CUBA CHALLENGES LEAGUE'S POWERS

"We Will Not Submit to Dictation by Any Nation" Declares Senor Ferrara at Assembly.

Geneva, Sept. 18.—(AP)—In a heated encounter before the Assembly of the League of Nations today Cuba defended her sovereign rights as an independent state within the league—and won.

Cuba's critic who met defeat was Nicholas Politis of Greece. He sharply censured the West Indian state for blocking entry into force of the protocol for revision of the World Court statute.

"Cuba," declared Orestes Ferrara, the island nation's ambassador at Washington, "will not submit to dictation by Mr. Politis, nor by Greece, nor by any member of the League of Nations."

Then he announced that Cuba's reasons for objecting to the coming into force of the protocol must be neither challenged nor discussed by the committee.

Not a Super State

"We entered the league regarding it as a society of nations and not as a super state able to override the sovereignty of any member," he declared.

The discussion was closed by Chairman Scialoja of Italy after spectators and delegates had risen to their feet in excitement and persons from outside the committee room had rushed in to see what all the commotion was about.

Dr. C. G. Wu, of China, took the role of peacemaker. He said that China regretted the protocol could not be brought into force but nobody, he added, could challenge Cuba's rights to her objections which, indeed, were provided for in the protocol itself.

"This warm passage of arms has gone far enough," said Dr. Wu, with a smile and a slow draw in his English. "You have noticed that the temperature in this room is higher than the temperature outside. I move the discussion be closed."

Politis' Views

M. Politis said Cuba was the only member of the League not having made "an effort of good will," by bringing the protocol into force.

FILM STAR'S WIFE RETURNS TO HOME

Mrs. Beery Surprised That Husband Notified Police to Search for Her.

Los Angeles, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Marguerite Beery, reported missing by her husband, Noah Beery, film actor, was at the home of friends in Hollywood today. She said there was no mystery attached to her absence from their North Hollywood ranch.

"I was much surprised upon my return to read I had mysteriously disappeared," Mrs. Beery said. "There is no mystery to establish a residence. I may return there to make it a permanent residence."

"Will you ascertain what reward Mr. Beery offered for information as to my whereabouts? If sufficiently large I will have myself brought in immediately."

"Newspapers reported Mr. Beery said I had $750 on my person at the time I disappeared. May I add that during my married life with Mr. Beery of 22 years I have never seen $750."

Has Trust Fund

Beery had said he learned Mrs. Beery had received her monthly income from the $250,000 trust fund which he established for her some time ago.

Beery reported to police Monday that his wife had disappeared September 8 without explanation and asked for her location. He said she had been ill and he feared harm had befallen her.

After his wife had been located Beery asked the authorities to continue their investigation of her disappearance declaring "I want the proper authorities to investigate this matter and prosecute anyone guilty of enticing or luring Mrs. Beery from her home. If it can be established any person or persons are responsible for her strange absence I shall lodge charges against them."

Beery said he had learned his wife had left Las Vegas yesterday and driven across the desert to Los Angeles; friend.

Friend With Her

Emil Wickman a rancher living near Las Vegas reported Mrs. Beery and Raymond Wells, a former director of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale and qualified to try for any aviation record recognized by that organization.

The next day she went aloft in a light plane, soared to a height of approximately 18,000 feet and established a world's record for women fliers in planes of less than 100 horsepower.

WOMAN FLIER IS KILLED AT START OF HOP

Ruth Alexander Planned to Race Across Continent With One Stop in Kansas; Think Gas Tank Exploded.

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Ruth Alexander, 24 year old San Diego aviatrix, plunged to death in her airplane here today shortly after taking off on a projected one stop transcontinental flight to Newark, N. J.

Miss Alexander left Lindbergh Field at 3:28 a. m. (PST), and flew but four miles when death stopped her undertaking. With a terrific crash her light low-wing monoplane of the field, her broken body was found in the wreckage. Parts of the plane were strewn for several hundred feet.

Had Explosion

Witnesses said they saw her plane flying close to the ground and a few seconds later heard a crash. The cause of the crash was not apparent after the initial survey of the wreckage but an explosion of gasoline was suspected by investigators.

Miss Alexander's flight officially began at Agua Caliente, Mexico, shortly after 1 a. m. She landed her plane, christened the Agua Caliente, at Lindbergh Field for checking.

A low fog swept in from the sea but the aviatrix was thought to have hurriedly taken off after her flight of 500 feet. How she happened to be flying close to the ground later was not determined.

Planned One Stop

The aviatrix had planned to stop at Wichita, Kansas, which she had expected to reach at 7 o'clock, (CST), tonight.

Miss Alexander was born at Irving, Kas., in 1906. It was there in 1919 when she first rode a plane as a passenger with an itinerant flier, that she decided to become an aviatrix.

In 1928 she came to California, earning her way to San Diego by driving a car for some tourists. She began carrying out her ambition to fly by working and saving money for instruction. She worked in a beauty shop for a while and also as a waitress. She enrolled for an aviation course and quickly showed aptitude.

Destroyer Gets a Broken Nose

Two of Uncle Sam's destroyers did a bang-up job in their maneuvers off the Rhode Island coast the other night. Running without lights with the Hatfield is shown above as the destroyer was towed into the Brooklyn Navy Yard for a face-lifting operation. The destroyer Sands, with four holes in her port side below the waterline, limped in on her own power.

BERT ACOSTA IS FREED BY CONNECTICUT COURT

World Famous Flier Has Case Nulled in Waterbury; Was Arrested on Old Charge.

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Bert Acosta, the world famous aviator who piloted Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's plane across the Atlantic was given a nolle by Judge Harry J. Beardsley of the Common Pleas Court when arraigned this noon on a two years old charge of carrying out an aviation law of the state. The nolle was entered after the famous aviator had given the court his word of honor that he was through with foolish acts of the past. Acosta was arrested early this morning carrying out his plan of flying over the state. He was arrested at the court house at 11:30 o'clock this morning accompanied by an inspector of the aviation department. He went to the office of the prosecuting attorney William J. Larkin where he talked with the prosecutor for some minutes after which court was opened. He was not accompanied by counsel.

Wonderful Record

Prosecuting Attorney Larkin informed the court that Acosta who was formerly stationed at the Bethany Airport has made a wonderful name for himself as an aviator and has done much to advance the science of aviation in this country. Attorney Larkin declared that while Acosta was a brilliant aviator he has done many foolish stunts in the air among them the Naugatuck incident of 1928 when he is said to have tried to fly under a bridge in the center of the borough. Attorney Larkin told the court that Acosta expressed surprise at the presence of the warrant in the hands of Commissioner Frank Knox saying that he had never known the warrant was outstanding. He would have come back to Connecticut voluntarily and surrendered.

Agree On Nolle

Attorney Larkin said that both he and Commissioner Knox thought that a nolle should be entered. Judge Beardsley said that he is aware of the fine record that Acosta has made in the promotion of aviation. The court added that while Acosta was a man of great ability he has at times acted as one without his full mind. Further the court declared.

WOMAN, AGED 86, FOOTBALL VICTIM

Falls in Team of Children, Lasts Until Third Quarter and Her Hip is Shattered.

Prattville, Ala., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Ella Herbert, 86, in a hospital here with a broken hip, admits that the playing of football is a bit too rough for one of her years.

Yesterday a group of children were playing in her yard. They decided to play football but needed one more to complete the team.

"Please fill in for us," they pleaded, grouping around her.

Certainly, she would. Anything to please the children.

She lasted until the third quarter. Then a play was run and Mrs. Herbert went down in the scramble for the ball. The hip bone snapped and she didn't get up.

GLARING ERRORS IN TAX RECEIPTS

Windham Says Its Debt is $173,500 When It Is $500,000, Official Says.

Willimantic, Sept. 18.—(AP)—State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett has written a letter to First Selectman William A. Buck, of the town of Windham in which he finds "glaring discrepancies" in 1929 reports of the town treasurer and clerk and intimates that the town debt may be $500,000 instead of the reported $173,500.

These disclosures apparently support the demand made several months ago by the Windham taxpayers protective association for an audit of the town books. This audit is now under way.

"Interest On Notes"

One of the discrepancies to which Commissioner Blodgett referred was the budget item providing $25,000 to

TOWN TO OBSERVE ANDRE'S CAPTURE

Some of Village Fathers, However, Refuse to Attend Celebration.

Tucuhoe, N. Y., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Whether the capture of Major John Andre, British spy, is a just cause for celebration has become a subject of dispute among the village fathers.

An invitation from Tarrytown to participate in a sequel-centennial celebration of Major Andre's capture September 25-27 caused seven members of the village board to rise in protest.

"I don't see," said Ray W. Thompson, "where there is any need for a celebration just because Andre unfortunately was captured in Tarrytown. He was a gallant gentleman. I wouldn't attend any celebration commemorating that event. Everyone always has been sorry for him."

Mr. Thompson's views were endorsed by William F. Horan, village attorney, who said: "No one is celebrating the capture of Nathaniel Hale, who was guilty of the same thing. I can see no reason for celebrating that tragic affair."

Raymond Jackson, village treasurer, asserted he never knew anyone who wasn't sorry for Major Andre. "Every school child," he said, "feels that way."

But Mayor Walter D. Crouch said Tucuhoe would accept the Tarrytown invitation. He explained that the village board was in exchange of the trustees.

Major Andre, acting for the British in negotiations with Benedict Arnold for the betrayal of West Point, was captured by three American militiamen near Tarrytown on September 23, 1780, and was hanged on the following October 2 at Tappan, N. Y.

Refuses to Serve Guest, Restaurant Owner Sued

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The New York American golfer has threatened to sue Sidney Solomon, lessee of the Central Park Casino, because Solomon refused to serve nine guests of Bourn when he saw Joseph B. Whitehead, Coco Colomagnate, among them.

The American says Whitehead recently replied to a $500,000 breach of promise suit brought by Annette S. Bracy by giving the initials of a number of men with whom he had been friendly.

Among the initials were "S. S."

Bourn, who is in this country to play in the National amateur championship at Merion Cricket Club, said:

"I am thoroughly disgusted with the entire occurrence. Solomon told me he would serve the rest of us but not Whitehead. I told him Whitehead was my guest, and that it was an insult to me and that I wanted an explanation. He said he was sorry but he would make no further comment."

Herbert C. Smyth, attorney for Whitehead who also has given counsel to Bourn said:

"If my client has been insulted by the management of the Central Park Casino, we have recourse to court."

When Solomon heard of that he said: Well then, go ahead.

AMERICA RETAINS CUP AS ENTERPRISE WINS

New Peruvian Court To Try Ex-President

Lima, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The National sanctions court has started legal proceedings against Augusto B. Leguia, the deposed president now in Lima penitentiary, and Benjamin Huaman de Los Heros, former premier.

The court, which was established last week under the military junta which has ruled Peru since Leguia was unseated by revolt, ordered that the former president's deposition be received Saturday by Justice Manuel Felipe Umeres.

The former premier has been in refuge since the revolution and will be summoned by posted notices. Leguia was transferred to Lima penitentiary Tuesday from the political prison on San Lorenzo Isle. He is in ill health.

The charge against the ousted president is one of peculation.

All of his property will be taken over—including books, private papers and correspondence—for the trial, and all other persons in possession of anything owned by Leguia must deliver them to the court.

Hopelessly Outdistanced the Shamrock Gives Up Chase On Last Leg — American Sloop Finishes Thirty Mile Course in Three Hours, Ten Minutes and Five Seconds; Thirty-Seventh Victory for America.

U. S. Kane, Off America's Cup Course, Sept. 18.—(AP)—(By Radio to the AP)—The American sloop Enterprise today completed a successful defense of the historic America's cup when she won the fourth straight race, and the series, four victories to none.

The wind had backed more toward the westward, making it possible to finish the course as a spinnaker run. The leg had started as a broad reach.

Shamrock apparently had given up the chase as hopeless as she did not run out her spinnaker.

The white hulled American sloop finished the thirty mile triangular course at 1:50:05, making the run in three hours, ten minutes and five seconds.

Shamrock's thirty-seventh time an American boat had beaten the successive British challengers in the 79 years during which the cup had been in competition.

British challengers have won only three races of the forty contested, two of these going to Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock in 1920 when it won the first two races. The other victory was scored by James Ashbury's schooner Livonia, in 1871, she winning by a sailover when the defending Columbia carried away her flying jib stay hook and her steering gear.

The unsuccessful British challenger, Shamrock V, fifth yacht of the Lipton line, trailed the defender across the finish line at 1:55:55, five minutes and 50 seconds behind.

NOT TO ENDORSE RITCHIE FOR 1932

Maryland Democrats Warned Not to Follow Example of Arkansas Parley.

Baltimore, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Democratic leaders, gathered here today for the state convention which is to adopt a platform for the current gubernatorial campaign, were warned not to endorse Governor Albert C. Ritchie for the presidential nomination in 1932.

