

COP'S SLAYERS IN WATERBURY NEAR CAPTURE

All Available Men Searching for Men Who Exchanged
Shots With Them on Outskirts of the City.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Half a hundred police this afternoon are searching woods on the outskirts of the north end hoping to track down two men, alleged murderers, of a gun fight in which almost a score of shots were fired. The men, alleged slayers of Patrolman James McNamee of Bristol, who was shot last night, escaped into the woods and are at large.

Patrolman William Thompson of Bristol, who came here today to aid local police in a search for McNamee's slayers, narrowly escaped death when a bullet from one of the bandits grazed his leather coat on a level with his heart.

The gun fight took place as one squad of police searched like Block's barn for the men and another squad of police reached the end of North Main street in their car. The men are believed to have fled out a rear door of the barn as the detectives entered a front door. Then as they walked along Hill street and turned at the corner on North Main street, they confronted the second squad of detectives just getting out of their car. The bandits immediately pulled out revolvers and opened fire. Six shots apiece had been emptied out of their guns, the bandits turned and fled for the woods, going in different directions. Bullets from police revolvers whistled past them as they ran.

One of the bandits was seen entering woods on the east side of North Main street while another fled back down Hill street and into the woods on that side. Police soon lost all track of the men.

More than a dozen police officers and two more carloads of patrolmen were sent out to join the pursuit. One car was sent out to Chestnut Hill road, east of north end, and to the woods from that side and work towards the police on North Main street. By this device, it was hoped to close in on the men. Early this afternoon, however, half a hundred police were still searching and having no success.

Police went to the outer end of North Main street at 10:15 this morning after having visited other sections of the city search for the Bristol policeman's killers was centered in Waterbury when the stolen car in which the bandits used last night was found abandoned at the corner of Cheshire last evening. After the bandits had robbed a filling station at Cheshire last evening, they shot Patrolman McNamee when he questioned them as they entered another gas station, police apparently drove to Waterbury and quit the car here.

No Cars Stolen
No cars were stolen here last night, so it was believed that instead of transferring to another car after abandoning the sedan on Camp street, McNamee's slayers remained in Waterbury. There were four men in the car when the Bristol officer was fatally shot, but there were only two alleged against police in the north end gun fight this morning.

After detective bureau had identified the car found on Camp street as a machine stolen last night at New Britain yesterday afternoon, H. Morrissey, and later driven to Bristol where the policeman was killed, an immediate search for the bandits was instituted throughout Waterbury.

Bandit Identified
One of the bandits is said to be a 25-year-old boy named Brophy who divides his time between Waterbury and New Britain and who has a court record. Brophy was seen in New Britain yesterday afternoon spending freely. One of his companions was seen in New Britain late last night and appeared excited.

Waterbury police were given a tip from a New Britain source this morning that this Brophy might be involved. New Britain police knowing his habits gave the Waterbury police the cue that he might be in a riding academy stable in the north end of Waterbury.

Acting on this information, Waterbury and New Britain police went to the stable and as they were to close in on the place for a search, this young man named Brophy is said to have rounded a corner.

SMITH IS ARRESTED IN SPRINGFIELD, O.

Hartford Broker Who Embezzled $100,000 Is Being Held for Conn. Police

Springfield, Ohio, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A man registered as James A. Smith of Hartford, Conn., whom police said confessed to them that he had embezzled $100,000 from a brokerage office in Hartford when the collapse of the Curb Market caught him short was held here today on charges of investigation.

Identification of Smith, a native of Wilmington, N. C., was made through the State Bureau of Investigation at Columbus where fingerprints were sent by police. The bureau also advised that Smith was wanted in several other cities on forgery charges.

Confesses Crime.
Police said Smith told them that he was a curb broker in Hartford, Conn. Last October when the market started to drop, they quoted him as saying, he used securities of clients to cover his margins and

DRYS WILLING TO TEST VOTE ON BOOZE LAW

Confident That Motion to Repeal 18th Amendment Will Be Defeated in Both Senate and House.

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Supremely confident, Congressional Drys today snapped up the challenge of Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and passed the word they were ready for a vote.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, one of the Dry champions, said he welcomed the direct issue on the Eighteenth Amendment and "I am ready to vote."

"I think it might be well to have Congress go on record and make it clear that this amendment is there to stay," he asserted.

Senator Blaine's resolution is before the judiciary committee and Chairman Norris of that committee said he was ready to give it consideration at the next meeting Monday. He said he expected an adverse report but thought it would do no harm.

The Courageous Way
"That is the courageous way to go about this question," said Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, another Dry leader.

"After all, that is the only issue. I have no objection meeting it, and I have not the slightest doubt of the outcome."

The Blaine repealer did not get before the Senate for discussion but the Drys were speaking freely off the floor.

Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, predicted the repealer will never pass either House of Congress.

Cause Hopeless
"Nothing so hopeless as the hopelessness of the Wet cause," said the Texan in a statement, "as the prospect in Congress for this amendment. It represents the only way in which prohibition can be repealed and Congress is so overwhelmingly against it that it has no chance of passing either House."

"The talk of amending the Volstead act so as to bring about light wines and beer is equally vain. Even if such an amendment to the Volstead act is passed it would be declared to be in violation of the

Dean Declares Paddling Good Up to a Point

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The point whereat paddling ceases to be a good thing, and becomes cruelty, remains undetermined, despite efforts of Dean James W. Armstrong of Northwestern University.

Dean Armstrong has issued an order against "excessive brutality" at fraternity initiations.

"Does that mean we can't paddle the candidates at all?" an upper classman inquired anxiously, fearful that one of the joys of a higher education was being usurped.

"Well, I'd hardly say that," said Dean Armstrong. "A certain amount of paddling is probably beneficial."

"But when do we quit?"
"When paddling becomes brutal, it is time to stop," the dean said.

Some upper classmen held that paddling is good for freshmen. Freshmen, on the other hand, dislike it.

CAPITAL EXCITED OVER WILD REPORT

News Spreads That Building Collapsed; Two Slightly Injured in Small Accident.

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Two telephone operators were slightly injured today when an antenna mast that was being removed from the roof of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone building fell and dislodged a portion of the ceiling on the seventh floor. Plaster showering on operators who were working below.

First Reports.
First reports were that the walls of the telephone exchange had given way, and firemen, policemen and ambulances were called. They were told, however, that the damage was negligible and that the girls who were hurt were only slightly bruised.

The portion of the roof that fell was about six feet square but it did not damage the switchboards and telephone communication was not disturbed.

Several girls were treated in the medical department of the telephone building but a majority of them were suffering from shock.

SUGAR TARIFF QUESTION NOT YET SETTLED

Dispute Increases as Senate and House Debate the Matter—Borah and Bingham Enter Controversy.

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The tumult already stirred up over the question of raising the sugar tariff rates gave promise today of increasing, rather than diminishing.

In the Senate, Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, which considered the tariff measure, announced he would seek a rate of 2 cents per pound on Cuban sugar instead of retention of the 1.75 cent rate approved yesterday by the Senate.

At the same time, from the House side of the Capitol, came a prediction from Representative Garner of Texas, the House Democratic leader, that the House, if given an opportunity to vote, would back up the Senate position in favor of the present sugar duties.

Federal Bounty
In addition, the Senate continued its discussion of a proposal by Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska, to provide a Federal bounty of 44 hundredths of a cent a pound on sugar produced in Continental United States.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, Republican, engaged in a discussion over this, with Borah attacking Bingham's arguments against the bounty.

When Smoot, who had opposed the Senate's proposal of existing sugar rates, said he again proposed to try for an increase, Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, asked why he did not ask for an immediate vote.

"I shall do so at the proper time," was Smoot's reply.

Harrison was author of the amendment adopted by the Senate to continue the 1.75 rate on Cuban sugar and 2.20 on world sugar instead of the rates of 2.20 on Cuban and 2.75 on world sugar as urged by the finance committee.

Bingham, chairman of the Senate territories committee, said he could not understand Borah's attitude on the protective tariff. He said Borah, he said, frequently asserted the sole purpose of the special session was to help agriculture.

"Yet," he continued, "when we attempt to help through the tariff one of the principal farm products, the

RACKET BOSS

Accused of complicity in the hold-up at a dinner given for Magistrate Albert H. Vitale in New York, Ciro Terranova, above, racketeer "artichoke king," has given himself up to arrest. JAPANESE PRINCE BECOMES ENGAGED Follows Ancient Custom in Announcing Event—To Marry in February.

Tokyo, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The formal betrothal of Prince Takamatsu, brother of Emperor Hirohito, to Princess Kikuko Tokugawa, a granddaughter of the last shogun, was celebrated today with a ceremony of exchanging gifts.

In accordance with an ancient custom regulating imperial marriages, Prince Takamatsu sent his prospective bride ceremonial court garments, a wooden fan, two casks of rice wine and a quantity of choice fish. The Tokugawa family, following the same custom, returned the wine and fish.

The wedding date has not been decided upon, but probably will be in February. The imperial couple expect to leave Japan in April on a round-the-world wedding journey, which will include a state visit to England.

They plan to return by way of America, probably early in 1931.

AMERICA'S ENVOYS TO NAVAL PARLEY ARRIVE IN LONDON

ALCORN ASKS
WARRANTS IN
BOOZE PROBE

Thirteen Issued by Judge Brown But Names Are Kept Secret; Grand Jury Indicts Aliano for Murder

Hartford, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Thirteen bench warrants, the identity of those named, kept secret were issued at the request of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn in Superior Criminal Court this morning, as Judge Allyn L. Brown ordered the liquor probe grand jury to proceed in a "thorough and full" investigation into reported corruption surrounding the bootleg traffic in Hartford.

The warrants will not be served for several days, and nothing concerning them will be revealed until then, Mr. Alcorn stated immediately after Judge Brown had ordered them issued.

Aliano Indicted.
Sebastian Nasdo Aliano, large-scale speakeasy operator, was indicted on a charge of first degree murder, as a result of the slaying of Alfonso Minitti, one of his employees, the tragedy which precipitated the grand jury probe into the local liquor business.

His case has already been continued to the March Criminal term, when he will be brought to trial. Judge Newell Jennings is scheduled to preside at the term.

Meets MacDonald.
A few minutes after the special train arrived from Plymouth, Secretary Stimson was enroute to his hotel and thence to Downing street for a conference with Prime Minister MacDonald, plunging almost immediately upon reaching London into the problems of the five-power conference.

Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, and Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, both members of the delegation, met their colleagues at Plymouth and the four and one-half hours overland journey to London afforded the first opportunity for the seven American delegates to get together.

Start Discussion.
They made good use of the time, as soon as the Plymouth ceremonies were completed, Secretary Stimson engaged in a private conversation with Ambassador Dawes and then with Ambassador Gibson. A little later all seven delegates were alone in the special salon of the car reserved for them.

One of the first subjects the Americans discussed was the question of Mr. MacDonald's statement to newspaper men on Tuesday. From the garbled reports which the American delegation received aboard their ship, the British prime minister was credited with saying that he intended to propose the abolition of battleships at the conference beginning Tuesday.

Wrong Report.
Secretary Stimson was able to learn that Mr. MacDonald said nothing whatsoever about proposing the abolition of battleships immediately, but that he expressed the British government's doubt of the value of battleships and the British hope that in due time battleships will cease to figure in fleets, that instead of abolishing battleships, the prime minister really hopes to bring about an agreement, during the forthcoming five power conference to extend the lives of existing battleships until 1935 or 1938 and then, if replacements are considered necessary, to reduce tonnage and gunnery by international agreement.

Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, chief of the Italian delegation, arrived in Victoria station from Geneva 5:15 p. m. (12:15 p. m. E. S. T.) He was welcomed by Foreign Secretary Henderson, Mrs. Wedgwood Benn, wife of the secretary of state for India, Sir Robert Van Sittart, and R. L. Craigie.

Malcolm MacDonald represented his father, the prime minister.

The other Italians will arrive later, signor Grandi came from attending the 58th session of the League of Nations Council, where he had a private conference with the Franco-Italian naval situation with Foreign Minister Brand of France.

SAVANTS TO FORECAST WHEN STATIC'S IN AIR

Bane of Dial Twisters Can Now Be Detected—To Use Short Waves First to Give Warnings.

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Static, that bane of dial twisters, the world over, is to be forecast. Predictions, just like those for the weather, which would tell the radio listener what kind of reception to expect within a certain period, are now planned.

Prevalence of magnetic storms which produce more or less serious static conditions would be the basis for the forecasts.

A proposal that reports of daily magnetic disturbances be transmitted on short waves along with the weather forecast and the August at the Stockholm meeting of the section of Terrestrial magnetism and electricity of the international geodetic and geophysical society. Dr. Hazard, assistant chief of the division of terrestrial magnetism and geodesy of the U. S. coast and geodetic survey, so announced today.

Accurate Forecasts
Researchers have concluded that fairly accurate forecasts can be made of such storms, accompanied by predictions of the kind of radio reception to be expected within certain periods. Investigations of the relationship between magnetic disturbances and reception have been undertaken by the Bureau of Standards, the Naval research laboratory, the General Electric Company, and Dr. G. W. Pickard of Newton Center, Mass., research associate of the Carnegie Institute on terrestrial magnetism.

Dr. Hazard expressed the opinion that the first broadcasts of reception forecasts would be on short waves, and would not be made on an international basis, as each country could learn with its own instruments the movement of the disturbances. That aspect of the question is among others to be decided at the Stockholm meeting.

Dr. Hazard pointed out that com-

NOVEL INVENTION CUTS STEEL COSTS

Centrifugal Machine Casts Billets and Removes Slag from the Iron Ore.

Canton, Ohio, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A centrifugal billet casting machine which its inventor claims will eliminate the expense of removing slag from iron ore, and reduce the cost of steel production between four and five dollars a ton has been completed for commercial use.

After ten years of experimenting, Leon Cammen, consulting engineer of New York, was able to give his first commercial demonstration before representatives of the leading steel corporations at the Central Alloy plant here yesterday.

Machine Demonstrated.
Demonstration of the machine was made by pouring molten metal into a tube which carried it to a rapidly revolving mold in which it fell into compartments. The high speed of the machine makes the metal more uniform in composition and brings about a better grade of steel, Cammen said.

Similar machines have been used for molding cast pipe, the principal difference being that the billet machine is divided into compartments. From the billet machine the steel is taken to the production mills for rolling into sheet or plate. The cylinder revolves at a speed equal to that of a wheel on a train traveling 105 miles an hour, Cammen said.

The machine makes eight billets at one time, each of which is six and one-half feet long, 18 inches wide and up to four inches thick. A machine to make 15-foot sizes has been tested, Cammen said.

Several manufacturing companies have aided in development of the machine and many hold licenses for its use. Test machines have been constructed at Niagara Falls and Bethlehem, Pa.

YOUTHS' OPPORTUNITIES BETTER NOW THAN EVER

Vice President Curtis Writes Article for Yale Daily News and Gives His Views On This Subject.

"Splendidly endowed,"
"Today, youth is splendidly endowed by school and universities in training and preparation."

"Further more the world today is more and more realizing that its greatest reliance is upon its human resources. Progress in business, in government or in science is possible only with the persistent and intelligent application of the qualities of mind and heart and soul."

Worldwide Interests.
"America's interests are now worldwide. They offer many opportunities for service in industry, government and foreign relations, but they also impose upon us, both as individuals and as a nation, new and increasing responsibilities."

