'OBEY DRY LAW,' EDITORS TOLD BY WICKERSHAM

Head of Hoover Board Says Individual Has No Right to Procure and Drink Liquor Under Constitution.

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—Chairman Wickersham, of the Hoover law enforcement commission today told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that the individual had "No inalienable right" to procure and consume liquor.

He said there was no pretense that such a right was protected by the Constitution but that the excuse amendment "constitutes an inexcusable invasion of personal liberty." He said a "strange confusion of ideas is apparent in the exposition of the protestants against the national prohibition law."

It is comparatively venial for one to break the law, with one's eyes open to possible consequences," he continued. "But to unite with others in openly aiding and abetting the violation of any law upon the plea that it ought not to be enforced is inviting and cannot be enforced, is inviting revolution and anarchy."

Reviews Long Fight After reviewing the long fight waged to ban liquor, Wickersham said opinions differ as to whether it may be found desirable to modify the Eighteenth Amendment.

"But I appear to you, and through you to the press of America," he said, "to aid in demonstrating that so long as the law stands as it does now, no patriotic American should advocate flouting its provisions, or boast of violating its commands."

The law enforcement chairman asked the editors:

"Will you not choose to exercise your power in behalf of not unrestricted license, but of observance of the law?"

Not Wish of Majority.
He said experience "has demon-

BENNETT OUSTED BY STATE BOARD

Officer at Veterans' Home Promptly Dismissed on Charge of Clubbing Inmate

Hartford, April 18.—(AP)—A decision given with the promptness of a summary court martial by the Connecticut Veterans' Home commission last night relieved Captain Arthur C. Bennett, executive officer at Firth's Home for Soldiers in Noroton of his assignment after charges of harsh and brutal treatment of an inmate had been sustained.

The aggrieved veteran is William Fitzpatrick of Norwalk who claimed the executive officer clubbed him on the night of April 9. The commission dismissed Bennett, effective May 1.

Sergeant Joseph Lyons, orderly in the dormitory on the night in question, charged by Fitzpatrick of having punched him during the scuffle of Bennett and the veteran, is retained by dismissal of the charge. This mixup took place while Bennett was trying to land Fitzpatrick in the guard house.

The commission's action followed after the opening hearing at the capital yesterday.

Report Wild Parties. The charges against both Bennett and Lyons were preferred by the commission which had been at the home Tuesday to look into reports of drunken parties, liquor smuggling and general tendency of inmates to make trouble. The commission, however, set aside all references to liquor conditions and gave its attention solely to the question of treatment of the veteran wards of the state.

Clear Weather Easter Is Today's Prediction

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—A clear-weather Easter for the east, New England and a part of the south was promised today by the Weather Bureau.

Observers prophesied fair skies and moderate temperatures for most of the Washington forecast district but it was added that conditions in the south Atlantic and Gulf states were likely to be unsettled.

With the prospect of sun and balm, an army of children was expected to take part in the traditional Easter egg rolling on the White House lawn.

It will be a day for children only—as Easter Monday has been in the past for their parents, grandparents,

STATE BOARD REFUSES CHINA RELIEF LICENSE

Of Money Collected, Only Small Part Went to China, Officials Say in Refusing the Application.

Hartford, April 18.—(AP)—Because of an alleged organization set-up which indicates that it is a so-called "professional promotion," China Child Welfare, Incorporated, of New York, operator of a nationwide campaign for famine relief, has been refused a renewal of its license to raise money in Connecticut, it was announced yesterday by Julius J. Hadley, secretary of the State Board of Public Welfare.

Reason for Refusal. "The fact that out of the total amount raised last year, such a very small proportion actually was sent to China; that because so much authority is vested in your executive committee and by-laws in a quorum of your executive committee consisting of only three members, one of whom is the paid executive and because your present budget of $175,000 was adopted without the authority of your board of directors or executive committee" are given as the reasons for the action of the welfare board.

Granted a License.
A considerable difficulty arose a year ago, when the same organization made its first application for a license to solicit funds in the state, which was refused by the board. Protests from the New York headquarters forced the welfare board to grant a hearing, and finally to grant a license. However, more thoroughly convinced than ever that the campaign does not represent a worthy cause, the board refused to renew the license at its meeting last Wednesday.

STEAMERS COLLIDE SEAMAN IS HURT

One of Them Has Hole Stove In Side But Both Make Port Safely.

Lewes, Del., April 18.—(AP)—The steamships Sataria, Buenos Aires via New York for Philadelphia, and the steamer F. J. Luckenbach, Philadelphia for New York, were in collision in a dense fog 35 miles off the Delaware Capes late last night. One unidentified seaman of the Sataria was seriously injured and was brought to the Marine hospital here today.

The Sataria received a hole in her starboard side six feet by four above the water line. The Luckenbach was not seriously damaged.

Send Out S O S One of the freighters sent out a call for assistance, which was responded to by a Coast Guard patrol boat from the Cape May, N. J., Coast Guard base. The injured man was removed to the patrol boat which brought him to the hospital here. He was unconscious when he was received at the hospital.

Both the Sataria and the Luckenbach proceeded to Delaware Breakwater and after a preliminary examination of the damage, the Luckenbach left for New York.

The Sataria is anchored off the Breakwater hidden in the dense fog and details of the collision were not immediately available. The Sataria shipped some water through the hole in her side while coming to Breakwater.

Physicians at the hospital said they were unable to determine how seriously the seaman was injured. In a moment of consciousness he muttered the words "George" and "Number Six."

TREASURY BALANCE Washington, April 18.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for April 16 were $5,032,201.81; expenditures $42,054,567.46; balance $271,110,738.34.

PROBE ORDERED OF P. O. LEASES BY THE SENATE

Special Committee to Look Over Government Docu- ments; St. Paul Office is Offered as Fraud Example

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—The Senate today ordered an investigation of government leases of postoffice buildings.

The Blaine resolution provided sweeping inquiry into conditions surrounding leases in connection with such fraud and corruption have been charged was adopted by a viva voce vote.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, had insisted on the investigation, charging that fraud was rampant in the postoffice leases.

Representative Maas, Republican, Minnesota, had singled out the St. Paul Commercial postoffice lease as an example of the fraud he also contended was to be found in the leases of postal buildings.

The investigation will be made by a special committee of five Senators, authorized to act through a sub-committee holding sessions wherever it is deemed necessary. The committee has an initial authorization to spend $10,000 under the resolution, and authority to subpoena witnesses and documents.

ROCKET AIRPLANE A REALITY SOON

German Scientist Shows Test Of New Apparatus; Cross Ocean in Six Hours.

Berlin, April 18.—(AP)—Dr. Paul Heylandt, one of Germany's leading authorities on the application of liquid gases for industrial purposes predicts that the time is not far off when airplanes can be shot thousands of feet into the sky by means of a new type rocket motor and can reach the United States from Europe in from six to eight hours.

More than that, Dr. Heylandt says, so high will be the speed—between 300 and 600 miles an hour—of this rocket-propelled plane that the motors can be turned off over Newfoundland and the pilot can glide the rest of the way to New York.

Dr. Heylandt holds some 500 patents in all parts of the world with processes and apparatus. Interests like the German Dye Trust use his inventions under license and the Berlin Polytechnic has conferred an honorary degree upon him in recognition of his scientific achievements.

Reporter Sees Car The engineer received the correspondent of the Associated Press as the first newspaper man to see in action what had been carefully kept from the public although its deafening noise caused the whole neighborhood to wonder—namely Max Valler's rocket car.

"My real interest in Valler's car is that it affords a means of testing our rocket motor out practically," said Dr. Heylandt. "Our tests already have convinced me we have solved the problem of combining liquid fuel with pure liquid oxygen to achieve a continuous propulsive power. The next step will be to build a rocket motor into an airplane driven by an ordinary motor."

At Funeral of Slain Girl Clerk

While Washington police searched for her slayer, funeral services pictured here were held at Oak Grove, Va., for Mary Baker, Navy Department clerk, whose body was found lying in a culvert near the Arlington National Cemetery. The flag-draped casket is shown being borne to the grave, preceded by floral tributes from fellow workers in the Navy Department.

