GERMANY BACKS U. S. OF EUROPE IN HER REPLY

Favors France's Program
But Wants Turkey and Russia Included; All Must Be Considered Equal.

Berlin, July 15.—(AP)—The text of Germany's reply to Foreign Minister Briand's memorandum for a "United States of Europe" was made public here tonight. It answers favorably France's suggestion for a European union but stresses the objection that such a program could succeed only upon principles of full equality and the same security for all participants.

Most Admit Russia
Discrimination against countries or continents and exclusion of European states not members of the League of Nations, such as Russia and Turkey, must be avoided, the reply stated.

European cooperation in the proposed league, according to the German answer, should not be made dependent upon the creation of military considerations affording greater security.

Military consideration, the reply urged, should not be placed in the foreground.

The reply made it clear that Germany welcomed the proposal and favored discussion of the whole plan at the next session of the League of Nations in September.

The reply points out that European countries are far from being in a settled state. They are charged with all kinds of tensions and antagonisms.

No country, the note continues, feels the faults of the European state fabric more strongly than Germany. It adds that none has greater interest in removal of these faults, and that every country sees its mission from its own standpoint, a natural national attitude, the reply argues.

France, so runs the German

BOSTON CELEBRATES ITS FOUNDERS' DAY

Notable Guests At Today's Event—Big Parade a Feature of the Program.

Boston, July 15.—(AP)—Notables of the country and of foreign lands joined with Massachusetts citizens today in paying tribute to the founders of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

In the main event of the state's tercentenary celebration, a day filled with exercises from the flag raising on the historic Commons at 9:45 a. m. till the state banquet at night was on the program of the commission appointed by Governor Allen.

The "great meeting" on the Common at 11 a. m. was to be addressed by the Rt. Hon. Herbert Albert Laurens Fisher, warden of New College, Oxford University, England. William Cardinal O'Connell was to offer the invocation, Governor Allen an address of welcome and responses were to be given by Mayor James M. Curley and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, at Washington. A poem for the event has been written by Judge Robert Grant.

Notable Guests
Among guests of the commonwealth were former President Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, Sir Ronald Lindsay, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, foreign diplomats, governors of several states and men prominent in the national government.

The famous Canadian Black Watch and the crew of the British cruiser Durban were among the military parade of 6,000 uniformed men to march through the business section. An airplane escort was to lead them to the Common.

Big Parade
The parade included units of the 26th (Yankee) Division and detachments of the Regular Army, Marines and National Guard. Major General Clarence R. Edwards, "Daddy" of the Yankee Division overseas, was to be marshal.

Following the flag raising on the Common, the guests of the state were to march from the State House to the tribune on the Common to be greeted by Governor Allen.

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, July 15.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for July 12 were $5,580,554.54; expenditures $19,642,396.77; balance $225,490,526.73.

FLOATING SALOON READY FOR RACES

British Ship to Anchor Outside
12 Mile Limit and Sell Liquor.

New York, July 15.—(AP)—Rumors that a ship flying the British flag plans to dispense liquor to its passengers outside the 12 mile limit during the day and make the trips outside the international yacht races next September have evoked a protest from the American Steamship Owners' Association. H. B. Walker, said the association would appeal to the commissioner of navigation. He said he had heard that the Royal Mail Line planned to station the Asaguaya on the race course off Newport, R. I. during the day and make the trips outside the 12 mile limit at night when liquor would be available to the passengers. The Asaguaya, under the liquor treaty with Great Britain is permitted to bring liquor into American ports under seal.

STEAMER TO SELL LIQUOR AT RACES

State Dept. Says It Can Do
Nothing If Without the 12 Mile Limit.

Washington, July 15.—(AP)—Treasury and State Department officials showed little concern today over rumors that a British ship planned to sell liquor outside the 12-mile limit off Newport, R. I., during September's international yacht races.

Assistant Secretary Lowman, in charge of the Customs service at the Treasury, said the United States would have no authority over a foreign steamer's activities outside the 12-mile limit. The Coast Guard considers all vessels alike, however, in patrolling the coast inside the limit to prevent smuggling.

Not Interested
The opinion was expressed at the State Department that this government would not protest to Great Britain, should a vessel under the British flag undertake the reported plan. The department was said not to be directly involved, since passenger ships for Americans going abroad are not regulated by law.

Arthur J. Tyler, commissioner of navigation, when informed of the rumors, cited the law regulating coastwise shipping enacted in 1888 as follows:

Quotes The Law
"No foreign vessel shall transport passengers between ports or places in the United States either directly or by way of a foreign port under penalty of $200 for each passenger so transported and landed."

He said the Justice Department had construed the law as not applicable to foreign ships which take passengers to the high seas and return them to the port of embarkation.

BLODGETT REPORTS CORPORATE TAXES

Taxable Earnings In State
Amount To Over 172 Millions, A Record Figure.

Hartford, July 15.—(AP)—Taxable earnings of Connecticut corporations during the year 1929 were $172,067,719.81, the largest amount since the tax on these earnings was put into effect under the present law in 1915. The nearest approach to this total was made in the year of 1916, when the aggregate taxable earnings were $159,057,082.50.

7,802 Corporations
Certification of the earnings during 1929 was made today by Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett to State Treasurer Samuel H. Spencer, with a list of the 7,802 miscellaneous corporations, including manufacturing and mercantile concerns. The amount of taxable net earnings in 1929 he shows, was an increase of $30,269,611.88 over 1928. A tax of $3,497,329.83 has been assessed against them, representing an increase of $609,837.06 over the amount of revenue from this source last year. The tax will be due and payable on September 1, and notices of the assessments were mailed today to the corporations.

Net Income Taxes
Among the 7,802 corporations, 2,139 are subject to a tax upon net income. The other 5,663 are subject to a minimum tax, having had an income of less than $500, after allowing exemptions. The total minimum taxes assessed were $54,630. It was found necessary to penalize 271 corporations for failure to file income tax returns within the time allowed by law, and the amount of these penalties was $1,855.

During the year 985 corporations were reported as being in a dormant state, listing no operations during the period. Corporations listed as delinquent numbered 407.

GOLDSBOROUGH IS LOCATED IN VERMONT WOODS

Noted Young Flier Crashed Into Mountainside—Companion Seeks Help—Unconscious When Found.

Bennington, Vt., July 15.—(AP)—Eighteen hours after his plane had crashed into a mountainside in a dense fog, Frank Goldsborough, 19, junior transcontinental record holder, was found alive in the wreckage early today.

He was badly injured and unconscious, and orders were sent down the five miles of tangled wooded mountain for a stretcher. Two or three hours were believed necessary to get him down to medical aid at Dunville Notch.

Leonard Lawrence, a stage driver, discovered the wreckage at 6:30 a. m. after parties numbering more than 100 had searched all last night since Donald Moeckler, Goldsborough's flight companion, had come out of the woods with word of the accident.

Was Unconscious
Information sent down by a boy from the party which found him said his pulse was beating regularly, although he was unconscious and groaning badly. He was severely cut across the head and chest and his legs were probably broken.

The two were flying from Buffalo, N. Y., to Keene, N. H., and had stopped at Schenectady, N. Y. Talking off from there, intense fog was encountered within 10 minutes, and the men became lost, crashing about noon.

Moeckler was thrown free but his companion's body and, after an hour, slumped down the mountainside became lost, and after following a small stream, arrived at an outlying farm house at 5 p. m. Searching parties were immediately formed and airplanes were notified to fly over the country.

Remembered Swamp
The crash occurred on Woodford mountain. Moeckler, although nearly exhausted, returned with a searching party and stayed on the mountain all night. He remembered a swamp and a waterfall near the scene of the crash and the information led woodsmen to the scene.

An ambulance had been sent to Dunville Notch, which is in the town of Woodford, and had entered the woods. The searchers started out with Goldsborough on an improvised stretcher, and word was sent for another and more comfortable one. He had to be carried about two miles to the ambulance.

He was to be brought to the Putnam Memorial hospital here, about four miles from the point where the ambulance was to meet him. The searching party had no medical men among its members, a doctor having gone home early today.

Mockler was flying with Goldsborough to Keene to keep a lecture appointment last night. Goldsborough had left Cleveland, O., yesterday morning.

At 9:15 a. m., approximately two and a half hours after he was found, Goldsborough was in an ambulance enroute to Putnam Memorial hospital here. The distance from the scene of the crash is only about four miles but the roads are extremely difficult.

Difficult Work
The six men in the party that

OFFERS TO SERVE OTHER'S SENTENCE

Grandson Asks If He Can Serve 30 Days In Jail Instead of Km.

New Britain, July 15.—(AP)—After John Nicholas, 78, of 1889 Second avenue, New York, had been sentenced to jail for 30 days in Police Court today for obtaining money under false pretenses, his grandson, whose name was not learned, approached defense counsel and offered to serve the jail term for his grandfather. The offer was communicated to Judge Stanley J. Traczski, who made no comment.

Nicholas pleaded no contemner. It was alleged that he had victimized two local women of $12 by pretending to make magic paste with the money, which he led them to believe he was burning in a handkerchief, to cure their rheumatism. He is said to have admitted later to the police that he put the money in his pocket by sleight-of-hand even though the women were watching him closely.

If jail authorities decide that Nicholas is not a fit subject for confinement, he will be released. He is suffering from advanced age ailments.

Train Wrecked by Explosion

The pile-up of burning freight cars which followed the explosion of a locomotive of the Seaboard Air Line Railway near Petersburg, Va., is shown in this picture, taken immediately after the accident. Note the smoke and flames arising from the wreckage of the 50-car train as rescue workers arrived at the scene. Three men were badly scalded in the blast.

Ireland To Manchester By Motorboat, Is Plan

Edward Jackson, Former Resident Here, Now
Building 75 Foot Craft for Journey
Across Ocean Next Summer.

A motorboat trip across the Atlantic Ocean to visit friends and relatives in South Manchester is the plan of Edward Jackson, of Bannfoot, Lurgan, Ireland, a resident of this town 20 years ago. Jackson plans his venture for next summer. His boat is now being constructed on the banks of Lough Neagh where he lives.

Was Architect Here
Jackson is an architect and builder of considerable ability and experience. Many of the houses in the town, especially along Center street, were planned and some of them were built by him. Many of the town's residents who had come here from Northern Ireland would not consider a new home without first consulting Ed. Jackson. He himself lived on Spruce street.

