Bodies of Dirigible's Crew Are Placed in Mortuary at Westminster Abbey; Public Services to be Held.

London, Oct. 8.—(AP)—All England entered today upon a period of mourning which will have its official close when the bodies of the R-101 victims are taken to Cardington for burial on Friday after a public memorial at St. Paul's Cathedral.

All day guards paced silently to and fro before the rows of coffins in the mortuary under the shadow of brief moment before dawn when the dead of the wrecked dirigible were brought home from the scene of their fate. Through the chill hours of a stormy morning the victims were taken from the destroyer "Tempest" at Dover, entrained for London and well after three o'clock, were borne from Victoria station to their temporary resting place.

Many Pay Tribute
Many persons came during the day to view the memorable sight, while mere passers-by before the mortuary raised their hats in homage to the dead within.

Shortly before noon formalities connected with the disaster were resumed when Coroner Ingley Oddie, of Westminster, began his inquest. The proceedings were purely preliminary, no identification evidence being taken. The coroner said he would adjourn the inquiry until completion of the report of a tribunal of investigation which is to be put into action soon by the air ministry. The provisional adjournment was until Nov. 15 with the understanding that if the work of the statutory tribunal was not then completed there would be a still further delay in the inquest.

It was understood that the members of the government's court of inquiry would not be named until a new secretary for air had been appointed to replace Lord Thomson, who died in the destruction of the R-101 in France early Sunday. The consideration was probable that the appointment of a new air minister would be made in a few days.

CHIEF OF POLICE KILLED BY THIEVES

Two of Bandits Shot and Two Policemen Wounded in Desperate Battle.

Murphy, N. C., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Mack Carringer, chief of police of Murphy, was shot to death and five other policemen wounded, three perhaps fatally, early today in a gun battle with three men suspected of robbing the post office at Coker Creek, Tenn.

Two of the suspected post office robbers were shot down and are not expected to recover. They are Walter Bryson, shot through the chest, and Jeff McPherson, wounded in the head and abdomen. McPherson said he was from Kentucky. Bryson's residence was not learned. The third suspect escaped. Police said he was wounded.

Patrolman George Leatherwood, 35, was shot through the right lung and Patrolman Burt Savage in the arm.

Notified of Robbery
Late last night, C. C. Linderman, postmaster at Coker Creek, telephoned Carringer the postoffice had been robbed by three men and asked him to watch for the trio. With three patrolmen, the police chief went to the west edge of Murphy where an automobile answering the description given by the postmaster of the robbers' car later appeared.

The car was halted and Carringer began to question its occupants. The patrolman said one of the three men in the automobile then pulled a pistol and shot the chief. The gun battle followed.

Toby Fain, policeman, was the only one of the seven engaging in the battle to escape unhurt.

Dogs were placed on the trail of the suspected robber who ran from the scene.

Linderman told Carringer over the telephone that the three men who robbed his combined store and postoffice carried him bound and gagged nine miles into the country and tied him to a tree. He said he loosened his bonds after an hour and reached the telephone.

AUXILIARY NOMINATIONS
Boston, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Mr. Ruth McCurdy Brown of Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. Wilma W. Hoyal of Douglas, Ariz., were nominated as candidates for national president of the American Legion Auxiliary here today.

The convention authorized the offering of an annual trophy to the department doing the most outstanding work.

U. S. MAY LOAN CHINA SILVER TO AID PEACE

Senate Committee After Long Survey Says Plan Will Not Only Pacify China But Will Stabilize Trade.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Recommendation for an international loan of several hundred million ounces of silver to China is under consideration by the Senate subcommittee on foreign relations, it was revealed here today by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, its chairman.

The loan, he said, would be a means of stabilizing Oriental trade and the pacification of China.

Addressing the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce, he reported the tentative findings of the subcommittee which has held hearings in Washington and principal Pacific coast cities on commercial relations with China. Testimony of bankers, manufacturers, exporters, importers and others familiar with the political and commercial history of China was heard.

To Pacify China
"The committee is considering the recommendation, through its report to the Senate, of a plan to pacify China, finance the National government, and place the 450,000,000 Chinese people in the peaceful pursuit of industry rather than the destructive enterprise of war," Senator Pittman said. "Some constructive action is essential, because our exports to China, including wheat, lumber, automobiles and other manufactures, have fallen off over 50 per cent in the last seven or eight months."

"The plan anticipates the joint action of China, Great Britain, France, Japan, the United States and other interested governments. A fund would be organized by such governments, making available several million ounces of silver to be advanced to the Chinese National government as and when needed for peaceful purposes as approved by joint commission of such lending powers.

"The agreement would probably have to contain provisions that would bring the four dominant world powers into the control of the National government over the whole of China, the opening up of the vast interior and the revivification of all industry."

"Such an accomplishment, so these witnesses testify, would increase our commerce with China tenfold, would consume almost immediately our entire surplus of wheat and would greatly reduce our surplus of lumber, automobiles and other goods of silver."

COMMUNIST HORDE RAVAGING CHINA

Report 75,000 Reds in Kiangsi Province — Important City Burned, Looted.

Shanghai, Oct. 8.—(AP)—South Kiangsi province is being ravaged today by a Communist horde numbering 75,000.

Forty thousand Reds were reported to have captured and burned the important city of Kiang and to have taken numerous smaller cities in the vicinity. The fate of the inhabitants was not determined.

Numerous British missionaries are active in the Kiang area and so Americans are believed to be there.

Smaller numbers of well armed Communists were within ten miles of South Nanchang, increasing the tension in Nanchang, the provincial capital.

Signs of Red activity in Kiangsi appeared about a week ago when the Chinese Communist army was reported moving into that province from Hunan. Red forces a few weeks previously had looted and burned a large section of Changsha, Hunan capital.

Defense trenches were hurriedly thrown up about Nanchang which fears arose that the 40,000 Reds would attack the capital. There were 2,000 troops available for its defense. American and British residents were said to be anxious to leave Changsha in the face of a continued Red menace but could not do so because of the low level of the Siang river had prevented boats from reaching the city. The river offers virtually the only route of transportation to Yangtze ports.

Legionnaires Condemn Red Activities in U. S.

Boston, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Resolutions condemning Communist activity in the United States and retreating acts of vandalism by hoodlums during the presence of Legionnaires in the city, were adopted at the opening of today's session of the National convention of the American Legion.

The delegates had gathered at the hall more than an hour later after day and a night of riotous hilarity yesterday during which hoodlums had tipped over and otherwise damaged automobiles and committed other disorders.

The disorders occurred after the parade in which there were about 70,000 in line.

The resolution pertaining to Communist activity in this country and report to Congress with recommendations for legislation and urged "appropriate legislation to end all Communist activities subversive to our form of government."

BUSINESS NOW IS IMPROVING REPORTS SHOW

Surveys Made All Over World Show Trend for Better Conditions; Steady, Slow Progress is Reported

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—A trend "toward economic improvement in many countries of Europe and the Far East" was declared by the Commerce Department today to be shown in special surveys from its representatives there. Conditions in South America were reported unchanged.

"Steady slow progress continues in the Irish Free State; there has been a reduction in the unfavorable trade balance, but agriculture is reported affected by excessive rains," the summary said.

"Italian business showed somewhat greater optimism, based on the belief that depression has passed; unemployment is greater than at this time last year, but increased work on government managed improvement schemes is expected in the fall.

"Conditions in Czechoslovakia are steady, but carloadings have increased and losses from failures diminished; crop yields were generally satisfactory."

In Norway
"A surplus in Norwegian government accounts for the past fiscal year reflects improved economic conditions.

"No amelioration has occurred in British trade conditions and the lack of business confidence in New Zealand has been noted by the government outlook; unemployment has increased further.

In South Africa
"Greater optimism has developed in South African mercantile circles but basic conditions are unchanged.

"The industrial situation in New Zealand remains firm but the codfish catch and market have failed to improve, causing a decrease in purchasing power.

"Conditions in Europe are increasingly difficult. Good crops has failed to improve general economic conditions.

"Heavy rains in Argentina have affected further improvement in the cereal and livestock output.

"Cotton spinning and weaving activity in Japan has increased slightly in response to better conditions in China. Shanghai's cotton situation foundered recently and the situation in North China and Manchuria is also stronger."

GOURAUD REVIEWS OUR PART IN WAR

Famous French General Talks at Legion Convention—Brings Greeting.

Boston, Oct. 8.—(AP)—General Henri Gouraud, "Lion of the Somme," and France's representative at the American Legion convention in session here, reviewed the history of strife through which his nation and the United States had fought hand in hand in an address before the convention today.

He recalled his visit of seven years ago when the then governor of Massachusetts presented him with three flags, those of France, United States and Massachusetts, which now hang in his office in the Invalides. At that time he was the commander of the 42nd (Rainbow) Division.

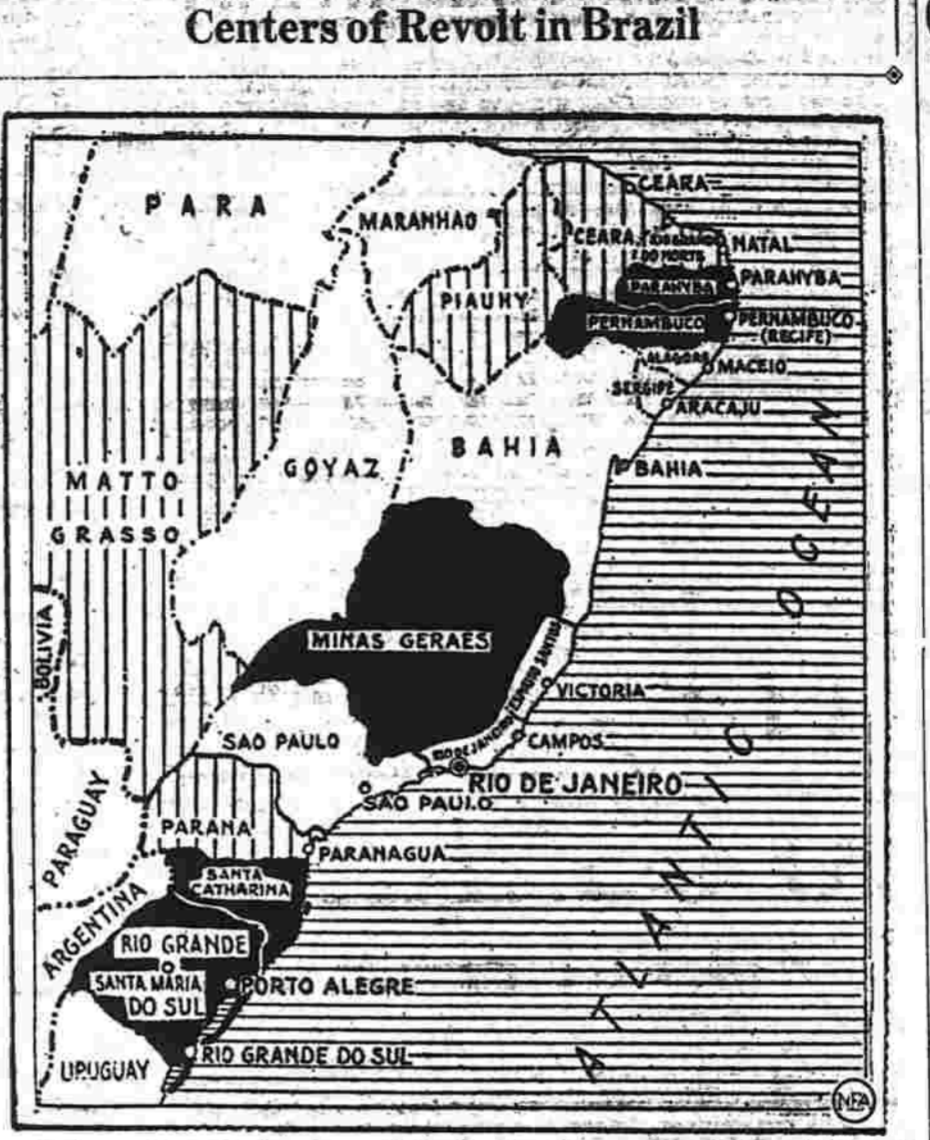

Brings Greetings
The general brought the greetings of Marshal Petain, whose duties he explained, had prevented him from being present. He added, "and had it been God's will, I should have brought to you the same sentiments from your great friend, Marshal Foch."

