SENATE WILL CALL EYANSON AS A WITNESS

Connecticut Man Must Explain Why He Drew a Double Salary as an Expert.

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Senate lobby investigating committee decided today to begin its public hearings Tuesday.

Chairman Caraway of the committee was authorized to issue subpoenas for witnesses but no decision was reached as to the first persons to be called.

Caraway said he desired Joseph R. Grumley, Washington representative of the American Tariff League, as the first witness.

Tariff Bill First

"We are going first into the lobby on the tariff bill," Caraway said. "We are going to get a list of those gentlemen who sat around so close that no one could get his breath while the tariff measure was being framed."

Caraway added that Charles L. Eyanson, a representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, who was employed by Senator Bingham of Connecticut, a Republican member of the finance committee, to assist him on tariff matters, would be given full opportunity to explain his "double salary."

Quits the Law

Asked if Eyanson could be prosecuted for drawing a private salary while on the government payroll, Senator Caraway said there was a law providing for a fine and imprisonment for any government employee accepting private pay "but I am not passing judgment on this case."

SCRIPPS LAW SUIT IS UP FOR TRIAL

Widow of Famous Editor Seeks Husband's Share in Estate; Millions Involved.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The appeal of Mrs. Josephine Scripps, of Miramar, Cal., from a Federal court decision denying her claim of more than $5,000,000 in the estate of her late father-in-law, E. W. Scripps, founder of the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers, was before the United States District Court of Appeals today.

Mrs. Scripps, widow of the late James G. Scripps, who served as editor-in-chief of the group of dailies, instituted suit in the Federal District Court seeking an accounting and judgment of the elder Scripps' estate, but the case was dismissed by Judge Smith Hickenlooper, in a decision scheduled today was on her plea to reinstate the action.

Wants Husband's Share.

The amount sought by Mrs. Scripps, her suit contends, is her husband's share of the increment accruing to her father-in-law during the management of the newspapers by the younger Scripps. She said her father-in-law agreed to share with his sons in the profits, Judge Hickenlooper, in his decision, said the purported agreement was not legally binding as the father kept to himself the final decision on how the profits should be divided.

Mrs. Scripps is represented by Charles Evans Hughes and Oswald Taylor of Cincinnati, former Federal district judge. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, is counsel for Robert Paine Scripps, named in the action as trustee of the Scripps estate.

BRIDGEPORT ACCIDENT

Bridgeport, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Three persons were injured in an auto accident on the Black Rock turnpike at Fairfield Woods today. Claude Louis Bates of Danbury was operating a machine owned by Edna May Taylor of Norwalk when he collided head-on with a car driven by John E. Hawkins of Bridgeport.

Hawkins was taken to the Emergency hospital and treated for minor injuries. Herbert Flye of Danbury was riding with Bates, was taken to the Bridgeport hospital suffering from internal injuries, and Martha McManus of Bethel who was in the car with Hawkins was taken to St. Vincent's hospital suffering from a fracture of the leg.

Bates was not injured. He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

FIREMEN WATCH TOWER BURN UP

400 Feet Above Street — Big Clock Keeps Running While Fire Rages.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Like a great torch standing out against a dark sky, the cupola of Milwaukee's City Hall, 400 feet above the street, burned to its steel framework last night while firemen watched helplessly.

More than $50,000 damage was done by the fire which was too high to be reached by hose lines. While the top portion of the huge tower burned, showering embers to Water and Wells street, the clock, in a frame of fire, kept burning, giving the exact time.

Defective wiring was blamed for the fire. While it raged a large electric sign on the lower portion of the tower flashed this message to convention delegates:

"Welcome, Electrical Inspectors."

FALL UNABLE TO APPEAR SO TRIAL LAGS

Justice Hitz Calls Recess Until Tomorrow as Ex- Cabinet Member is Un- able to Leave Bed.

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Justice William Hitz today recessed the bribery trial of Albert B. Fall until tomorrow after a physician appointed by the court had reported his examination of Fall was not completed, but that the former interior secretary was unable to get up and probably could not stand trial at this time.

The court said Dr. Thomas A. Claylor, who made the examination, was not satisfied, and recommended further examination, adding he had named Dr. Frank Leach, Dr. John Thibault and Dr. L. G. Tewksbury to assist.

Kept Out Doctor.

Dr. Claylor and another physician were named to call upon Fall yesterday after the former cabinet member had refused to let Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who attended the late President Wilson, see him. Fall, one of a delegation of Senators named to call upon President Wilson in an effort to learn the extent of the chief executive's illness, had refused, said he would not let Ruffin examine him because of personal reasons. The doctor named to assist Claylor was unable to accompany him to see Fall.

Defense counsel declared they were anxious to go on with the trial, and did not wish the judge to make a final decision until it was definitely ascertained that Fall was unable to attend court. Government counsel also suggested that court be recessed until the final decision was reached by the medical examiners.

Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general during the Harding administration, and a government witness, was in court.

WATROUS BOOKS ARE FOUND O. K.

Check and Money Discover- ed Which Balance Ac- counts.

East Hampton, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Money and a check found in Guilford and in his home account for the $1,825 shortage in the accounts of Herbert Watrous, former tax collector who disappeared two weeks ago and for whom state police hold a warrant charging embezzlement of town funds.

The check written out for $1,800 to Watrous name is for two-fifths of the tax assessed against A. M. Starr, president of the Starr Brothers Bell Company here. Town officials announced today the check had been found in Guilford and turned over to Mrs. Watrous in the belief it was a personal check to her husband. Mrs. Watrous gave it to Town Treasurer T. W. Brown who announced that in the course of the investigation $200 in cash had been found in Watrous cellar. Auditors of the town tax books said that with all other items accounted for they are now able to balance the books without a great shortage.

State police are working on territory around Guilford and cash had been found in Watrous.

NEED MORE FUNDS

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Increased appropriation of several hundred thousand dollars have been recommended to the budget bureau by the attorney general's office to relieve congestion in the Federal Courts.

ANOTHER WORLD'S SERIES FREEZE-OUT

It looks like a freeze-out—but actually Connie Mack was trying to put the World's Series on ice for his Philadelphia Athletics. The wily veteran manager had two hurling aces up his sleeve as, pictured above, he is to satisfy the "tincture" Thomas. He was searched carefully and watched closely prior to and during his test yesterday.

Ex-Plumber Produces Pure Gold From Lead

Munich, Germany, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Franz Tausend, a former plumber and known widely as a professional alchemist, purported here yesterday to produce a tenth of a gram of gold from 1.67 centigram of lead. Officials of the mint watched him carefully, but still are not convinced. He actually obtained the gold from the lead.

Indeed, feeling grew today that he had hoodwinked even the high officials of the state mint, who issued an official statement reading: "After experimenting for two hours Tausend produced a grain of the purest gold, weighing one-tenth of a gram, which was melted from 1.67 grams of lead. Experts doubt the result as surprisingly favorable and contradictory to scientific knowledge. The director of the mint, however, is unable to suppress doubts as to whether Tausend was able to smuggle the gold into the test in spite of all precautions."

Must Repeat Feat

It was generally conceded the former plumber, who has been in jail for having defrauded numerous high personages, including General Ludendorff, of $100,000 on alchemy schemes, would have to repeat his feat under much stricter control if he is to satisfy the "tincture" Thomas. He was searched carefully and watched closely prior to and during his test yesterday.

In previous experiments two methods were used to obtain gold. The first was with a "tincture of tinctures" which consisted of lead chloride and calcium hydroxide smelted with potassium and sodium salts in addition to quicksilver. In the second method he used potassium hydroxide, rock flint and ferric oxide.

He succeeded repeatedly in producing pure gold of from five to 30 grams. The cost of production of the alleged synthetic gold being about $5 per kilogram against a nominal value of about $700 per kilogram.

PLEDGES OF $25,000 FOR SQUARE'S BANK

North End Business Men En- thuse Over Project at Get Together Supper.

An enthusiastic gathering of north end business men assembled at the Community Club headquarters last evening for the sole purpose of advancing the interests of that section of the town. It was the second meeting of the newly organized North End Business Men's association and was attended by 35 members. The need of a bank which has been the source of much discussion among north enders for a long period of years, was the principal matter before the meeting.

W. W. Robertson made it very plain that in order to start a bank that would be worth while it would be necessary to raise not less than $75,000. He reminded all those who wanted to have a bank that they must not expect much return on their investment for at least ten years. He stands ready to do his part. He believes that a bank at the north end would not only be a great convenience but would prove a business booster.

Need Good Manager

C. R. Burr is convinced that the necessary funds could be raised for the bank providing that the right kind of a man could be secured to manage it. He too is willing to put his shoulder to the wheel to inaugurate such an institution.

Scott Simon recited some of the conveniences that a bank would provide for the north enders. He stands ready to do all in his power to get one under way.

William Foulds, Jr., believes that there is considerable business in Manchester that is now going to Hartford banks that would come to a bank at the north end. Edward J. Murphy expressed the opinion that if it were possible for either the Manchester Trust Co. or the Hartford Bank and Trust Co. to establish a branch at the north end they should have the backing of the north end people. Thomas Conran, Harry Mintz, Joseph Chizius and Thomas Ferguson also discussed the proposition from their various angles.

YANKEE SOLDIERS VISIT BATTLEFIELD

300 from Twenty-Sixth Di- vision at Dedication of Memorial at Belleau.

Belleau, France, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Three hundred soldiers of the Twenty-Sixth Division, A. E. F., came back today to their hardest battlefield to dedicate the reconstructed Belleau church as a memorial to their comrades who fell in the memorable fighting in 1918.

In a simple ceremony, General John H. Sherburne turned over the keys of the church to the mayor of Belleau. Then Mgr. Mennechet, bishop of Soissons, blessed the building and the Abbe Combes, for thirty years parish priest of this little village, said mass.

Everybody Present

The entire population of Belleau, about 300 souls in all, and many well-known persons, including General Gouraud, Admirals Guepratte and Benet, were present, together with representatives of President Doumergue, Premier Briand, Minister for War Painleve and Minister of Marine Leygues.

When the mass ended, General Sherburne presented the Abbe Combes with the colors of France and of the United States from the Twenty-Sixth Division, to be preserved as a constant reminder of the great battle.

Make Addresses

After General Gouraud, one-armed French war hero, who visited the United States last spring, had spoken, General Sherburne announced the establishment of the Franco-American Belleau Memorial Society.

