

HUSTON AGAIN DEFEATS FOES; RETAINS POST

Tells Press He Will Make A Statement After Senate Adjourns — Moves Fail To Have Him Resign Post.

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Turning back his party foes for a second time, Claudius Huston has given word he will announce his status as chairman of the Republican National commission in his own time—after Senate adjourns. This was the declaration he made late yesterday to officers of the National committee who announced before they went into session that his resignation must be forthcoming. His statement that "what I have to say on that subject will be withheld until after the adjournment of the Senate, was accepted by the Republican chieftains and they immediately interpreted it as meaning he then would announce his resignation. Made No Promises. But Mr. Huston emphasized later to newspapermen that "I have made no promises" and warned them to make interpretations "on your own responsibility." Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer, and James F. Burke, counsel, heard Huston's words to the newspapermen and they did not challenge him. They are among those asking for his retirement. Twice now Mr. Huston has told Republican leaders he will not quit under fire. They are beginning to

ODD EXPERIMENT PROVES SUCCESS

Workers Without Cash Now Control a Million Dollar Business.

Indianapolis, July 11.—(AP)—In celebration of the thirteenth anniversary of a socialistic experiment in business management, employees of the Columbia Conserve Company today took over 51 per cent of the stock of this company which last year did $1,600,000 worth of business. The 150 employees through their stock ownership were placed in a position whereby they might discharge the company president, William P. Haggood. The president said he would remain at the head of the company only so long as his co-workers desired. Unusual Contract. Haggood and his two brothers, Norman and Hutchins, inherited the plant in 1917. They made a contract with their employees as a group for purchase of the business by a retirement of the common stock from profits. This was consummated today and eventually the Haggood brothers expect that 100 per cent of the stock will be held by the workers. All workers' stock is held, however, by the employees as a group and no employee can hand down the stock to his heirs. There are many unusual features in the operation of the plant. Wages are based on the needs of the worker. A married man receives 10 per cent higher wages than a single man and he gets $2 a week more for each child up to the limit of three children. A weekly council is held by the employees at which plant policies are discussed. A janitor may criticize a program proposed by the President and upon a vote of the workers the program may be rejected. An employee may only be discharged by a council of his co-workers. The plant has no "bosses." There are "leaders" who may give directions. The president is the father of Powers Haggood, whose militant methods while a member of the United Mine Workers brought him into conflict with authorities in Pennsylvania. Norman Haggood, brother of the president, is prominent in magazine editorial work.

SABINE UNMARRIED

New Haven, July 11.—(AP)—Leonardo Sabine, 25, flying instructor at the Hamden Airport who was killed last night with Myron L. Bennett, 27, student pilot, narrowly escaped serious injury the day before at his home field. Sabine brought his plane to earth at the Hamden port in the severe electrical storm of Wednesday and he and a student flier, Roy Baker, had just stepped out when the ship was overturned by a sharp gust of wind. The two men left Hamden at 5:30 p. m. yesterday for a three day visit at the home of Sabine's parents. Bennett was survived by his wife and two children. Sabine was unmarried.

EARL CARROLL A GAIN IN COURT

Earl Carroll, producer of Broadway's annual "Varieties," here is shown in the third revival of his famous court room scene surrounded by fully dressed members of his cast as he appears to answer charges of staging an "indecent show." Left to right in the front row are Faith Bacon, who danced in a couple of ostrich fans, Earl Carroll, Naomi Ray and Eileen Wenzel, the latter pair, with six others, having been "models" in the act that brought police action against the show.

N. Y. Frowns on Beauty Displayed Too Well

By GILBERT SWAN NEA Service Writer. New York, July 11.—Police Captain James Coy, Broadway's most recent man wilder, is going to continue to disagree with Producer Earl Carroll, or anyone else for that matter, on the definition of "sophisticated entertainment." Broadway, as he'll point out on the map, is quite a long walk from the Mount Marle, and the ways of the Moulin Rouge are not, at least yet, for Forty-Second Street. A cop who rears the theater belt protecting the theater-goers from unnecessary vulgarity may not represent the last word in "sophistication," but he knows "dirty stuff" when he sees it. Third Time in Court. Wherefore Carroll, who now breaks Mae West's record for court appearances, sighs frequently, and wears the hurt look of one who is perennially misunderstood. He speaks of the "display of beauty" and the appreciation of true art. But Coy counters with the commentary that his raid was staged less for the nude than for the crude. It is item No. 12 in the

SIXTY ARE HURT IN BOMBAY RIOTS

Serious Disorders Reported; Troops Are Rushed to the Scene of Trouble. Bombay, India, July 11.—(AP)—Disorders of a serious nature broke out along the Malabar Esplanade this evening in which 60 civil disobedience volunteers were injured when the police forcibly broke up a demonstration in sympathy with soldiers imprisoned for offenses in Peshawar. The Nationalist demonstrations thronged into the esplanade from every direction by prearrangement. The demonstration had been forbidden by the authorities and large forces of native police and militia were on guard. British troops waited near the scene in case the riots got out of the hands of the police. Leader Injured. One of the injured was Mr. Modi, president of the Bombay congress committee, who led one of the long lines of marchers. At six o'clock this evening the Gandhi followers still were arriving in the Malabar and preparations were made to extend the zone of protesting. The procession, which included 50 Sikh volunteers, was stopped by the police at the edge of the esplanade and the marchers ordered to disperse. As usual, they refused. The police charged. With their staves they knocked down great numbers of the volunteers. Many were taken to hospitals. Some simply sat on the street and refused to budge.

TREASURY BALANCE Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for July 9 were $5,976,496.04; expenditures, $24,328,373.59; balance, $260,167,355.22.

Flag Taken As Death Sign Afghanistan Changes It

Calcutta, Bengal, July 11.—(AP)—The touch of black in the new flag is meant to convey the idea that Afghanistan for ages was held within the grip of darkness. The bright-red band denotes the revolution into which the country was plunged after having emerged from the darkness, while the white crescent for peace and prosperity of the nation. The message in center is designed to show that Afghanistan has achieved its present peace through the grace of God and shall remain under the shadow of His protection.

VON BERNHARDI DIES IN BERLIN; PREDICTED WAR

In 1912 He Wrote Article With Many Details, Forecasting World Conflict, All of Which Proved Correct.

Berlin, July 11.—(AP)—General Friedrich von Bernhardi, who led the Imperial Army both in victory and defeat, died here yesterday at the age of 81. In the war of 1870 General von Bernhardi was the first German officer to enter Paris after its fall. In 1912 he wrote a newspaper article predicting with considerable detail, which afterward proved correct, an Anglo-German war. He was an early advocate of the use of asphyxiating gases, and before the end of the war was recognized as one of the premier generals of the Imperial Army.

General von Bernhardi was born November 22, 1849, at St. Petersburg, the son of the Count Soller of the Prussian Legation. Schooled in Germany for a military career, he even as a young man came into the limelight. He was in the forefront of troops entering Paris in 1871, and boldly leaped over the chained barrier the French had stretched across the entrance to the Triumphal Arch, waiting there alone for the rest of the Prussian Army.

Was an Author. He was best known to Americans through his book, "Germany and the Next War," which was widely read and cited against Germany during the allied countries during the World War. He made himself unpopular in prewar days in Germany by continually harping in his writing on "unpreparedness" of Germany for an inevitable European war. Although the Kaiser was not inclined to look to him for advice, and his military superiors resented his persistent public advocacy of his own ideas about "preventative war," the ironic outcome was that in the allied countries after this outbreak of the war he quickly achieved the legendary stature of the guiding military mind largely responsible for German entry into the conflict.

FARM BOARD SAVES MILLIONS ON FOOD

To Inform Public Every Time Cut in Prices Can Be Expected. Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Figuring it has saved consumers $38,000,000 a month in the retail price of meat and increased profits of the Farm Board has decided to inform the public whenever it believes conditions warrant a cut in the retail price of agricultural products. C. C. Teague, board member representing fruit and vegetables, says today that while no definite price had been established he had no doubt the board would issue statements in regard to retail prices whenever the opportunity arose to benefit the general public. Teague's statement followed reports of a drastic cut in the retail price of beef since June 26 when C. B. Denman, representing live stock on the board announced that as a result of the decline in wholesale and live weight price the consumer should find current prices of beef considerably lower. Within ten days the Retail Meat Dealer's Association had a cut of 10 percent on good beef and 20 percent on common grades.

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Is one hungry American the equal of five hungry Chinese? On that depends whether Captain George Fried of the United States liner America or Captain A. B. The swindle, having Hamburg for New York, Captain Randall discovered he was harboring five extremely hungry Chinese stowaways, while about the same time Captain Fried learned he had an equally

HALE SCORES STIMSON IN ATTACK ON TREATY

Archduke of Austria Is Placed In Prison

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Archduke Leopold of Austria, indicted in April for grand larceny in connection with the sale of the $450,000 Napoleon diamond necklace which belonged to his aunt, the Archduchess Marie Theres, surrendered his $7,500-bail today and was placed in Tombs prison. The archduke presented himself to the court, his attorney said, because he desires an immediate trial. He is required to return at once to Austria to look after matters arising from the death of his brother, Archduke Raimir, he said. His attorney assured the court that Leopold regarded himself as innocent. He was indicted with Col. and Mrs. Charles Townsend, the former an Englishman. The Townsends have not been arrested. The necklace was presented by Napoleon to his Empress, the Hapsburg Maria Louisa, and the birth of their son, the Duke of Reichstag. It has since remained in possession of the Hapsburg family. It is now the property of the aged Archduchess Maria Theres, who lives in Vienna, and has been returned to her.

Navy Now Only a Trading Asset, He Says — Secretary Must Get Treaty Even At Sacrifice of National Security, He Declares—Bare Quorum of Senators Present At Today's Session.

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Amidst expectation of a refusal from President Hoover of its request for the confidential documents about the naval conference, the Senate today heard the treaty negotiations at London denounced today by Senator Hale. Mr. Hoover and Secretary Stimson discussed the situation caused by the call for the papers. They do not consider publication of the material to be in the public interest, and a quick reply to the Senate to that effect was being looked for. Pending a settlement of that difference between the White House and the Senate, debate on the pact and the renewed opposition of Senator Hale. The Maine Senator, who heads the naval committee, contended ratification would prove the United States was incapable of looking after its own interests. His Long Speech. His long prepared speech given Tuesday by Senator Swanson, of Virginia, who saw good where Hale saw evil in the pact. Again the galleries were filled. "For the third day, a bare quorum of 49 senators has been present two days to express his opposition. He spoke slowly. "The British by the terms of this treaty," he said, "have us hamstringed and hog tied, and there they will keep us tied, as limits on our armaments are the order of the day." Accusing Secretary Stimson of an unwarranted attack on naval officers who oppose the treaty, Hale said: "The Navy has become little more than a trading asset, armed with rich the secretary of state may ride forth to win his spurs. A treaty he must bring home. If to get that treaty a sacrifice of national security is necessary that is a trivial matter." Hale said Stimson "tells us" that the criticisms of naval officers "should not prevail against the treaty because they are fighting men." "They are fighting men," he continued. "They understand the problems of war, and they realize that what the security of state calls the preventative measures of international relations which are intended to make war less likely, may or may not operate successfully. "The Navy does not desire to prevent such measures, but it does wish to provide, in case such measures do not operate successfully when war does come that the national defense shall not be threatened. "The trouble with the secretary of state is that he goes ahead against the experience of history in the blind belief and confidence that the preventative measures referred to will not fail and he sees no necessity for adequate provisions for the national defense in case of failure, because he can see no possibility of failure. With him the security of an international agreement is wholly important." While Hale directed this attack on the secretary of state, Mr. Stimson was at the Capitol conferring with Senators Robinson of Arkansas and Reed of Pennsylvania, members of the delegation.

HOOVER REFUSES SENATE REQUEST

Will Not Give Up Secret Documents On London Sea Parley.

Frank Reichelino, 43, was killed. Those injured were Thomas Lynch, 54, section foreman; Thomas O'Brien, 32; Harold Chandler, and Stanley Kalwansky. All lived in Webster, Mass.

