AUTO CRASH FATAL TO LITTLE GIRL HERE

Six Year Old Adelia Miller, of Lilac Street, Killed At Columbia Saturday.

Acceptance of an invitation to go riding Saturday afternoon brought death a short while later to Adelia Miller, six years old daughter of Mrs. Mary Miller of 7 Lilac street...

Four of seven adults involved in the accident were injured, none seriously. The sedan was driven by John Manyak of 60 Bodwell street...

The Ford roadster had four passengers and two of whom needed medical attention. Albert Thibault of Putnam had a bruised leg and C. W. Frink of 30 Oak street...

A telephone call to a neighbor of Mrs. Miller was put through from the scene of the fatality and the neighbor was asked to notify her of her daughter's death.

Rev. W. P. Bailey of the First Baptist church was notified and he broke the news to the mother, who was widowed a year ago last January.

Two children survive, a brother, Walter, age 11, and a sister, Felicia, age 12. Felicia was enjoying a two week's vacation at the Kiwanis Kiddies Camp at Hebron when she was apprised of her sister's tragic death.

Manyak is being held on a technical charge of larcinatory police, under bond of $1000, pending the outcome of the inquest of Coroner Yeoman's to be held today.

The funeral of Adelia Miller was held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the home and at 10 o'clock from St. James cemetery.

A huge crowd was in attendance at the funeral this morning and the shrouded casket was carried to the church and also read the committal service at St. James cemetery.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Andrew Schlessinger sat up in the middle of the night and aroused her husband.

"Burglars!" she whispered. "Burglars in the house, get up!" Andrew Schlessinger was annoyed.

"It's the heat, my dear," he murmured, "and the humidity." "It's burglars, I tell you, get up!" said his commandant.

Mr. Schlessinger, resignedly, agreed to take measures to frighten away any uninvited guests. He reached through the darkness for a revolver in his bureau drawer.

Mr. Schlessinger turned on the light and discovered that he had shot George Samuels, negro, a burglar.

State Briefs

FIND BODY IN RIVER Derby, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The water of Naugatuck river today had yielded the body of Mike Sandus, 40, but had given police no indication as to how the man met his death.

The body, fully clothed, was found by boys yesterday. Dr. F. N. Loomis, medical examiner, expressed the opinion that it had been in the water several days.

Police could find no reasons which might have led Sandus to commit suicide, while the body showed no marks pointing to foul play.

CAPT. HARDY DIES New London, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Captain Edgar J. Hardy, 65, commander of New England Transportation fleet, died yesterday at the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital after a brief illness.

He was taken ill aboard his vessel, the New Hampshire about two weeks ago and removed to his quarters at the hospital. At that time his condition was so serious no hope was held out for his recovery.

AUTOIST SENTENCED Westport, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Merritt Jennings of Hills Point road, today was fined $100 and sentenced to 10 days in jail by Deputy Judge Herbert E. Baldwin, when he was found guilty of drunken driving in town court.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT Waterbury, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Olga Schultz, of Middletown was in a serious condition in a hospital here today, the victim, police believe, of a small boy's poor aim at a visiting friend here. She was seated on their front porch when three shots rang out from a woods opposite the house.

The woman screamed as a bullet struck her. At a hospital it was found that the slug was from a .22 caliber rifle. Several small boys, it was reported, had been shooting at a target in the woods.

CHOOSE NEW PASTOR New Britain, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Ukrainian church has chosen Rev. Nizankowsky of Seymour as a successor to Rev. Peter J. Pashewych, discharged after his indictment by a Federal Grand Jury on a charge of perjury out of investigation into withdrawals of sacramental wine.

Rev. Nizankowsky who has held a pastorate of the Ukrainian church of Seymour since July, 1929, has served in Fall River, Mass., and Providence.

SUPREME COURT REPORT Hartford, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors has just completed the biggest year in its history, having had before it for consideration a total of 220 cases.

AUTOS IN STATE Hartford, Aug. 4.—(AP)—On August 1 of this year the number of registered motor vehicles in Connecticut was 337,149, an increase of but 4,588 over the number of cars registered from January 1 to August 1, 1929, when the number was 332,561.

STATE'S HEALTH Hartford, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The number of diphtheria cases reported in Connecticut for the week ended at noon today was but four, according to the weekly report of the state department of health, being two less than last week.

AUTOIST BOUND OVER Greenwich, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Frank W. Bosworth, 17, was bound over to Criminal Superior Court today on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Mary who was fatally injured by an automobile driven by Bosworth. Bond was fixed at $2500. A coroner's finding held Bosworth responsible.

CHARGED WITH MURDER Greenwich, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Presented in court with one arm in bandages, Antonio Andreon, accused of killing his wife, Rita, was bound over by Judge W. Stanley Finney, to the next term of the Criminal Superior Court today on a charge of murder in the first degree. He was held without bail.

Actuated, police say, by jealousy, Andreon fired two shots from a double barreled shotgun into his wife's body at the height of a quarrel in their home on July 25. He barricaded himself in the house and was shot by police during an exchange of fire. He also fired a bullet into his chin in an attempt to commit suicide.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Anne McAdams of William street will visit tomorrow for a two weeks' leave with relatives and friends in Massachusetts. During her absence her beauty shop at 22 William street will be closed.

The regular monthly meeting of the Manchester city club will be held in the club rooms Thursday evening followed by a luncheon. The club's annual outing will be held Sunday at Ossano's cottage in Bolton.

The Bon Ton miniature golf course at Hollister street opened up Saturday afternoon and did a good business during the afternoon and evening and all day Sunday from 10 a. m. until midnight. Free parking space is provided.

Miss Betty Crooks entertained with a bridge Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Edward Robb who is leaving Manchester soon to make her home in Washington, D. C. Mr. Robb having been transferred to that city by one of the insurance companies.

About twelve of Mrs. Robb's young women friends were present. The first prize, a pair of silk stockings, was won by Miss Antonette Jamroga. The consolation prize, a box of writing paper, was captured by Miss Florence Wilson. Mrs. Robb received a farewell gift from her friends of dainty lingerie. A buffet luncheon was served.

Yesterday the union services of the Center Congregational and South Methodist churches concluded at the last named church, and beginning next Sunday, these two churches will unite for the morning services on Sunday at the Masonic Temple. Speakers will be engaged by the Center congregation and the music will be in charge of Carl McKinley and the choir of the South Methodist church.

The Center church organist, Miss C. Louise Dickerman and the quartet of Center church has been in charge during July.

A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. John Quish at the home of Mrs. Quish's mother, Mrs. John Murphy of North School street.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Wetherell of Elm street and son, together with Earl Wheeler and wife of Oakland street, left yesterday on a ten-day automobile vacation trip which will take them through Maine and into Nova Scotia.

Bernard Hart of Murphy's Pharmacy returned to work yesterday after a vacation spent visiting different golf clubs in the state.

Those who think that this make believe game of golf is not going need only to visit the small course on the old circus grounds on Hollister street and will find the players in operation up until midnight.

Miss Lucille Dunn of Middletown is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. J. Murphy of Strickland street.

It will be necessary to raise two water catch basins at the Center after the removal of the water rails. The rails should be out of the way today and the building of the basins one near the fountain and the other on the west curb will be raised to prevent any delay in applying the paving stones.

Considerable traffic congestion has resulted since the work started, especially at the time the buses are due.

A meeting of the Neighborhood Club has under consideration plans for the annual Kiddies day program at the East Side playgrounds, which was a big success last year.

Floor and sidewalks from School and Eldridge streets are about complete in the operation of closing in the so-called dry basins in the rear of the business buildings on Main street. The bridge over School street is practically complete and the bottom and sidewalks under the Keith building are about half finished.

The floor on that between Eldridge and Maple streets is finished and work has been started on the sidewalks.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Baumgartner of Norwich, spent the week-end in town, visiting friends. Mr. Baumgartner is a former resident of Manchester.

