The Connecticut Company's reason for wishing to supplant the trolleys with buses, is because, Scott said, the company's profits on the line were not sufficient.

GIRL SAYS SAUNDERS DIDN'T KILL SAILOR

Camden, N. J., June 13.—(AP)—Learning that Albert Saunders, 24, of Camden, had been indicted by the Camden county Grand Jury for the killing of Felice Solury, 23, a sailor of Waterbury, Conn., a young Philadelphia girl wanted as a witness, surrendered to police today and declared Saunders innocent.

The girl, Helen Hess, 20, told Philadelphia detectives that she accompanied Saunders to the Little Club, a Camden cafe, last Saturday but said they left before Solury became engaged in the fight that resulted in his death.

She told police she was willing to give whatever evidence was wanted. She will be questioned by Clifford Baldwin, prosecutor, today. The girl denied that any blows were struck while she was present in the cafe. Marian Parrish, 22, of Philadelphia, also indicted for carrying concealed weapons, identified Saunders as the man who used a club during the disturbance. Two other Philadelphia men and three girls are being held in connection with the killing.

Remove from the fire and chop. Mix with a cupful of Melba toast crumbs and a half pound of uncooked and a moderate oven for thirty minutes. This mixture may also be molded into thin croquettes and broiled under the flame, turning to allow cooking on both sides. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Enlarged Pores) Question:—E. M. B. writes: "Would like to know what to do to reduce enlarged pores."

Answer: The enlarged pores you write about are probably those which appear on the nose and face. Such enlarged pores may be gradually reduced through using daily applications of ice. The ice should be held for several minutes directly on the affected part.

(Albuminuria) Question:—Reader asks: "What sort of diet would be effective in curing albuminuria? Is there any medicine acting on the kidneys that one should take along with the diet to assure a positive cure?"

Answer: The diet should be so regulated as to cut down on the foods of high caloric value, such as starches, sugars and proteins. Albumin in the urine may be due to many different causes which impair health. Albuminuria is merely a symptom which goes with a number of different disorders. The complete treatment for each case would depend upon a careful diagnosis, where all the causes can be considered. There is no single remedy which may properly be called a kidney medicine.

(Coughing and Weakness) Question:—H. H. writes: "I am a man 53 years of age, cough frequently, and have lost about 15 pounds. Whenever I walk four or five blocks I get so tired I have to retire. My legs seem very weak and when I take a drink of water I get a cold chill down the right side of my back. I have a good appetite. Answer: You should surely have a good diagnosis made of your case. Your symptoms are those which appear at the start of tuberculosis. Be sure to go to a doctor who will take x-ray pictures of your lungs.

JAIL BREAK FOILED

William Evans, 38, notorious convict who was captured in 1927 when he entered the prison in the guise of a priest with a satchel full of nitro glycerine to blast an avenue to freedom for a pal, is regarded as the brain of the plot.

BANDITS IN CHARGE OF NEW YORK HOTEL

Chicago, June 13.—(AP)—The Garfield Arms hotel, in the hotel district of the west side, went under the management of four gunmen for nearly an hour early today.

The robbers escaped with $1,000 taken from the office safe and from guests after 15 guests and employees had been ordered around and cowed at the point of pistols.

The gunmen appeared shortly after midnight, herding half a dozen guests and the night clerk against a wall and awaited the return of additional guests. One of the quartet stood near the entrance and signaled the approach of each new victim.

Apparently satisfied that the group would afford a satisfactory profit, the robbers searched the victims for valuables and ordered the clerk, Melville Eberhardt, to open the safe. He protested he did not know the combination.

The manager, Thomas D. Lawlor, was routed from his apartment in his night clothes and compelled to open the safe, which yielded $400 cash. Locking the victims into the hotel office, the quartet escaped.

