

OFFICIALS PREPARE FOR COMMUNIST DAY

Reds Say There Will Be Demonstrations by the Unemployed All Over the Civilized World.

By Associated Press

Announcement of a proposed world-wide demonstration tomorrow in connection with an "international unemployment day" has brought expressions of warning against undue disturbances from authorities in many cities.

Premier Tardieu, acting as minister of the interior, has instructed the Paris prefect of police that all demonstrations must be strictly prohibited. At the same time a Communist meeting scheduled for tomorrow in Prague, Czechoslovakia, has been forbidden and two Communist papers in the provinces there have been suspended.

In Germany German police will be kept on alert duty in all the larger cities of Prussia to prevent any serious results growing out of expected Communist demonstrations. In Berlin all outdoor meetings have been forbidden and authorities there and elsewhere contemplated no difficulty in maintaining control of any situation which may arise.

Duesseldorf dispatches said that at a meeting of Communists there the call had gone out some time ago for a demonstration by the jobless in every country.

In Estonia Dispatches from Riga reported special precautions in Estonia against Communist disturbances. Mayor Walker in New York City issued a warning that demonstrations should be held only "in the proper places" and said that all riotous demonstrations would be suppressed at once.

William Z. Foster, a leader of the Communist Party of America, denied assertions that the demonstrations were supported by Soviet money as a means of spreading Soviet propaganda in the United States.

TARDIEU PRESENTS PLANS TO CHAMBER

Addresses Parliament on Policies; Tax Reduction One of His Suggestions.

Paris, March 5.—(AP)—Andre Tardieu, presenting his ministerial declaration to Parliament this afternoon, reaffirmed France's naval policy at London and repeated his former plans for an enlarged version of his new Cabinet hangs—and with it full resumption of the naval conference at London—the recent address he made in London on the subject of tax reductions. However his program essentially was the same as that offered by his first ministry, which was defeated two weeks ago.

Although the same, it was understood it might be given some flexibility to relieve the tension at the London conference.

Principal issues were described in the declaration as the naval negotiations, execution of the Young plan, adoption of social insurance "on which all parties are agreed," ratification of various international conventions and World Court matters, adoption of further political amnesty laws and above all the speedy passage of the long delayed budget.

"Prosperity" is the major concern, says the declaration, and France must "at a moment when a world crisis in over-production as shown by the fall of prices of raw materials, brings inevitable pressure upon French economies" stimulate by all suitable means the nation's industry.

Tax Reduction To do this, the Tardieu declaration proposes as before a big plan of "national equipment" the heavy reduction of taxes that hinder trade and the revamping of antiquated financial methods.

By national equipment is meant road building, harbor improvements, modernization of agriculture and the extension of telephone, radio and other means of communication to make it easier to do business.

The suggested creation of a ministry of health was described as part of a plan to fight tuberculosis and to install respect for sanitation in French rural districts.

The premier told Parliament that his financial plan was based "on a firm policy of a balanced budget and a policy of amortization which in four years saved France." He congratulated the country on the splendid condition of the treasury, the resources of which might help equip the nation to achieve greater pro-

30 TO 100 DIE IN FRANCE AS FLOODS RAGE

Loss Estimated at 40 Millions; Whole Villages Submerged; One Report Says 100 Drowned.

Toulouse, France, March 5.—(AP)—Property damage in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000 francs (about $40,000,000) and heavy loss of life with estimates running from 30 to more than 100 dead constitute the toll so far known of the sudden floods that for three days ravaged central and southern France.

There are still no exact details of the catastrophe, at Moissac, where a dike collapsed and flooded the city. An early estimate of 100 lives lost there has not been confirmed.

Villages Destroyed. Reports indicate that the rivers Tarn and Corzeze are returning within their banks, leaving hundreds of houses wrecked and in some cases entire villages destroyed.

The Garonne, the Orbiel, and other lesser streams are rising, causing new damage to property and danger to life.

From Carcassonne came a report that the villages of Lastours, Citou, Lesplassiere and Cabrespine were ravaged and a number of persons drowned.

In one town a cemetery was washed away, the coffins joining other debris in the flood.

SEARCHING FOR BODIES. Montauban, France, March 5.—(AP)—The waters of the river Tarn slowly receded today, permitting hundreds of refugees to return to their homes and seek the bodies of those who were unable to escape the rush of the floods.

The number of dead is still undetermined and as crumbling walls have made the search extremely difficult, it is proceeding slowly.

There are many stories of heroism. Adolphe Pout, a business man, is said to have saved more than 100 lives before he himself was swept to death.

RAILROAD RATES EXCESSIVE—FORD

Says He Can Send Autos Cheaper by Truck to Florida Than by Rail.

(Copyright, 1930 By Associated Press) Fort Myers, Fla., March 5.—(AP) If Congress wishes to do constructive work let its members set about adjusting railroad rates and leave the prohibition law alone—that is the conviction of Henry Ford.

Mr. Ford's impression and the suggestion are founded on many months study of the rate situation.

"Rates are too high everywhere" he said. "Railroad officials cover so often appear with a plea that they are entitled to raise returns on their investment. I believe that the present rate structure gives the carriers a handsome, but nonetheless unjust and exorbitant profit."

"Convoys of trucks everywhere are beating down the railroads, because of cheaper carrying rates."

Trucks Much Cheaper Mr. Ford commented on the fact that automobiles manufactured by his company are being delivered in Florida and in Michigan by truck because he said, of a saving in comparison with railroad rates.

The automobile builder was emphatic in expressing his belief that structure of the present prohibition law is satisfactory.

"So is the enforcement of the law" came as an afterthought. "We've had no trouble from drunkenness in our plant at Dearborn and we're right on the border" he pointed out.

The seller and the buyer of illicit liquor should be punished, Mr. Ford believes, inasmuch as he sees one as guilty of violation of the law as the other.

TREASURY BALANCE Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for March 3 were $8,410,483.31; expenditures, $18,270,224.37; balance, $45,091,353.75.

HUB HAS WATER ENOUGH STATE EXPERTS ASSERT

Declare Waters of Merrimac River Could Be Used Instead of Ware and Swift Rivers.

Hartford, March 5.—(AP)—The storage and filtering of the waters of Merrimac River for use of the metropolitan district of Boston, thus providing an inexhaustible supply of water for domestic purposes, is the suggestion of Connecticut, offered today in the water diversion case of the state against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, now being heard by Special Master Charles W. Bunn of St. Paul, Minn., appointed for the purpose by the United States Supreme Court.

Has Enough Water Today Connecticut commenced the presentation of evidence today to show that Massachusetts has available in the eastern portion of the state, plenty of water for domestic use which could be utilized by the Boston metropolitan district, at an expenditure far less than will be made for the proposed Swift-Ware Rivers diversion project.

The state has seven witnesses to present evidence in the case, all experts, and it is the expectation this phase of the testimony, so far as Connecticut is concerned, will be completed this week and the master will adjourn the hearing to Boston where Massachusetts is expected to offer its evidence next week and complete the hearing of the case.

Proposed Plan Thus far, all the studies which have been made of the Merrimac river have been along the lines of

THIRD HEAD KEEPER OF AUBURN KILLED

Trial of Killers of Second Keeper Adjourned; Keeper Is Stabbed.

Auburn, N. Y., March 5.—(AP)—Edward L. Beckwith, Auburn prison principal keeper, today was stabbed to death by an unidentified inmate and became the third in succession in that office to lose his life at the hands of convicts.

At the height of the trial of Max Becker, gunman and gangster of Brooklyn, and a convict charged with the murder of the man Beckwith succeeded—George Durnford, Supreme Court Justice Benjamin B. Cunningham immediately recessed court.

Other Murders. Durnford was killed in the second prison riot at Auburn within five months in 1929, that of December 11. About two years ago James E. Durran, whose place Durnford took, was cut down by a stabber.

Full details of Beckwith's death were difficult to obtain from the prison. All phones were reported busy. Police, informed by newspaper sources of the bare details, immediately sent an investigator to the penal institution.

The stabber, whose name was not ascertained immediately, was seized. Beckwith, first information said, was walking up and down the tables during the dinner hour when the attack was made.

Justice Levy's decision, it was pointed out, would aid Halsey Stuart & Co. in promoting its refinancing plan in opposition to that put forward by the Western Electric Co.

HOOVER DENIES PLAN TO PROBE UNEMPLOYMENT

All Government Agencies Working to Better Conditions—Davis Estimates Three Million Idle.

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—The White House today denied reports that President Hoover is considering calling an unemployment conference.

The President let it be known that he has given no thought to the calling of such a conference. It was said at the White House that every agency of the government had been working to the best of its ability to speed up construction of employment and would continue to do its utmost.

It was said further that the statement of Secretary Davis of the Labor Department, published this morning, represented the White House viewpoint.

Davis' Statement The full text of Secretary Davis' statement, referred to today by the White House, follows:

Secretary of Labor Davis when interviewed by the press today as to what he thought of the speech in the Senate yesterday of United States Senator Wagner said: "Senator Wagner makes a great show of indignation that the administration has not been able to overcome the whole of the terrific dislocation of business and consequent unemployment to result from the stock crash in New York, the Senator's home city. I admit that there is distressing unemployment, but for the first time in the history of these events by its actions and policies the administration has been unable to less than one-half that of previous crashes, and by the stabilization of wages and co-operation of the business world, work is being provided in a way that should relieve most of it within the very near future. While employment for the week of Feb-

HINTS OF BRIBERY IN HARTFORD PROBE

Aliano's Statement Mentioned Police Officials; More Sensations Promised.

Hartford, March 5.—(AP)—The grand jury, which yesterday charged members of the Hartford police department with perjury and deliberate interference with its investigation of liquor conditions in Hartford county has not yet disclosed more sensational developments arising out of the probe, it was learned today.

This new information is said to be based almost entirely on statements of Sebastiano Aliano, held for the murder in December of Alfonso Menniti, a "fall guy" in one of Aliano's speakeasies and involves, according to the police, allegations against at least one superior officer in the department. The report in the department linked the officer or officers with alleged bribery and, perhaps, a more serious complaint.

Bootleggers Named. The mention of 343 Main street in the grand jury's report submitted to Judge Newell Jennings in Superior Court yesterday afternoon following two months of investigation, led to the names of two alleged bootleggers in a raid on that address.

William Brewer is now being held as the keeper of the alleged "liquor joint."

It was learned also that George Wright named in a warrant as keeper of the premises at the time of the raid on Dec. 17, disappeared and is now being sought by the police. Wright and Brewer, police allege at one time jointly conducted "the club rooms" at 343 Main street referred to the grand jury's report as the place where police officers frequented and were given free liquor.