BRAZILIAN CITIES FALL INTO HANDS OF REBELS

Centers of revolutionary activity in Brazil are indicated on this map. The "black" states of Minas Geraes, Santa Catarina, Rio Grande do Sul, Pernambuco and Parahyba, comprising one-eighth of the country's area and 38 per cent of its population, were definitely known to have fallen into rebel hands in the early stages of the revolt. The lightly shaded states of Parana, Mato Grosso, Ceara and Piauhay were claimed by the revolutionists. A large rebel contingent was reported to be marching against Sao Paulo, a strategic point; 40 locomotives and 400 freight cars were assembled at Santa Maria for the transportation of revolutionary forces; and, to the north, the surrender of the metropolis of Recife, with a population of 250,000, was declared by rebel leaders to be imminent.

Conflicting Reports Confuse the Situation in South America — Government Says That With Exception of Rio Grande do Sul, All is Quiet — Rebels Say Hard Fighting is Progressing and That They Have Captured Pernambuco and Other Cities.

By Associated Press
Conflicting reports as to the progress of the revolution in Brazil were received today from Rio de Janeiro and from the Rebel headquarters at Porto Alegre.

Dispatches from Rio de Janeiro asserted that with the exception of the State of Rio Grande do Sul, the government was expected soon to dominate the entire country.

At the same time a Rebel communique issued at Porto Alegre reported the capture of the northern cities of Pernambuco and Natal and important acquisitions of strength in southern Brazil.

REBELS' REPORT
Buenos Aires, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Rebel leaders today laid claim to having consolidated their position in northern Brazil, particularly in the region of the important city of Pernambuco and in the State of Parahyba.

A rebel communique made public in Porto Alegre, key city of Rio Grande do Sul, which has been in the hands of the insurgents for the past few days, said that Pernambuco was captured after a 24-hour struggle.

The communique was as follows: "General Tavora at the head of 8,000 men has captured Recife (Pernambuco) after an assault aided by the brave population of Parahyba. A convoy composed of 100 automobiles and trucks left Parahyba carrying police of Parahyba who in the combat at Recife showed extraordinary bravery in attacking machine gunners and cavalry composed of 500 men.

Hard Fighting
"The battle was hard fought, lasting 24 hours and resulted in a complete victory. The people, wild with joy, paraded through the streets singing."

"Doctor Carlos Lima Cavalcanti has taken charge of the government at Pernambuco. The newspapers of Natal, owned by Deputy Pessoa Queiroz and the Provincia, official organ, were burned. Factories and residences belonging to the family of Pessoa Queiroz were also burned."

"The populace put to death by lynching the assassins of Joao Pessoa."

"The president of the State of Pernambuco Estacio Coimbra fled before the end of the fight, embarking on the vessel Itanagra for the north.

President Flies
"Natal fell into our hand without firing a single shot due to the precipitate flight of rebel troops to the State of Rio Grande do Norte aboard the same boat, Itanagra."

"Some columns of Parahyba troops invaded the interior of Ceara while other columns of police and soldiers are preparing to invade the interior of Pernambuco and attack Alagoas and Bahia."

"Our forces in taking Recife seized 20,000 carts (about 2,000) as well as arms and munitions."

National Telegraph in Fortaleza, Recife, Natal and Theresina is in constant communication with us, reporting revolutionary columns proceeding into the interior toward the northeast.

"Some suburbs of Pernambuco were taken by forces from Parahyba who broke up the Pernambuco troops, who lost numbers of cavalry officers."

"The government of Parahyba requisitioned private transport facilities, raising 400 trucks to carry police, soldiers and civilians to Ceara, Alagoas and Bahia."

"The revolutionists seized San Vicente and other towns of Pernambuco and are organizing revolutionary juntas."

FEDERAL REPORTS
Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The Federal government today was swinging into full activity all of its resources to combat the revolutionary movements in northern and southern Brazil.

With the exception of the state of Rio Grande do Sul reports made public today said, the Federal government should soon be in a position to dominate everywhere in the country.

Volunteer battalions for government service are being formed especially in the state of Sao Paulo where requisitioned troops at state police are being withdrawn for active service.

FREE TRADE IS URGED BY BRITISH DOMINIONS

Issue Placed Squarely Before Imperial Conference at London; Canada and Australia Lead Discussion.

London, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The issue of free trade today was placed squarely before the Imperial Conference by the premiers of the Dominions.

Prime Minister Bennett, of Canada, opened today's session with a proposal of dominion preferences designed to protect British trade and that of his own people. The issue was followed closely by Premier Scullin, of Australia, who declared that the Dominions already had accepted to a large extent the principle of imperial preferential tariffs.

Premier Scullin declared "the

MACINTOSH CASE AGAIN IN COURT

Highest Tribunal Asked to Refuse Citizenship to University Professor.

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The Supreme Court was asked today by Solicitor General Thacher to prevent Rev. Douglas Clyde Macintosh a Canadian, from obtaining American citizenship.

In 1909, Dr. Macintosh joined the Yale University faculty. He was a Canadian chaplain in the war.

In 1919, he made a second declaration in Connecticut of intention to become an American citizen. Examined for his papers and asked whether he would take up arms in defense of this country, he replied: "Yes, but I should want to be free to judge of the necessity."

The Federal Court denied him naturalization, holding the reply indicated he was "not attached to the principles of the Constitution."

Ruling Reversed
The Second Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the ruling and ordered him admitted to citizenship. Solicitor General Thacher, asking a Supreme Court review, asserted it opened the way "for the creation of a class of citizens who reserve to themselves the right to determine whether any future war in which the United States is involved deserves their moral support and justifies their taking up arms in defense of the United States."

He declared the ruling, if permitted to stand, would be particularly harmful, "because of the large alien population residing in the Second District," which includes New York state.

BIG FREIGHT DERAILLED

New Haven, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Three cars of a 98 car freight train bound for the Cedar Hill freight yards were derailed here today. The tracks were damaged and the signal system put out of commission. Passenger traffic was not seriously retarded.

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for October were $3,664,605.53; expenditures $3,148,839.37; balance $254,819,682.51.

TOWN REPRESENTED IN LEGION'S PARADE

Local Group Tired But Happy After Great Experience in Boston.

Naturally they got a first hand view of that parade. Following the "40 and 8" demonstration there was a monster fireworks exhibition on the Charles River. Those Legionnaires who witnessed this spectacle say it was the finest of the kind ever.

The various night clubs and cabarets got their quota of the local marching unit and two of the local men absolutely refused to pay a cover charge they considered exorbitant. They were not thrown out but invited to stay and enjoy themselves.

The first question asked of those Legionnaires who went to Boston has been "How about prohibition?" The answer to that can best be given by telling the experiences of two of the local men.

In Special Cars The bulk of this town's marching unit went to Boston Monday afternoon in three Pullman cars attached to the regular afternoon express.

Arriving in Boston at 5:40 in the afternoon the Legionnaires first thought was of food. The entire unit separated into small parties and then started out to "do Boston."

"40 and 8" Parade The feature of Monday night in Boston was the "40 and 8" parade. Like all "40 and 8" affairs noise was the big objective.

Early yesterday morning the marchers and the band got out of their trains and hiked to their position in line. Before leaving South Station the local men spotted Rudy Valle who was with one of the Maine units.

Two Hours March The Manchester group arrived at Marlborough and Hartford streets at 10 yesterday morning. They were directly behind the Hartford group. It was 1:20 yesterday afternoon before the local unit started marching.

In the meantime the Manchester fellows rested on the lawn in the vicinity or went one block down to Arlington street to watch the head of the monster parade. They completed their march at 3:15 yesterday afternoon.

The parade itself started at 10:15 yesterday morning and the last group fell out just before nine o'clock last night. It was estimated that 30,000 were in line representing 10,700 Legion posts. The number of bands in line exceeded 400.

Local People Cheer All along the line of march—and it was a long one as the sore feet and legs of the Legionnaires attest today—cries of "Hello, Manchester" were heard. Invariably the marchers could see the shouting onlookers and recognize people from home.

Though the march was long and the task a wearying one not a single Legionnaire would today sacrifice the experience of marching by the cheering millions of people. It was a gorgeous sight—the parade itself—but even more gorgeous was the sight of the cheering throngs the marching Legionnaires saw.

Last night many of the marchers came home on the six o'clock express and others came on the excursion train. Still others remained until today. One could go on forever recounting the many interesting events that happened in the brief period at the Hub.

Miss Margaret Valuzzi of Center street was tendered a miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening at the home of her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valuzzi, of Oxford street. The guests were her associates at Cheney Brothers and they showered Miss Valuzzi with lovely gifts.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Martha B. Hill. The funeral of Mrs. Martha B. Hill of St. Lawrence street was held yesterday afternoon at the home at 2 o'clock and at the Miss Concordia church at 2:30 with Rev. H. O. Weber officiating.

Mrs. Elizabeth Veitch of Church street is confined to her bed by illness, and owing to her condition her son James and his wife have deferred returning to their home in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Grading of the grounds of the Hollister street school was started this morning by the Manchester Sand and Gravel Company. It is planned to cut away the back fronting the school on Hollister street using the material to fill the East side of the grounds, bringing the lot to the street grade.

Charles McCarthy, Rockville insurance man, went to Boston to ride the Legion parade yesterday. He took a train here, leaving his car, carefully locked and with closed windows, on Depot Square. Late last night he returned but the car keys were not in the car.

Meantime a couple of automobiles were removed from the garage stalls and storekeepers who had reserved stock stored in buildings adjacent moved out their goods.

It was about half an hour before the blaze was actually under control when the fire squad was left on the scene to guard against its breaking out again when the firemen finally took up their hoses and called it a day.

The damage small, probably not more than a thousand dollars, considering the start the fire got. Mr. Conran reported that his equipment had not been injured enough to prevent him from resuming his business tonight.

There was no clue to the cause of the fire. It evidently started among the trash dumped into the rubbish receptacle at the corner of the breaker. Conran's alleys, just recently overhauled, were unscathed in the fire and will be operating as usual tonight.

FIRE THREATENS SQUARE SECTION

Blaze in Rear of Cowles Hotel is Caught Just in Nick of Time.

A fire whose spectacular character and possibilities were out of all proportion to the damage done stirred the North End just before 9 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when flames were discovered issuing from the long addition to the Cowles Hotel building on North Main street at Depot Square.

The Buildings The addition, which extends straight back from the rear of the main hotel building, houses on the second floor the bowling alleys of Thomas Conran, whose lunch room fronts on North Main street. The ground floor was occupied by four garage stalls and a number of rubbish bins used by various tenants of Harry Mintz, owner of the hotel and property adjoining for the temporary disposition of trash and in one instance for small storage.

Other frame buildings are adjacent. It is as likely a place for a big fire as there is in town.

Roy Griswold, Manchester Fire Department mechanic, who is employed at the Depot Square garage, saw smoke pouring up from the middle of the addition just as three boys emerged from the yard next to the hotel building, shouting "Fire!"

Griswold dropped his work, jumped to his room and scouted for the fire house at Hill's main street, while somebody in the garage telephoned in an alarm. No. 1 Company arrived within a very few moments almost immediately followed by the apparatus of No. 2.

The firemen found themselves confronted by shooting flames and great volumes of smoke pouring up from the west side of the addition. The part of the structure occupied by the rubbish bins was full of fire and the flames were leaping up the outside of the building, licking at an overhanging portion alongside the bowling alleys, while smoke was coming from a cupola above, indicating that the fire had mounted the walls and was burning in a blind attic over the alleys.

One line of hose was promptly run into the main entrance to the hotel and thence onto a veranda from which point a stream of water was directed against the visible fire. Three other lines were laid in, two from the west side and one through the alley alongside the Post Office. One of the lines had to be taken into the bowling room, directed against the fire in order to beat back the flames before they attacked the costly alleys. The alleys were not damaged by fire but received a wetting.

Meantime a couple of automobiles were removed from the garage stalls and storekeepers who had reserved stock stored in buildings adjacent moved out their goods.

ROCKVILLE LEGIONNAIRE LOCKED FROM OWN CAR

Loses Keys On Trip to Boston and Can't Get Duplicates—Local Man Solves It.

Charles McCarthy, Rockville insurance man, went to Boston to ride the Legion parade yesterday. He took a train here, leaving his car, carefully locked and with closed windows, on Depot Square. Late last night he returned but the car keys were not in the car.

Standing and looking at the car did no good, so Mr. McCarthy got a ride home with a friend. This morning he came down from Rockville by trolley, hoping to get duplicate keys from a dealer in his vicinity of car. He had no luck. At noon he was still lingering about Depot Square seeking a way out of his dilemma. He couldn't get into his car without smashing glass. He couldn't get it in, he couldn't start the engine without an ignition key.