Governor Ritchie himself checked any such attempt with a letter to Senator Millard E. Tydings, chairman of the convention, in which he asked that no resolution endorsing him for the presidency be offered, and if one should be, that it not be acted on.

"The proceedings of our convention should not be diverted from the issues of the present campaign in the state by any consideration of who our next nominee for the presidency ought to be," the governor said.

parked their car and approached the barn, which is at some distance from Flano's house, on foot, from the rear. As they reached the barn door, the officers ordered them inside and were questioning them when Licari and Conti drove up in a Studebaker sedan.

After the attempted demonstration with the automatic this pair as well as the other two men were placed under arrest, handcuffed in couples and calls were sent by the two raiders to Stafford Springs and to Hartford for help in disposing of the captured liquor and apparatus.

From the Hartford barracks there responded Lieutenants Paul Lavin and five other State Policemen, while Lieutenant Russell Harmon and two men came from the barracks at Stafford Springs.

Brought Here
While these reinforcements were at work wrecking the establishment to make possible the removal of the still, Pettinelli and Collins drove to Manchester with their prisoners, arriving at the police station at 11:45 and asking that each of the four be put in a separate cell. Meantime Lieut. Lavin had telephoned to Hartford for three big trucks and the State Police speedwagon and Pettinelli and Collins waited at the police station here for them, to act as guides to the Flano plant.

Nobody knew any shorter way to get to that Birch Mountain locality, so the trucks trundled all the way to the foot of Nigger Hill on the Manchester-Bolton road, then south to South Bolton and over the road to Birch Mountain, a distance of about 19 miles. Later, when the still, equipment and liquor had been loaded on the trucks and the empty drums rendered useless by blows from axes, a Herald newspaperman showed the raiders how to get to Manchester by way of Highland Park and Porter street, at the cost of a six-mile drive.

It was 3:30 this morning when the plant was dismantled and the trucks loaded.

NORTH AND SOUTH END MERCHANTS TO COMBINE

Get Acquainted Party to be Held in October, Perhaps at Jack O' Lantern Inn.

At a special meeting of the Executive committee of the South End Merchant's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, held in the Chamber office this morning by call of H. B. House, chairman, arrangements were begun for a joint "get acquainted party" of their division and the recently organized North End Merchant's Division. The tentative date of Wednesday, October 1, was set, and the affair may possibly be held at the new Jack O' Lantern Inn in Bolton, formerly known as the Rainbow.

The social gathering is arranged with the thought of cementing friendly relations between the two divisions. The Executive committee also decided that no meeting of the South End will be held this month but a card will be sent to each member urging attendance at the regular meeting of the Chamber next Monday night. At this meeting matters of importance pertaining to the merchants will be discussed, including the Christmas lighting program for this year. Last year was thought by many that the lighting should be a community project and not only a merchants affair. It is hoped at this meeting to decide which it shall be.

The freeze continued from the lobby to a committee from the Enterprise to perfect details of the lighting.

SILK ASSOCIATION HONORS CHAS. CHENEY

Elected to Honorary Membership on Board of Managers—Has Served 21 Years.

Endorsement of a promotional campaign for silk reported to be under consideration by the Raw Silk Association of Japan, for the purpose of stimulating increased sales and new outlets for silk fabrics in the American market was voted yesterday by the board of managers of the Silk Association of America, at their quarterly meeting held at Silk Association headquarters, and a cable to this effect was sent to the Raw Silk Association of Japan by Thomas B. Hill, Silk Association president. This campaign, which is under way, will be financed by a tax on Japanese raw silk exports.

A definition and construction of Grenadine yarn, which has caused some confusion in the manufacturing and retail industries since the use of silk nosey, was approved by the board of managers at yesterday's meeting. ### BROOKHART RAPS GOVERNOR OF N. Y.

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, issued a statement today assailing Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic governor of New York, in connection with his recent advocacy of repeal of federal control of liquor.

The Senator said the governor had failed to give prohibition a fair trial in his state. He added that under the circumstances no fair-minded person could say that prohibition had been a failure "even in New York."

"It is Governor Roosevelt who has been a failure," Brookhart said.

His Statement
Recalling his advocacy of a union of the west and south for political action on economic grounds, the Iowa senator said:

"The last session of the Senate saw a union law effectively in operation for most of the session.

"The way is now open for the west and the south to unite against the centralized power of all states which has destroyed the prosperity of agriculture, of the independent manufacturers, of the independent bankers and of the every other legitimate independent business."

"The west and the south are also united in opposition to the issue raised by Governor Roosevelt for the repeal of the 18th Amendment."

Brookhart said, "Since this issue has been put forward by the son of Wall street also, it furnishes an additional and powerful reason for cooperative action, between the west and the south."

INDIAN MAP OF STATE PRESENTED TO LIBRARY

Drawing Made by Hayden L. Griswold From Spies Data Being Exhibited Here.

There is a drawing of the state of Connecticut at the South Manchester Public Library which is attracting considerable attention. It is a sketch of the state many years ago showing the various Indian trails, and villages. The drawing made by Hayden L. Griswold, C. E., this year from information furnished by library by Mrs. Mary Flerson Cheney.

The map is located under plate glass on the counter of the desk where all of the books are issued and there is most conspicuous. Hundreds of persons have examined it minutely during the past few weeks. It is interesting to note that many of the towns, cities, rivers and lakes derived their names from the Indians. In some instances the spelling of the words has only been altered to the extent of a letter or two.

The Connecticut River used to be known as the Cunnehtic River. The Podunk, Hockanum, Tunkashoon, and other Indian names. Two of the lakes close to Manchester have only been slightly changed. They formerly were Poutapog and Wangumbaug Lakes.

Included among the principal Indian settlements were Nipmuc, Mohegans, Uncas, Pequots, Niantics, (now Niantic) Hammonetts, Mennakuttucks, Wangunks, Podunks, Suckoags, Poonoquocks, Agawams, Massachusetts, and Paugussets. The northwestern part of the state was conspicuous on the map by its lack of any big settlements.

ANOTHER AUTO CRASH AT BAD INTERSECTION

Automobiles owned and driven by Allen Barrett of St. John street and John Pirato of Oakland street, collided in a collision at the intersection of Park and Chestnut street at 2:10 this afternoon. In the car driven by Mr. Barrett was Harold Drew of 180 Summit street, who was seated in the front with the driver and Mrs. and Mrs. Olympia Bosco. The Barrett car was being driven east and had just passed the intersection of the two streets when the Pirato car, coming from the north struck it on the side tearing off the left running board and pushing the car into the gutter on the south side of the street. Both Mrs. Bosco and Mr. Drew were cut when thrown against the glass.

Mr. Pirato was injured on the right leg. There is a stop sign on the Chestnut street side, Park street being considered a through street. The owners were unable to reach an agreement and Officer Walter Cassels investigated.

NERVOUS GANGSTER

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Somebody slammed a door in the courtroom today and Danny Stanton, Capone lieutenant and one of the crime commission's "public enemies" dropped to the floor.

The door slamming presaged nothing more dangerous than mere noise, the gangster returned to a belligerent attitude, shook his fist at newspaper photographers, clung to the back of his attorney and demanded a jury trial on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

He is also accused by Mrs. Catherine Book of holding her married daughter, Mrs. Lucille O'Neill, a prisoner in his apartment.

Stanton was one of the gangsters named in vagrancy warrants issued by Judge John H. Lyle yesterday. He was already in custody.

ENTERPRISE WINS RACE; U. S. RETAINS THE CUP

appeared she would take 10 or 15 minutes to come around the mark, blowing between 15 and 18 miles an hour as Enterprise rounded the turn, and she set sail for the second time with a leg was a close reach, almost a run before the wind.

Shamrock rounded the mark at 12:12:14, almost ten minutes behind the defender.

Shamrock was an estimated mile and a half behind.

Wind and water conditions indicated a run of probably not more than an hour on the second ten mile run.

Shamrock which had held in for some time where the sea was frothy, apparently realized she was losing ground and shortly after 11:30 came around.

Vanderbilt put his boat over on the starboard tack and went on without losing any of his advantage.

Desperate Measures
The crew of the British boat was taking desperate measures to bring their boat higher into the wind, but she did not appear to respond readily.

The situation is analogous to that of a horse race, in which one hugs the rail and the other runs out in the middle of the track. The British called the "overland" route to the finish line a route that is many lengths the longer.

Enterprise continued to increase her advantage and at 11:45 was a mile and a half ahead.

Uses Range Finder
The computations of the distance between the two boats were made by Lieut. O. T. McDermitt, navigating officer of the Kane, using a range finder with which the navy computes the distance away of a target.

Commodore Vanderbilt, who knows the tides and wind cues of the course put in for shore at 11:30, estimated the current which runs sometimes as high as three miles an hour.

The Shamrock's skipper apparently discarding his earlier plan to sail his own race, followed Enterprise in toward shore. He had tried the shore road too soon, it appeared, and a long tack toward the open sea had only lost him ground.

Enterprise rounded the ten mile mark at 12:03:15.

Enterprise rounded the twenty mile mark at 12:55:06.

It took the American boat only 51 minutes, 51 seconds to make the 10 mile run before the wind on the second leg.

Enterprise crossed her baby jib topsail just before going around the turn which caused some in the spectator fleet to believe she had made an accident such as befell Shamrock yesterday.

The maneuver was deliberate to allow her to hit the mark closer and go around without losing too much distance.

Shamrock rounded the turn at 1:01:55, seven minutes behind the defender.

ARRANGE FOR BONDS

The whole outfit was taken to Hartford, a stop being made here to pick up the four prisoners. Flano was not arrested with the others but later was included in the list of those charged with manufacturing liquor and keeping it for sale. Arrangements for bonds were expected to be made today at the home of Justice of the Peace L. D. Eaton of Bolton.

Flano declared to a reporter that he did not know who owned the still and had no interest in it. He said he had rented the barn to the man whom he did not know because he was sorely in need of money. He had lost all his crops, he said, in the recent destructive hailstorms. He is the father of five children, the eldest six years old. His wife is not yet 22.

Flano himself is a veteran of the World War and says that he and one other, who is now in Hollywood, were the only survivors among the young men who went into the Italian army from his native village. Both of them came to this country about eight years ago. Flano married a Hartford girl and they have tried hard, he says, to make a living on the run-down farm in Bolton, but not very successfully. He says he couldn't resist the offer of good money for the rental of the barn but had nothing whatever else to do with the business conducted there.

Other Case Put Off
The charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell and with manufacturing for sale, which was brought against John Caselli and Ray Soto of 117 Eldridge street, who are the alleged proprietors of the building in Bolton that was raided on Tuesday, did not come to trial before Justice of the Peace Eaton of Bolton yesterday afternoon, as planned, a continuation being asked for until Friday afternoon at the same time, which was granted.

NO SETTLEMENT YET

Rome, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Giornale d'Italia in a front page note, evidently inspired by the government, said the Italo-French armistice negotiations are "not only not concluded but apparently not anywhere near solution."

"Studying, examining and discussion still are going on," says the newspaper. "Consequently Minister Grandi is remaining in Rome for the present."

The note, the Giornale explains, is provoked by the "fantasies" of foreign newspapers.

MORROW AS BEST MAN AT NEPHEW'S WEDDING

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The New York Evening Post says that Miss Landenberger, a newspaper writer, met Scandrett in his law office when she had gone to discuss a story on which she was working. When she left Scandrett was said to have remarked, "There is the girl I'm going to marry." Less than a week later they were engaged.

Miss Landenberger is a daughter of the late Eugene Mills and Skaneateles, N. Y., and a graduate of Syracuse University in the class of 1928.

Scandrett is an Amherst alumnus of the class of 1911. Until a year ago he was vice-president of the American Gas and Electric Company. His mother is the former Agnes Morrow.

WATERBURY BROKER IN COURT

Waterbury, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Joseph S. Schofield, 38, of Hartford, a former Waterbury broker, pleaded guilty this morning when arraigned before Judge John Rufus Booth in the Superior Criminal Court on four counts of embezzlement by agent. Through his counsel, Attorney Frederick J. Rundt, maker of Hartford, Schofield asked for a continuance of one month to enable him to prepare a proper defense to the charges. When no objection was offered by State Attorney Lawrence L. Lewis the continuance was allowed with bonds set at $2,000.

DONOVAN WARNS PARTY ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Advocating repeal of the 18th Amendment, Col. William J. Donovan, former assistant U. S. attorney general, likened the position of the Republican party today to the plight of the Whig party before the Civil War.

The disintegration of the Whig party in the slavery controversy is a graphic illustration, he said, speaking before the Young Men's Republican Club. "That organization in the 50's found the slavery issue loaded with political, moral and emotional dynamite. The Whigs did not meet the logic of events. Guided by short sighted expediency and timidity, they persisted in a policy of evasion. Because of this the party failed."

