

FEDERAL BOARD IS WATCHING STOCK MARKET

If Warning Against Speculation is Not Heeded Stern Measures Will Be Taken to Curb the Evil.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Gov. observers kept a close watch on the stock market today, checking up on the results of the initial wave of stock selling, which followed the federal reserve board's barrage aimed at driving the speculative bulls to cover and reducing the supply of the nation's credit devoted to stock transactions.

The announcement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank that no action was taken to increase the rediscount rate, following the London advance, but that a special meeting had been called for next Monday, indicated that the government would await the effect of its opening assault before proceeding further.

No Permanent Break.
Judging from the statements of high treasury and reserve board officials no permanent break in the market was anticipated, although they were hopeful that the board's warning statement would result in greater caution on the part of speculators and individuals involved in market activities.

The board sought a slowing down of speculation rather than a serious drop in security values, which would wipe out the shorts and cause heavy losses to widely scattered small speculators over the country, who undoubtedly have contributed to the "life" of the present market.

Stern Measures.
If, however, the market continues to climb and if the tremendous volume of credit employed to promote stock market operations is maintained at its present tendency, the government is prepared to clamp down hard.

Announcement of the brokers loans showed an increase of $100,000,000 to a peak of $5,659,000,000 from the New York member banks. More than $100,000,000 was for the member banks on their own account, and the remainder from funds of out-of-town banks and others, including corporations and individuals both foreign and domestic. The outside funds were attracted to the New York market by the high call rates.

Redcounts Restricted.
Just how far the reserve board will go in curtailing redcounts of member banks at the reserve institutions was problematical. An official of the board said that attention to the statement that these redcounts would be "restricted" rather than "denied."

This was a rather enigmatic statement, in view of the general tenor of the announcement, but officials declared that the remainder prepared to enforce its rule that paper representing speculative loans would not be redcounted.

MARKET RECOVERS FROM ITS SHOCK

Wall Street Rallies and Opening Prices Showed Advances in Most Stocks.

New York, Feb. 8.—Wall street recovered its equilibrium somewhat today following the reeling, groggy market of yesterday, and opening prices showed moderate rallies in almost the entire list. Early trading was not as hectic as at the outset Thursday when the bottom dropped out of the market and millions of dollars in paper profits were lost.

Opening prices showed advances in these stocks: Standard Oil of New York up 1/4 at 40 3/4; Radio, new, up 2 points at 73 1/2; United States Steel 1/4 higher at 175 1/2; New Haven up 1/2 at 91 1/2; Chrysler up 1/4 at 107; International Combustion Engineering 1 1/2 higher at 30 1/2; Westinghouse up 1 1/2 at 150; Kennecott Copper 2 1/2 higher at 157 1/2; Anaconda 1/4 higher at 126 and Hudson Motor up 1/2 at 85.

Some Declines.
Fractional declines, however, were noted in Sinclair Oil, General Motors, International Nickel, National Cash Register, Montgomery Ward and a number of other issues.

A factor tending to give the "bulls" confidence was the fact that directors of the New York Federal Reserve bank after meeting late yesterday, failed to shove up the rediscount rate from 5 per cent. Thursday's sharp decline was brought about by an increase of one per cent. in the rediscount rate of the Bank of England and the outspoken "warning" of the Federal Reserve Board against what it considered excessive use of bank credit for speculative purposes.

SAYS WITCHES CAUSED AUTO WHEEL TO DROP

New York, Feb. 8.—Witchcraft, the "evil eye," faith-healing and spiritualism—these, says Mrs. Mildred Hurster, 27, are but a few of the "obsessions" that have driven her to sue her husband, William, 37, for separations.

Hearing on her motion for $60 weekly alimony and $400 counsel fees was set for Feb. 14. Mrs. Hurster said that on Labor Day, when one of the wheels of their automobile fell off, her husband accused her of attracting evil spirits, who were responsible.

STEWART APPEALS TO STOCKHOLDERS

Denies That Rockefeller Have Majority to Oust Him from Standard Oil.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—The first personal appeal to stock holders of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana on the part of Col. Robert W. Stewart, who is seeking re-election as chairman of the board of directors over the opposition of a powerful group headed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was in the mail today.

The substance of the letters sent out by Col. Stewart was that the best interests of the Indiana company demand his re-election to the chairmanship at the stockholders annual meeting on March 7.

Col. Stewart, who was in New York when his statement was sent out, denied the claims of the Rockefeller interests that they already have 51 per cent. of the proxies "in hand," which makes certain the ouster of Stewart.

The fiery colonel also seized the opportunity to deny that he had ever promised the younger Rockefeller that he would submit his resignation whenever Mr. Rockefeller requested it. He stated that what he told the younger Rockefeller is that he would resign if "the stockholders" asked that of him.

Quotes Letter.
To support this contention, Col. Stewart quotes from a letter Mr. Rockefeller wrote to Senator Walsh on Feb. 8, 1928, as follows:

"The (Col. Stewart) further stated that he did not wish to embarrass in any way the stockholders of his company and that they could have his resignation whenever they desired. This is a question the stockholders should, of course, and will naturally consider as the matter develops."

The document sent to stockholders by Col Stewart was a pamphlet, containing two communications. The first was from a "stockholders' protective committee," described as "a group of stockholders of long standing." This gave a narrative account of the Stewart regime and pointed out that "since he became chief executive in 1918, the market value of the company has increased from $17,000,000 to around $90,000,000."

The other communication was Col. Stewart's personal plea.

DID NOT KNOW GIRL KILLED IN HIS CAR

Driver Says She Jumped from Another Auto As His Car Backs Into Pond.

Bridgport, Conn., Feb. 8.—Fourteen hours after an automobile plunged into Quarry Pond, Park avenue, police today determined that a girl lost her life in the water was Annie Murko, 20, who until recently lived at 645 Warren street. Hazel Smith, Morris Kieley, and John Ardito, also in the car, were rescued from the water, and taken to a hospital, they declared they did not know the girl.

Kieley, driver of the car, told the police that he was driving along Park avenue when a girl jumped from a parked sedan, ran to his machine, and begged to be protected. He invited the girl to enter the car and as she did, his car slipped backward and went into the pond.

Coroner John J. Phelan will hold his inquest into the death of the girl on Monday morning.

VALERA SENTENCED

London, Feb. 8.—Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, was sentenced today to one month's imprisonment by the Ulster government of Ireland, for violation of an expulsion order against him, according to a Central News dispatch from Belfast.

De Valera was arrested on Wednesday when he crossed the Free State Ulster border to attend a meeting at Belfast. His crossing into Ulster territory was in violation of an expulsion order passed against him more than three years ago.

WALES WALKS WITH DESTITUTE MINERS

It was a dismal scene of widespread misery and suffering that met the eyes of the heir to Britain's throne when he trudged along snowy roads of North England's mining towns recently. The Prince of Wales, shown above in the grey overcoat and bowler, visited the homes of a few of the thousands of jobless miners, gave out words of encouragement to the families, studied the unemployment situation firsthand, and left obviously depressed by conditions in the district.

GERMAN BANKERS SAD ON EVE OF CONFERENCE

Fear for the Worse at Reparations Parley—Say Gilbert Was Unable to See Dangers of His Plan.

Berlin, Feb. 8.—"With her back to the wall" grimly biding her time, but determined to defend her future, Germany enters the reparation battle expecting little and fearing the worst.

Thick gloom hangs over Wilhelmstrasse and all the German counting houses.

The spectre of either new inflation or such strangulation of business and consequent impoverishment as to raise fears of a new Bolshevik wave, is the shadow that will be cast upon the wall if the terms of the new settlement prove too onerous.

German approach S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparation payments under the Dawes plan, with being blinded by statistics unable to solve the facts or the political dangers.

Appeals For Truce
Economics Minister Curtiss charged so in a speech last night without mentioning Gilbert's name. At the same time he appealed for a truce between the parties and states with the Reich so Germany could present a united front.

The German formula is that Germany is willing to pay because she lost the war, but not to the point of economic suicide.

German experts are going to the conference without any fixed figures, but expect to present three main arguments:

Germany's Arguments
The first is that Germany has already paid sums variously estimated at between 20,000,000,000 and 42,000,000,000 marks, though only 8,000,000,000 marks have been credited to her reparation account so far.

Included in this sum is more than 9,000,000,000 marks private German property seized during the war, which was so squandered and embezzled that only 2,000,000,000 could be credited.

This does not include the German property seized in the United States.

The second argument is that Germany's ability to pay does not depend on Germany alone, but on conditions under which the world will permit her to do business.

The third argument is that Gilbert's cash transfers to the allies are already robbing Germany of so much capital that her business is being throttled by interest rates which are two and three times as high as those elsewhere.

Germany will insist, therefore, upon retention of the Dawes transfer clause, which protects German currency from a new collapse by stopping reparation payments in case of danger. Because of this, however, a final settlement is held unlikely at this time.

ROTHSTEIN'S WEALTH

New York, Feb. 8.—The estate of the late Arnold Rothstein, slain underworld czar, was valued at $2,754,355 today following the court application of his wife, Carolyn, for $2,000 monthly pending trial of the contest of the alleged deathbed will of the gambler.

What, no features! Nothing light and breezy?

Thereupon, one of Uncle Sam's employees laid an official-looking piece of mail upon his desk. Tearing through a red seal, bearing the word "Hobo Seal," he read:

"Dear Editor: I hereby call an official convention at 9 a. m. sharp at Pershing Square, Los Angeles, on January 1, 1930, for all the hoboes to meet and elect a new king.

"I will resign as king on the evening of the Fourth of October, 1929. At present I am on my way to Alaska. Kindly place this news on the wires for me.

"Signed, J. Leon Lazarowitz, Esq.

"His Royal Highness,
"King of U. A. A. Hoboes."
Hot omelet ejaculated the "City Editor. This is news. "Boy, Copy!"

TORAL TO FACE A FIRING SQUAD TOMORROW A. M.

Final Hope Vanishes Today When President of Mexico Refuses to Commute Death Sentence.

Mexico City, Feb. 8.—His last hope of life gone through the refusal of President Portes Gil to interfere, Jose De Leon Toral, young self-confessed assassin of President-Elect Alvaro Obregon, will be executed by a firing squad here tomorrow morning.

Toral's final hope vanished at midnight when the president telegraphed from Tampico, refusing to commute Toral's death sentence.

When Toral was told that the president refused to interfere he knelt in his cell and prayed for a long time. His mood became passive and he apparently lost all interest in worldly affairs.

Reason For Crime
Toral will receive his final visit from his spiritual adviser before the day is over. He is a devout Catholic. His crime was attributed to brooding over the conflict between the Church and State in Mexico.

Toral was formally handed over to the custody of the president of the federal district, this morning. This formality, as required by law, followed his formal delivery to the judge of the San Angel District Court. The transfer was purely technical and Toral remained in the same cell in jail throughout.

President Portes Gil, in announcing his refusal to interfere, took the view that the decision of the courts should not be set aside.

HOLD SPORTSMAN IN AUTO KILLING

One Dead and Four Injured In Accident at Westport, This State.

Westport, Conn., Feb. 8.—William Prince, sports promoter, former boxer, and former Bridgeport alderman, was placed under ball of $5,000 today under a temporary charge of manslaughter following an accident early today when his car struck a machine driven by Charles Abbott, of Stamford, instantly killing Abbott, and sending four people to Norwalk hospital.

The victims in the hospital are: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fisher, of 251 Summer street, Stamford, both in serious condition, guests of Abbott.

John Blanchfield, Harrah avenue, Bridgeport, and Samuel Hollin, of 62 Goddard avenue, Bridgeport, not seriously hurt, guests of Prince.

Prince, Blanchfield and Hollin were returning to Bridgeport from boxing bouts in Norwalk Elks Club. Abbott was bound for Stamford. In the collision the Fishers were flung from the machine. Prince was not hurt.

Abbott was 57 and lived at 332 Summer street, Stamford. He was a painter. His body was ordered removed to Stamford for burial late in the morning.

Coroner John J. Phelan will come here on Tuesday to conduct an inquest.

IS OFFERED $100,000 FOR A SEWER CONTRACT

New York Official Says Detective Wanted to Give Him a $100,000 Bill.

