

JAPANESE GIRL WILL NOT MAKE TRIP ON GRAF

Japanese Men Passengers Protest; Zeppelin to Start Between Midnight and 5 O'Clock Tomorrow A. M.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Aug. 14.—The "feminine question" caused a flurry today in the preparations for the departure of the Graf Zeppelin on the continuation of its globe girdling flight, and was settled in a way that brought tears to Miss Keneko Kitamura, a tiny, doll-like Japanese girl who wished to make the voyage as a newspaper reporter.

Miss Kitamura, who is understood to have been backed by powerful Japanese interests, booked passage on the Graf to Tokyo and paid for her ticket. When the other Japanese passengers—all men—learned that Miss Kitamura was to go they threatened to withdraw on the ground that "a Japanese woman's participation in the flight would make a bad impression in Japan."

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf, was in a quandry. Later he announced that, as the Japanese passengers' protest had been sustained by the Japanese embassy in Berlin, Miss Kitamura's passage was cancelled.

Miss Kitamura was found by the correspondent weeping in a corner of the lobby of the Kurgarten hotel.

"Oh, it is dreadful," she exclaimed. Now I shall have to return by boat which will take a month. I had my heart set upon making the flight."

She was a sorrowful spectacle as she dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief.

Dr. Eckener instructed the passengers to have their baggage ready by 5 o'clock this afternoon. He said he expects the Graf to leave between 4 and 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. A bus will leave the Kurgarten hotel with the passengers at 3:30.

"Weather conditions now seem excellent along the entire route and it looks as though we shall have a fine trip," Dr. Eckener said.

The passengers are promised a view of the world's most rugged scenery along the northern fringe of Siberia within 900 miles of the North Pole at some points.

It is understood that Dr. Eckener will command the airship only until it reaches Lakehurst, N. J. When the Graf leaves to return to Germany Dr. Eckener will remain

BLAMES GOVERNOR FOR BIG SHAKE-UP

Demoted Police Head Says He Will Tell Things About the Department.

Boston, Aug. 14.—The revelation that Governor Frank G. Allen had ordered the shakeup in the Boston police force, and the statement of Oliver B. Garrett, demoted head of the liquor squad that he "would tell some things about the police department" came as a climax today to one of the biggest police shake-ups in recent years.

Garrett, who for nine years had been special officer in charge of the liquor squad, was made a uniformed patrolman in the general orders issued by Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson. At the same time transfer orders were given to two captains, several lieutenants and sergeants and 52 patrolmen.

Governor's Connection

Governor Allen's connection with the move became known when he declared that he had recently discussed the situation in the police department with Commissioner Wilson and had ordered such steps taken as would put a stop to the rumors which had been in circulation.

"I told him I thought he should clear up the matter, and apparently he has done it," the chief executive said.

In handing over his keys and evidence, Garrett promised revelations which "would raise the roof."

"When I come back from my vacation I'll have a statement to make. I'll tell some things about the Boston police department," the demoted liquor "czar" declared.

Included in the transfer was Captain William W. Livingston, formerly head of the "hiring squadron" and superintendent of divisions. Captain Livingston was given charge of the station in Charles town.

NIGHT CLUBS DYING FAST

Broadway Places Deserted This Summer—Are Going Out of Business.

New York, Aug. 14.—"Hello sucker—" gets feeble response these days in Broadway night clubs, a survey today showed.

The answer is—the sucker crop has fopped sadly and little girls who get a hand get a hand get just about that and no more.

Eighty per cent of the persons one finds in the White Way caverns this summer are hostesses and entertainers and they are waiting for the seemingly inevitable day.

New York's night club business, if all the evidence is as genuine as it is apparent is dying on its feet.

And one doesn't even talk about the tough times for the girls who made things go whoopee when there were whoopee-makers to whoop. There are so many "at liberty" that it has become more a situation than a system.

Although the statistics show an equal number of cabaret licenses issued so far this year compared with last, the bureau that issues them declares the Broadway applications are decreasing rapidly. Only the outlying districts hold up the mark.

PREDICTS REVOLTS AMONG CONVICTS

Nation's Prison Survey Gives Reasons for the Present Unrest Among Prisoners.

New York, Aug. 14.—Continued unrest in prisons with recurring uprisings are foreseen by the National Society of Penal Information which recently concluded a survey.

The report, of which advance proofs were available today, will be published shortly in a new handbook of American prisons.

"With loss of time off for good behavior with unwise lengthening of prison sentences and with the ultra-conservative parole policy now in force in many of the leading prisons, a recurrence of the uprisings recently reported may be looked for any time," it states.

"Important as are the questions of overcrowding and idleness, we shall have to look for other reasons for such uprisings as reported at Leavenworth, Auburn and Dannemora.

Reasons for Revolts

"Foremost among these causes is the material lengthening of prison sentences as a general policy; another cause is the change in law, in New York state which takes away the possibility of reducing the sentence by earning 'good time' for faithful work and good conduct; a third cause is the decreased use of parole authority.

"All three of these fundamental causes are the result of a policy of repression growing out of a misguided public opinion concerning the crime wave."

The overcrowding and idleness common in so many institutions are only contributing factors. Merely building more prisons and employing additional guards cannot solve the problem.

Some Figures

The handbook gives the following figures as results of special investigations relative to overcrowding:

At Atlanta, the cell capacity was for 1,648 when the population was 3,111. Leavenworth has a cell capacity of 2,580 when its population was 3,576. Mansfield, Ohio, had accommodations for 1,681 when the population was over 2,900. At Jefferson City, Missouri, with a cell capacity there were 3,785 prisoners. Jackson, Mich.; Columbus, Ohio, and San Quentin, Calif. Penitentiaries had excess populations.

SEVERE HAIL STORM

Glens Falls, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Northern New York and Vermont today was recovering from one of the worst hail storms that has struck the section in several years.

Windows were broken in summer cottages at Lunenburg where bathers were driven from the beach and motorists forced to park cars by hail-stones reported as large as eggs.

The freak storm, which lasted about 15 minutes, was accompanied by high wind.

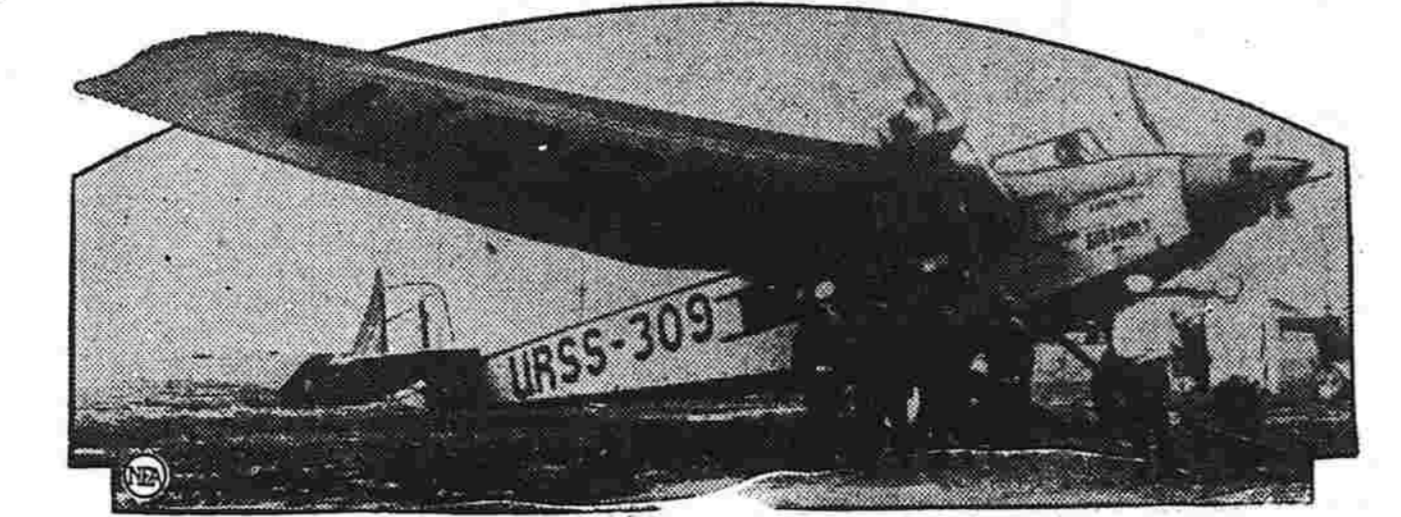

Telephone and telegraph lines were broken in the region around Lake Bomoseen and Middlebury, Vt., as the storm swept the lower Adirondacks.

Upper Vermont reported the storm there was the worst since the disastrous flood of two years ago. Extensive damage to crops was reported. Streams which had been dried up by a long drought are today running over their banks.

Moscow, Aug. 14.—A search party was sent out today to hunt for the Moscow-New York plane "Land of the Soviets" which is missing and 48 hours overdue at Chite, Siberia.

REPORT FIGHTING IN THE FAR EAST

First Official Report of Actual Clash Between Chinese and Russians is Given Out at Moscow.

Moscow, Soviet Russia, Aug. 14.—The first official reports of actual fighting between Chinese and Soviet troops on the Manchurian frontier increased the tension over the Russo-Chinese situation today.

The Red troops sustained some casualties.

While the Soviet government is doing everything possible to avert a conflict, many persons express the belief that this was unavoidable.

A communiqué, couched in guarded language, states that the Red army "repulsed invasions by White Guards (anti-Communist Russians) and Chinese troops at Biagoveschensk and three other points."

The official statement concluded: "Several Red (Soviet) frontier guards were killed and wounded."

This communiqué reporting armed clashes on the Manchurian-Siberian frontier follows a decision taken by the Soviet Revolutionary Military Council 24 hours ago to strengthen the military position in Siberia and especially in the region of the Manchurian border.

All armed Red forces are being unified in that zone under the command of Gen. Blucher, an experienced army officer who commanded the Reds in the Far East during the long period of civil warfare.

It is understood that he was at one time military adviser to the Chinese Nationalists with whom the Soviets are now at Loggerheads.

The Chinese military authorities in Manchuria are reported to be establishing fortifications on the frontier where the Chinese Eastern Railway crosses into Siberia; reinforcing their frontier guards and increasing the number of military planes all along the border line.

THINK GANGSTERS DROWNED A WOMAN

Barge Captain Said Men in Auto Threw Woman Into River—Body Recovered.

New York, Aug. 14.—The possibility that a young woman who drowned in the East river after being thrown from an automobile early today was "taken for a ride" by gangsters was considered by police.

Captain August Karlson was awakened shortly before dawn by the screams of a woman struggling in the water near his sand barge at the foot of 103rd street. He told police he saw several men get into an auto near the spot where she apparently had been thrown into the river and flee.

He threw her a line which she grasped and then lost hold of as she sank.

There were no marks of violence on the body but all identification marks had been removed. The woman was about 30, well-dressed and wearing a diamond ring.

COUPLE KILL SELVES AFTER WILD PARTY

Wealthy New Yorker and Young Sweetheart Found Dead in Cottage He Had Bought for Girl.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Gall Hamilton, wealthy New York agency owner and Miss Montell Mansfield, his young sweetheart, were dead here today—the result of a wild, all-night drinking party in a luxurious home nest near here.

They are both believed to have committed suicide.

The bodies were found in the dainty cruetone-decorated boudoir which Hamilton, owner of a prosperous employment agency in New York and the father of several children, had fitted out for Miss Mansfield.

His wife and the children are now touring Europe. Their home is at 375 Riverside Drive.

Follows Quail.

The two deaths followed almost immediately after a three-cornered quarrel with Rudolph Bachert, a mutual friend.

Bachert and three other New Yorkers who were at the party, were questioned closely by police.

Miss Mansfield, police learned, is a native of Farwell, Texas, the daughter of W. L. Mansfield.

Several years ago Hamilton purchased the quaint Spring Top farm as a summer home where he could visit Miss Mansfield frequently. The house was completely re-decorated in old Colonial style. It is located at Salt Point, near Netherlands, and Miss Mansfield had been occupying it since last spring.

Were Drinking.

Bachert drove there in his car yesterday and he and Miss Mansfield and Hamilton had a number of drinks together, it was learned.

At midnight, after many drinks had been consumed, the three went for a drive through the countryside. Bachert's car was loaded with liquor bottles, it was reported.

They were singing and apparently in high spirits when they left the house.

In the meantime the other guests, Mrs. Henrietta Voorhis, Miss Elizabeth McCure, and Fred

CALENDAR CHANGE IS MUCH NEEDED

Survey Shows That American Merchants Are in Favor of Thirteen Months.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The world movement for calendar simplification was given impetus today with the presentation to Secretary of State Stimson of a report from the national committee headed by George Eastman, of Rochester, N. Y., urging participation of the United States at a conference under the auspices of the League of Nations.

"Although our committee finds that opinion in this country relative to the best plan for calendar change to adopt preferentially favors the 13 months fixed calendar, it does not recommend that representatives of the U. S. government should enter an international conference committed to this plan or any other," the report said.

The committee gave more than a year's study to the subject, the report said, and found that three conditions exist to justify participation by the United States in a world conference.

The Conditions

These conditions were laid down: "The prevalence of a demand for calendar improvement on the part of a large and representative body of American opinion.

"A growing recognition by the general public of the grave defects of the present calendar, a lively interest in the methods by which these can be overcome, and an intelligent understanding of the principles of calendar reform."

