CALLES ENCIRCLING REBELS AT DURANGO

Four Separate Columns of Federals Are Taking Part
In Encircling Movement; Battle Near.

BULLETIN

Mexico City, March 15.—
The War Office was still awaiting word today from the Torreon front where it was believed battle between the main armies of the federals and rebels may already be underway.

The latest dispatches received from General Plutarco Elías Calles, minister of war
in personal command of the troops in the field, received late last night, informed President Portes Gil that the federals planned to attack the rebel position this morning
if possible.

General Plutarco Elías Calles, war minister and field commander of the Federals, is throwing a vast circle of troops about the rebel army on the Coahuila-Durango border. It is evidently the strategy of the federal commander-in-chief to surround the rebels and prevent their retirement towards their base
at Chihuahua City.

Four separate columns of federals are taking part in this encircling movement.
Mexico City reports that news of the capture of Durango, capital of the State of Durango, lies in the path of Gen. Calles northward advance.

Gen. Calles is reported to have issued orders to "kill or capture"
every soldier in Gen. Escobar's rebel army.
Rebel agents on the Mexican border report that an insurgent force is moving upon Naco.

It is reported, also, that a small
rebel force is moving toward Tia Juana, near the California line.

Mexico City, March 15.—With order to kill or capture every opposing rebel, 25,000 federal troops
tightened Secretary of War Calles'
strategic net about General José Gonzalo Escobar's rebel forces on the Durango-Coahuila frontier today.

The most decisive battle of the revolution is now expected momentarily. Federal aviators who reconnoitered over the rebel defenses estimated the defending rebel forces at about 9,000 men.

A message from Gen. Calles received here at 10 o'clock last night stated that the vanguard of his forces in Central Mexico were within 4 1/2 miles of the city of Durango
and that an attack was imminent.
The federal forces in the Durango
city are estimated at about 6,000 men. Another federal force of 5,000 men led by Gen. Lazaro Cardenas is reported to be less than 20 miles south of the Torreon front.

Reports that General Escobar's wife was seen in Juarez were considered here as evidence that the rebel leader was preparing to fall back.
In the event that the rebels retreat, before the federal onslaught upon the Torreon front, it is believed in government circles that they will make another stand at Chihuahua City or even as far north as Juarez.

NOGALES REPORT
Nogales, Sonora, March 15.—
Although rebel troops movements continued today in the campaign to recapture Naco, Sonora,
from Gen. Augustin Olachea, intelligence today at rebel headquarters
here indicated that the Naco garrison may return to the revolutionary cause without the battle which has been expected since last Tuesday when Olachea reaffiliated himself with the federal government.
Unconfirmed reports given out at headquarters today said Olachea was making overtures to the rebel leaders with a view of reaffirming his support to the revolution. Reports still persist here that the Olachea
unit was a pre-arranged rebel plan for the purpose of drawing ammunition through the border
from the United States, and for obtaining war plans from Mexico.

Manzo Changes Plans
This theory was strengthened
however by the fact that General Francisco Manzo, second in command of the revolutionary army,
changed his plans and left Nogales
for the south to assist General Ramon Irtube in his campaign against Federal General Jaime Carrillo who is holding the important port of Matamoros on the west coast of Sinaloa.
General Manzo, according to headquarters intended earlier to lead the drive on Naco.

Gen. Fausto Topete, constitutional governor of Sonora, will lead the Naco drive instead of Manzo according to rebel headquarters here.
Topete leading 500 infantry troops was unaccountably delayed in his journey from Ortiz, Sonora, but was expected to arrive here today,
according to headquarters.

General Francisco Borquez, commander of the Nogales garrison, earlier today was still attempting to learn the additional details of the reported new revolt against the central government in lower California which was admitted revolutionary territory.

GRAND DUKE CYRIL WISHES TO RETURN

Accepts Soviet System on Condition That He Becomes the Czar.

Berlin, March 15.—Grand Duke
Cyril, acknowledged as the sole pre-tender to the Russian throne, has issued a "Monarchist government program" accepting the Soviet system on condition it is headed by a Czar, according to a copy of the statement received here today from St. Brac, France.
Grand Duke Cyril insists also that the Russian government restore private property rights.
The "program" promises free participation in the government by elected representatives of the people and a system of national and local Soviets with representation
from all industrial creative classes
of workers, labor unions and specialists. It pledges, furthermore,
local self-government and freedom of minorities.
May Keep Land.
The most important points are that the peasants shall retain the land they gained through the revolution and that the Russian industrial shall adopt the eight-hour-day.
The program concludes: "I believe in the grace of God and my early return to my imperial duty."

Grand Duke Cyril, who is a claimant of the late Czar of Russia has been acknowledged as the only pretender to the Russian throne
since the death of Grand Duke Nicholas on the Rivera a few months ago. His "program" constitutes the most drastic revision of ideals the Russian Monarchists have ever known. It is a complete reversal from the principles formerly held by them.
Whether Grand Duke Cyril acted
of his own initiative in issuing the "program" or whether it has the sanction of other leading Russian Monarchists is not known.

With Mrs. Coolidge's Compliments

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, when she was Grace Goodhue, was a teacher in the Clarke School for the Deaf, earning a small monthly salary. The other day she returned to the Northampton, Mass., institution with a certificate for $2,000,000 that represented in cash and pledges, the Coolidge Fund endowing the school. She is shown here as she presented the certificate to Miss Caroline Yale (in the wheel chair), her former principal and trustee of the school. Former President Coolidge, a group of prominent educators and children from the primary department of the school took part in the ceremony.

STATE SENATE STAGES BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Devotes Thirty Minutes to Observing Coming Anniversary of Senator Lavery, of Fairfield.

Hartford, March 15.—The Upper House of the State Legislature today devoted thirty minutes to celebrating the coming birthday of Albert E. Lavery, of Fairfield, who represents the Twenty-Fourth District. Mr. Lavery will be 58 years old on Sunday, March 17th. By a roll call vote the Senate passed a resolution as follows:
"That the felicitations of the Senate are tendered to Albert E.
Lavery of the Twenty-fourth District on his anniversary and his close approach of the septuagintalimitation of three score years
and ten; and that the Senate expresses the hope that his remaining years will be as peaceful and as happy as an elector's meeting
in his home town of Fairfield."

LOCAL LIQUOR CASE APPEALS NOLLED

Court Throws Out All Remaining Trials Based on "Spy" Evidence.

Hartford, Conn., March 15.—Unfavorable reports in the Senate today follow:
Providing for zoning of state highways; providing a change in Greenwich voting districts by selection and registrars; establishing a Waterford police department; reviving state employees by board of control; providing appointment of a commission to define duties and restrictions to be imposed on public utilities; providing for recording and indexing of liens under the DeClantis liquor case in the Superior Court put no stock in the testimony of stool pigeons in such cases was so completely demonstrated by the evidence of the trial yesterday that the state abandoned this morning
three other cases which depended on the evidence of the liquor spy
Robert Callahan, all of them of Manchester origin.
The jury yesterday rejected the Callahan evidence that he had bought liquor at the store of Frank DeClantis and acquitted the defendant of the charge based on that evidence, while at the same time it convicted him of another charge in which the evidence was that of Manchester police officers.
Today the court and jury were to have heard the appeals of Rosario Squatrito, Joseph Alsakovich
and Harry Krupin from convictions in the Manchester police court of violations of the liquor law. The key evidence against each of them,
however, was that of Callahan, and as it was obvious that the jury was not going to give his testimony any credence, the state threw up its hands and consented to the entry of a nolle in each instance.
Jury Deliberates.
The jury in the DeClantis case
went out for an hour and forty minutes yesterday afternoon. Then it brought in a verdict of acquittal on the charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell on January 4, when the liquor spy Callahan, according to his testimony, bought liquor at DeClantis's store and gave a verdict of guilty of keeping liquor to sell on January 18, when the store was raided by Manchester police officers and liquor seized as evidence.
Before the case went to the jury

NEWTON IS APPOINTED PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY

Congressman from Minneapolis to Act as Hoover's Liaison Officer.

Washington, March 15.—Appointment of Rep. Walter H. Newton,
(R) of Minnesota, as a third secretary to President Hoover, was announced today at the White House.
Rep. Newton who has served ten years in Congress, will fill a role
new to Washington—that of a coordinator and liaison officer between the President and the various governmental departments.
His principal work, however,
will be with the independent bureaus and agencies of the government that are not now under direction or control of any of the ten regular departments, which are presided over by a Cabinet officer.
Newton has represented the Fifth District (Minneapolis) in Congress.
He has completed his fifth term,
re-elected last November to his sixth term. He will resign his seat before April 15, it is expected.
During the last campaign, Newton acted as chairman of the Republican Speakers Bureau in Chicago.

BUS KILLS MAN HERE AS RAIN BLINDS VISION

Death Comes Quickly to Frank Merkel Near His Lifelong Home on Center Street; Was War Veteran.

Frank Merkel, 37 years old, a carpenter living with his two sisters at 577 Center street, was almost instantly killed within a few yards of his own doorway last evening when he was struck by an east bound motorbus of the New England Transportation Co. whose driver's view of the road was dimmed by rain. Merkel was dead when Holloran Brothers' ambulance, in which he was speedily taken to Manchester Memorial hospital, reached that institution. He was born and had lived all his life in the house almost in front of which he was killed. He was unmarried.
Euclid F. Ledoux, driver of the bus, whose home is at 375 Pleasant street, Willimantic, was arrested and placed under bond of $2,000
on a nominal charge of manslaughter, pending inquiry. In police court today his case was continued until Saturday, March 23. His first ball bond was signed by A. E. Stewart, of Coventry, an official of the Company, who drove to Manchester
at 11 o'clock last night to arrange for Ledoux's release. A new bond was furnished this morning by the Casualty and Insurance Company of Hartford.

Police Sergeant John Crockett,
who investigated the accident, re-learned that Merkel was struck while crossing Center street from the south to the north side, just west of his home. He had very nearly passed out of the east-bound traffic lane when the fender of the bus struck him, throwing him to the ground and breaking his neck.
Eye witnesses say that the bus was proceeding slowly and that Ledoux brought it to a stop almost instantly.
As soon as the ambulance had been called and the victim of the accident, removed Ledoux drove to the police station and reported what had happened. He said that the visibility was very bad at the time of the accident, which occured at 7:30 o'clock, on account of the rain and that he was driving with unusual care but did not see Merkle at all. There is no crosswalk at that point.

Out Only Few Minutes
Mr. Merkel had evidently been away from his home only a few minutes, because it was only a short time before the accident that his sisters, Misses Emma and Louise Merkle, left the house intending to pass the evening out and their brother was at home then. Having Deputy Medical Examiner Dr.
LeVerne Holmes, who examined Merkle's body at the hospital, found that death was the result of the fracture of the vertebrae of the neck. One of the bones of the left neck was also broken. The having been the point at which the bus
fender struck him.
Mr. Merkel was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Merkel. Besides the two sisters with whom he lived he is survived by a brother,
George, who lives in Winsted.
Another brother, Charles, died in the World War, in which Frank Merkle himself served.

The funeral service will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Holloran's funeral rooms and at 10 o'clock at St. James' R. C. church.
Burial will be in St. James' cemtery.

RUM RUNNERS JOYFUL AS FOG COVERS COAST

Under Its Cover They Land
Booze—Traffic Blocked in New York.