The new church is a faithful reproduction of the beautiful parish church destroyed by the pounding of enemy and friendly artillery during the war. Funds for its construction were raised entirely by the Twenty-Sixth Division. The members of the Division Association, each contributing the equivalent of one day's salary.

U. S. TO PARTICIPATE IN NAVAL CUT PARLEY

MacDONALD TO SPEND THREE DAYS IN N. Y.

To Arrive in City Tonight; Dinner Guest at Noon To- morrow Then to Speak Tomorrow Night.

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A three-day program of official and private engagements, including a luncheon which is expected to be the largest in attendance ever given in this city, will greet Premier Ramsay MacDonald upon his arrival from Washington this evening.

The British prime minister and his party will remain in New York until Monday when they will leave for Canada, visiting Niagara Falls as guests of the New York State Reservation Commission and crossing the international peace bridge at Buffalo on Tuesday.

To Rest On Arrival

After his arduous activities at Washington, Mr. MacDonald will be given an opportunity to rest at his hotel upon his arrival here. The only event on his program tonight is a visit to the home of Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Tomorrow at 1 o'clock he will be guest of the English-Speaking Union of the United States at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor. Arrangements have been made for 5,000 guests, necessitating use of both ball rooms of the hotel. Later in the afternoon he will attend a tea and reception by the Foreign Policy Association at the Hotel Commodore.

To Make Address

In the evening he will speak at a dinner of the Council on Foreign Relations, Inc., at the Ritz Carlton. Ellihu Root, honorary president of the council, will preside and the prime minister's speech will be broadcast in this country and rebroadcast to the British Isles Saturday and Sunday will be free of official engagements.

An equally crowded program has been arranged for Ramsay MacDonald, which in addition to dinners and theater parties will include visits to day nurseries, settlement houses and children's courts in which she is particularly interested. She also will be given an opportunity to witness the Fordham-New York University football game at the Polo Grounds on Saturday.

FIFTEEN YEARS FOR WAGGONER; PLEADS GUILTY

Banker Who Got Half Mil- lion Through Forged Pa- pers is Sentenced—Plea Comes as Surprise.

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Charles Delos Waggoner, Telluride, Colo., bank president, was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment today on his plea of guilty to mail fraud in connection with a scheme to obtain $500,000 from six New York banks by means of forged authorization papers.

Witnesses had been assembled from as far away as the west coast for Waggoner's trial, but when the case was called today defense counsel entered a plea of guilty.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle then moved for immediate imposition of sentence and the banker was sentenced to the 15 year term in Atlanta penitentiary.

Witnesses Dismissed

Several of the two score witnesses assembled, including members of Waggoner's family and some of his bank employees, who are now free to return home, have been here since early last month, having been summoned to appear before the Grand Jury which investigated Waggoner's manipulations and returned the indictment against him.

These witnesses were used by District Attorney Tuttle in obtaining an early trial date for the indicted banker. He pleaded that they were undergoing hardships by remaining here with only $5 a day allowed for expenses by the government, and that several would be in danger of losing their jobs.

Reason for Sentence

In asking for a severe sentence the prosecutor accused Waggoner of embezzlement from his own bank in connection with his handling of a large estate. He said this embezzlement provided the motive for the more recent crime against the New York banks, committed in desperation "when the day of reckoning was at hand."

CUBS STILL THINK THEY'LL BEAT A'S

But Connie's Crew Seeks Four Straight; Quinn May Face Root Tomorrow.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Tingling with pride, Philadelphia stirred today in the brisk sunshine of perfect football weather, shook out overcoat and mittens, made final desperate demands for tickets and settled back complacently to wait the second stage of the world series of 1929 tomorrow.

As the triumphant Athletics of Connie Mack rushed home from Chicago with two straight victories over the Cubs to present home town fandom, the jubilation of the warriors themselves leaped on ahead to the staid old Quaker City. Everywhere—in the crowds on Spacious Broad street, the lobbies of hotels, already jammed business houses and knots of plain rooters on the street corners—ran the same happy confidence in the American League champions.

With their backs literally lined up to the walls of Shibe Park, the grim, but determined Chicago Cubs came into town at 12:22 p. m. with a small amiable crowd to greet them at the station. There was little geyety among Manager Joe McCarthy's warriors and the tenseness of the situation showed in their taciturnity and bearing.

Cubs Have Hope

The third game of the series opens at Shibe Park tomorrow with the fourth game Saturday and the fifth, if necessary, on Monday.

The Cubs said there would be a fifth, sixth and even a seventh game, despite the smashing triumphs of the A's in the first two clashes in the Midwest.

Although the Cubs had planned to work out this afternoon on the battlefield of the Athletics, Manager McCarthy ordered the team direct to their hotel. Nothing more than lunch and rest was prescribed for the afternoon.

McCarthy himself strode about with a mystic air among the National League champions, the sort

FIND LOST GIRL ALIVE IN WOODS

Terryville Child None Worse for Experience; Was Out- doors All Night.

Terryville, Tenn., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Wrapped in a sweater and coat with which she had hoped to warm herself and lying in dense underbrush on Fall Mountain, one mile from her home, two year old June Madigan was found today.

She had been missing since early yesterday morning. A search was begun when one of her rubbers was found near a pond and her little dog returned home, foot sore as if from a long trip. The finding of the child's hat by Patrolman Robe of Terryville, and Boy Scouts, led to the discovery of the child's whereabouts. Patrolman W. W. Thompson of Bristol and Boy Scouts found her.

The child's feet were cold, but otherwise she was none the worse for her experience. She was taken home and put to bed and given treatment by a Terryville physician.

IS NO SURPRISE TO WASHINGTON

Although Formally Announced Today Diplomats Regard- ed It as a Foregone Conclusion Since Premier's Con- versations With President; MacDonald Leaves Wash- ington for Philadelphia Where He is Given an Enthusi- astic Reception.

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Coinciding with the departure of Prime Minister MacDonald from the capitol, the American government today formally accepted the invitation of Great Britain to participate in a five power naval limitations conference. Secretary Stimson made the announcement shortly after returning from the station where he said goodbye to the British premier.

Acceptance on the part of the United States has been regarded as a foregone conclusion since con-versations between London and Washington have been in progress on the question for some time.

Mr. MacDonald's visit was an outgrowth of these discussions and during his stay here he went over the situation in detail with President Hoover. Both regard further naval limitations as a step toward world peace.

Note Just Completed

The note accepting the invitation, received last week, was drafted by State Department officials while the President and Prime Minister were engaged in their conversations.

Mr. Stimson said President Hoover had assured the premier the United States would accept.

The acceptance communication has been forwarded to London for delivery to Foreign Minister Henderson by the American Charge D'Affaires, Ray A. Therton. The note is brief. Its publication is being withheld until tomorrow, in order that it first could be delivered to the British government.

Besides Great Britain and the United States, the other powers invited to participate in the conference are Japan, France and Italy. The parley will be held in London in January.

Stimson May Go

While there has been no announcement regarding the personnel of the American delegation to the gathering indications so far have pointed to Secretary Stimson being selected to head the group. Ambassador Dawes to London and Ambassador Gibson to Belgium, are available and have been mentioned as possible delegates in unofficial circles. In naval circles it is considered a foregone conclusion that Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, who has had long experience in naval negotiations and conferences, will be included in the commission. There has also been a suggestion that two members of Congress, one a Democrat, will be included in the party. It is customary to include on such a commission a member of the minority party. Besides the delegates a large staff of advisers and naval technical assistants must be selected.

It has been pointed out that Secretary Stimson in going to the conference could return the MacDonald visit.

ARRIVES AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—(AP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, came to Philadelphia today in his private capacity to meet old friends and greet the thousands who spread to him when he was in here for three weeks two years ago.

Mr. MacDonald on his way from Washington to New York with his daughter, Isabel, and other members of his party, arrived at 11:55 a. m. and were met by a reception committee.

Was Ill In 1927

Mr. MacDonald, who was very ill in 1927, sometime ago arranged to give a luncheon here to the physicians and nurses who cared for him in Jefferson hospital, and those who entertained his daughter while he was ill. So instead of being the honored guest today, he was the host at the private luncheon for about forty persons at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel.

A reception to representatives of many cultural, civic and other organizations was planned after the luncheon, when he was to continue his journey to New York.

In addition to the reception committee a delegation of 36 British war veterans living in Philadelphia, formed two lines through which the British statesman walked. As he proceeded he shook hands with every man down one line and then retraced his steps to do similar honor to the other line.

While thus engaged, Miss Isabel MacDonald was presented with a bouquet of roses by a British war nurse.

About 500 persons were at the Baltimore and Ohio station to greet the premier. As he was about to enter an automobile the crowd broke through the police line and surrounded the distinguished visitor. Mr. MacDonald was very gracious and smilingly shook hands with all in reach. He was then driven to the hotel.

After the reception the prime minister was to board his special train again for New York, leaving here at 3 p. m. and arriving at Jersey City at 4:30 p. m. He had no engagements for tonight and Saturday and Sunday had been left for his private engagements.

Upon the arrival of the train at Philadelphia, Miss Isabel MacDonald directed that the half dozen large baskets of flowers which were sent to her at the station, be taken to the Jefferson hospital for the patients there.

The prime minister accepted from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad a duplicate set of blue china to that used by him on his special train. It will be sent to him at 10 Downing street, London. The plates are of Staffordshire design and are decorated with scenes from along the route of the railroad following the Potomac river.

PREDICT DEFEAT OF TARIFF CHANGE

Amendment Would Bring Philippine Independence Into the Discussion.

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—An assault on the Broussard Philippine independence amendment to the tariff bill was begun in the Senate today at the outset of debate and progressed with such momentum as to indicate a defeat such that dealt the King proposal.

The amendment would request the President to request other governments to send representatives to a conference to consider an agreement to "respect the independence and territorial integrity of the Philippines."

Opening the opposition Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, said the proposal on its face was "ridiculous." He would not vote for it, he said, because in the first place it had "no business" in the tariff bill.

Barkley said he had voted yesterday for the rejected amendment of Senator King, Democrat, Utah, which would have granted independence after a constitutional convention had set up a form of government in the islands, adding he favored independence, but doubted the propriety of such a question being injected into the tariff debate.

Queer Performance

"It seems to be a rather queer performance," he said, "when we are considering a tariff bill to have the Philippine independence matter suddenly become a paramount question and we are asked to act on a resolution calling for a conference to consider an agreement to respect an independence which we have not yet granted."

