Three Young Bandits, Hold Up Employees and Depos- itors Then Flee—Car Is Abandoned in Waterbury.

Waterbury, Conn., March 28.—(AP)—Three youthful, debonaire bandit, who had remained on up the Watertown Trust Company in the heart of Watertown about nine-thirty this morning and escaped with between $15,000 and $16,000 in cash. The getaway was made in a green sedan, driven by a fourth bandit, who had remained in the guard outside the entrance of the bank while the trio entered, and backing the entire bank staff, two men, five women and three depositors into a room at the rear, cleaned out the vault and cash drawers. Although they worked leisurely, remaining in the building for nearly ten minutes, the bandits overtook between $5,000 and $6,000 in two cash drawers. A car found abandoned in Waterbury later in the day is believed to have been used by the bandits.

Caught Off Guard.

The employees, who were unable to sound the alarm system, operated by foot pedals under the teller's windows. The telephone wires were cut at the switch when the bandits entered the building.

William H. Why, treasurer, gives a graphic description of the holdup. He was at his desk in the lobby and outside of the cage at the time. Mr. Why says:

"I was at my desk as usual, looking over some papers. It was about 9:30 o'clock. There were several people in the bank at the time, including several customers that I recognized. I also noticed some young fellows, well dressed, ordinary appearing. After glancing at them I continued work on the papers. The first thing I knew, a man was standing at the edge of my desk and I looked up into the muzzle of a gun.

"Stick 'em Up."

"His odd things that will go through a man's head under such a circumstance. I thought to myself, 'this can't be true, am I losing my senses?' The muzzle of a gun as I stared into it, I sensed a revolver, probably a Colt.

"No monkey-business, stick 'em up," said the bandit. His voice was casual and he didn't seem excited. Then I noticed that two other men had guns trained on the girls at the counter and one was starting around the end of the counter to get back of the screen.

"I was afraid the girls would become excited and scream or faint and that the bandits would shoot.

"Keep the muzzles of those guns down and don't shoot anyone. We'll make no resistance," I told the man with the gun on me. Two of them herded us into a rear room, the posting room, where three clerks, Julia Davidson, Alice Hanning, and Avis White were working. Evelyn Batch and Lillian Summer, tellers, had been at their windows and Randolph Betts, assistant treasurer was in the vault when the man entered. I told the girls to be quiet as a warning scream would have done no

SHEEP DIP CAUSED JAKEY PARALYSIS

Doran Said Bootleggers Sold a Concoction of Carbolic Acid and Ginger.

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced today that bootleggers who sold a concoction of cresote or crude carbolic acid flavored with ginger were responsible for the several hundred cases of paralysis in the south and southwest sections of the country.

The commissioner said the concoction which he termed "sheep dip" had been tested and found poisonous. Hundreds of samples, he continued, had been examined and were discovered to be either cresote or crude carbolic acid flavored with ginger.

From three-fourths to seven-eighths of the solids in the mixture were cresote or crude carbolic acid Doran asserted.

Drinking the "sheep dip cocktail," the commissioner said, would most seriously affect anyone and samples analyzed indicated it had been responsible for many cases of partial paralysis.

TREASURY BALANCE.

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for March 28 were $8,511,167.60; expenditures $7,008,300.42; balance $365,416,220.67.

SQUAW WANTED LOCK OF HAIR FROM VICTIM

Indian Woman Asked French Artist to Get Lock So She Could Make "Medicine," She Testifies.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28.—(AP)—A lock of hair from his wife's head, which he was told was a witchcraft practice, was asked of Henri Marchand by Lila Jimerson, the Indian woman accused as an accomplice in the murder of his wife, the artist testified today. The request was made two years before the death of Clothilde Marchand, the defense counsel sought to emphasize.

Marchand, under the pressure of the counsel's questioning said he had been told the procuring of a lock of hair was part of the sorcery practiced by the Seneca Indians. The information came from an authority on Indian life who worked with Marchand at the Buffalo Museum of Natural Science, the artist explained.

Is Cross-Examined.

The intimacies of the Indian woman and the French artist were reviewed under the cross examination of John V. Maloney. The matter of "going to mold Lila's mind to your purpose" was subjected to the scrutiny of the defense attorney.

Marchand had told of automobile tours, visits to hotels and other trips with the Indian woman when Maloney suddenly severed the subject he had discussed an hour earlier.

"Now all the time you were taking Lila out," Maloney asked quietly, "did it ever occur to you that this girl was the one who two years ago asked for a lock of your wife's hair to 'make medicine'?"

The witness answered with an abrupt "no."

HOTEL MAN PAID GARRETT $65,000

So He Told Witness at To- day's Hearing of Boston Policeman's Trial.

Boston, March 28.—(AP)—Testimony of actual payment of money to Oliver B. Garrett, former headquarters liquor raider whose pensioning is being investigated by Attorney General Joseph E. Warner, was heard today by Grover R. Moran of Cohasset, who described himself as an investigator. The sum he named was $65,000.

Moran swore that John F. Sullivan, proprietor of the Ritz Hotel, had told him he had given the money to Garrett over three years. The Ritz was closed under the liquor padlock law.

Moran's testimony came after previous evidence that Garrett had been the recipient of mysterious envelopes from a former Hotel Ritz employee. That testimony was given by Mrs. Mary Butterfield, widow of a former waiter at the establishment, who described Garrett's visits to her home and the unaddressed envelopes she said her husband had given the policeman.

Bitter Clashes

Bitter legal clashes featured the forenoon session as William H. Shea, counsel for Alfred H. Brissenden, brother-in-law of Garrett's wife, and former foreman of her Hingham dairy farm, contended with Damon E. Hall, special assistant to Warner, that his client need not answer certain questions.

In the exchange of remarks between Shea and Hall on the legality of the questioning, Shea bitterly replied that his colleague, when Brissenden refused to answer the questions, she offered a statement explaining the reasons for the refusal. The statement, read by Brissenden at the request of Warner said, in part, that the constitutional rights of the witness were being violated by the legislature's delegation of its powers to the attorney general, who is not a member of that body; the probe was a "news gathering venture carried on in the hope of getting enough evidence to sustain criminal charges"; and that it was a "star chamber inquisition."

Defeated in Dail in 66-64 Vote on Unemployment; To Nominate De Valera for the Presidency.

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 28.—(AP)—President William T. Cosgrave and his ministry today resigned their posts, after defeat of the government in the Dail last night by a vote of 66 to 64 on an opposition measure.

The Dail, after announcement of the resignation, was adjourned until Wednesday of next week, when nomination of a new president will fall to it and Mr. Cosgrave possibly may be re-elected.

Sean O'Keilly, who is leading the Fianna Fail, principal opposition element, in the absence of Eamonn de Valera in America, announced that his party would nominate Mr. de Valera as president. The Dail then adjourned until Wednesday.

Decision to resign was reached at party meeting today to discuss the situation created by last night's defeat of the government on a pro-

HEALTH BOARD NOW CENSURES STATE SCHOOL

Vaccine Found in Meriden Worthless; Other Drugs 30 Years Old; Sanitary Conditions Poor.

Hartford, March 28.—(AP)—"Practically all agencies that have a bearing on the health of the boys have fallen short of rendering their maximum service, largely from lack of competent supervision and because of failure to coordinate efforts with those of other agencies concerned with different aspects of the same problem," is a conclusion of the State Department of Health in a second severe indictment of the Connecticut School for Boys, and contained in a report of a survey of the school. The report was filed with Governor Trumbull Thursday afternoon by Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of health.

Vaccine Worthless

Smallpox vaccine found in use at the school was stamped with the expiration date of April 13, 1922, and the Department of Health survey discloses, and as vaccine should not be used after the expiration date, that used at the school has been worthless for a number of years. It was also found that some of the drugs in the medicine cabinet in the infirmary had been there for more than thirty years.

After reading the report of the State Department of Health on conditions in the school, Governor Trumbull, who requested the survey be made, declared that it seemed incredible that such conditions could exist in the school without the knowledge of those responsible for the conduct of the institution.

Unsanitary Conditions

The survey included a study with reference to the medical, psychiatric and sanitary engineering aspects of the health problem, and in none of them has the school been found to be in a satisfactory condition. In the department which serves to bear out the harsh criticism of the school made earlier in the week by the special commission appointed by the governor to investigate conditions at the school, the department of health, recommendations made to the governor, among other things suggested to the governor the construction of a modern admission building which may also be utilized as a hospital, and the attendance of a physician trained in psychiatry

FRANCE DEPLORES OUR TARIFF RATES

Commerce Minister Says They Will Keep All of Their Goods Out of U. S.

Paris, March 28.—(AP)—Pierre-Etienne Flanin, minister of commerce, today told the French Senate that the American policy of "practically prohibiting entry into the United States of products not manufactured in the United States" was not only for France, but for all European exportations to America.

His statement was made in the course of discussion on the proposed increase in American tariffs on jaces and embroideries. Senator Neron declared that the duty on lace amounted to a virtual embargo so far as France was concerned and he demanded to know what the government was going to do about it.

M. Flanin replied to Senator Neron that the proposed American tariff had not been definitely accepted by Congress and that France's representatives were endeavoring to prevent final adoption.

He added that a new economic policy was being developed in the United States under the direction of President Hoover, however, saying "this virtually prohibits importation into the United States of everything manufactured here."

DAY OF MOURNING

Calais, France, March 28.—(AP)—Today was almost like a day of mourning in this city, center of a great lace industry.

Early this afternoon the town was closed tightly in preparation for a huge demonstration of employees and employers against the greatly increased American duties on lace importations.

BAY STATE BANK CLOSES ITS DOORS

Shortage of $280,000 Dis- covered; Blame Placed on Jazz Orchestra Leader.

Northampton, Mass., March 28.—(AP)—The Hampshire County Trust company closed its doors this morning with a shortage of approximately $285,000. Blame for the loss was placed directly upon Harold R. Newcomb, former manager of the savings department, by Arthur Guy, state bank examiner in charge.

Ralph Hemenway, president of the bank and a prominent attorney, referred all questioners to the State Bank examiner, who said that at the time of Newcomb's arrest on March 17, Hemenway said the bank was well protected by bond and that Newcomb's alleged defalcations would not affect the institution.

Lead Jazz Orchestra.

Newcomb, who was organizer and leader of a jazz orchestra, well known throughout New England, was held in default of $30,000 bail on his arraignment the day after his arrest. Police charged that he had been too lavish in expenditures for his orchestra and in attempting to maintain a living standard too high for his salary.

It became known today that the bank had been subjected to heavy withdrawals since Newcomb's arrest, and Hemenway admitted this morning that there had been a virtual run yesterday.

Refuse Information.

Bank officials have steadfastly refused to disclose the actual amount of Newcomb's alleged defalcations, but it was said today that the bank's loss might reach six figures.