Vincent Stornaway, successful portrait painter, takes Bruce Ideon, wealthy financier, to the picturesque Cafe Ture in Greenwich Village to show him the Bohemian life of the world of artists. There he introduces him to Judith Grant, beautiful artist, model and dancer, and her friend, Clarissa Morley, known as Chummy, and tells him of Chummy's tragic history. Seven years ago Chummy had loved Alan Steyne, an artist. Steyne had abruptly disappeared, and the shock had unhinged Chummy's mind, so that she had been childish in her mental processes ever since. Chummy lives with Judith, who looks after her and supports her. After the death of another artist, Bastien Dumont, Steyne has come back to New York, and the two arrange a meeting between Steyne and Chummy. Chummy fails to recognize Steyne, however; and Steyne, after giving Judith some money to help care for the girl, takes his leave, telling Judith he hopes to see her again soon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III
The next day, about noon, Judy and Bastien Dumont met in the Cafe Ture. Judy had been sitting for the famous Max Dickbread, a rather irritable individual. She was exhausted, and had come for a cup of coffee and some sandwiches made of Italian sausage that Dan always prepared for her. Dumont had a glass of beer before him. He said he had lunched—which did not necessarily mean that he had. "Do you really think he will marry her?" he asked. "Of course he will marry her!" the girl replied indignantly. "What else could he do? He will pay doctors to make her well, and then he will marry her. The doctors can't make her well, he will marry her all the same." "Did he say so?" "Of course—I mean, it wasn't necessary. He gave me money for her—to spend on nice things. He is going to take her away." "Did he say so?" "Of course he must, Bastien. Why should she stay where she is? He is rich, isn't he?" "I don't think he's exactly rich, but he's well off. He told me about it. When he left here, he was in despair and half-dotted for lack of food. He made his way to Italy with a man he knew, and thought he might make a living by copying old masters. There he fell in with an old gentleman, a rich art collector, who took a fancy to him and made him his secretary. They traveled all over the world. The old man died six months ago and left Steyne very comfortably off. I don't think he left him everything he had, but it was quite enough to keep the wolf from the door." Judy clasped her hands. "How absolutely gorgeous for Chummy!" she breathed. "And, Bastien, he is awfully nice!" "Easy enough to be nice when you've got money," grumbled Dumont. "Easy to keep young, too. I'm getting near 30, Judy, and in a few years I shan't be young any more; but there's Alan Steyne, looking like a boy, so fresh and fit—and he's older than I am!" "Oh, Lord, hark at Methusalem!" cried Judy. "Why, sometimes I feel 50, Bastien, you silly owl! And sometimes I feel 16. Actually, I'm 23. That's getting old for a girl, too, you know." Dumont closed his eyes for a moment with a look of pain. Then he looked at the girl, his face drawn with miserable yearning. "Work that would make me famous and rich," he said feverishly. "Then I wish I could do any kind of perhaps you'd listen to me, Judy. I can't expect you to now, although if you'd only marry me I'd work like a plowboy. I'd simply make them take my work and pay for it, and at least you wouldn't have to slave." Judy shook her head, and her bright hair glittered under her hat. "I've told you lots of times, Bastien, that I'm never going to marry until I fall in love. Falling in love must be jolly, and it may make it worth while getting married. From what I've seen of marriage, it wants something pretty strong to make it worth while!" "A week passed, and Chummy's cold did not get better. She developed a troublesome cough, and her cheeks began to look transparent. Judy was worried, particularly as Alan Steyne did not come again. Max Dickbread was painting Judy as a Spanish dancer in a sensational work for the Paris salon, and he changed her pose every day. He was a clever artist, but his personality was devastating. Judy could not have put it into words, but he fed on other people's vitality and reduced her, as she said, to a rag. Judy went for the doctor. He was a queer Irishman with red hair and fiery eyes. His name was 'Shane, and he ran a dispensary for the poor. He was not very encouraging about Chummy. He said she wanted warmth and cuddling, and plenty of nourishing food. Judy bought many little delicacies out of Alan Steyne's gift. Doctor O'Shane had attended Chummy before. As he was leaving, he said to Judy on the landing:

