Seven Masked Bandits Line Up Guests at House Party and Strip Them of Their Valuables.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Philip Metz, daughter of Norman E. Mack, Democratic national committeeman, who was stripped of jewels worth nearly $60,000 last night at the John L. Carson, Jr.'s party in Snyder, described her experiences under highly dangerous circumstances in the holdup in which $300,000 worth of gems are said to have been stolen.

Asked if she was afraid when the seven masked bandits entered the dining room and ordered the guests to throw up their hands, she said all the party thought it was a joke and felt no fear.

"They weren't so mean about it," she said, "just business like."

Thought It Joke.
"I was seated at a table nearest the door," she continued. "At first I thought it was being done for fun, but when the intruders started to tear off my pearls, I knew it was serious business."

"They grabbed a three-strand pearl necklace valued at $35,000 and then my other jewelry."
"When they had taken everything of value Mrs. Metz said that, feeling as though they couldn't rob her of anything more, she might as well laugh as cry about it."

"I said to them jokingly then that they had taken everything but my clothes, and asked if they would like them," she recalled.
"One of them picked up my pocket-book and took out five dollars which he dropped on the table, telling me I had better take it, as I looked as though I needed it."

"But they got away with the five dollars and the purse after all," Mrs. Metz said there were seven young men in the gang, and all were masked with handkerchiefs, she thought she might be able to identify two of them.

The other guests at the party,

NO INDEPENDENCE FOR ISLANDS SEEN

Filipino Leaders Say There Is No Hope for Speedy Action by Congress.

Manila, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Times today said that Filipino political leaders see no prospect of independence or anything approximating it during the next regular session of Congress in Washington.

"The newspapers asserted the leaders refused to be quoted but privately had admitted there was no prospect for independence in the immediate future. It pointed out that Manuel Quezon, president of the Senate, and Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the House, had warned the Filipino people against undue expectations.

"There is the belief that perhaps independence might be voted by the United States Senate," said the Times, "but no survey has shown any possibility that the House of Representatives would agree with a Senate vote on independence, and there is unanimity in the belief that President Hoover would veto independence."

Not to Visit U. S.
So strong is this conviction in political circles that neither Senate President Quezon, nor Senator Osmena (majority leader in the Upper House) will accompany the independence mission to the United States. The advance guard will consist of Speaker Roxas, Senator Sumulong and Representative Gil. Later other political and business leaders may make the trip.

"This is the 'low down,' of political comment and observers say the point is obvious. If there were to be granted independence, the two great political leaders, Quezon and Osmena, would want to be in on the 'kill.' Since the mission will get nothing, the two leaders will be spectators rather than participants in the failure."

AUTO MEN KILLED

Plainville, Mass., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Edward D. Hogan, 25, president of the Willy-Overland Company of Boston and Providence, R. I., was fatally injured today when an ice truck skidded and struck his automobile. His skull was fractured and he died while being taken to a North Attleboro hospital.

Hogan, who lived in Boston, was traveling towards Providence, the ice truck, driven by Reginald Zaino, of North Attleboro, was moving in an opposite direction. The truck was owned by Nels E. Hoffman, of North Attleboro. State police of Wrentham barracks began an investigation.

They Gave Freddie Big Scare

Then Presence of Lady of Color from the South Gets Woo Fong of Middletown Arrested Here.

With the memory of Tong war tragedies vivid in his mind and fearful that he was to be the victim of death at the hands of a fellow Chinaman, who entered his place last night, inquired as to business conditions and made an attempt to reach the rear of the building, Freddie Kwan, proprietor of the Golden Gate Laundry on Oak street, dashed into the store of Jacob H. Greenberg, adjoining, and asked that the police be called. They were.

This morning in police court a Chinese whom the police booked later as Thomas G. Kwang, alias Woo Fong, of 91 Collins street, Middletown, and Mrs. Nora Gorter of Charlotte, North Carolina, were charged with breach of peace and had their case continued until next Monday under bonds of $200 each. Woo Fong said in effect that he was just showing a friend from the south how Connecticut looked.

When Kwan dashed into Greenberg's he spoke incoherently, under great excitement, so there was some delay before the call for the police was made. When Patrolman Prentice arrived he met Greenberg on his way to Main street. The latter told Prentice that he had seen the Chinese walking towards Main street.

A Lady In Waiting
Thinking that the strange Chinaman might have gone to the laundry on Birch street, officer Prentice went there. Objections were raised when he started to search the room, but the policeman insisted. No trace of the man was found and Prentice returned to Main street.

At the curb on the corner stood a colored woman in an attitude of waiting. Then along came the Chinese stranger with his hands in his pockets. Prentice immediately nabbed him and learned that the woman was his companion. He took both to the police station.

MELLON'S TAX CUT TO BE SPEEDED UP

Rep. Tilson Says It Will Be Passed by House Before Christmas Holidays.

Washington, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican House leader, predicted after a call at the White House today that the Treasury tax reduction proposal would be passed by the House before the Christmas holidays.

Tilson said he canvassed the possibility of early passage of a tax bill with the President, and was confident no objection would be interposed in the House to this course.

One Per Cent Cut
The Treasury proposal is for a one per cent reduction in the individual and corporation rates.

The House leader said he had held conferences with various groups in the Senate and felt little difficulty would be met there.

"The plan of the secretary of treasury is simple and involves no material changes in the revenue laws and should be passed quickly," he said.

He added a resolution to carry out the reduction would be referred to the ways and means committee as soon as the December session convened.

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for November 13, were $5,859,779.72; expenditures $8,569,225.22; balance $131,611,878.41.

MARRIED, SKIPS WITH ANOTHER BUT LOSES HER

Joseph Wiley, Former Bank Clerk, Leaves Wife for Rockville Girl Who Quits Him for Her "Steady."

Three weeks ago yesterday Joseph Wiley, recently discharged as clerk at the Home Bank and Trust Company, and married for nearly two years to the former Miss Jennie Schaller, left town with Melania Roszewski of 22 Ellington avenue, Rockville, but who, during her employment at Al Gresel's store here was known as Molly Rogers. Today "Molly Rogers" is at her home in Rockville while Wiley is believed to be still in New York. Unusual circumstances surround her return in that she was brought back to Rockville by her "steady" of the past four years.

Wouldn't Return
Since the couple left town October 24 they have lived in New York and despite the attempts of both of the immediate families have refused to return home. Then when both families had about decided to let the matter slide the Rockville girl came home, brought back by the young man she was known to have been keeping company with. He had gone to New York and had taken her from Wiley.

How They Met
The Herald was in possession of all the facts of the affair the day after it took place but withheld them to give young Wiley a chance to make and redeem himself. Wiley made the acquaintance of the Rogers girl when she brought the daily deposits from Gresel's store to the bank. She had been employed by Gresel for about a month. Wiley knew nothing of it until the night before he left when one of her brothers decided it was for the best to tell her.

After their marriage the Wileys had been housekeeping on West Center street. However they were about to move into a new rent on Griswold street and until such time as it was finished were living with Mrs. Wiley's parents at 826 Center street.

Seek Funds
Both of the Rogers girls parents in Rockville and Wiley's parents in Mr. and Mrs. William Wiley of 27 Lila street, received telegrams asking for money. Through one of these messages the couple were located and the older brother of the runaway husband's bride accompanied by Wiley's parents went to New York and asked him to return which he refused to do.

William Roszewski, father of the girl, is employed as janitor at the Rockville post office, and is assisted by his wife.

Torrington Man and Pals Get Stiff Sentences for Setting Off Blast.

Winsted, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Joseph Costa of Torrington was found guilty this morning in Superior Court of dynamiting the home of Thomas J. Wall, former Torrington prosecuting attorney. He was sentenced to from 10 to 15 years in state prison.

Frank Rocco of Torrington and Pasquale Brun of Stamford who had previously pleaded guilty to the same charge were each sentenced to from 7 to 12 years. The sentences were imposed by Judge Edwin C. Dickenson.

Arguments by counsel of both sides preceded the imposition of the sentences. The state and defense had rested their cases yesterday.

This Negro Prisoner Is A Regular Houdini

Salem, Mass., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The next time Byron Jones, sometimes Byron Beattie, plays matches in his cell at the Salem jail he is going to get all wet.

His jailors today mounted a fire hose outside Byron's cell. Byron could look right into his menacing nozzle. It seems that time had been hanging heavily on the New York negro's hands while he has been awaiting trial for the $115,000 jewel robbery at the Beverly farms summer home of Sydney Hutchinson.

First, Byron amused himself by working on the bars of his cell with

Wouldn't Trade Love for Millions

A $26,000,000 fortune didn't make any difference when love was at stake. For pictured here—happy together in a dingy $5-a-week room at Oyster Bay, Long Island—are William W. Willock, Jr., son of the steel magnate, and his comely Swedish bride, who as a chambermaid in his father's household, was Adelaide Ingeorgesen. Once heir to town houses, broad acres, yachts, stables, kennels and fleets of high-priced cars, the 22-year-old youth now is supporting his flaxen-haired wife on his salary as a garage mechanic.

CRUISER AND FREIGHTER COLLIDE OFF NANTUCKET

Meet in Fog—Neither Ship Seriously Damaged and No One Hurt—Warship Makes Port.

Boston, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The United States Cruiser Marblehead the steam freighter Evansville were in collision in a fog about 25 miles off Nantucket early today. Neither ship was seriously damaged and no one injured.

The Marblehead was en route to its base here after a cruise, and the Evansville bound for New York, having left here yesterday in ballast. She carried a crew of 35 and was due there tomorrow. The Marblehead arrived in Boston harbor about 12:30 p. m. approximately an hour and a half behind schedule.

Early radio messages to the local navy yard indicated that although the bow of the Evansville was "bent in" she was not in need of assistance and able to proceed under her own power.

Shortly afterward, the M. & J. Tracy Steamship Company, owners of the Evansville reported that they had received radio messages from the ship saying she was proceeding to New York.

No details of the accident were immediately available and it was reported at the Navy Yard that they probably would not be available until Captain Ralph A. Kock, commander of the Marblehead, had reported to Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the Navy Yard.

13 YEAR OLD CHARGE

Keene, N. H., Nov. 15.—(AP)—William Demico, contractor, a married man and the father of several children, who has lived here for nearly 10 years, was in court today on a fugitive from justice warrant and two Cambridge, Mass., policemen were ready to return him to that city on a charge involving an assault on a girl there 13 years old. Demico had been arrested here some time ago and Cambridge authorities expected he would be turned over to them today. It was discovered, however, that extradition papers had not yet come through and the matter was continued until November 26.

Keene saw blades. He had all but taken the cell apart when interrupted Monday. He was moved to a new cell—without the saw blades. So Byron turned his attention to confagurations in a small way. As often as he could gather enough paper and other waste together there was a fire. No one seems to know where he got his matches.

Today the jailors grew weary of the game and refused to play firemen any more. Next time they will simply turn a valve down at the end of the hall and if Byron gets wet—well that's his lookout.

CRISIS NEAR IN JAPAN ON NAVAL PARLEY

Will Not Withdraw from Conference But Predicts No Agreement Will Be Reached on Cruisers.

Tokyo, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Although official comment was withheld, authoritative quarters today intimated a critical stage has been reached in conversations with Great Britain and America preliminary to the London naval reduction conference in January.

