NAVAL CUT PARLEY REACHES A CRISIS

Latest British Offer in Cruiser Controversy Unsatisfactory to the President and the Naval Experts.

Washington, Sept. 9.—A critical stage has been reached in the naval negotiations with Great Britain. The latest British offer in the cruiser controversy is unsatisfactory both to President Hoover and to the Admirals of the Navy General Board, which have been studying it for a week. Mr. Hoover doesn't like it because the tonnage limitation proposed would still necessitate completion of the 15-cruiser program which he had hoped to avoid. The Admirals don't like it because it would still require the British Navy preponderant in gross tonnage as well as number of ships. This week will see the American objections go forward to London— if, indeed, they have not already been communicated to Ambassador Davies. The State Department doesn't say whether a note has actually been dispatched. If it hasn't it is only a matter of a short time until it is.

Figures Withheld. Although the actual figures proposed by the British are withheld, it is understood that a tonnage limitation of approximately 350,000 tons has been suggested. Britain now has built, building and authorized some 407,000 tons of cruisers, embraced in 64 units. The reduction would be accomplished by not replacing ten old light cruisers of 3,750 tons each, which will be ready for the scrapheap in 1935, and by the scrapping of 23,000 tons of cruisers that exist only in the blueprints. Below this figure, the British Admiralty has refused to go, it is understood here. It represents what the Admiralty considers the "irreducible minimum" required for national safety, and the British willingness to go that far is contingent upon an understanding with the United States concerning the type of the 10,000-ton, 8-inch gun cruisers which the American Navy experts consider so necessary to the American navy.

Difficult to Adjust. The difficulties of the situation become immediately apparent when America's present authorized building strength in cruisers is ranged alongside the British figures. As compared to the British suggestion of 350,000 tons, the American Navy now has built and building 155,000 tons of modern cruisers. Congress last year ordered the immediate construction of 15 units of 10,000 tons each, or 150,000 tons. Thus even the completion of this program—which President Hoover

Hoover to Help Replace This School

It never was much of a school house, but it was better than none. Now this dilapidated educational institution in the mountains near President Hoover's summer camp in Virginia has been abandoned and children in the vicinity have to walk from seven to ten miles for instruction in the three R's. But there'll be a new school building soon on the site of the one shown above, and the President himself is heading a committee to raise funds for its construction.

HOT CONTESTS IN PRIMARIES ON TOMORROW

Local Parties to Nominate Candidates at Polls—Republican's Committee Opposes Jensen Ticket.

Polls will open at the Municipal building tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock for the annual local party primaries. They will close at nine o'clock, daylight time. Both the Republican and Democratic parties will nominate candidates for town offices. There are four contests in the Republican party and two in the Democratic party. In the Republican party five of the present Board of Selectmen seek re-nomination. They are Albert T. Jackson, George E. Keith, William W. Robertson, Thomas J. Rogers and Wells A. Strickland. These five candidates have the endorsement of the Republican town committee simply because that committee believes it good policy to re-elect tried and faithful servants. Two other candidates who have the personal endorsement of members of the committee are Arvid Gustafson and Jarle E. Johnson.

The Other Candidates. Other candidates as Republican Selectmen who have been injected into the contest through the efforts of John Jensen, former assessor, and this year a candidate again for the job, are Sherwood G. Bowers, Forest N. Buckland, W. Harley Palmer, Dr. F. A. Sweet and Frank V. Williams. Many of these have been put up for nomination without particular desire to serve and are not working for the nomination. William H. Cowley, whose name will appear as a candidate does not want the nomination and asks the voters not to cast their votes for him. Sherwood G. Bowers has told The Herald that his name was entered by John Jensen, but that he has no

ALL ON BOARD KILLED AS AIR LINER CRASHED

165 Persons Drowned In Series Of Wrecks

London, Sept. 9.—A wave of tragedy and disaster has swept down over European shipping during the past 48 hours. Total casualties in two of the three maritime disasters were estimated at about 165. Many of the victims being children. The Finnish steamship Kuru sank off Tammerfors, Finland, while carrying 150 passengers, many of them school children. A dispatch from Helsinki reports that between 80 and 100 bodies had been washed ashore, but previous estimates of the dead and missing stood at 150.

It is feared that 15 persons perished when fire swept the British oil tank ship Vimeira off the Dutch coast. The Nelson liner Highland Pride grounded near Vigo, Spain, but, according to late advices from Vigo, the passengers, numbering sixty or more, and the crew, were rescued. The Highland Pride was reported to have sunk after being pounded by high seas for hours. The Swedish steamship Heimdal, with forty passengers and 30 seamen, sank off Ostans, near Stockholm, but all aboard were rescued in small boats.

FIND EIGHT IN WRECK

'City of San Francisco' Turned Back by Storm Smashes Into Side of Mountain—'Death by Accident.' Coroner's Verdict—Bodies Brought to Gallup, N. M.—Pilot Discovers Plane on Saturday

Gallup, N. M., Sept. 9.—Bodies of six of the eight victims of the spectacular crash last Tuesday of the T. A. T. airliner 'City of San Francisco' were here today in a morgue. A difficult all-day task, broken briefly at Grants, N. M., for the formality of a coroner's inquest, ended when the bodies of Pilot Jesse Stowe, Co-Pilot Edward Dietel, C. F. Canfield, the courier, the crew, and M. M. Campbell, Harris Livermore and William H. Beers, passengers, had arrived here by pack train and auto ambulance. The coroner's verdict was "death by airplane accident."

Deputy Coroner McBride at the inquest, turned over the trinkets by which the broken and charred bodies had been identified to Valencia county sheriffs. Every body had been fully identified. The bodies of A. B. McGaffey, Albuquerque lumberman, and Mrs. George Reynolds, daughter of the superintendent of the T. A. T. airport, were sent direct to Albuquerque. The body of Harris Livermore, banker and shipping man, was to leave tonight for Boston, his home.

Disposition of the other bodies still awaited instructions from relatives early today. The theory that the "City of San Francisco" had been struck by lightning before it smashed into the south slope of Mount Taylor, 90 miles by tortuous trail from here, was not considered by the coroner's jury. Fire, which completed the destruction wrought when the pallid tri-motored all-metal ship, spinning dense rain clouds and bucking whipping winds, struck the peak, was probably caused by sparks from the ignition system, it was testified. Had Turned Back. The "City of San Francisco" had turned back on its Albuquerque to Los Angeles course when Pilot Stowe found the storm too strong, it was apparent from the scattered wreckage. The metal parts of the wings and fuselage, scattered along 300 yards of the rocky mountain slope. Discovery of the wreck came Saturday when Pilot George Rice in a Western Air Express passenger plane with two crew aides and four men aboard, flew over Mount Taylor, circled the wreckage thrice and sped on to Albuquerque to flash word to Los Angeles that terminated a five-day hunt over the wilds of Arizona and New Mexico.

Search parties then were formed at Cabelle ranches, small Santa Fe stations and by air. T. A. T. and other airplanes gathered over the mountain like soaring eagles, while keen eyes and telephoto cameras sought to determine the facts from the air. No landing could be made within 130 miles of the peak. First to Reach Wreck. The first to reach the wreck were members of a search party from a government survey camp on a shoulder of the mountain, 11 miles from the debris. While the coroner's inquest was regarded as closed with the return of a verdict at the little railway station of Grants late last night, other inquiries were still starting. The most serious passenger plane crash in the history of southwest aviation was to be probed thoroughly by the Department of Commerce Bureau of aeronautics.

Major Clarence M. Young, commissioner of aviation of the government, had arrived by air at Albuquerque. Pacific coast headquarters of the T. A. T., to pursue the investigation. E. J. Hasen, inspector of the bureau, was on Mount Taylor soon after the first searching party had reached the wreck. He refused to comment pending collection of more data. It was the opinion of Rice and other aviators, who had studied the wreckage from the air and had known of the storm conditions Tuesday, that the wrecked liner had been

HOLY LAND QUIET FOR THE THIRD DAY

Bitter Disputes Replace Fighting in Palestine; Different Charges Made.

