PREMIER RECEIVES HONORARY DEGREE

George Washington University Honors Ramsay MacDonald—Makes Brief Speech During Ceremony

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said today in accepting the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from George Washington University that one could never acquire anything in this world without purchasing it by "one's own efforts, own will, and own sacrifice."

The degree was conferred and the premier's words uttered in Continental Memorial hall where seven years ago the five great naval powers of the world signed the first agreement for limitation of naval armaments.

The furtherance of that agreement as well as other steps for world peace is the purpose of the visit of the premier to this nation.

Distinguished Gathering.

Today a distinguished gathering assembled in the hall for the ceremony of conferring the degree. It included members of the Diplomatic Corps, justice of the Supreme Court, members of the Cabinet and of Congress.

Upon receiving the degree from Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the university, the premier said he assumed the distinguished robes with which he had been invested embodied the thanks of the university to all of those who try to promote the peace of the world.

"I regret that I am unable to accept the numerous invitations from other universities to join them in a like ceremony," Mr. MacDonald said. "But I take it, Mr. President, that you will allow me to say I regard you not only as yourselves but as the representatives of the other great universities of the United States."

"I have been asked to say something to you. What can I say? I've never attended a university unfortunately."

"My friends, my colleagues in academic titles here, I hope you will never forget that the finest education is education acquired by toil, by labor, by saving—not so much in money, but saving what is much more important, time and opportunity."

"One word I would like to say and one word only. You never can acquire anything in the world without purchasing it, by your own will, and your own sacrifice. You may attain to high office in state, but it will never come to you without effort. You may attain high place in business, but it must be your own effort. Your name may be emblazoned in the newspapers of your country, but to reach that, one must follow a hard road and only men and women of such courage and stability can attain to it."

FRANCE GETS BRITISH NOTE ON ARMS CUT

Briand Asks Ministers to Study It But Note Itself Is Not Discussed by the Cabinet Today.

Paris, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Premier today placed the British invitation to attend a five-power naval disarmament conference before his colleagues at a Cabinet meeting today, but the note itself was not discussed.

M. Briand asked the interested ministers to study the questions raised and to be ready to discuss the text of the reply at next Monday's Cabinet meeting, which President Doumergue will preside.

The bill which greeted the note in official circles upon its translation yesterday has subsided, and it is now felt the phraseology used by Foreign Secretary Henderson invited French suggestions on the questions mentioned and these will be forthcoming.

OVER 50,000 FANS AT OPENER

Skies were overcast, but it was "good World Series weather" for that first game, and 51,000 rabid fans jammed their way into Wrigley Field, Chicago. Here is a view of the immense crowd that watched the home town Cubs and the invading Philadelphia Athletics—rivals again after a lapse of nineteen years—reserved seats were sold and speculators charged fancy open their battle for the world's championship. All prices for single game tickets.

CANADA COMPENSATION EXPLAINED BY EXPERT

Plants Themselves Pay for Accident Prevention Work and It Pays, He Explains.

London, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Jacob Epstein's statue "Rima" which has been the center of many fights in artistic circles since its erection in Hyde Park in 1925, was found today covered with tar and feathers.

The statue which is a memorial to W. H. Hudson, famous naturalist, was once disfigured with green paint shortly after its unveiling.

The memorial which is hidden in what is known as Birds Sanctuary is "expressionistic" in character. The figure in the panel was inspired by the fairy-like Rima of Green Mansions, but newspaper critics at the time declared it was a "superstitious, brutal-looking figure with queer anatomy."

Controversy over the memorial raged for some time.

11 POLICEMEN OF GARY HELD FOR GRAFTING

Acting Chief and Head of Sleuths Caught in Net; Department is Now Without a Leader.

Gary, Ind., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Federal government's expose of liquor and vice conditions in Lake county had reached into the Gary police department today with the arrest of 11 policemen, including two commanding officers and city judge.

H. E. Miner, deputy U. S. marshal, marched into the city police station last night and served warrants on Captain John R. Smith, commanding officer in place of Police Chief Forbes, who is out of town, and Chief of Detectives James R. Volichek. The entire detective personnel was summoned to the station and the officers for whom Miner held warrants were arrested.

Warrants also were held for five patrolmen.

In view of a recent decision the City Board of Safety that any policeman caught in the Federal net would be immediately suspended, prospects were that the force would be without a leader today.

FALL IS ILL; COURT TRIAL IS PUT OVER

His Doctor Says He Cannot Return to Court—Collapsed in Court Late Yesterday Afternoon.

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A recess in the trial of Albert B. Fall until tomorrow was announced today by Justice William Hitz, who said he would have a physician examine Fall before deciding on his course in the case halted by the defendants' illness.

Dr. Sterling Ruffin, one of the physicians who attended former President Wilson, was named by Justice Hitz to examine the former secretary of the Interior. He will confer with Fall's physician, Dr. H. T. Safford, before making the examination.

Hogan today announced that Dr. Safford had declared Fall was on the verge of bronchial pneumonia and that to return to court would jeopardize his life.

"Jig is up"

Dr. Safford was quoted as saying: "The jig is up. Fall cannot return to trial."

Fall, charged with accepting a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doherty, oil magnate, in connection with the lease of the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve lease, appeared in court Monday against the advice of his physician and over the protest of his family. He seemed barely able to get to court, and yesterday afternoon was compelled to leave when his temperature went up, his pulse increased and he began coughing blood.

EARNSHAW FACES MALONE ON MOUND IN SECOND GAME

Speed Ball Artists Retire Five of Six Men to Face Them in the First Inning; Earnshaw Fans Side in Second and Malone in First; Cold Weather Usual Rush for Bleacher Seats.

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Athletics and Cubs were deadlocked in a scoreless tie at the end of the second inning of their World Series battle here this afternoon. Pat Malone and George Earnshaw, veteran speed artists retiring five of the first six batsmen to face them. Bishop, Haas and Cochrane whiffed for the Athletics and Hornsby and Cuyler for the Cubs.

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Connie Mack sprang no surprise for the crowd gathered on a cold gray afternoon for the second World Series game, sending big George Earnshaw, one of his regular pitchers to the mound. The start was made a contest of speed when Joe McCarthy countered with Percy Pat Malone, strike-out king of the National League.

So that the discomfort of the weather would last no longer than necessary, the umpires were on hand today to start the game on time after the crowd had stood for the National anthem.

ON THE MOUND

comedians was the big hit of their morning overture, particularly Al-trock's persistent efforts to run the wrong way for a touchdown.

Crowd Is Tardy

By noon, there were still big empty spaces at either end of the capacity jam of opening day. There was no wild rush whatever for the turnstiles although the attendance was not expected to be much short of the first game's figure of 90,740.

"The Cubs came to the park early and seemed anything but downhearted as they joked and kidded in the dressing room."

"What's one game?" shouted Gaby Hartnett, with a grin from the pugnas of Mack Wilson.

"We'll come back before after talking a short count and we will do it again."

The Cubs came on the field shortly before noon, bundled in heavy wool and leather jackets. Apparently sure that there was no chance today of Connie Mack shifting to a left hander, the Bruins batted against right handed offerings, especially slow ones, in practice. The evidence of the opening day was that they needed it. Clyde Beck, utility infielder, displayed his versatility by tossing 'em up for the drill.

With not much more than an hour to go before the start of the game, if it began on schedule, there was still much empty room in the bleachers and no rush for it that could be noted with a pair of binoculars from the press box.

So easy to handle, was the crowd situation and so conspicuous the absence of customers around noon, that a goodly number of police officers of camera men, and the majority of ushers started a crap game to help keep warm.

The Athletics, too, were wrapped in wind breakers to protect them from the cold. The visitors tossed the ball about as the Cubs continued their batting practice.

The number of guesses as to the A's starting pitcher was reduced by one when Eddie Rommel, the knuckle ball artist went out for batting drill. The Mackmen were full of snap, prancing around like a flock of geese. They threw the majority of cameras to their side of the field along with such famous player writers as Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth. Ruth picked the Cubs to win the series but he was hobnobbing with the A's as an indication he might switch his opinion at any moment.

Build Bonfire

The situation got so desperate in the right field bleachers that several fans started a newspaper bonfire to keep from freezing, but quick action by the khaki-clad gendarmes stopped the alternative risk of being burned.

There was still room for at least 1,000 more in the outer sections at 1 p. m.

Hack Wilson defied the elements by appearing sans undershirt. The squat, cub outfielder hoped his hitting would be as robust as his constitution.

John McGraw, the only man who has master-minded in more series than Mack, came out on the field to congratulate a fellow craftsman, even if the latter happened to be in a rival league.

It was mostly cloudy, with the sun showing no sign of breaking through to relieve the shivers. Grandstanders were wrapped up in blankets. The fielders figured to have a tough time handling the ball if their fingers remained as numb as the spectators.

Football Weather

Typical football weather with the temperature hovering around 50 degrees was on tap as the confident Athletics and determined Cubs groomed their forces for the second world's series game at Wrigley Field today, this morning.

Connie Mack, the rangy Athletics strategist who crossed up the Cubs yesterday by sending Howard Ehmke to the mound for what resulted in his great 3 to 1 triumph, had everyone guessing as to his pitching choice today whereas the Cubs were almost certain to start their speed ball artist, Percy Pat Malone.

TEXTILE WORKERS VOTE FOR STRIKE

Employes of Southern Rayon Plants Want Walk Out, They Tell Leaders.

Elizabethton, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Textile union leaders planned to submit formally today to the Federal Department of Labor and to their national organization a report that union members had voted 1,129 to 64 to strike unless differences with the two rayon mills were adjusted.

Announcing the result of the count last night, Paul Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, said he was inclined to believe the differences would be settled without a strike.

May Avert Strike.

Aymon explained that, after telegraphing the result of the union ballot to the Department of Labor and to Thomas McMahon, president of America, several days must elapse before action can be taken by the union. In that time he said, he hoped to effect a settlement with the mills.

The state president said he believed the vote represented the real sentiment of the workers, as against the result of a ballot taken by the plants last month. The plant ballot resulted in a vote against a strike by a heavy majority.

Before the mill vote was taken, union leaders complained that the plants had shown discrimination against workers active in strikes here last spring. This was the chief difference, and was denied by the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff corporations, mill operators.

WATERBURY DEMS. CARRY ELECTION

Many Upsets Showing Record Cutting of Majority of the Candidates.

Waterbury, Oct. 9.—(AP)—F. Frank Hayes, Democrat, defeated Attorney Theobald E. Conway, Republican, for mayor by 645 out of a total vote of 28,067 votes cast in the city election here yesterday.

The vote shows unprecedented cutting of candidates.

The vote of Mr. Conway, Republican for mayor, surprised Democrats. He is a young lawyer and it was his first venture in politics.