New York, Feb. 8.—George W. Harvey, president of the borough of Queens, New York City, today confirmed a report that he was offered a bribe of $200,000 last November, to use his influence in steering sewer contracts into the hands of a certain concern.

The offer was made at Harvey's home in New Milford, Conn., by a private detective who wanted to give him a $100,000 bill as advance payment, the borough president said.

Harvey said he did not prosecute the detective because lawyers told him he did not have sufficient evidence to convict the man.

BAPTIST GROUP HELD IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Feb. 8.—A group of Baptists, presumably Americans, formerly arrested near Minsk, charged with counter-revolutionary activities, the newspaper Trud stated today.

This group is alleged to have left a Baptist institute at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1920, entered Russia illegally and established a colony.

According to the Trud, members of the colony are accused of crossing and re-crossing the Polish frontier, selling information to the American and British legations in Warsaw.

EDWIN DENBY DEAD WAS CONGRESSMAN

Secretary of Navy in Hard- ing Cabinet Dies Suddenly In Detroit Hotel.

Detroit, Feb. 8.—Edwin Denby, former member of Congress, private in the Marine Corps during the World War and secretary of the navy in the Harding Cabinet, died of heart failure in the Whittier hotel here today.

On Feb. 18 the former Cabinet official would have been 59 years old.

Edwin Denby was born in Evansville, Ind., but his early youth was spent with his father, Charles Denby, who held the post of consul general at Peking, China.

He returned from the Orient to attend the University of Michigan where he was a star center of the "M" team in 1896, in which year he took the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Was Gunner's Mate.
His start in the practice of law was interrupted by the Spanish-American war, during which he served as gunner's mate on the U. S. S. Yosemite and gained valuable experience which served him in good stead when he entered President Harding's Cabinet.

He was married in 1911 to Marion Thurber, of Detroit. There are two children, Edwin, Jr., and Marion.

Denby was elected to Congress from Detroit for the 59th, 60th and 61st sessions of the House of Representatives, 1905-11.

He was appointed to the Harding Cabinet as secretary of the navy on March 4, 1921. He resigned March 10, 1924.

Denby, appointed secretary of the navy by President Harding, retained his position, when Calvin Coolidge took over the reins of government.

When the startling disclosure of the Teapot Dome oil scandal rocked political circles in Washington, Denby was attacked in Congress and his resignation demanded.

Denby defended himself against the attacks of those who sought to link him with the gigantic oil steal.

For some time he defied Senate accusers and refused to resign, finally, to save President Coolidge the embarrassment of the continued attacks on a member of his cabinet, Denby resigned.

Since his retirement from public life he was a practicing attorney in the city of Denby, Kennedy and Kennedy.

CULLEN INDICTED

Plymouth, Mass., Feb. 8.—On indictment charging first degree murder was returned against Christopher E. Cullen today by a Plymouth county Grand Jury. Cullen, under arrest in a Miami, Fla., hospital, was charged in the indictment with the killing of his wife Mrs. Cora Jacques Cullen whose bullet-riddled body was found covered with snow in a cornfield in Hingham.

An indictment was also returned against Elwell Smith, former Wareham chief of police, on charges of receiving bribes in connection with the smuggling of liquor.

Miss Ruth Bolling, daughter of the city chemist of Brockton, together with George Grinnell and Winthrop Shaw, Brockton high school students, were indicted on charges of breaking and entering.

HAZARDOUS TRIP

Liabon, Portugal, Feb. 8.—The small Dutch lifeboat "Shuitervaer," manned by Captain Shuitervaer and two seamen, set out today to attempt a trans-Atlantic crossing to New York, via the Azores.

Utah Senator Acts as Legis- lative Spokesman—Hoover Tells Him That There Should Be a Review of the Tariff But No General Re- vision.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 8.—The legislative spokesman for the coming administration of Herbert Hoover left Miami Beach today headed for Washington and a series of conferences with Congressional leaders over the desirability of the President-Elect in the matter of future legislation.

The gentleman entrusted with the responsibility of speaking for the nation's next executive was Senator Reed Smoot (R) of Utah. For the past four days, he has been a house guest at "allo Isle. He has been the only Congressional leader to put in an appearance during the pre-inaugural vacation here, and he came by special invitation. He departed fully equipped to detail Mr. Hoover's legislative likes and dislikes.

Primarily, Smoot is going to look to prepare for the special session of Congress Mr. Hoover will call soon after March 4. Tariff and farm relief are to be the two subjects taken up, and because of the vital positions they hold in the President-Elect's economic scheme, the latter is determined they shall be handled according to his lights.

Wants General Revision.
The message of the Utah Senator is carrying back is that there shall be a general review of the tariff, but no general revision.

It was a message with which he personally had no sympathy four days ago, for when he first arrived he told the correspondents he expected a general revision. Just before his departure, he told them, however, that only schedules clearly needing reworking would be touched.

That is the Hoover tariff policy, in fact if he has the only schedules revised would be those which have direct bearing on farm relief. He has pointed out to visitors that the present tariff law is the most successful the nation has ever had. That prosperity has been in effect unaltered ever since its adoption, and that any general change now might have a very distressing effect on business.

Favors April 15.
Smoot did not say before he left when the special session would convene. He came down here urging a call for April 1. Mr. Hoover favored April 15, and April 15 it probably will be, all things being equal.

Today, the President-Elect has J. L. Replogle, New York capitalist, and E. C. Jameson, of New York, a big insurance man, as candidates. Earlier in the morning, he chatted briefly with William E. Howe, who was Republican candidate for governor of Florida last fall.

Quite a number of callers passed through the President-Elect's office this morning, but none here furnished any news. Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Reed & Co., New York, paid his respects, as did Howard Heinz, Pittsburgh pickle manufacturer.

Edward W. Waybright, who bolted of his party and was elected State Senator of Florida as a Hoover Democrat; J. M. Pope and George M. Powell, also of Florida, likewise called.

R. J. Quinn, of Atlanta, had a few minutes with Mr. Hoover.

Louis K. Liggett, Boston, Republican national committee chairman for Massachusetts, and Treasurer Charles Francis Adams, of Harvard, joined Replogle and Jameson at lunch with the Hoovers.

TO REGAIN THRONE

Moscow, Feb. 8.—Characterizing Habibullah Khan as a bandit hence unfit to rule Afghanistan, Hedayatulla Khan, 18-year-old son of Amanullah Khan, the former Afghan king, arrived here today from Paris en route to his native country where he will aid his father in the latter's attempt to regain the throne.

"Habibullah is a bandit," Hedayatulla stated to an International News Service correspondent for "No bandit will be allowed to rule peaceful Afghanistan."

"My father is coming back. I am going to help him."

Hedayatulla will take a train to Tashkent tomorrow. From there he will fly to Kandahar with one step en route at Herat.

Reports received here from Kabul today stated that Amanullah's troops were within 40 kilometers of the city.

BASEBALL CELEBRATING ITS 72ND BIRTHDAY

Boston, Feb. 8.—Modern baseball was 72 years old today. The first get-together of delegates from various ball clubs in and around New York took place that number of years ago.

ITALIANS LEAD THOSE LEARNING ENGLISH

Outnumber All Other Races in Adult Classes Throughout Connecticut.

Hartford, Feb. 8.—Italians led in number among the pupils in non-English speaking adult classes throughout the state last year, according to a compilation by Robert C. Deming, director of the adult education bureau of the state board of education. The Italian group numbered 2,141 in a total enrollment of 9,832. The Poles seeking instruction in English ranked second with 1,105 and then came in order: Germans 915, Canadians 857, Russians 807, Americans 706, and Swedes 523.

Thirty-three nationalities in all are listed, and there are 1,047 others regarding whom exact date is not given. The group listed as Americans was largely made up of colored folks who have come north in recent years. The influx of French-Canadians resulted in the relatively large Canadian total for the industrial towns.

Two Scotchmen made up the smallest group listed, preceded by three Latvians and six Egyptians.

As regards age: there were 1,629 under 21 years, and 40 who while over 60, sought instruction in the language and customs of this country. The age span of 21 to 30 years showed 3,175, and between 31 and 50 years were 3,536.

The evening schools of the state had a total enrollment of 20,643 pupils, with 659 teachers.

REPORT TO DECIDE FATE OF DONOVAN

Interesting Political Battle is Soon to Be Waged in U. S. Senate.

Washington, Feb. 8.—An interesting political battle, involving Assistant Attorney William J. Donovan, is to be fought in the Senate over the Walsh report, condemning the interior and justice departments for their handling of the Salt Creek Royalty Oil contract. Donovan's report, which is expected to be published in the new Hoover administration may be affected by the outcome.

The report, drafted by Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, censured the two departments for delay in cancelling the contract of Harry F. Sinclair, which ultimately was held illegal in an opinion rendered by Donovan. Rejected by the Senate public lands committee by a 7 to 6 vote, Walsh now has asked the Senate itself to approve it.

There were indications today Donovan would be exonerated by the Senate. The decision will rest with the interior department, it is apparently will join with administration Senators in opposing the Walsh report.

Nye Opposes

When Walsh met defeat in the oil committee, the deciding vote was cast against his by Sen. Nye (R) of North Dakota, insurgent chairman. Nye declared he could not agree to censure Donovan, who wrote the opinion holding the contract illegal and ordering it cancelled. The interior department followed this recommendation.

In the committee, Walsh was supported by all the Democrats, while all the Republicans voted against him. The contest, probably will develop such a party division in the Senate but Walsh undoubtedly will lose some Democrats. If he does, he will be defeated, just as he will be if the Senate divides entirely upon party lines.

Democratic leaders, however, will support Walsh. They concur in his censure of the Department of Justice, pointing out that the legality of the renewal clause had been held to the department's attention in April, 1928, and its decision was not announced until the following October. The censure of Donovan would be based upon this six months which the department took to prepare a decision. Since the contract was cancelled, it has been shown the government lost $1,000 a day under it—in all, a total of $300,000.

HORSE RUNS AWAY, HEADS INTO AUTO

Blind, He Breaks from Post and Runs Headlong Into Rear of Car.

At 2:40 this afternoon a horse that was hitched to a drain pipe in the rear of the vacant lot just west of the Smith Garage, where it is the custom of the owner, Hear, Roth of Vernon to hitch the horse while he does his shopping, became frightened by the barking of a police dog and breaking his halter dashed out onto Blissett street. He headed toward Main street and continued down Main street until it ran into a parked automobile owned by A. D. Hale of Main and Russell streets.

The owner of the horse was in a barber shop and did not know until after the horse had made its dash that it must have been blind, more evident by its running head on into the sedan with the result that the front part of the shaft was broken by coming in contact with the body of the car. The automobile was quite badly damaged and the face of the horse was badly cut and also its breast.

Mr. Roth, who is a farmer and also a Spanish American War Veteran, is well known in Manchester, as he does most of his trading here. He is also active in many of the social events of Ward Church, Camp, although much older than most of the men who went in the service in 1898.

SENTIMENT'S AGAINST FOOT GUARD EXPENSE

Gov. Trumbull Says That It is Not Likely Members Will Be at Inaugural.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 8.—The Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut may not, after all, go to the inauguration of President Herbert Hoover, Governor John H. Trumbull this afternoon declared that "public sentiment is against" the proposed expenditure of ten thousand dollars to enable the two companies of Foot Guard to go to Washington for the events of March Fourth.

"I will sign the bill appropriating the money," the governor declared, and then said the money probably would not be used after all. He has the power, under the bill, to use the money or withhold it.

Troop "A" of New Haven, and the Branford Artillery Battery are going to the inauguration. The governor pointed out that these organizations are paying their own way.

SURGEON KILLS SELF

New York, Feb. 8.—The Cunard liner Caronia arrived here today from Havana without the ship's surgeon Dr. Robert P. Rosseter. He had committed suicide by jumping overboard sometime last night as the ship steamed up the coast with its 170 passengers. He was 48 years old.

A note was found in his cabin which left no doubt, Cunard officials said, that he had ended his life. Contents of the note were not made public, however.

Dr. Rosseter, who formerly sailed on the Aquitania, was married and had a home on Staten Island. Cunard officials refused to give out the address.

GIRL USES TEAR GAS TO HOLD UP A BANK

Second Robbery in Same City by Same Negress—Escapes With $2,000.