New York, March 15.—For the second successive day New York City and environs were enveloped in a thick blanket of fog. The heavy mist descended upon the metropolis during the night and by dawn
had reached its maximum intensity.
All forms of traffic, in the rivers
and on the land, were seriously hampered by the fog. Numerous ships waiting to dock were held up for hours at Quarantine and in the Narrows.
The fog was a boon to only one class—the rum runners. Realizing that many liquor boats will attempt to reach shore under cover of it,
the Coast Guard ordered six boats out early today. But, with visibility on water only ten yards, the rum
hunters had little hope of locating their prey.

25 STILL MAROONED

Laramie, Wyo., March 15.—
Twenty-five travelers most of them
suffering from frozen hands, feet
and ears, are still marooned by snow drifts in the Summit Tavern,
10 miles west of here today.
A rescue party is being gathered in an attempt to get to the storm bound group.

BUT 37 OUT OF 4,000 RESCUED FROM FLOOD

HOOVER, REAL
BOSS, LEADERS ARE LEARNING

In Office Less Than Two Weeks, New President
Has Thrown Overboard
Two Old Policies.

Washington, March 15.—It is beginning to dawn on Washington
that there is a brand new administration in the White House, instead of merely a continuation of the Coolidge administration and policies.
In office less than two weeks,
President Hoover has thrown overboard two of the important policies of his predecessor, as well as a number that are of lesser importance, and there is every indication that more are to follow as the new chief executive settles himself firmly in the saddle. All this despite the trite generalities of March 4
that the administrations were to merge with one another.

One Reversal
President Hoover's decision not to permit the exploitation of any more government oil lands, but instead to establish and maintain a drastic policy of conservation, was
one reversal.
But the surprise that attended that move was but mild compared to the surprise occasioned by yesterday's executive order, providing for publicity concerning big tax refunds and abatements by the treasury.

Congress has been alternately
grumbling and roaring over the secrecy of these refunds for several years. In the past eight years they have amounted to the enormous
total of more than $3,000,000,000,
and Congress has authorized them
without knowing any of the reasons or proceedings under which they were awarded.
The Treasury simply sent the figures to Congress and Congress acted, though not without roaring about it.
Under the new order, Treasury
officials are to prepare and make public the reasons, proceedings, and facts underlying all tax refunds and abatements in excess of $20,000.

BORAH PROPOSES WORLD COURT PLAN

Wants a Redrafting of Its Powers When Root Returns Home.

Washington, March 15.—Senate
Irreconcilables, backed by Senator
William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, will propose a redrafting of the World Court's powers when Elihu
Root brings home his compromise plan for handling the tribunal's
most opposed advisory opinions, it was learned today.
While opposing the Root compromise, which the Geneva conference apparently will approve, the Irreconcilables will suggest that the League of Nations' statute, creating the World Court, be revised to deny the tribunal's authority to issue advisory opinions against nations not members of the league.
This substitute for Root's compromise has Borah's approval, it was learned.
The Irreconcilables will contend that this plan would end the im-
pass between the United States League members over the Court's advisory opinions. The American opposition was so strong it led to adoption of a specific reservation to American adherence, providing that no advisory opinion could be rendered by the World Court on any question in which the United States had or claimed an interest without America's consent. European nations rejected this reservation as an "offensive intrusion" and Root went to Geneva to iron out the controversy.
Borah, it was learned, opposes the Root compromise. It was said he looks upon the Root plan as an "attempt to make a court out of an attorney general." He was quoted as saying that if advisory opinions against non-members of the League

4,000 LIVES IMPERILED

Montgomery, Ala., March 15.—
Only thirty-seven of the 4,000
marooned citizens of Elba, Ala., had been rescued at 9:30 a. m., according to a report received at the office of Gov. Bibb Graves today.
The message, sent by the commander of a National Guard company which reached the Elba vicinity in small boats, declares that the soldiers had taken 37 women and children to safety.
Another detachment of troops
sent to Elba last night by another route apparently has not been able to get to the stricken town. No word had been heard from them.
The message indicated that the job of rescuing the 4,000 fear-stricken citizens, surrounded by several miles of water 14 feet deep,
will prove a slow and hazardous task, as only a small portion has been taken to safety since the troops began rescue operations during the night.
The refugees had to be taken by small boats for several miles before they could be left at an emergency camp on ground which was not inundated. Meanwhile, the water at Elba was reported to be slowly rising.
Floods are sweeping parts of New England, the south and the middle west, as a blizzard which over parts of Wyoming and Nebraska.
Tremendous damage has been done by storm and flood. Thousands are homeless. The distress in some quarters is dire. It is feared that there has been loss of life.

bulent, swollen stream is pounding

4,000 LIVES IMPERILED
Montgomery, Ala., March 15.—
An indefinite number of the 4,000 population of the flood stricken town of Elba have been rescued by boat, and taken to an emergency camp beyond reach of the swirling flood waters, it was learned here today.
A fragmentary message to the office of Gov. Bibb Graves this morning from the commanding officer of a contingent of National Guard-men at Elba said that a "part of the people" had been taken away
to safety in small boats.
It was stated at the governor's office that it was not known whether another unit of guardsmen despatched to the stricken Coffee county seat by another route, had reached there. No word has been received from this unit, it was said.
Water 15 Feet Deep
In the meagre message by the governor's office here, it was declared that the water was from "10 to 15 feet" through the town of 4,000 inhabitants. Those who have not been rescued were huddled in the top stories of the largest of the buildings in town, it was reported.
It could not be learned whether any persons had been drowned
when the town suddenly became deserted by its inhabitants.
The town was completely cut off
from commercial lanes of communication, and virtually all telegraph
and telephone wires west of Montgomery were down.
It was stated that the National Guard contingent that reached Elba travelled the last six miles of the long journey in rowboats. Work of rescuing the marooned residents will be a slow task.
Emergency supplies of food and medicine were rushed from here this morning. It was regarded as problematical whether the carriers
who set out early in the day could reach the scene of disaster, due to the rise of the waters and the gaping washout.
Meanwhile various other places
in this section of the state were inundated, but the situation was not as so serious as at Elba.
Volunteers exercised every effort to reach Enterprise, Ala., where danger also threatens.

STATE "Where the Screen Speaks"

WHEN DEATH BEAT 200 MILES AN HOUR

Death rode faster than 200 miles an hour to overtake Lee Bible, a mateur auto racer, in his 36-cylinder Triple X Special at Daytona Beach, Florida. Whizzing along at the terrific speed that made the powerful machine appear little more than a streak, it swerved in the sand, sailed 100 feet through the air and came to earth a mass of twisted steel with Bible dead in the seat. Charles Traub, a venturesome newspaper cameraman, was struck by the hurtling machine and cut in two, dying instantly. This picture shows the wreckage. The photo was flown from Daytona Beach to Atlanta by airplane and rushed thence by telephoto.

Theaters

At the State.

Talking and sound effects feature Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount starring picture, "The Carnation Kid," which opens at the State theater today for a limited two-day engagement. While there is not 100 per cent. dialogue running throughout every scene, yet in every sequence the action is featured by talking.

"The Carnation Kid" is essentially one to provoke mirth, but MacLean's return to the screen is marked by his appearance in a story that has a melodramatic background. Mistaken identity is the theme of the story with MacLean's being mistaken for a notorious gangster. He is supported by such well known stars as Frances Lee, Lorraine Eddy, William B. Davidson and Francis MacDonald.

Three acts of superlative Vitaphone vaudeville also rear their heads on the same program.

Clyde Cook, a film comedian who needs no introduction to Manchester theatergoers, occupies the main spot on the vaudeville bill with his offering entitled, "Luck in Love," Jimmy Lyons, "the general of hilarity," comes next with a humorous satire on present-day politicians. Cliff Edwards, better known to the amusement world as "Ukelele Ike," closes the vaudeville bill with a snappy routine of popular songs, sung to the accompaniment of a ukelele. The current installment of "The Collegians," co-starring George Lewis and Dorothy Gulliver, and the (State News Events will complete the bill.

Beginning Sunday, the State will present that popular talking picture, "The Bellamy Trial."

At The Circle

The frozen wilderness of the Hudson Bay country, where the hardy trapper pursues the valuable silver-fox, is the locale of the latest Rin Tin Tin film, "Land of the Silver Fox," which comes to the Circle theater Saturday for a run of two days. Scheming treachery, exciting suspense and the gallant heroism of the miracle-working Rin Tin Tin are high points of this romance of the Far North. Beautiful Leila Hyams and Carroll Nye portray the lovers who are saved by Rinty from the evil schemes of John Millan and Tom Santachi, two well-known screen villains.

The associate film feature at the Circle tomorrow again brings to the fore another of Manchester's old-time favorites in the appearance of Viola Dana, famous screen comedienne, who has the stellar role in

"Lure of the Night Club." This latest of Miss Dana's screen translations is a sparkling, peppy story of our modern jazz-loving, care-free youth of today.

The current installment of "Tarzan the Mighty" and a Ko-Ko cartoon will complete the program. As usual, tomorrow's show is continuous from 2:15 until 10:30.

World's Easiest Driving Control

NO OTHER CAR in all the world controls quite so easily—with such complete lack of effort—as the new Nash "400".

Nash engineers have developed a new steering mechanism to achieve this result. An ingenious arrangement of roller bearings and a roller-tooth traveling in a worm gear, reduces friction to a minimum hitherto thought impossible.

Women drivers find new help and gain new confidence in parking. Little effort is needed to bring the "400" up to, or away from, the curb.

Gear shifting is just as easy. The "400" clutch pedal depresses at a touch, scarcely resisting the weight of your foot. The conveniently placed shifting lever moves smoothly, easily, from one speed to another.

If you ever find that driving a car tires you, try driving a Nash "400". It will give you an entirely new conception of how effortless, how pleasurable, motoring can be!

Scatter through the mixture a general number of ripe olives, moisten with a little hot water and form into a loaf. Bake in a tightly covered pan for fifteen or twenty minutes, removing the cover and allowing to brown under the broiler flame for a few minutes. Serve garnished with parsley with a few ripe olives.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Any Wonder?

Question: Mrs. Mc. writes: "I am very much overweight, and after eating my dinner at night I can hardly keep my eyes open and would like to know why this happens. I drink a couple of cups of coffee and eat lots of bread and am very fond of sweets, so please let me know what to do about same."
Answer: Try cutting out the coffee, bread and sweets and reduce all of your other foods to about one-third of what you are now using.

Mixing Fruits

Question: Mrs. F. H. asks: "Will you kindly inform me if it is all right to mix lemon and grapefruit juice? I use lemon juice in hot water every morning upon arising but I find it more palatable to mix the two juices."
Answer: Oranges, grapefruit and lemons may be mixed together as they contain essentially the same elements. The principal acid contained in them is citric acid. No other fruits should be mixed together in this way.

Apoplexy

Question: K. L. asks: "What are the causes and symptoms or indications of apoplexy?"
Answer: Apoplexy may be caused from hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, or from a brain lesion caused by certain diseases. The onset of apoplexy is sudden, causing unconsciousness. Periodic health examinations would disclose the presence of causes which might lead to apoplexy, but at the time an attack occurs the patient does not know anything about it until afterwards when recovering from the "stroke."

(Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet addressed to him in care of this newspaper. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.)

