

STORM LOSS AT A MILLION

GRAF ZEPPELIN HEADING SOUTH FOR MADEIRA

Believed That Dirigible Will Follow Lower Course to Dodge Storms; Report of Stowaway Is Discredited.

Out over the open sea and heading into violent storm areas, the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin is speeding toward Lakehurst, N. J., her stop on the pioneer commercial circumnavigation of the globe by air.

The huge aerial liner, carrying eighteen passengers and a crew numbering forty-one, passed Gibraltar at 3 a. m. local time (1 p. m. New York daylight saving time last night), and by this time the ship should have left many miles west of the Azores, where the Atlantic crossing is normally made.

Latest reports from correspondents aboard the dirigible indicate that after successfully negotiating the treacherous air currents of the Swiss Alps and the Rhone Valley, the Graf Zeppelin had soared past Gibraltar, encountering better weather after hours of fighting contrary winds, and is now far off the Spanish coast, heading for the Azores or the Madeira islands.

LOG OF THE ZEPPELIN ON PRESENT FLIGHT

Here is the log of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, enroute from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., on the first leg of a world flight, all times given being New York daylight saving time.

Wednesday
10:29 p. m.—Left Friedrichshafen, Germany.
10:55 p. m.—Sighted over Konstanz, Switzerland.
Thursday
12:55 a. m.—Passed over Basel, Switzerland.
1:05 a. m.—Crossed French border.
2:50 a. m.—Over Belfort, France.
3:00 a. m.—Over Baume-Les-Dames, France.
6:10 a. m.—Passed over Lyon, France, asking weather.
7:35 a. m.—Sighted over Valence, France.
7:40 a. m.—Passed over Montellmar, France.
7:55 a. m.—Sighted from Pierre-Latte, France.
8:10 a. m.—Passed over Orange, France.
8:30 a. m.—Over Nimes, France heading toward Mediterranean.
11:00 a. m.—Sighted over Mediterranean, fifty miles off Barcelona.
7:00 p. m.—Passed over Cape De Gata, Spain, 150 miles from Gibraltar.
11:00 p. m.—Passed over Gibraltar, heading out over the sea.
Friday
1:50 a. m.—Reported to have passed Cadiz, Spain.

DRUG ADDICTS WILDLY RIOT IN LEAVENWORTH

One Convict Killed in Mutiny Kept Secret by Authorities of Federal Prison; All Are Civilians.

Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 2.—Save for spasmodic outbursts of screaming drug addicts in cell block B, a wild riot in the federal prison here, one of the worst outbreaks in 30 years, which started yesterday afternoon had all but abated today, leaving at least one prisoner dead and several others wounded with shotgun slugs.

All prisoners were reported returned to their cells and a partial amnesty was said to indicate that none had escaped. A checkup was in progress to determine whether other dead or wounded were in the cellhouses.

The inmate killed was Mike Martinez, 30, who had served fourteen months of a three year term for smuggling. He was 'shot in the back.

After subduing and quieting the revolting convicts, guards today were devoting their efforts to restraining the narcotic addicts from shattering windows and tugging frantically at the bars.

Grumbled Over Food.

The outbreak began right after lunch in the mess hall and was the climax of more than a week of grumbling on the part of the convicts over the fare.

After numerous complaints had brought no response, the prisoners vented their pent up bitterness with a rush en masse toward the penitentiary walls, wielding knives, forks, clubs and any other weapons they could find.

After a brief military operation at neighboring Fort Leavenworth for assistance, Warden White summoned the prison reserves at once. News of the outbreak did not reach the public until this morning.

The prison personnel death with the problem with strictest secrecy until firing of weapons and breaking of glass and shouts of convicts attracted the attention of families of guards and others outside.

The noise was at its peak at about 5 o'clock, and spectators said that they heard sounds of explosions and saw pieces of glass fall.

Much Secrecy.

Notwithstanding the official secrecy it was learned from prison sources that none of the convicts had firearms and that no official or other members of the employed personnel at the prison was seriously injured.

As evening came the pandemonium continued, apparently not in any measure abated.

Shrieks, curses yells and the low, angry murmur of the mob of rebellious prisoners still were interspersed with the noise of breaking glass and the infrequent discharge of firearms.

Noise of explosions was followed by the crash of cell doors. Trustees, who had been at work on the prison farm, were corralled outside the enclosure under a heavy guard.

Outbreak Without Warning.

The outbreak came without warning. No reports of impending trouble had leaked from the prison, news from which was virtually cut off for months under Department of Justice rules preventing the making public of any information concerning the institution or its inmates.

Conditions have become crowded in the last year, a situation similar to that at the two New York state prisons, where convicts rioted recently.

A high stone wall surrounds the Leavenworth institution, inclosing the cellhouses and other industries. There is a large square in the center. The prison surmounts the west side of Missouri River in one of the prettiest scenic spots in Kansas.

Only Civilian Convicts.

Among the prisoners are men convicted on narcotic charges, mail robbers and a few serving sentences for murder.

Only civilian convicts are sent to the Leavenworth penitentiary, disciplinary barracks here being used for Army prisoners. Since the enactment of the Jones law making liquor violations a felony, a number of convicted bootleggers have been received at the penitentiary.

The prison population of 2,758 numbers bankers sentenced for violations of the national banking laws and a large number convicted of using the mails to defraud, including Dr. Frederick Cook, the one-time Arctic explorer, convicted of oil-stock frauds.

Mutinies in the Leavenworth prison have occurred on several occasions, the escape of twenty-seven convicts after a battle with Aimee Plans to Lead New Crusade of 750 Pilgrims to the Holy Land.

Aimee Semple McPherson is shown here as she signed the contract chartering a steamer for her Easter Pilgrimage to the Birthplace of Christianity.

Celebrated Evangelist Will Seize Holy Land

Mrs. McPherson Ties Up All Hotel Rooms Around Jerusalem for Band of Followers She Is to Command on Great Pilgrimage Next Spring.

Los Angeles, Aug. 2.—Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, is getting ready to stage the most pretentious project in her long career—a pilgrimage to the Holy Land, at the head of 750 students and followers, on a specially-chartered steamship, the S. S. Republic, engaged at a cost of a half million dollars.

The steamship will leave New York next March 20 and return May 11, as her pilgrims will spend Easter there.

"Ever since I was a little child I have dreamed of conducting a crusade to the land where Christianity was born," Mrs. McPherson explains. "Three years ago I visited the Holy Land with only a few followers and now at last my supreme ambition is about to be realized."

Mrs. McPherson has tied up virtually every hotel reservation in the Holy Land during Easter week, making it almost impossible for other worshippers to stay there.

Program Is Impressive.

An impressive program has been arranged.

On Holy Thursday, communion will be administered to the pilgrims in the room at Mount Zion where the Last Supper was held.

After communion, their way lighted by 70 torches, the procession of 750 followers will wind its way down the mountainside to the Garden of Gethsemane where the pilgrims will maintain an attitude

BRITAIN READY TO CUT SIZE OF BATTLE SHIPS

Admiralty Eager to Include Capital Vessels in the New Naval Parley, Declares High Authority.

London, Aug. 2.—"The British admiralty will welcome heartily the inclusion of the discussion of capital ships in the forthcoming naval conference rather than wait for the 1931 conference provided by the Washington Arms treaty."

This statement was made this afternoon by an informant whose name and position in official circles carry unequalled weight and authority, he continued:

"Our position on capital ships is that we cannot go much further regarding the limitation of numbers, but we are anxious to go the limit in reduction of tonnage and armament, and also considerably lengthen the life of capital ships.

Giant Ships Too Big.

"Our notion is that the capital ship must be under water. For this we regard the present monster with 15 and 16 inch guns as uneconomically large.

"Our idea of sufficiency is a ship carrying 12 inch guns and ranging in tonnage from 25,000 to 27,500."

Comed with the present size such ships would mean a staggering reduction in cost without loss of efficiency.

"Cabled reports from Washington that France and Italy might object to discussion of capital ships at the proposed conference are ludicrous.

"It is certain, of course, that possible disagreements between France and Italy regarding naval equality may present us with greater difficulties than anything else at the conference, but it will not be regarding capital ships."

Progress on Cruisers.

The informant of International News Service revealed that rapid progress has been made between Britain and America in discussion of the cruiser issue. He expressed confidence that a satisfactory solution will soon be forthcoming.

The naval authority went on:

"As regards cruisers the discussions have been proceeding with extraordinary smoothness and celerity. You can say that within very short time, we are absolutely confident of reaching a formula which will prove an absolute solution.

"American ambassador Charles G. Daves and Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, brought a new atmosphere to these discussions which has placed them upon a different footing than heretofore."

Wins Wizard's Patronage in Contest; Connecticut Lad Gets One of 4 Scholarships

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 2.—A modest 16-year-old boy with hornrimmed glasses and a distinct scientific inclination—Wilbur B. Huston, of Seattle, Wash.—today was crowned the smartest boy in America and won the life-time patronage of Thomas A. Edison, the great inventor.

Young Huston, son of Bishop S. Arthur Huston, of the Protestant Episcopal church, "as selected from forty-nine boys from every state as the result of his brilliant answers to a questionnaire examination prepared by Edison himself.

Four other boys, not quite as mentally accurate as Huston, were awarded college tuition scholarships. Ranked equally, they were: Charles H. Brunissen, of West Redding, Conn.; Ivan A. Getting, of Pittsburgh; James Seth, of Santa Fe, New Mexico; and Bernard Sturgis, of Butler, Ind.

DUCHESS ON LONG FLIGHT.

Folkstone, Eng., Aug. 2.—The Duchess of Bedford, 84, one of Britain's most enthusiastic aviators, hopped off from Lympne aerodrome in the monoplane "Piper" at 5 a. m. today (midnight New York time) in an attempt to fly to India and back within a week.

Hail and Rain, Terrific in Intensity, Spread Devastation Through Farm Sections—Business District Here Is Flooded in Worst Storm in Years—Stores Suffer Heavy Losses as Stocks in Basement Are Damaged

More than a million dollars damage to crops and property was caused in and around Manchester late yesterday afternoon when the heaviest hail and rain storm in the history of the town struck this section of the state with an appalling loss. While the total extent of the loss through the state will not be available for several weeks it seems safe to estimate that it will be at least several millions.

Tobacco Ruined.

Storm-scarred tobacco plantations extend for miles throughout the outskirts of the town, none the worse than Wapping where the tobacco crops are a total loss. It was the most destructive hail-and-wind assault in the history of the industry. Approximately two thirds of the tobacco crop was protected by hail insurance. It was a storm that will be talked about as has been the blizzard of '88.

Many Uninsured.

The storm was the first of a major nature here in four years. Three years of minor hail storms only had brought a sense of security to the tobacco farmers according to insurance men, and they neglected, in countless instances, to provide insurance against just such an emergency. One Manchester insurance man said that many of the smaller farmers could not afford to carry hail insurance because it costs too much.

Big Growers Covered.

Many of the larger tobacco growers, however, carried insurance. For them there was a silver lining that broke through the clouds of yesterday's storm. According to the state experimental station's tobacco laboratory at Windsor, some of the tobacco growers will receive more money from insurance companies than their crops would actually have netted them due to the drought that has held sway here for many weeks. The station officials there said that two-thirds of the tobacco raisers took out the insurance against hail that will repay them in the sum of $300 an acre which exceeds the crop's actual value.

Roads Washed Out.

The torrential downpour, the bulk of which came between 5 and 6 o'clock, flooded the business section of the town not to mention the cellars of many private homes. The storm will cause the state and town thousands of dollars to repair roads due to the many bad washouts. Traffic was paralyzed. Trolley service was at a standstill for several hours, but no serious accidents were reported. Many chickens were reported drowned.

Wapping Hit Hard.

The storm was not so severe in the heart of Manchester as in the outskirts of the town and in Hartford and other neighboring towns and cities. The toll in this section seemed to be the heaviest throughout Wapping where a path at least a mile wide swept everything before it in ruin. Other garden produce besides tobacco suffered almost as heavily. The loss is almost beyond the power of description, a tour of the section by automobile revealed this morning. The Silver Lane section was struck especially hard.

Some Tobacco Picked.

The shade grown tobacco crop was not hit as hard as the field tobacco—broadleaf and Havana. Shade growers had taken, on average, three pickings from their covered acres so far this season and had two pickings left. Comparatively little of the remaining shadegrown crop can be salvaged. The loss averages from 40 to 50 percent. Incidentally, the rain which fell with the storm here was larger in amount than the total rainfall in June and July. The hail storm was the most severe in fifty years, as far as the farm is concerned on which the state laboratory in Windsor is located. A normal tobacco crop brings the growers between $300 and $400 an acre, but this year's crop has been

CHINESE REPORTS LIFE THREATENED

Jim Woong, New Laundry Man Here Tells Police Rival Told Him to Quit Town

The Chinese Tong war murder, three years ago last spring, when a Manchester laundry man was murdered in his shop on Oak street, was brought to mind here today when the disclosure was made that there have been made against the life of Jim Woong, an American-born Chinese who plans to open a new laundry shop in the Gorman block on Oak street on Monday.

This became known when Woong reported to police here that he had been warned not to begin business by Ong Willie, proprietor of the only Chinese laundry shop in Manchester which is located on Birch street. It appears, according to police, that Willie is trying to monopolize the laundry business in Manchester and doesn't wish any competition. Willie police do not take Willie's intentions to harm his rival seriously believing that he simply intends to scare Woong rather than actually harm him, they are taking no chances.

PICK LA GUARDIA TO DEFEAT WALKER

Unofficial G. O. P. Convention Selects Congressman as Fusion Hope.

New York, Aug. 2.—Republicans, Independent Democrats and other political opponents of James J. Walker, Democratic mayor of New York City, rallied today behind Representative Florelio H. La Guardia. The fiery Congressman who commanded a squadron of bombing planes over the Austrian lines during the World War, was named by the unofficial Republican city convention in Mecca Temple last night to lead the "fusion" ticket this fall.

The designation must be confirmed by Republican voters at the primary election on September 17 to become a legal nomination. La Guardia received the votes of 1,514 delegates, only 29 voting against him.

Mrs. Pratt Quits.

The delegates turned to La Guardia after Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt, also a member of Congress, had withdrawn.

Speakers at the convention characterized "Mayor Jimmy" as a "glorious clown" and declared that "the smile of 'Jimmy' the Jester" had cost the city millions.

La Guardia, in a ringing speech of acceptance, asserted that "every graftpayer and every taxpayer in the city was waiting for the Republicans to bring them relief."

TARIFF DOCTORS GO BACK TO SECRECY

Washington, Aug. 2.—A new secrecy rule, gagging Senator James Couzens of Michigan, was adopted today by Republican members of the Senate Finance committee to prevent general publicity on their rate-changing-in-the-new-tariff bill.

Under the new rule, any Senator can tell his constituents in personal interviews but all agreed not to give out any information to the general public after having revealed a number of important tariff changes. Couzens announced he would halt his public announcements and hereafter "write" his constituents about them.

