

STATES' RIGHTS ARE EXPLAINED BY OFFICIALS

Governor Ritchie, of Maryland and Dr. Doran, Dry Head, Give Their Views On Important Problem.

University, Va., Aug. 15.—Two diametrically opposed views concerning the duty of the states in enforcing prohibition were put before the Institute of Public Affairs today.

One came from Governor Albert C. Ritchie (D) of Maryland, and was a complete denial that the states are under any obligation, legal or moral, to enforce Federal prohibition within their borders.

The other was presented by Dr. J. M. Doran, the Federal prohibition commissioner, who declared that under the 18th Amendment the states are legally and morally bound to assist the Federal government. And unless they do so, he said, the Federal government must expand its facilities and discharge every enforcement function, great and small.

Ritchie's Views

Gov. Ritchie's address was a vigorous defense of those states which, like his own Maryland, have consistently refused to adopt the Volstead act as a part of their own legal codes. The 18th Amendment, he contended, gave the prohibitory law concurrently with the Federal government if they chose to do so, but if they did not so choose there was no obligation to do so.

"The President holds no executive power in the states, and the governors hold no executive power in the nation," said the Maryland governor. "As a state we do not defy the Federal law, we do not ignore it nor try to nullify it. We put no obstacles in the way of its full enforcement by the Federal officials who passed it."

Backs Wickersham

Dr. Doran virtually endorsed the "Wickersham plan," although not by name, but would allow the states to take over the great burden of ordinary enforcement, and leave the Federal establishment free to work on the major aspects of it—smuggling, control of industrial alcohol, etc.

Efforts Must Be Directed, Doran Said

Efforts must be directed, Doran said, to the clarification of the state and Federal function as it relates to police activities. He advocated bringing about a clearer conception of the two functions, the public mind "with necessary corollary of developing more fully the state police powers to bring about a discharge of the constitutional obligations of those states

SNOOK CONVICTED; TO GET THE CHAIR

College Professor Who Killed Pretty Co-ed Guilty of 1st Degree Murder.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Dr. James Howard Snook is today a doomed man. Death in the electric chair will be the inglorious end of the philandering professor who hammered and slashed Miss Theora Hix, his co-ed sweetheart, to death on a one-way rife range on the night of June 13. He was compelled to make that ominous march to the "chair," right trouser leg slit from the knee down, much in the same manner as have Judd Gray, the ashweight slayer; Paul Jaworski, the Pennsylvania "killer," and other comparatively recent notorious murderers.

But the doctor isn't worrying about it. He made that plain in an interview in his cell at the county jail today.

"I haven't thought about it," said Snook when asked how he felt about the prospect of entering "the little green door," that leads to the electric chair.

The "poker-faced" steel-nerved hammer slayer was reading a magazine when visited by reporters. He was unperturbed, as usual.

"Have you any statement to make?" he was asked.

"No," he replied, "before I could do anything like that I would have to consult my counsel."

"Did you tell everything about this case when you were on the stand?" was another question.

"No," he answered, "I have lots of over. There are salient facts to be told."

He reminded his audience that it is "affair" with Miss Hix lasted 19 years whereas he "had only x or eight hours to tell it."

He evidently meant his direct

NAVAL PACT PLANS NOW IN MAKING

President Calls Naval Men to White House to Discuss a British-American Naval Agreement.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Negotiations for a British-American naval agreement proceeded apace today with the navy high command somewhat mollified over the assurances given by President Hoover that the expert views of the Admirals are not to be disregarded while "the statesmen" reach an agreement among themselves.

It is no secret that the new administration's Navy policy has come in for some severe, if anonymous, criticism in high naval circles. It began with Ambassador Dawes' famous remark in his Pilgrims speech in London that the failure of most disarmament conferences could be attributed to "the Admirals" and that if disarmament were ever realized it would have to be by "statesmen" taking the matter out of naval hands.

It was to still the criticism and obtain, if possible, the sincere cooperation of the Navy heads that President Hoover had the general board at the White House yesterday for breakfast. "The Admirals" were acquainted with the whole state of the negotiations with the Macdonald government for a naval agreement, and were an opportunity to express their own opinions as to what should and should not be done.

How successful the President's gesture toward "the Admirals" will be remains to be seen, but at any rate the Navy now feels that it is to have a choice in and be consulted about the reductions which President Hoover and Premier Macdonald are mutually desirous of making.

The whole sticking point in the Anglo-American negotiations is the question of cruisers. On virtually every other point, there is already substantial agreement between London and Washington.

Yet, despite the "substantial progress" that is regularly reported from both the state department and the British foreign office, there still exists a tremendous gulf of difference as to how Britain's cruiser superiority is to be met.

The British Admiralty is hard set against any extensive scrapping of cruisers in order to come down to the American level. Apparently, the Admiralty has succeeded in winning the Macdonald government to support of this position. On the other hand, for reasons of economy and otherwise, President Hoover is unwilling to launch upon a building program to bring the American navy up to cruiser parity with the British.

There the negotiations have stuck for weeks, with "the statesmen" on both sides trying to find a yardstick which will be capable of a new system of measuring naval strength. Thus far they haven't found it.

The British experts propose to take into account America's surface destroyers and submarines, war-built and now for ten years rusting idly at obscure docks on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

A considerable body of expert American naval opinion sets forth that the old destroyers and submarines are of no offensive value whatever, as compared to the fast, modern cruisers which Britain has been building so industriously for the last fifteen years. They were built to serve a specific purpose—the combatting of the German submarine menace—and having served that purpose they are now offensively useless, particularly in the hands of the British.

Around this point the controversy has waged and is still waging, with the Navy taking sly pot-shots at the very idea of an agreement along such lines.

President Hoover's conference yesterday was an endeavor to still this covert criticism, and to enlist the sincere cooperation of "the Admirals" to the general cause.

Rockerless Rocking Chair Contest Is On In Boston

Boston, Aug. 15.—The second "spasm" of what was described as Boston's worst, er—first rockerless rocking chair contest, was to get under way late this afternoon with only ten of the original 17 starters in attendance.

"Professor" Milton F. Crandall, of Pittsburgh, impresario and originator of the "idea," said today—after casually noticing that two paid admissions of 75 cents, each had attended his opening performance—that he would probably decide the winner in a different manner.

First it had been "ballyhooed" as a non-stop affair, but now tabulating machines were to be used at tonight's "spasm" and the one counting the biggest number of "gyrations" would be declared the winner.

FIORIELLO H. LA GUARDIA
—MADE BEER FOR THE HOUSE—

G. O. P. Congressman Colorful Character

Whoever Wins in New York City, It Will Be a Good Show—Republican to Try to Steal the Spotlight from Tammany Jimmy Walker.

New York, Aug. 15.—While New York Republicans were wondering who could possibly give the celebrated Jimmy Walker a run for his mayoralty, Major Fiorello H. La Guardia stepped out of the hat in answer to their question—if not their prayer.

For although La Guardia is not the fair-haired boy of his own party, it's admitted that he's the one man who could play opposite the dapper Jimmy Walker in the coming elections and not be submerged in the role. In his own right, the Major is a national figure, and he yields to nobody when it comes to putting on a good show. If Walker is a typical Broadway musical comedy hero, La Guardia is a perfect type for good old political melodrama, making up in histrionic ability what he lacks in inches.

Six times he has represented New York as a congressman in Washington. Because of his socialistic tendencies he used to be called the two-party man in the House, and one day, in rage, Senator Snowden's demand for revision of the Young plan threatened to wreck the conference, sent a letter to the financial commission insisting upon discussion of his sub-committee motion on Saturday. In fact, Saturday should see a "showdown" upon the various issues in dispute.

It was understood that the heads of the French, Italian, Belgian and Japanese delegations have under consideration a set of proposals to be presented to the English on Friday or Saturday in an effort to meet Snowden's demand for revision.

TEMPERANCE HEAD AS FAKE DOCTOR 30 MORE ARRESTS IN CHICAGO RAIDS

New York Clergyman Is Accused of Examining Disrobed Men and Women.

New York, Aug. 15.—Rev. Dr. James Empringham, national secretary of the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal church, today stood accused of state medical law violations involving the physical examinations of disrobed men and women.

Operation of an X-ray machine in the Health Educational Society clinic—recently closed after investigation—is also charged against the 64-year-old clergyman.

POLICY OF U. S. SINCE THE WAR UP AT PARLEY

While Europe Was Squabbling Over Politics, America Was Creating Markets, Delegates Are Told.

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 15.—America's aggressive drive for foreign trade markets since the war while European countries were squabbling over political matters has created an international situation which was discussed in private conversations today by delegates to the Hague reparations conference.

French experts, notably Louis Loucheur, the French minister of labor, are urging upon the other delegates the necessity of concerted action by Europe to expand European commerce abroad in order to help home industries, home markets and the working populations of the European countries.

M. Loucheur takes the view that German deliveries in kind—German reparations payments in goods—are not responsible for the unfavorable economic plight of Great Britain and other European countries so much as the failure of Europe to work in unison for trade expansion into fresh markets.

Showdowns on Saturday.

Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, who demand for revision of the Young plan threatened to wreck the conference, sent a letter to the financial commission insisting upon discussion of his sub-committee motion on Saturday. In fact, Saturday should see a "showdown" upon the various issues in dispute.

It was understood that the heads of the French, Italian, Belgian and Japanese delegations have under consideration a set of proposals to be presented to the English on Friday or Saturday in an effort to meet Snowden's demand for revision.

THEATRICAL PLUM FOR SOCIETY GIRLS

Miss Cogswell Who "Crashed the Gate" in Russia May Play Lead in Miracle

New York, Aug. 15.—Mary Ann Rensselaer Cogswell, the pretty young New York society girl, who "crashed the gate" in Bolsheviki Russia for the first time, today was offered one of the plums of the American theater.

Morris Gest, impresario, called the girl Marco Polo to name her own figure for the role of the nun in "The Miracle" mystic pageant production, which opens in Detroit October 7.

Lady Diana Manners and Rosamond Pinchoff, two of the world's most beautiful women have played the part in the past.

Miss Cogswell, accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Satter, niece of J. P. Morgan, succeeded in reaching Moscow without a passport after a series of adventures suggestive of the Arabian Nights.

Their adventures through the Caucasus mountains alone, but a guide, robbed on train, humorous and serious brushes with officials and natives who could not speak English, arrested for taking photographs, and mistaking a brilliantly unlit gas for a Canadian wheat; a similar tax upon New Zealand butter; and a like duty against Argentine beef. They will argue that sugar, should not be singled out for discrimination because a handful of Americans have invested huge fortunes in Cuba.

ZEPPELIN IS HEADED TOWARD STORM ZONE

Report New Clashes On Chinese Frontier

Peiping, (Peking), Aug. 15.—Both naval and new troop clashes between Soviet and Chinese forces were reported in unofficial messages from the Siberian-Manchurian frontier, today.

A Red fleet is reported to have fired upon the Chinese gunboats Lichi and Kiang-Keng at the confluence of the Amur and Sungari rivers.

It is reported that Red troops were landed upon Chinese territory, began looting Shaohsincheng, Chungshien and Sachienfang before the arrival of Chinese reinforcements.

Chinese naval forces are said to have captured Suitunghsien from Red troops.

Shipping on the Sungari river has been suspended.

Governor General Chang Chung Hui, of Manchuria, has decided to detain rather than deport additional Soviet citizens who may be arrested charged with sabotage and Communist activities, until the Sino-Russian problem is settled, according to word from Harbin, today.

Emergency jails are being constructed.

Thirty-eight Communists seized in the recent raid upon the Soviet consulate, are staging a hunger strike.

WON'T LET SURVEY OF LAND BE MADE

Vernon Farmer, With Grievance Against Water Company Keeps Engineer Off.

An irate farmer in the town of Vernon made things uncomfortable for Fred O. Alquist, an engineer for the state department of health, yesterday when the latter attempted to look over his property in connection with a survey of the Manchester water shed. The farmer, R. A. Simonsen, refused to give any reason for refusing to allow Alquist to come onto his property but admitted that his grievance was with the Manchester Water Company.