"The actual experience of many business concerns with the use of private simplified calendars to secure more accurate accounting in the business affairs, and their practically unanimous judgment in favor of the general simplification of the civil calendar."

The Eastman committee expressed the hope that an international conference could be held in the near future in order that an agreement be reached by 1933. Japan's committee sent out by the committee brought replies from more than 80 per cent favorable to a change in the calendar, with a preponderance favoring the 13 month calendar.

WAR DEBT ACCORD NEAR AS BRITAIN CHANGES DEMANDS

SNOOK'S LAWYER CALLS GIRL SNEAK

Says Slain Woman Told Pro- fessor She Would Kill His Wife and Child.

Court Room, Columbus, O., Aug. 14.—Juror number eight in the Snook case, C. F. Butche, a carpenter, reported ill today and the 13th or emergency juror, Newton L. Tracey, a railroad foreman, was substituted in his place in the jury box by agreement of counsel for both sides and the defendant himself Dr. James H. Snook.

Snook, who is on trial for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, co-ed beauty, was asked by Judge Henry L. Scarlett if he was satisfied with the new juror.

"I am," replied Snook.

Juror Butche was seized by a billious attack which would incapacitate him indefinitely. Consequently, Judge Scarlett informed the others, "he has been removed from further consideration in the case."

Then with Tracey sitting a Juror No. 8, Defense Attorney Max C. Seyfert began the second of the three closing defense arguments to the jury.

Reviews the Case.

Attorney Seyfert, speaking in a clear, resonant voice, reviewed the case briefly and scored the prosecutors for the manner in which they "wound" a confession from Snook.

Then he swung into an attack on Theora Hix whom, he said, he was "forced" to assault by the very nature of the case.

"I would like to say peace to her ashes," said Seyfert, "but I cannot do so with the life of a man at stake. I am forced to throw aside the mantle of charity and call your attention to the facts.

"She has to be ridiculed, to be pictured as she was. She was the type that was quiet but sneaky."

Warned Snooks.

Seyfert told the jury that if Snook had not killed Miss Hix, she would have slain Mrs. Snook and her baby.

"She warned Dr. Snook she would do it," he asserted. Describing Miss Hix's "life of sin," Seyfert declared that "the flames of passion licked up her soul and body."

"They are trying to send Dr. Snook to the chair on trumped-up testimony," Seyfert shouted.

Seyfert portrayed Snook as a

MARKET PRICES KEEP GOING UP

U. S. Steel Climbs 8 Points and All the Other Lists Follow Suit.

New York, Aug. 14.—The Stock Market Zeppelined toward the skies today.

The red flag of possible further Federal Reserve action did not slow up the charging of the bulls to higher levels.

U. S. Steel, the lone morning and afternoon star for the past few days, shone forth with a new record high price of 245, an advance of 8 points. However, by noon today it was forced to share the spotlight with other throne-climbing aspirants.

Westinghouse Electric leaped 16 points to 250, a ne weakp. General Electric did a spring board to 399, up 10 1/4 points, for another new record top price. Yet another high hat was fashioned by Consolidated Gas which jumped 5 points to 183 3/4.

Easier Call Money

The soiling qualities of the aristocrats of the market strengthened the entire list. In addition, the seven per cent call money today compared to 8 per cent yesterday, gave a further shot to the bullish enthusiasm.

The gymnastics of the market reflected a remarkable recovery from the break last Friday. However, there was a disposition to interpret the raising of the rediscount rate as a barometer of prosperity. On the other side of the fence, there were brokers who predicted gloomily another Black Friday.

The optimists pointed out that even at its new high steel was selling at less than ten times its earnings, that as steel goes so goes the whole list, and that the bulls were running strong and that it takes a lot to stop a bull on the hoof.

Labor Delegates Switch to a Milder Brand of Diplo- macy at Today's Session at the Hague—To Agree On a Compromise.

The Hague, Aug. 14.—Switching from an aggressive to a milder brand of diplomacy, the delegates in the Hague conference of the British labor government appeared today to be in sight of a satisfactory compromise agreement upon both reparations and evacuation of the Rhineland.

The financial committee met and terminated its consideration of deliveries after a brief, general discussion.

The committee adjourned until Saturday "order to give the delegations an opportunity for holding informal conversations upon the questions raised."

It is understood a compromise agreement will be worked out regarding evacuation under which withdrawal of troops from the Rhineland will be under way before Christmas.

On the financial side of the dispute efforts are still under way to bridge the gap caused by the demands of Phil Snowden, chancellor of the Exchequer in the British government.

Delegates Agree

However, the speeches at this morning's session indicated that the delegates are practically agreed upon the creation of a sub-committee of the financial committee to deal with the intricate issues now pending.

Final action upon the British demands is expected on Saturday.

The demands of Great Britain, as now amplified show that the labor government at London is going to do all in its power to aid British industry and ultimately the British working man before this conference is over.

Great Britain wants the Young Plan amended so that the British will get approximately $11,000,000 annually above the allotment contained in that document, exclusive of the demand for a larger share of unconditional payments.

British

The British want German payments in kind either ended or greatly reduced.

Furthermore, the British want Italy to agree to purchase a fixed amount of British coal annually. This would take the place of German coal which might be delivered as a part of Germany's payments in kind.

Both the British and the delegates from the other allied powers are making concessions on various points. A notable example was conciliatory attitude taken by Premier Briand, of France, toward the German and British demand for speedy evacuation of the Rhineland.

When the Dawes plan terminates the allied countries will have to stand the expense of their armies of occupation upon German soil and the British are anxious to save this outlay.

Sweden gave in upon certain issues concerning the Young Plan. He notified the other delegations that Great Britain is now willing that the reparations commission shall appoint a committee to advise the German government as to what laws the Reichstag should enact to make the Young Plan effective. Previously the British had objected to this procedure.

There is a recurrence of reports that an American reparations expert may be summoned to the conference is over to sit in an advisory capacity. The name of S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations payments under the Dawes plan, has been added to those already mentioned.

RUTLAND, VT., SWEPT BY A HURRICANE

Much Damage Done by Hail; 73,000 Prize Apple Trees Are Destroyed.

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 14.—Thousands of dollars damage to crops and shattered windows, was the toll today of a short summer hurricane which swept through the Lake Bomoseen district late last night with a bombardment of big hailstones.

Hailstone, many of them an inch in diameter, were whipped by a terrific gale against houses in the district, shattering hundreds of windows.

A single orchard, operated near here by R. R. McRae, suffered a loss of 73,000 prize apple trees through the shrapnel-like hail swept through the young trees.

Fear was entertained here that summer cottages at Lake Bomoseen, a summer resort, were wrecked by the eighty-mile gale, but later reports showed that the resort had successfully withstood the force of the hurricane.

No injury was reported as result of the sudden storm.

ROMANCE WRECKS AUSTRIAN CLUB

Woman Hater Falls in Love So He Starts a Rival Organization.

Vienna, Aug. 14.—Two leagues are functioning in Vienna today to "obtain equal rights for oppressed males," but one of them is not striving so valiently as it used to. The founder fell in love and decided to allow women themselves to join.

These two organizations are "Asquitas," the original organization, which has invited "honest" women to participate in its world conference here next month, and "Justitia," which is against all women.

When Herr von Hoerberth, a divorced man of Vienna, formed the original league for the rights of men, he was outspoken in his criticism of laws and usages which gave men and especially married or divorced men "the worst of it." He had little use for women and feminine prerogatives and did not hesitate to say so. But when he fell in love everything was changed.

Kornbluch's Address. Herr Kornbluch, one of the founders of the original league, who remained firm in his anti-woman attitude, declared in an address to his colleagues:

"Tread softly, my dear comrades, upon this floor because you are treading on one of my dreams. Herr von Hoerberth, our president, who was known as an honorable divorced man, became entangled in a love affair, is seen in public places with a young woman, whom foolish youth would call a charming one, and has recently opened the doors of our league to women. This, I regard, as a desecration of our sublime ideal."

Started Discard. This was the first serious discord among the fighters for the "emanicipation of men." It led to the succession of one faction from the original league and the creation of "Justitia."

Herr von Hoerberth remained president of "Asquitas" while Herr Kornbluch was chosen president of the hundred percenters or "Justitia."

The world conference in Vienna sponsored by "Asquitas" is scheduled to open on September 25. Its program, as previously outlined by Herr von Hoerberth calls for inauguration of an international movement for reform of marriage and divorce laws, especially laws relating to alimony. It is claimed that "unprincipled women, purposely married men with the idea of obtaining divorces and alimony later on."

"Justitia" is opposed to the present movement to bestow still further political liberties upon women, who, it is claimed, are "forgetting their natural duties."

CATCHES HEN THIEVES LONG SOUGHT HERE

Fred Ecker of Vernon Center Sees Their Truck, Takes Number and Reports Them.

Fred Ecker of Vernon Center, having had some chickens stolen a while ago, has become suspicious of strange trucks standing unattended at night on the highway, even when there are no chickens aboard. Last night he was returning home from Rockville when he saw such a truck not far from his own place. He took its number and then did a little prowling around his own poultry place. He saw no thieves. Neither did he see anything of twenty-five of his own poultry plus two bags of corn. When he got back to the road the truck was gone.

Ecker telephoned the State Police barracks at Stafford Springs and the State Police promptly notified all police departments in the vicinity. The Manchester department kept a sharp lookout for the truck but it came no farther in this direction than the Oakland bridge, where it took the road to Wapping and so on through East Hartford. There Officer Jerry Moynihan headed it off and took the driver, Clinton L. Church of Hartford, and three companions, to the East Hartford station where they were turned over to the State Police and this afternoon presented in Rockville police court.

MERCHANTS OUTING THIS AFTERNOON

At Osano's Cottage in Bolton Where They Will Have Dinner at Six O'Clock.

Manchester merchants are departing this afternoon at the Osano cottage at Bolton Lake. An advance guard of them went to the lake just after noon to enjoy the games and sports program arranged by Director Lewis Lody of the Recreation Center. At two o'clock those who were at the lake early enjoyed a light luncheon. At six o'clock this evening the merchants, about 60 of them in all, will enjoy one of Chef Osano's fine dinners.

The sports program includes jumping, running, obstacle races, horse-shoe pitching, volleyball and baseball. There will be prizes in all the events.

FRACTURES ANKLE IN FALL IN SHED

Timothy Foley of 76 Windsor street, 53 years old, a tobacco worker in the employ of H. S. Keeney and Son, fractured his right ankle this afternoon when he fell from a horse-shoe pitching table. He was hanging tobacco when the trestle rolled from under him throwing him to the floor of the shed. He is at the Memorial hospital.

LERCH-SOMERS

Miss Elsie Somers of New York, who for some years has made her home with Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Weber of Winter street, and Michael Lerch of Cooper street were married this afternoon at 2:30 at the parsonage of the Zion Lutheran church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. F. R. Stechholz in the absence of Pastor Weber on vacation. The bridal attendants were Miss Anna Fiedler and Jacob Lasher. On their return from a motor tour during which they will visit the bride's brother on Long Island, they will occupy their newly furnished home at 116 Walnut street.

HOOVER DISCUSSES NEW NAVAL PARLEY

President Takes a Hand in Projected Anglo-American Naval Agreement.

Washington, Aug. 14.—President Hoover personally took a hand today in the naval discussions concerning the projected Anglo-American agreement. For several hours at the White House, Mr. Hoover went over with Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Adams, and the admirals of the Navy general board, the correspondence that has passed between London and Washington, and sought to reconcile the somewhat divergent views of the State and Navy departments. Secretary of State Stimson said there were "no vital differences" between the State Department's policy and the admirals' policy. It is no secret in Washington that the two viewpoints have clashed at numerous points during the negotiations between Washington and London.

man who was led on by a woman, much younger than himself, who finally "dominated" him. Snook "had to kill" Miss Hix, Seyfert told the jury. He related the events that transpired at the rifle range the night of the crime and of her "attack" upon Snook in the parked car. "Afraid of woman. 'He was really afraid of her—afraid she'd kill him,' said Seyfert. 'She was a strong, athletic girl, weighing 145 pounds. She was a good shot, too. She could shoot 25 birds eye out of 50 at a distance of 60 feet. And when she reached for her hand-gun during their quarrel he thought she was after the pistol to kill him as she threatened to do.' 'Something must have snapped in Snook's brain after he hit her the first time. The next thing he knew he was sitting on the running board, his head in his hands.' Seyfert pictured Theora as a 'two-man woman, a man for the afternoon and another for the evening.' Seyfert concluded by telling the jury he felt sure they 'would give this defendant a fair and square deal.' MOTIVE FOR CRIME Court Room, Columbus, O., Aug. 14.—'You know Snook, the only one who knows the motive for the killing of Theora Hix, and you haven't told it. And you will never tell it.' Pointing dramatically at Dr. James H. Snook, the college professor on trial for the slaying of the campus beauty, Myron B. Gessaman, assistant prosecutor, made this statement today as he was making one of the state's closing arguments to the jury. He shifted uneasily in his chair. Turning back to the jury, Gessaman told them the killing of Miss Hix was the most brutal murder in the history of Ohio. He said the state did not have to prove a motive. He scoffed at the idea Snook killed in self-defense, and then, picking up a photograph of the slain co-ed, he took it over in front of the jury and said: 'Shows Photograph. 'Look at this beautiful girl. Does she look like a drug addict? Or like the girl he (Snook) said she was?' Pointing again at Snook, he shouted: 'You made her what she was! And no matter what she was, she had the right to live.' Gessaman began his address at 10:50 a. m., after Attorney Max C. Seyfert had made one of the defense arguments to the jury. The thirteen jurors had been substituted for Juror Number Eight who had reported ill at the opening of court. In his talk, Seyfert claimed Snook killed in self-defense. In a calm, self-contained manner, Attorney Gessaman declared the state did not have to prove a motive. He said that 'Snook lied to the prosecutor, to the police and to his own lawyers.' Declaring that Snook's wife and mother had been 'paraded' in the courtroom to arouse sympathy of the jury, he asked how much 'mercy' Snook had shown Theora Hix. 'You never showed any mercy to her mother and father.' Gessaman ridiculed the plea that 'something snapped' in Snook's brain after he hit the girl, and said the defense had 'dropped the contention that Snook was insane like a hot potato.' During the investigation of the crime, Gessaman said, Snook was 'cool as a cucumber.' The Thursday morning when he finally confessed, he said, Snook was permitted to sleep, and talk to his lawyer before he signed the statement admitting the killing. He pointed out, also, that before Snook confessed, 'his cunning mind' started to work, and he asked an explanation of the different degrees of homicide. Then, said Gessaman, Snook decided upon self-defense to 'make it just as easy for himself as he could.' Cause of Death Touching upon the cause of death, Gessaman pointed out that the most any witness said was that the hammer blows 'might' have killed the girl. He quoted Snook's confession, that before he severed Miss Hix's jugular vein, the girl was moaning and moaning, and that when he left, she was 'still.' He argued that the absence of blood clots in the brain showed her throat had been cut while she was alive; and that after Snook severed the vein, he turned the body over and smashed the back of her head. (The indictment says Snook killed the girl with a pen knife but

ANNUAL WAR GAME STARTS ON SEPT. 1

4,000 Officers and Men to Camp in Vermont and New Hampshire.

