

DANBURY COPS IN GUN FIGHT WITH BANDITS

Both Shot But Not Seriously in Early Morning Battle; One Burglar Wounded and Later Caught in Hiding.

Danbury, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Two policemen fought a gun battle with two burglars here early today, resulting in the wounding of the officers and one of the burglars who had looted a sporting goods store.

The latter was captured a few hours later, hiding in a packing box in which he had taken refuge. He gave the name of Harold Skiff, of West Haven. His companion escaped.

Skiff was wounded three times in the right leg as he was climbing over a fence in an attempt to escape. A trail of blood led to his hiding place which was discovered by a small boy whose curiosity had been aroused.

Slightly Wounded.

The policemen, Arnold A. Schulze and Wilbur Simpson were slightly wounded. Schulze was struck in the right hand by one slug while another made a flesh wound on his chest over the heart. Simpson suffered a slight wound on one finger.

They found the two men about to drive away in an automobile after rifling Rocano's Sporting Goods store about 4 a. m. As they approached the man behind the wheel opened fire on the officers. Then the pair abandoned their car and fled.

The automobile was registered in the name of Charleton W. Sarles of West Haven, who now is being sought as Skiff's companion.

Taken to Hospital.

At the Danbury hospital where Skiff was taken under police guard, it was found that he had three bullet holes in his right leg. One wound, below the knee, injured the bone. Another in the thigh caused a man's ankle and the third caused a flesh wound above the knee. He is believed to have received the wounds when one of the wounded policemen fired at him as he was climbing over a fence.

On the prisoner, the police found three pistols, two of which have been identified as having been taken from the sporting goods store.

Skiff, the police learned, was recently released from the State prison.

When the police approached his hiding place this morning and knocked the cover from the box the man, although badly wounded, in his sitting upright, a revolver in his hand, ready to shoot. A high powered rifle, fully loaded, rested between his legs. The revolver was knocked from his hand and he was overpowered before he had a chance to shoot.

SEEK OTHER MAN

New Haven, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Police in West Haven today placed a guard around the house where Charleton W. Sarles, whose automobile was found abandoned in Danbury early today after a gun battle between police and two burglars, has been boarding. He is wanted for questioning in connection with the Danbury affair.

It was said he had lived there a week and has spent only two or three nights in the place.

Police said Sarles served five and a half years in state prison for the theft of an automobile and a term in the Chester reformatory for stealing bicycles.

DOCTORS CONFER OVER PARALYSIS

May Close Schools in Middle- town—No Case Here, Says Dr. Moore.

Middletown, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A conference of physicians late this afternoon was to determine if the schools of Middletown would be closed because of infantile paralysis which has claimed two lives.

Two other victims, a small boy and girl, are ill, but are not expected to die. Their cases are comparatively mild.

Twenty physicians met with Dr. Donald J. MacGillivray, acting health officer this morning and decided to close the schools for two weeks. Later after a consultation with a state department of health official, who said such action was not necessary under the present situation, it was decided to meet later today for a final decision in the matter.

Five more persons today offered their blood for serum purposes.

NO CONTAGION HERE

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, chairman of the local Board of Health, assured The Herald this morning that there is no case of infantile paralysis in Manchester. "In fact," he added, "there are no contagious diseases in town at present."

MISTAKES TRACKS FOR BUMPY ROAD

Then an Engine Looms Up and Driver Realizes Where He is Driving—Not Hurt in Crash.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The road over Tarrytown Heights is narrow, winding and none too smooth, and Wesley Kornder was glad as he motored homeward to Yonkers in this morning's murky dawn, to strike a stretch which was fairly straight—even if it was narrow and rather bumpy.

He had proceeded about an eighth of a mile along the straight stretch when something happened to make him wonder if he had taken the wrong turn at the last corner. The something was a locomotive headed straight toward him head-on and tugging New Yorkward.

Whether Kornder jumped or was flung by the collision he doesn't remember, but after the train had smashed the car the crew found Kornder reclining hard by in the bushes, quite unhurt and wondering how he ever happened to mistake a railroad track for a country road.

RUTH ALEXANDER A SECRET BRIDE

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Farewell letters indicate that forebodings of disaster rode with Ruth Alexander, a secret bride when she met death in a fog at the outset of a projected one-stop transcontinental flight.

One letter was addressed to her parents requesting a quiet funeral in case of death. The other was to her husband Robert A. Elliott, reserve Navy pilot and her former flying instructor, together with the letters found in her hotel room was a marriage license which showed they were married at Yuma, Arizona, June 21.

She wrote: "To my husband Bob—Life is strange, honey. If I have preceded you do not grieve for me but by contrary think your work down here, and make me proud of you, as I ever will be at your side."

"And when you come I will welcome you. Always, I will love and wait for you. And sweetheart, keep my pretty wedding ring always with you, Ruth."

16 BANKS ROBBED SINCE SEPT. 3RD

Epidemic of Holdups is Sweeping the Western States; Loot is $130,000.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(AP)—An epidemic of bank robberies is sweeping like a storm across the American prairies.

Sixteen farm belt banks have been looted at the point of guns since September 3 and more than $130,000 has been taken. There were four bank holdups yesterday alone.

The robber bands have moved by motor car and even airplanes over the same territory as that "worked" by the James boys half a century ago. From Missouri to the Canadian line they have drawn guns on bank cashiers and roared away with their loot.

Yesterday's bank robberies were

Blood of Saint Boils; All of Naples Excited

Naples, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The phenomenon of the boiling up of the blood of St. Januarius, in its receptacle in the Cappella del Tesoro Cathedral occurred this forenoon, with all Naples' churchbells ringing and the people shouting with joy.

The occurrence, for which science has provided in the past no explanation, came at 9:45 a. m. while a tremendous storm raged. The Cathedral chanting prayers for the supposed miracle.

The phenomenon occurs generally at stated periods. When it fails to materialize the people of Naples fear that a new eruption of Vesuvius is coming or that an earthquake, plague or other calamity impends. Its materialization today was taken as an omen that shocks like that of July 23 or cyclones like that of Aug. 14 will be spared to the city for a considerable time.

From early morning the Cathedral was filled with an anxious throng waiting for the clergy to

CUBA'S ACT AT GENEVA WILL EMBARRASS U. S.

If She Persists in Opposition to Revision It May Keep America Out of World Court, Declares Britain.

Geneva, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Noel Baker, British spokesman, in a speech told the League of Nations Assembly committee today that efforts of the Hoover administration to bring the United States into the World Court might be embarrassed seriously by Cuba's opposition to the protocol for a revision of the court statute affecting the term of court sessions.

Stimson's Letter

Professor Baker called attention to a letter of Secretary of State Stimson to President Hoover which asserted that America's interests before the World Court as regards advisory opinions would be safeguarded by a special provision in the revised statute as well as by the Root formula which is embodied in the protocol.

Under pressure of Prof. Baker's declaration and further insistence by the French and Belgian delegations it was understood today that the Cuban delegation would collaborate in bringing the protocol into effect. But it was by no means certain that the Cuban government would be willing to abandon its opposition.

Intricate Puzzle

The intricate puzzle of what to do in the situation created by Cuba's opposition was not, however, completely cleared. Cuba maintained that entering into effect of the protocol affecting the number and status of judges was against her interests.

Senor Ferrera said that 22 or 23 states had not ratified the protocol. He said Cuba might ratify after other states had.

French and Belgian representatives suggested that eleven judges and four deputy judges be elected as under the present statute, with the provision that the deputies automatically should become regular judges upon enactment of the new statute. Other delegates opposed this on technical grounds.

STRONG WET DRIVE FOR CONGRESS IS ON

Anti-Saloon League Head Says This is a Poor Year for a Wobbler.

Washington, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The intense wet drive for Congressional gains this year was acknowledged today by F. Scott McBride, supt. of the Anti-Saloon League, to have caused the prohibition issue to be "more clearly drawn than at any time since the coming of prohibition."

At the same time the scope of the wet campaign was revealed to some extent in reports of political expenditures filed with the clerk of the House which showed that so far in 1930, wet organizations have spent $425,370 while dry forces reported spending only $9,622.

"The wets have forced the issue in this campaign," McBride said. "It is a poor year for a wobbler."

Has Confidence

In the face of the anti-prohibition drive, however, the Anti-Saloon League leader expressed confidence dry forces would be strengthened in the Senate and would continue to hold seventy per cent of the House.

Against the wet outlays, collections were listed totalling $363,188. The association against the prohibition amendment handled the bulk of the wet funds, collecting $332,839 and spending $356,392.

Dry Report

The drys reported more funds collected than spent. They took in $11,621.

McBride's view of the primary results discounted heavily the wet claims to gains. He contended they had defeated "seven or eight drys" for the House, while of the 29 new supporters claimed for prohibition repeal, he said "twenty have been for modification or some substitute for prohibition all the time" and of the others "a majority had never been counted in the dry estimate."

Estimating the present Senate as dry by more than 3 to 1, McBride said gains in the primaries "have been sufficient to more than offset any possible losses in the election."

PLANS UNCERTAIN ON DO-X JOURNEY

Biggest Plane in World Must Undergo Endurance Tests Beforehand.

Altenheim, Switzerland, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Whether the Dornier's giant airplane DO-X can make its proposed flight over the Atlantic ocean in the remaining months of 1930 was a question which nobody at the plant which built the plane could answer today. Maurice Dornier told the Associated Press that "recent tests with the newly installed American motors have been most satisfactory."

He added that the radio and other instruments had functioned properly under rigid tests.

"But we simply won't be hurried into our flight across the Atlantic," declared the airplane expert, "and her greatest endurance test flight. The route planned is Amsterdam, Berlin and Travemunde. From Travemunde the DO-X would take its first real trials of seaworthiness. Landing on Lake Constance affords no example of how the flying boat could be maneuvered amid huge ocean waves. To convince the world of the practicability of this type of

GOVERNOR OF STATE DENIES DICTATORSHIP

Market Prices Slump Over German Reports

New York, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Strenuous short selling stimulated by a widely circulated rumor concerning plans of the German Radicals to overthrow the government sent stock prices skidding to the lowest levels of the month this forenoon, but the market made an irregular recovery early in the afternoon when direct cables from Berlin said that all was quiet in the Reich.

The report, originating in London where German bonds broke badly, spread rapidly throughout the financial district. Professional shorts, who had pushed quotations down a point or two in the early dealing, redoubled their efforts. Rather heavy outside selling also appeared and prices of the prominent shares tumbled 2 to 5 points. Sales to noon were larger than those for any full session of the week, with the exception of Monday, and the new high speed ticker fell a minute behind the trading on the Stock Exchange floor.

When the selling dried up some of the leaders recovered a point or so of their extreme losses, and the market lapsed once more into dullness, although it continued to show some nervousness.

U. S. Steel, American Can, Johns-Manville, Vanadium, Bethlehem Steel, North American, National Biscuit, Sears Roebuck and scores of other issues lost 2 to 3 points before meeting resistance. Westinghouse Electric and American Water Works dropped 3 to 4, Western Union and Worthington Pump about 5 and Allied Chemical 8.

LEADER INTERPRETS REPUBLICAN PLANK

Is Neither Wet Nor Dry Says Joseph Ullman at New Ha- ven Meeting.

New Haven, Sept. 19.—(AP)—An interpretation of the Republican plank on prohibition in its state platform was given by Joseph Ullman, a local leader, and Clarence G. Willard, secretary of the Republican State Central committee, speaking before the 25th Republican Ward committee at a shore dinner last night. Mr. Ullman was a member of the sub-committee of the convention which drew up the repeal plank only to have it rejected at 3 a. m. by state leaders on the ground that it did not harmonize with Connecticut's attitude toward sportsmen and was taken from the prohibition issue out of our campaign," he said. The campaign, he went on "would be won or lost on candidates."

He referred to the democratic plank as "wet" but did not call the Republican one either "wet" or "dry."

His Statement

Mr. Willard said in part: "There is slight difference between the stand of the parties, the Democratic asking for out and out repeal while the Republicans make no reference to repeal." He said that repeal would not come in the lifetime of the present generation because 36 states are pledged to the amendment out of the constitution. "The Democratic demand for repeal" he said "is a mere gesture made in full knowledge that the party in the north and south stand by the amendment."

The Republicans demand that "we go to the spot where relief may be found, that is a change in the Volstead Act, so that liquor control may be returned to the states" said Mr. Willard. He did not refer to

WRECKS A MOTORCYCLE PEDESTRIAN IN JAIL

Kansas City, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A pedestrian was in jail here today charged with running down a motorcycle thus causing a fatal accident.

The pedestrian, Leroy Coulbridge, was arrested on a manslaughter warrant when police complained he had walked into a running motorcycle and knocked it down, causing the death of one of the riders, Miss Francis Marie Springer.

LIPTON MAY GET A CUP AFTER ALL

New York's Mayor to Re- ceive Subscriptions to Buy Trophy for Sportsman.

New York, Sept. 19.—(AP)—At the suggestion of Will Rogers, Major James J. Walker of New York was receiving contributions of not more than a dollar apiece today from the general public to buy Sir Thomas Lipton a loving cup in tribute to his sportsmanship. The proposal, made after the final failure of the British sportsman's yacht Shamrock to capture the America's cup, was presented by Rogers in the New York Times today and was taken up by other New York newspapers.

Rogers' notion of an inscription was: "To possibly the world's worst yacht builder but absolutely the world's most cheerful loser. You have been a benefit to mankind, Sir Thomas. You have made losing worth while."

Mayor Walker said that inscription might need some amending, but offered to take charge of the fund, receive contributions and see that receipts were used to buy a loving cup for Sir Thomas from the American People.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN IN ROCKVILLE TODAY

Rockville, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A fire that brought the entire Rockville Fire Department to the scene, totally destroyed a barn and its contents at the corner of Whites and Grove streets, Rockville, at 10:45 o'clock this morning. The house on the property, formerly the old Juno farm, which is owned by Anthony Dobosz, though scorched by the flames, was saved by the quick work of firemen.

Among the contents of the barn consumed by the fire were several tons of hay and an automobile. The fire was of undetermined origin and was well under way before an alarm was sounded.

COSTE IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Captain D. Coste and Lieutenant M. Belmonte landed here in their plane Question Mark at 11:55 a. m. C. S. T. today for a one hour reception.

"During Six Years I Have Served As Governor Mr. Roraback Never Dictated To Me What Course I Should Follow," Governor Declares — Often Had Asked His Advice On State Matters And Always Found It Sound, He Says.

Hartford, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Governor John H. Trumbull, who is just rounding out his third term as chief executive of the State of Connecticut, said today, in course of an interview on some aspects of his administration and in answer to question asked thereto, by the Hartford Times, that in the six years he has been in office, he has never been dictated to by J. Henry Roraback, Republican leader, either in policies pursued or in appointments made.

Governor Trumbull made this assertion when asked relative to statements frequently made, that the chairman of the Republican state central committee and Republican National committeeman from Connecticut, dictated the policies of his office or the appointments made by the governor.

"I can say most emphatically that at no time, during the six years I have served as governor, did Mr. Roraback ever dictate to me what course I should follow in office, or tell me what particular individuals I should appoint to office" said the Governor. "I very frankly admit, however, that frequently I have asked Mr. Roraback's advice in various matters, and in every instance when this advice was given I have found it to be for the best interests of the State" the governor continued.

PRINCESS AGED 73 WEDS A PRINCE 42

"I Am Not Insane Simply Be- cause I Am In Love" She Tells Relatives.

London, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Princess Marie Charlotte Constance de Broglie, aged 73, was married to Prince Louis Ferdinand O'Drleans, Bourbon Infante of Spain and cousin of King Alfonso in the London register office today.

The bride who is the widow of Prince Amadeo De Broglie, recently was victorious in the French courts when her relatives sought to prevent her marriage on the grounds of the disparity in the ages of the two. He is 42 years old and son of the Infanta Eulalia Spain.

