

SAYS HOOVER IS NOT A DRY IN HIS HEART

Head of Wet Organization So Wrote in Letter to Friend; Denies Ass'n Brought Liquor for a Celebration.

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—A letter written by William H. Stayton, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, placed in the record of the Senate lobby committee today, said he knew that President Hoover "is not at heart a dry."

The letter was read after the witness had denied, in response to a question by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, that the association had brought any liquor to be served at a celebration for a candidate for the presidency in 1928. No name was mentioned by Blaine in putting the question.

Note About Hoover
The letter discussing President Hoover was written in March 1929, to Herbert L. Clark of Philadelphia. After Stayton wrote that he knew Mr. Hoover "is not at heart a dry," he added, "I fear that I must approach the conclusion that he is a pro-tem because of the prospective profit it involves and nothing that has to do with right and wrong or with facts will make any impression upon him."

HEARING OPENS.

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—William H. Stayton, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment told the Senate lobby committee today he did not regard James J. Davis, a "wet," but he reiterated his opinion expressed yesterday that the Cabinet member voted prohibition a failure.

Chairman Caraway of the committee said a friend of Mr. Davis had called attention to an apparent inconsistency in Stayton's testimony yesterday, when he expressed the opinion that six members of the Hoover Cabinet believed prohibition a failure.

Caraway then read testimony by Stayton which said he classified Davis as a "wet" and later said he was "not wet hardly."

"I do not regard him hardly as a wet," Stayton testified today, adding that he still believed the labor secretary thought prohibition a failure.

Other members of the Cabinet mentioned were Secretaries Stimson, Adams, Mellon, Lamont and Postmaster General E. A. Tamm. Stayton said he had not spoken for them; while Davis, Mellon and Brown did not comment.

Wrote to Andrews
After the mention of Secretary Davis, Caraway turned to some correspondence exchanged in 1927 between Stayton and General Lincoln C. Andrews, then assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement.

The letters showed that General Andrews had drawn up some proposed medical spirits legislation and had asked Stayton to aid in obtaining its passage through Congress.

In a letter to Andrews, the witness said he would co-operate. Later, letters showed, he had discussed the legislation with members of Congress.

They addressed each other as "Bill" and "L. C."

PRICES ON MARKET STAGE TAIL SPIN

Reduction of Rediscount Rate Fails to Check Strong Selling Movement.

New York, May 2.—(AP)—The reduction in the New York Federal Reserve bank's rediscount rate to 3 per cent, equalled only once before in its history, failed to check the selling movement on the New York Stock Exchange today until it appeared to have a retard level. Fox Film was also strong on resumption of cash dividends. After selling off moderately, U. S. Steel rallied above last night's closing level.

American Tobacco B was on isolated strong spot, rising nearly $10 a share to a record level. Fox Film was also strong on resumption of cash dividends. After selling off moderately, U. S. Steel rallied above last night's closing level.

Girl's Screams Foil Would Be Kidnapers

Boston, May 2.—(AP)—Warrants bringing serious charges against two young men were sought by the Boston police in connection with the alleged attempted kidnaping this morning of Miss Dorothy Donnell, 21. The men, arrested shortly after the alleged attack, were John F. Brody, 26 and Norman Carlson, 25, both of Newton.

The young woman told police two young men drove up beside her shortly before 3 o'clock this morning as she was walking along the street. They jumped out and threw an automobile robe over her head and dragged her into their automobile. She struggled furiously and her screams aroused the neighborhood and so managed to escape. A woman took the registration number of the automobile as the pair sped away. Police say Miss Donnell's glasses were found in the automobile when Brody and Carlson were arrested. According to Police Captain John N. Anderson, the pair said they were drinking and meant no harm to the girl. The police have asked warrants charging attempted kidnaping.

SECRET MEETING ON GARRETT CASE

Attorney General and Governor Hold Conference in Boston; No Report Made.

Boston, May 2.—(AP)—Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, whose regime was subjected to severe criticism in the report yesterday of Attorney General J. E. Warner of his findings in the so-called Garrett investigation was closed this morning with Gov. Frank F. Allen in response to the latter's summons. A few minutes later former Attorney General Herbert Parker arrived and entered the governor's room.

While they still were in conference, it was announced at the State House that Damon E. Hall, special assistant attorney general, who had the prosecution of the questioning of the witnesses at the public hearings in the investigation, had declined a tender from District Attorney William J. Foley of Suffolk county to handle any criminal cases arising out of the probe.

Hall, in a letter to Foley, regretted that justice for his private clients and to opposing counsel in cases in which he was interested would not allow him to continue to be identified with the Garrett investigation.

Parker's connection with the Allen-Wilson conference was unexplained at the State House. The former attorney general had not been previously identified with the investigation in any of its various phases.

SONS OF VETERANS IN FINAL SESSION

State Department to Elect Its Officers Late This Afternoon.

New London, May 2.—(AP)—The final sessions of the forty sixth annual encampment of the Connecticut Department, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, and the fifteenth annual encampment of the Connecticut Department Auxiliary were being held this afternoon. Officers for both groups were to be elected.

The consensus is that Robert C. Smith of New Haven, senior vice commander, will succeed Morgan B. Haven of this city as department commander of the Sons of Union Veterans. Mr. Haven, who has refused to be considered for re-election, said he would resign. Mr. Smith will be opposed for office.

More than 100 delegates were attending the final session.

Mr. Smith said that he did not expect any opposition and he had already drafted his slate of appointive officers, with the exception of Chaplain. The men chosen for the staff are:

Counselor Past Department Commander Howard Wadsworth of Meriden; patriotic instructor Edward W. Goodale, Danbury; personal aide Charles Clarke, Sr., New Haven; color bearer Milo Wooding, New Haven; Guide Robert H. Bragg, East Hartford; press correspondent, James Hislop, New Haven.

Edwin M. Scott of New Haven was expected to be elected senior vice commander. He held the office of junior vice commander during the last year and there was no opposition to his candidacy for the higher office.

The office of junior vice commander was to be contested for by at least two persons, Daniel E. Emery of Forestville and Ralph E. Hutchinson of Bristol.

Isaac T. Jenks, of New Haven will continue as secretary and treasurer his term having one year to run.

Herbert Harvey, of this city was to be a candidate for election to camp counsel.

SEELEY, WIKE ARE RELEASED IN OKLAHOMA

State Admits It Has No Case Against Suspects in Murder of Smith Brothers, of Connecticut.

Muskogee, Okla., May 2.—(AP)—Officials today continued investigation of a new phase of the mystery slaying here last Saturday of David and George Smith, Connecticut brother capitalists, while two elderly men who had accompanied the victims on an ill-fated motor car trip, rejoiced in their release from suspicion in connection with the deaths.

John L. Wike, Sharon, Conn., life-long friend of the two brothers, and Powell G. Seeley, Washington, Conn., their friend and business partner, both of whom had been charged with murder in connection with the slaying of the Smiths, were freed of murder charges at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing last night. Their release was granted on the motion of Philip K. Oldham, assistant county attorney, who said he was satisfied he did not have a case against them.

Placed Under Bonds

Both of the men were ordered placed under bond, as material witnesses, but the amount of bond was to be decided later, possibly today.

David Smith lived in Sharon, George Smith resided in West Cornwall, Conn.

The Smith brothers were slain while making a trip through the southwest, inspecting property upon which the defunct New Milford, Conn., Securities Company held mortgages.

Since the killing Wike has contended the Smith brothers were slain by two strange men, after a desperate fight in a Muskogee hotel room. The men then bound and gagged him, he said, and fled. Seeley, who was in an adjoining room, said he heard the shots, but did not see the slayers.

Fred Hamilton, sheriff, who spent yesterday working on a new phase of the case, announced he had made progress, and hoped soon to uncover a motive for the double slaying. He declined, however, to reveal the nature of his investigation.

FUNERALS OF VICTIMS

West Cornwall, Conn., May 2.—(AP)—Victims of an unsolved murder, David and George Smith, brothers, were to be buried in the East Side cemetery in Sharon this afternoon.

LINDBERGH ON WAY TO THE U. S. TODAY

Hour Ahead of Flying Schedule as He Leaves for Cuba and Florida.

Havana, May 2.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at the Pan-American Airways Field at 12:50 p. m. from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, en route to Miami.

Col. Lindbergh expected to take off within an hour after landing and will point the nose of his ship "norward" Miami where he expected to land before five o'clock this evening.

From Puerto Cabezas, Col. Lindbergh flew 638 miles to make this stop.

Miami, Fla., May 2.—(AP)—Radio messages received here by Pan-American Airways this morning described cloudless skies and balmy weather through which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is flying en route for Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, to Havana and Miami with a stop at Buenos Aires to New York.

After leaving Puerto Cabezas, at 5:30 a. m. (E. S. T.), Colonel Lindbergh passed the lagoon-dotted coast of eastern Nicaragua through a morning rain and clouds and left Cape Gracias a Dios, the last point of the Central American mainland at 6:42 a. m. (E. S. T.), forty-five minutes later with copilot Basil Roe at the controls. The Pan-American Airways plane No. 142 drifted over a coral reef of Caxones Cay and headed northward to the Isle of Pines, just south of the Cuban coast.

Checks Instruments

Colonel Lindbergh spent some time during the morning checking the plane's chronometer and the hydrographic chart for his course. At 8:15 a. m., Radio Operator B. A. Denickey reported by radio to Pan-American Airways here that everything was "all right."

The plane maintained constant communication, as it did on Lindbergh's southward flight, with the radio control station of Pan American Airways at Miami.

Lindbergh took the controls again about 8:30 and upon receiving a radio weather report from Havana, climbed to a higher altitude for better flying conditions. The weather at this time was reported by Denickey as excellent.

Climbs Higher
Lindbergh climbed steadily to an altitude of 11,600 feet to a point where the cool atmosphere necessitated donning of coats by the crew. As the plane plunged into the north, the copilot dropped a smoke bomb over the slide to gauge wind direction and velocity, the message said.

The flyers took advantage of an early lunch at 9:30 a. m., when they ate several sandwiches from the three pound packages which had been deposited this morning in the plane with the 201 pounds of mail.

Because of his departure from Puerto Cabezas one hour and five minutes ahead of schedule, Pan American Airways officials here expected Colonel Lindbergh would land at Havana about 1 p. m. The scheduled time of arrival at that point was 2 p. m.

HYDE ADVOCATES NEW POWER BOARD

Secretary Says Independent Organization is Needed to Regulate Work.

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—Secretary Hyde advocated a new independent organization to regulate the Nation's power resources today before the House Interstate Commerce Commission.

The agency proposed by the agriculture secretary would supplant the Federal Power Commission, now composed ex-officio of the Secretaries of Agriculture, Interior and War.

Hyde said "we have had one grand and glorious fuss" in the power commission, the affairs of which have recently been under the scrutiny of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee.

The secretary said it was "vital" necessary for Congress to provide for an independent commission that could deal with the power problem.

It was impossible, he added, for the present commission to give detailed attention to the work.

HARTFORD JURY'S PROBE IS AIMED AT THE POLICE

That Was Reason That Mayor's Bank Records Were Subpoenaed, It Is Said; Hint at Protection.

Hartford, May 2.—(AP)—An effort to prove that the $800 worth of liquor purchased by Mayor Walter E. Batterson came from a bootlegger and that this bootlegger was receiving and paying police protection is being made by the Special Grand Jury, it was reported today.

This was the reason for the subpoena of the mayor's bank records and checks served on Hartford banks recently. While it is understood that the Grand Jury does not intend to maintain that Mayor Batterson directly provided the bootlegger with protection funds, the investigating body is reported to have concluded from Mr. Batterson's own testimony before it several weeks ago that though he is head of the police department his payment of money to a bootlegger actually placed him in the position of having indirectly contributed to police corruption.

The refusal of the mayor to tell the Grand Jury who the "friend" was to whom he gave check in payment for $800 worth of liquor and the refusal of E. N. Allen to say whether or not he was the friend referred to temporarily shut off the Grand Jury's probe into the mayor's liquor purchases. Their attitude was upheld by Judge Newell Jennings.

However, the Grand Jury has renewed this line of inquiry which came to a head with the subpoenaing not only of the mayor's bank records, but also those of Mr. Allen. What information the Grand Jury has on which it bases its probe of police corruption, is not revealed, but it was learned that sufficient evidence has been obtained to link the mayor's bootlegger with the investigation of the activities of certain members of the police department.

STUDENTS THROW POTATOES AT COP

Headmaster, However, Announces That Incident is Closed and Affair Settled.

Andover, Mass., May 2.—(AP)—Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, headmaster of Phillips Andover Academy, today removed the ban on athletics which he imposed as a consequence of a students' jamboree that followed the annual "May breakfast," a charitable affair, in the Town Hall yesterday.

Dr. Stearns said that all matters growing out of the disturbance had been "satisfactorily settled." The Student Council, according to Dr. Stearns, had asked for and had been granted permission to act for the students who had engaged in a battle with all comers, including Patrolman Frank McBride, using food from the breakfast and potatoes from a store display for ammunition.

The Student Council has written a letter to the Board of Selectmen. Dr. Stearns said, in which it expressed regret at the incident. Regarding apologies from the students to Patrolman McBride, a condition included in Dr. Stearns' statement of suspension, the headmaster, said that he understood the students had taken care of the Selectmen "in their own way."

FAKE DOCUMENTS SAYS 'RED' AGENT

Papers Seized in New York Are Forgeries to Start Trouble in United States.

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—Documents made public today by Police Commissioner Whalen of New York purporting to show that the Communist Internationale of Moscow was fomenting disorders in the United States, were called forgeries by Boris E. Skvirsky, director of the Soviet Information Bureau at Washington.

