

NEW ROAD BILL WOULD BOOST GASOLINE TAX

Also Would Remove from Towns the Right to Collect
Tax on Automobiles as Personal Property.

By Clarence G. Willard

Ardent interest in the controversy over the improvement of secondary state highways, began last week with the overflow hearing on the dirt roads bill, was further heightened in the General Assembly this week when it became generally known that the Committee on Finance had under consideration a new bill which is also intended to increase the annual expenditure for the improvement of roads not part of the state's trunkline system.

This new bill, if passed, would inaugurate a radical alteration in the present methods of state and town taxation. It would increase the present tax of two cents per gallon on the sale of gasoline to four cents per gallon, and at the same time remove from the towns the right to collect a tax on automobile as personal property. The removal of this latter right, however, would be recompensed by a return of money to the towns from the increased tax.

Were this measure, as it is being discussed at present, put into effect, two cents of the four cent tax would go to the highway department as at present for the construction and reconstruction of trunkline highways. One and a half cents of the total per gallon tax would be returned to the towns on a pro rata basis in accordance with the number of motor vehicles in each individual town. The balance of the tax, one half a cent per gallon, would be used for the improvement of secondary roads.

Under the above provision, the amount which the gasoline tax would furnish for regular highway department work would be practically the same as at the present time, approximately $2,400,000 per year. The amount of the amount available for additional improvements to the secondary highway system.

This measure is said to have been suggested to the Committee on Finance by Tax Commissioner Blodgett as a method for overcoming the present hue and cry for a dirt roads appropriation in addition to the annual million dollar grant for that purpose made by the legislature of 1927. The proponents of the dirt roads appropriation, receiving a well defined inkling during the week that the measure would undoubtedly be lost, are now gathering their forces behind this proposal which as a matter of fact would afford an even larger expenditure on rural roads than the original dirt roads bill.

Discussion on the new proposal has had the effect of still further complicating the secondary road question, and both sides of the argument are now seeking some solution which will be agreeable to all. This solution, however, does not seem to be in sight, as the gasoline tax, for many of the towns are doubtful as to the amount of money they might receive to replace their personal property tax on motor vehicles. Few towns are willing to risk the chance that the return under the increased gas tax would equal or surpass their present income from property taxation.

It is probable that the solution to the entire situation will come in the form of a substitute measure, which will increase the present annual grant for state aid road work, but which will also provide that the towns may make an increasing use of their state aid grants for the improvement of gravel roads. It is likely, however, that the bill will specify that the increased appropriation shall be utilized for the so-called "stage construction."

"Stage construction" is a method introduced by the highway commission under the 1927 appropriation which makes it possible for each town, instead of utilizing its entire share of the annual grant for the complete construction of a short stretch of town road, to utilize it for the initial stage of construction of a much longer piece of road, and to use future appropriations to construct each additional stage until the entire process is completed.

For example, a single town's share of the appropriation might be large enough for the complete construction of only half a mile of road, whereas the road so selected by the town for improvement might be three miles in length. Under former methods, the town would have been forced to construct six sections half a mile in length every two years and it would naturally follow that by the time the last section was built the first would be sadly in need of repair. Under the new method, the town would expend its state grant for the first two years, in grading the road and converting it into a good gravel highway. Two years later, it would pro-

QUEEN'S MOTHER-IN-LAW OUT CAST OF BEE HIVE

Denver, March 30.—Mother-in-law fights are not entirely typical of the human race, for according to J. E. Eckert of the U. S. bee culture station at Laramie, Wyo., a fight between a Queen bee and her mother-in-law would make a human "mother-in-law" fight look like an afternoon tea.

The Queen bee may allow her own mother to stay around the hive for a few days, but her husband's mother, never, immediately after they meet, the fight begins, and continues until death. The mother-in-law usually loses the battle.

Eckert told many interesting things concerning bee life in his address at the annual convention of the Colorado Honey Producers Association held here.

IS FOUND BODY THAT OF LOST FRANCES SMITH?

Or Is It Miss Alice Corbett?
Both Were Smith College
Girls Who Disappeared
Over a Year Ago.

Springfield, Mass., March 30.—A mystery nearly as difficult to solve as the disappearance of Miss Frances S. John Smith and Miss Alice Corbett, Smith college students, who vanished on "Friday-the-Thirteenth" baffled authorities today.

The height, weight and general characteristics of the body of a girl found yesterday afternoon enmeshed in the branches of a willow tree on the Longmeadow shore of the Connecticut river were discovered last night to correspond with that of Miss Smith, whose disappearance on Jan. 13, 1928 furnished one of the greatest mysteries of a decade and resulted in a fruitless search, international in scope.

Miss St. John Smith

The teeth of the body were in good condition and the unusual and expensive dental work were expected to prove a determining factor in identification. Dr. W. J. Wood, of Pelham, N. Y., who had treated the teeth of Miss Smith was asked to determine whether the teeth in the river corresponded with his knowledge of the teeth of Miss Smith. The dental work included a silver band between two lateral teeth, running through the center of the lower teeth.

Might Be Other Girl
However, while authorities were awaiting the arrival today of Dr. Wood, word came from Utica, N. Y., the home of Miss Corbett, that dentist, Dr. H. W. Clapp, thought the body might be that of Miss Corbett, who vanished from Smith college Jan. 13, 1925. Dr. Clapp had used a restraining band on the teeth of his patient. It Dr. Wood failed to identify the teeth as those of Miss Smith, Dr. Clapp would come here to try and assist in identification, authorities said.

Against the theory that the body was that of Miss Corbett, was the positive statement of Medical Ex-

CUSTOMS MEN INSIST BOOZE WAS SMUGGLED

Say They Found Four Quarts
In Dry Congressman's
Luggage When He Returned from Panama.

Washington, March 30.—Four quarts of liquor is not much liquor in these Volsteadian days of carloads and boatloads, but it is enough to be extremely embarrassing to the U. S. Customs authorities and the Prohibition Bureau. Most particularly it is embarrassing when it is alleged to have been possessed by a dry member of Congress.

The question of whether Rep. William M. Morgan (R) of Ohio, one of the drier of the Drys in Congress, did or did not have the alleged four quarts when he came through customs in New York last Monday continued to agitate Washington today and to plague the prohibition authorities.

The customs agents in New York say they spotted the four quarts in the congressman's luggage, but that he got away with them by pleading Congressional immunity.

Denies Report
Rep. Morgan denies that he possessed four quarts, or even one quart.

In the face of the customs agents' statements, Rep. Morgan said today:

"I have already made a statement of fact and do not care to go into the matter any further. I will not add to the statement I have already made. I have made a statement of fact and that should be enough."

The statement Morgan referred to was made several days ago when the question of the four quarts was first raised. It was this:

"I don't think I should bring in four bottles of liquor baggage. I never took a drink in my life. I am a teetotaler."

Matter Now Rests
There the matter rested today. What the customs and prohibition authorities are going to do about it remains to be seen. They wish the inspectors to be pleased. In fact, they wish the question of the four quarts had never arisen in the first place.

Rep. Morgan is one of the pillars of the Anti-Saloon League in the House. He has voted for nearly every piece of dry legislation that has been offered during his eight years in the House, including the drastic Jones Bill.

According to the report of the customs inspectors in New York, Morgan became indignant when his baggage was searched and the four quarts revealed, telephoning to higher customs authorities, and informing them he was an official business and was entitled to "free entry." The higher authorities, according to reports from New York, instructed the inspectors to pass the congressman's baggage intact.

Legally, there is no such thing as "free entry" through customs. In practice, it has been the custom of the authorities to pass the baggage of foreign diplomats and government officials traveling on official business.

The junketing party of Congressmen and their wives who made the Panama trip, however, were not on official business, according to Rep. La Guardia (R) of New York, who was a member of the party. La Guardia pointed out that all members of the party were paying their own expenses, whereas if it had been an "official trip" the government would have been paying the mileage.

MICHAELSON'S CASE
Chicago, March 30.—Search for Congressman M. A. Michaelson of Chicago will be launched by Deputy United States marshals today unless the congressman immediately surrenders himself to federal authorities.

Such was the announcement from the Federal building this morning, six months after Michaelson was indicted in Jacksonville, Fla., on charges involving the smuggling of liquor into the United States.

Friends of the accused congressman expect him to "show up" today with a carefully detailed plan for fighting the indictment.

One Federal officer pointed out that if Michaelson chooses to take advantage of all the delays obtainable under his legal rights, it may

All Ready for Easter Day

"No sun upon an Easter Day is half so fine a sight," was the way Sir John Suckling wrote it. He wasn't writing about Loretta Young, movie queen pictured above, but he might as well have been, you'll have to agree. Below are little Davey Lee, child star of the movies, with his Easter bunny, and Doris Lawson, with her favorite Easter bird, the wiffenpoof. Doris says a wiffenpoof is a poof that wiffens.

GRANTS POLICE PROTECTION ON EDGE OF TOWN

Commission Orders Ford
Roadster and Two Motorcycles for Patrol; Tear Gas Bombs Are Ordered.

An extensive plan for patrolling the remote sections of the town was drawn yesterday at a special meeting of the Manchester police commission. The meeting was held at the home of Chairman Willard B. Rogers, who is confined with throat trouble.

Ford roadster and two motorcycles will constitute the equipment to be used in this patrolling scheme.

Manchester Green, Highland Park, Buckland and the Kenney street section will all be covered by policemen when the plan is established. Many requests have been received by the commission for such protection and the demand has been so insistent that the police commission decided it should be granted.

Beginning May 1 another day man for the control of vehicular traffic will be put on, the commission decided. Two new motorcycles have been secured for the department.

ANTIS FLOCK IN EARLY BALLOTING

North End and Buckland
Folks Do Nearly All the Voting This Morning.

A good vote was indicated at noon today in Manchester's special election when 638 votes, had been cast.

From all indications the anti-revisionists of the North End and Buckland are likely to poll more votes against school consolidation in today's voting on charter changes than will be polled by the pro-consolidationists for this morning they were coming down, like the Assyrians, in a swarm, that promised something like a ninety per cent vote from the North End, and the Seventh district almost all of anti, while South Enders seemed to be wondering what the shooting was all about.

That there was organization among the anti's was evident enough, for there were plenty of automobiles that were obviously in service for the day, and the promptness with which the Buckland voters, especially, showed up at the polls was an indication of a determination to "get out the vote." Of the 568 votes that had been recorded at 10:15 o'clock, a very large majority were clearly those of persons determined to have nothing to do with school consolidation or any other "re-town" proposition.

Pros Not Excited
If the pro-consolidationists get to going this afternoon there is, of course, a good likelihood that the early lead of the anti's will be overcome, but from indications this forenoon there wasn't the least bit of excitement south of Middle Turnpike and the chances appeared good that consolidation would fail to receive support through the vote of the voters to go to the city.

At the 10:15 check-up only 55 women had voted and most of these were said to be from the Seventh and Eighth districts.

All high machines were in operation, only one machine tender to each two machines being used, however.

Otto Nelson is moderator. The booth tenders are George Murdock, Elnis Johnson, Thomas Sheridan and Charles P. O'Connor. Checkers are Arthur Lashinsky, William Shea, Otto Sannikson and Edward Moriarty.

William P. Colter of 107 Pine street, who has been undergoing treatment at the Hartford hospital, is showing improvement. It is not expected he will be able to return home for some weeks to come, however.

FORCIER BOUND OVER

Darien, March 30.—Theodore Forcier, alias Joseph Liberty, of Montclair, N. J., was today bound over for trial in the Superior Court on charges of assault with intent to kill and robbery with violence, after a Town Court hearing before Judge Charles Bates Dana, and committed to jail at Bridgeport in default of bail of $25,000.

Prosecutor Charles E. Williamson, in presenting the case against Forcier, recited the features of an alleged hold-up in this district, and told how Forcier had assaulted Joseph Mason, 17, with a hammer and then robbed the gas station of which Mason had charge, on the morning of March 28.

Forcier immediately pleaded guilty to both charges and Judge Dana ordered him held.

RICE TO BE TRIED DESPITE LETTERS

PROHIBITION SPY
FEARS PUBLIC IRE
Man Who Caused Raid Which Resulted in Killing, Guarded by Officials.

Aurora, Ill., March 30.—Eugene Fairchild, alias Boyd Fairchild, the undercover dry sleuth whose information formed the basis for the fatal raid on the home of Joseph De King in custody of Kane county officials today.

He is being held as a material witness for the inquest into the death of Mrs. Lillian De King, shot down in her home by dry raiders.

Taking his cue from the furor and public indignation that followed the fatal raid, Fairchild quietly slipped out of town. His disappearance only added fuel to the stormy aftermath. Yielding to public clamor, Kane county officials decided they had better look up Fairchild.

He was taken at his home in Odell, Ill., late yesterday. But officials feared to return him to Kane county because of the temper of the citizens, feeling is running high and any untoward incident may have disastrous consequences.

Is Hidden
Fairchild is being held "somewhere outside of Kane county" where he will be easily available when wanted for the investigation.

Asked why he fled, the dry sleuth said he became alarmed over the consequences of the raid and applied to the state attorney's office for permission to carry a gun.

When this was denied, he said, he decided to "go home."

Fairchild's spying was only a part-time occupation. At other times he is an automobile salesman. His operations with the state attorney's office were based on the "fee system," receiving $5 for each "exposure" of dry law violation.

He Canceled Raid
It was his affidavit on the purchase of moonshine that prompted six-deputy sheriffs under the leadership of Roy Smith to break into the De King home, batter Joseph De King unconscious with their guns, terrorize his 12-year-old son, Gerald, and finally to shoot and mortally wound Mrs. De King when she rushed to her husband's assistance.

Deputy Sheriff Smith, who admitted firing the shot that killed Mrs. De King, was later shot in the leg by the woman's little boy, and is now confined in a hospital at Elgin, near here, aggravated with gangrene poisoning. Smith, too, was taken out of Aurora for fear of violence.

A gallon of wine was seized in the raid. Friends and attorneys of the De King family say the De Kings never sold liquor and charge that the prohibition spy, Fairchild, made the affidavit merely to obtain the $5 fee. The De Kings, it is said, had made the small amount of wine solely for their own use.

AGED MOTHER AND SON MURDERED BY BANDITS

First Shot and Then House is Set on Fire—Robbery the Motive.

Elkton, Md., March 30.—Mrs. Anna Mahoney, 82, and her 50-year-old son, Edward, were shot and burned to death in their farmhouse near here early today.

Aroused by shots, neighbors went to the Mahoney home when they saw the flames but the blaze was beyond their control and they were unable to reach the bodies. Firemen and police officials agreed on the theory the couple had been killed by bandits and the house set afire to conceal the crime. Both Mrs. Mahoney and her husband were known to keep large sums of money about their home.