London, Sept. 9.—Bitter exchange of words replaced fighting in Palestine today, as the situation throughout the Holy Land was reported generally quiet for the third day in succession. With the exception of a general boycott by both Jews and Arabs, nearly normal conditions now prevail. There remains considerable tension, however, but dispatches from Jerusalem indicate that the worst of the serious inter-racial rioting is not past. Prominent leaders of both faiths have taken outspoken stands in defense of their actions in the recent outbreaks. Amin El Hussein, grand mufti of Jerusalem and president of the Moslem Supreme Council, has made a lengthy statement alleging that the first shot in the outbreak was fired by the Jews, a Jerusalem dispatch to the Daily Mail declared. Jews Deny Charge. Rabbi Chaim Sonnenfeld, a resident of Palestine for more than forty years, has quickly denied this charge, the dispatch continues. The grand mufti stated he was convinced that an unbiased inquiry would show the Jews responsible for the outbreaks. "Jewish ambition and greed," the Moslem leader declared, "were deliberately responsible for provoking the Arabs' attack in order to gain the support of the whole world for reopening the question of the Walling."

The disturbances which led to great loss of life and property in Jerusalem and other Palestine centres were caused by the mistaken notion of a Jerusalem Jew who, in panic or deliberately, provoked the Arab attack by firing a revolver or throwing a bomb when he saw a large number with the usual Moslem sense of display bearing swords, daggers and sticks when leaving the Mosque of Omar. The United Arabs. In addition the grand mufti charged, young Jews marched through the Moslem quarter bearing national flags and singing national songs "at the same time insolently threatening Arabs. "From that day until the fateful

Says Jensen—Manning Should Not Hold Office

Both Have Been Tried Before, Says Willard B. Rogers in Letter to Herald, and Have Been Repudiated by Voters.

The following letter, addressed to The Herald, is unusually timely in that it discusses the candidates in tomorrow's Republican primary. Editor of The Herald: Occasionally unique political moves are considered strategic and the creator is entitled to commendation but if the expose in the two column caption on the front page of The Herald of Saturday doesn't brand the attempt of John Jensen to usurp all of the power in town as the acme of arrogance I am at a loss to understand the English language. Several weeks ago, I told Hans Jensen, son of John Jensen, when he came to my home to ask me to sign his father's proposal paper for the office of assessor that I did not intend to participate in local politics this year. But when Fred Manning and John Jensen attempted to take over the reins of government it behooves every citizen with one iota of regard for Manchester, the most wonderful town in the country, to take off his coat and go to work—not for these men and their candidates, but against them.

The Records. If anyone wants to know what type of government we have a right to expect from an organization guided by Fred Manning all he has to do is telephone any resident of the Fifth School district and learn why the Manning regime was ousted from control this summer. In the first place, the town school board had to order sanitary improvements in the school which was under the Manning regime. But even then, Mr. Manning refused to allow the attempt of John Jensen to usurp all of the power in town as the acme of arrogance I am at a loss to understand the English language. Several weeks ago, I told Hans Jensen, son of John Jensen, when he came to my home to ask me to sign his father's proposal paper for the office of assessor that I did not intend to participate in local politics this year. TARIFF WAR ON IN THE SENATE

Bill Itself to Be Shoved Out of Spotlight Until Income Tax Problem Is Settled.

Washington, Sept. 9.—After weeks of preliminary skirmishing, the tariff wars get under way today in the Senate, with a strong Democratic-Insurgent coalition fighting enactment of the administration's new $600,000,000 revenue bill. The bill itself will be shoved out of the spotlight in the opening clash while the Democratic-Insurgent coalition seeks to secure publicity on the income tax returns of corporations, benefiting from the tariff. When that question is decided, the House approved but which the organization fixed.

The administration was under fire from two sides as the battle started. First, the coalition denounced the administrative features and attacked the rates. Secondly, a group of farm organizations demanded farm products "thus attacking the agricultural schedule which Republican leaders declared was the highest in the history of tariff legislation.

Farmers' Demands. The farm leaders, in a statement sent every Senator, demanded higher duties on sugar, tobacco, cattle, cheese, flaxseed, white potatoes, raw wool, hay, staple cotton and a long list of vegetables. They specifically demand restoration of the $240 duty on Cuban sugar, which the House approved but which the farm appeal was made in behalf of the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau Federation and a number of wool, dairy, livestock, cotton and vegetable co-operatives.

The demand of the farm organizations created a perplexing situation in the Senate. The insurgents, who come from the middle west, have joined with Democrats in attacking the new Republican rates as too high. If they respond to the appeal of the farm organizations, the insurgents will have to change their program to the extent of pleading for higher agricultural rates, while opposing increases in industrial rates. Such a procedure will further complicate a tariff battle, already intricate.

The bill undoubtedly will be debated for months. Administration leaders have hopes of enacting it by law by December 1, but Democratic leaders have declared it cannot pass before Christmas, which carry the tariff battle into the next

MAINE VOTING TODAY ON ITS WATER POWER

Expect Heavy Vote; To Ship or Not to Ship Hydro-Electric Power Out of the State Is the Question.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 9.—Water power equal to the present output of Niagara Falls on both the American and Canadian sides, 600,000 horsepower developed and close to a million horsepower undeveloped, dashed over the dams or swept down the rocky beds of rivers to the sea in the background in the Pine State today as voters at the ballot boxes were asserting their views on the twenty-year-old power question. To ship or not to ship surplus hydro-electric energy outside of Maine was the chief question on the referendum ballot. The referendum called for the ratification or rejection of the Smith-Carlton act, which passed the Legislature. It would amend the Fernald law, passed twenty years ago, which forbids export of Maine's water power energy.

Fair Weather. Under the Smith-Carlton act, sale of Maine's hydro-electric energy beyond the state line would be through the agency of transmission companies. An excise tax of four per cent of the revenue obtained from the sale of exported power would be paid to the state by the generating companies. Only surplus power would be exported would be determined by the Public Service Commission. One-half of the gross income up to $250,000 per year would be used for rural electrification.

Brewster Opposed. Scores of political destinies hung in the balance as the voters cast their ballots for men, their political aspirations have either endorsed or condemned the act. The next United States Senatorial contest may be involved as former Governor Ralph O. Brewster, said to be in the running for the Senate, has stood with those contending that there is no surplus of electric power and no surplus can exist until every isolated farmhouse in Maine has electricity. Victory by opponents of the export plan would likely bring about a new alignment in the Republican Party in Maine, according to political experts here. Former Governor Percival P. Baxter has endorsed the act.

During the campaign, the charge was made that the excise tax feature made the act unconstitutional. If the Act is approved by the voters the whole matter may have to be considered over again. Opponents of exportation have claimed that if Maine sends power to other states she will become simply an hydro-electric power station with no industries, that water power is a "natural heritage" and that, as ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, told the Maine Legislature, unless the people watch out they will be swept off the map after the "power octopus" has "choked up everything in sight. Proponents of the Act have replied that $5,000,000 will be invested in Maine the minute the Act is approved, that power companies from Chicago and elsewhere having large holdings in Maine, with additional business obtained by exportation will be able to lower rates in Maine and attract industries with cheap power, and that the average distance to other states that power travels from powerhouses is but 22 miles.

Maine is said to be the only state in the union that forbids the export of power. A second referendum question being voted on in Maine today was one calling for an increase in the gasoline tax from four to five cents.

Three constitutional amendments were also being voted on. One calling for the issuance of $10,000,000 in bonds for the construction and re-

Crash Victim

Henry Beers, above, editor of the magazine Golf Illustrated, was among the eight killed when the trans-continental air liner, City of San Francisco, crashed during a storm in Black Rock Valley, N. M. He was en route to the national amateur golf tournament at Pebble Beach, Calif. He formerly was editor of Fourth Estate, a publication for newspapers.

SECURITY LEAGUE DENIES SHEARER

Talked Over Radio for Big-ger Navy But Was Never Paid by the League.

New York, Sept. 9.—The National Security League, organized for stimulating interest in great national defense, today admitted that William E. Shearer, propagandist, had made the far for a Navy officer over the radio in its behalf but denied any knowledge of Shearer's claim that naval intelligence data had been supplied him in his activity to prevent naval reduction or that four rear-admirals had backed him in his work.