Plans Own Craft
Jackson also has some ideas on boat construction. According to the Belfast Weekly which George Proctor of Winter street gets regularly the former local architect has designed a craft, he believes to be worthy of an ocean trip. Proctor has a copy of the Belfast newspaper showing pictures of Jackson at work on the motorboat. It is a 75 foot craft and will be of flat bottom construction. Jackson plans to install twin engines in the ship when he has built it.

Hazardous Trip
No information has been received here as yet whether or not Jackson intends to make the trip alone. As far as is known no ocean voyager has ever attempted to cross the Atlantic in a flat bottom boat. Venturing into the heavy seas without a keel has been considered extremely hazardous. However, Jackson's boat will have considerable beam for a 75 footer and he has embodied several of his own ideas in the construction which he believes will make the craft able to stay right side up.

Across the Lough
If Jackson persists in his plans he no doubt will sail across Lough Neagh down the River Ban and then on the coast of Ireland.

If traditions holds true and Jackson weathers the squalls that

FATE OF AVIATOR STILL A MYSTERY

Is Somewhere In Jungles Of India—Fear He Will Not Be Found Alive.

Rangoon, Burma, July 15.—(AP)—The Indian wilderness today still cloaked with mystery the fate of the young British aviator, Eric Hook, whom his companion, Jimmie Matthews, left on the banks of a river near here after a plane crash in the jungle.

Rescue parties penetrating the jungles feared that even if they did eventually find him, it would be too late to bring him out alive. It was pointed out that he had long stretches of high hills to climb and rapid torrents to forge before the area could be covered.

The torrents increased in force the past few days by the monsoon floods while the flat country rapidly is becoming submerged. As bad as the weather has been in the area under search, worse was expected with a new storm rolling up from the Bay of Bengal.

Hook and Matthews were on a flight from England to Australia when their plane cracked up on a bamboo clump. Hook was taken very ill before they could get out of the wilderness and Matthews finally, he says, was obliged to leave him in dying condition and seek help for both of them.

PACT SAVES AMERICA, SEN. REED DECLARES

Fourteen Are Killed In Alexandria Riot

Alexandria, Egypt, July 15.—(AP)—Fourteen persons of whom eight were Europeans, were killed in rioting during a general strike.

Another of many reports circulated about the city administration buildings was that 17 persons had been killed and 180 injured. This report mentioned no Europeans.

Two senior police officers were known to be wounded and a large number of lower grade police and soldiers also were on the casualty list.

The situation tonight was somewhat quieter.

Today's disorders in Alexandria were precipitated in sympathy with the victims of recent political rioting in Mansourah and Bilbeis. A general strike had been called. The previous disorders followed the resignation of Premier Nahaas Pasha, when the King refused to sign a bill which Parliament had passed. The King dissolved Parliament but Nahaas Pasha received a vote of confidence.

Wafd deputies and Senators, numbering about 500, later met as a self-constituted National Assembly and passed resolutions against the King. In subsequent meetings of these political factions police interfered and violence resulted.

Says We Entered Limitations Agreement When We Were Much Inferior To Britain and Japan In Auxiliary Ships—Four to One Ratio Against U. S.—Now Equal With Britain.

Washington, July 15.—(AP)—Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, a delegate to London, advocated the naval treaty to the Senate today in closing debate for proponents of the argument.

Sixty members answered the opening roll-call, eight more than were present yesterday when the other Senator-Delegates—Robinson of Arkansas—argued for the pact. Robinson is the Democratic leader.

Reed, a Republican, said America entered the limitations agreement to save herself from an almost "hopeless inferiority" in auxiliary ships as compared with Great Britain and Japan. He outlined an attentive audience the condition of the American fleet at the time the London negotiations were opened last winter.

The New Ratio
He said Great Britain had a four to one ratio against the United States and in commissioned cruisers while Japan had a margin of two to one. The London agreement proposes to establish a 10-10-7 ratio on cruisers.

Leaders were more optimistic today of an early and successful vote on the pact. An informal understanding among friends of the treaty on the Norris resolution appeared to have cleared away the biggest fighting point.

However, the opponents were busy today preparing new reservations. Treaty advocates insisted they would stand for some except that of Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, stipulating that in ratification of the pact the Senate gave no consent to any secret understandings which may exist.

McKellar Reservations
Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, an opponent of the pact, was drafting two reservations. One would provide for freedom of the seas for all neutral vessels in both war and peace. The other would call for removal by Great Britain of her naval bases around the American continent.

The American delegation and others at the London parley refused to take up the question of freedom of the seas.

McKellar said the naval base reservation would affect five or six British bases near the United States.

Senator Reed paid tribute to the American naval officers, many of whom have opposed the treaty terms. He said the officers themselves were in disagreement on the needs of the Navy and therefore the American delegation to London had to differ with some.

EXPECT EARLY VOTE
Washington, July 15.—(AP)—Advocates of the London naval Treaty were ready to rest their case before the Senate today with a speech by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, one of the delegates to the parley, and leave the burden of carrying on the debate to a small but determined band of opponents.

Prospects of reaching an early vote on ratification of the pact were increased by an informal agreement on the Norris reservation reached among friends of the treaty. Both sides have agreed to a compromise eliminating reference to President Hoover's refusal to give treaty correspondence to the Senate.

With this content apparently out of the way, all interest today centered in the efforts to keep a quorum on hand until a final vote is reached.

60 Senators Present

BANDITS GET $24,000

Birmingham, Ala., July 15.—(AP)—Three unnamed bandits held up the Woodlawn-American National bank here early today and escaped with approximately $24,000 in currency. ### TRADE SCHOOL NOTES

Summer session of the Trade school is on in full force. A large number of boys are taking advantage of the opportunities offered by enrolling as a tryout student by which to gain experience in a given trade, or as a specialty student where effort is concentrated on one or more machines. Although a large number of regular students are out either on vacation or working for the summer, enrollment stands at a very high peak.

A baseball league has been formed with teams from the Machine, Textile, Carpentry, and Electrical departments. Games are all held on Wednesday afternoons at Mt. Nebo where trade school boys have been up a second diamond so that two games can be played at the same time. Due to rain last Wednesday all games were played on Friday afternoon, July 11. The Machine Department defeated the Electrical Department in a seven inning game, 7 to 5. It was a very closely played game. Jacquelin of the Machine Department was the outstanding star of the game, he hit a single, double and triple in 3 times when the bases were filled in the fourth inning. Heimerdinger was the batting star for the Electrical Department.

The Textile-Carpentry game was won by the Textile Department by the score of 12 to 6. Vince, Jolly, Wetman and Mason contributed most of the hitting for the Textile Department, while Fiore and Turpin were the sluggers for the Carpentry. Turpin was the star of the afternoon with a two base and three base hit. The Textile Department was handicapped because two of their star players, Viot and Healey had to be away for the afternoon.

Boys not playing baseball are given the opportunity to play volleyball or to swimming at Globe. Schedule is so arranged so that there is a complete supervision of boys by their instructors at all times and every boy participates in some sport. A great amount of enthusiasm and interest is shown by all boys. Dir. J. G. Echmalian has offered a cup for the department winning the baseball championship of the school. The standing of departments follows:

Youngstown, O., July 15.—(AP)—The defense in the suit to enjoin the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation was given an unexpected turning today when attorneys for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests, plaintiffs surprised their opponents by calling Frank Furnell, president of the Youngstown company to the stand as a "hostile" witness ahead of President Eugene Trace of Bethlehem. It developed they intended to have Furnell identify some papers only and then leave the stand until another day.

FLORIDA'S PROBLEM

One of the great booms of Florida during the boom periods of 1926 and during the gubernatorial campaign that followed was that the state did not owe a dollar; that it had not a dollar of bonded indebtedness. That was true. Florida boasts a constitutional provision precluding such obligations on the part of the state government. But here's the fly in the ointment. There are more than $590,000,000 of bonds outstanding against general city and county accounts, school, road and drainage districts. Nearly thirty cities have defaulted on bond payments. The state is now called upon by the Florida League of Municipalities, which has been making a determined scientific study of the financial needs of the state included in a report on the financial conditions of 200 cities, to adopt a resolution calling upon the governor and legislature to give the situation attention at an early special session.

The City Attorney of West Palm Beach, a municipality that is now being sued for defaulted bonds, has declared: "This is no time to camouflage or close our eyes to the real situation in Florida. We know that in many cities there are properties which cannot possibly yield sufficient revenue at present to pay fixed charges, such as taxation and overhead."
 That has been the case in many of those same cities for four years. Bank crashes have followed bank crashes due in considerable measure to heavy losses in municipal and county funds. In some instances bond defaults have been directly traceable to the wiping out of public funds which were deposited in state banks without adequate security. The state bank control has been under fire for years. The larger national banks, particularly those in Jacksonville, keep man scurrying over the state in a seemingly vain effort to stabilize the banking methods of the smaller institutions but the handicap has been a terrific one.

Mr. C. H. Reeder, mayor of Miami, has come out with a plan that will wipe out one of the boasts of that delightful state—"a state without a debt." He advocates a constitutional amendment to permit the state to issue $350,000,000 in bonds to mature in forty years at four and one-half per cent, which he believes would care for all the city, town and district bond issues defaulted or pending. This issue would be used to pay the obligations of the state's subdivisions. This additional burden of state taxes, Mayor Reeder believes, could be met without increase of real estate levies by enacting severance and sales taxes. He also wants a financial commission to pass upon any bond issues before they are submitted to the people in referendum, and the Legislature to require the two-thirds approval of the voters in a bond referendum.

Florida, which has been playing with fire for many years, and has had its fingers badly burned, is beginning to descend to the level most other states have found the only one that can be traveled safely. Whether the Legislature can be made to see the necessity remains to be seen but that there has got to be some stringent restrictions placed upon the floating of all sorts of bonds by this and that village and school district in Florida in order that candidates for office may boast that the state is free from debt there is no doubt. The larger banks have been striving for some such restriction for years. But it is hard for Florida to descend from the clouds and be reasonable even with itself.

PRESIDENTIAL SPEED

President Hoover narrowly escaped being involved in an automobile accident Sunday returning from his week-end camp in the Virginia wilds. A woman driver lost control of her car after narrowly missing the automobile carrying the President and the car with Secret Service men directly behind him, and finally smashed into the third car in line in which were several members of the party. The woman is fortunate that no one of her own party or in that of the President was injured. From the White House it was announced that no action would be taken against the one responsible for the accident.