Members of Manchester Lodge, No. 1477, Loyal Order of Moose, met at the Home Club on Brainard Place, last night and then went to the home of Leonard J. Duguet, who died suddenly Friday night at 22 Ridge street, where the Moose funeral ceremony was performed and respects paid to the departed member of the lodge.

It was Jacques of Lyons, France, who invented the loom. His neighbors mobbed him because they feared it would throw them out of jobs.

The Herald Hears

That William Sperber has given up golf and is going in heavily for horsemanship—Bill explains it in this wise: lose a golf ball and it's gone, lose a horse and it's in the stable when you get back.

That all who hail from the bonny banks of Scotland should take advantage of the fact that wrestling is being offered at low prices at the Hurley Stadium... and that joy of joys ladies are admitted free.

That it won't be long now before football tags will be overlapped in preparation for the opening of the season late in September.

That Milton Harris, much bally-hooped tennis player, who at one time captained the Oregon State College team, may not enter the town tournament here after all... which means there will be no chance for the tennis lovers to see how Harris would fare against the town champ, Ty Holland, under the strain of tournament competition.

That patriotism runs high at Globe Hollow, a flag pole having been erected on the raft—the National colors are raised and lowered every day with a simple ceremony.

Only One Petition for Construction Before Selectmen—Demand Lessens.

Every piece of sidewalk and curb for which there has been a petition presented is cleared up, according to the records of Town Treasurer G. H. Waddell and Town Engineer J. Frank Bowen. There is a petition in for walks and curb on Moore street, running south from West Center to Summer street, about which there will be a hearing on August 12.

It is just thirty years since the Town of Manchester first took up the question of building sidewalks and curbs and there was much arguing just how the work was to be paid until W. S. Hyde, then in the Legislature, put through a bill that two-thirds of the cost should be charged to the abutting property owners.

There was such a demand made for walks that the work has never before been caught up. Last year only $6,000 was appropriated for the work so small was the demand. This has taken care of a few special jobs and aside from a few work already done Contractor Henry Ahern has completed his work for the year.

THIRTEEN DIE IN ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

Two Waterbury residents, John Conlon, 28, and Joseph Campbell, 29, a negro, drowned in Wolcott. Conlon drowned in Lake Hitchcock when his canoe upset, while Campbell was seized with cramps while swimming in Chestnut reservoir. Willis Gardner, 25, of Westport, drowned in Long Island Sound off Norwalk when he dove off a boat. He was attending an outing of the Westport Painters Union.

Rose Gainefelice, 19, of Springfield, Mass., was fatally stricken with heart disease while bathing in Lake Congamond, near Suffield. She collapsed while standing on a raft and toppled into the water.

A cerebral hemorrhage, believed to have been brought on by heat, caused the death of Leo Zone, 53, of Stamford.

SWINDLERS LOSE OUT IN WELL LAID SCHEME

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 4.—(AP) A well rounded-out scheme of Joseph P. Well, notorious confidence man, known as the "Yellow Kid," was marred by instance for ready cash, Jacob Kindelberger, president of the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parcelling Company, said today in describing his transactions with the former convict, whose picture he pointed out to Chicago police yesterday.

Kindelberger denied the accuracy of reports from Chicago that he had gone there to meet the confidence man and sell him the local concern. He declared that Well and two Chinese had obtained money from him while pretending to be negotiating for the production of paper by a process on which they held patents.

Well, Kindelberger said, represented himself as a Mr. Devereaux of Shanghai and presented convincing "credentials." The instant and repeated demands for advances, he said, caused him to start an investigation through Chicago agencies.

He said he went to Chicago, not to meet the confidence man, but to look at pictures in the police identification bureau, where he selected that of Well as "Devereaux." He declined to say how much money he advanced to the trio.

GIRLS SELL TICKETS FOR LIONS BENEFIT

Dance To Be Held At Sandy Beach Ballroom Tuesday Evening, August 19.

Local girls 16 years of age and over will be given opportunity to sell tickets for the benefit dance to be given Tuesday evening, August 19, at Sandy Beach by the Manchester Lions Club, in an effort to assure banner attendance at the affair.

Every girl selling tickets will receive an individual award depending on the number of tickets which she disposes of, and will have a chance to win the grand prize, to be awarded the girl in Manchester, Rockville, Stafford Springs or Willimantic, selling the greatest number of tickets.

Lionel J. Kennedy and his Hotel Bond Broadcasting orchestra of ten pieces will play for dancing. The proceeds will be used for the Lions Recreational Camp at Bolton lake. This camp will open in a week or ten days and is at the disposal of local junior organizations free of charge.

Members are now busy improving grounds and building of the camp.

All girls who wish to sell tickets for the dance and compete for the grand prize, as yet unannounced, are asked to get in touch with George W. Bagley of Mackley's Chevrolet Company.

The Lions Club will hold its weekly meeting tonight at 6:15 o'clock at the camp. Thomas Conran, recently chosen chairman of the North End Merchant's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, will cater.

G. O. P. CONVENTION

Farmington, Conn., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Republican State Central Committee will meet at the Farmington Country Club tonight to select the place and time for the state convention. The committee will also designate the date for the holding of caucuses in the state at which delegates for the convention will be named.

The Democratic State National convention in Bridgeport last week chose New London and left the selection of a date to the committee.

The Republican convention will probably be held some time between September 1 and 10.

For years the Republicans have held their conventions alternately between Hartford and New Haven.

PASSPORT FORGERIES

Figueira, Portugal, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The police today arrested three men in connection with their investigation of passport forgeries by which Portuguese passport holders had entered the United States were supplied with counterfeit visas.

The authorities were ordered to watch emigrants for illegal papers. The police said their prisoners were Antonio Fabiano, Antonio Dos Santos and Avelina Finaal.

VARIED PROGRAM FOR 4TH CONCERT

Band to Render 15 Numbers Tomorrow Evening; Given From 8 to 10 P. M.

An extremely well planned and varied program will comprise the fourth concert in the series sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and presented in Center Park every Tuesday evening by the Salvation Army Band. Tomorrow night's program of two hours—8 to 10 o'clock—consists of 15 numbers, including a trombone quartet, in two appearances, a cornet solo, and a Sousaphone duet.

The trombone quartet will consist of Bandsman William Hanna, Russell Clough, Alfred Clough and Leslie Larder. Harold Turkington will be the cornet soloist. The Sousaphone duet will be by Arthur Kittle and Robert Richardson. Last week the band sang the negro spiritual as a male chorus and the success of this novelty was such that singing will be repeated tomorrow night.

Among the numbers will be "Songs of the Evangel," consisting of several numbers, all composed by Commander Evangeline Booth; Goldman's famous march "On the Go," and Sousa's "Fairest of the Fair."

The program in its entirety follows: March—Stand to Arms... Marshall Selection—Songs of Praise, Hawkes Trombone Quartet—Masses in the Cold Ground, Stephen Foster March—Flag of Freedom... Coles Cornet Solo—Londonderry Air... Old Irish Overture—Songs of the Evangel... Broughton March—Fairest of the Fair, Sousa Medley—American Melodies... Broughton Sousaphone Duet—Rocked in the Cradle... Knight March—On the Go... Goldman Trombone Quartet—Silver Threads... Danks Song—Little David, Negro Spiritual Selection—My Jesus... Kitching March—America... Broughton National Anthem—Star Spangled Banner... Francis Scott Key

NEED NO PASSPORTS

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Peruvian government today notified New York steamship companies that American citizens will need no passports in the future to enter Peru.

Until a few months ago a visitor to Peru from the United States required a passport, a vaccination certificate and a police certificate of good conduct. Now none of the three is required.

Grace Steamship Company officials were credited with the negotiations resulting in the lifting of the restrictions.

great powers to areas to which they previously gave scant attention. He mentioned Wrangel island, Spitzbergen, North Greenland and Iceland as sites of possible future bases and said that when such areas are in doubtful legal status they deserve the "vigorous" prosecution of any valid national claims.