Skvirsky expressed a hope that the documents would be thoroughly investigated by Federal authorities.

He denied all assertions in the papers that his organization was handling funds for a Russian secret service in this country.

Offered for sale.
Skvirsky said unofficial information coming to him indicated the same purported official documents had been offered for sale for publication in New York for several weeks and had their purpose the disruption of Soviet relations with America.

"The new Russian 'documents,' as described to me," Skvirsky said, "seem to me to be another link in the chain of forgeries concocted by certain 'Trust' emigres."

One of these, Drusholovsky, confessed and was convicted in Moscow three years ago and members of the Orloff group were caught by the Berlin police and convicted a year ago. The purpose of these forgeries is always the same, to disrupt Soviet Relations with other countries and particularly to cripple the foreign trade of the Soviet Union.

CITIZENSHIP CASE SOON TO BE HEARD

John W. Davis to Head Attorneys for Prof. Douglas C. MacIntosh of Yale.

Hartford, May 2.—(AP)—Whether aliens applying for citizenship are obliged to promise to bear arms even though they may have scruples of religion or conscience, despite the fact that such promise is not required of native citizens with the same views—is the question proposed by John W. Davis, former Democratic nominee for president in his brief filed three days ago with the clerk of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. Davis is counsel for Professor Douglas Clyde MacIntosh of the Yale Divinity School whose petition for citizenship was denied by Judge Warren B. Burrows in the U. S. District Court at New Haven on June 24, 1929.

Judge's Ruling.

In his denial Judge Burrows stated in his comment on this issue that "it appearing that the said petitioner, considering his allegiance to be first to the will of god, would not promise in advance to bear arms in defense of the United States under all circumstances but only if he believed the war to be morally justified, it is decreed that the petitioner is not attached to the principles of the constitution of the United States."

A distinguished array of attorneys have associated themselves with Mr. Davis in his appeal to the higher court which is to be argued in New York during the week of May 19. With him will be Dean Charles E. Clark, of the Yale Law School and Allen Wardwell of the firm of Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardiner and Reed of New York City.

The case for the United States will be presented by U. S. District Attorney John Buckley, and Assistant U. S. District Attorney George Cohen.

HUNDREDS INSPECT THE TRADE SCHOOL

Annual Open Night Held at Local Institution—Many Exhibits.

The splendid work done by students of the State Trade School was inspected by several hundred visitors who attended the annual exhibition held at the school last night. The students, numbering 150, worked at their desks, benches and machines, giving the visitors an idea of vocational work as it is actually carried on. J. G. Echmalian, director of the school, and instructors explained the work to visitors.

In the main hall an exhibit showed silk cloth, electrical apparatus, tools, woodwork, architects' drawings and blue they prepared entirely by students. The silk exhibit, showing the material in various stages, was arranged on draped cloth which was woven in the silk textile classes. Examples of fine workmanship in woodwork, tool making and drafting indicated the excellence of instruction and the value of the training which can be obtained without cost at the school.

The Trade School orchestra, recently formed, played during the evening.

On the basement floor the boys were busy with their carpentry, making a variety of furnishings.

Great interest was shown in the silk manufacturing room where the various processes of manufacture are learned by the boys, from winding to weaving. Here the students acquire a thorough and practical knowledge as they prepare to become silk textile tradesmen.

The advantage of fine machinery as well as skillful instruction is available for boys in the machine shop, where even advanced types of tool working may be learned.

Work of professional excellence has been done by the student draftsmen, who could be seen at work. Their exhibit included fine drawings of houses and other buildings, machines and machine tools.

The school, which is under the direction of the State Board of Education, prepares boys and girls to be building draftsmen, machine draftsmen, machinists, toolmakers, carpenters, electricians and silk textile tradesmen.

The students spend two thirds of their time in practical shopwork and one-third in the study of trade theory, civics and hygiene and science, mathematics and blueprint reading which relates to each particular trade.

BUTTONHOLE FLOWER FOR SWEDISH FUND

Those Attractive "May Flowers" Are Sold in Swedish Sunday Schools to Aid Sanitarium.

Mayflowers as a general rule are flowers which appear in May but for the past two weeks many Manchester people—an observant person would have noticed they were mostly Swedish people—have been wearing a five petaled pink flower with a yellow center which when questioned, they referred to as a "Mayflower," adding to the mystification of the questioner.

The flower appears annually at this time, always in a different color. It is manufactured in Sweden of celluloid and is shipped to America to be sold to aid in the upkeep of a tuberculosis sanitarium in Denver, Colorado. The flower is distributed to children in the Sunday School of the Swedish Lutheran Church and to Swedish organizations and sells for ten cents. The raising of funds by this method has been carried on for so long that it has become a custom to wear the Mayflower.

ABOUT TOWN

The choir of the Swedish Lutheran church will rehearse this evening at 7 o'clock.

Hose Company No. 1 was called out at 11:50 this morning for a grass fire in the rear of the home of Truman Foster at 979 West Middle Turnpike. Chemicals were sufficient to extinguish the blaze before any harm was done.

John Learned, alternate from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce to the annual meeting of the States Chamber of Commerce meeting in Washington, D. C. which ended last night, returned home today. He will make his report at the regular meeting of the Board of Control, Tuesday, May 13.

Sunset Council, Degree of Poochontas, will celebrate its seventh anniversary with an entertainment and dance tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Tinker hall. Irving Keeney is general chairman, assisted by Mrs. John White, Miss Viola Dailley and a number of the other members.

Mrs. George F. Borst and son Carl are spending a few days at their shore cottage at Point O'Woods.

Chairman William Halsted of the Kiwanis entertainment committee announces that beginning next week rehearsals will be held every noon. The members of the chorus have been fitted for their uniforms and everything points to an unusually good program on the 13th at the State Theater. Reserved seats for the minstrel may be obtained at Watkins at a small extra charge.

Sunyside Circle of Junior Kings Daughters has abandoned its spring entertainment plans, and the girls are selling polishing cloths to add to the circle's treasury.

The Herald Hears—

That April showers won't bring May flowers this year, namely because there weren't any April Showers.

That showers or no showers snakes are due to make their appearance this month . . . that nine out of ten persons think snakes are slimy when in truth they are smoother than the finest silk . . . that black snakes are among the most dangerous looking of the species and the most harmless . . . that the best thing to do when one encounters a rattlesnake is to run, and quickly too, in the other direction.

That the mark of the gigantic cross used by the Ku Klux Klan at the meeting in Glastonbury last year can still be seen on the hilltop in back of the Haling farm.

GOLD STAR MOTHER TO NOW MAKE TRIP

Mrs. Joseph McCann Gets Notice That Local Woman Will Go to France.

Mrs. Joseph McCann, one of Manchester's Gold Star Mothers will be one of the few in Connecticut, who will make the trip to France to visit the grave of her son, John J. McCann. He is buried in the St. Michael cemetery, Thaicourt, Meurthe-et-Moselle.

When the states that would make the trip were allotted Connecticut was fourth from the last in the order in which the mothers would take the pilgrimage. When this was learned the state president of the Legion auxiliary made known the fact to the different county presidents and this was officially announced at their county meeting last Sunday. Connecticut mothers, under these conditions, would not be able to take the trip before late in 1931 and more likely in 1932. It looked as though Mrs. McCann would be unable to make the trip this summer as she had planned.

Mrs. McCann hoped to see the grave of her son John. He was the elder of four sons, two of them, John and Arthur both enlisting the same day, August 23, 1917 in Company B, a cavalry troop which later became part of the 102d Machine Gun battery of the Twenty-Sixth Division. He was overseas with the Twenty-Sixth and was in the early fighting in 1918 in the Meuse-Argonne sector.

In October 1918 he was gassed and while several of his companions died he was taken back to the field hospital and later removed to another where he suffered much and died October 11, 1918, just one month before the end of the war.

Today Mrs. McCann received a letter from the War Department which has changed all the plans over again. It reads:

"The Government of the United States extends to Mrs. Joseph McCann an invitation to make the pilgrimage to the cemetery in Europe where the remains of her son are now interred.

"You will leave on the steamship 'Washington' from New York on August 17, 1930."

Although Mrs. McCann has not been enjoying the best of health there has been a noted improvement and she plans to take advantage of the opportunity to go this year.

BOLTON LAKE DEAL STORY IS DENIED

Power Companies Give No Assurance That Water Will Not Be Lowered.

Despite persistent rumors in Bolton today to the effect that the water rights of Bolton Lake had been acquired by the Connecticut Light and Power Company of Hartford from the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company, and that the former company would not use the lake water, thus assuring cottage and property owners about the lake of a normal stage of water during the summer season, officials of both companies denied that such a transaction had taken place.

It is admitted, however, that the Connecticut Electric Service, a subsidiary to the Connecticut Light and Power Company, has under consideration the advisability of adding the first and second lakes at Bolton to its list of similar possessions. Such a deal has not yet been consummated and no definite date is announced for its completion, according to officials of both concerns.

All of which means that cottage owners at Bolton Lake, many of whom are Manchester, and Bolton residents as well, are not necessarily assured that this summer will not be a repetition of last year, when the water was drawn so low to supply the power plant in Willimantic that some cottage owners had to close their summer homes.

At present Bolton Lake is about three-quarters full and water from it has been used by the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company since last fall. But the fact that there was not snow or rains enough during the winter to help fill the pond makes it possible that another uncomfortable season confronts the cottage owners and Bolton residents.

April, traditionally a wet month, failed to produce its normal rains. Unless a great deal of rain falls during the next two months, anything may happen.

Last summer hundreds of old decayed tree stumps stuck their noses above the water level. Many of them became thoroughly dried out and when the water started coming in again last fall, uprooted themselves and floated ashore. Some property owners along the shore spent considerable time and money in having stumps pulled up.

At present Bolton Lake is about three-quarters full and water from it has been used by the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company since last fall. But the fact that there was not snow or rains enough during the winter to help fill the pond makes it possible that another uncomfortable season confronts the cottage owners and Bolton residents.

As the hearing came to an end, Judge Charles Wheeler declared that, even though no definite clues had been uncovered, the investigation would continue.

Work Of Robbers
Seeley and Wike who were in the same suite of rooms with the brothers were held for a hearing on circumstantial evidence. They consistently maintained that two youthful robbers shot the Smiths.

Fellows townsmen of Washington and Sharon were outspoken in their joy at the discharge of Seeley and Wike who are held in high regard throughout western Connecticut. The home of Mr. Sturges was flooded with telephone calls from friends anxious for the verdict.

Hundreds from all parts of this section of the state were expected to attend the services today.

The Rev. W. W. Wilson of Cornwall and Rev. George H. Johnson of New Milford were to officiate at the funeral. Bearers for David Smith were Arthur Lamb, Frank Harrison, Charles Whitford; Henry Hoag, Horace Williams and David Duffey. Those for George Smith are Edward Cartwright, F. R. Scoville, F. A. Yutzler, William Hubbell, Robert Strong and Dr. Charles Flynn.

DEEDS PROPERTY HERE TO THE CENTER CHURCH

Frank Cheney, Jr., Completes Transfer of Property in Rear Of The Edifice.

A deed of note filed this morning in the office of the town clerk was that conveying the ownership of the land and buildings in rear of the Center Congregational church from Frank Cheney, Jr., to The Ecclesiastical Society of the church.

The property referred to in the deed is that used as a residence by Joseph Chambers, night driver of Hose Co. No. 2. The Center church, through the generosity of Frank Cheney, acquires a considerable space in rear of the new structure for any purpose that the church may deem advisable. For the present no change is contemplated except that a portion of the land will be used for a driveway around the church and for grading into lawns.

PLAN GOLF TOURNEY FOR BUSINESS MEN

Will Be Held Wednesday Afternoons June Through September.

Formation of a golf tournament for merchants and professional men, to be held on Wednesday afternoons during the summer closing period, which begins June 4 and runs through September, will be discussed at an all members meeting of the Merchant's Division of the Chamber of Commerce to be held Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Chamber rooms.

The meeting has been called principally to discuss special sales and advertising for the summer months, such as the June Community Days held last year. A recommendation will be made by the Executive Committee to hold special sales every Tuesday to be known as "Tuesday Specials," with the express idea of stimulating business during the first part of the week.

The summer outing will also be discussed and in all probability a special committee will be appointed to begin arrangements for the event which this year will be planned along the lines of the old time picnics.

HEBRON'S CENSUS IS LOWEST EVER

Only 875 Residents in Near-by Town—Had 2,337 People in 1774.

Special to The Herald
 Hebron, Conn., May 2.—The drop of forty in the population of Hebron since 1920, as shown by census returns just completed, is explained by the census enumerator, F. Elton Post, who states that quite a number of young people and others are employed in Hartford, Willimantic, or other nearby cities or towns. In such cases, even while maintaining home and voting residences here, they have been enumerated in those places where employed, though practically forming part of the town's population. There are also more or less of those who own and occupy country homes here for the greater part of the year, and who vote here, but are enumerated elsewhere.
 Another factor is the decline of business in Amston, which took away several families. The result of the 1920 census, which was 915, showed a slight increase over that of ten years previous, which was 894. The present population, as shown by the census returns, is 875, the lowest since the taking of the first United States census in 1756, when a population of 1,855 white persons was returned, with no mention of blacks or Indians. In 1774 there was a population of 2,337, of which 52 were Indians and blacks. This is the largest return made in the history of the town.

In 1790 the population totaled 2,234, of which twenty were slaves. This was the largest population report of any town in Tolland County except Stafford, and this town had the largest grand list of any in the county, $69,873. Since that time there has been an almost steady decline in population, partly accounted for by the formation of the towns of Marlborough and Andover from part of Hebron's territory. Westward emigration and the decline of local industrial manufacturing have also been largely responsible. Agriculture is now about the only business of the town. The present grand list is $891,788.