Sewers Back Up

At the J. W. Hale Company conditions were much the same, only most of the water was a backwash from sewers. In both places officials in charge summoned "all hands below" and little time was lost in removing all stock possible from the basement floor to safer elevation. The basement at the Montgomery Ward store was filled with automobile accessories of every description and many other supplies. The water came in so fast that it was impossible to remove all of the goods in time to prevent damage.

Firemen Big Help

But for the untiring efforts of members of the South Manchester Fire department the damage would no doubt have been greater. Two fire engine pumps were at work from the time the storm ended until nearly 3 o'clock. Last night when work was suspended for a few hours so that the men might get some sleep. The department was at work again bright and early this morning removing the water from the cellars. Last night a crew of the Montgomery Ward & Company building, State Theater, Kemp's Music House, the Manchester Evening Herald, Hector H. West & Son, the old Hausmann block and the store at the corner of Spruce and Bissell streets which is owned by John F. Sheehan and this morning went to the A. and P. store on Oak street.

Two Pumps

Several firemen worked with each pump. Only those of Hose Company No. 2 and those of Hose Company No. 3 were used for this work. No. 4's pump was in the paint shop while No. 1's was held back for any emergency. Chief of Fire was prepared for any fire. In such event contacts would have been broken quickly and the cellar work temporarily abandoned.

Telephone Out

It was reported at the office of the Southern New England Telephone Company on East Center street here that more than 100 telephones were put out of commission by the storm. They were scattered all over the town. Service in nearly all cases were restored late this afternoon. The cause of the trouble in most cases was due to water getting into the cables causing short circuits. Only one tree was reported down, that being on Hollister street near the Harding school. This severed both telephone and electric light service, the latter affecting the entire north end which was without electric service during the storm.

Water in Water

The trouble in The Herald plant came from water which backed up out of the sewers. All available employees joined in a bucket brigade but the water came in so fast it was getting the best of them. It was until the fire department sent a pump to the rescue. The sewers were blocked up and the water pumped out of the cellar. In the room where the big press is located the water reached a depth of eight inches before it was put under control.

Motor Soaked

For a time it was feared that The Herald would not be able to put out a paper today. One of the two motors in the press was flooded but fortunately the main one located a few inches higher escaped. Had this been flooded, the press would not have been used today. The other motor, used for starting the press was "baked out" at the Norton Electrical Instrument Company on Hilliard street.

In an Adjacent Room

In an adjoining room in the basement of The Herald plant on Bissell street, 66 large rolls of paper valued at $1,800 were located. Taking previous experience as a precaution, this paper had been laid on blocks. Otherwise it would have been badly damaged. The water in this room reached only a depth of an inch. It was more than an hour and a half before the water was pumped out of the basement of the building.

Little damage was done at Depot Square. Cellars in the Mintz store and the A. and P. were almost flooded. A clogged drain was the cause and Rudolph Johnson, employed in the A. and P. store, clad in a bathing suit from the counter of Mintz's store dove into the water and removed the obstruction saving both stores quite a bit of possible damage.

At Cheney's local plant water entered the cellars of the Velvet mills. A force of men under Outside Labor Foreman Charles Griffith was kept busy pumping it out so that it would not rise high enough to hit the warps and jacquards stored there. The damage done was little.

Theater Flood

The State theater was forced to close for the evening. There was five feet of water in the deepest points and the water came up out of the orchestra pit and went as far back as the third row of seats, Manager Benjamin Von Pliski said.

The organ which is valued at about $13,000 was damaged and the generator, motor and blower which go with it were put out of commission. Two large furnaces, two oil-matic heaters, two water heaters and part of the vitaphone mechanism were also damaged. Electric lights throughout the building and in all stores and offices, from Bissell to Birch street were put out of use which greatly handicapped those engaged in salvaging stock and pumping the water from the basement. Lanterns were used for the latter work while candles were used in the stores. It was a strange sight to see a boy holding a candle in one hand and making an attempt to shine a pair of shoes with the other.

On With the Show

Despite the heavy damage, the State theater was able to resume its daily performances with the matinee show this afternoon. It will be some time, however, before complete repairs have been made. Manager Von Pliski and Ex-Manager Jack Sanson said the loss at the State theater would probably run as high as $10,000. Both said they did not believe this was an exaggeration. The fire engine pump from Hose and Ladder Company No. 3 on Spruce street worked until nearly midnight pumping the water out of the basement in the State theater building.

Sidewalks Cave

Water rushing in torrents down an alley-way beside the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company store at 33 Oak street, caved in a sidewalk and broke through cellar windows filling the basement to within a few inches of the main floor. Manager David J. Mortley said that the floor was so saturated with water that none of the supplies were damaged, all being stored in the rear of the building instead of the cellar. The water was not pumped out until today.

The cellar of Hector H. West & Son's carpenter shop at 23 Bissell street was also flooded. The water was pumped out shortly before midnight by the fire engine pump from Hose and Ladder Company No. 2 at the Center which came there following its work at the Montgomery Ward & Company store on Main street. Mr. West estimated the loss at about $1,000. A large quantity of lathes, shingles, doors and other supplies were stored in the basement of the building and the water rose to a depth of four feet causing much of the stock to float. A large amount of the material, however, was not badly damaged by the water.

Homes Deluged

Scores of cellars in private homes were flooded in various parts of the town. In many instances, this caused considerable damage and there were a few cases where the foundation of the houses was actually washed in. Two of the worst foundations caved-in were on Spruce street in the old Hausmann's block now owned by John P. Sheehan of 92 Holl street and in a house in the rear owned by Reuben McCann and occupied by Frank Haugh and family.

The first inking of the storm that visited Manchester came late in the afternoon when dark clouds loomed up out of the sky in the north. Even when faint crashes of thunder could be heard in the distance, there was no positive proof that Manchester was at last to have a hard rain storm. Too many times had storms blown close to the town only to change their course when Manchester seemed destined to have rain.

Starts at Four

However, shortly after 4 o'clock rain started falling. It was accompanied by hail stones although not anywhere near as many as were to follow later. The storm's course changed and started back to the north again. It looked at that time as if Manchester wasn't going to get much rain after all, but about a half an hour later it began to fall again. Shortly afterward it was accompanied by thunder and lightning and the rain increased its intensity until it was coming down in torrents.

Then almost without warning came the hail. The real storm began about 5 o'clock, just about the time the mill help was leaving work for home. A great many of them either stayed in the mill or whatever other places of shelter they could find. Many who started homeward in automobiles were marooned on the way when the cars became stalled. The storm continued terrifically for nearly three-quarters of an hour and the hail fell practically all of the time, bounding as high as two feet in many cases.

Big Stones

The hail stones were of various sizes and shapes, the largest being nearly as big as a nickel. At one time the ground was almost completely covered with them. They were so thick, in fact, that it was possible to scoop up a handful and throw ice-balls which is most unusual for the month of August.

The storm abated shortly before 6 o'clock but about a half an hour later the rain once more came down in torrents. This time, however, there was but little hail. An hour later the sky was clear and soon afterward the stars were shining. The streets were thronged during the evening and the topic of conversation on the lips of nearly everyone was the damage caused by the storm. Old timers said that it was the worst storm of its kind ever to strike Manchester.

Tobacco Ruined

Manchester has long been in need of rain but last night's terrible storm did far more damage than good. Unlimited damage was done to tobacco and farm products in general. It will be several days at least before the extent of damage can be accurately estimated. Crops were, in many instances, practically ruined by the drought but last night's storm applied the finishing touch to the destruction. Broad-leaved and Havana tobacco plants were stripped to the stalks while the damage to shade-grown tobacco will also run exceedingly high, the cloth being beaten down by the steady hail barrage.

All kinds of traffic was practically at a standstill during the height of the storm. In some cases the hail was reported to have hit holes through the tops of automobiles. There were numerous washouts in the streets and trolley traffic was entirely halted both here and in Hartford and vicinity when the lightning struck the power house in Hartford disrupting the entire service from ten minutes of five until quarter of ten. Two trolley cars were abandoned on Main street after an attempt to move them out of the way with trucks proved futile.

Streets Become Rivers

Many automobiles were stalled about the streets and had to be towed to nearby garages for repairs. Fortunately, however, there were no accidents. Police attributed this to the fact that comparatively few drivers defied the storm. Many of those who did were sorry afterwards. The streets were flooded with swirling, rushing torrents of water that in many instances overflowed the sidewalks and lawns and entered cellars. This was particularly so in down-grade locations. Stones weighing at least two pounds were washed down the streets like marbles.

The greatest flow of water as usual was down Center street to the railroad underpass where at one time the water was three feet deep making it absolutely impossible to pass through. About the worst damage from washouts on any highway was that to Park street where there were four large holes that all but prevented traffic. These were marked with red lights last night and were to be filled today.

Roads Washed Out

Road Foreman Don Hattin of the State Highway Department, said the only real damage caused to state roads was on West Center street from the point where it branches off Center as far as the brook this side of Spencer street. On this highway there were several bad washouts and the road was in pretty bad condition all of the way between these points. Among the worst points were near the Louis St. Clair Burr home and on the south side of the street near the triangle by Cooper street where it is in pretty bad condition. Highland Park also had some bad places and red lanterns were strung along the danger points as a precaution against possible accidents.

Trolleys Hit

Dispatched James Duffy said that three or four trolley cars were struck by lightning and put out of commission but no one was hurt. Trolley traffic was also greatly delayed because of sand and stones which were washed out by tracks. The Rockville line from Lore Lane through Buckland was completely out, long after service on other lines was restored. It was estimated that there was two truck loads of dirt on the highway in front of the Edgewood House, the result of the thousands of gallons of water that swept down under the railroad bridge. The Connecticut Company ran buses from here to Hartford over the trolley route when other service was paralyzed. There was a bad washout near Laurel Park and another on the Silver Lane Road.

Farmers just over the town line from the Gladstone side escaped the brunt of the hail though fruit trees suffered a little here and there. Alvah Russell of Mountain Road said this morning that in comparison to the amount of good the rain did the loss was negligible.

Buckingham Church Struck

In Buckingham an aerial was hit in two by the hail. The Buckingham church was struck by lightning, tearing the clapboards off the roof and blowing down the corner of Hillstown road and Bush Hill road a tree felled by the storm was suspended across the road, held up by interlocking branches with another tree. Automobiles were forced off the road into the gutter to the west.

A car owned by a local man was parked at the Underwood Typewriter Company. Hail beat a continuous tattoo on the roof, breaking through it. Filled with insatiable curiosity he heaved a stone through the holes but grew weary after reaching the 150 mark.

Greenhouses, of which there are three in Manchester, escaped with little damage. Anderson's Greenhouse on Hillside street, Jacob Senkbell's on Oak street and Michael Krauss' on Hartford road had a few panes of glass shattered but plants within were not injured. However, flowers grown in the open were completely washed out.

Hail Chunks

All through the day people have come in with the heavy hail with specimens of hail clusters. Pieces of packed hail picked up by Paul Lanz of 97 Center street at 8 o'clock this morning were the size of a football. Hailstones alone measured from two inches to a foot in diameter. According to George Bagley hail had fallen off the tobacco netting at Silver Lane into one huge lump six feet long and three inches deep. A chunk brought in by Paul Lanz was a foot long and almost as wide.

A tobacco plant on view at the F. T. Blish Hardware Store is representative of the condition of plantations in the vicinity. Every leaf is stripped from the stalk and even the latter is badly cut.

Chickens Lost

Karl Marks, chicken fancier, of 136 Summer street lost about 15 chickens by drowning out of a flock of 1300 at his coops at Vernon Center. The birds were knocked out of trees by the hailstones and drowned in the water from a nearby brook which had risen over four feet. Feeders placed along the banks were carried away and were found on top of bushes. In tree branches and buried in mud.

There were a few pieces about town where the hail did not accompany the rain to any great extent and in these sections the storm did considerable good. However, it is understood, that in many cases the drought had ruined the crops to such an extent that the rain of yesterday was too late to do any real good. Frons and lakes that have been getting dangerously low received a large supply of water which temporarily, at least, puts off any danger of shortage there. The rain helped the pasture land which directly affects the milk supply.

In The Storm's Wake

Clear and cool weather prevailed today in the wake of yesterday's storm. Town and state highway workers were busily engaged in road repair work while electric light and telephone service men also were confronted with a great deal of work to restore service to normalcy. There were many branches of trees small and large, to be cleared away.

The hail stones, while not as large here as in Hartford and vicinity, nevertheless, were sufficient large to break scores of window panes in windows at Wapping and puncture automobile tops like so many machine gun bullets. At the Manchester Auto Top Company on Center street, it was stated that they had heard of at least forty Havana-owned automobiles that had their tops ruined. Ten were in the garage at the time and the number of holes varied from 20 to 50 although some were even higher. It was stated that practically all of the machines were damaged in Hartford. However, there were a few that were cut quite badly from hail stones at Cheney Mills and in other places where they stood without shelter during the storm. New tops cost from $14 to $18.

At the Salvation Army Camp at South Coventry, at which 16 local Scouts are spending their vacations, the storm was so severe the scouts were taken to a nearby farmhouse to spend the night.

On Hamlin street water rushed down the road, overflowing the sidewalks onto the lawns of many residents and filling the cellars. At the home of Leonard Church of 128 Pearl street the cellar was completely filled. Driveways and trenches and gardens were covered with mud carried along by the water.

Frank O'Neill who lives in the Hillstown section of the town had a crop of 28 acres of tobacco. Yesterday he started cutting but the storm came when he had harvested only a half an acre. The balance will be a total loss. M. L. Gershal of Wapping reported his 65 acres of tobacco a total loss. The damage was also heavy at the Hartman

AIRPLANE EXPERT HURT IN COLLISION

Arthur Nutt, Challenger Motor Designer, Hits Gliding Ship in Take-Off

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—Arthur Nutt, chief engineer of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Co., of Buffalo and designer of the Curtiss Challenger motor which was used in the recent record breaking flight of the St. Louis Robin, is in a serious condition at a Berea hospital from injuries received when his plane crashed into a cabin plane operated by W. A. Warrick, president of Skyways Inc.

Nutt suffered a fracture of the jaw, concussion of the brain and lacerations of the face, arms and legs, according to hospital attendants. Warrick escaped uninjured.

F. A. Smith, manager of the Hotel Statler branch of the Marine Trust Co., of Buffalo, who was a passenger in the Curtiss Robin plane with Nutt, likewise escaped uninjured.

Nutt and Smith, who were en route from St. Louis to Buffalo, had stopped at the Cleveland airport for gasoline. Just as they were starting their run for a takeoff, Warrick, who had been to Lorain, was gliding to land.

According to witnesses, Nutt apparently saw Warrick's plane just before he had gathered flying speed. Taking a chance to avoid a collision, Nutt pulled his craft up sharply but the left wing-tip of his plane struck the upper wing of Warrick's biplane, dashing the Robin to earth.

OFFICIALS TO SUBMIT OMNIBUS HEALING ACT

Hartford, Aug. 2.—A blanket measure validating all bills passed by the various General Assemblies of the state but not signed within the time limit set by the constitution has been decided upon by state authorities as the proper measure to submit to the special session of the 1929 Assembly when it sits here next Tuesday. Such is the statement issued here today.

