OLD GOLD wins second place at Harvard

Two-year old "O. G." runs second to the old favorite brand entrenched at HARVARD for more than 14 years

Two years against fourteen... a comparatively new cigarette against three veteran brands.

Yet OLD GOLD, the youngster, almost won! It defeated two of its veteran contenders... and nearly defeated the third!

This is the story of the Public Cigarette Test conducted at Harvard, by Edward T. Batchelder of "The Harvard Crimson" Editorial Board.

With the single exception of the test at Harvard, OLD GOLD has scored an unbroken string of victories in these comparative taste-tests.

But at Harvard, where pipe smoking is a tradition and the taste is for heavy tobaccos, smooth and mellow OLD GOLD faced its hardest contest. 148 undergraduates smoked and compared the four cigarettes with names concealed.

Yet OLD GOLD stood second in its total of "first choices!" It barely missed defeating the brand established at Harvard 14 years!

Man o' War, the greatest horse of his time, lost one race. And in its first and only defeat, OLD GOLD, the two-year old, felicitates the fourteen-year old victor.

The four leading cigarettes, "masked" with paper sleeves to conceal their brand names.

ESKIMO HISTORY TO BE READ IN ALASKA MOUNDS

Philadelphia.—The University of Pennsylvania will make excavations of the unusual mounds of Eskimo origin near Point Barrow, Alaska, as soon as weather conditions permit possibly sometime in June, it was announced at the Museum here. The expedition it is hoped will throw more light on the early history and culture of the Eskimos. The work will be carried on by Eskimos under the direction of Alfred H. Hopen, an Alaskan who has been selected for the task.

Discovered in 1918. The first group of mounds which will be excavated was found in 1918 when W. B. Van Valin, a research worker in Anthropology, was engaged in collecting specimens and conducting researches in the neighborhood of Point Barrow for the University Museum. It was supposed they were of natural origin until one of Van Valin's helpers discovered human bones protruding from the top of a group of six mounds situated near the settlement of Utkialvik, about eight miles from Barrow.

Excavation then revealed that each of the mounds contained a structure resembling a house. These houses, varied greatly in shape and ranged in size from 15 by 10 feet to 45 by 13 feet. All were built of driftwood, with walls from two to three feet high, and ceilings of logs. A thick covering of sod had been placed over the roofs and the walls and the skylight which had been cut into each roof was covered with seal or walrus entails.

Remains Found. Within the structures were found the remains of eighty-three persons, ranging in age from infancy to senility, and in no instance could any evidence of violent death be found. With few exceptions the bodies lay on beds on the earthen floor, these beds being composed principally of moss and ground willow covered with robes of brown bear, polar bear and musk ox. The body of one child was lying on two sled runners of a very ancient type. Besides each body, male or female, lay the implements and possessions of daily life, including wooden drinking cups, bison vessels containing small pieces of seal flipper and blubber, and a three-pronged fish-spear.

LEGION POPPY SALE TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Each Poppy Is Made by Disabled Veteran—Funds Help Buy Much Needed Articles for Soldiers. The Ladies' Auxiliary of Dilworth Cornell Post, American Legion will launch the annual sale of poppies tomorrow. A committee consisting of ten ladies and ten veterans has been appointed to handle the sale and all members of each organization are requested to report to either the chairlady or chairman to assist in the work.

The poppies which will be placed on sale were made by disabled veterans who have been in government hospitals since that day. In France, when they were wounded in action. Perhaps these heroes will never again be able to take their positions in the ranks of society. The money they receive for each poppy made tends to assist them in the purchase of little luxuries and in numerous cases aids some disabled veterans to keep dependents at home in the necessities of life. The veterans are paid for each and every poppy made and they are purchased by the local Legionnaires for the sale to the public.