"I think her brain's going. She's more childish than she was." "It was that same day that Chummy started her friend by saying suddenly: 'I feel so queer, Judy! I think something's going to happen to me. It's a horrible feeling, like a lot of brass bands playing in my head!' Judy sought Dumont. He was whom she could rely. She made him promise to go and see the doctor and tell him all about Chummy. They met again at the Cafe Ture in the evening. "Well?" the girl asked breathlessly. "O'Shane doesn't think anything could be done," he answered. "If she didn't know Steyne at once, he doesn't believe she will ever know him. He says there's no treatment that could cure her. He was rather decent—for him; tried to explain the case to me." Judy was in despair. "Has Steyne called again?" Dumont asked. "No." "Did he say he would?" "Yes—I mean, Chummy invited him. Oh, Bastien, that night he was so nice to her! I thought him simply perfect. What can be the matter? Why doesn't he come?" Dumont had no answer. In his own mind he could think of several reasons. He had not Judy's unshakable faith in humanity—which was indeed something to marvel at, considering how much she had seen of life. Steyne did come a couple of evenings later. He came laden with fruit and flowers, and to Judy he was like a day in spring. His absence was easily accounted for. He had to go to Maine on business connected with the property his late benefactor had left him. He came several times that week. Chummy was delighted with him in her placid "take-everything-for-granted" way. She ordered him about just as she did Judy; but not even his repeated visits struck a single chord of her lost memory. Judy spoke to Steyne about the doctor one night, as he was leaving. Chummy had not been able to go out yet. The two stood on the landing. Chummy's room was only the pretense of a sitting room, because the bed was hidden behind a rickety screen. "Don't you think you'd better call in some other doctor?" the girl asked. "There was a note of impatience in her voice. Evidently, she was feeling the strain of this unnatural position. Alan Steyne sitting and chatting to Chummy as if they had just met and made friends, and Chummy smiling unaware that her best beloved was by her side—it was a spectacle that got on Judy's nerves. "It's taking such a time!" she went on. "Aren't there better doctors than O'Shane? Can't something be done to make her memory come back and to make her know you? And she's been feeling queer lately. She told me so. Oh, do something, Mr. Steyne! It must be dreadful for you—this waiting. It's driving me silly—what must it be doing to you?" Alan Steyne did not answer immediately. He was looking at Judy. As she gazed at him in her perplexity on behalf of her friend, his eyes held hers, and she found herself flushing hotly and angrily as she realized that at that moment the condition of poor Chummy was far from his mind. She looked away, furious and ashamed at her own embarrassment. Steyne took her hand. "Good night, little guardian," he said. "Of course, I'll be only too glad to get another opinion, but I'll see this man O'Shane first." The result was that a famous specialist came to see Chummy, in consultation with the Irish doctor. He did not give much hope. He said just what Doctor O'Shane had said. There was no treatment to be prescribed. It could only be left to nature. It was quite possible that Miss Morley might recover her memory, but there were no means known to science which could accelerate the process. "So you're just where you were," said Dumont, when Judy told him at the Cafe Ture on the same night. "Yes, except that of course Mr. Steyne will take Chummy away now. Her cold's almost well. She wanted to come with me tonight, but I was afraid." The young artist said nothing. (To Be Continued)

