

GRAF IS AFTER HALF A MILLION IN GLOBE TOUR

Will Take 18 Riders at $9,000, Huge Mail—Fills Up With Gas for Start Wednesday Midnight.

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 6.—The Graf Zeppelin today continued to gulp huge draughts of hydrogen and fuel in a race against time for her swing around the world.

"We shall start at midnight tomorrow for our trip around the world," said Commander Hugo Eckener.

Lieut. Commander Zeno Wicks, executive officer of the U. S. navy, promised to have the German dirigible refueled by noon tomorrow, but the eight-hour shifts of American gobs feeding the beast have found it exceedingly hungry.

More than a half million cubic feet of hydrogen is needed to offset the loss sustained by the balloons of the big bag in the dirigible's four-day flight from Friedrichshafen.

Enroute to New York City for a past conference on his world-girdling adventure, Dr. Eckener will attempt to evade the customary demonstrations which the metropolises accord to heroes of land and sea and air.

No Time for Journey
When told that Mayor Jimmy Walker had a golfing bet to City Hall, the Zeppelin skipper said: "I would like to see Mayor Walker but I am afraid I shall be too busy."

Dr. Eckener declared that a new and better German Zep was to be built within a year.

"Within two years we hope to have completed our plans for a regular trans-Atlantic Zeppelin service," he said.

Here is a word blueprint comparison of the newly planned dirigible with the Graf Zeppelin: not as long but much thicker; eight engines instead of five; twelve miles an hour faster, with a cruising speed of 82 miles an hour; capacity for 24 passengers instead of 20; two radio systems, one for weather reports and another for use of passengers; a smoking room (smoking is taboo on the Graf); the use of helium as soon as available instead of hydrogen.

The construction of a new hangar in Friedrichshafen. The American base will probably be near some southern coastal city, anywhere from Miami to Honolulu.

"Meteorological conditions for airships are unsatisfactory in northern fields such as Lakehurst," he declared. "The most dangerous part of dirigible operation is in setting it out and in getting it back and there must be the least interference from the weather possible."

Trip As Golf Stake
The 18 daring passengers for the world flight of the Zep will be $9,000 apiece for their study of international geography.

The booking includes Joachim Rickard, of Boston, who just arrived via the dirigible from Friedrichshafen; Sir Hubert Wilkins, the explorer; Lady Drummond Hay, who made the voyage last October; Otto Hillig, of Liberty, N. Y., and Karl von Wiegand.

Those who will make the trip from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen, the first bracket of the world circle include Morris Shumovsky, of New Rochelle; Nathan Wexler and William Weber, hotel owners, of New York City; Herman Schlatter, of Philadelphia; Dr. Walter Shibles, of Berlin; and Dr. Leisler Kiep, New York manager of the Hamburg-American line.

Hotelman Wexler is paying the fare of Hotelman Weber as well as his own. He lost a golfing bet to Weber and the trip was the stake. They are negotiating for passage back to America on the twelve-motored Dornier DOX, but if these plans fall through they expect to remain aboard the Graf Zeppelin until it returns to Lakehurst.

Three stops will be made before the dirigible's expected return to Lakehurst September 3 or 4. They will be Friedrichshafen, Tokyo and Los Angeles.

Atlantic Sector Worth
"The sector from Friedrichshafen to Tokyo will be our most difficult one," said Dr. Eckener. "Much of this region is uncharted and we will have no air maps nor will we have the benefit of weather reports along a great part of the 4,600 mile route."

Mail for special dispatch on the Graf Zep on its round-the-world voyage continued to pour into the New York post office. The rates are: for Germany, letters, $1.05, cards, 53 cents; for Japan, letters, $2.05, cards, $1.05; for Los Angeles or Lakehurst, letters, $3.55; cards, $1.75.

The Graf's round-the-world flight will bring in close to $500,000, it is expected, half the cost of constructing the Zeppelin, it was estimated here today. At $9,000 each, the return for passengers should be $162,000.

Mail and freight, which Dr. Eckener says are more profitable, should bring in twice as much.

STOWAWAY SORE BUT SAYS HE'S COMING BACK

Gloucester, N. J., Aug. 6.—Albert Buschko, Graf stowaway who awaits deportation Thursday, doesn't think much of the way he was treated in America but he's coming back to be a citizen, he says.

"The American stowaway was treated fine in Friedrichshafen—bands played for him and he was sent home to make much money on the stage," the baker's boy almost whimpered.

"When I get out of all this trouble I'm coming back to America and become a citizen," he declared finally.

DEAD DRUNK, HE LEADS COPS TO STOLEN GOODS

Willard Mack, North End Character, Arrested for Intoxication, His Home Yields Campbell's Goods.

Willard Mack, north end colored character, possessing a jail record worth front page play any day, was helplessly drunk this morning and he's at the police station here now trying to stage a comeback. He's booked on a charge of intoxication, but when his hooch dreams fade, he'll probably face a more serious one—that of breaking and entering.

Although dead drunk, he led police this morning to a cache of stolen groceries that have been missed from Irving Campbell's store on Depot Square since Monday morning.

On Little Spree.
Willard had been drinking hooch somewhere in the vicinity of Middle Turnpike and the South Manchester railroad tracks and when he started towards Depot Square he had trouble navigating. Someone reported the man's condition to the police and Motorcycle Patrolman Rudolph Wirtalla was dispatched to pick him up. Wirtalla met Mack coming down the tracks towards the railroad station and assisted him to Charles A. Sweet's taxiab for a short ride to police headquarters.

Carried a Key.
En route Mack dwelt in conversation that hurt his own case. His mumbling was interpreted by Patrolman Wirtalla as indicating something about burglars and how hard it was to catch them. Mack also let it be known that he carried a key to his Depot Square apartment.

Wirtalla induced Willard to turn the key over to him. After leaving Mack at the police station under the intoxication charge Patrolman Wirtalla accompanied by Patrol-

DRY BOARDS YACHT, DROWNS IN FIGHT

Owner Says Patrol Officer Acted Like Robber; Former's Story Denied.

Detroit, Aug. 6.—Richard J. Sandlands, 26, border patrol prohibition agent, is believed dead and John M. Heath, 31, was due today to be arrested by federal authorities.

Heath has offered to surrender, according to his attorney, Max H. Finkelstein. Finkelstein says Heath told him that Sandlands came aboard his 38-foot cabin cruiser, the Maxine Heath, last Friday and commanded him to put in shore.

Heath demanded that the officer show his credentials, according to Heath's reported story, and when Sandlands refused, struggled with him. They both fell into the Detroit river and Heath swam back to the boat, losing sight of Sandlands.

Says He Feared Robbery.
Finkelstein said Heath related that his wife, Maxine Heath, after whom his boat was named, was aboard and when Sandlands failed to show credentials Heath feared that he was about to be robbed and that his wife was in danger. Heath asserts that he offered to take his boat to the border patrol base, but he had no liquor aboard, and that he had resisted only when Sandlands threatened him.

The story told by Milton Larsen also a customs inspector, who says that he and Sandlands boarded the suspected boat, brought it to shore and that Sandlands was to guard the two prisoners while he went to a telephone.

When he returned to the boat, Sandlands, Heath and his wife had disappeared, Larsen said.

Sandlands has a wife and two children at Belleair, L. I. He formerly was a pier detective for the Oceanic Steamship Co., New York, and has been in the customs service about one year.

The Graf as Her Lungs Are Being Filled for Girdling of the World.

Her motors stilled after a 5000-mile flight from Germany, the Graf Zeppelin, shown here in the big hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., was being groomed for a round-the-world voyage as this picture was taken. Workmen were carrying out the instructions of Commander Hugo Eckener (insert) that the giant craft be replenished with 400,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas for buoyancy and refueled with 1,000,000 cubic feet of ethane gas in anticipation of an immediate return trip over the Atlantic. Side by side with the Zeppelin, above, may be seen the United States dirigible Los Angeles.

KILLINGS CONTINUE AMONG THE TONGS

New York Murder Comes Within Two Hours of U. S. Attorney's Warning.

New York, Aug. 6.—Despite a promise to U. S. Attorney Tuttle that there would be a cessation of hostilities until after a meeting between official and Chinese leaders, the shooting continued today following the fatal shooting last night of Chin Lee, Chinese laundryman.

The shooting occurred two hours after Attorney Tuttle had exacted the promise of temporary peace from leaders of the rival tongs.

The killing of Chin Lee was no isolated incident, it was reported, by the earlier killings of Chinese in Newark, Chicago and Boston.

Chin Lee was murdered in the rear of his laundry, which is located in Harlem, far from New York's Chinatown.

No trace of the murderers was found.

Ended Former War.
The wholesale deportation method adopted by the government a few years ago ended the last tong war which closed with a peace pact after close to 100 had been murdered.

The drastic step will be taken immediately, it was indicated at the office of U. S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle. "There will be a final warning, as far as New York's Chinatown is concerned."

Tuttle and Samuel S. Young, Chinese Consul-General, have summoned the local tong officers for a conference in the federal building today. The presence of three narcotic agents at conferences that have been held already by authorities, bolsters the opinion in some sources that the "differences" have arisen from a battle over the opium trade.

Narcotic agents and police in Newark, where one Chinese has met death, have expressed the belief that the trouble can be traced to the opium trade. They seized $50,000 worth of the drug and 47 Chinese in a Chinatown raid there Saturday.

TWO DEAD IN BOSTON.

Boston, Aug. 6.—The streets of Chinatown were almost deserted today following the death of two Chinese, victims of assassins in a renewal of the Tong War. Officials admitted that more violence was feared behind the police "dead line" in Chinatown.