DELAY REPORTING MURDER
New York, March 30.—Because they couldn't find a policeman at the time, Mr. and Mrs. August Zeno went to bed and slept for several hours before reporting that Joseph Mondello, 35, had been shot to death in the couple's Brooklyn home early today. The shooting is said to have grown out of a quarrel in which the Zellos and Rasio De Pretto were involved.

State's Attorney Says He Knew Contents of Suicide's Notes Long Ago and That Does Not Change His Opinion—Trial to Begin
On April 9.

(Special to The Herald)
Willimantic, March 30.—The fact that Mrs. William E. Jackson before her death left two notes exonerating Trent Rice of the killing of her husband, William Jackson, will have no effect on the case against the State's case against the accused and his trial will probably be held starting Tuesday, April 9, according to State Attorney Howard C. Bradford, who also said that he would not throw out the case against Rice and that the State had the inside of the affair and would go through with it.

Says Rice is Guilty
"Rice committed the murder and we'll prove it," said Bradford. When asked how he would be able to get a jury together to try Rice when everybody in Windham county is of the opinion that Mrs. Jackson committed the murder, Bradford replied:

"We'll have nearly 100 men to pick 12 from and we'll get a jury." He then added, "I had the letters that were given out for publication today since Mrs. Jackson committed suicide. They don't mean a thing to me. They can't be introduced as evidence in the trial. Therefore, they will have no bearing on the case."

Jackson's Note
A note, written by County Detective William E. Jackson to Trent Rice two days before Jackson was murdered the contents of which were given out by the State last night and which the State asserts shows the motive for the killing read as follows:

"Mr. T. R. Rice, Mrs. Jackson has notice to leave away from your place on Brown avenue. If she does not I shall start action in the Superior Court. If you wish to wreck her and Juanita in Willimantic keep on. (Signed) W. E. Jackson."

The note was seen in court circles which have been following the case, as an instrument to discredit the assertions of Mrs. Jackson, written before she killed herself, that Rice was not a subject of controversy between her and her alarmed husband. The note was given out with the brief and significant statement: "This is Jackson's note. That is all for the present."

The coroner will resume his inquest today with the taking of the testimony of J. Henry Fitzgerald, Hartford fire arms expert, who will testify that the bullet which killed Jackson was of .32 caliber.

BANK REDECORATION IS AN INTENSIVE JOB

Manchester Trust Building
Full of Scaffolds Today.
Clear by Monday.

The Manchester Trust Company's banking house buzzed with activity this morning. Not only was there the usual Saturday morning rush of depositors, but the work of re-decorating the interior was progressing at the same time.

The work of painting the interior of the bank made necessary the building of a scaffolding which covers the entire interior. A large wooden framework was put up by the Manchester Construction Company Thursday night. The work required four hours and was started immediately after the bank's day ended at 9 o'clock in the evening.

This morning, John I. Olson's men began the actual painting. A light shade of green is being used. The work will be finished tomorrow and the scaffolding removed in time for resumption of business at the usual hour Monday morning. Persons having business in the bank building this morning had to pass through the wooden framework to get to the windows.

IN BANKRUPTCY
New Haven, March 30.—Voluntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in United States District Court here today by Alfred Demar, a Glastonbury farmer, who owes $7,800 and has $85 assets; Isaac P. ## Wilkins Plans Exploring North Pole Via Submarine

New York, March 30.—Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins, Polar explorer, today was working on plans for a submarine expedition to the North Pole, it was learned. The noted flier was considering a voyage under the ice of the Arctic ocean from Spitzbergen to the Bering Sea, he announced.

"I am merely making inquiries about such a trip. No definite plan has been made yet," Sir George said.

aminer Frederick D. James that the body found in the trailing branches of the willow tree had been in the water from one to four years.

Father's Statement
And against the theory that the body was that of Miss Smith was word from New York that St. John Smith, the wealthy broker father of the vanished girl, declared several of his daughters' teeth had been filed a short time before she disappeared. The teeth in the skull of the body found at Long Meadow were without fillings. W. F. Haufl, caretaker of the Smith estate, "The Fiddlers," at South Norwalk, Conn., recalled that Miss Smith once wore a restraining band but could not recall whether he had seen it during the time she was in college at Northampton.

St. John Smith has insisted from the start that his daughter did not take her life. There were no marks of violence on the body found but the medical examiner said it was impossible to determine whether poison had been administered. Death, he said, was due to drowning. The fingers on the right hand were gone. It was on the fingers of this hand that Miss Smith wore her rings.

Sleuths Called In
State Detective Albert Dacey, who was called in by Springfield and Longmeadow police, examined the records of the Smith case as completed by the late Joseph V. Dacey, state detective in charge of the investigation. No reference to dental work was found, however. There was an inch difference in the height and a pound difference in weight but this was accounted for by the authorities by the long time the body had been in the water.

Besides the teeth, the only other possible clue to identification was a piece of blue serge material with red tape border, which clung around the neck. It was the only piece of clothing on the body, said before Miss Smith vanished from her dormitory at Smith college she wore an orange colored Jersey sweater. It was never definitely determined what she wore the day she disappeared for she was not seen on that day.

SURE IT'S MISS SMITH
Springfield, Mass., March 30.—Lieutenant David J. Manning, a state police detective of wide experience, told International News Service today that he felt positive that the body of the girl taken from the Connecticut river was that of Miss Frances St. John Smith, vanished Smith college student and New York heiress.

He said he based his opinion on a telephone conversation with Dr. W. J. Wood, of Pelham, N. Y., who did dental work for Miss Smith.

Lieut. Manning said that he described in detail the dental work on the teeth of the body taken from the river and that Dr. Wood said it tallied with a chart he kept

We give our thanks to God for thee
What joy thou hast to us all borne
Thou bring the sweetest memory.

The memory that Christ hath risen
Triumphant over the grave
Bringing hope and cheer to millions
The eternal, the mighty to save.

Before Christ arose man was not sure
Of a glorious resurrection morn
But He came forth and is the cure
For all despondent and forlorn.

Now with joy we may look forward
Without any dread of the grave
For He did burst all bands asunder
That life eternal we might have.

I am the resurrection, Jesus said
And death and the grave gave way
They could not hold Him in their
Nor keep Him for their prey.

By faith we may this Easter tide
Behold the Lamb for sinners slain
For He did burst all bands asunder
That life eternal we might have.

For He that liveth and believeth
The conqueror of death did say
Eternal life in Him receiveth
'Tis found along the narrow way.

There is cheer for us in the Saviour's word
Because I live yet to shall live
If we repent and all sin discard
This beautiful gift to us He'll give.

Tall Cedars, Masonic Social Club to Hold April Frolic and Carnival.

A record breaking fun making crowd is assured at the Masonic Temple Monday night when a big April Fool and dance is held there under the auspices of the Tall Cedars and the Masonic Social Club.

A large number of tickets has been sold and the popularity of Tall Cedars dances should bring a lot of door ticket sales.

All kinds of April Fool stunts have been planned by the committee. Clowns will disport through the ball room and there will be plenty of opportunity during the night for fun.

Jack Morey's famous singing orchestra will be on deck to furnish the music.

of the dental work he did for Miss Smith.

Dr. Wood told Lieut. Manning, the latter said, that, of course, he could not make a positive statement until he saw the dental work. He said that he had several appointments at his office this forenoon and would leave New York on the noon train, arriving here at 3:20 p. m.

At the same time Dr. H. W. Clapp, of Utica, N. Y., who did dental work for Miss Alice Corbett, who also vanished from Smith college, arranged with a Springfield dentist to be present at the examination of the teeth late this afternoon for comparison with the chart Dr. Clapp has in his office.

Lieut. Manning said that he had advised St. John Smith, father of Miss Smith, not to come here because of the condition of the body. At police headquarters this forenoon no relatives of other missing girls had suggested that the body taken from the river might be their relative.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Eugene Tappay said he was confident the dry-voting congressman will surrender today after reading the publicity given the ultimate revirement of the rum-smuggling indictment.

substitute in any degree the judgment of any person outside the institution as to what the policies or methods of the institution should be in the care and treatment of patients.

"There is no intention of limiting the freedom of administrative authorities in meeting their local situations.

"Institutions and agencies are asked to submit their budget estimates in a uniform way and under a standard classification heading. The board makes no attempt to say for which purposes money appropriated shall be spent. No control is attempted beyond that necessary to insure that expenditures not authorized by appropriations are made, and that payments are made for services actually rendered and goods actually received in amounts not exceeding those originally requested and authorized by appropriations.

"Nothing could be less restrictive, nor could less be asked and provide an effective basis for audit."

Although the week just passed had only three legislative business days, there was great activity in routine and controversial matters. Committees sent along favorable reports on 65 bills, and unfavorable reports on 69 bills. "The Senate adopted 22 bills from calendar and the House 18 bills. Incidentally this was the first week when the Senate did more than the House.

The budget bill was the chief among those favorably reported. There were bills, regulating enrollment at the state college, extending the bank commissioner's powers in curbing bad stock issues, extending the closed season on Hungarian partridge, and ever so many bills approving bond issues by the towns of the state. The bonds will run into a great many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

On the other hand, the woman's jury service bill was knocked out by the Senate. A similar bill is expected to meet similar treatment in the House the coming week. A vast amount of oratory will be expended in an effort to save the bill in the House but the talk will do no good. The Senate's action has already put the woman jury bill out of running for the biennium: 1929-30.

A proposal to have the state buy the best tuberculosis sanatorium on the eastern seaboard, the Allington Institution that was given in some years ago by Mrs. William Wirt Winchester, of New Haven, was dumped into the waste basket after the fear was expressed that its purchase might handicap the work of the state in other sanatoria.

Bills Rejected
Other rejected bills included: Putting mufflers on the engines of motor boats, requiring the display of proper ownership certificates before an automobile might be registered, abolition of high school secret societies, permitting state's attorneys to attend sessions of state grand juries, and establishing a central finger print bureau for the entire state under jurisdiction of the State Police Department.

Only eight committees have hearings for the coming week. More may be arranged as the week goes on, but so far the matter to be considered are: State aid for education, taxes on insurance companies, city and corporation charter changes, vaccination of school children, amendments to the Workingmen's Compensation Act, designation as parts of the state's trunk line highway system of many city streets, regulation of beverage bottling, and regulations for trolley service.

Fairfield county legislators had expected to hold a meeting during the present week but were unable to do it. They will try again next Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

HOSPITAL NOTES
Three births were reported at Memorial hospital today—a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Ferrell of 157 Birch street, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. David Toomey of Bolton and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Chaponis of Burnham street, Buckland.

Patients discharged were Mrs. Erik Anderson and baby boy, of 33 Benton street; Mrs. Herbert Wright and baby boy, of 5 Orchard street; Mrs. Mina Karlson, of 31 Golway street.

There was one death, that of Mrs. John Chartier of 245 North Main street, last night.

The condition of the Lillian Ting baby remains unchanged. It will be a question whether or not the child will live. Its mother died in childbirth.

OBITUARY DEATHS

Mrs. John Chartier
Mrs. Margaret May (Tammany) Chartier, wife of John Chartier, 245 North Main street, one of the best known residents in the north end of Manchester, died at 6:10 last night at the Memorial hospital where she was removed Tuesday morning. Death was directly due to pneumonia but Mrs. Chartier had not been in good health since last Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Chartier was born in Middletown and came to Manchester when a young girl. She had made her home here ever since. Mrs. Chartier was a member of the Emblem club, an auxiliary of the Rockville Elks; St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella, Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus and the local American Legion auxiliary. St. Margaret's Circle will hold the home in a body at eight tomorrow night.

Mrs. Chartier leaves, four sons, five grandchildren, one brother and one sister in addition to her husband. The sons are Raymond J. Carroll, J. George Sylvester, Mrs. Clifford Mass, Phillip Coffey of Hadfield, Mass., is the sister and Joseph P. Tammany of 90 Main street, this town, the brother.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Bridget's church with burial in St. Bridget's cemetery.

ment, the older machines being disposed of.

Emergency Equipment.
The commission also approved the purchase of an emergency equipment consisting of tear gas bombs and a tear gas gun. These bombs will dispense a milt of 200 to 300 and have been purchased as protection against any outbreak of riotism that might get beyond the control of ordinarily armed policemen.

Sevier applications for appointment as patrolman were referred to Sgt. Samuel G. Gordon for investigation.

SOLICITING LION'S MEMBERS IN TOWN

Out of town canvassers are said to have been soliciting local business men for membership in a proposed Lion's Club here. One local man has already paid his initiation fee of $25, but no authoritative steps have been taken as yet.

Willard B. Rogers, a district director of the Lion's clubs in this state, objects to his name being used in the local solicitation and is against the organization of a club here.

ABOUT TOWN

Members of St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella, are requested to meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at Pagoda store on Depot Square. From there they will proceed to the home of their late associate, Mrs. May Tammany Chartier, where prayers will be said.

Mrs. Carrie A. Taylor's piano pupils held an enjoyable get-together at her home on Woodbridge street Thursday evening. The main feature of the program was a well-laden table to which all did justice. Games were played and the music of the evening was furnished by a five-year-old pupil, little Eleanor Vineck, who played her selection and scales in a lively manner to the amusement of all present. Mrs. Taylor was presented with a beautiful pink potted hyacinth.

A still alarm at 3:30 yesterday afternoon called out Hose Co., No. 2 of the South Manchester fire department for a grass fire in the rear of 478 East Center street. It was the second alarm for the afternoon and the seventh for the week.

The purchase of eight acres of land by the St. John the Baptist Independent Police Church of America was completed today. The land is known as the Horan property and is 500 feet east of the end of Mill street. The price was $1,200 and the congregation has raised $1,300.

The class which graduated from the Manchester High school in 1925 will hold a reunion this evening at the Hale house in Glastonbury. Dinner will be served at 8 o'clock. More than 50 are planning to attend.

WAPPING

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Adams and daughter, Miss Edith Adams are moving today from Goshen to 50 Woodland street, Manchester. Mr. Adams is butter maker at the Wapping Creamery and has been living at the creamery and Mrs. Adams has been staying at the home of her father, J. E. Wooster, of Goshen. They formerly lived at the Congregational parsonage.

Miss Lenora Twhigh a teacher of the Rye street school will spend her Easter vacation at the home of her parents at Springfield, Mass.

Miss Agnes Fleming also a teacher of the Rye street school will spend her vacation at her home in Milltown, Maine.

Adam Sele of the Buckland Road is improving the appearance of his house with coat of paint.

