

EIGHTY KILLED IN BOLIVIA AS REVOLT FLARES

Train Passengers Arriving In Chili Tell of Grave Dis- turbances at Capital; Strict Censorship of News

Arica, Chile, June 26.—(AP)—The conductor of the international train arriving from La Paz last night said that a grave disturbance had occurred in the Bolivian capital Sunday and that eighty persons had been killed, of whom 17 were students.

The strictest censorship prevails.

NEWS CONFIRMED.

Buenos Aires, June 26.—(AP)—Passengers arriving on the international train which left La Paz on Sunday today confirmed reports of serious disturbances in that city.

The travelers reported that 1,000 demonstrators stormed police headquarters in Murillo Square, bombarding it with stones and other missiles.

Militia reinforced the police and volleys were fired into the mob. Some of the passengers stated that thirty had been killed. They said that as the train pulled out of the station they could hear the machine guns rattling in the city.

One newspaper stated it had received a private message from La Paz saying that revolutionaries had taken possession of the departments of Cochabamba, Oruro, Potosi and Santa Cruz.

La Paz was isolated from the rest of the country and it was expected that it would fall into the hands of the rebels at any time.

Asks for Help.

General Kundt, the German commander-in-chief of the Bolivian armies, sent messages to border garrisons asking help while former President Siles asked protection of the United States Legation. Foreign Minister Medina took refuge in the Argentine Legation.

Two regiments were stated to have refused to fight against the rebels.

NO NEWS HERE.

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—The state department said today it had received no communication from the legation at La Paz, Bolivia that former President Siles had taken refuge there.

Due to the existing conditions, possibility exists that messages from Bolivia might have been delayed.

BIG MERGER TRIAL IS HELD UP TODAY

Volunious Correspondence Being Read Into Records; Testimony Delayed.

Youngstown, O., June 26.—(AP)—At least a day's delay in the taking of testimony in the trial of a suit to prevent the billion-dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation was indicated today with the introduction of voluminous correspondence between officials of the Youngstown Concern and stockholders.

Attorney Luther S. Day of Cleveland, head of the legal forces representing Myron C. Wick, Jr., and the International Share Corporation, stockholders opposed to the merger, introduced the correspondence in an effort to prove his contention of fraud and concealment in negotiations leading up to the voting of the merger April 8.

The bulk of the file was composed of letters exchanged between the Youngstown management and the stockholders' merger opposition committee. Day indicated all the correspondence would be read into the record.

He was expected to follow this with an inquiry into the contents of four trunks which were alleged to have been stored under an assumed name by an employee of the Youngstown company when the stockholders' committee opposed to the merger was seeking to examine certain records.

HOOVER LAUDS BUCHANAN IN CAPITAL TALK

Statue of Fifteenth Presi- dent is Unveiled; He is De- serving of the Nation's Gratitude, President Says

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—James Buchanan, fifteenth president of the United States, was described today by President Hoover as a man "rich in achievements deserving the gratitude of his country."

Speaking at the unveiling of a monument in Meridian Park to the only chief executive Pennsylvania has sent to the White House, Mr. Hoover said Lincoln's predecessor had "occupied the presidency at a moment when no human power could have stayed the inexorable advance of a great national conflict."

The monument unveiled was a bronze statue of Buchanan seated in a chair with a white stone background. It looks across beautiful Meridian Park onto Sixteenth street. The presentation was made by Roland S. Morrow, former ambassador to Japan, representing the state of Pennsylvania.

The Address

President Hoover's address follows: "It is my pleasant duty today to take part in the formal dedication of this statue of the fifteenth President of the United States. These memorials of the past not only pay honor to the virtues of the men who have held the highest office which our citizens can bestow, but they also help to fix in our minds the orderly march of our life as a nation."

"James Buchanan whom we honor here today, occupied the presidency at a moment when no human power could have stayed the inexorable advance of a great National conflict. The black clouds of dissension had gathered over the country when he entered upon his duties. The thunderbolts of war were withheld until he left the office, but throughout his administration the sky was clouded with the ominous threatenings of storm."

Slavery Problem.

"He shared in the notable efforts to solve the problem of slavery by compromise. His partners in these efforts were the ablest and most penetrating minds of his day, and it was largely by chance that his presidency coincided with the ultimate failure of these hopes. He was the last outstanding figure surviving of one of the most remarkable groups of men in our history, and it was his fate to represent them at the moment when they must yield to younger men representing a more aggressive conception of the Nation's duty. He played his part with a dignity and courage that only now are receiving the recognition they deserve."

Served Country Well.

"Mr. Buchanan served his country."

H. C. STUTZ DEAD AFTER OPERATION

Widely Known Auto Manu- facturer Passes Away in Indianapolis, Aged 53.

Indianapolis, June 26.—(AP)—Harry C. Stutz, widely known automobile designer and manufacturer, died here today from complications which followed an operation for appendicitis. He was 53 years old.

Stutz came to Indianapolis Monday afternoon from Orlando, Fla., where he had been making his home for the last five years. After an operation he appeared to be doing well until infection set in and caused his death.

Inventions which improved rear axles of automobiles won Stutz his first recognition in automotive circles. He entered a car bearing his name in the first 500 mile race here in 1911 and it finished eleventh. As a result it became known as the "car that made good in a day" bringing with it fame and fortune to the builder.

Mr. Stutz was married twice, the first time to Miss Clara Dietz, at Dayton, Ohio, in 1898. They were divorced. Five years ago he married Mrs. Blanche Miller of Indianapolis. The widow and a daughter, Mrs. William S. Horn, Indianapolis, survive.

PEACE, JAPS' ASPIRATION SAYS PRINCE TOKUGAWA

President of House of Peers Of Japanese Parliament, Addresses Delegates at Rotarians' Convention.

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the House of Peers of the Japanese Parliament, told the Rotary International Convention today that "Japan's foremost aspiration today is to cultivate the arts of peace," and that "Japan needs a navy adequate only to defend her own corner of the Pacific."

To deliver his talk before Rotary's 17,000 delegates, the prince took a one-day stopover out of a six-month trip which will take him to a number of important sessions, including that of the League of Nations at Geneva. His position as head of the Parliament and son of the last Shogun—his father led the warrior clan that ruled Japan for centuries—makes him today one of the empire's main thought.

"Japan's absorbing thought," he told the rotarians, "is to put her financial and economic structure upon firmer foundations, curtailing expenditure and seeking markets overseas for her manufactures and products. It is self-evident that this end can be attained only by a policy of peace, good-will and friendliness. As a natural corollary, she is in favor of any proposal which looks toward the advancement of international peace."

CHIEF OF POLICE KILLED IN MEXICO

Governor Impeached and Trouble Starts; All Tele- graph News Is Censored.

El Paso, Tex., June 26.—(AP)—Two men claimed authority to rule the state of Chihuahua, Mexico today as the result of a political disturbance which led to the impeachment of Governor Francisco Alameda and the slaying of Gabriel Jimenez, chief of state police yesterday.

Alameda sought to rule the state from Juarez where he fled by airplane yesterday after impeachment by the Chamber of Deputies on charges of misconduct brought by followers of Manuel Prieto, candidate for governor.

At Chihuahua City Manuel Jesus Estrada, a Frieto partisan was acting as governor by virtue of authority conferred on him by the Chamber after it had deposed Alameda.

Conflicting reports emanated from the capital concerning the slaying of Jimenez, the flight of Governor Alameda, the impeachment Estrada and the inauguration of Estrada as provisional governor.

The correspondent of El Continente, Spanish language paper published in El Paso, last night sent by a plane messenger a written account saying telegraph censorship had been established in Chihuahua City.

While the charges against Alameda were being read, the correspondent said, a group headed by Gabriel Jimenez, chief of state police came through the corridor and began shooting at the deputies. During the exchange of shots, Jimenez was shot in the head and killed.

SOUTHERN CROSS OFF ON WAY TO NEW YORK

PRESIDENT VETOES VETERANS' RELIEF Wants a Square Deal for Men; Proposed Bill Adds Nothing to Present Laws.

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—The House sustained President Hoover today in vetoing the World War veterans relief bill.

Consideration of substitute legislation designed to overcome Mr. Hoover's objections to the original measure began immediately.

The lengthy veto message reached the House at 1:21 p. m. and enough votes to assure its being sustained had been cast at 1:45 p. m.

BULLETIN!

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—President Hoover today vetoed the World War Veterans Relief Bill.

In an emphatic message to the House, he repeated his protest that the Act was unjust. He said it added little to aid wounded or disabled World War veterans.

"I want a square deal between veterans," he wrote, "not unjust discriminations between special groups, and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures."

The House heard the detailed objections with a readiness amongst the Republicans to sustain the veto. Steps to substitute legislation meeting White House approval had been taken.

As To Imports

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—Analysis of foreign trade figures for the month of May indicates that the falling off in exports and imports has much more seriously affected raw materials and foodstuffs than it has affected the products of factories.

Though both exports and imports for the month are considerably less than those of the same month last year, the totals assigned to exports of finished American manufactures was 57 per cent of the month's total of all commodities. In May last year American manufactured goods exported constituted but 53 per cent of all exports.

Similarly, imports of manufactured goods in May 1930, constituted 24 per cent of total imports whereas in the same month last year they constituted but 20 per cent. The greater percentage of decline in trade was experienced by the categories of raw materials and foodstuffs. Figures ready for comparison by class as compared with those of last year follow:

Exports:

Manufactured goods $178,481,000 against $202,717,000; partly manufactured goods $49,949,000 against $59,820,000; foods ready for consumption $30,363,000 against $35,922,000; raw foods $12,448,000 against $21,212,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing $40,781,000 against $57,405,000.

Imports:

Manufactured goods $68,431,000 against $83,684,000; partly manufactured goods $53,155,000 against $85,875,000; foods ready for consumption $41,571,000 against $42,280,000; raw foods $34,744,000 against $46,561,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing $86,743,000 against $141,739,000.

NEARS COASTLINE OF UNITED STATES

At Noon Was Over Halifax, the Halfway Mark; Expect- ed to Reach Roosevelt Field After 6 O'Clock Tonight; Distance is 1,200 Miles—To Stop Few Days at Me- tropolis and Then Continue Flight to San Francisco.

BULLETIN!

Gloucester, Mass., June 26.—(AP)—The Southern Cross was 180 miles due east of Portland, Maine at 1:10 p. m., E. S. T. today Coast Guard radio men said. The official position of the plane was given as 155 miles east northeast from Cape Ann 50 miles south of West of Yarmouth, N. S., and 130 miles due east from Portland, Maine.

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Droning through skies which cleared as it approached the coastline of the United States, the Southern Cross was almost half way to New York today in about seven hours of flying.

Squadron Leader Kingsford-Smith and his comrades were over Halifax and had covered in about six hours and fifty-five minutes a distance of a little more than 550 miles as the crow flies.

This did not accurately indicate their speed, since they did not follow an exact straight-line course, but it indicated that they would traverse the approximate 1,200-mile distance from Harbor Grace, N. F., where they took off at 3:05 p. m. on Monday, to Roosevelt Field, N. Y., in about fifteen hours, landing at their New York goal soon after 6 o'clock tonight.

Sighted Over Halifax

The plane was sighted clearly as it hurried over Halifax at about 11:30 p. m. The markings on its fuselage could be discerned plainly. It had been seen at several points along the way.

