

ALL EUROPE IS HIT BY COLD WAVE

Scores of Vessels Frozen in Baltic Sea; Temperature 20 to 40 Below Zero; Italy Snowbound.

The "ice age" has temporarily returned to Europe. The whole European continent, from Scandinavia to Turkey, and the British Isles is gripped by the coldest weather in centuries. At some places the thermometer ranged from 30 to 40 degrees below zero.

Deaths from the cold are mounting into the hundreds. Intense suffering prevails throughout all of Europe. Scores of ships are ice bound. Hundreds of communities are isolated by snow and ice and crippled rail and telephone communications.

Rivers are frozen and maritime traffic has been paralyzed along many coasts due to ice filled harbors. More than 60 vessels are ice bound in Danish waters. Thirty ships are held by ice in the Baltic. The crews of some of the vessels are in danger of starvation.

Wolves Great Danger. In parts of Russia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia packs of famished wolves are ravaging the countryside. They have killed and eaten many persons in the rural districts. Thirty-five gypsies were found frozen to death near Lublin, Poland.

Nearly all the rivers in Belgium are frozen over. Ten deaths from the cold were reported there. Throughout Central Europe thousands have been treated for frost bite and injuries sustained in aidents due to the cold and ice in the past 48 hours. In some cities the hospitals are filled.

Several new deaths are reported from France. The weather in Paris is below zero. The Seine is frozen over in places. Air and rail traffic are both crippled. Snow fell upon the French Riviera, noted for the mildness of its winter climate. The famous Mardi Gras at Paris proved a failure because of the snow and intense cold.

Ships Delayed. Ships putting into British ports from the North sea and the Atlantic look like moving blocks of ice. Most of them are delayed, in addition to the cold, gales are imperiling.

WOMAN PASSENGER ON BIG DIRIGIBLE

Mme. De Landa to Make Trip to America on British Air Liner.

London, Feb. 13.—For the second time in history, a trans-Atlantic dirigible will carry a woman as passenger on its maiden trip across the ocean, if the hopes and plans of Mme. Katherine de Landa, a well known Englishwoman, and formerly the Countess of Drogheda, are realized.

Mme. De Landa has applied for the privilege of being the first woman passenger on the giant British airship R-100, which is expected to start on a trip across the Atlantic early in March. If she goes as a passenger, she will duplicate the feat of Lady Drummond Hay, the well known British traveler and journalist, who was on board the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin on its maiden flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J.

Is Sportswoman. Mme. De Landa, who is tall and graceful, is an all round sportswoman. She is chairman of the women's committee of the British Air League, a post formerly held by Lady Heath, who is now in the United States. Lady Heath resigned the position to devote her entire time to teaching aviation in America.

The R-100 is nearing completion at Howden, Yorkshire. She is expected to be ready for her first trial flight in a few weeks. The trans-Atlantic flight will be made preparatory to putting her on a regular commercial route between England and Australia.

Scores of applications have already been received from persons wishing to gain fame by being among the airship's first passengers, and as high as $5,000 is being offered for a berth on the giant liner.

Hoover To Cut Short His Florida Vacation

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 13.—Cutting short his midwinter vacation unexpectedly, President-Elect Hoover will return to Washington Monday or Tuesday of next week, it was announced today.

While it was known that Mr. Hoover was anxious to confer with Republican leaders once more before inauguration, announcement of his early leave-taking occasioned considerable surprise.

He will spend today and tomorrow greeting callers at his temporary home here and will devote Friday and Saturday to a motor inspection tour of the Everglades region around Lake Okechobee. His assistant, Lawrence Richey issued the following statement: "Mr. Hoover stated before leaving Washington that he expected to return there about February 15 to 20 in order to complete some work and preparations for the new administration. He expects to leave Miami the 13th or the 14th."

Today's program. Today, the president-elect will reap a third harvest from the economic foresight he expects to stand him in good stead after entering the White House. He will receive a report from four members of a sub-committee of a special

PRESIDENT SIGNS THE CRUISER BILL

Even With Extra Warships United States Lags Behind the British.

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge signed the cruiser bill today. The sweep of his pen was the last act necessary to the authorization of fifteen new and modern cruisers and one giant airplane carrier to the navy.

It constituted as well the greatest single step that has been taken since the Washington arms conference to overcome British naval superiority. Even with these cruisers, however, the American Navy will still lag behind the British in this class of vessel.

By Congressional direction, all of the ships must be laid down within three years. The program calls for beginning construction on five each year for the next three years.

Long Fight in Congress. This time limitation was hotly fought in Congress and was opposed by President Coolidge himself, but the Bigler Navy advocates won out and President Coolidge's successor, Herbert Hoover, will have no alternative but to proceed with the program—unless a new international limitation agreement is meanwhile negotiated. There is scant outlook for this at present.

The ultimate cost of the cruiser program is estimated at about $275,000,000, only about $50,000,000 of which, however, will be necessary until the fiscal year of 1931. The problem of finding the funds will be up to the Hoover administration.

Calls Leaders. The presidential signature was not attached, however, until he had summoned Congressional leaders to the White House this morning for a conference as to whether they could provide the $50,000,000 necessary to start the work. He called Senators Curtis and Robinson, the Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate; Reps. Tilson and Garrett, the Republican and Demo-

DRIVER IS RESPONSIBLE FOR ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Was Intoxicated and Had No License—Auto Backed Into Deep Pond.

Bridgeport, Feb. 13.—A person who is driving an automobile while he is under influence of liquor and who is driving while his license has been suspended by the state must of necessity be held responsible for a death caused indirectly by his car, according to a decision of the Supreme Court from Judge Arthur F. Ellis' decision, handed down here today, which is unfavorable to the oysterman.

Lovejoy contended that the City of Norwalk dumped sewage into Norwalk harbor so profusely that his oyster beds were ruined. The State Board of Health banned the use of the oysters, and during trial of the suit officials of that board admitted the ban and explained how necessary it was.

Judge Ellis' decision compliments the state for the "an, praises Norwalk for planning a sewage disposal system that will take sewage out of the harbor, sympathizes with Mr. Lovejoy over his lost business, and then declares that Mr. Lovejoy cannot receive compensation from the city.

The case of "Darling against Newport News" handed down by the Federal Supreme Court in 1918, "is of controlling importance" in the Lovejoy case, the finding declares.

Senate Rejects Bill to Show Daylight Time on Public Clocks; Fight Over Stamford Judgeships.

Hartford, Feb. 13.—Samuel A. Eddy, of North Canaan, speaker of the House, today took steps to speed up legislation here by calling a meeting of all his committee chairmen and clerks immediately after the legislative sessions had adjourned. The important farm bloc of the legislature also met this afternoon, electing Dr. Walter C. Wood, of New Canaan, as chairman, and W. Howard Brewer, of East Hartford, clerk. The Farm Bloc will meet each Wednesday and Thursday after adjournment of the Legislature.

Signs of the Stamford City Court fight became apparent in the legislature as a favorable report was returned on a bill making two judges of equal power in that court. Committee members said that at least two weeks would elapse before the court fight was settled for the bill providing two judges must be acted on first. D. F. B. Chichey, legislative engrossing clerk, is said to be definitely out of a chance of being a judge with Justus J. Fenel and Abraham Woodsey practically agreed on as judges. The Hartford City Court fight is about to be settled with compromise candidates.

The Standard Time fight came to a definite end when the Senate rejected a bill which would permit showing of daylight time on public clocks. Senator Frank Bergin, Democrat, and Senator George E. Hall, Republican, both of New Haven, fought for the bill on the Senate floor but were soundly beaten.

THE SENATE. Hartford, Feb. 13.—In the Senate today Frank S. Bergin, of New Haven, carried to the floor the so-called standard bill, a matter unsuccessfully argued, by Pietra Diana, of New Haven, in the House last Friday. Senator Bergin declared that keeping public clocks on standard time, when everyone went by daylight time, caused great confusion. By permitting the clocks to be placed on daylight time also, this would end, Senator George E.

FRANCE MAY FAVOR SEN. CAPPER'S PLAN

If It Is Adopted U. S. Will Hold World's Destiny in Her Hands.

Paris, Feb. 13.—The United States holds the destiny of peace or war for the entire world in the palm of her hand with Senator Capper's embargo proposal," declared Deputy Joseph Paul Boncour in an exclusive statement to International News Service, today. He added:

"If the Capper proposal is adopted it means an absolute end of all wars. The Kellogg pact needs just such a guaranty as the Capper proposal to make it inviolate. Without this suggested trade embargo wars are inevitable."

M. Paul-Boncour is in a position to speak with authority. He is an expert on international affairs and was former representative of France on the League of Nations.

Important Question. Coming just before the Chamber of Deputies begins debate upon the Kellogg pact, the proposal of Senator Capper has aroused keen interest in official circles. Opinion here favors the suggestion as the best means of making the Kellogg pact effective.

Senator Capper suggests a trade embargo against any nation that breaks the pact. This proposal is somewhat similar to Article XVI of the League of Nations covenant which stipulates a boycott against an aggressor nation in event of war.

The Kellogg pact was to come before the Chamber late this afternoon. It was expected that debate will last three or four days.

FATALLY BURNED. Bridgeport, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Anna Dorgan, 72, was probably fatally burned while cooking lunch over a gas stove in her room at 298 Prospect street today. Her dress swept against the flame. Other residents in the house put out the fire and sent for an ambulance.

LINDY REFUSES TO TALK ABOUT HIS ENGAGEMENT

Tells Reporters He Will Only Speak on Aviation; Formal Announcement Comes from Fiancee's Father.

Havana, Feb. 13.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, newly engaged and homeward bound on the final leg of his flight from the Panama Canal Zone to the United States, hopped off here at 7:23 a. m. local time, for Miami, Fla.

Lindbergh was accompanied by an escort plane. Col. Lindbergh's betrothal to Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of the United States ambassador to Mexico, had been printed in the morning newspapers, increasing public interest in the noted young aviator. He was loudly cheered as he left the flying field.

TWO MEN KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Women Occupants of Car Slightly Injured When Machine Crashes Into Pole.

Salem, N. H., Feb. 13.—Two men were killed and two women sustained slight bruises when an automobile left the highway on Boulevard street here today and crashed into a telephone pole.

Bert E. Sullivan, 38, of Andover, was killed instantly. Joseph Euzie, 24, of Methuen, suffered a fractured skull and died a short time later at Lawrence General hospital without regaining consciousness.

Police were told that women were heard to scream following the accident. Police investigation disclosed two women's shoes, both for the right foot in the auto. Further search revealed that following the accident two women had hired a farmer to drive them to their homes in Methuen. The two women, Mrs. Etta Hall, 36, and Mrs. Ruth Connors, 35, both of Methuen, admitted they were occupants of the wrecked auto. They sustained slight bruises.

Were To Dance. They said they had been to a dance at Derry, and were enroute to Methuen when the accident occurred. The automobile they said was travelling at a fast rate of speed.

When the car skidded off the road, it overturned and rolled nearly 40 feet before coming up against the pole. The body of Sullivan said to have been the driver was found crushed beneath the wreckage of the machine, while the unconscious form of Euzie was found nearly 25 feet from the wreckage.

CONGRESS ASKS FOR INQUIRY OF FEDERAL COURT

New York Congressmen Suggest Probe of Judge Winslow in Cases Involving Recent Bankruptcies.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Congressional investigation of the conduct of bankruptcy receivership in the southern New York federal district court of Judge Francis A. Winslow drew nearer today when Rep. George S. Graham (R.) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the judiciary committee, announced that he favored a thorough examination of the charges made in the La Guardia resolution.

The committee will consider the resolution, which proposed investigation of Judge Winslow's court to determine whether impeachment proceedings should be brought, at an executive session tomorrow.

Although Chairman Graham indicated disapproval of the sensational manner in which Reps. La Guardia (R) and Slovich (D) of New York, carried the New York bankruptcy situation on to the floor of the House, he showed no inclination to avoid acting on the resolution.

Probes Pending. Several resolutions for investigation of the handling of bankruptcy matters in the federal courts of southern and eastern New York districts, have been pending in the House for some time, but the rule committee, to which they have gone, has shown no disposition to consider them. The La Guardia resolution, read on the floor and supported by Slovich in a speech, went to the judiciary committee.

The serious character of the statements made in the resolution aroused widespread interest among members.

The resolution declared that "many members of the bar in New York claim that in order to receive favorable actions in cases they have before Judge Winslow they must retain Marcus Helfand and co-attorney or special counsel because of his influence with said Winslow and point to an almost unbroken line of favorable hearings and decisions he has obtained, all of which have given rise to the general rumor and impression among members of the bar and the public of unjust, unfair and improper conduct on the

NEIGHBORS QUIZZED IN JACKSON CASE

Tell Grand Jury About Suspect's Movements at Time of the Murder.

Willimantic, Conn., Feb. 13.—Three new witnesses were called before Coroner Arthur G. Bill, of Danielson, here today as the inquest into the death of County Detective William E. Jackson opened in the police building. The new witnesses are Mrs. George Despathy, her daughter, Medora, aged nine, and Miss Irene Mannick, 15, residents of a street near the Jackson home who testified to movements of the Jackson family automobile before and after the county detective met his death.

The three original investigators into the Jackson death were not called by the coroner. They are R. H. Wheeler, of Munson, Mass., an ex-state policeman, E. J. Hickey, Hartford county detective, and Arthur Hurlley, a local policeman.

Dr. Henry M. Costello, who performed the autopsy on Jackson's body, and J. H. Fitzgerald, a ballistic expert who studied the bullet that killed Jackson, also were not summoned by the coroner.

