T. Dillinger of Pleasantville; another to lengthen the three-day period between the application for a marriage license and its being granted from three-days to five suggested by Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller of Pasadena; a proposal to make divorce easier by granting a dissolution of marriage for incurable insanity vouched for by Assemblyman Harry Lyons of Los Angeles.

Sweethearts In Films And In Real Life, Too

Sue Carol and Nick Stuart.

By DAN THOMAS.
Hollywood, Calif.—Sue Carol and Nick Stuart—moviana's new romantic team.

For years film executives have been trying to find successful romantic teams. The most popular pair of screen lovers so far has been Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky. About two years ago it looked as if William Fox had an equally successful team when Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor made their first appearance together in "Seventh Heaven." They might have risen to the heights attained by Colman and Miss Banky but they were separated after their second film.

And now comes the Sue Carol-Nick Stuart combination. They will be teamed for a series of pictures as soon as Sue can get the legal side of her career straightened out.

It seems that Sue has been having some trouble with Douglas MacLean over her contract with him. The case comes to court the latter part of this month and if it is settled in Sue's favor, she will sign a new contract with the Fox studio.

Sued for Divorce. Also, Sue's husband, Allen H. Keeler, wealthy broker of Chicago, recently filed suit for divorce, charging desertion. They were married four years ago, and drifted apart when Sue came to Hollywood.

Sue is reported ready to sign with Fox. She would sign with almost anybody in order to play with Nick in a series of films. De-cause, you see, Sue and Nick are sweethearts in real life as well.

The two youngsters are making "Girls Gone Wild," their first picture together, now. So, regardless of the outcome of Sue's legal tangle, they will have realized their greatest ambitions—to work in a picture together. And they make a perfect combination. I doubt if any two people in Hollywood would make better screen lovers. Besides, think of the realism they will put into the love sequences.

Meets Nick. Sue and Nick have been close friends ever since she first came here from Chicago about two years ago. That was right after Nick had been elevated from a job as office boy at Fox Studio to the actors' ranks. They met while Sue was making her first picture, which was for Fox. It wasn't love at first sight, but neither had to look very often, before deciding that the other was just about the nicest person in the whole wide world.

Some day they may get married. But for the time being they are perfectly contented with just being sweethearts and forging ahead together in their careers.

EXPERTS TO DECIDE THE SUM GERMANY CAN PAY TO ALLIES

This Procedure Being Followed So That Nation Can Pay Her Huge War Debt to United States.

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

Washington, Feb. 7.—Representatives of the world powers will meet soon in Europe to decide how much can be squeezed out of the reparations—debts situation without killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

Germany, of course, is the nation to do the paying, and the allied nations are the ones who are trying to find out just how much Germany can pay without wrecking herself.

The United States has no money in particular coming from Germany, but Owen D. Young and J. Pierpont Morgan will be there, nevertheless, to protect the United States' interests.

Germany Must Prosper The most important factor which this new gathering of experts must bear in mind is the necessity of maintaining Germany as a going concern.

Next August Germany will have paid since the war a minimum total of $4,500,000,000. The exact figure hasn't been determined. The reparations commission has credited $2,500,000,000 on its books as paid by Germany prior to payments under the Dawes plan.

The $2,500,000,000 was delivered in the period between the signing of the treaty of Versailles and the experts' meeting which produced the Dawes plan. It includes payments in cash and in kind, credit for government property in ceded territory and gross receipts from the French occupation of the Ruhr.

Germans, however, have estimated the value of her pre-Dawes payments as high as $1,000,000,000. Counting in the loss of her colonies and other territory, along with other post-war losses, the allies not considered in connection with reparations, Dr. Marx Serlin, professor of political science at the University of Berlin, estimates that Germany has made a war compensation of $50,000,000,000.

In 1921 the reparations commission set Germany's total reparations liability at $31,000,000,000. By military threat, it forced Germany to accept unconditionally a schedule of payments involving eventual issue of $31,000,000,000 worth of bonds at 5 per cent.

Germany set aside a treaty obligations budget and undertook to proceed. For lack of revenue her financial structure broke. As the government inflated currency to meet its budget, the mark went to pot and late in 1922 the French marched into the Ruhr. Soon the mark was almost entirely valueless and the French were learning that their occupation was costing more than they could squeeze from the coal mines and other natural resources within their grasp.

The golden goose was dead, sick and the rest of Europe was also threatened with financial collapse. The United States stood to lose heavily in any general debacle, which would involve the billions we had in government and private loans to Europe. Late in 1922 Secretary of State Hughes made his famous New Haven speech proposing the experts' committee.

A year later, the reparations commission had worked out the details. The committee of experts, to which we assigned Young and Charles G. Dawes for the purpose of dominating the proceedings, made recommendations to the commission which were adopted in August, 1924. This program, known as the Dawes plan, provided a rising schedule of payments for the first five years, from $250,000,000 in 1925 to $600,000,000 in 1929. It also made what provisions could be seen that neither Germany, or the machinery would have to pay again. The money for the Dawes payments has come from the state-owned railways, an initial reparations loan, a transport tax, German industries and budget assessments. France takes 52 per cent, England 22, Italy 10 and Belgium 8. Meanwhile Germany has thrived, meeting the payments and experiencing an economic revival undeviated elsewhere in Europe. She is still faced, however, with the need of maintaining an exports balance which will enable her to continue paying.

Capacity to Pay It has not been proved that she can continue to pay $600,000,000 a year. Her capacity to pay still remains one of the toughest problems for the allies and the United States to decide. The forthcoming conference must decide first the total sum to be demanded from Germany. Neither the Dawes plan experts or anyone else has made any revision of the original demand for $31,000,000,000. Everyone concedes that new determination of a definite sum and its terms of payment are now essential for financial liquidation of the war. Officially we don't admit that war debts to us are connected with reparations. Privately everyone admits it. Hence it appears now that the reparations sum will be fixed at whatever the allies have to pay the United States plus fixed sums of indemnity for France and Belgium.

Morgan and Young may dominate the conference. S. Parker Gilbert, reparations agent in Berlin, may also play a big part. Some agreement is bound to be reached, for we want to collect what we can and our financial position is so strong as to command Europe's co-operation. It has been suggested that it will be better business for us to accept a cash value on the debts rather than take a chance on collecting, under present agreements, over a period of 62 years. A dollar in hand is recognized to be far more valuable than a dollar payable 50 years hence—either in reparations dollar or a debts dollar.

Cash Settlement The reparations conference may do no more than fix the present "cash value" of reparations and provide for a great German bond issue, but it is expected to do so on the basis of being able to make a cash settlement of the same sort with us. It has been computed that the present "cash value" of Allied debts to us is about $5,000,000,000. Commercializing German reparations into bonds would have the effect of putting the international investing public rather than the various governments in the position of holding the bag. Germany would still be in debt, but not with a gun at her head. Meanwhile, if we were paid off, war debts would no longer be a source of international friction. The problem of marketing the bonds may prove a difficult one; that's one reason why Morgan has been sent. Whatever program the conference adopts is likely to have a profound effect on European history.

"RED DANCE" AT STATE TOMORROW

Dolores Del Rio Starred in Fox-Movietone Special; Other Attractions.

Another striking achievement for Fox-Movietone productions comes to the State Theatre tomorrow and Saturday.

It is "The Red Dance," Dolores Del Rio's latest starring vehicle, adapted from the well-known story by H. L. Gates and Eleanor Browne. "The Red Dance" is romance and adventure woven into a rare tapestry of superlative screen entertainment.