At that time the Princess declared in court regarding the suit "it is a monstrous insult. I am not insane simply because I am in love. I am not a silly sentimental girl. I know my own heart. I want a little happiness before I die."

The wedding, intended as a secret was a ten minute affair. The prince and princess looked happy as they left the registry office after the ending of their long and stormy engagement.

FEAR FOUL PLAY IN MERIDEN CASE

Man Found Dead in Eight Inches of Water in Brook, Has Scalp Wound.

Meriden, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Foul play is indicated in the death of an unidentified man whose body was found this morning, face downward, in eight inches of water in Harbor Brook beneath the New Haven railroad trestle to the rear of the Bradley and Hubbard Manufacturing Company plant on Hanover street.

A penny tightly clenched in the man's hand and a quarter dime nickel lying in the bed of the brook below the trestle led to the theory that an argument over money, may have preceded the death.

A five inch scalp wound with slight skull fracture was in the opinion of Dr. G. P. Buffum of Wallingford who investigated in the absence of Dr. H. DeForest Lockwood, local medical examiner, responsible for the death or caused unconsciousness from which the victim did not recover after lying face down in the oil colored waters.

The head injury was such as could have been caused by a blow from a club or other heavy instrument. The man is about 45 years old, 5-2-2 feet and weighs about 135. He had dark brown hair. He wore a salt and pepper mixture coat, blue trousers with a white pencil stripe and a white shirt.

Sale of Stills Not Illegal Ruling of Chicago Judge

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The sale of stills was held by Presiding Judge Alsbauer of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday to be not illegal when purchasers did not signify the stills were to be used for an unlawful purpose.

Judge Alsbauer, sitting as a district judge, ordered the return to their owners of 11 five-gallon stills which had been seized by prohibition agents.

"I find nothing in the internal revenue statutes directed against one who sells stills or keeps them for sale," the ruling said.

The action was against a copper-smith and was prosecuted under internal revenue laws which ante-date prohibition.

Decided Against Bonds

"I cannot remember all that was said at the meeting, or who specifically advised against the bond issue," said Governor Trumbull, "but I do know that as a result of the

RAILROAD EXECUTIVE TO ADDRESS KIWANIS

C. E. Smith, Vice President of New Haven Railroad, to be Monday Guest of Local Club.

Vice President C. E. Smith of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad will be the speaker at the regular Monday noon meeting of the Manchester Kiwanis club at the Country Club. He will have a message that will interest all merchants and manufacturers among the membership in that it will deal with the proposed changes in freight rates in New England. Mr. Smith is an excellent speaker and his services are much in demand by service clubs. The Kiwanians are urged to attend and to invite their friends to hear Mr. Smith. They are reminded to notify Elmer Weden of the J. W. Hale company before Monday at 9 o'clock if they cannot attend, or in case they have extra guests. Tuesday is Manchester day at the district convention in Worcester next week, and it is expected a big delegation will make the trip. Earl Seaman of the Blush Hardware company will furnish the attendance prize.

Mrs. Mary Malters of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Woodbridge street and Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Bissell street spent Thursday with Mrs. Susan Dugan in Webster, Mass.

20 APPLES ON BRANCH LESS THAN YARD LONG

Unusual Display in Local Store Window — Grew on Edgewood Fruit Farm.

In the display window of the Blush Hardware Company store on Main street today stands a branch of an apple tree with a cluster of 20 apples.

They come from the Edgewood Fruit Farm owned by William H. Cowles of Manchester Green and are of the McIntosh variety in which Mr. Cowles deals extensively. The display attracted quite a bit of interest this morning.

An idea of how many apples were on the branch which was less than a yard in length may be gleaned from the fact that it was very difficult for a person to count the correct number of apples the first time.

ABOUT TOWN

Lottie Bzeneski eight years old, of Bissell street, broke her left elbow in a fall while at school yesterday and after being treated by a local physician was admitted to the Memorial hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Franklin H. Strong of the Midland Apartments is spending a week with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Strong of New Haven.

Louis St. Clair Burr of West Center street spoke before the Connecticut Association of Commercial Secretaries in session today at the Hotel Taft, New Haven. His subject was the proposed repeal of the real estate license law for Connecticut. The regular scheduled speaker, William Herron, field secretary for the National Association of Real Estate Boards, received a sudden call to Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Grace Symington of Monroe street who broadcast last week over WTIC guest soloist with the Aeolian Trio, will be on the air again this evening, singing in a mixed octette with a concert orchestra during the Travelers hour from 10:30 to 11:30.

The small triangular plot of ground at the intersection of Lake street and the new Bolton road is being improved by the Park Department for use as a small park. Grading has been done and several old trees removed to make room for others young and more suitable for the purpose.

ZLATOHLAVEK INDICTED

Middletown, Sept. 19 — (AP) — John Zlatohlavek, 66, today was under indictment for first degree murder in the slaying two weeks ago of his wife Annie. He is expected to go on trial for his life in superior court some time next month.

A grand jury indicted Zlatohlavek yesterday after three hours of deliberation. The accused was examined twice by Dr. Thompson to determine his sanity and was declared sane.

PEARSON A FAVORITE IN RADIO BROADCASTS

G. Albert Pearson, Local Soloist, to be Heard in Legion's Radio Star Concert Here.

G. Albert Pearson, one of Manchester's popular vocalists, is fast becoming one of the most successful artists appearing before the microphone at the Travelers Radio Broadcasting station in Hartford. Mr. Pearson's recent broadcasts were very enthusiastically received by the invisible audience which proves conclusively that his days of study at the summer school at Saratoga Springs was a beneficial step toward stardom.

The American Legion "On to Boston Club" has prepared a very extensive program for the Radio Star

G. Albert Pearson

concert to be held at the State theater, Sunday, September 23 and Mr. Pearson on the program is but one of the many treats in store for those who attend the affair. For his part of the program Mr. Pearson has chosen such favorites as "Wayfarer's Night Song" and the "Border Ballad" any one of which will bring out the vocalist's voice at its best. Mr. Pearson will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Eva Johnson.

The American Legion Convention which is to be held at Boston from October 8th to 9th is without doubt the biggest and most brilliant spectacle which has ever visited the New England States. In past years, this annual affair has broken all records wherever it has been held and there is every indication that 1930 will see an even greater affair. It is estimated by experts that there will be in excess of 350,000 visitors in Boston, many of whom will be passing through Manchester by various modes of transportation, some of whom may stop over to renew acquaintances with old "bud" friends. There will be a parade with over 75,000 veterans in line with hundreds of musical organizations furnishing the martial strains.

The prime reason for the Radio Star concert is to raise funds to partly meet the expense of sending the Drum Corps of the local post to represent Manchester in this greatest of all parades. The town is fortunate in having such a well appearing organization representing it which is ample reason for giving the veterans full support in their promotion of the greatest program ever offered to Manchester.

VEGETABLE QUARANTINE TO BE LIFTED SOON

Inspection to be Stopped as Soon as Frost Kills Off Flowers and Vegetables.

The corn borer quarantine grip on Manchester will be released as soon as the frost kills off vegetables and flowers now in danger of spreading the contagious plant disease. Expectations are that this will not be much before the second or third week in October. Last year the corn borer inspectors pulled up their tent stakes and departed October 18.

There are some 30 odd stations in the state being operated by the United States Department of Agriculture and Manchester is in the heart of the infected territory. Six or seven stations have been set up at the principal points of exit from the infected area and at these places all outgoing vehicles are stopped and searched for the contagious pest. The average station has a working personnel of three or four men with a chief inspector in charge.

The inspectors work on a basis of eight hours on and sixteen off. The chief's hours are a bit better according to one of the corn borer inspectors their work is not as monotonous as one might suspect. They have had some most interesting experiences in the course of stopping all passing automobiles and other vehicles.

16 BANKS ROBBED SINCE SEPT. 3RD

(Continued from Page 1) at Wesley and Hardy, Iowa; Gifford, Mo., and Hay Springs, Neb. The Hay Springs robbery gave authorities their first intimation that bank robbers may have resorted to airplanes. A plane landed in a field near that northern, western Nebraska village yesterday morning. Shortly after noon it had disappeared. In the interim the first National bank had been robbed by five men of $14,000.

The robbery was the fourth in Nebraska within a week, with loot totaling $98,500. The greater part of the total loot was taken Wednesday when robbers held up the Lincoln National bank and got away with $10,000.

Only the robbers have had to content themselves with small sums. The loot here did not exceed $1,000 and in most instances it has greatly under that. The Gifford, Mo., bank robbers yesterday only $800.

POLICE COURT

Four cases were disposed of in the Manchester police court this morning by Judge Raymond A. Johnson. Robert Massey for intoxication and breach of the peace was fined $25 and costs. He was unable to pay and had to go to jail. He was arrested by Patrolman Michael Fitzgerald at Depot Square last night.

Daniel Mooman, an old offender, was before the court for intoxication. In his case a fine of $15 and costs was imposed.

William Fleming of 168 Pine street for driving an automobile with improper brakes and without a license was fined $40 and costs. He was placed on probation and allowed time to pay his fine and costs. Fleming was arrested by Sergeant John McGinn.

Arthur Thomas of Hartford, for driving an automobile without a license paid a fine of $15 and costs. He was arrested by Patrolman W. R. Martin.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

BATTLE BEMIS HEIGHTS
On September 19, 1777, the Americans, under General Gates, checked the advance of the British commanded by General Burgoyne at the first Battle of Bemis Heights, or Saratoga. It was one of the most desperately fought battles of the Revolutionary War.

Albany, but not daring to leave the American forces in his rear, he advanced and attacked them. Both armies fought stubbornly and neither could claim victory. Historians are now inclined to give the Americans the edge because the British lost twice as many men and were obliged to delay their advance.

The second Battle of Bemis Heights, fought less than a month later, was won by the Americans with the courageous assistance of Morgan and Arnold. Finally, Burgoyne fell back to Saratoga, six miles distant, and there, on October 17, surrendered. This was the first great victory of the Americans. Nearly 6000 prisoners and a large quantity of arms were seized. When the news reached London, Pitt (Lord Chatham) declared in Parliament, "My lords, you cannot conquer America."

QUOTATIONS

"War is a young man's game."
—Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"I believe that business, generally speaking, is scraping along the bottom."
—Charles B. Bohn, president of Bohn Aluminum & Brass Corporation.

"The uncertainty of business adds to its interest."
—W. R. Angell, president, Continental Motors Corporation.

"In France donkeys are as plentiful as Ford cars in America. But what a difference! They cost nothing for gas. They never puncture. What's more, you needn't equip a donkey with a horn because simply hee-haws at corners."
—Coningsby Dawson, writer.

"There was a time when many people considered bananas indigestible. This was a food superstition which, like many others, has now been overcome by science."
—Dr. Esther Lord Batchelder.

"One of the traditional differences between the English and American theater is the active, shall we say vocal, part the European audience takes in the presentation of a play."
—Peggy Wood, actress.

POND WARNS AGAINST FEDERAL BUREAUCRACY
Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 19—(AP)—Dr. Roscoe Pound, member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission and dean of the Harvard Law School told the State Bar Association convention last night that Federal enforcement of the prohibition laws and the stamping out of organized crime would convert the government of the United States into a Federal Bureaucracy unless there were increased cooperation between all law-enforcement agencies.

Dr. Pound said unless district attorneys, deputy sheriffs, police and Federal investigators could reconcile their differences and develop teamwork, increased governmental concentration would ensue which would "concentrate power in the Federal Bureaucracy, fatal to local self-government and destructive to our federal system."

CONVICTS RETURN
Port of Spain, Trinidad, Sept. 19—(AP)—A group of convicts who escaped from the Penal Colony on the island of Cayenne (Devil Island) French Guiana arrived today in the Bay of Erin after eighteen days in an open boat during which they suffered greatly. They said that they underwent many hardships and that during the last five days they had had neither food nor water.

LINOLEUM WEEK

Floors of permanent beauty

THE wear and beauty you receive from linoleum floors depend largely on how they are laid. We recommend the finest method known... that of cementing them down. First that a layer of deadening felt be cemented directly to your floor, over which the linoleum is then cemented. Secondly that all seams be cut in and waterproofed. Such a floor is quiet, warm and waterproof... a thing of lasting beauty. The cost is very small and you are assured of a perfect floor as our layers are all factory trained experts.

Inlaid Linoleum $1.39

Absolutely the finest linoleum value we have ever offered. An excellent assortment of marbled patterns. Laid free, of course.

SWEDISH SOCIETY VASA 50 YRS. OLD

Two Charter Members Living Here—To Celebrate Anniversary Tomorrow.

Fifty years ago the first Swedish society in Connecticut was organized with a charter membership of six persons. Tomorrow that organization—Sick Benefit Society Vasa of Manchester—will celebrate its anniversary at the Swedish Lutheran church. Two of the original six members will be present, Charles Gustafson of 83 Chestnut street, and August Lindell of 20 Kensington street. The others have died.

Charles Gustafson

No extensive program has been planned, no effusive speeches of laudation, no sumptuous banquet. It will be a simple and quiet affair, a "family gathering." Those attending will consist of the remaining twenty-four members and their families, and the widows and families of deceased members, who have been invited by special invitation of the committee of arrangements. The anniversary will be held at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

As the name implies, Sick Benefit Society Vasa, is a benefit organization. Formed September 17, 1880, it rapidly became a symbol of service to innumerable hundreds of Swedish people and those of Swedish parent-age. Its benefits were manifold, ranging from the sick and death benefits to its members to assisting "greenhorns" and others in the problems that confronted them in coming to the United States. The membership of the society has never been great. Reaching its highest peak in 1889 with 123 names on the roll, membership gradually began to decrease with the formation of other benefit societies in Manchester. During the past few years no members have been taken into Vasa at all and with the death of many of its members the society has been reduced to 21 members. Of the charter members, Mr. Gustafson is the oldest, being 84. Mr. Lindell is 78. When first organized the society was known as the Scandinavian Sick Benefit Society. Its first president was Andrew Funk and the following were charter members: Mr. Gustafson, Mr. Lindell, John H. Swanson, P. A. Johnson, H. C. T. Punsback and Mr. Funk.

The society made no effort to amass wealth. Of the $25,000 that entered the treasury during the fifty years practically every cent was used in sick and death benefits or was spent in other channels of service to their fellow men. Despite this, in proportion to its membership Vasa is one of the wealthiest organizations in Manchester, with valuable property holdings and a well filled treasury.

The present officers are: Gottfried Swanson, president, a position he has held for the past thirteen years; Adolph Lindberg, vice-president, also for the past thirteen years; S. Emil Johnson, secretary, having served for fifteen years; Philip Johnson, vice-secretary; Peter Olson, treasurer, for the last ten years; Henry Anderson, financial secretary; John Carlson, vicarial secretary; John Oqvist, marshal of New Britain, marshal. All have held office for at least five years.

CUBA'S ACT AT GENEVA WILL EMBARRASS U. S.

the ground that he would wait until all the other nations first had given their approval of it. Although a determined band of Republicans in the Senate are bitterly opposed to American adherence to the court, it was believed at the capitol that Mr. Hoover intended to submit the issue to the Senate at its short session beginning next December. Should Cuba refuse meanwhile to agree to the changed statute affecting the term of court sessions, another delay in Senate consideration is believed likely to occur.

An Old Question
The question of American adherence to the World Court is an old one. The Senate once approved it during the administration of President Coolidge but the reservations voted by the Senate were never accepted by all the other nations.

After the question of American participation in the court then seemed ended, President Coolidge sent Elihu Root abroad and he, with a committee of international lawyers, revised the World Court statutes in order to meet America's reservations.

