

ROGERS SCORES CHAMBER HERE FOR INACTIVITY

Local Hartford Booster Says Body Has No Program; Stirs Merchants to Com- munity Advertising.

After an impassioned speech by Willard B. Rogers, in which he declared that the Manchester Chamber of Commerce was without any program or definite plan of action and urged the necessity of more intelligent planning and of boosting and advertising the community as a whole, the Merchant's Division of the chamber last night adopted a resolution looking to united action by all the business elements in the town in the direction of community advertising. Mr. Rogers handed the Chamber of Commerce without gloves but obviously with constructive intent.

The meeting was held at the school street Rec and a buffet luncheon was served by Osano. When the business session had been called to order by President William Rubnow and Charles McCann had made a report on the Merchants Week recently closed. Mr. Rubnow introduced Mr. Rogers, who as a pretty much everybody knows is advertising director of the Hotel Bond, Hartford, and is actively connected with many committees and groups fostering public improvement and progress in the Capitol City.

Mr. Rogers opened his address with a few remarks to the effect that he was going to speak as he found things and to the point. "Not so long ago I set out to reorganize the Hartford Chamber of Commerce, sponsored in my work by Harry Bond, I met with all kinds of opposition, including most of the banks and nearly all the manufacturers of the town. It took me seven months in accomplishing my purpose. "No Chamber of Commerce" "Manchester has no Chamber of Commerce tonight, Cheney Brothers are not to blame, if Manchester wants a live Chamber of Commerce they must get it. I am with them the present set-up refuses to recognize existing conditions. In reorganizing the Hartford Chamber a definite program has been adopted and specific funds have been set aside to spend in specific ways. The

HEARING ON TRACK JUNKING MONDAY

Utilities Board to Listen to Public's Views on Trolley Abandonment Here.

The date for the public hearing of the Connecticut Company's petition to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to replace the Crosstown and Manchester Green trolley car lines here with buses, saving time, next Monday afternoon. It will be held in Room 41 at the State Capitol in Hartford.

The text of the petition was made public through the Manchester Board of Selectmen today from a copy they received from Henry F. Billings, secretary of the Utilities Commission. It was signed by J. K. Pufferford, president and general manager of the Connecticut Company, and forwarded to the Commission on May 16. It follows:

"Your petition, the Connecticut Company, a corporation chartered by the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut and located in New Haven in said State, respectfully represents and operates an electric railway in the town of Manchester from the grade crossing of Main street and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad tracks, along said Main street to Center street, and along said Center street to Manchester Green.

"That your petitioner operates cars over said tracks.
"That the State of Connecticut and the Town of Manchester propose to reconstruct the pavement on Main street between said railroad crossing and Center street which will entail large expenditures on the part of your petitioner for track reconstruction and pavement work.
"That wherefore your petitioner prays that under Chapter 88 of the Public Acts of 1925 of the State of Connecticut after hearing hereon, your honorable commission will consent to the abandonment of the aforesaid track and to the operation of buses from a point at or near said grade crossing with the New Haven Road, along said Main street to Charter Oak street and along said Center street to Man-

DANCING GIRLS FIGHT A DUEL

One Wounded in Shoulder and Taken to Hospital—First of Its Kind in Hungary.

Budapest, May 21.—Women invaded a new domain of man today when two beautiful Hungarian dancing girls met on the field of honor and fought a duel with swords.

The combatants were Mary Radvany and Susanne Winghardt. Susanne was severely wounded in the shoulder. As she felt the blood spurt from the wound she exclaimed: "Good Lord, I cannot wear evening clothes any more."

Then she fainted and was taken to the hospital. The adversaries parted without a reconciliation. The challenge resulted from jealousy over a man friend.

This was the first duel between women in the world on record in Hungary. The combat took place at the fencing academy.

SUPREME COURT R. R. DECISION CAUSES DEBATE

Insurgents in Congress to Ask for Repeal of Esch- Cummins Act; Fear Rates Will Go Up.

Washington, May 21.—The Supreme Court's decision in the O'Fallon railroad valuation case may be followed by a Congressional fight for repeal of the Esch-Cummins Act under which the Interstate Commerce Commission was directed to fix rates to yield all roads a fair return on their investment.

While the effect of the decision in the so-called "fifteen billion dollar law suit" was still being debated by lawyers today, Congressional insurgents voiced their alarm lest the decision should ultimately send railroad rates sky-rocketing to new high levels.

Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa, a member of the "Insurgent Bloc" declared that demands for government ownership of railroads will follow a pushing up of railroad valuations to such a point.

While the high court failed to lay down a rule of thumb method for valuing the nation's railroads, the commission's valuation of the O'Fallon railroad being set at $100,000,000, the decision was hailed in railroad circles as a tremendous victory.

The commission must now revise its valuation methods, and the only way it can do so in considering production costs is to revise them upward, it was declared. This view

EARL OF ROSEBERRY DIES IN ENGLAND

Celebrated 82nd Birthday Two Weeks Ago—Was a Former Prime Minister.

London, May 21.—The Earl of Roseberry, described as the last of the great Victorian statesmen, and former prime minister of England, died early today at his country estate, Durand, near Epsom.

Indian, 107, Has White Wife

When the 107-year-old Indian chief, White Horse Eagle, took his white wife out for a stroll along a Berlin street recently they created a sensation. Despite his age, the chief is still hale and hearty as a man half his years. The chief and his wife, who are engaged in a tour of Europe, are shown above in a Berlin street.

China Again Menaced By Bloody Civil War

Another deluge of Civil War supporters of the Nanking government menaces China today. The Nationalist (Nanking) government is beset by three rival military groups.

Airplanes of the Kwangtung military faction bombed Nanking, killing seven persons, according to Shanghai advices.

Wangsi rebels captured Canton, but later were reported to have withdrawn. The Cantonese are

SENATOR SCORES POWER INTERESTS

Norris, in Long Speech, Warns Nation to Be On Its Guard—His Charges.

Washington, May 21.—Warning the nation to be on its guard against the power trust, Senator George W. Norris (R) of Nebraska, resumed today his expose of the widespread ramifications of public utility interests in politics, the first of education and the newspaper world.

Norris gave the Senate a complete resume of all power company activities, brought to light within recent years. He tol of money spent in local and national elections, of money spent to influence children in the public schools and of money spent to buy newspapers.

STORMS HALT PLANNED HOPS OVER OCEAN

Two Crews Ready for Trips to Rome and Paris—Will Start as Soon as the Weather Clears.

Ambitious aviators who are prepared for a series of daring air exploits were chafing at the alter today as bad weather throughout the eastern section of the country threatened to keep them earth-bound.

At Roosevelt Field, N. Y., and Old Orchard Me., two crews of trans-Atlantic flyers were praying for an abatement in a steady drizzle of rain. Unless there is a decided improvement in atmospheric conditions later in the day neither plane will take-off.

The crew at Roosevelt Field consists of Armeno Lotti, Jr., Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre, who hope to fly to Paris.

MAY HOP TOMORROW

Old Orchard Beach, Me., May 21.—Delayed but not discouraged by reports of thick weather that blankets the entire North Atlantic, Roger Q. Williams, pilot of the Bellanca monoplane Green Flash, and his navigator, Lt. Lewis Yancey, today made last minute preparations for their flight to Rome.

Williams said he had hoped for good weather today for an early start, but predicted that the necessary delay would not be for more than 24 hours.

Dr. James Kimball, meteorologist at New York, flashes us the 'all clear,' we'll be off," declared Williams.

As interest in the projected flight increases, word came today of the possibility of a trans-oceanic race to begin from this famous hopping off place.

Reports received here were to the effect that Armeno Lotti, Jr., is coming here from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., with his French plane and pilot, Jean Assolant, to start their flight to Paris simultaneously with Williams and the Green Flash crew.

NEW 'DRY' COMMISSION STARTS WORK AT ONCE

British Submarines As Plane Carriers

London, May 21.—For some time past British submarines have been carrying fighting airplanes, it was learned by International News Service today.

Details concerning the unification of these two most formidable weapons of war are naturally being kept secret.

By an ingenious arrangement the big turret that hitherto has been used for accommodation of a powerful gun is converted into an airplane carrier.

It has been perfected to such an extent that the plane can be shot off within a few minutes after the submarine reaches the surface. The machine used is of British make and is known as the Paranal Pato. It is equipped for both observation and fighting purposes.

An Italian designer first perfected the device for making this combination of underwater and air-craft possible. Then France jumped at the idea. Now Great Britain has followed suit.

Thus, while their delegates are apparently striving for disarmament at various Geneva conferences, three of the great European naval powers have combined these two deadly weapons of war into a single fighting power on exhibition.

A model of the machine now being carried by British submarines will be on view at the international air exhibition at Olympia in July.

President Calls Members to Washington for Next Tuesday—Ten Prominent Men and One Woman to Probe Causes of Ameri- can Lawlessness and Try to Find a Remedy—Both Wets and Drys Cautious About Making Comments.

Washington, May 21.—Little time is to be lost in getting President Hoover's new law enforcement commission to work.

The president decided today to assemble the members in Washington next Tuesday. The ten men and one woman who are to probe the causes of American lawlessness and endeavor to find a remedy for it will meet with Mr. Hoover around the White House in a large hall, and hear from him just what he expects they are to accomplish.

It will be up to Mr. Hoover to define the scope of the inquiry, for none of the members have been given any preliminary charts. It is expected that the commission will reiterate his expressed belief that the present high peak of law breaking cannot be attributed wholly to prohibition, although that phase of it holds popular interest more than any other.

Washington, May 21.—The Wets and the Drys got out their microscopes today and subjected President Hoover's new law enforcement commission to searching scrutiny.