In the difficult role of a peasant girl who becomes famous as the Red Dancer, a dazzling smile hiding the sorrow within her heart, this popular artist reaches the heights of emotional acting.

Supporting her in the cast is Charles Farrell, beloved by all for the appealing personality he reveals in "Seventh Heaven" and "Street Angel." In this picture he is seen in the role of a courageous prince who wagers high estate against a place in the affections of the girl who came to kill and remained to love.

Ivan Linow, Dorothy Revier, Boris Charsky and Andre Segurova are also prominent in the cast. The entire production is presented with special Fox-Movietone music and sound effects. Raul Walsh directed.

In addition to this feature, a selected variety of shorter attractions will also be presented. Our Gank, that famous group of kiddies, will be seen in their latest Hal Roach comedy, "The Spanking Age."

Next comes the Metro Movietone Revue, a snappy vaudeville act featuring Van and Schenck, that famous pair of entertainers.

The current issue of State News Events will complete the program.

WOMAN MURDERED.

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—Sophie Titleman, alias Sophie Martin, alias Dorothy Taylor, 26, known to police as a habitue of the underworld, was "taken for a ride" in the parlor of a rooming house today because she "knew too much," police say. The body of the woman shot through the head was found by police lying in a gutter in south Philadelphia where it had been hurled from a speeding automobile.

Several men with whom the woman had been arrested at different times are being sought for questioning.

Vernon Grange to Hold Dance

The Vernon Grange will hold another of its popular dances Saturday evening at the Grange Hall. The program will include new and old fashioned dances with music furnished by Carl Buckmaster and his orchestra. A popular promoter has been engaged for the old fashioned dances. It is expected that there will be a large number present Saturday evening.

Announces Coming Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. John Weingartner of Tolland have announced the coming marriage of their son, Fritz J. Weingartner, and Miss Anna

Russell of Hartford. The wedding will take place on February 20. A wedding breakfast will follow at the home of the groom's parents. Following a wedding trip to New York, they will reside at the home of Charles S. Hurlburt, where the groom has made his home for some time.

O. E. S. Whist Party Hope Chapter, O. E. S., held a meeting Tuesday in Masonic hall. A member's whist was given following the meeting. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Robert Carroll, Mrs. Arthur Ludke and Mrs. Frank Green. Refreshments were served by the social committee.

To Play in Hartford Henry Liebe, Jack Keeney and Lester Ludke, local musicians, will play with Al Behrend's Melody Boys of Manchester at the Hartford Club Friday evening. Mr. Behrend will have an orchestra of twelve pieces for this engagement, one of the big social events of the season.

Lucky Six Dance The Lucky Six have completed elaborate plans for their dance at the Princess ballroom next Tuesday evening and have engaged Ernie Rock's Dixieland Cotton Pickers of nine pieces to furnish the dance program. It is expected one of the largest crowds of the winter will attend.

Friendly Class Social The Friendly Class of the Union church held their monthly social Wednesday evening. Mrs. Eliza Davis, president of the class, presided. Following the regular business an entertainment program was given. Mrs. Anna Bilson was

We Are Pleased To Announce That We Are Now Prepared TO DEMONSTRATE AND INSTALL THE NEW UNITED STATES OIL BURNER. A Revelation of Progress in the Industry. The Aristocrat of Oil Burners. The economy in operation is extreme. The motor, in driving the burner to heat an average home, will take about as much current as is required to burn two or three 50 watt electric lights, and the fuel consumption would be equivalent to coal at about $10 per ton. There are no moving parts outside of the boiler, and there is nothing at any point to wear beyond ordinary mechanical depreciation. A four year guarantee is gladly given with each burner installed. In most homes the boiler is of the round type, and the circular flame of the United States Burner is the ideal one to guarantee the highest heating efficiency. Since, however, the flame can be adjusted by a simple turn of a valve to expand it from the home heating size to one eight feet in diameter, it is equally efficient in sectional burners for apartment houses, schools, churches, etc., with a heating load up to 4,000 feet of steam. NO SOOT, ODOR, CARBON, NOISE, LEAKS, CLEANING OR COMPLICATIONS. See it working in a new "Red Cap" U. S. Capitol Boiler in our showrooms. $395.00 INSTALLED INCLUDING TANK. DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Thursday, February 7. "The Barber of Seville" will be the next presentation of the United Opera Company in their broadcast over stations of the Columbia network at 8 o'clock Thursday night. The plot of the opera centers around Rosina, the wealthy ward of Dr. Bartholo, who wishes to marry her for her money. She has several other suitors, and finally marries Count Almaviva, the man she loves. Bartholo is appalled by being allowed to retain her dowry. WTC seems to have more than its share of highlights. A 8 this station will put on the air a schedule of fifteen minutes later it will radiate the annual concert of the Crescendo Club in conjunction with the Atlantic City Festival Chorus. Still another highlight, the Boy Scout celebration, may be tuned in at 9:45. Dick Robertson, comedian and vocalist, will be heard as guest artist with the Sparker's orchestra during the programs through the N. B. C. chain at 10. Mr. Robertson's "Sweethearts on Parade," and another popular number, "Ta Comie Up Tonight, Huh?" Under the direction of Gus Haenschen the orchestra will offer several dance numbers and "Tennessee Jubilee" will be presented as a saxophone duet. A musical story of a visit to the studio of an artist may be tuned in from the WPAF chain at 7:30. The musical selections will closely follow the descriptions and characters of the various paintings on display and many old favorites, such as "Valley of Roses," "Mascara" and "Evening Song."

YALE TO STUDY BUSINESS FLOPS

To Find Out Social and Economic Causes for Failures in America.

New Haven, Conn., Feb 7.—The Yale Law School has adopted plans for an investigation into the social and economic causes of business failures. It was announced here today by Dean Robert M. Hutchins. The country has been divided into a number of geographical divisions, each division reflecting social and economic trends from 1898, the year in which the National Bankruptcy Act was passed, to the present. Field investigators in those divisions, employing factual and analytical methods, will investigate the points at which the credit system breaks down. The study will be directed not only to the cause of business failures, but also to the social and economic effects of these failures; the legal and non-legal methods of preventing them; and of curing the resultant disorders. The extent of the investigation will be limited only by the amount of funds secured for prosecuting it, the announcement said. When the investigation is completed, the Law School hopes to point out practices existing in the handling of bankruptcy cases which credit men and legislation can adjust.

Prof. Douglas in Charge

Professor William O. Douglas of the Yale Law School will be in charge of the investigation. Professor Walton Hale Hamilton, also of Yale, will be the advising economist. W. C. Plummer, of the Domestic Commerce Division of the United States Department of Commerce, will assist the investigators through the co-operation of the Department of Commerce in making the factual study of consumers' credit and the relation of retailing methods to retail bankruptcies. The investigation will begin within a few days, when Paul O. Ritter, of the Yale Law School, will commence in Philadelphia a study of the bankruptcy cases of that section. As funds are secured, the study will include the New England and agricultural sections of the south; the mining and agricultural sections of the Middle West; and the states on the Pacific Coast. When the complete program is under way, the staff under Professor Douglas will include an economist, several legal assistants, and a number of economic assistants. "The credit structure is of supreme importance in the United States today, since in approximately 90 per cent of all merchandise sales, credit is extended," Dean Hutchins said in commenting upon the need for the investigation. "It is estimated that through the sums totaling $800,000,000 are annually wiped off the books. The administration of the Bankruptcy Act has been the subject of extensive criticism. Bills for the repeal of the Act have from time to time been introduced, the last in the 70th Congress. It is alleged that a bankruptcy ring is operating throughout the country, nor does it appear how effective the countless prosecutions for concealing assets are in coping with fraudulent debtors. No comparative study has ever been made of the various legal and non-legal methods of liquidation. We do not know how frequently each is used, or under what circumstances, nor do we know upon the credit structure and the community.

