

TWENTY-SEVEN DIE IN GANDHI RIOTS

Natives Seize City of 120,000 Inhabitants; Soldiers Powerless; Burn Police Stations.

Sholapur, Bombay, India, May 8.—(AP)—Twenty-seven or more police and natives were killed in desperate rioting which, starting last night, was resumed at dawn today and had resulted at noon in seizure of the city of 120,000 inhabitants by the adherents of Mahatma Gandhi.

Resisting the local authorities who had forbidden an assembly of the angry natives maintained attacks which threw the city into chaos. The local police were powerless. Citizen reserves who joined them soon were thrown back by the rioters. Troops rushed into this textile community likewise proved unable to cope with the situation.

At noon today the officer commanding the auxiliary forces of India sent out a call for more troops. His request stated that he considered the single detachment already provided would not be enough. Six police stations were burned down during the morning, the magistrate's court was wiped out by flames and all liquor shops in town suffered a similar fate.

Rioters in Control. Apparently the rioters were in complete control, with the armed defensive forces carrying on as best they could. Continuous firing occurred and the police gradually were pushed back and hemmed in. A detachment of the Duke of Wellington's West Riding Regiment, stationed at Ahmednagar, was dispatched to the beleaguered city.

The trouble started last night. A number of volunteers in the civil disobedience program started cutting down palm trees from which liquor is taken. The district magistrate was summoned. He warned them to disperse. Instead, the crowd, increasing in numbers every minute, refused and the police were ordered to open fire.

In an instant the fury of the mob was unleashed. The fire of the troops was returned with missiles. The mob surged forward, the small detachment of officers was thrust aside.

News of the clash spread rapidly throughout the area in the night. Wine shop picketers, who earlier had been warned to disperse, joined in the fray, and their violent attitude changed to dispersing. One group started a fire. Others quickly took the cut and soon the business section of Sholapur was dotted with fires, adding to the confusion.

By Associated Press. Serious and continued encounters between civil and military forces and adherents of the "passive resistance" program of Mahatma Gandhi were in progress in India today.

More than 27 police and natives had been killed in Sholapur. A struggle for control of the city, growing out of attempts to disperse demonstrators, seemingly has re-

MACHINE GUN BULLETS KILL OHIO CONVICTS

Guardsmen Call It Accident; Two Men Were Sleeping At Time—Third Man Injured—Burn Up Tents.

Columbus, Ohio, May 8.—(AP)—Two sleeping Ohio Penitentiary convicts were killed by machine gun bullets today when the weapon, mounted in the prison yard after last night's stockade fire, was accidentally discharged by Ohio National Guardsmen. The victims were asleep in the dormitory when the bullets passed through a barred window. They were struck in the head and died almost instantly.

The dead were believed to be James W. Ross, 40, Cuyahoga county, and Albert Freeman, negro, admitted to the penitentiary in 1925, was serving ten to 15 years for burglary and larceny. Freeman was serving ten to 20 years for manslaughter. Identification was not certain, guardsmen pointing out that all numbers in prison had been confused since the disastrous Easter Monday fire when 320 convicts, locked in their cells, were killed by fire and smoke.

Another Wounded. Colonel Robert S. Haubrich, ranking guard officer at the prison, reported that the shooting occurred about 9 o'clock last night. He said that following last night's fire in the stockade, when about 400 unruly prisoners fired 88 tents inside the barred wire enclosure, machine guns were mounted on the prison yard to prevent any break for liberty.

Four hours after the regular breakfast hour, the convicts in the stockade, where one lone tent survived the fire, had not been fed. Colonel Haubrich ordered the guards to do other things to feed them.

LEGISLATORS LEAD POLITICAL INTEREST

Judge R. A. Johnson, Miss Marjory Cheney May Be Assembly Candidates.

With the coming of spring weather and the approaching summer Manchester people who are politically minded are beginning to think of the primary election and the election this fall. This year when Manchester nominates its town officers it also names its representatives to the state legislature. The town election takes place in October and the state election in November. The primaries at which all the candidates are named come in September.

In Manchester the greatest interest in politics will be shown in the choice of representatives. Both present representatives, Judge Raymond A. Johnson and Miss Marjory Cheney have served this town faithfully and well.

Aid The Town. It is not idle talk to say that never in the political history has Manchester stood out more prominently and favorably in the eyes of the people of the state. This condition has been brought about because of the long service of our representatives. Both have cooperated and worked harmoniously with Robert J. Smith, the senator from the Fourth district.

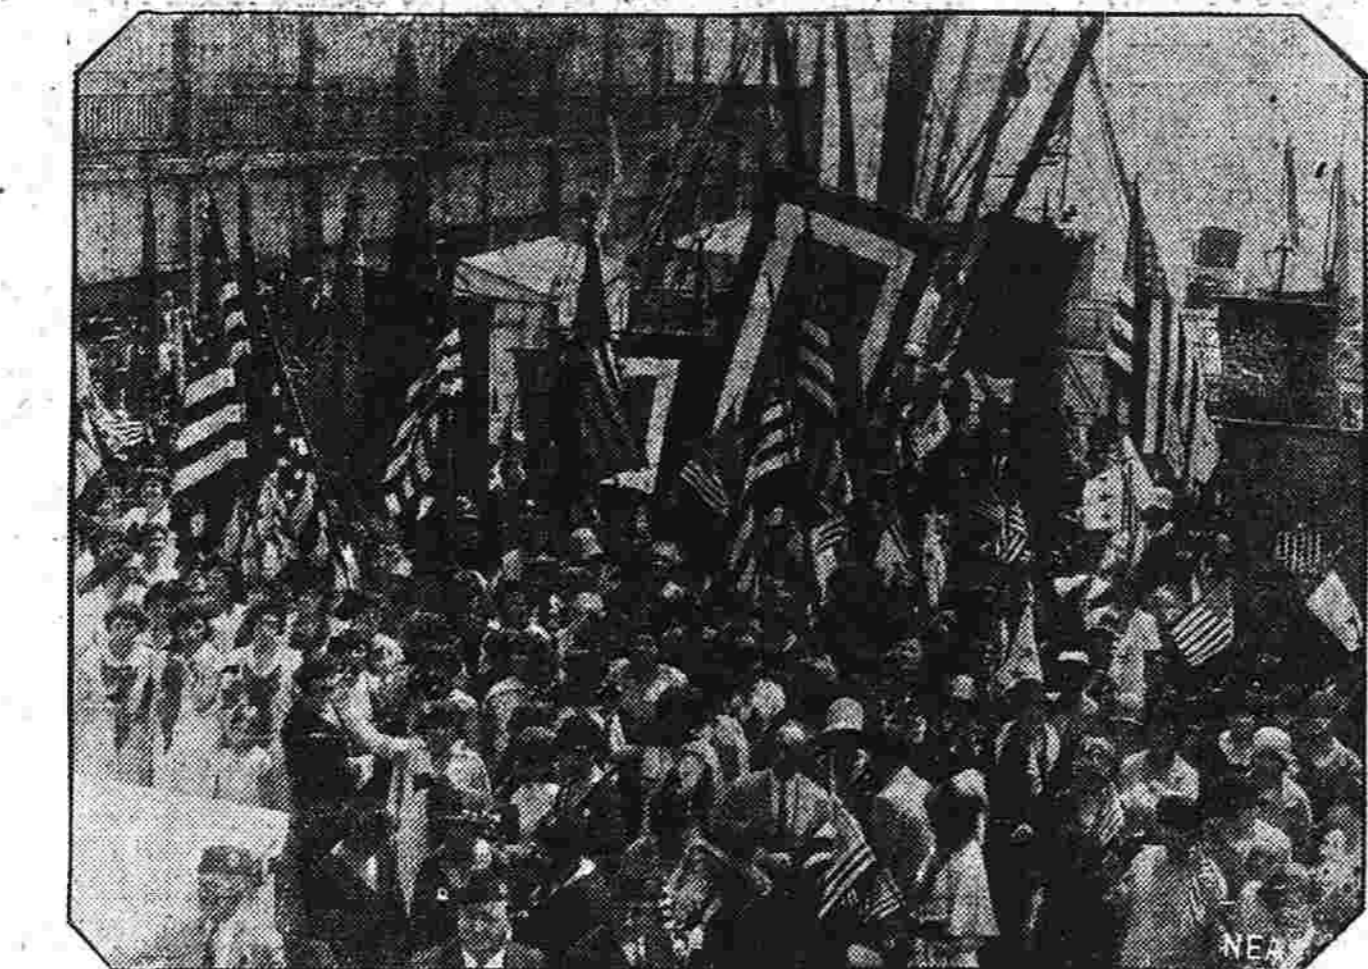

Smith a Candidate. The Herald has learned that Senator Smith is likely to be a candidate for re-election this fall. He stands well in every town in the district and while he has held the senatorship for three terms there are many who believe that it is good business to keep him there. He has much greater influence among the state legislators because of his long service than any new man could hope to have. The same can be said of Representatives Johnson and Cheney. Judge Johnson, by his long service, became floor leader of the House and it is generally known that if he is returned, that position will doubtless be open to him again.

