

THINK AMATEUR BANDIT KILLED HARTFORD MAN

Storekeeper, Defending His Cash Register is Murdered by Extremely Nervous Youth Who Is Still Free.

Hartford, April 2.—Police are seeking what they call "an amateur burglar" as the man who late last night shot and killed Samuel Kamaroff, 37, grocer, in his store at Jefferson street and Seymour streets while attempting a hold-up. The case almost exactly parallels the murder of Lester Jacobs, Bridgeport chain store manager, who was shot down ten days ago while defending his cash register against a bandit. As in the Bridgeport case police expect an early arrest of a youth who is believed to be hiding in the city here.

Kamaroff's slayer was a young man, five feet five inches tall. He wore a grey overcoat and a grey cap, and he was a white man. So far as they have revealed these are the only clues the police have in their hunt for the murderer.

That the murderer was an amateur is said to have been indicated by the extremely nervousness he showed.

Kamaroff was alone in his store when he was slain. His wife was in the kitchen of their ground floor apartment behind the store, many feet away and out of sight. She heard the pistol shot and ran into the store in time to see a man run out of the front door. Mrs. Kamaroff pursued, screaming, the fleeing man suddenly turned and pointed his revolver at her. Frightened then for the first time, Mrs. Kamaroff gave up the chase and returned to the store.

Neighborhood Aroused.

Meanwhile the neighborhood had been roused and telephone calls were hurled into police headquarters. Police found Kamaroff lying behind a counter in the store, a bullet hole through his head. The police picked up three Smith & Wesson shells from the floor of the store, all loaded.

Investigation indicated that the man who did the shooting ran to the corner of Washington and Jefferson streets, a block away, and there climbed into an automobile which was ready to speed away instantly. Witnesses were found who saw the man enter the store and enter the automobile.

Find No Weapon.

Believing the weapon used to murder Kamaroff might have been thrown away, detectives hunted carefully over all the territory in the neighborhood but without success.

CHANGES IN RULES BY PARDONS BOARD

Prisoners to Be Allowed to Appear in Person When Their Petitions Are Heard

Hartford, April 2.—The State Board of Pardons plans to make important changes in its working applications for release from the institution at Wethersfield and to have at least two of the changes working next month when the board holds its next meeting.

Listed as the most important of the new rules is one that will permit a petitioner for parole or pardon or reduction in term the right to appear in person to plead his case before the board at any session at which there is a hearing on his petition. In the past a prisoner was allowed to appear in person just once and that was when an application was heard the first time. After a while the board permitted prisoners who seemed to possess special merit to appear before it on more than one occasion.

May Discuss Cases

Another rule is one prohibiting personal solicitation or private discussion of cases of prisoners with any single member of the board. The rule is lifted out of the "unwritten custom" class and will be adopted as authoritative.

To take effect on June 1, and so be applicable to next November's hearing first, is a rule providing an application denied at one regular session of the board may not be renewed until another session of the board has passed. Under the old application may be made only once a year instead of twice a year as the case now is. Then the rule is to be made providing that no application shall be received from any prisoner who is eligible for parole after the indeterminate sentence law.

Provisions for exceptions are made in both cases so that a person may send the board's clerk a written request for a hearing, and if half the board agrees the hearing will be held along with regularly scheduled hearings.

ARREST SUSPECT AFTER 25 YEARS

Hartford Man Who Escaped from Asylum is Picked Up in Tampa, Florida.

Hartford, April 2.—Nearly 25 years after he had escaped from the state hospital at Middletown where he was sent after his wife had been murdered, William Tucker, of Wilton's station, has been picked up in Tampa, Florida, and is being held there for Connecticut authorities, according to word received here today by Police Captain Andrew Williams.

Tucker's wife was slain in 1904. He was accused of killing her and was declared insane and committed to the hospital in Middletown. Tucker escaped very soon after he was committed, and had so completely disappeared that until today no trace of him was found by police interested in his case.

MICHAELSON TRIAL TO BE HELD MAY 6

Congressman Who is Charged with Rum Smuggling Puts Up Bail.

Chicago, April 2.—Congressman M. A. Michaelson, who had been sought for three days on charges of smuggling liquor into the country, will go on trial at Key West during the Federal Court term opening on May 6. It was announced today following the Congressman's surrender to Federal authorities here.

Believed at the time to be on his way to Jacksonville, Fla., to surrender himself, Congressman Michaelson suddenly appeared at the Federal building here yesterday and posted his $2,000 bond.

As the special session of Congress probably will still be in progress when Federal Court convenes at Key West, there is a question as to whether Michaelson can claim Congressional immunity and thus obtain a postponement.

Congressman Michaelson

The ceremonies yesterday were all very secret and mysterious, on the part of both Michaelson and the authorities. The Congressman went quietly into the office of U. S. Marshal Henry C. W. Laubheimer.

Then he and Assistant U. S. District Attorney Edward A. Tappay went before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. The warrant was read.

Puts Up Bail

Michaelson waived examination, posted four $500 bills for his bond and walked back out again. It all took about five minutes.

The indictment had been returned in Jacksonville, Fla., and charged that a year ago Michaelson had used his "courtesy of the port" as a Congressman to smuggle liquor into Key West.

It has been in Washington and just got in town," he said in reply to queries. "The charges against me are false and ridiculous. I never had any liquor in my possession."

He did not explain about the fluid from the broken bottle in his trunk that attracted the attention of a baggage man.

ANOTHER CONGRESSMAN

Washington, April 2.—The name of another Congressman also a dry supporter of the Jones law, has been drawn into the liquor-smuggling investigation now being conducted in New York by District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle. It was confirmed today in official sources. The name of the third Congressman is being withheld pending completion of Tuttle's investigation, but it was ascertained today that Treasury officials had turned all information in the case over to Tuttle for investigation, and, if the acts warrant, indictment.

It is understood he is also from Illinois, as is Rep. M. A. Michaelson, who yesterday posted $2,000 bond in Chicago for appearance before a Florida court to answer an indictment accusing him of bringing a trunkload of liquor in from Florida and using his official position to obtain "free entry" through the port.

COAST GUARD FIRES UPON FISH'S YACHT

New York's Wealthy Society Leader Complains to Washington—His Ship Taken for Rum Runner.

New York, April 2.—Stuyvesant Fish, wealthy society leader, clubman and broker, of this city, today was officially complaining to the authorities in Washington that his yacht, the Restless, was fired upon, stopped and searched by Customs officers in New York harbor last Saturday evening.

Halting when fired upon by what he believes to have been a Coast Guard cutter, the yacht was boarded and searched while those aboard were "covered" by five or six police in the hands of the searching party, Fish declared.

The search was accompanied, Fish said, by a "frightful outburst of profanity and vulgar language on the part of the crew of the Coast Guard patrol." A thorough search of the yacht failed to reveal any liquor, Fish said.

Family With Him

Fish was accompanied by his wife and his two sons at the time the boat was stopped. The family was returning from Wilmington, Del., where Fish had taken over the boat from the builders.

No report of the swearing-alleged to have been done by the men aboard the cutter was included in the complaint Fish made to Washington.

Fish's formal statement as transmitted to the authorities, was as follows: "My family and myself came out of Kill von Kull at sunset on Saturday in a small yacht. The Coast Guard boat was coming toward us from Brooklyn.

My front lights, side lights, rear light and cabin light were all lit. I went purposely to within about 100 yards of the Coast Guard to allow them to signal us to stop if they saw fit, which they did not do.

"Receiving no signal, we turned to the left and went up the harbor. "It began to rain heavily near the Statue of Liberty, at which time I turned the boat over to Captain Larsen of the American Car and Foundry Co., from which I bought the yacht. As the wind-slight had been covered with spray, he sat on the deck of the boat and steered from there.

Start Shooting.

"Shortly after he had taken charge of the boat, he turned the boat directly across its course and stopped it. On asking him why he had done so, he informed us that he was shooting. As we were in the air, I am unable to say, as we were not hit.

"The Coast Guard then came alongside and in very choppy sea, and insisted that they put a man on board to search the boat, covering with five or six Army automatic pistols or revolvers of similar type. The representative who came on board searched the boat for liquor, found none, and informed us that we were very lucky that they had not turned the machine gun nose on us as they had signalled us to stop."

NEW FLOOD DANGER IN MIDDLE-WEST

Water Rising in Half Dozen States—Windstorm Does Much Damage.

Chicago, April 2.—New flood menace arose in a half dozen middle western states today following one of the most destructive storms in the history of the region.

The storm blew out of the southwest on Easter Sunday and for 24 hours deluged states in the Mississippi valley with a combination of rain, hail and snow.

Small streams into the Father of Waters in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois, already at flood stage, swelled to alarming proportions with the additional three inches of precipitation. Hundreds of men were patrolling the Mississippi river levees between northeast Missouri and northwest Iowa. Streams in southwestern Illinois also were on a rampage.

At 20-Foot Stage
The Mississippi at Quincy, Ill., today had reached the 20-foot stage and serious breaks in the dikes up and down on the Missouri side were feared momentarily. Canton, Mo., is already surrounded by water and several factories there have had to close down.

Much damage was done in other sections by the severe gale that accompanied the storm. In Wisconsin alone the property damage has been

Silk Hats—Wooden Shoes!

You don't have to have a job to wear a silk hat—or carry a cane. "Mr. Zero"—Urban Ledoux—and his gang of unemployed, struck a sardonic note in Fifth Avenue's smart Easter parade when, garbed as shown above, they swung into the holiday procession. It was the idea of Mr. Zero "to show the existence of want in the midst of plenty." So this group of elderly gentlemen, all with wooden soles on their shoes, solemnly clattered up and down the avenue, finally returning to Mr. Zero's restaurant on the east side for cake, coffee and Easter cigars.

NEW BRITAIN YOUTHS DYING AFTER CRASH

Three High School Boys Re- turning from Dance Up- set Auto—Driver Says They Were Drunk.

New Britain, April 2.—Two youths are dying in New Britain General hospital and a third is there less seriously hurt as the result of a motor accident early today after a school dance at which, according to one of the victims, his companions become badly intoxicated.

James Kane, 23, and Charles Smith, 18, have fractured skulls and internal injuries that are expected to cause death.

Aaron Romencal, 19, is less badly hurt but is being held for observation. According to the police, the three youths went to a party at the home of a high school graduate returning for the Easter vacation. Romencal told the police that he drove Kane and Smith to the dance at the Coast Guard house, where they were shooting. At 1 a. m. the youths wanted to drive themselves home in Romencal's car, which was a new one. Romencal decided they were too far gone even to go home and decided to take them for a ride.

Car Upset.

Then Romencal declared that while they were on the road to Hartford, one of his companions suddenly exclaimed: "Look out for the car coming!" Romencal swerved his car suddenly, and pushed it against a curb where it upset and struck a pole.

Romencal was knocked unconscious but came to after a while and secured the aid of a passing motorist.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Bridgeport, April 2.—Harry W. Klock, 40, of Stamford, who died after being shot by his half-brother, Charles Eafil, of Stamford, met death accidentally, according to a decision handed down by coroner John J. Phelan here today.

Harold Cary, 36, of New York, also met death accidentally on March 29 when his skull was fractured in an automobile accident, according to Coroner Phelan's findings issued today.

Contour Of Woman's Nose Determines Sex Of Child

London, April 2.—The contour of a woman's nose and shoulders indicate whether her children will be boys or girls, according to Mrs. Monteth Erskine, wife of the member of the House of Commons from Westminister.

Mrs. Erskine, who has made a long study of the subject, advances the theory that spinal curvature has much to do with the determination of sex. She claims to have forgotten with almost exact precision the sex of an unborn child by observing the "hump" of the future mother's shoulders and hips.

In outlining her theory, Mrs. Erskine said: "When the left shoulder is higher and shorter from the neck to the right one, or when it is pushed out and forward, the organs corresponding to that side

STRICT JONES LAW HELPING WETS—REPORT

One Month Old Today But Has Not Yet Been Used for Fear of a Reaction, Wets Say.

Washington, April 2.—The drastic Jones law, under which it is possible for judges to impose a five year prison term and $10,000 fine for any violation of the Volstead Act, no matter how trivial, is one month old today.

It is a lusty infant, but like most infants has produced more noise than actual accomplishment during the first month of existence.

Some thousands of arrests have been made throughout the country since President Coolidge attached his signature to this act at 10:30 o'clock on the morning of March 2 but as yet there has been no case reported wherein the courts have imposed the maximum penalties.

Some authorities estimate that it will take at least a year to produce tangible evidence of the real effect of the law court congestion in prohibition cases alone will operate to prevent a real test much before that, they believe. Meanwhile arrests go on.

Both Sides Watching.

Both Wets and Drys are on the alert in Washington for evidence that may be used to bolster their arguments for or against the law. The first of these arguments probably will be heard in the special session of Congress that convenes in two weeks. An effort is to be made in the special session to repeal or modify the act, but it will only be a gesture. It will fail, but also because it is admitted even by the Wets the law should be given a thorough trial before "starting anything."

A good many of the Congressional Wets boast that the Jones Act is actually going to help their cause, and for that reason are secretly hoping to see it drastically enforced.

Lawyers' Committees.

In substitution of their claims in the respect they point to the great clamor which has been raised in the first short month of its existence as evidenced by the formation of voluntary lawyers' committees to defend violators in some cities.

The eyes of the nation are turned to the Michigan woman to prison for life for selling a pint of gin, by the public indignation over the killing of an Illinois mother before the eyes of her small son, a search later revealing only a small quantity of home-made wine in the house; the Coast Guard sinking of the "M Alone" 200 miles at sea; and lastly by the indictment and charges brought against members of Congress.

Helps Wets' Cause.

All this, the Wets argue, is so much grist for their mill and they intend to make the most of it when the opportunity arises in Congress.