A New Problem

"Indeed no factual study of this entire problem in its social, economic and legal aspects has ever been made. New York's merchants and creditors have undertaken a few limited investigations with a view to specific reforms. These projects were limited in scope and largely legislative in character. They embraced only a few phases of bankruptcy administration. In none of them has the investigation

VENGEANCE FIRES INDIAN FIGHTERS OF 1929 IN DESPERATE QUEST

Rancher Whose Child Was Kidnapped by Redskins in Revenge for Indian Girl Stolen by Cowboys Leads Posse Determined to Kill or Capture Apache Band.

Here are some of the leading figures in the Indian fighting of 1929, obtained exclusively by NEA Service. 1—Francisco Fimbres, rancher, who leads expedition against the Indians. 2—Rogelio Loreto, presidente of the city of Agua Prieta, who secured government permission for Fimbres' expedition. 3—Lupe, the Apache Indian girl captured by the Fimbres cowboys in 1913 when she was 14 years old. 4—Maria Fimbres, 7, who escaped death when her mother was slain and her baby brother kidnapped by the Apaches in revenge for the capture of Lupe. 5—The only photo in existence of Heraldo Fimbres, now nearly four years old, stolen by the Apaches in October, 1926.

Douglas, Ariz.—Nearly a half century after Geronimo led his marauding Apache Indians down into old Mexico just prior to his capture by General Miles, a band of direct descendants from his bloodthirsty warriors are making their last stand against civilization today. In the wild and desolate Sierra Madre mountains south of the border here, the war to exterminate the redskins is on. Indian fighters are on the trail again and the fighting is being staged much as it was in the frontier days of the southwest two generations ago.

The Mexican government has decreed that the reign of terror caused by the Apaches' pillaging raids on peaceful American and Mexican ranches along the border must cease. To this end it has commissioned a posse which set out recently from Agua Prieta—just across the international boundary from Douglas—to kill or capture every member of the band. Francisco Fimbres, a rancher, is the leader of the posse. The scenes of the shifting battle—which would make a western movie thriller look tame—are laid from 40 to 60 miles southeast of Douglas in the Bavispe river valley and extend back in the Sierra Madres to the boundary line between the Mexican states of Chihuahua and Sonora.

More than a spirit of adventure fires Fimbres as leader of the party determined to kill or capture the Indians. It is a spirit of vengeance, nursed for two years, against the redskins who murdered his wife and kidnaped his child. Above all, he hopes to find the boy safe and sound. It is with this motive that he persuaded Governor Fausto Topete for authority to stage the thrilling manhunt. The governor granted this on recommendation of Rogelio Loreto, presidente of the city of Oguia Prieta.

While the hunt is on, a dark-eyed young woman of Apache blood who plays a big part in the drama waits silently in the little village of Nacodi, Chilo in the shadow of the high mountains where the Indians have their remote hiding places. Her name is Lupe—nothing more. Secretly, she hopes that the expedition will fail. Capture Indian Girl. Back in 1913 when a posse of cowboys was chasing a band of raiding Apaches, a battle ensued. The Indians escaped but not until the ranchers had killed several and captured a 14-year-old girl of the tribe. Francisco Fimbres was a member of this party. The girl was Lupe. Many times since then efforts have been made to tame this wild girl of the hills, but the love for her people has defied the white's efforts. Civilization is not for her. Once, after she had grown to maidenhood, Lupe set out with a party to show them where vast deposits of gold could be found in the mountains. They traveled for several days. Finally, the smoke of an Indian camp was seen in the distance. One of the party was rash enough to threaten the Indians in Lupe's presence. Immediately, Lupe refused to go a step further or give another word of information—and the hunt was off.

Indians Steal Child. Enraged by the capture of Lupe, the Indians struck back against the ranchers for years. A little over two years ago they at last wreaked their revenge on Fimbres, whom they blamed most for the girl's capture. On a return trip from Naco, Sonora, Fimbres and his family were attacked by a howling, bloodthirsty band. The Indians murdered Senora Fimbres by cutting her throat and made off with Fimbres' year-old son, whom they snatched from the dying mother's arms. Fimbres and a small daughter escaped injury. The Apaches had taken their revenge on Fimbres as a leader of the cowboys who had stolen their Lupe. Since that time the desire for vengeance and the hope of recovering his little son from the Indians has burned deep within Fimbres. Frequently he pleaded with Mexican government authorities for permission to organize a posse and go after the Apaches. Recently this plea was granted and Fimbres was officially commissioned as head of the party. No one knows definitely what is going on back in the narrow mountain passes today as Fimbres' party pursues the redskins, but reports brought out by runners say that engagements have taken place far back in the mountain fastness. This is a wild and uncivilized country and believed to be the refuge of many American criminals, as searching parties there have found old magazines, newspapers and tobacco cans abandoned camp fires. It is believed that outlaws have fled there from the southwest.

Douglas—and the whole Mexican border—awaits the outcome of the Indian pursuits with tense interest. Those who are familiar with the situation say that it will be a fight to a finish—that neither the Indians nor the vengeful Fimbres will ask or give quarter.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Feb. 7.—There was no mistaking the effect of the reserve board's severe condemnation of the ballooning of speculative loans on the Stock Market and stock prices this morning. An overnight accumulation of 1,000,000 shares of stock for sale produced one of the widest breaks in Stock Market history, with prices of the favorites crashing all the way from 2 to 18 points.

A block of 20,000 shares of U. S. Steel came out at 175 1/2, a loss of 6 points from Wednesday's close, followed by a dozen or more 10,000-share lots of the favorites at big shrinkages in market values from the previous close. Westinghouse lost 11 points at 148; General Electric crashed 17 points to 231; Case Threshing Machine 15 points to 450; Bethlehem Steel lost 6 points; Curtiss Aero 10; Kennecott Copper 6 and Vanadium Steel 6 1/2.

Calm consideration of the reserve board's "warning" found very little support for the position taken by the members of the board. Wall street bankers stated clearly that business concerns here can borrow money at favorable rates and that the Stock Market is finding its own money, mostly in "outside" sources. New York reserve member banks are loaning less than a dollar out of every five for Stock Market purposes.

Sharp rallies in the market leaders in the second hour regained from 3 to 10 points in General Electric, Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck and others. Wall street came to its senses with the realization that nothing had happened except the expression of an opinion by a government agency, and that identical opinions had been expressed at least a dozen times in the last year or two. Meanwhile business and economic conditions have vastly improved and stocks are worth more money.

General Electric rallied from 231 to 240, leading a recovery in which other active stock participated. American Can jumped up from 110 to 114; Bethlehem Steel from 88 to 99; U. S. Steel from 175 1/2 to 178 1/4 and Anaconda Copper was snapped up at 127.

The money rate was unchanged at 6 per cent, but competition among lenders was sharp enough to lead to the expectation of a lower rate before the end of the day.

IN BANKRUPTCY

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 7.—Bankruptcy schedules for Everett W. Jones, of Kensington, a real estate developer who was recently mentioned in bankruptcy by creditors, show he owes $44,000 of which $37,567 is secured by mortgages, and his assets total $44,715.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gofain, of New Britain, filed voluntary bankruptcy petitions here today. Gofain, a cattle dealer, owes $20,601, and has no assets while his wife owes $4,253 and also has no assets.