"Shearer did make radio talks for the League," said J. W. Piederma, executive secretary of the defense organizations. However, he was not paid for this work nor are any of our speakers. This is as far as Shearer's connection went with the League. We have no knowledge as to his assertion that navy officials, active and retired, supported him in his activities or that data was supplied him by the Navy Department."

A number of high American naval officials have been associated directly or indirectly with the campaign of the National Security League. Facing a Senatorial investigation, Shearer today recorded himself as willing to testify before a Congressional committee. He declared he was paid by American shipbuilding interests in his work against curtailment of the American Navy and asserted that he was provided with official data from the Navy Department when he attended the naval limitations conference at Geneva in 1927.

Names Admirals. Shearer said that he would not reveal the names of the Navy Department executives who had given him the data until called before the Senatorial committee. However, he alleged that Rear-Admirals Samuel S. Robinson, Charles P. Plunkett, William V. Pratt and Henry A. Wiley had urged him in

G. A. R. VETERANS GATHER IN MAINE

But 2,000 Present at National Encampment—Big Parade on Wednesday.

Portland, Me., Sept. 9.—Only a faded blue remnant of that once mighty army—the Grand Army of the Republic—was here today as the opening of the 68th National encampment. Ranks thinned by the scythe of the "grim reaper" and by sickness, less than two thousand comrades of the Republic gathered. At the last encampment here, forty years ago, ten thousand soldiers in their prime invaded the city, with the "Black Eagle," General John A. Logan, riding ahead.

Tans. Iowa, had suggested in presidential speech that the activities of the G. A. R. would die with the passing of its members. But the Grand Army men and members of allied patriotic bodies were thrilled by the reply of Delavan B. Bowley, of San Francisco, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans, who said. "The Grand Army of the Republic will never die. It belongs to the ages, and, like John Brown's body and soul, will go marching on forever, for the sons of union veterans will take over the work and prove themselves real sons of worthy patriots."

Public schools will be closed Wednesday for the gala event of the encampment, a parade down Congress street, from Longfellow Square by a reviewing stand at city building. Automobiles have been provided for most of the visiting veterans. All members of allied organizations will march.

MARSHALL SERIOUSLY ILL. Zurich, Sept. 9.—Louis Marshall, aged New York lawyer who recently underwent two serious abdominal operations here, is still in a very weakened state, and there is no decided change in his condition, Dr. Emanuel Libman stated today. Dr. Libman announced last night that the patient's pulse was a trifle more rapid and his condition weaker than on the preceding day.

MISTRIAL ORDERED IN GASTONIA CASE

One of Jurymen Suffers Complete Mental Collapse and Famous Trial Ends.

Court Room, Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 9.—The trial of sixteen radical strikers for the murder of Police Chief O. F. Adersholt, came to an abrupt end today when Judge M. C. Barnhill ordered a mistrial. The mistrial was ordered after testimony was presented to the court that J. G. Campbell one of the jurymen, had suffered a complete mental collapse over the week-end and was unable to continue service. Judge Barnhill then overruled a motion by the defense to admit to bond the 13 male defendants held on a first degree murder charge in the slaying of Chief Adersholt of Gastonia.

Long Conference. Earlier in the day counsel for both sides entered into a long conference to look into the legal aspects of the situation which suddenly confronted the court.

Shortly after the ordering of a mistrial, it developed that one of the defendants was not in the court room when the order was made. So an officer was sent to bring all of them back into the court room after they had been taken to their cells.

A few minutes later an officer reported the missing defendant was ill. Judge Barnhill's full order was "the court, from the evidence which appears on record, finds as a fact that, pending the trial of the case, one of the jurors, J. G. Campbell, has suffered a mental and physical collapse and is now suffering from an acute attack of emotional insanity, from which there is no probability that he will sufficiently recover to enable the court to proceed with the trial and he is wholly incapacitated for fourth jury duty, by reason of which the jury is not now constituted of twelve men of sound mind as contemplated by the statute. "Whereupon, it is directed by the Washington, Sept. 9.—Claudius C. Huston, Tennessee manufacturer and business man, was unanimously elected chairman of the Republican National committee today. Tennessee was President Hoover's choice for the job and his elevation went through without a hitch and with considerable outward show of enthusiasm. Incidentally, he is the first Southerner ever to occupy the post. Succeeds Dr. Work. The new Republican director takes the chair vacated by Dr. Hubert work, who successfully steered the committee through the Hoover campaign. Work's resignation was accepted by the committee at today's meeting with many speeches of regret at his retirement. President Hoover joined in the chorus of praise for the retiring chairman, sending a letter which was read to the assembled committee in which he extolled the labors of the retiring director during the last campaign. Huston was placed in nomination by Mrs. Betulah Hughes, Tennessee's national committee woman, "as representative of the state which gave

MILLIONS GAMBLE IN NUMBERS GAME

But Government Can Do Nothing to Prevent Treasury Balance Being Used.

Washington, Sept. 9.—"The Mississippi Bubble," one of the greatest lottery frauds in American history, had little on the new gambling game of "numbers" or "policy," which is sweeping the nation to the tune of millions of dollars in losses every day. This was agreed today by Treasury, Post Office and Justice Department officials, who said after an investigation this system of gambling on the Treasury net balance, causing house figures violated no Federal law. Every day the press associations and newspapers which operate their own news distribution systems, furnish these statistics to thousands of readers. Many newspapers print these daily and on the basis of the changes gamblers in virtually every state lay from a dime to several thousands dollars that they can guess the correct figure. Odds Against Players. Odds are about a billion to one that they lose. Because of thousands of protests reaching the Treasury against the illegal use of these prosaic figures which are issued on the so-called "daily statement," with the demand that action be taken to break up this form of gambling, a three-way investigation was launched by the Treasury, Justice and Post Office Departments. The matter has been probed thoroughly. The Treasury held that the government was powerless and suggested that violations discovered should be reported locally and prosecuted under state laws. The Justice Department said that the gamblers, who were said to have offices in many cities, were not operating interstate and therefore could not be touched by the Federal government. Legitimate News. At the post office department legal experts declared that the distribution and publication of Treasury and Clearing House statistics were en-

BATTLE TO SECURE BANK SECURITIES Over $200,000 Involved in Waggoner's Case—State Wants Funds for Bank.

Telluride, Colo., Sept. 9.—With $200,000 securities at stake, representatives of various interests involved in the one half million dollar financial scheme allegedly engineered by C. D. Waggoner, missing president of the Bank of Telluride, will match wits today in an effort to obtain them for their clients.

The securities represent collateral on loans which Waggoner paid off with a portion of the half million dollars placed to the credit of his bank in the Chase National bank of New York after six New York banks had received fake telegrams from Denver requesting them to deposit amounts ranging from $75,000 to $100,000 for the Bank of Telluride.

The legal battle will open with the arrival here of a train already delayed by track washouts. The package containing the securities is addressed to the Bank of Telluride.

Legal Proceedings. D. M. Hughes, Montrose, Colo., attorney, who represents several New York institutions, will, through the sheriff's office, attempt to gain custody of the fortune.

Grant Merson, state banking commissioner on the other hand, has declared he will take any steps necessary to protect the Bank of Telluride and retain for its benefit any funds that Waggoner had deposited to its credit.

For state bank examiners, working under Merson, have taken charge of the affairs of the bank here and the missing man's institution at Norwood, Colo., the Bank of Norwood.

Waggoner, who for several days apparently took no precautions to conceal his identity and travelled through Nebraska with his wife, is still missing. Delos Waggoner, his son, and his wife also have disappeared and are being sought by authorities.

SISTERS ARRESTED IN PANTAGES CASE

Charged With Trying to Intimidate Witness; One Tries to Kill Landlord.

Los Angeles, Sept. 9.—What is perhaps the most sensational development in the criminal attack charges pending against Alexander T. Pantages, millionaire theater owner, came today following the arrest of Nancy Lee, 25, sculptress and Janice Hill, his sister, 19.

The two sisters were taken into custody yesterday in a carefully planned raid on an apartment by District Attorney Buron Fitts and three detective lieutenants of the Hollywood police station.

Both girls are being held today in the county jail under $25,000 bail. Miss Lee charged with suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, and her sister detained as a material witness.