A QUICK WAY TO END
BABY'S UPSET SPELLS

"Like other young mothers, I worried every time Baby cried," says a Syracuse, N. Y., woman. "Several times when she was upset or constipated, I tried castor oil but she couldn't retain it. Our doctor told me to try Fletcher's Castoria because it is harmless and babies like it. That ended my worries and I've used it since for all my children." Castoria never fails to delight mothers by the quick way it ends those upsets of babies and children, such as colic, constipation, olds, etc. That's the reason for its tremendous sale and popularity. Like all good things, it's imitated, but genuine Castoria—the purely-vegetable product—always bears the Fletcher signature.

Daily Lenten Thought

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

A great churchman once said that one of the largest churches today is the church outside of the churches.

Without discussing why so many people who mean well, and who live well, are not definitely linked up with some church, one may recognize that this is true. There is in the world a great deal of unconventional religion and much of it is quite genuine in spirit and in expression.

Some of this unconventional religion is manifested outside of the churches because many men have the same spirit and way of viewing the matter that Lincoln had. Lincoln's famous declaration of his willingness to join a church that would put over its portals the great matter of love to God and to man as the simple test of membership, expressed what is still in the minds of many people.

But churches since Lincoln's day have changed very greatly in this matter of orthodoxy and conformity to elaborate creeds. Most churches today would accept in membership a man of Lincoln's type who frankly stated his difficulty with the creeds, but who equally emphasized his purpose to live according to the law of Christ.

It is unfortunate that all whose lives are constructively Christian in purpose are not definitely associated with the churches, but the fault does not rest entirely with individuals.

The churches will have to lay increasing stress upon the things that Jesus made pre-eminent. Living is chiefly a matter of loving.

HEBRON

At the special town meeting held Monday afternoon at the town hall, Clarkson Bailey was chosen chairman, and Frank R. Post, clerk. It was voted to provide for the required revaluation of taxable property by allowing each of the three selectmen to appoint a man for the task, making three men to do the work. These men may be residents of the town or non-residents. It was specified that the expense shall not exceed sixty cents an hour for each worker, with a mileage rate of not more than ten cents per mile. It was voted that liability insurance for school children transported either locally or to high schools shall be required. It was finally decided to close the old and partially abandoned roads mentioned in the warning by posting them with signs warning that drivers must go at their own risk. This, it is said, will relieve the town of responsibility in case of accidents.

A motion to turn over to Charles A. Ams the piece of road leading eastward up the hill to the pond was lost. It was contended that the town, even if it wished to do so, could not legally withdraw this road from use by the public. It has not been worked for years and is in a bad condition but is still used by property owners to some extent. Mr. Ams, it is said, has some idea of building a residence on the hill and wants to improve the road and make of it a private driveway, with the provision that property owners could use it but not throwing it open to the general public. Representative Robert E. Foote gave figures to show that school expenses alone this year will require a 19-mill tax. Charles M. Lacombe, school supervisor, spoke of the congestion at the Center district schools and at Amston, and said that another year it would be imperative to provide another school-room and teacher for the Center district. Pupils could in that case be transported from Amston to help relieve the congestion there. After a great deal of argument a tax rate of 28 mills was laid. Many were in favor of a thirty mill tax. The rate adopted by the town at its last year's meeting was 28 mills.

Miss Gladys Hough was leader of the Christian Endeavor service at Hebron Center Sunday evening. Mrs. Mary E. Cummings played the accompaniments in the absence of Mrs. Della Porter, organist.

H. Clinton Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, and Miss Thelma Cummings were callers at the Hartford hospital on Sunday to see Mrs. Leslie Ward and her infant daughter. Mrs. William Ward of Norwich, her son Leslie and his daughter Janice, were callers at the Porter home on Sunday.

Donald, the four years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius W. Robinson is ill with German measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hills, who are members of the New England Milk Goat Breeders' association, report that the association is making rapid progress. Nine new members joined at the last meeting held in Worcester, Mass., and letters showing interest were received from as far west as Michigan. One breeder from New Jersey was taken from the association. The 1929 crop of kids is arriving, but most members report a preponderance of bucks.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Chapman at the Manchester Memorial hospital on Tuesday, March 12. Mrs. Chapman, who was Miss Esther Lord, was a former resident of Hebron.

Word has been received of the death in New Britain of Mrs. Nellie (Holmes) Humphreys, Sunday, March 10. Mrs. Humphreys was well known here and was a frequent visitor at the home of her relative, the late Miss Ellen Buell.

Her husband, William J. Humphreys died several years ago. She leaves one son, Malcomb G. Humphreys, who is organist and choirmaster at St. Mark's church, New Britain. Funeral services were held at All Saints church, Meriden, on Tuesday.

Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Robinson is ill with German measles. Other cases are reported about the town as probably being the same disease.

Cards and letters have been received from Miss Fannie Wright who is in Pine Bluff, N. C. Mrs. Fannie Murray has been running her poultry incubator steadily through the winter, hatching eggs for various customers. Quite a good many people in the section supplied by her are now engaged in caring for baby chicks.

UNHAPPY SITUATION

An unhappy feature of the flood which at this writing threatens widespread loss of life among the people of Elba, Alabama, is the inaccessibility of the region to possible rescue expeditions from any three center likely to be equipped for quick relief operations. In the case of the Mississippi floods many steamboats, flatboats and other craft were available. But Elba is remote from any importantly navigable water while its only railroad connection is by a roundabout branch of the Atlantic Coast line, of which it is a terminal. The town is about seventy-five miles south-southeast of Montgomery, but there is no direct means of communication. And while a mere village itself, Elba is the largest town in its county or for a considerable area of Southern Alabama.

It is located on White Water Creek, which is a tributary of the Pea River, which in turn empties into the Choctawhatchee, a river that meanders about western Florida for a long while before it finds its way into Choctawhatchee bay and the Gulf.

While the news dispatches place the population of Elba at 4,000, that estimate of the number of persons endangered, so far as the town itself goes, would appear to be somewhat overstated as we can find no authority which places the population at more than 2,000, and Alabama towns in that region are not given to sudden boom growths.

But whether the population be 2,000 or twice as large, the situation appears to be a very serious one, and one which leaves the rest of the country very much in the position of helpless spectators. Apparently only the immediate neighbors of Elba can do anything in time to be of any use in the way of rescue work. The real hope must lie, apparently, in the recession of the floods. Perhaps by the time this is printed the danger will have passed.

SAUCE

Announcement that the New Haven road has arrived at that happy situation where it is about to spend a large amount of money—six and a half millions at a crack—on new passenger equipment is a gratifying one. It even encourages the hope that the New Haven may some day exert its parental influence on its subsidiary corporation, the Connecticut Company, to undertake some sort of modernization of its equipment. That would be a wonderful thing indeed. Yet stranger have happened.

The rehabilitation of the New Haven is in itself something of a marvel, for never in the world was the business of a great service corporation more calamitously handed at one time, nor with more disastrous results. So that if the Connecticut Company were to suddenly do an about-face and become intelligent in its operation, as the New Haven itself has, there would be precedent for even such an astonishing event.

The conduct of the trolley passenger business in this state has been, for many years, as incomprehensible as was the wrecking of the New Haven. That a service corporation whose prosperity depended on popularizing trolley travel should have completely neglected every consideration of comfort and convenience of its patrons and potential patrons would be almost incredible if we did not all have the fact demonstrated to us not only every time we ride on a trolley car but every time we see or hear one. In thirty years there has been almost no improvement in any department of trolley service in this state—and in the meantime the trolley has had to meet the competition of the most rapidly improved transport service in the world, the automobile.

If the New Haven had met the competition of the same agency only by reducing the number of its trains, letting its equipment fall into rack and ruin, making the engineers fire their own engines and assuming an utterly sulky defeatist attitude, would it now be able to spend $6,500,000 on new cars? It would not.

What's sauce for the parent ought to be sauce for the subsidiary.

WALSH'S OIL SHIFT

Quite obviously Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana no longer retains any expectation whatever of becoming a candidate for the Presidency. Otherwise he would hardly have dropped so suddenly his role of stern and immutable guardian of the public domain, the character in which he has presented himself to the American public in several remorseless oil investigations. It is hardly the same old Walsh who now goes protesting to President Hoover against the latter's smashing order that there shall be no more leasing of government oil lands. Walsh has stood for stern honesty in oil conservation—but it appears that the President's brand new policy is rather too honest to suit the Montana Senator, and too acutely conservative.

The state of Montana, it develops, is more interested in getting some cash out of leases of government reserves located within its limits than it is in keeping the oil in the ground—which latter is the Hoover idea. And Senator Walsh finds reason for shouting in Montana's opportunist chorus instead of lining up on the other side of the question, the side of bona fide conservation. He even insists that the President has no legal right to order a cessation of oil land leasing, because a law passed in 1920 says that the secretary of the interior "may" grant prospecting permits, etc. The righteous Montana senator declares, rather amazingly, that this "may" means "must." Which shows that if you only have faith enough in yourself you may, if not move mountains, at least bring about startling—in your own mind.

Coming on top of the Senator's loud outcry against the condemnation of private summer homes in national park reservations—one of them being his own—this position on oil makes conclusion almost inevitable that Senator Walsh's rigid adherence to the exact line of righteousness and justice, "let the chips fall where they may," is just about like that of some other men of less reputation for granite sanctity.

QUEER LOCAL OPTION

The existence of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, whatever the merits or demerits of those measures, certainly produces some curious effects.

First the state of New York adopted an enforcement act as in conformity with the amendment provision for concurrent legislation. Then, during Governor Smith's regime, the enforcement measure was repealed. The present Legislature has had before it for consideration the so-called Jenks bill, which would have restored the principle of state enforcement substantially as before the repeal. This measure, however, has now been killed in the Senate, where fourteen Republicans joined with the Democrats in opposition.

It is now proposed to do something unique—to adopt a law concurring with the federal prohibition laws, but to make its application valid only in such counties as shall vote favorably in a referendum in which all counties shall participate separately. And not only is this measure proposed, but there is every likelihood that it will pass, for it is understood that the entire Republican membership of the Legislature will support it, and that would mean its adoption.

Such a device is probably as sensible an arrangement as can be made, but it would be terrible to submit it to the test of technical morality. Local option by counties on the question of whether the United States constitution and laws of Congress are to be recognized is a novelty, at least, and any explanation of it to a foreigner would probably result in unseating the reason of the unfortunate alien.

BEEBEE

No bookful of publicity have been printed about it, no great crowds assembled to see it off, no strident ballyhoo produced huge sums of money to support it, but it is a serious question whether the thirty-second expedition of William Beebe, which sailed on Wednesday for Bermudan waters to carry on new investigations of marine life

at great depths will not add more of value to the sum of human knowledge than the infinitely more spectacular expeditions of Byrd and Wilkins.

This writer and explorer of ocean depths has served the science of zoology tremendously in the years during which he has probed the valleys of the sea and brought up their fauna. Science is definitely and ascertainably the richer for his work. He has added immensely to the general knowledge of the world—and the work that he had done is absorbingly interesting to millions of persons who are not at all scientists, into the bargain.

If guns are to be fired and if hands are to play and the cheers of the populace are to go up for scientists who at best can bring back little more than a more or less accurate outline map of an utterly useless corner of the globe, it would seem as though one little pop or one little toot or one "Good fellow" might go to Beebe, the man who has taught the human race more about its ancestors than any other who ever lived.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

A LESSON FROM HISTORY.