First Official Recognition of the existence of the anti-prohibition group by the W. C. T. U. comes from Mrs. Sabin. She said she intended to send to Mrs. Robinson and every other member of the organization whose name comes to her attention an official W. C. T. "We have been following the activities of Mrs. Sabin and her organization for some time" Mrs. Welles said. "Of course it will be some time before Mrs. Robinson's group can enroll as many members as we have."

Mrs. Welles believes the new organization may serve the W. C. T. U. not only in stimulating renewed activity by those devoted to the cause of prohibition, but also in increasing the membership of the dry forces.

AMERICA'S PROSPERITY IS DUE TO PROHIBITION

Fifteen Girls Injured By Fall into Cellar

New York, March 5.—(AP)—Fifteen girls between the ages of 11 and 16 were injured, seven of them seriously when a trapdoor over an ash hoist in the playgrounds of Holy Cross Parochial school, in Brooklyn collapsed today, dropping them into the basement.

Seven of the 15 girls who fell the twenty-five feet into the basement were taken to Kings county hospital in ambulances suffering from broken bones and severe cuts.

The children had just been released from school for a play hour and were frolicking in the sun of the playground when the trap-door of glass and reinforced steel gave way dropping them screaming into the basement.

Teachers and passing citizens said in carrying the children from the basement to the first floor where an emergency hospital was set up. The condition of several of the girls was so serious that the two ambulances which answered the first alarm were overloaded because of the necessity of quickly getting the girls to a hospital.

One girl, whose name was not learned, was bleeding profusely from a gash in the abdomen. Several were unconscious when loaded in the ambulances.

Word of the accident quickly spread through the neighborhood and police reserves were necessary to handle the crowd of excited mothers which quickly gathered.

The Holy Cross school is located at Church avenue and Veronica place, Brooklyn.

W. C. T. U. TO FIGHT WET ORGANIZATION

Prohibition Will Divide Women of State Into Two Hostile Camps.

Hartford, March 5.—(AP)—Prohibition will divide women of Connecticut into two active hostile camps this month. Their support will be sought in two membership campaigns to be conducted simultaneously.

The sudden appearance of the Connecticut branch of the women's national organization for prohibition modification in this territory as part of the nation-wide movement headed by Mrs. Charles Sabin of New York got the significance of the regular annual membership campaign the Connecticut branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will open this month.

Mrs. Mary E. Welles, president of the state W. C. T. U., though at present unperturbed by the new opponent that has thrust itself into the liquor controversy is not ignoring the influence the new organization may bring to bear on the women of Connecticut.

The first official recognition of the existence of the anti-prohibition group by the W. C. T. U. comes from Mrs. Sabin. Magazine Writer Quotes Ford and Edison as Favoring Dry Law—Dry's Side of Question Heard in Congress—Laborite Accuses Wets of Trying to Bluff American People.

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Prohibition was cited today as one of the factors adding materially to American prosperity and home comfort by friends of the Eighteenth Amendment who rallied before the House judiciary committee in defense of the dry laws which have undergone a seven day onslaught by the anti-prohibition group.

Hardly had the session started before Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison were recorded as ardent supporters of the Eighteenth Amendment. Their views were set forth in telegrams read by Samuel Crowther, of Bayside, Long Island, a magazine writer who recently conducted a survey of conditions under prohibition for the Ladies Home Journal. He said the messages were sent him after the two men had said they would be unable to appear.

Economic Benefits. Crowther said the economic benefits of prohibition were testified to by increased bank accounts, more life insurance policies, better home conditions and a decided falling off in the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Another witness, Edward Keating, editor of the magazine Labor, and a former member of the House from Colorado, also endorsed the dry laws. He accused the wets of trying "to bluff" the American people with threats of civil war if they were not repealed; said the people would not be scared with a "cappistol" and challenged the wets to put candidates in the field and find out just how much of a following they had.

He added that the anti-prohibitionists could not muster over a hundred of the 435 votes in the House and would be "lucky" to get 20 of the 96 votes in the Senate.

Keating asserted that he was in agreement with the recommendation of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for 2.75 per cent beer.

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Big, busy, inebriated America, allied with happy homes where many of the luxuries of life are enjoyed, was the picture painted today before the House judiciary committee as friends of prohibition began their reply to the seven day attack by anti-prohibition group upon the eighteenth amendment.

The dries, at the outset, backed up their contention that the liquor laws had proved of untold benefit to the nation by having read into the committee record telegrams from Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison endorsing prohibition.

The messages were presented by Samuel Crowther, of Bayside, Long Island, an economist and magazine writer, the first to testify of the many waiting to be heard in support of the dry statute.

The Detroit manufacturer wired he felt "sure that the same people of the nation" would never see the Eighteenth Amendment repealed or "any dangerous modification" effected.

Edison's Reply. "I still feel," Edison's telegram said, "that prohibition is the greatest experiment yet made to benefit man."

Crowther, under questioning by Chairman Graham, said he had asked that Ford and Edison appear before the committee but they were unable to do so. Their telegrams, he said, were in reply to his letters and had been received this morning.

Before the witness began his testimony the room was well filled. In a few minutes it was packed. Many women sat on the floor. Some unable to force their way into the chamber caught glimpses of what was going on by peering through the doorway over the heads of the crowd.

Neutral Probe. Crowther said he was not connected with any organization either in favor of or opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment but had obtained data on conditions under prohibition for the specific purpose of a series of articles for the Ladies Home Journal. He summarized this survey as disclosing a material improvement especially among the working men.

Savings account depositors, he said, had increased materially. The same was true, he added, with life insurance policy holders.

Ed. J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel Corporation, as asserting the economic benefits of prohibition were evidenced in the home life of the thousands of mill workers, especially citing conditions at the big mills at Gary, Indiana.

Ten labor supervisors of the General Electric Company, he went on, had reported that men were spending less for liquor in the coal fields

INCOME TAX RULING

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—The Internal Revenue Bureau ruled today that the gasoline tax imposed by the State of Alabama will be deductible for Federal income tax purposes by the distributor, retail dealer, or storer who pays it, but not by the consumer.

The bureau held, however, that if the tax is added to, or made a part of the business expense of such distributor, retail dealer, or storer, it cannot be deducted by him separately as a tax.

Only in Alabama The opinion was rendered after a study of the gasoline tax of Alabama, and it appears from the foregoing that the purpose of the act approved February 10, 1923, as amended, is to impose the gasoline tax of the state of Alabama upon the distributor, retail dealer, or storer. The act approved January 4, 1927, imposing an additional tax of 2 cents per gallon, is similar and the same purpose is manifest. There is nothing in the statutes either by provision for a refund or otherwise, to indicate an intention or purpose to impose the tax upon the consumer of gasoline.

The bureau said the ruling applied only to Alabama.

February 17th as compared with February 10th, showed a drop of three-tenths of one percent, the situation today is greatly improved over the low point of last December.

Three Million Idle "It is a fair estimate to make that the new census will show something like 46,000,000 individuals earning a living in the country, and certainly 43,000,000 of them are at work."

The construction program worked out by President Hoover exceeds 1929 and is having its effect. The secretary of commerce has announced a seven billion dollar program for the government and other civic agencies.

"Senator Wagner's own proposals are for more Federal employment agencies and more statistics, and as I see it, hoped for cures of the result of future crashes. I am in accord with them. However, none of these things create jobs right now. For what they are worth, the present administration recommended necessary expansion in employment agencies and statistics through the Department of Labor budget, not yet passed by the Senate. But of far more importance, as I see it, is the urgent necessity for the public buildings bill which passed the House, the appropriations for public works in the deficiency bill now awaiting Senate action."

Pass Tariff Act. But above all, the workers of the country need the passage of the tariff act to remove uncertainty and allow the workers to make in our own factories the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of goods now coming in by import. In fact, the delays in tariff legislation are more responsible today for creating unemployment than any other factor.

Push the building program, pass the tariff bill, and our workers will find employment.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND IN BUSINESS SESSION

The Manchester High School band held a meeting yesterday afternoon, the first in several weeks, strictly a business meeting, not a practice session.

A new plan of forfeiting dues for being late or absent was adopted. The plan was taken from that of the very successful high school band of Pawtucket, R. I. The practice sessions were arranged for Wednesday evenings at 7:00 o'clock and Friday afternoons at 2:35 o'clock.

Carle Cubberty will resume his duties as treasurer while Reggie West and Maurice McKeever will hold the positions of president and secretary, respectively.

At the meeting yesterday 27 members were present and it is believed that the band will have a prosperous season under the splendid direction of Harold Turkington.

RATES OF POWER CO. EXCESSIVE—LEVITT

Redding Professor Tells New Britain Kiwanians They Should Protest.

New Britain, March 5.—(AP)—Professor Albert Levitt of Redding who has asked the courts for a writ of mandamus to have the Public Utilities Commissioners show cause why the attorney general should not sue them for alleged material neglect of duty in not removing grade crossings as required by law, as a guest of New Britain Kiwanis this noon, discussed rates and service given in the city by the Connecticut Light & Power Co.

His recommendation was that the people of the city demand a hearing by the commission "in the matter of compelling the company to take off its books inflated capitalization and give an honest statement of its capital invested and reduce rates."

Previous Speech Prof. Levitt referred to his recent speech at Fairfield based on a statement of J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the Republican State committee to the effect that in the political administration by his party "political opponents have been placed in office when it had been demonstrated that they are the best men for the position and their services are indispensable to the state." Professor Levitt said that "everybody knows that during the Roraback regime our General Assembly consists for political purposes of just two committees, the first to decide what laws shall be passed, and the second, how and for what the state's money shall be spent." He said at the last session a Democrat was not appointed to either of these committees.

Prof. Levitt asked: "How does one demonstrate that he is the best man for the position and is a Democrat indispensable?" He said the answer came when it was noted that Richard T. Higgins, a Democrat, was retained in office as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, the speaker saying that Mr. Higgins had been kept in office "because he had demonstrated that he is the best man for the position and his services are indispensable to the state."

New Britain Rates Prof. Levitt said that "one of the results of having such an 'indispensable' as Mr. Higgins, was that New Britain had to pay more for electric light and power." He advanced his opinion that the rates charged here by the Connecticut Light & Power Company are illegal because based on an illegal rate structure.