In order to formulate a valid blanket measure, the best legal minds in the state are being consulted, authorities said today. Names of the lawyers so engaged were not revealed. They will aid Ernest L. Averill, of Brantford, deputy attorney-general, who has charge of the work.

The first political sign in connection with the coming special session appeared today when William H. Hackett, of New Haven, a senator, called a Democratic Caucus to assemble at the Capitol here one hour before the time the Assembly is to be called to order.

Tobacco Plantation, Hackett Brothers and Silverstein & Kahn. Anthony Krawski of Foster street in Wapping said his three sons would have to go to work elsewhere to prevent financial ruin. Many of the tobacco growers said that they would not attempt to cut any of the broadleaf or Havana which was good for only stemming and that "we will be forced to harrow it into the ground."

Worst Yet

In Wapping a cement bridge over a brook opposite the location of the old Wapping Creamery was broken off both sides of the stream and washed several feet, the force of the water was so great. Countless other less important damage was caused about the town that was not available during the first day's survey. It was easily the worst storm in the town's history.

NICE BABY

Irwin, Ia.—An instance of where a cat has more courage than a man was recently demonstrated when a villager went out to see how a litter of kittens was faring. Crawling around in the middle of the litter was a tiny coal-black stranger with stripes down its back. It was a skunk which the mother cat adopted when a dog killed its mother.

SOVIETS REJECT OFFER OF CHINA

Demand Restoration of Railroad Before Considering Other Aspects of Case.

Moscow, Aug. 2.—The Soviet government today dispatched a note to Marshal Chang Hsue Liang, Manchurian leader, rejecting the Chinese offer to settle the Sino-Russian dispute.

The Chinese offer involved withdrawal of the Soviet ultimatum and the Nanking government and demanded release of all Chinese nationals arrested in Russia.

In rejecting the offer, the Soviets expressed readiness to negotiate the dispute, but only on condition that the Chinese Eastern railway be restored to its status quo ante, and Marshal Chang admits openly that the seizure was in direct violation of the Peking and Mukden treaties.

U. S. Consul Heated?

Tokio, Aug. 2.—Unsubstantiated reports were received here today that the American vice-consul at Harbin, Manchuria, was beaten by Chinese police while attempting to save a girl who was being maltreated by officers. The veracity of the incident is doubtful, as Manchuria is a hotbed of propaganda during the present crisis, it was pointed out here.

DESERT CONQUERED.

Brussels.—The Belgian and French governments are shortly to inaugurate a conquest of the Sahara desert—this time by plane. An airplane service is to be conducted between this city, Paris and Madagascar, and it will operate on a weekly schedule. Owing to intense heat, the desert will be crossed at night. Planes will be guided by beacons.

POMEROY BEGGING FOR HIS OLD CELL

Prisoner for 53 Years Quoted as Saying He Doesn't Want to Live Elsewhere.

Bridgewater, Mass., Aug. 2.—While his lawyer prepared a plea to Governor Frank G. Allen and the Executive Council for a pardon or parole, Jesse Harding Pomroy, notorious lifer, homesick for his cell at Charlestown state prison, was resting today at the state farm following his two hour automobile ride from Boston, during which he saw for the first time in fifty-three years marvels for a modern age.

"If I can't have my cell back I don't want to live," this modern Rip Van Winkle was quoted as saying, following his first view of a speeded up world.

Hard, sullen, stubborn and often almost surly was the description of this strange little seventy year old man by those who know him. He never smiles. During his forty years of solitary he mastered seven languages, including Arabic. Now he is partly blind.

Will Ask for Hearing.

Pomroy's lawyer, Attorney John F. Daly, said that after his client had had a rest at the state farm in an effort to eliminate hernia and regain his health, a motion would be made for a hearing to determine Pomroy's sanity. Allentists would be called in. If sanity is established a parole or pardon would be asked for the slayer of the boy Horace Millan.

Almost in rebellion, Pomroy left his "home" at state's prison. During his two hour automobile ride, while he looked for the first time on man's handiwork during the past half century, his greatest surprise was the absence of horses and the great number of gasoline filling stations.

Correct grade for your car is obtainable at all Atlantic dealers and service stations. Use it in conjunction with Atlantic Gasoline and get the very utmost in motor performance.

QUAKER CITY GANG KING "ON THE SPOT"

Body of Arthur Callen, Millionaire Racketeer, Found Riddled in an Alley.

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—The butler-riddled body of Arthur Callen, retired racketeer and self-styled "king of Philadelphia gangsters," was found lying in an alley near Fairmount Park at 2:50 o'clock this morning.

Callen was known as the "Al Capone of Philadelphia." He owned a sumptuously furnished mansion in the fashionable suburb of Overbrook, only a block away from the home of Mayor Kendrick, and was reputed to have made millions in running liquor before he retired about a year ago.

Callen was arrested dozens of times during his sensational career but never was convicted.

DUMP FIRE DRIVES OUT HORDE OF RATS

Three Thousand of Them in Sudden Dash Rout Blaze Fighters at Westboro, Mass.

Westboro, Mass., Aug. 2.—Fears were expressed here today that this town might need the services of a "Fled Piper of Havellin" after thousands of rats, squealing and biting, fled from a burning dump into a nearby swamp.

The fire, which started two days ago, was burning about thirty or forty feet below the surface. About 200 firemen and employees of the Boston and Albany railroad worked in shifts to extinguish the flames.

Last night, after a four foot trench had been dug to prevent the spread of the flames to the main line of the railroad, an army of rats, forced from their homes by the heat, made a fierce dash through the fire fighters, who stood between them and the swamp. The workers fled.

Fire Chief Thomas Hackett estimated that there were more than 3,000 rats in the pack.

Plans were under consideration today to call into service a steam shovel so that the entire dump would be dug over in order to extinguish the flames.

CHINESE REPORTS LIFE THREATENED

Birch street last night but was told "Ong away on vacation." Other than that, Lt. Barron was unable to get any information. The matter came to his attention yesterday afternoon.

Woong is determined to go through with his plan to open the laundry shop which is located next to the dyeing and cleaning store operated by Jacob Greenberg. It is to be known as the Golden Gate and has been remodeled and freshly painted. This was formerly the place occupied by Andrioli's shoe-repairing shop. Both local and state police at Hartford were notified about the matter and, furnished with the names of four Chinese who will be looked after in the event of any serious outcome. Woong told police he had heard stories about two Chinese from New York being sent here to "get him" but getting "cold feet" when they reached Hartford and learned the shop was located on the same street where the other Tong murder occurred.

Police are considering the possibility that there may have been some connection between the murder three years ago last March and the present alleged threat. Willie is understood to have made an offer of $500 for the lease. He has been in business here for several years and is well-known. Woong, the newcomer, speaks English quite well.

HAS ALL-HAND DEVICE FOR OPERATING AUTO

Marlboro, Mass., Aug. 2.—Some time ago John Finnernan, 21, of Roxbury, paralyzed from the hips down, applied to Capt. George A. Parker, registrar of motor vehicles, for a license to operate an automobile. He was told that he could not receive one unless some apparatus was made allowing manipulation of all parts by hand.

Finnernan today declared that Daniel O'Connor, of Marlboro, had contrived a mechanism which worked the foot brake, clutch and gears by means of a rod operated by the left hand, leaving the use of the right hand free to hold the steering wheel.

Finnernan plans to apply again for a license.

ABOUT TOWN

The item in last night's Herald stating that J. E. Rand was head of the committee in charge of the annual outing of the Orford Soap Company employees to Rocky Point was in error. Thomas Smith is head of the committee. Also they will leave at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow morning instead of 8 o'clock as stated.

Mrs. Clara Reymander of 49 School street visited her father in West Haven yesterday.

Mrs. John Parkinson of Stamford is visiting her sister, Mrs. David Korgiebel of 24 Henry street.

The State Highway Department expects the Edward Balf Company to start work Monday on the resurfacing of Main street from the Center north. It is expected that the job can be completed in about four weeks time.

During the storm yesterday afternoon the Gilnack place located about two miles over the town line in Glastonbury was struck by lightning and set on fire. The blaze was extinguished the family thought but a half hour later they found the fire burning again. This was quickly extinguished. But little damage was done.

August 8 has been set as the date for the closing of bids for the erection of the Center Congregational church house. The original plans for a $200,000 building have been abandoned and one costing about $150,000 will be erected. Three contractors are bidding locally. They are Gustave Schrieber and Sons, The Manchester Construction Company and E. L. G. Hohenhal, Jr.

Registrars of Voters, Robert N. Veitch and Louis Breen held their first meeting this afternoon for receiving names for registration for party caucuses. They opened their session at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will close at 9 o'clock, daylight saving time. Another, and the last, will be held a week from today. There was no rush at the opening of the session this afternoon.

Mrs. Andrew J. Healey, who made the grand list of the Seventh District, the Buckland District last year will make the grand list and rate book for this year. She started on the work today. The list does not contain a large number of names, but has property value of $1,000,000.

LINEMAN IS KILLED, 2ND ON SAME POLE

Fatal Transformer Station Takes Two Lives in Same Way in Norwalk.

Norwalk, Aug. 2.—Charles Williams, 36, of Bridgeport, was killed here today by an electric shock while repairing a transformer wrecked by lightning yesterday. Three years ago George Gilbert, a lineman, was killed on the same pole in the same way.

Williams, an assistant foreman for the Connecticut Light and Power Co., was in the hands of physicians for two hours before they knew their task to be hopeless. He leaves a wife and a sister.

A low estimate puts the value of Great Britain's royal jewelry at $30,000,000.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE FOR HARTFORD DRIVER IN LEAVENWORTH PEN

Middletown, Aug. 2.—Abraham Michelson, of 62 Deerfield street, Hartford, will face Justice of the Peace Harry A. Townsend, at Cromwell tonight on a charge of manslaughter, following a finding handed down by Coroner L. A. Smith today, holding him criminally responsible for the death of John J. Carlson, of Cromwell, on July 23. Michelson, driving a furniture van, ran into Carlson as he and his wife were walking home after their auto ran out of gas on the main road in Cromwell.

GRAF ZEPPELIN HEADS SOUTH FOR MADEIRA (Continued from Page 1.) 3 hours to cover the 100 mile water route between the Strait of Gibraltar and Cadiz.

Counter winds have held the Graf's speed down to an average of 48 miles an hour since leaving Friedrichshafen, whereas Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, had hoped to maintain an average speed of from 60 to 65 miles an hour, increasing it with the assistance of favorable tail winds.

Rumor of Return Denied. Friedrichshafen, Germany, Aug. 2.—The Graf Zeppelin was 300 miles west of Gibraltar and making "good progress" said a radiogram sent from the airship at 8:45 a. m., 4:45 a. m., New York daylight saving time.

Delay in communication with the dirigible had led to rumors the Graf was returning on account of continued headwinds.

"This is only a rumor," Construction Director Duerr of the Zeppelin works, said. "The flight is proceeding normally, according to program."

An earlier private telegram said the reported stowaway on board had been arrested and held prisoner.

OLD IRONSIDES SAILS

One hundred and seventeen years ago today, on August 2, 1812, the Constitution, most famous vessel in the history of the United States navy, sailed from Boston on her famous cruise.

The 44-gun frigate was popularly known as "Old Ironsides" from the hardness of her planking and timbers.

Cruising near Cape Race, August 19, 1812, after leaving Boston, the Constitution fought the famous battle with the Guerriere, a somewhat weaker British frigate, which she left a total wreck after a 30-minute engagement, the English losing 79 of their crew and the Americans 14.

In another battle, on December 29 of that year, the Constitution captured the Java, after two hours of fighting in which 300 Britishers and 34 Americans lost their lives.

On February 14, 1814, she took the frigate Python and a convoy in the West Indies. And on February 20, the following year, she captured the Cyane and the Levant, between the Madelras and Gibraltar, after a fierce engagement, remarkable for the seamanship of the Americans and the gallantry of the English. Soon after, the Constitution was pursued by a British squadron which recaptured the Levant.

Reported unseaworthy between 1828 and 1830, the Constitution was ordered dismantled, but was retained in deference to popular sentiment aroused by Holmes's poem, "Old Ironsides."

QUOTATIONS

"My prejudices for one set of men and another set of men never made me cease to defend that glorious constitution which our fathers obtained by a miracle and which flourished by a miracle ever since."
—Daniel Webster.

"Too often today men are literate, refined, but intelligent. . . . The remedy is to cultivate the scientific attitude of mind."
—W. Clyde Richey. (This Month.)

"I propose that we shall at once reduce our navy to a coast patrol and our army to an internal police force, turn our valuable military engineers into civilian officials, and close every poison-gas plant."
—Zechariah Chafee, Jr., professor Harvard Law School.

"It is the factory, not the machine, which is reducing all men and all commodities to a dead level of uniformity, because the factory makes it impossible for individual communities to be self-sufficient enough to develop their own capacities."
—Ralph Borsodi. (The News Republic.)

"Anybody could lead my band for a little while."
—John Phillip Sousa.

"Politics may be the avocation for the rich, but it is hardly a calling that can be recommended to a boy fresh from college whose only inheritance is a healthy body and a patriotic spirit."
—Oliver McKee, Jr. (The North American Review.)

The Mark of Genuine Aspirin

BAYER ASPIRIN is like an old friend, tried and true. There can never be a satisfactory substitute for either one. Bayer Aspirin is genuine. It is the accepted antidote for pain. Its relief may always be relied on, whether used for the occasional headache, to head-off a cold, or for the more serious aches and pains from neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism or other ailments. It's easy to identify Bayer Aspirin by the Bayer Cross on every tablet, by the name Bayer on the box and the word genuine printed in red.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocrotonolide, of Elberfeld it's a knock-out!

It knocks out that knock!

Land on that "knock" with a knock-out gasoline! Don't let high-compression and carbon knocks steal your power, defraud your motor of its rightful speed, or pilfer away its silence and smoothness.

Fill up with TYDOL ETHYL—Zero Knock Rating Gasoline and watch your car show you something new in action on the hills, silence in every cylinder, and speed on the straightaway.

TYDOL ETHYL turns destructive hammer-blow explosions into long, strong impulses of power . . . silky, smooth, dynamic. And for a premium that only amounts to 3 cents on a gallon, you get a better performance, more delightful motoring...and a conviction that here again, the best has proved to be the cheapest of all.

In Smart Models are Better Values at $1

because:

- they are color fast.
- they are as nearly unshrinkable as possible.
- they are cleverly styled.

Tested:

Tests made by the Better Fabrics Testing Bureau proved that the fabrics used in these dresses did not fade in washing or sunlight, and had almost imperceptible shrinkage.

From Maine to Texas the popularity of Virginia Belle frocks has grown until thousands of women are wearing them daily. Not at all the ordinary house dress, but so cleverly styled as frocks costing many times this low price. Models for women and misses, newly designed for everyday wear.

Don't Miss This Value

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Friday, August 2.

