

MARSHAL FOCH IS DEAD IN PARIS

One of Greatest Soldiers of Modern Times Passes Away in His 78th Year; Had Been Long Ill—Family at Bedside When End Comes—Was Generalissimo of Allied Armies in the World War.

Paris, March 20.—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, one of the greatest soldiers of modern times and generalissimo of the allied armies in the field at the end of the Great War, died this afternoon after a long illness. He suffered from heart and kidney trouble aggravated by a recent attack of grippe and general physical debility. Nine doctors have been attending the marshal from time to time since his condition became serious several months ago.

Marshal Foch died at 5:55 o'clock this afternoon. Members of his family were at the bedside. He was 78 years old. It had been evident for the past 48 hours that he could not recover. His strength waned rapidly although he seemed to rally briefly last night. The marshal was in his 78th year. Defeated Germans. The death of Marshal Foch moves one of the outstanding figures developed by the great war. Victory over the Germans in the last year of the conflict was attributed solely to his military genius. He was ever a quiet, simple mannered man of retiring disposition, shunning public attention. It was this shyness which made many misjudge his military qualifications.

After the war the heavy burden of seeing that the military clauses of the Treaty of Versailles were executed devolved upon Marshal Foch. He was also sent to Poland to strengthen the military position of that country when it was seen that Russia was inevitable. Despite his manifold duties and the constant call upon him to attend public functions and make speeches his health seemed normal until last autumn, when he began to fail.

The marshal had always lived a retired life and it was some weeks before the public at large learned that he was ill. These rallies became less frequent. During this morning it was seen that the marshal was losing strength rapidly. Members of the family were notified that a relapse appeared near at hand from which the marshal might not recover.

Death Expected. Consequently the death of the marshal did not take either his family or his staff by surprise. They expected the end but hoped that it would be delayed as long as possible. Just 24 hours ago a member of the marshal's staff said he did not think the patient would live to see the end of the week.

Marshal Foch himself never seemed to realize the seriousness of his condition. On one occasion he called for the newspapers and when he had glanced through them he fixed the chief of his doctors with a stern eye and asked: "Am I really this sick?"

Unusual Appetite. A circumstance that puzzled the doctors was the continued appetite of the patient even after his condition became critical. The soldier had always lived simply, his meals were of the lightest. He never drank liquor. He probably received more invitations to banquets and dinners than any other man in France up to the time he had to take to his bed, but he never tasted the rich food and wines set before him. He would toy with a piece of roll or perhaps have a little thin soup, but passed up all the highly-seasoned meats. His favorite dish was a plain omelet with bread and butter and a glass of water.

GOOD'S CABLEGRAM. Washington, March 20.—Secretary of War Good today sent the following cablegram to the French Minister of War Paul Painleve, when he learned of Marshal Ferdinand Foch's death: "Our Army mourns with its former comrades the loss of that gallant and illustrious son of France, Marshal Ferdinand Foch. We share your sorrow as once we shared with you the distinction of service in a common cause under his able guidance."

Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the Army, and a comrade at arms, sent this message to Marshal Foch, inspector general of the French Army: "On behalf of the Army of the United States I extend to the Army of France deepest and most sincere condolence on the death of Marshal Ferdinand Foch. Veterans of our Army will ever hold in gratitude and reverence the memory of that great soldier under whose illustrious leadership Americans were privileged to assist in the restoration of peace to the world."

5 AND 10 LAW STARTS WAR IN GANGLAND

Liquor Prices Skyrocket as Guns Roar Between Bootleggers—Man and Wife Shot to Death.

New York, March 20.—The underworld began shooting it out today.

Wholesale liquor prices have skyrocketed to double the amount asked before the Jones law was passed. Police estimated today that more than 700 speakeasies have closed their doors voluntarily. The reduction in potential customers for the illicit traffic coupled with the high profit for liquor runners who will take the risk has caused a "dog eat dog" fight between the two largest beer running syndicates in New York.

War Begins. The uptown gang and the downtown gang have opened a battle to the death—winner to take all—which means a monopoly in the control of the liquor gateway to the east.

John Sacco, an underworld character, and his wife, were found shot to death today. They were crumpled behind a specially constructed steel door in their home in Queens. The killers had ripped down the steel door which Sacco had built to protect himself from such an end. The bullet ridden body of James Fontio was found on the sidewalk in Greenwich village, not far from Speakeasy Row.

Police Implicated. The possible connection of members of the police department with the bootlegging racket was being investigated today following the gun battle between Brooklyn rum runners which cost the life of a policeman off duty.

Patrolman Daniel J. Maloney in civilian clothes was killed by Sergeant Charles McCarthy. Police Commissioner Whelan said that Maloney "certainly was not doing police duty at the time of the fight and he had no right to be where he was when he was shot." Four weapons were found on the body of the dead policeman.

Charles "Yannie" Higgins, alleged millionaire aeroplane bootlegger, was arrested in connection with the shooting. Two other men wounded at the scene also were held.

ARREST OF COUNT CAUSES SENSATION

One of Germany's Notables Is Accused of Murdering His Rich Father.

Berlin, March 20.—The arrest of Count Christian Friedrich von Stolberg-Wernigerode at Jannowitz, Silesia, on the charge of murdering his father at the ancestral castle at Jannowitz, is becoming the biggest sensation of recent years in Germany.

The police were investigating today to determine if other members of the family were implicated. The count, who is 27 years old and heir to the vast estates of this wealthy family, claims that his father was killed by burglars.

The count's father was killed with a dum-dum bullet fired from his own hunting rifle. Head Blown Off. The body of the elder man was found seated on a couch with part of his head blown off. He had evidently been shot from behind with a rifle that had been removed from an arm's rack.

When the police began to investigate the son told them that burglars entered the castle and that he himself was knocked insensible while trying to defend his father and himself. The two men were alone at the time, the women members of the family having retired for the night.

DAUGHERTY CONTINUES STORY OF HIS CAREER

Was Worth Million When He Took Office and Was Worth Less When He Left, He Says.

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles based on an exclusive interview with Harry M. Daugherty, formerly a member of the Harding Cabinet.

Sarasota, Fla., March 20.—"I never did anything while I was in public office, as a servant of the American people, that I would not do again. I was worth a million dollars when I took the office of attorney general of the United States. I was not worth that much when I left the office, and I am not worth that much now."

Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general in the Cabinet of the late President Warren G. Harding, made this statement in an exclusive interview with International News Service today as, for the first time, he made a detailed defense of his record as a public official. It will be recalled that the conduct of his office was investigated by a Senate committee, and that the close of his public career was marked by a bitter battle on Mr. Daugherty's part to uphold his reputation for honesty.

PUBLIC HEARING ON TRAFFIC LAW

Meeting Tomorrow at Capitol to Discuss a Uniform State System.

A proposed state uniform traffic law, the provisions of which will affect vehicular and pedestrian traffic control and direction, in every town in Connecticut, will be considered at a public hearing before the Legislative committee on motor vehicles tomorrow afternoon. The hearing will be in Room 72 at the Capitol at 1:30 o'clock.

This bill was drafted for the Motor Vehicle Department in consultation with town authorities and the Chiefs of Police constituting the State Association of Chiefs of Police and is raised by the committee as a substitute for a bill presented in the Legislature.

As the first step in uniformity the bill designates the "traffic authority" which is to enforce its provisions in the various cities and towns. It proposes that this authority "shall mean the board of police commissioners of any city, town or borough, or the chief of police, superintendent of police, or similar official by whatever title known, of any city, town or borough that has no board of police commissioners, but which has a regularly appointed police force of ten or more men."

GERMANY SURE DEBT DISPUTE IS NEAR END

Whatever Settlement Is Decided Upon It Will Reduce Teutons' Burden for the Present.

Berlin, March 20.—A high diplomatic reputation authority, in constant touch with the Paris conference, told International News Service, today, there is a "90 per cent certainty that the conference will reach a permanent settlement of the reparation issue."

He added: "The main remaining difference consists of 500,000,000 marks annually, but these last 500,000,000 marks are the hardest. A compromise is possible, however, by graduating the severity of transfer protection so that the top parts of the annuities would be paid only if currency were absolutely unaffected; and even if, thereby, the value of the top sums becomes problematical."

"After the size of the annuities is fixed the battle will start over the number of annuities."

It is becoming apparent that, whatever the settlement is, it will reduce the German burden for the present at least.

It is understood that Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German reparation, has offered so far, a total annuity of 1,500,000,000 marks of which up to 1,200,000,000 marks must be paid outright without any transfer protection of currency, while the rest is to be put under slight transfer protection.

If Dr. Schacht should be compelled to go higher than this figure he will demand the most drastic transfer protection for the additional sums, making the payment of these larger totals dependent, for instance, upon the means to enable Dr. Schacht to agree to such increased sums.

Reparation Bank. The plan for a reparation bank and graduated transfer protection was the result of the discussions for adequate currency protection. Germans figure the plan for a reparation bank enabled them to increase the unprotected annuity by upwards of 100,000,000 marks, but countries, or upon certain increases in German exports.

Germans insist upon limiting the annuities to 37 years, but might be induced to go further upon assurance of the German discount rate remaining the same as in other countries, or upon certain increases in German exports.

The Germans hold that annuities totaling about 2,000,000,000 marks are wholly unacceptable. Dr. Schacht's original offer of only $800 million is based upon the allied demand for abolition of all transfer protection.

That was the reason why the experts dropped discussion of figures at the beginning and sought to reach a settlement by providing ways and means for Germany to make the payments, first, leaving an agreement upon the total of reparations until last, because it was recognized that the present capital value of the annuities due after forty years might be paid off through commercialization of the whole German reparations debt.

WATCHMAN SHOOTS AT TWO BURGLARS

Finds Them Trying to Force Open Doors at Greenwich Home of Dr. McCarthy.

Greenwich, March 20.—Police today were investigating a mysterious attack early this morning on the home of Dr. James S. McCarthy, who two months ago figured in a sensational contest over the will of his wife, Harry Sparks, outside watchman at the McCarthy place, 88 North street, surprised two men trying to jimmy their way into the house. Sparks and the pair immediately began a revolver duel, the men fleeing into a clump of shrubbery and finally disappearing after Sparks had emptied and reloaded his gun several times. Investigation later revealed blood stains in the shrubbery.

Meanwhile Thomas Sheridan, inside watchman, sent for police. A set of burglars' tools was found outside the house at the spot where the invaders were surprised at work, but there were no marks of automobiles in the neighborhood, it was said.

The reason for the attack was unknown but a suspicion existed that the men were seeking to kidnap Dr. McCarthy's two-year old son.

BOY SEES PAL DROWN; KEEPS MUM ABOUT IT

Two Women Now Say They Are Pilot's Wife

Newark, N. J., March 20.—Two women today claimed to be the wife of Lou Foote, pilot of the ill-starred Ford monoplane, which crashed here Sunday with fatal results to 14 teenagers. Foote, the only survivor of the accident, the worst in American aviation history, is fighting for his life in St. James hospital.

"Mrs. Regina Foote," who claimed to be the flyer's spouse until she was branded a "fake" yesterday by Mrs. Lola Spears Foote, who lives in Turlock, Cal., with her 6-year-old daughter, Betty Lou Foote, was in seclusion today after hospital authorities had declined to allow her to see Foote again. She refused to discuss her marital affairs with Foote or to comment on the other woman's story. The California woman is said to be preparing to fly here to her husband's bedside.

The investigation into the causes of the air tragedy continued today as a result of Foote's story, told to hospital attaché in a moment of consciousness yesterday. The pilot believes he made a safe landing and that none of his passengers was injured.

His story indicated that he did not see the sand car upon which the plane was split in two. Funeral services were to be held today for the victims of the crash.

CALLES LEADS FEDERALS AS REBS. RETREAT

Army of 28,000 With Artillery and Planes Are Marching on the Capital of Chihuahua.

A Mexican federal army of 28,000 infantry and cavalry, supported with artillery and airplanes, and personally directed by General Plutarco Elias Calles is moving northward from Torreon, today, in pursuit of Gen. Escobar's rebel army.

The two main objectives of the Federals are Chihuahua City, capital of the state of Chihuahua, and Juarez, the chief Mexican border port, opposite El Paso.

Gen. Escobar's insurgents retreated northward from Escalon after Federal airmen had bombed rebel troop trains at that place. They were reported today to be near Jimenez.

Mexico City reported that Gen. Calles entered Torreon last night, establishing temporary headquarters there.

CROWN PRINCE OLAF TO WED TOMORROW

Carnival Air Fills Oslo in Preparation for Ceremony; Royalty Arrives.

Oslo, March 20.—A carnival air pervaded this city today as more notable arrivals to attend the marriage of Crown Prince Olaf of Norway to Princess Marthe of Sweden tomorrow.

Among the latest arrivals were the Swedish Crown Prince and Princess. They were warmly greeted by a large throng at the station. All through the day festive crowds strolled through the gaily decorated streets.

Seven Year Old Ernest Gilbert Loses Life in Center Springs Park Pond This Noon; Mother's Inquiry to Teacher as to His Whereabouts Discloses Tragedy; Body Recovered Over Two Hours Later.

