

LEGION TURNS OVER AFFAIRS TO FUNMAKERS

Forty and Eight Mostly in Charge of Convention in Hartford Today — Big Parade This Evening.

Hartford, Aug. 23.—The American Legion convention session today adopted resolutions calling for a bigger cruiser service for the United States Navy, prompt construction of all cruisers called for by the so-called "cruiser bill," universal draft service in case of war; increased pay for men now in the Army and Navy of the United States to make up for the diminished purchasing power of the dollar; and adequate training for the young men of the nation who take the citizens military training camp courses.

In considering state matters, the Legion passed resolutions urging that women who served during the war be given accommodations in the new government hospital that is to be erected at Newington. Then the Legion voted to urge that a Connecticut Boy Scout Day be set aside annually, with the last Saturday or Sunday in June suggested as feasible.

The resolutions affecting national matters will be submitted to the national convention of the Legion.

Hartford, Aug. 23.—The American Legion, assembled in the seventh annual convention of its Department of Connecticut today, had much time to fun-making to-day. Serious matters included reports of county officers, and addresses by other patriotic societies in Connecticut, from the G. A. R., Foreign Wars, during the day the matter of selecting officers for another year went on slowly. There was no strong candidate for department commander of the Legion appeared in sight, as late as noon, though all the men whose names were mentioned had substantial followings and seemed to be running about even in the race. The election takes place late tomorrow morning, to be followed by the parade that ends the convention.

Facing the convention in Foot Guard Hall today were James A. Haggerty, of Williamstown, department commander of the G. A. R., Thomas McLagan, of Hartford, state commander of the Disabled.

Temperance Leader Launches Bitter Attack Against Bishop Manning of N. Y.

New York, Aug. 23.—The calm surface of the ecclesiastical sea was little ruffled today by the sensational action of Dr. James Empringham, erstwhile anti-vice crusader and superintendent of the Church Temperance and Health Education Societies, in resigning from the Protestant Episcopal clergy and launching a bitter attack upon the tenets of religion, adhered to by Bishop William T. Manning.

Dr. Empringham, whose activities in connection with the health Education Society were recently subjected to criticism and censure, is understood to be in New York, but his precise whereabouts are unknown.

Bishop Manning, who is vacationing in Maine, has made no reply to Dr. Empringham's charges that the former's interpretation of Christianity was a "lie and a curse to humanity."

Writes From California.
In a letter written on Aug. 17 from Fontana, Cal., where Empringham has been staying, he asks to be relieved of his clerical commission, frankly admitting his loss of faith in the church's creed. Simultaneously, he sent copies of the letter for publication here.

The communication, which terminates relations with Bishop Manning that has been strained for several years, bristled with hostility to the bishop's leadership in the church. Opinion in church circles here today was that the resignation would be accepted, and that in all likelihood no official reply would be made to the resigned clergyman's charges.

Dr. Empringham stated he would come to New York to "face his delamers" in connection with the closing of the health clinic, during operation of which he has been accused of posing as a medical authority in examining patients. He claims he has a "clean conscience," and emphatically denies allegations that he ever did any medical work.

NAVAL PARLEY TO BE CALLED FOR OCTOBER

Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain to Be Its Sponsor—Other Powers to Be Invited Later.

Washington, Aug. 23.—If negotiations for Anglo-American naval agreement continue to progress at their present satisfactory pace, it is entirely likely that a call for a general naval conference will go out from Washington sometime in October—writes Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain as its sponsor.

The White House expects MacDonald to come to Washington about the middle of October. By that time, it is expected, the naval experts will have jockeyed the current negotiations to a point where the British premier will be able to announce that "substantial accord" exists between Great Britain and the United States on the knotty question of naval parity.

Other Invitations.

The invitations to Japan, France and Italy, the other great naval powers, to join with Great Britain and the United States in a general conference, is a matter of course. The huge cast has been the issuance of such a call from Washington by a British premier would give it a joint sponsorship aspect of considerable moral value.

This is the way administration officials would like to see things work out. It is realized, however, that there still remain a great number of formidable hurdles to overcome before such a program can be realized. There is the cruiser controversy, on which "satisfactory progress" is being made, but on which nevertheless the British and American experts are still some distance apart. There is also the uncertain state of the reparations situation in Europe, which has an important bearing on the projected naval conference. Unless there is a peaceable settlement of this question in the present conference at the Hague, it is considered very doubtful here if MacDonald will be able to come to Washington. He will be too busy at home. And in that event, too, the whole naval reduction project may be jeopardized by the political straggling of England and her Continental neighbors.

Officials Puzzled.

Administration officials here were somewhat puzzled today over London dispatches hinting that the proposed conference might include only Great Britain, the United States and Japan. MacDonald publicly stated only a few days ago that any naval accord reached between the United States and Great Britain would necessarily be dependent upon the willingness of the other powers, i. e., France and Italy, to go along. Neither Washington nor London is disposed to draw any limit on what the other powers free to build as they please.

There have been mutual concessions by the British and the Americans.

FARMER IS HELD FOR KILLING BOY

Says He Was Not at Home When Children Were Shot In His Cornfield.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 23.—While his alleged slayer maintained a stolid indifference in jail here today, Johnnie Kolesar, 19-year-old son of an immigrant widow, was buried today in Sacred Heart cemetery at Weston. It was the price he paid for attempted theft of a few ears of corn to roast.

Hard-visaged mill workers, many of them weeping silently, and their poorly-clad families filled Sacred Heart church when a requiem mass was said for the treckle-faced lad.

In Somerset hospital here Joseph Klementovitch, ten, Johnnie's playmate, clung to a slender thread of life. His abdomen and chest were torn in the hail of buckshot that killed the Kolesar boy.

Charged With Murder.
Craig Hoffman, 44, well-to-do son of a long line of New Jersey landowners, is charged with murder in the slaying of Johnnie, atrocious assault and battery in the wounding of Joseph, and with assault and battery in the wounding of Joseph's sister, Helen, less seriously injured.

He protested he was not at home when the children were shot. They were mowed down while in the cornfield on the Blue Ribbon farm and his brother, Grover, inherited the farm.

Denies She'll Wed Young Hoover

Rumors that she is engaged to Allan Hoover, son of the president, are denied by Miss Alice Davis, above, but she admits that they are very good friends. She and her father, Dwight F. Davis, newly-appointed governor of the Philippines, recently arrived at Manila, where this picture was taken. Below, she is shown with her father at a reception in his honor. Notice the absence of full dress coat, because of the heat.

NINE PLANES SET FOR OREGON RACE

To Fly to Cleveland, O.; Holman Is Picked to Win the Contest.

Portland, Oregon, Aug. 23.—Nine sleek birds of flight today were groomed for a race from here to Cleveland, These, and possibly two more, were scheduled to take off at ten a. m. from the Swan Island Airport.

Charles W. Holman, Chicago, and W. H. Emery, Bradford, Pa. were among the latest to arrive here. Earl Wright, San Francisco, and D. G. Warren had not arrived last night but may arrive in time to start the race.

Holman is considered one of the best. He won the Gardner trophy race between St. Louis and Indianapolis this spring as well as placing first in the Los Angeles-Cincinnati Air Derby in 1928.

Tex Rankin's plane was attracting considerable attention. His Waco ship has neither wheels or shock absorbers. Large tires attached directly to the hub constitute the landing gear.

C. F. Bates, Milwaukee pilot is flying the same Waco speed wing plane that won the national air tour last year and which placed third in the 1928 New York-Los Angeles race.

Route of Race

The route from Missoula where the first overnight stop is scheduled will be to Billings, Mont., and then to Bismarck, N. D. for the second night. St. Paul, Minn., will be the next night stop and then the racers will hop to Milwaukee, for the last night stop before heading for South Bend, Ind., and Cleveland, Ohio.

Six thousand dollars in prizes are to be awarded: First, $5,000; second, $1,500; third, $750; fourth, $450 and fifth, $300.

The entry list follows:
No. 9. Major G. Eckerson, Springfield, Ore.—J-5 taper winged Waco.
No. 10. Tex Rankin, Portland, Oregon.—J-6 taper winged Waco.
No. 30. W. H. Emery, Bradford, Pennsylvania, Travelair.
No. 40. Charles Holman, Chicago, Ill.—Laird.
No. 42. Snyder Hall, St. Louis, Mo.—J-5 Travelair.
No. 45. Clarence F. Bates, Milwaukee, Wis.—J-5 taper winged Waco.

No. 88. T. U. Wells, Wichita, Kansas.—J-5 Travelair.
—Dick Rankin, Portland, Oregon.—J-5 Waco.
No. 123. Ben Clark, Portland, Oregon.—J-4 Travelair.

Human Heart Kept Alive 30 Hours After Man Died

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 23.—That a human heart survived thirty hours after the death of the individual, was told today to the Physiologic Congress by Prof. Eusebio A. Hernandez of Paris, who told of his own experiments. The Parisian physiologist proposed that a study of death, in which death is not set beating rhythmically by supersonic waves. Dr. Harvey placed a heart of a frog in a glass tube. A level was attached from the heart to a revolving drum which showed a straight line, the sign of death. Then without any change in the surroundings, the ventricles began to beat, and the pencil traced the line of heart action.

MOTHER DEMANDS RETURN OF CHILD

Grandparents Say They Adopted Child and Refuses to Give It Up.

New York, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Helen Von Tilzer Marx, who married the fifth Marx brother, claims she has lost her baby through a technicality and brought suit today to recover it.