Many are the nations of the past that have flourished and declined; Babylon, Assyria, Egypt, Phoenicia, Greece and Rome. In some cases the disappearance of these once powerful nations can be accounted for by the invasion of foreign warriors, but in other cases the exact cause is not difficult to ascertain. All of them have this in common; when these nations were young, the individuals of each nation were hardy and vigorous; they lived on plain foods; they were physically powerful and had but a few luxuries. As the nations prospered, the individuals became wealthier. Instead of working themselves, they had slaves or hirelings to do the work for them. They enjoyed luxuries, idleness and rich foods.

The citizens of these nations considered themselves superior to other nations. They would no longer undergo long marches nor till the soil. Foreigners should do their work and fight in their armies. In the course of time these foreigners became more numerous than the citizens. They also became stronger and more able to survive. As Goldsmith stated in his famous poem, "The Deserted Village," "ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates, and men decay."

The Greeks were a mighty race, with individuals as beautifully formed as have ever been seen. They had many intellectual geniuses until they adopted the luxurious effeminate habits of the Persians. The Greeks conquered the Persians, but the Persians had their revenge, for their customs conquered the Greeks. Then mighty Rome flourished, and with the legions of her own men swept over the Greco-Persian world. Rome conquered Greece, but Greece had its revenge, for the Grecian luxuries and vices were imported to Rome. Grecian cooks, doctors and teachers flocked to Rome. They became the vogue, and Rome, for the first time, learned the art of self-enjoyment and idleness. The stern and vigorous Romans were softened by the luxuries of Greece and became easy prey to the virile Teuton armies. The Romans, too weak to fight themselves, expected to be defended by foreign mercenaries, and the decline of the Roman Empire began. Race suicide became universal throughout Rome, as children were nuisances to the rich and burdens to the poor.

History shows us many examples where nations decay before they are conquered. The rot, produced by luxury and rich food, is far more dangerous than any foreign enemy. The prophets were able to foretell the fall of Babylon, Assyria, Egypt, Tyre and even Jerusalem itself, because they knew that when a nation gives itself over to riotous luxury and waste, the nation and the race decline. Modern nations can take this as a lesson. As long as wholesome foods are used and work is considered honorable, the nation will prosper, but if rich foods are eaten and idleness is deemed fashionable, the nation will weaken and be conquered by more hardy people, even as were the nations of antiquity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Baby Won't Drink Water.
 Question: Mrs. C. R. T. writes: "My baby girl is three months old and I can't get her to take any water. Someone suggested sweetening the water, but I do not know what quantity of sweetening to use. Also, was wondering if honey wouldn't be best to use. Will you kindly advise me? She is breast fed."
 Answer: Your baby will not require a great deal of water if she is taking enough milk. I do not advise the addition of sugar to water for encouraging her to drink it.

Erysiploid.
 Question: Mrs. E. asks: "Will you please tell me what erysiploid is?"
 Answer: Erysiploid is a contagious disease resembling erysipelas and the treatment is similar. I am sending you an article on this subject which outlines the cause and cure of this trouble.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc. 54 YEARS at SOUTH MANCHESTER.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 15.—The musty tang of tradition clings to the very appearance of half a dozen of Manhattan's exclusive clubs.

Clad in severe brownstone, they furnish a fair replica of London's aristocratic strongholds of another day. In New York they survive the changing times and temperaments. Their members have a severe dignity, quite uncommon in this most ill-mannered of cities.

Thus, in the lunch room of the City club there hangs a sign in lettering of uncertain vintage which reads: "Silence is enjoined." Imagine an admonition to silence in this nasal-voiced metropolis. The eating room itself is a sort of florid library. About the red-brown walls are cases of rebound books, which one knows without looking are certain to deal with ethics and history and economics.

A friend tells me of entering such a club library not long ago—this one was located in a general reading and smoking room—and taking forth a book. The cover was so encased in dust that he was forced to sneeze several times. "And the way all the old fellows stared me down over the tops of their glasses put this down as my most embarrassing moment," he related.

For more than half a century the Lotus club, for instance, has prided itself on the quality of its food and membership. Its list of "honorary members" includes Mark Twain, Andrew Mellon, Ignace Paderewski and Oliver Wendell Holmes. The latter is still referred to as one of the prize gangsters of his day.

By way of contrast, just one door away from the City club, the latter-day wisecrackers and wit fit in and out of the Algonquin; the movie stars seek non-time rendezvous with their press agents and with the Manhattan film writers! actors meet to exchange small talk and visitors sit on the outskirts trying to get glimpses of famous people. All very amusing when one considers the adjoining club, which leaves its famous ones to tradition and challenges any comparison with this fame. Here solemn boards pass resolutions on this and that;

ponder over recent acts of Congress and send round-robins to civic organizations. And they are not without a certain power, however small the voice may be in the general roar of the city.

In mid-Fifth avenue, the windows of the Union League club reveal to passers-by the heads of another aristocratic group. The same old members seem always to be sitting in the same old windows, pouring over their market pages or the latest political information. Twenty years, or 25, seems to bring no changes. "There is a solemnity which seems to brood over the 'terrible things' that are taking place in the world outside their window—changes which, somehow, leave them untouched. They have that air of helping to keep the normal balance to things—they appear the very cornerstones of normality. Yet, somehow, one suspects them also of going home to their traditional Scotch and soda, as well.

GILBERT SWAN.

PLAN CHANNEL TUNNEL.

London.—Plans for a tunnel under the English channel to connect England and France are again being considered. The idea, as originated in 1854, was for two single-track tunnels, each 35 miles long. The cost of construction was estimated at $145,000,000. It would furnish employment to about 12,000 men for about five years.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 15.—Seekers after higher protective duties on imported goods aren't really so exacting after all. In fact, if they can't have their money in gold they will be glad to take it in honest currency.

President Hoover favors limited tariff revision. The tariff hogs who are getting along well as it is favor unlimited tariff revision and so many of them are pleading dire poverty that it is difficult to distinguish those industries which aren't being adequately taken care of from those which are.

And they will not insist on general revision upwards if they can get something just as good. Hence the proposal to substitute, in determining tariff duties, the basis of American valuation for the foreign value basis now used wherever imports are taxed on an ad valorem or percentage basis. That is, instead of determining the value of imported articles by consulting invoices and other data abroad we would find out what the same type of goods are selling for when made by American manufacturers and fix the value for duty assessment purposes accordingly.

Of course the general net effect would be to boost the amount of duty on imported goods where the American valuation scheme was applied without raising the ad valorem rate of taxation. Apparently the adoption of the proposal would save a lot of fuss and make it unnecessary for many interests to demand specific favors for their own industries.

In the general rush, the opponents of the proposal contend, there would be no separation of sheep from goats—and hogs. It is complained that, besides setting up extremely high rates in many instances, the scheme would be very difficult to apply and that there would be constant uncertainty as to what the duties actually assessed would be. This last objection has caused importers to make an especially bitter fight against the proposal. It would mean, they say, that importers would no longer be business men, but gamblers.

Of course anyone who represented the well-known "consumer" would stress the certainty of higher rates.

But the other side of the story should not be neglected. Here's what Joseph R. Grundy, high priest of the protective tariff and president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, has to say:

"Practically every schedule of the Tariff Act was represented by the leading industries under that schedule in the hearings before the Ways and Means Committee just completed. With very few exceptions every industry appearing before the committee condemned the foreign value basis and requested some form of valuation having as its basis all the facts within the United States.

"Many estimates of the actual fraud on the government through a foreign value basis were submitted. Many witnesses testified that this basis is easily manipulated by the foreign importer. If anyone can correct undervaluations arising under the present system he will manifest more consummate wisdom and strength than Congress and those governmental officers who for 125 years have been trying vainly to enforce the penal provisions which punish fraudulent undervaluations."

The American Farm Bureau Federation, in a brief presented to the committee, pointed out that investigations to determine foreign values had resulted in much international friction. It complained also that foreign exporters and American importers were forever cheating.

The federation also referred to the idea of United States valuation, which it defined "as placing the accent on the American selling price of the imported article," whereas the American valuation meant "placing the accent upon the American selling price of the similar American-made article." It argued that prices on imported articles would be decreased, with the American valuation, in cases where merchants profited excessively by use of the word "imported."

It is understood that President Hoover does not favor a change in the present valuation basis.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
"HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN is shot between one and four o'clock Saturday afternoon. RUTH LESTER, his secretary, finds his body Monday morning sprawled beneath the airshaft window of his private office.

McMANN, detective sergeant, questions Ruth, MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife and mother of his two children; RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, with whom Borden was infatuated; and JACK HAYWARD, Ruth's fiancé, whose office is across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

McMann's belief in Jack's guilt is strengthened by his discovery that Jack's Colt's .38 is missing; by Jack's own admission that he returned to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon, and by the testimony of elevator boys MICKY MORAN and OTTO PFLUGER, BILL COWAN, Jack's friend, unwillingly tells McMann he heard Jack threaten Borden's life Saturday morning.

JAKE BAILEY, Borden's bodyguard, is sent for. Meanwhile McMann questions Benny SMITH, Borden's office boy; Ashe, his manservant; MIKE CASSIDY and LETTY MILLER, seventh floor scrubwomen, and CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress, who gives an ironclad alibi. MARTHA MANNING, mother of Borden's illegitimate son, is involved by Ruth's detective work. McMann questions her about her relationship with the victim but she declines to answer. She insists she last saw him Christmas Eve.

McMann quickly presses her fingers into an ink-soaked blotter and records her fingerprints on a sheet of white paper on the desk to compare them with prints discovered on the glass panel of the door between the two Borden offices.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

Ruth Lester felt that she, as well as the frail, tortured woman beside her, could not bear the suspense of the next slow minutes.

With a nerve-racking deliberation Detective Sergeant McMann drew another sheet of paper from his pocket—the enlarged photograph of the three fingerprints discovered by Detective Fisher on the glass panel of the door between the outer and the inner offices of the Borden suite; laid it beside the startlingly clear prints he had just made, in ink, of Martha Manning's fingers; studied both sets of prints, with maddening lack of haste, reached into his coat pocket, secured a small microscope and fitted it into his left eye.

At last he nodded with satisfaction, folded both sheets of paper carefully together and placed them in a breast pocket of his coat. Then he spoke: "Miss Manning, we will save much time if you will tell me frankly at just what time Saturday afternoon you paid your fare-well visit to Harry Borden."

The thin hands were working desperately now with a handkerchief to remove the humiliating ink stains but at the detective's question they gripped each other convulsively.

"I was not here at all on Saturday!"

"Then how do you account for the fact that your fingerprints were found yesterday morning on the glass panel of that door?" McMann demanded triumphantly, pointing toward the closed door between the two offices.

Martha Manning drew a sharp, quivering breath, then, to Ruth's amazement she smiled, and the thin shoulders shrugged slightly, as if their owner were admitting defeat. "I am sorry to disappoint you, Mr. McMann, after your brilliant demonstration of detective-story ingenuity, but—my visit to Harry Borden was made on Friday night—not on Saturday afternoon!"

"Is that so?" McMann snorted, after the first impact of the shock. "Well, we'll soon find out if you were here Friday night! Perhaps you're not aware of the fact, Miss Manning, that every tenant or visitor coming into this building after seven o'clock in the evening is required to sign a register kept in the elevator." He rose and was striding toward the communicating door to give an order to Birdwell, when Martha Manning stopped him, with a cool admission:

"I'm quite aware of the custom you mention, Mr. McMann! And you may save yourself the trouble of consulting the register, unless you wish to verify my statement that Mr. Borden was in his office Friday night."