Check Up On Shed

The inspection Alquist sought to make was in connection with the regular annual check-up on drainage conditions on property surrounding all public drinking-water ponds to see that sanitary conditions are proper. Warren J. Scott, head of the state department of health informed The Herald this afternoon. He could not understand, he said, why Simonsen, or anyone, for that matter, should refuse to permit the inspection to be made.

Don't Understand

Charles B. Loomis, superintendent of the Manchester Water Company, was also unable to advance any reason why Simonsen was outside the town. Chief of Police Stephen J. Tobin of the Rockville Police Department, was then consulted and he referred Alquist to the prosecuting attorney. No arrest has been made and just what will happen remains to be seen.

SUGAR SCHEDULES CAUSE OF BATTLE

American and Cuban Interests Flood Senate Chamber With Propaganda.

Washington, Aug. 15.—A propaganda battle of titanic proportions, between American sugar producers and Cuban importers, was inundating Congress today as the Republican members of the Senate finance committee neared a decision on sugar tariff.

The rumor prevailed that the Republicans would approve a $2.00 Cuban rate, as compared to $1.76 in existing law and the $2.40 in the House bill. The Republicans, armed with data from American sugar producers, were ready to defend any increase against the tumultuous dramatic assaults, which already have been inaugurated by the Democratic national committee.

Cheapest Food

Sugar, the Republicans will say, is the cheapest food on the American market. It is the only food given away in American hotels and restaurants. It is sold cheaper here than in any of the nations competing with this country in the economic marts of the world. The House rat itself, they will add, instead of putting some $400,000,000 additional burden on the consumers—will add but 43 cents a year to the food bill of each American.

The tariff-makers will defend the sugar duty as an economic necessity standing side-by-side with the embargo-like tariff against Canadian wheat; a similar tax upon New Zealand butter; and a like duty against Argentine beef. They will argue that sugar, should not be singled out for discrimination because a handful of Americans have invested huge fortunes in Cuba.

Immediately afterward police arrested the five, including Mike Jenkovicz. The men who beat up Lazowsky acted on the assumption he was a stool-pigeon, according to the police.

HEADED FOR SEA

Aboard the Graf Zeppelin, Aug. 15.—(Via Direct Radio)—The staid old city of Danzig, which was severed from Germany by the terms of the Versailles Treaty, literally went wild today when the Graf Zeppelin passed over its checker-board area at 2:55 o'clock this afternoon (8:55 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time).

With whistles screaming, flags, handkerchiefs, bunting and hats wildly waving in the hands of enthusiastic residents, the Free City of Danzig accorded the Graf a more tumultuous reception than was received from any German city, not excepting Berlin.

After passing Danzig, Dr. Eckenner, commander of the Graf, laid his course on a bearing for Koenigsberg. The Zeppelin was then making a speed of 64 miles per hour, with but four of her five motors operating. The fifth motor was cut out to conserve the Graf's fuel supply.

QUARREL, MOTIVE FOR 2 SUICIDES

Gail Hamilton and His Sweetheart Had a Fight Before They Ended Lives.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Gail Hamilton and his young sweetheart, Montell Mansfield, Texas...

Was Stupefied. Bachert had just come out of a stupor induced, police said, by the liquor he consumed the night of the double tragedy...

Witness Warned. The coroner warned Bachert: "This inquiry may at any moment take a different turn from the suicide theory..."

He said, in reply to questions, that he had known Hamilton for several years and understood Miss Mansfield was his sweetheart.

He said he had driven to the farmhouse last Monday to pick up Hamilton and take him on a Maine fishing trip...

"Do you know any reason why Miss Mansfield should kill herself?" "Well," Bachert said, "we had all been drinking pretty heavily..."

BLIND MAN IMPLICATED. New York, Aug. 15.—The name "Walter" on letters and telegrams addressed to Miss Montell Mansfield...

His name figured in the quarrel described by a witness to the suicides as preceding the affair...

He visited his home on several occasions, just a few minutes each time.

"The girl's father is one of my land agents in the Panhandle section of Texas and my relations with his daughter were perfectly conventional and there was nothing in the world wrong."

"I know of no men friends of Miss Mansfield. I had never met the man in the picture who moved up there for some reason."

RHINELANDER DIVORCE. Las Vegas, Nevada, Aug. 15.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander today filed suit for divorce here against Mrs. Alice Jones Rhinelander...

Extreme cruelty will be charged, said Harmon. The attorney asserted he had completed preparation of the complaint and would file it as soon as Rhinelander attached his signature.

DRAMATIC CONGRESSMAN A COLORFUL CHARACTER

ator Blanton of Texas referred to him as the "one-man party."

A seasoned campaigner, he also is a good showman, as full of tricks as a magician.

In appearance, La Guardia is an Italian as his name—short, stocky, with a tendency toward a waistline.

He frequently offended Washingtonians by his use of the ineffective "house" applied rather indiscriminately, and once the Postal Telegraph company refused to carry the word over its chaste wires.

Full of Amendments. In Washington, where he paid little attention to social life, but was constantly in evidence in the House, he had the reputation of offering as many, if not more amendments, to all pending legislation than anyone else in the House.

To keep him quiet, they once put him on the alcoholic liquor traffic committee, mainly because it was a dead issue.

When the legislators affected surprise that there might be some violation of the liquor law, he proceeded to manufacture some quite passable 3.76 beer with only malt extract and beer flavoring.

Politically, the Major is wet and doesn't care who knows it, but he believes that federal laws should be upheld.

In 1902, he was 20 years old and went as a clerk to the consul general at Budapest and later became consular agent at Fiume in 1904.

As president of the board of aldermen, he denounced policies so rigorously and offended everyone so generally that he was instrumental in getting all the aldermen's salaries raised but his own.

He Makes Self Heard. When La Guardia is opposed to anything, he shouts his protest from the housetops.

He Likes to Keep Busy. The more activity going on about La Guardia, the better he likes it.

Grave Diggers Strike. New York, Aug. 15.—The strike of grave-diggers and workers at Calvary cemetery, Queens, was today reported more acute than since the initial walk-out sixteen years ago.

The party was in honor of Miss Sullivan's birthday. It came as a pleasant surprise, as she had no idea when she crossed the street to call on her cousin what was under foot.

The dining room was tastefully decorated with flowers and the table centerpiece was a large birthday cake, trimmed beautifully with pink, green and white icing.

START OF FLIGHT. Friedrichshafen, Germany, Aug. 15.—As dawn broke over Europe today, the history-making Graf Zeppelin was heading northeast over central Germany, bound from here to Tokyo on the long second leg of her round-the-world flight.

Thousands joined in throngs today, wishing the goodspeed to the 20 passengers and crew aboard as the mighty liner of the air pointed her blunt nose toward the sky at 4:35 a. m., today (11:35 p. m., last night, Eastern Daylight time).

The start of the Graf on the longest non-stop flight ever attempted was an auspicious one. Everything went smoothly for hours.

Just before starting his ship Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander of the pressed pleasure at the wonderful atmospheric conditions attending the start of the flight.

With conditions as fine as we possibly wish for, we will probably make good speed on the first part of our journey," he said.

When the ship was weighted just before the ground crew released their hold on the lines, it was found she was heavier than expected and a considerable amount of her ballast was dumped overboard.

There were two vastly disappointed persons left behind. One was Nelson Morris, of Chicago, who appeared at the field showing a ticket for the world flight sold to him in New York.

LAW LETS CHICAGOANS DRIVE FAST, BUT NARROW ROADS OBJECT!

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Forty-five miles an hour is the maximum speed limit now in Illinois, but it doesn't mean much to many motorists in the Chicago area.

Cook county, which Chicago bids fair to cover completely, has an all too plentiful supply of two-lane pavements. Holidays bring with them traffic jams, and the concentrated ordinary week-end traffic is even worse.

Traffic conditions in the metropolitan area of Chicago are perhaps no more than typical of those that exist around other large cities. Yet there should be no wonder why there is traffic congestion. For there are no more than six so-called adequate wide highways leading from the city to the country and some of these merge too soon into 18-foot pavements.

West of Chicago, on one narrow section of Ogden avenue, motor travel on any Sunday evening is comparable to the progress of a snail. From 30 to 50 minutes may be consumed in going three miles. A little town with one traffic light supplementing the 18-foot pavement makes this just about the choicest bit of traffic congestion in the country.

In contrast to this, the wider highways in Cook county, none of which is more than 40 feet in width, permit traffic to flow along smoothly and safely. Indeed, when travel is comparative, light, the casual observer may be led to believe that there is no real need for extra width. Yet roads must be designed for peak traffic loads which come in the evenings and mornings of those days when labor is freed.

Engineers Show Way Out Even the 40-foot roads in the Chicago area are on occasion filled to the point of uncomfortable travel. However, traffic engineers are of the opinion that with the widening of parallel routes, the construction of highways with two 40-foot parallel roadways and the establishment of elevated grade separations at congested intersections, complete relief may be obtained. Very little is being done in the Chicago area towards providing traffic relief. There are but two noteworthy projects: the Governor's highway, a 40-foot strip of concrete extending from Kankakee to Chicago, and the elevated grade separation at the intersection of two through highways, Dempster street and Milwaukee avenue.

Motorists of Chicago start out of the city on 40-foot highways at the permitted speed of 45 miles an hour—and drive into 18-foot roads that slow them down considerably, as the two photos show.

VARIED GET UPS AT DRESS SHOW

Children in Costume Contest at West Side Grounds Yesterday.

Twenty-five children competed for prizes in the Annual Costume Show held at the West Side playgrounds yesterday afternoon before an audience of about 200 men, women and children. The show is one of the series of summer activities at the playgrounds being run by the Recreation Centers.

Prizes were given yesterday for the most original costume, the most original costume, the prettiest girl's dress and most old-fashioned rig. It was with difficulty that the judges made their decisions, the competition was so keen. The judges were Miss Frances Tibbels, Mrs. Raymond Barrett and Thomas Stowe.

Little Barbara Stevenson of 150 West Center street wore a Hula-Hula yellow grass dress with anklet and bracelets to match. Barbara led the grand march and was awarded the beach parasol for having the most original costume. The fact that it was pretty and original influenced the judges in her favor over Elizabeth Adams as Ruby Doolittle whose mannerisms almost won her first prize.

Little Charlotte Montie, who won a prize at the doll show the previous week, came back and won another when her butterfly dress of yellow was judged the prettiest of all. Florence McNeal of 97 Pleasant street won the prize for when she appeared with her grandmother's long black dress with bonnet, veil glasses et al. Even her shoes were high and buckled and her stockings long and of cotton.

"Sonny" Phelon took the only prize of the day for boys when his hobo costume won him the funniest costume award. He was dressed in true hobo style to the extent of a hobo's "turkey" on a stick over his shoulder. He had a pipe in his mouth and his spitting brought many a laugh from the audience.

Others who competed were Einar Salomonson, Betty Montie, Mary Fish, Ruth Adams, Elsie Klein, Olive Metcalf, Donald Vennard, Everett Salomonson, Martha Tedford, Robert Lorch, Edward White, Buddie Maggart, Frank Lucy, Walter Tedford, Clarence Reid, Shirley Stevenson, Jean Marshall, Gordon McBride, Clifford Eagleton, Anna Tierney.

LITTLE BOY CUT WHEN TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

Billy Shea, 9, Only Person Hurt in Collision of Father's Car With Frank Cheney, Jr.'s.

Nine-years-old Billy Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Shea, of 85 Main street, was slightly injured in a collision of two automobiles on Main street at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Both cars were also slightly damaged. No arrest was made. The boy suffered a gash on his head.

Billy was riding in the front seat of a Ford sedan with his father and mother. They were driving on Main street when their car collided with a Buick Sedan operated by Frank Cheney, Jr. The latter was turning around and about to proceed south when struck by the north-bound car. Billy was stopped to allow another automobile to pass just as Shea attempted to drive past him in the rear. Patrolman Michael Fitzgerald investigated the accident.

NEW PHONE HOME FOR GLASTONBURY

Main Street Site Purchased, Complete Dial System to Be Installed.

Glastonbury, Aug. 15.—The George B. House property, fronting about 178 feet on Main street and having a depth of approximately 130 feet, has been purchased by the Southern New England Telephone company and announcement was made today that ground will be broken in September for a new telephone building on this site in which dial system equipment will be installed to serve every subscriber in the Glastonbury Exchange area. It is expected that the building, which will be similar in design to that finished recently in East Hartford, will be completed in April of next year and the dial equipment will be ready for operation in July, 1930.