Meanwhile, the Wets point out that since President Coolidge made the Jones Act a law one month ago today action has been started in several State Legislatures to repeal state enforcement acts, and throw the entire burden of enforcement upon the Federal government.

A warm fight is impending in the state enforcement act. It was introduced by Rep. Lafferty of Kansas City with the remark that "if the legislature votes as it drinks there is victory ahead, the voters go to Wisconsin, the voters go to the polls today to express their opinion in a popular referendum as to whether the Severe State Enforcement Act should be repealed.

And also whether the penalties for howling came to work for the beer and liquor should be eliminated. Michigan has repealed its "life for a pint" law since the enactment of the Jones Act.

In Illinois, following the Aurora killing, the Wets overcame the normally Dry majority in the Legislature and succeeded in getting a bill to repeal the State Enforcement Act on the legislative calendar, marking the first Wet victory in the Illinois Legislature in some years.

In New York, a coalition of Republican and Democratic Wets voted down a state enforcement code.

How much of this may be directly traced to the Jones Act is by no means clear to observers, but the Wets somewhat gleefully point to the chain of events of the last month.

FIGHTING RENEWED ON JIMENEZ FRONT; OUTCOME IN DOUBT

DEPUTY SAYS GUN EXPLODED ACCIDENTALLY

Declares at Inquest That It Isn't Very Clear How He Killed Mrs. De King Dur- ing Dry Raid.

Aurora, Ill., April 2.—Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who shot and killed Mrs. Lillian De King in a liquor raid upon the woman's home, reported wherein the official inquest here today claimed he shot the woman by accident.

"She had a pistol leveled at me," he said, "I backed up to get out of range and somehow, I don't know, it isn't very clear to me, my shotgun went off. When I shot I heard another shot and I felt a sting in my leg. I saw the little boy on the floor with a revolver in his hand."

Carried to Court

Smith's story was told to the jury of six men from his cot in a hospital where he is slowly recovering from the bullet wound inflicted by Gerald de King, 12-year-old son of the slain woman. Coroner Vreker presided.

Smith was asked the usual formal questions and was then asked to tell the story of the raid.

"Treadwell and Anderson, two deputies, told me that night to get a bullet-proof vest and get a shotgun and go with them. We got inside the house and I saw the woman from a door I saw Joe with two guns in his hand."

Struck Husband

"He said the first man to come in that room would be killed. I didn't want to shoot him so I didn't."

WOMEN JURY BILL KILLED, 200 TO 39

Question Plunges Lower House of State Legisla- ture Into Lengthy Debate.

Hartford, April 2.—The proposal to permit women to serve on juries in the Lower House of the Legislature today by plunging it into the longest debate of the session and so throwing aside all other business during the morning sitting. Finally, the House killed the bill 200 to 39.

Howard Alcorn, of Suffield, opened the way for the debate by presenting an unfavorable report on the jury service bill from the judiciary committee. Judge Ephraim Peck, of Bristol, presided over the House during the debate which was opened by Mrs. Cheney, of Manchester, who strongly opposed the unfavorable report. Mrs. Alsop, of Avon, declared the arguments against the idea of jury service were "unsound, emotional and almost sentimental."

Mrs. Alice L. Coe, of Winchester, opposed granting jury service. She declared that a little group of women were trying to thrust upon thousands of other women something they do not want. She declared the proponents were "inconsistent," pointing out they seek shorter hours for working women, and yet want to subject women to the strain of jury service. Then she said: "Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Knapp have not done much to uplift politics."

Seymour in Favor

Seymour, of Hartford, wanted his name "on the honor roll" by favoring jury service. Then he declared that the Anglo-Saxon maxim "what concerns all" should apply to the case.

Representative Reimers, of Durham, told the House his wife wouldn't let him enter his home against her vote to make women do jury duty.

Representative Tobin, of Waterbury, made his first major speech of the session by favoring the bill. He pointed out that women may be defendants, litigants, or even attorneys in Connecticut court, and still are not permitted to be jurors.

Rebels Say Federals Were Forced Back 20 Miles; This is Denied—Ameri- can Flyers Aid Rebels; Ex- pect Decision-Later Today in Today's Battle—Rebels Short on Ammunition.

El Paso, Texas, April 2.—Both Mexican Federals and rebels today claimed victory on the Jimenez front where fighting broke out again this morning after a lull overnight.

According to Federal sources, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan's government forces occupied positions northeast of Jimenez, preventing a rebel retreat towards Chihuahua City.

On the other hand rebel spokesmen declared that the Federal attackers had been pushed back 20 miles to Corralitos.

Rebel leaders in Juarez claimed they had received news from the fighting zone that Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar's victory was decisive. Gen. Escobar commands the Insurgents.

Gen. Genaro Frias, who served in the Mexican army when Porfirio Diaz was president of the republic, and who is now fighting with the rebels, declared that Gen. Escobar was maneuvering to force the Federals into a position on the Escalon Jimenez desert where another battle might be expected. He said that both Federals and rebels were using only light mountain artillery.

American Aviators

Gen. Jacinto B. Trevino, former director of military operations in Chihuahua, accompanied by four other former army officers, announced they would leave Juarez today to report to Gen. Escobar in the field.

It is reported that three American aviators have joined the rebels, flying south in planes that were smuggled over the border.

According to rebel spokesmen, American aviators fought with the rebels at Jimenez throughout Monday, repeatedly bombing Federal positions.

News from a Federal source said that Federal armies were active throughout the engagement all through the two mile battle front.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is flying to Mexico City to visit his fiancée, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, daughter of the American ambassador, stopped over here last night to refuel his plane, leaving later for Brownsville. He would avoid the battle zone, flying far to the east of it.

THE TURNING POINT.

San Antonio, Texas, April 2.—The turning point in the tie-up battle for the possession of Jimenez, which may prove the deciding factor of the Mexican revolution, was expected to be reached sometime today, according to reports received here.

Fighting continued well into last night. A dispatch received here shortly after midnight stated the rebels under command of Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, were holding to their trenches and raking the Federals under Gen. Juan Andrew Almazana with a murderous machine-gun fire.

Escape of the rebels has been cut off; Federals having destroyed bridges leading westward to Parramir.

NEW ENGLAND FIVE BEATEN

Portsmouth, N. H., School- boys Lose to New Mexico Team 24 to 23 in Chicago Tourney.

Chicago, April 2.—By staging a brisk rally in the closing stages of the battle, Raton, N. M., nosed out Portsmouth, N. H., 24 to 23 in the opening game of the eleventh annual national interscholastic basketball tournament here today. The game was desperately fought throughout and half time was the easterners in front 11 to 10.

NEGRO RUNS AMUCK

Newark, N. J., April 2.—The business section of this city was thrown into a turmoil today when a crazed negro ran amuck with an automatic revolver. The madman shot Patrolman Thomas Hackett in the leg, wounded another negro and then put the pistol to his own head and fired. He died instantly.

thought the best thing to do would be to hit him over the head. I did and he dropped.

"I turned and saw Mrs. de King advancing from the other side of the room. She had a gun in her hand and was cursing me. I scrambled back to get out of the room and the gun went off. I didn't shoot on purpose."

After Smith's story the jurors filed out into automobiles and went to Geneva to the Circuit Court where the inquest was to be resumed.

The next witness from whom testimony was obtained was Eugene B. Fairchild who said he was an investigator employed by the state's attorney's office. He said he signed the affidavit used by the De King raiders. When asked to tell his story, State's Attorney Carberry arose and asked that Fairchild not be made to testify, that a "wet and dry case was not going to be tried at this time."

Charles Hadley, attending the inquest as representative of the attorney general, said Fairchild must answer all questions the coroner asked him. Fairchild then resumed his story.

Spy Tells Story He testified he met a man named Johnson March 25 and asked Johnson where they might purchase liquor. Fairchild said Johnson and he drove to a place near the De King home and that Johnson was met by a tall thin man.

The investigator said he was not sure whether or not Johnson went into any house. When Johnson returned with a $2 bottle of alleged moonshine, Fairchild said Johnson told him he had purchased it from a woman.

Fairchild said he took the bottle to Aurora and had it cork sealed for official evidence. Hadley then questioned Fairchild. The investigator said he had been employed only a short time and that he had never before signed a complaint.

Asked if he had seen the purchase of the liquor, the complaint stated you had seen the purchase of liquor in the De King home if you did not see it?" asked Hadley. "I don't know," the witness replied.

EXIT, THE MAYFLOWER

Washington, April 2.—A trim white yacht poked her nose out into the Potomac and headed downstream this morning on the last voyage she will take for some time.

The vessel was the Mayflower, which has been the pleasure craft of five presidents, and is not wanted by the sixth. The terminus of her voyage today will be the Philadelphia Navy Yard. There she will be tied up until such time as the navy decides what to do with her. She may never be put in commission again.

Captain Wilson Brown commanded the Mayflower on what may be her last voyage. He will later take command of the submarine base at New London, Conn.

INSANE, KILLS SPOUSE

Milltown, N. B., April 2.—Sought by posses on both sides of the International line for three days and three nights in connection with the slaying of her husband, Mrs. Lena Graham, 39, clad only in fur coat, overboots and pajamas, was discovered today in the hayloft in the barn of John Myers, a farmer.

Frederick Graham, 28, cotton mill electrician, the husband, was shot to death as he lay asleep in bed. His wife, who two weeks previous had been under observation at a St. Johns institution, was missing.

Police said Mrs. Graham talked incoherently today. She was taken to the hospital at St. Stephens for observation as to her sanity and to await arraignment on a murder charge, police said.

Men were dragging the St. Croix river at the time Mrs. Graham was discovered in the hayloft. Others were searching the woods.

CONVENT BURNS

Quebec, April 2.—The Parish church of St. Paul in Montwary county and an adjoining convent were in ruins today after being struck by lightning. This is the second church in Quebec province to be destroyed by lightning within a month. A violent snow storm raged while firemen fought the blaze caused by the thunderbolt.

AMBASSADOR'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD THURSDAY

Thousands Pay Tribute to the Memory of Myron T. Herrick Our Envoy to France.

Paris, April 2.—Thousands today sought admission to the American Embassy to pay homage to France's "beloved friend," Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, who is to be accorded such honors in death as France has never yet accorded the envoy of a foreign power.

Thursday morning, funeral services will be held at the Embassy. Poincare will deliver a eulogy there, just as he did over the remains of Marshal Poch at Les Invalides a week ago today. The ambassador's body then will be moved from the Embassy to the American Cathedral with full military honors. The most distinguished officials of France will be in attendance at the ceremonies in the cathedral. France has offered the use of its fastest cruiser, the Tourville, in bringing the body back to the United States. From the church, therefore, the ambassador's coffin will in all probability be taken to a special train which will take the funeral party to the port of embarkation, either Brest or Cherbourg.

NOTED PACIFIC FLYERS STILL AMONG MISSING

Captains Smith and Ulm Are Lost in the Wilds of Northern Australia.

Sydney, N. S. W., April 2.—Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and Captain Charles Ulm, famous trans-Pacific aviators, who became lost when their plane was forced down in the North Australian wilderness on Saturday, were still missing today.

Continued storms prevented planes and a launch from starting out this morning to search for the missing men.

It is believed that the airmen landed in the vicinity of the Drysdale river.

A report was sent out yesterday that the men had been found and that supplies had been sent to them to enable them to continue their flight to Wyndham, but it proved unfounded.

The families and friends of the two are optimistic, believing that they will be saved. Meanwhile cheerful radio messages are being broadcast in hope that the aviators can pick them up with the radio apparatus attached to their plane.

The men flew in the Southern Cross, the plane which was made famous by the flight over the Pacific last year.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH

West Nyack, N. Y., April 2.—Two men were killed and a woman probably was injured fatally here today when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into the side of a speeding milk train.

The dead are: John Dietrich, 34, a broker of West Nyack and Harry Carrey, 45, also of Nyack. The woman is Mrs. Dietrich. She is in the Nyack hospital, where physicians do not expect her to recover. Fog is believed to have been responsible for the accident. They were returning from a charity ball in New York City.

ABOUT TOWN

Howard Murphy will meet George Barber of Danielson tonight in the first half of a home and home bowling match at Murphy's alleys.

The net receipts of all bowling games rolled at Murphy's alleys will be turned over to the Cubs' football team.

Claire Lyman, head of the English department at Arnold's College, spent the Easter vacation at the home of Walter Kittle of 18 Bissell street.

Once a year, just about this time, the police find it necessary to warn automobile owners concerning their markers. Many cars in Manchester have their markers so placed that they are hidden from view by the bumpers. This is against the law. While no arrests have been made as yet it would not be a bad idea for Manchester people to get their markers in a proper position.

Clifford Knight of Vernon, who is now conducting a class in cartooning at the Y. M. C. A., in Hartford, has been engaged to draw one cartoon a week for the United Press, relating to Connecticut matters in particular, but also touching occasionally on national events. He takes up his new duties this week but will continue to remain as instructor in Hartford.

Another $100 has been added to the Titulation Cooperative Society's building fund in advance of the benefit performance at Turn hall, North street, scheduled for Saturday night. There seems no doubt that there will be sufficient money to start work on the hall next month. Since the purchase of the property by the society for a recreation and community center, Polish Independent Catholic church representatives have tried to buy the land for their proposed church, but the offer was not accepted.

The Ladies Aid society of the Swedish Congregational church will hold a package sale tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the church on Spruce street. The packages will include the aprons, towels and other useful articles. Coffee and home-made cake will also be on sale. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Samuel Johnson, chairman; Mrs. Andrew Johnson, vice-chairman; Mrs. Carl Johnson, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Baker of Starkweather street, who had partially moved into the house on Woodbridge street formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Shaw, have changed their minds and instead will move to Lawrence Converse's new bungalow on the west side of North Elm street. Mr. Converse also owns the Shaw house which he has remodeled throughout.