Mrs. Marx, recently married Milton Marx, wealthy dress manufacturer and brother of the well-known stage quartette (Harpo, Groucho, Zeppo and Chico). She had previously been the wife of R. Russell Von Tilzer, son of Jack Von Tilzer, millionaire music publisher and moving picture man. Young Von Tilzer died shortly after the birth of their baby, Karllyn Olga, who is now nineteen months old.

Mrs. Marx claims she was misled by the child's nurse, Mrs. L. H. Wright, who she says had promised to give her baby back to her.

Demands Child

The plaintiff's mother, today asked Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler to order the grandparents to return the child. She charges she was induced to consent to adoption of the child through misrepresentation.

When she went to Europe on her second honeymoon, Mrs. Marx alleges that she was misled by the Von Tilzers, who suggested that she give them temporary guardianship of the baby.

"They told me they would keep the child for a few days," Mrs. Marx said. "As soon as I returned and established my home here, they refused to give my baby back to me."

Signed Papers

On the day of her wedding, Mrs. Marx declares she signed legal papers but objected to the word adoption. She declares that she was assured this was merely a technicality.

Counsel for the Von Tilzers in opposing the court application, denied that fraud was practiced and asserted Mrs. Marx is not entitled to the baby.

At the time of her remarriage, according to defendant's counsel, Mrs. Marx was contented to permit adoption because she feared that her second husband might object to the child.

The court reserved decision.

NORELIUS LEADING BIG TORONTO SWIM

Olympic Champion Slightly Ahead of National Title- holder First Stretch.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 23.—Miss Ruth Tower of Toronto and Miss Martha Norelius, New York, national and Olympic champion, were practically in a dead heat in the first stretch of the ten mile swim at the Canadian national swimming events here today.

Official timings for the three leaders at the end of the first stretch were Miss Tower 25 minutes and 22 seconds; Miss Norelius 25 minutes and 23 seconds and Miss Ethel Hertle, New York, 26 minutes and 30 seconds.

Shortly after the first stretch was turned Miss Norelius took the lead and Miss Tower was trailing by two boat lengths. Miss Norelius was swimming 58 strokes to the minute, with Miss Tower doing only 46 strokes.

Airship Strikes Storm Area 300 Miles from Start of Third Leg of Journey—Worse Storm Than Graf Ex- perienced Over Atlantic Last October—Commander Eckener Plays Tag With Death for Minutes While Lightning Flashes Around Huge Airbag—Passengers Calm During Ordeal—Ship Making Fast Time.

On Board Graf Zeppelin, August 23.—(Via Radio).—The Graf Zeppelin, en route from Kasumigaura Flying Field to Los Angeles, on the third leg of its round-the-world flight, today successfully passed through the worst storm in the history of its air travels.

The airship struck the storm within 300 miles after the start from Kasumigaura, at 3:12 p. m. (2:12 a. m., Eastern Daylight Time).

The storm was of greater intensity than that which the Graf encountered over the Atlantic last October during the first flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, and was far more dangerous.

The storm furnished the passengers aboard the Graf, and Dr. Hugo Eckener and his officers, their first experience with an electrical storm while in flight.

For several minutes, which seemed like hours to those in the control cabin, the vivid flashes of the deadly lightning played about the great silver hulk of the airship. Any one of those brilliant bolts, the concussion of which sounded like the rattling of the universe, would have blown the great air liner and its human cargo to bits, had a direct hit been registered on one of the gas bags.

Play With Death

During this time Dr. Eckener and his navigating officers literally played tag with wholesale death in the skies, but the Graf rode magnificently through the ordeal. The roaring motors never once faltered, and not once did the great silver hull fail to respond smoothly and unerringly to the movement of her rudder or stabilizers.

All on board, from Dr. Eckener down to the airship's diminutive cabin boy, realized the danger, but one and all remained calm.

Lady Play Calm

Lady Brynmore Hay, the only woman passenger on board, was the coolest and apparently the least concerned of the passengers, just as she was the heroine of the incident in the main cabin when the Graf so nearly plunged into the sea off Bermuda last October, on the first Lakehurst flight. Her magnificent behavior had a most beneficial effect on the other passengers.

Brief Storm

The storm was not actually of long duration, nor did its wildly twisting currents and deadly lightning flashes seriously delay the progress of the air liner.

Almost as soon as the main cabin ceased to heave and roll as the navigating officers hurried it this way and that, seeking the least dangerous areas of the storm, then the passengers gathered around the dining table for dinner.

The meal was finished at 9 p. m. (8 a. m., Eastern Daylight time), without further incident.

As this dinner was filed, soon after dinner, the Graf was running smoothly, making about 81 land miles per hour. The airship's position was then more than 300 miles northeast of Kasumigaura airfield.

The "jinx" which had held the giant air liner captive at this airport for 35 hours beyond the time at which she was scheduled to start fled with the slackening of cross-winds on the third leg of its flight.

The dirigible lost no time getting into its 85-mile-an-hour stride for 14 minutes after the take-off the Graf was reported over Mito city, 65 miles north of Tokio and more than 21 miles from the aerodrome.

Escorted by Planes

The Zeppelin was accompanied by a fleet of five Japanese military airplanes which took off from Kasumigaura shortly before the Graf launched herself into the air.

Big Crowd Present

As the probable time of the hop-off had been announced several hours previously, a mammoth crowd had assembled at the aerodrome to bid the aerial monarch farewell. It was estimated that several hundred thousand persons, including German and other foreign residents as well as Japanese, were on the field when the Zeppelin soared majestically into the sky.

The Graf had been ready since midnight to take off on the long trans-Pacific flight. At that time, repairs to the rear motor gondola,

ATTEMPT LAUNCHED TO RESCUE PARLEY

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 23.—A new attempt was launched today to save the Hague conference on reparations and post-war problems from collapse.

Delegates of France, Belgium, Japan and Italy met with German representatives in an effort to work out a scheme to satisfy 75 per cent of the demands made by Philip Snowden on behalf of the British government.

Not Very Hopeful

Observers were, none too hopeful that the scheme would be worked out successfully, however, for even if Germany were persuaded to furnish this additional amount, there was considerable uncertainty as to whether Snowden would be willing to accept this compromise.

Germany's share in the concession would be as follows:
1. Increase the unconditional annuities.
2. Renounce its claim to the surplus accruing during the transition period between the Dawes and Young plans in favor of Britain.
3. Herr Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister and chief German delegate to the conference, was unwilling to participate in this compromise attempt, which augured ill for its success from the start.

To Consult Socialist.
In the allied delegates, however, decided to consult the Socialist leader Breitscheid, Herr Brunning, chief of the Centre Party and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, all of whom have now arrived here.

In spite of Stresemann's attitude, there seemed to be some chance that the other German delegates would agree to these proposals, but even this would still leave Britain to be considered.

A stumbling block may arise in the reported demand of Snowden that the remaining 25 per cent unsatisfied demands be covered by an "economic understanding" situation to relieve Britain's home situation.

POLICE FORCE IN MIX-UP.

Mattawan, N. J., Aug. 23.—Two-thirds of this town's police force of three today awaited Grand Jury action on assault and battery charges preferred against each other after Police Chief Edwin Sproul disputed Patrolman Leroy Sproul's right to a night off. Sproul claimed Sproul knocked him down and kicked him while Sproul charges Sproul hit him first.

ZEP NOW OVER OCEAN RIDES THROUGH STORM

When the ship was being walked out of its hangar for the take-off early yesterday, had been completed, and the passengers had assembled for the start.

Wind Dies Down About noon, it was seen that the wind was decreasing in velocity, and Dr. Eckener again ordered all made ready for the start.

The Kasumigaura hangar was built for ships of much more exact dimensions than the giant Graf, and there was only 18 inches of clearance space between the top of the dirigible and the roof of the shed.

But the ground crew, obviously anxious to tone for the mishap which delayed the take-off and caused the Graf to sustain the first setback its time-table schedule had suffered since the start of the round-the-world flight, eased the dirigible back to the hangar with exquisite care, and the dirigible came out onto the field without so much as scraping her silver sides.

NEED RESERVES TO STOP PANICS

Need Another Agency to Avert Depressions, Speaker Tells Institute.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 23.—The need for prosperity reserves to avert periodic business depressions was emphasized at the Institute of Politics today by Otto T. Hallery, member of the president's conference on unemployment and of the industrial relations committee of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

According to Mallery the Federal Reserve Board was created to avoid money panics and to provide business with adequate credits. Another agency is necessary to assist in avoiding major periods of business depression and unemployment," he said.

KILLS HIS SWEETHEART WHEN SHE SPURNS HIM

Then Fires Bullet Into His Own Brain—She Told Him She Loved Another.

New York, Aug. 23.—A girl and a boy lay dead today, victims of a romance that was broken when another youth stole the girl's heart while her fiancé was in Copenhagen, Denmark, to tell his parents of his great fortune.

While the boy, Paul Larsen, 22, was abroad, he received a note from his sweet heart, Edith Clum, 17, of 477 Clinton street, Brooklyn, in which she said she had learned to love another.

Paul raced back to New York, arriving July 13, but could make no progress toward regaining Edith's favor. So he shot and mortally wounded her, and then put a bullet through his own brain.

They met when he boarded at her mother's home in Poughkeepsie, two years ago.

COURT DENIES WRIT TO LIBERATE CHINESE

New York, Aug. 23.—Justice Stephen Callaghan in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, today denied a writ of habeas corpus to William C. Fong, wealthy Chinese importer, and an American citizen, who is wanted in Boston on a charge of murder.

Fong is charged by the police of the New England city with killing Yee Wah, a Boston Chinese, on August 5, last.

