One Injured and Four Mills Wrecked in Thompsonville; Loss $16,500; Sound Of Explosion Heard Here.

Thompsonville, May 22.—(AP)—Four mills, two of which were filled with aerial bombs, were destroyed in a series of explosions at the New England Fireworks Company located on the Brainard Road, two and a half miles east of here, this morning.

One of the four employees at work was injured. He suffered from shock. The loss was estimated at $16,500.

Cause Unknown
The cause of the first explosion is unknown. It occurred in one of the mills, or sheds, about fifteen feet square, containing aerial bombs for Fourth of July celebrations, and spread to a second building also packed with bombs. A third mill was blasted from its foundations while the fourth, the largest, was fired by burning debris.

Thompsonville and the surrounding community were shaken by the force of the explosion. Several windows were shattered in buildings here. It was said that Hartford and Rockville, fifteen miles away, also felt the blast.

Fire Follows Blast
The plant was situated in a woods. Fire following the explosion started a forest fire which was extinguished by the North Thompsonville fire department. Firemen were endangered for a time when the blaze burned towards a shed containing high explosive bombs.

The injured man was Ferdinand Iannini, of 143 Union street, Springfield, Mass. He was taken to the Springfield hospital in an ambulance. The other employees were Lawrence Carabine, 37 Hebron street; Romeo D. Bernier, 48 Adams street and Albert Gaudry, Sterling street, all of Springfield.

Patsy J. Neillman, Union street, Springfield, owns the plant.

Four persons, not employees, were killed at the plant in June, 1928.

The Thompsonville explosion was plainly felt here in Manchester by many people. Several called The Herald office by telephone to inquire if there had been an earthquake.

One woman called in with the report that she understood 100 persons had been killed in a terrible disaster, and that the National Guard had been called out. She said the rumor emanated from Rockville where the shock was also plainly felt.

Wild rumors were prevalent throughout the town as to the cause and many called The Herald to learn the truth. An idea as to the force of the explosion may be gleaned from the fact that Manchester is nearly 20 miles from Thompsonville.

MACDONALD ASKS CONFIDENCE VOTE

British Labor Party Faces Battle for Its Existence at a Session Tonight.

London, May 22.—(AP)—The ministry of J. Ramsay MacDonald, second Labor government in the history of Great Britain, grided itself today for what was hailed as a battle for its existence.

It was expected that a meeting of the Parliamentary Labor Party this evening the prime minister will ask for a vote of confidence in the ministry's unemployment program and that failing to obtain it, he probably would give notice of asking King George to dissolve Parliament and will the question to the country.

What Caused Trouble.
The situation is the outgrowth of resignation of Sir Oswald Mosley, Labor convert from Conservative and Independent ranks, as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster after Mr. MacDonald and the ministry had failed to endorse plans of Sir Oswald for the handling of unemployment.

Unemployment Problem.
The resignation of the minister has brought to a head the long standing dissatisfaction with the government's failure to decrease the number of men without jobs and materially to better conditions among the ranks of the opposition. It has reached something like a climax among the Left Wing members of the Labor Party itself.

HOSPITAL FUND REACHES $12,365 AT NOON TODAY

Commanders of Drive for $36,000 Plan New Contest for Balance of the Campaign; Ends Monday.

At a meeting of the five Divisional Commanders, known as Majors in the Hospital Campaign, which was presided over by General Chairman, Arthur A. Knofoa, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms this morning, the total report to date of the entire organization was $12,365, and in making a study of the accomplishments and standings of the various teams and divisions, it was brought out that Division I, under the command of Major E. L. G. Hohenbalt, Jr., was in the lead, but was being very closely followed by Division 2 under the command of Major W. W. Robertson, who was represented at the meeting by J. E. Rand, on account of Mr. Robertson being out of town, and also Division 3, under the command of Major C. Elmore Watkins.

New Contest
It was decided by the five Divisional Commanders and the General Chairman that a new competition by the five Divisions be carried on from this morning until the closing of the campaign next Monday evening with an award of an additional $300 to be added to the total of the Division turning in the greatest report in dollars for these last five days, ending next Monday evening. This makes it possible for the Division doing the best work for the remainder of the campaign to not only add to their previous total, but the amount of their work, but by bringing in new money.

ANTI-CANNONITES LOSE AT PARLEY

Bishop May Be Re-elected to Methodist Board of Temperance Today.

Dallas, Tex., May 2.—(AP)—Complete vindication for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C., storm center of the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South today lacked only one final step—his re-election as chairman of the church board of temperance and social service.

The strength of the temperance bishop, who was successively accused of un-Christian actions in participating actively in the 1928 presidential campaign and in gambling on the Stock Market, was shown yesterday in an unexpected fight on the conference floor when the conference overruled Bishop Collins Denny, presiding officer, in order to extend a vote of confidence.

Bishop Denny, second in seniority in the college and oldest in years, had ruled that G. T. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, Josephus Daniels of Raleigh, N. C., and other lay leaders who brought the Stock Market accusations, might formally protest Cannon's re-election by the committee on Episcopacy.

The conference thought otherwise, denied the privilege of printing the protest in church records, and ordered it returned to its framers.

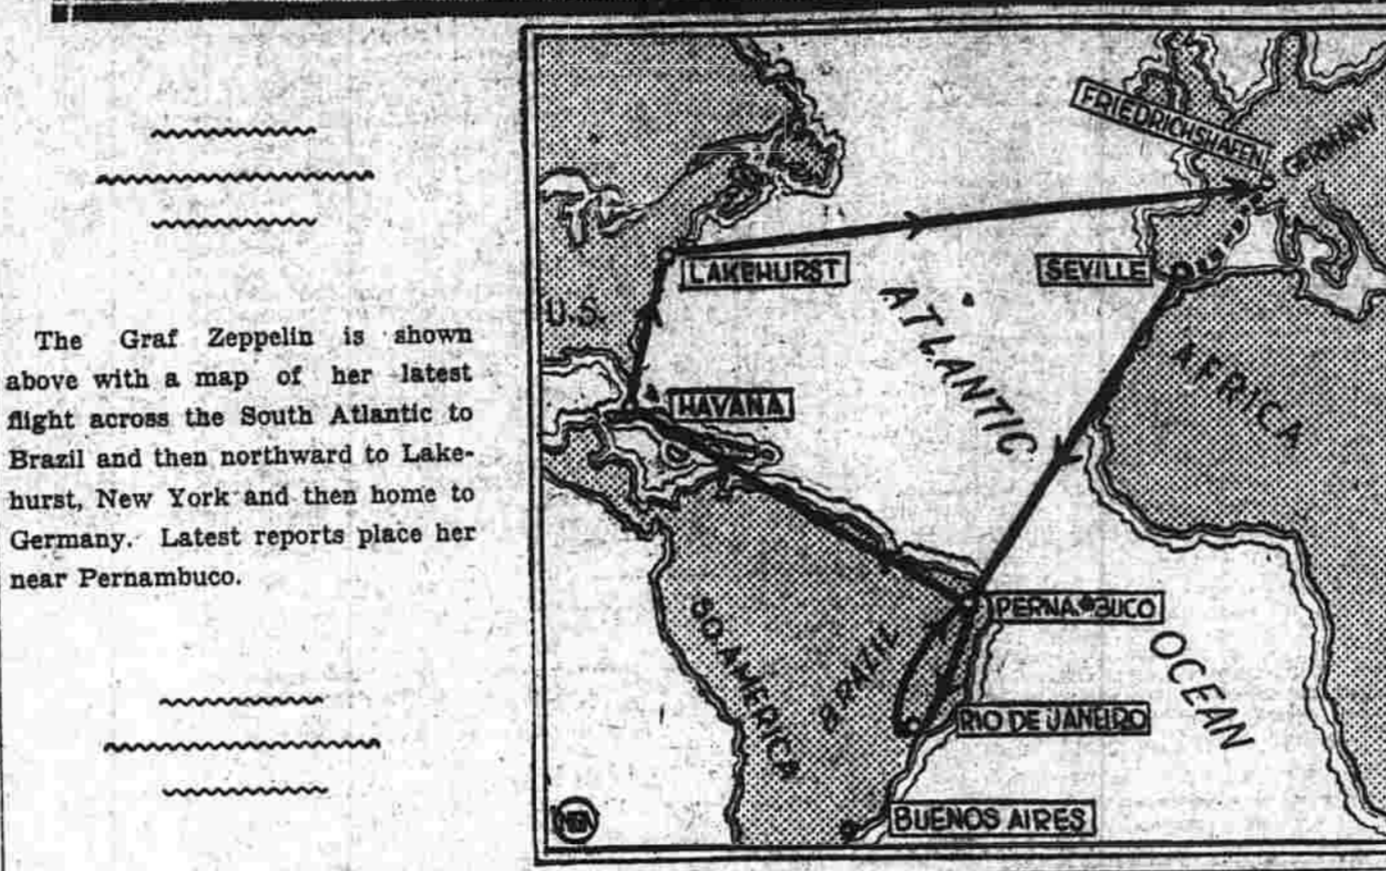

A short time before Fitzhugh's defeat, the anti-Cannonites, had been decisively whipped when they protested the wording of a resolution placing the church on record as opposed to Stock Market gambling. They had opposed the resolution on the grounds that it was a generalized statement, failing to deal with the case at hand.

New tenets for the church set up by the resolution condemned all forms of gambling, including Stock Market gambling, and admonished those who wished to invest in stocks, be they preachers, laymen or bishops, to be certain the transaction was accompanied by a certificate of purchase for the stocks.