"x x x leadership of the highest order is demanded by changes of today in business, government in science and in the field of human relations, x x x the continuance of our high levels of national prosperity and international comity rests upon the quality of leadership which is being developed and sponsored in the youth of today—the leaders of tomorrow."

E. HAMPTON BANK REPORTS SHORTAGE

But Directors Announce It Has Been Made Good and Bank Is Solvent.

East Hampton, Conn., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Irregularities in the conduct of two officers resulting in a shortage of more than $70,000 in the East Hampton Bank and Trust Co., were disclosed in a statement issued by 16 directors of the institution here today.

The statement also revealed that $70,000 of the shortage has already been made good by Chauncey G. Bevin, president of the bank. Clarke W. Burnham who resigned January 8 as executive vice president and Earle S. Stevens, also resigned January 8 as treasurer, are charged in the statement with "improper management and conduct" in the loss.

Both men are still in town. Bank solvent The directors announced that despite the irregularities the bank is completely solvent and in good condition and said that the loss "if any" will be small, owing to "splendid cooperation on the part of the bank's officers" and the amount of surplus.

The irregularities were brought to their attention, the directors said, by the state bank commissioner, whose auditors are still going over the books. Accountants hired by the bank are also examining the accounts.

The East Hampton Bank & Trust was founded in 1915. Last year its earnings were more than 400 per cent, among the highest in New England. The bank is capitalized at more than $2,000,000.

C. M. Wainwright, first vice president, left today to confer with President Bevin, in Florida.

FLOOD DANGER PAST

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Eastern Arkansas and northeast Mississippi were experiencing levee troubles today but the lower Mississippi Valley continued in the grip of a cold snap which brought reports that most of its streams were falling in their upper reaches.

The most serious levee break of the year came late yesterday when Big Lake in Mississippi county, Arkansas, crashed through one of its major levees. The government engineers office there was advised that 170,000 acres of extremely fertile farm land had been inundated. Residents of the section said none of the villages in the area would be seriously affected and that the acreage would not be harmed if the water receded as rapidly as expected.

There has been no serious damage from the Mississippi itself and none is anticipated now.

GANGSTER PLEADS GUILTY

Norwich, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Sam Bushinger, alias "Sam the Jew" of Newark, N. J., alleged head of a gang which perpetrated a series of breaks in Colchester last June pleaded guilty before Judge C. Avery in Superior Court and was sentenced from 2 to 5 years concurrently on three counts here today. Bushinger admitted three counts of theft and burglary. He was one of five men who stole 2,000 dresses and $1500 worth of cloth from Cohn Brothers factory, Colchester.

Constitution by the Supreme Court and would become null and void." At the House side of the Capitol today, Representative Maas, Republican, Minnesota, said he proposed to suggest a plan to the unofficial House committee on modification of the prohibition laws, looking to concentration of the work on the Anti-Prohibitionists.

He said he would present a resolution to the Wet Bloc at its meeting Monday to appoint a subcommittee to consider all measures to repeal the prohibition law, as it was impossible to get the regular House committee to give consideration to any bills proposing a change in the present prohibition law.

Greatest drawback "The greatest drawback," he said, "to the modification movement, so far as has been the impossibility of airing the true conditions properly, and the lack of a uniform plan."

"The strength of the organized minorities who put over prohibition lay in their united support of one plan. The same tactics must now be employed to undo the harm that was done."

"The ranks of the Prohibitionists are broken. They cannot longer agree among themselves about their future program. They blame everything but the unsoundness of the law itself for its failure. "The fanatics, in their frenzied desperation, call for trial without jury, the repeal of the Fourth Amendment so as to permit them to raid every man's home without warrant, cause or reason. They demand the nullification of the whole Constitution to enforce this one section of the Constitution, if it really be a legitimate section at all. It is not merely methods that are at fault, it is the nature and extent of the law itself."

and fatally wounded by one of four men riding in a stolen automobile which today was found abandoned in Waterbury.

The patrolman was shot in the back in Forestville last night as he was about to escort the four men to police headquarters. He died a half hour later in the Bristol hospital.

The shooting climaxed a report from New Britain that an automobile owned by Dr. W. H. Morrissy had been stolen and a later report from Cheshire of the robbery by four men of a gasoline station. Notified of the New Britain automobile McNamee questioned the occupants of a car which answered the description of the doctor's machine. The four men had stopped at the gas station of Oscar Ebb for gasoline. Dissatisfied with the answers he received from the occupants of the machine the patrolman was about to enter the car to drive the men to police headquarters when a bullet fired from the back seat of the automobile struck him in the back.

Death Car Found

The four men sped away in their automobile after the shooting. The first indication of the probable course of their flight came this morning with the finding of the abandoned automobile in Waterbury.

At least two of the men in the car from which the fatal shot was fired, were youthful in appearance. Apparently the slain policeman expected no trouble from them, for as he approached the car in front of Ebb's station he greeted the occupants with:

"Who owns this car boys? It's just been reported to me as stolen." The driver replied:

"It belongs to my father." The patrolman looked inside the car and after noticing a suitcase on the floor said:

"Well boys I guess I'll have to take you to the station."

The bullet from the rear of the car answered the patrolman's invitation. Ebb said that the rear marker of the car which had driven up to his station for gasoline had been bent up, apparently to conceal the number.

A fully loaded .38 calibre revolver was found this morning on a lawn about 200 feet from the scene of the shooting by Mrs. Mary Gandatta of New Britain. The woman was headed for the Humason Manufacturing company's plant when she found the weapon.

Police today are expected to communicate with the police of Worcester, Mass., to determine whether the revolver found was one of four reported to have been stolen in a pawnshop in that city yesterday morning.

NEW YALE GIFT

Young Champion's Biddies Lay Happily At 50 Below

Iron River, Mich.—(AP)—When arctic winds howl through Iron River at the tune of 50 below zero—br-r-r!—Miss Ingrid Mattson's hens keep on laying.

Miss Mattson is only 17 but she knows her eggs. She knows her hens, too, else she would not have been named international poultry judging champion at the International Livestock show in Chicago. Temperatures of 50 below usually chill the egg-laying enthusiasm of hens, but Ingrid keeps the production of her hens up to normal. That's why she's champion.

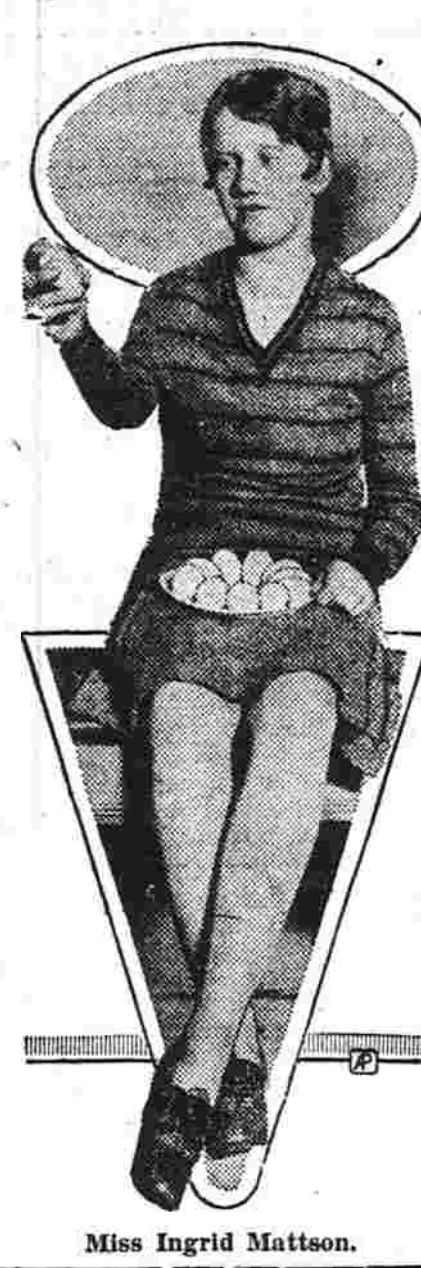

"They've just got to lay," says Ingrid, a buxom Norse girl who is food to look at. "Neither I nor anybody else can afford to keep hens that don't produce eggs at any season of the year."

"Of course, it requires careful selection of hens and it also calls for getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning in bitter weather to bring them hot mash for an early breakfast but we have to keep them laying."

Ingrid doesn't pay any coal bills for her biddies to pamper them.

"I don't heat the chicken houses," she said. "The natural heat of the chickens keeps them warm enough, even in the coldest weather, because I keep the houses well banked up in the winter and because they are insulated."

Ingrid wants to be a 4-H club leader when she is graduated from Michigan state college, where she is a freshman. While she is at school her brother takes care of her egg factory.

That Manchester babies will be taken into consideration in the coming census. Don't forget to list them.

That there has been no great rush for census takers in town. (The jobs pay from $5 to $8 per day.) That accommodations on two Swedish liners sailing for the old country in June are all taken up.

That skating is in order this week-end at the Center Springs Park.

That the Center church addition is being slate roofed this week. That there is considerable impetus behind the drive of Spanish war veterans for a suitable memorial in town.

That the fact that nearly all Connecticut cities and towns have suitable memorials has caused local veterans to press their contribution in honor of war buddies.

That winter without snow has its advantages and disadvantages.

FAVORITE MELODIES PROGRAM TONIGHT

Mrs. R. K. Anderson in Charge of Entertainment at Second Congregational Church.

"An Evening of Favorite Melodies," the concert which the Men's club of Second Congregational church is to present in the auditorium of the church this evening at 8 o'clock is creating no little interest not only in musical circles, but throughout the town. Mrs. R. K. Anderson, well known musician and choir director who assumed arrangement of the program and solicited request numbers, has chosen from the great number of responses, a varied and pleasing group which cannot fail to appeal to any audience. Mrs. Anderson will play the organ selections which will include Handel's "Largo," Schubert's "Serenade," "The Girl Scout" from Cavaleria Rusticana, Lemare's "Andantino," equally well known as "Moonlight and Roses," "Londonderry Air," "Little Gray Home in the West," Aloha Oe. She has also selected from the group of hymns suggested, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "Let the Friend Lights Be burning" and "My Ain Country."

Mrs. Anderson will accompany the soloists, Mrs. Grace Symington, soprano and Mrs. Bessie Turner, contralto, also the male quartet, Sidney Strickland, Ralph Brown, Elmore Watkins and Charles Robbins. The quartet will sing "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Carry Me Back to Ole' Virginny," "The Winter Song" and "Benedicere Stream."

JUDGE DENIES HE KILLED TOTS

Camden, N. J., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Judge Joseph A. Corio, of Atlantic City, took the witness stand today in the trial of Gladys May Parks charged with the murder of two children, and made a complete denial of the defendant's statement that he had slain one of the children.

Miss Parks in one of her five statements made to Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin and read in court yesterday, said that Corio came to her Camden home, saw Timothy Rogers, 2 years old, who was in her care, and became so angry that he choked the child and then held his head under a faucet of running water. In other statements Miss Parks said the child had died after an accidental fall down stairs.

This child and Dorothy Rogers, a four year old sister, were the children of Alan A. Rogers of Woodbury. She is charged with murder in the first degree in connection with their death. Dorothy, Miss Parks said, died after she had whipped her.

Judge Questioned. Judge Corio was questioned by Prosecutor Baldwin.

"Did you see the defendant on August 22, 1929, in Atlantic City?"

"No."

"In Camden?"

"No."

"Do you know this defendant?"

"Yes."

"When did you last see her?"

"At my office in Atlantic City the latter part of 1928. I have not seen her since."

"How did this defendant come to visit you?"

"She called with her sister about an estate. They were to get some property when their father passed on. She demanded money at once. I told her I could not give her any money. She became angry and said I had sold her out and that the lawyer on the other side had paid me off."

"I gave her back her papers and ordered her out of the office."

AMERICA'S ENVOYS ARRIVE IN LONDON

visitors to Plymouth for a short ceremony of welcome before being whisked to London aboard a special train.

"We thank you for welcoming the pilgrims back to Plymouth," said Colonel H. L. Stimson, American secretary of state and head of the delegation.

He said to the British and foreign journalists who were crowded around him: "This is not the time to engage in long discussion on the subject of the conference."

Have High Hopes. "We are coming full of high hopes and with an earnest endeavor to try to make the conference a success. We delegates feel that we share the feeling of all our countrymen, in saying we are most happy that His Majesty the King has recovered sufficiently from his illness to be able to honor us by coming to the opening session of the congress and addressing us there."

"We had a very comfortable voyage." Col. Stimson and his conferees Ambassador Morrow, Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy and Senators Reed and Robinson all appeared well and to have suffered no ill effects from the rough final day they spent aboard ship, their progress delayed by an eastern Atlantic storm.

Meets the Mayor. Col. Stimson left unanswered a question as to how long he supposed the conference would last and turned from the newspapermen to the welcoming party of the mayor of Plymouth, in civic robes, and Ambassador Daves and Admiral Sir Hubert Brand, naval commander in chief of Plymouth.

Mayor Churchward read his formal address to the Americans. He declared it was peculiarly fitting they should land at Plymouth, so closely linked with America from a time even before the Pilgrims sailed for America. Col. Stimson, replying, expressed his own and his colleagues deep appreciation of the official nature of the welcome, and that the mayor and other officials should have arisen at such an unreasonable hour to greet them.

HUSBAND FOLLOWS WIFE AS SUICIDE

Wapping Man Hangs Self as He Faces Trial on Misconduct Charge.

On November 14, 1928, Mrs. Howard Burhans of Wapping committed suicide by taking poison because of marital difficulties.

Burhans was to appear in the South Windsor Town Court last night to answer charges of misconduct with his housekeeper, Mrs. Dorothy Elizabeth Hair, preferred by her husband Harold Hair.

The case was heard by Judge Leslie W. Newberry with Richard T. Steele appearing in his first case since his appointment as prosecutor of Manchester.

Mrs. Hair was fined and given a four months suspended jail sentence. Charges against Burhans were nolle. Mrs. Hair left immediately for Hartford with her lawyer.

The body of Burhans was found by a neighbor, Clarence Johnson and his farm hand William Dwyer at 6:30 o'clock after the dead man's son, Edwin, 14 years old, Manchester High school student, returning home from school discovered a note on the table which told him to go to the barn until he had notified either Clarence Johnson or Norman Hills.

Burhans carried two insurance policies, one for $5,000 and the other for $7,500. Under the former policy there is a clause which states that there would be no benefit paid if the insured died of suicide within a year.

Burhans leaves two children, his son Edwin, and a daughter, and is years old, living with relatives in Burnside. Burhans was described as between 35 and 40 years of age.

GETS HIS FROZEN NORTH KNOWLEDGE FIRST HAND

Little Robert Learns Water Doesn't Freeze Up Solid Just 'Cause It's Winter.

Little Robert Richmond, who is four years old and whose home is in Atlanta, Ga., learned more about pond ice in a few minutes yesterday afternoon than he would have been likely to learn in Georgia in quite a while.

Robert's mother brought him north to Manchester lately when she came here to visit her mother, Mrs. August Gahrman of Lydallville, who is ill.

Yesterday Mrs. Richmond was about to take Bobbie out in an automobile; but no sooner emerged from the house than he played hockey. He had had his eye on the ice of the Lydall & Foulds paper mill pond and proposed to see just what kind of stuff it was to run about on.