Premier Hamaguchi, foreign minister Shidehara, Naval Minister Takarabe, and M. Wakatsuki, who will be first delegate at London, conferred lengthily after which the naval minister reported the situation in detail to the Cabinet.

It was believed their conference took up the discouraging reception which reported to have been given in Washington and London to Japan's proposals for a 10-10-7 eight-inch gun cruiser ratio with Great Britain and the United States. Reports of Ambassadors Debutchi and Matsudaira on conversations with Secretary Stimson and Premier MacDonald were understood to be at hand.

Enthusiasm Dying Out
Inquiries in official and non-official quarters gave reason to believe Japanese enthusiasm toward the London naval conference is diminishing as the prospect of preliminary ratio understandings with Great Britain and America have lessened. Japan has considered this preliminary understanding of vital importance.

All authoritative quarters denied that Japan would withdraw from the conference, but gloomy forecasts as to its probable failure to reach a cruiser agreement were plentiful. There was discussion whether the conference might not, however, reach an agreement for a further holiday on capital ships if a cruiser agreement is lacking.

Open Pessimism
In less authoritative quarters there was more concern and some asserted they saw no way out of the impasse which has arisen and hinted Japan might withdraw from the conference if her demands are refused.

Press comment so far as naval matters are concerned has been largely to the Singapore naval base and President Hoover's armistice Day speech.

The $21 dividend which the corporation declared last January, and which led stockholders to expect dividends of 42 per cent a year, was paid out of capital and at a time when the corporation was not making money. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said today.

The corporation, which had clients in many states, was petitioned into receivership Nov. 4, and a week later creditors filed a petition in involuntary bankruptcy. A check of the company's books, the United States attorney's office said last night, indicated that patrons of the corporation and its 12 affiliated companies stood to lose $6,800,000.

Connecticut Bankers
Books and records of the corporation including some of the Bankers Capital Company of Connecticut, of which E. J. Sturges, former Connecticut state banking commissioner, was head have been seized. Mr. Tuttle said that when depositions attempted to serve subpoenas at offices of the company in Hartford, Bridgeport, Waterbury and New Haven, Conn., today they found the offices closed. The subpoenas called for the production of other records and papers.

Mr. Sturges is in New York and was questioned by Mr. Tuttle today. He was not taken before the Grand Jury.

Speeding up Work
Additional postoffice inspectors and accountants have been asked from Washington to speed the checking of records already seized.

Arthur T. Connor, prominent in Connecticut politics and president of the American Fidelity Corporation, a Bankers Capital subsidiary, also is in town, Mr. Tuttle said, and would appear today for questioning.

Discussing the financial structure of the corporation, Mr. Tuttle characterized the thirteen affiliated concerns as "a mutual appreciation society of high finance." He said he had no evidence of "washed" sales, that although the stock of any one concern would be passed along the line to others at an increased price, it was not sold back to the issuing corporation.

In stating that the corporation was not making money when the $21 dividend was declared last January, Mr. Tuttle called attention to a statement of R. J. Randall, corporation president, issued at that

MENUS For Good Health

A Week's Supply
Recommended By
Dr. Frank B. McCoy

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, November 17th:

Sunday
Breakfast—Grapfruit, all desired.
Lunch—Baked eggplant and tomatoes, stuffed celery.
Dinner—Roast veal with Melba toast dressing, McCoy salad, Ice Cream.

Monday
Breakfast—Coddled eggs, re-toasted Shredded Wheat Biscuits, stewed raisins.
Lunch—Lettuce soup, baked parsnip, salad of chopped cabbage.
Dinner—Salisbury steak, small green peas (canned), escalloped celery, salad of shredded lettuce, pear sauce.

Tuesday
Breakfast—Wholewheat muffins with peanut butter, stewed prunes.
Lunch—Combination salad of cooked and raw vegetables, such as celery, tomatoes and string beans, glass of milk.
Dinner—Roast mutton, grated turnips and carrots baked, salad of raw spinach leaves, Jello or jell-well with cream.

Wednesday
Breakfast—French omelet, waffle, stewed apricots.
Lunch—Baked potato, celery, ripe olives.
Dinner—Vegetable soup, broiled steak, baked tomatoes, salad of shredded raw spinach and parsley, prune whip.

Thursday
Breakfast—Baked stuffed apple, melba toast.
Lunch—Cooked okra, buttered beets, lettuce.
Dinner—Broiled steak with mushrooms, string beans, molded vegetable salad (celery, cucumbers, peas), applesauce.

Friday
Breakfast—Cottage cheese, sliced pineapple.
Lunch—Cornbread, spinach, celery.
Dinner—Baked sea bass, cooked oyster plant, stewed tomatoes (canned), salad of cold cooked asparagus, no dessert.

Saturday
Breakfast—Coddled eggs, re-toasted Shredded Wheat, Biscuit, dish of berries (canned).
Lunch—8-ounce glass of grape-juice.
Dinner—Roast pork, cooked turnips and tops, Combination salad of celery, cucumber, tomatoes and lettuce, Jello or Jell-well.

*Vegetable soup: To make soup stock use 1 pound of meat (ground) to two quarts of water. If any bone is used, use less meat. Have your butcher break it into small pieces, and use a little less water. Cover in cold water and slowly bring to a boil. Continue boiling for an hour, removing any skum that may form. Strain and let cool. Skim off all fat that rises to the surface. If stock equals 2 quarts, add the following quantities of vegetables, or more or less, according to the amount of liquid:

2 or 3 finely diced small carrots (unpeeled).
1 small stock of celery and leaves cut fine.
1 tablespoonful of chopped parsley.

1 small can of tomatoes.
Any other green vegetable desired, such as spinach or lettuce. Return to fire and simmer until vegetables are tender. Serve with croutons made of Melba toast.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Electricity in Paralysis

Question: F. D. asks:—"Can you advise me concerning the use of the infra red or the violet ray as a cure for paralysis? I understand electricity administered is very harmful."

Answer:—"The infra red is very good, but the violet ray would probably not have any effect. The ultra violet might prove beneficial if properly administered. Slow in-ductorial currents also seem to produce very good results in paralysis."

Baby's Diet
Question: Mrs. R. A. B. asks:—"What is the best artificial food for a baby? How old must a baby be before he may have vegetable juice?"

Answer:—"After changing from breast nursing the baby should be given nothing but Holstein milk and orange juice up to about two years of age, after which he should take a little less milk and begin using the minced, non-starchy vegetables."

Varicose Veins
Question: Mrs. F. H. W. writes:

"I am greatly troubled with varicose veins, especially in one leg, which aches a great deal. My doctor advised me to have a medicine injected into these veins which will gradually destroy them. The process is very slow, and he tells me it will take me off my feet. What is your advice?"

Answer:—"There is a definite hazard with injection treatment for varicose veins because of the danger of embolism, which means the lodgment of a blood clot obstructing circulation. I would suggest the ice treatment—that is, rubbing ice on the veins several times daily for a long as five minutes at a time. This is especially beneficial if taken with the limbs elevated so that the blood will empty from the veins when the ice is applied."

CARELESS ADDRESSES CAUSE BIG LOSSES

Washington, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Post Office Department lost approximately $5,000,000 last year on carelessly addressed mail, a large part being the direct result of business firms having an exaggerated idea of their own prominence.

Many firms doing a large advertising business have labored under the impression that not having a street address indicated great importance in the hometown and impressed customers with the fact that "even in New York and Chicago we are so well known the postman needs no help in finding us."

The result has been millions of letters delayed for "directory service." Last year approximately 200,000,000 letters had to be especially handled by clerks hired to fill out inadequate addresses, the service in New York City alone costs $500 a day. Of the 200,000,000 inadequately addressed letters 25,000,000 found a final resting place in the dead letter office.

ANOTHER CHICAGO BOMB

Chicago, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Terrorists struck at the city administration today when they bombed the south side home of James Breen, first assistant counsel.

Breen and his wife were thrown from bed by the blast but were not hurt. Several patients in the Evangelical Deaconess hospital near by were frightened by the detonation. Breen said he had received no threats and was unable to account for the attack.

SCOUT NEWS
BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
TROOP NINE

Troop Nine held a meeting Tuesday evening at the Community Club with an attendance of sixteen. After the formal opening, Richard La Chappelle was appointed Senior Patrol Leader of the troop, and his duties were outlined. Then, while the other patrols retired to their corners for Handbook study, the Beaver Patrol elected John Brannick as Patrol Leader to succeed La Chappelle, and Don Harrington as Assistant Patrol Leader.

After a study period, Scoutmaster Ronald Brown of Hartford led the Troop in a fast, exciting game. Assistant Scoutmaster Adams next took the Troop for a short drill period, which the Troop needs to get in preparation for parades, exhibitions, etc.

When this period was completed, all boys not Scouts, and also three recruits, were excused and the Troop practiced the investiture ceremony to be used next week when Richard Brannick will be admitted. Scoutmaster Williams gave a very interesting talk to the troop, comparing the present Troop with his own, of Wilson Station in Hartford, and pointing out some needed improvements.

The meeting closed with some songs and yells. Sixteen boys enjoyed a swim at the "Rec" Wednesday night.

Scoutmasters Brown and Williams of Hartford were very welcome visitors. The Patrol Leaders have been invited to meet with the Patrol Leaders of Troop 28 of Hartford soon.

Fred McUrry of the Silver Fox Patrol has been elected cheer leader.

PROTEST NOMINATION

Washington, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Protest against the nomination of Alf Ozzard, former assistant prohibition commissioner, as collector of internal revenue at San Francisco was made to the Senate finance commission today by Senator Johnson, of California, and representatives of labor.

Senator Shortridge of California defended the appointment and in the contest over the nomination was seen a sharp difference of opinion between President Hoover and Senator Johnson.

The latter described the nominee as a "protection detective" and asserted he had not been identified with the district in which he was to serve. In reply, Shortridge read letters to the committee, including one from the Anti-Saloon League, endorsing the nomination of Ozzard.

MILK PRODUCTION SHOWS SLIGHT DROP

Boston, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The average daily milk production per cow for all cows as reported by New England dairymen on Nov. 1, was only 3 per cent below that reported a month ago, the New England Crop Reporting Service report on fall milk production revealed today. This was 6.7 per cent above the average of a year ago and 4.3 per cent above the five-year average 1924-1928.

The report said that "from July to September the per cow production curve followed a normal course but since September it has held steady in contrast to the usual seasonal decline. The sustained high production this season is attributed to the increased new milk prices stimulating better care and feeding of cows, the mild fall weather and a large supply of extra good quality hay. The introduction of the modified surplus plan of payment for milk has also led many dairymen to increase the production of their feeds during the fall months.

"As compared with the October average milk production, decreases in Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Connecticut were partly offset by increases in Vermont and Massachusetts. The average production for New England as a whole on November 1 was reported at 14.95 pounds compared with 15.00 pounds last month, 14.01 pounds last year and 14.3 pounds the 1924-1928 average. Increases from the average of a year ago of 11.5 per cent in Maine, 10.4 per cent in Vermont, 4.8 per cent in Massachusetts, 7.7 per cent in Rhode Island and 5.7 per cent in Connecticut were partly offset by a decrease of 4.8 per cent in New Hampshire."

QUOTATIONS

"I am inclined to believe that very few who reach mature years are harassed by any thoughts of future punishment."
—Clarence Darrow.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

PIKE'S PEAK DISCOVERED

On Nov. 15, 1806, Pike's Peak was first seen and named by members of Lieutenant Zebulon Pike's exploring party of the United States army.