ALLEGED PRIEST HELD BY POLICE

Was Trying to Borrow Money On Stolen Bonds in New York—His Story. New York, July 11.—(AP)—A man who said he was a suspended Catholic priest was confronted today with charges of possessing bonds stolen in an $89,000 robbery in Philadelphia in 1927. The man, Joseph Legnani, 49, and a detective arrested him yesterday in a downtown suit office when he attempted to borrow money on some of the bonds. Employees of the surety firm noticed that the securities were listed on their records as stolen. In Clerical Garb. Dressed in clerical garb, but not that of the church he had been served, Legnani explained that while riding from Auburn Park, N. Y., to New York nine months ago he fell into conversation with a fellow passenger who said he was a Catholic and offered to make a donation to the priest's church. He said they exchanged addresses

LEADERS FALTER IN GOLF OPEN

Armour, Smith, Hagen Got Away To Poor Start; Shave Hits 72. Interlachen Club, Minneapolis, July 11.—(AP)—With a number of the stars staggering and others fading to the fringe of the picture altogether, the second round of the battle for the National Open championship today found the leading players a break wide as well as the heat. The big field got well under way, temporary leadership was held by a youthful Cleveland pro, Ben Shaws, who stepped out early to shoot a 72, even par, and post a 36-hole total of 144. Two veterans of the golf were Al Hultgren and Gene Sarazen, each blew up on the opening hole after good starts. They finished with 76 apiece and 28-hole rounds of 154 that left them 100 holes behind in the final 36 holes.

REJECT APPLICANTS

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Rejection of applications for five Boulder canyon electric generating plants, which would provide 4,070,000 horsepower, was announced today by the Federal Power Commission. The applications were for preliminary permits to establish the feasibility of the projects, all in Arizona, and were rejected, officials said, because they would conflict with Boulder dam.

REJECT APPLICANTS

The cancelled applications were: City of Los Angeles, 300,000 horsepower; Southern California Edison Company, 1,200,000 horsepower; G. Henry Station, 1,600,000 horsepower and two others by James H. Gilman and the board of directors of Arizona state institutions. The aggregate proposed was 4,070,000 horsepower, which would now in operation under the jurisdiction of the commission, produce about 2,200,000 horsepower.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR MAY BE EXTRADITED

Edward W. Smith, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., Faces Serious Charge in Tolland.

A finding of criminal negligence on the part of Edward W. Smith, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., after had been fined in Andover justice court for reckless driving, both charges growing out of the accident on the Willimantic-Manchester road at Andover, on May 26, in which Vincent Ginkus, Jr., of Worcester, Mass., sustained injuries resulting in his death at the Manchester Memorial hospital a week later, may bring about Smith's extradition from New York state to face the more serious charge which has been preferred against him.

The finding by Coroner J. Gilbert Calhoun of Hartford county was announced yesterday afternoon and the matter will be referred immediately to State's Attorney Thomas F. Noone of Tolland county by State Police Lieutenant Russell I. Harmon of the Stafford Springs Barracks, all evidence being in possession of the State Police.

Smith, who was driving the car when it left the road at Andover, near the former John H. Cheney farm, and overturned, throwing Ginkus with considerable force to the macadam highway, was arrested on a charge of operating recklessly and while under the influence of liquor. He and another passenger, William Mertens, escaped without injury and took Ginkus to the local hospital where he lingered a week, dying Monday morning, June 2.

Presented before Justice of the Peace Ruth Benton of Andover, June 16, a nolle was entered on the charge of reckless driving and Smith pleaded guilty and consented to the charge of reckless driving. Justice Benton fined him $50 and costs after which Smith was allowed to return to his home in New York.

Although the accident took place in Andover, Ginkus died in Manchester and this automatically brought the case to the attention of Coroner Calhoun who examined witnesses at a hearing in Hartford.

According to State's Attorney Noone the case has not yet been brought to his attention officially, but he understood that it would be for him to determine, after examining the evidence, whether extradition proceedings should be instituted on the more serious charge. The action of the justice court, he said, does not make final determination of the case when the offense is one that may involve a state's prison sentence.

Although he characterized the procedure of the justice court in disposing of the case while a coroner's investigation was still in progress as "unusual," Mr. Noone explained that the court acted within its rights. A coroner's finding, he said, is advisory and does not require action by the courts.

Surprise at the coroner's finding was expressed by Grand Juror Clifton Ketchum of Andover, who prosecuted the case against Smith. Coroner Calhoun, said Ketchum, had told him to go ahead with the case without waiting for the result of the inquest. Mr. Ketchum said that he had interviewed Manchester police, the medical examiner who viewed the body of Ginkus, the house physician at the Memorial hospital, who examined Smith and the sheriff who was at the scene of the accident, before the hearing in Andover.

Manchester police and the hospital doctor, he said, were willing to testify that Smith was not under the influence of liquor. It was in view of these statements, he said, that he had asked for a nolle on the drunken driving charge. Justice of the Peace Benton refused to discuss the case at her home in Andover last night beyond a statement that she saw no necessity for further action on the part of Andover authorities.

SEEKING RECRUITS FOR GUARD UNITS

Want "G" and Howitzer Units Filled Before Camp Three Weeks Hence.

With the summer training period of camp for all units of the Connecticut National Guard but these weeks away, an increase in recruiting has already been noticed. Both local companies, Co. G and the Howitzer company of the 160th Infantry are still a few men short of the required camp strength, and both Captain Russell B. Hathaway and Captain James McVeigh are anxious to fill the ranks of their respective companies for the summer maneuvers at Camp Devens, Ayer, Massachusetts.

Camp opens this year August 2 and continues for 14 days. Both local companies will be quartered in the same barracks, the men eating in one big mess hall and the 125 local men will enjoy for the first time the military comradeship that is always to be found under one roof.

There are many men in the local companies who are going to camp for the first time this year. These younger men, as well as the older soldiers, always look forward to the many attractions of camp life that fits in very nicely as a summer vacation to those who would otherwise be denied one. First off, there is the mornings of drill and police work around camp that is never irksome, especially to those that have a pride in keeping their quarters and grounds in a clean, sanitary condition.

The boys who are looking forward to the pleasures of camp life with all its color, music and military aspects so appealing to the youth of today, or boys in past years, and the bulging mess funds, money that the boys of each company have set aside for the camp rations, indicates that many a fine meal comparable to hotel fare will be arrayed on the mess tables up Camp Devens way during the early weeks of August.

FOUR CENT SLAYER IS FOUND GUILTY

To Be Sentenced Next Tuesday - Killed Man In Fight Over Few Pennies.

New Haven, July 11.—(AP)—A jury in Superior Court today found Anthony Manganello, 36, guilty of murder in the second degree for the slaying two years ago of Giovanni Cirillo, a neighborhood storekeeper, in a quarrel over four cents change.

Manganello, the state charged, became enraged when Cirillo refused to refund four cents to the former's daughter who had gone into the store to buy candy with a nickel.

Dinner—Cottage cheese, baked ground beets. Salad of stuffed celery. Baked peaches with whipped cream.
- Turnip and Tomato Souffle: To a cup ally and a half each of mashed turnips and tomatoes which have cooked down low until there is no excess amount of liquid, add a half cup of rich milk and the yolks of two eggs. Mix all together and fold in the beaten egg whites. Turn into a shallow baking dish and sprinkle with Melba toast crumbs. Bake in moderate oven for about thirty minutes. Add a generous lump of butter to each portion as served.

continues to be benefited after the skin has become quite brown.
Answer: The air of the morning about ten to twelve o'clock is fresher and has not become so heated by the sun's rays and still it seems that there is about as much ultraviolet effect at this time as later on in the day when the heat rays seem to accumulate. You will continue to be benefited from these sunbaths even though the skin becomes brown and although it takes an increasingly longer exposure to get the same effect upon the blood.

(Bananas)
Question:—O. J. H. asks: "Will you give me the right method of combining bananas with other foods?"
Answer: Bananas should be used as a starchy food and so combine well with the non-starchy vegetables. The best way to use bananas is baked. Then use two or three as the principle part of a meal adding any of the cooked and raw greens.

(Cannot Smell)
Question:—S. J. S. writes: "I have lost my sense of smell. Kindly advise if there is any remedy."
Answer: The principal cause of a loss of the sense of smell is from the effect of nasal catarrh. Even with cases of long standing it is often possible to bring about a cure of this trouble through the cure of catarrh, which can be accomplished almost entirely by dietetic measures.

DOCTORS DISAGREE

New Britain, July 11.—(AP)—After one doctor pronounced Eugene F. Sullivan of Hartford unfit to operate a motor vehicle because of indulgence in alcoholic liquor two other doctors declared that he was fit to drive, following his arrest in Newington early this morning. Two police officials who observed his condition at the local headquarters to which he was brought by Constable Walsh of Newington corroborated the two physicians and said they would be willing to go to court as witnesses for Sullivan. The man was arrested at the Hartford-Berlin Turnpike at 12:30 a. m. on complaint of another driver, who said Sullivan's auto had zig-zagged for 13 miles. He will have a hearing tonight.

WOULD MERGE STATIONS

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company today applied to the Radio Commission for a modification of the construction permit for Station WBZ at East Springfield, Mass., and to change its type of equipment, increasing power from 15,000 watts to 50,000 watts on 990 kilocycles.
Recently WBZ and WEBA at Boston, also operated by Westinghouse, applied to consolidate these stations. Permission was sought to erect a 50,000 watt transmitter midway between the two cities.
For years, it was said at the commission, these two stations have been synchronizing their programs. There was speculation today, however, as to whether this method of broadcasting was to be abandoned.

KIDNAP INFORMER

Providence, July 11.—(AP)—Kidnaped in Boston yesterday and tossed from an automobile in Warwick, R. I. last night because, he said, he was an informer for police in the Fifth Precinct, Boston, Andrew Cole, 18, of 549 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, is in the Rhode Island hospital suffering from injuries to his back and abdomen. His condition is not serious.

WAR SETTLEMENTS EUROPE'S TROUBLE

That Is Gist of Answers To France's Plan of a New Federation.

Paris, July 11.—(AP)—Disatisfaction of European countries with their war settlements and determination that nothing must impair the League of Nations authority today became evident as the outstanding reactions to France's proposal for a United States of Europe.

With replies sent or on the way from half of the 26 nations asked by Foreign Minister Briand to participate in discussions for a federation of European states, the French government today announced that it considered the progress of negotiations "quite satisfactory."

M. Briand made it known today that he expected every invited nation's response to be in the hands of the foreign office by July 15 and that he would be in a position to make a full report for the League of Nations meeting in September.

No insurmountable obstacles have been raised by any responding government, it was remarked in official circles today. Such objections as have been mentioned in replies already received, it was argued, always have been known to exist. In fact, it was because there are such difficulties that France undertook the plan of a federation of nations and for that reason M. Briand proceeded slowly and carefully in launching the idea, outlining the idea first and leaving details to the future.

POLAND'S REPLY
Warsaw, July 11.—(AP)—The Polish government's reply to Briand's memorandum on a Pan-European Union was handed today to the French charge d'affaires. It is an endorsement of Briand's "noble and generous idea."

In consideration of the fact that the problem proposed by the French foreign minister requires deep study, the Polish government replied briefly and refrained from detailed suggestions.

The non-aggressive character of the proposed union, however, was stressed.

ROCKVILLE

Driver Found Responsible
John Kashady of the Ogden Center-section, driver of the automobile which was involved in the fatal accident near Stafford Springs last week when George Avery, 25, of this city was killed, is held "negligent and careless" by Coroner John M. Yeomans of Andover and Hartford in his finding which was completed Thursday. Kashady it is expected will be held over for the September term of the Superior Court, when his case comes before the Stafford Borough Court within a few days.

The other accident happened in Andover a few weeks ago in which Vincent Ginkas of Worcester, Mass., was fatally injured by an auto driven by Edward W. Smith, Jr. of 1083 E. 55th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. As the man died in Manchester the Hartford Coroner had to make the inquest. In his finding he says Smith was responsible.