British Claims Dr. Laura Martin, geologist and geographer of Washington, D. C., discussing Stefansson's claims to Wrangel island on behalf of the British and his assertion that America was next in point of discovery and exploration, said "British claims were surrendered by the MacDonald government. American claims were never officially abandoned and the Soviet Union has now been in continual occupation for nearly seven years."

Another Expedition Declaring that the increase of scientific agriculture, the march of civilization nearer the Poles and the increase in aerial navigation had such bearings on the Arctic as to warrant observations in Polar regions, Dr. Martin told the conference that a movement is now on foot to organize next year another Polar year on the fifteenth anniversary of the first.

The program was discussed in Copenhagen, September, 1929, and brought before scientific bodies and governments and there will be another meeting in Stockholm this August," she said. "The plans so far include reestablishing the old station and adding new ones in places adequately covered before, particularly in the Soviet. All must have Greenwich time. In the Antarctic it is hoped to have three definite stations and it is hoped that the whalers will co-operate by providing transportation as they have to scientific parties before."

Helps All Nations "When these observations are in and the results correlated and studied, one may safely say that a great many problems in meteorology and earth science will be cleared up and it is hoped that a feeling of inter-dependence between the nations will be set up which may counterbalance in part the nationalistic claims in the Polar areas."

Dr. Bishop C. Hunt of Harvard University, discussing questions of monetary stabilization since the close of the World War before the "Recent Economic Changes in Europe," said that although stability of the exchanges is an established fact, we still face the problem of world-wide stabilization in the value of gold.

England, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, the Netherlands and Switzerland have returned to their original par, he said, while Austria, Belgium, British India, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Latvia, Poland, Rumania and Russia have stabilized at a new par or established an entirely new currency.

who were only a few miles eastward from the city. The military ignored such pleas. The Communist capture of Changsa was the inevitable result. Similar outrages are easily possible throughout Kiangsi, Hunan and Hupah, as all places therein are virtually defenseless.

Mrs. Lingie, now 62, said both she and her husband were within two years of retirement and that their savings representing forty years of work in China, had gone up in flames in Changsa.

"I think it probably best that we retire to America and make way for younger hands who may better understand the new China and her strange ways," said Mrs. Lingie.

TO HELP OUT COPS Malden, Mass., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Men who kissed a heart-felt goodbye to uniforms and patrol duty after their war service some ten years ago have offered to get back into uniform and do some more patrolling August 20 just so that Malden's policemen may have a day's outing together.

The members of American Legion Post 69, have voted to offer their services to the city and place at its disposal Legionnaires in legion uniform to take the place of a policeman relieved for an outing that may last from noon until 9 p. m. on the 20th. Police Commissioner Artemas B. Sweeney, who is considering the offer, has indicated that he is in sympathy with the proposal.

HALF ASLEEP, SHOOTS MAN

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Andrew Schlessinger sat up in the middle of the night and aroused her husband.

"Burglars!" she whispered. "Burglars in the house, get up!" Andrew Schlessinger was annoyed.

"It's the heat, my dear," he murmured, "and the humidity." "It's burglars, I tell you, get up!" said his commandant.

Mr. Schlessinger, resignedly, agreed to take measures to frighten away any uninvited guests. He reached through the darkness for a revolver in his bureau drawer.

Mr. Schlessinger turned on the light and discovered that he had shot George Samuels, negro, a burglar.

FLOODS IN INDIA Karachi, India, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The flood peril in the reaches of the upper Sind, continued unabated today, with an area of about 200 square miles covered by water.

Additional breaches in the canals were reported, with washouts on important railroad lines threatened. Looting by lawless bands added to the troubles of the fleeing population.

At Sukkur, where thousands fled last week as the swollen waters of the great Indus river swept down upon their homes, a clash occurred last night between Hindus and Moslems. Axes and knives were used freely and some casualties were reported.

WATCHMAN MURDERED Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Shot twice with his own gun after he had slain one of his attackers, Everette Ingie, mild watchman, was killed last night in a battle with unidentified negroes.

Witnesses told officials a negro girl asked Ingie to quell a disturbance at her home. When Ingie arrived three negroes attacked him. A search was being made for the two who escaped.

WEEKLY REPORT OF CABLE NEWS

High Spot of News Was Atlantic Crossing by the British Dirigible.

By Associated Press. To a world perturbed by earthquake horrors, flood ravages and bandit depredations, the mightiest vessel of the air last week gave the thrill that comes with observing peaceful and pleasant accomplishment.

Great Britain's aerial giant the dirigible R-100, made the hazardous westward crossing of the Atlantic ocean to set a new speed record for that direction flying from England to Montreal in 78 hours, 51 minutes, for the 3,384 miles from mooring mast to mooring mast.

Stricken Italy. Stricken Italy cleaned up the devastation left by the earthquake of the week before. The dead were buried, injured persons were placed in hospitals, food and water supplies were arranged and public services were restored.

Other Floods. Other floods were reported from the region of Khiva, Uzbekistan, U. S. R. The Amudarya river, largest in Asiatic Russia, swept away 300 houses, drowned thousands of domestic animals, destroyed crops and washed out numerous dams.

British ratification of the London naval treaty was completed. Since the United States also has ratified, only the approval of Japan is needed for the three-power pact which was signed at London in April. The Japanese Privy Council now is studying the document.

An international anti-war day decreed by the Communist fountain head at Moscow caused little trouble over the world. Some arrests, mostly preventive, were made in the various capitals of Europe but there were no important disorders.

LONG COUNT BARRY IS KAYOED BY COP

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Dave Barry, who gained the sobriquet of "Fourteen Counts" after the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Soldiers Field in 1927, was knocked out early today by a Niles Center policeman.

Barry, according to Robert Bowman, was parked along a suburban road within the village limits of Niles Center, and the automobile had no lights aglow.

The policeman investigated but Barry refused to answer questions. At the Niles Center station, the prize fight referee refused to leave his car, but when Officer Bowman attempted to drag him out, "Fourteen Counts" jumped to the ground and assumed a fighting pose.

CONN. AUTO DEATHS 155 IN SIX MONTHS

Slight Reduction Over Similar Period Last Year Statistics Show.

A total of 155 people were killed in Connecticut in automobile accidents during the first half of this year.

In the six New England states during the first six months, 618 persons were killed in this way, according to state reports compiled by the Traveler's Insurance Company.

This was more than 3 per cent less than the number of deaths during the first six months of last year, when 639 met death in motor vehicle accidents.

Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut report fewer motor vehicle deaths in the same period of 1929, while increases have been reported in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Last year 1695 persons were killed in automobile accidents in New England states which toll was 100 greater than the 1928 record. The 6.27 per cent increase in such deaths, however, was less than the average increase for the country as a whole.

Vermont Has Big Gain. During the first half of this year fewer persons have been killed in automobile accidents in New England each month, as compared with the same period of the preceding year, except in February and April.

The greatest improvement in the automobile accident death record has been reported in Rhode Island, with a decrease of 25.45 per cent, while the gain of 62.5 per cent in Vermont is the greatest.

The deaths as reported by the New England states from January to June inclusive are 47 for Maine; 26, Vermont; 34, New Hampshire; 315, Massachusetts; 41, Rhode Island and 155, Connecticut. It is probable that the number of deaths for the last half of this year will greatly exceed the loss of life reported from January to June inclusive, as the toll the last half of 1929 exceeded the record of the first six months of last year by 65 per cent.

13,000 Killed in Ten Years. In the last decade, approximately 13,000 persons have been killed in automobile accidents in the six New England states. From 1920 to 1929 inclusive, the motor vehicle accident death toll has been 962 in Maine; 532, Vermont; 6509, Massachusetts; 1132, Rhode Island; 3,268, Connecticut, while New Hampshire, with figures available only since 1925, has reported 408 deaths in the last five years.