Boston, Aug. 14.—The start of the annual war game maneuvers on August 20 will find 4,000 officers and men, practically the entire force of regular soldiers stationed in New England, living under canvas in Vermont and New Hampshire. Although the actual maneuvers will not begin till Sept. 1, the period between August 20 and the first of September will be required for the concentration of troops. The period between September 1 and 25 will be devoted to deconcentration. The various New England contingents will be stationed in the vicinity of Brattleboro and Bellows Falls, Vt. To Divide Forces Upon arrival at the theater of operations the regulars will be organized into a provisional army corps, to be known as the first corps. The second phase of the operations will be devoted to the maneuvers based upon tactical situations developed by Major General Preston Brown, commander of the corps, from current military problems. Approximately 90 officers of the reserve corps have been summoned to take part in the military display and troop movements. Of this number 15 have been assigned to the third division headquarters and the remainder to various units quartered at the camp.

COAST GUARD BULLETS ARE ENDANGERING LIFE

Senator Metcalf Makes Protest; Shot Penetrates House on Atlantic Coast.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 14.—Vigorous protest against random firing upon suspected liquor smugglers by Coast Guard vessels was contained today in a letter mailed by U. S. Senator Jesse H. Metcalf to Rear Admiral Frederick G. Bullard, Coast Guard commandant at Washington. The protest, which followed revelation that a shot fired by a Coast Guard cutter on July 27, penetrated a house at Fogland Point, on the Sakonnet river, declared that 'endangering the lives of innocent American citizens is intolerable.' 'A shot which penetrated a private home at 3 o'clock in the morning can be but the result of gross carelessness and ignorance on the part of members of the Coast Guard,' Senator Metcalf declared in his letter. The large calibre shot which was alleged to have been shot by Patrol Boat 290 was done in an effort to halt 'The Idle Hour' of New York, a suspected of being a liquor runner, when the vessel was later taken into custody at East Greenwich, no contraband was found, it was declared. Senator Metcalf included in his communication to Admiral Bullard, a request that the matter be thoroughly investigated.

CEMETERY STRIKE ENDS

New York, Aug. 14.—Participants in the Calvary cemetery strike were back at work today without change in wages or hours and with extra work to do to make up for the lull in the operations of the cemetery. Two hundred of the 360 strikers agreed they had enough of the strike. The only concession won by the workers was a voluntary promise by the Rev. Aloysius C. Dineen, managing director of the cemetery, to investigate wages and working hours.

ANOTHER SHIP AGROUND

Boston, Aug. 14.—With the grounding today of the fishing schooner Ingomar off Nix's Mate in the lower harbor, the list mounted to six groundings in the past three days as result of the heavy pea soup fog that hung consistently over the harbor. The schooner was reported to be in no danger, and a tug was dispatched to her assistance.

ENRIGHT FOR MAYOR

New York, Aug. 14.—Richard E. Enright, one time police commissioner of New York City under Mayor Hylan, was nominated for the mayoralty by a Brooklyn group of Hylandites last night and said he would accept and run as an independent.

QUIMBY, BUTLER, BANKERS, HELD

Helped Clarke Brothers in Mail Fraud—To Get an Early Trial.

New York, Aug. 14.—'Mystery Man' Milton C. Quimby and Louise W. Butler were indicted today by the Federal Grand Jury on 12 counts of mail fraud in connection with the Clarke Brothers bankruptcy case. Quimby is the 'big shot' promoter who signed a note for $500,000 for the Clarke Brothers the day before the private bank collapsed. Butler, former secretary of the Private Bankers Association, drew $100 a week from the bank as a 'retainer.'

The indictment charges that the two men from time to time 'took large sums of money from Clarke Brothers which moneys had been placed with Clarke Brothers by their depositors and lenders, and were used not only to enrich the defendants, but also James Rae Clarke, William H. Clarke and Philip Clarke.' Quimby, who was in the Federal building when the indictment was returned, was arraigned immediately before Federal Judge Charles A. Boyton of Texas, temporarily sitting here. Judge Boyton held him in $7,500 bail for pleading on Monday.

Asks Early Trial. Quimby's attorney, Frank Aronow, said he would ask an early trial.

'This indictment is in aid of the Edison Company's effort to defeat Quimby's suit for $1,000,000, the lawyer said. That trial was postponed from May until June when there was no trial court sitting, and then put over until the fall because of the sickness of John Carver, a witness, I believe, for the company.' Mr. Aronow said he did not mean to imply connivance between the Edison Company and the authorities, but added: 'The Edison Company has fostered and helped the sentiment against my client, who has done him a commission on a $7,000,000 deal due to the buying up of certain franchises in New York City.'

As secretary of the Private Bankers Association, Butler was largely responsible for forestalling an attempted examination of the Clarke Brothers bank of state authorities. The bank was found to carry many demand notes on which he had borrowed without collateral. Admittedly, collection of those debts had never been sought by the Clarke Brothers.

OCEAN PLANE STATION

New York, Aug. 14.—The Armstrong seadrome, a first step in the development of a trans-Atlantic airway system will be completed and ready for use within a year it was announced today. The structure, which was designed by Edward R. Armstrong of Wilmington, Del., will begin at the Sun Shipbuilding Company at Chester, Pa., within the next six weeks. A 35-foot scale model of the seadrome has just been completed by naval architects and is undergoing tests in Delaware Bay. Joseph A. MacDonald, president of the Henry J. Gleason Company, naval architect, which has charge of the construction, said preliminary tests made on models by Armstrong have convinced other engineers of the practicability of an ocean-going airway. The floating island, which is expected to be completed next August, will be built so that it may withstand hurricane seas without disturbing the landing field or deck is a great platform raised on water-tight and hollow columns many feet above the highest waves.

STUDY STOCKS ON SHIP

New York, Aug. 14.—Wall street, the financial spider stretched out to sea today. The first quotations of the Stock Market were flashed to a branch brokerage office established aboard the French liner, Le De France, steaming across the ocean out of Havre. A stream of 100 selected stocks continued to pour via radio to the floating brokerage office. One radio channel sent the quotations eastward. Another channel furnished the orders going westward from passengers aboard. And a third radio channel recorded the executions. A special radio station independent of the ship's equipment is located on the promenade deck of the liner.

OBITUARY

FUNERALS

Albert Latawice. The funeral of Albert Latawice was held this morning at St. James's church and burial was in St. James's cemetery. The choir sang 'Thy Will Be Done' at the opening of the service, 'O Salutaris' at the offertory and 'Face to Face' at the conclusion. Rev. Father Killen officiated. The bearers, all members of F. L. A. Lodge 207, were J. Twaranos, S. Nazdrazas, D. Roman, S. Arlwklanzke, J. Chizius, W. Streimikis.

PUBLIC LIBRARIAN HERE THIRTY YEARS

Mrs. Gertrude Boynton Retires After Long and Faithful Service at the North End.

Mrs. Gertrude Boynton, the announcement of whose removal to Hartford, occurs elsewhere in today's Herald, was librarian of the Manchester Public Library for more than 30 years. During that time she has served with courtesy two generations of patrons of the library, which was first instituted at the north end of the town by Ever Ready Circle Kings' Daughters. The late Mrs. Fannie Foulds Covell, before her marriage was the first librarian and Mrs. Boynton succeeded her. This was when the library was located on North Main street next to the residence of Frank P. Spencer. In 1898 the library was given to the town of Manchester and in 1914 was removed to the new Robertson school building on North School street where it remains today.

Mrs. Boynton was granted a leave of absence in the early spring on account of ill health. In June she still felt her strength was unequal to resuming the duties of librarian and tendered her resignation, which the library committee accepted.

ORE ON FREE LIST

Washington, Aug. 14.—Reversing themselves for the second time Republican members of the Senate finance committee this afternoon placed manganese ore on the free list.

The Republicans had previously levied a duty of one cent a pound on ores and concentrates containing in excess of ten per cent metallic manganese. This was an increase over the House rate of one cent a pound on the manganese content in excess of 30 per cent which is the existing law. The Republicans voted 7 to 4 for this initial increase in the rate but today they voted 6 to 5 to admit the ore duty free. Steel manufacturers had led the demand for the elimination of the duty.

TOWN IMPROVEMENTS

Residents on Tanner street petitioned for the street's acceptance by the town. The highway committee will investigate. Clerk of Assessors Nell Cheney reported an error in one assessment list and a tax rebate was granted. Assessments for sidewalks or curbing on Wadsworth and Homestead streets were laid without objection. Town Engineer J. Frank Bowen asked to have the curbing on New street extended further up the hill to take care of the storm water sewer. Cheney Brothers will be consulted to see if they will agree to stand their share of the expense. Dr. D. C. Y. Moore asked the Selectmen to purchase a refrigerator for the Health Department. Cultural vaccines and other medical supplies must be kept cold. Dr. Moore told the Board, and the present ice box is worn out. George H. Waddell, clerk of the Board was instructed to make the necessary arrangements. The fishing committee was instructed to investigate a request for a light in Buckland Place. The highway committee will investigate a request for repairs on Purnell Place.

Birds are very sensitive to light changes. They stir at the break of dawn and nest at the first coming of darkness.

BOARD IN ITS LAST MEETING OF YEAR

Fiscal Year of Town Closes Tomorrow—Finances in Good Shape.

The Board of Selectmen met last night for the last session of the present fiscal year of the Town of Manchester. Town Treasurer George H. Waddell is at work now completing reports and his material will be ready for perusal by the Selectmen in about 10 days. The gross indebtedness of the town has been reduced $31,000 on bonds and $40,000 on temporary notes. This is without consideration of the physical assets of the town which as a general rule increase each year.

Good Year

When the books close tomorrow the Town Treasurer's bank balance will be about $6,000, the Selectmen having signed a note for $10,000 last night. The year has been a good one, the Selectmen having remained within most of the appropriations made last October. Town Treasurer Waddell will present a statement showing the standing of appropriations at the next Selectmen's meeting.

At last night's meeting bids were opened on the printing of the town report. The bids were presented in such variation in method that it was impossible for the Selectmen to arrive at a decision. The matter was left with Chairman John Hyde and Town Treasurer Waddell.

Routine Business

The town bills were examined and ordered paid and the monthly report of Building Inspector Edward C. Elliott, Jr., was read and accepted. The bills for the Building Inspector's report will be found elsewhere in today's Herald.

Notice was received from James B. Tatum, owner of the City Taxicabs that he was appealing from the 'Cordless' taxicab license commission against the operation of the cabs here to the Superior Court. Town Counsel William S. Hyde advised the Selectmen to disallow the claims of four Hartford young men who struck a culvert on Oak street early in the summer while driving a rented car. The Selectmen voted to disallow the claim.

6,000 MILE FLIGHT

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Aug. 14.—With the most dangerous portion of her round-the-world flight ahead of her, the Graf Zeppelin is expected to take to the air and head for Tokio between midnight tonight (7 p. m., E. D. T.) and 5 a. m., tomorrow (midnight tonight E. D. T.).

The second leg of the Graf's journey around the world will take over a vast expanse of more than 6,000 miles; much of the journey will be over wide areas of the uninhabited forest lands of Siberia.

For two days it is expected the 20 passengers and 40 members of the crew of the huge craft will be entirely out of communication with civilization.

During that time everything will depend upon the skill of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, and his aids. The Zeppelin will be out of range of radio stations capable of giving weather reports.

Inadequate Maps Dr. Eckener will have to depend upon the few existing air navigation charts of the region to be traversed and his own keen sense of direction and weather. The air charts available are regarded as woefully inadequate.

The Zeppelin will follow a northern course over Siberia which will bring her within the Arctic circle and less than 900 miles from the North Pole.