NOT RUTH'S CHILD

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Warden Edgar S. Jennings of Auburn prison today definitely put an end to speculation as to whether the adopted child of Babe Ruth was born to Mrs. Pearl Odell, serving a 20-year term for murder, when he announced that prison records show the Odell child was adopted by an elderly couple. Warden Jennings declined to reveal the identity of the couple, out of regard for the child.

His announcement followed an affidavit filed at Rochester by a lawyer who sought to show that 8-year-old Dorothy Helen Ruth was really Mildred Gloria Naomi Odell, whose father was executed at Sing Sing and whose mother now occupies a cell here. Photographs formed the basis of the lawyer's claim.

DUCHESS HAS FLU

London, Feb. 7.—The Duchess of York was confined to her room today with a slight attack of influenza. She was forced to cancel her engagement at the opening ceremonies of a new ward in the King's college hospital.

The Duchess appeared quite well at the fashionable wedding of the Hon. David Bowers-Lyon to Miss Rachel Spender-Clay at St. Margaret's church yesterday.

SCHOONER SINKS.

Boston, Feb. 7.—The crew of seven men of the New Bedford fishing schooner, Gleaner, were forced to take to their dories today when the vessel struck a sunken wreck off Stony Beach, Hull, and immediately began to settle in the water. THE BLACK PIGEON

THIS HAS HAPPENED
JACK HAYWARD, struggling young insurance broker, becomes engaged to RUTH LESTER, secretary to "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter of dubious stock companies, whose private office is just across the narrow shaft from Jack's.

On a Saturday morning in January, the promoter has two women callers. The first is RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who is to accompany him to Winter-Haven for the week-end. The second is MRS. BORDEN, Borden's wife, and mother of his two children, who calls for her monthly alimony. Learning he is busy, she agrees to return. Before she goes she glimpses the pistol in Ruth's desk. While Ruth takes dictation Borden makes a playful pass at her and she screams, attracting Jack's attention in the opposite office. He is furious.

When they meet for lunch, Ruth discovers she has forgotten her bank book and rushes back to her office. At the luncheon table Jack says he left her theatre tickets on his desk and returns for them. He returns strangely perturbed.

When on Monday morning Ruth finds the body of Borden sprawled on the floor near the window, she reviews Jack's strange behavior and is petrified with fear. She runs to his office and, finding him out, looks frantically in his desk for his gun. It is gone! Jack returns immediately and accompanies her to Borden's office where he calls the police. Fearing Jack shot Borden through the open windows she rushes into Borden's office to close his window before the police arrive. The window is already closed! The police arrive.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VIII.

In the brief instant between the turning of the knob of the outer door and the entrance of the police, Ruth had time to get control of her nerves. For her so horrible had been able to bear it had been lifted from her mind and heart.

The window of Borden's private office, opening upon the air shaft, and directly opposite to Jack Hayward's window, was closed. She could see, even for a moment, have believed her man was guilty of murder?

Her reasoning was exquisitely clear and simple. The only way Jack Hayward could have shot Borden was through the window. She herself had left Borden's door locked, because of his deadly fear of holdup men or the assaults of loss-crazed investors in his stocks. Borden would never have shot her for it was his custom, she knew, to demand to know who wanted to see him, if he was alone and unprotected in his office.

The only person, probably, whom he had admitted was his wife, whom he was expecting, and she undoubtedly had already called before Jack's return to his office to get the forgotten theater tickets.

"Henry P. Borden's office," an aggressive officer, demanded unnecessarily, for the name was painted on the door. "What happened here?"

Ruth Lester was still standing in the protective circle of Jack Hayward's arms. She looked curiously, no longer afraid, at the officer in plainclothes who was addressing her. Behind him stood two policemen in uniform, but Ruth scarcely saw them. The detective towered over her—a gigantic man, at least six feet three inches tall and broad in proportion. He looked as if he had grown grizzled in the service of justice, but was still not satisfied, getting a savage joy out of running criminals to earth.

"I am John C. Hayward—offices in this building, and this is Miss Lester—Ruth Lester, secretary to Mr. Borden, who is—in there. Murdered," Jack answered the detective quietly.

"I'm Detective Sergeant McMann," the huge man completed the strange introductions curtly. "Move aside, please. Let's see him. Who discovered the body?"

"I did," Ruth answered, horror of that thing inside swooping down upon her again. "I got to the office this morning at 9:15, and—found him there."

"You've been in there, too?" McMann jerked his head at Jack.

"Just looked in. I didn't touch anything," Jack answered.

"Except the door knob. No good having it photographed for fingerprints since both of you've touched it," McMann answered as he grasped the knob in his own hands. Another jerk of his head indicated that the two uniformed policemen were to enter the room behind him.

get it over with, he went and knelt beside the dead man's body and lifted the outflung right hand, whose fist Ruth noticed for the first time, was clenched convulsively.

"Stiff!" McMann pronounced. "Dead a good many hours, I'd say. Shot through the heart. Must have died quickly, but Dr. Nelson will tell us that, Hand—" he addressed one of the policemen, "put in a call for headquarters. Tell the chief his murder all right and to send Dr. Nelson over right away. And Biggers, you stand outside the door in the hall and keep the crowds away. The news will go through the building like wildfire once it gets started. Did you spill it?" he demanded of Ruth.

She shook her head. "I told no one by Mr. Hayward. I went to him immediately after—after I saw Mr. Borden. Mr. Hayward has offices on this floor, around in the next wing. We are engaged to be married. That's why I went to him."

"That so?" McMann's little, quieted gray eyes studied the pair in the doorway. He seemed about to ask some question concerning their relationship to each other or to the dead man, and then, to Ruth's great relief, to decide upon a query of more immediate importance. "Did Borden keep any money or valuables in the office? Do you know what he had on him Saturday? Looks like he must have been murdered as long as Saturday."

"I know that he had $500 in tens and twenties," Ruth answered steadily. "He had me go to the bank to get it for him, as he was going to Winter Haven for the week-end. His train was to leave at 2:15. I don't know how much money he had on him at all. . . . Hum! Looks like robbery."

"There have been a number of holdups in the building in the last few weeks," Jack volunteered. "Someone who knew Miss Lester to Mr. Borden's secretary may have seen her cashing the check for $500 and—"

"I'll do the maybes on this job, thanks!" McMann interrupted harshly. "Now, Miss Lester—by the way, any relation to Colby Lester, the lawyer?"

Tears sprang into Ruth's eyes. "He was my father."

McMann's glinting eyes were gentle for a moment, as they took in the small figure. "Sorry, Miss Lester! I had no idea. Do remember the boys saying he had a kid—I mean a daughter—that he was crazy about. . . . Now, child, in your own words, tell me all you know about this business. When you last saw Borden, everything of importance that had happened Saturday, anything you can think of to help me."

"Please, may I sit down—in my own office?" Ruth faltered.

"The detective took her chair beside Ruth's desk, making notes on sheets of yellow paper, as the girl told her story.

"Saturday is always a quiet day, since it is a half holiday," Ruth began, her hands tight locked on the desk before her, her brows knit in an effort at concentration. "I arrived first, at half-past nine, then Benny Smith, the office boy, came in—"

"Where is he now?"

THE WOMAN'S DAY

Story has it that Mrs. Forme Kaiser Wilhelm got mad on her husband's 70th birthday and went to bed, pretending she was sick, rather than be outbranded at his festive board by Crown Princess Cecilie.