Ernest Gilbert, seven year old son of Mrs. Lillian Gilbert of 27 New street, was drowned just before noon today in the pond in Center Springs park. The youngster took a short cut across the ice and broke through when returning to his home from the Lincoln school to get his dinner. He was accompanied by Russell Graham, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Graham of 14 Edgerton street. Graham did not go on to the ice, taking another path that leads up from the pond. The Gilbert boy's body was recovered at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Young Graham saw his companion go through the ice and watched him waving his arms in his struggle to reach the surface of the pond, but failed to report the tragedy to anyone. The Graham boy, either through fright or through his inability to sense the seriousness of the affair, went to his home and lunched without mentioning what he had seen. A report that he had told of the accident at home, and that no action was taken there, was denied by the Grahams later.

Dinner Awaited. When young Gilbert failed to appear for his dinner Mrs. Gilbert, who works in the silk mills, went into the yard and called for him. Failing to get a response Mrs. Gilbert gave her nine year old daughter, Evelyn, a note to Miss Madeline Brown, assistant principal, at the Lincoln school, asking her to call the boy home for his dinner. Then the mother returned to work, having arranged with the boy's aunt, to give him his dinner if he returned. Dinner was still awaiting Ernest's homeward when a Herald reporter told the family of the tragedy this afternoon.

Teacher Earns Story. When little Evelyn Gilbert took the note to Miss Brown at the Lincoln school she immediately reported the boy's disappearance to police headquarters. Then Miss Brown began questioning young Gilbert's chums. She learned of the drowning through young Graham. Hurrying to police headquarters Miss Brown told the Graham boy's story. Immediately Lieutenant William Barron and Patrolman Rudolph Wirtalla secured the department's grappling hooks and headed for the pond.

Charles Griffith, superintendent of Cheney Brothers' outdoor labor, was reached and he rushed a boat to the pond. After grappling for about 15 minutes the body was located and brought to the surface. The point where the drowning occurred is in a cove of the park skating pond. The shore line bends and in cutting across the ice the walk towards Edgerton is made shorter. This perhaps induced young Gilbert to take to the ice. The ice is safe for a good distance out but young Gilbert struck rotten ice as he was over half way across to the other point of the cove. The water at the point the ice broke is about ten feet deep, the bottom could not be touched with an oar from the boat.

Dr. Is Present. Dr. D. C. Y. Moore was present when the body was located. He said the youngster had been dead about two hours. Lieutenant Barron called Holloran's and the body was removed to their funeral parlors.

The first the Gilbert family knew of the tragedy was when a Herald reporter called on the boy's aunt, Mrs. John McFarland, of 25 1/2 New street. Mrs. McFarland had dinner ready for the youngster. She immediately called Cheney Brothers so that the mother might be informed. The funeral arrangements are incomplete as yet.

COOLIDGE TO VISIT NEW YORK TONIGHT

But Ex-President Will Not Divulge the Reason for His Trip.

Northampton, Mass., March 20.—Ex-President Calvin Coolidge refused today to discuss his visit to New York this evening.

Reservations were made for him on the 8:10 p. m. train, due in New York at 7:40 p. m.

Reports from New York that the former president was going there to confer with some of those who have made business propositions to him, including an insurance company, lack confirmation from the Coolidge house or law office.

Mr. Coolidge refused to be interviewed on that or any subject. The former White House limousine which the ex-president used during his last year as president and which he is purchasing from the government has arrived and is housed in a downtown public garage.

rebel cause in El Paso circulated a sensational report that Gen. Calles has left for central Mexico as the result of "fresh revolutionary disturbances at Leon and Guamajuato."

There is no official confirmation of any of the rebels' claims. If the rebel leaders flee across the border into the United States, President Emilio Portes Gil plans to ask their extradition on the ground they rifled the vaults of various branches of the Bank of Mexico.

SIERGE OF MAZATLAN. Nogales, Sonora, March 20.—Definite word regarding the reported siege of Mazatlan had not reached rebel headquarters here early today, although Gen. Francisco Borquez waited through the night for telegraphic advices from Rebel Generals Ferris and directing the Mazatlan campaign.

Borquez informed International News Service that Gen. Francisco Manzo, second in command of the insurgent armies, had joined the Turbe forces on the outskirts of Mazatlan and was probably participating in operations here.

The Naco, Sonora, sector remained quiet today, with Rebel Gen. Faustino Topete continuing to direct the somewhat desultory troop movements toward that area from Nogales.

Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, loyal governor of Lower California, announced in Nogales, Ariz., that Gen. Luces Gonzalez had taken command of the Federal garrison at Naco, relieving Gen. Augustin Olachea, who assertedly was mistrusted by the central government.

Denies Federal Report. Borquez in command of the Nogales rebel garrison, denied the Federal report that rebel troops under the Yaqui General Ramon Yocupicio left Agua Prieta, Sonora, and were moving toward Naco.

Many reports received by the government of further defections from the rebel ranks and disorderly conditions in the areas under rebel control.

Officials close to the President are sure that the rebel leaders will eventually seek refuge across the United States border. In that event President Portes Gil will ask for their extradition, he made it clear yesterday.

Federal aviators who bombed Escalon where Gen. Escobar had set up his headquarters after retreating from Torreón, reported that a large part of the rebel force had moved to Jimenez about 30 miles northwest.

At dawn this morning, Gen. J. Andres Almazan, leading the vanguard of the Federal forces which seek to catch up to the rebels and draw them into battle, was about 30 miles north of Torreón and about 70 miles south of Escalon.

Gen. Almazan, who is reputed to be the finest cavalry commander in Mexico, had about 12,000 men under him most of them mounted. His force is believed to be the most formidable concentration of cavalry seen in Mexico since the late Pan-

Wisdom teeth are always bothering somebody or other. Take the case of Kenneth Beer, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Beer of Highland street.

Beer is a basketball player and has played some very hard games during the past season without being injured. Today he is in the Memorial hospital as a result of catching cold in a wisdom tooth the night the Trade school team got "stuck in the mud" on the way to Simsbury. The jaw was lanced this morning but no infection was discovered.

cho Villa assembled 25,000 for a battle at Celaya.

Carry Machine Guns. Almazan's division was equipped for any emergency which might arise. It included 40 machine gun platoons, each platoon having four machine guns, and several mountain batteries. The latter will be utilized if the rebels elect to make a stand at the Batchimba Pass, thirty miles south of Chihuahua City.

Gen. Calles plans to throw the full strength of his army against the retreating rebels with Chihuahua City as his first objective. He then intends to subjugate the rebels in Sonora by a drive against Juarez.

Calles' Program. In a midnight dispatch to President Portes Gil, Gen. Calles stated that he planned to leave behind only enough troops in Torreón to adequately garrison the city and protect his line of communications.

The President's spokesman revealed that Gen. Calles' campaign will be one of construction as well as subjugation.

The secretary of war plans a wide front extending over as many towns and cities as possible. He will install garrisons and civil government in each of these taken from rebel control thus winning the populace back within the fold of provisional government.

By this plan he hopes to give his line of communications absolute protection while disposing completely of all rebellious elements along his line of march.

Officials close to the President are sure that the rebel leaders will eventually seek refuge across the United States border. In that event President Portes Gil will ask for their extradition, he made it clear yesterday.

The subject of the Christian Endeavor meeting on Sunday evening was "How does the church help us to lead a Christian life." Senior leader, Miss Alice Dogart, Junior leader, Lydiabell Strong.

The Golden Rule club will meet on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Hostesses, Mrs. Albert Beebe and Miss Florence Moore.

Among those who attended the International Flower Show at New York City last week were Mr. and Mrs. James Wood and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Blankenship.

Mrs. G. W. Smith who suffered a shock about a month ago, is not so well at this writing.

Mrs. Sybil Jones gave a shower on Friday evening for her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lee in honor of her approaching marriage to William Siskis of Manchester. About 30 were present.

BOY SCOUT BANQUET

Troop 1 Boy Scouts which is affiliated with Second Congregational church, will hold its second annual banquet Friday evening at 6:30 in the church school room. It is expected that every Scout in the troop, and there are 40 of them, will be accompanied by his father.

The supper and program is being sponsored by the Men's club of the church and all fathers and sons, in the congregation, will be welcome to attend.

John Jensen is chairman of the supper committee and it goes without saying that the boys and their dads will have a hot substantial supper. Mr. Jensen's clam chowder and stew are famous, but it won't be a Lenten menu either.

Others on the committee include George Borst, Irving Campbell, Calvin Davison, Rev. F. C. Allen, and Clarence Sadronitski. Mr. Borst, who has the program in charge, secured Thomas Maxwell's Mandolin club to furnish music and John Reinhart to give an electrical exhibit sure to entertain the boys and their fathers as well.

The speaker of the evening will be the well-known superintendent of Hartford's public schools, Fred D. Wish, Jr., whose subject will be "Boys." Mr. Campbell is in charge of ticket distribution.

DAUGHERTY CONTINUES

Daugherty declared, "I go to sleep promptly at night. I am out of bed in the life and I do not know that I ever will return. I never think of the past. I think only of today, and tomorrow. I harbor no bitterness against any man, even my enemies, and everybody knows Harry Daugherty was never afraid to make enemies."

During the interview, Daugherty talked affectionately of his aged mother, showing a letter which indicated that she still was vigorous despite her age. And he mentioned the fact that for twenty-five years he watched over an invalid wife, although he took no credit for doing so. He gave the impression that, after all, he wasn't quite so "hard boiled" as some people imagine.

"If you are all right here," said Daugherty, putting his hand on her forehead, "you are all right. The great thing for any man is to know he has a clean conscience and that he has done his duty regardless of consequence. I have been trusted with as large amount as any man in this country."

"The attorney general didn't handle the money when I was in office. I organized the Department of Justice so that from five to fifty persons knew what I was doing all the time. I did it as a precaution—as a matter of safety."

Did Not Drink

"I resolved that I'd not take a drink while prosecuting the dry laws. And I did not until I became a private citizen again."

"All I ask is that the American people consider my record. I am proud of my record. The attorney general's office is the easiest of all to run as far as peace of mind is concerned. He has to ask himself but one question 'what is the right of it?'"

Public's Question

"The question as far as the public is concerned about me is what kind of an attorney general was this man? Was he lied about? Was he a decent man as men go? Was he honest or was he a crook? The record stands forever. It is there for anyone to see."

Daugherty hit his pipe. He was being interviewed in his winter home in Hotel El Verano. He proceeded in this manner:

"I never craved power. I was just pushed along, up from boyhood as the winds of time, fortune and misfortune, carried me. I always made it a policy to help someone else rather than consider my own interests first. I wanted to be a lawyer, not a politician, but through force of circumstances I became both."

Had Many Enemies

"Hardly any man in the country has been assailed with the vigor I have been. I made plenty of enemies. That is why. Any man who is a positive character is bound to make them."

"I made enemies during the railroad shopmen's strike when I went to Chicago, after consulting no one but the President, and obtained the injunction that enabled the mail trains to run in spite of the strike. I made more enemies, and perhaps more bitter enemies, because of my prosecutions under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act."

"I was the first attorney general who prosecuted under the Sherman law. It so happened that I prosecuted several millionaires. Now, I have nothing against capital but I was determined to do my duty."

"That was why I was attacked and investigated. They struck at me below the belt. They deliberately misled the American people."

Daugherty shifted his huge frame in his chair as he made the observation that "you can't make everybody like you." He said, he had the reputation of liking a good fight and he thought that the name Daugherty had a harsh sound to it, that it suggested a big, strapping combative person when linked to him. As a matter of fact, he said his was a kindly nature. He has educated thirty or forty boys, taking some of them out of penitentiaries, and practically all of them have made good.

Daugherty told of incidents in his tempestuous career, relating how one time in Ohio he had personally stood against a mob of 300 who were crying out to lynch him.

"You can't be a crook, standing over there with the storm lashing you," declared Daugherty. "Somehow they always wanted to get personal with me." When it was intimated to him that he had plenty of courage, Daugherty took issue, saying:

"No, it is not courage. It's sporting blood, I guess. I am the most patient, impetuous man you ever saw. I never get mad in a scrap."

All Against Government

"Everybody is against the government of the United States, and you have to stand against them. I never could decide a case in favor of an ex-attorney general, and I am sorry about that. I have taken a stand against people without thought of consequences when I believed I was right. I am not surprised at having such a grand collection of enemies."

Daugherty displayed a book that had been sent to him by James M. Beck, who was solicitor general under Daugherty, and who is now a Congressman. The volume was entitled "A Man Unafraid," The Life of John Charles Fremont. On the fly leaf Beck had written:

"To my friend, Harry M. Daugherty, who has proved himself a man unafraid when cruelly subjected to unjust attacks," and he said he liked it.

(Editor's Note: The third and final article of International News Services interview with Mr. Daugherty will be published tomorrow.)

President Hoover contemplates a special session for April 15 on farm relief and tariff. That looks like he's copying the fraternities' hell-week idea with the legislators catching it.

CHARTER REVISION
Consolidation of Libraries

Why should Manchester consolidate its libraries? For no other reason than that more people may be able to use all of the books.

There are at present some 30,000 books in Town owned by the two libraries and the schools; but they are confined within district boundaries where the same book might conceivably be used by seven people in a year, in the average it is only used by five. If the books were brought to a common center, branches established in all of the schools and stations for the order and delivery of books in the centers of business and work, we could make the same amount of capital and expense go 33 1-3% further.

The object of a library is not to get books stored on shelves, but to get them out into the hands of the largest number of people possible. In other words, we are not interested in libraries for storage, but for circulation. Quicker "turnovers" increase profits from libraries as from everything else. Also, libraries like everything else require expert supervision and buying control. This can be done more effectively for two libraries than for one.