A modern "Uncle Tom" without a Simon Legree will be broadcast as the next offering of the Darktown Wanderers, entitled "Rufus Runs Away" to go on the air over the WEAF network at 7:30 Friday night. Alvin Simmons will be heard as "Rufus" with the part of "Uncle Isaac" played by the noted Negro concert baritone, J. Rosamund Johnson. They will be assisted by a banjo trio and the Wanderers male quartet. Among the numbers to be presented during the hour will be "Dixie Ragtime," "Alabama Snow," "Come Out, Dinah, On de Green," and "Roll Dem Cotton Bales." Phil Cook, who has been successful comedian, composer, writer, commercial artist and musician, will play the lead in the skit "Big Boy and Shorty" to be read over WJZ and associated stations at 8 o'clock and his partner, Victor Fleming, will present a sketch of comedy patter and popular songs which Mr. Cook has written for his own presentation, and a roody smattering of laughable jibes and gags may be expected.

Wave lengths in meters on left of station title, kilocycles on the right. Times are Eastern Daylight Saving and Eastern Standard. Black type type indicates best features.

They Want to See Snook Tried

This tells, better than words, public interest in a sensational murder trial. It is a picture taken in a corridor of the courthouse at Columbus, Ohio, where Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State University professor, is on trial for the confessed killing of Theora K. Hix, his co-ed sweet heart. Hundreds daily seek admission to the courtroom.

ROCKVILLE

Lightning Strikes Several Places
Two transformers, one in front of the Rockville-Williamant Light Company office, and the other in front of the Rockville Leader office were struck by lightning at 3:30 p. m. today during the heavy thunder shower. Lightning struck the house of William Dittich on Grand street also the home of Alfred Say on Union street. The Rockville Fire Department responded to both alarms. The damage on both houses was slight.

Automobile Stolen at Crystal Lake
An automobile stolen from Crystal Lake Wednesday night was found in Worcester, Mass., Thursday morning. The machine was a Dodge touring car, 1929 model, and was owned by Hugh Ward of Stafford Springs. The state police went to Worcester Thursday after the three men who were being held.

Popularity Contest Ends
The Popularity Contest came to a close Wednesday night, Miss Iola Quinn being the winner having 208,100 votes. Corinne Lee was second with 192,350; Regina Kloter, third, 171,498; Laura Minor, 136,739; Delia Martin, 101,422. The gifts were as follows, first, antique period walnut cedar chest; second, Lane red cedar chest; third, spinnet desk; fourth, hand painted glass floor lamp; fifth, Georgetown silk floor lamp. A banquet was held at the Rockville House for those in the contest. The evening proved very delightful and came to a close at 12 p. m. with three rousing cheers being given Mr. Cohen of the Enfield Furniture Company.

NASH "400"

LEADS THE WORLD IN MOTOR CAR VALUE

"400" Special Six Roadster
$1477

Delivered, Fully Equipped
Nothing More to Buy!

IN STYLE, PERFORMANCE AND PRICE

—the pick of the roadsters!

FOR the open car enthusiast, Nash builds a roadster that makes all others second choice.

This new Nash "400" has the style, the finish and the sparkling performance that you customarily expect only from roadsters far beyond its extremely moderate price.

The motor is the new Twin-Ignition type which Nash engineering has developed to add exhilaration and economy to motoring. Twin-Ignition means more power, more speed with less gasoline.

Next year's open car fashion is forecast in the finish of this charming "400." The upholstery is pigskin, with a big disappearing arm rest in the center of the front seat and arm rests on either door. The "400" roadster seats its passengers low, with only head and shoulders visible. Wheels are wire, with big heavy duty spokes, oversize hubs and chromium-nickel rims.

And the "400" Roadster is fully equipped, at the price quoted above, with every fine car accessory, including Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication, chromium nicked bumpers, spare tire, tire lock and tire cover.

It's new, it's smart and it is lower priced than any other roadster which remotely compares in style, quality and performance. See it before you buy your Roadster.

Delivered, Fully Equipped Price Range of 23 Nash "400" models $973 to $2,381 includes Touring, Roadster, Coupe, Cabriolet, Victoria and Sedan Models.

MADDEN BROTHERS
MAIN ST. AND BRAINARD PLACE. SOUTH MANCHESTER

THERE are no "deep, dark secrets," any more in tire building.

Super Service and First Quality RIVERSIDE Tires, for example, cost as much to build as any of the five or six other leading makes on the market. For rubber, cotton cord, and skilled labor, Montgomery Ward & Co. pays current market prices and rates the same as any other well-managed tire factories pay.

In addition... for sturdy design and fine appearance RIVERSIDE Tires rival any tires built, regardless of brand or price!

As for service—RIVERSIDES offer you no vague substitutes in the form of phrases... but definite, specific, absolute mileage guarantees—16,000 miles for the First Quality RIVERSIDE—30,000 miles for the Super Service RIVERSIDE.

Then, to clinch the reasons why RIVERSIDES are now being used by millions of motorists throughout America—Ward's tremendous sales volume and nationwide distribution bring these tires to you at prices ranging from $2 to $15 less per tire than comparable tires of any other make on the market.

Since there are no secrets about tire building—why should there be any in tire SELLING? In the sale of RIVERSIDES there are none... because none are needed! You can PAY more in price, yes, but you can't BUY more... in quality, service or appearance!

Knowing these facts— is there any reason in the world why your next tires should not be RIVERSIDES? ...

Step into our store today, and see these good-looking, high-quality, guaranteed-performance tires for yourself. Study their construction; see how they're built. Then try to find their equals at Ward's exceptionally low prices... try to match their GUARANTEES in any other tire at ANY PRICE. Those are the facts on which to buy quality tires at a big saving!

And remember—we have all sizes to fit all cars, and we provide free mounting service on every tire purchased.

JAPAN'S CENSOR USES SCISSORS IN FIRST TALKIE

Tokyo.—While bearing the distinction of being the first all-dialogue moving picture to be screened in Japan, "The Wild Party," will also remain upon Home Office annals as being the first "talkie" to receive drastic censor cuts.

Although minor deletions have been made in other sound-synchronized and dialogue pictures, it is the first time that film of this kind falls victim to the censor's scissors to an extent of 120 meters, the length officially ordered to be removed.

It is also first time the censor board frowned upon dialogue and ordered this feature of a film removal of kissing scenes, and "nude" sequences, which according to Japan's protectors of moral are lascivious and suggestive.

But behind this account of strict censorship, lies hidden a tale of hardship endured by Taro Tajima, one of the inspectors in charge, during the review of this film.

His major trouble was the difficulty in understanding the dialogue. "The Wild Party," it is understood, deals with the adventures, most amorous, of a group of American college girls.

The average American accent itself makes understanding already sufficiently difficult for untrained Japanese ears, but when it comes to a super-Brooklyn accent, which Clara Bow, the star, is purported to have, it becomes doubly trying.

This difficulty was further heightened by a generous sprinkling of collegiate expressions sandwiched in between sentences.

Mr. Tajima characterized his hardship in passing one 7 reel "talkie" as being the equivalent of reviewing 40 reels of silent film. He said it took him a whole morning, approximately 5 times more than is needed to pass a non-talkie of the same length.

Censor's Method.

The censors also decided when passing "The Wild Party" to abandon their former practice of obliterating the scenes and corresponding dialogue on the film by painting them with black enamel, as this would be liable to excite exaggerated ideas in the audience, when projected. They have instead decided to remove the coating of the film with chemicals, so that the scenes will show white when projected on the screen. This, they assume will lead the spectators to believe the film was severed by accident, and the projection, being white instead of black could have no "objectionable moral effects."

The part cut were those of a bedroom scene where the players are seen in "dormitory abbreviations," kissing scenes of excessive length, and a rowdy class room scene, where the professor is publicly insulted by his students.

In Berlin a noisy machine is confiscated by the police and fitted with a silencer at the owner's expense.

DANCE TEMPLE SOON TO BE MARKET PLACE

Chicago.—Off with the dance; on with the pork chops and vegetables!

Such is the prosaic fate destined for beautiful "Arcadia," for many years one of the most popular ball-rooms in Chicago.

Soon the soft strains of dreamy waltzes and livelier tunes of a newer age will be heard no more, and in their place will echo the raucous voices of hucksters and marketeers.

For beautiful Arcadia, the Temple of Terpsichore, is to be transformed into a modern market place! To many persons, living in the Uptown district of Chicago, this is a heart-breaking concession to commerce. Hundreds of families which had their beginning in courtship under the romantic spell of "dear old Arcadia" will soon be going there to buy their fruits and vegetables.

The man behind the new project is P. T. "Paddy" Harmon, boxing impresario and dance hall proprietor. Paddy feels that Arcadia has outlived its usefulness as a palace of entertainment and must now yield to the demands of commerce.

The new market, located at Broadway and Montrose Avenue, will be composed of 168 individual stores. The shops will be uniform in equipment and design, and when complete will represent one of the most modern and extensive market places in the country.

GRATEFUL
 The Herald wishes to express in some degree its very deep appreciation of the services of the South Manchester Fire Department in coming to the rescue of its imperiled plant yesterday. It is no part of the prescribed duty of the firemen to protect private property from the ravages of flood water. What they did for the Herald was volunteer work, pure and simple—and for it this newspaper is very grateful.

So, we take it, are the numerous other individuals and concerns in whose behalf the firemen labored for many hours. The department did a splendid job in a very serious emergency, out of a spirit of sheer helpfulness.

THE SILLY SEASON
 How great a muddle the McCook decision has thrown Connecticut into may be partially realized from observing the effects of the situation on the press of the state. Newspaper men usually have a fairly intelligent, if rough and ready, grasp on public questions. Their store of information is, on the whole, large and reasonably correct. They are trained in the faculty of seeing "past" the by-issues and all the way to the bottom of an ordinarily mixed problem. But in more than a few instances, since the break of this decision story, Connecticut editors have been about as upset and bewildered as anybody else. Otherwise it would be a little hard to understand such performances as that of a Bridgeport paper which presented to Chief Justice Wheeler these three questions:

In your opinion is it necessary for the Legislature to re-enact each of the invalidated bills separately?
 Would, in your opinion, the passage of one bill re-enacting all of the affected laws properly restore them to validity?
 In your opinion is it necessary for the Legislature to secure a ruling from the Supreme Court before proceeding?
 Of course the chief justices declined to answer any of the queries. At any other time, we imagine, the editor of the Bridgeport paper would have known far better than to expect the questions to be answered. At any other time, we fancy, he would have known that the questions, aside from any consideration of propriety, were so slovenly that nobody possibly could answer them responsibly.

Any high school student ought to be able to see that the first of the three questions is no question at all. What is meant by "necessary"? If the editor meant to enquire if the health of the state of Connecticut demanded that all these invalidated bills be re-enacted we could answer that ourselves, with a decided "No." There are a great many of the bills that it wouldn't do a bit of harm to leave out of any sort of re-enactment proceedings. One of them, for instance, is the McCook property seizure act itself. The Supreme Court has expressed its opinion of that measure irrespective of its illegality. If it were to be re-enacted it would, in all probability, only be voided over again. It certainly isn't necessary to re-enact such a bill as that one—and yet the question to the chief justice was whether it would be "necessary to re-enact each of the invalidated bills separately."
 The second question is worse yet. "Would the passage of one bill re-enacting all of the affected laws restore them to validity?" How could any lawyer, let alone one whose words are officially tantamount to an edict, reply to such a question? What kind of a bill? How phrased? Everything in the whole situation might depend on the language of the measure. To ask a constitutional lawyer to pass on the validity of an act not yet even framed would be like asking a horse show judge to appraise the points of a colt not yet foaled. And as to the third question—it simply doesn't make sense. What kind of a ruling? Before proceeding to do what? And of course the chief justice wasn't going to dignify with a serious reply a question which, vague as it is, suggests somehow the Legislature's obtaining the Supreme Court's permission to do a Legislature.

 Surely the McCook season has precipitated the silly season.

MIKE'S BIG DAY
 Mike Crowley, Boston's head cop, is undoubtedly possessed of plenty of physical courage. In fact we never heard of a Boston cop who wasn't. In the Boston precincts where they breed cops it doesn't do to be afraid of a fist nor yet a gun. But Mike has two terrible fears eating at his vitals all the time. One is the fear that somebody in Boston is going to get hold of a smutty book. The other is the fear that "them reds" are going to capture the United States. For a week or two now Mike hasn't raided a single bookstore. He has been too busy worrying over the thoughts of a swarm of Russian Reds, with their whiskers full of crotches and their hands full of bombs, descending on Tremont and Boylston streets and pouring over the Common like the proverbial army of locusts, dyeing the streets and the people of the Hub with their own crimson of revolt.

Wherefore Mike massed his cohorts, a thousand of them, armed them with riot guns—whatever they may be—machine guns, maybe too with howitzers and hand grenades and other terrible things inherited from the World War, and prepared to sell the lives of the Boston police force dearly in defense of the Home of the Bean and the Cod on International Red Day.

Mike's preparedness was like the Kaiser's preparedness—it found, by diligent seeking, a reason for its being. It found, first of all, a nineteen-year-old boy parading red blather from a chair in the middle of a street. The thousand cops were more than adequate to putting this adolescent simpleton in the hoosegow. Then it found a crowd of several hundred South End malcontents telling each other how they would soon be running the world under the guidance of the Soviet Union—and Mike and his thousand just naturally whaled that crowd good and plenty, cracking many a head and putting eight of the pop-eyes in the coop along with the boy. One was a girl.

That was that, for International Red Day. Now Mike can give some time to suppressing books.

MISTAKEN ORDER
 There must have been some misunderstanding of the order. What the people of this section requested was the breaking of the drought—not its explosion. They wanted rain, but they didn't want, in a few minutes, as much rain as, though extended over forty days, gave Noah a perpetual reputation. And there was positively no order in for any hail at all. There may be a few folks who got a kick out of the opportunity to brag forever after about the size and quantity of those hailstones, but even these few would scarcely have been willing to put their John Hancock to a requisition for the stuff.

Seriously, about the only good thing about yesterday's phenomenal storm, aside from the partial compensation lying in the wetting down of the countryside, is the fact that it gave Manchester and vicinity a better idea than any other storm ever did of what Nature can do when she goes on a rampage, and so prepared thousands of minds to more fully appreciate in the future what floods, cyclones and other disasters mean to their victims.

THE VESTRIS WHITEWASH
 It might be considered highly presumptuous for a lay person whose only familiarity with the case was obtained through news dispatches to intimate that the British Board of Trade finding in the Vestris case was tempered with a beautiful degree of mercy toward the owners; but it is at least improbable that the extremely favorable impressions of the Board held by thousands of Americans will retain, exactly one hundred per cent, their past quality in view of that decision.
 To most people in this country—those, that is, who have taken note of the Board of Trade's proceedings at all—that body's name has been synonymous with a stern and august wisdom, an unyielding rectitude when sitting in judgment such as was to be found in few tribunals of past or present times. Board of Trade verdicts have been regarded as oracular, infallible. No one would think of even mentioning the words "fear" or "favor" in connection with them—it would have been an impossible association.