Finally a mechanic from a nearby garage solved the difficulty. He got a long stick, inserted it through the ventilator in the cow, through the handle and managed to open the outside door. Then he lifted the hood, did one of those auto mechanic's stunts with the wires, and started the engine.

At last accounts Mr. McCarthy was on his way rejoicing to Hartford, hoping to find a set of keys there.

Hale's Supplement New Type of Advertising Circular—Others in Making.

Included in today's Herald as a supplement is a tabloid newspaper to be printed in The Herald's plant. It is a general styles newspaper advertising the commodities offered in the J. W. Hale Company store.

The first of its kind ever published in Manchester, was planned by Miss Ethel Anderson, Hale's advertising manager, in co-operation with members of The Herald staff.

New equipment was necessary to make this tabloid possible, but this newspaper is now equipped to produce almost any type of newspaper or news circular the patrons desire. Already several other tabloid jobs are in preparation making overtime work in The Herald necessary this week.

APPROVE BUS TERMINAL PLAN AT DEPOT SQUARE

Committee Gets Together Today and A. K.'s Plan as Reasonable and Feasible.

In a conference between the special bus terminal committee and officials of the Chamber of Commerce, Nathaniel J. Scott of the Connecticut Company, Town Manager George H. Waddell, chief of Police Samuel Gordon, and Park Commissioner Horace Murphy held this morning. It was generally agreed that the plan for improvement of the spot at Main and Woodbridge streets at the North End, used as a terminal for the Connecticut Company bus line was reasonable and feasible. It was unanimously agreed that the entire improvement program as recommended by the Chamber's special committee, can be carried out. Expectations are that proper authorization will be issued and work begun at an early date.

The members of the committee in attendance were R. K. Anderson, chairman; E. J. Holl, Wells Strickland, also present were E. L. G. Hohenstein, Jr., president of the Chamber; and E. J. McCabe, executive secretary.

The plan of the committee calls for sidewalk and curbing on Woodbridge street, running east as far as the turning point of the buses, a distance of about 70 feet, and continuing around on Main street as far as the railroad tracks, with proper storm water gutters and a curbing possibly of granite blocks edging off the roadbed that is used for the turning point of the buses.

The committee has requested Town Manager George Waddell to secure permission from the railroad company to use the available ground at that spot so the Park Department may seed it in grass and place low shrubbery and also erect a white, neatly designed wood picket fence inside the sidewalk line. This general plan will add a great deal of beauty to the appearance of this section and furthermore the committee felt that it would improve conditions materially, namely eliminate such experiences as many have had in the past of walking through mud and pools of water to board the bus. This committee has also asked that suitable street lighting be erected at this point.

The matter of the waiting station was temporarily tabled as the consensus of opinion of all present was that to carry out the above mentioned plan immediately would be securing a great addition and the fact that it is not reasonable for the town to erect the proposed waiting station and it is not the policy of the Connecticut Company to erect such stations if they could not begin to erect the number of stations would be asked for if such work were commenced, it appeared to the committee that the most practical procedure was to accomplish the larger part of the proposed improvement as stated above and at some future date, if demands further warrant it, the waiting station would have to be studied out from another angle.

MOVIE DIRECTOR IN FIST FIGHT

Ernst Lubitsch and Hans Kra- ly, Film Writer, Quarrel Over Mrs. Lubitsch.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A fistfight exhibition between Ernst Lubitsch, prominent motion picture director, and Hans Kra-ly, film writer, which enlivened a ball given by Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford here last Saturday night, apparently had reached the simmering stage today.

Lubitsch and Kra-ly, once close friends, met at the grand opera performance here last night and acquaintances said many glares were exchanged.

Mrs. Helene Lubitsch, divorced wife of the director, accompanied Kra-ly to the opera. It was Mrs. Lubitsch who ended the Saturday encounter between her former husband and Kra-ly with a resounding open handed blow to Lubitsch's face.

Lubitsch, confirming reports of the battle, said he struck Kra-ly because the writer and Mrs. Lubitsch taunted him and ridiculed his dancing.

Kra-ly's Comment
Kra-ly said: "Don't know what it is all about." He denied he had broken up Lubitsch's home, as the director asserted.

Commenting on reports that she and Kra-ly would be married some time in the future, Mrs. Lubitsch said she was not sure that she would wed the film writer, declaring "only time will tell."

Mrs. Lubitsch's divorce was in the form of an interlocutory decree, granted two months ago. Kra-ly, also married previously, said he expected any time to receive word from Berlin that his wife, from whom he has been separated seven years, has obtained a divorce from him.

Lubitsch asserted Mrs. Lubitsch had told him she and Kra-ly intended to be married.

"I shall send them a marvelous wedding present," the director declared. "I hope they are married 100 years. He deserves it."

ASKS LEGIONNAIRES TO PREVENT CRIME

Admiral Benson Urges Veterans to Eradicate Causes of Lawlessness in the U. S.

Boston, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Admiral W. S. Benson, U. S. N., retired, in a speech before the American Legion in Copenhagen here, today urged the members of the Legion to "study and eradicate the causes of crime and to vindicate the laws."

He spoke of the growth of "our wealth, our power, and our educational and cultural resources," and he said, "our lawlessness increases apace."

Extracts From Speech
Admiral Benson's address in part follows: "Your duty to serve your country, to protect its institutions and to perpetuate its freedom did not end when you ceased to be soldiers and resumed your role of civilians. You have now in time of peace both obligations and responsibilities as important and imperative as were those you discharged in time of war."

"Were there not laxity now among Americans in private station and public posts, then disrespect of law, betrayal of trust, every species of crime could not be so common and so immune from punishment as they are. There are more murders in the United States any twelve-month than there are in the four principal countries of western Europe combined. What is worse, it is possible, than this yearly aggregate of murders is the practical immunity of the murderers. Fewer escape detection, few suffer adequate punishment."

Another Evil
There is another evil which your organization might well help to check and correct. That is the tendency to concentrate power in the Federal Government to the deprivation of those rights and responsibilities which the builders of this republic vested in the states. This evil is less obvious than the others which confront us, but it is more perilous to our national security and our democratic form of government.

"We must remember that a government for the nation as a whole is the sum of all our local governments. If the parts be good the whole will be good."

A new cook book suggests that pies be baked hereafter without an undercrust. But how will our pastry-pitching movie comedians manage it?

The warning for the meeting of members of the Congregational church at Hebron Center, Oct. 11, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, gives the purposes of the meeting as follows: To hear reports of officers for the ensuing year; to decide on a supply for the pulpit for the coming year; to see what action the church will take in the matter of allowing the church to be used for outside activities, also for any other business proper to come before the meeting. The church committee are Lucius W. Robinson, Edward A. Raymond and Edward A. Smith.

ANDREWS EXPLORER BACK IN PEIPING

Famous Scientists Bring Back Big Collection of Prehistoric Fossils.

Peiping, China, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Bringing a record of prehistoric fossils to the central Asiatic expedition, led by Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, the American anthropologist, returned here today after five months of intensive work in the Gobi desert.

In the opinion of Walter C. Granger, chief paleontologist, who directed operations in this field, this year's collection is the biggest and scientifically most important made by the expedition since it started out in 1922.

Fossils representing about 75 different species, several of them new to science, have been found and are expected to throw much additional light upon the evolution and dispersal of animal life millions of years ago. No human remains thus far have been discovered but Dr. Andrews does not consider that this rules out the possibility of finding runners of the Peking man yet may be found in the Gobi region.

Expect to Find Man

"We still think," said Dr. Andrews, "that if we are allowed to continue our investigations we shall find traces of primitive man."

He announced that negotiations are going forward with the Chinese authorities for continuation of the work next year.

One of the most important finds of the expedition, apart from the mastodons discovered in a bog was a fossil deposit yielding the jaws, skulls and skeletal parts of a cynocephalid, belonging to the amylopoidea order, which in general appearance was somewhat like a long-legged hippopotamus to which, however, it bears no scientific relationship.

The party also found the skulls and jaws of a chalicotheres, belonging to the same group as the horse, rhinoceros and tapir, but much more primitive than the type previously found in Europe and America.

This was a hoofed animal in every way, but with a great claw instead of a flattened hoof.

Further discoveries included new genera of titan other rhinoceroses, rodents, antelopes and deer, including one of the latter with antlers the size and shape of a man's hand, which was contemporaneous with the shovel-toothed mastodon.

A second bog hole filled with mastodon remains was found in the same general region as that discovered in midsummer.

HOW TO PLAY Today's BACKGAMMON

THE SCORING EXPLAINED

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, the thirteenth in a series on "Today's Backgammon," explains the scoring in the game. Elizabeth Clark Boyden, who has written the series for "The Herald and NEA Service," also is author of "The New Backgammon" and co-author of "Contract Bridge of 1930" and "Contract Bridge of 1931."

By ELIZABETH CLARK BOYDEN
Written for NEA Service.

The scoring of backgammon is not difficult. It consists of keeping an accurate account of the doubles and the amount that each player is ahead or behind each of the others. When playing games, gammons and backgammons, the scoring is very simple. Assuming a unit of one for the game, the final score for that game, when counting with matches, is one, doubled as many times as there are matches for the bar. In the case of a gammon this score is again doubled. In the case of a backgammon, multiply by three.

It is the custom at many prominent clubs to place one match on the bar at the commencement of the game. The first double, automatic or optional, adds one more second double adds two more matches to the two now on the bar. Each successive double adds an equal number of matches to those already on the bar. At the end of the game, assuming one as a unit for that game, the final score is doubled and in the case of a backgammon, this score is multiplied by three.

Recording the Score

The doubling cube records the score in the same way. Assuming one as a unit for the game, the final score is the uppermost number on the doubling cube at the end of the game. In the case of a gammon, this score is doubled. In the case of a backgammon, this score is multiplied by three.

The amount each player is ahead or behind, as the games progress, can be recorded on a score pad which is provided for the purpose or on the place provided for individual scores on an Auction or Contract Bridge score pad or on a plain piece of paper as follows:

Let us assume that White succeeds in gammoning Black, who is sitting in the box, and there was one automatic double and one optional double. The doubling cube was turned to two for the automatic double and then to four for the optional double. Double again for the gammon makes the final score eight. If playing choquette with three players, Black loses eight to each of the others and the score is recorded as follows:

Amount of game	8
Black: minus	16
White: plus	8
Smith: plus	8

As the games progress the sum of the plus scores must exactly correspond to the sum of the minus scores.

In the above game White, the active partner, now sits in the box and plays against Black and Smith. If the second game is won by White (now sitting in the box) with one double so that the uppermost number on the doubling cube is two and there is no gammon, the second score is recorded as follows:

Amount of game	8
Black: minus	16
White: plus	8
Smith: plus	8

White wins two points from each of the others making four points to be added to his previous score of plus 8. Black loses two which is added to his minus 16, making him minus 18. Smith loses two points which is deducted from his plus 8, making him plus 6. In this way the last figures on the page always represent the final score. Notice that plus 12 and plus 6 add to plus 18, the exact amount of Black's minus 18.

Record Enrollment

That the people of Rockville appreciate the advantage of being given the privilege of attending the Evening School, was clearly shown on Monday night, when several people could not be accommodated this year, as the faculty was unable to care for all applicants, according to a report made by the principal, Allen L. Dresser. There were 142 enrolled this year, which is a record. The people of the community are realizing the value of education and this is the only way many have of securing such an education.

The Evening School registration in the various classes follows: Machine shop, 10; woodworking, 15; sewing, 35; bookkeeping and typewriting, 55; cooking, 16; English, 11.

The faculty consists of Allen L. Dresser, principal; Miss Helen Hendrick, Miss Margaret McLean, Miss Marcella Powers, Miss Margaret Hart, Paul Roden and Kenneth Little.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York—What's the reason for fewer folks playing the piano nowadays? Radio? No! Automobiles? Back from abroad Ignace Jan Paderewski broadcaster: "It is the automobile whose pernicious and dangerous competition has caused untold thousands to abandon musical practice for the accelerator. It is now the habit of those who formerly gained inspiration from the keyboard or strings to enjoy the intoxication of swift flight."

Atlanta—Fred Holt, Georgia Tech tackle, is a bridegroom, having secretly married Miss Lillian Williams, student nurse, whose patient he was when he laid up, with injuries from the game. The romance was disclosed when she was discharged from a hospital which has a rule against training married women.

New York—Julius Brittenbank of Charleston, S. C., retired cotton broker, plans to start his twelfth tour of the world next June. He has just returned from his eleventh. He began to get out of business when 50, with the intention of going around the world, annually as long as he lives, starting when his dividends come in. He figures up the number of days he will be away, multiplies by 20 and gets a letter of credit for that many dollars.