McDONALD'S WORK HITS TORY HOPES

He Seems to Be Accomplishing Things They Somehow Failed to Do.

Milton Bronner, European manager for NEA Service and The Herald, is in this country to assist in covering the Hoover-MacDonald naval disarmament conference. The following story by him presents a background of the visit of England's prime minister.

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Oct. 10.—"We were in swimming and the wicked Labor people stole our clothes."

In this plaintive manner — although not exactly in those words — Stanley Baldwin, former Tory prime minister of England, comments on the foreign policy of Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government brought to a climax in MacDonal's recent departure for America.

Some Missed Chances
Mr. Baldwin, surveying the situation, discovers gloomily that the Labor government has already done two extremely important things which the Tories were always expected to do but which, somehow, they never quite got around to.

1.—The winning by England of a better break on the percentages it was to receive out of the German reparations payments.

2.—The acceptance by the other allies of England's policy of immediate evacuation of the Rhineland.

In addition, there is in prospect Mr. MacDonald's agreement with America on naval policy, with the likelihood that it will wipe out all the chief points of friction between the two great Anglo-Saxon countries.

As a patriotic Briton, Mr. Baldwin, of course, is delighted by these developments. Nevertheless, he cannot help contemplating them sadly, with all the emotions that come to the breast of one who has just struck out when he thought he had cleared the bases by smiting a home run.

Mr. Baldwin's gloom is not hard to understand.

His party was in power for five years. It had absolute power; the most absolute of any English government in many years. It held the House of Lords, of course, overwhelmingly, and its grip on the House of Commons was at all times strong enough to enable Mr. Baldwin to put over any policy he wished.

Yet, in matters of foreign policy, Mr. Baldwin's government did nothing. Even the Tory papers complained that it followed a "stagnant Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, seemed to be a mere tail to the kite of Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister at the time.

When anybody had to yield on financial matters, it was England which yielded.

The continued occupation of the Rhineland by allied troops was a sore spot with the Germans, but Chamberlain did nothing to bring about its cessation.

The naval conference held at Geneva under the impulsion of President Coolidge, which failed, owing to the die-hard stand of Secretary of the Admiralty Bridgeman, led to bad feeling in both America and England, followed by much alluring and recrimination.

In the few short months that the Socialists have been in power they have straightened out all this mess.

At the Hague conference recently Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the exchequer, forced France to yield to him, got more money for the hard-pressed British taxpayers, and showed the French that they no longer had to deal with a "yes" man.

At the same conference Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, imposed his will as to evacuation of the Rhineland.

These two Socialist victories in Continental politics have been popular. Hence Baldwin comes home with an agreement with President Hoover, he will be the most popular prime minister of our time.

How keenly the British are interested is shown in the Godspeed telegram sent to him by his sovereign.

The king is above politics. He is truly constitutional king and does not play politics. But he does not consider MacDonald's mission as a political one. He looks upon it as something for the well-being of England, America and the peace of the world.

Unless the American people understand that, they will miss the whole point of the school, though MacDonal be King George values him and esteems him and hopes for his success.

The King Hates War
The king is a pacifist, too. He saw the war at close range. He spent many arduous days, visiting his troops on the field. He saw the dead and the dying and the horribly hurt. He has felt very keenly the dreadful wounds the war inflicted upon the British as a people — upon their homes, their industries, their pocketbooks.

As much as MacDonal himself, he feels that the capstone of England's foreign policy will be to bring about, if possible, an eternal friendship with America, by way of formal treaty or entente, but simply by means of a sound understanding on all vital points, so that the British empire and the young giant of the west may be as neighbors as the United States and Canada have been for over 100 years.

Today is the ANNIVERSARY

TWO-CENT POSTAGE

Climaxing a century of postal progress, the rates on letters was reduced to 2 cents in the United States on Oct. 3, 1893.

The first federal law on postage in the United States was passed in 1792 and set the rate at 6, 8, 10, 15, 17, 20, 22 and 25 cents for distances of 30, 60, 100, 150, 200, 250, 350 or 400 miles, respectively, for single letter as a single sheet or piece of paper.

The earliest letters consisted of single sheets of paper folded and addressed upon the sheet. An envelope would have subjected them to double postage.

Postal stamps were first issued at New York in 1847; stamped envelopes were first issued in 1853; letters were first registered in 1855; free city delivery was established in 1863, and money orders were first issued in 1864.

Two years after the 2-cent letter postage went into effect, the post-office department inaugurated the special delivery system, and the rural delivery first began in 1866.

The Library has received copies of the State Register and Manual for 1929, the Public Acts of the State in its January and August sessions for the year, the annual report of the Connecticut State Historical Society, and the State Geological and Natural History Survey. A copy of a pamphlet containing the historical address delivered at the 200th anniversary of the First Church of Christ, Colchester, in 1903 by Edward M. Day of Hartford, has also been presented to the library by Miss Elizabeth Day, of Colchester.

This contains much valuable history both of Colchester and to some extent of the surrounding towns.

How the Motor Car is Run

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Out of the gallon or two of lubricating oil we put into the crankcase of our motor, there is not much more than a thimbleful that is really working at one time. This thimbleful consists of the thin film that lines the cylinder walls, keeping the pistons sailing smoothly up and down, and that prevents the journals from wearing against the bearings.

Yet this tiny amount must be viscous enough to remain intact during the lubricating process, but must not be so heavy or thick as to cause a drag upon the moving parts.

Oil is one of the most important adjuncts to the efficient operation of our automobiles, yet how many of us know what kind or grade of oil is best for each of our cars?

It takes a highly efficient oil to be able to withstand the high explosion temperature in the cylinders of our motors. This temperature rises to about 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit, enough to melt platinum, and only a good viscous oil can keep from breaking its film and cause scoring of cylinders and leakage of gases under this continuous battery.

Prof. A. M. Low, the great English physicist, tells us that oil must be very stiff when cold, in order to enable the moving parts of the engine to operate without hindrance; neither should it be watery when hot. It must not readily combine with the gasoline that happens to leak past the piston rings, nor must it form a watery sludge with any of the condensed steam from the burnt gases that leak into the crankcase.

"Even the best polished cylinders are composed of a number of small bumps and dents which when viewed through the microscope," he says, "and these must be filled up and 'excused' by the oil."

That points to the necessity of having good oil at all times in the crankcase. Every manufacturer knows exactly what kind and grade of oil is best for his motor. His advice, included in the instruction book, should be followed religiously if we want to keep the engine running properly.

Even the same type of motor may require a different oil for its lubrication than that recommended for it by the manufacturer, due to its age or other conditions. The dealer or service man who has worked on it can tell what this should be, and his advice should be respected.

The choice of oil for the motor should not be left to the man who merely supplies fuel and oil.

The advice of the service man or dealer on the subject of oil should be sought at least twice annually, once before the warm spell and once about this time of the year. The automobile, especially if it has been run much, may require a heavier grade of oil during the summer than in winter.

Usually a lighter grade of oil is needed for winter because cold tends to stiffen it. Stiff oil means that the piston scrape along the sides of the cylinders during the first explosions of the motor, without benefit of the necessary film to afford smooth operation and also means hard starting, sometimes so hard that it is difficult for the electric starter to turn over the motor.

Too light an oil, on the other hand, even in cold weather, means liability of broken films of lubricant along the cylinder walls when the motor has heated up and when this film is needed most for lubrication. The importance therefore is obvious of knowing exactly what grade of oil is best for your own motor at every season of the year.

A. L. BROWN'S SALE
UNUSUAL SUCCESS

A. L. Brown and Company of Depot Square one of the oldest established houses in Manchester is doing a tremendous business since the start of his sale on Wednesday morning. The tremendous volume of business resulting from the unusually low values offered during this sale has already exceeded Mr. Brown's expectations. The success can be largely attributed to the merchandising sales methods of the Irving L. Kaufman Sales System and the effectiveness of the advertisement in the columns of The Herald.

All merchandise offered in this sale is direct from regular stock of known brands and of proved quality. The sale will be continued for several days so that customers will not be disappointed in not having the opportunity to avail themselves of these outstanding values.

W. T. GRANT COMPANY EXTENDS CELEBRATION

The W. T. Grant Company has this year extended its Anniversary Celebration to cover the entire month of October, instead of one week as heretofore. The items of unusual interest will be distributed over the four weeks instead of being concentrated, so that there will be continuous anniversary activity.

It is not always possible for people to take advantage of offerings which are confined to one day or one week, officials of the Grant Company state, and the extension of the Anniversary to the full month means ample opportunity for all to share in the event.

The Anniversary Celebration this year marks the 23rd year of the W. T. Grant Company. Mr. Grant first put his ideas of economy and thrift into actual practice and began the savings with his customers in the fall of 1906. Headings of the W. T. Grant Anniversary Advertising this year are portraying some of the styles which were "the last word" in 1906.

During Anniversary month this year the W. T. Grant Company will open its 27th store, one of the six being opened in October. These new stores are located at Pittsburg, Kansas; Milford, Delaware; Fredericksburg, Va.; Jamaica, L. I.; Detroit, Mich.; Waynesboro, Pa.; while existing stores in Stamford, Conn.; Evansville, Ind.; and Atlanta, Ga. are being remodeled and modernized.

SCHOOLS STUDYING FIRE PREVENTION

Give Especial Attention This Week to Hazard—Write Essays for Prizes.

Schools of Manchester, in keeping with National Fire Prevention week observances, are putting in a whole week of intensive study on the problems of fire prevention as pertaining to the local conditions. To make the subject all the more appealing, local fire insurance underwriters have agreed to contribute towards a fund to be awarded in prizes for the best essays on the subject.

Notices sent to the schools on Monday read as follows:

"This is Fire Prevention week. The anniversary of the outbreak of Chicago's historic fire on Oct. 9th was designated by Chicago and the State of Illinois for observance with special thought and discussion about prevention of fire waste. Since then, almost every state has observed a day or a week for discussion of fire prevention. The statistical truth is that 80 per cent of fires are preventable.

"Representatives of nationally known insurance companies of Manchester have offered four prizes for the best essays of 200 words on 'Fire Prevention.' First prize—$10, second prize—$5, third prize—$3, fourth prize—$2. All essays for the competition shall be written under the supervision of the English teachers during the respective Eng-

Hair Rats Are Gone!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Modern woman, freed of the restraint of long tresses, realizes the comfort and sanitation of the bobbed head. The shears in the hands of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE have severed the bonds of another archaic dogma.