That is one of the reasons we have just such accidents. "It was one of those Sunday afternoon accidents which sometimes happens," Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries who was in the car involved in the accident, announced to the press. Undoubtedly the woman is sufficiently punished through having involved such distinguished personages as she did in an accident. But, we repeat emphatically, the failure to take action in hundreds of similar cases is one of the main reasons we have so many of them. With proper driving on crowded highways there would be less of them happen, if the parties involved did not patch up the matter on the spot and yield to the plea of the guilty not to make it a court matter. In this case undoubtedly there was no such plea. It was not necessary. But that does not alter the fact that we have more such cases than we should because for one reason or another the victim of another's recklessness or carelessness will not take proper action.

We are impressed with the statement that the 120 miles from the President's camp to the White House is made habitually in a little more than three hours. That's an average of 40 miles an hour. Not dangerous of itself with big, heavy cars, properly equipped and with experts at the wheel but we read: "The file of cars winds in and out the country roads, some of them dirt roads and under repair." Elsewhere we read of the "heavy weekend traffic." And again: "Often the President's chauffeur must use his emergency brake for quick stops." That's too fast driving under the conditions even if it is for the purpose of getting the President back to close touch with a Senate that breaks only the laws of common sense.

A NEW WHO'S WHO
 There is a new "Who's Who" out that ought to be in the public libraries and otherwise available to every one. It's "Who's Who in Quackery." And it is an extensive collection of names, when you consider that there are 25,000 listed as men and women who make their livings by impersonating physicians and "treating" the gullible public. Dr. Shirley Wynne of the Health Department of New York has compiled this remarkable list, including their criminal records, if any, their methods of operation and the nature of the so-called remedies with which they are or have been in the past identified. This file is primarily for the use of the New York Health Department to aid in its continuous war against these parasites but it is announced that anyone seeking information concerning a certain quack or his nostrum may write Commissioner Wynne and receive what information he has on the subject.
 This new rogues' gallery cannot do more than help a little in the constant battle of the medical profession and the health authorities to do away with the chicanery practiced by an astonishing number of people all over the country. Nothing but the slow education of the public will ever result in perceptible improvement and that is always going on. But where some reputable physician encounters a victim of one of these quacks it is quite possible that by proof obtained from this latest "Who's Who" he could be convincing where, otherwise, his mere blunt statement of the quackery would be taken as professional jealousy. The credulity of the human race is constantly amazing us all and nowhere is it more apparent than among those who have inherited the beliefs of ancestors whose hardihood and physical condition permitted them to live through illnesses in spite of the handicap of patent medicines or some cure-all nostrum obtained from some quack.

SAFE PLACES
 We never see anything with regard to the proper place to be during a thunderstorm that it does not have our closest attention. We never did like the "magnificent display" and, although we strutted about and pooh-poohed in the days when there were children to be convinced that there was nothing to fear, ever since that day when we felt impelled to open a faucet just as lightning connected with the pipe somewhere and we landed in a distinctly undignified attitude against the kitchen range, we have been unenthusiastic about these

WASHINGTON LETTER
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Washington—This year doubtless will come to be known as the time, when Uncle Sam, merchant prince, gave the cash customers a poke in the snout.
 History will also decide whether he got away with it. A lot of those damned foreigners who have been buying our goods have been insisting lately that he can't—and our export figures of recent months have been used to corroborate the contention.
 As everyone knows, were received from nearly 40 foreign nations against the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill. In the past few weeks there have been instances of discrimination against Soviet Russia and latest figures of our trade with her show an astonishing decline.
 A tangled situation
 Other factors than artificial trade barriers have entered into the unfortunate foreign trade situation, so it probably is too early to accept the assurance of those who insist it's all our own fault. Nevertheless, here are the latest facts and figures for whatever they may be worth.
 Exports to more than four-fifths of our principal markets dropped off in the first quarter of this year. There were declines of sales to Canada amounting to 23 per cent, Italy 35 per cent, Germany 26 per cent, Japan 34 per cent, Argentina 36 per cent, Cuba 23 per cent, Brazil 43 per cent, China 23 per cent, Australia 80 per cent and so on. Imports showed a somewhat lesser decline, generally than exports. Their declines in value has been attributed principally to low world prices.
 The U. S. Chamber of Commerce recently announced that exports for the first quarter, totalling $1,129,000,000, were only about four per cent below the average for the first quarters of the years 1924-1929, although they were 20 per cent below 1929. But the value of exports had been increasing steadily from year to year right up to 1929, when the United States reached a peak where it was unable to remain.
 In the first quarter our exports to Russia were going strong and the Chamber cites a 228 per cent increase over exports to the Soviet in the 1929 first quarter. But suddenly there has come a decided slump in Russia's purchases here. Exports to Russia in January were $2,430,000, but in May they were only $3,086,000—a decline of 75 per cent. Russia has been buying more from other countries and less from us. In the last three months of 1929 and the first three months of 1930 she purchased $44,163,000 from Great Britain as against less than $30,000,000 in the similar six-month period last year before.

 England has recognized the Russian government and the United States has not. It has been reported that the Soviet sought to distribute its orders as much as possible to nations according to recognition. Non-recognition of Russia, however, has been a longstanding American policy and there is no indication that Russia's commercial policy will affect our diplomatic policy.
 Russians Charge Discrimination
 But the Russians have also been complaining, as they cite our dwindling exports to their country, of various discriminating barriers raised against them. A large cargo of Russian lumber has recently been held up on the charge that it was produced by convict labor and there has been agitation for a general embargo both on Russian lumber and Russian coal. A 10 per cent compensatory duty on a cargo of Russian matches was recently assessed when it was complained that the matches were being dumped at less than cost price. The State Department has refused to permit Russia to buy military machines in this country and Russia presumably will buy them elsewhere.
 Department of Commerce officials, as if alarmed at the general trend, point out with respect to embargo that imports of Russian lumber and coal are negligible. No one is especially interested in the justice or injustice of tariffs and other trade barriers such as those lately aimed or proposed against Russia. What causes concern is the tendency of one blow to lead to another; the fact that trade barriers tend to reduce sales. And everybody knows that if exports don't pick up we can't get back to the peak reached by American business generally in 1929.