The argument dates back to Princess Hermine's wedding with the former Kaiser when the Crown Princess and many of her adherents refused to accept Hermine as "Her Majesty," claiming that since she married the former Kaiser after his abdication, her rank was far beneath those who received their rank through marriage or birth during the imperial days.

EVERY WOMAN
 However that may be, Hermine missed a swell feed of sole, pheasant, and strawberry ice cream. And however it may all be, it's sort of comforting to lesser mortals who get mad and won't play and go to bed to escape indignities, to learn that even those called "Princess" or "Her Majesty" do the very same thing.

BIG ALARM
 Quite alarmed about the way girls are rushing into matrimony without knowing a thing about dish towels and floor polishers, the making of popover recipes and dish scraping, the General Federation of Women's Clubs proposes a system to "key homes" in most every community—homes run by competent housewives who will instruct any young girl in what she should know about home-making and housekeeping.

SHE KNOWS IT
 At risk of being called a perennial knocker I arise to remark that my own observation is that most any girl of today can draw rings around her mother when it comes to setting up an attractive, well-managed home, whether she's had a lot of specific instruction or not.

In the first place, today's girl runs around a lot and develops a pretty good standard of what's what in a home, just because our standard of living today insists on that standard most every place. She may not make "housewife" the one and only absorbing interest, but she gets there, and she gets there just the same.

"Ever hear her voice before?" McMann was instantly alert. "She had called several times during the four months I worked here," Ruth answered. "Once I put her through to Mr. Borden, and he told me to remember her voice and never do so again. She has a beautiful, throaty contralto. . . . Yes, I'd know it if I heard it again, over the phone anyway."

"All right, go on."

"Mr. Borden, dictated for about half an hour."

"Any trouble between you and Borden, Miss Lester?" McMann pounced.

"Trouble? Oh, no!" Ruth protested, flushing. "He was always very considerate of me, till the very day of his death—"

"Why 'of course?'"

Ruth gazed at the detective blankly for a moment, then her eyes lighted. How could she have forgotten that the old man had muttered threats against Borden's life? But, oh, he had looked so ill and beaten! Her eyes clouded again, but she answered honestly: "Mr. Borden would never see any one who had a grievance. The old man—he wouldn't give his name. I insisted on seeing Mr. Borden—said he had lost a fortune—all his savings—in one of Mr. Borden's stock promoting schemes."

"Did the old man make any threats against Borden?"

"But I think he admitted slowly, as people do who are furious and helpless. They frequently say things they don't mean."

"Suppose you describe the old man and let his lawyers worry about his defense. If it comes to that, McMann brought the girl back sharply to the business in hand. "Remember, Miss Lester, your employer has been murdered, and I'm counting on you to help me find out who the murderer is."

UNUSUAL DETAILS
 The smartest women are still enthusiastic about the sports frock for general daytime wear. The Style No. 384 sketched in sheer tweed in wood-violet tones is especially well-liked for its complete simplicity, and unusual details as front scalloped closing with matching bone buttons and inverted center plait in skirt to give vertical line to lengthen the silhouette. It is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust, and is made with 3 1/4 yards of 400-inch material with 1 1/4 yard of 96-inch contrasting for vest in the 38-inch size. It also attracts much interest in printed silk crepe, plain silk crepe, canton-faille crepe, patterned wool jersey, plain jersey in sunray-tan shade and wool crepe. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin or refund.

We suggest that when you send for this pattern you enclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our Spring Fashion Magazine. It's just filled with delightful styles, including smart ensembles, and cute designs for the kiddies.

good-night kiss. That is not really knowing him.

And how are the children going to know him? When will there be time for comfortable little talks, and stories, and to establish that close contact that is as necessary between father and child as between mother and child? I'm sure I don't know.

Of course there are mornings, but intimacies are not fostered in the early morning hours. Heads all around are full of plans for the day. There is only hurry and activity.

The Children's Hour Evening is the receptive time. "Between the dark and the daylight" should be the children's hour. Father comes home tired, but relaxed. It should be his hour, too. Later when the children are older and are allowed to sit at the big table do what they can do—extra hours before bedtime, there is opportunity of course for the little visit. But by then, their most plastic years over (by six), will their love and confidence be the same deep-rooted affection that it would have been had they known their father well from babyhood? It is a nice question.

It seems to me that a little compromise in our new rigid regime for children could not be criticised.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Happy are the girls of today who can take advantage of the styles of the moment in dress and hair arrangements. Mrs. Robinson's engagement book is nearly filled with appointments for marceles and other forms of beauty work in preparation for the Junior Prom and the Masonic ball. Her ring at the Lily Beauty parlor is 1671.

Tomato Soup Cake
 I am very glad to comply with the request to repeat the recipe for tomato soup cake, which sometimes is known as "Surprise" cake. Since printing the formula some months ago I have heard from a number of women who have made the cake and like it. A former Manchester girl now living in Omaha and subscribing to the Herald, introduced the cake out there and wrote me about the favorable comments made by those who had tasted it at a supper given by a patriotic society of which she is a member.

The ingredients are 1 cup sugar, two tablespoons shortening, one of lard and one of butter is good. Cream together and add 1 can of tomato soup. Fill the can one-third full of cold water and add to the other mixture; 1 teaspoon each soda and baking powder, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves (a scant teaspoon of the latter); one half-teaspoon each nutmeg and salt, one cup raisins and ground nut meats and two cups of flour. The nuts may be left out if one doesn't care for them. Mix well and bake in a moderate oven for about an hour. If possible bake in an angel cake tin and ice with a butter frosting flavored with vanilla.

Valentines
 With the return of more feminine styles and ruffles, have come back the sentimental valentines. The old-fashioned lace paper valentines with the modernistic black and silver greetings which make their debut this year. The modern version of the old comic valentine with its vicious cartoons and mean thrusts is smaller today and perhaps more artistically drawn but the old punch is there. The valentines today consider everybody from the children to the grand parents, the boss at the office or the family doctor. All the sports of the moment are reflected in the humorous cards which even the boldest flappers or sheiks might hesitate to send. Some of the jingles on this season's valentines run this way: "Since you're slow to take the hint here it is, old dear, in print—Will you be my valentine?" Another sentimental one: "I love thee as I loved the first young violet of the springs. Or the pale lily April nurse's. O scent-blossoming." And again, "Be near, my heart's cloudless sky, the virtues bloom, the vices die."

Girl Scout News

YOUR CHILDREN
 by Olive Roberts Barton
 © 1929 by NEA-Service, Inc.

The monthly Girl Scout rally will be held Friday February 8, at the Nathan Hale school from 7 to 8 p. m.

The custom is growing fast of serving children their supper upstairs in the nursery or playroom at five or six o'clock, and then putting them to bed immediately after.

Five leaders attended the class for captains and lieutenants held at 180 Main street, Pearl Shelton, matrons, health and first aid games, and signaling, were reviewed, and the flower badges and nature trail were discussed. Deputy Commissioner Snow, Captains Buckland, Welles and Thornton also Lieutenant Sutherland passed the first class requirements to be March 2 when the examination for first class signaling will be given.

Also the idea of eating in a quiet place with his own little furniture and his very own dishes couldn't be better. Crackers and milk, porridge, stewed fruit, poached eggs, and custard will not be then out-classed by the savory dishes of the big table downstairs—when they keep their own company.

The Drum and Bugle Corp. will meet for practice at the Armory, Thursday night at 6:30.

But like all good things there is one very great objection to the plan. And I think you will agree with me that it is a serious one. Fathers are likely to remain strangers to their children.