Ruth knew, by the curious expression that distorted the detective's face, that he had failed to check the register for Friday night, and was now disgusted with himself for that omission.

He continued to the door, threw it open, and with harsh impatience gave the necessary instructions to long-suffering Detective Birdwell. Then, whirling back toward the woman, the detective demanded:

"You admit then, that I shall not find your name on that register? I suppose you're going to try to tell me that you signed a fake name, in a disguised handwriting, and that you've forgotten just which name you did sign!"

"Hardly anything so crude and easily exploded as that," Martha Manning smiled. "I am going to do something much more simple—tell you the truth. I walked up and walked down, taking care not to be seen by the elevator operator."

ing strangely. "It simply happens to be totally inaccurate. I walked up because I feared Mr. Borden had seen me following him and had given orders to the elevator man not to admit me into the building."

"But if you did see him, why walk down?" McMann caught her up sharply.

"For approximately the same reason," Miss Manning pointed out patiently. "I mean—I did not want Mr. Borden to give orders to the elevator man that the woman he had just taken down was not to be admitted again."

"Then you expected to make another attempt to carry out your plans, which had miscarried?" McMann suggested.

Again the woman shrugged. "My plans never included anything more sinister than an earnest appeal to Mr. Borden's generosity."

"You say that?" McMann pretended honest amazement—"in face of the threat in this last letter of yours—this threat against Borden's life?"

He reached for the letter, read again that damning sentence: "But Harry, in all solemnity, I warn you that you will be sorry if you do not do what I ask!"

"I admit that it is a threat," Martha Manning said coolly, then flashed a brief, almost affectionate smile at Ruth Lester as the girl gasped. "But it happens, Mr. McMann, that it is not a threat against Mr. Borden's life. When I saw him Christmas Eve, by a ruse—just as I saw him Friday night—I warned him that if he did not voluntarily make adequate provision for our son, I should institute legal proceedings to force him to do so."

"I have an abundance of documented evidence, including a number of letters from Mr. Borden in which he more than admits paternity—boasts of it, in fact; also letters 'to my little son from his father.' Her voice faltered over that name. The murdered man, but her head remained high and proud.

"Had you taken steps to institute such legal proceedings?" McMann asked, with obvious skepticism.

"I had—not," the woman admitted reluctantly. "I—had no money, and I wanted Harry—Mr. Borden—to be spared the consequent notoriety, hence my repeated appeals."

McMann drummed on the desk top for a long minute, and was about to speak when Birdwell interrupted with the requested sheets from the loose-leaf register kept by the elevator men of the Starbridge Building. The detective snatched at them, then after a moment's study, he smiled that twisted, cynical smile of his and said:

"Suppose you tell me, all about Friday night, Miss Manning—your following of Borden on your cleverly managed interview with him."

"I shall be glad to," Miss Manning replied. "I—had no money, and I wanted Harry—Mr. Borden—to be spared the consequent notoriety, hence my repeated appeals."

The detective snatched at them, then after a moment's study, he smiled that twisted, cynical smile of his and said:

was still with Mr. Borden, so I withdrew to the head of the stairway again, and waited, listening through a crack in the door.

"After several minutes I heard footsteps, and peeped out. Jake was at the elevator. When it had taken him in, and was on its way down, I ran to Mr. Borden's door, removing my glove so that I could knock loudly. I counted on Mr. Borden's thinking that Jake had come back for some forgotten last word. Of course I tried the door first, but it was locked, as I had expected. He did open the door—wide, as I had hoped, and before he could prevent me I slipped in."

"Glad to see you?" McMann cut in sarcastically.

"No," the woman answered simply. "But—he did agree to talk with me. We sat here—at his desk—and the beautiful voice faltered, broke."

"Borden opened the door between the two offices for you, I suppose?" McMann suggested casually.

"Yes—of course! He was willing to talk things over, as I told you."

"Then how do you account for your fingerprints on the glass panel of the door between?" McMann sprung his trap.

The woman looked confused, then confident again. "I remember! When I came out of his office—Harry did not accompany me to the outer door—I felt dizzy, ill with relief and joy—and I leaned for a moment against the door, throwing one hand against the glass panel to steady myself."

Again McMann looked so chagrined that Ruth could have laughed, although Jack Hayward seemed farther than ever from being cleared of the charge of murder which might be officially lodged against him at any moment.

"So you were dizzy—joy, eh?" McMann grunted at last. "What was the good news?"

"Harry—Mr. Borden—had agreed to establish a trust fund for our son, promised me that he would take it up with his lawyer the next day, or Monday at the latest," Martha Manning murmured. "He—did not live to do so."

"So," McMann leaned forward, and leveled a menacing, triumphant forefinger at the woman—"you called him on the telephone on Saturday morning and again about half-past one, just to tell him how happy you were, I suppose? . . . Wait! No, use thinking up another good lie! I'll not mince words with you, Miss Manning! I don't believe a word of this fine yarn you've spun to account for these fingerprints of yours! In some way—I'll find out how, at right—you knew when Borden and Jack Bailey entered the building, and when Bailey left it, but when I get hold of Jake Bailey I'll be able to knock your pretty story into a cocked hat."

As if the detective's words had been endowed with magic, the communicating door opened at that precise moment, and Birdwell's weary, bored voice announced:

"Jake Bailey is here, sir. He wants to know if he can be of any help, he says—"

"He's damned right he can!" McMann exploded. "Show him in!"

YOUR CHILDREN

Never bribe a child for being good.
"Be good, Johnny, and I'll give you a nickel for candy." Can you imagine anything more atrocious?
Be good! What does anyone mean by "be good?" Even if a parent has some clear cut notion of what he means, a child hasn't. His idea of "being good" is as nebulous as the moon on a foggy night. It might mean, "don't waken the baby," "don't sneak a penny out of your bank," "don't ask questions when I'm busy," "don't do this, that," Johnny isn't going to take himself to task and deliberate over what it means. He'll promise—certainly—in order to get the nickel, and he hasn't the slightest idea what it's all about.
Idea is All Wrong.
But suppose you say, "Don't waken the baby and I'll give you a nickel." There Johnny has a definite idea, of course. He at least knows what he's being paid for. Even so, the idea is all wrong. If you begin to pay a child for something that he should do anyway with reasonable explanation and understanding, you are simply drilling a hole in the dyke. Before you know it, trouble will come pouring in, in an avalanche you cannot stop.
Johnny will hold that bribe over you like a young blackmailer time without end. Amen. If behaving is so difficult and unjust a thing that it has to be paid for why then it must be a pretty hard thing indeed. Too hard for him to bother with without compensation.
He begins to look on obedience and good conduct as, not normal, but abnormal things.
When he is older, the affair very likely will change quality, but not character.
The Habit Will Grow.
"If you do without the new roadster, Don, I'll see that you get to Europe for three months after you graduate."
Always a bargain, a compromise. You do this and I'll do that. Johnny won't feel that virtue is its own reward by any means.
His parents wonder why other people can say, "No, you can't have a roadster. It doesn't suit us to get it for you." Just like that.
Well! It was because when their children were little they never said, "Be good and we'll give you a nickel!"

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

Dr. Fishbein Gives Warning About Pink Eye, Urging That It Receive Careful Attention.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

About thirty hours after a certain germ gets into the eyes, usually in the fall or the spring, the eyes become irritated. Three days later they will be very red, the lids will be glued together in the morning and become swollen and puffy. Little red spots will show in the white part of the eye. Then light will irritate the eyes and a lot of fluid will pour from them. They will feel as though sand had gotten into them and the tendency will be to keep the lids of the eyes closed.

Lids are Affected.
If nothing is done to stop the condition matter will form and this will aggravate the condition. The diagnostic name so commonly applied to this condition of the eyes is "pink eye" and one of the scientific names for it, because the disease spreads rather easily from one person to another, is "epidemic catarrh of the conjunctiva," because it is the covering membrane of the eye and the eyelids that is chiefly affected.

Of course there are certain rules to follow if one wishes to avoid infection with pink eye. A common towel should not be used, particularly by people working in various industries. If anyone is observed to have this condition he should stay away from his employment until he has had adequate attention and learned how to protect others against his infection.

In treating inflammations of the eyes and the eyelids the doctor usually advises hot fomentations laid on the eyes for five minutes at a time. Sometimes he suggests that witch hazel or boric acid be added to the hot water.

Not to be Ignored.
Infections and inflammations of the eyes should not be taken lightly. It is better to be certain of the exact nature of the condition. There are some infections such as trachoma which are extremely serious.

Q. Are breathing exercises dangerous? Do they ever cause heart trouble?

A. Breathing exercises properly conducted are not dangerous or unsuitable for most people. Overexercising of any kind is serious for a person with heart trouble.

and which may go on to the point of destruction of the eye itself.

The ordinary inflammation tends to get well with simple hygienic procedures but the serious infections will not succumb to such treatment. All sorts of eye-drops are offered for the panacea for ailments that concern the eyes. It is not well to put into the eyes any drops of unknown composition. The eye is one of the most delicate tissues in the human body and if it is damaged it does not tend to recover as easily as portions of the skin.

The modernistic theme is pursued in a Parisian bag of black and white kid which is joined to form a triangular shaped purse. The clasp is of ivory.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SCHUBERT

That women do not create in the world of arts and science is a dogma frequently heard. Strong men defy women to point to the great musicians, scientists, writers to their sex. And woman's weak explanation that women have always been too bound up in the personal life of caring for those about them in order that they, in turn, may achieve, finds little heed.

Virginia Woolf tries to explain why there have been so few women of great writers. The number of a woman's children, her income, her servants, if any, and most of all, whether or not she has a room of her own, "explains much," she says. She reminds us that Jane Austen, Emily and Charlotte Bronte, and George Eliot, perhaps outstanding women writers, had no children at all, and that two of them were unmarried.

THEIR ODD JOBS.

Consider, too, she admonishes, that George Eliot had an invalid father to nurse; that Charlotte Bronte wrote as she could after picking eyes out of potatoes, and she might have reminded us of the domestic responsibilities of hundreds of other women writers. And yet, we can logically remind ourselves of the hundreds of husbands and fathers who, working their eight or ten-hour day at some bread-and-butter task, and confronted with their own domestic jobs of furnace to stoke and screens to put in and awnings to repair, and all the odd jobs quite as imposing in their way as their wives', still try to "write" and even achieve it.

This assumption that it is only the woman who is unable to cleave to the straight undeviating line of one main job, is unfair. On the whole, though, when a man reaches the place where his writings is his profession, he is unhampered by digressions which the professional woman writer, especially if married, must bend the neck under. It seems possible to find substitutes for a man of the house when it is quite impossible to get them for the lady of the house.

Mrs. Woolf reminds us that "nothing tangible remains of a woman's day. The food she has cooked is eaten; the children have gone into the world." True, but how much "tangible" remains of a man's day, either?

So-called "sex injustices" have a way of being found out as human race handicaps and injustices, if that is what they are.

GRAND DIVA.

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, glorious singer and as glorious a woman, is very wise when she says that she will stop singing while the memory of her voice is still a pleasant one. It is characteristic of this woman, too, to make the ultimate use of her power by singing out a young girl for her descending mantle.

The diva says that Miss Ingeborg Wank of New York, a discovery of La Heink in Kansas City who has just been sent abroad to study, will be her successor. It was La Heink, too, who championed Marion Talley when all the critics were against her. One might argue that the pine tree can afford to smile upon the creeping vine. But it is often observed that the higher the tree the less shade it gives to things below it.