Kingsford-Smith planned to stop only for a few days, perhaps two or three, in New York before resuming his journey to San Francisco and consummating a virtual round-the-world flight for the plane which is conqueror of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

TO CIRCLE LYNN, MASS.

Gloucester, Mass., June 26.—(AP)—In a message, which the Coast Guard radio station here said was a general broadcast, the Southern Cross reported its landing over County Harbor, N. S., at 10 o'clock E. S. T.

Drops Lower

The message said the plane had descended to 1,000 feet and was descending rapidly. The Southern Cross was heading straight for Lynn, Mass., and Kingsford-Smith said it would circle that city once before continuing on to New York.

The message read: "Found clear patch and came down to 1,000 feet. Now passing County Harbor, N. S., on our left. Good weather with sky partly cloudy at 12,000 feet. Dead calm once to sky clear. Balchen and Melville, Smith."

To Salute Filers

The words Balchen and Melville apparently indicated that the salute over Lynn would be for them. Balchen and Captain Frederick C. Melville, members of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. Lynn is the home city of Melville, byrd, supply ship, and a welcome-home afternoon has been arranged for him for today. He was to have Balchen as his guest and it was expected that other members of the Byrd expedition in this territory would join in the tribute to the mariner.

START OF JOURNEY.

Harbor Grace, N. F., June 26.—(AP)—The sky trail to New York faced Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three flight companions of the world circling airplane Tomorrow New York's reception to the fliers, including the welcome at City Hall and the parade up Broadway, will be put on by both chains.

MONUMENT FOR SMITH.

Oakland, Cal., June 26.—(AP)—Plans are under way to place a monument to Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith at the airport here from which he took off May 31, 1928 on the epic world flight he completed from Harbor Grace, N. F., to New York today.

If he returns from New York to Oakland by air he will realize a ten-year ambition to circle the globe by plane.

The fliers arrived at the airport a half hour before the take off. Lunch was put aboard and the motors turned up and the crew of three, led by Capt. Kingsford-Smith jumped eagerly into the plane.

The plane taxied one hundred yards before going into the air. A light west wind was blowing.

An 1100-mile flight faced the Southern Cross with an estimate of 12 to 14 hours flying time being necessary. The direct course lay over Cabot Strait, Cape Breton Island and Nova Scotia and by a slight deviation northward would include southern Maine and New England. Captain Kingsford-Smith, pilot, planned to land at Roosevelt Field. The second successful westward crossing of the perilous Atlantic in the history of aviation was made in 32 hours flying time. The Southern Cross left the Airport at Port Marnock, Irish Free State early Tuesday morning.

The plane arrived here at 5:57 a. m. E. S. T. yesterday morning after flying blindly for the last several hours. The crew of Captain Kingsford-Smith, Van Dyk, J. Patrick Saul, navigator and John W. Strange radio operator, were tired out but in good condition.

Pacific Trip.

Two years ago the Southern Cross was flown from San Francisco to Australia by Captain Kingsford-Smith in the first trans-Pacific crossing. Later it was flown to England by the Australian. He is a veteran of five years flying.

The last hours of the hop from Ireland after perfect weather the first of the trip across the Atlantic, found the fliers battling blinding fog. Almost constant radio communication was maintained with ships and shore stations and a safe landing place was sought with their aid.

The coast was sighted at 4:48 a. m. E. S. T., a message to Capt. David W. Bone, master of the Transylvania.

Messages of congratulations came from all over the world yesterday. A message from Rear Admiral Byrd was one of the first to arrive. Others were from Sir Cecil Hurst, the British embassy, Henry Ford and the prime ministers of Australia and Newfoundland.

NATION WIDE BROADCAST.

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Arrival of the Southern Cross and its crew of four at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., is to be described in nationwide broadcasts late today and in short wave relays to England and Australia.

Arrangements have been made by both the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System to come on the air at approximately 5:30 p. m. (EST) to give a report of the landing.

The NBC Network will comprise WEAFA and all available stations, with Kurt Peterson and Eleanor Smith, aviator, at the microphone. Short wave stations will be used to transmit this description over two oceans to England and to Australia for possible rebroadcasting.

The announcer for CBS will be Harry Vonzell, and his story will be sent out on short waves as well as over WABC and stations.

At 10:45 p. m. (EST) NBC plans to present 15-minute period of talks by Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith and other members of the crew. Tomorrow New York's reception to the fliers, including the welcome at City Hall and the parade up Broadway, will be put on by both chains.

Meriden, June 26.—(AP)—Frank L. Edwards, 45, of West Hartford, was before the trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys as potential candidate for the position of superintendent made vacant through the death two weeks ago of John A. Tinsley. Although no action will be taken on an appointment at this session, it is thought possible that Mr. Edwards will be named at a later date.

Col. Charles I. Allen of Middletown, acting as spokesman for the board, stated that several names have been added to the list of twelve original applicants, and that it will be several weeks before action is taken in the matter.

Mr. Edwards is married and has no children. At present he is employed as farm specialist by Tar Products Corporation Providence.

PRESIDENT VETOES VETERANS' RELIEF

ton that these diseases originated from their service and that they should be "compensated" or pensioned upon the basis of men who suffered as the result of actual military service.

"This provision would give war disability benefits to from 75,000 to 100,000 men who were not disabled as the result of war in other words, the bill purports to establish that men who have enjoyed good health for a minimum of seven years (from 1918 to 1925) since the war or a maximum of 12 years (to 1930) and who have then become afflicted have received such affliction from their war service.

"I am informed by the director of the Veterans Bureau that the medical council of the bureau, consisting of most eminent physicians and surgeons, supported by the whole experience of the bureau, agree conclusively that this legal 'presumption' that affliction from diseases mentioned in the bill between 1925 and 1930 is not a physical possibility and that the presumption constitutes a wholly false and fictitious basis for legislation in veterans aid. This is confirmed by a recent resolution of some eminent a body as the American Medical Association.

"The further injustice of this bill may become more apparent when it is realized that men who were enrolled in the army who remained but comparatively few days or weeks in service, without ever leaving their home states, and receive the bonus on the same basis as those men who passed through the battle of the Argonne. They may come upon the government payroll for life in case of total disability at rate from $20 to $200 per month.

"It has been contended that the government has the right to disprove the 'presumption' that any of the long list of diseases enumerated in this bill are not of war origin. But the burden of such proof is placed upon the government and all the experience of the Veterans Bureau shows that such rebuttal is ineffective, as the evidence surrounding such questions as a rule cannot be secured or made clear and conclusive.

"Additional inequalities and injustices arise from certain other provisions. At the present time any veteran who may become ill or disabled as the incident of civil life is placed upon government hospitals if there is a vacant bed and given free treatment.

Cash Allowances

"This bill provides that such cases received in the hospitals shall in addition to free treatment also receive cash allowances, and that a

SMITH APPOINTED TO PENSION BOARD

Governor Names Local Man To Commission Investigating Question for State

County Commissioner Robert J. Smith has been named by Governor John Trumbull as a member of the commission appointed by the last Legislature to investigate the question of pensions for state, county and all municipalities in Connecticut.

The bill, which was presented to the Legislature at the last session by Mr. Smith, as Senator of the Fourth District, resulted in five names being selected by the governor to carry on this investigation. The original commission was composed of Howell Cheney of this place, Leroy Robbins, mayor of Norwich, Senator Albert Lavery of Fairfield, Professor Charles M. Backwell, of Yale, and Benedict D. Flynn of the Travelers Insurance Company.

Of this original committee two of the members, Mr. Cheney and Mr. Flynn had much to do in the drawing of the first compensation act of the state and Mr. Flynn was also in an advisory position in connection with the plan of insurance and compensation provided by Cheney Brothers.

Professor Backwell is to spend his vacation in study and travel in Europe and could not give the proper attention to the work. This he let be known to the governor and Senator Smith today received his commission naming him to the board.

The question of pensions for employees of cities and towns such as firemen, policemen and others has been followed in some of the larger cities in the state, but there seems to be no uniform method in granting these pensions.

try during a long and active life as a Senator of prominence and as a diplomat. His first great diplomatic success was in negotiating our first commercial treaty with Russia. He performed important services as ambassador to London. As secretary of state under President Polk, he skillfully guided our position with respect to the Oregon boundary and in a manner that has been questioned advantageously and peacefully. Both as negotiator while ambassador and as director of policies while secretary of state, Mr. Buchanan established for himself one of the most eminent reputations in these fields in all our history.

"His career was rich in achievements deserving the gratitude of his country. But its most appealing side should also be mentioned here. A bachelor, and engrossed in public and private business, he found time to rear and educate an orphaned niece in a manner that would have done credit to any father. His wise and affectionate letters to Harriet Lane are a charming addition to American literature, and are still to be read with pleasure. It is due to Miss Lane's devoted appreciation of his kindness that this statue has been erected, for she left provision for it in her will. This is, therefore, an occasion not only honoring a great patriot but also testifying to a real filial affection.

STATE'S TAX BILL IS $13,332,273

Hartford, June 26.—(AP)—Connecticut's tax bill for the year ended June 30, 1929, was $13,332,273, according to information collected by Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett relative to the assessment and collection of federal, state county and local levies. This amount is an increase over the previous year of $13,332,273.89, and the new total represents a tax of $87 per capita, or about $10 more for every resident of the state than in 1928, when it was $77.27.

Almost one-half of the amount collected was for local taxes, says commissioner Blodgett. Of the total, local tax districts had the spending of $68,770,264.26, or 48.90 per cent.; the federal government $42,215,118.35, or 30.01 per cent.; the state of $28,774,573.92, or 20.46 per cent., and the counties of $88,248.10, or .63 per cent.

Local Budgets.
Local tax budgets are still on the increase, the commissioner finds. In 1928 the levies on property and personal taxes by all taxing districts was $56,838,577.34. By 1929 this had grown to $71,177,290.30, an increase of 25.2 per cent.

During the year covered by the report the grand list of the state was increased $147,780,898, or 5.05 per cent. The total is now $2,803,076,794 as compared with $2,655,295,896 in 1928. The average tax rate remained at 24.9 mills, and the grand levy of property taxes increased $3,626,830, or 5.4 per cent. The amounts of taxes annually levied in all municipalities in the state are shown by the report to be increasing at the rate of approximately $5,000,000.

Fears Failure Refuses a Big Movies Offer

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Calif.—The most enthusiastic girl in movieland. That is just one of the ways in which she might describe Jeanie Lang, one of the new, as well as most promising members of the film colony. Of course, there are other things which should be mentioned also—her black, curly hair, her big brown eyes and a smile which would warm the heart of a polar bear.

Jeanie broke into the acting game back in St. Louis, where she played on the stage for about a year. Then her family moved to Hollywood, next thing she knew she had been signed for Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz." While she didn't have as many numbers as some of the others, she did them so well that she easily was one of the outstanding hits of the entire film.

As soon as that picture was released it looked as though success was in the bag for the young girl. But for some reason she hasn't gotten the follow-up pictures that she deserves. However, Hollywood is that way. It takes most persons out here six months or more to realize a genuine "find" is in their midst.

"If people only knew how badly

Jeanie Lang

I want to work, I'll bet they would give me a job," Jeanie declared enthusiastically. "I don't think there is anyone out here who really is as anxious to work as I am. I'm not doing it for the money I get or for the fame which might come. I just like it, that's all. It thrills me beyond words.