Since the Senate voted adherence, almost four years ago the opponents claim to have gained increased strength. Such figures in the Senate as Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader; Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee and Senators Johnson of California, and Moses of New Hampshire, the ranking Republicans on the foreign relations committee, are firmly opposed even to the revised statute for American adherence.

LEADER INTERPRETS REPUBLICAN PLANK

the party's platform as either "wet" or "dry."

Another Opinion
Hartford, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Republican Party of Connecticut has "gone wet," Lucius F. Robinson, Jr., chairman of the Hartford Crusaders, said today. Mr. Robinson, therefore, expressing his personal views and not those of his organization, sees no reason for Crusaders in the Republican party to make prohibition an issue in this campaign.

Mr. Robinson said he was thoroughly satisfied that the platform adopted at the Republican convention put the liquor question directly up to Connecticut's Congressional candidates. He feels that the denunciation of the evils of prohibition and recommendation in the plank that the control of liquor be returned to the states, satisfactory to the demands of the Crusaders.

In this Mr. Robinson differs with the Crusaders of Bridgeport who indicated that they were not satisfied with the Republican platform and therefore, would probably support Dean Wilbur L. Cross, the Democratic nominee for governor.

water plane for commercial trans-Atlantic flying, as distinguished from stunt flying, Dornier realizes that he must demonstrate its seaworthiness even in bad weather should its engines fail.

Depends On Trials
If the Baltic sea tests are weathered successfully then the Atlantic in her various moods will be tried out on flights to Oslo, Southampton, Havre, Santander and finally Lisbon. Only after all of these tests have been convincingly successful, Dornier asserted, will the great trans-ocean jump be tried by way of the Azores and Bermuda.

"FRIENDSHIP DAY" TO PROMOTE UNITY

North End Churches to Take First Step Towards Federation Next Sunday.

Dr. L. H. Dorchester, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Churches, met in conference with the standing committee of the Second Congregational church, and a corresponding body from the North Methodist church at the former church last evening, and lucidly explained the advantages of church unity. His enthusiasm over the church federation movement and his earnest, friendly advice gained by years of experience with just such problems as confront the two North Main street churches, made a deep impression on the joint committee and cannot fail to be of great benefit to them in their task of trying to seek the best solution of the question of church union.

Friendship Day
To further this end the committee has set apart next Sunday as "Church Friendship Day," when two union services will be held by these two churches. In the morning at the regular church hour, a joint service for the people of both parishes will be held at the North Methodist church, and again in the evening at 7 o'clock at the Second Congregational church. Both meetings will be devoted to the promotion of the consolidation movement.

In the morning Rev. L. A. Nies, D. D., a permanent member of the New England Methodist Episcopal Board, will be the speaker. He has been for several years superintendent of the Springfield District and has in his jurisdiction thirteen federated churches. He is an enthusiastic promoter of church unity among the churches in his district. He is also a member of the Commission on Evangelism of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Rev. Marvin S. Stocking of the North Methodist church says Rev. Mr. Nies is a speaker who always interests his hearers.

Speaker
In the evening the speaker will be Rev. L. H. Dorchester, D. D., who was for years president and is at present secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Churches. In that position he was largely instrumental in bringing about the successful issue of an interdenominational campaign throughout the state for the building of the interdenominational college church and community house at Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs. He has had considerable to do with the growth of the federated church movement in Connecticut. He is one of the leaders in his own church, the Methodist Episcopal church, in the New York Conference. Dr. Dorchester has occupied some of the most prominent pulpits of America, in Boston, Mass., St. Louis, Mo., Scranton, Pa., and Hartford, Conn.

It is hoped to have another speaker at the union meeting Sunday evening, the Rev. C. S. Applegath, formerly minister of a church in Canada at the time when a country-wide union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational denominations was being consummated. Mr. Applegath voluntarily withdrew from his church in order to make union possible between his church and another in the city. He is at present the pastor of the Federated Church of Middlefield, Conn. He has been there for several years and his pastorate has been attended with signal success.

Informal
The evening service will be of an informal character and after the speakers have given the meeting the benefit of their counsel and experience, there will be opportunity for all who wish to ask questions on the subject of federation.

France has become the world's second largest producer of naval stores.

REVOLT IN CHINA NEARING COLLAPSE

Peiping and to take over Peiping and Tientsin.
The Kuo Min News Agency in New York last night, quoted dispatches from Nanking, indicating the imminent collapse of the Peiping coalition of military leaders which has been in the field for the past few months against the central government in Nanking.

Yen To Resign
The news agency also said that Yen Hsi-Shan, once known as the model governor of Shansi and one of the leading figures of the northern coalition had announced that he must relinquish leadership of the northern China set up in the Nationalist government in Nanking. If Yen should retire from the struggle against Nanking and return to his stronghold in the province of Shansi, the back of the northern movement would appear to be broken. The northerners, during the first days of their revolt, scored numerous victories and for a time it appeared that Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the southern government would go into eclipse. Chiang, however, rallied his forces and in late weeks has scored decisively against his opponents.

PEACE APPEAL
Peiping, China, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Chinese newspapers today featured a peace appeal calling for the immediate cessation of hostilities in northern China set up in the northern China, youthful governor of Manchuria, at the conclusion of a conference of provincial leaders at Mukden.

They also published an interview with Chang, quoting him as saying: "I do not wish to see China again split into two rival governments. If the present government is unsatisfactory, it can be improved—there is no need to fight it out. It is my personal hope that Yen Hsi-Shan, Feng Yu-Hsiang and Chiang Kai-Shek get together and reach an agreement. The nation and people cannot afford to see war continue any longer. Civil war has made the life of the people unbearable and I am forced to intervene, though I will not resort to force."

OBITUARY

DEATHS

John Krabonka, 48, of 54 Birch street, died at his home at 10 o'clock last night after a 14 week's illness with a complication of diseases. He is survived by his wife, Sophia, four children, Mrs. George Pollack of Scranton, Pa., Mary, Andrew, and John of Manchester, two brothers, Michael of New York City, and Jack of Manchester. The funeral will be held at 8:30 tomorrow morning and at 9 o'clock at St. James's church with burial in St. James's cemetery.

TWO WOMEN INJURED IN INTERSECTION CRASH

Ten Months Old Babe Escapes Without Hurt When Autos Come Together Here.

Two women were slightly injured and a ten-month-old baby escaped without a scratch, when a Chevrolet sedan, driven by Mrs. Irene Foley of 270 West Center street, was struck by a Ford coupe, driven by William Foster of Wapping, at the intersection of Church and Chestnut streets just before 1 o'clock today. Mrs. Foley suffered a bruised right knee and forehead and a cut lower lip, and Mrs. Mary A. Jefferson of the same address, was cut over the right eye. Mrs. Foley's baby was unhurt. They were taken to Dr. T. H. Weldon for treatment by Fred Johnson of 38½ Church street.

The Chevrolet sedan was going north on Church street and the Ford west on Chestnut when the collision occurred. The Chevrolet was thrown across the sidewalk and stopped against a tree on the front lawn of Joseph Irwin of 40 Chestnut street. The Ford stopped in the middle of the lawn a few feet further on. Neither car was damaged to excess, the Chevrolet having a broken window, broken fender, wheel and bumper. The Ford had a broken bumper and other minor damages. Chief Samuel G. Gordon investigated.

Gerald Risley, who has been doing special police duty at Sound View during the summer, is to be before the Superior Court, criminal side, next week as a witness in seven different cases in which he figured in the arrests. They concern three liquor prosecutions where arrests were made and other cases are motor vehicle violations, two of them being cases where drivers are accused of operating under the influence of liquor.

meeting it was decided we could get along without it, and we have. If Mr. Roraback had urged that no bond issue be made the results appear to clearly show that it was good advice to follow. I was not positive in my own mind as I remember it, that the bond issue was the proper course."

It has been learned that other proposed bond issues were being considered for submission to the Legislature which would have brought the total up to $50,000,000 and it is said one of the controlling factors in deciding against the issue was that it would have opened wide the door for other similar proposals.

ASSISTANT AT ST. MARY'S UNDERGOES OPERATION

Rev. Alfred Clark at Memorial Hospital for Treatment for Hernia—Operation Successful.

Rev. Alfred Clark, of 18 Locust street, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Episcopal church, underwent a major operation this morning at the Manchester Memorial hospital for hernia. Rev. Clark was admitted to the hospital last night in order to prepare for the operation which was performed by Dr. David M. Caldwell. It was announced late this morning that the operation had been successful.

Medical authorities say that it will be about two weeks at the least before Rev. Clark will be able to leave the hospital and between four and six weeks before he will be able to resume his pastoral duties at St. Mary's church.

SIERRA MOUNTAINS ARE STILL GROWING

Engineers Also Report Plans for World's Greatest Bridge in California.

Berkeley, Calif., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Indications that the Sierra Nevada Mountains still may be growing, and plans for the world's greatest suspension bridge across the Golden Gate at San Francisco were reported to the National Academy of Science here today.

The Academy, official head of American science, met west of the Mississippi river today for the first time.

The probable secret of the Sierras cropped out in a report of the most complete earthquake survey yet made in the United States. It was given by Dr. Perry Byerly, seismologist of the University of California.

The survey disclosed presence of two dissimilar layers of rock nearly 40 miles deep underlying the southwestern coastal portion of the country.

This was determined by the same methods of quake deductions now successfully employed to discover oil bearing formations. In this case, instead of the artificial tremors produced by explosives for oil probing, the earthquake of last Thanksgiving Day in the Sierra was studied. It was felt in Nevada and California.

Eleven seismograph stations furnished the records, giving more observations from more sensitive instruments than hitherto available in the United States. They indicated the quake started about two and a half miles below the surface.

They record eight different sets of waves, all travelling at different speeds, the fastest more than five miles a second and the slowest slightly better than two miles. One set travelled 2.8 miles a second through an upper layer of rocks, called the "granitic," underlying the Sierra region to a depth of about 18 miles. Below the granite the fastest waves travelled through a layer of heavier material, thought possibly to be largely basaltic rock, estimated at about 21 miles thick.

Out under the nearby bottom of the Pacific ocean Dr. Byerly said recently obtained quake records indicate a formation heavier than these two land layers combined.

"These values," he said, "would indicate the Pacific region is not in static balance with the Sierra region—that is, the nearby Pacific may be heavier than that under the coastal mountains with a resulting tendency to press the land upward. This would indicate the Sierra may have still further to rise to balance the Pacific floor."

Recent engineering theory that makes a great Golden Gate bridge possible, spanning the sea entrance to San Francisco bay, was explained by Charles Deweth, Jr., dean of the College of Engineering of the University of California. He is one of the board of consulting engineers for the project.

Washington, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The expectation that prices for dairy products, including butter, will advance moderately during the autumn but remain at lower level than for several years past was expressed today at the Department of Agriculture.

This view was predicated upon a trend toward expansion in the dairy industry. In a report describing the dairy outlook, the department said while the drought caused heavy damage to production during the past season supplies of roughage and hay are ample in the most important dairy sections and the decrease in fall production is not expected to be as heavy as the decrease during the summer months.

MARK OF CIVILIZATION

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Worry as a source of ulcer of the stomach, one of the "diseases of a higher civilization" was discussed by Dr. George W. Crile, Cleveland surgeon before the Michigan Medical Society here today.

This disease is caused, Dr. Crile believes by the discharging of millions of tiny "electric batteries" in the lining of the stomach walls. These charged cells may become discharged through worry and nervousness, he declared.

"Peptic ulcers," he said, "are undoubtedly caused by hyperactivity and such activity is controlled by

Lives in Paris But Does Not Fear Soviets' Secret Police — His "Army" With Him.

Paris. (AP)—When General Alexander Koutiepoft disappeared mysteriously from the street near his home on January 13, 1930, remnants of General Wrangel's White Army and other former officers and soldiers in the service of the czar, looked to General Eugene de Miller as their leader.

While it was generally supposed that Koutiepoft had met with the machinations of Soviet secret police, General Miller did not hesitate openly to declare himself ready to assume his former master's position as commander of the Russian "White Army."

Since then, his life has been in the hands of the command of the czar's army after his chauffeur. His headquarters are in Paris and everything he does, he assumes is known to the secret police as were the actions of General Koutiepoft. However he never goes into the street without his two strong-arm men.

His Long Career. A long career as a Czarist officer preceded his command of the mythical "White Army"—several thousand ex-officers and soldiers dispersed throughout the world, working in "civies" as mechanics of whatever they can find to do. Even though this "army" is not an army, General Miller considers that he is still in the service of the czar and that his military career has never been interrupted.

The "army" of which General Miller is the commander is nothing more than a world organization of former soldiers, the union of associations of former Russian soldiers. It is this group which is referred to constantly as "The White Army." It has no uniforms and what is more important, it has no arms. It has only plans for the purchase of arms, if needed, and a vague program of mobilization should the time arrive when the Soviet state crumbles.

Business Executive. The general's appearance has changed from the old days, for now he goes about in an untailored suit suitable for an emigre and his once well-kept mustache has a tendency to reach toward his ears. He has the mind of a business executive who can turn from one question to another while keeping a crystal clear mind.

The general of the Army has his headquarters in his dining room. Here he works with his aides, discusses strategy and looks at maps; reads reports emanating from Russia, interviews travellers who have just left there and sends out letters asking for money to aid rebellious farmers. His apartment is in a modest quarter, near the City Hall. It is sufficiently large for his wife and two children and a baby adopted from a tubercular family.

Dispenses Charity. In this army headquarters much grief is told, for the families of ex-service men look to General Miller for help in time of need. One fourth of the general's time is spent dispensing charity—hunting money to bury a former comrade or student in the cavalry school, asking alms for some other unfortunate.

The general often is asked where he is a Russian, got the name Miller. His great-great-grandfather emigrated from what is now the Bas-Fhin Department of France. It was then Dutch and this ancestor was of that nationality. He is 63 years old.

FRANCE STRENGTHENS CORSICAN DEFENSES

Ajaccio, Corsica. (AP)—Corsica, the island department of France nearer Italy than France, is being armed. Cannon are being placed, munitions are being stored and military airplanes soon can operate from here.

This follows a demand in the French parliament by the marine military commission, which declared Corsica, keystone of any Mediterranean conflict, to be almost defenseless.

Exactly what has been done is a military secret. Nevertheless it is known that the naval supply ship Loiret has brought loads of armaments to strengthen Bastia, Bonifacio and Ajaccio.

It was said in parliament that there was but a single garrison on the island at Corti, the center. There were said to be no guns for reservists, no ammunition and only eight days' food and gasoline for the air service. There was provision for seaplanes, but no field for land planes.

25,000 IN PRISONS

Bombay. (AP)—More than 25,000 Nationalists are in jail, says an announcement of the working committee of the All India Congress Party. Bengal heading the list with more than 6,000.

Most convictions have been in connection with violation of measures adopted by the government to overcome the civil disobedience campaign inaugurated by Mahatma Gandhi in his struggle to free India from British rule.

The Nationalists contend that in many instances, in various parts of the country, ordinary convictions have been released to make room for political offenders. Government officials deny this.

The exact figures of convictions so far reported to the Congress Party headquarters show a total of 23,311. The government claims this estimate is an exaggeration.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Sock and Buskin dramatic club will present its first public play on October 14. The cast for the play, "The Admirable Crichton," has already been selected and rehearsals are now being held at frequent intervals. The play requires a number of cast. The leading roles that Crichton will be portrayed by Louis Sullivan. The entire cast is as follows: Crichton... Louis Sullivan; Mary (Lord Loom's daughter)... Catherine (Lord Loom's daughter)... Virginia Lowell; Agatha (Lord Loom's daughter)... Margaret Quinn; Lord Loom... Stuart Dillon; Ernest... Austin Johnson; Lord Brocklehurst... Hewitt Wilson; Lady Brocklehurst... Alwine Winkler; Twenny... Marian Jones; Fisher... Elsie Robinson; Monsieur Fleury... Lucille Murphy; Trehearne... James McVeigh; James Perkins... Ermano Garaventa; Rollaston... Leonard Bjorkman; Tompsett... Betye McGill; Simmons... Doris Nelson; Jeanne... Hans Bensch; Thomas... John Loyd; Jane... Virginia Straughan; Gladys... Hazel Rogers; Stable Boy... Austin Krause.