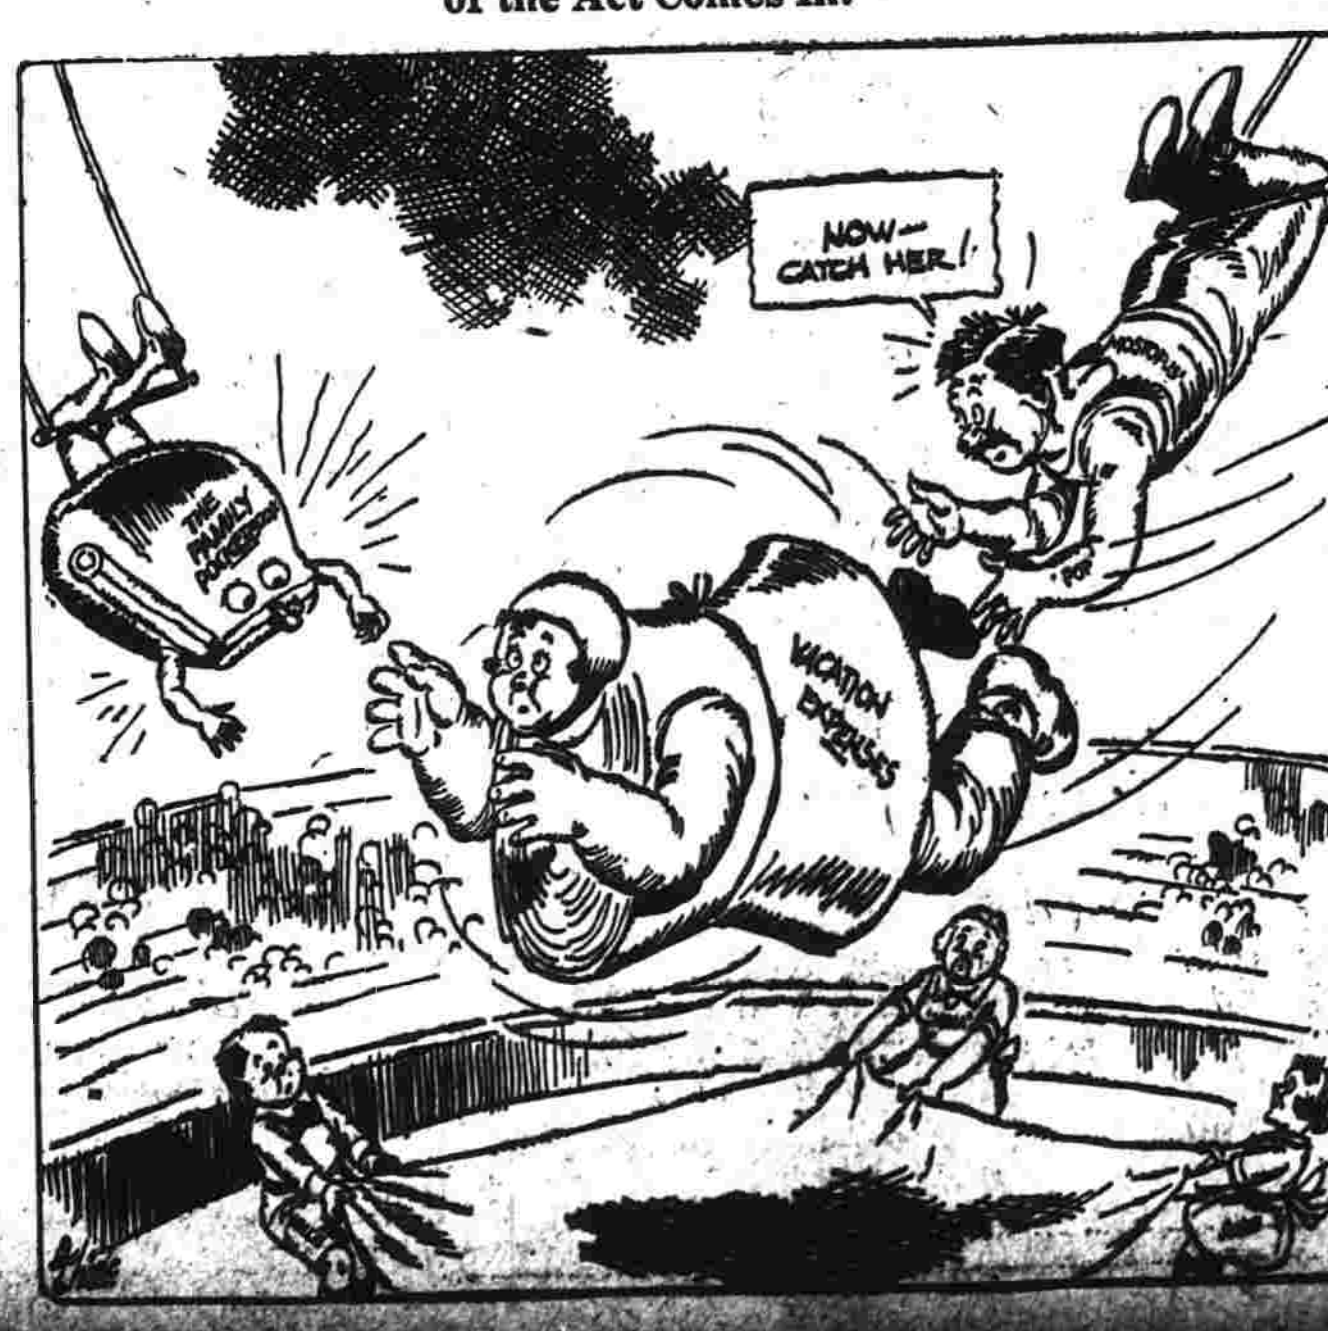

electrical disturbances. We never feel thirsty now during a thunder shower. We shall never again bring about a shortage of water in the reservoir so long as there is a storm in the vicinity.
 We have just waded through a lengthy article on what to do be perfectly safe in a severe electrical storm. When people are struck, we read, it is because they are so situated that they are offering a better conductor for electricity than the objects immediately surrounding them. We are advised to try and get where it is dry. That's one of our specialties. "Avoid open doors or windows and fireplaces. Don't stand under a chandelier and touch a water faucet." We can go that last one better. Chandelier or no chandelier let the faucet alone. There's a kick in it. "Keep below the water line in the boat. You're safe on a trolley car." Possibly, but there's never one around when we want to get in it-out of the wet. "The second story of a house is the safest." We're out of luck there for we didn't build any second story but shall immediately take the matter up with our banker.
 There's a lot more to this safety program but we see nothing better than grandma's idea of the middle of a feather bed, curtains drawn and pillows packed around our ears. All we need is the feather bed.

ECHO OF THE WAR
 After twelve years another of those echoes of the unpreparedness of the United States in time of war is heard. The Navy Department is about to sell through sealed bids late this month 1,000 "eyes of the navy" which it has been trying to return to the original owners but is unable to do so. Those who have memories for some of the short handedness of our equipment for war may remember that the navy broadcasted an appeal to private individuals for the loan of binoculars, sextants and spy glasses to serve as "eyes of the navy" because there were not enough obtainable by other means in this country to equip those of the United States who were called upon suddenly to "go down to the sea in ships." The call was answered by the "loan" of more than 50,000 of the desired instruments and of these only one pair was reported lost. Fifty-one thousand have been returned but after twelve years of correspondence the Navy Department still has 1,000 pairs of "eyes" it has been unable to return. So these are to be up for sale in wholesale lots which will be of interest to bird lovers who are always looking for bargains in glasses with which to spy out the actions of their feathered friends. As a matter of fact good glasses that saw service in this and the Germany navy have been more or less a drug on the market but the fact that there are more to be offered will nevertheless be welcome news to those always looking for a bargain.

IN NEW YORK
 New York, July 15—Coney Island, the bizarre . . . Coney Island, the raucous, the blatant, the fascinating . . . Coney, where you're likely to see anything and everything, is a recent Sunday scramble to catch a few of its many facets on the run, I reported fragments of its current scenes. And, paragraphically, mentioned that one of the most popular of the new crop of side-shows happened to be a re-creation of a prison, with a death chair and noose.
 But in the crush and push of the Sunday mobs, somehow I overlooked the white-haired man who, at the end of the show, makes a brief talk to come and punish a man. I missed it, I assume, because I hurriedly dashed in and out.
 Later a friend told me to go back. And back I went.
 For here, in a typical Surf avenue stage-show room . . . here in the catch-penny . . . "tan cents and you see it all, gentlemen," atmosphere, you'll come to the end of a notorious bad man's trail.
 Here, in a word, you'll find the white-haired Pat Crowley, western bad man who, something like a quarter of a century ago, had an entire nation stirred through the kidnaping of little Edward G. Cudahy, Jr. The kidnaping was, beyond doubt, one of the most spectacular crimes of this generation.
 And here is the bad man today—the daring, dangerous kidnap—white-haired and serious-faced old man with snow white hair, standing on the side-show lecture platform and, in sonorous tones, issuing solemn warnings to the boys and girls who troop in.
 "It doesn't pay, boys," he preaches. "It doesn't pay."
 Then he launches into a brief story of how boys go wrong and what penalty they must pay.
 All around him are the props of the "big house." The cells, the grim settings, the noose and the chair.
 There are two ex-convicts to furnish further atmosphere. There is one who started at nine with petty thievin' and who lived to figure in a bank hold-up in Minnesota. He was pardoned by the governor after serving about four years of his time.

 He points to the noose, he points to the chair, he points to a property guillotine, he points to the prison machine guns such as have riddled many bodies.
 "I hope," he concludes, "when you have seen where crime leads, you will take the straight road. For it doesn't pay."
 Whereupon the second ex-convict climbs into an electric chair and demonstrates how it works.
 So it goes on hour upon hour. The crowds pay their dimes at the window.
 And now the first ex-con goes through a grisly ballroom. He quickly turns his head to reveal the scars of three bullet wounds. He lifts a trouser leg to reveal other scars.
 "I got these in the Lake Street Bank Job in Minneapolis," he says. "Ray Sheldon, for such is his name. 'And I've learned my lesson. I tell you again, it doesn't pay.'"
 The old white-haired Pat Crowley mounts the platform again and says his say.

NEW ENDURANCE MARK
 Hackensack, N. J., July 14.—(AP)—Nearing the 200-hour mark, four Hackensack boys pedaled away today with the intention of riding until their bicycles wear out. Despite heavy showers the youths kept at their grind and at 6 a. m. (E. S. T.) had been going for 181 hours and had traveled 2,479 miles. Trying to beat any record, the Hackensack boys may set, five Newark youths already have ridden almost 70 hours.

HOW TO KEEP THE COLON CLEAN

If you would avoid the many troubles which originate from constipation you should begin immediately to keep your colon clean. Learn how to live so that your bowels move at least twice a day. Once the habits of healthful bowel eliminations are established they correct, provide the patient lives on. It is not difficult to train your bowels to act naturally, and you save yourself a lot of worry and illness. Once your colon functions normally, you will lose that heavy feeling and feel gloriously alive.
 Those who are drowsy when they get up should be wide awake as being poisoned slowly by bowel contents which have stayed in the body longer than they should.
 The first habit to establish is to go to the toilet regularly at definite times and stay there for at least five minutes. It is a great mistake to wait until you have to go. If you do not set aside a definite time in the morning and evening, something else is sure to avert your attention, and before you know it the bowels will become accustomed to their additional load and will fail to notify you.
 In nearly every case of habitual constipation these nerves become less sensitive and the patient may not be aware of his condition.
 The second good habit to form is to eat enough of the foods which contain cellulose to provide the bowels with roughage. At least two large raw salads and several non-starchy vegetables should be used each day and it is often a good plan to eat a fruit just before bedtime, such as an apple or orange, or some fresh apricots. One who lives entirely on concentrated foods which do not have the bulk that is contained in vegetables and fruits invariably is constipated. You have to eat the bowls something to do if you expect them to work.
 Another good habit to form is to keep the bowels moist so that they function more smoothly. A good plan is to take a drink of water when you first awaken in the morning, then drink some water in the middle of the afternoon. Try to drink at least six or eight glasses during the day. This, in itself, often brings speedy relief.
 Another good habit to form and possibly the most important of all for those who do not get much daily exercise is to develop the abdominal muscles. If the abdominal muscles are weak, you cannot expect them to do their part in assisting the bowels. It is usually an indication that the entire circulation in the abdomen is poor and needs improving. One who is constipated should take exercises for developing the abdominal muscles at least twice a day until they become strong and firm.

 If you learn how to keep your colon clean now before it is too late you may avoid the serious consequences of constipation and at the same time be rewarded with a feeling of better health than you have ever known before.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Ileocecal Valve)
 Question—Mrs. W. P. asks: "What diet and treatment do you advise in ileocecal valve trouble for a patient of fourteen years who has been sick most all her life?"
 Answer: I advise treatment with a sinusoidal electrical current. The diet should be one which tends to correct constipation. Do not worry about your trouble, as nine out of ten have it. Just pay attention to overcoming constipation so that your bowels move regularly three times daily.

(Cherries)
 Question—J. Y. writes: "In your catarrh fact, you give cherries. Is it all right to eat sour pie cherries raw? Are they just as good for one as the sweet cherries? You also state that cherries are a blood builder. Would the sour cherries be as good a blood builder as the sweet?"
 Answer: The sour or pie cherries would be just as beneficial for a fruit as the sweet cherries, if you prefer them, providing they are eaten without sugar.

(Burning Feeling)
 Question—I. O. M. asks: "Will you kindly tell me what might be the cause of a burning pain in the breast that comes and goes? Have had these symptoms for many years. Do you suppose it would be cancer slowly advancing? Have been examined by a doctor recently and he says there is no cancer. What causes the burning sensation which gives me such an uneasy feeling?"
 Answer: This may be due to recurring acute attacks of chronic mastitis which means inflammation of the mammary glands. A good blood cleansing diet and local treatments to improve the circulation should bring about relief.

And you go out into the sea air rubbing your eyes and wondering: "Ten cents, ladies and gentlemen," the Barker is crying. "Best show for the money in Coney . . . See the death chair in operation."
 The end of the bad man's trail . . . white-haired, a bullet-ridden . . . drawing the crowds of curious eyed . . . earning a living somehow and getting older . . . spectacular new criminals coming along and taking their dose and living for a day on the front page—Yes, it doesn't pay.