The famous peak is located about six miles west of Colorado Springs, Colo.

It was successfully scaled by a party led by Major S. H. Long in 1819, and in 1891 a rack and pinion railroad to the summit was opened, where a searchlight was installed in 1905.

The peak is 14,108 feet above sea level and it commands a magnificent and widely extended view of the great plains and of a rugged mountainous country. Conifer forests cover the slopes to a height of 11,700 feet, above which the mountain consists of bare granite rocks.

Today also is the anniversary of the opening of the last session of the Continental Congress in New York in 1787.

And on Nov. 15, 1777, Congress adopted the Articles of Confederation.

An earthquake travels at a rate of between 470 feet and 530 feet a second.

SUITS SETTLED

New York, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Settlement of suits recently brought by the Bethlehem Steel company against the United States Steel Corporation for alleged infringements of patents was announced today.

Discontinuance of the actions was made known in a joint statement by James A. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel and Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. The patents involved cover the manufacture and sale of broad flange sections. The announcement said an arrangement had been effected whereby U. S. Steel and its subsidiaries, some of which were named in the suits, had been licensed to make and sell sections under the Bethlehem patents for the remainder of their terms, or from 12 to 16 years.

"DEAD" MAN ALIVE.

Medford, Mass., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Police and firemen waded and swam in the cold waters of the Mystic river here for more than an hour early today in search for bodies or occupants of a motor car which had plunged into the water until Daniel J. Cullen, owner and driver, appeared on the bank. He said he had climbed out of the machine, swam ashore, and gone to his nearby home to get into some dry clothes.

DEAD SEA DISTRICT A TREASURE STORE

Valuable Mineral Deposits and Oil is Being Found by English Syndicate.

Jerusalem.—(AP)—The Dead Sea area is proving a treasure trove of valuable mineral deposits for the Anglo-Palestine syndicate that obtained the concession for the salt deposits.

Preliminary experiments have almost been completed and an expansion is now being planned. Production for the eastern market is to begin in 1930.

The experiments now being made in the laboratories at the Dead Sea aim at accelerating the process of evaporation. The heat of the sun alone is responsible for 75 percent of the actual production at present.

The Palestine Mining Syndicate, the research department of the concessionaries, has also extended its operations to the minerals that lie in the land about the sea. Petroleum deposits have been discovered, but their value and extent have not been determined. It is not known whether the petroleum is deposited in permeable layers or in basins.

Boring operations are very costly, each trial bore costing $20,000 or $25,000.

The potash deposits along the shore are also being investigated to determine their value.

It is the intention of the mining syndicate to set up separate companies for the exploitation of each of the various minerals.

The climatic difficulties that may interfere with the work in the summer time might be met by transferring the living quarters of the workers during the hottest months to a cooler place and driving the men in cars to the site of work.

PONTIAC POWER STEADILY INCREASES

All motorists are today interested in power and speed. They demand plenty of both. Every car owner is entitled to power and speed and needs them.

Albert C. Hine, president of The A. C. Hine company, state distributor of the Oakland and Pontiac, calls attention to the fact that the change in road conditions makes it imperative that a car have plenty of speed, not that it may be employed for racing purposes but in the change that has taken place the slower cars are in the way.

Higher speed Mr. Hine emphasizes is perfectly all right provided the brakes are good. More speed and better brakes, he says, have been nicely worked out in the Pontiac six.

From the first model Pontiac there has been a steady increase in power. This has not been accomplished at the sacrifice of weight, nor has the engine speed itself been increased as has so often been the case with other cars on the market.

The change rather has come about through refinement in the engine and throughout the car, the entire chassis in fact being much better balanced today than in the first model.

With this increase in power has naturally come the increase in speed so that the owner of a Pontiac does not have to feel that he will be in the way, on the contrary he will be with the best of them and not feel the least hurried in the proposition. At no time does the Pontiac engine give the impression that it is trying to perform an impossible task.

Pontiac and Oakland are represented here by Kemp Brothers, associate dealers of The A. C. Hine company.

TOLLAND

Miss Bernice A. Hall and Alice E. Hall attended the football game at Storrs last Saturday.

A meeting of the Federated Sunday school board was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Simpson, Thursday evening. Several important matters of business pertaining to the school was transacted.

Mrs. Hiram Loverin of Vernon was a recent guest of relatives.

Miss Rose Charches daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Charches of Tolnad and Louis Albert Gold were married in Hartford Saturday evening. They left for Detroit, Michigan where Mr. Gold is employed.

The large elm tree situated at the northern end of the Tolland Green has been undergoing treatment by a tree specialist. It is an old landmark. It was treated several years ago, and was found recently in poor condition.

Miss Helen Hawkins closed her summer home Wednesday and will spend the winter in Boston.

Seven members of Tolland Grange attended the meeting of East Central Pomona Grange held at Bolton Center, Wednesday.

The meeting of the Home Economics department of the Tolland County Farm Bureau, under the supervision of Mrs. Sarah White Dimock was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Howard Crandall. Thirteen ladies were present, interested most in the millinery demonstration.

Miss Minnie Hicks and Miss Elizabeth Hicks have closed their summer home here and returned to their winter residence in New York City.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Patients reported admitted to the Memorial hospital were Mrs. Mae Richardson of 115 Main street, and Mrs. Annie Chambers of 24 Knox street. George McCaughey of 47 Maple street was discharged as were Mrs. Robert Turkington and infant son of 22 Center street.

ROCKVILLE

McKenna Off Ticket

It was announced yesterday that John J. McKenna, who was nominated for alderman of the Third ward at the recent ward caucus of the Democratic Party, has withdrawn from the ticket as the result of friction, which for a time pointed to the breaking up of the ticket.

The present alderman from the Third, Thomas Larkin, had indicated that he was through with politics and that he would not attend the Ward caucus Monday night. McKenna, the present councilman, was present at the head of about 15 men, enough to easily control all nominations. McKenna was named alderman.

Dissatisfaction in the party at once arose and the city committee appointed a sub-committee to wait on Mr. Larkin and Mr. McKenna. The latter was given to understand that unless he withdrew his name from the ticket, Mayor George Foster would quit as a candidate for re-election and that other men on the ticket would also withdraw. McKenna decided yesterday to withdraw.

It was reported that Larkin, who is named by the city committee to fill the vacancy.

It is claimed by McKenna's friends that he went to Larkin before the caucus, asking him if he was to stand for renomination, that the latter said he was not in the race, and that not till then did McKenna go after the nomination. McKenna, they say, offered his support to Larkin if the latter wished to be renominated.

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Salzburger of Hammond street celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today.

The festivities commenced with a dinner for the immediate family. During the afternoon there was open house from 2 until 5 o'clock, at which time many neighbors and friends called to extend congratulations.

The home was attractively decorated with cut flowers. Mrs. George Sunderland, of Hartford, only daughter of the couple, assisted in receiving the large number of guests, who presented the couple with many gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Salzburger also received many cards and several telegrams.

Refreshments were served to the many callers, and the couple are planning to meet many more of their friends during the evening, as open house will be kept until 10 o'clock.

A. O. H. Ladies Elect

At the last regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary A. O. H., held in Forester's hall, initiation of a class of members took place, followed by election of officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Miss Margaret McGuane; vice president, Mrs. Mary Burns; recording secretary, Miss Mary E. Phillips; financial secretary, Mrs. Rose Schney; treasurer, Miss Margaret Roman; mistress-at-arms, Miss Mary McCarthy; sentinel, Mrs. Annie Phillips; chairman of standing committee, Mrs. Margaret Fay; chairman of Irish History, Miss Mary McGuane. #### BIG FOOTBALL GAME

FEATURES 'SOPHOMORE'

Picture at State Is One of the Best of the College Group Yet Presented.

King football comes into his own at the State theater tonight. Eddie Quillan and Sally O'Neil in "The Sophomore", one of the snappiest college stories that has reached the silver sheet, head the program. The members of the Cubs and Majors football teams will be present as guests of the management to witness this picture, which revolves around one of the greatest football games ever shown on the screen.

In addition to a whale of a football game, "The Sophomore" embodies a human and charming romance, capably played by Eddie Quillan and Sally O'Neil. As Margie Callahan, the little soda fountain clerk, who adores Joe Collins and who secretly pays his tuition so that he can stay at the University and be near her, Miss O'Neil is tremendously appealing. Equally as fine a characterization is given by Eddie Quillan as the college youth who has eyes only for the aristocratic Barbara, until his eyes are finally opened and he discovers what Margie really means to him.

The football game in "The Sophomore" is different from any yet pictured on the screen. The hero goes into the game at the crucial moment but instead of making a sensational play, he is knocked out in the first scrimmage and carried off the field. A few moments later, however, he saves the game in a sensational scene. This climax is one that will bring a gasp from any audience and start every football fan in the city discussing the play.

The program will also include Lupino Lane in the all-talking comedy riot "Shipmates", the latest news events and the Vitaphone acts, "Bob Nelson" and "Eeri and Mayer."

SOURCES OF INFORMATION

For a hundred years the newspaper has been universally regarded in this country as a practically indispensable element in the daily life of the people. Whether it is still so regarded and whether it is still so permitted to continue to function are questions about which there may just possibly be some question. We take it, at all events, that the indispensability of newspapers has been attacked by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in the matter of the three reporters of the Washington Times who are in jail for contempt of court in refusing to divulge the names of the guides who helped them to get a story on liquor law enforcement in the national capital.

Back of the refusal of the reporters to divulge the sources of their information lay, of course, a principle absolutely vital to the conduct of newspapers if they are to be of any real value. All experience proves the futility of attempting to make a newspaper worth its salt unless its sources of information are protected. So widely is this fact recognized, even outside of newspaper offices, that law officers, courts and the general public have long granted to the papers and their employes tacit immunity from any attempts to compel disclosure. The course of the District of Columbia court is, then, somewhat in the nature of being revolutionary; establishing a precedent which, if commonly followed and successful would put an end to the institution of the newspaper as it has existed in America for a century and more.

It is not greatly to be feared that there will be frequent repetitions of the act of the Washington judge. But the newspapers are confronted by such a possibility, even though it be remote. Incidentally the American people are confronted by a possibility, though equally remote, that they may eventually be deprived of that service on the part of the press to which they are so habituated as they are to their meals or to the breathing of air.

Unless a definite thing is done about it.

In just one state, Maryland, so far as we know, are the newspapers secure against the kind of attack made by the Washington court. In that state this law stands on the statute books: "No person engaged in, connected with or employed on a newspaper or journal shall be compelled to disclose, in any legal proceeding or trial or before any committee of the Legislature or elsewhere, the source of any information procured or obtained by him for and published in the newspaper on and in which he is engaged, connected with or employed."

In many other states, to be sure, there are wise legal decisions on record establishing, insofar as such decisions can establish, similar immunity from inquisition for the newspapers. But only Maryland, we believe, has written this protection of the press into statutory enactment.

A similar law ought to be passed by every state in the Union. The institution of the newspaper ought not to be subject to complete destruction, nor yet its workers subject to persecution, at the whim of a prosecuting officer or a judge.

ATTRIBUTING MOTIVES

Much erudite comment is being made on the Treasury Department's announcement of a recommendation of a one per cent decrease in the income tax rates, some of it under the assumption that of course the administration's policy on the tax is occasioned by a desire to show its confidence in the stability of business in the face of the stock market collapse.