"No, I didn't have any intention of getting into pictures when I came out here. The girls out here are so beautiful, and I'm just a little nobody." Jeanie gets more of a genuine kick out of seeing the various film celebrities than anyone else we ever have known. They fascinate her to an almost unbelievable extent. In fact, she still considers them as sort of unreal gods and goddesses, just as she did when she used to see them on the screen back in St. Louis. One would never think that she also is a screen actress, and one who some day is destined to receive the homage she now pays to others.

Refused Big Part
At the present time Jeanie is doing considerable singing over the radio. She has a good voice and knows how to put over songs, and she is taking this means of keeping in practice, so that when the opportunity to step before the movie cameras and "mikes" comes again, she will be prepared for it.

Although just a youngster, Miss Lang has proved her wisdom as an actress. She was offered a role in a big production that almost any girl in the business would have accepted, but she turned it down.

"I didn't think I could do it," she told me. "And I didn't want to be a failure."

That was a smart move, Jeanie. Don't play any role you can't feel and you'll get along all right.

The fame of the little green capsule, because of its canny power to speedily stop the terrible rheumatic pains that make life almost unbearable, is rapidly spreading all over America.

You go about conquering your merciless enemy in a different way—a knock-out way. You take one tiny capsule each hour for the first ten hours.

The second day, take one every two hours for 14 hours—then take 4 little green capsules every day until every little twinge and every bit of tenderness is gone and your troubles have ceased.

The little green capsule now so much in demand from coast to coast must have a name so it is known in every worthwhile drug-store in America as ALLENRU NUMBER 2.

Magnel Drug Co., So. Manchester says these little wonder-working capsules must banish all pain and torture in 5 days or money cheerfully refunded.—Adv.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE

It will be quite impossible for the general public to understand the extraordinary emotions with which the newspaper world is watching the developments in the Lingle murder case in Chicago.

Newspaper people have a thousand faults which none of them would deny. But it is the most deeply treasured tradition of the craft that it has one impregnable virtue—imperviousness to the lure of graft.

Hard-boiled, disillusioned, cynical though the newspaper man may be; irreligious and scornful of tip-titled moralities, as likely as not; if he has not born within him the quality of professional incorruptibility the newspaper game is not for him.

In every newspaper office in America there is the most profound anxiety that the full story of Lingle's financial activities may vindicate his memory completely.

TOURISTS, PASS ON. If there were any way of proving it we would like to make a wee little bet that there isn't another town in the United States of the same size as Manchester—with the exception of an exceedingly few suburban communities like Brookline or Greenwich—where there are so few signs indicating that furnished rooms are to let, either to "permanents" or tourists, as in Manchester.

RIGHT—AND VICTORIOUS. By the time this is printed it is probable that the President's veto of the Johnson veterans relief bill will have been received by the House and, despite the earlier indications, sustained.

There are thousands upon thousands of people on the roads every summer who never by any chance put up at hotels. Some of them don't feel at home in a hotel, others simply don't like hotels, still others don't want to pay hotel prices and don't expect hotel service.

FOLKS OF ANY OF THESE CLASSES, reaching this part of the state at the end of the day, and figuring on finding plenty of tourist houses in a place as big as Manchester, look for the familiar signs in vain. So they drive on.

most places half the residents seem to be catering to transient guests, till the motorist wonders what chance they all have to get by, and picks and chooses to his liking. Here, he could sleep outdoors if there were no other town he could make before bedtime, for all his chance of finding accommodations.

AN INCORRECT TERM. Yesterday was the anniversary of the battle of the Little Big Horn in which the gallant General Custer met his death.

North American Indians were indeed, in past times, guilty of several massacres. The Little Big Horn affair was not one of them.

The Indians merely fought back, and to such effect that Custer's command was destroyed. It probably never occurred to him or any of his men to ask for quarter. He and his soldiers fought till they died. It was ghastly tragedy—but it wasn't a massacre. It is bad teaching to tell school children that it was.

RUBBISH CANS. You cannot have a complete civilization without rubbish cans. You can't have unlit streets without receptacles for the litter.

No one has ever proposed and no one is likely to propose, for a long time at least, any scheme for reducing the amount of such litter created by the modern craze for wrapping up things.

It has no rubbish cans on the sidewalks, in the place where rubbish cans ought to grow. Two dozen rubbish receptacles, strategically distributed around town, would probably add forty or fifty per cent to the aggregate of orderliness in the appearance of this community.

SLAP WORTH $125. Nice, France.—When a woman slaps a man it's worth at least $125, according to Charles Belcher, British vice-consul at Mentone. Alleging that Mrs. Ada Vera Colley, an Englishwoman, slapped his face in the street, Belcher received a verdict of about $125.

lowest-browed city in the country. Connecticut has every reason to be more than ordinarily proud of the fact that both its senators were among the six in the whole body who had the courage and the honesty to line up on the side of reason and right. It is rather tickling, too, that that side should now turn out to be the victorious one.

WASHINGTON LETTER BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 26.—The Federal Farm Board is completing its first year of existence. Its work is still in the experimental stage and no one can yet be sure whether or not the Board and the act of Congress under which it operates are ever going to do the American farmer any great good.

Grain prices have just fallen lower than at any time since the Farm Board held its first meeting on July 15, 1929. Cotton is in a bad way. But from any impartial long-range point of view that cannot be used as an argument that the board's policies have already failed.

There are many agricultural experts who believe that the only profitable farming in the future will be industrialized farming, which would mean the elimination of perhaps millions of individual farmers who now contribute the bulk of the main crops.

But in those lesser crops where growers have come to exert some control over their products, with intelligent credit, production and marketing systems, there has been some improvement in the lot of the individual grower. The Farm Board's idea is to lead the mass of farmers into similar movements: the question is whether farmers in the mass can ever control their own production and the prices they get for their crops.

Farmers Must Aid Self. But those financial operations are not considered as important as the general campaign to persuade the farmer to work his own salvation. The government won't go in for such comparatively radical measures as the export debenture plan and compulsory crop curtailment programs, so the real job is indisputably left to the producers. The government has promised only to "aid" and "advise," to facilitate all worthy efforts.

The Board has tried to centralize commodity marketing through a set-up of national co-operatives, eliminating competition between co-operatives and working first with commodities which already had co-operatives. It has set up five national co-operatives, two stabilization corporations and five advisory commodity committees.

Board Fairly Satisfied. The two stabilization corporations are the Grain and the Cotton, the former organized especially to deal with wheat. The primary purpose of these corporations is to serve as emergency agencies for us really when there is a market agency in the particular commodity; they go in and take some of the stuff off the market.

Capital Society Women Devise Novel Coiffures

Mrs. Haynes Lennon (insert), daughter of Rep. Allard H. Gasque of North Carolina, wears her hair in the simplest manner, while Miss Alice Wirgman (above) confines her locks with a Spanish comb.

Washington—(AP)—With half the women and girls transformed into potential "little Evans" with their locks curling round their shoulders, Washington is witnessing more original coiffures this season than it has seen in years.

The 1930 miss is trying to forsake the "bob."

She employs every conceivable style of hair dress to care for the "tag ends" and stray locks.

Some part their hair in the middle from forehead to neck, then twist the ends on each side into little knobs over the ears. Some confine the ends with fancy combs at the nape of the neck.

If the hair is long enough, the fortunate possessors pin it in a simple knot. Impatient souls just rush to the barber and go back to the comfort of the bob once more.

At any evening affair the honors are almost evenly divided between the bobs and the "little Evans." The bobs generally are more simply gowned, while the half-length locks seem to call for trailing necklaces and dangling ear-rings.

DANGEROUS AGE FOR PEDESTRIAN BETWEEN 40-50

Victims of Automobiles Are Largely of Those Ages Motor Vehicles Representative Points Out.

If you are 40, 45, or 50 years old, you had better watch out when walking on the highway, the Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles pointed out today in a talk from WTIC, the Travelers Station.

Last year, 1929, pedestrians of these three ages led all others in getting into serious trouble with motor vehicles. More were killed and injured at these ages than at any other three ages listed for the victims of automobiles. Ten persons 45 years old, nine who were 40, and nine who were 50 were killed; while 147 who were 50 years old, 123 who were 40, and 117 who were 45 years of age, were seriously injured.

A great many pedestrians of other ages were victims of accident or the carelessness of themselves and motorists. According to the department's statistics 259 pedestrians were killed. The helplessness of infancy or the infirmities of age made little difference to the machines. The ages of the victims ranged from 1 year to 89 years. There were 4,062 pedestrians injured, also with a wide range in ages, from 1 to 98 years.

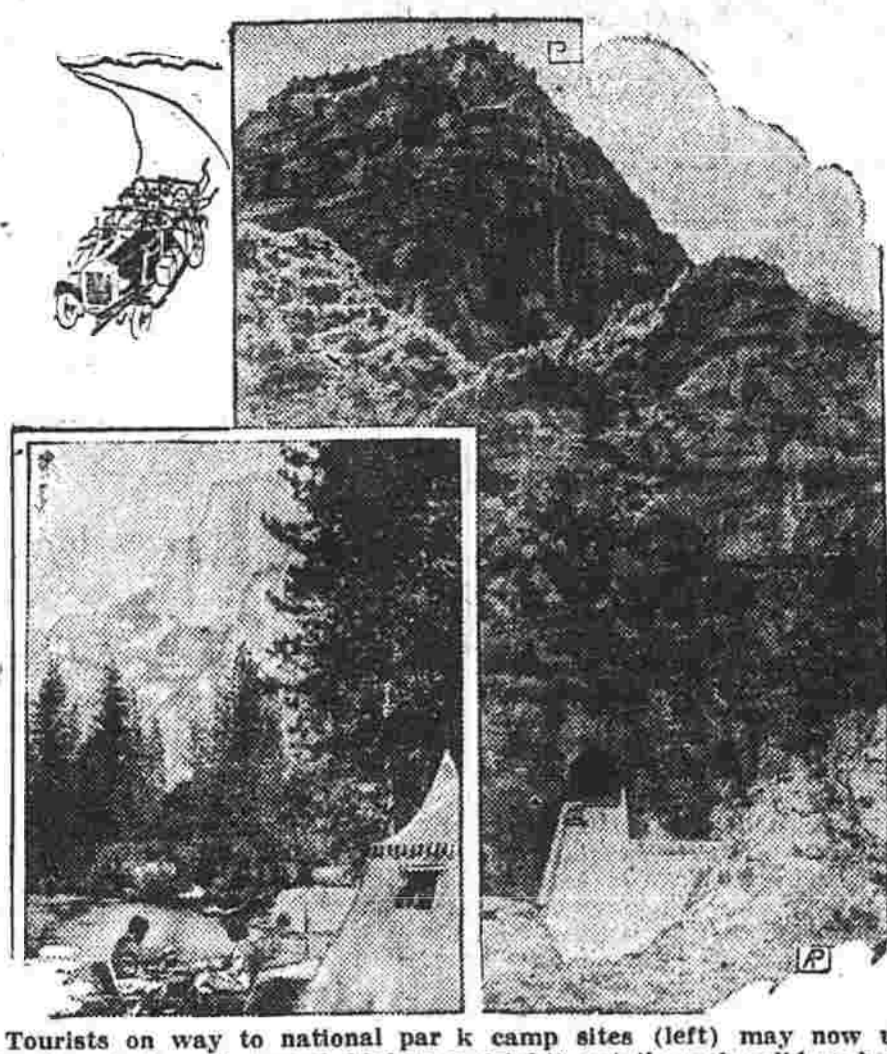

The importance of taking care for children is evident in the department's report out when it is known that in Connecticut last year more than half of all the children killed by motor vehicles were less than 8 years old. Also, it is true that more children who were 4 years of age were killed than at any age under 16 years. Among the other victims there were two children less than 2 years old, three less than 3, and eight less than 4 years old. Children of 6 and 7 years were most frequently injured, but injured to others from three to 16 were numerous.

