Scenes of Wild Confusion in Markets as Frantic Brokers Are Swamped With Selling Orders.

BULLETIN!

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A Stock Market panic appeared to have been checked early this afternoon, as leading brokers issued reassurances and prices of many leading stocks, after declining $10 to $40 a share rebounded sharply.

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Stocks were again dumped into the market in terrific volume today, and Wall Street trading facilities again were completely swamped. Powerful support came into the market during the morning, but by late forenoon a wide assortment of selling issues were depressed $2 to $19 a share, many to new low levels for the year.

Scenes of wild confusion again prevailed on the floors of the Stock and Curb Exchanges. The quotations on the Stock Exchange tumbled about three-quarters of an hour behind trading before the high tide of selling subsided, and prices fell on the tape were again highly demoralizing.

Prices on the floor at 11:30 a. m., showed U. S. Steel Common selling at $201 a share, a new low for the movement, $3 below last night's close. General Motors tumbled $6.75 to a new low for the year at $50. Consolidated Gas dropped $6.50 to $91.25. American Telephone at $260, off $12 from last night's close. The loss in the more volatile issues tumbled wildly, Automobile losing $16 on top of yesterday's net loss of $77.

On the Curb Market, electric bond and share sold at $100, an overnight drop of $12.25, and contrasting to the year's average of $189.

Loud complaints were heard in brokerage house customers' rooms that investment trusts and institutions were failing to come in and pick up stocks on a large scale, despite the attractive yields which many of the so-called blue chip issues were reduced. Commodity markets and security markets throughout the country were deluged with selling, in sympathy with the break in city prices. Wheat futures at Chicago and Winnipeg dropped about 2 to 4 cents a bushel, reaching new low grounds for the current decline.

Selling orders poured into the Stock Exchange over telegraph, telephone, and private brokers' wires and by radio from cities throughout the country and abroad. Floor traders and specialists were driven frantic in efforts to execute the flood of orders.

KIDNAPERS PAID $25,000 IN RANSOM

Boy Returned Unharmed But Police Raid House and Nab Five Suspects.

Detroit, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Jackie Thompson, 5, who was kidnaped from in front of his home Sept. 30, was returned unharmed to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Thompson, last night. Police said Thompson paid $25,000 for his son's release.

Two men and two women are being held in connection with the case. The men are charged with kidnaping and the women are held for investigation.

Inspector Robert A. MacPherson, a member of the squad which returned Jackie to his home, said Thompson paid $17,000 in $20, $50, and $100 bills to the kidnapers and then gave them four $2,000 notes for the balance.

Received Seven Notes
Police said Thompson has been in communication with the kidnapers for the last three weeks, or practically since his son was kidnaped. The police said they took no steps until last night for fear some harm might befall the boy.

Thompson received seven notes while in communication with his son's captors, Inspector MacPherson said. The first demand was for $35,000, backed up by the threat that the boy's head would be cut off if the amount asked was not paid. The ransom finally was reduced to the $25,000 Thompson handed over last night.

The ransom was paid the kidnapers between 6 and 6:30 p. m., yesterday. Thompson had driven to the intersection of Grand Boulevard and Woodward avenue. Two men approached from opposite directions, received the money and left, telling Thompson to return later in the evening and get his boy. Twenty minutes later police raided the home. Jackie was found playing alone in the kitchen.

MAN IS KILLED, MILLIONS LOSS IN FILM BLAZE

Hollywood Building Alone Valued at $400,000; Many Famous Master Films Are Destroyed.

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 24.—(AP)—One man was killed and motion picture films, the value of which probably will run into millions of dollars, were lost in an explosion and fire which destroyed the laboratory of the Consolidated Film Industries, here early today.

Fifty persons working in the building at the time of the blast, ran to safety after the first explosion. Five minutes later there was a second detonation which shot flames through windows and doors. The laboratory workers escaping by the narrowest of margins.

But One Killed.
In the confusion that arose while firemen battled the flames, several persons were reported missing, but a check of those known to have been in the building accounted for all but one. Firemen later removed Albert Lund from the wreckage. He died on the way to the hospital.

Due to the fact that the master films of several new motion picture productions were in the building, it was impossible to get an accurate estimate of the damage pending a survey by producers.

Early estimates of the loss ran as high as $50,000,000, but fire department and film company officials said initial estimates probably would be greatly reduced, as some of the celluloids apparently had not been damaged. The building alone was valued at $400,000.

SENATORS CLASH ON TARIFF BILL

Plan to Increase Rates on Dairy Products Arouses Men from the West.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Reminiscent of campaign speeches of October a year ago, the cry for tariff equality between agriculture and industry rang out in the Senate today as Senators from farm and industrial states clashed over the tariff bill.

With a proposal to increase the duty on casein, a dairy product used in the manufacture of coated paper, the point at issue, the discussion drew many members to their feet, the number including Borah, Idaho, who stumped for Hoover, but has since broken with the White House on the export debenture proposition and revision of the flexible provision in the tariff law.

Same Old Complaint
The same old complaint that industry will be ruined always is heard, the Idahoan said, when an attempt is made to raise the tariff on an agricultural product.

Vandenberg of Michigan, a Republican was taking when Borah injected his views Vandenberg had just said he was opposed to an increased duty on casein because it would be a death knell for the coated paper industry. This, the Michigan Senator argued, would take away the farmer's market for that product.

Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, had proposed that the present duty of 2½ cents a pound be raised to eight cents. The finance committee's recommendation was 5½ cents while the House had left the duty unchanged.

OTHER NATIONS THAN U. S. PAY TARIFF COSTS

Joseph R. Grundy Tells Lobby by Committee American Consumer Does Not Pay; $25,000 His Expenses.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Expenditure of $25,000 to obtain "protective tariff legislation" for Pennsylvania industries was the new chapter added today to the record of the Senate lobby committee still fresh with the story of an outlay of $75,000 by American Cuban sugar producers in behalf of a low duty on Cuban sugar.

Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and Washington representative of the American Tariff League, was today's witness. He said his expenditures, paid by himself, had approximated $25,000 so far this year and under stiff questioning he insisted the foreigner and not the American consumer paid the cost of the tariff.

Raised $700,000
Aside from his tariff testimony, the white-haired Pennsylvaniaian said he had raised more than $700,000 for the Coolidge campaign, had supported Hoover and that the consumer by their votes had endorsed Republican tariff policies.

Grundy said the changes proposed in rates constituted revision on articles needing higher duties and disagreed with Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, that the tariff bill constituted general revision just because Walsh argued 42 of 65 Pennsylvania industries were recommended for increases.

When Grundy said the increases had increased by $504,000,000 annually the burden of consumers in the Keystone state, Grundy's reply was: "Important if true." The committee recessed until Tuesday.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and the Washington representative of the American Tariff League during consideration of tariff legislation by Congress today took the witness stand before the Senate lobby committee.

BATTLES KEEP UP ON CHINA FRONTS

Civil War Continues Along Long Lines 100 Miles from City of Hankow.

Hankow, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Continuing, but indecisive fighting between the Nationalist forces and the rebellious Kuomintang or "People's Army" was in progress today throughout that portion of Honan province west of the Kinshan railway.

The opposing armies appeared to be facing each other along a north and south front, fifty miles west of the Nationalist forces and they formed an east to west line. The present battle line extends north from the border of Hupoh province to the Lunghai railway near Chengchow.

At their nearest point the Kuomintang forces still were more than 100 miles from Hankow, their apparent objective. The shifting of the battle line resulted when the right wing of the Nationalist forces advanced northward along the Kinshan railway, driving the rebels from the railroad zone, while the left wing of the Central government forces withdrew toward the southeast, permitting the "People's Army" to reach the Hupoh border.

The Kuomintang army now is advancing eastward in three columns, hoping to regain railway territory. Kuomintang spearheads were aimed at Shengchow in northern Honan and Yencheng, in the central part of the province. Both cities are on the Kinshan railway. Yencheng being about 200 miles north of here.

Reports Wrong
Reports that the Kuomintang forces captured Chengchow, junction point of the Lungshan and Kinshan railways, apparently were erroneous. The rebel army did launch a vigorous attack against the junction city yesterday but the Nationalist used armored trains, artillery, and airplanes with deadly effect, repulsing the attackers.

Bodyguards of Chiang-Kai Shek, head of the Nationalist forces, arrived here from Nanking, seemingly indicating that the generalissimo, who also is the head of the Nationalist civil guard, would arrive here soon to take command of the central military forces.

PLACE AUTO ON TRACKS BEFORE HOOVER'S TRAIN

Removed Just in Nick of Time; 2 Negroes Confess They Placed Obstruction There to Claim Damages.

New Albany, Indiana, Oct. 24.—(AP)—An alleged plot which would have involved President Hoover's special train in a wreck with a heavy sedan five miles north of here was thwarted last night by three men who removed the obstruction from the Baltimore and Ohio tracks a few minutes before the train arrived.

The train was halted for eighteen minutes while Secret Service men and railroad detectives started an investigation which resulted several hours later in the arrest of two negroes who confessed, according to officers, that they placed the automobile in a plot to collect damages for its destruction.

On Steep Grade.
The sedan was placed on the tracks on a steep grade and was discovered by Enoch Keller, a negro, who had gone to the crossing in the hope of seeing the President as his train passed.

Keller called Edward Hopson, a farmer, and the two, with the assistance of a motorist, George Weir, of Jefferson, Ind., removed the machine while the headlights of the train, approaching at 80 miles an hour, played on them.

