

WOMAN FLYER IS KILLED AS PLANE FALLS

Was Trying to Land When Machine Nose Dives and Crashes Into Swamp; On Way to Florida.

Woodbine, Ga., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Neva Parrish, flying to Florida from Columbia, S. C., was killed near here today in her plane that fell into the marshes on the Satilla river. Witnesses said the woman apparently was trying to land when the plane went into a nose dive and crashed into the mud, demolishing. The body was taken from the plane and brought here on a truck. Papers on the body gave the identity and indicated the aviator was flying for the Curtiss Flying Service, and had spent last night in Columbia, S. C.

Miss Parrish has a brother-in-law, C. E. Finley, at Great Neck, L. I., where she took off last week. Her ill-fated trip. The body was taken to Brunswick and is being forwarded to Great Neck tonight.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Neva Parrish, killed in an air crash at Woodbine, Ga., today, was a saleswoman for the Curtiss Flying organization and was en route to Miami, Fla., to participate in the air meet there next week. She was one of the winners in the Woman's Cross-Continent Air Derby last year.

LLOYD GEORGE SITS ON JUDGE'S BENCH

Discharges First Prisoner Brought Before Him—Is Thanked for His Deed.

Carnarvon, Wales, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Former Premier David Lloyd George appeared in a new role today when he took his seat for the first time on the magistrate's bench as chairman of the Carnarvon County Quarter Sessions, in the Court House where nearly forty years ago he practiced as a solicitor.

The first prisoner with whom the death left the dock calling for three cheers for Lloyd George because of the merciful way he had been treated. The prisoner was seventy-year-old Samuel Dew, charged with stealing a wheelbarrow. Mr. Lloyd George bound him over in the workhouse for twelve months instead of sending him to prison.

Thanks Judge.
As Dew went downstairs from the dock he cried: "Thank you Mr. Lloyd George. Three cheers for you."

The former Liberal premier, making a speech to the crowded court, recalled that it was 33 years since he had appeared for the last time in that court to plead on behalf of the prisoner.

"The prisoner must have been innocent," Lloyd George said amid laughter, "because the jury found him not guilty. My mind goes back to the days when I understood the trepidations and the nervousness of a young advocate. Now I realize for the first time the anxieties of a young judge."

EINSTEIN ENTHUSIASTS TRY TO "CRASH" GATE

4,500 Persons Try to Find Seats in Small Hall—Police Reserves Are Called.

New York, Jan. 9.—All sorts of riots have occurred in New York and all sorts of rate crashings, but the queerest combination of the two on record occurred last night when a lecture on the Einstein theory, advertised to be given in one of the halls of the American Museum of Natural History, drew a crowd of 4,500 persons. The hall was so full that a spare capable of seating only a very much smaller audience. The crowd overran the attendants and it required determined action on the part of reserve police who answer a call to disperse the excess of the audience after scientific knowledge. Many valuable museum specimens were endangered by the struggling crowd but the only serious damage was the wrecking of an oak door.

SCARLET FEVER CASES.

Bridgport, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Five cases of scarlet fever have been discovered in one family by nurses of the health department, bringing the total number of cases in this city for this month to 21.

The new victims are the five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ayres whose ages range from 9 to 1 years. They have been removed to the Ingleswood hospital.

Freak Weather Tales Ordinary, After All

New Haven, Jan. 9.—(AP)—When the mercury rises well into the 50's, panicles are frozen into with their colors unmarred, worms come to the surface as the frost leaves the ground and warmth starts the sap in pussy willow tips. Bee keepers dislike a warm spell in winter as bees after flight with snow on the ground and the winter storm of honey forcing the keepers to feed sugar syrup artificially in the spring or lose their colonies. Unless a check comes in weather, hardy bulbs, especially tulips will be forcing themselves through the ground. Today the temperature was well up in the 50's in the southern towns of the state.

Blimp's Graduating Class Takes First Chute Leap

Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 9.—(AP)—"Professor" Alva Starr, who converts the Navy's raw material into true sailors of the air, took his graduating class of nine aloft today for a morning of jumping.

Under his supervision, nine youths who succeeded happily in their heroic efforts at nonchalance, stepped into the blimp J-3. They were outfitted in natty white coveralls, and parachutes strapped to their backs were sufficient drags to steps of those who might be inclined to lag.

The last one aboard, and Lieutenant Wilfred Bushnell pointed the nose of the egg-shaped bag upward in a steep climb. At three thousand feet he levelled off, and Starr, a raw

NOTED DETECTIVE DIES; BELIEVED A PATROLMAN

N. Y. Department for the First Time Discloses Work Performed by Their Best "Under Cover Man."

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Unhonorably and unsung, save in the secret files of the New York police department, Patrolman George P. Gilbert is dead, at the age of 55.

And now that he has gone, forever removed from whatever consequences might follow, his story may be told.

Nobody ever paid much attention to him while he was alive. Nobody, that is, save his superiors in the police department.

Four times they commended him. But it had to be in secret. Not for him the honor of standing out in front of a line of his blue-coated fellows, to receive a medal from the commissioner and he never even attained the rank of a detective. He was just a patrolman, with a patrolman's pay.

On the record he left behind in the police files he is credited with very few arrests, but it is a proud record, nevertheless, one of the finest in the department.

"Under Cover Man."
For Patrolman George P. Gilbert was an "under-cover man," one of the most accomplished and courageous detectives the New York Police Department ever had, plenty of arrests—arrests that made big stories in the newspapers—can now be placed to the credit of Patrolman Gilbert. Others got the credit at the time. It had to be that way.

An inconspicuous little man with a slight limp and an innocent expression was Patrolman George P. Gilbert. He did not look like a policeman at all. But his ability to look and act like anyone from a Bowery outcast to an intellectual Radical amounted to genius.

For three years, from 1913 to 1916, Gilbert lived in the very innermost circle of Anarchists without ever being found out. He was so good at it that even his fellow policemen, not knowing who he actually was, regarded him as a dangerous man. Several times in riots they beat him up badly.

Tried by Reds.
Once he was suspected by a group of I. W. W.'s into whose confidence he had worked his way. Several of them had been killed in a bombing. Somebody higher up directed Gilbert to go to a police station and identify the bodies. He was "spotted," and that night the I. W. W.'s tried him for his life in a Harlem cellar. Some of them were in favor of immediate execution, but he talked his way out.

His most virulent antagonist that night was Amadeo Polignani, who was also a police "under-cover man," although Gilbert did not know it. Polignani knew all about Gilbert, however. He demanded that Gilbert be put to death at once—taking a chance that, by so doing, he would cause a division of opinion. It worked. Polignani is still in the

PURDON ASKED TO WORK OUT SUGAR SCALE

Department Expert Tells Lobby Probers Hoover's Secretary Made Request; Also Spoke With Senators

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—R. L. Purdon, sugar expert of the Commerce Department, told the Senate lobby committee today he had been asked by Walter Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries, to try to work out a sliding scale for sugar duties in the pending tariff bill.

Purdon said he understood several government departments had been asked by Newton to work on a sliding scale, to ascertain if it was practicable.

Purdon added that he worked out several different sliding scale proposals and Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee, asked him what became of them.

"I still have them," he replied, as a laugh rose in the audience.

Passed On To Smoot.
Purdon added that he understood his proposals had been transmitted to Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committee through the White House.

Later, he said, he was asked by Smoot to discuss the sliding scale with representatives before beginning in an attempt to work out a satisfactory sugar tariff.

A sliding scale was considered by Smoot, but the plan was dropped when opposition developed.

Questioned about a "highly confidential" memorandum sent by William H. Baldwin, New York publicist, to Junior Owens, secretary of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, Purdon said the information might have been obtained from him.

Nothing Confidential.
He added that nothing in the memorandum could be considered as confidential.

The bottlers' association has been conducting a campaign against a high sugar duty in the tariff bill.

Purdon said he had consulted with his superiors before suggesting the work on the sliding scale and had spent several months on it.

He said he had consulted with a number of representatives of sugar companies and with Senators Watson, Shortridge and Hawley and Senator Longworth, Tilson, Hawley and Snell.

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Figures showing why the Prohibition Bureau has been concerned in the growth of illicit corn sugar distilling were made public by Prohibition Commissioner Doran today, who said that of 3,864 stills seized in the northeastern section of the country, 3,340 were manufacturing alcohol from corn sugar.

Good Liquor.
The alcohol manufactured by the plants, the commissioner said, was just as good a product as that manufactured by legally licensed distilleries and the plants seized frequently were found to have cost as much as $40,000 or $50,000.

The other 400 plants captured in the northwestern states, he said, were "cooking" plants operating on alcohol products from which other ingredients are eliminated. Most of the latter stills, he said, were operated in the metropolitan districts and within eighty miles of New York City.

Doran expressed concern a week ago over the immense increase in the production of corn sugar which he said had jumped from 152,000,000 pounds in 1922 to approximately 980,000,000 pounds in 1929.

