

CHENEY OFFER ON SCHOOLS IS TO BE STUDIED

Group of Selectmen and School Committeemen Meet to Consider Proposal; To Consider All Angles

Cheney Brothers' proposal to the Ninth district that it purchase or rent the Cheney owned schools in the district by July 14, this year has raised a perplexing problem with regard to what part of the property the Ninth district needs and should assume and what part, if any, the town of Manchester should take over. A group of 17 leading citizens, members of either the Board of Selectmen, the Ninth district committee or the High school committee, delved somewhat last night into the several questions that have arisen following the Cheney proposal.

The Committee. Following a considerable discussion the group asked John H. Hyde, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, to name a special committee of five to study the Cheney proposal and gather information that both the Ninth district and the town will desire before acting definitely upon the proposition. Chairman Hyde will name the committee later.

The group that met last night consisted of: John H. Hyde, George H. Waddell, Howell Cheney, W. W. Robertson, Wells A. Strickland, George E. Keith, Thomas J. Rogers, Albert Jackson, Edward J. Murphy, R. LaMotte Russell, Rev. Watson Woodruff, Miss Mary Cheney, Mrs. Lillian G. Bowers, Mrs. Jane E. Wilcox, Rev. P. J. O. Cornell, Judge William S. Hyde, and Fred A. Venable. The meeting was an informal one, called at the suggestion of Howell Cheney by the Board of Selectmen.

Careful Study Necessary

R. LaMotte Russell told the group that he believed a most careful study of the Cheney proposal was necessary before anyone could act intelligently and before any definite decision could be reached. Mr. Russell suggested that a smaller group be named to gather all the information about the school construction costs and the need of school rooms in town. Mr. Russell said that he believed that these figures on costs should be obtained so that the people of the Ninth district and the town of Manchester would know whether or not it was good business to purchase the Cheney schools.

It was suggested that the town should await the action of the Ninth district before acting upon the proposal, but Judge Hyde told the gathering that the Ninth district must act first and if that district (Continued on Page 8)

REBUILD MAIN ST. STARTING JULY 1

Monday Night's Meeting to Be Asked to Grant Necessary Sum for Work.

The State highway department will start rebuilding Main street between the Center and Depot Square July 1, it was disclosed at last night's meeting of the Board of Selectmen. All public utility companies have been notified that their conduits, pipes and manholes be raised to the new surface of the highway by that time. All construction, however, is dependent upon the special town meeting on Monday night next appropriating $15,000 as the town's share of the proposed work.

Other Improvements

It is also planned to widen the street at Middle Turnpike while the new construction is going on. The highway there is narrow and the town has extra land that it can use for highway purposes. Also the corner in front of the Center Congregational church will be cut back in accordance with the town's agreement with the State highway department. The cost of all this extra work is included in the $15,000 appropriation. The highway from Center north is about 25 feet wide and the town will assume the cost of construction of 10 feet of this width.

Other Business

The petition of Raymond Paris for a gasoline station on Oak street was denied because of the fact that the state demands that such a station have at least 80 feet frontage on a highway. A petition was received for an electric light at the church block in the rear of Depot Square. The lighting committee will investigate. Chett's filling station on Oakland street was granted a permit to install another gasoline pump.

STORE THIEVES CAUGHT HERE HAD BIG HAUL

Are Wanted Throughout State for Similar Thefts; Cases Continued—How They Were Captured.

Charles Brodrib of 605 Wethersfield avenue, Charles Adams, of 61 Buckingham street, Norman Sterling, of 79 Buckingham street, Beatrice Murphy of 15 Frederick street and James Murphy of the same address, all of Hartford, were before the town court this morning charged with the theft of a suit of clothes from Jacob Laufer, yesterday afternoon. They were captured by the East Hartford police as they were speeding away. Their cars were all continued until May 10, when they will again be brought before the court, bonds in each case, with the exception of Brodrib's, being placed at $1,500. In Brodrib's case the bond was $200, he being the owner and driver of the car in which the others were passengers when arrested.

Had Big Stock

That the entire five arrested are concerned in other holdups and that Hartford stores have suffered from their work was evident this morning. Detective Peter Galvin with Daniel Garrey, connected with G. Fox and Company, came to Manchester today to look over the stolen goods that the police have at the station here. There consists of thirty-two silk dresses, forty-four pieces of women's lingerie, three women's black coats with fur lined collars, a suit of men's clothes, with extra trousers, a half dozen pairs of the dresses were found in the men's garters. There was also some gin.

The articles, in the opinion of Mr. Garrey, were all taken from one place. That it was a retail store is shown by the fact that on four of the dresses were found the special mark of the store and on another was the mark of the clothing manufacturer.

Members of Ring

The Manchester police are being congratulated on the capture as all the information that was involved in a robbery in Waterbury, but at that time a man by the name of Hawk was the driver. Murphy, who is also under arrest, is a former cab driver and he, too, has worked at odd times for the owner of the cab. It has been learned that the two men that came to Manchester yesterday, Adams and Sterling, had met Brodrib at 10 o'clock on Sunday evening and made an appointment to meet them Monday at 11:30 at 32 Hopkins street to take them to Manchester.

Brodrib is also identified by Mr. Laufer as the man who stole a suit of clothes in his place on Friday of last week and that he had been in the vicinity of his store on other occasions when suits were stolen. Mr. Laufer had lost a total of ten (Continued on Page 2)

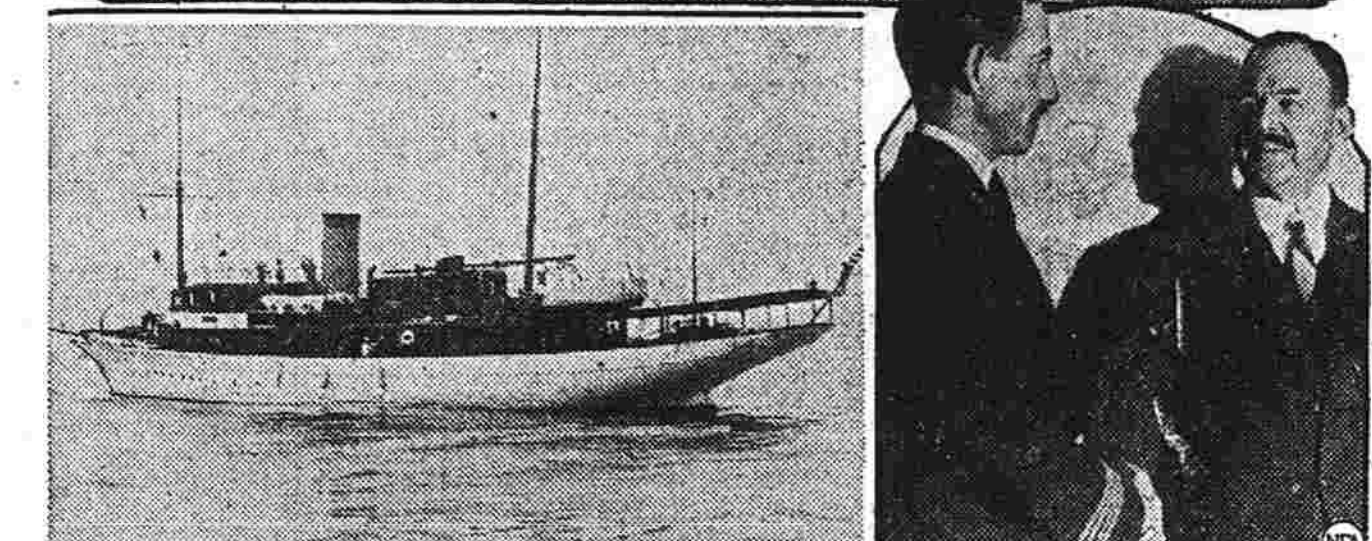

SINCLAIR RETAINS COMPANY CONTROL

Directors Give Him Vote of Confidence on Eve of Serving Sentence.

New York, April 30.—Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the board of the $500,000,000 Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, who must begin serving a sentence of ninety days in jail for contempt of the United States Senate in the Teapot Dome lease case, will retain and its twenty subsidiaries, it was learned today.

The White House has been unusually secretive about the maneuvering in the process of making this commission. It is known, however, that Mr. Hoover has offered places to several prominent men who have declined to serve because of personal convictions that prohibition is the root and branch of present-day lawlessness. Others who have seemed desirable appointments have been found "ineligible" because of their previously expressed opinions concerning prohibition.

Crew Rescued After Nine Days in Open Boat

Gaunt and bruised after nine days on tempestuous seas in an open lifeboat, the survivors of the foundered coal schooner James E. Coburn are shown above as they were brought to New York aboard the steam yacht Amida, lower left, which rescued them off Bermuda. Back row, left to right, are Andy Andrews; Ed Rice, mate; Capt. Joseph Periera; Joseph M. Mederos, and John Britto. Front row: Eugene Samedio, Jose Pelgado, Manuel Silva and Ambrose Mondeliro. Capt. Sydney MacLaughlin of the Amida, who saved the stranded crew after they were near death from lack of food and water, is pictured lower right being congratulated by Ernest Behrend, owner of the palatial yacht.

IT'S HARD TO PICK IMPARTIAL BOARD

President Having Trouble in Finding Men for Dry Probe.

Washington, April 30.—President Hoover is encountering monumental difficulties in his efforts to find an impartial jury of eminent citizens to investigate the breakdown of law enforcement. He represents it being called a prohibition investigation yet in the final analysis the proposed investigation comes down to just about that.

WIFE LEADS RAID

Chicago, April 30.—After leading police in a raid on a hotel room where her husband was found with a young woman, Mrs. Catherine Hunderford Crowley Williams, 26, declared today she would file suit for divorce against Lucien E. Williams, former Yale athlete.

Mrs. Williams is a daughter of W. C. Crowley, wealthy Detroit merchant.

TORCH SLAYER CALMLY TELLS ABOUT CRIME

Young Husband Confesses He Killed Wife on First Wedding Anniversary and Burns Her Body.

White Plains, N. Y., April 30.—Earl F. Peacock, 22 year old radio expert, Don Juan and dabbler in fiction and poetry, today calmly confessed to slaying his 20 year old estranged wife, Dorothy Helmselman Peacock, whose burned body was found under an apple tree in Scarsdale, Westchester county, District Attorney Frank H. Coyne announced after the suspect had been grilled for hours.

Without a tremor in his voice, Peacock related shocking details of the crime which he at first blantly almost nonchalantly denied. And when he finished describing the murder he took the authorities to his home in Mount Vernon and showed them how he knocked his wife unconscious, and how he choked her to death.

The police attributed the crime to "love madness."

He was formally booked on a charge of murder by the Mount Vernon police.

First Anniversary

The girl was slain on the first anniversary of her marriage. After her impetuous young husband had killed her he took the body in an automobile and drove it to the spot near Scarsdale where it was found. Peacock said he and his wife had quarreled and that she "clawed" at him. He picked up a weight and struck her on the head.

The Confession

His confession, as given out by the authorities, said in part: "I killed her on April 22. On the night of April 21, at 11:45, I was playing cards with my mother-in-law. Remembering that it was the first anniversary of my wedding I excused myself and went to 561 West 143 street, (New York City) and called on my wife who was living there as Lillian Manny."

EDITOR MISSING FROM BOSTON BOAT

Henry A. Sherman, of New York, Not on Board When Ship Lands.

Boston, April 30.—Police were notified today of the mysterious disappearance from the New York to Boston liner New York of a man believed to be Henry A. Sherman, editor of the religious literature department of Charles Scribner and Sons, New York publishers.

Sherman could not be found at the publication office here or in New York. The man whose state room was found empty registered as "Henry A. Sherman, Hotel Belmont, New York."

Bed Slept In

The second mate told police that he had been slept in. In the stateroom was found a suit of pajamas, and overnight case containing men's wearing apparel, a gold trimmed bill fold monogrammed "H. A. S." and containing $55 in money and stamps, and a landing check. The crew of the liner were interviewed but nobody could be found who had seen the occupant of the stateroom after the steamship left New York harbor last evening.

The Boston office of the Scribner company said that Sherman was well known but there had been no word from the home office, at 237 Fifth avenue, New York, that he was coming to Boston.

At the conclusion of a preliminary investigation, police detectives expressed the opinion that the occupant of the stateroom had been lost overboard during the trip from New York.