Although the building plans have not been completed it is assured that the telephone company will erect a substantial structure, of pleasing architectural design, and adequate to care for the growing telephone needs of Glastonbury subscribers for some time to come.

An unusual feature of the company's plans for this conversion to dial service is found in the fact that the entire exchange area will be placed in the new dial system. Hitherto, so called rural and multi-party line subscribers in some dial served places, have remained on the manual basis. In connection with this advanced service to Glastonbury subscribers, it is also stated that all party line subscribers will be given a better form of service with not more than four persons on a line and the apparatus will be so arranged that a party line subscriber will hear but one number ring other than his own. This is called four-party semi-selective service and is in operation now in Hartford and Manchester.

A considerable amount of cable work will be done in connection with this planned conversion to dial

GARBER ANNIVERSARY PROVES POPULAR HERE

Garber Brothers are now celebrating their Sixth Anniversary with a furniture pageant and vaudeville event that has attracted wide-spread attention in Hartford and many surrounding towns. Many Manchester people have attended. The store has seen a wonderful growth in the past six years and has built up a splendid reputation. They have consistently followed their policy of no sales and in the ensuing years it has proven a very wise one.

One feature of the event has been the large number of young couples who have just been married or who are about to be married that have called during the Anniversary Pageant and selected entire home outfits.

equipment and the entire outside plant and central office equipment in the Glastonbury area will be generally improved and enlarged to meet fully all requirements for telephone service.

CHINESE REPORT CLASH ON BORDER

London, Aug. 15.—A Mukden dispatch to the London Times today declared that Soviet forces had crossed the Siberian border into Manchuria at three different points. This information came from Chinese sources.

Press cablegrams from Tokio reported that hostilities between Soviet and Chinese troops had broken out near Manchull, Manchuria.

This report probably refers to the clash of Tuesday when the Red forces are said to have sustained casualties.

The Mukden message said Soviet forces were reported to have occupied Liehienfengtze, on the Sungari river, while a second Red force with six field guns and six machine guns is said to have entered Manchurian territory near Manchull, and a third raided Nantun, driving out the inhabitants and burning houses.

ABOUT TOWN

William Urricchio, formerly associated with Miller's Barber Shop, has entered the same business.

Royal Webster of Webster, Mass., formerly with the Manchester Electric company was a visitor in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney French and children have returned to their home at 15 Scarborough Road after a vacation spent at Black Point, where they occupied the Holgate Hotel. Mrs. French's sister, Mrs. Edith Sawyer and daughter Gwendoline of Chicago were with them at the shore.

The first section of the new filtration system for the city of Rockville will be ready for use about September 1. The contract was awarded to the Manchester Construction company. For several years Fred Kuhn, formerly of Manchester, has been in charge of the filtration system in Rockville. Now that the enlarged system is about ready to be put into operation he is to go to Passaic, N. J., to study the operation of a similar plant. While he is in Passaic, Mrs. Kuhn will visit her mother on Maple street, Manchester.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Zion Lutheran church will go to Crystal Lake for an outing tomorrow. The bus leaves from Cooper street at 9:30 in the morning. About 30 are expected to go.

Herbert House and his father, C. E. House, left this morning by automobile for Quebec, Canada, where Herbert House is to meet his wife and children who have been in Europe during the summer.

Miss Mary Shukis of North Main street has secured a position with the Aetna Life Insurance company and starts tomorrow.

Mark Holmes, north end mortician, together with Mrs. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sankay are on a four-day automobile trip which will include Bear Mountain and visits in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

States' Obligation Doran said that there is no doubt about the binding legal force of the 18th Amendment of the states. Like the contention, there is no doubt as to the obligations of the states to exercise their appropriate sphere of action and police powers to properly discharge this obligation.

Five states have no codes for carrying on the principles of the 18th Amendment. He said that a great deal of Federal effort has been expended and to some extent dissipated, in times past in futile attempt to step in and discharge the duties of the states.

"I refer to the fact that such a course tended to clog the Federal courts with a large number of cases of purely local police interest, and made it extremely difficult to promptly try and dispose of cases of major importance, that fell distinctly in the Federal field, and whose successful prosecution would have had a more permanent and lasting effect on law enforcement," Doran continued.

"If we assume that there is no disposition to bring about a radical change in the make-up of the government, we must continually keep before us the necessary distinction between the Federal and state function.

"It is unfortunate that unsatisfactory conditions arising from violations of the liquor laws are almost invariably made the basis of complaint of non-action of the Federal government, and in much of the public discussion it seems to be assumed as a premise that the enforcement of the liquor laws is a problem solely up to the Federal government."

MRS. HOLLAND WINNER IN NET TOURNAMENT

Defeats Her Sister-in-Law in Hotly Contested Match in Three Sets.

Mrs. Mildred (Johnson) Holland, wife of Walter (Ty) Holland, town tennis champion, won her first round match in the 1929 women's town tennis championship tournament this morning when she defeated her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Wilkinson, in three sets.

The match was stubbornly contested lasting a little over two hours, which is about twice the length of an ordinary match. The players contested every point and both were at the point of sheer exhaustion when Mrs. Holland finally won out 4-6, 6-0, 10-8.

An interesting incident in connection with the match was that one player wanted to use white balls and the other red, with the result that they alternated at the end of every game, each serving with balls of her own choice.

The winner plays Eleanor Heubner, 14-year-old North End girl who sprung the biggest upset of the tournament an hour earlier this morning when she eliminated Miss Viola Lalonde, associate director of the Recreation Centers, one of the four seeded players, 6-4, 8-6.

Theaters

"Gentlemen of the Press"

Take a story dripping with human interest in an atmosphere that everyone likes to hear about, give it a cast of fine, trouping, magnetic actors and a production that puts into it every possible value and you get a picture like "Gentlemen of the Press", Paramount's latest all-talking drama of newspaper life which the State theater will feature Friday and Saturday.

On the stage "Gentlemen of the Press" was the sensation of New York and the story has been faithfully reproduced for the screen. A master cast, headed by the incomparable stage artist, Walter Huston, includes six members of the original stage cast.

The story deals with a veteran newspaperman who has given up everything in life for his business. When his daughter is born, he was given a prize-fight; when his wife died, he was on assignment covering a Mexican uprising; when his daughter graduated from high school he was writing about Lindbergh. This only thing he has not given up is his fatal susceptibility for a pretty woman.

It is this character that Walter Huston portrays on the talking screen in "Gentlemen of the Press." It is this thrilling story that will entertain and delight patrons of the State theater.

On the same program Stan Laurel and Olive Hardy are returning to the State Theater by popular request, in their first all-talking comedy screen, "Unaccustomed As We Are."

NOON STOCKS

New York, Aug. 15.—Most sections of the Stock Market were held down in the early trading today by another flood of profit-ticks, which blocked the advance of all stocks that have been bursting through the roof since the turn of the month.

American Can, the first National Bank pet, was able to go through to 37 1/2% for a gain of about 4 1/2 points and a new high record price at the start, and General Electric boomed along 2 1/2% to 294 1/2 before meeting with much opposition.

High priced industrials and specialties exhibited uncertainty as buying orders thinned out, particularly in all circles outside of the professional ring. The "tired feeling" which usually follows a spectacular uprush of prices was reported from the floor of the exchange as speculators were not rushing in to buy stocks as they have been doing since last Friday's break. Call money renewed at 7 per cent, and Wall street wavered that before the end of the month the call loan rate would be below the 6 per cent Reserve Bank discount rate.

American Can's new climb was the only feature of the industrial stock list. Aviation Corporation, introduced to the big board trading to gain a point. Rail stocks made a good showing under the lead of New York Central, which advanced about 3 points. No further progress could be made in the Oils, though Standard of New Jersey was in good demand at 63, only fractionally below the peak. General Motors and Chrysler sold fractionally higher and most of the utility stocks retained their opening gains.

San Marino, a tiny country on the eastern slope of the Apennines, about 40 miles southeast of Ravenna, Italy, is regarded as the oldest republic in the world.

TEMPERANCE HEAD AS FAKE DOCTOR

health department and to Bishop William T. Manning, head of the New York Diocese of the Episcopal Church.

Is Now in Reno Dr. Empringham is now in Reno, Nev., where he has filed suit for divorce. He was national superintendent of the defunct Health Society, an offshoot of the Temperance Society.

Authorities said they were interested to know if patients were led to believe the divine was a medical doctor when they disrobed for examination.

One young unmarried woman was quoted as saying Dr. Empringham assured her this procedure was customary and proper and necessary for diagnosis.

Dr. Empringham was recently involved in a suit in which the court held he had plagiarized in a medical book he published.

The defense was that Dr. W. L. Cocks, a licensed practitioner who had always been in the office with Dr. Empringham during the examinations.

Dr. Louis I. Harris, health commissioner at the time of the suit, said today he believed the clergyman should be dealt with "severely."

It was further charged in the case against Empringham, that he operated an X-ray machine on the bodies of men and women patients who had been solicited by the Health Educational Society advertisement offering examinations and advice for a $2 fee.

Dr. Cocks himself had complained his duties and the Health Department investigators charged Cocks was frequently in distant parts of the building while Empringham examined clients.

Fatherly Advice Dr. Empringham said he gave fatherly advice and warned against the use of tobacco, liquor and late hour as health detriments.

It was reported that Bishop Manning is reluctant to take any immediate notice of the charges because of a possible unpleasant publicity.

"What the Episcopal church wants to do with Empringham as a minister is its own affair," said Dr. S. Dana Hubbard, chief of the Bureau of the Health Department.

"We don't intend to have him posing as a doctor of medicine or to permit him or any other unlicensed person the professional privileges of doctors to examine men and women disrobed."

"After great difficulty we have closed Dr. Empringham's clinic and we have been assured by the Church Temperance Society that it will stay closed," he said.

SOLDIER KILLS SELF

Willimantic, Aug. 15.—The future seemed bleak to Charles Edwin Clark, 21, a private in the Army and attached to the Thirteenth Infantry band stationed at Fort Adams, Rhode Island, and early today the boy sat on the doorstep of the home of his uncle, Edwin G. Clark, in Mansfield and drove a rifle bullet straight through his heart.

Mr. Clark was roused by the frantic barking of a dog, went down stairs to investigate and found his nephew dead on the walk. The boy was born in Norwich. His parents died some time ago and his only relatives were uncles and aunts. He was on a furlough from his army job.

COUNTERFEIT RING IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Aug. 15.—United States Secret Service agents together with local police today were making plans for a combined movement against a counterfeit ring which has distributed spurious money throughout New England. The fake currency was in $5, $10 and $20 denominations, according to Chief Harry L. Barker, of the New England Bureau of the Secret Service.

The bills of small denomination were on the New York Federal Reserve bank, while the $20 bills were forged by the Boston Federal Reserve notes.

Chief Barker said that the spurious "twenties" have the sale backwards, and the serial numbers were much smaller letters than the real money.

The coloring on the bills drawn upon the New York Federal Reserve bank was very poor, it was said.

Officials were hopeful of not only capturing the agents distributed the counterfeit money, but also of locating the plant, and seizing the plates used in the manufacture.

FRENCH PREMIER A FAILURE AT 35

Briand Always Comes Back When France Faces Crisis—His Long Record.

Paris.—M. Aristide Briand, the new premier of France is the most picturesque figure among world statesmen today.

He Outdoes the Cat. Nine times his government has shoe and place it atop the table to bring him luck.

Suddenly he came to life, and in less than ten years attained the goal of every statesman—the head of the government.

Made Soldiers of Strikers. With one bold stroke, in 1910, he settled a national railway strike by issuing a mobilization order calling the strikers to arms.

Whether the occasion is an ordinary national crisis, or whether it is a matter of international significance, the French people seem to turn to Briand as a matter of course.

Indolent in manner, he moves slowly and calmly. His long, curly hair falls over his collar.

Briand's personal tastes are exceedingly simple. When he is not in the Chamber of Deputies or in his small apartment, he is on his farm in Normandy.

Briand loves the contemporary—the latest novel and today's newspapers. Having reached 67 years, he finds the relaxation of fishing.