Following New Clues In Mary Baker Murder

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—After questioning Olga Skinner and Mildred Sperry, roommates of Mary Baker, who was slain under mysterious circumstances a week ago, authorities investigating the case said today they were following two new developments.

Two witnesses who saw a man beating a woman near the Navy Department building last Friday evening were to be taken before a suspect here.

After the funeral of Miss Baker, officers who wanted to question her roommates could not locate them. They were found in a Virginia town, near Richmond and readily consented to answer officers.

It was explained that they left

Senators Invite Him to Cap- itol to Examine Him on His Nomination.

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—The suggestion that the Senate judiciary committee invite Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to appear here for examination on his nomination to the Supreme Court, was made formally to committee members today by Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader.

JUDGE SILENT

Richmond, Va., April 18.—(AP)—Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina was non-committal here today when informed that his appearance before the Senate judiciary committee was being sought by Republican leaders for examination with respect to protests against his nomination to the Supreme Court. Judge Parker said he had not communicated with Washington officials in regard to his proposed appearance.

Judge Parker is here for the term of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

CLAIM THAT WOMAN WAS BURIED ALIVE

Grand Jury Declines to Take Action on Unusual Charge Of Two Women.

Grayson, Ky., April 18.—(AP)—The end of conjectures over charges that Mrs. Susce Vickers, 63, may have been buried alive March 29, was in sight today with the announcement that the Carter County Grand Jury had completed its investigation.

Indications were that the only action to come out of the charges that proper precautions were not taken to determine that Mrs. Vickers was dead, would be an indictment for slander already voted. The name of the person accused in the indictment was not made public until a warrant was served.

Witnesses were heard Wednesday and yesterday by the Grand Jury on the charges brought by two sisters, whose parents employed Mrs. Vickers in their home for 17 years. The two, Mrs. George S. Clay and Mrs. Houchell Johnson, told Circuit Judge G. W. E. Wolford that Mrs. Vickers was subject to fainting spells, would remain in a state of coma for long periods, and that perspiration was wiped from her face at the funeral, indicating, they thought, that she was not dead.

Mrs. Vickers died March 27 apparently of a heart attack while preparing the evening meal for herself and her husband near here.

HOOVER MENTIONED IN LETTER WRITTEN BY A WET OFFICIAL

Writer Expresses His Opin- ion That President is Be- ginning to Doubt Whether Prohibition Can Be En- forced—"Wants Time to Consider It But is Being Abused a Little Too Much," Letter Continues; Curran Again on Stand Today.

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—The name of President Hoover was brought into the Senate lobby committee investigation of wet and dry organizations today through a letter written by W. H. Stayton, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, expressed the opinion that the chief executive "is beginning to doubt whether prohibition can be enforced."

It was read before the lobby committee as it was questioning Henry H. Curran, president of the anti-prohibition association, for the third day concerning its activities in behalf of the repeal of the dry laws.

In his letter which was written last February to Charles S. Wood of Philadelphia, a vice president of the organization, Stayton said in part:

"My own feeling, as I talk to Senators, members of Congress and public officials here, that Mr. Hoover is beginning to doubt whether prohibition can be enforced. He wants to take plenty of time to consider it, but he is being abused a little too much."

Curran, who was not questioned about the Hoover reference, continued to attack the prohibition law as "indefensible" and predicted that it would be repealed within five years.

Raskob Missive. Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, placed in the record a letter written by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, during the latter part of last year, asking contributions for the organization from contributors to the Democratic campaign fund.

It was sent to 494 Democrats, the records showed, and brought in twelve contributions totaling $875.

A similar letter was sent to 240 Republicans by Laumon Dupont, an official of the association, and resulted in five contributions totaling $2,125.

The committee adjourned until Tuesday. Curran was directed to reappear then for further questioning.

CELEBRATE EASTER DESPITE RED BAN

Russian Christians Follow Old Customs Without In- terference from Officials.

Moscow, April 18.—(AP)—Despite recent onslaughts upon religion by the Atheistic societies and prohibition of the public sale of Easter eggs, cakes, candies and other paschal articles, the Easter holidays are being celebrated by Russia's Christians with only slight variations from those of previous years.

In most cases Russian housewives overcame the government's objection to the public sale of paschal tokens by making these articles at home themselves. As Easter is the biggest holiday in the Orthodox calendar, many families even borrowed money to enable them to entertain their friends at home with true Russian hospitality.

No Interference Good Friday was observed throughout the country in the traditional Orthodox manner, without any molestation on the part of the Soviet authorities or the Atheistic organization.

In accordance with the usual ritual of the Greek Orthodox church, figures representing Christ interred in coffins were borne by priests with great solemnity around the churches, while thousands of worshippers followed in procession.

Many parishes were so impoverished, however, that they could not afford to adopt the usual black draperies which adorn the churches on Good Friday.

The anti-God societies confined their activities to Atheistic lectures, films and unobtrusive indoor manifestations.

Great surprise was caused today by the announcement that trade union authorities had decided to recognize as holidays April 19, 20 and 21 which are the Easter days; May 30, Ascension Day; August 6, Transfiguration Day, and December 25 and 26, at Christmas time.

This applies to all workers in factories, state co-operative enterprises and other institutions where

WANTS BETTER ROADS

Editor, The Evening Herald: After reading the editors note at the end of my remarks regarding our roads, I feel called upon to request you print a reply to the same.

I heartily agree with anyone who says we spent $17,000 last year for oil to be used on our town roads. On a basis of one hundred and seventy-five miles of roads this would mean that it costs about $100 or a little over to oil a mile of road.

I also agree that we are spending plenty for road repairs, hedges, etc., what I want to challenge anyone is where are we saving money for our taxpayers by letting these road improvements which run to about $90,500, a year deteriorate and become a menace to the comfort and safety of those who use our roads?

A composer has written a song for pedestrians. But it will be a long time before composers nowadays can hope to excel Chopin's famous funeral piece.

FINES TOTAL $200,000 FOR SMUGGLING GOODS

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Customs officials estimated today that Robert L. Dodge and his wife are liable to duty and fines amounting to $200,000 on the contents of 14 pieces of baggage they landed from the Ile de France.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodge are officers of the Harriet Hubbard Ayer Perfume Company.

Their baggage, which consisted of 12 trunks and two packing cases, Customs agents said, were found to be filled with jewelry, including a diamond necklace, bracelets and several valuable rings as well as women's dresses, coats and lingerie. The contents were valued by customs appraisers at between $80,000 and $100,000. The couple declared between $12,000 and $15,000.

Under the revenue law duty and penalties for failure to declare full value amounts to double the value fixed by the appraisers.

The trunks and boxes were placed in the Customs appraisers stores for complete examination.

Mr. Dodge at his home in Mill Neck, Long Island, said "there was a little trouble" involving only two of the trunks. He said it had been settled and characterized the estimated value of the goods as "ridiculous."

Mr. Dodge, who is president and manager of the perfume company, was the backer of Captain Rene Fonck in his proposed second attempt to fly from New York to Paris.

SECRET SIX PREPARED

Chicago, April 18.—(AP)—From Houston, Tex., today came word from Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, that the association's "Secret Six" already has taken steps to meet and defeat the new alliance of Chicago gangsters under the leadership of Al Capone.

"The secret six is fully cognizant of the situation, and is operating," Col. Randolph said. He is touring the southwest with a Chicago "good will" group.

"These organized enemies of society are no more formidable as a single unit than as scattered outlaw bands," he said. "In fact the new alliance may make them a simpler object of attack."

The secret "Committee of Six" members are serving without knowledge of even of each other's identities with the purpose of wiping out organized crime in Chicago.

OUR ENVOY MAKES BUSINESS SURVEYS

Ambassador Edge is Spending Most of His Time in Provinces of France.

Cannes, France, —(AP)—Whether Ambassador Edge is laying foundations for a Franco-American commercial treaty in his swing around the circle in France remains to be seen, but it is evident already that he has made a strong point with the French provinces.