TELEVISION HERE NOW; EXPERIMENT A SUCCESS

Shown at Schenectady Theater Today; Audience Sees and Hears Life Size Orchestra on Screen.

Schenectady, N. Y., May 22.—(AP)—The television radio talkie, youngest and most precious child of electrical science, had its world premiere as a theater attraction here today.

Audiences witnessed the unprecedented spectacle of an orchestra in the theater being led by the life size radio television image of its conductor, who in a laboratory a few miles distant wielded his baton as he received the music of his men by telephone. Merrill Trainor, laboratory assistant of Dr. E. F. W. Alexander, television pioneer, was seen and heard as he explained the way in which the pictures and the sounds reached the theater. Other performers contributed to the demonstration by gesture, vocal music and instrumental selections.

Those in Charge
The demonstration was arranged by Dr. Alexander, who is connected with the General Electric Company and the Radio Corporation of America, to show the possibilities of television as a mode of entertainment. Dr. Alexander has been experimenting with television for several years. His first demonstration, in 1927, was a picture in a three-inch aperture. An image 14 inches square was exhibited on the New York radio show last fall. The projection today was on a screen six feet square, with all the grey shades between white and black being produced, registering

LINDYS START OFF ON A PLANE TRIP

Start from Newark, N. J., Refuse to Tell Where They Are Bound for.

Newark, May 22.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Newark airport at 12:45 p. m. today in his new monoplane. The craft headed in the direction of New York.

At the Morrow home it was explained that the Lindberghs were "just flying around" on a pleasure jaunt.

The colonel and his wife drove to the airport in a roadster from Englewood where they have been making their home with their parents, Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight Morrow. Mrs. Lindbergh was not in flying attire and a yellow ribbon around her hair streamed behind in the breeze.

Lindbergh whose plane has been in a hangar here for several days ordered it removed. He hopped from the automobile and warmed up the motor for 20 minutes while Mrs. Lindbergh remained in the car. Then the colonel jumped from the plane and helped his wife from the car into the rear cockpit of the craft and they were off.

After circling around the penal colony for fifteen minutes, the Graf Zeppelin turned her nose toward the Brazilian coast 125 miles away and started on the final hop to Pernambuco.

The S. S. Trejyon, bound from Cardiff to Rio Janeiro, sighted the dirigible at 8:25 a. m. E. S. T., in Lat. 1:47; Long. 31:38. The Graf at that time was steering due southwest.

CROWDS ON HAND
Pernambuco, Brazil, May 22.—(AP)—The population was flocking into Pernambuco this afternoon by thousands, such as Americans throwing into a city for great college rowing or football events. Never before has this town been so overcrowded.

All hotels long since have been filled. Boarding houses are overflowing and late arrivals this afternoon face the likelihood of having to turn back after the Zeppelin's arrival, or failing to find quarters in private homes, spend the night out of doors if they wish to remain.

Special trains brought in many thousands of persons who crowded about the newspaper bulletin boards where the Zeppelin's progress was being recorded and watched eagerly for developments, with the same enthusiasm that Americans show for baseball and fight bulletins.

Soldiers on Hand
The 21st battalion of infantry this afternoon marched out to the landing field to rehearse and perfect its technique in landing the Zeppelin. Forces of state and city police and firemen already were at the field handling the crowds. The first invasion of the air field began shortly after noon when the huge grandstand and all available standing room were filled with visitors.

It was predicted, upon the basis of wireless messages, that the Zeppelin's arrival would be at 8:00 p. m. local time, (4:00 p. m. E. S. T.).

Dr. Hugo Eckener yesterday wireless that the Graf will need a thousand cubic centimeters of gas as well as a ton of water. Gas machines have been working for many hours to prepare the supply.

Uncertain reports this afternoon said it was not expected that the Graf would leave here for Rio Janeiro before daylight tomorrow.

ANOTHER VICTORY

ing in the largest amount, they will win the $500 additional amount to their total, which will make it possible for one of the lower rated divisions to present to come in as the honor division in the closing of the Campaign.

Practically every dollar given will go to the purpose for which it is being raised as all work is voluntary and the executive committee will take care that there are no expenses incurred.

Employees Doing Bit One encouraging report that was made to the General Chairman at this morning's meeting was that the employees of the Manchester Memorial hospital have voluntarily and unanimously agreed to give one day's pay to the campaign and Knofia said that this was the kind of cooperation that makes a job such as he has taken on in this campaign a real pleasure and joy and hopes that other campaign employees of the various firms and stores might offer to make a similar contribution.

Patient Commended to the Superintendent of the hospital and was read at the Executive Committee meeting this morning, which brought considerable hospital campaign funds to the members of the committee voted to submit same for publication in the Herald which is as follows:

endorsed Secretary Davis and Senator Grundy in the Pennsylvania primary. Caraway asked McBride if he had any objection to the prohibition views were and was told Secretary Davis ought to know since he was a Cabinet member.

Washington, May 22.—(AP)—Records of the Anti-Saloon League showed the Senate lobby committee today that it has been pledged to contribute $18,705.922. The committee reported that the Senators who have pledged collected an average of about 70 per cent of its pledges. He said those listed ran over various periods of time, in some cases for five or ten years.

The League superintendent, examining the records, said it would not be fair to present the amount pledged as representing assets of the league, since part of the funds represented assessments which might not be paid.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, the only wet member of the committee, read from records that the cost of obtaining the best possible pledges and distribution literature was $8 cents per dollar. The cost of getting pledges, he read, was 76.82 cents per dollar.

McBride said there might have been one fund of which that was true but added that the average total cost of collections was 100 cents and 25 cents per dollar collected.

McBride revealed the League was attempting to raise a fund of $300,000 a year to make a campaign in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment similar to one before prohibition was adopted. Against Morrow. The Dr. League superintendent expressed opposition to the views of Dwight W. Morrow, candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination in New Jersey who has advocated repeal of prohibition.

William J. Moore of 1023 Tolland Turnpike, Buckland, is in possession of a homing pigeon which came lost before last apparently both exhausted and minus his usual sense of direction.

The pigeon is a very tame, Mi. Moore said, and he caught the bird last night with his hands after climbing up a ladder to a point where the pigeon was resting on the roof of the house. Moore had been painting his house and the pigeon's legs, feet and feathers gave evidence of the same.

MAN DROPS DEAD AS HE'S ARRESTED London, Ont., May 22.—(AP)—Arrested here today in connection with the death of Rita Gardner from poison in Montreal, George Redfern, 42 year old salesman of Kitchener, collapsed and died.

Redfern sought throughout Canada and the border cities of the United States for almost two weeks, was arrested when he lacked the money to pay a $90 tax bill. A signet ring he wore aroused suspicions of officers.

He denied implication in Miss Gardner's death, called for a lawyer and then collapsed. He died a few minutes after his arrest. Miss Gardner and a man who gave the name of A. W. Rowland, registered at a Montreal hotel a week ago Sunday. Two days later Miss Gardner's body was found on the bed in Rowland's room, hands folded. An autopsy indicated she had died of poison.

The service was expected to be only temporarily affected as new drivers were being obtained. Why the staff quit is not definitely known. The man temporarily in charge of the office, this afternoon stated that the drivers had been doing pretty much as they felt and indicated that they hadn't been playing square by James B. ASPARAGUS TAKES REST AFTER RAPID GROWING

Heat Spell Forced Plants to Such an Extent They Are Now Taking Vacation.

The recent heat wave is believed to be responsible for the sudden let-up in the asparagus crop which usually averages about the same amount for daily cuttings. During the warm spell, the asparagus grew so rapidly that the cutting each day ran larger than in many years before. Now, as a result, the asparagus crop has diminished greatly and some of the time there has been little or none to cut. Farmers report that it is beginning to show signs of returning to normalcy. L. L. Grant of Buckland, in one day recently cut 1,500 pounds of asparagus. Yesterday he didn't cut a pound because the plants had not grown sufficiently in 24 hours to produce enough for marketing.

ing Congress headquarters here or at Dharasana and Dadala but the statement had little effect on the Hindus. Leader Sentenced. K. F. Nariman, president of the local Congress committee, who was arrested yesterday during a raid on the All-India National Congress headquarters, was sentenced today to four months simple imprisonment. Other arrested officials were sentenced to six months rigorous imprisonment. Sir Pureshotamdas Thakurdas resigned his seat in the Legislative Assembly today in obedience to a recent mandate of the Indian Merchant's Chamber and Bureau, whose representative he is in the Assembly.

When the police and military arrived at camp at Unstadi they gave the volunteers fifteen minutes' notice to vacate camp, which most of them did. Those who persisted in staying were charged by the police with lathis and many arrests were made. When the camp had been cleared of its inmates it was demolished.