Train Stopped.
The engineer stopped the train some distance down the track, and the Secret Service men and railroad detectives disembarked. They called a government automobile and through the assistance of local officers from Louisville, New Albany and Jeffersonville.

Through the license plate of the automobile was traced to Charles W. Burdock, 19, and Young E. Wright, 43, negroes. Officers said they arrested Burdock had placed the car on the tracks and that Wright, who bought it recently for $500, had paid him $25 for doing so.

Willimantic, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. E. Wilson of Plantville, who retired as president of the Connecticut Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday, presided for the last time over that body this morning, and as part of the farewells to her there was a purse of gold from the delegates.

DITEMAN LOST IF NOT LANDED IN GREENLAND

(Continued from Page 1.) a small plane on an attempted trans-Atlantic flight to England. Unless Diteman had been picked up by a ship without wireless London aviation experts consider that there is only the slenderest of chances for his rescue. He was more than twenty-four hours overdue in London, and no news has been received from any quarter. A long, but fruitless vigil was maintained along the Irish coast and at Croydon airdrome all last night. At Croydon searchlights and landing lights were kept working, and wireless operators remained at their posts along the coast. Civic guards in Ireland, besides the Coast Guards, after a night of watching through incessant rain, resumed their quest for the missing airman at daybreak, but were over-greafly compelled to admit he could hardly have reached Ireland without being reported somewhere.

RED CROSS SESSION IS WELL ATTENDED Over 200 Delegates at State Conference Here Today; Summary of Talks.

Opening with the invocation by Rev. Marvin S. Stoking and greetings to the conference by Thomas J. Rogers, chairman of the Board of Selectmen the State Conference of the Red Cross Chapters of Connecticut got underway at the South Methodist church this morning with 200 delegates registered up until noon.

Four speakers from national Red Cross headquarters at Washington, D. C., were heard in the morning session. The first speaker was J. T. Nicholson, assistant manager eastern area, A. R. C., who was followed by Douglas Griesemer, director of public information, national headquarters, A. R. C.

William E. Longfellow, assistant to national director of First Aid and Life Saving and prominent in Boy Scout work being a fifteen year veteran, spoke next and Miss Edith Peckham, assistant to National director of Junior Red Cross concluded the list.

Luncheon was served at 12:45 o'clock and sessions were resumed at 2 o'clock. The conference will adjourn at 4 o'clock. During the afternoon discussions will be held on disaster organization, roll call, junior red cross, post war service, volunteer service and first aid and life saving.

have come to the point where we realize we must more adequately budget for this work. These financial goals can be met in only one way. We have no intention of putting on a national appeal for funds. The only way that the goals can be met is through an increased membership in the Red Cross so that the increase in membership dues available for this national and international program may be sufficient.

A summary of J. T. Nicholson's talk follows: People are accustomed to saying that they have given to the Red Cross said Mr. Nicholson. What they really do is to give through the Red Cross. The organization existing by reason of an international treaty and a Congressional Charter is in reality the people's representative in the fulfillment of certain treaty and charter obligations. It is the custodian of the public trust. It is the trustee of funds entrusted to its care for the benefit of the community. It is specific in its aims. As a trustee it is specific at all times to open its books to anyone and give an account of its stewardship. Annually it gives an official report through the Secretary of War to the Congress. Daily it gives an account of its financial operations to an audit commission of the War Department.

The Red Cross in rehabilitating several hundred thousand veterans was faithful to promises made during and immediately after the war; it has also by this work, actually enhanced the economic standards of the community. It has provided the means for these men to get another start in life. It has helped them to become again—earnings, purchasers and savers, instead of public or private dependents. They have become self-supporting and producers. The self-supporting each month performs service to about fifty six thousand of the veterans. Studies have disclosed that this service is in practically all chapters, actually returning more money to the communities than the money that have given the Red Cross. Not to mention the purely social benefits.

The high cost of sickness is a much discussed subject. There are those who believe we pay too much to private duty nurses, surgeons, physicians, hospitals, and that those needs should be reduced. Yet, hospitals with increased demands for service and great charitable services continue to operate, under deficits. Physicians and surgeons have the same problem. Private duty nurses bring an income of only about thirteen hundred dollars a year. The cost of sickness cannot be reduced by decreasing fees for proper medical care. The problem is acute, for the average income of our people is two thousand dollars. Only two but two thousand dollars have incomes in excess of five thousand. It requires a minimum of sixteen hundred to two thousand dollars to maintain a family of four. Seventy five per cent of our people have no margin above the actual necessities of life to pay for long illness. The reduction of cost must come through the reduction of illness. Much of it can be reduced. The Red Cross has helped already to reduce much of it. Seven hundred and sixty eight of our public health nurses have not only made 1,139,601 home visits and inspected nearly a million children, but in that work have taught how to conserve health and prevent disease. As many more nurses have taught courses in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, and in the last year 42,234 students have graduated in those courses.

Our Nutritionists have instructed 149,000 children and 10,000 parents. These educational and service activities have certainly increased popular appreciation of preventive medicine. As such the Red Cross has made not only a real social contribution, but an economic one.

desire of peace must be written into the hearts of people before the League of Nations and World Court can succeed. The Red Cross born of war, that knows the futility of war, naturally turns its eyes toward peace and builds for the day when the problems of nations may be solved about a table and not upon a field.

It is in the spirit of world brotherhood and of sacrificial service which the Red Cross inculcates and perpetuates that the Red Cross makes its greatest contribution. It is that spirit of neutrality and humanity that the world most needs today. The Red Cross, once called the "Great Plus Sign of Civilization" signifies after all—paradoxically—negation; the negation of self.

Stressing the need of road side First Aid stations to be established by local chapters of the Red Cross and the teaching of First Aid to volunteer Fire Departments William E. Longfellow addressed the gathering on First Aid and Life Saving. No roaring thunder of dramatic appeal said the speaker, nor oratorical eloquence should be necessary to convince American citizens of the importance of adding the First Aid and Life Saving program of the Red Cross to its chapter service to the community.

In the past year there were 8,000 drownings of a total of 96,000 people killed in accidents. Of this number 19,200 were children under 15 years of age. To the tender-hearted citizen this knowledge is all that is needed to spur him to endorsement of the Red Cross. To the hard-hearted business man the fact that there was an economic loss of $3,200,000,000 as a result of these accidents and that of the 42,000,000 employed in gainful occupations seven per cent are injured annually, resulting in an economic loss of $1,022,000,000, should prove incentive enough.

The reason for providing First Aid and Life Saving stations by the Red Cross is that under Federal charter the Red Cross is the agency designated by Congress to relieve the victims of disasters and prevent recurrence of disasters. Clearly the loss of 96,000 healthy Americans in accidents and 10,000,000 non fatal accidents, is a disaster to this country.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION IN CITY TOMORROW

Group of Nathan Hale and Barnard Instructors, However, to Inspect New York Schools.

There will be no public school sessions in Manchester tomorrow either in the Eighth or Ninth districts, the reason being the annual teachers' convention held in Hartford. New Haven and Bridgeport. Local teachers will attend the all-day session in Hartford which will be held at the Broad street auditorium of the Hartford Public High school.

The general meeting will be held at the Capitol Theater at 9:30 in the morning. The teachers in the elementary grades—intermediate, lower and kindergarten—will be held in the Hartford High school buildings at 2:30.

Nine teachers of the Nathan Hale school and six from the Barnard school in charge of Miss Elizabeth M. Bennett, principal of both schools, compose a party leaving on a trip of inspection tomorrow in New York, visiting various schools in that city that are using new methods of teaching. The Lincoln school, an excellent one trying out new methods of instruction and the McGuire school, using the new group and individual methods almost entirely will be visited.

The Angelo Patri school, named after the great educator, a typical New York Junior High school, will also be inspected. Much individual creative art is sponsored in this school, especially the 8th grade which is composed of many nationalities.

Edwin Donaldson, whose resignation from the local police force was reported yesterday, was discharged, according to the local board of police commissioners. Donaldson's resignation was offered the commissioners to take effect on November 1 but after some questioning the board instructed Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon to tell the patrolman not to go on his beat last night.

It seems that the police commissioner learned that Donaldson intended to resign later and take a place on the West Palm Beach, Fla., police force, with Albert R. Roberts who recently left the force for the same purpose. The commissioner charged that Donaldson purchased a police uniform at town expense, but bought a summer weight suit instead of one for the winter season. The commissioner thought the patrolman intended to go south to work as a policeman wearing a uniform paid for by the Town of Manchester. The commission stated today that Donaldson's pay had been withheld until the uniform is paid for.

Assassin Fires Shot, Misses Crown Prince. The prince arrived here yesterday to celebrate his betrothal to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium. The prince's assailant told police he is an Italian, named Enrico Di Rosa, and said he was born in Milan in 1904. He added that he had intended to fire into the air as a mark of protest. He arrived from France last night and was in possession of identification papers from that country.

Bullet Hits Ground. The driver of a motorcycle which had preceded the crown prince's car to the Tomb threw himself at the assassin as he fired and knocked his hand down, causing the bullet to strike the ground. The prince was not noticed, the disturbance and immediately. The crown prince and the notables who had just welcomed him to the tomb pretended not to notice the disturbance and the prince carried out the ceremony of decorating the tomb.

The grand march started about 8:30 with many colorful costumes in line. Miss Anna Lindberg received the prize for the prettiest ladies' costume, and David Hutchinson for the most original of those worn by the men.