The private views, as well as the public careers and utterances of the eleven who make up the commission, will be examined minutely before the partisans on both sides of the prohibition question get through. For while President Hoover constantly reiterates that this is not a prohibition commission, but a commission to investigate all phases of lawlessness, politically-minded Washington looks at it only through prohibition spectacles.

No Radicals. The first intensive scrutiny of the new commission gave the scrutineers but little for their pains. There are no outstanding anti-prohibitionists on the commission, and neither are there any drys of the fanatical type, although several of those named have a record of support for prohibition that dates way back.

The off-hand opinion of Washington is that President Hoover did a good job on a difficult assignment. Ten of the commission are lawyers of more than ordinary eminence, and all are accounted "judicially minded." The eleventh is a woman sociologist, Miss Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe college.

ATTACH TUNNEY'S LAND IN A HEART BALM SUIT

Property in Stamford Held; Woman Sues for $500,- 000 Alleging Breach of Promise.

Stamford, May 21.—Stamford real estate owned by Gene Tunney was attached today in a suit for $500,000 for alleged breach of promise. Papers were served by Deputy Sheriff Michael Ryan, of Stamford, at the request of Deputy Sheriff John J. Malley of New Haven, with a New Haven attorney, came here for the purpose. At the same time Stamford banks and the two banks in Greenwich received papers that would garnish any money Tunney may have on deposit there.

The real estate attached consists of two separate parcels, one of 75 acres and one of four acres. Tunney purchased the land a year ago and announced his intention of building a home there. The land is assessed at $100,000.

RECTOR OBJECTS TO OUR ANTHEM

Huntington, Conn., Clergyman Says 'Star Spangled Banner' is Too Warlike.

Huntington, Conn., May 21.—The Rev. George Hotten, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, this morning said the "Star Spangled Banner" is too "warlike" and he doesn't want it sung during Huntington's patriotic program on Memorial Day.

The pastor's protest had evoked a storm of controversy today. It is being opposed by every patriotic society and every church congregation in town. But he is adamant.

NEED STATISTICS FOR CRIME STUDY

Experts Meeting Today to Study Problem; Ask Cen- sus Bureau to Help.

Chicago, May 21.—As a means of combating crime, delegates today at the final sessions of a two-day meeting here of the American Crime Study Commission acted to obtain more complete statistics on general crime throughout the United States. They proceeded on theory that to reach a solution of the problem it first must be ascertained just what the problem is.

Hollis M. Randolph of Atlanta, Ga., president of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association, was the first to suggest the necessity of getting accurate statistics on crime conditions and many educators, sociologists, jurists and penologists attending the convention endorsed his view.

FLEEING EGG SHOWER IS DROWNED IN CANAL

College Boys' Prank Ends in Tragedy—Pajama Parade Postponed.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 21.—The hilarity usually associated with the annual pajama parade at Rutgers University had turned to tragedy today due to the death of William J. Farrier, 19, during the height of the festivities last night.

Farrier and other members of the freshman class were being pelted with rotten eggs by the sophomores, according to the usual custom in the interclass fight. Farrier jumped into the Raritan canal to escape the shower of eggs and was drowned. He was a poor swimmer.

STOCKS REGISTERED BY ELECTRICITY

New Machine Does Away With Board Boys in Wall Street Offices.

New York, May 21.—A new electrically operated stock quotations blackboard called "The Telegigrapher" and capable of registering 100 quotations a minute was given its first test under actual market conditions in the uptown brokerage office of Sutro & Company today and to all appearances, was a distinct success.

Eventually these fast, automatically operated boards, will be in use in brokerage offices all over the United States, although for the next six months or more they will be in operation only in New York City.

No Board Boys. One of the features of the new board is that it will do away with the time-honored and picturesque board boys. It worked with amazing speed and accuracy, quoting prices on 800 different stocks. The quotations appeared on the board as rapidly as they were printed on the ticker tape.

UNEARTH PLOT TO BLACKMAIL MISS MORROW

Failed to appear. Meanwhile, Constance with her sisters Anne and Elizabeth and their mother were winging their way with Lindy from New York to North Haven, Maine. Upon their arrival there an armed guard was thrown about the morning estate and was being maintained today. This revealed the "Lone Eagle" was not seeking seclusion for himself and his bride-to-be but was engaged in a gallant endeavor to protect his fiancée's little sister from harm.

When Package Was Left. Unconfirmed reports had given the spot where the money was to be left as Grove street, West Roxbury, but Flanagan said today that it was Grove street, Westwood, a much more isolated location. Dead-end street Westwood and it was at the request of Chief of Police Peter J. Driscoll of Westwood that Inspector Flanagan was called into the case. Meanwhile Boston police were cooperating.

According to best information here, Constance will be kept under guard either at North Haven, Maine, or Englewood, N. J., which the Morrises may fly with Lindbergh within a short time.

The letter to the girl was understood to have contained a threat of torture as well as death, she being told that it would be of no use unless she notified the police or said that she could not raise the money for her father was known to possess great wealth.

Ambassador Morrow is still in Mexico City and when members of the Morrow family were advised of the plot against Constance they communicated with influential friends of the ambassador in New York. Police were notified, and private detectives were brought into the case.

Names of three women, in addition to Constance Morrow, whose lives were threatened, were given as Mrs. Curtis, wife of the famous governor of Massachusetts, Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, prominent in politics and club life of the Jay State, and Mrs. Larz Anderson, Boston society leader whose Italian palace, Back Bay is one of the show places of Boston.

The stone wall where the writer demanded that the money be left at the estate of the Joseph Balch, in Westwood, near the country home of Gen. Clarence E. Edwards, overseas commander of the 28th (Yankee) Division of the World War.

Nearly a score of police and private detectives were concealed about the place all day Saturday, Sunday night and Sunday night, it was learned but no one appeared.

The same vigil was maintained when three other women were threatened. The fact that the letter writer failed to appear in either of the four cases convinced police they said, that his main satisfaction was the writing of the letters rather than the hope of securing money or carrying out his wild threats of torture.

CRIPPLED POLICEMAN CARRIED TO COURTROOM

Bridgport, May 21.—Officer Joseph McCormick, of the Greenwich police force, was carried into Judge Isaac Wolfe's Superior Court room here today by fellow officers, and with a nurse at his side, faced Edgar Kane, 22, of New York, once a champion for Jesse Livermore, Kane appeared for trial on a charge of assault with intent to murder in connection with the shooting of Officer McCormick on duty in Greenwich two years ago, but when his case was called the state's attorney announced he had nolle prosequi. On the other hand Kane at once pleaded guilty to carrying a weapon and was sentenced to serve from three and one-half to five years in state's prison.

Immediately after the sentence was imposed, Policeman McCormick was carried from the court room. His wound, physicians say, has left him a cripple for life.

SENATOR SCORES POWER INTERESTS

(Continued from Page 1) the power trust interest when making ownership returns to the Post Office Department. Committed Perjury. An employe of the Chicago Journal perjured himself by claiming to own the interest in the paper, which actually was held by the power trust.

The State of Maine is controlled by the power trust and public utilities dictate its elections. The power trust controls Iowa and has revealed the enactment of a state utility law or the creation of a state utility commission. In Nebraska, the power trust has enacted a state law forbidding municipally owned utilities from operating beyond city limits while private companies are allowed to operate all over the state.

In resuming his speech today, Norris planned to relate other activities of the public utility trusts. He was interrupted by a loudspeaker which broadcast the latest "peace-time" speeches made in the Senate in years. It has been recorded only during filibusters.

NIGHT BANK DEPOSITORY BALKS; COP ON GUARD

Lock Goes Out of Commission But Clerks Stay on Job to Receive the Cash.

Just after the closing time of the Manchester Trust Company yesterday, when the usual test of the night depository near the main entrance to the bank was made, it was found that the lock would not work. The depository is used but little on Monday night, as the stores are closed on that evening but nevertheless, as soon as the trouble was discovered, arrangements were made to have two clerks remain on duty during the early part of the night to take care of deposits as might be brought to the bank, and a policeman was stationed in front of the building to halt any customer who might seek to make use of the depository.

This watch continued throughout the night and until the opening of the bank this morning. A sign, much more isolated location. Dead-end street Westwood and it was at the request of Chief of Police Peter J. Driscoll of Westwood that Inspector Flanagan was called into the case. Meanwhile Boston police were cooperating.

NEW DRY COMMISSION STARTS WORK AT ONCE

(Continued from Page 1) he will outline the scope of its work when it is assembled here the last of the week. The commission can hardly go beyond his instructions.

Both Sides Cautious. The Wets and Drys in Congress were cautious in their public comments today concerning the personnel. There are no many members of the commission whose views are not generally known but both sides were inclined to "wait and see" before rushing into print with statements that later might come back to haunt them.

Senator Jones, author of the five and ten law, said he would have made "other selections." However, Jones said several weeks ago that if he were naming the commission he would name only those who wanted to see prohibition a success.

Senator Borah of Idaho, said he considered it "a very able commission." The comment of both Wets and Drys generally was restrained. All of them seemed willing to "give the commission a chance."

Senator Sheppard (D) of Texas, author of the 18th Amendment, had no comment to make. The professional prohibitionists like F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon League, and Bishop Cannon, Jr., were out of the scene.

The association against the prohibition amendment contented itself with a statement saying that it would cooperate with the commission in every way possible to get facts.

ANOTHER FARM PARLEY

Washington, May 21.—The second conference between the House and Senate conferees on the new farm bill broke up this afternoon with the two branches of Congress as far apart as ever on the export debenture plan. The conferees will be resumed tomorrow but neither House or Senate leaders would predict an accord. Thus far House leaders have refused to arrange a vote in their branch on the debenture while Senate leaders have declined to arrange another vote at their end of the Capitol until the House expresses its will on the controversial plan.

"We will meet again tomorrow," said Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, head of the Senate conferees, "but I don't know why."