In Southern mortuary lie two Chinese—Chin Hing, 50, shot down on Kneeland street by two men who fled in a taxicab, and Yee Wah, 40, shot to death in his sleeping quarters in the rear of his laundry on Harrison avenue. Both victims, police said, were members of the Hip Sing Tong, rivals of the On Leong Tong. Leaders of both tongs had promised to keep peace.

Five suspects are held by police, including Yee Sing, 35, said to have been identified as a professional "hatchetman" of Brooklyn, N. Y. Another suspect was Harry Woo, picked up at South Station with a ticket to Meriden, Conn., in his pocket.

ONE NABBED IN TIME

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Chin Bing, said by police to be a hired killer brought here to murder members of the On Leong Tong, was arrested today as he waited in what police say was an ambush to murder Willie Lee, On Leong member, and president of the Chinese American Alliance.

Bing was seized and disarmed as he was crouching in Lee's back

CALL SNOWDEN BOGEY OF THE HAGUE PARLEY

Delegates Scent Trouble in British Demands as the Conference Assembles.

The Hague, Aug. 6.—The Hague conference of 1929, which was summoned by the powers to settle the last of the international political problems growing out of the great war, began here today with prospects of considerable friction before satisfactory solution are obtained.

Decision to call the present parley was taken at the Reparation Conference are participants in the present meeting. Approximately 50 delegates are attending.

The opening session began at 11 o'clock in the Senate chamber with Dutch Foreign Minister Jonkheer Beelaerts, presiding.

The first clash was expected over the agenda, which, it was reported, would probably be discussed at a secret session during the afternoon.

Rhineland at Issue.
The Germans are insisting upon an allied decision to evacuate the Rhineland before Germany accepts the Young plan for reparation payments. This demand is vigorously opposed by the French.

Several demands were brought by the British delegation, headed by Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson. Chief of them are: An increase in Britain's reparation quota, including some share in the uncollectible German reparations in kind; selection of London as the seat of the International Bank of Settlement, which will collect and distribute German reparations.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in the British government, assumed a most active role in promoting the British demands, leading a majority of the delegates to consider him the "bogey man" of the conference.

The United States is represented by an observer, E. C. Wilson of the United States embassy in Paris.

21 INJURED AS LIFT DROPS SEVEN FLOORS

New York, Aug. 6.—Twenty-one persons, five of them women, were injured, three seriously, when an elevator in which they were riding dropped seven stories in a 25-story building here today.

It was at the hour when employees were flocking in the greatest numbers to the building, occupied by a large number of clothing and fur firms, that the accident happened.

Three persons were taken to hospitals with serious injuries. The others were treated by ambulance surgeons and went home.

Errand Boy Pays $200,000, Bosses' Money, For Drink

New York, Aug. 6.—Securities valued at about $200,000 vanished yesterday from the office of Arthur E. Frank & Co., 100 Broadway. Whoever took them got a wallet containing 195 shares of stock and 117 thousand-dollar bonds, which a youthful runner employed by the firm had left lying on a bench near the door while he went for a drink of water.

The runner, James Waltz, six-teen years old, had been employed by Frank & Co. only a few weeks. The brokerage house said that all

G. O. P. COMMITTEE SHAKEUP COMING

Huston, Southerner, Picked as Head by Hoover; Mrs. Hert Booked to Quit.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The Republican national committee is about to be shaken up, re-organized, weeded out, and otherwise geared to the Hoover idea of what it should be.

The call went out today for the full committee to meet here a month hence, September 9. The early date of the meeting is indicative of somebody's idea, presumably Mr. Hoover's, to get the new machine going.

Dr. Hubert Work, who conducted the Hoover campaign in '28, will retire as national chairman and unless there is a last minute upset he will be succeeded by Claudius H. Huston, wealthy industrialist of "The New South."

Huston, a Tennessean, is Mr. Hoover's choice for the job. He served under the President as an assistant secretary of commerce.

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice-chairman, who has run the "woman end" of national committee affairs ever since women were taken into full partnership in party organization, also is to go. Her successor has not yet been selected, but all indications point to the election of Mrs. Worthington Scrantom of Pennsylvania, who for several years has been forging to the front in Republican women's activities.

The embarrassing situations in several southern states are to be ironed out and adjusted, with the decapitation of several committee members. Things have been allowed to simmer along for several months since Mr. Hoover virtually read the existing Republican organizations in Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina out of the party by announcing they would not be consulted in patronage matters.

Dubious Ones Out

The new deal in these states will involve the elimination of "Uncle Joe" Tolbert in South Carolina, Perry Howard of Mississippi, and Ben Davis of Georgia, as members of the committee and leaders of their respective organizations. Howard and Davis are Negroes. They will be succeeded by white Republicans of as great prominence and high standard in their communities as possible to obtain.

All of them, Tolbert Howard and Davis, have figured in the Brookhart Senate committee's investigation of "patronage scandals" below the Mason-Dixon line. Huston is being installed in the

SIX BILLS HEAL LAWS WOUNDED BY COURT

SILK SCHEDULE GETS O. K. FROM SENATE FIXERS

But Smoot Sliding Scale on Sugar Is Assailed by Beet Men and Law Tariff Crowd Alike.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Although reported to have President Hoover's approval, the Smoot sliding scale of sugar tariffs came under fire today from Western beet sugar producers while a Democratic-Insurgent coalition planned an attack upon it in the Senate.

The coalition, while certain to unite against Republican duties on a number of "key" schedules, will center its greatest efforts to defeat the Smoot sugar scale. This was apparent from the attitude of Senator F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina, the Democratic tariff leader. He termed it a "makeshift substitute for the exorbitant House rates."

The Western beet producers attacked the scale for an entirely different reason but were making strenuous efforts to enlist both Democrats and Insurgents in their cause. The sugar producers charged the scale was an experiment that would endanger the fortunes of 100,000 farmers. They termed it "vicious, discriminatory and unjust."

They demanded retention of the House rates of a flat duty of $2.40 for every hundred pounds of sugar imported from Cuba.

"No More Cheap Sugar"
Leaders of the Democratic-Insurgent tariff coalition "meanwhile" argued it was a "pro-misist scheme" intended to stabilize the retail price of sugar at more than 6 cents a pound. The scale, the coalition leaders said, would forever abolish cheap sugar in the United States and keep prices above 6 cents a pound, while doing nothing to prevent extortionate prices.

"There are circumstances when this scale would increase prices over the rates contained in the House bill," said Simmons. "It is plainly an attempt to fix the wholesale market price of sugar at more than 6 cents a pound."

"It means simply that the American consumer is going to have to pay more for sugar all the year around."

The beet producers sang a different song; the Mountain States Beet Growers Marketing Association, through its president, William A. Carlson, has circled senators, pleading against the Smoot scale and demanding approval of the House rates. The association charged the scale would give the producers "less net protection than flat rates." A similar

300 GRAVE DIGGERS STRIKE IN BROOKLYN

Serious Situation in Walkout of Laborers at Calvary Cemetery.

New York, Aug. 6.—A very serious situation has arisen as the result of a strike of 300 grave diggers at Calvary Cemetery which has been in effect for a week.

Fearing a menace to health, the health commissioner yesterday ordered the cemetery officials to dig three common graves to receive additional bodies, the receiving vaults being full. He also offered to act as arbitrator, and there was a chance that an arbitration meeting might be held some time today.

Other unions have offered to assist the recently organized grave diggers. The temper of the latter is shown by the words of Joseph Firpo, their business agent, in a speech at a meeting yesterday afternoon. He urged against violence but said: "Only the law restrains me from throwing rocks at funeral processions and I would enjoy pushing strike-breakers into the open graves and covering them up."

The strike followed the dismissal of a chauffeur. The grave diggers organized, demanded recognition of the union, a six-day week at $7 a day and double time for Sundays and holidays.

NO FIGHT MADE ON PLAN OF LEADERS

Legislature Follows Advice of Governor and Attorney-General in Adopting Validating Acts for 1,500 Measures Signed Belatedly—Trumbull Declares Only One Bill Was Actually Voided But All Were in Danger of Attack—Atty-General Points to Approval of Some of the Acts by the Supreme Court—House Passes All Six Bills While Senate Lunches; Upper Body Passes All Six Bills—Both Recess Until Six—Will See Governor Sign Them.

Hartford, Aug. 6.—Connecticut's Legislature, in extraordinary session convened, today took steps to make legal many scores of acts that various governors had failed to sign within the time limit set by the Constitution.

To safeguard the affairs of the state, six measures were presented to the gathering of the Judiciary Committee. They reiterated expressions contained in the previous bills; they declared that all bills signed to date might be deemed having been signed on time; they forbade any one suing the state or corporations or towns within the state because of the late signing of the bills; and they threw up a bulwark to protect the State's good faith and credit.

Harmony at Opening
The Legislature met with every indication of complete harmony prevailing between the political factions within its membership, and with all indications that the bills, as prepared by leaders, would be accepted and passed without debate.

Gov. Trumbull greeted the two legislative bodies when they gathered in the Legislature, and Ernest L. Averill, deputy attorney-general, read a legal opinion as to what the Legislature could do and what it should not do.

Following the attorney-general's opinion, the Legislature acted in good faith under the bills signed to date.

Section fourteen provides that if any provision in this act shall be held invalid the remainder of this act, and the application of such provisions to other persons or to any such other bill or public or private act, part of which has been held invalid, shall not be affected thereby.

Section fifteen provides the act shall take effect from its passage.

Secondary Bills
The next bill is an act concerning criminal statutes. The phraseology runs the same as that in the preceding bill. Section one relates to acts concerning crime, criminal matters, or criminal procedure. Section two relates to all sentences, penalties and judgments under these acts.

Bill number three provides that the official record of the acts passed by the General Assembly, on file in the secretary's office, shall be presumptive evidence that all constitutional requirements essential to valid enactment have been complied with, and the faith and credit of such records shall not be attacked.