Sensational Report
The arrests, according to Fitts, were the result of a sensational report brought to him several days ago by the manager of the Pantages apartment in which the two sisters moved one week ago. Knowing that several important state witnesses against Pantages were tenants in her apartment house, the manager, who is also a state witness in the Pantages case, warned Fitts that an attempt was being made to get acquainted with one of the witnesses, a man.

Finds Note
Fitts told the manager to await further developments, it was disclosed. Saturday morning the apartment manager and the man witness reported finding a note under his door which read:

"If you will testify that the Pringle girl bruised herself, there might be $25,000 in it for you."
Both girls flatly denied that they had been "planted" in the apartment house for the purpose of approaching men witnesses in the Pantages case, when questioned by Fitts and the Hollywood sleuths.

Fitts then produced the note and asked Miss Lee to copy it. She did so, and Fitts then ordered the detectives to arrest both girls.

To guard them while they dressed, Fitts asked the apartment manager to stay with them in their bedroom.

Then it is charged by the landlady that Miss Lee snatched up a butcher knife from the kitchen and started towards her.

The woman screamed and the detectives rushed to her assistance, just as a bottle was hurled at her head.

tively legal and that these figures were legitimate news.

Indications reaching the Treasury were that millions of persons buy tickets in the "policy" lottery every day and that the amount of money involved is staggering. The holder of the lucky number stands to win about 600 times as much as he invests, but the chances are about as remote as drawing a perfect hand at bridge or four poker players being dealt royal flushes.

hurled against the peak by a side wind.

A scant 500 feet more of altitude would have saved the liner, Rice said. But the plane, he thought, had been bucking such winds that it could not climb the distance needed to allow it to cross a shoulder of the highest peak in western New Mexico.

The motors of the plane were utterly disintegrated and some parts of the metal had been melted by the terrific heat of an explosion and the burning of several hundred gallons of high-test gasoline.

INVESTIGATING WRECK
Gallup, N. M., Sept. 9.—A guard stood about the charred and scattered wreckage of the T. A. I. transport plane "City of San Francisco" today on the steep slope of Mount Taylor where the ship was discovered yesterday with its eight dead occupants.

Everything is being preserved just as found by the rescue party of fifty men who scrambled up the mountain side yesterday afternoon after the wreckage had been located by an aviator. A group of aviation experts from the department of Commerce will search the ruins minutely, endeavoring to determine officially just what caused the tragedy.

Meanwhile the relatives of the eight occupants of the ill-fated air liner are endeavoring to identify the charred and broken bodies which were brought here at 9 o'clock last night on stretchers and pack mules.

Death by Accident.
Death by accident was the verdict given last night by a coroner's jury after reviewing the remains of the eight victims. The jury was impaneled and witnesses examined under the direction of District Attorney Nicholas of Valencia county shortly after the bodies were brought in.

The formal verdict of death by accident was returned after brief deliberation. Sheriff Bob Koberts of McKinley county took charge of the bodies and made arrangements for the inquest.

The crash occurred in one of the most inaccessible places on the steep slope of Mount Taylor, a mountain alone among the lower hills.

Hits Tree First.
Following its regular route from Albuquerque, N. M., to Los Angeles, the plane crashed into a large tree 67 feet above the ground, according to members of the party who reached the plane.

The left motor struck the tree first, cutting off the planes' left wing. Further on a second tree was sheared off by the impact of another motor striking it. Pieces of the shattered motors strewn the ground.

The gasoline tanks then caught fire, explosions throwing blazing fuel over passengers and crew, according to rescue party members. Trees for yards about were scorched by the heat of the intense flames. The bodies were huddled in a position that showed they anticipated another crash. All three of the crew members had thrown their arms about their faces to protect them from the heat of the flames. Further down the plane the passengers huddled in a protecting group.

The bodies of the victims, although they could not be positively identified, were those of:

Beers, William Henry, New York, gas magazine editor.

Campbell, M. M., Cincinnati, salesman.

Livermore, William, Boston, shipping owner.

McGaffey, Amasa B., Albuquerque, N. M., lumberman.

Raymond, Mrs. Corinn, Glendale, Calif., C. F., New York, courier of the plane.

Dietel, Edwin A., co-pilot of New Braunfels, Texas.

Stone, J. B. N., chief pilot of Clovis, N. M.

Findling of the "City of San Francisco" has ended one of the most spectacular hunts the west has known. Scores of airplanes from hundreds of miles about, were leaving the scene for home today.

Hundreds of volunteers, assembled to help in the search, have crowded the small towns to capacity. Emergency sleeping quarters had been provided. Telegraph companies have installed extra wires to handle the flood of communications sent out by the army of press correspondents.

MARATHON RUNNER CROWE DINNER GUEST

Local Man Honored by Fellow Workmen at Party at Thompson Bungalow.

As a means of showing their appreciation for his prowess on the athletic field, thirty employees of the E. E. Hilliard Company in Hilliardville gave a stag banquet in honor of James R. Crowe, Bucksport running world's champion bungalow, Saturday night.

Serving in the capacity of chef, Roland Stevenson almost stole the laurels from Crowe when he served a splendid dinner which included roast beef with roast pork. Others on the committee included Edward Strauss, Edward Chetaak, Fred Miner and Raymond Moonan.

Crowe was called upon to make a speech and he told interesting incidents connected with various long distance races in which he has competed, including the famous Boston Marathon. His latest feat was winning the five-mile state championship at Lighthouse Point in New Haven.

His hosts of the evening presented him with a complete track outfit, including a suit, et al. This was the final event on the program which came to a conclusion with words of praise for Crowe.

JOHNSON ENDORSEMENTS FOR SELECTMEN MANY

Jarle E. Johnson, candidate for Republican nomination for Selectmen in tomorrow's primary, has the endorsement of the Swedish-American Republican Club and all of the Swedish clubs and societies that can give political expressions. He is a son of S. Emil Johnson, an assessor.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of the local high school in the class of 1911. He studied engineering and has since been employed as a carpenter and assistant to his father, a well known building contractor. He has taken active interest in social and business affairs in Manchester all his life and is especially popular among the younger voters.

Mr. Johnson has the support of such Republican leaders as Willard B. Rogers and Judge Alexander Amott. He has long been interested in politics and as a result of his pre-primary work a large vote should be tallied beside his name.

GUSTAFSON LEADER OF SWEDISH PEOPLE

Arvid Gustafson, who seeks the Republican nomination for Selectman, has been a member of the Republican town committee for a number of years and is considered one of the ablest leaders of the Swedish group of voters in Manchester.

He is a member of nearly every Swedish society in Manchester and is vice president of the Swedish-American Republican Club.

Mr. Gustafson is a painter and decorator by trade. His home is on Maple street. Mr. Gustafson has proved himself a good business man and his friends believe his calm, even tempered mind would be a valuable asset to the town's government.

WOMAN HAS COSTLY HUNT FOR HUSBAND

New York, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Sophie Janson of Brooklyn chartered a taxicab and started a round of speakies looking for her husband. Some time later she had a taxi bill but had lost her fur piece, coat, glasses, $29 in cash, a set of false teeth, and her husband was still at large.

Mrs. Janson's dilemma was revealed in court today when she appeared on a charge of disorderly conduct resulting from her failure to pay the $1.25 cab bill.

After Mrs. Janson had reiterated her intention to dodge the bill, Patrolman Al Connelly who arrested her said he could afford to waste no more time with the case and issued a permit to pay the bill.

The judge granted the request and dismissed Mrs. Janson.

We think it is high time for someone to arise and explain the truth of this matter of linoleum floor coverings.

The truth of the matter is that every kitchen should be linoleum covered. Hard wood is unsuited to kitchen use, and only fine linoleum covering is satisfactory, although it need not be expensive. Linoleum floors in proper patterns make as beautiful a floor surface for hall, living room and dining room as can be obtained at any price. It should be scattered with rugs to give an effect of warmth, and because, if the truth be known, waxed linoleum is just a bit slippery. We'll be charmed to show you the dozens of designs we offer.

FOR ASSESSOR

ROBERTS FOR CONSTABLE IN REPUBLICAN PRIMARY TOMORROW.

The accumulation of funds in the banks last week was for specific uses which would soon make themselves known. Payment of new come taxes and purchase of new government bond issues will absorb the lion's share of this cash.