GANG WAR AGAIN

Chicago, May 21.—War among Chicago racketeers broke out again today and John Hand, once president of a laundry drivers' union indicted in the Federal court for "racketeering" and once named as the assassin of "Big Tim" Murphy, pioneer labor organizer, was found dead, the victim of a dum-dum bullet. He was found slumped over the wheel of his auto in a residential section of Cicero, western suburb.

EPWORTHERS PURSUE TREASURE, HANG BASKET

Start at S. M. E. Church, Wind Up With Visit to Greens at North End.

South Methodist Epworth League assembled at the church last evening and later divided into two groups under leaders and set off on treasure hunt in stocking directions. The trail led through various routes back again to the church where the treasure was concealed. A short business meeting was followed by coffee and sandwiches, served under the supervision of Miss Evelyn Beer and Wilbur Tedford.

The young people then filled up a fleet of automobiles and proceeded to the home of the Rev. M. S. Stocking on North Main street. The gifts of toys for Baby Greer, a handsome dress pin for Mrs. Greer and a book, "The Fruit of the Family Tree," by Wiggam. The Maybasket was in appreciation of the work Mr. and Mrs. Greer have been doing for the young people of the South Methodist church since his appointment as assistant pastor.

At the offertory, Mr. Keating sang "Pie Jesu" and at the elevation, Mrs. Roy rendered "Ave Maria." Mrs. Brennan sang "O, the Pribleness of Jesus" during the changing of the vestments and Mr. Breen "Face to Face" at the end of the mass which closed with Kern's funeral march, on the organ.

The funeral of Mrs. James W. Farr, Joseph A. Farr, Joseph J. Farr, Nicholas Farr, Felix Farr, Jr., and Dominic Sambogna, all cousins. Burial was in St. James's cemetery.

WOMEN OF COUNTRY CLUB PLAN OWN DAY

To Golf, Lunch and Play Bridge on Their Own All Day Tomorrow.

The women's golf and card committee of the Manchester Country club announces that plans have been completed for the regular Women's day at the club. The opening games of the season will be played tomorrow. Players entering the golf tournament may choose their own partners. The plan is to tee off at near 10 o'clock in the forenoon as possible. A light lunch will be served at 1 o'clock to the members who telephone for reservations this evening.

The card committee has arranged for card games at 2 o'clock in the afternoon for all women members. They are invited to attend the luncheon and bridge if the weather is unfavorable for golf.

Mrs. J. Clarke Baker is chairman of the golf section, and her assistants are Mrs. J. F. Cheney and Mrs. H. C. Alvord; Mrs. Charles J. Feiler leads the card committee and associates with her will be Mrs. Frank Gienney and Mrs. Frank Ripplin.

Officials of the "Telegraph" said this defect was not in the board and the lamps were remedied by casting beam lights on the board.

ABOUT TOWN

Memorial Lodge Knights of Pythias will hold its regular meeting at the Balch & Brown hall tomorrow evening. The second degree will be worked on a class of one, dates by the regular degree team in charge of Oscar Strong. Light refreshments and a social hour will follow the meeting.

Twenty-seven of the members of Lady Roberts Lodge, Daughters of St. George, went to Hartford last evening in celebration of the eighth anniversary of the institution of the lodge in Manchester. They partook of a delicious chicken dinner at the Windmill Tea room and later attended the performance at the Capitol theater.

The Beethoven Glee Club insignia, which was ordered some time ago, was received by Albert Robinson today and members may obtain theirs from him at any time.

WIFE CRACKS

MY HUSBAND IS NO SUGAR DADDY BUT HE HAS CONQUERED BELLS

OBITUARY

FUNERALS

Mrs. Teresa Farr. The funeral of Mrs. Teresa Farr, wife of Frank Farr of 120 Charter Oak street, who died suddenly Saturday night while walking in the meadow near her home, was held this morning at St. James's church. It was largely attended and there were three caissons of flowers.

Rev. Patrick Killeen celebrated the solemn requiem mass. Father F. C. McDonough was deacon and Rev. W. P. Reidy, sub-deacon. Five singers took part in the ceremony. Mrs. Claire Brennan, Mrs. Ernest Roy, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, James J. Breen and Arthur E. Keating. The service opened with two organ preludes by Organist Charles B. Packard. As the body was borne into the church the choir sang "Some Blessed Day" which was followed by the Gregorian mass in full.

At the offertory, Mr. Keating sang "Pie Jesu" and at the elevation, Mrs. Roy rendered "Ave Maria." Mrs. Brennan sang "O, the Pribleness of Jesus" during the changing of the vestments and Mr. Breen "Face to Face" at the end of the mass which closed with Kern's funeral march, on the organ.

The funeral of Mrs. James W. Farr, Joseph A. Farr, Joseph J. Farr, Nicholas Farr, Felix Farr, Jr., and Dominic Sambogna, all cousins. Burial was in St. James's cemetery.

Mrs. Harriet Rich. The funeral of Mrs. Harriet E. Rich was held at the home of her son at 257 East Center street at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Watson Woodruff, pastor of the Center Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in the West Cemetery. The bearers were Arthur Manning, Horace Kitchman, Arthur Hill and Palmer Brewer.

SEEK LOST REVOLVER IN HUNTINGTON CASE

Detective Hickey Sends Out Circulars to All Cities in New England; Gives Number. Hartford, May 21.—Circular letters have been sent to police in a number of New England cities asking them to watch for a Colt automatic revolver of .32 calibre, bearing the factory number 99114. The letters are signed by Edward J. Hickey, county detective. The revolver is believed to be the one used in the life of Walter Broadway Huntington, Harvard student, who was found dead in Windsor two weeks ago.

YOUTHS SENTENCED

Bridgport, May 21.—The adventures of a group of New York youths who entered Connecticut with a stolen automobile last March and entered into a running revolver fight with police of Stamford and Greenwich were continued here today when Judge Isaac Wolfe, of Superior Court, sent the entire group either to prison or the state reformatory.

Another Morelli, 19, received a definite reformatory term of five years and three months. Leigh McClenaghan, 19, James Graham, 17, and Nicholas Papparo, 10 received indefinite terms in the reformatory. Harry Swallows and William Watson were sent to state prison for one to three years. Morelli pleaded guilty to carrying weapons and assault with intent to murder. All the others were charged with carrying weapons.

OUT AFTER RECORD

Fort Worth, Texas, May 21.—The "Fort Worth" on to smash the refining endurance record of the Army plane, "Question Mark," had been aloft 4 hours and 27 minutes at 8 a. m., today the fourth refueling was made shortly before 7 o'clock this morning. Flying a single-motored rebuilt Ryan brousham monoplane that had been flown more than 80,000 miles, and with tiny hammock slung above the tailing tank for sleeping quarters, the hardy pilots, Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, are matching their skill against the more elaborately outfitted "Question Mark."

EMPLOYMENT-PAYROLLS

AMERICAN wage earners were employed in larger numbers during the first months of 1924 than at any time in two years. Their pay envelopes were the fattest since early in 1923. These facts are revealed by the government's monthly survey of general employment and payroll conditions. The index of employment for March was 98.6 compared with the base figure of 100 as the average for 1923. A gain of 5 per cent over the corresponding month one year ago is shown. Payrolls made an even more impressive increase, resulting in greater general purchasing power for commodities. Of the 12 great groups of industries eight showed gains in March over February and seven of them showed gains over March one year before. The heaviest increases were reported for iron and steel, automobile, structural iron work, non-ferrous metals, agricultural implements and electrical machinery. Employment in the lumber industry was unchanged from one year ago, while there were small declines for the textile, leather, stone, clay, glass and tobacco trades. It is notable that while factory production in the first quarter of 1924 surpassed all previous records in many important lines, employment was somewhat less than it was in 1923. This is direct result of heightened efficiency and the spread of labor saving machinery. However, practically no unemployment was reported this spring from great industrial centers. Labor replaced by machinery has been readily absorbed by many new lines and services which have sprung up in recent years with the advent of the automobile, radio and other modern activities.

AMERICAN wage earners were employed in larger numbers during the first months of 1924 than at any time in two years. Their pay envelopes were the fattest since early in 1923. These facts are revealed by the government's monthly survey of general employment and payroll conditions. The index of employment for March was 98.6 compared with the base figure of 100 as the average for 1923. A gain of 5 per cent over the corresponding month one year ago is shown. Payrolls made an even more impressive increase, resulting in greater general purchasing power for commodities. Of the 12 great groups of industries eight showed gains in March over February and seven of them showed gains over March one year before. The heaviest increases were reported for iron and steel, automobile, structural iron work, non-ferrous metals, agricultural implements and electrical machinery. Employment in the lumber industry was unchanged from one year ago, while there were small declines for the textile, leather, stone, clay, glass and tobacco trades. It is notable that while factory production in the first quarter of 1924 surpassed all previous records in many important lines, employment was somewhat less than it was in 1923. This is direct result of heightened efficiency and the spread of labor saving machinery. However, practically no unemployment was reported this spring from great industrial centers. Labor replaced by machinery has been readily absorbed by many new lines and services which have sprung up in recent years with the advent of the automobile, radio and other modern activities.

COUNTY Y. W. HAS FINE BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Annual Party Held at Highland Park Clubhouse, Lake and Mountain.

The annual birthday party of the Hartford County Y. W. C. A. was held at Highland Park Saturday afternoon with a very large attendance of executives and Girl Reserves in that section. At 3:30 No more beautiful day and no more beautiful spot could have been selected.

The headquarters was the Highland Park Community clubhouse, beautifully decorated by the Girl Reserves in that section. At 3:30 the party adjourned to a delightful spot under the trees by the side of the lake, near Mrs. Robert Dennison's log cabin, and held the afternoon meeting there. Sprit music was furnished by four girls from the Marlboro band.

The address of welcome was given by the county president, Mrs. Theodore Case of Granby. The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Celia Tovar, a Mexican girl studying at the Y. W. C. A. college in New Britain, who sang several songs and sang several Mexican dances and told about the women of her country.