So, before his mother was aware, small Robert reached the ice and was racing out on it. He didn't race far, because there is a steam exhaust pipe that keeps the ice pretty well thawed out at that point, and Robert crashed right through.

Mrs. Richmond, instead of starting her car, started for Robert. She got him and hung on to him until her sister, who lives in New York and was also staying at the Gahrman house, came to her aid.

Between the mother and the aunt, they very wet themselves, hauled Bobby out of the pond and into bed and at last accounts he was doing nicely.

Nobody in Georgia, however, is going to be able to kid him about ice. All those New England states being locked up in eighteen inch ice all winter.

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Dismissal of suits filed by Swift & Company, an Armour and Company, seeking modification of the packers consent decree was asked today by the Department of Justice.

The consent decree was entered into by Swift and Armour and three other large packing firms in 1920 after suits had been filed against them by the government. They agreed to combine themselves to maintain closely related lines. The decree has been in effect since and the packers began proceedings in the District of Columbia Supreme Court looking to abatement.

Torrington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A gray overcoat dropped by one of the burglars who broke into a theater several nights ago furnished the police with a clue which resulted in the arrest and arraignment in court here today of six youthful outlaws and the sending of a series of burglaries extending over a period of a month or more. NOON STOCKS

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Stock Market developed a distinctly heavy tone today. Under the influence of continued liquidation in the Radio shares and other special groups slightly higher shares opened. The influence of the favorable Federal Reserve condition statements, but soon gave way, and the entire market sold off rapidly toward midday.

A depressing development in the day's news was the failure of the Department of Justice to modify the packer's consent decree. Crosley Radio dropped 3/4 points to a new low at 10 1/2 compared to last year's high record of 125. Midland Steel Preferred, Westinghouse Electric declined 5 points and stocks sagging 2 to 3 points included Radio Corp., North American Telephone, Columbia and American Telephone, International Telephone, Allied Chemical, Air reduction and Erie. Such shares as General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Johns Manville and Rock Island lost a point or so.

Among a few firm spots were Warner Bros., Atchafson, Delaware & Hudson and American Power & Light, up about a point. American Woolen preferred rallied 3 points. Call money renewed unchanged at 1/4 per cent.

"There is no more justice in taxing Hawaii to pay a bounty to the sugar growers of Idaho because they cannot produce sugar as cheaply in Idaho, and then to pay a bounty to wheat and corn growers in Connecticut because they cannot produce wheat and corn as cheaply as in Nebraska."

Mrs. Gertrude Knoffa Smith, for several years office manager of the Manchester Construction Company, left the employ of the concern last night. Her departure was the occasion for a farewell party in the office last evening.

Members of the Knoffa firm, the office force and sub-contractors and material men who have transacted business with the firm through Mrs. Smith gathered for the affair. Refreshments were served and a purse was presented to the honored guest as a remembrance.

Mrs. Smith was recently married to Raymond Smith and is leaving the employ of the Construction Company to devote all her time to household duties at her home on Bigelow street. Her position is being taken by Kermit Stone, of Worcester, Mass., who has had charge of construction work on several Massachusetts jobs for the Construction Company. He has moved his family to town and is living at 15 Essex street.

SMITH IS ARRESTED IN SPRINGFIELD, O.

(Continued from Page 1.) when the market failed to revive, fled fearing he would be prosecuted. When arrested he gave the name of Frank G. Clark, Richmond, Va., and claimed to be a druggist. After questioning, however, he told police his name was Smith and that he was wanted in Hartford.

Hartford officials advised police they would arrive tonight to question Smith who has signed a waiver of extradition. Police said that Smith had asked for prosecution there on charges of passing a fraudulent check of $75.

WAS KENYON'S PARTNER

Hartford, Jan. 17.—(AP)—James Atkinson Smith, 29, held in Springfield, Ohio, for local authorities is charged with disappearing with $100,000 in securities belonging to the firm of Kenyon & Smith of which he was a partner.

In October Smith went to New York, ostensibly to raise funds to cover a protested check. He did not return. Alleged discrepancies were found in his accounts and resultant suits filed against his company forced it into the hands of federal receivers.

In the Ohio city yesterday a man who gave the name of Frank C. Clark was held for passing a fraudulent check. Fingerprints made in Oregon eight years ago showed Clark to be Smith.

According to the American Bankers' Association, Smith has several aliases. This information was corroborated by the Canadian Mounted Police headquarters at Ottawa.

WANTS FEDERAL O. K. FOR HARBOR PROJECT

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Representative Martin, Republican, Massachusetts, today urged the House rivers and harbors committee to approve the $420,000 improvement project for Fall River harbor, Mass.

The project, which he explained would provide a depth of 30 feet for a channel 400 feet wide, was very necessary to take care of the increasing commerce of the harbor. During 1929, he said, Fall River harbor imports were valued at $14,422,250, an increase of more than $4,700,000 over 1928. The principal goods shipped, he said, consisted of cotton materials, oil and coal.

Representative Martin told the committee an annual saving of $375,000 would be effected on an expenditure of $420,000 for the improvement. He added that the maintenance cost was very low, it having been estimated by the district engineer at $11,000 a year.

DIES IN FRANCE

Nice, France, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Jerome Rothman, formerly of New York City, died at his villa here today after a heart attack. The authorities were unable to discover the addresses of any friends or relatives, but believe him to be a reformed banker.

The villa was filled with a fortune in works of art. The only address available for identification was "Colbin, New York Banker, New York."

We spend $600,000 each year to guard the mails, according to government reports. But even that doesn't prevent our receiving letters telling you all about that new remedy for bunions.

"NEW HAVEN" OBJECTS TO I. C. C. VALUATION

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A statement objecting to the recent $404,604,213 final valuation as of June 30, 1915, placed upon the operated system of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad by the Interstate Commerce Commission, was issued today at the company's offices here.

"The company's claims," the statement said, "that the final valuation for the same property should be at least $130,000,000 higher, even as of June 15, 1930, and being as of that earlier date, does not include the large amount of money which the company had spent on additions and betterments to its property since then."

The I. C. C. valuation includes non-carrier real estate and buildings but does not include steamship line investments in other railroads or electric, trolley and motor coach properties which the statement said are carried on the books of the New Haven at $166,628,010; the company's ownership in the passenger terminals in New York and Boston, valued by the railroad at more than $70,000,000, or the Central New England railway, which has since been merged with the New Haven since valuation date.

BURKE'S MACHINE GUN KILLED FRANKIE YALE

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The murder in Brooklyn eighteen months ago of Frankie Yale and that of seven Moran gangsters in Chicago last St. Valentine's Day, probably were done with the same weapon, it was announced at police headquarters today.

The link between the two crimes became known shortly after Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen announced he had received some "startling information" over the telephone from Chicago.

Two New York ballistic experts have been in Chicago conducting tests with two machine guns seized in the Michigan home of Frank Burke, sought in connection with the Chicago gangster killings, and the bullets taken from Yale's body.

The commissions would not discuss details of the case, but it was understood the two New York experts, who are expected back here from Chicago sometime today, are convinced that the bullets which killed Yale were discharged from one of the Burke machine guns.

VATICAN MOSAICS THINGS OF BEAUTY

Sometimes Takes 20 Years to Complete One Picture;
How Work Is Done.

Vatican City.—(AP)—The Vatican mosaic works, one of the most unusual manufacturing plants in the world, are ready to consign to the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., their latest production, a copy of Murillo's "Immaculate Conception," valued at $25,000.

Very few American tourists making the rounds of the Vatican galleries and St. Peter's know of the existence of the mosaic work almost beneath their noses. Yet the shop is one of the oldest in Rome, and one of the best known in the art groups of Europe.

Established by Pope Sixtus V three hundred years ago, the mosaic works have done much to beautify Rome. There are many mosaics in St. Peter's, 356 portraits of the popes in the church of St. Paul—Outside-the-Walls, scenes wrought in mosaic in the Pope's private studio, and in scores of churches, all from this one plan. Few large cities in Europe are without one or two Vatican mosaics.

Master Craftsmen
A visit to the plant is an education. Here one sees master craftsmen whose skill has been passed on to them through generations of fathers and grandfathers who were artists in mosaic before them. They are men of infinite patience in addition to skill, for a mosaic may take from two to ten years to complete.

The mosaic for Washington took two years, although it is only eight and a half by six feet. It was done by three men. Professor Ludovico, dean of the Vatican mosaicists, and his assistants, Luigi Chiaserotti and Romolo Sellini. Three men working two years.

27,000 Shades of Color
Why? A single visit to the mosaic factory is not enough to make the reason plain. A few statistics, however, help. When the visitor is told that there are actually 27,000 different colors or shades of color from which the mosaicists must choose, and also when he is told that thousands of small pieces of material, first heated to an intense degree, are later inserted one by one into a special form, each one being chosen meticulously for its shade of color, he will begin to understand why. One mosaic has been known to require twenty years for completion.

Police were said to be rounding up non-student Koreans in an effort to find fomenters of the trouble.

10 BELOW AT SARANAC

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The mercury took a sudden plunge to ten degrees below zero in this section of the Adirondacks last night after several days of mild weather.

The cold weather was welcomed as it was expected to check the swelling of mountain streams which had reached spring freshet proportions and in some cases had flooded highways, necessitating detours.

FORCEPS LEFT IN BODY CAUSES WOMAN'S DEATH

Richmond, Va., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Coroner James N. Whitfield said today after an inquest that evidence showed that the death of Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, 28, of this city, who died in a hospital here Tuesday, came as a result of the presence of a pair of surgical forceps having been left in her lower abdomen after an operation in Washington, D. C., three years ago.

An autopsy resulted in the finding of the forceps, five inches in length, in the right side near the appendix. The physician in charge of the autopsy testified that he and three internes were present when Timberlake's attending physician testified that his patient had been in ill-health for the last year and that she had told him she underwent an operation in a Washington hospital in 1927. The autopsy, it was testified, showed no evidence of any other operation.

Two district sergeants were assigned to the case for the Richmond police department.

SHIP COMPLETES JOB

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The aircraft carrier Lexington was being disconnected from municipal electric lines today after having served for 30 days as an emergency power plant for the city of Tacoma. The big battleship, which was tied to a dock and her powerful generators connected to city power lines after a drought had caused a crisis in production of hydro-electric power, finished its job late last night. Rain and snow recently broke the drought.

Generators of the Lexington supplied 4,251,160 kilowatt hours to the city, for which the government will receive $71,511. In addition to this sum the city must pay $18,000 wharfage and incidental expenses which will bring the total cost close to $100,000.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A very interesting assembly was held yesterday. It consisted of a fashion show sponsored by the Girl Reserves of Manchester High school and a trailer announcement of the play, "Tweedies," which will be presented in the assembly hall on January 24. The fashion show included the modeling of old fashioned garments as well as modern ones. Mary Tierney was very attractive as was Dorothy Taylor attired in a bride's costume. Other especially pretty costumes were a riding habit, modeled by Olga Haef, a sport outfit, modeled by Helen Heubner, and Hawaiian costumes, worn by Agnes Dyar and Pauline Edmonds. All the models were members of the Girl Reserves. The trailer announcement of "Tweedies" consisted of three short scenes from the play. Maurice McKeever took the role of the announcer. The first scene was a conversation between Julia Castlebury, the leading man, and Mrs. Ricketts, one of his wealthy, young acquaintances. The second scene, a very amusing one, introduced Carle Cullyer as Philemon, the officer of the law. The last scene showed just a little of Julia's proposal to Windsor, the tea-room waitress. Raymond Johnson, in the role of Windsor's father was also in this interesting scene. The trailer announcement was very enjoyable and if it is truly representative of the production, "Tweedies" will be a most successful presentation. The entire cast are indulging in intensive rehearsing as this play is being produced in one month instead of two months which is the usual amount of time allotted for rehearsing a public presentation. After the assembly, the seniors remained to discuss plans for the Washington trip. It is probable that so that one night will be spent on a Pullman. Also, it is probable that they will include a boat trip in this year's tour.

DIVORCE PROBLEM IN STATE FEATURE

"Marriage Playground" Is Motion Picture Version of Edith Wharton's "Children." "The Marriage Playground", an emotion-stirring, romance drama, adapted from the famous novel "Children", written by Edith Wharton, heads the program at the State today and Saturday. Mary Brian has the leading role, and as "Judith" she is a very beautiful little mother for her younger brothers and sisters of the unfortunate Wheeler family. The story concerns the fortunes of seven children of divorce who are practically deserted by their intemperate, chilly-thirsty parents. They are a charming lovable group of youngsters. Their chief concern is to be allowed to live away from the fare and tinsel into which their inhuman parents would lead them. Frederick March handles the role of Martin Boyne, who befriends the children and falls in love with Mary. He plays the part with distinction. The roles of the father and mother are played by Hunley Gordon and Lilyan Tashman in a clearly defined and interesting manner. There is an excellent supporting cast

MID-WEST SHIVERS

Chicago, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Zero carved its name upon the snow-covered crest of middle America today. Rivers that slunk back earlier in the week, had run to their beds, but the cold that checked their rampages brought added misery to persons who had been driven from their homes by the high waters. Many places were drifted high with snow, and in the urban centers sheets of glass carpeted the boulevards. At Vincennes a crisis was expected today in the looked for crest of the raging Wabash. Spreading throughout the city as the waters rose, a smallpox epidemic added to the misery of flood and cold. Red Cross and state health department workers assumed control of the relief work.

DISABLED SHIP IN PORT

Cadiz, Spain, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Swedish steamer Adriatic arrived here today in tow with considerable damage on its starboard and to the bridge as result of collision with the Italian steamer Enrichetta. The ship will be repaired here. Radiograms received here prior to the appearance of the vessel said it had sunk with only the captain and a sub-officer aboard, the crew having abandoned it after the collision.

FOG HAMPERERS TRAFFIC

Berlin, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Traffic in the port of Hamburg and the lower reaches of the Elbe was almost paralyzed today by a dense fog which spread inland from the North sea. There were several collisions between steamers. The British steamer Tiara went ashore off the German Shipyards Company's premises, but was expected to be refloated with the help of tugs.

ROLLER RUNS AMUCK

Milburn, N. J., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Chaufeur of a 15-ton steam roller would seem a rather prosaic job but then see what happened to Anton Boslavage all in a day's work. Anton was piloting his roller at a stately pace up old Short Hills road yesterday when it got beyond control and started backward down the hill with Anton clinging to the wheel. As it rolled into main street at a speed estimated by police at 45 miles an hour, traffic policemen hurriedly gave it the right of way and motorists and pedestrians scurried to safety. Two automobiles were caught in its path and demolished, their occupants narrowly escaping injury. The roller then climbed over a curb stone, crushing it beneath its weight, and crashed into the corner of a building. With that it turned over on its side. Boslavage, thrown from his seat by the impact, suffered a broken collar bone but he had had his day.

RUBIO IN MEXICO

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico, today was speeding down the fertile west coast of his native country toward Mexico City after bringing to an end his visit to the United States. Although no definite schedule was announced, the president-elect indicated his desire to complete the trip with as little delay as possible, and the party is expected to arrive at the Mexican capital on January 20 or 21. Ortiz Rubio and members of his official party yesterday left for Mexico well to the United States in one of this border city's most enthusiastic international demonstrations.

