YALE CREWS LOSE IN PRELIMINARIES

Crimson's Freshmen and Junior Varsity Defeat Blue Oarsmen—Yale Heavily Favorite for Tonight.

BY ALAN GOULD
(AP Sports Editor)

New London, June 20.—(AP)—Harvard swept back into the rowing picture this morning with two smashing victories over Yale in the preliminary races of their annual regatta on the Thames river.

The Crimson freshmen, in a brilliant climax to an undefeated season, walloped the Eli yearlings by the decisive margin of three and a half lengths.

With this as inspiration, Harvard's junior varsity crew got the jump on Yale and led all the way in a hard fought duel to cross the finish a good three quarters of a boat length to the good.

Both races were rowed over the middle two miles of the varsity course downstream. The fine Harvard freshman eight covered the distance in the best time, 13 minutes, 24.5 seconds, rowing against a stiff head wind. The Eli yearlings were timed in 11:17.2.5.

The victorious Crimson "jays" were clocked in 11:07.1.5 and the Blue juniors in 11:10.3.5.

Harvard scored his first double victory in the morning races since 1926 and also broke the spell of Blue triumph that had been all sweeping since the Crimson won its last varsity contest in 1927.

The twin setback, however, failed to shakeen general confidence that Yale would capture the Blue Ribbon of the regatta in the four mile varsity pull downstream this evening. The Eli's ruled topheavy favorites for the big race, scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m. (D. S. T.).

The Harvard freshmen came up fully to expectations in their clean cut triumph in the opening event. This powerful boatload, a heavy favorite rowed a confident and winning race from start to finish. The Crimson had nearly a length advantage after the first quarter mile. They increased their lead to three lengths as they swept past the sub-

CITIZENS DEMAND RECALL OF MAYOR

Over 100,000 Signatures on Petition to Oust Mayor Bowles, of Detroit.

Detroit, June 20.—(AP)—With a petition bearing 111,270 names officially on file demanding the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles, the ouster movement begun nearly a month ago was expected to find its way into the courts today. From sources close to the administration it was learned that an injunction probably would be sought, enjoining City Clerk Richard W. Reading from issuing the call for an election on the recall of the mayor, as he is required to do within five days if a sufficient number of bonafide signatures are found on the petition. The grounds to be urged for such an injunction were not revealed.

Meanwhile, the city clerk had a force of 75 clerks at work checking the signatures on the petition against the voters' registration list. He expects to complete the check within the five days required by law, and unless enjoined from so doing, to call the election for within 20 days, or about July 15.

Mayor Bowles characterized the filing of the petition as "the most contemptible cowardly and deplorable thing that has ever come to my attention," and "a conspiracy on the part of certain selfish individuals to discredit me and to remove me from office so that their own selfish interests may be served."

John Gillespie, commissioner of public works and considered the mayor's "right hand man," declared, "We haven't anyone to beat who hasn't been beaten before" and "a lot of guys are going to learn a lot of things about fighting."

In Charges. Gillespie, a former police commissioner, figures largely in the recall petition. It is alleged that the mayor gave him official direction of public garbage disposal despite Gillespie's "long private monopoly of that business."

130 GRADUATES GET DIPLOMAS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Exercises Held Last Night With Dr. W. O. MacKenzie, Seminary Head Delivering the Address.

After listening attentively to well chosen words of advice from Dr. W. Douglas MacKenzie, president of Hartford Seminary Foundation, the 1930 graduating class of Manchester High school, numbering 130 young men and women, stepped out into the world last night their faces bespeaking a determination to make success. The main point which Dr. MacKenzie emphasized in his twenty minute address was "power over power." He stressed the importance of power to love and power to think. The entire program was appreciably short, lasting only one hour and a half. The school assembly hall was filled to capacity but was so well ventilated that there was no real discomfort from the heat.

Speakers Excellent. Both Miss Muriel D. Tomlinson, valedictorian, and Miss Doris F. Muldoon, salutatorian, delivered their addresses in a commendable manner. There was no hesitancy and their voices carried well to all parts of the spacious room. They were coached by Miss Geraldine G. McCaughan, teacher of English and coordinator of dramatics at the high school.

The guests were slow in arriving, many coming at the last few minutes, with the result that the program was twenty minutes late in starting. It was 8:20 when the two long lines of gray-cloaked seniors filed slowly into the hall, one row being led by Edward Hansen, class president, the other by Miss Harriet Cheney, vice-president of the class. The crowd arose as the students entered the hall. The school orchestra under the able leadership of Miss E. Marion Doward, supervisor of music, played an appropriate march number as the long procession made its way around the sides of the hall, down the middle aisles and into their seats in the front.

Program Opens. A selection, "God of All Nature," by the combined Glee clubs opened the program after which Miss Muldoon extended the welcome to the audience and then delivered her address entitled "Real Values." The boys' double quartet rendered "A Brown Bird Singing" and then Dr. MacKenzie took the stand to make his address. He was warmly applauded.

Dr. MacKenzie asked the members of the graduating class if there was any one thing that each and every one of them had gained

HIS MOST CHERISHED GREETING

BOBBY JONES CAPTURES TITLE BY TWO STROKES

U. S. Amateur Wins British Open by Coming from Behind—Over $5,000 Won Here.

Hoylake, Eng., June 20.—(AP)—Bobby Jones today won the British Open golf championship for the third time with a score of 291.

The open champion of the United States increased his golf titles to three as he won the amateur championship of Great Britain last month. He is the first man to hold the British Amateur and an open championship since John Ball accomplished the feat away back in 1890.

The Georgian won in spite of two shaky rounds today. He took 74 strokes in the third round, when he carried a six, and 75 in the afternoon when he had a seven on his card but his first two rounds of 70 and 72 pulled him through.

Compton Blows Up. Leo Diegel and Archie Compton threatened until Compton ruined his chances with 43 strokes for his first nine in the afternoon and the sixteenth hole when he took a six.

When Diegel took a six at the 16th he had to get three at the next two holes to tie Jones and various agencies reported Jones' imminent victory as the winner, although Leo still had a chance. However a four on the 17th killed his chance.

Diegel smiled all the way through the last few holes and grinned cheerfully as he walked off the home green with a braving policeman beside him trusting the crowd aside.

Cries of "hard luck, Diegel," greeted the American professional on all sides, but Leo continued to smile.

"There are too many bunkers on that course for me," he said.

Diegel finished third in the British Open last year. Giant British pro, went from the sublime to the ridiculous in his last day's play. He broke the course record in the third round with a 68 and then fell away to 82 in the fourth for a 72 hole score 297.

Although he had not definitely won when he finished his round, Jones was furnished an escort of police who guarded him on his way to the club house as though he had just been arrested for throwing a bomb or something.

"This is the hardest one I have ever played," Bobby told friends as he sat in the Hoylake clubhouse, witted and worn like a halfback after a wearing football game.

MacDonald Smith, a latter starter, played par golf to the turn and then clipped a stroke from perfect figures coming home, to go into a tie with his fellow-pro, Leo Diegel, for the runner-up position.

The veteran Scott's second great round of the championship for he played the first in 70 strokes.

Bobby Jones, super-golfer, has performed the following feats: Three times winner of the United States open—1923, 1926, 1929. Four times winner U. S. amateur championship—1924, 1925, 1927, 1928.

Three times winner of the British Open—1926, 1927, 1930. British amateur champion—1930. Now holds three major titles.

NEW HOSPITAL HEAD IS NAMED

Mrs. Jane J. Aldrich Succeeds Miss Hannah Malmgren Who Has Resigned.

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees held yesterday afternoon, the resignation of Miss Hannah Malmgren as superintendent of the Manchester Memorial Hospital was accepted and Mrs. Jane J. Aldrich, who has been acting superintendent for the past year, was elected superintendent.

A year ago Miss Malmgren was granted a year's leave of absence in the hope that she might regain her health. She therefore resigned her position. She traveled extensively in Europe with friends and relatives and made some improvement but not sufficient to warrant her taking up again the arduous duties of her position. She therefore asked her trustees to be relieved. According to the hospital board it is impossible to over-estimate the work Miss Malmgren has done here.

Came from Fordham. When she came in 1922 it was directly from the position as superintendent of the Fordham Hospital in New York City. Fordham Hospital is a 500 bed institution, one of the more important units of the Bellevue and Allied. When she left, Dr. O'Hanlon, then head of Bellevue, said, "You have taken my very best superintendent." Dr. O'Hanlon had previously given a reluctant consent to her going as he felt the Manchester position would be less exacting and Miss Malmgren deserved the relief.

However, it worked out quite the reverse. When Miss Malmgren actually got here she found a group of trustees, doctors and public at large, entirely unfamiliar with hospital practice in a small community. It then became her task to educate all three groups. Her thoroughness was done is evidenced by the fact that at the end of three years the American College of Surgeons was ready to place its stamp of approval on the institution. For a new and small hospital to obtain this approval in so short a time is an unprecedented achievement.

Sought High Ideals. A Class Hospital, which is the rating here has to have a competent staff, each member of which is willing to subscribe to the highest ideals of the medical profession. It must also have a board of trustees willing and able to provide adequate modern equipment. Neither of the above would be possible without the support of a public educated to appreciate the importance of a good hospital. Any differences between Manic Appears. "Move over, start that car and keep it going or I'll kill you," Horwitz said the man ordered.

Horwitz moved over and the man jumped into the car. He struck Horwitz over the head with the shoulder gun then shot him in the shoulder.

The bullet took a downward course and lodged in the abdomen.

Police compared the description they have of the slayer with that of James Ustica who escaped last month from Kings Park Hospital for the insane where he was confined for the slaying of William Gilbride, a Brooklyn contractor in 1928.

Ustica had delusions that he was supposed to recover some mysterious documents and was to protect women.

PRICES AGAIN TAKE DROP IN STOCK MARKET

By Early Afternoon Active Issues Show Losses of from $2 to More Than $10 a Share.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Share prices again dropped heavily on the New York Stock Exchange today, as the market appeared exhausted from its sharp rally yesterday, and bears found the list vulnerable to short selling. By early afternoon, the more active issues showed losses of $2 to more than $10 a share.

The reduction of the Federal Reserve discount rate from 3 to 2 1/2 percent, the lowest in the history of the reserve system, together with announcement of a reduction in brokers' loans of $211,000,000, in brokers' loans of $211,000,000, caused a brief upsurge of prices during the early trading, which carried stocks up $1 to $7, but these advances were quickly lost.

With money already in abundant supply at the lowest rates in several years, and the banks well out of debt at the Federal Reserve, brokers were not inclined to look for any immediate benefit to stocks from the lower bank rate. The bond market, however, was immediately stimulated by the lower rate, gilt-edged issues attracting active buying.

Renewed Downturns. Renewed downturns in commodity prices had an unsettling influence on stocks. Both the cotton and wheat markets opened firm, but silver prices sagged. Furthermore, bears were inclined to regard the rally in stock prices as of purely a technical nature, and only waited for the top before renewing their operations.

Such issues as U. S. Steel, Radio, American Telephone, Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Gas, Bethlehem Steel, Loews, Warner Bros., and Johns Manville sold off $2.50 to $4.

American Can, American Tobacco Co. and American and Foreign Power lost $5 or more, and Westinghouse Electric and Eastern Kodak were off $7.

J. I. Case, which sold up $7 in the early trading, showed a new loss of $13 by early afternoon, and Allied Chemical was off $14.

INSANE MURDERER
SHOOT'S THIRD MAN

Police Now Believe He Is Patient Who Escaped from Asylum Recently.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Search for the maniac slayer who in letters to a newspaper had admitted the killing of two men in Queens Borough and threatened 14 others turned to Brooklyn today after a third man had been shot and critically wounded.

Police said the description of the assailant of Morris Horwitz, 50, an insurance broker who was shot in his automobile early today, tallied with the description they have for the slayer of Joseph Mozyński and Noel Sowley in Queens.

Third Victim. Horwitz was shot after a second letter purporting to have been written by the slayer of Mozyński and Sowley was delivered at the newspaper office.

In the second letter the writer said he had decided to spare six persons because a certain document had been returned to him and he had received $37,000 in blackmail money, but that seven others were still marked for death.

Horwitz told police he was sitting in his car in front of his home when a man with a pistol in his hand thrust his head through a window of the car.

Move over, start that car and keep it going or I'll kill you," Horwitz said the man ordered.

Horwitz moved over and the man jumped into the car. He struck Horwitz over the head with the shoulder gun then shot him in the shoulder.

The bullet took a downward course and lodged in the abdomen.

HOOVER WELCOMES BYRD AT CAPITAL; CITY IN A TUMULT

BYRD'S WELCOME ONLY 70 TONS

Lindy's Weighed 1,800 Tons—Oh, That Means Paper Swept Up After the Parades.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—This city's welcome to Rear Admiral Byrd and the crew yesterday was a mere 70 tons at fair compared to the 1,800 ton welcome extended Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his return from Paris three years ago.

This estimate, made by Charles S. Hand, supt., of the city's sanitation department, was based on the amount of paper swept up in the streets over which the processions passed.