At 4:30 adjournment was made to the home of Mrs. Lawrence Case where tea was served. There were many entertainers, Mrs. Katherine Halliday Howard, "cello" and Miss Grace Adams, piano. Some time was spent in the beautiful grounds and gardens, after which the Girl Reserves climbed the mountain, where there was a picnic supper at 7:30 and a beautiful ring ceremonial was presented.

OVERCOME BY GAS

Naugatuck, May 21.—Joseph Hurey, of Waterbury, and Edward Morin, of Prospect, Waterbury Gas company employes, were overcome by gas in a house on Greenwood avenue here today, and rescued by Policeman Richard Kelley to be taken to St. Mary's hospital, Waterbury, for treatment. They will recover. Doctors and Red Cross nurses rushed to the house when news of the affair was spread and the street was thrown into a turmoil.

OUT AFTER RECORD

Fort Worth, Texas, May 21.—The "Fort Worth" on to smash the refining endurance record of the Army plane, "Question Mark," had been aloft 4 hours and 27 minutes at 8 a. m., today the fourth refueling was made shortly before 7 o'clock this morning. Flying a single-motored rebuilt Ryan brousham monoplane that had been flown more than 80,000 miles, and with tiny hammock slung above the tailing tank for sleeping quarters, the hardy pilots, Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, are matching their skill against the more elaborately outfitted "Question Mark."

KELLOGG'S PACT AIDS PEACE PLAN

First Lord of British Admiralty Tells Why Parley Became Deadlocked.

(Editor's Note: Following is the second and final installment of an exclusive interview with the Right Honorable William C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the British Admiralty, outlining Britain's naval policy. Mr. Bridgeman is retiring soon, consequently this may be his last extended official utterance on the vital question of naval reduction.)

By HARRY R. FLOREY. London, May 21.—The Kellogg Pact for renunciation of war creates a more favorable atmosphere for an agreement upon naval reduction, in the opinion of the Right Honorable William C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the British Admiralty. Discussing the cruiser issue, upon the 1927 Geneva conference, he became deadlocked. Mr. Bridgeman, in an exclusive interview indicated today that an agreement might be possible along the following lines: The United States to be allowed to build more 10,000-ton 8-inch gun cruisers than Great Britain would build. But, under exceptionally favorable circumstances a 6-inch gun cruiser or a destroyer might be able to put an 8-inch gun cruiser out of action.

This is why Mr. Bridgeman considers any strict compilation of "paper parity" as a straining of the point. Parity between the British and American fleets will always be an approximate matter, and attempting to work it out too closely will only create unnecessary difficulties in trying to reach agreement.

FEAR LEVEE BREAK ON MISSISSIPPI

Memphis, Tenn., May 21.—The most threatening high water situation along the Mississippi and its lower tributaries this season developed today with levees at Mount Vernon, Miss., and Reel Foot Lake, ten miles below Hickman, Ky., gradually weakening. Several hundred men are reinforcing the bulwarks.

Z. E. Allen, chief engineer of the lower Mississippi levee district, and the levee board sent a telegram today to President Hoover asking permission to use 500 convicts from the Parchman, Miss., state farm, to slough the dykes at Mount Vernon. Gov. The Billie has offered the use of 300 convicts if the President agrees the offer will be accepted.

A slide of 105 feet long, and 13 feet deep at Station 3300 has weakened that levee until Engineer Allen expected it to break unless aid is obtained at once. The levee broke in 1927 and flooded Greenville, Miss., 18 miles away.

Whether the pedestrian gets an even break depends largely upon where he is bit.

BEETHOVENS SET FOR BIG CONTEST

Every Member at Final Rehearsal Before Tests in New York's "Garden."

Every member of the Beethoven Glee club, 43 in all, was present at the final rehearsal held last night in preparation for the concert Friday evening in Madison Square Garden in which 4,000 voices will sing before an expected audience of 15,000.

The winning quartet was composed of Ray Erickson, Ewald Matson, Paul Erickson and Herbert Johnson. Second prize was taken by Corwin Grant, Carl Matson, Ernest Benson and Ivan Nyquist.

The competing clubs include: Orpheus Glee club of Binghamton; Harmonic club of Boyertown, Pa.; I. M. A. Glee club of Flint, Mich.; Glee club of Nutley, N. J.; Portland Men's Singing Society of Portland, Me.; Male Glee club of Yonkers, Guide Chorus of Buffalo, Lederkrantz club of Scranton, Pa.; Concordia Society of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Apollo club of Middletown, City Glee club of Philadelphia, Orpheus Male Glee club of Denver, Col.; Peterborough, Canada; Somerville Male chorus of Somerville, N. J.; Apollo club of Asbury Park, Atlantic Works Men's Choir, Altoona, Pa.; Mendelssohn Glee Club of Waterbury, Conn.; Men's Glee club, Kingston; Glee club of the Oranges, Orange, N. J.; Men's Glee club of Mount Vernon, Beethoven Male Chorus, Manchester, Entropy Glee club, Lansing, Mich.; University Glee club, New Haven, Conn.; B. and O. Glee club, Baltimore; Montclair Glee club of Montclair, and the Ottawa Temple Choir, Ottawa, Canada.

The judges will be as follows: A. Tertius Noble, organist of St. Thomas church; Henry Gordon Thunder, conductor of the Fort-nightly club of Philadelphia; Dr. Hollis Dann, Department of Music, New York University; Dr. Arthur D. Woodruff, conductor of the Orpheus club of Philadelphia; William Armour Thayer, conductor of the Apollo club of Brooklyn, and Howard Hanson of the Eastman Conservatory of Rochester.

This is the first concert given by the Associated Glee clubs. Five hundred and forty men sang in the first concert at Carnegie Hall in 1924; 850 at the Metropolitan Opera House in 1925. In 1926 1,500 sang at the 1st Regiment Armory. In the same year 2,700 men sang at the Philadelphia Sesqui-centennial.

Francis B. Marsh, executive director of the association, has stated that a campaign is now under way for $500,000 to form a permanent and effective organization to intensify and extend the association's work from coast to coast.

MISS MORIARTY COMES TO AID OF KIWANIS

Will Sing in Big Minstrel Show in Place of Miss Sullivan, Suddenly Ill.

Several changes and additions have been made in the Kiwanis Minstrel program to be presented tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Jack Sanson, former manager of the State, will direct the orchestra in the pit. Miss Anna Sullivan, who was to have sung "Lover Come Back to Me," the hit of the musical comedy "New Moon," now playing at Broadway, was taken ill suddenly and will be unable to take part.

Fortunately Miss Arlyne Moriarty, who was originally scheduled to appear in the show but who was singing with the Fox Players at the Palace, Hartford, has made arrangements whereby she will take Miss Sullivan's place.

A Kiwanis Male quartet, comprised of Elmer Thienes, J. Clarke Baker, Fayette Clarke, and John J. Olson has been added to the program and will appear in a special number.

With the cooperation of Benjamin Von Pileski, manager of the State, a proper stage background is being built. Mr. Von Pileski also has furnished a special drop for the setting of the "Spirit of Kiwanis" act. George Ripplone is in charge of the scenery effects.

Taking the part of interlocutor, which he has filled so satisfactorily for the past two years, will be Clarence Quinby, High School principal. He promises several surprise acts and a program whose variety is sure to please.

The cause for which the minstrel is staged annually is a worthy one, providing as it does a two weeks' vacation for Manchester's underprivileged children at the Hebron Kiwanis Camp under competent and efficient leadership.

THIS ADDISON GOAT HAS HUMAN POINTS

Again The Herald's Addison correspondent "rings the bell." Samuel W. Plank, of this fair village," he writes, "has among his pets a goat and a cat. While resting after the arduous tasks of the day, it is often the custom of Mr. Plank to amuse himself watching the antics of his pets. Last evening he picked up the cat and began to stroke it. Came the dawn--no, the goat--a rushing round the corner of the house. Came, also the sound of a dull thud as the feline, describing a perfect parabola landed ten feet away, impelled by the force behind a perfect pair of horns.

That goat tried to climb on Mr. Plank's lap to be petted, the durn jealous creature."

MANCHESTER GRANGE MEMORIAL TOMORROW

Manchester Grange at its regular meeting in Odd Fellow's Hall tomorrow evening will hold a memorial service at which the following program will be rendered: Chorus singing of the hymn, "In Heavenly Love Abiding," reading of the Twenty-third Psalm and prayer by the chaplain; reading, "Love Triumphant," from Whittier's "Snowbound;" vocal solo, "Auld With Me;" Memorial address, Irving Wickham, master of Manchester Grange; roll-call of deceased members and decoration of the "Robert Sweetly Solemn Thought;" "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," by the Grange, "Crossing the Bar," and benediction by the chaplain.

TOLLAND

Mr. and Mrs. William Ayers, Jr., have been entertaining guests from New Jersey. Mrs. Ellen B. West who has been seriously ill is so much improved that she was taken on Monday to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Gunther, where she will spend some time to recuperate.

Several patrons of Tolland Grange will visit Stafford Grange this evening to witness the conferring of the third and fourth degrees on a class of candidates. Steve Bodnar of New York City spent the week-end with his family at their recently purchased farm home in Skungamug district.

Eugene Rudolph and family and Edward Rudolph of New York City are to spend several days with their mother, Mrs. Henry Wilkins. The annual speaking and spelling contest of the several schools was held this afternoon in the Hicks Memorial school.

The Study Club has held its last meeting of the season and next Friday evening the annual banquet will be held in Vernon Grange hall with members of Vernon Grange catering. Rev. Mr. Bell, pastor of the Methodist church, Hazardville, will be the speaker of the evening. The benefit whist and social for the school dental clinic held last Thursday evening was a great success. Twenty-five dollars was cleared which was encouraging to all who so interestedly worked for its success.