America's "Peace" Envoys to London Naval Conference

HERE ARE HIGHLIGHTS OF THE NAVAL PARLEY

International Authority Explains What It's All About In Simple Terms—A Most Timely Article.

By CHARLES HODGES

The real significance of the Anglo-American naval negotiations is that the forthcoming naval conference in London should enable the world to read the future for the next generation in terms of peace or war.

There is nothing ingenuous in facing international facts. We all know that a more disastrous conflict than war between America and Britain cannot be imagined. No war, unfortunately, is yet unthinkable. Indeed, everything that these two teaches must change the oft-repeated course of events—or fight.

The plain truth is ominous. To the British Empire, maritime supremacy has meant everything. Whether wresting it from Spain, Holland and France or keeping it against the threat of Germany, seagoing of 300 years has been the most jealously guarded national asset of Britain. Every challenge from Spanish Armada to German high sea fleet has evoked in his ultimate conflict.

ORIGIN OF THE NEXT WAR?
The call for the naval conference at London is the new challenge of peace to these three centuries of struggle, Britannia may, as the popular anthem goes, rule the waves. The smoke of the American battle fleet, however, has loomed lowering on the horizon since the World War. England frankly has feared the consequences of the new rivalry.

From such international distrust, enmity between nations grows and which readily can endanger world peace. The origins of what can become even today "the next war" lie embedded in such fears and misunderstanding, Anglo-American statesmanship is endeavoring at this crucial moment to break the vicious historic circle of war-breeding animosities.

THE POLITICS OF DISARMAMENT
The two contenders for sea power, the prize of national greatness, are not alone in their efforts. Since the armistice the world over have been attempting.

SON KIDNAPED.

Milwaukee, Jan. 9.—(AP)—John C. Gohren, West Allis grocer, was directed in a note signed by his 22-year-old son Gilbert to pay $10,000 ransom today for the young man's safe return from the hands of kidnapers.

Gilbert disappeared last night. Later Gohren found in mail box a note written by his son, saying: "I am being kidnaped by seven or eight men. They are taking me to Chicago. They are forcing me to write this note. They demand $10,000 ransom, to be left near Mukwonago at 2 p. m. tomorrow."

PRINCESS REVIEWS BIG ARMY PARADE

Future Queen of Italy Sees Pick of Military Units; 300 Planes Maneuver.

Rome, Jan. 9.—(AP)—More than 22,000 men of arms, the pick of Italy's military contingents passed in review today before the new Princess of Piedmont, Italy's future queen, who until her marriage to Prince Humbert yesterday, was Marie Jose of Belgium.

The crown prince commanded his own regiment, the 92nd Infantry, from Turin made up principally of his own native Piedmontese. The regiment was well in the van.

The Kings, princesses, the eutes and foreign attaches, all on horseback made a brilliant spectacle.

Aerial Exhibition
The climax of the review came in an aerial funnel formation of 300 airplanes brought from all Italy's racmaspekkash Ja fl. C. C., 0.1 air camps for the purpose. Slower machines gyrated in the slower circles with those faster gradually making up the outer circles, thus forming a conic figure. This is considered one of the most difficult feats of aviation.

Tonight's Program
This evening the square before the Quirinal Palace will be lighted brilliantly and a special fireworks display set off on the historic hill to the west of Rome. There will be a brilliant reception at ten p. m. by Prince Boncompagni Ludovisi, governor of Rome.

Tomorrow morning the royal pair will review a procession of Roman school children in the Piazza di Siena, and in the afternoon they will witness a procession of civil authorities from all over Italy. Tomorrow evening the governor of Rome will be the host at a gala performance at the Royal Opera House.

The prince and princess will not start their honeymoon until Saturday, leaving then probably for the royal hunting lodge at San Rossore, near Pisa. Formal entry will be made into Turin, the prince-bridegroom's city of residence some time next week.

POPE SEES CARDINAL

Vatican City, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Pope Pius early today granted an audience to Cardinal Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, who officiated at yesterday's wedding of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose, and exchanged impressions with him about the wedding and the Pauline chapel and the bride pair's visit to the Vatican.

Cardinal Maffi later said that the Pontiff was most happy and satisfied with the "really worthy and Christian manner" in which the marriage had been celebrated.

The Pope later received the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, who presented him with 65 volumes of the official history of Luxembourg bound in blue leather and stamped with the royal seal. He warmly thanked the duchess for her gift and gave her a jubilee medal in gold.

MACINTOSH PETITION IS FORMALLY DENIED

Yale Professor Applied for Citizenship But Said He'd Refuse to Bear Arms.

New Haven, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The application of Professor Douglas C. MacIntosh of the Yale Divinity School for U. S. citizenship was formally denied today in papers filed by Judge Warren B. Burrows with the clerk of the U. S. District Court.

The denial was based on Prof. MacIntosh's refusal to swear he would bear arms in defense of the United States. The professor said at the time of the court hearing on the question of granting him naturalization papers that he felt it was morally justifiable to bear arms in defense of the United States. He said his first allegiance was to God.

The court hearing was last June and a formal decision on his application was delayed, after the nature of it had been indicated, that Prof. MacIntosh's attorney might present an appeal to the United States Supreme Court. As no action has been taken the court filed the decision today.

Prof. MacIntosh who is a citizen of Canada, has allegiance to the Sovereign of Great Britain.

All Optimistic as to Success Of Conference—Robin- son Says If Arms Cut Can Be Arranged It Will Mean Start of a Permanent World Peace.

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Senators David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, and Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, were the first members of the American delegation to the London Naval armament limitations conference to arrive here preparatory to sailing for England at 3 p. m. today. The two Senators came from New York where they had spent the night.

The delegation which came from Washington on a special train, and headed by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, arrived at the pier shortly before 2 o'clock.

Secretary Adams went immediately to his suite and declined to issue a statement.

Secretary of State Stimson and Mrs. Stimson arrived from New York shortly after the Washington party reached the pier, completing the personnel of the delegation.

Senator Reed said: "I am sure the ultimate success of the cause of the conference. There is less 'diplomacy' exhibited in this conference than any international meeting heretofore."

Senator Robinson said "It is my personal feeling that the test before the conference is both important and difficult."

"If reduction in armament of navies of the world can be arranged," he continued, "the result will be recognized as a start for a permanent world peace, it would be deplorable if the conference failed through international intrigue. I am hopeful of ultimate success."

Shortly after Senators Reed and Robinson had boarded the liner Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, Mrs. Morrow and their daughter, Elizabeth, arrived from their home in Englewood, N. J.

Ambassador Morrow declined to make any statement beyond saying that he would let Secretary Stimson speak for the delegation.

He also declined to comment upon his announced candidacy for the United States Senatorship from New Jersey next year.

ON THE WAY

With the American Naval Mission en route to New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Flying the flags of a Special, the train carrying the official party of the American delegation to the London naval parley rushed on a fast schedule through four states today for the mid-afternoon sailing of the party on the S. S. George Washington.

A small handful of friends of members of the party, totaling about 80 gathered at the Union station for final farewells. After the departure from the capital, the members of the party settled down for the run to Jersey City, where the members await the train for a quiet trip to the ship's pier in Hoboken.

Stimson At Pier
Secretary Stimson, chief American delegate and a number of other officials and advisers who had already gone to New York, will join the party at the pier. In the absence of the secretary and all of the delegates except Secretary Adams, the conversations on the train relating to the forthcoming conference were of an informal nature. Mr. Stimson expects to resume formal talks with his colleagues during the voyage to Plymouth where the George Washington is due January 17.

The special, which made the trip over the Pennsylvania railroad lines to Jersey City, consisted of a club car, observation car, two dining cars and five parlor cars.

Hartford, Jan. 9.—(AP)—All trace of the three convicts, Roland Lalone, Leo Landry and Watson Montague, youths who escaped from the State Prison at Wethersfield early Saturday morning, has ended at Pittsfield, Mass., Warden Charles S. Reed said today. The warden admitted that no more information of their probable movement has been received since the theft of clothing in a Pittsfield store yesterday. Prison investigators did not venture out into the field again today, for they are awaiting clues. In the meantime the warden continues to distribute posters, descriptions and pictures of the fugitives in every direction and to communicate with other communities by telephone and telegraph.

PROM NOT STRICTLY A FORMAL AFFAIR

Some Misunderstanding Here Over Proper Dress—Principal Quimby Explains.

Manchester High school students and their parents apparently are under the misapprehension that the annual Junior Promenade, leading social function of the school year, which will be held Feb. 8, is a strictly formal affair. According to a statement today from Principal Clarence P. Quimby, such is not the case.

"The Junior Prom," Mr. Quimby says, "is a semi-formal function. So far as undergraduates are concerned, it is informal in dress but formal in arrangement and procedure. Others have generally regarded the Prom as an affair for formal dress. But insofar as the students are concerned, formal attire is not required or even preferred. The reason is that in such event the expense is too great. Parents find it expensive enough to send their children through school without the unnecessary addition of such a comparatively tremendous item," Mr. Quimby concluded.