It also became known this morning that six bank examiners spent all last week going over the books. They left last Saturday.

The last available statement of the bank's condition showed commercial department assets of $1,034,000; savings department assets $1,840,000; trust department assets $291,000; savings deposits, $1,988,000; Christmas savings deposits $8,000. A notice by Roy A. Hovey, State banking commissioner, that he had taken over the institution was posted at the main door.

Newcomb, banker by day and leader of a popular jazz orchestra by night, was arrested on March 17, charged with the specific theft of $15,000 on which charge he was held in default of $30,000 bail when arraigned in District Court.

The bank's loss was said by Guy

NINE ARE INJURED IN TUNNEL BLAST

Driller Strikes Stick of Dyna- mite in New York—Four Men Seriously Hurt.

New York, March 28.—(AP)—Nine men of a crew of fifteen working 600 feet below Boston road and Pelham parkway, the Bronx, in a shaft of the city's new water system, were injured today when a drill caused the explosion of a stick of dynamite which had failed to explode in a previous blast.

Eight of the injured were taken to Fordham hospital, where the condition of four was described as serious. The ninth was attended at the scene for contusions.

Seriously Hurt

The four seriously hurt were Jack Condon, 25, and Joe Marino, 29, possible fracture of the skull; Herbert Browning, 32, fractured skull, and Frank Gilbert, 32, possible loss of the sight of both eyes. All of the injured live in New York.

The blast occurred fifteen minutes before the men were to have ended their shift in a tunnel 21 feet in circumference they had blasted through solid rock. Gilbert was operating the drill and its teeth bit into a "missed hole" in which an overlooked stick of dynamite was lying. The explosion knocked the fifteen men down and injured some of them 20 or 30 feet. The sound was not heard in the street, although men working in the south tunnel 300 feet from the shaft and 700 feet from the scene, heard a dull rumble.

These men hurried to the scene and placed the injured in bucket cars, which were pushed along the narrow-gauge tracks to the shaft. A hoist lifted them to the surface where they were given first aid treatment at the contracting company's emergency hospital.

Our Naval Delegates Refuse To Enter Pact That Obliges U. S. to Participate in All Controversies Whether Interested or Not—Still Hope to Agree On a Security Pact.

London, March 28.—(AP)—The American delegates have definitely eliminated a type of treaty such as the four-power Pacific pact of 1921 as a basis for a consultative agreement to be framed at the London conference.

It was learned on the highest authority in the American delegation today that the Americans are convinced commitments under Article Two of the Pacific treaty, if applied in Europe, would cause the United States to participate in discussions over virtually every controversy in Europe whether the United States was interested in them or not.

Article Two of the 1921 treaty, to which the Americans would object in a consultative pact applied to Europe, provides that if the contracting parties rights are threatened by any other power, those powers signing the treaty shall consult in order to arrive at an understanding.

American Interests

It is emphasized by the same authority that the Americans have interests in the Pacific which justified the signature of such a treaty. However it is considered that such would be too entangling for a pact in which the United States would participate as far as Europe is concerned.

Thus far there has been no approach to the United States regarding a consultative agreement and there will be no move on the part of the American delegation until two things are completed which would be considered to justify the American discussion with the other delegations of a consultative pact with a view to devising such an agreement.

These two steps, which must be completed are (1) Satisfaction of France's demand for security and (2) by virtue of this satisfaction page figures to such a point as to make a five power naval agreement possible.

On the other side it is known that the Americans have not made any suggestion to any other power either regarding a consultative pact or even informally for solution of the security problem. The only discussions which have taken place on this phase were between Secretary Stimson, Premier Tardieu, Foreign Minister Briand and Ambassador Morrow before Premier Tardieu's departure for the last time some weeks ago. These discussions were wholly inconclusive. In fact neither delegation at that time had in mind any concrete proposal or suggestion to make.

London, March 28.—(AP)—Having succeeded in drawing France back into the five-power naval parity, the American and British delegation today turned their attention particularly to Italy, with the hope of securing some sort of compromise from the representatives of the Mussolini government.

Meanwhile, both among the delegations and conference observers the offer of "security" which will be made France as price of reduction of her naval figures, and the consultative pact into which the Americans may be drawn continued the principal topic of conversations.

But while the situation with France has been greatly eased and now gives the hope of possible tangible development in the direction of a naval agreement, Italy has stood her guns and reiterated her original contention, "parity with any continental power."

France's Contentions

France as consistently is maintaining even though this phase of the naval argument is out of the limelight, that she cannot accept parity with Italy, and that the Rome government is contending for the right to build up to France's total with no intention or capacity to do so.

The principal idea of the British and Americans now is to get the French and Italians face to face in the same room to discuss their differences. Thus far efforts to achieve that meeting have proven fruitless. The British and Americans are working on the basis that obviously no agreement is possible unless the parties concerned are willing to discuss matters.

To Sit On Sidelines.

If the French and Italians can be brought together for conversations the Americans and British can sit on the sidelines and try to help the contestants over any hard jumps with friendly advice.

R. I. Stamborg of Stamford, mechanic for the airways between Boston and New York stopped off at Manchester for a few minutes this noon to report as to his location and his next destination.

Stamborg says there are many occasions when reports come in that a plane is missing only to find that it has landed at some airport where it was supposed to land, in most cases.

When asked about the proper size of a field for a plane like Manchester he said that at least thirty acres would be necessary and this would have to be laid out in a square so that the landing could be made from either end, according to the direction from which the wind was blowing.

Under the present constitution procedure of the Dail regarding the election of a government in the event of a change of ministries does not involve a general election.

Names are nominated for the presidency and if those men are defeated others may be proposed until some one obtains a majority.

That opens a possibility of Cosgrave's resignation. Political quarters here believe that if Cosgrave were chosen again he would nominate the members of his resigned Cabinet.

BELIEVE PROFESSIONALS ROBBED WIOR'S STORE

All Local Men Are Freed After Questioning—One Man Witnessed the Act.

There is little doubt but what the attempted burglary at the jewelry store of Mathew Wior early yesterday morning was the work of professionals and did not include any of the Manchester men who were taken in to questioning.

There were eight persons in a restaurant nearby which was about to close up. Waiting outside of the door to walk home with one of the young men inside was another young man. The lights were off in the front of the restaurant and as he stood there waiting he saw a man suddenly appear in front of the Wior store and then make a sweeping motion on the glass and followed this with a hammer of some kind against the window.

The witness of the act opened the door of the restaurant and cried out to those inside to come and see what some "nut" had done by breaking the window. The inside crowd came out and as the person was standing with his back to the north and his left hand reaching into the window he did not notice the crowd that suddenly came from the restaurant and when he did he ran down the street with the others following him.

Two of the men were close upon him as he was running down Maple street, but he turned into the driveway where the Manchester Motor Sales Company is now constructing a new building and dodged into the dark.

When all facts were sifted down by Chief Samuel G. Gordon the three men who were held for questioning were turned free.

and child guidance, and also a psychiatric social worker. Ample opportunity for healthy exercise, a program of moral training, banning of present methods of punishment, and changes in the parole methods are also recommended.

The report of the State Department of Health consists of twenty-six pages, and indicates that medical treatments for the boys was a haphazard arrangement at best, and was supplied for the most part by a nurse without bothering to call a doctor, or by supervising physicians who were considered mild in nature.

"RESULTS COUNT." Meriden, March 28.—(AP)—Dr. E. T. Bradstreet, the physician for the Connecticut State School for the Deaf, struck back at the State Department of Health indictment of health provisions at the local institution reported in a survey submitted by Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of health to Governor John H. Trumbull.

"Things done, theoretically," Dr. Bradstreet said, "look fine but the actual results are what count."

The general health of the boys at the school, the results of sickness there and the mortality rate at the institution are the best proof that shows how the health of the boys has been considered and looked after by the officials of the institution.

TOP OF MOUNTAIN
SOLD AT AUCTION

France Outbids Peasants So That Tourists May Visit
Scenic Wonders.

Clermont-Ferrand, France—(AP)—The auctioning of a mountain top to a group of 52 citizens has settled for a time a long controversy over possession of the famous Puy de Dome.

The idea was to retain the highest point of land in this rugged country as an attraction for tourists, but there were at stake also ancient tradition and local pride.

Bought By Peasants
When the Marquis de Vainy died many years ago possession of the peak, 100 acres in area and nearly 5,000 feet high, passed to a group of 52 peasant landowners who sought the right to graze on it their sheep and cattle. In the picturesquely accorded documents each person, according to his share in the purchase price, had the right to have on the ground a certain number of "feet of cows" and "feet of sheep."

A street car company eventually purchased some of these rights and exercised the legal prerogative of demanding a division of property which required a sale. The whole department and much of France became exercised over the supposed plan to erect tourist hotels there and charge admission to the ground which for centuries has been a sort of public playground.

Find Flaw in Sale
Lawyers working in the interest of the public discovered a flaw in the sale to the street car company at public auction and another sale was ordered. The department itself put in a bid and the citizens' group another one, while the auctioneer, according to quaint French customs, lighted three small candles.

When the third flame died down, the last bidder became the buyer, corresponding to the American auctioneer's "going, going, gone," accompanied by the fall of the gavel.

The Puy de Dome, overlooking the entire volcanic range of the region, therefore, remains open to the world of the circus traveler. It was a sight-seeing spot even in the days of the Romans who left there a temple to Mercury now in ruins.

DROP TUNNEY SUIT

Bridgeport, March 28.—(AP)—John S. Fogarty, of Fort Worth, Texas, today withdrew in Superior Court his $500,000 alienation of affection suit against J. J. Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion. The withdrawal was accepted by Judge Edward M. Yeomans at a hearing at noon today.

Counsel for Tunney, George E. Whiteside, New York; Homer S. Cummings, of Stamford, and Attorney Raymond Hackett, of Stamford, declared in court that no monetary settlement had been made in the case.

Fogarty sued upon a claim that Tunney had alienated the affections of his former wife, Katherine King Fogarty, now residing in Boston.

In preparation of his suit Fogarty caused a number of depositions to be taken in various parts of the country. Through a stipulation of the agreement, Judge Yeomans ordered all of these depositions and other records in the case impounded by the clerk of the court and kept under seal.

Fogarty charged he had lived happily with his wife at Fort Worth for many years until Tunney met her when training at Hot Springs, Ark., in 1924.

At that time, Tunney, "by his arts, blandishments and seductions," it was charged, "alienated the love and affection of Fogarty's wife and destroyed the happiness of his home."

SUMMER PALACE READY FOR POPE

First Pontiff to Leave the Vatican in the Last Sixty Years.

Castel Gandolfo, Italy. (AP).—Pope Pius XI, in his gaudy Old World costumes, have taken over the Villa Barberini here on behalf of Pope Pius XI. For here the Pope will undoubtedly come this summer to spend the hot months in this high, cool and shady spot. He will be the first Pope to spend his summer outside the Vatican since Pope Xc, sixty years ago.