Social committees from both organizations served doughnuts, pie and coffee. A trio from the Beethoven Glee club sang several numbers. There was chorus singing of popular songs as the young people sat around the tables. Dancing continued until midnight.

PARKER-SMITH FIRM GUILTY, IS VERDICT

Parker-Smith company is described as a trustee of certain expressed trusts, mainly of certain mortgages therein described. This allegation is admitted by the accused to be true. The state has offered documentary evidence which the state claims shows that the mortgage referred to in these respective counts were paid to the Parker-Smith company by the mortgagors and in some instances for a considerable period before the due date. That as they were thus paid they were in a number of instances deposited in the name of the Parker-Smith company, in a segregated account in the Home Trust Company of West Haven and that thereupon from time to time the whole or a portion of such funds were withdrawn by the Parker-Smith company by checks in the name of the corporation in the Trademark Bank of New Haven.

Some witnesses the company continues to pay interest to noteholders after the payment of mortgages and that such noteholders did not learn of the fact that the mortgages of which they were noteholders had been paid to the company until after the appointment of a receiver; that in every instance set forth in counts one to twenty-six inclusive the particular noteholders were never paid any portion of their notes but the moneys received by the company from the various mortgagors were used by the Parker-Smith company in all of which

While the crowd rushed and milled about in their excitement the ceremony at the Tomb proceeded uninterrupted. Count de Brocqueville, minister of defense, welcomed the Italian heir.

In a moment the prince, very calmly went down the steps of the tomb and placed his wreath, while a military band played the Italian national anthem.

Messieurs Burgomaster Max, very nervous, gave hurried instructions to the gendarmes to bring the prisoner to the nearest police station. The royal prosecutor was summoned and as soon as he arrived began to question him.

The crowd's perception of what had happened was slow, due probably to the engine of the body guard's motorcycle, which was still running. But when the crowd realized that an attempt had been made on the Italian heir's life they became enraged and fought with the police to get at the assassin.

Some witnesses told police the man emerged from the crowd and ran some 50 yards to arrive near the prince's car. When about 15 yards away he fired, the bullet going a little high. As he prepared to fire the shot his hand was knocked down by a man who sprang from the crowd and seized his weapon.

Children of the Junior department of Center church Sunday school will have a Halloween party in the Franklin school gymnasium tomorrow evening between 7 and 8:30.

MARKET LOSSES BEING BALANCED

Trading Continues at Terrific Pace to Offset Yesterday's Drop of Prices.

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Stock Market was called upon to absorb a further avalanche of selling in the first half hour of trading today, but powerful support appeared, and early gains and losses practically counterbalanced each other.

Trading continued at a terrific pace, with blocks of 10,000 to 15,000 shares changing hands. Cities Service opened with a block of 150,000 shares on the Curb Exchange, a record transaction, at $56.75, a loss of $3.25. On the Stock Exchange General Motors opened with a block of 20,000 shares at $56.50, down $1 to a new low for the year.

American and Foreign Power, U. S. Steel, Gold Dust, General Electric, S. Clinch, and American Telephone were among issues opening $1 to $1.75 higher. Standard of New Jersey, Studebaker, United Corp., American Can, and North American dropped 50 cents to $3.50, while American Smelting dropped $2 and Southern California Edison tumbled $5.62 1-2.

Call For Funds
Much of the selling represented the unloading of marginal accounts weakened in yesterday's drastic decline, the sharpener's recent years. The brokerage house margin clerks, in many instances, worked until early hours this morning sending out calls for more funds. On the other hand, many large traders and investors felt that stocks had reached bargain levels, and many who had sold the market short covered the commitments which supplied the market with large buying orders. Commission houses, however, were inclined to advise their customers to proceed with great caution until the present price levels are thoroughly tested.

The Stock Exchange ticker tape was nearly 15 minutes behind trading at 10:30 a. m. Trading on the Stock Exchange during the first half hour totaled 1,676,300 shares, a new high record for the period, and at the rate of more than 16,700,000 shares a day. The record turnover was established on March 26, when approximately 8,200,000 shares were traded.

Financial news tickers flashed unofficial reports from Washington during the mid-morning stating that Treasury officials do not consider that the terrific fluctuations in stock prices in any way reflect business conditions, adding that profits from business are still large and increasingly regularly.

RELEASED AS CURED, AUTO VICTIM DIES

Stamford, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Discharged from the Greenwich hospital Monday night, a man who was injured in a car crash, died in the Stamford hospital, last night as a direct result of injuries received in an automobile accident in Greenwich, and for which he had been taken to the Greenwich hospital. Medical Examiner Dr. R. W. Crane of Stamford supervised an autopsy on the body, last night, and gave the cause of death as a lacerated brain.

Regacho was injured on Monday afternoon, when a car operated by Blas V. Crozon, 25, of 312 Greenwich avenue, Stamford, went off the road on Put's Hill, Greenwich, and struck a large rock.

Crozon claimed at the time that his foot slipped off the brake pedal and the accelerator, causing him to lose control of the car. Regacho was taken to the Greenwich hospital, which reported his injuries to Greenwich as a lacerated left thumb and lacerated right forearm.

PRODUCTION AT FORD PLANT ON INCREASE.

With production on the increase despite the approach of what is generally regarded as the slack season, the Ford Motor company, today issues a statement to the effect that the October program at the Rouge Plant calls for a full five-day schedule.

The company's output of passenger and commercial cars during September amounted to 161,305 units, a marked increase over its production for the corresponding month of 1928. This month's output is set at 175,000 units. Total production for the nine months of 1929, the official statement shows, was 1,633,498 units. The year's production is estimated at 2,000,000.

A total of 108,138 men were employed in the three Ford Plants in the Detroit area on October 2.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Padding For Silence

Car owners who complain of feeling vibration from the engine through the floorboards should consider the plan of placing heavy padding under the floor mat. This will deaden noise and vibration, and give the car more of a feeling of luxury.

Many of the objections to steel bodies have been overcome through the generous use of padding and there is no reason why the motorist himself should not use the idea for special problems. In some cars the front floor mat covers part of the dash partition between the engine and driving compartments. Padding at this point will be very effective in quieting an engine.

Padding also is useful for keeping the driving compartment cool in summer and warm in winter. Most of the engine heat is expelled under the front floorboards so that padding serves as insulation.

Custom Work on Springs
What is known as custom work on springs is a phase of the motor world little appreciated by the average car owner. A spring seems to be merely a spring, and the idea that it is subject to special treatment does not occur to him.

Such custom work, however, is available to those who want to get the best riding qualities from their cars. The first step is to weigh the car in order to ascertain whether the springs are appropriate for the task they must perform. The second step is to put the springs themselves into condition.

The trouble with most springs is that they leave touch only on high spots. In the specialist's shop these high spots are removed so that the leaves work smoothly against each other for their entire area.

The final steps are lubrication and the proper adjustment of the spring control devices. With a custom spring job a car can be made to ride just about any way desired.

Shortage of Gas
Now that cars are capable of climbing steep hills at forty or fifty miles per hour some natural problems arise in the matter of keeping the engine supplied with fuel. Many cars are coming through either with larger vacuum tanks or positive fuel pumps, but provision has not always been made to take care of this.

At wide open throttle on a long steep hill an engine is using a maximum amount of fuel. Many car owners have found their engines limping toward the top without appreciating that it was simply a case of not getting gas fast enough.

Various fuel pumps operating on different principles are now available for installation on any car which may be afflicted with shortage of gas in all climbing at high speed or for cars which are being used in a way the manufacturer did not anticipate. If the engine seems slow around the top of the hill, and misses a bit, don't blame the valve or think it is overheating until you have made sure it gets a full supply of gas.

Try This In Steering
Do your front wheels straighten out automatically after you have turned a corner or do they require you to tug at the steering wheel?

If you are not enjoying the convenience of having the wheels straighten out of their own accord it is a good plan to question the efficiency of your driving. Only a few drivers know that it aids the straightening out of front wheels to accelerate after a curve or corner has been turned.

The tendency is to keep slowing down after turning, or even to apply the brakes lightly while tugging at the steering wheel to return the front wheels to the straight-ahead position, whereas acceleration is needed. Applying the power tends to alter the "caster" effect at the front axle, thus serving to affect the steering favorably.

Another Source of Noise
How vibration causes brakes to squeak is one of the newest and most interesting service problems of the automobile world. Squeaks and screeching may come from the brake lining and other causes but in a larger number of cases than most mechanics imagine the trouble is due to one of the four brakes vibrating.

This can happen if the troublesome brake does not take hold as firmly as the rest when the brake pedal is pressed. The remedy here is to obtain a more equalized adjustment.

Where brakes are of the internal expanding self-energizing type there is a third shoe in each brake which is partially self-acting. Being of a "floating" nature it is more prone to vibrate if it is given too much freedom.

High Compression For All
High compression can be incorporated into any engine by the very simple process of installing longer pistons. These serve to reduce the size of the combustion chamber and thus accomplish the same result as installing a special high compression head.

Only a few manufacturers supply special heads for older models but longer pistons can be purchased in many places and installed by any experienced mechanic. It is only recently that automobile dealers and mechanics have thought of this simple way to raise the compression of the older type engines.

A fortunate feature of the plan is the fact that if the pistons selected happen to raise compression too high the cylinder head can be raised by special gaskets until just the right compromise is made.