Bowling League Race To Continue Tonight

Three Teams May Not Be Tied for First Place After Tonight's Session.

At Farr's Center Church vs. Sons of Italy. Beethoven vs. Manchester Green. At Murphy's Independents vs. Charter Oaks. Bon Ami vs. Night Hawks. West Sides vs. Man. Construction.

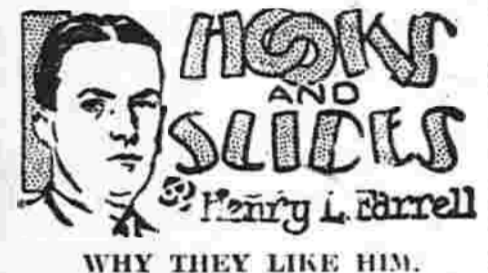

Above are the pairings for tonight's session in the Herald Bowling League which has only five more weeks after tonight to complete its schedule.

Six sessions to go and three teams tied for first place! What closer race could anyone ask? The Green, Sons of Italy and Bon Ami, league leaders are all favored to win tonight, but all of them will probably not win by four points which means that one or two may drop out of first place tonight.

Meanwhile a spirited race is developing among the teams which are fighting to avoid last place. Beethoven, Independents and Center Church are the three lowest teams and it's hard telling which will finish last. The same holds for first place. It's a matter of guesswork which team will top the flag.

WHY THEY LIKE HIM.

The Babe recently had a tragic experience. He was the news he never had been before and the experience was far from pleasant. Reporters and photographers dogged him to death even after he had given out a statement that should have satisfied the needs of the papers.

Some of the papers were rough on him. They tried into parts of his private life that had no immediate connection with the main story. The bounds of property were trespassed when one reporter sneaked into the room where he was taking his last farewell to the dead.

He went back to New York and they didn't leave him alone. The story was cut of the papers, but the editors of a few papers wanted to know a few more things and they chased unwilling reporters out on the job.

Ran Him Ragged.
The Babe had to change his place of residence four times in one day. He had to go in and out of back doors, but the trained reporters were always a half block behind him.

When he took flight in an automobile there was a taxi behind him with the trailing reporters—and they finally caught up with him. "I wish you fellows could leave me alone," he said. "But I know you can't. You've got me run ragged. This is a time when I'm trying to forget it. But I don't have a minute's rest. I don't blame you fellows. Your editors have sent you out and it's your job. I don't believe you like it because you've been as nice as you could. But God, I wish your editors would call you off me for a couple of days."

Big Ed Needs His Sleep.
One of the southern papers tells a story about Big Ed Morris, the Boston Red Sox pitching star, when he reported to the Chattanooga club as a green rookie who didn't even know about trains.

When the time approached for the first road trip Morris confided in one of his team-mates that he was horrified at the thoughts of spending nights on the trains. "I can't sleep in those seats," he said. "You have to draw up in a knot and your arm gets so twisted you can't pitch for days."

His friend explained to him about sleeping cars. He told him they had all the comforts of a hotel room and he did at home. He seemed relieved.

When the train pulled into the station most of the players tossed their bags into the Pullman and charged into the dining car. Morris, however, was more interested in the sleeping car.

So This Is the Sleeper.
He looked all around the car and asked the porter if he was in the ball club's sleeping car. When he was assured that the ball players were going to sleep in the car he rushed out to the diner and sat at the table with his friend.

"You lied to me, eh?" he shouted. "I wouldn't go on this train if you hadn't lied to me. You did lie. Don't tell me you didn't lie. I been all through that sleeping car and there ain't a damn bed in it."

BATTALINO HOPES HE'LL KAYO CURRY

Strong Supporting Card on Hurley's Program This Evening.

Hartford, Feb. 7.—Bat Battalino meets Joe Curry, of New York in the star bout of ten rounds at Foot Guard hall tonight. He expects to win by a knockout.

They have met twice, Bat having won the first fight and the second resulting in a draw. Both star bouts in New Haven. There has been a record advance sale indicating that the S. R. O. sign will be hung out. The under-card arranged for tonight includes four six rounders and a curtain-raiser of four rounds. One of the sixes is a bout between Lefty Carley of Worcester, who held the amateur welterweight championship of Massachusetts and Joe Russo of Westbury, who held the same title in Rhode Island.

Artie Carr, who once held the middleweight championship of the United States Navy, is booked for six rounds against Eddie Ellis of Springfield. Carr has a record of 11 wins in 12 fights since turning professional.

Another graduate from the amateur ranks who will put his fists in the ring tonight is Ollie Koski of Worcester, who is down for six rounds with Vic Morley. He has won nine of his ten fights as a professional.

The fourth six rounder will send Ray Sanborn against Vic Carlson in what the promoters call a grudge fight. Sanborn stopped the Terryville lad when they last met. Vic attributed that defeat to poor condition, but he reports that he will be fit as a fiddle for tonight's encounter. Harry Ossi of Springfield and Buster Wright of Hartford open the show with a four rounder.

BOXING RIVALS TAKING IT EASY

Sharkey to Spar in Exhibition Bout and Stribling Plays Golf Continually.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 7.—Neither Jack Sharkey nor Young Stribling approached their training quarters yesterday. Sharkey played golf the whole morning, he will do some stunts today but no boxing. He won't start glove swinging in earnest for another ten days.

Johnny Buckley has sent to Boston for Pat McCarthy to use as a sparring partner, and is also bringing Paul Hoffman down from New York.

Tomorrow night Sharkey is to appear in Tampa to box three exhibition rounds against three different opponents at an American Legion show. Stribling has not set program. And even Jack Dempsey does not know what the southern candidate is doing from day to day.

The rival camps started a jam over the referee question yesterday, but it isn't anything to speak of. Sharkey's contract gives him the last word. In addition to the eight referees named the other day by Dempsey as good men and true, there are still two to be named by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. Pa Stribling is quoted as saying he must have a couple of southern decision callers put on the list just to make everything look right. However, the referee will be named in due time, and his name will not be pulled out of a hat.

STABBED TO DEATH

Paulsboro, N. J., Feb. 7.—Police said today that Mrs. Iola Lennox, 23, held without bail on a charge of manslaughter, following the death of Charles Cassidy, 35, slashed his wrist with a butcher knife when he snatched her at a party here last night. Cassidy died to death, exsanguinated on the operating table.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

ACE HUDKINS BELIEVES HE COULD HAVE BEEN AS GREAT A BALLPLAYER AS "HE IS A BOXER."

JOE STECHER, A WORLD'S CHAMPION WRESTLER, WENT SOUTH WITH THE PHILLIES FOR "AN INFIELD JOB."

WALTER HAGEN BALLPLAYERS ENVIY.

NO-1 MIGHT KILL AN UMPIRE!!

MENTION ANY JOBS FROM PAPER HANGING TO GRAND OPERA—'D BE A CHAMP!

THE BIG DOUGH OF THE RING FORCED PETE LATZO TO TURN DOWN A LEAGUE CONTRACT, AND WILLIE HOPPE TO GO NEARLY AS MUCH WITH A BAT AS WITH A BILLIARD STICK.

No matter how high a man may go in his chosen racket, it seems natural for him to muse on what he might have accomplished in some other field. So it is with sports.

Ace Hudkins, uncrowned middleweight champion, feels sure he could have been as big a success on the diamond as he is in the ring. At every opportunity the Ace pulls out a fielding mit and indulges in the game he really enjoys. With his natural speed and quick eye, who can say Hudkins is kidding himself?