The March "Go-to-Church" contest at the North Methodist church which has been a neck-and-neck race between the two congregations, Mrs. Thomas D. Smith and Mrs. LeVerne Holmes, is still undecided. Mrs. Smith's side was believed to have more present Easter Sunday, but the difference is so slight it is expected neither camp may win.

St. Mary's Girls Friendly society gave a minstrel show last night. Miss Agatha Wright was the interlocutor and Miss Violet Madden and Dorothy Norris acted as end men. Songs and jokes rounded out an enjoyable program. Refreshments were served by the entertainment by Mrs. Ethel Davis and her committee. The members have been receiving many compliments on the Easter pageant, "He Liveth," in which 15 persons, boys and girls from the church, participated. Mrs. Davis was the director.

The special meeting at Second Congregational church last evening went on record as empowering the motion picture committee, appointed by the standing committee, to secure motion picture equipment for use in the church, provided the committee can secure the necessary funds. Ralph Brown is chairman of the picture committee. It is understood that the apparatus may be used in the church building, not necessarily in the auditorium proper. Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of the Union church at Rockville, spoke informally for upwards of an hour advocating such equipment.

Opening Stocks. New York, April 2.—The Stock Market at the opening today still showed the effects of the strain on the money market, and opening prices of leading stocks showed a variation of 1 to 3 points, up and down, from yesterday's close. Westinghouse fell about 3 points at 14 1/2; while National Cash Register sold up 2 1/2 at 128. The Motors, Coppers and Steels were irregular, with narrower price changes.

American Smelting, at the head of the Copper list, lost 1 1/2 at 108. The Oils made a better showing. Standard of California advanced 1/2 at 78 1/2. Fractional gains were recorded in a few of the well-known industrials.

The rails were inactive but steady. Most of the Oils reached higher price levels in the first period.

GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS AT HARTFORD MEETING

Hear W. E. Marshall, Leading Authority on Lily Culture, Discuss Flower Growing.

Manchester's Garden Club was well represented at the lectures given yesterday afternoon and evening in Hartford by W. E. Marshall of New York, who is considered foremost authority in lily culture in this country.

Mr. Marshall, who was assisted in illustrating his lecture by his son Donald E. Marshall, appeared in the afternoon under the auspices of the Connecticut Valley Garden club, whose guests were the Hartford Garden club. The lecture was given at the Town and County club in the afternoon, and in the evening in one of the courtrooms of the new County Court building on Washington street.

Among those present from this town were Miss Helen and Miss Mary Chapman, the latter for the past two years president of the local club, Mrs. Louis St. Clair Burr, Mrs. Myron Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hemingway, Lafayette Robertson, Jr., Charles Murphy, Mrs. Harold Belcher and Mrs. W. J. Taylor.

Mr. Marshall took for his subject "Consider the Lilies," and gave a short talk preceding the showing of the slides. Lilies have been cultivated for a long time, and no other flower is mentioned so frequently in the Bible, by Shakespeare and other noted authors as the lily, emblem of purity. He cited a number of references to illustrate his point. All lilies love the sun, good drainage and a good sandy loam or leaf mold. They may be placed anywhere in the garden if the soil is dug deeply, stones put in for drainage and the proper soil added. Many varieties may be planted at a depth of four times the size of the bulb while some require planting at a depth of 9 to 10 inches. They like a ground cover and Mr. Marshall suggested the blue achuza, aquilegia or columbine, rosy morning penumias or any low growing foliage is graceful and not too dense.

Mr. Marshall grows more than a hundred varieties and showed many beautiful colored photographs of the lilies, describing their characteristics. The lecture was perhaps the most interesting of the week and rain storm blew down a high tension wire and the room was suddenly in total darkness. Autoists scurried out to their cars for flashlights while others sought the janitor.

George May, formerly of this town, announced that he would be impossible to remedy the trouble and Mr. Marshall at this juncture offered to answer any questions on the subject of lily culture. For some time the meeting continued. The gardeners listening to the questions and answers, the lecturer facetiously remarked that as he was in a court room he hoped the jury would soon bring in their verdict, and the motion to adjourn was promptly made and carried.

AMERICANS INJURED BY MEXICAN BOMBS

Rebel Aviator Drops Them Over Border Into Heart of Naco, Ariz.

Naco, Ariz., April 2.—Two Americans were injured and buildings on the American side of the international border were damaged today when bombs dropped by a Mexican rebel aviator fell on the American side of the border.

Frank Baker, 25, of Alliance, Ohio, was treated at the local hospital for face and head wounds. A small boy whose name was not given was also slightly injured by a fragment of a bomb which landed squarely in the heart of Naco's business district.

WAPPING

Mrs. Thomas Heritage and son, Jack Heritage, left last Saturday for a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Philadelphia.

There was a large congregation at the Federated church last Sunday afternoon for the Easter service. The choir sang three anthems in the morning service. Mrs. Clarence W. Johnson presiding at the piano and Mrs. Henry S. Nevers at the organ. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Strong and two children spent the Easter vacation at the home of Mrs. Strong's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pratt and family moved from Miss Etta Sloughton's tenement house to Manchester on North Elm street, last Saturday.

Otis Hills is spending a week's vacation at the home of his brother in Willimantic.

Mrs. Dorothy Donahue left Sunday afternoon for New York City, where she will take over her new work on the personal staff of the W. T. Grant Company. She has been for four years in charge of the office at the W. T. Grant store in Hartford.

D. W. Donahue, assistant manager in W. T. Grant's North Adams store, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Inez Fisk.

KNIFE-REVOLVER DUEL AND BOTH MEN KILLED

Follows to the Death in Scranton Fight Argument in One of Men's Home.

Scranton, Pa., April 2.—Two men were slain in a revolver and knife duel today at North Scranton, Dominick Curcio, 32, dropped dead in his tracks from bullet wounds in the heart, said to have been inflicted by Nicholas Yanni, 29, a neighbor.

Yanni, with eleven stab wounds in his abdomen, was found 50 feet from Curcio. Yanni died a short time after being taken to the state hospital.

Police were told that both the men had engaged in an argument at the Curcio home and that both drew weapons simultaneously. Curcio, wielding the long knife which was later found and Yanni drawing a revolver.

Frank Gallagher, a pedestrian, found both bodies on the sidewalk. Curcio was at his own doorstep dead, and Yanni, 50 feet away, was still alive but unconscious, dying a few minutes later.

There was no enthusiasm among women in general for the bill. Representative Kemp, of Darien, and Mrs. Lewis, of Stratford, were for the bill, while Representative Schumacher of Ansonia told the House his three married daughters would disown him as father if he voted for the bill.

Judge Johnson, of Manchester, summed up for the committee and urged the bill be turned down. The vote was an even 200 to 39.

The temper of the House was indicated when Representative Reimers presented a resolution authorizing the use of the hall of the House for hearing on vaccination bills. Leader Johnson rose and declared that the House might adopt the resolution if it wishes, but the Judiciary committee still would hear the vaccination bills in the old Senate chamber.

Thereupon the House killed the Reimers resolution and adjourned.

THE SENATE

Hartford, April 2.—The Senate today received favorable reports on bills as follows:

Extending to July 1, 1931, the time to index all probate records; providing that no tenement house shall be over four stories high unless it has a passenger elevator; providing for putting a road through Guilford and Madison in the trunk line system; putting a one year limitation on suits over property damage by negligence; authorizing Meriden to issue golf course bonds to the amount of $50,000.

One unfavorable report was received on a bill requiring the plaintiff in a foreclosure case to release the garnishee on satisfaction of debt.

Two bills were passed from the Senate calendar: Amending the charter of the Waterbury Title Company to increase stock from $150,000 to $250,000; changing the Congregation Beth Israel of Hartford from a voluntary religious society to an ecclesiastical corporation.

Favorable Reports. Favorable reports in the Senate follow:

Authorizing a $150,000 issue by Meriden for state aid roads; reducing from 60 to 30 days the time limit for paying personal taxes. An unfavorable report was received on a bill amending Torrington's charter, increasing salaries of officials and making new regulations for police and fire departments.

200 DANCERS AT MASONIC FROLIC

Two hundred dancers were present at the Tall Cedars, Masonic Social club April frolic in the Masonic Temple here last night. Jack Morey's orchestra played and the music was unusually good. The hall was prettily decorated and a group of clowns, members of the two organizations sponsoring the dance, staged a mimic baseball game, using "spankers" for bats. Refreshments were served during intermission.

TWO OUTSTANDING HUMAN INTEREST STORIES FOR HERALD READERS—

At Home With Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge—The Daily Life of President Hoover

DO YOU KNOW—

That President Hoover arises in the White House every morning at 7 o'clock? That he shaves himself and then tosses the medicine ball with Supreme Court Justice Stone and others? That he eats the same thing for breakfast each morning? How a caller gets a chance to see and talk with him? His daily routine at the White House? That he is a radio fan and likes those comic dialogues as well as music? That he reads himself to sleep every night, often with a thrilling detective story?

You'll find the answers to all of this in two outstanding human interest stories by Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent of The Herald and NEA Service, which will be published exclusively in this town by The Herald. Dutcher knows his subjects as few other Washington correspondents do; he has long followed Mr. Hoover's career in the capital and he made a special trip to Northampton to get his remarkable story on Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge's return to private life.

DO YOU KNOW—

How Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are spending their time since they left the White House? Who lives in the other half of that double house at 21 Massachusetts avenue, Northampton, Mass.? What Mr. Coolidge did when the parlor floor sagged the other day? That Mrs. Coolidge, who had 50 servants in the White House, now does her own shopping and selects the family meat at the butcher shop? That Mr. Coolidge owns an auto but hasn't been able to hire a chauffeur? How the former president has kept busy since he left Washington a month ago?

Dutcher's intimate story on President Hoover after his first month in the White House will appear in this newspaper tomorrow. It will be followed on Thursday by his story on Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge. You can't afford to miss either of them!

ALL IN READINESS FOR C. OF C. DINNER

Entire Proceedings to Be Scheduled So That Something's Always Doing.

There was a final polishing up of the Chamber of Commerce dinner program last evening at a meeting of those in active charge, consisting of Harlowe W. Willis, President of the Chamber; E. L. G. Hohenbalk, Jr., Vice-President and committee chairman; A. N. Potter, Chairman of the Speakers Committee; William Halsted, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee; O. F. Toop, Captain of the waitresses; Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, Toastmaster; Fred J. Bendall, President of the Men's Choral Club; Archibald Sessions, Director and accompanist of the Choral Club; and Albert Behrend, Director of Behrend's Paramount Orchestra.

On these men will depend the smoothness of the operation of the program and each one of these men will be furnished with a printed schedule covering every minute of time, from 6:30 to 11:30 o'clock. The music to be sung was decided upon.

- The following menu was chosen: Fruit Cocktail, Cream of Celery Soup, Pickles, Celery, Fried Filet of Sole, New Potatoes, Tartar Sauce, Parsley Sauce, Hair Broiled Chicken, French Fried Potatoes, Peas, Butter, Rolls, Special Ice Cream, Cakes, Sautéed Nuts, Cigars, Cigarettes. There will be six souvenirs. While the number is not large, the quality more than compensates for the lack of number.

There was a consistent call for dinner reservations at the Chamber rooms all day Monday. The attendance promises to exceed that of the previous five years. As a matter of fact, each year for the past five has shown an increase in attendance at the Chamber of Commerce banquet.

NOON STOCKS

New York, April 2.—Under the lead of the oil stocks and specialties, the industrial list rallied to slightly higher price levels in an inactive market this morning. Despite the 1 1/2 per cent money renewal rate, Wall street felt a little more cheerful over the money situation, particularly in view of Secretary Mellon's statement that speculative credit had not been discussed at the Reserve Board meeting.

MAY BE PROSECUTED UNDER THE JONES LAW

Norwalk, April 2.—William H. Comley, state's attorney for Fairfield county, will take a hand in the investigation into the capture of a load of whiskey at Dorlon's Point yesterday, and at the same time Federal authorities are expected to proceed against two prisoners captured with the truck, according to developments today.

LOCAL HARPISIT TO BE HEARD IN CONCERT

First Public Appearance of Miss Dorothy Silcox to Be on April 24.

Organist Archibald Sessions of the South Methodist church today announced the assisting artists for the forthcoming secular concert, which the choir is to give on the 24th of this month toward its pledge for the church building fund. They are Mrs. Laura Wheeler Ross of Hartford, well known violinist who has frequently appeared in concert work in Manchester, and Miss Dorothy Silcox, local harpist. Miss Silcox will make her platform debut in her home town at this time, although she has heretofore participated in musical events here and elsewhere. Her sister, Miss Miriam Silcox, is a member of the South Methodist choir. The solo parts in the concert program will be taken by the regular soloists of the choir.

EXPECT LONG TRIAL FOR ATTORNEY EGAN

Investors, the concern in which Watkins came to grief. Identifies Books. An hour or more was spent with Anderson identifying the books, records and other papers of the various concerns. The defense found nothing with which to object all through the questioning. Anderson brought in names now and then, and an effort was made to identify the persons. Everything seemed taken for granted, as if the trial of Watkins last summer were still fresh in the memories of all involved in the trial of Egan.

Egan's name was not mentioned until after Anderson had been on the stand upward of an hour. Then Anderson told how Egan advised writing letters, merely as a matter of record, concerning the merger of Winthrop, Gregory & Co., into the National Associate Investors. Up almost noon Anderson had carried the history of Watkins to a point early in the year 1928.

POLICE ALARM SYSTEM

Bridgewater, April 2.—Bridgewater's police department was today connected with the telephone-typewriter system of police alarm, and the state thereby received its last link of a chain that is expected to give complete police protection throughout the state. FIND WET MOON HAS NO EFFECT ON FARM CROPS

Washington.—Curiously persistent are the various superstitions relating to the effect of the moon on the weather or on farm crops.