TELEVISION HERE NOW; EXPERIMENT A SUCCESS (Continued from Page 1.) The shadows of the features and giving both depth and detail to the picture. The performers went through their acts today in front of a television camera in the laboratory of Dr. Alexanderson at the General Electric plant. A transmitter in the laboratory sent out the light impulses, converted into radio signals, on a wave length of 140 meters. At the same time a microphone picked up the speech and song which were sent by wire to South Schenectady, from which point they were broadcast on a 92 meter wave length. Within the theater R. D. Kell, another assistant of Dr. Alexanderson, television research, acting as control operator, received the light impulses, reproduced them on an instrument called a teliphoton and then transferred the light to a light valve, at which point the light was broken up to produce an image corresponding to the subject at the studio. Another receiver picked up the radio sound waves which were amplified through a public address system. At the transmitting point the performer stood in front of an incandescent lamp with a metal disc, about the size of a bicycle wheel and drilled with 48 holes, between the subject and the light. The revolving disc covered the complete subject 20 times each second; that is, in each second 20 complete pictures were made up of light and shade. Four photoelectric tubes, sensitive to light, responded 40,000 times a second to the light impulses reflected back from the subject. The light impulses, received by radio in the theater, were passed on to a light valve, based on an invention by Dr. August Karolus, of Leipzig, Germany. The size of the reproduced images as compared with earlier television demonstrations, is due in great measure to this light valve, which is in the center of an intricate system of lenses located in front of a high intensity arc lamp. The valve operates so as to permit the passage of light in synchronization with the impulses received from the television transmitter. These light emissions were passed through lenses to a disc identical in size, shape and speed of rotation with that at the transmitting point. Other lenses carried the light to the screen, where the impulses registering at the rate of 40,000 each second appeared as the active image of the performers.

FEDERAL WITNESS IS ASSASSINATED (Continued from Page One.) She described Lucich as Marin county's largest liquor importer. Mrs. Berri said Lucich had been sitting in the rear seat of her automobile and that he suddenly drew a pistol and shot Sturtevant twice in the back and then turning the weapon upon her. She said she jumped from the car and ran, and managed to evade Lucich. Sturtevant, originally one of the defendants in the Federal rum case, pleaded guilty to his part in the liquor operations and became the government's chief witness against nine other defendants, many of them prominent in northern California.

RAISE PARASITES TO BATTLE PESTS

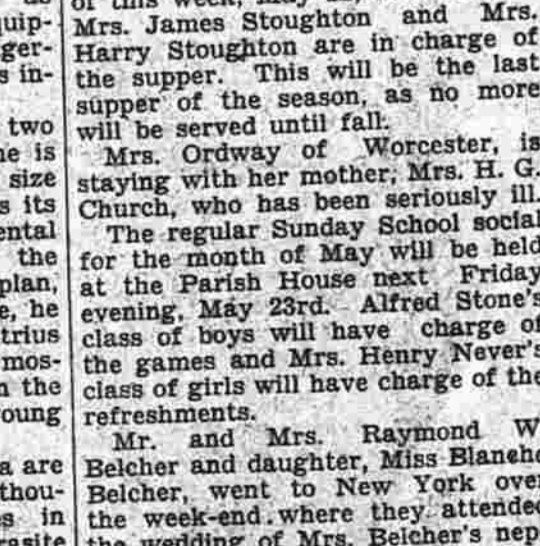

New Haven, May 22.—(AP.)—The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station has accumulated more than a million parasites in a special laboratory to combat the Oriental peach moth which last year caused $200,000 damage in the state. The parasites multiplying at the rate of 110,000 to 200,000 a day, will be liberated in the orchards with advent of weather warm enough for them to grow and prosper. Scientists have spent the winter in preparing for their campaign with parasites, held as the only hope for conquering the moth. Several basements rooms of one building and the entire wing of a green house were fitted out as rearing quarters, and much equipment, including an electric refrigerator and a vacuum sweeper, was installed. Two parasites that destroy in two different ways were chosen. One is the trichogramma minute, the size of a microscopic fly, which lays its eggs in the eggs of the Oriental peach moth and so destroys the larger insect. According to the plan, if the moth escapes death there, he is next subject to the macrocentrus ancylihora which looks like a mosquito. This parasite lays eggs in the larvae of the moth and the young live there. The eggs of the trichogramma are dusted on a cardboard disc ten thousand to a disc of two inches in diameter. Releasing the parasite means hanging the discs from limbs of trees in the orchard. The eggs hatch and the parasites look about for peach moth eggs. About 7,500 will fly off a single disc. The macrocentrus, much more difficult to raise, will be released from wire cages hung in the orchards.

GANDHI DESCRIBES HIS LIFE IN JAIL

Indian Leader Says He Is In Good Health and Gets Good Treatment.

Bombay, May 22.—(AP.)—Intimate details of the prison life of Mahatma Gandhi, interned high priest of the civil disobedience movement, today were made known in a letter which he wrote to Miss Slade, alias Mira Bai, at Ahmedabad, Ashram, intended for the eyes of all Ashram inmates.

The "Holy One" declares the prison officials are kind and attentive. He says:

"I have been quite happy making up my arrears of rest. The nights are cooling and I am permitted to sleep right under the sky. I have a refreshing sleep.

"I am giving as much time as I can to the talki (a hand spinning wheel), I find I have no speed on it at all. I hardly get thirty rounds in one hour. For the first day I gave nearly seven hours to it, reaching 180 rounds. I was washed out at the end of the performance. I must learn the trick of getting more speed. My health is alright. I rise at the Ashram hour (4 a. m.) I am given a light so that I can read the gita, according to our custom.

Keats Regularly

"I am gradually recovering from my exhaustion. I rest regularly from eight in the morning to 12 noon and thus get two or three hours sleep during the day. I gave up oranges during the march but have begun taking them again here. On the first day I took raw goats milk and am continuing it for the present. I take three pounds (daily).

"I shall have to reduce the quantity a little or take it in the form of curds. In the morning also, I take cold water instead of hot. They give me full facilities for making it hot, but if the body can be maintained by cold water, why bother about hot water? I have left off honey. The goat is milked in my presence so there is no question of the cleanliness of the milk.

"I have been given a man for cleaning vessels, et cetera. There is no reason for anxiety about my diet."

Writing to his wife, the Mahatma says:

"How nice it was that I saw you and all the sisters on the evening previous to my arrest. I was able to go with you up to your residence which gave me much pleasure. God's favors pour down upon us as rain from heaven.

"None of you should get nervous or troubled."

In a letter to his son Devidas he says:

"I don't know where you are, but there is a God about to take care of us, so let us not worry about one another."

AMATEUR DETECTIVE STARTS EXCITEMENT

Lowell, Mass., May 22.—(AP.)—It looks as though William L. Jacques of North Andover will have to stop reading detective stories. Jacques was driving home early today when a car with New Jersey license plates passed him headed towards this city. Recalling that there has been a number of burglaries around Lawrence and Haverhill recently, Jacques cautiously turned his vehicle about and followed the other machine.

He trailed it to this city and when he saw the occupants park it near the Boston and Maine Railroad station, Jacques felt his suspicions had been confirmed. Two men alighted and walked rapidly away but Jacques, instead of following them, rushed to police headquarters with his tale.

A minute or two later a squad of 20 officers sprinted to the scene and began what proved to be a long wait. Dawn broke at length and the numbers of watchers was slightly reduced but the number of those who remained was only accentuated.

Finally the two men returned only to be confronted with a flock of very determined police. Protestations were unavailing and they were rushed to the station. There the suspects succeeded in convincing their captors that they were two Newark, N. J., electrical salesmen and after a long distance call or two had corroborated the fact they were released.

Police refused to divulge their names.

LEVIATHAN ORCHESTRA AT SANDY BEACH BAL

Announcement that the S. S. Leviathan orchestra is to appear at Sandy Beach ballroom at Crystal Lake Saturday evening the 24th has caused a sensation throughout Eastern Connecticut, it being generally known that this wonderful dance band is one of the finest before the public today. They are dressed by critics to be the best dressed dance band on land or sea, being attired in natty naval officers uniforms and in addition to a surprisingly clever dance program the Leviathans also give a stage presentation program of novelties such as is featured by them in the largest theaters and ballrooms of the country.

Tomorrow night's attraction and the 14 Brick Tops directed by Fannie Brice on Thursday the 29th are two of the finest dance attractions ever brought to Connecticut and a record crowd will be on hand to see and hear them. This will be the only opportunity in the state this season and the same applies to the Brick Tops, America's greatest girls' orchestra who will be at Sandy Beach ballroom May 29th.

"LADIES LOVE BRUTES" FEATURE AT STATE

George Bancroft Takes Leading Role in Story About Sky-Scrapers—Here Two Days

Billie Dove in "The Other Tomorrow," and Monte Blue and Betty Compton in "Those Who Dance," the current attractions at the State, will be shown for the last times today.

George Bancroft, whose vigorous portrayals of "he-man" roles have raised to the foremost rank of screen actor, will head the new program Friday and Saturday in his latest screen effort, "Ladies Love Brutes." Anyone going to the State Friday and Saturday with the expectation of being thrilled will not be disappointed. Bancroft is surely "there" in "Ladies Love Brutes." He rages and thunders with his vigorous voice, he pummels and pounds with his fearsome fists and he laughs and roars with his whole powerful propensity for burly virility. It is the story of a building contractor who has amassed a fortune. He decides to become a force in the social life of New York so that he may make even greater success in his role of "Sky-Scraper King."

Accordingly he has himself introduced to a beautiful young society matron. He falls in love with her when he learns that she is soon to divorce her erring husband. But the chances for romance in the "400" are blasted when racketeering enemies devise a plot to wreck him. In the ensuing action, there is a terrific fistic encounter in which Bancroft emerges the victor. The conclusion of this stirring tale is a happy one, with Bancroft upheld as more of a hero than ever before. Mary Astor and Frederic March are seen in leading supporting roles.

The program will also include the Vitaphone acts, Hugh O'Connell in the humorous sketch, "Dead or Alive," and Burns and Allen in

"Lamb Chops." Harry Langdon will be seen and heard in the lively comedy, "The Fighting Parson." The latest Metrophone sound news will complete the bill.