Other Candidates. Of course there will be no scarcity of candidates for the legislature in Manchester. There are always men and women who have ambition to accept the honor. This year, however, several men who would like the honor, have frankly stated that they would not seriously consider being candidates if the present representatives want to go back.

It is well known that Judge Johnson would like to again represent the town. But he had repeatedly stated that while he would consider

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE RARELY IN POLITICS

So McBride Testifies Before Lobby Probers; Books of Organization to Be Examined, Caraway Announces

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon League testified before the Senate lobby committee that his organization spent $273,049 last year and collected $269,918.

McBride said that $164,154 of this was raised by popular subscription. At the conclusion of the testimony Chairman Caraway said committed investigator would go to the headquarters of the League at Westerville, Ohio to examine its records. McBride testified that the League watched the prohibition actions of legislators and dallies closely. He said it was rarely necessary to use political pressure on members of Congress but added that he would not say that this would not or had not been done.

McBRIDE ON STAND. Washington, May 8.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, of the Anti-Saloon League, testified before the Senate lobby committee today that the work of his organization was carried on largely through churches.

Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, a wet, charged before the committee that the League has violated the Corrupt Practices Act in failing to list money spent in political campaigns.

McBride took the stand before the committee, and Chairman Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, a dry. McBride said he had been connected with the League for 11 years and before that was a Presbyterian minister. He became National superintendent upon the death of the late Wayne B. Wheeler. He said the League advocated the prohibition law by agitation, education, law enforcement, and legislation.

Some of the speakers, he said, were paid for speeches and others were regularly employees.

The National Anti-Saloon organization has 154 members on the board of directors, each state being represented by at least two.

McBride said his salary was $7,500 and Caraway asked if Wheeler had been paid $25,000 a year and McBride said no. He explained that Wheeler held two offices, that of attorney and legislative superintendent.

Now, he added, the organization has a separate attorney who draws $5,500 a year. In addition, he said, an assistant drew $4,250, and one field worker $4,400 and another $3,750.

The field workers, McBride said, assisted the state organizations. One of them is now in Kentucky, he added.

McBride said there also was an educational department in Washington headed by Dr. E. H. Cherington, who receives $8,000 a year from the American Issue Publishing Company, which publishes the organization's official magazine. An assistant to Cherington gets $4,500 a year, he said.

The money for the league is raised principally by subscriptions at meetings, he testified adding there were a few large contributors.

Questioned by Caraway, the witness said the political activities of the organization was about five per cent of the total.

"It is used to be about 95 per cent, didn't it?" Caraway asked.

"No, it never was that high," McBride said.

Caraway remarked that while the Boston, May 8.—(AP)—Thunder showers over New England after a day of record heat aided in checking forest fires but brought two deaths and extensive property damage.

Lightning bolts killed Donald Donovan, a 17 year old high school baseball player at Lawrence, Mass., and Fred Spooner, 21, a student at the Danby Trade School, at Kent, Conn.

Hundreds of fire fighters in South county, Rhode Island were freed by a heavy rainfall which soaked the smoldering brush land and a blaze near Kennebunkport, Maine, which had burned over a two and one-half mile area, with a timber loss of $100,000 was gotten under control with the aid of rain.

Severe winds accompanied the storm in eastern Massachusetts. Two airplanes were wrecked by the wind in landing at the East Boston Airport.

Heavy rainfall in Hartford, Conn., and showers of varying intensity visited western Massachusetts and Vermont.

Earlier in the day heat records for May 7 were set, with the temperature reaching 95 in Boston, 94 in Providence and Springfield and 93.3 in New Haven. George H. Lampard, 69, of Lynn, Mass., died from the heat during the day.

Wealthy Indiana Candidate Was the Former Mayor of Gary.

Gary, Ind., May 8.—(AP)—William J. Fulton, defeated for renomination as county commissioner in Lake county at Tuesday's primary election, shot and killed himself at his home at 8:45 a. m. today.

Fulton's campaign manager, M. H. Marquardt, was arrested today on a charge of conspiracy to violate the state election laws in importing five Chicago women to vote at the Gary polls. Marquardt was released under $2,000 bond yesterday, part of it furnished by Fulton.

Fulton, a former mayor of Gary, was 48 years old.

He was defeated for the Republican renomination as county commissioner from the first district of Lake county by William H. Olds, of Hammond.

SPEAKER ASSAILS ANTIQUATED JAILS

Wickersham Says New Ones Should Be Built With Little Delay.

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—Present methods of dealing with criminal offenders were assailed today by Chairman Wickersham, of the Hoover law enforcement commission.

Chief Justice Hughes praised the institute for its fact finding endeavors concerning a "restatement of the common law," which he said would need to be carried on for years.

With these facts, the Chief Justice said, "even legislation may become intelligent." Wickersham said the "present day practice of endeavoring to prevent crimes by augmented penalties was based upon a fallacy which has time and again been demonstrated."

Antiquated Jails. "Pending the discussion of this subject," he added, "men and women are being sent to prison—into antiquated, overcrowded, unsanitary and unsafe institutions, under conditions which cry aloud for high heaven for immediate improvement."

He cited the recent disastrous fire at the Columbus, Ohio, prison. Wickersham said he "would not have the construction of new, fairly decent and adequate prisons wait upon the reformation of the penal laws, and other holocausts."

BATTLES IN CHINA BREAK OUT ANEW

Severe Fighting Among Factions Reported; Thousands of Casualties.

Nanking, May 8.—(AP)—The long pending war between the Northern military alliance and the Nationalist government began today, said dispatches received here. The fighting was severe.

The clash between troops directed by General Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan of the Northern alliance and the government forces took place along the railway from Kweteh, Honan province, to Suchow, in Kiangsu. There was fighting also fifty miles south of Suchow along the Hsien-shan-Fukow railway.

The Nationalists suffered sharp losses and the rebels unknown casualties in a heavy engagement along the railroad between Kweteh and Suchow. Blaze Starts When 10,000 Gallons Explode at Pier at Bayonne, N. J.—Other Tanks on Land Follow; Whole City Rocked by Blasts; Fireboats Fighting Flames from Harbor.

Bayonne, N. J., May 8.—Fire started by the explosion of a 10,000 gallon oil tanker, today roared through the yards of the Gulf Refining Company at Constable Hook, threatening the destruction of that plant and the adjacent yards of the Tidewater Oil Company and the Standard Oil Company.

Three men were injured, one seriously. Officials said all other employees were accounted for.

Shortly after noon two tanks containing between 80,000 and 100,000 barrels of gasoline and five tanks of lesser capacity had exploded, along with a number of tank cars containing fuel oil.

Ship Explodes. Two hours earlier, the tanker Schurche, a harbor craft used as a gasoline supply boat, went up in a roar of flame. Gunner Frieden and Carl Nosspahl, members of the crew, received serious burns. Eric Hoosmans, fleeing from the dock, stopped on a nail and fell, injuring his foot and knee.

The flames spread quickly from Pier One of the plant to Piers Two and Three, destroying the docks and roaring through the yard.

All Bayonne was shaken by the blasts as the tanks in the yard blew skyward, scattering flaming gasoline in all directions. A truck load of chemical extinguisher was sent from Newark in an effort to check the rush of the flames.

COAST GUARDSMAN VIOLENTLY INSANE

Chief Petty Officer Has to Be Put in Irons While Out to Sea.

New London, May 8.—(AP)—Christ Sarenson, chief petty officer aboard one of the patrol boats operating from the state pier, Coast Guard base, is under observation at the base hospital after becoming suddenly and violently deranged aboard his vessel a day or two ago. The ship was at sea on patrol duty when the chief petty officer after his arrest said he was not drunk but suffering from severe mental strain and when this was brought out, Judge Cronin ordered the case continued and instructed Prosecutor Boyer to determine the Coast Guardsman's mental condition.

It was learned that Sarenson had on three different occasions been blown overboard from vessels that were torpedoed and sunk during the war and that he was a victim of shell shock. Following his outbreak at sea it is expected that efforts will be made to secure his admittance to the State Hospital for the Insane at Preston for observation.

PATTERSON RESIGNS

Boston, May 8.—(AP)—Police Captain George W. Patterson, chief of the headquarters liquor and vice squad, today petitioned for retirement. Police Commissioner Eugene C. Fulton, sworn in only yesterday, to replace Herbert A. Wilson, ousted by the governor, immediately approved the application.

Patterson was one of the several police officials severely criticized in the recent report of Attorney General Joseph B. Warner of the so-called Garrett investigation.