Workmen will arrive soon to put the villa and the adjoining pontifical palace, Castel Gandolfo, in order. They have been told by the governor of Vatican City, Commendatore Soraceni, to put everything in readiness for the Pope's contemplated visit.

The Villa Barberini passes to the papacy by one of the clauses of the Lateran treaties between Italy and the Holy See, ending the Roman question. It was the property of Prince Barberini, who turned it over to the Italian government and the government turned it over to the papacy.

Lies Above Lake
The villa lies 430 feet above Lake Albano a few miles outside Rome. Albano is a beautiful crater-lake, the sister of Lake Nemi, where the Italian government is bringing to light two galleys of the Emperor Caligula by lowering the surface through pumping operations. It is considered one of the most healthful spots around Rome.

In this latter respect it will prove of immense value to the Pontiff. The summers he has been forced to spend at the Vatican have been injurious to his health, because the Vatican is below sea-level. Two years ago doctors told him that he would have to leave the Vatican during the summer or face serious consequences.

No Decision Yet
The Pope has not yet decided whether he will make his residence in the Castel Gandolfo or the Villa Barberini. But preparations are going ahead at the villa as if the Pope were to live there. In any event, since the two communicate, the Pope will make liberal use of the villa as well as the castle.

A number of American priests will be keenly interested in the Pope's summer journey. The little town of Castel Gandolfo is the site of the summer residence of the American college in Rome. Every summer two hundred American young men studying for the priesthood and their instructors spend several months here, away from the heat of Rome. They have their own baseball field and tennis courts, and Lake Albano is almost at their feet.

An "electric eye" mechanism which fires a gun as a prisoner climbs up a wall to escape has been demonstrated with success. But most prisoners will regard this like any other current event.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Low Blood Pressure
Question: L. K. J. asks: "What are the symptoms at the beginning of low blood pressure and what is the best method of overcoming it at the start?"
Answer: Low blood pressure really means weakness and lowered resistance all over the body. The first symptoms that the patient will feel are those of becoming easily tired, waking up tired in the morning, listlessness, and lack of interest in work. Anything which will overcome weakness and produce strength will cure the condition known as low blood pressure and prevent many deficiency disorders which come from lowered resistance. Increased physical culture exercise is the best single method for producing more strength.

(Iodine in Foods)
Question:—A. M. asks: "Will you please tell me what foods contain iodine, and what iodine is necessary in our diet?"
Answer: Asparagus, pineapple, cabbage, kidney beans, mushrooms, carrots, strawberries, shrimp and other shellfish are the common foods which contain the most iodine. Small amounts of iodine are found in different parts of the body, but the largest amount is in the thyroid gland where iodine undoubtedly has its specific effect upon metabolism. With one who has a deficiency, little good will come through simply using those foods which are richest in iodine, as the lack of it in the thyroid being destroyed through more systemic toxicosis. In a well balanced diet one gets enough iodine for the body's needs, but if this is being used up too rapidly or destroyed, it may be necessary to take a fast and diet with the idea of removing toxins from the blood rather than to increase the intake of iodine bearing foods.

HOLD MURDER SUSPECT
New York, March 28.—(AP)—A policeman's memory of a face printed on a police circular resulted today in the arrest of a man wanted in connection with a murder committed in October, 1927.
The man, Samuel Goltz, 23 years old, was charged with homicide in connection with the death of Dr. Jacob Gross, a dentist, who was killed in his office during a robbery. Patrolman De Rosa said he recognized the photograph of the wanted man as that of Goltz who resided on his beat in Brooklyn. Goltz denied any complicity in the crime, but police said he admitted he was in the building the day the dentist was killed.

The National Guard numbers 177,000 men.

Samuel Goltz, an alleged accomplice, is now at Sing Sing prison awaiting execution having been convicted of homicide several months ago in connection with the murder. A third man, Solomon Goltz, who testified that he drove the holdup men to the building, was freed after turning state's evidence.

MANY DRY CASES BEFORE BURROWS

New Haven, March 28.—(AP)—Judge Walter E. Burrows in U. S. District Court today meted out one jail penalty, imposed five fines and granted continuances to three persons who were arraigned on charges of violation of prohibition laws. All those fined and jailed entered pleas of guilty.
Fred Weitzel, of Waterbury, charged with maintenance of nuisance was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. Weitzel previously had been fined $300 and given a jail sentence of 30 days, with execution suspended in Federal Court.
A fine of $350 was imposed upon Harry Donohue, 70, proprietor of the New Hartford roadhouse in New Hartford, who was charged with maintenance of nuisance. Dry agents found hard cider in his place when it was raided last month.
A charge of maintenance of a nuisance brought a fine of $300, with a sentence of 30 days in jail, with execution suspended, to Mrs. Marie Cacimiro of Bridgeport, the mother of several children.
Walter Keller, of Waterbury charged with maintenance of a nuisance, was fined $350 and given a jail sentence of 30 days in jail, with execution suspended.
Joseph Carney, of Shelton, also charged with maintenance of a nuisance was fined $250 and given 60 days in jail with execution suspended.

Mickey Travers, former well known New Haven boxer, pleaded not guilty to a charge of transportation and his case was continued. The defense attorney will file a motion in the case within ten days.
Joseph Arnold, proprietor of the Enfield Inn, Enfield, pleaded not guilty to a charge of maintenance of a nuisance and was given a continuance until April 14.
Upon the statement of John A. Danaher, assistant U. S. district attorney, that satisfactory bail had not been obtained in the case of Victor Miller, of Bridgeport, charged with maintenance of a nuisance, and upon Mr. Danaher's recommendation that the case be continued, and that the bond of Miller be made $1,000, Judge Burrows continued the case until April 14. Miller did not plead.

VOTE ON PROHIBITION
Melbourne, Victoria, March 28.—(AP)—For the first time in the history of this state residents tomorrow will vote on prohibition of alcoholic liquors, the result to be binding on the whole state and not on its individual parts.
The campaign has been greatly intensified during the past few weeks. It is estimated that the wets have spent £140,000 and the dries £40,000, the poll will cost the government £25,000.
The name of the United States has figured prominently in propaganda which has flooded every corner of the state. Every effort has been exhausted in the most intensive and most widely talked-of poll ever held in Victoria.

Lion of British Concert Stage

In "Travelers Hour" John Goss, young English baritone who scored a sensational success in New York City early this month, has been obtained as guest soloist of "The Travelers Hour" booked for 10:31 o'clock tonight from Station WTIC. On the occasion of his metropolitan debut at the Town Hall on the 5th, Olin Downes, erudite critic of The New York Times, wrote, "a song recital by him in an affair of unflagging interest and profit for the listener." Mr. Goss will be supported by the Travelers Concert Orchestra, which will offer an orchestral program of unusual variety, including selections from the pens of Elgar, Borowski, Grainger and others. An instrumental novelty by Christian Kriens, director of the ensemble, will be one of the highlights of the presentation. It is entitled "Ronde des Lutins" and calls for three woodwind instruments-the flute, oboe and clarinet. John Goss came to America a season ago at the behest of the Schola Cantorum of New York, after he had established an enviable reputation in Great Britain and on the continent. His first appearance on this side of the Atlantic was in Canada. He has acquired the enormous repertoire of 950 songs, representative of practically the entire field of vocal music, including old English songs, sea chanties, and contemporary favorites. Three sea chanties appear in the list of songs he will sing tonight.

FAVORS HOUSE RATES

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—J. F. McElwain, chairman of the tariff committee of the National Shoe Manufacturers' association, today informed President Hoover that shoe manufacturers were in favor of the House rates in the tariff bill which would place a duty of 10 per cent on hides, 15 per cent on leather and 20 per cent on shoes. McElwain outlined his opposition to the Senate action which struck out the House rates and left hides, leather and shoes on the free list. The differences between the House and Senate bills are to be settled in conference.

Proud Mother!

Dorothy Goss, 8, of 343 West 83th St., New York City, has posed for many artists. She's the picture of health. No wonder her mother says: "I'm proud as can be of my little girl. She's always bright, active, robust. "I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for her wonderful condition. I have used it with her for every little upset or cold. It always has her back to normal in a few hours." When a child shows, by bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or feverishness, that the little bowels are clogged, you know the system needs a prompt cleansing. California Fig Syrup does the work quickly and gently. In addition, it helps tone and strengthen weak bowels and stomach. So it gives lasting help. The word California marks the genuine; the pure vegetable product loved by children and pronounced safe and effective by doctors.—Adv.

FLOODS THREATEN

Lowell, Mass., March 28.—(AP)—At 11 a. m., today, 23,300 cubic feet of water a second was pouring over the Pawtucket dam here, an increase of 15,400 feet in 24 hours. There were indications that the flowage would increase to 30,000 cubic feet a second by nightfall. An increase beyond that point would mean flooding of lowlands. Reports of a "heavy river" were received from Plymouth, N. H., the headwaters, and from Manchester, N. H. At Manchester the flowage was 24,000 cubic feet a second with the river continuing its rise.

VOLUME OUTLINES EAST HARTFORD'S PART IN THE WAR

Daniel D. Bidwell Compiles Interesting Record of Neighboring Town's Share In Great Conflict.

A number of Manchester readers both in and out of the public library have given attention to the volume just produced by the East Hartford World War Memorial Committee...

Mostly the book tells of men in the Yankee Division and their hard fighting in the Toul sector and later still later in the pinching off of the St. Mihiel salient and yet later in the closing days in the Meuse-Argonne forest and just before the signing of the Armistice of Rheims.

Also it tells about another gallant Burnside lad, Daniel Walker, Jr., now living in Laurel Park Heights, who went into the sailor blue and crossed the ocean on the converted yacht Sultana as a boatswain's mate...

The book tells, too, of the part taken by Dr. Edward H. Truex, who went across early and spent 19 months in Europe, 14 of them in front line trenches...

The book has a full page cut of the memorial, another of the memorial committee, twelve pictures of heroes of the town, a list of the service men and girls (there were five girls in uniform), the gold star list, a story about the movement for the memorial and—shucks! the best way is to take the book out of the library or look at The Herald copy...

THE CRIMEAN WAR.

On March 28, 1854, the Crimean War, the name given the struggle between Russia on the one hand and Turkey with her allies, France, England and Sardinia, on the other was declared.

The trouble started when Russia asserted a protectorate over the Greek Christians in Turkish dominions. Believing none of the powers in Europe was in a position to interfere with him, Nicholas I of Russia took this opportunity to send troops into Turkey.

When Turkey declared war on Russia, England and France, wary of the aggressive policy of Russia, joined forces with the Sultan. The war was a long, drawn-out affair with both sides claiming a share of victories. After the commander of the Russian forces blew up his fortifications and retreated into the hills, all parties were ready for peace, which was signed at Paris March 30, 1856.