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Stocks opened irregular today on narrow price changes. Houston Oil, Allied Chemical, Case lost to 1-2. Union Carbide, Montgomery Ward and United Aircraft eased 3-4 and General Electric sagged 1-2. Pacific Lighting rallied 2-3-8. Vanderbilt New York Central, Gillette and International Telephone advanced from 1-2 to 3-4. U. S. Steel opened 1-8 lower.

The market showed increasing heaviness after the initial transactions and by the end of the first half hour losses of a point or so were numerous, although the turnover remained small. Realizing came into the utilities, which had accounted for the best part of yesterday's narrow improvement. There was also some selling of merchandising issues.

American Water Works, American and Foreign Power, Columbia Gas and American Telephone sagged 1 to 1 1/2. Westinghouse electric was one point declined in Sears and Roebuck. Real Silk Hosiery, Dupont, Coca Cola, International Harvester, Foster Wheeler, Reynolds Tobacco "B" and Loew's, Worthington Pump dropped more than 3 points and R. H. Macy, Johns-Manville and Case yielded 2 studebaker rose a point. Foreign exchanges were slightly irregular. Sterling cables opened at $4.86 5/32, off 1-32.

Miss Ellen Marcin of 136 Bissell street was admitted for an appendicitis operation.

HARTFORD MAN KILLED

Norwich, Sept. 18.—(AP)—William Mowehuk, 64, of Hartford was fatally injured in a motorcycle accident on the Hartford turnpike in the town of Marlborough early today. He died in a hospital here several hours later from a fractured skull.

Mowehuk was riding in the sidecar of a motorcycle driven by Michael Mogas, 21, of 417 Gardner avenue, Hartford. The latter told police who arrested him on a charge of reckless driving that the front tire blew out, causing the machine to turn over. He was uninjured.

HEART BALM SUIT

Bridgport, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Susan E. McGuinness, a Darien dressmaker today filed a $50,000 breach of promise suit against Eugene N. Tolles, 74, retired Norwalk business man.

She charges that he proposed to her in May, 1927, and that she accepted. The wedding date was set four different times, she alleges but each time postponed.

BETTER CONDITION NOW AT 8TH'S SEWAGE PLANT

New Pump and Agitator Displace Manual Cleaning of Septic Tank; Cleaner Flowage.

The chief criticism raised by the State Board of Health against the septic tanks for the disposal of the sewage of the Eighth District was that through lack of proper care the disposal system did not have an opportunity to operate properly and that the effluent was not in proper condition to enter a public stream.

The new officials of the district, in an effort to meet this criticism have purchased a modern suction pump and agitator which are now working successfully at the old method of letting a laborer down into the tank with a rope tied around him when it became necessary to scrape off the sides of the tank.

The condition of the effluent entering the Hockanum is already showing marked improvement.

FEARS FOR DAUGHTER

New Haven, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Police today were requested to search for Daniel Vichio, 19, who according to her parents disappeared last night at 7:30 o'clock, soon after receiving a telephone call from her suitor in which he is alleged to have threatened the girl's life.

Mrs. Dan Vichio said her daughter and Joseph Vito who had been keeping company for three years recently quarrelled. Last night she told police he vowed he would shoot Landa if she did not meet him.

LETTER SOLVES MIXUP OVER HORTON SMITH

Never Knew of Golf Date Here Because of Misinterpretation of Telegram to Farrell.

The failure of Horton Smith, famous professional golfer to play here recently as advertised, now appears to have been due to a misunderstanding telegram, judging from a letter received today by George W. Bagley, president of the Lions Club, sponsors of the exhibition, from William D. Richardson, New York newspaperman with whom the Lions booked the match.

Richardson says he wired Johnny Farrell and asked him if he and Horton Smith could play here and that Farrell answered in the affirmative but thought that Smith received a similar message. Richardson says he expected Farrell to let the whole affair stand as an unavoidable misunderstanding for which all concerned are deeply regretful. His letter follows in full:

Sept. 17, 1930. Mr. George W. Bagley, President, Manchester Lions Club, South Manchester, Conn. Dear Mr. Bagley, I was very much surprised indeed to find out from Horton Smith, whom I saw at the P.G.A. Championship, that he had not received any word regarding the match at Hartford. The whole thing about the match through a misinterpretation of a wire received from Johnny Farrell from St. Paul. When I started to arrange for the match I was unable to locate Smith, and knowing that he was playing in the St. Paul tournament I wired to Farrell saying "Can you and Horton Smith play exhibition at Manchester Country Club, near Hartford, giving date." He wired in the affirmative and naturally I assumed that he had talked to Horton Smith and everything was okay. I found out later that he thought I had sent the same wire to Horton Smith and it never occurred to him to speak to Horton about it. Having a wire I promptly closed arrangements with Mr. Henderson of the Hartford Times. I was very much surprised indeed to learn that Smith did not show up. As a matter of fact he was doing nothing on the day and could easily have come to Manchester had it not been for the misunderstanding. There is no blame to be attached to anyone. The whole thing was a misunderstanding due to misinterpretation of the wire and I trust that you will consider it as such.

INCOME TAX RECEIPTS ARE ON THE DECREASE

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Income tax collections for the third quarter which was due Monday are falling below those of a year ago. However, treasury officials said today, they were not disturbed over these returns and still hoped the low tax schedule could be continued next year. Several days will pass before the final returns for the third quarterly payments are received at the Treasury. Income tax payments for this year, totaling $1,071,821,828, compared with $208,587,436 for the same period last year when the higher rates were in effect. The treasury statement continues to show increased expenditures this year for the government above last year, together with decreased receipts. Under Secretary Ogden Mills emphasized today that this condition had been expected and was taken into account by the treasury when it was estimated recently that there was hope of continuing the tax reduction. The one percent slash was made effective for last year only. Administration officials expect customs receipts, which have fallen down this year, to pick up again after the unsettling caused by enactment of the new tariff law has passed. During this fiscal year, which began on July 1, the margin of government expenditures above receipts totaled $283,208,782.

CUBA CHALLENGES LEAGUE'S POWERS

(Continued from Page 1) added Cuba's position was most regrettable. Senator Ferrera replied with vigor that Cuba could not submit to a discussion of her reasons by the committee. "These reasons are an expression of Cuba's sovereignty," he asserted, "and must not be challenged." Her reasons must be accepted. The Cuban representative concluded that M. Politis' remarks were in the "nature of an election speech." He asserted that neither M. Politis nor Greece could dictate to Cuba. Senator Scialoja admitted that he was partly to blame for permitting the discussion to continue in a controversial tone. He said that both M. Politis and Senator Ferrera had been out of order and closed the discussion. The delegates applauded this determination, while the Cuban and the Greek smiled their readiness to turn to a less dangerous topic.

CREW OF THE R-100 GOT $12 FOR TRIP

London, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The air ministry has started an investigation of assertions made in an article in the newspaper "John Bull" that members of the crew of the British dirigible R-100 complained of inadequate pay for their services on the recent trip to Canada and of treatment received since. The article said the men received 4-1-2 guineas weekly ($22.50) while on the trip but had unlimited hours of work. When actually flying they received four pence an hour for the first twelve hours and six pence an hour thereafter, according to the item.

"For flying the Atlantic," says John Bull, "the men received the princely sum of 37 shillings, six pence each (about $12). The men have now been informed their pay will be reduced to an equivalent of 59 shillings weekly for an indefinite period while the airship is in her shed at Cambridge."

The air ministry pointed out in today's Daily Herald, Labor organ, that "flying pay" grants in connection with the trip would be additional to the crew's standard rate of pay.

STORY OF LEARNED'S ACCIDENT UNFOUNDED

Rumor Travels Rapidly and Has Local Man Hurt and Dead While Touring in France.

Rumor, traveling at lightning-like speed, had John Learned, a Cheney Brothers executive now traveling in France, in a fatal accident at times dead, for two days this week. Telegraph wires and cables were resorted to by members of the Cheney family and The Herald in an effort to run down the report and word late this afternoon was received direct from Learned assuring his relatives he is in the best of health.

So persistent was the rumor that Learned was the victim of an automobile crash while traveling in Europe that The Herald's telephone wires were taxed all day Tuesday with calls inquiring about the story. Sifting the rumor it was learned that someone had read an item telling about such an accident in the Boston Globe. That paper was asked to check the information and its managing editor informed The Herald today that no such news article had appeared in The Globe. John Learned, brother of the subject of the wild story, was naturally considerably agitated about the rumor and traced it to its source. He learned that a young man in Cheney Brothers employ had said that he had read such a story in some newspaper. When closely questioned the young man could not give any definite information. Once started it did not take long for the rumor to spread. The Herald heard the story shortly after it had definitely stopped until word of the cablegram received today from Learned himself will have spread to the same far corners the original story reached.

She refused to admit she was headed back to the operatic stage and was evasive when asked if her decision to abandon opera still held. Opinion prevailed in musical circles today that she expects to return to the singing career begun auspiciously at the Metropolitan Opera House in 1926, when she was 18. She spent four seasons in opera and was reported to have earned from $300,000 to $500,000.

GLARING ERRORS IN TAX RECEIPTS

"If the debt of the town of Windham" he wrote "were $173,500 at the rate of six percent the interest thereon would amount to $10,380 instead of $25,000. Inquiry into this subject elicited the information that the current debt in fact amounts to some $500,000 or $600,000, in lieu of $173,500 as reported."

Chairman of the Board Carnegie Institute of Technology, Director American National Theatre. Member American Mission to Morocco 1923. Officer of Legion of Honor (France).

"Perhaps the most vital influence in the American business world in recent years has been the tendency of industrial leaders to join hands with science. No more significant example of this trend exists than your modern use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos. The great success of your experiments demonstrates the wisdom of this union between business and science."

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." HILLYER COURSES OFFERS WELDING INSTRUCTION

The Aircraft Welding class of the Hillyer Y. M. C. A. schools at Hartford, Conn., will hold its first session on Monday evening, September 22, at 7:30 o'clock. This course, composed of 32 lessons, offers the student the fundamentals of oxy-acetylene welding.

Charles Borchers, foreman of the Department of the Connecticut State Police at Hartford, is scheduled to meet Wednesday, and Friday evenings for ten weeks. This is Mr. Borchers' second year as instructor of this new department of the Hillyer Y. M. C. A. schools.

Mr. Borchers has had five years of actual teaching experience in New York City as an instructor in the Oxy-Carbide School and has also had seven years' welding experience with the Curtiss Aircraft Company at Long Island City. In addition to his trade experience, Mr. Borchers during the war had eleven months' actual flying in the United States Army. He holds a first-class aviation license, a first-class airplane license, and a first-class stationery engineer's license.

The course will deal with the proper method of oxy-acetylene welding as applied to fuselage welding. It will place special emphasis upon heat control of the chrome steel tube that is used in the construction of the fuselage. Instructor Borchers will, in the 32 lessons, describe the function and operation of the blow pipe and regulators and drill the students in precautions and safety practices necessary in the making of an expert welder.

The proper method of cutting, a brief study of metallurgy of low carbon steel, mild steel, chrome molybdenum and the chemical and physical properties of these types of steels will be supplemented with the actual practice of welding. The Hillyer Welding Laboratory is equipped with 2 aircraft oxy-acetylene torches including three different types of the leading commercial torches.

Welding T and lattice joints, various methods of testing welds, and practice in setting pieces of tubing perpendicularly to pieces of sheet steel will also be stressed, and at the close of the course the regulation qualification tests for aircraft welders will be emphasized so that the welder will be prepared to enter the commercial field provided he has applied himself during the course.

ATTRACTIVE HOME A BIG SOCIAL AID

Prevents Waywardness in Young Girls Who May be Ashamed of Furniture.

Many parents have to worry about their daughters making "street-corner" dates if their home surroundings instilled pride and an eagerness in the girls to invite their friends there, Elmore Watkins, chairman of the Home Furnishings Style Show to be held here Sept. 28-Oct. 4, said today.

The furniture industry, he said, believes it has a moral obligation in the part it plays in the establishment of home life. That was the motivating reason behind the National Home Furnishings Style Show. The local show will be a unit of the national one.

"Shabby home surroundings are often the reasons why the daughter meets her boy friends on the street," Mr. Watkins said. "Young boys and girls should not be made to feel ashamed of their homes. A girl often is ashamed to introduce her friends to her parents because of the dilapidated appearance of her home."

"Elaborate display is not necessary in the modern home, but the good design, harmony of colors, utility and a feeling of restfulness."

"Dr. Louis L. Mann, Rabbi of Chicago Sinai congregation, and nationally accepted as an authority on social problems, said recently in an address in Chicago that statistics show that 85 per cent of delinquent girls take the wrong path before they are 21 years old."

"He said: 'These girls meet their company on the street because they are ashamed of the shabby two or three room homes in which they live. If homes were more attractive, crime and delinquency would be cut down. Young girls would not yield so easily to the exciting amusements and allurements of the outside world. No nation can rise above its homes.'

"Furniture has an inestimable influence on character. Children respond to the stimulus in their home in the same way that they respond to the stimulus of the street. I believe the opportunity of the furniture industry to go forward lies in co-operation."