If it is true that the golf stream is moving north, there is some compensation in the fact the golf stream is moving south.

CAMPBELL'S GAS STATION READY

Announce Opening of East Center Street Filling Station for Tomorrow.

The new Campbell filling station at East Center and Foster streets will open tomorrow for business under the management of Delphis St. John and James Hall. Working under a serious handicap from the moment of purchasing this corner property Mr. Campbell fought an injunction of State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald prohibiting him cutting down certain shade trees declared to have been partly on State property. Judge L. E. Waldo Marvin in Superior Court last December found for Mr. Campbell and the following day the trees in question were cut down before an appeal could be made and work on the new station began tomorrow. Although the opening tomorrow is premature, much of the work in connection with the beautifying of grounds and building will be speeded up during the coming week, and the opening tomorrow will give Manchester patrons of the Campbell stations a very good idea of what the finished station will be.

The new station has one driveway from Foster street and one on East Center street, ample for easy access. The new station will have the first all concrete filling station driveway in Manchester. The new station is equipped with two of the latest type air-meter pumps one of which is a twin pump dispensing both Socony Special gasoline and Socony regular. The other pump will dispense the regular gasoline.

Mr. Campbell announced that tomorrow on all oil sold in bottles at the new station will be 100 per cent pure Pennsylvania motor oil and the station will carry in addition the following well-known brands: Socony, Mobiloil, and Hyvis.

The station building is 25 by 20 feet in area and is of brick veneer construction with stucco trim and presents a very unique and modern appearance in the rear center of the large corner lot. A new electric clock to be placed atop the cupola when finished will add materially to the appearance and to the convenience of patrons.

Within the station building a 10 by 12 room will be used for an office and stockroom and another room of the same dimensions will be furnished for the convenience of the public. The new rest room will be fitted with two of the latest type lavatories. The exterior of the station building and grounds will be illuminated by Bowser floodlights. Two air towers of the Eco type will be conveniently placed on the wide driveway.

The greasing equipment consists of a modern Holmes lift and pit for changing oil. Mr. Campbell is reconstructing the filling station at Middle Turnpike and Main street

KILLS WOMAN, SELF

Plainfield, N. J., May 2.—(AP)—Rutherford B. H. Dalley, a detective employed by a local bank and well known in fraternal circles, early today shot and killed Mrs. Ida Gekis, 30, and then fired a bullet through his head. Other patrons at a roadhouse just outside the city heard the shots and found the pair dead in a side room.

Dalley was 52 years old. Mrs. Gekis was the mother of two children and separated from her husband several years ago.

Three men, an employee and two patrons of the roadhouse, were held as material witnesses, but their names were not made public.

Police ascribed the shooting to jealousy on the part of Dalley, who was a married man.

ADMITS KILLING THREE

Modesto, Cal., May 2.—(AP)—Object of a four day hunt as the suspected slayer of three ranch hands, Charles Wiley, alias Charles Dodge, was captured at Crows Landing, near here, early today.

State highway patrol officers and deputy sheriffs who arrested Wiley said he had confessed killing Jack Murphy, Deloide C. Fultz and Joseph Barton in a ranch cabin last Monday morning.

Wiley's alleged confession related that he and the three men had participated in a drinking party the day before the killing and that his companions attacked him. He said he armed himself and returned to their cabin the next day and shot them down.

FINE SERVICE SAYS THE BUILDER

Builders supply houses are often judged by the men who deliver the materials to the job. Promptness, courtesy and intelligence are called for. Our men get there on time, unload and pile where the builder directs, always hustling and no grumbling. "FINE SERVICE" is our star salesman!

NURSERY SHIPMENT TO THE NORTH START

Cold Weather Has Delayed Dispatching Shrubs and Other Stock—Ship Them Direct.

Shipments of nursery goods by the Burr Nursery to points north, which have been held up because of the cold weather were started yesterday. Loaded with stamps Postmaster E. F. Brown started for the Burr plant early in the morning and as fast as the shipments, which are to be sent by parcel post, were weighed, he applied the necessary stamps, the C. O. D. charge and saw that they were dispatched for the Manchester station. An exceptional large shipment is to be made and this plan saves rehandling the matter at the post office.

PREPARE FOR BYRD

Panama City, May 2.—(AP)—It is understood here that when Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd reaches Panama June 16 the entire personnel of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, except those who already are in the United States, will be assembled here for the triumphant return to the United States.

Admiral Byrd is expected to remain here from two to three weeks for that purpose. He will be feted by Admiral J. R. Y. Blakeley, commander of the 15th naval district; Major General Main Craig, commanding general of the Panama Canal Department; Colonel Harry Burgess, governor of the Canal Zone; President Florencio Arosemena of Panama, and many local organizations.

NEW SET GETS TEST IN PLANE MANEUVERS

Washington.—(AP)—A new radio receiver, developed for the fighting pursuit ships of the air corps, is being given its first service tests at the 1930 field exercises in Sacramento, which close April 28.

Described as a "high-gain" receiver, it has sufficient sensitivity to operate on a six-foot antenna with a daylight range of 200 miles and is capable of being remotely controlled.

The equipment weighs 25 pounds, and remote control will allow its installation in the rear of a plane, leaving the tiny cockpit of single-seat ships less crowded.

A small control, similar to and alongside of the throttle, will allow the pilot to tune in on ground stations 200 miles away or talk with planes in the air 30 miles away while still flying in close formation. The equipment was developed by the signal corps.

Radio is playing a major part in the field exercises with the most extensive tests of plane-to-plane and plane-to-ground communication ever attempted.

Pursuit ships, speeding high in the air at three miles a minute, execute verbal orders from a ground message center, huge bombers rumbolling along below, and observation ships.

Ground-combing attackships, hopping hedges for surprise attacks on an imaginary enemy, are directed by means of radio, which is employed to co-ordinate the operation of all planes in the air.

Wavelengths used allow the average home radio owner in the vicinity to listen in on orders and reports and experiments will be re-broadcast on several occasions throughout the country over two chain systems.

HAD 37 CHILDREN.

Mexico City, May 2.—(AP)—The paper Excelsior's unique effort to find Mexico's most prolific mother has brought an entry from Tuxtla Gutierrez, capital of Chiapas, where Leoncio Chavarria and his wife, during forty years of their wedded life have been the parents of thirty-seven children.

Twenty-three were boys and fourteen were girls. With the exception of the first born, the subsequent arrivals were eighteen pairs of twins.

POET LAUREATE

Why a poet laureate?

The official position of poet laureate of Great Britain, which now seems on the point of going to John Masefield as successor to the non-productive Bridges, is a descendant of the ancient job of the chief court minstrel. Ben Jonson was the first of the modern regime of poets laureate, though his position as official court poet, created by Charles I, did not bear that exact title. Ben, however, got the salary and the chance at the royal wine cellar which during a number of reigns were the substantial official evidences of recognition of poetic genius in England. There have been about a dozen poets laureate since Jonson was buried standing up; but in recent times if any of them had had to live on his court pay there would have been small chance of his becoming as fat as the first man on the list.

Some pretty bad poets at one time and another have enjoyed the distinction of being laureated. In strictly modern times Tennyson was the only one to measure anywhere near up to the distinction conferred on him—and there are plenty of folks who regard Tennyson rather as a polished and skillful manipulator of nice language than as an inspired genius.

Masefield, of course, is a true poet; and not likely to become a worse one because of the somewhat servile implications of the job, which was originally that of a hired lauder of the glory and grandeur of the sovereigns and their families. It isn't easy to imagine the free soul of Masefield truckling basely to the favor of the court for the sake of the honor and a little over a hundred pounds sterling a year.

Yet British poets laureate are never mentioned without the thought of Americans reverting straight to Rudyard Kipling. Personally a can-fankerous and temperamental individual, Kipling in his heyday stood so far above all other English poets that there was no comparison. No pen has more splendidly sung the song of British glory than his. He was as national as the Union Jack. He, beyond any poet who ever lived, deserved recognition as the chief minstrel of the British nation. But he had political ideas and he called Queen Victoria "The Widow of Windsor." So he was "out."

So long as there is a Rudyard Kipling on earth the office of poet laureate of the British court, held by any one else, will be generally regarded by English speaking people as largely synthetic.

THE SMITH MURDER

East is East and West is West and never the twain, in all likelihood, shall be exactly the same in manner and method, even if there be small difference in principle. The Southwest is essentially "Western." Oklahoma is more than its many hundreds of miles distant from Connecticut. The highly theatrical arrest and preliminary prosecution of P. G. Seelye and John L. Wike in connection with the murder of the Smith brothers was a typical piece of Western breeziness, energy and love of the spectacular. Even the dramatic conversion of the young prosecutor Oldham to a sudden conviction of the innocence of the Connecticut men was an essentially native and hearty proceeding. Any such manifestation in a court this side of the Mississippi would be impossible.

Altogether the proceedings against Seelye and Wike seem to have proceeded from emotion—just as they proceeded from emotion and the revulsion of public sentiment toward them in Muskogee appear to have been largely emotional. Regrettably, however, emotion is not a highly useful element in the solution of mysterious crimes. And at this distance there is, in the record of the Muskogee authorities' operations up to date, very little to encourage the expectation that the murderers of the Smith brothers are likely to be discovered; unless, perchance, the many Connecticut friends of the victims should decide to finance a long and quiet investigation of the affair by some expert detective less breezy and explosive in his methods than appear to be customary in Oklahoma.

FINDING THE CURE

The logic on which President Hoover predicated his thanks to the business leaders of the country for co-operation in stabilizing industry deals with implications rather than with concrete facts; or, more properly, with negative rather than positive data. The president is convinced, obviously, that if industrial, business and financial leaders had not co-operated earnestly, the slump of last fall would have been a smash. Naturally he does not want to have the country lose sight of the achievement in prevention that was accomplished; especially as it provides a certain amount of evidence for his contention that such crises are controllable by corrective action promptly taken, and preventable altogether by anticipatory methods.

There is one point in the President's statement with which almost everybody except the rankly superstitious will agree—that the theory that the speculative rise and fall in values which precipitated last autumn's sudden depression were symptoms of some subtle economic disease for which there is no cure and which, whenever it recurs, must run its course, is a complete fallacy.

Every effect is preceded by a cause. Every industrial crisis, every financial panic, is attributable, if we could find it, to some violation of immutable economic law. It is Mr. Hoover's belief that our economic errors are all discoverable and all curable. This is the plainest kind of common sense. And, though for some inscrutable reason a large element in Congress seems determined not to follow President Hoover's leadership, it is highly probable that, before his term of office expires, the President will succeed in getting that body to agree with him in the taking of necessary measures to diagnose the nation's business ailments and discover the indicated correctives.

AUTO HORNS

The Noise Abatement Commission appointed by the health commissioner of New York City is conducting research into the possibilities of the automobile horn. It seeks a signal for motor cars which will combine the maximum of warning quality with a minimum of shock to the nerves.

There is plenty of room for improvement in the general character of the automobile horn. It is unnecessarily cross. It has no business to adopt a tone indicating the conviction that the pedestrian is a worm and that the only reason for warning him is to keep his remains from musing upon the chassis. It is arrogant and insulting. It needs a little molasses in its makeup—folks will avoid a busted barrel of molasses as diligently as they will a broken carboy of vitriol; the difference is that they will grin at the molasses deluge and fall, in a panic fit, into the vitriol.

Still and all, what we long for in the way of an automobile horn is one capable of emitting a mechanical raspberry. And we want it attached to the back of our car. Then, when we are compelled to stop in traffic and the car behind starts tooting his horn at us we can push a special button and answer him in the terms his idiotically exasperating taunt deserves. Incidentally, a horn like that, connected up with the reverse gear shift, could be universally used to advantage when cars are backing out of parking places.

ORPHAN TARIFF

The House of Representatives yesterday adopted all that part of the conference tariff bill not reserved for test votes—the rates on lumber, sugar and silver, the debenture provision and restricted flexible provisions tacked onto the Senate bill by the Democratic-Insurgent coalition.

When the bill goes back to the Senate we shall have some more talk, considerably more than a year having failed to provide opportunity for all the tariff windjamming stock. And presently, the chances are, we shall have a tariff bill for which no party will assume the responsibility.

It is doubtful if President Hoover will veto it, though there is a considerable body of good, sound tariff respecting opinion, not a little of it among Republican newspapers, which holds that the present tariff law is preferable to this hodgepodge product of a Republican House and a Senate dominated, in nine-tenths of its tariff making, by the Democrats and the Farm Bloc working in unison.

That some of these latter tinkers are a bit frightened at their own handiwork is evidenced by the fact that they are now calling it a Grundy bill, merely because Senator Grundy was able to bring about a break in the coalition on two or three schedules. There is a Washington report, however, to the effect that Senator Grundy thinks so little of the bill as a whole that he may not even vote for it—though that is unlikely.

NEW IDEA IN GEORGIA

The state of Georgia is undergoing a brand new experience. It is dealing, in its courts, with the conviction of two bad eggs of whites for the deliberate murder of a Negro and his wife. These assassins were prosecuted by an earnest prosecutor and convicted of first degree murder by a jury of white men. They were sentenced to death. If they are executed they will be the first whites to pay the extreme penalty for killing Negroes in the state of Georgia. There have been innumerable such crimes but they have been whitewashed or very lightly punished.

Incidentally their case is still in the state Supreme Court on appeal and their execution, once deferred, is a matter of some doubt. Still and all it is a new thing down there to go even this far on the road to real justice for the Negro.

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 2—Perhaps for the first time, an Atlantic liner sailed the other day with a passenger list which signed itself "one big family."

No average tourist had a chance to buy cabin room, for the entire space of the liner DeGrasse had been taken over by the members of New York's Philharmonic Orchestra.