Any and all amounts realized by the local post are placed in the welfare fund which is used exclusively by welfare officer, James A. Irvine, in relieving the immediate distress of some needy local veteran. During the past year, the demand on the fund was exceedingly heavy and as the work of the welfare officer is strictly confidential, which it should be, it is impossible to publish a resume of the disposition of the fund. However, Dilworth Cornell Post invites an audit of the welfare officer's books by any party who may be desirous by the town government. The result of the sale of poppies therefore is a benefit to two classes of veterans—those boys who may pass the rest of their lives in the hospitals and our own brothers in town. Little do we know when and who will be the next demand on the fund. The sale will last until Memorial day.

The veterans will attend the Memorial services at St. Mary's church on Sunday, May 26, and will meet in front of the church at 10:30 a. m. The county meeting will be held at Berlin at 3:00 p. m. All Legionnaires are requested to attend. Plans for Memorial Day will be perfected at the meeting. Legion life and drum corps will be an added attraction at the State theater Friday night of this week.

Brutal Murder By Two Young Boys Shocks All Of Paris

BY MINOTT CAUNDERS

Paris.—Insidious influences of the war and the breaking down of family traditions since the war are blamed by psychologists and sociologists here for a wave of crimes by children that have puzzled the police and shocked the public. Whereas in America prohibition is often blamed for youthful crimes, no such element enters into the life of French children and youths.

The latest crime to stir public indignation was the murder of an octogenarian, Madame Barry, by two mere boys, Louis Helle, aged 15, and Emile le Guen, aged 13. The latter had been living quietly with his family and working as an errand boy at the corner grocer's. He seemed a very normal child, played innocent pranks on the neighbors and liked the movies. He had a little difficulty with his employer and left home with his month's pay.

"Learned Life" at Movies In the market district Emile met Louis who, during a few weeks of freedom from home life, had picked up some bad habits and was living by his wits. They went to the movies together and on one occasion while watching a crime picture Emile noticed Louis sitting with his chin in his hand and following the picture with unusual attention. He asked Louis if he wasn't enjoying the film, and the lad replied:

"I don't come here to enjoy myself; I come to learn about life."

After a few days of swapping opinions about life the boys went broke. Then Emile remembered Madame Barry, who lived alone at Vaucresson and who had been kind to him as a grocer's boy, giving him cookies and showing him her flowers. The lads broke into her house at night, brutally murdered her by hitting her over the head with an iron pipe, and ransacked the house for money with the utmost calmness. They found only 12 francs, about 50 cents.

They were arrested the next day and readily confessed. They were taken back to the house where they reacted the crime for the police and seemed to take pride in their methods. When the crowd outside started shouting for their death they were visibly pleased to be drawing so much attention.

"The chief trouble with children of that age since the war is the breaking down of the old French tradition of apprenticing a boy to an honorable trade and to a worthy employer," said Dr. Vinchon, well-known neurologist. "Before the war such lads were put to work without pay, and often their parents had to pay for their apprenticeship. They were looked after as though they were in school and they could not run about the streets, go to movies and learn about the more sordid side of life.

Parents Mostly to Blame "Today there is no restraint. The same is also true for many young girls, but their waywardness usually manifests itself in another direction. The freedom unloosens sexual impulses. Parents are more to blame than the children, but society itself is largely to blame. Society now gives young boys and girls every opportunity to learn life before they have reached an age to comprehend it and are able to accept it with sanity.

"Another reason for these perverted young minds can be traced to the war itself. They were conceived in the early days of the war when the minds of men and women were not normal. Everybody was restless, fearful, and many were reckless. Something of that has been transmitted to many children and their abnormality breaks out in crime."

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

On May 22, 1807, Aaron Burr, the most puzzling character in American history, went on trial for treason in Richmond, Va. The case aroused unprecedented social and political interest and although the full force of the federal government was thrown behind the prosecution, Burr was acquitted. Historians have credited this verdict to the fact that Burr's charming daughter, Theodosia, sat by his side during the trial and won the sympathy of many. Since the case was tried before Chief Justice Marshall, one of the ablest jurists in American history, there can be no doubt that the verdict was in accord with law. He was tried a second time on a charge of misdemeanor and again freed.