One of the most unreasonable of these beliefs, a federal Weather Bureau expert said today, is that if the horns of the new crescent moon tip downward, it is a "wet" moon, portending rain. As a matter of fact, this expert declared, on any given date the position of the crescent moon is always the same in places having the same latitude, so the same kind of weather would necessarily prevail. There was this sign of any value, throughout a belt of latitude extending around the globe.

ALTERNATE PLAN FOR HEBRON ROAD

Commissioner Macdonald Favors Improving South Main—John Tom Hill Route. Although the General Assembly committee on roads, bridges and rivers favors the adding of the Manchester-Hebron Cam, Meeting Woods road to the state trunk line system, Highway Commissioner John Macdonald has a different plan in view for the opening of this section. Both Hebron and Manchester are anxious to secure an improved highway between the two towns, but the highway commissioner differs on the route that should be improved.

Mr. Macdonald is anxious to meet the request of Manchester business men for better roads into the farm country to the southeast, but he prefers to do this in accordance with the country road standard. He has previously planned, Mr. Macdonald's scheme is to build a road over John Tom Hill into Buckingham and then improve the road from Buckingham up to South Main street in Manchester.

Improve Road to South. It is pointed out that such a highway would be even more valuable to Manchester than the so-called Camp Meeting Woods road. The John Tom Hill road would not only open up the district towards Gilead and Hebron but would also be a start towards completing the cross-cut to the New London Turnpike from Manchester.

Moreover, it is said, the liquor accompanied the Congressman to Washington and was taken directly to the House office building, where some 435 members have their offices. Customs authorities made a report to Washington. The report stated here until the charges involving Rep. William M. Morgan (R) of Ohio, came along. Then Treasury officials decided to put all the papers into Tuttle's hands for investigation and action.

When police were investigating his killing they opened his cash register and found just under fifty dollars there. That was the amount he had taken in during the business day, and the amount he died to defend.

Meanwhile another Rockville-bound car arrived. After transferring the passengers from one to the other both cars returned to their starting point. The derailed car proceeded to the Hartford car barns.

WASHOUT DERAILS ROCKVILLE TROLLEY

Car Filled With Passengers Jumps Track North of Apel's Crossing

Striking a bad wash-out the rear wheels of a Rockville-bound trolley car operated by Motorman Sullivan of Hartford left the rails at 9 o'clock last night in front of the first house beyond Apel's Crossing, heading towards Rockville. No passengers in the well-filled car were hurt although all were shaken up. A few minutes later a car from Rockville arrived and the passengers from the derailed trolley transferred to it and went on to Rockville. The passengers in the Hartford-bound car walked the short distance to the Crossstown car. The rear end of the derailed car, in leaving the rails, swung far out into the road leaving just enough room for one auto to pass at a time. Officer Albert Roberts of the Manchester police department did duty as traffic policeman at the hour and a half the car blocked the road. After an hour a wrecker from Hartford put in appearance and went to work, putting the car back on the rails. Hitching an iron chain to the rear trucks of the car and the front end of the wrecker, which was then thrown into reverse, the car could not be budged.

FIRE ALARMS

Hose Company No. 3 of the South Manchester fire department had two still alarms this morning. The first called the company to 86 Durant street where they were called for a chimney fire, in the home of Joseph McCarthy. The second alarm for the day came in at 11 o'clock this morning, again called No. 3 to a grass fire in the rear of 269 East Center street, the Rich home-stead.

SLAIN MAN IDENTIFIED

New York, April 2.—Police and detectives today were seeking Frank Moncore following the identification of a murder victim, whose body was found in a Brooklyn apartment house.

TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1929

AN EARLY START

This newspaper's suggestion that the erection of a new charter for Manchester be taken up forthwith, as an immediate and corrective sequel to the fizzle which revision turned out to be, has received quick endorsement from many citizens. The opinion seems to be general that popular disappointment had everything to do with the failure of the great majority of voters to interest themselves in revision to the extent of voting. The people had expected a rebuilding from the ground up. They were asked to accept half a dozen shingles and one new frame timber, the fitting of which into a ramshackle structure did not interest them as good construction. Most of them turned their backs on the plans and walked away.

But Manchester is not going to continue in this mood of discouragement. This is a fine town and a beautiful one. Its people have a hundred reasons for being proud of it and optimistic concerning its future. And every last one of them knows that they are operating under a serious community handicap in a municipal constitution that has grown up without plan or direction, by dabs and scraps and patches, producing confusion and cross-purposes and infidelity where there should be plain sailing and directness and simplicity in doing the business of the community.

That we need a less complicated system of local government and a more elastic one, under which the people of this town can all work together for the common good and make their own determinations intelligently and without waste of time or money, everybody knows. It is folly to assume that we haven't the brains or the enterprise or the will to establish such a form of government. The fact that we have just pulled one boner proves nothing at all except that there was a misunderstanding of what the bulk of the folks wanted.

It is, of course, too late to do anything during this legislative session and do it right. But it is neither too late nor too early to get down to business and tackle the job in preparation for the next session in 1931. The Herald proposes that while the 1929 fop is still fresh in mind and the interest of the community easy to arouse, an entirely new start be taken, a new commission or committee or board, or whatever, be created—and that this time the public be taken into the confidence of the constitution makers and fully and completely heard at each step of the proceedings. If, under such a method, we beat the legislative session by a year or more, what of it? We can set the results of our labors away to cool; take time to reflect on what we have accomplished, check up our determinations by new experiences, and be ready with a perfected charter for the city or town of Manchester that will be the product of the combined wisdom and civic experiences of its people.

HERRICK

The French government did a characteristically gracious and tactful thing in conceiving and executing the idea of sending home the body of Ambassador Herrick on the fastest ship of the French navy. There need be no search for motives, no cynical interpretation of the bean geste; it is just one of those spontaneous things that the French people do. Everybody in France highly regarded the American ambassador—thousands loved him. For many years he stood, in that country, for all that is generous and big and courageous and vital in America. At seventy-five he was as completely typical of the youth and strength and alertness of the new world as if he had been thirty. And he knew France as intimately and understandingly as France knew him. So there need be no misapprehension as to the genuineness of the impulse which has prompted the French government to do the dead diplomat this extraordinary honor.

But all this makes President Hoover's task in selecting Herrick's successor the more difficult. It will take no little care even to prevent the creation of a startling contrast. It will take still more to provide for anything like an adequate continuation of the Herrick influence. For instance, there has been a little talk—not too seriously taken—of the appointment of former Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts to the post. But there is probably no American name so utterly detestable to so many of the French people as that of Alvan Fuller. He is known there, as throughout Europe, as the executioner of Sacco and Vanzetti—and in no other relationship whatever. In Europe the Sacco-Vanzetti case is rated as a crime against civilization. It is impossible to imagine Mr. Fuller's filling of the mission of the beloved Herrick.

This is the extreme potentiality. Nowhere near so unfortunate would be the temporary selection of former Secretary of State Kellogg—now co-incidentally on his way to France for a vacation—to the French embassy pending a permanent appointment; but Mr. Kellogg's tenuous and cautious personality would not go far toward maintaining the Herrick tradition which has become so important by the American tradition in French government circles.

Surely Mr. Hoover has a job on his hands. And quite as surely he will be entirely equal to it.

BRANDER MATTHEWS

Brander Matthews, dead at 77, was among the last of the American "men of letters." The class, like the term, is becoming extinct. When Brander Matthews was in his prime the successful essayists, novelists and political writers lived most of their lives in a special scholarly world of their own, set apart, somehow, by the character of their work. Nowadays we have writing men and women, but neither by their clothes, their manners or their associations are they to be told from their fellow men—not, that is, when they amount to much. Posing as members of a special group is left largely to the nut poets and novelists.

Brander Matthews was a gifted and highly intellectual writer. If he had not had the hard luck to belong to a generation of literary men who conceived it their duty to be literary men before breakfast in the morning and until they went to bed at night, 365 days in the year, and if he had found time to associate with somebody besides other writing persons and actors he might have picked something out of life to constitute a message—and he could have conveyed it well. As it was he lived in a circumscribed environment and was consequently merely intellectual and clever.

TIRE SOME

Hiram Johnson, as was to have been expected, is out against the Root plan for adherence to the World Court. Which suggests the thought that Hiram Johnson has been a member of the United States Senate for twelve years—and if there has ever been one single minute of that time when the United States wouldn't have gotten along just as well if an Anubis baboon or a syphon of seltzer had been occupying his seat in the Senate, we can't recall that moment. Neither the baboon nor the seltzer bottle could have done the slightest constructive thing—but neither has Johnson; and the baboon could out-break Hiram and the seltzer bottle could outfroth him, and neither would expect or need a senator's salary. As an exhibitionist Johnson did very well for himself for a number of years. But if there is one thing above all others of which the people of this country are now supremely tired it is exhibitionist statesmen. They belong to a period that is past. Under President Hoover this government is all set to do things, and chronic antis like Johnson are going to have the choice of getting off the track or getting run over.

HERE'S PROOF

The past is irretrievably gone. The bright young man who wrote the general Easter Parade story for the New York Times yesterday morning tried hard to tell about a back-flash of by-gone days, but the manner of his telling only accentuated the hopelessness of it all. It appears that in the stream of motors, shining and up-to-the-minute, on "the avenue," there was one solitary, old-school private equipage drawn by prancing horses. And the clever reporter called the carriage, if you please, a "cab."

 What would have happened to a New York reporter who called a Brougham a "cab," twenty-five years ago would have been plenty. But this one did it, not once but half a dozen times—and no copy reader did anything about it nor did any lincotypist refuse to set such a monstrous perversion of sophisticated terminology. Good-by old days; you're certainly dead—Pharaoh's old cat.

NERVE

Those are very brave men, down there in Little America, Antarctica, else they would not be there. Yet we doubt seriously whether any of them is possessed of valor enough to stick to his convictions concerning hirsute adornment after they start back north. It is all right for the Byrd party to sit down there at the bottom of the world, where nobody can get at them, and brag over the wireless about wearing full beards and tightly shaven heads at the same time, but we'll bet a cookie that the wealth of the Indies wouldn't induce the hardest boiled of them to ride up Broadway on Reception day dolled up that way. There isn't a girl in all Antarctica, but that's the only part of the world where there isn't.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

WHAT WE CAN LEARN FROM THE TONGUE.

A coated tongue is found in practically all acute diseases where there is a rise of temperature, but it is not of much value in distinguishing the different diseases. Coated tongues are sometimes found in persons who are apparently in perfect health. The coating is usually caused by a growth of bacteria and becomes more abundant when there is lack of saliva or when the system becomes less resistant.

Billousness is often the cause of the tongue being continually coated, but if the tongue is only coated in the morning and clears off toward evening, it has no diagnostic significance. If the tongue is usually clean, but suddenly becomes coated, it is generally an indication of some stoppage of the digestive tract, either indigestion or constipation.

Much can be learned by the way the patient puts out the tongue. If the tongue protrudes very far and is slender, the individual is usually a neurotic character who is in the habit of examining the tongue frequently in the looking glass, and is always looking for digestive symptoms. If the tongue trembles, there may be an indication of some nervous disorder or of alcoholism.

When the tongue protrudes toward one side more than the other, it usually indicates a nerve or spinal paralysis. The color of the tongue is sometimes of value in diagnosing. For example, a bright red color in a person suffering from digestive disturbances may indicate a stomach ulcer. A yellowing tinge to the tongue may indicate jaundice. A dry, coated tongue is often found in uremia, and a dark brown coat on the tongue may indicate wasting diseases or prolonged fevers.

The tongue is also subject to ulceration from accident or from irritations by the teeth. Canker sores also occur upon the tongues of people suffering from acidosis. Cancer and tuberculosis may also attack the tongue, and are difficult to distinguish except by microscopical examination.

An enlargement of the tongue may occur from tumors or in connection with a deficiency of the thyroid gland, as in either myxedema or cretinism.

The tongue is sometimes affected with smooth and hard patches called lingual corns, which really are simply thickened skin of the tongue and may exist for a long time without causing pain. They are apparently caused by some irritation, such as the rubbing from an ill fitting plate or the contact with the end of a pipe in smokers. They are dangerous because of the possibility of turning into an epithelioma. This condition is called leukoplakia buccalis and resembles psoriasis.

The tongue is also susceptible to eczema which produces peculiar patches resembling a geographical map. It has an intense itching and usually causes much worry to the patients, who imagine it is the beginning of cancer.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Thyroid Tablets.

Question: Mrs. T. W. E. writes: "I am 42 years old. Up to three years ago I never weighed more than 135 pounds. Now I am getting fat and my hair keeps getting thinner. A friend told me it is because I have reached the age where there is a thyroid deficiency and she says if I will take one 5-grain thyroid tablet each day I will come back to normal weight and my hair be improved and I will feel better all around. She says she has done it. But another friend says it would be dangerous—she claims it would have a bad effect upon my heart and I might get a goitre. I am not a heavy eater and do not care for sweets, do all my own work which

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 2.—Probably one of the rarest specimens outside the National Museum is the person who has no strong prejudices about prohibition.

It continues to appear that president Herbert Hoover is one of those. Not only is he neither fanatically dry nor fanatically wet, but he also seems to be rather sour on both sets of extremists.

There are still those who insist he is anything. And there are many in Washington who would hesitate to place him, from the standpoint of his personal viewpoint in either camp.

The main reason for the uncertainty is that persons who consider themselves "close to Hoover" have been telling different stories for some time. The drys profess positive assurance that he leans entirely their way and the wets insist that he has an open mind. It is far from confident of the ultimate nationwide success of the eighteenth amendment and has in mind some ultimate modification of the Volstead act.