As the provinces see it, he has demonstrated that he is not bound by the old title of the American diplomatic representative to France as "Ambassador to Paris."

The greetings he received were not those of the enthusiastic war period. There was little talk about Lafayette. There was more about business. The military cooperation of France and the United States was touched upon only incidentally. This fact and other developments of the trip showed that the French are earnestly at work, letting the past bury the past and looking to the future.

Mr. Edge committed himself to nothing more than to a careful study of the conditions concerning the problems of French trade with the United States which he invited. He asked for frankness and got it.

The business men with whom he came into contact seemed relieved to learn that their problems were to be studied. Their complaints for the most part had to do with classifications of goods and regulations although some of them considered rates entirely too high.

Lace Industry

Their problems were not the same as those of Calais, where an entire population of 50,000 lives on lace trade with the United States, although the glove industry of Grenoble and the essential oil industry of Grasse derive more than half their business from American customers.

The uncertainties of trade under the American tariff was the burden of most of the complaints. Nowhere did anybody question the right of the United States to protect its industries.

"We don't mind your duties so much, when we know what they are and just how they are going to be applied," was the comment of one manufacturer who represents a large class. "We want to buy your products because we know there is no 'one way' road in international trade; we want to buy of you so that you can buy of us; let us get together so as to make it easier for the both of us."

Not in the same words, but in the same spirit this sentiment was repeatedly expressed.

DISCOVER LEAD POISON IN SAMPLES OF JAKEE

Wichita, Kas., April 13.—(AP)—Lead poisoning is believed by two Wichita chemists to be responsible for the wide-spread epidemic of "Jakee paralysis" here, which public health officials say has made charitable assistance for about 100 victims necessary.

The chemists, Curtis Anderson and Earl Snyder, last night asserted they found considerable lead in a sample of Jamaica ginger from which a 40-year-old paralysis victim admitted drinking. Others of the afflicted persons are thought to have drunk the fiery intoxicant.

Fifteen penniless victims of the malady are being cared for at the county poor farm. Others are receiving aid at their homes.

Faith of Wichita cripples in the medicinal value of the odoriferous sticky contents of petroleum refinery slush ponds is waning. Only a few victims appeared yesterday to bathe their afflicted limbs in the slime. A pilgrimage to the slush ponds began with the spread of a report that the fluid would aid in a cure. Authorities scoff at the belief.

FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1930

DISTORTED VIEWPOINT

From the publicity committee of the sesqui-centennial celebration of the battle of King's Mountain at Gastonia, N. C., comes an extraordinary document, peculiarly revealing. It displays perhaps an amazing degree of misunderstanding of American public opinion as a press agent was ever guilty of. Assuredly its author must be of the "home talent" variety.

The communication in question announces that "A fitting monument to Major Patrick Ferguson, leader of the British forces at the battle of King's Mountain, the turning point of the American revolution," will soon stand on the heights of King's Mountain.

It would be almost bewildering for the average American to understand the word "enemy" as applying to colonial forces if he did not happen to realize the special Gaston county point of view. As a matter of fact the troops under command of Major Ferguson on the day in question, October 7, 1780, consisted of about 11,000 North Carolina Tories, who were engaged against some 900 backwoods patriots.

Just when Major Ferguson had an opportunity to refrain from shooting General Washington in the back isn't altogether clear, for the American commander-in-chief was several hundred miles away from that vicinity at the time and the only Yankee Washington thereabout was Colonel William Washington, the cavalry chap who a couple of months later cut Tarleton's cavalry to pieces not far from the King's Mountain battlefield.

Obviously the North Carolina descendants of the Tories who surrendered to the backwoodsmen and hillbillies at King's Mountain haven't changed much in their ancestors in their sympathies, even to this day. The paying of full and proper respect to the memory of a gallant enemy soldier who was killed in the line of duty is one thing; the deliberate revival, in laudation, of the memory of the Tory side of the King's Mountain affair, and especially this description of the patriot frontiersmen as "the enemy" is nicely calculated to get the goat of normal Americans.

The sesqui-centenary committee would do well to spend a few dollars on carfare for its publicity agent, let him travel a few days outside of North Carolina and find out just a little something about the feeling of the country at large toward the memory of, Revolutionary Tories.

CONTRIBUTORY FOLLY

No decent person can entertain any feelings but those of utter detestation and contempt for the buzzard "salesmen" who make a filthy living by foisting worthless securities upon ignorant and foolish investors; only the heartiest approval will be extended to the stout blows that State Bank Commissioner Shippee is dealing and planning to deal upon the pestes of these gentry.

proval will be extended to the stout blows that State Bank Commissioner Shippee is dealing and planning to deal upon the pestes of these gentry. At the same time there would seem to be a small measure of doubt as to the ethical justification for the extensive employment of the police and the courts in this business.

A suitor for damages in an accident case loses his suit if the defendant can show that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. The principle that the individual must at all times exercise reasonable care for his own physical safety does not extend to the criminal law; but one is sometimes tempted to adopt the belief that it ought to. There was, not too many years ago, one class of out-and-out crooks whose victims received so very little sympathy from the public that scant fault was found with the police when they failed, as they usually did, to take action against the criminals.

No really honest man was ever victimized. The professional crook merely preyed on the amateur variety. When one of the latter put up a roar the police bawled him out and the public laughed at him.

The purchase of fake stocks is not, of course, closely comparable to the purchase of "green goods" because a perfectly honest person may buy the former. But such widespread publicity has been given to the folly of doing business with "high pressure" salesmen who are strangers, and so much money and effort have been spent by civic organizations of various kinds in attempts to educate the public out of such reckless folly, that it is really half as much the victim's fault as it is the fault of the swindler when he is robbed through this class of transactions.

If ever a person was guilty of contributory negligence it is when he allows himself to be bamboozled by some glib stock peddler who comes to him without any responsible introduction and points out to him a sure road to extraordinary gains in the purchase of glittering stock shares. It is almost questionable whether the general public has any right to divert its agencies of protection—the police and the courts—from other and more justly demanding business to guard such people from the consequences of their folly.

It will cost the state of Connecticut a lot of money to arrest 150 crooked stock salesmen as Mr. Shippee plans to do, prosecute them and perhaps keep some of them in jail. And when they get out they will probably go right back to the very individuals they swindled and sell them some more phony stock. Because such suckers never learn anything, not even from their own pitiful experiences.

WIND-BET FIGURES

Professor Trumpeter of the University of California says it would take a light ray, traveling at 186,000 miles a second, a hundred trillion years to cross that celestial backyard that folks like him call the cosmos. Well, let it lay. But our private opinion is that the only person entitled to talk in terms of a hundred trillion is the nine-year-old boy who is wind-betting that his father can lick his pal's father.

WRONG IMPRESSION

The New York Herald Tribune takes a rather inexplicable attitude toward Henry H. Curran's refusal to surrender the private and confidential files of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment without a subpoena. The Herald Tribune, citing the Supreme Court's decision upholding the Congressional right of investigation, says:

Where Mr. Curran is concerned it is hard to see how he can take the position that he can hold back information which he thinks is confidential. Nor have the persons who have sent confidential contributions and confidential messages any grounds for expecting that he has the power to keep their action secret.

We suspect that the Herald Tribune, in this, is not so much scolding Mr. Curran as it is preparing the ground for possible later insistence on the subpoenaing of similarly confidential correspondence of the dry organizations. Just the same it does Mr. Curran something less than justice. He did not, as a matter of fact, try to withhold his files from the fishing fingers of the lobby committee. He merely insisted on the formality of the subpoena—which is a very different matter from trying to obstruct the committee in its inquiry. In effect he said: "The files are all here. You are welcome to anything you can find in them. But it's your dish, not mine, and you will have to get access to them in the prescribed legal manner."

Too many readers might get, from the Herald Tribune editorial, an impression that the Anti-Amendment association was trying to hide something—an assumption for which there is no apparent warrant.