Only once before in the last decade, according to available figures, has New England been able to affect a decrease in its automobile deaths in any one year as compared to the preceding. The records for each year during the period 1920-25 inclusive for all New England, except New Hampshire, are 959, 955, 979, 1,163, 1,262 in 1925, while for all states in the period 1925-29 inclusive, the yearly records are 1,509, 1,346, 1,440, 1,585 and 1,695 in 1929.

BRAZILIAN PRESIDENT REACHES ARGENTINA

Rio De Janeiro, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Dr. Julio Prestes, president-elect of Brazil, returned to Rio De Janeiro this morning after an absence of more than two months in the United States and Europe.

Following a greeting at the dock by Mello Vianna, vice president, other governmental officials, American ambassador E. V. Morgan, and other diplomats, the president-elect gave a short reception at a downtown hotel. He then called upon President Washington Luis at his palace.

Dr. Prestes said his plan for Brazil was to unify all political writing states and thereby promote peace and labor throughout the country. Speaking of his visit to the United States he said: "I found there great interest and sympathy. Not only toward myself but to the entire Brazilian people. My greatest impression of the country was the spirit of work shown and the desire of Americans to live at peace with all peoples."

The president-elect spoke feelingly of his reception in Washington and expressed warm admiration for President Hoover.

MENCKEN TO MARRY

Baltimore, Aug. 4.—(AP)—H. L. Mencken, prospective benedict, after writing gibes at the tender passion for two decades, had but one comment today on the announcement of his engagement to Miss Sara Powell Haardt, writer for magazines.

"I formerly was not as wise as I am now," he said. Mencken, editor and critic, said plans for the ceremony were "very indefinite."

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Electric power production by public utility power plants totaled 7,746,476,000 kilowatt hours in June, compared with 8,014,202,000 in May and 7,768,000,000 in June last year.

July crude oil deliveries by the Prairie Pipe Line totaled 4,711,206 barrels, a daily average of 155,200 barrels, compared with a total of 5,571,207 barrels, or a daily average of 185,707 barrels, in June. Deliveries in July last year totaled 7,048,297 barrels, a daily average of 227,364.

Public offering is expected this week of an issue of $1,000,000 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par value $100, of the Eastern New Jersey Power Co. to provide funds to reimburse the company in part for additions, extensions and improvements to its properties, including a new electrical generation station at Sayville, N. J., and for other corporate purposes.

J. P. Morgan and Company did not exercise its option, which expired Saturday, to buy 90,000 additional shares of the capital stock of Proctor and Gamble company, at $80 a share. The stock is now selling between $70 and $75 a share on the New York Stock Exchange.

The London Stock Exchange and the London and Liverpool markets were closed today, because of a bank holiday.

Deposits in mutual savings banks in the United States increased $273,766,807 in the six months ended June 30, compared with a decrease of $32,710,076 in the same period of 1929, the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks reports. Total deposits in the country's mutual savings banks June 30 last amounted to $9,148,891,859.

In the six months ended June 30, Ford passenger cars accounted for 41.4 per cent of all cars of all makes registered in the United States. Ford trucks also advanced their position in the industry, accounting for 45.7 per cent of new truck registrations in the first half of this year.

A plan has been formulated for consolidation of Chemical National Associates, an investment trust with the Chemical Bank Trust Co., and its securities affiliate, Chemical National Co., on a basis of 2 1/2 shares of associates non-voting stock for one share of Chemical Bank stock. Formal action on the plan will be taken by directors soon.

BIG MERGER SUIT ENTERS 6TH WEEK

Youngstown, O., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Plaintiffs in the injunction suit to block the proposed merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel today contested 33,304 additional shares of Sheet and Tube stock which were voted for the merger by proxy.

The contested proxies, representing the holdings of 23 stockholders, were introduced into the court record by Attorney Park Chamberlain, member of counsel for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests which are opposing the merger. Among the 23 holders were listed the Union Trust Company of Cleveland and the Cleveland Trust Company.

This increased to approximately 270,000 the number of contested shares which were voted for the merger in the proxy war that preceded ratification.

As the injunction hearing entered its sixth week this morning, Thomas J. Bray, a director of Sheet and Tube and former president of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, was called to the stand by the plaintiffs. Bray recalled that Eaton at a meeting here following the approval of the merger by Sheet and Tube directors on March 12 spoke of a "grave error" in the report of Price, Waterhouse and Company, the firm which audited the Bethlehem books. He said he made some investigation but not of the Price, Waterhouse report.

"We based our judgment in voting for the merger partly on the Price, Waterhouse report, the reputation of auditing firm and other things," Bray testified.

TO SCRAP 3 WARSHIPS

Washington, Aug. 4.—(AP)—First in ratifying the London naval treaty, the United States today stood first also in placing its terms in effect. Three of its 18 battleships have been ordered withdrawn for scrapping this fall.

The Wyoming, Utah and Florida will see the end of their long service before the year is out. The treaty does not require their disposal until much later, but besides the international disarmament example involved the United States will find in their retirement a saving of nearly $4,000,000.

This economy is the first to be made known by a government department since President Hoover's recent call for a reduction of all expenditures in the government departments which will not lessen efficiency or cause unemployment. The crews of the three vessels will be distributed through the fleet which has practically no ships manned up to full capacity.

TEXTILE WORKERS STRIKE

Lille, France, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Thousands of workers in the textile industry of this region today struck for higher wages. Union officials estimated the number of strikers in this neighborhood at 100,000 but said the strike was not general as some organizations failed to obey the order.

DEMOCRATIC HEADS GATHER FOR TALK

Roosevelt, Raskob and Al Smith Hold a Midnight Pow-wow.

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A powwow for the sole purpose of enjoying each other's company, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, John J. Raskob and Alfred E. Smith were assembled in the Hampton today.

On a tour of the state parks along the south shore of Long Island, the governor arrived at 7 o'clock last night to visit his law partner, Basil D. O'Connor at West Hampton.

At 10 o'clock the Democratic national chairman and former Governor Raskob left Camp Place Inn at Hampton Bays, where they were staying at the O'Connor residence.

"This is the truth, Billy," the former Governor said solemnly to one of the newspapermen who was a friend to his Albany days, "we're just going over there to have a nice sociable time and tell funny stories."

Political observers, however, insisted that when Franklin D. Roosevelt, John J. Raskob and Alfred E. Smith foregathered for a midnight pow-wow, they just couldn't be merely telling funny stories or talking about the Smith and Roosevelt grandchildren.

There were a number of theories as to what may have been discussed at the conferences. One was that it might have to do with the policies of the party on certain public questions to come up at the state convention at Albany Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. Some of the observers had an idea, too, that Governor Roosevelt's possibilities as candidate for president in 1932 might come up.

50TH VICTIM DIES

Boston, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The 50th victim of the Fairfax-Pittsfield disaster on June 10 was added to the roll today. She was Mrs. Katherine Marsh, 25, wife of Lieut. John Marsh, U. S. N., a passenger on the Merchants and Miners Line steamer Fairfax, which rammed the oil tanker Pittsfield off Scituate during a dense fog. Mrs. Marsh died Sunday night at the Carney hospital in South Boston, where a number of more seriously burned survivors were taken. She was a resident of Norfolk, Va.

At the same time it was learned that the Merchants and Miners Line planned to have Captain Archibald H. Brooks on the bridge of the Fairfax again tomorrow when the reconditioned liner makes her first regular trip since the collision. The Fairfax will sail from Baltimore to this city. Brooks is under four charges preferred by the board of steamboat inspectors as a result of the hearing at this city which followed the disaster. He is to be tried at Norfolk, Va.

California's grape production for 1929 is estimated at 1,775,000 tons.

WOMAN IS SWEEPED OVER FALLS TO HER DEATH

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The body of a well dressed woman, about 65 years old, fully clothed except for shoes, was found today on the rocks at the foot of Luna Falls, the smallest of the three Niagara cataracts. State reservation authorities said they believed the woman had waded into the river and been carried over Luna Falls.