Figures concerned with automobile accidents are seldom pleasant to reflect upon, but some truly gruesome statistics have resulted from these accidents to pedestrians. They are unpleasant to read and unpleasant to listen to, but they do present a graphic story of what happens when people, both motorists and pedestrians, are careless on the highways.

Some of the pain and suffering which followed accidents to pedestrians last year can be imagined when it is known that among the injuries were 150 fractured skulls; 488 other types of fractures; 8 cases of concussion of the brain; 123 cases of severe shock with contusions; 162 cases of severe shakings; 30 internal injuries, and 3,270 other cases of sprains, wrenches, dislocations and the like.

These figures are not presented by the department merely to horrify, but to show the real seriousness of carelessness when pedestrians are using the roadways on which motor vehicles are being operated.

Highway Tunnelled In Cliff Yields Sweeping Panorama

Tourists on way to national park camp sites (left) may now use Zion-Mount Carmel tunnel highway (right) cut through solid rock at elevation of 4,000 feet.

Salt Lake City—(AP)—A mile-long road carved through solid rock 4,000 feet up will open this summer. It is part of the Zion-Mount Carmel highway in Utah which connects Zion and Bryce Canyon national parks.

The road ascends over and through giant cliffs and shortens the distance between the parks from 158 to 88 miles.

Zigzagging over the slopes of Pine Creek canyon in a series of six switch backs it finally reaches the awe-inspiring tunnel which runs along for 5600 feet just inside the sandstone cliffs.

At intervals openings have been broken out of the cliff side and the road widened so that cars can be parked and the occupants gaze out upon the panorama of vivid colorings and vast distances.

The National Park service, now preparing for summer openings of 11 of the 21 government-owned parks, expects that at least 3,500,000 people will visit the vast tracts of woods, mountains and streams this summer.

Woman Urged For Cabinet Is Scion Of Pioneer Clan

Washington—(AP)—If the Nebraska delegation in congress succeeds in efforts to have Miss Grace Abbott appointed secretary of labor, it will add an eleventh generation pioneer to an illustrious clan.

Miss Abbott, who has been chief of the children's bureau in the department of labor since 1921, has served in varied and various governmental posts.

Her first national service for children came in 1917 as director of the child labor division of the federal children's bureau. In that position she was responsible for the administration of the first federal child labor law, which forbade interstate transportation of products of child labor.

Miss Abbott's father, Othman Abbott of Grand Island, Neb., bears scars of the hand sickle from boyhood pioneering Illinois.

Grace Abbott was born a few years after her parents "crossed the plains." She was graduated from Grand Island college in Nebraska and received a master's degree in political science from the University of Chicago law school. In 1908 she lived at Hull house.

FOUR BROTHERS SEEK THE ENDURANCE MARK

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—The four flying Hunter boys of Sparta, Ill., staked virtually all their fortune on an airplane endurance flight which, if it is continued, will surpass the record at 6:01 o'clock next Sunday morning. At 3:40 a. m. today the plane had been in the air 347 hours.

Walter, the eldest, said they had pooled their funds, expecting to realize at least $200,000 if the flight was successful.

The smooth sailing that had marked the flight for two evening weeks turned rough last evening when the first serious threat to the success of the flight—a leaky gasoline tank—developed. This necessitated night refueling, with its hazards and difficulties.

The flyers, in notes dropped to the field, said efforts were being made to repair the tank, and they also spoke of the added caution needed in handling the plane due to the change of balance created by the empty left wing tank.

Forest O'Brien and Dale Jackson, of St. Louis, holders of the record, kept their plane aloft 420 hours, 21 minutes.

While the two younger Hunters, John and Kenneth, still in their early 20's pilot the endurance plane, Walter and Albert, fly the refueling ship. A fifth Hunter, Irene, hurried from her school teaching in Southern Illinois to supervise the cuisine department. John and Kenneth are mail pilots. Walter has an interest in a coal mine near Sparta.

ICELAND'S CELEBRATION

Thingvellir, Iceland, June 26.—(AP)—Christian, King of Iceland, today opened the 1930 session of the Icelandic Althing at the very spot where one thousand years ago this oldest Parliament in the world first was convened.

King Christian stood upon a huge rock in the middle of the plain of Thingvall where Grim Goatbeard, the lawgiver, in ancient days, recited from memory the entire code of Icelandic law.

The ceremonies today were simple as of old, so simple as to obtain an almost religious aspect.

The broad plain was dotted with many thousands of persons who had come from far corners of the earth.

Included in the vast throng of visitors were many Americans whose birth or ancestry was Icelandic.

POPE IS BETTER

Rome, June 26.—(AP)—Well informed ecclesiastics in Rome and Vatican City today believed that Pope Pius XI would not allow himself a needed rest until after the public consistory July 3. The pontiff has been reliably reported as suffering from uremic poisoning and is seriously ill.

By carrying on until July 3, it was pointed out he will round out the ceremonies of his jubilee year, ending June 30. It was believed that friends would urge him to take a long rest immediately after July 3, possibly profiting by his recently gained freedom to spend the remainder of the summer outside the Vatican.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

They were of long duration and damaged the walls of many buildings. The inhabitants were panic stricken, and left their dwellings and took refuge in the streets and parks.

The second tremor was the stronger. It was felt also at Port Pisco and slightly at Lima. There were reports that a strong earthquake was felt at Huancavelica.

CAPONE'S BROTHER BANKED $1,800,000 IN SIX YEARS!

Chicago Gangster's Huge Beer Profits, Bared at Income Tax Fraud Trial, Shown to Be Four Times Greater Than Salary of President

BY BRUCE CATTON

Chicago, June 26.—How much money can a Chicago gangster make in a year?

A definite answer to that absorbing question is available now for the first time. Federal court records show that a gangster can take in at least $300,000 a year—with the probability that it will be a good deal more.

This is approximately four times the annual salary of the president of the United States.

This figure is available because of the recent conviction of Ralph Capone, brother of the famous Scarface Al, on charges of violating the law relating to the filing of income tax returns and the paying of income taxes thereon.

Three other gangsters—Terry Druggan, Frankie Lake and Frank Nitto—are also under indictment for fake income tax returns.

$1,800,000 in Six Years
Ralph Capone, who is under sentence of three years in Leavenworth, and who will be one of the few Chicago gangsters actually to go to prison if the higher courts do not reverse his conviction, banked $1,800,000 in the six years from 1923 to 1929.

Thus he was convicted not for bootlegging, but for the profits he made thereby.

Dwight H. Green, assistant U. S. attorney who is in the case against him, doesn't think that that is the whole story, either.

"His total income," says Mr. Green, "was probably a good deal higher than that, but if we were called on to prove it in court our evidence would be rather meager. However, the indications were that it was substantially more."

Now Ralph Capone isn't one of the gangland's big shots. He has a famous and powerful racket of his own, but he was never one of the real headliners.

But Ralph Capone was able to bank $300,000 a year; and if you ever wonder how Chicago's gang got that way, you might ponder over the size of that income for a while—remembering, as you ponder, that Ralph Capone was only one of many.

Green explains that the government got on Capone's trail almost by accident.

"We were checking the bank accounts of Oliver Ellis, the slot machine king of Chicago Heights," he told me. "Among the items in his account there was a small check for $100,000 which came from a bank in Cicero. We wanted to find out whose check it was and what it was given for."

"When we investigated we found it was drawn on the account of one James Carter. We tried to find out who James Carter might be, but no one at the bank knew anything about him. They couldn't remember having seen him, and the account had been closed."

"However, in tracing withdrawals from that account we found that Ralph Capone had bought some jewelry and had paid for it with checks on that account. It was a dummy account, you see, maintained by him under the alias of James Carter."

Used Dummy Accounts
"We found other dummy accounts at the same bank. Back in 1923, 1924 and 1925, Ralph Capone had an account there in his own name. Late in 1925 he discontinued it and opened one under the name of James Carroll. Later he discontinued that and opened one under the name of James Costello, Jr. Later he changed to James Carter, and when he discontinued that one he opened another under the name of James Carson. Yes, he was fond of the name James; it's his own middle name. Late in 1928 he got away from the James habit, however, and opened an account under the name of Harry Roberts, changing that one, eventually, to the name of Harry White."