The cost of cleaning the streets was estimated at $22,000 which is in addition to the $90,000 appropriated by the city for the official reception.

BYRD PREDICTS FURTHER TRIPS TO SOUTH POLE

Says Weather Stations Will Be Placed There; Lots of Coal Deposits in Antarctic, He Says in Interview.

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—Refusing to speak of the future "until we get squared away on this expedition," Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today hinted nevertheless at more South Polar work.

"We've got to get in and find out what's there," he said just after his welcome to Washington. "This work is a bug—and hard to get over."

"There is a perfectly tremendous lot of land there, but I'd rather not talk about what may be planned as this expedition is not finished and we must clear up a debt of about $50,000 to $100,000.

"We only saw 50,800 or so square miles of territory and the sector I claimed for the United States may have a tremendous area. It stretches east of the Ross dependency, over to British claim, from 150th Meridian west."

Asked of the value to mankind of proving that South Polar flight was feasible, he countered: "Who knows? It was 100 years or more before our own discovery. For Weather Stations.

Lower Tariff Rates to Assist Trade.

Paris, June 20.—(AP)—The more elevated tone of criticisms of the new American tariff today raised the question of whether agitation in parliamentary and political circles was likely to force the hand of the government and oblige it to make some form of representations to Washington.

The tariff committee of the Senate which asked the minister of commerce for information on the subject was told that the government was "disposed to make representations concerning any cases which might turn out to be abusive and endeavor to induce President Hoover to use his discretionary power."

This is as far as the government would be able to, it was said in official circles, since the new tariff is the result of legislation and can be changed only by the Congress of the United States.

Up To Hoover. Strong hope was expressed, however, that President Hoover could be induced to make generous use of his discretionary powers to reduce duties which turn out to be too high, without going through the process of technical investigations which might take a year or more before they could possibly yield benefits to French industry.

President Receives Rear Admiral on White House Lawn—His Crew of 74 With Him—Boy Scout With Expedition Gets Special Greeting from Fellow Scouts.

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—Those long, cold and lonesome nights near the world's southernmost tip seemed far away today as Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd heard personally from President Hoover the felicitations which the radio took to him last November.

The "universal pleasure at your successful flight over the South Pole" was expressed in that message to the frigid regions. With a warm noonday sun on the White House lawn, the president added the handclasp of fellowship.

There also stood that hardy, tanned band of 74 which followed the leadership of "Dick." The play which relieved the monotony among them in the ice-bound huts was recalled by their jollity. Some seemed abashed, however.

To Present Medal. Mr. Hoover, who radioed to Little America the people back home were "glad of proof that the spirit of great adventure still lives," was looking forward to presenting Rear Admiral Byrd tonight with a special gold medal of the National Geographic society. It commemorates the aerial dash to the South Pole.

Laughing like schoolboys on vacation, the party of explorers reached Washington early to be greeted by an echo of the tumultuous reception accorded yesterday by New York.

One of the prodigious around was "Dick" Byrd, Jr., aged ten. He held tightly to his mother's hand and his eyes dwelt long on his white-uniformed rear admiral-father.

Special greetings were given during the day to Paul Siple, the Erie, Pennsylvania, Boy Scout who accompanied the South Pole expedition. A group of uniformed Scouts assured him of their envious admiration.

ADMIRAL ARRIVES. Washington, June 20.—(AP)—From the cold of Antarctica Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd and his fellow explorers returned this warm June day to Washington to receive the acclaim of their fellow citizens.

President Hoover was prepared to extend this welcome and praise at the White House and tonight in awarding Rear Admiral Byrd the special gold medal of the National Geographic society.

For his 74 companions, the aerial conqueror of the North and South Poles left the special train which brought them from New York shortly before 9:30 a. m.

The Union station concourse was thronged by cheering admirers as he and Mrs. Byrd, and his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Bolling Byrd, walked through to the sunlit plaza.

Ernest L. Jahncke, acting secretary of the Navy, extended greetings, as well as Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society; Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, vice president of the society and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

Praises His Men. In a brief chat with Mr. Jahncke, Byrd praised enthusiastically the work accomplished by Navy men on his expedition. He said that "without them he would not have accomplished what we did."

The sun-tanned men who spent the weary months at Antarctica followed their chief in a long line along the White House automobile for the drive to the Willard hotel for breakfast. The waving of friendly hands and cheers from the sidewalks constituted another greeting.

The party planned to rest at the hotel through the morning before calling at the White House to be received by President Hoover at 12:15 p. m.

POLI SUIT OPENS

New Haven, June 20.—(AP)—Trial of the suit of A. J. Hancock principal stockholder in Hancock and Co. of New York against S. Z. Poli, retired theater man and Louis M. Sagal, for $1,000,000 claimed as the amount of commission due as the outcome of the sale by Hancock of the Poli theatrical interests, to William Fox got under way today.

A jury was obtained yesterday. Hancock in his testimony went into the conferences he had with prospective purchasers of the Poli chain. His testimony was interrupted frequently when attorneys clashed over admission of certain statements.

He claimed he had a purchaser ready to close the deal when Poli sold to Fox.

Leo Diegel, who started the third round two strokes behind Jones, also took 38 for the first nine in the afternoon.

money will receive in return $5,500 for "taking the chance" of betting that Jones would beat all of the other players, numbering nearly 300 at the start. An idea of the interest in the tournament here may be seen from the fact that there was not a single request for the outcome of the Yale-Harvard freshman and junior varsity races during the day. Everyone asked how the British Open was progressing and if Jones was winning. There was keen disappointment when Jones lost the lead to the Britisher, Archie Compston, by one stroke in the third round, but great rejoicement when Compston "cracked" in the final round and Jones bested a fellow countryman, Leo Diegel, in a thrilling finish.

achieved acquisition in skill in this way or that—in art, music, sports and other fields of endeavor—but isn't there some one real thing that stands out above all else? Isn't there something that you must have gained together as a living unity in this fine school which has won so many national honors making all Connecticut envy Manchester High school?

Eternal Thing.

"There is something extremely valuable and I wonder if it isn't hearts and minds. I wonder if that after all isn't the immortal thing in life—the power to love and the power to think—that's eternal! All circumstances. The power to think the right thing and the power to love the pure and beautiful.

"Every living thing has its power and instincts. Let us stop and think what makes human beings differ from animals. We have the same instincts, but we have power over power and therein lies the difference. You young men and women have power over power. Use it to gain the higher altitudes in life.

I remember a young Japanese student who was graduated from a Japanese university with a degree similar to our bachelor of arts. I asked him what they called the Knights. Are you, members of the 1930 graduating class of Manchester High school, scholar knights? Are you ready to enter the world's warfare; to face all its wrongs, its beauties and evils as well as wonderful values?"

Praises Quimby

Then turning from the students to the audience, Dr. MacKenzie said: Ladies and gentlemen of Manchester, your Scholar Knights of Manchester High school are in full flower. They step out tonight into another world to fight the battle of life with the satrap of Manchester High school upon them and with Principal C. P. Quimby as the shining star who has so well guided them."

Dr. MacKenzie took occasion to praise the recent feat of Miss Patricia S. Maroney of Hillstown, a senior student who won a four-year scholarship and $2,000 for a prize winning essay on chemistry in national competition. He said that the state was proud of Miss Maroney's feat and that Manchester and the school itself should also feel even prouder. The programs failed to list the name of Miss Beatrice Lauffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lauffer, one of the 20 honor students in her class.

The Girls' Glee Club rendered "April, My April" from Milligan after Dr. MacKenzie concluded.

Howell Cheney Speaks Howell Cheney, chairman of the school board, presented the diplomas, a task which he has fulfilled for several years. Mr. Cheney made a short address. He said that there were several tests which the mothers and fathers of high school children should use in discovering whether their children have gained the desired goal in their education.

They should decide whether the student has learned to think and have power over his thoughts; whether the school was administered and directed by men and women who were unselfish and devoted to the task of educating and improving the personalities of the students; third, whether the character of teaching was that which would be suitable to perfect the formation of new characters in the youths under them. Parents should ask themselves these three questions, Mr. Cheney said in deciding whether the work has been well done and the effort worth while. The Valedictory and essay of Miss Tomlinson follow:

DREAMERS

By Miss Muriel D. Tomlinson

"Blessed is he who carries within himself a god, an ideal, and who obeys it."

These words, spoken by President Hibben, of Princeton University, from one of the fundamental precepts for success in life. In fact, without an ideal, a vision, without a dream of your goal, success is impossible. The twentieth century will go down in the annals of history as an era of commercialism, of specialization and standardization, and, above all, as an era of speed. Consequently, it is not apparently a marked inconsistency to state that that word is full of dreamers—that the only people in the world who are actually and truly successful are the men and the women who dream? In the mad rush and whirl of life today it would seem that were you foolish enough to spend a few minutes in dreaming, you would soon be left at the bottom of the golden ladder, the top of which each of us is hoping to reach. However, dreaming is not foolishness; it is wisdom.

What one of our beneficial and precious and now absolutely essential positions was not bestowed upon us by a dreamer—a man who was probably mocked and scorned for his foolish fancies? I say yes, but they are not fancies, but they are facts. We all have often slipped away from us. One young man day-dreamed that the world was round, or the history of our country might have been vastly altered. Another dreamed of communication with the telephone. Day-dreams brought us great inventions, important scientific developments, invaluable discoveries in relation to medicine and disease. In fact, the entire progress of civilization can be entered to a dream and had the courage to set about to make that dream come true.

Names which are household words to us—Franklin, Edison, Lindeberg, among others—are the names of men of vision. Knowing the stories of these men, we honor and esteem them; yet, because they are so great we feel that they are remote to us, that our work can never parallel theirs. Very few of us dare to aspire such great achievements. Perhaps, if we consider the work of men and women of today who are engaged in work such as we are doing or may do, we, too, may feel encouraged to form an ideal and hold it before us constantly.

About ten years ago a young man of twenty-seven had two hundred dollars and an idea—an idea which only a young man would have cherished. He knew a man who dealt in real estate, and he persuaded him to let him buy two acres of land side by side for one hundred dollars each. Then he set about to interest other people in his plan. His dream was so firmly fixed in his own mind that he made other people believe in it. Five years—just five years—after he borrowed money to build his first structure, he was paying $850,000 for an office building site in Brooklyn. Today in New York, standing to his credit, are many buildings, including the Lincoln Hotel, and the magnificent Roxy's Theater, and all this Irwin S. Chanin accomplished in but a decade of belief in himself and his vision.

Many boys—and girls, too—think of becoming lawyers. When William Glen Marvin was clerking in a Dayton, Ohio shoe store, working his way through school, he wrote on a slip of paper, "I am going to be a lawyer. I will go to New York, make a pile of money, and then go to California and live like a gentleman." He worked his way through college as a telegraph night operator, and later, in order to pursue his law studies he taught at night. After service as an aviator in the war, he entered a bank to "learn big business from the inside." He branched out for himself, and at the age of thirty-two he had founded the largest international law firm of its kind in the country and had saved up his fortune. His choice was a difficult one. Should he follow his boyhood contract or keep on gaining riches? He chose to do what few people could do. He cried, "Enough." In the prime of his life he is a successful, retired business man, all because he clung to the theory that to get anywhere you must keep your ultimate object in view.

Henry Ford has said, "You can look ahead into the future as far as you can look back into the past." That includes everyone—old and young—for no matter what our age or status in life at present, we can always forget the failures of the past and accomplish what we want to accomplish, if we just form an ideal and keep on dreaming."

The Salutatory address of Miss Muldoon follows:

REAL VALUES

By Miss Doris F. Muldoon

"A Man passes for that he is worth"

Emerson has here stated the standard by which man is everywhere and at all times judged. The worth of a man depends on what he is, what he seems to be. Throughout his life his every word and action is being judged. He is unknowingly taking the test given by his fellowmen. Thoughts and deeds he had thought long hidden are revealed by his inner self. He may make brave pretenses and bold boasts, but false values never ring true; only true values can last. Today he may be the envied hero in a score of brilliant achievements, the product of his fruitful imagination, but tomorrow, divested of this false glory, he remains a pitiable object in the minds of his fellowmen. The old, familiar saying still holds true. "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." What he is shows as clearly in his features as if it were written there.

To be worth something does not mean financial worth, nor does it mean that one must achieve great same or distinction. Fine, noble qualities are as often found among the lower ranks of life as the higher ranks. A man is worth something general as well as personal betterment without injury to anyone else. The worthy citizen of a town or city is a valuable resident of his community. Such a man has the welfare, interests, and improvement of the town at heart. He keeps a vigilant eye on public and municipal affairs, forms intelligent opinions about them, and helps or opposes men according to their deserts. His rewards for such public services are the respect and admiration of everyone. Any earnest citizen, once he realizes what citizenship means, can help to improve his city. Roosevelt has said that for even the smallest fine deed or action the world is so much the better; on the other hand, much the better; on the other hand, much the worse. We are just so much the poorer.