THREE MEN KILLED AS TAXI COLLIDES WITH BIG TRUCKS

Man Also Seriously Hurt in Early Morning Crash on Hartford Turnpike in North Haven—Two Hartford and One New York Man Among the Victims.

New Haven, April 30.—Three men were instantly killed on the Hartford Turnpike near Wharton Brook Park, North Haven, today when a speeding taxicab bound for Hartford plunged into a truck, stalled on the highway, was being hitched to another truck for towing.

The dead, according to a list secured by North Haven authorities, are Charles D. Brown of 1833 Main street, Hartford; John Messer of 309 East 91st street, New York and Peter F. Clark, of 20 Rose street, Hartford.

Passenger Injured

Frank Goodall, who gives his address as 201 Madison street, Waterbury, a passenger in the taxi, was seriously injured and is under treatment in New Haven hospital.

Bodies of the three dead men are in a local undertaker's rooms.

Coroner James J. Corrigan started an investigation into the accident during the morning, endeavoring to straighten out conflicting stories of the crash.

Goodall, according to the North Haven authorities, said he had been picked up by a strange man at Devon late last night and offered a ride. He described the car as a Packard touring car, but could say nothing about the driver. Goodall was in serious condition when he reached the hospital.

Truck Becomes Stalled

North Haven authorities say that a truck owned by H. Lemberger, of 339 West 13th street, New York, became stalled on the highway and the driver, Messer, halted the first north-bound truck and asked for aid. The second driver promised a tow to Meriden if he could find a rope. A third truck finally came along and handed over a tow rope, and while the disabled truck was being hitched up, the crash came.

At the same time authorities found on Brown's body a taxi driver's license and a photograph of the man to whom it was issued.

FEAR MAY DAY RIOTS IN EUROPEAN CITIES

Police Expect Radicals to Start Trouble; Taking Precautions Today.

Paris, April 30.—Throughout virtually all of Europe precautions were taken today by the police to cope with May Day demonstrations tomorrow by Socialists and Communists.

It has long been the custom of the Liberals and Radicals of Continental Europe to stage strikes and demonstrations against "capitalism and conservatism" on May First.

In Paris May Day usually resembles Sunday, for often the employees of the public service companies strike for the day leaving the city without taxicabs or subway trains.

The government is taking vigorous measures to preserve order. Twenty six suspected Communists were arrested during the day because it was feared they were plotting disorders. Included among the prisoners were a number of foreigners.

Precautions are also being taken in Berlin, Rome, Madrid, Berne and London. Gen. Primo de Rivera, the Spanish dictator, issued an official warning against May Day demonstrations throughout Spain.

MEXICAN REVOLUTION PRACTICALLY ENDED

EX-SLAVE DIES

Middleton, April 30.—When George Washington, colored Civil War Veteran, died at Fitch's Soldiers Home, Noroton, last week, he left a will in which he left six bequests of $100 each to members of the Wetmore family of Middleton, in which he was employed for years following the war, and to Miss Cornelia Wetmore, his last employer, he left the bulk of his estate in trust, providing that on her death it be given the Mississippi Institute for Colored People.

The estate amounted to several thousands. Washington was 84 when he died. He was born a slave, and ran away during the war to enlist in the Union forces.

BULGARIANS ASSASSINATED
London, April 30.—Four Bulgarians, including one woman, were assassinated in Jugo-Slavian territory within 400 yards of the Bulgarian-Jugo-Slavian frontier today, according to a Central News dispatch from Sofia.

In the rear of the Dodge and the motorcycle drew up on the left of it. The occupants were taken completely by surprise and made no effort to escape, but both sides of the car were at once guarded. On the left side of the car, on the floor was noticed a large bundle over which there had been thrown a robe. Reaching under this robe, Carney pulled out the blue suit that Laufer had described, showed it to the officers, related the reason for the chase. The motorcycle officer left his machine standing on the side of the road and ordered that the car be driven to the East Hartford police station. The capture was made about an eighth of a mile east of the Silver Lane Pickle factory.

Carney called the Manchester police and told of the capture and then proceeded on to East Hartford. Chief Gordon and Lieutenant Barrow arrived about twenty minutes later but were preceded by Detective Galvin of the Hartford police department, who at once identified the driver of the cab and recalled to him the Waterbury incident. Brodribb admitted that it was his car that was used in Waterbury, but said he was not the driver. When the Manchester police arrived the men were taken into different rooms. Adams claimed that he lived in Hartford, but has since changed his mind and says his home is in Boston. He said that there was a "guy" in the car, saying he was in the car in the Waterbury case. Adams and the other men were taken to the East Hartford station and later to East Hartford and brought out the other three men.

Seek Developments. It is evident that the men are members of a gang and as a result Detective Galvin was sent to Manchester again this morning. He expected to return to Hartford, but on orders from Hartford is being held in Manchester and the detective bureau is working on a Hartford end, which seems to have developed new clues this morning. All of the local stores selling goods such as were found, inspected the articles, but aside from the suit that was taken from Laufer's, none of them were identified as coming from Manchester stores.

Manchester is not the only place that goods have been stolen. During the anniversary of the founding of the G. Fox Company, of Hartford, held two weeks ago, there was over $150 worth of goods recovered that had been stolen and in that week alone there were twenty-two convictions for shop lifting. The telephone continued to ring this morning at the local police station. Two calls came from New Britain, which had been stolen and in that week alone there were twenty-two convictions for shop lifting.

That the men knew Manchester was evident. Friday two of the men were in Laufer's store and stole a suit of clothes. On Saturday Adams and Sterling were in G. H. Williams' store and Sterling tried on an overcoat. After they had gone without making a purchase, there were several cigar lighters missing. In the papers found on the men was a list of numbers of different sizes wanted and as most of the dresses taken ran from size 36 to 42 it looked as though they were trying to fill the order.

Late this afternoon Brodribb's case was re-opened on the strength of information local police gathered during the day. Brodribb's bond was raised to $1,500.

It was also learned that the bulk of the goods in the thieves' car was taken from the Royal store at the corner of Market and East Main streets, Rockville.

SEVEN PERSONS DEAD IN FIGHT OVER STILL. Paintsville, Ky., April 30.—Four persons are known to be dead and three others reported to have been killed in a pitched battle at a mountain moonshine still on Jennings Creek in the Wildcat mountains section today.

THE KNOWN dead are Lee Gibson, his wife and their son, and Wallace Hannah. Wayne Hannah, brother of Wallace, was probably fatally shot in the battle, which was said to have followed a dispute over the operation of the still.

Authorities rushed to a hospital today to question Wayne Hannah, who was brought here, shot through the lungs.

S. M. E. CHOIR CONCERT DIFFERENT, GRATIFYING

Like Drawing Room Musicale in Plan; Miss Silcox, Harpist, Impresses in Debut.

The concert given by the choir at the South Methodist church, last night, was something different. Save for the harpist and violinist the entire program was in the hands of members of the choir. Excellent results were achieved.

The setting was very effective, the stage being arranged drawing room fashion, with the cast informally sitting about, and only coming to the front when occasion required.

OBITUARY DEATHS

Mrs. Sophia Yurgens. A telegram received this morning from J. Frank Maguire, formerly of Manchester, Green, told of the death of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sophia K. Yurgens at his home in Hollywood, Cal., at 8:25 last night.

Mrs. Yurgens was the widow of William Yurgens, who was for many years proprietor of a marble works plant at Birch and Spruce streets and who died about nine years ago in the house now occupied by the Finnegan family at Bissell and Spruce streets. She had been ill for nearly two years and a shock hastened her death.

Mrs. Yurgens, who was about sixty years old, went to live with her only daughter, Mrs. J. Frank (Wilma Yurgens) Maguire in Hartford after her husband's death. They lived in Hartford for about three months and then moved to Hollywood about six years ago.

Mrs. Yurgens leaves no other children except her daughter. There are three grandchildren, Joseph, George and Wilma. Mrs. Maguire and her son, Joseph, will accompany the body of her mother by train to Manchester where funeral service will be held at St. James's church. The time has not been set but burial will be in the family plot in St. James's cemetery.

Ronald F. Rennie. Ronald F. Rennie, 78, of 26 Gardner street, died at 6:20 this morning at the Manchester Memorial hospital, where he was admitted at 10:15 last night.

Mr. Rennie was born in Scotland on July 3, 1851, and had lived in Manchester for many years. A few years ago, he was retired from Cheney Brothers on a pension. He had been a silk worker.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Catherine F. Johnson, with whom he made his home, Mr. Rennie leaves one son, James P. Rennie, who is in the real estate business in Coventry. Another son, John, a World War veteran, died in New Jersey a few years ago.

The cause of Mr. Rennie's death was asthma and heart trouble. The funeral will be held at the home of Mrs. Rennie, 26 Gardner street, at 2:30 p. m. Thursday afternoon and burial will be in the East cemetery. Rev. Robert A. Colpitts will officiate.

George W. Woodbridge. Funeral services for George W. Woodbridge, 73, life-long resident of Manchester, who was largely blind, at his home, yesterday afternoon and there were many floral tributes. Rev. James McDonough, pastor of the Catholic Apostolic church of Hartford, of which Mr. Woodbridge was a member, officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Lawrence Barber of Nashua, N. H., who is a relative of the family. The Colonial Quartet of Hartford sang two numbers. "In the Palace of the King," which was a favorite with Mr. Woodbridge, and "Abide With Me."

The bearers were close friends of the family, namely, Elwood G. Walker, Charles E. Howard, John Jensen and Charles Tryon. Burial was in the East cemetery.

Robert Metcalf, Jr. The funeral of Robert Metcalf, Jr., 43, of 72 West street was held yesterday afternoon at St. Mary's Episcopal church, at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Walter R. Metcalf officiated and burial was in the East cemetery. The bearers were George Torrance, Richard Turkington, Robert Truxton, Joseph Barto, Claude Turx and Edward McCleugh.

Mrs. Emma Plumley. The funeral of Mrs. Emma Plumley, 59, widow of Joel Plumley, was held Sunday afternoon at the rooms of Holloran Brothers, Rev. Watson Woodruff, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated and burial was in the East cemetery. The bearers were F. Morris, E. F. Geehan, E. A. Goss, R. Winkler, F. E. Keish and G. Chamberlain.

Mrs. Alma Johnson. The funeral of Mrs. Alma Johnson, 72, widow of S. Adolph Johnson, of Laurel Place, was held Sunday afternoon at Holloran Brothers. The Rev. John Johnson sang "Face to Face." The bearers were Oscar and Eric Erickson, Walter, Edward, Paul and Carl Anderson. Rev. Robert A. Colpitts officiated. Burial was in the East cemetery.

Mrs. Agnes Conroy. The funeral of Mrs. Agnes (Farrell) Conroy, native of Manchester, but late of Hartford, was held this morning in Hartford. Prayers were said at the funeral parlors of Farley & Molloj and a solemn requiem high mass was sung at St. Augustine's church. The bearers were Thomas J. Conroy, Philip J. Roach, Frederick J. Corbett, John Campbell, James O'Connor and James Galvin. Rev. Walter Conroy, a relative of the deceased, officiated. Burial was in the family plot in St. James's cemetery in Manchester.

LEGISLATOR WILLARD DIES IN WETHERSFIELD. Palmer S. Willard of Wethersfield, well known in the Federal Assembly from Wethersfield, dropped dead last night at his home from heart attack. Mr. Willard was perhaps as well known in Manchester as anywhere in the state. He was a familiar figure on the streets here for many years and was also largely instrumental in planning the recent testimonial dinner to Senator Robert J. Smith of this town.

TELLS LIONS DISTRICT SCHOOLS ARE OUTDATED

Consolidation Only Thing, Says R. P. Butler of Hartford at Weekly Meeting.

The problem of schools has been thrashed out in towns throughout Connecticut and consolidation is the only thing, Robert P. Butler, Hartford lawyer and member of the Hartford Lions Club, told the local organization at its regular meeting at the Hotel Sheridan, last night.

The speaker said that schools were a civic problem in Manchester and that we should not think of ourselves but of the next generation and let them have schools free of district regime.

Mr. Butler spoke inspiringly on "Lionism," telling of its inception and of the work being done by Lions International and of the department of education at the Chicago convention.

He said that interest should be taken in civic work, there being a wide field open for it here, and stressed the point that the club must have traditions to work for and "what is everybody's business."