JIMMY OBEYS ORDERS

New York, May 22.—(AP.)—An order from his physician is law to Mayor James J. Walker, but he makes his own interpretation.

Attending a testimonial dinner for James J. Sexton, president of the Board of Taxes and Assessments, the mayor, who recently recovered from a physical breakdown, said: "I promised my doctors that I would pack my evening clothes away until next winter."

So he attended the banquet in a business suit.

A family of kittens was found in the White House the other day. Possibly it is one of the lost litters Senator Johnson is looking for.

SOCONY LEADERSHIP

Last Year Socony introduced Socony Special plus Ethyl—by every test the finest motor fuel.

And now SOCONY LEADS AGAIN

A wonderful new service to add to the life of your car

AS A RESULT of a year of close cooperation with the leading manufacturers of motor cars, Socony announces a new lubrication service for car owners.

Eleven thousand men have been trained in 53 schools to render this service—a Certified Lubrication Service.

If you take your car today to a Socony Station displaying the special sign shown above, you can know positively that it will be lubricated right at every single point.

The cost will be no more than you have been paying for hit-or-miss lubrication service.

There are about 40 points on your car that require lubrication. The 36 popular makes of automobiles have an average of thirteen models apiece, representing the production of only the past three years.

36 cars x 13 models x 40 lubricating points = about 19,000 lubrication points which the service man must remember—as well as the proper lubricant for each.

Many cars require 7 different lubricants for different parts. No wonder that service men cannot carry all this in their heads. No wonder, when you drive your car away from a station, you often wonder whether some points have been missed.

Working with the manufacturers, Socony engineers have developed special charts showing every lubrication point on every model of every leading make of car, and indicating just which lubricant should be used.

Special tools have been acquired to enable the service men to reach every grease cup, every joint, every single lubrication point.

Finally—in 53 schools conducted by lubrication engineers—11,000 Socony Service men have been trained to lubricate your car not only thoroughly but quickly, to save your time.

Take your car in today and have it made ready for its summer's work. Watch the chart as the service man covers each point. Note how quickly and surely he works. No guesswork, no carelessness, everything sure. That's why we call it Socony Certified Lubrication Service.

SOCONY Certified LUBRICATION SERVICE

What is it?

A service performed for you by men scientifically trained in schools over a period of 16 weeks, in the expert lubrication of cars.

These men work from special charts—prepared by Socony engineers with the cooperation of the car manufacturers—showing every point to be lubricated and indicating the exact kind of lubricant to use at each point, as recommended by the car manufacturers.

They have the proper tools, they use Socony lubricants—best in the world.

What it means to you

Socony Certified Lubrication Service assures proper lubrication for your car.

The use of the chart of your own car assures you that not a single lubrication point has been missed and that the proper lubricant has been used at each point.

Where can you get it?

Socony Certified Lubrication Service is available at Socony Stations displaying the sign above. More stations will be commissioned to render this service as their operators prove they are qualified.

THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1930

TOO GENUINE

President Hoover has permitted it to become known, through Senator Watson, Republican Senate leader, that he hopes the Senate will ratify the London naval treaty before it adjourns.

There is every warrant for the President's expressing himself in strong terms concerning the proposal, fostered by the mischief-making Johnson of California, that the ratification of the treaty go over until next winter.

It is extremely doubtful if more than a twentieth of the entire population of this country is opposed to the ratification of the treaty. There is no real body of opposition to it.

The hearings on the subject have been over-extended, at best. There is no more reason for listening to all these naval officers' opinions than there would be to listen to the testimony of a thousand brakemen on the subject of railroad consolidation.

It could be wished that President Hoover would do a little demanding in this matter. He has the public and the press back of him. He is in a splendid position to talk turkey—we do not like to see him going to the Senate with his hat in his hand and mildly suggesting that it might be as well to do something which, as a matter of fact, he is in a position to order done.

DEBENTURE OUT

The very worst feature of a not-too-good tariff bill is out. By wringing from the Senate and the Senate conferees the elimination of the debenture plan for farm relief and for consumer injury, the House won the battle of more than a year to support President Hoover in his fixed opposition to this measure of paternalism which would have made pet children of a group of profligate debenture brokers and neglected step-children of the buyers of food staples; which would have helped European industrialists to undersell our factory products by making American foods cheaper in Europe than in America.

It has taken a long time and a bitter waste of words and Congressional hours to bring this determination about; but it is accomplished at last.

Also it has required the submission of the House to one especially injurious exaction by way of compromise. As a salute to the elimination of the debenture plan the House conferees have agreed to a tariff of a dollar a thousand on fir, spruce, pine, hemlock and larch lumber, the basis building lumber in use in this country.

How many millions of dollars this tariff will add to the cost of housing in the United States it is difficult to estimate, as is the amount of building operation that will now have to be abandoned on account of the added cost.

But the tariff schedules that have been agreed to, in those cases where they may operate to the advantage of the nation as a whole, can be changed; no tariff rate, after all, is difficult to get rid of when its harmful effects have once been demonstrated. The big point is that the nation is not going to engage in the class of paternalistic adventures represented by the farm debenture scheme. That is a substantial victory for the administration and for governmental sanity.

DEFENDERS

With four cup defenders now in the water, two of them rigged and tuning up and the other two in the hands of the riggers, we are getting on toward that time when the best of the quartet will be picked to meet the challenger for the America's cup, fifth of the gallant family of Shamrocks—and the offering of the sturdiest old sportsman who has ever figured in international yachting.

Most of us know little enough about yachts or sailing craft of any kind, in these days, but the intriguing personality of indomitable old Tom Lipton whom all America loves for his steadfastness, his fortitude and his dead-gameness, is going to make the races for the America's cup the center of a tremendous interest to everybody, landlubber and seadog alike, just the same.

The odds have always been against Sir Thomas—they have always been against every British challenger, because until this year it has been necessary for them to build stiff sea-going little ships to compete with fragile, flexible racing machines. It has always been a provision in the deed of gift of the America's cup that the challenger must sail to the scene of the contest on her own bottom—necessitating a transatlantic voyage which, in no case in recent years, could the defending craft have risked.

But this year it is provided that the defenders, too, must be seagoing craft, built to Lloyd's specifications; and that even things up on that score. But still the odds will be against Sir Tom to this extent—that he has only one challenger and she must meet the best boat among four.

Perhaps, as utterly loyal Americans, we must not hope for the "blooming mug" to cross the ocean in Lipton's veteran hands, but every one of us will at least hope that he gets all the breaks of the game and that if he doesn't win it will be incontestably because they don't know how; over there, to design and rig yachts so that they can beat the best of ours.

WAR GAME

Next week Manchester people who want to be "in" on a war game may, if they wish, run down to any of the beaches around New London and thereby become among those present at one of those physical demonstrations of military problems in which the Army and Navy frequently join.

The harbor defenses of Long Island Sound will be guarded against a "Black" force and the aviation arm of the military services will participate to an unusually large extent.

As a military study the exercises will, no doubt, be of sufficient value, but they probably won't provide much of a show and such inlanders as do motor down to the shore to have a look-see are likely to get but a moderate amount of satisfaction out of the trip aside from what they derive from the ride.

The coast defense forts are now manned by only a comparative handful of troops, so few indeed that it will not be possible to fire the big guns at all and the spectators won't even get a very big noise for their pains. What they will be able to see, probably, will be an unusually large number of planes scooting about on perfectly incomprehensible errands—incomprehensible, that is, to the layman—the smoke of a few cruisers and destroyers at a distance and, on occasion, surface-running sub sliding along the Sound or the Race, possibly submerging while still in sight.

Aside from these things it probably won't be possible to note much difference between next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when the game will be carried on, and any other days in that part of the world. Perhaps some anti-aircraft guns will pop a bit now and then, for they are to cut more figure than usual.

Still and all, if one has nothing else to do, and the weather is fine, it's a nice ride—and there is no admission fee.

WHALEN'S SUCCESSOR

Having been deprived of the services of the most decorative police commissioner in its history, New York City now has those of a person who provides as striking an example as can be imagined to that ornate showman, Grover Whalen. According to all newspaper accounts Commissioner Mulrooney is the anti-thesis of his predecessor at almost every possible point. He is as retiring as Whalen is conspicuous, as er is verbose—and he is a policeman whereas Grover is a whale of a dry-goods man. This idea of picking a policeman to boss policemen is a good deal of a novelty in New York. When they do pick a policeman to be commissioner they usually pick a terrible one—Big Bill Devery, for example, or the now highly cultured Mr. Enright. But this time it looks as though they had put a regular cop on guard.

Here is a man, it appears, who knows his New York absolutely; who has been more than thirty-four years on the force—ever since he became of age—and who has the notion that the business of a policeman is to prevent crime and catch criminals and not to get rich. It looks from the outside like a new deal in the New York police relation. Taking what clue is to be had from the fact that Inspector Mulrooney promises nothing, possibly the city will now get something besides traffic regulation out of its police department.

BISHOP CANNON

While the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South seems determined not to put Bishop Cannon on trial for his bucketshop operations, and doubtless never will do so or will acquit him if it does try him, nevertheless his enemies in the conference are producing some revealing allegations. The latest is the charge that Bishop Cannon was in constant correspondence with bucketshop operators even while they were under indictment and that letters, telegrams and cablegrams are in the possession of the authorities which show that the bishop expressed deep concern over the criminal status of the recipient and contained directions for securing the secrecy of the correspondence.

It is all very interesting even if it all proves to have no official effect on the Methodist Church South.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer Washington, May 22.—It does not seem to be much of a secret anywhere that the Hoover administration has not yet put on that burst of speed which all its friends anticipated.