U. S. REGULATION OF BUSES ASKED

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Edward W. Wakelee, vice president of the Public Service Coordinate Transport of New Jersey, told the House interstate commerce committee today that his company would not build large terminals in New York and Philadelphia without government regulation of interstate motor buses.

The witness, speaking for the Parker bill, which would give the Interstate Commerce Commission regulatory powers over interstate motor bus operation, described the bill as the "minimum regulatory act" necessary to serve public necessity in this field.

Asserting that enactment of the Parker Bill would tend toward a more sound and rapid development of interstate bus traffic, Wakelee said his company would "certainly not" build $2,000,000 terminals in New York and Philadelphia when conditions were such that some independent operator could drive up in front of the terminals the day they were finished and take the business his company has developed.

Largest Operator.

Wakelee, who represented the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners, the National Association of Motor Bus Operators, the American Electric Railway Association, and the American Short Line Railroad, said his company had been described as the largest motor bus operator in the country.

With 2,500 buses, he said, the company had $45,000,000 invested in buses alone, exclusive of the 1,500 street cars which it operates throughout the state. The street railway investment of the company, he said, was between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Buses, he testified, had replaced street cars in their system to the extent of between 150 to 200 miles of track.

MIDGET AUTOMOBILE APPEARS ON STREETS

Sil Discenza Little Home Made Car Attracts Lot of Attention Today.

A car built with a view to solving the present-day problem of parking made its appearance in Manchester this afternoon, driven by its inventor S. Sil Discenza of 1414 Hartford, and caused considerable comment by those who saw the little midget measuring 71 inches in length and 42 inches in width.

Discenza said that a company is now being formed to place the car, which he says is capable of 63 miles an hour and 40 miles on a gallon of gas, on the market at a low figure. It is powered with a specially built four cylinder motor and has a speedy pick-up and a such power. The chassis is six inches from the ground and insures riding safety at all speeds.

With a reporter in the comfortable seat beside him Discenza gave an exhibition of the little car's advantages by taking it up the Look-out at Highland Park. Curves were taken at 35 miles an hour without the slightest sensation of skidding or turning over. On the straightaway the car proved everything its owner claimed. Two can be seated in great comfort in the runabout when it comes to turning around in the way it was designed in three-quarters the width of the road.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY COMPETES WITH ITSELF

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The offer of the Standard Oil Co. of New York to acquire the White Eagle Oil and Refining Co. is regarded in Wall street as indicating a further breaking down of marketing partitions set up when the old Standard Oil Company was dissolved in 1911.

The country was then divided into individual retail marketing areas for each of the new Standard companies.

White Eagle, with its subsidiary, Nicholas Oil Co. of Omaha, will give Standard of New York outlets in Nebraska, the Dakotas, Kansas, Colorado, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Missouri, Utah, Montana and Wyoming, bringing it into the retailing territories of the Standard Oil companies of Nebraska and Indiana.

A notable precedent for the breaking of one of the Standards into the marketing territory of another was provided a year ago when the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey acquired the Beacon Oil Co., operating in the territory of the Standard Oil Co. of New York in New England and New York state.

Principal C. P. Quimby of Manchester High school, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Aetna Life Men's Club at the Hotel Bond, in Hartford, last night. Over 4000 were present. Romy's quartet, famous New York singers, provided a very pleasing program. Mr. Quimby's subject was "What Are You Laughing At."

Kingsbury said that "it appears that the investigation will relate to the adoption of a code of marketing ethics by the oil industry."

TO PROBE GAS PRICES

San Francisco, Jan. 9.—(AP)—With a Federal investigation of 33 major petroleum corporations, the U. S. Dept. of Justice has taken anti-trust laws set for Monday before a Grand Jury here, K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California issued a statement declaring "the situation presents the disconcerting aspect of one department of government challenging the legality of an act in an attempt to 'freeze out' the small independent dealers, and that they included in price-fixing when the 'war' was finished.

ROCK-SLIPS AT NOTCH AGAIN OCCUPIES CREW

Several Days of Work Required to Get Rid of Threatening Masses.

Bolton Notch, with its unstable strata of rock, continues to be a menace to the tracks below, has been occupying the attention of the right-of-way department of the New Haven railroad for several days past. The sudden thaw, following weeks of freezing weather, has caused serious unsettlement of the rock veins and many fragments of stone have slipped away, falling into the tracks.

Since yesterday morning an enlarged gang has been steadily at work clearing a take-out of stones. A work car, crew and derrick were sent to the Notch yesterday morning and besides clearing away the rock fragments that had already fallen part of the crew's job was to break down the sections of rock which had become loosened and threatened to fall.

One mass of rock that was piled loose in the course of this operation was so big that the derrick could not handle it and another more from Hartford.

The crew was back on the job early this morning, reinforced in numbers and provided with bigger derricks. The work of clearing away the face of the cut is to be continued for several days longer.

Since there is only a single track through the Notch, the derrick and work car have to be moved back to Steel's Crossing in Vermont every time a train in either direction is due.

What shall I do at 60, when they will not give me a job? Take a dose of chloroform (says one man) or look for a bank to rob.

No, this will I do at 60 and the years that hurry along: Try to use my rich experience to keep others from doing wrong. (Not copyrighted.)

Before buying that new rug or furniture for your home let me take you to the places where real values can be found. I have helped others in the selection of things needed for the home, I can help you.

TO RETURN BROWN TO CONNECTICUT

Confessed Slayer of Dominick Zito to Be Brought Here for Murder Trial.

New Haven, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Police pushed with all possible speed today arrangements for bringing Arthur Brown, 20, now in a New Jersey workhouse, to this city, so that he may be presented before a Grand Jury on Jan. 21, in connection with the slaying of Dominick Zito.

Brown, according to Deputy Coroner J. J. Corrigan confessed Saturday on November 12 he took Zito "for a ride." The confession, the deputy coroner said, named Orazio Maltese as the man who commissioned Brown to impose gangland's penalty of death on a "squealer." In his confession Brown said he was paid $15 for his work.

To Shorten Sentence. Zito's self-confessed slayer is serving a year's sentence in the Mercer county workhouse, Trenton, N. J., for the theft of an automobile. Police will request the New Jersey officials to reopen the case, so that Brown's sentence may be shortened.

Maltese was arrested two weeks ago. The police are also holding Dominick Schifano, Vincenzo Pero, and Matteo Scuteri of Ansonia, who was arrested yesterday. Maltese, the coroner said, will probably be charged with first degree murder. Zito, the police charge, was a member of a bootlegging and white slave gang.

Brown's Confession. Brown in his confession according to Corrigan, said that Zito had been slain on a Derby road.

"Did you ever hear of a guy getting bumped off for ratings?" Brown is said to have asked Zito. "What do you mean?" Zito replied.

"I mean that I'm going to bump you off, you rat; for squealing on the gang," Brown said, according to the coroner.

Brown went to Trenton after the slaying and with two other men stole an automobile. Brown was arrested but his companions escaped.

Cathedral Plot. In March, 1915, there was a plot to blow up St. Patrick's cathedral. Gilbert tipped his superiors. When the bombers arrived the cathedral was alive with detectives, posing as worshippers, sightseers, and even as scrubwomen. The bombers were arrested. There was a story in the papers. And for Gilbert—secret commendation.

During the war Gilbert was assigned to look after the activities of pro-German and Radical conspirators along the waterfront. Working as a longshoreman in Hoboken, New York and Yonkers, he was inconspicuously active in nearly all the detection of alien and Anarchistic activities in that part of New York.

"Singed Cats" is the police argot for detectives of Gilbert's type. And very high on the roll of the most valuable "Singed Cats" the New York Police Department has ever had will stand forever, his superiors said today, the name of Patrolman George F. Gilbert.

MAY BE MEMBER OF BOOTLEG RING

Alcorn's Men Take Into Custody Man Arrested by New Britain Police.

Alcorn today took into custody for questioning in connection with the Hartford bootleg liquor racket, Guespeli Larose, of 383 Front street, Hartford, who was arrested in this city late last night by local policemen who considered his presence suspicious. It is said that he will be presented before the special Grand Jury now investigating law violations in Hartford.

Find Booze in Car. While the police "flying squad," which roams around the city in an automobile, was driving along East street before midnight, officers saw an automobile parked at the side of the road in a lonely section. They stopped to investigate and questioned Larose, who was in the vehicle. They found 12 five-gallon cans, all empty in the car and as Larose could not explain their presence he was taken to headquarters. The arrest was made on a technical charge of not having the registration of the automobile in his possession.

Through the night Larose was questioned concerning his connection with a Hartford bootleg liquor ring but he steadfastly denied any association. He admitted having been convicted three times in Hartford on charges of violating the liquor laws and having served time in jail.

New Britain police communicated with State's Attorney Alcorn's office today and Alcorn sent officers to this city to take Larose to Hartford for further examination. Police here suspect that Larose was waiting at a rendezvous to obtain a supply of alcohol.