He is the happiest on his little farm, wearing wooden shoes, with his corn breeches, a straw in his mouth and his half falling down over his eyes.

Sunday clothes, which he despises, He wanders about so ill-dressed that he is sometimes mistaken by the gendarmes for a tramp.

Like President Doumergue Briand has never married. Of Raymond Poincare and Briand, Clemenceau once said: "Poincare knows everything and understands nothing. Briand knows nothing and understands everything."

Briand's Long Record. Briand resigned his first premiership Nov. 2, 1910. Twenty-four hours later he was again premier.

In 1915 and again in 1916 he rose to power only to fall. His seventh ministry was formed in 1921, and it was during this regime he attended the Washington conference in the United States.

His recent accession to the premiership, succeeding Poincare, is the tenth time he has been in power.

WRONG START

When the Connecticut Company was granted permission to abandon the Crosstown and Manchester Green trolley lines and substitute busses for full-sized electric cars there was a rightful presumption that the change would operate without detriment to the convenience, safety and well being of the public. It would be a misstatement to assert that it is so operating. The company is not providing as adequate a service with its busses as it provided even with the antiquated and uncomfortable trolley cars it used on its local Manchester lines. It has started wrong and has, so far, given no evidence of intending to continue right.

When busses bearing signs that indicate their maximum capacity to be twenty-nine passengers are permitted to be crowded to the extent of having forty or forty-five passengers packed into them, that is not adequate service. When such a situation is not sporadic but regular, when it is a fixed condition that passengers compelled to take a bus at a certain point every day never, in the course of a month, can find a seat, then the service is inexcusably bad.

There should be no standing at all permitted in the type of bus used by the Connecticut Company in Manchester. Such vehicles, unlike the longitudinal-seated trolley cars, cannot accommodate standees in comparative safety. The whole system of bus transport is predicated on seats for passengers. When a transportation company attempts to make a fixed institution of the strap hanger in automobiles it is time that an issue should be drawn and its right to do any such thing tested.

Certainly the charter right of the Connecticut Company to monopolize the bus business of Manchester, if it really possesses any at all, depends on the proper exercise thereof. It is not properly exercising the rush hours at the present time. It will have to give better service or there surely will be something doing.

DISCRIMINATION

The longer we have prohibition and the more voluminous become the recorded circumstances associated with it the more mixed up the situation becomes. One of the puzzles in connection with the subject of cider and home made wine.

The much applauded order recently issued by Prohibition Commissioner Doran to his subordinates, warning them against illegal search and seizure in homes, contained these words:

"This order has been issued because the grape and cider season is approaching and the department wishes its agents to thoroughly understand that their legal rights are limited. The prohibition act authorizes the manufacture of non-intoxicating cider and fruit juices in the home under certain conditions, and I have instructed our agents not to interfere with such production except upon satisfactory evidence of unlawful sale."

Now the point of this is that the word "intoxicating" as it is employed in Dr. Doran's statement has an entirely different meaning from that given to it by the Volstead act with relation to all other liquids, including beer. One-half of one per cent is the legal limit of alcoholic content of the other beverages; if it runs to two per cent the drink becomes an intoxicant. But the Prohibition Bureau long ago decided that the Volstead act, whenever cider and home made wine were concerned, meant something different from a half of one per cent limitation—that the cider or wine must be "intoxicating in fact" in order to be illegal.

That may be fairly assumed to mean that, until somebody has become drunk from drinking of the contents of a barrel of cider or wine, that particular barrelful must be regarded as non-intoxicating. Which in turn may mean, it is to be assumed, that in the cellar of a circumspet person cider may be considered a non-intoxicant even after it has reached the "stone-ferment" phase with a kick like two teams of white mules, or wine be legal with a twenty per cent content though beer at 2 per cent may send its vendor to prison under the five-and-ten law.

This curious quality of the prohibition laws—for the Bureau's interpretation of "intoxicating" in the case of cider and wine has all the force of law—is of course to be accounted for. Prohibition, as every one knows, obtained its vote backing in the rural districts. It would never in the world have gotten them if it had not been thoroughly understood that the farmer's cider and the farmer's wife's elderberry wine and blackberry brandy were not to be exempted. Hence the very tender handling of these liquids in sharp contrast to the manner of dealing with the city drinker's beer.

We doubt very much whether the discrimination in favor of cider and home made wine would provide any sufficient ground for attacking the validity of the prohibitory laws. But we do suspect that such discrimination itself would wither under vigorous legal assault. Congress has defined an intoxicant as any liquid containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol. The Eighteenth amendment forbids the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. We have never been able to get it through our heads how the Prohibition Bureau could vividly amend the definition in favor of any selected group of beverages.

BRIGHT MAN

Two days ago nobody outside of New York had ever heard of Borough President Harvey of Queens. Now he is a commanding figure just because he was bright enough to pass the buck on the derelict automobile problem to the proper destination. In writing to Henry Ford, demanding that the chief producer of motor vehicles pay some attention to the problem of disposing of that pestilential consequence of his activities the littered automobile car, Mr. Harvey of course addresses himself to the whole automotive industry. That there is a certain ironic justice in his contention that the manufacturers ought to do something to help rid the country of the nuisance almost everybody will agree. At least, such people as Ford, who are used to handling over-sized problems, should be willing to contribute a suggestion or two.

Perhaps if the automobile industry as a unit would provide the necessary motive power in the form of tractors, it could be arranged to have all the dead and unburied cars towed to the ocean front at two certain points, one on the Atlantic and the other on the Pacific, and systematically dumped. Pretty soon we could have the foundations of a causeway to Ireland or France on one side and one to Hawaii on the other. Then let the government and the manufacturers finish off a fine road on top of the causeway—and see all the additional busses they could sell to excursion companies.

At the present rate at which the country surrounding every big city is filling up with old cars, we should guess it might take a few months to build both the causeways. Then we could start in some-where else.

Anyhow, it will be interesting to note what Mr. Ford comes forward with, if anything.

USEFUL BOSSY

There are a good many persons who, animated by the most admirable motives, not only believe but assert that something should be done about Bossy Gillis—that the hard boiled mayor of Newburyport ought, somehow or other, to be restrained from going about the country making speeches in which he sets at defiance all proper ideas of citizenship and brags of having broken "crooked" laws—which laws every decent person knows are perfectly good, perfectly fair and absolutely necessary.

We don't agree at all with these folks who would suppress Bossy. In the first place we don't believe in suppressing anybody or anything unless the circumstances are desperate. And in the second place we believe it is a pretty good idea to have somebody like Bossy come to every town every once in a while and ventilate his lawless opinions. Because such occasions provide the easiest possible way of getting a line on the wrong thinkers and bad actors in your own community. Just put a few plain clothes cops in the audience and let them, for their own information, list the people who cheer and stamp their feet over the Bossygillisms, and you will have a neat and workable census of all the folks in your town that need close watching by the cops.

BETTING THEIR LIVES

At this writing the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin is making her way into a zone of adventure out of which she may or may not emerge. Her owners are betting their investment against possible future profit that she will go through. The commander is betting his against a lasting fame. The crew are betting theirs against a continued chance to earn better wages than they could get elsewhere. The passengers are betting theirs against a possible opportunity to talk about it all for years afterward.

The big dirigible would appear to have a fair chance of surviving the hazards of a long journey over vast expanse of forest and mountain terrain concerning the topography of which, and the air currents over which, nobody on board knows much if anything. She also has a fair chance of meeting with disaster.

At all events, nobody on board of her is there by compulsion. They are all facing the very serious hazard of the undertaking with eyes more or less open. If they come through they will get what they gambled for. If they lose the world will say "too bad" and go about its business. There is no reason for its doing anything else.

Going Places AND Seeing Things

Amarillo, Texas.—This is a land so very new that they talk of transition in the present tense; and so old that they talk of the night and cowpuncher shot holes in a saloon mirror.

What's new about it is so new that it glitters without the aid of shellac, and what's old about it is the picturesque flavor of the cow country stories.

What's new about it can be mentioned in terms of the last dozen years and what's old about it is relatively young, as time goes.

Here you'll see gent in 10-gallon hats walking into modernistic skyscrapers which seem to have been magically transplanted from 49th street and Madison avenue. Placed in striking relief against the infinity of plains which lie all about, these buildings make you rub your eyes as you embark sleepily from the train at something like 5 o'clock in the morning. I had the uncomfortable feeling that the heat of the ride probably had been getting me.

A few hours later, sitting around the lunch table with some of the home boys, your head will soon ring with statistics of all that is "bigger and better."

There's a grand old ring about news to the effect that railroad lines are actually fighting for supremacy and battling for choice rights of way. Whereas, in many parts of the land, tracks are being torn up, in this seemingly obscure part of the map there is more new rail construction under way than in any part of the nation.

It seems the baronial old cattle ranges have just passed. And there's an undercurrent of excitement about this transitional period which seeps into the air and grows infectious. Immediately one becomes ex-patry to a good old-fashioned boom.

Of course, there was the oil strike. Everyone heard of that.

Now it's a solid certainty with pipe lines running into the centers of population, and one planned all the way to Chicago. There was also some refining—some cotton and a background of vast cattle ranges. Something hit the cattle country a half dozen years ago and sent scores of the old-timers into financial stampede.

They began to split up the thousands of acres and plant it. And now, for miles, wheat undulates gracefully in the prairie breeze. So fast has come the change that the railroads couldn't keep up with it. They're building spurs here and there and one or two are trying to get new means of entrance.

The town is full of the spirit of hurrah and whoopee!

Hence the array of tall hotels and office buildings. Hence the swanky looking autos in the street.

Hence the millionaires, who walk with that bow-legged gait which marks the old horse-riding cattleman. Hence the combination of 10-gallon hats and stirrles as nifty as one is likely to meet on Fifth Avenue.

To be sure, some of the gray-haired and conventional looking gent are connected, in whispered conversation, with "that little shooting" which took place not so many years ago.

They'll tell you, for instance, that until fairly recently the town had a swell joke on itself. It raised some of the best chickens fed in the land but didn't have fresh eggs. It would send its feed on to Petaluma, Calif., (the world's egg basket) and get eggs back in return.

And while it had cattle roaming everywhere on the plains it had no milk. Its cattle were beef cattle.

But that was before the past few years—now you can get fresh eggs and milk. The frontier has given way to the wheat field, the chick incubator and the elevator boy.

SUNBATHING SUITS FOR CHILDREN

Due to the researches of science and the friendly publicity given by the newspapers and magazines, people have come to realize the benefits of sunshine and we, as a nation, are fortunately emerging from the "sun starved" era.

It is realized that the lack of sunshine may prevent a normal bone development in children. Rickets is a disease of winter months, dark houses, and lightproof, bundle-some clothes.

Since the sun-tanned vogus has swept from the face powder to bare legs, it is to be expected that the modern bathing suits would develop into the "sun-tanned back" form. This is especially desirable for babies and young children. The modern sun-suit consists of a brief and shorts held up over the front by porous material or a set of straps to admit the sunlight to the child's chest and back. The spine is almost entirely exposed. These can be used as play suits as well as bathing suits. The cut should be well fitted so that no chaffing is experienced.

The valuable ultra-violet rays of the sunshine which are so essential for them are not warm nor can they be seen because they are higher in the spectrum than can be observed by our eyes. The ultra-violet rays are obstructed by clouds, dust, fog, smoke, window glass and by clothing, and for these reasons direct exposure of the skin to the sunlight is most valuable.

The exposure to the sunlight should be very gradual and of short duration at first until the skin becomes darkened. No burning should be permitted, as this is injurious to the skin, and should be avoided just as any other burn would be.

It is generally recognized that direct sunlight is superior to cod-liver oil or other foods in treating rickets. The aim should be to tan the skin, but not to burn it. The head should be protected, especially on hot days.

Hypocrates of ancient Greece recognized the value of the sun in treating disease, but this knowledge was lost during the dark ages of Europe, and rickets was common. It is not unusual to observe rickets in practically every picture painted by the old masters. The models of babies used by such masters of painting as Raphael and De Vinci show the unmistakable square head and rib formation of rickets.