A new Somerset staff has been selected and the first meeting of this staff was held yesterday under the supervision of Miss Avis Walsh, the faculty advisor. Austin Johnson, '31, is the new editor-in-chief of the Somerset, and Marion James, '31, of Somersham, and Marion James, '31, of Somersham, '32, are the assistant editors. The associate editors are school notes editor, Gertrude Gerard, '31; exchange editor, Virginia Johnson, '31; drama editor, Marjorie Waddell, '31; jokes editor, James Toman, '33; art editors, Marguerite Smith, '31 and Freda Clegg, '32; athletic editors, Hans Bensch, '31 and James O'Leary, '32.

George Marlow, '32 and Daniel Foley, '31, are the business managers. The assistant business managers are Margaret Quinn, '31 and Rebecca Harris, '31. The circulation manager is Earle Ruddle, and the business manager, James Toman, '33.

No regular assembly was held yesterday, but the senior class held a meeting in room 23, and the freshman class held an assembly in the high school auditorium, during the time usually allotted to the regular assembly.

GANDHISM INTERRUPTS GOVERNMENT SCHOOLS

Jubbulpore, Central Provinces, India. (AP)—The Government has decided to close all government schools and colleges on account of the Gandhi civil disobedience movement.

An announcement says that all schools and colleges of the Central Provinces are to remain closed until such time as parents and guardians are able to produce, in the atmosphere of calmness and aloofness from political activities necessary to the work of these institutions and the education of students.

The educational authorities maintain that the action of Gandhi's National Congress party in exploiting school boys and girls for political ends has made "big" education impossible and "reduced to a farce" all attempts to continue it.

The school officials contend also that party propaganda has so undermined the discipline of the home as to destroy all parental authority.

Vatican Railway Calls For Engineering Skill

Vatican City. (AP)—The new Vatican railroad, although probably the smallest government line in the world—it is only 2,833 feet long—has demanded much engineering skill because of structural difficulties and the need to make it conform with the architectural beauty of the papal state.

Work on the railroad was begun in April, 1929, and pushed with great rapidity. Several buildings had to be demolished for the large railroad viaduct. This viaduct presented considerable trouble because of the uncertain nature of the terrain. Piles for the piers had to be driven 65 feet in order to offset the effects of subterranean water. The viaduct was completed March 1 of this year.

Because of these facts, the cost of the railroad is relatively high. Engineers calculate the final figure at between 20,000,000 and 24,000,000 lire, or between $1,000,000 and $1,250,000. This averages around $45 a linear foot.

GRAND FINALE DANCE AT SANDY BEACH

Plans for the grand finale dance of the season at Sandy Beach Ballroom, Crystal Lake, tomorrow evening have been completed and the announcement that Leo Roy and his Spanish Cavaliers have been secured for the closing event at this popular resort has caused a great deal of enthusiasm among the dance fans of this section, many of whom have arranged to attend the event at Sandy Beach Saturday night. Mr. Roy has arranged an especially pleasing novelty program and the final dance at Tolland County's Playground, Crystal Lake, will be quite as elaborate as the closing of the season at Sandy Beach Ballroom tomorrow evening.

It is understood that the reporter who punched the governor of Louisiana in the nose the other day said, "It won't be long now."

Europe's Only Dictator-King Strengthens Balkan Hold

Alexander, Soldier-Sovereign of Yugoslavia, Is a Romantic Figure in Midst of Struggle to Establish Nationalism in His Troubled Country.

BY MILTON BRONNER

London.—Europe which was made unsafe for democracy by the World War and its aftermath, and which has thrown up a dictator after dictator, has one boss who is today unique in his kind because he is a sovereign—King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

This man, who is only 41, is not only the sole king-dictator in Europe, but is the only one who led troops in the field in three wars—the two Balkan conflicts and the World War. He has just saddened two of his allies—France and Czechoslovakia—by issuing a notice that his assumption of supreme power on January 6, 1929, is to continue permanently, and that his hold on things is to be strengthened, instead of being weakened or modified, or given up.

Austro-Hungary used to be known as the ramshackle empire because of the many and conflicting races within its borders—Germans, Austrians, Hungarians, Croats, Slovaks, Czechs, Italians, Poles and Serbs. Yugoslavia, created by the peace treaties enlarged by those pacts, is almost as ramshackle. Its only difference is that most of its subjects are at least Slavs by blood and race—Serbs, Croats, Dalmatians, Slovenes, Bosnians, Montenegrins. But they are divided by religion, the Serbs being mainly Orthodox, the Croats, Roman Catholics, and the Bosnians, Moslems.

Nation in Turmoil. For years, after the end of the World War, Yugoslavia struggled along with parliamentary government under its new constitution, but never got anywhere. The Croats, who were more advanced in civilization than the Serbs and who had compared to a modern up-to-date city compared to the stultified Belgrade, complained that the government was so centralized that everything favored the Serbs and that the tax money was used for the aggrandizement of Belgrade. Business in the parliament was at a standstill because of the fights between the Croats and the Serbs. Corruption was rife. There was weakness in administration. In the parliament Croats members were actually murdered.

King Alexander mulled over these things for a long time. Because of the Europe in which his kingdom is placed, it was necessary that Yugoslavia should have a strong sense of nationality and be prepared to fight for its existence. It is no secret that for Yugoslavia the possible enemy is Italy. They face each other across the Adriatic. By treaties and by grabs Italy has seized most of the important ports on the east side of the Adriatic which should have been Yugoslav.

Alexander made up his mind to do a singular thing—he would apply the methods of his possible enemy. When Italy was torn with internal dissensions and parliament wasted time, Mussolini and his Fascists grabbed the power and proceeded to build a strong state. Alexander figuratively went to school to the great Benito. What the Italian could do, he would do.

Abolished Constitution. Hence like a bolt from the blue came his coup d'etat of January, 1929, when he announced that the constitution had been abrogated, parliament abolished and all political parties suppressed. At the time, he intimated that he did not aim at a permanent dictatorship. But only the other day he dashed all liberal hopes by announcing that there would be no return to parliamentary or party government. Instead, the soldier-king and his Prime Minister, General Zhivkovich, would still further tighten their hold on things.

In the way of giving better administration, equalizing taxes, suppressing corruption, the king-protector has undoubtedly improved things. But dark deeds of terrorism and third degree stuff have been done by his police in seeking to destroy political leaders who opposed the regime. He has succeeded in getting Croats and Slovenes, as well as Serbs, in his cabinet, but they are not men who were leaders in their political parties. Most of the men of high standing in political organizations have held aloof. A great body of Serb opinion is hostile, because it holds stoutly to democratic institutions. A great body of Croat opinion is hostile, because it still believes that Croat interests are being subordinated to those of old Serbia.

KING ALEXANDER LED HIS TROOPS IN THREE WARS.

THE DICTATOR HAS ASSUMED A FIRM GRIP ON ALL THE REINS.

Better times have come to Yugoslavia under the iron rule of King Alexander, pictured above, although many a dark deed has been attributed to his movement to crush political parties opposing his regime. But 41 years of age, Alexander is the only dictator-king in Europe.

Government by Edict. Alexander's whole endeavor has been to make all his people, regardless of race, religion or province, feel themselves Yugoslavs. By this one of his first strokes was to abolish the cen-

BRIAND REPLIES SHOW LEAGUE HOW IT STANDS

By PLAUTUS I. LAFSEY, JR., Associated Press Correspondent.

Geneva. (AP)—The League of Nations is almost strutting with pride over the responses of governments to the French proposal for the formation of a European federation.

There was a time, shortly after Aristide Briand launched his scheme, when the league's ardent supporters wondered apprehensively what the plan for a "United States of Europe" would do to the influence and prestige of the league.

Forebodings held sway in some hearts at Geneva, until the replies from European governments began to arrive in Paris. They differed in detail and sometimes in fundamental elements, they told the world with unanimous voice: "The European scheme of union must do no harm to the League of Nations."

Smiles replaced grave looks at Geneva. League quarters rejoiced at this testimony to the strength of sentiment for universality in international efforts at co-operation. One veteran commentator expressed the general satisfaction.

"We are pleased," he said, "that the first time Europe has found itself in agreement, it is in favor of the League of Nations."

Other grounds for satisfaction are found by the league's advocates in the replies of 26 nations, besides the uniform demand that the league must not be weakened. Objection to the establishment of a separate executive council and secretariat, expressed by all the responding governments, is taken as a token of the league's prestige. Apparently it was feared that a distinct council and headquarters might in practice substitute themselves for these organs of the league and enfeeble them. Again, the unanimous request that all states of Europe be included in the proposed federation is seen here as evidence that the ideal of universality is in a healthy condition. The nations of Europe, faced by the Briand scheme, had a chance to find fault with the league's work, or to approve it. The whole-hearted response of governments is hailed at Geneva, in the words of a French writer, as "a plebiscite in favor of the league."

WORD-OF-MOUTH NEWS

The urge to be first to "tell the news," characteristic of a very considerable part of humanity, is responsible for a fair share of the unhappiness that befalls the race. It is an absolutely inexplicable trait. No one can analyze its processes or account for its existence. Yet it is one of the things with which all of us are completely familiar, and have been, from childhood. As a matter of fact very few of us have at all times escaped the sensation itself. The impulse to rush off and tell somebody else some startling thing we have just heard seems to be as natural to the human creature as it is natural for a fly to pick out one certain square inch of you and return to tickle it as often as driven away.

However, most people have this impulse under more or less restraint. It is those who yield to it without a moment's reflection on possible consequences who make the trouble.

An excellent example was the rumor which flew about Manchester for a couple of days this week, to the effect that a well known resident, now traveling abroad, had been the victim of an automobile accident in France. Sometimes the rumor had him critically injured, sometimes it had him dead. The story occasioned the deepest distress to many friends. And there was no more foundation for it than there would have been for a report that this citizen or some other had been translated to heaven in a chariot of fire.

Whether somebody with a depraved sense of humor deliberately invented the yarn, whether there was a slovenly confusion of names in the reading of some news item, or whatever the origin of the report, the effect was to produce needless anxiety and unhappiness—of which there is plenty that cannot be avoided.

What to do about such whirling false rumors, we haven't the least idea, for they have been racing about the world since the beginning of time and the tendency to them is more common than the tendency to common colds. But one pretty good rule to follow is to suspend judgment on word-of-mouth "news" until the next issue of your newspaper comes—if it isn't in the paper it's a flat class bet that there is nothing to it.

ROGERS A WET

Lieutenant-Governor Ernest E. Rogers, Republican candidate for governor of Connecticut, has disposed of the only element of weakness that his candidacy might possibly have presented—a lurking suspicion that on the prohibition question he might be unduly under the influence of the dry element.

An abstainer, Mr. Rogers is politically a wet as that term has come to be applied to all opponents of federal prohibition. He is properly describable as a wet because, to quote his own words, "I believe that the use of intoxicating liquor is a matter which should be one of self-determination by the individual." My reasons for voting against ratification in 1921 are very definitely expressed in the platform adopted by the state convention on last Tuesday, which has my whole hearted endorsement.

ing persons they would be astounded. We have known Lieutenant-Governor Rogers for many years, and, while he does not say so, we don't believe he ever took a drink of intoxicating liquor in his life. We know that nobody in the world would be quicker to support any movement, legislative or otherwise, that gave genuine promise of promoting sobriety. When such men more than nine years ago registered their official protests against prohibition and when they are now advocating the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment they are a tower of strength to the wet cause—the cause of temperance, respect for law and national morality.

THOSE "PROGRESSIVES"

Mark Sullivan, noted political observer, admits in an article in the New York Herald Tribune that it is very difficult to see the meaning in the steady growth of Progressive Republicanism throughout the Northwest, the most recent and notable manifestation of which is the rather unexpected victory of Philip LaFollette, brother of the senator, in the Republican primary contest for nomination as governor of Wisconsin. The fact of Progressive strength in that part of the country, Mr. Sullivan submits, is beyond controversy. Its precise significance is something else.

This is a very singular situation—a political wing rapidly growing to the importance of a separate party, and nobody can quite explain the reason or understand the purpose of the movement.

The strange thing about it is that the Progressive movement makes no attempt to nationalize itself; in fact it almost deliberately sets up barriers against nationalization by constantly reiterating its agrarian character. Yet it is altogether impossible for the agricultural states of the Northwest to develop within their own area alone a political party that could ever stand a chance of becoming a majority party.

In the face of this the Progressive Republicans of that area not only seek no alliance with any possible elements of discontent within the Republican party in the East, they dig in, on the contrary, behind the ramparts of an exclusive and persistent sectionalism.

That, of course, is no way at all to "progress" toward the achievement of a national program. Perhaps the LaFollettes, the Borahs and the Nyes have no desire to follow a program. Perhaps they don't want the responsibility of majority government, either presently or in the far future, but regard political life as mere fun and their present unique position in Congress as one in which a good time can be had by all Progressives. A playboy political party.

"ALIMONY"

Perhaps the queerest of special purpose magazines is "Alimony." We didn't see "No. 4, Volume 1" of this publication but No. 2 has come to this desk and it is a curiosity. It appears that it is published monthly by Paul P. Travers in New York City, and it seems to be intensely in earnest.

Mr. Travers and those associated with him, whoever they may be, obviously are all het up over the institution of alimony as it has developed in this country and particularly in the state of New York. Their magazine "pledges itself to support the married man in his demand for equal rights in any of the forty-eight states of the Union." It will go, a leading article declares, "into every city, town and hamlet within the borders of the United States of America. It will carry a message of hope and a call to arms to every victim of a perfidious and vengeful woman and a warning to the weakling who is apt to listen to the siren's song." Et cetera, et cetera.

One gathers that the promoters of "Alimony" don't think any too much of alimony as an adjunct of civilization; also that they are not exactly what you would call crazy about women as a class, whatever previous individual craziness may have soured them on the institution of marriage.

boatful of crack-a-jack seamen who handled her. Unquestionably she is the best sloop that ever kicked blue water and no ship was ever more beautifully sailed. Yet her achievement has brought little but depression. We all did so want to see that brave old man either win the cup or lose it in a struggle that would have warmed the cockles of his fighting heart.

And the last of the Shamrocks never had a chance. Adding to the funeral quality of the occasion is the high probability that this is the last time Sir Thomas will ever visit America. He says so himself—and after eighty it isn't likely that he will change his mind. We are all going to miss him—him and his striving yachts. With the conclusion of this racing series something has gone out of the picture—something that never by any possibility will be restored.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 19.—Manhattan's widely advertised first night about crowds have undergone something of a change in the early days of the new season.

To be sure most of the old-time first night critics are there, but one notices the number of actors and actresses who, in happier times, were worrying about their own shows. Just now, with even the best and most famous of performers waiting for a show and praying for a rehearsal, it's not uncommon to see a score of celebrated stage figures who, at this season of the year, should not have time for gadding about.

Several openings have given the appearance of a "professional matinee"—and there is nothing dearer to the actor's heart than to strut his stuff before his fellows at one of these specially arranged performances when only gentlemen and ladies of the stage are present.

Here, on one occasion, for instance, your eye wanders over the audience and catches Irene Franklin, an elegant clown and troupier if ever there was one. What, I wonder, ever became of her show boat project? Coming from an old show boat line, she told me last winter that she would startle the Hudson River towns and the Long Island settlements by sending a show boat troupe into their midst.