It was Warner's findings of graft and corruption within the department and gross negligence and incompetency by Wilson and others including Patterson that led to the dismissal of the commissioner by the governor and his council last Monday.

Patterson's application with Fulton's approval upon it was sent immediately to Mayor James M. Curley who announced that before approving it he desired to study that part of Warner's findings relating to Patterson.

Patrick Henry Called Ready Made Genius

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Governor John Garland Pollard of Virginia, speaking at the unveiling of a bust of Patrick Henry at New York University today, said the name of the Colonial Virginia statesman was recorded in the Hall of Fame, because in him character and genius met.

Eulogizing the orator whose speeches have given to posterity the often quoted phrases, "Give me liberty or give me death," and "It is this or that," Governor Pollard said, "an orator has been defined as a great soul on fire in a great cause. The great soul and the great cause must meet. Henry was the great soul—the revolution set on fire by his burning words was the great cause.

Ready Made Genius. "Moralists are wont to tell us that 'genius' is but capacity for hard work." Generally this is true, but now and then, nature works a miracle and sends into the world a genius ready made, to startle man by his brilliancy. Henry was such a miracle, untutored, unlettered, unlearned, he sprang forth from obscurity into leadership at a time when the world needed as never before, a master blow to be struck for the liberty of man.

Storm, All Around, Hardly Hits Town. Many Threatening Clouds, Thunder and Lightning But Little Needed Rain. Only temporary relief was felt by which was more or less of a false alarm last night as far as Manchester was concerned. The mercury had mounted well into the eighties at noon and seemed destined to go even higher.

Storm Threatens. Yesterday brought the highest recording of the year as the mercury soared into the nineties, the maximum being 93. Storm clouds gathered shortly after 7 o'clock growing darker and more threatening each minute. Peals of thunder with supplementary flashes and vivid streaks of lightning that seemed to split wide the sky, made a hard storm seem inevitable.

Doesn't Materialize. Time passed but the storm failed to strike Manchester in its intensity. The amount of rainfall was so slight, in fact, that it is doubted if it did any real good in halting the progress of forest fires unless it was much more intense in other points. The weather grew much cooler and the thermometer dropped 17 degrees.

ABOUT TOWN

Helge E. Pearson of Main street is confined to his bed with a slight cold. The new purchasers of the A. L. Brown stock and fixtures re-opened the store for business with a further marked down sale price on much of the goods. The sale was scheduled to start this morning at 9 o'clock, but a half hour before that time there was such a crowd waiting that the doors were opened and the sale hunters started in disarranging the stock that had been piled up and marked plainly with the price. It was noticeable that a number from the south end were among the early purchasers.

Rev. Albert Turkington, former bandmaster of the local Salvation Army, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Newell of Baltimore, Md., are visiting Mrs. Newell's sister Mrs. John Addy, Sr., of Garden street. Mrs. Addy's two nephews, Rev. T. J. Turkington of Washington, D. C., and W. D. Turkington of Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary of Philadelphia are also guests.

At the intersection of Park and St. James streets, where the new walk laid on St. James streets ends, there has been laid out a triangle piece of curbing that diverts the traffic. This triangular piece is in line on its north side with the curbing on the south side of Park street and when planted in flowers will make an attractive park.

The laying of the walks and curbs is now extending west from Cooper street on the south side of West Center street and is to extend to McKee street where it will turn south to Summer street, meeting walks already laid to Hartford road. The work will then be on the north side of West Center from McKee street to Cooper street.

Twenty-five couples, Kiwanians and their wives, are expected to attend the charter night of the Meriden Kiwanis Club, Monday night making the trip by private cars. The ceremonies will be held in the Masonic Temple starting promptly at 7:30 o'clock (D. S. T.).

All the work of the world, in the final analysis, is done by power from the sun.

Patrick Henry Called Ready Made Genius

Political Activities. Recalling Henry's political activities, governor Pollard said there were two kinds of political leaders—"those who find whether the crowd is headed, and rush out in front, and those who study the people's good and seek to guide along the safe paths."

Henry, he said, did not belong to the former class, but was one of "those bold spirits who risk their political lives and sacrifice their personal interest in advocacy of measures they believe to be for the public good.

Concluding, the Virginia governor said, "After his death there was found among his papers one sealed and endorsed as follows: "Enclosed are the resolutions of the Virginia Assembly of 1765 concerning the Stamp Act. Let my executors open this paper."

Brought on War. It reads: "This brought on the war which finally separated the two countries and gave independence to ours. Whether this will prove a blessing or curse will depend on the use our people make of the blessings which a gracious God has bestowed upon us. If they are wise, they will be great and happy. If they are of a contrary character they will be miserable. Righteousness alone can exalt a nation. Reader, wherever thou art remember this in thy sphere practice virtue thyself and encourage it in others.

(Signed) HENRY." "No eulogy of mine could so well depict the character which made him great as this, his parting message to those he left behind."

FRENCH PRESIDENT IN NORTH AFRICA

Algiers, Algeria, May 8.—(AP)—President Doumergue, who is now visiting France's North African colonies, has received enthusiastic welcoming demonstrations from both Arabs and Europeans en route across northern Algeria.

On Saturday, the centenary anniversary of French possession, a review of the French fleet will be held in the Bay of Algiers in honor of the French President. About eighty warships will participate in the review. Captain George W. Steele, United States naval attaché accredited to France, arrived here last night to participate with other naval attaches at the review.

In all official addresses which have been made to the President, tribute to France's success in colonizing and developing the country has been paid. The land is now pacified with the exception of the mysterious southwestern zone bordering Morocco and known as the Tafeliet, a refuge for dissident tribes.

The Sahara desert which has been scientifically conquered in great part, and is dotted with oases and villages developed by the French, nevertheless remains a great problem from the transportation viewpoint. Projects for an airline and auto route are under consideration for linking Algiers with French western Africa and the President's visit undoubtedly will speed up the French Parliament to take a decision for definite communications and conquest of the redoubtable Sahara.

LIONS INSTALL THEIR OFFICERS

Receive Banner from High School—Past District Governor Speaks Here.

A canvas banner painted with a blue and gold insignia of Lions International, presented to the Lions Club by the High school in appreciation of its sponsoring a recent essay contest, was accepted by the Manchester Lions Club at its first annual banquet and installation of officers at the Country Club last night.

The banner was prepared by Reginald West under the supervision of Miss Harriet Condon of the Art class. Officers installed were: George W. Bagley, president; Albert F. Knofla, vice president; Arthur E. St. John, secretary; Garfield Keene, treasurer; Francis McCarthy, lion tamer; Thomas F. Conran, tall twister; directors, Dr. Mortimer Moriarty, George Veitch, Henry Smith, Francis Miner and Dr. Walter Oliver. George H. Williams, past president, was installed as new district director.

The principal speaker was Phillip Jacobs, past district governor, who spoke on Lionism and Lions Clubs, their field of activity and their place in the community. Other speakers were Arthur Knofla, past president of the Kiwanis Club, who expressed the willingness of the Kiwanis to co-operate with its brother service club; George H. Williams, past president of the Lions; Harlowe Williams, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Joel Nichols, club member of the Lions.

George Bagley, new president of the club, and Albert Knofla, vice-president, Parson Harold Clemens, Hartford acted as master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided by Geraldine Havens, Ned Mattison, George Shaughnessy, and Walter Williams, all in the form of singing acts which received much applause. Because of the hot weather a last minute change was made in the menu by Thomas Conran, who catered. The menu included potato salad, cold slaw, salmon, liverwurst, baked ham, pickles, olives, celery, roses, coffee, milk and home made apple pie.

Legislators Lead Political Interest. (Continued from Page 1.) It is a great honor to serve the people for another term, he does not want his followers to think that he has a life lease on the job. His course will be determined entirely by the sentiment of the people.

Miss Marjory Cheney will be a candidate if the people of the town desire her services. However, she thinks that it is a bit too early to decide such a proposition.

Prohibition. The prohibition question, if one is to judge by the man on the street, is going to cut a big figure in the choice of candidates to the legislature. Both men and women candidates will be asked to state their views on Prohibition. It is only necessary to discuss this subject anywhere men and women congressmen to learn the extent of interest that the people are showing in Prohibition and its results.