Bill four validates all bills signed by the governor to date. These concern public or private acts, and forms a special validating bill.

Bill number five provides all bills or acts heretofore passed by either Legislative body shall be presumed to have been presented to the governor, within the three days required for his approval. This bill validates the signatures of various governors.

Bill number six is an act to carry into effect the revision of the general statutes made necessary by this special legislation.

In Joint Convention
The Legislature convened promptly at 11 and listened to prayers by the two chaplains each side in its own hall. Then each raised a committee to notify Governor Trumbull it was ready to sit in joint convention and bear his message. Mrs. Trumbull was guest of the lower House during the session.

Governor Trumbull entered the hall of the House, chosen for the site of the joint session, with several of his officers behind him, including his secretary, E. L. Kelley, the Deputy Attorney-General, E. L. Averill, of Branford, the Treasurer, Samuel B. Spencer, of Suffield, and the Secretary, Dr. William L. Higgins, of Coventry.

Legal Opinion Lengthy
Following the governor's message Deputy Attorney General Averill delivered the opinion the governor had indicated in his message would be given. The governor's message was brief, the legal opinion long, couched in legal phraseology, causing many a head

...not sagely even when not on the shoulders of an attorney at law.

The governor's message was contained in eight printed pages, the attorney-general's in twenty of the same size. There was a suspicion that the legislators must have heard it before, for the bills were promptly forthcoming when the two bodies returned to their meeting halls.

Passed by Supreme Court. The attorney-general's opinion went to the length of suggesting that "during the last ten years the Supreme Court of Errors has had occasion and has actually passed upon the effect and validity of many of the 1500-odd laws in question."

Joint Session Ends. By 1 o'clock the messages had been delivered, and the joint assembly dissolved. It was just 12:47 p. m. when the two bodies separated, and an adjournment of fifteen minutes was had to permit the Democrats of the assembly to issue a statement to clarify their position.

The Democratic statement was to the effect that the members of that party believed the action decided upon so far was right, but they believed all bills should be acted upon separately and not as a unit.

big enough to stand it, and will stand it gladly."

Adjournment by Four. Senator Hart, of Bridgeport, opposed suspension of rules. He wanted the Supreme Court decision read in the Senate. There was no comment on his remarks. The Senate without dissenting vote passed Bill No. 1 in concurrence with the House, which by that time had passed the other bills.

Recess Until Six. At 3:05 the Legislature recessed until six o'clock in order that all bills passed today may be engrossed, signed by both Senate and House chairmen and the Governor, before the final adjournment is had.

This arrangement was taken because of the seriousness of the situation and the relief of the leaders that no action should be taken without the utmost precaution.

Efforts are being made to add beauty to the approach of the Manchester railroad station. The board of park commissioners has applied to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company for permission to move back the fence which now extends from Main street crossing to within a few yards of the "headbox."

The board will also ask the town, if the railroad makes the enclosure, to place granite curbing around the plot. No reply has been received by the park commission, but it is expected that it will be received in time to do the work this fall.

NOT ALL VOIDED, SAYS TRUMBULL IN MESSAGE

Only One Law Invalidated by McCook Decision, Says Governor, But All Endangered Unless Fortified by Action.

Hartford, Aug. 6.—Governor Trumbull, facing the extraordinary session of the General Assembly here today, read his message as required by law, as follows:

On July 25, last, the Supreme Court of Errors rendered a decision, the effect of which presents the possibility of declaring null and void upward of 1,500 Acts passed by the 1929 and previous Legislatures since 1833.

In view of this it became manifest that a special emergency existed that warranted the governor convening the General Assembly of 1929 in special session to consider and take such action as would effectively meet and relieve the emergency.

The decision referred to concerns an Act passed by the General Assembly of 1925 and approved by the governor June 22nd, 1925.

Invalid On Three Grounds. The court's decision is unconstitutional because it did not provide for a proper taking of private property nor for the payment of just compensation.

HOOVER PROPOSES NEW FEDERAL PEN Will Ask Congress for Five Million for Prison in Northeast and Expansions

Washington, Aug. 6.—President Hoover is to ask Congress for an appropriation of $5,000,000 to build a new federal prison and make such additions to the Leavenworth and Atlanta institutions as will alleviate the over-crowding.

REGULAR DEMOCRATS VOTING IN VIRGINIA

Pick Candidate Today Against G. O. P.—Bolter Fusion Nominee for the Governorship.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 6.—Virginia Democrats who did not bolt the Smith ticket last November are going to the polls today in a state primary to nominate a candidate for governor.

Today's nominee will oppose next November the coalition of Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats, or "Cannonites," who have already nominated Prof. William Mosely Brown. There are three candidates in today's contest.

Stocks Uneasy as Money Stiffens. Little Fellows Scared Out, However, Prices Lift and Coppers Ascend.

New York, Aug. 6.—Stocks displayed considerable uneasiness today as the money market stiffened and reports of wide breaks in utilities in Chicago and other speculative centers poured into the financial district.

In spite of the early losses of 2 to five points, in the high-priced rails and specialties, new advances were recorded in favorite copper stocks, utilities, motors and industrials generally.

Strong buying demand in the early afternoon swept the market bare of offerings, and sharp rallies took place in Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting and others.

General Motors was solidly backed up by a broad wave of buying orders, which flowed when the stock was selling around 12 and forced it up to 12 1/2.

The stock market felt the "easing up" of the money market long before the rates went down to 8 per cent outside and 10 per cent on the stock exchange.

With total transactions up to the second last hour only 2,546,000 shares, it was evident that professionals were virtually dominating every section of the market.

Coppers were strong in the late trading, with Anaconda above 120 for the first time since its break to 99.

IT'S folly to suffer long from neuritis, neuralgia, or headaches when relief is swift and sure, with Bayer Aspirin. For 28 years the medical profession has recommended it. It does not affect the heart. Take it for colds, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, Gargle it for a sore throat or tonsillitis. Proven directions for its many uses, in every package. All drug stores have genuine Bayer Aspirin which is readily identified by the name on the box and the Bayer cross on every tablet.

DEAD DRUNK, HE LEADS COPS TO STOLEN GOODS (Continued from Page 1) head John McGinn visited Mack's headquarters upstairs over the Campbell store. It didn't take long to locate a couple of cases of canned goods in Willard's kitchen—and, strange to say, they were of the same brand that Mr. Campbell deals in. There were about 45 cans in all, enough to make Mack some little time, since he always did prefer drinking to eating anyway. Nothing else of any particular value was found in the Mack establishment. Evidently Willard didn't have the heart to go further than the canned goods department. Seeking a motive for stealing—because it must be said in Mack's behalf he always has been considered honest—it seems that Willard has been using his small earnings, not for food, but for liquor. Getting hungry once in a while, it seems that he decided to stock up while he had the chance. Too drunk to know. Mack is too drunk this afternoon to realize where he is or why. So, no other charge than intoxication has been entered. When he comes to the police will talk to him and get his story on the canned goods supply he has stored in his kitchen. No doubt he'll tell the whole story because Willard never gives up secrets to himself very long. Then, perhaps, will come the other charges.

Y., will take place next month in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York City. A marriage license was issued to the couple today. Miss Remick was born in Wapping and is the daughter of Carl and Eva Smidt Remick. Mr. Falt is the son of John A. and Magdalena Bicker Falt. He was born in Carlstadt, N. J. Fourteen of the local troop of Boy Scouts, No. 14, of South Windsor, returned Sunday evening from a week's outing which was spent at Pioneer Camp, Winsted. They were accompanied by Harry Prior, Whiting Hudson and Peter Pilken.

SILK SCHEDULE O. K. WITH SENATE FIXERS (Continued from Page 1) association from Montana, headed by C. E. Brey, sent out circulars condemning the Smoot scale. "Inimical to the interests of the American sugar industry." Turn to Free Traders The peculiar angle of the growers' opposition was that they sent circulars to the Senate Republicans, along with other Insurgents and Democrats—the very group that plans to attack any increase whatever in sugar duties. Borah already has suggested that it would be cheaper for the government to directly subsidize the beet sugar industry by a bounty than to allow any tariff at all on sugar imports. He said a bounty would be several hundred million dollars cheaper annually. The Republican members of the Senate finance committee, meanwhile continued their rate-fixing sessions. Previous reports that a duty of $1.50 a ton was placed on pick-iron have been confirmed; along with an announcement that the hammer and a pen knife, on manganese ore was retained. The exemption, however, was slashed from 30 to 10 per cent, so that the duty represented an increased protection. The cotton schedule was completed with the House rates generally approved. Of interest to women was the decision on hose and half hose—the Senate Republicans approving all House rates. These are 50 per cent ad valorem on full-fashioned or seamless cotton hose and 30 per cent on other grades. Sustain Silk Schedule On lace window curtains, pillow shams and bed sets the House rate of 60 per cent ad valorem was approved. Similarly, the Senate Republicans endorsed the House rate of 45 per cent ad valorem on cotton underwear and all cotton knitted or crocheted articles. At a special night session last night, the Republicans generally approved the House rates in the silk schedule. A rate of 50 per cent ad valorem was placed on bleached dyed and colored spun silk or silk yarn with 40 per cent on unbleached and non-dyed yarn. The House rates of 70 and 75 per cent ad valorem on pile fabrics was approved too. The committee invoked a new kind of tariff—a seasonal duty on the vegetables schedule. In each case, the Senate Republicans on the duties for all months of the year except December, January and February. In these three months, existing rates were retained. This provision was adopted, it was said, to allow cheap importations from Mexico during the winter months when American farmers, outside Florida and California, do not grow the vegetables. On beans, a 3-1-2 cents a pound rate would be reduced to 1-2 cent during the winter months, on fresh peas the reduction would be from 2 to 1 cent a pound and on natural tomatoes from 3 to 1-2 cent during December, January and February. At this morning's session, the committee took up the rayon schedule.