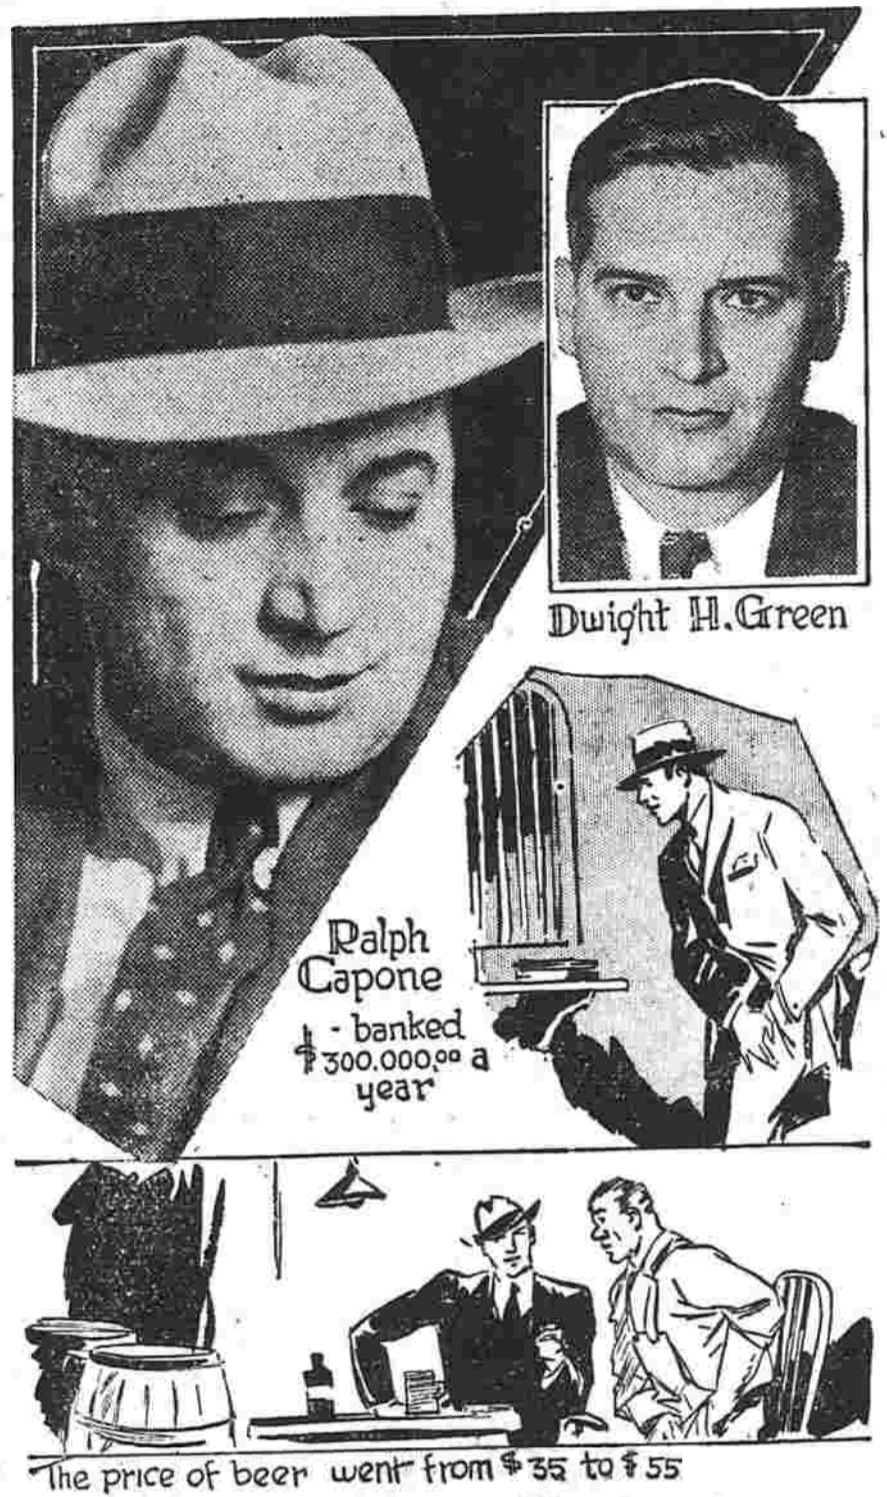

All of this investigation took time—between six and eight months. Meanwhile, the investigators checked up to see if Capone had made any tax returns. They found that in 1926 he had filed returns for the years 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925. His returns showed net incomes of $15,000 for 1922 and $20,000 for each of the other years, and said that the money was made in "speculations." The $4000 tax due on this money, however, had never been paid.

Payments for Beer
"We also got evidence to show how his money had been made," says Green. "At the trial we had testimony from men who had operated saloons. Many of the deposits on Capone's various dummy accounts were checks given him by these people—and they testified that the checks were in payment for beer. Originally they were paying $35 a barrel for the stuff. Then the price went to $40, then to $50 and finally to $55, which I understand is the price now."

So Ralph Capone, convicted, faces a trip to Leavenworth. But when I asked Mr. Green if it might not be possible for the government to send some more gang leaders to prison in the same way, seeing that Chicago seems unable to put them there for murder or robbery or bootlegging, he shook his head doubtfully.

"The trouble is," he said, "that they don't have bank accounts any more. The gangsters won't take checks now—nothing but cash. And they don't deposit their money in banks. They carry it around with them."

"Then," I said, "the average gangster must have a pretty sizable roll of money on his hip all the time?"
Green nodded.
"He does."

Ralph Capone, brother of Al Capone, who banked his beer profits at the rate of $300,000 a year for six years, is shown above with the government representative who was responsible for convicting him for failing to pay his income tax. Ralph now faces a term in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan.—but not for bootlegging.

Clarke To Be New Skipper For Navy's Huge Dirigible

Lakehurst, N. J.—(AP)—Twenty years ago an 18-year-old lad, Vincent Arthur Clarke, Jr., dreamed of being a skipper on the seven seas.

Today, with rank of lieutenant commander and service on Uncle Sam's battle and service submarines to his credit, he promises to become a new kind of skipper, commander of the navy dirigible Los Angeles.

Sea duty beckons for Lieut. Comm. Herbert V. Wiley, present commander of the airship, and Clarke, seasoned with nearly a year's service under his charge, will take the helm.

His experience with aircraft began five years ago when he was appointed as a student of naval aviation with duty involving actual flying in dirigibles, balloons, and airplanes.

BANDITS IN NEW HAVEN.
New Haven, June 26.—(AP)—Police today were seeking three gunmen believed responsible for a series of holdups here in the past months.

The two robberies occurred within a half hour of each other and in each instance men took part. Descriptions by the victims tallied closely. The bandits took $100 in the holdup of a drug store which they entered just as Harry Frank, attendant, was closing up for the night. A short time later three armed men halted Michael Torrallo, 56, a short distance from his home. Torrallo was struck over the head with a revolver butt and robbed of $10 in cash and a watch.

CINCINNATI BANK CLOSES ITS DOORS

Cincinnati, June 26.—(AP)—The Cincinnati National Bank failed to open for business today.

First information that the bank would not open came from a notice posted on the institution's door saying the bank was closed. The notice was signed by a National bank examiner.

William Taylor, Cleveland, Federal bank examiner, recently completed an audit of the Cincinnati bank and on last Monday two changes were made in the official personnel of the bank shortly after directors said the institution was in sound condition. Michael G. Heintz was named vice-president succeeding Lyman Morris, resigned, and William L. Lucabe, was appointed assistant cashier in place of Harry Rosenblum who also resigned.

Closing of the Brotherhood bank came sixteen days after another Cincinnati bank, the Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust Company was forced to close on account of the $1,000,000 peculations of A. W. Shafer, former district manager of the H. L. Doherty Company.

The Brotherhood bank recently announced it had increased its rate of interest paid on deposits from four to five per cent.

WILLS' WILL PROBATED.
Norwich, June 26.—(AP)—Several public bequests were found in the will of Irving J. Willis, a former city official offered for probate today. The sum of $500 each will go to the New England home for crippled children, Boy Scouts of America, Norwich Council, Salvation Army here, and Sheltering Arms of Norwich and $2,000 to the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The residue of the estate will go to a granddaughter, Diana J. Jones in trust until she is 21, when she will receive the principle.
Mr. Willis died on June 20.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, June 26.—(AP)—The Stock Market opened firm today. American Tobacco B jumped 5 points, and American Telephone 3, U. S. Steel rose 1/4, and General Electric, Dupont, Westinghouse Electric, Gold Dust, National Biscuit and International Telephone, about 1/2. Chrysler, however, sagged 1/2.

The market displayed marked strength during the first half hour, led by the American tobacco shares which shot upward in reflection of the overnight announcement of the two-for-one splitup and extra dividend of $4. The common shares gained 18 points, and the Class B shares quickly extended their gain to 7 points.

This bullish development in American Tobacco, the first good news Wall street has received in several days, prompted widespread short covering, and pivotal shares generally sold up a point or two. Trading, however, was comparatively quiet. Furthermore, the scant success of bearish activity yesterday was encouraging.

Such issues as Atchison, Westinghouse Electric, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Gas and American Can sold up 2 points or more. U. S. Steel, Air Reduction and General Electric mounted a point or more.

Thirty-nine, among them three Europeans, are officially admitted to have lost their lives in Indo-China since the unrest, latent for several years, culminated into open and armed rebellion in various parts of the country. The wounded and injured number several hundred. A like number are in jail.

Twenty-two rebels have been sentenced to death but only seven were executed. President Doumergue having exercised his right of clemency in favor of the others.

Official circles charge that Communist propaganda is chiefly responsible, but the Allies' policy during the war, which brought thousands of Annamites and Tonkinese to France, is regarded by the man in the street as the real cause of the trouble. The returning Annamite and Tonkinese war pilgrims had learned the use of fire-arms and many of them are now trying their skill against the French.

Few White Troops
France has been holding Indo-China with a minimum of white troops, about 5 per cent. Only the officers are white.

It is from the ranks of the native soldiers that the most dangerous leaders have cropped up. The armed uprisings at Yen-Bay, in the Tonkin and Vinh-Long, in Cochinchina, where most of the casualties occurred, were conceived and expected by native soldiers.

The peasants are content to form processions, waving red flags and demanding the suppression of taxes on rice, which appears to be the only tangible cause of revolt. They are not armed and generally disperse after being challenged by the troops.

The word "April" is taken from a Latin term which means "to open," the point being that this is the time of the year when the trees and flowers begin to open.

SERVICE for the MOTORIST

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

FAN BELT'S NEW IMPORT

A loose fan belt these days may mean trouble which the average motorist doesn't suspect. It isn't merely a matter of the engine overheating.

Recently an owner noticed that the pointer on the ammeter flickered quite a bit. It worried him. Especially puzzling was the fact that the engine showed a tendency to overheat on hills. He could see no connection between the behavior of the ammeter and that of the engine heat indicator.

At the service station a mechanic immediately started to tighten the fan belt. On the particular make of car the generator is driven from this same belt.

Some cars have the fan and water pump both driven from the belt. Any slippage therefore develops a dual form of overheating.

SPOILS TAPPET ADJUSTMENT

When a motorist runs into too much difficulty adjusting tappets he has a right to suspect that the engine isn't in good enough condition for an efficient adjustment, provided he happens to know that inefficient valves themselves can render the efforts of the most competent owner fruitless.

Before adjusting tappets it is important to be sure that the valves are not sticking. If, for instance, a valve does not close properly it is plain that no amount of adjusting of its tappet is going to be of any value. Either there will be too much clearance or too little.

It is easy enough to test the valves for sticking. When a valve is in its supposedly closed position wedge a screwdriver between the coils of its spring to increase tension. If it sticks this should make the stem lower a little. The end of its stem should also be compared with the ends of those of the other valves.

REPLACING GENERATOR FUSE

Some things about taking care of a new car are so easy they actually are difficult.

Take the business of installing a new fuse on one of the popular makes of generators. The old fuse is removed by unscrewing a small plug, and the installation of a new fuse is merely a matter of putting one in the opening, screwing in the plug afterwards. The joker, however, lies in the possibility of forgetting to insert a small spring between the fuse and the plug.

Without this spring in place the fuse doesn't make contact.

Because the spring is so small it is apt to be dropped unnoticed when removing the plug. Many drivers also overlook the importance of turning the distributor rotor until it drops into the right notch, after having removed it.

Be suspicious of any job about a car that looks too easy.

OVERHEATING THE OIL

An engine seldom is in greater danger during the period directly following overheating due to running shy of water in the cooling system. Ignoring this point many owners simply pour in a fresh supply of water and assume that they have done all that is necessary under the circumstances.

More important than the addition of water is the good sense to wait for the oil in the engine to cool off. This does not necessarily mean that the car should stand for fifteen or twenty minutes because it may be at the top of a hill with a cooling coast available down the other side.

Heated oil is dangerously thin and is almost as bad as being without oil. Merely pouring water into the parched radiator does not cool this

WORLD BUS USE

It is estimated that there are 285,000 motor buses in use throughout the world. Of this number the United States has 92,500.

NEW MONUMENT

Sunset Crater, volcanic territory within the Coconino National Forest in Arizona, has been set aside as a National Monument by President Hoover. The area set aside contains 3,040 acres.

WON'T GIVE UP

While Lipton and tea are closely connected, so likewise are Lipton and sailboats. Sir Thomas Lipton, above, noted British tea baron and yacht racer, has shipped his new racing sloop, Shamrock V, to America to try to win back the America's Cup, internationally famous yacht-racing trophy.