G. E. KEITH TO TELL OF PUEBLO INDIANS

Will Describe Own Visits to Ancient Tribes in Talk at Second Church.

George E. Keith, who with Mrs. Keith spent a week of their recent western trip in traveling among various tribes of Indians in Arizona and New Mexico, has consented to recount his experiences at the evening service at the Second Congregational church Sunday. The program, which bears the title "Indian Life in Picture, Story and Song," will be given under the auspices of the church missionary committee.

ANDOVER

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hilliard and son Henry attended the birthday party of Miss Dorothy Korpes in Hartford Friday evening. Miss Dorothy received many pretty gifts. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Lewis Phelps attended the Capitol club entertainment in Hartford last week. Burton Lewis has taken a position with the Pratt & Whitney Company in Hartford. Mrs. Helen Fitzgerald has received word that her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John H. Fitzgerald, has so far recovered as to be able to leave the hospital and go to her father's, Rev. Mr. Saxton, in New Haven, although it will be some weeks before she will be able to go to her home in Bay Ridge, L. I.

Out of town callers at A. E. Frink's Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Waldon Collins of Wapping and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Platt and son Douglas of Manchester.

William Smith and children are spending a few days with Mr. Smith's sister, Mrs. Charles Friedrich, before moving, into his home on the Long Hill road.

Charles Faulkner returned to his work at the railroad station Friday night after being home sick for a number of weeks. Rev. Russell O'Brien spent Saturday night at the home of Ralph Bass.

The Girls' League will serve a supper in the Town Hall Friday evening. The Ladies Benevolent society will hold its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Wright Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, D. S. T.

Miss Marjorie Whitcomb spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Whitcomb.

Misses Ella and Elizabeth Sumner of Hartford spent the week-end at their home here.

The schools in town held their field day exercises at the Center Monday. There was also a rehearsal of music for graduation at the hall under the direction of Mrs. Welles.

The choral club will meet with the Coventry Choral club tonight. Bolton Grange visited Andover Grange Monday evening and furnished two numbers.

Mrs. Elsie Jones attended the May festival at N. B. Normal school Wednesday. Miss Ruth Jones directed the singing.

The Ladies Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles Sumner Thursday. There will be a demonstration of bias bindings. The Coventry society is invited to attend.

Miss Mary Maybury spent the week-end at her home in Springfield. Miss Catherine Shay spent the week-end at her home in Fall River.

The state road is progressing rapidly. The steam shovel is working in the lot owned by Charles Sumner.

A teachers' meeting was conducted at the Center school recently under the direction of Miss Ida Belle Lacy.

Mrs. Elsie Jones acted as one of the hostesses at a young women's club meeting held at Willimantic Camp Ground.

Miss Florence Glenney spent the week-end at her home in Manchester. Mr. and Mrs. B. L. McCark and family of Hartford spent Saturday at their cottage.

A party of friends hung a surprise May basket for Mrs. Lillian Mack Friday evening. Games were played and the party broke up at a late hour. Cake and cocoa were served.

Several one-act plays are being rehearsed for the Grange. Anniversary night will be observed Friday night. Miss Winifred Lee and Miss Etha Massey were appointed as delegates to attend the Older Girls' conference in Stafford Springs Friday night and Saturday.

RICHARD BOLAND STILL IN CAPITAL HOSPITAL

Richard Boland, 18-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Boland of Wellington Road is still in Garfield Memorial hospital at Washington, recuperating from an attack of scarlet fever with which he was stricken while on the Washington pilgrimage with the senior party from the Manchester High school.

Young Boland was taken sick three weeks ago today shortly after the student party arrived in Washington. A day later he was removed to the hospital. Mrs. Boland said today that the last word she received from Washington informed her that Richard was able to be up and was making satisfactory progress.

The boy's family expect it will probably be at least two weeks before he will be able to return home. His mother said he would undoubtedly be home in time to graduate with his class next month.

BOLTON

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lawton and son Edwin of Hartford spent the week-end at their cottage. Miss Marlon Tears of Hartford spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lawton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Jones and son spent Sunday at Cromwell at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hart.

Miss Ruth Jones of N. B. Normal school spent the week-end at the home of her sister, Mrs. Elsie Jones.

SPEAKING OF PROPAGANDA

If those senators who are playing up the interest of the International Paper Company in various newspaper properties were as deeply concerned in striking at the roots of pro-corporation propaganda as they are in doing something sensational it is probable that they would concern themselves more with the intrusion of public utilities literature into the public schools, in the guise of text books, than with the newspaper angle of the problem.

There is considerable question about there having been any intention on the part of the International Paper Company to influence editorial policies through the holding of stock in various newspapers. At all events the company has an excellent alibi in the assertion that its purpose in making newspaper investment was merely to make sure of an increased market for pulp paper.

Those young men who are carrying on these maneuvers are soldiers. They have deliberately engaged in a calling of great peril—in which, in fact, peril is an essential and predominant part. Their lives are always at the disposition of their country.

When a military plane crashes and one or two or half a dozen lives snuffed out there is sorrow, to be sure, but instead of impatience along with it there is deep appreciation that such lives were given, as the lives of soldiers must be, for the safety and permanence of the nation.

Yet there is plenty of evidence that this very thing is going on in this country. The schools have been bombarded with public utilities propaganda—and some of it has been admitted by school authorities of receptive mentality.

THE LAW COMMISSION Announcement of the personnel of the President's National Law Enforcement Commission is complete enough evidence of what no thinking people had anticipated, that Mr. Hoover has never had any notion of permitting himself to be bullied by the dry lobbies.

There will be a good many who will attribute to the President especial courage in resisting the efforts to pack the commission with ultra-dry sentiment and aspiration.

mination to place the commission on a much higher plane than Dr. McBride or Bishop Cannon can comprehend. It is to be doubted whether Mr. Hoover ever gave one instant's consideration as to whether his appointees would be acceptable to this, that or the other group; he simply went ahead and chose the sort of men he believed would best work out the problem set for them—which is not to scheme out some way of making prohibition work whether workable or not, but to re-establish, so far as is humanly possible, respect for and observance of all sound law.

Of one thing we are assured and that is a reasonably liberal leadership of the new commission. George W. Wickersham, besides occupying a position close to the top of the American bar, is a conservative of the broader and more intellectual type. We are not at all sure that he will not prove quite as strong a chairman as would have Charles Evans Hughes, had the latter been able to accept the position.

That the President has selected an extremely able and fair commission is certain. It will also prove to be a working body. The nature of its duties naturally preclude the possibility of early results, but in its personnel it gives promises of preparing the way for extremely important reforms that have been long needed and which may well prove to be the most notable achievement of Mr. Hoover's administration.

AIR SACRIFICES

Those who view with impatience as well as sorrow the frequent tragedies of the air that result from mere sport and stunt flying will make a sharp distinction between such disasters and those which occur as the inevitable corollary of military aviation.

Those young men who are carrying on these maneuvers are soldiers. They have deliberately engaged in a calling of great peril—in which, in fact, peril is an essential and predominant part. Their lives are always at the disposition of their country.

When a military plane crashes and one or two or half a dozen lives snuffed out there is sorrow, to be sure, but instead of impatience along with it there is deep appreciation that such lives were given, as the lives of soldiers must be, for the safety and permanence of the nation.

PROFIT IN SEWAGE

Of very lively interest to those Connecticut communities which face the necessity of disposing of their sewage without contaminating the water courses is the experience of Charlotte, N. C. Down there, with a degree of enterprise not altogether common below the Mason and Dixon line, they started treating the town's collated sewage with bacteria to convert it into an odorless sludge.

When the city of Hartford finds out that it is wasting money in letting sewage flow raw into the Connecticut it may come out of its trance with a snap and hop to the business of converting its wastes into power. That is, if the power people don't somehow manage to have a monkey wrench into the machinery.

SUGAR DUTY

A great many guesses are being made at the President's position as to certain specific tariff schedules, and most of them are guesses indeed. While the guessing is going on, however, it is ours that one of the proposed changes not favored by Mr. Hoover will be the creation of a three-cent duty on sugar. If there is real distress among the beet sugar growers, who have been the active promoters of this thundering impost, nobody has had any ocular proof of it for a long time. And the addition of three cents a pound to the nation's sugar bill would be a load that would bring loud and violent protest.

The addition, of course, would be more than three cents a pound, for it is notorious that with every penny of increase in the price of a food commodity at the source, the consumer has to meet not only that penny but all the various percentages on it that are taken on the way down the line to the ultimate contributor.

AN EXPLANATION

The Herald is placed in the peculiar position of being compelled to disavow one of its own news dispatches. In a Washington news article yesterday there appeared this statement:

Theoretically the United States is supposed to get 2 1/4 per cent of Germany's reparations payments in satisfaction of American claims. Actually, however, France and Great Britain have gobbled most of the German payments through the reparations commission.

The Herald has no desire to be held responsible for such a statement as this, which is altogether untrue and was only printed through inadvertence. All payments to the United States on account of our claims have been made by Germany promptly and on schedule.

His crowning piece of luck came when he was given a special room for sleeping quarters, near the jail infirmary.

Washington, May 21—There may be prisoners somewhere in the United States who are made more comfortable than Harry F. Sinclair, but it probably would take something of a search to find one. One does not suggest that the multimillionaire oil man ought to be given especially severe treatment or even that the fact that he is a multimillionaire has won him any special favors.

When it comes to a matter of visitors, Sinclair again shares privileges above those of the ordinary prisoner. Whereas the regular inmate's friend, of other prisoners must talk through bars or across long tables with a jail attendant sitting watchfully at one end, Sinclair has his guests in the medical office. The regular visitor's day is Friday, but special details men have an exclusive visitors' hour between 7 and 8 on Sunday nights.