WAPPING

February 2 there is to be a special service at the Federated church to mark the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of the Second Congregational church here. The Pleasant Valley Club held its regular meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. David Burnham of Pleasant Valley. Mrs. Edna (Stevens) Gay, aged 26, whose death was noted in last Wednesday's Herald, was formerly a Wapping girl. She attended the Sunday school and was a member of the Christian Endeavor Society. Her funeral which is to be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the funeral parlors of Thomas G. Dougan of 59 Holl street, and the burial will be in the family plot in the Wapping cemetery. A Marquette roadster came to grief Saturday morning near Station 21, of this town. The road was wet and slippery and the driver noticed another car coming toward him in a zig-zag manner. In order to avoid a collision he turned sharply and crashed into a tree. The car was badly damaged and had to be towed to the South Windsor garage, where it was found it would cost about $125 to repair it. The occupants, a man and a woman were not hurt.

COLD KILLS EIGHT

Denver, Jan. 17.—(AP)—East of the blizzard bound peaks of the Rocky Mountains there lay today a vast land of snow and Arctic temperatures, lashed by the climatic spasms of the winter's worst storm. Approximately one third of the United States was whipped by frigid winds, which brought a temperature of 56 degrees below zero in Montana. Two persons were frozen near Pioche, Nev., bringing to eight the death toll of the killing cold in the last three days. Last night was one of the most severe in Denver in many years. A blinding blizzard swept the city and air and bus systems were paralyzed overnight, although railroad traffic was not seriously hampered. TO FIGHT EXTRADITION Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Pennyville police officers, due here today with extradition papers for Mrs. Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague, may have to engage in a legal skirmish for custody of the pair, accused of slaying a Pennsylvania state highway patrol officer near New Castle last December. Mrs. Schroeder and Dague said they would contest extradition to Pennsylvania. Arizona authorities have indicated also they will decline to deliver the prisoners to Pennsylvania unless there is conclusive evidence of a first degree murder against them in the Keystone state. Sixty per cent of the homes in Kansas are served by power lines. The other 40 per cent are largely in the rural districts.

SCHURMAN'S FAREWELL

Berlin, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Ambassador Schurman today paid a farewell tribute to his best friend, the late Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German minister for foreign affairs. Accompanied only by the statesman's former private secretary he drove to Stresemann's tomb and laid a wreath on it. The wreath carried the American colors as well as a white ribbon inscribed on one side, Jacob Gould Schurman, and on the other in German, "To My Own True Friend." Later he drove to the humble quarters outside Berlin where Dr. Stresemann was born. A tenant there showed him the various rooms. Mr. Schurman leaves Berlin shortly for the United States. He will not return, relinquishing his post.

COP KILLING

The murder of a Bristol policeman by a group of young thieves who fled in their stolen car is a crime of a type which must soon command the very special consideration of police authorities everywhere.

There would seem to be two quite independent lines of approach to the problem presented by the existence of these groups of youthful bravos that drift about the country in stolen automobiles, sticking up filling stations and itching to attain the height of gangster glory by "knocking off a cop."

One is a far different attitude on the part of the police and the courts toward dressed up idlers who spend their time around tough billiard rooms and equally tough dance halls, usually living on the bounty of their hard working women relatives and finding the money for their diversions through petty gambling and petty larceny.

THE BOLSHEVIST IDEA. One of the leaders among women prohibitionists in Massachusetts is Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton. Mrs. Tilton is strong for all the extra teeth which the Law Enforcement Commission advised being put into the machinery of dry enforcement but she "is not interested" in that part of the report which refers to the Puritan objection to administration and the Whig principle of the right of revolution.

THE LA GUARDIA ATTACK. It seems to us that the resolution presented to the House by Representative La Guardia of New York, declaring the Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution invalid because its ratification was not completed within the specified seven years and in precise conformity with the terms of the joint resolution submitted to the states, is of considerable value as an indication of the process whereby the prohibitory amendment may eventually disappear from the Constitution.

ROTHSTEIN CASE. District Attorney Crain of New York County, who during the city campaign last fall promised that if he were elected there would be nothing about the Rothstein murder case that the people of the metropolis would not know by January 15, made good in his promise in one sense even if he completely failed to make good in another. Mr. Crain's statement, issued on the stipulated date, leaves the people knowing no more than they did before as to who killed Arnold Rothstein, or where, or why; but it does leave them knowing that they know as much about these things as the district attorney's office, as at present constituted, knows. It is knowing a good deal to know that the district attorney doesn't know. To that extent the Rothstein case is clearer than it ever has been before.

In connection with the Crain statement an interesting possibility arises. The district attorney says he proposes to call George McManus before the grand jury by and by and question him as to his knowledge of the shooting or the events immediately preceding and following it. If McManus feels like talking perhaps in that way the mystery of the killing of the big racketeer may be cleared up. But it is very much to be doubted if the grand jury gets very much change out of McManus, save under just one condition. It is extremely unlikely that the gambler will tell anything that could lead to a grand jury conclusion as to who killed Rothstein unless it should happen to be the case that McManus himself turned the trick. In that case there is nothing in the world to prevent him from telling the whole story without risk. He has already been tried and acquitted of that crime. He cannot again be jeopardized. He is immune from prosecution and, whether he did shoot Rothstein or not, he can say he did, and nothing can be done about it.

On second thought we are not so sure that even an admission of the killing by McManus would satisfy all minds that the mystery had been cleared up. Such a confession would be the very thing that would suggest itself to almost any person in his position who was friendly to the perpetrator of the crime.

If some one of McManus' pals killed Rothstein and if Rothstein, knowing this, should proclaim himself as the slayer, that of course would end any chance of convicting the real murderer later on. And McManus could bestow upon the district attorney one of his celebrated smiles and walk away.

THE BOLSHEVIST IDEA. One of the leaders among women prohibitionists in Massachusetts is Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton. Mrs. Tilton is strong for all the extra teeth which the Law Enforcement Commission advised being put into the machinery of dry enforcement but she "is not interested" in that part of the report which refers to the Puritan objection to administration and the Whig principle of the right of revolution.

THE LA GUARDIA ATTACK. It seems to us that the resolution presented to the House by Representative La Guardia of New York, declaring the Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution invalid because its ratification was not completed within the specified seven years and in precise conformity with the terms of the joint resolution submitted to the states, is of considerable value as an indication of the process whereby the prohibitory amendment may eventually disappear from the Constitution.

ROTHSTEIN CASE. District Attorney Crain of New York County, who during the city campaign last fall promised that if he were elected there would be nothing about the Rothstein murder case that the people of the metropolis would not know by Janthe point is that it presents a controversial question, if a highly technical one, concerning the validity of the amendment, which has not been raised before and so has not been passed on by the Supreme Court. This, after it had long been taken for granted that there was no such further question which possibly could be raised.

If it is possible to make even a reasonable show of attack on the amendment from one direction, after all these years, it is not unreasonable to suppose that there may be still other directions, heretofore unsuspected, from which the operativeness of the measure may be open to assault.

In this connection it is to be remembered that decisions of the United States Supreme Court historically are, as by right they should be, affected by great preponderances of public opinion. If at any time in the future there should develop an unquestionable preponderance of such opinion against the Eighteenth amendment, then it would be only in keeping with history and the basic principles of all law, if the Supreme Court should sustain, even on grounds as technical as those suggested by Mr. La Guardia, a Congressional declaration—that the Prohibitory amendment and its supplementary laws were inoperative, null and void.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 17.—Those very swanky employment agencies, where Park avenue and Fifth avenue select their valets, butlers, maids and such, are flooded with job seekers at the moment. The backwash of the Wall Street crash has hastened thousands of extravagant ones back to the old family budget. Establishments which overflowed with servants just one winter ago, now manage to get along with a cook and a chauffeur. Entire staffs of servants have been cleaned out in the scramble to keep down expenses.

However, these very exclusive and very select agencies are one of Manhattan's particularly interesting side-shows. There are two or three which practically control the selection of servants for the people of the Blue Book and the Social Register. References of those seeking employment must be fool-proof and unquestionable.

The first fear of an agency is that a thief, or a spy for a thieving gang, may somehow manage to obtain a position which would enable him to arrange a "big haul". The underworld has for years tried to establish "plants" in the homes of the rich. Naturally, they would prefer that one of their own group put in a few cases, bribery of a maid or a butler or a pantryman or a valet, has been found effective.

Second comes the problem of discretion. Servants of the upper classes are likely to overhear things which might lead to scandal or see things which private detectives might like to hear about. Many of the spiciest divorce cases in New York are enlivened by tales told on the witness stand by ladies maids.

Just now, however, the offices are flooded with the blue bloods of the serving world. Servants who have seldom, if ever, been out of employment make the rounds as thoroughly as any Broadway ham actor.

In several of the large establishments, I am told, servants who have been "in the family" for years are working without pay, waiting for the master to recoup his fortunes, and content to take a bed and board.

THE BOLSHEVIST IDEA. One of the leaders among women prohibitionists in Massachusetts is Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton. Mrs. Tilton is strong for all the extra teeth which the Law Enforcement Commission advised being put into the machinery of dry enforcement but she "is not interested" in that part of the report which refers to the Puritan objection to administration and the Whig principle of the right of revolution.

THE LA GUARDIA ATTACK. Health and Diet Advice

TAPEWORMS

When a patient realizes that he possesses a tapeworm, he becomes greatly worried, even though the tapeworm is usually easily removed. Sometimes people are unaware that they have these parasites, as there may be abdominal pains, diarrhea with nausea, and in some rare cases, anemia. The patient is often quite hungry and after eating a good meal all of the symptoms vanish.

The tapeworm is known to be present in any age, from children to old people. The beef tapeworm is most usually found in North America. It may measure from fifteen to eighteen feet, or longer. The tapeworms live in the intestines of their hosts. They are flat and without any digestive organs, taking their nourishment by absorption through their skin. They are formed of a head which may or may not have hooks and sucking discs to enable them to fasten themselves. If the head is hooked, as with the pork tapeworm, then it is called "armed."

The pork tapeworm is more often found in Europe and Asia than in America. It may be from six to twelve feet, or longer. The head is round and no larger than a big pin-head. The head is attached to a throat, and from the throat the long line of segments begins. This worm may be from three to three and a half months to develop. When it has reached the adult stage, the segments break off. In each segment are found thousands of ova, and each ovum has an outer shell and inside of the shell an embryo worm. If a hog consumes the ova the shell is digested in his stomach and he becomes infested with the worms or larvae and is said to be measled.

The only method of diagnosing tapeworm positively is to find these segments in the feces. There are several vegetable remedies for tapeworm, such as the extract of male fern, ground pumpkin seed, and pomogranate seeds. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Dead Teeth)

Question.—Mrs. K. C. asks: "Can a dead tooth cause neuritis or rheumatism if the tooth shows no pus-bag in the x-ray picture?" Answer: It is possible to develop neuritis or rheumatism from abscessed teeth. X-rays cannot be depended upon as a positive diagnosis of pus-pockets at the roots of the teeth. However they are a very valuable aid, and I would advise you to have their teeth x-rayed about every six months. Send for my special articles on rheumatism.

(Coffee Substitute)

Question.—R. J. asks: "With the hot that you recommend, could I drink water from roasted barley that I use as a substitute for coffee?" Answer: The only drink that I recommend with meals is plain water, but the water from roasted barley would be quite harmless if you do not use sugar and cream with it.

(Normal Weight)

Question.—Mrs. B. writes: "I have been following your instructions for nearly a month and have been successful in reducing my weight 15 pounds. I do not know what to do next and wish you would tell me through the columns. I am 25 years old, 5 feet, 8 1-2 inches tall." Answer: A proper estimate of normal weight must depend not alone on the age and height, but on the present and past diet. Send me a snapshot of yourself in a bathing suit, and perhaps I can make a better guess of what your normal weight should be.

WASSAILING APPLE TREES

Carhampton, Somerset, Eng., Jan. 17.—(AP)—"The curious ceremony of "wassailing" the apple trees was carried out today in many of the orchards in this famous apple growing region. The whole village of Carhampton took part in this curious custom consisting of placing a piece of toast in a fork of the orchard's biggest tree with great ceremony. Obviously the toast is for the robins, but really, as some of the older folk watch over the spirits, and thus insure a good crop. As the party stood around the tree, an old wassail song invoking a full crop was sung.

AIR MAIL STOLEN

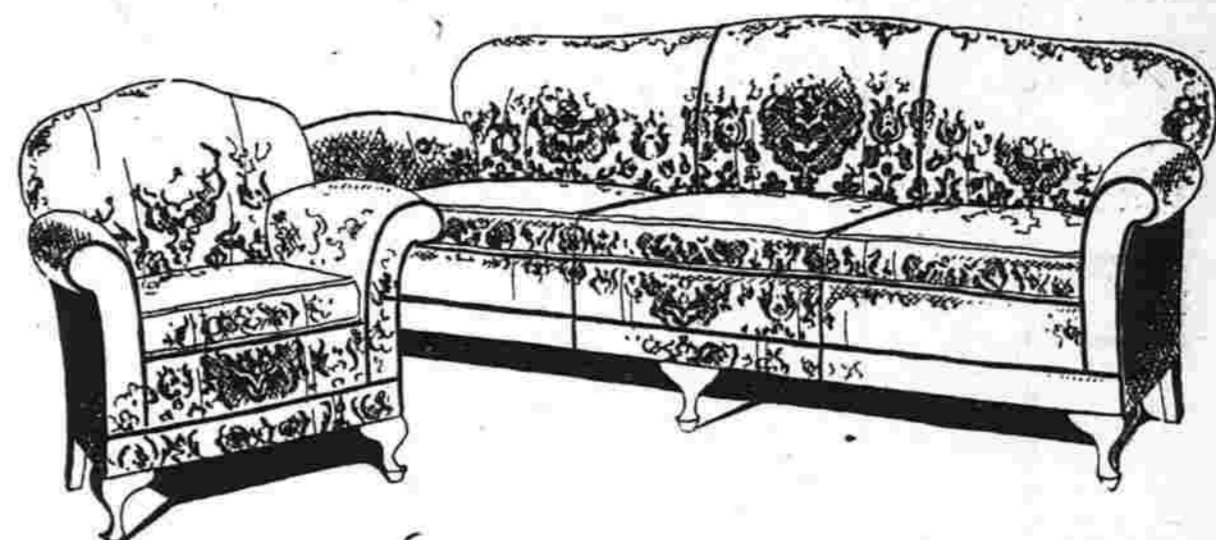

London, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A spectacular robbery of mail at the entrance of the air ministry took place today, robbers seizing two bags of mail which had been just delivered. The men escaped in an automobile. Some of the published accounts of the robbery said it was believed secret air ministry documents were included in the mail matter in the bags, but it was stated in authoritative quarters later that the bags contained only ordinary correspondence.

Some men propose and get married and others are "dreadfully bashful."

55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Jan. 17.—One of these days the Senate will sink its teeth into the World Court issue and President Hoover will be thankful that there are so many Democrats in the upper chamber. Hoover has not yet made it clear whether he will submit the protocols tying us up to the court late in the present session or whether he will wait until after the congressional elections. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader, is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the court who hope and believe that he will not wait.