T. Mitchell of Mount Vernon, who is seeking divorce, says her husband has been cruel to her; he threatened to sell his two big cars and buy a baby pig. One of those tiny things of British origin. Mrs. Mitchell weighs 230.

New York—A handsome blonde blue-eyed youth has come from England to lecture. He is Randolph S. Churchill, 19, son of Winston Churchill, and he is to tell the land of his grandmother why he is not a Socialist and all about "the silliest and sloppiest of sentimentalists" who ever sat on the bench in the House of Commons, meaning the present government.

Cincinnati—It is Colonel Vincent Lopez who now waves a baton. The orchestra leader is a member of the staff of Governor Sampson of Kentucky. The commission was presented here by Jim Tully, acting for governor, because of the enjoyment afforded Kentuckians over the radio.

New York—Cheering news comes from dufters from Glenn Collett vs. H. E. Ramsey, president of the United States Golf Association. In defending next year's larger and lighter ball in a radio address he quoted Miss Collett as saying it would be easier to make long carries. So perhaps not so many of the 2,000,000 dozen balls sold annually will find their way into ponds.

London—There are 362,000 more female voters in England and Wales than males. In London male electors predominate.

New York—There are to be high jinks in a new night club for folks of social prominence. Floors No. 41 and 42, at the very top of a hotel, are to be devoted to the Club Pierrot.

FIRST EYEWITNESS STORY OF R-101 MADE PUBLIC

Sheffield, Eng., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The narrow margin by which John H. Binks, an engineer of the ill-fated British dirigible R-101 escaped death was revealed by him at his home here today in an interview with the Associated Press.

Binks explained how he had climbed in the dark down a ladder to relieve Engineer Arthur V. Beall, in the engine car. He was about three minutes late. Binks said there was no doubt in his mind those three minutes saved his life and Beall's too.

The two men had a conversation about a minor trouble they had experienced and it was while they were talking that there came a sudden, deafening crash. A second afterward the whole airship seemed to explode and burst into flames. "We could see from end to end of the ship," Binks said, "and it was lit up by a fire extending throughout her hull. The flames started in our car. We tried to put them out with old rags to keep them away from the fuel, but it seemed hopeless and I said to Beall, 'I hope we'll be suffocated before we're burned up.'"

"We were saved by the bursting of a service water tank above our heads which drenched us and put out the beginnings of the fire in our car."

U. S. MAY LOAN CHINA SILVER TO AID PEACE

Other manufactures. China, under such conditions, it is contended by all of such witnesses, could use more silver than is now available from the total production of all of the mines producing silver in the world.

Price Would Go Up

This would naturally have a tendency to increase the price of silver and the purchasing of that metal, which is the only money of purchasing medium of China, as well as many other countries. Such increase in the purchasing price of silver would increase the purchasing power of all other countries, to the great benefit of our exports.

The price of silver of course would change but it would range within smaller limits and such demand would undoubtedly hold the price and purchasing power of silver throughout the world at such a limit as to insure prosperity in China and all other silver-using countries.

Of course, after the Senate has approved a resolution containing any such plan, it would then have to go to the President of the United States to be consummated into an agreement if the plan met his approval.

FREE TRADE IS URGED BY BRITISH DOMINIONS

duty of the present conference to affirm the maintenance of that principle and the extension of its operation. Mr. Bennett had said that the time had come for action on the principle and preference and that there was neither possibility of avoiding it nor room for compromise on the issue.

"Economic Billiard"

J. H. Thomas, secretary for Dominions, first speaker among the empire delegates today declared the world "has struck an economic billiard." He reviewed Britain's "lost ground in the race for world trade" and pledged the government to aid in every possible way the increase of trade throughout the Empire to the mutual advantage of all Dominions. He did not lay a specific plan before the conference.

Has Gone Back

Secretary Thomas declared that the British empire as a whole had shared in the general world development between 1913 and 1928 but "so far as the United Kingdom is concerned we have not only not held our own but we have very much gone back." He asserted that Great Britain's world trade had been cut 20 per cent.

Thomas said the United States had made great strides in world trade, "but there also is a considerable misunderstanding even about her development." He said the United States had not supplanted Great Britain in the things Great Britain formerly supplied to the world. Two items are mainly concerned, he said, motor cars and oil.

As To Unemployment

The speaker added that considerable misapprehension also exists regarding unemployment in Great Britain.

"I do not raise the subject now," he declared, "for the purpose of minimizing the awful tragedy behind the figures. (The Ministry of Labor announced on Sept. 24 the total unemployed on Sept. 15 of 2,103,413, or 36,158 less than the previous week.)

"But I would like to see comparable figures supplied in the same way and arranged in the same way by every nation."

Thomas said that an outsider reading the newspapers today gets the impression that there is a "standing army of 2,150,000 permanently unemployed people in Britain. The facts are that fifty per cent of the unemployment—a million at this moment—were either working six weeks ago or will be working within six weeks." The minister conveyed the thought that unemployment figures include all of those reasonable trades and people who are out of work even for a few days.

He resumed:

"I want to make it clear, because it cannot be too strongly emphasized that our anxiety to paint a true picture of our unemployed leads to considerable misapprehension abroad and does harm even in our own country."

Speaking of causes of the present worldwide business depression and urging the empire delegates to do something to alleviate the situation he said, "there are people in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa who are suffering today and who are building up their hopes that something will emerge from this conference."

Cause of Depression

He said economic experts, bankers and business men have declared that overproduction is the cause of all the trouble. "We are forced," he added, "to say that people are hungry because there is too much wheat in the world that people are going without clothes because too much cotton is being grown—in short that there is all of this misery not because there is a shortage but because there is much. That is wrong; that is one of the problems we must tackle."

N. C. Havenga, minister of finance of the Union of South Africa, and the spokesman of his delegation, declared in the course of an address that "Empire free trade" is no panacea for the Empire's economic ills.

A protective tariff is needed and South Africa would welcome reciprocal Empire tariffs of a sufficient duration to insure their stability, Havenga asserted.

Federal forces were reported to be making rapid progress in the state of Minas Geraes, taking over much territory while Federal planes have been dropping smoke bombs on various towns for the sake of the psychological effect on the population.

Railway traffic from Rio De Janeiro into Minas Geraes is being re-established slowly, one of the most difficult problems being the reconstruction of bridges blown up by the rebels.

Press Censorship

Washington, Oct. 3 — (AP) — Messages from Brazil contained word today that the Brazilian government had suspended airline transportation services and taken over control of the cable and telegraph companies.

No official censorship was reported established, but the advices said the government did not allow press dispatches or private telegrams to leave if they contained information which was considered by it to be false or subversive.

Information favorable to the revolutionists, has been received by telegraph and cable offices from the State of Rio Grande Do Sul.

At Para yesterday normal activities were reported resumed, with rumors in circulation that war vessels in port were preparing to bombard the governor's palace. All business immediately halted and people returned to their homes. Military forces patrolled the deserted streets. Many rumors throughout the day proved unfounded and the city resumed its activities.

Owing to an attack of rheumatism I am going south earlier this fall than usual. Anyone needing a Nu Bone Corset, please call me as soon as possible. Mrs. A. M. Gordon—Advt.

DRILLED WELL USED FOR STILL, IS FINED

Charles Volkert Fined $200 and Costs—Michael Kuster Pays $300 Fine.

Charles Volkert of Birch Mountain road, a well driller by profession, was fined $200 and costs for drilling the well from which water was piped to the still in the Wapping creamery and also for drilling the well which supplied water for the Birch Mountain still, when the persons arrested for operating the former place were given a hearing in Superior Court yesterday.

Michael Kuster, owner of the Wapping creamery property, was fined $300 and costs.

A check book with Volkert's name on one of the stubs found on one of the men, led to his arrest and the subsequent discovery that he had drilled both the well at the Creamery and at Birch Mountain, both run by the same parties. Volkert also was employed in piping and breaking up the hole through the sandstone where the excavation was made for the furnace.

would be the only way in which naturalized citizens could be put on "an equal footing with the native citizen."
 These people who are insisting on the admission of pacifists from abroad to full citizenship in America, just because there are pacifists already here, seem to entirely overlook the fact that the native born pacifist is here by accident of birth over which he had no control while the foreign pacifist is voluntarily seeking citizenship in a country which has set up a condition as part of a bargain. If the alien doesn't like the condition he doesn't have to trade.
 We cannot demand of the unborn American babe a pledge that it will not be a conscientious objector, but we can demand such a pledge of the incoming foreigner. And incidentally we can raise enough conscientious objectors of our own. We don't need to import any.

ter of fact there was, in this Congressional district, no enemy. To declare war on a wet candidate running on a wet platform in favor of another wet running on another wet platform, was unconsciously stretching the original purpose of the Crusaders, which was to support wet candidates against dry candidates. It is not surprising in the least that many members of the group refuse to abide by such a declaration. It was not a just war that was declared.
 There was only one right course for the Connecticut Crusaders to follow this year—and that was to declare their neutrality as a body in the matter of state and Congressional nominees, leaving their members free to support the candidates of their various individual choices. The Crusaders' quarrel is with dries, not with wets.
 Having, in the Hartford county instance, declared a choice between two wets, trouble in their own ranks was inevitable. They made an error of youth and inexperience. It would be well if they were to undo it by formally rescinding their half-cock decision.

HELIUM MONOPOLY
 Helium is an element, derived from natural gas; but not from all natural gas. The only natural gas in the world, now known to contain helium in sufficient quantities to make its separation practicable is found in the United States.
 Helium is lighter than any other known gas except hydrogen. It will neither explode nor burn. It is the only gas capable of supporting an air ship that will not do both.
 Helium in separable quantities is found in eight states, the richest gases being those of Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas. It is now produced, in commercial quantities, only in Texas.
 Helium is very expensive, perhaps not so much because of the inherent cost of the process of extraction as because the demand is very limited and the plants are idle most of the time. Only so much of the gas can find a market as is needed for the filling of lighter-than-air ships in the United States. As a military measure Congress some years ago passed a law prohibiting the export of the gas.
 Since the catastrophe of the R-101 Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy, has been advocating the repeal of this law and freeing helium to sale abroad in time of peace.
 This is the first time that we can remember when Admiral Moffett did not keenly desire to retain at all costs any sort of military advantage. However, his proposal has been greeted with acclaim. A great many people have suddenly developed a great charity toward those other nations, which, if they are to fly the air in dirigibles, must continue to do so at the risk of explosion unless we hasten to their rescue and let them have our helium.
 Our own belief is that it constitutes no great act of friendship to anybody to encourage him in the development of the giant dirigible—that these enormous and fragile machines will be death traps whether charged with helium or not. And our further belief is that most of the urge to become thus suddenly solicitous for nations whom we usually refuse to play with arises less from an interest in saving the lives of their adventurers than from the expectation of developing a fairly profitable trade in helium.
 We honestly trust we are wrong in this. But this deeply sensitive concern for the lives of foreign dirigible travelers and crews seems to us to be somewhat out of keeping with the customary attitude of Admiral Moffett and some of his supporters.

CHEAP SKATES
 The mental quality of the average moonshiner in this golden age of prohibition has some demonstration in the allegation that the men who operated the illicit distilling plant in Wapping, raided some time ago, of their own volition went to a deputy sheriff living in the town and offered him $150 for protection.
 Bribery of officers of the law in connection with the illegal rum trade is, unfortunately, too common to command more than passing notice, and reflects, ordinarily, only on the morals and not on the intelligence of the briber. But the bootleg distiller who places so low a valuation on the integrity of a deputy sheriff in Connecticut as to offer him $150 gives evidence of having something the matter with the inside of his head.
 The officer in this case is beyond suspicion and it would have made no difference if he had been offered many times the amount of the tendered bribe. But even if he had been of a different sort, if he were one of those who are looking for the main chance regardless of his duty, what other result of such an offer could be expected than that the law officer would be enraged at the paltriness of the sum tendered and be converted at once into an enemy rather than an ally?
 If there is one business above all others where the business man cannot afford to be a cheap skate, it is in this one of making and selling illegal liquor on a large scale. That offered $150 bribe accounts for much of the stupidity shown in the Wapping enterprise and arouses sheer wonderment that people so lacking in common understanding could have succeeded so far, even in this law breaking activity, as to be able to command the capital invested in the South Windsor plant.
 They're a fine lot, intellectually as well as morally, these rum producers.