Democrats will have the majority of one in the Board of Aldermen for the next two years. The city's debt and high tax rate was made the principal issue by Republicans.

Mayor-Elect Hayes is a native of Waterbury, a graduate of Georgetown University. His family pays the largest tax bill in the city for private property.

MILK CHAIN FIRM MADE BIG MONEY

President Says Income Was $170,000 While Expenses Less Than $8,000

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Larry Fay, head of the New York Milk Chain Association, which is being investigated by the state on charges of conspiracy in restraint of trade, has admitted that during his presidency the organization's income was $179,936, while the expenses were a trifle more than $7,000, plus a weekly payroll of $1,900 a week. Fay received all that was left over after expenses.

Dealers Beaten.

During the recent "milk war" it is charged his organization demanded $4.40 a can from dealers. Evidence has been introduced showing that when milk dealers refused to join the chain they were beaten. The Grand Jury held no hearing today, but sessions will be resumed tomorrow. Subpoenas were being served today on twenty witnesses.

WATER BOY KING FACING DEFEAT

Forces of Old Regime in Afghanistan Victorious in Battle, Report Says.

Moscow, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Advises received here today stated that Nadir Khan's forces have captured Kabul, Afghanistan, forcing Habibullah Khan, the one-time water boy and now king, to barricade himself in a house in the center of the town.

Kurdish forces in Gardez and Karizdervish surrendered to Nadir Khan who has dispatched a strong force toward Jalalabad to meet troops which Habibullah has ordered to come to his rescue in Kabul.

Habibullah Khan, formerly known as Bacha Sakao drove King Amanullah from his throne in Kabul early this year. Since then Amanullah has been in Europe. Nadir Khan was one of the chief figures of the old regime.

SMITH'S SHORTAGE IS ABOUT $25,000

Securities for That Amount Are Missing from Hartford Firm's Assets.

Hartford, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The probability that James A. Smith caused losses approximately $250,000 in cash and securities belonging to his customers and partner, Milford G. Kenyon of East Hartford, was entertained today by authorities investigating the crash of Kenyon and Smith, brokers of 75 Pearl street. Complaints of customers and preliminary examination of the firm's records indicate, at least, that securities to that amount are missing. But whether Smith cashed some of them when he fled Wednesday or lost that amount of money during the recent market recession has not yet been ascertained. It is known, however, that just before he disappeared he had at least $1,800 in cash received from the sale of securities at Adamson and O'Brien, New York City brokers, through Kenyon and Smith had an account.

Seize All Papers

All the books and records of the partnership are now in County Detective Hickey's custody and Seth Hadfield, certified public accountant, has been retained by State Attorney Hugh M. Albion to bring the books up to date in order that the status of each customer may be learned.

The county detective yesterday afternoon questioned two employees of the partnership who are expected to be principal witnesses against Smith. They are Miss Marie A. Stevens, bookkeeper, and George A. Naprstek, salesman who had been promised the position of sales manager upon removal of the office into a larger suite.

While Joseph W. Rees, Federal receiver and Abraham S. Albrecht, attorney for the receiver, are seeking assets, little more than $6,000 in cash and securities are now available.

MILLION DOLLAR GIFT FOR CLARKSON COLLEGE

Fund Will Be Used for Erection of New Buildings; Donor Kin of Founder.

Potsdam, N. Y., Oct. 9.—(AP)—A gift of $1,000,000 to Clarkson college from Mrs. W. A. Moore, a sister of the late Miss Annie Clarkson, niece of the founder, was announced last night by Congressman Bertrand H. Snell of Potsdam. The fund will be used for the erection of new buildings on a tract known as Clarkson hill.

The million dollar gift was left to Mrs. Moore by her sister as a trust fund with the stipulation it be turned over to the college at her death. Mrs. Moore, however, desired to see the new college built during her life time and so turned the money over to college officials. Building operations will be started next spring.

The ground on which the new buildings will be erected comprise 50 acres and was given to the college about a year ago by Miss Clarkson who also bequeathed it $100,000 at her death a short time ago.

64 Year Old Letters Are To Be Delivered

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 9.—(AP)—A delivery, and it is not known here where the letters have been all these years, are to be made today to deliver nineteen letters written by Confederate prisoners of war at Camp Chase, military prison, Columbus, Ohio, and addressed to persons then living in Arkansas.

A list of addresses has been sent to Mrs. John F. Weismann, president of Arkansas Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy. No reason was given for delay in delivery.

PROTESTANT UNION SERVICE SUNDAY

Rev. E. T. Sullivan, Newton Center, Mass., to Be the Guest Speaker Here.

The first of a series of Protestant Union Services to be held on the second Sunday in every month and ending in March, will be held at the South Methodist church at 7 o'clock Sunday evening with the Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity church, Newton Center, Mass., and a summer preacher at St. Paul's Cathedral in Boston as the guest speaker.

This is the third year that the South and North Methodist, St. Mary's and the Center and Second Congregational church have united in this form of services.

Of himself he says: "In 1891 I went to Newton Center to hold services for a handful of people in a small hall. I am still there in the only parish I ever had or will have and I am the only resident minister the people ever had. There are now about 1,000 confirmed persons in the parish."

DOCTOR CITES A CURE FOR THUMB-SUCKING.

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Children addicted to sucking their thumbs dislike to watch themselves do it.

That is the conclusion Dr. Samuel J. Lewis of Detroit, reported to the American Dental Association after five years spent in developing the first scientific evidence that definitely blames the habit for deformation of a child's deciduous, or early teeth.

He saw in psychology, rather than aluminum nuts or other mechanical methods, the best cure for thumb-sucking. Children taken from play twice a day and forced to perform the habit in front of a mirror for ten minutes were successfully cured. Malformation of teeth may correct itself, he said, if the thumb-sucking is stopped before a child is five years of age.

BUYERS OF LIQUOR MAY BE HELD TOO

Bishop Cannon Heads Movement to Bring About Change in Law.

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—An organized movement to bring about enactment of the Sheppard bill to declare liquor buyers equally guilty with sellers under the prohibition laws, already is pressing for attention of members of Congress.

Headed by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., as chairman, and Eugene L. Crawford, as secretary, the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, has directed a formal appeal to Congress for passage of the measure.

The contention of the association against the prohibition amendment that, such a proposal having been excluded deliberately from the Eighteenth Amendment, Congress could not enact it now as law without nullifying the traffic in liquor, is countered in the church organization's appeal with the statement:

"The principal reason for exempting the purchaser from punishment in the present Volstead Act was the expectation that the testimony of the purchaser would be necessary for the conviction of the seller, but ten years experience seems to have demonstrated that better results can be secured in curtailing traffic if the purchaser is branded as a criminal, eliminating the open flaunting of the law by persons without sense of shame, who are willing to show contempt for the effort to promote social betterment merely to indulge their own personal appetite without regard to the Constitution of the country."

ENLARGING RAINBOW DANCE FLOOR SPACE

The programs at the Rainbow Inn have popularized the Rainbow for miles around and it has become necessary for Manager Pinney to provide more dancing space in the ballroom. This is being done this week and additional space is being arranged in the Rainbow Inn where an expert chef is now in charge. Private dining parties continue to steadily increase at the inn.

Bill Waddell and his orchestra are now an institution at Bolton, providing a popular program for an increasing attendance every Thursday evening. Bill Waddell's orchestra has attained a state-wide reputation for the excellence of its old-fashioned numbers and the orchestra is greatly aided in bringing to the patrons of the Rainbow an atmosphere of old time pleasure by the master of these Thursday night dances Harold Gates one of New England's most popular and entertaining promoters.

New York—There has been an unwonted amount of diabetes in times lately because of drops in the blood. Dr. Walter Langdon Brown of London explained to the New York Academy of Medicine why diabetes goes up when the market goes down.

Mexico City—The country is taking its new football seriously. Roberto Noriega, quarterback at the University of Mexico, is to fly with Reginald Root, the coach, to see the Yale-Georgia game at Athens, Ga., Saturday.

New York—Water from the famous plains of Marathon is being done up with profit through an aqueduct built 2,000 years ago by the Roman Emperor Hadrian, supplanted by new construction of the same Grecian marble of which the Acropolis is built.

St. Louis—Having left a convent to win a fortune, Miss Jeanne Lamesmer plans to return to the cloister. She has established her right to one third of the fortune left by her father, who emigrated from France to Los Angeles, bought realty early and made wine. His estate is valued at more than $5,000,000.

New York—A wife who telephones her husband 204 times a day seems to be immune from prosecution for disorderly conduct. Magistrate Doyle of Flushing dismissed a complaint by Dr. Liston Paine against his wife.

Lake Placid, N. Y.—There is quite a rush on public libraries by girls who desire to become charming. Such has been brought out at a meeting of the New York Library Association. Books that tell how personality may be developed are more and more in demand.

New York—Mrs. Antoinette Fawcett regards herself as "game." Though she has heard that in some parts of Africa it is necessary to wash the hair with benzine she intends to accompany her husband, Captain W. H. Fawcett, on a forthcoming hunt. He's away too much, and besides she wishes to check up on his stories of killing grizzlies.

MADAME CURIE SAILS

Paris, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Timid little Madame Curie, the world's most famous woman scientist and co-discoverer of radium, left here today aboard the boat train for Cherbourg to catch the Ile de France to New York. She passed almost unnoticed at the St. Lazare station in the noise of hundreds there to see Maurice Chevalier and his wife going to Hollywood to make more talkies.

Madame Curie is going to the United States to receive a second gram of radium from her American admirers. She will be a guest at the White House, and attend the dedication of Hepburn Hall of Chemistry, St. Lawrence University, Yonkers, N. Y. She was accompanied by a woman companion whose name was not divulged by the steamship company.

CALLS LOAN STORY AN ABSOLUTE LIE

House Detective at Casino Says Mayor Walker Did Not Borrow Cash.

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Branding an "absolute falsehood" the story of a $2,000 loan to Mayor James J. Walker by the management of the Central Park Casino, Jack Cohen, the reputed informant, today brought the names of former Governor William Sulzer and Alan Fox into the controversy.

The story of the alleged loan was told in the form of an inquiry by former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, majority candidate of the Square Deal Party, who named Cohen as his informant.

Denial that Mayor Walker ever had borrowed any money from the Casino management was made by Sidney Solomon, the lessee, and the Mayor who challenged Enright to rephrase his inquiry so as to make it actionable under the libel laws. This Enright declined to do.

Cohen's Statement. Cohen, former house detective at the Casino, in a statement said Sulzer sent for him about six weeks ago and said he wanted him to meet a big shot in the Republican Party by the name of Alan Fox who he was told by Sulzer was backing Enright's campaign.