A tentative decision to take this route was made following a conference attended by Dr. Eckener and a member of meteorological experts.

To Avoid Storms By going far to the north, the Zeppelin will avoid the dangers of inland storms and typhoons which are numerous in Central and Southern Asia at this time of the year.

The first part of the journey from Friedrichshafen will be covered entirely by European weather conditions. If the latter are favorable, the Graf may head directly for Berlin, thence northeast to come out over the Baltic sea near Stettin, Germany, and a head eastward, passing over Leningrad if conditions permit and then heading for the seventieth parallel of north latitude which is just within the Arctic circle.

She will then continue eastward over northern Siberia until Sakhalin Island, jointly occupied by Russia and Japan, is reached. At this point she probably will veer to a southeasterly course and head for Tokio.

Everything is in readiness for the start of the flight. The airship has been refueled and completely inspected.

A maximum of fuel which will permit the Graf to remain aloft 150 hours has been stored aboard although the flight is not expected to take more than 120 hours.

No freight is being taken because of the heavy fuel load. There will be a consignment of mail aboard, however, and a box of the late Baron von Huenefeld, a gift to the Japanese royal family.

All possible precautions have been taken to provide for the passengers safety and comfort in case of a forced landing. The airship carried an emergency landing gear and sufficient food to last for an extended period.

WAPPING

A surprise miscellaneous shower was given last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas McGrath of East Windsor Hill, in honor of her sister, Miss Margaret Foley of South Manchester, who is to be married Thursday, August 29, to John O'Connor of South Whitney street. About thirty guests were present. Bridge was played after which luncheon was served.

Miss Myra Wilson left last Monday for Preston City, near Norwich, where she expects to spend the winter with her aunt.

George Bragg, aged 54, of South Windsor, passed away very suddenly at his home last Friday evening.

Besides his wife, he leaves two sons, Sidney and Milton Bragg. His funeral was largely attended on Monday afternoon. The floral pieces were many and beautiful.

Mrs. Percy West and baby, left Monday forenoon for a two weeks' visit at the home of her aunt, in Lowell, Mass.

Miss Dorothy Dewey, who has been spending a few weeks with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Bowers, returned to her home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott C. Elmore were guests at the Elmore cottage at White Sands Beach last week.

Miss Irene Buckland, and Rev. and Mrs. Truman H. Woodward of East Hartford, left last Monday for New York. They will take a trip up the Hudson.

SPEECH DISORDERS COMMON IN NATION

At Least a Million Persons Afflicted, Says U. S. Public Health Service.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Pointing out that speech is the most valuable of all human accomplishments, the United States Public Health Service today declared that speech disorders in children have until recently been the most neglected of all hampering defects observed among them.

It is estimated that in the United States at least 1,000,000 persons have some form of speech disorder and of these approximately 500,000 are school children who stammer or stutter. Uncorrected speech defects observed in childhood become a serious economic and social handicap in later life, because of their bearing on educational achievement and the ability to secure preferential and gainful employment, it was stated.

"Fortunately, the majority of speech defects are functional in character, not dependent on definite organic lesions and, can therefore, be corrected," the Public Health Service said. "Most speech defects develop between the third and eighth year of life."

The more common forms of speech defect observed in children are retarded speech; imperfect speech associated with partial deafness; imperfect speech caused by certain malformations of the organs of speech; and, the nervous speech disorders, such as stammering, stuttering and nervous hesitation.

Navarre all of Greater New York, dozed in the living room.

It was five o'clock in the morning when the trio returned from their drive.

Miss Mansfield went directly to her room and Bachert went to his room. Hamilton remained with the three others in the living room. They said he appeared highly nervous.

The four in the living room heard a shot.

Hamilton ran up the stairs. Find Woman Dead Miss Mansfield, clad in her summer gown, was stretched on her bed. A wound was in her right temple and she held a .22 calibre pistol in her right hand.

When Navarre reached the room a moment after Hamilton he heard Hamilton say, he told police: "Oh my God—why did you do it, love you."

Miss Masure, looking over Navarre's shoulder, screamed and fainted. Navarre and Mrs. Voorhis carried her downstairs.

When Navarre returned to the room, Hamilton was on the floor near the bed—a wound in his right temple.

He was unconscious and lived an hour. Navarre called Bachert. He told police Bachert was in his room and appeared sleepy when he came to the door. Navarre said he had trouble making Bachert understand what had happened.

Navarre then summoned a physician and the police.

Sheriff Rockefeller and Coroner John A. Accord closely questioned Bachert. They reported he seemed hazy about the events which preceded the shooting but promised to make a full statement later in the day.

Miss McCure and Mrs. Voorhis were friends of Miss Mansfield who had brought Navarre with them.

HENRY FORD IS ASKED A PERTINENT QUESTION

New York, Aug. 14.—Borough President Harvey of Queens has suddenly made himself a national figure by volunteering as spokesman for the American people in demanding that Henry Ford help to abate a huge nuisance to which he, more than any other person, has contributed.

BRITAIN SEEKS RECORD

London, Aug. 14.—Although White Star line officials are saying nothing, they are taking steps to make the liner Oceanic, now under construction, much larger and faster than they first intended in order to wrest the blue ribbon of the Atlantic from the North German Lloyd liner Bremen.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Wednesday, August 14.

Three old favorites, especially arranged by William Virges, will be presented by the Barber Trio during the program to be broadcast by WEAJ and associated stations at 9 o'clock Wednesday night. The three songs are "Sweet Genevieve," "Gee, But It's Great to Meet a Friend From Your Home Town" and "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl that Married Dear Old Dad." Sam Lanin will direct the orchestra, which will open the program with "Tashful Baby" and will close with "Song of the Moonbeam." Mendelssohn's "Nocturne," taken from the incidental music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," wherein the German composer has matched his musical skill against the imaginative phantasy of Shakespeare, is one of the selections to be played by Victor Wagner's orchestra when it presents its usual Wednesday night concert at 10:30 before the microphones of the WJZ hook-up. Other numbers on the program will be selections from "The Merry Widow," "Morning Papers Waltz," by Strauss.

Wave lengths in meters on left of station title, kilocycles on the right. Times are Eastern Daylight Saving and Eastern Standard. Black face type indicates best features.

Theaters

Dix As Soldier

Richard Dix fans who have been yearning to see their favorite dressed up in natty uniforms and wearing a mustache will have their reward when they see "The Wheel of Life," the next Dix release, which comes to the State Theater for two days beginning today.

"The Wheel of Life" is Paramount's picture of the successful stage play by James Bernard Pagan which played two seasons in London. It is a romantic drama whose setting is a British military post in India, where Dix, as the dashing captain at the post, falls in love with the beautiful wife of his superior officer.

The pair forewear their romance they meet later during an engagement with wild mountain tribesmen, and love is rekindled. The climax is one of the most amazing in the history of dramatics. Dix shows to advantage in the colorful role of the military man, and he wears the dramatic and sartorial badge of soldierly with distinction. Esther Ralston is the feminine lead, and O. P. Heggie is the fatherly colonel who never suspects the clandestine romance.

Joy Street Just around the corner a treat awaits the patrons of the State theater. It is to be shown here today and Thursday and the title is "Joy Street." Lois Moran and Nick Stuart are co-featured, with Rex Bell and Sally Phillips heading a support which includes some of the most interesting of the younger folk in serendom. Raymond Cannon, director, has acted on a desire to make the biggest of all the films of youth. The result is that the speed limit has been taken off, and "Joy Street" will present a spectacle of adolescence on a tear such as never has been witnessed before. Take a ride with the younger generation on its greatest thrill hunt!

KILLED BY AUTO. Danbury, Aug. 13.—Another motor fatality was added to the state's list here today. Charles Sabo, a hatter was killed by an automobile driven by George Bliska while Sabo stepped from the auto of a friend and walked out into the roadway directly in the path of Bliska's machine. Bliska was placed under bond of $5,000 pending the outcome of an inquest by coroner John J. Phelan.

HE MEANT WELL "Dear, that's wonderful cake!" "Oh John, I think you're horrid! The woman next door made that."—Answers.

KIWANIS CAMP CHIPS

Three boys hiked to Camp Kiwanis in Hebron, Monday to visit the camp staff. These boys were sent home with the group last Saturday but good food and happy times drew them back, was their answer when asked by the director. The boys were given a lunch by Mrs. McIntosh and they returned home in the afternoon.

Twenty-four girls are in camp for a two weeks stay. They are enjoying the teeters, swings and slide. The latter which was built by the boys, is doing a steady business.

R. LaMotte Russell and C. R. Barr visited the camp Tuesday night. The visitors brought six quarts of cream which was donated to the "kiddies" by Harlowe Willis.

Monday afternoon the kiddies

MILL STRIKE ENDS

Manchester, Eng., Aug. 14.—The Lancashire cotton mills, which have been closed down for more than two weeks because of a strike of mill employes following a cut in their wages, may be reopened at the end of this week, it was indicated today.

The mills probably will be reopened with the pre-strike scale of wages in effect pending arbitration of the dispute. Both the workers and manufacturers have agreed to accept arbitration.

The tie-up of the Lancashire cotton mills occurred when the employers posted notices demanding all-around reduction in wages of 12 1/2 per cent to which the workers refused to consent.

BIG STILL EXPLODES

New York, Aug. 13.—A two-story house was nearly destroyed today when a 10,000-gallon capacity still in the Coney Island section exploded. Fire resulting from the blast completed most of the ruin. The remnants of a smaller, still, but empty, were found by firemen when the blaze was extinguished.

THE MILK BOOST

Speaking of the probability of a raise in the price of milk in this state—which has since been announced—the Bristol Press seems to have been the only Connecticut newspaper to actually formulate a query which has probably been vaguely haunting the minds of most of us; we confess that it has been fluttering about in our own for a number of days. The Press says: "What we want the information about mostly is how long has the dairy commissioner become the official spokesman for the dairymen's associations and milk producers?"

There is something quite pertinent to this question, in view of the fact that there wasn't a breath heard about the need of raising the price of milk until there came a shriek from the office of the dairy commissioner. The shriek was about the dire straits into which the dairymen had fallen—how they were selling their cows straight down the road to bankruptcy and all the rest of it. The outburst gave the impression that the drought was solely responsible for these unwelcome and very special conditions.

After this preparatory barrage the milk dealers, as was to have been anticipated, came across with notice that after September 1 they will pay the farmers three-quarters of a cent more for milk—and charge the consumer a cent more. When you consider that there will not be a nickel of increase in overhead or in the cost of handling at the advanced rate, the profit of 33 1-3 per cent on the increase, to which the dealers will help themselves, will be about as neat a little business plum as was ever dropped into anybody's mouth. The dairy commissioner surely gave the plum tree a fine brisk shake.

This milk price boost is interesting. We all recognize that it costs a great deal more to produce milk than it did years ago when grain was much cheaper, taxes much lower and labor a great deal less well paid. But it is also to be taken into consideration that motor transportation is a good deal cheaper than horse power that the farmers' used to employ when the saving of time is weighed in the balance. Also that the milk for which we now pay sixteen or twenty cents we used to buy for six or seven.

If it is necessary, in order to prevent the milk producers from going broke, that all the people of Connecticut must pay a cent a quart more for milk, well and good. But since the producers had to be prodded into realizing such necessity by the dairy commissioner's office it is no wonder that somebody has finally inquired, Why is a dairy commissioner?

MABEL GIVES A TIP

If we are not altogether mistaken there is a section of the Volstead act which forbids the publication of any receipt or formula for the making of alcoholic liquors. It may be remembered that at the time of the passage of the act it was pointed out that, under any strict interpretation of the law, many text books on chemistry and every encyclopaedia would fall under the ban and the person who sold copies thereof become liable to prosecution.

This part of the prohibitory law has never been operative because its operation was clearly impossible. Nevertheless it is a little surprising to see Mrs. Willebrandt, in one of her articles in the New York Times, broadcasting the tip in "wort."

"Let me explain," says this audite lady, "that 'wort' is a brew. It is, in fact, unfermented beer or liquid malt that contains alcohol and is used only in the process of manufacturing beer. 'Wort' is just like beer except that the manufacturing process ends before yeast is added.

"Now for a secret that is probably no secret at all to my anti-prohibition readers, if such there be. To make real beer from 'wort' it is necessary only to add yeast, ferment it, filter and you have beer of alcoholic content. Only one reason exists for the manufacture of 'wort' and that is to make it easy for red-blooded American citizens who must have their beer fortified by pre-prohibition authority to secure it readily and quickly. The manufacture of 'wort' itself, in view of the fact that it has no alcoholic content, is not illegal, but there are scores of 'wildcat' or 'alley' breweries which, supplied with 'wort' by larger and old-established breweries operating legally themselves, quickly turn out real beer without fear of detection by prohibition agents."

Of course we had heard about the "wort" scheme, but in our innocence we had supposed that it was hardly proper, not to say legal, to tell our readers how to get some really good beer. But if Mrs. Willebrandt, who was and perhaps still is the high priestess of prohibition, can peddle this information we feel at some measure of liberty to reprint what she says. The inference that anybody can do in his kitchen what the "alley brewer" does is so obvious that we need not mention it.

CHANCE FOR A BET

It will be interesting to note the outcome of the case against Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Wright of East Norwalk, due to be tried in Newtown town court on Thursday evening of this week. If the allegations brought against them are true this pair constitute about as good an example of the blithesome, joyous juggernaut as you would be likely to find. According to the complaining officer, a state trooper, Mrs. Wright, in one car and her husband, in another, staged a Sunday evening race in the Bridgeport-Danbury pike that was a pip-pip. They hit it up to sixty, they scared car after car off the road and they led the pursuing officer a beautiful chase for miles, finally halting when they developed a sudden impression that the gun the cop was pointing at their cars by turn was liable to go off.