The president may yet live up to his old reputation as a superman, but it isn't panning out that way just now. One of the favorite subjects of political diagnosis in Washington concerns what's the matter with the Hoover administration. Politicians, business men and newspapermen are all interested in the subject.

Not All His Fault Much of the unfavorable reaction is based on things that aren't Hoover's fault at all. Very few hold him responsible for the business situation or for the low price of wheat. It is also argued for the president that he has made no really serious mistakes in office which are bound to leave their marks against him, although there are matters such as his selection of Claudius Huston as Republican national chairman and of Judge Parker as a supreme court justice which are regarded as rather unfortunate. And it is further suggested that the voters in the mass are not dissatisfied with him; that Hoover was sold to the country over a period of 12 years and that he is not likely, possessing the prestige that always goes with the presidency, to be "unsold" in a few months.

Nevertheless, the fact that Hoover is making no great hit with any one and that important elements in his political and journalistic support have been turning sour on him is not to be ignored. It is an important and not encouraging fact that not only does Hoover fail to fight for his own interests, but that there isn't any himself, but that there isn't any qualified and willing to put up a real fight for the administration.

In some strange manner Hoover has managed to stir up an unusually active dislike for himself, especially in the Senate, without at the same time building up any strong group of pro-Hoover partisans. Take also into consideration the fact that Hoover's vice executive committee is made up of the kind of men that don't seem to be the kind that function well in contact with a legislative group—this is Hoover's first experience of the kind—and you have a large part of the explanation of the Hoover difficulties.

One must add that Hoover still doesn't know very much about politics and that no one thinks—wherever he finds it—that he is getting good political advice. It's the sort of advice which told him that it would be a master political stroke to appoint Parker to the supreme court.

The old complaint that Hoover was timid is heard again. He still hesitates to make strong statements by makes none. And so he must depend upon such spokesmen as Senator Simeon Pess of Ohio, who carried the hod for the administration in the Parker fight. It is sad but true that the best thinkers and the best orators in the Senate—Borah, Norris and Tom Walsh, for example—are seldom on the Hoover side of any fence.

Some of those who know Hoover well say that he probably would stir up more enthusiasm over and over if he would be a little more human. He often forgets to acknowledge the services of his supporters, it is said, and dominates his cabinet to the extent that its members generally have given up making suggestions meetings out of sheer hopelessness. His failure to consult with leaders of Congress on many points has also caused resentment on Capitol Hill. Works Well as Dictator In China Hoover knew how to get work out of the coolies. In Europe and the United States he aroused great admiration as a food dictator. As secretary of commerce he ran his own show without interference from outside; in that department he was a dictator once more. Thus Hoover has proved his capacity as a dictator—as a boss of men directly responsible to him. But the presidency is no dictatorship, and with a balky, unfriendly legislative body to deal with, Hoover has been up against something new. Inasmuch as he is just as smart as he ever was, it may be assumed that in time he will learn a lot from his mistakes about how to handle himself and the job.

Health and Diet Advice By DR. FRANK McCUOY FOOD COMBINATIONS—(Cont'd.) (Non-Starchy Vegetables Are Important.) Strictly speaking, all vegetables contain a small amount of starch. However, the following list contains such a small amount that it does easily avoid an excess of the more concentrated foods such as the meats, starches, sugars, fats, etc. The non-starchy vegetables combine well with each other and they can be mixed indiscriminately either with starches or proteins. A good rule to remember is that one or more of the non-starchy vegetables should be used with any one starch or any one protein at a meal. (Be Careful With Fruits) Fruits, while being one of the most valuable, may also be one of the most dangerous foods if improperly combined. The more acid fruits are best eaten by themselves or in combination with milk. The sub-acid and the non-acid fruits may be used with a protein meat or with milk or with any one of the non-starchy vegetables. An exception to this is the banana which is a highly starchy fruit, and should therefore be used at the same combinations as you would other starches. The acid fruits should never be used at a meal containing heavy starchy food. If you use fruit desserts, it is well to remember that they should only be used with a protein meat or non-starchy meal, and not with a meal containing starchy food. Some of the fruits are quite rich in sugar; among those are dates and figs. You should be careful not to interfere with the digestion of other foods: Celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, cucumber, eggplant, beet tops, turnip, small parsnips, small carrots, small parsnips, small turnips, pumpkin, lettuce, okra, vegetable marrow, chayotes, avocado, oyster plant, mallow, kale, zucchini, parsley, endive, ripe olives. These non-starchy vegetables contain only a small amount of protein and very small amount of starch, but they are very rich in all of the organic mineral elements and vitamins which are so necessary to the different cells of the body in all of the tissues from the nervous system to the skeleton. There are other reasons why they are important to our daily fare. For one thing, they fill up well and thus supply us with bulk so we can more overeat on the fruits containing too much sugar, although a small portion may be used once or twice a day by anyone in good health. (Sugars) The best sugars are those contained in the sweet fruits and if one uses these no other sugars need be added to the diet. The sugars should not be combined with starches because this mixture ferments rapidly. An excess of honey, maple sugar, raw sugar and other sugars should also be avoided for the same reason. (Fats and Oils) Fats and oils are valuable foods in cold climates and dangerous foods in hot climates. They combine well in moderate quantities with any food. They have a tendency, however, when mixed with either starch or protein, to delay the emptying of the stomach. Their purpose in the body is to supply heat and energy. For this reason, they are almost essential in cold climates and obviously not so useful in warm climates. They combine best with toasted starches, fruit sugars and non-starchy vegetables, and moderately well with proteins and starches. We find large quantities of fats and oils in nuts, meats, cream, butter, avocados, olives and palm fruit. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Blood Tests and Appendicitis) Question:—Uncertain asks: "Will you kindly advise the symptoms of chronic appendicitis; also whether the same can be determined by a blood test?" Answer: A blood count is very valuable as one of the means for making diagnosis of chronic and acute appendicitis. An x-ray diagnosis should also be made together with many other tests and examinations. The symptoms of chronic appendicitis are not usually very pronounced, and it takes a great deal of care in examining and great skill in correctly diagnosing such a condition. The patient should never attempt to do this by himself, but should employ a physician who uses every known means for arriving at a correct diagnosis. (Celery Salt) Question:—M. J. G. asks: "Would celery salt be a good substitute for ordinary salt? What is celery salt made of?" Answer: Celery salt may be used in place of ordinary table salt. It is simply a mixture of ordinary salt and pulverized celery seed. (Apoplexy) Question:—V. J. F. asks: "How do you account for so many men dropping dead or dying in their sleep? We seldom ever read of a woman dying so suddenly, but in every paper we see there is from one to several notices of men dying suddenly. Is it their eating?" Answer: The deaths from apoplexy which occur suddenly during sleep are almost equal between the two sexes, but probably we do not hear about women so much because there are not so many prominent ones. DEEP SEA SHOW BOAT WILL GIVE GERMAN DRAMA Hamburg, (AP)—A sea-going showboat, built to bring examples of Germany's best dramatic art into every important foreign port, will sail from here next autumn. The ship is owned by Marie Charlotte Bischo, but the plays in foreign ports will be produced under the auspices of the German National Theater, Weimar. Twenty players will travel on the vessel, which has been christened appropriately "The Pro Arts." It is a twin-screw motorship with built-in stage and auditorium. The stage is modern, and the auditorium seats 500. Taking its cue from the summer cruise of the Great Zeppelin, the Pro Arts will head first for Spanish ports, after which South America will be visited. The show then will be pointed toward the United States. While the plan to send a boatload of German drama cruising the seven seas originated as a purely private venture, there is a possibility that the government of Thuringia may share the financial burden, inasmuch as the cruise will be good publicity for the 1932 Goethe festival in Weimar.

RELATIONS RESUMED

Buenos Aires, May 22—(AP)—Resumption of diplomatic relations between Bolivia and Paraguay, officially resumed yesterday, was widely commented upon here today as restoring the friendly situation in Latin America that existed before sanguinary boundary clashes in the Chaco Boreal, in December, 1928.

Dispatches today from Lapaz announced the arrival of Paraguayan laborers' families to commence reconstruction of Fort van Guardia, in the Chaco.

Rogelio Barra is the new Paraguayan minister to Bolivia who today has presented his credentials to President Siles. Dr. Guachalla handed his credentials to President Guggiari of Paraguay, at Asuncion.

WAGNER'S BIRTH

On May 22, 1813, Wilhelm Richard Wagner, the originator of the music drama, and one of the greatest of musical geniuses, was born in Leipzig.

Influenced as a boy by his readings in Shakespeare, Wagner, at the age of 14, wrote a four-act tragedy. Later, falling under the spell of the music of Weber and Beethoven, he decided he would write music so that he could compose a piece for this tragedy.

In 1835, at the age of 20, he became a professional musician, accepting the post of chorus master at Wurzburg. He diligently occupied himself writing librettos, but few of them sold. Impoverished as he was, he married Minna Planer, an actress. When they went to England soon after their marriage Wagner got inspiration for his "Flying Dutchman" in the crossing of the English Channel. But this, and his subsequent Tannhauser, were not cordially received.

Wagner ultimately became friends with Liszt who helped him in times of need, and encouraged him to compose. Later Wagner took for his second wife his friend's daughter, Cosima Liszt, who died only recently. Wagner himself lived to see his works finally acclaimed.