Widow Examined. Mrs. Jackson was examined by the coroner for over an hour. She followed Dr. Fred M. Smith, who was summoned when Jackson's body was found, and she in turn was followed by her daughter, Juanita, Joseph Paltus, a local mail carrier, also was examined. Paltus was the man who carried word to Sheriff Trenzor Rice that Jackson Says Burden is Too Great; Delegates Invite Experts to Visit Germany to See for Themselves the Actual Situation as it Exists Today.

Paris, Feb. 13.—Germany's campaign to prevent any increase in reparation payments is today in full swing in the international conference which is to settle definitely and finally the total sum the Germans must pay.

Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, and leader of the German delegation on the committee of experts, offered observations upon certain points in the German economic situation which had been covered in the annual report of S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparation payments under the Dawes Plan.

Object To Report. The Germans contend that Mr. Gilbert's portrayal of economic conditions in Germany is too optimistic, and that the present day facts do not warrant some of the statements contained in the report.

Under the Dawes Plan Germany must pay annuities of 2,500,000 marks, or approximately $600,000,000. If possible, the Germans want the sums reduced, but their chief fight is to prevent any increase.

Dr. Schacht drew a parallel between conditions, especially among the workers, in Germany and the allied countries. Afterward a member of the French delegation said:

Better Than France. "Dr. Schacht's figures show that the condition of the German workers is worse than that in the United States and England, but better than conditions prevailing in France and Italy."

The German delegates extended an invitation to the experts to visit Germany and see for themselves the actual situation as it exists today.

Following the morning session, a communique was issued, saying: "Vice President Charles G. Dawes, of the United States, cabled the following reply to the message sent to him: 'The world awaits hopefully the termination of your great work, which is vital to its welfare.'"

The committee, at its opening session, had sent a message of greetings to Vice President Dawes, whose name was given to the Dawes plan which he aided in drawing up.

JARDINE RESIGNS POST IN CABINET

Secretary of Agriculture to Retire on March 4, He Announces Today.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Secretary of agriculture William M. Jardine announced today that he would retire from the Cabinet on March 4 to devote his time to agricultural activities, with particular reference to the co-operative marketing phase.

Declining the opportunity offered him of remaining in the Hoover Cabinet, Secretary Jardine will become general counsel for the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, and make his headquarters in Washington.

In this position he will work in close harmony with the Hoover administration. In its efforts to find a solution for the perennial "farm problem." The agricultural views of Mr. Hoover and Secretary Jardine coincided closely during their Cabinet careers in the Coolidge administration, and it is not expected there will be any divergence after March 4. Both believe that in the field of co-operative endeavor here the ultimate solution of the farmers' troubles.

Hall, of New Haven, supported his colleague, Senator Hall declared "cities want daylight time, and in cities only there are public clocks on display." Finally the unfavorable report of the committee was supported by Senator Peasley of Cheshire and Senator Roy C. Wilcox, of Meriden. There was no decided vote on the matter but the bill was rejected and the majority report accepted.

Nominations

The Senate received a large batch of nominations from Governor Trumbull. They follow: Allyn L. Brown, of Norwich; L. P. Waldo Marvin, of Hartford, and Newell S. Jennings, of Bristol, recommendations to Superior Court, each for a term of eight years.

William A. Hendrick, of New Haven, member of Board of Finance and Control, for six years from July 1. Edward H. Wilkins, of East Hampton, and H. H. Chapman, of New Haven, to be members of the State Park and Forest Commission for six years from September 1, next.

Dr. George C. S. Williams, of Hartford; Martha H. C. Mitchell, of Norwich, and Harriet I. Jones, of Hartford, to be members of Department of Public Welfare for four years from July 1.

An unfavorable report was received from the judiciary committee concerning the salary of the assistant clerk of New London City Court, which would place him on a pier diem basis. The bill was rejected.

The Senate also passed resolutions concerning appointments sent in by Governor Trumbull yesterday. The appointments that came today were tabled for calendar and printing in the case of the judgeships while the committee on executive nominations received the others.

THE HOUSE

Hartford, Feb. 13.—The House today received a favorable report from the judiciary committee on a bill which would increase salaries of Griswold Town Court officials, another increasing the Westport Town Court salaries, another which provides that the New London City Court assistant judge would become judge in case of vacancy; a bill which would increase the Waterbury City Court clerk's salary; and a bill which would provide two judges in the Stamford City Court, in place of a judge and deputy as at present.

Other bills received on report were those affecting the town courts of Milford and Darien; a bill concerning collection of taxes and execution of tax warrants, and providing an exemption of taxes for the Newton public library.

The judiciary committee reported unfavorably on a bill which would increase salaries of Waterbury City Court officials, a bill which would establish a commission to study a plan providing for motor vehicle courts in places where there are no justice courts.

FIRE IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Feb. 13.—Fire of unknown origin did damage of $10,000 in the butter and egg plant of Wurtzel & Gordon, Water street, today.

Some people think the banker's fondness for marble is because it is hard and cold. The real reason is that it wears well.

WARD STORE EMPLOYEES ARE GIVEN PROMOTIONS

Local and Out of Town Members of Staff Transferred; Eaton Wins Fine Position.

There have been many changes among the employees of the Montgomery Ward Company's store since its opening. Most of the changes have been made recently. Clayton Webster, who came to the Manchester store on its opening has been made assistant manager of the summer, S. C. store. J. A. Warlow, who soon after coming to Manchester was transferred as merchandise manager from this store to a store in Portland, Me., has again been transferred as manager of the store in Stamford, Conn.

O. D. Heise who was the assistant merchandise manager when the store opened and later advanced to manager, has been sent to Meadville, Pa., as manager of the store there. Henry J. Veins of this place has been made merchandise manager of the Manchester store.

Lester Behrend, another Manchester man who went to work in the battery department of the local store on its opening has been appointed to the position as assistant operating manager of the Montgomery Ward chain in the whole United States.

LENTEN SERVICES

Lent, which is observed to a greater extent by the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches, opened today, Ash Wednesday. In St. James' church this morning there was a mass at 5:30, 7:40 and this evening there will be devotion ashes were distributed at all the masses this morning and will also be distributed at the devotions tonight at 7:30.

There were services in St. Mary's Episcopal church this morning, again this afternoon and there will be other services at 7:30 tonight. In St. Bridget's Roman Catholic church there were services this morning at 7:30 with the distribution of ashes and there will be services again this evening.

During the Lenten period there will be devotions each Wednesday night in St. James' and St. Bridget's church. There will be devotions and the Rosary each Wednesday night and Stations of the Cross and Benediction each Friday night.

In St. Mary's Episcopal church there will be services each Wednesday with an out-of-town rector speaking.

ZANETTI-ANGERSOLA

OSAGES TURNING TO FARMING AS OIL ALTERNATIVE

Stillwater, Okla. — The Osage Indians of Oklahoma, made rich through the discovery of oil on their land years ago, have now turned to diversified farming as an alternative should the "black gold" cease to flow.

"Some day oil will go and there will be not fat checks from the Great White Father," is the way Kah-Wah-Soppy-Ah-Ga-Ny (Black Horse Rider), more commonly known as Healy Tall Chief, sums up the situation facing his tribesmen—whom oil has made one of the richest bands in the world.

Successful Stockman. Already he has taken up the pursuits in diversified farming and he is active in urging his "brothers" to do the same. He is known as one of Oklahoma's most prominent stockmen and farmers.

Under his influence, other Indians of the tribe are setting on little homesteads in Osage County and are becoming interested in cattle breeding, fruit growing and farming.

"I want the Indian to show his White Brother that he can farm successfully," Tall Chief said. "When we can no longer draw the checks, I want us to be able to make a comfortable living from the soil."

Many Interests. Besides being a prominent stockman of the state, Tall Chief has other interests. He is a member of the Haskell Institute Stadium commission.

He is a graduate of the Institute. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, is president of the Osage County Shortborn Breeders Association and is a member of the board of directors of the state association.

EAR-LAPS ARE POPULAR

LIKE GIRLS' FLANNELS. Charles Rogers, one of the local letter carriers says there are no more general stores and has proof of it. It has been his custom to wear ear-laps during the cold weather, but this year his ear-laps were worn out so he has been looking for a new pair. He has visited every store in town and has found that there are none in stock and that even Bill Burke was without any, which proves there is no general store in Manchester any more.

KILLED FIVE CHILDREN

BECAUSE THEY CRIED. Two Were Her Own and Others Belonged to Neighbor, Police Say.

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 13.—Charged with killing five children, Mrs. Ethel Lewis, 49-year-old Eau Claire woman, is in jail here. Mrs. Okel Gorham accuses Mrs. Lewis of killing two of her own children and three of Mrs. Gorham's. Mrs. Gorham charged that Mrs. Lewis killed the children because she was "tired of hearing them cry." She said the child who died Sunday was killed by poisoned milk.

BRIDGE, WHIST PARTY

Ten tables were filled at the Daughters of Isabella bridge and whist party in the K. of C. rooms last night. Winners in bridge were Mrs. Frances McEvitt, first, Miss Anna Scanlon, second, and Miss Mary Sgrue, consolation. Winners at whist were, Mrs. Helen Dona, first; Mrs. Alice McVey, second, and Miss S. Tunsey, consolation. Home made cake and coffee were served.

SUBWAY SLASHER AGAIN

Boston, Feb. 13.—The "Subway Slasher" again resumed operations today when the seventh victim within two weeks, Miss Adelaide Getchell, of Charlestown, was slashed in a crowded Boston elevated train between Thompson square and North stations.

According to the description given to police, the assailant was dark complexioned and dressed in a gray overcoat and gray cap. Police said the description tallied with that given by other girl victims of "the slasher."

WANT TO COME BACK

Woonsocket, R. I., Feb. 13.—Elphese J. Daignault and members of his parish submitted their names to a petition this afternoon asking that they be reinstated in the Catholic church in Rhode Island. Daignault's name brought the total number of persons signing the petition to 12 out of the 62 who were excommunicated for their combined legal action against Bishop William A. Hickey of the Providence diocese on the question of the disbursement of diocese funds in erecting a parochial high school.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

John Egan, aged 75, died at his home, 36 Walnut street, today after a long illness. Mr. Egan, one of the best known of the older residents in the south end, was known at his work as watchman in the Cheney mills about five years ago. He has been ill ever since that time.

He had worked as a young man in the Cheney mills, for the Hartford, South Manchester and Rockville Tramway company, as an older in Cheney Brothers old power house and finally as a watchman in the silk mills. He was a member of Court Nutmeg, Foresters of America, and of South Manchester division, Ancient Order of Hibernians, and was active in both orders.

Mr. Egan's wife survives him as do a sister and brother. They are Mrs. George Hendron, of Hartford, and Michael Egan, of Boston, Mass. The funeral will probably be held Friday morning at 8 o'clock at the Quish Funeral Home and at 9 o'clock at St. James' church. The body will be placed in a receiving vault at St. James' cemetery. These arrangements are not certain, as yet.

FUNERALS

Robert Watts, Manchester Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold services at the Home Club tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Watson Woodruff will officiate. Bearers will be members of the Mooseheart Legion and the Moose Lodge. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

GREEN TROLLEY JUMPS

TRACK THIS MORNING. The Manchester Green car in charge of Gustave Waltz jumped the tracks at the intersection of Pitkin and East Center streets this morning, went onto a lawn and was so far off the rails that there was no local apparatus that could get it back on. Help was called from Hartford and the wrecker sent out to replace the car. In the meantime one of the cars that should have been returned to a lawn and was put into service on the Green line and made trips as far as the wreck. There was a delay of two hours in getting the car back onto the track and traffic restored.

ABOUT TOWN

The Ladies Society of the Swedish Lutheran church will meet tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Shepherd Encampment No. 37, has called a special meeting for tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in Odd Fellows hall. The purpose is to make arrangements for working the royal purple degree on the occasion of the meeting in Hartford, April 6, of the encampments which constitute District No. 11, which are G.-Fred Barnes Encampment, Enfield, Middletown and Shepherd of this county. Delegates from all encampments from all over the state will be present at that time.

A WALLED CITY

Rome, Feb. 13.—The city of the Vatican, the new Papal State, will be a "walled city" when it actually comes into being next year, according to Edward Stein, who was the manager of the show this year. There will be "frontier walls," either actual or theoretical, while neither the Swiss Guard will act as frontier guards. The ceremonies sealing the friendship of the church and state will be concluded with a pontifical mass in St. Peter's and illumination of the mighty dome of this great cathedral.

ROBINSON RENOMINATED.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The renominations of Judge Ira E. Robinson, West Virginia; Harold A. La Fount, Utah, and Eugene D. Sykes, of Mississippi as members of the Federal Radio Commission were favorably reported today by the Senate Interstate Commerce committee. Action on the nominations of Arthur Batchelder, Massachusetts and Cyril N. Jansky, Jr., new appointees, was upheld, pending hearings on their nominations. The life of the commission will be extended for another year if Congress agrees to the present plan of Senatorial leaders, it became apparent today.

WATERS NOMINATED

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 13.—Frank J. Waters, of Middlebury, was nominated for county commissioner of New Haven county, by the Senators and Representatives of New Haven county here this afternoon. Burton Hull, of Madison, was nominated as county auditor. His nomination was opposed by Seth Beecher, of Seymour. Hull won, however, by a vote of 23 to 12.

LUHRSEN IS ABSOLVED IN DEATH OF LARSEN

Tolland Man Stepped Directly In Way of Auto, Coroner Finds.