Legion Wins Bag of Gold
The Bag of Gold Contest which has been of much interest for the past few weeks among three local organizations, ended tonight, with the American Legion ahead with 68,801,000 arrows, the Vernon Grange second with 15,680,750 arrows and the Juvenile Foresters third with 12,124,500 arrows. The first prize was $175, second $100 and the third $25. This contest was conducted by several local merchants.

K. of P. Joint Installation
Following a short meeting in Forester's Hall on Wednesday evening, Damon Lodge officers and several members went to South Manchester, where they held a joint installation with Linne Lodge in Orange Hall. Deputy Arthur Friedrich of this city and Deputy Herbert Johnson of Linne Lodge were in charge of the installation.

Local officers installed were: Chancellor Commander, Frank Mehr, Jr.; vice chancellor, Edward Lehmitt; master of work, Eldred Doyle; prelate, Harry Morganson; master of arms, Dr. Arthur Pillsbury; inside guard, Henry Gakeler; outside guard, George Schelner; trustee for one year, William R. Dowding; two years, Julius Busch; three years, Paul Weber; representatives to the Grand Lodge, Bert Schuy and Rudolph Schmelzer; alternates, Hector Blair and Raymond Schrupp; keeper of records and seals, Arthur Friedrich; master of finance, Oscar Schubert; master of exchequer, Ernest Reutgen.

The Rockville Fife and Drum Corps plan to go to Brooklyn, N. Y., on Saturday, July 19, where they will attend the New York State Fifers and Drummers Convention. They will take part in the mass playing by all Ancient Corps of Connecticut. The corps will make the trip by bus, leaving in the morning of the event at 4 a. m. They will make the return trip on Sunday.

C. E. Union Summer Series
The first of the summer meetings of the Christian Endeavor Union was held in Coventry last evening and about seventy-five young people from this city, Coventry and other towns about 1000 young people. The C. E. president Lester Hill presided and a very interesting meeting was held. Mrs. Ernest Gowdy and Mrs. Arthur Weston were heard in several vocal duets. Rev. Edward L. Wood of this city was the pastor of the evening and he had as his subject "Worthy Friends."

A social hour followed at the Community House, when games were played and refreshments served. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 23, at the United Congregational Church, where, in this city, when a lawn party will be held.

Automobile Accident
Harry J. Hancock of 22 North Wilmington street, New Britain was slightly injured in an accident at Dobsonville on Wednesday night about 5:50, when the automobile he was driving collided with a trolley car. In applying his brakes the car skidded and in order to avoid hitting another car he turned into the trolley. His nose was injured and he was attended by Dr. J. H. Fishery. The car was also somewhat damaged.

Emblem Club Outing
At the meeting of the Rockville Emblem Club held on Wednesday it was voted to hold the annual outing at the home of Mrs. William Reeves of Broad Brook. A dinner will be served to the guests at 12:30 and during the afternoon games and cards will be played.

The meetings of the Emblem Club have adjourned until Wednesday September 10.

Reappointed Deputy
Lewis H. Chapman of this city had been reappointed District Deputy Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus. Four Councils are under his supervision, Rockville, Stafford, Wilmantic and Baltic.

Blaise Farese
Blaise Farese, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Saviour Farese of 61 Mountain street, died suddenly at his home on Wednesday evening at 8:30. He had been in ill health for some time, and before his illness was employed in the finishing room of the Regan Mfg. Co.

Blaise Farese was born in Marselles, France, in the year 1909, and came to this country when he was five years of age. He attended the local public schools and was a graduate of the East District Grammar grade. The young man was a member of St. Bernard's church where he is sure to be missed.

Besides his father and mother Blaise Farese leaves one sister Minnie and a brother Victor.

The funeral will be held from St. Bernard's Catholic Church on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, with burial in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Notes
Word has been received in this city of the death of Miss Emma Kress of Brooklyn, N. Y. She had lived in Rockville for many years, leaving here about ten years ago. The funeral was held at Grove Hill cemetery today at noon.

Mrs. Fred Forster of Bridgeport was a Rockville visitor the past few days at the home of her son Raymond Forster of Cedar street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of New York were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller of New York for the past few days.

The Bookman Will respond on Monday after a shut-down of ten days.

Miss Helen Carney of High street is spending this week at North Woodstock, N. H.

WOULD RAISE POSTAGE
Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Convinced that an increase in postage rates is the only feasible way of lifting the world's biggest public utility "out of the red", postal officials are preparing to press their advocacy of a higher charge for carrying first class mail.

When Postmaster General Brown submits his annual report to Congress in December, the enactment of legislation authorizing the increase is to be his most urgent recommendation. The postmaster believes a rate of 2 1-2 cents an ounce on first-class mail would balance the department's budget for the present. Last year's postal deficit amounted to $20,000,000, and Assistant Postmaster General Tilton estimates it will run over $60,000,000 this year.

DROUGHT IN SOUTH
DAMAGING CROPS
Atlanta, July 11.—(AP)—A drought in northwest Georgia and severe crop damage in Kentucky were chargeable today to the south's latest heat wave, which reached its new high level yesterday.

In addition to the blistering temperatures, the elements loosed a hailstorm which laid low crops in a 25 square mile area in Cumberland county, North Carolina. Near Dillsboro, La., two children were killed and a girl blinded by lightning, while two negroes were killed and six others injured when lightning ignited a charge of dynamite at Lewisburg, Tenn. A windstorm swept Nashville, Tenn., felling trees.

The only death directly attributable to the heat was that of a negro in Arkansas. In that state Stuttgart reported the south's highest temperature 108 1/2 degrees or one-half degree higher than the reading at Columbia, Miss. Elicman, Kentucky's unofficial reading was 110.

Birmingham, Ala., had 105 and Augusta, Ga., Helena, Ark., and Montgomery, Ala., 104 each. Atlanta recorded a new high for the year 99.7 degrees.

ROAD COSTS

Professor Albert Levitt continues to go off half cocked in his personally conducted campaign for free publicity. Like all of his ilk he mouths generalities and avoids specific statements that clarify and make apparent the intent of a man to be strictly honest. Here and there throughout the state the Professor roams, spouting his charges that Connecticut is paying more for state highways per mile than any other state in the Union. By such extravagance, he charges, not only is the dear public being robbed but someone is feathering his nest. It's an old gag of the typical spell-binder, this continuous play upon generalities. It requires little work to find in some assortment of federal governments the figures given as the cost of building state highways by the mile. It is elementary for anyone to take those figures and recite them before some organization with the perfectly plain comparison that it costs, as the figures show, so much to build a mile of state highway in Connecticut and so much less to build a mile in New York or Florida or Arkansas.

Anyone not a professor can do that and even convince the careless listener that figures cannot lie. But the man who wants to be honest with himself; who really wants to present his cause fairly; who has no axe to grind, goes farther than generalities. But not Professor Levitt. Nothing specific is to be found in the diet he is feeding to all who will listen—and not bother to confirm. Were he to get outside of generalities he would be forced to retire promptly from his chosen field or acknowledge his dense ignorance of the subject of state highway construction.

The professor has been telling women's clubs, men's clubs and any other organizations that would give him a hearing that Connecticut is being robbed by the payment of excessive costs for its state highways. He presents his table of facts and figures to prove, he hopes, to the rest of us that he has discovered something rotten in Denmark. He points to the figures to prove that every mile of state highway we construct under, our plan of building real highways for actual use; highways that will not need rebuilding next year or ten years hence.

He stops there. He does not dare go into details for he would have no case. He does not dare to show the difference in the quality of the highways Connecticut is building with those built in other states with which he makes his comparisons. If he did he would be forced to retire.

We have been unable to find it in print anywhere that he has made it clear, or even hinted, that the state of Connecticut insists upon the highest specifications of any state in the entire union of states for its highways. No, indeed, he does not mention that. Where would he get off were he to do so?

Nowhere have we seen a comparison made by him of the cost of constructing Connecticut's main highways of 36 feet in width with the construction cost of the main highways of other states where the accepted and required width is selected, if ever, more than 30 feet and more generally 24. Of course he hasn't shown that. It would account for what he terms the "excessive cost." It is better for his purpose to stick to the cost per mile. It would spoil his case to show that his "excessive cost" would be found in the almost double width of the Connecticut roads.

We have seen no published report of his tirades where he has made a comparison of the costs on a unit basis. He has not told his auditors how much a cubic yard of excavation costs in Connecticut and compared it with a similar unit cost in any other state. He has not told us how much concrete costs in Connecticut and how much it costs in other states. It would be embarrassing to do so.

Professor Levitt has never, so far as we have been able to discover, made a comparison of the cost of a Connecticut road, 36 feet in width, made of reinforced concrete nine inches thick with a similar road, if there are any, in other states, or with the cost of a road somewhere else that is only 18 feet in width and made of trap rock and asphalt. It is not difficult to see why he has not.

When he does, we shall see it.

THE BILLBOARD OFFENSIVE

When the billboard disgrace has finally been removed from the countryside the credit primarily will have to go to the women's clubs of the country. Man is quite prone to ridicule the club woman. But she has one quality, that of sticking persistently to her course until something happens. Probably she learned it in getting Friend Husband to put up that shelf or buy the latest model car. At any rate she has a persistence that is beginning to tell.

Fortified with the knowledge that big advertisers who keep close tabs on results acknowledge that only a very small percentage of traceable returns are due to billboards, and better organized and more enthusiastic than a few years ago, the club woman has made the billboard scenery one of her principal objectives.

She has made a decided impression on the movies by her activities. Producers and exhibitors have come to regard her opinion as worth considerable in the box office, which is what counts with them. In one small city the men who control the two movie houses invite the motion picture advisor of the Woman's club to preview their pictures. They capitulate that in their advertising, telling their public that the picture meets with the approval of the representative of the Woman's club. There are times when this is not the case. Those pictures are not shown. Unless the advertising of the picture carries the approval of the Woman's club, showing a picture does not pay in that city. That's something for other women's clubs and film exhibitors to think over.

Just as steadily and surely have the women been making inroads against the billboards. The Connecticut State Federation recently adopted a resolution against them. The clubs are heartened and are increasing their offensive as a result. Candidates for the Legislature this fall will do well to look into the matter a bit and decide whether they favor an increased tax on billboards. It may make all the difference between winning and losing. Women have votes and they are voting against the billboards.

In some places they have undertaken to boycott advertisers on billboards, not always the most effective means of winning a point. Out near Poughkeepsie, N. Y., however, a woman's organization adopted a different plan. They selected a certain sector and set about clearing it of the signs. They went to the heaviest local user of the boards and presented their case. He promised that as soon as his contract ran out he would not renew. They repeated this request with others and were remarkably successful, in two weeks having received pledges from more than 80 per cent of the advertisers in that particular sector to abandon that method of calling public attention to their business.

The promoters of this form of advertising profess to see no danger to their business. But we solemnly warn them that with these women in convention assembled arrayed against them, they haven't a chance, any more than we have of escaping putting up that pantry shelf.

ADVICE TO BE HEERED

We find in Col. Lindbergh's cable advice to the League of Nations Transit Section authoritative confirmation of our own attitudes expressed the other day that the time to get busy about regulating air travel is now and not to wait until it is entirely out of hand as we did in the case of the automobile. Col. Lindbergh, answering a request for advice, stresses first exactly the point we made last week—uniformity of signals and regulations. He said: "A uniform system of markings and signals should be decided upon, and a comprehensive meteorological and radio reporting system established. Adoption of uniform regulations is of the utmost importance. In some countries today, aircraft are placed in the same class as ocean steamers and must go through similar procedure in clearing. As a result the clearance charges are high and delays are often comparatively long in relation to the time spent in actual travel."

He goes on to point out that a private airer made it nearly impossible to learn or obtain accurate information as to rules and regulations in a strange country. He advises international agreement on signals and general regulations.

With airplanes flying hither and yon, crossing border lines of countries, spanning oceans and seas it is vitally necessary that there should be international regulations—rules of the air as there are rules of the sea. No one better than Colonel Lindbergh can impress this necessity upon those considering such problems. His advice should be heeded with all reasonable speed.