A stranger comes from a distant land to a new country. He gets a finer house, a finer car than his neighbors. He has air and pretensions with which he hopes to impress these people. At first these impressions are successful, but eventually they are recognized as being merely surface values. The man has no true worth and all his talents and abilities are wasted on his efforts to be something he isn't. It is better to be of some little worth than of a great value which is only false.

Throughout the ages there have been many heroes who by their deeds have helped immeasurably the advancement of civilization. The influence which these men have had upon the races has been of as much value as their services. They have inspired us to strive. With their achievements they have given others the desire to accomplish great things. The knowledge that someone else has been done by himself abilities long dormant and a force which seems to drive him on. With such shining examples before him he goes through life with a higher purpose, following footsteps which will not lead him astray.

Tonight we are graduating from Manchester High School, but we have still another test to pass—the test of life. Wherever we go, we are being marked and stamped for what we are and not what we seem. Pretensions and boasts avail nothing. One must be true to himself to succeed. "To thine own self be true!" May Conscience lead us through whatever comes or goes. Of future joys or woes; For does not Shakespeare say That as Night follows Day, In this we never can 'Be false to any man!'"

The commencement issue of the Somers, Manchester High school magazine, issued last night, reveals, among many other interesting things, the much-awaited Who's Who in the Class of 1930.

ABOUT TOWN

President Stephen C. Hale of the Manchester Kiwanis club will give a talk at the Monday noon meeting at the Hotel Sheridan on the subject of "Plant Management." Visitors are expected from the Meriden Kiwanis club, which the local club was instrumental in organizing. It is hoped there will be a good turnout not only to hear the president discuss a subject he is well fitted to handle from his work in Cheney Brothers, but to welcome the guests from the Silver City. Ralph McNally will furnish the attendance prize.

Manchester schools all closed today. The last of the schools to hold their graduation exercises was the eighth grades in the Ninth District. While the pupils in all of the schools reported this morning as usual it was but a short time after the opening of the schools that they were dismissed for the summer vacation. Report cards for the final period were also issued.

Town Engineer J. Frank Bowen is supervising the laying out of radius marks on streets leading into Main street. This is being done at the request of the police department where they have found from past study that such changes are required. The first marked off was on Bissell street, the white line being carried out well into the center of Main street. Like markings have been placed on Park street, Oak street and Birch street and will be continued to Maple, Forest and Wells streets.

John Wilcox and Clarence H. Anderson, local insurance agent, left this afternoon to witness the Yale-Harvard boat race on the Thames river at New London.

Sigmund Wenger of 214 Roger Sherman Building, New Haven, was found guilty of driving without a license in the Manchester police court this morning. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed and the judge remitted $5 of the fine. The young fellow was one of half a dozen boys who are in town soliciting subscriptions for a magazine. He neglected to attend to the little detail of getting a license to drive the car.

Austin Beecher, son of Mrs. Effie Beecher of Winter street, has completed his sophomore year at the University of Maine and returned to his home for the summer.

Miss Margaret Korgiebel, formerly of Henry street, who has completed her first year at Northfield Seminary, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Adolph Lindell of Washington street and her sister Mrs. J. S. Lamberg of Oak street left this morning for a visit with Mrs. Lamberg's son Carl in Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. Christina Robinson and daughter Margaret of 352 Center street will sail from New York tomorrow noon on the Transylvania of the Anchor Line for a visit of two months with relatives in Ireland.

Miss Lucile Robertson Cheney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cheney of 191 Hartford Road, will be married tomorrow afternoon to Winslow Tracey Richmond of New York City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richmond of South Main street. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. William G. Chantler, dean of Wesleyan University, at the home of the bride's parents.

A delegation from the local soccer team plans to go New York Sunday to attend the game between the Glasgow Rangers, Scotch football champions who are here on a tour, and a team from Fall River, to be played on the Polo Grounds at New York.

CABLE RECORD BROKEN

San Francisco, June 20.—(AP)—A 38-word message has traveled around the world in five minutes. The message was transmitted and received here last night as a feature of the National Electric Light Association convention. It flashed by cable to Guam and Shanghai, thence to London, New York and back to San Francisco. It traveled more than 25,000 miles. The transmission time broke by three minutes the previous record.

CRIPPLED WAR VET IN ANDOVER CRASH

Drunk Driver Causes Bad Accident When He Hits Oncoming Auto.

In what appeared to be almost certain death or serious injury as the result of an auto crash in Andover at 11 o'clock last night, James Cosgrove, world war veteran, with a broken back and a bone-grafted leg crawled from the window of an overturned car with hardly a scratch. The car in which he was riding with the owner Floyd Howe of Hartford was struck in the left rear wheel, reversed direction, and came to rest on its top after tipping over twice.

At 11 p. m. the Howe car was proceeding to Hartford when at Tuttle's corner, opposite the Hutchinson farm, a Chevrolet sedan driven by Arthur Wellett, Jr., appeared containing besides the driver, his father, Arthur Wellett, Sr., and Mary Warner of Andover, housekeeper for the Welletts, and crashed into the left rear wheel. Both cars were traveling at a good rate of speed and the Howe car was thrown across the road in the direction of Williamantic and turned over twice, resting on its top. Howe and Cosgrove broke one of the windows and escaped with minor scratches.

Constable Samuel O'Neill of Andover was called and later State Policemen Charles Daly and Henry Zehar of the Stafford barracks arrived on the scene. Charges of drunken driving were preferred against Arthur Wellett, Jr., and of intoxication against Mary Warner and the case was brought before Justice of the Peace Ruth W. Benton in Andover court at 11 o'clock this morning. Clarence Ketcham, grand juror prosecuted.

Arthur Wellett, Jr., pleaded not guilty to the charge of driving under the influence but was found guilty and fined $123.38 including costs of which $50, was remitted. Mary Warner pleaded guilty to intoxication and was fined $35.98 including costs.

The Howe car was completely wrecked and the Wellett car sustained damage to frame, axles and wheels.

marine with the Yale boat rowing regally. Through the last mile, Harvard's youngsters were content to hold their margin safe, adding another half length to it for good measure in a closing burst of speed between close packed lanes of cheering, whistling boats.

Harvard Gets Jump Harvard got a decided jump on Yale in the next race, for junior varsities, and capitalized this advantage in a ding-dong battle all the way down the course. The Crimson had a good three quarters of a length lead in the first 440 yards as the Eli's started poorly. Passing the Submarine base, the half way mark, Harvard had a few feet less than a length to show for its sturdy work. Yale refused to be shaken off but the Eli's could not muster the punch to gain more than a few feet at a time. Throughout the last mile, the Eli bow overlapped the Crimson stern and they were still seemingly locked together in that fashion as they slide through the finish stakes.

This was the third regatta victory in a row for the Harvard fleet which furnished the winning crew in the race between combination crews yesterday.

The morning races were rowed between lanes of brilliantly bedecked yachts and pleasure craft but witnessed from the shores and observation trains by the smallest crowd in many years. A ten car train were run on either side but they were only about half full. Except for a slight wind conditions were ideal for racing.

ROME TO NEW YORK
NEXT HOP PLANNED

Famous Italian Flier Who Holds Two World Records Will Make It.

Montecella, Italy. (AP.)—Following his recent capture of two world aviation records—long distance and endurance in a closed circuit—Commander Umberto Maddalena is planning a flight from Rome to New York. He probably will use the same airplane that broke the records, a Savoia-Marchetti S 62B, and take his flying companion, Lieutenant Fausto Cecconi, along, going by the Azores, with or without a stop. He is uncertain, of course, until the last moment, for Maddalena is in government service, and the Italian government keeps such matters deep secrets until something has actually developed. Scarcely anyone knew Maddalena had taken off for his record flight until he had been almost seventy hours in the air, had traveled nearly 6,000 miles and had safely broken both records. The Savoia-Marchetti S 64B is a twin plane of that used by Ferrari and Del Prete in their flight from Rome to Brazil, a distance of 4,800 miles. It is a single-motored monoplane constructed of wood except for the landing gear and motor carriage, which are of steel and aluminum. The motor is suspended above the fuselage. The gasoline tanks, 26 in number, are hidden in the 65-foot wing in five groups, of which the central constitutes the reserve of 220 gallons. The total capacity is 1,430 gallons. The cabin can be closed and contains a cot. The motor is a Fiat, developing 570 to 620 horsepower. It sends the plane along at a maximum of 147 miles per hour. A special innovation is the wooden propeller whose pace can be varied to assist in taking off with extraordinary loads. For his record flight Maddalena was able to leave the ground with eight tons of fuel. This is enough to carry him under favorable weather from Rome to New York and beyond to the Mississippi. Maddalena is one of the most colorful figures of international aviation. He is 35, has performed some of the most dangerous of flights, and wears three silver medals and one of bronze for military valor, a silver medal for aeronautical valor and two war crosses. In October, 1927, he made a cruise of the Balkan states, Russia, Scandinavia, Germany and Switzerland, with a Savoia 62 hydroplane. In June, 1928, his name was in the newspapers of the world for his heroic rescue work in the Arctic regions where General Noble and his crew of the dirigible "Italia" were lost. He, with his co-pilot Captain Cagna, were first to sight Noble's little red tent and drop provisions and materials to the stranded crew from the air. Lieutenant Cecconi is ten years younger, and has been flying only three years.

YOUNG REDS IN U. S.
TAUGHT QUEER GAMES

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—Mrs. William Sherman Walker of Seattle, testified to the House Communist committee today that the children's game of "Hyde and seek" has been changed by the Communists to "Hunt the capitalists and find ammunition" in teaching children their doctrines. As chairman of the national defense committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, she presented more than 60 exhibits, including songs, photographs, cartoons and data on children's revolutionary training camps. She said signals, codes and various methods for dissemination of Communist propaganda were taught in the camps which, she said, were conducted by leaders of the "Young Pioneers of America."

THE BOOK SURVEY

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

Unless all signs fail, "Generals Die in Bed," by Charles Yale Harrison ought to provoke a good-sized storm.

Mr. Harrison is another of the ex-soldiers who have suddenly become articulate. In his novel—a relatively short one—he tells what happened to a young man who went overseas with a Canadian regiment and saw about as much of the war as any one man could well see; and he tells it savagely and bitterly, as if possessed by a furious desire to make the ugliest hidden truths commonplace.

At least two episodes in this novel, I imagine, will bring forth indignant comment from those generalists who, as Mr. Harrison remarks, are destined to die between sheets. One is the story of the looting of Arras.

A Canadian division, says Mr. Harrison, was shuttled back and forth behind the line during the dark days of 1918. No one seemed to know where to put it; at last it was dropped in Arras, unfed for two days and boiling with a hot anger against the authorities. Arras inhabitants had fled when a few German shells had come over; the Canadians looted the town, held riotous carnival for two or three days, turned machine guns on the British M. P.'s and finally went up to the line with aching heads and uneasy stomachs.

The other is the story of a fight in which no prisoners were taken. The soldiers, says Mr. Harrison, were told that the Germans had torpedeoped a British hospital ship loaded with wounded Canadians, and were advised to be ruthless. They were. Some hundreds of Germans, coming over with uplifted hands, were shot down in cold blood. Later the Canadians I earned that the torpedeoped ship had been carrying munitions.

Mr. Harrison swears that these incidents really happened. I have no way of checking up on him; I can only say that when he makes his novel an intensely, shockingly interesting book, which probably will draw some hot rejoinders. The publisher is William Morrow and Co.; the price is $2.50.

The Gallipoli Adventure as a Novelist Saw It.

"Gallipoli Memories," by Compton Mackenzie, is something else again. Mr. Mackenzie got an appointment as staff lieutenant on Sir Ian Hamilton's ill-fated expedition to the Dardanelles in 1915. He has set down his recollections of that dreadful affair, and they make good reading; but the horrible, speakable waste of that expedition shines through his writing only occasionally.

It probably isn't Mr. Mackenzie's fault. Instead of describing the fighting, he tells what happened at the headquarters. His record of the petty mistakes, the minor discomforts, the redtape, idiocies and the blundering, dunderheaded

"muddling through" policies that this particular headquarters afforded.

He is an ardent admirer of General Hamilton, and he still thinks the expedition might have succeeded if it had been supported properly; but his book seems to concentrate on the non-essentials, to miss the tremendous central story of the Gallipoli adventure, to subordinate the fighting men to the not-too-official staff officers at the rear. I would like to see a review of this book written, say, by an Australian private who fought in the line.

Doubleday, Doran and Company offers this book at $2.50.

An Indignant Ex-Tommy Has His Say at Last.

There is still another war book on this week's list—"War is War," by an anonymous author, who styles himself "Ex-Private X." This author is an Englishman, and the jacket blurb intimates that this work is on a level with Remarque's famous "All Quiet;" and while it isn't that, it is nevertheless worth your while.

The difference between these two books—now that the comparison has been mentioned—is one of mood. Remarque's book got its tremendous effect chiefly from the fact that the author had lost the power even to be indignant. He wrote his story unemotionally. He had lost his capacity for suffering. The war had hampered his spirit completely flat.

"Ex-Private X" is not like that. He is still indignant; indignant over the things that war does to men, the way it makes them suffer, the wasteful, fiendish way it tramples on their lives and forces them into the abyss. In its way, it is a highly effective protest.