About New York
 By RICHARD MASSOCK
 New York—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is set before him and makes abbreviated speeches. This concentrated hero-fetters is tiring on the guest of honor and the effect is plainly visible in the slightly drawn, lean face of the admiral. He doesn't smile as easily as he did a couple of years ago.
 The reason is that in the first 19 days after his return to New York he was the guest and toast of an even dozen official luncheons and 16 dinners—an average of more than one meal a day at which he had to dip into courses from hours d'ouvertes to demi-tasse and acknowledge the plaudits of other guests afterward.
 The admiral, incidentally, ends his meal with a cigar.
 Food and Song
 In such a succession of entertainments the effort to introduce novel notes into the programs becomes rather intense.
 At one of the Byrd luncheons a diet especially dedicated to the polar explorer was included in the menu. Although there were no Frenchmen present, excepting the waiters, the recipe was printed on a slip of paper in French, beginning, "Eclair une belle saie d'agneau" and ending, "servir a part jus addition du sang de l'agneau." Apparently it was l'agneau, whatever that is.
 The same admiring host also had a baritone sing an ode dedicated to "our Heroes of the Air." To show the poetic heights to which hero-worshipping reaches in this day of stargazing in the air, here are the verses:
 "No need to wait in vain
 I found a lover's lane
 In cloudland, up above—
 The stars are all beckoning
 Let us little birds take wing
 And soar to the land of love
 There, where the stars are
 I could fly with you dear, from night till noon
 Should we need rest, I will build a nest
 On the crest of the dreamy moon.
 Will bid the earth goodbye, say hello to the sky.
 Storm clouds pass us by, there'll be no rain,
 All cares will blow away, with cupid's stowaway.
 While we fly thru Rainbow Lane,
 Byrd, the admiral; Bernst Shanon, the pilot; Russell Owen, the reporter, and Paul Siple, the Boy Scout of the expedition, were duty touched.
 CHAMBER
 At this same luncheon the desert was ice cream in the shape of South Pole penguins. The original intention was to have a vesper-quint at the table, so that a spokesman peepin' could say, as the chocolate coated birds were brought in, "Don't you think it was a mean trick, Admiral, leaving us down there?"
 Somehow the plans were changed and the birds were speedily dispatched to the land of the living. The admiral had been told about the arrangements and was curious to see and hear how it came off.

STUNTS FEATURE WATER CARNIVAL

Annual Fete At Globe Hollow Pool Tonight Starting At 6:30.

More laughs than Charlie Chaplin used to give a movie audience, will be enjoyed by the crowd of nearly a thousand persons expected to attend the annual water carnival at Globe Hollow this evening.

Those who trek to Globe Hollow will not be treated to mere speed races in assorted stroke events, but will see races that are of a handicapped nature. Included in the program will be an umbrella race, rubber ball race, fancy diving, watermelon race, straw hat race, water polo, greased pole climb and duck chase.

Neither is it an easy stunt to swim and eat a slice of watermelon at the same time. Most of us find it a sufficient task to eat the fruit, not to mention swimming.

Harry White will take care of the announcing duties. There will be prizes for all events. The junior and senior life-saving corps will give demonstrations.

SIGNS OF TROUBLE AT INDIAN PARLEY

London, July 15.—(AP)—There were signs today that a preliminary storm was brewing around arrangements for the round table conference of Indian affairs in London in October.

Many members of the House of Commons during the past few days have professed uneasiness as to the government's attitude toward the report of the commission of Sir John Simon, suspecting an inclination on the part of the government to ignore the report and favor Indian Nationalist aspirations.

These members have become increasingly insistent that Great Britain must not be represented at the conference by the Laborite government alone, contending that as all shades of India opinion have been invited, the British delegation also must represent all parties in Great Britain.

The Conservatives at a meeting yesterday passed a resolution emphasizing the value of the Simon report as a basis of discussion at the congress and urging that all parties be represented.

STRIKES IN EGYPT TAKE SERIOUS TURN

Alexandria, Egypt, July 15.—(AP)—The general strike called as a demonstration in behalf of victims in recent political rioting in Mansourah and Bilbeis took a more serious turn today and got out of hand.

After beginning in orderly fashion, riotous youths started breaking shop windows in Mahomat Ali Square and stoning police, who were forced to retire. A lorry was attacked and upset.

A committee of the Wafd, which although in a majority in the Egyptian Parliament constitutes the governmental opposition, ordered the strike for two hours but enjoined their supporters not in any wise to break the peace.

A crowd of young Egyptians barred the streets and assembled in Mahomat Ali's Square until dispersed by police with batons. Afterwards they proceeded up the main street shouting, "Long live Nahas Pasha," and waving pictures of the former premier.

Unusual Program for Gift Night—Lawrence Tibbett to Be Heard in "The Rogue Song"—Lions Club Benefit on Same Bill

Tomorrow night will bring to Manchester theater patrons two splendid attractions at the State Theater—the third of the popular Merchants' Nights and the Lions Club benefit performance of "The Rogue Song," with Lawrence Tibbett of Metropolitan Opera fame, in the starring role. These features will be offered at no advance in prices.

LAWRENCE TIBBETT and CATHERINE DALE OWEN in "THE ROGUE SONG"

As usual a large number of articles will be given away free, including furniture, wearing apparel, sport goods, automobile accessories, etc. These gifts are obtained from leading Manchester merchants and are of fine quality and of much value.

Lions Benefit
The picture tomorrow evening is a special one, obtained especially for presentation by the Lions Club. The club recently voted to establish a Lions Recreational Camp at Bolton Lake for the use of local junior organizations. The benefit is being held to raise funds to further this work and will be used in maintaining the camp and equipment.

Lawrence Tibbett, known as the greatest living baritone, and the first American to reach the top-most position in operatic circles, is now blazing a new trail, for he is the first major opera star to be featured in a talking picture.

"The Rogue Song," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-talking drama of the Caucasus, filmed entirely in Technicolor, with Tibbett as the star, will open tomorrow at the State Theater. Tibbett sings songs ranging from those of operatic caliber, with a symphony orchestra accompaniment, to simple love ballads.

Tibbett's Story

The son of William Edward Tibbett, former sheriff of Kern County, California, who died capturing the bandit McKinney, Tibbett was born and reared in the West, and after attending school in Los Angeles became an actor. He was discovered by Josef DePuy, and he was launched in opera. Today he is one of the greatest of the Metropolitan stars.

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer signed him for the new picture, special preparations were made, for it was to be the first approach to an operatic film. The story was written by Frances Marion, with dialogue by John Colton, of "Shanghai Gesture" and "Rain" fame. Herbert Stothart was chosen to compose the music, Clifford Grey wrote the lyrics, and interpolations were contributed by Franz Lehár. Besides Tibbett's songs, there is one with a woman's chorus sung by Elsa Alsen, Wagnerian soprano, and one with Wallace Macdonald and a male "bandit" chorus.

Spectacular Ballet Scenes
The Albertina Rasch Ballet, in a spectacular all color number with a hundred girls, dance to special music written by the modernistic composer, Dimitri Tiomkin.

Despite the elaborate music, ballets and color, it is said the picture is not "high-brow." Lionel Barrymore directed it as a drama of adventure, love and romance, with the music a part of, rather than the principal factor of the drama.

Tibbett plays a swashbuckling Russian Robin Hood, head of a gang of singing bandits who steal from the rich and give to the poor. Catherine Dale Owen plays the princess whom he meets on one of his raids and learns to love. This love plunges him into the series of adventures which makes up the story.

The festival in the village, the escape from the Cossacks, the abduction of the princess, her rescue by the Russian soldiers, and Tibbett and his singing band, singing as they ride over cliffs at breakneck speed are some of the interesting details of the production.

For comedy, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, Hal Roach's comedy team, are present. They play two of the bandits and their continuous clowning through the story furnishes hilarious comedy relief.

Picture Has Brilliant Cast
The cast includes Judith Vestell, Wallace Macdonald, Nance O'Neil, Kate Price, Ulrich Haupt, Burr McIntosh, Lionel Belmore, James Bradbury, Jr., Florence Lake, Youcca Troubetzkoy, Elsa Alsen, Allen Morgan and John George.

It is Lionel Barrymore's first production since "His Glorious Night," in which Miss Owen and Miss O'Neil played with John Gilbert. Haupt played under Barrymore's direction as La Rocque of "Madame X" and Belmore in the director's "Unholy Night." Percy Hilburn handled the camera battery and Charles Dorian assisted Barrymore in the direction.

The Story
Yegor, tribal chieftain of the Caucasus, a colorful singing chief of a band of mountain bandits, meets Vera, a Russian princess, when she and a countless are marooned by storm in a mountain inn on a trip to Riga. He sings to the princess, who is attracted to him. The countess, jealous, plans to have him captured and hung, but the princess, hearing the plot, saves him.

Yegor visits the princess in a palace at Riga, and just as love is acknowledged between them, he learns that his sister is dead, ruined by the brother of his sweetheart. In revenge he kills the brother, and the princess bewails her brother's death "for the sake of a robber's trull." Yegor, furious at the words, kidnaps her, taking her to his band where she, too, will be a robber's woman.

The princess undergoes the hardships of travel with the band with scorn, and finally Yegor's love blinds him to her trick, when she persuades him to take a certain route, which leads to the stronghold of her uncle. His soldiers capture the bandit chief, and he is lashed and tortured.

Then, as remorse strikes her, and an understanding of what was in his soul, she has him released, but the barrier of royal blood between them still stands in the way of love, until the dramatic climax solves the problem of their strange romance.

DANCING JUDITH

By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH GRANT, artist's model, lives ALAN STEYNE, painter, who is also loved by CHUMMY MORLEY. Judith's roommate and best friend, Chummy had loved Steyne years ago, and had suffered a loss of memory when he went away; so, although Steyne loves Judith, Judith insists that it is his duty to marry Chummy, who has regained her memory at sight of him. Steyne and Chummy are engaged, and Judith studies dancing under the great teacher, GUARVENIUS, while rich BRUCE GIDEON—whom Steyne distrusts—offers to star her in a musical show. Guarvenius is killed in an auto accident, and Chummy breaks her engagement after she sees Steyne kissing Judith. RICHARD WYON, a friend of Guarvenius, rebears Judith for a new show he is putting on. She meets RASTIEN DUMONT, an artist friend, in a cafe, and they discuss the breaking of Chummy's engagement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

Judy leaned across the table, her eyes big with a feverish question.