Detroit, Feb. 8.—Detroit's elusive negress bandit made her second appearance within a month here today, obtained $2,000 in cash by means of a threatening note and fled after firing off a revolver containing a tear gas cartridge.

The negress, about 23 years old and of medium height, sauntered leisurely into the Canfield branch of the Michigan state bank during the noon hour. The bank was empty with the exception of Thomas Witkowski, a teller. She walked up to Witkowski's cage, quietly disclosed a revolver which she had concealed in her pocketbook, and handed him a note demanding the money.

After Witkowski had passed over the currency she forced him to walk to the rear of the cage and lie down. Then she ran to the door. Here she halted, wheeled and fired the gas bullet. The interior of the bank was instantly filled with fumes of the choking, blinding gas.

PORTER STREET SCHOOL INSPECTION TONIGHT

Contracting Firms Send Many Flowers to Adorn New Building—Program and Business Meeting.

Local firms who have furnished building materials or equipment for the new Porter street school have sent a profusion of beautiful cut flowers for use in the auditorium this evening when the building committee will formally turn the school over to the Third district. The committee, of which Harold Alvord is chairman, has sent five vases of flowers to be placed on the desks of each one of the teachers this evening, when the building will be thrown open for inspection to the residents of the district and the town.

The concerns that have sent large baskets of flowers are the Manchester Construction company who erected the school, the Stiles-Raymond company of Hartford who furnished the roofing material; Watkins Brothers, through whom the school equipment was purchased; and the following firms who furnished cement and building materials: G. E. Willis & Son, Inc., the W. G. Glenney company and the Manchester Lumber company. The school will not be in session this evening but a display of the work has been arranged in each room and at 7:30 a half hour's program of health playlets and songs will be given in the auditorium. The business meeting will follow.

PLENTY OF SEATS

Dresden, Germany.—A tramcar, single-decked and with a seating capacity of 117 persons, is being tested here. It is capable of making 30 miles an hour and is so long that the conductor announces streets through a megaphone.

IT WOULD BE EASIER TO SIMPLY SAY CARDS

Dave McCollum, social spokesman, chief and what not, for the Army and Navy Club here, wants a misunderstanding cleared up. He says the club members play pinocle instead of setback.

For several weeks, according to McCollum, both local and out-of-town newspapers have been reporting the results of their card parties and tournaments but invariably have referred to them as setback games.

Today Dave was quite peeved and he said he had finally come to a conclusion as to the reason. "The whole darn trouble," he expostulated, "is because the reporters can't spell p-i-n-o-c-l-e. The city editor laughed when he heard the explanation adding, "Anybody knows that you spell the word p-i-n-o-c-l-e."

Sam Ford, one of Manchester's best known World War veterans has called upon the police and all of the members of the YD Club that he has met to assist him in trying to locate the person who shot his dog last Saturday afternoon. The dog was found in a lot beside the road on Autumn street. The dog was imported to this country by Sam six years ago when it was only six weeks old. It was sent to him by his brother from the "old sod" and Sam thought as much of it as some would think of a full blooded prize winner.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Yesterday's assembly contained a most interesting program. A large part of the time was devoted to a series of speeches by members of Miss Doward's music appreciation class. There were several speakers and each took a certain period in the development of musical composition as her subject. One song was presented to illustrate each period and these songs were usually sung by members of the class. However, the Senior Boys' Quartet, composed of Kenneth Graham, John Johnson, Victor Swanson and William Johnson, rendered one of the selections and also, Miss Josephine Fiesick adapted the role of a prima donna to illustrate a topic concerning operatic compositions. The latter number was very much appreciated by the student body and the singer received an unusually large round of applause.

 The remainder of the assembly program was a basketball rally which was held in connection with tonight's game with Bristol. Mr. Kelley took charge of the rally, which included a short speech by Coach Clark. Ernie Dowd, a guard on the local team, also spoke, and "Timmie" Wilson led some very enthusiastic cheers.
 New class cheers were put on the home-room boards this morning. A record attendance is expected for tomorrow's game.

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS TOWN PLAYERS' BILL

To Entertain in High School Hall Monday Night, February 18—Dancing to Follow.

The town players' bill for Monday night, February 18, at 8:15, by the Town Players.
The keenness of George Ade's wit has never been more apparent than in "Nettle," wherein two gallant gentlemen, finding that they have been dupes of the same clever gold-digger, "Nettle," coached by Miss Eugenia Walsh, has the following well-known cast: Frank McCann, William Gahrman, Arthur Krob, Albert Tuttle, Roy Warren. "Embers," while a comedy, is very different in tone from the gay sophistication of "Nettle." The embers referred to in the title are those of the yet-smoldering love in the heart of a mature woman for a man whom she once rejected as a suitor and to whom she now looks for assistance in saving her son from his own follies. In this play,

ROME KNEW NOTHING OF CHURCH SETTLEMENT

New York, Feb. 8.—As a result of the strict censorship of the Italian press by the Fascist regime at Rome, the people of the outside world knew more about the negotiations for settlement of the Church-State conflict than the Romans themselves. Advice from Rome today said that none of the newspapers, not even the Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, published the official announcement of the settlement. Ever since December 18 when International News Service exclusively announced that the negotiations were nearing a successful conclusion and that an announcement of the settlement was imminent, the people of the world outside of Rome were kept fully informed of the situation.

HOW BABY SPECIALISTS TREAT CONSTIPATION

Constipation in babies and children is the cause of colic, bloating, skin disorders, etc. It weakens them; just as it does grown folks; makes them cross, feverish and fretful. But don't use grown folks' medicine with them; baby specialists advise. Ninety per cent of them recommend just one preparation for constipation, colds and other ills of babies and children. They say Fletcher's Castoria. Millions of mothers have proved its merit during thirty years of use. Castoria is purely-vegetable, harmless and pleasant-tasting. Genuine Castoria always bears the Fletcher signature. Avoid imitations.

FRIDAY, FEB. 8, 1929
CENTRALIZATION
Manchester's recent and present experiences in the field of property appraisal for taxation purposes have been such as to make this town fertile soil for the sowing of the idea of the appointment of assessors by the governor instead of having them elected by the towns and cities, in political contests, as at present.

Without question the problem of tax assessments is a provocative one not only in Manchester, nor yet in Hartford—which Commissioner Blodgett describes as being in a frightful mess of unfair and unequal appraisal—but in substantially every town and city in the state. But that fact does not carry with it the slightest certainty that the method of reform proposed in the legislative measure is the right one. We are very inclined to doubt that it is.

Connecticut tradition is pretty firmly established in opposition to the surrender of home rule and the centralization of the control of local affairs in the state administration. While it is of course open to more or less argument whether a town's system of tax assessment is entirely its own affair and no concern of the rest of the commonwealth, still the historic attitude of the towns is fairly against outside intrusion in domestic matters, and the right of each community to carry on its own business in its own way is at all times sure to be jealously guarded.

Aside from that there is neither any guarantee that assessors appointed by the state administration would function more successfully than those chosen by the municipalities, nor any good reason to believe that each town cannot, if it earnestly sets out to, adjust its assessment affairs in a satisfactory way. So far as we can see, if the governor must appoint tax assessors for cities and towns, in order to get proper appraisal, he will presently have to appoint selectmen and mayors in order to obtain proper administration of the funds raised on the appraisals.

about the Bowery jobless because, he says, he finds that a terribly larger number of them than last year are taking to "smoke" as surcease from hunger, worry and cold. The "smoke," it appears, isn't opium—opium is costly; it isn't even tobacco. It is a sort of white mule split which is exceedingly cheap and exceedingly destructive. Frankly, we had no idea that one could make himself drunk for so very little money. You can buy at countless drug stores and "temperance saloons," says Mr. Poole, a pint of wood alcohol, sufficiently rectified so that it will not immediately kill, for a quarter. Split with an equal quantity of water, it provides a quart of terrible liquor which, when the cork is pulled, emits a vapor—hence the name. Three or four down-and-outs, by combining their resources, can get frightfully drunk on a quart of the stuff. It takes about a year of drinking "smoke" to kill one.

With moneyed people paying anywhere from fifty cents to a dollar a drink for questionable whiskey it is a revelation that alcoholic intoxication can be purchased at such a small outlay in cash—or course the lives that are paid do not enter into the matter. It only goes to again prove how little one-half of the world knows about how the other half lives.

THE "PARITY" FLEET
We are to have fifteen bright and shining new cruisers. And while they are building them we are to try to gather together the representatives of the other maritime nations and agree with them that the sea, even in time of war, shall be free to the legitimate transaction of neutrals' business—in other words that merely because two or more nations are at war one or the other of them is not justified in turning pirate.

Insofar as the cruiser bill lends force, if any, to our position in such a treaty seeking, it is of value. But it is not the kind of a navy bill that we would have liked to see passed. Our idea of a really efficient navy bill would be one providing for the greatest armada ever seen—of submarine super-dreadnaughts, of metal dirigibles of small size and high speed, of sea-going aircraft in swarms, of aircraft carriers by the dozen, of whatever cruisers might promise to be of any use—with a condition attached to the bill that if the other powers entered forthwith into an agreement abandoning all the historic so-called rights of belligerents to rule the seas in their own belligerent interests, then the whole huge program would be scrapped. Otherwise go ahead and build a fleet—for surface, air and under-water—that would be big enough and powerful enough to blast into smithereens any so-called blockade that could be declared by any possible combination of powers.

That would be our idea of a navy bill based on "patriotism." It would also be our idea of one based on pure right and justice. We are a bit wearied with the kind of "patriotism" which shrieks for "parity," if we need anything in the way of a comparative navy, we need one big enough and terrible enough to give us our own righteous way. This is no sporting proposition. If it is anything at all it is a question of bossing or being bossed. And we are just too big and too rich to submit to the latter.

SQUASHED BANDIT
All other sorts of banditry have moved East but single-handed train robbery is not for the kind for a bravo raised east of the Mississippi river. The conductors in this part of the world are not trained right to make railroad stick-ups a good clean field of endeavor for the crook. They have a mean way about them.

One Flakowski, who is said to have been gassed in the big war and so convinced that the world owes him his living, tried the solo hold-up game on a passenger train of the New York Central road near Herkimer, N. Y. He had a gun but the conductor, instead of conforming to traditions and sticking 'em up, gave Flakowski a push and pushed him clean off the train. Falling off a train going at plus-thirty and landing on one's face are discouraging. So when Flakowski painfully climber aboard an inter-urban bus and the bus driver privately tipped off some state troopers and the troopers invited Flakowski to go and see the chief Klaid didn't have ginger enough left to do anything with his gun, and now he has gone back to the prison from which he had escaped. Lone hand train robbery seems to need the right kind of stage setting—the shadow of the Rockies, sage-brush and alkali—and the atmosphere seems to be lacking along the lines of these eastern roads. Besides, there is something awfully flat and un-Western and sort of low-lived about a bold bandit just being pushed off a moving train. We doubt if the trade develops much in the East.

CLOTHESPINS AND FARO.
So sinister is the shadow cast by excessive speculation in the stock market upon the legitimate industrial and commercial prospects of the nation than any steps taken by the Federal Reserve system, by foreign bank systems or by any other financial power to curb the crazy gambling will be received with general satisfaction, even if it is accompanied by the inevitable hardship of raising interest rates on legitimate commercial loans. Far too much of the fluid capital of the nation has been poured into Wall street in the last year for the one pretense to be anything but gambling of a most reckless sort. It is axiomatic that present speculative prices of scores of securities bear no earthly relation to earning power or future prospects. Many stocks are being dealt in at prices twice or more their actual worth. To defer the halting of this kind of a market is to breed a disastrous crash in the future.

Whether yesterday's slump was the beginning of a permanent reaction or not, the stock market situation is serious. It threatens the true prosperity of the nation exactly as a frenzy for faro and roulette might threaten the prosperity of a town which depended on making clothespins. When everybody stops making clothespins and puts all his time and money into bucking the wheel or the deal box, such a town is going broke.

IN NEW YORK
New York, Feb. 8.—Perhaps times have changed, or something. Maybe those gay old days that grampa told about are gone forever. But anyway, a canvass of some 300 of Broadway's girls and the chorus revealed the disillusioning information that 200 of them never drank anything stronger than water. Try to match this record in your nearest sorority house. Oh yes—and only a dozen of them boasted autos, and most of these were flivvers. Where, oh where, are all those spendthrift millionaires sons we used to hear about, who bought the chorines automobiles and things?