Some people appear to have a good deal of difficulty in realizing that there are statesmen who believe in telling the truth—in open frankness; who do not see the necessity of always veiling the reasons for their acts. Perhaps in the course of time it may dawn on these folks that one such statesman is Herbert Hoover. Mr. Mellon speaks for President Hoover and certainly with his knowledge and consent when he specifically states that the income tax reduction was in the planning before there was any such thing as a stock market crisis. That ought to completely dispose of the idea that the proposed cut in taxes is a gesture in support of the paper values created by Wall street.

Reduction of the income tax rates as opportunity affords is a cardinal business principle which has been adopted by both political parties. There is especial reason why there should be a reduction this year. Mr. Hoover of course knows full well that one of the worst possible obstacles to naval arms reduction at this time would lie in the existence of a big surplus. A better way of getting rid of such a surplus than spending it on armament would be to leave the money in the pockets of the people. So there is a particular as well as a general reason for the proposed cut in tax rates.

And having decided to ask Congress for a flat reduction, it is an excellent expression of the faith of the President and the Treasury Department in the stability of the country's finances that they are going ahead with their program in complete indifference to the wild furry among the speculators. It shows that neither the President or the Treasury regards the pricking of the speculative bubble as of any real importance.

In our view the fact that business proceeds as usual, even the business of cutting tax rates, in serene disregard of the Wall street mess, is the best possible evidence that the doings of the gamblers are a small matter with which the average citizen need concern himself not at all.

MORE STAY-AT-HOMES

The fact that the Aquitania sailed for Europe on Wednesday with more stewards than passengers between her decks suggests that quite probably one of the few lines of business that will suffer from the collapse of the stock market may be the one so extensively engaged in by winners in recent years, seeing the world. Literally thousands of Americans have financed European trips and extensive tours here, there and everywhere by being "in" on some of the boom stocks. Sometimes they actually took their profits and spent them on travel. Sometimes they used their cash surpluses to pay for the steamship tickets and foreign hotel bills, being supported by a serene faith in paper profits not yet cashed in. In any event it is probable that at least five out of every ten of the swarms of Americans who have been "abroad" in recent years bought their travel experience under the impulse of profits derived or expected from speculation and not deliberately with money earned and saved from their regular occupations or businesses.

That the number of such tourists will be greatly reduced in the next few years would seem to be inevitable. The billions of money spent in foreign countries since, say, 1924, were not by any means all the result of the unexampled prosperity of the nation. They were just winnings. Now, with the game shut down and most of the stakes in the hands of hard faced professionals, there are not likely to be anywhere near so many Americans wandering over the face of the earth, distributing cash with both hands, as has been the case for some little time.

More of this nation's capital is likely to stay at home and be employed in bona fide development and upbuilding of legitimate industry and business. Which, when you come to think it all over, may not be such a very bad thing for the little old U. S.

GAMBLING

One of our state contemporaries gapes and almost chokes over the discovery that "$4,000,000,000 changes hands annually in the United States through commercialized gambling" and quotes the figures—$500,000,000 in baseball pools, $1,000,000,000 in race track betting, and so on.

To be sure these figures are largely guesswork and probably exaggerated plenty. But even if true, what ice do these varieties of gambling cut in comparison with the flops of as many billions a day in the stock market of late? For a country which counts such operations as those of Wall street in the last five years to pretend to be shocked over a Chinese fantan game, a poker party or a baseball pool is just funny.

UNCHANGING

Commenting on the unfortunate episode where a Presbyterian clergyman was invited to conduct communion service at St. George's Episcopal church, New York, only to have the invitation quashed by Bishop Manning, the Herald-Tribune of that city regrets that the bishop, when conforming thus to the law of his church, could not have written a different kind of letter and to remove from it the "superficial appearance of pharisaism." The Herald-Tribune apparently permitted itself to forget, for a moment, that Bishop Manning must at all times and in all relationships be Bishop Manning.

SPONGES

The young women of Antioch college, Ohio, ancient co-ed institution, have come out exceedingly strong for absolute equality of the sexes. They insist it as right and proper for a girl to invite a man to show or dinner and to pay the shot as a matter of course.

Let Antioch prepare now to repel next year's invasion of impeccuous wet smacks. The roads to Yellow Springs are sure to be cluttered with ten thousand hitchhikers.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 15.—The kaleidoscope of the week in Manhattan—

The soup-and-fish film openings are with us again. First it was Gloria Swanson's "The Trespasser" and the street crowds gave an indication of having gone into training in Hollywood during the summer. They appeared, and with sound. When they had finished fighting for a glimpse at people who "must be celebrities because they wear silk hats," the mounted police were in the theater and Miss Swanson was being rescued from a flag pole by steeplejacks. This is one of Hollywood's major sports, but threatens to become popular here.

Then came Samuel Goldwyn's "Condemned." And Sam got a little better break because he staged his premiere on a Sunday night—and a rainy one at that. All the theater folk who were working on the night of Gloria's "first night" appeared in what finery they had left after the Wall Street crash.

One notices particularly the English invasion. Those who haven't actually arrived from London have imported some good pre-war accents. People who had East Side accents three years ago now yodel a mean "toodle-oo-ol" thing.

I saw Noel Coward, most versatile of the world's young men, back in town for the third swanky evening of the week—the production of his musical show "Bitter Sweet," which seems to have made Boston forget the Watch and Ward Society. And with him was Evelyn Laye, the English beauty imported by M. Ziegfeld, who seems to have glorified all the American girls and now has to go to London. Miss Laye is blond in an important way! But she shouldn't have been in the same party as Billie Burke. Miss Burke (otherwise Mrs. Ziegfeld) remains one of the mysteries of perennial youth, so far as I am concerned.

If she gets older, only the calendar knows it. Gertrude Lawrence also appeared to be with the British delegation.

But since five New York women were wearing monocles and half the swanky folks were trying the Duchess of Something I'm not quite sure who was who.

This young Mr. Coward, by the way, holds the world's record for per annum output. Barely thirty, he has written half a dozen plays—three of them excellent—and has acted splendidly in one of them. Last season he wrote the cleverest musical revue of the year, composed the songs, arranged the staging and appeared in it. This year he's back with what appears to be the smash hit of the season. Meet the "Bitter Sweet" is the ranking success of London.

Shorter mention—Dorothy Parker's tale, "Big Blond," will carry off the O. Henry short story prize this year. And Sidney Howard, the Theater Guild playwright, will be the "runner-up." . . . The "Book-wise" . . . And M. Woolworth has some of the magazine boys worried with his ten-cent publications. . . . Walter Hackett, who wrote "It Pays to Advertise" and a number of other hits, came back the other day after a 15-year self-imposed exile in England. . . . Theda Bara—don't you remember her?—is to be seen about Manhattan, and seemingly more alluring than ever. . . . But somehow the films seem willing to get along without her. . . . The next biography of an important American figure will concern Clarence Mackay, but I wonder if it will tell who did the family washing in those old days when gold was being dug from the California hills, or explain his attitude toward the marriage of his daughter to Irving Berlin?

FLORENCE IN REGISTER

Boston, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Through her marriage to John Coolidge, the former Miss Florence Trumbull daughter of the governor of Connecticut, entered the Boston Social Register for the first time according to the new 1930 edition.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington Nov. 15.—The decline of Bishop Cannon in Virginia and the rise of Norman Thomas in New York by common consent the two most significant phases of the recent elections, provide excellent material for political speculation as well as for post mortems.

Defeat of Bishop Cannon's candidate for governor, who carried the banner for both anti-Smith Democrats and regular Republicans in Virginia, was in effect a sound spanking for one of America's most prominent churchmen who went into politics up to his neck and risked the loss of all prestige in an attempt to superimpose both definitely upon the state.

The result indicates — for the Democratic majority was record-breaking — that if the Republicans hope to retain any of the southern states in 1932 they will have to dry an religious battles for a campaign in which neither of those issues was involved, the national prestige which he gained last fall is now fast on the wane, and it is rather to be feared that his voice will be found losing some of its old power in the councils of the dries at Washington.

Norman Thomas, who polled 175,000 votes in the New York mayoralty election, may not live long enough to be elected to anything. But the unprecedented size of his Socialist vote suggests the likelihood that in municipal contests at least the Socialists will before many years become a factor which must be taken into account. That is not because there is any marked popular trend toward Socialist doctrines, but because in many cities voters are now forced to choose between two more or less corrupt machines, Democratic and Republican.

That kind of a set-up was one of the main factors which piled up the 175,000 Thomas voters in New York. Another factor was the general admiration for Norman Thomas himself. Thomas has run for governor and president and in most of these contests he has been the best among the candidates. The Socialists are lucky to have him. The fact that he had the support of such papers as the New York Telegram and the New York World in the New York campaign despite his Socialism was a remarkable tribute.

The possibility of the rise of a strong third party in such graft-ridden cities as Philadelphia and Chicago is also suggested by the fact that two good-sized cities, Reading, Pa., and Milwaukee, Wis., are already getting along well under Socialist rule. Milwaukee has had a Socialist mayor, Daniel Hoan, for 12 years, though he has sometimes had a minority in the city council. Milwaukee county supervisors voted to accept the state old age pensions law.

The Socialist municipal government of Reading, about two years old, is distinguishing itself by reducing the cost of public improvements and public works and has just built a new $750,000 city hall which it contends would have cost two or three times as much if its predecessors had run it. The outstanding personality there is James H. Maurer, public works commissioner, who ran for vice president on the Socialist ticket with Thomas last year. Maurer was president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor and the only Socialist member of the legislature.

Nationally, the growth of the Socialist party will be slow unless the country is let in for hard times. The domestic conditions which drove England into the arms of the Socialists are not likely to be duplicated over here for a long time. The 1930 election, however, is likely to produce a Socialist congressman and possibly two.

Mistake to Fight Glass. All of which has nothing to do with Bishop Cannon. One assumes that the bishop has given up his intention of defeating senator Carr for re-election next year. Glass might possibly lose in the primaries, but it won't be on Cannon's account. It was a mistake on Cannon's part to go after Glass so bitterly in the last presidential campaign when the senator stood by Al Smith.

It was also a mistake when after his stock market dealings had been disclosed, the bishop blamed Glass for the disclosures. Glass hadn't had anything to do with it. After that, however, Glass devoted his enthusiastic attention to Cannon. Before long he had the bishop on the run, answering charges of wartime flour hoarding, mysterious campaign contributions and other matters which seemed to need explanation. Cannon was kept on the defensive for many months, right up to the time he left the country some two or three weeks before the election. Cannon doubtless saw the handwriting on the wall, but neither he nor anyone else foresaw the size of the landslide under which the Cannon candidate was about to be buried.

RELIGIOUS DISPUTES

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Friction between Christian and Jewish students at the University of Warsaw has aroused the minister of education to inform the rectory that the university will be closed for six months if the incidents continue.

Too much sleep is a vicious habit, says a University of Pittsburgh professor. It certainly is, professor, the way folks go about the job with a snarl.