In a purse in a pocket of the woman's gray suit coat was found a card on which was written in lead pencil, "Miss Mary Roberts, American Journal of New York."

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Mary Roberts, whose name was found on a card in the pocket of a woman swept over the Luna cataract at Niagara Falls, is the editor of the American Journal of Nursing, and is now in Connecticut on vacation.

Attaches of the publication were inclined to believe that the dead woman might have been a nurse, because of her possession of the card naming Miss Roberts, but could not throw further light upon her identity. Many members of the nursing association, they said, had occasion to confer with Miss Roberts in a professional capacity.

DUCHESS OF YORK EXPECTS AN HEIR

Glasgow, Scotland, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A quiet family gathering over the week-end tempered by an air of expectancy marked the thirtieth birthday of the Duchess of York who shortly is expected to present the throne of England with another possible heir or heirs.

The only outsider present was Sir Henry Simson, obstetric specialist, who took up residence in Glamis Castle Saturday. He will be joined tomorrow by Home Secretary J. R. Clynes, who must witness the birth of a possible heir to the throne according to English law.

The Countess of Strathmore, mother of the Duchess, received Sir Henry in the old baronial hall which is hung with exquisite embroideries and tapestries testifying to the skill of those ladies of Glamis, ancient seat of the Earl of Strathmore and King Horns, who were the ancestors of the little duchess.

It was in the heavy pile of stones, of Glamis castle, where Shakespeare's MacBeth reputedly started on his bloody career. It has been the life-long home of the little duchess whom Queen Mary described as, "not one of these modern girls, thank heaven."

King George and Queen Mary today telephoned their greetings to the Duchess over a special wire from the Isle of Wight where they had gone yachting.

Princess Elizabeth, 4 years old, gave her mother a mysterious parcel for her birthday.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE, Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, former New York newspaper man, who is now writing scenarios for Continental Pictures in Hollywood, gets a letter from an old friend in New York, ZIGGY YOUNG, telling him to look up a girl named ANNE WINTER, who has come from Tulsa, Okla., to "crash the picture."

Dan complies reluctantly, as he is distrustful of Ziggy, but Anne proves to be charming. She has had stage experience—in stock companies, which Dan tells her is the best foundation for an extra to have. Anne gathers that she is a little dissatisfied with things at Continental.

The following Monday rehearsals begin on his picture, an adaptation of a story he had written. That evening he learns that Anne is to work the following morning, making the second time she has found extra employment. That same evening Dan goes to a Wampus dinner with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column in a string of newspapers. Collier laments his inability to get hold of what he calls the "real Hollywood story"; the story of the thousands of extras—how they manage to live.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

The car stopped beside a stretch of beach.

Anne Winter was in high spirits when Rorimer called for her the next morning. She said when she had settled beside him in the roadster, that she had prospects of a week's steady employment; possibly more.

"It's to be quite a big picture, I gather, with a lot of people. I'm thrilled to death, even though I am so unimportant."

Dan, inspecting her critically in her flat movie makeup, remarked the chisled perfection for her nose and chin in profile, and the shadowed beauty of wide dark eyes against the tawny pallor of grease paint and powder. She was wearing a white polo coat, long and loose-fitting and sporty, and a white beret.

"What's the picture?" he asked.

"I don't know that they have a name for it. Sylvia Patterson is starring in it—she's lovely, isn't she?"

"Oh, I'm not so crazy about blonds," he drawled. "I prefer them with dark brown eyes and black hair, and I like them to come from Oklahoma."

"You're headed straight for that telephone pole," she reminded him quickly, and he turned his eyes front.

"You look as if you're going out to play tennis instead of to work," he said.

Anne laughed. "Don't I, though? I'm supposed to be a guest at a fashionable house party. Today it's sports wear."

"You look like a million dollars," Dan told her, thinking that while clothes he had seen her in would indicate Anne Winter's wardrobe was, to say the least, adequate.

Almost as if she read his thoughts, she said, "I think the fact that I had the right clothes helped me. Sport and evening both," she said, smiling. "Oh, I forgot to tell you, I met the sweetest girl today. She's an extra, too, and working in the same picture. I may go to live with her—that is, if things work out right."

Her name, Anne said, was Mona Morrison. "She's adorable, Dan; we became friendly right away. She has the loveliest red hair—almost like Clara Bow's—and she's so cheerful and funny. She's cute!"

"Where's she from?" said Rorimer. "Remember, I'm responsible to Ziggy Young for you, and if you go around making friends you've got to tell me all about them."

"Yes sir," Anne made a funny face; serious, like a little girl taking orders from her father. And she spoke in a tiny little voice.

"How old are you, anyway, little girl?"

"Nine," she said, in the same little voice.

"No fooling," Anne said. "Twenty-one."

"And I'll soon be thirty. I'm young and understand! Now go on and tell me about Mona. I'm jealous, but go ahead."

Well, Anne said, Mona was from Chicago. "She has been in Hollywood almost a year. She told me all about herself. She won a beauty contest in Chicago, and made a few stage appearances in movie theaters and that sort of thing. She has some relatives in San Diego, and when they drove East last year Mona came back with them. She's crazy about pictures. Oh, you'll like her, Dan!"

"And you think you and Mona will hit it off together?"

"I'm sure we would. The only thing—well, you see, Mona is living with a girl now, named Eva Harley. They have an apartment and they've seen the cutest little bungalow, but the rent is too much for the two of them and Mona thinks it would be grand if the three of us took it together. It has five rooms."

Dan asked her if she had met Eva Harley. He really did feel a little jealous.

"No—nor the bungalow either." She added that she would see both the next evening, when they were invited to their apartment for dinner. Eva isn't working, and she's going to cook it."

"Is Eva an extra, too?"

"Yes, Mona says she's beautiful—a blond. 'I don't like blonds,' said Dan. 'I like brunets from Oklahoma.'"

Anne, holding her chin in her hand, laughed. "Dan, you're so absurd!"

He laughed with her, and lit another cigarette, and listened with her to the sound of the water on the sand. A cloud went scudding across the moon, throwing them in momentary shadow. From one of the houses above the beach came the music of a radio, or phonograph,

"Do you know how long you'll be working on it?"

"No. A long time, I hope."

Dan said, "Has Sloan still got his crush on Sylvia Patterson?"

"Are they supposed to be that way?"

"I thought," Dan said, "that everybody in Hollywood knew about that. Sloan's married, you know—has a couple of kids."

She made no reply to that. She merely said, "Everyone says he's a wonderful director."

"One of the best, I guess. He's certainly got a big enough reputation."

They rode in silence for a while, and the tires sang under them; and presently Dan turned the car to the right and down a declivity and they beheld the ocean shimmering beneath the moon.

The car stopped beside a stretch of beach, where the sound of breaking waves fell pleasantly on their ears, and they sat very still, wordless and thoughtful in the sea's enchanting spell.

Rorimer lit a cigarette. He said presently, "Old Man Pacific looks a little different at night; doesn't he?" He had shown her Santa Monica on their Sunday afternoon drive.

Anne nodded.

He said, "Sport clothes tomorrow? Give me the details."

"Sport and evening both," she said, smiling. "Oh, I forgot to tell you, I met the sweetest girl today. She's an extra, too, and working in the same picture. I may go to live with her—that is, if things work out right."

graph; and then silence once more, as though someone had opened and shut a door.

Anne sat looking out at the ocean, huddled in her coat against the chill of the night air. Rorimer wondered what dreams might lie behind those dark, expressive eyes; what fires burned beneath her outward calm. And presently he slipped his arm around her.

licked Mrs. Goliath How's the pain?"

"Better," answered Helen. "I really think he was suffering. There, sweetest, now we're all nice and comfy, out on this nice cool porch. Oh, Jerry, here come the Barclays! For goodness sake, what'll we do now?"

"Ask the baby—no knows," answered her husband, rising to greet the guests.