It was during this war that Florence Nightingale, famous nurse, did her heroic hospital work among the cholera-stricken ranks of the English. This war also commemorates the valiant but ill-advised "Charge of the Light Brigade."

TENTH OF NATIVES ARE NEARLY BLIND

Over 200,000 Persons in Tunis Are Now Suffering from Trachoma.

Tunis.—(AP)—One half of the entire population of Tunisia is suffering from Trachoma, and the eyes of one-tenth of the population are so seriously affected that they cannot work.

The population totals 2,200,000, which means that more than 200,000 persons are more or less blind. Confirming these figures, Dr. B. Harroy, eye specialist, admitted that trachoma is probably more prevalent in Tunisia than anywhere else on earth.

Europeans in Tunisia are virtually unaffected, and the disease is not widespread among the Arabs in large cities. It is most prevalent among the Arab natives in the country, where in many villages practically the entire population is affected.

Disease Is Common The disease is so common among school children in certain native towns that authorities have begun combating the disease by segregating the few children whose eyes are still unaffected. It is particularly contagious among children between five and ten. New cases are rare among adults. The disease is most common where water is scarce and in districts lacking forests. Its prevalence in Tunisia increases as one approaches the Sahara. In the towns of Gabes, Tozeur and Nefta practically the entire population is affected.

Call No Doctors Modern medical aid can nearly always cure the disease in youth, but among the Arab population modern scientific treatment frequently is not invoked. The disease is permitted to advance, frequently culminating in total blindness.

It is admitted that the budget of the protectorate is inadequate to give free treatment to all sufferers. Running water and education—in short, civilization, are considered the only means of permanently eradicating the disease.

The French authorities are concentrating their efforts on the school children. Mme. Manceron, wife of the resident general, is heading a drive for funds to provide new dispensaries. The army is cooperating with an educational campaign in the country districts and supplying free treatment at army dispensaries.

A psychologist said recently that men of retiring dispositions who modestly keep in the background are the most pronounced type. This seems to apply everywhere but in Congress.

DEMOCRATIC REVIVAL

Only the bitterest of partisans will question the theory that an active opposition party, of sufficient strength to keep alive the possibility of change in government control, is essential to the well being of any democratic state.

For this reason there will be little regret in non-Democratic quarters in Connecticut over the apparently inevitable reorganization of the Democratic party in Connecticut consequent on the election of Archibald McNeil of Bridgeport to succeed Thomas J. Spellacy of Hartford as national committeeman, which position carries with it the leadership of the party in the state.

For years the party in Connecticut has been deficient in purposes and program. It has lacked cohesion. Many of its voters have felt that it was not a party at all but a vague and loose aggregation of individuals who were being manipulated by and for the benefit of a clique whose aims were not always clear but frequently under suspicion.

There seems to be a widespread feeling among Democrats that under the new leadership the party will at least have a program and an objective aside from mere casual and opportunistic fund finding; that it will become, correspondingly to its numerical strength, a force in the affairs of the commonwealth; that it will know what its leaders are trying to do; that it will become, in short, an opposition party worthy of the name.

We do not, to be sure, envy Mr. McNeil and his associates their job, for it will probably be some time hence and after a deal of hard work that they succeed, if they ever do succeed, in dismissing factionalism and internal dissensions from among their forces. But it is to be anticipated that sooner or later the Democratic party in this state will cut a better figure than it has in recent years and that it will come to occupy a position of considerably greater usefulness.

As a Republican newspaper with sufficient sporting blood not to care about fighting a sick opponent and sincerely believing in the essential need of a healthy opposition, the Herald is frankly glad to see the state Democrats moving toward solid ground after having been for some years lost in the Slough of Despond.

NOT PROVEN

The trial of old Nancy Bowen, Cayuga Indian woman, for a murder that came about through her admitted belief in witches and witchcraft, whether instigated by another person or not, has led to a very general assumption that old Nancy's superstitions were deeply hereditary and sprung from the old times of complete native savagery. There is very little ground for any such off-hand conclusion.

The case of Miss Lillie Wilson, of Middle Haddam, who at the age of sixty had never seen an electric light and knew nothing about such things as radio, telephones, phonographs or even newspapers, to say nothing of washing machines and vacuum cleaners, is one of the strangest imaginable. At sixty this woman is as uninformed about the doings of the world as a two-year-old child.

When it is realized that almost everywhere else in the world primitive peoples are depressed by literally thousands of the most fantastic terrors in the form of goblins and demons which take on endless shapes and are accredited with every conceivable sort of power of mischief, the Indian's spiritual state was amazingly free from superstitious horrors.

It is even a fair question whether the Indian's degree of immunity from the inhibitions and restraints of demonic beliefs was not greater than that of the white people with whom he first came in contact. Certainly his belief that a witless person was under the direct and personal protection of the Great Spirit, or that a white with red hair must be regarded as a special favorite of the sun god and not molested, is at least matched and we should say surpassed by the fear-born desperation that prompted the Salem witch hunts.

Certainly the recent "hex" murders among the Palatine Germans of Pennsylvania are not chargeable to the redskinned ancestors of old Nancy Bowen; while the witchcraft beliefs of old Nancy have their duplicates in plenty of country villages in Europe where a moccasin never trod.

There probably isn't a single Cayuga, or any other New York state Indian for that matter, in whose veins there is not somewhere a drop of white blood. A little of that white blood is good blood, for captives from some of the best families among the earlier settlers were adopted by and intermarried with the native tribes more than two centuries ago.

If the Cayugas are debased enough to believe in black magic, in the casting of spells by dosing doll images with blood, in witches and demons and in the exorcising of evil spirits by smashing skulls with hammers, it by no means follows that they acquired these beliefs from their forest roving forebears—that old Nancy is a mere reversion to the original state of her race. The chances are that she is, instead, a reversion to some renegade, grossly ignorant white ancestor of a century or two ago.

TOO BIG BOARDS

Now that Governor Trumbull's special investigating commission has reported, it is safe to accept the fact that conditions at the State Trade School for Boys at Meriden are, and for a long time have been, shocking. It is almost equally safe to assume that drastic and wide reaching reforms in the operation of that institution will soon be made. But it is extremely probable that no amount of house cleaning will insure the long continuance of the expected improvement in conditions unless the next Legislature follows the suggestion of the investigating commission and very considerably reduces the size of the governing body of the school.

Nothing could be more natural more nearly inevitable, than the mismanagement of a reformatory institution bossed by twelve minds. The number of trustees of the school is at least twice as large as it should be; in our belief it is just about four times too large. Five trustees would be a liberal number. Three would probably be 50 per cent more efficient than five. Nine would be in each other's way—a dozen make an impossible mob. What has happened at Meriden is precisely what might have been expected to happen.

Connecticut has been sadly given to the fault of overloading its institutional boards with personnel. The Board of Trustees of the state hospitals for the insane—and why there should be more than one such board is one of the world's wonders—are likewise enormous bodies with responsibility divided so widely that it sits lightly on every shoulder.

A commission only a fraction of the size of either of these boards successfully administers the affairs of five tuberculosis sanatoriums. This, however, is a modern commission, created at a later date than the cumbersome body which has made such a mess of the affairs of the Meriden school. It would seem to be high time—and a particularly propitious moment—for the remodeling of a number of institutional boards to conform to the modern standards.

A STRANGE CASE

The case of Miss Lillie Wilson, of Middle Haddam, who at the age of sixty had never seen an electric light and knew nothing about such things as radio, telephones, phonographs or even newspapers, to say nothing of washing machines and vacuum cleaners, is one of the strangest imaginable. At sixty this woman is as uninformed about the doings of the world as a two-year-old child. Held a prisoner on her father's farm, with no one but the old man for companionship, she has lived, a few miles from everything that is modern, a lifetime as remote from human society as if she had been marooned at her birth on a desert island to which no ship had ever come.

In view of the fact that the father is now dead and the daughter due to inherit a moderate sized fortune accumulated during his hermit life, this woman provides grounds for endless speculation as to what she will do, what she will think, how she will react to liberation and to contact with civilization at this rather late day.

Here is a perfect mine of interest for the psychologist, the dramatist and the just naturally curious. Dramatic indeed are the mere facts of her liberation and her history. But the mental scientists will probably be more deeply concerned with her case than will any playwright.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington, March 28.—Millions of Americans will soon be tossed into the criminal class by the federal government if the supreme court can be persuaded to agree.

The supreme court has promised at least to listen to argument and consider the idea. On April 28 the court will decide whether the purchase of liquor is a violation of the Volstead act and consequently punishable. The government is trying to show this after 10 years of prohibition during which the liquor buyer has not been legally liable to prosecution.

The attempt is being made in two different cases, each of which is being appealed from a lower court which decided in favor of the defendant. In neither case was it denied that the defendant had bought from the bootlegger.

Defendants are Private Citizens. The defendants, who in effect are standing in the place of no one knows how many purchasers of liquor in this country, are Alfred E. Norris of New York and James E. Farrar of Waterbury, Mass.

The circuit court of appeals in Philadelphia didn't see it that way. Norris had been fined $200 in federal district court on the conspiracy charge. So had the bootlegger. The bootlegger paid, but Norris appealed. And the circuit court held that "a sale of liquor involving such transportation as is necessary to effect delivery to the purchaser and seller not subject the purchaser and seller to indictment for conspiracy to transport." The attempt to show conspiracy, the court said, disregarded the obvious intention of Congress in passing the act to exempt the buyer from the penal provisions.

Solicitor General Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., presenting the government's brief to the supreme court, pointed out that in the Norris case the question of whether purchase of liquor was criminal was not involved, but that in any event there was nothing to give immunity to a man guilty of conspiracy.

No Penalty for Buyer. The Farrar case is a straight-out test of whether the buyer as such is equally guilty with the seller. Farrar was indicted in Boston for violation of the Volstead act by purchase of prohibited liquor. Federal Judge James M. Morton quashed the indictment and the Department of Justice decided to appeal the decision in order to settle the issue.

Judge Morton held that if Congress had meant to impose penalties on liquor buyers it would have done so. Instead, it "carefully excluded the purchaser from the provisions of the act."