 Even now there is a marked hesitancy to employ the term "whitewash."
 Nevertheless, when we take the Board of Trade's own words in dealing with the subtle warning of the Lampart & Holt concern to its captains against calling for assistance, and the fact—which the Vestris had called for aid soon enough there had been no sacrifice of life; and then when we look over the finding and see that the New York agents of the company are made a scapegoat and the owners only apologetically admonished in relation to that S O S regulation, it is just about impossible to refrain from admitting, with ever so much regret, that the old grey mare ain't what she used to be. Or, at least, what we all used to think she was.

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, Aug. 2.—"Cigarettes are a source of crime," says President Hoover.
 He is thus quoted in a propaganda sheet being broadcast by the Anti-Cigarette Alliance, which seeks to make this a sweeter and better world by abolishing cigarettes. The piece of propaganda is entitled "What Great Americans Say About Cigarettes." The president is quoted as follows:
 "There is no agency in the world today that is so seriously affecting the health, efficiency, education and character of boys and girls as the cigarette habit, yet very little attention is paid to it. Nearly every delinquent boy is a cigarette smoker, which certainly has much to do with it.
 Cigarettes are a source of crime. To neglect crime at its source is short-sighted policy, unworthy of a nation of our intelligence."
 The Anti-Cigarette Alliance, on inquiry, says the extract was taken from a letter to President Coolidge from Mr. Hoover written while the latter was Secretary of Commerce. The other great Americans quoted against the cigarette are Senator Reed Smoot of Utah and President Daniel E. Poling of the Christian Endeavor.
 President Hoover smokes cigars and sometimes a pipe. The Alliance is really opposed to all types of smoking, but it concentrates its attack on cigars.
 The organization is pushing out this Hoover statement at a time when professional reformers are showing a greater tendency than ever to branch off from prohibition, gambling and vice and take in tobacco. Mr. Hoover, although he appeared to be mainly concerned with the effect of cigarettes on boys and girls, even going so far as to suggest that they caused adolescents to become criminals, has said nothing against use of cigars by adults. In fact, it is quite a common thing to smoke cigars in the presidential presence. Mr. Coolidge also preferred cigars, but Harding was a cigarette smoker.
 A few weeks ago the Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, publicly announced that the cigarette makers were following in the dangerous footsteps of the old-time liquor interests and warned of the implications of some future prohibition act against cigars.
 Equally ominous from the standpoint of the cigarette smoker were the words of the Christian Register, an organ of the Unitarians—often regarded as a liberal denomination—in a recent editorial.
 "For several years we have said nothing about tobacco," says the editor. "Cigarette consumption is rampant and colossal, and only an astronomer can give the figures. But the time is near at hand when the women crusaders are going to assail the habit among women, and as the result will not be in doubt, Fantastic it seems, but fact it will become, that tobacco will soon be fighting for its right to be a solace to mankind, as the liquor people did the generation before prohibition came. They sense something. Medical experiment is all against the weed, as we demonstrated in the extraordinary clinical articles that were published in the Register 10 years ago.
 "Whoever uses tobacco habitually in any form, but especially in smoking," the editor said, "is not the same person, nor so good a person, as he would be in body, mind and spirit, if he let it alone. We are telling the world. And the world is going to hear about it in the next decade."
 Obviously, such propaganda is directed against adult cigarette smoking, though adolescent smoking and advertising appeals to women have offered an especially convenient target for the recent wailing of it.
 He'd Regulate the Ads.
 No bills to abolish cigars have been introduced yet in Congress, but Senator Smoot has a resolution designed to regulate cigarette advertising. Smoot attacks cigars exactly on the same grounds on which alcohol has been attacked. He points out the great "waste of money," the "decrease of efficiency," the loss to employers of the cigarette-smoking workmen, the "link" between excessive cigarette smoking and the drink and drug habits and so on. He is especially sour about the appeals to potential women smokers, though editorial writers have suggested that he is speaking for the sugar interests, which are powerful in his home state.
 The Anti-Saloon League is taking no part in the early skirmishes against cigars. Some of the League officials, in fact, are inveterate smokers.

Going Places AND Seeing Things

Aboard the Western Air Express, Headed for San Francisco.—Leaving Hollywood gives me the same sensation I have felt when walking out into Broadway after seeing a good show.
 A sense of unreality continues to cling long after the curtain has fallen. There's something of the land-of-make-believe in the Hollywood air which takes time to accept. The endless pageant of men and women garbed as gypsies, princes and troubadours somehow doesn't fit into the workaday world I have come to live in. And the thousands of toy houses, gayly painted oil stations and ceramic stores seen, in retrospect like fantastic and colorful illustrations from a modern fairy tale.
 Nor do the street crowds help much in bringing me back to reality. There's a tropical quality about the thousands of girls which makes them appear as super-Ziegfeld selections. The sun has browned their skins to a very attractive brown. Their attire is gay and color-splashed. They go in for summer holiday clothes in a big way. They are eminently conscious of their sex, even at an early age, and garb themselves accordingly. They are a healthy, husky, well-built crew—and what with the summer sun, many seem to be coming down the streets in variations on the bathing suit theme.
 Thanks to the mass rush of beauties toward the movies, the hotel lobbies and the picture sets are jammed with young things who are far too attractive for a traveling columnist, for instance. They seem like all the elegant choruses I have ever beheld in a vast parade.
 However, it might be the climate—these tropical places always did do strange things to me!
 And they're beginning to tell me that my success at flying can be quite as much to light-headaches as to air-mindedness.
 Here, 7000 feet above the earth, on an air as quiet as a placid sea, the little old portable rattles along as easily as upon an office desk.
 What an artist I would spend half my time flying between Los Angeles and San Francisco, and at the end of the tenth trip I'd throw my colors and palettes out the window. For in all the world, I doubt if quite so much color and life and beauty can be captured within a space of three hours.
 Nor is there any feeling quite so unworried as that of skimming along the upper level of a sea of fog so vast that it seems endless. It is a tremendous, billowing mass, completely hiding the ground below and opaque in the bright sun which seeks to dispel it.
 Within a few moments we are climbing to top the peaks of the softest in hue as we mount higher. A long stretch of valley which opens between two ragged lines of uneven mountains.
 Far below stretches an endless variety of pastel shades, which grow softer in hue as we mount higher. The browned California hills become as huge inverted oyster shells, tinted so subtly at times as to seem unreal. Such is the illusion that the greens of tree-tops and fields run the chromatic scale.
 The salt marshes run from the softest lavenders to the deepest perples. Towns disappear and skylines vanish. The earth becomes a rainbow of varied tones.
 Just as one should drink water when thirsty, but during the warm weather it is sometimes a good plan to drink even a little more than desired. From about nine o'clock to eleven o'clock in the morning it is wise to take from about one to two quarts of cool water. Cool water is more agreeable to the taste and seems to refresh, but I would not advise the use of ice cold drinks to any extent. In the afternoon, between three and five o'clock it is advisable to take another quart of water, allowing not less than an hour to elapse before dinner. If this amount of water is used during the day you will not desire to drink much at meals or during the evening. The water taken in the morning does the most good; and it can be absorbed before and used during the warm period of the day.
 Only the purest water obtainable should be used, and if any doubt exists as to the purity of the water, it is always a good plan to use distilled water, which is entirely free from minerals or bacterial microorganisms.
 Not only is it advisable to use more drinking water, but it is also a good plan to use water externally to keep the skin clean and the mouths of the pores open so as to encourage a greater elimination of perspiration. Every man, woman and child should take at least two shower baths daily, and during the hot day it is very refreshing to take a cold shower in the middle of the day. You do not have to fear any weakening effect from taking several shower baths.
 Remember this, that a clean body, inside and out, cannot be a sick body. There is always more danger in not using enough water than in using too much.

 (Tuberculosis)
 Question: "T. B." writes:—"I have heard that in Russia they take the liver and lungs of a young calf and seal them up and boil for twenty-four hours. This is then patients. Do you think this treatment is useful or harmful?"
 Answer:—There can be no special advantage in taking the food you have written about. A tubercular patient needs to be dieted very carefully, but the main object of the diet should be to supply calcium deficiency and provide the best tissue building elements.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

DRINK WATER TO KEEP COOL
 If one wishes to keep cool during the warm weather, it is necessary to drink large quantities of water, or to use foods containing water abundantly. Water is the necessary medium in which the skin can regulate the temperature of the body. The skin acts as a sort of thermostat, keeping the body at about a temperature of 98.6 degrees whether on a warm summer's day, or a cool winter's night.
 On a hot day the millions of pores of the skin are constantly busy throwing off fine particles of moisture and in this way lowering the temperature and eliminating waste products. Even the warmest day should not feel oppressive if one will allow his body to keep cool by regulating the diet, water drinking, and clothes. Avoid the rich, fatty foods. Keep the starches down to the minimum. Eschew sweets. Wear light clothes. But be especially sure to eat large quantities of the juicy fruits and the fresh vegetables, and drink plenty of water.
 It is better to do most of the water drinking between meals

when the stomach is empty so as not to over-distend the stomach by the combined food and water. At just one meal one should drink water when thirsty, but during the warm weather it is sometimes a good plan to drink even a little more than desired. From about nine o'clock to eleven o'clock in the morning it is wise to take from about one to two quarts of cool water. Cool water is more agreeable to the taste and seems to refresh, but I would not advise the use of ice cold drinks to any extent. Recommended By
Dr. Frank B. McCoy

Dr. McCoy's menus suggest for the week beginning Sunday, August 4:

Sunday
Breakfast—Whole wheat muffins, peanut butter, stewed prunes.
Lunch—Sweet corn, Summer squash, raw celery.
Dinner—Roast pork, mashed turnips, combination salad of cucumbers, tomatoes and celery, baked apple (no cream).

Monday
Breakfast—French omelet, wafer (browned through), pear sauce.
Lunch—Melon as desired.
Dinner—Minced chicken in tomato jelly, salad of cold cooked asparagus on lettuce, pineapple gelatin.

Tuesday
Breakfast—Cottage cheese, melba toast, apple sauce.
Lunch—One kind of fresh acid fruit, as apples or pears.
Dinner—Broiled steak, buttered small beets, spinach, salad of grated raw carrots, raspberry ice cream.

Wednesday
Breakfast—Coddled eggs, toasted Triscuit, stewed figs.
Lunch—Pint of buttermilk, 10 or 12 dates.
Dinner—Baked sea bass, stewed tomatoes, summer squash, salad of shredded raw cabbage and celery, Jello or Jell-well (no cream).

Thursday
Breakfast—Whole wheat-raised muffins, broiled ham.
Lunch—Raw apples, with handful of pecan nuts.
Dinner—Veal loaf, grated and baked carrots and turnips, salad of sliced cucumbers, prune whip.

Friday
Breakfast—Coddled eggs, Melba toast, stewed raisins.
Lunch—Fresh peaches or melon as desired.
Dinner—Broiled fillet of sole, summer squash, salad of tomatoes, celery and ripe olives, no dessert.

Saturday
Breakfast—Waffles and crisp bacon, stewed apricots.
Lunch—Molded combination salad of string beans, celery and minced ripe olives, Glass of sweet milk.
Dinner—Roast beef, asparagus, buttered beets, salad of head lettuce with olive oil, grapejuice whip.

"Minced chicken in tomato jelly: Drain, but do not strain, two cups of juice from a large can of tomatoes. Pour into a saucepan and heat to almost boiling point. Have ready one envelope of plain gelatin which has been softened with a little cold water. Dip up some of the tomato juice and stir into the gelatin until thoroughly dissolved, then mix all together and set in a cool place until the juice begins to thicken. Now mix in one cupful of minced chicken. Pour into wet molds and place in the refrigerator until ready to serve. Serve unmolded on crisp lettuce. The amount is sufficient for four persons, and forms the protein part of the meal. Any left-over roast, such as beef, pork or mutton may be prepared in the same manner and found very appetizing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Rickets)
Question: O. L. D. asks: "Will you please tell me what I can do to cure myself of rickets? I am not quite sure if that is what I have, but I thought that maybe you would explain just what rickets is."
Answer: Rickets is a disease usually caused by faulty metabolism, but may be due simply to a lack of the proper amount of bone-building minerals. Only a careful diagnosis of your case would reveal what is causing the trouble. Go to a good diagnostician, or write me again giving a more complete description of your case.

(Beef Blood)
Question: W. I. D. asks: "Should a person suffering from anemia drink a pint of warm beef blood daily? If so, where could it be obtained?"
Answer: This treatment has been tried many times, but I have never heard of a case receiving any benefit. Anemia can only be cured by getting rid of the systemic toxicosis which produces it. Stuffing with any kind of food is never helpful and always makes the patient worse.

(Morphine)
Question: Mrs. H. writes: "Please give me information as to how to detect the use of morphine by another person. Does the drug cause the pupil of the eye to contract or expand, and soon after taking the drug does the addict break out in perspiration? Is there a hoarseness in the voice?"
Answer: Morphine causes a dilation of the pupils of the eyes which are large after the drug is taken. A person usually does not sweat afterwards unless an excessive amount of the drug is taken. Sometimes aspirin or veronal will produce the symptoms you mention in your letter. It takes a trained eye and a continual observation over a period of time even by a physician to determine whether or not one is a morphine addict. Sometimes even a physician is fooled by the addict.

VERMONT RAILWAY IS SAFETY PROGRAM

St. Albans, Vt.—Attempts to inculcate summer vacationists with proper regard for devices guarding railroad crossings, are being made by Judge J. W. Redmond, one of the receivers for the Central Vermont Railroad.

Judge Redmond claims that the majority of accidents which occur at railroad crossings are not due to faulty protection afforded the motorist, but rather to the desire of vacationists to beat trains to crossings. Many of the grade crossings in Vermont have been eliminated and most of the remaining danger spots have been altered by the installation of automatic safety devices. There still remain, however, a number of unprotected crossings.

During the summer months accidents occur at such a rate which alarming frequency, according to the report of Judge Redmond.

The crashes with few exceptions are due entirely to the attempts of reckless motorists to beat locomotives to the crossing. Failure often results in death or serious injuries.

"I personally believe," said Judge Redmond, "that the place to begin our successful offensive against this gruesome evil of carelessness is in the home."

The out of state tourists who have been traveling over considerable distances at a high rate of speed are the worst offenders. Their failure to slow up for country grade crossings has resulted in many fatal accidents, according to Judge Redmond.

Alexander Scores 372nd Win Of His Long Career

Old Master Ties Record of Christy Mathewson by Beating Brooklyn.

BY LES CONKLIN

New York, Aug. 2.—Grover Cleveland Alexander will be shooting at a new record of total victories for a simon-pure National League pitcher the next afternoon when he ambles to the mound. By beating Brooklyn yesterday, 5 to 2, while the endurance flyers, Jackson and O'Brien, looked on, the grand old man of baseball performed an endurance feat of his own hook when he tied Christy Mathewson's record of 372 victories.

The Cardinal veteran now 42, has no chance of approaching the record of Cy Young, who compiled 511 victories in 22 years of both National and American League pitching. But if such ancients as Red Faber and Jack Quinn can cheat Father Time year after year, it is barely possible that old Pete may eclipse Walter Johnson's American League record of 416 games won.