Through his attorney, Robert R. Larson, Fong declared that he knew nothing of the Boston slaying and that he could prove he was in New York at the time it was committed. Larson added that he would appeal to Gov. Roosevelt not to permit Fong to be taken to Boston.

THREE ACCIDENTS INJURE SIX MEN

New Britain, Aug. 23.—Three accidents in the New Britain area early today put five men in the New Britain General hospital and one in Hartford hospital for treatment, and as a result two of the victims at least may die.

Margot and William Halling, of New Britain, were hurt when Halling's car was wrecked on the Middletown-Berlin road. Halling applied at New Britain hospital for treatment and later told police he had walked here from the scene.

McMahon was injured when a car in which he was riding with his brother George, also of New Britain, upset in Plainville. George is in the hospital but not seriously hurt while Patrick's condition is critical.

Albert Malone, 20, of Torrington and Frank D'Emmanuel, of Southington, 23, are in New Britain hospital seriously injured. Their car struck the base of one of the gates at the Whiting street grade crossing in Plainville and was wrecked. Police found six gallons of hard cider in the wreckage and the two will be charged with transporting liquor.

CRANE HOPES TO ESTABLISH STUDIO

Camera Artist's Family Face Future Bravely; Express Gratitude for Aid.

"I wish you would try to express the gratitude of this family for the extraordinary sympathy that has been extended to us," said Mrs. Harry B. Crane yesterday, as she stood amid a jumble of household effects which truckmen were even now carrying into the new home of the Cranes at 148 South Main street.

"We were just caught, that's all—things happened too fast, principally sickness. And then that unreasonable evulsion, just at the time when Mr. Crane was trying to finish up quite a bit of work and get in his collections. I don't know just what we would have done if it hadn't been for the kindness that was shown to us by everybody. We are not charitably inclined, really, but we did get into a jam and no mistake."

Mrs. Crane turned over her baby which has been very sick but is getting better now—to one of her two boys while she recovered from a hernia man little roll of bills and checks representing the receipts from contributors to the "Crane Loan."

It wasn't much of a roll, only $61 at that time—there are a few more dollars at this office to be added to it—but it seemed to mean a lot.

Crane, the artist photographer, wasn't at the South Main street home. He was up at 14 Union street, the place from which the family was evicted because the August rent wasn't forthcoming, attending to the other end of the moving. His courageous wife, however, said: "We are very glad you put this assistance in the form of a special meeting to help us to pay it back some of these days. What Mr. Crane hopes to do is to get a little studio going. He had one in Arizona and did well with it. He does awfully good work. If he can do that we'll be absolutely all right. But we're as appreciative as we can be, just the same, of what has been done for us by the Social Service Committee and Miss Reynolds and the Herald and one or two wonderful friends over north."

The new home of the Cranes is a very modest little place but it is pleasant and comfortable and gives promise of being a happy one.

However, the less than $80 so far received by the Herald isn't going to do a great deal toward setting Harry Crane up in business. And judging from indications at this writing Manchester's urge to help has pretty much shot its bolt. Out of the five thousand families in town just nineteen were represented in the contributions to the loan up to noon today.

FIVE KILLED IN CRASH

The dead are: Bert Lust, 18, Royal Oak; Harold Aucherson, 18, Detroit; Ruth Jacks, 20, Toledo; Albert Voice, 16, Traverse City; and Bella Mayne, 16, of Alden.

TOWN FACES 4 SUITS IN OAK ST. CRASH

Is Co-Defendant in Three and in Fourth Is Sued Alone for Damages.

The Town of Manchester is made co-defendant in three suits returned to the superior court of this county in September, all growing out of the automobile accident on Oak street on May 13. In still another case growing out of this accident the town alone is being sued. The first suit is in the amount of $5,000 against town and John Spadroy and is brought by Joseph Fourville, a minor, who claims damages alleging that the town did not properly maintain its roadway, especially on Oak street and that John Spadroy, as owner of the U drive machine which was wrecked, allowed the machine to be driven recklessly.

Leo Berube asks $2,500 from the town as he alleges that the road was defective and should have been in proper condition, laying the cause of the accident to a galvanized pipe that protruded in the street.

The town and John Spadroy are sued jointly for $2,500 by Joseph Spadroy and the same defendants for $10,000 by Lawrence A. Lavoie.

SEES SETTLEMENT

London, Aug. 23.—Louis Louchere, French delegate to the reparations conference at the Hague, was more confident today that a satisfactory agreement would be reached between the powers on post-war financial problems, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Hague today.

Interviewed as he was about to partake in the "compromise conference" with the delegates of Italy, Japan and Belgium, Louchere said: "The chances of an agreement being reached yesterday were about 50-50. Today, it appears that the odds are about five to three in favor of settlement."

Royal Wedding Brings New Queen To Smallest Nation

Ruling Princess of tiny Monaco is Elsa von Liechtenstein, left, daughter of an Austrian coal magnate and bride of Prince Franz von Liechtenstein, upper right. Below is a view of Vaduz, the capital and only city. The towered buildings at the right mark Monte Carlo, famed gambling resort.

London—The ruler of a nation was married the other day in Vienna, but the rest of the world paid scarcely any attention to the news. For the groom was Franz von Liechtenstein, 75-year-old Prince of the tiny independent country of Monaco. The bride was Frau Elsa von Eroses, 50, daughter of Baron Gutmann, the coal king of Austria.

Thus for the second time a Jewess became the reigning lady over little Monaco, in which is famed Monte Carlo. Some years ago the then Prince of Monaco married Alice Helne, daughter of a rich Jewish banker, of New Orleans. But she became a convert to Catholicism, and it is presumed the new Princess Liechtenstein also has become a Catholic. She and her husband had been friends for many years, being brought together by their mutual love of art and literature.

A Wealthy Landholder
The Prince is one of the richest men in eastern Europe, being a great landed proprietor both in Austria and Czechoslovakia. For a long time he was in the diplomatic service of the old Austro-

Hungarian monarchy. His last important post was as Ambassador to St. Petersburg.

Last year he went to the throne of Liechtenstein, succeeding his late brother, Prince Johann II. The latter held a modern world's record for length of time as a ruler. Queen Victoria is usually supposed to be the record-maker, having reigned for 64 years. But Johann II, who died at 89, ruled for 70 years.

Monaco is almost an Arcadia. It has only 65 square miles of territory and only 11,000 inhabitants. The capital, Vaduz, has only 1200 population. It is composed in part of a mountain plateau and in part of a deep rich river valley. Farming and dairying are the main occupations of the people. There are no manufacturing industries. The cost of living is very low. The taxes are practically nil.

Prince Real "Taxpayer"
Instead of paying out money for the support of their Prince, the people are accustomed to see the latter pay out money to make the little state better worth living in. The last prince built roads, churches, art museums and municipal structures. The present Prince and his rich bride are expected to carry on the good work.

The very existence of this tiny state is a romance of history and a history of romance. It comprises two former fiefs of the Holy Roman Empire—the Lordship of Schellenberg and the County of Vaduz. These passed into various hands until they finally belonged to Prince John Adam of Liechtenstein, a wealthy Austrian nobleman who had an ambition to be a prince in fact as well as in name. In 1917 Emperor Charles Sixth of Austria raised Vaduz and Schellenberg into an hereditary state of the Holy Roman Empire under the name of its owner—Principality of Liechtenstein.

Family Rose to Fame
The ruling princes sent gifts to their loving subjects, but none of them ever visited the place until as late as 1842. In the meantime, the family won a great place for itself in Vienna. Prince Joseph Wenzel was one of Empress Maria Theresa's marshals in the Seven Years' War. Aloysius First became a noted patron of the arts. John the First was an Australian Field Marshal in the Napoleonic wars and in 1809 succeeded to the supreme command of the Austrian armies.

In 1866, when Austria and Prussia were at war, Liechtenstein sent a small military contingent to help Austria. The tiny principality never recognized Prussia's victory and technically is still at war with Prussia, although even the former Kaiser Wilhelm Second never contemplated sending a punitive expedition into the little place.

WAPPING

Mrs. Alice G. Smith will entertain with a luncheon and bridge party at her home on the Buckland road this afternoon. Mrs. Charles Penn, Miss Mildred Fenn, Miss Sally Fenn, Mrs. Virginia House and Mrs. Frank Locke were guests.

Cards have been received from Rev. and Mrs. Harry B. Miner from Daytona Beach, Florida, where they were to remain for two days, returning through the Blue Ridge mountains. They expect to arrive here about the middle of next week.

The schools in South Windsor will open for the fall term September 10. The teachers will report for duty on Sept. 9. All the teachers of last year are to return. They are Mrs. May Holden of Manchester, principal; Mrs. Francis Burnham of Pleasant Valley, Mrs. Ethel Booddy of Manchester, Miss Blanche Finesilver, Miss Lidia Jones and Miss Alice Shuttuck.

The fair committee of Wapping Grange held a meeting at the home of Walden V. Collins, Wednesday evening and decided to hold a fair on October 4 and 5, even though the hailstorm did take almost everything in the fruit and vegetable line.

SHORT-LIVED JOY

The man who had been held up by bandits was very bitter about it.

"For a moment," he said, "my heart leaped with joy. I thought they said: 'Your money or your wife.'"

In the near future automobiles may be equipped with a new flexible spring cover being put on the market by two companies. The covers fit over the spring and are efficient in retaining grease and keeping out dust.

ANDOVER

Miss Anna Lindholm returned home Friday from Amherst where she had attended the Lecturers' Convention as delegate from the local Grange. Miss Lindholm will report on her trip to the next regular meeting in September.

Children having fruit and vegetable gardens are requested to sign their names to posters hanging in the stores in town signifying their intentions of competing for the prizes to be offered for the best garden by the local Grange at its fair in September.