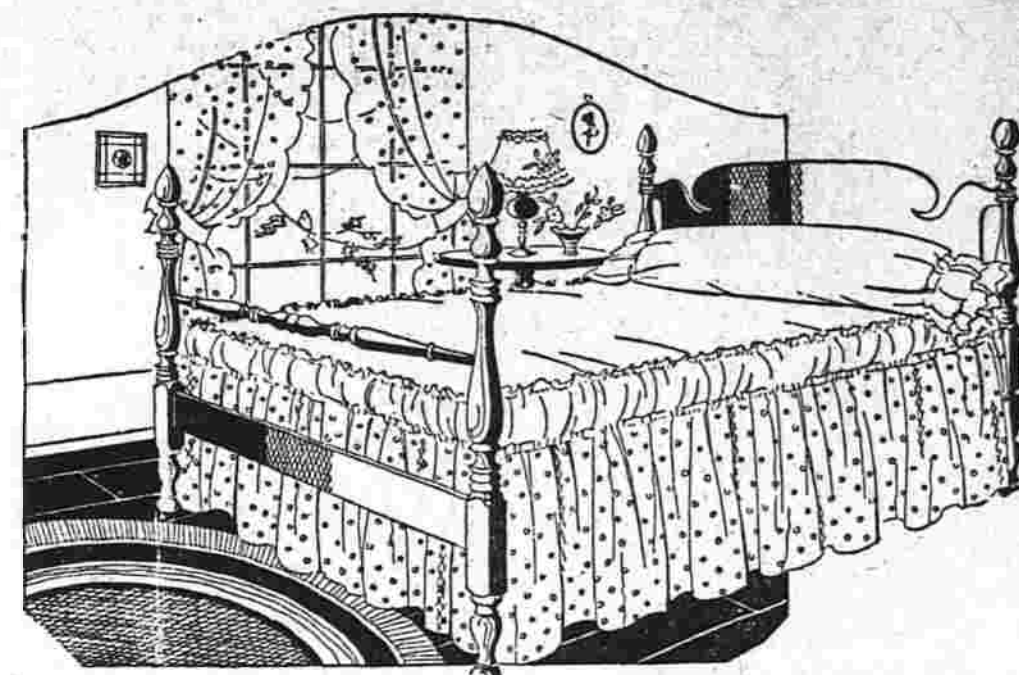

"It is uniformly held that statutes prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors are directed against the active selling only," Morton said, "and that the offense is committed only by the vendor or someone who aids in the selling, and that the purchaser and those who aid him in the purchase are not guilty of aiding or abetting in the commission of the offense."

Nevertheless, there have been conflicts in lower court opinions and the supreme court will now say the last word. Differing opinion is due to the fact that the Volstead act says no one shall sell, transport or buy liquor without a permit, but that its enforcement section lacks the provision of penalty for the buyer. The Anti-Saloon League, which wrote the Volstead act, purposely omitted the words that would definitely have made the buyer a criminal, but prohibition enforcement officials and their legal experts have held that the buyer's liability to punishment remained an open question until judicially decided.

The Senate has raised the duty on straw hats. This is bound to be felt somewhere.

55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 28.—At Times Square there's a more or less famous news stand operator by the name of Joe Green.

To be sure, Joe was known to those thousands who drop up daily to buy their home-town papers. He knows the lonesome ones and the bored ones and the disillusioned ones who bumped their heads against the sidewalk of this town.

Still and all, his was as transient a fame as that of most Broadway-ites—and quite as limited. But at the moment Joe is trying to live down the notion that he even faintly resembles a Broadway character.

It seems that a talking picture opened up just across the street from the spot where Joe chants "Git yer home-town papers. . . . The picture is titled "Street of Chance." And one of the scenes of this film shows just such a Times Square figure as Joe.

That million dollar mansion of Charles Schwab, the steel magnate, which looks upon the Hudson from Riverside Drive has been getting its name in the papers thanks to a $30,000,000 real estate deal.

It will, in all probability, fall into the hands of the wreckers soon and become a very modern apartment house.

A generation ago, when Riverside Drive was Riverside Drive this was one of the show places of the city, standing like some huge feudal castle, hedged in trees and shrubs and covering an entire block in the seventies.

When society began its exodus from "the drive" to Park avenue and points east, Schwab remained entrenched amid his famous art treasures. Indicating the change, however, that has come over this section, the price named is said to be $3,000,000, which is something like half a million less than he paid for the site and the castle.

Its castle-like appearance is the result of a careful study Schwab made several years ago in the chateau district of France in order to have a replica of some of the finest old world mansions. The studies and researches Schwab has made into the art relics of the world are among the least known features of the steel king's vivid life.

HEALTH DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank Mc Coy with "The Best Way to Health" QUESTIONS REGARDING HEALTH AND DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. COY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER.

MUMPS AND MILLIONS. Mumps received more attention during the war than it ever had received since the red flannel period when Grandpa used to cut up an old suit of underwear to get the red flannel to bind up the swollen jaw. When hundreds of men were collected together in training camps, an epidemic of mumps occurred, with the result that there were 21,725 cases in the army in 1917. Some one figured out that the United States Government lost over a million dollars during that one epidemic of the mumps. And when mumps and millions began to be spoken of in the same breath, mumps had more respect given to it.

Mumps usually effects children of from five to fifteen years of age, and it rarely occurs in infants and old people. With most youngsters there is no very serious consequence since under proper treatment most cases get along favorably enough. However, when it attacks young men it has a frequent and serious consequence of causing sterility. Such an effect may change the whole temperament of the patient in after life. There seems to be a peculiar connection between mumps and the sexual glands. Usually the glands atrophy after an attack. Some of the complications which may occur with children are deafness, catarrh of the middle ear, acute uremia, and even a type of meningicheek and neck for relief. There is no need to worry if these directions are followed. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Smoking Question:—"Is the use of tobacco, smoking or chewing, in moderation harmful? I have seen it stated that cigarette smoking is the cause of a large percentage of the idiosyncrasy in the world. Is this not a mistake, and has not the result of cigarette smoking been mistaken for the cause, that is, that cigarette smoking is the result of idiosyncrasy, and that anyone who smokes them has already become an idiot? According to statements I have read, Horace Greeley said that anyone who used tobacco was a hog. Was he not correct? I also have seen it stated that some corporations would not employ persons who smoked cigarettes, the reason being that it detracted from their efficiency, and that no one but a fool smoked them, and that they did not wish to employ a fool to work for them. Is this true? Answer: Many exaggerated statements are made about the harmful effects of smoking. Cigarette smoking is no doubt the most injurious due to the fact that cigarette smokers usually inhale and thereby coat the inside of their lungs with tobacco tars. Smoking is an acquired human habit which many people enjoy and doubtless against which will never be any successful prohibition laws. Perhaps hogs would smoke if they could. The heads of corporations who write about such matters are surprised if they knew how much secret smoking went on among their employees. More good will come from teaching temperance in moderation in smoking than through drastic laws or exaggerated statements about the harmful effects.

Federal Official Says They Are Merely Stunts and Do Not Aid Aviation.

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—The Summer accumulation of trans-oceanic flights in the name of adventure only is viewed by Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, without enthusiasm.

Commenting today on plans already in the making for at least five attempted flights across the northern Atlantic where Colonel Lindbergh blazed a trail in 1927, Secretary Young said that "trans-oceanic flights in airplanes as a sporting adventure are rapidly losing their interest."

Constructive Plans. Constructive thought and plans for overseas service in an economic commercial way has replaced "stunt flights," he said, and notable advances may surely be expected during the next two or three years along these lines.

Until these developments come, however, there is little to be gained by the adventurous flights, he added, classifying "stunts" as those where there is no additional expertise to be gained and where the entire load of the plane is consumed by fuel, oil and equipment."

"Obviously," he said, "any type of aircraft which is employed in a commercial route must provide a payload capacity consistent with the operating cost. In any trans-oceanic service it must also be capable of sustained flight of unusual duration. And this is true even though certain intermediate landing facilities may be provided."

"Within the present type equipment, therefore, it seems apparent that for the relatively near future, at least, such service will probably be limited to dirigibles of the rigid type rather than airplanes, except, of course, in short water crossings, such as are involved between North and Central America where the air-plane already has proved its practicality."

Airplanes have, of course, successfully accomplished non-stop ocean trips, he added, but at best they were an extraordinary operation and the load in each case was limited to the fuel, crew and equipment.

EAT RAT POISON

Los Angeles, March 28.—(AP)—SIX children were in serious condition today from the effects of rat poison, which they ate from a can found in an alley near their homes.

The children, Loren 9, James 7 and John McCoy 5, Irene 6, Lorena 3, Theresa Gerardin, 11 months old. The McCoy and Gerardin homes are on opposite sides of the alley.

As soon as they had eaten the poison, the children began screaming. At the hospital the patients were reported in serious condition.

"ONLY THE BRAVE" HERE TODAY AND TOMORROW

Gary Cooper Takes Lead in Story of Civil War Times; "Condemned" Coming Sunday.

Gary Cooper, recently seen in the title role of "The Virginian," is doing his gallanties again today and Saturday at the State in "Only the Brave." For many a feminine heart the foregoing statement, brief as it is, will no doubt be sufficient recommendation for his new offering. There is something about this tall, manly Montana youth that seems to mark him as the most perfect American type. He is virile and gallant, but yet not given to thunderous outpourings of unseemly emotion. His quiet courage inspires hero-worship in the hearts of all who behold him and hear him in his masterful work on the talking screen.

Mary Brian, who was his leading lady in "The Virginian," is seen with him once more, and they make a marvelous team. "Only the Brave" deals with the crinoline days when Grant and Lee were saying it with cannon and troops. Gary Cooper is a cavalry captain on the Union side, who embittered because his sweetheart has jilted him, volunteers for spy duty. He is sent behind the Southern lines with a packet of false dispatches. His plan is to be arrested and to have the false dispatches discovered by the enemy, who will be misled into a fatal movement of troops. But he meets Miss Brian and the plot then becomes a series of adventures in which love and duty fight for eminence.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy will be seen and heard in another comedy riot, "Double Whoopee." The surrounding program will also include an act by Van and Schenk, a talking screen snapshot and the latest screen news.

RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—An item of $450,000 for Delaware river improvement and one for $395,000 for Milwaukee harbor, Wisconsin, was contained in an allotment of $12,000,000 for rivers and harbors work made today by Secretary Hurley.

The sum of $2,700,000 also was allotted for river maintenance work on the Missouri river, and that of this amount $2,200,000 was for the work from Kansas City to the mouth.

A $20,000 item for Boston harbor improvement and $15,000 for examination and survey of the first New York Engineer District were included in the rivers and harbors allotment.

CHICAGO WALKS ABOUT IN STREETS OF SLUSH

Chicago, March 28.—(AP)—Chicago splashed about today in two billion tons of slush.

First came the winter gale, raging madly and whipping spring far southward; then the snow, two days and nearly 20 inches of it; and then came the thaw.

Winter's echo, the weather bureau reported, laid a seige of two billion tons of snow on Chicago and its environs.

The thaw brought an approach to normal transportation—clearing bus lines and freeing street car rails. Suburban service approached regularly.

Throughout the city and suburbs, 40,000 unemployed were engaged at $1 an hour to aid the sun dispense the snow.

Last Night's Fights

Indianapolis—Tracy Cox, knocked out Manuel Castro, Cincinnati, 2.
 Moine, Ill.—Johnny Fulton, Cedar Rapids, Ia., outpointed Billy Hoop, Rock Island, Ill., 10.
 Akron, Ohio—Al. Nerson, Columbus, knocked out "Wilson of Birmingham" 1.