VICTORY FOR A MOVIE

It is notoriously difficult to obtain a conviction for arson. But it looks as if Detective Sergeant Simon J. Callinan of Buffalo had got something that would convince a jury—a motion picture taken from an apparently stalled truck of the alleged fire setter being admitted to a furniture store by the owner and locked in. After a reasonable interval Callinan kicked in the back door and caught his man in the act of lighting the torch that was to ignite in due time the pile of combustibles. Still pictures of the layout were taken. Nine arrests followed in short order, it is claimed by the police, a confession was obtained that will explain how the insurance companies have lost something like $4,000,000 in the last few years by "suspicious" fires in a restricted district. Score one for the movies.

IN NEW YORK

New York, July 11.—Hot! Sticky, sultry hot in that oven-like way that New York has of being hot.

The typewriter stares back at one blankly and one stares blankly at the keys. Someone once said that a smart guy could write about New York just by going to the office window and looking out.

Very well! The sound of jazz music, as played on sax and banjo, comes up from the sidewalk.

We stretch way out. Down below two men are drawing a crowd. They wear trim white flannels, trim blue coats and natty Panama hats. Yet clogs dangle from the instruments they play. What's more, they play well! Large signs are pinned on the coats. The signs read: "We are blind."

But who ever heard of street serenaders and blind collection seekers being all dressed up like boardwalk strollers?

Here is something new in town! Come to think of it, all the various forms of beggary and street vending have been showing signs of originality lately. They've been trying their advertising stunts. Just the other day, as I came out of the Pennsylvania station, a young man with a slightly foreign accent stopped me with a tale of struggle quite worthy of any fictioneer. He told his story glibly with such a sense of the dramatic. There was no whining or sniveling. He explained that if he collected enough he would take a train for a given spot and seek a job. I don't believe it for a moment, but he did it very well.

But it's Julia Blanshard, who edits the woman's page for this organization, who passes me on a priceless story about a panhandler. The panhandler approached a social worker with the usual side-of-the-mouth drawl. "Can't ya help a poor fellow to a cup of coffee?" "Sure I can," said the social worker. And therewith walked him into a coffee parlor. The astonished bum sat down while coffee and doughnuts were served. And the s. w. sat there and waited for the doughnuts to be eaten. "I'm awfully hungry," said the man. "I'll get you a cup of coffee."

When he was half finished the social worker walked out and paid the bill. She was followed by a soft voice string of profanity from the man she had fed. Hardly had she disappeared around the corner when the bum left the counter stool and sneaked out into the street. He looked about to make sure that the woman was gone and then, with hand outstretched, continued to whine. "Can't ya help a poor fellow get a cup of coffee?"

But to return to the window... great crowds are pouring into Penn Station for the week-end trains to the city's strident symphony... a seven-foot negro, with a swallowtail coat, marches by... two bearded old patriarchs from the East Side stand waiting for a street car... One starts to light a handrolled cigarette and sets fire to his whiskers... Much commotion... two taxi drivers get in a fight and a woman passenger flees a cab with fingers in her ears to drown the cursing... a steam callope goes by wearing a banner advertising a cheap burlesque show... The wind blows off a fat man's hat and he barely escapes a street car rescuing... A woman stops to apply an umbrella to a hat's stern... A pluck man sets up his stand and draws a crowd... The best grows hotter!

With the report that Shakespeare's sonnets may be filmed, chances seem bright we shall yet hear some good English in talking.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

THAT HUNGRY FEELING

Many of you have noticed a gnawing feeling whenever you miss a meal, and you no doubt thought that this sensation meant you were really hungry. This is a common belief, but it is false, because one does not feel real hungry until several meals have been missed. That gnawing feeling which occurs as soon as the stomach is empty is an indication of gastritis, which means stomach inflammation, and is produced by the inflamed walls of the stomach rubbing against each other or which is irritated by an excess of gastric juice.

As soon as you take a little food or liquid into the stomach, the walls are separated and do not rub against each other, and the gnawing ceases. Real hunger is not felt in any particular place, nor for just one particular food, but it is an almost forgotten craving of the whole body for food. Very few people ever experience this sensation. Most people are several weeks ahead of their real hunger with their eating. What they think is hunger is simply a habit of eating at a certain time, or gastritis, or an over-stimulated appetite.

A person with a healthy stomach should not be able to feel it. About the only way he would know that he had a stomach would be to study anatomy or physiology. The majority of those who feel uncomfortable in the region of the stomach after missing a meal have developed too much gastric juice because of wrong eating. This digestive juice is composed of pepsin, rennin and hydrochloric acid. It is a powerful fluid, as it has the ability to dissolve food by chemical action.

When an excessive quantity of food, or when bad mixtures are used, the only way the stomach can get rid of the excess is to produce a larger quantity of digestive juice to liquify its contents so that they can be assimilated and expelled. When one habitually consumes an excess of food or irritating combinations, the stomach forms the habit of making more gastric juice than would be necessary if a reasonable amount were used. Then, when a meal is missed, the powerful acid digestive juice is formed by habit and thrown into the stomach. Having no food to act on, it attacks the lining of the stomach and sets up an irritation which will only be relieved if food or liquid is added to dilute the digestive fluid.

Many people upon feeling this distress will resort to taking a teaspoonful of soda or some other alkaline-forming substance in a glass of water. This often brings temporary relief and may prevent ulcers from forming as quickly as they would otherwise, but it does not remove or correct the bad habits which were responsible for the excessive acid in the first place.

The real cure of stomach inflammation does not consist in merely relieving symptoms. One thing is merely to induce an excess of gastric juice, while the inflammation continues, and often ends up with serious stomach ulcers. It is necessary to observe strict dietetic rules for a long time if the stomach is to be trained out of its bad habit of producing an excess of gastric juice. The most speedy way of getting results is to eat no food for a few days, but to keep the stomach continually full of plain water by drinking a glassful of water every half-hour during the day, and more water if one awakens at night. For these few days use only small meals for a time, even omitting lunch altogether sometimes and using a quart or two of water in the middle of the day. After a few weeks of this regime you will find that when a meal is missed you have no more gnawing. Then if you use the correct combinations you will never again have that distressed feeling in your stomach.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Epilepsy and Diet)

Question:—Mrs. J. L. writes: "Please advise the diet you would recommend in a case of epilepsy."

Answer: The diet must be one of good combinations and, for a time, all starches and sugars should be excluded. Everything should be done to increase normal bowel movements, the patient using enemas if necessary until this can be accomplished. With these cases it is often found that prolapsus of the colon exists, with sometimes a definitely "knicked" colon. This often requires manipulative treatment, or treatment with certain electrical modalities.

(Cinnamon)

Question:—Mrs. W. M. M. asks: "Is cinnamon constipating when used to flavor cakes?"

Answer: Cinnamon, along with other condiments, can be considered constipating inasmuch as they tend to irritate the alimentary canal and in that way induce an excessive flow of lubricating fluids of the intestines. The effect is to produce

A Little Game of Strip Poker!

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, July 11.—"One of the latest things about being President Hoover lately," says Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter, "is the fact that one can pick up the morning newspaper here and right on the front page read Calvin Coolidge's directions for encompassing the return of prosperity. There is something very touching about this. One only hopes that Mr. Hoover fully appreciates it. You may remember that he got just about the same amount of help from President Coolidge during his presidential campaign as he received from President Monroe and President Millard Fillmore. The way Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover felt toward each other was just too bad.

Mr. Coolidge's Success

"Cal had done better with Prosperity than any president we ever had. He kept a firm grip on it and never let it get away from him. Many of us had become just a little tired of Cal when the time came for him to turn Prosperity over to Herbert. I guess it was because we were all sure that Herbert would accelerate the pace and give us a bigger and better Prosperity than Cal's brand. "You might have thought that when Herbert fumbled the punt and let Prosperity slip from his clutches Cal would have sneered or at least smirked and reckoned that was none of his business, but that would just show that you had misjudged Cal. He has decided that it is up to him to point the way out of the wilderness. "Nobody ever said that Cal was dumb and so you do not notice him writing out the recipe for recovering Prosperity and sending it to Mr. Hoover by mail, in which way it might get lost before it had passed through the hands of all the White House secretaries. "Cal just decided to write the recipe in the newspapers where Herbert would never miss it and even if he did it would be called to his attention. Not only that, he was willing to set a sort of a national cheer leader for the prosperity which had been struggling for so many months and so he is talking directly to the people and telling them what to do with the prosperity coming."

THE COOLIDGE RECIPE

"It appears that the Coolidge recipe for coaxing Prosperity back into camp is having faith in ourselves, fasting and prayer, living in the things of the spirit, starting mightily for things that are eternal, sacrifice, buying goods and everybody who has any money paying up his store bills. "Cal says that if everybody who has a job and some money would pay all their retail merchandise bills and in addition purchase what they need and save up for a sound commerce would be created. Of course this sounds as if Cal were doing a little darning on the side for his old pal Frank Stearns, who owns that big department store in Boston, but Herbert's cannot even be so generous as to let Cal's writings and nobody denies that it is a fine feeling to get all your bills paid and to buy some more things that you have any money."

BRITAIN FIGHTS VATICAN IN DISPUTE OVER MALTA

Elections Suspended As Charges and Counter Charges Are Made Regarding Tiny Island.

BY MILTON BRONNER
 London, July 11.—Although by comparison with the far-flung British Empire, Malta is less than a flyspeck on the map of the globe, its internal affairs have recently succeeded in embroiling one of the bitterest quarrels of modern times.

England has fired a sharp "Blue Book" at the Vatican. The Vatican has come back with an equally sharp "White Paper." The British government has suspended the constitution and the elections in Malta and made Governor, Sir John P. Du Cane, the supreme boss. Furthermore, in the British House of Lords, an Orangeman, Lord Cusack, made a bitter speech attacking the church authorities; Viscount Fitzalan, a leading Catholic peer, made a slashing defense, incidentally attacking his brother, Catholic, Lord Strickland, who is Premier of Maltese speech defending his course.

Cause of the Trouble
 Malta, the cause of all his trouble, is so tiny that even the smallest state in the American Union, Rhode Island, seems big by comparison. For after all, Rhode is 1,248 square miles of territory, whereas Malta has only 92, and is only 17 miles long by eight in width. It happens to be of enormous importance to Great Britain, which is why that country nabbed it during the Napoleonic war: in 1814 and has kept it ever since. It lies due south of Sicily and commands the flow of the Mediterranean between the island and Tunisia. Further, it is just about at the center in the Mediterranean and is, therefore, one of the greatest strategic points in that historic sea. In ordinary times for its 225,000 inhabitants it has all the ordinary democratic machinery of government—an elected Legislature, with a Premier and a cabinet. Lord Strickland, a British peer and a Catholic, is the present Premier and head of the Constitutional party.

Trouble started when a Franciscan, Father Guido Michellet, a British subject, was ordered by his superiors in the church to go to another land for service. The church authorities maintained they ordered him abroad for purely ecclesiastical reasons. Lord Strickland's partisans said he was being removed because he was a member of the Constitutional party. The priest stayed in Malta. The Bishop of Malta and Goso upheld the order for his removal.

Refused to Receive Strickland
 The British Minister to the Vatican protested against this condemnation of a priest, who was a British subject, to leave British territory at the command of a foreigner. However, it was suggested the Vatican sent an Apostolic Visitor to Malta to examine into all the circumstances of this case and of the various political-religious troubles in the island. This was done. The Visitor, Monsignor Robinson, returned to Rome to make his report. In the meantime, Lord Strickland prepared to go to Rome, but Cardinal Gasparri, then Papal Secretary of State, informed the British government that Strickland was not persona grata to the Holy See; in other words, that he could not and would not be received or dealt with.

Accompanying Cardinal Gasparri's letter, was a memorandum saying that under the present Maltese regime, Malta was subject to a regime of terror and despotism, with parliamentary opposition disarmed, the press gagged, the courts threatened, the constitution endangered and the Church and religion openly insulted and opposed.