NEED ORGANIZATION
 "Wages in those mills are far too low and hours are much too long," Mr. Robins explained, "but proper organization is requisite before we can undertake to put the southern textile workers on an equal basis with labor elsewhere in the country."
 "Mill owners, refusing to recognize the right of workers to belonging to a union, are discharging those who engage in any union activity. In Danville, Va., workers who have been employed as long as 40 years have been thrown out of their jobs for no other reason. In Greensboro, 38 families were put out of their houses and into the streets."
 "There is thus far no textile city in the south where the union is formally recognized by the employers and where workers cannot be discharged for union membership."
 "We are making every effort to conciliate disputes and to obtain recognition by persuasion. Strikes will not be called unless it has been definitely proved that there is no other way. But whenever a strike does become necessary, labor will be scientifically organized, with relief work well planned in advance and with the support of organized labor throughout the country."
Workers Disillusioned
 Mrs. Robins has had considerable association with the southern mountain folk from whom most of the workers have been drawn into the mills of Tennessee, Georgia, the Carolinas and Virginia. They left their mountain homes thinking that $10 a week was all the money in the world, she says, failing to anticipate the expense of life in comparatively civilized communities. After learning the cost of living they were introduced to the speed-up and stretch-out systems.
 "We have always tried to inter-duce the working groups to the public," Mrs. Robins says, "and this is especially true in the south where mill workers have never been looked upon as part of their towns but as a class outside the pale. We want the south to realize that mill workers are folks just like the rest of us and that they aren't just dumb and contented creatures satisfied with whatever crumbs they are given. We will get co-operation when we can get that idea across."
 "We have a tremendous job before us, but it is worth the effort because we are trying to raise the standard of living for the most exploited group in America."

SINCE WHEN
 "If the Supreme Court should reverse Judge Manton," says the Waterbury Republican in dealing with the case of applicants for naturalization who refuse to promise to bear arms, "the naturalization laws should be altered to lift from naturalized citizens obligations which native born citizens are not required to shoulder. No native born woman, when admitted to citizenship, is required to swear she will bear arms and the law recognizes conscientious scruples of native born male citizens as to bearing arms. The naturalized citizen should be put on an equal footing with the native citizen."
 Since when has a native born woman been required to swear to anything in order to be admitted to citizenship? Since when did she have to be admitted at all? She becomes a citizen at birth.
 And since this is a fact, and since the native born woman—or man either, for that matter—is not required to take oath of allegiance, let the Republican be consistent and advocate the admission of aliens to citizenship without any sort of pledge or condition whatever, not evening the renunciation of citizenship in some other country. That

FIRE FIGHTERS
 It is customary for newspapers in towns where the fire fighting is done by volunteers to save the boys along by throwing verbal bouquets at them whenever half an excuse offers. The Herald, knowing the volunteer firemen of Manchester to be grown up men, perhaps leans a little too far backward in avoiding that sort of palavering gush.
 But it would be a great deal less than fair to refrain from saying, with relation to the fire in the Depot Square area yesterday afternoon, that the men of the Manchester Fire Department did a corking good job. No department could have done a better and not many could have done so well. They were quick in response, they wasted not a moment in getting into action, they tackled the fire with skill and energy, they fought it to a prompt finish and they saved an incalculable amount of property; for never did a more dangerous blaze start in the North End. And they did it without fuss or clamor or an instant of fuddlement.
 When it is considered that these men perform such service without a cent of compensation and merely as a contribution to the safety and well-being of the community, the least that can be done for them is to give the well known three rousing cheers.

CRUSADERS' ERROR
 The young Crusaders are discovering that it is easier to dream of delivering the solid vote of such an organization than it is to achieve the delivery. The action of the Hartford district body in deciding to support Mr. Lonergan for Congress against Colonel Seymour has been followed by a prompt repudiation of the decision by some of the most prominent members of the association. The effect of the two proceedings—the Lonergan endorsement and the bolt of the Seymour Crusaders—is just about certain to be the nullification of the whole movement in Hartford County.
 The trouble with this whole business is that the Crusaders, like many another young, eager and courageous fighter, were over anxious to meet an enemy. As a mat-

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

KOSHER FOOD

The Jewish Talmud contains the first health rules ever written by man. Many of these laws are still practiced by the Orthodox Hebrew who believes that they were divinely inspired. If not of divine inspiration, it is all the more marvelous to know that almost at the very dawn of civilization rules about right living were laid down which have remained sensible and logical through the present age.

 According to these rules food is divided into two classes: Clean and Unclean. The clean food is called Kosher, meaning it is fit and proper to use. The unclean is called Tref of Terephah and is discarded. The first object was cleanliness, thus ensuring a food supply strictly clean and wholesome.
 It is possible that the food be prepared strictly according to religious rites and be within the letter of the law, being called Kosher, but if it is done in an unsanitary manner the spirit of the law is not kept.
 The first rules which the Gentile notices is that the Hebrew does not eat pork, but there are several other rules. Meat, to be Kosher, must be prepared in a certain way, and is still handled in this way today, as it was several centuries before Christ. Kosher may be applied to other foods than meat, for example to bread. Bread for the Passover must not contain leaven, therefore Kosher bread at this time is unleavened. The vessels used for meat must not be used for other cooking and must be kept separated from vessels used for milk.

 Kosher meat must be killed by a Shochet, who is an expert inspector and butcher. The animals are killed instantly and must not be frightened before killing. A complete inspection is then made of the meat and the slightest blemish will result in the animal being declared unfit for food. Thus Kosher meat is always healthy, as the unclean meat or Tref is discarded.
 Meat may be used from those animals which are allowed for food such as the ox, sheep, goat, or scaled fish. If the animal has been torn by wild beasts, has died a natural death, been poisoned, or diseased, neither it, nor milk from it, is used. Before the meat is used it must be washed, salted, and washed again to remove all blood possible. Blood which is in the tissues of the meat is all right, but no blood should be left congealed on the surface of the cut or in the veins.

 Fresh fish of the scaly class is considered Kosher, but shellfish and fish without scales, such as eels, are discarded. Swine, frogs, snails, and rabbits are also Tref.
 Another of these rules prohibits the use of milk with meat or fish. No milk is used at the same meal in which meat is used.
 In my work with thousands of patients along the line of practical dietetics I have found two good rules of diet which coincide with these Hebrew Health teachings: 1. Eat clean meat from healthy animals; 2. Do not mix milk and meat. That milk should never be taken at an ordinary meal was recognized in the Hebrew laws and this still holds true today, although many people do not recognize the fact that to drink milk when eating meat or fish is to form one of the most incompatible of food mixtures.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Erysipelas)
 Question J. L. asks: "Is erysipelas a blood or a skin disease? What is the cause and cure?"
 Answer: I consider the true cause of erysipelas to be an acidosis produced through the use of wrong food. It is true there is a particular bacterium associated with this disease, but this microorganism cannot live in a body free from acidosis.

 (Ice Cream and Fruits)
 Question: Health Seeker asks: "May ice cream or fruit be eaten between meals without interfering with digestion?"
 Answer: Fruit and ice cream must both be considered real food, and should therefore be used in place of a meal, or may be used in smaller quantities in addition to a meal if combined with those foods with which they are harmonious.

MINISTERS ADOPT ANTI-REPEAL VOTE

Norwich District Group Firm Against Any Change in Dry Law.

On motion of Rev. R. A. Colpitts, of South Manchester, the following resolution was unanimously passed at the autumn meeting of the Methodist ministers of Norwich District yesterday afternoon in Uncasville: "Whereas we believe that Prohibition is one of the greatest moral issues of the day, be it resolved, that we, the members of the Norwich District Ministerial Association, place ourselves on record as against the repeal of the state enforcement law in regard to liquor violations; 1, because the eighteenth amendment is a part of the Constitution of the United States; 2, because Connecticut assumed her responsibility in the matter by enacting a state enforcement law; 3, because President Hoover has asked for more earnest co-operation on the part of the states in the enforcement of the law; 4, because, if this law be repealed, there will be but a handful of Federal officers to enforce the law against the illegal traffic, the result being an increase of drunkenness, of speakasies, of danger in auto driving, and of general lawlessness."

With District Superintendent Genter in the chair the meeting opened Monday afternoon and closed last evening. There was a large number of ministers and ministers' wives present. Among them were Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Colpitts, together with Miss Doris Davis, assistant at the South M. E. church, Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward, also Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, all of Manchester; Rev. and Mrs. John E. Duxbury, of Putnam; Rev. Joseph Cooper, Norwich; Rev. and Mrs. O. E. Tourtellote, East Hartford; Dr. C. E. VanNatter, Attaugus; Rev. and Mrs. Harry Miner, Wapping; Rev. and Mrs. T. A. Mosley, Stafford Springs, and son Donald; Rev. and Mrs. O. W. Bell, Hazardville; Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Helms, Thompsonville; Revs. H. H. Conklin, Gordon C. Capen, East Hampton; H. E. Moore, Old Mystic; J. W. Carter, Jewett City; Albert Abbott, Danielson; G. W. Potter, Norwich Town; W. D. Hamilton, Willimantic; S. F. Maine, Moodus; H. H. Critchlow, Galea Ferry, and M. E. Osborne, Rockville. The entire evening pastor, Rev. Ois Lee Munson, led the opening devotions.

At Dr. Genter's suggestion a vote of sympathy was ordered to be sent by the secretary of the Ministerial Association, Rev. J. W. Carter, to Bishop W. F. Anderson at Boston, who recently had a narrow escape from death by an automobile accident. Rev. Harry Miner, of Wapping, gave the first paper on the program, his theme being, "Some New Emphases in Theology." It was a scholarly resume of the teachings of Bach, and of Humanism. Since the war a great deal of religious uncertainty has been abroad in the land. Bach contrasted the world of God with the world of man, and maintained they were absolutely separate, while humanism was built on the taking account of mere man and ruling God out entirely. At the close Dr. Cooper complimented the essayist, and briefly and interestingly summed up the ideas presented.

An Inspiring Service Quite a large number of people gathered at night in the church auditorium to listen to a strong sermon preached by Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church in Norwich. It was preceded by a fine organ recital by Robert French on the new Tyler organ, who has recently resigned as pastor of Broadway Tabernacle, New York, was asked the secret of his success in his 25 years' pastorate there, and replied: "I always spell Christ and Church with a capital C, and Bible with a capital B." Dr. Pitt's subject was "The Need of the Church in a Community." Just as we need the baker, the butcher and the grocer to satisfy physical hunger, so man needs the church to provide sustenance for the spiritual hunger of man. The need of church members is a first-hand experience of Christ in the heart. The community needs a church that loves folks.

The district superintendent, Rev. M. E. Genter, introduced the speaker, Dr. Pitt. The latter said that Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, who has recently resigned as pastor of Broadway Tabernacle, New York, was asked the secret of his success in his 25 years' pastorate there, and replied: "I always spell Christ and Church with a capital C, and Bible with a capital B." Dr. Pitt's subject was "The Need of the Church in a Community." Just as we need the baker, the butcher and the grocer to satisfy physical hunger, so man needs the church to provide sustenance for the spiritual hunger of man. The need of church members is a first-hand experience of Christ in the heart. The community needs a church that loves folks.

Dr. R. A. Colpitts, of South Manchester, led the devotions at the beginning of the program for yesterday. He spoke of the over-emphasis often placed on prevention rather than cure in religious matters. Religious education is all right, but we need to get in personal touch with Jesus Christ, "the great physician." The treasurer here gave his report, which showed a balance of $1342 in the treasury. The second paper of the day was a splendidly written analysis of the troubles in Palestine between Jews and Arabs, by Rev. J. E. Duxbury who spent several weeks in Europe and Palestine the past summer. He also attended the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Mr. Duxbury, who is recalled as pastor of the North M. E. church from 1923 to 1926, spoke on the disturbances in Palestine between Jews and Moslems, which began at the so-called "walling-wall" in Jerusalem, and resulted in the loss of many lives. He maintained that the movement called Zionism was the beginning of the strife.

For some 1800 years the followers of Mohammed have been possessors of Palestine. Zionism seeks to make it eventually the land of the Jews, as it was thousands of years ago. Zionism fostered by wealthy Jews provides Jews who emigrate to this Holy Land with plenty of funds. The Arabs sell the lands for a good price, and it must forever belong to the Jews and their descendants. But few Jews were there a half century ago, but now there are well nigh 200,000. Yet the Arabs number 670,000. What is not for the Arabs would be a horrible massacre of the Jews by the Moslems. As only about half of Palestine admits of cultivation, the Turks or Arabs find they are more and more crowded out of the country they have so long occupied. Another cause of quarrel is the Temple Area in Jerusalem, which is very sacred to both Jews and Mohammedans. "Only the spirit and principles of Christ can settle this question," the speaker concluded. A brief discussion of this able theme followed, participated in by Revs. Joseph Cooper, R. A. Colpitts and M. S. Stocking.