"What do you mean, Bastien?"

"What else? What do you know?"

"I ought to tell you, I suppose," the young man said rather unwillingly. "It seems mean. She's not here, and she might hate anybody to know."

"Would Chummy hate me to know anything?" asked Judy, reproachfully.

"No—not you, Judy," he said quickly. "Of course, not you. Well, you know she's taken a studio in a building near mine, and a little bedroom, and a funny little garage just off the stairs, with a gas ring and a sink. Before she went she just told me that she wasn't going to be married. She didn't explain, and somehow I didn't like to ask her. She moved her things in and asked me to keep an eye on them while she was away. There is no housekeeper in the building, and she was going to leave me the key."

"Well, not to make it too long, I mistook the day she said she was going, and, not receiving the key, I went round to inquire. The door of her studio was open, and it looked empty, so I went in. She wasn't there, but I looked through the door of the other little room, and there she stood. I oughtn't to have looked, but she stretched out her hand and she had a small photograph in a kind of miniature frame."

Judy nodded, catching her breath. "His—Mr. Steyne's—I know! He gave her the photograph long ago."

"I recognized it," Dumont went on, "because she had shown it to me at the cafe—I suppose it was the day he gave it to her. Well, Judy, she was looking at it, holding it in her hand. Then she stretched out her arms wide and stood like that for a moment, and then she clasped her hands together and bowed her head. Then she kissed the photograph—kissed it over and over again. I don't know how I got away, but I was upset; but, thank heaven, I did get away before she saw me. Now, Judy, I ask you, would she have acted like that if she didn't care for the chap?"

Judy said nothing. She sat with

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Use Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

her chin in one hand, the fingers of the other drumming on the table.

"Judy, do you think he really cared for her?" Dumont went on.

"Of course, Alan cared for Chummy! Don't be a fool, Bastien!"

"It just occurred to me. You know what kind of a girl Chummy is—one of the world's very best. It occurred to me that it was just possible she had found out that he didn't care for her, and she had made it up about not wanting to be married."

Judy looked at him with a thunderstorm face.

"Bastien, you're a perfect goose!" she said angrily. "It must have been a quarrel. They'll make it up when they come back. I wish you hadn't told me!"

When she got back to her rooms, she sat by her window with a very sad little face.

She was wondering. Was it possible that Chummy had guessed something? Had Alan been so foolish, so wicked, as ever to let her see for a second that he did not care for her? No, of course he couldn't. It was impossible that Chummy had guessed. That would be too great a calamity to contemplate. But why, then, had she decided not to be married?

Judy had got proscenium boxes for Bastien and Tony Leigh and Michael Stone. She would have filled all the boxes if she had not been checked.

She had a beautiful seat all ready for Chummy, of whom she had heard nothing since the receipt of a post card from the coast in reply to Judy's long and rambling account of her extraordinarily good fortune.

It came to the last day before the first night. Judy's heart was very sore. Chummy not to be there when she first danced in public! Every few minutes of the day she found herself thinking about it.

Alan she dared not think about; but Chummy—it seemed to her that Chummy was the most important person in her life. All those years when she and Chummy had fought life together—all those poor, hard-working years! Years of slavery, yet they had been happy in a way. And had Chummy forgotten it all? Didn't she care a bit?

Then, going home about six o'clock, Judy found Chummy waiting in her little sitting room. As usual, it was a bower of flowers. She knew now that Gideon sent them; but she had said nothing. She loved them too much.

"No, Mr. Gideon! No, Tony and Michael! No, all of you! I'm tired out. Call me a cab. I'm going home alone to cry myself to sleep!"

HOW TO SHOP

REAL ANTIQUES GROW FEWER

By William H. Baldwin

The number of real antiques in furniture naturally diminishes from year to year through fires, breakage, etc. The appetite for other persons' heirlooms just as steadily increases. The ingenious answer to the resulting problem is to apply modern methods of mass production to the antique business. Without this faking many a quaint roadside shop would go out of business and many a country auction would never be held.

The furniture industry is borrowing heavily from the old masters of cabinet design through copies of their most famous designs. Where these reproductions are honestly labeled and are sold at fair prices, they have a legitimate place in the furniture market, but they can best be bought from the reliable firms in the towns and cities.

The intelligent shopper will pay current prices for her furniture and leave the field of antiques to the expert collectors.

HAVE YOU HEARD?—

You can stimulate the effect of expensive tiled steps by using stencils and bright paint on the risers.

Select a single stencil design, a primitive design, if you will. Paint the risers with cream enamel. When thoroughly dry, apply the stencils, all in with marine blue, wood greens, a little terra cotta and some sunny yellow or whatever colors you want.

Your selection of both stencil design and color should depend on your interior decoration scheme. Also, a simple design, done in rich colors, is a better choice than a too intricate one. Somewhere in the design you should repeat the tone of the tread of your stairs.

my, so much older but so much more beautiful.

The great night was indeed a great night. It was a stupendous, a blinding success. It was, silent with the silence of acute enjoyment; it was noisy with the noise of uncontrollable enthusiasm. The house yelled and roared, and held its breath, and yelled and roared again.

Little Judy Grant was a great dancer—there was no doubt about that.

She was the whole program. There was a ballet, of course, and a very good one. She herself had only three people appearing with her, and they were mere adjuncts, though useful and appropriate ones. Her dances were danced alone.

Judy had three changes of scene. First came a Greek scene, in which she did three different dances—a woodland dance, a girl playing ball, a beautiful night to the music of Pan pipes.

The next was an elaboration of the Italian night that she had danced at Alan Steyne's, and here she had on the stage a boy who played the guitar.

The third was a series of old English dances, which brought down the curtain, and Judy, as Jack-in-the-Green, was simply irresistible, laughing out of her little green house of foliage. As an encore, she gave a child's dance in front of a Punch and Judy show.

The final curtain fell on an indescribable scene of enthusiasm. Up at the back of the gallery, Alan Steyne had stood from the first moment the curtain went up. He had returned from Paris unknown to everybody.

To him it was a night of wild torture and of wild delight. The artist in him reveled in it. The man loathed it. For the most part, while the program was going on, the artist carried the man away.

When the calls could no longer be held, the manager had announced, Judy's complete exhaustion, Alan ran down the steps like a madman. He hung around the stage door. A big car was drawn up there. Alan knew whose it was. He was blind and mad with misery but he could not go away.

Presently a little person came out. He crouched in the shade, and breathed with relief. A crowd of men swept around it—the boys from the Cafe Turc. Gideon's bulky figure fought through them to Judy's side.

Then Alan heard her voice, gay and hoarse and half delirious. He caught a glimpse of the familiar many-colored shawl in which she was wrapped.

"No, Mr. Gideon! No, Tony and Michael! No, all of you! I'm tired out. Call me a cab. I'm going home alone to cry myself to sleep!"

Washington (AP)—Alice seems to be a popular name in the household of Sen. Reed Smoot.

Before Senator Smoot's recent marriage, there were three Alices in his immediate family. Now they will welcome a fourth in his bride, who was Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets of Salt Lake City.

"Alice the first" is the wife of Senator Smoot's son, Harold Reed

Smoot. They live in Washington. Mrs. Smoot is a close friend of Mrs. Edward E. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis.

The second Alice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smoot. Her elopement and marriage to Frederick Howard Chambers of Washington when she was 17 caused a stir in capital's society circles.

The senator's granddaughter gave up a brilliant debut to wed the man of her choice.

FALL COLORS

Colors for autumn promise to run a riot of browns, with deep reddish browns in the lead, and all tawny tones that spell autumn and turning leaves. Burgandies and a tone called purple iris will be good. Clear greens, national blues and all the violets will be much in evidence. The most important single color item is the off-black. There are green and blue blacks, blackberry and raspberry black. Fall fashion shows are the order of the day and both current prices for her furniture and leave the field of antiques to the expert collectors.

This Bavarian cream is from Oscar of the New Waldorf and will be easy for the cook who has an automatic refrigerator.

To one pint of thick cream add sufficient sugar to sweeten it and flavor with vanilla or lemon.

Whisk the cream to a froth, which should be removed as rapidly as it appears, and put in a glass dish. Take one and one-half tablespoons gelatine, and after it has thoroughly dissolved, add it to the froth, and mix for 15 minutes. Place it on ice, or in a very cool place, for a few hours, when it will be ready for use.

Herald Patterns—Important

We are awaiting a new lot of Herald pattern cuts for insertion in the Herald, and beginning with this new series, we will make a change in the method of handling which we believe will result in quicker service for our pattern customers. All orders will go direct to the Fashion Bureau, Manchester Evening Herald, Fifth Avenue and 29th Street, New York City, and all correspondence in regard to patterns, delays or errors will be handled by them direct with the customer.

We would suggest that when stamps are enclosed for payment that they be of the two or one-cent variety. The pattern people receive thousands of orders every day and their preference is for currency. If the coins are placed in a small envelope of stout paper, or well wrapped in paper they cannot work out of the envelope. Occasionally customers sew the coins in cloth put them in coin holders, or paste them with adhesive tape to pieces of paper. Be sure to see that the number on the coupon corresponds with the number at the side of the pattern illustration; and that the size and address complete is given in order to avoid delays.

London.—Since the silent pictures with their captions which could be easily read, have been replaced by "talkies," movie attendance by the deaf is nearly impossible. A London theater has adopted a novel system to please the partially deaf. Through an amplifier, the screen conversation is taken to several seats throughout the theater. Headphones are attached to these seats, and for a small additional sum deaf persons can hire these and regulate the sound to their liking.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

If you want to talk whether the more elegant straight band baby is warm or cold, feel his feet, for a few weeks it gives a little So. in this discussion of clothes, I support abdominal muscles. Later this support is not needed.

In very hot weather, an older baby may go barefooted as well as base footed, except for his thin, partially woolen band and diaper. Also, a very young baby with clothes long enough to cover his feet often may need nothing extra on his "piggies." But I should have within easy reach both knitted woolen booties and soft meringe stockings for the new baby, and cotton or silk stockings and shoes for the older one.

Stockings of wool with a little hair, linen or silk in them cost a bit more but usually save their own price because they are not so likely to shrink.

If a young baby's feet feel cold, I would pop on the stockings. If very cold, on would go the soft booties too.

Bands Are Puzzle

Probably there is no discussion in that world that would seem to be of much interest and dissemination as the "band." What should it be like, how heavy must it be, how tight, when worn, how long must it be worn?