The British government sent to the Vatican a sharp note regarding its action in saying Strickland was not persona grata. The note said it seemed incompatible with the existence of friendly and diplomatic relations that the Holy See should thus treat a minister exercising executive functions in British territory. In the next place, the note went on, the Holy See had, without previous warning or consultation with Britain, sent instructions to the Maltese episcopate and clergy, constituting a direct incitement to discredit and even to resist the freely elected government of the colony.

British "Blue Book" Report
 Cardinal Gasparri called that the religious situation in Malta was seriously disturbed after the return of Lord Strickland. The Holy See's declaration that Strickland was not persona grata was not meant as a slight to England, but as a statement in accord with the facts from a religious point of view. The Holy See had no intention of interfering in the domestic politics of a British colony. But its attitude was taken because of Strickland's interference in the purely religious sphere.

The British "Blue Book" says the Governor DuCane afterwards reported the political activity of the Catholic clergy had been the "Blue Book" that in many cases the priests had asked penitents in the confessional whether they intended to vote for the Constitutional party and, if the answer was in the affirmative, absolution was refused them. On May 2 last the governor reported to the British government that evidence had been collected to show that the Bishop of Goso had told the priests to preach against the Constitutional party and to refuse absolution to its supporters. The British government sent to the Vatican a message saying it was prepared to resume negotiations for settlement of Maltese affairs, but only if the Holy See had given orders which would allow the voters complete freedom in the exercise of their political judgment.

The Vatican's "White Book," issued shortly thereafter, contains a report by Monsignor Robinson, scoring Lord Strickland. The Vatican, furthermore, declined to resume negotiations so long as Strickland remained at the head of the Maltese government.

Lord Passfield, British Secretary for the Colonies, then stated that matters were at a deadlock. Under these troubled circumstances, the British government called off free elections in Malta, suspended the constitution, and vested all power in Governor Du Cane, who is to have as his advisers the Premier, Lord Strickland, and his former cabinet, until further notice.

GANGSTER KILLED
 Chicago, July 11.—(AP)—Two men walked into the home of Thomas Bonner early today, upbraided him and then shot him down. Bonner, shot twice through the head, is not expected to recover.

Mrs. Bonner heard her husband admit the men and heard them quarrel. She heard her husband say, "You've got me all wrong." The shooting followed.

Police recalled that Bonner was under investigation as being an associate of Charles (Limpy) Cleaver following the Evergreen Park mail robbery. He was not arrested, however, and authorities never succeeded in connecting him with the holdup.

The endurance flight was staged to advertise the City of Chicago. Somehow we fail to see the need.

COLUMBIA

Dr. and Mrs. Douglas of Boston and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson and Miss Edna Latham of Post Hill were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter.

Mrs. Stanley Field and baby daughter, Phyllis Anne, returned home from the Clarke hospital in Willimantic, Sunday.

Miss Louise Beady who has been visiting at Overlook, went on to her home near Brattleboro, Vt., Tuesday.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Eleanor Collins of New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Collins, of Chestnut Hill, to Roger Stoddard Isbell, son of Col. Ernest Isbell, of New Haven. Miss Collins graduated from Smith College in 1924, and Mr. Isbell is a graduate of Yale University, class of 1924.

The electrical storm of Sunday evening was the severest of the season so far. The lightning was very vivid. The house of Henry Hutchins on Chestnut Hill was struck, entering an upstairs room, but little damage was done.

The court held Monday evening brought by Assistant State Fire Warden Lathrop against five Columbia men for setting brush fires last April without permits, proved to be of much interest to the town in general, the hall being filled for the three hours necessary for the proceedings. Justice J. Banks Jones of Lebanon discharged three of the accused, Hubert Collins, Ralph Buell and Justin Isham, as the evidence showed that the fires were set after a rain and in no way endangered surrounding property. The two other cases, Nicholas Naumex and Mrs. Annie Am-

QUOTATIONS

"Hoover recently explained his passion for flogging by pointing out the democratic nature of the pastime. If this be so—although I doubt it—it is at all events one of the few survivals of democracy still existing in the United States."
 —Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian Communist.

"Most Statesmen have long noses. But I suppose that is very lucky, because most of them cannot see further than the length of them."
 —M. Paul Claudel, of France.

"Germany will never tolerate prohibition. The example of the United States has been a detriment to temperance throughout the world."
 —Dr. Otto Meile, head of the anti-alcohol forces of Germany.

"An old suit, a battered hat, a perfect tie, and a good collar—that's what makes a well dressed man."
 —Baron De Meyer, international Style expert.

"Slang can make a complete bore out of a very bright person."
 —Brenda Ueland, writer.

"I find in talks I can't be active on my feet and talk at the same time."
 —Douglas Fairbanks, movie actor.

Chicago's 13,000 teachers, sent on their summer vacations without their June salaries, probably are very interested in reading of the prodigious deed of the endurance flyers over their fair city.

ANDOVER

Mrs. Sophie Rosenblum of New York is the guest of her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenblum. Other guests at Mr. Rosenblum's are Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ferro and children, Martha, Hilda, Yolanda and Otto Ferro, all of Long Island, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Konig are spending their vacation on a trip to Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hilliard and children have returned home from Westminister, Vt. where they were called by the illness and death of Mr. Hilliard's father, Clayton Hilliard.

C. E. White is resting very comfortably, after his recent operation in the Hartford hospital and expects to be able to return home the last of the week or first of next.

Mrs. Edward H. Frink and son, Edward, Jr., and Miss Agnes Finnegan of Rutland, Vt., spent Monday and Tuesday night with Mr. Frink's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink.

Topic for the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening is "Worth While Hobbies," Pa. 8-3-9. The leader will be Miss Alice Yeomans.

During the thunder shower Sunday evening a bolt of lightning entered the house of Fritz Hoffman and knocked a mirror off a shelf. No other damage was done.

The Andover baseball team will play North Windham team on the Rosenblum field Sunday afternoon. The Misses Florence and Anna Shatz attended the circus in Hartford, Wednesday afternoon.

New York has a new drink made with nuts. Quite a few of the speakeases are serving "nut" drinks too.

A THOUGHT

And God looked upon the earth and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth.—Genesis 6:12.

I have seen corruption boil and bubble till it o'errun the stew.—Shakespeare.

DR. LAW DEAD
 Minneapolis, July 11.—(AP)—Dr. Arthur A. Law, 58, one of the founders of the American College of Surgeons, and for many years a professor of the Department of Surgery, University of Minnesota, died yesterday.

During the World War, as a lieutenant colonel he commanded the University of Minnesota Base Hospital No. 26 in France. He was cited by Gen. John J. Pershing for meritorious and conspicuous services at the hospital.

ROBERT BRUCE'S BIRTH

On July 11, 1274, Robert Bruce, Liberator of Scotland and King of the country for 23 years, was born in Scotland.

A competitor for the throne, Bruce played politics with both English and Scotch. First he swore fealty to Edward I, and then abandoned him to join the Scottish leaders in arms for the independence of their country. On making up with the English monarch again, Bruce was made one of the four regents who ruled the kingdom.

He stabbed to death his chief rival, John Comyn, in a quarrel in 1306, after which he hastened to a castle, assembled his vassals and proclaimed his right to the throne. That same year he was crowned at Scone. This was the signal for the English to act against him. When a large army invaded Scotland, Bruce fled to Ireland only to return to meet them.

On June 24, 1314, Bruce led the Scottish forces in the famous battle of Bannockburn. Consequently, 30,000 men on the English side were slain, and the independence of Scotland was acknowledged.

STEAMER SINKS, ALL SAVED

Blasen, Portuguese West African steamer Monitor which left Dakar with passengers and cargo sank 35 miles off Portuguese Guinea three days ago. All the passengers and crew reached shore in lifeboats after struggling day and night for three days against high seas.

Additional danger came from the fact that the waters abound with sharks in this region.

APPEAL APPROVED

San Jose, Costa Rica, July 11.—(AP)—Congress today approved an appeal to the president for the return of Costa Rica to the League of Nations, agreeing upon an appropriation for this purpose.

The belief prevails that the government of President Costa Gonzalez Viquez will pay no attention to this appeal.

DANCING JUDITH

CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1935 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH GRANT, artist's model, and ALAN STEYNE, painter, who also loved by CHUMMY MORLEY, Judith's roommate and best friend. Chummy had loved Steyne years ago, and lost her memory when he went away, so, though Steyne loves Judith, Judith insists that it is his duty to marry Chummy, whose memory is restored when she sees him again. Judith is studying dancing under the great GUARVENIUS, and BRUCE GIDEON, rich financier, wants to star her in a musical show, although Steyne warns her that Gideon's intentions are not honorable. Guarvenius is killed in an auto accident, and Judith plans to go on with her career. She urges Chummy and Steyne to get married at once.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

Chummy found it hard beyond belief to repeat her conversation with Judith to Alan. She managed to tell him that Judith was very much changed.

"She's so serious, Alan—you wouldn't know her."

"And you think she can look after herself, Clarissa?" the young man asked.

"Oh, yes, of course she can. She always has."

"Then you don't think it necessary to postpone our wedding any longer?"

"No, Alan—not on that account."

Steyne said nothing. There was no other account. He knew that it had come to the point. It was now the end of the first week in August. He had consulted the girl about the date of the wedding a day or two ago, and she had suggested the seventeenth, her birthday. It must be settled definitely now. There was no going back. Her preparations were made. He had none to make.

The time had come for him to settle his debt, to pay for that more than seven-year-old mistake.

He nerved himself, and they discussed details. There was plenty of time to give orders for the other rooms at Gramercy Park to be prepared before they came back. They would write from abroad.

Perhaps Clarissa would pick up some Italian furniture. There were a small sitting room for her and another bedroom for a maid's room to be arranged. Clarissa could think of no more ideal home.

"Before we go, Alan, we must make Judith spend a day with us. I'm still a little worried about her. You see, she's alone at great deal now, and Clarissa isn't so busy. Shall we go into the country and have a really nice day? I'll make her come."

"Yes," he agreed. "I'll hire a car—there's not room enough in mine."

"That will be lovely," Alan said. Chummy was radiant. Alan wondered at her unselfishness. He wondered how she had ever come to believe that he loved her; and he wondered what in her secret heart she thought of him as a lover now.

"You will come, won't you, Judith?" Chummy asked, her eyes alight with affection, her whole being aglow with the thought of the wonderful life that was opening out before her.

"I must start one day before we start off, Alan and I!"

"Of course I'll come," Judith answered. "It sounds lovely. A whole day in the country, a motor car, a picnic lunch, and a dinner and a play to end up with. Why, I haven't done a single thing since I saw dear Guarvenius die!"

"Then it's tomorrow, if it's fine," said Chummy. "We'll call for you at 10 o'clock, if that isn't too early—we want to go a long way, into the real country."

"Splendid! And you're really to be married—when is it?"

"A week from today," said Clarissa, blushing.

"And I'm not asked to the wedding?"

Chummy went still redder.

"It's Alan, Judith darling. He somehow doesn't want to ask anybody—not a soul."

"I quite understand," Judith said. "If anything gets to be quiet, it had much better be dead quiet. And you see all the boys would want to come."

Judith was decidedly more like herself, and Clarissa, now about to enter the very innermost circle of happiness, was elated and surprised, so that she had no fears either for herself or for her beloved friend.

The future of Judith was as rosy as her own. She would have the world at her feet, and then in time she would find love, and she would know that it is the greatest thing of all.

The day in the country was a great success. From Chummy's point of view, it was perfect.

They drove up to a far corner of Connecticut, where there was a sweeping line of great hills. They climbed one of them, leaving the car at the bottom, and Alan carrying the luncheon basket. On the top they were rewarded by a grand view and a sweet cool breeze. They ate and drank like school children. Judith was entranced by the wide open spaces, and danced about like a child of ten.

Then they laid themselves down on the springs, scented turf, and talked—at least, Judith and Chummy talked. They strolled about and picked flowers, made a wide circle of the summit of the hills, and finally reached the car again, scrambling down a steep hill, exhausted with laughter and exercise and fresh air.

Judith was dropped at her rooms at six o'clock, and Alan and Chummy made an appointment to meet her at her next seven for dinner and theater, which were to make a fitting end to this gala day.