If there is any reconciliation of seemingly conflicting and allegedly inspired interpretations of Hoover's attitude toward prohibition it must boil down to some such logical surmise as this:

The president himself doesn't take a drink. He is primarily concerned with prohibition as it affects America's governmental and economic efficiency and as it presents a challenge to his oath to uphold the constitution. Naturally he must also consider prohibition from the standpoint of a politician, but it does not appear that Hoover as president is letting that consideration predominate.

He will not condone violations of the law nor will he condone violation of the spirit of the law by subordinate officials. A federal official in Washington who produced a flask in his presence would undoubtedly be sternly rebuked. But he did not once frown when members of his good will party in Latin America readily accommodated themselves to the customs of those countries. Each man on the tour was permitted to use his own judgment.

From the standpoint of efficiency, Hoover must determine whether the prohibition laws are going to be sufficiently beneficial in the long run to justify themselves and their admittedly harmful effects. He did not call prohibition an "experiment"; he called it "an experiment, noble in purpose" and said he didn't favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The president is supposed to feel that prohibition has been an economic benefit and has definitely increased the efficiency of the industry. On the other hand, he admits that it has had a serious effect on the morale of government and the laxity of prohibition enforcement probably strikes him as hideous. If prohibition would enforce itself Hoover probably would be pleased.

But he must decide whether present conditions, which are still the major national scandal, are bound to continue and if so whether prohibition and its present laws are worth the price. There is no evidence that he has come to any decision at all about the ultimate success of the "experiment."

His determination to do his very best to enforce the law is something else again. Whether he has any doubts about success or not, he has given ample indication of his intention to see what can be done—and do it. Perhaps there is no more significant fact than that he has failed to utter the familiar "roar" that he would soon have the boot-leggers on the run and that the law would be enforced at last.

He said that the "experiment" must be "worked out constructively" and when he recently passed the word to the correspondents that there wouldn't be any hysterics or melodrama about his enforcement program that was what he meant.

He still has to face the facts that many citizens want to drink, that bribes come high and that poorly paid cops and prohibition agents are frail. And he is quite cognizant of these facts.

The writer of this story does not seek to hint that it is based on his own secret conversations with Hoover or that it represents anything more than careful observation and inquiry. But it may interest any one who has been more or less "fuddled" by the many conflicting "dope stories" that have come out of the capital these last few months.

gives me plenty of exercise. I am tempted to try the thyroid tablets but am afraid. If they are really harmful, will you explain just what way they would have a bad effect?"

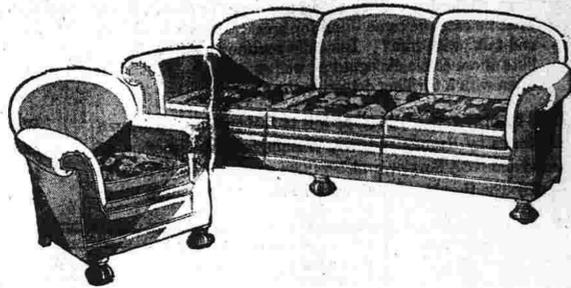

Answer: These tablets should only be taken under the advice of a physician, but I have never seen a case where better results could not be received through a simple dietetic treatment. You are doubtless having the change in both the ovaries and the thyroid, but can keep your weight to the normal if you will stick to the right kind of food, using it in limited quantities, taking only one or two meals a day if that is necessary to keep your weight normal.

Milk and Catarrh. Question: A. L. P. writes: "I should appreciate your advising me through the columns of the paper if you consider a ten-day orange juice fast followed by an exclusive milk diet a cure for nasal catarrh."

Answer: The orange juice fast should bring about excellent results but should be followed by a diet comparatively free from starch, sugar, or milk. While milk is an excellent food, its use should be carefully restricted by all those with a catarrhal tendency.

Coxwells

A 3-Pc. Watkins Tapestry Suite, $249

This is one of the many popular designs in our varied showing of Coxwells chairs. It is covered in a combination of plain black velour and tapestry... with reversible seat cushion.

You can't judge upholstered furniture solely by its exterior. A fine cover might hide slipshod construction and shoddy fillings. Not so with Watkins upholstered furniture, of which this suite is a typical example. The two pieces and a wing chair not shown, were made especially for us to our specifications. It is of the best construction... hardwired frames assembled in the best manner... best moss, cotton and spring filling... and a covering of heavy figured tapestry that does the interior full justice! Three pieces, regular $295.00.

BIG TELESCOPE NOW MAY PROVE MARS INHABITED

Washington.—The long-standing question of the habitation of Mars may be definitely settled with the erection in California or northern Arizona of a telescope so powerful that it could bring to view a candle 41,000 miles away, and so large it will dwarf the great 100-inch Mt. Wilson telescope.

The funds for this remarkable instrument have been provided by the International Education Board as a gift to the California Institute of Technology. A suitable site is now being sought.

The telescope, a reflector type, will be 17 feet in diameter and will take several years to construct. The mirror will be a great disk of fused quartz, a material new to such use. It was chosen because of its indifference to changing temperatures, to which the Mt. Wilson telescope is highly sensitive.

Built on Site
Because of the great difficulties incident to getting the completed disk to the top of a mountain slope and laborer's difficulties will be built on the site chosen and the disk cast there. Prominent physicists, chemists, engineers and meteorologists will be called in to help in the manufacture.

Completed and set up, it will bring into range of the human eye stars of the twenty-fifth magnitude, three magnitudes beyond the greatest magnitude of even the Mt. Wilson instrument, according to Dr. W. S. Adams, director of the Mt. Wilson Observatory.

It will quadruple the visible limits of the universe, extending them to the range of 400,000,000 light years, and will have 1,000,000 times the light gathering power of the human eye.

May Discover Stars
Through it meteorologists will be able to see countless stars and constellations as yet undiscovered, and to add immeasurably to their store of knowledge about the design of the universe. Entirely new fields of astronomy may be revealed and new astral theories evolved.

The great glass will bring the surface of Mars much closer and perhaps will be the means of penetrating the mystery which surrounds the "canals" which are visible on that planet through lesser telescopes. It is also expected to add to the knowledge of weather conditions there. The secrets of other worlds, including Jupiter and the moon, also will be wrested from them.

COLUMBIA

The sympathy of the community is with Lucius Robinson of Post Hill in the death of his wife and infant son. Mrs. Robinson was loved by those who knew her for her sunny cheerful disposition. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Methodist church of which she was a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Smith and Miss Bessie Hubbard of Hartford paid a visit Friday to their Columbia cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have recently returned from wintering in South Carolina.

The town schools were closed on Good Friday.

Mrs. R. G. Proctor, Miss Alice Clarke, Miss Nimmons and Miss Ink went to Manchester Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hunt went to North Coventry Friday evening to meet the State Master of the Grange, with other masters of Granges in the jurisdiction of East Central Pomona.

Two severe thunder showers occurred during the week, indicating that winter has broken up for good according to old legends. The mud is drying up on the country roads and traveling conditions are much better, though there is still room for considerable improvement.

Postmaster and Mrs. H. W. Porter have received word of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Randall Porter of Omaha, Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold and son of New York spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Isham.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown who have been spending the winter at Dade City, Florida, returned to their home in Columbia Friday.

Mrs. Rising of Wilton spent Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Newberry, at their home in New York.

Miss Mary Nimmons has returned to her home in Westfield, N. J., after spending a week at Overlook.

At the Columbia church Sunday morning Rev. John Howell preached an Easter sermon on the text "Why seek ye the living among the dead. He is not here. He is risen."

There was special music by the choir and a solo by Mrs. Edith Isham. Sunday evening the Tri-County Union of Christian Endeavorers met with the local society. The service was largely musical with a talk by the pastor.

A large number of local friends attended the funeral Sunday at the Hebron church of Mrs. Lucius Robinson.

TIPS ON STOCK BRING $50,000 TO TELEGRAPHER

Denver.—Tips that a Western Union operator at Aspen Gibson mine stock began booming from ten cents to 018 a share made him $50,000, according to a story related here, recently by Old Bill Hicks, pioneer prospector.

Along about 1882, Hicks related, stock in the $14,000,000 Molly Mine was floating around Aspen at ten cents a share. That was in the days when there were no 6,000,000 share days on Wall Street.

Two men, Barney Shear and H. B. Gillespie, each owned 100,000 shares in the Molly, as the mine was named. They figured they were about flooded out, until J. J. Haggerman, the man who built the Colorado Midland from every landlady, spite the Denver and Rio Grande Western, put up $100,000 to unwater the stock.

Strike Silver
Not long after this investment, a vein of silver ore worth millions was struck in the Molly. It ran 5,000 ounces, and there seemed no end of it.

Haggerman and his partner were the first to be tipped concerning the strike, so they began raking in Molly stock from every landlady, peace officer and miner of Aspen and vicinity at ten cents a share.

Haggerman wired to Aspen in code, "Do not let Shear and Gillespie escape," which meant that Haggerman wanted all of their stock at ten cents.

The Western Union operator at Aspen was a friend of both Shear and Gillespie, and the operator knew every code west of the Mississippi, so he tipped the two men something had happened.

"Well," said Old Bill Hicks, as he leaned back in his chair and knocked the ashes from his cob pipe, "that about settled the matter."

The operator was arrested and brought to Denver, but Shear and Gillespie came along. Just as fast as charges would be filed against him, his friends would put up bond money to get him out of jail. He was finally released because of lack of evidence.

"By that time, Molly stock had risen to $18 a share, so Shear and Gillespie began heaping gifts upon the friendly operator. The last gift was $50,000, which immediately sent the Western Union operator to South America on a tour. The last that was heard of him, he was working as a cowboy on the plains of Wyoming."

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

Sets Style

This lovely New York girl, now appearing in George White's famous "Scandals," has plenty of personality. Not only has she won Broadway's admiration by the cleverness of her acting and dancing, but she has literally "set the style" for Fifth Avenue by the way she dresses her hair.

"Girls in my position must do everything to keep their appearance pleasing," says Miss Manners. "But I lead such a busy life that I can only use the simplest methods. I know I have discovered the easiest way of doing my hair. It's so popular now here in New York. It keeps my hair so easily manageable that I can dress it any way I want and it stays in place wonderfully. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush every time I use it. My hair was dull and wiry before I started using Danderine. Now it's so bright and sparkling and so soft and fluffy that every one compliments me. Danderine soothes my scalp and keeps away all traces of dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so clean, I don't need to shampoo half as often as I used to."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from the hair; brings out its natural color; makes it fairly sparkle. It keeps your hair soft and easily manageable while you're letting it grow to the new length. It helps stop dandruff. It is delightfully fragrant; isn't oily; doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles. Over five million used a year.

THE FIRST U. S. MINT

Today is the anniversary of the creation by Congress of the first United States mint. This act, passed April 2, 1792, followed closely the suggestions which had been made by Alexander Hamilton.

We Guess That Every body Believes That

An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure

Of course you realize that if the plumbing at your house is put into the proper shape at this time some member of your household may not fall ill at some later date.

When the mint act was passed, however, no provision was made for a gold dollar. Because of this omission, silver coinage advocates later insisted that the original unit of value was the silver dollar.

Incidentally, the phrase "In God We Trust" did not appear on U. S. coins until 1856. Then, at the suggestion of a former governor of Pennsylvania, James Pollock, this familiar motto was adopted by Congress.

THINK PYRAMIDS OF EGYPT BUILT FOR SUN DIALS

London.—In the belief that the pyramids of Egypt were built as sun-dials, by which the seasons could be accurately measured in order to insure production of good crops, Moses B. Cotsworth, director of the International Fixed Calendar League, has written to the Egyptian government for co-operation in testing his theory.

and the seasons accurately, yet whose livelihood depended upon their agricultural work being performed at the right times, the existence of an accurate calendar of some design would be an all-important thing.

Cotsworth believes that the pyramids were constructed with such exquisite care because of the fact that the sun being the Egyptian's God, the privilege of measuring his shadow by means of the pyramid was looked upon as a sacred rite.

More perfect pyramids later produced such accuracy in their prognostications that they were unable to obtain three crops of durah, their most important grain. A delay of even a few days in sowing seed for such important third crops brought bad harvests, which endangered the national life and prosperity.

The most important use of the pyramids, Cotsworth maintains, was to keep a secret calendar which preserved for them a monopoly of accurate knowledge as to the recurrence of the seasons.

BOY BICYCLIST STRUCK BY AUTO DURING RAIN

Jackie Grezel, 8 Years Old, Thrown to Pavement on East Center St., Last Night.

Jackie Grezel, eight-years-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grezel of 80 Porter street, was badly injured when struck by an automobile early last evening, during the heavy rain.

The boy was riding his bicycle on his way home from the School street Recreation Center where he had been taking boxing instructions. It was raining hard and he had no light on his bicycle.

Due largely to the heavy rain-storm Lathrop did not see the Grezel boy until he was in the act of passing another automobile. Then it was too late to avoid hitting the bicycle. However, in swerving sharply to miss the bicycle, Lathrop narrowly missed hitting the car he was passing.

The boy was knocked off the bicycle to the pavement and the bicycle badly smashed. Mr. Lathrop picked Jackie up in his arms and carried him into Dr. Lundberg's where he was given medical attention and later removed to his home.

The boy had a laceration over the left ear and a concussion of the brain. He was resting comfortably this morning, his mother said, but complains of a pain in his back. X-ray pictures are to be taken tomorrow. Police made no arrests. Jackie is in the third grade at St. James's school.

Corinne Griffith's Voice Is Insured for a Million

Corinne Griffith... her voice is insured for a million.

New York.—One million dollars is the sum that the Commonwealth Casualty Company of Philadelphia, Pa. has agreed to pay to First National Pictures, Inc., of New York, against loss or damage resulting from the total and permanent loss of the voice of Corinne Griffith.

Corinne recently was awarded a new five-year contract which stipulates that each of her productions will be a 100 per cent dialogue picture with Vitaphone accompaniment.