"toasting did it"

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTES
"IT'S TOASTED"

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

SPECIAL ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVE: Hamilton - DeLesseur, Inc., 285 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

THURSDAY, OCT. 10, 1929

There was a good deal more to that produce truck drivers strike in New York than appeared on the surface.

It appears that the strike, after all, was not directed by the drivers at the truck owners or even at the marketmen but at the system of automotive delivery of farm and orchard produce that has grown up in recent years.

Formerly all but a comparatively insignificant part of the fruits and vegetables consumed in the New York area came to the metropolis by railroad or by steamer.

Now hundreds of trucks, some of them traveling hundreds of miles, carry produce direct from the point of origin to the doors of the commission merchants in the big market districts of the great city.

It was at this system that the strike of the truck drivers was aimed. The truck owners and the produce dealers seem to have been almost if not quite as enthusiastic for the strike as the drivers themselves.

This creates a monopoly and, of course, entails a vast amount of utterly wasted labor which the produce itself must pay for.

Perhaps somebody in Congress will have nerve enough to take notice of this proceeding. If there has not been a conspiracy in restraint of trade, and if the Fruit and Produce Trade Association, the Market Truckmen's Association and the union of the truck drivers have not merged their efforts to rob the people of New York City and vicinity of all the advantages of modern transportation methods, then appearances are extremely deceitful.

Granting the propriety of criticism of Senator Bingham and Charles E. Eyanson, assistant to the president of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, over the presence of the latter in the capacity of a secretary to the Senator at tariff committee meetings, the opposition would appear to be going to rather ridiculous lengths in trying to make out that Eyanson violated the criminal law against accepting "two salaries," one of them federal.

perfectly legal and perfectly proper in motive. In other words, the propriety of the employment of Mr. Eyanson as the Senator's tariff expert, and of having him sit in committee sessions, might be the subject of honest dissent and possibly open to considerable discussion, though we have not been able, ourselves, to see the impropriety of it.

As for charging anything like a criminal act in the temporary employment of Mr. Eyanson in this federal capacity while he was still under salary to the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, that is a wholly different matter and could hardly result from anything but partisan or factional motives.

The purpose of this is obvious. It is to prevent the manner of discharge of the duties of public officials from being affected by outside monetary influences.

Mr. Eyanson was not receiving, from the Manufacturers Association, any salary in connection with his temporary services as expert tariff advisor to Senator Bingham.

As a matter of fact Senator Caraway, in his usual florid style, pretends to be vastly "shocked" and is talking about violation of criminal statutes, when we seriously doubt that he is shocked the least little mite and when he very well knows that there has been no more violation of the criminal law than he himself is guilty of when he approves of a fee to a chaplain who also has a regular church.

Recently former Governor Al Smith made a suggestion that has received a rather surprising amount of attention. It was that the candidate for the Presidency who receives the second largest number of electoral votes—which in the present two-party situation means the defeated minor party nominee—should automatically become a member of the United States Senate for the period of the successful candidate's term.

This, of course, couldn't be done without a Constitutional amendment. Indeed it would require some ingenuity to do it by means of one, since we should then have to amend that sacred instrument in such a way as to legally alter in detail a principal activity which at present is carried on, if not quite unconstitutionally, with mighty small regard to the original intent of the Constitution; the election machinery of this day and date would never be recognized by the framers of the document as any of their handiwork.

Besides, what importantly useful purpose could possibly be served by such a step, taken alone? The senator-at-large, the Presidential lame-duck senator, or whatever you might call him, would be a mere freak.

If there were on foot some plan to enrich the quality of senatorial ability or to broaden senatorial outlook by making members of the cabinet also senators, then perhaps there might be some sense in including the champion of the opposition along with them.

Under the Smith proposal, however, it would seem as though the most important effect would be to automatically put the minority leadership into the hands of a person whose principal ambition might very well be to get another Presidential nomination and try it again.

We have too high a regard for the ability of Governor Smith to call this proposition silly, but if it were made by just anybody, instead of somebody very particular, we should so describe it, quickly enough.

a bootlegger. Next Senator Sheppard of Texas, one of those Constitutionalists who respect the Eighteenth but not the Fifteenth amendment, proposed to amend the Volstead act so as to make the purchase of liquor punishable. Now the New York Herald Tribune, being possessed of that implish thing a memory, digs up the circumstance that when Senator Hardwick of Georgia, at the time when the Eighteenth amendment was before the Senate, proposed to make it prohibit the purchase as well as the manufacture and sale of liquor, Senator Sheppard was one of those who violently opposed such a step.

"The provision as already framed," he declared, "would destroy completely the traffic of intoxicating liquors."

The next amendment Senator Sheppard supports would better be one prohibiting newspapers from having memories.

Of course Fall was ill on the opening day of his trial. It's the best thing he does—get ill when he's due to be tried. They are already talking about its being "very doubtful" whether he can stand the ordeal of a long trial.

In which connection it is worthy of note that the opening address of Owen J. Roberts, for the government, occupied fifteen minutes, while that of the defense consumed three hours. If the defense lawyers can only string this trial out long enough, Albert can be depended on to provide the requisite degree of physical misery to keep him in a hospital, at Three-Rivers Ranch or somewhere, anywhere, except in the court room. They made a good start.

New York Oct. 10.—In a long list of Broadway oddities, something approximating the last word is achieved by one Jack Lee, who, as Jack Lee, to all intents and purposes, is an actor. As an actor he is asked to be a corpse for three fairly long acts. And as a corpse he is further asked to sit rigid and unmoving in a seat. He never gets to utter a line, for the opus in which he appears in a mystery play and he passes from life in the first few minutes after the curtain's rise. The presumption is that he has been electrocuted while riding in a subway train.

Thereafter he becomes the center of attention, both to players and audience. He is poked by detectives and examined by doctors; he is lifted by policemen and sat down again—all the while he must appear as though frozen stiff by the electric shock.

How he does it, no one on Broadway has yet discovered. When, finally, he is discovered off stage a few seconds before the curtain falls on the solution, he is slightly rewarded with applause such as is received by no actor who has remained alive and moving.

It is, perhaps, the first time in drama annals that a corpse has "hogged the show," gathering to himself applause which amounts to a curtain call.

Speaking of difficult jobs in Manhattan, it seems to me that Miss Evelyn Wagner should occupy a spot somewhere near the head of the list. As social secretary to Mayor Jimmy Walker, it's Miss Wagner's job to try to keep Jimmy on time for his various public engagements.

As most of the world knows, a few minutes before the start of the world's record for the number of times late at social functions. In fact, there is no record that he ever was on time.

And, of course, Miss Wagner, from her striven chair, is presumed to keep track of the wisecracking, dapper little official and guide him on his many ways.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington — President Hoover and Senator R. Beecher Howell of Nebraska have received so much publicity over their arguments as to the relative wisdom of Washington because of their official positions and the general interest in the prohibition question.

With all due respect to both, it may be suggested that neither he is talking about. Both are commonly known to be personally dry. No one ever offers either of them a drink, just as no one selects a mustache cup for the baby's Christmas gift or invites a vegetarian family to a beefsteak dinner.

Bootleggers do not invade their offices to acquaint them with price levels, protection costs and other market conditions. At social gatherings they do not engage in or listen to extensive conversations about such subjects. As far as anyone knows, neither has ever donned false whiskers and gone into the town at night like Haroun al Raschid to investigate conditions for himself.

They See the Drys. It seems only fair to point out that the best judges of the wetness of a city are those who come in contact with it. President Hoover and Senator Howell only come into contact with the dryness of Washington. At least a hundred thousand persons in Washington must know more about the situation than either.

The truth about Washington, according to persons who have traveled about and who have given some attention to such matters, is that the capital is wetter than some communities and not as wet as others. The town supports a minimum of speakeasies. Hardly any of those are attractive to the drinker who prefers pleasant surroundings. Not more than a few wine or liquor in their dining rooms. Sooner or later most speakeasies are raided. Their average life appears to be a matter of months.

The greater part of the liquor traffic in the District of Columbia is carried on by bootleggers who make home or office deliveries. Almost any kind of alcoholic stimulant is thus obtainable at a price. No resident of Washington of No resident of Washington of course, ever has any trouble buying booze if he wants it. The stranger who has some slight difficulty if he starts hunting for a bottle on his own, but he usually gets a telephone number from an acquaintance or speaks to a bellboy or taxi driver.

Orders are hearily always given by telephone, although high-class bootleggers from Baltimore occasionally make their rounds to take them in person. Not infrequently, however, bootleggers invade offices looking for customers, after obtaining on the inside surface of each of the two outside lobes of the thyroid.

The removal of the parathyroid glands leads to a profound disturbance of metabolism, acute muscular weakness, with painful cramps of the muscles of the arms and legs, and sometimes the jaws, larynx, face and abdomen. This may occur without a loss of consciousness, but eventually leads to stupor and death.

Many doctors now believe that the disease, tetany, is due to a lack of the secretion of the parathyroid glands. The lack of their hormone makes the body unable to retain calcium and probably produces some active poison as the result of deranged metabolism. When tetany continues over any length of time the hair may fall out; it is usually the hair short, the nails become fragile and transversely rigid, and the teeth show peculiar horizontal grooves because of defective enamel formation.

The derangement of the parathyroid glands, themselves, seems to be caused by especially virulent toxins as may occur from gastro-intestinal disturbances, acute infections and operations on the thyroid, and a number of diseases of the nervous system.

When parathyroid disturbances are not caused by actual injury or disease of the parathyroid, they can usually be overcome by a thoroughly alkaline-forming diet, following a short fasting regime. The foods rich in calcium seem to be of special benefits.

Hill of St. Paul, offered his resignation today as chairman of the board of the Great Northern Railway. Mr. Hill plans to devote most of his time hereafter to personal interests and those of his family.

"After 36 years of work for the Great Northern, I feel that I deserve a rest from the responsibilities involved," said Hill. "My family spends considerable time each year aboard, and I wish to be free to be with them. Circumstances have always prevented by leaving before. My father advised me to retire from active participation in railway affairs when I reached the age of 40. That time came and passed 16 years ago. But now the way is opened to me to do what I have desired."

SERVICE for the MOTORIST

United States Is Paradise to British Motorist

London, Oct. 10.—Motorists in the United States can stop their squawking about traffic congestion, numerous traffic laws and taxation. For, according to an English observer writing for the Automobile magazine, "America is a veritable motorist's paradise."

"The American motorist in general does not need a policeman," the writer says. "The electric traffic signals are obeyed regorously. All wait until the red fades into a yellow before letting in their clutches, well knowing that the green 'go' will follow in a second."