IN DRY KANSAS

Up to this writing the publicity agents of the dries in dry Kansas have failed to deny the Associated Press story from Wichita telling about scores of "pilgrims" who have been visiting the oil fields of the state in the hope that, by wading in the slush ponds, they might be cured of "jakey paralysis."

We had expected that long ere this vigorous denial would be entered that any such pilgrims existed, or at least the explanation that they had come to Kansas from such faraway sinks of iniquity as New York or Chicago.

Sadly we are forced to believe that even in Kansas, where Walter Liggett found enough transactions in home brew material to satisfy the thirst of any ordinary state's population, there are some folks with such ardent gullets that nothing less than liquid fire will pacify them.

Whether Wichita has to convert one of its auditoriums into a hospital or rest camp for jakey paralytics or not, the fact seems to remain that there is at least an unregenerate minority in that part of the country that and the Demon Alcohol, instead of being utterly extirpated, still lurks about the bloody grounds in perverted and horrid disguise.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, April 18.—Anyone who has listened in daily at the hearings of the Senate investigating committee, wonders why the exchange of such epithets as "contemptible liar," "contemptible coward" and "contemptible cur" between witnesses and committee members haven't been common from the beginning. The surprising thing is that no one at these hearings has ever been poked in the nose.

Some of the witnesses have stood for a great deal. So much in fact that the theory most often offered in explanation is that they must have guilty consciences. Editor J. E. Pierce of the Huntsville, Ala., Daily Times, apparently didn't have one. It was he who exchanged "contemptible" with Senator Hugo Black. Even so, Pierce had less to complain about than some other witnesses who had been haggard.

Caraway is Busy

Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway of Arkansas, the chairman, has harpooned one witness after another. He plunges the barb in and then twists it around. As the hearing adjourns he is as likely as not to step around and assure the victim that he likes him personally. But that's a huge surprise for the witness.

"Bulldog Tom" Walsh of Montana does all the heavy examining. Walsh can be ferocious enough if the witness doesn't seem to be willing. When relentlessly hounding a lobbyist or roaring a witness into submission Walsh is as his very best. And he can build nice thick little hedges around them from which it is very hard to escape.

Senator Arthur Robinson, the sly fox from Indiana, pursues cold trails vigorously, draws far-fetched conclusions and then tries to prove them. He can insult witnesses as well as the other members and when he squints his gimlet eye upon them many of them get the great fear that he is about to leap at their throats. Arthur is the only regular Republican on the committee and it has fallen to his lot to protect the administration and all orthodox Republicans whose activities become of interest to the committee.

Caraway is in a class by himself, the man-eating shark of the committee. Oh how he has enjoyed these daily workouts! He paces behind the committee table, throwing in digs at random. Unintentionally or otherwise, he persistently conveys the impression that he believes the witness before him to be the greatest thief unbug. Sometimes he seems to get the witness thinking so, too. Some of those witnesses are obviously scared where the biting sarcasms of committee members have seemed inexcusable. They're a hard-boiled crew, as most of the witnesses will admit. But they've found out ever so much. They've taken the mask off the lobby industry and given the American people an almost complete insight into the Third House.

MOTORMAN KILLED

Boston, April 18.—(AP)—John J. Moynihan, 45, a motorman employed by the Boston elevated railroad, was killed by an elevated train last night. The body was not identified for several hours. Yesterday was his day off.

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 18.—Noted passing. . . . It was at a luncheon for Marene Dietrich, the new Paramount discovery from Berlin, at the Ritz the other noon.

Jesse Laskey had introduced the guest of honor and asked her for her first impressions of New York as gleaned from the b.b.t. Mr. Laskey—She says that it was three o'clock in the morning, and, standing on the deck she could see the lights of the city . . . imagine her emotion.

Within a few days she will be headed for Hollywood—and, again, imagine her emotion. Jack Oakie (the cinema clown who had been sitting at a corner)—And I'm trying to get a date with her for tomorrow night—imagine my emotion!

For reasons unknown to myself, I find I am an officer, or something, of the Happy-Go-Lucky Club, organized during the week. It seems that this is an involved age, or whatever the gent said who read the club's preamble, and people don't have enough fun and all that sort of thing. Without seeming to talk out of turn or grab a gift cup by the handle, as it were, I have a notion that the last way in the world to be carefree, happy-go-lucky or have fun is to organize and get serious about it.

However, since Lill Damita is president and lets me sit beside her and cute little Hattie Hoctor, the premiere danseuse, is treasurer and lets me sit beside her, and since

Would you like to try this doctor's laxative free of charge?

Every family has occasional need of a laxative, but it should be a family laxative. One that can't form a habit, but can be taken as often as needed. When breath is bad or tongue coated. Or appetite fails. Only a doctor knows the right ingredients. Dr. Caldwell discovered the correct combination years ago. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin combines harmless herbs and pure senna. It starts muscular action and soon corrects constipation. Gently, but surely, it relieves a bilious or sluggish condition. It is mild. Delicious. Effective. All druggists keep this famous prescription ready, in big bottles. Or write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle postpaid.

Gertrude Lawrence, the lovely English actress, and Bobbe Arnst are some sort of officers. I may not come off so badly. At any rate, I got all their names in the paper and if that's why I was elected, I've paid my dues. Almost anything can happen at some of these very sophisticated roundups staged on this island. The other night, at such a gathering, three old cronies met for the first time in several years. Two of them had been divorced. Gents No. 1 and No. 2 had been witnesses who made it possible for No. 3 to get his divorce. No. 1 and No. 3 had lived nobly to help No. 2 get his divorce. "I'm certainly glad to see you old palookas," commented No. 1, "because my wife and I have agreed to split and I need some witnesses to testify that I've been unfaithful to her and you saw me. Don't forget I lied like a gentleman to get you out of the handcuffs."

changing rib ticklers when a stranger approached. "Don't laugh," paraphrased Harry Hershfield, "it might be a new columnist. And I'm saving the last wessie for a kid who's on a high school paper." Well, there's nothing like training them young! GILBERT SWAN. An author tells of the exciting experiences he had in hunting the tassebe, the lechwe and the statura. He's probably the sort of fellow who would go into a rage hunting a lost collar button.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Uric Acid)
Question—A. F. writes: "The doctor told me I was suffering from uric acid poisoning. I would appreciate it if you would give the symptoms, and the diet to follow for correcting same."
Answer: Your doctor no doubt arrived at this conclusion from finding your urine contained too many uric acid crystals, or perhaps because you are suffering from rheumatism or gout. Uric acid in excess really appears in the blood and urine of those suffering from many different kinds of disorders. Such a condition is caused from faulty elimination of waste products and an improper balance of nuclein metabolism. A temporary cure would come through increasing elimination of poisons from the body. This must be accomplished through the functions of the bowels, kidneys, skin and lungs. A permanent cure will depend upon the properly balanced diet, exercising, deep breathing, skin bathing, etc.

EARTHQUAKES IN GREECE

Athens, Greece, April 18—(AP)—A severe earthquake shock which rocked the Peloponnese during the night did extensive damage in several small inland towns. Athens and the Pireus were shaken badly, and there was great alarm among persons in the churches.
Several persons were injured, one seriously, in the collapse of a church tower at Osthmia and number were hurt at Corinth through falling of several houses. At Sparta a church tower fell but there were no casualties. The epicenter of the disturbances was between the Methana Peninsula and Aegina. The most severe shocks were recorded in the Peloponnese and the island of Euboea.

A six-year-old Tennessee boy was brought to the hospital by his parents to be cured of the cigar habit. But what's the use, he'll probably take to drink now.

SWISS PUT CURB ON HARD DRINKS

Heavy Taxes to Be Placed On All Brandies and Alcohol—Is Social Reform.

Berne, Switzerland — (AP) — Schnapps, the strong fruit liquor much used in the country, will be harder to get and cost much more under Switzerland's new legislation. Heavy taxes will be imposed on all alcohol and brandies under the referendum adopted April 6 by a two to three majority. Switzerland probably will collect $5,000,000 a year from these taxes, half going to the cantonal governments and half to the central government, the latter devoting it to financing contemplated old age insurance.