Simeon Luhrsen of Tolland, 18 years old graduate of the local trade school, was yesterday completely exonerated by Coroner John E. Fahy of all responsibility in connection with the death of Michael Larsen, aged 60, of Tolland, who was killed a week ago last night by an automobile operated by Luhrsen.

In his findings, Coroner Fahy says: "I find that the deceased came to his death by negligently crossing the highway in front of the car without taking the precaution of looking to see whether or not the highway was clear; that said Luhrsen did all in his power to avoid a collision and after the accident rendered all possible aid to the deceased." According to the coroner's finding, Luhrsen was driving about 30 miles an hour and did not see Larsen until the latter stepped from behind a bus he had just left, directly in front of the approaching automobile which was only 15 to 20 feet away.

Luhrsen has been out under $1000 bonds and his case will come up in tolland town court within a few days.

BIBLE CLASS TO HAVE A VALENTINE PARTY

Salisbury Steak to Be Served; Entertainment and Social Program.

A Salisbury steak supper will be served at the Valentine party of the Fellowship Bible Class of the Swedish Lutheran church on Friday night, February 15, at 8:30 o'clock. On the program will be a speaker who has not been named as yet, Elsie Berggren, soloist, and Beatrice Johnson, reader. A social hour will follow the entertainment. The committee in charge consists of Ethel Nielsen, chairman; Isabel Bjork, Sra. Lindberg; Roy Johnson, Leonard Johnson, Lawrence Anderson and Nils Pearson.

TO HOLD CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCES AT REC

Manchester mothers are to be congratulated on the intelligent interest which they show in regard to child health matters. One example of this is shown by the large numbers who have been taking advantage of the bi-monthly conferences for mothers and babies, held at the hospital annex. To avoid overcrowding, and in order that mothers of small children living at the other end of the town may more easily obtain the benefit of this health aid for them, the Child Welfare committee has secured the use of two large rooms at the School Street Recreational Center, and in the future it is planned that at least one conference a month will be held here. It is the purpose of these conferences to assist mothers in keeping their young children in a state of health. It is an established fact that the first five years of a child's life are the most important from the standpoint of mental and physical health. Habits formed during this period are more likely to be lasting than those acquired later.

Mothers may feel free to talk over any problem of child health, such as correct physical development, feeding, clothing, training and habit formation with the doctor, nurse or nutrition worker. Literature on all matters pertaining to child welfare may be had on request.

MARY GARDEN BETTER.

BOULDER DAM SITE IN BLACK CANYON TO BE TOURIST RESORT

Denver.—The site of Boulder Dam in Black Canyon on the border line between Arizona and Nevada, where 26 million acre feet of water will be eventually stored, may be a tourist resort aside from a power plant and irrigation center.

According to plans forwarded to Elwood Mead, Commissioner of Reclamation, the Union Pacific Railroad stands ready to construct a forty mile stretch of railroad from Las Vegas, Nevada, to the site of the dam. The primary purpose of the line would be to transport the millions of tons of construction steel, cement and other material necessary in the building of the giant dam, but after this work was completed, the dam and reservoir would stand like an oasis in a desert and mountainous country to which visitors would come from all parts of the globe to see.

Great opportunities will be present when the dam is completed and an 80 mile stretch of water backed up in the Black Canyon. Steamboats, yachts and launches could ply the full length of the inland lake to thrill travelers.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Feb. 13.—Relieved of the high tension in the money market, with a marking down of the call loan rate to 5 per cent, industrial stocks responded brilliantly to the broader demand for the speculative favorites today and prices at the reopening of the market soared spectacularly. The sold-out bull was observed in many sections of the market, looking for bargains in a usual, while the bears, frightened by the sharp rallies from last week's low price levels, crowded the market to cover up their short lines.

Shipping off the southern and eastern coasts of Britain to cope with a wave of grip and flu is sweeping Europe from the British Isles to the Balkans and from Portugal to Russia. There are hundreds of thousands of victims. Throughout all Europe there is a shortage of physicians to cope with the heavy demands entailed by this record breaking cold snap. There is a water famine in Vienna, where the thermometer registered 22 below zero. Poland reports the coldest weather in more than a century. Fifty persons were reported frozen to death in various parts of Rumania in the past 24 hours. Violent snow avalanches are taking place in the Alps and the mountains along the Jugo Slavian and Austrian frontiers. A score of persons have been swept to death by the slides. At some places in the Balkans the snow has been piled in drifts 30 feet high. Along the Bulgarian coast the Black Sea is frozen almost solid to a point three miles from the shore. A break in the cold wave is expected within a few days.

Berlin, Feb. 13.—Airplanes were being utilized today to carry food and provisions to more than a score of vessels frozen in the ice of the Baltic Sea as Europe's most severely frigid wave continued unabated. German battleships and icebreakers from all the Baltic nations, working without stop since the heavy freeze set in, had succeeded 15 to today in freeing some 70 ice-bound ships. Among those remaining fast many are crippled and in danger of being crushed in the thick masses of ice. They have sent repeated SOS calls. Temperatures of from 20 to 40 degrees below zero are reported throughout Germany. Suffering among the poorer classes is intense.

Warships Icebound. The battleships Schleswig-Holstein and Alsace reported being in constant danger of freezing in during the trip from Kiel to the aid of distressed ships in the ice field. Seamen working in Arctic temperatures had to cut a way for the cruisers through ice two feet thick in places. The cold has cracked bridges in cities throughout the country and traffic is seriously hindered. Relief supplies have to be transferred several times in transit.

43 Frozen to Death. Reports from Bucharest are that 43 persons have been frozen to death in Rumania. The Danube is frozen over and there is no sign of relief from the severe cold weather. In Prague the death rate has advanced 50 per cent. The number of deaths due to freezing and exposure is not known, but it is estimated above 100. The morgues in Prague are jammed with dead and wholesale graves are being blasted out of the frozen ground with dynamite. Officials fear food and coal shortage.

COLD IN ITALY. Rome, Feb. 13.—The intense cold and heavy snow and ice which holds all northern Europe fast in its grip today reached down the Italian peninsula. A snowfall last night, accompanied by falling mercury, was general throughout Italy. Florence today was struggling under twenty inches of snow, a report of many years' standing. Business was seriously hindered as the city is unequipped to cope with severe winter and there is much suffering, officials reported.

The lagoon and many of the canals in Venice are frozen, an unusual sight. Italy until last night had escaped the widespread cold wave. The Spanish peninsula is now the only part of Europe not seriously affected by frigid temperatures.

RAIN WASHES TURTLE FROM WINTER HOME

Being Preserved for Either Domestic or Culinary Purposes, Whatever That Means

The recent heavy rain spoiled a perfectly happy winter for a 27-pound snapping turtle here and also brought it face to face with death. The turtle had hibernated itself well underground prepared to take life easy during the cold winter months. Then along came the cruel storm and washed away the roof of the cozy home exposing Snapper to all kinds of weather. It was then that he was discovered and now is being kept a prisoner in a box at the Oakland Filling Station. The finder is debating on whether to try and train Snapper or use him for soup.

Stamford, Feb. 13.—Injured when her husband's automobile upset on January 13, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, 55, died at Stamford hospital today. An autopsy disclosed a ruptured kidney. After the accident Mrs. Brown had a way declaring she was unhurt. She was later troubled by pain and was taken to the hospital last Sunday.

CALMLY SEND BILLS FOR UNAUTHORIZED ADS

Merchants Dunned for Program Space by Disabled Veterans; Drive Unsanctioned.

Manchester business men several times in the past have been told through the columns of the "Herald" of the activities of solicitors representing themselves to be Disabled American Veterans of the World War. Despite repeated warnings last year several business men did sign contracts for advertising in a souvenir program. Others were approached but refused to sign contracts. When the 183 page program was issued, however, it carried the advertisements of about a score of Manchester business men, some of whom had refused to advertise, others who had never even been approached. They all received bills, in various amounts.

Several bulletins in connection with the activities of this organization have been sent out by the Connecticut State Chamber of Commerce, the objection being that most of the funds collected are not being used for the purpose represented, namely relief work for disabled veterans. Most of the funds are used to pay the expenses of delegates to conventions and to maintain a summer camp at Niantic. Hearing that their solicitors were working in Manchester, the Chamber of Commerce sent a wire to the National Headquarters in Cincinnati, and a reply has just been received from the National Adjutant, Vivian D. Corby, stating that the local campaign for funds is not authorized by the National Organization, nor its purpose known. Business men who are prompted to give money to these solicitors, either in the form of a subscription or for an advertising contract, under the impression that they are helping the disabled veterans, are advised to keep their money.

LINDY IS SILENT ON ENGAGEMENT

great Sikorsky amphibian plane Lindbergh headed northward. Lindbergh is completing the round trip of his trail blazing flight from Miami, Fla., to Cristobal, Canal Zone, while route will be used in the future for a regular air mail and passenger service, conducted by Pan American Airways. Was Overdue The flying collier had spent the night here, after he had arrived at 7:49 o'clock last night. Lindbergh became overdue after hopping off from Belize, British Honduras, for Havana, and his delay in reaching here resulted from his decision to make an unscheduled stop. He landed at Cozumel, a little island off the southern Mexican coast for fuel. Lindbergh was surprised to find that his delay in reaching Havana had caused some excitement. He explained that he had flown up the Yucatan coast, after leaving British Honduras, to make a survey for possible landing places in the future. The coast line will be mapped for future use in event mail and passenger planes leave the coast and are seeking a safe place to land.

Will Not Talk When he reached the air field Lindbergh turned a deaf ear to all queries about his romance with Miss Morrow. When asked the date of the marriage he reiterated: "I will confine all my remarks to aviation." When his attention was called to the formal announcement of the engagement, given out by Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in Mexico City, Lindbergh smiled, and remarked: "You know all about it. There is nothing for me to add to what you already know." However, before hopping off Lindbergh did say: "I plan to do some more flying shortly after I reach the United States. Beyond that my plans are vague. I am going to expect to fly a plane over the transcontinental air line route from New York to the west. But there are details to be worked out. I may hop off at Miami for New York tomorrow, expect to be at tonight in Miami."

Carried Heavy Load Col. John Hambleton, vice president of Pan-American Airways, who accompanied Lindbergh on the flight to Havana, told of the difficulties encountered in refueling the two planes at Cozumel. It was mainly these difficulties that caused the machines to arrive here about six hours behind their schedule. Also, the heavy plane piloted by Lindbergh was so weighted by gas and mail that it had some difficulty in rising from the water. "The gasoline for the two planes was carried out into the harbor at Cozumel by natives in small boats," said Hambleton. "It took four and a half hours to load the fuel into the two planes. Even when it was all aboard we did not have enough to carry us through to Havana, and we were forced to land again at La Fe for more gasoline. The stop at La Fe was about an hour and a half."

Flying conditions were excellent. We were aided by a tail wind while crossing to Cuba. A temporary fueling and emergency station has been installed at Cozumel, Mexico, by Pan-American Airways as a result of the survey.

FLU ON DECREASE. Washington, Feb. 13.—Another material decrease in pneumonia and influenza deaths was reported for the week ending Feb. 9 by the Census Bureau today. Pneumonia deaths in 66 cities numbered 1,433 compared to 1,724 the preceding week. Sixty-four cities reported 249 influenza deaths compared to 493.

New York City led the flu deaths with 74 compared to 124 the week before.

part of the said Judge Winslow." The Charge. It further asserted that "the said Judge Winslow has made repeated appointments of a small group of men to receiverships and as special masters, which group in turn appoint to other positions persons closely associated with the said Judge Winslow either by ties of marriage, previous business relations or personal favor into a ring which through its commonly known connection and influence with said Judge Winslow has harassed legitimate business and has depleted bankrupt estates with excessive expenses and fees, all approved by Judge Winslow, thereby preventing legitimate creditors from receiving their just distributive share of the estate, all of which seems to be known among the members of the bar and the public in the said district of New York." The resolution said that David Steinhart, indicted for shortage in his accounts as a receiver and for larceny and who is now a fugitive from justice, was a member of the "ring" operating in the court and asserted that Judge Winslow was improperly influenced by Marcus Helfand.

Rep. LaGuardia, being a member of the judiciary committee, planned to consult Chairman Graham to arrange early consideration of the resolution. Rep. Sirovich said that he was ready to furnish important testimony as a result of a personal investigation made by him in New York.

NO STATEMENT.

New York, Feb. 13.—Openly accused on the floor of Congress of being involved in a $10,000 "fixing" deal, to gain a man a suspended sentence, Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow did not sit today in Federal court here.

Following the announcement by Judge John C. Knox that Judge Winslow wouldn't occupy the bench today, the accused jurist said: "I have no statement to make, gentlemen, no statement. I am not going to sit today. Instead I shall devote the entire time to the study of the charges that have been made by Representative La Guardia in Congress."

LINDY ENDS TRIP

Miami, Fla., Feb. 13.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today ended his round trip Pan-American air mail flight at 9:58 a. m. The intrepid trans-Atlantic flyer brought his Sikorsky amphibian plane down at the Pan American Field here, after an uneventful flight from Havana, Cuba. With his hop from the Cuban city was the last leg of his return flight from Central America, to which he flew last week inaugurating mail service from Miami.

A reporter on a western newspaper is 78 years old. Very few men can go along that far, but probably he is sustained by having met "so many interesting people."