At first bath should be exposed only for about ten minutes, but this sunbath can be increased to three to five minutes daily until an exposure of an hour to the sunlight morning and evening will not be excessive.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Shortness of Breath.
 Question: Mrs. H. W. J. writes—"I suffer from shortness of breath and have for ten years. Our family doctor says it is caused from nervous indigestion. Have taken loads of medicine, but still suffer. It causes me to yawn and gives me a tired, weak feeling. Have pains around my heart and gas on my stomach."
 Answer: Get rid of the gas pressure by living on the proper diet, and then take diaphragmatic breathing exercises. Any physical culture instruction will be able to show you these exercises, or I will be glad to send you some articles I have written on this subject.

(Ginseng Root.)
 Question: P. K. writes—"Will you please tell me something about the medicinal value of the ginseng root? I have heard that the Chinese value it highly, and was informed that by taking the tea for about 18 months my hearing could be made normal. I am a little hard of hearing."
 Answer: Ginseng is the root of an herb known as the panax ginseng in Asia, but a similar plant is produced in North America known as the panax quinquefolia, which has a mucilaginous substance supposed to be slightly healing when applied to abrasions. It is also supposed to be somewhat of a stimulant to the nerve and sexual centers, but I doubt very much if it has any value for the restoration of hearing.

(Orange Juice.)
 Question: Mrs. F. D. writes—"Is there any danger of the orange juice to be used in your Cleansing Diet Course causing any discomfort to the bladder or kidneys on account of the acid?"
 Answer: The citric acid of the orange juice does not burn up internally. However, during the fast, elimination takes place so rapidly that this causes temporary irritation of the bladder until the toxins have been completely eliminated.

WASHINGTON LETTER
 BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 15.—After September 15 it will be all right with the government if we eat blue lamb chops, blue oysters, blue grapefruit, blue candy or blue anything.

Blue will then be officially added to the list of food dye colors certified by the Department of Agriculture through its Food, Drug and Insecticide Administration.

The color will be known as Brilliant Blue FCF and was thoroughly tested before being pronounced harmless to health and otherwise suitable.

It will be used mostly in candy unless someone seeks to produce a few bizarre effects in other foods. The product is derived from coal tar. Heretofore candy manufacturers have sometimes used indigo, which has been approved, but indigo has had a tendency to fade.

Keith's theater here, where Woodrow Wilson used to go regularly for his vaudeville, apparently is going to turn into an old landmark, of which Washington has so many. It has been dark for more than a year now and although the management has hoped either to open it again or rent it neither hope has been realized.

Until it closed Keith's was the capital's most fashionable show house. Cabinet members and other officials patronized it much more frequently than any of the other better theaters here. It gained national celebrity through President Wilson's familiar presence in the presidential box.

Keith's succumbed to the disease which has ravaged vaudeville generally. It suspended soon after an enormous movie house opened nearby to offer presentations, almost the equivalent of vaudeville, along with motion pictures. The talkies appear to have given another blow to any hopes of reopening.

No other Washington theater has taken its place as the principal local amusement center and President Hoover has his own talks at the White House twice a week.

Perhaps the boys and girls elsewhere will be interested to learn that the boys and girls in Washington have seen Mrs. Lindbergh and agree that she is not only dainty and petite, but also a very pretty girl.

It seems that the former Anne Morrow takes a very poor picture—ordinary, whereas she really doesn't look like that at all. Observation reveals that she has lovely blue eyes, dark, well-shaped eyebrows, handsome teeth and an irresistible smile. And she made a hit with the boys and girls who counted themselves lucky to get a good look.

As a conscientious reporter, one probably also ought to report that Mrs. Lindbergh, when she stepped out of her husband's plane, wore an Alice blue ensemble, with coat and hat of some woolen material.

This possibly is old stuff, but your correspondent has noticed it for the first time:

At one of the main entrances to the Department of the Interior there hung a large oil painting of former Secretary Albert B. Fall, who was accused of bartending away the naval oil reserves for personal gain. This painting hung alongside those of various other former secretaries, but it was placed so conspicuously that it gazed into the faces of all persons leaving the elevators. Naturally, this aroused some comment.

But now a huge map of the United States hangs where the Fall picture hung before. And Mr. Fall has been moved down the hall. One has to turn off into the corridor to see him.

35 WOMEN PILOTS TO ENTER IN FIRST RACE FOR FAIR SEX

Men to Be Barred from 2,200 Mile Derby; Cross-Country Dash Starts in California on August 18.

Los Angeles, Calif.—The greatest sporting event for women ever held anywhere will get under way at the Santa Monica airport here on Aug. 18, when 35 women pilots take off in a 2,200-mile aerial race to Cleveland.

This transcontinental air derby for women, the first of its kind ever staged, will be an eight-day affair, and will bring the women pilots into Cleveland on the second day of the National Air Races there.

Its course will take the women over 10 states and through 18 cities.

Starting at Santa Monica's Clover Field, the race will follow a southern route through New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. There will be 18 stopping points, and cash prizes, totaling between $6,000 and $10,000 are offered for the winners. In addition, the first woman pilot to reach the Cleveland airport will receive a trophy, the "Symbol of Flight."

Some of the most famous women flyers in the world will be among the contestants.

Lady Mary Heath, whose aviation feats amazed all of England, will be one of the racers. So will Amelia Earhart, only woman to cross the Atlantic by plane; Ruth Elder, who nearly beat Miss Earhart to it, but was balked by motor trouble in mid-Atlantic and rescued by a cargo steamer; Miss Marvel Crosson, who holds the women's altitude record; Miss Bobby Trout, who held the altitude record until Miss Crosson broke it—and many others of only slightly less prominence.

Sponsored by Exchange Club. This race, incidentally, is being sponsored by the Santa Monica Bay District Exchange Club, under the auspices of the National Exchange Club and the National Aeronautic Association; and the 18 control stops designated for the race are being planned, as far as possible, to fall in cities where there are Exchange Clubs, which can thus partake in the race themselves. Every plane in the race will bear the Exchange Club emblem.

An ingenious method of financing the race has been adopted by the Santa Monica club. Parking space for automobiles at Clover Field is being sold at one dollar per car to spectators desirous of

Women Flyers Await Big Cross-Country Race

More than 25 feminine pilots are expected to hop off from Los Angeles Aug. 18 in a race for women flyers, terminating at Cleveland, O., where the National Air Races will then be in progress. Seven of the best known women pilots now preparing for the race are pictured here: 1, Bobbie Trout; 2, Marvel Crosson; 3, Mrs. Louise Thaden; 4, Amelia Earhart; 5, Mrs. Florence Barnes; 6, Lady Mary Heath; 7, Ruth Elder. En route stops will be made at Yuma and Phoenix, Ariz., El Paso, Abilene and Fort Worth, Tex., Wichita, Kas., St. Louis and Columbus.

seeing the start of the race, and accommodations for more than 2,000 cars have been arranged. It is expected that at least 100,000 spectators will see the race begin.

This race will be a real test of the skill and airmanship of the women pilots.

The crossing of the mountains in the southwest does not offer as many hazards as the more northerly routes, but it is no job for a novice. Under almost any conditions, 2,200 miles of cross-country flying can be considered a fairly stiff job for any but a professional aviator.

They'll Take No Men

When the race was first proposed, the officials considered making a rule that each woman pilot be accompanied by a male mechanic, to take care of forced landings and the hazards of the trip over mountain ranges and desert wastes. The women, however, objected vociferously, and through Amelia Earhart, their spokesman, talked the officials out of it.

The rules now stand that the crew of each plane shall consist of a woman alone, or a woman pilot and not more than one woman mechanic or passenger. The woman riding as mechanic or passenger must be one who has never made a solo flight, and the use of dual controls will not be permitted.

Each of the woman contestants holds a Department of Commerce license and each has had at least 100 hours of flying experience, including 50 hours of cross-country flying.

According to present plans, the derby will be flown through the following cities: Santa Monica, Calif.; San Bernardino, Calif.; Yuma, Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.; Lordsburg, N. M.; El Paso, Pecos, Abilene and Fort Worth or Dallas, Tex.; Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla.; Wichita, Kas.; Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo.; Terre Haute and Indianapolis, Ind., and Columbus and Cleveland, O.

Twenty-five years ago Henry Ford was getting $416 every two weeks as this payroll shows, which is nothing compared with the money the billionaire gets now. The payroll is taken from the company's records when Ford was struggling in new business in 1904. The total payroll of his company at that time ran only $1,654.15 every two weeks, yet he had a hard time meeting it. On the payroll are the names of James Couzens, wealthy U. S. senator, and Harold Willis, who resigned from a $2,000,000 a year position later.

MILLER'S ORCHESTRA AT RAU'S, CRYSTAL LAKE

Charlie Miller and his orchestra will be on hand again at Rau's Crystal Lake, Saturday night. Miller's team was here a few weeks ago for their initial engagement at Rau's practically an unknown band in this territory. They did not go back that way to Holyoke. The impression that their re-engagement was necessary in order to satisfy the public. Charlie Miller is to be congratulated upon having such an excellent organization. The fact that the whole personnel of the team is so young and their music so superb that you are amazed at their rendition of dance numbers. Of any band appearing this season the requests from dance lovers for Miller's return was so unanimous Connie Rau engaged them immediately for this date. They came, played and pleased, there is no doubt about that, and that they will duplicate their performance this Saturday night is certain. Truly a wonderful team and a stellar attraction Miller's appearance will bring out a far larger crowd of dancers than they did the last time.

If a Husky had the Speed of a Greyhound

THE modern, high-compression, high-speed motor demands an oil that will stand up under the excessive heat generated and will function as near perfectly as is humanly possible under the conditions prevalent in today's motors. The problem has been to secure in one oil the best qualities of the finest paraffine and naphthene crude oils. In our laboratories we have perfected a blend of lubricating oil made from two crude oils. It has advantages only to be found in a two-base oil. If you regard your motor with the affection you have for a favorite dog (as some of us do) you should at least try

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

WATCH OUT FOR THIS.

Having an accident in an automobile salesroom may seem like an improbability but a change in the location of the starter button makes this a likelihood this year.

Majority of drivers who sit at the wheel of a show car try the gears. Now suppose such a driver fiddling with the controls on the instrument panel while the car was in low gear, and accidentally operated the starter motor. The car would lurch forward or backwards depending upon the setting of the gear shift, and it requires little imagination to picture the car wedging someone against another car or a post.

More cars are placing the starter button on the instrument board. Watch your starter!

REALLY CURES SHIMMY.

It has been demonstrated that shimmy can be cured in a car where it has become chronic simply by making the front springs tilt upward at the front. Two blocks of wood and a little labor are the only ingredients needed.

The blocks should be wedged inserted between the axle and the former. The thickest portion of these wedges should be heading forward.

The effect of this is to make the springs tilt upward, thus increasing what is known as the "caster" effect.

All cars are designed for a certain amount of castor but where shimmy develops this effect should be increased. Somewhat the same results can be had by attaching the spring controls—if they are of the strap type—farther toward the front.

EASIER TO BREAK IT IN.

One way to avoid being forgetful, and to keep the speed of the new car under twenty-five miles an hour for the first 500 miles at least, is to block the accelerator so that it cannot open the throttle for any higher speed.

In order to provide for emergency where speed or power is needed use the hand control. This type of control, however, is just tiresome enough to prevent the average driver from using it to break his rule about driving moderately.

In many cars a simple adjustment will render the accelerator ineffective about a certain point. Lacking such convenience the next best plan is to attach a block of rubber under the pedal.

Make the setting so that the accelerator will open the throttle enough for 25 miles an hour on level ground.

HE'S NOT ALWAYS WRONG.

Now and again a car owner can sit back and smile at the "advice" that's given him. He is accused of all varieties of carelessness, but sometimes he simulates the common sense without intending to.

Take the water hose connections, for example. Most owners make an occasional inspection for the upper hose but regularly overlook the lower connection. This has been cited as one of the outstanding mistakes in car ownership. But is it?

Isn't it a fact that steam rises to the top of a cooling system and that much of the rotting of the upper water hose connection is due to the damaging action of this steam and superheated water? Isn't it true that the lower hose stands a lesser strain and needs less attention?

PROVES A BATTERY "SHORT".
Internal short circuits cause a sudden failure of a storage battery but not every sudden failure of a battery is the result of a short circuit.

How can a motorist tell if short circuiting has been the cause? This is the natural question that immediately comes to mind.