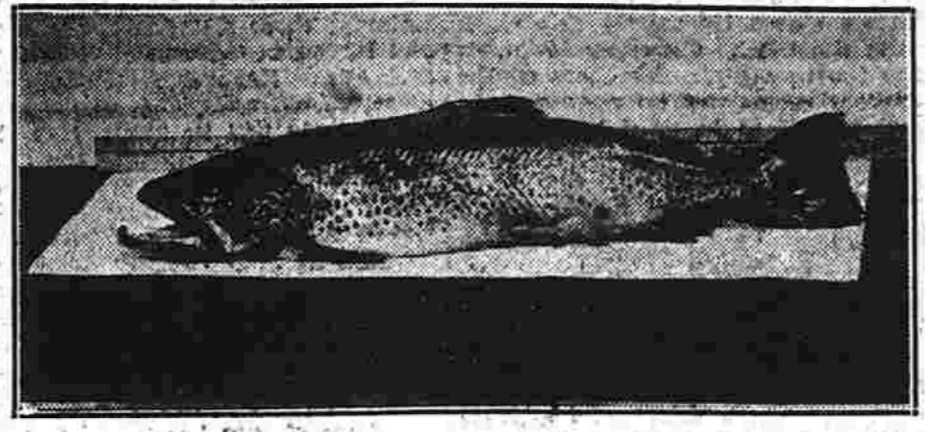

However, the political pot will not begin to boil seriously until the late summer. The Republican State Convention this year will be held in August. Delegates will be named at caucuses held in the towns throughout the state early in August and at these caucuses town committees will be named to serve for two years. William S. Hyde is the present chairman of the local Republican Town Committee.

Twenty-Seven Die in Gandhi Riots. (Continued from Page 1.) Sulted adversely for the constituted authorities. While the conflict was in progress at Sholapur it was made known that Mahatma Gandhi had been spirited away in the night from his Yeroda prison quarters at Poona to the Shivajis fortress at Purandhar. Reason for the transfer was not indicated. Purandhar is twenty-five miles from Poona. Removal of the aged prisoner was accomplished as secretly as was his previous internment.

Bombay reported another extensive cotton fire at Sewri today, which destroyed about $75,000 dollars worth of baled cotton. The blaze raged for three hours before being controlled. Sewri was visited by a number of cotton fires earlier this year. The authorities did not indicate whether the blaze had been set or was of natural causes.

Hospital Notes. Mrs. Albert Todd and daughter of Autumn street were discharged from the Memorial hospital yesterday. Mrs. Charles Tuttle of St. Florence street and Michael Subile of Knighton street also went home today. Patients admitted included Mrs. Brunig Moske of 52 North street, Vernon Carroll of 28 Autumn street, Herbert Carlson of 80 Fairview street, Mrs. Maurice Madden of 84 Eldridge street, and Albert Zanetti of Highland Park. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Goche of Lockwood street. A hundred years ago crude oil, the black, dirty stuff, was called "the devil's tar."

Walloping Brown Trout Out of the Salmon River

Not all the big trout come from the State stocked streams as witness the picture of the big brown trout caught last Tuesday morning by Harold Jesanis in Salmon river in East Hampton. The big fellow weighed 4 pounds 6 ounces when caught. The lucky fisherman has listed his catch with L. S. Knoek and Co., Hartford sporting-goods store, for the Connecticut "big trout" prize for 1930. The local fisherman admitted previous good luck in East Hampton, though, as a matter of fact, the stream is not considered good water for trout propagation. The trout was caught near noon, on a home-made split bamboo rod, using a good grade of casting line, a Willis, invisible fly and a Wisenbach reel. A six foot white leader was used which parted immediately after the fish was gaffed. James Oiseh assisted in the capture and gill-gaffed the trout, which, due to his extreme

The Herald Hears

That many are the strange goings-on on Main street 'twixt the hours of midnight and dawn, for instance—last night someone drove an automobile on the sidewalk, from the post office to Oak street, the marks of the tires being plainly seen this morning.

That the safest method of parking on Orchard and Trotter streets, which connect West Center and Valley street, is to tie your car to a tree or telephone pole. A short time ago the emergency brake on a truck parked halfway up Trotter street released and the truck went over the bank. Last night the same thing happened to an automobile on Orchard street. Neither car was badly damaged.

Southport, Eng., May 8.—(AP)—Horton Smith with a fine first round of 72 in the 72 hole medal play, opening today over the Birkdale course, was second to Len Holland who scored 71 in the professional competition.

MUST BE FEROCIOUS PRISONER ON TRIAL

Kiwanians Build Steel Cage to Keep Him from Getting Away—Who Is He?

In order to assure realism in the mock trial scene which will be one of the Kiwanis Minstrel show, features a steel cage has been erected as a cell to house the prisoner. As yet Kiwanis refuse to disclose the identity of the prisoner saying that no one will know who he is until the show is presented. The minstrel will be presented at the State theater Tuesday, May 13.

Sheriff John Ehmalian has been practicing the most necessary "Hear Ye! Hear Ye!" and has it down to a degree of perfection that any balliff would envy. And in addition Sheriff Ehmalian will carry a big stick, many times bigger than any ordinary policeman's "billy" so that the audience may be assured the desperate criminal in the cage will not escape. Reserved seats are on sale at Walking Brothers. General admission tickets may be secured from members or at the door.

MARLBOROUGH

Thousands of acres of woodland were burned in this vicinity Sunday and Monday. The fire started at about 10 o'clock Sunday near the club-house property of the East Glastonbury Fish and Game Club in the northwest part of the town. The fire spread very rapidly and soon people were fighting it in the town of East Hampton, Farmington, and Glastonbury where it spread. At one time it was reported that the fire was five miles long and two miles wide.

The house and other buildings belonging to the Virginia Cavalier were belonging to Mrs. Sarah Chapman and three wood-chopper's cabins were also burned.

Ralph Strong of East Hampton was the heaviest loser. Hundreds of cords of wood ready for market were burned which brought his loss into the thousands. Mr. Strong had the misfortune to have his house burned last winter.

Miss Beulah Collins of New London who is a teacher at the Center school visited at her brother's in Glastonbury, recently.

The Ever Ready Group met with Mrs. Ruth Caslyn Monday night. Plans are being made for the Mother and Daughter banquet which will be held May 10.

Miss Fanny A. Blish who is a teacher in Glastonbury spent the week-end at her home here.

J. P. O'Connell of East Hampton was in town on business recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Lord and son Robert, were callers in Middletown the last of the week.

A prize fight has been set to music for broadcasting. The theme songs, most likely, will be "Pagliacci" and "Hearts and Cauliflowers."

"Who owns the Air? a Canadian paper asks. Well, we've heard that all jitted suitors get it."

Merchants Half Holiday.
The Rockville Chamber of Commerce, of which Lewis Chapman is president, met last evening at 8:00 in the Superior Court room to discuss the summer half holidays. A definite decision was reached that will be generally satisfactory. It was decided to close the stores Thursday afternoons during the summer months, this being the wish of the majority. There were many conflicting opinions, as to the best day to close. Others desired no holiday. Merchants in every line of business whether members of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce or not were present to express a preference.

The Rockville Chamber of Commerce, under the new officers elected last week, has taken on a new lease of life, and every effort is being made to help make it a live organization.

John Galavin, 70, of 21 Brooklyn street, died at the Hartford hospital on Wednesday, from the result of heat prostration. He was born in Tolland and had resided in Rockville practically all his life. LITTLE THREE GAMES

Middletown, May 8.—(AP)—Wesleyan meets Amherst at Amherst tomorrow in track and Williams in baseball on its home diamond here Saturday.

A victory over Williams to its credit Wesleyan hopes to win the "Little Three" title in track by conquering Amherst. It has a strong representation in the field events, where Capt. Jones excels in the high jump.

The cardinal and black baseball team lost its first five games but has shown considerable improvement in its last three which were turned into victories.

DIRECTOR PRAISES JUNIOR RED CROSS SAYS OVER SEVEN MILLIONS ARE NOW ENROLLED IN OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—Characterizing the Junior Red Cross as the world's greatest organization of children, Dr. H. B. Wilson, national director of the American Junior Red Cross, said today it was also one of the most potent existing factors in a march toward greater international understanding.

Dr. Wilson was the final speaker before the four-day annual meeting here of the Senior Red Cross. He said 7,000,000 junior members were now enrolled in American public schools, while 5,000,000 other children were enrolled in the schools of 45 other nations.

One of the organization's current major activities, Dr. Wilson continued, involves an exchange of letters and photographs, descriptive articles, samples of industrial products and specimens of stamps and flora between children in all parts of the world.

Values of Experiment. "The values of this international correspondence," he said, "are found in the supplementation of the usual text book material in various subjects; in the sympathetic understanding it establishes between the corresponding children and teachers and in the real friendship it creates which may be of profound significance in future international relations."

The Junior Red Cross director said that at the end of the world war the organization of children had an aggregate membership of 15,000,000. It was saved as a peace-time agency, he said, through the insistence of educators in many countries.

During the time that America was in the war, Dr. Wilson continued, more than 15,000,000 useable articles valued at more than $10,000,000 were made by the juniors. In addition, he said, $4,000,000 was raised.

"The efforts of the last few years," he said, "have been made with minor amounts of money. No solicitation is ever made of juniors for disaster funds. Yet they come in."