"It is curious to pass a sign reading 'Speed limit 35 miles an hour,' when we here are still liable to prosecution if we do more than 20," he goes on. "But in America the touring speed is around 55 miles an hour and a stream of cars doing 45 for mile after mile is no unusual sight."

"New York is supposed to possess the most congested traffic in the world; but hold-ups are nothing like so long in durations as in many parts of London. Traffic sense is more general, and there is a give pass and re-pass by the thousand and accidents are unheard of. Car drivers do their own policing, and do it courteously.

"It may be argued that left-hand drive makes for great safety on the road, but a factor in rural America is the almost entire absence of the hedges which so often obscure the view in this country. The result is an open countryside with roads stretching into the distance, unspotted by blind corners; and the wind is able quickly to dry the road surfaces after rain."

and take about the road user that helps in no small measure. Cutting in is not practiced to anything like the degree seen here.

"In four-way traffic there is no policeman on point duty. But cars

OPERATING hundreds of trucks ourselves, we know what a big part tire costs play in operating expense. And what it adds to net profits for any truck owner when he can save up to $60 per truck, at the very start, by equipping with Extra-Heavy-Service RIVERSIDES. Besides, he knows that each tire is guaranteed to deliver normal road-service of 14,000 miles. The big reason these RIVERSIDES for trucks permit such a generous guarantee is that they're specially designed to resist heat—with cable-wound, long staple cords and extra amounts of rubber between the plies. Heavy side-ribs also enable them to resist rut-wear, and reinforced beads give greater strength.

Tire expense cut $10 to $60 at the start; tire upkeep reduced to a minimum; normal road service guaranteed for 14,000 miles—all these protect profits for you, the moment you equip your trucks with Extra-Heavy-Service RIVERSIDES.

RIVERSIDE Puncture-Proof Inner Tubes

RIVERSIDE heat-resisting Inner Tubes, specially treated with RIVERSIDE Puncture-Sealing Compound. Keeps your truck in steady operation; no expensive lay-ups for puncture repairs. You ride on standard air-pressure; resiliency is not affected; and the tube is guaranteed for 3 full years against punctures—by anything from a tack to a 3-inch nail. Yet—prices are actually less than you would pay for some ordinary inner tubes that are not puncture-proof.

Innocent Cheat

HELEN PAGE FELLED HOPEFULLY with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT. After meeting flying her, CHARLES W. L. Brent changes his plans for Helen's future. Soon after he tells her that she is the only grandchild of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, Brent takes her to Cunningham and offers proofs which the lonely old man accepts, as he had been searching for the child.

Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother ROBERT, who falls in love with her. Brent finds another lock for Helen to go to. He tells her to go to prove Helen's worth. He also becomes jealous of Bob and plots to win Helen quickly. Hearing the doctor say that a sudden shock would kill the old man, Brent gets the servants out of the way and rushes into the room shouting wildly that Helen has been killed. His plan works and Cunningham is found dead. Then, acting as sympathizer and appealing to her loyalty, Brent secures Helen's promise to marry him.

A chance meeting between Helen and Bob reveals her love for each other, but she tells him she is promised to another. Helen goes to ask Brent to release her and finds CARMEL SEGREO in his apartment. Carmel throws herself in Brent's arms before he sees Helen. This makes it easier for her to demand that their engagement be broken, but Brent refuses to release her, saying that he had given up marriage earlier and devoted his life to her so that now she has no right to reject him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXII
Helen stared at Brent like a helpless creature caught in a net. Her face drained white while he held her gaze with his own, seeming to force his will upon her.

Then something very strange happened to her. A warm flood purely mental but with actual physical sensation, rushed to her heart, and filled it with courage. She thought of Bob—of his kisses—of the blissful joy of lying in his arms, of the divinely happy edge that she belonged there—that he would shelter her, love her, protect her always.

Brent's face became satanic. Helen shuddered with a slight tremor. Had she ever really thought him attractive?

Suddenly she hated him. What had he done? He had led a young girl remain madly infatuated with him when with a word he could have ended it. Why? Because he wanted to live his life for her? She could not believe it.

A smile of disillusion caught at her lips and contorted their lovely lines into an unfamiliar shape. It worried Brent a trifle. He had seen that expression on other feminine lips. And always it had presaged the beginning of an end.

Words would follow—he knew that too—and waited. They came sooner than he expected. He had lighted one of his fat Turkish cigarettes. From behind the smoke screen he saw the girl seated across the table from him with the coldly calculating eyes of a fox.

She leaned over and opened her denunciation rather softly. "I hate you," she said intensely. "I hate you because you have fastened it upon a young tree and it is gradually strangling it. You thought you could do that with me. Rob me of my life—train me to grow up stunted and dwarfed."

"You're wrong," Brent broke in sharply. "I wanted you to be a real girl—not an empty-headed flapper."

"You wanted me to be a characterless rag," Helen retorted. "One who would overlook your weakness and come to heel at your whistle. Can't you see what you say when you tell me that you sacrificed yourself for me? Was it fair? Did I have anything to say about it? Did I promise you a reward? You have no right to do anything for which you mean to make someone else pay a price unless you make your bargain first. Everyone has a right to grow up free—and not be saddled with a debt they had no voice in acquiring."

"You were quite willing to have me love you," Brent reminded her. "But you knew I was just a kid, Helen protested. 'You shouldn't have led me on as you did. Oh, I know you weren't always kind to me, but you fascinated me and I wasn't... it wasn't cricket. You must have realized that some day I would meet the right man—that I couldn't stay in love with you. It would have been so much better if you'd lived your life for yourself.'"

"Well," Brent agreed a bit laconically. "I didn't, and that's that. What are you going to do about it? Be a quitter just because you think you care for a young upstart? A bum too. Why, you poor foolish girl. Don't you know that any man in Ennis' position who aspires to marry a girl as wealthy as you are is open to the charge of being a fortune hunter?"

"No matter what you say, I love him," Helen declared. "How can you think of marrying me when I tell you that?"

"That's just another one of those things you wouldn't understand," was Brent's unsatisfactory answer.

"Well, Helen said, and her voice was vibrant with sincerity. "I am sure you can understand me when I say I will not marry you."

Brent contented himself with raising an eyebrow, knowing that she would go on.

"I was wrong to think of it after I knew that I loved Bob," she said hurriedly, "but I believe I owed you something. All that is changed now. You will be able to console yourself readily enough. And if I had not seen what I did and you had told me you meant to make me pay your price for the care you've given me I should feel just as I do now about marrying you. You've

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service Inc.

"When I read what you said about making a shy child go out and play with other children, I marched my Betty May right out and made her play with the children next door. But there was trouble right away. She started to cry and they made fun of her, and she ran home. I can't make her budge out of the house at all. What had I better do?"

I was afraid when I wrote that paragraph urging children to play in groups, and not entirely alone, that I'd get into hot water. Now I'm glad that my topic was so long, and I had no opportunity to explain or expand. My general subject that day was on secrecy and the mistake of allowing children to have too much of their own company. When I said that they should be taught to play in groups, I meant just that. But "taught" is different from "marching."

It isn't wise to "march" her into any crowd indeed, when even one stranger suddenly sprung on her may make her utterly confused, frightened and miserable.

No, if you have a Betty or a Bobby or other children, the safest thing to do in breaking the shell of their shyness, is to gradually get them accustomed to one new child at a time, and to see that each of these children is the right sort to make your own child happy.

This doesn't mean that they should give in to your child or spoil him. Not at all! That is a bad thing too. No—we'll leave all such children out of the picture.

By the right sort I mean children who are kind, who play fairly, and at the same time, who can stand up for their rights when necessary.

Comparing for a timid child, if of the forceful, assertive type, should be a little younger in order to balance the difference in temperament. Older children are often the best, at first, if they are sympathetic and kind. You can more easily get their cooperation if you are making a stand against that wall of shyness. But in general, children of approximately the same age are best.

Two important points. These two things, then, should be borne in mind. Getting your shy child to like other children one at a time; and as nearly as possible having these playmates suitable in disposition and acceptable to you regarding their own home training.

If your child has grown up with other children, he won't be shy, the chances are. But there are so many "only" children who have never had a playmate who have the companionship of others. Such children are very often afraid of other children.

Group experience in the parlance of the specialist is necessary to round out complete character, and I know it is true. We cannot develop as we should, alone. Our social emotions or those feelings generated by our contacts with others are the most important relations we have. In fact, there is not much worthwhile character at all without them.

BLOUSED JACKET
Practical and becoming for cold days is the bloused jacket suit that can be worn easily under the fur coat. One of these is made of brown man's suit fabric, with the coat snugly fitted to the hips and bloused all around above. A sleeveless cascade of an ink satin blouse accompanies it, with man's shirt collar and bow tie of same.

PINK GLOVES
New evening gloves are delicate and lovely. Pale pink suede is having quite a vogue. Pale yellow, green and even blue are seen too. All are eight or twelve button length, but should be worn wrinkled at the wrist.

HEALTH

SEE A PHYSICIAN IF YOUR FEET ARE INFECTED BY RINGWORM

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

During the recent years much has been said of the wide extension of the condition known as ringworm of the feet. The popularity of golf with the wide use of public shower baths, the extension of the gymnasium and of the swimming pool seem to be associated with the large incidence of this condition.

It is marked by the appearance on the feet of soft corns and swellings, blisters, itching and moisture between the toes. The specialist in diseases of the skin is able to take scrapings of the material and after examining it under the microscope and find the fungus or organism that is responsible.

Not infrequently, the organism is to be found, as pointed out by Drs. Williams and Barthel, along the sides of the toes or just under the toe nails, and even though the condition is cleared up between the toes, the persistence of the organism around the nails makes reinfection of the feet very easy.

In 40 cases of ringworm of the feet, the organism was recovered from the toe nails in every instance, and in many cases the abnormality of the toe nails was so slight that the patients disregarded it and did not even ask the examining physician about it. Furthermore, it was found that the infection around the toe nails persisted long after the skin disturbance had disappeared.

Hence, it is quite likely that this infection was responsible for reinfecting the skin of the patient and infecting the feet of other people as well.

In order to overcome this condition, physicians have recommended the wearing of paper slippers that can be discarded, particularly around gymnasiums and public pools. Various antiseptic powders are used to sterilize the shoes and the floor.