Mrs. Emma J. Skinner has returned to her home here after spending some time with relatives in Manchester.

Miss Etta Nevers, daughter of the late Edwin Nevers, is at the St. Francis hospital, Hartford where she underwent an operation recently.

Mrs. Edward P. Collins is confined at her home by illness, and is under the care of Dr. Lundberg of Manchester.

Edgar J. Stoughton sold some chickens recently and one of them that looked extra large was weighed and found to weigh 10 pounds.

NEW ROAD BILL WOULD BOOST GASOLINE TAX

wide for drainage, and so on until the entire stretch of hard surface road was finished.

It seems probable that an additional state grant for this type of work would have a greater appeal to all concerned than any other solution which might be offered, for the towns could then not only have improved gravel roads, but in time could convert them into well built highways.

Aviation In Foreground
Aviation, air-mindedness, airports and the numerous other words which have grown in prominence in the legislative vocabulary in the past year or so were greatly in use at the capitol during the past week when the aviation bills having been passed and a favorable report on a third being expected on the coming Tuesday.

On Thursday morning the bill authorizing the City of New Haven to issue $500,000 worth of bonds for the purchase of land and the construction of a new airport in the town of East Haven completed its passage through both houses of the Assembly; and on the same day the bill exempting all airports from the state tax on aviation fuel was also given a favorable and unquestioned reception.

On Tuesday, the Committee on Cities and Boroughs is expected to make a favorable report on the bill permitting the City of Hartford to issue bonds to the extent of $1,500,000 for the erection of a dike along the Connecticut River to protect Brainard Field from floods.

Passage of the above mentioned two bills and the prospect of a favorable report on the Hartford bridge bill undoubtedly serve to increase the already large amount of rivalry among the larger cities of the state over the matter of airport supremacy. Hartford and Bridgeport are already open rivals and now New Haven, considerably tardier but nevertheless enthusiastic, has entered the lists. Hartford with its large investment in Brainard Field and with the prospect of a new expenditure of $1,500,000 in fighting against the present theory of aviation, the future air lanes will follow the shore line whenever possible. If this theory is true, it will naturally mean that the most widely patronized route between New York and Boston, the commercial center of the present theory, the route along the Sound with Bridgeport, New Haven and New London as Connecticut's most important airports. Hartford, however, hopes to overcome this chance by establishing its position as the state's principal aviation center before the other cities can construct facilities of equal calibre.

At a hearing before the Committee on Thursday the matter of the auxiliary highway to parallel the present Boston Post Road and to relieve it of much of its present heavy traffic was thrashed out. The Assembly

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB REVIVES MAUVE DECADE

The Cosmopolitan club took a day off from its customary rather intellectual pursuits yesterday and at the home of Mrs. C. Eimore Watkins on South Main street, held perhaps the merriest meeting in its history. The subject for treatment was "When We Were Somewhat Younger," and the treatment created a lot of fun.

The program, arranged by Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Leon Thorpe and Mrs. E. A. Letney, dealt with the clothes and manners of the '90's. Models paraded after the manner of a modern style show, but the airs and graces were those of the prim "Maude Decade" and not all those of the sveltes and slinky '20's.

The models were Mrs. Emma Nettleton, Mrs. P. G. Ferris, Mrs. E. E. Segar, Mrs. H. B. House, Mrs. T. J. Lewis, Mrs. W. F. Stiles, Mrs. William Rush, Mrs. C. R. Burr, Mrs. L. L. Grant and Mrs. Maude Norton.

Scores of atties and old drinks had been ransacked for the proper period garments and the effect is described as historically accurate and artistically excruciating. Among the raiment worn were the wedding gowns of Mrs. C. E. Burr, Mrs. House and Mrs. Nettleton, while one of the models appeared as a bathing girl of the '90's—the costume being quite startlingly suggestive of that of an Arctic aviator of today—and another as a Gibson girl, pompadour and all.

Incidentally to the styles show Mrs. Watkins set up a hat shop and Mrs. Thorpe bought a hat. They were all real hats that Madame and her customer debated over, serious matters thirty years ago, but since stuck comedy in 1929. They caused peals of laughter.

Another funny conception was the setting up of a clothes line on which the committee members gravely hung several "washings" of the voluminous lingeries of the period—petticoats four yards around and fenced with yards of ruffles, nighties and material enough in them for a dozen, and so on. "We never did—I'm sure we never did!" cried members, through tears of laughter.

A couple of husbands had been drafted to help out in the "nineties" musicale that followed the style show. Mr. Watkins and Mrs. Rusi relived that inevitable feature of every parlor entertainment of the late nineteenth century, the "Chopsticks Waltz" duet, with every flourish of "Chopsticks" experts. Mr. Segar sang "After the Ball" with the full measure of '90's lachrymosity, weepingly supported by the models in chorus. Mrs. Ferris sang "Ta-ra-rum-boom" with the coy verve of Lottie Collins and Mr. Watkins relived a tremendous hit of the period, "Where Did You Get That Hat?" Everybody who could remember any of the words joined in singing. "Little Annie Rooney" and "Two Little Girls in Blue."

During the singing that supremely devilish 1890 diversion, making fudge in a chafing dish, was indulged in by the committee. It was good fudge.

Every member had brought a "period" photograph of herself and these were projected on a screen by stereopticon, for identification. Not one escaped correct naming by some member. At the end moving pictures of the members in costume were taken.

The next meeting will be at Watkins Brothers parlors with Mrs. R. K. Anderson as hostess. Miss Emily Louise Pluney, president of the Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs, will speak.

CITY CAB SERVICE IS STARTED HERE

The City Cab service began operations in Manchester this morning by moving today a Ford sedan cab and another one expected before tonight. Two cabs will be in use until the increase of business is such that an increase in cabs will be necessary.

The price is twenty cents for one and ten cents for each additional passenger. On a long trip the cost will average ten cents a mile, no matter how many are riding in the cab. For instance on a trip to Hartford with three in the cab, the price for one would be twenty cents and ten cents each for the other two making the price forty cents, with ten cents added for the trip up bringing the cost of the trip to around two dollars.

It has not as yet definitely settled what city limits will be but a two miles radius from the office in the State theater building is estimated. Efficiency and courtesy to please all customers is the aim of the company, which is James T. Egan of the office. A manager for Manchester will not be selected until the business has been developed.

KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

Flint, Mich., March 30.—One person was burned to death and three others seriously injured today when a truck gasoline tank exploded after being sidetracked by a bus.

Ernest Loeffler, 20, of Farwell, Mich., died from burns.

The injured were Chris Loeffler, 52, father of the dead youth; Louise Loeffler, 16, a sister and Mrs. Stella Austin, 23, of Toledo.

The condition of Mrs. Austin, who was badly cut and burned, is critical, hospital authorities declared.

What has become of the old-fashioned women who never complained?

Frederick C. Allen, Minister

The Easter Sunday sermon topic is "LIFE". Special music is to be rendered by choir and instrumentalists as follows:
Prelude: Meditation from Shostakovich. Anthem: "Awake Thou That Sleepest". Green. Duet: "The Magnalene". Warren. Offering: Lento from Schubert. Poetique. Boisdorff. Anthem: "On Wings of Morning Borne". Miller.

NORTH METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Marvin S. Stocking, Pastor

The worship program for Easter will begin with a Sunrise service at seven o'clock. The topic on which the pastor will speak briefly is "Life Eternal."

The Church school will be omitted because of the nature of the morning worship at 10:45 in which the school as well as the two choirs will participate. The theme of the program for this service is "The Search for the Risen Christ."

Candidates for membership in the church will be received at this hour.

The topic for the evening service at 6:00, in charge of the Epworth League, is "Evidences That Christ Lives"—Acts 7:59-60 and Matt. 23:34-40. The Misses Sarah Vaughan and Lillian Shipman are the leaders.

The April meeting of the Church Council will be held Monday night. Supper will be served at 6:00. Mrs. C. I. Balch heads the committee. The business session will follow the supper.

The 87th annual session of the New England Southern Conference will open Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in the Central Methodist Episcopal church, Brockton, Mass. Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, D.D., LL.D., presiding.

THE CROWN OF LIFE

BY GEORGE HENRY DOLE
International Sunday-School Lesson Text, March 21.
Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.—Rev. 2:10.

Faithful unto death! this means never give up the battle that makes character clean, just, and righteous. However severe or prolonged the trials never doubt final victory. Believe in success now and always, and live in it. By living in victory, we send strength, light, and joy out, and against the things that oppress.

The Lord's life from childhood until its end upon the earth was one of continued temptations. Life-wise will be the life of each one of us excepting the few who completely overcome all evil while in this world. The promise of the crown of life, if we know what the crown of life will keep us ever staunch on the battle-line. In the Great War if the commanders, soldiers, and people had lost faith in the cause of the allies, an ignominious peace would have been made as soon as possible and the cause of liberty would have been lost.

As formerly announced there will be a meeting of the church Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the auditorium. The use of motion pictures for our church will be considered. Rev. George S. Brooks will speak briefly on his experiences with them. Possible plans for a Sunday morning attendance contest will also be discussed.

A very entertaining three act play "A Poor Married Man," will be presented on Wednesday evening at 7:45 in the vestry by Wachs. The proceeds will be added to the benevolences of our church. Home made candy and fancy articles will be on sale.

MARMON BUILDS FIRST LINE-8 UNDER $1,000

Roosevelt is First Achievement in Rapidly Advancing New Field by Marmon.

Its introduction sweeping aside automobile precedent, the new Marmon-built Roosevelt, presented to the American motoring public in a magnificent coast-to-coast announcement by G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car Company, reveals the first straight-eight ever produced to sell below $1,000 at the factory.

The Roosevelt is the culmination of a development predicted by automobile authorities for years and now achieved for the first time by Marmon as a result of its rapid and advanced progress in the eight-cylinder field.

With a base price of $995 at the factory, the Roosevelt is on display for the first time at the showrooms of Crawford Auto Supply Co., local Marmon dealer, at 103 Centerville street, East Hartford, at the corner of the new car is augmented by the complete display of the two other Marmon lines of straight-eights the New Series 68 which sells at $1,465 f. o. b. factory, and the New Series 78 at $1,965 factory.

First Roosevelt shipments from the Marmon factory were composed chiefly of five-passenger sedan models, although the complete line includes, in addition to the sedan, a collapsible coupe with rumble seat, standard coupe with rumble seat and four-passenger Victoria coupe. The sedan and standard coupe have a list price of $995, and the Victoria coupe, $1,095. All models are available with de luxe wire wheel equipment at moderate additional cost.

The Roosevelt fairly bristles with new features of design, utility and performance that stamp it as one of the greatest values on the automobile market. Aside from its eight-cylinder engine of the most modern design, the car has special provisions for easy idling, a patented Marmon high-frequency oscillating modulator which completely eliminates torsional vibration, "single button" steering column control, thermostatic cooling and full force feed lubrication.

The straight-eight L-head engine of the Roosevelt which develops more horsepower than any other car in the $1,000 class, has a bore of 2-4 inches and a stroke of 4-1/4 inches. Power in excess of 70 horsepower is developed at 3,200 revolutions per minute which, in combination with light reciprocating parts and the use of the Marmon modulator, gives a maximum of smoothness and performance.

NEVER STRIKE A COP.

Portland, Ore., J. D. Clark and Police Officer H. P. Tolson were slowly cruising up and down the city streets. The former was looking for his stolen automobile and the latter was helping him. They came upon the car, commandeered by two youths. The copper got out to arrest them, and one of them hit him over the head with a dinner bucket. They fled, but the copper caught them and clamped them in the jug.

HARD LABOR LOST.

HUMANITY'S OLDEST MYSTERY

SOLVED BY EASTER MESSAGE

The International Sunday School Lesson for March 31 is an Easter Story than ever before in the world's history; and the implications of this stupendous truth upon life are better understood and practiced.

"A truth that leads to Life—If Jesus really roods from the dead, as we believe, then all of life's outlook for mortals is different. For in the Resurrection truth is power for living. Death's pall is lifted; and we do not sorrow for our dead as those who have no hope.

It is easy in serene days to speculate proudly upon the problem of immortality; but when death enters one's circle of love, then all is changed. Last year I was leading a large and uncommonly intelligent Bible class of men in a discussion of the Resurrection; and at the outset I asked all who believed in personal immortality to raise their hands. Only one failed to respond, an educator. Last year he had held an open mind on the subject. Two weeks later that man came to me with tears in his eyes, saying, "The afternoon of our discussion of the Resurrection, I had a telegram saying that my mother had died. If it had not been for our Lesson that morning, I simply could not have stood the blow." Vis a vis with books and theories he had been unconvinced about a future life; in the presence of the death of his dearest he had surged to his feet, as his only comfort, the truth that Christ rose from the dead, and lives forevermore; and that with Him our own dear dead dwell in the home that never breaks up, awaiting. As Jesus promised the group of friends He was leaving, a glad and abiding reunion.

All of life becomes different if death is not the end. Immortal spirits, in training here for eternity, have the taste for eternally in their hearts. They cannot be content with small, mean, material satisfactions. Mightier than all laws and customs and restraints, to keep life pure and noble, is the consciousness that if we be risen with Him, we should seek those things which are above. The power of an endless life is the greatest force for the shaping of our present existence. Let Easter's message steal into the hearts of youth, and all the vexatious problems of the younger generation will be solved. Spirits that are not born to die do not grow in the mire of filthiness. Great aims fire and thrill the hearts of all who sincerely believe their destiny to be wrapped up in that of the risen Redeemer. Our greatest English-speaking poet since Milton, Tennyson, whose prodigious imagination soared all heights and sounded all depths, asked that at the close of every volume of his poems should appear his confession of faith, which is an Easter message:
"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."
"But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep Turns again home."
"Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark;
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
"For tho' from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar."

IN MEXICO

While the Mexican civil war has gone, so far, in favor of the Calles forces, it may prove to be no fool's job that General Almazan, federal leader in the north, faces in destroying the army of General Escobar, rebel commander-in-chief, who is said to be entrenched just north of Jimenez in the south-eastern part of Chihuahua. In the state of Chihuahua Almazan's army is in unfriendly territory and Escobar has a long line of retreat extending all the way to Juarez on the Rio Grande, or, at choice, northwest into the fastnesses of Sonora.
It may be that he will give serious battle to Almazan in the hills near Jimenez, where the country lends itself to defensive operations. Or, what would seem to be more likely, he may again retreat along the line of railroad, destroying the transportation as he goes, and establish himself on ground of his own choosing in the neighborhood of Chihuahua City. Certainly the further north he compels Almazan to make his way, through alien territory, the better his chance of successfully resisting the attack of the larger and better armed forces of the federal leader.
From all accounts, every mile that the Federals advance into Chihuahua adds to the difficulties of their campaign, as their line of communications must be protected against bushwhackers and troops engaged in watching the rear of an army cannot well be employed on the firing line at the front.
There may be special features of the situation which make it good tactics for the insurgents to put up a real fight at Jimenez or close by, but in default of knowing about them the natural guess would be that there will be no "decisive battle" at that point because it is not the logical place to risk a decision.
Besides, the nearer to the Rio Grande a defeated Mexican army finds itself, the less the likelihood of all hands being shot after capture. The element of sanctuary on American soil isn't to be overlooked in insurgent strategy.