He said Fox asked whether they couldn't "hang something" on Mayor Walker, declaring "this is the political season and the pot must be kept boiling." Cohen said he told Fox he knew nothing about Mayor Walker at the Casino, having only seen him there once for a half hour at lunch.

Sulzer Calls. Last Thursday, he said, Sulzer again called him and sent him to Fox who questioned him in the presence of three reputed newspapermen about the management of the Casino. He said he knew nothing about the alleged loan until he read it in the newspapers the next day.

Cohen said that after publication of the story he attempted to see Fox and then called on Sulzer, who after a telephone conversation, with Enright, said: "Go up to Enright's office and help them out on this and verify it." Efforts to reach Sulzer, Fox and Enright for comment on Cohen's statement were unsuccessful last night. Sulzer was impeached as governor in 1913 after a break with the late Charles F. Murphy, then leader of Tammany Hall. Fox, an attorney, was one of the original Hoover-Federal men in New York state and since then has been active in local Republican politics.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

YALE RECEIVES CHARTER

On October 9, 1701, Yale university, then known as the Collegiate School of Connecticut, received its charter from the Colonial Assembly and was formally opened at Saybrook.

For 60 years before the opening of the new school, the people of Connecticut had been sending their sons to Harvard. In 1701, 10 of the principal ministers of the colony, all but one of whom were graduates of Harvard, formally founded a collegiate institution by the gift of books for a library and were granted a charter, naming the ministers and their successors; trustees of the school.

The trustees elected one of their own number, Abraham Pierson, of Killingsworth, rector of the school, and in order to obtain the support of the town on the Connecticut river, voted to establish it at Saybrook, "as the most convenient town for the present."

In 1716, in the face of much dissatisfaction, the school was removed to New Haven and permanently located there. A wooden building was erected where Osborn hall now stands, and was formally opened at commencement in 1718, when the name of Yale college was adopted in honor of Elihu Yale, who had made large gifts to the school.

SAVANNAH OBSERVES HERO'S ANNIVERSARY

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 9.—(AP)—On the 150th anniversary of his death, this city today honored the memory of Brigadier General Casimir Pulaski, the Polish patriot who fell at the siege of Savannah while fighting with the 33 colonies in their cause of freedom.

Representatives of Poland and France, joined Savannah in the memorial exercises, which were arranged to include a parade, a military memorial mass, unveiling of tablets and castings of a wreath upon the Atlantic in memory of Pulaski's burial at sea.

Descendant Present. Count Cranciszek Pulaski, descendant of a brother of the Polish general; John B. Stetson, minister to Poland; Minister Filipowicz of Poland; and Captain Louis Stabile, naval attaché to the French Legation at Washington, were invited as the city's official guests for the occasion.

General Pulaski, who at the age of thirty-one was leader of cavalry in the allied American and French forces besieging the city occupied by the British under Brigadier General Provoost, fell October 9, 1779, in a desperate siege upon the British lines, riding at the head of a patrol. The young patriot died after being placed aboard the brig Wasop and was buried at sea somewhere between Savannah and Charleston.

POLISH LEGATION TO BE AN EMBASSY

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Elevation of the American Legation in Warsaw and the Polish Legation in Washington, to the rank of Embassies is being considered by the Polish and American governments.

President Hoover has discussed the question with the Polish minister, Tytus Filipowicz, who now ranks as a "special ambassador" for the forthcoming ceremonies commemorating the 150th anniversary of the death of General Pulaski of Revolutionary fame.

Presentation of the minister's credentials for the special rank drew from the president an expression of hope that it would be made permanent. The minister replied that the Warsaw government would exchange diplomats of ambassadorial rank whenever the American government desired.

Establishment of an Embassy in Warsaw would require Congressional action, since it would involve increasing the salary of $10,000 now paid annually to John B. Stetson, ambassador to the $17,500 an ambassador would receive.

The raising of the Warsaw post would make Poland the fifteenth nation with which the United States maintains relations through an ambassador. Poland now exchanges ambassadors with France, Italy and the Holy See.

It is expected the present Polish minister would be continued in Washington as ambassador because of his intimate knowledge of the country. Several names have been mentioned in diplomatic circles in connection with the proposed new post at Warsaw for the United States, including John B. Willys, automobile manufacturer of Toledo, Ohio, and Edwin Laughlin of Pittsburgh, Pa., formerly American minister to Greece.

President Hoover is considering both of these men for diplomatic appointment. At the same time, it is considered possible that Mr. Hoover might desire to promote Mr. Stetson and keep him at Warsaw.

AMERICAN AUTOGIRO CALLED A SUCCESS

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The first American built autogiro, manufactured by Pitcairn Aircraft, Inc., plant near here, has been put through its final test flight and pronounced satisfactory, it was announced today.

In virtual secrecy, the "Windmill" plane, in which are incorporated new features, was wheeled from the factory in the presence of construction engineers and mechanics. Senior Juan De Los Cleros, Spanish inventor of the plane, took the ship up on its first short flight. He expressed satisfaction with its performance.

The autogiro is sustained in flight by a revolving horizontal rotor of set of four vanes. The American-made autogiro has a new shape landing gear which lets the plane down with utmost ease; the manufacturers claim. Another new feature is that the motor is tilted down at a six and a half degree angle to the line of the fuselage. This was done to make easier the starting of the rotor blades.

The plane will be put through a series of tests to prove advantages of the newly incorporated features, after which the company plans to turn out two a week in a new factory.

UP TENTH DAY. Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The endurance plane "Chicago—We Will Soar into the 10th day at 6:52 a. m. with word from its two mystery pilots that both plane and pilots were capable of remaining at least 10 days more in the air. At 6:52 o'clock, the plane had been aloft 216 hours and had passed by five and one-half hours the half-way mark of the 421-hour refueling endurance record of the "St. Louis Robin."

Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers—especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh laxatives and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion. This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children. The product you get from your drug store, today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

TRUTH IN THE SOUTH

As the readers of this newspaper are probably aware, the Herald has never been and is not now carried away by any hysteria of adoration of the thics or the culture of the Southern section of this country. Granting that there are plenty of Southern men and women as fine, as admirable as anywhere, it has been our experience with the mass thought of the South—and mass Southern psychology that it is frequently vain-glorious and childish and woefully undisciplined, and that many of the special attributes on which the South so often and so noisily glorifies itself, such as valor and chivalry and hospitality, are really no more characteristic of the South than of any other part of this Union.

AWFUL THINGS AHEAD

The absence of the Longworths from Washington during the visit of Ramsay MacDonald, involving failure of the Speaker of the House to preside over that body on the occasion of Mr. MacDonald's visitation to it and also the non-appearance of either Mr. or Mrs. Longworth at the White House dinner for the British premier and his daughter, has convinced the Washington correspondents that the social war between Mrs. Gann, sister of Vice-President Curtis, and the very considerable number of Washington women led by Mrs. Longworth is not only still on but on the point of bursting into renewed activity.

FIGURES DON'T COUNT

Waterbury voters, or at least a small majority of them, seem to agree with the thesis of the Democratic candidate for mayor in yesterday's election, that "figures don't mean anything"—even when the figures accurately demonstrate extraordinary wastefulness and inefficiency. They elected Mr. Hayes, the candidate who made this extraordinary statement in reference to the expose of the Guilfoile regime, which has saddled the Brass city with a monumental debt and which has given the people very little indeed to show for it.

CONTRASTS

After flying, in fifty-one hours, over six thousand miles from Paris to an isolated corner of Manchuria, where they were forced down, it took the French record-breakers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Beletto, almost half as long again to walk sixty miles to a point where they could get in touch with civilization.

IMPRACTICAL JOKE

Scranton, Pa.—Some practical joker played an impractical joke recently with the result that Nellie Malnick, 12, nearly lost her life. The joker tied several sticks of dynamite to a dog's tail. The dog reached the Malnick home when the dynamite exploded, wrecking the porch of the house and injuring the girl.

interested in their own tax rate and the continued solvency of their city; but nevertheless the vote was amazing in its indication of the indifference of so many citizens to the quality of their municipal government.

Having obtained the sanction of the majority to the principle that figures don't mean anything in municipal expenditures, it would be surprising if the Waterbury Democratic party didn't follow the primrose path of the preceding administration, continuing to regard the government as a license to pad the payrolls and spend the people's money for the behoof of the gang, until, perchance the State of Connecticut is compelled to step in and take charge.

CALL FOR PARLEY

Apprehension lest inclusion of the submarine question in the call for a five-power naval disarmament conference may endanger the success of the undertaking would seem to be needless borrowing of trouble, in view of the language of the invitation for a conference at London. The text of the invitation expressly recognizes the fact that even though both the United States and the United Kingdom are agreed on the desirability of complete elimination of the submarine, the security interests of France, Italy and Japan may justly create, in those governments, an entirely different feeling. In other words the elimination of the submarine is made, by the invitation, an entirely tentative incident to the main purpose of general reduction of naval strengths.

To foresee failure of the intended conference, or even extraordinary difficulties in arriving at an advantageous agreement, because of the possible intrusion of the submarine factor, would seem to us to be unduly pessimistic. The submarine does not constitute a major factor in the purposes of the contemplated parley, any way you look at it, for it does not and is not likely to form a highly important part in the burden of armaments which it is hoped to lighten.

Altogether, in view of the new and genuine understanding reached between the United States and Great Britain—and the growing conviction that statesmanship rather than military ambition will be in the saddle during the January conference, the prospects for a definite change of international naval policies in the direction of reduction may be said to be brighter today than they have ever been in the past.

MEANWHILE LOWER FIFTH AVENUE

Meanwhile lower Fifth avenue sees a sudden plunge toward the skies of huge apartments. These are hurriedly remodeled old Irish and Italian tenements are going about with long faces this year. Rentals went higher than any of the new apartments for several years, and now there is a desperate rush for tenants. Many of the new apartments are empty, with inducements being offered for a year's lease.

PROPHETS ARE PREDICTING FOR THIS OLD BOHEMIA

They are predicting a giddy future. They see sections of expensive apartments and studios; a complete turnover in the population. As a sort of symbol of approaching end—the Jefferson Market prison, one of Manhattan's most colorful buildings, is coming down. Its high, red walls already are falling and its walls will come next.

A THOUGHT

Coolness, and absence of heat and haste, indicate fine qualities. A gentleman makes no noise, a lady is serene.—Emerson.

TAKE LOTS OF TIME

London.—When a worker undertakes the task of cleaning the four faces of "Big Ben," famous English clock, he knows he's in for a big job. Climbing high up to the tower which houses the clock, he must put in a full day's work on each of the faces. It formerly took two men and a fortnight to clean the clock, but the operation is now done by electricity in twenty minutes.

traverse the distance upside, down, on their hands. The multi-millionaire, suddenly bankrupt and compelled to live on the wages of a machinist or an insurance office employe, is in something the same situation as these flyers, set afoot after acquiring the hundred-an-hour habit. Yet the machinist and the clerk, who never have known the superlative gait, do very well, thank you, so long as nothing worse happens than steady employment.