Here's one the folks around St. Louis might like to hear in "it" about a couple of home town girls who are making good in the metropolis. They are Grace Brinkley and Evelyn Ruh, who played together as kids, who went to the same music teacher and finally got small singing parts in a grand opera company in St. Louis. A radio station put Grace on for a few numbers, and a couple of the Four Marx Brothers happened to listen in—or at least so the story goes, though I can't imagine Harpo tuning in on a soprano solo. At any rate the Marx Brothers were looking for a lead and gave her the star part in "The Cocoanuts." The Shuberts sent her on tour the other day in the road company of "White Lilacs." Meanwhile her childhood girl friend was getting a bit lonesome, and decided to bombard the big town. But she had to start as a chorine, later becoming understudy to the leading lady in "A Connecticut Yankee." One of those frequent emergencies gave her "the big chance" and now she has the role to herself.

In one of those guide books they leave about the hotel courtyards for visitors to peruse, I find that these are the "official" things to see when in New York. . . Battery Park, statue of Liberty, aquarium, the bowling green, custom house, Trinity Church and churchyard, curb and stock markets, Feaunces' Tavern, Cunard, Steamship office, Standard Oil Building, Jerry McAuley Mission, Morgan Bank, Singer and Woolworth Buildings, St. Paul's Church, Park Row, Brooklyn Bridge, Chinatown, Bowery, St. Mark on the Bowery, Metropolitan Life Insurance Building, Grand Central and Pennsylvania Stations, the Bronx Zoo, Central Park, Grant's Tomb, Broadway, Cathedral of St. John, Jumel Mansion, Cleopatra's Needle and the Metropolitan Museum.

And a very busy day that would be better than any of the above. But these figures lie, say defenders of the brunettes. It is true that blondes do not figure so prominently in divorce statistics, they concede, but that is because only 15 per cent. of the world's women are the kind that gentlemen supposedly prefer. So the man with a brunette wife or sweetheart need not worry. Airplanes without pilots have been made to loop the loop by wireless control from the ground.

FEBRUARY MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF TROLLEY SERVICE

Street Railways Begin Fifth Decade of Successful Operation—Many Inventors Contributed to Its Perfection.

With the month of February this year, the electric street railway begins its fifth decade of service. On February 2, 1888, Frank J. Sprague of Richmond, Virginia, began the operation of the first successful and complete street railway system in the world. In Connecticut, the first passenger trolley car was operated May 1, forty-one years ago, and the first electric freight car in the country began operation in this state exactly two months later. Mechanical propulsion of street cars in this state was first attempted fifty-one years ago when, on June 13, 1878, Henry Bushnell of New Haven barely missed success in the use of a compressed air motor to propel a street car. The first trial was made on Whitney Avenue, New Haven. It was calculated that the air reservoir of Bushnell's car would hold sufficient compressed air to run it for a distance of 16 to 18 miles. In practice, however, the air motor balked on a hill on the return trip, and financial difficulty delayed further experimentation. Before Bushnell had an opportunity to perfect his air motor, the electric street railway had proved its worth and had arrived to stay.

The street railway of today results from the inventive efforts of many men. In 1835, Thomas Davenport, a Vermont blacksmith, made an electrically operated vehicle run on a small circular track. In 1838, Robert Davidson, a Scotchman, invented a somewhat similar model. It was in 1858 that an Englishman invented the system of feeding electricity to a car by means of a wire and trolley. In 1861, the reversible continuous dynamo and motor were invented, eliminating the inadequate primary battery system. A German, in 1879, made use of that invention to operate an electric railway at the Berlin exposition; and in the next few years, Thomas Edison and Stephen Field improved all existing models to such an extent as to permit the practical operation of electric street cars, taking current from wires by means of trolleys.

SLOW IN APPLYING FOR DRIVING LICENSES

Big Rush Last of This Month Expected as Result of Tardy Applications.

Unless there is considerable increase in the number of applications in the next two weeks motor vehicle operators will be in the rush for licenses at the end of February than ever before. State Motor Vehicle Department officials said today after a study of license records. Applications to date are nearly 1,000 below a year ago. The number of licenses to be issued this year is also greater. It is expected that fully 20,000 more persons will apply before March 1 than applied in the period before March 1, 1928. The department has issued about 12,000 licenses for 1929, or less than 13 per cent. of the number expected to be issued during the year. And about 16 per cent. of those expected to be issued before March 1. Mail applications are being made more promptly than personal applications at department windows, but the mail record is still low that of a year ago. Up to February 1, 28,649 mail applications had been received, while on the same date last year the number was 26,656. Only one office reports that window applications exceed those of a year ago. This is the Stamford branch office, where, up to February 1, 770 licenses had been issued, as compared with 741 on February 1, 1928. Applications at the Hartford office were 344 less than a year ago; at Bridgeport, 190; New Haven, 147; New London, 60; and Waterbury, 81. The form of application is the same as last year. All mail applications must be sent to the Hartford office. Personal application may be made both at main office and branch offices, and 1928 license should be ready for inspection when new application is presented.

A THOUGHT

Where the word of a king is, there is power; and who may say unto him, What does thou?—Ecc. 8:4. The wild boar is often held by a small dog.—Ovid.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT STILL UNCONSCIOUS

John D. Leonard in Coma 144 Hours Following Love Lane Crash.

The condition of John D. Leonard, 21 of Forbes street, Burnside, remains unchanged at the Memorial hospital. He has been unconscious since the accident at Love Lane at 3:30 Saturday afternoon when an automobile he was driving was struck by a Hartford bound trolley car. At presstime this afternoon, Leonard had been in a coma for exactly 144 hours or six days. He is suffering from a bad fracture of the skull and his condition is regarded as critical.

Leonard was injured at the intersection of a street known as Love Lane and Center street. This is the same point where two Hartford young women were instantly killed and their companions had a narrow escape from death three years ago last July. The mouth of Love Lane, which is said to be the oldest street in Manchester, branches onto Center street out of a thickly wooded section onto a point midway on a steep decline. Love Lane is seldom used and trolley cars travel down the hill at a fast rate of speed making it next to impossible for a motorman to stop in time if an automobile suddenly pops out in front of the trolley. This is precisely what happened in the fatal accident three years ago, and also last Saturday afternoon.

POLICE COURT

There was a real "soak" before the town court of Manchester this morning. He was a passenger on a bus leaving Hartford yesterday afternoon, having been unable to work during the morning because of the rain and he spent the morning drinking "firewater," so when he unloaded at Hartford road and Bridge street he was so wet inside and also wet outside that he did not mind it at all when he lay in a gutter and his clothing started to absorb more water.

It was in this condition that he was found by Officer Wirtalla and brought to the police station. He had dried out sufficiently this morning both inside and outside to tell his name, but this was hardly necessary, as he was recognized as Thomas Wallace, who had been before the court on four other occasions. He admitted that there was something wrong with him as he did not remember anything until after leaving Hartford in the bus. Judge R. A. Johnson imposed a fine of $10 and costs.

DEPLORE CONDITIONS FOR FEDERAL PRISONS

Washington, Feb. 8.—Legislation designed to remedy serious conditions in the federal penitentiaries and local institutions housing federal prisoners may fall into the discard as a result of a quarrel between two house committees over responsibility for action. The special House prisons investigating committee, which reported conditions to be "deplorable" throughout the country, insists that it is the business of the judiciary committee to prepare bills. The judiciary committee, however, has declared that the special committee must initiate legislation.

After months of inquiry the special investigating committee presented recommendations to the House for the building of new federal prisons, the detention jails in large cities and for the extension of the parole system as an emergency measure to relieve "disgraceful overcrowding" of the prisons. One recommendation promises to become effective without further action by the committee. It endorses the Porter Bill, already passed, authorizing the building of two farms for narcotic addicts of the federal prisons, and President Coolidge has transmitted a budget recommendation for funds.

MORE KILLED IN RIOT

London, Feb. 8.—Two more Hindus were killed today and scores wounded in a hand-to-hand street battle between thousands of Moslem and Hindu rioters in Bombay, said a Central News dispatch from that city. A previous exchange Telegraph dispatch estimated the total dead in five days' fighting at 65 and the wounded at 500. British troops in armored cars and motor trucks were rushed to Byculla railway station at Bombay to break up the battle today.

Mrs. Mary Mitchell was taken seriously ill with grip on Monday. She is under the care of a physician, and a trained nurse at her home, an effort to secure for her admission to a hospital failing.

Miss Harriet Hough, who is in her third year as a student at Hartford High school, was at home for the week-end.

Many of the farmers have finished their ice cutting. Others are still cutting and storing.

Mrs. Henrietta Rathbone passed her 89th birthday on Wednesday. She makes her home with her son, Edward M. Rathbone. The anniversary was observed by a postal card shower. Mrs. Rathbone enjoys good health and is active. She reads without glasses. Her hearing is also good. She was born in Colchester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swift, her mother's maiden name being Henrietta Benjamin, also of Colchester.

A fox hound belonging to J.

Banks Jones of Gilead broke away one night recently, dragging its chain. The dog ran several miles and succeeded in securing up a fox, but its chain caught in some rocks near the E. T. Smith place, so that it was effectually prevented from further hunting. A party went to the rescue, led by the dog's clamor and set it free.

Mrs. H. D. Barrows and her daughter, Mrs. Edson Strickland, both of New London, were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Barrows' sister, Mrs. Edwin T. Smith, Elder James Freiberger was present at the last Sabbath service of the Seventh Day Adventists at Hopevale, and delivered the sermon.

Many people here are heeding the suggestions on feeding the birds by scattering crumbs at their doorways or fastening suet or other tempting offerings in places accessible to birds and out of the reach of cats. These offerings disappear with astonishing rapidity.

West Sides	1633

Bon Ami	1579

Night Hawks	1525
Independents	1482

The three teams tied for first place in The Herald League each did the same thing last night—win three out of four points—so this morning we have the same standing with only five more seasons to be filled.

The Green beat the Beethoven the first two games without any trouble but lost the last 572 to 563. Mathiason, E. Johnson and Erickson saved the day for the singers. Rogers and Wilkie were best for the Green which made the evening's high team three string.

The Center Church beat the Sons of Italy the first game 553 to 546 but lost the other two by about forty pins. Baletti had the high three string for the night with 369. The Bon Ami won its first game by two pins with a score of only 481 from the Night Hawks and then lost the last 531 to 521 after winning the second handily. Kebart bowled 355.

The West Sides and the Construction had a very tight match. The contractors took the first game and total pinfall. The West Sides won the second game and tied the next at 572 and then won the roll-off. Imagine the Bon Ami winning with a score of 481 while the Construction loses with 572! There was but ten pins difference in the three string totals. Sad, Canade and Wilson were the high bowlers.

The Independents won the first game from the Charter Oaks by four pins and then lost the next two, the last by only ten pins. Stevenson and Bidwell bowled the best. Frank Anders averaged dropped a bit last night as did Corbett. Baletti and Canade probably boosted their standing a few notches.

SINGER VS. TAYLOR

BOUT A SELL OUT

Every Seat Already Sold for Garden Match Tonight; No Favorite.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Feb. 8.—They are running an ordinary prize fight between Bud Taylor and Al Singer at the Garden tonight, just one of those events they drop in between box office wows in order to pick up a little haircut money, and the kick in the rotunda about all of this is that the house sold itself right out three days ago. The only item of information is the tip off on boxing around the Garden today. The boys simply can't go wrong.

Unofficial returns show the Garden Corporation with a net profit of a half million dollars for the months of December and January, and if this sort of thing keeps on much longer, the 600 millionaires behind the project will have to give it away to Rockefeller and other deserving poor in order to beat the rap on the income tax. The corporation ran ahead some 50 per cent in net profits for the months mentioned in comparison with the corresponding period of the preceding year. In brief, 'he gold rush is on.

Will Fill Garden

This isn't a rush to get gold, however. The rush is being made by those who want to give it. The only way to prevent them from giving their all in one day, when the Singer-Taylor sale opened on Monday, was to confine each purchaser to two tickets and even then, the sale was closed out by Tuesday night. Taylor and Singer had been dropped in to fill an open date but they fooled the boys badly. They are filling the Garden.