The first bands should be torn from soft white flannel and should be about 6 or 8 inches wide and twenty inches long. They should be worn until the umbilical or naval scar is healed—unless the doctor has secured the surgical dressing over the scar with bandages. In this case the shoulder bands are sometimes used from the start. But new babies usually are treated to

Ask the Doctor

In hot weather, the band need not be all wool—the combination mixtures are better. Older babies may wear the shoulder strap bands of wool and cotton gauze. I think it just as well to consult the doctor about weights and bands.

In buying shirts, get them big enough. The first size is soon outgrown. They may be either of light wool, cotton or silk, or the desirable mixtures. For hot weather, the lighter is the better. The new baby probably will wear both band and shirt for a while, even on warm days. Ask the doctor when he may go without his shirt or flannel petticoat or both.

All babies will need both bands and shirts or very cool flannel. As a matter of fact these two articles are year-round clothing for the baby of any age, the exception being the very hot weeks of summer. Heavier shirts are needed for the winter.

Shorter Dresses

The petticoat for the new baby need not be more than ten or twelve inches below his feet. The baby born in midsummer may have it still shorter, as well as his dresses or slips. Thank heaven we have gotten away from those archaic things, two-yard dresses. The first dresses now run about 28 inches from neck to hem. Flannel petticoats should be of very light weight for hot weather. A baby needs no muslin petticoat.

Dresses or slips are made of soft muslin or batista or long cloth. No trimming. They can be made like kimonos to fasten in front or with drawstrings around neck and arms. This allows for growth. Tucks in each shoulder have advantages, as they can be let out.

Night dresses usually are made of part wool or cotton flannel. A drawstring through the hem is fine for cold weather.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famous Authority

EXCESS OF ACIDS IN BLOOD MAY CAUSE SERIOUS CONDITION.

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

The blood is the fluid which circulates in the arteries and in the veins carrying nutrition to the various organs, bringing them the necessary glandular secretions, and carrying away waste products. Any changes that take place in the blood because of disease, or bad diet, or poisoning, promptly manifest themselves by symptoms, provided the changes are sufficiently marked.

Fortunately the human body is provided with factors of safety and the blood has remarkable powers of adjustment to minor changes. Under average conditions of activity of the organs of the body and ordinary food intake, the acid waste products of the actions of the body are in excess of those with a basic or alkaline reaction. Since the alkaline reaction is necessary for proper health the body has mechanisms for taking care of the acid waste products.

Whenever the production of acid or the intake of acid producing substances exceeds the ability of the mechanism to get rid of the excess a condition results that is called acidosis. Usually the trouble arises from inability to handle properly the digestion of proteins and fats or from excesses of these substances. Sometimes it is due to disease of the kidneys resulting in improper elimination or to dis-eases of other organs which are chiefly concerned with digestion.

The most obvious symptoms of acidosis are headache, weakness, rapid breathing and a sort of fruity odor to the breath. The most certain tests are made in the laboratory. Examination of the excretions and of the blood of the person afflicted reveals the presence of the acid substances, and shows absolutely the alkaline reserve and the acid state of the blood.

Acidosis is thus not a disease in itself but the manifestation of changed conditions of the body brought about by various diseases. The first step in the control of the condition is to find out what is causing the acidosis.

If the diet is faulty it may be modified by adding substances which tend to have an alkaline reaction when finally taken up by the blood. In severe grades of acidosis large doses of sodium bicarbonate are given by mouth, by injection into the blood and in other ways. If the amount of carbohydrate or sugar intake is insufficient additional carbohydrate may be given promptly also by all the methods that have been mentioned.

Famous screen stars say: "Lovely Skin"

"Nothing attracts people as instantly and surely as smooth lovely skin," say 45 leading Hollywood directors. The famous screen stars agree for they have found that beautiful skin is the first essential for stardom.

To pass the pitiless lens of the close-up, a star's skin must be flawless smooth. How significant is the fact that 9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap.

Blanche Sweet's great popularity on the screen is due in part to her exquisite skin.

Greta Nissen's unbelievably lovely skin is like a white rose in moonlight. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap makes my skin wonderfully soft."

Suffering the hottest weather ever known during a big championship tournament, golfers battled the bunkers and traps of Interlachen in the National Open. WHITE SOX SPLIT WITH THE YANKS Win First 10-9 But Lose Second 7-2; Robins Increase Their Lead.

The Chicago White Sox may be struggling along in the second division of the American League, but they still have the profitable faculty of doing the unusual at the unusual time to pup up an otherwise drab ball game.

Always known as a team capable of playing championship ball one day and then going to the other extreme the next, the Sox yesterday produced a few more variations in the way of baseball entertainment as they divided a double bill with the New York Yankees.

The opener went to the Sox, 10 to 9, in a long, wild affair that lasted one minute short of three hours. The Yankees took the night cap—a tame affair, by the score of 7 to 2, in two hours and four minutes.

They started off by pulling four errors to help the Yankees into a big lead. This advantage was soon wiped out by an attack by the Sox. With two out and Reynolds, the Sox also tied the American League double play record, pulling five.

It took the Athletics 11 innings to beat the St. Louis Browns but they finally managed to work out a 9 to 7 decision and increase their lead in the junior circuit to 2 full games, as Washington fell before the up and coming Detroit Tigers, 8 to 4.

The Browns tied the Champions in the eighth and again in the ninth but could not equal the two runs in the eleventh. Walter Johnson tried two pitchers against the Tigers but Detroit found the pair for 13 hits to make it three to one for the current record.

In the other American League contests the Indians made it three straight over the Red Sox, winning 8 to 2 when Wes Farrell sealed Milton Boston in a hurrying dash. Only one game was played in the National. The Brooklyn Robins increased their lead to three games as they beat the Pirates.

The Oaks baseball team doubled the score over the Buckland outfit in a baseball game at Buckland. The score was 13 to 6. Beebe hit safely five times and thus was the outstanding player. The summary:

THINKS U. S. WILL BEAT FRANCE WITHOUT TILDEN

By CLAIRE BURKEY NEA Service Writer. Are you one who believes that an American group will defeat France in tennis and return to these shores with the 80-year-old victory token, the Davis Cup?

If you are skeptical, perhaps you could be convinced a bit more easily by the fact that Bobby Jones recently brought home two trophies equally as famous as the Davis Cup—the British Amateur and Open golf crowns.

Not sold yet? Then look back a few days at the results of the Wimbledon tennis tournament in which Big Bill Tilden captured what really amounted to the world's singles championship and Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn tucked away for the second straight year the Wimbledon doubles title.

But let's forget all about Tilden; he says he won't play with the cup team. And in figuring this as America's year for sport supremacy, let's overlook the departure of the heavy-weight boxing champion, too. Nearly every one is convinced that no American fighter is good enough to wear the crown as well as Tunney, Dempsey and some others who have conceded the title just as young Christian Bousquet. The return of the cup to this country, then, depends on two more American victories which Lot or Allison or both must gain.

A few days ago, dopsters would have conceded Cochet two singles victories right off the reel to offset the lone doubles victory by the Americans. Young Mr. Allison Opinions seem to be at variance with regard to what the young American quartet of Allison, Van Ryn, George Lott and Johnny Doeg will do against the French, providing they leap the barricade thrown up by the European zone winners, which may be either Japan, England, Australia or Italy.

I'm confident that Allison, the Texan, and Van Ryn, the Jersey youth, will defeat the best doubles combination France can offer, which is likely to be Jacques Brugnon and young Christian Bousquet. The return of the cup to this country, then, depends on two more American victories which Lot or Allison or both must gain.

YANKEES WIN IN W. S. LEAGUE

Defeat Red Sox Easily; Errors Are Many; Brothers Pitch.

Table with 5 columns: Team, Won, Lost, Avg. Lists Athletics, Red Sox, Pirates, Yankees.

Last night's game in the West Side baseball league was featured by the Fraser brothers both left-handed, pitching for the opposing teams. Neither pitcher was very effective but the errors were plenty on both sides.

Marcus Moriarty made a real catch of Falkowski's Texas leaguer back of first base when he stuck out the glove and it connected. It seemed strange to see good ball players sitting on the bench while Fraser and sixth innings were the big ones for the Yankees while the Red Sox got theirs in the second and fourth. There were plenty of chances to score but the Sox were not there.

Colchester Is Playing At The Green Tonight

After the Cleveland Indians had lost 22 out of 25 games in a recent disastrous slump, Owner Alva Bradley took the boys out to Pepper Pike, an exclusive country club, for dinner.

The other teams put salt on their tails. Maybe Bradley would hurt the lads. Since the war three players have won all the women's singles championships at Wimbledon. Lengien won six times. An 18-year-old boy pitches every day to some of the world's greatest hitters. He's Lewis Bernhard Krause, of the Media, Pa., high school wonder who is on a 25-day trip with the Macks. He sings 'em at St. Simons, Fox and the rest of the boys in batting practice. He's a right-hander, and won 20 straight games for his school during the last two years, and his dad was John E. once a sou'paw star in the Blue Ridge League.

Manchester baseball fans who have not yet seen the Manchester Green team in action will get another chance tonight up at Woodbridge Field where the Colchester town team will be the opposing attraction. Play will start at 8:30 after 6 o'clock for the benefit of those who wish to attend the Spalino-Fernandez scrap in Hartford later in the evening. There will be ample time for both.

The Green slumped down to Colchester not so long ago and gave the villagers quite a beating. Colchester will present a much different team tonight. Manager Sam Prantice declares. Young Woodbridge will be the mound for Manchester and Eddie Boyce will probably play first in place of Tommy Hunt, regular first-sacker who has left town temporarily at least. Manager Prantice said yesterday that he did not know what Hunt would return, if at all. The balance of the Green's lineup will be as usual.

In view of the forthcoming town series between the town teams, it is expected that a good sized crowd will be on hand to watch tonight's game. Included in the onlookers will be the members of the West Side, admitted arch rivals of the Green, and probably several of the Ben Ami players.

Casey's Hicks at The W. S. Tonight. This evening at the West Side playground the American Legion boys' baseball outfit engages another budding local outfit called Casey's Hicks. The last game well known on the basketball court but their diamond activities have not been very prominent. It's planned to start the battle with the following batting orders:

Table with 5 columns: Name, AB, R, H, PO, A, E. Lists players like L. Waner, Chagnon, Brann, etc.