That they didn't kill themselves and several other persons was a mercy—at least insofar as the other persons are concerned. But they were what the Motor Vehicle Department likes—good, competent, fast drivers who had their machines under control at all times; so they hit nobody. Presumably they were highly outraged at being pinched.

Now of course people who are so constituted that they would engage in a stunt like that ought not to be permitted to drive automobiles on any Connecticut road—not ever again, either this year or next year or the year after that or twenty years from now. Because sooner or later one or the other is going to kill somebody if permitted to run a car. You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear and you can't make an even reasonably safe driver out of an inherently wild man or wild woman.

And yet: If anyone will bet us a thousand dollars to ten cents that neither of the Wrights will be driving again inside of six months we'll take the bet. But we won't take it on any odds short of that.

SPLITTING THE POT

There is or used to be a poker practice, not too highly esteemed for its sportsmanship but resorted to by tin horn professionals and thrifty amateurs in extremities, which is brought to mind by the course of events at the Hague.

Once in a while it would happen that each of two players would start out to bluff his way into possession of the same pot. Having succeeded in scaring out all the other players and having failed to "fill" their respective hands, these two would "raise" each other until each had contributed to the pool more than he could afford to lose and yet each was afraid to "call" for fear that his five cards would turn out to be worse than his opponent's, though he shrewdly suspected that the other hand was likewise of little value. In such a situation sometimes one of the two would propose that they split the pot, in which case the offer was highly likely to be accepted.

The result of this would be that each player would take down not only his stake but half of the total pool contributed by the other players who had already abandoned their hands.

This was not regarded as nice poker and in some circles was never tolerated. But in others, particularly where the majority of the company was made up of lambs, it was common enough.

In the game at the Hague, Snowden and Briand seem to be on the point of splitting the pot, neither being willing to risk a showdown after having overbet his hand pretty badly. There isn't much doubt that they will be permitted to do so, in the end, without protest for the little players in the game are not likely to risk a row to save their various contributions to the pool.

CANDID AND OPEN

American commentators on the course of Philip Snowden, British Labor chancellor of the exchequer, at the Hague conference with respect to the Young plan—perhaps because they have found it difficult to take a position on the row between Britain and the other conferring powers—were quick to jump at the opportunity to condemn Snowden's undiplomatic manner and speech. Whether they were swallowing a camel or not, it seems to us that they have strained terrifically at a goat.

It is likely enough true that Snowden was not very polite. He is not celebrated for politeness, but for ability. He is, physically, a poor little wisp of a man, with a body tormented by an accident and succeeding illness, who walks with two canes. As is not infrequent with persons so crippled and deprived in health he is inclined to be petulant and irascible in debate. He is tremendously in earnest and snappishly intolerant of subterfuge and pussyfooting.

It is, perhaps, an unfortunate quality in a statesman to be short tempered and sarcastic. But it has one splendid effect nevertheless—it makes hole-and-corner diplomatic thimble-rigging just about impossible. And it may be remembered that if there was one thing it was hoped would disappear as a result of the war it was the suave, secret diplomacy in the course of which the nations' sleight of hand experts had striven perpetually during the centuries to outsmart each other.

If Snowden's proceedings at the Hague result in trouble it will be because of the things for which he has been fighting—not at all because he has fought so candidly as to appear to some folks uncouth.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The member of Congress who gets more abuse this year than all the other members together is the Hon. Reed Smoot, senator from Utah.

And yet Smoot is the one member who has worked most earnestly and has perspired most freely during the long hot summer. He probably is also the man who will be most satisfied with the results of his labors. That's always the way with Smoot.

One hears that his name is being used to frighten babies in some of the score or more nations which have protested our tariff plans. A Havana newspaper the other day, frothing at the mouth over Smoot's insistence on higher sugar duties, told its readers that because he had been deprived of 20 of his wives the Utah statesman had become so sour that all the sugar in the world could not sweeten him. This entirely false assertion based on the fact that Smoot is a high ecclesiastic in the Mormon church, demonstrates the extent of his popularity in some quarters abroad. There are some quarters at home where Smoot is liked just about as well.

He has been bearing the brunt of the attack on the tariff bill, but he is used to that. This is his great hour. As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, he is one of the most important men in Washington and whenever it's a case of tariff or tax reduction Mr. Smoot is the most important of all.

Take a look at him now. He is tall and lanky, almost always sober of countenance and invariably conservative in dress. His demeanor might be that of a venerable principal in a country schoolhouse. He isn't pompous, but he is never smug. They say he becomes positively beatific as he goes out in his yard of a morning to feed the birds. But ordinarily the rare Smoot smile is a half-smile. He smiles a little, but always as if he were fully aware that the next moment may provide something to frown about.

The Cuban newspaper was wrong in suggesting that Smoot is incurably sour. He was, it is true, rather sour when he read of this particular attack. But the fact is that Brother Smoot is too firmly convinced of the whole wide world's safety in the hands of the Republican party to permit him to be actually sour except in Democratic administrations. And of course there aren't many of those.

Brother Smoot might be said to have an abiding faith in the righteousness of things as they are, except for such changes as have been made in his lifetime—and even that doesn't go for tariff increases.

A Model Republican.

He is a model for all regular Republicans. He voted for the seating of Lorimer and Newberry and for all the other things that most regular Republicans have voted for while holding their noses. But it does not appear that Brother Smoot ever held his nose. Long ago he was taken to the bosom of the ruling senators, such as Penrose, Aldrich and Platt, for they saw in him an asset of great value. For Smoot, though he rets flus-

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

ST. VITUS DANCE.

The medical word for this disorder is "Chorea," which comes from the Greek and means dancing. It is the name given to disordered, inco-ordinated, spasmodic and involuntary movements. "Chorea Sancti Viti" was the name given in the middle ages to an epidemic of dancing mania which attacked people under the influence of great religious excitement, and led to pilgrimages to the chapel of St. Vitus in the hope of being cured.

This disorder occurs most often in early childhood and adolescence, more than three-fourths of the cases developing between the fifth and fifteenth years. It is singular in that it occurs more often among girls, and among the offspring of the poorer classes. The peak of the cases during the year occurs in January. This undoubtedly due to the fact that many cases are precipitated into a crisis through the toxemia generated from holiday feasting.

The schoolchild who has been made nervous by overwork at school is a fit subject for chorea and, in fact, for many other disorders when the toxins from injudicious holiday stuffing add their burden to the child's irritated, nervous system.

The disordered and jerky movements are the first symptoms. The child may be restless, mentally, disturbed, easily upset, and break into fits of crying or temper. The jerky movements are usually noticed first of the face and arms. The face will twist into a series of contorted grimaces, in which the eyes may shut and suddenly shoot open. The angle of the mouth may change quickly, or the whole head may flop side to side. There may be a specific and involuntary striking of the hands and arms, and if the patient tries to grasp anything he is inclined to grab for it and may close his hand before he reaches the object. As the disorder progresses the body is jerked and twitched in various places almost continually during the entire day. Usually the movements either disappear or decrease during sleep.

I have never seen a case of chorea which could not be cured and usually in a very short time. The toxic condition which is always present must first be corrected. Here again the fast is of great value and should be used for several days, according to the age, for as long as three or four weeks. After this, the diet should be well balanced with special attention to complete bowel elimination.

The child will always be greatly helped through osteopathic or chiropractic treatments which tend to quiet soothe the nervous system. The quickest results, of course, come in those cases where an early diagnosis is made and treatment started at once. Naturally the time necessary to effect a cure is materially lengthened in those cases which have been permitted to go to advanced stages before treatment is started.

tered and sputters in debate, is the best statistician and the best economist in the upper house. Long years of patient toil and study have qualified him for his post. He's a glutton for detail and the grinding work that most other men yearn to escape. Efficiency and economy have been his watchwords—he waged a long but hopeless fight against the congressional practice of cluttering up the Congressional Record with great wads of bunk for home consumption. He is a sort of dog of the treasury. He conceived and he has great power through his constant check on the work and expenses of government departments.

He never has to worry about re-election. He is one of twelve Apostles of the Mormon Church, and it was partly in gratitude for his fine work in straightening out the financial affairs of the church many years ago that he was appointed to the Senate. He was born in Provo and when he graduated from Brigham Young Academy at 17 took a small job in a woolen mill. He became superintendent, following in paternal footsteps.

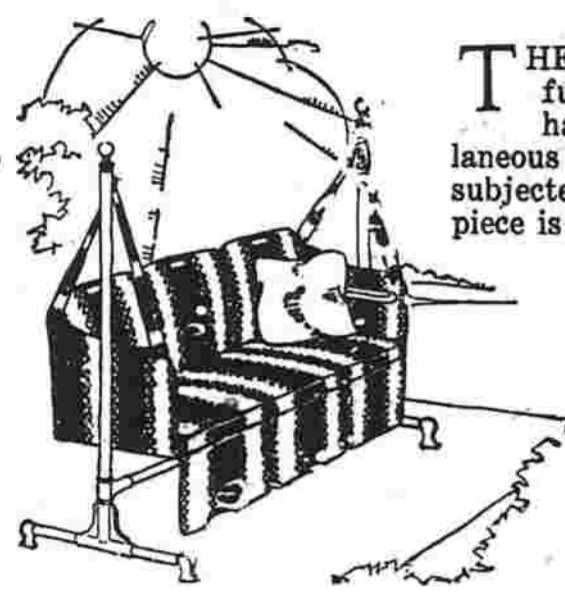

A Beet Sugar Protector. When he first came to the Senate, other denominations joined with politicians in a furious battle to oust him because of his religion. Brother Smoot said nothing and just plugged along. Today the old row is forgotten.

In all the tariff fights, Smoot has crusaded most zealously for higher duties on sugar and wool. This year he was chairman of the Finance Committee's sugar sub-committee. He has a sentimental devotion to beet sugar. His father imported the first beet sugar mill from Germany, and beet sugar is important to Utah and Smoot's people. But he owns no large interests in either sugar mills or woolen mills. Once when he was accused in the Senate he announced that he owned but 440 shares of sugar stock and would be glad to sell it all at $10 a share.

Smoot is now committed heart and soul to a sliding scale for sugar in the new tariff bill. Instead of imposing a new high flat duty, this scale would vary according to the price of sugar and would have the effect of guaranteeing what Smoot considers a proper sugar price. Although he has indicated that President Hoover approves it, the scale will meet a lot of trouble on the Senate floor. But whatever the result, Brother Smoot will be sustained by his conviction of the essential rectitude of his own position.

GOING PLACES AND SEEING THINGS

Pueblo, Colo.—What a break! Dawn—and through the screened windows of the Pullman sleeper stand the bright orange sides of a circus train.

In heavy black letters over the top are the words: John D. Robinson Circus. The first circus train I have seen since I have changed into long pants! Then if memory serves me, this particular outfit was a dog and pony show.

There are many cars. I intended to count them, but sleep and surprise stopped me. Besides, the porter was shaking my berth—with that particular vigor that is halfway between an earthquake tremor and a hula wiggle.

Here after all these years I find dawn and a circus—a porter forcing me to awaken in time to see "the big top rise." What a break!

Rolling uncomfortably over—wondering if I had not grown too old for such things—I found myself trying to recall when last I had seen a circus come into town. Funny how seemingly unimportant things cling to the memory—while, to save my life, I can't recall when the Battle of Gettysburg was fought. Still, lying in a Pullman bunk, I can see a long stretch of car track, running through dull and idle countryside. Suddenly there emerges a hothouse—and beyond the hothouse a great field with dirty canvas rising. But they changed the show grounds—and when I was about 13, or thereabouts, the "big top" rose just before Pine Grove park—less than a mile from where I lived in Michigan.

There was no uncertainty, then, whether to rise or lie in bed for a few moments more. The night had been feverish enough. There had been that suspicion that one's parents wouldn't waken in time to call the youngsters in time for those daylight ceremonies that are the best part of a circus! My train and the circus train pulled into Pueblo almost simultaneously. The sun was just springing up over distant hills. Already the orange cars were alive. From beds of canvas the flunkies were rousing themselves. The circus grounds in Pueblo were but a few hundred yards

In City Court
 Mike Socka, 30, of East Windsor, was fined $115.01 in the city court when he was found guilty of driving under the influence of liquor. He was arrested by Policemen Alfred Say and Peter Dowgiewicz. A quart of liquor was found in the car. Socka was arrested after he tried to pick a fight with a motorist who had stopped to offer assistance when Socka's car broke down. Instead of accepting the offer he wanted to start a fight. A complaint was made to the police and the arrest followed.

Mrs. Emma Carpenter
 Mrs. Emma (Harrison) Carpenter, 84, wife of William Carpenter, died at her home on Mountain street on Monday noon, death being due to old age. She had been an invalid for fifteen years. She was born in Gloucestershire, England, near Stroud, August 29, 1845. She came to this country 55 years ago, locating in Poquonock. She was married there to William Carpenter on February 28, 1878. They came to Rockville 43 years ago. Mrs. Carpenter was an active member of St. John's Episcopal church. Besides her husband, Mrs. Carpenter leaves a son, Charles Carpenter and daughter Miss Emma Carpenter of this city and a granddaughter, Mrs. Nettie Brown Bolin of Hartford.