August Lindholm and two daughters, Anna and Mary, and Paul Manager spent Sunday at Narragansett.

Mrs. Edward Yeomans and four children, Alice, Ruth, Emily and David, and Miss Alice Palmer have returned home from Natick where they have been spending their vacation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Phelps of Westchester is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harry Milburn.

Miss Kena Halsted of Poughkeepsie is visiting her brother Raymond Halsted.

August Lindholm and his son Edward and George Johnson of Hop River left Tuesday for a trip to the White Mountains. They expect to be gone a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel O'Neill motored to Highland Lake camp Sunday and took Mr. O'Neill's three sons there. The boys have been spending the summer vacation here but will be at the camp two weeks before the opening of school at Winsted.

Unable to get a divorce in New York, Rhinelander has established a legal residence in the Nevada mountains.

ing a few days with her son, Rev. John H. and Mrs. Fitzgerald at their summer home in Hebron.

Mary and Olga Lindholm, who work in Hartford, are spending their vacation at home. Wednesday they motored to Rocky Point for the day.

Lewis Brown is the owner of twin goats, which seem to be a great curiosity from the number of people who call to see them.

There were 150 at the Ladies Benevolent Society supper and sale

Wednesday evening. The sale was very successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Platt and son Douglas of Manchester spent Thursday night with Mrs. Platt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink.

Miss Anna Lindholm is spending a few days in Willimantic, the guest of Mrs. John Wilcox.

BANCROFT AT STATE IN "THUNDERBOLT"

A new, different and tremendously important all-talking picture opens at the State theater today where it will hold sway for the remainder of the week. It is George Bancroft's latest starring vehicle, "Thunderbolt," from the popular magazine story by Charles Furthmann and Jules Furthmann.

"Thunderbolt" is gripping drama in every way. It takes you from the Harlem district of New York City to the awe-inspiring setting of Sing Sing's Condemned Row. It rushes you half-nudly through the brilliantly-lighted night clubs of New York's "black belt" to the "Little Green Door" where society exacts its penalty for crime.

Through all this surging of love, adventure and drama, Bancroft is forever prominent. "Thunderbolt" is, without a question of doubt, the greatest vehicle that Paramount has ever given him. All the players appearing in the picture talk. You hear the familiar voices of such popular stars as Richard Arlen, Fay Wray, Fred Kohler, Mike Donlin and Tully Marshall. Joseph von Sternberg directed.

Gus Edwards' glittering and dazzling Metro Movietone revue, "Song of the Roses," in which a bevy of beautiful girls and a host of star talent are heard, is also being shown on today's bill.

"Song of the Roses" is a tuneful presentation wherein the latest of melody can be found. Wonderful scenic and costume effects are featured throughout.

Shorter subjects will also be shown.

EVERYTHING

ONE-FEATURE gasolines are plentiful. But the new-type, extra-powered Atlantic combines in highest degree all the qualities needed for a motor fuel's many-sided job. It is the most complete-burning, most accurately balanced—most ideally correct all-round gasoline ever formulated for modern motors and present-day driving conditions.

1 EASY STARTING

Without sacrifice of power, Atlantic Gasoline contains just the right proportion of the lighter or more volatile elements needed to let the spark take hold quickly when the motor is cold.

2 QUICK PICK-UP

Easy and complete ignition, through a scientifically balanced "chain of boiling points," makes Atlantic instantly responsive to the command of the throttle. Note Atlantic's action in traffic!

3 EXTRA POWER

By bringing more of the higher power-producing elements of petroleum into a form that enables modern motors to utilize them fully, a pronounced degree of extra power has been developed in Atlantic Gasoline.

4 MAXIMUM MILEAGE

Atlantic Gasoline is so remarkably clean and so splendidly balanced that complete burning is inevitable, maximum mileage obvious and pocketbook economy an undisputed fact.

5 READY OBTAINABILITY

No matter how good a motor fuel may be, it is of little use to you unless you can get it when you want it. There's always an Atlantic pump on the road you are traveling. Convenient and dependable service assured!

JOCKEY IS KILLED

Rockville, Md., Aug. 23A sorrowful young bride started back to Arizona today with the body of her husband, Young "Dick" Herman, steeplechase jockey, who was thrown here yesterday and so badly injured he died enroute to the hospital.

Mrs. Herman asked the lad not to enter the race in which he was killed, as she had a presentiment of danger. He laughed at her fears. At the second jump his mount, Royal Airman, stumbled and went down. The jockey's neck was broken. Young Herman recently came east from Tucson, Arizona.

TURKS VISITING U. S.

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Aug. 23 —Members of the Turkish Aeronautical Mission hopped off today for Buffalo for the start of a four weeks' nationwide tour.
Buffalo will be the first stop. Then a hop will be made to Cleveland from which they will take off for Clovis, N. M., stopping off en route at large cities where airports and flying apparatus and conditions may be studied.

Members of the party are Major Sheik Bey, assistant chief of the general staff for aviation in Turkey; Captain Ferruh Bey, and Lieut. Kasim Bey both of the Turkish Navy.

NAB LAZIEST CROOK

Chicago, Aug. 23—Chester Kopiskis, the world's laziest holdup man, today had ample opportunity to catch up on lost sleep in his police cell.
He was arrested last night after he had lined up 35 restaurant customers preparatory to taking their cash. As the diners stood "reaching for the ceiling," Kopiskis saw a day bed in a soft corner.
Tuning in soft music on the radio he excused himself and retired for a short nap before continuing his holdup task. Police interrupted his repose.

REDS HOLD MEETING

London, Aug. 23—About 1,000 Communists held a mass meeting in the shadow of the Tower of London today and burned in effigy Judge Barnhill, who presided at the hearing of cotton mill strikers at Gastonia, N. C.

The Communists adopted a resolution protesting against the arrest of Gastonia trade unionists on a "faked murder charge."
The prisoners were accused of killing the chief of police during strike troubles at Gastonia.
The mass meeting here was held under the auspices of the International Class War Prisoners Aid Organization.

Traffic mishaps in large cities seem to grow by leaps and bounds.

New Jersey contemplated spending more than $40,000,000 on its roads this year, according to the state highway commission.

YOUNG RUSSIAN DOCTOR DISCOVERS CANCER CURE

Injection Causes Growth to Breathe Itself to Death, Scientist Says.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 23.—A young research worker has discovered a compound which has proved highly successful in treatment of cancer in animals. It was learned today at the Thirteenth International Physiological Congress at Harvard Medical School.

The compound is injected hypodermically into the growth. It sets up oxidation action and causes the diseased cells to "breathe themselves to death" through abnormal consumption of oxygen.

The discoverer, Dr. Boris Sokoloff, a guest at the Institute of Cancer Research at Columbia University, and Dr. W. H. Howell of Johns Hopkins University, president of the congress, were enthusiastic over the success of the experiments on animals.

CHINESE GOVERNMENT TELLS WOES TO U. S.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The Chinese government today had on record with all the signatories to the Kellogg anti-war pact her formal case against Soviet Russia, over the Chinese Eastern Railway, in the form of identical notes.

The note to the United States was handed to Secretary of State Stimson by Chinese Minister C. C. Wu. It was a long recital of the wrongs China alleges she has suffered from the Russians in propaganda and wholesale assassinations plots. It repeated charges that have been previously published from China and threw no new light on the situation.

While deeply resentful in tone the note said China would at any time within the limits of possibility "discuss and settle with the Soviet government the disputes induced by a misrepresentation of the facts on the part of the Soviet government."

THREE VIOLENT DEATHS

New Haven, Aug. 23.—Three fatalities were reported in the New Haven district today.

Samuel Jones, of Guilford, died in New Haven hospital from the effects of being run down by an unknown motorist between Guilford and Branford.

Harold Owens, a Hamden bakery driver, died at the same hospital after his truck had been struck by a New York-bound railroad train on a Hamden grade crossing leading to the North Haven brickyard district.

Mario Pacelli, of New Haven, died at New Haven hospital from the effects of a self-inflicted bullet wound, after writing a note saying he was about to kill himself for the sake of his girl.

Coroner J. J. Corrigan investigated the three fatalities.

K. OF C. CONVENTION

Milwaukee, Aug. 23.—Support of a strong national program of preparedness was urged by Rev. Col. Joseph M. Loneragan of Rockford, Ill., former national chaplain of the American Legion, in an address before the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus, who were holding closing sessions of their annual convention here today.

The speaker attacked the Kellogg peace pact and advocated a powerful navy.

All supreme officers, headed by Supreme Knight Martin H. Carey, of Grand Rapids, Mich., were re-elected.

As emissary of Pope Pius XI., most Rev. Henry J. O'Learn conferred on Supreme Knight Carey the order of the Grand Cross of St. Gregory. He is the third American to be so honored.

SOUTHERN EDUCATOR HERE.

President Edward F. Green, president of the County Life Academy, located at Star, North Carolina, was a visitor in town this morning. He visited the Orford Soap Company and was surprised to learn that it was the home of "Bon Ami."

He was on his way to visit Cheney Brothers' office to seek permission to view their works and was anxious to learn if other manufacturing was carried on in Manchester. He was particularly interested when he learned that Manchester was only 103 years old as a town and that there were several industries other than the silk mills, that there were five post offices and that the population was well over 23,000. His information had been that Manchester and South Manchester were two separate towns.

CALL FOR ELECTRICIANS TO EXECUTE TWO

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 23.—A call for electrical experts was made today from Sing Sing prison here so that Milton Harris of Buffalo and John Fabri of Syracuse may be executed.