He also said there was a wonderful chance for work among the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, but especially among the underprivileged children in Manchester.

The club received invitations to attend the Charter Night of the Stafford Springs Lions on Thursday of this week, Charter Night in New Milford on Thursday, May 16, and the district convention on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 21 and 22, in New Haven.

CITY CLUB DINNER TOMORROW NIGHT

Will Be Held in Old English Hall at Hotel Bond, Hartford, at 7:30.

The Manchester City Club's annual banquet will be held tomorrow night in the Old English hall of the Hotel Bond, Hartford. The dinner will start at 7:30 o'clock and will be attended by about 80 of the club's membership.

Jack Sanson, chairman of the banquet committee, will be in charge of the affair and he has named Willard B. Rogers as toastmaster. The address of welcome will be given by Thomas Brennan president of the club.

The menu which has been especially prepared for the City Club membership will have as its main course planked individual sirloin steaks. Following the dinner an entertainment consisting of six high class vaudeville acts will be presented. The acts have been brought to Hartford through the influence of Mr. Sanson, well known theatricals throughout New England.

Chicago, April 30.—The first "unofficial" jury in a Chicago court composed of women leaders in social welfare, civic and political life, received a setback today when they assembled for the trial of Mrs. Jane Liston, charged with contributing to the delinquency of her daughter, Coletta, 15, alleged to have attended gay parties with school children.

Attorneys for Mrs. Liston asked a change of venue be granted from the court of Judge Alfred Erickson to that of Judge Max Luster. "I don't think you are entitled to any more consideration than anybody else in the country," Judge Luster told the assembled "jury." COAST GUARD SAVES CREW OF SCHOONER. Provincetown, Mass., April 30.—Saved from destruction on Wellfleet Shoals after being caught in a heavy gale, the auxiliary sloop stormway, with its crew of three men was safe in port here today and was to resume its journey to Manchester by the Sea.

The stormway, with its engine flooded and made useless by salt water, was being driven against the treacherous shoals when a lookout of the Sandwich Coast Guard station observed the distressed craft. The Coast Guard power boat was launched, a line thrown to the drifting vessel, and she was safely towed into the harbor.

Owned by Lloyd Nichols, of Beverly Farms, Boston bond broker and yachtsman, the stormway was being taken from Essex, Conn., where it was delivered on Thursday to Manchester. With Nichols were Collin A. Wilson, also of Beverly Farms, and John Wilbur, former Navy officer, of New London, Conn.

A fourth member of the party, Royal Little, of Brookline, disembarked at Cataumet.

OFFICIALS TO HOLD BICKERS AS WITNESS

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 30.—Although he promised abductors who fogged and robbed him of $2,000 to leave Florida by tonight, James F. Bickers, 54, lawyer-crusader, may be held here as a material witness until the investigation of the case is cleared up.

This was intimated by officials today who pushed a thorough probe into the affair. Bickers, recovering from his wounds at a local hospital, declared that he did not know the identity of his assailants, and that he would not reveal their names if he could.

Indications today were that the fogging would have a far-reaching effect. The Chamber of Commerce expects to call a mass meeting to memorialize the State Legislature to wipe out organized crime throughout Florida.

The belief prevailed here that the incident grew out of a war between the underworld and the law enforcement branches of the county. Bickers had been very active in a campaign against gambling and bootlegging.

Willimantic, April 30.—The case of Thomas Mazzolla of Willimantic, under indictment for the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rosa Maria Lorella, has been postponed until the September term of the Superior Court, according to announcement today by State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford. Agreement between counsel led to the postponement, the state's attorney announced today as Judge L. P. Waldo Martin adjourned the Superior Court term until next Tuesday when he will sit at Putnam. The state's chief witness in the Mazzolla case is in Italy.

COAST GUARD SAVES CREW OF SCHOONER. Provincetown, Mass., April 30.—Saved from destruction on Wellfleet Shoals after being caught in a heavy gale, the auxiliary sloop stormway, with its crew of three men was safe in port here today and was to resume its journey to Manchester by the Sea.

The stormway, with its engine flooded and made useless by salt water, was being driven against the treacherous shoals when a lookout of the Sandwich Coast Guard station observed the distressed craft. The Coast Guard power boat was launched, a line thrown to the drifting vessel, and she was safely towed into the harbor.

Owned by Lloyd Nichols, of Beverly Farms, Boston bond broker and yachtsman, the stormway was being taken from Essex, Conn., where it was delivered on Thursday to Manchester. With Nichols were Collin A. Wilson, also of Beverly Farms, and John Wilbur, former Navy officer, of New London, Conn.

A fourth member of the party, Royal Little, of Brookline, disembarked at Cataumet.

BANDITS CORNERED. Benton, Ill., April 30.—The five bandits, one disguised as a woman, who held up the Thompsonville, Ill., state bank today, escaped with between $5,000 and $6,000 in cash here, been cornered in a country church three miles northeast of Thompsonville by a posse under Sheriff James Pritchard and a hot pitched battle is being waged.

POWER TRUST BUYS INTO MANY PAPERS

Washington, April 30.—The International Paper and Power Company, not only has acquired control of two important Boston newspapers, the Herald and Traveler, but it also has "bought into" many other newspapers, it was disclosed today by the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the power trust.

Archibald R. Graustein, president of the I. P. & P. Co., and chairman of the New England Power Association, admitted under severe questioning by the commission today that his concern had "bought into" the Bryan-Thomas newspapers, and the Gannett string of seventeen daily newspapers.

MYSERIOUS MALADY. Raleigh, N. C., April 30.—Medical authorities today began an investigation of an outbreak of a mysterious disease following the death of two persons and the serious illness of a third. The first victim was Albert K. McRae, a professional ball player, who is still alive. His baby was stricken and died within 12 hours, and a nurse attending McRae contracted the malady and died.

The United States Public Health Service is sending an expert here to study the disease, which physicians said was accompanied by hemorrhages and stiffening of the joints.

NO VOTE ON MELLON. Washington, April 30.—President Hoover lost and found and earned a draw in two skirmishes on Capitol Hill today where his policies were under fire before Senatorial committees.

Democratic critics of the President won a decision before the Senate Agriculture committee which decided to make public the secret testimony of two Department of Agriculture experts who endorsed the export debenture plan of farm relief. The publication of their testimony will reveal the President disregarded the advice of his experts.

On another skirmish before the Senate judiciary committee, where the eligibility of Andrew W. Mellon to serve as Secretary of War, Treasury has been under inquiry, the President earned a draw. For the fourth successive day the committee debated the question behind locked doors without reaching a decision.

Chicago, April 30.—The first "unofficial" jury in a Chicago court composed of women leaders in social welfare, civic and political life, received a setback today when they assembled for the trial of Mrs. Jane Liston, charged with contributing to the delinquency of her daughter, Coletta, 15, alleged to have attended gay parties with school children.

Attorneys for Mrs. Liston asked a change of venue be granted from the court of Judge Alfred Erickson to that of Judge Max Luster. "I don't think you are entitled to any more consideration than anybody else in the country," Judge Luster told the assembled "jury." "You are welcome to find seats and to remain for the hearing if you choose to do so. I scarcely believe, however, that I shall be able to permit you to 'advise' this court as to its decision.

Miss Dorothy Silcox

The lighting was subdued and created a pleasing atmosphere in keeping with the setting.

Outstanding among the choral numbers was the chorus for women's voices, "Holy Redeemer," with violin and harp accompaniment. Beauty in expression, and fine tonal effect were shown in this number.

All the other choral numbers were given in the artistic manner customary with this choir. The concluding one, Elgars' "Land of Hope and Glory" was a fitting finale to a most successful function.

The soloists were Miss Eleanor Willard, Mrs. Berta W. Lashinsky, Mrs. Mabel Robbins, Mrs. Eunice Hohenbahl, Sydney Strickland, Robert Gordon, Robert Von Deck and Fred J. Bendall, each of whom earned the hearty applause with which their numbers were received.

Mrs. Laura Wheeler Ross, violinist, fully upheld her artistic reputation, and in the "Sonata" for violin and piano, and "The Swan" by Saint-Saens, for violin and harp, she produced beauties of tonal effects, together with intensity of expression that were delightful.

The harpist, Miss Dorothy Silcox, had allotted to her last evening a task calling for high musical qualities, which would have taxed a more experienced musician, and it is but just to say that musical talent and artistic temperament was apparent in all her work. In the several accompaniments her work was nicely adapted, while her solo number, "Vocalise on Airs" by Stephen Foster was not only a happy choice but beautifully played.

Responding to an insistent encore, Miss Silcox submitted a dainty number of more difficult instrumentation and showed a highly developed technique. Much is anticipated in the near future from Miss Silcox and it is safe to predict that she will be heard more often in concert, and recital work sessions.

Director Archibald Sessions informally announced the several items, and acted as accompanist in his usual efficient manner. About 350 persons were present.

Richard Maloney, Flustered by First Auto Accident, Makes It Double Header.

Richard Maloney of Hartford, a former north end resident, parked his car in front of the Herald office on Bissell street, at 1:30 this afternoon while he made a call at Kilde's market. Mr. Maloney is a meat salesman. Later attempting to start his car, Mr. Maloney found his starter stuck. With the ignition on, and the gears in reverse, willing hands started to help him "rock" out the starter. One "good rock" was all that was necessary, for the car started off with a roar like Niagara. Mr. Maloney jumped on the running board and managed to get his hand onto the wheel and, as the car shot backward, he turned off the road into the right of way of the Herald Printing Company and the open space used as a parking place in the rear of the gasoline station at Main and Bissell streets.

He was not able to bring the car to a stop, however, until it crashed into an automobile owned by William Anderson of Cottage street, an employee in the Herald composing room, which was parked in the parking space.

As Mr. Maloney stepped into his car to drive out he remarked "Pretty good after driving for eleven years" and then, as he drove out of the parking space onto Bissell street, he stepped on the gas, the car shot ahead and hit an automobile owned by William McGonigal, also a Herald employee. The total damage was slight.

SPEED INVITATION

This newspaper has persistently found fault with the position of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles on just one point. Mr. Stoekel is an excellent administrator and his department is well conducted. But he once upon a time conceived the idea that a more flexible speed law would operate to the advantage of everybody—that not a hard-and-fast pace limit, but one predicated on "conditions," was the right thing to adopt. That was all right; an active mind envisions many things and Mr. Stoekel envisioned, we are quite sure, a betterment of the accident situation; the experiment was, no doubt, justifiable. But Mr. Stoekel is also, it has turned out, stubborn beyond reason in sticking to an idea, perhaps through pride of fatherhood, after it has been shown to be all wrong. It should have taken but one season to prove how completely mistaken his theory was. But it has taken many, and each year the grisly toll of the dead has mounted. Now, however, the Commissioner is apparently beginning to waver.

"COULDN'T" A BIG WORD

The case of the Stratford eccentric, Beardslee, who is dead of a pistol bullet wound, is just another of the many such which start off from the proposition that the fatal shot could not have been fired by the victim himself—not from lack of opportunity but because to fire the shot would have been beyond his physical capacity. And very often such cases break down, on trial, because an agile defense lawyer puts on a witness of two in the person of firearms experts who demonstrate very conclusively, with weapon in hand, that the deadly shot could have been fired by the slain person.

SEA PARITY

While former President Coolidge may be, like everybody else, wandering a little amid uncertainties as to the size of the navy that the United States is supposed to actually need, he has a very clear idea as to this much discussed question of "parity." In his article in the May Ladies Home Journal he expresses very simply a very salient truth when he says: "So much depends on the men behind the guns justice say that one hundred and twelve persons only mean about one in a million of the people in the United States. Numerically this small group amounts, of course, to very little. But it is so often asseverated and re-asseverated by the extreme dries that only the lower classes, the victims of appetite and the liquor interests oppose prohibition, that the list of one hundred and twelve constituting this committee becomes important in rebuttal.

Samuel Hopkins Adams, Nalbro Bartley, Porter Emerson Browne, Struthers Burt, Irvin Cobb, Charles Francis Coe, Lincoln Colcord, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Clayton Hamilton, Edward Hope, Rupert Hughes, Wallace Irwin, Peter B. Kyne, Frederick MacMonnies, Christopher Morley, Maxfield Parrish, Viola Brothers Shore, Deems Taylor, Harry Leon Wilson and the rest of these remonstrants are surely not bad people, nor ignorant people, nor yet selfish people, else they could not do the kind of work they are doing in the world.