One who sits at a desk all day certainly has some disadvantage physically compared with the legendary golden age when all that was necessary was playing leap frog under the trees from which luscious and nourishing fruits fell just when one was ready to eat them.', 'I believe that our civilization is an improvement over any past age within history. I would rather have an automobile and a radio, a home with hot and cold running water, electric lights and convenient sewage disposal than to live in a palace with the filth and ignorance of the middle ages. We have not reached perfection, and we can always look forward to better things.', 'One of the drawbacks of a civilized community is that it tends to specialization. An individual must be able to do something uncommonly well or he is very likely to be dragged into the mire of failure. This specializing permits us to use some muscles but neglects others. We may be compelled to occupy a limited number of positions during many hours. This interferes with our health and beauty unless we take special care of our exercise and play. Each person should develop a hobby that will correct his one-sided work. If he also will eat a correctly balanced diet, such as I outlined in my weekly menus, he may preserve his health and figure for many years longer than the average.', 'If you wish to avoid physical and mental decay, you should make yourself a specialist in health producing habits.', 'I am sometimes astounded to observe the remarkable changes that patients undergo while following the right diet, exercise and hygienic methods. Many of them blossom out into astounding beauties, even in cases that looked exceedingly hopeless in the beginning. A small thorax will enlarge to normal if one practices deep breathing several times daily. Though your back be crooked, you can improve it by the right kind of exercises.', 'Don't think this is hopeless with yourself. Everyone is capable of improvement unless he is at death's door. So throw out your chest and pull your head back and resolve to day by day become better, and better. The time to start is NOW!', 'QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS', 'Weak Ligaments', 'Question: R. F. writes:—"I am 16 years old and am troubled with weak ligaments. I have a knee which frequently slips out of joint, and I have this trouble with my elbows likewise. What, if anything, can be done to correct this condition? Would any special diet help these weak joints?"', 'Answer:—There is no special diet to correct weak joints. The best method of overcoming this condition is to take exercises so that you can strengthen the muscles. Not much can be done to strengthen the ligaments except to strengthen the neighboring muscles and improve the circulation around the joints.', 'You must be careful not to take sudden exercises, and avoid displacing, as every displacement weakens the ligaments still more.', 'Breathing Dust', 'Question: K. H. W. writes:—"I am by trade a driller, at present doing concrete work. This is naturally a very dusty job, and this fine concrete dust envelops me when at work. Is there any danger of this dust getting into the lungs? If I keep this work up for a long time will it have any effect on my health?"', 'Answer:—If you breathe too large a quantity of rock dust it could lead to a coating of the lungs which is termed "silicosis" but usually much dust must be breathed before this occurs. Various occupations where dust is breathed may lead to a fibrosis of the lungs. Those who absorb too much silica or stone dust may be incapacitated in from two to eight years. Coal miners or dwellers in cities where there is dust and soot may gradually have the lungs carbonized. The first symptoms are those of coughing and falling health, and if this begins to occur it would be well for you to change your occupation. Much of the dust will gradually be eliminated through expectoration.', 'Mr. Youngquist, who succeeds Mabel Walker Willebrandt, says he is not a fanatic. Well, who says he was?'', 'A LUCKY BREAK', 'It only lasts two hours but you'll remember it the rest of your life.'

DETECTS FRAUDS OF OLD MASTERS

Argentina's Ambassador to Italy Has Queer Hobby; Fingerprint Expert.

Rome—(AP)—The recent resignation of Argentina's ambassador to Italy, Dr. Hernandez Perez, has served to reveal the fact that Dr. Perez has developed into a kind of scientific detective in a highly specialized field—that of art.

The ambassador has nothing to do with the working out of murders and felonies. His detection concerns only the finding out whether old paintings of the masters are really paintings of the masters and therefore immensely valuable.

For years Dr. Perez has studied the famous paintings in Italian galleries, searching them particularly for fingerprints. He has collected a valuable set of notes, and a rare classification of fingerprints.

EXPECT ELECTION RIOTS

Mexico City, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The War Department, acting under special orders of President Emilio Portes Gil today reminded military chiefs throughout the country their only mission in connection with the presidential election Sunday is to restore order if the civil authorities ask their assistance and to quell disturbances, protect peaceful voters and to disarm troublemakers.

KING LEAVES LONDON

Queer Twists In Day's News

West Palm Beach.—Mrs. Core L. Ferguson has been receiving 3,000 pennies a week as alimony. She has cited her divorced husband to court to explain why he is not in contempt for his method of remitting. Exhibit A is 6,000 pennies.

Berkeley, Calif.—Helen Willis feels certain that the omission of her name from the Social Register will not affect her tennis, and she is not to hurry her marriage just because her fiancé, Frederick S. Moody, Jr., is among the elect.

London.—The Prince of Wales has a private front door for the first time. Alterations at York House, his residence adjoining St. James palace, have provided another entrance for his secretarial staff.

Albany, N. Y.—Maurice E. Campbell, Federal prohibition administrator for New York City, is virtually ostracized from the city by his many friends. He cannot visit them without embarrassing them and himself, he told the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Many distinguished hostesses, he added, feel socially obliged to serve bootleg liquor in their homes.

Princeton, N. J.—The Tiger has been kept hungry in the hope that he'll chew up the Bulldog. A student mass meeting at Princeton to stir up things prior to tomorrow's game with Yale was cancelled at the team's request. It has had a poor season and hopes to provide reason for a bonfire and other demonstrations by what it does in the Yale Bowl.

New York—Whatever happens to stocks there will be a Santa Claus Christmas Clubs of the nation shortly will distribute a total of $600,000,000 which members have saved up during the year. The average check will be $59.50 and payments will range as high as $1,000.

Iowa City.—Bobbie Farr, 12, is mighty proud of his new seven-tube radio. He once shook hands with the President. Then he wrote Mr. Hoover that he had heard one of his speeches over a neighbor's set. The President replied that "a friend" was sending Bobbie a set of his own.

We Have For Sale Cheap Production

To anyone who has been in the manufacturing business—whether on a large or small scale—this statement is obvious.

Power is an item in all manufacturing costs. In mass production it is a small item. In highly specialized production, with a limited output, it is a large item. We offer the cheapest, most flexible power the industrial world has ever known. From the point of view of the manufacturer we recognize no competitors.

If you are not using central station power, see us. We can cut your production costs and at the same time create better working conditions for your employees.

The Avenging Parrot

© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

By Anne Austin, author of "The Black Pigeon," "Rival Wives," etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MRS. HOGARTH, said to keep a board of money in her room on the second floor of Mrs. Rhodes' boarding house. It is strangled to death. BONNIE DUNDEE, "cub" detective, assisting LIEUT. STRAWN, attaches significance to the utterance "Bad Penny" made by CAPT. Mrs. Hogarth's parrot.

Suspicion falls at once on EMIL SEVIER, former boarder whom Mrs. Hogarth has accused of trying to rob her, and who left town hurriedly. Dundee, behind a screen takes notes as Strawn quizzes Mrs. Hogarth on her work.

DOWD, newcomer on the scene in his room next to Mrs. Hogarth's.

CORA BARKER, theater pianist, tells of her date with another boarder, BERT MAGNUS, amateur scenario writer, of his failure to appear, and of her return to the room to hear him typing in his room at 12:15. She denies being Strawn's accomplice. NORMA PAIGE, latest boarder under Mrs. Hogarth's will, admits calling on her late that night and of arranging her anger by visiting her engagement to WALTER STYLES, another boarder.

Styles corroborates Norma's admission that she came to his room to tell him of the interview and confesses he was angry. Magnus says he typed until 12:15. DAISY SHEPHERD explains her absence from her room at the murder hour by saying she was in the kitchen robbing the ice box. Dundee finds in Mrs. Hogarth's diary reference to a mysterious "D," of whom she lived in dread.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

"Good morning, Mrs. Rhodes! Am I the first one down?" Bonnie Dundee greeted his landlady cheerfully as he entered the dining room.

Although he had had only two hours' sleep, the young detective lived up gloriously to his nickname. He was "bonnie" certainly, with his shining black hair, still damp from the shower, and his brilliant blue eyes, and the fresh color of youth and health in his cheeks.

Mrs. Rhodes' hazel eyes brightened at the sight of her "cub." "You look as if you slept like a baby," she told him, as she poured his coffee and then offered him cream for his raspberries. "I didn't sleep a wink myself, what with waiting on that no-account, dusty—stick as a pup—he was when he finally woke up—here last night."

"I'm awfully sorry," the boy sympathized sincerely. "What does your paper say? Have they caught Sevier?"

"No, but I hope to the Lord they do," Mrs. Rhodes sighed. "If this thing isn't cleared up in a hurry my business will be ruined. The reporters have been here since day-break, taking pictures of the house and trying to interview me. Cold comfort I gave them," she added, with gloomy satisfaction.

"That's right," Dundee said. "Let them get their news from the police."

"Asking me where poor Mrs. Hogarth came from, and who her relatives were, and—"

"I'm afraid I'm going to bother you with just the same question, Dundee interrupted her petulantly. "You see, Mrs. Rhodes, I read Mrs. Hogarth's diary after I went to bed this morning. And on the first of the month she invariably recorded the receipt of a letter from Mrs. Rhodes. She must be a daughter or a near relative. She must be notified of Mrs. Hogarth's death, of course, but I have no clue to her full name."

Mrs. Rhodes shook her head. "I'm afraid I can't help you, Dundee. Mrs. Hogarth received a registered letter on the first day of every month for the last five years, unless the first fell on Sunday. But I never saw one of those letters myself. The postman always took it upstairs for Mrs. Rhodes' signature on the return receipt. As close friends as we were, she never showed me one of the letters, or mentioned it in any way. I do know, though, that she burned each one after she read it."

"Then I shan't find one among her papers, I suppose," Dundee concluded regretfully. "But what about her outgoing mail? Surely she answered S's letters; in fact, she says so in her diary."

"She answered them all right—regular as the clock," Mrs. Rhodes assured him grimly, "but she was just as secretive about the letters she wrote as she was about the ones she received. She always gave the letter to me personally, but it was enclosed in an unstamped envelope, addressed to our postman. We've had the same one on this beat for about eight years. He removed her letter and mailed it for her himself. Of course, I never asked either Mrs. Hogarth or the postman any questions. It was none of my business."

"H m m," Dundee was very thoughtful. "Today is the last day of June, and tomorrow, Monday, is July first. Since the postoffice is closed on Sunday, I suppose there's nothing to do but to wait until he brings the regular first-of-the-month letter."

Mrs. Rhodes, did it ever occur to you, knowing Mrs. Hogarth as intimately as you did, that she had no "miser's hoard" to will anyone?"

Mrs. Rhodes looked startled, then nodded slowly. "To tell you the truth, I always had my doubts. There were a lot of little things, but the most important one was that she always paid her board right after the letter came. Once—about a year ago, I think it was—her letter didn't come until the third of the month, and she didn't pay her board until that afternoon. And she seemed nearly crazy with worry about the letter."

"How did she pay her board—the denomination of the bills, I mean?"

"That was funny, too. Her board and room was only $40 a month. Of course, I lost money on her the last two or three years, but when I said something to her once about being obliged to raise the price, the cost of living being what it is, she carried on something dreadful, so I dropped it. I was mighty fond of her, peculiar though she was. But what I started out to tell you was this: she always gave me a $50 bill, and I gave her the change in small bills. She spent next to nothing on herself, outside of the few clothes she needed. Being confined practically to her room as she was, she didn't need much."

To his startled amazement, the girl's hands flinched from him, as if he were a murderer!

"So, if she received a $50 bill each month from S, she managed to live on it," Dundee suggested thoughtfully. "When and where did she get the parrot, Mrs. Rhodes?"