The funeral was held at the Carpenter home on Mountain street this afternoon. Burial was in the family plot at Grove Hill cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Hartenstein of Prospect street are on a motor trip to Cape Cod. Mr. and Mrs. William Pray and son of 73 Talcott avenue are spending a few days in Providence, R. I.

SURVEY NEW CANAL
 Washington, Aug. 13—Major David I. Sultan today said farewell to President Hoover at the White House before sailing for Nicaragua where he will survey a route for the Nicaragua canal. Five officers and 115 enlisted men of the Army engineers corps will accompany Sultan to the Latin-American republic. Later 20 officers and 300 men will augment his forces, he said.

HEBRON

When George Wyman was turning around in his Ford car in front of Jones' garage on Tuesday forenoon his car was struck by an Oakland car approaching from the west, and driven by Mrs. George E. Raymond of Kirklyn, Pa. There was one other occupant of the car, also a woman. The driver became confused and her brakes did not work satisfactorily, also she made a wrong turn. The car was insured and the owner promised settlement. Wyman's car was rather badly shaken up and he was knocked senseless but his injuries did not prove serious.

The registrars of voters, John N. Hewitt, Republican, and Carlton E. Jones, Democrat, held a session at Hewitt's store recently, and corrected and revised the caucus lists, bringing the same up to date. Quite a number of new names were added to both lists.

Mrs. Carrie I. Burnham spent Monday at Sound Beach as the guest of Mrs. Emily Sill, of Los Angeles, California, and Sound Beach, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martindale of Plainville were week-end visitors at the home of Mrs. Martindale's mother, Mrs. Carrie I. Burnham.

Mrs. Grace Chamberlain who has spent a little time at her Hebron home, has returned to New London where she has apartments in the house owned by her nephew, Sidney N. Hewitt. She expects to return to Hebron for another visit.

Captain A. W. Abraham of the Church Army and two men who are traveling with him, Messrs. Bence and Lewis, took charge of the services at St. Peter's Episcopal church on Sunday last. Dr. Benjamin Bissell also assisted. Captain Abraham preached a sermon on the Holy Eucharist. The attendance was not large owing to the rain which fell in torrents just about the time when the service began. The church army has completed its week of intensive work here and will spend the present week in Colchester, visiting from house to house and conducting evangelistic services. Captain Abraham and his staff went to Hartford for a service at Christ Church Cathedral Sunday evening. They will continue to hold services in Hartford on Sunday evenings until September 15. They will also take charge of the services here Sunday mornings for the two next Sundays, Aug. 18 and 25. It is felt that good has been accomplished from their work here. They will maintain their present headquarters here, with rooms at Mrs. Frederick Wyman's and board at Mrs. Gertrude Hough's, until they have finished their work in the adjoining towns of Colchester and Columbia, returning here for the nights and Sundays.

The Sunday school picnic of St. Peter's church, which was planned for Monday, Aug. 12, has been postponed until Saturday, August 17. It will be held, as usual, at Columbia Lake, and will take place in the afternoon, with a picnic dinner served on the lakeside picnic grounds. The dinner will probably be served at about half-past four or five o'clock in the afternoon.

A refreshing rain fell Saturday and Sunday. The rainfall was quite heavy and continuous and did a great deal of good. Brooks which were bone dry were set flowing again and the thirsty ground received a good drenching.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Will of Herkimer, N. Y., and their daughter, Miss Marion Will, are spending a week as guests of their relatives, the Rev. and Mrs. T. D. Martin, Miss Marjorie Martin, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Martin, is also spending a week's vacation from her duties as librarian at Dalton, Mass.

Miss Clara Lord is at home from her work at the Connecticut State Agricultural College at Storrs, for a vacation of three weeks.

Miss Helen Gilbert has returned from a stay of several days with friends in New York City.

The Congregational churches of Hebron and Gilead will hold their annual Sunday school picnic at Columbia Lake, on Thursday, Aug. 22. This picnic of late years has taken on the proportions of a community picnic and all interested are welcome.

Mrs. Claude W. Jones was leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting at Hebron Center Sunday evening. The Rev. John Deeter was also present. Mr. Deeter took charge of the services at his churches here for the first time in two months, on Sunday last. His place has been filled by supplies during his absence in Texas on business.

The Rev. T. D. Martin officiated at St. Andrew's church, in Meriden, on Sunday last.

Lucius Robinson, Jr., has returned to his home after spending a week visiting at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lord.

Professor Herbert K. Job, the well-known authority on bird life, is at Amston Lake with his family for the rest of the summer. Professor Job will deliver a lecture on birds at Colchester next Sunday evening, Aug. 18. The proceeds will go towards a new organ for the church, in Colchester.

TRUCK KILLS YOUTH
 New Haven, Aug. 13—Joseph Balduc, 17, was instantly killed here today when he fell beneath the wheels of a truck on which he had stolen a ride. John W. Connors, 24, operator of the truck was held pending the coroner's inquest. Connors did not know of the boy's presence until his truck had passed over the body.

DIPPING LINES WILL DISAPPEAR FOR FALL

Paris. — Dipping lines will definitely disappear this autumn, according to French dressmakers who are condemning them as ungraceful and generally unbecoming to most women.

Skirts for winter will be noticeably longer and in the majority of cases equally long or short all the way around.

"To please the ladies—for what one does not love a change and contradiction?" says one well-known Paris dressmaker, "we are going to make evening frocks short and day ones long this season. But this does not mean, however, that they will be above the knees in one case and reaching to the ankles in the other. There must be the happy medium."

The ever wandering waist-line will continue to wander, it is predicted, but on a definite upward way. It will probably be considerably higher in the front than it has been for many seasons, but the back will go along with the front. There will be a definite upward movement in the front, while the back, probably continued to be covered by bolero effects, will be decidedly lower.

Tall, slender and youthful women will be the lucky ones for fashions will favor them. The new proportions will give a decidedly youthful effect. Women who took too easily to the new idea of curves this winter will have to go back to a strict diet if they would be fashionable this winter.

Under shot and shell from Chinese troops for eight weeks, 500 foreigners who had sought relief in the British compound in Peking were saved by an American relief expedition on Aug. 14, 1900.

The legationers were victims of the Boxers, who had started a campaign of extermination to rid China of foreigners. On June 14, the Boxers assailed the foreign legations in Peking and during the next two months they blocked the relief of the beleaguered Occidentals who gathered in the British compound to defend themselves.

The foreigners' ammunition was scanty and their provisions insufficient. Sixty of them were killed and 120 wounded by the attackers. Many children became sick and the besieged men and women were forced to live on half rations of horse flesh.

For weeks, United States government officials were unable to communicate with their representatives in the legation and the world had begun to believe the Boxers had captured the legation and slaughtered all the foreigners, before the relief expedition arrived in Peking.

ANOTHER CLASH REPORTED.

Shanghai, Aug. 14.—Another clash between Chinese and Soviet troops was reported from Manchuria today. Both sides were said to have suffered casualties but advices gave no figures.

chull today confirmed reports that two Chinese were killed and ten wounded when Soviet machine gun scouts crossed the Manchurian border and engaged in a brush with Chinese soldiers. The situation is deemed extremely critical here, because of the two sallies of the Soviets into Chinese territory.

THE GOAL OF YEARS HAS BEEN ATTAINED!

THE 1930 HUPMOBILE SIX

It has long been the ambition of Hupp engineers to build a Hupmobile at a price within the thousand-dollar class... but each year they have said: "Let's wait until we can build, not just another automobile, but a greater Hupmobile. A car that will add new lustre to Hupmobile's 21-year prestige"... Today, this goal of years has been attained—in the new 1930 Hupmobile Six... It is a car which Hupp is proud to call a Hupmobile, because it IS a Hupmobile in every detail of its design and construction... It is powered by the selfsame Hupmobile motor which made the Hupmobile Century Six a spectacular success... It is built to the rigid Hupmobile standards of precision-manufacture... It is 100% a Hupmobile—but a more powerful Hupmobile. With its

Oldtimers Face Bon Ami At West Side Tonight

De Neville Impressive In Defeating Hand, 6-2, 6-3

Jack McCavanaugh Noses Out Jim Quish In Three Sets; Six Matches Tonight

Two matches in the men's tennis tournament of the town were played last night with Jack McCavanaugh, one-armed star, and Bob de Neville, as the winners. Six matches are scheduled for this evening at the high school and East Side playgrounds. Paul Jesanis, favored by many to win the championship, swings into action at 5 o'clock tonight against Tom Hawley at the Nathan Hale.

The match between Jim Quish and McCavanaugh was a long drawn out and bitterly contested battle lasting nearly two hours before the latter triumphed in three sets. The score was 6-4, 3-6, 9-7. Quish came back strong after his opponent had taken the first set and he evened the count. The third set was nip and tuck all the way neither man having a two game lead at any point until the finish. Each was winning regularly on his own service until Quish "cracked" in the 15th game.

Flashy Tennis

The best tennis of the evening was produced in the Hand-de Neville match which drew the entire gallery. It lasted only 40 minutes but some very pretty tennis was exhibited, especially by de Neville although Hand took streaks when he was almost as flashy, de Neville, however, plainly showed that he was the more experienced of the two and was much more accurate in his stroking and placements. His service was also much better although he was guilty of countless foot-faults. De Neville is one of the few local players who's service is about as hard as his first.

De Neville took the first set at 6-2 and came from behind to overcome a three-game lead and win 6-3. Hand worked hard and gave his more experienced opponent a good battle but he was unable to cope with the sharp-shooting drives and all-around brilliant attack. De Neville's next opponent will be the winner of the Ross Shirer-Mac Macdonald match, tomorrow night.

Six Matches Tonight

Tonight there will be seven games, Paul Jesanis, one of the favorites to win the tournament, meets Tom Hawley at the Nathan Hale at 5 o'clock. Joe McCluskey and Mike Cordera clash at the high school at 6 o'clock. Louie Farr and Paul Cervini meet at the Nathan Hale at 6 o'clock. Donald Jesanis and Fred Mack meet at the Nathan Hale at 6 o'clock. Bob Smith and Francis Burr play at the High school at 7 o'clock. Grace Giglio and Elizabeth Washkiewicz meet at the Nathan Hale at 7 o'clock. Aileen McHale will play Elizabeth Lichwinski at the West Side at 6 o'clock.

TITLE QUOT GAMES TO BE FOR 50 POINTS

Five entries have already been received for the town championship quoit tournament to be staged by the Recreation Centers. It was announced today by Pat Carlson, playground instructor who is organizing the tournament. They are Quito Giorgetti, Jim Fallon, Jim Schaub, Pat Murphy, William Gish and William Gish, Jr.

Although it was announced yesterday that all matches would be the best two out of three 21-point games, it has been decided to lengthen the games to 50 points. The reason for this is to prevent a poorer player from having a streak of luck and eliminating a much better opponent.

Considerable interest has already been aroused over the tournament, the winner of which will go to Springfield to compete for the New England title in the Eastern States Exposition. Entries must be in by Friday night either to one of the two Recreation Centers or to instructor Carlson personally.

CAMPBELL WINS

Tommy Campbell scored sweet revenge over Paul Cervini when he defeated him in a special horseshoe pitching contest last night. He won three straight games, his scores being 22-11, 22-9 and 21-0. Cervini doesn't claim to be a quoit star but he beat Campbell two out of three games last week. There was no question as to which was the better man last night.

HEENEY TO MEET CAMPOLO TONIGHT IN CHEAP FIGHT

Little Importance Attached to Bout Which is Supposed to Help Along Argentinian.

New York, Aug. 14.—Time is a faithless friend. A year ago, they put on the last heavyweight championship fight and, for one night at least, the men who fought the fight and those who sponsored it were all-important in the eyes of the world. One of them was the challenger, Tom Heenev. He is fighting tonight as a trial horse in a dollar-ninety engagement over in Brooklyn. Another was Federico Campolo, the greatest promoter of his day or any other. He is dead. Two more of them were Billy Gibson and Charley Harvey, respective managers of the fighters. Gibson is out of boxing as the result of an automobile accident. Bill McCabe, who was Mr. Tunney's duenna, is dead. Mr. Tunney, by his own wish, has passed from this life almost as definitely as though he had died.

Only Heenev Left. Of all the principals in this $700,000 enterprise, only Heenev, the chastened challenger, remains active with the passing of twelve months and, personally, I wouldn't give a nickel for his kind of activity. He is going in there with Vittorio Campolo, the Willard of the Argentine, in a fight that means little today and may mean less tomorrow. He is supposed to build up Vittorio, the man-bullock, but whether he builds him up or tears him down is highly unimportant. The point is that the man who fought for a million dollar title a year ago will take five or six thousand for his end tonight and be glad of it.

Yes, the world moves on, leaving the roadside to its stragglers and a tombstone to its dead. Mr. Tunney, happily, is neither of these. And, by the way, it will be a relief to an anxious nation to know that Gene is soon to resume being an American after having been abroad so long that a lot of people were beginning to worry because they were afraid he might stay much longer. He won't. Gene has forgiven boxing for what it did for him and late in September will return to America with the Bernard Gimbel. He will wish it to be known that he no longer is interested in the defense except in the case of law suits. So much for what a year will do.

It has made a young society man out of Tunney; a chump fighter out of Heenev. It has driven Gibson out of a life he followed for 35 years and Mortimer brothers, also associated in the management of Heenev, are out of the business. Harvey will do well to get out of the hospital in a matter of weeks. Rickard and McCabe are dead. Time, in truth, plays no favorites.