H. S. STUDENTS RATE
HIGH IN CONTESTS

Commercial Course Produces First Prize Winner In Taking Shorthand.

Students from the commercial department of the Manchester High School made an excellent showing in the recent contest held by the State Commercial Educators' Association in the Stamford High school, which speaks well for the high standard of the local institution. Pitted against a field of over a hundred students from more than thirty schools from various parts of the State, the small group of Manchester boys and girls came through with flying colors.

Miss Julia Selwitz won first prize in the 80-word shorthand contest. Taking dictation at the rate of 80 words per minute for a quarter of an hour, Miss Selwitz made a record that was not equalled by any other student in the state. She didn't make an error. Miss Ruth Helwig and Miss Gladys Harrison tied for fourth prize in this contest and in first year typewriting. Merle Tomlinson, Francis Strickland and Robert Lewis all made good ratings. Their exact position is not yet known but it was below third place. These students are instructed by Miss Esther Nuzum and Miss Josephine Trافتon.

Gustave Anderson, pupil of Francis G. Lee, won third prize in the state bookkeeping contest which was won by Frank Miller of the local school last year.

WAPPING

Mrs. Emma J. Skinner of this place went last Sunday to spend a week with her nephew, Lemuel Robins and family of Manchester.

Taxes on the assessment of October 1, 1928 of the Town of South Windsor, are due on April 1st, 1929, and are payable to Frederick L. Porter, collector. If the above tax is not paid by May 1, 1929, interest will be charged from the date due.

The next meeting of the South Windsor Wednesday afternoon club will be held at the Wood Memorial Library, on March 27. A play will be presented by the club members.

The Pioneers of Y. M. C. A. boys will meet as usual at their club rooms near the parsonage on Wednesday evening.

The choir rehearsed on Wednesday evening at the Federated church for the Easter music, at 8 o'clock.

The "younger set" will give an invitation bridge in the new Wood Memorial Library, Wednesday evening, March 20. Refreshments will be served and prizes awarded.

The directors of the Wapping cemetery association held their meeting at the Salem Memorial Library on Monday evening. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Walter N. Foster as president; Mrs. W. W. Grant as secretary; Levi T. Dewey as treasurer, and the following were voted in as committee on grounds, Harry W. Snow, George A. Collins and Thomas Herriage, and the financing committee are: Mrs. W. W. Grant, Charles J. Dewey, and Edward P. Collins.

A meeting of the Friendly Indians will be held on Thursday afternoon at their club rooms.

ABOUT TOWN

"Leave it to Dad," a three-act play, will furnish a full evening's entertainment Friday night at the Second Congregational church. Between the acts music will be furnished by Hewitt Wilson at the piano and Harry Howland, violinist. Home made candy will be sold and the proceeds of the play will be used to replenish the treasury of the Christian Endeavor society. Mrs. F. C. Allen has been directing the play.

Young people in the cast and several of them had experience in amateur theatricals. Albert Tuttle had the leading part in "The Poor Nut," a play given with good success this season by the Town Players. Others in the play will be Miss Florence Strickland, Miss Ruth McMenemy, Miss Susan Allen, Miss Lucille Grant, Roger Winton, David Williams and Gordon Tuttle.

All members of the various women's classes at the School street Rec are requested to report tonight for gym practice in connection with the coming annual exhibition. Miss Viola Laonde will be in charge. The class meets from 7:45 until 8:30.

"The ladies that just passed were Mrs. John Doe and her niece. Her niece is rather good looking."

DIES AT OTTAWA HOME

Local Physician Makes Fast Motor Trip, Reaches Bedside Before the End.

Dr. D. M. Caldwell has returned from Ottawa, where he was called a week ago Monday night by the fatal illness of his mother, Mrs. Caldwell had been in poor health for ten years, but the sudden turn came unexpectedly. Dr. Caldwell left by automobile on receiving the call and arrived at his former home on Tuesday.

He found his mother in an unconscious condition and her death came on Thursday. She was buried on Saturday. She was 68 years old.

would wait until Connecticut people were more nearly ready to look with favor on the idea of having a speedway for their autos.

The House rejected a number of other bills today calling for appropriations for dirt road construction, proponents of which had withdrawn in order to pave the way for other types of appropriation. One called for a payment of $3,000 to each town or expenditures on unimproved roads, another wanted five per cent of the automobile fees spent on dirt roads, and the others wanted straight appropriations of one million dollars annually to be divided among the towns. The roads, rivers and bridges committee still has another batch of dirt road bills before it.

Rejected Bills

Other bills rejected by the House today include one permitting counsel to comment on failure of accused to testify in his own behalf. Under the present law the counsel can not comment in such an event. Another rejected bill would have increased the pay of Southington Town Court officials. Still others were: Making trustees of the Morgan school fund of Clinton part of the town school board; repealing the charter of the Thomas Street Evangelical Society of New London; a number of bills concerning mechanics liens and fiduciary liens.

Favorable reports follow, including a Redding road in the trunk line system; including the road from New Fairfield to Sherman in the same system; establishing a town court in Windsor; providing for recording of judgment liens; revising laws concerning state paupers; authorizing the Seth Thomas Clock Co. to increase capital.

Bills Passed

Mrs. Helen E. Lewis, of Stratford, presided over the House during the calendar business, which developed to be the heaviest of the present session. Among bills passed were the following:

Authorizing the Century Indemnity Co. of Hartford, to increase its capital to ten millions; creating a single assessor for Danbury, replacing a board; including veterans of Indian campaigns among those receiving various exemptions from the state; setting a salary of $600 for the judge and $5 a day for the deputy of the Waterford Town Court; prohibiting officers and directors of the Mechanics Savings Bank of Winsted, and the Farmington Savings Bank from borrowing from the banks in which they hold office; providing a $600 salary for the judge and $100 for the deputy and $500 for the prosecutor of the Seymour Town Court; establishing a method of procedure for the New London Small Claims Court; increasing from $500,000 to $1,000,000 the capital of the Merchants Trust Company of Waterbury; authorizing the fish and game commission to issue permits to train hunting dogs during the closed season; prohibiting fishing through the ice in Cream Hill lake, Cornwall; authorizing the fish and game commission to suspend fishing and hunting licenses for law violations; authorizing the bank commissioner to apply for release against institutions in this jurisdiction to prevent fraud and remedy unsafe conditions; limiting the time for organizing a bank or trust company to one year; authorizing the training of racoon dogs in closed seasons; prescribing the nets and equipment to be used by commercial fishermen; empowering Superior Court judges to prescribe rules for small claims courts in any town in the state; including a road from Brooklyn to Newent in the trunk line system; dividing Greenwold into seven voting districts; prohibiting fishing through the ice in Pine Point lake, Enfield; putting in the trunk line system the road from Lebanon to Willimantic; prohibiting importation of rabbits without a permit from the fish and game commission.

The slaughter house bill, killed in the House yesterday, was revived again today by the House and committed to the public health and safety committee for revision.

Maynard Clough, representative of the Garden Club, explained what should be done for gardens during the month of March. Hugo Benson gave a report of the recent Flower Show in New York. Massimo Vuillemet, Francis Dellafera, Wells Tolson, Carl Larson, and Winston Smith spoke of the five needs of plants. These were moisture, air, room, care and heat.

NOON STOCKS

New York, March 20.—The run-away market for Copper Metal furnished the driving power behind another spirited advance in the Copper stocks at the beginning of trading today. Anaconda and Kennecott as usual stood head and shoulders above the balance of the Copper stocks in their new climb to higher price territory. Anaconda jumping 4 1/2 to 17 1/2, less than 2 points below the 17 1/2 objective of the powerful bulls in the stock.

All of the metals' stocks were in buoyant condition in this period. St. Joseph Lead boomed along to 88, up about 15 points on the move; Bethlehem Steel skipped to above 109; Cast Iron Pipe, U. S. Steel and Miami Copper continues their spectacular upward move.

Standard Oil of California moved into new high territory for the year about 77 on announcement of its 6 cent boost in gasoline prices in the effort to end the "gas war" on the Pacific coast. Atlantic Refining, Pan-American and other well known oil stocks were strong enough to continue their upward movement in the face of heavy profit taking.

The pool in radio stood aside while their market pet was pounded down 2 1/2 points to 94, a drop of 15 points from the peak of last week. Columbia Graphophone, National Cash Register and other active specialties under control of the same Wall street clique, danced on the tape in a sharp movement upward, after starting the day from 1 to 3 points higher. Advance pushed ahead 5 more points to 85 1/2, and American Can sold above 125 for the first time this year.

The nine per cent money rate was still in effect with prospects of an easing off near the end of the week.

Industrial stocks sold off in the second hour when a wave of profit-taking in the fast-stepping favorites passed over the market. Nervousness over the money situation held back the adventurous bull, while small traders stood on the side lines. Copper stocks held the most of their gains, and oil stocks were firm in this period.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Wednesday, March 20.

"Thelma" will be the next melo-drama to be presented through the Columbia network for Hank Simmons' show boat at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. This play is a story of Norway and most of the scenes center around the Alton Ford of that country. In order to make the drama completely convincing, the troupe will reproduce the echoes heard in the caves bordering the fjord and will contribute other details that add a realistic touch to this interesting production. Jonah Goldstein will talk on "Intolerance" during the weekly Synagogue service to be broadcast by the WEAF network at 7. During the same hour Elias Kretschmer will render two selections, "No Hoo Ruchum," a liturgical prayer, and "A Hebrew Folk Song." A new series of programs of popular music featuring Dolores Casinelli, brilliant movie star who has attained fame because of her soprano voice and male trio, will be inaugurated by WEAF and associated stations at 8. Miss Casinelli's offerings for the hour will be "Clavelito," "Loca Loca," "The Sun," and "Sunshine of Roses." This last number will be sung by her for the first time. It is brand new and dedicated to her by John Steel. Other highlights include a debate on "The Jury Question" between students of Ohio University and the University of Cincinnati.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist.

We forget, sometimes, that the science of right living must begin with restoration. This is the significance of Christianity as a religion with a gospel of redemption. It seeks and saves the lost and restores them to the right way. Its gospel is a gospel of repentance, of turning from wrong directions and setting the proper bearings toward the true goal.

The other day I was speaking with a man who not long ago came through a serious illness. The illness was due to some internal disorder, and my friend consulted an eminent doctor. He began by putting my friend under a two weeks' fast, and then established a careful and well chosen diet, the ultimate effect of the treatment being to bring my friend from a serious condition of illness back to normal health. Just how effective fasting and diet might prove in every such case one need not say. But assuming the value of this method in certain cases, one may stress the importance that this doctor laid upon a right beginning. The first thing was to restore the system from the effects of wrong diet and wrong habits. The two weeks' fast seemed to be a necessary gateway to constructive treatment.

So it is with the life of the soul. It is in turning from sin that we are enabled to cleave unto righteousness. And the trouble with too many people is that they try to live the Christian life without ever getting the proper start in true repentance and in the power of redemptive experience.

THE BRITISH BLOCKADE

On March 20, 1913, 116 years ago today, Great Britain proclaimed a blockade of the Atlantic seaboard states. It was part of the campaign to win the War of 1812.

At first, the coast of New England was spared, because its inhabitants were supposed by England to be favorable to the British cause. This supposition was soon dropped, however, and the blockade was extended from Halifax to the West Indies.

Soon after, Britain established a naval base at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay. America was in no position to challenge the British at sea. The most it could do about the intrusion was to darken all the lighthouses in the neighborhood, and thus place the enemy at as much inconvenience as possible.

A number of defenseless coast villages were fired upon, but New York and other large cities were spared because the British feared mines and torpedoes. In fact, two British ships which ventured too close to New York missed being torpedoed by narrow margins, and served as examples to all the others.

HOW BABY SPECIALISTS TREAT CONSTIPATION

Constipation in babies and children is the cause of colic, bloating, skin disorders, etc. It weakens them, just as it does grown folks; makes them cross, feverish and fretful. But don't use grown folks' medicine with them, baby specialists advise. Ninety per cent of them, recommend just one preparation for constipation, colds and other ills of babies and children. They say Fletcher's Castoria. Millions of mothers have proved its merit during thirty years of use. Castoria is purely-vegetable, harmless and pleasant-tasting. Genuine Castoria always bears the Fletcher signature. Avoid imitations.

Important Business Sale

The business formerly conducted by the late Conrad G. Kohlert and familiarly known as the New England Decorating Co., was purchased this week by George Bokis and Thomas C. Hasset of this city. The entire stock and equipment of which there is an extensive variety of quality decorating materials and paraphernalia has been taken over by the new owners who will abandon the late trade name and have adopted the name of Bokett Decorating Co. Messrs. Bokis and Hasset are well and favorably known and will no doubt develop a large volume of business in this line. Mr. Bokis is the proprietor of Sandy Beach Park and Ballroom and Mr. Hasset is his park manager formerly connected with the New England Decorating Co., as its chief decorator.