It is organizations such as this that are going to bring the controversy over prohibition down to the level of actuality and sanity. They cannot be set aside or pool-pooled. They cannot be accused of self-interest. They prove nothing, to be sure, save the very important thing that opposition to the eighteenth amendment and Volsteadism and Jonesism can be, and sometimes is, not only respectable but eminently so.

When there is general recognition of that fact there will be less ill feeling over prohibition and more illuminating debate over it. These people can be argued with and contested against, but they cannot be flouted, bullied or ignored. They have too many and too good brains and too much of the respect of the American people.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, April 30.—It may not be news that the soft collar industry and the stiff collar industry are engaged in a large propaganda war for the privilege of clothing the national neck.

Once upon a time nearly all males wore starched collars, and the soft collars were so wrinkly and sloppy that the well-dressed man simply wasn't having any. But soft collars or semi-soft collars were developed which looked very well and were still comfortable and these began to have a very large sale.

The people who make starched collars finally began to fight back with intensive national propaganda to the effect that the snappy, well-groomed man still wore starched collars and that soft collars were still abhorred in the best circles. Apparently the other collar interests are now launching counter-propaganda to offset all that.

The war has lately been centering on the neck of President Herbert Hoover. The president has always worn very high stiff collars and the hard collar publicists were quick to seize upon that fact and exploit it.

Recently, however, the soft collar enthusiasts got busy. Thus one reads that Hoover has set a splendid example to all men who are slaves to fashionable customs, that he "wears a soft shirt and a soft turned down collar in preference to the boiler-plate casings dictated by hoary precedent."

Inquiry around the White House develops the fact that the president wears a shirt with soft collar attached while tossing the old medicine ball each morning, but at all other times he sticks to starch. The starched collar industry is willing to admit that soft collars will sometimes do for sports.

Speaking of the daily session of the Hoover "medicine ball cabinet" recalls the recent widely published story to the effect that other members of that body were rather resentful of the fact that Justice Harlan Fiske Stone was throwing the ball altogether too hard. Justice Stone, the complaint was, ought to use a little more discretion.

One hears, however, that the feeling about Justice Stone's powerful heaves was not shared by President Hoover or by more than one of the other heavers. It appears that the only complaining sufferer was a distinguished newspaperman of great prestige but very slender build. When Justice Stone, in his unrestrained and exuberant enthusiasm, hurled the big sphere at this "cabinet" member it was almost a case of an irresistible force meeting an all too movable object.

Craftily and probably with malice aforethought, this newspaperman tipped off correspondents covering the White House that all was not well with the "cabinet" because Justice Stone didn't appear to know his own strength. It is now understood that the judicial conscience

ATAVISTIC MENTAL TENDENCIES

Attached to each ear are three muscles for the evident purpose of wiggling the ear upward, forward and backward, and yet there are very few individuals who have the power to flap or otherwise wiggle the ears. Scientists claim that these muscles, together with certain other anatomical structures, such as the nose or rudimentary tail, and the hairs of the face and body, are evidences of man's development from a more primitive form. This belief is held by most scientific men at present, and if it is true, it is also possible that we still use a number of mental processes which were very necessary in the earlier stages of human history but which at present could be discarded to advantage.

If the body has evolved, the mind must also have evolved, and many of our fundamental emotions may only be developments of the archaic. We are striving upward and onward, but some of the impulses must necessarily be changed to fit our social customs. From our environment, and early training we probably learn selfishness, cruelty, deceit and combativeness. These were once essential to our survival, but at present they have become largely unnecessary and in some cases actual handicaps which must be overcome. These savage remnants still persist in man, but they have been modified or repressed by the dictates of custom and civilization.

It is difficult to realize how strongly these primitive emotions may still dominate us unconsciously. In a panic, fire or disaster, the savage hidden within a civilized man casts aside the veneer of culture and one will seek personal safety even at the expense of others. We know that a mob loses all sense of reason, and justice becomes a thing forgotten. In fact, many of our penal codes are only for the purpose of regulating the atavistic-tendencies of human beings.

A man may be a perfect gentleman when in society or when surrounded by his business associates and yet in his own home where he is freed from social restraint these hang-back primitive tendencies may assert themselves.

The human reasoning power is still in its infancy. If it were fully developed, we should be able to recognize all things in their true proportion. We would never be troubled by trifles and would neglect important duties. We would be able to dispense with bumpers on our automobiles because we would never make mistakes. However, we all know that the man or woman who has never made a mistake does not exist, and we still use for the rubber on our lead-pencils.

has been more or less stricken and that the justice tempers his steam in accordance with the direction of his heave.

If everyone were as courteous and discreet as Mr. Edward Everett Gann, the husband of Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, the vice president's hostess, things would be more comfortable for Mr. Gann.

Unfortunately, all Washington social functions of any size these days include a large number of persons who insist on talking among themselves, freely and frankly, about Mrs. Gann and the social war of which she was recently the heroine.

Unfortunately, also, a great many persons in Washington do not know Mr. Gann or what he looks like. So Mr. Gann is often likely to hear plenty and some of the things that are said are calculated to make him sore, despite his sense of humor.

To each of us, this life is a continual process of learning and experimenting from the day we are born until the day of our death. The problem of doing away with the undesirable qualities of human temperament and developing the good ones is difficult. Seemingly, it cannot be done by combating the tendency. The best method is to turn a primitive force into some useful rather than into a destructive channel. In other words, by living in society, it becomes necessary for us to sublimate our powerful primitive, but often intractable, emotions.

Questions and Answers

Reducing

Question: K. L. L. writes: "Some time ago I answered an advertisement about a method to reduce. I sent for the treatments. They are pills to be taken after each meal. I have lost 2 pounds, but when I tried to leave off the treatment I gained to gain even more rapidly than before. My stomach is now in such a bad condition I can eat very few things without vomiting immediately. But as I am only 20 years old, I am afraid if I don't continue with these treatments I would soon weigh 200 pounds. What can I do?"

Answer: The reason you have had so much difficulty in reducing is probably due to some glandular deficiency. The tablets which caused you to reduce very likely contained thyroid extracts and this treatment is never advisable unless you are under the strict care of a physician. I am sure that you will be able to reduce your weight if you will exercise your will-power enough to keep away from food for a sufficient time. I would advise a straight water fast, using a glassful of water every half hour during the day for three or four days followed by the orange fast. If the fast is long enough it will usually result in the correction of the glandular condition so that a gain of weight will not result after you begin eating. It would be a good plan for you to avoid starches and fats in your diet for quite some time.

Milk

Question: Mrs. J. K. writes: "I have been told that milk hardens the bones—that if adults take it at all it should be curdled. And what do you think of junket?"

Answer: Milk does not harden the bones and may be used to good advantage in the diet at any age if used in the proper combinations. Junket is quite wholesome and should be used in the same combinations as milk. I am sending you an article called "Food Combinations" and hope you will find it interesting and helpful.

Trying to Put Him on His Feet!

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 30.—Hermit and misers choose the heart of the city, as well as the lonely hill cabins, for their retreats.

One of Manhattan's strange murder mysteries of the moment concerns an aged recluse who was found bound hand and foot and beaten to death on the floor of his dungeon-like cellar. Although his bank account showed a healthy state of affluence, he lived in this cellar amidst a strange collection of junk in which he dealt. He was a mysterious figure at old-clothes auctions, sometimes bidding in a thousand dollar's worth of goods.

Two barred windows at the back of his dank den let in the sunlight and he was seldom seen striding about. He had no living relatives—at least none has been found as this is rumored—and a sympathetic soul, who called on him every few months, found his dead body. There was no indication that any theft had been committed, and seemingly no incentive for the crime. It is one of those haze-wrapped episodes of the great city where the recluse is left to follow his own mysterious ways.

In a smaller community he would have been a town character and his eccentricities would have been neighborhood gossip. His approaching figure would have been used to frighten the bad boys and girls.

In New York few even knew he was alive.

Just about a year ago, one of the strangest cases of a city recluse came to light. He had been living for years in a hotel in the turgid center of Manhattan. For years he had been a tenant of the place and generally managed to pay his rent. He left his rooms only when in search of food. Sometimes he would beg this and generally he would return with a sandwich or a slice of pie, to eat it in his rooms. His sole friends were the pigeons that fluttered about his windows to get their share of the crumbs.

One day he was found dead. Already, he had become known as "the uptown hermit"—a paradoxical epithet, if ever there was one. They found, as usual, that he had a fat bank account and had been starving himself for months when he might have had plenty.

Don't ask me why! There was no one to inherit his money and no purpose that anyone could discover for hoarding it. Some call it "city madness."

Certainly Manhattan has its share of croneish old women and ragamuffin old men who go lonesomely, through the streets in tattered raiment, mumbling unintelligible something to themselves. Many are said to have comfortable fortunes. And scores of the most disreputable beggars have been found to be fairly wealthy when taken into police court to answer charges of beggary.

Just the other day the "old blind couple" disappeared from the neighborhood of Times Square. The "blind man" was always sed about by the most dejected of old women. It seems that he wasn't blind at all, but had a shrewd way of feigning blindness. Their chief standing ground was the neighborhood of the cut-rate ticket offices—Joe Leblang's and Grey's Drug Store—and they were generally to be found there during the rush hours of the evening.

The police finally took them in, exposed the man's fakery and ordered them off the street. The story goes that they have been able to retire to a nice store over on the East Side.

Double Murder Follows Double-Cross Of Pals

New York. —Sam Sacco came out of prison last year, where he had served five terms, determined to go straight. Sam had a bad record behind him, but a good many years of youth ahead, for his career as a gangster in the Harlem had lands had begun about the time he got his first pair of long pants.

Sam Sacco . . . was a model prisoner.

So Sam was a model prisoner. He knew they made time allowances for good behavior. There was nothing he didn't do to shorten that sentence—nothing, even to the betrayal of fellow prisoners who were planning an escape.

OPEN FORUM

IN MEMORIAM

Editor, The Herald: As a fitting tribute which I think the community in general will appreciate, will you please try to find space for the following anonymous poem and reprint it in "Memoriam" for our well-beloved little Theodora Glenney, 1916-1929?

The Rose Beyond the Wall Near a shady wall a rose once grew, Budded and blossomed in God's free light.

As it grew and blossomed, fair and tall, Slowly rising to loftier height, It came to a crevice in the wall, Through which there shone a beam of light.

Onward it crept with added strength, With never a thought of fear or pride; And it followed the light through the crevice length.

The light, the dew, the broadening view, Were found the same as they were before; It lost itself in fragrance new, Breathing its fragrance more and more.

Shall claim of death cause us to grieve, And make our courage faint or fall? Nay, let us faith and hope receive— The rose still grows beyond the wall.

Scattering fragrance far and wide, Just as it did in days of yore; Just as it does on the other side— Just as it will, forever more.

Sent by a Camp Fire friend who cares. THEODORA GLENNEY, 1916-1929 AWAY

I cannot and I will not say That she is dead.—She is just away!

With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand, She has wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since she lingers there.

And you—O you, who the wildest yearn For the old-time step and the glad return,—

Think of her faring on, as dear In the love of There as the love of Here,—

Mild and gentle, as she was brave,— When the sweetest love of her life she gave

To simple things—Where the violets grew Blue as the eyes they were likened to,

And the touches of her hands have strayed As reverently as her lips have prayed;

When the little brown thrush that harshly chirred Was as dear to her as the mocking-bird—

Think of her still as the same, I say: She is not dead—she is just away! —James Whitcomb Riley.

any more convict pals and Rose won't have to wait for him any longer. For some men broke down the door to the Sacco apartment the other day and murdered them both.

When a bright spirit has sojourned here for a season, and then suddenly takes wing, and is no more seen among us, we cannot but gaze after it, and wonder from whence it came and whither it goeth. And perhaps we question the mission of the visitor more anxiously and inquisitively, in proportion to the shortness of the stay.

Like a dream, we ask, for its interpretation, or like a vision, we seek for its revelation. All is doubt, darkness, and uncertainty. Magician and astrologer fail to satisfy us, till, illumined by that knowledge which cometh from above, we are led to understand that every good gift is from Heaven, and designed for our benefit; and, although our eyes were holden, that we did not understand its true character, while we possessed it, yet, now that it is taken from us more clearly discern its value, and more devoutly thank the Giver for the privilege of enjoying it even for a season.