Company G Trimmed 11 To 6 By All-Stars

Manchester's championship national guard baseball team proved rather easy picking for Pat Carlson's Playground All-Stars last night at the West Side Oval because a good sized gathering of fans who turned out to see the soldier team in action. The score was 11 to 6.

The All-Stars wasted no time in jumping into the lead. They scored four runs in the opening inning. Company G tallied twice in both the second and third stanzas to deadlock the score but it was only for a few minutes, the All-Stars taking the lead the same inning by denting the plate twice.

From then on, it was only a question of how big the score would be. The winners increased their lead to 11-4 and then coasted the remaining short distance to a well-deserved triumph. A two-run rally in the sixth was Company G's dying gesture.

Searchfield started on the mound for the All-Stars but gave way to Walter Kearns in the third when the sea became a bit too rough for him. Kearns, himself a member of Company G, tamed his former teammates as much as the same manner as he subdued the opposition at Camp Trumbull. Incidentally, Kearns was subjected to quite a bit of razzing because he played against his own team, but judging from his effectiveness, it didn't bother him much.

The fielding and hitting of Sam Hewitt was one of the features of the game while DeHan, Gozdz and Bycholski were best for Manager Charlie Culotta's tribe. However, the latter is far from discouraged and with a few changes in his lineup, expects to gain baseball recognition before the season passes into history.

Manager Pat Carlson said this morning that he was trying to arrange a game with the Bon Ami for next Wednesday night to be played at the West Side. Incidentally, Carlson also plans to make a change or two in his lineup.

ATHLETICS STILL ON WINNING END

Rumor Says They Are Fighting Among Themselves But Unite Against Foe.

New York, Aug. 14.—"A little dissention is just the thing, the boys fight—then make the base hits ring."

At which is reported to be Connie Mack's rather twisted version of the poet's words. For while rumors fly that Mr. Mack's Athletics amuse themselves after the game by playfully hitting one another on the nose, they still manage to win ball games.

Yesterday, thanks to Hale's first home run of the year and Jimmy Fox's 27th they whipped Detroit 4 to 3, taking the series and increasing their lead over the Yanks to 12-2 games.

Cleveland waited until the ninth inning to wreck the Yanks. With the Indians trailing by two runs Hodapp elected to get his triple for the day. Two men being on when the three base blow came the Yank's blew another, 3 to 2. Ferrer, youthful Indian dingling and turned in a neat job on the hill. The Red Sox celebrated their final appearance of the season in Chicago by defeating the White Sox, 8 to 2.

Led by O'Rourke, who collected five hits, the Browns buried the Senators, 14 to 2.

Fred Fitzsimmons must have left his magic wand at home yesterday for the Reds finally solved his brand of flinging to whip the Giants, 3 to 1.

Rozers Hornsby, with two doubles and a single was the big factor in the Cubs humbling of the Braves. Ralph also accepted eight chances in the field faultlessly. The fine pitching of Hal Carlson should not be overlooked, he limiting the Boston to six safeties.

Other National League clubs enjoyed a day of rest.

"Big Jack" Burkhardt May Pitch Against Soap Makers

Schildge, Fay, Lamprecht Warnock and Others Booked by Prentice to Play in Exhibition.

There ought to be plenty of fun and excitement at the baseball game between the Oldtimers and the Bon Ami this evening at the West Side playgrounds. Play will start at 6 o'clock and Ralph Russ will be behind the plate calling the balls and strikes as usual.

The game is being played as a benefit toward helping defray the expense of Manchester Children's Day at Bulkeley Stadium in Hartford when hundreds of local boys will climb in special trolley cars and go to the Capitol City to witness an Eastern League game as the guests of President Farrell. The money taken in tonight will go toward paying for the trolley cars and "cats."

Sam Prentice, general manager of the Manchester Green team, is organizing the Oldtimers for the occasion and he had not revealed his full lineup. It is quite possible that "Big Jack" Burkhardt will be on the firing line for the "Red-Sox" aggregation with "Pink" Lamprecht behind the plate. Jerry Fay may play first and others who Prentice has been anxiously after are Fred Warnock, Bill Schildge, Brock Wilson, Herman Bronkie.

The Bon Ami will offer its regular lineup with Jack Godek on the mound. The soap makers have not been defeated in their last 11 starts, scoring twelve victories and playing two tie games.

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM, who has returned from Italy to care for little RITA NEWTON, the child of her dead roommate, receives a call from a young woman named ELSIE SMITH, who seems to be something of a blackmailer.

Elsie is determined to marry BOB NEWTON, Rita's father, although he has been widowed less than a month. She asks Molly to use her influence with Bob, and does little threatening. Molly, disgusted, protests that the affair is none of her business.

Meantime, her second play—"Sacrifice"—opens in New York. And in the third row, sits Jack Wells, Molly's sweetheart, with a middle-aged woman!

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI
Of course it spoiled the evening for her—Jack's being with a woman. And sitting, as they were, in the front row, where Molly could hardly keep her eyes off them all evening. Such a woman, too!

"If she wears youz and pretty, I wouldn't mind half so much!" tamed Molly.

But that, of course, was wrong. She would have minded a great deal more.

"The wretched creature!" she fretted. "Done up like a circus rider, and fat enough to burst! A woman like that would wear red—it's exactly the color of her face."

There was no doubt about it. It was Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton all right. "A charming matron," the papers called her. Well, Molly knew what she'd call her—only the papers wouldn't print it.

Hadn't she spoiled the evening to know that country in a woman of her age was simply disgusting? The way she was hanging on to Jack's arm! And Jack red as a beet.

Molly was glad he had the decency to be embarrassed. At least it was over. The curtain came down on the last act. And the lights went over the theater.

Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton was clapping her puffy hands. And diamonds were gleaming like mad.

"Author! Author!" cried the audience. And once again, Molly found herself on the stage, breathless and bowing.

She was wearing yellow tonight. Yellow taffeta, with an enormous bow in back, like the bustles of long ago. Over her shoulders she wore a spangly, white, chiffon "the color of water-lily leaves."

Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton, against her crimson front, clasped a corsage of white orchids. With a quick movement, she snatched them from her gown, and threw them at Molly's feet.

Molly had meant to ignore Jack. But now she stooped for the orchids, and accepted them with a smiling nod.

Jack's face was as scarlet as his lady's gown. Molly was glad if he was embarrassed. She wished he would burst a blood vessel. It would serve him right!

Afterward she had supper at the Exclusive Club with Mr. and Mrs. Durbin. And there they saw the morning papers.

On the front pages were the threats of the censor! They meant to close the show. To padlock the theater. To arrest the author and the producer and all the actors.

Molly's coffee cup clattered from her hand, and breaking on the table, spilled its amber contents over the skirt of her lovely yellow frock.

But Mr. Durbin struck his knee with his hand, with a mighty splash. "Great!" he applauded. "Great!" echoed Molly faintly.

She felt as she did that day in Pension White, when she opened the cable that told of Rita's death. Quite as if she were going to faint, and slide right under the table.

A waiter was trying to mop her lap. A bus boy came running with more serviettes. But she waved them away.

"Please, it doesn't matter." She reached, instead, for a glass of water. It would be too awful to make a scene.

"Wonderful!" Mr. Durbin was saying. "The best break I've had in a long time!"

"I think it's dreadful!" quavered Molly. "Perfectly dreadful!"

"But think of the advertising!" "What if they close us?"

"Close us?" he cried. "They can't close us. Maybe they can bring us to court, and maybe they can't. I doubt if they can. But anyhow we win. They can't put a legitimate endeavor out of business!"

It was a fair-minded judge in the state could find us guilty of presenting an obscene spectacle. We'll get a clean bill of health all right. Nobody but a bunch of fanatics would object to a play like "Sacrifice." But, meantime, while the thing is dragging—while they're trying to padlock us—think of the publicity we'll have!

"I think it's awful," said Molly. "Imagine being accused of writing an obscene play!"

Then she thought of her mother. "Oh dear—oh dear!" she wept.

Mr. Durbin patted her shoulder. And they laughed at her sensibilities, and all her fears.

"But you don't know my mother," she cried. "This will just simply kill her."

"Oh, no, it won't," contradicted Mrs. Durbin gaily. "It will pay off the mortgage on the old farm. It will buy mother a fur coat, and an electric refrigerator and a gas furnace."

"I told you you didn't know her," sooned Molly. "She wouldn't touch a blessed cent of my 'Delphine' money. Do you think she'd soil her fingers with 'Sacrifice's' filthy acre?"

But Mr. Durbin was not particularly interested in the moral scruples of Mrs. Burnham. "Read what the critics have to say," he advised. "It'll make you feel better."

He folded a paper at the dramatic page.

and youthful playwright, has scored another unprecedented success with "Sacrifice, an emotional drama in four acts.

"With rare understanding and delicacy Miss Burnham has drawn the lives of an emotional, high-ly-stated romance, the girl turns from her parents. But the lover, for whom she would sacrifice . . ."

Molly threw the paper down. "The kick's all gone," she said. "It leaves me cold."

"You're still a new hand at the game. You've got to be hard-boiled—haven't you, George?"

"You bet!" he agreed. "That's the trouble with you, Molly. You think you're hard-boiled. But you're not, really. What do you care about a few adjectives?"

"But I do," she moaned. "I care terribly."

"You're just afraid of your mother," he joked.

"No," she said. "It's not that. Maybe I'm foolish. But I do care what people say. I can't help it. I suppose it's weakness. After 'Delphine' when they all said such lovely things, I was thrilled to death. Then Mother started finding fault. And it spoiled the fine edge. It wasn't because she was mean. It was because she represented a certain provincial group who were going to think 'Delphine' was coarse and crude, and not fit for nice people. That hurt me. Because I don't want to be vulgar."

"I'd lots rather that people would think I was just a nice, every-day sort of person, with a nice, ordinary every-day mind. I don't want to be intellectual, or hard-boiled, or anything of the sort."

The Durbins laughed, humming or whistling to the sort.

"You sound as though you were giving an interview for a religious weekly," declared Mr. Durbin.

"You can laugh all you want!" she flared. "But it's true—I'm nothing but a country girl. I'm snodgrass, born and bred. My mother's a pillar of small town society. My father's the salubrious earth. And no daughters of theirs could ever glory in a lot of cheap publicity. It simply goes against the grain. I'm provincial. And proud of it!"

"Hear! Hear!" applauded Mrs. Durbin. "Give this little girl a hand."

"I'm not putting on an act!" protested Molly. "I'm telling you the truth."

Durbin grinned happily.

"It's good stuff anyhow," he approved. "Give it to the reporters. They'll eat it up."

Molly looked frightened.

"There's right there! The more reporters sound 'Oh, Lord!'"

"I've an idea!" proclaimed Mr. Durbin jubilantly. "We'll give a benefit matinee, and we'll turn the theater over to the clubwomen. They'll mean we'll have their endorsement. And the censors won't have a leg to stand on, if the mothers of young girls approve our show."

"We'll have an invitation performance for clergymen. You can give them a little spiel from the stage, Molly."

"Count me out," instructed Molly. "I've had all I can stand now."

"Well, leave it to me," compromised Durbin. "I've a clever little press agent, and I'll let her manage it all."

"Maybe the papers will start an argument pro and con. Solicit the opinion of clubwomen. Educators. Reformers. It doesn't make any difference whether they pan us or not. We get the advertising anyhow, and it's publicity that money can't buy."

The little producer smiled happily.

"You're a lucky girl, Molly," he pronounced. "Only you don't know it."

"Lucky," she thought, "with the censors calling me names—and Jack down front with a woman!"

She smiled politely, and admitted that maybe he was right. Only she couldn't see it, not for a minute.

The next day, anxious to avoid reporters, Molly hurried back to Boston.

Little Rita, she discovered, had already twined herself around her heart. Each day Molly phoned her from New York, for the joy of hearing that baby voice.

"Hello, Mama," Rita would say. "Oh, hello, darling. How are you?"

"I'm all right. . . . Such a futtery, sweet little voice, with inflections like the trilling of a bird! The child of her own accord, called Molly "mama." At first Molly thought she ought not allow it. It seemed like robbing Rita of something that belonged to her.

But, after all, you can't rob a dead woman. Besides, Rita wouldn't mind. She wanted—really wanted—her child to belong to Molly. It was a little word—and it was big—something that meant more to Molly than any sound in the world.

Her first night home she permitted Rita to stay up late. For a special treat, she had their evening meal together in the drawing room. Rita had cambric tea, and there was ice cream for dessert.

Later Bob dropped in. He greeted his daughter affectionately, and seemed surprised at finding Molly there.

"I thought you'd have to stay over in New York," he remarked, "with all that rumpus about your play."

"Oh, no," she said. "Mr. Durbin can take care of that. I didn't want to be mixed up in it."

"Mixed up!" he exclaimed. "You wrote the thing, didn't you?"

"But you didn't think I wanted to stand around, and let them throw dirt at me!" Bob smiled disagreeably.

"Don't pull that stuff on me," he admonished. "You may be a simon-pure maiden to all the yokels in Snodgrass, but you're a darn smart young woman to me. That 'dirt' going to make you a pretty penny, isn't it?"

"I suppose so," she conceded. "Well? That doesn't make you sore, does it?"

It was on the tip of her tongue to retort that she would need several pretty pennies to raise his daughter. But that would be stupid and pointless. If they quarreled, Bob might take the child away. And that, she felt, would break her heart.