CRITZ MAKES GIANTS' INFIELD LOOK SWEET

New York, May 22—(AP)—John McGraw has one less worry today as the N. Y. Giants faced the remainder of the national league schedule with the best infield of the major leagues. The acquisition of Hughy Critz, regarded as baseball's premier second baseman, relieved McGraw of his greatest worry and at the same time plugged a hole much in evidence in the Giants' defense since the days of Frankie Frisbie and Rogers Hornsby. Critz was obtained from Cincinnati yesterday in a trade that sent Larry Benton, righthanded pitcher back to his home city.

Here is how the Giants' new infield looks on paper.

For Quality, Long Life and Clean Washings, There Is No Better Washer Than The

WATER-WHIRL ELECTRIC WASHER

De luxe Model . . .

Here is an exceptionally attractive electric washer—with in reach of everybody. More than that, the Water-Whirl Electric Washer is well built, soundly constructed of the best materials—and guaranteed against defective material and workmanship for 10 years. Nowhere can you find a washer that will last any longer at any price—that will wash clothes any cleaner than the Water-Whirl. Just examine it at any of our stores and you will see why this is true.

The vitreous enamel tub is large, roomy and its wide top makes it easy for you to put in or remove the clothes. There are no awkward, hard-to-reach corners. The tub is easily kept clean and fresh. And the agitator stem is extra large with heavy wings to whirl anything clean in from 5 to 10 minutes. Overalls, blankets—even the finest fabrics can be washed in the Water-Whirl.

The mechanical units are stronger than you find in many of the highest priced washers. The heavy duty bearings are 7-8 inches instead of 5-8 inches as ordinarily used. Gears have machine-cut teeth and the connecting rod is a steel drop-forging. All the mechanism runs in an oil-tight gear case. The 1-4 h. p. motor needs only a few drops of oil two or three times a year. From Lovell's latest complete release wringer with its large balloon rolls down to the large, easy-to-pull casters, the Water-Whirl is superior to any washer in its class.

When you examine the Water-Whirl notice how quiet the mechanism operates—evidence that there is nothing cheap about the Water-Whirl. That's why we can afford to guarantee it for 10 years against any defective parts or workmanship.

Convenient time payments make it unnecessary for you to be without a washer any more wash-days.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Swampscott, Mass. — A cat can look at a king and enable distant subjects to hear him. In an experiment at Princeton University a cat's auditory nerve was hooked up with an amplifier and other apparatus, thereby making conversation in one room audible in another 100 feet away. The experiment was described at the meeting of the American Otological Society here. Washington — Senator Glass of Virginia regards his removal from the Capitol as a nuisance and has introduced a resolution for their removal from the Capitol. He says that since their installation Senators have been required to perform the duties of telephone operators. New York — Congratulatory messages to Gustave Lindenthal, bridge engineer, on his 80th birthday, express the conviction that he will do even greater things at 90. He has designed various bridges over the East river and is active now in plans for spanning the Hudson. London — Lord Melchet turns over half his income to John Bull. "I spend at least six months of the year working for nothing at all," he told the Society of British Advertisers. He was referring to the income tax. New York — The Charles F. Murphy Memorial committee's plans for an $80,000 flagpole in Union Square, near Tammany Hall, have been approved by the Municipal Art Commission. There were protests when the memorial was proposed, but it is now announced the pole will not be a memorial to the late Tammany chieftain but will commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. San Salvador — The place where Columbus landed has 4,848 women than men now. The census shows 50,270 and 45,422. New York — Society expectations are that Laddie Sanford, soon to follow the example of another Whitney, and become engaged. Sanford is rated as one of the ten wealthiest bachelors. Boston — It looks as if some Harvard boys have been trying to kid Dartmouth, where shorts have been worn daytimes. Four lads from Cambridge in white shorts and Tuxedo coats crashed the Letter Carriers' Ball. Two cops hustled them to a taxi. New York — Having listed and added 150 checks correctly in 2 minutes 8 1/2 seconds, R. A. Hartley, Jr., has won the annual adding machine contest of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Banking. His time was three seconds under his mark of last year.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Carburetor Loads Up

Various methods are used to prevent carburetors from loading up with unused gasoline when the engine idles or when the car is going downhill with the throttle closed. One of these involves a suction tube which removes gasoline from the carburetor body. Failure of this function is indicated in two general ways. Should the engine "buck" or act unusually slow when the accelerator is pressed following slow driving, and thoroughly warmed up, trouble with the suction tube can be expected. Another indication is profuse dripping of gasoline from the carburetor. Loading of the engine, however, is the surest test. The motor will operate normally but will give trouble every time the throttle is opened following idling, slow driving or downhill performance.

Watching The Winds

A little more consideration for wind resistance and there would be a lot more economy in operating the car. Sometimes the winds are favorable, but more often unfavorable. An aviation expert, criticizing the wastage in modern motoring, says that it requires 50 per cent more power to operate the car at 60 miles an hour, because of wind resistance. This does not mean that 50 per cent more gas is consumed because the engine develops more power with speed, but consumption does increase considerably. When driving into a headwind, go slower for economy's sake. Don't forget that there is something to be gained by traveling faster when the wind is behind. Because almost any route varies in direction it is well to change your plans whenever a turn in the road alters the situation with regard to the wind.

Risk In Peppy Battery

One of the things to watch in car care is cranking the engine on the morning after a long run when the battery is fully charged and the oil is a bit stiff. Everything is set for straining the teeth of the flywheel gear, if not for chipping one off. When the engine is cold as during winter months the battery usually runs under par and any stiffness of the motor is offset by reduced energy of the starter. Let the engine be normally stiff, however, and the starter exceptionally energetic, and there is a good possibility of trouble. This can be spared by remembering to waste current before using the starter. Switch on all the lights and use the horn while cranking.

Ready for the Big Speed Event

Running the starter with ignition off when garaging the car after the trip also wastes current effectively, but if one tooth already is off the starter the extra cranking is not advisable. Omitting Second Gear There seems to be a great deal of confusion in the minds of many drivers as to whether or not it is sensible to shift from low to high gear, cutting out second. It might be well, therefore, to list three rules bearing on this subject. The first warns against trying to go from low to high on an upgrade, on the level if you're in a hurry. Rule two requires the driver to consider the condition of his engine, its normal power and the load he is carrying. Second gear should always be included when the engine is cold or when the car is loaded. The third rule introduces the element of time. It has been pointed out that the gears assist the engine and thus help save gas. But if the driver is in no hurry to get along he often finds that omitting second saves more gas than using it, and without any strain on the car.

Why Patches Come Loose

It is a curious commentary on motoring affairs that at this date when general extravagance makes blowout patches unknown quantities to many thousands of motorists the public should just be learning how to use such patches to best advantage. Most motorists who used such patches experienced the trouble of having them "creep" from their original position. Often the patches would not stick properly. And there was—and still is—a good reason why. It has to do with the "lining cement" which is put in new tires at the factory. Unless this is buffed out the reinforcement will not stick. Some of the trouble is also due to

POWER INCREASES

The power of the average American automobile has increased about 54 per cent in the last five years, according to a recent survey taken of 1925 and 1930 models by the American Research Foundation.

GOOD PARKING PLAN

To relieve the city of much of its parking congestion, Buenos Aires is trying the plan of exempting from certain city taxes buildings which permit parking in the basement.

TWO MEN ARE ARRESTED IN BIG STOCK SWINDLE

Springfield, Mass., May 22.—(AP)—Charges of conspiracy to defraud in connection with an alleged stock swindle involving $2,000,000 or more lead to the arrest here last night of Isaac Hart of Boston and Joseph M. Polley of Lynn. State police arrested the two men on warrants issued at the East Cambridge District Court. They were holding a meeting of salesmen. Lieutenant of Detectives John F. Stokes of Boston said an investigation of Hart & Co., a promotion and selling agency conducted by the men, had been under way for two weeks. The Boston Better Business Bureau, District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex county and the attorney general's office have also aided in the investigation.

Stock of two companies whose sale has been banned by the State Department of Public Utilities has been sold by the company, Stokes said. The issues were those of the Page and Shaw Candy Company, banned last November, and of the Holland's Far East Tea and Coffee Corporation, banned in 1925. The stock has been sold through misrepresentation at excessive prices, he said. The office of Hart & Co., is at 141 Milk street, Boston.

How's She Hitting?

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

Science Editor, NEA Service. The birds have made their appearance this spring as usual in other than natural ways. One of these is the automobile. We can hear them squeak and whistle as the car rolls along, after a winter's session of inattention. They seem to be hidden in the most inaccessible parts of the body and should be released before any long trip is contemplated this summer, if our nerves are to be rested at all. Elimination of this whistling and squeaking from the automobile body is merely a matter of tightening bolts and oiling hinges. Some of the bolts may be hard to reach, but diligent search and application of the wrench will more than reward the motorist for his efforts. Tightening of the body bolts will not only chase out the birds, but it will assure longer life for the body. Constant squeaking means constant friction of parts at joints where these should be in tight contact. Such friction harms the body considerably. Furthermore the bumps the car gets riding the streets and highways, and the vibrations it has to stand from the

THAW REACHES FRANCE

Paris, France, May 22.—(AP)—Harry K. Thaw, landed here today from the Ile de France on a pleasure trip which he said would take him to Paris, Switzerland and other countries on the Continent. He did not attempt to land in England yesterday. There were reports that a previous ban against him, denying him admission because of having been involved in an extradition crime, would still be enforced. "I have no definite plans," he said. "I just felt that I needed a change. I did not want to go to England as reported. I could go if I pleased. I go to Canada every year and is not Canada a British Dominion?" He left for Paris in an automobile which he brought with him from the United States.