'Tis ever thus—'tis ever thus when Hope has built a bower, Like that of Eden, wreathed about with every thornless flower, To dwell therein securely the self-deceivers trust;

'Tis ever thus—'tis ever thus, that, when the poor heart clings, With all its finest tendrils—with all its flexile rings— That godly thing it cleaveth to, so fondly and so fast, Is struck to earth by lightning or shattered by the blast.

'Tis ever thus—'tis ever thus, with beams of mortal bliss, With looks too bright and beautiful for such a world as this One moment roved about us their angel lightnings play, Then down the veil of darkness drops, And all has passed away.

'Tis ever thus—'tis ever thus, with all that's best below, The dearest, noblest, loveliest, are always first to go—

'Tis ever thus—'tis ever thus, with creatures heavenly fair, Too finely formed to bide the brunt more earthly creatures bear; A little while they dwell with us, best ministers of love, Then spread their wings, we had not seen, and seek their home above.

'Tis ever thus—'tis ever thus, with all that's best below, The dearest, noblest, loveliest, are always first to go—

Excess acid sickness—GET RID OF IT! Sour stomach, indigestion, gas. These are signs which usually mean just one thing; excess acid. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. Too much acid is making food sour in the stomach and intestines.

The way to correct excess acid is with an alkali. The best form of alkali for this purpose is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Just take a spoonful of this harmless, almost tasteless preparation in a glass of water. It works instantly. The stomach becomes sweet. You are happy again in five minutes! Your heartburn, gas, headache, biliousness or indigestion has vanished!

Know Phillips Milk of Magnesia and you're through with crude methods forever. It is the pleasant way—the efficient way to alkalize the system; to relieve the effects of over-acidity.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia has been standard with doctors for over 50 years. 25c and 50c bottles at all drug stores. Be sure you get the genuine.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered trade mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

PHONE LISTING CLOSES AT NOON ON SATURDAY

The summer issue of the telephone directory goes to press at noon next Saturday, according to announcement today by Manager W. B. Halsted of the Manchester Exchange and will contain more listings for telephones in this exchange than ever before. There has been a steady and substantial increase in the number of telephones locally, and throughout the state as well, since the current directory is the largest ever issued.

In announcing the closing date of the directory Manager Halsted stated that after May 4 it will be quite impossible for the company to accept additional listings or add listings of telephones contracted for later than Saturday. He urged that all patrons of the company who wish any change in their listings to write or call the business office of the company so that the desired change, or addition, may be made.

He added that persons contemplating having telephones installed should contract for the service before the closing of the directory, otherwise the telephone will not have a listing in the next directory.

Call It The Reward of Earnest Effort or call it what you will—the fact is you have given me cause for deep pride, in your recognition of my efforts. . . my efforts in introducing modern laundry methods to give you perfect laundering service.

Since the time, about a year ago, when I purchased the Gordon Laundry, several hundred more women of Manchester homes have learned the economy in cash, in health and in time, of using my service. Today, double the number homes of Manchester are now having all of their laundry washed beautifully by us.

For instance, many women, who heretofore used to drudge every week in the back-breaking labor of heavy washing now find it a joy to let us give them our perfect "Damp Wash" Service for only 85 cents—for 25 pounds of wash—including everything in household and personal linen. Others prefer our beautifully fluffy, soft dry service. Anyway no matter what the service is, here's a laundry for you, modernized to serve you exactly as you want. That more and more women of Manchester now depend upon us for laundering, is a trust I am gratefully appreciative of, and I pledge you my honor to continue to render at all times a laundering service as fine and clean and careful, as modern practice, and my years of specialized experience can make possible.

Second Big Chief Charles Curtis, who has a bit of Indian blood in his veins, got a fine send-off and a lusty cheer from this band of redskins when they visited the capitol in Washington.

WAPPING

There will be a meeting for all who are interested in tennis playing this evening. The meeting will be held at the parsonage at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Julian West who has been staying with her daughter for some time went Sunday to visit her son, Howard West, in Rockville.

The joint meeting of the teachers of Union, Wapping, Rye street and Pleasant Valley schools was held at Union school last Wednesday afternoon.

All schools of the town began on Monday, on daylight saving time. Transportation facilities for High school and grade pupils was the determining factor in reaching this decision.

A public supper will be given at Wolcott chapel this evening at 6 o'clock by the Junior Girls Mission Circle of South Windsor.

At a short business meeting of the Congregational church, which was held at the close of the morning service last Sunday, the following delegates were elected to attend the Hartford East Association

Edison Offers Scholarship To Find His Successor

Orange, N. J., April 30.—With the expressed hope that an "unusual opportunity and an unusual youth" can be brought together and eventually produce a successor to Thomas A. Edison, electrical wizard, Charles Edison, son of the inventor, announced today that his father has offered a free college scholarship to the high school or preparatory school student who gives the best answers to one of the elder Edison's famous questionnaires.

NOON STOCKS

New York, April 30.—The industrial and specialty stocks were carried forward on a confident wave of speculative buying at the beginning of trading today, in sharp contrast to yesterday's opening period, when prices dropped off 1 to 3 points on the fear of a new tie-up in the money market.

The high-flying Utilities and Specialties forged to the front as the leaders in the forward move. United Aircraft jumped 10 points to 147 1/2 and new gains of 1 to 4 points were scored by American and Foreign Power, St. Joe Lead, Murray Body and Allied Chemical.

The governor of the Federal Reserve Board characterizes the present market as an "orgy of speculation," and similar harsh words are employed by other critics of the market.

DAUGHTERS SPEEDING TO DYING FATHER

Chicago, April 30.—Miss Stella McCord, Mrs. S. W. Jasper were speeding by train today on the last lap of a race by water, air and land to the bedside of their dying father, M. A. McCord, at Newton, Ia.

Leaving the S. S. Baltic in New York Sunday afternoon, the daughters winged westward in an airplane, reaching Lansing, Ill., late last night. They sped thence by automobile to Chicago, arriving in time to catch a train pulling out at 11:30 p. m.

The sisters were on a Mediterranean cruise when they received word of the illness of their father, who formerly was mayor and postmaster of the Iowa town.

Told in New York that the father could last but 18 hours, they took off in an airplane put at their disposal by Fred L. Maytag, washing machine manufacturer and intimate friend of Mr. McCord.

RICH GIRL & POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

MILDRED LAWRENCE meets STEPHEN ARMITAGE when he rescues her fox fur from a thief. Their friendship grows until PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, tries to lure him away from her. HUCK CONNOR becomes infatuated with Pamela and she plays both men. Her brother, HAROLD, is in love with Mildred, who tries to keep him from gambling with Huck's crowd.

When Stephen continues seeing Mildred, Pamela has her discharges and also turns a thief against her by making a check. She is trying to marry Harold for his money. Bitter at Mildred, Stephen permits Pamela to maneuver him into an engagement when she tells him that is the only way she can break with Huck.

Huck commands Harold to prevent Pamela's marriage under fear of exposure concerning a forged check. Harold says he can't force Pamela so Huck plans to dispose of Stephen's fur. He arranges for him to steal a firm car, and the detective arrests him after finding a roll of bills, a gun, and the auto keys which have been planted in his room.

Stephen calls Harold and asks him to bring Pamela to his cell. She refuses to go or even send a word of sympathy and Stephen is in despair. But as soon as Mildred reads of his arrest she goes to see him and promises to try to get him out. She tells him that she will not say how she gets him out, but she will try to help her clear Stephen but he dares not. Soon she has another worry when a threat comes to her over the phone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"Listen, sister," Mildred heard, "this is a friendly tip to lay off tryin' to make a thing out of my insides. See? It ain't healthy to know too much. Get me? An' there ain't gonna be no second warning."

The strange voice clipped off crisply and before Mildred could collect her startled wits to form an answer she heard a bang that told her the wire connection was broken.

Her head was in a whirl as she turned back to her work. She was not fool enough to underestimate the danger that threatened her. Whoever had put Stephen in jail would not stop at anything to protect himself, she knew.

Her fingers refused to type the correct business letter she sought to finish. She could not work until she had calmed herself.

"I'm not afraid," she told herself courageously, but the echo of that cold, brutal voice mocked her.

"Any way, Harold is giving in," she reasoned. "He must be if they're afraid I'll make him talk."

She wondered if Harold had told of her attempts to coerce him into a confession. It hardly seemed likely.

Reading her mind back over the past week, Mildred recalled that on several occasions she had received an impression of being followed when she was with Harold. The impression had been too vague to disturb her. She had put it down to nervousness and an overworked imagination.

But now she was convinced that someone had been spying upon her. Her fingers trembled as she slid a new sheet of paper and her typewriter and began the letter afresh.

She realized that matters had come to a crisis. The cowardly threat she must give Harold one more chance to confess before she went to Stephen with what she knew.

After that, whatever Harold did, she must take the consequences. The thought of what they might be terrified her, for Mildred had heard enough of underworld methods to know that she might pay with her life for her interference.

For a moment she was tempted to save herself, but then she remembered that she had been urging Harold to face a danger he seemed to fear as much as death itself for the sake of justice. What right had she, who had pleaded courage, to shrink when the same demand was made of her?

But to pit her courage against utter ruthlessness and villainy? Suddenly she put her head down on her typewriter, shaken and overcome.

Her employer came out of his office a short while later, observed that she appeared greatly upset and inquired what was wrong. Being denied an explanation, he decided she was ill and advised her to go home for the rest of the day.

Mildred was glad to go. She wanted to be near her mother—the only protector she had.

But as soon as she reached home she telephoned from place to place trying to get in touch with Harold. She had to content herself with leaving a message for him at the Judson Hotel.

Her mother hovered about anxiously while she sat at the telephone, not satisfied with Mildred's excuse for leaving her work. The girl's white face and dilated eyes alarmed her. In spite of the "headache" Mildred claimed, she did not appear to her mother to be ill.

It was 6 o'clock before Harold called her up.

"I want to see you. It's terribly important," she said breathlessly.

"After dinner?" Harold suggested. He had just returned, and Westchester, where he'd been dragged by some friends who told him he looked as if he'd been grown in a mushroom cellar and wouldn't let him off, though they later regretted their insistence. Never had anyone played a poorer game of golf than Harold played that afternoon.

"Can't you come immediately?" Mildred urged.

"I've just come off the links,"

Here Are Prize Winning Essays On Prohibition

Miss Elena Burr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis St. Clair Burr of West Center street, and a junior in the Manchester High school was the winner of the first prize in the essay contest conducted by the Women's Christian Temperance Union on the subject of temperance and law enforcement. Miss Burr received a prize of five dollars and in addition one dollar for winning the class honors. Her essay in full appears below.

Miss Eva Koehler, a senior, at present with the graduating class in Washington, D. C. won second honors in the High school competition and in addition will receive a dollar additional class prize. Miss Koehler is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Koehler of Griswold street.

Miss Muriel Tomlinson, a senior High school student received honorable mention. The judges were Mrs. Lois B. Klinefelter, Rev. F. C. Allen and Mrs. Robert P. Taylor. It is estimated that fully 800 essays have been written by children of the seventh and eighth grades in the different Manchester schools. Announcement of the winners in these classes will be made in the near future.

The essays follow:

TOTAL ABSTINENCE AS A HELP TO THE NATION

By Elena Burr

Total abstinence is a help to the nation economically, socially and morally. Economically, alcohol is wasteful; socially, destructive; and morally, degrading. Surely a problem affecting our lives so vitally is worthy of more than superficial consideration.

Let us see what enforced abstinence resulting from prohibition has done for our country. It has brought about a far-reaching and most significant economic change. Before the Eighteenth Amendment was added to our Constitution approximately two billion dollars were spent annually on intoxicants. This sum covers only what was directly wasted on liquor; the indirect cost probably equalled if not exceeded this amount. Indirectly, it was responsible for the loss of the time, health, productive capacity, and even the lives of the drinkers. Society had to pay for the care of criminals, paupers, insane people, and other victims resulting from alcohol's effects in lessening wages, coarsening the tastes, lowering the standards of living, and curtailing the market for legitimate commodities. Citizens had to pay taxes to support law enforcement, which resulted from the liquor power's domination of politics.