The evening passed, with Helen trying every half hour to put the baby back to bed, periods of screaming and then another weary trip to the second floor, sounds of a rocker, and the eventual surrender. Down she would come again where the lights were, and the people and the talking. A hectic time was had by all.

A Reverse Schedule

The baby went to sleep at 12, when Helen and Jerry dropped into bed. But Helen was up at 3 and entertained the despot until 5. In the morning she slept until 9, and so did the baby. He had his midmorning nap, his bath, and his afternoon nap, then he went peacefully to sleep and slept all day.

The trouble was that the baby had day and night turned around. He wasn't tired at night and had been conditions, the latter being tired enough to sleep all night, except for his 10 o'clock bottle.

Now they are bearing the burden of a fight against the RCA electric suit in testimony before a senate committee last spring. He assailed the Radio Corporation. Grigsby, by this spring, withdrew his company from membership in the Radio Manufacturers' Association. The association, however, said the Grigsby-Grunow company had been asked to resign.

The chief charge in the suit is that the corporation has created a pool of 4,000 patents, forcing the Grigsby company to pay $6,000,000 illegally in royalties.

When radio was new, about seven years ago, Grigsby and Grunow quit the electrical shop and opened a small plant to make B eliminators.

Business grew rapidly. Later they started the manufacture of radio sets, employing at the peak of production about 20,000 persons.

Last year depression caught them. The two organized a concern to manufacture mechanical refrigerators. Grigsby, the financial head of the company, is 45 years of age. Grunow, who organizes and directs the personnel, and also supervises sales, is 36.

Incunabula is nothing more than rare printed things. Or, to be more precise, books and other printed things that were produced before the year 1500.

A German by the name of Dr. Otto Volbehr arrived in this country not so long ago with his collection.

Among these 3,000 pieces was a Bible, printed in Latin and on vellum by Johann Gutenberg somewhere in the period between 1450 and 1455. It is one of the three perfect copies known to have survived.

Ross Collins, a member of Congress from Mississippi, took a look at this Gutenberg Bible, and was so impressed with it and the other pieces in Dr. Volbehr's collection, that he promptly introduced a bill calling on the government to buy the collection and have it placed in the Library of Congress.

All agreed to permit the collection to pass into other hands. But at the same time they debated the wisdom of Uncle Sam joining the army collectors of rarities.

The Library of Congress already has been slow to purchase those things where rarities is the chief factor.

Not so long ago a notable Chinese collection was secured which some thought came very near to being valuable from the collector's standpoint rather than from the standpoint of use.

Study of the collection has revealed that important information bearing upon agriculture has been disclosed which will likely prove of great benefit to farmers.

So, despite the fact this collection cost more than 10 times what the Library gets each year for the purchase of books, Congress voted to buy it.

WOMAN TRUSTEE QUILTS

Concord, N. H., Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—The resignation of Miss Jessie Doe, only woman trustee of the State Industrial School at Manchester, today was in the hands of Governor Tobey but three other trustees had not yet acted on his request.

One other, Charles Emerson, chairman, was refused reappointment by the governor recently and out of the controversy arose charges of water and "whipping cures" for young girls at the school.

The resignation of all four remaining trustees was requested by the governor and council. In her letter of resignation, Miss Doe urged the adoption of a "wise policy of discipline."

YOUR CHILDREN

"Jerry, I'll just have to go and pick up that baby."

"You shouldn't."

"But I can't let him scream himself sick. Maybe he has colic."

"You just sit where you are. It's nice and cool and peaceful out here. Besides, I haven't seen you all day. I want to talk to you."

They sat in the swing. The following upstairs increased in volume and purpose. Five minutes passed.

"Jerry, I can't stand it. Please let me go."

"Well, go on. And good-night. I suppose you'll rock him for an hour and hold his hand and think of a grand mother you are."

"That's hateful. He's such a lamb—slept nearly all day, and he was so sweet. I wish you could see him, when he's that way."

"I never do, though. He yelps every minute I'm home, unless he's being entertained."

"I don't see why the books say to put babies to bed at six o'clock," she sighed. "But it would be nice if he'd sleep and let us have our evenings in peace."

He didn't answer, for he knew what she would do.

The Same Routine

Helen went up. The crying ceased. Then, after he had started again, Helen knew the signs. Helen had picked up the baby and rocked him, then tried to lay him down.

He knew the next move too. Sure enough, after a few minutes Helen came down carrying a small, delighted object that smelled of talcum.

"Hello, David. I thought you'd licked Mrs. Goliath How's the pain?"

"Better," answered Helen. "I really think he was suffering. There, sweetest, now we're all nice and comfy, out on this nice cool porch. Oh, Jerry, here come the Barclays! For goodness sake, what'll we do now?"

Washington.—(A.P.)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth is one of few women with courage to demand canvas candor.

"Paint me as I am—if there are lines, put them in," she told Eleana and Berthe Hellebranth, Hungarian artists. "If there is a droop under the chin, put that in too."

The sisters gasped, then seized brushes and flew to their easels.

Though they have painted many wealthy and titled women, Mrs. Longworth is the first to ask uncompromising truth. Most of them seek evasive shadows and rosy tints.

She is the first woman in their experience too, the sisters say, who has not consulted a mirror before each sitting. The wife of the speaker of the house swings nonchalantly into the studio, gives her hair a careless pat and is ready.

The girls work at the same time, but each paints Mrs. Longworth from individual conception. Eleana sees her as courageous, fearless; Berthe has caught her in a softer, more pensive mood.

"While we work she talks about everything from politics to art," says Berthe.

Grigsby And Grunow, RCA Foes, Trained In School Of Hard Knocks

Chicago.—(A.P.)—The school of hard knocks fitted B. J. Grigsby and W. C. Grunow, radio manufacturers, for the war they have declared on the Radio Corporation of America.

From an obscure electrical shop they gained a comfortable living, until they entered the radio field. In seven years they skyrocketed to importance in that industry.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

You can make yourself a handy kitchen set rack by using a left-over piece of wood mauling and some brass screws from the corner store.

Nail the wood strip securely to the wall, at the right height and just as near your kitchen work table as you would find most convenient. Paint it to match the walls or to contrast, as you wish.

On it you can hang your long-handled spoon, batter cake turner, mixing spoons and long fork, if you wish.

SHE SWIMS TO STAY YOUNG

Mrs. Anna Van Skikes, the "swimming grandmother" of Venice, Calif., will adhere to her custom of 20 years standing and swim 20 miles over a Pacific ocean course by way of observing her 70th birthday Aug. 7, and to prove the soundness of her advice to women: "Swim and stay young."

Mrs. Van Skikes is shown above getting a coating of grease before plunging into the water on one of her preliminary swims before the "main event" on her birthday.

HOW TO SHOP

BUTTONS SHOW THE QUALITY OF BOYS' PJAMAS

By William H. Baldwin.

Most boys' pajamas come in broadcloth, oxford, madras and flannel, the last giving warmth and therefore useful in winter, as well as in summer for camp wear.

One way of telling the better qualities is by looking at the buttons. Ocean pearl buttons are first quality; there are also Jap pearl and fresh water pearl buttons. The ocean pearls are almost transparent; the Jap pearls are second quality and are not so well finished on the back of the buttons; while the fresh water pearl buttons look milky and are the poorest quality.

Boys' pajamas are piece-dyed and yarn-dyed, the latter being the better. Solid colored pajamas are usually piece-dyed, except when the cloth is oxford or madras.

Two-piece pajamas come in sizes from 8 to 18, whereas one-piece pajamas come in sizes from 6 to 16.

Now that whisky and brandy have been approved as necessary medicinal agents in the practice of dentistry, it won't merely be a figure of speech hereafter to refer to a person suffering with toothache as having a swell time.