"I don't know where she got it from, but I do remember when she got it. It came by express as a Christmas present the first year she was here. She came here to live in May, 1924. I was curious about the parrot, but when I went down cellar to look at the crate it had come in, I found dusty had used it for furnace kindling, without having noticed whether there was a sender's name and address on it or not."

Dundee was about to ask another question when Daisy Shepherd entered the dining room. She was dressed in a light summer silk ensemble, topped with a modish little hat that made her broad, pleasant face seem even larger than it was. "Going to Sunday school, Daisy?" Mrs. Rhodes inquired, with an effort to appear her normal, hospitable self. "I suppose church would do us all good today. . . . Here an extra big helping of raspberries, honey, though you don't deserve them," and she smiled affectionately.

"Now, why bring that up?" Daisy laughed, flushing. "But, believe me, Mrs. Rhodes, that was one time when crime was justified in my eyes. I'm one of the few people in this house last night who had a perfect alibi. . . . No, I'm not going to church. I'm going to a hotel until I can find another boarding place. Honest, I'd rather be whipped than housed in this house—Oh, hello, Norma! How do you feel, baby? You look as if you'd been crying all night."

"I have," Norma Paige answered in a low voice, as she slipped into her chair. "Good morning, everybody." She tried to smile, but the childish little mouth quivered, and fresh tears filmed her wood-violet eyes. "Thanks, Mrs. Dundee. . . . May I have the cream, please?"

Bonnie Dundee, eager to be of service to the girl he had lost his heart to, passed the cream pitcher so quickly that their hands touched. To his startled amazement the girl's hand flinched from his, as if—as if he were a murderer!

But as the rest of the boarders drifted into the dining room, all the strain of the tragic night, his keen eyes told him that he was not alone in being a temporary pariah. Every hand that accidentally touched another shrank from the contact. It was then that the full horror of the situation burst upon the boy. In spite of the fact that the morning papers had played up the news that the police were hunting Emil Sevier, every boarder here—unless, of course, the real murderer was among them—looked with sick suspicion and horror upon every other boarder.

Dundee made a sudden resolution. He had not missed the stricken look in Mrs. Rhodes' eyes as she heard Daisy Shepherd's decision to quit the house of horror. And it was vitally necessary to certain plans of his own that those questioned last night by Lieutenant Strawn remain in this house. He rose to his feet, smiling his friendly, disarming smile:

"I know you all will think it's none of my business, and that this speech, if made by anyone, should come from one of the older inhabitants of the Rhodes House. . . . I'll be brief, folks: I realize it will not be very pleasant for any of us to go on living in this house of tragedy, but I, personally, intend to stay. I've paid two weeks' board in advance, and I can't afford to lose it, and I wouldn't have the nerve to ask Mrs. Rhodes to refund any part of it. I imagine most of you have paid in advance.

He paused, noted the reluctant nods of his fellow boarders, then went on: "But there is another angle to be considered. I hate like the devil to point it out, but I'm including myself, too, you know. The fact is, that every inmate of this house is bound to be more or less under suspicion, since the police have undoubtedly decided upon greed as the motive for the murder of poor old Mrs. Hogarth—and every one of us could use more money. In view of these circumstances, I move that we all stick by Mrs. Rhodes, and show the police that we have nothing to run away from."

Mrs. Rhodes gasped, then dropped her quivering face into her hands. Dundee sat down, and over the edge of his coffee cup observed the effect of his speech upon his fellow boarders. They eyed each other furtively, suspiciously, but slowly came to their feet, led pompously by Mr. Lawrence Sharp, "speaking for myself and the wife," Walter Styles and Norma Paige said, "All right," in unison, and Cora Barker, whose haggard face was the color of old linen, nodded mutely. Henry Dowd and Bert Magnus agreed promptly and cheerfully. But Daisy Shepherd shook her head vigorously:

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Rhodes, but honest, I'd go nuts if I stayed here. I've got a perfect alibi, and the police can suspect me all they want to."

Her defiance was interrupted by the ringing of the door bell. Mrs. Rhodes excused herself to answer it, then reappeared almost immediately in the doorway.

"You're wanted, Mr. Dundee," Bonnie Dundee sprang to his feet, grinning cheerfully at his startled table-mates. He found Lieutenant Strawn in the hall and, after asking Mrs. Rhodes, in a low voice, to set aside the dishes used by both Dowd and Magnus, for examination by the fingerprint expert, followed his chief upstairs to the murdered woman's room.

The WOMAN'S DAY

"Did you ever notice," it was a smart looking but by no means handsome woman who put the question to me, "that usually girls who are not pretty make better marriages than the beauties?"

I had not noticed it, so she went on.

"A pretty girl's looks become her handicap, unless she has a hard, shrewd brain—which she usually does not have, because they blind her to those unpleasant facts that a girl who is no beauty faces.

"You see, a pretty girl doesn't have to worry about beaux—because she attracts them as naturally as flowers attract bees.

"She does not have to worry about dates, or bids to proms, or what-not—she does not have to worry about being brilliant or sparkling, if she is pretty enough—and consequently she does not look ahead to the day when her looks fade.

Homely Wisdom

"Not so with the girl who isn't so easy to look at. Unless she is extraordinarily talented or endowed with unusual social graces, she takes the jobs that come along.

"She knows what it means to stand aside and let the pretty girl grab off the men. She knows the bitterness of wondering whether she is going to be a wall flower, or who, if any, is going to cut in on her dances. She knows what it is to need an escort, occasionally.

"And, if she is smart, she knows the necessity of wading right in and picking herself a husband, while the picking is good. She is not blinded by her own light. She is not over-confident from a good quest. She keeps her head—and you know any woman can get the man she goes after, if she wants him bad enough. She selects a man she wants instead of the kind of a man who is out offering himself to a woman's aid.

"Using her head all of the time, as she has to, she keeps her judgment fairly clear, is a better judge of men than the pretty woman who always sees them in a flattering mood.

"I know it is stupid to generalize, but it is true that most beautiful women develop a great taste for adulation, and they are apt to judge men by the compliments they can sing. And you know that is a poor test."

Room for Illustration

We were dining in a public hotel as she spoke. It was the hour before theater, so the room was filled. Many of the tables were small ones with only a man and a woman seated together.

"Now look around," she urged. "The women in here aren't beauties. Most of them look about like you and me. Go to the theater, go to the opera—go anywhere. And you will find that the women that get around, and have the good times, aren't the beauties. They are just the smart ones that know how to get what they want."

Then suddenly she stopped.

"Look at that girl over by the window," she said. She directed my gaze to a table where sat a girl of possibly 20, with what, if it wasn't natural beauty, passed for it—a perfectly marvelous white skin, blue eyes and brown hair, parted in the center, and a mouth that was perfection itself.

"Wouldn't you rather look like that girl, than be the smartest woman in the world?" she exclaimed. I agreed that I would.

FROST CHECKS FLOODS.

Birmingham, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A forecast of clear and cold weather today brought hope for the abatement of flood conditions in Birmingham which have resulted in property damage unofficially estimated at $100,000 and the evacuation of more than 200, negro families from their homes.

The success of any holiday or guest dinner depends largely upon the roast. Each roast has its own particular sauce or gravy which is best suited to serve with it.

The accompaniment chosen for each variety of meat is important. A roast without the proper contrasting flavor is as incomplete as apple pie without cheese.

The following list suggests suitable combinations for the roasts usually chosen for festive occasions:

Roast beef (rolled or standing) is served with Yorkshire pudding and horseradish and a brown gravy—or the natural meat juices, if the roast is "done rare."

Filet of beef is served with a tart spicy jam or conserve and mushroom sauce.

Lamb is served with mint, currant, or cranberry jelly and brown gravy or hot mint sauce.

Pork is served with apple or cranberry sauce.

Ham is served with browned pineapple or a tart relish and hot raisin sauce.

Veal is served with cranberry sauce or a tart jam and brown gravy.

Turkey or chicken is served with cranberry sauce or jelly and giblet gravy.

Duck is served with sliced orange or currant jelly and brown gravy or orange sauce.

Hair that sparkles!

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.—Adv.

by World Famed Authority Hints On How To Keep Well

ONLY A PHYSICIAN CAN TELL IF A CHILD IS REALLY NORMAL

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The average parent is not so much interested in the unusual child as in his own, which means to say that the vast majority of children come within the group known as normal.

However, there is seldom a normal child who is perfect. Investigations made of applicants for the army during the World War indicated that a high percentage had all sorts of minor disturbances, varying from flat feet and enlarged tonsils to defects of the heart action and of the abdominal organs.

Besides the factors known as physical factors, there are mental traits of the child. The term "insanity" has practically disappeared from the considerations of experts in mental diseases, but they recognize all degrees of mental capacity from complete idiocy or imbecility to the extraordinary eccentricities associated not infrequently with great geniuses.

Before one can be certain that the child is a normal child, it is necessary to find the capacity of the child physically and mentally and to find whether it falls within the limits that are generally considered normal. This means that the normal child is one like most other children.

In order to find out whether a child is normal physically, it is necessary to consult a competent physician and he can make his decision only on the basis of a physical examination.

The examination of the mind does not necessarily require a specialist in diseases of the mind. It is possible for teachers who have had some training in the examination of children, for physicians who have some knowledge of psychology to determine whether or not the reactions of the child's mind are normal reactions.

Should these reactions be found defective, it may be necessary to consult a psychiatrist to determine the nature of the mental defect or disturbance.

A mother said to me the other day: "I had only one answer to that. 'Lying is like sickness. The best cure is prevention. If you allow a child to get into the habit of lying, there is no magic cure. The harm has been done. The thing to do is to try to undo the mischief that caused the story-telling in the first place.'"

Of course, we all know the commonest cause of lying—fear of punishment. The truth goes far, far further back than the lie, and even behind the misbehavior. It goes to the cause of misbehavior. Was it real misbehavior in the first place or just something that the child knew we would call misbehavior? In the eyes of the child, was it a wrong act? Am I too quick to punish him? Is he afraid of me?"

If the answers are "yes," the Suppose the lie is caused by inferiority complex, as is sometimes the case, in an effort to set himself up in the eyes of his friend? Suppose he says, "I have a dollar at home," when he hasn't a cent.

This really is a pitiful form of lying. It is too bad that children should be allowed to get so low in their own estimation that they have to resort to subterfuge and deceit to swell that small ego to accountable proportions.

Swell His Ego!

A child like this should be encouraged to feel his importance and assured that he really amounts to something; indeed it takes a long campaign of encouragement to conquer that complex of his. Show him that he only makes himself something to be disliked by telling what isn't true.

Study the form of his lying. The lie that stands side by side with stealing; how about it? That is another matter altogether. Stealing is the problem to deal with here. The lie is merely a by-product.

Very well! If we reason that way, then we have made our decision and there is no argument. But all I have to say is that when things reach that chronic stage, that a child persistently has to defend himself for fear of punishment, the truth goes far, far further back than the lie, and even behind the misbehavior. It goes to the cause of misbehavior. Was it real misbehavior in the first place or just something that the child knew we would call misbehavior? In the eyes of the child, was it a wrong act? ## Notre Dame Favorite To Beat California

Pittsburgh, Yale, Purdue, Tennessee Also Picked to Win Important College Games Tomorrow—78,000 at Yale Bowl.

BY ALLAN J. GOULD
New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The odds are with the home forces in the big conflicts of the gridiron tomorrow, if Soldier Field is considered as "home" for Notre Dame in its clash with the Trojans of Southern California.