LINDY SEARCHING FOR LOST PLANE

As Soon as He Hears News In Florida He Starts Off Again.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 13.—A few hours after his arrival here from a Pan-American air mail flight connecting North and Central America, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off in the same plane for the Florida keys to search for the missing plane "Leoning."

The missing plane, flying from Havana to Miami, is believed to have been forced down somewhere in the Florida keys late yesterday afternoon. The cutters Tallapoosa and Mallard from the Key West navy station having been searching for the plane ever since, but have found no trace of it. Lindbergh took off from the Pan-American airways field here at noon. Little more than two hours after he arrived from Havana, Cuba, on the last leg of his two-way Central American mail flight. With him were Col. John Hambleton, vice-president of the Pan-American airways, and John Donohue, mechanic.

Her Poem. At the ivy day exercises last June, Miss Morrow's ivy song was sung by the entire graduating class. The words were as follows: Ivy we plant remembering thee All beauties here we prize: Purple of hill and bars of bough Against December skies. Hour of trailing willow lace Reverently we name. And white April burning out In chestnut-candle flame; Pattered on a twilight slope, Shadows on the grass. And after dark along the walks Laughter and steps that pass. Not ours alone we leave to you Shadows and hills and trees. We plant the ivy here today, And go remembering thee. Anne Morrow, the quiet and unobtrusive college girl, was writing poetry at Smith in the spring of 1927 while the young blonde giant, who is to be her husband, was writing his name into the hearts of the people of the world by his dramatic flight from New York to Paris.

Interested in History. In addition to her poetry, Miss Morrow did considerable prose writing, most of it concerned with literary movements and history. She was elected to the Alpha club, an organization composed of high-standing representatives of various college courses. Alpha club members at Smith are known as "seniorities." NEW MILFORD SUFFERS FROM $60,000 FIRE

More Manchester People Died In January Than In Any Previous Month In History.

New Milford, Conn., Feb. 13.—Fire today swept the new one-story building of the William Noble Drug Company, at Main and Bank streets, doing damage estimated at nearly $60,000, and threatening to become as serious as the fire of 1901 that wiped out the heart of the village. Several volunteers were slightly hurt and an unidentified colored man, struck by fire apparatus, is in serious condition in the hospital here. Officials believe the fire started from a gasoline stove on which water was heating. The blaze was discovered just before seven a. m., was out soon after nine o'clock. The entire building was reduced to ruins with a loss estimated at $50,000. An adjoining building containing the Western Union office, Charles Knowles radio store and the Bennett gift shop was damaged to the amount of about $10,000. In the excitement attending the general fire alarm auto mixups were numerous and men rushing to the fire were hurt though not severely enough to prevent their working as firemen. The one victim in the hospital was too intent on reaching the fire to observe the approaching apparatus and was knocked down.

SKATING CONDITIONS AT THE CENTER "RINK" Except for one section of the pond, cleared off for playing hockey, Center Springs is in poor condition for the skater who enjoys a smooth and uncracked surface. 26 DEATHS IN MONTH HERE BREAKS RECORD

More Manchester People Died In January Than In Any Previous Month In History.

Manchester's record of 26 deaths for the month of January is the highest for any one month in the town's history, according to the statement made by Samuel Turkington, town clerk, this morning. Of the twenty-six deaths ten were from pneumonia. Last December there were 15 deaths. During January there were 33 births and 8 marriages and 35 births and ten marriages in December.

Meeting of City Council. The Rockville City Council held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening with Mayor Forster presiding. Several petitions were granted and routine bills ordered paid. The council voted that a citizens' committee be appointed by Mayor Forster in regard to the new electric current meter charge of $1.50 with a committee from the council and appear before the Public Utilities Commission. No satisfaction has been obtained from the Rockville Willimantic Lighting Company concerning the protest. The council voted three resolutions regarding alterations at the filtration plant which involves an expense of $60,000 authorizing Engineer Gerald Knight to advertise for bids for the necessary machinery and equipment for doing the work. These bids were to be opened before the council and members of the special filtration committee March 12.

Luhrsen Cleared. Coroner Fahey handed down his finding Tuesday morning, regarding death of Michael Larsen of Tolland, saying that Luhrsen did all in his power to avoid collision and that the deceased came to his death in negligently crossing the highway in front of the car driven by Larsen, without taking the precaution of looking to see whether the highway was clear or not. Luhrsen claims that he was traveling about thirty miles an hour at the time of the accident, which Coroner Fahey said was not a reckless pace.

Alice Becomes Blond With Lawyer's Help!

Alice White . . . and she used to be a script girl.

Hollywood, Calif.—Alice White, film star, recently decided to become a blond. Miss White was informed that it is a violation for contract for a motion picture star to become a blond when she has signed the legal document as a brunet. When the little star received her new starring contract from First National Pictures, Inc., there was the clause that she was a "brunet of natural auburn hair." Her lawyer, however, arranged to have a clause inserted: "Now appearing by consent of the party of the second part as a blond."

FEAR TWO STEAMSHIPS ARE LOST IN PACIFIC

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 13.—Concern for the crews of two freighters adrift in the storm-tossed seas near Unimak Pass was felt today following brief messages picked up by radio here. The disabled crafts are the Alloway and the Meiyu Maru. The crew of the freighter Alloway abandoned ship late yesterday and took to their life boats after a tow line to the Dollar steamer Montauk, which was taking her to the Dutch harbor, was snapped by the mountainous waves. Meanwhile the freighter Meiyu Maru is pounding on the shore of Unimak Island, to the westward of Unimak Pass, with the full drive of the north-Pacific swells battering her against the rocks. Forty-two men are aboard. The cessation of wireless messages from the Meiyu Maru, while believed to be due to failure of the operating power, may have a more grim significance. The Cheilan is due to reach the scene Thursday morning. The message from the Montauk and Alloway was brief, merely stating that the hawser had broken and that the crew was taking to the boats. Children can fool the parents but the parents can't fool the children.

HEAT Measured As Accurately as the Ingredients of Your Recipe! Good cooking may be a fine art. And good cooks "to the manner born." But with a book of recipes and a modern Gas Range, one needn't be a skilled chef to bake and roast to the admiration (and appreciation) of the whole family. Modern cookery doesn't call for "a dash" of this, "a pinch" of that, "season to taste" and "bake until done." Ingredients are now measured out according to recipe with accurate utensils. And with Oven Heat Control, HEAT becomes the final ingredient. Learn how Oven Heat Control enables you to cook with scientific accuracy. See our display of MODERN GAS RANGES Come in Today! ANDOVER

Miss Clara Thompson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson and Howard W. Green both of Andover were married last week at Hillsdale, New York. They motored through the Catskill mountains and northern New York on their wedding trip. Mrs. Green has been a clerk in the postoffice and Valley Company's store for about thirteen years. Mr. Green is employed in East Hartford. They will make their home with the bride's parents for the present. Clarence Ketcham has had a relapse and is quite sick at her home at the center.

Miss Sara Rosenblum has gone to New York for a visit with relatives and friends. Her sister, Miss Rose is staying at home at present. Rev. Russell O'Brien has returned from his home in Pembroke, Ontario, Canada, where he was called by the serious illness of his mother. Mrs. O'Brien is still very seriously ill.

The young people gave a very pleasing Lincoln day program at the Sunday school session Sunday.

The Ladies Benevolent society will give their annual silver tea Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the conference house.

The Christian Endeavor society will give a supper Saturday evening in the Town Hall. Visitors at A. E. Frink's Sunday were Mrs. Harrison Foote and son Elmer Foote of Colchester, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Platt and son Douglas, of Manchester, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Frink and son Edward Harrison, Jr., of Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Murphy of Bristol.

90 PHONE EMPLOYEES GET GOLD EMBLEMS

Service Awards for Over 20 Years Employment—Pres. Moran Gets 45-Year Pin.

During the current year 90 employees of the Southern New England Telephone company will receive gold service emblems in recognition of 20 or more years of continuous service in the telephone business. These emblems are awarded at each five year period in an employee's service and the medals for receipt of the emblems arrive during the year. There are, of course, many more telephone workers who have been in the business 20 years or more. As a matter of fact there are about 250 of them, all told, who have been with the company longer than that, John W. Ladd, General Agent, being the "Daddy" of the business with a service record which last September passed the half century mark.

Of the 90 receiving the service emblems this year for 20 or more years, 40 will get the 20 year button, 31 will receive the 25 year button, 12 will have been with the company 30 years, four 35 years, one forty years and two have rounded out 45 years.

President James T. Moran is one of those who will receive a 45 year service emblem. Mr. Moran, as he often tells groups of telephone workers, entered the business back in the days when the telephone didn't amount to much as a public utility. He speaks of himself then as something in the way of an office boy for the late Morris F. Tyler, then president of the company.

Thomas N. Bradshaw, of New Haven, Outside Plant Engineer, is the other whose 45 year term of service will be completed during the year and Walter J. McDermott, a Plant Department worker in New Haven, is the 40 year man.

Those who will receive 35 year service emblems this year are Louis J. Brague, of Bridgeport; Miss Alice A. Slater and Joseph G. Osborne, of Hartford; Harry J. Pond, of New Haven.

The aggregate of service represented by the 90 employees is 2,205 years and the 19 employees in the 45 to 30 year service classes, inclusive, have served the public of the state, through the telephone company, a total of 630 years.

POLISH FLIERS TO TRY ATLANTIC HOP EARLY THIS YEAR

Warsaw.—Poland plans to open the next trans-Atlantic flying season very early in 1929.

As soon as their four-motored hydroplane now under construction in the Caproni aircraft works near Milan, Italy, is finished, Colonel Adam Kowalczyk and Colonel Wladimir Kisz, Polish army pilots, intend to fly across the Atlantic in an East-West direction. They will first hop to Baldonell, Ireland, for this purpose, from where they plan to fly somewhere to the American continent.

Besides bettering the feat last year of Captain Koehl who was forced down with his Junkers plane "Europa" on Greenly Island, the Polish fliers will attempt simultaneously to capture the world's endurance-flight record now also held by Junkers. For this purpose Colonel Kowalczyk will try to stay in the air as long as his fuel supply will permit, even after the American continent is reached.

The Caproni seaplane will be equipped with four motors developing a total of 1200 HP. and will also carry complete radio sending and receiving apparatus. Its pontoons are to enable it to make a landing on the high seas in emergency cases. The plane, which is to be christened "Polonia," is to develop a maximum speed of about 140 miles an hour.

The cost of this Polish expedition, including the price for the plane, was raised by private subscription, largely from Polish residents of Chicago.

SURPRISE SHOWER

A surprise shower was held last night at the home of Mrs. Mabel Thornfelt on Cambridge street, in honor of Miss Irene Lemerie. The house was beautifully decorated in Valentine colors. A mock marriage was performed and games, dancing and singing were a part of the entertainment.

Miss Lemerie received many beautiful and useful gifts including linens, silver and glassware. Miss Lemerie is soon to be married to Alfred Palshaw of East Hartford, Conn.

MORE WOMEN THAN MEN IN MANCHESTER

Personal Tax Enumerator's Figures Show Excess to Be Over Four Hundred.

Figures just compiled by the personal tax enumerator of Manchester, which include all ages over 18, indicate that Manchester has considerably more women than men. Counting those called on to pay personal taxes and those who are exempt, Manchester has 4,800 men, while the number of women who must pay a personal tax is 5,230. These figures make no account of the girls who never get past the 18 year age limit.

David McCann, the personal tax collector, having completed his enumeration, finds that there is an increase of 369 over last year in the number of persons liable for the personal tax. In 1927-28 the list showed 3,590 men while the list of 1928-29 shows 3,715, an increase of 122 men. Women liable for the tax are 5,478 as against 5,231 last year, an increase of 247 or a total increase of 369 for the year. This excludes men exempt for military service, and as framed about 1,200.

QUICK TO OPPOSE

As was to have been expected, Senator Capper's proposal for an embargo on arms, munitions or materials to be used in war, to be laid by the United States against any nation violating the Kellogg pact, has produced a great outcry. It comes earlier, however, than was to have been anticipated, as the measure is not to be urged at this session of Congress. Statesmen, nevertheless, have not waited for Congressional debate, they have responded quickly to invitations to express their views concerning it in the press. And many of them, as it was certain they would be, are opposed.

Almost with one accord these leap at the conclusion that the President would be compelled, by the law, to make choice between two belligerents, declaring one the offender. The Capper resolution requires no such thing. It merely authorizes the President to make proclamation that a certain nation has violated the peace pact. No President we have ever had, and none we would ever be likely to have, would take such a step unless the violation were an open and shut fact. But it pleases the opposition to misrepresent the facts.

How recklessly natural born opponents of any measure like the Capper bill are always ready to talk is illustrated by Senator Borah's reason for objecting to the measure. "An economic blockade is in itself an act of war," he says, "and usually when one is declared they begin shooting next morning."

Nobody knows better than Mr. Borah that an embargo on the exportation of supplies from America to a belligerent is a thousand miles removed from being a blockade. There is no suggestion whatever of a blockade. Nobody has even dreamed that we should take steps to prevent such a belligerent from getting its supplies wherever it might—save that it could not get them in the United States.

The Capper proposal has scant chance of ever being considered on its merits. It carries with it the potentiality of interference with the making of profit for somebody. That settles it.

IN GERMAN INTEREST

The utterances of Count Carlo Sforza, minister of foreign affairs in Italy just after the World war and who is acting as an exchange professor of foreign affairs at Wesleyan University, ever since his recent arrival in the United States have been such as to create the impression that his principal interest in visiting America is to help in the eradication of German war guilt. So far he has lost no opportunity for the spreading of the theory that all hands were equally to blame for the war, or, if there was any one less to blame than the others, it was Germany.