The unprecedented success of the outfit has been accepted by some as conclusive evidence that one man, even as big a man as Rickard, wasn't indispensable to the Garden. The truth of the matter is that the man has passed but his monument remains. He built so well that, even without his guiding hand, the Good Ship Fighting, aided by a few breaks, is riding the crest, triumphant. The craft need only congratulate itself that it has found smooth sailing at a time when rough weather might have meant disaster.

Clever Matchmaker

One of the breaks responsible for the current windfall, was furnished by Rickard himself. He dropped Tom McArdle into the matchmaker's spot early in the season and all Thomas has been able to do thus far is to come up with eight or nine sell outs. There hasn't been even the suggestion of a notation in red since Thomas started pairing the bright young men.

Of course, the real breaks came spontaneously and without solicitation from Rickard or anybody. They were supplied by the overnight development of Max Schmeling, K. O. Christner and A. Singer. The first two have been literal riots at the turnstiles because of the Horatio Alger character of their respective careers. Singer, not so sensational, has a following of his own, just as did Benny Leonard and Leach Cross in the old days.

Anyhow, it has been the new names and new faces that have helped considerably to make boxing what it is this season. One can only imagine what it would have been if these attractive puppets had the old master pulling the strings off stage.

Rickard didn't give the corporation strictly a business administration, according to all accounts, and perhaps his regime wasn't leak-proof. But he did give them something that money can't buy now: constructive imagination.

What he would have done with a man like Schmeling would have been ample.

MURPHY TO MEET CHARLIE KEBART

A home and home bowling match has been arranged between Howard Murphy and Charlie Kebart. The town champion will be at stake. The first ten of the twenty games will be rolled at Cobran's alleys next Monday night with the final half at Murphy's on Wednesday night at 9 o'clock.

Kebart, in leading the Herald Bowling League individual over ages and there are many, over north at least, who are of the opinion Kebart can beat Murphy. The latter has defended his title once this year. That was against Lefty Curtis. Trailing 81 pins the first half, Murphy came back strong to win by 29 timbers.

A match is also in the works for Murphy and Cole to meet two men from Joe Farr's alleys in a home and home match Friday and Saturday of next week.

OUT OF THE PAST

Until a few years ago the presence of women at boxing matches was looked upon with something akin to horror. That one of the fair sex should mingle with the rough element which peopled fistic clubs in the old days never failed to call forth appropriate shouts of indignation.

As every other walk of life, times have changed in boxing. Now women in evening dress are thickly clustered at all big fights, and there is no comment. Women, as spectators, have come to stay, but many years went by before their presence was generally accepted. It is widely believed that the first fight to be attended by women was the Corbett-Pittsimmans battle in 1897 at Carson City, Nev. This, however, is incorrect, as 10 years before that historic struggle, ladies were constant visitors as bouts in Gus Hill's dance hall in New York.

Gus Hill's emporium, located on Bowery at the corner of Houston street, flourished in the bare-knuckle days, and was the most famous meeting place for sportsmen America. No champion or near champion visiting this country from abroad, or for that matter, no leading fighter from this country felt he had seen America before paying a visit to Gus Hill's.

Many boxers, before making a public appearance, would test their ability at Hill's, and these bouts were watched nightly by men—and many women. Such a scene is depicted above in this copy of a wood cut which appeared in Leslie's Weekly in 1838. It was taken from life, and a fair idea of the number of women to attend such bouts can be obtained.

Today Hill's dance hall lives only in memory. The old walls have been demolished, and the site is occupied by a furrier—a long jump from the scenes there enacted 40 years ago.

REC GIRLS LOSE IN MERIDEN 19-13

Make Great Comeback In Second Half But It Fails to Close Gap.

The Rec Girls made a strong comeback against the Insidios in Meriden last night but lost 19 to 13. Trailing by ten points, 15 to 5, at the end of the first half, the Rec Girls waged an uphill fight that threatened to overcome the lead.

However, when the score became too close the Insidios manager injected Grace Gustafson and Catherine Brys into the lineup and they helped stave off defeat. These two regulars had been benched for three of the games as a penalty for playing with the Meriden Community Girls here last Tuesday night.

Miriam Welles was again the leading scorer for Manchester but Pezzy McLaughlin played a mighty good game at guard. Olson, Horigan and Baldwin featured for Meriden. The summary follows:

BEGIN BALLYHOOGING FOR SHARKEY BOUT

Dempsey and Carey Go to Tampa to Work Up Interest in Bout.

By SID MERCER

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 8.—Jack Sharkey and Willie Stribling, the noble gladiators who are to come to blows here on the 27th, are not doing a lot to help the ballyhoo down here. Stribling hasn't poked his nose into Miami Beach since Monday but it is announced that he will go through some motions at Hardie's Casino on the beach this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Sharkey punched the bag and did some shadow boxing in the ring at the Miami Kennel Club yesterday and attracted a big crowd as no admission was charged. Jack and his manager, Johnny Buckley, departed for Tampa by train early last night and won't be back until Sunday.

In Tampa tonight Sharkey will engage in six rounds of exhibition boxing under auspices of the Tampa Board of Trade. Old John Dempsey will be there to take some bows and start the west coast ballyhoo for the Miami spectacle.

Sharkey will resume his work-

BOARD TO DECIDE ON TILDEN'S CASE

Boston, Feb. 8.—William T. Tilden's status in the tennis world will be determined tonight by the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The meeting will be preliminary to the general annual meeting of the association tomorrow afternoon.

The general opinion prevailed among representatives of sectional tennis association gathering here the executive committee would reinstate Tilden. The announcement from New York of Francis T. Hunter to the effect that he and "Big Bill" had made arrangements for a three months' European tour this summer was taken as an indication that Tilden had reason to expect reinstatement.

EDDIE NICHOLS JOINS REC FIVE

Manager Ben Clune of the Rec Five announced this morning that he had decided to add two new players to his team. Both will be utility men and two of the three substitutes now on the team will be dropped.

Manager Clune said he had already signed Eddie Nichols, ex-Windham High, and Yale tournament sensation, and was after Carrol of the Windsor Locks team. Carrol is said to be an all-around man.

The names of the two substitutes who will be dropped was not disclosed. Manager Clune said he had not fully decided. The three utility men are Clarence Gustafson, Everett Strange and Billy Dowd.

Like many others, Manager Clune feels that if he could have used "Cap" Bissell against New Britain when Madden faltered, the Rec would have maintained its lead. Those who have praised the Rec the highest have stated that the weakest part of the team is its utility players.

Tomorrow night the Rec plays the strong Bristol Braves in the Bell City. Nichols will wear a Rec uniform in this game. Many Manchester fans are planning to accompany their team to Bristol. A victory for Manchester would be a big boost to the Rec's stock.

Under-Dog Psychology May Upset Bristol In Second Game Of Series

If there is any psychological advantage in being called the "under-dog", then Manchester High has that privilege tonight. For the past few years, Bristol has been a jinx to Manchester and has won several victories over Manchester that will not be forgotten until proper revenge is secured.

Surely, Manchester is conceded little chance to obtain real revenge over Bristol this season. Bristol drubbed the locals in the opening game of the present season series by a score of 37 to 13. Coach Tommy Monahan's charges are confident of repeating that victory tonight although they expect the margin to be narrower.

While Manchester's chances of going to Yale and bumping off such teams as Warren Harding, New Haven Hillhouse, Bridgeport Central and others of similar caliber are remote to say the least, Coach W. J. Clarke's red and white outfit can help prevent Bristol from winning the C. C. I. L. championship and possibly prevent it from being selected to go to Yale by winning tonight.

That it is far from impossible for Manchester to defeat Bristol may be seen in the fact that Bristol recently lost to West Hartford, a team which was defeated by Manchester. In this comparison, local officials see proof that their team is capable of performing the unexpected tonight. Manchester has everything to gain and nothing to lose tonight, comparatively speaking.

A defeat for Bristol would place the Bell Ringers on a tie for second place in the league with Manchester. At present Bristol and Meriden lead with three victories in four games while Manchester has won two and lost the same number. A totally unexpected victory by East Hartford over Manchester prevents Manchester from passing Bristol tonight in case of a victory.

The second teams of the two schools will battle in the preliminary and dancing will follow the main attraction which is expected to draw the largest high school crowd of the season.

TO MATCH WALKER AGAINST LOUGHRAN

New York, Feb. 8.—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, has been matched to fight Tommy Loughran, lightweight champion, a 10-round battle in Chicago on March 17. It was learned today from an authoritative source.

Walker is fighting Cowboy Jack Willis a catch-weight bout on Feb. 22, and will continue training for the Loughran encounter. This will be announced from Chicago within 24 hours.

Loughran is now on the Pacific coast, having won a furious 10-round encounter from Armand Emanuel in Los Angeles the other day. In that fight Tommy was on the floor and had to do his level best for the rest of the route to save himself.

The drabness of London has long been proverbial and buildings which contain any touches of color are few and far between.

Battalino Kisses Curry After Knocking Him Out

BY TOM STOWE

Joe Curry of New York made the fatal mistake of trying to slug with Bat Battalino last night at Food Guard hall in Hartford and was floored for the full count early in the second round of their scheduled ten-round bout. Curry had twice previous fought Battalino and each time managing to stay the limit, once earning a draw.

The largest crowd that has ever packed its way into the hall to see one of Promoter Ed Hurley's cards was on hand including several notables from the McKinley banquet. Curry looked promising in the opening round and general opinion seemed to be that he stood a good chance of going the limit again. Curry stung Battalino with a few hard body blows in the first round at the expense of a few cuffs on the jaw. At the end of the round Curry was spun around by a hard right and caught off balance with another blow that sent him toppling to the canvas. He was up at the count of one as the bell rang.

The second round had hardly opened before Curry engaged in a slugfest with the former national amateur featherweight champion. Both landed some vicious blows but Curry's evidently carried more dramatic. Concentrating his attack on Curry's stomach at the start of the slugfest, Battalino brought the New Yorker's guard down, and then lifted to the face. A hard right to the jaw knocked Curry flat on his back where he remained for the full count. Bat weighed 125 and Curry 127 1/2.

Battalino was so happy that he kissed his manager Hy Malley and then darted across the ring and favored Curry heartily. The Hartford lad was given a tremendous ovation as he left the ring.

The best fight of the evening was the slashing go between LeRoy Carley of Worcester and Joe Russo of Westerly. Carley is one of the

VALE'S NEW SQUARE SOON COMPLETED

New Haven, Feb. 8.—Completion of Vanderbilt Square, the Sheffield school campus at Yale, is indicated by Dean Charles H. Warren, of the scientific school, in an announcement in Yale Alumni Weekly here today. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, of New York, recently gave funds to purchase land to complete the campus site, and Dean Warren says: "Just how soon Mr. Vanderbilt will find it practicable to complete this project is not known at the present time, but it may be accomplished in the near future."

The completed dormitories on Vanderbilt Square, Dean Warren says, "will accommodate over 500 students, and taken in addition to the present fraternity houses, which at present can accommodate 300 men, will take care of the entire student body of the school and also provide for such increase in numbers as the school may reasonably expect in the next few years; indeed as many as the school will in all probability wish to enroll."

The new campus buildings will conform to the present ones, including two Sheffield-Vanderbilt dormitories on Wall and College streets, St. Anthony Hall and Byers Hall, the student Y. M. C. A. Under the new plan Byers will be turned into a student recreation center, with commons to feed the residents in the campus, reading rooms, and "similar needs."

Dean Warren also says: "The group, when completed, will constitute one of the outstanding architectural features of the university."