There are, if you please, some things like 120 players in this symphonic organization and, starting off on a European tour which will take in Berlin, London, Prague, Brussels, Paris and way points, they were allowed to take along their wives and families. So there were some 30 wives and a considerable assortment of children.

Which reminds me that James Carroll, the "property" man at Carnegie Hall, has fallen heir to a large job. It is up to him to keep an eye on some 200 instruments, including several extraordinarily valuable fiddles—two worth something like $100,000—and also see that they are properly routed on European trains which are not especially famous for their efficiency. To keep them from going astray, the packages and trunks have been marked with a large white design.

It is not, perhaps, generally known that America boasts the second oldest orchestra in the world. In the fact of a great deal of talk about music in Europe, as compared to that of America, we can point with pride to the fact that the Philharmonic not only has an international reputation, but dates its beginnings back to 1842. Only London can beat that record.

I am told that in those dear old days, symphony musicians were not supposed to occupy chairs. They all stood while playing and doubled as ushers before each program started.

For generations the theater has maintained the tradition that come what may, the show "must go on."

Actors have left the deathbed of wives, sons, mothers and fathers to rush to the stage in time to "go on." Men and women have played their roles in the face of their own tragedy.

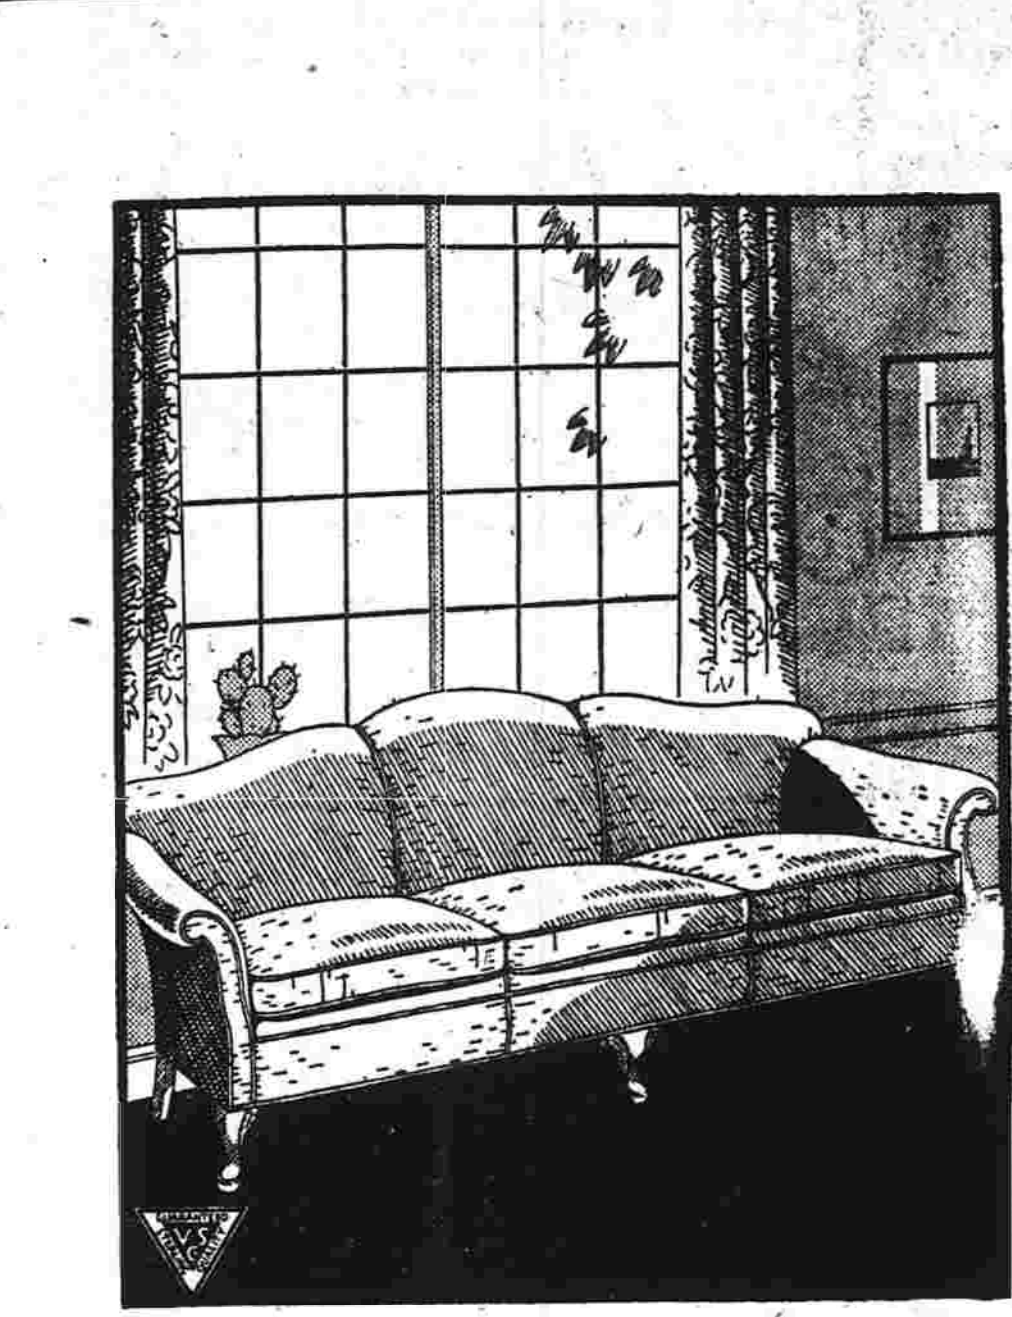

And now, it seems, the tradition has been handed on to the radio. Within the past few months at least a dozen broadcasting artists have appeared on scheduled telephonic heartaches and heartbreaks they have just left behind them for a moment.

One of the strangest cases I have ever encountered in this connection was that of an actor who had a great reputation for playing unfaithful husbands.

For years whenever a New York company was casting for a play containing such a role, he was almost certain to get the job. He had a sort of reckless, sophisticated way of acting the part of a gay playfunder. Persons in the audience often wondered what sort of a private life he led, their notions being colored, of course, by what they had watched upon the stage. Once in a while, a press agent would make some sly comment about him.

One day I met him at the Players' Club and we fell to talking of himself. He seemed a strangely old and brooding man. His face was lined and gray-tinted from worrying and lack of sleep. It appeared that for three years he had been nursing a wife, slowly dying from cancer. He was at her bedside night after night, after he would drop in at the club for a moment of companionship. He said she could live but a short time and it was breaking his heart. Yet, he would go from her bedside to the theater and play a faithless husband. Funny—what? GILBERT SWAN.

NATIONAL BETTER HOMES WEEK — APRIL 27 to MAY 3

The classical design starts here Queen Anne cabriole feet, daintily carved, graceful roll arms and the lightly upholstered back of the sofa, follow the classical style in which this room is furnished. It is similar to the sketch, excepting with a tufted back. All hair and down upholstered; tan frieze covering $295

A description in full

This 18th century room has a wallpaper background in a self-tone lattice design of soft, creamy putty color. A reproduction of a rare Oriental "Persian Garden" prayer rug in tones of gold, rose and blue covers the floor while plain rose drapes of silky texture hang over plain marquisette curtains at the windows.

The davenport and lounging chair, sketched, are covered in plain tan frieze which blends with the gold in the rug, and a Queen Anne barrell chair repeats the rose tone in its damask covering. Blue is again introduced into the room in the tapestry covered Martha Washington chair.

A Colonial secretary has been furnished, handmade of solid mahogany with O-G feet, and also a large drop-leaf Molly Pitcher table of solid mahogany, a nest of tables and a Duncan Phyfe tip table.

Three lamps . . . a bridge and two table types . . . furnish adequate light for night, and are of the classical designs in keeping with the other furnishings of the room.

LAST Wednesday we told you about the $400 living room which a special committee of Manchester's Mothers' Club furnished at our store in conjunction with the Manchester Better Homes Week Committee. For their second room, this committee furnished a living room in the 18th century Colonial manner on a budget of $1,200. Both of these living rooms are on exhibit this week—National Better Homes Week—and you are invited to inspect them, for they present many worth-while decorating ideas.

The Pieces Sketched A Martha Washington arm chair with solid mahogany arms, front legs and stretchers, is covered in a blue tapestry having small flower sprays in green, rose and gold $49.50

Three nested tables, of solid mahogany inlaid with hair-fines of satinwood, are placed at the end of the davenport $31.50

The deep lounging chair of English style, shown below, is covered in the same rich tan frieze as the davenport. $112.50

The following members of Manchester's Mothers' Club were appointed a committee to furnish and decorate the two model living rooms: Mrs. C. Ely Rogers, Mrs. Charles E. Palsay, Mrs. Richard C. Alton, Mrs. John H. Sadler and Mrs. Bert F. Andrews.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

Washington, May 2.—Your correspondent has just taken a good close squint at President Hoover to confirm common belief that he has been looking much poorer and older after more than a year in office, what with all his troubles. Report: Not especially apparent, although his hair has grown quite silvery, an obvious change.

The executive offices, remodeled since the White House fire, are much handsomer. The most striking improvement is in the lighting fixtures, although there's a handsome new set of black leather furniture. The dozen wall lights in Hoover's private office now rest in large, upturned domes and are supported by long, scabbard-like pieces of highly polished nickel, matching the Hoover hair. The shining chandelier in the center is equally modernistic, with a flat frosted circular surface a yard in diameter through which the light filters.

Trimings and suspensions are in nickel except for a large golden eagle decorating the suspension about a foot above the chandelier itself. Beneath the frosted surface hangs a manycanted crystal ball about three inches in diameter. The new cabinet room lighting is even more modern. Two ceiling light clusters are set against mirrors reflecting down on the cabinet table and fringed with crystal tassels. Wall lights are set behind frosted circular panes inset into gilded frames featuring other golden eagles.

Well, somebody reads this stuff, anyway. And it turns out to be none other than the Hon. Cole L. Bleese, senator from South Carolina, a fact, which your correspondent acknowledges with pleased "blushes." The mails brought this: "Dear sir: I notice in the Columbia (S. C.) Record, of Tuesday, April 15th, an article on the front page, signed by you, in which you state, speaking of Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina: 'He was the one Democratic senator who refused to vote for an increased duty on anything.'"

"Will you please point out to me where I voted for any tariff on any article, either or low? I will thank you for this information." "I shall withhold my reply in the Senate to this article in the Columbia Record for a reasonable time, awaiting your reply. Very respectfully, Cole L. Bleese."

Subsequent mails carried this reply: "Dear Senator Bleese: The only information I have concerning your votes for tariff increases is to be found on Page 4027 of the Congressional Record for February 18 and on Page 4075 of the Congressional Record for February 19. It appears that you voted for the Connally amendment to raise the duty on dates in packages. Trusting that this is the information desired Cordially yours. . . . Anyway, Senator Bleese came within two votes of matching the record of Senator Smith."

HEALTH DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank McCoy

KEEP THE DRAINS CLEAR It takes place a dangerous cesspool is formed which may poison the entire system. The large colon, by acting as a storage place for most of the solid excretions, is very likely to be a source of systematic poisoning, especially as in some cases the waste material backs up into the small intestines where it is readily absorbed. Either partial or complete constipation is bound to permit some of the retained poisons to be forced back into the circulation to be handled by the liver. Unless the colon empties normally, its contents, really consisting of garbage, become decayed and fermented.

Whenever you find that your system is becoming toxic, you feel sluggish, or tire readily, or have any of the pre-disease symptoms, you may be sure that a dangerous cesspool has developed some place in your system. Some of your organs of elimination have become clogged. You will usually find that this condition is caused by such things as: using too much food, using bad combinations, using an excess of starches or sugars, not obtaining enough fresh air, allowing yourself to become enervated, or not obtaining enough sleep. You can usually get rid of these dangerous cesspools by correcting the cause and undergoing an eliminative diet and the right kind of treatments. After this you can maintain good health if you will learn to live so that the eliminative organs do not again become obstructed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Orange Peel) Question: G. S. asks: "Is it best for one suffering from stomach trouble to leave out all meats? Is fish harmful? Also I was told that the orange peel was just as beneficial for one as the juice. Is that right?" Answer: It depends on the kind of stomach trouble. If you have ulcers or severe inflammation it might be well to use a milk diet and avoid all solid foods. Meat and fish are no more harmful than any other solid foods. If you have a mild gastritis an orange juice fast would be beneficial. However, the peel should not be used. One by good health may use some of the orange peel if he cares for it.

DIET ROADS

(Norwich Bulletin) Connecticut is not the only state where more attention is being sought for the country roads. More and more it is being realized that it is time to let up a bit on the trunk lines and give heed to the requirements of those who live on the cross roads, those who have been putting in their share of the highway money but getting no attention so far as the highways on which they live and depend in getting to market are concerned. Pink and blue shoes for men are to be the style this summer, men who wear them will have to watch their step.

CLEVER TAXI DRIVER

FOILS HOLD-UP MAN

New York, May 2—(AP)—A taxicab driver with a little quick thinking and a ready tongue, today talked a holdup man out of the idea of robbing him and into a trap that led to his arrest.

David Sterrer, the driver, told the police that the holdup man tried to rob him while a passenger in his cab in Central Park. Sterrer said he reasoned with him something like this:

"Why are you sticking me up for? I've got less than twenty dollars with me and besides I need it worse than you do. I've got a wife to support and my kid is sick in the hospital. If you want to pull a stickup, why don't you go down to the Village Nut Club. You can pick up a couple of grand down there."