Count Sforza is only one of a number of persons other than Germans, engaged just now in the dissemination of this kind of propaganda. Of course a certain group of Germans have been at it persistently ever since the war.

It would be worth a good many billion of dollars to Germany if the efforts of these propagandists should be successful in convincing the world that the Central Powers were not especially culpable in the starting of the war. If Germany could obtain acquittal of war guilt, then away would go the whole theory of reparations and the Reich would not have to pay.

Oddly enough the most active opponents of the theory of Germany's innocence are to be found in Germany, itself. It is essential to the maintenance of the republican idea there that the nation should recognize the fact that the Kaiser and kaiserism were responsible for the disaster of 1914, Acquit Germany of the war and you sanctify the Kaiser and restore the monarchy. That is the last thing that the bulk of the German people want.

But the agents of junkerdom are abroad in the earth, spreading the doctrine of no German guilt. Plenty of them are very busy in America.

A NUISANCE BILL

We do not know what imp of perversity whispered in the ear of Representative Mansfield of Harwinton and prompted him to introduce once more into the Legislature of this state a bill providing for a tax of one cent per package on all cigarettes sold in Connecticut, but we have a suspicion that it was one devoted more to interfering with people's liberties than to the raising of revenues.

The cigarette tax bill is one that no one with any information would think of advocating for the money it would put in the state treasury, because the experience of a dozen states which have tried this scheme shows that there is nothing in it in the way of profit. One state which was promised $300,000 a year income from a cigarette tax found that the best it could get was about ten per cent of that amount, almost all of which was consumed in paying for the collection. Indignant smokers bought their cigarettes outside the state, cigarette bootlegging became rampant and the whole scheme was a lamentable failure. The law was quickly and almost unanimously repealed. Almost three-quarters of the states have at one time or another rejected a cigarette tax bill, some after trying the plan, some without experimenting with it, Connecticut among the latter.

There is no more justice in picking on cigarettes for special nuisance taxation than there is for putting such taxation on candy, cosmetics, permanent waves or any other manifestation of luxury.

As a matter of fact, behind this attempt to tax cigarettes lie the nagging propensities of the "regulators"—people who would dearly love to make it a felony for a person to use tobacco but who would shriek in horror if anyone attempted to tax or prohibit their tea. Its quality of a revenue producer is the merest pretense.

The bill should get, and undoubtedly will get, the shortest kind of short shrift.

EUROPE'S WINTER

It is undoubtedly very cold in Europe, but there is nothing frozen about the imaginations of the correspondents responsible for some of the tales that are coming out of the frigid belt. Warsaw, which by the way is rapidly becoming the Shanghai of Europe in the creation of marvel news stories, reports for instance that an entire band of Gypsies, 34 in number, were frozen to death in the camp in a forest. In a forest, mind you—and Gypsies!

With all the fuel imaginable at hand and all the material for windbreaks, to say nothing of the shelter of normal Gypsy equipment in Europe, these folks are supposed to have permitted themselves to be frozen stiff for lack of gumption enough to thaw themselves out. If those Gypsies are really dead somebody in that part of Poland needs an alibi.

Another equally good tale is the one of a hundred wolves that came ravening out of the wilderness, tore down the mud walls of a school somewhere in Austria and ate up the sixteen Little Red Riding Hoods and their little brothers who, somehow or other, in spite of the ghastly cold, had assembled as usual for their A B Abs. Also the wolves made dessert of four gendarmes and two soldiers who went to the rescue of the children—probably summoned to that mud school in an uncharted village by telephone or Western Union messenger boy. As a matter of fact one tall boy armed with a mouthful of tobacco juice could stand off all the wolves in Europe.

It is quite obvious that a lot of peasants' tales are being sent out from the remoter sections of Europe to adorn the tale of a really unusually cold winter. They are rather needed, if Americans of the Northern states are to be importantly impressed, because such figures as Fahrenheit zero or ten or twenty below, fail to register very seriously in a country where cold weather is all in the day's work.

OLD TIME NOTORIETY

The passing of the Countess De Bath, one time Lily Langtry, the "Jersey Lily" of forty-odd years ago, strikingly suggests the huge change in manners as well as times that has come upon the nation. Because she was beautiful and enjoyed the friendship of that Prince of Wales who became the grandfather of the present Prince, Lily Langtry attained to what was substantially undying fame. The world has never forgotten her. Let any woman try a similar road to celebrity nowadays and see whether her notoriety would last through four decades. A Lily Langtry in 1923 would be good for, at the most, a couple of years of more or less irregular publicity and then fade wholly from view. Who is there that can name, off-hand, that red-headed friend of the crown prince of Rumania?

LINDY FADES

Away goes Lindbergh, superlative matinee idol of American fapperdom! With the announcement of the colonel's engagement to Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, there fades seven-eighths of the glamor that attached to the hero of all heroes of the air—so far as is concerned the all-important part of the public when it comes to hero worship. Lindy the mysterious, Lindy the fascinatingly reserved, Lindy the bravest of the brave and the toughest of the tough from the viewpoint of feminine nineteen, is very soon to be just a mere married man. Poo!h!

IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 13.—It happened in one of those cheap, drab looking mid-Manhattan rooming houses which seem strangely caught in the midst of elegant, towering neighbors. The exteriors have a barren similarity, a suggestion of incrustated cobwebs and ingrained soot; the window curtains have become a dirty gray, either through lack of laundering or years of worthy service. Somehow the windows never seem clean or clear, and generally they look out into the monotony of a light well, an alleyway or a nearby blank wall.

There is a definite depression about them that one knows instinctively will be continued upon entering. One knows instinctively that there will be a battered, scuffed bit of rug running up the stairway; that the stairs will be a bit of-kilter; that the desk will be a narrow square coop, which seems candlelit even when an electric arc flickers above. A sense of darkness and dankness pervades the place.

One knows instinctively, also, that there will be one bath to a floor and that girls and women in cheap kimonos will patter down the hallway; that the hallway will be dimly lit and that the people who live herein will, somehow, reflect their environs.

One knows, too, that there will be a sign outside reading "Transient"—and that these people are transient. They are among the thousands—the clerks, the typists, the waitresses, the laundresses and such—who find themselves jobless in the city. Here of cold nights you'll see desperate girls—girls so desperate for life, food, shelter and security that they'll break your heart, too, if you listen to their stories.

You'll see a woman with a baby in her arms come for a room and a week later you'll see her come in to clean up your room and you'll know that she couldn't pay her rent and went to work for $5 a week and a roof over her head.

GILBERT SWAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.
 Washington, Feb. 13.—Every one likes the Hon. Henry F. Fletcher, Roosevelt's close friend of President-Elect Hoover. Fletcher is the most popular ambassador in the foreign service.

Fletcher has a reputation for knowing Latin America and for being liked by Latin Americans. He also knows his Europe and his Asia, too, for that matter. He may be in line for a prominent diplomatic position in the Hoover administration.

But the outstanding thing about his personality is a remarkable faculty for not making any mistakes. He is a natural-born diplomat and always seems to have had friends in the right places.

When Hoover takes office Fletcher will be serving under his sixth president. How does he fit with Hoover? Well, the president-elect decided that he was the one man whom he wanted to direct the diplomatic arrangements on the Hoover good will tour. Fletcher functioned admirably—probably perfectly, judging from the way his end of the show went off.

Fletcher is the original "career man" in the foreign service. Roosevelt, under whom he had served in Cuba with the Rough Riders, launched him into diplomacy and he has since kept going under his own momentum without being even temporarily halted by changes of administration.

The ambassador is now virtually 55 years old. He was born into comparatively luxurious surroundings at Greensville, Pa., and always has had pleasant relations with the important Republican politicians of Pennsylvania.

He was 25 years old and had just begun practice of law when he joined up with Roosevelt's Rough Riders. He came to Washington when the corps was supposed to be filled up and 50 or 60 applicants were being turned down every day. He was among a large group to whom Roosevelt expressed his regrets.

Fletcher rushed to see Senator Matt Quay, the powerful Pennsylvania boss. Quay offered him a captaincy in some other outfit. Fletcher insisted that he would rather be a private in the Rough Riders. Quay wrote a letter to Roosevelt and Fletcher became a Rough Rider.

After the war in Cuba was over Fletcher served in the Philippines, earning a Lieutenant's rank. Not long after Roosevelt became president he was made second secretary of the legation at Peking. Later he was secretary of legation at both Peking and Lisbon and charge d'affaires.

The Wilson election in 1912 found him minister to Chile. The very general assumption was that he wouldn't be there very long, as President Taft had elevated him and his affiliations were Republican. By this time he was a good friend of Boies Penrose, successor to Quay as Pennsylvania Governor. But Fletcher put over a fast one. When other American diplomats over the world automatically submitted their resignation, he did nothing of the sort. He insisted that diplomacy was his career and that he had earned his post. Wilson agreed with Fletcher and kept him in Santiago.

Few supposed that he would survive the next change of administration, but Fletcher was right on the ground. Soon after the 1920 election he had become an adviser to Woodrow Wilson Harding and accompanied Harding on his pre-inaugural trip to Florida. After March 4 he became undersecretary of states, serving with Secretary Hughes. He was an adviser to the American commis-

NO MORE BOW-LEGS

It has been believed in the past that bow-legs are caused by the baby to walk too early in life, but there is practically no evidence to indicate that this is true. Babies do not attempt to walk or crawl until their tissues are strong enough to withstand the strain.

Most cases of bow-legs are caused by the baby's diet not being rich enough in bone building substances. Of course, a few babies seem to be bow-legged naturally, but I am quite sure that the majority would have correctly formed limbs if the mother's diet preceding the birth, and the baby's diet subsequent to birth, were properly balanced.

If the mother notices that the child's legs are distinctly bowed, she may be able to correct the deformity if she begins early enough in the child's life before the age of fifteen to eighteen months, while the bones are still pliable.

A slight bow of the baby's legs is normal and should cause no alarm, but if the bending is excessive, it can be corrected to a large extent by gently attempting to bend the baby's legs in the proper direction two or three times daily. This may sound like a severe treatment, but if it is done properly, it will not cause the least bit of discomfort to the baby, since the child's bones bend readily. Very severe cases, of course, should be treated by an orthopedist.

If the expectant mother or the nursing mother's diet contains a sufficient quantity of the bone-building foods such as spinach, cabbage, Swiss chard, turnips, asparagus, cress, lettuce, celery, cucumbers, tomatoes, lemons, oranges, milk, and egg yolk, the baby will also receive sufficient bone forming elements. If the baby is bottle fed, it should be allowed plenty of raw certified milk and orange juice, to which diet may be added small amounts of raw carrot juice, spinach juice or tomato juice.

A baby with improper bone formation should also be exposed for a few minutes daily to the action of the direct sunlight, or if this is not available, to the scintillating light which many physicians have installed. After eighteen months of age, it is still possible to correct bow-legs to a slight degree through the use of leg-bending and strengthening exercises, but the bones are harder and no great change can be expected.

It is almost useless for adults to expect to straighten the bones of their legs if they are badly bowed. However, by taking exercises such as the deep knee bending, and alternately raising on the toes and heels, the muscles of the calf may be so developed that the bow is not noticeable. Sometimes adults have their legs broken and reset in a straighter position, but this treatment is not generally advisable because bones do not always heal exactly as they are posed to, and sometimes the result is not pleasing to the patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Bleeder

Question: J. W. L. writes: "When I cut myself while shaving, the bleeding sometimes continues for an hour or more. I am thirty-eight years old and seem to be in good health otherwise. Can you tell me why the blood doesn't coagulate?"

Answer: It is possible that you are a type of person known as a bleeder in which the blood does not coagulate properly. These cases can often be remedied by a short fast of orange juice, say from five to seven days, followed by a diet rich in alkaline elements and protein. A liberal amount of gelatin in the diet seems to be of assistance in many cases.

Eggs Are Wholesome

Question: D. T. asks: "Are eggs a good healthful, strengthening food? How would they affect a person? Should he eat them each morning?"

Answer: One or two eggs may be used by any healthy person every day. They are quite wholesome and nourishing.

Angina Pectoris

Question: Subscriber writes: "I have an unusual case of angina pectoris. What kind of work can I do that would not hurt me? Would a fast help me?"

Answer: Many cases of angina pectoris are greatly benefited by the orange juice fast. The diet after the fast must be rigidly guarded as to the correct food combinations. Very little exercise should be taken during the fast, but after the diet is started, moderate exercise should be used and gradually increased as the strength of the patient permits.

Sagging Abdomen

Question: M. P. B. writes: "I have a sagging abdomen. Have you a belt for nine months? It does no good because it doesn't retain its elasticity. What is the remedy? What exercises should be taken?"

Answer: You should develop an "intestinal vacuum" by exercising your abdominal muscles until they become strong. The best exercises are those taken while lying on the back and alternately raising the legs and the trunk.

Bones of at least 2000 Hippopotami killed by prehistoric hunters were found in a single cave in Sicily.

INSTEAD of exercise

Millions of busy men and women are learning the secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Cascarets give your bowels all the real exercise as they get from an hour with the boxing gloves. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things produce only mechanical or chemical action. They weaken your bowels.

Every time you use Cascarets your bowels become stronger. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this! That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million boxes a year, and people everywhere depend on them to relieve headaches, biliousness, dizziness, bloating, indigestion, constipation, etc.

Lo, the Poor Indian—And How He Got That Way!