ROBINSON AUTO CO. G. M. RADIO DEALER

The Robinson Auto company, Manchester, Oakland and Pontiac dealer has been appointed the dealer in this section for the new General Motors Radio sets for which The A. C. Hine Company of Hartford is the distributor. More than usual interest attaches to the latest arrival in radio which is said to be the last word in all that radio should be since it is the product of one of the foremost organizations in the world which has become famous not only for a diversified line of motor cars touching practically all price classes, but has made an outstanding refrigeration. The new General Motors radio sets involve a so-called tone selector. This device is regarded as a distinct advance in radio sets, and one that appeals to the seasoned radio fan who appreciates and seeks faithful tone reproduction. This new arrival also has another feature that will appeal to set owners and that is a control over the bass and treble. So often one desires to stress the bass as for instance in the broadcast of a symphony orchestra. Or, one may desire to emphasize the treble which will bring out the full richness of the high strings or the voice of a grand opera. In the new General Motors set all this is possible and this feature alone is said by conservative judges of set construction to be as far reaching as was the self-starter with automobiles back in 1912. Radio fans may see and hear the new sets at the local salesroom.

QUOTATIONS
"We shall soon have a world-wide exchange of programs, so that the talent, the culture, the mental outlook, and the nationalism of all leading countries will be known throughout the world."
—General James G. Harbord, president, the Radio Corporation of America.

"No one in America will deny that many of the beautiful young gentlemen and ladies of Hollywood should never have been called upon to talk."
—Robert Benchley, author and dramatic critic.

"There is nothing worse than a satisfied customer. A world full of satisfied customers would kill the world dead, that is a doornail."
—C. F. Ketterling, general manager of General Motors Research Corporation.

"It may be wonderful that a machine can do the work of a thousand men, but if you see one of the thousand displaced and thrown on the crowded employment market, with dank poverty facing you, then your admiration of the scientific wonder is considerably diminished."
—John Gibson, English magazine writer.

"CUCKOOS" INNOVATION IN TALKING PICTURES

Famous "Rio Rita" Comedy Team Principals in Picture Of Riotous Fun.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the funmakers of "Rio Rita," who all but stole the show from the principals, will appear in their first starring production, "The Cuckoos," at the State today and Saturday. Filled with mad waggery, riotous fun and delicious nonsense, "The Cuckoos" proves to be an innovation in talking pictures. It was built for fun purposes only, and it has turned out to be a veritable juggernaut of merriment. It is welcome relief from the deluge of drawing-room dramas, back-stage stories and underworld melodramas that has made up the nucleus of screen entertainment for the past several months. You may expect something "different" in "The Cuckoos"—it has all that and plenty more. However, romance has not been entirely neglected. June Clyde and Hugh Trevor carry the burden of this part of the show in a very capable manner. Ten rollicking song numbers, with a dancing chorus of a hundred, are interspersed between the mad waggery and more serious portions of the show. Dorothy Lee, Marguerite Padula, Mitchell Lewis and Jobyna Howland are the principals in the large and capable supporting cast. Additional short subjects include the ever popular sound news, and a technicolor revue, entitled, "The General." Nancy Carroll will be seen and heard for three days starting Sunday night, in "The Devil's Holiday," generally conceded to be the greatest production in which the lovable Nancy has ever appeared.

A British chemist predicts that cellulose, the raw material of paper, may soon be obtained from the air. Some day that's going to be news.

Henry Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummings of Hartford formerly of here, and Miss Margaret Moulton of Burnside have obtained a license to be married. The marriage of Miss Ethel Squires of Connecticut, Boulevard, daughter of Edison and Mary Getto Squires of this place and Arthur Kammritz, son of the late August and Mary Kammritz of Franklin, and Hartford, took place in New York June 11 at 12 noon, at the Little Church Around the Corner. After the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to Canada by auto. Upon their return they will live on Chapel street, East Hartford. Miss Squires is a graduate of Manchester High school.

HOLD BROOKLYN MAN AS MURDER SUSPECT
New York, June 12.—(AP)—Hyman Goodstein, 42, wealthy real estate operator, was held today for authorities at Reading, Pa. where he is wanted for manslaughter in connection with the explosion of a still which caused the death of two persons.

Reading police said Goodstein is the H. Gross who was registered at a Reading hotel on the day of the explosion last Feb. 2 and was the "master mind" behind an alcohol syndicate.