A short business session followed. The wives of the ministers of the District are asked to come to the February session of the association for the purpose of organizing for definite work on the District. A bountiful dinner was served in the large dining room by the ladies of the church. At the close resolutions were read by Rev. W. D. Woodward, of Putnam, who thanked the pastor and people of the entertaining church and of the community for their hospitality and many courtesies. Among the latter was a trip on Monday afternoon through the immense papermill of the Robert Blair Company. After this the three loads went to Fort Shantock, five miles away, and saw the Indian burial ground. Pastor Munson led the way in his auto. Unfortunately on the return to the church his clutch refused to do its duty. Fortunately Brother Duxbury had a rope in his car and Brother Stocking in his. Betwixt the two a towing of the disabled car was effected, and the fifteen occupants of the three cars reached home with a good appetite for a belated supper.

In the afternoon there was the continuation of a round table talk on the World Service program of the church, which was given by Dr. G. B. Davis, the Boston area secretary of World Service. Rev. R. A. Colpitts, one of the general committee on World Service, also spoke on this important topic. The meeting adjourned shortly after three o'clock, and the pastors hastened to their various charges.

The brethren greatly appreciated the privilege afforded them in going to this new church at Uncasville. A few years ago the old Methodist church was burned down. Now, on a new location near the new school house a fine brick edifice has been erected, with ample accommodations for church work of all kinds.

Walnut Street Woman, Aged 60, Victim of Accident in Her Home Last Night.

Mrs. Mary Serekian, aged 60, of 5 Walnut street, suffered a broken wrist last night when she fell down a flight of stairs with a sleeping baby in her arms. The infant escaped with slight bruises on the head. Mrs. Serekian was taken to the Memorial hospital where her injury was diagnosed as a Colles' fracture. She was removed to her home after treatment. The club, located in a quiet residential section, was decorated with expensive modernistic furnishings and had a Hawaiian band. The raid was made as a result of complaints from residents of the neighborhood. The prisoners described themselves as Joseph Bullo, 38, manager; John Belmont, 35, part owner; Jose Alvarez, 37, a waiter; and Arthur Strand, 28, doorman. An additional charge of operating a club without a license was lodged against Bullo.

PURCHASES A HOME BUT CAN'T MOVE IN

French Courts Refuse to Allow American to Take Possession of His Own House.

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Charges of discrimination against American property owners in France, which may involve the entire question of Franco-American treaty rights, are being investigated by the State Department. The attention of the department has been called to the case of Capt. Paul Rockwell, an American citizen, who purchased a home in Paris in 1926 and has been defeated in every effort since that time to secure possession of it from a Frenchman who was a tenant when the purchase was made. The tenant, it was alleged, on learning the new owner was an American, declined to move from the premises under the terms of the so-called French rent laws. Under the Franco-American treaty of 1893, French citizens in the United States and American citizens in France were accorded equal rights with the citizens of the country in which they resided so far as property ownership was concerned.

Looses Five Suits Captain Rockwell who fought in the French Army in the World War and was decorated for bravery has met with no success however in pressing his case as a test before the French courts on five different occasions. In one instance, the judge, as the case opened, asked Rockwell's attorney if his client was an American citizen. Receiving an affirmative reply, it was said the judge replied: "Then leave the court. An American citizen has no rights here. If he wishes to enjoy the rights of the French laws, he must become naturalized." The judge, according to information before the State Department by interested Americans refused to allow the case to proceed and delivery from the bench remarks "uncomplimentary to the United States. Aside from watching the situation, the State Department has done little."

HIGHWAY TO ALASKA

Seward, Alaska, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Alaska's legendary "Land of the Tabled Man" will be penetrated by the Gulkana-Nebesa highway, now under construction. The road plan was designed to furnish an eventual link to the highway, now under construction. The road plan was designed to furnish an eventual link to the highway that will extend from Los Angeles far into northern Alaska. From Siana, the new highway will enter a country that combines a wealth of natural resources, scenery, big game and historic interest, said Donald MacDonald, sponsor of the project. MacDonald, who is surveying 50 miles in advance of the construction crews, said he met a native who told him how his tribesmen had found a race of men with tails. The native told MacDonald these men lived in dens and used no fire.

NO NEED OF ALARM AT PARALYSIS HERE

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore Says Only One Mild Case Should Not Worry Parents.

Manchester people have no reason to be alarmed over the solitary infantile paralysis case which was discovered here Monday, Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, head of the local board of health department, told The Herald today. The physician said that there was a single case here last year that had no bad results.

Dr. Moore called attention to the Connecticut Board of Health Department report on infantile paralysis which reveals a comparatively low death rate. During the 18-year period from 1910 to 1927 inclusive, there were 2,011 cases of poliomyelitis in the state with 527 deaths. This represents a fatality death rate of 26.2 per cent. There has been considerable variation in the prevalence of the disease from year to year. Infantile paralysis usually occurs in late summer and is more prevalent in September than any other month.

In connection with Dr. Moore's reassuring announcement the effect of that there is positive no cause for alarm, the following general advice about the disease was released as facts everyone should know: 1. That poliomyelitis is not always a fatal disease. 2. That nearly three-fourths of the children recover, many with no permanent paralysis. 3. That often a paralyzed arm or leg can be successfully treated. 4. That a person ill with infantile paralysis should remain quiet in bed a month or more during the acute stage of the illness. Rest is essential to prevent further spread of paralysis and permit recovery from the paralysis also present. 5. That poliomyelitis may be a very mild disease and the patient may show no signs of paralysis and possibly none. 6. That mild cases are caused by the same germ that causes fatal cases. 7. That infection from a mild case or carrier may cause severe or fatal cases. 8. That persons who are not ill with the disease may be carriers.

Dr. Moore said that there are no other cases of infantile paralysis in town and that he anticipated no further trouble. Neither is there any other prevalent disease of a contagious nature, the physician concluded. The lone case is that of Nancy Fike, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Fike of 67 East Middle Turnpike.

The girl's father, who is a traveling salesman, said that he received news from the Hartford Isolation hospital this morning to the effect that Nancy was somewhat improved. Her temperature which was 103 at 8 o'clock Monday morning has dropped and she is able to eat lightly. She is still in somewhat of a daze. There is no paralysis present at all.

The other two children in the Fike family, Katherine and Betty are not ill but were kept home from school as a precautionary measure. Katherine is in the eighth grade and Betty in the fourth, both at the same school where Nancy attended. Inquiry at the school brought the information that the attendance was practically normal this morning, only a few pupils being kept at home by their parents because of the infantile paralysis case.

Dr. Moore stressed the fact that there was no need to keep children out of school. In fact, he went so far as to say it should not be done, merely because some parents fear a child may catch the disease.

School Superintendent A. F. Howes offered the information that the Fike girl had no contact with other school children while ill with the disease and that due to this fact there was believed to be no danger of any other pupils becoming victims of poliomyelitis.

"Nancy hasn't been in school since last Friday," Mr. Howes said, "and she did not have any contact with other children at that time. The last time she appeared in public was Sunday morning when she went to Sunday School at the Center Congregational church. And it was not until Monday that she took ill," he concluded.

Nancy is one of about 40 pupils in the second grade at the Harding school on Hollister street. Her teacher is Miss Gertrude Carrier. Several members of the class have been ill with colds but this has no connection with the more serious disease.

Mrs. Albert L. Crowell of Highland Park, speaking about the case of Cay Hastings, freshman student at Wesleyan University in Middletown, said this morning that the young man was considered much improved at the Middlesex County hospital where he is confined. There is no paralysis whatsoever, but young Hastings will be confined to the hospital for a considerable time yet so as to be positively certain of his complete recovery before being discharged.

Inquiry through the Associated Press today brought the answer that there are no new cases in Middletown.

HUB HOODLUMS IN RIOT AFTER LEGION PARADE

Boston, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Boston and Legion police controlled the downtown streets today after several hours of rioting and looting by mobs of hoodlums. Overturned automobiles, the ashes of a score of bonfires that had been built in downtown thoroughfares and on Boston Common, and here and there a battered head, marked the passing of the riotous day. The rioters took advantage of the privileges extended the Legionnaires on their night of nights.

At one time shortly before midnight, it seemed that the melee in Park Square might gain the proportions of a vicious riot. A detail of Federal agents had arrested four local men for peddling liquor in the Square. As they started marching their men away the crowd composed mostly of youngsters ranging in age from 14 to 20, moved on them.

Fists began flying and the agents had their backs to the wall when a squad of Boston police forced their way through the crowd to rescue them.

Those four were the only arrests during the sporadic outbreaks that marked the post-parade celebration. Police were hindered in making arrests by the crowds that milled through the streets until morning.

NEGRO YOUTH ADMITS HE MURDERED MATRON

Glen Mills, Pa., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Alexander McClay Williams, 18, negro inmate of the Glen Mills School for Boys was held prisoner at an unnamed place today as the alleged confessed slayer of Mrs. Vida Robare, a matron at the institution which houses between 600 and 700 boys. The attractive house-mother was found dead in her bedroom last Friday with 38 stab wounds in her chest.

Williams after his confession late last night to Mayor E. E. Hickman, superintendent of the school. District Attorney McCarter and Delaware county detectives, was removed to a secret place of imprisonment to guard against a possible demonstration.

Until last night Williams had denied any knowledge of the case. Then he blurted out his confession. Revenge on Mrs. Robare's husband, an instructor at the school, for an alleged reprimand, and a plan to steal her keys so that he might obtain a bottle of shoe polish from a locker closet were motives for the slaying, Williams confession said. He used an ice pick in the slaying.

HEAD OF LUTHERANS ASKS FOR TOLERANCE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 8.—(AP)—plea for tolerance from the church president, the Rev. F. H. Knobel, New York greeted the 1,500 delegates and visitors here today for the seventh biennial convention of the United Lutheran church in America. The delegates convened to form policies, were warned by Dr. Knobel against the "dangerous ecclesiastical fashion" which is recently developed whereby it is expected conventions must issue findings, deliveries, and pronouncements upon all manner of topics.

In officially opening the convention at a communion service at the Church of the Epiphany last night, he said:

"The world is radically sinful, wrong in life and thought. Much of the wrong continues to abide even in the church. The church itself consists of men who are sinners and for whom daily repentance is a responsibility. All church bodies have faults. We are not better than others."

NEW WHISKEY RULING

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Physicians needing whiskey for office or surgical use will be permitted to continue purchasing six quarts annually—all at once. A plan of the Prohibition Bureau to limit withdrawals to one quart at a time, has been dropped.

Notification that the proposal had been abandoned was given by Assistant Attorney General Young, yesterday in a letter to Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois. The latter had complained on behalf of the physicians that the filing of a separate application for a single quart each two months, would be a source of annoyance to reputable men.

VETERANS CARELESS ABOUT INSURANCE

General Hines Tells Legionnaires That Most of Them Allowed Policies to Lapse.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veteran's affairs and himself a veteran of distinguished service in speaking before the American Legion convention here today expressed the hope that an effective plan of "veteran relief" would be evolved. He said, "what we want is not economy but common sense."

The reputed failure of government insurance to ease the plight of veterans was attributed by him to the fact that most of the veterans failed to maintain their policies after leaving the service. "That they failed to do this" he said "is evident from the fact that during war time over 40 billions of dollars in government insurance was in force while at the present time the outstanding policies represent an obligation of but three and one half billions."

First Relief
"More than 200 years ago," he said, "the founders of our country enacted the first relief legislation based upon the grounds that the colonies must be financially responsible for the incapacities of a soldier who went forth to serve his country and suffered a disability in that service. Upon our entry into the World War, we discarded the previous theory of pensions and substituted disability compensation on the basis of the degree to which service disability reduced the soldier's earning capacity. This was to be supplemented by government insurance at nominal rates."

"This new method," he said "probably would have been successful if a way could have been found to make the greater number of veterans realize the potential value of the policies and to induce them to maintain them after leaving the service."

Asks New Method
In pleading for a new method in dealing with the disabled veterans the general said, "even the most casual study of what the government is doing for those who served in its various wars shows the inadequacy and deficiency and indicates more plainly than words can express the need for the development of a uniform policy to deal with the all-important problem of veteran relief."

"Such a program," he said "is worthy and requires the most careful study and must be evolved conscientiously and deliberately, but once adopted should be let alone. Congress should not be compelled to constantly reconsider and amend existing legislation."