The automobile in which Larose was found figured in an exciting chase in this city last Sunday night although at the time it was driven by Joseph Pavano, 24, of Kensington. A policeman saw it speeding on West Main street in the direction of Plainville and went in pursuit. He overhauled Pavano in Plainville at the end of a three mile race, at times attaining a speed of 58 miles an hour. Pavano, said he was on his way to visit a friend in Winsted. FURTHER DELAYS AT COURT MARTIAL

Commander Says Coast Guard Trial Will Probably Be Resumed Tomorrow.

New London, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Further delay was experienced here today in the general court martial of Coast Guardsmen involved in the liquor escapade which followed the seizure of the rum-ship For-De-Mar. As a result it was questionable whether any more of the cases would be heard today.

Commander M. J. Ryan, president of the court, said this morning that unexpected delay had been occasioned in the preparation of specifications and that while possible it was doubtful that any more of the cases would be ready for the court before tomorrow. There are still 29 of the original 39 cases to be disposed of, the first ten sailors pleading guilty to charges of intoxication. All of the cases thus far disposed of were from the destroyer Ericsson which is in command of Lieut. Commander H. G. Hemingway. Besides the Ericsson there are three cases on both the destroyer Wilkes, in command of Lieut. Commander J. P. Farley, and the Cummings in command of Lieut. Commander E. F. Stone, two on the destroyer Shaw, in command of Commander G. T. Finlay, and seven from section base No. 4.

Lieut. Commander Farley returned from leave today and took immediate steps to prepare the cases aboard his vessel for the general court martial. It was intimated that Commander Farley, who was away at the time of the drinking, desires to make the charges against his men far more serious than the original specifications called for.

Several new members were signed up last meeting. Swimming was held at the Rec from 5:30 to 6:30 Wednesday. Next Tuesday the meeting will be held at the Hollister street school.

A. M. Byers advanced 2 1-8 points on the first sale and Westinghouse Electric, Western Union, City, and Standard Gas & Electric advanced a point or more.

U. S. Steel quickly extended its initial fractional gain to 1 point. The recent ability of the market to withstand selling pressure apparently inspired a resumption of operations for the advance by professional traders in the early dealings. Little opposition was offered, and before the end of the first half hour at least a dozen stocks were selling 2 or more points higher.

Reports of an upturn in steel activity this week probably stimulated the demand for the steel and allied shares. U. S. Steel Common, Republic Steel and A. M. Byers recording early gains of 2 points or more. THURSDAY, JAN. 9, 1930

a marriage ceremony. Most justices in such communities have gone along under the impression that these activities marked, too, the limit of their powers.

Now, as the result of a Supreme Court decision in a Bridgeport graft probe case, it appears that a justice of the peace can do a lot of things of which he hadn't suspected himself capable.

Down in the Park City a while ago one of the numerous bridges wore out and a new one had to be built. It has been claimed that there was some rather ghastly shenanigan with the contracts. At all events the bridge, not such a very big bridge either, cost about $185,000 more than it had any business to cost on the most liberal of estimates. There seemed to be a lot of trouble in getting anybody prosecuted or even investigated. So one bright young man who belonged to the "outs" dug up a forgotten statute and had a court of three justices of the peace convened under it, himself one of the trio. This court, assuming for local purpose much of the powers of a county grand jury, summoned a number of persons who had had to do with the building of the costly bridge. No one had been accused of anything. The court was sitting as a board of inquiry.

The persons summoned, acting under the advice of their lawyers, condescended to appear but they didn't condescend to answer a single question. They pooh-poohed the validity of this unprecedented court and its ability to command their testimony. When they refused to answer questions the justice court sentenced them to jail until such time as they should be ready to respond. Immediately the stubborn witnesses had recourse to habeas corpus proceedings and it was arranged that the question of the court's powers and constitutional rights involved should be submitted to the Supreme Court.

Now comes the decision, supporting the justices, automatically rendering the witnesses liable to imprisonment, putting the seal of approval on the court of justices as an inquisitorial body and opening up the way, it is possible, for a new and important avenue of research into wrong doings which may be merely suspected.

We gather that such a body has all the broad powers of a grand jury with the additional one of enforcing its demands for evidence by jailing an obstreperous witness for as long as may be necessary. It isn't difficult to imagine the ruckus that may be kicked up under such a system when it is possible to constitute, almost any time, a court of justices not under the control of a municipal administration. The justice of the peace is looming large.

EDWARD W. BOK

The passing of Edward W. Bok, regrettably before the fulfillment of the traditional span of life, removes from the web of American existence a figure scarcely duplicated in the whole involved pattern. Bok was an example of a type, the foreign-born citizen who arrives at high distinction and who makes almost a fetish of America, but an example drawn in lines so bold and so unconventional as to become almost a cartoon.

Possessing an extraordinary intelligence, high principles and limitless ambition within definite lines, there was nevertheless about this man a naive and almost infantile yearning for adulation and an utter lack of the sense of humor as it might affect himself which combined to constitute a character almost unique. If he was egotistical in a degree that would have made another person insupportable, there was always an ingenuousness in the ego that earned for him the affectionate toleration that is extended to a dear little braggart boy of six.

And it is very much to be doubted whether, in all the frank self-advertising with which Mr. Bok surrounded himself—and there have been few better personality exploiters than he was—Edward Bok did not sincerely believe that he was primarily advertising America and America's opportunities and only secondarily boosting Edward Bok, monumental example of those opportunities.

At all events, he was probably the most vocally appreciative immigrant who ever arose to prominence and fortune in the United States—a splendid citizen and a rather wonderful American.

DEADLOCK UNLIKELY

Intimations from Washington that Federal Judge and former United States Senator W. S. Kenyon of Iowa, member of President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission, is the "leak" through whom stories of the Commission's activities are reaching dry senators in advance of any commission report do very scant credit to Judge Kenyon. For his sake it is to be hoped that they may turn out to be mistaken.

But whether Judge Kenyon is or is not peddling to former associates in the Senate tips as to the intentions of the commission, it is highly improbable that there is going to be a "deadlock" in that body. It is, as a matter of fact, impossible to see how there can be. There is no requirement that the commission agree unanimously on anything. There is nothing to prevent a minority from bringing in its own report, either on all subjects covered by the commission's inquiry or on any one subject. To forecast a deadlock, or the abandonment of the Commission's work, seems to us to be little less than ridiculous.

FLAMING YOUTH CURLEY

Mayor Curley of Boston demands that the state of Massachusetts remove its restrictions upon the city and metropolitan district and let the community of the Hub fulfill its own great destiny under home rule.

There is something about this demand strongly reminiscent of the callow youth who, while living on the bounty of the old man, indignantly protests that he is too grown up to submit to being told where not to go, how early to come in nights or how much money not to spend in nocturnal gyp clubs.

Since the Bay State commonwealth has had to serve as a financial crutch for the city of Boston for a good many years it is likely to insist that at least until the city is able to take care of itself financially it will have to continue submitting to some sort of control.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 9.—Some of the most versatile youngsters to be found among the great white wayfarers are the second and third generations of famous old theater folk. Take the tribe of Lew Fields, for instance, Lew, as any of the oldsters will tell you, was one of the best of yesteryear's clowns. Today, Dorothy Fields, his daughter, turns out some of the snappiest words and music to be found in any of the Broadway revues. Hers was the score of "Blackbirds," and hers will be the music of Lew Leslie's "International Revue," one of the forthcoming highspots of the year. His son has been responsible for the books of half a dozen music show hits, written in collaboration with Rogers and Hart.

Oscar Hammerstein 2nd, of the Hammerstein clan, is another who took to opera books at an early age. Before he had achieved 30, he was responsible for at least half a dozen hits. Such wows as "Rose Marie" and the current "Sweet Adeline" are but a couple of his products. Furthermore, he has been content to take his author's percentage and has but once gambled his money on a show. While his shrewd old forebears were taking a wallop on the chin from theatrical "flops," he cleaned up a couple of fortunes and let the other fellow take the chance.

Practically all of the younger George M. Cohans are headed for theatrical careers and Eth Barrymore's daughter announced no later than last summer that she would follow the Barrymore tradition. A daughter of Laurette Taylor bobbed up in the writing world just the other day.

The offspring of Finley Peter Dunne, of "Mr. Dooley" fame, now pens "second string" dramatic essays for the New York papers. The blond and eye-flicking Joan is the talented youngest of Richard Bennett, the actor. And everyone already knows that the Costello sisters descend from the veteran, Eva Le Gallienne has Richard the great poet, for a daddy. And so it goes!

One of the most interesting new names in the theatrical producing arena, by the way, is that of Lew Leslie, who migrated suddenly down from Harlem a couple of seasons ago. For beyond 125th street, Leslie had for several years been a sporadic producer of negro revues, married to a talented performer.

Then he decided to come to Broadway, bringing his "Blackbirds"—the colored revue which stamped even Paris and London. But all didn't look so promising—at least, at first.