Sir Thomas is past 80 years of age but he still gets a kick out of boat racing, in spite of his repeated losses to American defenders in recent years.

oil immediately and it is apparent that if the car is driven even normally under such conditions the bearings and cylinder walls will be in danger of burning and scoring.

DON'T ALTERNATE BRAKES

Except where a car is equipped with emergency brake on the front shaft there is no advantage in alternating between the hand and foot brakes when descending a hill. Many drivers seem to think this alternation is effective in preventing the brakes from burning out.

But what are the facts? Suppose the foot brake operates externally on the rear wheel drums and the hand brake operates internally. The foot brake heats the drums until they expand away from the internal brake shoes and start to burn against the bands of the external brakes. The same thing happens if the internal brakes are used excessively.

If both sets of brakes are internal expanding at the rear the effect is to expand the drums away from the shoes when either set, alternatively or individually, are used for too long a period on the downgrade.

CUT OUT FAULTY PARTS

There are some parts about an automobile that can be dispensed with temporarily when they give trouble. Such elimination offers a handy means of being able to proceed when trouble threatens to tie up the car on the road.

A burned out or defective ammeter, for instance, will stall the engine and yet if the instrument is cut out of the system the car can be operated. It is simply a matter of attaching the wire from the battery to the generator post of the ammeter instead of to the battery post.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Ida May Galbraith, 63 years old, was found fully clothed including top coat and hat, and anchored during the trip across the water.

Mrs. Galbraith, a nurse, was 63 years old. The body was fully clothed including top coat and hat. Police believe she took her own life.

COLORED TIRES TO MATCH CAR BODIES

Detroit, June 26.—In the day of color harmony in automobiles, where the upholstery must match the woodwork and the paint job must be a perfect blending of colors, the only eye-sore detracting from the ensemble has been the tire.

But we're now to have colored tires which will match car bodies, according to a rubber manufacturer here.

Rubber manufacturers and dye men have been working together for years to find a suitable coloring for rubber which would not pack and which would prove satisfactory in all cases. Inorganic colors have been used successfully for years, but their use in rubber tires is not practical.

The present method of coloring has not been made public, but it is understood that the colors are passed through a colloid mill which reduces the particles to a minute size. These tiny particles of color are treated with rubber latex and subsequently milled in such a manner that the latex forms a protective film around each particle, and so prevents spottiness.

DISCARD SPEED LIMIT

HUGE AUTO CLUB

The Automobile Association of Great Britain was founded in 1905 and now has more than 375,000 members, being the largest automobile organization in Europe.

SUPER-HIGHWAY

A super-highway is to connect Boston and Worcester, Mass. It will be 70 feet wide, without level crossings, and a maximum grade of six per cent. It will cost $5,000,000 to complete the forty-mile stretch between the cities.

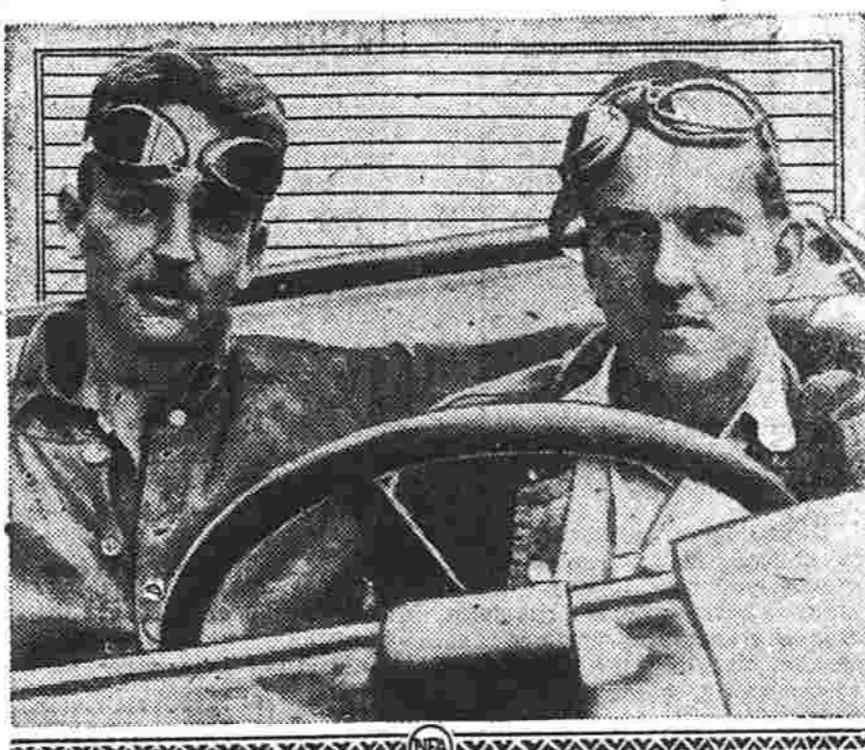

CAR PARK IN BOAT

To do away with costly crating in the shipping of motorists' cars across the Atlantic, the French liner Lafayette has installed a "car park" into which cars can be driven and anchored during the trip across the water.

How's She Hitting?

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

Science Editor, NEA Service.

Most of our automotive instruction books warn us when to have the valves of our engines ground and to see that accumulated carbon is scraped out of the cylinders and that our spark plugs operate properly.

Trouble is we generally forget our instructions before reaching the first 1000 miles, and so we go on driving until the engine balks.

It begins to miss, and we're up in the air for lack of knowing what to do. Looking again at our instruction book we find that knowing what to do in this case is rather a simple matter.

First, to find the miss—or missing cylinder.

That's merely a matter of shorting the spark plugs, in nine cases out of ten. A wooden-handled screw driver is used. It is applied at each spark plug, so that the steel makes a short connection between the top of the spark plug and the cylinder head.

If this act slows up the motor still further, it is a sign that that spark plug is hitting properly, and the search may go on to the next plug. If it then is a matter of taking out the plug, cleaning it thoroughly with gasoline, setting the points so that they will be a thin dime's thickness apart, and replacing it.

If the engine continues to miss, the trouble might be in the distributor. The cables at the casing might be shorted, due to dampness or to the rotting of the insulation. They should be inspected and kept fully insulated from one another.

Sometimes moisture, after a car is washed, gets into the distributor, especially if the casing isn't moisture proof. Mere drying out would correct that fault, but to prevent a recurrence it might be best to pour some sealing wax over the distributor terminals on top.

Otherwise a brush may make poor contact in the distributor or there may be poor contact from rotor spring to center terminal. Tightening may help, but this part may require replacement.

In case of further trouble, especially if missing is irregular, we might look to the compression. If the car doesn't pull well, it seems to be "slopping" along too easily and there is no "feel" of a pull at the wheel, you may be assured the engine's compression is at fault.

That means, generally, the valves need grinding and reset, carbon needs to be scraped and perhaps the pistons require new rings. The last, however, doesn't happen often unless the car isn't oiled regularly and is otherwise abused.

BIG TAX INCREASE

Automobile owners in Alabama paid $14,511,359 in motor taxes during 1929. The tax for 1925 was only $5,850,000, almost two-thirds less than that of last year.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Judith Grant, beautiful village model, shares her Greenwich Village apartment with Chummy Mosley, a lovely girl whose mind has been a blank ever since Alan Steyne, her lover, left her seven years ago. Steyne suddenly returns, but Chummy falls to recognize him. Meanwhile, he and Judith fall in love with each other, and he tells Judith that he never loved Chummy and never realized that Chummy loved him. Then Chummy's memory returns to her and she recognizes Steyne. Steyne, feeling obligated because of her years of suffering, asks her to marry him. Judith meanwhile, has aroused the admiration of Bruce Gideon, rich financier, who offers to send her to a professional dancing instructor and then start her in a musical show. She refuses, at first, then, angered by criticisms which Bastien Dumont, an artist who loves her, makes of her association with Gideon, she writes Gideon and tells him she will accept his offer. He asks her to meet him for lunch the next day.

CHAPTER XIV.

Judy was there a quarter of an hour before the time. She had a purpose, and in her dramatic way, she dressed for it. She put on her oldest clothes. She was so used to the usual, violently made up, like a caricature. She was brought up to such a pitch of excitement that when she was shown into Gideon's great salon she did not recognize it as perhaps the most beautiful room in New York.

It did the millionaire credit that he showed not the slightest surprise at her appearance. He asked her to sit down, and she did so, on an old English day bed, with cushion of dull gold. She was pulling off her gloves and then putting them on again. She was frightfully nervous as she looked into his pale, heavy face.

"I wanted to see you first, Mr. Gideon," she said hurriedly. "I am willing to take this game up, but only if you'll let me keep myself while I'm learning to dance. I can manage that all right. I can't live on you. I expect that this gentleman really thinks I am good, he'll be willing to wait for his fees until I'm ready; so that wouldn't cost anything. I can't take anything from you while I'm learning. I'd rather give the idea up altogether."

"Why, of course, Miss Judy," Gideon answered suavely. "I've been thinking that over myself. I quite understand. You are a most independent young lady; but if you go into your work, won't you be too tired?"

"Lord, no! I can do anything. I'm as strong as a horse."

"As to Guarvenius, I'm sure he'll jump at you. He is an artist, and would not think of money. How, believe me, I admire your independence. Leave me out of it altogether. Fix it up with Guarvenius yourself; but allow me the privilege, when you are ready, of helping you in whatever way I can."

Judy was delighted. She was beginning to warm to the idea. There was adventure in it. This man, who knew so much about money, was ready to help her to succeed on her own merits. He did not want to lay her under any obligations. How ridiculous Bastien had been! It was a perfectly genuine business proposition. He knew she was a dancer, and he knew it, too.

Guarvenius arrived.

He was a small, dapper man, with a delicate, artistic face, slightly feminine and yet strong. He had gray hair, growing back in a shock from his broad forehead, a small high-bridged nose, deep-set, luminous, gray eyes, and a really beautiful mouth, spoiled by a set of discolored teeth—accounted for, no doubt, by the never-absent cigarette. Judy was never at a loss with any man, and the two got on famously. Guarvenius spoke perfect English in a voice with a sad, sympathetic cadence.

The lunch was served in a small, severe, dark-paneled room. It was very frugal. There were more flowers on the table than there was food. There was only water to drink. It was a strictly business-like function but for the flowers, and there were flowers everywhere, all over the great apartment—heavy-scented flowers that sent fumes up into Judy's brain such as no wine could ever do.

"Now, Miss Judy, you must dance," said Gideon, when they had finished coffee. "I will show you the other room—they will have it ready. A friend is coming to play. What would you like him to play?"

He led Judy into another great room with three tall windows overlooking a garden. It was quite bare, with a polished floor. At one end was a raised platform with a full-sized grand piano on it. There was no other furniture. The walls were pale yellow, hung with tapestries.

Judy looked round her. She felt suddenly as if she had never danced in her life. It was a huddled little bundle of misery that looked up at Gideon.

"Oh," she breathed. "Please leave me here for a little while alone, before anybody comes!"

When Gideon had gone out, according to her intention, she stood by one of the tall windows. She took her coat off, but kept her hat on. She looked out on the garden below, but she did not see it. Somehow she seemed to see a picture of a place among gray-green mountains, which she felt sure must be Alan Steyne's little house in Maine. There were fir trees and there was rushing water, and it was all very bleak and wild. A pale sun was shining through a mist. Looking back into the room, the yellow-washed walls, hung with grayish-green tapestries, made her think of that sun.