DAYLIGHT SAVING REJECTED BY HOUSE

Rep. Johnson Objects to Motion and He Is Sustained by Members.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 8.—The first opposition to a committee report returned to the 1929 General Assembly occurred here today when the Judiciary committee returned an unfavorable report to the House on a bill that would end the present state statute against use of daylight saving time. Pietro Diana, representative from New Haven, asked the bill be tabled for calendar and printing as if a favorable report had been received. Judge Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester, objected to the motion, declaring that the Judiciary committee had rendered an unfavorable report and that should end the matter. A house vote overwhelmingly sustained the representative from Manchester, and the bill was rejected. The House received favorable report from the Judiciary on a bill that puts amateur boxing under the athletic commission, and the bill was ordered tabled for calendar and printing. The finance committee sent the House favorable reports on a group of bills as follows: Concerning collection of taxes and delivery of rate bills to the successor of any tax collector. Concerning the demand and levy of taxes. Concerning the sinking fund. Providing the books of any tax collector must be open to public inspection. A change in reference was ordered in the Westport Fidelity & Guaranty company charter application, from the banks committee to the incorporations committee. Judgments. The House approved judgeship resolutions as follows: Pierrepont B. Foster, judge, and Charles E. Clark, deputy judge of the town court of Hamden. William L. Larash and William L. Hadden, judges of the town court of West Haven. William S. Woodward, judge, and Charles S. Francis, deputy judge of the town court of Killingly. Myron B. Disbrow, judge of the town court of New Milford. Henry H. Pettis, deputy judge of the city court of Norwich. Hadeigh H. Howd, judge, and Luther L. Chase, deputy judge of the town court of Winchester. William A. Wilcox, judge, and Billings B. Fairbrother, deputy judge, of the town court of Stonington. Robert C. Stoddard, judge, and Louis Harris, deputy judge of the town court of Milford. Henry Hartford, judge, and Edward H. Hall, deputy judge of the town court of Stratford. James E. Cannon, judge, and Thomas W. Farrell, deputy judge of the town court of Windsor Locks. George G. Griswold, judge, and George E. Green, deputy judge of the town court of Berlin. The Senate had a brief session, concurring with the House in a number of minor bills and passing judgeship resolutions as follows: Mahlon H. Gessler, judge, and Archibald McDonald, Jr., deputy judge of the city court of Putnam. Arthur L. Abbey, judge of the city court of Norwich. Both houses of the Legislature adjourned long before noon to meet again on Tuesday morning. The appropriations committee met to Wednesday during the morning to make the required biennial inspection of the state prison, and returned to plunge into work, with many other committees on a long, schedule of hearings.

D. U. V. GROUP FORMS INCOME NEEDLE CLUB

Mary C. Keeney Tent, Daughters of Union War Veterans, met for a business session at the State Armory last night and later adjourned to the home of Mrs. John Trank on Flower street for a party in observation of Lincoln's birthday. Patriotic readings were given by Miss Beartice Dart and Mrs. Helen Henry and Mrs. Maud Shearer played piano solos. The committee in charge, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Shearer and Mrs. Ethel Carter served sandwiches, doughnuts, candy and salted nuts. During the evening Mrs. Minnie Weeder, president of the organization last year, was presented with a pretty, georgette scarf. The tent has organized a sewing club and has appointed as directresses Mrs. Etta Loveland, Mrs. Ida Dart and Mrs. Ora Ames. The first meeting of the club will be held Monday evening of next week at field street. It is proposed to hold at least two meetings a month on the second and fourth Mondays, one in the afternoon and one on the evening for members who are employed during the day. It will be known as the D. U. V. Sewing club and the profits from the sale of completed work will be turned into the treasury of Mary C. Keeney Tent. Wife of who had just dined with her husband and a business friend: Why did you pay for that lunch?

GENARO'S NEXT OPPONENT

Paris, Feb. 8.—Emile "Spider" Pladner, French flyweight, appeared today as the next opponent of Frank Genaro, the recognized National Boxing Association champion, following his six round knockout of Johnny Hill, of England, before a crowd of 18,000 here last night. Pladner held the upper hand all through the bout, flooring his opponent three times for the count of 5. In two previous bouts in London, Hill won decisions over the Frenchman but last night he was outclassed. Genaro is sailing from New York aboard the liner Majestic at midnight tonight. War pensioners in England number about one million.

The Romance that ended so soon Her version: What a disappointment Bob had been! Once he was always bright and cheery—well-groomed. Then something happened. Bob became careless. Seemed to lose his ambition. Even his appearance was affected. Why, she was actually ashamed of him now! His version: What had come over Mary? Two years ago he had been so much in love with her. But these days she was always so cross. Her old-time youth and charm had fled. True, he'd slipped somewhat, himself. But, Mary. . . . What a tragedy that constipation can wreck so much happiness! It begins with such little things—headaches, listlessness. But it eventually saps the strongest body, and may lead to serious disease. And all the while it could be so easily prevented—so surely relieved. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to safely prevent it. ALL-BRAN is effective and natural Bulk or roughage relieves constipation in a natural way. ALL-BRAN furnishes bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. It carries moisture through the intestines, gently sweeping out poisons. Part-bran products seldom contain sufficient bulk to be completely effective. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran—100% effective. Don't risk drugs! ALL-BRAN brings lasting relief. Far better than habit-forming pills whose dose must be constantly increased. ALL-BRAN is an appetizing cereal—delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Mix it with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use it in cooking. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It will protect the health of your family. All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served at hotels, restaurants, on diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

DOLORES DEL RIO
AT STATE TODAY

"Red Dance" Is Fox-Movietone Special—Also Other Attractions.

"The Red Dance," Dolores Del Rio's latest starring vehicle for Fox Films will have its initial local showing at the State theater tonight.

This highly-dramatic and absorbing tale of love and romance in Russia during its revolutionary period, is acclaimed by many well-known motion picture critics to be one of the finest photoplays of the current season.

It presents the vivacious Miss Del Rio, greatest of emotional actresses, in the most striking characterization she has yet demonstrated before the camera—that of a Russian peasant girl who rises to the heights of nobility through her love for a handsome prince. Her part calls for finished acting in every angle and not once does she fail to impress her audiences.

Charles Farrell, remembered for his remarkable portrayal in "The Street Angel," is cast as the prince, and, he too, deserves worthy mention. Others who contribute excellent performances are Dorothy Revier, Ivan Linow and Emil Chautard.

"The Red Dance" is a film version of a story written by H. L. Gates and Eleanor Browne. Raoul Walsh directed.

Also for today and tomorrow, the State is presenting a choice selection of snappy short subjects. Heading the list is the Metro Movietone Review, a gala offering that is filled with the spirit of song, laughter and dance. Van and Schenck, famous radio entertainers, occupy the main spot in this entertaining potpourri of melody. Others prominent in the cast are the four Lotus Sisters, George Dewey Washington and Johnny Marvin, the Victor Recording artist.

"Our Gang," that popular group of juvenile laugh-getters, have a new bundle of funny tricks to tickle your funnybone in "The Spanking Age," their latest Hal Roach comedy.

The State News Events takes you to all parts of the earth and brings you in contact with world-affairs.

Both Starred in "Caught In the Fog," Here Saturday and Sunday.

Juggling comedy was adapted to the screen by Charles R. Gordon from a story which Jerome Kingston called "The Fog." Besides Miss McAvoy and Nagel, the cast includes Mack Swain, Charles Gerrard, Hugh Herbert and Emil Chautard.

The scenes of the play are laid principally aboard a class yacht off the Florida coast. A sheik bandit comes with his lady aide to rife the boat of the Vickers Jewels. Strange incidents follow in which many thrills and humorous situations are to be found.

The companion-feature for Saturday and Sunday presents Martha Sleeper, the newest film beauty, who is starred in "The Little Yellow House," a beautiful drama of human love and sacrifice.

The fifth absorbing chapter of that thrilling chapter-play, "Tarzan the Mighty," and a Krazy Kat cartoon will also be shown.

VISIONS OF DISASTER AS GAS GOES BOOM!

Scouts at Church Meeting Hear Explosion, Expect Edifice to Topple Over.

Bo om, rattle . . . rattle . . . crash! . . .
A roar reverberated through the Swedish Lutheran church. The Troop Committee of Troop 5, Boy Scouts meeting in one of the rooms connected with the vestry, sprang to their feet . . . A few edged nervously for covering underneath the table . . . others stood as though petrified . . . All thoughts became as one . . . What had happened? . . .
A deathly hush descended on the room . . . In the main room, Troop 5 was meeting . . . There also was quiet, ominous quiet.
Regaining their faculties . . . visions of dead and dying . . . rust and wreckage. With cries of horror ready to fall from their lips, the Troop Committee rushed from the room. From the kitchen came a figure completely blackened, found to be only dust and soot. Minutes passed . . . It was found that none were injured. The dust in the kitchen settled. Escaping gas from the water heater had exploded, leaving a mass of twisted pipe and blackened walls. Damage, except to the heater and pipes, was slight. . . To the nerves of the men—well that's another story. . .

The winners at the East Side whist party yesterday afternoon at the School street Rec were Mrs. William Smith, first prize, Mrs. Fred Kesh, second and Mrs. Belle Tuttle, consolation.

Hose and Ladder Company No. 3 of the S. M. F. D. was called out at 8:45 this morning to put out a chimney fire at the home of Fabian Getzevich.

Teachers of the Buckland school will be in charge of the Valentine whist and dance of the Parent-Teacher association in the assembly hall Monday evening. They will offer $2.50 gold pieces for the first prizes. There will be two other awards, refreshments and an opportunity to fill out the remainder of the time with dancing. The social will be open to the general public.

More than 100 young people attended the dance at the Manchester Green assembly hall last Saturday evening sponsored by the young men of the Manchester Green Community club. They will run another old-fashioned and modern dance tomorrow evening, with Dan Miller to call off the old-time numbers and Wher's orchestra to provide music.

The young people of the Salvation Army will attend the Young People's Council in Meriden tomorrow. This meeting is an all-day affair.

The G Clef Glee club will rehearse tonight at seven o'clock.

Troop 3, Boy Scouts, of the Center church will leave the church at one o'clock tomorrow afternoon for a test-passing hike. Members who have first and second class outdoor tests to pass are asked to be on Dinner—Vegetable soup, roast beef, cooked tomatoes, cooked celery, salad of grated raw beets, minced prunes in gelatin, with cream.

Thursday.
Breakfast—Coddled egg, whole wheat muffins, stewed raisins.
Lunch—Raw apples as desired.
Dinner—Broiled mutton chops, baked parsnips, cooked lettuce, string bean salad, apricot whip.

Friday.
Breakfast—Baked stuffed apple.
Lunch—Rice en casserole, salad of shredded lettuce.
Dinner—Tomato and celery soup, baked white fish, spinach, salad of tomatoes and celery, Jello or Jell-well (no cream).

Saturday.
Breakfast—Poached egg on Melba toast, stewed peaches.
Lunch—Generous dish of junket.
Dinner—Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, buttered beets, tomato-spinach-asparagus salad, cup custard.

Rice en casserole: Soak a cupful of rice for an hour or more (preferably overnight). Wash thoroughly and boil in four or five cupfuls of water for about twenty minutes. Throw into a colander and spray with cold water. This washes away the sticky, starchy substance, leaving each grain separated. Have ready one cupful of grated raw oysterplant and one cupful of finely diced celery. Mix these vegetables with the rice, seasoning with a little salt. Into another bowl measure a half cup of peanut butter and thin with sufficient hot water to form a custard-like consistency. Empty rice mixture into a casserole and pour over all the thinned peanut butter, moving the rice about with a fork to thoroughly mix. Bake in a hot oven for 15 or 20 minutes, crisping the top under the broiler flame just before removing from oven.

The MOVIE PEOPLE

By DAN THOMAS.
Carmel, Calif.—This little colony of artists, poets and writers who occasionally find a market for their creations is now enjoying the greatest excitement it has known since hundreds of tourists flocked here to view the cottage where Aimee Semple McPherson is alleged to have stayed during her kidnaping escapade in the early summer of 1926.

The reason for all the furor and sudden soar of prices on nearly all commodities is the presence of the Edwin Carewe company which is busy filming the exterior scenes for "Evangeline" with Dolores Del Rio playing the title role.

Many of the folk with artistic and literary inclinations have temporarily laid aside their brushes and pens to earn five dollars a day as extras in the picture. Others are busily engaged in sketching and painting the French-Arcadian village that has been built on the coast and will later be burned as one of the high lights of the film.

These people do not hesitate to voice their dislike for the movie aggregation. Some disapprove of the women smoking. Others just don't like persons from Hollywood on general principles. But regardless of personal feelings, these artists, who paint a picture to sell for $5,000 and sell it two years later for perhaps $500, are not going to turn down an opportunity to get five dollars cash every day for several weeks.