Charity Ball April 5

Plans are being perfected by a large committee of thirty from Rockville Lodge of Elks, No. 1359 and the Emblem Club, ladies auxiliary of the Elks for the largest and most elaborate affair of the kind held under the auspices of the Elks in this city, when the first annual Elks' Charity Ball will be held in Town Hall on Friday evening, April 5. The ball will be pretentiously staged with elaborate decorations, high class music and every detail credit to the organization that is making possible the event in Rockville. Town Hall will literally be transformed by a decorative scheme of surpassing elegance. Al Behrend's Melody Boys of ten pieces will provide the music and Director A. E. Behrend will offer a special musical program that will be one of the features of the evening. Tickets for the Elks' Charity Ball will be on sale by the committee and members of both organizations and it is estimated a capacity audience of close to a thousand will attend and the affair should net a substantial amount for charitable purposes. Elks and their wives and members of both organizations and it is estimated a capacity audience of close to a thousand will attend and the affair should net a substantial amount for charitable purposes. Mrs. Mary (Keats) Barnes, widow of the late Edward E. Barnes, a member of the local police force for nearly twenty-five years, died at the Rockville City hospital on Tuesday morning at 1:30 from the result of complications following an operation for appendicitis, which she underwent recently.

Mrs. Barnes was born in Trowbridge, England, and came to Rockville in the year 1879. In 1922 Mr. and Mrs. Barnes celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Barnes was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Ladies Aid society connected with the church, where she was a very active worker. She was a woman of many lovable qualities and will be greatly missed in the community. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Agnes (Barnes) Levitsky of Hartford and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be held from her late home at 83 Orchard street on Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. M. E. Osborne will officiate and burial will take place in the family plot in Grove Hill cemetery.

Lions Club Meeting
The Lions club will meet Thursday evening at the Rockville House. A supper will be served and prominent speakers will be heard.

To Enter National Contest
Miss Margaret McLean, domestic science teacher at the Rockville High school, has sent for seventeen entry blanks for girls who are members of her class and who wish to enter the National Meat Story contest. There are several prizes including university scholarship.

Basketball Game

The best basketball game of the season will be played Thursday night in the Town Hall when the local team will play the Broad Brook team. The game will start at 7:45 o'clock.

Notes

Lester Russell has resigned his position with the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co.

Mrs. Thomas Shea of High street has returned from the St. Francis hospital where she underwent an operation.

Mrs. Thomas F. Garvan entertained friends at bridge Monday evening at her home on Park street. The prize of the evening was won by Mrs. Thomas F. O'Loughlin. After the bridge the guests were invited to the dining room, where a delicious luncheon was served.

Lester Ludke and Jack Keency of this city will go to Manchester Saturday to play with Al Behrend's Melody Boys for an engagement at the Country Club.

Mrs. George Thompson of Talcott avenue entertained the Afternoon Bridge Club on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Walter Robinson won the prize. A delicious supper was served by the hostess.

Miss Grace West of the Herald office force is confined to her home on Mountain street by illness.

Harold King of High street who has been undergoing treatment at the Hartford hospital, has returned home very much improved in health.

Miss Myrtle Kuhnly underwent an operation at the Rockville City hospital for appendicitis recently. Her many friends will be pleased to hear she is making a rapid recovery.

Thomas Lee has recovered from his recent illness and was able to resume his duties at United States Envelope Company this week.

Edward Farr of Thompson street has returned from the St. Francis hospital in Hartford, where he underwent an operation on an eye. He will return to the hospital in the near future for another operation.

Mrs. M. E. McCarthy has returned from a trip to New York City. The annual meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church will be held in Wesleyan hall on Friday afternoon at 2:30. Members are requested to bring food for the supper which will follow the meeting.

Mrs. Thomas Goldstraw of Orchard street held a public whist at her home Tuesday evening. There were eleven tables. Prizes were won by Mrs. George B. Milne, Mrs. Ragna Abrahamson and Mrs. Fred Neff. The door prize was won by Mrs. Abrahamson. The proceeds will be turned over to Mrs. Goldstraw's Sunday school class of the St. John's Episcopal church.

INSTEAD of exercise

Don't suffer the consequences of persistent lack of exercise. Learn the simple secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime! Millions know it!

Cascarets make bilious, head-achy, constipated people feel wonderful. Their effect is not only quick but it's lasting. They give the bowels as much real exercise as they get from an hour in the saddle.

Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives do not act like Cascarets. These things produce only mechanical or chemical action. They actually weaken the bowels. You have to keep dosing with them.

Each time you use Cascarets, your bowels become stronger. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the natural peristaltic action of the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That accounts for the popularity of Cascarets and their tremendous sales of over 20 million packages a year!

HAPPY MEDIUM

Affecting considerable amazement over the fact that John Holly Knapp of Boston not only went to Tahiti ten years ago but has remained there ever since, the New York Herald Tribune inquires about the permanency of the resolution of another Bostonian to escape effete American civilization by living in the remote northern wilds. It wants to know whether Curtis H. Glover, who last November expressed his disgust for the way things are going in the cities and beat it for the top of the world, has ever come back.

We can't help the Herald Tribune out a mite about Mr. Glover but anybody might remind the New York newspaper that somebody's staying ten years in Tahiti makes no kind of a tie-up with somebody else hibernating in the Quebec musk. Because there are a whole lot of white people who have lived in Tahiti a whole lot more than ten years. There is, for that matter, a permanent white population of 2,500 in Papeete, the capitol town, alone. And there are Yankee traders making that Polynesian port their headquarters who haven't been home to the States in forty years.

But what gets us, with relation to people who develop a yen for getting away from the blah and jangle of city life is why they should deem it necessary to hop all the way to either the South Seas or the Arctic Circle. On any one of half a dozen railroad lines running out of New York or Boston the turmoil-wearied citizen can reach, in an hour, or two, his choice of any number of towns and villages a great deal quieter than Papeete—judging the latter by travelers' accounts—and much less worrying to sustain life in than the country around Hudson Bay.

For the more extreme cases of nerve fag we confidently recommend a year's residence in Tolland or Hebron. And to those who are merely wearied to death of skyscrapers and subway crushes we extend in equal confidence an invitation to move to Manchester—where life is sane and convenient without being either crowded or exotic.

AND SO HE DIED

Ringling Brothers' circus personnel is mourning the passing of Albert, 41-year-old performing elephant, victim of a cold that developed into pneumonia. If any of the employes have blamed prohibition for the loss of the winsome companionship of Albert the press has reprovingly refrained from making public that opinion. Yet there are elements in the matter.

There is no recognized school of therapeutics which deals intensively with the treatment of sick elephants. Even the veterinarian who is called on to physic a member of a circus "bull" herd has to go at it more or less blind. The mere problem of dosage is a poser. But in the "days before," when an elephant caught a cold or had a chill—which they sometimes do have—the practice of the keepers was to give the patient a shot of whiskey with a slug of quinine in it and then go out and find a hunchback and touch his shoulder for luck. The elephants so treated got well—usually.

Of course the shot had to be of fairly good size. Years and years ago when Jumbo was still among us and George Arstingstall was head elephant man with the Barnum show, the latter one day gave Jumbo an even gallon of Old Hermitage rye and a quarter pound of quinine, for an ague chill—and the next day, when Jumbo caught sight of George coming into the elephant house, though contentedly tossing hay a moment before, he staged a shiver-and-shake chill that would have fooled anybody who didn't know him. A gallon was a fairly stiff charge, even for a very big "bull," but nobody ever thought of wasting perfectly good whiskey by giving any elephant less than a quart.

And where on earth could anybody, even the Ringling management, get a legal quart of whiskey now? The most a doctor could have prescribed for Albert would have been a pint—and what's a pint among one sick elephant?

So they probably gave Albert aspirin and a sixtieth of strychnine. And he is no more. Perhaps Mr. Hoover's commission will inquire into that.

A BUSY BOY

Possibly the extension of education may result in a more intellectual race of people but it is to be doubted whether it will ever greatly affect the determination of who shall go up and who shall stay down. The greater successes seem to be achieved, in most cases, by those who go straight to their destinies as inevitably as a steel chip to a magnet.

Tom Slick was a boy of Clarion, Pa., when he heard about the oil fields in Illinois. He made his way there and got a job driving a mule team. Then he worked as a roustabout around the wells, became a tool dresser and finally a driller. He learned all about oil as naturally as he breathed the air. He followed the derricks to Indian territory in 1906. He was then 24 years old and a seasoned oil man. He traded in leases and made some money. He located a new field, found a backer—because he was an oil man and knew the game—and from that point he went on. The other day he sold his holdings for thirty million dollars, being then the largest individual oil operator in the country. He has retired at the age of 48, enormously rich, and plans to see the world.

Our theory is that his history would probably have been the same had he been familiar with the languages, all the philosophies, all sciences and all mathematics, when he started for Illinois that day; or if he hadn't been able to write his name. But just what would have been the result if he had spent those years from sixteen to twenty-four getting a formal education, is another matter.

If an advanced education could be acquired as smallpox immunity is acquired, by a momentary process, or purchased like a bicycle or a suit of clothes, there isn't the slightest doubt of huge advantage to everybody. The question is whether the boy or girl—any boy or girl—can afford to spend so much time getting it.

PRECEDENT VS. JUSTICE

The Judiciary Committee of the Legislature performed in perfect form when it turned thumbs down on the proposed change in Connecticut criminal court practice, advocated by former Attorney General William A. King, counsel for Trenor A. Rice, accused of the Jackson murder. Mr. King sought a favorable report on a law the immediate effect of which would have been to release for the use of Rice a defense two notes found on the body of Mrs. Jackson after her suicide. The general effect would be to recognize as legal evidence any properly authenticated document written by a third party if it threw light on the guilt or innocence of an accused in a murder case.

Precedent is against the introduction of any such innovation—and precedent is the especial god of the legal profession of America. Precedent so cumbered up the administration of civil law that equity courts had to be established in the interest of justice and now the equity courts are themselves becoming victims of a system of precedent observance of their own. By and by we shall probably have to invent a third court principle, with a third set of civil courts, in order to administer common sense justice. In the criminal courts, however, there is nothing corresponding to civil court equity—they did away with that when they abolished the vigilante courts on the border two generations ago.

To those simple souls who live and move and have their being outside the hallowed circles of the bar associations there is a very general if childlike impression that the purpose of a court trial should be first to ascertain the facts and then apply the law to the facts—and that any rule of evidence that operates to keep the truth away from the court or the jury is a bad rule and any that operates to bring out the truth is a good rule.

PORTENTOUS

If those members of the Legislature, the Highway Department and the Ancient and Honorable Order of Political Direction in this state who have been inclined to sneer at the dirt roads proposal failed to receive an impression much like a dent from the hearing at Hartford yesterday on the bill to appropriate $1,000,000 for town road aid, they must be blind to the signs of the times.

There is more than a breeze arising in the towns of Connecticut over the road question—there is the making of a fine big political storm; and leaders who do not recognize the melting of the wind-blown clouds are likely to lose a lot of their feathers when the cyclone hits.

Why, the first thing you know it may actually occur to somebody to start inquiries as to the actual average cost per mile of highway construction in this state! It may even be proposed that the State Highway Department make a comprehensive report to the people of Connecticut as to where their money goes, and why—something that is done by other state departments that don't spend a cent where the Highway Department spends a dollar.

At the hearing yesterday Mrs. Edith Pettes declared that the Highway Department had spent $500,000 on three miles of undesired highway in Haddam, which she says is now known as the "Bootleg Trail." We don't know where Mrs. Pettes got her figures, which sound alarmingly large, but if she got them wrong it is certainly not her fault.

Perhaps on the whole it would be the easier way to give the country towns some sort of a fair shake in this road business. Otherwise nobody knows what may happen.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 20.—The wholesale price of whiskey has advanced sharply since the signing of the Jones act by President Coolidge. The increases have ranged from $20 to $40 a case and many small speakeasies have gone out of business.

Four night clubs, in sudden panic, have abandoned the sale of liquor and deliveries to speakeasies have been curtailed to the extent that the supply is not uncertain. Grain alcohol has doubled in price, the quotation today being $14 a gallon wholesale.

Most of the night clubs cannot afford to go on doing business without selling liquor at top prices (and then some) and quite a few will be afraid to continue the practice now.

The problem of hiring men willing to "take the rap" has become harder. Before the passage of the Jones act, with a chance for a fine or a light jail term, plenty of help for deliveries or tending bar could be had for the asking. Now the "heavy labor" wants plenty of money to take the chance on five years, $10,000 fine for first offenders.

The delivery system is hit hard. Prices for delivery were reported to me as $5 a case and up, a big increase over pre-Jones quotations. Wages in every part of the racket are said to have gone sky-high. Individual bootleggers, to make up for it, are shoving out smaller glasses and charging more. Speak-

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Washington, March 20.—The rather stupendous task of giving Americans a political education has at least been begun.

In a score or more states educators are struggling with a vision of the day when high school graduates may enter life with some conception of public affairs and free from the many dumb superstitions commonly supposed to afflict the average American voter.

"Problems of democracy" courses are being taught in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and North Carolina, among other states, and have met with special success in adjacent Maryland, where the state department of education has issued an extensive bulletin outlining the curriculum made by teachers in Queen Anne's county. In most instances such courses have been established for the last high school year.

The outstanding leader in the movement is Professor J. Montgomery Gambrell, head of the history department of Teachers College, Columbia University, who has expressed the hope that it might "break down some of the smugness, cock-sureness and ignorant dogmatism so common among those who have never heard of scientific methods and are blissfully unconscious of what is involved in the serious study of social and civic problems."

Gambrell was called in to advise with the Maryland state department of education concerning the experiment in Queen Anne's county, results of which will form the basis for extension of "problem courses" over the state.

"The pupil must learn how to gather facts," Gambrell says. "He should learn that our public problems are for the most part complex, and that men of education and intelligence differ about them, which hardly justifies dogmatism in a youngster; that very few citizens, even the most accomplished, have the time and facilities for thorough study of any great number of problems; that we live in an age of propaganda; that there are specialists in many fields who are, relatively at least, objective in their methods of study and whose findings must be considered."