During the Style Show, Mr. Watkins added, means by which people can furnish their homes smartly and correctly, yet economically, will be shown. All latest designs in home furnishings will be displayed in model room settings that visitors may visualize how the articles would look in their own homes.

U. S. RECOGNIZES NEW GOVERNMENTS

Diplomats in Argentine, Peru and Bolivia So Instructed by Sec. Stimson.

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Secretary Stimson today announced he had ordered American diplomatic representatives in Argentine, Peru and Bolivia to resume normal diplomatic relations with those countries.

Instructions are going forth to the embassies at Buenos Aires, Lima and La Paz for the American representatives formally to present their papers and resume normal relations tomorrow, September 18.

Decision followed conferences between President Hoover and the secretary of state. Mr. Stimson's announcement was made at the regular press conference.

The secretary said he had taken into consideration that the governments recently constituted in the three countries were de facto and in control of the situation. He said it was apparent to the State Department that the governments were meeting with no resistance on the part of the people of those countries. The promises of the governments to bring about an orderly situation and fulfill their obligations to the peoples were taken notice of.

No New Policy Mr. Stimson said the recognitions in no way indicated a new policy or a change of policy by this government towards governments owing their existence to revolution or coup d'etat.

Prompt recognition by this country was inspired, he added, by a desire to maintain friendly intercourse with the three nations and not to embarrass them by a lack of recognition during the present worldwide economic depression.

He said the recognitions followed the usual rules of international law, which had been supported by this country since foreign policies were first enunciated under the administration of George Washington.

The secretary of state pointed out however, that certain differences in policy towards Latin American neighbors were brought about by special treaty arrangements. In this connection, he recalled that the five Central American republics brought this country to approve a treaty adopted among themselves in 1923, which refused to recognize governments coming into power in those countries by revolution or coup d'etat. This country, he said, had agreed to follow the dictates of the Central American treaty although it was not a party.

Every Hour Of The Day Every Day Of The Year

Instructions are going forth to the embassies at Buenos Aires, Lima and La Paz for the American representatives formally to present their papers and resume normal relations tomorrow, September 18.

Decision followed conferences between President Hoover and the secretary of state. Mr. Stimson's announcement was made at the regular press conference.

The secretary said he had taken into consideration that the governments recently constituted in the three countries were de facto and in control of the situation. He said it was apparent to the State Department that the governments were meeting with no resistance on the part of the people of those countries. The promises of the governments to bring about an orderly situation and fulfill their obligations to the peoples were taken notice of.

No New Policy Mr. Stimson said the recognitions in no way indicated a new policy or a change of policy by this government towards governments owing their existence to revolution or coup d'etat.

Prompt recognition by this country was inspired, he added, by a desire to maintain friendly intercourse with the three nations and not to embarrass them by a lack of recognition during the present worldwide economic depression.

He said the recognitions followed the usual rules of international law, which had been supported by this country since foreign policies were first enunciated under the administration of George Washington.

The secretary of state pointed out however, that certain differences in policy towards Latin American neighbors were brought about by special treaty arrangements. In this connection, he recalled that the five Central American republics brought this country to approve a treaty adopted among themselves in 1923, which refused to recognize governments coming into power in those countries by revolution or coup d'etat. This country, he said, had agreed to follow the dictates of the Central American treaty although it was not a party.

MAKER OF STILL HELD IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The first arrest in the Connecticut district of a person in possession of the equipment demanded and intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of liquor was made this noon when Federal agents with local police raided a tin shop at 195 Morgan street and seized a 100-gallon still, two 80-gallon stills and one 25-gallon still together with a quantity of miscellaneous equipment.

Max Landerman, proprietor who lives at 132 Park street, and John Nitch, an employee, of Windsor were taken into custody and booked at police headquarters on charges of possession and sale of equipment designed for illegal manufacture of liquor.

EXPLAINS THROUGH TRAFFIC SYSTEM

Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel Says It Is Useful; Fears Misuse.

A short discussion of the Connecticut adaptation of the so-called through traffic system, prepared by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, was read this afternoon from WTIC, the Travelers Station.

"This state has recognized," said Commissioner Stoeckel, "that, like every other traffic device, there are places where the through traffic system is useful. It recognizes also that this system should be used sparingly, and only by way of experimentation at present. If it is found to work properly, is reasonably observed and the rights of the pedestrian are not interfered with, then it is a valuable adjunct for assistance and use in Connecticut.

"The purpose in bringing this system to general attention at this time is to insure that everybody knows something about it, as it may be used increasingly by Connecticut towns. When an operator approaches a sign which urges caution or a full stop, he should be ready to obey that sign. The sign is a warning that it has been found necessary to move cars along at a reasonably fast rate of speed on the main thoroughfare, and that cars which come into that thoroughfare must do so with extreme caution.

"The Department of Motor Vehicles, in giving advice on traffic control, has been careful to limit the number of gadgets and regulations which it recommends for the state system. The aim has been to keep the rules as simple and plain as possible, centering the responsibility upon the operator, while trying to make certain that he operates in a reasonable manner without being over directed. But where direction is provided, and where it is determined that such direction is a good thing, rather than a drawback and a nuisance, the operator must learn and observe all of the various and sundry rules.

"The through traffic system is one which will probably survive. It has many applications, and has been found to operate successfully, even when adopted as a rule of action throughout a state or in a large territory."

SYRACUSE UNDER VIC HANSON'S EYE

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Falling heir to a flock of fast hacks and a veteran line that averages close to 195 pounds per man, Vic Hanson has plenty of good material as he starts his first year as head coach of football at Syracuse University.

Syracuseans would be disappointed if the former All-American end, after a year spent in study of coaching methods throughout the country, does not turn out a team that will win a majority of its major games. Hanson has elected to shelve the Warner system used here last season, in favor of a style of play resembling that taught by Chick Meahan at New York University. The line may include the veterans Stenberg and Elliott as ends; Newton and Kanya, tackles; Obst and Lombardi, sophomore guards, and Berner, center. There are at least a dozen candidates of almost equal ability, however, ready and anxious to replace the lettermen.

In the backfield, Hanson's best bets include Warren Stevens, Joe Moran, Howard Meeker and Robert Borton, all of whom combine speed with unusual ball carrying ability. Herb Titmas, quarterback has a pair of rivals from the undefeated frosh team—Al Morrison and Mike Korch.

GAS WAR PRICE ON

Detroit, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A price war today brought the cost of gasoline in some sections of Detroit down to 12 1-2 cents a gallon, a drop of approximately 8 cents in four days.

The larger refineries announced that they were forced into the reductions by the prevalence of "independent" stations which started the reductions several weeks ago.

Representatives of the bigger companies asserted that a great deal of gasoline has been "dumped" in Michigan and that the present prices represent less than cost of production.

FAMOUS ARTIST ILL

Paris, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Alexander Harrison of Philadelphia, one of the most widely known painters of the last generation, is seriously ill at his Paris studio. Since he is 77 years old physicians hold little hope of his recovery.

Thomas Alexander Harrison has been recognized as one of the foremost marine painters since 1885. He won fame at the age of 32 for his exhibition in the Paris salon and has exhibited there and in many other places much of his life.

In addition to many medals and other awards and degrees he was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor in 1899 and an officer in 1901. He was appointed officer of public instruction by the French government in that year.

Work on the repainting and re-furnishing of Co. G's room in the Armory will start next week. The paint has been received and after being applied to the walls and floors, attention will be given to the repairing of the furniture, re-covering the pool table, installing a radio and hanging draperies. It is not unlikely that in the near future a night will be set aside for visitors, and the friends of the boys can come in and see the room where the men enjoy themselves.

Corporal Pagan has gone and done it. He took a young lady from Rockville "for better or worse" Tuesday morning. If anyone thinks "Tommy" doesn't know a good looking girl when he sees one, they will change their minds when they see the Mrs. He certainly had his eyes open when he coaxed her into open matrimony. She sure is good looking, boys. They are in New York City at present enjoying the sights of the big city and also each other's company.

Corporal Hentschel made his first appearance Sunday since his recent marriage and was congratulated and wished the best of luck by practically all the men of the company. The corporal looks very well, as a matter of fact better, and was told so by a number of the fellows.

Major Irving Partridge, the new Battalion Commander, will pay his first official visit to the company Monday, Sept. 24. The new Major is fully as popular as former Major, now Lieut.-Colonel Butler, was, and the men will surely greet their new leader with enthusiasm. In that the men will wear white collared and white shirts, instead of the O. D. shirt. They will also wear the new Melton uniform and cap. It is expected Major Partridge will give a talk to the men on military subjects.

Non-commissioned officers' school will be held in Company G's room Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Lieut. Oliver will be in charge. Privates can and should attend these schools. Only those considered by doing so. Only those attending non-com school are promoted. Non-commissioned officers who do not attend regularly lose their stripes.

Some of G Co.'s men are unemployed at present and if anyone wishing to hire help will communicate with Captain McVeigh he will be glad to recommend a number of good men.

Private Edward McKeever is leaving town for six months and has applied for a leave of absence. Eddie will be home occasionally, but not on Monday nights, so that it will be impossible for him to attend drills. It is too bad we have to lose him, but work comes first and so Eddie gets the six months' leave.

Private Raymond Carey left yesterday for Tufts College where he has enrolled as a freshman. The quarterly pay checks were distributed at drill on Tuesday night to the members of the Howitzer Company; judging from the singing which followed the distribution the men were glad to receive their pay.

Private Philip B. Selwitz has succeeded Corporal Harry Bellamy as clerk of the Howitzer Company. He started on his new duties at this week's drill.

Freddie Phaneuf and Tony Moszer took Corporal Bober and Jack Fiedler into camp on Tuesday night. Sumner with the calibre .22 rifle. The winners have challenges for several weeks ahead.

The Howitzer Company will leave the armory on Sunday morning at eight o'clock for duty on the company pistol range located on Keeney street. Sunday work will consist of preliminary practice for the annual record firing which will be held a week or two hence. Rivalry is at a high pitch as a large number of the men are competing for the cup offered by the company officers.

Private Kuston A. Kuchenski is working in Glastonbury and is unable to attend drills for some time. First Sergeant Ragner C. Gustafson of Autumn street is spending a vacation in Canada.

The Howitzer Company squad leaders are showing real work in getting their men out to drills. Corporal Frank Vitullo's squad is still

EXPLOSION WRECKS BIG POWDER PLANT

Everett, Wash., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Fifty persons were injured, one seriously, and property for miles around was damaged by an explosion of 5,000 pounds of dynamite which destroyed the Puget Sound and Alaska powder plant yesterday.

The most seriously injured was Mrs. Harold Boushey, whose jugular vein was nearly severed when her three-room cottage was demolished. Bernice Lamb, 14, lost an eye. Archie Gongia, a half mile from the scene of the explosion suffered several broken ribs when thrown across a room.

The blast followed a fire which originated in the nitroglycerine mixing vat where three of the plant's 45 employees were working overtime. They ran to a place of safety before the blaze reached stored dynamite.

Nearly all windows in the town of Mullett, a mile distant, and many in Everett, seven miles away, were shattered. The plant was valued at $500,000.

TRY TO KIDNAP BEAUTIES

Tepec, Nayarit, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A band of drunken invaders appeared near the town of Villa De Compostela during the Independence Day parade and attempted to kidnap the prettiest señoritas in the village, winners of a beauty contest who were participating in the parade.

The authorities drove off the raiders after an exchange of shots. Reports reaching Tepec said that several persons were killed and wounded.

BANKERS ARE ASKED TO HELP FARMERS

Chairman Legge Tells Financiers They Can Help a Good Deal With Loans.

Detroit, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Mortgage bankers were urged by Chairman Legge of the Farm Board to day to use their power as one of agriculture's largest creditor groups to improve farming practices and place the industry on a more profitable basis.

In an address to the annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America Legge expressed conviction that wheat farmers should be larger in size and recommended that the bankers secure this unit increase by consolidating small farms which now cannot make profits and repay loans. This, he said, would make "one borrower a good credit risk where you now have two or three bad ones."

Research has shown, the farm chairman said that growers raising less than 300 acres are "hopelessly handicapped" by high production costs.

Farm Mortgage Debt. Legge estimated the total farm mortgage debt of the United States at between nine and nine and one-half billion dollars. He urged the mortgage holders to aid government effort on behalf of agriculture by making available to the Federal services, statistical information on foreclosures, delinquencies and other financing data. He also asked their cooperation in using the influence to reduce wheat acreage and to substitute wheat for corn as livestock feed this winter.

Legge review the farm board program, summing up progress so far with the assertion that "we have made what we consider a good beginning but no more."