AVERAGE CAR'S LIFE NEAR SEVEN YEARS

New York, Oct. 24.—If you own one of those "average" automobiles, you are due for a service of six years and nine months, according to the American Motorists' Association.

Replacement data, furnished by automobile manufacturers from all over the country, is the basis for this claim. The association also presents figures showing that the cost for operating the average four-cylinder car is about 6.43 cents a mile and for the six-cylinder about 8.40 cents a mile.

How to Save Money on Insurance

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA SERVICE

The lamps are the tell-tale of the lighting system. If one or more of them fail to light, there is a long series of causes to seek and remedy.

The first place to look is the line of fuses, usually back of the dash. If one is blown out, it is probably that which controls the line on which the unlighted lamp has been found. In this event, it should not be replaced with a new fuse before the real cause of the trouble has been located and corrected.

This may be either a short circuit in that particular line or an accidental ground. The short may be in the lamp socket or it may happen along any part of the entire line. The lamp socket and the wire terminal to it should first be examined to see that it is wired properly. Then the wiring should be examined closely from the lamp down to the fuse and back of this to the main line. Usually a burned or abraded insulation will reveal the location of the short or ground.

If no fuse has blown out, and one of the lamps is out, the trouble is probably in the lamp itself. It should be replaced by a new bulb. But if the new bulb refuses to light, the cause may again be in the socket. It should be examined for an open circuit. If there were a short circuit here, the bulb would blow out, but if the fuse is intact and the lamp does not burn, there may be a break in the line. This also can best be located by starting from the lamp socket and working back to the main line back of the fuse box.

Sometimes the lights either go out altogether or remain dim. If they are dim only while the motor is idling and light up brightly while the engine is speeded up, the trouble is a weak or run-down battery. The battery should be charged to full capacity. Sometimes loose or corroded terminals on the battery will cause this. These therefore should be examined and cleaned.

Another cause for dim lights is failing of the generator due to a worn brush or loose brush connections. The generator need not be examined before the ammeter on the dash is noted. If, when the motor is running and the lights are turned off, the ammeter shows that the battery is being charged properly, you may conclude that there is no trouble with the generator. The ammeter, therefore, is an easy tell-tale for the efficient operation of the generator.

If the trouble is neither in the battery nor the generator, the cause for unit lights or dim lights may be found in a defective wire connection to the switch, or to a loose lamp socket terminal, or to fairly well burned-out bulbs, or to poor connections of the bulb bases to their lamp sockets.

Loose connections in the wiring may be detected by flickering lamps. The way the man at the steering wheel can tell from his position whether his lamps are flickering, is to look at the ammeter. If the needle of this instrument jumps back and forth more than the roughness of the road would throw it, the driver may suspect flickering lights.

This unsteadiness of the ammeter needle, however, may point to an intermittent circuit in any part of the ignition or lighting system. Therefore, if on observation, the lights do not flicker, the loose connection should be sought in the ignition circuit.

Usually this can also be detected by missing of the motor for every time a line of the ignition circuit breaks there's a missing spark. The remedy, as in other cases of the electric system, is to go over the wiring for the loose connection or accidental ground.

RAINBOW DANCES

A program of unusual excellence has been prepared for the big Halloween dance at The Rainbow Saturday evening when Bill Smith will again bring The Commanders to this popular dance palace, supplementing an all-feature dance program with a specialty act of pre-enthusiastic proportions in the eight Lindy Girls who are coming to The Rainbow Saturday night with the sensational Commanders who have proved to be one of the distinctly artistic successes of the year.

Mr. Smith has developed a remarkably popular blending of the most modish elements of jazz and classic harmony and presents them with a swing and rhythm that no dancer can resist. The performance of The Commanders' soloists, vocal as well as instrumental, are among the particularly enjoyable features of The Rainbow Saturday evening programs. Special Halloween decorations will add an elaborateness to the novelty numbers so pleasingly arranged for the enjoyment of The Rainbow patrons.

The very old line at Bolton draws hospitality in the shelter of the more modern dance palace and stands upon ground replete with early Indian lore. It has sheltered generations of wayfarers within its cozy walls and regaled them with good cheer, of which the traditional Yankee food formed a flavor part. All these features are still available and are the means of drawing capacity crowds which is further testimony of the prevailing interest on The Rainbow and marks the appreciation on the part of a receptive and satisfied public.

Saturday night's dance and extra Halloween attractions are by far the most enjoyable program thus far arranged and should attract a record crowd. Added facilities for handling a holiday crowd have been provided. A big delegation of dance fans will accompany The Commanders and the Lindy Girls from Williamantic, Stafford and Rockville.

REFRIGERATOR PRICES DOWN.

General Electric Announces Cut On All Porcelain Models.

The General Electric company has announced new low prices on its entire line of porcelain electric refrigerators. According to P. B. Zimmerman, general sales manager, a reduction of $25.00 and special attractive terms on General Electric refrigerators places this high quality product within easy reach of many thousands of people who have wanted electric refrigeration but felt that they could not afford them.

"The necessity of perfect electric refrigeration has been impressed in the minds of many by the recent National Food Preservation Campaign," he said. "The importance of keeping perishable foods at a low temperature below the 50 degree danger line was stressed in magazines and newspapers all over the country. The Electric company feels that it can further this good work by a price reduction and easy time payments.

DANISH FINANCIER
COMMITTS SUICIDE

At the Same Time One of
His Banks Fails to Open;
Blame Speculation.

Copenhagen, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Harald Plum, financier and promoter, was found shot this morning at about the same time the Folkebanken, with which one of his firms had done business, failed to open its doors. Police said he shot himself. The Folkebanken closed its doors and suspended payments after loss of several million kroner through engagements with two commercial firms, one of which was the Crown Butte Company, with which Plum was connected. Announcement of the suspension was made after a long session of the directors last night at which representatives of other Danish banks were present. It was charged the two defaulting firms engaged in bad bookkeeping and fraudulent practice.

Other Failure.
During the war Plum created the Danish Trans-Atlantic Company whose losses of several hundred million kroner recently caused the downfall of the Landmandsbank. He operated on a large scale and was reported to have made millions through the sale of Danish recoil rifles. He was a man of great personal vanity and recently published an autobiography with photographs of the crowned heads of Europe, creating a belief he had met them during the war.

HEBRON

About 92 were present at the annual banquet and roll call of the Hebron Center, Congregational Church, held Saturday evening at the church parlors. This is the largest attendance recorded at any of these meetings. Philip Clark was toast master. At the close of the supper Albert Hilding, church clerk, gave the roll call and those present responded with brief remarks or passages of scripture. The business meeting was then held and officers were elected for the year. Edward A. Smith, who was chairman of the church committee the past year was reelected on the committee but Lucius Robinson will serve as chairman this year, with the other member Edward A. Raymond, whose office is also unexpired. W. C. Robinson was reelected as treasurer and Albert Hilding as clerk. A committee of three was elected for missionary project work. They are Mrs. Edward A. Smith, Miss Anne Clark and Mrs. George A. Little. The Gleed church has taken as its project in missionary work the assisting of the Rev. John S. Porter, a missionary at Austria, formerly from Gleed. SCIENTIST CAN BUILD
AN INFANT TO ORDER

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Yasuhiro Noguchi, Japanese biologist, returned today from Brazil with the announcement that after an extensive study of racial characteristics he can practically build an infant to order.

Through the use of ultra-violet rays and stimulation or diminution of glandular activity, he said, an infant's growth may be retarded or increased and its stature, breadth of shoulder and other physical characteristics may be fixed.

Dr. Noguchi, who has studied the jungle inhabitants under a grant from the Japanese government, claims that by electrical nutrition and glandular control he could change an Indian into a negro or a Japanese into a Caucasian. Racial characteristics, he said, are the result of a combination of glandular secretions and physical environment.

He leaves tomorrow for San Francisco on his way back to Japan.

TODAY IS THE

DANIEL WEBSTER.

Today is the 77th anniversary of the death of Daniel Webster, famous American statesman, orator and constitutional lawyer, on Oct. 24, 1852, at his home at Marshfield, Mass.

Hardly in the history of the country has there been a more general expression of sorrow; the mourning can only be compared with that which followed the deaths of Washington and Lincoln.

Early in life, Webster won distinction as a lawyer. In 1812 he was first elected to Congress by the party opposed to the war with England. In 1820 he delivered the oration at Plymouth on the second centennial on the landing of the Mayflower, in 1825 an oration at the laying of the cornerstone of the Bunker Hill monument, and in 1826 an eulogy on Adams and Jefferson—three addresses which established his fame as one of the greatest of orators.

Many of Webster's sound principles have been incorporated in the Federal Reserve Bank system. As secretary of state he brought to successful conclusion the negotiations with Lord Ashburton for the settlement of the northeast boundary dispute with Great Britain.

His last great speech, one of the most notable, was delivered to Congress on the Compromise Measures of 1850.

His hopes of being nominated and elected president were never realized.

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED
AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE scorns that ancient prejudice which harshly dictated that age was a limiting factor of usefulness. To-day, old age not only commands respect but demands its place in every walk of life.
"toasting did it"—
Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.
YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."
"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.
Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

THURSDAY, OCT. 24, 1929

ing to hold in scorn all the traditions and conventions of regularly trained physicians and surgeons, offers remedies or methods somehow miraculously revealed to him.
 The "roots-and-yarbs" street corner fakir of some years back, the Indian medicine pitchman who is not yet altogether unknown, the magical bonesetter, the hundred and one "paths" whose shingles appear in towns and cities—these individuals attract to themselves almost instant followings among people who frequently regard highly educated medical and surgical scientists with cynical suspicion.