STORM SWEEP TEXAS RUSHES RELIEF WORK

Death Toll Placed at 70 Today; $150,000 Needed With Clothes and Food.

Dallas, May 8.—(AP)—Immediate relief measures undertaken by the Red Cross and citizens of the state today, were being rushed to the aid of destitute and homeless persons by the storm in central and south Texas communities devastated Tuesday by tornadoes.

The Red Cross last night appealed for $150,000 in Texas for the work and asked for gifts of clothes and food.

Funeral services were planned today for most of the seventy victims. More than 100 persons were being cared for in hospitals. In Frost, Navarro county, where 22 out of 800 inhabitants lost their lives and virtually the entire town was demolished, the cemetery was in the path of the twister and shattered tombstones had to be cleared away before graves could be prepared for the burial of storm victims.

Dallas county's Red Cross supplied 100 cots to homeless persons at Frost and planned to assist in re-stocking farms.

Relief forces were working to aid forty or fifty families left homeless near Nordheim and Runge, in Kearns county, where the tornado Tuesday killed 30 persons and injured more than twenty.

UNEMPLOYMENT HITS FRENCH FLOOD AREA

Paris.—(AP)—Unemployment, a post-war ailment hitherto not listed in France, now threatens this country as a result of a peace time catastrophe; the March floods in South-Western France.

Actual damages in the tragic triangle of Moissac, Montauban and Agen, a territory about the size of Rhode Island, amounted to about $40,000,000. This has been covered by government appropriations and public subscriptions but former flourishing industries are wrecked.

Woolen goods looms are idle in the district of Mazamet; cloth mills are destroyed in Castres and the fur and glove industry which made Graulhet a center of world trade, is at a standstill.

Forty thousand men and women, earning comfortable livelihoods until the rush of water came down from the Black Mountains through the Tarn, Aveyron and Garonne rivers, have had no work since that fateful night of March 5.

Until this catastrophe occurred, unemployment was virtually unknown. Government lists showed only 1,859 persons receiving doles. There were 150,000 Italians and 75,000 Spaniards at labor in southern France and 200,000 Poles and nearly 100,000 Belgians working in northern provinces. Of late too, many Portuguese, shut off from Brazil by the coffee slump, have been earning wages in this country.

Jumping beans found in Mexico contain the larvae of small moths which, by their movements inside the bean, make it jump about.

MEXICAN SCHOOL ART EXHIBIT HELD HERE

Hollister Street School Open Tomorrow Afternoon So That Public May See Display.

A very interesting exhibit of Mexican school work and simple articles illustrating the various arts and crafts of the Mexican people is being shown this week in the schools of District one to eight. A year ago the pupils of these schools sent 13 Friendship bags to Mexico as a part of the country-wide project to promote international friendship and goodwill.

Many thousands of these school bags were sent from all parts of the United States and were distributed by the Mexican authorities all over the provinces of Mexico. As a return project and token of goodwill the Mexican officials, in behalf of the school children of Mexico, sent recently to the United States 49 exhibits to be circulated about the country. Manchester schools, Districts 1-8 were very fortunate in being able to secure one of the exhibits for a whole school.

The exhibit will be open from 3:30 o'clock until 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the exhibit may be seen by all who are interested, at the Assembly Hall of the Hollister street school.

The exhibit includes some drawings of primary school children, samples of tile work, several dolls and marionettes, and many specimens of fabric. Several fine pieces of lace are noticeable among other things. Striped hats of several sizes are particularly interesting to the children and perhaps more interesting than anything else are numerous specimens of lacquer work done on gourds. Some of these have been fashioned into animals and birds. This use of gourds of all shapes and sizes is characteristic of Mexico and the variety of articles fashioned from them is truly wonderful.

From Manchester the exhibit will be shipped to Canaan, Conn., to continue a journey lasting several months.

The first General Assembly outside the Carthage Cathedral was set for five p. m. when the "Children of the Eucharistic Crusade" will offer a psalm at the ancient amphitheater, commemorating the martyrdom of Christians therein, centuries ago.

UNVEIL NINE BUSTS IN HALL OF FAME

New York, May 8.—(AP)—The busts of nine persons who have been elected to the Hall of Fame at New York University will be unveiled late today, filling the last of the pedestals for 65 celebrities.

The busts are of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States; George Bancroft, historian; James Fenimore Cooper, author; James Russell Lowell, poet and critic; Elias Howe, inventor; Patrick Henry, patriot and orator; Horace Mann, educator; John Lathrop Motley, historian, and Joseph Story, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Descendants in most cases will unveil the busts. With the exception of James Fenimore Cooper and Patrick Henry, all are of Massachusetts men.

The seven from Massachusetts will be honored by a Representative of Governor Frank G. Allen and Dr. Daniel L. March, president of Boston University. The bust of Patrick Henry will be unveiled by Governor John C. Follard of Virginia and his daughter, Suzanne. Plans called for Lieut. Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York to unveil the bust of James Fenimore Cooper.

CHILDREN RECEIVE FIRST COMMUNION

4,000 of Them at Eucharistic Congress at Tunis; General Assembly Today.

Tunis, Tunisia, May 8.—(AP)—The bells of Tunis today rang out their call to communion masses for the thousands of pilgrims attending the thirteenth Roman Catholic Eucharistic Congress, in this seat of antiquity.

The second day of the world-wide religious assemblage started with the partaking of the Blessed Sacrament. Hundreds of Americans arose early on the steamships Rochambeau and Araguaya to attend mass in the church of St. Heanne D'Arc, which had been especially assigned to the group of new world worshippers. Four thousand children, dressed in the all-white vestments of youthful purity, gathered in the Bevelevier Stadium for their first communion mass, from which all adults were excluded.

Pleasant Weather. The African sun was hidden away behind merciful cloudbanks. Fears of a hot, dusty sirocco, common at this season, failed to materialize. The breeze that was wafted in from the desert bore with it no storm indication. It was so cool that many of the visitors wore their top-coats.

At all churches within the Carthage radius, masses were said this forenoon. The Carthage Cathedral, however, was this afternoon, the mecca of the entire concourse.

The first General Assembly outside the Carthage Cathedral was set for five p. m. when the "Children of the Eucharistic Crusade" will offer a psalm at the ancient amphitheater, commemorating the martyrdom of Christians therein, centuries ago.

CHRISTIANS WARNED. Carthage, Tunisia, May 8.—(AP)—Newspapers here today warned the 20,000 or more pilgrims who have assembled for the thirtieth Eucharistic Congress that unbelievers will not be admitted to Moslem mosques. The warning was given, with a desire to prevent friction between the clerics and laymen and the followers of Islam.

Action of Cardinal Lepicier, papal delegate in asking release of 11 Arab students who were arrested over the week-end for planning an anti-Christian demonstration during the Congress has had a favorable influence on their captivities but the feeling between the two groups has not been entirely quenched.

Four thousand children assembled at Tunis today to receive their first communion.

The General Assembly outside the Carthage Cathedral will be held at 5 p. m.

THIS AMBITIOUS MAN BELIEVES IN SAVING DAYLIGHT.

A Main street baker on duty at about three o'clock this morning wiped the dough from his hands and decided to build a garage or a contraption of some sort under the window of a family sleeping peacefully directly above. The curtains parted and the clouded face of a female shot out. Blazing eyes sought out the troublesome baker-builder pounding lustily on his early morning project.

"Hey you, baker," snapped the voice above, "whadder yer mean keeping folks awake with your pounding at this time of the morning? Huh? The only thing I got handy is a shoe—and you'll get that if you don't cut that noise and let folks sleep!"

The baker-boy went back to his ovens to look at the rolls and buns.

LOCAL JEWS PLAN PLACE OF WORSHIP

Committee Takes Option on Rooms in Cheney Block; Have No Meeting Place.

For the purpose of obtaining a permanent place of worship in Manchester, local Jews have taken an option on two rooms in the Cheney Block with the privilege of leasing them for one year on completion of interior remodeling, it was learned today. The rooms will also be used as an educational center for Jewish children.

A committee of three, William Rubinow, Harry Mintz, and Nathan Marlow, has been appointed and vested with full authority to perfect plans although nothing definite, aside from taking the option, has been done as to the organization of a congregation. Such plans, however, may materialize within a few weeks.

Should a lease be taken local Jewish families will be provided with a place of worship without going to Hartford, as is now being done. The rooms will be suitable for instructing of the children. Before the Knights of Columbus building was sold it was used as a meeting place.

THE PARKER AFFAIR

This whole business of the appointment and rejection of Judge Parker as a member of the Supreme Court of the United States has turned out most unfortunately. Through it President Hoover has taken a slap in the face at the hand of the Senate which can do no good to his prestige and which can have no good consequences—unless, perchance, it should arouse in Mr. Hoover that fighting spirit which his friends believe him to possess but which has been completely out of evidence, so far, in his dealings with Congress.