In the treatment of the condition, lotions and ointments are used which are so caustic that the patient should not attempt to treat himself. Once the condition is cured, it is extremely important to be sure that the patient is not reinfected. Stockings and underwear must be boiled to kill the organism.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

During the fall and winter months, sausages are popular for breakfast, luncheon or dinner. They are useful to give flavor to many interesting dishes and are a most attractive and appetizing garnish for roast chicken or turkey. Sausage may be baked in a hot oven instead of fried on top of the stove, but no matter how it is cooked it must be well done.

Sausage Rolls
Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lard, water, 4 parboiled small sausages, 1/2 cup butter and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in butter and roll in water to make soft dough. Put on a floured rolling board and roll sheet, about one-third inch thick. Cut into oblong pieces a little longer than the sausages and put a sausage in each. Fold edges together and place on an oiled and floured pan. Bake in a moderate oven until golden brown. Serve with apple or cranberry sauce.

Sausage and macaroni, rice and sausage, sausage in a casing of baking powder biscuit dough, are a few of the many ways sausage can be used to add variety to menus.

Meals should be carefully planned. Sausage is to be the meat. Vegetables for bulk as well as mineral salts and vitamin content must be provided. Fruit or a light pudding lacking in fat makes a suitable dessert.

Sausage rolls are a good hearty luncheon dish.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Council
The Manchester Girl Scout Council met Tuesday afternoon, October 8, with Mrs. Stephen Hale. The following members were present: Mrs. William Brownell, Mrs. Jessie Winterbottom, Mrs. Robert Hawley, Mrs. Russell Tryon, Mrs. Fred Norton, Mrs. Louis Grant, Miss Mary Cheney, Mrs. C. I. Balch, Mrs. Clarence Quimby, Mrs. Fredrick Snow and Mrs. Hale. An invitation was extended to the members of the Council and Girl Scout Officer's Association to attend the meeting of the Mothers Club, Friday evening, Oct. 11, at the South Methodist church. Mrs. Alice Schrotky will speak on various phases of scouting. After the business meeting Tuesday a social hour was enjoyed.

Officer's Association
The October meeting of the Scout Officer's Association was held on Wednesday evening, October 2, at the home of Mrs. Reinhartz with ten members present. A buffet supper preceded the business meeting. It was decided that the Officer's Association would pay the renter's fee for the use of the Hollister street school auditorium for the monthly rallies of the Scouts. Miss Welles explained the compass contest which she expects to use at the rally, Oct. 11. Troop 7 will have charge of the November rally. Mrs. Eastley spoke about merit badges, asking the captains to have orders and money for them in her at least two weeks before each rally. At the next meeting of the association which will be held at Mrs. Snow's, judging of height, weight and distance will be taken up.

Troop 5
Our last meeting opened with Scout Promise, Law, and Star Spangled Banner. Lieutenant Parker gave a short story illustrating one of the Scout Laws. In patrol corners we worked on the compass and clove hitch. After that we played games and sang songs. At Court of Honor we planned a Hare and Hind chase for Saturday, October 19. We decided not to work in special groups but to work by patrols. We have a full patrol and several girls waiting to join. The meeting next week is to be planned and carried out by the Scouts, Pearl Matten, scribe.

Troop 7
The regular meeting opened with a nature game which was won by Patrol 2. Four girls joined the troop and another patrol was formed. Mrs. Alice Schrotky will speak on various phases of scouting. After the business meeting Tuesday a social hour was enjoyed.

FITTED YOKES
Many of the softest and most feminine of the winter blouses have fitted yokes either front and back or just in the back. A shell pink satin one has a modernistic stepped-down yoke in the back, with the center step-down almost reaching the waistline.

OCTAGONAL HEEL

GAY WOOL FLOWERS
One of Patou's new winter models is a high-waisted, flaring skirted frock made of black wool printed with bunches of little colored flowers.

The mannequins that peacock around in the smartest shops are long and thin—don't let anyone tell you they aren't; in fact, they look thinner than ever in their long skirts, but college girls are heavier. Not only plumper, but stronger and healthier, according to Dr. Julianna Ashop, the staff physician of Barnard College, whose job, every fall when school opens, is to check up on the health conditions of the freshmen girls.

She comes out and attributes this greater health to the sun tan fad, which made girls go stockinged and backless this summer, and to take sun baths in the altogether whenever the necessary privacy from intrusion presented itself.

The girls who went in for tan in a big way accomplished two things—they achieved this rich Polynesian finish that is so irresistible, and they also raised their hemoglobin content. Hemoglobin, if you remember your physiology, is the compound forming a solid coloring matter in the red blood corpuscles. So they are in fine fettle, and they need not worry about anemia or make-up.

A Bill of Health
Dr. Oslop said: "The health reports show that the hemoglobin test of the blood is better this year than it has been for 10 years. Approximately one-half of the students who were examined registered a hemoglobin percentage of 90 per cent or over, which for women constitutes the normal. The remainder showed a hemoglobin count of only a few points below normal."

"The tanning of the body, whether accomplished by low-back and a short-sleeved dress worn without stockings, by bare back bathing suits, or regular sun baths, is one reason for the exceptionally high vitality and lack of anemia among our freshmen."

"Through the delicate skin, the blood in the capillaries absorbs the ultra-violet rays of the sun and carries them to the deeper circulation of the blood. These ultra-violet rays are then supposed to stimulate the blood forming organs."

"Certainly, there can be an excess

Nature's Remedies
Doctors and beauty experts agree that sunlight and sunshine are worth more than pills and poisons. For our outsiders and insides as well, the girl who resorted to cosmetics for her amber skin may have achieved a very charming effect—though a number of them that I saw did not—but they did not get the beneficial results from a point of view of health, of the girl who went out and put on a real coat of tan.

In complexion, as in many other respects, it pays to get the genuine article.

HIGH WAISTED
Unusual looking but tremendously smart, trendy is a grey-blue tweed suit with seven-eighths coat. The skirt has a fitted yoke, with a very deep, triple box pleat in front. The coat is raglan sleeved, collarless, cut with its waist portion fitting tight to the empire line. From there the skirt of the coat flares in circular cut. Only a tall woman could carry this suit.

OSTRICH TURBAN
Jane makes a little Parisian turban of shaded grey ostrich. Another of her hats, a black panne, uses a single long ostrich plume falling from the back and half-circling the wearer's neck, in good old Gainsborough picture manner.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels, or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get his Fletcher's; it always has Chas. H. A's Hope For Title In Four Straight Victories

Old Jack Quinn Seen As Mack's Next Choice

Jimmy Foxx Bids Fair to Be Hero of Series as He Bags Another Homer and Pairs of Singles.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—With most of the pre-series dope scrambled beyond repair, the Cubs and Athletics today moved from Chicago to Philadelphia to resume play tomorrow in the World Series.

The enthusiasm among the Athletics players as they returned to their homes and friends knew no bounds for they had done all they could at Chicago winning the only two games played. The Cubs on the other hand were a grim but determined ball club as they left home, not to return unless they can take two of the three games scheduled at Shibe Park.

The Cubs were forced to use four pitchers in the second game and every baseball indicator pointed to the re-nomination of Charlie Root as the Cubs' flinger to open the play in Philadelphia. Root who stopped eight-ninths of the Athletics in the first game but threw a home run ball to Jimmy Foxx, will have had three days rest when game arrives tomorrow.

Quinn May Pitch. Old Jack Quinn the veteran of veterans probably will get the call from Connie Mack although the tall tactician, as silent as he is tall, can summon any one of half a dozen pitchers to the mound. The ancient John Pies was all warmed up yesterday in spite of some of the coldest baseball weather on record. He can throw almost as slow as Ehmke and has a "spitter" too.

The chore of naming a world series hero is not in order yet, but when the final reckoning is made Jimmy Foxx probably will be considered the Maryland boy, for the second time in two days sent the Athletics out in front with a homer, the second being more productive than the first in that two of his homers ran home for Philadelphia home runs for the series to three with a circuit smash good for two runs, Cochrane being on base.

Pierce (Pat) Malone, strikeout king, of the National League, started as though he might break Ehmke's record. He sent three visitors back to the bench in the first inning, caught another napping in the second and added a fifth in the third. He left the zone in the fourth when the Mackmen increased their string of runs to six.

Four Pitchers. Sheriff Blake, Hal Carlson and Art Neff followed in order but it made no difference by this time who was pitching, although George Earnshaw was forced to seek cover when a bombardment of base hits was launched against him in the fifth. Grove left handed his way through the rest of the game with a crackling fast ball which the Cubs could nick for only three hits, no two coming in one inning. Neff had the satisfaction of pitching in his fifth World Series. He was a giant in the others.

The Athletics ponder in a different vein as they move homeward. Say they: "The Yanks won four straight from two National League clubs in two straight years. We beat the Yanks so why can't we do 'half of it in one year.'"

WRECK DELAYS A'S SPECIAL

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The special train bearing the Athletics' due at north Philadelphia at 1 p. m., might be held up for an hour or so at Johnstown as a result of the wreck which occurred near there last night and cost the lives of two engineers and one fireman, officials at Broad Street station said today. At 7:30 o'clock this morning the Mackmen's special was speeding through Pittsburgh and hasty efforts were being made to clear away the wreckage where the crash between the Pittsburgh-Washington express and a freight train occurred.

BULL DOG PLAYS DEFEAT GEORGIA

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Georgia reserves, using Yale's newly adopted double wing back offensive system, are running wild through the varsity at Athens where frantic preparations are being made to repulse the first southern invasion of the Eastern Bull Dog Saturday.

Well stocked with whole and half spins, double, triple and long passes, a combination of second stringers and freshmen have made plenty of grief for head Coach Harry Mehre by scoring four touchdowns against the badly befuddled regulars.

THE FOXX COMES HOME AGAIN

Another made-to-order home run hammered out by Jimmy Foxx touched off the fireworks in the second battle of the World's Series at Wrigley Field, Chicago. Here you see the youthful first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics nearing the home plate after a tremendous clout into the left field bleachers, his second homer of the series. Cochrane and Simmons, whom he scored ahead of him, are shown waiting to congratulate him. Miller, next at bat, is pictured extreme right. Philadelphia beat Chicago 9 to 3.

GRIMM GRABS A WILD ONE—JUST IN TIME

It was a Grimm trick that kept Jimmy Foxx, the Philadelphia Athletics' youthful batting streak, off the bases in the second inning of the second game of the World's Series at Wrigley Field, Chicago. This striking action picture shows Charlie Grimm, the Chicago Cubs' first baseman, had to dive for a bad throw from Shortstop English to put out Foxx in a close play at the initial sack. Foxx had hit the first ball pitched for a grounder in to short field.