The story is told in the process of recharging the battery. After the cells have been on charge for twelve hours or so the trick is to feel the battery posts to note whether they are warm or cold. If you find one that's warm the indications are that there is a short in the particular cell.

A battery that is not internally damaged, by a short will charge without the posts getting warm.

ALL RIGHT IN PRACTICE.

Preloading the springs, usually considered bad practice, has its advantages which should not be lost sight of.

Some of the spring control devices are adjusted so that they exert a pull sufficient to have the effect of adding a passenger to the car before there is anyone aboard. It is this very preloading, however, that often helps to keep an old car running more smoothly.

When the drive line, universal joints, transmission, pinion and other parts become worn in cars which are of the Hotchkiss drive type too much flexibility of the springs causes chattering and mechanical instability. Holding the axle fast with spring controls of the preloading type helps to steady these worn parts.

All of which proves that sometimes a thing can be wrong in theory but right in practice.

People who have no theories whatever about raising children usually are the parents of several.

OLDEST TIRE DEALER.

John Roth of Erie, Pa., claims to be the oldest tire dealer in the country. He has been selling tires since 1892, when he first put in a stock of bicycle tires.

LOTS OF SERVICE.

Iowa Falls, Ia., claims to give motorists better service than any other town of its size. On Oak street, nine service stations are found within four blocks.

FIRST PAVED ROAD.

The first paved road in the United States is said to have been one between New York and Boston, laid in 1650. It was made of cobblestones.

CARS NOW SAFER.

The motor car of today is four times as safe as the car of ten years ago, according to the A. R. Erskine Bureau of Street Traffic Research of Harvard University.

HUGE CAR JUNKYARD REMOVES ACCIDENTS FROM CITY STREETS

St. Louis, Aug. 15.—With one huge automobile "graveyard," the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association is removing 12,000 potential accidents in the form of unfit automobiles from the road every year and making money from a resulting junk business.

Through a central organization, the autos are purchased from dealers who have taken in depreciated cars as part payment on new ones, and through a systematic junking and scrapping stockholders are realizing a tidy profit.

Many of these cars are towed into the junk yard. Some are more than ten years old. All are dangerous to drive, and for this reason the St. Louis Safety Council looks on this organization as a means of preventing accidents.

The first step in junking the cars is to remove the tires, batteries and lamps. These are sorted for resale, if their condition warrants such.

The body then is removed from the chassis, the chassis disassembled if its condition does not warrant resale, and the trimming and other fixtures removed.

Parts of the body, if in good condition, are sorted carefully and set up for resale. Axles, good fenders, rear end assemblies, generators and miscellaneous parts of the motor and body can be bought here for nearly any type of car, providing it is an old model.

Parts of the body that are unfit for the market are cut into pieces and sold as old metal.

Everything coming out of the car in the disassembly is carefully saved for utilization in some form. The hair and cotton in the seats are stored away. The leather is ground into a powder which is used as a fertilizer. The only thing not used are the seat springs, which are too light and unhandy to be packed and sold. These are junked.

CAR BARGAINS.

Thirty-nine automobiles sold at the annual sale of confiscated police cars at Washington, D. C., recently, brought $251,500. Two cars, selling as one lot, brought $1. The highest price paid for any one car was $55.

WHAT A CROWD.

Along with the fact that California already has the largest motor vehicle registration, it is reported that licensed automobile operators in that state are increasing at the rate of 27,000 every month.

Silver dollars are the unusual material used for tiling the floor of a bar in Havana.

Workingman's Prosperity Due To Auto, Says Report

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—That 35 times as many medium-priced cars were produced in 1926 as were produced in 1907. A table prepared by Dr. Ralph C. Epstein of the University of Buffalo, for the president's committee, shows that in 1907 a total of 13,285 low-priced cars, 14,427 medium-priced and 3,872 high-priced cars were produced. At the end of 20 years this had changed to 3,271,015 low-priced cars, 508,023 medium-priced cars and 77,965 high-priced cars.

A special survey was taken by the committee to determine the classes of people buying automobiles. This survey shows that laborers and artisans, purchasing more than 23 per cent of the cars sold in a certain district, bought the largest percentage, salesmen and clerks bought 20 per cent and were second in order, bankers, manufacturers, brokers and merchants were third with 18 per cent, and farmers, with a little more than three per cent, were last on the list.

Leads in Investments

To give some idea of the amount of public investment in automotive vehicles as against paved roads and other related industries, Professor William James Cunningham of Harvard University reports that more money is invested in the former, more people are employed and it is more prosperous despite the fact it is a much younger industry than the latter.

With the increase of their popularity and reduction in prices, automobiles are offering increasing competition to railroads.

"The steady decline in railway passenger traffic since 1920 is evidence that the competition of motor vehicles is severe," Cunningham states. "The railway loss has not been in the long-distance passengers. Nor is the railway loss in suburban traffic. The railway loss is confined almost entirely to the traffic on local

TIRE RECORD IN MAY.

By producing 8,153,368 tire casings in May, tire manufacturers in the United States set an all-time month production record. The previous record was 7,883,805, set in April, 1928.

WHERE'LL WE PUT 'EM?

A few years hence 50,000,000 motor cars will be travelling the roads of the United States in contrast to the 25,000,000 now in use, according to the Albert R. Erskine Bureau of Street Traffic Research of Harvard University.

The total strength of the London police, including all ranks, is 19,180.

How's She Hitting?

By ISRAEL KLEIN

When dusk comes and the sun's hot rays no longer scorch our backs, we get into our cars and seem to feel the motor pulling more easily, running smoother and quieter and generally showing more pep than it did during the day.

On a day when the fog is heavy, or a steady rain comes down, we seem to feel the same rise of even, noiseless action on the part of the motor. And we attribute this to the weather. It is an obvious and sane conclusion.

But we are being deceived. The rainy weather is not so good to our cars as we might believe. Tests by engineers have proved it.

What happens is this: When fog or moist atmosphere surrounds the motor, there is really a decrease of about seven per cent in power rather than a rise in pep, as we have been led to believe. This is because the water vapor of the atmosphere, entering with the air through the carburetor, mixes with the gasoline and so dilutes it enough to weaken its effect. More gasoline, therefore, has to be fed into the engine to maintain the efficiency it had in dry weather.

On the other hand, the diluted gasoline tends to slow up the rate of combustion in the cylinders and this prevents knocking, or pre-ignition. Since there is no detonation, the engine in moist weather seems to be running quieter and smoother and therefore better.

But the power output is actually less under such conditions. In dry weather the motor really furnishes more power because the fuel mixture is less diluted. What makes us uneasy then is the greater liability of pre-ignition or knocking, due to the higher rate of combustion.

A psychological note can be seen in the statement by observers that the reason a car seems to run better at twilight or right after nightfall is the fact that speed seems to be increased when visibility is cut down.

Added to this feeling is that produced by the change in the atmosphere when the sun sets—the feeling of greater speed and ease in driving due to increased moisture in the fuel and resultant retarded combustion.

The actual benefit arising from humid weather, especially in hot summer, comes to the cooling system. Under such conditions there is less likelihood of a steaming radiator, even when the temperature is high.

TAKE 25,000 miles, the distance around the world . . . multiply by 320 . . . and you get EIGHT MILLION MILES. That's the total test mileage traveled each year by the RIVERSIDE Fleet of test cars, which must prove to US what RIVERSIDE Tires will do—before we will allow those same tires to be sold to YOU . . .

Notice how our 16,000-mile-guaranteed RIVERSIDE actually performs under these tests. Accurate records kept on every tire tested show that the average mileage for these tires was 24,789 miles! Fifty-Five Per Cent More than the mileage Montgomery Ward & Co. guarantees!

Nor were these miles carefully-selected, smooth, concrete-paved miles, either—rolled off under ideal driving conditions. They were miles such as the ordinary motorist rarely, if ever, travels. Through blazing heat, pouring rain . . . snow and ice. Over mud, clay and gravel roads—across deserts, up mountain trails, and in tangled city traffic . . . Tests that not only used, but abused—and even punished—every tire on every wheel . . . average daily mileage per car being 600 miles.

Even more remarkable, perhaps, than the average test-record of 24,789 miles, is the further fact that 35% of all RIVERSIDES tested ran over 30,000 miles . . . and 13% ran over 40,000 miles . . . an average, for 48% of these 16,000-mile-guaranteed RIVERSIDES, of 35,000 miles—or OVER TWICE THE GUARANTEE! . . .

These aren't claims. They're performance FACTS, justifying ownership of RIVERSIDE Tires at ANY price. Note how much Ward's low prices, however, actually save you—and we feel sure your next tires will be these super-tested, 16,000-mile-guaranteed RIVERSIDES. Why not visit our store today—and see these astonishing tires for yourself?

NOTICE! Since the printing of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST of this week, which carries our Riverside Tire advertisement, prices have been reduced. The new prices are quoted above.

FT. DEARBORN MASSACRE.

One hundred and seventeen years ago today, on Aug. 15, 1812, the Fort Dearborn massacre occurred.

On that day the garrison of 67 men, under Captain Nathan Heald, evacuated the fort, which was located on the site of Chicago, under injudicious orders from General William Hull. Accompanied by about 30 resident settlers, including men, women and children, the garrison started for Detroit under the escort of a body of Miami Indians. At a short distance from the fort they were attacked by an ambushed body of 500 Indians, assisted by most of the escort. Two-thirds of the whites were captured.

Most of the captives were subsequently ransomed at Detroit. On the day following the massacre, the fort was destroyed by the Indians. The fort was rebuilt about 1816, was evacuated in 1823, and was demolished in 1856.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM, phenomenally successful young playwright, has her second success on Broadway. "Sacrifice," the newest play, has been attacked by the censors. But, instead of being frightened, the producer and the actors are delighted. It will assure continued popularity, they say, and guarantee the success of the play.

Molly, however, is perturbed. The adjectives the censors apply to her play, hurt her. She resolves to avoid the controversy, and devote her entire attention to little Rita Newton, the adorable child of her best friend, who has died. Molly has promised to take care of Rita, and lavishes wealth and love upon the child.

BOB NEWTON, Rita's father, of whom Molly is passionately fond, often goes to see his little daughter. Molly knows of certain shadowy episodes in Bob's past. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII
"By the way," began Bob awkwardly, "you remember Miss Smith, Molly?"

"Of course," she replied. "I hope you didn't think there was anything wrong? He hazarded. Molly preserved a frigid silence.

"I've no desire to talk about your friends," she objected. "My friends!" he laughed. "You told me she was a very good friend of yours."

"Did you see her? She colored uncomfortably. "I don't remember."

"Well, you certainly did. Coming home in the taxi that night from the station. Anhow, since you've brought the subject up yourself, I may as well tell you that your little sister came to the Copley to see me. And I must say, Bob, that I think your taste is perfectly excusable. Also, I think it's wretchedly bad form for you to talk about the girl. I'm sure I'm not interested in getting the real low down on Elsie."

"No, I wouldn't. Do you think I'm going to sit and chat with my best friend's husband about his immoralities?"

She rose angrily. "You better go home, Bob."

"Oh, all right."

He rose leisurely, and knocked the ashes out of his pipe in the pink porcelain fireplace.

Molly. Kids show the result of their environment more than their breeding. Rita'll be all right, while you keep your eye on her."

Molly sighed. "I hope so," she said. "Suppose," he went on, "Elsie had bull-dozed me into marrying her. Or even letting her stay on in the flat. Rita would have picked up her cheap little musicisms. And, as the child grew older, she'd have absorbed something of Elsie's personality. Her viewpoint. Her general laxity. All the finesses that Rita bequeathed her daughter, couldn't go against the contamination of daily contact."

"It's a wonderful thing for little Rita to be here with you. It's going to make a wonderful girl of her."

Molly yawned. "It's getting pretty late, Bob," she observed. "You'd better save the eulogy for another night."

He rose promptly. "I don't blame you," he admitted, "for being pretty rough on me. I've been a good deal of an egg. But there's no need for me to do that for little Rita, or for you, Molly."

"Thanks," she murmured. "Awwfully good of you, I'm sure."

When he had gone, she wrote two letters. One to Red, and one to Jack. It was fun, writing Red. Fun, and a lot of satisfaction. He had heard, of course, of the success of "Sacrifice." And the efforts of the censors.