He reviewed at length the organization, corporate history and capital structure of the Connecticut Light & Power Co., and claimed that Mr. Higgins, as chairman of the commission, had allowed and is allowing the company to charge "rates based upon fictitious valuations and false accounts" which have resulted in alleged "unreasonable rates" for service. He claimed that a Federal investigator had reported over two millions of dollars of fictitious capital on the company's books and that Mr. Higgins has had the report in his files for a year and a half.

Prof. Levitt offered to assist New Britain in any action it might desire to take in advising recourse to the Public Utilities Commission for a hearing on the matter of rates and service.

ward by a syndicate including the Bancamerica-Blair Corp., Dillon Read & Co., and Lehman Bros., with the approval of Mr. Fox.

Federal Judge Coleman, who has heard the receivership proceedings, has ruled that only the Bancamerica plan may be voted upon by the stockholders meeting today, so that Justice Levy's decision, in effect, permitted the Halsey Stuart interests to vote against that plan, but not for their own plan at this time.

Mr. Stuart and Mr. Otterson claimed the right to vote the Class B stock, the majority of which is owned by Mr. Fox, as a majority of the three trustees. Mr. Fox, however, had tried to abrogate the trusteeship, and the two factions accused each other of breaking faith.

filtration such as is done by the city of Lawrence, Mass., and which has apparently given satisfaction. Connecticut would propose to go even further in the purification of the water for Boston's domestic water supply, suggesting that a reservoir be built for storage where the water could be retained for sixty or ninety days, a period considered longer than is general considered necessary for safety. It is then suggested that the water be filtered and conveyed in an aqueduct to a pond which has a storage capacity of thirteen billion gallons, and held there for final conveyance to Boston. Thus the waters of the Merrimac would be within 25 miles of Boston, and it is proposed to show the cost of such a project, including the reservoir, aqueduct, and filtration plant, would be but slightly more than the $15,000,000 planned for the building of the Ware river project alone and at a saving of nearly $50,000,000 on the proposed Swift-Ware diversion scheme.

In addition to the enormous saving in money Connecticut contends that the supply of water afforded perity but must not be dissipated. He advocated "massive tax reductions" and it was understood he will propose that a few important taxes burdensome to industry will be reduced rather than a general slight scaling of all.

Will Increase Business He gave as a principle that "reduction of excessive taxes always causes a compensating increase of taxable matter" meaning that tax relief will increase business and so a lower tax would yield an equal or greater amount for the government.

Farm Relief was dwelt on as a pressing need and measures were outlined "to increase the yield of cultivated ground, to give French farmers priority on the nation's consumption, to achieve more accurate quotations on farm products, to seek foreign outlets and to develop farm co-operatives and the farm organizations."

"Agricultural prosperity," said the premier, "is in fact a requisite of the moral and material health of the nation and other French activities should in their own interest work to increase it."

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT TURKEY SUPPER

St. Mary's Girls Friendly society catered to more than 250 at their annual turkey supper last evening. This was made possible by untiring work on the part of every member, and the splendid co-operation of the girls received from the Ladies Guild of the church.

Long tables filled every available space in the basement, and a touch of approaching spring was given with the yellow and green streamers and paper flowers. Associate Helen Crawford, chairman of the supper committee, served everybody with a plate well filled with turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and turnips. On the table was a supply of celery, cranberry sauce, relishes, rolls and butter. The dessert was home made pies and coffee.

When those who dined at the second tables had finished their meal, an entertainment was given in the parish hall, consisting of a play, several vocal solos by John Chambers, accompanied on the piano by Miss Violet Madden. Mr. Chambers' numbers included "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "The Bells of St. Mary" and one or two encores. The play was presented under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Davis and was entitled "Who Kissed Barbara?" Miss Helen Crawford was Barbara. Other parts were taken by George Potterton, Jr., Harold Harrison and Charles Morgan, who it developed toward the end of the farce, did the kissing. The sketch was lively and entertaining and the stage settings attractive, furniture, lamps and other decorative items being loaned by Keith's.

Reviews of Books
at the
South Manchester
Library

Much discussed books in the South Manchester Library for issue now follow:

"Young Man of Manhattan" by Katharine Brush. To a great majority of local readers Miss Brush is represented by her scintillating novel "Glitter" and her excellent short story "Night Club." Her new novel amply fulfills the promise of her former work. The story of this novel is based on the marriage of two young newspaper reporters in New York; one a sports writer, the other a movie critic. It is a sprightly tale told with the author's characteristic sympathy with the glamor and pathos of youth. Journalistic life in New York forms a background which, besides—or perhaps because of—being authentic, since Miss Brush worked for two years on a city newspaper, is rich and racy, and full of the ever changing kaleidoscope of news paper life. The book gives the reader glimpses of a sport writer's contact with college football, baseball, winter camps, fighters, etc. The movie-critic is also shown in her work of interviewing the stars and criticizing the movies.

"Coronet" by Manuel Komroff. This novel has been receiving enthusiastic notices from the foremost book-reviewers. It is by a Russian; it is not however, translated from the Russian, but written in its original English. It is a stirring historical romance, written in masterful style. The locale of the story extends from the Florentine in the days of its greatness, through the Napoleonic era, and ends in modern Russia. Many of the most brilliant men in history such as Cellini, Chopin, Baisac, are written about in a manner which is remarkably vivid and realistic. This novel is mainly concerned with the narrative of a story, but has no complexity or profundity of character or philosophy. It moves straight to its finish with an ever increasing momentum; its even pace accentuated by shrewd and able delineation of character.

This novel provides a stirring and absorbing reading matter with a wide appeal; one is held with ever increasing interest to the end.

"The Story of San Michele" by Axel Munthe. An unusual and intriguing compilation of autobiography, adventure, philosophy, and satire. The fund of knowledge culled from daily and wide contact with people which a doctor of general practice acquires would supply material enough for a host of novels. But when a doctor does not limit his activities to one locality nor to one continent even, there are endless opportunities for an existence of unceasing interest. And when, as in Dr. Munthe's book, the doctor comes as his hunting-ground the leading capitals of Europe, the days should be an endless round of delight and intense interest. This is exactly what Dr. Munthe's life is as he writes about it in his story.

Scene of action includes Paris, Lapland, Switzerland, Italy—but always with Paris with the focusing point. Occasionally he whets his readers' attention by stinging little comments on the varying existing customs of the different countries in which he works. Again he gives intensely dramatic accounts of some of the great events of the past fifty years in Europe. But always he is interesting and as usual fully repays a consideration of his offering.

"Mrs. Eddy" by Edwin F. Dakin. This is the long-awaited biography which is causing so much discussion in literary circles. We are inclined to regret the rather questionable interest, and would prefer that the work had been given the opportunity to achieve its success on its real merits. In addition to its masterly writing and undoubted sincerity it has been so skillfully written as to form very pleasant and engrossing reading. Mrs. Eddy's personality is so unusual and impressive as to supply an almost limitless source of new and intriguing material. Mr. Gilbert Seldes in the New York Herald-Tribune gives it very excellent and well deserved praise when he says, "The subject is irresistible and the decency of the authors attitude, his fine judgment, his poise, his common sense make his work entirely praiseworthy."

Other books of interest are: "Carl Akeley's Africa" by Mrs. M. L. (J.) Akeley. A book by the wife of Carl Akeley, explorer, scientist and artist, who created the exhibits in African hall in the American museum of natural history. "Exile" by Warwick Deering. As the title indicates the scene of the author's latest success shifts from England to Italy. "New Worlds to Conquer" by Richard Halliburton. A record of travel through Panama and South America in which the author gallily

"Feeding the Family" by Mrs. M. D. (S.) This famous book on diet and health of the family is now presented in a new edition for the housewife.

"Great Meadow" by E. M. Roberts. A story which illuminates the dim backgrounds of our American history and sings of those pioneers, men and women, who fought through to the making of a nation.

"Tiger! Tiger!" by Honore. The fascinating sketches of New York of the last century, the beautiful and moving love story of John Gough and Mary Whitcomb, the intimate pictures of the celebrities of the day, all fill a rich background for an absorbing biographical story.

"The Universe Around Us" by Sir J. H. Jeans. One of the most fascinating books of recent years. The universe from stars to atoms in space and time.

NEW CHAPLIN FILMS

Hollywood, Cal., March 5.—(AP)—Tentative plans for the formation of a new film company to bear his name for the production of silent motion pictures were announced today by Charles Chaplin, screen comedian and producer. The company, Chaplin said, would spend between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 annually on production programs. It will be known as the Charles Chaplin Picture Productions, Inc.

Chaplin said the company would star, in addition to himself, four or five of the foremost players in the industry. He declined to disclose the identity of any of the players he has under consideration.

"COMMUNISM DYING." New York, March 5.—(AP)—The New York Times today quotes Raphael Abramovitch, prominent Russian solicitor as calling tomorrow's international unemployment demonstration "the last gasp of international Communism."

Mr. Abramovitch who is a member of the Socialist and Labor International, is now in this city on a visit. He declared international Communism, while one time a menace and a potential power, today was "but a miserable tool of Moscow" dancing to the tune of those who hold the purse strings.

SLOVENIAN REVOLT. Comeno, Gorizia, Italy, March 5.—(AP)—Allegedly Slovene agitators attempted today to set fire to two elementary schools near here. Four suspects were arrested.

The agitators also threw bombs into the school rooms, destroying books and writing materials, before they escaped in an automobile.

The attempts were believed to be the outgrowth of a campaign by the proscribed Slovene newspaper "Borba" and to have been aimed at resisting the Italianization process and at boycotting the Fascist juvenile organizations.

Anti-Fascist Leaders In France Decry Violence

Nice, France.—(AP)—It is reported here that several of the leading anti-Fascist organizations on the Riviera are preparing to announce their dissolution because leading members do not wish to be associated with the violent methods advocated by extremists here and in Paris.

"This wholesale bombing business—though I happen to know that it has been greatly exaggerated—is not in line with what some of us are planning," said one member. "Too zealous partisans have caused our hostess, France, a great deal of trouble."

In Fascist quarters the announcement is looked upon suspiciously. French police have been over-exerting themselves with investigation of Italian dissensions on the Riviera and the announcement is thought to hide something deeper.

DAM IS DEDICATED

Coolidge Dam, Ariz., March 5.—(AP)—Coolidge Dam, towering tri-lobed barrier of steel and concrete which holds back the turbulent waters of the Gila River today stands dedicated as a monument to Uncle Sam's faith in the most pastoral of southwestern Indian tribes—the Arizona Pimas.