Following recent riots at Aurora and Dannemora, electrical generator and other apparatus used in electrocution was moved out of the prison power house and being erected in the death house.

The apparatus has proved too delicate for prison electricians to adjust as it must be regulated so that the executioner may apply enough current to produce almost instant death without burning or disfiguring the body.

Going Places AND Seeing Things
Port Huron, Mich.—And so, after drifting here and there, another grown-up found himself back on a spot which, over 20 years, he had remembered best.

YANKEEPHOBIA
Somehow we missed altogether Frank Ward O'Malley's valedictory as an American, delivered on his departure to live hereafter in a better land.

Whether there was much truth to the tale or little, or none at all, the elongated Cummings made the best, the funniest and the most arousing free silver speeches that were made that year by anybody in this state with the single exception of the lamented Henry Baldwin of Naugatuck.

Other barefoot boys now possessed the vacant lot. But they actually had an honest-to-goodness ball bat, instead of the slab of whittled wood used by the youngsters of my day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Palpitation of Heart
Question: Miss H. writes:—"I have palpitation of the heart, but all the doctor does is to give me some medicine to use whenever the trouble becomes bad."

What Mr. O'Malley and a good many others of his ilk seem to forget is that in every one of its human characteristics, admirable or otherwise, America is the heir of Europe.

ASSININE
A statement purporting to convey certain views of Henry Ford on the subject of prohibition has been distributed to the press of the country by a propaganda agency.

So, by a roundabout route that skirted the river, I found myself standing by a two-story house that once had been home.

Is Starch Necessary?
Question: K. J. writes:—"My meals are mostly milk and fruit, and a protein and vegetable. I am afraid I do not get enough starch."

CUMMINGS
The third marriage of Homer Cummings, Fairfield County kid-glove Democrat and national figure, has given the editor of the Middletown Press opportunity to put his intimate and accurate memory of Connecticut politics to work on a review of the clever Mr. Cummings' career.

PLAIN SINFUL
There is always some question as to the common sense of a law against suicide—or, rather, attempted suicide. But if there are any states other than New York which have such statutes, and it is probable that there are, it would seem as if they ought to amend their laws to include such stunts as those pulled off by some of the motion picture producers when they hire fliers to purposely crash their planes.

FIND MILLIONAIRES' BODY

STATE POLICE TAKE 3 IN BRAKE TESTS

One Had No License and One No Registration; $10 and Costs the Dose.

Three out of town automobile drivers were caught in the net which State Police set here yesterday afternoon for motorists who operate machines with defective brakes. The net was still spread this morning, the officers stopping the drivers near the railroad underpass on Center street, a short distance from the point where Mrs. S. Emil Peterson of Alton street was fatally injured by a driver whose car had defective brakes, a short time ago.

Weldon Sanborn of 1273 Main street, Hartford was arrested by State Policeman R. C. Grant and paid a fine of $10 and costs. Deputy Judge Thomas Ferguson was on the bench.

At twenty miles an hour, it took 60 feet to stop Sanborn's car with the foot brake and 250 with the emergency.

Lincoln's Clock

This clock once served Abraham Lincoln. Rachel McElhiney, University of Kansas co-ed, is holding the timepiece which Lincoln auctioned off when he left Greenview, Ill., for Springfield to practice law. It is now owned by W. O. Swain of McLouth, Kan.

BOTH KILLED IN DUEL

Clover, Ga., Aug. 23.—Behind the smoke of shotguns a debt of honor had been settled here today with all the characteristics of an old frontier gun-battle.

Pate Huddleston, 53, and Marcus Brown, 42, are dead. They shot it out in the center of the town by pre-arrangement, fighting a duel to the death at arms' length with buckshot.

A good-sized crowd, attracted by the impending tragedy, was powerless to prevent it.

The duel marked the culmination of a long enmity between the two men which started when Brown, who is married and a father, began paying attention to a divorced daughter of Huddleston.

DIES FROM DRINK.

Stamford, Aug. 23.—Martin Conlon, 33, a New Haven railroad laborer, died in Stamford hospital during the night from the effects of over-drinking. Conlon was found in a drunken stupor on a street here yesterday afternoon and taken to the police station where a surgeon ordered his immediate removal to the hospital.

Police are unable to find the man's relatives.

FOR BUSINESS REASONS

An Irish priest offered sixpence to the boy who could tell him who was the greatest man in history. "Christopher Columbus," answered one boy. "George Washington," answered another boy. "St. Patrick," shouted a bright little Jewish lad. "The sixpence is yours," said the priest; "but why did you say St. Patrick?" "Right down in my heart I knew it was Moses," said the Jewish boy, "but business is business."—Tit-Bits.

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY

© 1929 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURHAM, lovely playwright, had an old sweetheart, JACK WELLS. But Jack has sailed for Italy with a middle-aged millionaire named MRS. BIL-WER-EATON. The papers are full of stories about the pair, and MOLLY is furious. She refuses to talk of Jack, or discuss the affair with even her best friend, RED FLYNN, a reporter who usually knows the inside story on scanda-

Then along comes BOB NEV-TON, with a proposal. Bob is a widower. His first wife was RITA MELNOTTE, with whom Molly roomed at college. About Rita's death, Molly took her baby, and now she loves the child as if it were her own. She is constantly tormented with the fear that something may happen through which she will lose little Rita.
That Bob, for instance, may marry and take his daughter away.
But Bob, at the moment, is half way through a rather strange proposal. He is asking Molly to marry him, but his technique is hardly orthodox.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIX

With her hands on his chest,
Molly held him from her.
"Go on, Bob," she commanded.
"I'd like to know exactly what you're driving at."
"You're different from most girls," he flattered. "You've got more sense. That's what experience does - gives a woman sense.
As I was saying, if you've been an innocent little kid, Red Flynn
would have given you such a thrill you'd have thought he was the only man. But you know better than that. You know enough to discount this thrill. I don't mean that I think you're anything but the straightest girl that ever lived. If I didn't know that, I wouldn't ask you to marry me. I'm only trying to say - well, you know what I mean. You're not just a genuine model. If you know what I mean."
"No," she conceded, "I'm no in-genue. Go on."

Bob cleared his throat with evident embarrassment.
"I know I don't give you much of a kick," he admitted.
"No," she interrupted coolly,
"you don't."
"But that doesn't make any difference," he insisted. "When a girl marries, it's because she has something she wants. You know, as well as I do, the transitoriness of passionate love. You know it's not worth building on, don't you?
I may not have any particular physical attraction for you. But I have something infinitely more important. I have Rita."
Molly stepped back.
"You're not trying to bribe me
with Rita, are you?" she asked.
"Why, yes," he admitted. "I suppose I am - if you want to put it like that. You see, I know that you don't love me. Molly, I have to advance some reason to argue my plea."
"But it's ghastly to talk of marriage without love," she protested.
"No," he contradicted calmly. "I don't think it is. There's a chap named Collins - a doctor - who has written some pretty sensible things about love. He says it's a sort of disease, that lasts about two years.
Now, you've seen a lot of life.
Molly, what's the use of looking for romantic love, when you know it won't last?"
"But I don't know anything of the kind!" she contradicted indignantly. "I'm an incurable romanticist."
He smiled cynically.
"Crying eternally for love. I suppose? No, you can't make me believe that. Molly. Some women are that way. I know. But you're different."
"I'm not!" she flustered. "I shall never be loved enough for my happiness."
"But I love you!" he cried.
"Molly, I'm crazy about you! You know that, don't you? I'll love you, dear. I swear it."
She tried to laugh.
"But you're not romantic. Bon-not really. You make beautiful grand professions. But you're not a bit of a sweetheart. You'd never do all the silly, sweet things I'd adore. Why, you'd simply laugh at my adolescent notions."
"What kind of notions?" he demanded. "What do you mean?"
"Silly things," she flustered.
"I'd love a husband who'd write me love notes every day, and buy me nosegays. And buy me things like lollipops and peanuts, because I like them so. And play the guitar nights, and sing me love songs.
And kiss me before and after every meal."
"That sounds like a doctor's prescription."
"I know," she confessed, "it's awfully silly. But there you are!
That's the sort of a husband I want. I tell you I'm a born romanticist. You never guessed I was one of those dreadful sentimentalists who go round simply screeching for love."
"You're a little flat," he told her coolly. "You're cold, and you know it. You sent Jack Wells away, because he couldn't make money enough to satisfy you. You're playing at love now with Red Flynn."
"That's not true!" she defended herself.
"But Bob shook his head.
"You're a vain creature. Molly.
Love has come to you so often, it's grown a common thing. He was flaming through his wallet."
"I've something to show you.
Clipped it out of a magazine yesterday, because it made me think of you. I was sure I stuck it in here somewhere. . . Oh, here it is!"

She took it curiously, and read aloud:
"Love came to me so many times
It preyed upon this lonely heart
I thought that it would always come
With song-birds in the Spring:
And so I dreamed and wondered
In the opening of the morning
What next year's love would be Until one Spring there came no bird
To any blossoming tree."
"It's pretty," she said, shivering delicately. "I suppose it's true too."
"Of course it's true," he told her.
"Here's Rita now. . . Think over what I had to say, won't you? You might go further, you know, and fare worse. Suppose you married Flynn. You children would have carrot-tops and freckles. Look at my daughter! Did you ever see anything prettier in your life?"