Critic Looks At King As Movie Star

By GENE COHN

New York.—If by any chance, Alfonso VIII, by the Grace of God, King of Spain, should care to raise the national debt of his native land, he could do no better than assume the name of Alfonso Castle, for instance, and turn his footsteps in the direction of Hollywood.

For, in his first movietone appearance—shown here in a preview for film writers—his majesty is what they refer to in Aragon as a "wow!" His majesty, if teamed with Bernard Shaw, who was the first great man to speak into the talking news films, would be an act which could give competition even to Robert Benchley.

Twirls Mean Mustache Since it is now apparent that even a critic can look at a king, I might make a few adverse commentaries. What American audiences will notice, I have no doubt, is that Spain needs a good courtier. Some dear to the audience, looking upon the condition of his majesty's lower set, probably will be moved to take his grinders and set out for dear old Barcelona.

That arranged, "Alfonso VIII, by the Grace of God, King of Spain," could be, by the grace of Hollywood, what Granada refers to as "a riot." No one in all moviedom, including Adolphe Menjou, can twirl so mean a mustache. No one in all Hollywood can twinkle a merrier eye, not even the late Rudolph Valentino could flash a snappier bracelet.

If his majesty doesn't mind, we'll go further—and use the vernacular of Nevarrt—he has personality. Yes, even "It." He does not take himself too seriously. He is merry as he talks. Once or twice he forgets his lines and misses his cue. Once or twice he becomes amused at what he is doing and all but laughs in the camera man's face. Once or twice he makes gestures such as many a Hollywood star would envy.

He's a Booster His speech, I might add, concerns the sporting quality of the American, the attractions of Spain, the quality of his nation's roads—a bid for the motorist—and other matters that might have come direct from a meeting of the South of Spain Greeters and Boosters Association.

King Alfonso . . . two shots of his majesty in the movietone.

But interest centers in the fact that here, for the first time—so far as anyone can recall—the voice of a king is heard speaking to Americans and a king is caught in one of his very human moments.

In such things is there justification for the talkies, no matter what else they may do.

Sir Hall Caine's "Recollections" Defend Honor Of Poet Rossetti

London.—In order to "clear the air of suspicion" surrounding the life of Dante Gabriel Rossetti, the famous poet, painter and leader of the "Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood," Sir Hall Caine has written a new book revealing for the first time the fact that Rossetti's wife committed suicide, and that the tragedy of Rossetti's life lay in the fact that after his marriage to the beautiful Elizabeth Siddall, he found that he loved another.

The book is based upon a "confession" made personally to Sir Hall by Rossetti. Although a much younger man, Caine was one of the famous man's closest friends.

Bound By Duty Sir Hall reveals that soon after his engagement to Miss Siddall, Rossetti met the beautiful girl who became the wife of William Morris, the poet, designer, printer and Socialist prophet, whose fame was contemporaneous with that of Rossetti. He immediately fell in love with her, but was "bound by duty" to remain true to his vow to Miss Siddall.

Rossetti's wife, Sir Hall declares, divined the secret of his hidden love for another within two years of their marriage, and the writer makes clear his belief that she poisoned herself with laudanum, leaving for Rossetti a letter or message of such a nature that he, in all probability, destroyed it.

The letter was not produced or mentioned at the inquest upon Mrs. Rossetti, and a verdict of accidental death was returned.

It was not until twenty years later, that, during a midnight journey from Cumberland to London, Rossetti unburdened his soul to the then young and almost unknown Hall Caine, who had become almost a son to him.

Learned Secret Sir Hall learned the tragic secret from Rossetti's lips forty-six years ago—a few months before Rossetti died in his arms. He has now been provoked by attacks on Rossetti's memory into disclosing it.

Rossetti, telling Hall Caine of the message his wife left for him on the night of her death, said that "it had left such a scar on his heart as would never be healed."

The poet took to chloral after his wife's death, lived the life of a hermit, and his work suffered for it. It was not until many years later that he conquered the habit, and it was during this late period that some of his finest work was done.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The condition of John Leonard of Burnside continues to improve. He is now conscious.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Feb. 13.—Buying orders for the industrial favorites crowded the market over the holiday, and prices started forward with a grand rush at the beginning of trading today. Opening prices of a score or more of the active stocks showed new gains of 1 to 4 points which, added to Monday's rallies, restored practically all of the losses incurred in last week's money market "scare."

Relieved over the refusal of the New York reserve bank directors to push up the rediscount rate at Monday's special meeting, and a general feeling that with the help of the bankers and legislators, the speculative borrowing jumble will be straightened out were the principal factors in bringing new business to the Stock Market. Stock sales in the first half hour were approximately 1,000,000 shares, against 529,000 in the same period on Monday. Call money renewed at 7 1-2 per cent.

At today's early prices many of the active stocks were up 6 to 10 points from last Friday's lows, and nearly on a par with the price range in effect before the reserve board's latest was released.

All of the copper stocks family enjoyed a strong market at advancing prices. Andes, Greene Cananea, Inspiration and American Smelting sold up about two points on the average.

Sinclair jumped 2 1-4 to 42 1-2, a gain of 6 points over the low of last week. Directors meet today and are expected to place the common stock on a $3 annual cash dividend.

The electrical manufacturing stocks and the radios, with the amusement stocks and the specialties, reached prices from 2 to 9 points higher.

Profit taking in the second hour held up the advance. Wall street looked for a gradual easing up of the money market as the day advanced with a possible marking down of the rate to 7 or even 6 1-2 per cent.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Wednesday, February 13. Shakespeare's drama, "Romeo and Juliet," will be presented by the studio orchestra at 8 o'clock. Wednesday night, "The Part of the Night," will direct the presentation. Each Cooke will be cast as Romeo. Only the highlights of the original drama will be played, but a reader will tell the story linking the various acts, episodes, and connecting whole and a concert orchestra will present incidental music. Features for 8 has been arranged by W.P. Continuing their musical wanderings into the highways and byways of irresistible humor, the Wanderers' male quartet and the Four Hawaiians. Instrumentalists will offer one of their best regular programs. One of the best of the hour will be a special arrangement of "The Four Seasons in the Moon Light." Frank Crummit, the well known star of the musical comedy stage, will be the guest of honor and the master of ceremonies at the Columbia house, 1000 Broadway, both Meier, soprano, and Vernon Jackson, baritone, will again be featured as solo artists. Musical comedy will be radiated by W.E.A.F. and associated stars. At 11:30, the "Buffalo" orchestra will play "The Only Way to the Sun," later offering "The Blithesome Reel," "Molly on the Shore," "Water Boy," a song originated by the musical labor union, will be interpreted by Leslie Frick, contralto, who is to be heard as guest artist with the Buffalo orchestra through the WJZ network at 7.

JUNGLE DANGER IS ROUTINE TO THESE TWO FILM MAKERS

"Fuzzy Wuzzy," the "first-class fighting" man of Kipling is shown above in solemn council assembled, and, to the right, a closeup. Thousands of African warriors appear in the jungle pictures filmed by Schoedsak and Cooper.

By DAN THOMAS.

Hollywood, Calif.—Dangers are jokes to two of Hollywood's best movie makers, Ernest B. Schoedsak and Merian C. Cooper.

Perhaps you don't recognize these men by name. But you know their products well. They are the men who penetrated Africa to film "Grass" and "Chang," stories dealing with real native life. And they have just completed "Four Feathers," another story laid largely in African jungles.

"Once when we were making 'Chang,' a tiger came sneaking toward us in the dugout, we had built for our cameras," relates Cooper. "The whole situation was so funny that I laughed so hard I could hardly pull my gun to shoot him."

What a sense of humor!

Rank Among Best.

However, these men aren't only super-braves. They are ranked among the best makers of motion pictures in the entire industry. I say makers of motion picture is based upon combat because they are. They do everything from writing their own stories to cutting the film. Their company consists of themselves—nobody else.

Schoedsak started in the movie racket some years before the war as a cameraman on the old Mack Sennett lot. That was in the days of the famous Keystone Kops. Cooper's first cinema experience was when he joined forces with Schoedsak to make "Grass." There are certain elements which every film must contain, otherwise it is nothing but a travelogue," declares Schoedsak. "The most important one is that of combat. The average motion picture is based upon combat between man and woman, two men or two women. In 'Chang' the struggle was between the natives and wild animals.

Wait for Situations.

"We never attempt to write a story before starting out to make a picture. In the first place it would be impossible because we can never tell what the situation will be when we get into Africa. Neither do we go ahead and shoot a lot of film and then return to Hollywood and attempt to make a story out of it.

"Our procedure is to get a logical idea of a natural story based on Africa and African life. Then we set out to make the picture, filming such scenes as will be of value to our basic idea. The most difficult part of our work is in handling the natives. For example, they cannot understand why anyone should stage a battle just for fun. Nor can they realize the value of what we are doing.

"If we are only half through a sequence in which we are using a particular group of natives and they decide that they should go home and tend to their rice fields, nothing will stop them. Not even by offering them more money than the value of their entire rice crop can we get them to stay."

Another policy of Schoedsak and Cooper is never to film anything away from Hollywood that can be done here. In "Four Feathers," some of the scenes are laid in England. And all of them were filmed right here in the Paramount studio. There is no use in going to England to make something that can be done better, and more cheaply right here, they say.

Within the next couple of months this pair, the tall Schoedsak and short, stocky Cooper, plan to embark for Africa again. They will be gone for a year or two, filming their fourth picture.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting close to nature as possible. Hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

J. C. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not st and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.

THE BLACK PIGEON

© 1929 By NEA Service, Inc. by ANNE AUSTIN

THIS HAS HAPPENED.
HANDSOME HARRY BORDEN, prominent stock speculator, is murdered some time between half-past one and four o'clock on Saturday. His body is found sprawling on the floor of his private office Monday morning by his pretty secretary, RUTH LESTER. Ruth is married to JACK HAYWARD, whose office is just across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

Ruth runs to Jack's office to tell him of the tragedy and, finding him out, searches for his pistol, which he had purchased at the same time he had bought an identical weapon for her to keep in her desk. His gun is gone! Ruth then recalls his incriminating behavior of the past Saturday and his angry threat against Borden.

Jack comes in and accompanies Ruth back to Borden's suite. While he phones for the police, Ruth, fearing Jack shot Borden across the airshaft, hurries into the private office to close the window. She gasps with relief, for it is already closed! Ruth tells DETECTIVE McMANN of Borden's two Saturday morning visitors: RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, and MORAN, her husband and mother of his two children, who called for her monthly alimony check. Mrs. Borden comes in during the questioning and McMANN mercilessly accuses her of the murder. She says only one person near his office: MINNIE CASSIDY, the scrub woman.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII
Dr. Nielson, with little black bag of instruments and Ferber, the fingerprint expert, with his sacred sash, enter the room. The detective who had caused the detective's jubilant excitement, stepped forward slowly, a cold, little hand dragging at Jack Hayward's sleeve. "Look, doctor! What would you say that is—and that?" McMANN pointed from spot to spot on the white stone ledge of the window which opened upon the airshaft.

Nielson smiled his diffident, wintry smile. "I'd say, unofficially, that it is blood, my dear Sherlock, but only a laboratory test—"

McMANN barked out a laugh. "And what would you say, made Ferber? You don't have to be so confoundedly cautious in your opinions. Look!"

"I'd say they are the footprints of a pigeon, made in blood," he answered, awe in his voice. "Now—how was it, if the window was closed?"

McMANN drew in his head and dropped to his knees, going over every inch of the strip of bare floor which bordered the rug, from the farthest corner of the room to the Harry Borden lay. A sharply triumphant explanation announced discovery.

"Look, Ferber—Nielson! The same identical tracks, two of 'em, between the body and the window! Three-pronged tracks, as clear as the nose on Doc's face! Funny I didn't notice them before, but naturally I was working on the theory that the window was closed when the fingerprint you got off this window, Ferber. If I'm half the Sherlock that Nielson is so fond of calling me, those fingerprints will be as good as a picture of the man who murdered the little tin sniffer through Borden's heart. Right, Ferber?"

"You might be if there were no fingerprints," Ferber grinned. "It happens that the window had been wiped clean. I'm afraid Borden's murderer was a little too clever to leave a calling card, McMANN."

McMANN scowled. "He—or she—may not have left a calling card, but the pigeon did. Nice, obliging bird, that black pigeon!"

It was then that Ruth Lester remained "Satan." In horror and fear she christened him Nemesis. "I'm afraid my stodgy, scientific mind fails to follow your brilliant deductions, McMANN," Dr. Watson to your Sherlock. "Just what do these alleged footprints of a pigeon in blood tell you, my dear Holmes?" McMANN flushed with resentment at the doctor's mild railings, but decided to answer.

"Look, doctor! What would you say that is—and that?" McMANN pointed from spot to spot on the white stone ledge of the window.

McMANN then, her pale face lifted bravely to meet any verbal blows he might give her. "The pigeons are accustomed to no one but me, Mr. McMANN, and I was not in this room when Mr. Borden was shot, or afterwards, until I found him this morning."

"In the next office, perhaps, with the door open?" McMANN shot at her.

"No!" She was trembling no longer, was almost glad that his suspicions were directed against her, rather than against Jack Hayward. She knew she was innocent.

"Gees!" an awed voice broke the tension. McMANN swerved instantly to the red-leaded elevator operator, who was regarding Ruth with a curious mixture of awe, admiration and fear.

"All right, Moran! Snap out of it! You've got to do a lot of plain and fancy remembering, my lad, if you don't want to spend a night in jail to refresh your memory." McMANN snapped at the instantly terrified boy. "First, I want you to give me the name of every person who used your elevator after one o'clock Saturday."