The huge structure dedicated yesterday by Calvin Coolidge, former president of the U. S. in whose honor it was named, will provide water first for 40,000 acres of land in the Pima Indian Reservation and then water for an additional 40,000 acres in the Florence-Casa Grande Valleys of the lower Gila. The dam proper stands at the head of Biscayan Canyon, in the Apache Reservation, and will form a lake, when filled, which will bury the Apache trading post of Sancarlos beneath 125 feet of water.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

Samuel Darcy, Communist organizer of the demonstration, said an attendance of 60,000 persons was expected with forty speakers and three thousand "ushers" to preserve order.

MENTAL HYGIENE

TALK TOMORROW

State Officials to Address Local Group at Watkins Auditorium at 4 p. m.

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, president of the Board of Health, will preside at the meeting to be held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Watkins Brothers auditorium, at which the guest speaker will be Dr. James L. McCartney, chief of the Division of Mental Hygiene of the State Department of Health.

As previously announced, Dr. McCartney and Miss Betsey Mitchell, psychiatric social worker from the Memorial hospital annex on Thursday up to that time, to examine cases referred to them by Manchester physicians and nurses. The number of cases of mental illness on which their opinion and advice is sought will require them to return on Friday to study patients and make further necessary examinations. This free service which the state has undertaken in Manchester and the larger towns is for the adjacent general district. There is an inadequate supply of psychiatrists to handle routine cases and the state is attempting to supply this need in so far as there is time and personnel free for the work.

The meeting at Watkins Brothers should interest not only the physicians, school and hospital nurses and social workers, but teachers and all good citizens. Cheney Brothers medical department will be represented as will several of the larger local industries, child welfare, social service and other committees and town officials. At this mass meeting Dr. McCartney will be ready to answer questions and an open discussion is invited, with the object of outlining a future mental hygiene program for Manchester.

In an interview Dr. McCartney stated that the last monthly report showed that there were 6,217 people under treatment in the mental hospitals of Connecticut, and besides these 137 epileptics and 684 feeble-minded. These figures do not take into account the many individuals who need institutional care and treatment but at present cannot be provided for. Dr. McCartney believes that at least 40 per cent of these cases could be prevented from having their mental abnormalities if mental hygiene had been applied before it was too late. The science of mental hygiene, when put into practice helps the individual to adjust to his social life and prevents the tragedies mentioned above. It is a science which has to do with disciplining and strengthening the mind to the greater happiness and efficiency of the individual.

Dr. McCartney and Miss Mitchell will have a supply of pamphlets for distribution at Thursday's meeting which physicians and others faced with personality problems will find helpful, and in conjunction with his lecture will help to focus interest in this topic which is absorbing so much attention throughout Connecticut and the United States.

TO OBSERVE FRIDAY AS WORLD PRAYER DAY

A day of prayer for missions, which is held yearly on the first Friday of Lent, will be observed at the South Methodist church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It will be a union service of the local Protestant churches. An invitation has also been extended to the churches in East Hartford, Burnside, Rockville and East Glastonbury. Mrs. Lydia Gilmore will be in charge of the program, the general theme of which will be "That Jesus May Be Lifted Up." Miss Olive Nyman will sing and Mrs. Bertelina Lashinske will accompany her.

The guest speaker will be Miss Faye H. Robinson, one of the younger missionaries, on furlough this year from China. The meeting Friday afternoon is under the auspices of the missionary societies of the South Methodist church. A social period will follow under the direction of Mrs. J. Howard Keith and Mrs. Paul Perkins.

CRISIS IS AVERTED

Berlin, March 5.—(AP)—The Cabinet crisis which has been threatening in Germany for a week was averted today when members of the Cabinet agreed to accept Finance Minister Moldenhauer's compromise.

The trouble arose when the Centerists insisted on simultaneous passage of the Young plan and the program of internal financial reform. Moldenhauer sought a compromise when he was informed by leading industrialists and bankers yesterday that action on the Young plan must come first.

Chicago Envisions Finished Canal To Link City's Industry With Gulf

An appropriation of $7,500,000 would pave way for completion of canal linking Chicago with Mississippi and sea trade. The city's new "seaport terminal" is shown above. A lock on the Illinois river (lower right) is part of the $30,000,000 canal construction program. Map (lower left) shows projected waterway to Gulf of Mexico.

Chicago — (AP) — Chicago, in brand new seaport plants, has visions of going down to the sea in ships. The city's outlet to sea trade hinges on a little more than a year's construction work and a few million dollars. This would finish the canal making the Illinois river navigable from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi.

Chicago hopes the federal government will provide the $7,500,000 required to put finishing touches on the almost-completed canal. Sentiment and the cash register join hands over the project.

On sentiment's side is the tradition of 300 years ago when Marquette and Joliet paddled canoes near the present site of Chicago, and perhaps dreamed of a day when the Great Lakes would be joined to the Gulf of Mexico.

The cash register figures in the plan, too. Millions of dollars are expected to be added to Chicago's industrial wealth by water transportation facilities that would comprise the Great Lakes, the Illinois, Mis-issippi and Ohio, as well as contact with the sea. Already the state of Illinois has spent $20,000,000 on the canal and locks necessary to lift shipping over the natural topographical divide.

Completion of the canal in the immediate future hangs on an appropriation of $7,500,000 from congress in this session, and supreme court ruling on the amount of water that may be diverted into the canal from Lake Michigan. Extra water is needed to enable barges to ply through the new waterway.

will be very good and music for dancing will be furnished by Ernie Rock and his orchestra. The proceeds will be for the benefit of St. Bernard's church.

PAPER TO SURVEY STUDENT DRINKING

New Haven, March 5.—(AP)—That the Yale Daily News is planning to compile figures showing the present extent of drinking in the college world with special emphasis on Yale, was indicated in an editorial in the paper today.

Commending the Harvard Crimson upon its move to interest American colleges in prohibition repeal, the editorial said, little can be accomplished by such a movement.

A clear presentation of the real facts of college drinking it was contended would be of much greater value.

Not a College Issue.—"Strictly speaking prohibition is not a college issue," the editorial said. "When the Harvard Crimson asks 'what can college men do about prohibition?' the obvious answer is 'very little.'"

The News is primarily interested in getting at the facts of prohibition as they obtain in the university. Even if two thousand students were on record as being opposed to the amendment or if a series of debates drew nationwide attention, what would be accomplished? On the other hand it is our conviction that fact and figures showing the present extent of drinking in colleges would be a valuable contribution to the issue.

THE BAKING POWDER HAS INTERESTING STORY

Calumet Baking Powder is the world's outstanding brand—"sales two and one-half times those of any other"—but it is much more than that. It is the most fascinating mystery since Sherlock Holmes in the days of his prime.

Here, for example, is a product that lives and breathes. Once every twenty-four hours the can of baking powder in the warehouse or on the grocery counter takes a deep breath, and once every twenty-four hours it exhales.

Besides resembling an animal in this characteristic, it is very much like a stick of dynamite in another; namely, its potentially high-explosive character. In a single week enough Calumet is manufactured to blow the five-story plant to brick-dust, if all the imprisoned energy were released at once.

Factory Fascination.—If these facts were not fascination and mystery enough, it would only be necessary to visit the fine factory at 4100 Filmore street, Chicago, Ill., where all these wonders are housed.

There are no towers and minarets on the building. It was not built for beauty. Yet it is beautiful in its own way, as the Greeks called anything beautiful that was perfectly adapted to the task for which it was made.

CANDY FOR PUPILS.—Washington, March 5.—(AP)—A gift of twelve pounds of marshmallows is on its way to the pupils of President Hoover's little school at Dark Hollow, Virginia, the absence of postal facilities in that mountainous region notwithstanding.

This treat for the mountain boys and girls who only recently spent their first day in school was sent direct to the postoffice department at Washington because the sender at Council Bluffs, Iowa, wrote, Dark Hollow was not in the postal guide.

HILLSTOWN

Fred Hudson who has been in Washington, D. C., spent the week end with his brother-in-law, Ward Brewer who is a student at the University of Virginia.

There will be a whist held in Grange Hall on March 6 for the benefit of the Grange. All are invited to come.

Hillstown Road has been in very bad condition. It has been partly improved. There is very heavy traffic on that road and should be well taken care of.

ENGAGEMENT CANCELLED.—Bucharest, Rumania, March 5.—(AP)—The government today sent M. Grigoresca, a minister in the Cabinet, to Berlin and Pless, to notify the father of Count Alexander von Hochberg of the cancellation of his son's engagement to Princess Ileana.

After official information is received of publication of the cancellation in Pless, Premier Juiiu Maniu will issue an official communique informing the nation of the incident.

ANOTHER STRIKE IN SOUTHERN MILL

Elizabethton, Tenn., March 5.—(AP)—The maintenance of order along roads entering Elizabethton held the attention of authorities after a highway clash between strikers and sheriff's deputies enforcing an injunction restraining officials and members of the United Textile Workers from interfering with employees of the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff plants.

An announcement by union officials said the labor leaders regarded the highways leading into nearby hill communities as "open territory" for picketing, due to a clause in the court order forbidding congregating on any road "used for the purpose of transporting employees to their work by Carter or any other company."

Sheriff J. E. Moreland said warrants would be issued for five or six persons who aided in releasing two pickets arrested for disorderly conduct during an attempt by officers to disperse crowds near the textile plants at the time of the arrival of a new shift.

Granting of the injunction by the Carter county Chancery Court Monday night did not become known until the order, which is returnable March 17, was served on the crowds gathered on the highway.

Use Tear Gas

Tear gas was used in dispersing a part of the crowds and Deputy Sheriff Bill Fair arrested two persons on charges of creating disturbance.

Sheriff Moreland said the crowd followed the deputy and his prisoners to a magistrate's office where demands were made that the two be released "or fight." The prisoners were freed, but the sheriff said he would arrest five or six of the crowd for interfering with an officer. No action had been taken last midnight.

The injunction enjoins the Unionists from trespassing on mill property, and also from interfering with taxi drivers engaged in transporting employees.

Paul Fuller, southern educational director of the American Federation of Labor, said the walkout called for Monday had been 65 per cent effective, but plant officials said they "know nothing of a strike."

STOPS IMMIGRATION

Manila, March 5.—(AP)—Influenced by the recent anti-Filipino disturbances in California, director of the Bureau of Labor Hermenegildo Cruz today suspended the 1930 labor recruiting license of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association.

Many Filipinos have taken advantage of the free transportation to Hawaii furnished by the sugar planters and have emigrated later to the United States.