Whenever the protocols come to the Senate for ratification, however, one will observe an almost complete inaction of the present Democratic-Insurgent coalition which has caused so much embarrassment in connection with the tariff bill. The Democrats will be virtually solid for American adherence and so will some Republicans. But the anti-court forces will include some of the most conspicuous members of the Old Guard and of the progressive contingent, fighting for once on the same side and with more fury than ever. This court fight will be sort of a 10-year hangover from the famous League of Nations battle. The idea of the opposition will be that Europe again threatens to enmesh us in its toils. This idea will be shared by three of the most famous old irreconcilables, Borah, Johnson and Moses, and by such altogether different senators as Bingham and La Follette, and as Watson and Norris. They will be vigorously supported by Mr. William Randolph Hearst and the Ku Klux Klan.

Some of the other Republican senators, among those neither identified with the Old Guard or the progressive group, have not yet made up their minds. Enough of them will support Hoover to make it reasonably sure that, with the Democratic votes, the president will not be licked. But the character of the opposition insures a spectacular and verbose struggle.

This World Court, whose correct name is The Permanent Court of International Justice, was provided for in the covenant of the League of Nations and created by a committee of 10 eminent jurists appointed by the league's council, including Elihu Root. The council and the assembly subsequently elected the court and it has been functioning since 1922. There are 11 judges, including Charles Evans Hughes, serving nine-year terms. They meet each year, beginning on June 15. The court's job is to adjudicate disputes between nations on the basis of existing international conventions, custom, general principles of law and prior judicial decisions. A majority of its decisions have been advisory opinions called for by the league.

After Presidents Harding and Coolidge had successively recommended American adherence to the court, the Senate in 1926 agreed, subject to five reservations, the fifth of which insisted that the court give no advisory opinions on any dispute where we had or claimed an interest without consent of the United States. If we were to join, the other 48 signatory states must each accept our reservations. A conference of signatory states accepted the first four reservations. Subsequent discussion concerned whether the United States was to be given a privilege status and whether the claims of this country should be permitted to govern the court in advisory opinions.

Other powers were willing that the court forego advisory opinions in cases to which we were a party, but where we only claimed an interest they did not care to give us exclusive veto power. The trouble was that the league had never decided whether unanimous votes of its council were requisite to requests for advisory opinions. If so, every council member would have the veto power, the fifth reservation would give the United States no greater privilege than anyone else and there would be no argument. Elihu Root went to Europe and rigged up what is known as the "Root formula," amending reservation five. This provides means for rapid consultation between Geneva and Washington on specific cases, on the theory that disputes on advisory opinions could be quickly settled. But if no agreement was reached regarding the submission of a given case to the court the way is left open for amicable American withdrawal from the court.

This was satisfactory to the other nations and also to President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, who authorized our representatives to sign the court protocols in December. But it is unsatisfactory to Senator Borah and various other prominent Republican Senators.

ACTRESS SEEKS DIVORCE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A legal notice appearing in the West Bend, Wis., News, sets forth that Peggy Udell, formerly a Broadway show girl, has started divorce proceedings against Jimmy Conzelmann, professional football player of Providence, R. I. They were married in Waukegan, Ill., in 1924. Conzelmann being Miss Udell's second husband. Grounds for the divorce action were not made public.

Invoke Centuries Old Law To Settle Case in Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 17 (AP)—The suitability during a reasonable trial period of 50 years. The attorney for Mrs. Caporale, E. Libonati, said to the court: "I ask that the trial run its full course as Justinian decreed. That is these two people—Mrs. Caporale who is 67 years old, and her husband who is 72—will have recognized that their present trouble was only a temporary misunderstanding, slight in contrast to the force of affection in their long years together."

MONARCH TO OPEN BIG NAVAL PARLEY

King George to Open First Session of Conference on Next Tuesday.

London.—(AP)—King George will open the first formal session of the five power armaments conference in the royal gallery of the House of Lords next Tuesday.

In welcoming the delegates and declaring the conference open, the King will be following the precedent of the Washington arms conference which was inaugurated in 1921 by the late President Harding.

The royal gallery is a great room at the extreme east of the House of Parliament, one of the largest and finest halls in the great range of buildings which cover eight acres and whose rich facade and terrace rank directly from the waters of the River Thames and stretch 900 feet along its banks.

Imposing Hall The gallery is an imposing hall 10 feet long, through which the British sovereign in crown and robes passes to the House of Lords to open Parliament with state ceremony. It was last used on the eve of Armistice Day for a dinner to winners of the prized British decoration for gallantry.

For the opening of the arms conference the chief delegates of the five powers numbering about thirty men will be seated around one long table, with the King presiding at the center. Behind the conference table will be groups of experts representing each participating country.

American Audiences Are Noisier, Says Jane Cowl

Jane Cowl . . . thinks all the talking should be done on the stage.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS.

New York.—The theater manners of Manchester playgoers are no better and no worse than those of New Yorkers, but there is a steadily lowering standard of audience etiquette all over the country.

This is according to Jane Cowl, the actress.

"The talking picture may be an improvement over the silent drama," she declared, "but the talking audience is a menace which, unless it can be quieted, will drive from the boards the few actors and actresses who devote themselves to the legitimate drama."

A year ago, playing in Boston, Miss Cowl received great applause—and much wider approval—because she stepped out of her stage character long enough to reprove some late comers who were audibly trying to figure out what had happened before they arrived, and to ask them for the sake of the rest of the audience, to be quiet.

Declares War on Talkers.

This season she has become a crusader for better manners in the theater, and has come out militantly against the talkers.

"I am not including audiences as a whole," she maintained, "the disturbing element is probably only about five per cent. But it is sufficient to take the joy out of theater-going for the other 95 per cent, and it is wearing out the actor."

Modern life makes us a noisy people, because we are continually surrounded by rackets, some necessary, some quite superfluous. Our lives unfold and a crash, bang, clatter and din that keep us from observing much that is beautiful and delicate and quiet. Everything is a mad rush or scramble instead of something that is carefully thought out and quietly sought for.

"The stage not only reflects our past, but our present-day manners as well. No one is in a better position to observe the changes we are undergoing than we who face an audience every evening, and have seen what the jazz age has done to it."

Glamour Leaves Theater.

"Only those who love the theater, and actors who love their art, who remember the leisurely days and the fascination players had for their public, realize how fast we are driving glamour from our theaters—driving it out with noise and clatter. And when the glamour is gone, the theater has outlived its function."

That day will bring the domination of the mechanical audience. Miss Cowl believes—people who use their eyes, ears and voices, but not their emotions—people who take, but do not give.

Players can be no better than their audiences," she insists. "They can do their best only when they have attention, quiet, and a receptive spirit out in front. Late comers, who arrive in a dinner mood, laughing and talking as they take their seats, make it impossible for any play to get the right start, or to give the correct emotional approach."

"But how can we expect quiet and punctuality in the theater, when we find it nowhere else. Close attention is not demanded for the newer forms of mechanical entertainment, so it is not fostered."

Movie Actors Aren't Bothered.

creating any atmosphere but gaiety, and no mood save hilarity.

This Boom Boom Age.

"You learn to shriek above traffic, and the din and bang of the machine age, because you have to if you want to be heard. But you cannot listen to a symphony in a foundry or enter into the spirit of a play in a mad house."

Since musicians have taken steps to protect their concert programs from talkers and late comers, Miss Cowl believes that theaters could well take a similar stand.

More than once has Stokowski put down his baton and stopped his symphony concerts to quiet his audiences, and this year late comers are seated only at intermissions, not even between the movements of a score.

All Audiences Alike.

Miss Cowl indicts not only the Broadway audience, but the Main Street one as well, for she says the same conditions prevail generally, and that there is little difference between the attitudes of the metropolitan and the smaller city audiences.

She believes that the passing of the road show—and she is a trooper who has played in every state in the union, as well as London—did much to rob the stage of its glamour. Because the smaller town audiences loved the theater and came in the expectant, receptive mood which established, such rapport between both sides of the footlights, and made for inspired performances.

"The theater," she concluded, "is about the only remaining form of entertainment that is not mechanical. It is trying desperately to hang on. Those who love the theater need to save it from those who would destroy it thoughtlessly."

FRANCE MINTS ONE GOLD COIN IN YEAR

This is Placed in Museum; Policy is Against Gold Circulation.

Paris.—(AP)—Frenchmen for a year have been straining their ears to hear the chink of real, gold money.

They have smiled as they day-dreamed of having the solid, yellow stuff again, symbol to them of prosperity and sound finance.

Somewhat impatiently they have awaited the new coins while they supposed the mint was working night and day, stamping out the coins.

And during that year the mint has made just one gold coin and put it in the League of Nations Museum.

No Gold.

MILLIONS IN PENSIONS FOR AGED MINISTERS

Now Have $116,000,000
On Hand in Protestant Denominations.

By HELEN WELSHIMER.

Nearly 182,000 Protestant preachers in the United States are now singing a glad hymn of praise! Not to the tune of golden harps, either, but to the clank of silver dollars.

It has been an accepted fact that school teachers, engineers, policemen, and anyone else who worked for a long period in the service of a particular corporation or organization should be pensioned. Now churches have decided that provision should be made so that ministers can live comfortably in old age.

Disciples of Christ, Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Congregational, Northern Baptist and Methodist churches have lately presented a practical plan of action, according to which minister, assisted by their churches, will invest a certain small percentage of their salaries in a pension fund every month.

$116,000,000 on Hand. Eighteen of the larger Protestant religious bodies now have approximately $116,000,000 in assets with which to conduct actuarial pension systems, endowment systems and the older forms of ministerial relief. Upwards of $9,000,000 is being paid annually to nearly 28,000 beneficiaries.

Leading laymen have decided that too frequently ministers were compelled to move into their mansions in the city straight from poor houses or old people's homes. Therefore, the comforting mottoes which state resignedly that one should take no thought of the morrow because the Lord would provide are leaving a bare space of parsonage walls.

Pathetic tales of aged ministers who had no where to lay their heads, or who became dependents because of their meager salaries are responsible for the pension fund.

To the Episcopal church goes the distinction of having first established an actuarial pension system by which each clergyman, or his widow, would be paid an annuity commensurate with his average salary during active service. The big problem solved by the Episcopal pension fund was the adequate funding of the accrued liabilities assumed by the pension system. Since no age or health discriminations could properly be made it was necessary for members of the Episcopal church to subscribe at least $5,000,000 for this accrued liabilities fund. Total pledges for this fund reached nearly $9,000,000 or about $4,000,000 more than was required.

Disciples Seek $8,000,000. The Disciples of Christ, the largest religious body to enlist in the pension fund, is organizing committees which will begin raising $8,000,000 in 1930.

William R. Warren, executive vice president of the Disciples of Christ pension fund, expects that if all ministers were not more than 30, and all were starting their ministry today, no accrued liabilities fund would be needed, as the regular monthly payments based on each minister's salary would be sufficient to carry the pension system in perpetuity. But the older ministers must be taken care of.

"Under the plan now before Christian churches for adoption," says Mr. Warren, "each minister who enrolls agrees to pay 2 1/2 per cent. of his annual salary in monthly installments. His church agrees to pay the equivalent of 8 per cent. of his salary. These payments will earn in 35 years a pension equal to one-half of the minister's average salary, with proportionately smaller or larger pensions for service under or over 35 years, and with substantial benefits to widows and minor children.

"Each month a minister will have earned a definite sum which can never be taken away from him. Practically this sum is one-seventeenth of the annual salary paid to a minister, which, of course, is equal to one-half of his average salary over a 35-year period."

Northern Presbyterians. The Northern Presbyterian church met the increasing demand for social justice towards its ministry by completing a campaign for $10,000,000 in 1927. This provides for the accrued liabilities among its older pastors and establishes an actuarial pension system.

Congregationalists and Northern Baptists several years ago likewise raised funds with which to provide retirement annuities, the former church having received about $6,000,000 and the latter $7,000,000. Unlike the actuarial systems of Disciples of Christ, Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Baptists do not contribute a state sum each month for pastor's pensions but operate under a semi-endowment plan.

The Northern Baptist system, which has been in operation for 19 years, permits each minister an allowance at retirement age. It is paid monthly, quarterly, or yearly. Southern Baptist church, for the past several years, have also been at work on a definite pension plan for their clergy.

The Methodist Plan. Still another type of pension system is used by the Methodists, who operate by separate conferences, with supplemental income from the general conference. It is a non-contributory system, with retirement features and benefits are based on salary and service. Two other churches to enter the actuarial pension field in recent months are the Southern Presbyterian and the United Presbyterian, whose members have launched a plan almost identical with the Disciples of Christ and Northern Presbyterians. Southern Presbyterians require $3,000,000 to meet their accrued liabilities and United Presbyterians are seeking a similar fund of $1,500,000.

Two of the leaders in the Disciples of Christ pension movement are shown here. Above is Harry S. Rogers, banker and oil man of Tulsa, Okla., former president of Rotary International and now president of his church's pension fund. Below is William R. Warren, executive vice president of the Disciples of Christ pension fund who is credited with being the "father" of this pension plan.

Based on Service. The Evangelical church is conducting a campaign to increase its fund for ministerial pensions to $2,000,000 by October, 1930. Its ministers are required to contribute a stated yearly amount as dues to a fund which, in turn, when they are old, will give them quarterly payments according to the number of years they have served.

The United Brethren church taxes its clergy a standard amount, also, regardless of salary received. Reformed church ministerial relief, which follows the pension plan, is supported by monthly payments, and the Universalist church secures its pension fund through the local church.

Lutherans Collecting $4,000,000. Lutheran church recently put on a $4,000,000 drive. The entire amount, pledged one year ago, must be paid by 1930. Minister pay nothing, the money being secured by a tax of so much per member on the local church.

Percentages of their salary which ministers pay to the fund vary. When the Methodist goal is reached the younger clergy will be asked to give one per cent. of their salary toward this fund. Presbyterians will be asked to contribute two and one-half per cent. of their salaries, while their individual churches will give seven and one-half per cent. of the salary. In the Congregational group the minister and the church he serves together will pay five per cent. of the yearly salary as an investment in future rewards, but each church is privileged to increase its percentage.

Ministers, so the laymen have decided, are to have a few contented years in self-supporting Canadian instead of having to loiter in the land of Moab, as Moses did, and trust in manna from on high!

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

On Jan. 17, 1708, Benjamin Franklin, famous American statesman, scientist and author, was born in Boston, Mass.

His father, Josiah Franklin, emigrated to America about 1685 and took up the business of tallow chandler. His mother, a second wife, was the daughter of Peter Folger, a leading settler, noted for his philanthropy and tolerance.

Benjamin, the 15th of 17 children, was named after his father's favorite brother. Today also is the anniversary of the receipt in Milwaukee of the first telegram sent from Chicago on Jan. 17, 1849.

On Jan. 17, 1893, Rutherford Hayes, the 19th president of the United States, died. And on Jan. 17, 1910, statehood bills for New Mexico and Arizona were passed. Shark's teeth are used for money in some of the Pacific islands; while in China they are mounted in gold to form attractive ornaments.

Manchester Favored Over West Hartford Tonight

Tenney Defeats Clifford In 3 Hour Match, 100-91

Worshipful Master Plays Much Steadier But Faltering Finish Nearly Proves Fatal; Both Play Slowly and Cautiously; Victory Well Deserved.

New York's six day bicycle races have nothing on Manchester's marathon pocket billiard matches—at least compared to the battle between Herbert L. Tenney and Loren C. Clifford last night for the championship of the Masonic Social club. Exactly three hours and three minutes of time was consumed during the course of the hundred point match which Tenney finally won 100 to 91. And so today Brother Tenney not only heads the Masons socially, but is also at the helm of the world-beating master richly deserved the triumph, it was not attained without a strenuous battle which found the champion reaching the century mark in the nick of time to avoid what promised to be a last minute rout.