Over in Danbury there was a "bonesetter" who described himself in more high sounding terms. He had an X-ray machine and, presumably, some power or gift altogether beyond the ken of the humdrum medical school graduate. When a latter broke his arm throwing baseballs at a dodger at the Danbury fair he must needs have this bird set it. He could have gone to any physician in town in perfect confidence that after a time his arm would be all right. He preferred the magician, the person of mysterious native powers. Too tight bandaging produced gangrene. There was nothing for the regular physicians, to whom he at last appealed, to do but cut off the arm.

Now the latter is suing the bonesetter for $50,000 and the latter has been arrested for illegal practice. As to the criminal proceedings there will be little objection by right thinking people. But to us there is a serious doubt whether, in the civil action, the bone-setter could not with effect set up the defense of contributory negligence.

If men and women persist in putting themselves in the hands of charlatans and quacks, through their inherent preference for magic over practical skill, it is almost a question whether the courts shouldn't let them collect their damages through incantations instead of through legal channels.

THE FALL CASE
 Whether it will be possible for President Hoover's law enforcement commission to set on foot reforms in the administration of justice which will actually, in the end, achieve important results, it is impossible even to guess. There is no evil from which America suffers that is apparently so firmly fastened upon this civilization as the colossal machine of circumlocution, delay and futility which assumes to administer the criminal law. There may be greater evils, but none so strongly entrenched. Even crime itself, as old as the world and as widely distributed as the atmosphere, seems less hopeless of eradication than the determined ineptness of the criminal court system.

As this is written the case of Albert B. Fall, bribe taker, is about to go to the jury after a long and exhaustive trial. It is a ghastly commentary on the proceeding that the only question in the minds of the people is whether the jury will decide that Fall ought to be punished for his betrayal of his trust, for a cheap and sordid crime. There is no question of his guilt to be determined. That has already been definitely and finally settled by the Supreme Court of the United States in its finding that the whole transaction of the Elks Hill oil reserve lease between Fall and Doheny was "shot through with fraud."

Whatever the law enforcement commission succeeds or fails in doing, it is urgently to be hoped that in some way or other it will devise a plan whereby it will be beyond the power of a jury in a minor court to ignore and overturn the verdict of the highest tribunal in the land in the same specific case.

IF TARIFF BILL FAILS
 The voice of authority is heard when Representative John Q. Tilson of the New Haven district of Connecticut asserts his belief that there will be no tariff legislation at all and that the existing tariff will in all probability continue indefinitely. Mr. Tilson is convinced that the House will have nothing whatever to do with the Senate provision for elimination of the flexible tariff law or with the farm debenture measure which has been tacked onto the Smoot-Hawley bill in the Senate. And if there is anybody likely to know the mind of the House it is its majority leader.

While it is undoubtedly true that in special cases there have been sufficient alterations in conditions in the last few years to make tariff revision desirable, the fact remains that the existing tariff has served for the protection of American industries during the period of the nation's most remarkable prosperity. Another interesting point is that, according to Mr. Tilson himself, the new bill makes no changes at all in the rates of 80 per cent of the items covered by the Payne-Aldrich tariff and that in only a very small part of the items that are affected there is any change of major importance.

Take into consideration also the fact that under the existing tariff only between three and three-and-a-half per cent of the manufactured commodities consumed in this country are imported, and we can see that failure to pass a tariff bill of any sort is not likely to have very serious consequences. We shall still be sufficiently protected in most of our industries and fairly well protected in the rest.

THE STOCK CRASH

With three billion dollars worth of paper values destroyed inside an hour in the terrific stock market slump yesterday, it is a noteworthy fact that there is not only no sign of undesirable reaction upon any legitimate business but that the country as a whole greets the near-panic with a long breath of relief.

Even if the decline in artificial values should continue for a considerable period and many more billions of paper values disappear there would still be no reason for anything but congratulation. The danger lay, not in a collapse of the bull market bubble, but in its continued expansion.

Of course thousands of speculators throughout the country have been sorely hit. No doubt many of them have been ruined or will be if the deflation continues. But their disaster is not of yesterday or today; it occurred at the moment when they bought their tremendously overpriced securities.

If a person pays a peddler thirty dollars for a five-dollar watch he cannot delude himself with the notion that his loss came on the subsequent day when he tried to sell it and ascertained its true value. It was not yesterday's crash in prices that ruined some speculators—it was the phony boosting of prices in the bull market.

The country will be infinitely better off if the writing off of these losses continues till the stock market quotations conform to approximately true values. But a lot of individuals are going to have to go to work who haven't been doing anything useful for a long time.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 24.—If, on this autumn day, with the bite of winter faintly felt, New York seems a bit unbearable, you can blame "Skipper" H. L. Hitchcock, of Sandusky, O.

By way of introduction, "Skipper" Hitchcock steamed into Manhattan's waterways the other day in his good fishing tug The Sport, and cast anchor far up the Hudson.

Then he wandered down to call upon his favorite aunt, to whom happens to be mine. Up to that moment, I had not known of Captain Hitchcock, and it's just as well. So far as I am concerned, gentlemen who are leisurely steaming through the canals and rivers of America, enroute to Florida, need not come up and tell me about it. Particularly when the hectic winter season is getting under way and the rush and crane and bustle become particularly nerve-destroying.

Sitting alongside the desk on which these paragraphs are being composed, the "skipper" related as how there had been legislation enacted in Columbus, O., this year whereby the "gill fishermen"—whatever they may be—were all but put out of business.

"So I just packed up my kit, got me a log book and started on a one-man cruise," he began. "I've been taking my time about it and now I'm heading for the Florida coast, by way of the Chesapeake and Norfolk. Yep, I'm a one-man crew.

 "You know what I came up for?"
 "I shook my head."
 "Well, it always seemed to me you fellows who get around so much—going everywhere and getting all kinds of people—must have more fun than anybody in the world. Here y're in New York. Now take me, I get all fuddled up when I looked around at the buildings here and at the mobs of people. I'd like to be different—like to be like you fellows sometime. I read about all the fun in the Sandusky paper—and I kinda wanted to see what you fellows looked like and hear something about it."
 —And there you are!
 "I'd give the shirt that's down home from the laundry tomorrow to go lazing in the country and rivers and bays in a little old fishing tug.
 It's the old story—everybody

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington—The railroad lobbyists were working on Congress in the eighteen-forties. For several decades they fought vigorously for grants of money and land and collected both for their employers in large jobs.

Activities of the railroad lobby here in recent years have been largely confined to defensive tactics against further government regulation, but the old railroad lobby which functioned in palmer days appears to have been the instrument of an astonishing amount of bribery and corruption in Congress.

The railroad lobbyists followed naturally in the wake of the early land lobbyists, canal company lobbyists and bank lobbyists. The job of these groups was to work on members of Congress and officials who were not already controlled by the interests which the lobbyists represented—as many of them were.

A Lot of Bribery

In chronological order, the railroad lobby rose to power on the heels of the land lobbyists, who had established a remarkable record in corrupting Congress and state legislatures. The United States Bank, which Andrew Jackson fought and defeated, was accustomed to disport the worthless notes of Congressmen and had Daniel Webster, for instance, on its payroll at one time. How much money the bank spent on Congress does not appear in the records, but a legislative committee found in 1840 that it had paid bribes amounting to $130,000 in Pennsylvania.

The railroad men put in their earliest strokes on the legislators, but they soon had Congress working for them. Hundreds of millions of dollars in cash were turned over to established companies and between 1850 and 1872 Congress gave 155,000,000 acres of land either directly to railroad corporations or to various states to be transferred to railroad corporations.

Railroad representatives lobbied here for laws which would make fraudulent processes easier and in cases where construction promises had not been kept were able to persuade Congress to extend the period for construction if they failed to finish. They had law after law passed removing the various restricting conditions, until the railroads had the hundreds of millions of acres under their absolute control.

The Illinois Central was the first railroad to get a land grant from Congress. It received a gift of 2,600,000 acres of Illinois land and later collected $5 to $15 an acre from settlers on it. Thanks to national generosity it was later estimated that the promoters of the road obtained it at a bonus of some $2,000,000 over what they paid in.

It was during this pre-Civil War period that stigma came to be attached to the name "lobbyist." Opportunities for corruption were so great, both in Washington and the state capitals, that lobbyists could hardly fail to be successful in their work.

Steamship owners, headed by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, maintained a powerful lobby in this period which aided them in obtaining enormous subsidies for mail-carrying.

Lobbies for and against various bills dealing with slavery were conspicuous. The Anti-Slavery Society, active in politics, controlled some senators and representatives just as the Anti-Saloon League does today.

One writer says that "probably never has there been a more persistent and energetic lobby than existed when President Buchanan tried to force slavery on Kansas with the Lecompton bill." The Lecompton lobby was directed by Cornelius Wendell, who had the administration behind him. Wendell had been clearing up to $100,000 a year from public printing contracts and his bank account rose a million dollars in two years.

He always had his check book ready, one reads. Newspapers were bought, subsidized or founded to attack anti-Lecompton members and the friends of those members were discharged from their federal jobs in postoffices, customs houses, government bureaus and navy yards.

In this period also flourished Pendleton's gambling house on Pennsylvania avenue, which Pendleton called "The Palace of Fortune," but which was commonly known in Washington as "The Hall of the Bleeding Heart."