Since her new contract has gone into effect, Miss Griffith has filmed a Vitaphone version of the Maxwell Anderson play, "Saturday's Children" which is a full-length dialogue picture.

The insurance contract extends only to cover the total and permanent loss of voice.

WAPPING PLAYERS IN DRAMA HERE TOMORROW

"A Poor Married Man," a three-act comedy drama will be presented at Second Congregational church tomorrow evening at 7:45 by a cast of players from Wapping Grange Dramatic club. The entertainment is given under auspices of the church Missionary committee and a portion of the receipts will be devoted to the foreign benevolences of the church, principally for the salary of Rev. J. S. Porter, missionary of Second church in Czechoslovakia.

The play has been given by the Grange players on several different occasions and comments of those who have seen it are very favorable. The missionary committee will have a table displaying fancy articles, paper flowers, flower baskets, gelatine, vanilla and other goods, which they will offer for sale for the same object. Home-made candy will be dispensed between the acts.

JAPANESE BALL FANS PLANNING TOUR OF U. S.

Tokyo, April 2.—Taking advantage of the increasing interest of the Japanese people in American baseball, the Nichi-Nichi newspaper propose to organize a party of 25 baseball fans to visit the United States next summer to attend the World Series. Visits to large cities and places of special interest in America will be included on the trip.

Japanese interest in the American World Series has been fostered by foreign news service in the vernacular newspapers. The party is scheduled to leave Yokohama on September 13, and return November 8. The cost is estimated at about $2,750 a person.

HARTFORD POLICEMAN IN ACCIDENT HERE

Michael Morley, Former Prize-fighter, Crashes During Rain and Leaves Scene.

Michael Morley, a former prize-fighter, but now a member of the Hartford police department, figured in an automobile accident last night on Center street, opposite Roosevelt. Morley was driving east and did not see, probably due to the rainstorm, a car that was parked under an electric light on the south side of Center street until it was too late. He struck the car with much force, resulting in his car going over the curb and into a lot. He stopped, gave his name and showed his police badge.

Just after this happened another automobile came along, the driver evidently knowing Morley, as he got into the car and drove away. When the Manchester police arrived at the scene of the accident they could not locate the man. Morley was arrested today.

Conn. Mother Has Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, sallow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by its quiet and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merit and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Connecticut mother, Mrs. Thomas Lawton, 100 Capitol Ave., Hartford, says: "My little son, Sherwood's tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving him California Fig Syrup. It helped him right away and soon his stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice about his bowels. I have also used California Fig Syrup for his colds and upset spells, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.

RICH GIRL POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED MILDRED LAWRENCE, stenographer at the Judson Hotel, has her fox fur snatched from her in a crowd but STEPHEN ARMITAGE catches the thief and returns the scarf. He asks to take her home, and not wishing to seem ungrateful she invites him to dinner. He praises her mother's home cooking and gains favor with the flapper sister, CONNIE, who secretly hopes that old-fashioned Mildred will mix enough pep with her usual quiet manner to hold his interest.

The evening is spoiled when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, phones for her to return to duty. Stephen escorts her to the hotel where Pamela recognizes him as the salesman who had sold her a car. She snubs Mildred as a menial and asks Stephen to dance with her. Pamela continues to lure Stephen, pretending she intends to buy another car. But she becomes jealous at a dance and drives home without him. A near wreck brings about a meeting with HUCK CONNOR, who tells her he is a broker from Chicago.

Connor moves to the Judson Hotel and Pamela introduces him to her brother, HAROLD, who is in love with Mildred. She warns him against Connor after Huck sets bait to trap him in a "deal". Gradually, Mildred realizes that Stephen is forgetting her since the wealthy girl has begun to play for his attentions.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Stephen Armitage had walked right past Mildred's desk without seeing her.

For all the boyish flippancy which he showed at times, Stephen possessed a remarkable power of concentration. He was thinking at the moment of Huck Connor. Where had he seen him before? When he gave up trying to place the man he was long out of Mildred's sight, without knowing that he had been so near to her.

To Mildred it seemed that he hadn't bothered to speak. Her face flamed red as she watched him go without even a nod to her. Then she turned to her work and typed furiously, blinking back tears of mortification that blinded her.

Pamela had done a good job, she told herself, in making a conquest of Stephen. He couldn't see anyone else now. For a moment Mildred hated him. Not because he was no longer interested in her but because it disappointed her that he should have fallen for Pamela. After all, she realized, she'd held a faint hope that Stephen would be different, that he would see through Pamela's shallowness.

But, try to despise Stephen as she might, Mildred carried home a heavy heart that day.

Connor opened her mouth to ease her about her loveless expression but closed it again, telling herself that she might be too near the truth for fun.

So it was with mixed feelings that Mildred picked up the nose-gay of tiny rosebuds that she found on her desk the next morning. It was impossible not to be glad that Stephen had remembered her. There was no card with them but she knew they were from him.

She did not pin them on her dress this time, but when Stephen dropped in later they were in a vase on her desk.

Mildred received him as though he had come on business, hoping he would not notice any change in her manner and suspect its cause.

"How are you?" he asked pleasantly, and his eyes lingered on hers. He found it pleasant to search her face. There was a fascinating play of emotions in the changing curve of her lips and in her telltale eyes.

"Busy," Mildred answered discouragingly. Then, because she was truly polite, "Thank you," she said, and indicated the flowers on the table.

Stephen waved them out of the conversation. "Tell me," he said with unexpected seriousness. "Who is this fellow Connor—Huck Connor? Do you know anything about him, Miss Lawrence?"

She looked at him frankly, though she believed she could guess the reason for his interest in Huck. She remembered that Harold had spoken of Mr. Connor as a new victim of Pamela's. Perhaps Stephen had learned of that, too, and did not like it.

"I don't know a thing about him," she said truthfully. "I wish I did," Stephen told her. "Miss Judson has told me that today and I can't get the fellow out of my mind. I know I've met him somewhere."

Mildred suddenly felt a little happier. At least Stephen was not attempting to deceive her, and his presence here now proved that his failure to see her the day before had not been deliberate.

"Well, if you learn anything about him I wish you'd let me know," she said.

Stephen looked at her sharply. "Are you interested in him?" he asked and his voice carried an edge.

"Simply because I want to protect someone I know if there's anything wrong about Mr. Connor," Mildred explained, and the scowl left Stephen's face.

"I'd hate to see you getting interested in anyone else just now," he said and grinned.

"Anyone else?" Mildred repeated. "Now don't say you aren't interested in me until I tell you what I came in here for," Stephen hastened to plead. "For whoever this bozo may be in his own paw he was kind enough to come over this morning and hand out a couple of tickets to a show for tonight. You're the chosen one to share the windfall with yours truly."

It was on Mildred's tongue to ask

"Tell me," he said seriously, "who is this fellow Connor?"

if Pamela had refused to go, but she put that aside as cheap.

"What's the show?" she temporized. "Show Business."

"Oh, that's a hit!" "Fine. I'll come up for you at eight. I live about half way up to your place."

This time Mildred went home with a singing heart and a new dress. She was late and had time for only a bite of dinner, but that mattered nothing at all. What did matter was to get the hem put in her new dress and find a pair of stockings to match it.

"Why didn't you buy a pair?" Connie asked, hesitating over the impulse to offer the pair she'd received from an aunt at Christmas.

"Because I had to spend every cent I had on this dress," Mildred answered, guessing what was going on in Connie's mind. "Come on, honey," she coaxed, "let me have them. I'll be careful and wash them out tonight before I go to bed."

While Mildred was thus hastily making preparations to look her best for Stephen, Pamela was pushing away a Peche Melba and telling the waiter who served her to bring a parfait instead.

Before it arrived Huck Connor came to her table and Pamela asked him to sit down. Harold had swallowed his demi tasse and had gone, leaving her for the moment with no one either to quarrel with her or to amuse her.

She welcomed Huck and, having nothing else to do, half-heartedly vamped him.

"How about a show tonight?" he asked her. Pamela shook her head. "I've got some friends coming in later," she said.

Her date wasn't until 11, when she was going to a dance, but she didn't want to go out with Huck. Harold had told her he'd cable their father if she did.

"Perhaps your brother could use these tickets," Huck suggested, taking a small white envelope from an inside pocket. A friend asked me to get them and then wired he couldn't be here."

Pamela reached out a hand, a sudden idea for their use coming to her mind. "I'll give them to him," she said, and rose from the table just as the vexed waiter served the parfait.

"The new Harold had gone up to the club but she had no intention of giving him the tickets.

In a few minutes she had Stephen on the wire, his hotel number being one of the first things she had asked him for.

"Get all dressed up and come down," she told him. "We've got some place to go."

"I'm sorry, I can't," Stephen explained. "I'm going to see 'Show Business' tonight."

"Alone, I suppose," Pamela pumped. Stephen laughed. "Hardly. By the way, that friend of yours, Huck Connor, gave me the tickets."

"Oh!" Pamela exclaimed. She hadn't looked at the tickets she obtained from Huck or asked him the name of the show.

But when she had hung up in a huff after Stephen had refused to divulge the name of his companion for the evening, she discovered that they were also for "Show Business."

"Well, I'll find out who you're taking," she stormed, meaning Stephen. "And if it's Mildred Lawrence... well, I see. I won't have a fresh stenographer interfering in my affairs!"

Then she telephoned downstairs and asked to have Mr. Connor page.

"I think I'd like to see that show," she said without preamble. "Wait for me at the west side elevator."

Huck waited some time, for she stopped to change her simple dinner dress to a formal creation of pink satin that made her look like a big doll. Over that she wrapped an ermine sheath that hugged her young body close.

She intended to make Mildred curl up and expire. Huck's eyes gleamed when she stepped out of the bronze elevator and came up to him. Around her throat were several strands of pearls that he knew were genuine and there was the flash of many jewels on her ungloved arms.

of admiration from Pamela when she saw it. So her mystery man was affluent! She looked at him with new interest. Money always interested Pamela.

But it wasn't uppermost in her thoughts tonight. She was bent on making a discovery. She wanted to see if Mildred Lawrence had dared to accept an invitation from a man she knew her employer's daughter had tagged as her own.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

SOME BELIEVE MADSTONES WILL CURE HYDROPHOBIA.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

The belief that madstones will cure hydrophobia is one of strangest of superstitions.

Hydrophobia has been known as a disease from the earliest times. It was apparently recognized that some dangerous material came into the body with the bite of the dog, and the obvious attempt on the part of an unknowing people was to put something on the bite that would draw out the poison. Since the development of stones in the body of man or of animals was not understandable to these ancients, a magical influence was attached to the stone.

Sometimes other stones than those developed in the human body were used for these magical purposes, including, for instance, stones associated with great natural monuments such as the Giant's Causeway or volcanoes.

Hydrophobia is caused by infection transmitted through the bite of animals. This infection attacks particularly the nervous system of the body, and one of the chief symptoms is difficulty in swallowing.

The ancients mistook the fear of swallowing for the fear of the water itself and so called the disease hydrophobia or the fear of water. The modern name of the disease is rabies.

The famous scientist Pasteur discovered a method of developing resistance in the body against hydrophobia to which the name Pasteur treatment has been given. Since the development of the Pasteur treatment, hydrophobia has been brought under control.

Rabies is spread principally by the homeless stray dog. When a person is bitten by a rabid animal, he should have the Pasteur treatment. The disease is controlled in any community by strict enforcement of the muzzling ordinance and destruction of stray dogs.

The person who depends on a madstone when bitten by a rabid animal is likely to terminate his existence with hydrophobia.

This And That In Feminine Lore

No doubt there are remnants of the East ham in many an ice box, waiting to make their last appearance in some other guise than sliced hot or cold. There are no end of recipes for using the scraps, as such as ham a la king, croquettes or a salad, and now that the robins are back and the lawns are getting green, salads appeal to us as strongly as the hot dishes. Ham, baked beans, with a little minced parsley or chopped green peppers and dressing makes a tasty salad. Still another calls for one half cup each sweet red pepper, diced cucumber, diced celery and mayonnaise, with one cup each crisp shredded lettuce, chopped sweet pickles and 3 cups diced ham. The proportions may be reduced for a smaller salad.

With all the excitement about Joan Lowell, author of "Cradle of the Deep," who spent most of her life till she was 17 on her father's trading schooner, and who has written of seeing sailors torn asunder by man-eating sharks and the wild virgin dances of savages, nothing seems so amazing as the fact that her shore mother would let her go with a seafaring father. The maternal instinct generally fights to keep all offspring with it, even if there are eleven of them.

The Serv-A-Dish. A real time-saver for the housewife is the Serv-A-Dish for it takes the dish out of dish-washing and ought to fill a long-felt want for serving refreshments at clubs, Sunday evening suppers, or children at the noon meal. It is a metal tray fitted with a sanitary, moisture proof paper tray, divided into sections in such a way that the different foods served will not touch each other. After the meal is eaten, the paper tray is discarded and there are no dishes to wash. The metal tray is about 12 inches square and is lacquered with a design which gives the appearance of a lace doily. On the paper tray there is space for a main dish or salad, a cup, bread and dessert.

Most of us use dandelion greens early in the spring as commonly as we do spinach, but there are a number of other wild greens, rich in vitamins and mineral salts that we do not make use of. Cress hardly comes in this list, because it is much used as a garnish. It is rich in sulphur and ideal as a tonic. Tender sprouts of milkweed are said to be very good by those who are in the habit of cooking them, lambs quarters and "pussley" as call it, or purslane, are good cooked as greens but we are inclined to slight them, uproot them and let them die if we find them in our gardens.