So the stranger permitted Sterrer to drive him to the Greenwich Village resort. Immediately after the man entered, the taxi driver informed a policeman who entered the club with drawn gun and arrested the would-be holdup man as he stood at the entrance surveying the crowd. The man gave his name as Edward Donahue, 23 years old, and after being forced to pay Sterrer $1.40 taxi fare was arrested on a charge of attempted robbery.

POWER UTILITIES UNCOVER CAUSES OF RADIO NOISE

Two Years of Complaint Investigations Show 93 Per Cent of Trouble Beyond Company Control.

Investigation of complaints of radio interference by Connecticut power and light utilities over a period of nearly two years has revealed that 93 per cent of all of the interference suffered by radio enthusiasts in this state results from electrical and mechanical equipment not owned by the electric company and from other causes completely beyond its control.

The investigations have shown that faulty wiring, household electric appliances, neighboring machinery, doorbells, oil burners and even the ordinary switching on and off of electric lights in one's own home or in those of his neighbors cause exactly 46 per cent of the radio interference. Ordinary static and broadcasting station power failures cause more than one-quarter of the interference while about one-fifth of the noisy troubles of the radio fans are due to defects in their own sets.

In only seven per cent of the cases was power and light company equipment found responsible for the trouble. Many complaints were based upon what the radio owner believed to be a "leaky" transformer in his neighborhood. This complaint is quite mythical because transformers do not "leak." The companies throughout the state, however, make every effort to correct such of the disturbances as may be due to defects of its equipment, and sometimes the information obtained from radio complaints leads to the discovery of incipient faults which can be corrected before they become serious enough to cause interruption to service or material damage to the property of the company.

WESLEYAN APPOINTMENTS.

Middletown, Conn., May 2.—(AP)—Six appointments to the Wesleyan university faculty were announced today.

Dr. Harold Israel was named as the Frank B. Week visiting associate professor of psychology for the first semester of 1930-31. He is now connected with Smith College.

Other appointments were Elmer Schattschneider of Rutgers as assistant professor of government; Carl V. Herron, of the Presbyterian church of Orange, N. J., as associate pastor of the college church; Paul A. Reynolds, as instructor in philosophy; Earl D. McKenzie, instructor in German and Sam H. Brockunier of Harvard, as instructor in history and government.

ARM FOR ELECTIONS.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, May 2.—(AP)—General Rafael Leonidas Trujillo and Rafael Estrella Urena, the government candidates, today told the Associated Press they expected to win in the election to be held on May 16.

Violence in the coming polls is not expected to develop. Both said however that men throughout the republic were arming themselves with revolvers. Senator Trujillo added that fighting on a large scale would be impossible, since the government controls all machine guns, and automatic rifles. He said "the Dominican people do not go to war with revolvers. If there is any shooting on election day it will be of a purely personal nature between voters."

WANT HONOR SYSTEM.

Middletown, May 2.—(AP)—Wesleyan undergraduates have voted overwhelmingly in favor of continuance of the honor system in examinations, the results of a recent survey disclosed today. Seventy per cent of them however said they had seen violations but it was pointed out that a dozen or more may have seen the same student break the rules.

They also voted in favor of an increase in allowance of cuts for both weekly and Sunday chapel and found the greatest evil is that "Sunday chapel stifles religious feeling because it is compulsory."

The majority of men expressed the desire for more lenient class cut rules.

SEEK FALLEN PLANE.

Mt. Holly, N. J., May 2.—(AP)—With airmen scouring the ground from the sky, more than a dozen planes were continuing their search today for a large yellow cabin biplane, reported to have crashed yesterday in the New Jersey pine belt.

Robert Johnson, Pemberton, first to report the supposed crash, said the plane fell near the spot where Amelio Carranza, Mexico's good-will flier, lost his life two years ago. The scene is in a thickly wooded section between Brown's Mills and Whittings, near Hanover farms.

Auto Accident

An Automobile accident at the corner of Orchard and Union streets about 7:30 last evening caused quite a bit of excitement and a large crowd gathered following a loud crash. A Ford car owned and driven by Howard C. Works of South Manchester was going up Union street at a moderate rate of speed, when a car owned by Alexander Caronecki and driven by his son Stanley of West Main street going down Union street turned the corner, the two cars colliding. The driver of a third car on Orchard street, seeing the Chevrolet sedan turning the corner backed up his machine just in the nick of time.

In the Ford coupe with Works was Miss Baker from Stafford Springs, who injured her knee, and her head was also bruised from striking the windshield. The windshield was broken from the force of the collision and the radiator and steering rod were broken. The coupe was towed to the Ford repair station.

The girl also suffered from nervous shock and was taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Herzog, who reside at this corner, where she received treatment. She was able to leave for her home an hour later.

ITALY'S SEA PLANS WORRY THE FRENCH

Paris, May 2.—(AP)—Analysis of the Italian naval construction program for 1930 has resulted in some uneasiness in French official circles.

It is remarked that the Italian plans call for exactly the same tonnage as the French, 43,000 for this year. Officials also note that the chief item on Italy's program is submarines, of which 22 are to be put on the stocks this year. This is precisely the department in which Italy was furthest behind France.

Because Italy now has less than half as many underwater craft, and proposes to bring her total to parity at once. This naval development did not, it was said in official circles, seem likely to facilitate negotiations between France and Italy as provided at the London naval conference just ended.

fore beginning the discussion," a French official said.

One interpretation of the new Italian program is that Mussolini aims to establish the principle of parity with France by actual facts before opening negotiations.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
(Mouth Fistula.)

Question:—A. S. asks: "What should I do to cure a small fistula in my mouth? It is in the soft flesh between the tonsil and the palate. It is a small sac filled with food and is painful. It is nearly one-quarter of an inch long."

Answer:—The fistula should probably be cauterized by some local treatment which your doctor could no doubt give you.

(Eczema.)

Question:—Mrs. H. K. L. writes: "I am troubled with eczema and my baby also seems to have a white crust or scale on its scalp. Will you tell me which foods cause eczema or how I should treat it?"

Answer:—There are no particular foods which cause eczema. It seems to come mostly from an acidosis of the system through the use of wrong food combinations and over-eating of the acid-forming foods. It is usually necessary to fast for a week or two at the start of the treatment. After the fast the diet simply needs to be well balanced. The crust on the baby's head may be a form of eczema due to an already toxic state of blood in the young child. This must come from wrong feeding, either from the mother's milk or from artificial feeding. The eczemas in childhood are easily cured by putting the child on a proper diet.

(Quantity of Orange Juice.)

Question:—T. Y. asks: "How much orange juice should I take each day on an orange juice diet to reduce?"

Answer:—About one glass of orange juice should be taken every two hours during the day time.

Columbia Not Certain To Win Blackwell Race

Lions, Yale and Penn in Big Event Tomorrow Afternoon on Housatonic River At Derby.

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Although they have two regattas from which to choose, most of the East's rowing fans will be found along the banks of the Housatonic at Derby, Conn., tomorrow. There the annual Blackwell Cup regatta will be rowed with Columbia defending the cup against Yale and Penn. At the same time, Princeton's four eights will be meeting Mass. Tech on Lake Carnegie, Princeton.

Columbia swept the Housatonic last year but expert advance opinion looks for such a result this year. The Lions of 1930, in beating Navy and M. I. T. at Annapolis two weeks ago did not seem nearly as formidable as the 1929 aggregation. As the experts see it, Yale has at least an even chance of breaking Columbia's winning streak. Ed Leader has developed another powerful eight at New Haven. Penn figures only as a "dark horse" in the varsity event.

The junior varsity and freshman events will be rowed over a two mile course. The lightweights will travel only a mile and five sixteenths. New York, May 2.—Columbia's rowing personnel, more than fifty strong, moved to Derby, Conn., early today, and tomorrow the Lions will compete with Yale and Pennsylvania in the Blackwell Cup Regatta on the Housatonic River. Although Columbia won the Blackwell Cup 4 years ago, it is the first time since the trophy was set up for competition in 1923, some doubt exists as to the possibility of the champion Morningside eight repeating its triumph.

A long workout yesterday on the Hudson River closed out the Blue and White's preparation on home waters for the regatta. No changes were made in any of the four crews—varsity, junior varsity, varsity 150-pound, and freshman—that will compete in the Derby Day activities and it is practically certain that the boats will paddle up to the starting line tomorrow with the same makeups as were in use yesterday.

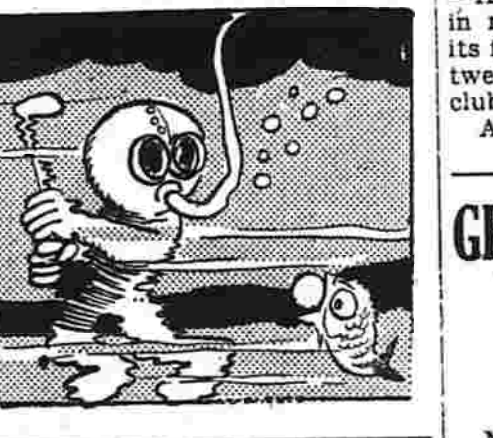

Four veterans from last season's varsity will be in the Blue and White big eight against Yale and Pennsylvania. They are Captain John Murphy, No. 4; Bill Santoro, No. 6; Bill Bliese, No. 8; and Hank Walters, No. 9. The other four positions are occupied by members of the last year's powerful junior varsity boat, Ed Lozier, No. 2; Mal Bonyngne, No. 3; Harold Frazer, No. 5, and Carl Ganzle, No. 7.

Whole Fleet On River Yesterday's workout saw the entire Columbia fleet covering about five miles on the glassy Hudson. Coach Richard J. Glendon supervised the heavyweights and watched the varsity and freshman 150-pound squads. Several racing starts were practiced, as nearly every crew, especially the varsity, has been weak in this department. To top off the drill Glendon had the varsity, junior varsity, varsity 150-pound and freshman eights sprint a quarter of a mile to Spuyten Duyvil. This sprint was featured by the powerful showing of the freshman eight, which stayed up with the varsity and junior varsity to cross the finish line with them in a dead heat. The 150-pounders trailed by about a quarter of a length.

Shells Shipped Last Night Shells, oars and other equipment were sent to Derby last evening under the direction of manager Fred Platt and Ben Johnson, veteran riggers. Johnson will get the shells ready for oarsmen early this morning so that when the squad arrives at the scene of activities about 11 o'clock everything will be ready for practice. Another drill late this afternoon will conclude Columbia's heavy work in preparation for the regatta, but if Glendon believes it necessary, the Lion eights will show off for a brief paddle tomorrow morning.

Golfing With The Duffer

By JOE O'GOFFY Golf Editor The Cycling Sailor

Let us suppose the embryo golfer through failure to follow the instructions given in this column shoots into the water hazard and the ball is seized by a fish. There are divers ways out of this predicament. For the sake of argument, we will suppose that the fish is a small one. The embryo golfer, after putting on his diving suit, descends to the bottom of the lake, taking care that his approach be not too noisy. The golfer should carry a small anchor with him.

The ball usually will be in the fish's mouth. The fish, by mistake, has believed it to be a red apple, and by the time the golfer has reached the bottom of the lake, is debating with himself Miss Orcutt, who preceded the rest of the team by a week, not only defeated her singles opponent, Mrs. J. B. Watson, 4 and 3, but paired with Mrs. H. A. Martell of Hartford, Conn., to win in foursomes from Dorothy Pearson and Phyllis Lobett, 7 and 6.

Miss Collett herself was beaten in both singles and foursomes. She lost to Miss Goulay, 1 up, in a tight match in singles and with Marion Bennett of New Britain, Conn., howed Miss Goulay and Enid Wilson in the foursomes, 4 and 3. All seventeen members of Miss Collett's team will play in the British Women's championship as will five other American's the most noted of whom is Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia.

Results of the matches yesterday follow: Singles Miss Molly Gourlay, England, defeated Miss Glenna Collett, 1 up. Miss Enid Wilson, England, defeated Miss Virginia Van Wie, 4 and 3. Miss Maureen Orcutt, America, defeated Mrs. J. B. Watson, 4 and 3.

Miss Jean McCulloch, England, defeated Miss Helen Hicks, 2 and 1. Mrs. O. S. Hill, America, defeated Miss Elsie Collett, 2 and 1. Miss Dorothy Pearson, England, defeated Miss Edith Quier, 2 and 1. Miss Doris Park, England, defeated Miss Bernice Wall, 3 a 1.2. Mrs. Stewart Hanley, America, defeated Miss Phyllis Lobbett, 1 up. Miss Diana Fishwick, England, defeated Mrs. Leo Federman, 6 and 4.

Miss Louise Fordyce, America, defeated Miss Doris Chambers, 3 and 1. Misses Goulay and Wilson, England, defeated Misses Collett and Marian Bennett, 4 and 3. Misses Virginia Van Wie and Peggy Wattles, America, halved with Miss McCulloch and Mrs. Watson. Misses Orcutt and Mrs. H. A. Martelle, America, defeated Misses Pearson and Lobbett, 7 and 6. Mrs. Lee Mida and Miss Helen Hicks, America, defeated Misses Park and Fishwick, 1 up. Miss Collett and Mrs. Latham Hall, England, defeated Mrs. Hill and Miss Fritzie Stifel, 1 up.

Nineteen boys reported for the American Legion baseball practice last evening at the West Side playgrounds. A thorough workout took place including batting, fielding and base running.

Night Baseball Game Over 'WTIC' Tonight

The official inauguration of night baseball between two league clubs out in Des Moines, tonight will be interesting to stay up until 12 o'clock tonight and tune in on WTIC at Hartford. The game will be picked up by a nation-wide hook-up at that hour and described by A. W. "Sem" Kane, veteran Chicago announcer.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 2.—(AP) A club owners vision of a new era in minor league baseball will have its first test tonight in the game between the Des Moines and Wichita clubs of the western league. Around the rimside of Keyser's Park, huge towers, some ninety feet high, support batteries of electric projectors that will flood the diamond with 40,000,000 candle power. Preliminary tests indicated players would experience no disadvantages from the diffusing brilliance.