Great riches, great speed, both may be highly desirable. But they certainly are poor preparation for what Warren Harding would have called normalcy.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 9.—A few "diehards" make earnest efforts from year to year to keep alive a few of the remaining traditions of Greenwich village. Each Monday night, in a little cafe east of Fifth avenue, gathers a group of more-or-less poets who read verses to each other and to moon-struck maids from the Bronx and way points. Nay, and then a bit of poetry finds its way to the round table.

And the Village Quill, a magazine which Bobby Edwards directed some years ago, appears from time to time under the editorship of one Henry Harrison. Bobby, who has strummed his ukulele about the coffee houses for more years than one cares to recall, still is to be found in the Bamboo Forest or at Romany Marie's warbling—"Oh, the sultan's wives, they have got the hives—Allah be merciful."... And a rare song it is.

Marie has been more or less subsidized by a group of intellectuals, headed by the Will Durants, of "Story Philosophy" fame. The Pepper Pot has gone quite collegiate and the Vagabondia has been taken over by the bridge players. The sun-room of the Lafayette boasts a stock exchange ticker, though its evening audiences are of the cultural and literary by-ways.

There is, to be sure, a certain number of art shops in Eighth and Fourth streets; a scattering of antique and early American emporia; a few picture-book shops and Italian restaurants where the wine, if young, is still wine.

Once the visitor has passed the southern and eastern extensions of Washington Square the Village now turns away to a combination of Coney Island and Broadway night club.

The "joints" are little more than that. The "Nut Club" is a pleasant experience with modified idiosyncrasy—if you like your fun that way. Newcomers are frequently asked to prove themselves mad before they can enter. A questionnaire is given them to indicate that sanity has passed them by.

Barney's is now an institution. The Green Mills and the Blue Horses, the Black Cats and the Mad Hatters are of the night club family. Then scattered about are any number of "joints," which come to life with the first autumn blast and take their toll from Slummers and college boys.

Meanwhile lower Fifth avenue sees a sudden plunge toward the skies of huge apartments. These are hurriedly remodeled old Irish and Italian tenements are going about with long faces this year. Rentals went higher than any of the new apartments for several years, and now there is a desperate rush for tenants. Many of the new apartments are empty, with inducements being offered for a year's lease.

It seems that the modern swanky apartments which appeared suddenly along the East river have been charging only slightly more and in some cases less than the old Villamansions. Even local color begins to pall, and when the taste for atmosphere is sated, the Village can offer chiefly convenience. It has a central location.

Prophets are predicting for this old Bohemia a giddy future. They see sections of expensive apartments and studios; a complete turnover in the population. As a sort of symbol of approaching end—the Jefferson Market prison, one of Manhattan's most colorful buildings, is coming down. Its high, red walls already are falling and its walls will come next.

A THOUGHT

Coolness, and absence of heat and haste, indicate fine qualities. A gentleman makes no noise, a lady is serene.—Emerson.

TAKE LOTS OF TIME

London.—When a worker undertakes the task of cleaning the four faces of "Big Ben," famous English clock, he knows he's in for a big job. Climbing high up to the tower which houses the clock, he must put in a full day's work on each of the faces. It formerly took two men and a fortnight to clean the clock, but the operation is now done by electricity in twenty minutes.

IMPRACTICAL JOKE

Scranton, Pa.—Some practical joker played an impractical joke recently with the result that Nellie Malnick, 12, nearly lost her life. The joker tied several sticks of dynamite to a dog's tail. The dog reached the Malnick home when the dynamite exploded, wrecking the porch of the house and injuring the girl.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCUE

The Thymus gland is located behind the upper part of the sternum and in front of the trachea. It becomes partly atrophied after puberty. Its functions are not thoroughly understood, but it undoubtedly produces one or more hormones having some influence upon the sexual glands and upon the formation of the blood, especially the lymphocytes.

Children with enlarged tonsils, adenoids and nasal catarrh most frequently show an enlarged thymus. They are often fat and regarded as healthy, but the skin is pale and the flesh flabby. They have little resistance to infectious diseases, and may die suddenly during a period of slight excitement.

If the enlargement of the thymus exists after puberty, the male resembles the female type, and the female is under-developed. The distribution of fat about the body is abnormal. The bones may be either longer or shorter than the average. The enlarged thymus can usually be determined by the X-ray or percussion. It may become so large as to cause suffocation.

The diet suitable is similar to that which I outlined for enlarged tonsils or catarrh. The pituitary glands, although a very small two-lobed body located in the skull cavity just beneath the brain, exerts a profound influence upon growth and metabolism. It is divided into two distinct lobes, an anterior and a posterior, each of which has a definite function. The removal of this gland causes death.

An underfunctioning of this gland produces a very obese individual resembling a fat boy, while an excessive secretion produces a very emaciated individual. Cirous giants are usually affected with an excess of pituitary secretion. It is generally admitted that the front lobe of the thymus, and the back lobe upon metabolism.

The pineal gland Before adolescence the pituitary gland, a small reddish body located in the brain, is an important organ of internal secretion. It was formerly believed to be an evolutionary remnant, analogous with the third dorsal eye found in certain reptile types.

The pineal gland retards the too-early onset of puberty. An increased secretion causes an increased and delayed puberty. A lack of secretion causes adiposity and delayed puberty. A lack of secretion causes precocious development and an unusually early onset of secondary sexual characteristics.

The spleen Although the largest of the ductless glands, the exact purpose of the spleen is unknown. It is somewhat connected with the manufacturing of white blood cells and the reorganization of worn out red corpuscles. The spleen is not actually essential to life, and in many cases this organ has been removed and yet the patient lives for many years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Mouth Ulcers Question: G. F. writes: "Please tell me what to do for ulcers in the mouth. The tonics from doctors only seem to give temporary relief, and the ulcers return after a few weeks after getting rid of them." Answer:—Chronic mouth ulcers come from a similar condition which occurs in your stomach, and is due to wrong habits of eating which produce an over-acidity of the gastric juice. The ulcers may be expected to return periodically until you learn to correct the hyper-acidity of your stomach.

Gas-Producing Foods Question: D. G. asks:—"Are onions and dried beans healthful foods, and what do you think of cabbage?" Answer:—Raw cabbage can be used in small quantities by most people in good health, but when cabbage is cooked for very long the sulphur compounds are liberated so that it is a gas-producer. Cabbage shredded fine and steamed for five minutes only may be used by some people without harmful effects. I never recommend onions or dried beans to my patients because of the fact that they always produce flatulence.

WASHINGTON LETTER. BY RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, Oct. 9.—A man sat listening to William Baldwin Shearer before the Senate committee and subsequently remarked: "He fills me with indignation awe." This postimpressionistic story of Mr. Shearer in the witness chair that might be regarded as the best way to describe the sensation stirred up by Mr. Shearer in the bosom of many who watched and heard him. And no one at all in the crowded committee room went away underestimating Mr. Shearer's abilities as a high-pressure super-salesman.

METHODIST MINISTERS AT THOMPSONVILLE

Fall Meeting of Norwich District Ministerial Association Held—Rev. R. A. Colpitts a Speaker.

The fall meeting of the Norwich District Ministerial Association has just completed a two days session at Thompsonville. Rev. M. E. Genter, of Norwich, the district superintendent, was in charge.

Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, representative of the World Service Commission, was asked by Superintendent Genter to speak.

Mr. Colpitts said he regretted to state that there had been a considerable decrease in the giving of the Methodist church at large to the missionary cause, both home and foreign.

The preacher of the evening was the District Superintendent of the Springfield District of the New England Conference, Dr. Leopold A. Vines, who preached four times at the Willimantic Campmeeting in August.

A business session was held at the time in which it was decided that the February meeting, which is to be at the South Methodist church, should be held for one day only.

Rev. R. W. Vining, of the Connecticut Anti-Saloon League, briefly addressed the gathering on matters pertaining to the League's work.

ROCKVILLE

Council Meeting.

Mayor George Forster presided at the meeting of the Common Council held in the Council Room, Memorial Building last evening at 7:30. There were five absentees.

The usual number of bills were ordered paid and several permits were granted as follows: William Morrison to build garage 14 by 20 at 10 Morrison street; William Dunlap, addition 5 by 9 to rear of house at 225 East Main street; Steve Nagy, gasoline station 24 by 26 at South street and Tolland.

The September report of the School Nurse, Miss Margaret Dornheim, was read and she showed that during the month 1,234 children were inspected; eyes of 500 were tested and thirty-two were found defective; first aid was given 28 children and 12 children were excluded for various reasons; 11 health talks were given and 5 home calls made.

Medical inspections were resumed, with Dr. J. H. Flaherty and Dr. Frederick Walsh on duty; three inspections being held and 115 children being examined; a large number and tonsils removed during the summer. Clinics for the care of such cases were held at the Rockville City hospital. The meeting adjourned at 8 o'clock.

The second sitting in the pinocle tournament of Damon Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will take place this evening following the regular meeting of the lodge. Much interest is being taken this year by the members as valuable prizes are awarded each sitting.

Miss Emma Batz, district delegate from the Fourth District American Legion Auxiliary and department page at this national convention in Louisville last week, had the honor of carrying the Connecticut colors in the opening procession of the convention. Miss Batz is prominent in Legion Auxiliary circles.

Miss Burns To Wed. Miss Agnes Burns, daughter of Edward Burns of Prospect street and Bernard Ertel, son of Mrs. Rose Ertel of Vernon avenue will be united in marriage at St. Bernard's church on Wednesday morning, November 6. Miss Burns was the guest of honor at a party held recently at the home of her twin sister, Mrs. Thomas Regan on Davis avenue.

Kiowa Council Meeting. Kiowa Council, Degree of Pochontas will meet in Red Men's Hall on Friday evening. All past chiefs who are not receding jewels are requested to be present. Guests will be present from Hartford. There should be a large number of members out.

At the last regular meeting of Aiken Skimmer Auxiliary held in G. A. R. Hall, Mrs. Flora Stamps was elected president to succeed Mrs. Cora Elliott. Other officers were elected as follows: vice president, Mrs. Rose LaCrosse; secretary, Mrs. Kathleen Yeast; treasurer, Miss Lillian Greenwood; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Mary.

WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE CONVENTION NOV. 13-14

Annual State Sessions to Be Held at Hotel Bond, Hartford—The Program.