Mathewson spread his 372 victories over seventeen years, while Alexander started in eighteen years ago just as Young was retiring. The pennant race remains unchanged in the National League this morning, as all the other first division teams won. Jess Petty of the Braves came to life and turned in his first full game of the season at Forbes Field, beating the Phillies 3 to 1, thanks to Comorosky's triple off Harold Elliott, a rookie, with the bases loaded to the gills.

Guy Bush of the Cubs has won fifteen games against only one defeat. He scored his ninth successive triumph by capturing a brilliant 1 to 0 duel with Ben Egan of the Braves, although Chicago was out-batted by five hits to three.

Larry Benton of the Giants stopped the Reds cold, 6 to 1. Tony Kaufmann of New York got his first hit in 25 times at bat this season and now is only 382 points behind his average of last year, when he batted .402 with the Rochester Internationals.

Bishop and Simmons wielded a wicked willow as the Athletics out-slugged Detroit, 7 to 4. George Earnshaw was knocked out by the Tigers, but was credited with his seventeenth win of the season, tying his teammate, Lefty Grove, for the league lead in total games won.

The A's stretched their lead over the Yankees to 10 1/2 games, as Roy Sherid, New York rookie, lost a 3 to 2 duel to Ted Lyons of the White Sox on a triple by Shires in the eighth. Babe Ruth's 25th homer and another by Combs gave the Yanks their tallest.

The Browns gave Rip Collins a 9 to 1 lead but he blew up in the seventh and his successors were not better, the Senators scoring five runs in the seventh and seven more in the eighth for a 12 to 9 triumph.

Cleveland also gave Jim Zinn a 9 to 1 lead over the Red Sox and he managed to hold it, eventually winning by a 10 to 3 count.

The new sun tan cosmetic has one advantage, anyway—it doesn't hurt so much to get slapped on the back.

GOOD TO HIS FRIENDS

One of our leading sportsmen, who has had considerable experience with rackets, spent his vacation in Canada. In two weeks he had all he cared for but he wanted to bring some back for his friends.

He asked the clerk in one of the stores how chances were of getting stuff across the border and the clerk told him chances were well. He told him that at a certain hour the customs men let cars through who had the signal. He gave him the signal and showed him where to hide the stuff and our noble sportsman bought two gallons.

Signal Didn't Work

He approached the border with a light heart, when he saw several cars get through after only a casual examination. When he got to the line he gave the signal and was stopped and searched thoroughly. The liquor of course was found.

"That will cost you 50 bucks unless you want us to take you in and get you a bigger rap," he was told.

He shelled out 50 bucks and was getting ready to let out the clutch when the guards of the law reached in and took his two gallons.

This is Co-operation

When he reached a city across the line he went with his tears to a bootlegger friend and told him his sad story. The bootlegger asked him where he bought the stuff and he told him.

"You're a smart guy. Yes, you are! You oughta know that that place was a squeal joint," the bootlegger told him. "Those clerks in there take the number of your car and tip them off on the border and they get a split of the take and then sell the booze to us."

The Wisest Are Suckers

Several years ago another one, wise to the ways of the world and the underworld, was taken in St. Louis. He was a manager of a champion fighter and he took his boy to St. Louis for a match. His boy had been in the big dough and so had he but he was loose with his change and could always use cash.

He was approached in his hotel in St. Louis by a couple of hustlers he knew and trusted.

A Chance for a Clean Up

They told him they had just succeeded in getting a big supply of dope and that they couldn't handle it all. The Feds were watching them, they said, and they didn't dare to take any of it out themselves.

"They'll never suspect you and you can take a load out," they told him. "You can make 300 per cent on your investment."

They told him also where and how he could dispose of the cargo and he bought one grand worth of the stuff and packed the jars in his trunk according to instructions.

No Dough for That-Stuff

He found the purchasers that were referred to him in New York. They were expecting him. He turned over his cargo and sat back waiting for his dough.

His customers gave the snow the analysis and came back into the room.

"We can't handle that stuff," they said. "You'd better take it to some drug store. It's Epsom salts you bought."

Expect Keen Competition In The National Amateur

American, English, French and Canadian Players to Compete at Del Monte.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, August 2.—They let Pebble Beach have the National Amateur Golf championship with a sinking sensation in the region of the midriff. Today, they are congratulating themselves over station whoop. The United States Golf Association will be out in a day or so with the official entry list for the championship at Del Monte, Cal., September 2 to 7, and in point of quality and quantity, as they say in the guide books, it probably will be the greatest in all the history of the event.

The writer obtained a rough draft of the entries today and apparently everybody, who happens to be anybody, will be there. With a noble exception such as Max Marston, Dexter Cummings, Ellsworth Augustus, Roy Gordon and Dick Jones, who are non-entrants, the only absentees will be those who decide to stay away—after being especially requested to do that. These, roughly, will be forty-one in number.

There were 211 entries, a new record, when they closed the books for the event on July 2. There still are 211 entries but, by the time the championship committee separates the clover from the milkweed, the official list is expected to be 170, another record.

Of course, it isn't really all difficult to get a field of 170, composed largely of those who and the other fellows, although personally I have my price and I stick to it, even if they go as high as a dollar-ninety. If they don't, I'll hold them and go anyhow.

So will some of the other good ones, including the champions, present and past, of four great countries, America, England, France and Canada and practically the golfing strength of the nations in question. This man Jones, for instance, will go back to defend the title he has won four times in the last five years and the man who beat him in 1926, Von Elm, will be there to see if he can't do it again. He will have illustrious company in the persons of Cyril Tolley, current champion of England, and in George Dawson, the American, whom Tolley defeated in the finals; also in Don Garrick and Ross Somerville, perennial Canadian champions, and in Jack Bournes, present and former holder of the French championship respectively.

Bournes, like Tolley, is a member of the invading British, the others including Major Guy Campbell, Lord Charles Hope and Eustace Storey ex-champions of England.

Another ex-champion of both countries, Jess Sweetser, will be making his first start in major competition since he won the British amateur in 1926, beating Jones the flower of two hemispheres. Sweetser's appearance alone guarantees the event to be real championship, granting that his health alone will permit him to make the fight of which his game is so notable. Evans, Oulmet, Johnston, Knapper, Guilford and others of the old guard will be there, too. Likewise the rising young men of the pastime, Volght, Findlay, Homans, MacKenzie, Watts, Gunn, John Dawson, held and McCarthy.

One could stop here and have a championship field; in fact, these named are about representative of the championships of the past, the championships that have been held from St. Louis, eastward. But one does not stop here; he merely begins.

For the golfing strength of the coast at last is available. Don Moo, Dr. O. Elm, Willing, Bon Stein, Frank Dolp, Chandler Egan and a few others have come on to the event from time to time and they have figured prominently in the proceedings, at that. But the great reserve of the section never was tapped and so Johnny McHugh, Dr. Paul Hunter, Dave Martin, Jack Neville, Rudie Wilhelm, Fay Coleman and George Ritchie among others will be definite personalities, tossed into the cauldron of a competition that will be nation-wide for the first time.

There can be only one result. The man who wins this year will indeed, be champion in this country.

JUST PART OF IT

A Londoner visiting St. Andrews, famous Scottish golf center, determined to try a round of golf.

It seemed easy, and his first drive was a terrific swish. When the turf had ceased to descend he turned, somewhat dazed, to the caddy and asked:

"What did I hit just now, my lad?"

"Scotland, sir," the caddy replied.—Staffordshire Sentinel.

Chuck Klein's Rapid Rise Makes Cardinal Manager Have Chills

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, Aug. 2.—Amazing fellow, this "Chuck" Klein, of Philadelphia, who within two days hit five home runs, three of them successfully for what was said to be a modern record, and thereby "stole the show" from Ruth, Gehrig, and the other prima donnas. Just an oversight miracle, this fellow Klein. A year ago, he was unknown—and unwanted. Branch Rickey, of the Cardinals, was interested but not enough to buy the man for his own club. Just enough interested, as a matter of fact, to tout Klein to Burt Shotton, of the Phillies, a friendly gesture begotten of their former association in St. Louis. Friendly tips from rival baseball men aren't notorious for their reliability.

So it is possible that neither Shotton nor Rickey expected too much to come of the matter. Klein "hadn't been around long enough," in the parlance of the ball field. In fact, he had been "around" hardly at all. A little semi-pro experience two or three years ago around Dayton, Akron, Erie and that section. A half-season at Fort Wayne, of the Central League, a Class B outfit.

Was A Sub.

Besides, a couple of major league scouts had looked him over and didn't like what they saw. He would never do, said they. That was a year ago. Today, the man who never would do is a man who has baseball by the ears. Amazing fellow, indeed. It takes something like five years to make even an ordinary ball player out of the average candidate. Klein has become extraordinary in six months.

Eighteen months ago, a dub; one year ago, a Class B. ball player, with a batting average of .331 and a record as a fielder that should have been embalmed and preserved for posterity at the Smithsonian Institute. He made an even dozen errors in eighty-eight games with Fort Wayne, which is bad for anybody but just plain terrible for an outfielder. And the tip was that he wouldn't hit left hand pitching with a canoe paddle.

But the Phillies needing outfielders as well as pitchers, catchers, and infielders, decided to take a flier with him. Whereupon, the so-called inept hitter against left handers began to hit everything so far that they haven't found some of it yet and the hopeless fielder proceeded to go and get them in representative major league style.

He made only three errors with the Phillies through the last half of the 1928 season and that right field wall at the Philadelphia park is nobody's playground.

Great Buy.

Klein hit .360 in sixty-four games with the Phils last year smote eleven homers and drove in thirty-four runs, yet was only tentively accepted. These one-year ball players have been around before, they said. They have nothing to say now, for the one-year of Klein's stardom is beginning to look like every year. He is one of the greatest "buys" a ball club has made in a generation—$5,000 on the line and a gent by the name of McDonald closed the deal.

Why didn't Rickey grab him? If Rickey knew what he knows today he wouldn't have grabbed Klein. He would have had him handcuffed and had him brought to St. Louis by a deputy sheriff. As it was, Klein was just another outfielder to Rickey and the latter had more than he needed at the time in Hafey, Douthit, Roettger, Harper and Orsatti.

Besides, this Klein looked to be at least two years "away," meaning two years short of big-league requirements. Rickey couldn't know that what looked to be two years actually wasn't even two minutes.

CO. G CHALLENGES LOCAL BALL TEAMS

Speaking in behalf of the Company G baseball team which has won the regimental championship for three years in succession at Niantic, Manager Charles "McGraw" Cullatto announced today that the soldier boys stood ready and willing to meet any team in town.

"We bar no team and are willing to try conclusions with any of them," he declared in adding "in fact why shouldn't we, there's no berries on any of 'em." Charlie used to manage the Morning Glories a team that attained considerable fame hereabouts by going without a single defeat.

Company G's lineup is as follows: James McCavanaugh, ss, Harry Bellucci, Walter Kearns, Ray Holland, p, Joe Pentland, 2b, Patsy Vince, 3b, Stephen Frey, lf, Walter Dehan, 1b, Kearns, cf, Charlie Bycholoski, c, William Crockett, rf, Zigmund Gozda, Bill Wolfrom, ss.

Bon Ami and Highland Park Clash Tonight; Atlas Meet Aces; Other Games Tomorrow and Sunday.

Highland Park will move over to Hickey's Grove this evening to tackle the Bon Ami in a County Y league contest. The soap makers are leading the league at present and the boys from the hilltop would like nothing better than to bump them off. Jack Godak will work for the Bon Ami and Ray Holland may oppose him.

Rain last night washed out the scheduled baseball game between the Cardinals and Pirates in the senior playground league. Tonight the Atlas and Aces are booked to meet in what promises to be a hum-dinger of a battle.

Tomorrow the Manchester Club travels to Three Rivers, Mass., for a game. The Green will be idle Saturday but journeys to Willimantic on Sunday.

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY © 1929 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

MOLLY BURHAM, pretty and clever girl reporter, has ridden overnight to fame. From her own newspaper experiences, Molly has written a play called "The Death of Delphine Darrows."

It is the opening night, and Molly is wearing a gown of stiff green stuff, frosted with pearls, that makes her look like a medieval princess. In the front row JACK WELLS is her sweetheart, sits between her father and mother. Back stage, is RED FLYNN, a police court man, who suggested the plot of the play.

"Author! Author!" shouts the audience. "Speech! Speech!"

Then Red Flynn took Molly by the hand, and dragged her across the stage, to face the plaudits of a Broadway audience.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXI.

The charming thing about Molly's speech was the naivete of it. It wasn't properly a speech at all. But a spontaneous little cry, as sincere as her sparkling eyes. As understood as the rakish angle of her demure pearl cap.

"Oh, thank you! Thank you!" she cried. "I'm so happy!"

Then she looked down at Jack, sitting in the front row. Between her mother and father. She had seen him from the wings, white as his glistening shirt front. And she knew that he was nervous—frightened for her.

And she flung her arms apart, so that the roses all spilled. They fell at her feet. And some of them clung to the folds of her stiff green skirt, catching on the pearls that sparkled like frosted dew.

"I love you!" she cried. "I love you—love you!"

And the audience clapped and called, and cried and cried for more. And hardly anyone knew that Molly was looking straight at Jack. Only Red Flynn knew. And Mr. Durbin, perhaps.

But Jack, with his heart in his mouth, was only thinking of how beautiful she looked. How like a princess out of a fairy tale, with her green dress and her green eyes, and her red, red hair.

He saw her little sparkling shoes, there they peeped from the hem of her skirt, and her train, like a cloud of seaweed. And he thought she was like a queen, dressed up for a ball. But he never guessed that she was talking straight to him.

Then Francesca Glasgow, who played Delphine Darrows, came on in her satin wedding gown. He and the bride from the grave. And all the other characters, one by one. Even to the judge, in his black robes, and the court officers in their brass buttons. And the reporters, who had sat about the long and the whole courtroom scene.

But Jack, with his heart in his mouth, was only thinking of how beautiful she looked. How like a princess out of a fairy tale, with her green dress and her green eyes, and her red, red hair.

"This is Mr. George Flynn," she told them, "only everybody calls him Red. He wrote half the play, but he's very modest."

called "one decent black." And "decent" it undeniably was. But it wasn't smart, and it wasn't pretty. The sleeves were elbow-length, and she wore an old pair of 16-button black kid gloves. Her hat was velvet, and it looked a little green, but that is the way black velvet gets when it is pretty old.

They had left the theater by the regular exit, to enter again by the stage door. Molly suspected that her father was anxious to hear what people were saying in the lobby. She was waiting for them now in the alley that led around from Broadway. She had slipped out quietly to have a moment alone with her mother, before she must present her new friends.

They were coming now. They weren't talking at all. Her mother was in the middle, and Jack was holding one arm, and her father was holding the other. Molly noticed that she was carrying a large umbrella with a great curved handle. The night was soft and clear, and full of stars.