MCLARNIN KAYOES BAKER IN FIRST

Makes Auspicious Debut in Ranks of Welters; Gorilla Jones Wins by Kayo.

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin has learned that the big fellows can fall just as hard as the little ones if they are hit on the right spot. The young Irishman from Vancouver made his debut as a welterweight last night and his punch produced the same result against Sergeant Sammy Baker as he did against Jimmy's opponents in the lighter classes. The result was a first round knockout.

In just two minutes and one second of action Baker was stretched on the ring floor twice and was counted out under the crushing blows of the smiling-faced Irishman from the Coast. Referee Billy McParland counted the ten over Baker.

He could have counted fifty as Baker lay unconscious on the ring floor, his head burrowed in a ridge on the padded canvas. A terrific right-handed drive to the jaw sent Baker to defeat and by the same token sent McLarnin's star soaring in the welterweight championship firmament.

McLarnin weighed 144 pounds and the former soldier came in two pounds heavier. Other results last night were as follows: Cincinnati—Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, outpointed Al Crisp, Oakland, Calif., ten.

Akron, Ohio—Gorilla Jones, Akron, knocked out Jack Homer, St. Louis, two.

London—Johnny Cuthbert, British middleweight champion, knocked out Nipper Pat Daly.

Oakland—Freddie Fitzgerald, Youngstown, Ohio, outpointed young Jack Thompson, Los Angeles, ten.

New Haven—Mal Stevens evidently thinks his Yale team produced pretty good results last week. After the final practice before starting south, the Ell coach said he expected to start practically the same team against Georgia.

Columbia-Wesleyan. Columbia, Dartmouth, Lafayette, Carnegie Tech and Penn State remain in the early game stage with opponents which should give them little trouble. Columbia meets Wesleyan, rather weaker than last year when the Lions won 31-7; Dartmouth plays Allegheny, Lafayette meets Manhattan, Carnegie goes against Western Reserve and Penn State against Marshall. Pennsylvania likewise should win handsily from Virginia Poly.

Other games may or may not produce close contests, especially the inter-sectional games between untried opponents. Cornell got something of a surprise from Hampden-Sidney a year ago when they and 16-0 triumph. It may happen again. Swarthmore and Virginia also makes a doubtful combination. On a strictly eastern basis, the least certain game is that between two of last year's undefeated teams, Boston College and Villanova. Both are still going strong this season. Conn. Aggies entertain Maine at Storrs. Last year a scoreless tie resulted.

A myth of the Dakota Indians is that the moon at waning is being eaten by mice.

WESLEYAN TACKLES COLUMBIA; CONN. AGGIES HOST TO STORRS

Host of Important College Grid Struggles on Many Fronts Saturday; How They Compare.

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The season of heavy schedules for eastern college football teams begins in earnest with this Saturday's games. The tuning up process is at an end or near it for most of the leaders and in the New York district one major opponent after another with few resting spaces in between.

The season of traditional rivalries begins in Pittsburgh with the battle between Pitt and West Virginia and in the famous Boston marathon. The Providence marathon is exactly the same as the one at Boston, 26 miles, 385 yards. In the starting list are some of the best runners in the country so it will naturally be unfair to expect Crowe to finish among the leaders. For example, last year the Providence amateur was won by "Whitney" Mitchell with J. Hennessey second and F. Zuna third. Hennessey finished second to Clarence DeMars in the Boston Marathon. Mitchell's winning time last year was two hours, 52 minutes.

The Providence marathon is a feature of the Columbus Day celebration in the Rhode Island capital. It is an event that attracts thousands of persons each October. It is an amateur race sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. U. No athlete under 18 years of age is allowed to enter. Registration fee is only twenty-five cents.

RAIN PROMISED FOR NEXT GAME

Tickets Worth $33 Sell for $100; One Block of Seats Not Even in Shibe Park.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Baseball fans who have been on the verge of ecstasies over the double victory of the Athletics over the Cubs, found something to worry about today.

The weather man predicted rain as a possibility for Friday, the opening day of the series here, and the fans fear he may be right. With the jubilant Athletics on their way home from Chicago, ticket speculators boosted prices substantially today. They were abroad in the land quoting $90 to $100 for a three game pair of tickets that cost the original purchaser $33.

Counterfeit tickets for the series have made their appearance here and a number have been sold. One speculator's office where tickets are bought and sold, reported the purchase of a block of seats last night and upon checking up with the club found the seats were in a section not listed at Shibe Park.

THREE PITCHED BALLS DECIDED SECOND GAME

"ALIBI IKES" GET LOCKJAW

Can Manufacture No Satisfactory Excuse for Yesterday's Slaughter of Cubs by A's.

By DALE HARRISON.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Just as well that the Cubs and Athletics were on the way to Philadelphia today. The home guards, choking on two Cub defeats were beginning to get the heebie jeebies.

There were plenty of smart explanations for the Cubs losing the first game, most of them being Mrs. Emke's boy, Howard, but the alibi artists got lockjaw trying to give any sane excuse for the nine to three disaster yesterday.

Thirteen more Cub strikeouts yesterday, put McCarthy's bright young men in the shadow of setting a new record in this line, which is one of those decisions nobody likes.

CUBS' OWNER STARTS CLASSIC

The big club carnival was on! Smiling William Wrigley, Jr., chewing gum and baseball mags, is pictured above as he literally started the ball rolling in the 1929 World Series between his own Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics at Wrigley Field, Chicago. He pitched the first ball of the first game—wita a Wrigley motion!

Stephenson Should Have Hit Before 3 and 2 Count

With Bases Loaded in Third; Foxx and Simmons Given Balls They Like; 26 Cubs Fan.

By BILLY EVANS.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 10.—In the opening game of the Series, Connie Mack used a so-called second stringer to defeat the Cubs. In the second game he was forced to use his two best bats despite the fact that the Athletics scored a one-sided victory. Ehmke turned the trick in the first game while Earnshaw and Grove were called upon in the second skirmish.

The score, 9 to 3, in my very humble opinion, hinged on the pitched balls. On two occasions, the Chicago twirlers pitched badly to Foxx and Simmons. In each instance the result was a home run. These two telling blows spelled victory for the Mackmen. The other ball has to do with Stephenson and failure of the Cubs to pick on the "tripple" at a time when Earnshaw was weakening badly.

It is foolhardy to pitch high and on the inside to Jimmy Foxx. Mack's powerful first sacker has perhaps the strongest pair of arms in baseball. He is more or less an arm hitter. It is just too bad to tempt fate by pitching high and inside to him. He pulls a trifle on such balls and hits them a mile a minute to left field.

In the third inning, things happened after two were out. It was the badly pitched ball to Foxx, however, that started the Cubs on the way to defeat. Mickey Cochrane, baseball's greatest catcher, hit safely. Working carefully on Simmons, Malone finally passed him. That set the stage for Jimmy Foxx and the first break of the game—one that really proved the opening as well as the decisive blow. With one strike on Foxx, Malone either lost control or had no idea of what Foxx can do to a fast ball inside. It was a badly pitched ball from two angles. For the ordinary batter it would have simply been another ball. However, Foxx has a penchant for hitting 'em off his ear. Pulling away from the plate a trifle, he put all the power of his broad shoulders into the ball and sent the ball high and far into left field bleacher for his second home run of the series giving the Athletics a lead of three runs.

Later this was increased to six, when two hits and an error by the unfortunate Woody English added three more. Ordinarily when you try to spot George Earnshaw of the Athletics six runs, you are just out of luck. Yet, yesterday, that wide margin wasn't enough. Five hits in the fifth sent three runs over the plate on first and second with two downs when Connie Mack sent a hurried call for his star southpaw, "Lefty" Grove. He responded nobly by whiffing Pinch Hitter Hartnett to end the uprising.

Despite the fact that five hits in the fifth inning sent Earnshaw to the showers it is my belief that the Cubs missed their big chance in the third inning. Chicago played safely first ball in that session, rather than take the big gamble. A base hit would have positively sent Earnshaw to the showers and might have changed the entire complexion of the ball game. Let me tell you about it. Out of a clear sky in the third, Earnshaw filled a streak of wildness that tilted the bases with two downs. The batter in the crisis was Stephenson, whom I re-

MALONE NOT GIVEN FREE REIN—BROWN

By MORDECAI BROWN. (Famous three-fingered pitcher of the Old Chicago Championship Cubs).

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—They don't play the game the way we used to play it. Maybe they are better, but after watching the Athletics beat the Cubs in the second game of the series I don't know whether I know baseball or not.

The game was decided by Foxx's homer. Nothing else counted much, but the Cubs seemed to lose their fight and hustle after they smashed up in the fourth inning.

I don't know, but it seemed to me Malone might have pitched a better game had he been permitted to use his own judgment regarding batters.

The Cubs, my old team, looked bad—and looked worse—all through the game than they really are.

RECORD OF 10 VICTORIES IN ROW FOR AMERICAN LEAGUE IN SERIES.

The victory scored by the Athletics against the Cubs yesterday was the tenth consecutive triumph for an American League team in the world's series. The New York Yankees started the string by turning back the Pittsburgh Pirates in four straight in 1927, and last year turned back St. Louis Cardinals four times. The last world's series victory scored by a National League team was in the final game of the 1928 series, when St. Louis defeated the Yankees, 3 to 2.

The record of consecutive American League victories follows: 1927 SERIES. N. York (A.) vs. Pittsburgh (N.) Oct. 5—N. York 5, Pittsburgh 4. Oct. 6—N. York 6, Pittsburgh 2. Oct. 7—N. York 8, Pittsburgh 1. Oct. 8—N. York 4, Pittsburgh 3.

1928 SERIES. New York (A.) vs. St. Louis (N.) Oct. 4—New York 4, St. Louis 1. Oct. 5—New York 9, St. Louis 8. Oct. 6—New York 7, St. Louis 3. Oct. 7—New York 7, St. Louis 3.

1929 SERIES. Philadelphia (A.) vs. Chicago (N.) Oct. 8—Philadelphia 3, Chicago 1. Oct. 9—Philadelphia 9, Chicago 3.

gard as the most dangerous hitter in the Cubs' lineup.

I also have the word of Joe McCarthy, manager of the Cubs on that score. Stephenson had a chance to break up the ball game but he passed up the "triple". In other words, he took a pitch that was simply aimed over the plate when he should have gambled everything on a healthy swing that might have resulted in a base hit and put the Cubs in the ball game.