THAT HEBRON ROAD

The favorable report on the proposed state highway from Manchester to Hebron, which involves the development of Camp Meeting Woods road, is one of the most important blessings that Manchester has received at the hands of the Connecticut Legislature in a long time.
The construction of a first class highway over this route will be of the greatest possible advantage to this town in two ways. It will make Manchester accessible to a large and important territory, naturally tributary to this center of population and business but which for a large part of each year has been isolated from us and which at no season has had anything like proper facilities for reaching this community. Also it will provide a sorely needed outlet for motorists traveling east and south, especially for those whose objective is the Sound shore resorts in the vicinity of New London and Westerly.
The proposed highway will make it unnecessary for automobile traffic to take the roundabout route through East Hartford to the New London Turnpike or the alternative trip over the usually washboarded cut-off through East Glastonbury. Avoiding the tortuous curves and steep grades of the upper part of the New London Pike it will be possible to take this improved route through Hebron and Amston to Colchester, from which point the Pike is as easy a road to drive as any.

Incorporation of a route in the program of the State Highway Department sometimes does not carry with it assurance of early construction, but it is to be hoped that in this instance it will do so. When several towns get as enthusiastic as they did over this matter they are as likely to get the respectful attention of the Highway Department as that of the Legislature.

WILLEBRANDT

Attorney General Mitchell is to be congratulated on his determination to retain Mabel Walker Willebrandt as the assistant attorney-general in charge of prohibition. There are a great many reasons why Mrs. Willebrandt's pro forma resignation, submitted in the routine of cabinet change, should have been accepted; but there is a single reason why it should not have been, which outweighs them all. That reason is that Mrs. Willebrandt is the personification of extreme fanatic prohibition sentiment and will hesitate at no measure to enforce both spirit and letter of the prohibitory laws. She is the Lord Jeffrey of prohibition and no person hampered by ethical or humanitarian scruples would be so well fitted to preside at the "bloody assay" now being conducted in the interest of dry law enforcement.
And it is essential that the Willebrandt brand of testing of prohibition shall go on. It is essential that we shall have Jones laws and bitter fanatics to superintend their operation. It may prove to be necessary to provide the death penalty for selling a drink, and who else but a Willebrandt could be found to procure its infliction?
There could never be any full proving out of prohibition without a desperately unconscionable bigot, capable of hardening his heart to every consideration but this single obsession, in supreme command of the federal enforcement machinery.
Certainly it would have been a serious blunder for the new attorney-general to have displaced this blood-fearless, ethics-scornful zealot. Mrs. Willebrandt fits into federal prohibition with scientific exactness. Let her demonstration go on.

WE MAY EAT CROW

The United States Treasury Department, which in its nature has few experiences in dealing with European foreign offices, is very prompt in its declaration concerning the I'm Alone affair. But the State Department, wise from a thousand such experiences, is keeping very still. Only by what might be taken as a casual speculation has that Department given the slightest intimation of where it stands with relation to the high-seas sinking of the Canadian rum ship and the drowning of one of its seamen—and even this is not put between quotation marks.
Says the Washington correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune: "Should Colonel Stimson reach a decision that the Coast Guard cutter acted outside of treaty rights he probably would offer all three of the offended foreign governments an official apology and financial indemnification where it is needed."
There is hardly a chance that that news paragraph was printed without the knowledge of the new secretary of state. And if it was not, then it is not too much to assume that it was printed to go out as preparation of the public mind for an experience to which Americans are entirely unused—seeing their government eat humble pie in the face of the world. But if Secretary Stimson does any such thing as this, it will be beyond question that our revenue cutter was completely in the wrong and that there will be no other thing to do, in honor, than to apologize and pay up.

"SHINE 'EM" BANKER

We can't remember whether Horatio Alger, Jr., ever wrote a book called "From Bootblack to Banker" but if he didn't it was because he didn't happen to think of that particular title. It is an attractive one, from the Alger point of view, in the sharpness and degree of the contrast presented. Yet the opening of bids for various concessions at the disposal of the New York City government discloses a case where the bootblack and the banker present no contrast at all because they are the same fellow.
The high bidder for the right to shine shoes on the Staten Island ferry boats went to Philip Barardini, a private banker—and for that privilege he agrees to pay $60,300 during the next two years. As this equals approximately a hundred dollars a day for each working day of the year, it will be seen that the business of shining shoes is no piking activity—not when you can get a monopoly like that one.
Incidentally Mr. Barardini says that he is acting for a client. But the concession has stood in the banker's name for two years and the Commissioner of Plant and

BAD MEDICINE

If Hamlet had been incorporated and if both the incorporation and Hamlet had lasted until the present era of business, it is a fair guess that sooner or later the paradox of "Hamlet without a Hamlet" would become a reality. The Childless have been kicked out of Childs and now the Lofts have been fired out of Lofts, and if there is any other big business incorporated under a surname, and if people of that surname control it but don't own it all, they would much better hurry and change the business title to something else. It is obviously bad luck to possess the same name as a big corporation in which you are interested, unless you own every share of the stock.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

EPIDEMIC CEREBROSPINAL MENINGITIS.

Cerebrospinal meningitis appears suddenly although it may be preceded by a few days of restlessness, headache, backache and loss of appetite. It begins with a headache, severe chill and vomiting, and painful stiffness of the muscles at the back of the neck. There is some temperature and the pulse is strong. As the headache increases the eyes become very sensitive to light and the ears to noise. The head may be arched backward sometimes so severely as to practically rest upon the back of the neck. The body may be rigid with a rigidity which may be arched backward with the heels almost touching the head. The pain is severe, and the arms and legs may contract in spasms or tremors. A common feature is for the eyes to be crossed so that they cannot be directed together. In some cases the rigidity is so severe that the body may be moved like a statue. The muscles of the abdomen are not usually affected, but the face does not usually suffer from the spasms of the back and extremities. Great sensitiveness is present near the spine.
Delirium usually occurs near the onset of the disease which may deepen into stupor or coma after a few days. The temperature is irregular but may reach 105 degrees or even 108 degrees preceding death.
The skin is frequently covered with a rash which is responsible for this disease being sometimes termed "spotted fever," although cases occasionally occur without this eruption. The rash may appear very much like the rash found in typhoid.
The white blood cells increase from the normal of 17,000 to 25,000 or 40,000 per cubic millimeter. The vomiting which is usually present at the onset may subside or increase in severity. Constipation usually exists and the spleen may be enlarged.
The duration of the disease may vary from a few hours to several months. Most of the deaths occur within the first five or six days. A favorable turn is the reduction of the fever and increased intelligence. A sudden fall of the temperature, however, is a bad indication.
Convalescence is slow and may lead to serious complications as pleurisy, inflammation of the ear and parotid glands, pneumonia and hydrocephalus, inflammation of the eye and deafness. Because of its resemblance to typhoid fever and some cases of pneumonia, a diagnosis is sometimes difficult, but can be usually determined by a doctor from various reflex indications or from a lumbar puncture.
The portion of deaths is usually high, especially in children below the age of two.
A severe onset is a bad indication. The patient should be carefully isolated to prevent a spread of this disease. Precautions must be taken against the development of bed sores in convalescing cases. Hot applications over the back and the persistent use of enemata as often as two hours apart is advisable. If the temperature goes above 102 degrees, cool sponge baths should be given at the onset of the disease, but the patient should be encouraged to drink as much water as possible. After a few days, strained orange or grapefruit juice may be given and this should be continued until definite indications of recovery are noted.
As a method of preventing the contraction of this disease, a few days of an acid fast should prove beneficial, as outlined in my article "Fasting and Dieting for Health."

Diabetes.

Question: Mrs. L. P. H. writes: "I have had sugar diabetes for several years. Have been to the hospital twice within the last year. I am at home now but not able to get around as my large toe on my right foot was removed and has never healed. Now, two other toes on this foot have gangrene and look worse than the one taken off. Will you please advise what treatment I should follow, what foods to eat, etc.?"
Answer: In addition to a fasting and dieting regimen, it would be good policy to bathe the affected foot alternately in hot and cold water. Have vessels of hot and cold water side by side and place the foot first in the hot and then in the cold water. This will stimulate the circulation and assist in over-

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, March 30.—If your unfortunate correspondent cannot find any interesting news it is because wherever he goes looking for it in Washington people always insist on talking about prohibition, especially with reference to the Jones law.
No one ever mentions the weather any more.
Here it is 16 years and more since we first had prohibition and people have been more excited about it during this last year, between the political campaign and the Jones law, than ever before. That may not go for the rest of the country, but it certainly goes for the capital.
An enterprising reporter has been mean enough to turn out a story raising the question whether American diplomats abroad should observe the spirit of prohibition laws at home. Most emphatically it may be said that his enterprise is not appreciated by the State Department, the White House or the diplomats themselves.
Dr. Clarence W. Wilson, the dry leader, has said that our diplomats should not serve intoxicating beverages in their embassies and legations and that real loyal 100-per cent. American diplomats should accept no offer of drinks unless the spirit of prohibition is observed. But in order to make that effective Mr. Hoover himself would have to do something about it and he is not expected to do anything of the sort.
There may be diplomats who rigidly observe the law and act in other national capitals, but if so their secret has not leaked out in Washington. The unofficial attitude of the State Department is that they ought to be diplomats first and prohibitionists afterward.

Foreign diplomats in Washington are not worried lest their diplomatic liquor immunity be taken away from them, but some of them are annoyed at the thought that their trucks coming from Baltimore may be temporarily halted by the police. There is intermittent agitation in Congress for elimination of the privilege and some irresponsible members have charged that diplomatic liquor was being bootlegged, but

IN NEW YORK

New York March 30.—Down in the Bowery, a charred shrine of the drama is drawing pilgrims from the famous and affluent of Broadway.
They drive up before the first blackened shell; they stop to study it as one might study an old friend who dropped in after many, many years; they tap their canes against a sidewalk more used to the sticks of blind beggars than broad cars and drive away.
For they are men of world-wide reputation who started upon life from this quaint old place, which stands now a mere shell. To them it is "the little red school house" of the drama. They have gone far since they left its doors.
Here Owen Davis learned to write melodramas. Sam H. Harris and Al Woodard, the theatrical producers, cut their wisdom teeth here. Eddie Cantor, the millionaire comedian, was a graduate. It was the birthplace of American "variety"—or vaudeville, as we call it today. It was the home of the melodrama thrillers. It was the spot upon which fame came to Warfield, McIntyre and Heath, the Rogers Brothers, Francis Wilson, Sam Bernard, Lillian Russell and the parents of George M. Cohan.
I have no doubt that the news of the burning of Miner's Bowery theater has by this time spread from one end of the land to the other. Its destruction came on the very eve of its reconstruction—Brodway group was reconstructing it—even to the resuscitation of the old beer bar which adjoined it. It was the intention to produce the same old plays which thrilled grandfathers and great-grandfathers—for it was built something like 115 years ago.
Legends and traditions have haunted the grand old place for many a year.
And when the firemen were any actual change which would shut off the supply is a quite unpalatable thing to the diplomats themselves.

One truck was held up and its contents unloaded by the police—that of the Siamese legation. All those who might have been instrumental in the act have since sought to duck responsibility for the interference.
"Why on earth did they pick on the poor Siamese?" an ambassador asked your correspondent the other day. "Why not the British or the French?"
From another diplomatic source one hears that the British embassy is holding up a cargo in Baltimore until it has positive assurance from the State Department that no one will molest it en route.
Cheers for prohibitionists is cited by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, which quotes Professor Irving Fisher of Yale to show that there is no large consumption of liquor because people can't afford it.
Fisher calls attention to the fact that 99 per cent. of all incomes of people in the United States are less than $9,000 a year and that 80 per cent. are less than $1,500 a year. He concludes that those who "drink as much as best for national prohibition, or more" must be confined to a narrowly restricted class, mostly among those whose income ranges from $2,100 up, because of the high price of drinks.
As is generally known, there are some highly placed federal officials here who have stopped serving liquors in their homes lest it queer them with President Hoover. These officials and their families are known as the "new dries."
A story in circulation here says that a nationally famous person went to a bridge party at the home of a "Little cabinet" member, pulled a pint of whiskey from his pocket, stood it down beside his chair and grimly announced: "There are two classes among the guests of the new dries. A: Them as brings their own liquor. B: Them as don't. And them as don't are not going to get any liquor from them as does."

Removing Moles.

Question: R. T. asks: "Is there any way or removing moles without leaving scars? I have about a dozen black ones on my face."
Answer: Moles on the face are, as a rule, very easy to remove by a physician with an electric needle, and if done properly will leave absolutely no visible scar.

Daily Lenten Thought

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of The Congregationalist

The Lenten season emphasizes the Cross as the great symbol of Christianity, but it should never be forgotten that the Lenten season finds its climax not in the Cross, but in the Resurrection. Above the Cross is the Crown—the crown of Christ's triumph through the Cross, the crown of his service and sacrifice, the crown that marks the fulfillment of his own prophetic words as he faced the cross when he said to his disciples: "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."
Did Jesus rise from the dead? The outward fact of the Resurrection is not written so clearly on the page of history in its actual physical manifestation as is the death of Jesus on Calvary.
But the fact of the Resurrection is written in the testimonies of those whose faith was revived and quickened, who were sure that they had seen their Lord and who, henceforth, had faith in him as a living Christ.
And the fact of the Resurrection is written in the spiritual experience of those in whom Christ lives, in the manifestation of what Jesus came to accomplish, and in the sense of his continued presence and power.
Nothing is written more largely on life than the conquest of the Galilean. There is still much to be brought beneath his sway, and the full story of his life is not yet accomplished.
But the fact of Christ, the living reality, is the deepest and greatest fact in life today; and it is with this faith and conviction that increasing multitudes are crying at this Easter tide: "Jesus, still lead on."

INTERESTING INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL FOLKS

Intimate Word Pictures of Manchester Business and Professional Men and Women You See Daily. A Sort of Miniature Good Will Trip That Forms a Contact With Their Public.