The blast wrecked the building and two pedestrians were killed. Four men are under arrest in Reading in connection with the explosion.

Goodstein has been at liberty under $10,000 bail since March 16 in connection with the kidnaping of his partner in the Barsam Realty Corporation, Samuel Barron. Barron was kidnaped last March by three men who slugged him near his home and dragged him into an automobile. He was held captive in a barn for three days and then dumped from a speeding car. No motive for the kidnaping has been disclosed.

HIGH-WIRE ARTIST FEATURES FETE

Father and Son Do Daring Stunts 55 Feet Up; Rides Popular.

The Community Club's annual lawn fete reached its half-way mark last night in the presentation of the north end organization's popular four-day event. The large number of fine attractions, rides and the brilliantly lighted midway has been adjudged far above the par of other years by a large number of attendants.

One of the outstanding features of the show is the remarkable ability of Fred Dobell, Jr., high-wire artist who puts on the early-evening free act. The 21 year old performer performs hair-raising stunts on the single wire, 55 feet from the ground with apparent ease. At the completion of his act he slides to the ground on a long wire dressed in the costume of a large rooster.

The nighttime event free to all people on the grounds is the daring bicycle act by the elder Dobell which is terminated by a daring ride on a bicycle through a 40 foot tunnel of flame. The two acts by father and son are thrilling and are of high order.

The management announces a reduction for Saturday afternoon only on all rides for the benefit of the children and no gate admission will be charged while the reduced prices are in effect.

LET HINDUS PARADE

Bombay, June 13.—(AP)—Eight hundred Nationalist volunteers won a technical victory over police a few minutes after midnight last night when after hours of waiting they were allowed to hold a parade in mourning against permission of martial law at Sholapur just one month ago.

Yesterday the volunteers attempted to lead a parade toward the Maiden Esplanade. Police who had orders to prevent this until the end of the day, when the restriction on parades was to expire, refused to allow the marchers to go forward.

The volunteers sat down to wait and held their positions until midnight when the police withdrew. The volunteers then, with 25,000 sympathizers who had gathered rushed down into the fort, or European area shouting. They held a mass meeting in the forbidden area and then dispersed peacefully.

HOBOKEN IS RAIDED

Hoboken, N. J., June 13.—(AP)—A man who until a few weeks ago never had heard of Hoboken, reputed wettest city in the United States, today assumed credit for one of the most sweeping prohibition raids made on this "sea-coast of Bohemia."

Dwight E. Avis, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, transferred to this district five weeks ago from Detroit, said he sent 100 agents into the mile-square city after his curiosity became aroused over the publicity given the city in newspapers.

The agents riding into the town on trucks raided twenty-one establishments, including hotels, saloons, speakeasies and restaurants. Twenty-six men and one woman were arrested. All were released under $1,000 bail each.

The Rev. James K. Shields, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, recently forwarded to Attorney General William D. Mitchell a list of 249 places in Hoboken where he alleged beer and liquor were sold.

Scout Troop No. 114 held a dog roast on Wednesday evening. At the regular meeting held at Scout hall, Friday evening, Henry Jorgensen and Tony Polkin were awarded scout handlovers for having secured five merit badges. This troop marched in the Memorial Day parade in East Hartford on Friday afternoon.

TRIBESMEN BOMBED

Peshawar, Northwest Frontier Province, India, June 13—(AP)—The British force today continued heavy bombing of positions of the Haji of Turangzal. Several casualties were inflicted on the Haji tribesmen who were said to have suffered heavily from the shelling two days ago.

The shelling forced the Haji's son to move from his sheltering cave to the east of the Sanaullah country. Tribesmen of the Haji were reported in dissent and their ranks split. It was said the Haji's son Badshah, and another chief, Malik Masasal received money from Peshawar Khatibists and did not divide it. The tribesmen however hid in the hills outside Peshawar awaiting a chance to return into India.