History has never been able to explain satisfactorily just what Burr plotted to cause his arrest on the treason charge. After killing Alexander Hamilton in a duel in New York, he fled to the west, where he enlisted some financial and military aid and is supposed to have planned a new government, with himself at the head, somewhere in the southwest, possibly in Mexico.

WINDOW draperies can be easily cleaned with very little suction. With the 3-speed switch, shown enlarged at the right, it is possible to regulate the suction to fit the job you are doing. With both switches turned upward, the suction is low; with one switch up and one down, the suction is medium; or with both switches down, the suction is powerful enough to clean the heaviest of fine floor coverings.

INADEQUATE BRAKES

The running down of a Manchester woman on the streets by an automobile whose brakes were of substantially no effect is the sort of tragic happening which altogether too frequently provides the only test to which the mechanical fitness of an automobile is ever subjected.

Such completely unnecessary accidents as that on Center street yesterday are supposed to be guarded against by the laws. But the guardianship will be without effect so long as there is no enforcement of the law until the accident transpires.

There is only one right way of looking at such violations as those committed by persons who operate cars without adequate brakes. That way is to regard the person who drives a car in such condition as a potential homicide, lacking only the necessary arrangement of circumstances to cover his hands with the blood of a victim.

If the driver who runs over a victim because his brakes won't hold has been driving his car in that condition for three days, his guilt of bloodshed does not begin with the moment of the tragedy but has been continuing during every moment of the three days preceding.

We cannot for the life of us see how the courts can so frequently treat as trivial the offense of driving a practically brakeless car just because the person happens not to have had a serious accident before being apprehended.

POWER PROPAGANDA

In all this fog about the ownership of newspapers by public utilities (which, it is to be suspected, is being avidly employed by certain newspapers in an attempt to discredit rivals) there has been a curious failure to realize just what the point at issue is.

"As a matter of fact there is," says the World, "no reason why public utilities should not own newspapers, provided that they do not support them out of revenues derived from the sale of light or gas or traction service to the public. The utilities have a case to plead and in a country which honors free speech they have a right to plead it."

Which it reads does not come from a wholly independent source but from a source allied with partisan interests. There is great danger in the secret ownership of newspapers by utilities corporations. But there

HYSTERICAL ATTACKS AND PARALYSIS.

The strangest thing about hysterical attacks is the subject's power to imitate any form of organic paralysis and a number of other diseases. This fact frequently leads to a confusion of diagnosis, as a physician may be misled into thinking that a hysterical patient is suffering from some serious or unusual disease.

LAW MUDDLE

There is room for wide flight of imagination in the discovery that for ten years the governors of Connecticut have been signing hundreds of legislative acts after the time limit fixed by the constitution. The mess into which the affairs of this state would be thrown if all these hundreds of acts were invalidated—or, rather, if they should be competently declared invalid—is something to think about.

The practice, of course, grew out of the custom of the Legislature of postponing until the last day or two of the session an enormous mass of bills and then rushing them through and adjourning, leaving the chief executive of the state several weeks' work in examining the measures previous to signing, with the alternative of rubber-stamping the whole mass within the three days provided by law.

Further study of the question may bring out that there are aspects which were not considered when the matter was brought up in the Supreme Court yesterday. It appears incomprehensible that lawyers of the standing of the late Simon E. Baldwin and Marcus Holcomb should have followed a practice contrary to the constitution. It will hardly do to go off half-cocked and assume that something really serious has happened.

THE TRACK HEARING

Notice of the hearing before the Public Utilities Commission next Monday on the Connecticut Company's petition to be allowed to abandon the trolley tracks from Manchester Green and Depot Square to the Center is important more as a verification of the statements heretofore made of the purposes of the Highway Department and the Connecticut Company than as a subject for debate at the hearing.

It is to be taken for granted, however, that the selectmen will be represented at the hearing and that care will be taken to see that the permission to junk the trolley lines I made conditional on the provision of a bus service at least equal to all demands now met by the electric cars.

GOOD STORIES

We are still intrigued by the idea of that Central Park Casino, though it is none of our business and we hardly expect ever to see that tumbledown old structure in its renovated glory. But we can't get away from a longing to be among those present—on the outside—on the occasion of the opening of that resort when caviar shall have displaced the hot dog in its cuisine.