There's Betty Starbuck, who generally landed music shows that ran and ran. How many new names there are again this year on the big street . . . Funny mixed crowd at a New York opening . . . There sits a famous rabbi . . . Stephen Wise . . . And there sits Jimmy Quirk, the publisher, with his ex-film star wife, May Allison . . . And there's Isabel Leighton, one of the rarest beauties of the stage. . . She writes now . . . And well . . . And Barney Baruch . . . How little you hear of Baruch these days. . . In the old years when Wilson was president, his name was on the front pages day after day. Almost every issue of the national magazines had something by him or about him . . . And, of course, there's the inevitable Otto Kahn, who has money enough to play with theatrical children play with toys.

HOLDING THE BREATH

When young children become angry they often hold the breath even to the point of turning blue in the face. In some cases the child may persist until he is unconscious, but death from this trouble is practically unknown. The situation is very alarming to the mother because she may not know what is the trouble nor what is best to do.

Holding the breath is a means by which young children get what they want from their parents. It will usually be found that the child holds his breath after he has been corrected or when something he wants has been taken from him. He may do this after some strong excitement, as from fear, anger or pain. He usually begins to cry and then catches his breath. He may utter half strangled sounds and his face begins to turn blue. The child may continue to struggle for breath while the spasm lasts. After the spasm is over the air rushes into the lungs with a peculiar sound which has been given the name of "child-crowning." As he breathes again, the blueness fades and the color gradually returns to the face. In some cases the spasm lasts until the child is unconscious and convulsions may also occur, but this is unusual and does not take place with healthy children. What occurs is a contraction of the muscles of the larynx of voice box which closes the glottis. This condition is sometimes called a spasm of the larynx or spasmodic laryngitis. The spasm may come during the night, but nearly always is brought on by excitement.

Children with rickets, adenoids or nervousness are most often affected, though healthy children may intentionally develop this habit. Holding the breath is often the result of a nervous habit which the child has formed. Usually, it is first begun when the parents pay too much attention to a child when he is crying because he is angry. He finds that by holding his breath he can gain the center of the stage and win his own way. If the child is otherwise healthy these spasms should cause the mother no great alarm. If the child is nervous, he should be helped to form a steadier mental attitude.

In persistent cases the child should be carefully examined to see if there are enlarged adenoids or an enlarged thymus gland. The best immediate treatment is to throw a cup of cold water into the child's face, as the sudden shock will cause him to catch his breath and his mind will relax him from the attack. This treatment may seem a little cruel but it is practically always effective. Many mothers find that a quick slap on the hand just before the child holds his breath will avert the attack. In other cases, the cold water treatment seems to be the best for discouraging the child away from the habit.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Rheumatism and weight-lifting)
Question: E. M. R. writes: "I am a man 29 years of age and have been working outside lifting heavy weights. I have pain and stiffness in my knees, and the muscles seem to twitch behind the knees. I eat quite a lot of oranges and grapefruit, and have reduced my weight from 175 to 168 pounds, but would like to follow a diet that would cure catarrh. My tongue is still very coated. What should I do for that?"
Answer: Rheumatism is not caused by eating meat, nor by cigarette smoking; neither is it caused by lifting weights, although the latter may be an irritating cause. Rheumatism is in every case caused by auto-intoxication, from self-poisoning through using the wrong kinds of food or from local infections of various kinds which are the irritating causes starting an attack of rheumatism. However, the soil must be laid in auto-intoxication first or rheumatism could not develop. A reasonable amount of cigarettes a day will have no effect upon your trouble. Use a limited amount of

Discontinued patterns of ARMSTRONG'S LINOLEUM GREATLY REDUCED

THIS week the Armstrong Cork Company announced the dropping of a big part of its 1930 line. So Watkins immediately offer you these discontinued patterns at exceptional savings. Included are some of the most popular marble and plain and embossed tile designs ever made!

55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

It's a Great Game, Folks! Snap Into It!

And while speaking of the entertainment world, may I recommend again, if I've overlooked it, the truly remarkable performance of Walter Huston in "Abraham Lincoln" and much of the type casting by D. W. Griffith, its director. And the acting of George Arliss in "Old English."

Proof to me at least that it's the people from the stage who are bringing the finest work to the talking cinema.

LEAPS TO DEATH

New York, Sept. 19.—(AP).—Arthur B. Herppolshelmer, 30 years old, of Grand Rapids, Mich., said to be prominent socially there, was killed today when he fell or jumped from a 11th floor window of the Hotel White, 37th street and Lexington avenue.

The body will be removed to Grand Rapids today.

Mrs. Herppolshelmer, who accompanied her husband here was in another room of their suite on the 37th street side of the hotel when the accident occurred. She had called to him and when he failed to reply she discovered what had happened.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Sept. 18.—Life today has more flavor than ever, as proved by the Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce in reporting an American consumption of about 10 per cent more flavoring extracts and flavoring syrups in 1929 than in 1927. Nearly $127,000,000 worth of syrups and extracts were manufactured last year.

Prohibition has not done the industry any harm but there was no appreciable increase during the two-year period in production of malt syrups and extracts, of which there was $22,000,000 in 1929, an increase of less than five per cent. On the other hand, production of cordials, with which some persons are often tempted to mix alcohol to obtain pre-prohibition effects, increased 17 per cent. Use of flavoring syrups such as those found at soda fountains rose 27 per cent.

Flavors of various types have their ups and downs. Lately ginger flavor has taken a hard blow as an indirect result of the stripping of thousands of the practice, got the idea that it was dangerous to drink ginger ale or other preparations containing ginger. The people who make ginger ale and ginger ale flavor have been trying to combat the silly idea.

Many Misinformed
The Bureau of Health Education of Jamaica recently issued a statement bemoaning the fact that the "jake" disease had been associated with Jamaica (West Indies, not Long Island) and asserting that "Jamaica ginger" was a misnomer applied to tincture of ginger because in the early days most ginger reaching the United States came from Jamaica. "The association of the name of this island with the disease is very unfortunate," the board said, "for it damages the products of the island in the minds of the uninformed."

One learns at the Department of Commerce, where they seem to know nearly everything, that individual taste in flavors and odors is likely to vary with sex and age. Mr. F. Aumuller of the Craxer-Kraus self Company of Milwaukee recently told a convention of the National Tea and Coffee Merchants' Association at St. Louis of the results of a questionnaire mailed to hundreds of men and women in all walks of life.

Women show a great preference for pineapple, the survey indicated. They are also stronger for peach flavor than men and have a slightly more marked preference for the apple. Women are much fonder of strawberry and its flavor than men and also fonder of the raspberry. Not a single person who had reached old age was found to dislike raspberries.

Coffee Well Liked
Among spices women like cinnamon and cloves better than men do. Men and women like caraway and nutmeg in about the same proportion. The average is also quite close with chocolate, but chocolate loses some of its interest as people grow older.

Coffee is one of the best liked flavors among both sexes and the liking for it increases with middle age and decreases after that point.

Maple is a strong contender for honors and people like it a little better as they grow older.

Only 48 per cent of men admit liking the odor of tobacco and only half as many women. In middle age and afterward the liking increases somewhat.

Tea is not nearly as well liked as coffee; women are much its strongest devotees. Women are partial to vanilla and men are partial to peppermint. Everybody dislikes lard and most other fatty odors and tastes. Men like sauerkraut a little better than women do. One thing like alcohol, one-third don't and the rest don't care. The female dislike for it is stronger than the male.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

Mexico City, Sept. 18.—(AP).—A Tepic dispatch to Excelsior today said that infant mortality there had increased 30 per cent as a consequence of an epidemic of typhoid fever. The disease has invaded almost every home. Contaminated water is believed to have caused the infection.

A's Win Pennant As Cards Clip Robin's Wings

Cheney Defeated By C. W. Page 3-2

Grant Wins Over Jarvis 4-3 and Meets Page in Semi-Finals; Reid vs. Smart in Other Bracket.

Local Sport Chatter

Ben Cheney, Manchester's lone hope in the Hartford District amateur golf tournament being played over the Hartford Golf Club course, was eliminated yesterday afternoon by Charles W. Page Jr., veteran Hartford golfer. Page won three holes up and two to play in a closely contested match. His victory sent Page into the semi-final round where he will meet Bobby Grant, youthful Wethersfield star, who beat Fred Jarvis Jr. 4 and 3, Graham Reid and Sam Smart are the other two semi-finalists.

Page and Cheney played a ding-dong match for five holes, taking turns at going into the lead. Page won the sixth, eighth and ninth, however, and made the turn two up. On both the sixth and the eighth Cheney was bunkered so that he lost the holes and on the ninth he sliced into the trees and hit one of them trying to get out.

Page went three up at the tenth when Cheney, trying to negotiate a styptic, knocked the Hartford man's ball into the cup for a three. They halved the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth and Page became four up by winning the fourteenth, where Cheney went over the green on his approach. Cheney's three won the fifteenth, making Page dormie and the match ended when both got fours on the sixteenth.

Those who patronize the Manchester Miniature Golf Course at Center and Stone streets find the layout unusually attractive. There are several par four holes and when you play these it is much more like the holes on the comparatively simple par-twos on the Tom Thumb courses.

There is quite a bit of interest down around the Cheney mill over a doubles tennis match due to be played Sunday morning at the High School south court. Kenneth Woodbury and Johnny Ritchie are to take on Frank Cervini and Harry Russell who won a bit of fame by trimming Paul Cervini and "Frenchy" Merrer.

The Cubs football team will not start its home season until after the town baseball series is finished. Present plans call for the first game to be a week from Sunday and out of town in case the Bon Ami beats the West Sides to even the baseball series Sunday.

The West Sides have a fine chance to clean up the town honors in grand style. They beat the Green two and three and now hold a win over the Bon Ami.

Among the new players working out with the Cubs football team this season are Waterman of Bristol, Perotti of Hartford and Williams of New London, all three grid warriors of no little ability.

Ty Holland hasn't played any tennis since he won the town title. In fact he only played two or three times before the tournament. The point is that Holland loves baseball far more than any other sport.

Once the town baseball series is completed, interest here will turn to football with a bang. Right now, though, the majority of people are anxious to see how the Bon Ami West Side fracas turns out. With one victory tucked safely away, the West Sides are naturally slight favorites to win the series, but if last week's game can be taken as a criterion, they have no easy proposition.

KAPLIN CONFIDENT HE'LL BEAT BAT

Former Champ is Having No Difficulty Making Stipulated Weight.

Jimmy Becker of New York has joined Bat Battalino's staff of sparring partners for the five days of rapid-fire boxing which Bat will do in preparation for his bout with Kid Kaplan at the Hurley Stadium next Wednesday night.

Becker was one of the champion's sparring partners as he made ready for the bout with Fernandez here this summer. Battalino did not do any boxing the first few days of his training period; he does not do as much boxing as the average fighter, but hits a fast clip once he starts.

Kaplan, down to 132, kept off the road yesterday as he does not want to get down below that mark for the next couple of days. Louis plans to get up around 133 and then move down gradually to the required 131 1/2. It is evident he is not to have any trouble in making the weight without it being anything of his speed and strength.

Kaplan is confident he is going to win. He has never seemed more confident than as he prepares to do battle with the boy who wears the crown that was on his. On the other hand, Battalino has refused to comment on his chances in this bout which, it appears, will draw record gate for Connecticut.

Four Tennessee football stars—Eugene McEver and Buddy Hackman, halfbacks, and Fritz Brandt and Paul Hug, ends—weigh 183 pounds each.

This football season will be the fifth for the Notre Dame coaching system at North Carolina. The team, under Chuck Collins, scored 346 points last year.

Those who patronize the Manchester Miniature Golf Course at Center and Stone streets find the layout unusually attractive. There are several par four holes and when you play these it is much more like the holes on the comparatively simple par-twos on the Tom Thumb courses.

Sing Sing Star Sought For Duty

Bridgeport, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Here's some cheering news for the baseball team at Sing Sing prison. Harold McCann, 23 year old star twirler for the N. Y. State Penitentiary team prior to his parole a month ago soon may be back in the lineup. In fact authorities are trying to sign him up now.

After his parole, McCann was befriended by Raymond J. Wahler of Bridgeport who aided him in getting a job at a local industrial plant and also had his parents take him into their home. But today McCann was among the missing and so was a suit of clothes, a watch and other jewelry owned by Wahler. Bridgeport police and New York parole authorities are keeping a search for McCann.

LIPTON WILL NOT CHALLENGE AGAIN

Sir Thomas Remarks, "It's No Use. We Cannot Win", Congratulates Winner; Metal Boat Called Superior to Wooden One.

Newport, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Defeated in his fifth attempt to regain for Britain the America's cup, Sir Thomas Lipton has abandoned his fruitless quest.

As the horns tooted and the sirens shrieked signalling another American victory, the 80 year old Irish sportsman, "at the end of the race, I shall not challenge again. It's no use. We cannot win."

The victorious American yacht Enterprise clinched the series by covering the 30-mile course in the fourth race yesterday in three hours, ten minutes, 13 seconds, the fastest time ever made in the sixty years since Britain first challenged for the cup in American waters. She beat Sir Thomas' Shamrock V by five minutes and 17 seconds.

Sir Thomas immediately after the race sent a radio message to Vincent Astor, aboard the Enterprise, and him to convey to Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of the Enterprise, and his crew. "Congratulations on your well merited victory."

"I want them to know right away that I have no hard feelings," he explained. "Although they have beaten me again, I could not have had fairer sportsmen against me."

After a rest of a day or two aboard the steam yacht Erin, Sir Thomas plans to spend a week in New York on business, and then sail for home.

Vanderbilt expressed himself as well pleased with the performance of his crew and boat and said he thought his British opponents, "the finest set of sportsmen" he ever raced against.

The men who build boats are unanimous in the contention that a metal boat, all other things being equal, is faster than a wooden one. Enterprise is bronze plated, Shamrock V is mahogany planked.

LAFAYETTE NEEDS SOME GOOD ENDS

Sailor's Lake, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP)—After a season in which his attention was kept focused on practically every other position, coach Herb McCracken of Lafayette finds his major problem this year in developing a pair of ends.

At the start of last year's drab campaign, the Leopards had two outstanding wingmen in Captain Sherwood and George McKean. They graduated last June.

This lack of experienced ends and a deficiency in reserve material have combined to leave McCracken looking toward an uncertain season.

The outlook is not too black, however. Fourteen of last year's 24 lettermen are back, including veterans for five line positions and a set of backs who developed fast season.

The experienced linemen are Allan Cook and W. H. Vanderbusch, tackles; Oscar Fischer, S. E. Edroney and Holmes Vanderbeck, guards; and Vic Reuter, center. F. Fuchs, a tackle last season is being groomed for a wing post, alternating with Ernest Galbos, A. M. Pivrotti, and A. J. Cirillo, new comers.

A light fast backfield is being built around seven holdovers. Roland Teller and A. J. Mundy are alternating at quarterback while Robert Wilcox, John Sullivan, Albert Socolow and J. L. Thompson have a monopoly on the halfback posts. Captain Ray Woodfin at his old post at fullback with Philip Bugen in reserve.

St. Louis 5-4 Winner Plays Phillies 5 Times

Newport—Sitting on a camp stool on the swaying deck of the U. S. Coast Guard destroyer Porter, Commander S. S. Yendle, one of the assembled crew of experts covering the America's Cup races for the first time, remarked:

"Well, it must have been a very good race. There isn't any doubt, I think, that Enterprise won."

And it happened, there was no doubt, but this was not because the experts on the Porter were able to discern anything more tangible than two dim patches of canvas, drifting over the finish line a half mile away.

Yacht-racing, no doubt, has its place in the sporting scheme of things. There is always a fascination about the sea, if one's constitution is robust. No doubt, there are thrills also when the wind is brisk and the weather clear, but like golf—it seems a better sport for the competitor than the observer.