The door opened, and a tall young man, a foreigner, came in. He bowed very punctiliously. He was dark and thin and quiet-looking.

"I have come to play for you, mademoiselle," he said in broken English. "Is there anything you would like—any ballet suite you are especially fond of?"

Judy shook her head helplessly. Her voice was panic-stricken.

"I don't know anything about music. I know I'm going to be a failure. I don't think I can dance, after all."

"Oh, but, mademoiselle, of course you can dance!" said the young man. "You must not be nervous. M. Guarvenius is so kind. Perhaps you would rather I improvised? Some dancers prefer it. I can follow you better. Will you tell me the theme—shall it be Spanish, Egyptian, Greek, Russian, or—"

"Could you do something Scotch?" Judy asked, trembling with excitement. And then she laughed, because it sounded like whisky. "All gray and green, like this room."

She swept her arm around. She hardly knew herself.

"Ah, that is cold and bleak and dark!" he exclaimed. "I was playing in Glasgow recently, and I went to a tour in the Highlands. Wait!" for a tour in the Highlands. Wait!" for a tour in the Highlands. Wait!"

He went to the piano and struck out a tune, note by note. It was a Highland fling. After that he suggested the skirl of the bagpipes in a few simple notes, and then broke into a lament.

"That will be lovely," said Judy, all tremble. "And could you put some water in, please?"

He nodded. His long, thin hands, hovering a moment over the keys, descended, and there burst upon her strained ears music which, had she been less wretched, she would have known to be drawn from a master brain and played by a master hand.

After a few moments he stopped. The door opened, and Guarvenius and Bruce Gideon came in. They seated themselves on a couple of chairs at the far end of the room.

Judy could not speak or move. She was sure that her feet were made of lead.

The music began. She tried to put one foot out, but could not. She closed her eyes and saw Alan's house again, as she imagined it. The music began to tingle through her. There was nothing for it. She would never do anything if she tried to move by degrees. She clenched her hands and took a wild leap across the room.

She did not know how long she danced. The music got into her blood, into her head, into her feet. She found herself finishing breathlessly in a wild whirl of sheer physical delight.

The music ceased as she stopped dead, her arms flung above her head.

There was no sound in the room.

She trotted to one of the windows and held on to the curtains, swaying and heaving to and fro. The young musician hurried to her side. She took his arm, and he led her toward the two figures, still seated. She felt him trembling a little.

The two other men rose from their seats at the same time. Guarvenius' sad, voice sounded in her ears.

"Some northern country—Scotland, I think and a girl of the hills waiting for her lover and dancing the time away. Mountains and water and fir trees—and at last the sound of the pipes coming over the hills tells her that he is near. Was that it, Miss Judy?"

Judy was transfixed with amazement. Had she really conveyed all that?

Gideon was severely noncommittal as he turned to the great man.

"I think you are not displeased," he said. "Miss Grant has talent, has she not?"

Guarvenius was not a man to express more than a quarter of what he felt.

"Miss Grant certainly has talent," he said. "She ought to do well in the picturesque school."

"I could see everything you said just now," Gideon went on. "Yes, she conveyed exactly the same thing to me, though I couldn't have put it into words. Have you ever been in Scotland, Miss Judy?"

Judy shook her head. She was still dazed.

Guarvenius took her hand and patted it kindly.

"My dear," he said, "if you work hard, you will be a dancer."

She did not know that this was the highest praise he had ever given in his life.

"The music!" she whispered. "It was the music! that did it!"

"Oh, no, mademoiselle!" smiled the young musician.

She felt a little chilled. She feared that she had failed, after all. They were very subdued, these two men.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

Lengthening last year's frock into this summer's creation as illustrated above need not be a perplexing problem.

If you have a little dance gown of chiffon lace, sheer silk or organdy, you need have no difficulty. Make a deep transparent hem, or of many inches as you need, of organdy, net or tulle, in the same shade as the gown or in cream or beige.

If your skirt is quite tight, you may make this hem a deep flounce, of circular cut. Usually a 12-inch pleated hem suffices.

To make your entire frock live up to its new length, try using one of the two following suggestions. First, why not try little puff sleeves of the same material as the hem? If these do not look good on your type, try either a circular collar or a fichu arrangement of the same material as the hem. One or the other of these tricks is sure to work.

INSPECT BACKING AND FRAME OF HAND LUGGAGE

William H. Baldwin

Summer means vacation, and this, in turn, means luggage. Bags and men's suitcases are generally framed with steel, but wood is used to frame women's suitcases because it is lighter. In addition, there are suitcases which depend on fiber or pasteboard of such rigidity and structural strength as they have. At a fair price they will give fair value, but they are not to be confused with well-framed cases.

In addition to the frame-work many types of hand luggage have a foundation for the leather covering. The backing of flexible bags is a heavy canvas in the better grades, and felt in the inferior ones. The more rigid suitcases require a stiffer foundation, which is wood or fiber in the best grades, and cardboard in the poorer ones. Rap on the body of the case. The sound will be clear if wood or fiber has been used; muffled if the backing is of cardboard.

HEALTH

MOTHER'S MILK IS STILL BEST OF ALL FOODS FOR SMALL BABY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The milk of a healthy mother who is receiving an adequate mixed diet contains all the food elements necessary for the nutrition of the infant for the first half year of life.

With this statement, Dr. W. McKim Marriott begins a discussion of the importance of having the infant fed by its own mother, and with this statement he reiterates the view held by the vast majority of physicians. If the infant is fed at reasonable intervals and takes as much as he wants, his energy requirements will be met, and there will be little danger of over or underfeeding.

If reasonable cleanliness is observed, there will be little danger of infection of the infant with harmful bacteria. Human milk is more easily digested by the infant than is unmodified cow's milk. Finally, it is recognized that the milk of the mother helps to supply the infant with certain substances which are of importance in aiding the child to resist disease.

Babies who are fed by their own mothers are usually larger, healthier, and of better disposition than those fed artificially.

Unfortunately, because of a variety of causes, breast feeding is not always successful. The milk of the mother may be inadequate in amount for the infant's need; because of the ill health of the mother, the milk may be of poor quality.

Notwithstanding these facts, the majority of specialists in diseases of children are convinced that it is advisable whenever possible to have the baby nurse from the mother for at least the first few months of life. The nutrition of the infant should not, however, be permitted to suffer because the supply of the milk of the mother is

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Browns have the whooping cough, or the measles, but I'm not going to try to keep Billy away because he has to have those children's diseases sometime and it may as well be now. The sooner the better." Have you ever heard mothers say that?

Now Billy doesn't need to have those diseases, and such a statement from any mother shows a certain ignorance of facts. It shows that she doesn't know that every illness Billy has, seemingly serious or otherwise, takes away just a little bit more of his resistance, makes his organs less efficient, corrodes his nerves and affects his general constitution to such an extent that the sum total of all his illness by the time he reaches manhood will spell his health capital and his life expectancy.

He may seem to recover completely from his long spells of high temperature, and various complications, but anyone who argues that he is better for having had them, or that they are inevitable or inescapable is merely doing a bit of guesswork without any foundation whatsoever. The illness of childhood too often leaves their mark.

I have heard people say that after typhoid fever, for instance, which is now, we know, fast disappearing, a certain person was fatter and better than ever. Yes, apparently, only to have, ten or twenty years later, a gall-bladder infection that comes without any apparent cause but which is really a direct aftermath of the intestinal infection of the old disease. However, that is not classed as a childhood disease. To go back to them—whooping cough, measles, mumps and all the others even with the best of care they are likely to leave an invisible trail behind them.

Isolate a Sick Child

Parents should see that their children are kept from not only other families who are infected with these things, but any other children in the immediate household who may be infected. A sick child should be kept in a room absolutely apart from the others, and the other children kept away from it as far as possible—out of the house entirely if that can be managed.

Parents owe a duty not only to their own children, but to the community. Other children should be protected.

If a child has whooping cough or any other contagious disease and is well enough to be out-of-doors, he should not be allowed to roam over the streets or in other people's yards or sit on steps with other children. They say six weeks is the duration of contagion but that has to be proved. I should give the child with whooping cough a wide berth for a longer period than that if my own children were menaced. The child with whooping cough should not be taken to movies, even. Even one with a severe cold should not be allowed to mingle with other children. It may be only a cold for him, but the germ caught from him, incubating in a less healthy child may develop into an infection that is really serious.

For instance, sore throat may be the beginning of measles, tonsillitis, diphtheria, or scarlet fever. It may be so mild in one child that he is not even put to bed, and the unsuspecting parent will not guess that the innocent-seeming redness and slight indisposition that lasts for a day or two, is really a case of streptococcus or other infection that may spread a disease to another child.

If children are sick, keep them by themselves until they are well. Above all, never deliberately expose a child to any disease, even a mild one. And if your own children are ill, the kindest thing you can do is to send the neighbor's children come over, is to send them home.

Negro 'Othello' Playing Opposite White 'Desdemona' Wins London's Approval

By MILTON BRONNER

London.—Nothing that has happened in years has so excited London's dramatic critics and theatergoers as the appearance of Paul Robeson, American negro, in the title role of Shakespeare's famous tragedy, "Othello," opposite a white girl playing the part of Desdemona.

Robeson made his debut some weeks ago. Since then, London has had time to deliberate and make up its mind—and the result seems to be a highly favorable verdict.

Robeson is one of the first men of his race, if not the first, to play the part. Although Shakespeare spoke of his Othello as "a man of dark skin, critics have argued that he meant a man of Semitic race similar to the Arabs or Moroccans of today, and not a negro. However, the dusky American who performed in the musical comedy stage and in the concert halls has gained him a huge following in London, has established himself as a first-rate Othello.

Here is what the dramatic critic of the Times says:

"Undeniably he plays thrillingly upon the nerves and knocks at the heart. This Othello has the two attributes without which the character would seem to be no more than that of a black man in a passion—tranquil dignity and a melancholy infinitely sad."

Then the papers sent their reporters out to inquire into the thing that struck them as news. In the play Robeson, as Othello, has to kiss a white woman who plays the part of Desdemona. How about it?

Robeson said, perhaps, he would not have been allowed to play the part in certain parts of the United

Peggy Ashcroft and Paul Robeson, principals in "Othello" ... ready for the kiss that made London reporters ask questions.

States. As to the kissing, it was part of the role. He thought no more of it than that.

Miss Peggy Ashcroft, who plays Desdemona, says this:

"Racial prejudices are foolish at the best of times, but I think it positively absurd that they should even come into consideration where acting is concerned. Ever so many people have asked whether I mind being kissed in some of the scenes. It seems to me silly."

"Of course I do not mind. I see no difference in being kissed by Mr. Robeson and being kissed by any other man. It is just necessary to the play."

Trade School Closes Season With Defeat

Despite 8 to 4 Setback at Bridgeport Local Mechanics Had Successful Season With 7 Wins, 4 Losses.

Manchester Trade School traveled to Bridgeport yesterday and played the Bridgeport Trade School in an interesting game but lost by a score of 8 to 4. The Bridgeport team has won all its games this season and was out to keep its slate clean. However only for the loose fielding of the locals the result of this game, might have been much closer.