FAT CHANCE!

Advice that in selecting a mate, he or she be not "above one's own level" is given by Dr. Roswell Johnson of the University of Pittsburgh, addressing the American Eugenics Society's committee on co-operation of ministers. He declared that the church had "too the flesh," and suggested that this "contentment" be changed to "biological respect."

A meeting of the Town School Committee, teachers and parents, was held at the Town hall, Wednesday evening, to talk over problems connected with the schools, with a view of forming some kind of a teacher-parents association. CAESAR'S DEATH

Today is the anniversary of one of the most famous events of ancient history — the assassination of Julius Caesar in the Roman Senate.

Historians say that Caesar had a premonition of disaster on the morning of March 15, 44 B. C., and did not intend to go to the Senate. The conspirators, however, sent Brutus, Caesar's closest friend, to urge him. Caesar shook off his depression, after being reassured by Brutus, and started from the house. In the hall, his statue fell from its pedestal and shattered.

Outside the door, an acquaintance handed him a scroll. On it was written a list of all the conspirators. Caesar thought it was a petition, and placed it with his other papers.

Once inside the Senate chamber, Caesar was the victim of his good fellowship. Senator took advantage of his affability to gather around him to talk and jest. Then, daggers were drawn from under senatorial togas.

WAPPING

Rec And Knights Battle Deciding Game Tonight

Close and Exciting Contest Expected When Rival Teams Clash at Rec; Rec Girls and K. of L. Girls in Preliminary.

PROBABLE LINEUPS

Rec Five	K. of L.
Holland	Malinowski
McCann	Bennett
Norris	S. Shimkus
Madden	Mazotas
Stavitsky	C. Shimkus

The Rec and Knights will go at it hammer and tong tonight in the third and deciding game of their basketball series at the School street Rec. The Rec Girls and K. of L. Girls will hook up in the preliminary.

Fans who trek to the Rec tonight are almost certain to get their money's worth and then some. These two teams are very evenly matched. It is a treat to watch them rip into each other. Tonight's battle should be close, thrilling and spectacular.

The Rec Five will be at full strength and hopes to take the odd game of the series in an impressive manner. However, the Knights are just as cocky and they, too, expect to win. The Rec Five will finish the month of March and Manager Ben Clune figures on bringing some strong attractions to town before the curtain falls.

Training Camp F-l-a-s-h-e-s

Clearwater, Fla., March 15.—The "Battle of Florida" was to end officially today with Dazzy Vance, strikeout king of the National League, winning a $25,000 verdict over the directors of the Brooklyn Club. Yielding to the pleas of Manager Robinson, the directors consented to grant the pitcher a $2,500 raise last night and Vance will be signed, sealed and delivered here today. Vance is now the highest salaried pitcher in baseball.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The Yankees and Boston Braves resumed their spring series here today with each team holding one victory. Hits by Maguire and Harper gave the Beaneaters a 6 to 4 win over the world's champions in the tenth yesterday. Wiley Moore being nicked for the winning runs. Ruth and Gehrig got two hits apiece and Lazzerie three.

San Antonio, Texas.—Andy Reese, blond second sacker of the New York Giants, is entitled to a free permanent wage today as a result of hitting a tremendous home run over a hairdresser's sign in deep center field in yesterday's game with the San Antonio Beas. Reese slammed out three other hits. The Giants won, 15 to 5. It was the first time this season that John McGraw had all of his regulars in the line up.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The Braves pepped up by knocking off the cocky Yankees go back after the American League champions again today.

The series is developing into quite a warm affair. Both Miller Huggins and the Braves strategists are shuffling players around like cards.

Bradenton, Fla., March 15.—The drubbing that the Red Sox handed Cincinnati saved them a lot of hard work. Had they lost to the Reds they would be facing two long seasons to put them in trim for the next exhibition contest with Indianapolis at Sarasota Sunday.

TITLE AT STAKE

Boston, March 15.—Betting was even on tonight's bout between Gus Sonnenberg and Joe Malcewicz in a finish wrestling match, best two falls out of three, at the Boston Garden tonight.

Sonnenberg's title of world's champion will be at stake when he enters the ring against the Unica panther.

While Sonnenberg and Malcewicz are battling over 50 college grapplers will be heaving at each other in the Hemenway Gymnasium at Harvard in the annual New England Wrestling Association championships. Full freshman and varsity teams represent Brown, M. I. T., Harvard and Tufts will be entered, while Williams is sending its five strongest varsity matmen.

The championships, extending over two days, will start tonight with the preliminary rounds in both classes.

WRESTLING RESULTS

At New York—Gus Sonnenberg, world's champion, threw Charlie Hansen, Brooklyn, with flying tackle in 35 minutes 40 seconds.

BOSTON RED SOX LINEUP HAS NOT BEEN COMPLETED

Manager Carrigan Tells Killgallen He's Not Decided Yet; Team's Prospects.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

Bradenton, Fla., March 15.—Manager Bill Carrigan of the Boston Red Sox is making no predictions for 1929, beyond saying he will have "a fighting ball club." The manager declined today to go on record on what he thought his team will do in the pennant chase.

"Do you think the Red Sox will land in the first division?" he was asked. "I don't know," he replied. "All I can say is that they will be in there fighting."

Carrigan, who has been looking over forty-one ball players at the spring training camp here, said his mind as to his opening line-up. All his players with the exception of Ira Flagstead, veteran outfielder, reported early and the club as a whole is in fine shape as many of his youngsters look promising.

The Red Sox pitching staff will be built around Ed Morris, Dan MacFayden, Charlie Ruffing, Jack Russell and Milton Gaston, all right handers. Horace Lisenbee of Clarksville, Tenn., who was up with Washington in 1927, will be classed as a gamble until he has another chance to show in Major League spangles.

Carrigan has hoped that of the flock of young pitchers he is looking over two or three will make the grade. These youngsters include Ed Burham of Chester, S. C., who won and lost seven for the Jackson Club of the cotton states league last season; Benny Frye of Jackson, Mich., a left ball pitcher from Louisville, Frank Bushey of Wheaton, Kan., a tall right hander who won 13 and lost 10 with Portland, Me., in 1928 and Edgar Carroll of Catonsville, Md., a fast ball pitcher. He is six foot three and has a world of speed.

Carrigan also has Bill Bayne, a southpaw, Bayne was formerly with the St. Louis Browns and last year toiled for Cleveland where his record was rather poor.

Gaston, who pitched excellent ball for Browns for three years, won six and lost 12 for Washington in 1928 and was included in the trade that sent third baseman Buddy Myer from the Red Sox to Washington.

The Red Sox lineup will be greatly changed as a result of the mid-winter deals. For Myer the Boston club acquired pitchers Gaston and Lisenbee and infielders Bob Reeves, Grant Gillis and outfielder Elliott Biegelow. At the end of the first round McGovern changed the idea he had when he went into the ring. He thought he had a sucker match and he hadn't trained much for it.

"This guy is tough, but I'll get him," McGovern told the men in his corner after the first round. But at the very start of the second round Corbett dropped him for a contusion of the eye and soon after whipped over a right to the chin that stiffened McGovern and relieved him of the featherweight championship.

Corbett became famous in that matter of a few minutes. He got in the money and one of the first purchases he made was a "high-powered car," at the wheel of which he is pictured above. The style of the car and the swell clothes of Corbett and his friends are worth observation.

McGovern's friends said that Corbett's victory was a fluke and they were rematched. They met March 31, 1903, and Corbett won again by a knockout in the eleventh round. They are shown above in the ring with Eddie Graney before the fight.

Corbett held the title until 1904 when he was knocked out by Tommy Sullivan. Corbett's right name was William R. Rothwell and he was from a prominent family in Denver. He died not so long ago.

These deals make the Red Sox seem more formidable than last year when they looked promising. However, just what line-up Carrigan will use at the start of the season he will not reveal at this time.

These were eleven typewriting awards this week. These included solid gold pins to Francis Sroker, 62 net words, Ruth Shorts, 61 net words and Florence Benson, 55 net words. Sterling silver pins were awarded to Robert Lewis, 48 net words, Marial Tomlinson, 45 net words, Elizabeth Forbes, 46 net words, Margaret Merrer, 44 net words, Dorothy Smith, 44 net words, Gertrude LaShay, 43 net words, Dorothy Turock, 42 net words, and Robert Miller, 40 net words.

The speaker scheduled to address the assembly yesterday, was unable to appear, with the result that the assembly period was somewhat shortened. Eleanor Dwyer spoke about the coming Triangular Debate on Wednesday March 20. The teams to represent Manchester High school consist of the following pupils: affirmative team, Jacob Rubinow, Charlotte Rubinow and Joseph McCluskey; negative team, Eva Koehler, Carl Cubberly, Eleanor Dwyer and Marlon Jones, alternate. Principal Quimby then called attention to the last home swimming meet of the season, the match with Hartford. High this afternoon. Prizes were also awarded to some of the pupils who had secured subscriptions on the subscription. Lewis Cheney, who headed a Wahl fountain pen, received the list yesterday with 27 subscriptions. Wahl Eversharp pencils were given to Irene Keeney, 9 subscriptions, Robert Glenny, 8 subscriptions, Joseph McCluskey, 8 subscriptions, Gertrude Steinberg, 5 subscriptions, and William Davis, 4 subscriptions.

WAR IN CLIPPINGS.

New York.—A newspaper clipping history of the World War in 400 volumes has been acquired by the New York Historical Society with funds furnished by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. The clippings were gathered by Otto Spengler, of a press clipping office.

OUT OF THE PAST

When Jimmy McLarnin took New York by storm a year ago the nicest thing old-timers could find to say about him was that he was another McGovern. There have been other tremendous pugilistic favorites with the New York Irish, but there never was a boy who had such a hold on their affections as Terrible Terry McGovern had. Some of the old-timers still speak of him with reverence in their voices.

McGovern was one of the greatest little fighting men in the history of the prize ring. He had color with all the requisites of a great fighter and New York was wild about him. The man never would live who would beat Terry in his prime, his idolators thought, and it was a terrific shock to them when Young Corbett came along from nowhere and knocked him out.

The fight was staged in Hartford, Conn., in 1901. At the end of the first round McGovern changed the idea he had when he went into the ring. He thought he had a sucker match and he hadn't trained much for it.

"This guy is tough, but I'll get him," McGovern told the men in his corner after the first round. But at the very start of the second round Corbett dropped him for a contusion of the eye and soon after whipped over a right to the chin that stiffened McGovern and relieved him of the featherweight championship.

Corbett became famous in that matter of a few minutes. He got in the money and one of the first purchases he made was a "high-powered car," at the wheel of which he is pictured above. The style of the car and the swell clothes of Corbett and his friends are worth observation.

McGovern's friends said that Corbett's victory was a fluke and they were rematched. They met March 31, 1903, and Corbett won again by a knockout in the eleventh round. They are shown above in the ring with Eddie Graney before the fight.

Al Singer Meets Taylor Tonight In The Garden

Singer Won Before on a Foul; His Ability to Take It Is Questioned; Tonight Will Tell.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, March 15.—New York and its chump promotion, limited in number only by the distance between the front and back of the telephone book, will know definitely tonight whether it has sponsored another Leonard, as it once thought, or spawned another Terry, as it now suspects. The difference is represented largely by the discrepancy between a swat and a swoon and there comes a time in every life when even a chump must know all. That time will come tonight when Al Singer and Bud Taylor re-play the Garden in the second episode of their "What-Was-It."