The first three balls pitched to Stephenson were all strikes. The fourth was a ball, but he swung at it in a desperate situation, the bases loaded and three balls and no strikes on the batter.

Stephenson did the proper thing when he passed up the next pitch. Umpire Dinneen ruled it a strike. With the count standing three balls and one strike, the bases filled and the Cubs trailing by three runs, it was clearly up to Stephenson, a truly great hitter to take his cut at the next pitch, if he believed it good.

Earnshaw was truly up against it for he had to get the next one over, or force in a run. He seemed to aim the ball at the plate, cutting down much of his swing in a desperate effort to get it over. The ball cut the heart of the plate, well above Stephenson's knees but he let it float by. It was the perfect ball for him to hit. Either he took it because he was so ordered or else he didn't like it. On the next he floated out to left field. Earnshaw was out of trouble. That, I think, was a fatal slip.

The third and final pitch which scuttled the Cubs was in the eighth after two were down. A pass put Cochrane on first and brought up Simmons. Simmons hits to all fields and likes nothing better than the fast high one to the outside. Carlson pitched to his strength and the result was a drive into the right field stands for the circuit. On these three balls hinged the final result and all of them worked to the advantage of the Athletics. Joe McCarthy prior to the series, said if his pitchers could stop Simmons and Foxx, the Cubs would take enough liberties with the Philadelphia pitchers to win. It's been all wrong so far.

BINGHAM TO SPEAK AT PROVING GROUND

Connecticut Senator to Watch Demonstration of the Latest War Weapons.

Aberdeen, Mo., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Army and Navy is ready to show Cabinet, officers and high ranking officials of both branches of the service just what they have in the way of defense weapons at the eleventh annual demonstration of the Army Ordnance Association at the proving grounds here today.

Guns from small field pieces to the largest rifle of the coast defense will be demonstrated during the ten hours which are to be consumed by the show. It is scheduled to start with the firing of the smaller field pieces and end after dark with the demonstration of anti-aircraft firing with the latest "Archie" equipment of the coast defense branch of the Army.

Those Present.

Secretary of the Navy Adams, Secretary of War, Good, and Postmaster General Brown are the three Cabinet members who are to be present, and will be joined in watching the show by Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut and high ranking officers of the Army and Navy. Senator Bingham is to be the speaker at the annual meeting of the association which also is to be held today.

Two features of the day will be the firing of one of the huge 16-inch rifles, the largest piece of ordnance belonging to the United States, and the dropping of a dummy 4,000 pound bomb, the largest designed. A demonstration of target bombing with smaller weapons also is on the program.

HOME BANK INSTALLS MOSLER NIGHT SAFE

Depositors Can Now Leave Money at Local Institution After Banking Hours.

Living up to its motto, "The Bank of Service" coined when it was established, the Home Bank and Trust Company is having a Mosler Night Depository Service installed for the benefit of its customers bringing to Manchester one of the most up-to-date methods of banking, at a great expense, in order that its customers may have the same service as many banks in the larger cities are giving.

The steel receiving safe has a circular door of interlocking lug type, the door being equipped with a bronze case combination lock, and also with a corrugated Ley lock, so arranged that the key cannot be withdrawn until the locking bolt has been thrown forward to a locked position. The nose of the lock is provided with projections to form a handle for opening and the closing of door.

The chute contains baffle plates near the top of the safe, so designed that the plates swing to an open position as the deposit bag passes over them, and returns to a closed or normal position immediately after the bag has passed, thus preventing the withdrawal of contents through the chute door by use of wires, hooks and so forth.

When the deposit bag reaches the lower baffles, which are electrically controlled, a red bull's eye located on the left panel of the outer door frame, illuminates, but is immediately extinguished as the baffle plates return to a closed position. This assures the depositor that the deposit bag has passed into the safe. A depositor may place money in a special bag (sealed with a padlock, the only key to which is in the depositor's possession) and deposit it any time after banking hours, day or night, by simply dropping it into the door of the Mosler Night Safe.

SCHOONER ASHORE.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The four masted schooner Ada Tower was reported aground off Atlantic beach today, with a bad list and the crew of eight men unable to leave her.

The Ada Tower is of British registry, 528 tons, and was said to be in command of a Captain Hatfield, her owner.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Bullish price tendencies predominated at the opening of today's Stock Market, with buying orders distributed over a fairly broad list.

A. M. Evers showed an initial gain of 3 5/8 points and Missouri Pacific Common, American Can, General Electric, Peoples Gas and Houston Oil advanced 2 1/2 points or more.

American Tobacco issues moved into new high ground. Westinghouse Electric, Consolidated Gas, Ludlum Steel and Loose Wiles climbed a point or more.

International Combustion opened with a block of 11,000 shares at 35 1/4, off 3/4, and Atchison and American Smelting yielded about a point each.

The general easing of credit conditions revived bullish confidence, and encouraged a resumption of pool operations. It also led to considerable short covering, particularly in some of the high priced specialties for which there is a thin market.

Wide differences of opinion still exist over the weekly Federal Reserve brokers' loan statement to be issued after the close of the market, but the general expectation is that it will be favorable.

General Electric, which slumped to 34 1/2 in the middle selling movement yesterday, rallied to 37 1/2, an overnight gain of 1 1/2 points. American Can moved up 4 on the first flurry of buying, and U. S. Steel Common rallied 4 1/2.

New high records were established by Curtis Publishing, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and National Biscuit. Bethlehem Steel, North American and Simmons Co. were heavy at the outset, but the losses were relatively small.

Foreign exchanges opened firm. Sterling cables advanced 3/16 to $4.86 5/8 and Dutch guilders advanced slightly to 40.22 3/4, the highest levels since July 1928. Sterling is still well below the "gold export" point, which is around $4.88 1/4.

KILLED BY GAS.

Kearny, N. J., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The body of William J. Wilson, social leader of this town and former secretary of Otto H. Kahn, who had been missing since Monday, was found in his garage today. The engine of his automobile was running. Death had been caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

WHY DO YOU PAY RENT?

WHEN YOU CAN BUY a nice cottage of 5 rooms, cozy and comfortable and a garage thrown in for $5,200, five minutes' walk to Main street.

How would you like to own a brand new house, 6 rooms and sun parlor, fireplace, colored bath and shower, front and rear halls. Plenty of closet space, oak floors and stairway, and a garage for $7,500 with a few hundred dollars cash? Now is your opportunity.

Before buying the site for your new home take just one look at the wonderful building lots on Henry street and on Tanner streets, Elizabeth Park, Sewers, gas, water, sidewalks, electricity and mail delivery. Some priced as low as $650. Others higher, easy terms.

SENSE and NONSENSE

There are so many things that are illegal we wonder whether people are beginning to fear that it will not be perfectly legal to live too long.

I was telling our candidate for alderman that his chances of election weren't so good. "Why not?" he wanted to know, and I told him the truth.

"People say you're illiterate." "That's a lie," he shouted. "I'm 48 years old and my mammy and papa celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary just two months ago. I can get their wedding certificate to prove it."

A bald-headed man who has heard that the hairs of our heads are numbered, wants to know if there is not some place where he can get the back numbers.

Stranger (to boy beating rug): "Boy, is your mother home?" Boy: "Of course, you dumb bell!"

Office Boy: There's a salesman outside with a mustache. Boss: Tell him I've got a mustache.

A schoolma'am nearly swooned the other day when she asked one of her little girl pupils if she intended to be a school teacher when she grew up. "No ma'am," replied the child, "I'm going to be a lady."

It's worth going broke in business, or losing your job once or twice in life just to find out how many real friends you have.

Some people are inclined to spend more time telling about what they have done than they did in doing it.

Nowadays you see women's dresses advertised one-third off and worn one-third on.

It's all right to entertain ideas, but it's better to give them a good stiff workout.

THE TINIES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The wind kept tossing waves up high. It seemed they soon would reach the sky. The Weeone, in the wooden shoe, was bobbing here and there. It's just like hanging to a limb, thought he. I'll bet I'll take a swim. If only it was shallow here I really wouldn't care. The shoe then tipped up on a wave. The Weeone loudly shouted, "Save me, please! I think I'm going to drop into this raging stream. Come on there, Scouty, lend a hand." So Scouty swam to beat the band. The other Tinies, back on shore, could hear the Weeone scream. "Oh, listen to the wild waves roar," said Clowny. "I'm glad we're on shore, I think that Scouty was real brave to beat the band. But now perhaps he's in a mess. I'd like to help him, I'll confess, but I have thought and thought and there is nothing I can do. "I only wish we had a boat that we could take right out and float.

I'd gladly do the rowing till we reached brave Scouty's side. But there is not a thing on hand, so all that we can do is stand and wait to see what happens, on the stream that's long and wide." Then Copy cried, with all his might, "Hey, Scouty boy, are you all right?" A real faint "yes" came floating back. The Tinies were relieved. "He'll come out fine," one of them said, "cause he knows how to use his head. If anything should happen, though, my, how we would be grieved." Another wave then caught the shoe. The next thing that small Scouty knew the Weeone sailed into the air. The shoe turned round and round. "Course Scouty swam up mighty quick. "Don't fret," he cried. "This will be slick. I'll grab you by your little hand and have you safe and sound."

(Scouty rescues the Weeone in the next story.)

RECEPTION TO NEW REC DIRECTOR TOMORROW

William Cotter who has been at the Manchester Memorial hospital for several weeks and was operated upon on Monday is reported as being in a critical condition.

Today is "Building and Loan Day" in Manchester. With nearly all districts collecting school taxes and monthly payments due on property loans the month of October is not a bed of roses. It also marks the time of starting the furnace, which eats up coal, oil or electrical power.

Tickets are now available for the chicken and spaghetti dinner which the Army and Navy club will give instead of their annual outdoor get-together. The date set is October 26 and tickets may be had by applying to David McCullom, steward at the clubhouse, Arthur Keating or Francis McCaughey.

All W. B. A. Guard club members are urged to attend the meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Coleman, 168 Woodbridge street as a special program will be planned for the first W. B. A. meeting night in November.

The Merry Ten Sewing Club met last night for the first time since its organization. The gathering was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Horvath at 60 Norman street.

The American Legion auxiliary will elect officers for the coming year at its regular meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the State Armory. A full attendance is therefore hoped for.

The D. U. V. Sewing club will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Etta Woodhouse on Center street.