Miss Mary Bulkeley, president of the Connecticut League of Women Voters, has just issued to the affiliated leagues the call to the ninth annual convention of the league to be held at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, November 13 and 14. The delegates will meet to review the work of the year 1928-29 and to plan the work for 1929-30. Speaking of the program for next year, Miss Bulkeley said "In a non-legislative year a special opportunity presents itself to us to formulate and carry out a program of study and activity of great value to our towns, state, and nation."

The business of the meeting will include the adoption of the proposed program of work and the proposed budget and the election of the state officers for the next two years.

The convention will stress the method of education used by the league in promoting its program of study and activity. Experts on taxation, Prof. K. N. Williamson of Wesleyan and Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett, will conduct a model round table discussion on taxation. Miss Marjory Cheney of Manchester and Miss Mary E. Weaver of New Milford, members of the General Assembly, will also take part in the Round Table. A group of league members under the direction of Mrs. James C. Howell of Salisbury will demonstrate the correct method to hold a study group on the subject of paying for schools in Connecticut. Two members will show the correct method of approach in interviewing a legislator on a bill.

Other speakers scheduled to address the convention are Hiram P. Maxim of Hartford, Edward C. Lindeman of the New York School of Social Work, and Mrs. Frank P. Hixon, National Treasurer of the League of Women Voters.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Yesterday afternoon the twelve newly-elected cheer leaders assembled for the first time in order to make plans for organizing the cheering section at the coming football games. These cheer-leaders have been elected by their respective classes and were accepted for this office upon the recommendation of the student council. The following is a list of the new cheer leaders:

Several new cheer songs have been submitted and it is expected that this season the football team will get plenty of support from the grandstand.

Last night at seven o'clock a Hi-Y meeting was held in the Franklin School building. Out of the twenty members of last year's Hi-Y, fourteen graduated last June, and one, Douglas Robertson, has transferred to a prep school. This leaves only five old members with this year's Hi-Y. However, the new members have already been selected and were present at the meeting last night.

The members who remain from last year's club are, Winston Bendall, Richard Jolin, Arthur Davis, Theodore Lupien and Edward Hansen.

The fifth series of dancing school lessons under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Wirtalla will commence on Friday of this week. Owing to the large number of students who wish to take these lessons, two classes will be formed; one class will consist of those who are beginners, and one class will consist of those who have taken dancing lessons before. The large number of students will be divided into two classes, one for one hour and the other for two hours. The first class will take place from five to six o'clock.

During the seventh period yesterday the freshman student council held a meeting for the purpose of planning the freshman Halloween social which will take place on November 1. The freshman class officers: Treva Clifford, president; Barbara Hyde, vice-president; Francis Knight, treasurer, and Emily Andrews, secretary, presided at the meeting for the first time. The chairman of the committees for the social were chosen. Clifford Treat heads the program committee; Rose Barrabee, decoration committee; Walter Wright, refreshments committee, and P. Burke, game committee. All freshman class dues must be paid by October 25, and the receipts for these dues will be used as tickets of admission to the class social.

Ehmke Nearly Fired Two Months Before Series

HERO OF YESTERDAY'S GAME BEGGED MACK FOR ONE MORE CHANCE WHEN ARM WENT BACK

With Tears In His Eyes, Ehmke Offered to Play Without Cent for Services; Now He Is Talk of the Sport World.

YALE IS FAVORED TO BEAT GEORGIA

Many Other Important College Grid Contest Slated for Saturday Afternoon.

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—There are a number of football accounts to be settled on Saturday as the first big spurge of traditional and intercollegiate games hits the Atlantic seaboard.

Some instances, pre-game indications are all in favor of a settling of accounts; in others, it's tossup, and in the rest it appears quite certain that the worm would be given a chance to turn.

In the first, category is Pittsburgh's battle with West Virginia's mountaineers who with Carnegie Tech were the only teams able to down the Panthers in 1928.

West Virginia won by 9-6 last year but have small hopes of repeating. The Panthers have shown unlimited power in rolling up 105 points on Waynesburg and Duke while West Virginia has a defeat by Davis and Elkins and a tie by Duke to put against its single victory over West Virginia Wesleyan.

Syracuse with 132 points to its credit in two games, seems to have a first-rate chance to gain revenge for its 7-0 reverse by Nebraska last season in the world series and then to unimpressively against Southern Methodist last week.

Down south Yale should repeat its victory over Georgia at Athens and Swarthmore appears in for a licking by Virginia at Charlottesville.

Washington and Jefferson and Bucknell have a scoreless tie to play off and Juniata may upset Drexel which won by 12-0 last year.

THAT FOXY HOME RUN IN THE SEVENTH

It was home-coming day for Mr. James Foxx of Philadelphia. The youthful first baseman of the Athletics is pictured above scoring the first run of the first game of the World Series with the Chicago Cubs after his seventh inning four-base clout into the center field bleachers at Wrigley Field, Chicago. Right Fielder Miller is waiting at the plate to congratulate him. Lower left is a close-up view of Foxx. Lower right is the veteran Howard Ehmke, hero of the opener, who was sent into the game as a "surprise" hurler and lamed the Cubs, 3 to 1.

Bowling League Season Off To A Flying Start

Nearly 100 Players, Mostly Girls, Engage in Busy Night of Favorite Sport; Clara Jackmore Hits 111 and 124.

League bowling officially got under way in Manchester last night when three different circuits swung into action on a three-alleys-front, Bronke's, Farr's and Conran's. Nine matches were played, 18 teams and nearly 100 bowlers participating.

Cheney Girls' Athletic Association occupied the spotlight with 75 members taking part, junior and senior leagues were commenced. Miss Clara Jackmore took the high honors for the evening with a three string of 314 and a high single of 124. In the last game she finished with a double strike but got only three pins on her last ball, thus preventing an even bigger score.

The league record is held by Edith Rowell with 136. Mary Strong also rolled 131 last season. Conran's Shoppe League opened with President Jack Dwyer inauspiciously sweeping the gutter with his "ball of dedication." An unusual incident was the fact that in both matches the first game ended a tie. Depot Square and the Midway Filling Station each won four points.

Blankenberg's 132 was high with three string honors going to O'Bright with 318. Tonight the Majors meet the Lithuanians and the Eagles clash with Cheney Brothers.

Large galleries watched the matches in all three leagues and everything seems to point to a banner season. The Herald League gets under way next Monday evening with ten more teams swinging into action. Following are the scores of all matches rolled last night:

MACM USED KEEN JUDGMENT IN NAMING EHMKE—EVANS

Veteran Pilot Figured Slow Ball Artist Would Bother Slugging Cubs Who Feast on Speed; Ehmke Had Only Fanned 14 During Whole Season.

BY BILLY EVANS

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 9.—Connie Mack in the opening game of the series pulled the unexpected against the Cubs, as he has so often done during the regular season expected, all that Ehmke did to justify the confidence of his manager, was to pitch one of the greatest games that has ever been hurled against the rest of the American League. He pitched just about the last man in the world, the experts and Joe McCarthy had Billy Evans in a world series.

On the eve of the first game, Mack had given considerable thought to using the veteran Jack Quinn, one of the few surviving spitballers in the majors. The great success Burtleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh has had against the Cubs, caused Mack to lean towards Quinn. The demon statisticians had advised Connie that not in seven starts had the Cubs been able to trim Grimes.

However, when it came time for the pitchers to warm up, Mack set the fifty thousand cash customers agog by sending Ehmke to the rubber for a ten minute workout, prior to the call of play ball. It was the greatest upset ever heard of in the series. I doubt if few other managers in baseball would have done as Mack did when he announced Ehmke as his pitching selection.

But, Mr. Mack has the courage of his conviction he also has several very definite reasons for his decision which favored Ehmke as the starting pitcher.

Ever since it was certain that the Athletics would play the Cubs in the world series Mack said after the game, the Cubs have been listening to stories about the terrific speed possessed by my three pitching aces, Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw. In like matter, I was told that my southpaws didn't have a chance and that the Cubs just feasted on speed, regardless of whether it was the right or left handed pitcher. I felt that a pitcher of the Ehmke type, who has a deceptive side arm curve and a dazzling chance of pace, would be just the man to upset the Cubs, who for over a month have been set up on a speed diet. I was positive Ehmke could do it. He had the control. He did and that is the whole story.

During the entire season, Ehmke fanned a total of only 14 batters, yesterday he whiffed 13! Thus, a second string twirler, who usually needed a couple of weeks rest to be at his best, becomes one of the two heroes of the opening game. Jimmy Foxx is entitled to a 50-50 break, for it was his home run to the remotest corner of Wrigley Field that put the Athletics in front after six scoreless innings. Erratic play by Shortstop English of the Cubs, figured in the other two runs scored by the Mackmen. Ehmke pitched a truly remarkable game. He used a half speed side arm curve that had the greatest sluggers of the Cubs bewildered and often with the count three and two, he would use a deceptive change of pace that completely baffled the National League champions.

New Series Mark In winning the opening game Ehmke established a new strikeout record by setting down 13 of the Cubs on strikes. In making his new records, Ehmke did the unusual by fanning Pinch Hitter Gabby Hartnett as the 12th victim and ended the game by whiffing Tolson, another pinch hitter for a new record while two Cubs were waiting eagerly on the sacks to cross the plate with the runs that would have tied up the old ball game. Ehmke's epoch feat was started with several gems of pitching. In the third, with runners on second and third with only one down, he fanned the great Hornsby and the equally dangerous Wilson on eight pitched balls. On two occasions he set the side down on strikes. Once he fanned five in a row. Throughout the game it was always the same old story—Ehmke's sweeping side arm curve and change of pace ball, that it often seemed would scarcely carry to the plate, that had the Cubs swinging in vain. Ehmke did everything that Mack knew he could do, if he had control and he had it, Mack by tempting fate with a second string twirler, for such has been Ehmke's waiting for a month or two. Has earned for the Athletics' destiny in vain. Ehmke did everything that Mack knew he could do, if he had control and he had it, Mack by tempting fate with a second string twirler, for such has been Ehmke's waiting for a month or two. Has earned for the Athletics' destiny in vain.

It was not uncommon for him in an important series when the opponent sent its ace to the mound, to counter with a pitcher not figured on as a starter. Mack simply pitched a second stringer, against Charley Root, the man, whom McCarthy admitted was his ace, since he gave him the honor of opening the series.

SPORTORIALS By TOM STOWE

MACK SHOULD QUIT IF A'S WIN TITLE

Whatever sorrow or mourning Jack Sharkey brought to Philadelphia when he put Tommy Loughran, pride of the Quaker City, to sleep in the Yankee Stadium a few weeks ago, was at least temporarily erased yesterday when good old Connie Mack, baseball's greatest genius, outmaneuvered Joe McCarthy's forces to win the opening game of the World Series. But Philadelphia wasn't alone in its rejoicing, for the Athletics seem to be the popular choice of the majority.