R. Eillon in the United States, made all the running from Valentine's Brook on the first time around the course but dropped out of running at the same jump on the second time over the course. McLeray's Belle, Shaun Goulin and Sir Lindsay challenged Glangesia at the same time, taking the lead in the order named with Glangesia dropping back to fourth position.
 From the last time over Valentine's Brook, McLeray's Belle led until the three leaders reached the last fence. The three took the barrier closely bunched but Shaun Goulin came up with a long drive to deprive W. Wilson's mare of a victory by a neck.
 Sir Lindsay remained in the running to the final steeple to finish one of the most thrilling races in recent years.
 Six of the field of 41 starters completed the course with Royal Arch II finishing last of the group. M. D. Blair's Bally Hamwood was fifth. Glangesia, after relinquishing the lead to the first three finishers, wound up in fourth place.
 Shaun Goulin was ridden to victory by T. Cullinan, the same jockey who rode Billy Barton for Howard Bruce in the American horse's memorable 1928 run, in which he led to the last fence.

SKY IS OVERCAST

Aintree, Eng., March 28.—(AP.)—The sky was hazy and generally overcast today as almost a quarter of a million spectators gathered at the famous Aintree course for the 91st running of the historic Grand National.
 The forecast was for showers this afternoon, but it was thought that if the rain held off until after 3:30 p. m. the forty or so horses who will face the post would have an excellent track.
 The condition of the track, which started the day in sticky shape because of a light rain yesterday and last night, grew better as the day advanced with the aid of light winds and occasional glimpses of the sun.
 Visibility from the stands was fair though the far away jumps faded away in a hazy mist.
 A large contingent of Americans was on hand to follow the fortunes of the four American entries; J. H. Whitney's Sir Lindsay, a favorite; Gordon Selfridge's Ruddyman, Stephen Sanford's Sandy Hook and Victor Emanuel's Royal Arch II.

Bruins Tounce Maroons And Reach Final Round

Montreal Team Beaten 5 to 1 Before Overflow Crowd At Boston Garden; Rangers vs. Canadians.

New York, March 28.—(AP.)—The six national hockey league teams which started only a week ago in the playoffs for the Stanley Cup and the world's professional championship have been reduced to three contenders, and the Boston Bruins still are overwhelming favorites to retain their title.
 Boston again is a finalist due to its third and most decisive victory over the Montreal Maroons last night in the fourth game of the first place series, while the others, the New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens, have just begun to fight.
 The Bruins won their series by a margin of three games to one by trouncing the Maroons last night, 5 to 1. The Rangers, third place winners, and the Canadians, victors in the second place playoffs, open their struggle for two victories in three games at Montreal tonight while the Bruins are getting a well earned rest.

Game Last Night.—The first round assault for possession of Lord Stanley's gift to Hockeydom, the cup signifying the championship of the world, has been repulsed by the Bruins and today the baffled Maroons left for Montreal.
 Led in the attack by a Montreal baby, Marty Barry, the Boston team overwhelmed the Canadian skaters last night, 5-1, for the third victory of four contests and won the series. A well earned rest awaits them while Les Canadiens and the New York Rangers decide the issue of the other finalist for a Montreal possession of the prized trophy.
 With no such protracted efforts as in two fiercely fought overtime games in the series, the Bruins showed convincing superiority by scoring five times before the invaders scored at all.

Barry Is Hero.—Young Barry, drafted last spring from the New Haven team of the Canadian-American League, tallied in the final minutes of the opening period on a pass from Galbraith. Early in the next session, he passed to Captain Freddie Hitchman for

"BIG ED" WALSH SERIOUSLY SICK

Peritonitis Develops After Operation for Ruptured Appendix at Meriden.

Meriden, March 28.—(AP.)—"Big" Ed Walsh, one of the greatest pitchers in baseball history, was in a critical condition in a hospital today, after an operation for appendicitis.
 Although he described Walsh as a "very sick man" Dr. I. S. Otis, who performed the operation, said he had strong hopes for his recovery. The physician said the operation had revealed a ruptured appendix and that peritonitis had developed.
 Walsh became acutely ill after reaching his home in South Meriden from the south where he had been visiting major league training camps in his capacity as a scout for the Chicago White Sox. The family physician, Dr. John E. Stoddard, was called and advised an immediate operation. Dr. Otis said it would be several days before a crisis was reached.

McLARNIN TO MEET THOMPSON TONIGHT

New York, March 28.—(AP.)—Two of the best welterweights in the business, Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver Irishman, and Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco negro, are matched in the main ten rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight.
 McLarnin, possibly the hardest puncher for his weight in the game, ruled a 2 to 1 favorite over Thompson, who has never been knocked out in a ring career that has included 259 bouts.

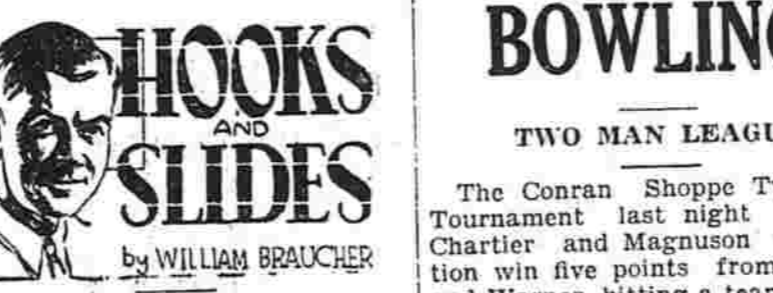

MAUREEN ORCUTT WINS GOLF MATCH

Southern Pines, March 28.—(AP.)—Having triumphed over stern competition Miss Maureen Orcutt, today listed the mid-south women's annual mid-south tournament to win the title with a score of 241 for the 34 hole event.
 Among those who bowed before Miss Orcutt was Miss Glenn Colett, National Women's champion with a 240, who finished second.
 Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, came third with a 245.

"MOTHER HUBBARD" LOOKS ON

Some one probably smacked a beautiful double, reminding Connie Mack and Bing Miller (1) of a similar hit from Bing's bat that won a world championship for the A's last fall. The scene is the Athletics' Fort Myers, Fla., training camp. Roger Cramer (2), hard-hitting rookie infielder, figures extensively in Connie's plans, as does Jim Keesey (3), first baseman, who should prove a capable understudy to Jimmy Foxx.

"SPEC" MEADOWS
 The Cincinnati baseball team of almost 50 years ago had a pitcher by the name of Will White. He was looked upon more or less as a freak for he wore glasses, even while doing duty on the mound.
 The major leagues were without a be-spectacled player until 1914 when the St. Louis Cardinals bought a likely-looking prospect from Durham in the Carolina Association. His name was Lee Meadows and he wore glasses. It had been so long since "Will White" had passed from baseball that fans had almost forgotten that a baseball player could wear glasses. They said Meadows would never get any place. But he did.
 Only the other day, Uncle Wilbert Robinson concluded the Lee Meadows might be of great help to his Robins this year. He decided to give the 36-year-old moundsman the chance he asked.
 For several days Meadows tried his best sales talk on the Round Robin. It began to look like the veteran would not be able to pay off before. He was a mighty good pitcher, you'll remember, and if his arm's as good as he says it is, Brooklyn will have gained a winning pitcher.
 It seems to me that Uncle Wilbert has everything to gain and nothing to lose. He isn't gambling at all for Meadows only asks for a chance.
 "If I can't pitch winning ball for you, I don't want a dime of your money," the be-spectacled twirler told Robbie. "I don't want a contract, either, until I've demonstrated to everyone's satisfaction my qualifications. If you're convinced that I'm a pitcher who can win games, though, I'll need a major league salary."
 Fair Shake All Around
 It sounds fair enough, doesn't it? Brooklyn won't have to pay for something they aren't getting, as in the case of Dazzy Vance and his $25,000 salary last year. Meadows must demonstrate his qualifications before he gets any money. It's a case of "satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded."
 Meadows broke into the big show with the Cards, but went to the Phillies in 1919 in a trade. John McGraw wanted Lee in the biggest kind of way while he was with the Phils—and Lee wanted to play for the Giant manager, too—but no deal was arranged. Meadows finally was traded by the Phils to Pittsburgh where the be-spectacled one participated in two world series. He drew his release last year when the Bucs decided to fill his place on the roster with a youngster.
 It is said that Meadows could not see his catcher's signals without his glasses. With them on, however, he was a dependable pitcher. His best season was in 1925 when he pitched 19 victories and was defeated but 10 times. Several times in his career he has batted over the 300 mark.

BOXERS MUST FIGHT ON PERCENTAGE BASIS

Chicago, March 28.—(AP.)—No more guarantees will be paid boxers for playing their trade in the Chicago Stadium. Henceforth the boys, if they wish to fight, must gamble on a percentage basis.
 Sheldon Clark, president of the stadium corporation, said "this change would be made."
 "We have reached the conclusion that boxing must be conducted on a business-like basis," he explained.

LOCAL TEAM PLAYS SPRINGFIELD FIVE

Following the Helge Pearson-Esther Anderson wedding at the Swedish Lutheran Church tomorrow afternoon a large crowd of the young people are planning a trip to Springfield where the Luther League basketball team will meet the Worcester First Lutheran church team in the third and deciding game of the season, on the floor of the Springfield College gym.
 It is expected that two bus loads and several private cars will make the trip and all who are planning to go should make arrangements at once by calling Herbert Johnson. The Manchester team won the first game at the Hollister street school some weeks ago but was soundly trounced on Worcester's home floor. It is probable that the local line-up will include Harry Benson, former Plainfield Pro, and William "Tubby" Johnson, former High school star.

600 HEAR CONCERT OF MUSICAL ART QUARTET

Hour-long Program of Chamber Music Delights Audience in Troubadours' Affair.

Nearly 600 persons greeted the program of chamber music by the Musical Art Quartet of New York at the High school auditorium last night with varying degrees of appreciation, ranging from polite attention during the opening numbers to near acclaim of the second group of more popular selections. The large audience and generous applause proved that Manchester's reaction to stringed instrument music is of a favorable turn and more concerts of this type seem a certainty in that the Center church Troubadours plan to sponsor a series of three for the season of 1930-31.

The applause, however, that greeted Felix Fox, renowned concert pianist, overshadowed the rest for the moment. His first number, "Ballade, A Flat" by Chopin brought forth a burst of handclapping that doubled with his second offering, "Valse Caprice" by Phillip. His playing showed him to be a master musician. He responded to the opening group of numbers by the quartet, of a type as yet more or less unfamiliar to most local musical following, brought out a marked display of skill in the various passages of "Allegro ma non troppo," "Lento," "Molto vivace," and as a finale "Vivace ma non troppo," all by Dvorak. This last offering with its quickly changing moods, was the hit of the group.