The choice of Judge Parker was, after all, not the happiest that could have been made. The real trouble with Parker as an appointee—it conceivably might have had no effect on his work had he been confirmed—was that he is not a very big man; just one of a great many able lawyers of good character and excellent local reputation. Against almost any potential appointee it would be possible to rake up arguments why he should not be given a place on the highest court in the land; but in the case of a nationally known jurist with a great many positive admirers such arguments must be powerful indeed in order to prevail. Parker's inconspicuous history and lack of any popular backing throughout the country made him an easy mark for the critics. The idea was that while the objections to him might be small of calibre and light of weight there was almost nothing in his favor except the fact that he had been named by the President. What support he did get in the Senate was due wholly to the latter circumstance; and it was not quite enough.

Meantime it is all very well for friends of the administration to accuse the Senate of playing politics in this matter; perhaps it would be better real friendship to admit that it wasn't the Senate, in this particular instance, that made politics trump; that the Senate merely played the hand and took the odd trick after the trump had been made by the administration. Herbert Hoover isn't much of a politician. He has qualities immeasurably greater and more valuable than those which enter into the politicians' game. His best hope of a completely successful administration is to rise superior to the sly little tricks of the experts at that sport, tell his expert-advisers to go to the devil and follow his own good judgment.

The selection of Judge Parker, it has to be admitted, was not made because of any outstanding capacity or compelling fitness for the position above and beyond other men, but because he lived in North Carolina and it was a nice time to appoint a North Carolinian. That, with all due deference to President Hoover, was politics, not high administrative purpose. That Parker was an able lawyer and a fine citizen does not alter, though it does ameliorate, the fact. And the upshot is that Mr. Hoover has been hard hit in what ought to be the home of his friends.

With two-thirds as many Republicans voting or paired against the confirmation as voted or were paired for it, you can't blink the fact that the President's prestige has been considerably damaged by the affair—which could have been completely avoided by the selection of some really notable jurist without regard to its geographical-political effect.

MIRAGE

The little freak item in yesterday's news dispatches telling about the buildings of Chicago's Loop district having been seen, upside down, in the sky by the people of a town forty miles away, is an instance of that very rare phenomenon in these latitudes, the complete inverted mirage.

The scientific explanation of the inverted mirage is simple enough to the technical mind but it isn't so easy for the lay mind to grasp it. Perhaps as good a way to say it as any is that the vision of the eye runs along light rays; that light rays are not always straight, being deflected by varying conditions of atmospheric density; that the light ray running between your eyes and a given object in the distance is sometimes bent so that you see the object in a position really different from that which it occupies. That accounts for the fact that the moon, rising directly over a certain tree tonight, tomorrow night may seem to rise over the second or third tree away—to vary several degrees of the horizon in the points of its appearances.

In the case of the inverted mirage, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica, the phenomenon "is due to a stratum of hot air at some distance above the sea level (the article deals with the seeing of inverted ships), the rays of light near the horizon being practically horizontal while those at greater elevations are fairly concave. It may happen that the change of density is so great that only the upper rays reach the eye; we are then met with the curious illusion of seeing inverted ships in the clouds, although nothing is visible on the ocean."

The inverted mirage is a close relative to the often described illusion of lakes and oases in the desert and the much more familiar "loom" of vessels and islands which appear, on hot hazy days, to be floating high above the sky line of the horizon—an appearance which most visitors to the seashore have witnessed in greater or less degree. It is, however, only once in a long time that a person on the New England coast has the queer experience of seeing ships or island forests sailing on their mastheads or standing on their topmost twigs, away up in the sky. Now and then, however, the phenomenon is to be witnessed.

Apparently the spectacle is even rarer in the Great Lakes region, for the sight of Chicago's Loop hanging in the clouds, chimneys down, seems to have made a deep impression there.

PUZZLING

Edward Cornell Jameson, the insurance man who told the Senate Lobby Committee that he handed over $65,300 of his own money to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., to help out the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia in 1928—$48,000 of which Representative Tinkham asserts the bishop did not account for—seems to be a gentleman of peculiarly secretive instincts, if we may judge by his biographical sketch in Who's Who. It is one of the shortest in that interesting volume. It does not tell when or where he was born—facts almost invariably used. It does state that he is a lawyer and a member of the New York bar. It gives the name of his wife but no further identification of her. It says he is president of one specified insurance company and director of another, that he belongs to the Society of Colonial Wars and the St. Nicholas society and gives the names of his three clubs and his office address. Try and find out where he lives.

That a gentleman so extremely cautious as this should have given anyone, even a bishop, so many checks payable to "Cash" as Mr. Jameson tells of must bear testimony to his extraordinary ardor in the cause of prohibition. Perhaps, however, there is more conformity to the Who's Who foxiness in the fact that Mr. Jameson's record of these transactions agrees, not with the facts that he admitted on oath, but with certain telegraphed suggestions from the Bishop as to how the record should be made to read. It is all very interesting, but we have no doubt Bishop Cannon will be able to explain everything and prove himself utterly pure in financial matters, despite his having the bucketshop habit, when he gets through helping the Southern Methodists to save the country from the awful dangers of the movies and the modern novel, perhaps through a constitutional amendment prohibiting such things.

FIRE WITH FIRE

Paris dressmakers, jewelers and other purveyors of luxuries to American tourists are making it perfectly clear in one way and another that they do not approve of the United States government's system of splitting the fines imposed on smugglers with French informers who tip the customs authorities on this side of the water, or their agents' abroad, whenever extensive purchases are made in France by Americans.

As in the case of the dressmaking firm of Paul Poiret, they hope to make the liaison between American customs authorities and French tipsters a matter of diplomatic discussion. The Poiret concern contends that somebody stole from its offices the personal account of Mrs. Robert L. Dodge and turned over the information obtained in it to United States customs agents, and so charges instigation on the part of the latter.

Mrs. Dodge, it may be remembered, was recently mulcted of $212,286 by way of duties and penalties on account of about $80,000 in gowns and jewels which she tried to sneak past the customs—of which, it is understood, the fat little fortune of $50,000 is to go to the tipster.

It may not be surprising that the Paris merchants object to the discouragement of smuggling of their wares into this country by selfish and unpatriotic Americans, for if Madame cannot hope to dodge the customs with her creations or her jewels she will not purchase so heavily.

But as this is one of the meanest of proceedings and must be fought by mean methods the probabilities are that the United States customs will continue to pay the tipsters and that the tipsters will continue to squeal, despite all protests.

WASHINGTON LETTER

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of several stories reporting some of the most interesting and significant things heard at the annual U. S. Chamber of Commerce meeting in Washington. These are especially timely because of the current interest in the business situation.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Aviation is no longer a romance, but a business. "It's getting out of clouds and fogs—economic, financial, technical and emotional, if not yet free from physical," says W. Irving Bullard, chairman of the committee on aeronautics of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Bullard, who is treasurer of a manufacturing company in Danvers, Conn., explained the present status of the aviation industry to a group of business men during the chamber's annual meeting here.

Recovering from Depression "Adventure glamour is about over," he declared. "Adventure or risk is virtually gone. We rightly think of Lindbergh now as a super-expert adviser. The technical questions are now, as with locomotive and automobile, largely matters of measured, we're well assured of safety. No one, however lacking in air-mindedness, can deny speed and the shortest distance" between two points to the air. And the air industry, like most others, is recovering rapidly from those air pocket shots of last fall in Wall Street."

Bullard did not suggest that the public had decided there wasn't much more glamour in aviation; apparently he was speaking from the viewpoint of the men in the industry. "The industry has been getting shaken down, like the other new industry of radio, into right adjustment with economic law," he continued.

"It has had three marvelous years of technical expansion, with much more sure to come. But also some indisputable over-optimism and inevitable errors. The American public, if slow to fly, wasn't slow to take a flyer. It has supplied, and will supply, ample capital. The sole question is just how it will be used. "Here is where human judgment must come in for the best planning and performance, to provide the best planes, the best routes, for the surest all-round profitable service. Otherwise the great gift of air-line speed will lose in value. More deficits might cripple the industry. "We have made notable progress, but not enough. Some optimists expected 12,000 planes to be built in 1929. We made 6034, worth $45,000,000.

Present manufacturing capacity is 25,000 planes per year. Such totals loom large when we think back to Lindbergh and the Wrights; yet they are still small for 125,000,000 people. "Last year 150,000 passengers were carried, 7,700,000 pounds of mail and 2,000,000 pounds of express. It is a striking showing when matched against zero a few years ago. Yet the industry is still embryonic.

Passenger fares present a vital question according to Bullard. What can the air traffic bear? Already, he said, results had appeared from the "notable and daring experiment at the start of the year in cutting fares as low as or below cross-country rail charges. "A tremendous stimulation of travel naturally followed, with gains of 30 to 60 per cent in a month. The question arises, could not fares now be raised a trifle, now that so much successful missionary work has been done? For at say five cents a mile and say 14 passengers in multi-motored planes, the net return of 70 cents is still materially under the plane cost of 90 cents to $1.15 a mile."