This book is published by E. P. Dutton and Co., Inc., and costs $2.50.

A Love Triangle Against a Background of War.

"Chances," by A. Hamilton Gibbs, is also a war novel; but the war is more a background, in this case, and more attention is paid to the development of the story. As a result, the book is perhaps the most readable of the lot.

Mr. Gibbs studies two brothers, each of whom loves the same girl. The younger brother, with his career yet to establish, will not tell the girl he loves her; so, while he is the one she loves, she—being somewhat flighty—becomes engaged to the other in a fit of pique.

Then comes the war. The brothers go overseas in the same brigade. After two years of fighting, they abruptly discover the true state of affairs. Then the guns of the western front hammer down their plans and the tale becomes a poignant tragedy—relieved, at the end, by a moving and convincing upswing that is very deftly handled.

Practically all of these writing by Gibbs people can write well. This author is, decidedly, no exception. Little, Brown and Co. offer his book at $2.50.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Exercises with Phonographs)
Question:—K. L. G. asks: "Do you have any records for the phonograph for the exercises which you advocate? If so, should I send direct for them, or are they for sale in bookstores or music stores?"

Answer: I have never made records for the phonograph to be used in directing calisthenic exercises, but there are many such records on the market which you may purchase. The exercises which I recommend may be used with any musical phonograph record and go very well with any kind of march music.

I will be glad to send you a set of these exercises with an illustrated chart if you will send me your name and address on a large stamped envelope.

(Too Much Blood?)
Question:—H. D. asks: "What can a person do who makes blood too fast?"

Answer: You need never fear you will make too much blood, as long as it is good blood. The idea of too much blood originated in the middle ages and is still believed in by some physicians. At one time the practice was to treat everyone who was sick by "blood-lettings."

This relieves certain cases, such as those with high blood pressure because it simply reduced the pressure inside of the arteries. But even this method now seems foolish when it is possible to reduce the quantity of blood simply by cutting down the intake of liquids, and improving its quality by using carefully selected food. I occasionally hear of some doctor who practices blood-letting, and this is perhaps excusable with the physician treating high blood pressure cases if he does not understand scientific dietetics.

Accidents On Lake Road

Several accidents have happened on the Crystal Lake road the past week. On Wednesday evening two autos belonging to Rockville people were damaged. John Dubeck was driving along and ran out of gasoline. A friend came to the rescue and while going to obtain gas for Dubeck, left his car on the other side of the road. A Stutz car driven by Leonard Friedrich came along and attempted to get by and in doing so collided with the Dubeck car. Both cars were badly damaged. The State police investigated and the case will come up in the Tolland Court next Wednesday.

On Tuesday night two arrests were made as the result of an accident. The accident involved Raymond Chambers of 85 Birch street, South Manchester and Raymond LeBlanc of 268 Street street, Hartford. State Policeman Charles Hills investigated and made the arrests. Both cars were damaged and one of the passengers was brought to this city for treatment for severe scalp wounds. Chambers was arrested for failing to give right of way, and LeBlanc on a charge of driving without operator's license. The drivers will appear in Tolland Court on Tuesday next.

Grammar School Graduation
The graduation exercises of the Grammar Schools of Vernon will be held at the Sykes Auditorium on Monday night at 8 o'clock. Captain H. F. Haynes of Hartford will give an address on "Big Game." HARASSED HARTFORD

Conditions in the Hartford police department, as disclosed by the report of the grand jury after half a year of probing, are shocking. That is, they are shocking to such persons as are still capable of being shocked by revelations of police laxity with relation to liquor violations and the crimes growing out of them.

But they are exactly of a piece with conditions in practically every large city in the country.

We hazard the guess that there is not a single community of city rank in the United States where the police authorities never wink at a single infraction of prohibition enforcement laws. The charge that is brought against Chief Farrell by the grand jury, that he is far less diligent in enforcing the law against the purveyors of liquor to the well-to-do than against the bootleggers in the poorer sections could be brought with equal truth against almost any chief of police in the country. Everybody outside the infant class knows that. It is utterly impossible that it could be otherwise, when the stark truth is that a police official who did not make class distinctions but persisted in cutting off the liquor supply of the more influential citizens could no more hold his job than he could jump over the moon.

It would be, in the first place, almost impossible for him to avoid removal at the instance of the deprived persons of influence; and if he did manage to dodge official censure in this direction he would find himself so obstructed and harassed in the performance of all other branches of police duty that complete failure at his job would inevitably result in his losing it.

It is perhaps one of the most significant features of this grand jury report that almost in the same breath in which it accuses Chief Farrell of class favoritism in law enforcement, the jury itself, while bringing the most direct and serious accusations against the chief and one or two of his men, becomes circumspect and carefully indirect in its treatment of certain highly influential citizens of whose actions it manifestly disapproves. Unconsciously the grand jury yields to the same influence which it berates the chief for not defying.

Hartford faces, in view of the jury's report, a most unpleasant situation. It is called upon to clean house in its police department. If it does not do so its government will be made the target of endless criticism. If it does—then what? The same thing over again, with other individuals filling the cast of the same serio-comedy with the same old plot and the same old lines. And perhaps worse actors.

Prohibition and corruption are Siamese twins. You cannot enforce any law which is held in contempt by great numbers of the more influential and politically active citizens. You can stir up the muck and bring it to the surface, as this grand jury has been doing. But what more can you do—what more can Hartford do? What can any city do?

THE MATTER OF AUDITS

In its rehabilitation as a business-like municipality the Eighth School and Utilities District might very well take under consideration the essential quality of the function of auditing, so that next year it may be prepared to establish that department of its administrative operations on a serviceable basis.

The annual audit of the district's accounts has always been a most perfunctory affair, a mere pro forma gesture. To say so is no disparagement of either the intelligence or the rectitude of the audi-

ors. They are, on the contrary, selected because of their known possession of both of those qualities. But the compensation is purely nominal and it has never been expected that the auditors would subject the accounts to any searching or expert examination.

The way in which the district's audit operates was demonstrated pretty well on Wednesday evening at the annual district meeting, when a citizen called the attention of the meeting to an overdraught of some seven hundred dollars in the school account, as per last year's fiscal reports, the disposition of which lacked any explanation in this year's financial statement. No member of the district board, no member of the school committee, no official of the district offered any explanation, presumably for lack of any information on the point. Neither, by the same token, did either of the auditors explain, though they had signed a certification that the accounts were correct.

Now there was in this no slightest indication or even possibility of improper use of district money—but there was very certainly every indication of improper accounting; and if a disinterested citizen could discover the discrepancy it should never have escaped detection in an audit. It could not escape detection if the audit were a real one.

It is not every citizen, however trustworthy or intelligent, who is equipped to audit accounts. It is a job that calls for special training. It should be filled by an accountant of unquestioned standing.

It is to be anticipated that under the handling of its new treasurer the district's accounts will be kept lucidly and with absolute accuracy. A new era of system, it is to be taken for granted, is to be instituted in the district's business affairs. In keeping, and to properly round out the technique of operating a municipality's financial machinery, the Eighth should see to it, next year, that provision is made for an annual audit that is an audit in something more than name.

We take the present opportunity of saying this because if the same thing were to be said for the first time six months from now or nearly a year hence it might carry the erroneous implication of lack of confidence in the new district regime. And that is the farthest possible thing from our thoughts.

NEW JERSEY SET-UP

Dwight W. Morrow, Republican nominee for the United States Senate, would with almost no doubt be elected even if he were opposed by the ablest and most popular Democrat in the state of New Jersey. How much more certain must his election be, then, when it is remembered that he is to be opposed by the prosecutor who turned the shocking Hall-Mills murder case into a disgraceful piece of burlesque buffoonery—Alexander Simpson.

An arrant showman whose stock in trade was the cheapest of cheap hokum, who from the opening of that somber tragedy to its close used it for personal exploitation, Simpson notoriously gummed his own case and made it possible for the reputation of the state of New Jersey to become stained with red and for famous "Jersey justice" to be turned into a laughing stock.

Even the sturdily Democratic New Haven Register refers to his candidacy as that of "a completely conventional political hack." And the spectacle presented by such a candidate opposing himself to such a personage as Dwight W. Morrow is one to invite something close to hysteria. Why, Morrow's election ought to be well nigh unanimous.

TRICK CONTRACTS

Municipalities do well, in entering into contracts for public works, when they embody in the document of agreement every detail down to the last nail or shovelful and emphasize beyond possibility of quibble the understanding "No extras!"

In spite of the special training of large numbers of corporation lawyers there are still old fashioned attorneys who know how to draw that kind of contract and make it stick.

The city of Norwalk some time ago entered into a contract for the construction of a sewage disposal plant. The agreed price was $877,877. A million dollars was raised by a bond issue. And according to the Sentinel of that city the million dollars will be used up at the end of two more months and the job will be nowhere near finished. It appears that at least $400,000 more will be needed.

One of two conclusions is inevitable. Either the city has been beautifully gypped or it was cruelly deceived as to the honest cost of the installation. In either event it is highly probable that the form of its contract is to blame.

TAKE A GOOD ONE

It remains for the erudite and astute Waterbury Republican to discover the true reason for the high esteem in which Dwight W. Morrow is held throughout the country. The Republican, which is dry, says:

It was not until his eldest daughter captured the heart of Col. Lindbergh that the country began to take enthusiastically to Mr. Morrow. President Hoover heard about him and sent him to London, and the people of New Jersey woke to the fact that they had a native son of imposing stature. If being dry does that kind of thing to one's intelligence and judgment, even our own personal dryness isn't proof against advising the esteemed Republican to go out and take at least one good stiff bootleg drink.

ABOUT WASHED UP

State newspapers have been devoting considerable space to criticism of a recent address of Dr. Alonso S. Myers, director of the division of teacher preparation of the State Board of Education, in which he fulminated against the fact that Connecticut has not gone in for the state university idea.

Perhaps we might have joined in this chorus if he had not come to the conclusion that the day of the educational griffes, with their heads in the clouds, is about over in this state. What the next Legislature will do to what remains of Meredithism, Workism and Meyerism is going, we imagine, to be plenty.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, N. E. A. Service Writer

Washington, June 20.—Presidential ballyhoo has begun for the big national celebration in 1932 of the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The chairman of the Bicentennial Commission is Herbert Hoover and its organization is made up of the highest officials and various distinguished citizens.

The announced purpose of the celebration is to bring about a "revival of devotion to country among the American people, with a renewed appreciation of what George Washington stands for in our national life." It is planned to "stir the patriotic impulses of every man, woman and child living under the protection of the Republic," and to carry the demonstration of such impulses into every church, school, home, organization and group.

Started Six Year Ago. The celebration was authorized by Congress and blessed by President Coolidge and as far back as 1924 all states and territories were invited to participate.

School superintendents, teachers' organizations and all types of educational authorities are formulating plans for participation by all educational institutions. An effort will be made to have a flag and a picture of Washington in every school room and there will be plays, pageants, programs, patriotic historical studies, posters and a tree-planting program to the end that every schoolyard may have its "George Washington tree."

A great motion picture that will depict the life and activities of "George Washington" will be offered on every civic, patriotic, educational, fraternal and religious organization in the United States, according to promises.

Ministers of the country will be expected to preach special patriotic sermons during 1932, according to an announcement from the commission's executive offices here. Speaking campaigns will be organized for the radio, for state fairs, expositions and other meetings. Newspapers and magazines will be flooded with publicity material. Composers will write memorial music in honor of Washington. Music of the colonial period will be collected. It is even proposed to revive some of the more colorful dress patterns and to popularize patriotic figured prints among women in 1932.

Manufacturers of calendars, greeting cards, posters and general printing will be asked to feature George in illustrations and texts, while railroads will use George Washington memorial posters and hotels will be asked to do the same. These plans for a vast national emotional orgy over Washington, aimed at every man, woman and child, already have been outlined by the Bicentennial Commission. Many more plans will be announced and the general public is especially asked to write in any suggestions it can think of.

Nothing in the nature of an exposition world's fair is planned for Washington, but large pilgrimages are expected here and plans will be made to take care of them. The commission stresses the fact that this isn't the District of Columbia's party any more than any other city's.

Capital to Be Beautified. Nevertheless, the big public buildings program being carried out here is being pushed in order to get as much done as possible by 1932. Building an enlarged Congressional Library, and the Station Plaza development, costing in all about $150,000,000. The bases of the Washington monument and Lincoln Memorial will be put up and the great $15,000,000 Lincoln Memorial Bridge across the Potomac will have long since been opened to traffic. The Mount Vernon Boulevard, now being constructed, will connect the capital with Washington's old home and it is billed as "one of the most im-

FINANCE MINISTER RESIGNS HIS POST

Berlin, June 20.—(AP)—President Hindenburg today accepted the resignation of Dr. Moldenhauer, minister of finance. The President Premier Brüning to take over the functions of the finance office pending developments.

The resignation of Finance Minister Moldenhauer had been awaited for several days following his decision to retire. It was stated that Dr. Moldenhauer's successor might be Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former head of the Reichsbank. A "strong man" in business and finance. Subsequent announcement that Dr. Schacht was to leave for the United States in August seemingly put an end to that idea.