It was a little after half past seven when Steyne arrived. Judith's room were on the top floor of the little house. The front sitting room was very scrappily furnished, but Judith had put up some

Coxey's Kin Marches in Beauty Pageant

Katherine Coxey, above, granddaughter of General Jacob Coxey of "Coxey's Army" fame, has no plans for leading another march of unemployed on Washington, but she does hope to be chosen as the world's most beautiful girl at the Galveston, Tex., beauty pageant in August. Miss Coxey, whose home is in Massillon, has entered the Ohio contest for selection of "Miss Ohio" and hopes to compete at Galveston for the title of "Miss Universe."

By SISTER MARY

Hundreds of home-makers face the problem of serving wholesome and palatable meals as economical as possible.

During the summer months, vegetables are plentiful and cheap. And more than this, they are essential to health. However, many men seem to have an innate and ingrained aversion to such plain homely vegetables as carrots and spinach. A little meat added to these vegetables makes them deliciously savory and popular.

The smell and taste of meat is appetizing, and for this reason, if no other, meat is worth a place on the menu. But too much is not a good thing, so if just enough can be used in combination with vegetables to make them liked, a happy medium is produced.

If half a pound of meat can be made to serve four people and at the same time furnish a whole meal prompt most of us to give the half-pound dish a fair trial.

A meat and vegetable hash is the simplest version of the combination dish. Chowders and timbales are also made and they are good attractive concoctions. Vegetable timbales, ham and spinach timbales, lamb and pea timbales—these are worthy of place on the company menu.

A meat and vegetable hash makes ideal summer fare from the cook's standpoint. It takes care of two items on the menu in one dish and one process effecting a substantial saving in time, labor and dish washing.

Meat and Vegetable Hash
One-half pound round steak, 1 1/2 cups chopped raw carrots, 2 cups chopped raw potatoes, 3 onions, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, buttered crumbs.

Put meat, carrots, potatoes and onions through food chopper. Mix thoroughly and add milk and seasoning. Put into a casserole, cover with coarse buttered crumbs and bake one hour in a hot oven.

PASTELS FOR TOWN

Nothing is more indicative of the elaborateness of new styles than the delicate colors shown for town wear. Aquatone, turquoise and pale water green appear along with new soft pinks for suits, hats, shoes, gloves and purses. Very delicate gray is excellent, too.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

TRANSFUSION OF BLOOD—MANY USES IN MODERN SURGERY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

One of the most dramatic procedures known to modern medicine, particularly from the point of view of the average man, is the transferring of blood from one person to another.

The idea was first suggested and tried in 1867 by a French physician. However, very little was done with it until it was revived in London between 1818 and 1824 and again in Germany between 1860 and 1880. Only recently has it been discovered that the reason for fatalities in these early attempts was the existence of factors in the blood of one person which reacted unfavorably on the blood of another person so as to coagulate the blood or to break up the blood cells.

As a result of modern methods of investigation, these factors have been recognized and standardized. Thus it is possible to make tests upon the person and to select persons for transfusion who are suitable as donors.

The uses of blood transfusion are many. In some diseases in which the blood does not coagulate properly, transfusion will save the person's life until other measures can be taken. In many instances in which there are extensive hemorrhages it is not possible to perform surgical operation because of the anemia induced by the hemorrhage. It is now common to inject blood in order to make the person able to undergo the operation.

In many diseases affecting the blood and producing weakness, an injection of blood from a suitable donor may mean the difference between life and death. Sometimes the blood fails to contain elements necessary to resist disease. In such a case the blood of a person who has a good supply of these elements may be put into the veins and in this way the person whose blood is deficient may be made more resistant.

There are various ways of getting the blood of one person into the body of another. In an earlier day it was common to sew the vein of one person to the artery of another and to permit the blood to run from one to the other. Then there were developed systems of connecting the vein of one person to the artery of the other by means of glass and rubber tubes.

More recently the simplest method is to draw the blood out of the vein of one person with a specially prepared needle and syringe and then to transfer the syringe to a needle put into the vein of the person who is going to receive the blood and to permit it to flow into his veins in that manner.

There are other instances in which it is not necessary or perhaps even desirable to put the blood directly into the vein. In such cases injections of blood may be made into the abdominal cavity and the ability of the blood for resisting disease in this way transferred to the person who needs it.

A Capitol Style

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts introduced a measure of style into Congress. It was the trim black and white smock which she's shown wearing here at the capitol in Washington. The cool summer costume was the handiwork of sixth grade girls in her home district.

HOW TO SHOP

GLASS IN RED SHADES OFTEN MORE COSTLY

By William H. Baldwin

In the last few years, colored glass has become the dominant note in the market. Ruby, pink and orchid are colors which are difficult, and therefore expensive, to produce successfully in glass; but there is no reason why glass of other colors should be more expensive than clear glass of the same size and design.

Originally crystal applied to "glass" cut from a pure rock crystal. Nowadays, crystal has degenerated into a trade term to distinguish white glass from the colored products. Enameled glass is either handpainted or has printed patterns pasted on the glass. In engraved glass, the glass cutter guides the wheel against a revolving copper disc, tracing and cutting the designs he wishes to create.

Frosted glass is made by rolling the ware in finely powdered glass while the ware is still soft. Gilded glass is made by applying gold leaf, liquid gold, or gold powder to glass. Iridescent glass is made by outlining the design in a silver solution; it is then fixed and electroplated in a solution of silver nitrate.

CHIC CHAPEAU

New and summery is the shirred handkerchief linen hat, in gay red, faced with plain white pique. The belt banding is pique.

LEATHER NECKLACES

For sports there are blue and black, pink and white and other colorful necklaces made of six or eight small strands of shining colored leather. They have jeweled clasps and are arrestingly attractive.

COLD PLATE

A most attractive supper or luncheon is made of tea sandwiches, a small pot of cottage cheese and some cold cuts of fish, all arranged neatly on individual plates, garnished with water cress.

SEQUIN JACKET

For evening wear, the latest little, short, fitted jacket is made of scintillating sequins, in some rich tone such as raspberry or billiard green. It has a cape collar and elbow sleeves and fastens with a single button just above the waistline.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Is the mother who coddles her children wrong? It looks as though all opinion adverse to this practice is refuted completely in an article by Amos Burg in a recent magazine on Alaskan natives and their children.

He writes of the kindness of the Yukon people and of the unselfishness and likableness of the little folk. He says, "The traveler is impressed by the charm, simplicity and sweetness of these northern children, who spend their days in the enchanted wilderness world along the Yukon. The children's attitude is delightfully refreshing and is typical of many of the inhabitants who dwell close to the Arctic Circle."

The lower Yukon natives do not compel their offspring to obey. The children have no regular tasks to perform, for nothing is ever done unless necessity demands it. They are never chastised or corrected, but are given everything they ask or cry for, even to the ornate clock over the mantle.

What's the Answer? Well, here's something else! A new kind of fodder for your child-training ambitions to digest. He says very directly that "these mothers coddle their children," and adds that these youngsters never quarrel, never fight, and hand over their possessions cheerfully to each other. One could almost guess as much from the illustration, for, as he says, they are not only pretty, but "sweet."

Are we all barking up a wrong tree about this coddling business, away down here in the temperate zone, with our cock-sure systems of denial and correction? It might be, at that.

But of course it would be an unfair comparison to try up a modern-world mother, trying to train children in a complicated social environment in a world of material things, with a simple Eskimo-Indian wife whose children have no possessions worth mentioning and whose very existence is unbeset by a single one of the influences that surround our children here.

Mr. Burg does not say what would happen if a child gave away the ornate clock on the mantle. I venture that his mother would march right over to her neighbor's house and grab it back.

The thing is however, that Johnny Yukon wouldn't be scolded, while Johnny America would be sent to bed without his supper.

Here's the keynote: Are we not reduced then to one conclusion—that it is things, possessions, that cause the difference in our social and character discipline. Isn't simplicity of living, the avoidance of situations that require correction, and generosity that does not involve family dispute, the keynote in the evolution of a child's naturally kind character traits?

I cannot think that those northern children are sweet merely because they come of a kindly people. Where did their forbears get it?

BROWN CHIFFON

A brown chiffon, printed in beige, has a shirred peplum skirt with deep flounce below, also shirred, and a wide, bateau neck with shirred flounce over the shoulders to fashion short sleeves.

DULL WHITE JEWELRY

New jewelry ensembles for summer include necklaces and bracelets of multi-shaped beads in a dull, dead white composition which are extremely smart when worn with colored frocks, white gloves and shoes.

To-night: Get Rid of BURNING FEET

The New Right Way THE ENGLISH WAY

To take out the agony—banish all burning, aches and soreness—try the new 1936 way and in 15 to 20 minutes your foot troubles are over.

Just put two tablespoonfuls of Radox in a gallon of hot water and soak your feet for 20 minutes—you never had such a joyous, invigorating foot bath in all your life—you can just feel all the acid and poisons coming out of the stuffed up pores of your poor feet.

Do this tonight, and tomorrow your feet will be so strong and sturdy and vigorous that you can walk all day long without discomfort.

It's the oxygen in Radox that gets into the thousands of pores of your feet and chases out the poisons that have accumulated there for years—it's these acids and poisons that make your feet ache and burn and nothing in the world will get them out but Radox.

You can get a package of Radox at North End Pharmacy; South Manchester Agents Packard's Pharmacy, Magellan Drug Co.—or any good drug store—it is inexpensive and if it doesn't put new life and vigor into and bring blessed comfort to your distressed feet—money back—Adv.

CONNECTICUT SHOW SCORE HIGH IN OPEN

Connecticut's showing in the National Open golf championship of 1936 will not be anywhere near as good as that of 1935 unless on Tuesday the tremendously difficult feat of making up three and four strokes on men like Mac Smith, Tommy Armour, Bobby Jones and Whiffy Cox.

The first day's returns showed Louis Chappetta of Hartford doing no better than 42-33, the same figure returned by Henry Cluel of Stratford, who two days ago smashed the course record with a 69.

AMERICAN RACE AMONG THE EAST

Three eastern clubs are about all that is left in the American League pennant race, but the four western members are putting on a struggle of their own that is close enough to stir up some interest.

The Indians went one up on their nearest rivals yesterday with eight victories against seven for Detroit in an abbreviated series, 5 to 5.

St. Louis again moved ahead of Chicago's White Sox, taking sixth place by a half game margin and gaining a 7-6 margin in the games played between the two clubs by winning a ten inning game, 7 to 6.

To Build 2 Concrete Tennis Courts Here

Ninth School District Appropriates $2,500 For Work; Will Be Built At East Side Playgrounds.

Today brings welcome news to the tennis players of Manchester for a sum of $2,500 has been appropriated by the Ninth School District for the building of two concrete courts at the East Side playgrounds.

Manchester has long needed tennis courts of this modern style and sometime ago there was some talk of building two at the East Side playgrounds. Last night the money was voted by the Ninth School District after the matter had been proposed and thoroughly explained by Edward F. Taylor, chairman of the Recreation Center committee.

Mr. Taylor told of how practical and economical tennis courts of this kind are in Hartford. There is little or no work to keep them ready for use save occasional sweeping or painting the boundary lines anew. Furthermore, a concrete court more than pays for itself in a few years.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IS ILL WITH COLD

London, July 11.—(AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton, noted British trader and sportsman, has developed a slight cold and is staying indoors. There is "nothing serious" it was stated to inquirers this morning but in view of his forthcoming visit to the United States for the America races he is not taking any risks.

Mr. Taylor said that the concrete courts will be playable practically the whole year around except when snow or ice covers the surface. The reason for installing the courts at the East Side instead of the West Side are in much better condition than those at the East Side, being constantly under the watchful eye of Tom Woods.

FAST SUCCESS STORY NO. 6 EARL SANDE

The first race horse he ever saw was hitched to the tailboard of a prairie schooner. Two years later, every track in America resounded to that famous cry, "C'm on Sande!" He always gave the public the best run for its money.

That's the reason, too, for OLD GOLD'S quick success. OLD GOLD always gives the public a run for its money with a new taste-thrill. And no throat-hack.