Try To Cut Overhead On the other hand, according to Bullard, further cost-cutting offered possibilities. Overhead is primarily the idleness of the plane on the ground.

"With more and bigger planes and more flight per plane, and plane cost written off after 1000 hours, the revenue return should tend substantially upward. Here is the great field for future financial fact-finding."

Just when the movement to curb petting gets under way, a report comes from the south that 35 miles of shade trees have been planted along Alabama highways this season.

MAN'S CLOTHING REFORM

When looked at from the standpoint of common sense, it would seem that the clothing should be adapted according to the weather. During the warm weather only light clothes should be worn, and during the cold weather heavier garments could be used for proper protection. It is quite all right to be a slave to fashion if fashion is toward more comfortable or more attractive garments, but now it seems that the ordinary business man who used to kid his wife about being a fashion slave is too timid and conventional to change his heavy woolen suit of dark blue, brown or gray, for a lighter, more comfortable garment, even during the hottest days.

The tables have been turned. Women have been quick to learn the advantage of light clothing during warm weather, but for some reason (perhaps a sense of humor) they insist on their escorts wearing the conventional coat and heavy clothing. It is certainly foolish and ridiculous to wear heavy woolen clothes and collars in warm weather. Recently, a number of men have tried to bring out a reform in men's dress, and although everyone will agree that the present costume is unsuitable for a warm climate, those who have had courage enough to appear in knee-length shorts or a light silk costume, etc., are severely criticized by the average citizen.

Every doctor will agree that the clothing should be light enough to permit free circulation of air, and that of blood in any place. The movement for men's clothing reform is fortunately receiving valuable assistance from important newspapers and magazines, and in a few years a sensible costume, but at present there is no great rush toward adopting the new type of garments except among some of the younger generation of those who don't mind public criticism.

When considering the suit of today piece by piece, it must be admitted that the coat is, during the warm weather, an entirely useless object which prevents free movement. The first thing that any man does when he is out for action is to take off his coat and roll up his shirt sleeves. Even a man's trousers are restrictive, and in order to sit he must first pull up the trousers at the knees.

It is said that the first clothes were designed merely as "fly chasers" and that man originally tied on pieces of bark, leaves, etc., to keep away flies and mosquitoes. It is also said that the first purpose of clothes at the present is for adornment and improving the appearance, to protect from cold and dry, and for purposes of modesty. Men's clothes cannot be considered very ornamental or healthful, since a suit is unwashable and readily collects dirt.

It is to be hoped that the clothing designers will get together in an effort to design and popularize a more sensible garment for ordinary street and business wear.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Swollen Glands) Question:—I. H. H. writes: "I have small swollen glands on both sides of my neck. I have noticed these for a long time. They seem to be worse when I have a cold. What would you suggest?"

Answer:—You probably have swollen lymphatic glands, and you should use a careful diet so that you will not overload your lymphatic circulation. It is a good plan for you to live on fruits and green vegetables for a month or two and give your glands a chance to empty themselves of any accumulated wastes. For a short time eliminate all starches, sugars, meats, etc. Hot applications or electrical treatments are sometimes helpful in improving the circulation through the glands.

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC.
55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

Flowers That Boom in the Spring!

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 8.—Manhattan already has wearied of the scramble for reviving plays and dramas of yesterday.

What it became known that the old chant of "Gentlemen, be seated!" was again to be heard in Broadway after 22 years there were those who believed that Tom Kilpatrick, in bringing back the minstrel days, had hit upon a novelty which would appeal at least to many oldsters, as well as having a certain lure for youngsters who had never been introduced to Mr. Bones.

Kilpatrick even had dug back into the chestnut heap and taken out gags of the Joe Miller vintage that sounded all over again. Yet it didn't click. Within a week, the "all colored" minstrels had gone back to their native Harlem and the oldsters were shaking their heads dimly while recalling the time that Al Johnson was an endman; when Chauncey Olcott got his start as a great Irish tenor; when Hi Henry led his own silver cornet band; when Banks Winter first introduced that burnt cork classic, "White Wings They Never Grow Weary," when Fred Stone and Dave Montgomery were getting ready to graduate into musical comedy; when McIntyre and Heath were building their reputations as "the minstrel man" and Joseph Cawthorn, James Powers and many another rising star cut their eye teeth; when Richard Jose was singing "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and James J. Corbett was the soft-voiced interactor.

But all the scratching of memories did not bring folks to the box offices. Still and all, whatever Broadway may do about it, I'm a bit saddened that no one should get behind a minstrel troupe. The coming of the minstrels was more than a minor event in my Michigan town when I was a lad. And perhaps, just as show boats belong to the rivers, minstrels belong to the road, a welcome event when one has wearied of the films.

At any rate, in my town the kids of the block would assemble in the nearest barn and arrange for a minstrel. We'd chip in and buy one of the song books and the joke books left behind by the raucous-voiced hucksters who peddled them between acts and after the show. We'd black our faces with cork, and there it would end since it seemed more important to parade in black-face than to take the trouble to put on a show. Twilight would find us in one of those situations of the "Why Mothers Get Gray" cartoons.

But while Kilpatrick's troupers were in New York, we checked up slightly on our minstrelsy and discovered that one Jim Crawford is credited with being the first black-face comic, having appeared in Boston about 1799. Tom Rice, however, seems to have been among the first to gain fame, having floored a Cincinnati audience with his "Jim Crow" song. The well-known "Bones" were invented somewhere along this period by an obscure endman named Frank Brower. It was Haverly's entertainers, however, that originated the famous slogan . . . 40 performers . . . count 'em . . . 40. And it was McIntyre and Heath who got the big laughs with that one about the woman who found a hobo eating grass and invited him to go into the back yard where "the grass was longer."

THE RISING DOLLAR.

(Bridgeport Post.) From 1914 to 1920 our economists were emitting a crescendo wail about the diminishing purchasing power of the dollar. They pointed out that with the steady rise in prices year after year, the real value of a dollar in terms of what it would buy was diminishing proportionately. Increased wages left the recipients no better off than they were before. The real value of their increased income, measured in purchasing power, was not the same as its nominal value measured in dollars.

Since that time it has not fluctuated a great deal, but now it is slowly creeping up again. That of course is only another way of saying that commodity prices are going down. Once again our economists who were shrieking when the dollar was falling are emitting shrill cries now that the dollar is rising again. They say it is bad for business, that it will ruin the producers, and that those who have loaned money are getting an unfair advantage because the dollars with which they must be repaid are of a higher value than the dollars which they loaned.

How's She Hitting?

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

The rich mixture on which the car has been running over the winter, won't do for summer.

It is liable to cause pre-ignition, carbon deposit on pistons and cylinder heads, pitted valves, steaming water in the radiator and loss of power on the part of the engine.

The warm summer, long trips and rare atmosphere we meet on a mountain voyage, require the adjustment of the carburetor for a lean mixture of less fuel and more air.

The obvious evidence of a rich mixture is black smoke issuing from the exhaust.

Another indication is the slowing up of the engine when the throttle is wide open, and its speeding up when it is partly closed.

Also, if the auxiliary air valve of the carburetor is opened, the engine will speed up. And when idling the engine will gallop, rather than run smoothly.

The best way to get the proper mixture through the carburetor is by making the adjustment after the engine has warmed up and while the car is in motion, that is while the engine is under load.

In that event, the engine may be run at an average speed with the spark slightly retarded. The car should be stopped and the adjustment screw on the carburetor turned until there is popping in the carburetor. The screw should be turned back slightly and the car driven again.

If, under load, the engine runs smoothly at this adjustment, the mixture is right for the conditions of weather and atmosphere prevailing at the time.

In summer, more air is needed in proportion to fuel because of the tendency to overheat.

Zachary Wins Game On 33rd Birthday

Ruth Socks Fourth Homer; Detroit Sinks Senators, 3 to 1; Pirates Bump Giants.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Jonathan Thompson Zachary of the Yankees is not the oldest pitcher in the American League in spite of his nickname "Old Tom." Nor is he by any means the youngest. Tom became 33 years old yesterday and he celebrated his birthday in hard-earned fashion by leading his team to a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Braves.

Last year Zachary led the American League pitchers by winning 12 games without a defeat. Up yesterday Tom had done so well during the chilly spring days but with the advent of summer weather he received his first victory over Cleveland. Zachary received some help from Babe Ruth who poked out his fourth home run of the season.

Except in three National League games yesterday the pitchers had the better of the major league batters. Bennie Frey of Cincinnati and George Earnshaw of the Athletics turned in the best performances, each allowing only three hits. Frey won his game but Earnshaw lost.