There can be but one reason for so many ardent supporters and it lies in the presence of Cornelius McGillicuddy, the grand old man of baseball, who after an absence of about 15 years, now seriously threatens to return to the throne he once occupied. It has been a long, hard journey for Connie since he broke up his famous machine that marched roughshod over all opposition for a period of years until the Boston Braves turned them back four times in succession in the 1914 World Series.

Mack hasn't yet realized his main ambition—that of winning one more world's championship before he steps aside in favor of Eddie Collins—but regardless he has done a man's sized job to build together a club strong enough to put an end to the baseball monopoly which the New York Yankees had enjoyed for many years. In case Mack is successful in winning the World Series, I can't think of a more opportune time for him to leave the game. In such event, he will have created a name that will always be sacred in the history of the great national outdoor sport. Why wait until he loses again?

Connie Mack's winning personality has imbued his club with a fighting spirit that is hard to overcome. His advanced age makes him respected far more than the average big league baseball manager. At least, one seldom hears of any dissension in the ranks of the White Elephants. Club officials haven't found it necessary to change pilots every few seasons either, all of which seems to bear out the fact that Mack knows his business to the fullest possible extent.

The sport writers weren't the only persons who were completely fooled when the 67-year-old pilot of the A's sent Howard Ehmke to the rubber instead of Earnshaw, Quinn or Grove, his so-called aces. The Chicago Cubs were fooled worse than anyone else, as is attested by their enormous "death toll" of 13 strike out victims, a new world record. Mack probably decided to use Ehmke because he figured the latter's slow, wide-breaking curves would be a source of far more worry to the McCarthy sluggers than all the speed Earnshaw and Grove could have mustered. Certainly Mr. Ehmke had the Bruins breaking their backs swinging at his tantalizing hooks. It now remains to be seen what Mack's speed artists can do.

Ehmke's 13 Strikeouts Is New Series Record

Tops Feat of Ed Walsh in 1906 by One Victim; Root Allowed Only Three Hits.

By BRYAN BEL
A. P. Sports Writer
Thanks to the wizardry of Howard Ehmke, a tall right-hander with one of the slowest balls in baseball, the Athletics will leave tonight at Philadelphia with no worse than an even break in the first two games of the World Series, come what may in the second game.

Ed Walsh's performance in the opening game will take high rank with sensational pitching performances over the long stretch of World Series history.

Trice in serious trouble the native New Yorker, who is now in business in Philadelphia in the summer and Detroit in the winter hit up his trousers and pitched just a little slower—each time—until danger no longer threatened.

MAY RAIN TODAY
OUT IN CHICAGO
Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Rain before night was forecast at 7:50 o'clock this morning by the United States Weather Bureau. "The weather is threatening—on the borderline of rain conditions," stated C. A. Donned, weather forecaster. "There will probably be rain before night with possibly light rain this afternoon, but hardly enough to cause postponement of the baseball game." The wind would be southeasterly, he said, with temperatures in the low 50's, several degrees cooler than yesterday.

MORDECAI BROWN WRITES ON SERIES

BY MORDECAI BROWN
Famous Three Fingers Pitcher of the Old Chicago Cubs

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—I saw my first world series game yesterday, that I have seen since 1910, when the Athletics did us Cubs something like they did to our successors in the opener.

The old game has changed considerably but it is still the same. The Cubs, I think lost because Root thought he could slip his fast one strikes and no balls. His guess was as good as anyone's, except a second guesser. If he had shot it over caught Fox asleep he would have been a hero.

As for the fielding and inside play—all I can say is that they play game differently now. Some fellow bunted yesterday and the crowd gasped as if they had forgotten the bunt. I liked McCarthy's generalship, even if it lost.

American Ship Carries Machinery To Russians

Norossyak, Russia, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Carrying a cargo of American machinery and other American products, the steamship Exford, first American vessel to come direct from the United States to a Soviet port since the war, arrived at this Black Sea port today.

Rasmus Hanson, representative of the Export Steamship Corporation of New York, organizer of the first direct Russian-American steamship service, said similar steamships from American ports will arrive regularly every ten days at Odessa, Novosibirsk and Batum, carrying American machinery and merchandise for the Soviet Union.

The Exford sailed from New York on Sept. 19 for Novorossyak and Odessa.

CHAIR WAS RIGHT HANDY BUT SO WAS THE GANG

High School Boy Sits Down and Suddenly Finds He Has a Lofly Seat.

Flag-pole painters will be careless and high school boys will be collegiate. Thereby hangs a tale? Ray Berger fitted himself snugly into the boy's chair hanging from the flag pole in front of the High School yesterday. A more thoughtful painter would have anchored, bolted or painted a skull and cross bones as warning to all too inquisitive students. But Ray saw no signs and proceeded to try out the chair. Whispering, pointings and a final rush by the gang and Ray soon found himself soaring aloft, protesting vainly. Up he went to the very top of the pole in the cool air above the trees and street.

He pleaded, coaxed and threatened but with no results below. The other students simply tied the rope around the pole and proceeded to forget about Ray high above. Finally, touched by his aerial pleas floating from above, Roger Spencer, big in both heart and physique, went to the rescue and took charge of the descent, which was made in quick drops and sudden stops. When the would-be flag pole sitter reached the ground he was . . . well . . . he won't try out boy's chairs right away while the gang's around.

BIRTH OF CONSCIENCE

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Dr. James Breasted, noted Egyptologist and director of the Oriental Institute, has traced the birth of conscience to a period about 2,000 years before Christ.

It was then, Dr. Breasted said in an address last night, that man first indicated a knowledge of the difference between right and wrong. Texts found inscribed on the stone walls of tombs dating back to 2,000 B. C., he said, showed the dawn of conscience and character among the earth's inhabitants.

INTERNATIONAL BANK NO MENACE TO U. S.

Experts Say Institution Will Be Servant Not Master of the Other Banks.

Baden-Baden, Germany, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Any American fears lest the conference on the Bank for International Settlements should try to erect a super-bank with the possibility of dominating world finances is believed by the American delegation here to have been allayed by today's decision the statutes must contain a veto clause. This clause guarantees to every bank of issue the right to veto the contemplated International Bank operations within its territory.

It was stated this provision would be so carefully phrased that the inherent veto right would be apparent beyond doubt.

"The bank must be the servant of the central banks, and not the master," said one of the experts.

The conference also discussed the gold settlement fund and agreed that the Bank for International Settlements must not become a competitor for the world's gold supply, but each bank of issue must have option whether to deposit gold with the bank for International Settlements, or hold it elsewhere under earmark.

WILL TAKE 80 YEARS TO COMPLETE SURVEYS

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Recommendations looking to completion of the basic American surveys within 18 years have been submitted to President Hoover by the secretaries of the interior and commerce.

Under the present plans, they reported, the coast and geodetic survey, the topographic survey, and geological survey, would not complete the work for another 80 years.

As an instance of the value of these accurate surveys, the president said that had adequate maps of the Mississippi flood area been available in the last great deluge, it might have been possible to save one hundred thousand head of cattle which perished.

About 43 per cent of the mapping work has been completed in the last 70 years.

The Innocent Cheat

THIS HAS HAPPENED
HELEN FAULTS her brother, ROBERT, after meeting a dying beggar, CHARLES NELLIN, Brent changes his plans for Helen's future. Soon after he tells her that she is the only grandchild of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM. Brent takes her to Cunningham and offers proofs which the lonely old man accepts, as he had been searching for the child.

Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother, ROBERT, who falls in love with her. Brent finds another locket like the one he had taken from Nellin to prove Helen as the heiress. He also becomes jealous of Bob and plots to secure Helen for himself quickly. Hearing the doctor say a sudden shock would kill the old man, Brent gets the servants out of the way and rushes into the sick room shouting wildly that Helen has been killed. His plan works and when the attendant returns, Cunningham is dead. Then, acting as sympathizer and appealing to her loyalty to him, Brent secures Helen's promise to marry him. He tries to break off a love affair with Eva without arousing Helen's suspicions.

A chance meeting between Helen and Bob reveals their love for each other, but she tells him she is promised to another. Helen goes to ask Brent to release her and finds CARMEL SEGREO in his apartment. Carmel throws herself in Brent's arms before he sees Helen. This makes it easier for Helen to demand that their engagement be broken, but Brent refuses to release her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXI

"Have you lunched?" Brent said surprisingly.

This time Helen succeeded in getting to her feet. "No," she cried, "I'm going back to Bramblewood."

Brent's smile still held. "To that puppy, Ennis, I suppose?"

Helen smiled to answer.

"Lunch with me," Brent said, half commandingly before she had moved far away. "We haven't talked to the end of this thing and I know you won't be so unfair as to leave it in the air, Helen."

"What more is there to say?" Helen protested.

"A great deal," Brent quietly returned. "Will you lunch with me?"

"Not here in your apartment," Helen declared, thinking of the lunch Carmel had prepared.

"Wherever you like," Brent compromised. "Sherry?"

Brent nodded.

Helen gathered her things together while Brent got his hat and stick and they left immediately.

Ten minutes later at Sherry's, they were seated at the most secluded table available. There were people within earshot of them but the cosmopolitan air of detachment that pervades New York's eating places isolated them sufficiently to permit Brent to plead his case.

"But all that he could find to say left Helen cold. Finally, as she feared he would, he brought up the subject of her loyalty to him."

"You couldn't have been too fine to do that, could you?" she said when he mentioned the years of care he had given her. "To think of making me pay for something you did for my father, your friend, I mean."

"You weren't too fine to forget it for a showy hero," Brent retorted.

"That's not fair," Helen objected. "I came to you only to ask you to let me go, because I certainly wouldn't have considered it fine to keep you in ignorance of... of..."

"You stopped, her face suffused with vivid color."

"Your infatuation for Ennis," Brent supplied with a note of contempt in his voice.

"Call it what you will," Helen replied. "But listen to me. I've thought of all you have done for me, and I am grateful. I wouldn't have broken our engagement without your consent, but when I saw you kiss that woman..."

"Carmel!" Brent interjected. "Forget her Helen. She isn't worth a thought from you."

"Oh yes she is," Helen said swiftly. "I shall never cease being grateful to her."

"Then you really think you can put me aside for Ennis?" Brent's voice was crisp as cracking ice.

Helen met his question with a ready answer. "Even if there had been no one else—for me," she said, "I would not marry you now, Leonard. I don't think I ever could understand each other. It's a mistake for people of such different ages to marry. I'm sure of that. You see, I don't want to live with the ashes of your past, or feel that one-half of you is devoted to me as to a creature from another world, while the other half is absorbed with the habit of other women. I want to grow up with the man I marry—to be the only feminine habit he has."

She could not help smiling tenderly over her recollection of Bob's way with women. Nothing of the weary exhaustion of the world there. Even his ruthless epithet—that he had hurled at her the night before—had lost its sting now that she had hope of not deserting it in the slightest degree.