We might hope also that our pupils would make some progress in healthy skepticism toward propaganda; that he would tend to demand higher standards in his newspapers and periodicals; that he would recognize that these social issues and night clubs have been forced to raise their "antes" to police and federal agents. And just as soon as the first man goes to jail for five years, just watch the prices sail.

The following prices were quoted to me by a lawyer who has a friend in the racket: Rye, $90 to $120 a case, formerly sold for $75; cut Scotch, $75 to $90 a case, formerly sold for $60 to $75; champagne $100 to $120 a case, formerly sold for $75.

The federal agents will go on as before, of course, and no crusade against the pocket flask carrier is in sight. Those who manufacture malt liquors and wine for home consumption are not greatly affected. Restaurants where liquor is served quietly are not worrying a great deal.

So far as the federal agents are concerned things will go on much the same as before, with speakeasies, orderly night clubs and restaurants that sell liquor not being bothered any more than in the past. The "feds" always have largely left such matters to the police, anyway. The "feds" raid night clubs only when reputable persons make complaints about them being nuisances.

THE FRENCH ARTICHOKE
 The French artichoke, which is the immature blossom bud of a plant of the thistle family, is an entirely different species from the Chinese or Jerusalem globe artichoke. The size of this edible bud varies from two or three inches in diameter in ordinary market forms to two or three feet in diameter in some special varieties.

The edible part of this vegetable consists of the fleshy portion at the base of the bud scales and the blossom base. The green scales of the bud are sometimes tinged with blue, violet or brown. In some species of the French artichoke the young stalks are also eaten after being blanched. In Europe there are termed "shard", a vegetable similar to the French "cardoon," but entirely dissimilar from the "Swiss chard."

In North America the artichoke is generally prepared by steaming or boiling, but in some parts of Europe the artichoke is considered appetizing when eaten after being dipped in salt.

Even though it is impossible to obtain the fresh artichoke in some of the colder climates, canned artichokes may be obtained the year round in all well stocked grocery stores. Canned artichokes are quite wholesome. The smaller artichokes are selected for canning after all of their inedible parts have been discarded. Italy has created quite a large industry for canning and drying artichokes. Either dried, canned or fresh, this vegetable is quite wholesome.

The etiquette of eating the whole artichoke is more confusing to the novice even than eating corn on the cob or asparagus. The proper method is to hold the upper portion of the artichoke with a gentle pressure of the left hand and with the thumb and first two fingers of the right hand pluck off an outer leaf with a deft twist of the wrist. The thick part of the leaf may then be dipped in butter and slowly drawn between the teeth, leaving the edible part in the mouth. The remaining hard part of the leaf scale may then be placed on the side of the dish. After the outer leaves have been removed, the meaty base of the bud may be broken and eaten with a fork.

The edible portion of this vegetable contains a small amount of starch but not enough to definitely put it into the class of starchy vegetables. Mayonnaise and salad dressings containing acid should not be served with artichokes.

The French artichoke, which is alkaline forming, contains small amounts of all mineral elements, and especially of iron and silicon. Following are some methods of preparing this succulent vegetable:

Steamed Artichoke
 In a cooking vessel with a close fitting cover, place the artichoke stem down in about two inches of water. Roll without satting... a fork will easily penetrate the base of the artichoke. Remove from the fire, drain, and place the artichoke upside down to drain before serving.

Artichoke Salad
 Use cold steamed or canned artichokes. Remove the hard outer leaves and chop the edible part. Mix with equal amounts of grated carrots, finely shredded leaves and tomato. Add a small amount of olive oil and all tomato shells with this mixture.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Chilblains
 Question: Mrs. J. W. writes: "Last winter I froze my feet and since have been suffering agony with the burning, itching and pain, especially if my feet become a little too warm. Will you please suggest a remedy? What doctors have so far given me has been of no benefit!"

Answer: The remedy I would advise for chilblains is to treat your feet each day by immersing them in hot and cold water alternately. Use water as hot as can be borne, keeping the feet in it only a minute, then change suddenly to ice water for only a minute. After a few minutes of this treatment give your feet a good massage, using some kind of oil, and rubbing upward toward the knee so as to improve the circulation. Every time you put on your shoes, powder your feet with boric acid powder or talcum.

Quite a few farmers in western Kansas have taken to wearing spats, according to a newspaper report. The old west has become a country—apparently where you have to die with your spats on.

How disheartening when you stop to help a pair of ankles—change a tire and discover they belong to a grandmother.

At the State.
It would seem that "The Air Circus," which Howard Hawks and Lew Seiler produced for Fox Films, was made under a magic charm which ward off all accidents. Or, more likely, it was the native skill of the pilots and the adaptability of David Rollins, Sue Carol and Arthur Yake, the three leading stars of the production, who flew their own planes for this picture, which kept away the bugaboo of misadventure.

At any rate, it was found almost impossible to crash even when it was deliberately planned. This seemed to be one of the few occasions in the history of aviation when a pilot found it difficult to stand a plane on its nose, when he even tried to do so.

"The Air Circus," which is now being shown at the State Theater, is one of the few pictures of its kind that features a genuine cast of real honest-to-goodness stars with practical aviation experience.

Besides Miss Carol, Mr. Rollins and Lake, such prominent favorites as Louise Dresser, Charles Delaney, Helme Conklin, Cleve Moore and Aggie Herring have principal roles.

The companion feature at the State for today and tomorrow is "New Year's Eve," a sparkling, frivolous story of life, love and laughter featuring Mary Astor and Charles Morton.

A pleasing variety of shorter subjects will be shown in conjunction with the features.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Eugene Lafleur has gone to Meriden to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert James.

Miss Lillian Lyman has returned to her home after visiting at the home of her brother, Hollis Lyman in Willimantic.

The pupils attending school in Willimantic from this town were dismissed at 12:30 Friday because of the funeral of Mr. Harroun.

A St. Patrick's whist party was held at the hall Friday evening under the auspices of the Grange. In spite of the rainy weather and bad traveling there were ten tables. The ladies prizes were won by Mrs. Charles LaBate with first prize and Mrs. Ethel Blakey with the consolation prize. Both the gentlemen's prizes were won by ladies playing as gentlemen, the first by Mrs. Lester Hutchins and the consolation prize by Mrs. Henry Hutchins. The party was in charge of Mrs. Ruby Wolf and Miss Gladys Rice. The next one will probably be Thursday evening, March 28.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Smith, summer residents of Columbia, have returned to their Hartford home after spending the winter in South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Yeomans and son of Hartford were in Columbia on Friday.

Miss Dorothy James of Willimantic attended the whist party Friday evening and spent the night with her friend, Miss Harie Field.

Large flocks of robins have been observed on different parts of the Green.

The rural carrier has been having a hard time. He reports the traveling Friday as the worst in some time. He is obliged to take a horse and wagon on both trips, and did not get around from his last trip until after 8 o'clock at night, though in normal times he is through early in the afternoon. The roads have hardened somewhat during the past few days due to the lower temperature, and the carrier is not having such a hard time just at present.

Mrs. Bessie Trythall and little daughter Shirley and Miss Harie Field spent the week-end with relatives in Willimantic.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter and Mrs. Bailey motored to Shelburne Falls, Mass., Friday to see Mr. and Mrs. Porter's grandson, James Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hunt and two sons spent Sunday in Johnston, R. I., at the home of Mrs. Hunt's sister, Mrs. Chester Winsor.

Mrs. Fred Abell acted as organist at the local church Sunday morning in the absence of the regular organist, Mrs. Clayton Hunt.

Frederick Hunt was the leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening.

COUNTY "Y" ASSISTANT NAMED BY THIENES

Leonard J. Black of Springfield College to Get His Training Here.

Elmer T. Thienes, executive secretary of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A., announces the appointment of Leonard J. Black of Springfield College as special assistant secretary, beginning April 1. Mr. Black comes to Hartford county as a part of the special plan of Springfield College in training advanced students by placing them for extended periods with the Hartford County Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Black is a native of Ledge-wood, N. J., where he was especially active in church work. In High school he took an active part in athletics, having played on all school teams. After graduation he was employed for the first two years with the Hercules Power Co. in the experimental department. During this period he was an active leader with the Morris County (N. J.) Y. M. C. A. The next year and a half he was assistant secretary of the Morris County Y. M. C. A. The last three years he has been taking advanced work at Springfield College, where he has been a member of the Student Congress and on the staff of the Springfield Student, the college paper. The last two summers he has been director of swimming and athletics at the Morris County Y. M. C. A. Boys' camp. He is an American Red Cross Life Saving examiner.

While in the county Mr. Black's headquarters will be in Southington where he will devote half of his time with the Southington branch of the County Y. M. C. A. He will also have special relationship to Y. M. C. work in Plainville, Bristol, Farmington, Kensington, Berlin and E. Berlin. During the summer he will be one of the physical directors of a social director at Camp Woodstock, the summer camp of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A.

RODNEY WILCOX WINS HONORS AT ACADEMY

Rodney Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wilcox, of Green Hill street, is one of the high ranking honor students at East Greenwich Academy, East Greenwich, R. I., for the first semester's work, according to the recent announcement made by Rev. A. Talmadge Schulmaier, principal.

Students at the well-known academy have been interested this week to hear informal readings by Edwin Markham, distinguished American poet. Mr. Markham has been for the past two days a guest at the Academy.

ANDOVER

The local pastor the Rev. Russell W. O'Brien preached at St. Joseph's church, Andover, Sunday, the pulp supply being a student from the Theological Seminary in Hartford who preached a very interesting sermon.

Mrs. Frank Hamilton, who has been ill several weeks at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, and in her home here is reported slightly better.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fish of Manchester were callers on Mrs. Fish's sister Mrs. Ward Talbot.

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore of Manchester was a caller on a patient in town Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stanley of Waterbury spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George S. Stanley.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Platt and son Douglas of Manchester spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink. Mrs. Platt was leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting. Misses Ila and Mildred Hamilton sang a duet, "The Church by the Side of the Road."

The basket ball game played between the Andover boys and Rockville Friday evening was won by the Andover team 36-20. Monday's game, was postponed on account of the illness of two of the Andover players.

Mrs. Kittle Milton and son Ellsworth were callers in Stafford Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Beston of Bloomfield were callers on Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Phelps Sunday afternoon.

HEBRON

Mrs. Olive A. Clark who has been ill with grip for several weeks is slowly recovering, and is now able to be about the house.

Miss Barbara Davis of Wallingford, and Captain Paul Colborn of Stamford were visitors here on Thursday.

Even people living on the state roads are having trouble with the mud, it being difficult to get out of their driveways with cars. In particular, the milk trucks have to take care that their tires do not get embedded, and in some cases the milk cans have had to be carried out by hand and loaded on to the trucks in the road.

The Rev. T. D. Martin officiated on Sunday at the Church of the Redeemer, Rochester, New Hampshire. He left on Saturday morning for his destination.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Kelsey and their grandson, Dwight Kelsey, Jr., were recent guests at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tennant.

The Girls' 4-H Sewing Club met at the home of the local leader, Mrs. Allen W. H. Sterry, Saturday afternoon. The time was spent in sewing on garments, and refreshments were served.

Gibson Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, fell on a rock while at school a few days ago during recess, suffering a sprained wrist.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Payne of East Hartford, and Mr. Payne's sisters, the Misses Caroline and Katherine Payne were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lord.

The Rev. John W. Deeter was leader of the Christian Endeavor society in its Sunday evening meeting at the Center, with the topic, "How the Church Helps us to Live the Christian Life."

Mr. and Mrs. James N. Sterry of New London were Sunday guests at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. H. Sterry.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith and son Robert were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Smith. Miss Florence E. Smith and her friend, Miss Theodora Melcher, both of the Seymour school, West Hartford, also spent the week end at the Smith home. Miss Florence E. Kelley of Middletown, who is also a teacher at the Seymour school motored to Hebron on Sunday, taking Miss Smith back to West Hartford.

Donald Kenyon of New London, a church worker, spoke at the morning service of the Seventh Day Adventists in Hopevale at their Sabbath meeting.

Tax Collector Edward A. Smith will meet the tax payers April 1, at his residence, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. At this date taxes come due. He will be at the residence of Paul Jones, in Jones street, Thursday, April 18, from 10 a. m. to 12 m. at Fogli's store, Glead, Thursday, April 25, and at the town clerk's office, Hebron Center, Saturday, April 27, the two last places at the same time as at Jones street. Tax payers have from April 1, to May 1, to pay taxes, after which interest at 9 per cent will be added to taxes due.

In the report of the tax laid at the last town meeting, given in this column recently, the item should have read 28 1-2 mills instead of 23 mills, as the rate established for the town for the coming year. While it seems as if this is a very high rate, it should be remembered that the property valuation is very low. The tax rate will drop after the re-valuation is made though the amount of taxes will be as high.

"THIS HAS HAPPENED HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN is shot between one and four o'clock Saturday afternoon. RUTH LESTER, his secretary, finds his body Monday morning sprawled beneath the airshaft window of his private office.

McMann, detective sergeant, questions the following suspects: MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife and mother of his two children; RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, with whom Borden was infatuated; and JACK HAYWARD, Borden's fiancé, whose office is across the narrow airshaft from Borden's private office.