"A sufficiently accurate and comprehensive study of the whole situation should be made to enable the formulation of a permanent structure which would serve as a foundation for all future veteran relief."

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Ogilby of Trinity, urged the students to be generous in their contributions, to the Thurbur memorial fund to be used to continue Thurbur's work and read a poem to the memory of Mr. Thurbur and written by William Carter Olcott of Norwich, a graduate of Trinity in 1896.

BOY TELLS POLICE HE WAS KIDNAPED

New Haven, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The identity of an eleven-year-old boy who last night told police he had been kidnaped in Norwalk a month ago and forced to work on a farm today continued to present a mystery to police here.

The boy said his name was Kenneth Leech and that his home was in Norwalk. What street he had lived on in that city or who his parents were, the youngster couldn't remember.

Norwalk police said no boy of that name had been reported missing. A pedestrian found Kenneth wandering about in Woodbridge and turned the lad over to Constable William H. Tompkins, who in turn got in touch with New Haven police.

Kenneth said he had been kidnaped by a man in a car about a month ago while he was walking in Norwalk. He was driven, he said, to a farm in a secluded section where he was forced to do farm work. "Then," he continued, "his captor drove him to Woodbridge and put him out of the car."

The boy was wearing short pants, green stockings and a white shirt.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS

Hartford, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Three special elections are to be held in Connecticut on Monday, ballots for which are now being prepared by the secretary of state. In Hebron, Woodbridge and Tolland the electors will be called upon to dissolve the ties which developed in the annual small town elections held last Monday.

GOES TO WETHERSFIELD

New Haven, Oct. 8.—(AP)—George Moore who police say, was the companion of Archer Lafo, of West Haven, the night the latter was shot and killed while trying to hold up Patrolman James J. McHugh was taken to Wethersfield today to begin serving a one to three year's sentence. Moore pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of assault with intent to rob.

When President Hoover gave his address before bankers in Cleveland recently, it is understood he got lots of credit.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Stocks opened higher today, although most of the gains were fractional. American Can and Gold Dust rallied 1-1/2. U. S. Steel was unchanged, but American Telephone, Radio, Westinghouse Electric, Chesapeake & Ohio, Woolworth, Dupont and American Water Works improved 1-4 to 1-2. Standard Oil of New Jersey rose a point and St. Paul preferred 2 3-8. National Biscuit eased 1-2 and General Electric and International Telephone dipped 1-4 each.

The rally was short lived, however, for the market ran into rather quiet selling before the end of the first half hour. Advances of the opening were generally converted into net losses with U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Electric, and New York Central dipping a point or more under the Tuesday close. Utilities offered a soft spot.

American & Foreign Power dropped 2 and American Water Works 3. Losses of 1 to 1 1-2 appeared in Consolidated Gas, United Corporation and Electric Power & Light.

Market circles which have been hoping for a turn in the trend found little consolation in the day's news. Car loadings for the week ended September 27 showed a decrease of 2,131 cars over the preceding week, a distinctly unseasonable showing. Neither was there much cheer in the official figures on steel ingot and pig iron production for last month, for both totals dropped to the lowest September figures in six years. There was, however, another cut in stocks of refined gasoline.

Foreign exchanges were steady. Sterling cables opened at $4.53 7-8, up 1-32.

PARALYSIS IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Children in four families today had been isolated and particular precautions were ordered in Hartford public schools, with the announcement of a second case of infantile paralysis in Hartford. The latest victim, Arthur Boehm, 12, was said to have only a mild case and was being treated at his home.

One additional case of the disease was reported in Middletown yesterday and Wesleyan University officials announced the cancellation of the scheduled football game between Wesleyan Freshmen and Choate School on October 18. Warren Schiller, 10, was the new Middletown paralysis patient.

Khyber Pass, Battle Scene for Centuries Again Flames as British Fight Wild Tribes

World's Most Savage Warriors, Often Subdued But Never Conquered, Carry on Fierce Traditions of India's Northern Frontier Despite Rain of Airplane Bombs.

Copyright, SEA-London Times.

By MILTON BRONNER

London.—Historic Khyber Pass, that narrow defile through the Himalayan mountains through which invaders of India have marched with fire and sword for 2500 years, is again aflame with battle as British army airplanes drop bombs on the world's oldest and most savage fighters and send them scurrying into the hills.

For the Khyber country—scene of Kipling's "Kim" and the last British outpost on the Afghanistan border in northwestern India—is again in the world's news. The war of unrest that has swept India in the Gandhian revolt has extended to the fierce Pathan tribesmen in this remote mountain fastness who see in the situation a chance for loot and their natural desire to fight.

The recent attacks of these wild and restive marauders on Peshawar, the British-controlled city that lies at the entrance to the pass, have centered attention on them again. They have been beaten off in fights into the outskirts of the city and British soldiers, pursuing them into the hills, have bombed their retreats.

A few miles beyond Peshawar the pass begins and then for nearly 30 miles it leads its dusty, winding route through the overhanging hills to the border of Afghanistan. Nothing in America, except the Grand Canyon of Colorado, is as heavily fortified. British forts strung along the pass and, except for a few turns where the view is obscured, gunners command every foot of its length. If this were not so, no rich camel train traveling through the Khyber with silks and other valuable merchandise would be safe. Even with these precautions, occasional wayfarers are murdered with a well-aimed rifle shot from a sniper lurking among the rocks and trees.

The tribesmen who live in this desolate country are the world's most blood-thirsty people and have been so for centuries. Time upon time they have been subdued by military forces, but never have they been conquered. They fight with a fanatical fury, spurred by their Moslem belief that the warrior who dies in battle is assured of a place in Allah's paradise.

Every man carries a gun. Every man carries a gun in his native village, he does not venture into his courtyard without it. He is quick to fight either friend or foe and may spend hours on the sun-baked roof of his hut, swatting his neighbor to take a pot shot at a neighbor. But no man ever shoots a woman, for the murder of a woman would be considered a disgrace.

Caravans and travelers who pass through this country are a target after nightfall. Even at intervals along the route, spaced to a day's camel march, there are caravanserais, or overnight fortresses. These are heavily guarded enclosures with thick mud walls, in which the camels and travelers spend the night. The gates are always locked at sundown.

Peshawar, the nearest large city, is the tribesman's Paris. It abounds with all the vices and practically none of the virtues that can be found in the civilized world. Vice, crime and opium smoking are favorite diversions; murder and robbery are practically taken for granted.

Live in Hill Country. For most of their time, the tribesmen lead a roving life in the sun-baked hills, practicing professional brigandage, at which they are experts. A few profess to tend herds and harvest scanty crops. Their favorite method of warfare is sniping from behind trees, and the British have lost numerous men as the result. It is related that once a British officer, incensed at a lone sniper who continued to pick off his men with appalling regularity, finally offered a huge reward of rupees to any native who would dispatch him. A slender, beardless youngster from the hills volunteered. In an hour he accomplished the job, shooting the aged sniper through the head as he crouched behind a tree.

"How did you find him so quick?" asked the British officer. "Easy," the young native replied. "He was my father."

Is "Funnel" to India. Afghanistan, with its wild uplands, forms the buffer state between India and the rest of Asia. For centuries it has been the funnel through which India's ravishers have poured down through Khyber Pass, one of the oldest highways on earth.

Through the Khyber, Darius the Great sent his captain, Scyaxes, to the Indus 2500 years ago and made an Indian satrapy out of his conquest in the north. In the year 326 B. C. came Alexander to pass through the Khyber in the course of his conquest of the world. Fifteen centuries later followed Jenghiz Khan, whose Mongol hordes swept across Central Asia in the Middle Ages and reached, but did not pass, the Indus. It remained for a second great Asiatic conqueror, Timur, to penetrate to Delhi and pillage the land nearly 200 years later. In the early 16th century, his descendant, Baber, who claimed kinship also with Jenghiz Khan, invaded India via the same route and founded the great Mogul dynasty which nominally ruled until the advent of the British.

And so, this ancient highway of conquest is aflame again, just as it has been intermittently for 25 centuries. In the hills around the narrow defile which echoed to the clank of the swords and spears of Alexander the Great 300 years before Christ, the recurrent drama of centuries later followed Jenghiz Khan, whose Mongol hordes swept

RADIO DEALER BOOSTS NEWSPAPER ADVS.

That newspaper advertising brings the best results and pays for itself many times over if properly handled was the gist of a talk by J. W. Wimberly, Jr., advertising manager for Lyric Radio recently before a group of dealers and distributors in Chicago.

He went on to say that test campaigns have been carefully watched and that the entire Lyric advertising appropriation had been confined to newspapers only after careful thought and research. The present appropriation is up December thirty-first. The campaign has been so successful that the company plans to continue its policy next year. Billboards, radio broadcasts, weekly and monthly publications have all been relegated to the background.

Although the company is one of the few large sellers of radios not using national advertising, they feel that the use of this money for newspaper space exclusively has been amply justified.

In some Connecticut territories sales have increased over one hundred per cent since July 1 when the appropriation was first made. Mr. Wimberly attributes this increase to the newspapers backed by the product. In closing his talk he urged more newspaper advertising and said the company would cooperate to the fullest extent to make this possible.

FOREST FIRE WARNING

Hartford, Oct. 8.—(AP)—C. H. Lathrop, assistant state fire warden, today warned against the menace of forest fires. He said that unless rain falls in Connecticut by Sunday the situation will be serious.

A fire near the Fred Stone ranch in East Lyme, first reported September 27 is still smouldering. Another at New Hartford was reported under control after a two day fight. A number of other fires have been reported during the last week. The state park and forest commission has prohibited the use of all fire places in state parks until the dry spell is broken, and Mr. Lathrop urged that to all those entering or riding through forests to exercise the greatest caution.

BANDITS GET $38

Wallington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Three young gunmen shortly after midnight today held up Henry Robarge, an attendant at the State Park on the Wallington North Haven line and escaped with $38 in cash.

Robarge said the youths had driven up to the filling station and asked for a quart of oil. At the point of guns, they forced him to turn over the night's receipts.

If those janitors attending summer classes at North Carolina State College organize a team, they'll probably call themselves the Red Sox. They're invariably in the cellar.

World Cruise in Own Ship Reward of Pair's Dream

With a three-year cruise of 40,000 miles ahead of them, the crew of the schooner Swordfish here are shown aboard their craft after completing the trip from Chicago to New York. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cook, right, have planned and saved four years for the adventure. Don Dickson, left, also of Chicago, joined the cruise a year ago.

New York.—It was four years ago that young Bob Cook and his bride, Lenore, told their friends in Chicago that they were going to buy a ship and sail around the world. As evidence of their determination, they began saving a few dollars every week toward that dreamed-of cruise, effecting little economies here and there, denying themselves many of the trifling extravagances in which most newly married folk indulge.

Friends shook their heads in disapproval. It was too bad Bob and Lenore were so impractical. They were only 25 and 23 years old, with no money, and he was working at just a fairish sort of job. And as for sailing—why, they didn't know a jib from a main sail.

Ready to Sail

Today there is a trim little 46-foot schooner at anchor in the Hudson river. Her hold is jammed with supplies, and there is spare canvas in her lockers. The Swordfish has come 1800 miles from Chicago through the Great Lakes and the barge canal, and now is ready to put out to sea. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cook are ready, too. Their dream is about to be realized.

It seems that during that four-year period of sacrifice and saving, sheer luck came to the aid of their dogged persistence. In 1927, Cook won $1000 on a pool. Shortly after buy a car, or make the first payment on a house. They put it in their savings for the cruise. Mrs. Cook got a job and her husband won a raise. Their clothes may have been a little shabby, but they put aside $200 a month. Friends who had scoffed before now wanted to be included in the venture. But, one by one, they dropped out again, for there were financial difficulties and many days when the whole scheme seemed hopeless.

A year ago, however, 21-year-old Don Dickson, also of Chicago, joined the cruise, and stuck. Today he's the only other member of the schooner's crew.

To Seek Far Places. Though they're only fresh-water sailors so far, they've learned how to handle the Swordfish. The voyage will head first for the Bahamas, then cruise the gulf and the Caribbean, through the Panama Canal, down to the Galapagos and thence across the Pacific. They'll see the Nipponese Inland Sea, Borneo and Easter Island, the Honduras waters where pirates preyed, and isolated pearling islands in the south.

Lenore will tell you, if you visit the Cooks on their spick-and-span schooner before it sails, that "there's plenty of adventure left in the world—if you work hard enough to get it."

Each pattern is designed by an artist. Each worker must be an artist of sorts in the matter of lace-making. Were one or several women to work on them it would take years. As it is, many months are required making the patterns alone. Most of the very expensive lace adornments are bought by rich out-of-towners. New York has rarely gone in for that sort of thing. At least, not in recent years.