The last time out, there was a hung jury, which probably was what it deserved. Anyhow, Singer sank gracefully to the axminster after being hit somewhere, well, let's call it somewhere in the middle of the fourth round—and the referee, having consulted with everybody except Judge Landis, finally called it a foul. There was a net gate of $56,744.04 on the premises that night and every nickel of it walked out muttering violently. Their story was that, if they never saw Al Singer again, it would be premature.

This probably accounts for the fact that the Garden has sold itself out again, tonight and ticket leasers are flaunting signs on Broadway, announcing "choice seats for Taylor and Singer." The boys are all steamed up again like a hot house window. The funny thing about it is that it was only a week ago that the Garden tried to announce this show from its ring-side and was shouted down. BABE'S NEW STANCE

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 15.—Babe Ruth is experimenting with a new batting stance which he hopes will increase his home run output as well as his batting average. The home run king of the Yankees is now standing about a foot further away from the plate so that he can "lean on" balls in the groove and on the inside, and tap wide ones into left for singles.

LORD IS VICTOR OVER TONY LETO

Nip and Tuck Battle Goes to Waterbury Boy After Best Bout of the Season.

Eddie Lord of Waterbury surprised a large crowd at Foot Guard Hall in Hartford last night when he won a ten round decision from Tony Leto of Florida, the boy they were priming for a return bout with Bat Battalino.

It was a nip and tuck battle with first one boy having the lead and then the other. All in all, it was the best featherweight scrap Hartford has been privileged to gaze upon in many long dreary months.

Lord's margin, slim as it was, was a deserved one. The tenth and final round gave Lord the margin he needed.

Frankie Curcio of Providence won an eight-round decision over Mickey Flahive of Florida. Jimmy Garcia of Worcester won an unpopular verdict over Billy Guerra of Boston in six. Brownie Tucker won over Harry Huddleston of Pittsfield by a technical kayo in the third round. Buster Wright of Hartford beat Billy Herman of Springfield and Del Poulet of New Britain kayeed Young Dixon of Bristol in the first.

Manchester Green's chances of winning the Herald Bowling League title were seriously injured last night when the strong West Sides took three out of four points from them. For some reason or other the Night Hawks failed to put in their appearance against the Sons of Italy resulting in a forfeit.

These two happenings put the Sons back in first place with a two point lead and only one night to go.

Just why the Night Hawks failed to bowl is not known. Of course it isn't the Sons of Italy's fault, yet it is pretty tough for a team to lose the lead on four points made from forfeit. It would square things if the Night Hawks forgot to show up against the Green next week. The Sons meet the Bon Ami next Thursday night and if the Green gets four points for forfeit, the Sons will have to score two points to tie the Green and three to win the title.

The West Sides hit 1,688 last night and only one man went under a hundred. They won the first two games, 578 to 545, 588 to 523 and lost the last, 532 to 522. The Bon Ami raised another point on the West Sides by taking four points from the Charter Oaks. Kebart rolled 355 against 300 for Wilkie so now is back in the lead in the individual averages. The Center Church won four more points from the Manchester Construction and the Independents won two from the Beethoven.

FAMOUS WALKER CELEBRATES

New York, March 15.—Ed and Payson Weston, the famous pedestrian, celebrated his ninetieth birthday today at his home in Brooklyn. Weston sprang into prominence as a professional walker in 1867 from Portland, Me., to Chicago in 1867 in less than 25 days. Forty years later he covered the 1,326 miles between the two cities again and cut several hours off his record. He walked across the continent the first time, once in 1909 and twice in 1910.

$20,000 FOR AN EYE

New York, March 15.—Mrs. Mary E. Bishop today was again in possession of a tidy sum of money. Mrs. Bishop, who once owned a box in the diamond horseshoe of the Metropolitan Opera House and who later became impoverished, was awarded $20,000 yesterday in her suit for $100,000 for the loss of an eye.

Mrs. Bishop sued the Godwin Construction Company. Her complaint states she was walking past a building being erected by the company when a blasting operation caused her to be struck in the eye by a piece of steel. After being forced to give up her box at the opera house, years ago, Mrs. Bishop obtained a job in the Metropolitan ballet.

GIVES LECTURE HERE

Man is a slave of habits instead of a master as he should be, Dr. Richard O. Waldman told a small audience at Tinker Hall yesterday afternoon on the subject of "Knowledge of Life." Dr. Waldman stressed the importance of the control of thought in addition to proper diet. He urged his listeners to be the real engineer of their bodies. Vitality is evil power minus obstructions, he said.

Dr. Waldman's advice in brief is that if one eats the proper food and lives the proper life, he need never have medical attention. He advised obeying the impulses of nature. Dr. Waldman is touring the country giving lectures on the science of life and practical philosophy.

Are hearts always trumps in the game of love? Aren't there times when the "Queen of Diamonds" takes the winning trick? When the girl with money--and the things that money will buy--has an unfair advantage over the girl whose party dress is last year's made over? Ruth Dewey Groves, one of America's most widely read serial story writers, has written a modern answer to this age-old problem in her latest serial, "Rich Girl—Poor Girl."

SCOUTS AT INAUGURAL

Boy Scouts, despite the inclement weather made a fine showing in the inaugural parade in Washington, last week both as a marching unit and in other participation in the great quadrennial demonstration. Position among the patriotic societies in the marching organizations was accorded the Boy Scouts of America with a unit of thirty-seven boys and adults, the Scouts being led by Daniel Carter Beard, National Scout Commissioner, who marched the whole way with the group, despite the fact that a heavy rain was falling practically throughout the whole period of the parade.

Boy Scouts of Washington Council assisted in many ways. Many Scouts were assigned as messengers, aides, and color guards with other organizations and still others with special First Aid experience, were assigned for First Aid work at the several stations established along the route from the Capitol to the White House.

The marching unit of Scouts carried two flags. A historic interest attached to the national colors, a silken flag presented in 1918 by President Woodrow Wilson to the Troop 20 of Washington for pre-eminence in sales of Third Liberty bonds. One such flag was presented to the troop in each state and the District of Columbia with the best record in the sale of Liberty bonds. The Boy Scout who led the selling group in Troop 20 was Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the President, and it was very largely the excellent record made by him that won the President's colors. The other flag carried was the National Council flag colors.

The colors were carried in a hollow square the front and sides of which were composed of Eagle Scouts of Washington and of Scout Region No. 2, while the rear line was made up of Washington Sea Scouts. Ahead of the boys marched Messrs. Colin H. Livingstone, Honorary Vice President and former president of the Boy Scouts of America, William T. Ellis, of Philadelphia, Chairman of Region No. 2, Harry Mohr, Scout Commissioner and E. L. Mattice a Deputy Commissioner, of Washington, D. C. Behind this group came The National Scout Commissioner and then the boys.

Eagle Scouts from Philadelphia, Swarthmore, Jenkintown and Elkins Park, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Wilmington, Del.; Richmond, and Norfolk, Va., comprised the representation in the marching contingent from Region 3 outside Washington. The color bearers were Eagle Scouts Chester Seymour, a son of the Regional Scout Executive and William Carroll representing the Regional office in Philadelphia.

Scholarship in Aviation. Scout Russell Jumonville of Troop No. 22, New Orleans, La., has been presented a scholarship to study aviation as first prize in a Model Aeroplane Contest held in that city. Scout Jumonville is 16 years old and lives at 7301 Leannette street.

The story of how the Scout won the Model Aeroplane Contest is an interesting one. In order to obtain a Merit Badge in Aviation he constructed a 36 in. flying model of the "Spirit of St. Louis." A long delay in passing the Merit Badge was necessitated by the absence of the Scout examiner in this Merit Badge subject from New Orleans. This gave Scout Jumonville time to work on his craft and bring it to perfection.

While still waiting for an examination in the Aviation Merit Badge, the Southern Aircraft Service offered a scholarship for the best flying model of an aeroplane. Scout Jumonville was one of the first of the contestants to enter his plane. His "Spirit of St. Louis" won against all competitors. The scholarship gives him a two year course in Aviation in one of the best schools of the south. It is under Government supervision and will graduate him with a Pilot's License in Commercial Aviation.

The Scout says that he is now having an easy time learning navigation as he has been for the past year Instructor in his Scout Troop in Compass work and Map making. Jumonville registered about four years ago in Troop No. 23, New Orleans Council of the Boy Scouts of America. After about a year and a half, this Troop became inactive and he transferred as a Second Class Scout to Troop No. 22 which had just then been organized. Rather a quiet fellow, he did not at once attract attention, but on the "hikes" his efficiency and cheerfulness soon brought about his promotion to Assistant Patrol Leader. After winning his First Class Badge he devoted his energy to Merit Badge work and passed Firemanship, Public Health, Personal Health, Book-binding, Leathercraft, Art Metal Work, Handicraft and Wool Carving before obtaining the Merit Badge in Aviation.

Troop 3. On Wednesday evening 17 Scouts and 11 recruits were present at the meeting of Troop 3. After repeating the Scout Oath, three boys passed their tenderfoot tests. A study period followed. Joseph Dean, field executive, was present and helped the Bob-White Patrol to get ideas for their knot board. After this period games were played, including crab race, leap frog, and wheelbarrow race. A hike was planned for Saturday, the troop leaving the Center at 1:15 p. m. The meeting closed by repeating the Scout Oath.

Troop 4. Troop 4 held its regular meeting at St. Mary's church with 22 scouts present. The Scout Oath and Laws were repeated and dues collected. Mr. Dean showed the troop how to play the "Elephant Race" and a good guessing game. While this was going on the squad of signallers practiced.

Troop 5. Some boys passed the Morse code, first aid, and named three constellations, part of the nature test. After studying and playing more games the meeting closed by repeating the Oath and Laws.

Troop 9. Troop 9 held its weekly meeting last Tuesday evening with an attendance of 30 Scouts. After the opening exercises several announcements were made, and the members of the troop who took places in the town meet were congratulated. Then a test passing period was held and five boys from Troop 1 helped by acting as examiners in Safety and First Aid. Scoutmaster Smith took over a class in the proper care of the knife and axe. At this point, members of the Troop Committee arrived and inspected the progress of the troop. After the test passing period it was necessary for the troop committee and the Scoutmaster to hold a meeting so the Scouts were put in charge of the Patrol Leaders for a game period. The games played were "Iron hunt" and "Indian wrestling." The Troop was dismissed rather early and the boys left the room in an orderly manner.

Notes. Through the help of Walter Leclere of the W. E. Hibbard Company, Troop 9 has purchased a supply of Flax Kite, cups and other troop equipment for both meetings and hikes, at a greatly reduced price. A supply of first-aid material was also purchased.

The meeting with Troop 1 for Monday evening has been called off. Scouts of Troop 3, please note. Troop 9 and Troop 1 went swimming together at the Rec on Wednesday at 5 o'clock. About 40 Scouts were present and a few races were held.

A hike will be held a week from Saturday.

BLINDS, OF COURSE. Tokio.—A house built of cellular glass plates, has been constructed in Japan by a native scientist. There are no windows; ventilation is provided by valves on the second floor.

There will be a hike on Saturday and all Scouts should be in full uniform at the Hollister street school at 8:30 a. m., with some grub and ten cents for cocoa.

Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock Troop 1 had swimming in the Rec pool with Troop 9 as guests. After a good swim the troops practiced contest events. The relay, 20 and 40 yard dashes, 20 yard backstroke and diving were practiced. George Stiles and Hewitt Wilson were the fastest swimmers and Franklin Smith the best splasher.

Troop 9 held its weekly meeting last Tuesday evening with an attendance of 30 Scouts. After the opening exercises several announcements were made, and the members of the troop who took places in the town meet were congratulated. Then a test passing period was held and five boys from Troop 1 helped by acting as ex-

DIVISION ONE, A. O. H., PLANS A BIG TIME

52nd Anniversary Social and Dance to Be Opened With All-Irish Concert Bill.

It's a fine big time that Division No. 1, A. O. H. is planning by way of celebration of its fifty-second anniversary at Cheney Hall tomorrow evening. It rates as a social and dance but there will be three quarters of an hour of concert, to start with, as Al Behrend's orchestra is to play the good old Irish airs from 8:15 to 9 o'clock.

After that there will be not only present-vogue dancing but the old time sort as well, with Prof. Cornelius Foley, prompter virtuoso, to "call the figures"—and how! John F. Foley heads the committee which has been working to make the affair one of the best ever given by the Division—and hopes to make it the very best. Aiding him are John F. Tierney, J. Ray-

STRIKE OF STUDENTS IN SPAIN IS SERIOUS

Refuse to Attend Classes to Show Dissatisfaction Over Rivera's Dictatorship.

Madrid, March 15.—The demonstrations of striking students throughout Spain has taken on the aspect of a new revolutionary movement in the country, the government admitted today in an official communique.

The communique declared that the government was confident of being able to cope with this latest evidence of antipathy to the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera. "Agitators are using the students and labor unions as tools," the communique said. "The movement is supported and encouraged by certain foreign elements whose only desire is to damage Spanish prestige for their own benefit."

Students throughout the country are refusing to attend classes because they are dissatisfied with the present government. There have been numerous clashes between students and the police.

WETHERSFIELD PASTOR SPEAKS AT NORTH END

Rev. George A. Tuttle Addresses Second Congregationalists In Church Night Program.

Rev. George A. Tuttle of the Wethersfield Congregational church was the speaker last evening at the last of the church night programs for the season at Second Congregational church. He was introduced by the pastor, Rev. F. C. Allen, as a brother of Superintendent Louis Tuttle of the church school.

people, and especially so last night since it was the church home of his brother and his family.

Mr. Tuttle called the attention of his hearers to the statement that "The roomiest place in the world is a man's mind," and his talk centered on this theme—Are we wise in our choice of the things which we store up in our minds? Another most roomy place is the heart. Each one has the opportunity of storing in his heart and mind the very best things in the world.

Musical numbers were provided during the evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Robbins. Mr. Robbins is the present bass of the church quartette, and with Mrs. Robbins sang two numbers. Each of them sang solos, Mrs. Robbins accompanying her husband and Mrs. Sidney French playing the piano when

Mrs. Robbins sang and for the duets, all of which were heartily applauded.

A trio of boys furnished music during the supper hour and gave another number during the evening. The personnel of the ensemble was Hewitt Wilson at the piano, Frank Simon and Harry Howland, violins. The church missionary committee had a table of Easter gifts, aprons, jello and other goods on sale last evening.

Mrs. George F. Borst was chairman of the Lenten supper, provided by attendants of the church in the southern section of the parish. In recognition of the approach of St. Patrick's day, the candles and napkin holders were green and the flowers used for centerpieces were jonquils, giving the tables a most springlike appearance. The meal consisted of macaroni and cheese.

TO HELP VIOLATORS OF NEW 5 AND 10 LAW.

New York, March 15.—"Worthy cases" which run afoul of the drastic provisions of the new Jones dry law will be aided free of charge by the Personal Liberty committee, which lawyers here, including four former assistant U. S. attorneys are organizing to combat the new statute.

Coincidental with this announcement today came the declaration by Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell that night clubs soon would be no more. Fear of the Jones law and its penalties is the reason given for the abandonment of the night resorts, Campbell says.

DEATHS ACCIDENTAL

Willman, Ic, March 15.—Coroner Arthur G. Bill, of Danielson, announced today that no inquest will be necessary in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Bingham, of Hartford, killed here yesterday when their automobile upset. The coroner has found the deaths were entirely accidental. The only witness, a Providence truck driver, saw the accident from a distance.

NEW ENGLAND BUSES HAVE FEW ACCIDENTS

Superintendent of Lines Here Today Says They Have Remarkably Clear Record.

Officials of the New England Transportation company are very zealous of their record in Connecticut in regard to accidents. A. E. Stewart, superintendent of the Connecticut lines was in Manchester today and told a Herald man that his company covers an average of 12,000 coach miles a day in Connecticut. They have in operation 104 motor buses in the state and require 125 operators.

In view of the fact that the drivers of these motor buses have to contend with all sorts of careless drivers they consider that their record in three years is wonderful. During that time they have had three fatal accidents in the state and all three have occurred within the last six months. Each operator before he is engaged must pass a thorough examination, have a good character and a perfect record.

Ledoux, driver of the bus which last night fatally injured Frank Merkel, has been driving through Manchester about six times a day for the last two years.

"Service backs Bond Bread quality"

C. H. TRYON, operating under his own name at 8 East Center St., has rounded out 15 years in his present location. "I've been a grocer all my life," Mr. Tryon says, "and I've learned one thing above all others—that in order to win and keep the confidence of all those who buy their daily food from me, I must sell them nothing but the best."

My idea of Bond Bread is quality, backed by service and supported by clean advertising. Each day that idea becomes clearer and clearer to me as I see the results of my Bond business.

I can give Bond to my customers with confidence because I know it will satisfy customers and that is what counts in business.

The service is excellent; I can always count on getting fresh Bond Bread from my salesman. And receiving service twice a day helps me a whole lot in getting fresh Bond Bread to my customers.

Therefore, my Bond Bread sales have grown so that I sell more Bond than all other kinds of bread put together.

C. H. TRYON

Washington, March 15.—The resignation of John Snook, of Idaho, as warden of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, will be accepted it was indicated today at the Department of Justice.

The intervention of Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, in behalf of Snook apparently has failed to compromise the feud between Snook and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, over the use of "under cover" agents as spies inside the Atlanta prison. The department, it was said, will back up Mrs. Willebrandt in the controversy, which means that Snook's "protest resignation" will be accepted.

A representative of the department told International News Service agents in federal penitentiaries was a "departmental policy" and that Mrs. Willebrandt was merely carrying it out when she sent a "spy" to the Atlanta penitentiary. The agent was discovered by Gaston B. Means, former government detective, who was serving a term in the prison.

Senator Borah meanwhile indicated he had exhausted his efforts to have Snook retained.

St. Patrick escaped slavery, became a priest and returned to help the people of Ireland. He died in 469.

St. Columba was born in Ireland in 521 and founded several monasteries there. He resolved to go to Scotland.

Among the famous early Christians who spread the faith in Great Britain and Ireland were St. Columba and St. Patrick. St. Patrick, whose memory is honored on March 17, was born probably in Scotland, of a noble family, in 396. In 411 he was captured and taken to Ireland as a slave.

Baltimore, Md., March 15.—Jack Hart, lifer at the Maryland penitentiary and Baltimore's arch criminal who twice escaped the prison walls and boasted "they will never keep me in," today fled his solitary cell.

He managed to unfasten the triple-locked cell door, climbed to the roof on an improvised rope and slid down to the street. He took Jack Bailey, another prisoner serving fifteen years for a holdup, with him but Bailey was captured when his rope broke.

Hart was sentenced to life for the murder of William B. Norris, a contractor's paymaster here in 1921. He

SENSE and NONSENSE

Autos increase the same way pedestrians survive—by leaps and bounds.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHT

There's more than one COACH on every TRAIN, but one is enough to cause a lot of trouble in letter golf. See if you can beat par ten and the solution is on another page.

Letter Golf grid with the words 'TRAIN' and 'COACH' filled in. The grid is 10 columns wide and 10 rows high.

THE RULES. 1—The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2—You change only one letter at a time. 3—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4—The order of letters cannot be changed. One solution is printed on Comic page.

INTERFERENCE

Yea, verily the life of the sinful is not the only one which is strewn with thorns. Try listening to a radio these days, when half a notch less than nothing brings three or four stations, and the jumble sounds something like this: "A social event long to be remembered... The bride wore... red jerseys with large numerals on the... best man... who dashed fifty yards on a long... infield fly to retire... the gridman of Coach Henry. The minister solemnly... struck up the lively tune of "Dixie"... and you are out... bounds on the 10-yard... liner to short... retiring the Yankees without... bridal bouquets... and a long fly... hit the line... while the crowd stood with bared heads... the organ softly pealed forth: "Here Comes the Bride"... and the groom... was carried from the field... without scoring a... single point after touchdown."

AN OLD STORY

She had dates most every night When she was young. She had proposals left and right When she was young. She turned them down but back they'd bound When she was young.

She had dates once in a while As she grew old. She missed chances by a mile As she grew old. She tried like hell but nobody fell As she grew old.

STRANGE DISH Smith: "What is this stuff?" Jones: "My wife was trying a baked bean recipe by radio, jolted the wrong knob and tuned in on soulash!"

Aren't you going to marry that pretty girl after all? Unfortunately she has an impediment in her speech. "How sad! What is it?" "She can't say yes."

George—What makes you think she's a telephone operator? William—I said "Hello" twice—no answer! "You are charged with being intoxicated," said the judge to a man before him. "What is your name?" "My name is Angus McPherson MacNabb," replied the prisoner. "And who bought you the whiskey?" asked the judge.

Then the young bride has to roll up her sleeves and get busy with the weekly wash the honeymoon has set.

About the only thing scarcer than hen's teeth are pretty girls who don't know it.

The neighbors who play their radio or phonograph until midnight or longer are the ones who complain about a neighbor operating a lawn mower at seven o'clock in the morning.

After we see the way some institutions and places of business are conducted we never are surprised when we hear of them being a failure.

THE TNYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Three Tnymites, far underground, were hoping Clowney could be found. They'd dropped down through a deep-sunk shaft, and now were in the dark. Said Coppy, "Well, I hope that we can shortly set poor Clowney free. No doubt, if he is safe, he thinks this all is quite a lark." "But we are all scared, there's no doubt. I'll be real glad when we get out. The air is getting stuffy and it's feeling rather hot. This is a coal mine, I'll just bet. I've never seen so much coal yet. Let's start to move around a bit. To stand still's tommy rot." "You're right," said Carry, with a sigh. "If Clowney's really right near by, it's up to us to find him, so we can't just idly stand. You see, he may be in a trap, or else just taking quite a nap. We never will find out until this whole big cave is scanned." So, off they started, by some walls, imagining they heard queer calls. We'll leave them for a moment, and return to Clowney's side. He knew that he was blocked in tight within the cave, but quite all right. He couldn't find an exit place, no matter how he tried. "Course, looking 'round made him tired out, and now there wasn't any snuff but that just a little nap he'd snaked, had done him heaps of good. Thought he, "I wish I had a pick. I know 'twould come in very slick. I'd hack my way out of this cave. I'm pretty sure I could." Just then, a coal car came in sight, right underneath a lantern light. It stood on tiny little tracks. Said Clowney, "This is grand. There's nothing gained, if nothing's tried. I'll hop aboard and take a ride." And then he saw the car's shows, not knowing where he'd land. (Clowney is still lost in the next story.)