POSTMASTER CHECKS LOCAL MAIL ROUTES Postmaster Oliver F. Toop has started his semi-annual task of checking the various delivery routes over which mail from the South Manchester post office is distributed. Today he was busy walking over George Allen's lengthy route which covers a part of Main street. All articles carried by the various delivery men are counted, weighed and checked up. Postmaster Toop accompanies each carrier on his route for a few days marking down every small detail which is in turn forwarded to officials at Washington. It requires several weeks to complete the task.

POLICE COURT A quartet of north end men was picked up by Sergeant John Crockett, last night in the Home-stead Park section, all so drunk that they were not aware of their whereabouts until they awoke in the police station this morning. The four men were not strangers to the police. In the party were John Breen, James Copeland, Benjamin Baronousky and Vincent Kovas. In court this morning they were each given a jail sentence of 15 days with costs. The costs in each case were $12.07. Breen was in court only yesterday for intoxication and paid a fine of $10 and costs. He told the court this morning that he only had couple of drinks but that it had an immediate effect on him and that he became dead to the world. Not one of the quartet came from but they all agreed that it was very powerful stuff. Bert Hummel, of Middletown, paid a fine of $10 and costs for speeding. He was arrested by Traffic Officer Herman Muske on Spencer street last evening. The officer testified that Hummel speeded his car up to 60 miles an hour.

SANDY BEACH DANCES Manchester dance fans are enjoying a great season at Sandy Beach Ballroom, Crystal Lake where many of the finest dance orchestras and attractions in New England are booked. During the balance of August and part of September the programs at Sandy Beach will be even bigger and better than ever. Tomorrow evening Ray Moretti will bring his whoopee dance band, The Dixie Strollers to Sandy Beach and a delightful program has been completed. Roy Moretti and the Dixie Strollers will feature in tomorrow night's events playing no less than 10 different musical instruments during the dance program. Saturday evening the 10th. John L. Sullivan and his Arcadia Ballroom orchestra of New York and Palmer's ballroom at Indian Neck, will visit Sandy Beach for their first engagement in this section of the state and there will also be a rise fox-trot for a purse of gold to the winners, Saturday night. John L. Sullivan who brings his act to Sandy Beach ballroom is a student musician, an artist with the violin and this talented young man has surrounded himself with a group of eleven college trained fine looking musicians that have been one of the foremost signing sensations of Broadway. The programs offered at Sandy Beach this week are especially strong in musical talent and diversity of features and the admission remains at 50 cents.

CLOUDBURSTS CAUSE SOUTHWEST FLOODS Los Angeles, Aug. 6.—Two men are dead and a third reported missing as the aftermath of floods which inflicted heavy property damage along the border of California, Utah and Nevada. Engineer Frank Quinn and Fireman Byron Taggs were killed when a Tonopah and Tidewater train was wrecked by a washed out bridge at Baker, near San Bernardino. Reports from Las Vegas, Nevada, stated that the Union Pacific railway was again operating trains on schedule after being held up for hours. The flood was caused by cloudbursts.

BOLTON The Bolton and Coventry Choral clubs will meet Friday night for their final rehearsal at the hall. The cantata will be given Saturday night, August 10. Mr. Clement and J. White Sumner, Miss Emily Champaign, Miss Lavinia Fries, John Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Knobel and Jones and son Junior enjoyed a shore dinner at Rocky Point, R. L. Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Levie of Indianapolis are spending the summer months at their home here. Miss Emily Champaign of Rockville is the guest of Miss Lavinia Fries. Charles Loomis of Pawtucket spent the week-end at his home here.

The trap rock has been laid and rolled beyond the Ruggles place on the new Bolton Center state road. The road will be in use soon. Miss Helen Northum is spending a few weeks with Miss Adella Loomis. The Grange picnic was held at Columbia lake Saturday. On account of the rain the picnickers ended at the basement. The dogs were roasted there. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Alvord and Miss Annie Alvord are visiting at Capon Cod. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Alvord of Hartford are spending a week at "Alvord Acres."

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Lee and children, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mack spent Sunday at Giant's Neck. Misses Clara and Blanche Woodward of Philadelphia have returned to their home after spending a month. They were guests several days at their uncle's Samuel Woodward.

Lewis and Angelo Massolotti were hit while riding their wheel by a Manchester automobile as they were making the turn from the North road. They were taken home and a doctor called. Lewis has a bad cut on the back of his head and Angelo has his leg cut. An Indiana man has invented a golf ball that hums for 15 minutes after it is struck. BESMIRCHING GIRL, SNOOK'S DEFENSE Attacks on Character of the Dead Indicated as Policy in Murder Trial.

Columbus, O., Aug. 6.—The hammer with which Theora Hix was beaten on the night she was slain was shown to the jury by the first witness called this morning in the trial of Dr. James H. Snook for her murder. The witness was County Detective Howard Lavelly who told of going to Snook's home after the latter's arrest and finding the hammer and a pen knife. The knife had been used to slit the girl's throat. "I was sent to the Snook home by the prosecutor," Lavelly related. "I found the hammer and knife in a tool box. There still was some blood on the hammer. "When I returned to the jail I joked with Snook. I said, 'You didn't wash that hammer very well.' He replied, 'No, he had not, but he merely turned on the faucet.' Lavelly was expected to be the state's last witness. The defense, it is anticipated, will attack the character of the slain girl. There is every indication that her private life will be thoroughly raked up in an effort to influence the jury. Her one-time rival, Marion T. Meyers, the only rival Snook ever had for her affections, is billed as a witness for the defense. Meyers, a former instructor in farm crops at the University, had known Theora for a long time and on a number of occasions took her automobile riding. He wanted her to marry him but she always refused. Meyers and Snook are cronies of a sort, more than once Meyers substituted for Snook in keeping a "date" with Theora. But Snook always insisted, even after the murder, that he was never jealous of Meyers. Like Snook, Meyers was dismissed at the University following the revelations that came after the killing of Miss Hix by Snook on the night of June 13 last.

BIGAMIST MUST FEED BOTH WIVES, CHILDREN New York, Aug. 6.—Frank Bruno, confessed bigamist, was sentenced today to support his two wives and three children. The judge imposed the unusual sentence, after Bruno pleaded guilty, instead of sending him to Sing Sing prison for five years.

WALKED OUT ON HIM

A variety of causes may be with considerable truth ascribed for the smallness of the crowd which greeted the big dirigible Graf Zeppelin when it landed at Lakehurst just after dark on Sunday evening. It had been confidently anticipated that there would be at least a hundred thousand people present. There were, as a matter of fact, not more than 5,000—some reports put the number lower than that.

The hour was late. A considerable number had left the field before the big ship made her second appearance. There had been an in-and-out trickle of sight-seers all day. The air was rather chilly for persons clad in light summer clothes. Perhaps a good many were kept away through anticipation of a jam that never materialized.

But taking one thing with another, the comparative lack of interest shown was probably due in great measure to a lack of interest felt. The affair fell short of entire novelty. The Graf Zeppelin had been to Lakehurst before. The flight was not distinguished by any one outstanding element of appeal. It was just another thing like things that had been done before. And particularly was there an absence of any personality of special attractiveness. Certainly Dr. Eckener does not supply the human equation over which any great number of persons would be likely to go crazy, so to speak.

Eckener may be and no doubt is an able aerial navigator, a first class dirigible man. But he has a rather contemptuous way of treating the very public which he is trying to impress. His stubborn refusal to send out bulletins concerning his voyages, though the means are at his command and his "owners" are understood to have ordered him to do so, is a very good way to cause the light-hearted millions on the ground to say, "To grass with him! If he don't want to interest us we sure don't have to be interested!"

This elderly German is no Lindbergh. He can't afford to do publicity. Not if he expects, as he surely does, that Americans shall make a proper fuss over his big gas bag.

THAT'S THE STUFF

A New Britain man who signs himself G. P. C. writes to the New York World. Mentioning Roosevelt and Byrd as being in receptive mood for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1932 he goes on: "These are two estimable gentlemen, but do they or any others suppose that there are any Democrats in this neck of the woods who will vote for any other man but Gov. Alfred E. Smith?"

That's the spirit! For a reason having nothing in the world to do with the merits of any Democratic potential candidate, it is to be desired that the Smith Democrats throughout the country keep right on feeling like that. And this is the reason:

It is perfectly obvious that Mr. Hoover has started out on his administration determined to give no consideration whatever to the effect of any of his official acts upon his chances of a second term. That, for the country's good, is the most splendid possible state of affairs. We shall have, on that basis, an infinitely better first Hoover administration than we possibly could have if the President were weighing his own future against this or that policy, as Presidents so very frequently have done in their initial four years. But it might not be such a good thing for Mr. Hoover's chances of reelection (for he is going to reelection) if he were any prospect of an able opposition in the next campaign. For that reason, every American who hopes for a continuation of the Hoover Presidency after March 4, 1933, will find much of comfort in the battle cry of G. P. C., understanding full well that it reflects the grim rule or ruin determination of the Smith adherents. They can't, of course, come within a million miles of electing Smith. They will not permit the election of any other Democrat. Wherefore Mr. Hoover is amply assured of a second term without having to do the first bit of maneuvering to get it and without having to compromise his wise policies in the smallest degree.

MUDDLED

It is scarcely surprising that the Russian Bolsheviks are "misunderstood," as they almost tearfully complain of being, all over the world. It would take quite a nimble intellect to follow the celebrations of the Bolsheviks in at least some respects. Here we have the Pravda, Moscow Journal which is the formal mouthpiece of the Russian Communist Party, rejoicing in the "success" of the August 1 demonstrations for the revolution in many different countries, and expressing unlimited joy that the gesture for "world peace" was such an elaborate one. And at the same time we have the Pravda, in the same article, says: "Our test of strength on the 1st of August was a war test of the future fighters behind the barricades." Also: "We set in motion these hundreds of thousands and millions of workers at a time when the bourgeoisie was only preparing war behind a screen of pacifist phrases, which means that at the moment of mobilization the Communist parties would rise full armed to meet the capitalist declaration of war."