It is our guess that more funny stories will grow out of that event and the subsequent days—until the haut ton shall finally have fled from the jeering of the populace—than were ever turned up by the south tip end of Manhattan in the days of Battery Dan.

Perhaps one excellent effect may result from the establishment of the dude ranch in the wilds of the park. It may require as many reporters to cover the incidents that the yellows and the tabs will just have to recall the jackals who are howling around the camp of the Morrow family up in Maine.

A St. Louis newspaper man got the Pulitzer prize for the best reportorial work of the year. Before awarding next year's prize the committee should hear the important news stories confided from fence to fence along our street almost any morning.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, May 21—Whatever the immediate results of strikes now in progress in southern textile centers may be, the work of organizing the underpaid mill workers apparently is going to continue on a large scale.

Discussion of the situation in the south was uppermost among leaders of the Women's Trade Union League, who have just wound up their triennial convention here and who decided to move their national headquarters from Chicago to Washington with the announced purpose of establishing a nearer base for their campaign to unionize southern industrial workers.

The apparent interest of the American Federation of Labor, as voiced by President William Green, has also astonished many persons who had heretofore expected to hear from the A. F. of L. again. It looks as if the federation also intended to keep up the fight to rescue southern mill workers from what they contend are atrocious wage and working conditions.

Women mill workers, judging from stories told here, have been getting the worst of it. Stories of girls who were paid $8 to $10 a week and worked 80 hours a week appear to have started some of the senators, who must decide whether there is warrant for an investigation of textile industry conditions in North and South Carolina and Tennessee.

Leaders of the Women's Trade Union League revealed that average yearly earnings of women in industry are lower than they were five years ago, despite the prosperity enjoyed by other classes. Men's earnings have increased.

"Latest official reports from three large manufacturing states, New York, Illinois and Massachusetts, show that women wage earners receive on an average about 55 per cent of the weekly earnings of male wage earners," says Miss Lillian Horvath of the Chicago Federation of Labor. "The National Industrial Conference Board's reports on weekly earnings of men and women, covering 1800 plants in the United States, showed women's weekly earnings for all industries for November, 1928, as 70.5 per cent of the earnings of unskilled men workers and 54.9 per cent of those of skilled and semi-skilled men workers."

"I am 35 years old and weigh 204 pounds. I am always sleepy and hungry. I attempted the orange fast, but by afternoon was weak and famished. My knees and hip joints pop and squeak and have been stiff for a couple of years. How may I reduce quickly to normal? I am embarrassed to go among people—I feel they are saying, 'Look at that horrible fat woman.'"

(Oysters.) Question: J. K. P. asks: "Should one chew oysters, or is there any harm in swallowing them whole, as so many people do?" Answer: It is not necessary to chew oysters or any other kind of protein food, as the stomach juices digest proteins that have not been well masticated, and still, such foods will no doubt be more quickly digested if they are partially broken up by chewing.

(Rash After Shaving.) Question: Frank A. G. asks: "What causes the skin to become rash and peel after shaving?—am

WATKINS BROTHERS

64 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 22.—Many a fantastic job is created in Manhattan due to the various extravagances of the Park Avenue, Fifth Avenue and even the Riverside drive crew of careless spenders.

One of the new and swanky Park Avenue preserves maintains a "master of bath salts." The fellow, an ex-employee of a ritzy perfume establishment, selects the various toilet articles for the frilly damsels, most of whom were brought up on five-cent laundry soap, but who now must have their bath salts chosen by "an artiste."

Ray Bell, the ex-cowboy of rodeo show fame, picks polo ponies for the Rich Long Island "polo set." He maintains connections with an Argentine stock farm where ponies are raised for polo purposes. Bell is, in some measure, in the class of the heroes of the cowboy tales. Meeting a beautiful eastern girl, he married—but this time, however, the bride admitted that she preferred metropolitan life to the great open spaces. And so he turned his knowledge of "hoss flesh" to good account.