In reporting what transpires in a race for the America's Cup, the experts on baseball, golf, polo, tennis and boxing go out to sea. Most of them, if the truth must be revealed, are still at sea upon return. Accustomed to action on which they can base conclusions or opinions, they are baffled by monotony. They have seen two sailboats and what of it?

Of course, there are exceptions and I do not mean to indicate that no reporting can be produced out of this billion-dollar pageantry of the deep blue seas.

There is, for example, gray-tatched William Ulysses Swan of Boston who has covered championship golf, tennis and football, but turned in later years almost exclusively to his real love, yachting. William Ulysses covered the races as far back as 1885 and he talked to me glibly of double-luffed spinnakers, jibbing and hitching. There was no question he obtained a thrill out of it all.

It seemed that some restraint was almost necessary to keep him from dashing down to the harbor and taking Shamrock V out personally to prove his point that the challenger was not properly sailed in the leeward and windward race of the first day.

The experting in these seafaring parts is on a range scale. The gentlemen of the press crowd the decks of three destroyers. They dash about in seadogs, go up in blimps and airplanes.

They surround Sir Thomas Lipton on board his steam yacht Erin and, of course, drink tea. They clamber up the side of Vara, Harold S. Vanderbilt's private yacht, for interviews.

Spectators at America's Cup races are, as usual, divided into at least three classes—"ringside" patrons who travel in luxurious comfort on private yachts and occupy favored positions in the sea-going parade; "bleachers" customers who pay from $150 to $5 for a glimpse of the proceedings from the decks of huge river or coastwise steamers; and "gate-crashers," mostly in small boats, who are kept constantly on the run by patrol craft as they dart in and out, seeking points of vantage.

Grimes' Pitching and Bottomley's Homer Aid in Fall of Brooklyn; Mackmen Beat White Sox 14 to 10 to Cap American League Title.

Once more Connie Mack, the tall tactician of Philadelphia has led the Athletics to the point where they have nothing to do but look forward to a new world series in which to conquer—or to be conquered. Current indications in the race for the National League flag, are that the St. Louis Cardinals will be the A's rivals in the struggle for the world championship.

The Athletics clinched the American League pennant yesterday by beating the Chicago White Sox 14 to 10 for their 99th victory of the season while Cleveland and Little hope for the Cardinals with a 3 to 2 triumph. At the same time the Cards drew father ahead of their rivals in the senior circuit, beating Brooklyn for the third straight time, 4 to 3 to gain a two game margin over the Robins.

A third stirring triumph in as many games placed the Cardinals in a fairly safe position as they left Brooklyn to start a five game series in Philadelphia. Brooklyn and Chicago, their only remaining rivals of importance, have three more games to play. The Cardinals and Little hope for the Phillies and Pittsburgh will upset the Cards. The N. Y. Giants are out of the race for all practical purposes, being 5 1/2 games behind despite yesterday's victory over Chicago.

Today the leaders stand as follows:

Team	W	L	P.C.	G.E.	T.P.
St. Louis	85	60	586	0	4
Brooklyn	84	63	571	2	7
Chicago	83	63	569	2 1/2	8
New York	80	66	548	5 1/2	8

Where Andy High had shown for Grimes and Bottomley shared the Cards' hero roles yesterday. Grimes spit-balled most of the Brooklyn's hitting ineffective and Bottomley's fourth inning homer helped the Cardinals make the most of their five hits off Phelps and Thurston.

Connie Mack, Philadelphia's 68-year-old leader reached his eighth championship since he took charge of the Athletics. Before this season Mack had led teams to league championships in 1902, 1905, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1914 and 1929. From times the Athletics have won the world title, in 1910, 1911, 1913 and 1929.

The lesser teams of the two leagues, battling for nothing in particular, provided some startling innovations and three close games to complete the day's schedule. The Detroit Tigers lost to Boston 4 to 3 and the N. Y. Yankees took a 10 inning 7 to 6 victory over the St. Louis Browns while the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Phillies, 6 to 5. The Boston Braves and Cincinnati Reds were not scheduled.

CELIA ROGERS, just out of high school, spends a hot busy day looking for a job. Her mother, MARGARET ROGERS, is a widow, employed as a seamstress in a dress shop. On the day the story opens Margaret receives a letter which she conceals from Celia. It is an offer, signed JOHN MITCHELL, to provide the girl with every advantage of education, travel and social position if Margaret will give her up. Margaret declares she will never do this.

Celia goes for a drive with BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer. Barney tells Celia he loves her and swears that some day they will be married. Next day the girl continues her search for work. She goes to the shop to see her mother and finds Mrs. Rogers has been taken suddenly ill. The woman recovers, but is told by a physician she must stop working. Margaret writes a letter to John Mitchell and he comes to Baltimore. After a long interview he convinces Margaret she must accept his offer and let Celia go.

CHAPTER VII
Celia stood before the dressing table mirror in hand, studying her profile. She turned her head, chin tilted, and tried the effect. She was smiling, half pleased, and half doubtful.

Her soft waving hair was arranged in a new way, drawn back from the ears. It looked more grown-up, more sophisticated. Would Barney like it? She pushed back the little curl which insisted on touching her cheek. The curl promptly bobbed forward again.

Celia's eyes were dreamy. She was paying more attention to her appearance these days, thinking more about clothes and spending more time before the mirror since Barney had told her she was lovely looking. Barney said silly things but she liked to hear them.

"Why—mother! I didn't hear you!"
The girl turned quickly. Mrs. Rogers stood in the doorway of the bedroom. Without replying she drew off her hat, laid it with her purse and gloves on the bed and sank into a chair.

"You're awfully late," Celia continued. "They haven't any right to ask you to stay overtime these hot days! I was getting worried—"

"But you shouldn't have, dear," her mother interrupted. "I told you I'd be late this evening."
"Yes, I know. But it isn't fair for Mrs. Foster to ask you to stay," Margaret Rogers arose.

"I wasn't at the shop," she said. Her back was toward the girl. She did not see Celia's startled glance. "Not at the shop?"
"No, I—I was talking to an old friend."

There was a pause during which Celia eyed her mother expectantly. After a moment Mrs. Rogers added, "I'll tell you about it later. We'd better have dinner now, hadn't we? It must be nearly six."

"Everything's ready," Celia said, following her mother into the living room which was also a dining room. She took dishes from the cupboard and placed them on the table.

Presently they sat down to the meal. There was a salad of which Celia was proud, rolls and a vegetable and fruit.

"I planned to have everything cold," the girl explained. "so the room wouldn't get heated."
Margaret nodded absently. The precaution had been only partly successful. A slight breeze stirred the window curtain but the air was warm.

"You're not eating, mother?"
"I'm—not hungry."
Margaret cleared her throat then and looked at her daughter.

"We're going to have company this evening. I—invited my friend to call."
"But who is it?" Celia could not keep the curiosity from her voice.

"You don't remember him, Celia," the mother said. "I used to know him long ago. Before we lived in Baltimore."
"What's his name?"
"Mitchell—John Mitchell."
Celia drew a sigh and laughed.

"Well—that's a relief! Honestly, mother, when you first came in I thought something was wrong. You seemed so mysterious I was afraid you were sick. Who is this Mitchell? I'll bet he's an old suitor of yours! Isn't he?"

For an instant Margaret's eyes held her daughter's. Her cheeks tinged with pink as she answered. "I was fond of him once. He—"

"I want you to look your prettiest. Wear the rose dress."
"But, mother, I don't have to be here when he comes do I? Barney's going to take me to the Stanley. It's the new Ramon Novarro picture! You'll want to talk about old times!"

Margaret Rogers' voice was firm. "You will have to go with Barney some other time. I want you here tonight."
"Can't I stay just a little while and be excused?"
"Mrs. Rogers shook her head.

"No, Celia. Not this evening. Don't ask it."
There was silence after that. Celia had been in the house all day. She wanted to see the picture and her mother's firm insistence seemed an affront to 17-year-old dignity.

"What time is he coming?"
"Eight o'clock. I'm sorry to interfere with your pleasure, but really, dear, I have reasons."
The cloud passed from Celia's face as quickly as it had appeared. She slipped around the table, kissed her mother's cheek and laughed.

"All right! Your pride and joy will stay right here beside you when Barney comes. I'll tell him the party's off."

There was a great deal to be done to get the apartment in order for company. The dishes were carried from the table and Mrs. Rogers bustled about with a dust cloth, setting furniture at different angles, converting the dining room back to a living room.

"It's after seven!" her daughter reminded her presently.
"That's all right. I'm almost through, now. You'd better start dressing."

"Do you think Mr. Mitchell will stay very long?" Celia paused in the doorway to inquire.
"I don't know."
"Isn't it funny you never mentioned him before?" the girl persisted.

"Oh—I guess I just didn't happen to. Go on, Celia. Get ready."
The girl had just slipped the rose frock over her head when Mrs. Rogers raised the lid of the old trunk and began fumbling through the upper tray. She drew out her jewel box.

"Here—Celia, I want you to wear this."
It was the little gold locket. Celia had never seen her mother wear the trinket nor had Margaret Rogers ever offered it to her daughter before. The locket hung on a narrow black ribbon and Margaret tied it about the girl's throat.

Celia turned to catch a view in the mirror. She felt her mother's arms flung suddenly about her.
"Darling—we've been happy together—haven't we?" Margaret murmured brokenly.

"Way, of course! Of course we have."
"So many things other girls have that you've missed," the mother went on. "But you'll have them too, Celia!"
The girl drew away, eyeing her mother curiously. It was odd for Margaret Rogers to show such emotion.

"Here—let me help you dress," the girl said. She began to undo fasteners of her mother's gown.
Five minutes later a shrill whistle came from downstairs.
"That's Barney," Celia said. "I'll run down and tell him I can't come."
She had not attempted the new coiffure. The brown curls framed the girl's face as usual. The bright dress added color to her cheeks and her eyes were shining as she hurried down the stairs.

seen for years and she says I've got to be there."
"Has your company come yet?"
"No."
"Well, you could hop in the car and drive around a couple of blocks, couldn't you? Gosh, I'd like to see you for a minute or two and we can't very well talk here."

Celia hesitated. She glanced up toward the apartment where her mother was waiting.
"I shouldn't," she said softly—"but I will!"

Fifteen minutes later a girl in rose silk with windblown curls and sparkling eyes ran up the stairs leading to the third-floor apartment. She was late and yet her heart was singing.

"Maybe he hasn't come yet," she told herself hopefully.
But as soon as she reached the top of the stairs she knew that she was wrong. Celia saw the stranger sitting beside the window. The light shone on his face. Involuntarily the girl stopped. A curious, terrifying feeling came over her.

Celia, standing in the shadowed hallway, felt the tenseness of the room's atmosphere. She drew back, steadying herself with a hand on the railing.
Her mother's voice came to her but Celia could not distinguish the words. Margaret Rogers sat with her back toward the door. The man nodded his head as if in agreement to what had been said.

Celia was trembling. She could not take her eyes from the man's face. Who was John Mitchell? What had he come for? She conquered her fear and stepped forward.
"Mother—I hope I'm not late—"

tried to hurry—
"Oh, Celia! I was wondering what had become of you. We have company."
The girl moved toward John Mitchell. He arose, bowed formally and held out his hand to her.

"How do you do?" he said slowly. "So you are Celia."
The girl raised her eyes to Mitchell's gold, appraising glance.
"Celia," Margaret Rogers cut in in a voice that was a sob. "Darling—this is your father!"

HOW TO SHOP

BACK OF A RUG USUALLY IS INDEX TO ITS QUALITY
By William H. Baldwin
Certain simple points of information will be helpful in buying a rug. Examine the back of the rug. If it is covered with a sizing of glue, giving the back a smooth, glossy finish, you have the manufacturer's frank admission that the weave is too loose to withstand, without this protective sizing, the handling to which the rug will be subjected in the store. Such a rug is not necessarily bad, but it should not command the prices of the better grades of weaves.

If the back shows no signs of sizing, hold it at reading distance. If you can easily count the horizontal and vertical strands, the rug is too loosely woven to be of the best grade. The pile can be inspected by folding an edge of the rug back to back. The rows of tufts should stand up stiffly like the bristles in a hair brush, and the length of the tufts will show the depth of the pile. The shopper wants surface texture and that is measured in pile, not in backing.

There are seven points to keep in mind in caring for rugs and carpets. Always lay rugs or carpets on smooth surfaces.
Never pull an apparently loose yarn or tuft out of a rug; cut it off even with the rest of the pile.
If a tear or hole develops, have it mended quickly by an expert.
In the case of machine-made rugs with cut-pile surface, the first few cleanings will produce large rolls of tuft. Don't be alarmed by this fluff, for the amount is insignificant in comparison with the compact fiber left in the pile.
Beating is very bad for rugs.
Never send to a laundry a rug containing paper fiber.
Where wool rugs are rolled up and stored for the summer, they should be thoroughly cleaned first, then carefully wrapped and sealed in paper. Don't rely entirely on anti-moth preparations.

FLIERS' SAD PLIGHT

Rabaul, New Guinea.—(AP)—Captain Thomson, pilot for New Guinea Gold Limited, and his mechanic, McMurtrie, have been brought to the coast after crashing into a mountain peak and making a difficult trip through the jungle.
While flying a tri-motored plane between the mountain goldfields and the coast they were caught in a terrific storm. The machine was flung against a mountain, being impaled on a tree.
Thomson and McMurtrie climbed down the tree and struggled through the jungles in the ranges. Their clothes and flesh were torn and their wounds were irritated by leeches.
Bush flies poisoned their eyes. Then McMurtrie contracted black water fever, and pleaded to be left behind, delicious he had to be carried by his tottering, almost blinded, companion who was unable to sleep for fear of an attack by hostile natives. Both were on the verge of collapse when a search party located and rescued them.

HEALTH

COLLEGE SURVEY SHOWS FOOTBALL IS MOST HAZARDOUS SPORT
By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine
The common notion that football is most hazardous of all college sports was substantiated last year in an investigation made by the Carnegie Foundation.
The investigators studied athletes in 20 universities and colleges in which almost 44,000 students were engaged in 13 branches of athletics. Among the 44,000 there were 1320 accidents of which 649 were due to football. When the study was made in more detail, it was found that intercollegiate football is three times as hazardous as interclass football.

Twelve out of 100 football players are injured during the season. The most common injuries are dislocations and sprains, which may disable the player for more than three weeks. For many years it has been known that football is a dangerous sport. It is, perhaps, not as dangerous as boxing, wrestling, or even rowing, but it does carry with it constant and definite hazard.

One of the most common injuries of football is the dislocation or breaking of the cartilage in the knee called the semilunar cartilage. When this occurs, the knee tends to lock in a fixed position and it is impossible to extend the leg without great pain.
After the swelling and inflammation associated with the injury disappears, the knee gradually becomes usable again, but repetition of the stress which caused the first accident is likely to reproduce the condition a second time with greater ease, and the third and fourth times with still greater facility.
Not infrequently the players are completely incapacitated by this injury. If the knee is put at rest until it recovers and if the strenuous life is avoided thereafter, the man is likely to have a good workable joint for the rest of his life. If, however, he tends to persist in athletics of even a slightly strenuous character, it will become necessary for him to be operated on in order to have the piece of broken cartilage removed before he will be able to realize his ambition.

One of the saddest spectacles associated with intercollegiate football is the attempt to win the game at any cost. As a result of this effort, men are sometimes played who are not in proper condition,

Opera Pump

Black Suede and black alligator are combined in this opera pump for fall. An interesting variation is the open slit at the side and the perky little stand-up bow of alligator.

and not infrequently a man who is injured is not removed from the game but is permitted to take part in three or four more plays before a substitute is sent in.