More popular numbers made up the second group and the audience was quick to respond to "Molly on the Shore," by Grainger, "Tango," by Albeniz, and "Song of the Brook," by Nevin. All three are of a lightness that appealed to everyone and the quartet interpreted them with an enthusiasm that in no way interfered with the technical finesse of the ensemble. The musicians were recalled twice for encores.

The final number by the quartet accompanied by Mr. Fox, was "Allegro Brillante," by Schumann and fittingly brought to a close a program of little more than an hour's length, brief enough to avoid satiety and long enough to leave pleasant memories in the minds of the audience.

The Musical Art Quartet is comprised of Sascha Jacobsen, first violin; Paul Bernard, second violin; Louis Kaufman, viola, and Marie Roemet-Rosmanoff, cello. The pianoforte used was a Mason & Hamlin, through the courtesy of Gallup and Alfred of Hartford.

Pledge cards were passed out by the Troubadours for the 1930-31 concert season, when it is planned to give three instrumental programs, each to feature a noted vocal soloist. The cost of the three concerts is low and it is hoped to obtain enough popular support to make the undertaking a success.

COSGROVE MAY RESIGN

Dublin, March 28.—(AP)—The Fianna Fail, which is the Irish opposition, insisted today that the government headed by President William T. Cosgrave resign, after its defeat last night in the Dail on an opposition measure. Twenty members of the Dail were absent when the government lost by 66 votes to 64.

Resignation was considered by President Cosgrave and his ministry last night, but decision finally was deferred until today. Sean T. O'Kelly acted as leader of the opposition in the absence of Eamonn de Valera, who is in the United States.

Resignation does not involve a general election, the Constitution providing for a change of government within the statutory life of the Dail without an appeal to the country.

Doris Matthews, lady's maid, is murdered Friday night after 11:30 in a summerhouse on the Berkeley estate, by a blow with a heavy perfume flask, presented to Mrs. George Berkeley by Seymour Crosby.

Under suspicion: Mr. and Mrs. George Berkeley, who have quarreled late Friday night over Clorinda's engagement to Crosby, close friend of the social secretary, Mrs. Lambert; Gigi Berkeley, who unaccountably sprinkled perfume on murder flack; Dick Berkeley, who, after having spent the night, as he says in the lower rooms, with Doris, turns up while his mother is accusing Eugene Arnold, chauffeur, engaged to Doris, of having murdered both Doris and Dick out of jealousy.

Mrs. Berkeley, after many lies, admits she slapped Doris about 7 o'clock Friday evening; that she later instructed Doris to wait up for her, but insists maid was not there when she went up to bed at 11:40. Roused print of Doris's mouth on bathroom mirror proves girl was in Mrs. Berkeley's room late Friday but that a stranger took place.

CHAPTER XXIII

"Think it's funny, do you?" Captain Strawn asked savagely, as Gigi doubled up with hysterical laughter. "Well, you won't think it's so funny when I put your mother, your brother and your sister under arrest for murder."

"Are you going to leave me out?" she mocked him, and laughed again, but her hysteria had been successfully conquered by Strawn's shocking threat. "Oh, don't be so silly!" she added passionately, her little brown fists clenched.

"Right where it was, young woman!" Strawn growled, but Dundee knew that his confidence was shaken. "However, I've got one little job to do before I've finished."

And he strode out of Clorinda's room, without a backward glance even for Dundee. But that young man was quite sure where he was going and why, and equally sure that he would return to report failure.

"I'm very sorry, indeed, Miss Berkeley," he began hesitatingly, his face going red with embarrassment, "that I must appear a most ungrateful and obnoxious guest. Please believe me when I say—"

"Oh, don't bother! It's quite all right, Clorinda interrupted coldly, as she sank into a boudoir chair and closed her eyes.

"But you do keep dreadful company, Bonnie Dundee!" Gigi accused him. "I've always shivered ecstatically over the third degree grillings in detective stories—but I never shall again! Ugh!" and she shuddered.

"I'm glad you're not as angry with me as you should be," he told her humbly.

"After all, murder has been committed," she justified her own tolerance. "And you're my friend."

She gave him her hand with a new shyness, which he found very sweet and very touching. They were still standing, with hands clasped, when Captain Strawn came striding back into the room, his face a thundercloud.

With that hot little hand in his, Dundee could not restrain the impulse to decrease her anxiety. "Did you find any perfume on Mrs. Berkeley's skirt or on the soles of her shoes, Chief?"

"Oh, don't be so silly! Women don't go around murdering maids because they are so insolent!"

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
©1930 by NEA SERVICE INC.

We hear a lot about "normal" children. How about the normal parent? Shouldn't parents be normal, too?

First we should define the word. I've looked it up. My thesaurus says "regular," "a pattern." Therefore, as a pattern is something to be copied, we take it that by normal we mean idea or right.

Asked off-hand what the normal parent is, I think we'd all answer: "Oh, the one that would go through fire and water for his youngsters, give them the earth if he could afford it, feed them, shelter them, clothe them, and educate them till it hurt to stop."

Well, we'd all be wrong. The normal parent is made of no such stuff.

That parent who gives in to his child, and over-indulges him until it saps character is anything but a pattern. He is not normal.

It's selfishness! The truth of the matter is that such a parent, either ignorantly or wisely, is gratifying his own selfish emotions by such procedure. He doesn't do it for the good of the child as a usual thing, but so that the child will think: "What a kind mother I have! What a dandy father I've got! How I love them."

Well, then we jump to another extreme, the hard, exacting parent, ubiquitous last century, but fortunately nearly obsolete now—the one who takes his pound of flesh for all misdemeanor and whose word is the law of the Persians and of the Medes. The mark-time, too-strict parent who shackles his child with all sorts of orders and who is unforgiving and unrelenting if he doesn't live up to them.

The third class of abnormal parents is a large one. These are the people who unwittingly impress their wills and personality on their children, often in the most insidious way, but none the less, it is insidious, pernicious, and destructive of all upstanding individualism and personality in the plastic, growing child.

How initiative is killed The children of such dominating parents (not dominating, just merely dominating) usually grow up to be nonentities or at least colorless and lost in the crowd, unless freed from the influence quite early. Initiative dies too often in the bud.

The dominating parent is seldom a good parent—not in the sense we stand back on the side lines and does his directing from ambush, more or less. He buries his own personality to a certain extent so as to give that of his children a chance to wax strong and grow.

Probably no parent belongs clearly to any one type. Most of us are composites of all three. But it makes us think. What can we change about our present method of governing the children so that they may be better parents, can be normal? The best way is to avoid extremes and above all things to cultivate in ourselves a sense of fairness.

"The extent of your prying into our family affairs seems to have been unlimited," Clorinda answered contemptuously, but there was no doubt of the panic in her dark eyes. "The answer is—no!"

"Was it to meet John Maxwell that you stole out of the house last night?" he went on.

"No, and again—no!" she cried hoarsely. "I was alone, alone! How many times do I have to swear to that?"

"Please forgive me," Dundee pleaded, "but was it not your love for John Maxwell which made you decide on your walk last night to side with your father against your mother in the matter of your engagement to Mr. Crosby?"

"I—Clorinda drew a sharp breath of pain. "I refuse to answer! And I fail to see how the state of my feelings toward any man concerns the murder of Doris Matthews!"

"Miss Berkeley, Doris was murdered, we believe, during the hour you were walking about the grounds of Hillcrest. If John Maxwell was with you and if your story is otherwise true, he could do a great deal to corroborate that story, to furnish you with an alibi," he pointed out, very gently.

"I need no alibi, Mr. Dundee, for a crime I did not commit—a crime for which I had no conceivable motive. And—correct me if I am wrong," she added icily, "I believe a motive is still considered necessary for a conviction!"

There was a loud knock on the door, Captain Strawn answered. "Excuse me, sir, but a reporter has been talking to the servants through a window, and Arnold, the chauffeur, is pretty wild. Says he has something to tell you, sir," said Plainclothesman Earper.

AIRY BLANKETS
On sunny days, put your blankets on the line to air. Pin your feather pillows out for air, too, but not on a sunny day as the heat of the sun brings out the oil in the feathers.

LAMP SHADES
Nothing changes a room more than new lamp shades. If the fad end of the winter finds the living room not so alluring as it should be, a lively looking shade may do wonders.

COAT DRESS
Coat dresses of the new sheer woolsens are excellent this spring. A blue one, with surprise closing, is worn over a printed slip that has a high collar and bow tie.

POINTED GOSETS
Paris shows a fine little printed silk frock in pinky tones that has godets in its skirt that point up to a yoke, making it a zig-zag line.

CLASSIC PUMP
Correct early spring footwear emphasizes the chic of jumps. Blue ones are very good, soft browns and black and many of them wear little tailored bowknots of leather.

YOUTH STEPS FORTH IN ROLE SU-DEB

In Jacket Suit

The little sub-deb is looking forward to the first days of Spring to don her new jacket costume.

She is just thrilled with the idea of wearing a jacket suit that copies the elder mode both in line and fabric.

The one sketched is one of the most practical outfits offered by Paris.

The skirt with hip yoke and jacket with comfortable pretty frilled neckline are of light navy blue wool crepe. The tuck-in bodice is orange-red crepe de chine with ring motifs in blue.

Style No. 601 comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

It's easily made! The saving is great!

It is also very smart made of printed dimity in yellow and white with jacket of yellow pique. Pink shantung with bodice of white swiss with pink dots, and red and white printed pique dress with red pique jacket are cute suggestions.

I feel certain you will be pleased with this popular model. And I wish to take this opportunity to call to your attention that there is a splendid selection of children's frocks in our new Spring Fashion Magazine. It would be a good idea to send 10 cents additional when you order this pattern. Then I'll mail you a copy of the book.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

BEST IS AN ESSENTIAL PART OF ANY GOOD HEALTH PROGRAM

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In a consideration of health standards and of the healthful conditions of human life, Dr. William R. Emerson has given special attention to the question of over-fatigue.

After all physical defects are removed, after a proper diet is established, children will still fail to gain if they burn up too much body energy and thus fail to use food to aid the structure of the body.

Doctor Emerson points out that this fact was not appreciated until an observation was made of a boy of eight who had failed to gain in weight for a long period of time suddenly broke his leg. His activities were limited for three weeks and he promptly gained four pounds.

In an endeavor to build up children who had not put on weight properly, therefore, regular rest periods before meals were established and the results were prompt. The human being does not rest nearly so much as he should, particularly in conditions of modern civilization.

We are living at a much greater speed than man used to live, but we have failed to realize that the greater the speed the greater the wear and tear on the human body.

The child today is constantly stimulated not only by the increasing amount of knowledge that it is compelled to absorb in the school, but by the outside activities in the form of dances, parties, games and special lessons in piano playing, foreign languages and other extra school activities.