Manchester outdid their opponents but runs are what count in the old ball game and five of these were thrown away by wild throws and errors. For Manchester Vince contributed two doubles and Sendrowski poked out a triple and single. This winds up the season for the locals and except for a game that is pending with the Faculty. Their record for the season consists of seven wins and four losses out of 11 games played.

STRATTON GETS 4 HITS, TEAM LOSES

Pirates' Latest Addition Celebrates Debut With 3 Singles, Triple; A's Win 4-2.

LEAGUE STANDING table showing Athletics, Pirates, Yankees, and Red Sox.

Ray Holland lost a hard luck game last night to the Athletics 4-2. He struck out 12 men and in the first five innings no ball left the infield while he was pitching.

One run was scored by the A's in the first when Gyp Gustafson walked and was advanced on McCann's infield out. Ambrose then got on through an error by Chapman who fell through in his attempt to bet the ball.

The fourth Fritz Wilkinson beat out an infield hit to O'Leary. The fifth netted another run for the A's when McCann walked and scored on McCann's infield hit after being advanced by Gustafson's sacrifice.

The sixth was disastrous to Holland when Markham hit the first one out of the infield to White at center who became confused and dropped it. Woodbury then came through with the only real hit the A's got. Armstrong was safe on an ordinary fly to White which was misjudged scoring both runners.

Holland then walked McCann and struck out Gustafson retiring the side and ending the game. The Pirates hit Armstrong for eight safeties but could not bunt their scoring but one run in the second on the hits by Stratton and Wiley and two bases on balls issued to Chapman and Vennart. Stratton had scored but there were now three men on with two outs but Raymond whiffed losing a golden opportunity.

In the fourth with two on the same unlucky Joe took three lustrous retiring the side. The other run came in the seventh. This time "Unlucky Joe" got an infield hit via the bunt route but was caught napping at first by baseball's ideal.

RUSSIA'S PROGRESS
Moscow, June 26.-AP-Congress with the opening day of the Sixteenth Congress of the All Union Communist party, the Soviet press prints a long front page review of the achievements of the Bolsheviks since the last meeting of the party two years ago.

The statements say the Communist regime in the two years has made more progress industrially, socially and agriculturally than during the entire preceding decade.

Industrially, asserts the review, Soviet Russia within a short period will catch up with and even surpass the foremost capitalist countries like the United States, this without the aid of foreign loans.

The so-called socialized sector of combined state and collective farms, the review declares, which two years ago produced only two per cent of Russia's agricultural output is producing 50 per cent of the marketable grain yield.

PASSED BAD CHECKS
Stamford, June 26.-AP-Describing himself as the head of a large realty company bearing his name in Jersey City, John Herlihy, 32 Albin Court, Jersey City, is held by the Stamford police on a charge of passing worthless checks. He was picked up by the Norwalk police at the request of the local police, this noon.

While passing through here this morning, he gave a check for $6.90 to a hotel and one for $22.50 at a jewelry store for a wrist watch. The checks were issued on the Eastern Exchange Bank, New York. The jeweler became suspicious after Herlihy left, and telephoned the bank.

Rockefeller "Theater of America" Is A Half-Billion Dollar Project

BY PAUL HARRISON
New York.-They're building the Theater of America here in New York--making a fantastic modern dream into a five-hundred million dollar reality.

Though its tangible form is being set into the heart of Manhattan, you will attend this theater, no matter where you are. You will see and hear the world's finest artists of the concert and theatrical stage, movies, vaudeville, drama and symphony. This will be made possible, of course, by radio television, which is, it seems, much nearer perfection than the average layman has been allowed to guess.

In addition to the mustering of vast sums of money and the paperwork of technical planners, the project has actually been begun. In the chosen area of three square blocks, fronting on Fifth Avenue, workmen are clearing the way--demolishing fine old brownstone homes of a long ago era that never even could have imagined the magnitude and wonder of this center of culture and entertainment.

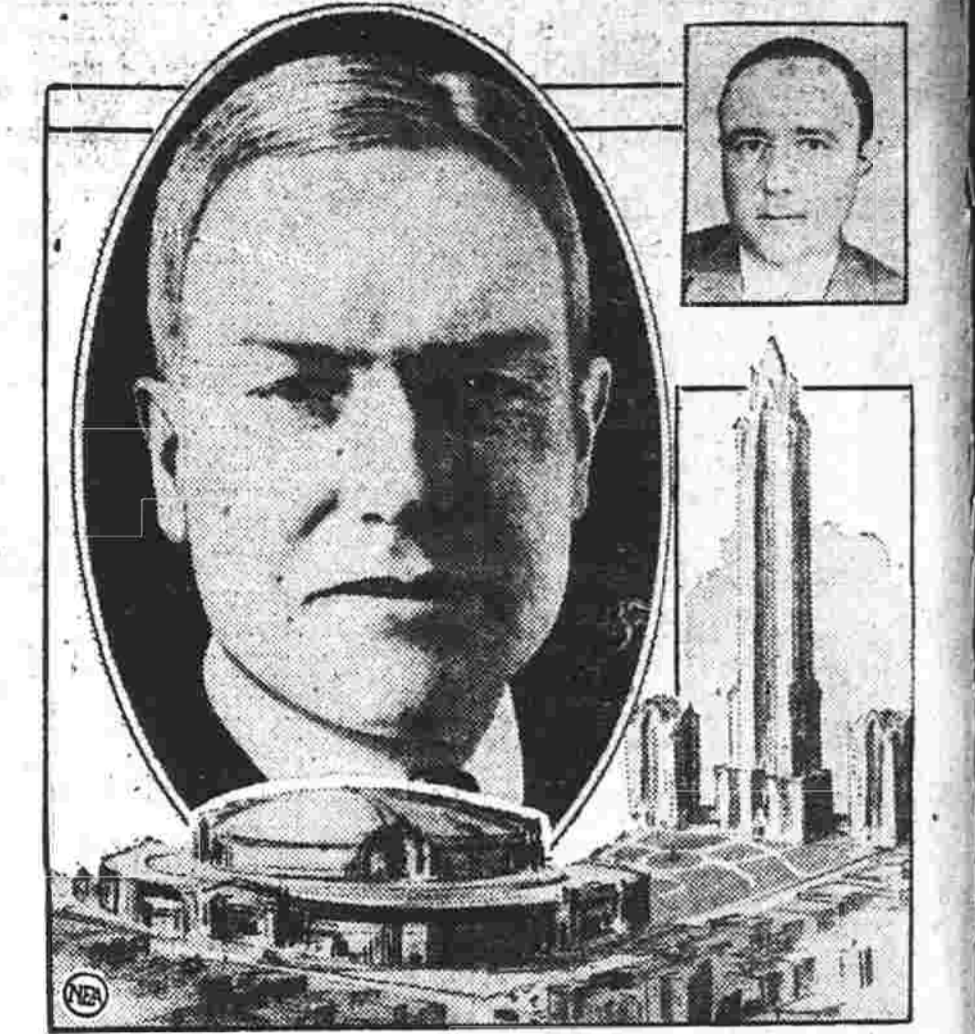

The property, which will contain the buildings, with their four large theaters, 27 broadcast studios, and hundreds of offices, is valued at $250,000,000, and the construction is expected to cost more than an equivalent amount. All of this is being financed by "the Rockefeller heres" allied with such potent names as the Radio Corporation of America, its subsidiary, the National Broadcasting Company, the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, in which the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric Corporations have large holdings, as they also have in RCA.

It was Samuel L. Rothafel, motion picture magnate and radio enthusiast who is known to millions of listeners as "Roxy" who first voiced the dream of a "city" which would bring together all the various forms of electrical entertainment. In a discussion of the future of radio, he told his dream to Owen D. Young, who in turn interpreted the vision to John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Rockefeller, it was known, had been intent on the construction of a vast civic center around the cultural and social traditions of the Metropolitan Opera. But here was a new proposal which, although along similar lines, was quite different--democratic instead of aristocratic, reaching all of America--perhaps most of the world--instead of the relatively insignificant group of opera lovers in a single city. It was a project so new that it had no traditions. But it had enough of a future to win Rockefeller's support.

All the above-named corporations agreed to take office space in the country are the movies and phonograph records," Aylesworth said. "But I do not believe that motion picture houses or any type of theater in other cities will suffer from the perfection of television. People always want to go places, get into crowds. We are confident that if television affects theatrical attendance at all, it will stimulate it."

The architectural unit, as planned, will include three entire blocks with the two intervening streets running in underground boulevards, with a vast additional subterranean area for parking and bus terminals. The central structure will be an oval building of moderate height and great beauty of design. Back of this will be a magnificent garden he said, until it is put within the means of the nation's buyers and can offer clear reproduction of form and action.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., center picture above, is reported to be behind the giant "theater of the future" which is being constructed in New York. Upper right, Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, who will have much to do with the new project.

Regular programs of talking pictures will be put on the air. Musical comedies and drama, personally attended by thousands of New Yorkers in the Rockefeller center, will be witnessed simultaneously by television fans throughout the continent. Important news and sporting events will be seen through the ether. A championship prize fight, for instance, probably can be seen more clearly in Montana ranch houses than from the five-dollar seats in New York's Yankee Stadium.

Broadcasting will continue on the same plan as before," Aylesworth declared. "Any worthwhile service that is big enough will pay for itself. Three years ago, our new 12-story building was called pure folly. But we already have outgrown it and are spending more than $50,000 a day for broadcasting talent."
"We are quite content as long as people will properly maintain and use their receiving sets. This whole enterprise is built for the home, and it should do more to revolutionize home life than anything ever developed."

You and you and you.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word, below--and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS.
(1) At 9 a. m. in New York, it is 2 p. m. in London, instead of bed-time. (2) Time is one hour earlier in each time belt westward, while the Chicago, Kansas City and San Francisco clocks indicate that it's later. (3) There should not be an hour's difference in the Chicago and Kansas City clocks, because they are in the same time belt. (4) The figure "4" on the Chicago clock is different than on the other three clocks. (5) The scrambled word is EVERYONE.

WILLING TO REPAY

London. — Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw had a case to solve which would tax the wisdom of Solomon. A girl wanted to prosecute a young man for stealing a kiss. The offender was willing to put it back where he got it. The girl refused to accept the return. The case was dropped pending law research by Hawkshaw.

So he placed a light near the water at one place on the lake and lighted it at night. Insects flocked to the light, flew into it and fell into the water to be gobbled up by the fish. Now he has a string of lights all around the lake.

London. — After seven years, Victor Roberts, 35, is back in England, after wandering all over the world suffering from a loss of memory. He was riddled with bullets and gas at Gallipoli during the war, and was believed dead. He was found by his brother in Kent, riding a bicycle. The sight of his brother brought back his memory, missing for seven years.

THE TINYMITES

Queer looking Russians drifted in the eating place. Each one would grin at all the happy Tinymites. Some stopped and shook their heads. "Hello," said Clowny. "How are you?" It seemed "the one he spoke to knew just what he said. Then Scouty cried, "Oh, gee! He understands." The Travel Man said, "Sure he does. He understands you well because he's had a fine education. Ask him to join our crowd. I'm sure he'd like to sit right here and 'twill be nice to have him near. To eat with one real native man should make you feel proud." So Scouty said, "Please have a seat. We'll buy your lunch. This is our treat. Then you can tell us heaps of things 'bout Russia we don't know." "Well, this is fine," replied the man. "I'll gladly tell you all I can.