Now that's very queer kind of pacifist talk—gabbling about barricades and rising full armed and all that sort of stuff would seem, to any ordinary mind, to make pretty poor feathers for the dove. But then, it is probably well within the intellectual capacity of those superior creatures the Bolsheviks, to prove beyond shadow of doubt—there is a shadow of doubt in any Bolshevik contention—that it is peace in all its loveliness that cut throats and bayonet bodies so long as the throats have been shaved and the bodies washed.

However, they seem to be enjoying themselves. It is rather wonderful to be able to kid yourself into the idea that two or three little parades and a few dozen stump speeches, participated in by perhaps one person out of every hundred thousand, is an immediate forerunner of world wide revolution—when revolution building is your trade.

INSPECTION OF LAWS

Granting that it is impossible for the Supreme Court of Errors to pass upon the validity of laws not yet passed—and it would seem unlikely that the court will ever change the position it took in this respect more than forty years ago, for perfectly obvious reasons—it would certainly make for better government in this state if every law enacted at any session of the General Assembly, of which there is any apparent ground to doubt its validity, could be submitted to the Supreme Court for an opinion before final adjournment, so that it could be re-enacted in valid form.

All Legislatures do, upon occasion, enact laws which later on, after having been in operation, are declared invalid by the competent court of the commonwealth. Such laws cause an endless amount of confusion. And their enactment is exactly the same in effect as if an automobile maker permitted cars to go out from his factory, every now and then, so defective that they wrecked themselves and their occupants. We have, as a state, no adequate inspection system. Every other responsible concern putting out a product to which the public trusts its life or welfare has an inspection system—many of them amazing effectiveness. We put out uninspected lafs—and raise riu with our citizens.

Since there is, of course, no other agency capable of doing the inspecting and capable of guaranteeing that the inspection will stand, inspection by the final authority, before there is opportunity for wrecks, would seem to be indicated.

Of course this would be a revolutionary sort of proceeding. But it takes revolutionary proceedings sometimes to meet devastating situations.

FEDERAL AID

With all confidence in both the ability, the willingness and the influence of Connecticut's Senator Bingham, it is rather to be doubted whether his promised efforts in behalf of the stricken tobacco growers of this section will produce any special action on the part of Congress looking to the relief of the sufferers. While farm relief has proven its capacity to enlist the votes of a majority in both houses, very definite restrictions have been thrown about the processes and any proposal to extend an exceptional kind of assistance to one comparatively very small group would be certain to be met with a storm of protest.

The Eastern agriculturalists do not enjoy, in the grain belt, the reputation of having stuck very enthusiastically by their fellow farmers of the West, and special consideration to be extended to the former could hardly be expected to find very ardent support from the latter.

This does not mean, however, that there is no possibility of federal assistance. The Farm Board's policy is to deal with co-operatives. It would probably deal with co-operatives in Connecticut as speedily and as generously as with co-operatives in Kansas. Obviously the first move for the tobacco growers is to reorganize on lines approved by the Farm Board.

GETTING FRESH

Certainly stringent measures, even to the straining of a point or two to secure deportation of offenders, should be taken with relation to these Chinese tong wars that keep breaking out every now and then in five or six American cities. If we let them go on these Chinese may get the notion that they are as good as American gangsters—when we all know that they work for their living and have no earthly right to that militant knighthood which is the prerogative of the racketeer.

Going Places AND Seeing Things

San Francisco.—The flavorome tang of San Francisco clings, despite time and change. Its old Bohemia may come and go; its physical contours may change, thanks to a skyscraper era; its old Marina flat lands may become clogged with homes and hotels may climb its nearby hills—but the salt bite of the sea, that "certain something" in the air and the cosmopolitan complexion go on unchanged.

San Francisco is able to accentuate its cosmopolitanism largely because of the picturesque districts, in which the peoples of other lands have settled. Thus the Italians, finding a resemblance to their own Mediterranean in San Francisco Bay, perch their houses on Telegraph Hill. Their dwellings spread over the peaks down to the bay, and in the valley flat spots great colonies of French have settled. The Irish have their Mission district, one of the nation's oldest family populations. Japanese and Hindus range from the Fillmore Street hill district up to the Sacramento Valley. Chinatown expands yearly from Broadway to Geary.

And one needs merely to walk upon any street to meet the flashing black eyes of Spanish maidens whose fathers planted the state's seed.

The melting pot was, according to the accepted arguments, hard to be unable to bring the Orientals into a state of assimilability. Yet the third—or is it the fourth?—generation of Chinese takes to American ways like the youths and flappers of any other race. The skirts of the Chinese school girls are as short as the rest. Their lips are as rouged. And if some sun-tan complexion preparation happens to be in vogue, they are among the first to adopt it. Believe it or not, but I saw a Chinese student reeling along Grant Avenue the other evening, after a night with his college fellows—a slight which ten years ago would have been impossible.

It is against all Chinese and Japanese custom to "neck." To kiss upon the lips is, in the native land, beyond reproach. It is the last word in depravity. Yet I have lived to look upon a Chinese lad and lass "necking" and kissing in Stevenson Square.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 6.—Probably for the first time ever, the Communists, the Socialists and the Capitalists—as they call everyone else—are all agreed on the same thing.

The Communist government of Russia, the Socialist government of England and our own government meet on common ground when it comes to reducing armaments. The Soviets got nowhere at all when they proposed complete world-wide disarmament to the League of Nations conferees at Geneva, but they can now enjoy the sight of the rest of the world stepping in the direction, led by President Hoover and Premier Ramsay MacDonald.

Russia does not enter into the picture so much except for her initiation of the complete disarmament idea, which caused the other nations to laugh or scold to hide their embarrassment, and her part in a recent demonstration that things are likely to be different. This demonstration came out of her row with China.

A Good Cause for War

In the old days China's railway seizure would have been good for a war any old time. But Russia, instead of going to war, agreed to be peaceful and to what extent at least confirmed the sincerity of her disarmament proposals. What made Russia's pacifist look so good was that she announced to the world her respect for the Kellogg peace treaty before Secretary of State Stimson or anyone publicly reminded her of her adherence.

The many recent developments favorable to the world peace ideal may be taken by historians as proof that popular government, or democracy, is a strong deterrent to war.

Russia's war sufferings made possible the Bolshevik revolt which was taken by historians as proof that popular government, or democracy, is a strong deterrent to war.

HEALTH DIET ADVICE

Dr. Frank McCoy

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. FRANK MCCOY IN CASE OF THIS PAPER ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESS ENVELOPE FOR REPLY

METHODS OF OVERCOMING STAMMERING.

In endeavoring to bring about a cure of stammering, it is important to develop a self-confidence in the patient. The spasmodic contraction of the throat muscle is based on mental conflict. Sometimes this conflict is hidden in the subconscious mind, requiring the services of a trained psychoanalyst to search out and discover the hidden cause, that it can be removed and worked out.

Stammerers are very susceptible to suggestion, and it is usually suggest over and over again that the speech is improving. Methods should be used for distracting his attention, such as having him sing or chant. The main trouble is he might be due to a little nervousness, but please advise me what will keep it in order for the occasion."

world peace ideal. Nevertheless, Russia claims to be a government of the workers and farmers and unalterably opposed to aggressive war, so if one accepts those claims at face value one finds that history's most radical experiment in popular government produced a government which led all the rest in renouncing war as an instrument of national policy.

Voted for Pacifism

In Premier Ramsay MacDonald's peace efforts the British people may be said to be getting just about what they voted for. British post-war conditions have been bad enough to cause a political revolution. MacDonald was a hated pacifist 10 or 12 years ago and the Laborites or Socialists whom he led have always had a strong peace policy. So when British voters gave MacDonald and his party their new government probably would go to great lengths on behalf of world peace. They knew that peace was importantly dependent on Anglo-American relations and that MacDonald would adopt a more friendly policy than had the existing Tory government.

War Leaders Are Out

All the old war governments are long since gone. At home the Democrats haven't been able to climb back in. In Russia they have the anthems of the Communist government. In England Lloyd George, the wartime premier, commands only a small minority and MacDonald, the pacifist, is on top of the heap. Germany's war lords are gone, and Austria's. Italy has a new type of government. In France the peaceful Briand, hero of Locarno and originator of the Kellogg treaty, has been premier again and again.

It almost looks as if peace were proving to be good politics. There is little chance that the American people will ever turn against Hoover because he has grabbed a peace banner and stepped out at the head of the parade.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

(Exercises.)

Question: (Mrs. O. D. writes—"Please tell me, what is the difference between developing and reducing exercises?")

Answer: Exercises tend to produce the normal weight, whether one is fat or thin. Reducing exercises help to reduce the weight and the exercises taken slowly are of assistance in increasing the weight.

(Singer's Voice Gets "Clogged.")

Question: Singer writes—"I am to sing at a concert and would like to know what is best to soothe the throat. While at home my voice is very clear, but as soon as I face an audience it gets clogged. This is due to a little nervousness, but please advise me what will keep it in order for the occasion."

Answer: There is no special remedy to take which will soothe the throat, as the substances swallowed do not remain on the vocal cords. A small amount of menthol mixed with honey sometimes gives a temporary relief. It is also a good policy not to use cold water, ice cream or any other cold substances before singing and it is also wise to not eat a very large meal before your appearance. If you have a tendency to catarrh you should attempt to overcome this by following a correct fasting and dieting regime.

(Value of Greens.)

Question: H. F. D. writes—"I would like to know the value of spinach, Swiss chard, and Brussels from a medicinal standpoint."