Herbert L. Tenney

Tenney won because he was much the steadier of the two taken as a whole. Some say that Clifford is capable of playing much better but last night's exhibition was the one man played what could be called a good brand of billiards, but repeatedly missing the easiest of shots. Yet they were pretty evenly matched and interest in the match ran high. Close to a hundred spectators puffed their pipes of peace much to the reimbursement of the canteen during the marathon.

Pipes of Peace

Among the most conspicuous were Fred Fitchner's gas oven, and John McMenemy's boiler which came into the limelight at the town tournament last year. Johnny Gardner, town champion, was noticed well down to the front of the orchestra fidgeting about nervously as if to say he would like to take a puff of the finalists. Paul Dougan, another cue artist of considerable reputation in yesteryear, was the referee. He is also the donor of a cue stick to the winner. "Safe Sam" Houston kept score, the penalty for a bit of baggery.

It was evident during the first few racks of the match that there would be plenty of time to take in a motion picture show and still be back in time to see the finish. Holger Each, who is supposed to be now the contracting business to perfection, saw many dream castles rise and fall during chess times with Fred Tilden and they had concluded in plenty of time to see Clifford's brilliant eleventh hour rally fall just short of hitting the bull's eye.

Chambers Resents

Tenney was guilty of using the larger share of the time, but to this end it must be said that he played an exceptionally steady and well planned game. He repeatedly scratched or else got his cue ball into a traffic jam worse than the Centennial. At this stage of the battle, Assessor Tom Lewis placed Tenney's chance on a par with Sharkey's in the coming setto with "Foxy Bill" Scott. But while Clifford did have more than his share of the hard luck, he was also guilty of missing very easy shots at the most inopportune moments.

Just Too Bad

As the contestants crept (a perfectly fitting word) down the home stretch, Tenney's chances seemed to increase the value of their shares and there was no forewarning of the stock market crash that was to take place during the last lap. Those who had fallen asleep in their chairs

No amount of lobbying, it seems, can bring about a reconciliation, this year at least, between those erstwhile arch-rivals of the college gridiron—Army and Navy, Harvard and Princeton.

Although there has been lively agitation for it, especially from sources having no connection whatsoever with either academy, the chance of Annapolis and West Point coming to terms is still somewhat remote. The arrangement of 1930 schedules precludes any immediate chance of healing this breach, for the Navy will point for Pennsylvania as a climax opponent while Army will engage Notre Dame in its main finale.

The Cadets, for the time being, will undertake no further post-season assignments, with Stanford or any other outfit. They have had enough for some time to come and will be entirely satisfied this Fall to tackle Harvard, Yale, Illinois and Notre Dame in the head-line engagements. The Navy takes on Notre Dame, Princeton, Ohio State, Southern Methodist and Pennsylvania in this year's major contests.

Harvard already has completed its 1931 schedule, with Dartmouth occupying the early November date formerly held by Princeton, two weeks before the climax with Yale. It is the logical spot for this New England classic and there does not seem much chance for the time being of any attempt to patch up the famous break in the old Big Three.

But for these facts, some significance might be attached to the tribute paid to Harvard's 1929 team by Bill Roper, Princeton coach, who will retire after this year. Roper, in an article for the Athletic Journal of the Western Conference (Big Nine) goes out of his way to remark:

"Harvard made splendid use of the lateral pass and the team in addition was the fortunate possessor of a splendid forward passer, Barry Wood, a very heady quarterback. This combination of lateral and forward pass gave Harvard a powerful attack. Wood was by far the best quarterback in the East in addition to being a fine passer and drop-kicker. His fake drop-kick against Yale was one of the best plays I have seen. Ben Ticknor the Harvard captain-elect was the outstanding center in this section. He was a fine leader, too, and in both the Dartmouth and 'al games showed magnificent pluck in continuing to play with a painful injury. . . . Ticknor and Marsters were the outstanding players in the East. . . ."

"Booth was handicapped by getting the most ridiculous amount of publicity I have ever known a football player to receive with the possible exception of Red Grange. It was hardly fair to him though he was a great player."

Maryland's contribution in the way of baseball talent for the major league show is pretty well known since Jimmy Foxx and Bob Grove helped Connie Mack's Athletics capture the world's championship. Pointing to them as products of Maryland's physical education program in the public schools, Dr. William Burdick in a recent article for "Sportsmanship" revealed Foxx's fine record as an all-around track athlete. The first baseman, it seems, might have made a success as a decathlon performer, for several of his records still stand. His state mark of 23 seconds for the 220 yard dash, made in 1923, has not been beaten, in addition to which he still holds the Queen Anne county records of 10 3/5 seconds for the 100-yard dash and 24 2/5 for the 220. He established a junior high jump record of 5 feet 6 inches in 1920.

Art Shires may be advised to maintain a discreet silence in connection with challenges he has received from several of the playboys of professional hockey. They might not be able to recognize the Great One around first base in the spring if he gets into the ring with Eddie Shore of the Boston Bruins, Lionel Conacher of the New York Americans (one-time amateur champion boxer of Canada) or 220-pound Moose Goheen of St. Paul's sextet.

awoke suddenly when the gallery by means of mental telepathy informed Clifford that he was the popular choice.

The debacle came in the unlucky thirteenth rack when Brother Clifford came back from the hencoop with 13 eggs in the basket. Tenney who was behind him found only one that Clifford had missed. The next rack, while not as fruitful, saw the men divide the spoils nine to five with the ex-telephone official leading the way.

As they opened the final rack, the score stood 97 to 90 in Tenney's favor. The ball was in Clifford's possession with a perfect break shot at hand. Loren played the shot, made it and the cue ball shot up the table at break-neck speed toward the head of the bunch. Someone must have dropped a cargo of that Bolton ledge in its path for the ball wedged in the group with the outside members well spread about. Clifford missed a difficult shot and then Tenney ran out to end festivities.

18 YEAR OLD BOY TO FIGHT FOR TITLE

Paris, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Yvon Trevidic, an eighteen year old little lad from Brittany is probably the youngest boxer in the history of the prize ring to get a crack at a title. Tomorrow night he meets Frankie Genaro of New York, generally recognized world champion in the flyweight class at the Velodrome D'Etiver, over the 12 round bout.

Trevidic turned pro a year ago after he had cleaned up all the amateurs in France. Among the pro's Trevidic has scored 19 victories in 20 fights, 18 by K. O. and one on a decision. The 20th fight was a draw.

Genaro who has been suffering from a boll under his right arm had to ask for a postponement after an operation as the battle originally was scheduled for Jan. 11.

Genaro's right to the world flyweight championship is in dispute in this country. The Little New Yorker holds the National Boxing Association 112 pound championship but the N. Y. State Athletic commission does not recognize any title holder in the division.

SHIRES MATCHED.

Detroit, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Vandes Gildersleeve, manager for "Fat-tling" Criss, of Rockwood, Mich., announced today that he had accepted terms for a match between Criss and Charles Arthur Shires, pugilistic Chicago White Sox first baseman, in the Chicago Stadium January 24.

"And we are going to get more than ten times as much money as we were offered to fight Shires here," Gildersleeve added.

It was Gildersleeve's charge that he had been approached with a proposal to "fix" the original scheduled bout between Shires and Criss that led to the Chicago players' suspension by the Michigan Boxing Commission as well as the National Boxing Association. The suspension later was lifted against Shires, but continued in force against his manager, Nessie Blumenthal, and Benny Ray, Detroit promoter.

COLLOM IS OUT.

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Samuel H. Colloom of Philadelphia, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will not be reelected at the annual meeting in St. Louis, Feb. 15, it was indicated today, when Louis B. Dalley of New York was named for the office by the nominating committee. Nomination is considered tantamount to election.

BRUINS DEFEATED

Wapping Hoop Teams Trim Highland Park

Wapping continues to remain in first place in the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. basketball league. Last night Highland Park was added to defeat the Highland Park girls by a score of 38 to 25.

The girls from the Mt. Everest section of the town were in the lead until the last quarter, being up 19 to 13 at halftime and 24 to 19 when the final chapter got under way. Loss of Evelyn Beer on personal was the beginning of their downfall. The ever-present Miriam Welles was also a big factor in their defeat. She hopped ten from the floor. Hart and Washkewich were the stars for the losers with five buckets each.

In the men's game, Roger Spencer scored ten times from the floor while Welles and Rose were also instrumental in the victory. Joe Pentland was best for the losers who were thoroughly outclassed.

Next Saturday night a team composed of stars of the Wapping team of several years back, will be the attraction at the Wapping Hall. In the ranks of the Alumni, so-called, will be the well known George Hills, former Trade school sensation, Truman Hills, Bill Foster, Franklin Welles, Tom Stowe and Sece.

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, erstwhile featherweight champ and Jack (Kid) Berg of England tangle in a ten round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight, with a shot at Sammy Mandell's lightweight title perhaps awaiting the winner.

Present plans of the Garden are to match the winner of tonight's battle against Al Singer, Bronx idol, the ultimate survivor to meet Mandell for the title in outdoor show this summer.

Canzoneri, ruled an eight to five favorite over the Englishman.

SHIRES TO RECEIVE ADVICE FROM LANDIS

Chicago, Jan. 17.—(AP)—If Charles Arthur "The Great" Shires makes an agreement tomorrow with Commissioner Landis to quit the professional prize ring for baseball he will lose approximately $50,000 or one fifth of the nest egg he is aiming at.

Ever since the fighting White Sox first baseman attracted 18,000 customers at Boston recently for his fight with Al Spohrer, he has been flooded with attractive offers for boxing matches. A Chicago promoter, presumably the Chicago Stadium, has offered him $35,000 for two matches while promoters in St. Louis, Boston, New York and Philadelphia want his services, swelling the financial inducements to $50,000.

"I'll tell it to Judge Landis; he'll tell me what to do and I'll do it," said the great one. "I think a lot of Judge Landis. He's a friend of mine and the advice he gives me is good enough for me."

There was every indication today that Mr. Landis would merely give Shires a fatherly talk, advise him to make a humble apology to the White Sox for fighting with former manager "Lena" Blackburne and sign up at a reasonable figure for the 1930 campaign.

Important League Tilt On Tap At Rec Gym

Visitors Coming Here Intent Upon Wrecking Title Aspirations of Clarke's Cohorts; Two Other Battles In League This Evening; Bristol Favored.

With their eyes focused on the annual Yale tournament, Manchester High will be in no mood to fool around with West Hartford High tonight when the two institutions of learning clash on the basketball court of the School Street Recreation Center.

With only one defeat to mar its slate, Manchester is in hopes of continuing to put the remaining contests on the win side of the school ledger and thus being more or less certain of selection for the Yale tournament. Five victories have been chalked up in six games, the only defeat coming in Bristol.

West Hartford, defeated by Bristol, Meriden and Middletown and boasting a league victory over East Hartford, will be the underdog in tonight's fracas and can be counted upon to give a good account of itself. Coach Erik Norfeldt's boys are intent upon dislodging Manchester from second place in the Connecticut Interscholastic League.

There will be two other games in the circuit this evening. The undefeated Middletown team steps into a hornet's nest when it invades Bristol and East Hartford with nine straight defeats to its credit hasn't caused Meriden any cases of heart attack. The probabilities are that will be the winners of the battles this evening.

Coach Norfeldt will probably start Popowicz, Sperry, McClure or Young forwards, Busch, center, with Pulsifer, Hunting or VanZandt, guards, Coach Wilfred J. Clarke of the Manchester team said this morning that his lineup would be the same which faced Meriden last week and scored a surprising 17 to 12 victory. Al Smith and Johnny Tierney will be up front, "Woolworth" Turkington in the middle with Captain Ernie Dowd and Bruno Nicola pacing about the rear. The second teams of both schools will clash in the preliminary.

Manchester displayed a much improved attack in handing Meriden its first league defeat of the season and if it can keep up the good work tonight—well it's going to be just too bad for West Hartford.

Manchester's record to date is as follows: Manchester 18, East Hartford 9; Manchester 32, East Hartford 22; Manchester 18, Rockville 15; Manchester 27, Alumni 15; Manchester 24, Rockville 12; Manchester 17, Meriden 12. The second team has progressed as follows: Manchester 15, East Hartford 17; Manchester 21, East Hartford 13; Manchester 24, Rockville 12; Manchester 22, Renaissance 36; Manchester 16, Bristol 41; Manchester 10, Meriden 25.

Dancing will follow the games tonight.

Rash Romance

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After a whirlwind courtship, JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing office, is married to ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the firm. Knight is a widower, father of two children, TONY, his 18-year-old daughter, in Europe, and JUNIOR, 16, is attending school.

Judith has no definite friends, though on several occasions she keeps mysterious appointments with a young man known as DAN. Judith and Arthur sail for a honeymoon in Bermuda. The first week is a paradise of sunny days and moonlit nights. Then comes a cablegram in which Knight asks her to return to New York. Judith returns to meet Tony's boat. Since neither of Knight's children has been told about the marriage, Judith is skeptical of her welcome. Knight has no such scruples and begins making eager plans for Christmas which is only one week distant. Immediately after landing they drive to Knight's Long Island home. Mrs. Wheeler, the housekeeper, shows Judith the large house. Knight, celebrating a business engagement, rushes off to the city and Judith has her first meal in her new home alone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

True to his word, by a quarter of four o'clock that afternoon Arthur Knight reached home. He came into the living room in high spirits, rubbing his hands together to warm them, cheeks glowing from exposure to the cold wind, and strode over to the fireplace.

"When it's getting cold outside," he told Judith, "I said it as a man who would not be content to sit in a chair and enjoy them. 'Hope there isn't going to be a storm to the up Tony's boat tomorrow morning. December's an awful time to cross the Atlantic,' he added.

Judith dropped the notebook in which she had been scribbling and came over to her husband. Carelessly she slipped an arm about her, dropped a kiss on the radiant, glossy head and little moments of tenderness she had learned to love.

"Everything all right at the office?" she asked.

"Oh, yes! I caught Hunter just as I hoped to. Wants to have us out to dinner next week. His wife will be getting in touch with you, I guess. Yes, everything's going splendidly. That new elementary science series is going to. It's catching on like wildfire. They say that's one time when your husband knew what he was talking about."

"He went ahead, talking of contracts and re-orders and new shipments."

"And what have you been doing all this long afternoon?" he finally paused to inquire.

"Oh, I've been so busy! I've seen the whole house, Arthur—every room. And I talked to Harriet and Tony and went over all sorts of things with Mrs. Wheeler. My, but she's an efficient person."

"Yes, she stayed right here and took care of the place all the time I had it closed. She's a good housekeeper. Listen, anything you want you're to change it, remember. Get an interior decorator, have it all done over if you wish, plan it any way you like."

"The girl smiled. 'There are a few things I want different,' she said, 'but not right away. Arthur. Remember, Christmas is coming! Wouldn't that be a fine time to have paper-hangers around and half of the furniture in boxes? No, thanks, we'll wait a while for that.'"

They talked then about Judith's allowance for the house. It was a liberal sum but the young wife was determined to be quite busy, the mess-like. Every bill and every household expense was to be paid from her own budget. It was this about which she had been scribbling in her notebook before Knight's arrival.