The reader of this column who inquired for a good recipe for Spanish cream, I think will find this one excellent and economical at this time: One and one-half tablespoons granulated gelatin, 1-3 cup cold water, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Beat yolks of eggs with sugar and slowly add milk which has been heated over milk. Beat constantly while adding milk and be sure sugar is dissolved. Add salt and softened gelatin and cook over hot water until mixture thickens; it will take about fifteen minutes. Stir constantly. Remove from heat and beat two or three minutes. Let cool and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and cream whipped until firm with vanilla. Turn into a mold and let stand to chill for four or five minutes. The pudding will be cold and firm in two or three hours but improves if allowed to stand four hours or longer. The recipe will serve eight persons.

Clipping Recipes. What do you do with the recipes you clip out of this and other papers? Almost every woman does clip those that interest her. Give them a chance to prove themselves for you; try them out. If you don't care for them, or they are too much like some others you already have on file, throw them away. If you do care for them, copy them in a loose leaf indexed book, a card recipe file, or some copy book under special headings so that you can readily find them. One woman pins them on a calendar at which she glances while she is at work in the kitchen. When she has tried a new recipe she puts it away with her comments and some of the new things are liked so well they become favorites. Perhaps that is

by ALLENE SUMNER

Mrs. Elsie Rea, 20, weighed 145 pounds one day - a few months ago when she slipped and fell on a San Francisco ferry boat. The other day when she appeared in court to testify in her damage case against the company she weighed 225 pounds. She declared that injuries to her thyroid and pituitary glands brought about by the fall increased her weight. The jury awarded her $1500, or about $18.75 a pound.

LUCKY DAY! There is no doubt that, while $1500 may seem a royal amount for so terrific a tragedy, it is much more than the too-hefty lady would have won if her case had popped up more than ten years ago when there was no great national and international and inter-universal taboo against ebonport. She should be very grateful to her beanpole and spaghetti school of aesthetism.

RICH GALS. Nearly half the wealth of America, 41 per cent. to be exact, is held by women, according to some recent statistics of assigned named banking houses. Many New York Stock Exchange firms have opened branches for women only. When it comes to possession of vast sums of money, Federal tax reports prove that there are more women millionaires than men. Women are beneficiaries, too, of 80 per cent of the $95,000,000,000 worth of life insurance policies in this country.

And yet they are still talking about dowry, dowry, dowry, dowry, and "women's rights!" We have waged for several years that the male sex would gladly change places with the female.

LOVELY HUMANS! How does Uncle Sam ferret out his tax dodgers? Jealous neighbors, disgruntled employes, the human urge to tattletale and get even, says an official of the New York State Tax Bureau. He explains that it is human nature to boast of what one possesses, one's salary, good investments, etc., but when one turns in the income tax report one forgets what one has told the neighbors; perhaps one boasts about how one has put it over on the government; the neighbors won't stand that, and they take their pens in hand and write to Uncle Sam.

We talked much about the nobility of human nature, but there are times when it seems distinctly minus.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

The other twin was left with me, or rather in my company, as his mother and brother disappeared into the doctor's office.

His mother had lifted him far back into a big leather chair in the waiting-room, given him a magazine—it proved to be one of mechanics—told him to be good, and there we were.

The twin slid down presently, placed the magazine on the seat of his chair, and turned over the leaves. Turbines, generators, gas engines and drills appeared and disappeared in quick succession. Then came an airplane. "That'll fetch him! thought I. He'll stop at that one."

But no. There wasn't a chance. Over went the page again. Presently came an automobile. Now surely! No—not a flicker of interest. It vanished into limbo with the others. The twin wasn't caring for boats, either, it seemed. Over and over went the pages.

Suddenly I looked up at me, placed a fat finger on the book and said, "Ere's a boldie!"

Accepting the introduction, I beckoned. He came, hauling his book along.

I avoided personalities and plunged at once into the subject in question. "Where's the birdie?" "Ere!"

Two diminutive dots hovered in the sky above a very red garage out of which sped a very blue car. "Oh, I see," I said brilliantly. "So it is. Show me some more pictures, won't you?"

"Ere's a tower," he continued as an advertisement for a seed company came into view.

"That's pretty," I commented. "But here's a miser book for boys. It has all sorts of funny things in it. Let's put this book back." I opened a nature magazine to the picture of a horned toad. Then came an ant-eater, a tiger, a family of flamingoes, all in colors. Not much enthusiasm from the twin for any of them. I was puzzled.

Suddenly the fat finger went down on a black and white sketch. "Ere's a boldie. And fowers!" I had to look hard to see the birds. But there they were.

"How old are you?" I asked now. Our friendship had progressed enough for that, by the way. The twin was now on my knee.

"When I get a birthday, I'll be four."

"Me, oh my! You're a big boy for three. What's your name?" The brown eyes gave me a long look. "Madeleine!" I had missed the margin of one inch of skirt below the sweater! My twin was a girl. Wasn't she and girls don't run true to type! I might have guessed even without that margin on skirt.

NICE WORDS WON'T DYE a dress or coat...

Neither pretty pictures nor colorful adjectives will dye a dress or coat. It takes real dyes to do the work; dyes made from true anilines.

Next time you have dyeing to do, try Diamond Dyes. See how easy it is to use them. Then compare the results. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree they are better dyes.

You get none of that re-dyed look from Diamond Dyes; no streaking or spotting. Just fresh, crisp, bright new color. And watch the way they keep their brilliance through wear and washing. They are better dyes because they contain plenty of real anilines—from three to five times more than other dyes. But you pay no more for them than for ordinary dyes.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. Remember this when you buy. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

Joes, Col., Bristol's Opponent At Chicago

Town With Less Than 100 Population Meets State Champions at 2 O'Clock Tomorrow Afternoon.

Bristol High school, three-time winners of the state championship at Yale, where on two occasions they eliminated Manchester High by very close scores, plays its first game in the Chicago National Inter-scholastic Tournament for the United States Eastern Standard Time tomorrow afternoon when it meets the High school five from Joes, Colorado.

Joes is a little hamlet in the middle of the Colorado plains and where less than a hundred persons live. It is located in Yuma county which has a population of only a little over 8,000 persons. Bristol's latest census is well over 15,000. Consequently a Bristol victory will be no great surprise. This will be Bristol's third trip to the Chicago tournament and inasmuch as it is the final tournament to be staged by the University of Chicago, it will be Bristol's final chance to win the national title. On both previous occasions, they were eliminated early in the running.

Naugatuck, the other Connecticut entry, was scheduled to play St. Paul, Nebraska, late this afternoon but the result was available at the time the Herald went to press. Like Bristol, Naugatuck's population is about 15,000 while St. Paul has only 1,336 according to its latest available census from the Chicago tournament. Griffith also said that he would not pay the fine which the commissioner handed him as an additional penalty for "covering up" ball players.

Chicago, April 2.—Four hundred husky young Americans, inspired by a common thought—to bring home to Alma Mater the national interscholastic basketball championship—were on their marks today for the opening of the University of Chicago's eleventh annual and final classic.

Raton, N. M., and Portsmouth, N. H., drew the honor of opening the tournament at ten o'clock this morning.

Ashland, Ky., a team of long-lean mountaineers, defends the championship won in 1928. This quintet, together with the team from Morton High of Cicero, Ill., victors in 1927, is scheduled to play in today's opening round.

Today's pairings: Raton, N. M., vs. Portsmouth, N. H.

Wheeler, Miss., vs. Winnemucca, Nev.

Wheatland, Wyo., vs. Jena, La. Heath, Ky., vs. Hartford, Vt. St. Paul, Neb., vs. Naugatuck, Conn.

JENNEY TO FORM A JUNIOR LEGION BASEBALL SQUAD

All Interested Invited to Attend Public Meeting at Rec Friday Night at 7 O'Clock.

Dilworth-Cornell, Post No. 102, American Legion, is to be represented by a junior baseball team to compete for the National American Legion championship, it became known today.

Immensely pleased with the results of last year's initial competition, the authorities of the American Legion have appropriated a sum of $50,000 to defray the expenses of the regional, sectional and "Little World Series."

John L. Jenney, one of the hardest working, most successful and popular sport promoters in Manchester has known in years, has been authorized by the local Legion post to assist in organizing a suitable team here.

A meeting has been called for 7 o'clock Friday night at the School Street Recreation Center and all Manchester boys interested in trying for a berth on the team, are requested to attend.

DEMPEY AFTER OLYMPIA

New York, April 2.—Jack Dempsey, due to Detroit today, has been authorized to bid more than a million dollars to obtain the Olympia Arena there, according to his associate promoter, Humbert Fugazy. The latter said he had learned that the plant was for sale.

The Olympia is the second largest indoor arena in the middle west. Fugazy hopes to acquire a chain of sports arenas similar to those owned by the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

SMOKE IN THE WOOD PILE.

The drastic action which made free agents of nine rather valuable ball players may have been the start of the finish of Judge Landis. This remark is not intended as promotion or calamity. The Judge can stay in there for as long as we are concerned, but a couple of the American League magnates who were seriously socked by the commissioner's ruling may not be as indifferent.

It seems, if Clark Griffith has been quoted correctly that the fiery Judge will have to be something to punish the man or men guilty of less majesty. The Judge never has been one to exercise diplomatic silence in a pinch or mince words. He did tell Ban Johnson once to keep his shirt on, but the American League president knew just what the words meant and no more was necessary.

Owners Can't Talk.

It is provided in the commissioner's contract that the magnates never can question his decisions publicly. Yet when Landis declared a valuable Washington pitcher a free agent, Griffith roared.

"It another grandstand, Standard Oil declared," Griffith was quoted as saying. "He referred to the time that Landis, on the federal bench in Chicago, fined the Standard Oil Company $20,000,000 and collected something like 23 cents when the decision was appealed."

Griffith also said that he would not pay the fine which the commissioner handed him as an additional penalty for "covering up" ball players.

Doesn't Fear Clerk.

The enmity of the Washington owner is something that the commissioner might not fear. The commissioner never has had Griffith's sincere support. He was one of the little band of three owners who switched to the Johnson side at the last ditch, and he was one of the three who accepted the administration of Landis only for the purpose of self-protection.

But Colonel Jake Ruppert was also socked by the Landis decision and so were the owners of the Cleveland club. Ruppert and the Bradleys are not political baseball men. They are fans and practical business men and they will not engage in any petty public bickering with the commissioner.

How About Next Time?

However something may come out of the situation at the winter meeting of the league. Or it all may be forgotten by that time, although Landis doesn't forget easily. And there is the possibility that Landis may call a special meeting after the clubs return from the south.

If there is any kind of a protest meeting engineered by Griffith the judge may follow a habit. It is his habit when under fire to slap down his contractors on the table at which his magnates are seated.

"There is my contract, gentlemen. Tear it up or leave it," he has said on several occasions. And at the time of writing it never has been torn up.

But there may come a time when the magnates will pick it up and give it the old tear.

Sick of the Job.

We understand that the judge is sick of his job and doesn't care much one way or another. He is a wealthy man and he has reached the point in an active career where a private life in which he could watch baseball and play golf appeals to him.

OUT OF THE PAST

Ketchel was preparing for his bout with Frank Klaus in New York.

Little Bright Eyes in the middle, unblushingly sporting button shoes, signed checks for George (Honeyboy) Evans. His fame as a minstrel leader remains undimmed before the scythe of time.

The felt hat tops the dashing personage of Barney Oldfield, disciple of the roaring road. He left his new automobile long enough to watch the birdie in the camera.

Ah, shades of John L. Sullivan. Last, but not least, is Harry Strickland, sheriff of Wayne county, Michigan, a popular backer of all sports events.

The setting is Happy Hollow, Hot Springs, Ark. This group, during a short period of the year 1909, paid rent at the old Arlington Hotel.

The only one of the five alive today is he who day after day touched the hem of Death's garments—Barney Oldfield. He proved too tough a problem for the dangers of automobile racing.

The market price, well above the implied fun today of watching that s-wubuck run against at least a thousand the next six months, if you suspect the St. Louis Cardinals, you being greatly misunderstood, the same ten dollars can get you fifty in one spot and thirty in another, if you fancy the New York Giants or Pittsburgh Pirates, your ten will be worth twenty-five and thirty respectively provided either of the pair pays off.

All of which means that the Wall Street betting commissioners are quoting what are likely to be their final prices on the baseball races, beginning two weeks hence, and in case you crave uncertainty and case you fancy an urbane stranger or will be there to take your money and see that you get the right change.

The New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs are the favored ones in most, if not all, books operating in the street. The price against the Cubs in at least two cases is 8 to 5 that they don't win the pennant, with the Giants trailing along at 2 1/2 to 1. The Yankees are so highly esteemed that they are even money in one book.

This commission even is ready to further and parly the Yankees in both the pennant race and the 1929 world series, offering to take three to one.

The Cubs, Giants and Pirates in the National League and the Yankees, Athletics and Browns in the American run one-two-three, four, five, in an instance, the Cardinals are coupled with the Pirates at 3 to 1 and, in another, the Cardinals are held no better than fourth at odds of 5 to 1. Further variations are found in the American League quotations, one set including the Browns, Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers at the same figure, 10 to 1. While you could get 12 to 1 against the Tigers and 25 to 1 against the Senators, then he o- to 1 against the Chicago White Sox and 50 to 1 against the Red Sox. Some of his competitors, on the other hand, will lay as high as 100 to 1 against the Sox but only 20 to 1 against Chicago and 15 to 1 against Cleveland.

First division Pirates and Cardinals are almost uniformly in the National League and nearly all the boys peg the Cincinnati Reds for fifth place with their odds at 10 to 1 against a pennant for John, son of the Handicapper. However, one of them thinks the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves should be held no higher than 20 to 1, while another quotes 40 to 1 against the Braves and the Phillies? One hundred to one almost anywhere and as high as 120 to 1 from the boy friend who is willing to lay one dollar against three that the Yankees win both pennant and series.