And speaking of things western: a few days ago an ex-cowboy was commissioned to appear at one of the swanky brownstones of Fifth Avenue. It appeared that two young sons had been sent off to a school in Arizona and, coming in contact with the "wild west" life, had never that is—for the first time, had decided to bring a small rodeo home with them. So, with 15 young companions and 20 ponies, they were coming in a private train to New York. The baffled parents wanted a westerner to keep them rounded up.

Key and door knob designers for costly apartment suites make a neat living. There are dozens of places where residents insist on having their door knobs absolutely original, throwing mild hysterics if there is a similar door knob on a neighbor's house. Keys are tricked out with jeweled settings and monograms. One of the new Fifth Avenue places advertised gets its pure gold.

The job of "dog waiter" is one to be found in few places outside of New York. Since most of the rich folk have at least one high-priced pup, they have to have someone to take it for a walk. Many of the "dog walkers" work in connection with pet shops. They not only take Fido out for a stroll—at so much per hour—they also bathe him and keep his hair trimmed, look after his dog biscuits and act as valets in general.

A young woman of my acquaintance, who had been doing secretarial work, finds herself at the moment in the happy job of

Harlow Street Hearing.
The Public Works committee held a hearing in the Common Council room at 7 o'clock last evening for those interested in the layout of Harlow street. The proposed street runs between Union and Grant streets and is about 350 feet in length. The layout of the street was accepted.

The Common Council was called to order at 7:30 o'clock by Mayor George Forster. By unanimous vote of the council, Leroy Markert was elected to fill the vacancy in the Second ward caused by the resignation of Councilman Peterson. The council adopted the layout of Harlow street and the Public Works committee were authorized to assess betterments or damages and report back at the next meeting. Sanitary sewers will be installed also curbs after which the street will be macadamized and made a permanent road.

Tennstedt and Brendal and Arno Weber petitioned to erect electric signs over their stores. Permits were granted them.

The meat inspector's report was read and accepted.
City Clerk Hunt was authorized to issue permits to sell fireworks from July 1 to July 4.

The Finance Committee requested the council to allow them to purchase the fireworks for July 4 celebration.

Sandy Beach Attraction.
Despite the inclement weather Crystal Lake is attracting crowds each succeeding week. Sandy Beach is more popular than ever. Tonight Dick Newcomb's broadcasting and recording orchestra make their first appearance and Saturday night Al Behrend's Melody Boys of 10 pieces will return for another engagement at the ballroom. The large new addition containing office, ladies' dressing room, emergency room, check room and restaurant at Sandy Beach will be completed Saturday noon and will be opened for public inspection Saturday evening.

Hospital Appointment.
Mrs. Mary Robinson of Manchester has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Rockville city hospital to succeed Miss Betty Glynn who resigned recently to go abroad. Mrs. Robinson began her new duties at once. She has been a member of the staff of the Rockville city hospital for the past two years and has been in charge of the operating room. She trained at the Wesson Memorial hospital in Springfield and is the wife of Ernest F. Robinson of 452 Main street, Manchester.

To Entertain Visitors.
The Luther League of the First Evangelical Lutheran church will entertain members of the Luther League of Manchester, New Britain, Southington, Meriden and Hartford at the Ellington Town Hall on Thursday evening. About 150 are expected to be present. All members are requested to meet at the church at 8:30 for the regular meeting. An entertainment program will be presented and refreshments served.

Burpee Women's Relief Corps held a very successful card party Monday evening. The bridge prizes were awarded to Mrs. Oscar Peterson, Mrs. Elizabeth Kingston and Mrs. William Davis; the straight whist prizes were won by Miss Estelle Engleman, Phyllis Lisk and Mrs. O. Ziegler. The next whist will be held June 10.

Elks to Initiate Thursday.
There will be a meeting of Rockville Lodge of Elks at the Elks' Home Thursday evening when a class of candidates will be initiated. Exalted Ruler Joseph Lavitt will be in charge of the degree work and will preside at the regular session prior to the initiatory exemplification.