In the five games of most significance so far as the championship situation is concerned, nationally, the Hoosiers figure to start with an advantage over Southern California. Pittsburgh appears to have the slight favorite over Vanderbilt in a sliver of the modern pug's game.

It will take tomorrow's fray to determine whether the favorites are still on top with the underdogs again enjoying a field day such as they had last week.

Big Crowds
One of the contrasting features of these outstanding games, tomorrow, is that while tens of thousands of spectators will witness the Tennessee-Vanderbilt and Purdue-Iowa games, because of the limited facilities, approximately 250,000 will see the other three games. Close to 120,000 are expected to pack Soldier Field for the Notre Dame-Southern California contest, with 78,000 in the Yale Bowl and more than 60,000 in Pitt Stadium.

The Iowa-Purdue battle with the Big Ten aspirations at stake, would just about pack any arena in the middlewest but the capacity of the Ross-Ade Stadium at Lafayette is not much over 20,000. The same things is true of the Tennessee-Vanderbilt contest, which involves the Southern Conference title hopes of each team.

With the season's end at hand tomorrow for many of the smaller eastern eleven and for Princeton among the larger teams, climatic games all through the Atlantic seaboard sector of the gridiron are particularly peculiar to such engagements. Princeton men could forget defeats by Brown, Cornell and Chicago if the Orange and Black should bottle Albie Booth in the Bowl at New Haven and send Ed Whitmer scurrying into the Blue ranks of Yale for the winning touchdown. Such a result is considered improbable but the Tiger against Yale always is a different animal from the one which attacks earlier opponents.

Roper sent the Tigers through a defensive drill against the scrubs at Princeton yesterday as Yale polished up its attack. New Haven advised were that both would start, but some believed he would be held for a climax.

Pennsylvania had a long dummy scrimmage and prepared to move into New York for a limbering up drill today in preparation for its game against Columbia.

Williams Favored
Williams has outshone Amherst somewhat on the season, but the Lord Jeffs would consider victory over the Purple tomorrow ample recompense for earlier reverses. Williams however is the favorite.

Cornell had a light workout at Ithaca before entraining with 33 line troops for the invasion of Hanover, N. H., where Dartmouth stands as a big Red team's perfect record of six wins.

With Jim Douglas back in action Arnold Horween will be able to start his regular Harvard eleven against Holy Cross and the best that Harvard has doubtless will be required to meet the Crimson in the big Red team's scoreless deadlock with the purple. Brown, Army and Navy had light work in preparation for their respective games against Norwich, Dickinson and Wake Forest. Fordham brushed up a bit for Thiel, which is to be met at the Polo Grounds.

Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech are on edge, hard work finished, for their game at the Panther Stadium. West Virginia prays for an upset to end the mountain eleven against Georgetown and Penn State is prepared to meet a vigorous invasion by Bucknell.

A LUCKY BREAK

A riot!... A knockout!... A wow!... Adjectives fail but you fail to see it (Friday night, Nov. 22 at Cheney Hall).

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

One of the new National League umpires is Ted McGrew from the A. A. . . the next scene, we hope, will not be the shooting of Ted McGrew . . . he hails from the Ownie Bush neighborhood in Indianapolis and in his kid days was bat boy for the team. . . Tommy Williams, former champ, is 60 now but he wants to fight again . . . he's physical culturing at French Lick Springs, Indiana . . . says he can put up as good a battle as any of the modern pug's that . . . maybe he's right about that . . . too . . . For years Jack Quinn was believed to be a Pole . . . and somebody called him a Welshman . . . but he's Russian, and his real name is Pajkosz . . . who is probably the Volga for spitball pitcher. . . Harry Beecher, 140-pound quarter who played for Yale about 40 years ago, was regarded as great as Albie Booth, though not quite as large . . . he was a grandson of Henry Ward Beecher.

MAJORS' RECORD IS BEST NORTH EVER COMPILED

Team Has Scored 149 Points Against 6 in 8 Games; 1926 Record Went for Naught.

The Majors enter the town series this year with the next best record they have ever been able to compile, if not actually the very best. The north end eleven has scored 149 points against only six for the opposition. Back in 1926, the year the north and south were unable to agree and there was no town series, the north end outfit tallied 180 points against none for its opponents.

The Majors are a combination of the Cloverleaves and the North Ends and their personnel is not much different from that of the Cloverleaves in years gone by. The Cloverleaves won the town championship in 1925 but their record for that year is not available. The scores starting with 1926 and bringing up to date follow:

BONE CRUSHING SERIES TRIO

The Cubs and Majors respectively are going to have their hands full and then some trying to keep the above trio under control in the rapidly approaching town football championship series which gets under way at Mt. Nebo day after tomorrow. They were the best ground gainers in the series a year ago and their work this season seems to indicate a repetition. All have a world of fight and are hard to bring down once hitting on all six. The Majors' chances to a great extent depend upon the work of Moske, who without fear of contradiction, is one of the best football players Manchester has produced in years.

Separate Cubs, Majors At State Theater Show

Members of Both Teams O'GOOFTY SELECTS HIS ALL-AMERICA

Stonebraker, Steele, Kichham and Block Expected to Bear Brunt of Attack.

In order to maintain his neutral attitude and also help emphasize the sectional rivalry between the north and the south this evening any possible chance of the players becoming too chummy on the eve of the town series (there is no danger of that), Manager Hugh J. Campbell of the State Theater has selected two blocks of forty seats apiece on each side of the theater for the members of the Cubs and Majors football teams for tonight's performance.

The Cubs will be seated on the south side of the theater while the Majors will be on the north side. The guests to make up the difference will be the members of the State Theater which has also donated a handsome big silver loving cup to the winner of the town football title.

The substitutes are Sleight, Purdue, tackle; Cannon, Notre Dame, tackle; Pharrner, Minnesota, fullback; Longnecker of Dartmouth, Cotton of Knox, Branch of North Carolina and Chase of Purdue, quarterbacks, and the following utility men: Yunevich, Purdue; Lubratovich, Wisconsin; Stepanovich, Southern California; Andrewievich, Villanova, and Ravezich, North Central College.

O'Goofy chose Stonebraker to mash up that forward wall. Kichham was picked because of his ability in jumping up and down on a pile bodies. Steele is supposed to be a Southern, old Florida or what have you. Block is to be an obstacle in the path of the visiting tackles (block and tackle, ha, ha). Law was selected because he's hard to circumvent in the long run. Munn was picked because he's the favorite of every one of the team's treasurers. We have to have Messinger even if he does mess up traffic a little with his bicycle. Saxe felt it to be used as a smoke screen for Kichham's tactics. Musick was really chosen because after the game we'll have to have a little slow music and candles. Banker is your best friend; try to get something out of him.

Toward the end of his task O'Goofy grew so weary that he picked Lubratovich, Yunevich, Stepanovich, Andrewievich and Ravezich at random, and he doesn't know which is the winner.

NOZZLES VICTORIOUS

A bowling league was started last night at the headquarters of the Manchester Fire Department with the Hydrants and Nozzles meeting on Conran's alleys. Both teams are from Hose Company No. 1. The Hydrants naturally made that possible. Without their presence there would have been no water—or opposition.

Town Series Grid Talk

BY TOM STOWE.
That everybody at the south end doesn't feel so sure the Cubs will beat the Majors can be seen from the following excerpt of a letter received today by the writer from a former south end player now living out of town:
"With the coming 'World Grid Series' no doubt the town is quite 'set up.' It's really too bad but clubs cannot win. I think however, old Jack Dwyer will have a few tricks up his sleeve, and the Cubs will have it pretty hard breaking through a Dwyer-coached line.

Arthur 'Lefty' St. John is the oldest player on the Cubs. He is 25, two more than Captain Walter 'Red' Harrison. The rest of the players are all 25 or save possibly 'Jumbo' Belgrade whose exact age we are not aware at present. It is hard enough keeping track of Jack Dwyer's pounds let alone his milestones.

The State theater silver loving trophy being donated by the State theater to the winner of the town series, is now on exhibition at Murphy's Drug Store at the north end. The Majors say there will be no need of bringing it back south again unless they want to give the Cubs one more last look at the theater party tonight.

The gold wrist watch which the May Jewelry Company is giving to the "most valuable" player on the Cubs team has been turned over to the officials of the south end team. The selection will be made by a committee of five persons, Secretary A. E. St. John said last night. The men will be Coach T. F. Kelley, J. Lupien, R. V. Treat, H. E. Bissell and T. W. Stowe, it was stated by St. John.

The Majors have accepted an invitation by Professor Jay E. Rand of the Orford Soap Company to dress for the series games at the factory on Hilliard street. It is understood that Mr. Rand personally wishes to scrub the Major's headgears with bon ami so that they won't scratch the Cubs.

Johnny Groman, injured Cub player, is very seriously considering playing in the series despite advice to the contrary.
Coach Jack Dwyer last night received a telegram from Harold Ford, colored tackle who played with the Cloverleaves last season. Ford told Dwyer good luck. He is out in Detroit now. Dwyer was also in receipt of a telephone call from Sylvester 'Babe' Chartier at Harrisburg, Pa., also wishing the Majors the best of luck. Incidentally, Chartier was one of the best ends to ever wear a Manchester uniform.

Then a hop over to Pensacola, February 13 to 15 for $3000; then to Savannah February 20 to 22 for $5000 more, and back to Jacksonville February 27 to March 1 for another five grand.

Back to the North
In Florida in March there are the Miami $5000 four-ball and the La Gorce open for $15,000. The legions will start northward, stopping the last of March at Pinehurst for $5650 in prizes.

Who Did Beat Harvard?
Just after the unexpected victory that Michigan scored over the hosts of Harvard recently, commentators printed tidings to the effect that just before the game Old Man Yost had leaped in and taken an active hand in whipping the Wolverines into shape for the game. Thus it was a team coached by Yost personally, the comment indicated, which beat Harvard.

Defending football coaches after their teams lose games is an empty endeavor at most, but the comment above seems misleading to the least. When the season started Yost said he intended giving Kipke a free hand as head coach. From time to time, however, he has been assisting, as Kipke called for aid. He has given individual attention to some of the backs and just before the Purdue game he helped coach the line. He gave no more help before the Harvard game than he has been giving all season, which has consisted of an occasional lift when Kipke asked.

Kipke is a nice, hard-working young man trying to get along. And he needs a little hand.

Hanover—Cornell has been quite successful with forward passes this year but Dartmouth may surprise the Red team with some of its own medicine Saturday. Coach Jack Canell had his team busy with a hurling drill yesterday and it did very well.

GOLF'S WINTER PRIZES.

Winter walks alone across the courses and links in the north, but golf, like birds, has gone south and west. The professionals have started their flight after more than a year of inactivity in a search of places where the winds blow soft.

For several years Los Angeles led in the size of the purse offered visiting brassie swingers, with $10,000. This year Agua Caliente, the new resort across the Mexican border, has set a record with a $25,000 prize. Miami Beach also passed the Los Angeles offer with $15,000 for the La Gorce tournament. Los Angeles, however, has two steerable purses, a $10,000 one in the professional golfers' championship, with total prizes of $10,400.

Good News for Flat Wallets

Horton Smith, who came back from the winter wars last year with an appetitic pocketbook, has gone with Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen and others to try for the $6000 Hawaiian open at Waialae, near Waikiki. They'll be back on the mainland November 28 for the $4000 tournament at Berkeley, Calif. Then comes the P. G. A. at Los Angeles, followed by the Catalina Island open for $7500.