He voiced confidence that the difficulties faced by agriculture this year would be surmounted and in time would appear clearly to have been temporary.

ernment of any community to misrepresent in any way, even by inference, the community's financial position. But it by no means follows, even where there is such misrepresentation, that finances have not otherwise been discreetly and honestly administered. It would be unfair and in all probability entirely mistaken to assume, in the present case, that there has been anything but fair dealing on the part of the Windham officials—with the single exception of letting the people labor under a misapprehension as to the community's fiscal condition.

The issue of the rather sensational disclosure will be awaited by the friends of Mr. Fenton and his associates with an open mind and much confidence that they will be found guilty of nothing but an error of judgment which has cost the town nothing.

TOO MUCH TO EXPECT

One can't have everything. Sir Thomas Lipton has had no nearly everything in this life—prime business success, great personal popularity, recognition as one of the finest sportsmen that ever lived, sound health and a tremendous capacity for the enjoyment of existence—that perhaps it was too much for him to expect that to him should go the glory of winning the America's cup. It would, possibly, have been filling his cup of happiness beyond the brim—and that is something that can't be done.

To all intents and purposes the 1930 challenge series was over and done with after yesterday's accident. The Shamrock would have to win four straight races in order to capture the "old mug." There had not been a moment in the racing, so far, to indicate the possibility, let alone the probability, of her doing such a thing.

It was lamentable indeed that yesterday's race should have turned into a fluke—lost because a rigger, apparently, was just the least mistake carelessly. But such are the fortunes of yacht racing. A bit merciless, it looks to the landsman, this rule of the yachtmen that "accidents don't count," but every yachtsman understands it and agrees to it, and there is nothing to be done about it. It's all part of the game, like blanketing or breaking hitches and sneaking off on a private quest for wind. A hard boiled proposition.

But if it is Sir Thomas' fate to be denied the winning of the America's cup, it is at least his satisfaction, to know that, loyal as Americans are to their own side in any sort of an international contest for fun, money or blood, at least half of them this time were on the side that puts them, along with him, on the mourners' bench.

If he is cast down he may comfort himself with the knowledge that he hasn't got to go overseas for plenty of company.

BOOTLEGGED ALIENS

It is probable that few of the facts dealt with by Senator Frederick C. Walcott in his speech before the recent Republican state convention will bore deeper into the consciousness of those who heard or read that address than the one concerning bootleg immigration. Most of us were perfectly well aware that the illegal entry of aliens into this country was going on at a considerable rate but not many, it is to be believed, were prepared to learn that nearly a million persons—a number far exceeding that of the legal entrants—had somehow or another made their way across our frontiers last year in violation of the law. Yet Senator Walcott is no sensationalist and his estimate of the number is entitled to all credence.

Any such influx of undesired aliens would have been a serious matter at any time. In a period where they are too few jobs for those who were already here, it becomes a problem of the utmost gravity.

These smuggled interlopers can be kept out. Those who are already here can be uncovered and deported. But the task of protecting our people and our institutions from violators of the immigration laws must be treated as a major one if we are to have any results. And a nation which is directing at least nine-tenths of its police power toward the impossible stunt of keeping its people from taking a drink cannot be expected to make much headway against so subtle, evasive and tricky an evil as the incoming of bootlegged humanity.

Nor is this the only way in which the pest of prohibition operates to aid the influx of undesirable aliens. It is the lure of riches to be obtained from the rum racket that brings any number of those people here in the first place. In every slum and criminal quarter of every town and city in Europe the opportunities for riches to be garnered in the United States by any fellow who is "smart" and not afraid of the police have been the big topic of the worst element for years. The result has been a steady inpouring of lawless, immoral and utterly objectionable immigrants, flagrantly in defiance of legal barriers.

With the end of prohibition the incentive to these people to jam their way into America would disappear.

WINDHAM FINANCES

People in this part of the state are more than likely to reserve judgment in the case of the report administered to the officials of the town of Windham by State Tax Commissioner Blodgett for the apparent hiding of a major part of the town's indebtedness. Town Clerk and Treasurer Frank B. Fenton, whose bookkeeping methods are called into question by the tax commissioner, has enjoyed an unusual measure of the respect and confidence of the people of Windham for many years and it is not likely that he will be condemned without a very full hearing; particularly in view of the fact that the tax commissioner's criticism does not necessarily involve anything beyond the mistake of keeping the actual condition of town finances from the people of the community.

On the surface of things it would appear that Windham bookkeeping methods have been such as to give the impression to the townsfolk that the town's debt was only $175,500, whereas the tax commissioner declares that it must be several times that much, or in the neighborhood of half a million dollars.

If this turns out to be the exact situation it is, of course, far from being a good one. It is always the height of unwisdom for the gov-

THE RISING TIDE

When United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle of New York came out for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and tendered to President Hoover his resignation of the office which he has filled with a diligence that has attracted attention throughout the East, it was possible for the drowsy to shrug their shoulders and attribute his determination to political ambition, even though Mr. Tuttle has declared that he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for the New York governorship. But when, almost simultaneously, President McConaughy of Wesleyan University, in an important occasional address to the students, declares himself in favor of eventual modification of the Eighteenth amendment and urges his hearers to be open minded enough to "recognize any possible present failures" and to "be willing to curb your own wishes somewhat, for the social good," the extreme drowsy will be hard put to it to minimize the importance of his courageous declaration.

We rather wonder whether some of our Manchester friends who have so often in the past intimated or openly declared that this newspaper's position toward prohibition was the product of some sort of mysterious self interest will make the same criticism of President McConaughy. Will they accuse him, as they have accused us, or being subservient to the "liquor interests?" Or of pandering to the appetites of an ignorant and misguided mob? We rather doubt it.

The difference between officials like Mr. Tuttle or educators like President McConaughy and the newspapers is that the newspapers, with their closer contact with the real life of the country and with their better opportunities for understanding all shades of public opinion, saw the truth about prohibition first.

MORROW AND FRANKLIN

Dwight W. Morrow, who has now ended his three year period of service as American ambassador to Mexico, returns home with a Mexican reputation which in many minds will bear a marked resemblance to that achieved in Europe by America's first great diplomat, Benjamin Franklin.

Franklin probably did more to bring about the independence of the American colonies than any other human being. It was he who created in Great Britain an understanding sympathy, on the part of a large and influential group, with the colonists' aspirations. It was he whose unflinching kindness, keen mentality and utterly convincing bearing of rectitude and fidelity, won the support of millions of right thinking people in France and all over Europe.

Much the same qualities have enabled Dwight Morrow to revolutionize the Mexican opinion of the United States. As Franklin was called the most beloved individual in Europe, so Morrow gained the complete confidence and good will of the people of Mexico.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK
 By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Sen. Thomas Walsh of Montana must have chafed silently when he read in the papers that Louis Cramton of Michigan had been defeated in his effort to keep his seat in the house.

Senator Walsh is having the political battle of his life to hold his seat in the senate. For that reason probably he is able to appreciate the situation all the more.

Walsh and Cramton got mixed up in a feud at the close of the last congress.

The latter, as chairman of the sub-committee on appropriations in the house, succeeded in getting through that body an amendment to the interior appropriations bill that construction of a road through the Glacier national park in Montana be held up until private owners either sell their property or permit the government to condemn it.

Walsh owns a summer home in this area.

Not Consulted

What Walsh objected to—and he fought with the tenacity of a bulldog—the floor of the senate—was that Cramton consulted neither him nor Senator Wheeler, his colleague, about the thing.

The Michiganander is a recognized authority on the question of parks. He has visited most of them, has made a careful study of their needs, and has come to the front in the house whenever this question was up for discussion.

Added to this, Cramton is a member of that powerful group of public money, and is jealous of the house's right in such matters.

Stocky, robust and bespectacled, he fights to the last ditch when aroused.

Walsh should get rid of the private holdings in our national parks," said Cramton, after Walsh had succeeded in getting an amendment through the senate staying the power of condemnation of such property as we can and secure the national parks for the people of the nation.

"Senator Walsh knows that in ownership of a home in the Glacier national park he has a certain area that is his and the rest of us have what is left."

Battle Royal

Cramton remarked further that there have been parks where it was wanted to establish automobile trails for John Jones and his five, and in order to do so the land had to be bought.

"I have thought sometimes," he said, "that all we own is the scenery and that all the land (in parks) is in private ownership."

The battle went on merrily for quite a while. Conference after conference between house and senate was necessary before final agreement was reached.

It was finally agreed that the government would have authority to condemn any land within any of the parks, except those used exclusively for residence or religious purposes.

This was by no means to the liking of Walsh, and he did not hesitate to say so.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 18.—Little stories concerning people you've heard about—

Nancy Carroll, as all good movie fans should know, has a home life as well as a cinema career. The other half of the family is James Kirkland. And James dabbled in Hollywood for off and on periods, although his real concern has been to put on a stage play.

Nancy is now in the big money game. She is about to hit Broadway. His show is "Frankie and Johnnie" and is based on the old bar-room song. Nancy's money, so they say, has made its production possible. And Nancy made it all appearing in nice little, sweet little, clean little stories.

When the show that the money thus made tried out in the Manhattan suburbs, the lid was clamped down on it because of smutty dialogue.

Funny world!

Well, take the Jimmy Cruzes. Cruze is one of the better picture directors. In fact, he has made some of the best.

His ex-wife is Betty Compton. It wasn't so many months ago that they decided to go their separate ways. But divorce in these days is not necessarily an open struggle.

And so it came about that Jimmy had gone over to Tiffany pictures and he needed a good leading lady for his picture. Now what he might have disagreed with Betty about a great many domestic things, he still maintained that she was a good actress.

In other words, Betty will star in Cruze's next film. "She Knows What She Wants." For a few weeks she'll take orders from her hubby of a brief time back.

And as for the title of the picture—well laugh that off!

Or try this one—

She is one of America's most successful business women. Her beauty trade has grown into the tens of millions. Her cosmetics are sold the world over. She has beauty salons in every part of the globe. It has been said that ten millions would just about cover the amount necessary to create the value of her business. She writes books on beauty and the maintenance of the most attractive pent-house apartments in the midtown section of New York.

Her name, in case you haven't guessed it, is Helena Rubenstein.

Every woman who ever powdered her nose has had reason to remember it.

Very well. Now for the story.

Perhaps you've never heard of Mr. Rubenstein—and quite naturally, since his name is Titus—Edward W. Titus.

It may be that Mr. Titus knows something about business and beauty organizations.

But he doesn't work at it. Instead, he operates one of the most esthetic magazines published under this globe. It is known as "The New Quarter" and its publication place is Paris.

Titus is one of the most eminent of the Paris left bankers. His magazine, while packed with erudition, does not try to be so modern as the struggling artists, poets and literary figures their first chance.

And it loses money. It couldn't possibly make anything, although it places Titus in a most prestigious literary place. Meanwhile, Titus gathers the paintings of young moderns and the writings of young authors.

And they do say that the beauty millions of the missus keep alive this effort at expressing beauty.

Funny world.

GILBERT SWAN.

FICTION FACT

London.—Sir Bruce Bruce-Porter, physician, in commenting on the influence of fiction, tells this story.

He had a patient extremely ill who was reading a fiction story in which the heroine was extremely ill. As the story progressed the heroine got better—and so did his patient. Sir Bruce had written to the novelist and asked him to write his installments in such a way that the heroine recovered. The story influenced his patient's recovery, he says.

THE GRAPEJUICE DIET

During the grape season, when the grapes are plentiful and of a reasonable price, everyone should use them and children should be encouraged to eat them. It is well to keep a dish of grapes standing in a convenient place in the home where they may be used between meals or even occasionally in place of a meal.

The fresh grapes are slightly laxative to the bowels and are stimulating to the kidneys. The skin and seeds may be eaten, except where there is an ulceration of the bowels or severe intestinal inflammation, where they might prove irritating, and the juice would be more satisfactory.

Grapejuice is one of the most nourishing of all drinks, and may be substituted for the fresh grapes if you prefer, and it has the advantage of being obtainable during the season when fresh grapes are scarce. Grapejuice can be preserved by pasteurization or by the new process of evaporation a portion of the water so that the juice becomes more concentrated. The concentrated grapejuice is more nourishing than fresh, and since the water is extracted at a low temperature the juice contains the vitamins of the fresh grapejuice. In the form of grapejuice the nutritive value of the grape is not destroyed but is in the solution so that the organic minerals and sugar of the grape are readily taken up by the blood and eagerly seized upon by the tissues which are always hungry for the vital organic salts.

When on a grapejuice diet you may drink an 8-ounce glass of the grapejuice every two hours during a waking. If you are using the concentrated juice, be sure to add some water to dilute it to the consistency of fresh grapejuice. The grapejuice fast may be taken either for reducing or for general elimination. The rest from ordinary food will be good for your overworked organs, and your whole alimentary canal will be cleansed by this delectable juice of the fruit of the vine.

Grapejuice, prepared in various ways make an excellent dessert for you to use with your protein meals, and here are some recipes for preparing grapejuice which I am sure you will find most palatable.