The all-highest of baseball have shown their interest in the night game and many of them will be in the stands. Kansas Mountain Land, the commissioner will be the guest of honor, and although he did not believe the majors needed to adopt night baseball to insure financial success, he said he was anxious for the success of the experiment because of the stimulating tonic it would have on baseball as a whole.

Jimmy "Red" Commerford, former Bristol High school baseball and basketball star, pitched Fordham to a 4 to 2 victory over Villanova yesterday, allowing only five hits and whiffing four. Commerford was the star center on the Bristol team when it won the state court title and went to Chicago a few years ago and played against Manchester teams several times.

Ben Ticker, Harvard's hero of the gridiron, the lad who is keeping Ab Lupien, Manchester High product on the baseball bench this season by his splendid playing, cracked out four hits in five trips to the plate yesterday as Harvard downed New Hampshire 10 to 6. Lupien is reserve outfielder. He did not get into the game yesterday. Ticker batted in four runs and scored three himself which is not such a bad day's work.

Local Sport Chatter

Reports from Bates indicate that Lou Cheney, another M. H. S. athlete, is doing well on the freshman track team. He recently took first place in the hammer throw (38-7) and first in the decus (105-7). Douglas Robertson is also doing well at Westchester where he recently captured first place in the 440 event of a meet with Choate. His team lost.

Boston Braves Vault Into Third Position

Athletics Rouse to Trounce Tigers, 19-2; Braves Nose Out Pirates 4 to 3; East-West Series.

The opening of the interseasonal play in the major leagues is generally considered a starting the first real tests of relative strength among the teams. Prior to the first east-west games, they engage in a sort of round-robin affair, but when one division is lined up against another there usually are important changes.

The interseasonal action of the 1930 campaign begins in earnest today after a two-game preview yesterday which gave an exciting hint of what may happen.

In American League contest the rather cattered world champions, the Philadelphia Athletics, opened their first real attack of the year to trounce the Detroit Tigers 19 to 2. The A's are in fourth place after the eastern series.

The western representative also went down in the National League's first interseasonal game as the Boston Braves took a surprise decision from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3.

Yesterday's triumph over Pittsburgh put the Braves into third place while the Pirates dropped from first.

St. Paul—My Sullivan, St. Paul, outpointed Jim McCarthy, Chicago, 10. Jimmy Gibbons, St. Paul, knocked out Chuck Golden, Minneapolis, 3.

The Husband Hunter

BEGIN HERE TODAY
NATALIE CONVERSE tries to conquer her jealousy over her husband, ALAN. But when he receives a call to the home of BERNADINE LAMONT, a popular night club hostess, she demands that he refuse to go. He leaves, after explaining that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life. The actress surprises Alan by saying that her doctor has given her only a short time to live and requesting him to take care of her son, BOBBY. He promises and tries to tell Natalie but she rebuffs him. He confides in his secretary, PHILIPPA WEST, who has been waiting for this opportunity to further her own schemes.

When Natalie comes to the office, Philippa manages to tell her about helping Alan pick out toys for "darling Bobby" and shows a letter from Bernadine in which Alan's visits to Bobby are mentioned. Natalie, who is more than without explaining and Alan follows, hoping for a reconciliation, but her accusations drive him back to the office.

He finds Philippa there and takes her out, but the girl loses her advantage when a pleasant week-end in the Normans lodge at Lake Placid causes Alan and Natalie to make up their quarrel. Philippa deliberately changes an order of the latter has all her old anger aroused on hearing one of the guests at a bridge party say that her broker, Alan Converse, has sent her orchids.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIII
 The maid was in the kitchen gossiping with the cook, when Natalie rang the doorbell. She rang it furiously. The cook shook her head.

"Shure, and it's a temper she's in agin. Fa and I wonder what the dear man's been doin' now?"

The maid put down the cup cake she was eating, and scrambled to her feet.

"You said it Hannah. When she's too sore to use her key, she's sore all right."

"Well, watch your step, young lady," the cook warned her, as she went to answer the repeated summons.

"I'll leave on the spot if she tries to take it out on me," the girl threatened over her shoulder.

Natalie had nothing to say to her. Frances was a well-trained servant, and Natalie knew her value. Besides, it was natural for Natalie to be pleasant when she was not suffering from jealous throes on Alan's account. Nor was it her habit to expend her ill-humor upon innocent persons, other than her husband.

Alan felt he needed someone's sympathy when he arrived. He caught a glimpse of Natalie before she started upstairs. With a hearted gesture, he hung his hat and coat on a chest, and went in to join her.

Almost instantly he knew that something had happened. She looked at him, but her glance was cold. There was not a trace of welcome in her expression.

He halted a step or two away from her, and his desire to kiss her died as suddenly as the sight of her had inspired it.

Awkwardness seized him. He felt for a moment like a stranger in his own home. He had often tried to analyze Natalie's ability to make him feel this way—as though he were guilty of some misdeed. He had come to believe that it was purely dread of a domestic scene.

And he had also decided that it was better to get it over with, since evading the trouble had never seemed possible. Sickening disappointment flooded over him, and he stood there and waited for her to speak.

She was so unutterably beautiful, even in anger. Her lovely lips were drawn out of shape, and her whole face was hard. But it was the hardness of feeling, not of a stony heart. Bitter, feeling, though, and Alan hated it. He would have given his soul at that moment if he could have taken her in his arms, and found her as sweet as he knew she could be—provided she would never change again.

The hopelessness of such a dream lay in the smoldering fire of Natalie's eyes, as she continued to stare at him.

Alan summoned all the courage he could muster. "Couldn't we put it off until after dinner?" he asked suddenly. "I'm terribly hungry."

The small-boy note in his voice tore at Natalie's heart, until it occurred to her that her concern was more for his food than for her. The thought was unjust, of course, but she was in an unreasonable mood.

"Put what off?" she asked icily. "Why?" Alan began then laughed shortly. "It seems to me we always open our merry little wars in this fashion. I say 'let's wait,' and you say 'wait for what?' As if you hadn't already got me all laid out, ready for the lily."

Natalie's eyes narrowed ominously, as the last of her self-control began to slip. "Your kind of humor," she said tensely, "is a poor thing to hide behind. But it's all the defense you have, isn't it? Certainly you can't seriously defend yourself."

Alan shrugged. The protective indifference that he so much deplored, and feared, was coming over him. That it threatened an end to his love, he knew. But he knew, too, that only a dog-like devotion could continue to live under the conditions that Natalie imposed upon him.

"You've already decided that I'm guilty," he said wearily. "Never mind the charges, whatever they are."

"Perhaps you're right!" Natalie cried, jumping to her feet. "There isn't anything you could say. If you like to cheapen yourself, and humiliate me, I suppose you'll go on doing it as long as I'll stand for it."

A trickle of anger penetrated Alan's new-found indifference. That's laying it on pretty heavy, Natalie. He said sharply:

"Is it?" Natalie flung back at him.

"Well, maybe you think it's an insignificant matter to sit before a whole roomful of women, and listen to one of them tell about the bit she'd made with your husband."

Alan's face portrayed his bewilderment.

"Don't stand there, trying to look dumb," Natalie flung at him. "It's war buddy who had saved his life. The actress surprises Alan by saying that her doctor has given her only a short time to live and requesting him to take care of her son, Bobby. He promises and tries to tell Natalie but she rebuffs him. He confides in his secretary, Philippa West, who has been waiting for this opportunity to further her own schemes."

The cook and the maid at the choice parts of the chicken, and Hannah wondered if the Mr. and Mrs. would make up, and be willing to eat chicken hash the next day.

"But I'm afraid their quarrel is soon going to be a habit they can't break," she predicted to Frances.

"We should worry if they don't cat." Frances returned, and helped herself to some more chicken. "You're sure a swell cook, Hannah. Think of her not touchin' a bite on that tray."

She referred to Natalie, who had refused the food Hannah sent up to her room, after Alan had stalked out of the house, dinnerless and seething with indignation.

Without thought of where he was going, he went to the station, but once there, he decided against following his nose any farther. That sort of thing belonged in the past. It was time he had a destination outside, when Natalie made the house unendurable for him, he concluded.

Up until the moment his eyes fell upon the public telephone, he hadn't thought of anyone to help him forget his troubles, but then he did. Why not call up Philippa?

Her voice fairly vibrated with pleasure, when he asked her if she had a free evening.

"We'll go somewhere and dance," Alan said. "I want to be happy."

Philippa laughed. "Why not The Rosebank?" she suggested. "That's where the wild thyme grows."

"Alan agreed. "I'll be a little late getting down. I'm still in in Hillshire, but there's a train in a few minutes."

"Oh, don't come down," Philippa urged him. "I'll meet you uptown."

"That's great. Don't fail me," Philippa's answering laugh welled from the bottom of her heart.

She danced away from the telephone, and to her clothes closet. She wished she had asked Alan about dressing. It wasn't obligatory at The Rosebank. Alan might be in his business suit, but she decided, and reached for her prettiest evening gown.

Her only evening wrap she rejected, as being too elaborate for wear with an escort not in formal clothes. She chose, instead, her dressiest coat, a creation luxuriously finished with blue fox, which she had bought at a sale of used models. From her paper hatbox she brought forth a tissue turban to wear with it.

Having decided what she would wear, she moved swiftly to put the finishing touches to her complexion. A friend who lived in a rooming house, where an Egyptian lady dwelt grandly in the front parlor, had obtained some kohl from her, and given a little of it to Philippa. She had experimented with it until she knew how to apply it as effectively as the Egyptian. She got out the stick she used and put some on now. Then she rouged her lips and touched her cheeks with a dab of the natural outlines. She wanted to be vivid, unrestrained, to look tantalizingly abandoned.

Tonight the role of mouse would be laid aside. Her intuition, and what she had heard in Alan's voice, told her that it wasn't a demure little playmate he wanted.

At last, ready to go, she took a final glance in her mirror. A slow, satisfied smile wreathed itself about her red lips, as she turned away.

There, the author lets us suppose, he will find a free play for his wild romantic tendencies and his fair for adventure. The plot is artificial and extravagant, but Kruger lends a carelessness, sprightly zest to his comedy and keeps it, most of the time, out of the rut of boredom.

It is destined, quite obviously, for the talkies.

MUSICAL AND MILD
 "Jonica" doesn't belong in the top flight of musical comedies, but it has airy freshness in its favor.

Based on Dorothy Heyward's "Have a Good Time, Jonica," its story is about the girl who leaves a convent and gets mixed up in what looks like a murder.

The music is good— notably "I Want Someone" and "A Million Good Reasons"—and June O'Dea and Bert Matthews toll brightly in the leading roles.

The evening passes mildly and agreeably, as if a lot of bright youngsters had gotten together more or less spontaneously and decided to put on a show.

A YEAR ON BROADWAY
 The theater may be well along the road to ruin, but not in recent memory have three plays been able simultaneously to hang out flags on Broadway boasting "Second Year."

Just now "Street Scene" is somewhat more than 18 months old, and "Journey's End" and "Bird in Hand" have crossed the 12-month mark.

Elmer Rice's Pulitzer Prize play is good for another two months at least and Sheriff's English war play has lasted until the movie made from it arrived to complete for patronage on Broadway, which is something of a record.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY
CATHARINE'S BIRTH
 On May 2, 1729, Catharine the Great, empress of Russia, and regarded as one of the most remarkable rulers of modern times, was born at Stettin.

A forceful character and shrewd politician, Catharine came to the throne in 1762, following the murder of her husband, Peter III, and ruled for 34 years.

One of her first official acts was to summon to Moscow representatives of all the provinces to discuss the reforming of the administration of justice. As a result of this meeting the laws of the empire were reorganized. Determined to transform her country into one of the most powerful in Europe, she encouraged immigration, reestablished schools in cities and towns, and sent scholars to other countries to bring back the best in foreign culture. She also secured for Russia great portions of land from Poland and Turkey.

Towards the end of her career she intrigued with lovers and the corruption of her court brought her into discredit in Russia as well as among the rulers of Europe. She died in 1800.

Scanning New Books

By RICHARD MASSOCK
 New York—Books have a tendency to fall into categories and so this month the dour Scots are prominent.

Hugh Walpole, furthermore, makes an excursion into the ascendant field of historical fiction in "Rogue Herries," his contribution to the Scottish lore.

The eminent Englishman draws a picture of a man's soul against the background of early Scotland.

Rogue Herries tried in his life to overcome the inner workings of his mind. A lonely, introspective ruffian, his utter longing for companionship of a stimulating sort drove him into the role of a swaggering, haughty vagabond gentleman, seeking elsewhere what his well-meaning wife failed to supply.

Seemingly more truly infused with the gray, stern life of the moors are two other novels, especially Claire Spencer's "Gallows Orchard," a rising tragedy of a girl stoned to death for disregard of the severe morality of her neighborhood.

Nan Shepherd's "The Weatherhouse," a novel of Scottish weather, goes further in the way of dialect and treats partly with characters who were slightly daft.

Money-Loving Hetty
 Hetty Green, "a woman who loved money," is presented in all her eccentricity, avarice, occasional vindictiveness and more frequent common sense and humanity, in a biography by Boyden Sparkes and Samuel Taylor Moore.

The portrayal of the woman who was a financial Titan in the early days of the century is not an endearing one.

But the picture of the principal

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
 © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE

It may be of interest to parents whose curriculum at school did not include physiology, to know a little about their children's eyes.