Red loved that sort of thing. Censorship infuriated him. And nothing pleased him more than to have the censored profit by the actions of the censors. Divine justice, he called it.

He had sent her a congratulatory wire from Ottawa, begging details. She would send him what clippings she had, and tell him how please Mr. Durbin was with the activities of the censors.

While she was writing, Durbin himself phoned. Everything was going wonderfully, he declared. Seats were selling three weeks in advance. The evening papers had all carried stories. And there was talk of producing the theater.

"I wish you'd come over," he coaxed. "The little girl I have on publicity says she could arrange a lot of things, if you were on the spot."

"What kind of things?" "Oh, interviews, and personal appearances. She thought if I should give you a luncheon, and invite a lot of writers, it might be a good idea to have her say something about your doing some lecturing on censorship. I wish you would, Molly."

She laughed at his eagerness. "Not even for you," she retorted. "It's not up to me to do that."

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLEN B. SWAN

Women who take their citizenship seriously enough to give thoughtful personal answers, whether traditional answers or not, to some of the orthodox questions in the naturalization test so glibly put them, seem rather worth while for the country.

One of the surest signs of woman's awakening civic consciousness is the very fact that she hesitates to take the oath of citizenship until she declares herself one way or the other and then he knows exactly what to do. He contrains her fatly and then there is open warfare with the child an interested spectator.

Tell me, please, what a mother can do in the way of training with such persistent interference? It isn't fair for Buddy's father to expect his wife to do all the worrying, and disciplining.

However, John's attitude is more sensible than that of his neighbor Jim. Jim has a boy, too. But every time Mrs. Jim attempts to do her duty by her son as she sees it, up steps her husband to take the boy's part against his mother. He lets things get a crisis and waits until she declares herself one way or the other and then he knows exactly what to do.

A mother often will humor and spoil a child, and then when the father steps in to object she flies up like a chestnut to defend her young. "He's my child! You haven't any feeling! Let him alone!"

Oh, this one-sided parenthood! Parents shoving the responsibility on another, or just as selfishly hugging the responsibility, or their idea of it, to their hearts so they may indulge in an orgy of spoiling.

I believe that fathers, away all day, often get a better perspective on children than mothers who are with them all the time. If they have a suggestion, mothers shouldn't resent it; but on the other hand if fathers are going to take a hand in their children's training, they should neither jump to conclusions nor become chronic objectors.

While the flapper isn't cussed and discussed as she once was, still she needs support occasionally. As grist for argument, consider the statement of Dr. S. J. Crumline of the American Child Health Association who lauds the flapper mother declaring that the babies in the original flapper who began causing such-to-do ten years ago are the best babies ever raised.

It is hardly just, though, to give all the credit to the flapper mother. She is merely lucky enough to live in an age which is enriched with all the amenities of the modern world. Perhaps she should be given a hand for daring to be modern enough to use all that is handed her. Her mother didn't.

The selection of the son of an Episcopal bishop as winner of the recent Thomas A. Edison test to select the brightest boy in the United States must be a bit of a stunner to those who are fond of declaring that even the gutter boy has the chance to be president, and that neither birth nor environment have so much to do with it.

It's not a case of "birth or environment" for the right sort of birth generally denotes the right sort of environment, unless the child is stolen from his cradle in infancy or something like that.

It would not have been much more heartening to our American idea if some coal heaver's son had won this honor.

Hints On How To Keep Well

"INDUSTRIAL POISONINGS" MENACE TO WORKERS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Increasingly as new substances are introduced into industry they begin to have their effects on human beings, and physicians are confronted with the difficult problem of determining whether or not symptoms arise in workers due to the poisons with which they are associated or due to infectious or other causes.

There are many diseases which are associated with a lessening of the number of white cells in the blood. Among the many conditions which may produce this symptom is chronic poisoning with benzene. This substance has risen from more than 88,000,000 to 115,000,000 gallons per year and the consumption in the United States has risen from 60,000,000 gallons per year to almost 100,000,000 gallons.

Benzene has caused poisoning in the millinery trade, where it is used as a constituent of rubber cements; in the japanning trade, where it is mixed with enamels, and to a tremendous extent in the rubber industry. Some people are much more sensitive to benzene than others. They respond to inhalation of the substance with serious symptoms, with destruction of the blood cells, with eruptions and with hemorrhages under the skin.

Dr. Carey McCord suggests the possibility that benzene may be associated with some other chemical in rubber manufacturing and that the combination may be exceedingly toxic since there are more records of poisoning by benzene in that industry than in any other.

Recently an infectious disease known as agranulocytosis has been confused on several occasions with benzene poisoning. In both conditions there may be inflammations of the gums, bleeding under the skin, a decrease in the white blood cells, jaundice and a lessened number of the red blood cells.

Of course, one has to show that the sick person has actually been exposed to benzene before benzene poisoning can be diagnosed.

This And That In Feminine Lore

One woman has discovered a use for the tiny butter dishes which before the advent of the bread and butter plate used to form a part of all china dinner sets. There are a number of smokers in the family and frequently they have young people as guests. These little butter plates make decorative individual ash trays and prevent the messiness resulting when the service or bread and butter plates are used for the ashes. So, if you still possess the old-fashioned butter dishes use them throughout the house or on the table as above.

A tasty and easily prepared salad is one of large prunes stuffed with peanut butter on a slice of pineapple with mayonnaise or fruit salad dressing.

Frozen Salads and Dressings
Frozen salads are not particularly new these days, but frozen salad dressings are rather unusual.

These dressings are quite easy to make and can be prepared and allowed to stand several hours before serving. As soon as the dressing is put on the salad the concoction must be served and the salad itself must be very thoroughly chilled before combining.

An unusual emergency salad that can be made up in a minute if commercial ices are available is one of shredded cabbage and celery served with pineapple ice. Orange and lemon ice or sherbet are almost as common as vanilla ice cream at soda fountains and can be used satisfactorily with most fruit and vegetable salads.

The following salad is delicious and attractive. The cream, peas and egg yolk are added advisedly for color. Otherwise the salad would be uninterestingly pale. Served with rolls or thin bread and butter sandwiches and glass of iced tea or coffee, the salad is ideal for club affairs.

Summer Party Salad
One cup diced chicken, 1 cup sliced new cabbage, 1 cup diced pineapple, 2 tablespoons minced cream, 2 tablespoons green peas, 2 hard cooked eggs, 2 packages cream cheese, 1 cup whipping cream, 1-2 cup mayonnaise, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

The breast of chicken is of course more delicate, but if dark meat must be used, take care that all bits of skin or gristle are carefully removed. Shred, crisp and thoroughly chill cabbage. Rub egg yolks through a sieve. Let chicken stand on ice in French dressing for an hour or longer before combining. Beat cheese and cream together until smooth, stir in mayonnaise, paprika and salt. Turn into a mold and pack in ice. Let stand two hours or longer.

When ready to serve combine salad ingredients and arrange on a bed of lettuce. Top with spoon.

Quick Bread
Two eggs, 1-4 cup granulated sugar, 2-4 cup molasses, 1-2 cups white flour, 3 cups graham flour, 2 cups sour milk, 2 teaspoons soda, 1 cup seeded and chopped raisins, 1 teaspoon salt.

Beat eggs until light with sugar. Add molasses and stir well. Add white flour and stir until smooth. Add 1 cup of milk. Mix well and add graham flour and raisins. Add salt and mix until free from all lumps. Dissolve soda in remaining milk and add at once to batter. Mix quickly and bake in two oiled and floured pans for one hour in a moderate oven.

While there are preparations on the market for keeping white silk from turning yellow when washing, try bleaching the water from the very first time you wash stockings underthings or dresses and they will never turn as yellow as they would otherwise. Add a little ammonia to the water in which hosiery are washed and they will be fluffier and lighter.

A divorce in Norway costs approximately a quarter in American money and can be had by mutual consent of both husband and wife without any publicity or any statements from either. The couple merely appears before the judge, announces their decision to separate, and if he cannot effect a reconciliation he grants them legal sanction. Usually the wife gets the children but a woman must wait six months before remarriage. Norwegian men and women are very interested in their homes and family life. Home women usually have music or art interests and business girls do, too. Most women ride, swim and play tennis and in winter whole towns turn out on their skis.

The best way to keep plants blooming is to pick flowers the minute they are opened. A pansy or geranium bud can be kept blooming indefinitely if the blooms are never allowed to stay on until they fade. Many flowers will bloom the second time if the first blossoms are picked off, such as larkspur, phlox and others.

Jesanis Brothers Forced Three Sets In 1st Round

Cervini Beats Farr; Cordera, McHale, Washkiewich Also Victorious; Tonight's Program.

LATEST RESULTS

Paul Jesanis eliminated Tom Hawley 6-0, 3-6, 6-2. Paul Cervini defeated Louie Farr 3-6, 6-3. Mike Cordera beat Joe McCuskey 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. Donald Jesanis eliminated Fred Mack 6-3, 8-10, 6-2. Alleen McHale beat Elizabeth Lithwinski 6-0, 6-2. Elizabeth Washkiewich beat Grace Giglio 6-0, 6-0. Eleanor Heubner eliminated Viola Lalonde 6-4, 8-6. Mildred Holland beat Gladys Wilkinson 4-6, 6-0, 10-8.

Three of the four matches in the men's division of the town championship tennis singles tournament being conducted by the sports department of The Herald, went three sets last night. Two of the matches were played in the ladies' tournament making a total of six. Another half-dozen will be staged this evening, two others were set for this morning.

Most interesting of all the matches last night was the fact that the Jesanis brothers, Paul and Donald, were each forced to go three sets to win. Paul eliminated Tom Hawley at 6-0, 3-6, 6-2, while Donald put out Fred Mack 6-3, 8-10, 6-2. Both were bitterly contested battles with the Jesanis brothers being on the offense most of the time and their opponents displaying beautiful defensive work.

Splendid Tennis All four are strong net players but the opposition was sufficient to keep them at the baseline most of the time. While Hickey and Mack were known to be good players, it was not expected that they would be able to force the Jesanis brothers three sets, a feat for which they deserve credit. Both Paul and Donald played a steady driving game that was not to be denied in the end. Paul's next opponent will be Albert de Nivelte or Eddie Markley while Donald will play Earl Bissell or Elmo Mantell.

Paul Cervini straight set victory over Louie Farr, semi-finalist two years ago, can be regarded as a mild upset. Cervini has been playing tennis a shorter time but has been very active in this sport the past two years. He is now leading the mill league at Cheney Brothers and is undefeated. He took Farr into camp last night 6-3, 6-3, showing a steady all-around game. His lob repeatedly dropped inside the baseline and bounded against the fence at points as Farr tried in vain to come to the net. Cervini's next opponent will be Rev. James Greer who eliminated Allan Dexter 6-1, 6-3 in the first round.

Two Girls Win Mike Cordera eliminated Joe McCuskey in the only other match in the men's tournament last night but had to go three sets. The score was 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. McCuskey gave his good opposition in the first two sets but was outclassed in the third. In the girls' division, Alleen McHale, finalist two years ago, defeated Elizabeth Lithwinski in straight love sets, 6-0, 6-0 while Elizabeth Washkiewich gave Grace Giglio the same medicine also, winning in straight love sets. Miss McHale's next opponent will be either Esther Metcalf or Catherine Fraher while Miss Washkiewich is due to meet Margaret Boyle or Marjorie Smith of Elwood street.

What promises to be one of the best matches tonight will be the clash between Ross Shiner and Mac Macdonald, the latter a finalist two years ago. They will battle on the High school courts starting about 7:30. Both Bissell brothers, Sherwood, losing finalist last year, and Earl, will swing into action tonight at the West Side. Sherwood meets Jimmie O'Leary and the winner at 8:15 and the winner will take on Hudson Lyons immediately afterward in a second round match, Lyons making this request because of going on a vacation with Bissell, regarded as an almost certain winner, consenting. Earl Bissell meets Elmo Mantell at 8:30 and the winner goes against Donald Jesanis at a later date.