McMann's belief in Jack's guilt is strengthened by his discovery that Jack's pistol is missing; by Jack's admission that he returned to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon, and by the testimony of MICKY MORAN and OTTO PELUGER, elevator boys. BILL COWAN, Jack's friend, unwillingly tells of having heard Jack threaten Borden's life Saturday morning.

McMann questions BENNY SMITH, Borden's office boy; ASHE, his manservant; MINNIE CASSIDY and LETTY MILLER, seventh floor scrubwomen; CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress, and JAKE BAILEY, his bodyguard.

MARTHA MANNING is brought into the case by Ruth's detective work. She swears she last saw Borden Friday night but admits phoning him three times Saturday afternoon. When McMann pointblank accuses her of the murder she defies him to bring forward anyone who saw her in the building Saturday. Benny Smith bursts in upon them and hysterically confesses to the murder. His confession is full of loopholes and they realize he is trying to shield Ruth, who he believes is to be arrested.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII
"Well, darling," Ruth said, after she and Jack Hayward had deposited lightly burdened trays upon a table in a far corner of the cafeteria, "this has been a busy morning. Next resolution—confession."
"What?" Relief flared in the young insurance broker's eyes. "Why didn't you tell me as soon as we met?"

Contrition sobered Ruth's vivid little face. "Forgive me, darling! I've raised your hopes just to dash them. It was just Benny—lying like the darling little idiot that he is, because he thought McMann was going to arrest me! I'll read you his whole 'confession'—I took it down in shorthand, at McMann's request when I've transcribed it. Of course Benny was half delirious with fever, but I'll never have a nobler compliment paid me—"

"You're a siren and a cradle snatcher," Jack told her severely. "It's a good thing I'm going to marry you and withdraw you from circulation. Any other developments this morning?"

Smiling delightedly, the girl told her sweetheart of Cleo Gilman's stimulating visit and his ludicrous effect upon detective McMann. "I really believe, Jack," she concluded, "that if Cleo hadn't just married one of the most uppity of the Upper Ten, that our detective department's shining light would have tried to date her. He may do it yet. But I wasn't making any idle boast last night when I said I was going to take charge of the murder investigation this morning." And then she told him of her visit to Mrs. Borden and to Minnie Cassidy, resulting in the discovery of the orchid-tinted letter in the secret drawer of Borden's desk.

"Good work!" Jack applauded dutifully, but Ruth was quick to see that a shadow settled in the eyes she loved. He acknowledged the shadow by adding, hesitatingly: "But I can't help feeling sorry, sweet, that poor Martha Manning has to be dragged into this. I'm sure she didn't kill Borden, and—well, there's something about that woman that gets you—"

Manning, because he believes she killed his boss, corroborated her story of having been in the Starbridge Building Friday night from about half-past eight till a few minutes past nine.

"A few minutes past nine?" Jack repeated thoughtfully. "And she says she walked down the stairs and out of the lobby at that time?"

Sudden comprehension illumined Ruth's lovely face. "I see what you mean! Why didn't I think of that before? That's just when the little army of cleaning women and porters is pouring out of the building. I've seen them a dozen times, at least. They're through work at nine. I'll speak to Mr. McMann as soon as I get back to the office—"

Jack interrupted, grinning: "I thought you were conducting this investigation, young lady! Why not make inquiries yourself? Mrs. Pellow, the grand old dowager in charge of the cleaning women, must be in the building now. She comes on about two o'clock, I think, and she'll tell you the whole story for the building, even before the cleaning women come on. Let's have a go at her, darling. Now—eat every leaf of that salad, or Papa spank!"

Ruth obeyed, but now and then a puzzled frown lent her brows, and her brooding blue eyes darkened. "What's the heavy thinking about, honey?" Jack inquired at last.

Ruth shook her head, as if to clear it of mists. "I—don't know. That's the funny thing about it. . . . In fact, I'm not so much thinking as—listening."

"Listening? Spirit messages?" Jack laughed.

"You needn't laugh!" Ruth protested. "Dad did come to me in my dream last night and made me remember the orchid-tinted letter. And I believe that letter is more important than it seems now, or Daddy would't have—"

"It was your subconscious, getting the idea to remind you of something you'd forgotten," Jack explained easily. "But I'm glad, darling, that you had your little visit with your father, even if it was only a dream. He must have been a wonder—Colby Lester."

"He was," Ruth agreed. "But show me now, Jack, and let my subconscious work in peace. That's what I'm trying to listen to."

full of Christmas presents she'd swiped from—"

"Oh, how awful!" Ruth interrupted, with apparently deep sympathy for Mrs. Pellow's troubles. "You stand in the lobby and check them out, don't you?"

"Yes, miss. I do! Every single night in the week, from nine o'clock till they're all gone, and Saturdays from four till the building's clear."

"You were on duty Friday night, weren't you, Mrs. Pellow?"

"I certainly was! But none of my cleaning women stole any gun out of your office, Miss Lester! I'll take my oath on that!" Mrs. Pellow bridled.

"Oh, I didn't think that for a minute!" Ruth disclaimed. "But, please, Mrs. Pellow, if you were in the lobby from nine o'clock till nine o'clock, Mrs. Pellow interrupted. "And the time clock will prove my words!"

"Then, please, Mrs. Pellow, did you see a woman—not one of your cleaning women, but a visitor in the building, come out of the stairway door and leave the building Friday evening between nine and 9:25?" Ruth finished her question breathlessly, while her heart beat fast.

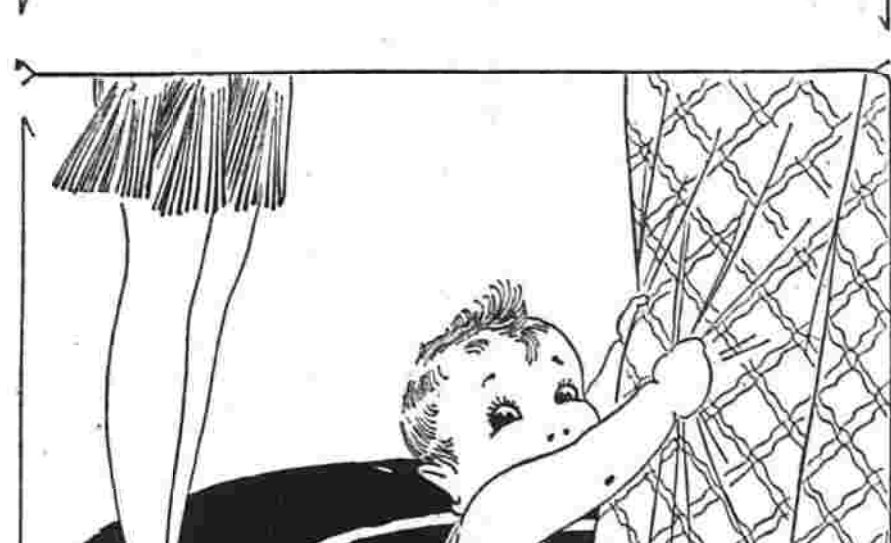

Mrs. Pellow's answer came promptly. "No, miss, I'd take my Bible oath no woman visitor or any other visitor or tenant come out of the stairway door between nine and 9:25 Friday night."

But Ruth persisted, describing Martha Manning accurately. "Again she received the same positive denial. 'There wasn't any such woman in our lobby Friday night at the time you say.'"

"What about the stairs beside the service elevator?" Jack thought to ask, and for a moment Ruth felt dashed.

Prints seems to be definitely established, particularly in small patterns in silk crepe for all-day occasions. Style No. 424 features the pointed yoke at front of bodice with corresponding pointed treatment in hip yoke, which tends to lengthen its line, which makes it so suitable for women of average full figure. Bows at wrists and neckline add important touch of femininity. It's so easily made, and takes but 3 1/2 yards of 40-inch silk crepe for the 38-inch size. Pattern is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Black dull crepe satin, almond green silk crepe, periwinkle blue cotton crepe and sheer tweed in tiny check pattern in greyish-blue tones, are strikingly smart for immediate wear, and later to wear without a topcoat for about town. Chartreuse green chiffon is ultratone and smart for afternoons. Pattern price is 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

The WOMAN'S DAY

ALLENE SUMNER

To catch Homer nodding is a favorite indoor and outdoor sport of both old and young, which explains many a chortle at the spectacle of Chiles Justice Taft "hauled out" by a 13-year-old chit for administering the oath of office to President Hoover with words a bit at variance with the chit's civic textbook.

Helen Terwilliger, the chit, was quite upset about it and wrote Mr. Taft that he said "maintain" instead of "protect." Helen got a nice letter back in which the former president told her she was right, but that to err was human. Helen got her picture in the papers and no doubt, is quite a thorn in the flesh at home and abroad.

HOW ABOUT HAIRBRUSH?
There are times when these oh-so-smart modern youngsters make one year a good year for days when kids were seen and not heard, and weren't even seen too much, to say nothing of being utterly constitutionally incapacitated for taking their pens in hands with which to chide Chiles Justice and their other elders and betters. Education is a bit wrong if it turns out Helens imbued with a conviction that adherence to the text is the only known virtue.

HOT STUFF!
Dresses made of asbestos are a wrinkle of fashion's near future, according to the industrial chemical world. They will be more durable than homespun, can be sponged and pressed like silk, and have all the other qualities of silk. They might "get by" were it not for that word "durable." If there's one thing that the mass of women eschew in their clothes, it's durability. This attitude is probably a throwback to the day when their mothers, or even themselves, were supposed to be lucky if they achieved a new "best dress" every other year.

H. C. L. OF ILLNESS.
No problem strikes such a solar plexus whack at the middle class home as the high cost of sickness. An operation has foreclosed the mortgage on many a $6,000 house. The American Nurses Association is working on the solution of part-time nurses—nurses that can be hired by the hour, much as one would hire a cook to get dinner. The plan sounds most sensible. There are few cases so critical that a nurse's constant attendance is required, and after the patient is bathed and fed and medicated and distractedly $30-a-week papa finds himself paying nurse $15 a day while she tats or reads.

WE'RE 'VULGAR.'
The average American High school graduate is "more vulgar and infinitely less cultured" than any European peasant, according to Everett Dean Martin. "America," who has staked her all on education, is utterly confused as to its meaning," he explains. But the fact remains that America reaches down into her pocket and gives every kid a chance at education, whatever that education means, unlike any other country in the world, and we are moved to note that the peasants (read from our "vulgarity") seem most awfully glad to give their kids a chance at what is offered them here.

HEALTH

VALUE OF WHOLE WHEAT IN DIET IS EXPLAINED

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

About one-fourth of the amount of caloric intake of the diet of the average American is in wheat products.

In some parts of the world, notably in the southern portions of Europe and in countries where rye or rice constitutes the staple cereal, the contribution of wheat is smaller.

In Great Britain, the average person consumes six bushels of wheat per year.

Wheat contains water, nitrogenous matter, fat, starch and sugar, cellulose or fiber, and mineral matter. Its chief value for nutrition depends on the starch and sugar content, which make up 69 per cent of the product. About 15 per cent is water, 11 per cent nitrogenous matter, and 2 per cent each cellulose and mineral matter.

For some years there has been much agitation in favor of whole wheat products with a view to economic causes or to the securing of roughage and vitamins which it has been claimed are eliminated from white bread.

The researches made in the Food Research Institute of Stanford University conclude that the nothing would be gained for the nation's health or nation's economy by consumption of wheat as whole wheat bread instead of white bread. According to a new report, proteins, minerals, vitamins and roughage are adequately available in other foodstuffs, and need not be sought alone in whole wheat bread.

Q.—Is it necessary to disinfect bath tub in hotels?
A.—The danger of acquiring disease by this utensil is not extremely great, but certainly is sufficient to warrant care in its use, including thorough washing out with hot water and thoroughly drying before use by the next occupant of the room.

Wheat now ranks as one of the cheapest foods. Per capita consumption appears to be increasing in the world at large, but not in the United States or in Great Britain, Canada and Australasia.

A hairdressers' convention in New York voted to design a new coiffure for the Statue of Liberty. The next step would be to give the flag a permanent wave.

THREE M DEBATES RESUMED TONIGHT

Manchester Entertains Middletown Here; Other Team Goes to Meriden.

Manchester, Meriden and Middletown high schools will resume their annual triangular debate tonight on three battle-fronts.

Quite unusual is the fact that included on the Manchester affirmative team which entertains Middletown's negative team tonight at the high school assembly hall here, are a brother and sister, Jacob and Charlotte Rubnow.

Miss Holmes would have been on the team as a regular but for illness which prevented proper attention to the required amount of study.

The main speeches will be seven minutes in length; rebuttal speeches four minutes.

Middletown's negative team will consist of Louise Bailey, Anthony Planeta, Mabel Churchill and Etheilyn Johnson.

Manchester's negative team will debate in Meriden tonight. The local speakers will be Eva Koehler, Carl Cumberly, Eleanor Dwyer and Marlon Janes, the latter an alternate.

OVER $56,000,000 LEFT BY WANAMAKER

Philadelphia, March 20.—The will of Rodman Wanamaker, head of the Wanamaker stores, on file at Norristown today disposed of an estate valued at more than $56,000,000, exclusive of real estate, which he believed to be the largest ever left by a resident of this city.

The estate is to be held in trust, the instrument directs, and the bulk of the income is to be shared by his children, John Wanamaker, Jr., Mrs. Hector Mann and Mrs. Curnee Mann.

Some sixty insurance policies are included in the estate, it is said. The merchant prince was reputed to have been the most heavily insured man in the world.