But there was a song in this show — "Can't Give You Anything But Love," which was indited, by the way, by the aforementioned Mlle. Fields. Before the show itself had even begun to find its feet, this song was going the length and breadth of the land.

And funny enough that was, too. It so happened that this was not the first appearance of that particular tune. It had been rescued from a "flop" and such is the uncertainty of a popular number, it had almost been dumped in the general wastebasket when rescued. When "Blackbirds" finally clicked, the jewels of Mrs. Leslie were in "Uncle Moe's," the music secured going to help pay the salaries.

be hoped that they may turn out to be mistaken.

But whether Judge Kenyon is or is not peddling to former associates in the Senate tips as to the intentions of the commission, it is highly improbable that there is going to be a "deadlock" in that body. It is, as a matter of fact, impossible to see how there can be. There is no requirement that the commission agree unanimously on anything. WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington, Jan. 9.—Prayers please, for the president. The louder and longer to better.

For any ordinary citizen who believes he has important troubles of his own, nothing can be more cheering or encouraging than the consideration of the many difficulties which confront Mr. Hoover. He is, to be sure, certain of his job and of enough to eat, which is more than can be said for many ordinary citizens, but the number and weight of the problems worrying Mr. Hoover are probably equalled by those of few men in the civilized world.

The fact that he is thin-skinned, the fact that he instinctively prefers action to inertia and the further complicating fact that he loves to administer but hates to fight do not make the prospect a bit rosier.

All Kinds of Problems

There is possible trouble on all fronts and certain trouble on most of them. Problems political and economic, domestic and international. All to be faced without even a working administration majority in the state. And with ever so many persons in Washington who would be delighted to see Hoover make a few flops.

The president, for all his ability, is not popular here. No president ever is, for that matter, but this one has managed to create more actual bitterness against him than Coolidge and Harding were able to stir up together. Of course, much of this bitterness, considering its sources and motivation, is complimentary. But seldom helpful.

Hoover starts the year dealing with his most irritating and fundamentally most difficult problem, prohibition. He probably can get through 1930 on that issue by swimming with the tide, giving the dregs what they want. It may involve jolting in his Committee on Law-Enforcement Observance as an emergency political instrument and running it as regards realization of its original lofty purposes, but the president has always rebelled at the thought of risking the success of his administration on such a hybrid issue as prohibition. Still, solution is not in sight.

None of the problems which worried him last year will be any less pressing. He still can't be sure that the tariff bill will look like when it reaches him. It is very likely to contain the pesky part taking away the existing presidential flexibility power, one of the two things he has vigorously opposed in the tariff fight, which means that he must sign it while holding his nose or veto the bill, to the great rage of both industry and agriculture.

Doubt has been growing concerning the possibility of reducing the navy as the result of the Hoover conference this month, despite Hoover's early announced anticipation of reduction, and ever so many people will tell you that the conference is going to be Hoover's first major flop. At best it appears that instead of reducing the navy we will have to build the other 10 of our 15-cruiser program which haven't been begun while postponing replacements of capital ships. At worst there ought to be a closer rapprochement between the Macdonald and Hoover governments, but whether Hoover can come out of his countrymen in a question which probably is bothering him considerably.

Later on in the year he will have to take on Senator Borah, Johnson, Moses and others in a finish bout over the World Court, to whose protocol he recently had our signature affixed. One guesses that the president will win on this issue, though he likes to exchange wallop with Borah less than with anyone.

Business and farm conditions, which no one can be quite sure about, are another source of White House worry. Hoover will get the blame, however unjustly, or the credit, for any further recession or improvement. There is widespread hope that the recession in employment and business activity noted late in 1929 will soon be cleared up. There is some question, though, whether the functioning of the Federal Farm Board will show itself of immediate tangible benefit to farmers in the mass.

One must omit mention of various minor bogies and conclude with reference to the congressional elections. Hardly anyone predicts that the large Republican majority in the House will be overturned, but you can hear very serious predictions that the Democrats will have a majority in the Senate.

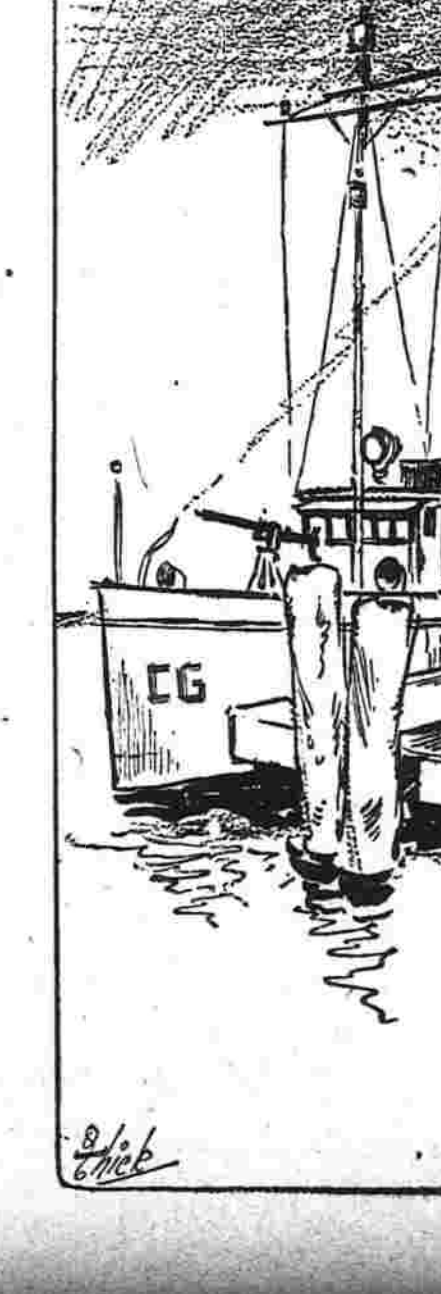

In which case, when you think of all those Republican progressive senators who love to vote with the other party, who happens in the Senate will be something of a nightmare for Hoover. The outcome may not be as sad for Hoover as his enemies hope, but it can't possibly have him any better off.

The one thing predictable seems to be that if Hoover comes through with no loss of prestige his friends ought to be able to justify his claims to greatness.

THE ENEMA

An exceedingly curious story of the origin of the enema is told by Pliny who states that the use of clysters or enemas was first taught to man by the stork, which used its long beak to get water into its bowels, finding itself forced to do this since the food upon which it lived was very constipating. Whether this story is true or not, it is fairly well known that the enema was known and used by the ancient Egyptians.

The enema as we know it today is supposed to have been invented by a man named Gatenaria, an Italian who lived about the time Columbus discovered America, in 1492. Louis XIII is said to have had as many as 220 enemas given him within a period of six months by his physician, Bouvard. During the reign of Louis XIV the enema became very fashionable and the court ladies are said to have taken from three to four a day, having found out that this kept their skins rosy and clear. They did not use the plain enema that we use today, however, but perfumed the water with bergamot, rose, angelica and orange.

The enema is rightly classed by many doctors as being the most valuable single remedy to use in both acute and chronic diseases. Often severe symptoms will abate immediately when the enema alone is used. It is a valuable method of quickly relieving the lower bowel of its content without irritating the stomach and small intestine.

In taking an enema, it should not be taken in such large amounts as to distend the bowel, nor should it be hot enough to relax the intestinal muscles. Tepid enemas of one or two quarts are the most satisfactory. The best time to take them is in the early morning or just before going to bed. However, in cases of food poisoning, indigestion, or practically any other trouble with the digestive tract, the enema may be used at any time and brings at most immediate relief. In cases of constipation of long standing where the muscles of the lower colon have become stretched, it is a good plan to use the enema to bring about a speedy expulsion of the fecal contents so that the intestinal muscles have a chance to shrink to their normal size.

Whenever the intestinal contents remain for an excessive amount of time, there is no doubt that poisonous putrefactive products may be generated in the colon. Also, the weight of a large amount of feces in the lower colon presses on the delicate members in this region and often produces reflex pain and headaches by the pressure alone. The enema is the best and safest method as well as the most direct method of correcting this condition.

Patients who are habitually constipated are often surprised to note the quantity of material which the enema brings forth and often recognizes the residue of food substances which have been eaten as long as a week before. Often patients on a fruit juice fast where there is very little pulp intake will nevertheless be surprised to find that the enemas continue to cause the the expulsion of large amounts of residue. Sometimes it is advisable to repeat several enemas immediately after one another. The third or fourth enema will sometimes bring about better results than the first or second, and if your enema does not succeed the first time, try administering additional quantities of water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Diabetes and Fasting)

Question.—Reader asks: "Is it possible to cure diabetes by fasting, and can one safely stop the use of insulin if only used a short time?"

Answer: Diabetes can be cured only through dietary measures. Fasting is of great help in the first part of treatment which should then be followed by a well regulated diet, devoid of all starches and sugars. Insulin is of no value in effecting a permanent cure. It is only a palliative measure. If it is used at all, it should be used only on critical times, when the patient is in a coma. Send for my special articles on the treatment of diabetes through diet.