Schnapps, not always good, for a low price at almost any farmhouse, under the new system, anyone may brew his own liquor but only for his own consumption.

Alcohol of all varieties now come under strict government control. Distilleries are to be licensed and the sale of their product will be under federal supervision at fixed prices. Such control is expected to reduce the production of alcohols which had become very cheap, leading to a consumption many considered excessive and harmful. Other liquors, largely made from fruits, free from control, nevertheless will be taxed from 20 cents upward per liter. Wines and beer remain free industries.

Aside from a diminution of heavy drinking, the new plan is expected to encourage the sale of fresh fruits and the use of poor fruit and fruit pulp as animal food.

DARROW MAY DEFEND TWO INDIAN WOMEN

Buffalo, N. Y., April 18.—(AP)—Announcement was made today by Raymond J. Darrow, president of the Seneca nation, that word had been received from Clarence Darrow at Chicago that he was much touched by the plea of western New York Indians that he come to their aid in the defense of Lila Jimerson and Nancy Bowen, two Indian women accused of the slaying of Mrs. Henri Marchand. The widely known criminal attorney has sent word he may take up the defense of the Indians if, in so doing, too much of his time and energy are not required. Lila Jimerson already has pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree murder accepted just before time for sending her case to the jury, but leading jurists have expressed an opinion that the action was illegal. As a result, a new trial looms.

News of Mr. Darrow's favorable reaction to the appeals of the Senecas was received with great satisfaction on the Cattaraugus Reservation.

SAN FRANCISCO FIRE.

On April 18, 1906, the most serious earthquake disaster that has occurred in the United States took place at San Francisco, when more than 500 lost their lives and property was damaged to the extent of $2,000,000,000.

The first shock felt shortly after 5 a. m., caused such a swaying of the ground as to wreck buildings and break gas and water mains. Because of the impairment of the latter it was impossible to control the fires which soon broke out.

The fire raged in the heart of the business district for three days. Dynamite and artillery were employed to destroy buildings to prevent the spreading of the fire and ships from the navy were summoned to battle the flames from the water front.

Despite the great number of deaths there was no great amount of privation or suffering because relief measures were taken immediately by leading citizens. In addition, Congress gave prompt aid and relief funds were liberally subscribed all over the United States.

College Rowing Campaign Starts In East Tomorrow

Columbia Favored to Beat Navy and Mass. Tech on Severn at Annapolis; Season's Outlook.

By TED VOSBURGH

New York, April 18.—(AP)—The college rowing campaign will be inaugurated in the east tomorrow and gives promising into action...

Columbia, whose might varsity array swept through the white caps to victory at Poughkeepsie last June, will be favored to defeat the Navy and Mass. Tech in the eastern opener on the Severn at Annapolis, but by no such margin as last year.

Meeting the same opponents, one at a time on the Harlem, the undefeated Columbia crew of 1929 polished off the Navy by three lengths and swamped Mass. Tech by 1-4 lengths in a mile and three quarters race.

In weight and raw power neither navy nor Tech will concede a thing to Columbia. The New Yorkers advantage if any comes from the coaching of Glendon and the victory experience of last year.

If the number of seasoned varsity veterans available means anything 'Old Dick' Glendon's Navy crew and 'Rusty' Callow's university of Penna. outfit may come into their own this season. Penn and the Navy were third and fourth respectively at Poughkeepsie last year, to the confusion of the critics and most of their men are back at their slides.

Harvard and Princeton should be faster than last year and Yale may not find the crimson oarsmen nearly as easy as the 1929 crew proved to be.

Syracuse building on its champion freshman eight and Cornell, winner of the junior varsity event on the Hudson may be up with the leaders once again. Little is known of Wisconsin except that 'Mike' Murphy always can be counted on to produce the goods.

From over the western horizon comes the word that the Pacific Coast entry this year presents a double-barrelled threat with Washington and California both packing enough power to pull the bottom out of the Hudson.

Sacramento, Calif.—Millio Milititi, Omaha, outpointed Red McDonald, Sacramento, 10.

Local Sport Chatter

Representatives of Rockville and Willimantic baseball teams came to Manchester last night with the intention of attending a meeting of the proposed inter-city twilight delegates but the meeting failed to materialize.

Nino Boggini, former High school baseball and basketball star who did good work behind the bat for the town champion Bon Ami club last season, is hitting hard for the New York University freshmen nine.

Work was started yesterday getting the tennis courts in the rear of the High school into playing condition. Work on the East and West Side playground courts hasn't been started yet but will be soon it is understood.

Manchester's tennis playing family has increased so tremendously in the past few years that there aren't enough courts to satisfy the demand. A couple of more would surely come in handy.

Understand Pete Happeny and Pete Vendrillo have decided to take up this strenuous sport next season. All we can say is that we are sorry for the boys who have to chase the balls.

Ding Farr says that this young fisher who is playing right field for the St. Louis Cards is one sweet ball player. Farr saw him play with the Buffalo Bisons in the International League when he was attending Canisius.

Johnny Lamenzo defeated Stuart Lynn in their long overdue title chess match of the town title chess tournament at the Rec day before yesterday and now must face Auggie Mildner in the second round.

GRAHAM FLOORED TAYLOR FOUR TIMES; CHOCOLATE 2

Bushy Graham.

Bat Battalino.

Bushy Graham, the Utica Ghost, who battles Bat Battalino, world featherweight champion in a ten-rounder at the big Hartford state armory a week from tonight, may or may not have the champion on the floor, but he predicts that he will win and points in support of this prediction to having done just that several times with fighters fully as eminent as the Hartford champion.

Only last summer Bushy floored no less a worthy than Kid Chocolate, not once but twice, only to lose on a foul in the seventh round and he had Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute Terror, who recently outpointed Bat out at Detroit, on the floor four times when they met in 1925, when Taylor was at the peak of his career.

Another more or less distinguished member of the boxing family who was crashed to the floor when he collided with Graham was Abe Attel Goldstein, former world's bantamweight champion.

Graham has never been generally rated a killing puncher, but his record shows twenty-six knockouts in 103 fights. He is a sharp hitter and the past year, one of the best in his long career, has found him scoring repeated knockouts. The Utica Italian started fighting in 1922 and has

TILDEN SAYS MATCH WAS NOT VIOLATION

Beaulieu, France, April 17.—(AP)—Both Big Bill Tilden and Karel Kozeluh, professional tennis champion of the world, expressed surprise today that their match yesterday afternoon had aroused comment as a possible violation of the rule against an amateur playing a professional.

They declared that no tennis rule had been broken as their meeting would be technically known as a "practice" match just as most amateurs playing on the Riviera utilize club professionals for training.

Tilden won their contest 6-4, 6-4. Tilden said he had been playing a certain number of matches daily to keep in condition, but as the present tournaments are small he has been playing with W. F. Coen, the Kansas City star. Coen was away yesterday and when the center court won 87 of his 103 contests, nine being no-decision affairs. Among the boys he has beaten are Bud Taylor, Archie Bell, Young Montreal (three times), Joe Lynch, Frankie Genaro, Eddie O'Dowd, Dewey Abad, Corporal Izzy Schwartz, Freddy Miller, Pete Zivic, Phil Verde (three times), Tommy Ryan and Cecil Payne.

Bushy has been kayped but once; that was in 1922 when he was taking his baby steps as a fighter, and Bushy is highly amused at the prediction from the Battalino camp that the champion expects to win on a knockout.

Graham will arrive in Hartford Sunday and train Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the St. Nicholas gym, after going on the road in the morning each day. Battalino also is working out at the St. Nick.

The champion looks fast and is hitting sharply in his daily workouts. Battalino regards the Graham fight as the hardest test of his career and he regards it as a challenge to prove that he is a real champion.

There is an unprecedented demand for tickets and Promoter Hurley predicts a new Connecticut indoor record gate of more than $30,000.

here became vacant Tilden substituted with Kozeluh who had come to the courts as a spectator, as the best available material for a workout.