It was not until little Rita had kissed them goodnight, and gone to her fairy-tale bed, that Elsie Smith's name entered the conversation.

TEMPERATURE, HUMIDITY CHIEF FACTORS IN POOR VENTILATION.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, Health Magazine.

The human being must have a supply of air fulfilling certain minimum conditions or he will die. Even a century ago it was believed that air could carry some mysterious agent of destruction which was called miasm. It was believed to be a poison gas that arose from marshes.

As human beings in a room breathe the air and exhale the materials developed in the body the composition of the air in the room gradually changes. Whereas the normal air is almost wholly oxygen and nitrogen the breathing of the human being gradually adds to this carbon dioxide and slightly increases the amount of nitrogen while the oxygen is being considered.

At the same time the humidity changes through the evaporation of moisture from the body; the temperature is brought nearer to that of the body, and occasional germs and droplets of moisture from the body containing germs get into the air.

In the past great importance was attached to the chemical changes that take place; to the increase in carbon dioxide and to the lessening of oxygen. We now know that the amount of carbon dioxide produced and the amount of oxygen removed are not significant, since the former is not sufficient to reduce the oxygen content of the air, and since the latter is quite sufficient for sustaining life in the vast majority of cases.

The oxygen in the air must fall below 13.5 of an atmosphere before the breathing center is affected. Frederick has pointed out that the Mount Everest Expeditions of 1922 and 1924 showed that after acclimatization, men can live for days at an altitude of 23,000 feet, where the oxygen pressure is 9.5 per cent of an atmosphere and can perform muscular work at 28,000 feet. The physiologist Dubois asserts that if the oxygen is gradually reduced at normal pressure the majority of men will not faint until the percentage falls to between six and nine per cent, though some weaker individuals may die before this percentage is reached.

The sensation associated with bad ventilation is not due to the chemical composition of the air. The most important considerations are temperature and humidity. To maintain itself comfortably the body must continuously lose heat since it is continuously producing heat. It loses heat by evaporation of water from the surface. The most important influence in promoting the loss of heat is the amount of water in the air that surrounds the body (characterized as humidity) and the rate of movement of the air. The movement of the air disperses the envelope of hot humid air that surrounds the human being between his clothes and his skin.

Frederick, in common with most ventilation engineers, favors a good supply of fresh air from an open window rather than air brought in by ventilating systems. He points out that a person who has lived continuously for weeks and months with a fan supply, however adequate, and however satisfactory in regard to chemical and physical conditions, invariably experiences a prompt tonic effect on breathing the open air.

SOONG NOT TO QUIT.

London, Aug. 13.—Dr. T. V. Soong, finance minister of the Chinese Nationalist government has withdrawn his resignation, according to a Shanghai dispatch published in the London Times today.

Soong withdrew his resignation after the Nanking government promised to reduce its military expenditures and establish a budget system.

His decision to continue in office was hailed in government circles as it was feared his resignation would weaken the hold of the Nanking regime.

PROBE TRAIN WRECK.

Norton, Mass., Aug. 13.—Investigation into the derailment of thirteen freight cars of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad freight train, eight of which were thrown into a twisted mass of wreckage, was under way by railroad officials today. Members of the train crew escaped injury. Cause of the wreck has not been determined.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton ©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

More and more frequently statistics of one sort or another are saying that it becomes harder every day for the average family with children to get along.

And I know it to be true, according to our American standards of "getting along."

No one knows better than I do the struggle of the mother and father with a little family that they are trying to bring up in decent clean surroundings with average advantages of health and education.

But on the other hand, it is to be feared that in this group we are counting the parents who struggle on and deny themselves every splinter of comfort in order to give selfish children luxuries that they could and should do without.

Children usually don't get so selfish unless they are allowed to. When will we learn that children are pretty much what we make them, or at least allow them to become?

Heartless Adolescents. If they were not actually aided and abetted in their selfish demands when they were little, I doubt if we should have the large percentage of heartless money-spending adolescents today that we seem to be blessed with.

I know a certain young matron who is slowly but surely wrecking her youthful husband by her extravagance and extravagance that she watches grow up from a baby, a decidedly spoiled child, always. Sweet when everything came her way, but otherwise, horrid.

When she was four years old I went shopping with her and her mother. She was being outfitted in winter clothes.

In the morning she was supplied with dresses, underclothes, shoes, stockings, and so on. Her mother was firm in her decision and when the child began to act up because she couldn't have a certain pink party dress, or shoes with fancy tops, her mother merely said, "Keep quiet, Dorothy. I know what you need."

But at noon Dorothy's father joined us for luncheon and later went along for the ceremonial of selecting the crowning glory, a bonnet—also a coat. Little girls wore bonnets in those days with cute little ostrich tips tucked under the brim.

Couldn't Be Denied. At least the one Dorothy eventually shouted herself into, had. It was pale blue velvet and had plaques and almost shabby and I knew how he denied himself. But he couldn't deny that child.

She sailed right on through life, and money, up to the time of her marriage, like a young Pompey dour. The family was always scrimping, worrying, in debt, to give her luxuries. Now she's married and doing the same thing with her husband.

This is a rather extreme case of indulgence, but in a lesser degree it is as common as rain. Either one or both parents can't bear to see their children denied. It's the bitterest martyrdom for everyone concerned and grows with the years. Whose fault is it when girls have too big ideas for young struggling husbands?

And Saul said unto his servants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me.—I. Samuel 16:17.

Play may not have so high a place in the divine compass, but it has as legitimate a place as prayer.—J. G. Holland.

STUDY ESKIMO BONES

Ottawa.—Bones of Eskimos, believed to be thousands of years old, are destined to create as much excitement in the scientific world as the bones in the Valley of the Kings or buried in the ruins of Aztec villages. The Rockefeller Foundation has displayed interest in the finding of ancient Eskimo bones in Canada and plans a series of investigations.

500 LOCAL BOYS TO SEE HARTFORD NINE PLAY

Recreation Center Director Lewis Lloyd Completes Arrangements for Trip on Next Tuesday.

Arrangements were completed this morning for 500 Manchester boys to be guests of the Hartford Eastern League Baseball Club next Tuesday afternoon, August 20. Although the affair is being sponsored by the Recreation Center, it is open to the town at large. Any boy 10 to 15 years of age inclusive is entitled to go.

The boys will make the trip to Hartford in a group of special trolley cars and will be properly supervised. Last year a total of 266 boys went on the trip and judging from the comment heard among them practically all will be back. In fact, the demand to go on the trip is so great that Police Commissioner Willard B. Rogers, one of those who heartily approves of the treat for Manchester boys, made reservations for 500 in the grandstand.

The trip will not cost the boys a cent unless they wish to spend it for eats on the side, Director Lewis Lloyd announced. Trolley transportation will be supplied. Money for this will come from the Recreation Centers and in order to help defray expenses a ball game has been arranged for this evening to be played at the West Side playgrounds. It will feature a battle between the Bon Ami and the Oldtimers.

Boys wishing to go on the trip should send their names, age and address to the Recreation Center by mail, personally or by telephone. The building is open afternoons and nights until 9:30.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Aug. 14.—The buying wave in U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and General Electric broke with fury over the stock market in the early trading today and carried prices 8 to 16 points higher in the first half-hour. The race to higher values was taken up by the utility stocks, rails and specialties, the bulls once again riding the wave of a powerful buying move, sweeping in from all sections of the country.

Westinghouse Electric jumped 16 points in 25 minutes to a new high as many minutes to a new high as many before the overnight accumulation of buying orders had been filled. U. S. Steel boomed along 8 points to 245 and General Electric was up with a point of joining the 400-club when the stock reeled off 10 1/2 points to sell at 399. Consolidated Gas led the utilities with a 5-point jump to 169 1/2, a new high price for all time. American Telephone and Telegraph was up about three points and Anaconda was turned over in big blocks above 122, the high point on the move. Atchison, at the head of the rails, sold up 3 points at 27 1/2.

U. S. Steel shared the lime-light with a larger group of speculative favorites today than in any full session in a week or more. The bull movement spread with rapidity to the oil stocks, copper and motors. Investment buying for the trusts and powerful corporations and pools swept the market bare of stocks at anything approximating Tuesday's closing prices.

There were no new developments in industry and finance. Stock speculators are taking it for granted that corporation earnings will continue on the upgrade, though at this time close to 40 per cent above the same period last year. The 6 per cent redisclosure rate has for the time being lost its terror, particularly as heads of other Reserve banks have publicly stated that no reason exists for the marking up of rates in their own districts.

Standard Oil of New Jersey's new climb to 62 was taken as an indication of important developments in the oil industry but speculators were warned away from the oils by the frequency of "false starts" in the last year or two.

High-priced stocks were extremely sensitive today, and the bears who have been "feeling for the top" of the current move have sold very little stock, according to reports from the brokerage houses. Call money was unchanged at 7 per cent.

POLICE COURT

Arthur Deroin of Paterson, N. J., paid a fine of $15 and costs in the Manchester police court this morning for intoxication. Deroin arrived in Manchester shortly after midnight yesterday morning in a taxicab. He was intoxicated and wanted to get a room at a hotel for the night. Patrolman Harold Heffron escorted the man to the Waranoke Hotel but they were filled up and could not accommodate him.

He then took Deroin to the Sheridan but he had no sooner arrived at that hotel than he began to cause trouble and the night clerk would not accept him as a guest. Heffron then decided the best place for him was the police station. Deroin put up a fight against going there and the patrolman had to call for assistance to get him into the station.

Yesterday morning when court opened he had not sobered up and the trip is so great that Police Commissioner Willard B. Rogers, one of those who heartily approves of the treat for Manchester boys, made reservations for 500 in the grandstand.

TWO SURPRISE PARTIES ON HER BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Olin Gates of Highland Park spent a very happy and busy day yesterday. It was her fifty-third birthday, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward L. Gates of North Elm street entertained in her honor in the afternoon. More than 20 old friends, schoolmates and former neighbors from Wapping, Hartford and this town attended. There was vocal and instrumental music and reminiscences of old times. Tables were set on the lawn and decorated with flowers. Mrs. E. L. Gates provided the birthday cake with 53 yellow candles.

She prevailed upon her sister-in-law to remain to the early evening, knowing that another surprise was in store for her. On reaching her home at Highland Park, Mrs. Gates found her children and grandchildren and other relatives gathered there also a telegram of congratulations from her son Merrill who is in Los Angeles, Cal. She was presented with beautiful cut flowers and a number of individual gifts.

REBUFF DICTATOR

Madrid, Aug. 13.—The General Workers' Union and the Socialist Party administered a rebuff to General Primo De Rivera, the Spanish dictator, today, by passing resolutions refusing the invitation of the government to send representatives to the National Assembly debate on the new Spanish constitution.

It is reliably reported that all ex-premiers of Spain will likewise decline to attend the debate, which is to be held shortly.

Town Treasurer George H. Waddell and Mrs. Waddell who are spending the summer at their Columbia lake cottage, will start on a motor trip this week-end with Lake Sunapee, N. H., as their destination.

George H. Hall of New York City is spending the month of August at the home of his father-in-law, Robert N. Strong of Oakland.

Miss Rose Valenti of 131 School street was surprised at her home Monday evening when more than 35 of her friends and relatives called to shower her with gifts, in anticipation of her marriage to Anthony Pero of New Britain which will take place September 4. Music and dancing helped pass the time. Mrs. Thora Stoehr, Miss Helen Gardner and Miss Helen Fredrickson played piano solos. Miss Lucy Macri and Louise and Nettie Valenti entertained with fancy dances. A buffet lunch was served.

ACCIDENT KNOCKS OUT YANKEE FLYING CLUB

Local Man Without Plane When the Mutually Owned Ship Cracks Up.

Following an accident which resulted in damage estimated at about $500, the Yankee Flying club with headquarters at Brainard Field in Hartford, has been forced to suspend operations. According to Louis A. Richmond of 65 Spruce street, Manchester's only member of the organization, a meeting is to be held tonight to ascertain the extent of the damage and to take action accordingly.

The plane which is owned jointly by the 20 members of the club cracked up when one of the members was attempting to make a landing last week and it also struck another airplane which was standing on the ground. Both were badly damaged, and will have to be repaired and carefully overhauled for any possible hidden defects caused by the collision. One of the Hartford members was piloting the plane when the accident occurred.

That is the reason why Richmond was not seen flying low over his Spruce street home over the last week end as he has been in the habit of doing. The Manchester aviator obtained a license to fly some time ago and now needs only about ten more hours flying time before he will be allowed to take up passengers.

A Special Exhibit of Fine Furs

Will Be Shown In Connection With Our

ANNUAL AUGUST FUR SALE

Mr. Paul Herrmann, Our New York Furrier, Will Conduct The Exhibit

It is with pleasure that we announce to our customers the coming of Mr. Paul Herrmann, our New York furrier, who will be in our store for three days—Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Herrmann is an expert fur man having devoted his entire lifetime to the fur industry. He will be glad to consult with you about the various peltries whether you intend to purchase a coat or not.

Furs are like diamonds and must be bought on confidence. When you think of buying diamonds, real estate, furs, or anything of great value which is only purchased a limited number of times during a life time, it is only natural that you go to a man whom you consider an expert or one in whom you have implicit confidence. That you are going to get full value received for your money and that you receive the service and courtesy that you are entitled to long after the sale has been made. You can purchase your furs with confidence at Hale's.