In the first place, of course, Sinclair avoided being sent to the workhouse. He was permitted to drive to the jail door in his own car, instead of riding over in a wagon with other miscellaneous wrongdoers.

Then he was assigned to what is easily the best job of any prisoner in the jail. Instead of doing his daily chore alongside embassiers, bootleggers, petty thieves and other prisoners his position as pharmacist associates him in a sunny, curtained room with a pleasant young physician and a pleasant and pretty girl nurse. Aside from some occasional pill-rolling, his duties are far from arduous.

Of course, Sinclair sometimes has to stand by as general handy man during an operation and operations aren't always pleasant spectacles, but he is not commonly regarded as a squeamish person.

Both the physician and the nurse have reported that Sinclair is a "nice man," so he won't be submitted to any indignities by his immediate bosses.

Having a white collar job, the multimillionaire prisoner is permitted to wear whatever clothes he likes.

When he had been made into a best seller he was shipped home. The other day the old fellow came back. When he had been here almost a week, I noticed a paragraph in a morning paper. The lion hunters had forgotten him and were seeking new game. He said a few words into the talking cameras and packed up and went home. Sie transit, etc.

where Sinclair at first slept between a couple of common and impetuous lawbreakers.

The oil man's food, as good as the jail provides, what is not based at all, according to those who have eaten it. The detail staff, mostly made up of office workers and including Sinclair, are fed on a menu somewhat superior to that of the general run of inmates. They all thrash on it. The great majority of prisoners eat in a mess hall containing the electric chair.

When it comes to a matter of visitors, Sinclair again shares privileges above those of the ordinary prisoner. Whereas the regular inmate's friend, of other prisoners must talk through bars or across long tables with a jail attendant sitting watchfully at one end, Sinclair has his guests in the medical office. The regular visitor's day is Friday, but special details men have an exclusive visitors' hour between 7 and 8 on Sunday nights.

In the pharmacy safe is a large supply of liquor. One only mentions that in passing, as an interesting fact, but the stuff certainly is handy in case anyone takes ill.

There are also many other comforts about jail life which Sinclair enjoys, but nothing in this story need necessarily be taken as a reflection on Major W. L. Peak, the jail superintendent, who discusses Sinclair's case quite frankly. Peak points out that the jail always needed a pharmacist, that Sinclair was the first registered pharmacist ever to reach the jail, that it was obviously the job for which he was most fitted, that Sinclair's new room is handy to the infirmary if he is needed at night, that prisoners attached to the main office are permitted to receive visitors in their office and that no one has any desire to parade Sinclair before newspapermen and the merely curious.

Nevertheless, no sentimental person need shed bitter tears over Sinclair's imaginary hardships.

When he had been made into a best seller he was shipped home. The other day the old fellow came back. When he had been here almost a week, I noticed a paragraph in a morning paper. The lion hunters had forgotten him and were seeking new game. He said a few words into the talking cameras and packed up and went home. Sie transit, etc.

New York, May 21.—Just to show you what a difference just a few years can make—Hell's Kitchen, which came by its rough name honestly, today boasts 200 children per block.

Another U. S. Team Invades England

Oklahoma 4-H Club Hopes to Return as World's Cattle Judging Champions.

Holland Williams, left, Forrest K. Burns, center, and Harold Woodson, right, will represent the United States in England for the title of world's champion dairy cattle judging team. J. W. Boehl, left, rear, will accompany them. E. R. Thompson, right, rear, is Woodson's adviser.

Stillwater, Okla.—Holland Williams, Harold Woodson and Forrest K. Burns, three Oklahoma 4-H Club boys, will represent the United States in England this summer in a dairy cattle judging contest for the championship of the world. While their trip to England will in no way attract as much attention as the American Ryder Cup team which went to England to golf its way to a championship, these three boys hope to do something the golfers didn't, and that is to break the tie existing between the two countries and bring the championship home.

This team won the championship of the United States at the National Dairy Show at Memphis last October. They participated in a field of 26 teams from as many states. By so doing they won the right to make the trip to England, representing the United States. Oldest Is 18 Holland Williams, 18, is the oldest of the group. He is one of nine children of a successful cotton grower in Altus, Jackson county. As president of his 4-H Club, he has seen much activity in agricultural experiments conducted by this club. His cattle-judging experience started in school four years ago and he has continued his work ever since.

He worked his way through cattle judging fairs and at the 1928 Farmers' Week at Stillwater he placed fourth in a state-wide elimination. His final showing in elimination tryouts placed him on the Oklahoma team that won the championship at the National Dairy Show. The following is a list of some of the achievements of this 18-year-old farm boy: In one year he made $536 profit on 200 white leghorn hens culled 200 chickens, doctored 50 cows for milk fever, vaccinated 14 for blackleg, helped vaccinate 86 for tuberculosis and doctored 19 horses. He vaccinated 590 hogs for cholera, 700 hens for roup and for his veterinary service received $250. Out of this lot he lost but one cow. Harold Woodson, 17, the second oldest member of the team, joined

May Beetle Again Visits Northeastern States

Hogs help control the May beetle by proper pasturage.

Washington, D. C.—Farmers in the northeastern quarter of the United States are again being visited by a serious crop pest which appears once every three years. It is the May beetle, often called the "June bug" which is the parent of the common white grubs. An abundance of the beetles this spring means an abundance of the grubs next year. May beetles have been known to strip the leaves from great acreages of timber in previous years, and to swarm about the street lights of a small Wisconsin town in such numbers that they were hauled away by the wagon load each morning for two weeks. The grubs are the real cause for worry. They destroy large acreages of farm crops by eating the roots and underground parts, doing great damage to corn, timothy, potatoes, beans and strawberries. How may be useful in controlling the May beetle? The best method is to prevent them from reaching the crops. This is done by spraying trees with Paris green, lead arsenate or similar arsenical is effective but ordinarily this method is impractical because of the amount of equipment required. Any method that will reduce the number of beetles will reduce the number of grubs. Crop rotation is an approved method of preventing grub injury. Ground in cleanly cultivated corn or a heavy stand of clover during the year the beetles are flying ordinarily will contain few grubs, since the beetles will not seek such land for laying their eggs. They prefer land in small grains or timothy or weed fields. It would be desirable, therefore, to have as small a proportion of land in timothy or small grains as possible this year to avoid egg laying. Hogs may be useful in controlling the May beetle. During the summer

ROGERS SCORES CHAMBER HERE FOR INACTIVITY

Manchester Chamber of Commerce has no program. I have been speaking to Chambers of Commerce for twelve years and more and I know whereof I speak. I stand perfectly willing to prove to you that you are operating with a Chamber of Commerce only in name. Many cities throughout the country are spending much money to advertise themselves. The state of Maine has made a splendid showing for their three years of constructive and dignified advertising."

Mr. Rogers read the following portions of a speech given by Gov. Trumbull very recently over the radio regarding the work of Chambers of Commerce: "To accomplish worthwhile results, a Chamber must have three things—a sound program of work covering the particular needs of the given community, harmony and a spirit of give and take and live and let live among its members, and a substantial amount of action and not too much talk and talk only. Chambers that lack one or more of these three essentials fail to accomplish worthwhile results. "Every community needs a Chamber of Commerce because there are always several important public improvements and developments which can be brought about for the benefit of the community. The perfect community needs no Chamber of Commerce, but we are not living in perfect communities, nor will we ever live in perfect communities."

Everybody's Business "The Chamber of Commerce sometimes suffers because of the old theory that 'what is everybody's business is nobody's business.' The Chamber should strive to push the doctrine that what is everybody's business in the community is everybody's business."

"Those in touch with the programs of work of our various Chambers of Commerce in Connecticut and throughout the country have ample evidence that a wide variety of useful community accomplishments are being brought about month after month and year after year. These activities include a wide range among which are civic affairs, industrial development, traffic and safety work, fire prevention and clean-up campaigns, publicity and advertising, community expositions, community building projects, fraudulent solicitation schemes, aviation, general information, taxation changes, improved streets and lighting systems, new and better school buildings, fire protection, playgrounds, police protection, parks, zoning restrictions, co-operation with local business men, especially the merchants."

"There are many definitions of a chamber of commerce. Here is one that catches the essential idea rather well: 'A Chamber of Commerce is a voluntary organization in which the business units of a community, through membership, by co-operation and co-ordination of efforts endeavor to improve the conditions under which trade, commerce and industry must be conducted, in order that the community may grow and develop.' "Leadership is essential in Chamber work. The leaders of every community are invariably the people around whom the success of any Chamber of Commerce centers. Good leadership and good teamwork are highly desirable in the Chamber of Commerce field."

R. R. Station "Gentlemen", Mr. Rogers continued, "the railroad station at the north end is a disgrace. Many people who pass through by rail judge our town by our station. I had Mr. Mitchell of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. come out and see it and prevailed upon him to plan some improvements. However, the Chamber of Commerce has never recognized this effort and has lent no support. However, provisions have been made for the improvement of the station and it is expected the approval will be given the work by the general offices in New Haven soon."

Again, if the Hartford Chamber of Commerce had not been organized, they could have done little to save the Hartford boat line when it was heard that it was going to be abandoned. However they did save it and two finely reconditioned steamers are going into service. Gov. Trumbull expected two years ago that the Legislature was going to appropriate $50,000 for state advertising. The bill was not even reported. Connecticut people must be awakened to the fact that there is a great need of dignified, instructive advertising. I came in personal contact with many lawmakers who thought that the advertising was to save a few defunct manufacturers. They thought it would not be dignified to advertise. Connecticut is the only state in New England that is not advertising."

Advertise Community "Manchester merchants, you must advertise your community, you must start something or you're done. In Hartford they have come to realize that unless Manchester and surrounding towns are prosperous Hartford can't be prosperous. Manchester must look to the future."