"Bosh," Brent said impatiently. He realized that he could no longer woo Helen. In a way it was a relief to give up trying. There remained pressure—and if necessary—threats. He decided to use pressure—and not to be too gentle about it.

"Do you really think there is any advantage in discovering things for yourself when there is someone at hand to give you the right answer?" he asked.

"What do you mean?" Helen asked in turn.

become reality they are no longer dreams. Indisputable, isn't it? But often the awakening is painful. I can spare you that. My experience of life—discount it as you will—can be a bulwark for you if you will let it. Why climb to heights from which you must tumble down when there is someone to tell you that nothing exists in the clouds?"

"I might not follow in your path," Helen suggested, a bit scornfully.

"There is only one path, or at least one destination," Brent replied. "Disillusionment. Why bother, Helen? Your little boy friend, if he is potentially a man, will come to be like the rest of us. There will be other women for him and if he does not accustom himself to taking them lightly it will be only so much the worse for you. There should be only one woman with whom a kiss is a kiss; with the others it may be a pleasant little exercise, an amenity, a social grace. What of it? Shall there be no panics or daisies because roses bloom in the garden? Don't you see, dear? With Carmel, he shrugged, why dignify the thing? It is only those who hold a place in our thoughts that matter. And nothing is ever farther from my mind than Carmel when she is out of sight."

Helen had a rather sickening feeling that this man's soul had died and that only an attractive husk remained.

"I still think," she said, "that I prefer to live my life at first hand, and make my own mistakes if any must be made."

Brent did not argue further. "Not one girl in a million would have the vision to see it differently," he said resignedly, "or the sense to realize that a man whose wild oats already sown and not in his system is the better risk."

Helen's lovely pointed chin lifted haughtily. "I do not believe that all men are philanderers," she said icily.

Brent suppressed a smile. "In return for the compliment of my sex let me say that I do not believe that all women are ingrates," he said. "You in particular, Helen."

Helen regarded him in dismay. "Then you mean to make me pay, if you can, for what you've done for me?"

"I shall not call it paying," Brent answered mildly. "I believe that I can make you happy when you get over this mooncalf interlude."

"Oh, you are a brute," Helen flared at him.

"Perhaps," he said lightly. "But there are times, my dear, when any man with even an apology of a brain must be brutal. Were I to let you have your way now I should be sacrificing myself only to make you no happier than you will be with me."

"I believe that I do not believe that you had you would have wanted to break our engagement regardless of the loyalty you feel for me."

"Then you don't really believe that I am capable of true loyalty?" Helen broke in.

"My dear, I think true love would have settled the matter for you without coming to me," Brent answered promptly.

"Helen sat back in her chair, feeling most unhappily disturbed. Brent's words were so much in accord with what Bob had said. Was she indeed then not really in love?"

A thought of last night's sleepless, pain-filled hours brought a twisted smile to the corner of her lips.

"You wouldn't have waited until you had what probably would provoke you into quarreling with me under any circumstances," Brent was going on in his smooth fashion. "You'd have come to me and said it was all off."

"I'm not jealous," Helen answered scornfully.

Brent smiled. "Of course you are, my dear," he told her. "All women are. And yours is the unreasonable jealousy of the distasteful maid. You haven't any rivals in my affections, but if you had you wouldn't know how to handle them. You'd try elimination, forgetting that there are corners in life around which Jesus eyes may not peer, but which offer a convenient escape for one who wishes to be unobserved for a period of time."

Helen felt that he was laughing at her. "I don't care to hear any more about your ideas of a man's rights," she said frigidly. "I'm more modern than you are, I think. Certainly there is nothing now in the claim to the kind of freedom you seem to require. It's far more up-to-date to believe in living more, more decently," she finished defiantly.

Brent permitted a mock sigh to escape his lips. "I can reform," he said lugubriously.

Suddenly Helen's manner changed. "Please take me seriously, Leonard," she besought him. "I could never forget what I saw today even if I loved you. We haven't the same viewpoint in the matter at all. Perhaps I am old-fashioned, or maybe I'm just more advanced than you are, but whatever it is I'm not tolerant of looseness."

For a few seconds when she finished speaking Brent held his tongue and his temper; then both broke out.

"Don't be a little fool," he said sharply. "A man's a man, Helen."

Helen drew herself up and gave him a hard, straight glance. "You are the fool," she said quietly.

Brent shrugged. "Be that as it may," he replied, "I intend to have you. You owe me a debt that you cannot repay in any other way. I've given the best years of my life to you, Helen. I might have married, but I wanted to be free to live for you, to travel with you and to give you a home. Most women would have resented you. I knew that and the knowledge made me avoid such entanglements. You are too loyal to let me down now. I'm banking on that, and I don't believe I am a fool."

The WOMAN'S DAY

Mrs. Sarah Millin, the novelist, who has been living in South Africa for a number of years recently arrived in New York, and the first thing she wanted to see was the new woman you hear so much about.

"I'm glad I did not have the job of showing her around, and producing a new woman for her. It would be like the old days when out-of-towners came to New York and demanded immediately to be taken to Greenwich Village dens—and the best you could do was a tame sort of a tea room, lighted with candles instead of electricity and waited upon by girls in smocks rather than boys in white jackets."

You are never quite able to produce these innovations that are so glibly written about. A definite thing like the Woolworth Building or Grant's Tomb is different. You can lead a sightseer up to that and it is up to her whether she likes it or not—there it is.

Find the New Woman
But to be asked to produce a new woman—what an order. Whom would you produce, and what would there be to indicate that she was any different from her mother or grandmother?

And suppose you introduce her to a woman judge or senator, the woman of importance is sure to say something like this—"You know, in spite of my position, I am just an old-fashioned woman who believes that the woman who serves her country best is the good mother."

Personally, I don't know whether

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

A noted child specialist of the west, addressing a teacher's meeting last spring, said that the school of the future that continued to disregard the character development of children, and closed its eyes to the difference in mind and temperament would be guilty of "educational malpractice."

From the same city came an echo a few days ago in the form of a letter from an incensed mother.

The letter interested me, not because of her personal grievance against the schools—I hear that often enough—but on account of her point of view concerning her children. "They are pushed and jerked and slammed around until they are so nervous and confused that even the doctor shakes his head when I have to call him."

Speed all the time, whipped if they don't pay attention, or miss words or talk. Have we gone back to the dark ages?"

Light Hasn't Dawned
"If all her letter says is true, and from the tone of it I am inclined to think so, I'd say decidedly we have gone back to the dark ages, or rather, we haven't seen the light yet."

This is no dissertation on corporal punishment, by which we generally mean whipping, but it is a protest against the schools that will permit scolding, knocking about and abusing children until they are, as this mother says, "bewildered and nervous wrecks!"

She goes on to say: "I know a lot of wonderers, but I think the whole trouble is in not considering how well a child's brain is developed and how much he can understand. The teachers have to teach too many things in a short time."

Unconsciously she has made a case out for the teachers as well as her mistreated children. Are the children the only ones who are "bewildered and nervous?"

Are we really expecting too much of both children and teachers? Are we crowding our curriculum to the breaking point? Are we losing perspective in our mad chase for results? Certainly, we're making too much of a god of marks. Can harassed human beings, trying to attain a wellnigh impossible goal, do their best work?

Children Are Different
And last of all, are we taking into account, as she says, the "difference in children? I believe that is the weak spot of the whole system."

I am convinced that the specialist was predicting an absolute certainty and that grading in the future school will have to be done according to ability and the stage of mental development. Not by age and marks. All children do not develop mentally at the same rate although they may reach the same goal in the end.

Let us hope that there will be no more bewildered children who have to have doctors, nor harassed, driven teachers, who are, alas, sometimes driven to abuse. The school will be a happy place then, for its children, to be degraded, as it is too often the case now.

difficult to digest because of the added ingredients. The oysters themselves are practically steamed or baked in the extra material.

A hot oyster dish is suitable for luncheon or Sunday night supper. Oyster salad is unusual and makes a good Sunday night supper dish for guests.

Grape fruit sections, celery and green peas combined with well seasoned French dressing for the salad. A few gratings of nutmeg and a drop of onion juice are included in the seasonings.

The simplest way to cook oysters is to bake them. Either those in the shell or out of it can be used. When they are baked in the shell, the shells should be well scrubbed. Place in a dripping pan in a hot oven and bake until shells part. Force open, sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve in the shell.

Baked Oysters
One pint oysters, small ovals of toast a little larger than the oysters, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, paprika, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg.

Clean and drain oysters. Toast bread on one side only. Arrange in dripping pan, toasted side up. Place one oyster on each piece of toast. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake in a moderately hot oven until oysters are plump. Cream butter, slowly heat in salt, pepper, nutmeg and lemon juice. Spread over oysters, sprinkle with paprika and serve at once.

and colored bottles that are a joy there. No other room is considered here.

But nothing seems more of a gesture to modern feminine than these closet shops, that make the closest ensemble of beauty rather than a chamber of horrors—one that you can't shut the door on fast enough.

In them you will find transparent covers for your frocks, boxes for your hats, shoes, and gloves, attractive covers for your shelves, and hat holders that are models of fantasy. They will outfit your closet in satin or taffeta, or in chintz or art paper, according to your desires. Perfecting the clothes closet as they have today means that the last frontier in comfortable living has been crossed.

HEALTH

WRONG KIND OF DIET CAN LOWER ONE'S RESISTANCE TO DISEASE.
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN.

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Since the beginning of the twentieth century, it has been clear that the diet of man is of fundamental importance in relationship to his health.

Recently George K. Minot, who was largely responsible for the development of our knowledge that the giving of liver will control pernicious anemia, has considered the whole subject of deficiency in the human diet. Nature, no doubt, provides through instinct for the proper selection of diets by animals in most cases. Man on the other hand, having a mind of his own, varies his diet according to his own choice and it is not rare to find human beings who have chosen diets which are bound to produce disorders.

It is important to remember also that even when the foods contain all of the items necessary to a healthful life, the body itself, because of disease, may be unable to utilize the materials that are necessary.

Specialists in diseases of children are noting more and more that infants suffer with bad nutrition not only because of badly chosen food, but also because of bad diets of mothers who nurse them. A partial deficiency of vitamin B in the diet causes the infant to be pale, restful and to lose its appetite. There seems to be plenty of evidence that a proper amount of vitamin B is definitely related to the desire for food.

If a person has an obstruction in his bowel or a bowel so irritable that the proper food substances cannot be absorbed, he may develop pellagra from that cause. Pellagra is a disease common in the south, associated with eruption on the skin, nervous disorders, hemorrhages from the gums, and similar symptoms.