Presidential candidates, cabinet members, senators and representatives gathered there at night with lobbyists.
 An Aid to the Lobby
 "Pendleton's, in its palmer days, might have been called the vestibule of the lobby," wrote Benjamin Perley Poore in his reminiscences. "Its most distinguished professors might be found there. They lent money to clients with the 'anxious scratch' too roughly, that is to say, when the play ran against them and they became broke, as they sometimes did."

Pendleton himself was an operator in the lobby. His professional position gave him great facilities. He assisted in the passage of many useful bills of a private nature, involving considerable sums of money. A broker in parliamentary notes is an inevitable retainer of broker voters.
 It was a magnificent place, decorated with works of art and the most expensive furniture and boasting gold or silver plate, marvelous cooking and rare wines.
 When Pendleton died, Poore recalled that Buchanan attended his funeral and the pallbearers included several prominent Democratic congressmen.

Tomorrow: How lovely lady lobbyists influenced Congress 75 years ago.

A LESSON ON CHOPS
 During the summertime many people find it convenient to eat chops on picnics, since they may be quickly cooked over a small fire, and do not take up much room in packing. Travelers touring the country in their cars may stop in towns and buy chops which they can pack on a piece of ice and carry right along with them until the urge to stop and eat comes on, when they can build a camp fire and broil their chops, cooked out of doors and served with a large salad.

The chop meal will be found to be appetizing, inexpensive, pleasing to the appetite, and still without providing such a heavy meal that stiffness will result throughout the afternoon. Different kinds of chops are desirable during the summer months, since they cook quickly, and the housewife does not need to heat up the kitchen as much as is necessary when roasts are cooked.

Many people like pork chops who do not care for other kinds of meat, and it is no doubt true that pork chops do have a certain agreeable flavor which has caused many would-be vegetarians away from their well laid principles of not using flesh foods. It is much better however to use only a limited amount of any kind of pork meat, especially with those who have digestive disturbances. The protein particles of the pork seem to be so interwoven with the fat that those with faulty digestions find difficulty in digesting the fat and protein together.

One of the best ways to prepare pork meat is in the form of pork chops with at least part of the fat removed before cooking. They should then be broiled under a broiler, and cooked thoroughly. Many cooks make the mistake of not cooking pork well enough. This is especially true when the broiler is used, as the fire is often too hot and the outside of the meat becomes so brown that it is completely cooked on the inside.

Broiling is really a modern version of the old-time "split" on which the meat is revolved before the fire. In order to cook the meat thoroughly in this way, one variety of the old-time spit was connected with some sort of music box that played a certain number of times, enabling the cook to tell when the meat was done. Perhaps the modern housewife might be able to time her cooking by running so many records on the phonograph. But better yet, I would advise her to buy a modern stove with one of the timing devices which can be set to turn off the fire and ring a clock exactly to the minute.

With a little practice cooking different kinds of meat, the housewife can soon learn the exact time required for cooking each kind of meat or other food.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 Swollen Gland
 Question: Mary R. writes: "I have a swollen gland in my neck and am writing to you to ask what is good for it. I have had it lanced a couple of times but after a while it seems to come back. It doesn't hurt me. I am a strong healthy girl of sixteen and some people say I will outgrow it, but I don't think so."
 Answer:—Your only hope to cure the swollen gland is to take a careful diet which will not overload your lymphatic circulation. It is best, for a short time, to eliminate all of the heavy foods such as starches, sugars, meats, etc., and live on fruits and green vegetables for a month or two and give your glands a chance to empty themselves of any accumulated wastes. Lancing only injures the glands still further, and extends the trouble to other glands nearby. Hot applications or electrical treatments are sometimes helpful in emptying out the swollen glands.

Colded Eggs
 Question: Mrs. J. asks: "Will you please explain how to cook colded eggs?"
 Answer:—Place the unbroken eggs in a deep pan which is not standing on the fire, and pour over

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE CAUSED KING'S DEATH

London, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Pharaoh had high blood-pressure, and Fundamentals will rejoice in the scientific interpretation of "and the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh," as he hardened not unto them," furnished by Lord Moyinhan, president of the Royal College of Surgeons, in a lecture at Leeds last night.

Basing his assertions on an examination of the large vessel springing from the heart of the Pharaoh, which had been found in such a state of preservation that could be compared with that taken from a man recently dead, Lord Moyinhan said, it was certain blood pressure was high. The vessel was apt therefore to give way, forming aneurism. Mental changes went with that rigid arterial system, producing a narrowing of outlook, loss of enthusiasm, dread of new adventures and restrictions of all enterprises.

VETERANS' INSURANCE SHOWS AN INCREASE

Hartford, Oct. 24.—According to information released by Major T. J. Bannigan, Regional Manager of the United States Veterans' Bureau for Connecticut, there has been a substantial net increase in the number and amount of U. S. Government Life Insurance carried by World War veterans in this state.

The insurance actuarial report as of October 1, shows that 7,216 veterans are carrying $,792 government insurance policies amounting in value to $28,738,500. The actual net increase in value of the insurance in force since April 1, according to this report, amounts to $475,500.

During the month of September insurance premiums collected by the Hartford Regional office of the Veterans' Bureau totaled $67,739.89.

In releasing these figures to the public, the Veterans' Bureau is stressing the fact that in March of next year the government insurance time limit will end. After this date those who have allowed their War Risk insurance to lapse will be unable to reinstate it.

Earnings of the United States Government Life Insurance fund have been higher so far this year than any previous year, the director of the Veterans' Bureau, Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, announced this week. The government now has outstanding 650,000 policies, representing an obligation of more than $3,000,000,000, it was explained. If the satisfactory condition continues the Bureau undoubtedly will be able to increase the dividends on life insurance policies, it was stated. The text of the announcement follows:

At the close of 1928 there were $360,172,852 in the fund, while this year up to August 31, we already had $405,107,900. The earnings have shown a steady percentage of increase from 4.527 per cent in 1926 to 4.699 per cent in 1928 and the indications are that the close of 1928 will show a still further increase.

The Bureau paid $5,961,484 in premiums to policy holders in 1928, while the dividends paid this year to August 31, aggregate $4,821,194 with four months still to go. If this satisfactory condition continues it will undoubtedly enable the Bureau to increase the dividends on government life insurance policies.

Veterans Bonus. According to the present law the Adjusted Compensation Act, commonly known as the bonus, whereby ex-service men and women are entitled to this compensation, will be finally closed on January 2, 1930, Major Bannigan also announces.

Ex-service men who have not already applied for their adjusted compensation are urged to do so at once as less than three months remain in which to apply. As the time limit has been extended on this act several times, it is doubtful that Congress will give any additional time in which to apply for this compensation. The offices of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau and veteran organizations will also furnish the necessary application blanks.

Britain proposes to bar the mentally unfit from marriage. That ought to work out pretty well if the mentally unfit can be barred from the committees that will pass upon who is or isn't mentally fit.

Boy Picked Up in Norwalk Remembers Only That He

Norwalk, Oct. 24.—(AP)—While police were trying to piece together his story of having left high school in search of a job, and then remembering nothing more, Walter Morehouse, 15, of Milford, lay seriously ill in the Norwalk hospital, suffering from a concussion of the brain and a fractured left shoulder.

The boy was standing on one side of the Boston post road here late last night when his dazed condition attracted the attention of passersby and he was taken to a hospital. At the hospital the lad was unable to identify himself. The physicians obtained merely incoherent stories from him. He mentioned high school as the last place he had been but he failed to locate the school. After being informed of the boy's condition the local police connected the lad with a disappearance case. The parents of the boy were then notified in Milford and the father came to Norwalk early this morning to complete identification.

Doctors are of the opinion that the boy fell from a truck on which he had hitched a ride.

EXCELLENT GIFT BOXES FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS

Mrs. Thomas J. Lewis of Manchester Green who is a member of the state patriotic education committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and who was appointed to have charge of the packing and shipment of a box of supplies to a southern school for American whites, described the contents of the package to a Herald reporter today. It weighed 65 pounds and represented contributions of new articles from 29 different chapters throughout the state. The gifts of new bed linen, towels, clothing and books were sent to one of the two schools which the national society conducts, one in Alabama and one in South Carolina. The box in question was shipped to an industrial school in Pamassee, South Carolina, which was organized in 1919 and is supported by the D. A. R. Eleven teachers are employed at the institution.

DANCE AT THE GREEN ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Every Saturday evening finds the assembly hall of the Manchester Green school filled with a merry party of dancers, and a record crowd is expected at the dance this week. The young people's committee from the Manchester Green Community club, which runs these socials, is planning to give a Halloween dance Saturday night with special decorations and lighting effects and novelties and noisemakers for the dancers.

Bill Waddell's orchestra continues to play at the Green every Saturday evening, and that in itself is a big drawing card. Dan Miller prompts for the old-fashioned dances which occur just often enough to make an interesting program.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Another deluge of selling orders swept the stock list in the late forenoon today as bear traders wrested control from the bull faction which had been partially successful in stemming the tide of liquidation shortly after the opening.

Steel fell 3 points below the Wednesday close. Radio and General Motors tumbled to new lows: American Telephone dropped 6 and Columbia Gas 3-2.

Kennecott Copper, which had risen 11 points on an opening sale of 20,000 shares, lost 4 points of its advance. Auburn Auto slumped 16. Losses of 5 to 6 points occurred in National Cash Register, Peoples Gas, Industrial Rayon and Borg Warner.