HEALTH

ELABORATE DIAGNOSIS IS OFTEN NECESSARY TO FIND CAUSE OF CASE OF INDIGESTION

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

In many cases of indigestion it is extremely difficult to make certain whether or not the patient is suffering from a disease of the stomach, a disease of the gall-bladder, an inflammation of the appendix, or changes in the stomach without manifest changes in the stomach itself.

There are people who find it impossible to eat or to swallow their food without any definite change being visible in the esophagus, the tube which carries the food to the stomach, or in the stomach itself. In such instances, the internist must apply all of the methods of examination that he knows in order to give the patient a certain diagnosis, because the correct treatment can be given only after a certain diagnosis has been made.

Laboratory Work Needed

There are still many unexplained conditions demanding research by the medical profession for their solution. There are instances in which the stomach fails to supply the proper secretions and the reasons for this failure are unknown. In the laboratories of physicians throughout the world today scientists are making such studies in order to aid further the happiness of mankind.

The procedures that apply for study of the stomach apply also for study of the intestines. However, it is only within recent years that it has become possible to pass a tube through the stomach and into the intestines, withdrawing their secretions for study. Only recently have methods been devised for testing the rate at which food moves along the intestines, the bacteria that live there normally and abnormally, the obstructions, paralyses and many other disturbances which manifest themselves by serious symptoms.

There are forms of constipation which are due to interference with the digestion in the intestine, other forms which are due to disturbance of the motility in the intestine, and some forms which are merely the results of bad habits. There are conditions in which it is exceedingly dangerous to eat food with too high an amount of roughage and foodstuffs in which an increase in roughage provides the road to successful cure.

Within the past 25 years methods have been developed for changing the nature of the germs that live in the intestine. Metchnikoff's original idea that the bacillus bulgaricus was the normal inhabitant and that its presence was synonymous with long life has been changed to emphasis on another germ called acidophilus. Attempts to implant the acidophilus germ in the intestine brought out the information that certain types of food were necessary to secure successful implants.

At the lower end of the intestine the development of varicose veins, commonly called hemorrhoids, represents an extremely disturbing modern condition. Fifty years ago only quacks attempted to treat this condition by injection method. Their methods were found to be dangerous and not infrequently fatal.

Operation Now Simple

Continued study over a period of 25 years has developed several methods of injection, and particularly early safe methods of prompt operation. The hemorrhoids are now removed under local anesthetics with prompt healing and with the loss of only a few days from work. They can moreover be removed by electrical desiccation as well as by injection methods, various physical means using various methods according to their experience.

Among the unworked questions of modern medicine is relationship of obstruction of the bowel to the development of serious symptoms of shock; the exact relationship of putrefaction in the bowel to the development of various degenerative diseases, and particularly the control of infestation of the intestines by worms, conditions which are extremely common in tropical and oriental countries but which only now are beginning to be found in increasing numbers in this country.

Washington.—(A.P.)—The school of hard knocks fitted B. J. Grigsby and W. C. Grunow, radio manufacturers, for the war they have declared on the Radio Corporation of America.

From an obscure electrical shop they gained a comfortable living, until they entered the radio field. In seven years they skyrocketed to importance in that industry.

Now they are bearing the burden of a fight against the RCA electric suit in testimony before a senate committee last spring. He assailed the Radio Corporation. Grigsby, by this spring, withdrew his company from membership in the Radio Manufacturers' Association. The association, however, said the Grigsby-Grunow company had been asked to resign.

The chief charge in the suit is that the corporation has created a pool of 4,000 patents, forcing the Grigsby company to pay $6,000,000 illegally in royalties.

When radio was new, about seven years ago, Grigsby and Grunow quit the electrical shop and opened a small plant to make B eliminators.

Business grew rapidly. Later they started the manufacture of radio sets, employing at the peak of production about 20,000 persons

The Brooklyn Robins and New York Giants have done each other several good turns this season by beating their rivals from Chicago and St. Louis at timely moments. But when they play against each other, whatever friendly feeling they may have is forgotten.

There was great rejoicing in Flatbush yesterday when the Robins came out ahead of their rivals from the other side of the East River by a 1 to 0 score.

Despite the report that the Robins would rather beat the Giants than win the pennant they can get a great deal of satisfaction from today's standing for the victory but they were three games ahead of Chicago. The Cub machine went to pieces after falling behind of the Pirates for seven innings, then the Pirates scored eight runs in the eighth for a 12 to 8 triumph. Hack Wilson hit his 35th homer of the year for the Cubs.

The St. Louis Cards improved their position by winning two games from Cincinnati, slamming out a total of 27 hits to win by scores of 11 to 6 and 6 to 3.

The Phillies after losing 12 twin bills this season and dividing a few more won their first double-header of the season, beating the Boston Braves 11 to 5 and 4 to 1.

The rivalry between neighbors was carried out in the American League by the Yanks and the Athletics, with the Yanks staging a six-run rally in the eighth to win by a 9 to 3 count. Before this assault on Rube Walberg the game had been close with Babe Ruth's 40th homer more won their first double-header of the season, beating the Boston Braves 11 to 5 and 4 to 1.

BIG VELODROME BURNS

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A spectacular fire early today destroyed the New York Velodrome and delayed traffic on the Putnam division of the New York Central lines which runs close by it. The flames, believed to have started from a cigarette tossed into surrounding dry grass, shot high into the air from the top of the bowl-like structure and were visible for miles. Five alarms were turned in when sparks carried by the wind caused several minor fires to start in adjacent brush. The fireman was overcome. With seats for 18,000 and a landmark of uptown New York since it was erected at 225th street and Broadway about nine years ago, the velodrome was one of the largest cycle-racing stadia in the world.

OUTDOOR BICYCLE AND MOTORCYCLE RACES

Outdoor bicycle and motorcycle races were held there several times a year and most of the leading bicycle riders of the world had pedaled around its board track. The arena also was used for boxing occasionally.

Since not a great deal can be said for the actual champions of fistiana, some remarks may be set forth in behalf of three "unconquered kings" of the ring—Kid Chocolate, Jimmy McLarnin, and Young Corbett III.

Chocolate holds a decision over the new ruler of the lightweights, Al Singer, and the general feeling is that he can repeat any time that Al is willing to take him on.

The Cuban flash likewise probably would have little difficulty outpointing the featherweight titleholder, Bat Battalino. He can make the feather limit and outclass Battalino as a boxer, but the Kid is not likely to get an early opportunity to demonstrate this. Instead he meets Jackie (Kid) Berg at the Polo Grounds August 7.

McLarnin failed in an attempt to win the lightweight crown from Sammy Mandell at a time when Mandell still had something to offer inside the ring.

Since then the Irishman has whipped Young Jack Thompson, the current welterweight champion, several times and had the negro down for a count of nine in their last encounter.

Young Corbett III belongs in a class with McLarnin in this respect. Corbett has licked Thompson several times and had the negro down for a count of nine in their last encounter.

McLarnin, however, appears certain to get the first actual title scrap with Thompson, with New York now bidding against Los Angeles, Detroit and Chicago for the attraction.

Fayetteville, (N. C.) blames the home ring, instead of praising it, in sizing up the current trials and tribulations of the national game. Says the Fayetteville Observer's baseball writer:

"The short fields, with more grandstand and bleacher space, may be a better proposition for the owners of the clubs, but from the real baseball fan's point of view they would much prefer witnessing some 'old-time' running catches and spectacular plays.

"At present the North Carolina Piedmont league is experiencing scant game receipts and night games have been introduced.

"The Raleigh and Henderson clubs are not equipped to play the game at night and they have been threatened with expulsion from the circuit, as the other four clubs are catering to the fans who either work in the afternoons, or have lost interest in what is commonly known as the national game.

"But if the freak home runs continue to play a major part in the scoring, baseball is apt to lose that favorite sobriquet.

"The National league, with no Babe Ruths, has more home runs to its credit than the junior circuit and the National loop has short playing fields."

Interest may or may not have lagged in the production of big league home runs but it is still a "bullet" when the Babe bangs the ball out of the park. This is important testimony when it is considered that Ruth has done this stunt over 550 times in 17 seasons.