These two billion dollars, which previously had been squandered on drinks that destroyed and brutalized the useful channels. The demand for legitimate commodities has increased, and new industries have sprung up everywhere. Abstention has made men more dependable. Mr. A. H. Scott of the Red Motor Car says, "Prohibition has raised the credit of practically every human being in the United States."

"Prohibition in the United States," by D. Leigh Colvin, Chapter XXV.

Prohibition has greatly elevated the social life of the people of our country, particularly the working class, which is the backbone of the nation. Alcohol has always been a curse to any nation, because the strength of a nation is dependent upon the integrity of its citizen. The effects of intemperance is more striking than the history of Rome. In the days of the Republic when the Romans were abstemious, Rome was the most powerful nation in the world. Under the Empire, however, as an example of the citizen, the power and glory of Rome vanished from the earth.

Abstention from alcohol means sanity and a sane life without affecting others. Never in history has an intoxicated man been as dangerous as now, for such a man driving an automobile is a potential murderer.

Indulgence in alcohol is liable to affect future generations. A single

The WOMAN'S DAY

Young Jane Thurston, daughter of the famous magician, hasn't quite decided whether to go out for a career of "magicing." Like her father, or stage singing and dancing, we read in a day's interview given out by young Jane.

We also interviewed Miss Jean Trumbull, younger sister of Florence Trumbull, John Coolidge's fiancée, christened a new motor plane.

The evening papers advertise Isadora Duncan in dance repertoire. Just as one becomes excited, remembering Isadora's dramatic death a year or so ago, one reads in smaller type that it is her pupils who are doing the dancing.

And here we read that Margaret Sagster, granddaughter of her famous writing grandmother by the same name, is new editor of "Smart Set."

Nice Job!

A 14-year-old Chicago grammar school girl is involved in a wild auto ride in which one boy was killed and his three companions went to jail. Two of the companions were girls, Coletta, 14, and Gladys, 18. Coletta naively told how they got "some moon in a place near the schoolhouse where all the kids get in." went to a roadhouse where they danced till three, "and had lots more booze," then started out joyriding. The car was driven over an embankment.

Just one of many little stories in the day's news to make one wonder at the low body dars. As a parent in these complex topsy-turvy days!

George Did It!

George Bernard Shaw has a little revolving hut in the garden of his home in St. Lawrence, England. The hut is fitted with vitra glass that lets in all the sun rays, the hut revolves with the sun, so that the writer's back is constantly to the light while the hut is filled with sunlight.

One's first reaction to this is apt to be something to the effect that men are inventors, pioneers, have the courage to create, or have created for them, the unusual things, while a woman waits for fashion to give the edict.

One's yet—the first umbrella, I believe, was first hoisted by a woman, and there is a woman in our own country whose all-glass home is the bait for hundreds of tourists.

Both Of 'Em!

Speaking of tourists and bait, a Boston woman recently forced the city to remove the only old hitching post in the city from before her door because it was receiving constant publicity, and she was beset by tourists.

It is probably true that individual comfort and convenience is more important to women than the preservation of history and mellow traditions. For that matter to men, too, isn't it? A rather human trait.

FINE BIRTHDAY GIFT

Tulsa, Okla.—William Ramsey celebrated his twenty-first birthday by appearing before Judge Frankgo by violating the prohibition amendment. Ramsey explained that he was through with the liquor business and had only returned it to get money enough to enter an aviation school. "I hate to sentence a man on his twenty-first birthday," said the judge, but I'll let you off with the lightest sentence the law allows—60 days in jail and a fine of $100."

TOO MUCH FREELY

Detroit.—Mrs. Freely Carter dealt too freely in kicks, scratches and bites. So her husband, Alex Carter, filed suit for divorce. He also charged in his petition that Mrs. Carter sent dishes very freely in his direction to emphasize disputed points during an argument.

The Question

One stops to wonder whether Jane and Jean and Isadora's pupils and Miss Margaret would have attained any sort of fame sufficient to their own right, if they hadn't happened to be connected with more famous people.

Colonel Lindbergh pulled down the windows of his car at Ambassador Herrick's funeral because he was cheered and stared at. Thousand of people who hardly knew Herrick's name attended the funeral because "The Flying Fool" would be there.

And when Gordon Craig's magnificent "Macbeth" was produced in this country his name meant more as Isadora Duncan's self-revealed lover than as a great artist in his own name.

Funny world, this! We talk at great length about individualism, and yet all of us are inextricably attached to somebody or other who makes our fame, our happiness, our peace, our everything much more than any of our own puny and futile efforts.

Alcohol has the same degenerating effect on spiritual activities toward the moral sense. Religion and drink simply can not go together. Many a nation has fallen because debauchery set in. The loss of religion, of spirituality to a nation is immeasurable.

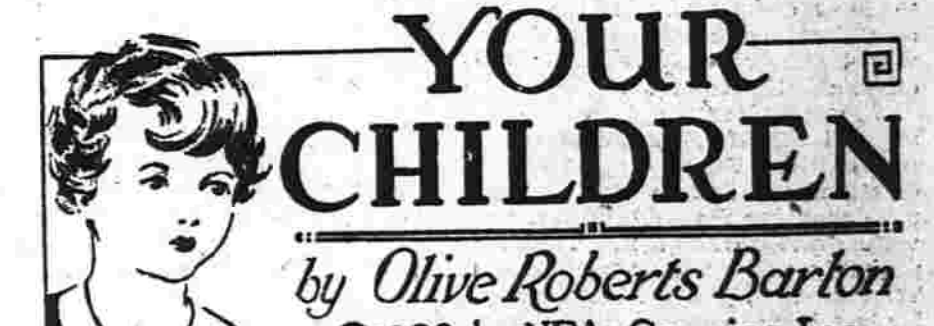

And now, let me show you that total abstinence is necessary to peace and prosperity among nations. The degrading effects of alcohol cause the dominant instincts of the mind to be lowered to the base of the brain and brutal instincts hold forth. Drink thus becomes the mother of the most violence, of the riots, of anarchy, of destruction. The close relationship of mankind must broaden in order that nations be brought near together. If drinking does not subside, a nation's attitude toward the other will be, "We will be destroyed if we do not destroy our neighbors. They are lying in wait for us." How can such conditions prevail? It is inevitable that something must be done soon. What? The answer is "have total abstinence." Imagine in what a perfect world we would find ourselves—less jails, less reform schools, less institutions for the insane, less crime, less poverty, less burden. How Utopian would our nation be! Let us all, therefore, strive for the motto, "Total Abstinence by 1935."

NEW GIRDLES

New dress foundations, as corsets now are called, come in the most astonishing fabrics. Made of real lace and ribbons or of satin or crepe with insets of lace or printed chiffon, they are decorative enough to be worn atop a frock instead of under it.

CHARTREUSE VOGUE

Chartreuse is the favorite for colored blouses with suits this spring. One of flat crepe is bricked with melon pink and a soft brick red. Another is of chartreuse crepe, very finely accented with a melon pink square yoke. There is a bit of real lace across the front V-neck.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton ©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Cartoons? What do I think about children looking at the comic strips? Someone asked me, so here is my reply.

Yes, by all means. Let them look at them all they want. If they make them laugh, so much the better. Parodies on life, they serve their purpose. What would life be without its parodies and comedies for all of us? And I can't think of anything funnier—can you? We need no censors for our comics.

Once I heard an educator pull a long face, if one can hear anyone pull a long face, about children learning too much "sophistication" from the funny papers.

I thought he was hard up for something for a lecture. If children are sophisticated they get it from real news of real life, not from pictures of the pranks of people who fall out of balloons or smash china on each other's heads.

Children have sense. They don't take things too seriously as some of their fearsome inhibited elders do.

When people get too high brow to laugh at a movie comedy, or hear a joke, or look at a comic magazine or a funny, then—well, perhaps I'd better not say it. Who am I to judge? But, like the Scotchman at Palm Beach, I can think, can't I?

I never wanted my children to grow up too mealy-mouthed to have a good laugh at anything. They get so much of the sober, serious, cultural thing in school, they need a dash of the other.

Humor is not cynicism. If there is any danger of the younger generation having too much humor, I haven't heard it. That they are in danger of becoming cynics, I have. In that T. N. T. lies our greatest menace to safe natural development.

And here is a strange thing: people who have a normal, healthy sense of humor are never cynical. Which do you prefer?

Skepticism is growing. It seems to be the price we pay for advanced civilization. There is a big question looming just now. Are we growing too thoughtful, too analytical for happiness?

My answer is "yes"—unless we cultivate the habit and cultivate it assiduously, of throwing serious things off for a few minutes now and then to have a good laugh.

Yes, I'd certainly allow the children to look at the comics.

YANKEE JINX OVER ATHLETICS SEEMS TO BE SHAKEN AT LAST

A's Won Only 5 Out of 22 Games Last Year But Have Beaten Huggins' Crew Four Times Already; Laced Them 10-1 Yesterday.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, April 30.—Having neatly parried a few in Philadelphia with the aid of his chin, the good Mr. Huggins was frank in admitting upon his return to town today that the New York Yankees faced the most violent season the club has known since it began winning pennants back in 1921 and then forgot to stop.

"The club that beats the Philadelphia Athletics will win the pennant," said he, brightly using a phrase that was good back in 1898. The crack in his bromide, true enough, but it tells a story in ten words. It means that, in this gentleman's opinion, it is altogether possible that the Athletics will do no worse than first. He still had a hangover from that ten to one defeat the Yanks took in Philadelphia yesterday, so he neglected to discuss the infernal complex to which the Athletics were alleged to be addicted. Mr. Huggins is very charitable that way.

Boys Get Lecture

The complex, as a matter of fact, was supposed to have been buried for all time on Friday in one of the most unusual ceremonies ever witnessed on a ball field. According to the story as I get it, the entire Philadelphia Ball Club was herded into its dressing room while the Yankees were at batting practice, the assumption being that Cornelius Mack didn't wish his impressionable young men to absorb too much atmosphere while Ruth and Gehrig were in their swinging.

Mr. Mack has not admitted that such was his intention. In fact, he has been at some pains to intimate that he took the boys inside to give them one of those fatherly harangues so dear to the heart of the good, old camp.

It, therefore, must have been only a coincidence that when the bell rang, signalling the end of the yankee hitting period, the Athletics reappeared on the scene. Mr. Ruth was stealing an extra moment at the time and the pitcher, noting the re-entry of the Philadelphia outfit, grooved one. Mr. Ruth smote it over the fence. Mr. Gehrig then felt the urge and the pitcher laid one in for him, too. His drive hit the fence and the Athletics were presumed to have been duly chastened by the display.

Instead, they won the ball game, beating Pennock, the New York ace, and altogether comforted themselves in a manner that suggested that form of inferiority with which the average book agent is so noticeably handicapped.

Should Have Won All

The club won only five out of twenty-two with the yanks last year, a performance that staked the Yanks to the pennant. So far this season, it has lost only two of six and ought to have been arrested on both occasions. The first of these saw Haas lose two flies in the sun and a perfect ball game behind Jack Quinn. On Saturday, Simmons hit one off the premises with three on, tying the score in the eighth inning.

After that, it should have been hard for the Athletics to lose and, in fact, it was. They had to make three errors in the ninth before they succeeded.

If anything was to convince them that inferior tendencies were theirs, that ninth inning should have done it. Instead, they came out yesterday and got ten runs on eight hits, whereas the Yanks got one run on six hits. In the eighth, two hits were good for five runs and Cochrane added the final indignity by stealing home.

No, Mr. Huggins wasn't discussing other peoples' complexes today. He is very considerate that way.

BOXING SCIENCE NOT APPRECIATED.

Boxing today is no longer what it used to be. The day of science seems to have passed and the man with skill and all-round ring generalship is no longer properly appreciated.

The sport has reached a stage where a boxer must have a real punch to be popular. Fans no longer desire to see two clever boys battle their way through ten rounds free from knockdowns although admittedly possessing considerable science.

Fandom has reached a stage where it craves more of the "knock-down, drag 'em out" type of brutal combat. To be sure, if a boxer happens to have a bit of science in addition to a punch, all the better. That is the reason why our own Bat Battalino of Hartford is so popular with the vox populi. He invariably gives them what they crave, a knockout. However, this ever-present expectation of the fans, stands Battalino at an unfair disadvantage. If he doesn't win by a kayo, some of the boys hint that he is slipping; and if he does, then there are plenty ready to boo up with the old familiar cry of "setup."