Two of the three hits of Earnshaw were made by the opposing pitcher Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns who pitched a six-hit game. The third was a homer by Sammy Hale, with one man on base which gave the Browns a 2 to 1 decision. Frey won his third straight and his second one to nothing contest by stopping the Boston Braves. Cincinnati did not come through against Ben Cantwell until the ninth inning when a pair of doubles brought the game's only run.

Earl Whitehill of Detroit had the better of three Washington pitchers, holding the Senators to 6 hits for a 2 to 1 triumph. Horace Lisenbee allowed the Chicago White Sox a dozen hits but kept them harmlessly scattered while Young Tom Oliver led the Boston Red Sox to a 5 to 4 victory. Oliver who has hit safely in 16 consecutive games got four blows in five times at bat. The St. Louis Cards were in the front rank of the heavy hitters yesterday as they hammered five Philadelphia pitchers for a 16 to 11 victory. Not far behind came the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants, dividing 31 hits in Pittsburgh's 16 to 8 victory.

The Chicago Cubs continued the assaults on Brooklyn pitchers by hitting steadily and at the proper moments to gain a 9 to 5 victory.

Yesterday's Stars

Chick Hafey, Cards.—Hit home run and triple in fifth inning driving in five runs as Cards defeated Phillies, 16 to 1.

Frank O'Doul, Phillies.—Took first place in National League batting with five hits in five times at plate including three doubles.

Dea Bissontette, Cubs.—Hit two homers but Robins were beaten by Cubs, 9 to 5.

Babe Ruth, Yanks.—Fourth home run of the year helped Yanks defeat Indians, 8 to 7.

Sammy Hale, Browns.—Home run with man on base defeated Athletics, 2 to 1.

WEST SIDE LOOP OPENS WITH CLOSE GAME; A'S WIN, 5-4

Fritz Wilkinson Is Star Performer for Winners; Red Sox Meet Yankees Tomorrow.

The Athletics took the Pirates into camp 5 to 4 as the West Side Club baseball league got under way at the West Side Playgrounds here last night before a good sized gathering of fans. The season was officially inaugurated by Director Lewis Lloyd whose speed was splendid but control a bit lacking.

Tomorrow night the Red Sox will mingle with the Yankees. The work of Fritz Wilkinson was the best last night. He slugged three hits in as many trips to the plate, handled 12 out of 13 chances in the field. One of his hits went for three bases. Holland starred for the losers while White and P. Vinco also played well.

TO BROADCAST VIA WTIC FROM PLANE OVER CITY

"Arbella" to Transmit Official Invitations to Governor and Mayor Batterson Saturday.

Speaking into portable radio transmitters aboard the good-will plane "Arbella" as it circles over the city of Hartford on Saturday afternoon, O. L. Bodenheimer, national commander of the American Legion, and Col. A. L. Ford, commander of the Massachusetts Legion, will extend to the radio audience of the East an invitation to attend the Massachusetts Tercentenary Celebration and the national American Legion convention, both of which will take place in Boston in October. For one-half hour, beginning at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, operators of Station WTIC of Hartford by means of short wave receiving sets stationed about the city, will receive the words spoken from the plane. From the short wave sets these words will be transmitted to the listening public from the 50,000-watt transmitter of Station WTIC located on Talcott Mountain.

Commander Bodenheimer and Col. Ford will bear official invitations to attend the Tercentenary address to Connecticut's "Flying Governor," John H. Trumbull, and to Mayor Walter E. Batterson of Hartford, signed by Gov. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston. There will be received by Gov. Trumbull and Mayor Batterson in person when the plane descends in the Hartford airport.

The "Arbella," piloted by Russell Boardman of the Boston municipal airport, is making a tour of the states in order to promote interest in the Tercentenary. Last week when it arrived in Pittsburgh, Pa. Station KDKA transmitted to its audience a broadcast from the plane similar to that which will be staged by Station WTIC on Saturday.

GIANT "CHIC" GANGSTER IS TAKEN FOR A RIDE

Chicago, May 8.—(AP)—The body of one of the largest men ever slain in Chicago gang warfare reality, was being taken for a ride today, and police, were perplexed concerning the motive for the crime. The dead man was six feet, four and one-half inches tall, and weighed 240 pounds. The only clues to his identity were marks in clothes which indicated they had been purchased in Toledo, O. A thorough examination of the body convinced the coroner's office that the man had not been tortured, as at first indicated. He was shot 13 times, two bullets piercing his eyes and leading to the first report that his eyes had been gouged out. Bruises on the neck which indicated the man had been strangled were later attributed to the fact that the body was dragged several feet by the man's necktie, which tightened about his neck as the body was dragged from an automobile to the roadside.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

London, May 8.—(AP)—The prolonged Anglo-Egyptian negotiations for a treaty were reported in well-informed quarters today to have broken down. The negotiators at the foreign office in London had a session which began yesterday morning and adjourned at three this morning after 19 hours of discussion. The announcement was made at that time that the conference would be resumed today.

Statistics available from 188 cities and towns of the state show an aggregate gain of 56,911 or 18.3 per cent, despite heavy losses reported by the smaller communities.

ERRORGRAMS

Advertisement for SOBTavern featuring a cartoon illustration of a man and a woman, with text: 'We can quote such low prices because we control our sources of supply. We obtain a fine grade of aluminum metal from our mines in Arkansas and also control our own brass mines. How about your alloys, such as copper and bronze? Are they furnished by your own companies?' Below the cartoon is the text: 'There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.' Corrections: (1) Brass is an alloy and not mined. (2) Aluminum is not found in the metallic state in nature, but is converted from the aluminum ore. (3) Copper is not an alloy. (4) Arkansas is spelled incorrectly. (5) The scrambled word is OBSERVANT.

Runaway Horse Is News
Now, So Here Is Story

Wildly Dashing Equines Mean Nothing to Hero Who Runs Away With Masquerade Prizes Here.

Harold Clemson, north end young man who seems to have a monopoly on comic prizes at the annual St. Mary's masquerade, was the unwilling participant in a runaway horse episode yesterday. Harold laughed today as he discussed the matter but he said he saw no humor to the incident at the time. He admitted that he had a narrow escape from serious injury and was fortunate to escape with a few minor cuts and bruises which in no way interfered with his resuming work this morning.

It seems that Harold's automobile truck was too wide for a certain job he had obtained, so he went up to Manchester Green to hire a horse and wagon from William H. Cowles, proprietor of the Edgewood Fruit farm. Peter Capello of North Elm street was with him. They were both standing in the wagon when something frightened the horse and it bolted down the yard and down the street giving the wagon and its thoroughly frightened occupants a wild run.

Clemson grabbed the reins but it was with considerable difficulty that he finally succeeded in veering the horse from its course into a ploughed lot on the Cowles farm. The horse, however, had plenty of reserve energy due to a long winter indoors so the ploughed land did little to retard its progress. The wagon flew over the top of a manure pile and landed Capello overboard. He tumbled uninjured. Meanwhile Clemson stuck to his post. The horse swerved around the corner of a barn, the wagon on two wheels. Just as the horse was about to turn back into the street in the path of two automobiles the wagon toppled over pinning Clemson beneath. The shafts broke off and knocked the horse to the ground. Meanwhile Cowles had heard the rumble of the runaway horse and the fruitless shouts of "Whoa!" by Clemson and Capello and had started in pursuit cross lots. He reached in a few seconds after the horse and wagon had "kissed the canvas" and leaped for the horse's head in time to prevent the frisky animal from regaining its feet. Then the wagon was lifted from Clemson who was pluckily clinging to the reins. The driver had escaped injury.

Mrs. Harold Johnson of Gerard street and Ray Montie, automobile salesman, drivers of the approaching automobiles, stopped their machines but found no need to offer assistance as neither Clemson nor Capello had been hurt. The animal was charged without trial and sentenced to hard labor before the plough.

BLACK SNAKE, FIRE CHIEF,
NOT ON FRIENDLY TERMS

But Mr. Reptile Prefers the Chief to Rapidly Advancing Blaze—and Wins Safety.

Fire Chief Edward Coleman of the north end is telling his friends about an experience that he had with a big black snake in which he came out second best by choice. The fire company was out on a brush fire and the chief cut in ahead of the fire to look the growth over. He suddenly jumped the big snake, nearly six feet long, beating back and forth near the fire line. The snake was between the fire and Chief Coleman, who by this time had gone back to a wall and returned with some stones to dispatch the monster reptile.

The snake, sensing he was cornered, jockeyed back and forth near the creeping blaze once in a while turning toward the chief as if to run the gauntlet to safety in that direction. Finally, when the fire had crept up dangerously close, he turned on the chief with express speed emitting a warning hiss as he bore down on the waiting fireman. The chief is no lover of snakes and was satisfied under the circumstances to lead the procession out of the danger zone.