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

Across the Street... or Across the Continent

To simplify the use of the telephone; to make it easier for anyone to place a call to anyone else—this is one of the objectives for which we are constantly working.

An evidence of this endeavor is the recent extension to nationwide scope of a convenience which had previously been very limited in application. The direct method of placing out-of-town calls—when the number is known and the calling party will speak with anyone who answers—is now effective to any city or town throughout the country, not merely to a few nearby points, as formerly. It is no longer necessary to place such calls with "Toll Line." Now the local operator handles them, no matter how far away the distant point may be—whether across the street or across the continent.

The adoption of this added convenience is consistent with our policy of attempting wherever possible to make telephone service more convenient to those who use it. It marks another milestone on the road of progress toward our ultimate goal:

"The most telephone service, and the best, at the least cost to the public."

STOMACH UPSET, SOUR? THIS WILL COMFORT

Don't let sour stomach, gas, indigestion make you suffer. And don't use crude methods to get relief. There's no use when millions know the quick way; the pleasant, harmless way.

Just take a spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water. It is in the best form. It neutralizes many times its volume of excess acid—and does it instantly. It will probably end your distress in five minutes. Then you'll know what to do the next time. Crude, harmful methods will never appeal to you again.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia is the perfect way to end digestive disorders due to excess acid for men, women, children—and even babies. It's the method doctors endorse; which hospitals use. For fifty years it has been supreme.

THE ANTRIM COAST MAGNIFICENT SPOT

Variety of Scenery Makes It One of the Show Places in Northern Ireland.

Belfast, Northern Ireland
Editor The Herald: The road from Larne to Portrush is described as the second best road in the world. The whole length of the road from Belfast through Larne to Portrush is only 86 miles, but there is so much variety of scenery on that road as if it were a thousand miles long.

The visitor starting from Belfast finds himself after he has passed the ancient and historic town of Carrickfergus, at Whitehead, a growing seaside town, which is the base from which to explore Blackhead and the Gobbins. This part of Antrim, no more than twelve miles from Belfast, is magnificently wild and rocky. The peninsula called Islandmagee, which lies like a natural breakwater in front of Larne, may also be explored from this point. Whitehead, indeed, is a good place for the visitor to Belfast to stay in, since it is on the sea and yet within a very short bus journey from the city.

The distance from Whitehead to Larne is about 12 miles—Larne is distant 25 miles from Belfast, and at Larne the great coast road may be said to begin. Larne itself has claims on the consideration of the visitor; its surroundings are lovely, its hotels are good, and its situation makes it very convenient to those who wish to explore Antrim with the least expenditure of time.

From Larne to Portrush the road runs through a variety of scenes that cannot be easily equalled anywhere. Soon after leaving Larne it reaches the sea and continues to run by its side until it turns inland at Cushendall. High limestone hills hang their basaltic heads above him and he is aware of a solitude that cannot be disturbed. Twelve miles from Larne he will come upon the little town of Glenamur, which guards the entrance to one of the beautiful Nine Glens of Antrim. Carnlough, curling round quiet water is the next village to be entered, and just beyond Carnlough is Garron Point, a great headland which fell away from the hills behind it.

The hotel here, Garron Tower, is a romantically situated one, it was formerly one of the Irish homes of the Marquis of Londonderry. The Glens of Antrim now begin to appear in their greatest beauty and the finest of them all, Glenariff, opens onto the sea at the hamlet of Waterfoot, and close to Cushendall. This glen is indescribably beautiful, it is said it defeats the pen of the descriptive writer, whose adjectives miserably fail to express the loveliness that lies about him in such profusion. Its waterfalls are many and magnificent.

At Cushendall the road leaves the sea and runs along wild moorland and bog. After this moorland has been passed the road runs inland to Ballycastle and reaches the sea again.

The visitor is now in the neighborhood of the Giants Causeway and Portrush, names that are familiar everywhere, but he is also in the neighborhood of less known, but no less lovely places. Ballycastle itself is a lovely town and it is convenient to places that are rarely seen by tourists who are impatient to be at Portrush and the Causeway.

Fairhead and Ballintoy and Carrick-a-rede, and Murlough Bay are all near to Ballycastle and the wise visitor will not omit to see them. Twenty miles separate Ballycastle from Portrush, but they are lovely miles, most of them running near the edge of the sea.

From the Causeway to Portrush the road is wildly magnificent and extravagantly various. Midway along it one comes to the ruins of Dunluce Castle. Soon afterwards Portrush is reached and the journey round the Antrim coast is ended and no one who has ever passed over those 86 miles can fail to realize how beautiful they are.

Sincerely,
THOMAS T. WILSON.

"Oh, Red, it's terrible! They say we're engaged!" "Yeah, I know. The office had a flash."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM, young and lovely playwright, receives reporters in her suite at the Plaza. The night before, witnessed the premiere of Molly's startling play, "The Death of Delphine Darrows." It was an exciting and tumultuous night for Molly—beginning with the glorious reception of "Delphine," and followed by a violent scene with her disapproving mother. After that, came a party. Then Molly spent a few hours with her father who had waited at the hotel to see her privately.

In the morning, when she had slept scarcely an hour, reporters came, clamoring for interviews. They ask her what her plans are for the future. As a matter of fact, she is in love with JACK WELLS, and has some vague notion of marrying him shortly.

But the reporters do not know that when she hints at romance, they assume that RED FLYNN, a police court reporter, is the lucky man. In no time, the next editions are on the street. "Molly Burnham Engaged," they scream. "Girl Playwright to Wed Newspaper Man."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

The following story, typical of many, appeared that afternoon on the front page of a New York evening paper.

"Molly Burnham, hinting mysteriously at romance, received reporters today in her palatial suite at the Plaza.

"When Dopey Dan fired the shot that made Miss Burnham famous, George Flynn, police court reporter in Boston, conceived an idea that should make her rich, as well. As an express agent, Mr. Flynn appreciated the value of Dopey Dan's errand aim. A victim as pretty as Miss Burnham should never be shot in vain. George knew his stuff, and proceeded to turn the spectacular assault into a dramatic flier.

"Miss Burnham admits that the plot for 'The Death of Delphine Darrows,' originated in the fertile brain of the police court reporter. It was she who wrote the script. And last night a wildly enthusiastic audience welcomed the premiere of their joint efforts.

"Today Mr. Flynn (otherwise known as Red) is back on the job. While Miss Burnham, famous overnight as the youngest and prettiest playwright on Broadway, holds court in Gotham.

"Looking more like a debutante than a seasoned newspaper woman, Miss Molly admitted today a hankering for romance. But, pressed for details, she refused to make a statement.

"I don't know whether I'm engaged or not," she declared, and declined to corroborate rumors that Mr. Flynn was the lucky man.

"Mr. Flynn, covering police court in Boston, also refused to talk. Friends of the couple expect formal announcement of the engagement within a few days."

After the reporters left, Molly had dressed leisurely, expecting a telephone call any moment from Jack. But her time was busy with a great deal of the time. Mr. Wharton, her city editor in Boston, had called to congratulate her, and to say that he was forwarding a number of wires and special deliveries. "I don't suppose you'll be coming back?" he surmised.

"Why, of course I will," she insisted, "if my job's still there. I know I've been away an awfully long time."

"Your job's here all right," he assured her. "But you'll have other irons in the fire now."

Her mail came up shortly, a great bundle of it. And presently she knew that Mr. Wharton was right.

A firm of book publishers wished to know if she would write a novel from the script of the play. They would guarantee the sale of 100,000 copies. A well-known typewriter firm wrote that they are sending her a typewriter, and requested her endorsement. Tobacco manufacturers solicited approval of their particular brand of cigars. There was a cold cream manufacturer who craved her sanction of his product.

The editor of a national magazine wondered if she would care to write an article entitled "A Career Versus Love." Several studios besought the favor of an invitation sitting.

But the greatest thrill of all came when she opened the letter from a man in charge of the New York branch of a celebrated moving picture firm. Mr. Sydney Dunsany was his name, and he wanted to know if she would consent to be filmed for a talkie.

She only rushed to the telephone. She could not wait any longer. She must share the thrills of her success with Jack. Probably he had tried to reach her, and found the line busy. Or maybe he thought she was still resting, and did not want to disturb her.

The telephone operator thought he had gone to lunch, but she would see. Molly waited impatiently.

"Oh, Jack—hello. I was afraid I'd missed you. The roses were lovely. Thank you so much. I've been waiting and waiting for you to call. I should think you'd be just dying to take me to luncheon." She laughed excitedly. "A famous lady like me!" she cried.

"I didn't know a famous lady like you would want to go anywhere with a poor man like me."

"Oh, Jack, I'm simply famishing for the sight of you!"

"Isn't Mr. Flynn around?"

"No, he went back to Boston this morning. Why, Jack, what's the matter? You know I'd rather be with you than Red."

He laughed roars.

"You're getting very modern aren't you, Molly?"

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"Well, I suppose it's ultra-modern to announce your engagement to the press, and be seen dining with an old beau. Sort of proving your independence from the kick-off? Is that it?"

"Jack Wells, what are you talking about?"

"Oh, gosh, Molly, haven't you made a chump out of me long enough?"

"Jack!"

"I've just seen the afternoon papers," he told her.

"I don't know what you're talking about, honey!"

"Then you didn't mean to let it out so soon?" he questioned. "Your engagement to Flynn? Well, somebody's spilled it. Better get the last editions, Molly, and treat yourself to the news."

He broke the connection abruptly, and Molly sat for a moment, with the receiver dangling limply. When she recovered her composure, she asked that the afternoon papers be sent to her room. And there it was, screeching at her from the front pages.