THIS WOMAN IN 4 WEEKS LOST 19 POUNDS OF FAT

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America. "Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts. "I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce. "I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that, my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 225 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 206 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity. I have recommended 'Kruschen Salts' to many of my friends, in fact have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts. # The Husband Hunter

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Natalie Converse, jealous of her husband, Alan, quarrels over Bernadine Lamont, a night club hostess. Alan seeks sympathy from his secretary, Phillips. Who successfully schemes to arouse Natalie's suspicions, and she leaves Alan. Wounded pride prevents either from seeking a reconciliation, and Alan turns to Phillips for consolation.

Fearing that he does not mean to propose marriage, Phillips cleverly brings Alan to confess more true friendship for her, and they become engaged.

Natalie writes Alan that she is returning to her home, without, however, mentioning a reconciliation. Phillips, fearful of losing Alan, tells him she is obliged to leave home, because of trouble with her father.

Alan's meeting with Natalie, who brings her young sister Florence with her, leaves Alan hopeful, but baffled as to Natalie's intentions. He meets Phillips later, and in apologetic explanation of his lateness, explains that he met Natalie at her home. The next day, feeling ashamed of his neglect of Phillips, he goes to her apartment with her, and without directly asking it of him, he agrees to pay for the furniture, and he invites her to dinner. He goes home to dress and is about to leave when Phillips telephones.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX
Phillips was calling Alan from her father's apartment. She had hurried there from the office as soon as she learned Alan had left for the day.

She needed no particularly keen intuition to tell her he was going to see Natalie. In his office she had stood for a moment with her hand on his private telephone, about to call his hotel. But he couldn't have reached it, she reasoned. She would leave a message. It would serve as a reminder. No, better to talk with him. But she couldn't wait around the office; there was too much to do if she were to get into her new home that night.

She left in haste. He would want to dress; she was almost certain of that, thinking, anxiously, that he would consider his reunion with his wife an occasion for a celebration. She could get home before he left the hotel, if she hurried.

On the way she consulted her watch with frequency. Not much time to spare. Well? He had gone, she wouldn't twiddle her fingers.

She hurriedly slipped on her hat, and when she opened her door she called sweetly, "You are or not tonight, Alan?"

"We didn't," he promptly replied. Phillips laughed, as though it were silly for them to need a date for seeing each other.

She had some of the furniture sent up to the new apartment today," she told him. "It was a special delivery, so I can stay there tonight. I'm here at... at father's," she added, her voice changing perceptibly; "getting a new dress out in a taxi. Shall I wait for you here, or meet you at the restaurant?"

Alan hesitated, then he said, a bit coldly: "I won't be able to have dinner with you tonight, Phillips. He could hear her low, "Alan!" uttered as a protesting cry. It made him feel as if he had done her some serious injury. And he didn't know whether it would be more, or less, kind to tell her the truth.

"But, Alan, I need you," she wailed, using the only appeal she had. "I'm sorry," he said shortly. He was always short and cross when he felt even slightly in the wrong, for there was nothing of suave cruelty in his nature.

Her answer was a sob. "Look here, Phillips, be sensible," he pleaded. "All right," she said, her voice fairly smothered in her disappointment. "Good night."

Alan heard the click that told him the wire connection was broken. But he did not feel greatly relieved. Phillips had dulled his spirits.

When he approached his own front door, and Natalie opened it for him, before he had a chance to use his key, he was quiet and depressed. She saw at once that he did not look as happy as he had seemed when he telephoned. Perhaps, she told herself with swift foreboding, he had changed his mind about wanting to come.

"Come in," she said, as lightly as she could, and Alan did not smile at the joke inferred. He entered as anyone might have, putting his hat and coat down on a chair.

Natalie stood, as slim and graceful as a white birch, waiting, wondering. She was wearing a gown of point lace, bridelike in its fashioning, that she had chosen for that particular reason.

Alan came and took her hands, and she saw the light of admiration leap into his eyes, but gloom still sat on his brow.

"I'm afraid that we cannot be happy," she asked herself miserably. "Afraid to trust me again?" Suddenly her pride reflected a new facet. She told herself she was to blame for the state of affairs, and sternly ordered herself to take her medicine.

Her head held high, she smiled enchantingly at him. At least she would not fall in her part. If he did not want her after she had convinced him she was not too proud to be forgiven, then... "Chicken and waffles," she said gaily.

"Waffles?" Alan repeated it blankly. And again a tiny knife turned in Natalie's heart. She turned toward the living room, expecting Alan to follow. He came along slowly.

just make yourself at home," she laughed deliciously. "I'll run and do the last minute things."

She was going. Alan half whirled to stop her. "Don't go," he was about to say. Instead, "How is the new girl?" he asked. "How is the new girl?" he asked. "How is the new girl?" he asked. "How is the new girl?" he asked.

The dinner was delicious, but it tasted like Dead Sea fruit to Natalie. She barely tasted it. Alan did not want what he ate; but he pretended an appetite to please Natalie. At least he thought he was pleasing her. She wondered how he could bear to eat with anyone as miserable as she.

They were at cross purposes, and as the evening wore on, Natalie sensed it more and more. Still she would not allow her courage to lapse. On thought sustained her. When she wrote Alan she was coming home, he had made no objection. Neither had he failed to meet her at the station. True, his welcome hadn't been enthusiastic, but then he had a lot to forgive. Maybe he was only making it hard for her to teach her a lesson.

They went to the living room when they left the table, and Natalie served the coffee there. She sat on the ottoman, and the low tray-table and poured the clear black liquid with infinite grace.

Her hand shook as she passed up a cup to Alan. Quickly she averted her eyes.

"Natalie, Natalie, Natalie." His heart rested for her. He could not escape the knowledge that this was a welcome-home feast. From the open door to the clasp of her hand—it was all there—heaven itself. And he dared not enter the cup to Natalie. She took it and refilled it, half inclined by the low tray-table to give it to him, and it stayed on the tray.

They sat in silence a moment. She reached out her hand. "Alan, let's not be like this. Oh, you love me, don't you?"

"Love you? My God, Natalie." She was surprised that he buried his face in his hands instead of taking her in his arms. A cold chill crept around her heart. Was there something between them that...

Intuitively she cried out: "Alan, darling, I don't care what you've done, if only you love me enough to forgive me."

Alan was still as stone, unanswering. Natalie clung to him a moment, then drew away. Her eyes were wells of torture.

He did not love her he did not love her. Alan knew what she was thinking. But he saw no good in trying to tell her the truth. It was unthinkable that he could have imagined he was in love with another woman. But he had imagined it, and if he told Natalie about it, he knew she would not believe that it had been only imagination unless it ended.

And it was not ended. He had asked Phillips to marry him. He dared not trust himself to let go with Natalie while Phillips was on his conscience. Perhaps she would release him. There, at least, was a ray of hope.

He got to his feet. Natalie made no motion to stop him. He turned to her.

"May I come back tomorrow night?" he asked. Natalie stared at him in astonishment, but she said nothing, only nodding in assent, determined to the last that pride should not again betray her.

They did not say good night. Both were too miserable for further words.

Natalie sat a long time on the ottoman, leaning against the chair that Alan had occupied. Her thoughts were at first confused, chaotic even, but gradually certain conclusions became definite.

There was a barrier between her and Alan. Her natural reaction was a jealous one, but she sought nobly to suppress it. She had told him nothing mattered if he loved her. Ah, but did he?

And why did he leave? Why did he ask to come back? Why couldn't they have settled everything now? These were questions she had to try to answer for Florence as well as for herself, when her sister came home and found her starkly white and still in Alan's chair, her eyes boring blankly into the candle-light dimness of the room.

"Wait, I'll talk the count," Florence said under her breath, instantly blaming her sister for whatever had happened. Nonetheless her heart bled for Natalie.

But when Natalie had told her all she knew and thought, Florence was furious. She hid it well from Natalie, however, as she sat at her sister's feet, patting her hands.

She asked innumerable questions, most of which Natalie was unable to answer. She was keener than Natalie in affairs of the heart—her generation, while only a few years younger than Natalie's, being much farther removed from inhibitions of speech. She guessed very closely to the truth about Alan.

"But try and get him," she thought challengingly of the unknown woman in the case. "I'd like to make her a bet that Natalie will have him back here inside of a week."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Many home-makers of today often wonder just what vegetables, sauces and garnishes should be served with certain meats and what desserts are dietetically right with the remainder of the meal.

Beef, lamb, veal, mutton, poultry and fish are the summer meats with many varieties of "by-products" offered to tempt lagging appetites. Smoked pork products, the so-called "summer sausages," beef and veal tongue, both fresh and corned, as well as corned beef, add to the list.

Almost any vegetable goes well with beef. Mushroom sauce is delicious and horserradish traditional. The dessert should be simple and not too rich, for beef is one of the hearty meats. The cut of beef chosen largely determines the type of dessert. Filet of beef demands a more elaborate dessert than round steak.

This is an excellent beef combination: Clear tomato soup, roast beef, browned potatoes, brown gravy, horseradish, green beans, shredded cabbage and carrot salad, snow pudding.

With lamb and mutton, a tart jelly such as currant, mint or barleyberry is usually served. Vegetables good with mutton are mashed potatoes, creamed white turnip, green peas, asparagus, cauliflower, spinach, tomatoes—any of the strong flavored vegetables. Caper sauce is served with mutton. Green peas are traditional with lamb, and spinach or any leaf vegetable is good. The dessert for either lamb or mutton should be of fruit in some fashion or a frozen dessert may be used.