Here is a story about a theory that may revolutionize the world. But JOHN L. REINARTZ will say little about it although he was the first man to discover it.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the thirty-first of a series of local Saturday features. It is the extraordinary tale of an extraordinary local young man, one who is far better known in international scientific circles than he is in his own town.

THIS is the tale of a theory and an accident. If some day in the near future you are promenading on Easter Sunday with your best girl and—pouff! she disappears, remember we warned you that it was coming. A theory you say scornfully. Everybody has them—but is this one practical? you may ask. The answer is that every theory that is sound is practical. Everything you see about you was once a theory in some person's mind. For instance, many years ago radio was just a theory and now we have it. As far as accidents go, let us digress for a moment. Probably for tomorrow's dinner you will have roast pork. Thousands of years ago a pen of pigs burned in China. The natives who were attracted by the savory odors arising from the burned pigs. One was bold enough to taste of the flesh and lo! roast pork was discovered. Known by the World. But to get to our subject. There is a young man who lives in Manchester who is better known in the capitals of Europe or in scientific circles in Asia than he is known hereabouts. No big newspaper headlines on front pages tell of his exploits and yet if his name is mentioned among scientists anywhere he is known. Here is an example of his latest discovery. For months scientific and semi-scientific magazines have been devoting columns over the discovery made by John L. Reinartz. They are raving over it and it may lead to making objects invisible. What a field for conjecture that opens! Any yet—not one line of it has appeared in any newspaper, so unless you are deeply enough interested in scientific matters to read these journals this will be the first time you will read about this startling discovery. How the Story "Broke." John Reinartz had nothing to do with announcing to the town through The Herald that he had discovered anything. It was an accidental reading of a semi-scientific journal that led up to it. In the story one of the characters was so like the local man that an inquiry was started and the path led to Wadsworth street. "He lives on Wadsworth street" the information ran. Wadsworth street? O yes, that starts on Main street so you go from house to house and find your man not there at all. But you do learn that there is another Wadsworth street that starts at East Center street and Mr. Reinartz lives at the corner of Benton street. And there are four corners but only three have houses thereon and you finally find the right house. So after all that trouble here is the extent of the interview: You are handed a piece of paper on which is a diagram of what looks like a radio tube and underneath in green is written: "Metal plate of tube became transparent when connected to very short waves in the neighborhood of five meters. The filament wires could be seen through the metal plate, just as you can see bones in a body when X-rays are used."

THIS THEORY MAY LEAD TO ALMOST ANYTHING.

FURTHER than the note and diagram handed the interviewer, Mr. Reinartz said very little. He said that he had reported his discovery to scientific journals and that since then he had not taken it up to make a further study of it. He admitted that it might lead to almost anything and that scientists were working on it. That it might lead in time to make things invisible, he admitted, saying that anything was possible nowadays. But another source was tapped to get some more information about this interesting subject. The local young man is modest to a remarkable degree. In his soft drawl he explains that he likes his work far more than any praise and, somewhat like Einstein, he adds that he wonders why any layman should be interested in anything so deeply scientific.

A Deep Subject. Perhaps we are getting too deep into this subject ourselves but here is what was understood about the subject: Your eye depends greatly upon reflection to carry the light waves to the delicate nerves which pick up and register the different wave lengths as color. Reflection makes sight possible for without it everything would be hideously black. In fact the only difference between you and a blind man would be that you could only see light and colors which were sent directly from a source. But the Great Designer gave everything in the Universe a surface that was cut and ridged by millions of tiny crevices and projections which acting like facets, catch and reflect the composite white light thrown upon them. Is that rather heavy? Well, for instance, a girl has a red dress. The light strikes the cloth whose ridges only reflect red—or waves of the vibrations of red—absorbing all the other colors so you see red. Now suppose one found there were rays, somewhat similar to X-rays, which in some way allowed the visual rays to pass AROUND an object; that these rays likewise removed all color reflections so that only a silhouette re-malued. (This is what Reinartz accomplished.) Scientists will tell you we know nothing whatever of what lies below the infra-reds. Reinartz got somewhere below that, it is thought. In his experiment every time he tried to go lower his plate became transparent. The oscillations if carried on far enough would have resulted in the actual disappearance of the plate. Not Easily Explained. To most of us this is not easily grasped but suppose you tried to explain the how and why of the things that go on in a radio set to a person who had never seen or heard of radio and you will understand how difficult it is to explain something that is rather vague in the mind of the writer also. But what we can understand, is that some day, it may be years or it may be months, when you will be walking with your sweetie a man with one of these machines—likely or not your hated rival will cause her to disappear and carry her away. And how are you going to follow if you cannot see her? Sweethearts, keep on the right side of John Reinartz. TRY AN' PINCH IT Cop: Aren't you afraid to leave your rascoun coat there in the rumble seat? Motorist: It's all right, officer. A friend of mine is inside minding it. —Judge.

AN IMPEACHMENT TRIAL On March 30, 1866, President Johnson's impeachment trial began in the Senate. Formal charges had been brought several weeks before by the House of Representatives; Johnson replied on March 23, and sixty-one years ago today his trial began.

ences to him were frequently made on the floor of both houses. The verdict of history, coincides with the acquittal verdict, however. His errors were errors of judgment, rather than of the heart and, even so, these were not so gross as some of the errors of his enemies. This series of photographs shows the scenes in and about Jerusalem that have been made holy to Christians throughout the world by their association with the events of Easter week. Photograph No. 1 shows the Mount of Olives; near the summit, on the left, is the Garden of Gethsemane, where the passion and the betrayal of Christ took place. No. 2 shows the north wall and the roadway of Jerusalem while the exact site of the crucifixion is not known, it has been suggested that Christ bore his cross along this roadway, which looked then much as it does now. No. 3 is the famous gate of Ecce Homo—an arch from the court of Pontius Pilate, beneath which Pilate listened to the Pharisees' accusation of Christ. No. 4 is the

Via Dolorosa, in Jerusalem—the street along which, according to tradition, Christ walked toward Calvary. No. 5 is the town of Bethany, where, according to St. Luke, Christ was taken up to Heaven following the resurrection. No. 6 is a scene on the shore of the Sea of Galilee, where Christ appeared to Peter and other disciples after the crucifixion. The fishermen and their boat shown in this picture undoubtedly look much the same as the Galilean fishermen of Christ's day looked.

LUTHERAN CHOIR HITS NEW MARK IN CANTATA

Fifth Singing of "Olivet to Calvary" Better Than on Any Previous Occasion.

With a reverence and beauty that seemed to transmit itself to the spirit of the audience the choir of the Swedish Lutheran church under the direction of Helge Pearson presented Maunders' cantata "Olivet to Calvary" for the fifth time last night and sang it with a depth of feeling even surpassing that of past years.

From the opening chorus, depicting Christ on the way to Jerusalem, to the close as he hung on the Cross on Calvary, the choir was in perfect accord. The finely modulated scene on the Mount of Olives, subdued in volume but with the values splendidly preserved, was admirably done. The passion of the crowd as it cried for the crucifixion of Jesus as He stood with Pilate in the judgment hall was portrayed with great vividness. The exceptionally fine accompaniment work of Miss E. Marion Dorward at the organ and Miss Eva M. Johnson at the piano added the final touch to a masterly performance.

The singing of Maurice Wallen, tenor soloist of Hartford, showed him to be well acquainted with the difficult music of the cantata and his part of the rendition was splendidly done. He is the best tenor that has assisted any of the musical organizations of the Swedish Lutheran church in some time.

Albert Pearson, bass soloist, who has done great work with the Beethoven Glee Club in several concerts, is a singer of the type which delights everyone, whether musically trained or not. He improves with every appearance.

In 1929 in the National Defense Act Congress authorized an appropriation for the Citizens' Military Training Camps, and made them an essential feature of the government program for the development of the nation's youth. Conducted by the War Department at designated Military Training Camps it today has been slowly evolved through years of effort, intelligent reflection and experimentation during the eight years of their existence.

Only 3200 students can be accommodated at the 1929 camps. Last year several hundred applications were turned down due to delay in forwarding them. Any young man interested should get in touch with Captain McVeigh as soon as possible.

ONLY FIVE HERE SEEK M. T. C. DUTY
Conn. Boys So Far Not Like Others in Interest in Training Camps.

Only five Manchester young men have applied for reservations in Connecticut's quota of civilians to attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps July 5 to August 3. All applications must be in the hands of Captain James McVeigh of Oxford street on or before April 15. Captain McVeigh is at Watkins Bros. during business hours.

Connecticut, for some unexplained reason, always has a hard time filling its quota. Massachusetts' quota on the other hand, is oversubscribed every year.

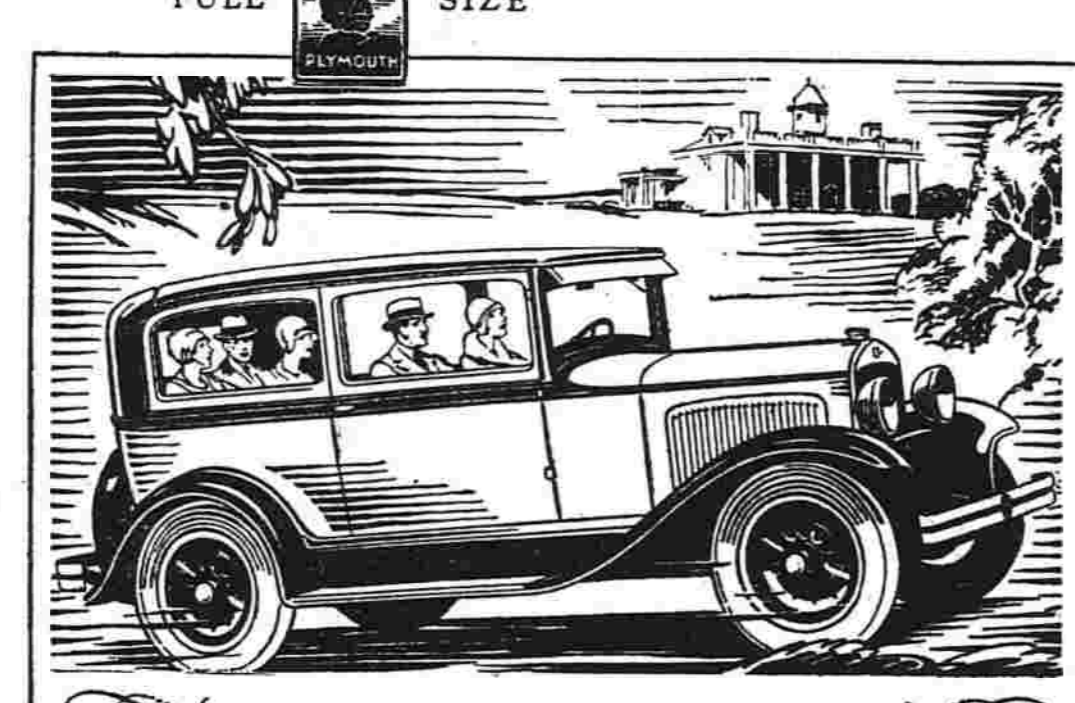

Any citizen between the ages of 17 and 24, who, by submitting to a physical examination proves himself to be normal and healthy, may, after being inoculated and vaccinated, be admitted to the camp. Arrangements for free physical examinations are made.

Enrollment at the camp carries with it no future military obligation of any sort, the purpose of the camp being to bring together young men of high type from all sections of the country on a basis of equality, and under the most favorable conditions of outdoor life.

At all the camps, four in number, Fort McKinley in Maine, Fort Adams in Rhode Island, Fort Ethan Allen in Vermont and Camp Devens in Massachusetts, the same provision of comfortable quarters, excellent mess, expert training under selected officers, with transportation, uniforms, equipment, medical care and all other necessary expenses are supplied by the government. The money thus appropriated by Congress goes to each student the opportunity of attending camp irrespective of his financial condition.

"Can you take a letter for me immediately, Miss Lawrence?" Huck asked.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MILDRED LAWRENCE, stenographer in the Judson Hotel, has her fox fur snatched from her neck in a train platform crowd, but STEPHEN ARMITAGE catches the thief and returns the scarf. He asks to take her home, and not wishing to seem ungrateful, she invites him to dinner. He praises her mother's home cooking and gains favor with the flapper sister, CONNIE, who secretly hopes that the old-fashioned Mildred will mix enough pep with her usual quiet manner to hold his interest.

The evening is spoiled when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, phones and insists on her returning to the hotel for duty. Stephen escorts Mildred to the hotel where Pamela recognizes him as the salesman who has sold her car. She snubs Mildred as a menial and asks him to dance with her. She continues to lure Stephen, pretending she intends to buy another car from him. But she becomes jealous at a club dance and leaves him.

She just avoids a wreck when the car crashes past danger signals into some bad road. Before she can give warning or get out of the way a second auto bears down upon her and turns over into the ditch. She runs to give assistance and faces a gun. But she persuades the man to believe that she is not working with a hold-up gang and she asks her to give him a lift into town as his car is ruined. He tells her that he is HUCK CONNOR and a broker from Chicago. Arriving at the hotel Pamela introduces him to her brother HAROLD.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER V

Pamela was having breakfast in bed. She almost always had breakfast in bed. A little earlier than usual today, because last night, for the first time in many days, she had retired before dawn.

The maid who brought her breakfast stood off and waited for the customary complaints, but Pamela lifted the silver water kettle from the boiling water and poured the steaming French coffee pot without a word.

She was thinking of Stephen and wondering how he got back to the club, or if he hitch-hiked to town. The maid came over and lifted the cover from the toast.

"Never mind," Pamela said. "I can eat without your help. Get out."

Well, it would serve Stephen right, she thought, whatever had happened to him. Next time he would know that he couldn't check her with his hat.

She had finished her breakfast and was dressed, ready to go out when Harold came in. She heard the maid called him to her sitting room and asked out to know who it was.

"Oh, dear," Harold mused. "I'll bet it's scented with lemon verbena. I read that somewhere in the description of a girl that must have been like you."

"Oh, dear," Mildred sighed. "That's lovely, Harold. But this isn't a mountain top, though I've a mountain of work to do. Please run along and stop distracting me with your studied flattery."

"Studied? It's no such thing. Why, any other girl I'd talk like that to would advise me to see a psychiatrist!"

"What's that? A fortune teller?"

"Your ignorance is appalling. It's a . . . he stopped and stared fixedly ahead of him. Then he brought his eyes quickly back to Mildred's face and began talking animatedly.

If his attitude was meant to discourage the man whom he'd seen approaching, it was ineffective.

"Good morning," the other said, stopping at the desk and bowing to Mildred. It was to Harold that she spoke.