The problem of fatigue means a study not only of physical fatigue but also of mental fatigue. Fatigue is associated with mental irritability which represents the reaction of the human being against too much stimulation. Business men are more inclined to become angry in the afternoon than early in the morning.

By far the greatest number of accidents occur to workers after four o'clock in the afternoon. When one is fatigued, trifles are magnified and it is not safe to make important judgments when one is over-tired.

Finally, the person who is over-tired fails to sleep well. He worries about little things and thus a vicious circle is formed. Among the particular causes of fatigue and tiredness are worry, pain, monotony, irritation and rapid growth.

Much depends on the temperament of the person who is concerned. Some people refuse to worry, to become angry or irritated, or indeed to become excited. They are much less likely to show fatigue and its effects than those who are temperamentally on the edge of an upset most of the time.

Maple Gelatine
One and one-half tablespoons granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, ¾ cup hot milk, ¼ cup maple syrup, 2 eggs (whites), few grains salt.

Soften gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Add scalding hot milk and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Let stand until mixture begins to stiffen. Put unbeaten whites of eggs into a large bowl and beat until stiff, gradually adding maple syrup. Slowly add gelatine, beating constantly. Add salt and beat with beater until stiff. SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

There's nothing quite like the taste of fresh maple syrup. The "first run," which usually is considered the lightest colored and most delicately flavored, is delicious served plain with warm biscuits, pancakes or waffles. Desserts sweetened with real maple syrup have a flavor that can't be imitated.

The housewife who plans for a small family will find that a full gallon of syrup may spoil before she can use it up. The syrup not wanted for immediate use in the spring can be canned in pint jars to be used later as wanted. Heat syrup to the boiling point, pour into sterilized jars and seal. Wrap each glass jar in a damp towel to completely cover the jar—bottom and sides. This prevents the jar from breaking when the boiling syrup is poured into it. Fill jar perfectly full and seal at once.

Since maple syrup is usually less expensive bought by the gallon than in smaller quantities, and since there are so many ways to use it for "special" occasions, a gallon of maple syrup is a good investment.

Maple gelatine is a simple dessert that even an invalid or small child can enjoy.

Maple mousse, maple parfait and maple frozen custard are amazingly good and easy to make.

Maple syrup cake and cookies are ideal for spring-time refreshments.

WINDOW SASHES.
You should oil your window sashes with linsed oil after a winter of dry heat. To keep them in perfect condition they should be oiled each month.

WOODEN SPOONS.
Always use a wooden spoon to beat cake or other food in an enameled pan. It does not crack the bowl as a metal spoon does.

WINDOW SECRETS.
The secret of clean, polished windows lies in the clean, soft cloths you wipe them with. Rinse them off with ammonia water and dry and rub with clean cloths.

SHABBY UMBRELLA.
If your umbrella looks a bit shabby, open it and wash it with a brush dipped in ammonia water. Rinse under the shower. Open to dry.

IMMACULATE SHIELDS.
If you rinse shields in water to which a little ammonia has been added, they will shed that unpleasant rubber odor and be fresh smelling.

EXPECT PRISONERS TO ARRIVE TONIGHT

Wethersfield, Conn., March 28.—(AP)—Speeding north are County Detective Edward J. Hickey, Parole Officer George H. Bradley of the state prison, and Deputy Sheriff Harry F. Comstock, with Watson Moulthrop, Roland Lalone and Leo Landry, who escaped from the institution on January 4 and are being returned from Jacksonville, Fla., to serve their sentences here.

The progress of the party north would indicate that it would be here sometime tonight.

Lalone and Moulthrop were given life sentences for murder of a Jacksonville officer and the former faces a life-long term here for murder of a state officer. Moulthrop will have to serve about 35 years and if he ever is freed he will face the sentence imposed in the Florida court.

Landry must serve out a term for robbery and an additional sentence for having escaped.

Kansas is the only state that is voting "bone dry" in The Literary Digest's nation-wide poll on Prohibition, according to the third week's tabulation of over a million votes which will appear in Saturday's issue of the periodical.

Of the 1,244,483 postcard ballots returned, 527,388, or over 42 per cent of the total, vote for repeal of the Prohibition Amendment, 383,117 favor modification to permit light wines and beers, while nearly 27 per cent of those voting to date, 333,978, urge the strict enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Law.

The returns evidence a slight gain in the ratio of those favoring repeal. Of the twenty States whose returns are listed in the current tabulations, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota and Washington show more votes in favor of Enforcement than for either modification or repeal.

In Missouri, a strong dry vote runs considerably ahead of that for modification, but the "Show Me's" vote for repeal is greater than for either enforcement or modification.

that has changed toward a dryer attitude. Attention is called by the magazine to the fact that "the dries are voting" as evidenced by a substantial balloting for strict enforcement in known arid centers.

The Literary Digest states that its editorial policy of nonpartisan-ship and its capacity as a gatherer and tabulator only of the ballots, forbids the magazine interpreting the vote as either wet or dry. However, they quote a number of newspapers that maintain the poll shows a preponderant wet sentiment in the country so far as reported.

"Although the wets undeniably have the best of it in this tabulation," The Literary Digest states, "let it be remembered that the poll is still in its infancy. Many states remain to be heard from, and immense dry areas have yet to be given a voice. Mail bags swollen with ballots and letters are being dumped by the dozen in the Digest headquarters. The mere work of sorting the mail is prodigious and time-consuming."

"No mind can foresee what the next tabulation may disclose, or how soon the dries may turn the tables on their opponents and change the poll into a neck and neck race."

"Kansas still stands like the rock of Gibraltar for Prohibition. Enforcement as is. The imposing mass of its dry vote in ratio to the population of the State, will go far toward squashing any sporadic local rumors that 'the dries are not voting.' For Kansas, the supreme citadel of Prohibition, is voting magnificently, and from no State do we receive more heartfelt petitions for extra ballots in bulk—petitions which we are obliged to deny to preserve the integrity of our system for the impersonal distribution of ballots.

"North Dakota has slipped into a dryer attitude since last week, when its vote for Repeal slightly outnumbered its vote for Enforcement.

"As for those perennial fountains, Illinois, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania, they are still spouting the wettest kind of ballots with no sign of a let-up, while sunny California still throws her weight into the Repeal column, and further contributions to the dominant repeal total are furnished by Connecticut, The District of Columbia, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio and Wisconsin."

In the previous but considerably smaller Prohibition Poll undertaken by The Literary Digest, in 1922, the third week's returns on the same three questions showed the vote as 135,834 for strict enforcement, 145,272 for modification; and 76,039 for repeal.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Bologna—The history of the sausage that made Bologna famous has been written by one Signor Colombini. He finds it was mentioned in Homer's "Odyssey" and was manufactured on a large scale in 1376 when the workmen formed a guild. In 1661 three lashes of the cat o' nine tails were ordered as punishment for anybody making Bologna, as the sausage is known, out of any meat but pork.

New York—Goodbye to burlesque on Broadway. The Columbia, last theater of its kind in the Roaring Forties, is to be razed for a movie house.

Istanbul—There are 240 Christian churches in this city and Moslems have made so many complaints about the ringing of bells that the hours have been restricted by the city authorities.

Auckland, New Zealand—Says the will of Bishop Cleary of Auckland: "My mind always having been in revolt against the pagan note of hopelessness in the dead march in Saul, I direct that it shall not be played at or in connection with any of the ceremonies connected with my interment." The will also forbade flowers on the coffin or grave.

New York—George Moore's scheme for reducing the price of amusement has gone askew. He hired a taxi in Newark and toured New York. When the meter registered he started French leave but was arrested. Refusing to pay a fine because it was higher than imposed for similar offenses previously he got 15 days in jail.

Zurich—Switzerland, noted for its milk and cheese, produces much beer—70 gallons annually for every man, woman and child from 59 breweries.

were ordered held for the Federal Court at Boston by U. S. Commissioner R. B. Walsh.

Martin Roth, alleged brewmaster, was held in $1,000 and four alleged bartenders, William J. Galvin, John Fanning, John W. Eurt and Hugh Finnelly, were each held in $1,000. Forty barrels and 15 hogsheads of beer were seized in the raid.

They've got Front Drive cars, but some husband's claim they will still be driven from the Rear seat.

It's funny that a man can see a well-filled stocking three blocks away in congested traffic, but in the open country he doesn't notice a locomotive as big as a house dragging 40 box cars.

From all reports a good many college students spend less time trying to pass their examinations than they do in attempting to pass the car ahead.

Cross Crossings Cautiously. A Locomotive has the Right of Way because it is Stronger than an Automobile.

It must make a policeman terribly mad to wear a bullet proof vest and then get hit somewhere else.

HISTORY IN ALMANACS.

London, O.—(AP)—A 50 year history of the world chronicled in almanacs has been preserved by John Fraher here. Starting shortly after the Franco-Prussian war, Fraher saved his copies of J. Cruber's Hagerstown and Country Almanacs, all published at Hagerstown, Md.

HOW "FROSH" STARTED.

Eugene, Ore.—(AP)—Dr. F. G. G. Schmidt, professor of German at the University of Oregon, believes the word "frosh" came from the German "Frosch," meaning frog. That term was applied to the "greenest" student in Goethe's "Faust."

PINE-NEEDLE WOOL.

Berlin.—A chemical treatment of pine needles by German chemists has produced a useful substitute for wool. The process consists in removing the resin from the needles by a chemical agent. When the chemical finishes its work, a strong fibre resembling hemp is the result. This is woven into heavy fabrics.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The Tinymites met a London lad who promptly said, "I'd be real glad to lead you to a little street that you will much enjoy. I'll not tell now what you'll find there, but it's a treat that's really rare. I know you'll like it 'cause it pleases every girl and boy." "Oh, thank you kindly," Scouty said. "We'll follow, if you'll go ahead. Is it too far to walk, or shall we take an omnibus? There's surely one to take us there and we will gladly pay your fare. We'll try to be real kind to you 'cause you are kind to us." "All right, we'll ride," replied the lad. "If you grew tired that would be sad. And, anyway, it's heaps of fun to sit away up high. The bus will shortly take us there. A sweet ride in the open air. When on a towering bus you feel that you can touch the sky." And so they rode for miles and miles and all the Tinymites spread smiles upon their little faces. They didn't know where they were bound. The omnibus kept traveling 'round. Then Clowny said, "I wish I knew where we are going to." "At last," they reached a narrow street. The London lad said, "Well, your treat is now about to start, boys. Come, we'll hop off the bus. Walk down this street and you will find a lot of birds of every kind. On seeing you they'll chirp aloud and start an awful fuss." And, sure enough the Tinymites found that birds were hanging all around in pretty little cages. They all thought the sight was grand. The air was filled with songs galore and Scouty shouted, "Sing some more." Then one cute little bird hopped out and stood on Clowny's hand. (Clowny has his picture drawn in the next story.)