"That's just like her," she reflected impatiently, "and I'll bet she's best suit smells of moth balls."

"Daddy! Daddy—dear! And Mother! And Jack! All my dearests!"

She kissed them impartially, clinging to her father. And he patted her with his big clumsy hands, and talked to her as he had when she was a little girl.

"Well, Molly-O, Little Molly-O."

"Wasn't it wonderful, Dad? Aren't you proud of your little old Molly-O? Wasn't it heavenly, Mother? Jack? Aren't you all proud of your Molly?"

She flung herself on Jack.

"Those were your roses I carried, Jack. They were perfectly lovely. I know I spilled them. But somebody picked them up, and I have them, every one."

"I'm glad if you liked them," he said. "Gee, Molly, you can buy orchids now, just like dandelions, if you want. You're all set, honey-girl."

"What did I tell you she cried. 'Isn't it gorgeous?'"

"Molly," broke in her mother reprovingly, "your father and I are absolutely disgusted."

"Now, Mother," Mr. Burnham put his hand on her shoulder. "You just speak for yourself, Mother."

Molly gazed at them in stupefaction.

"What do you mean?" she asked dutily. "Disgusted? I don't understand, Mother."

"Oh, you understand, young lady," interposed her sterner parent frigidly. "The way your poor father and I brought you up! Decent. God-fearing folks. But Molly, I don't know what's come over you."

"Now Mother," repeated Mr. Burnham, "that's no way to talk to Molly."

He put his arms around his daughter, and held her tightly.

"Your mother's a little mite upset, Molly-O," he said. "We're old-fashioned, you know—me and your mother. And your mother's not so young as she used to be."

"Young!" cried Mrs. Burnham. "I'd like to know what 'young' has to do with it. Young or old, it's a dirty play, and not fit for decent people to tell alone your own father and mother."

"Jack!" Molly turned toward him appealingly.

"Why are they talking to me like that, Jack? You liked it, didn't you, Jack? You tell them, dear. Tell them there wasn't anything wrong. Why—the way everybody liked it, Mother. Don't you know, Dad, the way everybody applauded? They wouldn't have done it that, if it was what mother says."

"Oh, yes they would!" insisted Mrs. Burnham. "I guess I know these New Yorkers."

"Molly dear, it's a sure-fire success," declared Jack gently. "There's no doubt about it. You're all made, little Molly. I wish you could have heard what people had to say in the lobby. The morning papers will be out pretty soon."

You'll see, dear. You've written the outstanding success of the season."

"I bet you have!" announced her father staunchly. "Now don't you mind mother, Molly."

"It's all about bad women," lamented Mrs. Burnham, "and murder, and drugs and drink."

"But, Mother, of course it is. It's a crime play."

"I don't see why you couldn't have written about something decent. Land alive, I'll be ashamed to hold up my head for the rest of my days."

"Ashamed to hold your head up?" ejaculated Mr. Burnham. "With a daughter famous like Molly?"

"That's what I said," repeated Mrs. Burnham. "Ashamed to hold up my head. And you would be, too, William, if you had any decent pride in you."

"Pride, Mother? Why, I got so much pride for Molly. I'm darn near busting with it right now."

Gratefully Molly kissed her father.

"Thank you, Dad."

"Oh, your father don't like it any better than I do," cut in her mother savagely. "He's just an old softy, that's all. He thinks it's just as bad as I do. I thought your father was going to have my apple, that's what I thought. And if I'd died of shame right where I sat, it would have been your fault, my fine young lady!"

"I'll tell me the truth, Dad," Molly put her hands on her father's shoulders. "Are you proud of your Molly-O, or ashamed of her?"

"Proud," he declared firmly. "You're an awful smart girl, Molly."

"May God never strike you dead for telling lies!" enjoined Mrs. Burnham piously.

"I'm awfully sorry," she said. "I wanted you all to be proud of me."

"Now, Molly," objected her mother, "you know that it isn't the truth. What you want is a career and you don't care what happens to any of us, so long as you get what you're after. Not me, nor your father, nor Mr. Wells here. You've as much as broken your engagement already. And goodness knows you've broken all our hearts."

"Please, Mother!" besought Molly. "Perhaps I'm as selfish as you say. But let's not talk about it any more now. Mr. Durbin had invited you all to a little supper party. But I guess you don't want to go."

"Some high-falutin' affair, I suppose?" surmised her mother.

"I'm afraid you'd think so," agreed Molly wearily. "Why don't you take mother back to the hotel, Dad? Perhaps you'd come a little later with Jack?"

"I don't see why you couldn't have written about something decent. Land alive, I'll be ashamed to hold up my head for the rest of my days."

"Ashamed to hold your head up?" ejaculated Mr. Burnham. "With a daughter famous like Molly?"

"That's what I said," repeated Mrs. Burnham. "Ashamed to hold up my head. And you would be, too, William, if you had any decent pride in you."

VOGUE OF PLAITS.

Fluttering plaited skirt is such an attractive fashion for growing girls of 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years, as seen in style No. 605 with flat hip-length long sleeves also have two-back plaited cuffs. Neckline and hipline bows show feminine influence. Printed dainty in red and white with bows of matching sheer velvet is exclusive and so inexpensive. Organza pleated collar and cuffs are dainty and practical suggestions. It can also be made with short sleeves as shown in small back view. For early Fall, it will be delightfully smart made of navy blue wool crepe with vivit crepe de chine price 5 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred.) Wrap coin carefully.

We suggest that when you send for this pattern, you enclose one cents additional for a copy of our large Fashion Magazine.

QUICK BISCUITS.

If you want quick hot biscuits for dinner at night or breakfast in the morning, mix and cut some time before and put on ice until just before you want them when you should pop them into a hot oven.

LEATHER POLISH.

The white of an egg makes a good leather polish for upholstery that looks a bit dingy. Beat the egg slightly and rub into the leather with a cloth, polishing vigorously.

SHOWER CURTAIN.

Care should be taken in hot weather that the shower curtain doesn't mildew. Everyone should consider it his responsibility to spread the curtain out so it can be thoroughly dried and aired after every using.

DIFFERENT COMBINATIONS.

Instead of using the same old combination of vegetables with certain meats, like peas and chops, try having summer squash, zucchini or some other unusual vegetable.

Hints On How To Keep Well

ATHLETE'S PERFORMANCE DEPENDS LARGELY ON NERVE EFFICIENCY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Since the physiologists have discovered that the maximum speed of a runner, or of an athlete in any performance depends on his vital capacity; that is to say, the amount of oxygen that he can use in turning out a certain amount of work, as well as on the efficiency of his nervous and muscular system, experiments have been conducted in various laboratories to find out what is the greatest speed and efficiency that can be developed in various types of muscular performance.

When one rides his bicycle, he is concerned not only with the amount of pedaling with which he can cause the pedals to go round, but also with pushing against a force, keeping his body in the seat and similar problems. Dr. Sylvia Dickinson in the University College, London has studied the efficiency of bicycle pedaling as affected by the speed and the load for the Industrial Fatigue Research Board of the British Medical Research Council.

She points out that the relation previously found between the maximum speed of pedaling a bicycle and the force overcome leads to the prediction that the mechanical efficiency of bicycle pedaling would vary with the speed and that there would be an optimum speed at which the efficiency is highest.

Experiments were made to determine the efficiency of bicycle pedaling over a wide range of speeds. The optimum time of one foot movement (half a pedal revolution) was found to be nine-tenths of a second. At a constant speed of 33 complete pedal revolutions per minute, it was found that the efficiency was not appreciably affected by any change of load within a considerable range at the pedal.

Here is an attempt to reach a constant of the efficiency of human muscular action in a certain type of performance. As one might presume from this investigation, six-day bicycle racer who had achieved a constant pace of 33 complete pedal revolutions per minute sustained during the entire six-day period would invariably win; at this speed he would be constantly at the maximum of human efficiency in bicycle pedaling.

YOUR CHILDREN

During the formative pre-school age, a mother's relation to her child is unique. She must be his world.

An older child develops and learns by his contacts with other people. His experiences are had in school, or with companions of his own age out of school.

The mother of the older child still constitutes a certain fraction of his world but his association with her is intermittent. During these periods she can talk to him, explain things to him and guide him, but she knows that he is having most of his experiences away from her direct influence.

Seldom away from Mother.

With a little child it is different. There are times during the day when he is away from her, very likely, but it is only a small part of the time comparatively. The most of the time he is with her. During his first four or five years his mother is concerned directly in practically all of his experiences.

I wonder how many mothers realize that during these years when her child is closest to her, nearly all his character traits are formed and set.

During these intimate little hours of the day when he plays near her, seemingly unconscious at times of her very presence, does she sense the fact that she herself is the most potent factor that will influence his existence.

This is her opportunity—her golden hour. If she has time to give it any attention at all—and I believe that if she realized how important it is, she would manage to spare time—she can do everything in the world toward planting good impulses and curbing undesirable ones.

Not by petting! Not by scolding! No. The first leads to mother fixation. Results a spoiled, selfish baby! The second is even worse: it will make him unhappy and cause inferiority complex.

Teaching Generosity

Then what? Well, for one thing it is an excellent time to teach him generosity. She can teach him to give things that he wants very much to her sometimes. That is an excellent way to begin. His lessons in kindness and unselfishness must be practiced on her.

She can encourage him to help her in little duties in every way she can. Service!

He should be taught to be polite to her and to control his temper with her. She can also teach him not to be jealous, by letting him see her make a fuss over another child occasionally.

She can teach him truth above all, by getting him into the habit of coming to her with everything. During these years she must establish his confidence in her—then or never. And fear must have no part either then or ever. A person who inspires nothing but fear in a child loses all influence whatever.

YOUR CHILDREN OF U. S. CITIES ARE EXPANDING

by Olive Roberts Barton © 1928 by NEA Service Inc.

Pittsburgh. — Aerial boundaries of cities throughout the country constantly are being expanded, but Pittsburgh is about to attempt a new record—commuting service between Western Pennsylvania and the nation's capital.

"I'm sorry, Congressman, but I have an engagement for luncheon in Pittsburgh in three hours and I'll have to hurry," one member of the national house may say to another, and dash off actually to make the appointment. Colonel Harry C. Fry, backer of the new project believes that five to seven round trips a day can be made by a plane between this city and Washington.

Trial Service.

Captain Jack Morris inaugurated the trial service with a Stinson-Detroit plane. Bettis Field, Pittsburgh and Hoover Field, Washington, were the two terminals established, and between them lie the Allegheny mountains, one of the most treacherous stretches of flying country in the world, according to aviation officials.

Despite the Alleghenies, the Pittsburgh backers of the plan believe a regular commuting service can be established on a permanent basis. A national solo may live here, if he desires, and fly back and forth to his desk in Washington. Bent on adding last touches, Colonel Fry announced that a barber would be carried in the plane, so that late commuters would be able to get a shave during the trip.

Perhaps, Colonel Fry said, a pretty manicurist would be added to the service of the aerial express for tired commuters.

Notables Invited.

A number of men prominent in Washington and Western Pennsylvania were invited to try the new service in its experimental stages.

United States Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, was asked to make a trip, and other notables.

Radio station KDKA offered installation of broadcasting service in the plane, so that the busy fliers between here and Washington might keep in constant touch with their offices, if they needed communication more frequently than two hours, the round trip flying time according to estimates.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLEN SCAINER

Though he chose to be buried in the Potter's field, "Old Man" Louis Morgan was exhumed from that spot of charity in a Bridgeport, Conn., cemetery the other day and reburied in a handsome casket by the daughter who was found by authorities. There was a son, too, but the daughter assumed the responsibility.

HALF 'N HALF

That part of the story is like life. Daughters almost invariably assume more responsibilities to parents than sons. The unlikeliest part of the story is that even the daughter would do it. Observation teaches us that most children of aged parents are conspicuously absent when things are to be done for their parents. Of is that too cynical?

PETTING SPOTS

Bank safety vaults are becoming veritable "lover's lanes," according to a large Chicago bank official in charge of this department. He says that the cool vaults are as thronged with lovers as the old-time lane in horse and buggy days.

In some ways, "petting" is getting to be more and more of a problem, what with policemen charged to stop the practice in parks and along roadways; on the other hand, our modern petters do not demand the privacy they once did when it was axiomatic that "no nice girl kisses a young man until she is engaged to him."

YOUTH WINS

It takes youth to attempt, and sometimes get away with, that

WATERMELON CAN BE SERVED IN MANY WAYS

By SISTER MARY.

With watermelons tempting the shopper from every market place, a few suggestions regarding some of the ways of using them may be useful.

As an appetizer or dessert, watermelon is refreshing and satisfactory for hot weather menus. A perfect, sweet melon can't be improved upon and should be served "au naturel." Thoroughly chilled and cut in circles or wedges, with the rind trimmed down to the pink, the fruit makes a delicious first course.

Sometimes a melon is not sweet and unless a little thought and care is spent on it, it will be wasted. There are several ways to help out a tasteless melon. Neat cubes or small wedges can be allowed to stand in heavy syrup for one or two hours and then drained and chilled. A cherry dressing or orange juice and sugar will make the insipid melon into a "delicious cocktail." The fruit might also be utilized in preserves and the rind in sweet pickles if there is danger of its going begging.

Never use any portion of a watermelon that looks over-ripe. This is easily distinguished by the color and softness of the fruit. Over-ripe melon may cause some form of indigestion.

Sherry Dressing.

One-half cup powdered sugar, 1/4 cup cooking sherry, 25 or 30 cubes of marbles of watermelon. Cooking sherry has been salted so extra salt is unnecessary. If

BIG WATERWAYS SOUGHT TO LINK EUROPEAN SEAS

Paris.—Inland waterways linking up the Mediterranean, the North Sea and the Black Sea may bind the European economic union that Foreign Minister Briand is reported to be seeking.

Alarmists' reaction to the Washington tariff battle is believed to have intensified the study of canal systems connecting the Rhone and the Rhine and the Rhine and the Danube.

This project would bring Hamburg, 2,000 miles nearer Port Said. It would give Central Europe a cheap, speedy opening to the Mediterranean and quicken commercial interchange between France and her neighbors, according to Henri Brenier, general director of the Marseilles Chamber of Commerce.

At the Rhone Congress, held at Geneva, the project was discussed in detail. Some proponents said: "If the United States is going to make it difficult for us to trade across the Atlantic let us strive to make commercial relations between European countries greater and cheaper."

The Rhone and the Rhine would be linked by a canal from the Lake of Geneva to the Rhine. Another artificial waterway from the Lake of Constance to Ulm, on the Danube.

The last link would provide an uninterrupted water lane from Marseilles to Sulina on the Black Sea and free Russia from the necessity of routing merchandise through the Bosphorus.

Experts have mapped out a plan whereby the canals would pay their own costs. The only practical route for the canals covers mountainous country into which could be built numerous locks and sluices. The experts figure that the water running through them could be turned to supplying enormous quantities of electrical power.

Paris, the heaven of tranquillity, Paris, the place for peace and quiet. For Dame Nellie Melba, Paris is less things. It is the surcease for her, from the rattle and clang of America.