Mickey Moran rumped his red hair in despair. "Gees! At's gonna be a big order, boss. Nearly every tenant and steno on this side of the building beat it at one o'clock. Car was jammed, boss, for two or three trips."

"Give me as many names as you can," McMANN ordered, seating himself at Borden's desk, to make notes. "Wait a minute! You've got samples of blood from those pigeon footprints outside and inside, aren't you, doc? And Ferber, you'd better photograph 'em before the doc scrapes 'em up." Now, Moran—

The boy drew a deep breath and then rattled off a dozen names, which McMANN listed, with the number of the office to which each belonged. "Now, Moran, when did Miss Lester leave? With the others at one o'clock?"

The boy shot an apologetic glance at the girl who was waiting, breath drawn in, hands tightly locked over Jack Hayward's rig. "No, she didn't get off till the rush was over. Musta been about a quarter of one o'clock. Anythin' you're for her at the elevator. He usually goes down in Otta's car, on the other side, but when he's got a date with Miss Lester—"

Hip, Hip Away! Here's an Exercise That'll Do It.

The rolling exercise . . .
By LOUISE GIFFORD
The present style of dress makes hips taboo today, more than at any other time. Yet how many women one sees with ungainly hips which completely ruin the effect of a handsome gown.
Here an exercise which will make a difference in your appearance at once. Stand sideways in front of a long mirror, or one in which you can see yourself from the waist down. Stiffen both knees and notice how it throws your hips out. Then relax both knees, keeping your back straight, and your hips will fall forward under you where they will be least noticeable. If you will learn to stand in this loose position which will lose their prominence.
For those whose hips have become enlarged by enforced sitting, etc., the following rolling exercises are recommended.
1. Lie on the floor, face down, then push yourself up with your hands until your body is off the floor from the waist up. Turn right leg back over left, twisting as far as possible through the hip. Take right hand from the floor and turn top of the body to floor on right leg. Complete the turn with the left leg and arm. Repeat three times. Repeat, reversing direction.
2. a. In standing position, keeping shoulders still, raise right hip up and then release it. Repeat three times. b. In same position, raise right hip up, push it back as far as possible, then down, forward and up. Repeat three times. Repeat a and b with left hip.
3. Keeping the body still from the waist up, with the knees loose, move both hips to the right, then back, then to the left, then front. Repeat three times. Repeat whole, starting to the left.
These exercises should be practiced without strain or hurry and never to the point of fatigue.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Oliver Roberts Barton
© 1928 by NEA Service, Inc.
There are two courses to pursue in child training.
The obvious way, the old-fashioned way, was to allow a child to grow up in any sort of fashion until he was five or six years old and when one had a stable boy or girl to work on begin smoothing out the bad places that somehow or other had gotten by accident into his constitution.
The new way, since intelligence has made our acquaintance, is to begin with a baby as soon as his senses begin to function and not to lose those precious five or six years at the beginning of life, which are, we now know, the most important of man's entire span. Though a man may be elected president, the years of service he spends in the White House are not as important to him personally as the time he spends between the time of his birth and the time he starts on his own scale.

Daily Health Service

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority
HYGIENE AND SANITATION
LENGTHEN SPAN OF LIFE.
BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN.
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

One of the effects of the reforms in hygiene and sanitation and of the highly advanced state of medical knowledge has been to increase the expectancy of life of a child born in the United States from thirty-five to fifty-eight years. This is near the seventy years which Biblical legends ascribes as the term of man.
By the application of the knowledge discovered relative to the spread of disease by germs and by the insects that carry the germs, disease is today controlled largely on a community scale.
Investigations which showed that the mosquito transmitted yellow fever and malaria permitted sanitarians to discover means for eliminating and controlling the mosquito.

The killing of swamps in which mosquitoes breed, the use of screens which prevented their entrance into the homes, and the isolation of persons with these diseases so that they could not be taken by mosquitoes lowered greatly the incidence of these diseases.
In fact, by such methods General William C. Gorgas, who cleaned up Panama and who was surgeon-general of our army during the World War, was able to eliminate yellow fever from the entire civilized world so that today it is found only in a few places in South America and in Africa.

Inoculation Against Disease.
Another accomplishment of science has been to raise the resistance of the individual to certain infectious diseases by inoculating him with mild forms of the disease or by transferring to him the resistance against the disease built up in the body of an animal or in the body of another man.
For instance, vaccination against smallpox, typhoid fever, diphtheria, and scarlet fever is today fully established as a means of raising specific resistance. In some cases, as in that of smallpox, the individual is inoculated with a mild form of the disease.
In the cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever, he is injected with a preparation which causes his body to form antibodies against these diseases. In measles, and in infantile paralysis, prevention is aided by the injection of blood taken from a person who has recently recovered from these diseases and who has built up in his own blood resistance against them.

The mechanisms by which the human body resists infectious diseases are thus so intricate that it is doubtful whether any writer for the public has been able to explain these mechanisms in language sufficiently to be understood by the average man. In these processes physics, chemistry, physiology, biology, bacteriology and immunology are merely a few of the sciences involved.
However, evidence is quite sufficient to prove that the habits of life, such as diet, bathing, exercise, rest, fatigue and everything included under personal hygiene bear an intimate relationship to the ability of a human being to resist disease. The very air one breathes and which surrounds the body in daily life has something quite definite to do with one's physical state. Whether the air is hot or cold, dry or moist, still or moving, seem to be matters of the greatest significance.
More and more human beings are attempting to control the controllable factors concerned with resistance to disease. As they control these factors, life expectancy will be still further increased, because the present opinion is that the conditions which now carry off human beings are largely associated with bad habits of living.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Valentine whist tomorrow at 2 p.m. Masonic Temple—You'll be welcome. Prizes every table. Refreshments! Adm. 50c.

Valentines by telegraph makes a new thrill this year. A 10-word telegram or a 50 word night letter for delivery St. Valentine's day may be sent for only 10 cents, that is in the same city. It's the thought, the message of affection that counts, and to near relatives or friends it's the unusual that appeals. The company has a number of messages already worded and all you need to do is to telephone them the number of the greeting of your choice and they will do the rest.

Valentine day is a red letter day with the florists for flowers are perhaps the most popular of all Valentine's love messages. The baskets of varied flowers are lovely this year. They are using velvet ribbon to tie bouquets and to adorn the baskets. In some of the stores they open up the tulips so that they look like something very different. The blue lace flowers and the orange calendulas are found in nearly every basket. The florists are also using great quantities of forced forsythia to decorate their windows and it is really a treat to just stop for a white and drink in the beauty of the displays in these shops both in town and in Hartford.

Candy as a Valentine remembrance is as frequently used as flowers and this year the receptacles and the candies themselves, and little novelties are lovelier than ever.

Paris is exploiting little hats. Close fitting hats made entirely of petals in different colors; little hats of straw braid and silk or of felt in black and white or beige and brown.

Cabbage Salad
This is so good that it might be a part of a special dinner for particular guests. It is good to look at when arranged on crisp lettuce leaves in a salad bowl, sprinkled with paprika to give the dish a touch of color, and surrounded by quartered tomatoes placed very close together. Here's how to make it:
3 cups chopped or silvered cabbage.
1-2 small crisp green pepper.
2 small pimientos, or one large one.
1-2 cup pecan nuts.
1-2 cup thin mayonnaise.
1 medium-sized onion.
Chop the pepper, pimientos, onion and pecans until very fine. Mix with cabbage. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. Add the mayonnaise just before serving and mix well. Serve garnished with sliced or quartered tomatoes or with sprigs of celery or parsley.

LADY SAYS NOTHING.
Mrs. McCormick, to date, has said nothing, which rather looks as if she's winning the fight, if any; after all, a fight can't be exactly a one-sided affair. It is generally rather noticeable too; that the person of importance to the extent of having a known name is rarely the one who precipitates a quarrel. It is that because, being important, they have no need to defend their "rights" so vigorously as unknowns? Or is it that because they do not quarrel they are important?

ELLEN AND NANCY.
Here's another little quarrel in the news. This one is between Miss Ellen Wilkinson, known as "Wee Ellen" of Parliament and her rather better known colleague, Lady Nancy Astor. "Wee Ellen" charged Lady Astor with being heedless of the needs of poor people because she herself had plenty to do with and didn't know the problems of the lower classes, to which Lady Astor said "Yes." Some people think that "Rats" labels her winner of the fray. Others aren't so sure.

The newest silhouette has a curved line in the back. Dresses are getting away from the straight-line effect so long in vogue and curves are the thing.

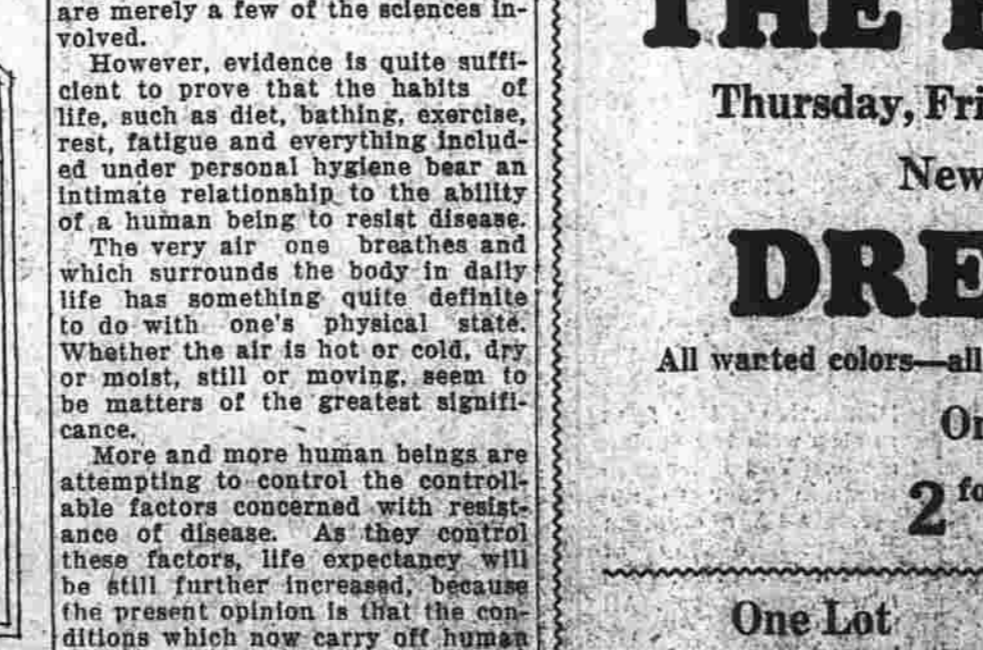

The Food For All Ages—MILK

A MPLE reward for years of healthful living, when grandfather and grandmother can tell the youngsters what plenty of exercise, sleep, and right foods have done to keep them well and happy. Milk and its products revive tired bodies and help to keep cheeks rosy and eyes sparkling.
You, too, can know the animation, the vigor and vitality that comes from regular use of milk in your diet. Order milk and cream for breakfast and for dinner. Use more milk in cooking supper. Let children who need food often than at meal time have milk for mid-morning or afternoon. A quart a day for every child, and at least a pint for every adult, is recommended by all leading dietary authorities.

Merry Fight Is Now On Over Schmeling's Contract

A Half Dozen Persons Claim They Have Strings on the German-Boxing Board to Decide.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Feb. 13.—The good old army game of lying Max Schmeling up like a catatonic goes forward again with increasing fervor today, Jess McMahon having declared himself in on the racket with a contract duly signed, sealed and not yet delivered. He promises to make delivery not later than this afternoon before the meeting of the State Athletic Commission and, unless that harassed body wishes to reverse itself entirely, it may have to string along with McMahon and give the Garden's two-year lien upon Maximilian the old noble prose, meaning the chill.

Max's Contentions

In consequence, the Garden contract shouldn't get as far as the ante-room at the commission and, if it doesn't, Max Schmeling stands a vast chance of joining the great army of the unemployed. He insists that he won't honor any contract Bulow makes for him. I don't say that this automatically means that he won't honor any beststeaks this summer. But the opportunity in question may await him, if the commission gives McMahon's contract the Chamber of Commerce salute of 21 slogans and the Max decides to be fractious. However, it must be conceded that nobody expects to let a lot of sharpshooters managers close the box office on a guy like this, just because he has no control over his autograph.

His Next Fight

So far, he seems to be under contract to fight his next fight exclusively for the Boston Garden, the New York Garden and Jess McMahon, who has the choice of operating at his Bronx arena, seat 32,000 Indians, or at one of the local ball parks. So far, he has signed managerial contracts only with Arthur Bulow, Charley Rose and the team of Joe Jacobs and Billy McCarney. It being his wish to limit the field to an exclusive few and thus keep out the masses, he is in actual command at the moment. But so unofficially that Schmeling signed his own contract with the Garden, with Jacobs assailing the dotted line merely in the character of a witness. This was done to get around the commission and, since the latter has declared for Bulow as the only man qualified to make the Max's matches, it might be trife easier to get around Lake Michigan. And, then again, it may be as easy as getting around the nearest corner. The commission reverts itself so often that one of these fine days it is going to reverse one of its own reversals.

Schmeling has tried to evade the Boston fight because it was made for him by Bulow but since he is being threatened with everything, including Ellis Island, if he doesn't go through, it is presumed that ultimately he will be chivvied into the business. McMahon naturally doesn't claim priority over Boston, since both contracts were signed by Bulow. As a matter of fact, he is ready to play bill with everybody, except Madison Square Garden where he was matchmaker until the great blow fell.