The match developed into a grim battle with the spectators deserting the first court to watch Big Bill's first encounter with the professional champion.

REAL DAUGHTERS' GRAVES. Washington, April 18.—(AP)—D. A. R. historians of Nebraska last year found and marked two "real daughters' graves, both noteworthy enough to receive special mention in the report to the Thirty-Ninth Continental Congress by Mrs. Benjamin Purcell, chairman of the "Real Daughters' committee.

One was that of Mrs. Knowles Hood "who as a girl rode alone through the Carolina mountains to warn of the approach of the British."

The other was that of Mrs. Rebecca Winters "who has 600 descendants, among them the president of the Mormon church."

DISCOVER LIQUOR IN JUDGE'S GRIP

Seima, N. C., April 18.—(AP)—Judge N. A. Sinclair, of the North Carolina Superior Court, was under summons today to leave his judicial duties tomorrow and come here to answer charges of violating the Federal prohibition laws.

Charges were brought against Judge Sinclair after a Federal prohibition agent discovered a pint bottle of whiskey in his handbag. Federal Agent C. S. Coats found the liquor on March 20 when he stopped the jurist's automobile on a highway between Williamston and Sanford and searched his luggage.

Coats swore out a warrant for Judge Sinclair, the jurist was summoned by telephone to appear here tomorrow before United States Commissioner I. W. Massey for a preliminary hearing. He advised officers he would answer the summons.

Called "Frameup."
Judge Sinclair is presiding this week over Wayne county court at Goldsboro. He declined yesterday to make any comment.

The day after the whiskey was found in his grip, the jurist reported the affair at Sanford and declared it was a "frameup." He asserted he knew nothing about the bottle being in his luggage.

Later, William H. Everett, of Williamston, issued a statement saying he slipped the whiskey in Judge Sinclair's bag as a "practical joke." He said he put the bottle in the handbag without the jurist's knowledge just before Judge Sinclair left his hotel in Williamston, after adjourning a term of Martin county court.

Otka and the children were not injured.

STUDENTS ON STRIKE

Harrogate, Tenn., April 18.—(AP)—"Unsettled conditions" were given today by Professors H. H. Harshaw and D. A. Dollard as the reason for their resignations as heads of the agriculture and economics departments, respectively, at Lincoln Memorial University, where a student strike has been in progress for nine days.

Fourteen boys attending the school, including Clay McCarroll, student president, have been expelled. Two discharged professors, M. H. Miller and E. Van N. Diller, and their wives, have obtained hearings set for tomorrow, on court orders directing them to vacate their campus homes. Eviction proceedings also have been brought against a third dismissed professor, F. W. Dejonge, head of the department of languages.

John R. Neal, attorney, said an unfavorable decision at tomorrow's hearing will result in an appeal on the case against Miller and Diller. By furnishing bond, Neal said they could continue to live on the campus until the cases are disposed of.

The three professors and nine of the expelled students are under temporary injunctions restraining them from "aiding or agitating" the strike. More than 100 of the Boston, April 18.—(AP)—A third rider will join "Paul Revere" and "William Dawes" tomorrow in spreading the alarm "to every Middlesex village and farm."

a courting late that historic April night in 1775 when the "red coats" were on the march, history relates. Midway between Lexington and Concord he came upon the British, who had temporarily captured Revere and forced Dawes to flee in another direction. Learning of their mission, Prescott took up the task. Speeding away through moonlit by-ways towards Concord, he bore the message to the defenders of ammunition stores there of the approach of the enemy. Previous celebrations have overlooked "Dr. Samuel Prescott." The observances are held in the day time. An inch of rainfall is equivalent to 11 tons per acre, or approximately, 14,500,000 gallons per square mile.

CHAPTER I
Silence as tense as a bowstring hung over the dinner table of the Converse home. Alan Converse and his wife, Natalie, listened to it with taut nerves and straining emotions. Between them the table gave testimony to the material prosperity of their life. It bore a cloth of such rich damask that the delicate rose-colored pattern seemed embossed upon it. The dessert service, correctly placed by an attractively uniformed maid, was of pure sparkling crystal. A trailing vine centerpiece, with a few pink blooms, formed an exquisite decoration.

These things Natalie Converse had collected with delight. But the table might now have been a pine board, and the dishes of tin, for all the admiration they excited in her mind.

Her one thought was that Bernadine Lamont had telephoned to Alan, Bernadine Lamont!

Just that afternoon her nearest friend in the smart Westchester suburb, where she and Alan had built their home when his brokerage business prospered sufficiently, had telephoned her to talk about Bernadine Lamont. "That Lamont woman," Gladys Wynne had called her.

How had she got in? The question was still raging in the neighborhood. Through a dummy purchaser, people said. Well, it was someone's carelessness that had settled down in a fine English manor house, among respectable homes, the wives declared, and there'd be a lot of voting at the next meeting of the community administration committee.

Of Bernadine's presence among them, Natalie Converse had said less than the other women—but she had thought more.

Bernadine was beautiful; alluringly, dangerously beautiful. No one could help knowing this. Bernadine's highly paid press agent saw to it that her light was never hidden on an inner page. All could read of her conquests, her quart of pearls, her amazing diamonds.

Often Natalie had looked at Alan, and wondered where his lavish generosity would lead him should another woman, a beautiful woman, like Bernadine Lamont, a greedy woman, appear.

She had no idea that Alan knew "The Lamont." It seemed incredible. Alan was only a beginning-to-be wealthy broker. Surely Bernadine would want someone higher on the ladder of success. But, hadn't she heard a story somewhere about some notorious woman who had stooped to bring down the financial ruin of a young bank clerk? A boy who couldn't have given her, at the most, more than enough money to buy perfume for her pet Pekingese?

But the boy was handsome, she remembered. Alan, too, very handsome. She had resented his good looks on several occasions. Now she stared at him, and her resentment grew with the fire that flamed under her cool exterior.

Since their marriage, three years ago, she had come to scoff at the memory of the joy she had found in being engaged to a man who was the envy of all her girl friends. It had ceased to please her when other women admired him. Lately she had openly snubbed one or two who were gushing compliments about him.

She would, if she could, have robbed him of his good looks at that moment, particularly his wavy brown hair—that he hated—his laughing brown eyes, and the ready smile that won him friends so easily. She was fierce in her jealousy, but she was still able to control it—to a degree. She did not fling herself out of her chair and bar the door.

Instead, she sat quietly, and bored at him with eyes as effectively re-monstrative as words could have been. It was Alan who acted. He shattered the silence with an uneasy, off-hand laugh. Or, rather, the beginning of one. Natalie interrupted.

"Alan, you aren't going!" She escaped being dramatic only by the utmost control of her voice—the voice that could be as silvery sweet as the notes of a rare violin.

"Now, Natalie, for heaven's sake, don't begin that stuff," Alan retorted, more worried than he cared to have her know.

"But Alan . . ."

"Please," he groaned. "I know what you're going to say. I know it by heart. The Lord knows I've heard it often enough."

Natalie was quick with an answer. "You haven't heard what I have to say about Bernadine Lamont," she cried.

Alan sank back in his chair, put down his dessert fork he had taken up again, after answering Bernadine's telephone call, and assumed a resigned attitude.

"Let's have it," he said.

"All the women around here are talking about her," Natalie began, a bit subdued by Alan's manner. He nodded. "What of it?"

"Why, don't you see?" Natalie fired back at him. "You can't have anything to do with her. Oh, I say we have, she added hastily. 'You left the door open and I couldn't help hearing. But if you accept her as a client everyone we know will be against you. All the women are wild about her having bought a house here in Hillshire and . . ."

"What do I care?" Alan broke in, sitting up, and impatiently preparing to leave the table.

Natalie jumped to her feet. "You've got to care. You want new clients, don't you? Isn't that one reason why we came up here and joined the country club—so that you could meet the right kind of people?"