At seven o'clock that evening Judith Knight presided over dinner in her own home for the first time. She had made such eager plans for that dinner and entered the dining room with high color and a rapidly beating heart.

She took her seat at the head of the table and Knight drew out his chair opposite.

"Looking very pretty tonight, Judith."

"Thank you, kind husband," she said mischievously. She had hoped he would say that! Judith wore a frock of marine blue flat crepe, the simplest of dinner gowns, with a crystal bow on the left shoulder and a knot of velvet ribbon for its only additional trimming. The color was flattering and darkened the shade of her deep blue eyes.

Through misted lashes she glanced happily across at Knight. The mist signified happiness.

Very different that table looked from its appearance at noon. A low flaring bowl of silver stood in the center and from it arose a cluster of tiny pink roses, clusters of forget-me-nots and airy maidenhair fern.

Close to the bowl were four low candlesticks, each bearing a lofty white taper. Their flames lit the room, casting into shadow the corners of the table and adding glints of fire to crystal glassware and shedding mellow warmth across the table.

Harriet began serving the meal. Judith Knight was proud of the menu, hoping Cora had made no mistakes. She had planned the meal with regard for Arthur's taste. She knew he liked to start dinner with an oyster cocktail and the blue points were properly fed. Then there was a consomme, roast beef not over-done but quite tender, vegetables, a salad and cheese served with Bar-le-Duc jelly and They had coffee in the living room before the fireplace. Both of them sat on the big divan and watched the dancing firelight. They sat there a long while after Harriet had taken away the coffee tray. Arthur Knight praised his bride for the housewife's knack she was already demonstrating. He looked at what he was, a happy, well-fed, contented man.

"Ought to turn in early tonight," he said, before long. "Tony's ship is supposed to dock at nine o'clock. We'll want to get there before that time."

Judith hesitated. "I've been thinking about that, Arthur," she said. "Don't you think you'd better go alone to meet Tony? Of course you know I'd like to be there. But the child doesn't know—well, she's never even heard of me. It would be embarrassing to see and hear the news all at once."

"I'm sure it's best," he said. "I'm sure it's best."

"All right, dear. I think perhaps you're right."

What a jewel she was, Knight thought to himself. Always tactful, he had had his own misgivings on the subject of greeting Tony, then suddenly saying, "Here, daughter. Look, I've brought you a new mother."

They watched the leaping flames grow lower and lower. Then at 10 o'clock they mounted the stairway.

The first day in the new home had been encouraging, Judith later, drifting to sleep, smiled dreamily and thought how foolish her fears had been.

It seemed no time at all before sunlight was pouring in at the windows. The girl rubbed her eyes and saw Arthur standing across the room in his dressing gown. He caught her eye.

"Hullo, Sleep-head," he greeted her. "Know what time it is?"

"Seven-thirty," asked Judith lazily.

"Isn't that early?"

"Always get up at 7:30 when I'm in New York," Knight explained. "Gives me time for exercise. Going to have breakfast up here or downstairs with me?"

"Upstairs, of course," Judith told him. She pushed the covers down, stretched out on one pink pajama leg and then the other. Never too enthusiastic about early rising, Judith Knight made no pretense at springing up to greet the dawn with animation.

She wanted to be up early this morning, though.

They had breakfast an hour later. Judith poured the coffee and from the kitchen came a wonderfully golden brown plate of griddle cakes. There were country sausages, crisp and well flavored. Arthur liked a nourishing breakfast and did justice to this one.

"Wear your heavy coat," his wife told him. "It looks cold out."

"Guess you're glad you're staying inside," he chided.

Fifteen minutes later she stood in the doorway and saw him off to meet Tony. She watched until he had stepped into the car and then hurried upstairs.

So much to do. So much to do. Mrs. Wheeler had been given instructions to have Tony's room exactly as the girl liked it. The door stood open now. Judith paused to take a careful survey and note that the vases had been filled. Then she hurried across the hall.

There were two hours at least to wait. She knew it would take her father, a diminutive figure in scarlet and gray, was Tony Knight. Judith hurried to meet them.

How attractive Tony looked! Her gray coat was thrown over her father's arm. Tony wore a suit of bright red worsted stuff. A close-fitting scarlet beret was pulled down over her head. She wore high French heeled pumps and cobwebby hose. Tony Knight carried herself with an air.

That was the secret of her attraction really. The saucy little nose might have been insignificant but for the queenly tilt of Tony's head. Her lips were too full and violently scarlet. She had lustrous eyes, rather wide-set, and the same rich brown shade as her father's. Tony had her father's chin, too. It was her best feature.

Yes, Tony Knight was pretty enough to win attention anywhere. She came up the walk ahead of Arthur, a tiny, ridiculous, preening figure, giving, for all the world, the impression that a retinue of slaves should follow.

"Tony, I'm so glad to meet you!" Judith's little cry held both anxiety and eagerness. With both hands outstretched she came forward.

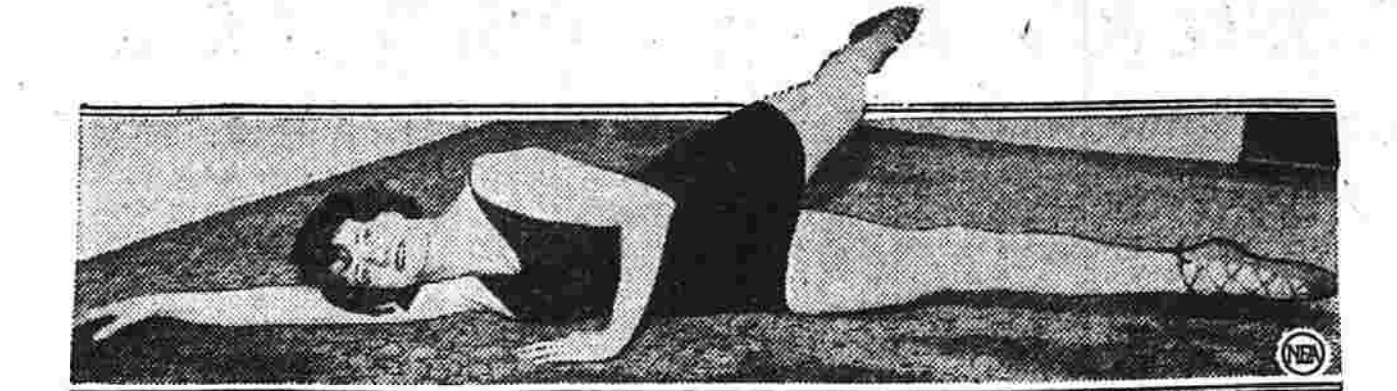

And Tony? Looking neither to left nor right, the girl marched past Judith and into the house. It was as though she had not seen her.

HERE'S "SCISSORS" EXERCISE TO CUT OUT MORE EXTRA POUNDS

Carol Cotton... Illustrates the "side-scissors"

By JAC AUER

One of the first steps in "rounding the 1930 curves" consists in reducing the hips and thighs until they are of the desired proportions.

New standards of beauty in feminine figures call for curved contours, it is true, but they should be only slightly curved. The hips should avoid excessive fullness; the thigh, heaviness. Moreover, the body should have a tilt to it that can come only from suppleness.

There are several exercises that take off the flesh and limber up the body until it is thoroughly supple. All of these hip and thigh reducing exercises that really are efficacious are done on the floor. The best exercise to start with is called the "side-scissors." It should be done as follows:

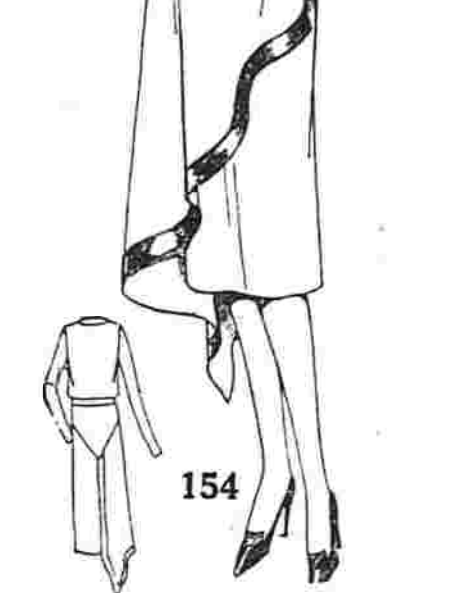

1. Stretch out on the floor, on your right side, with your right arm extended as far above your head as it can reach, in a straight line.
2. Stretch your legs out straight together, also in a straight line with your body.
3. Raise both legs an inch or two from the floor and with a quick swing, thrust the right leg back and the left leg forward as far as you can stretch both of them. Bring them together and repeat.
4. Turn onto your left side, stretch out your left arm and begin the exercise again, always swinging the under leg backward and the top leg forward.

Begin this exercise with three "scissors strokes" on each side. Increase the number to five the second day, and by the third, take 10 strokes on each side.

No innumerable exercises from over-doing exercises. Women are apt to rush into exercises enthusiastically, overdo them for a day or two, become lame, and stop altogether. The best method of procedure and the surest is to start slowly and increase the number and kinds of exercises gradually. And you must make up your mind that it will take a week or so before your body gets used to stretching and exercising. If you continue faithfully each morning for a month or six weeks, you will find yourself thoroughly enjoying the stretching and bending and swinging. And you will find, too, that your body misses it all if you should stop!

Graceful Tunic Draped Sweeping Length; With Tightened Hip and Higher Waistline

By ANNETTE

A sophisticated model for sophisticated taste that uses the dull side of crepe satin in new brown shade for the entire dress. The reverse side of the crepe is used for the trimming band of tunic skirt and for the surplice bodice.

The back of the skirt has a deep pointed hip yoke, which gives a decidedly slimming line to the figure, and emphasizes the dipping hem of tunic.

It is belted at normal waistline. The sleeves are snugly fitted below the elbows.

It's as easy to wear as it is to make! Try it! The back of bodice is joined to front sections at sides and shoulders. The two-piece skirt with flaring tunic joined beneath hip yoke at back is attached to the bodice, and it is practically ready for sleeves to be set into armholes.

Style No. 154 comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In medium size, it requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 1/2 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Black silk crepe is extremely chic and dignified, with self-fabric trimming bands. Crepe marocain, crepe de chine, rayon prints and wool crepe appropriate.

Sky-larking is amusing, but no real part of living, according to Helen Grace Carlisle, author of "Mothers Cry," who has herself lived an adventurous life, bersef to the "Flaming Youth" generation and has now settled down and subscribed to the old, old theory that the most important thing in a woman's life is having children.

She is positive at 30 that what she thought was life and experience at 16, was a poor imitation of the real thing. She believes that what she thought was high adventure was colossal ignorance, and that the conventional life is best for the average person.

She believes that no woman is really alive until she has had children, that she cannot dodge the fundamental realities of life and maternal instinct in women is as old as the world and cannot be denied with impunity.

"Everyone," she grants, "has a right to be wrong, and to experiment with life if he or she is willing to take the consequences, and not whine if they are painful, as they are apt to be."

But she believes that conventions are smashed through ignorance, not courage, and that confronted with the check for our extravagances, we are bewildered, and we evade it in a way that betrays bad sportsmanship, and poor technique. Thus she advises the safe course, the traveled road, and the life that conforms.

Safety Last Far be it from me to quarrel with any woman's philosophy of life—I am only too delighted to find one who has an idea what it is really about. But I am always surprised when I hear a woman who has adventured, and tried life from many angles, advising other women to be sheltered and protected.

Or one who has found out about life for herself, advising others to take it second hand. My theory is that it is better to have taken some risks—and succeeded or failed—rather than to play safe always, just because it is the least painful way to do.

A Varied Career Consider Miss Carlisle's life: As a child she moved in and out of New York, as she says, because her mother did. At 16 she went to work, and began supporting herself. She had worked as a salesgirl in a New York store, been a waitress, and tended babies. She taught herself stenography and worked in a Wall Street office. She went on the stage, touring for eight months in "The Miracle," which was followed by vaudeville and stock engagements.

With $25 in hand, and a steamship ticket, she went to London and found a job in the London County Council for eight dollars a week. She went to France and worked in a maternity hospital at Chalons and on the Marne. Returning to New York, she worked in "W. Street," and wrote advertising copy for seeds and composed pamphlets for the Association Against Prohibition. Eventually she began to write, married and has two children, and her first book "See How They Run" was written about her early experiences and her life in Greenwich Village.

Naturally, after all those contacts with life, she has something to write, and something to give to her children. But can you really imagine that there is any part of those years of "knocking around" that she would really part with now, if she had a chance?

Personally, I would prefer her life, kaleidoscopic with its ups and downs, and its vivid contrasts, and its "look in" at different types of living, to be a protected, conventional existence. Wouldn't you?

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

IF YOU GET 'WINDED' TOO EASILY, HAVE YOUR HEART EXAMINED

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The heart is a muscular pump, pushing the blood around the body through the arteries and veins and back to the heart again. The blood is sent through the lungs where it receives oxygen. It goes on and on through many years of life, producing enough work to lift the weight of the individual thousands of feet in the air.

It receives its own nutrition through the blood supply that goes to the heart directly. When the tissues of the heart are attacked by infectious disease, or when poisons carried in the blood bring about changes, or when too much continued strain is put upon the organ it revolts as would any other mechanism and it responds in various ways.

Some infections weaken the tissues so that they are stretched beyond repair. Others produce growths upon the valves which interfere with their proper opening and closing. In the vast majority of cases the changes that take place are insidious and the individual is seldom aware of his danger until considerable damage has already been done.

In discussing the future of medicine Sir James Mackenzie emphasized particularly the importance of detecting the symptoms of heart disease in their earliest stages. This detection is not the sort of thing that the physician must do primarily. The patient must come to him before he can apply the special knowledge that he possesses.

When the heart has been damaged it gives evidence in several ways. The physician who is accustomed to recognizing the normal sounds of the heart can detect changes in their strength, their frequency, their order, and any unusual sounds such as murmurs which are not heard over a normal heart. He can count the heart beats before and after effort and see if the heart responds promptly and properly to unusual work, and how quickly the rate returns to normal after the effort is discontinued. He can determine how much effort is required for the individual to become short of breath.

Realizing the importance of these studies, special tests of heart function have been elaborated by which the trained physician can determine how capably the heart responds. The tests are simple. They may be simply repeated standing and sitting, holding a given number of times, bending over and straightening up a certain number of times, climbing a certain number of steps and similar efforts.

Pain is not always, and indeed not usually a symptom of heart disease. Serious breathlessness following slight effort, unusual fatigue after brief exercise, a sense of constriction in the chest, may be far more serious as symptoms than occasional pain.

The first sign of heart failure, as Mackenzie emphasizes, is frequently a mere sensation of distress when the individual undertakes some effort that he was previously accustomed to perform in comfort.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON © 1930 by NEA Service, Inc.

The other day I met a young man whom I hadn't seen for several years. It seems strange to call him a young man, for he is to me just a boy. Only yesterday he was—but never mind. He's a man now, and a good looking one, too.

"What are you doing, Dick?" "Still studying. I have another year. Reading law now, you know."

After reminiscing for a few minutes Dick continued: "I have been going to school for 21 years. I am 25 now and I started to kindergarten when I was 4. Another year and I'll be starting my own life when life is half over."