In timber lots or fields adjoining so they can destroy the beetles this spring. This fall they should be pastured in small-grain stubble, timothy or woody land where the beetles have laid their eggs and the grubs will be found, and also next year before the grubs have turned to beetles. Summer and fall plowing is especially valuable in destroying the grubs. Plowing following the plow will plow up the grubs and their eggs."

Willard B. Rogers

There cannot be any localized prosperity. Merchants must do everything to create business and hold it, even if it comes to settling strikes. The merchants in Rhode Island finally were the ones that succeeded in settling the cotton strike in the Blackstone Valley. If Cheney Brothers had a strike tomorrow wouldn't you be interested in settling it? Of course you would, for how long would your business last otherwise? "You must develop a greater degree of loyalty among yourselves and your employees. This petty knocking hurts business. You must stand together, pull together and work collectively."

There are no longer sections and dividing lines. Automobiles, radios, etc., have done away with that. It is essential that the farms prosper too. And they are making progress. The boys and girls should be encouraged to stay on the farms. "I don't care whether the recent campaign increased your business one dollar, it helped put Manchester before a large number of outsiders. Your first job is to have Manchester people boast Manchester—always boasting, not knocking. You merchants must amalgamate and go ahead as one. Adjust your business hours, correct your internal troubles—then go out and sell Manchester. Willimantic and Rockville have both succeeded in awakening a new civic pride through their Chambers of Commerce."

"I wouldn't swap the town of Manchester for any other section of the country. I don't have to make an apology for it. It has been said that it was set up to the Chamber of Commerce to make an effort to bring people to Manchester to live with the materialization of the tremendous new aircraft plant in East Hartford. Man, it's a wonderful opportunity for Manchester business. Everything possible should be done to bring these people to live here. The Chamber of Commerce should have a definite program worked out to bring these people here. I see the community in the United States is advertising. Whatever you do will help. Every merchant should endeavor at all times to make his store the most attractive possible. Do you know that according to statistics Manchester is the most constantly prosperous town in the U. S.?"

New Industries "It is essential that new industries be brought to town. They are needed to take care of people new out of employment. I have two inquiries for companies now coming to look at Manchester for factory sites. I am doing all I can to bring them here. They will not conflict with Cheney Brothers in any way."

Following Mr. Rogers' address it was decided to have the Merchants Committee of Marchants, contractors, builders, real estate men, bankers, and all others who might be interested to attend to consider the advertising of Manchester. It was passed by a unanimous vote.

AH, A WAR!

There is going to be some old-fashioned baseball in the National League this year when the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs get together...

In addition to all their other duties, the coppers had to protect McGraw from the irate customers and had to guarantee the safety of the person who happened to be managing the Cubs.

It is the first time in many years that the Cubs and the Giants are in there with some actual rivalry.

Since the days the Giants have had to make their fights against the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals, with an occasional scrap tossed in against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bad feeling between the two clubs started last season in the late days of the pennant race when the Giants were making their valiant bid for losing fight for the championship.

The Cubs were out of the race. They had had some miserable experiences with the poor Phillies of Philadelphia and they realized their chances were shot.

In one of those very late games Gaby Hartnett, the Chicago catcher, did a neat job of blocking when Andy Reese was coming into the plate with the winning run.

A Great Umpire! Bill Klem, the National League umpire who admits modestly that he never made a mistake, called Reese out and the Giants raised hell.

The Giants insist that Klem's wrong decision and Hartnett's "foul" cost them the pennant and all that dough and the New York players in their spring training camp were not hesitant in saying that it was going to be tough on Hartnett this season when any Giant was going into the plate with the winning run.

And so say the Chicagoans on every play.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc. 54 YEARS at SOUTH MANCHESTER

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Tuesday, May 21.

Radio listeners of WEA and associated stations will hear a revival of one of the dramatic oddities of the stage at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. "Under the Gaslight," that famous old thriller of the Civil War days will be melodramatically presented. One of the great scenes of "Under the Gaslight" is where Larry, a delicate heroine, breaks out of a warehouse with an axe just in time to drag a boy friend from the hands of a wheel of an express train. The musical numbers including such jewels as "The Man on the Trip," "The Baggage Coach Ahead," which were in the original play, will be rendered by Nathaniel Shilkret and his concert orchestra. A description of New York City at night will be broadcast through WJZ from an army plane attempting a non-stop flight from Dayton to New York and return. The story will be told by O. B. Hanson at approximately 9 o'clock. George Blum, Cuban pianist, will be featured artist of the Curtis Institute of Music program, and will contribute a cosmopolitan tone to the program which will go on air at 10 p.m. and associated broadcasters at 10.

Wave lengths in meters on left of station title, kilocycles on the right. Times are Eastern Daylight Saving and Eastern Standard time. Clock face type indicates best features.

ONLY A YOUNGSTER, AFTER ALL London Police Force, World-Famous for Efficiency, Only 100 Years Old—Highly Unpopular When First Started.

This photograph shows a detachment of the famous London "Bobbies" in action—holding back a crowd at the wedding of a member of England's royal family. Notice how good-natured the policemen remain while under pressure. Inset is Sir Robert Peel, who organized the London police force just a century ago.

By MILTON BRONNER London.—The Metropolitan police force of London, probably the world's most famous police department, is also one of the very youngest. This bit of news—doubtless a surprise to most Americans, who look on the traditionally efficient London police as one of those old standbys of British civilization like roast beef and a powerful navy—is emphasized by the fact that the force has just celebrated the 100th anniversary of its organization. Before 1829 London, instead of being one of the best-policed cities in the world, was one of the worst.

It was split up into a wide group of different boroughs, each with its own police force, and each so indifferently to what went on outside its own boundaries. Fine for the Crooks The result was a decentralization of power that would make a Chicago gangster weep bitterly over being born a century too late. The situation in 1829 was simply made to order for criminals. As a nucleus there was "the city"—the heart of London, oldest segment of the great metropolitan area, where the financial district and the Bank of England now hold sway, and where is located the Mansion House in which the great lord mayor lives.

That day off each week, had helmets instead of top hats, and used whistles instead of rattles. And, incidentally, the force had discovered popular. Londoners had discovered that it was a mighty fine outfit. Today the Metropolitan police force comprises about 20,000 men of all ranks, including 840 who are attached to Scotland Yard. Each policeman works an eight-hour shift, gets a day off each week and has an annual holiday—as the British call a vacation—of two weeks. Oddly enough, just as the London force began its first century of service under a soldier who had just returned from the Napoleonic wars, it is beginning its second century under a soldier who served in the World War—Viscount Byng of Vimy. Scotland Yard Organized It was not until 1829, however, that the famous Criminal Investigation Department—known to mystery story addicts the world over as Scotland Yard—was established. By this time various innovations had been introduced. The police were allowed to wear civilian clothes when off duty, and could put on overcoats when it got cold. They also were given one day off each week, had helmets instead of top hats, and used whistles instead of rattles. And, incidentally, the force had discovered popular. Londoners had discovered that it was a mighty fine outfit.

"I consider the most diplomatic feat I ever accomplished was when I evaded drinking champagne with the governor of San Andres." —Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania. "The strongest and most important organization in America dealing with aviation is the Society of Automotive Engineers, and it is not unlikely that aeronautical engineering may in the future become the major activity of the society." —Professor J. H. Parkin, director of aeronautic and research work at the University of Toronto. "There haven't been more than ten great pictures made since the days of magic-lantern slides. I'd name 'em, only I hate to talk about myself." —Charlie Chaplin, (Answers, London.) "Al Smith, disastrously defeated, is experiencing an unpleasant truth he has hitherto known only academically: that the leader who has lost rarely continues to be a leader." —Henry F. Pringle. (Outlook.) "The Methodist Episcopal Church has no lobby in the city of Washington or elsewhere." —Dr. Clarence Tru Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, fever, rash, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract. When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. TRAGEDY—AND A CHILD BY BRUCE CATTON

This picture with this editorial shows a grown man and a very small boy trudging along the road, hand in hand, and behind it this story: The man was Robert Thornton, and the boy was his five-year-old son, Clyde. They lived on a farm in Missouri. A short time ago the farm buildings were washed away, its fields were eroded and covered with debris, the planting that had been done was spoiled. The two were left with nothing. They decided, the man and the boy, to go to relatives in Newark, N. J., where they could rest and get assistance in making a new start. They had no money to pay their fare, so they walked. The man carried a little satchel containing such food as they had been able to get together. All the way from Missouri to New Jersey they walked, and the five-year-old boy walked. You can imagine, at your leisure, how pleasant the trip must have been. Finally they got to Newark. There they had another setback. Their relatives had moved to Pittsburgh. There was nothing to do but hike to Pittsburgh, and they set out to do it. In Philadelphia, out of food and deeply discouraged, they encountered a policeman. He was a friendly soul, and when he had heard their story he took a little collection among his fellow officers and sent the couple on to Pittsburgh by train. And the little boy! Wistful, puzzled, entreating—a baby face made prematurely old by understanding, too early, that life can be brutal and harrowing; a face in which all the wrongs of maturity, saddled abruptly on a five-year-old's shoulders, spoke astutely through a pair of wide, uncomprehending eyes. His hand clutched his father's hand, confidingly, and one little foot was raised to continue the long, long hike; and the little chap was a sight to make angels weep. What can we make of a thing like this, anyway? No little boy's face ever ought to look like that. There isn't any greater wrong, anywhere, than the thing that has happened to him. And yet—we can do nothing, or next to nothing. We can be more understanding, perhaps, more sympathetic, more ready to help; but that is all. Such things happen, in our broad land, and that is all there is to it. The millennium is still a long way off. The photograph of the two was taken at Philadelphia. The two faces that it showed were faces to haunt the sleep and spoil the repose of people who looked at them. The man's face was grim and sad, with deep lines about the mouth, and an expression of dogged hopelessness in the eyes. It was the face of a man who knew that there was no hope for him, but who was determined, nevertheless, to carry on; a man who needed help but saw that he wasn't going to get it.