The effect is that the boxing game in general is not advancing to a higher scale, but rather just barely holding its own if not actually back-peddling a few turns. Boxing promoters with first consideration toward their own pocketbooks, have naturally been forced to heed to popular demand and build up his cards with boxers whose principal asset is slugging ability rather than general all-around ring science.

All this is not by way of gently approaching the fact that many boxing fans right here in Manchester expected far too much of Frankie Busch when he engaged in his first bout in this vicinity last week in Hartford. They had read he had been a former sparring partner of Jack Dempsey and had fought Bill Stripling. Consequently, many of them, for no real reason at all, went to the fight expecting to see Busch beat his opponent to a pulp in the early rounds.

Even though the Manchester boxer managed to win by a technical knockout at the end of the sixth round, just because he didn't look over-and-above impressive during the early part of the fight, some were inclined to give him a panning. All of which leads to the time-worn fact that home town talent is not fully appreciated.

There have been many other examples of this fact. Busch's case is only a pebble on the beach. Consider Jerry Fay, for instance. Because of the "riding" he used to get from the fans over at Mt. Nebo for failing to whale the old apple out of the lot every other week, Fay was never a big sensation here. Yet, when he went to Grove City College, he worked his way up the ladder of fame until he was selected as the best all-round athlete in the Tri-State District.

Only a couple of seasons ago, Manchester basketball players had to go to Plainfield before their work was sufficiently appreciated to warrant the financial risk of bringing them back to a Manchester surface for a season. Jack Kelly is having the same trouble right now down in his home town of Waterbury. He has grown unpopular simply because the Brass City fans expect too much of him. A match between he and Mike McTigue is in the offing but probably will be staged in Hartford where Kelly's work has long been appreciated.

Moral: Let's not be too selfish.

PEPPING UP THE BRAVES

Perhaps the influence of Pat Collins, left, and Joe Dugan had something to do with the fact that the Boston Braves still top the National League. You know, Collins and Dugan are former members of the New York Yankees and are used to playing with a winning ball club. Anyway, the Braves won their first three games—wonder of wonders! Their latest feat is two straight wins over McGraw's haughty Giants. And here are Collins and Dugan in their pretty new uniforms.

DISSATISFIED CLERK: Look here, sir! I've been doing the work of three people for some time now, and I want a raise. EMPLOYER: I can't give you that, man, but if you'll let me have the names of the other two, I'll sack 'em!—Humorist.

MUTUAL AGREEMENT

Two young men had met in a park and had become casual acquaintances. Suddenly one of the two sighted two women coming along. "Ah," he said, "here comes my wife with some old hag she's picked up." "Fancy that now," said the other. "Here comes mine with another."—Tit-bits.

Chocolate Kayoes Ryan; Bass' Victory Disputed

Gans Beats Reno; Schmeling Sails Today for U. S.; Ducks N. Y.—Apice Wins; So Does Sonnenberg.

New York, April 30.—Kid Chocolate, the colorful Cuban bantamweight who fights Fidel La Barba, retired flyweight champion, here on May 21, took on Tommy Ryan, McKeesport, Pa., featherweight, in a tune-up bout at the Broadway Arena in Brooklyn last night. But two punches was all the practice the Cuban got.

The fight lasted one minute and fifty-five seconds. Ryan went down for a count of nine and then another left hook put him out for the count.

Question Bass' Win

Philadelphia, April 30.—Although Benny Bass was awarded the decision over Johnny Farr in their ten-round bout here last night, the decision was unpopular and many fans thought the Cleveland featherweight should have been given the verdict over the local boy. The scrap was hard-fought in almost every round, Farr being dropped to one knee in the seventh.

Max Ducks N. Y.

New York, April 30.—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight who was to sail for Berlin today for Montreal, will be met in the Canadian City by William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden. Carey, who will promote the proposed match between Schmeling and Paulino Uzcudun for the Milk Fund in New York, June 27 will attempt to persuade Schmeling to through with the match. Schmeling is said to be reluctant to enter New York State lest he become involved in further legal difficulties with his repudiated manager, Arthur Bue-low.

Apice Again Winner

ment held here last night under A. U. auspices. Boston scored two victories, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh one each and Montreal none. The winners included Tony Marino, Pittsburgh, and Parice Apice, of Providence, national junior 112-pound champion.

Sonnenberg Wins

Chicago, April 30.—Bringing his flying tackle into play, Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, here last night defeated Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., in straight falls.

Other Fight Results

At Philadelphia.—Jack McVey, New York negro, outpointed Vincent Forgiione, Philadelphia middleweight, 10.

At New York.—Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles negro, won decision over Joe Reno, of Trenton, N. J., 10. Reno substituted for Charles Rosen.

At Boston.—Big Boy Rawson, Boston heavyweight, knocked out Hambone Kelley, also of Boston, 1.

Chicago Cubs Defeat Cincinnati Reds 4-3

Johnson Easy for Mackmen; Gray Wins Fourth Start of Season; Grimes Hurt.

By LES CONKLIN.

New York, April 30.—Supporters of the Chicago Cubs had cause for cheer today in the showing of Pitcher Charley Root against Cincinnati yesterday by his 4 to 3 win over the Reds.

The veteran Clarence Mitchell pitched the Cardinals to a 7 to 3 triumph over the Pirates in the only other National League game played yesterday. Burleigh Grimes, Pittsburgh hurler, was taken out of the game after his bare hand was struck by a line drive.

Henry Johnson, who usually finds the Athletics easy pickings, was knocked out as the Mackmen mastered a crushing 10 to 1 defeat on the Yankees. The Athletics New York's hit-and-walk play, Haas and Simmons clouting home runs.

The Chicago White Sox achieved the dizzy heights of fourth place by swamping Cleveland, 13 to 4, for their third straight win.

Sam Gray, pitching ace of the St. Louis Browns, is the first big league hurler to win four games this season. He gained a 3 to 2 decision over Vic Sorrell of Detroit in ten innings.

LORD-VILLA WINNER TO CLASH WITH BAT

Reed Also Faces Tough Task in Jimmy Picardi of Boston; Balance of Card.

If Eddie Lord defeats Pancho Villa of New Bedford in the start bout at Foot Guard hall in Hartford Thursday night, he will earn a "shot" against Bat Battalino in the open-air at Bulkeley Stadium this summer.

The same statement applies to Villa; that is, the Lord-Villa victor will be matched with Hartford's eminent featherweight who has just joined the ranks of the blissful married. Villa's showing last week when he outclassed Nick Christy of Bristol shows that Eddie has a busy night's work out for him.

Eddie Reed, the local bantamweight, who has won twelve consecutive bouts, is in the semi-final of eight rounds, meeting Jimmy Parcardi of Boston who last week defeated Sundolfo Diaz of New York at Foot Guard.

Eddie expects to make it win number 13, but he has no easy schedule in meeting Parcardi, who on his three Hartford visits has beaten Buster Nadeau, Frisco Battista and then, last week, Diaz.

This is the rest of the card: Mickey Blaine, Indian Orchard, vs. Zeke Mazier, Hartford, six rounds at 135; Sindulfo Diaz, New York, vs. Jimmy Liano, Springfield, four rounds at 145; Joe Dacey, Hartford, vs. Billy McCorkindale, Holyoke, four rounds at 142.

LEGION PLANNING MANY ACTIVITIES

Will Take Part in Memorial Parade With Drum Corps; To Sponsor 4-H.

The regular meeting of Dilworth-Cornell Post No. 102, American Legion, was held last night in the Legion rooms. Among the business disposed of was a contribution to the fund for the furnishing of the American Legion Ward in Fitch's Home, Noroton; voting to take part in the Memorial Day activities with the attending of the Memorial Services on Memorial Sunday at St. Mary's church in a body; the presentation of a Past Commander's charm to Past Commander John Penland; and the presentation of the Past Commander Clarence E. Bissell Cup to Commander Lorch.

The Boys' baseball team was enthusiastically discussed by the legionnaires who hope to have the town represented by the best baseball team possible to have from the talent in town, but to do this it will be necessary to have full cooperation of the boys and leaders of all boys teams. This is good advertising for the town as well as an education for the boys. The Post has arranged for eleven boys to attend the Citizens Military Training Camp which seems to be the top figure from town.

The drum corps, which has held weekly rehearsals all winter, announces that from this date to Memorial Day there will be two rehearsals a week and that on Memorial Day it has offers to parade in the morning at other nearby towns as well as to participate in the local afternoon services. The drum corps has grown to a membership of thirty-two instruments with an aim of increasing to forty pieces.

The attendance prize last night was won by John Hartnett. The prize for next meeting amounts to $4.35. The Post intends to sponsor a A-H club and arrangements are being made for a public meeting at an early date with outside speakers.

TOLLAND

The Study Club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Daniels with a good number present. A paper was written and read "Progress in Land Transportation" by Mrs. Charles Gunther. A reading was given by Mrs. Walter Button. During the social hour games and refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Daniels, assisted by Mrs. William Senk, Sr., and Bertha M. Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Newman had as Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Chase and son of Burnside. Mrs. Gertrude Gaffney and daughter Shirley of Hartford, George Newman and daughter Althea and Miss Dora Genesee of Rockville, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowler and daughters of Hartford, William Bowler, Jr., of West Willington, Mrs. Mabel Morganson and son Frank of Tolland.

The all-day sewing meeting of the Union Missionary society will be held Thursday, May 2 with Mrs. John H. Steele. All interested are cordially invited.

Mrs. Harold Clark and little child of West Hartford have been recent guests of Mrs. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Green, Sr., of the River district.

Thirty-two relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doyle of Tolland Avenue Sunday to celebrate the ninety-first birthday of Mrs. Doyle's mother, Mrs. Mary Ryder. There were children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren present to enjoy the occasion. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, Herbert Wood, and Mrs. Jean Vanderville of New Britain; Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson Gowers and two children from West Hartford; Mrs. Mary Mulligan, Eleanor Bowers and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kennedy of Burnside; Herbert Kennedy of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson and two children, Nelson and Elva of South Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Shearer, Viola and Agnes Shearer of Manchester; Mrs. Ernest Cooley, Kenneth and Donald and Mrs. Knapp of Townsend, Vermont; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doyle, Elmer Doyle, Eldred Doyle and Miss Elva Berry of Tolland; the engagement of Miss Elva Berry and Eldred Doyle was announced at the birthday party. Mrs. Ryder had money, flowers and several miscellaneous gifts.

Theaters

PARSONS, HARTFORD
"Blossom Time" Coming
Theatergoers who have never seen "Blossom Time" one of the outstanding musical triumphs of all times, and those who annually wait for its appearance, will have cause for delight in the announcement that the all new and superior "Blossom Time" which has been breaking all previous records, these last few months in Chicago will come directly from its Mid-West triumph to the Parsons Theater for three days, commencing Monday night, May 6.

While other operettas and big musical productions are steadily being produced, and almost as quickly fade from the theatrical horizon, dear old "Blossom Time" continues merrily on its way, increasing in popularity every year. This season's famous operetta is celebrating its seventh year on tour in America, while the continental version of the famed musical play is now in its fourteenth consecutive year in central Europe, where it is looked upon as one of the musical classics of the modern theater.

The tour of "Blossom Time" this year is highly significant, for it is being made in conjunction with the Franz Schubert centenary. In case there are some playgoers who may not know it, this popular success is based upon the life, romance and music of the famous composer. In view of this the Schubert firm under whose direction this years tour is being made, built a super production with all new scenery and costumes and supplied it with a cast which is said to be the best that has ever played the celebrated operetta.

Genevieve Naegele, Herbert Lyle, John Charles Gilbert, Robert Lee Allen, Ivan Serrals, Nancy Sheridan, Elsa Lanz, Erba Robeson and Denova are among the outstanding personalities in this year's super "Blossom Time." Miss Naegele, Allen and Gilbert have been in it for the last three years, while Miss Robeson and Serrals were in the original New York company seven years ago. Lyle was the outstanding hit of the record-breaking "My Maryland" last year.