The action has the effect of almost stopping Filipino immigration to Hawaii, but it will merely reduce and not entirely halt immigration to the United States, since many Filipinos are going to the states direct on their own resources.

BARBERO DIES

New Britain, March 5.—(AP)—Pasquale Barbero, 35, who had been under police suspicion of having participated in the burning of a building owned by Mrs. Anna Torello on State street, New Haven, two weeks ago today, died this morning at New Britain General hospital.

Barbero was seen to run from the building after an explosion with his clothes burned off. He engaged a taxicab to bring him to the hospital, refusing to allow the driver to take him to a New Haven hospital.

Vincenzo Lupino, 29, also of this city was burned to death in the building.

Mrs. Torello is under arrest in New Haven in connection with the fire and two men who are said to be in New Jersey are being hunted by the police as it is alleged that they assisted in setting the fire. The police say the object of the firebugs was to help Mrs. Torello collect insurance.

Thirty per cent of the inmates of the United States' institutions for the deaf are said to be children who have acquired deafness which might have been prevented if taken care of in time.

DATE OF MOTHERS CLUB CONCERT SET MARCH 18

Pratt and Whitney Choral Club Under Local Man's Direction To Appear Here.

The date of the concert introducing the Pratt and Whitney choral club to a Manchester audience under the auspices of the Mothers' Club has been changed to Tuesday March 18. Ticket sales have begun and judging by the initial response a good house is assured.

liquors. The states are supposed to act concurrently with Congress in enforcement legislation. They have, however, all sorts of laws with all sorts of penalties, the latter in no wise, except a few instances, agreeing with the federal penalties. They can and do proceed just as they please in the matter of "concurrent enforcement"—inflicting penalties not even faintly resembling the federal penalties in severity or character—and it is quite all right. Every state is a law unto itself, under the Eighteenth amendment—except in the one item of defining the meaning of the word "intoxicating."

We respectfully suggest to our friends who resolutely oppose any change in the present arrangement that almost the only specification of the federal laws that are held so sacrosanct which actually operates, save in the pitifully restricted field of direct federal prosecution, is the clause establishing the one-half of one per cent alcoholic content.

As for the rest, we are still operating almost entirely under state laws—and wet states are beginning to repeal these. Isn't it about time to wonder whether there isn't something, after all, to compromise?

NOT FOR "ALL TIME"
 With all due respect for Governor Trumbull and with much sympathy with his energetic frame of mind as it directs itself to the problem of the State School for Boys at Meriden, we do not quite believe that he will be able, as he promises, to "settle conditions at the school for all time."

It is one of the extreme difficulties of government that we cannot settle anything for all time. It is also one of the commonest errors of peoples that when they have solved a current problem to their satisfaction they are inclined to dismiss it from their minds as being permanently disposed of—only to have it bob up again, long afterward, demanding solution anew.

Constant vigilance is the price of intelligent, honorable administration of the state's institutions. Full and illuminative accounting and open operation before the eyes of the public are essential to such administration. Left to themselves institutional commissions are almost inevitably bound to become bureaucratic, hidebound. We make absolutely no charge against the management of the Meriden institution in particular; the criticism, if it be a criticism, applying to any board or commission which is left in practically unrestricted control of a public institution over a long period of years and which is likely to come to feel in a possessive instead of a stewardly mood toward the establishment.

Sheer snooping and fishing expeditions by legislative committees among the state's institutions always have their unattractive aspects. Yet sometimes we wonder if it would not make for better things if a large group representing both branches of the Legislature were appointed at each session to visit and inquire, as the direct delegates of the people of Connecticut, into the operation of the various institutions.

It would seem, at all events, that in some way there should be a better contact than exists at present between the people and their institutional boards.

SMUG EARS OPEN
 We are often interested in the utterances of the Middletown Press because if there is a newspaper in Connecticut which runs consistently and inevitably to type it is that one. It never fails in stand-pat conservatism, in conventionalized respectability. Unescapably it is bone dry.

It is therefore of especial interest that the Middletown Press, which has never before been known to admit that there was even the faintest glimmering of a possible second side to the liquor question beside that of the Anti-Saloon League and Bishop Cannon, is inclined to be quite respectful to President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who the other day hit prohibition a sock between the eyes at the Washington hearings.

Many, many other people have said, for years, substantially the same things that Mr. Atterbury said—but could the Middletown Press hear them? Not at all. It could, however, hear Mr. Atterbury. It heard him with a degree of deference that would be amazing, in the light of what he said, if it were not for Mr. Atterbury being who he is.

And that, if you please, is why the Press' attitude is interesting. All the Tories, the stand-patters, the reactionaries, the smug "respectables" who have been deaf and blind to every protest against prohibition and every manifestation of its impossibility, so long as the "big men" of the country kept silence, are sitting up suddenly at the sound of the Atterbury voice.

When it has soaked into their consciousness that the corporation directors now aligned with the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment represent forty-five billions of corporate holdings we expect to see them suddenly realize that somebody besides muckers and "the liquor interests"—somebody worth listening to—is on the wet side.

STILL GOING UP
 And still the casualties due to automobile traffic go up! Figures compiled by the Travelers Insurance Company from 37 states show that approximately 31,000 people were killed by automobiles last year—an increase of more than 11 per cent over the figures for 1928.

"On the basis of last year's total number of motor vehicle deaths," says a bulletin issued by the company, "at least two persons out of each 10,000 of the country's population were killed in such mishaps. Two hundred persons out of each 10,000, or a ratio of one out of each 50 persons, were injured, 60 of the 200 being hurt seriously."

These figures speak for themselves. If they fail to stir the country to concerted action it can only be because we are shock-proof.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 5.—If they could but bring the old Mack Sennett lot back, it would be a fitting shrine for the late Mabel Normand. But in this day and age, you could no more resurrect that mad, fantastic old movie studio than you could bring the poor, ill-starred Mabel back from the grave.

In a way, both studio and comedienne died from a common ailment—an incapacity to change character. Way back, before the war, when pictures were in their pioneer days and slapsticks were staple; long before any of the highbrow young men had written erudite pieces about the subtle art of comedy and all that sort of thing, the Sennett lot was dedicated to laughs which issued from the belt line.

I can remember times when the mere business of looking on at Turpin doing a face fall, or watching Della Fasha grow villainous, or observing some fair maiden being chased around the lot, was too much even for the cameraman or the director. A great deal of the healthy Rabelaisian comedy so affected the director that he doubled up in glee and dropped his megaphone. I've watched cameramen, rocking with laughter until they couldn't crank their cameras. And when you've doubled up the hardboiled employees of a movie lot, what will your audience do?

Mabel had come in from New York, via Boston. She was a lovely child, and quite a child when you check 12 to 15 years off her age. She suffered from two tremendous commercial handicaps—she was generous beyond belief and she had a tremendous love of life. She suffered from the former; she died from the latter.

At any rate, when she hit Hollywood, via the old Biograph studios, she was advertised as Charles Dana Gibson's "favorite model." It is true she had posed for Gibson, and while a model she had become acquainted with Alice Joyce, also a model at the time. The two were close friends. Alice left the movie game and returned only recently.

Mabel, a convent-bred daughter of Boston let life get in her eyes and blind her.

All Hollywood knew of her extravagant generosity. There never was a lonesome girl from out-of-town; there never was a person down on her or his luck that she didn't help. Her purse strings always loosened with extraordinary elasticity. No one will ever know the number of aspiring youngsters she befriended. No one will ever know the number of girls she helped to get jobs.

And what a comedienne! Perhaps I suffer from nostalgia, but I still believe there was no funnier comic in the silent films than Mabel in her heyday. There was something terribly funny about watching a beautiful girl being thronged by a cross-eyed pursuer.

The funny part of it was, she wanted to do serious things. Richard Wallace, the director who supervised many of her efforts, was talking with me about this last summer. He had a tough time keeping her in her place. Well, the Sennett comedies wanted to be more serious, too—and the studio wound up in a real estate tract, and Mabel wound up a tubercular.

THE MAYOR'S VACATION.
 (Bridgeport Post.)
 "Being mayor today isn't what it was twenty years ago."

This somewhat pathetic remark, made by Edward T. Buckingham to one of his friends, indicates a lot more than appears on the surface. Very few individuals have such a public record as our own mayor, who "came back" in defiance of the adage, and thus has enjoyed a chance to contrast conditions at the first hand. When E. T. Buckingham says that being mayor today is not what it was twenty years ago we believe him.

That is why the mayor is going to California for a rest. He needs it. In a comparatively few weeks of office holding the job seekers have done more to worry Mayor Buckingham than they did in the entire two years of his previous administration.

There are more jobs today, they pay more, there are more people out of work, and the Democrats have been out of power for a longer period of time which makes them hungrier. All of these things have combined to make the mayor's job a hectic one.

So bon voyage to Mayor Buckingham, and may he have a little peace and quiet while he is away. But it will be a wonder if there aren't three or four job-seekers riding the rods under his pullman car, and the chances are that when he gets up in the morning to shave he will find three or four more stranded in line outside of his washroom.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCLOY

THE FINGERNAILS

The fingernail at present is not as useful to us as it probably was in the early days of our evolution when it could be used as a claw as well as for grasping objects. Its present use is to decorate the fingertips, and be used to grasp small objects.

The clear rosy nail with a good color and free from white spots, ridges, and discolorations is a fine advertisement of good health. The nails are, however, readily injured by accident or disease so that they lose their natural luster, color and shape, and when the tissue about the nail becomes inflamed, the annoyance is often severe and lasting.

The nail is a special adaptation of the skin, resembling in composition horns, talons, beaks, quills and hoofs. While the nail grows right out of the skin structure, it is much tougher and semi-transparent, being composed principally of a tough substance called keratin. Keratin is composed of about 50 per cent carbon with the addition of oxygen, nitrogen and sulphur.

The skin at the root of the nail is called the matrix or nail bed, and it is from this that the nail is formed so that new nail material is constantly being formed and pushed out toward the end of the finger. As this process continues, the nail becomes longer, and we usually cut the end of the nail off to prevent inconvenience, although the nail is capable of attaining a great length, as is shown in some of the paintings of the Chinese upper class whose nails often attain the length of six to eighteen inches. This was to advertise the fact that they did not have to do any work for themselves. In this country, however, where work and industry are not considered dishonorable, it is an advantage to have short nails.

The rate of growth of the nails varies with individuals. The average time required for a full nail growth is about four or five months. The fingernails grow about four times as fast as the toenails, or about one-third of an inch per week.