"Don't be silly," Alan admonished her. "That was one reason, of course. But we like to live this way, don't we? And let me tell you, this house wasn't built on money I made from Hillshire commuters. Mrs. Lamont's money helped build it, if you must know. I've handled an account for her for years."

"Alan!" Natalie was filled with sudden suspicion. "You didn't help her get in here?"

"No, I didn't," Alan admitted. "She didn't ask me to help her. Then you would have."

"Alan," she called tensely. "Are you really going to that woman's house?"

Alan whiffled. "You will make a fool of yourself, won't you?" he shot back at her. "Trying to pretend it's for my sake, my business, that you don't want me to go there, while all the time it's your damnable jealousy that's bothering you."

Natalie's face went white. "No woman who cared for her husband would let him go to Bernadine Lamont's house without protesting," she said.

"Bosh," Alan exclaimed. "What do you think Bernadine is, anyway?"

"Well, I'll tell you what she is," Alan flared. "She's the widow of Jack Lamont, the buddy who saved my life in the big war. You don't expect me to forget that, do you?"

He stopped for breath, and Natalie instantly put forward her own opinion of Bernadine and her profession.

"I suppose," she said, "you expect me to believe she's too good for what she's doing. Why doesn't she leave it then?"

"You would ask that," Alan rejoined. "No woman who has been taken care of as you have could understand what it means to be on your own with a child to support."

"I'm certain I could manage without losing my self-respect," she flung back at him.

"Who says Bernadine has lost her self-respect?" he retorted.

Natalie laughed. "Just because the world thinks she has, doesn't make it so," Alan went on defensively. "And if you weren't so jealous that you can't think straight, you'd realize that once you're where you can make money easily, and you need that going to turn back and start out again just to appease a lot of harping critics."

Again he paused for breath, and again Natalie was ready with an answer.

"Any decent woman wants to leave a respected name for her child," she declared.

"That's right—fall back on generalities," Alan sneered. "But don't be stupid. What good would it do for Bernadine to reform—if you want the world? If she couldn't make a living, would any of you who criticize her help her? You bet you wouldn't. And you wouldn't forget that she'd been under the ban, either."

Natalie was only fired the more by his defense of the outlawed woman who had invaded the sacred precincts of Hillshire.

"It isn't up to the rest of the world, to pay anyone to be respectable," she asserted with a touch of smugness. "Anyway, I should think she has money enough to . . . retire."

"You've been reading press agent bunk," Alan scoffed. "Bernadine's not much better off than I am."

"Still she's able to speculate in the market," Natalie pointed out. "At least," she added insinuatingly, "I hope that her interest in you is purely professional."

Alan smiled resignedly. "I almost wish I could give you something to be jealous over, but there's nothing other than business friendship between me and Bernadine. I don't know why I bother to tell you about it, but Bernadine came to me when she began to get tips from Wall Street men, and asked me to act as her broker."

"Oh, then you didn't know her before she . . . became successful?" Natalie inquired.

"No, I didn't," Alan told her. He did not speak the rest of his thought. Natalie's passion of jealousy was not a thing into which he cared to delve. He knew, without had helped Bernadine before she became known the country over for her success with night club patrons.

"Jack had told Bernadine about me," he continued, "but she didn't look me up until she saw my name somewhere, and paid me a professional visit."

"To tell you all about her hard struggle to take care of herself, and support her son," Natalie interjected sarcastically.

"In time that came," Alan admitted.

"On one of your visits to her home, I suppose," Natalie thrust at him.

Alan smiled. "I have never paid a visit to her either in her home or anywhere else."

Natalie stood erect. "Yet she dares to call you here and ask you to leave me and come to her!" she cried.

Alan shrugged. "She probably didn't give you a thought," he replied a bit wearily. "Furthermore, Natalie, Bernadine is a valued client. If she has need of me tonight, I am sure it is important. I need her business."

Alan had had enough. "This is getting us nowhere, as usual," he said caustically, looked at his watch, and turned again to go.

Natalie did not try to stop him. She stood still as a statue, while Alan disappeared from her sight. But when the slam of the front door echoed back through the high-ceilinged hall, she dropped into her chair and struggled to restrain her tears.

She hated to weep. This thing—this trouble—between her and Alan seemed too big for tears. Tears belonged to anger or sorrow. Anger was futile now—and there was no sorrow, sweet or otherwise, in the torment of a jealous heart. It was like a disease, an incurable disease that ate at her mind and heart day and night. It motivated her even when she knew she had no cause to be suspicious.

She went upstairs and sat in her room, trying to write a letter to her mother, but the words she wanted to put down got mixed up with the Bridgeport, April 18.—(AP.)—Adam Walsh, Yale football line coach and one time Notre Dame star, believes that a college would be doing no harm in offering a good, but financially handicapped scholar and athlete, his tuition and other advantages to play on the team. He explained that if a boy is a good scholar and athlete and his family is not in a position to send him to college "it is perfectly ethical for a college or university to offer him tuition and favors while obtaining an education at the same time." His views were given last night at the annual Y. M. C. A. dinner here.

HOLD SUNRISE SERVICE AT SOUTH M. E. CHURCH

About 30 young people of the Epworth League met at the South Methodist Church at five o'clock this morning and held a brief but inspiring sunrise service. It was originally planned to hold this service at Sunset Hill but owing to the inclement weather it was held at the church.

The devotions were led by Gladys Harrison. Four of the young people who are attending the Boston University School of Theology, and are spending the Easter vacation here, Pauline Albertson, Alice Harrison, Elsie Harrison, and Margaret Lewis, gave short talks, having as their theme, "Easter." They spoke of the events leading up to the time of the crucifixion of Jesus.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the committee headed by Evelyn Beers.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 9 held its meeting Tuesday evening at the Hollister street school in the form of an inter-troop contest. The Flying Eagles won with 27 points, the Silver Foxes were second with 24 and the Beavers were third with 18.

The Troop has a new junior assistant scoutmaster, John McKenna. Troop 9 won the swimming meet at the Rec Wednesday.

Troop 1 held its regular meeting in the Second Congregational church Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. The meeting opened with the Scout Oath led by Scoutmaster Fish. After that dues and attendance were taken. Tests were passed by several of the boys, who are being made Tenderfoot Scouts. Games were played by all during the last half hour of the meeting.

The meeting was closed at 9 o'clock by repeating the Scout prayer led by the Scoutmaster, Scribe Harry Juul.

Troop 4 opened its meeting Monday at seven o'clock by repeating the Scout Oath and Laws. Senior Patrol Leader, Ruddle and charge of the opening. 25 Scouts were present. Dues were collected and the roll called. Each patrol then met in their "patrol corners." The meeting was adjourned at 9:30 o'clock by repeating the Oath.

Notes
There will be a troop hike Saturday. Meet at St. Mary's church at 2:15. Be prepared to pass cooking tests.

Patrol hikes will be held on Good Friday.
The Wolf Patrol is still ahead in the contest with the Eagles and Bears close behind. Scribe, — Matchett.

Troop 7
The weekly meeting began Wednesday night at 7:15 as usual with 16 scouts present. After the dues and attendance were taken in the patrol corners tryouts for patrol flag teams were made; also rescue races were tried. William Newton received the First Class pin to be awarded in the troop. Troop 9's Scoutmaster was down here and I guess he wanted a couple of cheers for his troop because they won the swimming contest. Two games were played: steal the bat and lion hunt. Walter Stankewich passed his 14 mile hike test last night by reading his story of it. The meeting closed at 9 o'clock with the scout law and oath. There was a patrol leader's meeting after the meeting was over. Scribe—Briggs.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Unemployed
The farmer's wife at early dawn
Gets up and calls the men;

Its more blessed to give than to receive only when you have nothing to give.

Remember the old-fashioned woman who used to read the fashion hints to see what was going on?

Maybe you don't like to hear the other fellow say: "I told you so," but the Lord knows you gave him opportunity often enough.

Bridegroom—Have you kissed the bride?
Best Man (absently)—Oh, yes, hundreds of times.

Two ways to have friends: Don't need them, own some dogs.

The fonder the fool the more jealousy it takes to feed him.