Washington.—(AP)—While nations will not vie for the Wheeler trophy until 1931, the deadline for entries has been fixed for July 31. The race, worth $25,000, will take place between June 1 and September 30 next year with Great Britain, winner of the last contest, as host.

Speeds in excess of six miles a minute will be sought by airplane pilots in the closed circuit. Two revisions in the rules have been made by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, certifier of world aviation records.

A deposit of about $5,000, will be required of each nation or club entered, to be refunded if the plane for which it is posted arrives, even though later eliminated. Navigability and watertightness tests have been eliminated in favor of taking off and alighting.

Rich Italian Takes Job In Order To See Races. Indianapolis.—(AP)—Because of the lure of the Indianapolis auto races, the son of a wealthy Italian family has taken a job with the Gianfranco Comotti, bailed by his father when he attempted to enter last year's 500-mile race; turned from dependence on his family to be free to race.

Last year he created an Italian car and shipped it to America for the Memorial day classic. He never drove it, for his father not only purchased a controlling interest in the racer but saw that no visa would be given for the son's trip. When the paternal ultimatum was given, young Comotti left for a mechanic's job in Paris so he might come to the race this year.

GIANTS SHIRES PROSPECT ENDS UP AT GOOSE CREEK. Dallas, Tex. (AP)—Len Shires, brother of Arthur (The Great) Shires, found the big league tough, and despite efficient ball-playing, failed to make the grade. Len, chunky and younger than the Great One, in three months dropped from a place on the New York Giant roster to an infield berth with the Goose Creek mine of the South Coast league, a semi-pro outfit.

The young Shires was something of a show piece in the Giant's training camp at San Antonio, and sports writers giving considerable attention. From season to season, however, he has been in games here and there, but never in the South Coast league.

MANDELL IS STILL OVER THE WEIGHT. New York, July 15.—(AP)—The question of whether Sammy Mandell still can make 135 pounds with out materially weakening himself will have to wait until Thursday night when the lightweight king defends his title against Young Al Singer of the Bronx.

Up at Orangeburg, N. Y., where the champion is training, himself announced yesterday that Sammy was under the class limit, but skeptical critics took leave to doubt it. They were of the opinion the holder-needed two days of "bodding out" to tip the beam at 135 pounds Thursday afternoon. Supporters of Singer base their hopes of victory on the signs they claim to see of Mandell slowing up. Speed had been Mandell's stock in trade and if he has slowed up considerably then Singer conceivably can win, otherwise the Bronx youngster figures to make little better showing against Mandell than did Jimmy McLarnin.

Yesterday's Stars. Grove, Athletics.—His relief pitching enabled A's to beat Browns in 11 innings. Wright, Robins.—Accounted for nine runs with two homers and a pair of singles. Ferral, Indians.—Recorded 13th win of career, beating Red Sox, 3-2. Gehrig, Yankees.—Hit 2nd and 3rd homers in double bill with White Sox. Alexander, Tigers.—Drove in five runs with double and three singles against Senators; won three games.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York—Dr. Hortense Powdermaker, 28 anthropologist, has returned from a ten months' visit to the South Seas, where all there is to divorce is returned by the wife's family to the husband of a string of shells he paid at marriage, where children smoke at 3, where there are no drinks except water and coconuts milk, where it is improper for men to dance with women.
Guantanamo, Cuba—The age of Camilla Thaurance, nee, who died Monday, is recorded as 157 years.
New York—The latest in exclusiveness is the Cloud Club, which occupies the 66th, 67th and 68th floors of the Chrysler building. It is a luncheon club for business men. Harold E. Talbot, Jr., polo player, is president.
Asbury Park, N. J.—One simply must play contract. All auction competition of the American Bridge League was cancelled because only one pair appeared to compete. An army turned up for contract.
New York—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody has won a Wimbledon Cup four times but has never seen it. She doesn't know whether there is such a cup; she thinks it must be imaginary. "Anyway," she added, "one plays theoretically much nicer in the way of a bowl or a picture, which is much better for the home."

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 5 opened its meeting at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday night with the Salute to the Flag. Following this came inspection and a few Luigi Pirandello's "The Man with the Flower in his Mouth," with a cast of four characters, three of whom were portrayed in subscribers' homes showed pictures of their acting of about postcard size, sometimes clearly and sometimes blurred. While the experiment met with at least a reasonable measure of success the critics opined that development had much further to go before perfection would be approached.
London, July 15.—(AP)—Last night's broadcasting by radio television of a play given in a studio room was accompanied today by the critics as an historical event and scientific achievement.
The Baird system of television was used. The play chosen being "The Man with the Flower in his Mouth," with a cast of four characters, three of whom were portrayed in subscribers' homes showed pictures of their acting of about postcard size, sometimes clearly and sometimes blurred. While the experiment met with at least a reasonable measure of success the critics opined that development had much further to go before perfection would be approached.

CURLEY NOT INVITED TO DEMOCRATIC PARLEY

Boston, July 15.—(AP)—A commanding position in Congress awaits the Democratic party after the November elections in the opinion of Joust Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National committee.
In an address before the Jefferson Society of Massachusetts here last night, he declared, "Our adversaries have practically admitted they will lose 80 or 40 House seats." He said it was a certainty that the party would make startling gains in both Houses of Congress.
The enactment of the Grundy tariff bill was declared to be "part of a calculated movement to repay the large contributors to the Hoover campaign fund."
No invitation to the dinner was sent Mayor James M. Curley. Late in the evening he admitted he was not invited and said he would not have attended had an invitation been sent.
Frank J. Donahue, chairman of the State Democratic committee, addressed the meeting.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES PROBE CONTINUED

Chicago, July 15.—(AP)—The Senate inquiry into the campaign expenses of Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican Senatorial nominee, was directed today toward the activities of various Chicago and Cook county business and political leaders in her behalf.
Having completed her own testimony before the committee, Mrs. McCormick was prepared to cross examine witnesses whom Senator Nye said would testify that considerable more money was spent in behalf of the nominee than was shown in her statements.
Senator Nye declined to mention the names of these witnesses but he granted Mrs. McCormick the right of cross examining them when they appear.

BOY KILLS NURSE

Green Pond, N. J., July 15.—Robert Woolsey, 14 years old, son of a Jersey City paint dealer, was in custody today charged with the slaying of his nurse, Miss Anna Miller, 23, of Scranton, Pa.
Miss Miller's body with two stab wounds in the abdomen and five in the back was found yesterday in a ravine at the foot of Lookout mountain. She disappeared Sunday when she left the summer home of her employers for a walk with the boy.
Young Woolsey, who was described by police as large for his age and of abnormal mentality, was in charge when he walked into police headquarters at Dover, N. J. last night and asked for a night's lodging. State police said he confessed to the slaying.

TELEVISION TEST

London, July 15.—(AP)—Last night's broadcasting by radio television of a play given in a studio room was accompanied today by the critics as an historical event and scientific achievement.
The Baird system of television was used. The play chosen being "The Man with the Flower in his Mouth," with a cast of four characters, three of whom were portrayed in subscribers' homes showed pictures of their acting of about postcard size, sometimes clearly and sometimes blurred. While the experiment met with at least a reasonable measure of success the critics opined that development had much further to go before perfection would be approached.

ROCKVILLE

There will be several speakers of prominence as well as entertainers from the Actors Colony at South Coventry.

The meeting is one of a series to arouse interest in "Getting Connecticut out of the Mud." Rockville would like attention given to the road between Rockville to Coventry. During the summer the road is not so bad, but during the winter it is almost impassable and one must travel by way of Manchester.

Discussion Over Booms
The rooms recently vacated by the Prescott block are the subject of much discussion the past two weeks, two organizations claiming Degree of Pochontas and Victory Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus being the two organizations interested. The rooms it is learned were promised both organizations and the trustees, much of their goods was moved to the new rooms. The other organization also had a key.
The owner, Max Lerner of Hartford, could not be reached by the representative of Victory Assembly after she had his promise for the rooms, and neither organization seemed to know how to settle the situation, so Kiowa Council withdrew from the picture, going back to Red Men's hall.
At last reports it was doubtful if Victory Assembly would take over the rooms, as the members feel they have not been given a square deal.

Also Make Attempt To Cut Off Nationalist's Supply Of Money.

Direct effort to cut off one of the Nationalist's money supplies was made by Northern Alliance spokesmen at Peiping today when they warned local Chinese bankers here not to make loans to Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nanking government. Northern spokesmen said such loans would be criminal acts, punishable by the Peiping Alliance.
The warning came after a report was circulated saying Chinese bankers had given Chiang $10,000,000 Mexican (about $3,500,000 at present exchange rates) to pay his troops. The truth of this report was not established, although it was considered likely because Chinese bankers have been co-operating with the Nationalist finance ministry in executing the government's program.
The bankers often have been unwilling to supply these funds and have done so only under government pressure.

That quite a few Manchester people who patronize the beaches have acquired extremely painful sunburns, causing fainting spells, chills and fevers by the simple process of taking a dip in salt water and then lying on the hot sand all day.

That a placard prominently displayed at one of the rooming houses at a beach considered popular with local folks has printed in large letters "Front door locked at 10:30 p. m." and in small type "Slide door open."

That a swell joke to anyone with a sense of humor can be found in the story in the local newspaper, the headline of which begins "Temperance Hosts."

That Main street tomorrow will be as silent and quiet as the boys who bet on Bobby Jones in the British Open are when someone asks "And did you get your money?" And that's plenty quiet. . . . The reason being the annual outing of the Merchant's Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

LOCAL MAN FIGURES IN ROCKVILLE CRASH

George L. Graziadio Driver of Truck That Struck Automobile Last Night.

George L. Graziadio of 264 North Main street, was the driver of an automobile truck which struck another automobile in Rockville last night sending three persons to the Rockville City hospital. One of them, Mrs. Eunice Rich, of Tolland avenue, Rockville, had four ribs broken. Her husband, Alfred Rich, was badly bruised and Gerald Goodrich, a nephew, had four front teeth knocked out.

Graziadio escaped with minor cuts and bruises and was attended by a Rockville physician after which he returned to his home. Officers Richard Shea and Peter Dowgiewicz investigated but made no mention of arrest. Graziadio was passing a horse and wagon at the time of the collision which occurred on the Hartford Turnpike road near the Vetterlein gasoline station at 9 o'clock.