Rita was wearing a cashmere of lilac color, sprigged with pink roses and forget-me-nots. Her linen slippers were gay with embroidery,
and her wide-brimmed hat was loaded with tiny flannel flowers.
They fluttered from the ends of her hair, and were caught in a perky tossy on her shoulder.
"Hello, mama! Hello daddy!"
She kissed them impartially.
"Oh, daddy, I know some new words. Nancy's nurse told us.
'Fermes la bouche.' It means 'shut your mouth, daddy.'"
"Nancy's nurse is a very common person, Miss Burnham, I shan't allow Rita to talk with her again."
"That's all right," declared Molly gayly. "It's time Rita got rough. Don't you adore her accent, Bob? I'll run along now, and not bother you. Be a good girl, Precious!"

She stooped to kiss Rita, and Bob said again, "Think over what I had to say, won't you?"
"Fermes la bouche," she told him over Rita's head, and laughed because he seemed annoyed.
She went from the nursery to her bedroom, and threw herself on her chaise longue. Bob had threatened to take Rita away, if she did not do as he wished. He was stubborn enough to do it, too. Molly knew that he had been more successful lately. He could hire a capable woman to care for the child, and do the housework also.
Rita did not need constant supervision any more. She was a healthy, intelligent child. As Molly frequently remarked, having her about was almost like having a grown person in the house. She was such a dependable little creature.
If marriage with Bob was unthinkable, so was life without Rita.
Lots of people marry without love,
and are happier than the romanticists. So many romances are failures. Expedient marriages wear better, and last longer. Sensible people bring to matrimony
the same sound reasoning with which they consider any other contract. Well, why not be practical?
Molly sighed wearily.
"That's the trouble!" she moaned.
"I'm not practical. I'm romantic."
If only she could banish Jack from her mind! She had heard from him once, since he sailed for England with Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton.
He had sent her a colored postcard of Pontic Vecchio, where she had bought the Borzja ring. There was a message on it. Only his name.
But she had told him about finding his ring there, in the old silver-smith's on the corner. And he had probably gone, seeking something for Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton. Something costly, to suit the woman's fantastic tastes. Molly had torn up the postal furiously. And then, unreasonably, she cried, and dropped the fragments in an envelope, and sealed it, and put it away.

She kept Jack's letters in a secret drawer of her desk. They were tied around with purple ribbon.
Once, when she was younger, she had scented the pack with sweet lavender. The little book of Oscar Wilde's love verse he gave her was there, too. She bought another copy, because she could not bear to hand the one in which Jack had marked the passages he loved. Inside the cover she put the verse about love and a career that she clipped from a newspaper the day of graduation. It was a long time now since she had opened the drawer where her one-time treasures lay. She felt that she could never stand to look at them again.
Red's letters cluttered her bureau drawers. They were witty and entertaining, and she hated to destroy them. She was always meaning to gather them together, and put them away somewhere, so she could laugh over them when she was old.
She wondered what Red would think of Bob's proposal. And she lay on her pretty chaise longue for a long time, meditating.
The trouble with me, she decided "I've been idle too long. I ought to be ashamed of myself! I'll get to work on that book - that's what I'll do!"
The thing had been taking shape
in her mind for some time. Gradually, hazily. Like a furtive dream, full of vague shapes and shadowy substances. The story of a woman who had loved and lost. A woman who had harbored romance for a career and hated the career, and longed for love.
It must be a beautiful book, beautifully written. The heart cry of a lonely woman. She must find lovely words and magnificent phrases.
And she must blend them exquisitely, so the whole should be perfect. The delineation of a woman's life. A passionate woman, passionately seeking. Seeking the things of existence. The cheap, trumpery, tawdry things. Fame, and money, and thrills. Satisfaction unto satiety.
And when she was sated - this woman, who had turned her back on love, would be lonely. And, in her desolation, she would cry with the prophet, "All is vanity and vanization of spirit."

For Molly meant, in her book,
to show that the things of life are as nothing. And only the white-hot flame of love has power to comfort,
and to heal.
It would be a difficult thing to write. Difficult, because it would be the baring of her own innermost existence. No longer should she keep silence to cloak her wounds.
She would write her confession of failure, that all who would might read.
Fired with sudden determination, she began work with fervid enthusiasm. Until dawn, the keys of her little pink typewriter flew up and down beneath her fingers.
She would call her book "Ashes of Desire." And her heroine should be named Lalun. When Molly was quite a small girl, she had two favorite names. One was Lalun.
And the other was Jale. She intended, in those days, to have twins, and named them Lalun and Jale. Jale is a Turkish name, and means Dewdrop. Molly never knew what Lalun meant, but it didn't make any difference. It was a beautiful name, and, since she was never to have twins now, she might as well use it somehow. It seemed more appropriate for the heroine of a tragic novel than Jale, because tragic heroines seldom suggest dewdrops. Lalun had an intriguing sound that might mean almost anything.
She had a hard time getting the first chapter started. It was different than writing plays. All you had to think of for a play was action. Action and dialogue.
But with a novel like "Ashes of Desire" one must be whimsical.
Tender. Profound. Molly went to her book shelves, to see how other authors did. There was George Moore's "Sister Teresa," which was, also, the study of a woman's life.
Molly turned to the opening page.
She was conscious of her indolence within and without her
there was a strange, lifeless calm,
and in her mind, in the landscape
and in her there seemed no before and no hereafter. But a glance inwards revealed to her the ripple of some hidden anticipation moving under the sullen surface.

Molly loved introspective stuff.
Lalun must be introspective. She wondered if it would be plagiarism,
if she should begin, "Lalun was conscious of her own futility; within and without her there was emptiness."
She considered a moment, and then began, swiftly, a type. Before she stopped, Lalun had become a living, breathing woman. A creature of fire and of promise. And, because she was beautiful, she was beloved, of course.
The man who loved her was six feet, one. He had dark hair, and eyes to match. Laughing eyes, and a very strong, determined chin. His hair had a little wave in it, and his chin had a dimple.
Molly took the sheet out of the typewriter, to read what she had written about the man who was Lalun's lover.
"Good heavens!" she thought,
"I've described Jack Wells!"
And so she had. It was like a portrait.

The WOMAN'S DAY

ALLEN G. SPAHR

Charges that Mrs. Mabel Walker
Willebrandt's "own inside story"
of her life and attempts to enforce prohibition, with special attention paid to setting right all criticism against her, is a typically feminine trick, proving that women simply cannot endure criticism as men can, do not seem very sound when one stops to reflect that Mr. Calvin Coolidge, is even now writing his memoirs and explaining many acts for which he was criticized and which criticism, it can be plainly seen, cut rather deeply.
I doubt that either sex has a monopoly on being hurt by criticism, signifying loss of esteem with their fellows, and by the desire to put themselves right.

"LOOK IN THE BOOK!"
The next time the girl at the next desk asks you if you say "the book that I received," suggest that she get a copy of "The Secretary's Handbook," by Sarah Augusta Taintor and Kate M. Munro, which answers all those questions which secretaries ask, and saves the person at the next desk.

"FOR YOUR CHILDREN."
It is interesting to note that the

Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform is making its appeal to "good women" as mothers and wives, asking them if they wish their children reared in such a godless era, just as old-fashioned temperance women round the same plea
for the sake of the dry cause.

MAYBE THEY KNOW.

The National Woman's Party is continuing to shriek loudly and more loudly about "perfect equality of woman with man." One of their last broadsides states that "the struggle for the economic equality of woman with man promises to be even harder than the long and still unfinished struggle for the vote."
Most of us are inclined to take all this rather calmly, reflecting that woman seems to be getting her end of the loaf.
But this party is found right
when one really buckles down and reads reports and sees how the other half lives - the wages that women doing men's jobs earn, etc.
After all, it's just the upper woman who's very "free" today.
Organizations are working for all women - while most of us laugh at them.

Hints On How To Keep Well

MANY POISONOUS GASES TEND TO ACT FIRST ON DELICATE BRAIN TISSUES.

(This is the third of a series of

on poisonous gases and their effect on the human body.)

Medical Association and of Hygiene,

blood and causes changes in the blood that are most always permanent.
Some of the tissues are more affected by gases than are others.
It has been estimated that during rest 80 per cent. of the blood passes through 20 per cent. of the tissues in each round of the circulation and that the remaining 80 per cent. of the tissues receive only 20 per cent. of the blood.
The amount of blood that goes to the brain, the organs of the body and the glands is large; the amount that goes to the muscles,
the bones and the feet is small.
There is no doubt that for this reason the brain is more seriously affected early by small doses of poisonous gas than are other tissues of the body.
With these points in mind, the gases that affect the human being
may be divided into various types.
First are those that cause a lack of oxygen in the body and which produce death by asphyxiating
the human being. Some gases prevent oxygen from getting into the lungs. Other asphyxiating gases act on the blood to keep it from carrying oxygen or on the tissues of the body to keep it from using oxygen.
A second group of gases are called irritating gases. They burn or otherwise injure the surface tissues of the lungs or cause inflammation and in that way prevent absorption of oxygen and producing death.
A third group of gases exert a drug-like action after they get into the blood by way of the lungs.
They include the nitro compounds
which alter and destroy the red coloring of the blood and in that way interfere with the carrying of oxygen, and they include also the anesthetics.