The most frequent nail disorder is probably caused by eczema, which spreads from the adjacent tissues and attacks the nail root so that the nail becomes swollen and painful throbbing around the nail. In chronic eczema the nail may record the illness by developing furrows across itself. If eczema is severe, sometimes the entire nail is lost, and other times there is a thickening of the nail (both in eczema and psoriasis) and the nail may turn to a yellow brown color and thicken and curve over the end of the finger like a claw.

The nail is commonly seen on the nail are considered to be the result of knocking or bumping the root of the nail against some object. They may also occur from injury during manicuring where the cuticle is pushed down into the nail, or occur in nervous disorders and in cases where the diet is deficient in some of the mineral elements.

Hangnails is an annoying trouble, but not very serious. This occurs when a sliver of the nail next to the skin breaks away and sticks into anything that the finger touches. Hangnails may usually be removed by being clipped off with scissors or being jerked out in the direction of the fingertip.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Anemia)

Question:—E. E. writes: "Please suggest a diet on which to reduce weight at the same time cure anemia and nerves."

Answer: It may seem a curious fact that one who has anemia is usually inclined to be overweight, at least to have an excess of poor tissue and a deficiency of good muscular, bony and nerve tissue. Fasting on fruit juice will bring about a remarkable improvement in all of these cases, and the blood will be immediately improved. It is never wise to stuff afterwards on large amounts of even good foods, but a diet should be arranged with small quantities of all of the non-starchy vegetables combined with good proteins, such as eggs, lean meat, fish, chicken, etc.

(Sanitary Clothing)

Question:—A. A. R. asks: "Which is the most sanitary underwear—cotton, wool, linen, pure silk or rayon silk? Also, does the color of the clothing have any effect on the wearer? Is black, blue, yellow or white clothing best for the health of the wearer?"

Answer: Any of these materials are perfectly sanitary if they are kept clean. The rayon silk permits more sunlight to reach the skin, providing no other clothing is worn. Clothing made from any of these materials may be used if worn at the right time; for instance, it is unwise to wear wool in the summer-time, as cotton, linen and silk are more suitable. However, these same materials may be used in the winter-time if one's circulation is good. The skin should be kept warm enough at all times so that one is thoroughly comfortable, and still it is well to allow a free circulation of air to the skin. As to the colors, in the summer it is more comfortable to use the light colored clothing, but it is only through a mental or psychic effect that the color would have any influence, outside of the fact that darker clothing holds the heat longer and sometimes is undesirable to wear in warm weather.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 5.—It is a rather difficult thing to imagine justices of the supreme court actually angry and excited about anything.

It is only a little less hard to conceive of any of them being highly elated, after watching them in all their austere dignity on the bench.

Yet both these almost unthinkable things have come to pass, one is informed on the most reliable authority, since the Senate so furiously debated the fitness of Mr. Hughes to become chief justice.

It appears that among the conservative majority on the court there were those who fumed, frothed and fretted at the senatorial attacks on their economic prejudices, judicial ethics and alleged usurpations. On the other hand, it is said that the more liberal minority of the court—Holmes, Brandeis and Stone—beamed pleasantly whenever the matter was mentioned and gave indication of being quite tickled.

All of which leaks out through the medium of close personal friends. Supreme court justices have them, as do ordinary mortals.

Another story illustrating the humanness of Mr. Hughes, despite all contentions that he hasn't any, is told by one of his old classmates. It dates back to the early eighties, when Hughes was taking degrees at Brown University in Providence, R. I.

Hughes had studied German until he could talk it like a native of Berlin and he recited Goethe and Schiller by the yard. This accomplishment of the young student was keenly appreciated by a select group which used to gather in an old German beer saloon in Providence and whenever the future chief justice was willing to appear and recite he was given all the beer he wanted.

One night Hughes returned from the saloon to his room on the campus and learned that one of his professors, a man aged and distinguished, had died. It was late, but Hughes turned an empty coat scutlet upside down, sat himself upon it and called for pencil and paper.

stood the gaff from the terrible gob for nearly three rounds.

Fourthly, because he was paid for his demonstration of the condition of boxing in 1930.

Fifthly, because however obvious his boxing demise may have seemed five years ago to most of us, it is impossible to deny that he and his managers may yet once more fool the American public.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

SALES CENSUS BY UNCLE SAM MAY AID TRADE

Washington—(AP)—The government, the butcher, the baker and the silk hose maker are preparing to join hands in an attempt to obtain the most comprehensive answer to the question, "How's business?" It will be the census of merchandise distribution to be taken for the first time this spring. A diagnosis from it is expected to aid the national advisory committee on business in its move to keep the "business pressure" of trade at a healthy level at all times. The census of distribution is entirely distinct from the regular 1929 population count, the census of agriculture and the enumeration of manufacturers. The government hopes thus to obtain a vivid picture of the ways in which American merchandise moves and to find some remedy for "stuck distribution."

17 PLANES BURNED

Atlanta, March 5.—(AP)—Seventeen airplanes lay in a molten mass of twisted metal and torn fabric today after a fire of undetermined origin, which destroyed a hangar at Candler Field, Atlanta's municipal airport, and caused damage estimated by insurers at $140,000. The sheet iron hangar of Beecher Eble, pioneer southern aviator, demolished by flames last night, contained among others four ships of the newly organized Dixie Airlines, operators of Atlanta and Birmingham, which were valued at $35,000. Three planes owned by Eble, himself, a new $20,000 cabin plane recently purchased by Asa Candler, Atlanta capitalist, and a $13,000 cabin monoplane of the Detroit Aircraft Corporation also were housed in the building. Eble said he carried no insurance on the building nor on his own three planes. He was unable to say whether insurance covered the loss of other plane owners.

Reds Ex-Envoy Attacks 'Communism Brutality'

Pictured here are the Soviet Embassy in Paris and, lower right, Gregoire Bessedowsky, who fled the threatened attack of Russian secret police who sought to return him, dead or alive, to Moscow.

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris—French approval of its diplomatic recognition of the Russian Soviet has been shaken by an incident, humorous but significant, which occurred recently at the Soviet embassy here. French police now are scrutinizing Communist activities, and investigating charges that the Cheka, dreaded Soviet secret police, maintains a big force in France to keep their comrades politically pure.

The family quarrel broke dramatically when Gregoire Bessedowsky, First Counsellor temporarily in charge of the Soviet embassy, received an unexpected visitor from home, one Rosenmann, alleged to be a representative of the Cheka.

There was a long and stormy interview between Rosenmann and Bessedowsky, following which the latter tried to leave the embassy but was prevented at the door, he said, by two Russian guards armed with revolvers. He returned to his apartment, but at the first opportunity made a dash out of the back door, vaulted two walls, broke a window in a neighborhood house to gain admittance and finally made his way to the nearest police station. There he waived all diplomatic rights, asked for protection and appealed to the police to rescue his wife and 10-year-old son from the embassy.

Charged With Heresy Bessedowsky now has told his side of the thrilling story. "Rosenmann ordered me under arrest in my quarters to await transportation to Moscow," he explained. "I was accused of heretical beliefs and was told I would have to account for my sentiments at home. I knew what that meant—a court martial before which I would not have the right to say a word and then a firing party."

SCHOOL STRIKE SPREADS

Manila, March 5.—(AP)—Manila's school strike spread today when several hundred more students joined the 10,000 already out. Many non-striking students, fearing violence, remained away from classes. More than a score of non-striking students were attacked during the day. Many of those who attended classes in spite of the strike armed themselves with knives, clubs and whips. The police confiscated most of the weapons to prevent possible bloodshed.

The position of both the strikers and the school authorities remained unchanged. Governor General Dwight F. Davis summoned Alejandro Albert, acting secretary of public instruction, and Luther E. Bewley, director of education to the executive offices this morning but the result of their conference were not announced.

Removal of Albert, Bewley and the principal of Manila North high school constitute the principal demands of the strikers, although the original purpose of their walkout was to force the reinstatement of four students who had been expelled from a previous strike as a demonstration against Miss Mabel Brummitt, American teacher.

OPEN FORUM

MRS. HARDY'S REBUTTAL

Editor, The Herald: Please do pardon me for coming back, but I stand on the age-old privilege of woman, that of the last word.

I think it is most decent and sporting of you to print bone-dry letters in your very moist paper, so you will perhaps grant space to my—shall we say rebuttal? Although it is more an explanation. I can not have made my meaning clear, for I never in the least intended to draw a parallel between murder and "taking a glass of wine." Really, is that as far as they go? Almost negligible one would say.

Oh, no my dear sir, even my logic is not so false as that. What I did mean to stress is that the three catch phrases, "It cannot be enforced," "It costs too much to enforce," "It destroys personal liberty," can be cravenly asserted of any law designed to curb human passion or human greed.

Law is not the highest form of government, of the individual, but we self control of the individual, but we are ready for that, as the millennium is yet several years (light years) away. So it behooves us to uphold, foster and cherish laws, the only sure means of personal liberty. A paradox? Yes, there are many such.

As to drinking being a sin, it may or may not be according to circumstances; but I call drunkenness a crime, not a sin, and the Mediterranean fruit fly, and by the way, that last is an indomitable foe and will be well-nigh impossible and very costly to eradicate. Shall we give up the fight?

Then about narcotics—Even my logic can see no atom of difference between narcotic peddling and bootlegging either from a moral, economic, or legislative standpoint. Is it another case of tweedledum and tweedledee, or isn't it?

To my mind the greatest danger to America is that most of us, its citizens, like to follow the line of least resistance, choose the easiest way. I dare to assert that "a noble experiment," whether of Abraham Lincoln or Herbert Hoover, whether it be to abolish the chain of slavery, the shame of drunkenness, or the agony of war is worth all its costs of time, money, deprivation and sacrifice. To this end we pray.

God guide and save America. I thank you Mr. Editor for your valuable space, your tolerance and your courtesy. I shall not trouble you again. KATHERINE DeF. HARDY 86 School Street.

SUPREME COURT

FACES 53 CASES IN NEW SESSION

Washington—(AP)—Issues of far-reaching scope will be decided by the supreme court when it resumes sessions February 24 under the leadership of Charles Evans Hughes.

In recess since January 27, during which Mr. Hughes succeeded William Howard Taft as chief justice, the court has 53 cases under consideration and is expected to dispose of several.

An attack on the Hoch-Smith amendment, which authorizes the interstate commerce commission to regulate railroad rates to aid agriculture in distress, and an effort by the government to retain jurisdiction over the air, are among the more important controversies.

The court must decide, too, whether Representative Wurzbach, republican, Texas, shall be permitted to retain his seat or go to prison on a charge of accepting contributions from federal office holders, during his primary campaign.