The latter straightened and nodded. "Good morning, Mr. Connor," he said coldly. So the fellow was going to hang around, was he, and claim acquaintance, he thought fitably.

Huck seemed to pause uncertainly for a second or two, then he turned to Mildred. Her name plate on the desk had given him her occupation.

"Can you take a letter for me immediately, Miss Lawrence?" he asked.

Mildred took up her notebook. "Certainly," she said. Perhaps Harold would go now, she thought. Harold elected to remain.

"Joseph Chunder, Hotel Merlton, Chicago," Huck began, spelling out the name. "Got it?"

Mildred nodded affirmatively.

"Do you want to come in with Rawlins on his next desk?" Huck dictated. "Made $25,000 for me yesterday. Wire reply if you are interested, and send a certified check. Rawlins's new coup may come off next week. I don't think he'll let you in for more than $10,000. With best wishes to yourself and Mrs. Chunder and the twins. (Signed) Huck Connor. Address, the Judson Hotel, New York City."

Mildred took down the words with quick accurate strokes. Her face was expressionless but Harold was looking goggle-eyed at Huck. He failed to note the significance of the address Connor had given.

When Joe Chunder, Hotel Merlton, Chicago, received that letter he roared. The twins, oh, and who the devil was Rawlins?

"What kind of a sucker do you think Huck's got on the string?" he asked Ma Chunder. "Any yap too dumb to see through that letter could be clipped by a grease-ball."

"I've got to look after you until Dad gets back."

Pamela laughed. "How about yourself? Hanging around Mildred Lawrence more than you do any girl in our crowd."

"At least I know that Mildred's respectable."

Pamela went over to a desk in a corner of her sitting room and opened it.

"I'd rather give you a hundred than listen to you."

"What's that?" Mildred exclaimed, but he did not linger for further argument. Reminded of Mildred, he decided to see her and press that invitation to the theater again.

She was busy but she took time to nod and smile and say good morning before going on with her typing.

Harold leaned against her desk and waited. Finally, with a sigh, Mildred looked up at him. He had patience, she'd learned.

"I'd like to kiss you," Harold said quite unemotionally. "You look so clean and so . . . sweet."

"You know you're silly," Mildred told him.

"Maybe," he agreed. "But there's something refreshing about you, Mildred. I guess it's your cool gray eyes and that interesting pallor your skin has. I think kissing you would be like walking in the pines on a mountain top at dawn."

They both laughed, but Harold meant it.

"Not a very exciting person, am I?" Mildred said. "When you think of kissing you are supposed to have in mind surges of fiery emotion."

"On second thought I think I'd just like to bury my face in your nice hair," Harold mused. "I'll bet it's scented with lemon verbena. I read that somewhere in the description of a girl that must have been like you."

"Oh, dear," Mildred sighed. "That's lovely, Harold. But this isn't a mountain top, though I've a mountain of work to do. Please run along and stop distracting me with your studied flattery."

"I've got to look after you until Dad gets back."

Pamela laughed. "How about yourself? Hanging around Mildred Lawrence more than you do any girl in our crowd."

"At least I know that Mildred's respectable."

Pamela went over to a desk in a corner of her sitting room and opened it.

"I'd rather give you a hundred than listen to you."

"What's that?" Mildred exclaimed, but he did not linger for further argument. Reminded of Mildred, he decided to see her and press that invitation to the theater again.

She was busy but she took time to nod and smile and say good morning before going on with her typing.

Harold leaned against her desk and waited. Finally, with a sigh, Mildred looked up at him. He had patience, she'd learned.

"I'd like to kiss you," Harold said quite unemotionally. "You look so clean and so . . . sweet."

"You know you're silly," Mildred told him.

"Maybe," he agreed. "But there's something refreshing about you, Mildred. I guess it's your cool gray eyes and that interesting pallor your skin has. I think kissing you would be like walking in the pines on a mountain top at dawn."

They both laughed, but Harold meant it.

"Not a very exciting person, am I?" Mildred said. "When you think of kissing you are supposed to have in mind surges of fiery emotion."

"On second thought I think I'd just like to bury my face in your nice hair," Harold mused. "I'll bet it's scented with lemon verbena. I read that somewhere in the description of a girl that must have been like you."

"Oh, dear," Mildred sighed. "That's lovely, Harold. But this isn't a mountain top, though I've a mountain of work to do. Please run along and stop distracting me with your studied flattery."

"Studied? It's no such thing. Why, any other girl I'd talk like that to would advise me to see a psychiatrist!"

"What's that? A fortune teller?"

"Your ignorance is appalling. It's a . . . he stopped and stared fixedly ahead of him. Then he brought his eyes quickly back to Mildred's face and began talking animatedly.

If his attitude was meant to discourage the man whom he'd seen approaching, it was ineffective.

"Good morning," the other said, stopping at the desk and bowing to Mildred. It was to Harold that she spoke.

The latter straightened and nodded. "Good morning, Mr. Connor," he said coldly. So the fellow was going to hang around, was he, and claim acquaintance, he thought fitably.

Huck seemed to pause uncertainly for a second or two, then he turned to Mildred. Her name plate on the desk had given him her occupation.

"Can you take a letter for me immediately, Miss Lawrence?" he asked.

Mildred took up her notebook. "Certainly," she said. Perhaps Harold would go now, she thought. Harold elected to remain.

"Joseph Chunder, Hotel Merlton, Chicago," Huck began, spelling out the name. "Got it?"

Mildred nodded affirmatively.

"Do you want to come in with Rawlins on his next desk?" Huck dictated. "Made $25,000 for me yesterday. Wire reply if you are interested, and send a certified

STEPPING ON A RUSTY NAIL.
By DR. MORRISH FISHBEIN.
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Some people think it dangerous to scratch the finger with a rusty nail. The chief danger from scratching the finger or the skin anywhere with a rusty nail is the likelihood of introducing germs of one kind or another. The only advantage of scratching the skin with a clean nail as compared with a rusty nail is the fact that a clean nail is newer and is less likely to be contaminated by dirt and infectious germs.

The fact that there is rust on the nail will not particularly influence the wound, since this rust is usually merely oxidized iron—a remedy that is not infrequently taken internally to considerable advantage.

The most dangerous of all of the germs that can be found on either a clean or a rusty nail is a germ of tetanus or lock jaw.

The other type of germ which is of the greatest importance is the streptococcus, a round germ, when seen under the microscope, and usually collected in strips or chains. This germ is the germ of blood poisoning of the real variety, not the type of blood poisoning which is emphasized by the venereal disease quacks.

The blood poisoning of the real variety may be so serious as to cause death in a few days. Such a death is called death from sepsis.

It is important that any wound of the skin, whether by a clean or a rusty pin, needle, or nail, shall be given careful first-aid treatment, including thorough washing, the application of tincture of iodine or mercurochrome solution and, if the wound is large, covering with sterile gauze until healing shall have begun.

But there is no harm particularly attaching to the rusty nail as a cause of wounds beyond the possible contamination of the nail by dirt, manure, or other things that can carry the germs of infections.

When Joe Chunder, Hotel Merlton, Chicago, received that letter he roared. The twins, oh, and who the devil was Rawlins?

"What kind of a sucker do you think Huck's got on the string?" he asked Ma Chunder. "Any yap too dumb to see through that letter could be clipped by a grease-ball."

"I've got to look after you until Dad gets back."

Pamela laughed. "How about yourself? Hanging around Mildred Lawrence more than you do any girl in our crowd."

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

© 1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

When Grandfather Bradshaw was a little boy and climbed the forbidden apple tree he wasn't helped down when his frightened eyes turned to contemplate the dizzy heights he had achieved.

His screams brought no succor—even Hiram, the hired man, filling his cup at the pump, merely gazed orchardward with amused eyes and muttered, "That'll learn 'im to let 'trent alone. I'll go tell his Ma."

But his "Ma" baking pies in the kitchen said calmly, "What goes up comes down. I reckon he'll turn up for his supper when he smells this pumpkin."

But when he turned up for supper it was with half a dozen scratches and bruises, a lump on his head, and a sieve torn out of his shirt. He was tired, crying and sick.

But what did his Ma do but turn him over her knee, add insult to injury, and send him to bed without any pie or even a piece of bread and butter.

When Father Bradshaw was a little boy life was life and men were still men and little boys took their bumps as they came, but women were different. So when he climbed the self same tricky old tree that decided its victims into getting up but absolutely refused to be intereated in getting them down, he yelled loud and lustily in the direction of the new sun porch where his mother was embroidering shirtswaits. She hastily called the man who was clipping the shrubbery to get a ladder and save her son.

Injury—But Not Insult
Son was saved injury but not the insult. He got a good spanking, cried it off, and was surprised with ice cream and chocolate cake for dessert.

The other day little Johnny Bradshaw III climbed the lone horn apple tree behind the garage, took a look down when he got to the top and yelled for help. His mother just pulling up to the curb in the car saw him and screamed loudly the whole neighborhood to get him down and when he had reached his mother's arms once again he was kissed and cried all over, given a hot bath, put to bed to rest his nerves, and the doctor sent for.

Then Johnny's mother had time to get mad. Where was Grandfather? She had left Johnny in his care. Where was he now?

She found him in his room. "I saw him climb up, but he had had his orders not to," said Grandpa calmly. "I was watching him from my window."

"And you didn't help?"

"Why, I figured the best kind of training a child can get is to get out of their own mistakes," said he.

Which did not mollify Johnny's mother at all.

Plain Waffles
2 cups pastry flour
2 lbs. sugar
2 eggs
3-4 tsp. salt
2 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 cup milk
4 lbs. melted butter.
Beat the egg whites and yolks separately, add the melted butter to the batter and fold in the whites at the last.

Three-Minute Cake
1-2 cup shortening (soft)
1 3/4 cups pastry flour
2 1-2 tsp. baking powder
1 2 tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 tsp. vanilla
1-2 cup milk
Put all the ingredients in the mixing bowl and beat for three minutes, and bake in layer, sheet tin or as cup cakes. If a marbled chocolate cake is desired, take out 4 lbs. of flour and substitute 4 of cocoa or chocolate.

Have macaroni and chipped beef occasionally instead of the old starchy macaroni and cheese, but do not salt the macaroni when cooking it, there is enough in the dried beef.

Lemon Banana Pie
4 bananas
1 c. sugar
1 1/2 tsp. salt
5 tbsp. cornstarch
Yolks of 2 or 3 eggs
1-4 c. boiling water
Juice and rind 1 lemon grated
1-4 c. orange juice
1 t. butter
Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt together. Add boiling water and cook directly over fire one minute, stirring constantly. Place in double boiler and cook 8 or 10 min. Add egg yolks slightly beaten and fruit juices and cook 2 or 3 min. Add butter just before removing from fire. Cool slightly and add one banana sliced thin. Blend well, cool, if possible, pile in a baked pastry shell, then slice remaining bananas over top. Cover with a meringue and brown in oven.

ANY BETTER?
There was a time and place when plain girls of humble estate could not wear the colors and fabrics and follow the same wedding customs as girls of high estate. In the early days, the hardship of being forced to adhere to a high standard of living with weddings like those of princesses is as hard to handle as the hardship of being denied luxuriant standards.

TRY COUGH DROPS
If you as a parent are wondering if your little Willie or Fanny should be given piano or violin or saxophone lessons, you may be interested in learning that some school music instructor has just discovered that pupils who play wind instruments are much less susceptible to colds and other ailments than those who play string ones. And yet, advising the small pupils was killed by an automobile when permitted to cross the street for candy at recess.

And like as not if "teacher" hadn't permitted her to get the candy, she'd probably have been sued by the juvenile's parents for denying said child's system necessary sugar for its endocrine.

This school teaching system may be soft in spots, but not all over.

POOR TEACHER!
Here's another school teacher in hot weather, Miss Rose Goldstein, public school teacher of Peru Amboy, N. J., is charged with inefficiency and conduct unbecomingly a teacher because one of her small pupils was killed by an automobile when permitted to cross the street for candy at recess.

And like as not if "teacher" hadn't permitted her to get the candy, she'd probably have been sued by the juvenile's parents for denying said child's system necessary sugar for its endocrine.

This school teaching system may be soft in spots, but not all over.

DARBY AND JOAN
Harry and Hattie Campbell were, respectively, 62 and 55. For more than 30 years they preyed upon society in their pose as old-fashioned and wife. One of their favorite stunts was to enter a jewelry store, hand in hand, whilst Harry bashfully confessed that he and the little woman were celebrating their tenth or twentieth or something wedding anniversary, and asking to see bracelets or rings or something.

STILL AT IT!
After buying their simple little purchase, usually at a special rate because the clerk was so touched, and after leaving the shop, the clerk would generally find several thousands dollars worth of jewelry missing. So Harry and Hattie have been sentenced to life imprisonment as old offenders. They rather laugh at the sentence, remarking that they'll be in the same prison. The Darby and Joan staff seems to have pervaded their systems. Sometimes even posers are found to be real.

"RAZZBERRIES!"
"Secrets of Charm," by Josephine Huddleston, is another of these ever perpetual books which seek to prove that all women can be beautiful and charming if they but know the tricks. To which one who is not beautiful and only rarely charming can only murmur, "Razzberries!" Beauty and charm can no more be made if Providence didn't give it to start with than a pug nose can be made into a Roman by just willing it so!

Funeral services for the late Mrs. George W. Smith were held on Wednesday afternoon with prayers at the home at 1:45 o'clock, and at the Talcottville church at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. A. E. Walte sang "Abide With Me," and "Perfect Rest." Rev. F. P. Bachelor paid tribute to the true, loyal, self-sacrificing life of Mrs. Smith and spoke of the great esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. The floral pieces were many and beautiful. Interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery. The bearers were Ernest Smith, Frank Smith, Cumner Smith, Elmer Rivenburg, Wilbur Smith and Howard Smith.

Friends of Miss Eulie Connors tendered her a shower last Friday evening at the home of her sister Mrs. William Stiles, Jr., in honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. Gebeler of Rockville. The wedding will take place, April 9th.

Washington, March 30.—A presidential picnic party, the objective of which was the fishing grounds on the Rapidan river in Virginia, was called off today because of inclement weather.

President Hoover had planned an all-day trip to inspect the area, leaving Washington at 7:30 o'clock. At 7 o'clock it was raining hard, and at 7:30 the rain had turned to hail. After squinting at the overcast skies and finding out by telephone that there were similar weather conditions along the 100-mile route, the president reluctantly decided not to attempt it.

COMPETITIVE GOLF HAS GONE BOOTLEG

Ball With Greater Yardage Possibilities Being Smuggled Into Tournaments.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, March 30.—Competitive golf has gone bootleg.