GLENNA COLLETT CREAM OF FIELD

Pinehurst, N. C., April 2.—Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, women's national champion, appeared today in the class of the field this morning as the 96 qualifiers in the 27th annual north and south championship held off in the first round of match play.

Miss Collett had a walkway in the medal round yesterday, scoring a brilliant 35 and a 40 on the tough No. 2 course. Her 75 for the 18 holes was 7 strokes better than the card of the runner-up, Miss Martha Parker of New York. On the first 13 the champion's 35 was one stroke under men's par, a mark seldom equaled.

Today Miss Collett was paired with Miss Virginia Holzberger of Baltimore, who shot an 88 in the medal round.

One of the rookie infielders in the training camp of the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, Fla., is Arthur Rothapel, son of Roxy, famous motion picture theater owner and radio broadcaster. ### DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Art Shires, White Sox first baseman, is the dud of the American League. . . . But he wads a half sack of eating tobacco in his face before he goes on the field. . . . Bill Aaronson, the demon baseball photographer, would drop his camera if he was shooting a king. . . . If someone said—"Shoot two bits" . . . Bill was taking shots at third base in the Giant training camp. . . . Fitzsimmons, the big Giant pitcher, was coming into the bag. . . . He couldn't stop and he hit Bill and knocked him cold. . . . ### GLENNA COLLETT CREAM OF FIELD

Pinehurst, N. C., April 2.—Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, women's national champion, appeared today in the class of the field this morning as the 96 qualifiers in the 27th annual north and south championship held off in the first round of match play.

Miss Collett had a walkway in the medal round yesterday, scoring a brilliant 35 and a 40 on the tough No. 2 course. Her 75 for the 18 holes was 7 strokes better than the card of the runner-up, Miss Martha Parker of New York. On the first 13 the champion's 35 was one stroke under men's par, a mark seldom equaled.

Today Miss Collett was paired with Miss Virginia Holzberger of Baltimore, who shot an 88 in the medal round.

Kaminsky Beats Bellamy In Last 1st Round Game

RUNS BAREFOOT

Henry Nelganbe, Pottawatomie Indian, is said to be the only long distance runner in the world who races without wearing shoes. He believes footwear are a liability in a race and in support of this contention he is running barefooted in C. C. Pyle's marathon race from New York to California. He always has pattered away without shoes, and an inch of callouses on the bottom of his feet prove that fact.

Gardner and Coughlin Clash

Tonight in Opening of Second Round; Winner, Kaminsky or Bensche Picked to Cop Title.

By TOM STOWE

The first round in the Herald's second annual town championship pocket billiards tournament came to a close last night when Billy Kaminsky defeated Harry Bellamy, Sr. The score was 100 to 62. Tonight the second round will get under way when Joe Coughlin and Johnny Gardner, two of the favorites, clash at 7:30.

Although with one exception all of the star players of last year's field are included in the tournament this season, the playing exhibited does not come up to the caliber of that of a year ago. The reason is because the game has not been played as much this winter as last.

One of These Four

While it is difficult to attempt to pick a winner in any field of sport because of the ever-present possibility of an unexpected upset, it seems safe to say that John Bensche, Billy Kaminsky or the winner of the Coughlin-Gardner match tonight should capture the title. This quartet was easily the class of the first round and it doesn't seem at all probable or possible that all of them will be eliminated.

The pairings for the rest of the second round will probably be as follows: McMenemy vs. Carney, Thursday; Houston vs. Kibicki, Friday; Dunn vs. Bensche, Saturday. The complete results of the first round follow:

Gardner	100
Macdonald	51
Coughlin	100
Chappell	68
McMenemy	100
Lloyd	75
Carney	100
Heron	95
Bensche	100
Johnson	79
Dunn	100
Wright	98
Houston	100
Brozowski	79
Kaminsky	100
Bellamy	62

With the exception of the victories of Gardner, Coughlin, Kaminsky and possibly Dunn, all the first round results were upsets. Who expected, for instance, such crack players as Jarle Johnson and Sam Heron to fall by the wayside in the first round. There are better than several players still left in the scramble. But that's all part of the game.

Kaminsky Wins Easily

Kaminsky had little trouble disposing of Bellamy last night. He took an early lead and held it to the finish. Toward the middle of the match, Bellamy made a good rally but it was short lived. Bellamy missed many easy shots and Kaminsky, although he didn't look as good as a year ago, played a far better brand of billiards. He made several hard shots. Only one foul was committed, that when Kaminsky just grazed the top of a ball with in cue stick in shooting over a mass.

Kaminsky's margin after each rack is shown below:

Kaminsky	Bellamy
18	17
24	17
32	23
39	28
51	29
60	33
71	37
77	47
7	54
4	62
97	62
100	62

FOOTBALL HELPS STUDENTS' MARKS

New Haven, Conn., April 2.—"A football man's marks are higher during the playing season than at any other time," says W. W. "Firpo" Green, captain-elect of the Yale Varsity football team for the 1929 season. Mental development is the greatest thing a player receives from football, according to Green.

Meanwhile Marvin A. Stevens, head varsity football coach, is starting a bit of training work for his candidates for next autumn's team. He meets the men every Monday night. The men watch slides and moving pictures of football games, illustrating fundamentals of the game. The picture include other games than those Yale has played. Football experts discuss the pictures before the candidates.

In the first meeting of the sort this year Tad Jones, who preceded Stevens talked to the candidates. Jones told the men that present day football at Yale is conducted on sound principles, that coaching is excellent, and that this year there is plenty of good material.

LAST NIGHT'S DOWNPOUR CAUSES SOME MISHAPS

No Great Damage Done Here As Strong Wind Follows Torrential Storm.

Manchester was fortunate to escape with but minor damage last night when a severe windstorm raked the town coming in the wake of a torrential downpour of rain early in the evening. The wind storm continued through the night and had not entirely abated at noon today although the sky was without a speck of a cloud.

Inquiries made of the Manchester Electric Light Company, Connecticut Company and the Southern New England Telephone Company here revealed little or no damage from the wind which was of gale-like proportions throughout the greater part of the night. Only two or three telephones were reported down and no reports of trees being blown down came to light. A trolley car was derailed at Oakland.

One accident was reported, that being partly due to the downpour of rain. John Greel, eight years old, of Porter street was knocked off a bicycle by an automobile but not seriously injured. An automobile crash also occurred on Center street during the storm.

CAR, TRUCK IN CRASH; ONE DRIVER UNDER AGE

Accident Early This Morning at Main and Forest Streets; Local Man Arrested.

An automobile driven by Thomas England of 270 Oak street and a delivery truck owned by Antonio Boero of Andover, R. F. D., and driven by his son, John, age 15 years, were in collision this morning at 7:30 at the intersection of Main and Forest streets.

England was made to make a turn into Forest street as the truck came out of Forest street onto Main, turned to its left and the two cars came together. The accident was reported to the police and Officer Prentice went out to investigate. England was in police court this morning charged with failure to give right of way. He pleaded not guilty, and after hearing the details of the accident Judge Johnson suspended judgment.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Manchester, within and for the district of Manchester, on the 24 day of April, A. D. 1929, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, before WILLIAM S. HYDE, Esq., Judge.

In the matter of Edith A. Jones and Wilfred H. Jones, both of Manchester in said district, minors.

Upon application of Charles F. Yarkishot praying for the appointment of a guardian of the person and estates of said minors as per application on file, it is ORDERED:—That the foregoing application be heard and determined at the Probate office in Manchester in said District, on the 6th day of April, A. D. 1929, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice be given to all persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said application, by publishing a copy of this order in some newspaper having circulation in said district, on or before April 2, 1929, and by posting a copy of this order on the public sign board in said town of Manchester, at least four days before the day of said hearing, to appear if they see cause at said time and place and be heard relative thereto, and make return to this court.

WILLIAM S. HYDE, Judge.

HOOPER'S MESSAGE ALMOST COMPLETED

Washington, April 2—President Hoover has completed the first draft of the message he will transmit to the special session of the 61st Congress two weeks from today.

Four principal recommendations will be made by the President, it was said today:

1. That Congress speedily enact a farm relief measure along the lines indicated by the Republican platform and his own campaign speeches with no equalization fee.
2. That Congress not attempt general revision of the tariff, but confine its action to specific schedules calculated to bolster up weak spots in the industrial situation.
3. That Congress reappropriate itself, as is mandatory under the Constitution.
4. That Congress repeal the national origins clause of the Immigration Act.

These are all considered pressing matters that should be dealt with at the extra session. Other matters can go over until the regular session next December, Congress will be told.

LEMONS, NOT LEG WORK WON THIS RACE, CLAIM

Late home-geers last night who happened to see two men running in the middle of the street with a couple of automobiles following closely at their heels probably wondered what it was all about. For that matter, the police who were on duty at the time were also wondering what it was all about. It was a race between a man and a woman, and the man won. The man, who for two weeks had been living with a sister here, was arrested last evening in a central office building by police after a wild struggle in which shots were fired. Attorney David Goldberg had arranged for police to drop into his office at eight last evening during a conference he was to have with the police. Detectives were in an adjoining room and listened by dictograph to the conversation. According to the facts so far revealed Vail wanted money from G. E. Banfield, an interior decorator, to refrain from revealing alleged information of an unpleasant sort. Attorney Goldberg gave Vail $100 in marked money and police walked in. A scramble followed and Vail broke for liberty. Someone fired shots that were harmless. Vail was subdued and locked up.

ARMY TRACK TRAO TO ENTER DRAKE RELAYS.

Des Moines, April 2.—For the first time, the track team of the United States Military Academy will cross the Mississippi river to take part in the twentieth annual Drake relays, to be held here in April.

Announcement that the Army track and field stars will be among the contenders at the Drake games was made in a letter from Major Fleming, athletic director at West Point.

BRITAIN STUDIES REPORT

London, April 2.—The British Cabinet today took up the sinking of the Canadian schooner "Im Alone" by a United States Coast Guard cutter in the Gulf of Mexico on March 22 with the loss of one life—a sailor of French citizenship. A statement made to the British consular authorities and to the American federal officials by Captain Thomas Randall, master of the schooner, was received and its contents studied by the Cabinet.

TRUBADORS TO PLAY AT PANCAKE SUPPER

Special music will feature the Pillsbury pancake supper to be served by the Center Church Men's League Thursday night in the church parish hall. The Troubadors, a popular local orchestra under Walter Joyner will play during the supper period. William Krahn and Burton Pearl, two north end young men, will present a unique feature, billed as "The Phantom Orchestra."

The supper is being put on by the

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: Story of the Days

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

Wednesday is named after Woden, also called Odin, the greatest god of the old Scandinavians. Woden lived in a palace built of gold and silver which was called Valhalla. Two ravens stood on his shoulders and when he wanted news of the world he sent these birds to the earth to get it.

Woden sent the Valkyries down to earth to bring to Valhalla the souls of heroes slain in battle.

Round about Woden stood maidens with helmets and spears and shields. These were called Valkyries.

Woden would prepare great feasts for the souls of the soldiers who were killed in action. While they feasted Woden listened to their stories of brave deeds and drank mead.

GAS BUGGIES—Alec Decides to Move

GOSH, BUT HEM WAS SORE WHEN HE FOUND OUT I SENT DRESSER ON THAT TRIP TO GET HIM AWAY FROM VIOLA. HE SAID HE WAS A FOOL TO BELIEVE HE, I CAN'T TELL HIM ABOUT THAT $1,000 NOW, HE'D THINK I WAS TRYING TO FRAME DAN, IF I SAID HE MADE ME GIVE IT TO HIM.

THERE'S ONLY ONE THING FOR ME TO DO, AND THAT'S GET THE MONEY AND PAY HIM BACK. THEN I CAN TELL HEM, AND MAYBE HE'LL BELIEVE ME, SPECIALLY WHEN HE SEES THE $1,000. I'VE GOT TO SQUARE THIS BEFORE I CAN SEE VIOLA AGAIN.

I TRY TO TELL MYSELF I DON'T CARE WHAT VIOLA DOES, BUT IT'S NO USE. I DO CARE! DRESSER DOESN'T MEAN RIGHT BY HER, BUT HOW CAN I PROVE IT? I CAN'T SAY A WORD 'TILL I PAY BACK THAT MONEY.

IT'S GOING TO TAKE TIME TO PAY BACK $1,000. I'VE GOT TO SAVE FASTER. LET'S SEE... I COULD MOVE OUT OF THE HOTEL AND TAKE A $5-A-WEEK ROOM... AND EAT IN CHEAPER RESTAURANTS

Subscription Agent—Would you like to subscribe to the local papers?

Lady—No, we have newspapers all over the house.

Agent—How about some good books?

Lady—We've got books in every corner.

Agent—How about a magazine or two that—

Lady—Sorry, but we're swamped with magazines.

Agent—Well, then, what about a good paper baler?

"Perhaps he was, sir," interrupted the lad, "but I'll bet he didn't get it!"

LETTER GOLF

NOW'S THE TIME

Now is the time for backyard gardeners to START to PLANT. Par is seven and one solution is on another page:

Letter Golf grid with letters S, T, A, R, T and P, L, A, N, T.

THE RULES.

1—The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes.

2—You change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed. One solution is printed on comic page.

POLICE COURT
John Kosak of North street was found guilty of non-support by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in the Manchester police court this morning. He was defended in court by Attorney Chester H. Mills. It was brought out in the evidence that Kosak had threatened to leave his wife and four children if the town authorities did not find him employment. This was two years ago. The town has been furnishing the family with fuel, paid the rent, and also provided some furnishings. Kosak went to Brooklyn, where he found work in the subway construction and according to his own testimony had earned more than $30 a week. The reason he left home was because he and his wife did not get along well together. A jail sentence of 30 days was imposed and the judge suspended execution of the sentence on condition that Kosak pay his wife $12 a week for her support and that of the children. A bond of $200 was required to insure the payment.