OH MR. SMITH--I'VE BEEN WANTING TO SEE YOU SO MUCH, THE VERY FIRST TIME I SEEN YOU I SAID TO MYSELF, 'RUBY, I SAYS, THERE'S A REAL MAN CAN GET A POOR LONE WOMAN LIKE ME HAS SUCH A HARD TIME IN THIS CRUEL WORLD.

I CAN JUST SEE THAT YOU'RE A MAN OF LOTS OF EXPERIENCE AND THAT YOU'VE GOT A WONDERFUL BRAIN. OH, I COULD TELL IT SOON AS I LAID EYES ON YOU.

YES, M, I GOT A BRAIN.

YOU COME TO THE WRONG HAND-OUT, LADY. I'M BROKE. YOU WORK THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STREET. I'M WORKIN' THIS'N.

HEE! HEE! YOU WILL HAVE YOUR LITTLE JOKE, WON'T YOU, MR. SMITH? BUT YOU MUST COME UP TO MY HOUSE FOR SUPPER TONIGHT. I NEED YOUR ADVICE. BAD.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

You can't always trust a pet dog. It's liable to give you the run-around.

SENSE and NONSENSE

It is the girls who "are easy on the eyes" that are causing most of the eye-strain these days.

Glady: "What shape is a kiss?" George: "Give me one and we'll call it square."

Men who pet dears are not animal trainers.

"Now, remember, my dears," said Mother Raccoon to her children, "you must always watch your step, because you have the skin the college boys love to touch!"

"My dear, these cakes are hard as stone."

"I know. Didn't you hear her say 'Take your pick,' when she handed them round?"

Next to a secret, the hardest thing to keep is a beautiful complexion.

Hubby—"Say, this pudding is only mediocre." Wifey—"Oh, no, dear. You're mistaken. It's taploca."

Small Boy—"Pop, what's those things on the cow's head?" Pop—"They are the cow's horns."

Cow—"Moo-o-o." S. B.—"Pop, which horn did the cow blow?"

Dum: "Why do they always call a sailboat 'she'?"

Bell: "Because the rigging costs so much."

Dum: "No, because they make a better showing in the wind."

Favorite remarks at various ages:

At fifteen: "Let's go!"

At twenty: "Give me a chance and I'll show 'em."

At thirty: "I'll live to see the dawn of a new day. In a few years the people will wake up and demand their rights."

At thirty-five: "I'd be rich if I'd stayed single."

At forty: "I'm sick of reformers."

At forty-five: "What of it?"

At fifty: "Thank God I've got a good bed."

At fifty-five: "The human race isn't worth saving."

At sixty: "I believed that once."

At sixty-five: "It won't work."

At seventy: "The world has changed."

"Did you ever hear anything so perfectly wonderful?" exclaimed the daughter of the house, as the phonograph ground out the last notes of the latest thing 't jazz.

"No," replied her father, "I can't say that I have, although I once heard a collision between a truck load of empty milk cans and a freight car filled with live ducks."

Happiness is not so much in getting what you want as in not wanting what you can't get.

Have the boss swear by you—not at you.

Crime is a disease that calls for arrest cure.

VETER GOLF

A WATER HAZARD Like all good golf courses, the letter golf links has a WATER hazard—a BASIN full. Par is seven and one solution is on another page.

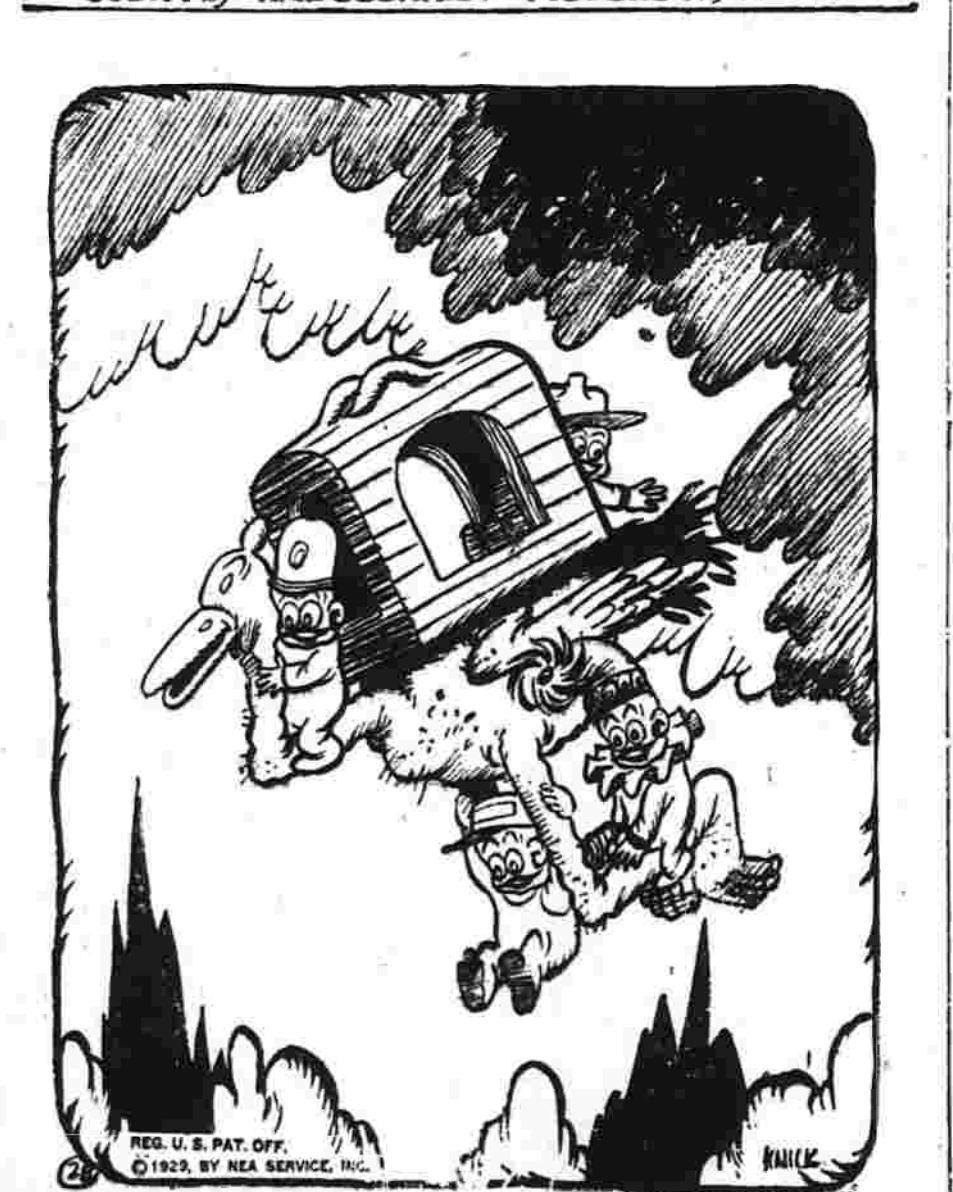

WATER BASIN grid for a word search puzzle.

THE RULES.

- 1—The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, C to H, O to E, W to N.

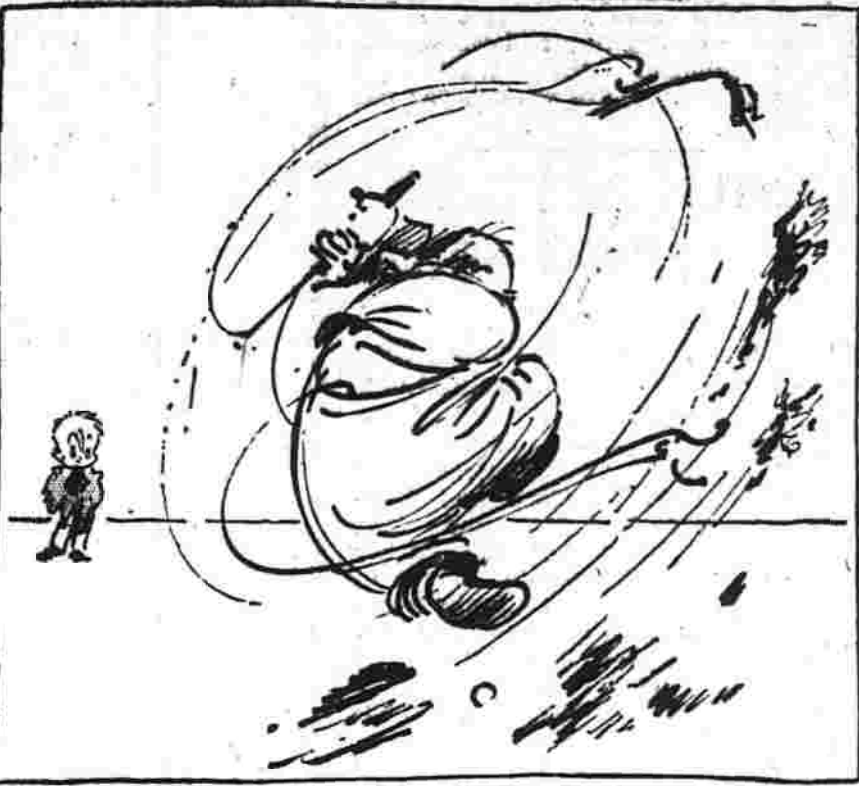

"Does that mule ever kick you, Sam?" "No, s'fh," replied the negro, "but he often kicks jes' where ah was."

THE TINYMALES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) "Well, goodness me," woe Scouty cried. "This is a most unusual ride. Our cabin toppled through the air, and we were doomed to crash. I felt that everything was over, but here we are, real safe once more. The Googoo is our real friend. He stopped a sudden smash. "You bet," snapped Coppy. "You are right! We've all been through a mighty fright. Why, when our cabin rope broke, I was frightened as could be. But now, what once looked very black, seems brighter on this old bird's back. Just how he caught this cabin like he did I cannot see. The Googoo looked back and said, "Oh, shucks, I simply used my head. You traveled through the air so fast I had to act real quick. I swooped down low and held real taut, and that is how I finally caught your funny little cabin. It was quite a clever trick. "But, don't feel that you're safe

STUDENTS VISIT HOME OF FIRST PRESIDENT
 High School Party Spends Monday at Arlington and Mount Vernon.
 Washington, April 30.—Monday was Mount Vernon day for the Washington tourists from Manchester. The trip to Mount Vernon is always looked upon as one of the happiest parts of the excursion. A special train of three cars left Pennsylvania avenue at 1 o'clock Monday noon, going by way of Arlington.
 Here we stopped and had a walking trip through the National Cemetery and made our way to the grave of the Unknown Soldier. After an inspiring lecture on the steps of the Amphitheatre, overlooking the city of Washington, we gathered around the grave of the Unknown Hero. It was easy to imagine that underneath that granite and marble slabs there might be resting a Connecticut boy, and many moist eyes looked upon the lecturer. After the talk was over, we sang one stanza of "America the Beautiful" and continued our serious way out the west gate.
 The trolleys took us on through Alexandria. Here we visited Christ Church, Carlyle House and Washington Masonic Lodge rooms. We passed the big national memorial to Washington being erected by the Masonic order of the country.
 It was 3:30 when he arrived at Mount Vernon. Here we spent two hours of pleasant strolling around the beautiful grounds and visited all of the open rooms in the Mansion.
 The steamer Charles McAllister was loaded with more than a thousand of them from high schools, when we started back up the Potomac to Washington.
 Last evening we all went to Fox theater for the presentation night. Monday forenoon we spent at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and climbed the Washington Monument. Quite enough for one day.

SURPRISE FOR NIELSENS ON SILVER WEDDING
 Relatives and Friends Give Party to Local Couple; Local Milk Dealer.
 More than 75 relatives and friends from Hartford and Manchester surprised Mr. and Mrs. Christian Nielsen, of 685 Parker street, with a party in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary, last night. Philip Johnson, of Oak street, on behalf of those present gave to the thoroughly surprised couple, a gift of money and a bouquet of Garnet roses.
 This morning the couple received congratulatory messages and telegrams from Sweden and Denmark. A beautiful silver set was among the gifts sent from "the old country."
 Refreshments, brought by the guests, were served. Card games and a general good time followed, until a late hour. Mr. and Mrs. Nielsen were married on Pearl street, this town, by Rev. R. Nielsen, of Hartford, and have lived in Manchester ever since. Mr. Nielsen being owner of a dairy, distributing milk locally.