There was a letter, too, from Rita, begging Molly to go to see her. Rita was ill, and worried. She hadn't been herself since the baby was born. Besides, Molly had never seen her little daughter. She was the loveliest baby in the world. Having a child was quite as satisfying as having a career, declared Rita. But she was overjoyed for Molly, and so proud of her success.

"I'll run up to Boston to visit Rita, and go to commencement," decided Molly. "There'll be plenty of time before I sail."

She had saved Red's letter until the last. Now she opened it slowly, fearful of what it might tell her.

JAPANESE PEOPLE SAVE 15 PER CENT OF INCOME

Tokyo.—Japanese spend 70 per cent of their whole incomes, pay out 15 per cent to the state, and save 15 per cent according to Dr. Yasumaro Shimoto.

The amount spent in a year by the nation reaches ¥3,000,000,000. If the people save 10 per cent of their incomes it will add another ¥900,000,000 to the nation's wealth.

The saving amount to ¥2,000,000,000, inclusive of insurance premiums. This means ¥34 per family.

VALUABLE ELEGY

London.—An old copy of Gray's "Elegy" sold at Sotheby's recently for $700. It was published in 1751 and at that time sold for a very small amount. Gray made practically nothing out of this work, for he gave away his copyright to his publishers.

"But I'll deny the engagement over the radio, if it will make you feel any better."

"Don't do anything," he besought, "until you get my letter. I can't talk over the phone."

"All right," she promised.

There were reporters in the lobby, waiting for her. But she called to them frigidly.

"I've nothing to say," she announced coolly. "I was misquoted this morning, and I shall not give any more interviews of a personal nature."

Mr. Durbin says your fiancé's name is Wells," broke in one of the men. "Do you wish to deny the rumor of your engagement to Mr. Flynn?"

Molly colored angrily. She knew their methods so well.

"Please," she begged them. "We're all newspaper people. Can't you lay off for a little while? I'll give you all the stories you want about the play. And maybe I can give you a romance story later. But not now. And don't deny anything. Just kill it."

"Will you pose for some more pictures?" they clamored.

"If you'll promise to do as I ask," she bargained.

They went back to her room, and Molly put on various hats for them. She even changed to the green gown she had worn the night before.

"That's a lovely one you had on," remarked a girl. "I suppose you get all your frocks in Paris, Miss Burnham?"

Molly laughed.

"I've never been to Paris, or anywhere," she declared. "And then, her eyes sparkling, she cried, 'I'm going!'"

She'd run away, she decided impulsively, from everything. From Snodgrass and her mother. From Boston and Red. Yes—from New York even—and Jack.

"I'll have plenty of money," she was planning happily. "And I've been working so hard, I really need a rest. Besides, when I come back, they'll all be glad to see me—mother and Jack—and everybody."

And that afternoon she made the Conte Blancamano.

The next day Red's letter came. It was also a note from the dean at college, who had advised her not to try to combine marriage with a career. The dean wondered politely if Miss Burnham would be kind enough to return for commencement. "I'll speak to the graduating class."

There was a letter, too, from Rita, begging Molly to go to see her. Rita was ill, and worried. She hadn't been herself since the baby was born. Besides, Molly had never seen her little daughter. THE TRUTH ABOUT THESE REDUCING DIETS

HERE'S A SAFE DIET THAT SHOULD TAKE OFF TWO POUNDS A WEEK

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of six articles in which Dr. Morris Fishbein, America's foremost writer on medical topics, tells how the various reducing diets now so popular look in the eyes of medical science.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The only thing necessary to reduce weight successfully in the large majority of cases is to realize that not more than fourteen hundred to fifteen hundred calories per day should be taken, that the foods selected should have proper amounts of proteins, carbohydrates, fats and mineral salts, that all of the vitamins should be included, and that the diet should be sufficiently varied to make it appeal to the taste and the appetite.

When most of us went to school these things were never taught to us. Modern children learn a great deal about these facts in their courses in physiology and in home economics.

For the adult who wants to learn about foods, there are a half dozen books available that provide the necessary information. However, most people will not even look in a book or make the slightest effort to acquire the necessary information. For them it is necessary to supply a standard list by which they can regulate their conduct and their appetites.

Suppose one wished to take twelve hundred calories in a day. It could be accomplished and all the body needs guaranteed by the following arrangement:

Breakfast: One half orange, two eggs, one thin slice dry toast, coffee sweetened with saccharin and two tablespoonfuls of tinned cream, and one small cube of butter.

Lunch: A slice of lean meat, peas or string beans to the amount of two tablespoonfuls, one half head lettuce with a little French dressing.

Dinner: Clear bouillon, two slices lean meat, spinach or carrots, one half head lettuce with French dressing, one half orange, tea sweetened with saccharin, one fourth of a cup of milk, a slice of thin bread toast and a small cube of butter.

In the diet that has been given almost innumerable substitutions may be made with care and variety. One-half grapefruit may be substituted for the orange. One egg may be substituted for the meat. Cucumbers, asparagus, radishes, turnips, cabbage, spinach, watercress may be used as vegetables or several may be taken at one time to make up about four ounces of vegetables cooked, or as a salad.

Occasionally berries or tomato may be substituted for the orange or the grapefruit. The calories will average about twelve hundred to fourteen hundred per day and on that diet the person will lose about two pounds per week if he keeps up his daily work, provided there is nothing constitutional wrong with him.

FIVE PESTS DESTROYING CROPS IN CONNECTICUT

New Haven.—Five pests are smiting Connecticut hard. They are, according to the state agricultural experiment station here, gypsy moth, Asiatic beetle, Japanese beetle, European corn borer, and Oriental peach moth.

"Serious losses will be caused if they cannot be held in check" the station entomologist Dr. W. E. Britton says. The five pests are creeping across the state in as many different ways, and Federal and state authorities are combining to overcome the things as quickly as possible. Meanwhile complete defoliation of the trees of the state, the spoilation of woods, and the starvation of corn, fruit trees and nursery products in general are likely another summer.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton ©1928 by NEA Service Inc.

Well, mother, I didn't hear you, honest I didn't."

"It's just because you don't pay attention."

"I studied the wrong lesson, teacher."

"Then you didn't pay attention when I was assigning it."

"It wasn't a close shave, dad, I tell you, I jumped in time."

"I don't suppose you were paying attention to where you were going."

Children are not the only offenders—we're all wool-gatherers, more or less, and after all, with their brains buzzing with a thousand interests and impulses, children have more excuse than we have, at that.

But I'm here to remark that inattention, let us call it lack of concentration, is going to cause these children of ours more trouble when they grow up than we're likely to guess.

What Poor Memory Is

Poor memory is one of the by-products. We think we forget things when we never thoroughly knew them. Poor memory is a most pure lack of observation, or lack of concentration. Inattention covers both.

I should teach the children to concentrate, not only on things they see, but on things they hear.

There is an old Chinese saying that a single picture is worth ten thousand words.

What does that prove?

That what we learn through our eyes sticks better than what we learn through our ears.

That proves its point. Our chief offense in the matter of inattention is with our ears. We don't listen—not with our minds at least.

How are we going to drill the children in this art of listening with their minds?

First of all, by our own attitude of expressing ourselves. An officer giving a command makes it terse and clear if he wants attention and instant results. A slothful command deserves no more than slothful attention.

The "Why" of Inattention

Half the time parents address children in a vague indirect way that almost asks for inattention. Another thing—I shouldn't give an order twice. Let Johnny learn that when we call him once we mean business. And have him understand that he's got to have at least one little ear peeled for that call.

I believe we can do wonders in developing this sixth sense of alertness in children. Alertness and at the same time concentration. I heard one man comment another the other day "He always has an ear to the ground," he said.

Wide-awake, no wool-gatherings, watchful, alert! Paying attention!

OLDEST FRENCH MAYOR HELD OFFICE 45 YEARS

Paris.—This little village of Birlatou in southern France can boast of the oldest mayor in France. M. Ihardoy, its chief executive, is now 82 years old, and has held office for forty-five years.

In spite of his age, M. Ihardoy has hardly a gray hair. The mayor often takes part in the village games with young men. He is the father of seventeen children, himself.

STRICT DIET IS CAUSE FOR INDIAN DIVORCE

Columbus, Ind.—An alleged enforced diet of tomatoes, rice, macaroni and rolled oats proved too much for Mrs. Lucille Black of Columbus, who obtained a divorce from her husband, alleged to have forced the diet upon her.

Old maids that bob their hair are fools. You can't make fillets out of sea-bitten mules. You can prune their ears close down to their eyes but you can't fool the old horse flies.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLEN B. STANLEY

When the old-fashioned college cut-up got tired of shoeing the cow into the chapel, he organized a nightshirt parade. And all of alum mater's husky males paraded the town attired in flapping night shirts.

The old-fashioned nightshirt parade is giving way to the pajama parade which the old college cut-up, as well as many who never were college cut-ups, are staging in our towns, great and small.

W. O. Saunders of North Carolina seems to have started it when, agitated by too much perspiration under the collar, and spurred on by all the mutterings of the various males dress reform organizations, he hid himself off to work one morning all clad in nice clean white pajamas, a string tie under the pajama collar, white hose and ox-fords, and a palm leaf fan.

IDEA SPREADS.

Crowds gathered and hooted and jeered. Some remained to consist the situation seriously and opine that it wasn't such a dumb idea at that.

Other males in other cities have followed the editor's example. Acting fellows have found a pajama-clad and a splendid way to get publicity, especially when accompanied by a sweet young thing who seems not at all abashed by an escort clad in smart orchid or pale green or blue pajamas, white straw hat, white shoes and hose, and carrying a cane, to offset the feeling that, after all, one of those horrible nightmares of running around the streets in nightshirts has really come true.

The main, and almost only, interest which I find in pajama wear on the streets by men is all the bullababo that is made about the only obviously sensible way for men to dress in warm weather.