Grape Ice Cream

Into a dish place half the contents of an envelope of plain gelatin and add two or three tablespoons of juice to soften. Dissolve over hot water and stir into one and a half pints of cream and a half cupful of honey. Stir well together and add one pint of milk. Put into a freezer until of the desired consistency. This amount will make about two quarts when frozen.

Grape Gelatin

Place a pint of grapejuice over the fire in a double boiler. When hot add the contents of one envelope of gelatin which has been soaked in a little cold water. Stir continuously for a few minutes, then remove from the fire and place in molds. Let cool and place in the ice box just before serving. If you prefer, you may put the preparation in a flat mold and cut into cubes after it has congealed.

Grape Sundae

This is easily made by pouring grapejuice or concentrated grapejuice over a dish of ice cream.

Grape Milk Fizz

Fill a glass one-third full of grapejuice. Add another third of milk, and almost fill the glass with charged water or ginger ale which should be stirred just before serving.

Grape Mint Drink

Mix one pint of grapejuice with half a cupful of chopped mint leaves. Place on ice one hour and strain. The mixture should be filled with chopped ice. A sprig of mint may be placed in each glass so served.

BLOODY BROOK MASSACRE

On September 18, 1875, the Indians under King Philip attacked and cut to pieces a body of 80 men at "Bloody Brook," Deerfield, Mass., in one of the most harrowing massacres of King Philip's war.

Captain Lathrop had been sent with 80 men, the flower of youth of Essex county, to the assistance of towns along the Connecticut river. They were to guard wagons intended to convey wheat, harvested in Deerfield, to Hadley. Just before arriving at Deerfield, near a small stream still known as Bloody Brook, Lathrop fell into an ambush and, after a brave resistance, perished there with all his company.

Captain Mosely, stationed at Deerfield, marched to his assistance, but arrived too late to help him. Deerfield shortly thereafter was abandoned and burned.

King Philip, son of the friendly Massasoit, began war with the whites when he felt they were encroaching on his ground. He chose to fight rather than recede before the advance of the Colonists. Fighting continued throughout Massachusetts for some time after the Deerfield Massacre. The downfall of the Indians began with their defeat at the hands of Captain Turner, at Turners Falls. Soon thereafter King Philip was shot by one of his own men, who had turned against him, and the war was over.

Paris.—Daring Deauville is more daring than ever on its bathing beaches this year. Bathing in the comely figures of the females sporting in the waters and on the sand. At 20 yards it is impossible to distinguish whether or not the bathers have a bathing suit on at all. A bathing costume of oil silk is in vogue which gives the body a soft, shimmering, slightly pinkish look.

Question: Mrs. J. S. writes: "I have been wearing glasses for 20 years. I am now 36 years old. My eyes are getting weaker all the time. Do you think it due to wearing glasses so long? And do you think that by discarding them for a period and trying a special diet I could make my eyes strong and clear again?"

Answer: Properly fitted glasses are simply scientifically made magnifying glasses with which you can see more clearly. There is no way by which their use can make the eyes weaker. What you need to do is to have some new glasses to wear your eyes at the present time. A correct diet will always assist in clearing up the vision and increasing the strength of your eye muscles. I will be glad to send you an article on eye exercises, but you should also go to an optometrist and have your eyes carefully examined and fitted for new glasses.

Washington.—At least a dozen senators will be leaving Congress when their terms expire next March. Most of them are elderly and of the type usually described as conservative or reactionary. Generally speaking, younger and more active if not more progressive men will succeed them.

The liberal, progressive forces in politics have not lost anyone from the Senate as a result of primary defeats or retirements. They stand to gain somewhat in strength with the elections. None of the members of the old farm bloc or of the Republican progressive group has been defeated in his campaign for renomination and the candidates supported by organized labor have usually been successful.

Although the close of the primary season still shows no sign of a significant progressive revival in national politics, there is considerable evidence on which an argument might be made that voters have lost some of the apathy induced by prosperity and are more inclined to look askance at the administration and regular Republicanism of the brand offered by men now holding office.

Six Republicans lose who have lost their jobs in the primaries are Charles S. Dennen of Illinois and Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania. Republican senators who announced their retirement were Gould of Maine, Baird of New Jersey, Gillett of Massachusetts, and Joseph E. Sullivan of Wyoming and Phipps of Colorado. It has been said of these six gentlemen that they decided to quit because they were convinced they couldn't be nominated and elected this year, but none gave any such reason.

The Democratic senators defeated in primaries were Furnell of North Carolina, Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana and Cole Blaise of South Carolina.

It so happens that all these men are in their sixties or seventies except Baird, who is only 59. It so happens that there is hardly an ounce of "progressivism" in the lot. By and large, they are a group of stand-patters, old guardmen, high protectionists and Democrats who have been willing to vote with Republicans on any question involving a social or economic problem.

Age probably isn't a prime factor in driving them out of politics. Borch of Nebraska and Nebraska's Warren of Montana and Nebraska men in their sixties have all had their renominations.

But the victims were all set in their ways and they were the type of legislators who believe things are pretty fine as they are, and that it is better to leave most things unchanged. And that, as nearly as one can guess, was why they represented shining targets wherever restless voters imagined that they would like to have a change.

The Long Gave Good Show

The tough and tumble career of Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana probably appealed to such restlessness as possessed the voters of this state. Voters have apparently good reason to believe that the candidates knew how to give them a good show. Long, it appears, managed to convince the ordinary voters of his state that he was one of their own kind and that his heart was beating for them. Ramsdell, whom he defeated in the primary, was safe, sane, conservative and colorless, but he had a good record for faithfully serving Louisiana.

Blaise, who has been licked by former Congressman James F. Eymann, has also put on many shows in public life, not always edifying ones. But he wasn't punished for that. His constituents doubt-

HARUN-AL-RASHID DEFENDS LOBSTER IN GERMAN COURT

Berlin.—(AP)—Harun-Al-Rashid championing a lobster in the first criminal court proved himself a worthy namesake of the famous caliph of Bagdad.

The chief exhibit in the case was a porcelain bowl filled with cracked ice on which was fastened by strings and wires a live lobster, gracefully reposing on salad leaves. The sight made court attendants smack their lips.

Harun-Al-Rashid, in this instance a retired colonel of the Turkish army, charged a Herr Martin, owner of a delicatessen shop, with wanting cruelty for imprisoning the delectable shellfish in this manner. He told the court that as an old soldier he was not hampered by any false sentimentality about cruelty to animals but that he considered this method of displaying a live lobster the limit.

Herr Martin answered that this was the time honored method of confining lobsters on exhibition. If, however, the court preferred getting down to legal brass tacks, he said, not he but his professional decorator had mounted this crustacean specimen.

Professor Ludwig Bruchl, called by the court as expert, said that science had not advanced to the stage of knowing just when lobster star felt pain. He denied, however, that invertebrate animals experienced anything like pain in the human sense. Dr. Heinrich, director of the Berlin Aquarium, advanced the thesis that a lobster's discomfort really set in when he was caught and all later developments were as so many pin pricks.

The public prosecutor regretted that "this juridically and humanly interesting question could not be decided in court." While convinced of Herr Martin's indifference to the possible suffering of the lobster, he said, he had not been legally guilty of cruelty, so Herr Martin was acquitted.

Ancient Colony, Little Changed By Three Centuries, Flourishes Near Nation's Capital

Above is the water front of Tangier Island and below is the "main street" of this quaint, old-fashioned colony. The map shows the island's location in Chesapeake Bay.

Washington—Just a few miles down the Chesapeake Bay from the national capital lies a fast-fading bit of America's colonial past—Tangier Island, where there are neither automobiles nor sophistication, where old customs and old methods of speech are preserved to-day just as they existed three centuries ago.

In a few more years, Tangier Island will have become much like the rest of the country. The change has begun already. There is a moving picture theater on the island, and many of the inhabitants own radios. Next telling sign of all—the island's daughters are wearing shortskirts and using lipstick.

But for the present, Tangier Island is still a unique outpost of the past—unlike modern America as if it were on the other side of the world.

Has 1600 Inhabitants
Tangier Island is 22 miles across the bay from Onancock, Va., on the eastern shore. It is a narrow, sandy strip of land about a mile and a half in length, and it has 1600 inhabitants. Practically all of them gain a living by catching fish, oysters and crabs.

Most of them have never left the island except for their brief fishing trips and most of them never will. Their town is one of the oldest settlements in the United States. In 1607 the island was discovered by Captain John Smith, and a few years later the old captain traded at Plymouth Rock. Like the Pilgrims, they crossed the ocean to escape religious persecution. They built their homes on the island, in-

Camera Records Action Of X-Rays As Minute 'Bullets' Hit Electrons

Ithaca, N. Y.—(AP)—An odd, dum-shaped camera at Cornell university records hits made by "bullets" only a millionth of an inch long.

The bullets are made of X-rays. The targets are electrons, the negative bits of electricity that form bodies of atoms of all substances.

The camera was set up by Dr. Eul Kirkpatrick, professor of physics at the University of Hawaii, who is temporarily at Cornell for special research into some little known marvels of X-ray action.

The rays are the same as physicists use. They are produced in a lead-lined booth, having a small slit in one side. From this slit a beam passes through a crystal outside. The crystal serves as a sort of sieve or filter, passing through certain desired waves and discarding others.

Dr. Paul Kirkpatrick is shown at the camera which records "hits" made by "bullets" of X-rays (sketch).

The stricken electron flies out of an atom, leaving a little white trail, like smoke-writing. The material of these trails however is not smoke at all, but water vapor.

The hits are not thought to be made by a single wave length, which in an X-ray is about one-billionth of an inch long, but by a train of them, which Dr. Kirkpatrick says "is probably something like a thousand wave lengths long." These X-ray hits do a peculiar thing to the electrons—something amazing to laymen. Instead of jacking them haphazard in every direction, they drive the electrons definite directions.

Dr. Kirkpatrick says it is like

Helen Kane's Latest Rates As Good Entertainment

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Calif.—During the last week we have previewed several pictures which are well worth anybody's time and money to see. But we can't understand why directors continue to put ridiculous scenes in otherwise good films.

A perfect example of the ridiculous which can be attributed to nothing but plain stupidity is found in "Dangerous Nan McGrew." Helen Kane's latest offering. One scene shows Helen as a medicine show entertainer, singing a song. Just before she starts to sing, her accompanist is shown seating himself at the piano. Then there is a cut to a closeup of the actress singing—but she is accompanied by a full orchestra.

However, "Dangerous Nan McGrew" must be classed as an entertaining film. Miss Kane does some very fine work in it, as does Stuart Erwin. Erwin has been playing in a good many pictures of late and if he keeps on at his present rate there is no doubt that he soon will be stamped as one of the best comedians in our opinion, anything he's in is worth seeing.

Clara Bow's new picture, "Love Among the Millionaires," is another one worth seeing. Of course it is Clara doing her usual stuff again but she does it well and, having taken off considerable weight, she looks better than she has for a long time. In our opinion the picture would be improved considerably if a few of the songs were eliminated but that seems to be a matter of personal taste.

However, it still riles us when a perfectly good love scene is broken up by one or both of the players bursting into song for no apparent reason. We have an idea what would happen to a girl if she burst out singing right in the middle of our rather feeble attempts to make love.

Stuart Erwin and Skeets Gallagher handle the comedy in this film with the aid of little Mitzie Green, who is one of the cleverest youngsters we ever have seen on the screen.

NO DRYS NOMINATED AT THE PRIMARIES

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Completion on Tuesday of the year's primary elections drew expressions of distant pleasure at the results from wet leaders while the generals of the prohibition forces refrained from direct comment but took occasion to pledge themselves to resist every effort toward repeal of the dry laws.

The dry declaration was adopted yesterday, on the 18th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution. It was issued by the national conference of organizations supporting the 18th Amendment, which is composed of representatives from 30 national prohibition groups.

ry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, who noted that "the wet tide is still coming in."

Curran claimed wet gains in the House of Representatives of 37 seats with more to come on election day. He asserted the drys had not won a single combination in the primaries. The enthusiasm expressed at this result was tempered with the observation that "we still have a long way to go before Congress catches up with the people on this question, but we are on our way and we cannot be stopped."

Francis Schubert, famous musical composer, left an estate of only $10, despite the fact he had given "the world some of its most beautiful music."

BEGIN HERE TODAY
CELIA ROGERS, just out of high school, spends a hot July day looking for a job. Her mother, MARGARET ROGERS, is a widow, employed as a seamstress in a dress shop. On the day the story opens Margaret receives a letter which she conceals from Celia. It is an offer, signed JOHN MITCHELL, to provide the girl with every advantage of education, travel and social position if the mother will give her up. Margaret declares she will never do this.

Celia goes for a drive with BARNY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer. Barney tells Celia he loves her and swears that some day they will be married. Next day the girl continues her search for work and secures a position as stenographer. She goes to the shop to see her mother and finds Mrs. Rogers has been taken ill suddenly. The doctor says heat and exhaustion are the cause.