Notes.
The opening of Crystal Lake hotel, recently leased by Frank L. Pinney of Manchester and William F. Davis of Rockville, is being planned for the near future and a corp of workmen are thoroughly renovating the hotel, park buildings and equipment and it is very likely the new managers will have everything in readiness before the 26th, the usual date for the Summer Season's opening. A modern gasoline station is nearing completion just opposite the hotel property that will also be operated by the new lessees.

Russell Pinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Pinney of Hale street and a senior at the High school has accepted a clerical position with Cheney Brothers, South Manchester.
Edward Reinhold and Roger Tansy, High school seniors, have entered the department of the Hockanum Mills company.

The first division of the Ladies' Aid society of the Union church are holding a food sale this afternoon in the office of the Rockville-Williamatic Lighting Co.
Mrs. Sikes Bamforth who underwent an operation at the Baptist hospital in Boston, is convalescing at the home of her son Arthur Bamforth in South Manchester.

KIWANIS MINSTREL SHOW ON TONIGHT

Annual Presentation for the Benefit of Kiddies Camp to Be Held at State.

Everything is in readiness for the presentation of the third annual Kiwanis Minstrel Show this afternoon and evening. The evening performance starts promptly at 8 o'clock and the first to arrive get the best seats.

Arthur A. Knotha

Arthur Knotha, president of the Kiwanis Club, will speak a few words on behalf of the club, though what he will say is left altogether to himself. The program has been published before but for the benefit of those who did not read it a few of the high spots are presented: Clarence P. Quimby as interlocutor (his fame is proved by past performances); Jack Sanson, as director of McKay's orchestra, Jack's popularity speaks for itself; Al Grezel, Bill Dillon, Elmer Thienes, Harlie Willis, Charles Huber and Charlie Milkowsky as end men, the life of the show; singing galore by the end men, Miss Rhyne Moriarty, the chorus, the high school Male Quartet, the Bethel Glee Club and Miss Olive Nyman; dancing, by Miss Gertrude Gerard and Billy Gess; sketches, jokes and surprise acts too numerous to mention; the Boy Scout Harmonica Band in its first public appearance; and last but not least the grand finale featuring "The Spirit of Kiwanis."

GERMANY GETS REPORT

Paris, May 22.—Germany receives her revised reparation bill today. Delegates of the allied nations handed their report to Chairman Owen D. Young, for presentation to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief of the German delegation, later in the afternoon. This report contains revisions and conditions for acceptance of 2,050,000,000 marks annuities from Germany, as proposed by the Young plan, and also the conditions for acceptance of the German reservations.

After Dr. Schacht has studied the report he will inform the allied and American delegates when he will be ready to make his reply to a plenary session of the reparation conference.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their systems. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers. Millions of families are now nev-road to broader developments through increasing emphasis upon the presentation and promotion of silk goods as gresses. These men are exercising every ingenuity in finding ways to facilitate the transition from fabric to costume on the part of the customer. In this development we feel that Cheney Brothers must take an important role, due to the emphasis which is placed here upon dress style as the single objective in the creation and promotion of fabrics. Ralph Abercrombie has a very wide field to cover in expanding our distribution and service over the whole country in this new development, and I know of no one better suited to undertake this progressive effort.

"Ben Mann, sales manager of the new cutters department, faces a distinctly different problem. The rapid development of the American manufacturing trades during the recent years has surely been one of the most striking phenomena in the American industry. An extraordinary concentration in New York city is now being supplemented by the growth of other important centers, notably Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles and others.

PARENTS UNDERSTOOD THIS BABY'S LANGUAGE

"We thought we were going to lose our baby, teething," says Kentucky mother. "He couldn't digest anything and was getting thinner every day. After one of his fretful, crying nights, I thought of Castoria and got some. A few drops made him comfortable, and after a few doses, he seemed like a different baby." Doctors everywhere recommend purely-vegetable, harmless Fitcher's Castoria for colds, constipation, colic and other ills of babies and children, and millions of mothers know its gentle influence is best. Avoid imitations. The Fitcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

When a man is refused by a girl because he's hard-up, he's well-off.