The 8 per cent rate scared off the timid bulls and the blue chips were thrown on the market in the second hour. U. S. Steel dropped 4 points to 24 1/2 and new losses of 1 to 5 points were recorded in American and Foreign Power, General Electric, etc. St. Joseph Lead and Davison Chemical moved up about 3 points each in continuance of last week's advance.

The new week started with most of the rail stocks at higher price levels. Erie, New York Central, Missouri Pacific, New Haven, Atchafson, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio and Union Pacific moved forward a point or so, on reported buying for investment trusts and rich investors.

Industrial stocks wobbled into lower prices. Ranges in the second hour. Professionals on the floor of the big board sowed the market thick with selling orders for the in-point or so below Saturday's close.

There was not much change in the leadership of the bull market. The motor stocks continued to gain in popularity, with General Motors, Nash, Mack Trucks, Packard, Hupp and Studebaker in slightly higher ground. Timken, at the head of the auto accessories, moved up 1/4 to 11 1/4 and Stewart Warner gained a point at 8 1/2.

As was expected, the call loan market stiffened up again, and last Friday's 6 per cent call rate was replaced by an 8 per cent renewal rate, which proved conclusively that

ARROGANT, STUPID

The Transcontinental Air Transport Company, owner of the plane City of San Francisco, which crashed against a mountainside in New Mexico, killing its entire company of eight persons, is doing itself and the cause of aviation no slight good by its stupid, arrogant policy of secrecy.

Here is a catastrophe which, in its very nature, is bound to make a profound impression on the imaginations of the entire American public. There would be, under any circumstances, about as much chance of keeping its details secret as there would have been of keeping the World War from the knowledge of everybody but the governments and the armies.

The only past effect of all this has been, in the present instance, the dissemination of a lot of garbled and contradictory reports, the uncertainty and confusion being directly attributable to the authorities of the Transcontinental Air Transport Company who, after the first flash of the tragic story, refused to impart to the public such meagre facts as it had in hand.

There can be only one future result of this misguided and dunder-headed policy—a serious impairment of public confidence in the candor as well as the good judgment of a concern into whose care they are asked to entrust their lives.

EUROPEAN UNION

Those Americans who react adversely to the Briand urge for the formation of a United States of Europe are as likely as not to be persons who for a number of years have been quite actively hoping for the establishment of World peace.

It would seem to be self-evident that in an economic and political federation of the nations of Europe lies the best guarantee, by far, of an end to all important wars. Once such a machine is fabricated and gotten into running order the millennium of peace will have arrived.

What the effect of such a union would be on America's interests is something to speculate upon. Plenty of people on this side of the water regard the possibility with apprehension. They may have reason; they may not. It is a situation immensely difficult to visualize in advance.

But there would almost certainly be no more wars. To what extent are Americans anxious to forego the slaughter of mankind on the battlefield, even at the cost of some of our ease of living, of prosperity, in this country?

PERILS OF THE GROUND

Apparently we have just now arrived at that always inevitable stage in the development of aviation where the ground-liver can no longer shrug his shoulders and declare that "flyin' is all right for them as want it, but for me, I'll stay on the earth, I guess." It is no longer possible for a person to avoid the dangers of aviation by keeping out of flying machines.

At a beach near New York on Saturday a fier, confused by fog, found himself making a forced landing among a throng of people. The best he could do was to convulsively direct his machine toward a point "where the crowd was thinnest." The dead and the wounded, as a result of his care, numbered somewhat under a dozen. Yes, terday a hit-and-run airplane struck a fishing boat on Jamaica Bay, cut it in two, killed one occupant and injured the other, then rose into the air and flew away.

If air traffic develops in magnitude and in fatality for another five years as it has this summer, owners of properties like the Mammoth Cave will probably be taking advantage of the opportunity to turn their caverns into bomb-proof and plane-proof apartments, for which there should be a lively demand.

EPOCHAL

In boldly tackling the forces that have been backing naval militarism in this country for many years President Hoover has issued a defy to interests that have been so long entrenched in the councils of the national government that they have come to be accepted as being as in-eradicable as cancer.

There is scarcely an observer of national affairs who hasn't been firmly convinced, for years, that the big navy movement had its most powerful backers among the industrial profiteers. There isn't one who is not just as firmly convinced that every time the United States builds a battleship it pays for it three or four times as much as the same ship would cost if it were paid for on the same comparative basis of valuation as any structure built for a railroad or an industrial enterprise.

That a President of the United States would openly challenge the system of mad extravagance, graft and profiteering which fosters the militaristic propaganda of the navy boosters, at this time, was not to have been expected. Coming out of a blue sky, Mr. Hoover's demand for an explanation is not merely sensational—it is epoch making.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 9.—New York's policemen and hotel bellhops find the army of strangers here at their lowest.

In the mid-Forties and Fifties, a number of Gotham's "finest" tell me, they are stopped at least once every evening by some yearning out-of-towner who insists on opening his watch and showing a picture of a baby, wife or sweetie.

More often than not it's the picture of a child, however, and the policeman is expected to agree that this is one of the loveliest children ever placed upon the earth.

Bellhops tell me that the delivery of ice-water in the midnight hours results very often in the necessity of listening to the stranger's "story of his life."

The traffic officers in mid-Fifth Avenue and Broadway get the starest variety of foolish questions. One of them tells me that at least one woman a day asks him where the best bargain sale on Fifth Avenue may be found, and dozens think that Broadway copper should know the best show on the street.

Broadway hears with amazement that the world's most spectacular play failure is to take another chance this winter at losing more money, or staging a comeback. This drama—as theater followers already know—is "The Linder," which was financed by M. Davis, the Texas oil millionaire. It has made half a dozen valiant starts; seats have been given away and seats have been sold; it has been rewritten four times, and it has never won a cent for the next production.

Along the East Side highways certain blocks begin to blossom now with gay bunting, and festoons of electric lights, Italian candy clear and breath, the shoe should be fitted around the ankle, with no grabbing or stretching on the part of the leather.

WASHINGTON LETTER By RODNEY DUTCHER Washington, Sept. 9.—The president was talking, in humorous vein, to an old friend concerning some of the troubles of the presidency. "There is one law I should like to see passed," he said, with perhaps an insufficient concealed wistfulness. "The president ought to be allowed to hang two men every year, without giving any reason, or explanation for the sentences." "Would two be enough?" the friend asked. "Well, perhaps not," Mr. Hoover is said to have replied. "But I could get the word to 25 or 30 that they were being considered."

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY CALIFORNIA JOINS UNION On Sept. 9, 1850, California was admitted to the Union as a free state.

The admission of California was made possible by the famous Compromise Measures of 1850 settlement of certain questions arising out of the struggle over slavery. Henry Clay had offered to the Senate, in the spring of 1850, a general scheme of adjustment which provided that California should be admitted as a state with her free constitution; that territorial governments should be created in the other portions of the Mexican cession without reference to slavery; that trading within the District of Columbia in slaves should be forbidden; that there should be a more stringent fugitive-slave law; and that Texas should release all claims upon New Mexico in return for the assumption by the national government of the old Texas debt.

STATUARY HALL
DRAWS FIRE AS
'HORROR HOUSE'

Washington — Fresh criticism of Statuary Hall in the national capital, which is visited by thousands of tourists each year, as an artistic "chamber of horrors," a movement has been launched for the erection of a Hall of Fame to house the bronze and marble images of the builders of the nation.

The proposed new addition to the architecture of the capital city would rival the famed Roman Pantheon, the Versailles Hall of Fame, and the Bavarian Walhalla Hall of Fame.

The movement will get under way when Rep. Tinkham (R) of Massachusetts requests hearings on a resolution creating a commission to consider the erection of a new building near the capitol building.

Much Criticism
Criticism of Statuary Hall has come from all parts of the country, but particularly from artists and sculptors who declare that it is a veritable "junk shop" for the exhibition of 58 statues of famous Americans.

The hall in the capitol building at one time was used as a chamber for the House of Representatives. It was a loafing and trading place for some time after the House entered its new chamber until an act was passed in 1864 inviting each state to send statues of its two most prominent men to make up the American Hall of Fame.

At the present time there are 58 statues in the hall, with 96 permitted under the 60-year-old law. So crowded is it already that incoming statues are being placed in front of others.