(Fats in Nuts)

Question.—H. S. G. asks: "Which nuts and fruits are rich in fat, and poor in albumin and starch?"

Answer: All nuts are rich in fats, but the only fruits which contain much of this element are olives and avocados. All of the fruits, with the exception of bananas, contain little albumin or starch. All nuts contain large amounts of albumin.

HAGUE DELEGATES SEEK SOLUTIONS

Hope to Adjourn Next Week With Most of Reparations Work Finished.

The Hague, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Representatives of the inviting powers, and Germany, the principal debtor nation, today continued to seek solutions for outstanding reparations in private conversations, rather than in committee rooms.

These outstanding questions included Germany's demand that France and the other creditor nations abandon the principle of military sanctions as guarantee the reparations payments will be made, details of a moratorium, date of maturity of payments and other matters.

The atmosphere was slightly less ruffled than yesterday when a statement of Premier Tardieu, of France, regarding the German delegation was made a point at issue by the Germans and an explanation demanded.

WARDEN GETS PENSION LARGER THAN SALARY

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Brigadier General Edgar S. Jennings, retired warden of Auburn prison, today had notification from the state that he has been granted an annual pension of $6,800, or $4,700 more than he would have received had his request for "ordinary disability retirement" been granted.

The $6,800 pension granted was for "accidental disability retirement," and was approximately $800 more than the former warden's annual salary. He would have received $2,100 under the "ordinary disability" retirement. Announcement of the pension came from the office of the state comptroller, Morris S. Tremaine.

At the time the announcement was made in Albany by Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, commissions of correction, that the warden had asked to be relieved, it was recalled here, Jennings' friends in Auburn began circulating a petition for Governor Roosevelt asking that the pension be given a "fair deal" in the matter of a pension.

COTTON CORPORATION READY TO FUNCTION

New Orleans, La., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Carl Williams, member of the Federal Farm Board was en route to Washington today with chairman of the board, Alexander H. Legge, after telling New Orleans business men that the $30,000,000 National Cotton Corporation would be ready to begin operations next Monday.

Mr. Williams did not disclose where the headquarters of the corporation would be located. The corporation will start with a million bales of cotton, unlimited government credit and all the power to buy and sell on any cotton merchant, Mr. Williams said.

"It means an entirely new factor in the cotton business," he asserted. "Mr. Legge urged support of the cotton corporation regardless of the locations of the institution's headquarters."

SEARCH HELD UP

Fairbanks, Alaska, Jan. 9.—(AP)—High winds accompanied by murky weather held planes to the ground throughout Alaska and Siberia today, preventing any attempt to renew the search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, on the quest for the Canadian aviator, Captain Pat Reid and his two companions, Mechanics William Hughes and James Hutchinson.

Eielson and Borland have been missing 60 days now, having dropped from sight November 9 when they attempted to fly to the fur trading ship Nanuk, locked in the ice at North Cape, Siberia. Reid and his companions were lost last Saturday while attempting to fly to Nome, accompanied by pilot Matt Niemenen in a sister ship to engage in the Eielson-Borland search.

HEBRON

The death of Miss Eunice Porter, aged 23, occurred on Monday, at 9 p. m., at the State Sanitarium at Uncas-on-Thames, Norwich. Miss Porter was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Miss Estelle Broome has returned to South Lancaster, Mass., where she is engaged in primary teaching at a private school. She spent two weeks at the home of her father, Paul Broome in Hopevale. Her sisters, Miss Gladys Broome, who is taking a trained nurse's course at a sanitarium in Melrose, Mass., and Miss Hazel Broome who is employed in Hartford, also spent part of the holidays at their home.

Work on the artesian well at the Michael Barron place on Burnt Hill is still going on. The well has already been drilled to the depth of 250 feet without a great deal of water being struck as yet. It is hoped, however, that plenty of water will be found with deeper drilling.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Elton Post has as their guests on Sunday, Mrs. Post's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hannaway of Lonsdale, R. I., also her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hannaway and their two children, of Pawtucket, R. I.

Frederick A. Rathbun has completed some special holiday work at the store of Wise, Smith and Company in Hartford, for which he was engaged during the 1929 season. A meeting of the teachers of St. Peter's church school was postponed from Tuesday evening on account of the bad condition of the roads, making it impossible for some of the teachers to be present. The January thaw has made the roads in the rural sections as bad as in the worst of the spring mucky season.

Owing to the death of Miss Eunice Porter the women's bridge club omitted its usual Wednesday evening party this week.

Senor de Ortiz said he would enter Mexico tomorrow through Phoenix, Ariz., and Nogales, Sonora, proceeding directly to the Mexican capital.

"COMING EVENTS cast their shadows before"

Thomas Campbell, 1777-1844

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Why let over-indulgence ruin the flattering curves that make the modern figure so seductive? Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the irresistible youthfulness of the modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Bat's Remodeled Hands Meet First Test Tonight

New Haven Verde Bout Will Reveal His Power

Success of Dr. Fralick's Operations on Champion Will Be Revealed in Bout With Rochester Lad.

Connecticut boxing fans will be afforded their initial opportunity to form a personal opinion of just how long Bat Battalino will remain at the helm of the featherweight division this evening when he makes his first appearance in the ring, since winning the title from Andre Routis of France at the Velodrome last September.

Repaired Bat

Dr. Wilfred G. Fralick

The static pride of Hartford is on the books for a ten round, non-title job with Phil Verde, the Rochester lad who outpointed Andy Martin of Boston in the Capitol City not so long ago. Since winning the title, Battalino has undergone delicate and complicated operations to both of his hands which have been his principal weakness in previous bouts.

Just how successful this venture has been will at least be partly answered tonight at the New Haven Arena where Promoter Al Wells has arranged the Battalino-Verde scrap. Hundreds of fans from all parts of the state, including Manchester will be on hand to witness the festivities. Battalino is favored to win, possibly by a knockout, but Verde is a clever boxer and stands a fair chance to cop the verdict.

In the Background Standing in the background of interest tonight is a prominent figure—Dr. Wilfred G. Fralick of New York City, the famous surgeon who did the Battalino repair job. Iron-fisted actors in the punch-and-blood show call him "the mitt mender." To others he is the remaker of champions in general.

But certain it is that the husky parade that winds through the ante-room of Dr. Wilfred G. Fralick's office constitutes a "Who's Who" of the boxing game and of the sporting world in general.

For Dr. Fralick operates a repair shop to which men with names made famous by blazing headlines on the sports pages bring mighty fists that have crumpled, strong arms that have been twisted in an awkward heave of a baseball or a football, tissues and tendons torn by the ill-timed swing of a golf club or a hockey stick.

Repairer of Athletes Dr. Fralick is, by profession, an abdominal surgeon, with a distinguished practice, but in the last fifteen years he has built up a new fame as a repairer of athletes.

Noted champions have been a path to his door. Tunny Dempsey, Sharkey, Firpo and even the now outstanding contender for ring honors, Max Schmeling, have taken their physical and sometimes their mental troubles to the friend of the boxer. Once an amateur boxer himself, Dr. Fralick probably is more familiar than any other surgeon in America with the peculiar physical requirements of the leather pushers.

He treated the big boys who crawl through the ropes. The betting ring, it is said, would give a pretty penny for the knowledge of the condition of the gladiators that is under Dr. Fralick's bushy gray hair.

COLLEGE COLUMN BY CLAIRE BURCKY

"Ready for the River," the title of a popular blues song of a few months back, fits Dartmouth. Not in the same sense as the despondent chap ready to drown his doe in the "shivery river." Rather, Dartmouth is prepared to take up a position in intercollegiate rowing.

With the announcement that Dartmouth will re-enter intercollegiate crew ranks comes word from Harvard, University of Washington and the U. S. Naval Academy to expect determined bids in June for the championship which Columbia captured on the storm-tossed Hudson at the last Poughkeepsie regatta.

Harvard, as you know, has a new rowing tutor, Charles J. Whiteside, who has the unequalled support of William J. Bingham. You might not have known, however, that Mr. Bingham directs Harvard's athletic fortunes in a way that conveys the idea to Crimson alumni that they must like it or lump it.

In Annapolis and University of Washington naval circles they are talking about the best rowing material in years. Coach Glendon is encouraged, as well he should be, for six of the Navy's 1929 varsity and a dozen other burly athletes of the varsity squad, grown in strength and experience, are on hand for daily drills.

Nothing more need be said when you recall that the Navy in Washington led the pack last June over two and a half miles and only drooped behind when their shells began to fill with water.

A great light broke upon the world when it was discovered that the mystery of Dan Daly, who was knocked out by Shires in his first ring engagement, was James Gary of Columbus, O. The bout was surrounded by some suspicion; after it was all over there were those cynics who said that Daly had taken a dive for Art's sake.