Many baseball bugs remember the year Joe Stecher, former heavy-weight wrestling champion of the world, was on the roster of the Philadelphia Nationals as a first baseman.

Joe at one time played good ball in the Western League and while he didn't stick with the Phils, it was due to the more important money that beckoned from the mat. A champion wrestler can pick up around $100,000 a year, while it takes a Babe Ruth to drag down that sum in baseball.

Pete Latzo, who grabbed the welterweight crown from Mickey Walker, turned down baseball offers for the big dough of the ring, while Willie Hoppe and Walter Hagen look on with envy every time they take in a ball game.

Of course there is such a thing as going too far as in the case of Mickey Walker. Who ever has heard the "toy bulldog" attempt to warble will agree he is a whale of a boxer.

FAMOUS COACHES AIR THEIR VIEWS ON THE OLYMPIC

Two of Them Hint That Politics Has a Hand in Picking Members.

By Davis J. Walsh.

New York, Feb. 7.—Airing their views for the benefit of a local publication, five prominent athletic coaches today attempt to tell what is the matter with America in Olympic competitions and judging by the purport of their remarks, the only thing less inspiring than the results attained in the track events, is the method by which the teams are selected. Two of the coaches, Eddie Farrell, of Harvard, and Harry Hillman, of Dartmouth, appear to daily with insinuations in which the ugly word "politics," rears its head.

Three of them, Farrell, Hillman and Jack Ryder, of Boston College and the Boston A. A., were members of the 1928 staff at Amsterdam. All of them—the others being Harry Gill, of Illinois, and Keene Fitzpatrick, of Princeton—agree that we kill our good men in a dubious effort to sustain the fact that they are good.

The five coaches mentioned suggest that we minimize the importance of final layouts and try to arrive at a selection, mostly, I suspect, on general principles.

Shorter Season.
The plans advanced by Farrell, Fitzpatrick, Hillman and Ryder vary only in detail, not in principle. That of Gill merely calls for the training season being shortened and the expansion of the final tryouts to an interval of three or four days to save the wear and tear on sinews andiceps.

Farrell has an ambitious scheme, which calls for the raising of a permanent $3,000,000 fund, the interest from which will defray the expenses of the trip, "eliminate politics" and prevent the duplication of effort. He wants pre-Olympic trials a year in advance, at which time 50 per cent. of the team would be selected provisionally. The selection would become absolute if these men continued to perform well before the final trials, which he wants held not less than seven weeks before the games. He also wishes the head coach to be in absolute charge, indicating again that popularity, such as the A. A. U's, must be deserved. Fitzpatrick thinks selections can be made from the results of college and A. U. competitions by a committee of coaches and one prominent official, thus eliminating the eliminations altogether.

Hillman's Plan.
Hillman wants only three weeks to establish the identity of the men, the meets to start 60 days before final election. Two weeks before, he would have a provisional team placed under observation and the selections made from the findings of those who do the observing.

Ryder strings along more or less with Scholz, who declared for the outstanding men being picked a year before the games. The Boston coach would have had the standouts in England a month before the games, with trials being held for the remaining places. He becomes a bit ironical in pointing out what he feels to be the absurdity of granting the mile runner and the swifter a longer week of training on the other side.

DEMOLAY DEFEATS HIGHLAND PARKERS

Bissell, McConkey and McCaw Play Leading Roles for Winners; Score 44 to 25.

The De Molay basketball team took the strong Highland Park team into camp last night at the Rec by a score of 44 to 25. The Demolay scored first and were never headed, setting a pace too fast for the boys from the hilltop.

Although the scoring was pretty well divided, Bissell, McConkey and McCaw did the "heavy" work for the winners while "Sparky" Nichols and Rohan shone for the losers. The DeMolay made seven more field goals and five free fouls.

New York Italian Hard Put to Deliver Haymaker to Tough Rival.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Tony Canzoneri, the little New York Italian, disposed of Joey Sangor in 7 rounds before a record crowd at Jim Muller's Coliseum show last night.

From the second round until he was prostrate for the full count in the seventh, Sangor displayed a gameness seldom equalled in the tony Canzoneri squared arena. Canzoneri practically wore himself out before he landed the haymaker, a terrific right cross to Sangor's head.

Other Chicago results follow:

Victory Tomorrow Night Would Prevent Bell City from Winning League Title.

Having lost one of its two big basketball games this week, Manchester will endeavor to get an even split when its high school team entertains Bristol High tomorrow evening on the Rec court. The other big game of the week was the New Britain tussle Tuesday night.

For years and years Manchester and Bristol have been arch rivals. Every time the two schools or teams representing the towns have clashed, a large crowd had turned out to watch the fireworks. Tomorrow night should be no exception.

Although defeated twice this season, Manchester is still in the running for the C. C. I. L. title. At present Bristol and Meriden are running neck and neck for the honors but a win for Manchester over Bristol would prevent Coach Tommy Monahan's charges from winning the clear claim to the title.

Bristol drubbed the local red and white aggregation in Bristol, January 1 by a 37 to 13 score. School officials here however maintain that the Manchester team is strong enough to turn the tide when the two teams meet tomorrow night. If so, hundreds of fans here will rejoice. For, what could be sweeter than a victory over Bristol?

Remember, it was Bristol that eliminated Manchester by one point in the semi-finals of the Yale tournament two years ago. Last year they put Manchester out of the running in the second round at Yale after the locals had whipped Wilby High of Waterbury.

Howard Turkington, star center of the local team, will play no more this season because of his illness with scarlet fever. However, he is only a sophomore and we will probably hear a lot more about this chap in the next two seasons. Vanzio Bosini has been practicing at center and may replace "Tubby" Johnson in the Bristol game.

The present league standing is as follows:

	W.	L.
Bristol	3	1
Meriden	3	1
Manchester	2	2
West Hartford	2	2
East Hartford	1	3
Middletown	0	3

Horemans Is Pushed Hard To Retain His Title

Seniors DEFEAT JUNIORS 12 TO 2

Warnock, Markley and Jacobs Knock Puck Into Goal Most.

New York, Feb. 7.—Edouard Horemans, who all but lost his 18.2 balkline billiard crown when routed by Kinrey Matsuyama in the first match of the six-man tournament here, today was making a dogged uphill fight to retain his title. With defeat staring him in the face, the Belgian came back last night and flashed the most scintillating performance of the week in defeating Welker Cochran, 490 to 290.

Trailing by a score of 195 to 34 in the early stages of the match, Horemans ran off a string of 193, the highest run yet made in the tournament. His average of 36 4-11 took him on the 11 innings to vanquish the Californian.

The score by innings:
Horemans—1, 0, 33, 1, 133, 0, 77, 25, 0, 0, 70—400.
Cochran—40, 0, 153, 0, 6, 6, 80, 2, 9—290.
Horemans high run 193, Cochran 153.
Average: Horemans 36 4-11, Cochran 29.

SENSE and NONSENSE

WHEN YOU ARE SLIPPING. When you feel yourself a-slippin' And things are lookin' mighty blue, That's the time to square your shoulders And show what kind of stuff's in you.

There's nothing like age to develop a woman's sense of humor.

LETTER GOLF

BUSH BECOMES TREE.

In letter golf, if we beat around the BUSH long enough, it turns into a TREE. Par for the change is seven and one solution, which you may be able to beat, is on another page.

Letter grid for 'BUSH BECOMES TREE' with letters B, U, S, H and T, R, E, E.