That men are reactionaries and conservatives is simply proved by their slavish adherence to dress that is utterly unattractive and uncomfortable.

When woman wants something different, something chic, something comfortable in clothes, she wears it, and if the rest of the world doesn't like it, that's just too bad.

Point is that she does not have to be conspicuous, for all her sister sex is discovering the same thing about the same time.

CLARA BOW FIGURES IT'S BEST TO KEEP IN FORM

By MABEL DUKE.

Summer is the ideal season in which to battle the problem of overweight. This is true because warm weather does not arouse one's appetite and because the body sheds less fat.

For one who is only moderately overweight, a simple diet will be found effective in removing the extra pounds without inconvenience. Clara Bow has evolved a splendid diet which she follows during the summer months to retain her graceful figure.

"One beginning the summer diet may find it difficult the first few days while breaking the habit of overeating—but don't weaken!" Miss Bow cautions.

Here's a Daily Diet.

"For breakfast, drink only one large glass of orange juice. Then for luncheon eat a crisp salad with dressing, a leafy vegetable, toast and tea or coffee, without cream.

"Four o'clock tea must be dispensed with and in its place take a cooling limeade or other fruit drink. Dinner should be as meatless as possible, taboos pork and beef especially. Lamb chops, fish, vegetables, salads, cheese, cold soups and toast are excellent items to include.

"That's all the diet, but there's just one word of advice. Don't tell anyone you're dieting! Nothing is more boring than hearing a woman talk of how she denies herself food. Just keep it a secret and when you begin to lose, just make 'em all guess how you did it."

MARY GARDEN "TRAINS" FOR AMERICAN INVASION

Nice.—Mary Garden, operatic diva, whose voice has thrilled millions, is in "training" for her next invasion of America.

Living quietly at Beaulieu-sur-Mer, near here, the famous singer's "trains" consists of early morning promenade along the sheltered lanes and in leisurely afternoons spent in the woods or on the beach, gaining energy for a strenuous concert tour of the United States.

An Englishman is going to introduce a car in this country that will travel 88 miles an hour and run 6 miles on a gallon of gasoline. There ought to be a grand rush of Sunday drivers for a machine like that.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

HOLY ROMAN EMPIRE.

On Aug. 6, 1806, the Holy Roman Empire ceased to exist when Francis II resigned the Imperial crown after having assumed the title of Emperor of Austria.

The Holy Roman Empire was the creation of Otto the Great, who was crowned emperor by the pope in Rome in the year 962. Technically, it was a prolongation of the Empire of Charles (Charlemagne). It was based upon the essentially the same as those which brought about the coronation of Charles the Great in 800.

The restored empire included, reckoning strictly, only Germany proper and two-thirds of Italy; the remaining subject but separate kingdoms, Burgundy, Bohemia, Moravia, Poland, Denmark, perhaps Hungary.

Under Otto, the Germans became not only a united nation, but were at once raised on a pinnacle, the possessors of Rome and Rome's authority.

In 1254, at the end of the Hohenstaufen dynasty, the empire began to sink rapidly in importance and owed any real authority which it possessed to the strength of the ruler who was emperor.

The bonds which held the empire together were greatly loosened in 1356 when individual states were accorded the right to enter into foreign alliances.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT STATE WEDNESDAY

Norma Talmadge plays the most daring role of her career in "The Woman Disputed," an adaptation of the sensational stage success of the same title, which is coming to the State theater, on Wednesday. Miss Talmadge's second vehicle for United Artists has locale on the Austrian-Russian border before and during the World War. The earlier scenes reveal the star as a flashily-garbed girl whose beauty makes her a conspicuous figure in the night life of an Austrian city. She is loved by two men, former friends, whom the war makes enemies as well as rivals.

The supporting cast of "The Woman Disputed" is headed by Gilbert Roland, who plays a dashing Austrian army officer. Other well known actors in the cast are Arnold Kent, Gustave Von Seyffertitz, Michael Vavitch, Boris Fess and Gladys Brockwell.

"The Woman Disputed" is synchronized with music and sound effects.

A strong star for "Strong Boy," Victor McLaglen's new picture, with a powerful supporting cast and a robust theme. The assisting comedians are Farrell MacDonald, Clyde Cook and "Slim" Summerville, "the three Mirthgetters" of filmdom.

"Strong Boy" is a bustling, strong-armed love comedy that teems with life, tingles with humor and presents the former star of "What Price Glory" in his funniest vein. McLaglen is cast as a baggage-room Romeo who finds himself in a trunkful of trouble when a baby, a monkey and a rope of pearls get tangled in his fish-bowl. If that isn't hectic, the fish-bowl is more so for "Strong Boy" concludes with a thrilling train robbery that mixes laughs with villainy. A charming love story of a girl's successful attempt to fire her sweetheart with ambition is skillfully entwined with farcical adventures that will tickle your sense of the ridiculous. Lovely Leatrice Joy is McLaglen's little lady.

So with the advent of "Strong Boy" Wednesday and Thursday check your troubles and visit us. This picture will also be presented with music and sound effects.

Usual short subjects will round out this sparkling double feature bill.

ROADSIDE WATERS OF STATE UNSAFE

Only a Dozen Sources Along Highways Fit to Drink; These Are Sign-Marked.

Hartford, Aug. 6.—Warning to motorists, campers and picnickers against the use of roadside drinking water supplies which are not definitely marked as "Safe" by the official signs of the Connecticut Highway and Health departments was issued jointly here today by Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald and Commissioner of Health Dr. Stanley H. Osborn; and to this warning was added the amazing statement that only a bare dozen of the scores of springs, wells and brooks along Connecticut highways have been accorded a safe rating.

All of the numerous roadside supplies with the exception of this dozen have been found by health department inspection either to be already polluted, or, because of their characteristics, to be subject to contamination at any time. In practically all cases, the roadside supplies in this state were found to be contaminated.

Otherwise, Boil It

Water for drinking purposes should be taken only from supplies which bear the standard, highway department sign labeled "Drinking Water," and carrying a card showing the result of the health department's 1929 inspection.

Water from city or town supplies furnished with a public water supply system should be used in preference to that from any other source since its purity is assured by filtration and chemical treatment.

Every supply of drinking water on or near the Connecticut highway system has been located by the highway department and the information passed on to the department of health which in turn has conducted a thorough inspection of the health department's inspection are returned to the highway department which then posts those supplies which are found to be safe with the standard sign, designed by Commissioner MacDonald several years ago and recently adopted as the standard sign for the entire United States.

Broken water pipes will stay broken and clogged pipes will stay clogged on Saturday when all members of Local 544, Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters' Helpers will hold an outing at the Crystal Lake hotel.

Though plumbers are notorious for being forgetful of their own safety, no one will forget their appetites as a chicken dinner is scheduled to be served at 2 o'clock. Water sports and games with prizes for the winners will be part of the program. The committee in charge consists of Arthur Waddell, Jack Hunt and Fred Johnson.

STILL FAIL TO FIND COLUMBIA VICTIM

Lawrence Lariviere, Willimantic Boy, Believed to Be in Lake—Lost 10 Days Ago.

All efforts to locate the body of Lawrence Lariviere, 18 years old Willimantic youth who is believed to have been drowned in Columbia Lake ten days ago have been fruitless. Nevertheless, the search was continued today.

The water was closed in the dam Friday in hopes of creating a back pressure which might free the body in case it was lodged against brush or a stump, but this, too, proved futile and the gate was reopened this morning.

Charles J. Strickland has awarded the contract to build a new cottage on Oxford street in his West View tract, to Contractor George Forbes of Delmont street. Work has already commenced on the foundation.

PIANTANDA-SIMINON

Miss Denise Bertha Siminon, daughter of Mrs. Augustine Calabria of 28 Dudley street, and Alphonso Piantanda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Piantanda of 150 Maple street, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. James' church, by the Rev. W. P. Reidy, at a nuptial high mass.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with French lace. Her shower bouquet was of bridal roses, gardenias and gypsophylla. Her veil of tulle which was caught with orange blossoms fell from a pearl coronet.

Miss Piantanda's gown was of Nile green georgette. She wore a large hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and delphiniums.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast for the relatives and close friends at the bride's mother's home, 28 Dudley street.

The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a rhinestone bracelet.

and the bridegroom's gift to his best man was a pen and pencil set. The wedding gifts were numerous and beautiful. The bride was honored with a shower last week by her many friends and received beautiful gifts of glassware, pictures, linen and china.

Mr. and Mrs. Piantanda left today for New York and will visit Niagara Falls and places in Canada before they return. The bride's traveling costume was a dark blue crepe ensemble with hat and shoes to match. They will be at home to their friends after August 19 at 30 Church street. Both bride and bridegroom have been employed in Cheney Brothers dressing mill and are very well known.

The West Side girls volleyball team won three straight games over their East Side rivals last night by scores of 15-5, 15-8 and 15-6. On the losing team were Joy Squarrito, Mary Krazonka, Jennie Veyorito, Mary Antonio, Marie Scariato, Helen Poprowski, Anita Passacantella and Annie Reale. The winners were Edith Brown, Helen Donnelly, Freda Roth, Barbara Nickerson, Eleanor Nickerson, Helen Erickson, Lillian Jensen and Frances Tibbetts.

CENTER CHURCH SCHOOL BIDS CLOSE THURSDAY

Nine Bidders, Committee Expects—New Heating Plant Is to be Included.

Bids for the new Sunday school building on the Center Congregational church property will close at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon of this week. It is expected that there will be nine bidders, three from Manchester and the remainder from out of town.

The plans call for the erection of a parish hall in the basement of the Sunday school building. The plans also call for the installation of an entire new heating plant. Shortly after the bids close, there will be a meeting of the building committee and the architects at which time the various bids will be considered. The awarding of the contract will follow.