The government has insisted that the federal corrupt practices act prohibits congressmen from accepting contributions from federal office holders for "any political purposes," including primaries.

More than 400 railroads have attacked the Hoch-Smith amendment. The issue arose in California when that state's railroad commission ordered rates on deciduous fruit shipped out of that state to be reduced. The commission insisted that congress had no authority to impair their earnings and set aside rates, which had been found to be reasonable. They asserted as a fact that the fruit industry in California was not in distress.

Control of the air to enable the federal radio commission to regulate hours when radio stations may broadcast is involved in a case brought by the General Electric company to prevent WGY from being compelled to share time with other stations to prevent interference.

SEES PHYSICIAN

New Haven, March 5.—(AP)—Russell H. Bartholomew today filed suit for $25,000 against Dr. William J. Butler, alleging that the physician failed to X-ray his injured wrist and find it had been broken. As a result, he charges, the wrist is misshapen.

ATTACK POWER BOARD

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—Criticizing President Hoover's connection as secretary of commerce with the world power conference, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, today again attacked the Federal Power Commission in the Senate.

Wheeler quoted testimony before a Senate committee which said the President while secretary of commerce was honorary chairman of the world power conference, financed "almost entirely by power interests."

The conference was organized, Wheeler asserted, by O. C. Merrill, former executive of the power commission. Four Cabinet members are honorary members of the conference now. Wheeler declared, naming Secretary Lamont, Hurley, Hyde and Wilbur.

Italian engineers have recently recovered from the bed of Lake Nemi, near Rome, the famous barges of Calligula, lost to the world for 19 centuries. Drainage of the lake brought these galleys into view for the first time since Roman antiquity.

TWO FINE FEATURES ON STATE PROGRAM

"Burning Up" and "Evangeline" Shown Today and Tomorrow at the Local Movie House.

Two excellent features head the program at the State today and Thursday. Richard Arlen and Mary Brian will be seen in the thrilling auto race track story, "Burning Up," and Dolores Del Rio will be seen in a picturization of Henry W. Longfellow's immortal classic, "Evangeline."

"Burning Up" in many ways makes one think of the famous auto stories that the late Wallace Reid made so famous. Richard Arlen is the same type of hero and this latter day picture has the advantage of being a talking picture. Arlen is his own likeable self in this picture. Those who have become acquainted with him in his recent hits, "The Virginian," "The Man I Love" and "Wings," will know what to expect. He is one of the most clean cut young actors on the screen today, a hero worthy of imitation in every part he plays. Mary Brian is the same demure, lovable little miss audiences have always found her and she comes through splendidly in "Burning Up."

"Evangeline" is based on one of the greatest heart dramas in American history yet it has a romantic theme which by virtue of its beauty and devotion has become one of the classics of literature. The screen version of Longfellow's famous verse is by no means an ordinary entertainment. Rich in color, tense, dramatic and replete with thrilling episodes "Evangeline" vibrates with compelling interest and is a masterpiece in every sense of the word. Miss Del Rio, who plays the title role, has never been seen in a picture that gave so much opportunity to demonstrate his histrionic ability, and the little star rises to the occasion.

In order that the school children may have an opportunity of seeing this classic, the management has arranged the program so that "Evangeline" will not go on the screen until 3:45 on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

FINDS HEALTHFUL USES FOR SALT

The value of table salt for bathing purposes is becoming widely known, and today, because of its curative qualities, and its antiseptic effect, table salt is more and more a part of the bath in thousands of homes.

In Country Clubs and Athletic Clubs table salt is regularly used for bathing purposes. Athletes, before and after contest take salt baths under a shower. They wet the body and rub the salt vigorously over the skin.

The ancients knew the value of such baths, and the housewife of today should take advantage of the knowledge. It soothes the fatigued muscles that have been straining at a tension all day in the home. Every housewife knows that sensation. It renews skin activity, invigorates and refreshes, and best of all it allows the nerves to relax. The housewife steps from her bath feeling many years younger and more peaceful.

Health authorities recommend salt bathing, using a box of salt to a tub of water. It is equally good for children, warding off many of their little ills.

Most everyone has been bathing in the ocean and knows the invigorating effect of salt water. That is the proof of the efficacy of a salt water bath. Then the antiseptic quality is by no means trivial. Such irritating but actual things as skin eruption are discouraged by salt water.

Every bathroom should have a box of salt at all times. You will find many uses for it. Dentists advise brushing the teeth daily with salt. Salt eye washes help to clear away eye infections and strengthen the muscles of the eye. Nothing surpasses salt for a gargle.

King George was on the radio at 6 a. m. the other day, but we know people who wouldn't get up at that hour to hear a choir of all the kings of Europe, led by Mussolini, crooning "You Made Me What I Am Today."

FIND BODY IN CELLAR

Boston, March 5.—(AP)—Police today sought the slayer of Angelo Rizzo, 28, whose body with bullet wounds in the head was found here last night in the cellar of a tenement house. The man had a long police record.

The murder weapon, a .38 calibre revolver from which two shots had been fired, was found hidden beneath a stairway with all marks of identification filed away. Marks of identification had also been removed from the clothing and nothing was found in the pockets.

The body was found by the three small sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russo, who went to the cellar on an errand for their parents, who lived on the third floor. The man had been dead only a short time.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DETECTIVE BONNIE DUNDEE, secretly a member of the Hamilton Homicide Squad, accepts an invitation from a former Yale classmate, DICK BERKELEY, to spend the week-end at Hillcrest, the millionaire Berkeley's estate. It is rumored that CLORINDA BERKELEY is engaged to be married to SEYMOUR CROSBY, New York guest in the Berkeley home. For reasons of his own, Dundee has a strong professional curiosity to see and study Crosby.

On Friday evening Dundee meets MR. and MRS. BERKELEY, the latter an impossibly vulgar and pretentious woman; the beautiful daughter, CLORINDA; 15-year-old GIGI, who annoys her mother with her frankness; her graceful, well-bred Mrs. Letitia Lambert, Mrs. Berkeley's social secretary, formerly a society leader in New York and an old friend of Crosby's.

Before anyone could stop her, Gigi had poured the overpoweringly strong perfume into her cupped palm.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER III
 "Run along, Gigi," Dick Berkeley commanded, slumping to the couch beside Dundee as Wickett was serving coffee in the drawing room. "You've probably handed Dundee as many shocks already that he's as groggy as I am. Go cheer up Mrs. Lambert. She's looking rather low, and no wonder. . . . I don't want to take a edge off this jag by unconsciously acquiring," and he appropriated two of the tiny glasses filled with a golden liqueur. "I'll bet Mr. Dundee would rather I'd do the shocking than you," Gigi retorted, thrusting me. But she obeyed, winging her way across the enormous, too gorgeous, too new room to where the social secretary sat quite alone.

"So do I!" Dundee agreed cheerfully, his eyes taking in with pleasure the picture which the golden-haired child and the beautiful white-haired woman made as they sat together in a distant window seat. "This stuff is awfully good. Got to have something to take the taste out of my mouth." And he plucked, not too steadily, towards the dining room.

himself in his hostess during the lull in the music when Seymour Crosby joined them, apologizing for the interruption with a jerky little continental bow. "I've just remembered that I have a present for you, Mrs. Berkeley, and since I'm rather keen to see how you like it, will you pardon, Mrs. Berkeley watched him leave the room, a pleased simper on her broad, over-rouged face. "Isn't he the most perfect expression of a dandy, almost a feline prowling about the room."

Dundee murmured a polite answer and his hostess' cooing voice gushed on. "I do hope my bad little Gigi hasn't given you a false impression of me, dear Mr. Dundee. The child is incorrigible, and her father aids in her in all her impertinences. But she's a dear little thing at heart—really adores me. Dear Mrs. Berkeley assures me that Gigi will be a great success in her debut in course she will make socially. Mrs. Lambert assures me that Gigi is still not properly impressed with what her dear sister will be able to do for her—Oh, dear man!" she broke off to exclaim with a cry of delight as Seymour Crosby again presented himself before her.

orchestra, miles away, broke into "The Pagan Love Song," and the room was filled with languorous melody, superimposed upon quivering waves of anger, fear and hatred. As the paralysis lifted, Dundee, still dazed, still seeing red, was lunging drunkenly toward the wide-arched doorway that led into the front hall. Gigi, who had been cornered near the doorway, backed blindly a few steps, then turned and ran, her rasping sobs loud above the music.

MODERN CINDERELLAS BORROW SMART CLOTHES

By JULIA BLANSHARD.

New York, March 3.—Cinderella, borrowing a lovely party frock from the fairy godmother for the Prince's ball, might well have been the inspiration for an unusual shop just off Times Square, in the theatrical district of New York.

There, in a narrow, deep room, with racks and racks of clothes flanking both sides and a huge, gilt mirror, with Victorian ornamentation, across the end of it, Madame Ray Naftal has costumed hundreds of little Cinderellas to go meet the respective princes and perhaps win fame and fortune.

Of course, it being a commercial age, the diminutive, white-haired woman has made this fairy-god-mother racket pay. She rents clothes, anything from a little morning frock to the most elaborate of evening costumes, for a single occasion or for a week end.

A Story in Clothes. The clothes themselves have quite as fascinating a story as the girls who rent them. Most of them originally belonged to rich fashionables on Park Avenue. Some of the costumes have gone to Palm Beach and Newport. Many of them are original French creations and still proudly bear Paris labels.

The rest carry the names of excellent American houses. If you have ever thought that wealthy women gave away their clothes after they have worn them a few times, this shop sets you right on that matter. They sell them, especially debutantes who need many changes, Madame Naftal buys them! Girls who yearn for pretty things in the colors and lines they love rent them, or buy them.

"I guess I have dressed girls for everything there is except funerals," Madame Naftal told me, with a certain quaintness that goes with the shop. "I started my business way back in 1892, those days, a lady who rented a gown came in after dark. Today girls make no bones about hiring a pretty little Patou dress for a dance."

Then she recalled a few incidents of the dramatic part some of her clothes have played. "Back in 1905 or 1906 a general lady rode up in a carriage one day, and I was closing. She was invited to Alice Roosevelt's wedding and had no money to buy a new dress. She really needed several. She had sold me clothes before, so she came to buy. As I remember it, we had a lovely gown, a great black velvet with half-inch buttons on it, and a gorgeous black velvet that had just come in a bundle clear from San Francisco. They fitted her perfectly. She wrote me a note afterwards telling me how grateful she was, and later, when her fortunes improved again, she always sent me presents to dispose of."