A pro-amateur event at San Gabriel December 17 and 18 is followed two days later by the $10,000 tournament at Pasadena for $4000. The troupe will go to Long Beach January 3 to 5 where $6000 is awaiting some nice drives and long puts. The Los Angeles open and the Agua Caliente tournament follow soon after.

At El Paso January 24 to 26, the golfers will divide $3000 and be on their way to San Antonio for the $7500 Texas open. Then to Waco for $3500 more.
Then a hop over to Pensacola, February 13 to 15 for $3000; then to Savannah February 20 to 22 for $5000 more, and back to Jacksonville February 27 to March 1 for another five grand.

Meikle Is Praised
Charlie Curran, sports editor of the Willimantic Chronicle, writes that Coach Calahan has done a fine job this season. In part, he adds, "He really has whipped together an efficient machine. At the opening practice session, he had available practically all green maters of the Windham team. The latter is really a natural grinder. Small but powerful, he has all the requisites for a leader. He has fight aplenty, and is good on the offense and defense. While his brother will always be my ideal of what a high school football player should be, 'Artie,' I think, is the best back that I have seen this year with the possible exception of 'Beu' Allaire of Bristol.

Art Meikle is brother of Tommy Meikle, former Windham High sensation, now pasturing with the town champion Cubs here. He is the scoring ace of the blue and white and promises to give Manchester plenty of trouble. Ferriner who started the season at quarterback, will be out of the lineup with a knee cartilage injury suffered in the Bristol game last Saturday. Stemmons will take his place.

The probable lineups:
Manchester Willimantic
Hansen . . . . . le . . . . . Miseveth
Spencer . . . . . t . . . . . Bergeron
George . . . . . g . . . . . Twerdy

DE MOLAY PRACTICE

The De Molay basketball team will practice at the Rec tomorrow afternoon and will open its season next Wednesday night.

Football Briefs

New Haven—Whether or not Mal Stevens is in earnest with his announcement that Albie Booth will start the Princeton game at quarterback, Yale is sure to have a light-weight signal caller. Bob Hall, not much bigger than Booth is the other candidate.

Pittsburgh—Secret practice at Carnegie is secret and there's no doubt about it. The Tarlans had a squad of R. O. T. C. members in uniform patrolling the field yesterday as they went through their final workout under cover.

Worcester—Two new names are due to appear in the Holy Cross starting lineup against Harvard. Tony Manfreda and Hank Garrity who have not started a major game this year, are due to fill the halfback posts. Both have been plenty of service in previous contests.

Princeton—Bill Roper evidently found a lineup to his liking when Princeton tackled Leigh last week. He intends to start the same eleven against Yale.

RAINBOW DANCES

It is seldom that two enjoyable events are featured at the same time and at the same place but it so happens that George Bakis is having a grand opening at The Rainbow Inn and Charles Pinney is featuring the Commanders at a big dance in the dance palace, so there will be opportunity to enjoy a few hours at the inn before or after the dance tomorrow evening. The Commanders, who are appearing regularly every Saturday at The Rainbow are now listed by the National Orchestra Attractions of Boston, Mass., and will be backed by this celebrated organization.

Tomorrow evening will offer the public an unusual opportunity to enjoy a complete evening of frivolity and fun with unusual pleasing programs at both the dance palace and the Inn now under the management of George Bakis who has leased the place for a modernistic night club. Several parties have already been booked for banquets at the Inn and a schedule of high class dance attractions have been booked for the dance palace all of which will afford ample opportunity for dining and dancing at this popular Bolton resort.

INSURANCE MAN DIES

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Richard Hooke Wallace, one of the founders of the Girard Life Insurance Co., died last night at his home here. He was 75. He served as vice-president of the insurance company until he retired two years ago. He was a prominent Presbyterian layman and a member of the Union League.

Surviving are two sons and two daughters.

Sand eels never leave the water.

JERSEY'S AUTO LAW

Newark, N. J., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A law designed to remove the careless automobile driver from the road, or make him prove financial responsibility, went into effect in New Jersey today.

state's general motor vehicle laws would bring the operator and owner of an automobile under the operation of the new act, attorneys point out that the violator will be unable to resort to the subterfuge of placing a car in his wife's name.

The motorist becoming involved in any of the infractions will be obliged to produce a certificate showing he is able to pay damages of $5,000 in the event of fatal injury to one person, or $10,000 for more than one.

America is said to have spent $140,000,000 on chewing gum last year. The figure must be low, for we've picked up that much on our shoes.

REDS FIND IMPORTANT MILITARY DOCUMENTS

Officials Say They Would Have Played Great Role in Government Affairs.

Leningrad, Russia, Nov. 15.—(AP) Government officials affirmed today that secret military documents of the highest importance had been discovered in the archives of Russia's famous Academy of Sciences here.

Professor Sergius Oldenburg, who was recently dismissed as secretary of the Academy after thirty years at the post, is charged with having failed to notify the authorities of the presence of these documents, which date from Czarist days. Officials said they "could have played a great role in the strategy of the government."

Three cases of secret documents, deposited by the Czar's viceroys of Poland and bearing the Academy's seals, were among the finds. They were labeled "In case of fire, flood or revolution these cases must be saved."

The government today appointed a special committee to reorganize the Academy and fix the responsibility for withholding the documents. Soviet authorities declared the present membership and staff of the Academy include many elements hostile to the Soviet regime and even persons previously sentenced to death for espionage.

ARTIST DIVORCED

Paris, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Ella Behner Forkum was granted a divorce today from Ralph Leroy Forkum, widely known commercial artist. They were married in St. Charles, Mo., March 15, 1913. The divorce was granted on grounds of abandonment.

Walter Rummel, pianist and grandson of Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, filed suit for divorce against Sara Hetherington Rummel.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The rally on the Stock Market was resumed at the opening today, as trading slackened up notably.

General Electric, Union Carbide, United Aircraft and Timken roller Bearing rose 4 to 4 3/4 points. U. S. Steel and St. Joseph lead mounted 2 points and General Foods, International Nickel, Paramount Famous and Consolidated Gas, rose 1 to 1 1/2 points.

Few large blocks appeared on the tape, although some transactions ran from 5,000 to 10,000 shares. Strong buying poured into the market during the first half hour, with initial gains running from 1 to 10 points.

The wild short covering movement evident at the opening yesterday was absent, and the buying was therefore of an even more impressive character.

The reduction in the New York discount rate to 4 1/2 from 5 per cent and the drop in brokers loans of $710,000,000, carrying the total to the lowest level since June, 1928, together with further assurances from Washington of an income tax cut, were prime factors inspiring renewed confidence.

ERRORGRAMS

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

LIENATTLENEE
He's either first or second.

CORRECTIONS
(1) When the American flag is being lowered the bugler should blow retreat, not taps. (2) The cadet should be saluting the flag, with his hat on. (3) At no time should the flag be allowed to drag on the ground. (4) The cannon is a modern one, and not of Civil War days. (5) The scrambled word is LIEUTENANT.

SENSE and NONSENSE

A FLAPPER'S PRAYER. O Lord, may he be tall and handsome. May he have money and cars galore. May he dance divinely and love me better than life. And, O Lord, may I divorce him easily and find another.

We got a kick out of the following from a Texas paper and you probably will, too:

Card of Thanks. I wish to thank all of those who helped in getting my divorce, especially those who testified to the meanness and cussedness of my late husband.

We halfway expect the dodo to come back some time, but we are certain the cotton stocking never will.

The Valet: "Please ma'am, come quickly, Master has bitten himself." The Mfr. "What do you mean?" The Valet: "He has sat on your false teeth."

According to the cynic, modern politeness consists in doing something unpleasant to people every five minutes and saying "I'm sorry!"

It was their first airplane ride, and the young woman of the party felt quite nervous.

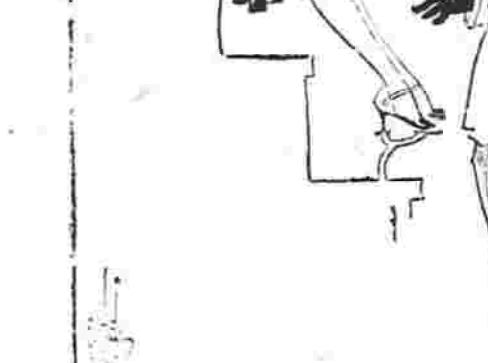

"You will bring us back safely, won't you?" she said to the pilot, with a rather faint smile, as they were about to start.

"Of course I will, miss, he assured her, touching his leather helmet. "I've never left anybody up there yet."

"Faint heart never won fair lady," said the ready-made philosopher.

"That's right," answered the bashful man. "The way the ladies dress sometimes you've got to have

Teacher (to new pupil): "What is your father's name, dear?" New Pupil: "Daddy."

Yes, dear. But what does your mother call him?" "She don't call him anything. She likes him."

What has become of the old-fashioned bathing suit that was described as "darling?"

VILLAINS WERE NOT BORN. MADE. To be unduly elated if you win, or unduly depressed when you lose, is a sign that you are carrying too much sail and not enough ballast.

"Among the most interesting relics of the mound builders that we discovered," said the returned explorer, "was a mummy in a perfect state of preservation with a skull measuring forty-three inches in circumference."

"My gracious!" ejaculated his hearer. "I had no idea there were movie leading men in those days."

HOHENTHAL TAKES OFFICE OF FATHER

Junior Named S. M. Fire District Treasurer at Annual Meeting.

An unexpected development at the annual meeting of the South Manchester Fire District last evening resulted in the election of E. L. G. Hohenthal, Jr., as treasurer of the district in succession to his father, the late E. L. G. Hohenthal, where as it had been generally taken for granted for some time that the office would fall to Louis Marte, assistant treasurer of the Manchester Trust Company, whose name was the only one openly suggested for the place.

Less Than 50 There Less than 50 district voters attended the meeting.

Not wishing to make the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce a purely business one, the committee in charge have obtained as entertainer William B. Halsted, manager of the Manchester and Rockville telephone exchanges, who is rapidly gaining popularity locally as a past master of slight-of-hand.

Clan Gordon, O. S. C., will seat its new officers at a meeting in Tinker hall this evening at eight o'clock.

The officers-elect are as follows and it is urged that every one of them be present tonight for installation: Chief clansman, James Findlay; past chief clansman, Charles Garrow; clansman, Thomas Smith; secretary, John G. Smith; financial secretary, George Findlay; treasurer, Samuel Mason; chaplain, James Munie; senior henchman, Alexander Ferguson; junior henchman, Robert Chambers; warden, James Prentice; sentinel, James Barr; trustees, Alexander McBride, Sr., James Findlay and Charles Garrow.

the collection of $59,274.61 during the year and uncollected taxes due of $3,023.77. As usual, his work has been very well done.

At the opening of the fiscal year, the district had a net debt of $12,366.81 and at the end of the year, a net cash credit of $13,110.05.

During the coming year, we estimate expenses as follows: Regular Expenses $35,000. New hose and extinguishers, painting and new tires 2,000.

Department Officers Those officers of the South Manchester Fire Department which are committed in charge have obtained as entertainer William B. Halsted, manager of the Manchester and Rockville telephone exchanges, who is rapidly gaining popularity locally as a past master of slight-of-hand.