After a day's rest Mrs. Rogers returns to her duties, but three days later she pays a call to the doctor's office and is told her condition is serious. The physician insists she must give up work. That night Mrs. Rogers writes a letter to John Mitchell.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI

It was Wednesday night that Margaret Rogers wrote the letter. Two days later a man, middle-aged, well dressed and obviously prosperous, paced up and down a room in the Belvedere Hotel. Once he stopped, snapped his fingers impatiently and then strode on again. He paused before a telephone. "This is Mitchell in room 716," he said sharply. "Have there been any calls for me?"

"No, Mr. Mitchell."
"You're sure, are you?"
The feminine voice assured him she was quite sure. Why shouldn't she be? It was the third time in half an hour that the guest in room 716 had put the same inquiry. John Mitchell replaced the telephone. Then he glanced at a wrist watch, seated himself in a large overstuffed chair and began drumming his fingers on the chair arm.

According to the watch there were still 10 minutes to wait. Nonsense to be so upset over this interview, he told himself once more. Relax! That was what he needed to do—just relax!
The plan didn't seem to work. Three minutes later he was again pacing the floor.
John Mitchell was a large man, tall with a figure that was well filled out but not stout. He looked like a golfer who also enjoyed his meals. His hair had been dark once—nearly black. Now there was more than a sprinkling of gray in it though from his face one would have placed the man's age at about 50. As a matter of fact, John Mitchell knew how to wait a bar. Indeed, he knew how to turn the vote in a directors' meeting. The color in his cheeks indicated an excellent digestion and the man looked in splendid health. His tailoring (he wore a suit of dark gray) was the sort to be expected of a man of taste who ordered the best casually and thought no more of it.

Stuffed away in a pocket of that suit was the letter Margaret Rogers had written. It was a brief note. It read:
"Dear John: I can not give you an answer immediately. There are so many things to be considered. Perhaps if you could come here so that we can talk matters over and come to a clear understanding it could be settled more easily. I want to do what is right. That is all that I can say now. Very sincerely, Margaret."
Mitchell had sent two telegrams on receipt of that letter. He was waiting now for Margaret Rogers' arrival.

The telephone buzzed insistently. "Hello—yes!" the man answered. Then his voice changed entirely. "Oh—you've come? I'll be down immediately."

He looked at his watch as he stepped out of the room, noting his visitor was just five minutes late. Mitchell was frowning a few seconds later when he emerged from the elevator into the hotel lobby. He also was making a tremendous effort not to appear self-conscious. Slowly he surveyed the big room. His frown deepened. He was turning when a low voice spoke at his elbow.

"You're—John Mitchell, aren't you?"
"Yes, My name's Mitchell."
The pair stared at each other. Mitchell's eyes were stony, unbelieveing. Margaret answered his gaze unflinchingly.

"I'm Margaret," she said simply. She wore a black crepe frock (her best one) with touches of white lace at the neck. It had been remade more than once by her clever fingers, but it was becoming. Her close-fitting turban emphasized the length of those really beautiful brown eyes. When her eyes spoke no one thought much about Margaret Rogers' other features, which were not particularly good, though neither were they particularly irregular. She was pale and there was a fervor about her manner in contrast to the man's cool aloofness.

"Margaret!" he exclaimed. Then the high color in his cheeks darkened. "Yes—yes, of course. You've changed," he added.
"Shall we find somewhere to talk?" the woman asked.
He led her into a lounge adjoining the lobby. It was deserted except for a young woman reading a newspaper. Mitchell pointed out two chairs in the distant corner. They moved over to them and sat down.

"This will do," Margaret agreed. "Yes, I've changed. You have changed too, John."
"No doubt! Well, it's been a long time—," he seemed apologetic, dropping his sentence and hurried on to his father. Don't get as much golf as I used to. Ought to have more exercise. But I feel pretty well just "You look well!"
"Think so?" John Mitchell eyed his companion keenly. "I wouldn't have known you, Margaret."
"I'm not surprised. I didn't expect you to."
"Wouldn't have known you?" Mitchell repeated as though trying to convince himself of a surprising truth.

"Hadn't we better—get at what you came to talk about?"
The man nodded. The mask-like expression settled over his face again.
"I want Celia," he said abruptly. He said it as a man accustomed to taking the things he desired.
Margaret Rogers' lips quivered but with an effort she kept her face steady. "I don't know," she began. Mitchell broke in ruthlessly.

"It's the only thing for the child," he insisted. You ought to see that. What can you give her? What future have you planned for her here? She's finished high school. Seventeen—almost a young woman. What's she going to do now?"
Margaret was swift in her own defense.
"Celia's been happy," she defied him.
He scoffed.
"She's a child. Now she needs to learn the world. Is she talented? I'll give her training in the finest schools in this country or in Europe. If she wants society I'll take care of that, too. I can do it. I can give her everything in the world she needs! Margaret, don't you see—?"
"Schools and money aren't everything," the woman countered. "I want her to have a chance for happiness. I want her to be safe!"
She put her hand to her face but John Mitchell did not notice the quick motion. He did not notice that when Margaret's hand dropped the fingers were wet with tears.

"It can all be arranged very easily," Mitchell was saying. "I'm in New York now. Moved there two months ago." He mentioned the name of an immensely respected legal firm with which he was affiliated. "Of course I still have interests in Chicago but this new connection means I'll spend most of my time in New York."
"But what about Celia?"
"I've arranged everything," the Mitchell insisted. "She'll stay with my mother in the old Grammercy Square place. I'm there too. Mother may be getting old but no one could launch a girl socially better than she can. Mother knows everyone. She'll introduce her to the right people. In the fall I'll send Celia to Europe."

The whirlwind of plans was too much for Margaret Rogers.
"But I don't know," she faltered. "I haven't said—"
"You haven't said you'll let her come but you'll do it. Great heavens! What can you offer to compare with this?"
"I can't offer anything," said Margaret through firm lips, "except what I've given her all her life. I'm willing to work for her. I'm willing to do anything to make her happy."
"That's the answer!" the man said, elated.
"Is it?" the woman asked gravely. "Are you so sure?"

John Mitchell's cheeks darkened. "Celia is mine," Margaret Rogers reminded him firmly. "I don't have to give her up!"
"No!" The man's voice rose sharply. "You don't have to give her up. My God, Margaret, you've robbed me of every happiness! You took her away. Do you want to ruin my whole life?"
He had forgotten where they were and so had Margaret. She was in the past again. Scenes forgotten for years flashed crystal clear through her mind.
"Don't—don't say that, John!" Margaret gasped.
Mitchell was on his feet.
"Where is she? When can I see her?" he asked.
Margaret Rogers was very pale. "You can see her," she said.

"She's—lovely, John. She's beautiful! Celia doesn't know anything about all this. She thinks she's going to be a stenographer and earn $20 a week. Oh, I'm so proud of her. I want her to have the very best!"
The man's gaze was far away.
"Does she look like you?" he wanted to know.
Margaret shook her head negatively.
"Not very much. Around the eyes maybe. Her hair curls—it's light brown. And she has brown eyes. Big eyes and she's usually laughing. She's taller than I am. Slim but not skinny like so many young girls. Celia will be 18 next month."
"I know."

Both of them were silent for a time. Mitchell's eyes were downcast. It was a moment of crisis and Margaret Rogers was making a tremendous effort.
"John," her words came finally in tortured rushes, "I'm trying—trying so hard not to be selfish. You'll take her if you'll agree to my terms. You'll have to promise!"
"What are the conditions?" Mitchell asked harshly.
Margaret leaned forward, her face close to his.
"Promise," she said tensely, "that Celia shall never—know!"

About 3 o'clock it started to rain so all but 5 girls spent the rest of the night on the porch. Sunday morning four girls got up and cooked breakfast. After dinner several girls had a horseback ride. The troop arrived home at about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.—Arlene Dougan, scribe.

Troop 8
A supper hike was enjoyed by all Girl Scouts of Troop 8 at Highland Park, Friday, September 12. All enjoyed a new treat called "Somemores" made by the girls at Camp Fire. Songs were sung and each patrol chose a game to play and took charge of the game themselves. Meetings of Troop 8 have been changed from Tuesdays to Fridays 3:45 to 5:30 p. m. Myrtle Fortog has joined the troop and is in the long line of the patrol. Jane Tedford passed fire building at the hike. The Hollyhock patrol will bring scarves or triangular bandages for second class First Aid at the next meeting. Good-night circle with taps closed the hike.—Lois Agard, scribe.

HAVE YOU HEARD?—
"I can't offer anything," said Margaret through firm lips, "except what I've given her all her life. I'm willing to work for her. I'm willing to do anything to make her happy."
"That's the answer!" the man said, elated.
"Is it?" the woman asked gravely. "Are you so sure?"

John Mitchell's cheeks darkened. "Celia is mine," Margaret Rogers reminded him firmly. "I don't have to give her up!"
"No!" The man's voice rose sharply. "You don't have to give her up. My God, Margaret, you've robbed me of every happiness! You took her away. Do you want to ruin my whole life?"
He had forgotten where they were and so had Margaret. She was in the past again. Scenes forgotten for years flashed crystal clear through her mind.
"Don't—don't say that, John!" Margaret gasped.
Mitchell was on his feet.
"Where is she? When can I see her?" he asked.
Margaret Rogers was very pale. "You can see her," she said.

Smart Slip that Accentuates Slimness

By ANNETTE
It's the new wrap-around slip that follows the shaping of the figure. It's made from a length of material. No seams to cause conflicting lines to the outer garment.

The wrapped arrangement makes it shadow proof. The selvedge edge of the material makes a smart neat finish for the lower edge of the slip. The side edges of the slip may be finished with a picot edge or rolled in hem. This is about all the sewing required to make it save for a few darts through the bodice, and to tack the shoulder straps in place. It's straight from Paris! You'll be thrilled with the easy manner in which it is made. It will make an excellent Xmas gift. The back, too, has perforations for deep V for evening wear. The upper and lower edge may be trimmed with lace. Crepe de chine, crepe satin and flat crepe are popularly used. Style No. 900 may be had in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 35, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 1 1/2 yards 39-inch.

THIS AND THAT IN FEMININE LORE

One of my friends interested in growing flowers, and hollyhocks in particular, cut off the long stalks after they became unsightly and now has a new growth again in bud. She is wondering if they will be able to mature before the frost comes. This is true of a number of flowers, after the first blossoms are prevented from ripening seed they will put forth a new crop.

HOW TO SHOP
WASHING MACHINE SHOULD GUARD CLOTHING
By William E. Baldwin
Assuming that most washing machines wash the factors to be given the shopper in buying one are protection to clothing and the longevity of the machine. Some manufacturers give only a one-year guarantee; others give as much as ten years. The willingness of the manufacturer to give a long guarantee usually is an indication of the machine's quality.

The shopper cannot expect to know much about the washing machine motor, but she should see that it is made by a reliable electric company. The tub may be made of uncoated white metal, or it may be a metal coated with nickel plate or white enamel. The latter two are being made in various colors but, while colored enamel may be attractive, it adds nothing to the machine's efficiency, which should be the main consideration in making a choice. Tubs made of coated metal should be carefully handled to prevent the

About New York

By RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—It may be 10 cents a dance elsewhere, as the girl sobs in the current song, but the dance hall hostess of Broadway only get five cents. Even so, they earn a sizable income, it being a bad night that doesn't bring them $5 worth of tickets. The week-end nights are the best. The girls figure on $50 or more from a week of taxi-dancing.

We picked up this bit of knowledge from Dolores on our annual visit to see how things are by the dance halls. Dolores is the summer is a trapeze artist and bareback rider in a circus. During the winter she is dance hall night-hopper. A dollar buys 12 dance tickets and for each ticket they take from their partners the girls are paid five cents. The girls go into the work because they love dancing and it pays them more than other available occupations. Another partner, Peggy, said she gave up an office job at $25 a week and wouldn't go back to it. It seems that most of the men who patronize the Broadway dance halls are middle-aged and prosperous. "They sure can dance, too," said Peggy.

Curiosity Calls
The great big newspapers of Manhattan, like those of any American town, are called by telephone to supply information to curious people who can't wait to read about a major happening. These curiosity calls have been counted by one newspaper, the New York Times, and the findings may be interesting. Airplane flights and sporting events seem to have the most followers. The Times employs 17 telephone operators. While Major Kingsford-Smith was flying "The Southern Cross" westward across the Atlantic it was necessary to assign three young men and two operators to answer the inquiries. As the calls increased eight more young men were detailed to the phones. In two days the calls totaled 2,879.

A Lindbergh Record
The Lindbergh-flight to Paris set a record that is still standing. Between 9 a. m. and midnight on the memorable day three years ago 10,000 New Yorkers asked by telephone how he was getting along. A more recent transatlantic flight was the cause of 232 calls. But the birth of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., brought not a single inquiry. When an O S call silences the radio, the medium through which many follow current events, there is always a number of curiosity calls. Football is responsible for the bulk of the calls about this time of year. Saturday afternoons are sure to bring 500 to 750. Baseball information is not given over the phone. That's because most fans are not content with the bare scores, but want to know the names of the batters, the number of hits and errors and the innings in which the runs were scored. That's asking too much.