Explain Sande? Explain OLD GOLD? Sande and OLD GOLD are born... not made.

WANT NEW NAME FOR CENTER PARK

H. B. Cheney and Mathias Spiess Suggest It Be Called Attawanhood.

The Park Commissioners have been requested to change the name of Center Park to Attawanhood Park in memory of the Indian Sachem whose English name was Joshua. Behind this request, which has been made by Horace B. Cheney and Mathias E. Spiess, is the interesting plan now approaching completion to have a map of Connecticut with all features designated by the Indian names they originally bore.

Some time ago the Colonial Dames conceived the idea of the map and Mrs. Horace B. Cheney was asked to determine what could be done about it. Mr. Cheney enlisted the aid of Mr. Spiess, who has long been interested in Indian lore. The Park Commissioners of the state have cooperated in the work. The actual work of the map making is being done by H. L. Griswold, an engineer who has the job completed within a few weeks. The original map will become the property of the Colonial Dames but those who desire them and for those who desire them in the public library and other similar institutions. The map itself is about four feet square and, bearing as it does, all names of mountains, lakes, and rivers in the Indian language it is a unique production.

Already there has been developed considerable interest in the proposition to have erected in the park here a large statue of Attawanhood. The letter to the park commissioner is as follows: To the Members of the Park Commission: Mr. Spiess and the writer are engaged in making an Indian map of Connecticut giving Indian names and locations where they are found and we are cooperating with the state park authorities, who are attempting to name the forests, parks, lakes and streams as much as possible with Indian titles. We wish to recommend jointly to the Park Commission that Center Park in South Manchester be named Attawanhood Park in memory of Chief Joshua — Joshua being his English name — who sold the five mile tract which is now Manchester. He was the third son of Uncas, Sachem of the Mohawks.

Very truly yours, Horace B. Cheney.

ACTRESS GRANTED LONDON DIVORCE

Evelyn Laye Names Jessie Matthews, Another Ac- tress, As Corespondent.

London, July 11.—(AP)—Evelyn Laye, actress wife of Robert Hale Monro, known on the stage as "Sonny" Hale, today was granted a divorce on the grounds of her husband's misconduct. Jessie Matthews, an actress, was named as co-respondent.

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Evelyn Laye, granted a divorce to- day in London from "Sonny" Hale, and Jessie Matthews, named as co-respondent, were rivals on Broad- way last season.

Miss Laye, a dainty blonde, was the star of "Bitter Sweet," and Miss Matthews, a tall and striking brunette, was Jack Buchanan's leading woman in "Wake Up and Dream."

Just before they both came over for their New York engagements, Miss Laye filed her divorce action against "Sonny" Hale, naming Miss Matthews, who had been Hale's leading woman in the Lon- don production of "Wake Up and Dream," Hale remained in Lon- don.

During the winter both Miss Laye and Miss Matthews became popular with Broadway playgoers, but they were never invited to the same parties. Stage associates said they exchanged frequent unpleas- antries by note.

Friends of Miss Matthews said today that she intends to marry Hale as soon as the divorce decree becomes final.

Miss Laye recently returned from London and is now playing in a picture in Hollywood. Miss Mat- thews is in London.

COURT RULING HITS AIRPORTS OF NATION

Cleveland, July 11.—(AP)—A menace to aviation was seen today by Major Louis G. Meister, Cleve- land manager of the Curtiss-Wright flying service, in the ruling of Fed- eral Judge George P. Hahn at Toledo in setting 500 feet as the mini- mum height at which planes may fly over property adjacent to air- ports.

Major Meister asserted that more than 4,500 feet on ground-space are needed for pilots to bring their planes down from an altitude of 500 feet and that very few airports in the country are large enough for this.

Judge Hahn's ruling was in connection with the suit brought by Raymond and Frederick H. Swet- land seeking to have the airport at Richmond Heights village adjoining their estate be declared a nuisance. Judge Hahn refused to declare the airport a nuisance, but stipulated that planes must not fly over the land at less than 500 feet altitude.

Major Meister announced that the airport would be closed August 1 as a result of the ruling and his company's activities, removed to an- other base.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reduc- ing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recom- mended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimina- tion.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia— another danger in reducing diets. ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to pro- mote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effec- tive. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restau- rants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Expect Spirit of Doyle To Attend the Services

London, July 11.—(AP)—Spirituists have set the stage for Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's re-appearance before them during a memorial service to be held Sunday at Albert Hall.

The Herald Hears

That the young man who used to hang around a certain down town restaurant just closed, now have to be content with sitting on the running boards of parked automobiles in the same section.

but they were never invited to the same parties. Stage associates said they exchanged frequent unpleasantities by note.

COURT RULING HITS AIRPORTS OF NATION

Cleveland, July 11.—(AP)—A menace to aviation was seen today by Major Louis G. Melster, Cleveland manager of the Curtiss-Wright flying service, in the ruling of Federal Judge George P. Hahn at Toledo in setting 500 feet as the minimum height at which planes may fly over property adjacent to airports.

Major Melster asserted that more than 4,500 feet on ground-space are needed for pilots to bring their planes down from an altitude of 500 feet and that very few airports in the country are large enough for this.

section with the suit brought by Raymond and Frederick E. Swadlow seeking to have the airport at Richmond Heights village adjoining their estate be declared a nuisance. Judge Hahn refused to declare the airport a nuisance, but stipulated that planes must not fly over the land at less than 500 feet altitude.

WAPPING

Miss Eleanor Stead left last Saturday for New London where she will visit her grandparents for a few days.

Mrs. George W. Hills and two children of Willimantic, are spending the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Hills of Wapping.

Miss Katherine L. King of South Windsor, has gone to Maine where she expects to spend the rest of the summer.

Rev. W. W. Evans, pastor of the First Congregational church of East Windsor preached on the subject "The Church and the Betterment of the Human Race" last Sunday. Plans are being made for the church picnic to be held July 17th, at Bab's Grove.

David Boardman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Boardman of East Windsor Hill, graduated last week at the Kingston school in West Hartford.

Mrs. Judson Williams and son of Cincinnati, Ohio, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Williams of Long Hill street.

The South Windsor Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Marshall Biowell yesterday afternoon.

Olive A. Jones will leave this week for Maine where she will spend several weeks. She had as her guest over the week end, Miss Bess Bidwell of Windsor Locks.

Miss Marion Hills will have as a week end guest at her home, a New Britain Normal school class mate, Miss Alice Goodwin of Simsbury.

Miss Lila Graham, sister of John W. Graham, Sr., of Wapping, passed away at his home about 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Miss Graham was stricken with heart trouble earlier in the summer, but had been convalescing for the past six weeks at the home of her brother. She leaves beside Mr. Graham, a twin sister who lives at 90 Williams street, Hartford, six nieces and two nephews, two granddaughters and one grandnephew. The funeral was held from Mr. Graham's home Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Harry B. Miner officiated and the burial was at Spring Grove cemetery, in Hartford.

Mrs. Mary Hills left on the Fourth of July for Westbrook, where she expected to spend the rest of the summer.

RUNNER FINED

Greenwich, July 11.—(AP)—A fifteen day jail term and a fine of $150 and costs were imposed today by Judge Hirschberg on Joseph Longardi of New York, charged with transporting liquor. Longardi appealed the decision and was released on $2,000 bail.

The average husband could honestly say to his wife, "Thank goodness I haven't a talking picture of you."

GAS WAR IS BREAKING CALIFORNIA'S DEALERS

San Francisco, July 11.—(AP)—The specter of bankruptcy loomed for many small dealers today as the gasoline price war brought quotations ranging from 6 1-2 cents a gallon on the Pacific coast.

Charles Jacobs, secretary of the Independent Association of Service Station Operators here, said 25 percent of the local dealers would lose their stations if the war continued another week.

Governor C. C. Young, declined to intervene in the price war, saying he believed any restraining action by the state would conflict with State Supreme Court decisions.

H. F. Warner, Seattle, vice president of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company, announced at Portland last night the merger of his and the Seaboard Oil and Refining Company, LTD. Warner expressed the belief the merger would be followed within a few days by a return to former gasoline prices.

UNUSUAL MEETING

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—The pages of time will be rolled back several scores of years this week, when a former pupil, 91, meets his former teacher, 108.

Merritt Haviland of Colorado, Md., will arrive here tonight, to visit the scenes of his childhood.

MAIN FLOODS CITY

Pittsburgh, July 11.—(AP)—The bursting of a 36-inch water main, sent torrents of water, at times more than three feet deep, roaring through streets of the northside district early today. The basements of more than 400 homes were flooded, and in some instances the water reached the first floors of the buildings.

Residents awakened by the roar of the stream rushed terror-stricken into the rapidly flooding streets. It was an hour before police could restore quiet, and several hours before city employes could shut off the water.

MODERN COOLING PLANT FOR THE KING OF SIAM

Bangkok.—(AP)—The King of Siam has tired of being warm and "sticky" all the year round in this land of perpetual summer. He has ordered a cooling plant for his palace, where he spends most of his time.

The system, which will come from the United States, will work along the same lines as the cooling plants used for the theaters in America in hot weather.

All the old time pumps, or motive fans moved back and forth by hand, will be pulled down.

A New York skyscraper has a 200-seat theater on the 47th floor.

LAST ROYAL COURT

London, July 11.—(AP)—Undeterred by his rheumatic attack of a month ago, King George was at home last evening to the last group of the year's debutantes in the fourth and last court of the Buckingham season. There were eight American girls and women among the presentees.

His Majesty wore the scarlet and gold uniform of Colonel in Chief of the Scots Guard. He stood beside Queen Mary before the twin golden thrones of Buckingham Palace and received the debutantes, some of whom wore as brilliant raiment as Buckingham Palace has ever seen.

AMERICANS FAILED
AT LONDON PARLEY

So Says Senator Hale Open-
ing Debate At Capital;
"Britain Has Us Hogtied."

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Opening debate against the London naval treaty, Senator Hale told the Senate today ratification would prove that the United States was incapable of looking after its own interests.

In a long prepared address, the naval committee chairman said the treaty "falls completely on account of the refusal of France and Italy to agree to any limitation on auxiliary vessels and the loophole for increases under Article 21, the 'Escalator Clause,' to place any effective limitation on future naval armaments."

The Japanese, he said, were given a substantial increase over the ratio provided for capital ships in the Washington treaty, while the British by the terms of the treaty, "have us hamstringed and hogtied and there they will keep us as long as limitations of armaments are the order of the day."

Will Get Contempt

"Under the treaty," the Maine Senator added, "we attempt to purchase the good will of the world through the sacrifice of the right to safeguard our interests. We will get not good will, but the contempt that a supine nation invariably gets and deserves to get."

"The Navy that the treaty allows us at the expiration of the year 1938," Hale continued, "is practically the same in size and cost of maintenance as the present Navy with our building programs completed, and our replacements of obsolete vessels carried out, but the cruiser provisions in the treaty make it an incomparably weaker Navy for our purposes."

Japan Gets Increase

"The treaty gives to Japan, in return for no consideration whatsoever except that of signing the treaty, a substantial increase over the ratio provided for capital ships in the Washington treaty and still leaves us under the handicap agreed to in the Washington treaty not further to fortify our island bases in the western Pacific. This agreement to which we reluctantly assented at the Washington conference, was the direct price of holding the Japanese down to the ratio of 5-5-3 at that conference."

"As a result of the increase of the Japanese ratio in the event of hostilities with Japan where the seat of operations must inevitably be in the Far East according to the unanimous testimony of our Naval officers before the committee of the Senate we shall be forced to engage on less than even terms for ourselves."

Hale said the pact failed to provide parity between the American and British navies during its life, "unless, which is unthinkable, we exercise the right under the option as to cruiser building, and build ship for ship with Great Britain along the lines of our own."

"Should we exercise the other option and give up the idea of parity during the life of the treaty," he continued, "we shall within the two years following 1936 have a slight superiority in the type of cruiser that the great majority of our Naval authorities maintain that we need, of three 8-inch gun cruisers, just one-half the superiority that our General Board asked for after cutting their demands to the lowest possible figure compatible without national security."