SENSE and NONSENSE

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

A TOAST TO THE FLAG.
(Flag Day—June 14.)
Here's to the Red of it—
There's not a thread of it,
No, not a shred of it,
In all the spread of it
From foot to head,
But heroes bled for it,
Precious blood shed for it,
Bathing it Red.

Here's to the Blue of it—
Beauteous view of it,
Heavenly hue of it,
Star-spangled dew of it,
Constant and true,
States stand supreme for it,
Diadems gleam for it,
Liberty's beam for it
Brightens the Blue.

Here's to the White of it—
Thrilled by the sight of it
Who knows the right of it,
But feels the might of it,
Thru day and night?
Womanhood's care for it,
Made manhood dare for it,
Purity's prayer for it,
Keeps it so White.

Here's to the whole of it—
Stars, stripes and pole of it,
Body and soul of it,
On the goal of it,
Carry it thru.
Home or abroad for it,
Unsheath the sword for it,
Fight in accord for it,
RED, WHITE AND BLUE!

Broadcasting.

There is an advertisement in an Ohio paper for a lost black and white tomcat. We think he was on the air last night.

Lady (phoning radio store proprietor)—I have just had my radio installed and it is working fine, but the orchestra in Cincinnati is playing too fast. Is there any way that I can slow it down?

I hear those two rival dentists have combined offices and formed a Partnership.
Yes, they finally decided to pull together.

A radio station in the South recently broadcast the revival services of a Negro camp meeting, without announcing the program, and se-

The new styles seem pretty thin to women who have a fat chance of wearing them.

taries of 43 New York night clubs wrote in asking if they could book that dance band.

Eloise—Are you familiar with music?
Madeline—No, I turn off the radio when I am petting.

A regular optimist is the fellow who thinks he looks sick enough to flirt with the girls passing by the barber shop window while he is sitting in a chair with a bib around his neck and half-a shave.

Probably the most effective use of the radio as an advertising medium could be made by a company manufacturing something for earache.

Many a man sits around all day wondering why he doesn't get his pay raised when that is the reason.

She—Honey, where did you learn to kiss like that?
He—Oh, I used to play a saxophone.

"Few of the world's greatest thinkers have been married men." A married man doesn't need to think much.

The fellow who is busy taking his vacation hasn't time to enjoy himself.

James—They tell me you're straight-laced.
Evelyn—You've been misinformed. I don't even wear them.

We all go to extremes. Any man would pay his bottom dollar to get on top.

The meals a young bride prepares have a habit of going off half cooked.

Old Lady—Could I get something for my throat?
Drug Clerk—Cigarette counter's right across the aisle, madam.

Willie, dependently on Saturday night—While there is life there's soap.

If some folks tried to swallow their pride they'd choke to death.

WHATTA WHOPPER

"The fish was so big," said the angler, "that the others would not let me haul it into the boat for fear it would swamp us."

"The same thing happened to me once," said his friend, "in the Mauretania."—Tit-Bits.

Lawrence Tibbett, opera and movie star, leaped to fame overnight when he sang the role of Ford in the opera "Falstaff," for which he had only five weeks to rehearse and study.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

Each Tiny had a lovely dance and it was fun to watch them prance around the floor, while music played a very snappy tune. The little girl they danced with had a wondrous time and she was glad that she had met the Tinies. But, 'twas over pretty soon.

That night the Tinies all turned in and dreamed about where they had been. Next morning they were feeling great and ready for some fun. They had their breakfast, then went out upon the porch and ran about. The scenery about the place was pretty, "neath the sun."

"We'll take a row boat out to-day and in the open sunlight stay," exclaimed the friendly Travel Man. "Let's take our lunch along. The hotel folks will pack it right and we can eat with all our might. I'll do most of the rowing. I am feeling good and strong."