The few points of strength as the noon hour approached included New York Central, up fractionally, and American Can and Bethlehem Steel, up 1 each.

The ticker was more than three-quarters of an hour late shortly before 12 o'clock.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent.

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—
Remember Bayer Aspirin! For there is scarcely any pain it cannot relieve, and relieve promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, or the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might so easily be checked; to neuritis, neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Bayer Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

For your own protection, buy the genuine. Bayer is safe. It's always the same. It never depresses the heart, so use it as often as needed; but the cause of any pain can be treated only by a doctor.

Lewis' Own Seconds Bring About Defeat

Sonnenberg Dives Out of Ring Missing Flying Tackle But Error by Lewis' Second Saves Him Title.

Los Angeles, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg still is world champion wrestler today, chiefly because of aid unintentionally given him by seconds of Ed "Strangle" Lewis in their bout here last night. "Dynamite" Gus took the first and third falls with his flying tackle, but the second when Lewis employed the headlock, of which he is the chief exponent. Sonnenberg was saved from disqualification by precipitate action on the part of Lewis' seconds after the champion had launched himself inadvertently to floor Lewis with a flying tackle in the last fall. Sonnenberg fell heavily into the press box and required 18 of the allowed 20 seconds time to pull himself back into the ring. As he dragged himself through the ropes one of Sonnenberg's seconds rushed to his side. Immediately Lewis' seconds, apparently believing the champion was disqualified by the entrance of his second into the ring, also rushed in, causing the referee to declare no default had been committed. The champ, as the bout was ordered to proceed, leaped at Lewis again, caught him squarely and crushed him to the mat for the last fall.

HARRY KIPKE "BABY" OF BIG TEN COACHES.

Chicago.—(AP)—Harry Kipke, 27 years old, making his debut as football coach at the University of Michigan, is the youngest in the conference. The oldest is Amos Alonzo Stagg, 67, beginning his thirty-eighth year at the University of Chicago.

SUCCESS FOR SHAWKEY?

No doubt Bob Shawkey faces a tough job as manager of the Yanks. The team must go through a process of rebuilding and experimenting. Such a period has cost the reputations of many managers. You have to hand it to red-shirted Bob, however; he's the man.

Right now the Yankees need pitchers. That is Bob's racket. He was always a smart pitcher. Away back in 1914, his first year as a regular with Connie Mack, Shawkey won 16 games and lost 11. He may develop one or two good hurlers to help the Yanks get by next year. But development of pitchers usually is a long process. No Enemies. Shawkey is well-liked. Baseball men respect him. It is doubtful if he has a single enemy in baseball today. The Yankees were meat for the Athletics this year. Several baseball men have said that row, with a manager who is a quitter and a bit of the Mackian strategy, the team may make a better showing against the A's in 1930. That, of course, is a wild guess, as all predictions about Mack's strategy must be.

Dan Howley, the new manager at Cincinnati, who faces no small job himself this year, praised Shawkey the other day in no uncertain words. "Shawkey is a regular fellow," said Dan. "He knows his baseball and ought to make a fine leader for the team."

Bob Changes Suits. As Shawkey takes the job, an interesting character who played an important part in the wonderful record established by the Yankees goes to Cincinnati—Bob Meusel. Here is a man who has been with the Yankees all "great guy." He is the man Miller Huggins once told, "Bob, you are just as good an outfielder as you want to be."

Bob is a quiet player, ordinarily. But in the New York-Pittsburgh world series, he showed himself to be a man of some parts after Catcher "Oil" Smith awakened his temper with a careless remark. Whatever Smith said to Meusel, it aroused Bob's fury. "If I ever get to third base," Bob told Oil, "I'm going to steal home and I hope you are there waiting for me."

Just Like That. It happened. Meusel got to third base. And he came tearing in on the path to the plate like a tiger. A tiger, however, with his gleaming teeth on the soles of his shoes. Smith saw the teeth. And dropped the ball. "I'll stake the fellow who can tell me where all the star attractions are coming from to keep these new fight arenas going this winter," declares Scotty Monteth, manager of Detroit's big arena, one of the finest in the country. "There'll be a lot of us poor promoters ready for the wash by the time the indoor season fades away before the warm spring breezes."

Monteth blames the fighters of today. The fight game has turned completely around inside of two years, he says. Once there were great scrappers and no big places in which they could get the money. Now the places are available but the fighters are absent.

LITTLE THREE SERIES TO OPEN ON SATURDAY

Captain Jimmy Bogg to Be In Wesleyan's Starting Lineup at Amherst; Latter Is Favorite.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 24.—The New England "Little Three" series will open Saturday and for this annual football contest the greater part of Wesleyan undergraduate body will accompany the Cardinal and Black teams to Amherst. Against Lord Jeff, Coach Bill Wood will send an eleven that during the first part of the season has frequently shown power and versatility of attack but which in crucial moments, particularly in forward pass defense, has faltered. As the squad leaves for the Bay State Captain Jimmy Bogg, exception secondary defense man as well as a reliable ground gainer, is an uncertain quantity. Wood hopes that Columbia game injuries will have healed sufficiently to warrant his playing at full back and the tentative lineup for the Amherst contest will be at right half. Line plays has been more satisfactory and the combination is likely to be: Steege, le; Lum, it; Coffin, rg; Miller, c; Eldridge, rg; Schwenk, lt; Gray, re. Wood will take along thirty-three men, three full teams and his most likely substitutions on the line are McDowell center, Means and Joyce guards, Sweet and Wiggers tackles, Frescoln and O'Dell ends.

Blakeslee is probably to be used for a part of the game in the backfield as his kicking may be needed. Taylor, Hodgman and Wilcox are other backs ready for substitute service. No small portion of the time during the week has given over to building over an effective defense against the forward pass and the result of the game may depend upon the degree in which the lesson has been learned. Comparative scores give Amherst a lead as the Connecticut Aggies won from Wesleyan by two touchdowns after losing to Amherst by the victory of two years ago when the pre-game comparison was equally unpromising. Last year the game ended in a 20-20 tie.

Meehan Says Negro Quarter Won't Play

New York, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Dave Meehan, N. Y. U. quarterback—a negro—will not play against the University of Georgia November 9. Coach "Chick" Meehan announced today. The Violet mentor added that he never had intended to play the chap who was shifted from a guard position to that of field general immediately before the university's last game. The announcement of Coach Meehan came at the peak of heated comment upon the possibility of Meehan playing against the Southwesterners by the newspapers of this section and was the first official statement on the subject.

MARMONS PLAY MAJORS SUNDAY

High School at West Hartford Tomorrow; Cubs vs. Bridgeport.

Manager Bill Griffin of the Majors football team of the north end announced this morning that he had booked the crack Marmons of Chicopee, Mass., to play at Hickey's Grove Sunday afternoon. The Marmons are said to have an exceptionally fast team, one that was capable of holding the crack Fere Marquettas of Boston to a 6 to 0 decision. Another feat to their credit is a scoreless tie with the Red Devils of North Adams. The Cubs tackle the Sokol Rosobuds of Bridgeport at Mt. Nebo Sunday. The High school eleven will not play in town until next week Friday when Lewis High of Southington comes here. Tomorrow the locals travel to West Hartford for a league encounter.

Now Toledo Is Out For Shires

Toledo, O., Oct. 24.—Lena Blackburne isn't the only man nursing a grudge against Lombastic Arthur Shires. Several hundred Toledoans are yelling for revenge. It seems that Mr. Shires and a band of his major league cronies were slated to appear here on a recent Sunday to meet a local ball team. The event was widely advertised by the Toledo Baseball Federation and several hundred fans assembled at the baseball park to witness the antics of the "soaking" White Sox player and his cohorts. The great Shires and his team failed to show up, leaving the T. B. K. and the fans stranded and crying for help.

"He might have Blackburne's number but he can't pull that stuff on me," declared Hank Rigney, secretary of the Federation, who immediately swung into vengeful action against the White Sox bad boy. At last reports he was demanding that Judge Landis punish Shires.

NEW MAIL DEVICE

Berlin, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Transference of mail bags in the air from mail planes, to planes ascending to meet them at way stations is the newest development of the Luft-hansa. Experiments at Tempelhof airfield have been most successful, the mail being dropped and picked up by means of a hanging cable with a forklift hook attachment. The cable is designed to break easily if caught, thereby preventing a crash. It is thought the device also will be used on Zeppelins.

SPORT SLANTS

Alan J. Gould

The All-American debate will be on shortly, if it hasn't already started. Most of the discussion, as usual, will dwell upon the exploits of the ball-carriers. For variety, look into the achievements of these few line-men, so far among the most outstanding:

- Sam Wakeman, Cornell, tackle and captain.
- Bert Schwartz, California guard.
- Morris Bodenger, Tulane guard.
- Jap Douds, Washington & Jefferson guard.
- Jone Donchess, Pittsburgh end.

Wakeman, Schwartz and Douds, on one and the same afternoon, put on about as spectacular a set of performances along the forward line as has been witnessed anywhere so far this season. Against Princeton, Wakeman was up and down the line to break up four successive Tiger plays at a time when Cornell was hard pressed to protect its winning lead. Cornell, under Dobie, has specialized in turning out great tackles, and Wakeman looks like one of the best, as good as Hanson or Sundstrom of All-American fame. Douds was a big factor the same day in W. & J.'s scoreless tie with Carnegie. He is playing his last year with the Presidents and apparently set to make it his greatest. Stanford had a brace of fine guards last year in Post and Robeskey, but neither ever put on a better one-day performance than Mr. Schwartz of Berkeley did against Pennsylvania. It seemed as though he made about 50 per cent of the tackles, shifting his 200 pounds around with the agility of a panther pouncing upon its prey.