Veal makes a tart jelly and a well-seasoned sauce of some sort. Hollandaise sauce is used with tomato, brown sauce, onion or veal. The vegetables should not be too pronounced in flavor. Green beans, green peas, asparagus, spinach and carrots are especially good. The dessert may be anything but a gelatin concoction.

Chicken, probably the most popular kind of poultry for warm weather, needs a tart jelly such as cranberry or currant, although any jelly or conserve with a sharp fruit can be used. Rice is often substituted for potatoes. When there is gravy, noodles or dumplings are good. Green corn, green peas, lima beans, all the succulent summer vegetables and creamed onions are particularly good. Chicken is lacking in fat, so a rather rich dessert can be used.

MEMORIAL DAY CEMETERIES

By Furman Lloyd Mulford
Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

Cemeteries are an object of more universal interest just now than at any other season. Many visit them in the week before Memorial Day who rarely enter a cemetery at any other season. Probably more is done now to make them look neat and attractive than at any other time of the year.

This is commendable, but only too often it happens that two or three weeks after Memorial Day faded flowers and empty flower holders give a cemetery the appearance of neglect, having enjoyed gala attire for a day only to be forgotten.

In "God's Acre" nothing is so important as neatness. In cemeteries trash should be removed frequently and grass should be cut at least twice a season in the north and four or five times in the south.

It helps to keep the ground attractive if no one places cut flowers on the graves unless he knows he can return before the week is out to remove the faded remains and the container. Plants likely to grow into straggling form are undesirable.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

CERTAIN TYPES OF SKIN DISEASES SEEM DUE TO INHERITANCE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

No doubt many human beings carry constantly about upon the surface of their bodies the marks conferred upon them by their ancestors.

It has long been recognized that a complete lack of pigment in the skin and hair or the eye is a character inherited by some people and that when they lack this they are not likely to confer upon their offspring the power of developing pigment.

If one albino marries another albino, their children are all albinos. If an albino marries a person who has normal pigments in the hair and skin, all of the children are likely to have normal pigments.

A person with blue eyes cannot confer brown eyes on his children and the offspring of two blue-eyed people are practically always blue-eyed. When brown-eyed people marry, the color of the eyes of the offspring is a matter of chance, since the brown represents the power to carry both blue and black.

A black-eyed person has blue as well as black in his iris, which is the colored portion of the eye, and if he marries a person with black eyes, the children are likely to be black-eyed.

Through scientific studies of heredity many such facts have been determined, and it is possible to predict about what is likely to occur. There are some disorders of the skin which seem to have an hereditary basis. Most of them are also associated with disturbances of the glands of internal secretion, so that it is believed that the skin disease is inherited through an hereditary of a certain type of gland substance.

In a survey of heredity in relationship to skin diseases, Dr. Charles M. Williams points out that the answer to some of the skin diseases of unknown origin as, for example, psoriasis, may be found in heredity either directly or so far as relates to the glands. The reason all of the people who might possibly develop the disease do not show it is because the specific irritant that might set up the condition may not have acted in their cases. When the irritant comes into the situation the response is usually an eruption.

There are many forms of skin diseases that are called allergic. These represent a special sensitization of the body to certain protein substances such as may be taken in by the food or through the invasion of bacteria. Of this character is strawberry rash and also hives following the eating of other foods in some people. Perhaps the constitution of the person at birth contains the substances which react in this way.

The growth of the hair and its distribution are also governed by heredity. Thus one case was described in which a child lost all of the hair on his head during childhood and a tracing of the ancestry indicated that the child was the fourth generation to reveal this defect. The hair of the great-grandfather had fallen out when he was six years of age, and everyone of the direct male descendants had had the same disturbance.

Sofia.—(AP)—Newspaper reading is not exactly a habit in Bulgaria, judging from official figures on the circulation of dailies and periodicals.

In a population of 5,900,000 the total circulation averaged only 300,000 daily in 1928. This, however, is a big advance in that the circulation then was only 20,000 daily in Sofia with an additional 10,000 for all the provinces.

Only two newspapers have acquired circulations of 30,000 daily. They are non-partisan sheets and eschew party politics, the chief stock in trade of most of the other publications.

Advertising is extremely limited. The price to the reader is generally equivalent to half a cent in American money.

A THOUGHT

To adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that the friends of the world is enmity with God?—James 4:4.

To the popular mind adultery has long been regarded as an offense against sexual purity, but in the light of the standards under consideration it is nothing more or less than a contemptible form of stealing.—Alfred Lawrence Hall-Quest.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I have just come from the bedside of a little boy of 5 who has been operated on for double mastoid disease, caused by a throat infection that traveled up the Eustachian tube, and found a welcome in the middle ear. His parents know a good bit more about ears now than they did a month ago. We all might do a little research work on the subject for forewarned is forearmed, and it never hurts to know facts.

The ear that we see is merely the "sound catcher." The passage of tube carries the sound to the sensitive drum. Then things begin. Those who have seen charts of the middle and internal ear know what an intricate piece of machinery it is. One that stands no fooling or monkeying with, and that fortunately is safeguarded from interference by the membrane of the drumhead itself.

Unfortunately, however, it has two vulnerable points. The first is the very sensitive, just mentioned, for the drum is easily irritated by instruments in the hands of the non-professional, and irritation and inflammation may spread. The old saying that nothing should be put in the ear but the elbow is as true as ever.

The second is by the back door, so to speak, for the Eustachian tube establishes a direct connection between the middle ear and the throat and nasal passages.

But we will anticipate trouble here only by preventing it, and by rules for hygienic care necessary to forestall even incipient ear trouble. A child with habitual earache or who has pain behind the ear should be taken to a good physician or an ear doctor for diagnosis.

Treating Wax Formations
Ears must be washed and cleaned, of course, but the tube should be washed out with soft cotton wads or cloths and never far enough in to irritate the living membrane or injure the drum. If older children have wax formations that interfere with hearing as they do sometimes, warm water introduced by a very soft rubber syringe will probably loosen it. These little affairs have soft rubber points that will not irritate the drum passage. The hard rubber tips are not to be recommended for family use. If deafness continues and the wax seems to be imbedded, again, I would have a professional remove it.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The House

In a certain business office there is a colored porter who takes your card to "the man you want to see." I have seen this man receive a terrible berating when he was directed to tell the caller that "Mr. cannot see you today." I have seen him take everything from a man except a physical beating, and never once have I seen him lose his head or in any way, by his conduct, detract from the dignity and standing of his company.

One day I asked him how it was that he kept peace of mind in these trying situations, and his reply was right to the point.

"You see, sir, I represent the firm; if the men in their private offices won't see the caller, all the caller sees of the firm is me. So it is up to me to hold my head and be as decent a representative of the house as I can."

The porter had the right idea.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

The man who owned the farm was proud and he explained to all the crowd that all around through Denmark there were farms of every size. Said he, "Our people use the land to grow both flowers and food-stuffs grand. If you could see some of the spots 't would open up your eyes."

"Why, even when we live in town, we do the gardening stunt up brown. Why let the good soil go to waste when wondrous things will grow? When you return to your home land, make all your good friends understand that gardening is quite a stunt. They'll all be glad to know."

"Now, if you're hungry, help yourself. There's lots of bread in on the shelf. Just cut some. Then pick vegetables and make a sandwich fine." The Tinymites thought that this was great and so they didn't hesitate. In just a moment, to the bread shelf there was quite a line.

The Travel Man soon said, "Well we must on our merry trav-als be." And so they bid the farmer man a very kind good bye. "Where are we going now?" said one. "I hope it's where we'll have some fun." The Travel Man replied, "To find a big boat we will try."

"We're leaving Denmark. Yes, sister! In Norway we'll shortly be." And he was right. They reached a boat and quickly sailed away. In Oslo, Norway, they soon docked and all the Tinymites quickly flocked out to the shore. "A brand new land!" cried Scouty. "Hip, hurra!"

Then through the streets they slowly went. An hour or so was time well spent. They finally reached a market spot and stayed around for hours. Queer carts were standing here and there and wondrous perfumes filled the air. It was the place where Norway folks were selling wondrous flow-

GRANT PLANTS POTATOES ON PRATT-WHITNEY PLOT

Leases 100 Acres of Land Near New Airplane Plant; Is Part Of Old Brewer Farm.

Louis L. Grant, of Buckland, Manchester's biggest potato grower, has leased 100 acres of land from the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Corporation of East Hartford and has already completed his planting both on the rented land and his own where he is growing nearly 100 more acres of potatoes.

Last year Mr. Grant leased 100 acres in Ellington and planted about the same acreage. The Pratt & Whitney land is largely composed of what was formerly the Old Brewer farm running back of the Silver Lane Pickle Factory. Although no official statement has been made in connection with leasing the land, it is understood that owing to business conditions the Pratt & Whitney Company is not expanding as much as had been planned for the present and the land has therefore been leased. Two tobacco growers have leased other land owned by the airplane company.

EXPLOSION!

That tremendous blast at Thompsonville this morning, felt and heard all over Manchester's North End, wasn't so much compared to the explosion of feelings, perfectly justified, when Madame the Housewife has guests coming and the marketman sends her the wrong kind of a piece of meat, an indifferent fowl or a shady fish.

Pinehurst hasn't heard one of those explosions in a long time. We have spent years developing a system whereby Madame gets precisely what she orders—and if she changes her mind Pinehurst will assume the burden of trouble in making an exchange.

We do business on the basis of friendly helpfulness. It pays. Pinehurst's business is growing.