YOUR CHILDREN

When children get older and get out into the world, people won't judge them so much by their clothes as by their manners. At least, the right kind of people won't. As far as that goes, they will judge them by their manners
when they're little, too.
Now, this is not going to be a dissertation on door-banging and foot-wiping, nor a chapter on bowing and handling mildly a chair. It is going to be a long loud howl about the way children are permitted to eat at the table. I've seen some atrocious things lately and I feel that it is time to speak.
When a meal is announced, and it should be announced quietly, not by shrieking and car calls, every child should make a bee line to get his hands washed for I suppose it is asking too much of human nature
at eight or ten to have that function attended to before meal time.
Beginning His Lesson.
That done, each should come promptly into the dining room, sit down without scraping, dragging, or tipping his chair, unfold his napkin part way and lay it - smooth and double straight across his lap, then pull his chair close to the table. A little child may wear a bib, but I'd start early get him away from it.
As soon as he is old enough to handle a spoon without turning it over and can straightway find his mouth. I'd show him about bending over a little when he takes a bite so he won't spill food on his clothes.
Forks are placed when the table
is set, at the left of the plate.
Knives and spoons at the right.
Water glass at the right above

When a child takes a drink,
make him replace the water glass
where it belongs. And teach him to lay his bread on the butter plate
- not on the table cloth. If butter

47 Women Are Entered In Wrigley Marathon

Miss Marth Norelius, Olympic Champion is Picked to Win Chilly Ten Mile Swim.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 23.—As forty-seven women lined the sea wall at the Canadian national exhibition ground here this morning on the start of the ten-mile swim—the first of this year's Wrigley Marathon for the championships of the world—one of them, a young lass bearing a nationally known name but who is competing in her first marathon, was conceded as having the best chance of all.

Meets Helen Wills Today In Semi-Finals of Women's National Tennis Finals.

Forest Hills, Aug. 23.—A bronze complexed woman, with the spirit of conquest burning as strongly within her as it did four years ago when she came to America to establish a monopoly on the national championship, walked off the London in 1924, knock the tennis club yesterday with the cheers of 4,000 spectators acclaiming her for one of the greatest victories of a career that had been thought to have come to a glorious climax three years ago.

Assumes Role of Aggressor.

With her features set in the grim lines of an antagonist fighting a case that everyone else thought hopeless, Mrs. Mallory assumed the role of the aggressor and took her young opponent by storm from the very start.

There was a bandage around the left knee of Mrs. Mallory but in her zeal for the fray and her absorption in her task she never favored her knee or spared herself for a moment but stood to her guns unflinchingly and retrieved everything in sight until it seemed humanly impossible for her to keep up the pace.

It was the former champion's stonewall defense that brought about the defeat of the fair-faced young English girl more than anything else. Miss Nuthall was over-sighting the baseline on her backhand and times, but she was also cocking the ball in the ultimate corners from both wings with racing low drives that should have scored for her and against almost any other player but Mrs. Mallory.

Jesanis Brothers and Ty Holland Win Way Into the Quarter-Finals

Paul Beats Kohls, Don Trims Earl Bissell and Holland Ousts Yuyes; Two Doubles Matches Played; Finals September 7.

Only eight players remain today in the field of 34 that started the battle for the men's town tennis singles championship a few weeks ago. After tomorrow there will be but four of the original sixteen left in the women's division.

It was definitely decided today to postpone the final week so as not to have the title matches during the Labor Day week end as they had been tentatively planned. This action was taken because of numerous requests from tennis players and fans alike who were planning to be out of town the holiday week. The finals will now be held September 7.

Five matches were played last night, three in the men's singles and two in the men's doubles. Tonight there will be only one match, Miss Marjorie Smith, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Robert J. Smith, meeting Miss Elizabeth Washkiewicz in the quarter-finals at the school at 9 o'clock. Tomorrow afternoon Miss Marjorie Smith of Golway street meets Miss Ruth Behrend, defending champion, in the last of the quarter-finals. In addition to the winners of these matches, Alleen McHale and Mildred Holland remain in the competition.

Both of the Jesanis brothers, Paul and Donald, won their second round matches last night without any serious difficulty last night as did Ty Holland, the defending champion. Paul Jesanis took Harry Kohls into camp 6-3, 6-1 while his brother Don was "booked" Earl Bissell, one of the four seeded stars, on the other high school court with equal ease, 6-1, 6-2.

Holland took the measure of Herman Yuyes, captain of the high school team last season in an interesting match at the Nathan Hale, 6-3, 6-2. In each case the loser fought hard but simply bowed to a better man.

Only Eight Left. This leaves only eight players in the quarter-final competition and each will play one match next week or sooner if they desire. The semi-finals, however, will not be played until the Tuesdays, Wednesday and Thursday following Labor Day so as to keep the interest running high. Both finalists must be determined by that Thursday at the latest but Tuesday and Wednesday were more preferable. Semi-final matches must not be played over the Labor Day week-end because there are many fans who want to see the matches.

The pairings for the quarter-final matches next week are as follows:

- Bob Smith vs. Ty Holland. "Cap" Bissell vs. Mac Macdonald.

SEMI-FINAL MATCHES TODAY IN WOMEN'S NATIONAL TENNIS. 2:30 o'clock. Doubles — Mrs. Dorothy C. Shepherd-Barron and Mrs. B. C. Covell, England, vs. Miss Lawrence, A. Harper and Miss Edith Cross, California.

As matters now shape, it looks as though one of the Jesanis brothers, probably Paul will reach the finals from the bottom bracket with Bissell, Holland and Macdonald standing about an even chance in the top half. However, Rev. Greer may split both the Jesanis brothers and Gatti and Smith may also turn in an upset victory. The remaining matches will be a treat for tennis fans and large galleries are expected to witness them. The time of the matches will be announced ahead of time through the Herald.

Doubles Results. In the doubles tournament last night, Fred Mack and Eddie Bateson eliminated Frank Cervini and Harry Russell at 5-7, 6-3, 6-1 while Paul Cervini and Tommy Faulkner nosed out Mac Macdonald and pupil Tom Stowe, 6-4, 7-3, 6-4 in the latter match teams were tied at four games apiece in the third and deciding set when when Cervini and Faulkner took the next two games. This leaves only three more first round matches to be played. Franklin and Allan Dexter meet Aldo Gatti and Eddie Markley, but this has been delayed because Gatti is on a vacation. It may be played Sunday. Albert de Nivelle and Paul Jesanis meet Hudson Lyons and David Samuelson, but Lyons has been on a vacation. Earl Bissell and Bob Dawson will meet Rev. Greer and Francis Burr at 6 o'clock tonight at the Nathan Hale. The mixed doubles matches will also get under way over the week end. The finals of all three tournaments will be played two weeks from tomorrow.

It certainly pays to advertise. The Union Pacific railroad offices at Omaha, Neb., learned this when the two stacks of letters shown above came as answers to widespread advertisements.

TACKLE SCHOOLS MAZE WEDNESDAY

Special Ninth District Meeting Called Few Days Before School Begins.

The long deferred problem of the Ninth District schools and the town's use of Barnard school as a High school annex, which has been out of the public eye for months while the fall term of school steadily approaches, bids fair to be threshed out, in part at least, at a special meeting of the voters of the Ninth district, which the District Committee has called for next Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, standard time, at the High School Assembly hall.

RAIDS IN CHINATOWN

Boston, Aug. 23—Large quantities of opium and smoking implements were seized, and ten Chinese were arrested early today when five car loads of police from the headquarters vice-squad raided a four-story house in Albany street.

SHUN ICE WAGON

Two football stars who haven't done their spring training toting weights blocks of ice around on their shoulders are Milo Labratorovich and Kenneth Kruger, line-men candidates for the University of Wisconsin's ten this year.

BITES POLICEMAN

New York, Aug. 23—Maybe this is news: Omar Lutefy, 30, paid a $10 fine in Tombs Court for biting a policeman in the leg. We was over-stimulated with Bowery liquor at the time, he told the judge.

SLUMP AFFLICTING CONNIE'S PLAYERS

Have Dropped Five Out of Six Last Games; Yankees Doing Just as Poorly.

It requires no Philo Vance or even a second cousin of the famed snooter to observe that Mr. Mack's athletics are writhing these days in the throes of a terrible slump. Five out of their last six have five out of six for a ball club that has been storming along at a better than .700 clip is slumping with a capital S.

The question naturally arises as to what the Yankees have been doing about it. The answer is, little if anything.

Yesterday while Moses (Ace-of-the-Staff) Grove was being tortured 4 to 3 by the White Sox, the Yankees calmly submitted to a ten to nothing shellacking at the hands of the Browns. Sam Gray rung up his 16th win of the season at the New Yorkers' expense. Due to the injury of Schulte and Manush the Browns used a scrub outfield but it performed in excellent fashion.

Goslin and Hayes rapped homers as Washington defeated Detroit, 6 to 1, in the first game of the series.

Boston and Cleveland enjoyed a day of rest due to rain.

National Affairs
National affairs were featured by the hitting spree enjoyed by the Cubs who, away from a close series with the Giants, let loose their heavy artillery to bombard the Phillies, 16 to 7. The League leaders made 21 hits. Four pitchers worked for Philadelphia and three for Chicago. Hack Wilson hit his 32nd homer and Cy Williams, substituting for the ailing Chuck Klein, got three hits, one a homer. The harried Giants dropped another game, this time to the Pirates by a 6 to 2 measure. The two clubs gathered 17 hits, all singles. Petty went the route for Pittsburgh and had very little trouble.

Brooklyn's Robins went berserk and followed Wednesday's 1 to 0 triumph over the Cards with a 13 to 9 victory over Cincinnati in the first of a series. Seventeen hits, including five doubles and two triples rattled off Brooklyn's bats while the Reds produced 15 safeties, which included five doubles and a home run. Trailing 5 to 0 in the third the Robins proceeded to score nine runs.

The Cardinals broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth to whip the Braves, 6 to 4. Jimmy Wilson hit a home run with one on.

Goat Butts Into the Cabinet

She got Secretary of State Stimson's goat—just long enough to pose before the camera. Pretty Catherine Brown is shown holding "Billie the Kid," the eight-month-old Angora goat sent to the cabinet member from an admirer in San Angelo, Tex. He'll be able to chew the rag with any Washington politician and perhaps horn in on some important conferences.