One man is really making a "clean-up." He is the man who owns the property on which the company is working. Since its arrival he has been charging fifty cents a car for admission to the lot. And if you want to go out for lunch and then come back, it costs an additional fifty cents. To date he has taken in more than $5,000 in addition to rental he is getting from the film company.

I have never seen so many cameras since the day William Edward Hickman arrived in Los Angeles after his capture in the northwest. They are all kinds, shapes and sizes. Everyone has one and all are using them as fast as they can click the shutters, shooting everyone in sight, particularly Dolores. The film concession in Carmel must be a good one these days.

Cooking, ping-pong and parchesi appear to be the favorite indoor sports of the crowds up here. The ping-pong table is kept busy almost continuously every night until about 11 or 12 o'clock. But the most excitement is to be found around the parchesi table. By the time the game is half over the players are making very pointed remarks and before it's finished, almost anything can happen. Donald Reed cooked some Spanish rice the other night that was really darn good. And about 1 o'clock a gang of us invaded the hotel kitchen where Eddie Carewe made waffles and coffee.

DETOURS AND ONE WAY TRAFFIC ARE EXPENSIVE ITEMS

Cost Highway Dep't. $180,686 During 1928—New Concrete Formula Saves Much Time.

Detours and one way traffic arrangements made necessary by highway construction and reconstruction during the year of 1928 cost Connecticut exactly $180,686.39, according to a statement made by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald today. This total was greatly increased over the 1927 figure due to the fact that more than 100 miles of paving was completed last year than in 1927.

The greatest part of the total cost was in the maintenance of one way traffic, this item alone costing $150,027.72. The one way traffic system was put to much greater use last summer than ever before, and very little use, in comparison to former years, was made of detours. There were only 57 miles of detour road used during the year.

During the construction season about 310 miles of new pavement were laid in Connecticut and all of the highway which went under construction had to be kept open for traffic on one side while the pavement was being laid on the other, or else had to be closed entirely while all traffic was shunted off on a detour.

In those cases where the one way system was put into use, it was necessary to have a corps of traffic directors on duty both day and night, and where long stretches of road were under construction a temporary telephone system had to be installed in order that the directors at each end of the stretch might be in continuous communication with each other. Where detours were used, it was necessary usually to convert a rough, rutted country road into a well graded gravel highway before it was put into use. Extensive repairs, grading and filling under harden the roads and allay the dust are always necessary.

Both on one way traffic stretches and upon detours, it is necessary to post signs warning the motorists of the existence of either and to point out directions. There were 1,223 such signs made and posted last year. In many cases, it was necessary to install a temporary lighting system in order that the signs might be read and to assist motorists in finding their way through the area under construction or through the detours. In oiling the detours, 49,937 gallons of oil were used.

A considerable amount of detour and one way traffic time was saved last summer by the use of the quick hardening concrete formula developed by the department's chemists. When mixed according to this formula the concrete hardens in two-thirds of the time formerly consumed. Practically all concrete pavement laid last summer was opened to traffic about a week in advance of the time that would have been required a year or two ago.

HARVARD JUNIOR AT 68

Banker Resumes Studies Where He Left Off Half Century Ago; Wants That Degree.

Cambridge, Mass.—It took William Leonard Benedict, 68 years to become a Junior at Harvard.

Whereas the colleges are filled with young men struggling to be bankers, Leonard has reversed the picture. He became an eminently successful business man first, and then retired so that he might catch up with studies that the other juniors will have forgotten when they reach the age of 68.

A member of the big banking house of Kidder, Peabody and Company, Benedict is after his "B. S." It seems that he was after this degree once before—back in 1880—but he dropped his books to enter the banking arm with which he has been associated. Through the years, however, he had in the back of his mind the notion that some day he would finish his school work. He was 68 years of age when this day came.

Music, the Bible, and English literature are among the courses Benedict is taking.

He feels no older than when he was a sophomore at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1878, he said, and finds his studies just as interesting.

There are 15 divorces for every 100 marriages in the United States; the majority of wives who divorce their husbands do so on the plea of cruelty or desertion.

TWO TAX CHANGES LIKELY IN LAWS OF CONNECTICUT

Two bills of important interest to tax payers are likely to become laws during the present Legislative session. One, which was unopposed at the hearing, provides that personal tax bills will have to be paid within thirty days after the same becomes due. At present sixty days of grace are allowed. The other would make it obligatory upon tax collectors to exhibit their tax books on the demand of any tax payer. In some of the small towns tax collectors now regard these books as their personal possessions.

WOMEN INFLUENCE MOTOR CAR DESIGN

Refinements Due to Increase in Number of Female Operators.

By THOMAS E. JARRARD
General Sales Director, Marmon Motor Car Company

The automobile of today would be an excellent racing car, probably little more, had it not been for the undeniable influence of the woman in motor car design. Not only in more recent years but in the early days of the industry.

Feminine America, in fact, has been responsible, either directly or indirectly, for practically every improvement and refinement in the comfort and appearance of the automobile since the time when even the finest car frightened horses as it roared its way down the road. Moreover, it is none the less starting to attribute to Milady's demands and requirements the remarkable ease of handling and flexibility of present day automobiles.

Windshield First

Early in the history of the automobile industry, when cumbersome chain drives, uncomfortable "buckled" seats and the like made the motor car an "invidiously afloat," feminine influence manifested itself. Probably the first improvement that can be attributed directly to the woman was the windshield, an invention which was unquestionably the result of the fashion of the period. Women of that long-haired era doubtless were disgusted with the "horseless buggy ride" that left them with their carefully coiled and high-piled dresses wind-blown and torn.

Countless other inventions followed to satisfy the dictates of the feminine sex. There were improvements made in regard to comfort and improvements made in regard to lightness for women demanded cars that were comfortable as well as attractive and finely appointed. They paid scant attention to mechanical improvements and what was under the hood mattered little as long as the hood was good-looking.

Closed Cars, Too

The closed car most assuredly was built so that the woman passenger could travel in comfort no matter what the weather. The first closed cars were two-door affairs and it was not until Milady again asserted herself that four doors were included for her added convenience.

The first cars had to be cranked, which was a laborious job even for a man. When women became interested, however, motor car builders soon found that the back-starting crank would no longer do and the self-starter was invented. The chain drive was another feature eliminated because of women. They did not like its noise or its looks and, in addition, it was a nuisance to the long skirts of the time.

Beauty, of course, is the direct result of woman's desire for attractiveness in the automobiles she must ride in and look at day after day. Milady played a stellar and almost exclusive role in bringing about the low, graceful lines and colors of the highly-developed modern mode. The somber black of days gone by was distasteful to her and she demanded brighter and more beautiful colorings. Designers therefore, went to great pains to devise new and more attractive exteriors and so great became the demand for the unusual that even Nature's own colors were borrowed for the motor car.

Interior Decorations

One has but to look at the interiors of today's automobiles to realize the extent to which women have influenced and directed the destinies of the motor car. Inside, modern automobiles are as luxuriously furnished and tastefully arranged as a woman's own boudoir. There are mirrors, robe rails, toggle assists, lights, notebooks, pencils, wide and deep pockets, arm rests, window shades, ash trays and even adjustable steering wheels, seats and pedals. It was not the man who insisted that the material in which seats are upholstered should be handsomely colored and softer to the touch and that such features as vanity cases be installed.

Because every rule must have its exception, there is one outstanding improvement in automobile design that cannot be laid directly to the feminine influence. This was the which became necessary as traffic increased and the automobile was given a higher speed range.

We must give, of course, a full measure of credit to the engineers and designers who make the modern automobile possible, yet we must thank the women of America for their demands and suggestions which gave these same engineers a basis on which to work and to improve their product.

By religion, the Tamil Indian will not eat flesh.

London.—Britain's newest invention is the "Radivisor." "I AM his wife!" a quivering voice cut short the policeman's explanation. "I want to see my husband! ... Oh! Has anything happened to Harry? I knew it! ... Oh, Harry, Harry!"

(To be Continued)

McMann accuses Mrs. Borden. Is she guilty?

THIS HAS HAPPENED

RUTH LESTER, pretty private secretary to "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter of dubious stock companies, becomes engaged to JACK HAYWARD, young insurance broker, whose office is just across the narrow airshaft from Borden's. On a Saturday morning in January, the promoter has two women callers: RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who is accompanying him to Winter Haven for the week-end, and his estranged wife and mother of his two children, who comes for her monthly alimony.

When MRS. BORDEN learns her husband is busy, she agrees to return, but before leaving glimpses the pistol in Ruth's desk. Jack, fearing trouble with hold-up men, has brought two identical weapons and gives Ruth one.

While Ruth takes dictation Borden makes a playful pass at her and she screams a protest which Jack hears. He is furious.

When on Monday morning she finds the body of Borden sprawled on the floor near the window, Ruth reviews Jack's strange behavior. She runs to his office and, finding him out, looks frantically in his desk for his gun. It is gone! Jack comes in, calls the police. Fearing Jack shot Borden through the open window, Ruth rushes to close Borden's window. It is already closed! When DETECTIVE McMANN arrives, he finds that the $500 in cash which Ruth admits getting for Borden, for his week-end trip is gone. McMANN questions Ruth. She admits her engagement to Jack and with a horrible fear that almost smothers her, she begins her story of Saturday's happenings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

Ruth pressed her fingers to her temples, in a mighty effort to remember clearly the features of the old man who had threatened Borden's life on Saturday. When she had talked with him her mind had not been upon him or his threats, but upon that first disturbing evidence of Borden's interest in her as a girl, not as a competent private secretary.

"He was old—about 60, I think," she told the detective slowly, and did not see McMANN, who was past 50 himself, wince at her unintentionally cruel words.

"He was wearing a shabby black overcoat with a velvet collar, which had flakes of dandruff on it. I remember, for I felt sorry for him, he looked so helpless. I can't tell what color his eyes were, but he had on old-fashioned steel-rimmed spectacles. His hair, sort of long, I think, was gray, and his face thin and hollow. He seemed tall, but I'm so short that nearly everyone seems tall to me." Borden's face, she said, for he was muttering most of the time, but he did make threats of "getting even." Said he'd teach "that crook" a lesson, bring him to his knees—bludge like that. I don't really remember for I was trying to soothe him and get rid of him. I had a lot of work to do, and I knew it was all so hopeless, that Mr. Borden wouldn't see him or make any restitution."

McMANN, who had been jotting down her description of the defrauded old man, scribbled and then told her to go on with her story.

"Before writing the letters I went to the bank and to the station to get Mr. Borden's tickets for Winter Haven. After I returned and gave the money and tickets to Mr. Borden, Henry told me that Mrs. Borden had called on the phone to say she was coming in. She and Mr. Borden were not living together."

"I know. Legal separation with court allowance for her and the children. About five years ago," McMANN interpolated. "What did she come to see him for?"

"To get her separation allowance," Ruth answered reluctantly. "Mr. Borden had been ordered by the court to pay her each month on the fifteenth, and he made her come for it in person. To—get news of the children, I suppose," she added, in a futile attempt to guess over the dead man's malicious cruelty to his wife.

"Well? Did she come?" McMANN asked, busily taking notes.

"Later," Ruth answered, fishing, "but before Mrs. Borden arrived Mr. Borden had another caller—Miss Dubois, Rita Dubois."

turned to Ruth again, dismissing, to her vast relief, both Mrs. Borden and Rita Dubois, with his first question: "Now, Miss Lester, what other visitors did Borden have Saturday morning and when did you leave his office?"

Ruth considered. "No one else—oh, I'm forgetting Mr. Adams. He's one of the stock salesmen. Mr. Borden had asked him to come in on Saturday to go over his sales record. Mr. Adams had been in a slump—

"Quarrel?" McMANN tapped impatiently with his pencil.

"I didn't hear any quarrel, but Mr. Adams looked rather exasperated when he came out of Mr. Borden's office—"

Ruth was interrupted by Patrolman Biggers, who had been stationed outside the door in the hall. "Lady here wants to see Mr. Borden," he announced to McMANN, winking broadly. "Says she's his—"

"I am his wife!" a quivering voice cut short the policeman's explanation. "I want to see my husband! ... Oh! Has anything happened to Harry? I knew it! ... Oh, Harry, Harry!"

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
© 1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

We should teach our children that "no" means "no" and "yes" means "yes." It isn't fair to them to give the idea that "no" means "perhaps."