President Hindenburg today sent a letter of warm appreciation to Dr. Moldenhauer for his services to the nation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Dry Cartilages)

Question:—Mrs. F. G. writes: "I am 60 years old and am suffering with what the doctors call drying out of the cartilages. They give me no hope to get better or even find relief. I get around with the aid of a cane. Will you please tell me whether there is anything I can do?" Answer:—You can certainly do a great deal of help yourself if you will change your habits of eating so that you use plenty of fruits and green vegetables. Include in your diet a large amount of gelatin, cut down on meat so that you use it only once a day, and give up starches and sugars entirely for awhile.

(Eggnogs)

Question:—K. G. writes: "Please tell me what should be eaten with eggnogs for a balanced diet?" Answer: In the first place, the mixture of raw egg and milk is not a good combination, but if the mixture is baked the resultant custard is a good protein food. The proteins of egg and milk seem to combine and are more easily digested when cooked.

(Feeling of Suffocation)

Question:—Mrs. M. writes: "I have at times a feeling of suffocation, especially when I am talking for any length of time. The doctor told me I had nasal catarrh. Would that be the cause of it?"

Answer: You may be suffering from nasal catarrh, but I will guarantee that the real cause of your feeling of suffocation is because you have a weak diaphragm, which is the large flat muscle separating the chest from abdomen. This is the muscle most used in breathing, and if it is already weak it becomes easily tired from the effort used in talking. Get rid of your catarrh through the proper diet, and take deep breathing exercises for developing the strength of your diaphragm.

EIGHTH DISTRICT'S NEW BOARD MEETS JULY 16

Charles B. Loomis to Supervise District Work in Absence of Recently Elected President.

While the school year in Manchester does not close until July 15 and the officers elected at the meeting of the Eighth District and Utilities District will not go into office until noon of July 15, a meeting of the board of directors of the district has been arranged to be held on July 15, two days before the meeting of the board of directors of the district, leaves for Australia.

Arrangements have already been made whereby the general supervision of the work during Mr. Robertson's absence will be taken over by Charles B. Loomis, who is connected with the Manchester Water Company. The power of attorney will be given to Mr. Loomis to draw orders in payment of current bills. In case of extraordinary bills to be done the sanction of the majority of the directors will be secured before the order is drawn by the acting president.

By calling the meeting and making the necessary arrangements to have the work carried on in this way Mr. Robertson, although absent from Manchester will miss but one regular meeting of the board, that one in October.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 20.—This is a little story of Row 45, Section 9, at the recent no-so-wrestling fight. It was a row quite far from the ringside. In fact there were but the four or five rows in that particular portion of the outfield section. Crowds of men stood on benches, lifting field glasses to bring the glaring ring closer to their eyes.

Smoke rising from pens of theatricals and cigars and cigars threw a heavy, fog-like canopy over the arena. Unless you sat in Row 44, Section 9, for instance, it might have been difficult to get a good look at the four men who perched just behind.

There were three white men and a negro. The negro wore a greenish-looking cap, the broken brim of which sagged slightly over one eye. He wore no vest. His coat was open, revealing a soft-collared white shirt. Even in the half light scars across the nose showed plainly.

The man was Joe Walcott, once one of the world's greatest boxers. The crowd began to mill down the aisle. It was within a few moments of the main event. The crush increased.

Jauntily, pushing his way easily through the mob came a large negro, as jazzy garbed as an stepper of a Harlem cafe. He wore a tricky straw hat with a tricky band. His brown suit was cut to the Broadway-Harlem lines. In his right hand he swung a light walking stick, flashily trimmed with a wide silver band. The hand that carried the stick was gloved and the other glove was carried with that loose nonchalance to be found in the wax figures of store windows.

He was smiling a broad, expansive smile that revealed at least one glistening gold tooth. He was humming a jazz tune as he came along, and he was in rare good humor.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

W. VIRGINIA'S STATEHOOD

On June 20, 1863, the State of West Virginia was formally admitted to the Union. The act of admission, which was to take effect upon the insertion of a clause providing for the gradual emancipation of slaves, was approved by President Lincoln the previous year.

SIX CONGRESSMEN SICK AT PRESENT

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—Approaching Congressional adjournment found half a dozen Representatives suffering from illness today unable to fill their seats in the House.

Despite one of the most strenuous sessions in recent years, however, the membership of the House generally was in a better state of health than during the closing days of the last session when more than a dozen Representatives were seriously ill.

Representatives Porter of Pennsylvania, and Wingo of Arkansas, were reported recovering today after critical illnesses. The latter underwent an operation, while Porter was rushed to a Pittsburgh hospital recently, seriously ill.

Representative James of Michigan, suffering from ulcers of the stomach, was reported by his secretary to have left his hospital bed, but was not expected back in his office this session. Representatives Johnson of Illinois and Underhill of Massachusetts, likewise have been able to leave their hospital rooms and both may return to the House before the session closes.

Representative Curry of California was reported improving steadily after treatment at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, while Representative Vincent of Michigan, has just returned to his office after treatment at the Naval hospital here.

FIFTH DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Question of Adding to School Building to Be Most Important Business.

The annual meeting of the Fifth School District is to be held Monday evening at 7 o'clock, standard time, in the school. In addition to passing upon routine matters and electing officers, the question of a new addition to the school building where the number of grades taught can be increased from six to include seventh and eighth grades or pay to the Ninth District a fee for each pupil coming out of the district and attending the schools in the Ninth District will be decided.

The present building is a three room one story frame school. There is no kindergarten and to provide seventh and eighth grades would also require the installation of proper equipment to carry on sloyd work and cooking, as now required by the state in the seventh and eighth grades. It would also require a certain amount of other work, that would not be possible in the present school without an addition.

The grand list of the Fifth District is not as large as several of the other districts and the question of a new addition to the school at this time is likely to be given considerable consideration before any addition is built to the school. It is similar to the condition at the Highland Park District where the question of opening an extra grade was considered at the annual meeting and turned down. The sloyd work in the Highland Park District as well as the cooking is done at the Manchester Green School. Eighth grade pupils are sent to the Ninth District and their tuition paid for by the Highland Park District to the Ninth District.

The trouble that has often attracted attention to the meetings in the Fifth District seems to be now over. It was not a real district fight, but a factional fight. The court cases have been settled and each side seems to be satisfied. F. P. Manning, who has been a power in the district in the past has secured the necessary information that he desired about the rights of committeemen and their duty and how far it can be carried. He has expressed himself since the meeting a year ago as being just as anxious as any other resident in the district to see that the children of the district are given the proper training for a higher education. The committee of the district, it is understood, will make no recommendation on the question of building a new school addition.

A map of Alaska with its outlying islands, if placed over a map of the United States on the same scale, would reach from the Atlantic to the Pacific; and from the northern boundary of Minnesota to southern New Mexico.

RUG THIEF SHOT

Cambridge, Mass., June 20.—(AP)—An alleged Oriental rug thief, James O'Reilly, 30, was in the hospital today and his name on the danger list from a bullet wound received in running away from two police officers late last night.

He was shot by Lieut. Joseph J. Reilly of the Watertown police in that city. Reilly, accompanied by Sergeant William Curtin, had recovered between $2,000 and $3,000 of stolen rugs at the Watertown apartment of the dying man's sister.

United States Senator Frederic C. Walcott, of Connecticut, has been notified by the Navy Department that he will have an appointment to make to the Naval Academy in 1931. The War Department has also notified him that he will have two appointments to make to the Military Academy at West Point in 1931.

The United States Civil Service Commission will hold competitive examinations, for these appointments, sometime in October, in the following cities: New Haven, Stamford, Hartford, Bridgeport, Waterbury, New London, Middletown, and Danbury, the exact date to be announced later by the Civil Service Commission.

Any young man desiring to take either of these examinations should communicate with Senator Walcott, Washington, D. C., at once, so that his name can be added to the list of those who have already applied. All candidates are required to be citizens of the United States and actual residents of the State, of Connecticut.

Candidates are eligible for admittance to the Military Academy from the day they are 17 until the day they become 22 years of age, and to the Naval Academy if they are not less than 18 nor more than 20 years of age on April 1 of the calendar year in which they enter the Academy.

POLICEMAN MISSING

Boston, June 20.—(AP)—Special Officer James J. Driscoll of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, father of five children, today was sought by fellow policemen on the fifth day after his disappearance from home.

He left home Monday night, taking his police gun with him and telling his wife he intended to shoot himself. He had been despondent, his wife said, over failure to receive a promotion to the position of sergeant.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York—What Larry Gould writes his sweetheart he doesn't know what he is going to say and when he has finished he doesn't know what he has said. DEHEY'S MERRY MAKERS AT RAU'S ON SATURDAY

Saturday night, Bill Dehey and his Merry Makers will be at Rau's Pavilion, Crystal Lake. For several years past the marvelous entertainment of this band has been pleasing dancers at the best country clubs, fraternities, and ball rooms throughout New England and eastern New York.

Bill Dehey and his Merry Makers are often heard over station WGY in Schenectady and WBZ in Springfield. Their irresistible style leases out to dance and the hokum novelties and variety entertainment interspersed in the dancing program keep the crowd in almost continuous laughter.

A shifting of the Gulf stream toward New York conjures up visions of balmy all-the-year-round weather for easterners. California may eventually have to find something else to boast about besides its climate.

STUDYING PRIESTHOOD, VISITS PARENTS HERE

James Leo Burke Concludes Professorship and Will Study Next Three Years.

James Leo Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Burke of Spruce street, who has been studying for the past ten years for the priesthood in the Jesuit order spent a day with his relatives here this week. He returned to Worcester where he has been a professor at Holy Cross for the past two years and will leave with the closing of the college to resume further studies as required.

The course, ordinarily a sixteen year one, will be completed, it is now expected, by Professor Burke in 1933. He will spend the next three years in the study of philosophy and will be ready for his ordination to the priesthood in 1933. This will not mean that he will return to the Hartford diocese for an assignment. A priest in the Jesuit order has no real home being sent to such sections of the world as he may be called upon to serve.

ELECTRIC COMPANY HAS BIG OUTING

Baseball Game, Stunt Races, Games and Fine Dinner Feature Affair.

The Manchester Electric Company, held its first annual outing on June 18, at the Edgemere Inn, East Hampton. Cars left the Main street office at 1 o'clock and arrived at the lake at about 1:45 p. m.

Immediately after arrival the Operating Dept., and the Meter-Sales Dept., started in to settle an old grudge by way of the baseball diamond. John Moore acted as manager of the Meter-Sales. John is an old-time manager of the Emeralds of Manchester Green, which team, by the way, never broke any records. Peachie Decliner managed the Operating team. Peachie adhered strictly to his early training on the old Four-Acre lot on the West Side by appointing himself pitcher for his team. His control was awful. It was easily seen that his training came from the sand lots and all were agreed that he was better at pitching hay than baseball.

There were some bright spots in the game, however, for "Babe" McCaw was a Babe Ruth in every respect. Big Jim made the longest drive of the game, far out of the lot and of course it was Carl Tyler's fault, according to Gus. Things were getting pretty hot when Ole Olsen appointed himself umpire. He would make a better radio announcer than an umpire. He had altogether too much vim for the slow crowd that he tried to control. The only decision the players agreed with him on, was the final score, which was only 39 to 19 in favor of the Operating team.

Then came volley ball between these same two teams and once more the Operating team trimmed the life out of the Meter Sales, the score being 21 to 9. This second defeat left no question in the minds present but what the Operating team was superior in every way.

The next contest was a potato race for women and was won by Vera White of the Billing Department. The winning of this race by Vera was bitterly protested by the other girls on account of Vera's height, as she only measures four feet, and therefore, was nearest the potatoes. And another reason, Vera is more experienced in the art of picking up potatoes, having been raised on a farm out Coventry way, widely known for its spuds.

The three-legged race for women came next, the winners being Miltz Berggren and Margaret Fitzgerald. These girls paired wonderfully well in this race, due to long experience practicing this posture. The sack race was won by Vera White. She had more room in the sack than the other portly maidens, making it easier for her to step out.

The children's games followed the ladies and were won as follows:

Potato race, First: Eleanor Gordon, Second: Gert Holmes. Match race: First: Marion Monti and Ray Olsen. Second: Constance Gardner and Eleanor Gordon. Wheelbarrow race: First: Marion Monti and Constance Gardner. Three-legged race: First: Marion Monti and Constance Gardner. Second: Caroline Manning and Eleanor Gordon. Sack race: First: Eleanor Gordon, Second: Caroline Manning.

At the close of the children's games dinner was served, family style at 5:30 the menu consisting of: Fruit cocktail, roast turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, green bean, fresh vegetable salad, olives, celery, coffee, rolls, and strawberry shortcake. The committee on the dinner is to be congratulated for the fine feed.