Eight more statues are expected in the near future. California and Mississippi are to supply two each and Tennessee, Maine, Arizona and Montana each will send a statue of a famous resident of those states.

One of the chief critics of Statuary Hall is F. W. Ruckstull, of New York, a noted sculptor, who carved the statue of Gen. Wade Hampton, recently placed in the hall by South Carolina.

"There is not room to properly exhibit the statues," he said. "Lighting is bad and lighting is all important in the exhibition of statues."

Cramped Quarters
"It is a shame that the nation's Hall of Fame is located in such cramped quarters. There are many fine statues in the hall. At least a half dozen can be classed as masterpieces and the rest, with few exceptions, are fully as fine work as one finds at Versailles."

Charles E. Fairman, art curator of the capitol, is also anxious to have Statuary Hall moved.

"Under the law creating it Congress requested each State to supply two statues of their most noted citizens," he said. "The room itself is one of the most beautiful in the capitol, but it cannot house so many statues."

Among the famous men whose statues are found in the hall of fame are Gen. Stonewall Jackson, Father Marquette, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Gen. Robert E. Lee, George Washington, James A. Garfield, Robert Fulton, Roger Williams, Lew Wallace, Henry Clay, Andrew Jackson, Daniel Webster and one woman, Frances Willard, whose statue was given by the state of Illinois.

TATOOING TAKES THE PLACE OF
REAL JEWELRY

Deauville — Old-fashioned tattooing is taking the place of jewels at the fashionable resort this summer. Foutjita, the well-known Japanese artist of Montparnasse started the ball rolling by tattooing a magnificent little waver bracelet on his left wrist. For the remainder of his life, Foutjita will think it is noon-day, if he happens to look at his watch.

His little finger too, bears the print of a handsome ring, in silver with colored stone.

Youki, celebrated Montparnasse model, is also following the fashion and has herself tattooed a beautiful siren on her beautiful leg. A surrealist poet bears a shooting star on his right arm and a Creole dancer a star-fish on the back of her neck. Kiki, known to everyone in the artist quarter is having black beauty spots tattooed upon her face and hairdresser in a smart carriage drawn by one or two horses.

With the fashion well-started among the artists, smart society women are now looking to Foutjita for their jewels.

Here in Deauville anyone might say, "A Kingdom, a kingdom for a horse," for one is almost never seen except on the race-track or polo grounds. The only person of note who still goes about in an old-style carriage and pair is Lady Michelham. She has never, in fact, been seen in a motor-car but does her shopping and makes her visits to the dressmakers and hairdresser in a smart carriage drawn by one or two horses.

"One of the most daring costumes seen on the beach this season consists of a pair of knickers which, instead of being held in place around the waist, is drawn up under the arms. There is really no back at all. The American girl who was wearing it the other day, stepped out of the water to take her aperitif at the celebrated Bar du Soleil and within a very few moments had a large crowd of photographers about her.

SAYS JENSEN-MANNING
SHOULD NOT HOLD OFFICE

that under the conditions he does not want support Tuesday and that he even told Mr. Jensen before his paper was filed that he did not want to be a candidate. Mr. Jensen stands repudiated by one of his own neighbors and a man he, according to Mr. Cowley, was willing to use to bolster his own candidacy.

Add to Mr. Cowley's timely expose of Jensen's methods the statements of such men as Dr. F. A. Sweet and Sherwood G. Bowers that they are not seeking office under the Jensen-Manning faction. Probably all of the candidates supposedly carrying the Jensen-Manning banner would make similar statements if sought out for interviews.

Reputed
It is history that John Jensen has repeatedly been soundly repudiated in the Manchester Green School district. It is history that he was defeated for the office of assessor, after serving one term, because of the policies he resorted to in an effort to build his own political fences regardless of how he served the town. The work of the board of assessors in Manchester, involving as it does the valuation of more than $55,000,000 worth of property calls not only for ability but of greater importance for a high type of official who at all times places his responsibility to his office above his own political ambitions.

Likewise, the job of the board of selectmen calls for men of judgment, men of integrity, men of experience. The Manning-Jensen crowd would throw out of office five men who have been trained in the work and against whom the finger of suspicion has never been pointed. This by the way is the same group of officials who by untiring efforts and sound, forceful arguments convinced Cheney Brothers that they should revise their asked prices for the schools as a result of which the town saves $120,000. We paid the seven men on the board of selectmen this year the great sum of $900. That is the salary for all seven men. These men in one transaction have saved the taxpayers $120,000. Yet, the Manning-Jensen combination would replace these men with untrained, inexperienced and in some instances with men totally devoid of business training. These are the men the Manning-Jensen crowd would like to have take charge of a million dollar business.

Seeks No Favors
It was said the other day that I was trying to dictate the make-up of the next board of selectmen. I have not asked the board of selectmen for a favor in five years and I have no favor to ask of the incoming board. But the men who would dictate are John Jensen and Fred Manning.

For clean, economic, efficient government, I am going to vote on Tuesday for the following men for the office of selectman: Thomas J. Rogers (not a relative though of the same name) George E. Keith, Wells A. Strickland, W. W. Robertson and Albert Jackson, all of the present board of selectmen, and Jarle Johnson one of the best known young men in town, and Arvid Gustafson, well known member of the republican town committee and for years a loyal worker for all G. O. P. nominees.

There is a long list of candidates for the republican section of the voting machines on Tuesday. I have therefore checked my list and I am going to vote by both name and number, as follows: 4A is Gustafson 5A is Jackson, 6A is Johnson, 7A is Keith, 8A is Robertson, 10A is Rogers and 11A is Strickland.

Tax Question
Of no little importance in the selection of our selectmen is the tax question. I know the men I am going to vote for stand for the lowest practical tax rate. I have told in frank and honest way of the records of Jensen and Manning as their public office experiences reveal the facts to us. The other men in the Jensen-Manning faction are silent and unknown quantities and I refuse to experiment with men of this type in the various businesses with which I am connected and I refuse to give my vote in the support of men who would have to experiment with town business.

I was told on Saturday evening that many of the voters were not in possession of the facts I have outlined. Certainly I cannot be blamed for concealing information though there will be a bit of feeling against me in some quarters because I have unhesitatingly told the truth. And I know from watching some of these same babies in the past that the truth hurts.

No John Jensen, you are quite wrong in thinking that P. T. Barnum had you in mind when he said "You can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." No John, your political methods won't fool Manchester people any of the time. You will receive a confirmation of this last statement at exactly eleven minutes after nine on Tuesday evening, another memorable date for you to jot down in your diary of self-induced political defeats.

Honestly submitted,
WILLARD B. ROGERS.

There's Beauty in a Smile, Says Petite
Nancy Carroll

Nancy Carroll

A lovely smile may be a woman's most potent charm. The wise woman, realizing that a pleasing smile is a beauty asset as great as the fairest skin or lustrous hair, does all in her power to keep her teeth pearly white. Nancy Carroll counts her even, white little teeth as one of her most prized beauty possessions and cares for them religiously. "The girl who has prettily formed teeth may count herself fortunate," Miss Carroll says, "but the girl whose teeth are not all they should be in shape and formation should take extra care to keep them white and lovely. They should be brushed at least twice daily—upon arising and retiring. Use cold, not warm water, as the cold water has a hardening effect upon the gums. After brushing the teeth, brush the tongue and the gums, stimulating the circulation. Salt is excellent to use three or four times a week to make the teeth glistening white and, of course, at least 2 annual visits to the dentist should not be neglected.

"Include in the health diet raw vegetables and fruits, giving the teeth some real work to do. It is noticeable among the savage tribes that live almost entirely on raw foods that they suffer little from tooth decay."

OLD INDUSTRIES DISAPPEAR WITH CHANGING TIMES

Chicago.—Corsetmakers, the hired man and domestic help are fast disappearing; the family is continuing to lose its functions to industry and the state; the boarding house is being swept away in the crush of restaurants and machinery on the farm and chain stores in towns are crumbling the old rural system.

These and a thousand similar cross views of modern life and changes in its social habits within recent years were compiled after an exhaustive study conducted by the Chicago sociologist, W. F. Ogburn, and his assistant, Clark T. Bell. To better polish off the task they got twenty-one other well-known authorities on sociological affairs to analyze these rapid changes, along with their causes, and the result has provided some interesting summaries.