Bodenger is hailed as one of the best linemen in the South. "He weighs 195 pounds, is very fast and in almost every line play when he is in the game," writes an observer of the Tulane Green Wave.

Two of the East's greatest ball-carriers are the Army's incomparable Red Cagle and Dartmouth's wily Al Marsters, fast fulfilling all the rosy promise of his sophomomore year. Notre Dame has a fleet set of backs, with Jack Elder the fastest if not also the slipperiest. Minnesota's Arthur Pharrmer and Iowa's captain, Willis Glassgow, are two of the Big Ten stars, and Nebraska's Clair Sloan has come into his own after playing second fiddle to the great Blue Howell.

Russell Saunders and Jesse Hill of Southern California, Harold Rother, the Stanford spotter, and California's elusive Benny Lom and slippery Leland Eisan are among the best on the coast.

Easterners who had heard most about Lom over the radio had a good chance to observe this triple threat back in action against Pennsylvania. He does everything well, and it will be some time before he puts on any better defensive stunt than he did by booting 60 yards to safety from behind his own goal line after a 15-yard penalty had put California on its own 2-yard line at Franklin Field. Lom has a great running mate in Eisan, who catches punts like an outfielder spears line drives. Playing bareheaded, Eisan reminded Easterners of Bob Sims, who scored headgear while running wild for Stanford last year.

Carnegie Charges

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching makes 14 salient charges against college athletics, as follows:

- 1—One-seventh of all athletes and from 25 to 50 per cent of the football players are subsidized.
- 2—Recruiting has advanced to point where school stars hawk their services.
- 3—Commercialization has caused abandonment of game for game's sake.
- 4—Exaggerated athletics emphasis has diverted many institutions from intellectual development.
- 5—Many officials are guilty of evading regulations regarding recruiting.
- 6—Press exploitation has brought "demoralizing publicity."
- 7—Too much attention given "general public" whims in schedules.
- 8—Only 28 of 112 colleges were not engaged in recruiting.
- 9—High school athletes burned out before college days by "pressure."
- 10—Alumni inveigle stars into college.
- 11—Coaches too busy "in field" to teach sportsmanship.
- 12—Relations reversed in many instances where preventable if not encouraged.
- 13—Recruiting and subsidization has disgusted many alumni.
- 14—College heads have evaded responsibility for commercialization.

Princeton was found to be one of a few institutions which effected arrangements with preparatory schools "whereby athletes, varying in number from one to as many as twenty, have been wholly or partly maintained at the schools until they are ready for college. Others named in this connection were Brown, Carnegie Tech, Dartmouth, Dickinson, Lafayette, N. Y. U., Pittsburgh, Syracuse and Washington and Jefferson. But at Princeton, says the report, the practices referred to "have been abolished." At Harvard concessions for the sale of refreshments were found to be allotted exclusively to athletes but William J. Bingham, director of athletics announces "plans are at present under way, for placing these concessions beyond the control or direct interest of athletes. The foundation report, which may become famous as "Bulletin No. 33" in its revelations and effects, runs the gamut of methods, practices and conditions but focuses principally upon what the investigators characterize as "the deepest shadow that darkens American college and school athletics"—the widespread practice of recruiting and subsidizing athletes. "Those who tempt young men to barter their honesty for the supposed advantages of a college course, dishonestly achieved, are the Fagins of American sport and American higher education," said the 338-page bulletin prepared by Howard J. Savoy, staff member of the foundation; Harold W. Bentley, John T. McGovern and Dean F. Smiley. Placing the responsibility squarely upon the shoulders of college coaches, the authors find that "in the murky there are many brighter patches" and that "the university or college that, under capable leadership, makes up its collective mind to cast out these practices, can do so."

"Portions of the picture are even blakier than they have been painted," the investigators assert in concluding the illuminating section on recruiting and subsidizing. The facts are given and institutions frankly and impartially named whether in criticism or in praise. This marks the first probe of American athletics by the Carnegie Foundation, which has published findings on English athletics but otherwise concentrated chiefly on the study of general or special educational subjects, such as law, dentistry.

"The schoolboy notion that athletic ability can be turned to advantage is so widespread that the mercenary athlete seldom waits for solicitation. In common parlance, he starts 'showing.' Pay Prep Expenses. "In the East, relations have been established between certain private preparatory schools on the one hand and certain colleges and universities on the other, whereby athletes, varying in number from one to as many as 20, have been wholly or partly maintained at the schools until they are ready for college. Brown, Carnegie Tech, Dartmouth, Dickinson, Lafayette, New York University, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Syracuse, Washington and Jefferson. "Local fraternity chapters may provide certain athletes' members with rooms or board or with both at so low a figure that the arrangement can be regarded only as an athletic subsidy (Franklin and Marshall, New York University, Ohio Wesleyan, Oregon Agricultural, Pennsylvania State.) "Any favor. However small, that tends to assist an athlete financially, if it is done because he is an athlete, marks the beginning of professionalism."

BACHARACH AGAINST DEBENTURE CLAUSE

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Representative Bacharach, Republican, New Jersey, in a statement today said the House would not pass the tariff bill unless the debenture clause was eliminated, and the flexible provisions desired by the administration were restored.

Bacharach, second ranking member of the House ways and means committee, who probably would be one of the House conferees on the bill, said he did not believe the House would instruct its conferees to vote for the tariff bill with the debenture clause in it. It was the House that forced the elimination of the debenture in the farm bill. He also said he did not believe there would be any tariff bill passed unless the debenture clause was discarded.

Revision by the Senate of the flexible provisions gave Congress instead of the President the right to revise tariff duties likewise. Bacharach said, would be unacceptable to the House.

OPENING STOCKS

General Motors opened with a block of 20,000 shares at 56 1/2, off a point to another new low for the year.

Plans to Put Into Effect Certain Proposal Suggested At Recent Meeting.

Geneva, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The question of an international "tariff truce" held the spotlight today when the League of Nations committee on economic activities met to consider means of putting into effect certain proposals of the recent Assembly session.

An American business man, Lucius Eastman of New York, is here to take part in the deliberations of this group in what is regarded as one of the outstanding economic schemes of the present century.

The economic committee's task is to devise methods for operating the five-fold program adopted by the Assembly in its campaign to remove obstacles to trade, obtain economic disarmament, and establish international economic cooperation.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The scarecrow, tied fast to the tree, looked just as funny as could be. He tried real hard to wiggle loose, but it was all in vain. He didn't like his prison place and so a frown spread on his face. At first the Tinymites thought it was because he was in pain. Then Scouty laughed and said, "Don't fret. We haven't hurt his scarecrow yet. He's merely made of straw and hay and cannot feel a thing. What shall we do to make him sad and sorry that he's acted back? It's our turn now to pay him back, 'cause he's had his fling."

JAIL LOOMS FOR SLOVEN SOLDIERS

Summary Court to Deal With C. N. G. Men Who Are Careless Absentees.

A Hartford newspaper recently carried an account of two National Guardsmen who had been committed to the county jail for failure to pay fines imposed for absence from drill without leave. One of these men's fines was sufficient to keep him in jail for 240 days. It developed that, once the man had been lodged in jail, the military authorities had no power to bring about his release so that he might pay the fine from civilian wages.

Several members of the Howitzer Company of Manchester recently appeared before the summary court officer of the regiment and substantial fines were imposed on them for absence from drills. In each case a reasonable length of time was given in which to pay the fines. If they do not pay up the delinquents will have to work out their fines in jail at fifty cents a day.

It is expected by their officers that this action will be sufficient warning to other local guardsmen who have been careless in their attendance at drills and who have received notices of fines.

Not So Harsh
This disciplinary action is not as harsh as it appears at first glance. Any enlisted man who is obliged to miss drill because of illness or evening employment has only to present a certificate from the attending physician or the employer, as the case may be, to the company commander within a week from the date of absence. Fines are, therefore, not imposed upon men who conscientiously do their duty by presenting the proper excuses. The disciplinary action taken is directed at the carelessness of some men in presenting certificates and the deliberate absence of others on drill nights without any good reason at all.

Summary court is to be held each month and offenders will find their methods unprofitable as well as un-military. It is expected, however, that this course of action will result in much better attendance in both local units of the Guard and so very materially improve the general military efficiency of the companies.

New Uniforms To Aid
Most of the enlisted men here have received their new style uniforms which add to the appearance of the individual soldiers. It is expected that the remainder of the issue of uniforms will take place shortly after the Federal property inspection early next month. Men connected with the National Guard expect that the improvement in uniforming will mean much to the Guard as a whole and that men will be attracted to the service who have heretofore hesitated to enlist because of the poor appearance created by the war-surplus uniforms.

It is hoped that within a short time the local companies will have waiting lists and only those men best fitted to perform the duties of a soldier will be selected.

Thursday, December 5 is the date set by the Buckland Patent-Teacher association for its annual fair and entertainment in the school assembly hall. The Ways and Means committee will sponsor the undertaking, with Mrs. Andrew Healey as general chairman. Details have not been as yet worked out but it is proposed to have booths for the sale of aprons and gift articles, home made food and candies, and an entertainment program.