DERAILED FREIGHT CAR BLOCKS TROLLEY TRAFFIC

Woodland Crossing Again Scene of Holdup and Transfer for Passengers.

Trolley traffic east of Woodland was only possible by transferring for several hours today.

Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning a box car filled with paper was being pushed to the main line of the New Haven road over the special track that runs from the Case & Marshall paper mill. The car had spanned the trolley tracks, but had not quite reached the roadway when it derailed, going so far off that the locomotive could not haul it back on the rails.

Trolley car passengers on the trolley cars were transferred around the wreck. Dispatcher Bush remained on duty at the office at the Center and Dispatcher Duffy took care of the trouble at Woodland. The trolley wrecker was called from Hartford just before noon and an hour later had cleared the way for the resumption of trolley traffic.

DERAILED FREIGHT CAR BLOCKS TROLLEY TRAFFIC

Woodland Crossing Again Scene of Holdup and Transfer for Passengers.

Trolley traffic east of Woodland was only possible by transferring for several hours today.

Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning a box car filled with paper was being pushed to the main line of the New Haven road over the special track that runs from the Case & Marshall paper mill. The car had spanned the trolley tracks, but had not quite reached the roadway when it derailed, going so far off that the locomotive could not haul it back on the rails.

Trolley car passengers on the trolley cars were transferred around the wreck. Dispatcher Bush remained on duty at the office at the Center and Dispatcher Duffy took care of the trouble at Woodland. The trolley wrecker was called from Hartford just before noon and an hour later had cleared the way for the resumption of trolley traffic.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

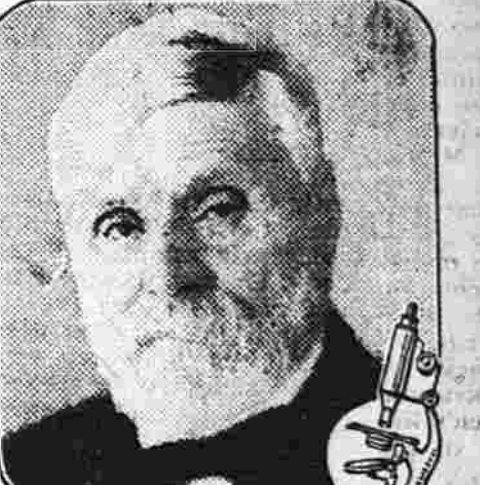

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Do give it a trial, to prove how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours.

McMenemy Upsets Dope Trimming Lloyd, 100-75

North End Veteran Plays Steady Game While Opponent Misses Many Easy Shots; McMenemy Leads All the Way; Match Tonight.

Apparently this is the year of upsets in the town championship pocket billiards tournament. Sam Heron ruled a top-heavy favorite to beat John Carney, yet lost 100 to 96. Then, last night, John McMenemy, well known north end man, gave the abused dope bucket another boot by trimming Lewis Lloyd, director of the Recreation Centers, 100 to 75. Those who had seen both men play prior to the match were betting heavily on Lloyd to win, especially on his own table.

The match was far from spectacular although some pretty shots were made from time to time. However, there were no long runs and many easy shots were missed. Lloyd, especially, "blew" numerous scratches quite frequently during part of the match. The north end man shot a much steadier game and deserved to win. He wasn't lucky by any means. As a matter of fact, Lloyd had only himself to blame for the defeat.

McMenemy won nine of the 14 racks, and led from start to finish. His biggest lead was 13 balls. McMenemy was well ahead as the pair passed the halfway point. However, Lloyd braced and closed the gap until McMenemy's lead was only seven balls at 70 to 73. At this point, Lloyd checked up again and McMenemy did just the opposite, finishing strong.

McMenemy is no greenhorn at pocket billiards. He has been playing the game for a number of years and previously was a billiard player. He won two tournaments on the championship of the Community Club when Lingard was director. John appears quite at home on a pool table with his Daves' pipe which he puffs contentedly through out a match.

Here are the scores after each rack showing the main McMenemy held over his opponent:

McMenemy	Lloyd
18	12
25	17
26	24
27	29
48	30
51	40
56	48
66	52
72	59
74	68
78	73
90	76
100	75

There will be another match tonight. Arrangements had not been fully completed early this morning. Either Jarle Johnson will play John Bensch or Joe Brozowski will hook up against Bill Brennan.

EIGHT CHAMPIONS LOSE AT BOSTON

Boston, March 20.—Eight new New England "simon pure" boxing champions were enthroned today, including Leslie Baker, who was told to retire from the ring a year ago because of an injured hand. He won the 147-pound title from Jos. O'Donnell of Roxbury.

Four greater Boston boys to win their New England crowns were Gordon Foulmer of Somerville, in the 117-pound class; Jack Norton, Dorchester, 125 pounder; Thomas Rawson, Jr., of East Boston, light-heavy, and Leslie Baker of Watertown, middleweight.

Paris Apice from Providence gave Rhode Island the only title by winning in the 112-pound division. Louis Maloney of Framingham took home the crown in the 160-pound class, and Harry Allen of Brockton left for his home with the light heavyweight title.

Joseph Lillich of New York State and a student at Holy Cross college outpointing Douglas McKinnon of Quincy to gain the heavyweight title.

The winners of titles will compete in the junior national amateur tournament held here in April.

Last Night Fights

At New York—George Hoffman, former national amateur heavyweight champion, won decision over Jackie Saunders, of Long Island City, 6.

Tommy Lown, also a former amateur champion, knocked out Jimmy Watts, of Atlanta, in the second round in his first professional fight.

WRESTLING RESULTS

At Greensboro, N. C.—Gus Sonenberg, world's champion, threw Dave Shannon, of St. Louis, in straight falls, in 13 min., 14 seconds, and 6 min., 30 seconds.

NAME YALE PILOTS
New Haven, March 20.—Bob Wilson, of Cincinnati, has been elected captain of the Yale hockey team for next season.

Gus Nanry, of West Haven, a guard, was chosen leader of the basketball team.

MISSED TWICE IN TWO YEARS

Earl Averill, Cleveland rookie outfielder, says he missed only two games in two seasons of play in the Pacific Coast League.

CUB OFFICIALS DEMANDS PENNANT

Coast Expert Says Team Has Great Possibilities Is Not Probabilities; Tells Lineup

By HARRY NELLY.

Los Angeles, Calif., March 20.—Nothing short of the national league championship will satisfy Cub officials this season. When two or more shareholders are gathered together they left their voices in praise of the prospects of Manager Joe McCarthy's troupe. The idea seems to prevail that all the Cubs have to do is step out and shake the pennant bush and nature will provide.

Much of this is based on the acquisition of Rogers Hornsby. His prowess does not call for comment. He has fitted into the Cub plan of things smoothly. There has been no visible display of the mental attitude said to have made him undesirable in St. Louis and New York. Aside from Hornsby, Cubs prospects hinge upon the pitchers. If Mike Cuyegros, the most travelled left hander in baseball, finally has "arrived" the Cubs' chances of getting into the autumn classic are improved. Some energetic young men bearing large minor league batting averages are on hand, but one can pick the starting lineup now as follows:

English, short stop; Deck, third base; Copley, right field; Hornsby, second base; Wilson, center field; Stephenson, left field; Grimm, first base; Hartnett or Gonzales, catching.

A discussion of the Cubs by positions reveals:

Pitchers Reviewed.
Pitchees—Root, had tonsils removed, 15 pounds lighter than last year when he was not a winner. Carlson, recovered of attack of flu which made him ineffective last season. Blake, going along as usual, the class of the staff. Malone, reformed careless boy working hard. He won 18 games in 1928, leading the hurlers. Bush, same as heretofore, used chiefly for relief, but compiled 15 wins last year. "Probably has improved. Art Neff, veteran with 13 and 7 last year, seems strong as ever, is in shape to lead, winning ten and losing five there, powerful and a good prospect, but green in spots. Other candidates may be erased from memory.

Catchers—Hartnett, class of the league. Stephenson at batfield, has been coached as substitute. No spare journeyman first baseman present.

Second base—Rogers Hornsby, filled with fire and grateful to escape from Boston.

Short—Woody English, fastest young man in the big leagues. One point shy of 300 last season. Norman McMillan, sub infielder, who bats in streaks.

Third base—Clyde Beck, brisk, fielder, weak hitter. Experience gives him the call. Clarence Barr, lately of Little Rock. Hits ball hard, but is pea-green in certain phases of third basing. Lack of spare talent may keep him a job.

Outfield—Stephenson left, Wilson, center; Cuyler right. They performed regularly last year. Cliff Heathcote, batting left handed, likely substitute. Dan Taylor, best prospect amongst rookies. Came from Memphis with .374 batting average. Doubles at third base occasionally. A four person who glares at the pitcher in batting practice. If he holds up as he showed in preliminary practice he will make the nine. Has speed and good arm. Looks like the prize package. John Francis Moore, smooth working young man who hits left-handed. Able, but Taylor impresses much more.

There are the Cubs—briefly. So much has been said about their pennant prospects that excited citizenry of Chicago gobbled up nearly all the 16,000 box and reserved seats for opening day four weeks in advance of the beginning of the season.

The team seems shy of spare parts. Stephenson worked well at first in practice, but is not a finished performer there. McMillan batted only .220 in the 1928 campaign. Malone with 18 and Blake with 17 victories were the winning pitchers. This team has pleasing possibilities, which same should not be confused with probabilities.

RACES BAPTIE TONIGHT

The veteran Norval Baptie, one of the most colorful figures in the speed skating world and a former holder of the world's championship, will be the opponent of Everett McGowan in the special series of races at the ice carnival in the West Side Arena tonight. Baptie will meet McGowan, who is rated one of the fastest skaters in the world, in a series of three races at 220 yards, 440 yards and 880 yards. The McGowan-Baptie races will feature a program that is to include amateur races and exhibitions by some of the best fancy skaters.

McGowan also reports that Baptie and his skating partner, Miss Gladys Lamb will stage several exhibitions. They are rated the most graceful pair on skates. They have been appearing at Madison Square Garden for three years now and they are so good that hockey spectators, instead of tiring of

The Nut Cracker

There seems to be some demand, here and there, for an All-Star Basketball team. Just another proof that a sports writer's life is not a merry one.

The number of basketball players in the United States is only five less than the combined total of fire plugs, telephone poles and clothes racks. But some of them, of course, are more active.

Johnny Hodapp announces he is through with baseball and will continue in the under taking business. Maybe you'd say the former first baseman is going to become a slab artist.

Avon Park, Fla.—A young man who promises great things in the big leagues reported for duty to the Cards here today. He is 42 years old and a pitcher. He says he knows lots of the big league players and is anxious to mix with 'em. His name was given as G. C. Alexander.

"BLARNEYS" WIN

The Blarneystone Boys' Club emerged victoriously from a St. Patrick's Eve battle with the West Side Flashes by the score of 41-29 at the St. James' hall. During the game, the lead changed many times. At the end of the third quarter, the Flashes led 27-21, but baskets by Breen, Vince, and McCluskey in the last quarter closed the gap. In this quarter, the Blarneystones outscored their rivals 20-2.

In the second quarter, Hadden had to leave the game when he received a long cut on his leg when he fell against a ventilator. The Blarneystones used a shifting center which upset the Flashes at times.

Springfield Luther Five Plays Here This Evening

Local Team Seeks Revenge for 31-15 Defeat Suffered in Home City Recently.

Tampa, Fla., March 20.—Trying hard to make the grade at the spring training camp of the Washington Senators here is Jim Weaver, the tallest pitcher in the American League. He is six feet six and one half inches and weighs 230 pounds. His fort is speed and plenty of it. Weaver is 24 years old. He bats and throws right-handed. He tried to break in as a pitcher with Kansas City at the age of nineteen but failed. The he attended Western Teachers college in Kentucky. He was a star basketball player and finally turned a "pro."

He joined Chattanooga as a pitcher in 1927 and remained there until he was purchased by Washington last summer. He won four and lost twelve for the "Lookouts" last season. He may not make the majors this year but eventually he will, in the opinion of good baseball judges. He lives in Bowling Green, Ky.

The Springfield Luther League basketball team plays here tonight at the School Street Rec against the local League team. In its lineup are three brothers, one of whom is captain of the team. He played in Springfield a short time ago when Manchester was soundly trounced by the score of 31-15, he scored eight baskets. However the local team is confident that he, nor his team, will not repeat the performance tonight. Come on, Luther League! Show your faith by being there to cheer!

The line-up follows:
Springfield . . . . . Manchester
W. Johnson . . . . . L. Daigault
H. Haglund . . . . . E. Anderson
B. Haglund . . . . . M. Nelson

H. Haglund . . . . . S. Anderson

Subs, Springfield, Johnson, Nelson; Manchester, A. Gustafson, H. Larson.

VENDRILLO'S TEAM KEEPS ON WINNING

The Collecting Company tightened its grip on first place in the 118th Medical Regiment bowling league race last night at the Hartford State Armory when it defeated the Quartermasters two out of three games, losing the first by ten pins, and winning the next two by 38 and 11 respectively. The Collecting Company has won 16 games and lost two; the Quartermasters, 13 and five. Tomorrow night the Collecting Company meets the Regimental Headquarters. The Collecting Company is composed entirely of Manchester men. The scores follow:

BOWLING BANQUET ON NEXT MONDAY
March 25 Date Chosen Because of Conflicts; Osano to Cater.