Sometimes a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. When children have eye trouble there is no question about it, a good oculist should be consulted at once; but it never does any harm for us to know about the structure of our bodies; in fact it is the greatest aid to keeping ourselves and our children fit that I know.

The eye, being the most sensitive and complicated organ in the body, and the most abused, should come in for special study. The eye-ball is a sack, filled with a watery fluid called the aqueous humor.

The sack itself consists of three layers or coats; the outside or white of the eye is the sclera or sclerotic coat; next lies the choroid coat; the inside is the "dark" film called the retina on which the picture is made that is flashed to the brain. A camera truly!

The colored part is the iris. It consists of tiny sensitive muscles, the most sensitive in the body. The pupil is merely an opening in the iris that enlarges or contracts with the amount of light thrown on the eye. We speak of the pupil contracting but as a matter of fact it is the iris that draws or pulls back its curtain.

In front of the iris is the "watch-crystal," that curves outward from the eye-ball. This is the camera. It is not solid, but filled with a jelly-like substance called the vitreous humor.

The Eye's "Camera"
 In the center of the eye-ball floating in the watery fluid that fills it and a little distance behind the pupil is a hard clear button called the crystalline lens. Wrong vision such as far-sightedness, or near-sightedness is commonly caused by the flattening or bulging of this lens, sometimes by the length of the axis of the eye-ball itself.

Astigmatism is "unequal focus" in the eye-ball, uneven balance of reflected rays.

The process of seeing is complicated affair of light rays that cross and form a picture upside down on the retina and then recross, so that the correct image is carried to the brain.

The optic nerve, or sight nerve, joins the eye-ball at the back. It lies in the brain, close to other important nerves—the stomach nerves, for instance. So that it is easily understood why eye trouble may affect a child's health.

A healthy eye is clear and bright, never red or yellowish. The edges of the lids show a healthy skin.

Symptoms of Eye-Strain
 Eye strain is characterized by congestion or inflammation, crusted lids, scales at the roots of the eye lashes, styes, itching, watering, or smarting, sensitiveness to light, frowning, blurred vision, headaches, fatigue, irritability, indigestion, or dizziness.

If any of these conditions persist a good oculist should be consulted and his instructions obeyed. There are also many clinics where children may be treated.

Prevention is always a good cure. Here are some rules to follow:

In reading, the body should not be bent over the book.

Reading too long, reading in a poor light, reading while lying, and reading while in a weakened condition after illness should be avoided.

Proper reading is to have the light from behind or to one side; for writing it should fall from the left. Never allow a child to write over read with a light in front. Overhead lighting is good. Diffused daylight is the best light, but it should not glare.

Individual soap and towel should be used, and individual handkerchiefs.

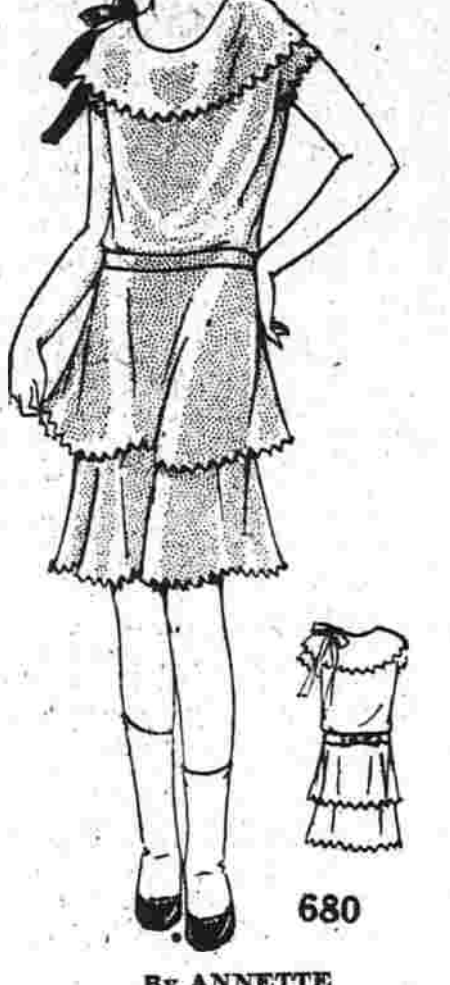

Hands should never touch the face.

The child should have plenty of sleep, and should be under a constant good hygienic regimen that will safeguard his general health.

Men in the United States are said to use $1,000,000 worth of "beauty" preparations a year. And judging from the way they get along with women it seems some make-up is essential.

CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES USUALLY LACK VITAMIN C
 By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

When our knowledge of vitamins first began to develop it was taken for granted that the vitamins found in the fresh fruits and vegetables could be had in equal amounts by taking canned, pickled, or preserved substances.

However, later investigation showed that vitamin C, the anti-scurvy vitamin, could be modified considerably or perhaps eliminated entirely by submitting it to oxidation. Oxidation occurs when such fruits and vegetables are cooked in open kettles on a stove, and does not occur to nearly so great an amount when such substances are cooked under high pressure in sealed cans, as is done in the commercial cooking process.

The only means of finding out how much vitamin C, or indeed any other vitamin, may be present in food is to test it on an experimental animal.

If the animal is given a diet without any vitamin C in it, it will die of acute scurvy in 25 days. If such animals are put on scurvy-producing diets and are then fed the protective substances, it is possible to tell by the response of the animal about how much of the substance is necessary to save its life. Thus the scurvy-preventing factor can be standardized.

Lemon juice is known to be one of the richest substances in content of vitamin C. However, most attempts to pack lemon juice for sale have resulted in the destruction of the vitamin quality. Recently British investigators named J. Williams and J. W. Carrons have attempted to preserve lemon juice with various added substances. They find that the reaction of the bottled lemon juice is of importance in maintaining its content of vitamin C.

They found that the addition of lemon rind oil, or sodium benzoate, or of formic acid did not save the vitamin C. Indeed the latter two substances exerted a destructive action. Oil of cloves had a destructive action and sucrose failed to save the vitamin.

The addition of a very small amount of hydrochloric acid in order to overcome the alkalinity of the lemon juice enabled the saving of the anti-scurvy activity for 14 months.

Here, then is the beginning of evidence which may lead to suitable methods of preserving vitamin C in canned and packed products of the citrus fruits. Canned tomatoes, strawberries, and other fresh vegetables are rich in vitamin C and are now used regularly in the feeding of infants whose diets are deficient in this substance. Thus far, it has not been possible to develop a lemon juice that contained vitamin C factor in usable quantities.

Teachers Vote Dry and Lawyers Wet In Special Polls of Literary Digest

The school teachers of America are the driest and the lawyers are the wettest professional groups in America, according to the returns of the Literary Digest's special classified polls, as published in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

The clergy of the entire country vote strongly for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, although over 34 per cent of this group favor a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act, according to the votes received in this supplementary poll.

The bankers vote 34,518 for repeal and 35,210 for enforcement, with the balance of 15,096 voting for modification.

Practically one-half of the physicians vote for repeal in this poll while 30 per cent favor strict enforcement and the other 20 per cent register their opinions for modification.

In the special poll of The Literary Digest subscribers the vote of this group for repeal is practically the same ratio as that of the main Prohibition Poll, but the vote for enforcement is considerably higher while the percentage for modification lags behind the tabulations in the 20,000,000 ballot poll.

In the poll of nearly 500,000 educators the vote for enforcement is higher, 60 per cent, than that of the dryest State in the main poll, Kansas, and the vote for repeal is less than 25 per cent of the educators' total vote.

Over 55 per cent of the votes in the lawyers' Poll are for repeal while the returns for enforcement are under 30 per cent.

The Literary Digest states they have augmented their huge nationwide poll with these six supplementary polls of the bankers, clergy, educators, lawyers, physicians, and Literary Digest subscribers because these special classes touch the national life in six vital and different ways.

No returns on the main poll are announced this week, the current issue being devoted exclusively to the classified returns which total nearly one million votes.

A noticeable trend in these extra polls, which were conducted somewhat later than the main poll, is the heavy decrease in the vote for modification.

"Bankers," The Literary Digest states editorially, "are interested in keeping America prosperous. Their expert fingers are on the business pulse of every city, town, and village, every line of trade and industry."

"When they vote, they vote for good times and against hard times, and, curiously enough, we find practically the same number voting for enforcement and for repeal, 35,210 for the one and 34,518 for the other, with 15,096 taking the middle ground for modification.

"Striking geographical trends are showed, with bankers in manufacturing States like New York and New Jersey favoring repeal, and bankers in farming States like Kansas and Nebraska favoring enforcement.

"A total of 218,711 ballots were mailed to bankers, of whom 116,235 clergymen to whom ballots were sent, we find 26,863 voting for enforcement, 8,864 for modification, and 15,912 for repeal. Thus a clear majority are for enforcement.

"When we scan the figures in the table, State by State, however, we find the bone-dry in the minority in some places, and actual majorities for repeal in the District of Columbia, Louisiana, Nevada, New York and Wisconsin. This at least shows the complexity of the great wet and dry enigma.

"Then we have the champion dry voters, the educators. Of this class, 490,895 were supplied with ballots. We have chosen the well-known efficient and long-suffering schoolmistress to represent the teachers, but this group also includes thousands of men, school principals, college professors and presidents, and large numbers of men teachers in all the grades.

"The teachers are faced every day with the vital problem of our young people, which flares out in the news columns all too often, and here we have their votes to give us their judgment on what is to be done about it.

"The educators cast 95,422 ballots for enforcement, 22,705 for modification, and 38,956 for repeal. Connecticut and New York stand out as the only two States where the teachers cast more votes for repeal than for enforcement.

"The lawyers should surely have a chance to voice their views here, as it is a question of law-making, law-breaking and law-enforcement.

"Judges, too, are included in this group, so here we have a class who speak with peculiar authority.

"The lawyers evidently differ sharply with the clergy and the teachers, for they show a clear majority for repeal. They vote 18,101 for enforcement, 9,743 for modification, and 34,886 for repeal, the only one of the six groups to show a clear majority for repeal.

"The States where their enforcement vote tops repeal can be counted on the fingers. The number of ballots sent to lawyers was 132,489.

"Nearly a majority for repeal is returned by the physicians, who come forward with 19,956 for enforcement, 13,568 for modification, and 32,325 for repeal, out of a total of 154,670 ballots sent out.

"The physician knows us in a way different from any of the other classes here, and he sees the Prohibition problem as it affects our health and, indeed, often our very lives. Here, too, the fingers suffice to count the States where the medical advisers favor enforcement as against repeal.

"A splendid percentage of response comes from our loyal family of Digest subscribers grandly, returning from 31.46 to 46.83 per cent. of the ballots sent out—returns all most unprecedented in such polls, and showing the great interest in this vote.

"But the Digest subscribers ran easily ahead of them all, and returned 570,656 out of a total of 1,023,631 ballots sent to them, or 55.7 per cent. This poll was confined to our mail subscribers in the forty-eight States, and did not reach Canada or include any of our overseas or news-stand circulation.

"More are still coming in, but the stream had to be halted and checked, and counted at some point, and these are the figures to date. What is known as 'reader interest' seems to stand at a high level here.

"In this poll of subscribers the percentage for repeal, 41.23, is very similar to the corresponding percentage for enforcement, 39.41, is considerably higher, and the percentage for modification, 19.35, is considerably lower.

"The returns by States are well worth careful study. It is only due to our Digest family to say that they are universally recognized as a group of especially alert and intelligent people, whose judgment on any question is well worth listening to, and their vote here is fully as significant as that of the other groups.

"And it is perhaps a symbol of the Digest's historic impartiality that the vote of our subscribers is almost as evenly balanced as that of the bankers. The figures are: enforcement, 224,921; modification, 110,465; repeal, 235,270.

Seven pages in the current Literary Digest are devoted to vigorous partizan letters from doctors who give widely varying views on the subject of Prohibition.

URUGUAY AGAINST PACT

Geneva, Switzerland, May 2.—(AP)—Differences of opinion regarding the Kellogg pact among Latin-American countries, were paraded today before the League of Nations committee on arbitration and security which is considering a general treaty for strengthening the means for preventing war.

During a discussion of the British proposal that terms of the treaty recognize the existence and value of the Kellogg pact. The Uruguay representative, A. de Castro, intimated that he regarded the British proposal as an attempt to force the Kellogg pact upon Uruguay.

Senor de Castro announced that his country would not be a party to the proposed treaty if it mentioned the Kellogg pact.

Uruguay and five other League members and Brazil are not signatories to the pact, he reminded the committee.

MORE MARINES LEAVE

Panama City, May 2.—(AP)—Pursuant to the United States policy of gradually reducing occupational forces in Nicaragua, 105 Marines will leave Puerto Cabezas May 13 on the U. S. Rochester for Hampton Roads, Virginia.

With their removal all Marines will be out of the Puerto Cabezas area.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

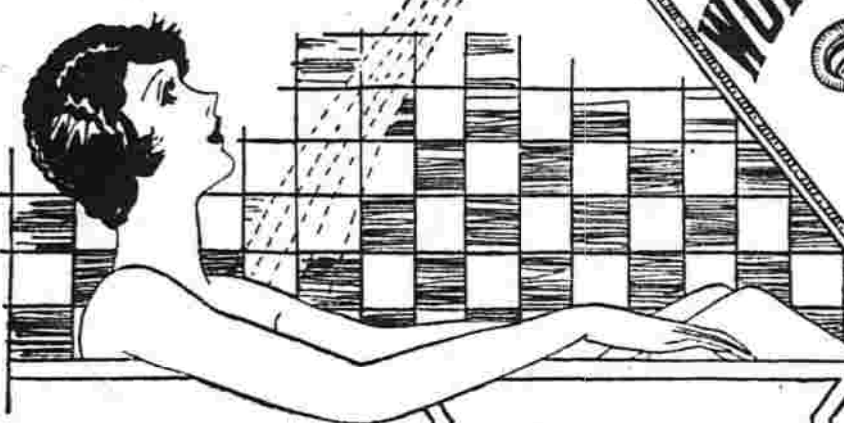

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

COMEDY, "THE PATSY"
TO BE GIVEN MAY 16

South Methodist Epworthers
To Present Popular Play at Cheney Hall—The Cast.