SCIENCE TRIES NEW METHODS TO HUMANIZE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.
Ever since capital punishment was adopted by organized society as punishment for the criminal, humanitarians have been greatly concerned with the type of materials used in bringing about death and in the mechanism by which death is brought about. The monarchs of an earlier day condemned men to be quartered, bringing about death by fastening a horse to each of the subject's legs and tearing him apart. Other cases, civilized groups caused death by having the man beheaded with sword or battleaxe. Militaristic countries, and indeed even modern armies, destroyed the condemned man by the bullets of a firing squad. The hangman's noose was reserved in medieval periods for criminals in arrears, but in some instances the neck is broken by the fall and death comes from that cause. In an experiment carried out recently in the state of Nevada a prisoner condemned to death was executed by hydrocyanic acid gas. At the time of the execution a study was made of the action of the heart and the lungs. The state health officer has just made available a record of these observations. At 4:38 a. m. the heart action of the prisoner was strong and regular with 108 beats per minute. The gas began to generate at 4:37 1/2, and at 4:38 the pulse rate was 120, regular and strong. At 4:37 3/4 the prisoner gave indication that he smelled the gas, taking a very small inspiration. At 4:38 he took a deep inspiration, turning his head toward the gas and giving a spasmodic cough. His head fell forward and he became unconscious.

Following this first deep inspiration there was a complete stopping of the heart action for 15 seconds. Then the heart began to beat again irregularly, continuing thus for 15 seconds, when it became regular and strong. For two minutes nothing further occurred until the heart became slower, beating 100 times a minute, then 80 times a minute, and finally after 10 minutes the heart beats were regular, but becoming weaker. After 11 minutes the prisoner's heart stopped. The breathing during the same period of time was convulsive and irregular and there was not the slightest

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper, mild and bland as its taste. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine. That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; no does any suggestion of bad breath. ## Local Baseball Title Series Interest High

West Side-Bon Ami Second Game to Draw Another Big Crowd; Godek and Locke May Pitch; New Caps for Champs!

With the shore season concluded and the weather still too warm for football, expectations are that another very large crowd will circle the Four Acre Lot Sunday afternoon to watch the second game of the town baseball series between the West Sides and the Bon Ami.

Having disposed of Manchester Green two games to one in addition to snatching a 7 to 6 victory from the Bon Ami last Sunday, the plucky West Side outfit today stands within one game of the championship. Sunday will find them striving to open the blockaded door leading to the pennant chamber with the Bon Ami trying to repulse their effort.

There is more than an even chance that the Bon Ami will win the second game, and thus make a third battle between the two teams necessary. They might have won the opening tussle but for poor work on their own part when opportunities presented themselves. They out-hit the West Sides more than two to one but it was in vain. Each team made three errors-afeld.

The chances are pretty good, though, that the Bon Ami would make any 15 hits the next time they play. That's quite a bunch of bingles for a championship game. The secret of the Bon Ami's powerful stickwork, it now appears, was largely due to the fact that the team spent practically all of last Saturday afternoon batting against fast pitching.

Judging from the first game, it won't be a waste of time to devote part of the coming Saturday to a talk using brains as well as brawn. The champions are a bit too reckless in the opener and at times seemed to forget that more haste often results in less speed. J. E. Rand who directs the destinies of the soap makers from his executive seat, promises to distribute thinking caps to each and every member before the next game starts.

There is an air of uncertainty about who will pitch for each team Sunday. Some think Elmo Mantell's monopoly on the pitcher's assignment for the West Side will be broken by the naming of Frank Locke by Coach Bill Brennan. From the Bon Ami camp today came the report that Jack Godek seems likely to do last Sunday. Jimmy Wilson is also a possibility. Otherwise both teams will have the same lineups.

Local Sport Chatter

Although admittedly not being acquainted with sailing rules and regulations, it strikes this landlubber, at least, that the Enterprise would have won more admirers yesterday had it rested its sails and put back to Newport harbor when the Shamrock V met with its disastrous accident.

The Vanderbilt sloop was sitting nicely with a two race lead and it would have been a typical Lipton gesture of sportsmanship had she turned about and headed back for port. The Shamrock's disadvantage of crossing the ocean under her own power is enough of a handicap without such an unfortunate reverse as that which befell the Irish baronet's boat yesterday.

The Majors are starting their football season before the town baseball series is over which doesn't seem like just the proper thing to do. Interest in the baseball title games is running high right now and it will be no surprise if the baseball game draws by far the bigger crowd. Games between local teams in any sport are always much more satisfactory than those between local and out of town teams of more or less unknown ability.

Understand the Cubs are going to operate under a much different system this season. Hitherto the players have gone through the season on the gamble of splitting the net receipts. Almost the season's profit would buy an ice cream cone apiece. This year, however, the Cubs are going to guarantee each man who makes the team, five dollars per game.

News that the Majors have at last realized that new strength is needed if they are to ever win back the town title, is most welcome to many football followers here. It has long been a well known fact—outside of the north end at least—that the Majors never would beat the Cubs using a purely north end team. And this is no disgrace, for the south end has far more talent to pick from. Even so, the south end doesn't hesitate to pick up good material running loose outside the confines of the town.

Some of the Bon Ami baseball players have voiced objection to having their practice sessions "scouted" as they call it, by the coach and some of the players on the West Side team. This has happened several times, according to reports, and the soap makers are said to be contemplating going out to Hebron or Gilead for a bit of secret practice.

Jones, After Fourth Title, Returns To Course Where 14 Years Ago He Burst Into Golf Fame

Bobby Jones, holder of three major golf titles, will seek the remaining one, the American Amateur, in the tournament, beginning September 22, at Merion Cricket club, near Philadelphia. Jimmy Johnston, present title-holder, and Johnny Goodman, who upset Jones last year, are among the crack amateurs who will seek to halt this march.

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Will Bobby Jones reach the apex of his golf career on the links that first gave him national fame—the Merion course?

Holder of the British Open and Amateur titles and the American Open crown, he has only to win the American Amateur event beginning September 22 at the Merion Cricket club to be the monarch of all he surveys in goldfom, a position never before attained.

Bobby was only 14 years old when he entered the national amateur championship at Merion in 1916. Before the second round was over, Jones became the dramatic figure of the tournament and golf writers of those days were referring to Bobby as the "infant prodigy," the "wonder boy from Atlanta."

Bobby qualified in the medal play

Durocher, Berger, 3, Riechbourg 2, Maguire, two base hits, Sukeforth, Riechbourg 2, Maguire 2, Maravall, two base hits, off Frey 7 in 2 (none out in 3d); Benton 1 in 4, Johnson 1 in 1, Carroll 1 in 1, losing pitcher, Frey, umpires, Jordan, Scott and Donahue; time, 1:42. x—Batted for Benton in 8th.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 13.—Construction contracts awarded in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains thus far in September show a decline from last month, F. W. Dodge Corp. reports. Contracts awarded in the week ended Sept. 12 totaled $91,525,800, making the September total to date $13,866,400, a daily rate of $13,892,700. The August daily rate was $13,892,700, while for September last year the daily rate was $17,776,100. Thus far this month residential building showed a higher daily rate than last month.

A committee has been formed to protect the interests of holders of 4 per cent non-cumulative preferred stock of the Chicago & Alton railroad. With a view to vesting ownership in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. recently purchased large amounts of C. & A. 3 1-2 and 6 per cent bonds, the object being to reorganize the road under foreclosure proceedings. No provision for stockholders has been made. Harry M. Blair, president of the Associated Bond & Share Corp. is chairman of the committee.

The date for construction of the proposed Bethlehem-Youngstown Sheet & Tube merger, now being contested in a "definite and unambiguous" manner, has been extended 30 days from Oct. 31.

L. A. Miller, president of the Willys-Overland Co., said that the 30 per cent increase in the August business of the company over July, indicated a "definite and encouraging upturn," he added that other statistics indicated an improvement in purchasing power, production and sales.

Net income of 599 industrial, utility and railroad corporations reporting for the first six months this year fell 28 per cent below that of the corresponding period last year, Standard Statistics Company reports. The detailed figures show that the utility group was the only one to make a better showing this year.

Directors of American Agricultural Chemical Company have adopted a reorganization plan whereby there will be issued in exchange for the stocks of American Agricultural Chemical of Connecticut 317,875 shares of no-par common of American Agricultural Chemical Company of Delaware. Of this, 284,502 shares will be issued to present preferred stockholders on a share-for-share basis, and 33,373 shares to present common stockholders on the basis of one-tenth of a share of new stock for each present common share.

The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey beginning October 1, will make a new offer of its 5 per cent non-par cumulative preferred stock, under the popular ownership plan, at $97.50 a share and accrued dividends for cash or on terms of $10 down per share and $10 per month.

General Cotton Corporation has been formed to acquire control of manufacturing, merchandising and equipment companies, principally in New England. Two companies to be acquired, if the transactions are approved at special meetings called for September 24, are the Davis Mills and the Lincoln Manufacturing Company, both of Fall River.

ARREST PICKETERS

Bombay, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Three hundred and fifteen women voters and 14 men were arrested today for picketing voting booths at the Bombay legislative election. This was the first round-up of Nationalist volunteers in many days.

The picketers swarmed about the booths at the Town Hall and seceded with their sticks, injuring several of the obstructionists. The disturbances ceased after one of the four candidates announced his withdrawal but was resumed when word spread that the polls would be kept open until evening. The police strengthened their forces to guard against serious disorders.

BEETHOVENS, G CLEFS SCHEDULING CONCERTS

Several Dates Already Arranged by Both Chorus — Rehearsals Begun Week Ago.

Although rehearsals for the coming season were begun but a week ago, the Beethoven and G Clef clubs have already been booked for concerts in October. Helge E. Pearson, director of both choruses, said today. Thursday evening, October 2, the G Clef will sing at the banquet of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association at Cheney hall, and on Sunday, October 12, will sing at the First Congregational church, Rockville.

LIGHTNING HITS THRICE IN BARN, COW KILLED

William Prentice of Talcottville Again Loses Valuable Animal When Storm Does Tricks

William J. Prentice of Talcottville will not believe any persons who tell him that lightning never strikes more than once in one place. It has struck three times in one place on his farm while cows owned by him were in the shed and three times a cow has been killed by lightning. This was the case Tuesday during the heavy storm.

The cow, which was valued by Mr. Prentice at $150 was tied to a stanchion in the barn, where two other cows had been tied and killed by lightning. After the storm Tuesday night, he went to his barn and found that for the third time a cow that had been in the same place had been killed.

Two years ago Mr. Prentice also lost a cow by strangulation. The cow had reached through the bars of the pasture fence to get an apple. It had been mauled on the apple and in trying to get her head back again became caught between the bars and was choked to death.

DUE TO BE TRIED FOR GAS STATION BREAKS

Among the cases to go to trial at the present term of the Superior Court for this county, criminal side, which opened Tuesday is that of the state vs. John DeOnofro, Henry Carson and Paul Gionfriddo, charged with breaking and entering a gasoline station in Woodland. They were captured by the East Hartford police who traced their identity through a fire that they lost off the car they were driving.

The break was committed on the night of April 16. It was the same night that the gasoline station on Spencer street, operated by Thomas J. Nelmus, was broken into and several articles sold. After the break at the Spencer station, it is charged, the trio continued on through Hartford Road, came into South Manchester and ate in a lunch cart. They then started on their way back to Hartford by the Love Lane route. In Woodland, it is charged, they broke into the station there.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

At last the snowball fight was over when someone cried, "I won't play no more. I'm covered now from head to foot with very chilly snow. If that nice hot is warm inside, that is the place it'd like to hide for just about a half hour. Come on, for these bunch, let's go." So, in they went and sure enough, the hut had just the proper stuff. The open fireplace brightly burned with logs, all piled up high. They dashed up with a yell. It quite amused the guide when they all flopped down with a sigh. "I guess you're all tired out," said he. "Well, I don't wonder. Mercy me! You've had a lot of exercise. Why, these would ruin me. I'm not a youngster any more and haven't much real pep in store. But watching you has made me feel as happy as can be." In just about a moment more there came a tiny little snore. Poor Clowny now was fast asleep and so were all the rest. They'd taken off their clothes to dry and they all hung on a rope nearby. 'Twas two hours later when they all woke up and then got dressed. The trip back down the mountain side was hard and each one took a slide. The rope, however, held them safe and they soon left the snow. When back in town we Carpy said, "Oh, there's a tennis court ahead. If anybody wants to play, step lively now, let's go!" They played at tennis for a while and Clowny knocked the ball a mile. "We're not so good at this," said one. "Let's play some golf instead. We've played before and I am sure that at that game were not so poor." And then he started off and to the links the bunch were led.