Because of the terrific demands which intercollegiate football makes upon the human body, college and particularly high school coaches should be certain that every player is in good physical condition before he is permitted to take part in a contest. Any player who shows apparent signs of having any accident to bone, muscle, ligament, or joint should be promptly removed and given opportunity to recover fully before he is used again.

Some colleges, notably Notre Dame, the University of Illinois and the California institutions, have great amounts of football material on which to draw. Other institutions, and particularly the small colleges and schools for graduate training, must choose their football material from 25 to 40 players. The responsibility in these cases is far greater, because the coach is confronted repeatedly with the necessity for removing a good player to substitute one much inferior.

YOUR CHILDREN

I wasn't well and a very sweet lady brought me a cup of coffee in mid-morning.
That was when I had a chance to chat with her and learned that she was the oldest of a family of eleven children.
I had watched her doing little acts of kindness for other people, not fustily, just quick on the trigger when it came to thoughtfulness or service.
When I learned that she had had to help play mother to her brothers and sisters I understood.
Service is a habit—there's isn't a doubt of it. And the modern mother who hands her child the earth on a platinum platter simply is going to get left some day if she thinks that suddenly in that halcyon future she pictures for her offspring there is going to descend like manna from heaven that divine graciousness of behavior that will mark her daughter as a "lovely lady."

Service Sometimes Inborn
Sometimes it does happen that a child brought up with the idea of service has an inborn thoughtfulness of others. Dear knows where it comes from—I don't—but sometimes it is there.
But we've all seen the child brought up in an atmosphere of adulation, breathing in with every breath that he comes first in the household, who grows up with no idea of doing anything for anybody not even his parents.

Far on into manhood his parents have helped him or into womanhood they have sacrificed for her; only to realize with silent heart aches that the thing they had hoped for, a sort of return kindness, was strangely lacking. And if they even allowed the idea of ingratitude to occur to them, even then the light didn't break that might have told them it was their own mistake—that they had not begun early enough to plant the seeds of thoughtfulness and service in those childish hearts.

One of the most difficult things a mother faces is to be selfish where her child is concerned.
Yet it is the kindest thing she can do for him, to demand some service, attention and sacrifice on his own part. Not enough to make him unhappy, but enough to set the habit. The lesson of charity or better love, certainly must begin at home.
Children should be taught to serve each other, too, not by force but by tactful suggestion. The family again is the best school.
I shall just add incidentally that this lovely lady told me that the whole eleven would do anything on earth for each other, and that even her brothers had never allowed their mother to sit up at night with a younger sick child. Almost obsolete, isn't it?

COMEDY AND DRAMA
ON STATE'S PROGRAM

Jack Oakie in "Sap From Syracuse" Furnishes the Laughs; Bebe and Ben Seen Together.

The new program at the State today and Saturday is a happy blend of comedy and drama in such proportions as to make up the ideal motion picture program. Jack Oakie will be seen and heard in his latest howl, "The Sap From Syracuse," and Bebe Daniels and her new husband, Ben Lyon, will be presented in their first co-starring vehicle, "Alias French Gertie."

If you want a good hearty laugh, don't miss "The Sap From Syracuse." Oakie has never done anything better. As the butt of every Syracuse joke, Oakie naively butts a few jokes himself, until through an unexpected legacy, he is enabled to gratify his one ambition—to see how the world lives on the other side of the pond. Through a series of misadventures, he winds his way to success in love, and the story ends in a convulsing climax, to prove the hero not to be dumb as he looks. Petite Ginger Rogers has the leading role opposite Oakie and she comes through like a veteran.

RUMANIAN WAR PAPERS ARE IN RUSSIAN HANDS

Budapest, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A French military expert en route to Bucharest made the declaration here today that because of the mysterious transfer of "highly" important Rumanian military documents bearing upon Army matters to Russian hands, Rumania has been compelled to begin entirely new discussions with her French and Polish allies.

Because of the loss of the Army case, former minister of war and present chief commander of Rumanian cavalry, and General Florescu, former general secretary of the war ministry and now divisional commander in Bessarabia, today resigned from the army.

General Florescu was the courier who carried the missing document in 1927 to General Milcescu, then recuperating in Bukovina.

An immense sensation has been caused in military and political circles by the disclosures of the French military authority.

Walter P. Chrysler, Jr., son of the automobile magnate, is to enter the book publishing business. Like his dad, he will be interested in volume production.

EDISON CURIOUS ABOUT AIRPLANES

Asks Many Questions at Newark Port — Tells of Secret Work During War.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison knows a lot about airplanes today, is eager to learn more, and may even fly in one some time if he can find a pilot who'll promise to do no barrel-rolling or outside loops.

At Mrs. Edison's insistence the inventor went with her to the Newark Airport last night and talked for more than an hour with the director, Lieut. Richard Aldworth.

"What do you do about stunting?" Mr. Edison asked.

"It is forbidden, because of the transport business," the lieutenant replied.

"If a plane should lose its engine in flight, could it go safely to the ground?"

"Yes, a plane now has quite a good gliding angle."

"How does a plane get out of a nose dive?"

A mechanic worked a plane's controls to demonstrate the method.

"Height of Jump"

"How low is it safe to jump from a parachute?" the inventor wanted to know.

"Five hundred feet."

"Why?"

"Because a parachute is slow to open."

Mr. Edison suggested one should be made to open instantaneously.

"How much is that ship worth?" he inquired, pointing to one. The answer was "forty-five hundred dollars."

"Too much," said the inventor.

Mr. Edison told Lieut. Aldworth he had attempted during the war to perfect a "dope" to make the wings of a plane invisible, but had stopped his labors with the end of the war.

Mrs. Edison asked Aldworth to try to make her husband fly and the inventor said he might go up some time "with an old-fashioned pilot."

JOCELYN LEE DENIES
DISH THROWING CHARGE

Los Angeles, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Denial that she hurled dishes and glassware, causing their ejection from a hotel in Agua Caliente, Mexico is made in the answer and cross-petition filed by Jocelyn Lee, screen actress, to the divorce action brought by her husband Luther Reed, film director.

Reed in his petition, filed a week ago, charged his wife assailed him with table ware during fits of rage, resulting in police ordering them out of the hotel. Miss Lee in her answer said the disturbance was caused when Reed attempted to take money from her.

She charged he was addicted to the use of intoxicants and frequently beat her with his fists.

She asks custody of all their community property, valued at $100,000, attorneys fees of $5,000 and court costs of $700.

They were married at Agua Caliente last June 15. Reed was formerly the husband of Naomi Childers, screen star.

MATTHEWS HOPS OFF

Istanbul, Turkey, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Captain F. R. Matthews, English flier who is attempting a solo flight to Australia, took off at ten o'clock this morning for Aleppo, Syria. He arrived here from Sofia, last night.

WAPPING

The new degree team of the Wapping Grange held its first rehearsal last Tuesday evening at the Wapping-parish house and the refreshment committee met at the home of Mrs. W. W. Grant for the next meeting, Tuesday evening also.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barton of Southern Pine, S. C., were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Burnham. Mr. and Mrs. William Willis Sherwood of Arizona are their guests this week.

The work on the road between East Windsor Hill and Wapping is progressing quite rapidly. It will soon be completed and will be a fine road.

There was a good attendance at the first fall meeting of the Federated Workers which was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Donald Grant with Mrs. G. Walker Smith as assistant-hostess.

At the business meeting the president, Mrs. John A. Collins, appointed Group No. 1 with Mrs. Donald Grant, chairman, to have charge of the supper in connection with Old Home Week celebration, October 4.

At the roll call each member responded by telling briefly something about her vacation.

Miss Doris Hutchinson of Manchester was the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Battey last Wednesday.

The next regular meeting of East Central Pomona Grange No. 3 will be held with Good Will Grange No. 127 and will be an evening meeting. There will be an address by Charles M. Gardner, High Priest of Demeter also saxophone solo by Kenneth Ellis of Hibernia vocal duet by Miss Agnes Miller and Miss Jennie Holten of Ellington, sketch, "The wedding of the Painted Doll," also music by Good Will Grange. The 5th degree will be conferred also.

GERMAN FLIERS HOME

Cuxhaven, Germany, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Captain Wolfgang von Gronau and his trans-Atlantic flying companions received an enthusiastic welcome on their arrival here today. A Dornier-Wal flying boat of the type in which the Germans crossed the sea met the liner and escorted it to the pier where the friends and families of the aviators formed the center of a tremendous crowd.

A public reception awaits the fliers in Berlin.

Almost 1,500 lampposts have been damaged in political disorders here. Youthful demonstrators used them as barricades against police and troops and smashed others for no discernible reason. Replacement cost of each post is about $150.

PRIZES AWARDED IN SCHOOL SHOW

Largest Exhibit of Kind is Staged at Hollister Street School Yesterday.

Children in the upper grades of districts 1 to 8 staged an exhibit of flowers and vegetables yesterday in the assembly hall at the Hollister street school. It was easily the largest show of its kind ever held in town by the juniors, and created much interest and enthusiasm among the different schools, all of whom were represented in the entries except the Keenev street school. The judges were Miss M. Alice Dowling, Miss Mary M. Young and Miss Ella R. Healey from the teaching staff. Their task was no easy one because of the number of entries in both flowers and vegetables, and the variety in both.

The awards were all in cash, which represented money earned by the pupils in the sale of penny packets of seeds and by school entertainments.

Miss Annetta Klee's room, 5th grade in the Hollister street school was awarded the prize of $2 for scoring the most points. Miss Mary Connor's room in the same school scored second and won one dollar. Miss Pearson's seventh grade in the Highland Park school, third. Barbara Fish of the same school was adjudged to be the pupil scoring the greatest number of points. She also received one dollar. Dorothy Hagenov of the Highland Park school was second and Edmund Shields of the Hollister street third.

ROCKVILLE

Lions To Meet
The next meeting of the Lions Club will be held on Wednesday, September 24. The speaker of the evening will be Rev. Carl Kepner, pastor of the Stafford Springs Congregational church, and formerly pastor in New York City, near the Bowery.

Mr. Kepner traveled in Europe in the year 1925, and made an extended visit in Russia, where he studied the background of the Russians, many of whom were members of his own parish in New York City. Mr. Kepner's talk is bound to be inspiring, and a large number will no doubt be on hand to enjoy this treat. The quartet will be an added attraction.

Hyde Renominated
At the Republican Senatorial convention held at Warren Memorial hall in Stafford Springs on Wednesday at 10:30 a. m., Robert E. Hyde, of Ellington, was re-nominated for Senator of the 35th Senatorial district of the State of Connecticut. Gardner Hall, of Ellington, was chairman of the convention, and J. Stanley McCray, of Rockville, was clerk.

Senator Hyde has served as senator for the past two years, during which time he was chairman of the committee on agriculture and a member of the committee on banks. Following his nomination by acclamation, Mr. Hyde addressed the convention briefly. Following the convention, Mr. Hyde entertained the delegates at dinner at the Stafford Springs House.

Dr. William L. Higgins, John T. McKnight and Myra L. Mix were re-appointed on the county committee.

Episcopal Church Services
On Sunday, St. Matthew's Day, services will be held as follows: 8 a. m., Holy Communion; 9:30, Church school; 10:45, morning prayer, Litany and sermon.

Next Wednesday evening, meetings of Warden and Vestry committees and Thursday evening, Silver Cross meeting.

Union Church Services
Services will be held on Sunday at Union Congregational church as follows: 9:30, Church school; 10:30, morning worship and sermon; 12 noon, Friendly Class for adults; 6 p. m., Christian Endeavor and the subject for discussion will be, "Is Education Worth the Cost?"

Baptist Church
Service 10:30, morning worship with sermon; 12 o'clock, Church school; 6:15, C. E. meeting; 7 p. m., evening service.

Emblem Whist
The Emblem club held a whist on Wednesday afternoon in the Elks' club on Prospect street. There was a large crowd present. Bridge prizes were won by: First, Mrs. O. C. Peterson, of Rockville; second, Mrs. H. D. Pater, of South Manchester, and third by Mrs. John Cannon, of Rockville. Whist was also played and prize was won by Mrs. Annie Willeke of this city.

Pythian Sisters
Following the business meeting of the Pythian Sisters to be held on Monday evening, whist will be enjoyed by the members.

Eastern Star Whist
The social club of Hope Chapter of Eastern Star will hold a whist on Tuesday afternoon, September 23, at 2:30 in the Chapter rooms.

All who plan to attend the District meeting of the Rebekahs, which will be held in Glastonbury on September 24, are asked to get in touch with Vice-Grand Emma Lisik not later than Monday, in order that Mrs. Lisik may arrange for transportation.

On Tuesday evening, September 23, there will be a regular meeting of Mayflower Rebekah Lodge, and the Noble Grand wishes a good attendance as the plans for the winter will be talked over, and also arrangements will be made for the anniversary which will be held in the near future.

Funeral
Of interest to many in this city is the death of Thomas Scanlon, who was married some years ago in Rockville to Miss Julia Dowling, sister of Mrs. John Gordon of South Manchester. Mr. Scanlon died on Friday and was buried on Tuesday from St. Leo's church in Dorchester. Burial was in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Scanlon is survived by a daughter from a former marriage, Mrs. Edward Spellman, of Belmont, and one son, Thomas Scanlon, of Dorchester.

Locals
Miss Celia Kelmolise of Hartford was the guest of her parents on Wednesday.

Mrs. Emil Spielman of Windermere avenue is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. William Day, of Norwich. A daughter was born on Tuesday morning to Mr. and Mrs. William Day of Norwich. Mrs. Day was formerly Miss Viola Spielman of this city.

A daughter was born on Tuesday at the Rockville City hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lutz of West Main street.

Mayflower Rebekah Lodge will meet on Tuesday evening, September 23. Following the meeting there will be a social hour and refreshments.

OFFICIAL TRANSFERRED
Hartford, Sept. 19.—(AP)—With the abandonment of Waterbury division headquarters of the N.Y.N.H. & H. railroad, to take effect Sept. 23, it was announced today, Carl F. Mitchell, for many years division superintendent at Hartford will be transferred to Boston headquarters, where he will occupy a similar position.

TAKE APPEALS
Hartford, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The attorney general has been advised of two appeals from rulings of the state highway commissioner, John Macdonald, by property owners in Norwalk, in the taking of lands for the alteration and relocation of the Norwalk-Pound Ridge road in that section. Norma Pearl Evington and Frank H. James have appealed.

WOMAN SKIP DRIVER

Norwalk, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Miss Florence Northrop of 18 Washington street, Danbury, will face charges of evading responsibility and reckless driving in City Court here Monday, as the result of an automobile accident last night in which two Norwalk boys were injured. Her machine mounted the sidewalk in Winfield street and struck Donald Wagner, 7, and Donald Bell, 8, of the same street. Although neither was seriously hurt both suffered painful injuries to the legs.

The woman did not stop but a passing motorist chased her car and secured its registration, which she turned over to Officer Charles Wagner, father of one of the boys. The Danbury police informed Miss Northrop that she was wanted in Norwalk and she returned to this city to be booked on the two charges.

ABOUT TOWN

Edward Markley of Rosemary Place left this morning for Brookline, Mass. Tomorrow he will resume his studies at Tufts college in Medford which is nearby. Markley is a graduate of the local high school.

Manchester's interest in the crucial baseball series between Brooklyn and St. Louis is attested by the large crowds that stand in front of Main street store windows the past three days listening to the play by play description of the games coming over the air from Station WOR at Newark. Brooklyn's lack of headway against the Cards was a source of disappointment to F. T. Elish, Jr., who takes in the world's series each fall. If the Robins fall now, Mr. Elish will have to go to Philadelphia as he did last year.

Miss Ruth Behrend of Walnut street will resume her studies at Tufts college next week. Miss Behrend is a member of the college varsity tennis team.