Due to previous arrangements, it will be necessary to change the date of the Herald Bowling League banquet to next Monday evening instead of next Tuesday as originally planned. Through an error, it was announced yesterday that April 2 had been decided upon as the date. Instead, March 25 is correct.

Chef Urbano J. Osano has been engaged for the occasion. He will put on a breaded veal cutlet and spaghetti dinner. Arrangements are being made for out of town entertainment. The affair will be held at the Sub-Alpine club on Bridge street.

EX-PREMIER TO WRITE HIS MEMOIRS OF WAR

London, March 20.—After ten years of indecision, David Lloyd George, the famous English statesman and premier during the darkest days of the war, is to write his memoirs.

He will undertake the work shortly after the forthcoming general election here, and the manuscript is expected to be in the hands of his publishers before the end of the year.

Miss Stephenson, the Liberal leader's secretary, who deals with all his work in relation to foreign countries, has been busy for years compiling essential documents, and has almost completed her task.

The memoirs, International News Service understands, will take the form of a chronicle of the war rather than controversial comments upon those who took part in it.

Lloyd George will answer the attacks that have been made upon him by publishing the naked facts from documents, many of which have not been published before.

In view of the many parts he has played upon the national and international stages, the memoirs are expected to have a wide appeal to readers in many countries.

POLICE COURT

George McCullom of the south end and Joseph Fronczak of the north end were before Judge Raymond A. Johnson in the police court this morning, charged with intoxication. McCullom was arrested by Sergeant John Crockett on East Center street after he had received complaints from residents there about a man hanging around in a drunken condition.

Fronczak was arrested by Policeman Galligan at North Main and North School streets. The policeman ordered him to go home but he insisted on hanging around the streets. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed in each case. Neither of the men had any money and they were taken to jail to work out their fines and costs.

SUSPECT TWO OTHERS POISONED BY RADIUM

Two Women Employed by Waterbury Clock Co. Are Being Watched by Doctors.

Waterbury, March 20.—Two other suspected victims of radium poisoning were being watched with care here today following the death of Mrs. Mildred Cardow, who contracted the malady four years ago while painting watch dials in a factory.

Mrs. Marjorie Barrett Dumaschott, of Naugatuck, lies bedridden from the effects of the poison and science is believed unable to help her. Miss Elsie Kleinschmidt is the other suspected victim, but her disability does not yet prevent her from doing light work.

The news of Mrs. Cardow's death heightened the panic among husbands of women watch dial painters who feel they may be similarly poisoned.

COVENTRY SOCIETY'S SUPPER A SUCCESS

Coventry Choral society members are jubilant over the success of their food sale held here at Hale's store last Saturday, and their chicken pie supper and entertainment in the chapel hall at North Coventry last evening. The sum of over $100 was netted by both events and the young people are grateful to the many Manchester people who patronized both the sale and the supper.

A large number of local business men and members of their families were present last night, as well as some from Willimantic and nearby towns. Twenty large chicken pies had been made for the meal and together with the vegetables in generous supply were placed upon the tables and everybody had the privilege of eating all they wanted. Many remained for the excellent entertainment thrown in for good measure.

Mrs. Archie Palmer of this town who was one of the ladies assisting, has retained her membership and interest in the church in Coventry although she has been here 18 years, and lends her aid to every worthy project whenever possible.

MISS BARRYMORE ILL; HER PLAY POSTPONED

Will Appear at Parsons's in Hartford in "Love Duel" April 1, 2 and 3.

Word was received today from the office of Mr. Lee Shubert that the coming engagement of Ethel Barrymore at the Parsons' Theater has been postponed owing to the recent illness of Miss Barrymore. This brings her to Hartford in her new play "The Love Duel" on April 1, 2, and 3.

2, and 3, matinee on Wednesday, April 3.

This postponement also sets back the opening date for New York and Miss Barrymore will not present her new play to the Metropolitan audience until Monday night, April 8 at the Ethel Barrymore Theater.

As a large number of mail orders have been received from Manchester, orders have been filled for the corresponding date one week later. Those who have ordered tickets but who are unable to attend will receive a refund upon application either by mail or in person at the Parsons' Theater.

It is positively stated, however, that Miss Barrymore will be at Parsons' April 1, 2, and 3.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. © 1929, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

An argument over raising dust lasts long because it's hard to settle it.

Doctors used to take temperature of a patient. Nowadays some of them take his watch and shoes. Nurse: "What church do you belong to?" Patient: "None." Nurse: "Well what church do you go to when you do go?" Patient: "If you must know, the church which I stay away from most of the time when I don't go is the Baptist."

Dealer: "Somebody stole three sets of harness out of my store." Policeman: "Did the thief leave any traces?" Dealer: "No, he took the traces, too!"

Hubby—I wish I had one of those crisp rolls that mother used to make. Wife—Yes, and I wish you had a few crisp rolls such as father used to put in the bank.

Gypsy: "I'll tell your fortune, mister." "How much?" "Fifty cents." "Correct."

Calling a man half-witted doesn't always tell the whole story. There are smaller fractions than that.

Success frequently travels with a closed mouth, but never a closed mind.

Today women display far more backbone than men.

The Duck's Pants. Imagine the little ducks' embarrassment when they cracked their shells and found that their pants were down.

No wonder foreigners have trouble with the American language. In this country, when you shingle a house, you put something on, when you shingle a woman's hair, you take something off.

The Meat Boy's Love. I never saw such eyes as thine, And if you'll butcher your hand in mine, And liver round me every day, We'll seek some hen-let far away, We'll meat life's frown with life's carcass, And cleaver road to happiness.

Propaganda has progressed to the point where the average editor's wastebasket is the entire office floor.

A back-woods man, in New York for the first time, went to a big hotel for dinner. As an appetizer, the waiter brought a tray of large olives. The stranger eyed them for a while, then motioned for the waiter. "I don't want to trouble you," he said, "but if you wouldn't mind I'd like to see one of the pods these green peas came in."

Wonder what luck Jonah had with the Mrs. When he told her that fish story?

So live that you needn't coach the children in good manners when they leave for a party.

VETER GOLF

FOR BRIDGE FANS Here's a SPADE TRICK for letter golf-bridge fans. Par is eight and one solution is on another page.

Letter golf grid with letters S, P, A, D, E and T, R, I, C, K.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed. One solution is printed on another page.

Watt: "I see the doctor kept his word about having you on your feet again inside of a month." Nott: "You're darned right he did! I had to sell my car to pay his bill."

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. © 1929, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tynites eyed the funny man, as here and there he lightly ran. Then Scouty whispered, "My, he's odd. His head is made of coal. This little mine's his home, no doubt, but I should think that he'd run out. No one could ever find him if he'd fall down in a hole." Then Cloway added, "I hope he is just as friendly as can be. He'll make a real good playmate if we find that he is kind. Let's all jump out and shout 'Hello,' and very shortly we will know just who this little fellow is. Come on, if you don't mind." "Oh, he can't hurt us," Copy cried. He then jumped to the coal man's side, and with a very friendly smile, said, "Greetings, little man. We have not come to start a row. Let's all get friendly, here and now. If you are looking for some fun, we'll help you all we can. "Well, howdy, lads," the coal man snapped. "I guess, like me, you boys are trapped down in the crazy coal mine. But I know how to get out. Now, all of you stand where you are. I'll whistle for another car." And, as he whistled loudly, all the bunch began to shout. "They heard a rumble right near by, and Carry then began to sigh. "Thank goodness," he exclaimed, "we're going to leave this stuffy place." The car then drifted into sight. "This rather pleased each Tynmite. Upon the car sat other men, a smile on each one's face. "All hop aboard," the coal men cried. "We're going to take a little ride. But, wait! Will someone push this car?" All Scouty yelled, "I will!" "Me, too," spoke Copy. "I'll be fun, to give a ride to everyone." They shortly pushed real hard and started up a little hill. (An accident happens in the next story.)

ABOUT TOWN

Alfred A. Greel reports the sales of Kelvinator Electric refrigerators to Dominick Enrico of Tolland Turnpike, Nicholas Della Fera of Cottage street and William Quish of Main and Hollister streets.

William Rubinow is in New York today attending a manufacturers showing of spring merchandise. He expects to do considerable buying at this time.

The Ladies Aid society of the South Methodist church will serve a supper this evening in charge of a group of the members under the leadership of Mrs. Harriet Skewes.

A son, Raymond, Jr., was born Sunday, March 3 to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O'Coin of Manchester Green.

The Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Concordia Lutheran church will meet tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

The second of the series of discussions led by Mrs. Nellie V. Burgess of Hartford will be held in the primary room at Second Congregational church this evening at 7:30. The third will be held at the North Methodist church, Wednesday evening of next week. The general topic of these discussions is "Current Problems in Our Homes." Tonight's topics will be "Modern Youth" and "The Adjustment of Childhood to Life."

Mrs. Charles F. Johnson of Hill street will entertain the Missionary society of the Swedish Lutheran church at her home tomorrow afternoon.

Mary C. Keeney Tent, Daughters of Union War Veterans will hold its regular business meeting in the State Armory tomorrow evening.

Calvin C. Bolles of South Windsor, prominent in banking circles in Hartford, was the speaker at the meeting of the Hi-Y club at Center church last evening.

Mrs. Stina Molander of the Bronx, New York City, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Andrew Johnson of Clinton street. Mrs. Molander was accompanied by her grandson, Carl W. Hallgren, formerly of this town who returns to the Bronx today.

Miss Esther Anderson of Cooper street who is to be married next month to Harry Erickson of New Britain, was honored with another shower, which was given last evening at the home of Mrs. John Johnson of Hartford. The usual pastimes were indulged in and a dainty luncheon served by the hostess. The dining room and table decorations were in pink and blue. Miss Anderson received many useful gifts in silver, linen, glassware and other articles.

Miantonomah Tribe, No. 58, Improved Order of Red Men, will journey to Stafford Springs tomorrow night to take part in the anniversary of the lodge there.

The special committee in charge of the May Merchants Week will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Manchester Camp Royal Neighbors held an enjoyable card party yesterday afternoon at the Home clubhouse on Brainard place, instead of a meeting this evening as a number of members are in attendance at the convention in New London. Only progressive whist was played yesterday. Mrs. Gerald Risley ran up the highest score, Mrs. Marcella Groman second and Mrs. W. J. Burke, consolation. The attendance prize was captured by Mrs. Loretta St. John. The committee served refreshments during the social hour that followed the games.

William J. Burke of School street who has been convalescing at his home following an operation at the Memorial hospital, was able to be out yesterday for the first time.

There are many signs of spring these days, but for the real "sounds of spring" all that is necessary is a visit to the South Manchester post-office. This is the season of the year for young chicks and each day more chicks just from the egg are coming by parcel post in numbers from 500 to 1,000 a day. As they are left in the back room awaiting delivery, they make things rather "chippy" by their continued chirping. They are shipped into Manchester from New York State and states in the Middle West.

Mrs. Marcella Groman won first prize at the whist given last night at the home of Mrs. David Dickson on Spruce street for the benefit of the Women of Mooseheart Legion. Mrs. Alice Coleman stood second and Mrs. Catherine Montie received the consolation. For the men, William Brunella stood highest; Sterling Lippincott, second; and Robert Dickson, consolation. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

LEGION AUXILIARY HOLDS CARD PARTY

Affair Is Huge Success—Whist and Bridge Played—Door Prizes and Refreshments.

A successful card party was given last evening at the State Armory by the American Legion auxiliary. In straight whist the two first prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hill; second prizes were won by Mrs. Paul Dilworth and Samuel Libby of Rockville. The first prizes in bridge were won by Mrs. John Reinartz and Thomas Dannaer; second prizes by Mrs. Edward Bronson and James W. Foley.

The door prize which was donated by Frank Hillery of the Fairfield Grocery was won by Mrs. Joseph O'Gorman. Sandwiches and coffee were served at the close of the games by the committee, Mrs. Georgia George, Mrs. Jessie Kerr, Mrs. Minnie Sault, Mrs. Lucy Swanson and Mrs. John Allison.

Mary Bushnell Cheney Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the State Armory.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

THOSE BABY FOODS.

Never did Pinehurst get a quicker reaction to an advertisement than to the announcement yesterday that this store had been appointed Manchester distributor of Clapp's Baby Soup and Strained Vegetables. This was a case of a "waiting market."

It appears that a number of Manchester people who spent last summer at the Shore Resorts on the Sound, particularly around New Haven, became familiar with Clapp's Baby Food and Strained Vegetables which the physicians of the Elm City were already advocating and which were being extensively used in that vicinity. Many of the summer visitors became quickly converted to the use of these Baby Foods for their little ones and since returning home have told their friends. So that Pinehurst had no sooner announced the stocking of the foods than the telephone began to bring orders and congratulations.

These foods are produced under absolute laboratory control and under sterilizing conditions impossible in the home. The steam cooking is done in glass lined tanks and a temperature of 242 degrees attained, completely eliminating the Botulinus germ. They all come in glass.

The Baby Soup comes strained and unstrained and the Strained Vegetables include Spinach, Asparagus, Tomatoes, String Beans, Peas and Beets. There is also Liver Soup, Prune Pulp, Apricot Pulp and Wheatheart Soup—a combination of several vegetables with Wheat Germ, high in Protein value, Food Iron and Vitamine D. It is slightly sweetish and appeals to babies who refuse all other food.

Pinehurst will make very rapid deliveries of the Baby Foods. Phone 2000.