After dinner the party was given a ride around the lake which was followed by the men's sports. The first number furnished more thrills and spills than all the other events put together. George Veitch and Bob Gordon started off like fire horses but were held at the turn by interference, finally untangled and everything looked good until George stepped on Bob's foot, causing a complete somersault. Gus Gustafson and Hub Bidwell won the race. The sack race was won by Fred Wolcott. The wheelbarrow race was won by George Duncan and Bob Gordon. At the finish of the wheelbarrow race the prizes were awarded by James Sheekey, chairman of the sports committee. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Al Behrend's orchestra furnishing the music.

At the conclusion of the day's activities, Mr. Heebner, General Manager, expressed the company's appreciation for the whole-hearted way in which the employees and also the various committees worked to make the first annual outing a success. All members present responded to Mr. Heebner and in turn expressed their appreciation to the Manchester Electric Co. for the fine outing.

FARMERS PARTY WINS

Calgary, Alta., June 20.—(AP)—The United Farmers of Alberta who swept into control of the provincial government nine years ago today were assured of another term.

Incomplete returns from yesterday's election gave them at least 23 of the 62 seats and indications were they would win a number of the 26 contests still undecided. The Liberals were assured of four seats, the Conservatives, two.

Premier J. E. Brownlee was returned by acclamation and indications were that most of his Cabinet would be elected. The lone woman Cabinet member, Mrs. J. W. Field, was defeated by her Liberal opponent, L. A. Giroux, a former member of the House.

HARTFORD TO HONOR SCHMELING TUESDAY

Hartford, June 20.—Local German societies are planning a royal welcome for Max Schmeling, the new world's heavyweight champion, when Schmeling visits Hartford next Tuesday.

Schmeling is coming to Hartford to second his stablemate, Frankie Genaro, the flyweight champion, in his bout with Little Jeff, flyweight champion of the south, a battle which headlines the card at the Hurley Stadium.

But the real reason for the German titleholder's visit here is to make good on a pledge. Early in May he had accepted an invitation to the testimonial dinner to State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue, but it came to hand just as he was establishing his camp at Endicott City so he begged off adding a promise that he would visit Hartford within two weeks after winning the title, should he be the new champion.

Schmeling will attend the Carnera-Godfrey fight at the National League ball park in Philadelphia Monday night and will leave on a late train for New York. Then he will take the 10 o'clock train for New London Tuesday morning. Commissioner Donohue and a reception committee will meet Maxie at the station in New London and the champion will be entertained there for a couple of hours. Then he will motor to Hartford arriving here about 6 o'clock.

The champion will stop on the Connecticut Boulevard to accept the gift of an expensive radio from a Hartford concern. He will have this concern ship it to his mother in Germany.

The Hartford Saengerbund will take the leading part in entertaining Schmeling in Hartford. It is the leading local German society and is making elaborate plans to give the German champion a real welcome.

Schmeling will stay overnight in Hartford, leaving the next morning for New York. His managers, Joe Jacobs and Bill McCarney will accompany him to New London and Hartford.

It is expected that, in addition to seconding Genaro, Maxie may referee a few rounds of one of the preliminary bouts.

EXONERATE SHIP'S CREW

New Haven, Conn., June 20.—(AP)—Blame for the loss of 16 lives in the burning of the freighter "James in Long Island sound on April 24 had been lifted today from the shoulders of officers and members of the crew.

The rapidity of the spread of the fire, says a report signed by Captains A. R. Chapman and R. C. Colgin of the U. S. Board of Steamboat Inspectors, prevented further safety measures. The ship could not be stopped, it was said, making impossible a successful launching of lifeboats, which upset on launching in rough water.

Sixteen of the 26 members of the crew drowned.

The Atlanta Negro who was given 10 days for stealing a ham probably considered that the unkindest cut of all.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Stocks again leaped forward at the opening of today's market. Such issues as U. S. Steel, Safeway Stores, International Harvester, Montgomery Ward, and General Electric mounted a point or more, and American Telephone, American Can, Macy, Westinghouse Electric, and Dupont gained 2 to 2 1/2.

Worthington Pump shot up 3 1/2. The sharp reduction in brokers' loans, however, was regarded with considerable enthusiasm. The drop was unusually large, in view of the volume of trading during the period covered by the figures and it was felt that weak holdings had been fairly well weeded out. A firm opening of the Chicago grain market, was also a helpful factor.

Several prominent stocks traded ex-dividend, such as American Telephone, International Telephone, and General Electric, more than made for the dividend deduction in the opening sales. Eastman Kodak, Columbian Carbon and Auburn gained about 3 points, and issues gaining 1 to 2 points included Anaconda, American Tobacco B. Standard of California, Public Service of N. J., American Water Works, United Corp., American Power and Light, American and Foreign Power and Western Union.

Foreign exchanges opened generally higher, reflecting the lower rediscout rate. Sterling cables were up 3-32 at 44.85 31-32.

NO HOOVER PLANS Washington, June 20.—(AP)—Through a virtual deluge of invitations for him to visit almost every state and many cities west of the Mississippi river on his trip this summer, President Hoover constantly and placidly gives the same answer:

"No itinerary is being considered until Congress is ready to adjourn."

700 DETECTIVES REDUCED IN RANK

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—From a crime clearing house opened in a loop skyscraper a reorganized police force today advanced upon gangland.

The unified headquarters was decided on last night by all the law enforcement officials of Chicago and Cook county.

The special office, the officials said, will not be closed until they solve the murder of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, reporter.

C. F. Rathbun, a Tribune attorney assigned as special assistant state's attorney in the Lingle investigation, is in charge of the loop office, aided by Patrick Roche, chief investigator, and Attorney James Mashone, legal expert for the Tribune, by whom Lingle was employed as a gangland reporter.

After he had outlined his plans to the city council, Acting Police Commissioner John H. Alcock began his revamping of the detective bureau. Of the 900 detectives, Alcock ordered that 700 be sent to patrol the streets, leaving only the "200 best" for special work. The choice of the 200 was left by Alcock to John Norton, named yesterday as the new chief of detectives.

Captain John Ryan, a machine gunner and aviator with the American forces in France and responsible for the capture and conviction of Midget Fernekes—one of the dangerous criminals of a decade ago—was named by Alcock as Norton's assistant.

"Space," says Einstein, "is eating up matter." Looking for parking space does have that effect on gray matter.

THREE TAKEN FOR RIDE

Rockmart, Ga., June 20.—(AP)—The stoning and stabbing of three young men "taken for a ride" in a one-horse wagon was being investigated by police here today on the theory they were victims of a gambling brawl.

Bill Hulseby and his son Fred were held on suspicion while Coroner B. H. Leonard ordered an inquest over the mutilated bodies of Cliff Jones, Lige Harper and Ernest McCullough. Other arrests were expected.

The bodies were found late yesterday in a dry well in a hilly, uninhabited section about six miles east of here. The condition of the bodies indicated the men had been slain yesterday, the coroner said.

The title has slipped from his grasp so many times, it would seem that Jack Sharkey can settle down to be a real heavy weight.

Compston Shoots 68 For New Course Mark

Big British Pro Tops Jones One Stroke With 18 Holes To Play as Bobby Takes a 74; Robson Slips; Diegel Two Behind Jones.

Holyoke, Eng., June 20.—(AP)—Ariche Compston, big British pro, shot a record breaking 68 in the third round of the British Open golf championship to claim the lead by a stroke from Bobby Jones. Compston's 54 hole total was 215 while Jones had 216 strokes.

Mob scenes ensued as the Englishman pushed his gigantic form through the cheering crowds to the clubhouse. The crowds were cheering the fact that he had clipped two strokes from the course record and taken the lead in the third round, but from the excitement it appeared that he had won the championship.

Jones' third round started with a bad patch on the first three holes, as was the case yesterday, but from the fourth to the 12th he did not make an error.

All the way around long putts trembled on the edge of the cup. Only one dropped—at the tenth. Jones Weakens.

Bob began to show weakness with his second shots at the 14th and this weakness cost him strokes at four holes in a row. He was driving well throughout. He missed only one tee shot, at the third where he drove out of bounds.

After going out in 34, big Archie Compston was in a strategic position for a low score and he took full advantage of his opportunity. He holed an 18 foot putt for a birdie three at the tenth and a ten footer for a par three at the 11th. At the 12th he had only to hole one of nine feet and at the short 13th he sent the ball and sank the putt.

Leo Diegel, after going out in 33 strokes, required 83 to get home for a third round score of 71 and total of 218.

Fred Robson, yesterday's runner-up, slipped back to 78 today and a three round count of 221.

Compston led Jones by a stroke and Jones in turn was two strokes ahead of Diegel. August Boyer and France and Benes were tied at 220 with Robson 221 and Moe and Horton Smith next at 223.

Compston's Chances. Compston made a bad beginning, as he started the five hole finish, taking a five at the 14th where the long hitters expect to bag birdies. He sent his drive at this hole into another fairway. He got his par at the 15th but ran into trouble at the 16th.

He was short on his run-up shot, missed the hole with a long putt and then saw a six footer hit strike the back of the cup and jump out, leaving him with a six.

LEGION DEFEATS ALUMNI OUTFIT

Scores 6 to 5 Victory; South-ington Plays League Game Here Tomorrow.

The Legion managed to nose out a victory over Alumni last evening at the West Side playground in an interesting game of baseball, the score being 6-5 at the end of seven innings. Several of the players were attending the High school graduation which caused the contest to be called after seven innings of play.

Ray Fraser twirled smoothly for three innings for the Legion and headed a cast of 6-1 to Ray Berger. The latter's offerings were more to the Alumni's liking and they came very near overtaking the Legion.

Johnny Hedlund, last year's Legion captain and a member of the Legion staff of this year's High school team did mound duty for the Alumni. His slants were nipped for one tally in the first and five in the second.

The fielding features were captured by Eric Rautenburg with a catch of Ed Jolly's liner and Chickie Smith who had seven assists and one out to show for his evening's efforts.

Southington's American Legion boys' baseball squad will appear Saturday afternoon at the West Side Playgrounds against the local Legion squad. This is the local second elimination competition contest and they must win in order to stand a chance of surviving.

Bon Ami Battles Rockville 3 To 3

The town champion Bon Ami baseball outfit managed to hold its own against the powerful All-Rockville team which included the town last night seeking another victim to add to a list which includes two victories over the champions Manchester Green nine. Neither team could win, the game ending like the two played last year between the two same clubs—a tie score. The tally sheet showed three runs for each side.

The Bon Ami came close to beating its arch rival but faltered down the home stretch with victory in hand. The first four innings went scoreless and then the visitors broke the ice with a single tally in the fifth. This was offset by a three run rally by the soap makers in the sixth but with this comfortable lead the locals became a bit nervous and allowed Rockville to equalize in the seventh, off a pretty pitcher's battle between Elmo Mantelli for the locals and "Baldy" May and Charlie Weber for the Windy City aggregation.

May, a southpaw hurler like Mantelli, gave way to Weber in the sixth when Manchester was putting three runs across the plate. Elmo struck out an even dozen batters which is no trivial feat for a seven inning stretch.

In the sixth, Vince started the Manchester rally by drawing a base on a notch with a pretty sacrifice and Hunt's single to right brought him home. At this point, Weber relieved May. Plitt was safe on a slider's choice and took well filling the bases. Then Mr. Weber became a bit too philanthropic and uncorked two wild pitches, each of which accounted for a run and the damage was done.

Rockville braced to knot the count in the closing stanza. Weber made up partly at least for his misplays by opening with a scorching hit in the stomach and Thorpe was knocked cold.

Rocky Rayo, of Hartford got the referee's decision in a fight with Sal Carta, of Middletown but Rocky did not win by a couple of gulftits. The six rounds were packed with action but the Middletown lad had all the better of the punching and he was the aggressor throughout.

Young Granado, a Cuban put up a clever fight against Young Minerva of Bridgeport but lost the decision. Minerva, a little squatty shaped man and unusually clever won by his cleverness and nothing else. The Cuban could not reach him with a solid blow.

It was announced that Max Schmeling would act as a referee at one of the bouts on next Tuesday's card at the Velodrome.

Harvard Is Underdog In 68th Race Today

Colorful Setting On Picturesque Thames Awaits This Evening' Dramatic Spectacle; Yale Victory Seems Positively Assured

New London, Conn., June 20.—(AP)—Perfect weather this morning greeted the thousands assembled here for the annual Harvard-Yale rowing regatta.

The sun was bright and warm, the skies blue and the water of the Thames River, scene of this 68th annual duel of oars between the blue and crimson, was like a mirror. It was as though the severe thunderstorm of yesterday had cleared the air.

Encouraged by the ideal conditions which followed a week of rain and fog, hundreds of late comers were streaming into town by automobile, yacht and train to join those who arrived earlier.

New London, June 20.—(AP)—In spite of an almost complete lack of old fashioned competitive rivalry calculated to stimulate crimson pulses, blue blooded veins, Harvard-Yale regatta today had for its background probably the most colorful and expensive display of pleasure craft in its history.

Both head coaches had their charges in good condition. Tacturn Ed Leader was non-committal as usual with the Eli boats well equipped to speak for themselves. Charley Whiteside, Harvard's new varsity mentor, confined himself to a statement that the Crimson, especially if back in spring form, will give a fighting account of itself.