MIGHT NOT FIGHT

The Risiko-K. O. Christner go. scheduled to be pulled off in Cleveland, Sept. 4, might not come off because Charley Marotta, promoter, has refused to divulge names of his associates to the city boxing commission. It is reported that both fighters have already signed for $5000 each.

FERRELL STOPS THE BAM

Wes Ferrell, by walking Babe Ruth three times in a recent game with the Indians, broke the Big Bam's streak of hitting four home runs in that many consecutive games. Three of those home runs were against the Cleveland team in a home stand.

Count Keyserling writes that a man is never worse off for hard muscular work. Wonder if the count dictates to a stenographer or writes his own stuff.

Last Night Fights

At Waterbury—Louis Kid Kaplan defeated Joe Trabon, Buffalo lightweight, in ten rounds.

At New York—Artie Thomas, Brownville, knocked out Felix Milano, Havana, in second round.

At Bridgeport—Tommy Lown,

New York, won eight round decision over Harry Ferry of McKeesport, Pa.

BUFFALO WINS.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Buffalo's Junior Bisons won the eastern championship of the American Legion baseball series and will go to Louisville next month to contest for national honors against a western team yet to be selected.

Buffalo won out by defeating Lisbon Falls, Maine, 6 to 4.

When the U. S. fleet visited Panama last winter, sailors spent around $5,000,000. Cobs of money, as 'twere.

ITALIAN ACE KILLED

Rome, Aug. 23.—Italy's hopes for victory in the Schneider Cup seaplane races to be held off the Isle of Wight, England, next month received another severe setback today.
Captain Giuseppe Motta, a member of the Italian Schneider Cup team, was almost instantly killed when his plane plunged into the lake at Desenzano during a trial flight.
The plane, built especially for the races, was totally destroyed. Only a few weeks ago another Italian Schneider Cup plane met a similar fate at the same spot, but the pilot escaped with minor injuries.
Captain Motta was one of the chief members of the Schneider Cup team, and was regarded as one of Italy's chief hopes of winning the coveted aviation speed trophy.

FOREST FIRE RAGES.

Glens Falls, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The biggest forest fire of the year in the lower Adirondacks, blamed on campers, today destroyed a saw mill and several thousand feet of lumber on Huckleberry mountain before 75 fire fighters gained control.

REPORT MASSACRE.

London, Aug. 23.—It is officially reported from Szechich, Hupeh Province, China, that the Red leader Ho Lung and his followers burned fifty persons to death and massacred 800 families and destroyed 2,000 houses by fire, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Canton this afternoon.

Speedboat Crash Kills Wealthy Pair

Inheriting $5,000,000, Mr. and Mrs. W. Charles Lipe, of Syracuse, N. Y., turned to speedy sports—airplanes and racing boats—but agreed never to fly together for fear their three children might be orphaned by an accident. But the pact did not include speedboats, and the other day both were killed, with their pilot, in a collision with an excursion craft on the St. Lawrence river. Here you see the hole torn into the prow of the latter boat. Mrs. Lipe is pictured in the inset.

THE VAGABOND KING COMING TO HARTFORD

Cast Selected from 3 Major Companies to Produce Famous Operetta Soon.

The management of the Parsons theater, Hartford, announced the forthcoming engagements of "The Vagabond King," Sept. 5, 6 and 7. The Vagabond King was styled by critics everywhere as the most thrilling operetta ever aspect of considerable moral value, selected from the New York, Chicago and Boston companies, and is said to be one of the finest that has yet interpreted this brilliant musical play. The original scenic production is being brought intact, and all of the effects and costumes exactly as presented at the Casino Theater, New York, the Great Northern, Chicago and at the Winter Garden Theater, London. The original orchestra from the Casino Theater is being brought. The leading role of Francis Wilson, the vagabond poet, and "king for a day," is played by Paul Keast, rated as one of the best singers and actors ever seen in this great role. Joseph Miller is seen as King Louis XI. All other roles are equally well cast. Only the finest voices from the three major casts having been chosen.

BULLS ON A RAMPAGE AT MARKET'S OPENING

New York, Aug. 23.—"Bulls" on the New York Stock Exchange went on a rampage at the opening of the market today, sending many issues into new high ground for all time. United States Steel soared 5 1/2 points to 255 3/4. Two weeks ago today this stock opened at 216. It's sensational rise has been a feature of the market since.
Other new highs established in early trading were: Westinghouse 291, up 14 points from yesterday's close and a 34-point advance since Wednesday; Dupont 214, up 8 points on top of a ten point gain

STORMS DELAY HOP

Paris, Aug. 23.—Unfavorable weather conditions today continued to delay the start of Captain Diodonne Cote's famous French aviator on his second attempt to fly the Atlantic from east to west. Cote and his navigator, Maurice Bellonte, have taken their plane, the Question Mark, to Valjacoubey field, which is too small for a take-off, to await improvement in weather conditions.

GAS BUGGIES—Poor But Proud

NOW THAT YOU'RE STRONG ENOUGH TO SIT UP, DARLING, LET'S DISCUSS OUR FUTURE. I'M A POOR MAN NOW, BUT WHEN SQUIRE HIGGINS FINANCES MY IRRIGATION SCHEME, I'LL SOON HAVE SOMETHING MORE THAN POVERTY TO OFFER YOU.

OH! ALEC, I NEVER, NEVER WANT TO BE SEPARATED AGAIN. ALL I ASK IS YOUR LOVE, I HAVE PLENTY OF MONEY. LET ME FINANCE THE DAM AND WE WON'T HAVE TO WAIT.

NO, DARLING, I'M ONE WHO INSISTS UPON FEATHERING HIS OWN NEST. BUT I'M GOING TO SEE THAT SQUIRE MONDAY AND AS SOON AS THE DAM IS STARTED, WE'LL FLY AWAY TOGETHER.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS: SENSE and NONSENSE

Not holding a putter at the right angle causes many a slip twist the cup and the tip.

Why I Like Business

I like business because it demands faith. Faith in human nature, faith in one's self, faith in one's customers, faith in one's employers. I like business because it rewards deeds and not words. I like business because it does not neglect today's task while it is thinking about tomorrow. I like business because it undertakes to please, not to reform. I like business because it is orderly. I like business because it is bold in enterprise. I like business because it is honestly selfish, thereby avoiding the possible hypocrisy and sentimentality of the "unselfish" attitude. I like business because it is promptly penalized for its mistakes, shiftlessness, or inefficiency. I like business because its philosophy works. I like business because each day is a fresh adventure.

The Grocer's Love

The grocer loved a charming girl, As lovely as the day; He wondered if she would marry him, And said "Let soap she may."

And straightway to her house he went, Her lovely face to see, Exclaiming, "Ah, I know full well That cheese the girl for me."

The girl was very kind and said That she was very glad To see him there and then remarked: What a bad coffee had.

Then they got most kittenish And she let him kiss her brow, But when he spoke of marriage, she said "Oh, do not tease me now."

- 1. Who and his money are soon parted? 2. Who rush in where angels fear to tread? 3. One what is born every minute? 4. Who addressed his prayer to a rag, a bone, etc? 5. No what like an old what? 6. You can't what all the people all the time? 7. To whom is April 1st dedicated? 8. No whattin'?

Fruity Item

An orangeman's son who thought he was some pumpkins had a date with a peach who was the apple of his eye. But when she handed him a lemon and told him he was full of prunes and even set the piano in the cozy corner he had once nectarine, he went plum crazy. They'll never make a pair because she doesn't care a fig for him.

Fond Parent (finishing story) And they lived happily ever after, Angel Child. Gee, pop, lucky they didn't get married.

A woman has to be pretty sure of her husband to wear outing flannel night-gowns.

WATER GOLF

A PUZZLING DRINK.

ROOT BEER is the beverage on the letter golf menu today. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

THE RULES.

- 1-The Idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

Feed a cold and starve a fever, so runs the old adage. What makes us wonder is why every girl we take out has a cold.

The well known and more or less human race seems to enjoy nothing better than to be told by some evangelist how mean it is.

TINYMITE

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The aviator spun along. His motor sang a whirring song and all the little Tynmites wondered just how long they'd ride. The canvas that they clung to tight was still intact and seemed all right. At times 'twas hard to keep a hold. Their hands appeared to slide. "Say, I don't care for this at all," said Copy. "I'm afraid I'll fall. I wish he'd take us down to earth where we'd be safe and sound. Of course we may be safe up here and likely there is naught to fear, but I would feel much better if my feet were on the ground." "Me, too," snapped Clowny. "I don't care to stay so high up in the air. The way the motor's humming, I don't think 'twill ever stop. The thing that really frightens me is that we may sail o'er the sea. Supposin' this brave flyer's on a long, long ocean hop." Said Scouty, "There you go again. You think of queer things now and then that always make us worry. I just hope that you are wrong. Let's just hang on and cease to fret, 'cause we must take what ere we get. The aviator seems real kind. He won't stay up for long." And then the plane began to drop. At last the flyer planned to stop. "We're getting closer to the ground," cried Carpy. "This is great! If Mister Flyer'll only land, I'll very gladly shake his hand. Just think of being safe again. Why, I can hardly wait." The plane then took a sudden swoop, which made the Tynmites gaily whoop! The canvas dragged upon the ground and then the airplane's wheels bumped for a moment on the earth, took a hop and brought the big plane to a stop. The Tynmites were not hurt, though they went right head over heels. (The Tynmites meet the aviator in the next story.)