The Innocent Cheat by Ruth Dewey Groves. AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED HELEN BRENT feels unhappy when the girls at the Spinn boarding school tease her about being Miss Simplicity just to please her handsome guardian LEONARD BRENT, who supplies her with ample funds and smart frocks which are brought from Paris for her by a woman friend whom Helen has never met.

But she dares not question his reasons even when her roommate, SHALLIMAR MORRIS, accuses her of being in love with Brent and calls her a fool for giving up dancing and parties for him.

Brent refuses to tell her anything about her parentage until after her graduation and, realizing her infatuation for him, exacts her promise to do anything he asks her to.

One day Brent spies a gold and diamond locket on a hawking beggar who has fallen in an alley. He bends over to take the locket and hears mumbled words about "Evangeline—money—disinherited" and decides to feed the old man and try to find out his story. He learns that his name is CHARLES OWENS, NELLIN, and that his wife is dead, but cannot find out where the baby EVANGELINE is—except, that the father has hidden her from the wealthy grandfather, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM.

"You look older," he said quickly. "It ages you to lose your temper, Carmel." He'd have to be going home, surprised at the lateness of the hour.

"Here," he said, reaching for his wallet and extracting a small bill, "take this money and find a place to sleep. He thrust the bill into the girl's hands, noting as he did so that they were long and slender, an indication that Nellin had told the truth about his artistic occupation of earlier years.

"And be around here about this time tomorrow night. I may be able to do something for you."

Brent got to his feet, picked up his hat and strode over to the cashier's desk.

"What was your business?" she said softly, slipping her arm in his and turning a dazzling smile upon him.

YOUR CHILDREN by Olive Roberts Barton

I wonder if a great many mothers are not completely at sea about the new way of disinfection after contagious illnesses.

Not so many years ago we had a serious case of scarlet fever in the family. When the quarantine was lifted, the health board fairly tore the house to pieces in their zeal to disinfect us.

When the quarantine was lifted, and the health board fairly tore the house to pieces in their zeal to disinfect us.

It's a good thing to know anyway. We used to burn the easily managed formaldehyde lamps that they were long and slender, an indication that Nellin had told the truth about his artistic occupation of earlier years.

And I think it would be very wise as well as satisfying to ask your doctor or the head of the health board the best way to purify the house after any contagion has been kept the rest of the family safe.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBIEIN Editor of Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

My series of articles on the Hollywood diet published a few weeks ago I emphasized that these diets were dangerous because they offered less than half the food value that the average person needs to maintain strength and health.

The amount of food usually taken, eating the same things, but half as much as usually.

Proteins are body-building material, carbohydrates and fats are stored and yield energy, calcium and phosphorus are necessary for bone growth and for nervous system maintenance.

Inside the body are self-regulating mechanisms which provide for taking up proper amounts of these substances and putting them where they will do the most good.

Both Town Net Champions Retain Their Titles

Bon Ami Noses Out Green, 4-3

Godek Bests Prentice In Thrilling Pitcher's Duel; Arguments Add to Excitement; Players "Ride" Umpires.

Avoiding defeat for the 17th consecutive game, the Bon Ami baseball team captured the title of a three game series to decide the town championship yesterday afternoon by nosing out Manchester Green before a large crowd at the West Side playgrounds. The score was 4 to 3. The second frame of the series will be played next Sunday at the same field.

The battle yesterday was the most exciting of the current season, being replete with plays, arguments of nearly every description. It was a stubbornly fought contest featured by a brilliant pitcher's battle between Jack Godek and Joe Prentice. Fans who witnessed the game were given a real treat. Players on both teams were keyed up to a high pitch and gave a snappy performance.

Tough on Umpires. It was a tough day for the umpires, both Ralph Russell and Brennan coming in for about an equal share of fault-finding. The Green players disputed two decisions Brennan made, one at second and another at first. In the latter case, Brennan left the field and walked over to the bench to silence Hal Chase, Green score-keeper. The Green also took particular exception to a play at third in the second inning when Fred Burkhardt after racing from first to third on Dick Edgar's single to right. During the hectic eighth, Nino Boggin, catcher for the Bon Ami, had an altercation with Russell over his decisions on balls and strikes.

Finally Russell waved him out of the game. A heated argument followed and finally the decision was changed and Boggin allowed to remain in the game. A little later Russell was again at the point of ejection but the latter was finally prevailed upon by Bon Ami officials to keep quiet the rest of the game.

How They Scored. The Green was first to score. Captain Herb Stevenson walked in the first and "Horse" Boggin brought him home with a long two-base hit over Elmo Mantelli's head in left, the ball rolling to the old schoolhouse. The soap makers took the score and scored him out in the second. Emil Pitt drew a pass and Mantelli chased him home with a long triple just over Ty Holland's head in deep right-center. Nino Boggin brought Mantelli in with a grounder to short which his cousin, Alpha, threw wildly to first.

There was no more scoring until the eighth, both Prentice and Godek pitching splendid ball. The Green had excellent changes to score in the third and fourth but once again Foudrier struck out and another time both Prentice and Holland grounded out via of first, two runners being left stranded each time. Prentice retired ten men in succession during the non-scoring first stretch. The excitement grew intense in the eighth as both teams put over a pair of runs. The Bon Ami was first to score and this increased its lead to 4-1. Singles by Keeney, Pitt and Dedek with Brennan's neat sacrifice sandwiched between, did the damage. The Green came back strong in its half of the inning and almost tied the score. Hewitt tripled to right after Boggin had fouled to third. Dowd drew a pass and stole second.

With the stage all set, Burkhardt was too anxious and fell a victim to Godek's slants. Edgar cuffed a neat single to left which scored both runners. Billy Forgett's patience was rewarded by a free trip to first, but Howard Keeney, the Bon Ami second sacker, playing unusually deep, knocked down Prentice's line drive and scored him out at first. It was not until the ninth that the throw pulled Coleman off the bag, but he had touched the base in time. The Green team protested in vain.

The Green, or rather Sammy Hewitt, retired the Bon Ami in short order in the opening of the ninth, all three batters grounding out to Hewitt. With the top chances of winning were still good, but Brennan made a nice run in camp under Holland's fly. Then Mantelli raced in and snared Stevenson's bid for a hit in short left. Godek struck out Boggin to end the game.

WINS LEG ON CUP GIVEN BY HIMSELF

But Dr. Moore May Scratch His Name; His 150 Net Two Under Friend's.

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore is the winner of the first leg on a silver loving cup which he donated to the three-time winner of 36-hole handicap golf tournament conducted among the members of the Manchester Medical association. However, there is a report that he may decide not to accept the victory by ruling himself ineligible to compete.

Dr. Moore's winning two round net was 150, two strokes better than that of Dr. L. V. Holmes, a beginner at the game. Dr. Holmes had an excellent chance to win the cup leading until the final green where he took seven on a par-four hole. He was on the green in the second day's play of the tournament which was held with the second day's play of the tournament which was begun on Saturday.

KIRKWOOD PLEASURES GALLERY AT SEQUIN

Joe Kirkwood, a literal genius with golf clubs, put his wizardry on display at the Sequin Country club yesterday. The famous Australian ace first set a record for any more sincere expression of the gallery's appreciation than the outburst of enthusiastic applause that greeted the close of more than an hour of extraordinary entertainment.

The chart above makes it possible to trace the outcome of every player's progress in the 1929 Herald tennis title tournament which came to a conclusion Saturday afternoon with Ty Holland retaining the championship. The Jesanis-Markley match marked by asterisks is a special first round contest made necessary in order to avoid distributing a half a dozen byes throughout the tournament. Players in the tournament would do well to clip out this chart and save it for future reference.

FOUR OVER PAR WINS FOR HYDE

John Hyde won the 18-hole handicap sweepstakes golf tournament conducted at the Manchester Country club course Saturday afternoon with the commendable gross of 74 which is only four above par. Charlie Johnson took a 77 and J. P. Cheney Sr. was around in 79. No other players broke eighty.