Today millions of dollars worth of yachts, cruisers and craft of all kinds were massed over a good six mile stretch including nearly all of the full four mile varsity course, in a record-breaking jam. Conspicuous among them were the stately spars and glistening hulls of the four America's cup candidates, Weat-

KAUFMAN NO MATCH FOR STAN LOAYZA

Infighting Chilean Far Superior; Haystack Disqualified for Hitting Referee.

Tragedy stalked and comedy pranced about with mingling steps at the Hurley Stadium last night. It was tragedy that Pinky Kaufman, Hartford's pride who received an unmerciful beating from Stan Loayza, the wicked, wicked, infighting Chilean. It was comedy for the fans to see Bobby Brown and Johnny Haystack stall during rounds and when the bell rang to terminate the round, start to fight for referee George Proto, who, in self defense had disqualified Haystack because said Haystack insisted on thinking that Proto was his opponent and gave him some pretty hefty wallops.

The star bout showed Hartford fans that Pinky had to conquer some pretty tough babies before he could be the crown in his division. Outside of the third and a half dozen clean punches to the jaw, Pinky might as well have been out of the ring. Stan did the rest of the fighting with the Hartford fighter hitting the punching bag. Kaufman could not tie up his man in the clinches and Stan would not stand up to fight. So Pinky fought Stan's way and the old fans will tell you that is about the best method of losing a fight that can be developed.

The Chilean who is one of the best fighters in the ring, would step in, put his head against Kaufman's chest, and with one hand man's mouth was hanging wide open half of the time. He had no defense and just took a terrific beating. There was nothing else to do for the referee but to give the Chilean the bout.

The Brown-Haystack bout was the bright spot in the program. Bobby Brown, of Lowell and Johnny Haystack, of Binghamton were opponents. Brown was away ahead when the referee disqualified Haystack. The Lowell boy had all the better of it. Haystack, realizing that he was being defeated tried all the tricks of stunts to stop the fight. First he dropped down and claimed a foul. Proto told him to get up and fight. Next he worked something novel for these parts. He would stall toward the end of the stanza and just as he felt the range he would start fighting. Brown naturally had to defend himself. The referee would have to jump between the boys to force them to their corner with the result that he was getting smacked about quite some. He stood for it for three rounds and in the fourth round the New Haven man it must be said that he held his own, for on the exchanges he patted Haystack a couple of peaches right on the back. Finally in the seventh Haystack seemed to deliberately try to kayo the referee who disqualified him.

PIRATES VS. YANKS TONIGHT OVER WEST

The West Side League offers the Pirates and Yankees for tonight. The Yanks are in the cellar position right now but some action tonight will change things again. Walt Kearns will attempt to turn the trick while Ray Holland the speed ball king will probably hurl for the Pirates. Bill Brennan will umpire. Next week the playing days for the Pirates will change to Monday and Wednesday instead of Wednesday and Friday. This change is permanent to give room for the big team to play some Friday twilight games.

WEST SIDE PRACTICE SET FOR TOMORROW

The West Side Varsity team will hold a short but very important practice session at the Fouraces Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. The following men are asked to be there on time as some necessary plays will be gone over in preparation for Sunday's game when the strong West Ends of New Britain will appear here: "Gyp" Gustafson, Johnny Ambrose, Bob Sturgeon, Roy Holland, J. O'Leary, Jim Foley, Dave McCann, "Snooks" Wiley, Joe Rayner, Ernie Dowd, Ty Holland, S. Armstrong, Jolly and Hank McCann.

"Hank" McCann recently returned home from Grove City College will get a tryout with the West Side team this week-end. If he shows up as well as is expected he will be assigned the regular first base job. The West Side fans are going to like to see Hank in there as he is popular over there in "Man's Country."

DANCING JUDITH

By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT, 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JUDITH GRANT, beautiful artist's model shares her Greenwich Village apartment with CHUMMY MORLEY, a lovely girl who lost her memory seven years ago when ALAN STEYNE, with whom she was in love, abruptly disappeared. Steyne suddenly returns, but Chummy does not recognize him at first; meanwhile he falls in love with Judith and tells her that he has never loved Chummy. Returning one day from posing for VINCENT STORNAWAY, a wealthy portrait painter, at whose house she has attracted the admiration of the wealthy but ugly financier, BRUCE GIDEON, Judith discovers that Chummy's memory has suddenly returned to her. Steyne comes in and Chummy throws herself into his arms. The bohemian set in which the two girls move takes it for granted that Steyne and Chummy will be married soon as does Chummy herself; but Steyne repeats to Judith that he does not love Chummy, and insists that he is very deeply in love with Judith.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IX
Alan looked at Judy moodily. "All these years these fellows and you kept up a pretense—a kind of legend," he said. "You didn't really know. It's an atmosphere you've made, and I have to suffer for it."
"But Chummy loves you—you must see that."
"Tell me you see that," she persisted. "You must know that Chummy loves you—she loves you with all her soul. It's something tremendous!"
Steyne bowed his head. "You know it's true," Judy said below her breath.
"Yes—I know!"
It was perhaps the most difficult admission that a decent man can make—the admission that a woman whom he does not care for cares for him. With it went Alan's bitter resentment that this so-called romance had been built up out of material which, to him, did not exist.
Frankly, truthfully, Alan had never made love to Clarissa Morley. They had just been great friends. They had just been good friends. He had never even dimly guessed at the tempest of emotion that had temporarily wrecked her mind.
Discussion seemed useless, and they left the room. Judy had an appointment at Vincent Stornaway's. She had to wait a few minutes for a bus. Steyne stood by her side in woody silence.
"Goodbye," the girl said.
"He looked at her face tense and a little reddened by the fever in his blood."
"Judy, if Clarissa won't marry me, will you?"
"No," she answered. "Nothing would induce me to—nothing in the world!"
"You've made a conquest, Miss Judy," said Stornaway, as she came out of the model's dressing room when the sitting was over. "Gideon is pining for a kiss from you, and it seems you treat him with scorn."
He spoke half laughing, but his kindly eyes regarded her with genuine interest. He did not add that it was practically at Bruce Gideon's request that he was employing her, and that he was booked up with commission for months to come through the rich man's influence.
"He is coming in for a cup of tea, and I hope you'll stay and meet him. We'll have tea in here, shall we? Do sit down over on this couch by the fire. Gideon will be here directly."
The girl hesitated. As she did so, the door opened, and Gideon was announced.
Judy could not help being flattered by Gideon's admiration. No girl could. Bruce Gideon was a personality, quite apart from his money. With women in general, he was very popular—perhaps for the hackneyed but still cogent reason that he was supposed to dislike them.
At this time he must have been about 40 years old, but his name had never been coupled with that of any woman in his own class. There were various stories about him, over which even very nice people shrugged their shoulders, because he was rich. He lived in a bachelor apartment on Park avenue, and had no other residence in America, though several abroad.
Sometimes he gave a really big entertainment, when his sister, Madame de Toros, acted as hostess for him. She was the wife of a South American banker who had been largely responsible for financing the Transandine Railway.
This arresting-looking, softvoiced, immensely powerful individual had set himself out to woo little Judith Grant.
They had tea, which she poured. The atmosphere of the place could not fail to influence her—the rich colors, the space, the scents, the blending of the forms of antiquity with their perfect economy of line, and the most daring experiments of modern art in the shape of landscapes and figure pieces given to Stornaway by colleagues of his struggling days.
Max Dickbreed's studio was a barn by comparison; but then Dickbreed was a genius, and would have burned every stick of furniture he possessed to make a fire to warm his hands by, if they were too cold to paint.
"Miss Judy must see my sister's portrait," Gideon said to Stornaway, when they had finished tea, and his subtle flatteries had made the girl seethe her prickles to an all but imperceptible extent. "It should like my opinion of it."
The artist smiled, though he might not have been pleased to have an uneducated model, whom he had called only a "common little cat," asked to pass judgment on his work. However, with perfect good grace, he led the way to the other end of the studio, and, wheeling out an easel, disclosed an unfinished canvas.

"Judy, if Clarissa won't marry me, will you?"

Judy saw a foreign-looking woman who bore a certain resemblance to Bruce Gideon. She wore a low-cut black gown, and huge, pear-shaped diamonds dropped from her ears. Her skin was yellow, her eyes startlingly black. It was a very fine piece of work. Stornaway had let himself go. The subject was a great relief from chairman of companies and aldermen's wives.
Judy admired it immensely, partly out of gratitude to the artist and partly because the bold, half-mourning stare and the finished assurance of the woman of the world appealed to her.
So it was with everything during their stay at the studio. Gideon deferred to her opinions as if she were a connoisseur in art matters. When she left, he insisted on accompanying her.
"Where can I drive you to?" he asked, as they came out by the garden gate, where his big car was waiting.
"I can't drive me anywhere," the girl answered. "I'm going in a bus."
"But surely you will allow me?" "I will not."
"Then I'll walk to the bus with you."
He made a sign to his chauffeur to stay where he was, and set off beside her. Judy looked up at his great hooked nose and fleshy, pallid face with a kind of dislike that was half timidity—an emotion that she had never experienced before. His light in his pale eyes, once they were alone, made her put all her prickles out again.
"You were very cruel to me the other day, Miss Judy," he said.
"I don't know what you mean," she answered coldly.
"Why, you said goodbye to me in such a final tone. I thought I was never going to see you again."
He smiled down at her, and she shrank again from that big, grasping personality. As she would have put it, it seemed as if he had only to stretch out his hand and put her in his pocket, and had never felt the smallness before.
"But this has been such a delightful surprise," he went on. "I see that you have changed your mind about me."
"No, I haven't," said Judy, looking at him in front of her.
"Then why did you stay to tea at Stornaway's?" Gideon asked.
"Because Mr. Stornaway asked me to."
"You knew I was coming?" "I didn't think it mattered one way or another."
He went on smiling.
"I should like you to come and see my apartment one day, Miss Judy. I see that you have wonderful taste. I have some rather nice things, too."
"I don't know anything about them," was the tart reply. "I was only trying to please Mr. Stornaway. Old Max Dickbreed would roar with laughter if he could hear you. He calls me an ignoramus."
"Do you care for dancing?" was the next question.
"Yes, I love it."
"Where do you dance, if I may ask?"
"I don't dance often—can't afford it; but now and again one of the boys gets an extra bit of cash, and treats me to the Lemon Grove."
"What is that—a dancing club?" "In the Village?"
"It's an old garage they've turned into a club. It's great fun." "I wish you would take me there, Miss Judy."
"You wouldn't like it. It's no place for high hats!"
"I assure you I'm not a high hat," Gideon said, his soft voice taking on an earnestly persuasive note. "I am deeply interested in life—in every possible kind of life."
"But you're rich!" she objected.
"I can't help that. I believe the most interesting things in life have nothing to do with money."

And Conspicuously Smart in Cotton Print

By ANNETTE

The little basque bodice with bows and ruffles is quaint and smart in pointed outline at the front. The attractively flared skirt is shaped through the hips. Ruffling accents the caloped hemline, and makes it even more versatile. It's a darling vogue for the sophisticated miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

It's fetching in red and white printed batiste with red grosgrain ribbon bows and white organdie ruffling. It takes but 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 1/2 yard of 32-inch contrasting to make Style No. 191 for the girl of 8 years.

Daffodil yellow cotton shantung, pale pink pique, blue and white polka-dotted sheer lawn and Nile green linen are adorable combinations for this French model.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Do we ever stop to think that we often discipline our children according to what is good for us, not what is good for them?

I believe that if we stop to consider whether the things we do not allow them to do are being judged by our own reactions instead of theirs, we should be quicker to give permission.

When we are scolding a child, what are we doing? Trying to bring out his own sense of wrong and a higher responsibility? Or are we merely getting rid of a personal peevishness bottled up to the explosive point and turning it on the culprit? After we've split it out we feel better. Pure nervous reaction! Nature takes that way to relieve our minds. We are just as likely to scold a child after he's had a narrow escape from being run over or for eating something he shouldn't have eaten—why? Because our shock over what might have happened on the street, or our presentiment of illness that might yet result from his eating must have an explosion to give it relief. We benefited by getting rid of our bottled-up emotion, but Johnny is the worse off by one more scolding which he didn't deserve and which only added to his resentment or perplexity.

How Obstinance Is Bred
If children could understand the motives behind all our cross words there probably wouldn't be so much harm done. Few children resent a just reprimand. But it stands to reason that a much-scolded child will become obstinate, surely, and willfully disobedient in time if he endures continual injustice.

They are great little philosophers in their way. It is wonderful how they figure things out, lacking experience and knowledge as they do. There is an air of doubt in the world that the child of a scolding parent, who is wrong no matter what he does, analyzes the situation pretty well on the whole. He knows that there is more wrong with his parent than with himself—loses the illusion of ideal in that parent, and thence goeth faith, confidence, and lastly, obedience.