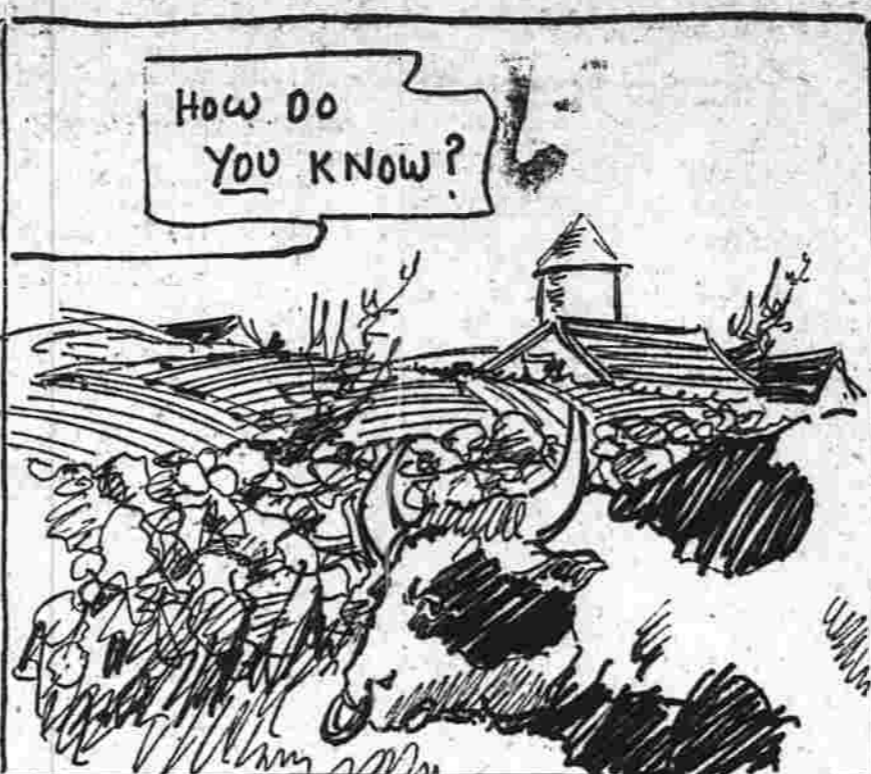

THE RULES. 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in just a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to BEN in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, BEN.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE PUT UP TO PARENTS

Sessions on Stormy Days Not Suspended As in Former Days—Letters to Be Sent.

Years ago in the Eighth and Ninth districts when there was no school because of a storm blasts on the fire whistle were sounded. This was one of the matters that was discussed at the last meeting of the town school board.

Russell Hathaway called attention to the conditions that existed for some of the pupils to get to school on days when there is a heavy storm in the Third district. There is no way in that district of notifying the parents that school sessions were suspended. It was decided it was a matter that the parents of the children could best regulate.

After the discussion it was left to Superintendent A. F. Howes to write a letter to each parent having a child attending schools in the first seven districts in town telling them that their judgment would regulate the sending of the children to school. It would not be fair, the understanding of the committee was, to have a child credited with a tardy mark or an absent mark on such a day as today proved to be. This letter will be mailed soon.

POLICE COURT

Leroy Phelps, age 18, of Middle Turnpike East, was before Judge Raymond A. Johnson in police court here this morning to answer to a charge of indecent exposure. He was given a thirty days jail sentence. Judgment was suspended, however, and Phelps was placed in the hands of the probation officer, Edward C. Elliott, Jr.

The Memorial Hospital Linen auxiliary will conduct a sale of home-baked foods in variety for the benefit of the linen fund. The sale will open at 2:30 tomorrow at Watkins Brothers' store.

COPS MAY GO TO STATE COLLEGE BY AND BY

Scheme to Give City and Town Policemen Special Course Is Considered.

Manchester will be able to send its policeman to a state "college" to learn the art of trying back doors, switching traffic lights, etc., if a bill heard by the committee on military affairs of the General Assembly is passed by that body. The privilege of attending the school is also extended to the policemen of every city and town in the state.

Under the bill, introduced by Rep. Russell Corcoran of New London and sponsored by Sup. Robert Hurley of the state police department, the school would be similar to the school now conducted for the members of the state police department. The policemen would be given a short course in the law, as relating to their duties as well as a course in being courteous and exercising some judgment before making arrests.

Sergt. Babcock of the state police department, who is Supt. Hurley's right-hand man, explained to the members of the committee that, under the present system of schooling state policemen, they are first sent out to do six months' general duty, during which time they are carefully scrutinized. If they show that they have the qualifications to become a policeman they are sent to the police training school. The school, according to Sergt. Babcock, puts the "finishing touches" on the policeman, and they emerge from it after six months' thoroughly understanding just what their duty is, and knowing the fine points of the police game.

Sergt. Babcock explained that the same schooling that is given state policemen could be given the policeman of every city and town in the state at but small cost to the state, and that if it was, Connecticut could boast of one of the best-trained sets of policemen in the country. He intimated that cities that have over 50 policemen should have schools of their own, but said that if they did not, their policemen would be welcome at the state school.

The question of who is going to bear the expense of supporting the policemen while they are at school, was dwelt on at length by Sen. Hall, chairman of the committee. Sergt. Babcock said that this would be up to the city or town who sent their policemen to the school. He said that instruction could be given free and that the cost of board and room would be slight.

There are times which are almost as sweet as oranges.

NAVEN'S

To keep it right—keep it tuned!

YOUR piano is a very wonderful instrument that deserves real care and attention.

Think how valuable it is, not only in money, but as a source of entertainment and culture in your home.

You keep it spotlessly clean, outside—how much more important to keep it tuned! Then you will always be sure of perfect music for your children and for the sensitive ears of your discriminating guests.

The main thing is to have your piano tuned regularly. Twice a year is the absolute minimum. Three or four times a year is much better—and fully worth while.

Drop in today and let us talk over this important matter with you—or phone us and have our representative call.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

SHUT IN BY STORM.

It takes a day like the last twenty-four hours to bring home to Madame the Housewife the complete meaning of food store service. With the whole town a-flood and a-drip, and the necessity of going on a marketing trip involving actual hardship and danger to health, it is pretty nice to know that your grocer-marketman can be ABSOLUTELY DEPENDENT ON to bring to you every necessity and every luxury that you ask him for; PROMPTLY, EXACTLY IN COMPLIANCE WITH YOUR ORDER, and AT THE MOST MODERATE PRICES POSSIBLE.

And that's PINEHURST! We welcome a storm like this, because it permits us to demonstrate the infallibility, the good temper and the enthusiastic interest of our service. PINEHURST WOULD FILL YOUR ORDER ON TIME IF WE HAD TO BRING THE STUFF TO YOU ON BOATS OR RAFTS! So, Madame, you can set your mind at rest about any difficulties in getting your food supplies, and turn to it what you'd like today or tomorrow. And let us make you a suggestion. It's about pies. Why on earth should folks limit their eating of delicious Mince Pies to Christmas or such occasions. It's just as good now. So is Squash Pie. And the easiest thing imaginable to have in perfection. If, that is, you use TEA GARDEN MINCE MEAT in glass jars; or FERNDALE GENUINE MARROW SQUASH. Our customers are now specifying Ferndale Marrow Squash just the same as they do FERNDALE SPINACH. Two other Ferndale items are making the same kind of a hit—Ferndale Grape Fruit and Ferndale De Luxe Plums—a big, unpitted Prune Plum that is perfectly delicious and offers a welcome change in winter fruits. Phone 2900 for Pinehurst delivery service—all day, from 8 a. m. on.