The famous opera diva has come back to the land that created the Peach Melba in her honor, and means to stay here.

"No more singing," she says, with relief, "except for a few charity concerts now and then, perhaps."

"I just want to rest. And look after my proteges. I've got some fine young talent under my wing, just now—they make life worth living."

Clara Wood, from Kentucky, is the foremost among the possessors of talent of which the veteran singer speaks. Miss Wood is studying under Ricardo Martin, and under her protectress' guidance. That she will develop into one of the great singers of her day is predicted by Dame Melba.

Building constructors are being attacked as the greatest destroyers of homelife.

Housewives of France lost 7,300,000,000 hours last year performing needless tasks for which building constructors are to blame, according to Mlle. Paulette Bernage, president of the League for the Organization of the Home.

"All these hours could have been employed by women in making home life more enjoyable instead of in useless drudgery," she said.

"Buildings are built with all sorts of odd corners and materials that gather dirt and are difficult to clean."

"Women will only have more time to give to their husbands and their children when builders realize the necessity of employing designs and fixtures that save labor."

BEEES KEEP DRUGGIST LOCKED UP IN STORE.

Lorient, France.—Besebed by bees, a druggist of this city, together with his assistant and two customers were imprisoned in the shop for three hours. The bees arrived on the scene suddenly and clustered about the glass door making escape impossible until a policeman brought a bee-keeper who knew how to capture and send them back home.

INDUSTRY CREATES HEALTH PROBLEMS

Machine Era Brings New Strains to Body Tissues and Muscles, Says M. D.

San Francisco.—Although the machine age has brought many new comforts and luxuries to the human race, it has also brought many new diseases and a greatly increased list of industrial accidents, which must be checked at once if they are not to assume terrifying proportions.

This is the warning sounded by Dr. W. C. Hassler, lecturer in preventive medicine at the University of California Medical school, and city health officer for San Francisco.

Many New Problems. Putting his warning into a letter to California and Western Medicine, the official journal of the California Medical association, Dr. Hassler makes this point: "Our is an age of machinery, of synthetic products, including those of food and drink, and of new positions in the mechanical arts and sciences. All these have wrought new stress upon the body tissues of human beings, and new strains on the vascular and nervous systems. In other words, the mind and the body are in a continuous struggle for supremacy over the factors that operate insidiously or acutely to injure the body structures or alter their activities in such a manner as to interfere with the full enjoyment of life and its normal span of existence.

Pointing out that the industrial world has a health problem all its own, Dr. Hassler urges compulsory health and accident education for all men and women in industry, with periodic health examinations and special courses in home hygiene. Continuing on this theme, he asserts: "The relationship of diseases of industry to other diseases and to the general public health is not only well established but exceedingly important from the economic viewpoint.

The Menace of Tuberculosis. "An illustration of this menace is well exemplified in tuberculosis among men in industry. The records of San Francisco reveal that, during the last 12 years, there were recorded 10,640 deaths from this disease. Of this number 73 per cent were men, and these to a large extent between the ages of 30 and 35, or in the prime of life. "These men have generally established homes; they have wives and children, and usually these children are young. The experience of tuberculosis associations all over the world has proven that the major portion of the problems of social workers arose from this one phase of tuberculosis incidence. What is to happen to the families of such patients? They become public responsibilities."

FELLOW COUNTRYMEN

Paris.—Why go to Paris to get "stung" by divorce lawyers? Many Americans who come here to have matrimonial bands severed are falling prey to American lawyers and paying three or four times what they should. Only recently a Paris court ordered W. H. Pauling-Emerich to return $1250 to Mrs. Marjorie Corr, a client, claiming that the fee should be only $500.

COULDN'T LEAVE IT

London.—Beer was the one thing which Alexander Macaulay, 64, liked nothing else but, and a cask of it probably saved his life when he fell off a dock at Hull recently. It had enough liquid out of it to make an air compartment. When Macaulay fell into the water, he retained his grasp in the cask and was buoyed up until help reached him.

LIVE ROULETTE GAME.

Paris.—A restaurant here has a game of roulette which is played with live dancers as pawns. The floor is the table and while the orchestra plays a wheel is spun with 36 numbers on it. When the wheel stops the orchestra stops and the dancers on the lucky number win the prize.

DOWNIE BROS. CIRCUS COMING HERE AUG. 28

Travels Entirely by Motor Trucks—Gives Big Three-Ring Show at Pre-War Prices.

The largest motor circus in the world is soon to be our guest for one day only when they are scheduled to give two grand performances in Manchester on Wednesday, August 28. Downie Bros. Circus is recommended by press and public as the one great traveling organization that truly deserve credit for their accomplishment of returning the circus to pre-war prices of 25 and 50 cents for general admission.

This was accomplished by the able management of their economical mode of transportation and years of experience as pioneers of every mode of circus presentation. To transport a large circus on motor trucks is no little task and it requires 75 mighty motors to move this one from stand to stand. A gigantic city within a city, that's Downie Bros.—their own kitchens, houses, light plants, garages, stables, and all mounted to move each and every day.

The Eastern Press said in part: "A marvelous, magnificent, monumental, incomparable epic of spectacular presentation. The 50 great acts were run off so smoothly, so rapidly that there was not a dull moment in the entire two hours that the show requires. All the sensational thrills calculated to wring your heart, and freeze your blood, then to make you tremble with laughter at the tumbling glows that live to make you laugh. The pulsing thrilling glory of the lurid sawdust trail. The lure of the red wheels, the tang of the brass bands, the gasps of amusement as the daring aerial artist, in twirling high in the air to thrill you and win your smile. The beautiful ladies of the spangled world of colorful costumes, of steel nerves as they swing suspended in mid-air in their exhibition of the iron jaw.

The breathtaking moments while the fearless trainer puts those snarling, snapping, man-eating beasts of the jungle through almost unbelievable tricks. Possibly the outstanding feature of the animal acts was that of that marvelous Teddy, star of Downie Bros. herd of elephants. Teddy is a former star of the New York Hippodrome and supported by Babe, the smallest of the Pachyderm performers in the world today, as well as the entire herd of well trained, ponderous monsters gave a very creditable exhibition of what power man has over beast.

Many notable features are to be seen. Gene and Mary Enos in a high carrying perch pole offering that speaks for itself. The sturdy little Mary supporting a 25 foot pole while the cat-like Gene does various capers on the very top. The Harry Martine trio of head-to-head balancers featuring a novelty not soon to be forgotten. Then the Great Majaras, Jr. All the great wire walkers in America were at some time understudies of this young man's father, and he seems to have inherited all the genius of the senior for his exhibition on the high swinging slack wire is marvelous to say the least. You will marvel at his skill as he slides and glides about this slender thread of steel as if he were on a polished dancing floor.

Then, too, not to be forgotten, are the domestic animals from our own land, the horses, ponies, goats, dogs, pigs and birds all trained and schooled in the most skillful manner to entertain which they do with a very creditable style. The spectacular entry in which the entire company takes part, the beautiful ballads by Miss Harris, the melodious music by Downie Bros. concert band. A mile long street parade at noon on circus day in which all the animal dens are opened, all the beautiful tableau trucks, five bands, two callioles makes a pageant of splendor not soon to be forgotten. Don't forget the day and date, rain or shine—August 28.

Advertisement for Boscol Coffee. Text: "Don't let hot weather rob your coffee flavor. Buy full flavor! Especially in hot weather does coffee tend to give off aroma — lose strength and flavor in the air. The famous Boscol vacuum can is the only way to get full strength — full flavor. Best at any time but especially now. It keeps all Boscol's fine flavor — strength — aroma locked in vacuum so you get all the goodness of the world's best coffees in your cup. Why take a chance on half state coffee? WHY DENY YOURSELF THE BEST COFFEE?"

WHAT COULD SHE DO?

Paris.—The love of Cecile Sorel, Paris actress, for babies, cost her a verdict in court here. She charged a man with stealing jewelry from her apartment valued at more than $15,000. When she was leaving court she passed a woman with a baby and stooped down and kissed the child. She found that the child was that of the accused man. She withdrew the charges against the child's father.

BACK INTEREST.

There is much attention given to the rear portion of coats, frocks and evening gowns. A pure white satin dancing frock has five American beauty roses rounding its low sultan décolletage.

GOLDWYN FINDS TALKIES DO NO HARM TO STAGE

London.—The talking pictures are only the second stage in the evolution of the motion picture; the beginning of a new era which will be climaxed by the development and perfection of natural color pictures. This is the belief of Samuel Goldwyn, head of United Artists, who has arrived in London with an "all-talkie" complex.

"The sound films," he said in an interview, "have brought a new aspect to the cinema, but soon there will be still another aspect. Color! The cinema's just opening out, just begun. We're just trail-blazers. All that's gone is a prelude.

Real Cinema Coming
 "We're just coming to the real cinema. It'll need a new technique. It won't be a case of just photographing a play. That mistake has been made already. A new technique altogether will come in."

"In the laboratories keen brains are searching for ways which will reproduce music, speech, and color until it is alike in note and expression and beauty to the real thing. When we have achieved this then the film can be considered as having reached a state of perfection.

"At the present time the business is upside down. Technique, players, direction, plot, action and the public that pays to see—the whole lot is changed right around. We're fighting for perfection and we'll win."

This dynamic, vigorous personality from Hollywood is thrilling the English film world with his enthusiasm over the talking pictures. He believes that it will spell rejuvenation for an industry that is suffering from "over-publicity."

However, he does not believe that talkies will ever kill the legitimate stage. "That," he said, "is not in the minds of the American film producers.

Something New
 "Any producer who tries to get the effect of the atmosphere of the stage will fail. What the successful talkie will give is something quite different—something entirely new.

"It will have, as its essential basis, the spirit of the screen—the wide appeal of the film in its silent phases. Then, cleverly intermingled with this will be the words and music.

"This combination of theater and film," Goldwyn concluded, "will eliminate the silent picture but it will not harm the speaking stage."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

When wives think their husbands are made of money they seldom have them changed.

SENSE and NONSENSE

THE CONFESSIONS OF THE AVERAGE MAN
I am selfish.
I like people I can get something out of, but dislike people who try to get something out of me.

BLESS HER HEART
With each style a girl's sure to agree.
She'll gladly wear it;
When fashion says her skirts must show the knee.

SPEAKING OF OPERATIONS
Dr. Kirkwood died three hours after he was stabbed on the operating table at St. — hospital, Long Island City.—Staten Island (NY) News.

Customer—I would like to get a barometer, one that works perfectly.
Clerk—Here's one that we guarantee, sir. It is so sensitive that it will indicate when your wife is going to have a crying spell.

Youngwed—You seem rather sullen this morning, dearest. What's the trouble.
His Wife—I dreamt last night that we had a dreadful quarrel, and I don't think I ought to speak to you, Bob, until you've apologized for some of the horrid things I dreamt you said.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
That never to himself hath said,
As he stubbed his toe against the bed.

Flapper (gushingly): "Do you ever see pictures in the fire?"
Cynical Art Critic: "No—but I've seen lots of them that ought to have been there."

"I wish to complain," said the bride haughtily, "about the flour you sold me. It was tough."
"Tough, ma'am?" asked the grocer.

Teacher: What is the formula for water?
Johnny: I, J, K, L, N.

Teacher: What's that?
Johnny: I, J, K, L, M, N.
Teacher: That's not what I said, Johnny. Didn't you say H to O? (Hydrogen to Oxygen).

LETTER GOLF

A SHOUT or two and a great many YELLS feature today's letter golf match. Par is nine, despite the 4th, and one solution is on another page.

Grid for Letter Golf game with letters S, H, O, U, T and Y, E, L, L, S.

YELLS

1—The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on another page.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When Clowny finished all his tricks, he said, "I'm in an awful fix. My hair is all matted up and, gee, I haven't any comb. It seems I'm always in a fix whenever I try out new tricks. I get a soaking, or a bump wherever I may roam."

ABOUT TOWN

Captain James H. McVeigh of 31 Oxford street and Captain John G. Mahoney of Woodbridge street have been ordered to report at Fort Adams, Newport, R. I., for a two weeks' tour of duty with the 304th Infantry, 76th Division.

Stewart Wells and Russell Taylor of Henry street are touring the Litchfield Hills and western Connecticut. Before they return they will spend a day or two with David Coe, formerly of this town, in New York City and at his home in Fairlawn, New Jersey.

Members of the Manchester League of Women Voters will be interested to know that Mrs. Florence L. C. Kitchell of Hartford, an executive director of the Connecticut branch of the League of Nations association, is attending the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia.

The family of W. W. Robertson has returned to their home on Henry street after spending the month of July at the Madison.

The Lindy Social club will hold a lawn party Saturday evening at 7:30 at the home of Sterling Lippincott on McCabe street. The women members are requested to bring refreshments.

Miss Grace Fenton has returned to Washington, D. C., after visiting with her parents on Branford street. Miss Fenton is a student nurse at the Washington hospital and expects to graduate next spring.

Miss Marion Ripplin of Westminster Road is spending a month with relatives in Rochester, N. Y., and White City on Lake Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cheney and their small sons are spending the month of August at Shelter Harbor, Westerly, R. I.

The Zipser club will run a dance at Hills Grove in Wapping tomorrow evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Glenney of Porter street and Mr. and Mrs. Hutton McFarlane who are visiting their relatives here, are on a motor tour of the White Mountains and northern New England.

HERALD FINDS 22 AVAILABLE RENTS
Many Inquiries from Out of Town People Seeking Home Sites Here.

A list of twenty-two available rents in town has been received to date by The Herald which is making an effort to list all the desirable homes for rent or for sale in anticipation of an inpouring of newcomers to Manchester with the establishment of the Pratt and Whitney and the Chance Vought airplane factories in East Hartford.

Several inquiries have already been made by Hartford people who plan to move to Manchester in the fall. Gathering from remarks as to their wants the most desirable rent is one of four or five rooms either a flat, single or tenement house.

Out of the 22 vacant rents received a majority are of six rooms with a sprinkling of four and five rooms and one of two of three rooms. One is an eight room house and is for sale. Nearly all have modern improvements and are located near the trolley lines. Most of them include garages. A few offer large gardens, fruit trees and plenty of land.

That Manchester will increase rapidly in population within the next six months is no "pipe dream." In a talk with a Hartford man The Herald was told that many Hartfordites are contemplating removal to town with the opening of the East Hartford factories.

To facilitate the task of satisfactorily housing prospective newcomers home owners are asked to fill in the blank on the front page of The Herald and send it to the Manchester Promotion Bureau, The Herald, 13 Bissell street, South Manchester, Conn.

DENY FANEUIL HALL
USE TO VANZETTISTS

Boston, Aug. 2.—The Sacco-Vanzetti Memorial committee today announced the refusal by city authorities of a request for the use of Faneuil Hall, the "Cradle of Liberty," as a meeting place on Aug. 23 for the second anniversary commemorating the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, executed for the slaying of a South Braintree paymaster.

The committee announced its intention of entering suit against Mayor Malcolm N. Nichols, charging that the refusal constituted an abridgment of their rights of free speech.