"But much more than the acceptance of this reduction in our asked-for quota of 8-inch gun cruisers is the abandonment of our government of the basic principle on which we have stood firmly at former conferences, that each country shall have the right within the limitations of a category to build the type of ship that it considers essential."

"Some people, Hale said, have had the 'effrontery to talk about our successful negotiations with Japan.' "Never in the course of American diplomacy," he added, "have our interests been sacrificed as they have been in this wretched Japanese 'treaty.'"

Outboard motors are now equipped with electric starters.

N. Y. TRAFFIC LIGHTS
ON BIG COLOR SPREE

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Motorists and pedestrians on New York's upper west side saw red and green at the same time for about two hours last night when traffic lights on three major thoroughfares went on a color spree.

One of the worst traffic snarls in years resulted. Confusion spread to adjoining streets and there were many minor collisions and narrow escapes before a repair squad located the trouble in a blown-out fuse of the control system. Then the signals were set to blinking in red-and-green rotation.

Study There.

E. J. McCabe, secretary of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed one of two delegates to represent the New England Association of Commercial Executives at the National Institute for Commercial and Trade Organization Executives, to be held at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., from August 3 to 16. It was announced today. The other delegate is Samuel S. Lord of Gardner, Mass.

Secretary McCabe had already planned to attend the summer school when he was apprised of his appointment and had petitioned his board of directors for a leave of absence which was granted. The course covers a period of four weeks, marks being carried forward each year, a diploma being awarded to those securing satisfactory rating at the end of that time.

The local secretary will take a Commercial Organization course. The program is one of strenuous study throughout, with five periods a day, from 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., and a great deal of "homework." This is the tenth annual session of the school, which is held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, of which Mr. McCabe is a member; the American Trade Association Executives, and Northwestern University. The faculty of the school is made up of prominent professors of colleges throughout the country.

BANDIT EXECUTED
COOL TO THE END

Took Part in Killing of Four
Men During Hold Up of a Bank.

Canon City, Colo., July 11.—(AP)—Ralph E. Fleagle has paid with his life for his part in the slaying of four men and the $219,000 robbery of the First National bank of Lamar in May, 1928.

The gallows trap was sprung on the white-haired bandit leader at 9:08 p. m., yesterday at the state prison. He was pronounced dead by the prison physician 13 1/2 minutes later.

As he walked from his cell to the execution chamber, Fleagle displayed no indications of a breakdown. Until the time the black cap was adjusted over his head and the noose tightened around his neck, the desperado maintained his composure.

Less than an hour before he was hanged, Fleagle embraced the Catholic faith. He was baptized in his cell by the Rev. Father Regis Barrett, prison chaplain, and received the sacraments of the church.

Fleagle was saying the rosary with Father Barrett at the moment a guard appeared at the cell to notify the doomed man the execution chamber was ready.

Request Refused

Only one request made by the outlaw was not granted. Fleagle asked Warden F. E. Crawford that Lee Taylor Casey, Denver newspaperman, be permitted to witness the execution as his spiritual adviser.

As the guards stepped forward to make final preparations, Fleagle spoke. "God bless you warden," and then, turning to Father Barrett, "God bless you, Father," and then finally, "Jesus have mercy on my soul."

Shortly before the execution Gov. W. H. Adams announced he would do nothing to stay the hanging.

Meets His Family

The gunman held a final reunion with his mother, Mrs. Anne Fleagle, his wife, Margaret, and a sister, Mrs. Florence Miller, a few hours before he went to his death. His funeral will be at Garden City, Kas., with Catholic burial services.

Ralph and Jake Fleagle, assisted by Howard L. Royston, California cement worker, and George J. Absher, held up the Lamar bank May 23. A. N. Parrish, president, and J. F. Parrish, his son, were fatally wounded during the robbery. E. A. Kessinger, teller, was kidnaped and later slain by the bandits. Dr. W. W. Winesinger, Dighton, Kas., physician, who treated Royston, shot through the jaw in the holdup, was shot to death after he had dressed the bandit's wound.

Absher and Royston are in the death house awaiting execution next week. Jake Fleagle is still at large.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Stocks generally moved fractionally higher, and trading was moderately active, with a long list of transactions of 1,000 to 2,000 shares. Montgomery Ward, American Water Works, American Tobacco E. Loew, Byers, and Electric Pulp and Light rose 1-2 each, and Westinghouse Electric and Union Pacific, 1 point. General Motors and U. S. Steel rose 1-4.

The market displayed some firmness in the first few minutes of trading, but soon ran into selling pressure, and by the end of the first half hour, prices worked irregularly lower for a time, but pivotal shares encountered firm resistance to selling pressure.

Bears apparently felt that yesterday's rise had been too rapid, and could not be sustained.

The reduction of $16,000,000 in brokers' loans, while small, was favorably regarded, in view of the relative stability of the market during the week covered, but was insufficient to install much bullishness at the opening. The Stock Exchange announcement of a reduction of $11,000,000,000 in the market value of all listed stocks during June gave a clear picture of the thorough character of the deflation experienced.

U. S. Steel sold off 5, then rallied a point from the lowest. Westinghouse Electric sold up 2 and Stone and Webster, 1. In the first few minutes, Western Union gained 3/4. The selling carried Auburn off 1/2, and stocks at American Telephone and Air Reductions, Public Service of N. J., North American, Sears Roebuck and Warner Bros., a point or so.

Foreign exchanges opened steady to firm, with sterling cables at $4.86 1/2, up 1-16.

DIDN'T IT?

"You silly," laughed his wife. "Fancy being superstitious after all these years! Why, do you remember the first time we met? We walked under a ladder, and you said you were sure something horrible would happen to you."

"Well?" was all the poor husband replied.—Tit-Bits.

So Says Senator Hale Open-
ing Debate At Capital;
"Britain Has Us Hogtied."

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Opening debate against the London naval treaty, Senator Hale told the Senate today ratification would prove that the United States was incapable of looking after its own interests.

In a long prepared address, the naval committee chairman said the treaty "falls completely on account of the refusal of France and Italy to agree to any limitation on auxiliary vessels and the loophole for increases under Article 21, the 'Escalator Clause,' to place any effective limitation on future naval armaments."

The Japanese, he said, were given a substantial increase over the ratio provided for capital ships in the Washington treaty, while the British by the terms of the treaty, "have us hamstringed and hogtied and there they will keep us as long as limitations of armaments are the order of the day."

Will Get Contempt

"Under the treaty," the Maine Senator added, "we attempt to purchase the good will of the world through the sacrifice of the right to safeguard our interests. We will get not good will, but the contempt that a supine nation invariably gets and deserves to get."

"The Navy that the treaty allows us at the expiration of the year 1938," Hale continued, "is practically the same in size and cost of maintenance as the present Navy with our building programs completed, and our replacements of obsolete vessels carried out, but the cruiser provisions in the treaty make it an incomparably weaker Navy for our purposes."

Japan Gets Increase

"The treaty gives to Japan, in return for no consideration whatsoever except that of signing the treaty, a substantial increase over the ratio provided for capital ships in the Washington treaty and still leaves us under the handicap agreed to in the Washington treaty not further to fortify our island bases in the western Pacific. This agreement to which we reluctantly assented at the Washington conference, was the direct price of holding the Japanese down to the ratio of 5-5-3 at that conference."

"As a result of the increase of the Japanese ratio in the event of hostilities with Japan where the seat of operations must inevitably be in the Far East according to the unanimous testimony of our Naval officers before the committee of the Senate we shall be forced to engage on less than even terms for ourselves."

Hale said the pact failed to provide parity between the American and British navies during its life, "unless, which is unthinkable, we exercise the right under the option as to cruiser building, and build ship for ship with Great Britain along the lines of our own."

"Should we exercise the other option and give up the idea of parity during the life of the treaty," he continued, "we shall within the two years following 1936 have a slight superiority in the type of cruiser that the great majority of our Naval authorities maintain that we need, of three 8-inch gun cruisers, just one-half the superiority that our General Board asked for after cutting their demands to the lowest possible figure compatible without national security."

"But much more than the acceptance of this reduction in our asked-for quota of 8-inch gun cruisers is the abandonment of our government of the basic principle on which we have stood firmly at former conferences, that each country shall have the right within the limitations of a category to build the type of ship that it considers essential."

"Some people, Hale said, have had the 'effrontery to talk about our successful negotiations with Japan.' "Never in the course of American diplomacy," he added, "have our interests been sacrificed as they have been in this wretched Japanese 'treaty.'"

Outboard motors are now equipped with electric starters.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.) The woman kept on with her task and, though she heard Wee Clowzy ask a lot of silly questions, she made no reply to him. This puzzled Clowzy for a while and then he broke out in a smile. "Our chance of finding out things," he exclaimed, "is very slim. "She does not understand. Oh, well, we'll find somebody else to tell us all about these carpets. What a pretty sight they are. I've heard that Persian rugs are known most everywhere, and folks who own a real one can be proud that it has traveled from afar." The Travel Man then said, "I'll tell you how these rugs are made so well. The workers work real carefully and do the job up right. The yarn they use is good and strong. That's why the rugs will last so long. They dye the yarn all colors and it makes a pretty sight. "There is a rug store 'cross the street. Let's go inside. 'Twill be a treat. There, hanging on the spacious walls, are brilliant rugs galore." And so they promptly went inside and Clowzy very shortly cried, "Oh, my, but they seem much too nice to put upon the floor." They looked around an hour or so. The Travel Man then said, "Let's go. I'll take you to a fine old man who sells a funny bread. His sales-spot may not look so neat, because he sells right on the streets. The bread is cooked on pebbles that are made a fiery red." They found the bread man right nearby. The others heard wee Coppy cry, "Oh, gee, the bread's like pancakes. Every piece is one big slice." The old bread man began to grin. Said he, "It's good, when baked so thin." The Tinymites then tasted some and found it very nice. (The Tinymites see an old yarn spinner in the next story.)

ROBERTSON GIVEN FAREWELL PARTY

Selectmen and Friends Tender Him "Bon Voyage"; Leaves Soon for Australia

Selectman William W. Robertson, who leaves next week for Sydney, Australia, in the interests of the Orford Soap Company, was given a "bon voyage" party last night by fellow members on the board, former Selectmen and friends. The party was held at Urbano Osano's cottage at Bolton Lake. The guest of honor was presented with a pen and pencil set.

Chef Osano served a shore dinner and after those present extended felicitations and well wishes for a pleasant trip the group passed the evening playing cards. Mr. Robertson leaves here next Thursday for Vancouver, B. C., where he will set sail for Australia. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Robertson and their daughter, Marion.

TALL CEDARS OUTING AT LAKE POCOTOPAUG

All Hewers of Big Lebanon Trees to Gather Next Week Saturday for Good Time.

The first annual picnic and field day of District No. 5 of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, comprised of New London Forest, No. 72; Nutmeg Forest, No. 116, of South Manchester, and Quinnebaug Valley Forest, No. 117, will be held at Lake Pocotopaug, East Hampton, Saturday, July 16. Local Tall Cedars will leave the Masonic Temple by private automobile at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The committee in charge includes William Anderson, grand tall cedar of Nutmeg Forest, who will be one of the principals in the great swimming race between the grand tall cedars of the three forests, and Emil H. Miller, scribe, of the local forest. Others on the committee are: Alfred F. Hodgdon, grand tall cedar of New London; Robert H. Eyles, scribe of New London; Richard W. Daggett, grand tall cedar of Quinnebaug Valley, and Harry H. Knowlton, district representative.

The outing will be an all day affair, featuring all kinds of sports and contests with prizes for winners. Games will include tug of war, baseball, water polo, running races, swimming races, volley ball. The Tall Cedars will have at their disposal a large pavilion for dancing, speed boats, row boats, and bathing.

Clam chowder will be served from 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon until, according to the announcement, "you are all out." Dinner will be served from 5:30 o'clock consisting of half chicken, mashed potatoes, spaghetti, peas, celery, olives, pickles, rolls and butter, ice cream, and coffee.