I smiled, for didn't I know that all young people think that 50 is the end of everything! But just the same he was right. Twenty-six is too old to start life. Besides, he'll have to build up a practice, and very probably he won't be married until he is 30 or 35; that's all right too, but how about the demand of the modern world for the services of youth? How much time will he have for a real career?

Of course, law is a bit different; we might say, our prominent lawyers, judges, and statesmen do draw from the ranks of older men, largely. But how about the other professions and the industries? How about craftsmen and engineers? They, too, demand constantly younger men, too.

Time Is Disregarded How much of a margin does it leave the boy who spends 22 years in school? I've been in touch with some of the young people home from college for the holidays. I know one girl who spent on an average of eight or ten hours a day, every day she was at home, studying; not making up back work, but doing outside work, extra work, for a "general" an examination not included in midyears or finals. There seems to be no regard for the time element in the lives of those boys and girls of ours. Too much to be crowded in to a school year! The overflow to be done at home.

Perhaps it's all right. I'm not capable of making over the universe, nor college courses. But I heard John Cooper, a boy speak today, and my ears are still ringing with some of the truths he uttered. He was not speaking of youth particularly, but he did say that thinkers are crediting us of the Western world with a new word—"time." I thought of some of those school children I know.

They're Busy Boys We can't crowd enough into a day. We can't live fast enough in a week. Isn't it true! And as to these young people, we crowd them with work, and more work. And when we can't get the years to hold any more work, then we add on more years.

I'm one of the culprits. We have children away at school. Yet we follow the crowd of other parents working on into the old age to keep this god of time—school time—fed up. It may be right. But it may be wrong. If we were to come back in 2030 what would we find? "Boys and girls"—at 30—still preparing to live their lives? Every year the age limit seems to go on, so I don't see why not. Or will there be a new method, of condensed study in limited fields that will release these young

Don't wash grease spots on linoleum or wood floors with hot water as this sets grease. Wash with soap powder and cold water until the grease comes out.

Some of the best part of vegetables is lost through thick paring and overcooking. Most vegetables should boil from ten to fifteen minutes only.

CLEAN WINDOWS

Instead of using soap and water on windows, try using a cloth dipped in ammonia and whitening and then polish with a chamolite.

COAST GUARD RUN BY STERN EX-PROFESSOR

By L. A. BROPHY.

Washington.—(AP)—A physically compact former teacher, given to saying things succinctly, is Rear Adm. F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard.

Papers on his desk jiggled as taps of an emphasizing finger punctuated remarks about his now famous statement that the coast guard will not use "amiable gestures" in stopping liquor smuggling.

The Billard pronouncement, dropped in the restless sea of controversy over prohibition enforcement, caused widely varying comment here and brought a new focus on the coast guard, its work and its men.

"The coast guard is indoctrinated with the idea of doing any job given to it—expeditiously, efficiently, and fairly," Admiral Billard said.

"Preventing liquor smuggling is the most difficult task that ever has confronted the coast guard, or any sea force, for that matter.

"We are going and we have gone about this thing strictly within the law. If somebody gets hurt, we regret that. But we cannot help it if they violate a fundamental law of the country, which we are charged with enforcing."

Doing his job well is religion with the coast guard and its commandant sees the task of preventing liquor smuggling as something that must be accomplished to keep the historic record of the service free from failures.

The most important duty of the service, in peacetime, is saving life and property at sea, and in 1929 it rescued from peril or saved the lives of 4,275 persons.

Admiral Billard, directing the widely spaced forces against liquor smuggling, was named commandant of the coast guard in 1924, just 30 years to the day after he entered the service as a cadet. His sea-wrinkled eyes have seen plenty of service.

There was the time when the U. S. S. Aphrodite, of which he was in command, bumped a mine in the North sea and her stern crumpled. But she made port. Her commandant was awarded the navy cross for service in European waters.

Admiral Billard left a teacher's desk to enter the coast guard. He was commissioned an ensign in 1896. He has served on all the coasts of the United States and in Alaskan, Hawaiian and West Indian waters.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Jan. 17.—Further curtailment of its production was announced today by the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. Its "original" "Anaconda" mines were closed last night. A few days ago the company announced temporary suspension of operations at other properties. The curtailment is due to an increase in the stocks of refined copper between Dec. 1, 1929, and Jan. 1, 1930.

Contract letting for commercial structures also were numerous and showed a substantial gain in value from the total of the preceding week.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED BY WASHING COMPOUND

Norwalk, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Naphtha in a washing compound nearly took the life of Mrs. Joseph Fullin here today. She was rushed to the hospital with her body badly seared as a result of fire when she attempted to carry the blazing pan to a kitchen faucet. She ran from her home and fell unconscious outside a neighbor's house. Her clothes were entirely burned off.

Damage of $500 was done to the Fullin house by the fire.

The Ladies' Aid society of the South Congregational church met Wednesday afternoon to sew. At 6 o'clock the bi-weekly supper was served to 53 loyal workers and friends.

Mrs. Jacob Limberg of Naubuc avenue whose illness at her home was recently reported in The Herald a day or so past was taken to the Hartford hospital yesterday. Dr. L. J. Whittles is caring for her.

Mr. Godar of Glastonbury has petitioned the town council for permit to erect a store at the corner of Maple and South Main streets. As this is a residential zone the council withheld decision.

Representative Marjory Cheney and Miss Ethel M. Fish attended the business meeting and luncheon yesterday of the executive committee of the Fourth Senatorial District Republican Women's club. The session was held in the lunch room of the Business and Professional Women's club on Pratt street, Hartford.

Plans were made for the February meeting, to be held the 20th of the month at the same place. The subject will be Child Welfare, and all women interested will be welcome. It was decided to hold these meetings at least three times a year, with a guest speaker.

Among those present yesterday was the chairman of the committee, Mrs. J. Francis Saunders, Representatives Josephine Bryant and Marjory Cheney, Miss Ethel M. Fish, Mrs. B. E. Merrill, East Hartford, and Mrs. Goodrich of Glastonbury.

BOYS IN HOME STRETCH OF THEATER CONTEST

Russell Wilson in the Lead But Several Youngsters Are Pressing Close.

Oh Boy! What a race! What a race! It's the finish of the Popularity Contest Sweepstakes held as a part of Boy's Week at the State theater with twelve valuable prizes. They're well down the home stretch and the tape is to be broken at nine o'clock tomorrow morning. How do they stand? Let's see, the glasses show

Ah, Russell Wilson still holds the lead, he made a tremendous spurt overnight, totaling 351 votes. But there are two newcomers pressing him hard in the rear. Thomas Danaher, darkest of the dark horses, is in second place with 151 ballots, Raymond Moszer is at his saddle with 149. Wow! But they're coming fast!

Otto Cook is fourth with 144 votes, Anthony Diana, fifth with 140. On easy sixth is Raymond Simler with 132 votes. Not far behind is Clarence Foley with 128 and trailing him is Edward Hansen with 112. All of these entries are pretty well bunched, a few votes on either one will see a big spurt at the finish. Raymond Della Fera holds ninth place on 110 ballots and fighting for tenth position are Josep. Eccellenti and Ralph Johnson with 108 apiece.

Just entering the final curve come another bunch of entries, who may be holding back for a "rain" finish. John Mather has 94 votes, Danny Shea, 93 votes, Francis Peckingham, 83, William Waldron, 67, Ed Senkbell, 64, and Joseph Carabino, 62. And what a crowd that aren't even in sight as yet.

The time of closing the ballot box has been changed, to nine o'clock instead of ten, to allow time to count all the last minute votes. Let's go everybody. Bring in that coupon now!

The public is cordially invited to attend this majority degree and the dancing which will follow. There will also be refreshments served during the dance.

GERMANY'S SOCIALISTS RAP SCHACHT'S STAND

Berlin, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The actions and attitude of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, continued today to be a topic for mixed comment by politicians and press alike.

At yesterday's meeting of the Socialist Party, attended by Chancellor Mueller and other prominent Socialists, Dr. Schacht's attitude was roundly condemned and those present demanded an alteration in the Reichsbank law so as to re-establish sovereignty of the Reich.

Vorwaerts went so far as to say Dr. Schacht must go and that a guarantee must be found which will render impossible repetition of the "Schacht affair."

Germany warned against dragging the position of the president of the Reichsbank into politics as being dangerous for Germany's currency.

COMMITTEES AT WORK FOR JUNIOR PROMENADE

With Saturday evening, February 8, definitely selected as the date for the annual Junior Promenade, leading social event of the school year at Manchester High school the various committees are busy with preparations. The members of the various committees are as follows: Decorating Committee: Gertrude Gerard, chairman; Lucy Waddell, Virginia Lowell, Susan Allen, Marion McLoughlin, Edward Werner.
Refreshments: Richard McCormick, chairman; Francis McVeigh, Doris Nelson, Lucille Murphey.
Program and Invitations: Charlotte Rubinow, chairman; Alwine Winkler, Merion Ferris, Marion Jones.
Music: Raymond Dotchin, chairman; Stewart Hyde.

OLD FASHIONED DANCE POPULAR AT CITY VIEW

Judging from the crowds that attend the dancing at City View Dance Hall at Keeney street, there can be no doubt of the growing popularity of the old fashioned dance.

People come from many of the surrounding towns as well as those of this town who enjoy the mixed program of every other dance modern and old fashioned.

The management has secured the services of Wehr's orchestra for every Saturday night thus assuring their patrons of first class music, and has also two well known prompters for the old time numbers. Harold Gates of Cromwell alternates every other Saturday night with G. A. Chappell of Manchester in this position.

The fact that these men are busy prompting elsewhere, several nights each week also goes to show that the dancing public agree with Henry Ford that the old fashioned dance is too good to pass up.

MORE DUM "CATCHES"

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Members of the Rye Beach Coast Guard station observed the 10th anniversary of prohibition by going fishing for liquor off Rye ledge. They met with success and today the "catch" three cases of fancy foreign liquors, wa- locked in the Customs House here. The submarine cache of rum runners at Rye beach has thus far yielded 594 cases of expensive foreign liquors, thousands of dollars of which has been poured back to the fishes via the city sewer system.

Doctors are trying to isolate the germ of parrot fever. We can give them the names of several women who have had operations.

INJURED IN WRECK

Taunton, Mass., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Gad Robertson, former member of the Municipal Council, was in Morton hospital today with a fractured arm and severe bruises received when his automobile overturned on the Hockamock swamp road in Easton last night.

We ate 180,500 tons of spinach during the last year, according to statistics. We hope that ends that.

MAN DROPS DEAD AT SIGHT OF COP

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—At the sight of a policeman, called by his estranged wife when a crowd collected during his plea for a reconciliation in East 78th street today, Henry J. Fieger, 46, turned pale, gasped and fell dead.

Fieger and his wife, Valerie, 36, had been separated for three years. He followed her when she left her home in West 57 street.

When they reached 78th street he spoke to her, and continued talking until a crowd had gathered. Mrs. Fieger called for a policeman.

Patrolman Patrick Walsh hurried through the crowd and confronted Fieger, who turned pale, gasped and fell. An ambulance surgeon pronounced him dead, apparently of heart disease.

POLICE COURT

The row that took place at Benjamin Baranowsky's home in the "Beehive" at the north end yesterday, when he drove his wife and daughter from the house, resulted in his arrest on the charge of intoxication and assault.

When Baranowsky faced Judge Raymond A. Johnson in the police court he pleaded guilty. His daughter was the state's principal witness but she evidently did not care to testify against her father.

There was no evidence of assault and Judge Johnson found Baranowsky not guilty on that charge, and suspended judgment on the intoxication charge. The judge warned Alice Baranowsky, the daughter, if she got into trouble at the home again she might expect very little assistance from the police.

Dean D. Hamilton of Hartford paid a fine of $2 and costs for failure to sign his automobile driver's license. He was arrested by Patrolman W. R. Martin in front of the Odd Fellows building at the Center Block.

The car had been stopped for some time and the policeman became suspicious and was giving it the once over when Hamilton appeared. He took offense at the officer's interference and apparently showed it in the language he used.

Hamilton discovered that the man's license was not signed and asked him the reason for it. As a result Hamilton was taken to the police station. This morning in court he admitted it was an oversight on his part and a fine of $2 and costs was imposed.

BIG TRAFFIC JAM

Chelsea, Mass., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A Boston bound car on the lines of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company jumped the tracks in Broadway near the Naval Hospital this morning and its 100 passengers seemed doomed to a long wait in temperature only 8 degrees above zero.

Until Sergeant Walter A. Barden and a squad of patrolmen arrived to straighten out the ensuing traffic tangle.

All automobiles headed for Boston were commandeered in the street car passengers crowded in and the drivers enjoined to convey their unexpected guests at least as far as the Boston elevated line.

Street car traffic was not resumed in either direction for more than an hour.

SAINT-SAENS WORKS

TO FEATURE MUSICAL

Unusual Concert at South Methodist Church Next Sunday Evening.

The musical to be given at the South Methodist Church, on Sunday evening next is given over entirely to compositions of the eminent French composer, Saint-Saens, the almsomly awarded first prize for his work "Les Noces de Promethee". Many opera have come from his gifted talent, among them being, the well known one "Samson and Delilah, which was written in 1877, and also the ever popular opera "Henry the Eighth," which was first given in the Paris Opera House, in 1883.

Honors were conferred upon him by many countries, and in 1893, Cambridge University, England, conferred on him its highest tribute when he was given by it, the degree, of Doctor of Music.

So much for the composer of the several works to be given at this musical, and it is certain that those who attend will not be disappointed in the brevity of the program, have a musical treat submitted at that time.

TWO FIREMEN HURT Fall River, Mass., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Hoseman John Moran sustained serious internal injuries when he fell from the roof of a three story wooden apartment house during a fire at Rock and Bank streets this morning.

At the same fire, Lieutenant Richard Brightman was struck by a falling hose line which broke one of his legs.

Firemen carried five women from the building. Two men escaped unassisted. The blaze, of undetermined origin, apparently started in the basement. The damage, while considerable, has not been estimated.

A Chicago man refused to speak at a banquet because he had nothing to wear. Some day somebody is going to refuse to speak because he has nothing to say—and the millennium will have arrived.

STAMFORD EXPLOSION

Stamford, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The explosion of an oil tank at the Luders Marine Corporation shipyard on the waterfront here, this morning, caused a fire which did damage of $110,000.

James Eaton of 80 Grayrock Place, a ship painter, was painfully burned about the head and chest and is in serious condition at the Stamford hospital.

Eaton was standing near the tank when it exploded while James Lyons of South Beach was engaged in welding the tank. Lyons was rendered unconscious for a moment but recovered and was not burned.

The fire spread to a storehouse where six small boats were laid up. All were destroyed and three small boats outside the structure were also burned. A general alarm brought out all apparatus in Stamford.

Somebody told your old man today that the opera he attended last night was sung in English. Some people know just everything.

ERRORGRAMS

EIGHT, NINE, TEN, ELEVEN—

THAT WAS A GOOD ONE RIGHT ON THE BUTTON; I'LL BET IT BROKE HIS NOSE!

RETIPOUC It ought to be hung!

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS

(1) The referee, in counting the man out, should stop at ten. (2) A fourth man should not be in the ring while the count is still going on. (3) One of the ropes is missing from the right, forward side of the ring. (4) The "button" is commonly known as the chin and a blow in that spot would not break the nose. (5) The scrambled word is Plowin.