Miss Helen Crawford of Hamlin street who has been employed in the Aetna (Fire) Insurance Company at Hartford for the past four years, received notice this morning of her appointment as secretary to Harry Tomlinson, assistant secretary of that company. Mr. Tomlinson who is widely known in insurance circles has been employed by the Aetna for the past twenty years, serving for a number of years in the capacity of Agency Supervisor and was recently elected to position of Assistant Secretary.

Teachers of the Salvation Army Sunday school will meet promptly at 7 o'clock this evening for the teacher-training class. Adjutant Heard who will conduct the study hopes for a full attendance.

A rehearsal of the comedy "Twelve Old Maids" will take place this evening at 7:30 at Odd Fellows hall.

Principal Mabel Lanphear of the Manchester Green school will spend the week-end at her cottage on the Willimantic campgrounds.

Rev. George S. Brookes of the Union Congregational church of Rockville will be the guest speaker this evening at the Luther League church. The Epworth Leagues of the North and South Methodist churches have been invited to attend. Refreshments and a social time will follow the program.

The Manchester Green Community club will hold its regular meeting this evening in the Green school hall.

RADIOPHONE TESTS

The Hague, Netherlands, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A wireless telephone conversation between the Hague and Dutch East Indies was under tests here today for the purpose of transforming spoken words to an unintelligible state and then retransferring them upon receipt so that they might be understood by the hearer.

The experiments were intended to prevent eavesdropping by outsiders on private radiophone talks, a practice which has been the cause of complaint in Europe and America. The experimenters claimed their efforts had met with success.

DRY IS FOR CROSS

Hartford, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Allen B. Lincoln of Ashford, former member of the Legislature, and prominent Republican dry, announced today that he would support Dean Wilbur L. Cross, Democratic nominee, for governor. Cross government and not prohibition is the issue of the campaign, says Mr. Lincoln, "and any candidate who by his election will rid the State of such control, as I verily believe that Dean Cross is honest and sincere in his intention to do, will be a public benefactor."

FLIERS BACK HOME FROM LONELY ISLE

Yancey and Two Companions Tell How Good Will Trip Finally Ended.

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Lewis Yancey and two companions, whose 20,000 mile flight over South America in a good will plane ended in a forced landing on a West Indies isle, came back to New York today aboard ship.

Captain Yancey, Co-Pilot Emil Burgin and Radio Operator Ze Bouck were downcast at the loss of their plane, which burned with all their clothing and souvenirs after it came down on Great Exuma Island. However, they expressed pride in the functioning of its radio equipment, with which during their South American pilgrimage they communicated frequently with United States cities.

Bouck said the plane had about 30 miles to go when the motor of their plane began "cutting" at a four-thousand-foot altitude. He sent out a "qualified S O S" which was picked up by the Pan-American station at Camaguay.

"Notify steamers?" asked the Pan-American operator. "We don't know. May make it," Bouck replied.

"Where are you now?" "Got ten minutes to go." "Hope you make it." "So do we."

His Last Call A minute later Bouck sent one more call saying the plane was over land, by that time its altitude was only 800 feet and sinking fast. It turned over as it landed, and the fliers barely got out of the wreckage when fire broke out. From Great Exuma island the fliers made their way to the Bahamas in a sailing boat, then went by boat to Miami and boarded the liner Mohawk which brought them home today.

They had been gone since May 14, when they took off from Curtis Field on a flight which took them to most of the major cities of South America.

TOLLAND

Rev. George Smith Brown of Mapleville, R. I., was a recent guest of relatives.

Miss Dorothy Leonard daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonard of Tolland avenue, will leave next week for Mt. Ida, Mass., where she will take up secretarial studies the coming school year.

A special meeting of the Library Association will be held in the library rooms Monday afternoon Oct. 6th to adopt the amendment to the new by-laws.

Miss Julia Young received fruit, flowers and a shower of birthday cards, in honor of her birthday last Saturday, Sept. 18, besides a host of callers offering congratulations.

Many from Tolland have visited the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., this week.

The Selectmen and Town Clerk will meet at the Town Hall on September 20, 1930 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. (standard time) for the purpose of making voters.

Miss Helen Meacham will leave Friday for Troy, N. Y., to take up her second years studies at the Russell Sage Foundation College.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Preston Meacham have as guest Mrs. Preston's mother, Mrs. Weismuller of Groton, Conn.

Tuesday evening a disabled airplane landed on the large open field belonging to James Szabo of Skunmagung district. After making necessary repairs the machine left the field Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mason and Mrs. Walter Pearson of Hartford were guests of relatives Tuesday.

James W. Galavin, Miss Mary and Margaret Galavin have returned from an extensive automobile tour, visiting Boston, Plymouth to the end of Cape Cod to Provincetown and back through Worcester, home, covering over 500 miles.

James Galavin who exhibited ten floral pieces at the Connecticut Horticultural society recently held in Hartford, brought home eight first prizes and two seconds. His Tolland friends wish to congratulate him on his fine success.

The funeral services of Robert Jamieson age 75 years was held from his late home, West Bridge, Snipic District Thursday afternoon at 7 o'clock with Rev. M. E. Osborne pastor of the Rockville Methodist church officiating. Interment was in Grove Hill cemetery. Mr. Jamieson died Monday evening after a long illness. Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson came to this country in 1906 and have resided in Tolland thirteen years. Besides his wife he leaves one son Robert Jamieson, who has the sympathy of the community in their sorrow.

VICTIM IDENTIFIED

Newbury, Mass., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Police today identified as one of the two men killed here last night when their truck was struck by a Boston and Maine railroad train as George Rohlslein, 18, of Malden.

Rohlslein, Police said, was operating the machine, which was heavily laden with poultry, for Barnett Cohen of Malden. The second man they believed to have been a hiker picked up by Rohlslein.

The truck was demolished by the collision, the train derailed, although no one on board was injured, and hundreds of chickens and eggs killed.

CARPENTERS QUIT WORK ON NEW STATE OFFICE

Hartford, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Carpenters and ironworkers today were fighting for the right to install metal window frames in the new state office which is under construction.

J. Henry Miller, of Baltimore, the contractor has ruled that the ironworkers are better qualified for this work. The carpenters, however, feel they should be designated for the work. When Miller ruled against them, 75 union carpenters were called off the job yesterday. It is believed that the National headquarters of the carpenters and ironworkers unions will be asked to settle the dispute.

Edward J. Vaughn, civil engineer in charge of the state supervision of the construction said that the state would not intervene in the controversy and predicted that it would be settled by the unions by Monday.

FITZMAURICE HELD UP BY IMMIGRATION AGENTS

New York, Sept. 19.—(AP).—Major James Fitzmaurice, who flew from Ireland to Greenley Island in the Bremen with Koehl and Von Huenefeld two years ago, was detained by immigration authorities today on the steamer Reliance as he arrived from a visit in Europe.

Major Fitzmaurice returned to this country last year under a six-month visitor's permit after resigning his post in the Irish Air Service. Last March he secured a six-month extension, which expires Oct. 22.

When he left recently for Europe he was under the impression that his visitor's passport still was good and did not secure a new one.

It was believed the Department of Labor would issue him a new passport extension, which expires Oct. 22, in the custody of friends in the meantime. He was not forced to go to Ellis Island but remained aboard the Reliance as the guest of Captain Conrad Luck.

DANBURY FIRE

Danbury, Sept. 19.—(AP).—The families of Frank A. Prinder and Michael Valcano were driven from their homes in their night clothes when fire damaged the house at 13 Starr avenue early this morning. Damage estimated at $1,000 was caused.

BAN UNSAFE CARS

New Jersey has before it a measure calling for compulsory periodic inspection of all cars to enable highway authorities to ban unsafe cars from the roads. Certificates of approval will be issued to owners of satisfactory autos.

There are 8600 Canadians who cross into the United States daily to work in this country.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Explains Poor Mileage

Defective or poor seating needle valves are the direct cause of a considerable amount of carburetor trouble. Usually the motorist assumes that it is simply a case of his engine being a gas eater.

Not all carburetors operate on the needle valve principle for the metering of fuel, but where this popular design is used the owner will find a small handle for the valve turning to the right (or screwing in) results in restricting the amount of gasoline that can be sucked into the carburetor body. Just because this valve is fairly light, however, is no reason to assume that the gas has been cut down sufficiently.

If the valve is cut or if the seat is damaged too much gas will get by. This is the equivalent of running on too rich a mixture which has its numerous pitfalls.

Usually the trouble can be cured by using a new needle.

Tires May Equalize Brakes

In cases where it is extremely difficult to obtain equalization of braking force on the rear wheels safety can be assured by the simple process of deflating the rear tire of the wheel that does not brake effectively enough.

Where there is such fine shading in braking ability any variation in tire pressure will also be noticed. The tire that is inflated the least naturally has greater traction, provided its tread matches that of the other tire.

With balloon tires now carrying higher pressures than when first introduced there is danger of under-inflating one of them by carrying it a little lower than the other.

It is important, however, to be sure that the inequality in braking is constant, before adopting any such plan.

Watching the Windows

Windows are important things and the motorist who knows how essential it is to be able to raise or lower them in an emergency makes an effort to give them the attention they require occasionally.

Ordinarily the lifting mechanism needs no lubricating, but it is sometimes necessary to squirt a few drops of oil over it when the glass is lowered. One reason why window mechanism runs stiff is because it isn't used enough. Running the windows up and down a few times usually frees them.

A little graphite run in the channels of the windows will help keep the glass sliding up and down easily. No lubricating in connection with the windows, however, should be excessive since this will encourage the glass panes to drop of their own accord just enough to be annoying in a rain storm.

Wear Valves Alignment

One of the most unsatisfactory situations in car ownership is the adjustment that refuses to stay put, and front wheel alignment frequently falls into this category.

Why?

That is a question that puzzles many an owner, yet the explanation is simple enough when one takes into account the matter of wear on the wheel bearings, the connections of the tie rod and particularly the king pins and their bushings. Even though the wheels may be adjusted for proper alignment actual use of

Province of Blind

Malatia, Turkey.—The town of the blind, Adiyaman is called it is one of Turkey's stormy eastern provinces and lays in the dust and sand of the desert. Out of a population of 7000, only 209 can see, the others being wholly or partially blind through the ravages of the disease "trachoma." The town is one of desolation, no one laughing or enjoying amusements. The tap, tap, of blind persons making their way through the city is the only sound heard.

How's She Hitting?

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

Science Editor, NEA Service

On the return from a long trip the car needs a general cleaning and oiling.

The road is none too kind to any automobile, especially after several days of constant touring without a minute's attention. The body squeaks, the chassis frame is loose, the engine is noisy and the car itself is full of dirt and grime.

It is therefore good practice not only to have the body cleaned, but to check over all running parts, to tighten up all body and chassis bolts and see that all joints are well greased.

Dust gets into the cracks and openings of the automobile and accumulates to a startling degree on any sort of journey. The dry dirt roads we meet on almost any long trip throw up great quantities of this dust that creeps into the crankcase, into the transmission housing and into the carburetor.

This dust must be cleaned out. The oil in the crankcase should be changed and before new oil is put in a quart of thin fresh oil should be used to flush it out.

New heavy oil or grease should be put into the transmission and rear housing, especially if the car has been run a few thousand miles without a change.

To be sure of a thorough cleaning, the engine also should be washed with gasoline or kerosene, or under steam pressure.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Haste and Grin Smile, and the world smiles with you. "Knock," and you go it alone. For the cheerful grin will let you in. Where the knocker is never known. Growl, and the way looks dreary; Laugh and the path is bright. For a welcome smile brings sunshine, while a frown shuts out the light. Sigh, and you "rake in" nothing. Work, and the prize is won. For the nifty man with backbone can by nothing be outdone. Sing, and the world's harmonious; Grumble, and things go wrong. And all the time you are out of rime with the busy, hustling throng. Kick, and there's trouble brewing. Whistle, and life is gay. And the world's in tune like a day in June. And the clouds all melt away.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

Some girls say: "If the shoe fits, take it off and get one smaller."

The dog is a friend who has nothing to give but love but he never tires of giving that. The minister announced to his congregation, "Please bring the following books with you next Sunday, your Bible, hymn book and pocket book." Bilious Bill calls his new sweetie Dauntless, because she keeps saying, "Oh, Dauntless, do this and Dauntless do that." She—I certainly would like to get something to stop those mosquito bites. He—Have you tried clothing? When mad a woman gets relief by crying, a man by cursing. Two heads are better than one but not if they're on the same pin. A home is as comfortable as it's furniture. Give your wife an easy chair for YOU to sit in. Who, my friends, remembers the old-time, small-town girl who thought when she was kissed that she was engaged? You have perhaps observed that many a young girl would be willing to trust her whole life to a young man who the butcher wouldn't trust for a dime's worth of liver. Mother—Johnny, I told you to give sister her choice of those apples. How does it come she has the smallest one? Did she choose that one? Johnny—Yes, mother, she did. I told her she could have her choice, that one or none, so she chose that one. Strange, but the woman will not wear her short dresses any longer because the style is now to wear them longer. "Sometimes, a man loses his hearing in a liquor case." And sometimes he loses his sight in a case of liquor. She—A woman can keep a secret if she will! He—I agree. But it is very difficult to find a woman who will. He—Why don't you like spaghetti? Another He—Because Washington advised that we avoid all foreign entanglements. If one takes care of his usefulness his greatness will take care of itself.

OBLIGING "Every Sunday we go fishing," complained the young wife. "and you know I hate fish." "Well," said her husband, surveying the empty basket, "I catch as few as possible."—Tit-Bits.

MIGHT WANT TO First Convict: Well, now that I've got this hole dug in the wall, I'm going home to my wife. Second Convict: Better take your tools with you, in case you wanta break back in.—Pathfinder.

THRILLING Agatha: Weren't you thrilled when you looked down into the depths of the Grand Canyon? Amantha: Yes, the guide had his arms around me.—Pathfinder.

RECOLLECTIONS Elderly Gentleman: Can you do any of the old-fashioned dances Sweet Young Thing? I think I remember the Charleston.—Passing Show.

HOPING Husband (reading poem): You don't seem to be interested in this. Wife: Of course I am, dear. Is it very much longer?—Answers.

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The Tinies' game of golf was queer, and Mister Travel Man stayed near to watch the little fellows drive and putt. He often had to grin. Said Cobby, "Gee, I know my stuff. I'm very seldom in the rough, and when I reach the green I promptly putt the ball right in." "Sometimes you do," snapped Carpy, "but I've seen you miss an easy putt. Don't brag about your golf because you're not so very good. Why, I know more about this game than you. 'Twill really be a shame how badly I will beat you. And, of course, that's as I should." The Travel Man then spread a grin and said, "I hope you all can win, but, really, what's the difference? It is real fun, just the same. Why, I've played golf year after year and lost, but never shed a tear. If you can win or lose and laugh, it is a dandy game." They finished with their game and then rushed up and hopped a small train when the Travel Man said, "Now we'll go to Zurich. What a spot! I know you've liked St. Moritz well and you will find the next town swell. You'll have another spell of wondrous pleasure, like as not." The train kept chugging hours and hours. They traveled through a couple of showers and then out in the sun again. A rainbow streamed the sky. "Here's Zurich," cried the Travel Man. "All hop right out now, if you can. You all seemed interested—and I thought we'd ride right by." "Course Zurich was a big resort where everybody went for sport. The first thing that the Tinies did was loudly shout, 'Let's go and find a boat which we can take right out upon that lovely lake.' They shortly found the boat and all went out for quite a row. (The Tinymites attend a water carnival in the next story.)

Hale's Underwear—Main Floor, rear

CREPE STOCKINGS $1.50

Many smart moderns wear nothing but crepe stockings as they look so sheer and give the legs a slim appearance. The silk is twisted to give longer wear and they come in the smart dull finish. Pure silk from tip-toe with French heels. All smart Fall tones.