Then there was the lovely little typist from Wall Street who had met a Yale man on her summer vacation. He wrote and invited her to a prom that fall. She scurried in, rented several frocks and a lovely evening wrap and was the belle of the ball. She afterwards married the man. Once, Mrs. Naftal had a big box of perfectly lovely things sent in for sale. There was an apricot taffeta frock with silver lace, a brown velvet wrap, with a fur collar, slippers, stockings, gloves and everything.

About a month later a strange woman came in, asking to buy back this entire outfit. They had been her engagement announcement party clothes. Two days after the party, she had discovered that her fiancé was engaged also to a girl he had known for years. She had tried to dispose of everything that could remind her of that perfect evening. But, alas, she had run into another girl, dressed in her finery, the evening before and she wanted to buy it all back and burn it so she would never have her heart stop as it did that night. But it was too late. The clothes had been sold.

The clothes have been sold to party clothes racks are practically empty every evening. After the Wall Street crash there were fewer clothes to sell and more requests to buy. The racks in her store are a barometer of the nation's financial situation.

"I am now buying clothes from the children of the women I first solicited for worn costumes," Mrs. Naftal said. "It used to be actresses mostly who rented clothes. Now everybody does, especially stenographers and store clerks and lots of college girls. Sometimes they get clothes for plays. More often for their own parties. And more and more rich folks are selling things. Why, I get bundles from Palm Beach and Newport. And my clients who move away send their clothes in to sell and often write me to send them this or that kind of dress. They in flight will begin here Thursday.

CHARTER ON EXHIBITION. Boston, March 5.—(AP)—The ancient charter of the Massachusetts Bay Colony was placed on exhibition today at the State House. State troopers stood guard over the treasured document as hundreds filed by for a glimpse of what has been called the foundation of free government in America.

Exhibition of the charter was but one of the many ceremonies throughout the state marking the virtual opening of the Massachusetts Bay Colony tercentennial program.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Parents don't stop to think often that behind intelligent child training, they themselves should be healthy, contented and happy. But as a matter of fact, parents who are ill, or over-tired, or unhappy will not be able to enter into the problems of their children certainly with any great degree of interest or pleasure.

It is the duty of mothers and fathers to keep themselves as nearly well as possible. True if it is, of course, that many parents suffer from ailments that cannot be easily cured, but on the other hand many things can be cured, and still more things can be avoided.

A certain mother I know with two small children persists in going to parties or dances almost every night with her husband. She insists that she has to have some fun, and no one will contradict her there. I am sure. All mothers need time off.

An Unhappy Home But by burning the candle at both ends, going hard all day and getting little rest at night, she is so cross and irritable—and often ill—that it is one of the most unhappy households in town. Her husband, who needs rest as much as she, is worn out. There is instant "battle" the minute he comes home in the evening. The children are miserable from impatient sobs and constant scoldings; her mother who lives with them and bears the burden of it all, is a silent unhappy woman who is blamed for everything that goes wrong in the home. As a matter of fact it is she who holds the home together. The children think much more of their grandmother than they do their mother.

There isn't anything wrong with that house but lack of rest. It is true that all parents need recreation, but they don't need to be the break-in point.

When Children Suffer. It concerns the victim of reactionary nerve strain caused by some constitutional or mechanical ailment, not always serious, by the ailment, and often unsuspected. When certain illnesses have progressed to a definite stage usually it isn't necessary to urge medical treatment on such a one.

But too often in the incipient stages of these things, people will let themselves drag along on weeks and months, tired, irritable, unreasonable, ill-tempered all the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't make them do anything about it.

The children suffer of course, if only from lack of interest and that spontaneous happiness and vitality in their parents that is the very life blood of child training. And so it behooves any parent I think, who is physically not up to par, to try to get as soon as possible to rid himself of the particular miasma that ails him, for the children's sake if not for his or her own.

HEALTH

PROMPT MEDICAL CARE IS VITAL FOR CHILD THAT SUFFERS FROM RHEUMATIC HEART DISEASE.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

One of the most serious diseases that can afflict a child is rheumatic heart disease. The condition strikes in the vast majority of cases in children who are between five and 15 years of age and the damage wrought is crippling in almost every instance, if not promptly fatal.

There seems to be no doubt but that the disease is caused by germs somewhat like the streptococcus which infects the throat and produces tonsillitis. Apparently it is not the germ only which is the deciding factor in the mechanism of infection, but the tissue of the child himself.

It was formerly thought that infection of the tonsils was the primary source of this disease, but in at least one-third of all cases the germ apparently enters even though the tonsils are absent and even though the throat itself may not be inflamed.

In the area around Bristol, England, rheumatic fever with rheumatic heart disease is exceedingly common. Recently Dr. Carey F. Coombs has reviewed our present knowledge of rheumatic heart disease in an attempt to find out why some children develop the disease and others do not.

Although intensive investigations have been proceeding some time, Doctor Coombs states that nothing has as yet been discovered that helps in the treatment of the child who is already rheumatic. Apparently no evidence relating to the vitamins or the glands of internal secretion or the mineral salts in the diet has any definite relationship to the onset of rheumatic heart disease.

The germs that are responsible get into the blood and localize in the heart, where they set up serious infection along the paths of distribution of the blood vessels in the heart. These infections weaken the heart muscle, so that quite soon the heart dilates and is unable to perform its functions.

If the child survives the initial attack and the dilation, its heart is not capable of carrying on full activity and it may be an invalid for years only to die before it has reached maturity. If it survives 10 or 15 years, it may recover sufficiently to carry on a reasonably active existence thereafter.

It is of the greatest importance in saving the lives of children who have become infected and survive the initial attack to establish a routine of life that will save as much wear on the organ as possible.

HEALTH

Of course, of greatest importance is the earliest possible recognition of the disease. Whether or not this can be accomplished by regular physical inspection of all children is not certain, although theoretically such a procedure would be of value.

The earliest signs are usually pains in the joints that resemble what used to be called "growing pains," slight rise in temperature and fatigue. Whenever the tonsils or throat are infected, the heart must be examined repeatedly to find out whether or not it is involved in the infection.

In a certain percentage of cases the heart is involved without any symptoms in such cases seem to be loss of appetite, increasing pallor, loss of weight and a sort of vague general depression of activity, described in the word "seidness."

Such cases should be examined thoroughly with particular reference to the heart and special attention should be given to the symptoms of breathlessness. Children are not inclined to give up easily and it takes a severe degree of cardiac disease to make a child visibly breathless.

WILSON'S PARIS TRIP On March 5, 1919, Woodrow Wilson left New York for a second trip to Paris to help formulate the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations.

On his first trip to Paris on Dec. 4, 1918, President Wilson succeeded in persuading the Peace Conference to accept the principle of a League of Nations as a basis of peace and in drafting a preliminary draft of the covenant.

When he returned to the United States, however, he was confronted with Republican opposition to the League in the Senate. In order to meet Republican suggestions, then president, Wilson called again for France. This time he was able to secure the insertion in the covenant of certain amendments required by American sentiment, and on June 28, 1919, the treaty was signed.

On his return to the United States Wilson started a tour from coast to coast, making speeches for the League and declaring that if America rejected it she would "break the great heart of the world." The president campaigned so strenuously that he broke down on Sept. 26 and was compelled to return to Washington.

HIGHWAY DEPT. ANNOUNCES SIX NEW ROAD JOBS

Projects include 17 Miles of Paving and New Bridge; Foxon and Stevenson Roads To Be Paved.

Paving of seventeen miles of Connecticut highway and the construction of one new bridge over the Naugatuck River at Thomaston were included in highway department projects announced today by Commissioner John A. Macdonald.

With one exception, all of the projects included in this group are comparatively large. The biggest contract of the six will be for the paving with reinforced concrete of the Foxon Road through the towns of East Haven and Branford.

One of the most interesting of the projects from the motorists' point of view will be the construction of the Stevenson-Sandy Hook Road through the towns of Newtown and Monroe. This road, at present, is little more than a narrow, winding, difficult wagon path.

The projects announced by the highway commissioners are as follows: Town of Bristol: About 13,660 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Scott's Swamp Road (Farmington Ave.).

Towns of East Haven and North Branford: About 31,385 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Foxon Road; Town of Griswold: About 1,095 feet of grading and waterbound macadam pavement on the approaches to bridge at Tadpole Crossing on Route No. 12.

Towns of Killingly and Plainfield: About 15,944 feet of reinforced concrete on the Wauregan Section of the Norwich-Putnam Road; Towns of Monroe and Newtown: About 27,895 feet of waterbound macadam on the Stevenson-Sandy Hook Road.

Town of Thomaston: A two span reinforced concrete bridge and approaches over Naugatuck River on East Main street.

CAGEMINT The poles are attractive this way. There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them.

CORRECTIONS 1) A senatorial term is six years and a senator could not be serving his second term when he has been in but five years. (2) Russia, the Union of Socialist Soviet Republic, is not officially recognized by our government and hence has no ambassador in this country. (3) Ambassador is spelled incorrectly. (4) The ribbon should be on the right side of the type of glasses shown in the picture. (5) The scrambled word is Magnetics.

TO TELL GET TOGETHER CLUB MEN ABOUT INDIA

Mechanical Engineer Who Has Traveled Extensively to Be Speaker at Next Meeting.

It isn't often that one hears a trained engineer present the real facts about India, yet the Get-Together Club at Cheney's has secured as the speaker for Tuesday night, March 18th, at Cheney Hall, Roland A. Packard, mechanical engineer, of Lee and Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Packard speaks with authority since he spent several years in India quite recently in connection with an important industrial engineering project. He traveled extensively throughout India and made a study of the engineering, historical and popular aspects of India and took approximately 30 pictures, which have been made into slides, a special selection of which will be used by Mr. Packard to illustrate his address. It has been presented to many engineering and industrial as well as social organizations throughout Massachusetts and other states, and has always proved exceptionally popular.

Mr. Packard is a Worcester Polytechnic Institute graduate and has devoted many years to industrial engineering work. He has specialized in textiles and paper making industries, and has always taken an important part in civic matters. Mr. Packard's lectures are popular not only on account of the illustrated subject matter presented, but also on account of the personality and ready speaking ability of the man.

The lecture will be given in the auditorium at Cheney Hall at the close of the Cheney Get-Together banquet and will be open to the public. Thomas Maxwell's String Trio will entertain on the same program. The auxiliary departments of Cheney Brothers will serve a roast turkey dinner preceding the address.