"CLOSE HARMONY" ENDS AT STATE TONIGHT Theater Turned Over to Kiwanis Minstrel Show Tomorrow Afternoon and Evening. "Close Harmony," the latest 100 per cent all-talking Paramount film production to receive the distinction of being one of the greatest pictures of the current season, will have its concluding performance at the State Theater this evening. This dazzling, glittering musical revue has been drawing large crowds to the State since its opening here and another similar audience is sure to be present again tonight. Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll have the leading roles in "Close Harmony," with Skeets Gallagher, Jack Oakie and Harry Green in support. Kiwanis Minstrel Tomorrow the State theater will be turned over to the local Kiwanis Club who will present their third annual Kiwanis Minstrel show. This year's program has all the indications of being the greatest that has thus far been given. The Beethoven Men's Glee club, Boy Scout Harmonica band, High school male quartet, Art McKay and his broadcasting orchestra and a surrounding staff of over 125 other people appear in the cast.

OPEN FORUM

HOSPITAL X-RAYS Editor of The Herald:

Despite the fact that I am no longer a member of the staff of the Manchester Memorial hospital, and perhaps entitled to no opinion whatever, I cannot help but feel very much concerned at the proposed plan of the staff of the hospital, recently discussed in the Manchester Evening Herald, relative to the destruction of X-ray plates at the hospital which are now over two years of age and which may be, in the opinion of those concerned, unimportant.

In a statement issued through the press not long ago, the trustees of the hospital exercised every effort to impress upon the minds of the public the vital importance of all hospital records. So much importance was attributed to the completeness or rather the incompleteness of these records that the trustees considered themselves fully justified in sanctioning and upholding the action of the superintendent who promoted my suspension from the staff of the hospital because of alleged infractions of the by-laws of the hospital. Most conspicuous of her allegations was the one which specifically stated my failure to complete the records in the cases of the family of the late Harold Gustafson of New London within the specified time of thirty-six hours as is provided by the by-laws of the hospital.

We have been taught to believe that records are of most vital importance as concerning the rating or status of any hospital. The classification of hospitals, we have been told, is determined not only through the calibre of the medical profession associated with these institutions and through the type of work done, but too upon the thoroughness with which records of patients are completed and preserved.

It is extremely difficult for me to understand how very easy it now becomes for those responsible for the welfare of the Memorial hospital to so readily divorce themselves from the practices they have in the past professed to uphold so religiously.

I am not writing in any effort to criticize. I would not dare to even suggest a morsel of constructive criticism to the plan as outlined by those concerned in this affair. I would like to know only the reason why the value of hospital records has depreciated to that extent which permits the wholesale destruction of what might be considered their most important part.

It seems to me a pity that the purpose of the X-ray can now be so easily destroyed, and it seems a pity that patients who had been X-rayed at the hospital previous to the past two years, must now be deprived of the privilege of having reference made to their plates in the event that future occasion would present itself. Of course I presume the additional cost of a second X-ray study would matter very little to most patients.

Much rather would I under conditions as they existed in the case of the Gustafsons, prefer to be classed in the category of the unardonable violator of that by-law which evidently commands the completion of both histories and physical examination records, regardless of the gravity of the patient's condition, within the time specified, than find myself numbered amongst those who sanction the wholesale destruction of those portions of those records which we have been led to believe were at one particular time regarded so priceless.

What a very beautiful example of the incomparability we at times discover invading the substance of past and present practices. DR. A. B. MORAN.

FAMINE IN CHINA

Peking, May 21.—Frightful tales of famine conditions in Kansu province were told today by the British missionary, Rev. Andrew, who has just completed an investigation for the international relief commission.

A total of 30,000,000 persons, the missionary reported, have been reduced to famine level in that one province alone. He reported the starving populace of one village had set upon and murdered a band of 35 brigands, afterwards eating their flesh.

"DRY" BROOK NEARLY FATAL TO VIKING 11

Young Wilfred Miller Has Thrills and an Escape in Temporary Torrent.

When Sunday's storm was at its highest fury, Wilfred Miller, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Miller of 23 Birch street, nearly lost his life by drowning in the dry Brook between Birch street and Oak street.

Wilfred is a born follower of the sea. The spirit of the Vikings and the daring of Columbus pulsate in his slim body. He loves everything pertaining to the sea, fishing, swimming, boating.

Wilfred in the footsteps of his heroes began to build a boat. Pieces of canvas over a framework of wooden slabs knocked together and lo, it was finished. What mattered it to him if it bore close resemblance to a small bathtub? Adventure and faith and his most cherished dream had woven into the frail craft.

Wilfred had his ship but he yet lacked the sea. And a sea was needed, no question about it. Wilfred prayed for it.

Sunday the heavens opened and gave him not a sea, but a raging, frothing torrent, running in the dry brook, near his home.

Fourth came the ship. So did Wilfred's chums. The first to brave the mighty river, the second to watch the ship and Wilfred on their journey. The boys were unmindful of the beating rain. They were seeking each other. "Will the ship survive or perish?"

They had not long to wait for an answer. Wilfred embarked, beside the stone bridge on Birch street. In a minute he was whirled along. Underneath a broken wire fence he sailed. A few feet ahead a low log footbridge.

As though aimed from a gigantic gun the craft shot towards the bridge. With a crash it struck and capsized. The boys were unmindful of the beating rain. They were seeking each other. "Will the ship survive or perish?"

Then, the logs, their dirt support eaten away by the rushing water saved in upon the boy! Only his head remained in sight.

His companions, forming a human chain, as they ran, waded into the brook grasped his shoulders and tugged manfully until they had worked him free.

Wilfred suffered naught but a thorough soaking of his clothing and body. But his ship lies a battered ruin beneath the sagging bridge—so does Wilfred's hopes of following in the footsteps of the Vikings of old.

DRAW HEAVY FINES IN BOLTON LIQUOR CASES

Scuderi and Pagani Mulcted in $325 Each, Flora Pays $125 for Too Much Wine.

James Connor, justice of the peace of Bolton, last night disposed of the liquor cases resulting from raids made in that town by state police on Thursday evening of last week.

Salvatore Scuderi, who conducted a place of business in South Bolton and was at one time a store keeper on the West Side in Manchester, was charged with keeping with intent to sell. He was found guilty and he was also fined $400 and costs, but $100 was remitted. His payment, which included costs, was $325.

Edward Pagani, another former Manchester resident, was also found guilty with keeping with intent to sell and he was also fined $400 and costs, with $100 remitted, his net payment being also $325. Pagani had a place of business in Bolton Center.

In the case of Joseph F. Flora, he was not charged with keeping with intent to sell. He occupied the old Sperry farm in the Camp Meeting Woods section, but was unfortunate in having made too much wine, having an over supply for which offense he was fined $100 and costs of $25.

The trial last night were held in the basement of the Congregational church at Bolton Center, which is also known officially in Bolton as the town hall.

TO NEW HAVEN MEET

Fix Monday as Meeting Night for Local Club; Bagley Made District Director.

George Bagley was elected district director of the Manchester Lions Club at the regular semi-monthly meeting held in the Hotel Sheridan last night, at which 17 members were present. This makes him the official representative of the local club to all the district meetings of the Lions. Arthur St. John and Thomas Conran were elected delegates to attend the convention being held at the Hotel Tatt in New Haven, today and tomorrow.

It was also decided at last night's meeting to permanently fix the date of meetings for Monday evening at 8 o'clock every two weeks. The next meeting falls on June 3.

Howard Crosley, a member of the Rockville Lions, spoke a few words to the gathering. George Bagley and Thomas Conran left this morning for New Haven. Arthur St. John will go this afternoon.

Mrs. Eunice Case Hohenthal of 487 Center street is confined to her home with an attack of grip.

BED AND BEDDING WEEK

If Spring housecleaning has shown the need for a new bed or bedding, or if you have decided to have more comfortable mattresses and extra bedding in the summer cottage, and if brides-to-be are planning on purchasing bed and bedding, plan to shop at Hale's this week. Special prices prevail on many of the items listed below.

A Complete Bed Outfit $19.95

This complete bed outfit will add to the attractiveness of any bedroom at home or at the summer cottage. The outfit consists of a baked-on enamel bed finished in walnut color; welded joints and steel corner locks. A reinforced spring with cloverleaf links. Complete with a good cotton mattress with rolled edges, covered with good quality ticking in fancy designs or conservative stripes. The outfit complete—$19.95.

Walnut Finished Metal Beds
Full and Single Bed Size
$5.95

Good-looking metal beds finished in dark walnut. Welded joints and steel corner locks. A bed that is suitable for the guest room, in the children's room and especially smart for the summer cottage.

Emmerich Bed Pillows $2.50 each

A pillow may seem unimportant, but—"Oh, how rested you feel after sleeping on a good pillow!" Use Emmerich pillows and your sleep will be undisturbed. Good, comfortable pillows filled with new feathers covered with heavy ticking. Size, 21x27 inches.

Good Quality Mattresses $9.95
Single, Three-Quarter and Full Size

Why sleep on an uncomfortable, worn mattress when you can purchase a comfortable cotton mattress at this low price. Good and full mattresses with rolled edges. Single, three-quarter and full bed sizes. Stripe or fancy ticking.

81x99 Lady Pepperell Sheets $1.49

The modern housewives choose Lady Pepperell bed sheets because of their fine texture and long wearing qualities. Sheets that will give from three to five years of satisfactory wear. Size 81x99 inches.

Lady Pepperell PILLOW CASES, each 39c
Two popular sizes, 42x36 and 45x36 inches.

Virginia Maid Mattress Protectors $1.79

Well made, good and full mattress protectors that keep new mattresses fresh and clean and make old mattresses like new. Single, three-quarter and full bed sizes.