This was the innuendo in circulation behind the scenes today as golf officials checked over returns from the winter tournaments and discovered that low scoring now is being figured somewhere in the decimal table. The intimation was that a little step-brother of the "Jack Rabbit," which so agitated the ball field a few years ago, had been smuggled up the backstairs into competitive golf, although the officials failed to use exactly those terms. What they really said was that they understood the ball manufacturers "had found a new substance" that insured greater yardage. What they really meant was that a "bootleg" or "Rabbit" was at large somewhere on the premises.

"Rabbit" is loose.

The "Rabbit" just to keep the record balanced, is a ball that seeks the dim and distant horizon when smote or smitten upon the countenance and, if the boys have their story right, its appearance would account for an epidemic of tournament golf never before has known.

It doesn't account for the fact that, when better scores were made, young Mr. Horton Hamilton of Poplin, Mo., made them. The only possible explanation of his conduct is that Mr. Smith merely was better than his field, irrespective of whether dynamite or doughnuts went into the making of the ball they happened to be using.

They, they don't mind saying that, when a medal score of 290 for 72 holes was liable to finish in a desolate, tri-cornered tie for twenty-second place, they think there was any powdered sugar on this doughnut. Powdered, sugared, no. That's their anecdote.

Something Happened.

I can't say that it is altogether implausible, either. It undoubtedly must have happened when quite a few golfers suddenly and for no rational reason began under-shooting themselves by 15 to 20 strokes on their four-round totals. Consider Bill Melhorn's 271 in Texas—an average of 67 1/4 strokes for each round he played. Maybe the course lacked something of actual championship dimensions but William for years has played the winter circuit on courses that were both tougher and longer than he ever approached this degree of tournament madness. Besides, all scores were low regardless of where the par was thrown.

Sixty-nines on individual rounds were a commonplace; for one round succeeded in getting one nowhere. One flew into a vulgar rage if he achieved par. The funny thing was that, barring Melhorn, none of the old guard could play with the pace. Smith, famous now but obscure at the season's outset, spread-eagled his field nearly every time out. Tom Ranklets, another comparative unknown, came through once in Florida while Ed Dudley, who is just getting good, almost stole the show at La Goree.

Hagen and Others.

What of Hagen? He was well down in the money most of the way, although he didn't start often. Johnny Farrell, national open champion, scored not wisely but too often. Tommy Armour, former national champion, got going at Pinehurst but Smith's 67 in the third round was his first daily with three greens by the way. Had Thomas licked. Sarazen blew himself to a rather indifferent winter season.

The answer? You may search my portfolio. Surely, it cannot be that they didn't patronize the right bootlegger.

BOSTON BRUINS WIN THE TITLE

Conquer Rangers 2-1; Called Greatest Hockey Machine of All Time.

New York, March 30.—The Boston Bruins, who won the Stanley Cup and the professional hockey championship of the world by scoring a 2 to 1 victory over the New York Rangers here last night in the second and concluding game of the National Hockey League's first All-American final, were hailed today as the greatest hockey machine of all time. They finished the regular season in first place in the American Division of the league, took three straight from the Montreal Canadiens in the first-place play-offs, and then captured two straight contests with the Rangers, defending champions.

It has been suggested that the bed of the Pacific Ocean represents the old scar now largely filled up where the moon was separated from the earth.

FORREST CADY SIGNS AS PACIFIC COAST UMPIRE.

Los Angeles, March 30.—Forrest Cady, who was the first catcher to receive Smoky Joe Wood's last ones when the Boston Red Sox were burning the American League, has signed again as a Pacific Coast umpire. President Harry Williams says there is no better umpire in any league.

Harvard Claims Premier Hockey Player, Giddens

Bobby Giddens, of Canada, captain-elect of Harvard's hockey team next winter, is considered by many the outstanding college hockey star of the past season.

With the puck, Giddens is in a class by himself. And veteran followers of the ice-game contend that he even excels Myles Lane and George Owen, both former college stars.

This year Giddens had a long lead on his mates in scoring, having caged the disk 18 times.

Probably his most outstanding performance was made during the two-game series with Yale a year ago, when the Canadian led both games up "Ding" Palmer, the sensation of 1928, from scoring a single point. Up to that time Palmer had compiled 50 goals, more than the combined totals of the entire Harvard squad and Palmer's teammates.

Is Canadian.

The Harvard captain-elect entered the Cambridge institution in 1925, after preparing in his home city of Ottawa. He left college in 1926-1927, but returned a year ago last fall and easily established himself as the Crimson's foremost right wing. He held that position as junior during the past year, and distinguished himself on a number of occasions.

Even before entering Harvard, Giddens attracted attention to himself while a member of the Montegrads of Ottawa that reached the finals of the 1925 Allan Cup series, emblematic of the Canadian amateur championship, before losing a game.

Although weighing but 145 pounds, and only 5 feet seven inches in height, the Canadian youth has never suffered an injury, despite the fact that he is a marked man in every game. The explanation is that Giddens is far too clever and elusive to be caught in a bang-up.

Is Only Sport.

Outside of hockey, Giddens takes no interest in any other sport, although this season may see him on the lacrosse field, another Canadian game. Madison Snyder, lacrosse coach at Harvard, induced Giddens to try a hand at the game. Incidentally, Bobby is the cheer leader at Soldiers' Field during the football season.

But without question his greatest forte is the ice. He shoots either forehand or backhand. He skates well and is fast, and can turn on a dime. He knows just how to play the boards for rebounds. He can either poke or body check, and can do a solo or form an important part in team combination. In short, Giddens does everything just a little better than any college player now on the ice.

WHO WANTS TO FIGHT?

This, it seems, is going in for boxing in a big way for a young lady just five years old like Lenora Bohon of Toledo, O. She stands in fighting pose here, with gloves—well, they weigh almost as much as she does, 22 pounds to be exact. The gloves were made for her dad, who is an exhibition fighter around Toledo, but young Lenora has them on and challenges Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey and all of them for a scrap.

English Girls Training To Beat Ederle's Record

Dover, England, March 30.—With the advent of spring and warmer temperatures, the 1929 English Channel swimming season has officially opened.

From Dover to Folkestone, English girls, fired with ambition to emulate Gertrude Ederle and Mercedes Gleitze and other women conquerors of the 20-mile strip of water, are getting ready to enter upon their great adventure as soon as conditions are more favorable.

Even tugs and occasional freezing seas cannot chill their enthusiasm, and they have already started vigorous training, which includes eating sustaining beef-steaks, going for long walks, swimming in chilly waters, and drinking occasional glasses of alcohol to make them fat and more buoyant.

This year the girls are more determined than ever to hang up new records, and fast swimming times are expected to be set up this summer.

Laddie Sharp, who was successful in accomplishing the swim last year, and is the youngest girl to swim from France to England, has gone into training at Brighton, resolved to beat the record established by Gertrude Ederle.

Connie Gilhead, another young English girl, who has been in training since Jan. 7, will make an attempt in July. Miss Sharp will pace Miss Gilhead, and if Miss Gilhead should fall she proposes, in turn, to pace Miss Sharp.

James Wolfe, the veteran English channel swimmer, who is training the girls, declares he is confident each of the girls will get inside the record.

"Given favorable conditions, they should lower Gertrude Ederle's record," Wolfe told International News Service. "They are the fastest swimmers I have retained for some years, and have wonderful stamina."

Miss Sharp swam the channel last year in the remarkably good time of 14 hours 58 minutes. She has to better this by 24 minutes to equal Miss Ederle's record.

Rookie Pitcher's First Real Game Seemed Like World Series to Him

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

Fort Myers, Fla., March 27.—"It was like pitching in a world series to me. My head was in a whirl while I was pegging the first three balls, but I finally settled down."

This was the reaction of Bill Breckinridge, of Tulsa, Okla., rookie pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics to his first appearance on the mound against a major league club. He was sent in against the St. Louis Cardinals in an exhibition game and held them scoreless for the three innings that he pitched. Connie Mack, the A's manager, regarded it as a splendid performance.

Breckinridge came to the A's from Dartmouth College for whom he pitched six shutouts last season, one a no-hit no-run game against Williams.

"Are you going to make the grade as a pitcher for the A's?" he was asked.

"I'm afraid not," was his modest rejoinder. "There are nine good reasons why I will not this year. The A's have nine fine pitchers, five good right handers and four good left-handers. So I don't see much chance for me. This is the hardest club in the league for a pitcher to break into."

"If you're sent to a lower league for experience will you go?" he was asked.

"Yes, for one year," he replied. "If Mr. Mack farms me out I will know that he does not think I am yet ripe for big league pitching. But I never would stay in the minors, if I cannot pitch big league ball I'm going to get out of the game. I'd be willing to try one year in the minors but hardly any more."

Breckinridge has been studying law and should be giving up baseball that will be his profession, he added. Connie Mack, however, likes him as a big league prospect, and he may be in baseball for many years. He is a tall right-handers, weighing about 180 pounds, and is a close student of the game.

DAZZY VANCE SECOND PITCHER TO GET $25,000.

New York, March 30.—Dazzy Vance, with "25 grand" for signing up with Brooklyn, is the second pitcher to get that much money for shooting 'em across the plate. Walter Johnson was the other, Walter having been on the payroll for that much for his last three years with Washington.

Holy Cross May Play Football Games At Night

College football games at night. This is football's latest wrinkle, and indications were that the plan would be adopted and put into effect by Holy Cross college in one of next year's games.

Cleo O'Donnell, head coach of the Purple and white forces, declared that college authorities were considering the installation of an illumination plant to consist of large reflectors, and the playing of the games now on schedule for the coming fall at Piton Field. The opponents probably would be either Rutgers or Providence, the coach added.

Such illumination would be a great aid in practice for games, and since the days in Fall are short many valuable hours of workouts could be gained by such use, "Cleo" believes.

"In the fall our practice period is materially affected by the shortening of hours, and the lights would enable us to work as long as we do early in the season."

"A game under the reflectors would be a novelty, and perhaps spectators might expect to miss some of the features of the play in the artificial light. They would go down in the evening. An aerial game would thus be more scientific and spectators would enjoy more comfort."

"Anyway, I think we'll try a game this fall with either Rutgers or Providence."

NATIONAL COURT MEET AT BOSTON APRIL 3.

Boston, March 30.—The national court tennis championships will be held in Boston, starting on April 3, with the final probably on April 6. Hewitt Morgan is the champion and will defend his title, abandoned last year by Jay Gould, who reigned for several years and who was regarded as one of the greatest of players.

GIRLS TO COMPETE FOR TOWN BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIP SOON

Many Expected to Sign for Tournament at Joe Farr's Charter Oak Alleys Which Starts Next Tuesday Night

A bowling tournament to settle the town women's individual title has been formed by Joe Farr, proprietor of the Charter Oak alleys. Play begins next Tuesday evening.

All persons living in town are eligible to compete. Names must be in Monday night at the very latest. They can be left personally or sent to the Charter Oak alleys by telephone. It is understood that a large number of girls from the Cheney Girls' league are planning to participate.

Manager Farr announces that the girls will be divided into two groups and each bowler will meet all others in her group. Then the winners will meet in a series for the title. Games will be rolled but once a week—on Tuesday and three games will be the evening's total.

A silver loving cup will be offered for first prize and there will be other prizes to be announced later.

HAS TOUGH JOB

Coach Tom Kelley

WHAT A MAN, EH!

They All Say So

While chewing the fat in Ft. Myers one night Connie Mack told Ed Dickerson, the fat Grand Rapi's sports editor, that Detroit looked like the pennant winner. Connie intended it to be a confidence and it was treated as such by Dickerson but the word got back to Connie and he promptly said he had been misunderstood and that what he meant to say was that Detroit might win the pennant.

Harry Grabner, of the White Sox, credited the chances of the Tigers, he said, were a powerful club last year but they played dumb baseball. "They won't play dumb with Harris around. He's one of the smartest men in baseball."

Miller Huggins, Dan Howley, Walter Johnson and all of the National League managers I talked to said that Detroit would be in the race on account of Harris.

One of the Yankee pitchers said Harris was the second smartest manager in baseball. He wouldn't name the first.

Coach Kelley Has Tough Task To Make New Team

Dowd, Moriarty and McConkey, Only Regulars Back; Former Named Captain; First Practice Monday Afternoon; Season Opens April 24.

By TOM STOWE

Two outfielders and a pitcher constitutes all the first string material left from last year's Manchester High school baseball team, around which Coach Tom Kelley must build his 1929 outfit. Two letter men who were substitutes last season are returning. They are Ted Lupien and Sherwood Trueman. The regulars are Ernie Dowd, Hugh Moriarty and Dave McConkey.

All of which doesn't make Coach Kelley's job an enviable one to say the least. Still, despite the somewhat gloomy forecast, there is a feeling that somehow Coach Kelley will put together a combination that will make a successful, if not sensational, record. It will be Kelley's third year at the head of the High school nine. The first season, his cohorts won 12 games and lost only three to take second place in the league, East Hartford coming in first. Then last season, the school won 11 games and lost 4. This enabled the team to tie for first place with West Hartford but Coach Kelley's efforts were in vain when it was revealed that some of the players on the local team had violated the eligibility rules by playing with outside teams. This led to the forfeiture of the tie for the pennant.

47 Candidates Sign

Nearly fifty young athletes attended the first baseball meeting of the season and 47 signed their names as candidates. The first practice session will be held next Monday afternoon at the West Side playgrounds from 3:30 until 5:30. The workouts will be daily at the same "summer training camp."

Those attending the meeting and announcing their intentions of trying for a berth on the team were: W. Vince, M. Moriarty, R. Woodbridge, C. Magnuson, P. Wauchlan, D. Squatrito, R. Joslin, H. Chambers, J. Tierney, S. McCann, D. McConkey, R. Clough, A. Weiman, H. Howland, E. Hansen, R. Day, E. Dunn and John Benschke are expected to meet this afternoon about 2:30.

Coach Kelley Has Tough Task To Make New Team

Dowd, Moriarty and McConkey, Only Regulars Back; Former Named Captain; First Practice Monday Afternoon; Season Opens April 24.

By TOM STOWE

McHale, C. Vennart, E. Moriarty, H. Turkington, E. Dowd, W. Kelley, T. Lupien, H. McKinney, McCormick, R. McCormick, A. Palmer, Steinberg, J. Hedlund, A. Smith, J. Lerch, J. Lloyd, S. Felice, F. Kerr, F. Sullivan and C. Bycholski.