Other Matches Aldo Gatti and Howard Turkington will meet tonight at the Nathan Hale courts at 7 o'clock. Another match this evening will feature a go between Albert de Nivelte, father of Bob de Nivelte who defeated Bill Hand the other night, and Eddie Markley, youthful high school star at the high school from 7 to 8. Ruth Beale, defending champion in the women's tournament, will meet Stella Lincoln in her first round match at the high school at 7 o'clock. So far as is known, these are all the matches scheduled for this evening. Viola Lalonde and Eleanor Heubner were to play at 8:15 this morning at the high school with Gladys Wilkinson and Mildred Holland meeting at 10 o'clock on the same courts.

Evening Update Miss Heubner won her match with Miss Lalonde in straight sets at 6-4, 8-6. Her victory was the first major upset of either tournament. Miss Lalonde, associate director of the Recreation Centers

YANKEES WESTERN TOUR DISASTROUS

Further They Go the Worse They Fare—Still 13 1-2 Games Behind A's.

What started out to be a determined invasion of the west by the Yankees seems to have turned into nothing more than a slight-seeing tour.

For the further the Hugenboos the more hopeless it they become. They were defeated in the mire or second place. Today they are sailing along 13 1-2 games in the rear of the Athletics, having dropped another yesterday when the Tigers took the first of a series, 17 to 12. The Tigers fielding, they made five errors, was plenty bad, but the brand of pitching that Pipgras, Hoyt, Zachary and Moore gave the champions was worse.

Washington scored seven runs in the first inning and went on to take a 11 to 3 decision from the White Sox. Young Ed Walsh started for the Sox but was ranked after pitching to five batters without retiring any of them.

The Pirates lowered the Cubs' lead in the National to eight full games by defeating the Braves 1 to 0, while the leaders were idle. Philadelphia trimmed Cincinnati in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader, 2 to 1. Rain ended the game at the end of the seventh inning. Don Hurst's 25 home run with one on gave the Nats their win.

New York and St. Louis and Brooklyn and Chicago remained idle on account of wet grounds. here, was one of the four seeded players in the draw and she ruled a strong favorite to defeat Miss Heubner, her 14-years-old opponent. However, Miss Heubner, who will be a freshman student in high school next month, was much sturdier and made less errors. After taking the first set, she was forced to come from behind to win the second. Miss Lalonde took a lead of 6-5 in games but her youthful opponent rallied and won the next three games to capture the set. Her next opponent will be the winner of the Gladys Wilkinson-Mildred Holland match.

After more than two hours of playing, Mildred Holland eliminated her sister-in-law, Gladys Wilkinson in three sets this morning. Gladys won the first set 6 to 4 but Mildred came back strong to annex the next 6-0. Then came the bitterly fought third and deciding set which was finally won by Mildred at 10-8. The contest reminded one of the endurance fight of Jackson and O'Brien at St. Louis. They were very evenly matched.

Harmony Is Secret Of Mack's Success

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 15.—In the merry month of August a team leading its league in hitting and leading and having six out of the first nine pitchers in the averages shouldn't need any explanation. On this basis there should be no reason to explain the success of the Philadelphia Athletics this season. They're not in yet. No. But you can build a new house; you can't keep the club that is going to keep them out of the world series. Last season, when they muffed what had all the appearances of a glorious chance, the Athletics finished third in the fielding, second in hitting and they had only two pitchers in the first 14. It is a matter of record, however, that the Athletics blew their chances for the pennant last year because they couldn't beat the Yankees. When that well remembered quarter series came along in the last quarter the Yankees, crippled as they were, knocked the A's for a loop.

Ruth was hobbling on one leg. Combs was out with a fractured wrist. Pennock was crippled with neuritis. Pipgras was stale. And only White Hoyt was able to work. Yet the Yankees knocked them off and won the pennant in that one series. The Athletics are the same team practically as they were last year. Perhaps the pitching has improved. The records, in comparison, indicate that.

But the team was not changed radically through the winter season. In fact it wasn't changed at all. What then, it might be asked, is the reason for the change in the team of the venerable Mack? The answer is traced to the collapse of the Yankees because the Yankees haven't collapsed. They have been playing .600 baseball, and that's good enough to win a pennant in most any league. But the Athletics are playing better.

Early in the season we asked an American League official:

WALSH BELIEVES MISS NUTHALL HAS NO CHANCE AGAINST HELEN

Sports Writer Says Challenger is Not Good Enough Yet to Defeat the Tennis Champion.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Aug. 15.—It wouldn't be surprising if another duel of the decade, almost comparable to the Mallory-Lenglen and Willis-Lenglen extravaganzas, developed from the expected meeting between Helen Willis and Betty Nuthall in the semi-finals of the national championship on Aug. 23. The populace gives every indication of selling the Forest Hills Stadium right out that day, a thing that never before has happened in the championship history of tennis. The final round of the advance sale being far from light for all days and daylight heavy for that one. They seem to have the idea that Miss Willis is in for a licking.

The experts are responsible for this impression. They were pleased to observe a deterioration in Miss Willis' game in the Wightman Cup series, which may or may not be so, and they have hinted darkly that the end is near, which may or may not be arrant nonsense. Miss Nuthall at the moment is in the final round of the championship some day but I know no particular reason why that day should come next week. Doubtless the idea is highly unimportant but, somehow, I can't seem to forget that Miss Nuthall was met to win a set from Miss Willis in three years of competition.

Almost Won two sets in their 8-6, 8-6, match on Saturday but the disconcerting fact is that she wound up the engagement by winning neither. In brief, Miss Willis won the match and it might be a second chance idea to pay off on that until further evidence is furnished. We have no reason to expect, for instance, that Miss Willis will be worse or Miss Nuthall will be better the next time they meet. However, the random speculation of the moment has served to make a notable event out of a championship that had been expected to prove an empty exhibition. Speculation is the sort of thing that contrives to make something out of nothing, which usually is the status before women's feature makes its appearance, the sport event taken by itself, hysteric, the box offices are mobbed and the news columns glutted. Then, having had its fling, women's tennis settles down to uninspired tranquility again.

Long A Champion May Sutton says it is first centenary back in the early days of the century with her victories in England. Then nothing happened for years because the then Miss Sutton was supreme. Her place finally was taken by Hazel Hotchkiss, after which first Mary Browne and then Mrs. Mallory came alone to rule without contest. It was only when the latter's supremacy was questioned immediately after the war by Lenglen that they were able to

"What's your idea about the improvement in the A's?" he said. "They've got more spirit," he said. "Last year the Yanks had the sign on them. I thought they would have the same sign on them this year but in the first series between the two clubs the A's knocked them off. It's been a different ball club since then. "Last year the A's took a riding. This year they're riding back, but in a fair way. Old Connie won't stand for any dirt." From another reliable source, however, it was learned that there is another reason for the improvement of the Athletics this year. There is more harmony on the club. There aren't as many bosses as there were last year. And there aren't as many fancy salaried old ball players around to make the younger fellows disgruntled. This year the A's Speaker was with the ball club last year and some of the younger players on the club resented the salaries that were paid to them. One outfielder, and one of the best in the league, was outspoken in his protests against the salaries that were paid to "two old broken downs." Several of the other players remarked to friend: "Why should I go out there and kill myself for seven grand a year when those two are getting 30 and 40? They ain't drawing no money at the gate."

In the presence of New York players on the bench in the Yankee Stadium Cobb also made some remarks about the courage of certain Philadelphia players. And those remarks didn't promote any family spirit.

It is quite obvious, however, that there is harmony on the Philadelphia team this year. There have been some differences and squabbles, of course, but they happen in the best regulated households. The secret of the success of the Athletics this year was not in the secret of the success of the Athletics in pitching, in fielding, in batting and in skilled management. And what more need you?

SENSE and NONSENSE

YOU CAN'T GET BIG BY THINKING SMALL. Have you stopped to think why some men are great...

LETTER GOLF HEAD WORK WANTED.

Just a little HEAD WORK is required for today's par five letter-golf hole.

Letter-golf grid with words 'HEAD' and 'WORK' placed in the grid.

THE RULES.

- 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

What a whale of a difference there is between being stuck on a girl and being stuck with one.

Maybe one reason why we don't have women presidents is that few of them ever reach the required age.

Triplets are twins, and a spare.

THE TINYMILES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The monkey that had run amuck sure had a heap of nerve and pluck. It sat upon the table and began to throw things 'round.

"No! We really do not care to go on any crazy running race. 'Twill only tire us out. Besides, the show starts pretty quick and right nearby we'd better stick."

Arrangements have been made for parking at the State Armory where there will be facilities for the handling of 800 cars. Any Legionnaire desiring to utilize space at this point can obtain the necessary credentials from Commander F. C. Lorch, 17 Bank street, South Manchester, Conn.

Dilworth-Cornell Post Five, Drum and Bugle Corps will have the honor of heading the second section of District No. 1, which district earned the right of a favorable position in line through its great work during the present season and it is expected that as the convention parade is being held in the middle of the afternoon, and as it will be some years before another convention is held so close by, there will be a goodly number of local Legionnaires in the line of march.

CATHOLICS CELEBRATE VIRGIN MARY'S ASCENT

Today's Masses Commemorate Assumption into Heaven of the Mother of Christ.

Masses were held in both Roman Catholic churches here today in celebration of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin into Heaven. This is one of the most important holy days on the Roman Catholic calendar. Today is a holy day of obligation and demands that every devout Catholic attend mass. Yesterday was known as the Vigil of the Feast, a fast day on which no meat could be eaten.

It is traditional among many of the Catholic peoples that a miraculous cure will be effected upon the sick if they go into the water on the anniversary of the ascent of the Virgin Mary into Heaven. This tradition, however, does not bear official church sanction, but since it still persists it is believed that many Catholics in Manchester who either went to the shore today after mass or visited the Grotto of the Virgin, did so in order to avail themselves of this holy day cure.

This holy day is set apart by the church to honor the Blessed Virgin who according to church teaching ascended into Heaven in body as well as in spirit. The doctrine, it is said, is to be considered at the ecumenical council to be convened in 1930 by Pope Pius XI. At that time ecclesiastics are to endeavor to have the doctrine, now almost universally accepted by the theologians of the church, declared a dogma thereby elevating it to the dignity of an article of faith.

MERCHANTS OUTING IS FIRST IN YEARS

Party of 58 Local Business Men Play Games, Eat Osano Dinner in Bolton.

Exactly 58 members of the Merchants' Division of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, with their friends and invited guests, attended the outing at Osano's cottage at Bolton yesterday afternoon. It was the first time in several years that the local merchants have combined for an afternoon's sport, and it proved a success from every standpoint. The committee in charge had arranged every detail from start to finish. Tickets for the outing were sold in advance at three dollars. As a result every man who purchased a ticket made an effort to be present.

At 2:30 Chef Osano served a luncheon of clam chowder and steamed clams. Then followed the sports of the afternoon. The program was made up by Lewis Lloyd, director at the Recreation Center, and carried out as planned. It included volley ball, baseball, jumping matches, races of various kinds and horse shoe tossing.

As was to be expected, the base ball game aroused the most interest. Sides were picked by Captains

George L. Betts and John Baumla. Betts picked the winning team for at the end of the game the score was 43 to 7. It is hardly necessary to say that those who took part in the ball game were more than willing that the other fellows who watched the game should carry on all the other stunts. Mr. Lloyd provided the necessary equipment for the various sports, including a volley ball net, base ball bats, horse shoes and other apparatus.

At 6:30 the first part of the dinner bell brought to a full stop the sports. It was time to eat and for another hour or more the hungry men disposed of one of Osano's dinners.

The menu consisted of chicken, corn on the cob, rolls, coffee, water-melons and honeydew melons. The dinner over, the remainder of the evening was devoted to horse shoe pitching.

Prizes were awarded to the winners in the several events as follows:

Standing broad jump—Arthur A. Knoffa, 8 feet, 3 1/2 inches.
 Fifty yard dash—Everett Keith.
 Hopping race—Frank Limbacher and Henry Smith.

Three-legged race—Albert Pearson and John I. Olson.
 Hop, skip and jump—John Baumla, 22 ft. 4 inches.

Much credit is due Arthur Hultman and Francis Miner, two members of the committee, who spent a lot of time and gave considerable thought to the details of the outing. These two men worked hard to get the members interested in the event.

Among the guests was Fred Farar of Northampton, Mass., who for many years was a well known business man in Manchester. He attended as the guest of N. B. Richards.