One of the commonest things in the world is to see a child to whom a mother has just said, "No, you may not," hang around and coax and plead for an hour afterward, hoping that she will change her mind. And, of course, for the sake of peace she usually does.

Very early in his young life, Johnny began to experiment. The amount of experimenting a young child does would probably amaze his parents.

His experiments usually go something like this:

Johnny mustn't touch. No, no, Johnny mustn't.

Johnny calmly puts out a small investigating hand and touches, all the while keeping his eyes on his mother. He is measuring up her reaction as carefully as a jeweler weighs diamonds. How far shall he go? Be sure he'll go as far as he can.

The same psychology goes on in his mind a little later when, in his mind enough to ask, "May I go over to Frank's?" "May I have a piece of cake?"

He sums up quite carefully with that keen perception of his exactly what his mother means when she says "no." If it is a floppy "no" with room on either side to slip past, he sure he is going to stick around and coax until she says "yes."

A Liverpool cyclist has just completed his ninth European tour on a bicycle. He estimates that he has covered 50,000 miles in these tours.

EXCEPTIONALLY LOVELY.

A favorite with fashionable women is a charming slender model of lustrous black crepe satin illustrated in Style No. 407. The neckline is flattering and youthful. It's exceptionally lovely in printed silk crepe to dark beneath the fur wrap. Choose a dark background with vivid tones in print in modernistic pattern, because it is sportive and can be worn smartly anywhere. Use plain harmonizing crepe for collar and lapel. Crepe de chine, canton crepe, sheer woolen, georgette, crepe and crepe also appropriate. It is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 26, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

We suggest that when you send for this pattern you enclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our Spring Fashion Magazine. It's just filled with delightful styles, including smart ensembles, and cute designs for the kiddies.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

THIS MAY REVEAL WHY SOUTHERN BLOOD IS HOT

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Among modern methods of diagnosis in disease, the examination of the blood is of great importance. The effects of poisons, of parasites and of bacteria of various types are promptly indicated in the blood stream. Not only does the blood respond by changes in the number of the cells, but also in their character. Investigations indicate that anemia of various types is more frequent in the south than in the north.

Tulane Experiment

Before any definite fact can be derived as to the value of the study of the blood in disease, it is necessary to have a conception of what the normal conditions include.

Physicians in the department of medicine of Tulane University, New Orleans, have recently made an extensive technical study of the blood of one hundred men between the ages of 19 and 30 years, presumably in good health, and compared their observations with figures for a similar group in Oregon.

Number Red Cells

The average number of red blood cells was 5,550,000 per cubic centimeter of blood as contrasted with 5,390,000 for the group in Oregon. The amount of red coloring matter was 15.37 gram in 100 cubic centimeter for the southern group, as compared with 15.76 for the Oregon group.

Thus normal people living in the south seem to have more red blood cells than those living in the north, whereas the red coloring matter is about the same.

This fact is of great importance in studying such conditions as anemia and the parasitic infections which are extremely frequent.

SHORT JACKET

A red moire taffeta short coat, with a bow at the back of the neck and its flaring lower edge longer in the back, compliments a chiffon frock printed in red and black on a grey background. The frock's deep, uneven hem is faced with the red.

JADE-WHITE

A new evening gown of the latest stiffened chiffon is of jade-white, a formal evening shade. It has a shoulder cape and a two-tiered skirt that trails the floor in the back.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Stirred by the expulsion from various universities and colleges of students who marry while in school, several college papers attempt to find out from the "raccoon men" and co-eds themselves how much, if any, their collegiate careers are hampered or helped by matrimony, and whether they believe the expulsion for marriage rules is just.

It's the same old story of human sophistry in the results. The married students insist that marriage only spurs one on to greater scholastic activity, knowing that knowledge means good jobs which are essential to the married state. The singletons insist that matrimony but acts as a distraction from collegiate activities.

You pay your money and you takes your pick!

JUST ONE OF 'EM!

Mrs. Martha Bradley of Upton Station, Virginia, poured some kerosene on her coal fire the other day and set the can on the floor near the stove. It exploded, and set fire to the housewife's clothing. She died before help could reach her.

Mrs. Bradley is just one of the thousands of unsuspecting housewives who are sacrificed yearly to the makeshift methods of their home; just one of the housewives running one of the thousands of homes utterly bare of the safety devices and conveniences of a modern era. Sometimes a money lack explains it; sometimes a husband who sees no reason why a woman today should have it any easier than "my mother and my grandmother" did.

HERO SOMETIMES.

Seaman Walter Trettin of the good ship "America" did his bit in rescuing drowning men from the freighter "Florida." He came to New York's wild enthusiasm over the heroes of the sea and was met with a warrant for his arrest on a charge of deserting, his wife and four-year-old son.

And yet there is nothing so queer about that. Trettin isn't the first human who measures up pretty well in one situation and falls down in another. It's one thing, too, to rise to high moments; it's another thing to endure the sameness of the commonplace.

FUNNY?

Cosmo Hamilton, author, believes that artists should be governmentally endowed in order to create. If an artist is single, he says, he should not have more than $5,000 a year; if he's married, he'll need at least $100,000, which is probably an example of high humor.

Fashion Plaque

EVERY WOMAN'S wardrobe for the south should contain a white sleeveless dress of crepe de chine accompanied by the very new sleeveless jacket. While bands of blue and yellow crepe are applied on white. The crossed belt is of blue and yellow crepe.

HANDY PAPERS

Keep a pile of newspapers in the kitchen, cut in half. Sheets will save much work in cleaning the stove, catching v gettable peelings, wiping burn from the bottom of the kettle or spilled food from the stove or sink.

FROM THE DUST OF THE GROUND.

"And Jehovah God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Most of us do not realize that this is still true. The elements composing our bodies are actually found in the minerals of the earth and the gasses surrounding it. In other words, the food we eat is the soil from which the body grows. All of our food originates from the crude elements of the earth which were first refined by vegetable life, and perhaps later by animal life, before becoming delicate enough for the human digestion.

It is impossible, at the present time, to determine the exact difference between the iron found in the rocks and the iron found in such vegetables as spinach and celery, but there is some subtle difference.

There have been many attempts by doctors in the past to feed the crude elements such as iron, calcium, iodine, etc., to human beings as medicine and food, and although the reports are somewhat conflicting, it is quite evident that these minerals must first be organized by the vegetable kingdom before they can be converted into a healthy cell structure within the human body.

The millions of small root-like villi of the small intestines are roots for sucking up the nourishment out of the vegetable and animal food, and the blood passing through these villi carries the nutrition to all parts of the body.

The plant must remain on one place and send its roots in search of food, but the human being and most animals are endowed with the ability to move from place to place in search of food. All of the higher animals really carry along their root system internally.

Since the body is built from the food which is eaten, it is necessary that the best be selected. The elements of which the body is composed are as follows: oxygen, carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus, chlorine, sulphur, potassium, sodium, fluorine, magnesium, silicon, iron, manganese, iodine, aluminum, arsenic and copper. Each of these seems to be essential to life, although the exact use of the last three has not been fully determined. Practically all of these elements are found in every food as it is found in nature, but, of course, some foods are richer in one element, and others are richer in another element.

Each element plays some special part in the growth or function of the body, some build into hair, some nerves, some bone, and some are used to produce energy. If any element is not supplied to the body in sufficient quantity, a disease or weakness is sure to result.

A short time ago I prepared two articles showing the foods richest in the different mineral elements and their uses in the body. I will be pleased to send these articles to anyone who is interested, upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Skull Fracture.
 Question: Miss A. B. writes: "Seven months ago I was the victim of an automobile accident from which I suffered a fracture of the skull and cheek bone, and am now recovering from a nervous breakdown. Can a person marry who has had a skull fracture?"
 Answer: If you have recovered from the skull fracture, I do not see how it would interfere with your marriage. If seven months have elapsed since the accident, there is very little danger that you will have any further trouble.

Wholewheat Toast.
 Question: "Mrs. J. asks: 'Is Melba toast made of white or wholewheat bread?'"
 Answer: Melba toast is made by thoroughly delecting (thin dry slices of white bread). Real wholewheat bread becomes somewhat bitter if thoroughly toasted. If the wholewheat bread is only partially toasted it has a much better flavor and can be used at any meal where starch is permissible. There is good health can generally use the wholewheat toast with the ordinary breakfast of eggs and stewed fruit.

Reducing Hips.
 Question: Mrs. A. Mc. writes: "Will you please tell me through the newspaper column if it is possible to reduce the hips from 39 to 35 1/2 inches and if so how? Also, please tell me how to distill water."
 Answer: The best way to reduce the hips is to take long walks each day. There are no calisthenic exercises you can take which will take the place of this kind of exercise received through walking. It is impracticable to distill water in your own home, but you can do it if you purchase a small still which you can buy in a chemical supply store. It is much cheaper to buy distilled water by the bottle, as it sells for about fifty cents for a five gallon bottle.

DUCE FOR LOVERS.
 Milan.—Through the efforts of Mussolini, the Milan telephone company has retracted its rule that operators who marry must give up their jobs. Recently 30 married girls were dismissed. But Il Duce persuaded the telephone company to reconsider with the result that the girls are back on the job.

A gigantic hand, made of glass and illuminated by electricity, opposite the Munich railway station, draws attention of tourists to the various interests of the town.

FRENCH OPERA SINGERS SUE GOVERNMENT FOR BROADCASTING VOICES.

Paris.—Charging that the government broadcasted their voices without their consent Jules Franz, tenor and Mile. Lise Charney, both of the Paris Opera, have brought suit for $400.
 Franz received a newspaper clipping from Lyons telling how local radio fans enjoyed his solo from "Le Cid" and Mile. Charney's interpretation of "Sigurd," on September 30.
 "An imposter!" exclaimed Franz, and he hastened to make inquiries. The Ministry of Post, Telephones and Telegraph had announced the singer and then played a phonograph records into the microphone.

BLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Nowadays it's hard to find any old port in a storm cellar.

METER GOLF

ONE FOR THE YOUNGSTERS. Making a MUD PIE isn't supposed to be so difficult, but it's a little hard to do in par in letter golf.

Letter Golf grid with letters M, U, D and P, I, E.

THE RULES. 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes.

The Modern Miss's Mission is the Man's Mansion. It's a wise girl who knows her bunions.

THE KNYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) With all the bunch spread on the ground, the bear stopped short and turned around. He most seemed to smile a bit to see the funny sight.

SENSE and NONSENSE

BOUND THE OTHER WAY. They were waiting for the Sunday fans to gather. "Wonder if they have golf links in heaven," meditated a caddy who was a newcomer on the job.

CAN ALWAYS "GO STRAIGHT." John: A street car can do one thing a man can't. Charlie: What's that? John: The street car can always go straight, no matter how full it is.

Lightning struck a circus parade not long ago. Must have been because of the advertising. "How's his temperature this morning?" asked the doctor. "It was 104 last time I tried it," replied the nurse.

"Yes, Doc, even the temperature comes high in this expensive hospital," murmured the sick man.

"This thing of having a joint bank account is great business. I deposit the money and the wife checks it out."

Johnny was picking up apples under the trees and I called to him to look out for the worms in them. "When I eat apples," he called back, "the worms have to look out for themselves."

"Well, now what time do I have to get to work mornings?" asked the new hired man. "Any time you like," responded Farmer Fumblegate. "So's it ain't later than half-past four."

Another thing we have been intending to complain about is the density of painted signs on the large mirrors back of soda fountains. Most soda fountain mirrors are so intensively cultivated as advertising mediums these days that there is no room left for a man to see whether his nose is shiny and lipstick on straight.

Courtesy alone is not enough to hold good-will. There must be service, too. But courtesy irons out many little kinks and helps everything to run smoothly.

Gold bricks are never sold on the installment plan. "How are you coming along with your poultry business?" "Not very well. Bought three incubators and none of them have laid eggs yet."

We refuse to become overly enthusiastic about that new coal that will burn without leaving ashes or cinders. It means nothing much in our life. The little woman has charge of that part of the house. We keep the radio going.

"One of the radio peddlers was talking up his prunes," says the Burr Oak Herald. "He wound up his discourse on their many virtues with this admonition, 'Eat some of our prunes,' then followed with the announcement, 'The next number on our program will be, 'God Will Take Care of You.'"