SISLER GOES TO FIST Branch Rickey's eccentricities form a fascinating chapter in the story of baseball. Sid Keener writes an interesting story in the St. Louis Star of how Rickey made a first baseman George Sisler.

GEORGE UNINTERESTED At one end of the bench sat Sisler. He was then pitcher and the newspaper boys referred to him as the "Michigan Marvel." Sisler was not interested in the glove—it was a first baseman's mitt and he was a pitcher.

Among the others who want to fight Mr. Shires is Chief Coy, whose letterhead marks him as a man from Peoria, Ill., and who modestly calls himself a fighter, wrestler, strong man, runner and the super-athlete of the age.

LEAPS TO DEATH

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The body of Frances Dowling, 52, who had worried over the possibility of permanent impairment of her sight, was found today on the roof of a four-story apartment house in East 48th street.

When the body struck the roof it awoke some of the tenants of the apartment house. The woman was dead when an ambulance surgeon arrived. Police said she was employed as a maid at the Hotel Chatham, and either fell or jumped from the 13th floor. Hotel employees said the woman recently consulted an eye specialist, and although he told her the ailment could be corrected with proper treatment, she worried over the possibility of suffering a permanent impairment of her sight.

TALKIES CHANGE TASTE OF PUBLIC IN MUSIC

Purchaser Generally Knows the Tune Now and Doesn't Ask to Hear It Played.

When the public becomes flooded with a certain commodity or fad the general reaction is to get fed up on it and turn to something else. But such is not the case, taking it from several engaged in the line in Manchester, of the song sheet with its words and music of the latest hits.

Time was when a person walked into a five and ten cent store, looked over a song sheet, glanced at the picture, and then asked the young miss behind the counter to play it over. If the tune pleased the customer was purchased. But that time is passed, thanks to the movies.

Today a person goes to a show, most always a talkie show. And a talkie generally has its theme song or songs plentifully interspersed with the plot. Many of the songs become instant hits with the audience. Instead of entering a music store and having the piece run over on the piano, the modern generation only asks to have it rolled up. When some radio station broadcasts the same number they have the sheet music in front of them just learning the words. The radio provides the music. And so it goes and the song selling business increases with it.

STRIKERS TO MEET

Cleveland, O., Jan. 9.—(AP)—A mass meeting of striking members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union will be held tomorrow to pass judgment on a compromise arranged by their representatives with the Cleveland Garment Manufacturers Association looking toward a return to work next Monday.

Announcement that a tentative basis for the settlement of differences between the union and manufacturers had been made came after a conference late yesterday. Approximately 1,500 of the 2,000 strikers will be affected by the agreement, if approved. The remainder will continue their fight against the manufacturers affiliated with the American Plan Association, which has declined to arbitrate. The latter group includes about 5 per cent of the manufacturers, it was believed.

RED RIOTS

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Police reserves, a police emergency squad and a dozen or more patrolmen on regular patrol have charged a crowd of about 150 communists to break up a demonstration in front of a west 26th street shoe concern today.

Patrolman Thomas Julia suffered lacerations of the face at the hands of women participants in the disturbance. Many of the demonstrators were rounded up and taken to a police station where they were charged with disorderly conduct.

SOCIETY ENGAGEMENT

Philadelphia, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Announcement was made today by Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hollander of this city of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Amelia Hollander and Gordon Sydney Sreaton, of London and Toronto, Canada.

Miss Hollander is a granddaughter of Sir Joseph P. Sreaton, who was minister of agriculture in Bavaria until shortly before his death in 1918.

Mr. Sreaton is a son of the late Herbert Carfrae Sreaton and Mrs. Sreaton of London.

DIET MAKES CHARACTER

Paris.—A country comes by its traits and characteristics through the food it eats, according to Dr. Flessinger, French physician. The French character is influenced by wine, women and a high culinary art, he says. German character is influenced by beer and coarser and more homely diet.

Great Britain insulted the Soviet government the other day. Proving that simply nothing is impossible.

NEW ENGLAND SWELTERS IN WINTER "HOT" SPELL

Boston, Jan. 9.—(AP)—With the record breaking "heat waves" of the last two days past, colder weather will return to New England today.

Throughout the six states ice went out of rivers and melting snow and a day of rain yesterday raised the Northern branch of the Winooski river at Montpelier, Vt., six feet above normal height.

College hockey games at Hanover, N. H., and Burlington, Vt., had to be postponed and a span of a new bridge at Colchester, Vt., sank to the bottom of the Lamotte river when accumulated ice broke down the false work on which it rested.

Weakened ice made skating treacherous, with two young girls breaking through and drowning at North Chelmsford, Mass.

Boston reported a maximum temperature of 64 degrees, the warmest in 56 years. The average for the day, 56 degrees, is ideal weather for the middle of May. The hottest January 8 on record was recorded at Providence, R. I., with 62 degrees and at Manchester, N. H., with 60 degrees.

Snow melted rapidly in northern New England and the streets were bare at Johnsonbury, Vt., for the first time in weeks.

Rain or snow, with much colder weather, was forecast for the section today.

SHOE WORKER SHOT AS HE ENTERS SHOP

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Flamingo Brienza, 41, an employee of the Bond Shoe Company, was shot down as he was about to enter the store this morning.

Five bullet wounds to the Lynn hospital where his name was placed on the danger list.

In a dying declaration to the police he named Phillip Alberti, 41, a fellow employee of the streets, as the man who had had trouble with Mrs. Pasquale Alberti, sister-in-law of Alberti, and that his alleged assault of today had attempted to stab him on December 31.

Police started a search for Phillip Alberti and his brother, Pasquale, for questioning. They said Pasquale's wife, Annie, had left him three days ago.

Brienza is married and the father of four children.

The Bond Shoe Company is located at Marshall's wharf off Broad street. Captain John Day of a nearby fire station took Brienza to the hospital in his automobile.

WAPPING

William W. Dudek has been successful in his appeal to the Superior Court on the estate of Herman Dudek. William presented a bill to the estate for $4,125, for services rendered from March 22, 1924 to Oct. 18, 1928, at $75 a month.

The claim was disallowed by the commissioners and William appealed from the probate court to the superior court. Judge Allyn L. Brown, who heard the case, rendered judgment for William.

The probate court had allowed the claim and honorarium of $288.75 since October, 1928, a total of $4,413.75. William S. Hyde of Manchester is William Dudek's lawyer.

The Federated church of Wapping will hold its annual meeting at the church this evening to elect the officers and committees for the ensuing year and to hear the reports of the last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Blush and daughter of Willimantic, were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Blush's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Grant.

The Food That Fights Fat

It's a gland food, now used to correct the known cause of so much excess fat. Doctors now employ it the world over. And now, without starvation, multitudes are gaining new youth and beauty, vim and vigor. You see the results wherever you look. Fat is the exception now.

Marmola prescription tablets embody this modern method. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Some of your own friends, doubtless, can show you what they do. Marmola is bringing you what they have brought to so many. The results will delight and amaze you. A book in the box explains the effects. Go now and ask your druggist for a 30 box of Marmola. You owe that to yourself.

SERVICE for the MOTORIST

Motor Hints

Finely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

OIL ENCOURAGES SHIMMY.

One of the quickest ways of making an old car shimmy is to over-lubricate the pins and the steering assembly. The oil lingers up things generally and encourages the car's tendency toward instability of the front wheels.

The story is told of one owner who periodically orders a wash and a thorough greasing of his car. When he leaves it at the shop things are usually running right, but invariably the front wheels shimmy when he drives off with the car again.

The process of cleaning up the car, and greasing it, removes the dirt and grease that cakes around the steering connections and the king bushings. This is just enough to encourage the wheels to shimmy.

After a day of driving the shimmy disappears because the new grease works out and the parts settle into their accustomed positions. The trouble could be avoided, however, by more moderate lubricating.

LOSSES FROM RICH MIXTURE.

Outside of wasting gas and collecting carbon the average motorist sees no particular loss in running with an excessively rich mixture. But what are the facts?

It is not reasonable to suppose that when cylinders receive more gas than they need the unburned gas dilutes the oil? Doesn't the loss of power result in overtaxing the engine?

One point usually overlooked is the effect on valves. The carbon merely collected in the cylinders and stayed there it would not be so serious a matter. But carbon gets around the valve seats and prevents the valves from closing tightly.

This causes further power loss and results in pitting the valves. As carbon collects around the seats and the valves are held open they start to burn—and then warp.

A lean mixture is good business.

TIGHTEN PARTS WHEN NEW.

The man with a new car invariably figures that it will not be necessary to start tightening things about the chassis until he has driven the machine for a year or so. He reasons that parts will loosen up more readily as the car grows older.

The facts, however, are just the reverse. A new car needs tightening much more frequently than an old one.

Continued tightening of parts results in their becoming "set." In addition, gradual rusting of nuts, bolts and screws make self-loosening almost impossible.

The spring clips illustrate this. After they have been tightened several times and rusted from the nuts they remain tight indefinitely. But when new they are apt to loosen up enough to encourage the spring leaves to break.