Then too—there are our "prohibitions," call them "inhibitions," "suppressions," anything you like—the things we are afraid of that hold us back. We are poor, frightened creatures at best, all of us. Let's Analyze Ourselves

Why don't we allow John or Mary to do this or that or something else? Because we are afraid it isn't good for them? Let's be honest. Nine times out of ten it is ourselves we are nursing. We are ostensibly protecting them, but in reality, fending off any chance of our suffering through them.

Again, we often expect obedience not because we think it good for the children, but because a fracture of our discipline hurts our pride, instantly our ego has been overthrown! We dare our children to have stronger wills than ours.

These are only a few of the motives behind training that cannot lay any claim to the child's good, but are merely sops to our own self interest. The mother who honestly tries to guide her child will ask herself first, "Is this the best for him, or am I protecting my own feelings?" That's a true test.

HEALTH

DON'T MAKE MISTAKE OF THINKING MEASLES A "TRIVIAL" DISEASE

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

It is commonly assumed that measles is one of the trivial diseases of childhood, that every child has to have it, and that it is not to be compared in its effects with such diseases as diphtheria or scarlet fever.

In the weekly bulletin of the New York Department of Health, Dr. Charles Bolduan has recently made available some figures concerning the extent of measles in New York City as compared with other diseases. The annual death rate per 100,000 people for New York City from 1908 to 1917 was for measles 14, for scarlet fever 14, and for diphtheria 28. For the period of 1918 to 1927, it was for measles 8, for scarlet fever 3, and for diphtheria 15.

One of the difficulties of interpreting these figures, however, lies in the fact that many people who have measles do not die of measles, the form of broncho-pneumonia, which is a form affecting the tubes in the lungs rather than the lung substance, and which is the cause of death most frequently entered on death certificates.

Dr. Bolduan points out that in such instances the physician is frequently called in after the signs and symptoms of measles have disappeared and after the child dies the certificate gives the cause of death as pneumonia without mentioning the measles. When a study is made of pneumonia deaths in children under five, it is found that they show a variation which is parallel to the deaths from measles.

In years when measles is prevalent an average of 1200 more deaths occur yearly from pneumonia than when measles is not prevalent.

When the figures are estimated for children under five years of age rather than for the entire population, it is found that there are two deaths of this kind for each thousand children who develop measles—a health menace which merits serious consideration.

Fortunately medicine has developed a method which is proving of great value not only in controlling the incidence of measles, but also particularly in controlling the severity of the attack. Children who have been exposed to the disease may be given injections of blood from one of their parents who has had measles and recovered and this seems to minimize the severity of the disturbance and in many instances to prevent the attack.

Above all it is important to remember that measles is a disease meriting just as much careful consideration as any other infectious disease, and that it is not wise to permit a child suffering with the symptoms to go without treatment.

INSPECT SEAM OF SILK STOCKINGS

By William H. Baldwin
The gauge is an indication of the fineness of the knitting in silk hose and a 44-gauge French hose or a 57-gauge German hose is considered the finest made.

Some stockings often are given a mock seam so that they can masquerade as full-fashioned hose. Among the methods of distinguishing the imitation from the genuine full-fashioned are to inspect the seam, which extends from top to toe in the real, and usually only from hem to heel in the mock; and to look for the little dots on either side of the seam just below the hem and along the slender part of the calf. Full-fashioned hose also have narrowing marks—similar to these dots—on both sides of the heel base.

Tonight: Get Rid of BURNING FEET

The New Right Way THE ENGLISH WAY

To take out the agony—banish all burning, aches and soreness—try the new 1930 way and in 15 to 20 minutes your foot troubles are over.

Just put two tablespoonfuls of Radox in a gallon of hot water and soak your feet for 20 minutes—you never had such a joyous, invigorating foot bath in all your life—you can just feel all the acid and poisons coming out of the stuffed-up pores of your poor feet.

Do this tonight and tomorrow your feet will be so strong and sturdy and vigorous that you can walk all day long without discomfort.

It's the oxygen in Radox that gets into the thousands of pores of your feet and chases out the poisons that have accumulated there for years—it's these acids and poisons that make your feet ache and burn and nothing in the world will get them out but Radox.

You can get a package of Radox at North End Pharmacy, So. Manchester Agents, Packard's Pharmacy, Magnell Drug Co., or any good drugstore—it is inexpensive and if it doesn't put new life and vigor into and bring blessed comfort to your distressed feet—money back.—Adv.

Portugal Will Clean Up "Plague Spot" In China

Lisbon.—(AP)—Macao, the wild city of Portuguese China, on the Bay of Canton, where vice is rampant and opium and gambling dens wide open, is to become respectable. The government has decided to stamp out all forms of vice from this "plague spot" which brought disgrace and contempt on Portuguese colonial administration.

It was in the middle of the sixteenth century that the Portuguese were allowed to build a settlement there in return for assistance given to the Chinese against pirates. Ever since, Macao has remained in Portuguese possession, but lack of interest in the colony by former Portuguese administrations is responsible for the unsavory state to which this island town has been allowed to drift.

Macao is honeycombed with opium dens, gambling rooms and worse places. Almost the whole population is thriving on opium traffic and the sale of Chinese lottery tickets. Its low grade music halls and cabarets thrive on the money on sailors from the seven seas.

Shipsloads of opium are exported to all parts of the world from Macao, where trading in this drug is still permitted. But although the government derives all its income from these sources, it has decided, on grounds of morality and prestige, to carry out extensive social reforms.

New taxes will be created, new industries established and an attempt made to revive trade with Brazil and other South American republics.

Dr. Artur Tagusil Barbosa, the newly appointed governor-general of the colony expects that the process of extirpating gambling, which has secured a firm foothold in the habits of the natives, will be slow.

His first task will be to restrict the cultivation of new opium fields and limit its consumption. The strictest control will be exercised on shipments of the dangerous drug and any quantity of it seized will be destroyed and the dealers punished.

He will also reduce the number of gambling dens by raising taxation on gambling. In time, he hopes, public gambling will cease because it will not be a paying proposition.

DEALERS INCREASE
In 1910 there were only 4,402 automobile dealers in the United States. On January 1, 1930, there were more than 54,000.

COUSINS TO SHARE HERMIT'S FORTUNE

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—A score of cousins scattered in Great Britain, Ireland and the United States will inherit the $200,000 estate of two aged hermits who died in Park Ridge, a suburb, four years ago. Probate Judge Henry Horner has ruled.

Of the known heirs, 15 cousins live in Ireland, two in Massachusetts and one each in England, Montana and Kansas.

The estate was left by John Flynn, who committed suicide after the death of his brother in 1926. The two had lived as hermits and the money was found hidden in mattresses, milk cans and beneath the floor.

Claims of alleged heirs caused an investigation. It was found that the hermits were sons of a John and, with Henrietta Goodiff, daughter of Capt. James Maynard Goodiff, an English soldier decorated for heroism in the Napoleonic wars. He had opposed their marriage on religious grounds.

Dwight Morrow, we read, sips a glass of milk at the end of a day's campaigning. From contented Jerseys cows, undoubtedly.

HEARING FINISHED ON NAVAL TRAGEDY

Boston, June 20.—(AP)—Federal hearings on the Fairfax-Pinthis disaster closed today with a warning from U. S. Inspectors that if they found the evidence showed probable negligence, unskillfulness or recklessness on the part of any of the Fairfax officers the latter would be tried in court.

Captain Archibald Brooks of the Fairfax, a Merchants and Miners coastwise liner was recalled to the stand today as the last important witness, in the investigation into his conduct and that of his men after the Fairfax collided with the oil tanker Pinthis in a fog last June 10 with the loss of 48 lives.

No Decision Yet

Shortly after he had left the stand with a statement upholding the conduct of his officers and men. Inspector Charles Lyons announced that the hearings were closed although any others who wished to be heard would be heard. No decision he said would be reached until a careful study of the evidence submitted for the past week had been studied.

"If we have found" he announced, "that there was probable negligence, unskillfulness or recklessness on the part of the Captain or any licensed officer of the Fairfax charges will be prepared and a trial held."

"If found guilty the license of the guilty officer will be suspended or revoked."

Brooks Questioned

Captain Brooks was questioned chiefly about the sending of an SOS from the Fairfax immediately after the collision. He asserted vigorously that he had ordered an SOS sent one minute after the crash and that he ordered no other messages for aid at that time.

Captain Brooks said he ordered no message sent to the Gloucester at that time and also denied knowledge of several other radio queries and answers which apparently withheld information as to what really occurred. Finally asked what he thought of a radio operator who apparently was sending and receiving messages without his knowledge, he replied, "It was rotten."

Praised Officers

However, in a statement just before he left the stand he praised the work of his officers and men and said "It would not be here if everyone had not helped."

The last witness before the hearing adjourned was Robert B. Choate, said that at 1:05 a. m. on the morning after the collision he received the following reply to a radio message sent Captain Brooks asking full details of the collision:

"All passengers safe. Ship proceeding for Boston." Signed Brooks, Master.

Capt. Brooks this morning said he did not remember receiving any such query or sending the answer, but later thought he might have sent a message that passengers were safe when the fire was out and the danger over for those who survived.

The captain, the radio operator and other officers and men as well as passengers have been called successively to the stand since the hearings started a week ago yesterday.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN HERE NEXT MONDAY

Staff in Charge Practically the Same as That of Last Summer, Lloyd Announces.

The east and west side playgrounds will open for the summer season next Monday with practically the same staff of instructors in charge, according to an announcement made today by Director Lewis Lloyd. There will be a meeting of the instructors at the East Side Rec at 9:30 Monday morning at which time instructions will be given out and plans for the summer schedule discussed.

The playgrounds are to keep open from 9:30 to 11:45 mornings, 1:15 to 4:45 afternoons and from 6:00 until dark evenings on week days, closed Saturday afternoons and Sundays as was the policy last year. The reason for closing before noon is to get the children home ahead of the mill crowd.

Herbert L. Carlson, junior high school physical education instructor at Schenectady, N. Y., will work as director again this summer alternating between the east and west side playgrounds daytimes and remaining at the west side evenings. Elmo Mantell will work nights at the East Side. Miss Francis G. Tibbets will have charge of girls' activities at the east side day and night. Miss Gertrude, who is in charge of women's physical educational work at the Recreation Center will have charge of the West Side.

The summer Wednesday afternoon special activities will take place as usual. There will be six or seven events. The first to be held on July 16, Director Lloyd said today. Leagues and tournaments will be organized in baseball, tennis, volleyball and quads.

Beginning next week there will be free instruction in swimming at Globe Hollow every morning except Saturday and Sunday by Lifeguard F. C. Busch. The boys class is from 11 to 11:45 and the girls from 10:15 to 11. This will be continued throughout the summer.

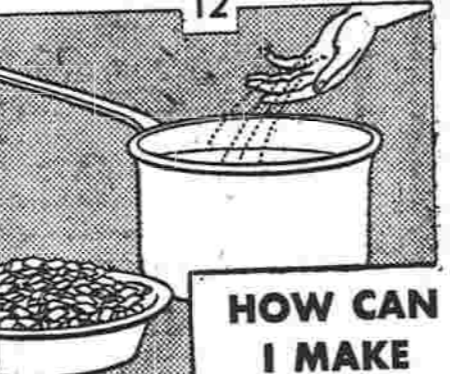

NEW GANG MURDER

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—While efforts were proceeding with a re-organized police department to clear up the assassination of Jake Lingle, Tribune crime reporter, and free Chicago of gang domination, a new gangster slaying came to light today.

Lorenzo Juliano, 40, questioned by police in connection with eight murders and twelve bombings in the last three years, reached the end of the hoodlum trail.

His body, shot through the breast and wrapped in canvas was found in an automobile which had been shunted into a deep clay pit near Blue Island, South Side suburb.

PECULIAR DISEASE HITTING WHITE OAKS

State Experimental Station Examines Leaves Sent in by Park Superintendent Murphey.

A peculiar disease that has been affecting the white oak and sycamore trees in town this spring has been diagnosed by G. F. Clinton, botanist of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station in New Haven, as an Antracnose fungus, more specifically known as Gloeosporium Canadense. The disease is unusually prominent this year, and attacks, principally, the white oak trees, being favored in its development by the recent wet weather.

The disease was first discovered on many of the larger white oak trees in various parts of town and on some of the sycamores. The tip ends of the leaves withered and turned down destroying the leaf. The lower limbs of the trees were principally affected, giving the tree a blighted appearance.

Park Superintendent Horace F. Murphey sent several specimens of the leaves to the experiment station and was notified that it was too late in the season to do anything about it this year. The usual practice is to spray the dormant trees with Bordeaux mixture just before the buds open in the spring, again when they are bursting through and a third when they are about one-third to one-half grown.

It was feared at first that the disease was similar to the chestnut blight which destroyed nearly all the chestnut trees several years ago, but has been proven to be harmless to the tree body.

GOLF IS HARMFUL

Spokane, Wash., June 20.—(AP.) Golf is harmful, in the opinion of Dr. William Muhlberg, Cincinnati, president of the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors.

"The average man who plays golf goes out to the course, dubs a hot, gets mad, tears his hair, maybe throws his club away, and as a result increases his blood pressure," Dr. Muhlberg said in addressing a group of life insurance vents last night.