Boss—What kept you from your work yesterday, acute indigestion again?
Typist—No. A cute engineer this time.

A woman will pick up a head of lettuce in a hand on which sparkles a two carat diamond and exclaim,
"WHAT! Eighteen cents!"

To get up in the world one has to get up early and stay up late.

A little girl accompanied her father on a shopping trip, and as he was waiting for his package, the lady in charge of the office gave

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Many a model man is just posing.

the little tot a pencil and a scratch pad. She was silent for a moment, and when her father said, "What do you say to the lady?" she promptly extended the pencil in her small hand and said, "sharpen it."

A father—I suppose now that your boy is out of college, he expects to set the world on fire.
Second Father (gloomily)—No.
From all indications I believe he's going to be perfectly satisfied with just warming a chair.

Talk is never so cheap as when indulged in by cheap persons.

Some Men can't find words for their thoughts, but the most of us can't find thoughts for our words.

Everything comes to him who hustles while he waits.

Marriage is like poker—everything depends upon the draw.

Waiter—There's most everything on the menu today, sir.
Crabby Patron—So I see! Bring me a clean one, so that I can read it.

Diplomacy has been defined as the art of letting someone else have your way.

Breakfast should be eaten in silence, says a dietitian. A man who stayed late at the office the night before hasn't got a chance.

ENTITLED TO IT

Beaumont, Tex.—Jefferson County is faced with an appropriation it hadn't counted on. A petition, signed by 100 citizens, has been presented to Commissioners' Court asking that a purse be provided for the children of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Fertione out of public funds. The children are quadruplets three months old.

OLDEST SEA CAPTAIN?

London.—Captain John Dowdy, of Norfolk, claims to be England's oldest sea captain. He ran away to sea at the age of 13 and has been at it ever since. He has been shipwrecked, sailed 460 miles in an open boat, and was nearly eaten by cannibals.

HUGE NEW ZEPPELIN

Berlin.—A sister ship of the Graf Zeppelin is to be started this year by the Zeppelin Airship Company.
The ship will be 740 feet long and will be larger than either the huge English ships, the "R 100" and "R 101." It is expected that the ship will be completed in the summer of 1931.

ONCE UPON A TIME.

George M. Reynolds, Chicago bank executive helped build roads in Iowa, when a boy.
This was after he rebelled against "munching" salts in a general store at Panora, necessary to prove to housewives that the colors were fast.

THE TINYMATES

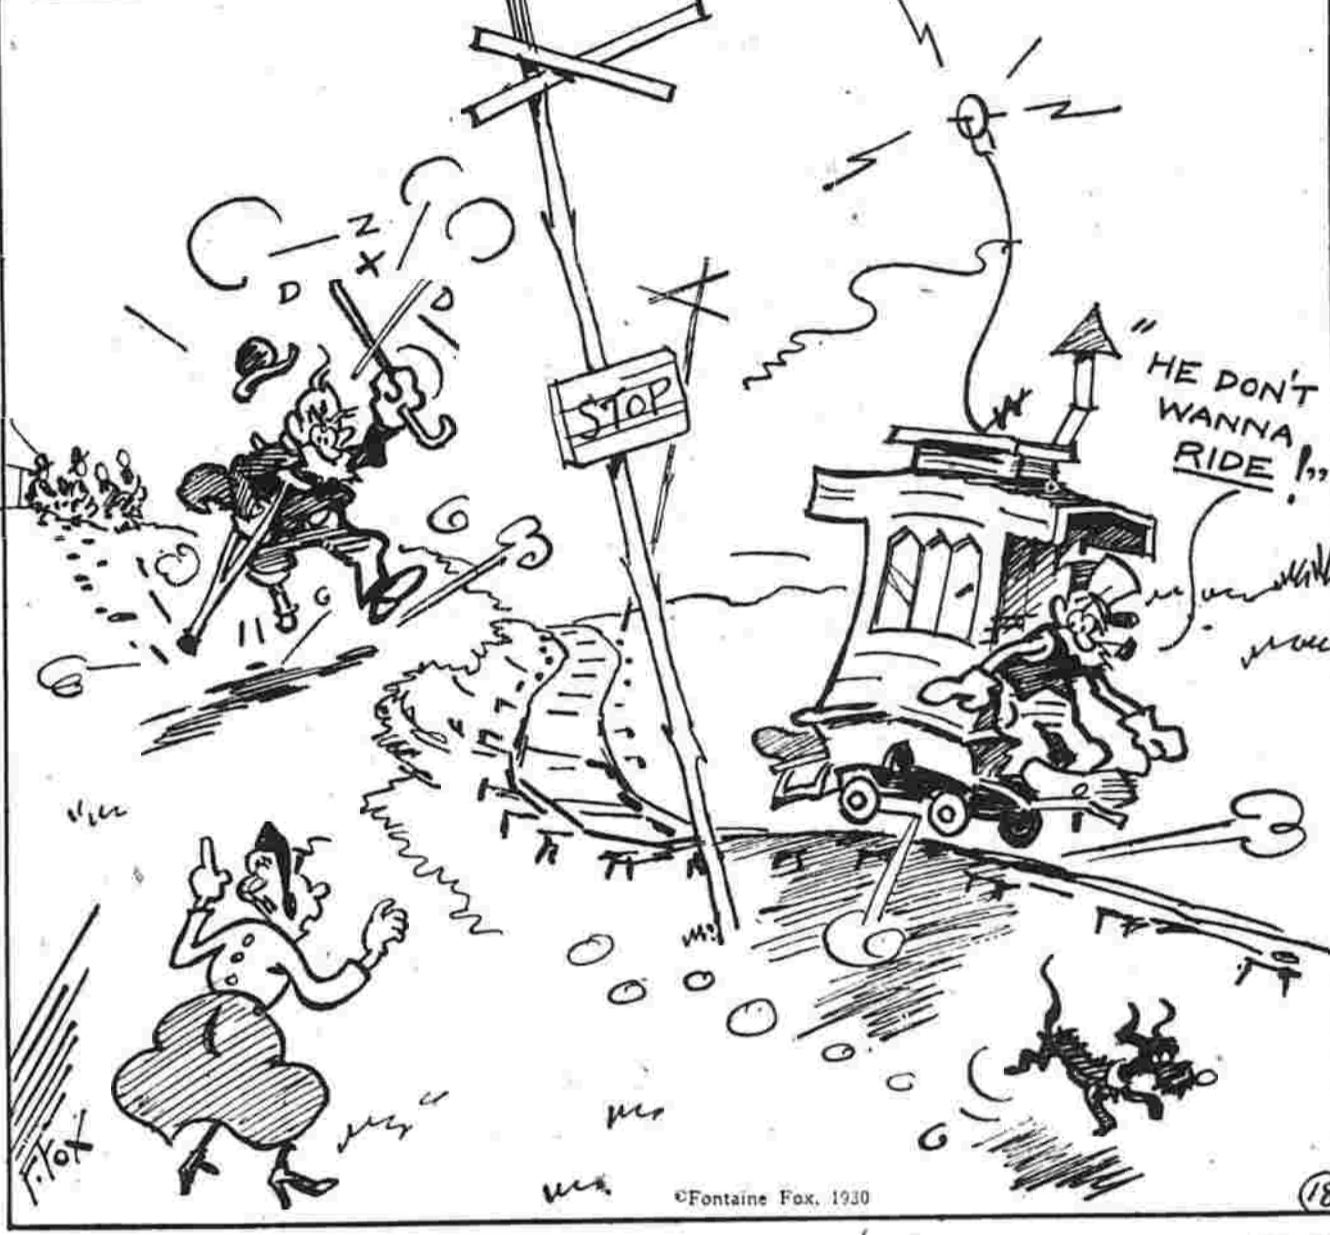

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)
The little lass who made the lace, worked on, a smile upon her face.
"O, my, but you are clever," said Wee Clowny, with a smile, "I wish that I could work like that, but I am sure that I'd fall flat. I wonder if you'd show me how to do it after while."