Dowd Named Captain

Ernie Dowd, feet-footed center fielder on last year's nine, has been elected captain for the season. Dowd was lead-off man in the Manchester team's batting order last season and one of the most dependable men with the stick. He will be back in the same post this season although Kelley may change his appearance in the batting order. Hugh Moriarty, veteran right fielder, is the other regular back for the outer garden. Ted Lupien, sub-left fielder to his brother, "Ab," Lupien last season, is out for left field. It looks as though Manchester's outfield is going to be satisfactory.

Coach Kelley's biggest problem is going to be the manufacture of a brand new infield. All of last year's quartet was included: Nino Boggnin, c; Dick Kerr, 1b; Jim Foley, 2b; Alphonse Boggnin, ss and Louie Farr, 3b, have been lost through graduation. An entire new one will have to be developed from the lost of recruits which, fortunately, is quite large. For pitching duty, Coach Kelley has one veteran, Dave McConkey and a utility man in Sher Trueman. Several candidates are out for this position.

Play One Less Game

The team will play one less game than last season. The game with Bulkeley High of New London was dropped for lack of a suitable date and only the ten league contests and games with Willimantic and Rockville, Manchester's greatest non-league rivals, will be included. The team opens its season April 24 at Rockville. Two days later the squad will be cut to 21 players which is the number Coach Kelley plans to carry. Reports from other schools in the league are to the effect that all teams, save possibly Bristol, will be stronger than last season.

DUNN AND BENSCHE ARE PLAYING TODAY

Due to the fact that the Rec was closed all day yesterday in observance of Good Friday, it was necessary to postpone the pocket billiard match between Bill Kaminsky and Harry Bellamy. This match will be held Monday night. Walter Dunn and John Benschke are expected to meet this afternoon about 2:30.

NEW ROAD BILL WOULD BOOST GASOLINE TAX

sembly of 1927 passed a bill which made possible the construction of this road, extending 2 1/2 miles from the Hutchinson River Parkway at the New York state line.

Following passage of the bill, the highway department began making surveys of the territory to establish a new right of way. It was found that the parallel Post Road would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 and also found considerable opposition among property owners along the proposed route.

In order to afford the legislature the opportunity of reviewing its previous action with all facts available, Highway Commissioner Macdonald suggested that a bill be introduced repealing the 1927 act so that by its action on this bill the Legislature would definitely decide whether or not it desired to extend such a large amount of money on a single highway, based upon a public hearing.

Judging from the amount of opposition to the repeal of the 1927 measure voiced before the committee on Thursday, there would seem to be little doubt that that sentiment is entirely favorable to the construction of the new road, and that by its action on this bill the Legislature would definitely decide whether or not it desired to extend such a large amount of money on a single highway, based upon a public hearing.

As predicted some weeks ago, the outcome of the numerous pension bills pending before the committee on Civil and Boroughs seems very likely to be the drafting of a single statute to cover all requirements for the pension of city and state employees. Approximately 80 pension bills were submitted to the committee in this year and every one of them differed in some degree from every other one. The committee in order to avoid the continuous flood of pension bills in every session has now decided to draft a bill providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate the entire pension situation and to report to the 1931 Assembly their recommendations for a single statute to cover all requirements of this nature.

All of the bills which were introduced at the start of the session to legalize voting by mail for Connecticut residents who might be unable to return to the polls on election day were rejected by the Assembly this week following unfavorable reports by the Committee on the Judiciary. In reporting upon these bills, the committee stated that the present legislature seemed to be in favor of the principle of absentee voting, but it is believed the extension of that privilege must be made by constitutional amendment rather than by statute.

There was a considerable question raised at this point and the committee adopting a course of conservatism decided that inasmuch as that question existed the best method was to inaugurate absentee voting by constitutional procedure. It is therefore very likely that this amendment will be introduced shortly. In order to make absentee voting an actuality, it will be necessary for the amendment to pass the present Legislature by a two-thirds vote of both Houses and then to lie on the table until 1931 when it must again be passed by the same margin. Following its second passage, it must be referred to a referendum. Provided the measure lives through this process, it will then be necessary for the Assembly of 1933 to enact the necessary enabling statutes.

Appropriations Bill

During the week, the Committee on Appropriations submitted to the Assembly its general bill covering the state's expenditures for the biennial period. The introduction of this bill before the end of March is believed to have created a record. At least it is safe to say that in no session within the memory of the present generation of legislators has a general appropriations bill been completed and submitted at such an early date. The early completion of appropriation work this year was made possible by the preparation in advance of the session of a very detailed budget which has been completed and submitted which gave the committee a basis of operation which it never before has enjoyed.

Educational Grants

On Wednesday afternoon, the hall of the House was filled with people appearing before the Committee on Education to express their approval of the equated pupil plan of increasing state aid to towns for educational purposes. The Board of Education, would increase the present annual expenditure of the state by approximately $2,500,000; and, while it has many proponents no one has yet made a suggestion as to the exact source of revenue to meet such an increase. No matter how the committee acts upon this measure, it will be necessary for it to refer the bill for final action to the appropriations committee where the lack of suggestion as to source of income is more than likely to prove fatal.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: Story of the Days

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

The story of the days of the week, how they got their names, goes far back into the dim days of early mankind. In those days, people could see nothing so wonderful, so beautiful or so useful as the sun. The sun to them became the visible expression of God.

Monday was named after the moon, who was held in sacred esteem in the olden days when people believed the moon was the wife of the sun.

Men and women later changed their idea about God, but the ancient veneration of the sun was retained when the Sabbath was named after it.

BY FRANK BECK

People called the goddess of the moon Diana and used to think that Phoebus Apollo, the sun god, drove his flaming chariot across the sky by day, and that Diana drove a silver chariot across the starry paths by night. (To Be Continued)

GAS BUGGIES--Such Is Love

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Easter expenses are mostly over-head.

SENSE and NONSENSE

He is not here: for He is risen as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. And go quickly, and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead; and, behold, He goeth before you into Galilee: there shall you see Him: lo, I have told you. Matt. 28: Verses 6-7.

Easter Song. Snowdrops! lift your timid heads, All the earth is waking; Field and forest, brown and dead, Into life are waking. Snowdrops! rise and tell the story How He rose, the Lord of glory.

Lilies! Lilies! Easter calls! Rise to meet the dawning Of the blessed light that falls Through the Easter morning; Ring your bells and tell the story How He rose, the Lord of glory.

Waken, sleeping butterflies! Burst your narrow wings! Spread your golden wings and rise For the Lord is risen: Spread your wings and tell the story How He rose, the Lord of glory.

We hear so much about the eighteenth amendment now days that very few people know what the first seventeen amendments are about. . . Now days the girls that blush are the ones that are not kissed. . . Your salary is not determined by your boss. . . You, yourself, determine what your salary will be.

LETTER GOLF

ONE FOR EASTER

FOWL and EGGS are supposed to be plentiful this time of year, but eggs are mighty hard to get. In letter golf, at least. Par is nine and one solution is on another page.

Letter Golf grid with letters F, O, W, L and E, G, G, S.

THE RULES.

- 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed. One solution is printed on comic page.

Excutioner (to condemned man in chair)-Is there anything you want before I turn on the juice? Condemned-Yeah, loosen the laces on my left shoe; my corns are achin'.

Youngie-Bill if your father could save a dollar a week for four weeks, what would he then have? Bill-A phonograph, a new suit, an electric refrigerator, and a set of furniture.

If the Savior should send a message to earth now it would probably be for the people to stop destroying the wild flowers so near the anniversary of his resurrection.

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The queer tub man still sailed around, while all the Tinies on the ground, just stood and watched him closely. They were very much amazed. "I hope he doesn't fall," said one. "I'm sure that that would be no fun. In fact, if he drops to the ground, I'm sure that he'll be dazed." The tub man heard this short remark. He shouted loud, "I'm like a lark. I fly around to suit myself and never take a flop. Don't fret because you think I'll fall, 'cause there's no chance of that at all. I'll make a pretty landing, boys, when I get set to stop." Then 'round and 'round he went some more. His antics made the Tinies roar. Said Copsy, "Look! He loops the loop and does a spiral dive. He has a heap of nerve, no doubt, or he'd be scared that he'd fall out. If I had ever tried that stunt I wouldn't be alive." "Aw, shucks," said Clowny.

"That's not him. He has a tub that's right in trim to do a lot of crazy tricks. He merely sits inside. I'd gladly float in that queer thing. In fact I'd love to have my fling. Perhaps, when he lands down by us, he'll let us take a ride." Then Scouty frightened all the crowd, when he jumped up and yelled aloud, "A great big bird is chasing him. Oh my, I surely hope that he tries hard for all he's worth to make a landing here on earth." But then they saw the tub man stand, and wave a piece of rope. It was a lass in his hand, and he knew how to throw it grand. Just as the bird came near the tub, all set to peck and peck, the tub man threw his rope out - quick. What happened was a clever trick. The rope, in just a moment, settled on the big bird's neck. (The Goofygoos springs a surprise in the next story.)

Arthur A. Knoffa, local real estate and insurance agent, has received notice from the casualty companies he represents that a 10 per cent rate reduction will be granted to automobile owners whose cars have not figured in accidents over a period of years.

Rev. W. D. Woodward of Hollister street will occupy the pulpit and administer sacrament at the church in Moodus tomorrow. He will substitute for Rev. J. M. Von Decula. Rev. Woodward went to Moodus this morning with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Skinner of Quarryville.

Miss Mary Nackowski, of Hawthorne street motored this morning with friends to Worcester, Mass., where she will spend the holiday with relatives.

Fayette B. Clarke representing the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company and other casualty insurance companies now reports that his companies are granting the rate reduction mentioned in The Herald two days ago. It is believed that all of the casualty companies will grant this reduction.

Society people in Manchester and Hartford will attend the dance given in New York this evening by Mrs. Stirling W. Childs of that city and Norfolk, in honor of Miss Cynthia Cheney, daughter of Mrs. John Davenport Cheney of Hartford road. The engagement of Miss Cheney and S. Winston Childs, Jr., was announced in January and the wedding will take place in June.

Mrs. Boleslaw Mozzer of 241 Spruce street has just returned home after spending four months in California where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Jameson of Long Beach and San Francisco. Mrs. Mozzer reports touring into Mexico and an altogether delightful stay on the Pacific coast.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held Tuesday, April 2nd at 2:30 p. m. in the South Methodist church parlors. It will be an Easter program and friends will be cordially welcomed.

Dr. Robert P. Knapp of Hartford road is a state delegate to the 137th annual meeting of the Hartford County Medical association which will be held on Tuesday at 4 o'clock at 400 Washington street, Hartford. The business will include reports of the officers, committees and delegates, election of officers and state delegates and of members. The scientific program will feature an address on "New Aspects of the Cancer Problem as it Relates to the General Practitioner". This will be given by Dr. William S. Stone, chief physician of the Memorial hospital, New York City.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge will meet in Odd Fellows Hall Monday evening for its regular business session.

A number of the Manchester Garden club members are planning to attend the meeting of the Connecticut Horticultural society Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the new county building on Washington street. The society will present at that time W. E. Marshall of New York, one of the country's outstanding authorities on the culture of hardy lilies. Mr. Marshall's services as a lecturer are in great demand. For years he has grown almost every lily known to horticulturists. The lecture will be illustrated and his son, Donald E. Marshall, will assist him.

The Hi-Y dance to be held in the High school auditorium Friday, April 5, though open to the general public, will be in the form of a reunion of former members of the Hi-Y. The club is made up of High school students and this dance was planned with the idea of bringing together many who in their undergraduate days were members of the club. Ernie Rock's Cotton Pickers have been engaged to provide music for the affair. Light refreshments will be served. Robert Treat is general chairman and Robert Mercer is in charge of the decorations.

Manchester Lodge, No. 1477, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold its annual election of officers Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Home club on Brainard place.

A surprise party in celebration of the 14th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson was held at their home on Bissell street last night. About 25 friends were present.

The 169th Infantry, C. N. G. regimental band will give an hour's concert over radio station WTIC at Hartford from 9:15 until 10:15 tomorrow evening. The program will be repeated the following Sunday night at the same hour.

George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Wilson of Woodbridge street who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is now able to be out again and hopes soon to be able to return to school.

POLICE COURT
 Charles J. Pickett, of 39 Cambridge street, was found not guilty of reckless driving by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in police court today. Pickett was arrested Thursday night following an accident at Main and Flower streets when Pickett's machine and one driven by Mrs. Thomas Peckham of Elro street came together. Officer Joseph Prentice made the arrest.

Several witnesses were introduced and the case took considerable time. Judge Johnson could not find sufficient evidence of Pickett's recklessness to find him guilty. Attorney William H. Shea defended Pickett.

William Holahan of Glastonbury was found not guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. Holahan was arrested a week ago at the north end by Patrolman Galligan. Robert Coleman was a witness for defense and said he was with Holahan for a time and could not tell that he had been drinking. Judge Johnson said that the evidence was so slight he could not find him guilty. Holahan was, therefore, discharged. He was defended by Attorney Clifford Bell of Glastonbury.

Irvine is handling the sale of tickets for the Women's Federation. John L. Reinartz, president of the Men's League, will give a stereopticon lecture on his trip to Etah, Greenland after the supper.

EASTER CANTATA
 "The Easter King," a sacred two-part story cantata will be given by the children's chorus of the Swedish Lutheran church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. More than 30 children will take part in the cantata. Recitations will be given by children of the primary department and beginners in the Sunday school.

The cantata will be presented under the direction of the church organist, Helge Pearson. Miss Eva M. Johnson will be the accompanist. Those who will give the descriptive passages between the choruses are as follows: Emily Palmer, Bror Johnson, Lillian Anderson, Pearl Johnson, Eleanor Berggren, Grace Johnson, Inez Johnson, Dorothy Anderson, Astrid Benson, Hazel Johnson, Fred Lavey, Arthur Johnson, Richard Hultman, Marlon Erickson, Doris Johnson, Ernest Berggren, Gunnar Johnson, Erland Johnson.

BIG CROWD SEES HOW RABBITS ARE DRESSED

A hundred persons or more were on hand to witness the dressing of rabbits in the show window of Ed Hess's store last night. Free chances on the two rabbits dressed off were given to the crowd of which Walter Buckley of 11 Franklin street and Lawrence Malton of 55 Spruce street were the winners. Arturo Gremmo of Hackmatack street, dressed off the rabbits, F. W. Hill of Olcott street, the largest breeder of rabbits in Manchester, was the owner.

The Rabbit Club would like very much to hold a meeting with the Scoutmasters of the Fox Scout troops in town on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, April 10. The purpose of the meeting is to be the arrangement of a plan whereby rabbit raising and dressing may be taught to the scouts. These lessons would take in parts of the merit badge on Taxidermy.