The entire cast of the three act comedy "The Patsy," to be presented by the Epworth League of the South Methodist church at Cheney

Hall, Friday evening, May 16, has been chosen. Extensive rehearsals are being held under the direction of Miss Florence Schilde, former star of many Sock and Buskin productions.

James Wilson, leading man in innumerable plays both by the Town Players and Sock and Buskin, his most recent appearance being in "The Creaking Chair," presented by the Town Players, will play the lead in the part of "Tony Anderson." Miss Vera Hotchkiss will play opposite as "Patricia Harrington." The secondary leads are taken by Thomas Cordeur as "Pop Harrington," and Miss Doris Sisco as "Mrs. Harrington."

OPENING STOCKS

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Shares of several leading industrial stocks rallied at the opening of today's Stock Market, in response to reduction in the Federal Reserve Bank rate, and President Hoover's optimistic summary of business conditions before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, but rails, coppers and miscellaneous issues continued to decline.

American Tobacco B shot up 3-4 points, U. S. Steel, General Electric, and Union Carbide, about 1 point. Kennecott Copper sagged 3-4 to a new low for the year, and Chesapeake and Ohio and United Gas Improvement lost about a point.

The market began to slip soon after the opening. Wall street was inclined to interest the further reductions in Central bank rates both here and in Europe as reflecting slack demand for credit and commercial purposes, and the increase in weekly brokers loans of $57,000,000, while probably due in a measure to carrying of new bond issues, could not be regarded very favorably, as the compilation covered a period of heavy stock liquidation.

While low money rates are expected to prove an eventual boon to business, the effects are regarded as likely to be gradual. Speculators now generally agree that the Stock Market enthusiasm engendered by the extraordinarily cheap money of last March was unwarranted, and faced with the prospect of irregular or dull markets for a time, are cutting down their holdings.

Early rises in such stocks as U. S. Steel and General Electric failed to hold, U. S. Steel soon selling below yesterday's bottom level of 178, but quickly meeting support. Allied Chemical lost more than 5 points, Westinghouse more than 2, Standard of New Jersey, St. Louis-San Francisco, and Missouri Pacific lost a point or more, the last named getting into new low ground. U. S. Industrial Alcohol was again a weak feature. In the early trading, a few of the high priced shares rallied briskly, Case getting up about 10 points, then losing much of its rise. Foreign exchanges opened easy, with Sterling Cables at $4.86 3/32, off 3-32.

BOOZE IN CANDY CASE.

Fairfield, May 2.—(AP)—Catching on to a candy case with a false bottom, state police from the Westport Barracks today raided the Kallay Bowling Alleys, Kings Highway, and arrested George Kallay, the proprietor as a fourth offender under the prohibition laws. Kallay is being held on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell. He has been unable to furnish bonds of $1,000.

ROCKEFELLER GIFT
Paris, May 2.—(AP)—Announcement that the Rockefeller Foundation had tendered a gift of $3,500,000, supplementing a $2,000,000 previous gift toward the completion of University City, was made today by Senator Andre Honnorat, a trustee.

The gift "to erect and furnish a building to house the general services of the University City of Paris" was made in a letter from the Rev. Dr. Raymond B. Fosdick in behalf of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The original gift was found insufficient after plans had been drawn, whereupon according to former Minister Honnorat, "The American philanthropist generously agreed to meet all expenses."

The University City covers a large acreage just outside Paris. It is planned that the university shall be international in its scope.

"DUSTY" MADE BONUS CATCHING THESE TROUT

His Task, However, Is An Unknown Quantity—He Has Some Explaining to Do.

To most fishermen a successful fishing trip means hours of preparation of tackle and bait, an early morning start, and a long distance from home, and returning when the evening shadows fall with a few good trout. To John H. May of 60 Bigelow street, familiarly known as "Dusty" it merely means a few minutes of his supper hour, as for instance:

Last night he left the Center Auto Supply where he is a mechanic, at 5:05 o'clock. He ate his supper at his mother's home on Trotter street, then hurried home to do odd jobs around the house, including the feeding of 30 chicks and the dog. With this completed he went fishing. At 6:05 o'clock, exactly one hour later, he was back at the Center Auto Supply with a string of four native trout, beauties weighing one pound and a quarter each. "The algebra fanatic should have a good time figuring out what X equals in this story, or rather how many minutes four trout equal. The solution is held by Mr. May but whether he'll tell or not is another story.

FORMER RUM BOAT
NOW IN COAST GUARD

New London, May 2.—(AP)—The big speedboat Marjorie, former smuggler, is now a Coast Guard vessel.

She was at the Coast Guard base at the State pier here, having arrived from New York where orders were issued that she be turned over to the service.

The Marjorie was captured by the patrol boat CG-124 from the local base December 3 last, after her crew had grounded her at Montauk Basin. The grounding followed a chase during which machine gun fire was directed at the craft from the patrol boat.

Commander L. T. Chalker, chief of staff of the Coast Guard destroyer force said today that it had not yet been decided for what purpose the boat will be used. It was not known whether her engines will be transferred to a patrol boat or whether she will be converted into a picket boat. The Marjorie is equipped with high powered engines.

YALE GIFT GROWING

Youngstown, Ohio, May 2.—(AP)—Because of the proxy fight over the Bethlehem-Youngstown Sheet and Tube yesterday, Yale has realized more than $300,000 more from the bequest of the late Stephen V. Harkness than normally would have been expected, it has been disclosed in stock purchase figures made public in depositions here.

Merger proponents listing their purchases, told of buying 23,148 shares of the Sheet and Tube stock from Yale at $150 a share or $1,972,200.

At today's market price of 125 asked the stock would be worth only $1,643,500, a difference of $328,700. The stock was a part of the Harkness gift to the university.

COUPLE ELOPE

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Slipping away from a party in a midtown hotel last Tuesday, Catherine Crerar Otis and Frederick Kaehn of Chicago went to Harrison, N. Y., and were married, it became known today.

The bride, daughter of a prominent Chicago family, is the divorced wife of Ralph C. Otis, heir to the Otis Elevator fortune. Mr. Kaehn's home is in Wilmette, Ill., but the couple plans to remain here where the groom will enter the brokerage business. She is 22 and he is 24.

POLICE SUSPECT BOY OF DYNAMITING HOME

Vancouver, Wash., May 2.—(AP)—Clark county authorities today bored deeper into the mystery dynamite blast which killed B. A. Northrup, 55, and his wife, Mrs. Louise Northrup, 51, while they slept early yesterday, and reduced their modest home near Hession, Wash., to splinters.

Clifford Campbell, 16, who had been living with the Northrups and attending school, remained in the custody of juvenile authorities while officials continued their investigation of the blast and the story which Campbell, the only witness, told.

The Northrups had resided in Clark county for 20 years and were well to do. Young Campbell told authorities he was awakened before midnight by cowbells. Thinking that the cows strayed from the pasture, he said he arose, called to Northrup and without waiting for answer, left the house to round up the cattle. As he turned to whistle for his dog, young Campbell said a terrific explosion knocked him to the ground and pieces of lumber from the house fell around him.

Monrovia, capital of Liberia, Africa, was named for President Monroe.

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF PAISLEY FIRE

Edinburgh, Scotland, May 2.—(AP)—Charles Dorward, manager of the Paisley cinema theater in which 70 children died after a fire panic New Year's eve, today was found not guilty of culpable homicide in connection with the deaths. The trial, which was by jury before Lord Alness, began Tuesday. It attracted much public attention, for the panic in the Glen theater was a catastrophe that brought much sorrow to the town of Paisley, where the famous shawls are made. The prosecution charged that Dorward had obstructed one of the two exits by padlocking an iron gate, asserting that persons outside the theater had to wrench off the lock, but could not help because the children by that time were jammed in a heap near the exit. The theater manager asserted he had unlocked the gate and left the padlock on a post. He added he had pushed the gate all the way back, leaving the way open, before the matinee started. When he was in his office, a boy, he said, came in and told him that a fire had broken out. Manager's Story "I rushed through the hall where children were sitting quietly," he testified. "There was a little smoke coming through the ventilators. I went to the vestibule and saw a smoking container, and pushed it out of a side door into the open. "I went back into the hall, where the children apparently were growing restless. I told them everything was all right and to sit still. A boy then shouted 'fire' and immediately the children rose like a flock of sheep and dashed to the exits. I was powerless. "I went back-stage with children clutching me and crying 'save me, save me.' Then I went to the top of the stairs and saw the children lying in a heap. The performance was a special holiday matinee and was attended largely by the children of poor parents. Several families lost all their children. The fire was started when a film became ignited.

STATE POLICE RADIO STARTS CONTROVERSY

Detroit—(AP)—A state police radio system patterned somewhat after that operated by the city of Detroit but designed to connect the state police barracks at East Lansing with 100 or more stations throughout the state is the project of Michigan Gov. Fred W. Green into controversy with the federal radio commission. Disputing the commission's power over a state owned broadcasting station, the governor has issued orders for the construction of the station. The commission has retorted by asking the department of justice to arrest any one starting construction work. To this the governor replied: "If anyone attempts to interfere with the construction of the station I will order him arrested for hampering the state police." Meanwhile plans are being carried out to start work on the station forthwith. State police posts, the offices of marshals and other peace officers will be equipped with receivers which can pick up the low wavelength transmissions from the 6,000-watt station at East Lansing. Transmission will be entirely by voice. Chasing criminals and preventing crime by radio has been unusually successful in Detroit, one of the first cities to use radio equipped scout cars.

STUDENTS BURN PAPERS

Calcutta, India, May 2.—(AP)—A group of students made a bonfire of newspapers which are continuing publication. The proprietor of a local newspaper has wired the secretary of the All-India Journalists' Association asking him to convene a conference of journalists from the entire country before May 10.

REDS OUT ON BONDS

SENSE and NONSENSE

My Choice Give me a car with an appetite That eats up the miles with smooth delight; With under the hood a contented purr As the road frows into the mouth of her.

Let her eat of the distance, vale and hill, Mile after mile till she has her fill; A devouring car is my car of class, So long as she doesn't devour the gas.

In the Back Seat She—Hey! Don't flick those cigarette ashes on my leg. He—Pardon me; I thought it was the fender of the car.

Driver—Look and see how much gas we've got, will you? Attendant—It points to 1/2, but I don't know whether it means half full or half empty.

Batson—I understand some of your hens have stopped laying. Balfry—Two of them have, anyway. Batson—What's the cause? Balfry—Automobiles.

THE TINYMITES

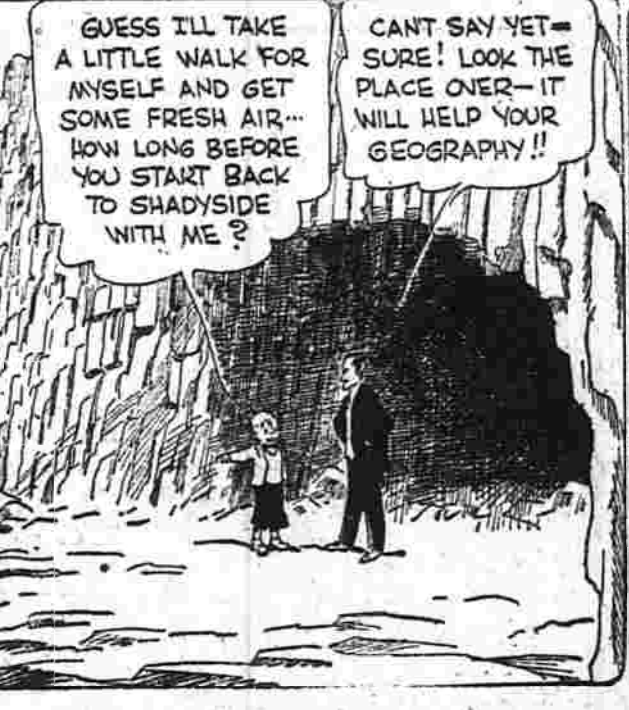

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The Tinymites soon settled down within the plane and looked around. Of course there were small windows and they all grouped right near these. Said Scouty, "Soon we'll rise in air. I'm sure this trip will bring no scare. The plane will skim along the ground and then take off with ease." And that was what was bound to come. They heard the big propeller hum and then the plane began to move. "Oh, gee, this makes my heart beat fast. Just how long will this great trip last? I hope it lasts a long, long time. I like this sort of ride." All of a sudden, up they sailed. The Tinymites all looked out and hailed the people left down on the ground. "Good-bye," was their last word. Of course these happy little boys, forgot, because of all the noise, that it was foolish yelling. Not a soul could hear a word. Real shortly came a lovely treat. The Travel Man said, "Well, let's eat. They serve meals on this monstrous plane. Each Tiny find a place. Then pick the food that you like best and tell me. I will do the rest." Each Tiny started picking, with a smile upon his face. They ate and rode and rode and ate and all agreed that it was great. Then, when the meal was over, they all look a welcome snooze. The Travel Man just let them sleep. Said he, "Good watch on them I'll keep. We soon will be in Germany. No time does this plane lose." 'Twas some time later when he said, "Hey! Wake up now, each Tiny. We're just about to land upon the spot where we were bound." The Tinymites woke up with a jump and then they felt a sudden thump. The plane had landed safely and was rolling on the ground. (The Tinymites have a balloon ride in the next story.)