OUT OF TOWNERS SEEK CUBS' BERTH

Coach Tom Kelley may be sky of talent for his High school team, but conditions are just about the opposite with the Cubs. Nearly thirty candidates reported for the initial practice yesterday morning at Mt. Nebo and Coach Kelley admitted he's confronted with a tough job.

Both winners receive a silver loving cup donated by The Herald and all four finalists were given tennis racquets donated by the Manchester Plumbing and Supply, F. T. House & Son, A. billfold and box of writing paper given by the Dewey Richman Company, also went to the losers.

Holland's victory was a severe blow to those who play the game in the approved fashion as set down in the books by Tilden, Lacoste and others. He does about everything they tell you not to do and yet nobody seems able to beat him. Figure that out.

HOLLAND TROUNCES JESANIS; BEHREND BEATS WASHKIEWICH

Nearly 500 Persons See Holland Conquer Favored Opponent in Straight Sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1; Sparkling Defense and Shy-larking Lob Again Decide Match; Behrend-Washkiewich Battle a Thrilling Three-Set Affair With Little to Choose; Champion Wins, 11-9, 2-6, 6-1

BY TOM STOWE

Checkmating the offense of his opponent at every turn to make him as harmless as a caged lion, Walter "Ty" Holland successfully defended his town tennis singles championship Saturday afternoon with a convincing and decisive straight set victory over Paul Jesanis to smash the advance dope into smithereens. The score was 6-2, 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Ruth Behrend also retained her title in the women's ranks when she nosed out Miss Elizabeth Washkiewich in a thrilling three-set duel at 11-9, 2-6, 6-2. The match lasted two and one half hours. A gallery of close to 500 persons packed around the High school court to watch the finals of the third annual town championship elimination tournaments sponsored by The Manchester Evening Herald sports department.

Dope Lambasted. Holland's brilliant victory was easily the greatest of his comparatively brief career. It was magnified by the fact that Jesanis had entered the battle a heavy favorite to win. Not only did I predict him as the new champion, but practically every player loved the Manchester tennis player. He won, not only fairly and squarely but by an overwhelming margin which left no doubt as to the better man.

The champion retained his title mainly because he possesses the most perfect defense ever exhibited by a Manchester tennis player. It comes well being "bullet-proof." Holland stood his ground against the best Jesanis could offer and at times stole some of his opponent's laurels by out-driving him. The secret, however, of Holland's repeated victories which have now brought him the town championship two years in succession, lies in one stroke—his famous lob. It was this shot that wrecked the form of Jesanis in the semi-finals and it also proved Jesanis' undoing.

Here's The Solution. Holland has the stroke down to perfection. It is so high and so everlastingly accurate that the champion was seldom out of court of position. Jesanis was not out of position. Jesanis was not out of position. Jesanis was not out of position.

Deciding Set. Upon resumption of play, Miss Washkiewich again took the lead, but Miss Behrend quickly won a further ray of hope when he won the first game of the second set with ease. The next went to deuce before Holland evened the set 2-1 in his favor. At this point, Jesanis seemed to sense the fact that his defeat was inevitable. At any rate, Holland captured three successive games at love and another at 4-1 during which he made 15 consecutive points. This gave him the set at 6 to 1, also the match and the 1929 title. Only three of the 35 games went to deuce, which further attests to the decisiveness with which the champion's victory was attained.

PARIS SOCIETY EXCITED ABOUT PRINCELY FAKES

Paris—Society is in an uproar here over its duping by two young bank clerks.

These two elegant and personable young men entered the finest homes in Paris under the title of the Prince of Holm and the Prince of Anjou.

Dowagers angled for their favored shamelessly for their daughters.

They were besieged with invitations to teas, balls, dinner parties and weeks at country estates.

They became among the most popular eligible men in Parisian society, and also in American circles here.

Their names appeared in society columns and their faces in rotogravure sections.

And now it is discovered that the Prince of Holm is a bank clerk in a big American bank on the Place Vendome here, and his real name is said to be Fritz Holm. He is Danish.

His success might have continued if a prominent American woman had not recognized the bank clerk at her bank as one of the Prince's she had been charmed to meet. She made extensive inquiries which resulted in their exposure.

Artists, as well as actors, "go on the road" in France.

For if the people in the sticks cannot come to Paris to see modern art, modern art will go to them.

It is on its way now. An auto-bus full of modern art and modern artists is touring through the cities and towns of northern France to display their masterpieces.

Several painters, numbering near a dozen, and one sculptor comprise the troop, and everything from nudes to bar-bardies—on canvas, that is—comprise the show, together with a few pieces of marble.

This tour through the provinces is the cause of culture is being taken by some of the most serious workers of Montmartre (the old artistic section of Montmartre and not the new night club neighborhood). The numbers include such representatives of classicism, cubism, modernism, and naturalism as Henri Cahour, Grand Cartaret, Mestrallet, George Tournon, Geo. Kianyn, Marchal, Raingo Pelouse, Yan, Ferrot, Noizeux, and Zeligson, sculptor.

Elizabeth Penavaire, vagabond, has been sentenced to one hundred years of exile from her own country. If she lives to return from her exile, she will be one hundred and fifty-four years of age. Once known as "the woman without a home," she has now been christened "the woman without a country."

Two American women artists have been honored by the French government who has recently purchased their works. They are Miss Natalie Hammond, whose wood-cut pleased M. Paul Leon, Director of Fine Arts, and Miss Alice Loughlin whose water-color was accepted.

An interesting Franco-American exhibition is now being held in the Hotel Jean Carpentier to commemorate the relations between the two nations during the reigns of Louis XV and Louis XVI. A number of Lafayette relics are shown, together with a full-length portrait of Washington made for Louis-Philippe. A quaint reminder of the group of wax dolls representing Voltaire, Rousseau and Franklin, entirely baid.

Johnston's Victory Ends Greatest Amateur Tourney

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Del Monte, Calif., Sept. 9.—There was nothing left today of the tournament for the amateur golf championship of America except a lot of divots and a quantity of idea which mounted to almost an obsession in the minds of those fortunate enough to have witnessed an event that will go down in history as one of the greatest of them all.

The divots were nothing to worry about. They are always replaced supposedly by ethics, but mostly by the groundkeeper. It has been found that he is more reliable about things like that, but the idea that was so unusual, so unique as to lay even this gentleman's art a full stymie concerned itself with the notion that Harrison Johnston, and Dr. O. P. Willing, had earned places in the final round hadn't really belonged there and that in effect it was a class double-an event and that Johnston in consequence was a minor league champion.

It was perhaps the most unusual championship of all amateur golf. Bobby Jones and George Von Elm went out the first day of match play. Dr. Willing, a thorough sportsman whose only fault is that he is quite unobtrusively about it, was harassed by a gallery which became hostile because it didn't like his necktie or something.

The trouble with this tournament and its finalists was that they, meaning both the tournament and the finalists, were too sensational. They killed off all of the good ones too soon. If Jones or Von Elm or both had been semi-finalists there would be no question about eligibility today. Instead Johnston faced Outmet and Willing played Egan in the semi-finals and immediately the populace began to sneer in a very marked manner.

It had been led to expect something else and felt it had a right to be enraged. It would have accepted Johnston and Willing gladly if either of them had made a personal sacrifice of Jones in a semi-final match and the fact that both of them played indifferent golf on Saturday wouldn't have been accorded.

A California food expert says it is more sensible to oversart than to starve. Those food experts know just everything.

THERE'S A REASON FOR LEAVING Y AT CENTER

Much Stone to Be Hauled Over East Center Street by Trolley Flat Cars.

Considerable speculation has been aroused as to why the State Highway Department, in rebuilding and resurfacing Main street from the Center north, did not begin the asphaltting right at the Center but at a point a few rods north. The reason for this was explained today by a representative of the department.

It appears that a very large quantity of crushed stone for the Manchester-Bolton highway under re-construction is to be brought from the Newington quarries as far as Manchester Green by trolley—some 120,000 tons. It is figured that by the utilization of trolley flat cars for this job a big saving can be made over the cost of truck transportation. If the tracks just north of the Center had been covered this method would have been impracticable. As it is, trolley cars still get onto the East Center street tracks by using the Y formed by the old upper Main street track and the curve at the north side of the Center parklet which connected the Crossstown line with the Green line.