SENSE and NONSENSE

THE FOLLOW THROUGH
The crimson sun was sinking low As on the golf course stood the dub.

have you come to a decision?
Foreman: We have, your Honor.
The jury are all of the same mind—temporarily insane.

According to the international congress of chiefs, an egg is "new laid" for 10 to 12 days; it is "fresh" until it is 21 days old; then it becomes a "cooking" egg. And soon after that, we suppose it becomes a "throwing" egg, to be used at lectures given by unpopular politicians.

"Ma, what does D.-D. stand for?"
"Doctor of Divinity, my dear.
Don't they teach such things in school?"

"Oh, yes; but it doesn't sound right here."
"Read it out loud, my dear."
"The witness said, he heard the defendant say "I'll make you suffer for this. I'll be Doctor of Divinity, if I don't."

Teacher—"What is the 'ultimate consumer?"
"Willie—it's me; the guy that eats last when there's any company."

Now, there's a kick in this one:
When the rat's mash is brewin',
When the worm is in the still,
There's a man who's diggin' for you
In the graveyard on the hill.

A young gentleman of rather engaging personality, but unaccustomed to quick thinking, was calling on one of his girl friends of long standing. In the course of the evening she referred to one of their mutual friends and said:
"By the way, I saw Edith getting into her new Chalmers this morning."

"That so?" he replied. "What are Chalmers?"

"My wife is an inveterate smoker. Why, three times she's set the bed on fire with her cigarets.
Would you recommend a suit for divorce?"
"Either that or a suit of asbestos pajamas."

No. 1: Today I saw a man at the show who played a piano even though he had no hands.

No. 11: Aw! That's nothing. I know a fellow who sings every day and he has no voice.

"Did you hear about Clancy, the detective, bein' suspended for 30 days?" asked the cop.

"Naw," replied the friend, "wot's he done now?"
"He was sent to Gotock's home to investigate a burglary an' he tuck off his hat while he was in the house."

Farmer: "I'm surprised and shocked to find you, a Boy Scout, in my orchard."
Apple-laden Youngster: "Well, I thought for once, sir, I'd do myself a good turn."

LETTER GOLF

STARTS OUT LONG
Today's puzzle sounds as if it might be LONG, but it's merely the VIEW you take of it. Par is only six. One solution is on another page.

Grid for Letter Golf puzzle with letters L, O, N, G, V, I, E, W.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes.
Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEV HEN.
2-You change only one letter at a time
3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4-The order of letters cannot be changed.
One solution is printed on another page.

THE TINYAITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Gootygo still held the bee, and sternly said, "It seems to me that you have scared this bunch enough. I ought to punish you. You never should have flown so high with Cloway on your back. Oh my!
It really seems ridiculous, the crazy things you do."
"Please let me go," the bee replied. "I merely took him for a ride. There wasn't any danger, just as long as he clung tight. I told him plainly not to slip, and thought that he'd enjoy the trip.
Why do you think that I did wrong, when I know I did right?" Then Cloway broke right in and said, "Now, Gootygo, don't lose your head. I'm sure he's telling you the truth. The bee's our good friend. I guess good common sense I lack for climbing on his fuzzy back. Oh, please release him, Gootygo, and let his trouble end."
"All right," the funny bird replied. He opened up his mouth real wide, and Mister Bee flew out real quick. "Good-bye," he shouted loud. "I still am friendly toward your bunch. I even have a happy bunch that someday we will meet again." And then he left the crowd.

The Tinies then heard Coppy scream. "Oh, look! I see a dandy stream. Let's find some boards and build a raft. That will be heaps of fun. I think you will agree with me that we'd enjoy a trip to sea." The Gootygo exclaimed, "That's fine! No sooner said than done."
They found a dozen boards, or more, and dressed them down beside the shore. And then they rolled some big logs out. The work was rather slow. But as the little raft took shape, said Scouty, "Ge, we're in a scrape. When all our work is done, how can we make this queer thing go?"
(The Tinies find a way to make the raft in the next story.)