MEANS BROKEN STARTER SPRING.

A grinding noise under the floorboards directly after using the starter may sound alarming, but it usually is caused by the starter pedal not returning to the "off" position.

This may be due to the return spring breaking, or merely to the pedal getting caught in some way. A broken spring is more apt to be the trouble.

If the pedal does not return to the "off" position naturally the starter gear does not back away from the flywheel gear and may touch a little. This accounts for the grinding sound.

The remedy is to pull the pedal to the off position as soon as the engine starts. If it has a tendency to drop down and allow the starter gear to touch the flywheel gear a block or something on this order should be placed under it while the car is being used.

If the starter is pressed by hand, instead of with the foot, it is an easier matter to return it to the "off" position when the engine starts.

WORK RIGHT WHEN NEEDED.

Owners of new cars often will insist upon having changes made in the adjustment of the brakes because they believe the car pulls to the right or the left when stopping. This is unfortunate, because what seems to be trouble usually is the result of the way the brakes are used.

A new engine is tight and is an effective brake itself. The new car does not run at high speed. Combined with these is the additional fact that the new brakes are so effective the car can be stopped with only partial engagement. It is this may cause the car to pull a little to the right or left.

Brakes are adjusted to give equal braking force when they are used fully. They are not perfect engagement. It is this partial application of the brakes that may cause braking force when they are used fully. There may not be perfect equalization when they are only partially applied.

If there is any question about equalization try the brakes so as to lock wheels. That is the real test.

PLAN NO SPEED LIMIT.

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner of Pennsylvania, Benjamin G. Eynon, urges the lifting of the speed limit in Pennsylvania. He claims that with a speed limit in effect traffic officers are occupied with speedsters rather than devoting their time to recklessness and accident hazards.

HOW INSUL FAILED IN MAINE ELECTION

Power Company Spent Half Million to Change State Law, Speaker Declares.

Winter Park, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Earnest H. Gruening, of the Portland (Me.) News, told the Kollins College Institute of Statemanship here today that the Insull power companies spent $500,000 in an unsuccessful campaign to change the laws of Maine to their advantage.

"For fifteen years after their acquisition of every important hydro-electric company in the state, except one, the Insulls tried to get a law passed permitting exportation from the state of hydro-electric power," Dr. Gruening declared.

"This bill finally was put through," he added, "after the power interests had lobbied, ousted a governor who opposed them, de-throned legislators and replaced them with others and otherwise resorted to under-handed methods."

The bill passed the legislature and went to the people for referendum, he said.

Unusual Campaign.

The governor went out of his way to urge the people to vote 'yes' on the measure, namely for export, in the five months intervening before the referendum, Maine witnessed the most extravagantly financed campaign in history.

"Insull's man, Walter Wyman, inadvertently admitted in the course of public debate that this money—estimated by his opponent speaker power organs—came from profits of a deal made in Texas by one of the Insull holding companies there."

Dr. Gruening said the power companies carried out an extensive advertising campaign in all newspapers in the state except the Portland News and the Kennebec Star. These opposed the campaign and were branded "Bolsheviks" by supporters of the power companies, he added.

Despite the campaign, Dr. Gruening said the measure was defeated by 8,000 votes.

PRISONERS ATTEMPT TO BURN DOWN JAIL

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 8.—(AP)—An attempt by prisoners to burn the county jail here was under investigation today.

Prisoners set fire to the building last night by hurling a blazing mattress on the roof of one of the wings. The blaze was extinguished before it could do any serious damage.

Sheriff C. H. Wright said that after the fire had been halted, prisoners in a section of the jail four stories above the street attempted to incite a riot, throwing plates and food to the ground. He isolated the suspected ringleaders.

The disturbance was one of several which have occurred recently in an apparent effort of disgruntled prisoners to attract attention of pedestrians passing by the jail. Several weeks ago prisoners threw food from windows, and dropped notes to the street complaining that they were not adequately fed. The sheriff announced that regular jail rations had been issued to them. At that time the trouble appeared to have developed among federal prisoners being held in the county jail.

INDIA TO INVITE BRITAIN TO PARLEY

Time Has Come to Talk Independence, Declares Leader of Nationalists.

Ahmadabad, Bombay, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, noted Indian Nationalist leader, believes that if the British government should invite the Indian National Congress to discuss and frame a scheme for independence, that the Congress leaders would respond gladly.

Writing in the newspaper "Young India," he says "there must be a conference at some stage or other, whether such time be far or near depends upon how we utilize or waste this year of grace."

The noted leader said he did not see the atmosphere today for a campaign of civil disobedience.

Seeks Formula

"I want to discover a formula whereby sufficient provision can be made for the avoidance of suspension of the atmosphere today for a campaign of civil disobedience."

"The time must come when there may be a fight to the finish with our backs to the wall. With the present temper of the Congressmen, with out internal discussions and communal tensions it is difficult to discover an effective formula. It may be impossible to offer civil disobedience at this stage in the name of the Congress; it may be necessary to offer individual civil disobedience without a Congress imprimatur and apart from it, but just now, everything is in an embryonic state."

(Chowri Chowra was the scene of a massacre during the previous non-cooperation campaign).

24 HOUR TAXI SERVICE PLANNED BY CITY CAB

James Tatem, owner of the Manchester City Cab Company, was in town this afternoon and made arrangements for a twenty-four hour service for patrons of the taxi service in Manchester. Starting at 7 o'clock in the morning there will be three cars on service until after the theater show is over and the crowd has been taken care of. From that time on there will be a reserve car ready at all times to take care of any demand that might develop. This means that starting on Monday a taxi service will be maintained for twenty-four hours each day. If this proves satisfactory there will be an application made, Mr. Tatem said, for another car to carry an "OY" marker, to be used for trips outside of Manchester.

Mike grasped: "Well, Father, if I'm that bad off it's no time to be makin' new innuities."

CROSTOWN "LIMITED" DOES BOY SCOUT DEED
Carries Its Cargo Across the Center Plaza for Transfer to Trolley Car.

This morning the already celebrated "Seven-Forty-five Limited" Connecticut Company's Crosstown (part way) bus from Depot Square, instead of dumping its load of passengers at the curb on the north-west curve of Main street at the Center, carried them across to the curb next to the trolley stop, permitting them to transfer to the trolley car bound south without a long and perilous hike. It even took aboard the transferees from Manchester Green and gave them the brief ride across the plaza.

While tears of gratitude were not many in the eyes of the passengers there were numerous expressions of appreciation of this much consideration.

BENSON FURNITURE CO. IN FINANCIAL STRAITS

Head of Firm Hopes Suspension of Business Today Will Be Only Temporary.

The Benson Furniture Company's store at Main street and Brainerd Place was closed today by attachment. Ezekiel Benson, head of the firm, told The Herald that his company is financially embarrassed but hopes that the suspension will be temporary. Several factors have made it impossible for the company to meet many of its obligations, but the most important was the misappropriation of funds by a collector until recently with the firm, Mr. Benson stated.

Attorney William J. Shea is handling the company's interests. The keys to the store have been turned over to him and a satisfactory settlement will be attempted.

HOSPITAL AUTHORITY SPEAKS HERE TONIGHT

Dr. George F. O'Hanlon of Jersey City to Address Trustees of Local Institution.

Dr. George F. O'Hanlon, supervisor of the Jersey City hospital and formerly at the head of the entire system of the famous Bellevue hospital in New York City, will come to Manchester tonight to address the board of trustees of the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Dr. O'Hanlon in addition to his wide knowledge in the medical profession, is also a consultant on the staff of many institutions. He has been in Manchester before on a similar mission several times and his purpose in coming here tonight is to sort of act in an advisory capacity in outlining the plans for the year at the local hospital.

Plans for necessary improvements and the budget for the year will be taken under consideration. It is also possible that the often discussed proposal of erecting a nurses home may form a part of the plan. In view of lack of proper available funds for such expensive addition, however, the definite time for such a necessary requirement is more or less of an uncertainty.

It was admitted today by a member of the board of trustees, C. Elmore Watkins, that present conditions for housing the nurses are far from satisfactory. The nurses are at present cared for in four houses and this means of accommodation is neither adequate nor comfortable. The congestion is most noticeable when patients confined at the hospital engage the services of special nurses. The nurses personnel ranges from 25 to 60 depending upon the number of patients and the nature of their ailments.

POLICE COURT

Frank Foley and James Dillon who claim Boston and Providence as their homes were picked up on East Center street last evening and taken to the police station by Patrolman John McEllen. Chief S. G. Gordon had received a complaint that the two men were on East Center street, drunk, and accosting pedestrians, begging for money.

In court this morning both men were sentenced to jail for 30 days each. Chief Gordon in looking up their record found that the pair had been discharged from Seelys street jail yesterday after spending 60 days there for intoxication and breach of the peace.

The campaign against over-time and improper parking of various kinds is being continued by the police, and today twelve men paid the sum of two dollars each for such offences.