CHOCOLATE-BERG

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The White Chapel whirlwind, Jack Kid Berg battles Kid Chocolate, Cuba's speedy negro featherweight in a ten-round bout at the Polo Grounds Thursday night in the outstanding contest on the National Boxing schedule this week.

Berg rates a 6 to 5 favorite at present although the fighters probably will enter the ring at even money.

Activity in the Chicago sector will center around a clash between Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles and Earl Magistro, Chicago featherweight at the Stadium Thursday night.

Thirty-seven members of the Pittsburgh football squad will go into training at Windber, Pa., the day after Labor Day.

The rumor went about that Sammy Mandell, who was knocked out by Al Singer was drugged. That reminds us of the time Dempsey was supposed to be drugged in Philadelphia.

Kiwanis Kiddies Have Active Program and Find That They Gain Weight.

The second period of Kiwanis Kiddies Camp is on with 27 girls between the ages of 8 to 13 already half through their glorious visit to the Hebron camp.

With the added assistance of Miss Lillian Hart and Miss Virginia Straghn as leaders for the girls the camp has thrived and not a single girl has felt the least but homesick, since coming to camp.

The girls put the boys to shame in blueberry picking last Thursday when they went out, and returned with 21 quarts of the delicious fruit.

The program of the girls while not as active as the boys, certainly keeps them going from dawn to sunset. After reveille in the morning comes colors with salute to the flag, then washup and breakfast. After breakfast the girls pitch in to help with the dishes, two girls at each table taking turns for each meal.

The morning program has mostly consisted of flower picking, blueberry picking and hikes.

Classes in floral arrangement and embroidery are part of the program. The camp has been the recipient of another row-boat donated for the month of August, by George Wadwell. This has been a welcome gift as the children are very fond of boating.

At the end of the first week most of the campers got themselves weighed up to see if there has been an apparent gain of weight and some of them were surprised to find that already they had gained three pounds.

CAMP FOR BUSINESS GIRLS READY AUG. 15

Delightful Vacation Possible for Two Weeks or Shorter Period if Desired.

Business girls will have an opportunity for a two weeks camp vacation after August 15, when the season for younger girls ends at Camp Aya-Po, the Y. W. C. A. camp in Somers. An unlimited choice of diversion is offered in the inexpensive vacation plan arranged by the organization for the campers.

Business cares may be forgotten lounging in the reading shack. Land and water sports are scheduled for those that wish to take part. And optional classes provide instruction in dramatics, hand crafts, French conversation and even Chinese cooking. Week-end parties will be welcomed for those girls who can not spend the entire two weeks at Aya-Po.

An interesting group of counselors will be at the camp to direct activities. There will be mountain climbing expeditions, fishing parties. No work will be required of the girls at the camp and every effort will be made by those in charge to create a feeling of freedom and vacation relaxation.

Miss Bess F. Graham, who has successfully headed the camp staff during the early period, will remain to be with the older girls. Miss Gertrude Schwentker of Philadelphia, will have charge of the musicals. Many of the evenings will be spent around a large camp fire singing old and new songs. Miss Nettie Meyerhuber of Brooklyn, N. Y., a graduate of Pratt Institute, will have groups in all kinds of hand craft work, including wood cuts and leather tooling.

Miss Anna Mortensen, a graduate of the Mills Buxh School, Olerup, Denmark, will head the instruction in hand and water sports. Others will be Miss Caroline DeLamater, a graduate of the Boston School of Physical Education, who will have charge of swimming and canoeing. Miss Marjorie Grosvenor of Orange, N. J., a graduate of the Central School of Physical Education and Miss Ellen Nelson of Plainfield, N. J., a graduate of the same school.

Two exchange students, Miss Bing Ching Ling of China and Miss Marie Moreau of France have brought the atmosphere of other countries to the camp. Miss Ling will reveal to the girls the mysteries of Chinese cooking and Miss Moreau will give them important beginnings of French conversation.

Miss Elizabeth Ward, a medical student will have charge of the health of the girls during their camp period and Miss Helen Fager will be business manager and dietitian. Miss Adelaide Nobel will have charge of the woodcraft classes and Miss Doris Humphrey will be the office assistant.

The mornings will be given over to tennis, canoeing, boating, volleyball and other games and swimming. In the afternoon, there will be archery, crafts, reading, music, and French for those who wish to take part. At the end of the afternoon's activities there will be a swim in the lake for all.

Good food and an amusing time are promised by officials of the camp. Anyone interested in obtaining more information may write to Miss Bess F. Graham, Camp Aya-Po, Somers, Conn.

GETS HUMAN SKULL FISHING IN COVENTRY

Bristol Man Too Frightened to Hold On To It, He Says, and It Goes Back Into Lake.

A man giving his name as Frank Hollup of Bristol, yesterday made an unusual catch in Coventry Lake that was so unusual that he soon got the catch off the hook and back into the pond. James Duffy of this place, who was among those fishing at Coventry yesterday, off the island in the lake when he saw another fisherman acting strangely. Rowing towards him they were informed that he had dropped his line overboard from his boat and in pulling it in it seemed to be heavy. He drew up and to his horror found that he had hooked the skull of a human being.

In his excitement he took off the skull and dropped it overboard again. He was too much frightened to hold it, he said.

SEE THRILLING RESCUE FROM BURNING BOAT

Local People at Ocean Beach When Speed Boat Rushes to Aid of Fishing Party.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzgerald were among those at Ocean Beach yesterday afternoon that witnessed the burning of a boat and the rescue of three passengers by the quick action of a speed boat.

The boat with two men and a boy aboard were well off shore when the craft caught fire. The passengers on the boat started to cry for help. The speed boat, which was just off shore turned and raced to the scene. The occupants could not remain in the boat because of the flames and jumped into the water. The men who were operating the speed boat threw out life preservers, which were grabbed and all were taken aboard. They were just in time as the boat in which they had been fishing went down soon afterwards.

OPEN FORUM LIKES US

Editor, The Herald,

With your permission, I'd like very much to take a few minutes to read my letter.

I had the honor of meeting such person as the Editor of the Herald, a few days ago. Through our acquaintance, you have explained relations, about the people of Manchester. I would like to give my point of view of the people of Manchester, in fact especially of the people belonging to the Polish National Church.

As you know, I am only a student studying theology. My missionary duties bring me here and have the opportunity of meeting the Polish people not only in Manchester but throughout the New England States. I would like to say, I have met hospitable people, but for being hospitable, the best I've ever met, are in Manchester, they treat one so home-like, and brotherly.

Yet the way they hold as one body, astonishes me, such unanimity and agreement, this I have never seen. With these traits I would like to praise, presently I can not find words to do so.

The younger generation, being brought in such morality have progress in sight for the future. Their work I would like to praise, as had been on Sunday, July 27, the outing was a success. This success was due to the union, honest and hard work of Rev. Latus and the officers and members of the club.

It would please me a great deal, if you would kindly put into print a few words of my correspondence as an appreciation of their gratitude they have bestowed on me, which I will always remember. Such gratitude I'd like to repay, but to my estimation it will be a great task.

I thank you for your generosity.

An admirer,

DEMING STREET AGAIN SCENE OF CAR CRASH

Bad Road Pitch at Junction Sends New York Girl's Auto Into Tree.

An automobile driven by Miss Elizabeth Quail of Ridgefield and owned by Miss Josephine Potts of New York City who was a passenger crashed into a tree at the junction of Deming street and Tolland Turnpike Saturday afternoon. The pitch of the road at this point has sent several cars into the field at the right and has caused several crashes.

The young women in the accident Saturday afternoon were bound for Maine on a vacation. Traffic Patrolman Walter Cassels chanced along just as the crash occurred and gave the women valuable assistance. Arrangements were made for repairs to the machine and the girls were taken back to Hartford to spend the time until their machine was ready to proceed.