According to the investigations of Doctor Goldberger of the United States Public Health Service, the feeding of the proper fraction of vitamin B will control this disorder.

A person who suffers from a vitamin deficiency seems to lose much of his resistance to infection. Scientists are only beginning to realize the actual importance of such a dietary study. The time will come when enough knowledge will have been accumulated to yield a more healthful, better developed, stronger human race.

WAIST POCKETS

Some of the new frocks or princess silhouettes break the length of their front width with two little pockets placed where a waistline belt would be.

WORSTED EMBROIDERY

A lovely scarf for cooler days is a pale ivory faille silk, with a three-inch border of black faille embroidered in gay worsted flowers.

HEALTH IS THE MOST IMPORTANT THING IN THE WORLD

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

Precious, lovable little fellow. Tenderly nourished and carried in to manhood by the kindly magic of MILK. With traditional faithfulness, mother watches each feeding, making certain that baby receives exactly the required measure of milk at regular intervals, day and night. Baby's health, however, is not so easily satisfied as his appetite, unless QUALITY be as definitely assured as quantity.

Give your child Bryant & Chapman's milk safeguarded by strict laboratory control at every step from the farm to you.

MISS SHEARER SUPERB AS MRS. CHEYNEY

Famous Drama One of Two Features at the State Theater Today and Tomorrow.

Norma Shearer in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," and Edward Everett Horton in "The Hottentot" are the feature attractions which make up an all talking double feature program of unusual excellence at the State today and Thursday. Miss Shearer in the title role of "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" brings to the screen, in superb fashion, one of the most surprising and entertaining heroines of present day drama. The plot deals with an aristocratic, sophisticated and thoroughly charming lady-crook who winks the elite of British society into accepting her as one of their own number, solely that she may make them her victims. She works in connection with a gang, the head of which is her suave butler, a part most ably played by George Barrera. The cast has been carefully chosen and presents leading names of both stage and screen, and every part, regardless as to brevity, stands out with remarkable clarity and does high credit to each performer.

A more ludicrous figure than Edward Everett Horton as S. Jay Harrington, the lovelorn tenderfoot, who has been edged into the favor of Betty Fairfax of old Virginia, by false tales told by a matchmaker to the effect that he is an experienced horsemaster cannot be imagined. Such is the role he plays in "The Hottentot," one of those rare comedies which tickle the funnybones of people of all ages and conditions. It is a movie for the whole family. Do not fail to bring them all to see it. Patsy Ruth Miller and Edmund Breeze have the leading roles in the supporting cast.

MIRROR ACTS AS BRAKE

Berlin—Dr. Baessler, German scientist, has successfully demonstrated over 4000 times a new device to stop trains by means of a mirror. A mirror of many facets is placed in a semaphore signal and the light from the oncoming locomotive is picked up and thrown back to a selenium cell on the engine. This, in turn, works the brakes, bringing the train to a stop within a few feet.

"She's the same, thank you."

"Gee, Mom, a truck just ran over Pop and mashed him all over the pavement!"
"Arthur! How often have I told you not to mention such things while I'm eating?"

"Now that everybody has a car, I can't see why anyone should worry about losing weight." "These hot days I can lose ten pounds by just thinking about a puncture."

It's still a hick town if you can recognize Saturday by the number of cars on the street.
Ford and General Motors will soon know whether possession of all the money there is brings happiness.

Many a girl has discovered that the pursuit of happiness means walking back home.

In these automobile days, many a timid young swain is probably wishing that the Stone Age, when a man axed a woman to marry him, were back again.

A hypocrite is a youth who quit school at the seventh grade and yet has wise cracks on his flivver.

A tree will stand beside a road without making a move for sixty or seventy years, and then one day it will suddenly jump in front of an auto.

The other day we saw a couple of guys trying to beat each other to death. No, they weren't using their fists; they were driving automobiles and racing to see who could get across the railroad crossing first.

The automobile is now killing more than 27,000 people a year. As soon as the rum and hospital statistics are compiled we'll know whether or not it will be necessary to have any more war in order to keep the population thinned out to a stand.

EVERY MOTHER SHOULD BRING UP HER CHILDREN EXCEPT WHEN SHE'S OUT IN COMPANY.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

Amateur billiard players often call their shots after they're made—and use plain English.

Tourist dust is at it's best around about 30 or 35 miles an hour.

What is needed is more people working for themselves and fewer working for automobile finance companies and hospitals.

The futility of trying to beat a train to the crossing is often demonstrated by a fatality.

Sign seen on the back of an old Ford:
"7 days in this car makes one week."

Larkson: I'm going up to the jail. I want to talk with the bandit who took my car.

Parkson: What's the use?
Larkson: Maybe he'll tell me how he got 50 miles an hour out of her."

Suggestion for an opening sentence for a novel depicting college life: "A small coupe drew up in front of a fraternity house and twelve passengers alighted!"

He raced the train! He got across! And, lest you think I rave When I assert "He got across"— It's right here on his grave.

A girl and a car are much alike. A good paint job conceals the years, but the lines tell the story.

WAY HE TOOK IT.

Brown (ready to drive from tee): I want to get a particularly good drive this time because my wife has just turned up over there.

Brutal Friend: Don't be absurd! Why, she's three hundred yards away. You couldn't possibly hit her from here.—The Humorist.

"Do motor dealers take pianos in exchange?"
"Not usually, but this dealer lives in the flat under mine."

A handkerchief was soon brought. "Hurray! This shoe sails like a out and Scouty said. "There is no doubt but what with this we soon can make a dandy little sail. Come on, that is the thing to do. We'll make it fit right in the shoe. The shoe will not leak water so you will not have to bail."
"When everything is set to go, just ride the big waves high and low. I'm sure you will be safe and sound, 'cause I'll be right near by. Of course if you get on a swell of water you can loudly yell. I'll come right to your rescue any time I hear you yell."
The Weeone who was first to ride put up the sail and hopped inside. The others shoved the shoe out and the bunch began to roar. "Hang on tight. Oh, mercy me, don't slip out and fall in the sea. To play real safe we think you'd better stay right near the shore."
And so the Weeone sailed away. He turned and shouted back.

ABOUT TOWN

The Fifth School District will hold a special meeting in the schoolhouse on Keeney street Friday night. The meeting is called to authorize the committee to borrow $2,600 to pay a note of $2,500 given by the district's treasurer a year ago, which is now due plus interest charges and overcharge. The note was due on June 3. The meeting is necessary because of the phrasing of the vote passed at the annual meeting of the district.

There will be a well-children's conference at the Memorial hospital annex at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Doctor Robert W. Ball of the Chicago Dental Institute gave a talk yesterday afternoon at the assembly halls of the Hollister street and Robertson schools in the interest of dentistry, and again at the Manchester Green school today. Dr. Ball has been visiting schools in Bridgeport, Hartford and other large centers throughout the state, instructing children on the special care of the teeth, and illustrating his discourse with two reels of motion pictures on the subject.

Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth, will conduct a rummage sale tomorrow in the store recently vacated by Franklin Crehore of Spring at Park streets. Selling of used merchandise will begin at 9 a. m. and continue through the day and evening.

Mrs. A. M. Knowles and daughter Gladys of High street, and Benjamin of 33 Locust street, were held at field, were among the guests at the Griffiths-Braitch wedding in Providence this afternoon. Mr. Crehore who was a classmate of Mr. Griffiths at Brown University was best man at the wedding which was held at the home of the bride.

The Junior department of Center church Sunday school, under the guidance of Mrs. Lucius Foster and Mrs. Theodore Bidwell, will hold a food sale at the store of the J. W. Hale company, Saturday at 2 o'clock. The proceeds will be applied to the pledge made by the juniors to the church building fund. The young folks are planning to offer for sale a large variety of home made goods and solicit the patronage of the townspeople.

The Memorial hospital Linen auxiliary will hold its autumn rummage sale at the store formerly occupied by Hale's Self Serve grocery, Main and Park streets, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The sale will open at 2 o'clock Wednesday, continue through the afternoon and evening and the greater part of Thursday.

Mrs. Ernest Newcomb of East Center street and Charles J. Strickland of Main street are in Middletown today for the funeral of their cousin, Mrs. Helen Watson Post at Indian Hill cemetery. Mrs. Post who was a reader in the First Church of Christ Scientist, New York, was killed Sunday by a fall from a window in her thirteenth story apartment. Mrs. Post lived in Middletown as a child but most of her life was spent in Brooklyn.

The general committee arranging for the annual bazaar of St. James's church has named its sub-committees. The bazaar will be held in St. James's hall on Park street on November 12, 13 and 14. The committees follow: Music, Wilbrod Messier, John Tierney and Miss Mary Fraher; tickets, John Tynan, Edward Mooney, John Scannell; country store, Wilbrod Messier, D. J. McKenzie, L. S. Lehey; entertainment, Leo Cleary, Charles Packard and Joseph Shea.

CONTRACTORS WIVES VISIT MANCHESTER

See Historical Spots and Then Make a Tour of the Famous Cheney Silk Mills.

A party of 30 wives of executives of the Associated General Contractors of America holding their annual fall board meeting in Hartford, today were guests of Manchester coming here for a tour through the efforts of W. A. Knoles of The Manchester Construction Company.

The group also included about ten of the delegates attending the three day business session which came to a close last night. Two state policemen escorted the party which came here from the Hotel Bond at 2 o'clock in automobiles.

The visitors who came from various parts of the country were making their first trip through Manchester and they were much impressed. They were taken to the site of the old glass factory off Pitkin street and then down Manchester's attractive Main street. The trip included a tour of Cheney Brothers silk mills. Officials of the firm escorted the party through many of the departments and later one of the officers of the firm addressed them at Cheney hall. The members of the visiting party were given silk scarfs and neckties. Many Manchester persons attended the dinner dance at the Hotel Bond last night.

CENTER CHURCH RALLY SUPPER OCTOBER 16

The Center church women whose names run from A to F inclusive will make all arrangements for the Rally supper and get-together scheduled for Wednesday, October 16 at 6:30, in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple. This will be one of the few affairs of the kind which the women of the church will be able to manage this season, due to the building work now going on.

The group in charge is bending every effort to make this first supper of the autumn a success from every point of view. Mrs. Harold Belcher will serve as chairman, and the menu the committee has decided upon is sure to please all who will attend. Here it is: fruit cup, roast lamb with gravy and mashed potatoes, carrots and peas, jelly, rolls, coffee, pumpkin pie and cheese. Tickets for the meal have already found their way into many homes through the efforts of the group mentioned and other members of the Home Service committee of the Women's Federation.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hamilton assisted the boys club at the Manchester Community clubhouse Monday evening when they entertained the girls at a party in the assembly hall. Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Dorothy Warner played for dancing. The young folks played games, sang and had a merry evening, with refreshments provided by the boys.