MURPHY AND COLE DEFEAT OPPONENTS

Lead Sargent and Beletti by 11 Pins; Murphy Meets Kebart Tonight.

Howard Murphy and "Ike" Cole defeated Dominic Beletti and Joe Sargent by 11 pins in the first half of their 14 game home and home match last night at the Charter Oak alleys. Both Murphy and Cole had a slight edge on their opponents, Sargent and Beletti respectively. The final half will be bowled at Murphy's tomorrow night after the Herald League matches. Tonight, Murphy finishes his match with Charlie Kebart in which he holds a 12 pin lead.

Cole: 129, 95, 122, 110, 111, 121, 117, 80—115.

Today's Games
8:30—Cochran vs. Schaefer.

New York, Feb. 13.—Kinrey Matsuyama, Japan's Little Lord Fauntleroy entrant, saw all his aspirations for world's bakline oiliard honors vanish yesterday afternoon when he was defeated by Jack Schaefer, 400 to 331, in the title tournament at the Level Club.

By the victory Schaefer took Matsuyama's place in a tie for leadership with Welker Cochran, each having won three games and lost one, and their meeting tonight in the final game will decide the championship.

The little Japanese started well enough against the son of the formative, but after his initial run of 120 he was hit hard and Schaefer played like a tyro for nine innings. Matsuyama could not shake off his fatigue long enough to step out and win. After nine innings Schaefer was behind, 242 to 78. A run of 54 in the tenth gave indications that he was getting into stroke, and this surprise was borne out on his next turn at the table when he collected the high run of the afternoon, 182. This cluster gave him an advantage of 134 to 247 and he maintained this lead approximately until his small rival gathered 55 in the fifteenth inning to creep up to 18 points behind.

It was the erstwhile "Mitty Matsy" dining effort, for while he counted 5 in the next two innings to Schaefer's 4, his miss left a set-up on which Schaefer started the trek to the finish line in his true form.

Great credit must go to Matsuyama for his gallant stand, as far as he went. From consideration at the rank outsider before the tournament began, he forced his rivals and the fans to respect his skill and ability. He started out by defeating the defending champion, Edouard Horemans, in the opening game, took the redoubtable Felix Grange, champion of France, in stride; came from behind in a dime novel clash to conquer Ike Hagenlacher, and only Monday night had Cochran on the run until the latter shook off the spell in the nick of time.

Has Been Outstanding

Even in his two defeats Matsuyama has been far from disgraced. Physically handicapped by a stature of less than five feet, he has played just as good billiards as spots any of the others. For his play in the 1929 tournament Matsuyama has established himself as one of Japan's great little men.

MAY GET JOB IN MAJORS

Bob Parham, Georgia Tech football and baseball star, may sign for a trial with one of the New York clubs. He hit more than 400 last season in college competition.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

Boxing shows at Madison Square Garden have been luring the customers in goodly numbers in recent months and if any one man deserves credit for this he is Matchmaker Tom McArdle. McArdle knows the customers are the ones who pay to see the wheels go round and he also knows that the customers are not as gullible as they were in other days. They pay now when the prospect of much action faces them. Otherwise, they stay away.

MCGRAW BROUGHT ABOUT "NO DRAW"

His Bout With Day Last March the Cause; Meets Kaplan Tomorrow Night.

Connecticut's "No Draw" ruling, which is probably the most substantial change made in the boxing code during the administration of State Commissioner Tom Donahue, can be credited to Phil McGraw, the big trouble man from Detroit, who swings into action with Kid Kaplan in the ten round feature bout of the boxing card at the Waterbury State Armory tomorrow night.

Fighting George Day of New Haven in the New Haven Arena last March, McGraw meted out what most fans conceded was a thorough trouncing to the Elm City fighter. The draw decision that followed caused such an upheaval in the state boxing world that Commissioner Donahue promulgated his "No draw" legislation. McGraw thus steps into the ring against Kaplan to win or lose and judging from the deal he received on the Day bout, it will be to his liking.

If McGraw doesn't come through, it will not be for lack of proper handling as he is managed by one of the grand old characters of the ring, Paddy Mullins. It was this same close clipped Mullins, who took Harry Wills, a mediocre heavyweight and made a "black menace" out of him, bringing in thousands of dollars to the Wills purse, until Jack Sharkey punctured the bubble in their memorable bout at Ebbebs field. Paddy also piloted such well known performers as Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight champion; Pete Latzo, another ex-middleweight title holder; Tommy O'Brien, a flashy lightweight and George Courtney, contender for middleweight honors. Mullins is one of the quietest men in the game but occasionally he sounds off as he did several years ago when he invited Jack Dempsey to step outside the boxing commission's office in New York.

It is recorded that the feud between the two men wasn't patched up until the recent death of Tex Rickard. There will be no national celebrity in Kaplan's corner on the night of the fight but the mercurial kid wouldn't say "Diddy" McMahon would defend him. If Jimmy DeForest were offered in exchange, Kaplan's faith in McMahon, their buddyship over the long period of years that covers Kaplan's rise from obscurity to the featherweight championship, and their subsequent quest for lightweight honors, is an old story but one that always looks good in type to Kaplan.

Eddie Lord of Waterbury, who tangles with Tony DiPalma of New Haven, in the eight round semi-final, rates to beat the coming New Haven boy on the general basis of experience but DiPalma's southpaw style may puzzle the clever Frenchman. Their match will be preceded by

GARCIA MAY HALT CHRISTY'S WINNING

Nick Christy, Bristol's pugilistic idol, who since entering the professional ranks has been acclaimed at this date the best prospect in the state and who has won all his eight starts, seven by kayo's and one clean out decision will meet a cruel turn in his career when he meets in an eight round semi-final the hard punching Jimmy Garcia of Worcester, Mass., who comes here for the third time and who has had a wealth of experience in the game.

Christy's meeting Garcia will have no picnic as Garcia is the man who twice hung a kayo on Brownie Tucker when Tarver was paying attention to business and this same Garcia fought with credit Benny Kid Carter, Jose Lombardo and a host of others, having been in some eighty-nine encounters.

GAS BUGGIES—Memories

HO HUM—MORE PROFITS! NO YOU DO IT, HEM. NOT SO LONG AS THE THREE MONEY MARKETERS AD. NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT EXCEPT WHAT THEY WOULD DO WITH THE PROFITS FROM THE NULSTER AUTO POLISH BUSINESS.

SUGAR LUMP, LE WITHOUT YOU IS USELESS! THAT IS ALL CLIFF. I'VE REFORMED. I CAN'T GIVE YOU THE FIRMS MONEY. VERY WELL, I'LL EXPOSE YOUR PAST. IT'S OUR FAULT, FAIR ONE. HOW ABOUT DRESSER AS SALES MANAGER? RST! REMEMBER THAT $1000 A WEEK!

WHEN SUDDENLY FROM OUT THE DARKENED PAST EMERGED THE SINISTER FIGURE OF ALEC'S OLD PARTNER IN CRIME, DAN D. DRESSER.

WHOSE VEILED THREATS PERSUADED ALEC TO FORGET THE GOOD RESOLUTIONS AND LOAN HIM $1,000 OF THE FIRMS MONEY. WHICH KEPT HIM GOING UNTIL HE RAN INTO VIOLA AVOLON AND GOT SO BADLY TANGLED UP HE DECIDED HE'D LIKE TO STAY THAT WAY FOR LIFE.

SO HE SOLD HEM ON THE IDEA OF MAKING HIM SALES MANAGER AND SETTLED DOWN TO PROMOTING HIS ROMANCE. Facing certain death upon his return to Carthage, he did not flinch. He was a Roman and he had done his duty as he saw it.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Some people say a "monthful," while a nurse usually says a spoonful.

SENSE and NONSENSE

DON'T FORGET

When a bit of sunshine hits ye, After passing of a cloud, When a fit of laughter gits ye, An' yer spine is feelin' proud, Don't forget to up and ting it, At a soul that's feelin' blue, For the mint that ye slung it, It's a Boomerang to you.

A postal card inquirer wants to know why good looking women always marry ugly men. They don't.

A Scotchman got a pair of spats for Christmas, so he had them half-soled and heeled.

A great many people expect, success, long life and a happy marriage in return for stupidity, idleness and dishonesty.

Girls see little sense in the rule which penalizes a fellow for holding.

"How's the grub here?" asked the new boarder at the table. "Well, we have chicken every morning for breakfast," replied the old boarder.

"Chicken every morning?" the new boarder beamed. "How is it served?" "In the shell!" grunted the old boarder.

Leg shows decrease in patronage as men find the street corners more popular and more revealing.

Asked the kind old gentleman of young Jamie, one extremely hot day: "How is your dear grandpa bearing the heat?"

Answered young Jamie, same day: "Ain't heard yet. He's only been dead a week."

Salvation is free but the delivery charges have become almost prohibitive.

It all depends. The sportsman who will sit for hours all cramped up and chilled to the bone in a duck blind, can't see why any sensible person should want to go out and chase a golf ball around the pasture.

Pawnbroker: "Don't your fadder have no more use for dot watch?" Furgler's son: "Naw! Where de judges sent him all he'll need for de next ten years is a calendar!"

Give Her Time. The greatest optimist I've ever met is a sixty-year-old suffragette; When I asked her "Are you married?"

"My question she parried By the hopeful reply of "Not yet."

Hounding a man after he's down is a dog mean trick.

"Taste makes Waist," a portly Manchester matron said as she opened the third box of chocolates.

A woman may not always keep her word but she seldom goes back on her compact.

NETTER GOLF

HIT THIS ON THE HEAD

Here's a NAIL you can hit right on the HEAD if you can do it in par five. One solution is on another page:

Grid for the word game 'NAIL' and 'HEAD'.

THE RULES.

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word of common usage for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

Witness-He had the best looking suite in the hotel. Prisoner-Judge, he's a liar; I was alone at that hotel.

About the only non-stop endurance stunt yet to achieve is the Sunday paper.

THE KNYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The Sea Man seemed to quite enjoy the pushing. He yelled, "Ship ahoy! Look out for this big basket! Not a thing can make it stop. This bunch is on a trip some place. That's why they started on this race." And then he swung the basket round, and spun it like a top. "Hey, hey!" yelled Clowny. "Stop that, quick! I fear that it will make me sick. Oh, my, but I am dizzy. Guess I'll hop out on the ice." The Sea Man laughed. "Ho, ho, har, har. Oh, no," said he: "Stay where you are. I'll stop this whirling stunt, and promise I'll be very nice. He promptly made his promise good, and stopped as quickly as he could. "Is this as far as we can go," asked Scouty. "No, siree," replied the man. "I'll push some more. But say, my arms are getting sore; you'll have to wait a little while. I'm tired as I can be." He sat down on the ice to rest.

ABOUT TOWN

The Temple Carillon Players from Europe, entering upon their 10th concert season, bring with them to Manchester hearty praise from critics and public where they have played, for the surprising beauty and charm of the music they extract from the bells. Their work is declared to be a revelation of possibilities never before suspected in bell music. The Players will appear in Manchester at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the High School Auditorium. Tickets are on sale by members of the Swedish Lutheran church or may be had at the door.

Linne Lodge No. 72, K. of P., will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Orange Hall.

Troop 5, Boy Scouts, will meet tonight at 7:15 o'clock. Troop 3 will meet at the Center church at 7:30.

Louis Dimock is spending a vacation at Dayton Beach, Fla. This is the place where Frank D'Amico is a life guard.

Mrs. Joseph Malkin, who for many years was a resident here, making her home at High and Cooper street, is now located at Rollan Park, Maryland.

The concert that was to have been given at the High School next Sunday by the Boston Opera Singers has been postponed until March 3 because of illness among the members. This concert is sponsored by the Sons and Daughters of Italy.

Mrs. Robert Little won first ladies' prize at the whist given in Odd Fellows hall last evening by Memorial Temple Pythian Sisters. Frank Smith had the highest score for the men. Second prizes were won by Mrs. Fred Kojsh and Howard Burhans and consolation by Mrs. Gladys Clarke and Myron Peckham. Valentine stickers adorned the score cards and valentine napkins were passed with doughnuts and coffee.

Friday will be observed throughout the country as a World Day of Prayer, sponsored by the Council of Women for Home Missions and the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America. The observance will be at 2:30 p. m. at the South Methodist church and all missionary organizations will be cordially welcomed. The speaker will be Mrs. Maude Jones, a missionary on furlough from China. Her subject will be "The Importance of Missions in Church Work." There will also be special music.

VALENTINE SUPPER Center Church Women's Federation offers as the big activity of the week, a Valentine supper in the chapel tomorrow at 8 o'clock, of 32 of the women of the federation, with Miss Ella Washburn in charge of the entertainment. Mrs. Edna Case Parker will supervise preparation and service of the meal. Mrs. H. B. House the dining room and decorations. The menu will consist of roast pork with mashed potatoes, apple sauce, string beans, rye rolls, chocolate pudding with whipped cream and nuts and coffee. A reduction in price will be made to children under 12. No formal program is planned to follow the supper. Miss Washburn is arranging two groups of charades with the assistance of several of the men and women, with a period of games between, all intended to promote better acquaintance and good fellowship among the church attendants. Eastern Star members in charge of the Valentine-card party tomorrow afternoon at the Masonic Temple, remind the players it is proposed to begin promptly at 4 o'clock. Bridge and straight whist and pivot bridge and whist will be played, with table prizes and refreshments.