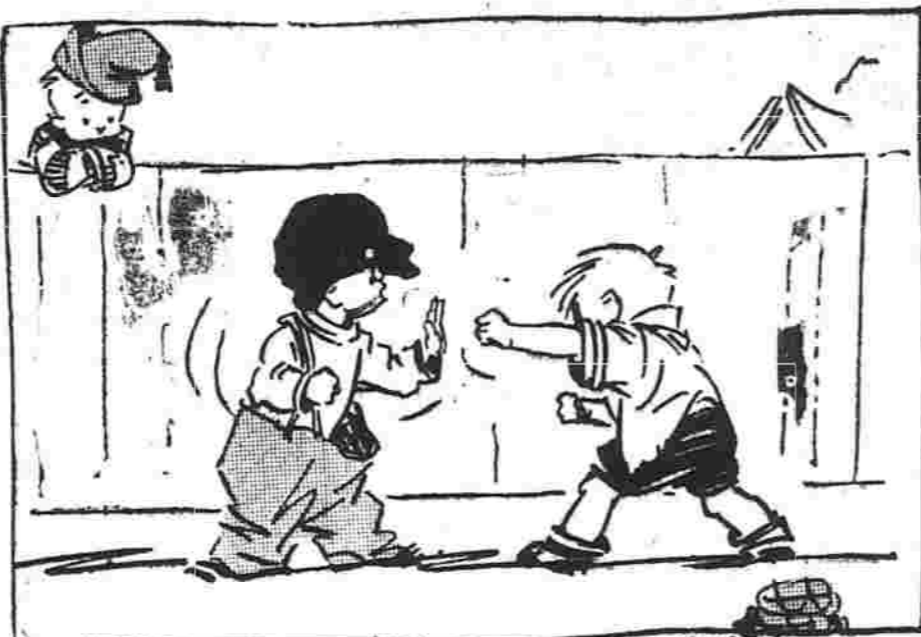

"Hurray!" cried Copy. "That sounds great. Come on, now, let's not hesitate. I want to sit way in the back where I can bob around." And so they all arowing went and most all of the day was spent in merely loafing in a boat "hat turned out safe and sound."

That night they found a new surprise that fairly made them blink their eyes. Not far from their hotel they saw a brilliant fire. "What is it?" Carpy loudly cried. "What is that blaze that we have spied?" "A bonfire," said the Travel Man. "Oh, look! It's rising higher!"

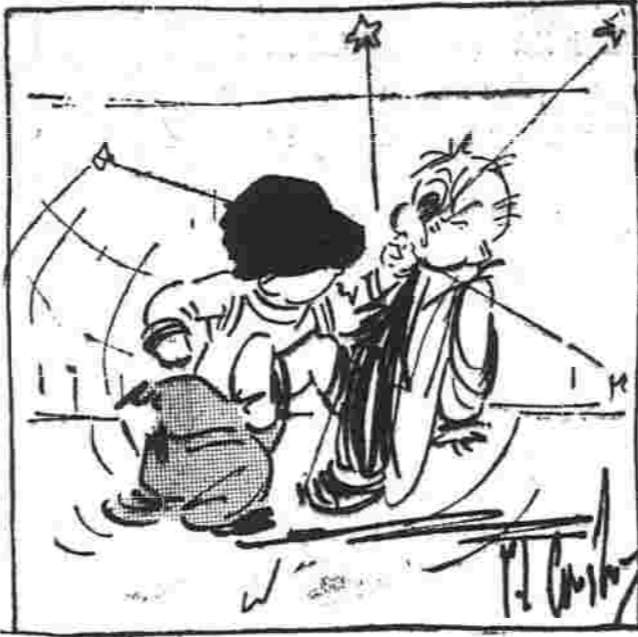

And then he told the bunch. "At night they do their celebrating right. All winter long they plan upon their summer fun. Real sport events take place by day and everybody's feeling gay. And then they have a bonfire, when each day of sport is done."

(Clowzy gets a funny bicycle ride in the next story.)