J. E. Loranagan, who can think back to the old Peacock Alley days, recalls when Anna Held would come by in search of such extravaganzas.

Once she ordered a $75 pair, which were duly delivered. When she went to put them on, she feared they were too small. She couldn't get them over her knees. She was afraid to take them off and she was afraid to pull them on. Imagine getting a run or tear or something in a $75 pair of stockings!

Loranagan was called from the store. He arrived post-haste, and then lost his nerve. These being the days of bars and cocktails he found courage in a few drinks and then returned. After several days, he finally took a chance. The stockings slid into place. All was well!

There is much talk about the extravagance of recent years. As a matter of fact, the spenders of grandma's days were infinitely better spenders when it came to buying stockings for their girl friends. Silk stockings, now a drug on the market, were rare. It was a commonplace to toss $25 into a pair.

The most grotesque of all women's hosiery appeared at the Chicago's World's Fair. They were red, white and blue, and fashioned after the national emblem. The leg stripes were red and white. The knee band was blue, with stars scattered about. They were particularly popular with bicyclists.

Thanks to the market and the business depression, expensive hosiery has been out of the picture for some time. At the moment, even the richer folk stop at $7.50.

The hosiery of Massachusetts, it seems, have been turning out a one-third stocking at this price. And just a little New Yorkese yarn now for a finish. The other day the $500 stockings were demonstrated on a human leg. The possessor of the leg was a model. Like scores of other models she had been out of work for a time. She had wondered only a few days before how she was going to buy some good stockings. But for a moment she wore a $500 pair. GILBERT SWAN.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 8.—This is going to be all about women's stockings, so you can look the other way if you wish.

You'd be surprised, for instance, to know how much it's possible to spend on them—or do you already know?

If you happen to be acquainted with Mr. Walls Beck, of the Fifth avenue firm that bears his name, he'll take you to a little glass case and show you stockings that would cost $500 a pair were you to buy them. And who, you may ask, buys $500 lace?

No one just now. In fact, such extravagant wearing apparel is taken around for exhibition purposes. But in years past any number of $250 stockings were sold. Mary Pickford owns a pair. So, I hear, do some of the other Hollywood lassies. Joseph Letter, the Chicago magnate, once bought two such pairs for a wedding.

It isn't the stockings themselves, but the lace that sends the price up. The lace comes from Belgium. In the case of 500 snacker stockings, it takes 100 women to get the minute lace bits together. Each one works on a different pattern.

Heart Hungry

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she leaves her unprosperous home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grandmother.

nice party. I've behaved badly enough as it is!
The car's waiting. Jordan indicated a black roadster with a wave of his hand. "Come on. We're leaving right away."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXII
The bright orange cab bobbed on the water for an instant, then a wave splashed over it. The second district call was more feeble than the first.

Jordan took one hand from the wheel long enough to pat her arm. "Don't say any more about that little adventure," he told her. "If it's made you change your opinion of me I can't even regret that you were frightened."

Some of the other bathers turned at the cry, but Celia had struck out for herself straight out to sea. Most of the party were shouting and splashing in the surf. Others, diving from a raft, evidently could not hear the girl's shout.

Something in his voice made Celia Mitchell blush deeply. Her eyes met his. She quickly looked away. "I don't really understand how it happened," she said, changing the subject. "I was so afraid of the water when I was five or six years old. And this afternoon I was swimming along not the least bit tired or any- thing. Before I realized anything was wrong the water was over my head. I couldn't manage my arms or get my breath."

There were tumultuous cries from the shore. "She's under!" "Who is it?" "Somebody get a boat!" "Oh, why doesn't he hurry?"

He managed to divert her attention until the car turned into the driveway at Larchwood. Jordan helped Celia from the car and a maid opened the door for them.

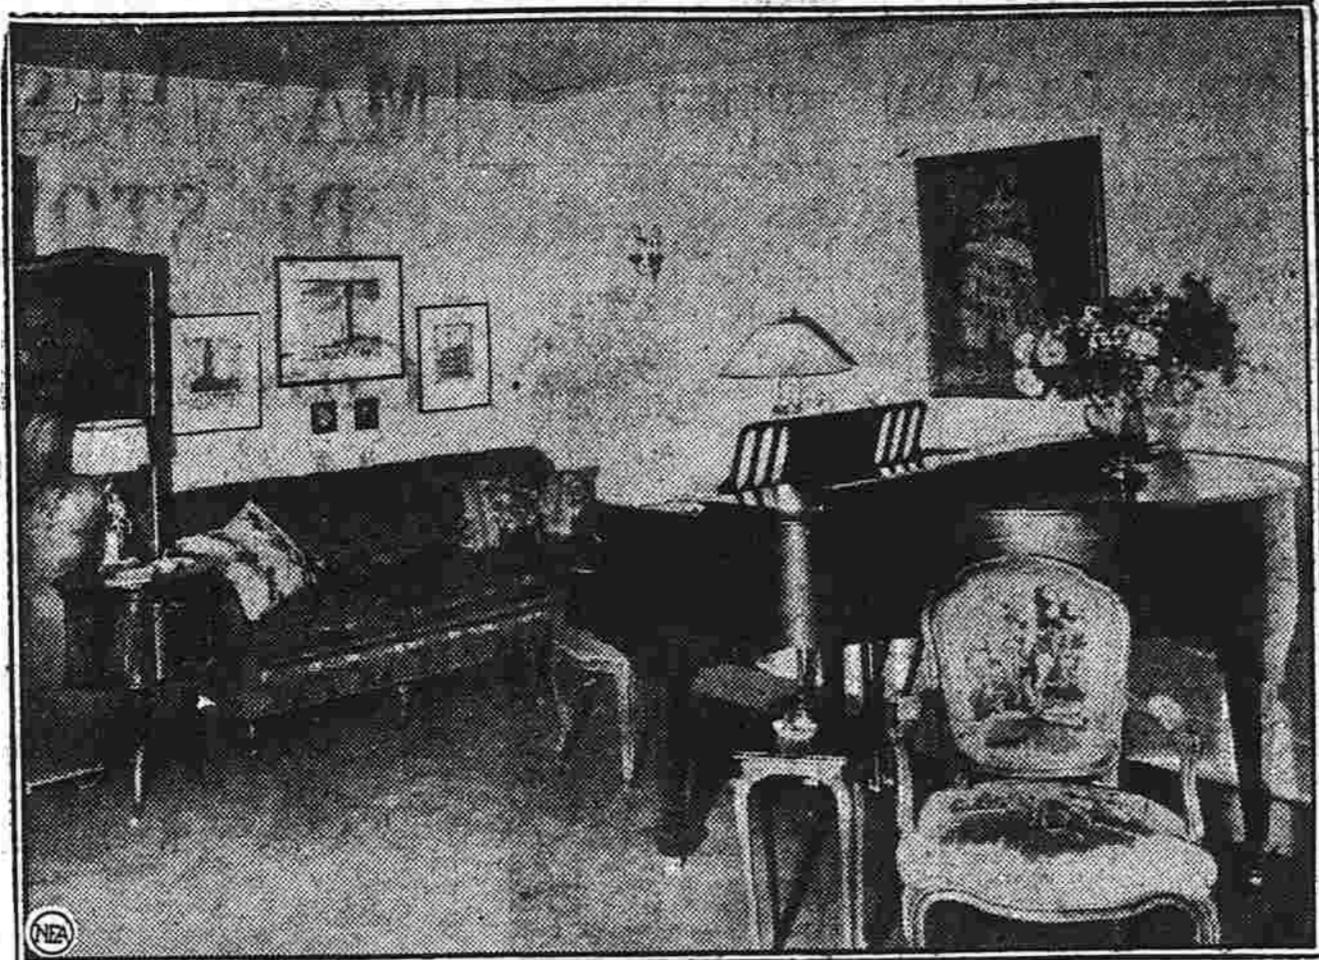

Lisi appeared and asked Celia how she felt. The two girls went to the dressing room, where Celia changed from the bathing suit to her summer dress. Someone supplied a flannel jacket and, thus wrapped warmly, Celia came back to the veranda.

It was pleasant to be shown so much attention. Celia had really been terrified, and now caused her to sink into a deep sleep. She awoke refreshed. It was nearly six o'clock. Celia bathed and dressed for dinner. She found Mrs. Parsons in the living room.

What am I going to do? Lisi asked Jordan. "She says she won't go home. She doesn't want to spoil the party."
Jordan was modest. Anyone would have done what he did. He just happened to see her first. It was nothing at all.

The dinner that followed was a quiet meal. Evelyn Parsons, when a fanned jacket and, thus wrapped warmly, Celia came back to the veranda. "What am I going to do?" Lisi asked Jordan. "She says she won't go home. She doesn't want to spoil the party."

LET THE PIANO STRIKE A NOTE OF HARMONY
FINDING A PLACE FOR IT IS PROBLEM FOR EXPERIENCED DECORATORS

An excellent arrangement of a piano in a room with modified modernistic wallpaper in beige and tan and plain rug in soft rose tone is to make a cozy corner unit of a davenport in satin brocade, used in conjunction with a mahogany drum table and book-stand against a painted screen and a Louis Quatorze chair in needlepoint, with low table, in front of the piano. A painting over the davenport and lamps all add their soft charm.

By JULIA BLANSHARD

New York, Oct. 8.—Arranging a room so that the piano is located in the psychologically perfect spot is a matter well calculated to tax a professional interior decorator and strike fear into the heart of any ordinary home-maker.

Piano is Conspicuous
This taken into consideration, the matter of the beauty of the room is successful when the piano hits you in the eye the minute you enter. Since pianos have a way of looking over-sized for modern homes, the best way to counteract this is to arrange your other furniture in such groups that they approximate the importance and size of the piano.

Balance is Important
The davenport unit, however, must be well-balanced, in good taste and dignified and formal enough to be a fit mate for the piano. A few flowers might, or a handsome single piece of pottery or crystal. Enormous rooms with rich furnishings sometimes use shawls or tapestries to throw over a piano decoratively.

FIRST RAILROAD TRACKS

Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Abandonment of the first stretch of railroad constructed in the United States is being contemplated by the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Company.

The line, running from Racket Brook to Honesdale Junction in Pennsylvania, is 24 miles long and was constructed between 1828 and 1829. Its age is greater than that of the railroad locomotive.

HAVE YOU HEARD?--

Children who take lunches to school find their sandwiches more appetizing if mother takes the trouble to cut them in fancy shapes ever and anon.

Sandwich cutters come in all kinds of shapes; card shapes, such as diamonds, clubs, hearts and spades, in animal shapes and in other fancy shapes. Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famous Authority

FOODS RICH IN IRON AID SUFFERERS OF ANEMIA
BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In cases of anemia after any infections and poisons have been controlled, or after any infestation with worms has been abolished, or after the poisons concerned have been eliminated, and in which there are no defects in blood formation by the blood-forming organs, or in which there is no excessive destruction of blood cells in any of the organs of the body, it is customary to improve the formation of blood by giving of certain substances in the diet which are particularly rich in iron and in vitamins.

In addition, however, to attempting to give iron by proper diet, one may be certain that the correct amount is being had by taking quantities of iron as medicine, for which several forms are available.

It should be emphasized that this infection is responsible for blood destruction hence a most careful study must be given to the tonsils, the teeth, the prostate gland, the ears, the generative organs in women, or any other frequent source of infection in attempting to control anemia.

The gallbladder and the appendix may become infected with chronic infections and unless removed continue to cause the patient to be a constant sufferer from deficiency in the number of red blood cells in the amount of red blood coloring matter.

Such worms as the tapeworm or the hookworm or the germ of amebic dysentery may locate in the bowel and may cause small hemorrhages from the bowels and loss of blood sufficient to keep the person constantly afflicted and below par.

A person with cancer, particularly of the intestines, may lose blood repeatedly as the result of the inflammation and ulceration and of the infection of the tissues by the new growth. In such cases, treatment of the blood is not likely to improve the condition, whereas a correct diagnosis and prompt removal of the dangerous growth leads to recovery.

There are diseases like malaria and tuberculosis in which the constant infection of the body by the germs results in blood destruction. Finally, there is the old diagnosis of overwork and undernutrition. It is generally well known that a person may keep his health at par or above by proper attention to rest and exercises and diet and sunlight and outdoor air, by the securing of the proper amount of mental relaxation and by freedom from fear or worry.

As people grow accustomed to flying a new sense of distance will develop and foreign countries will not seem so far away.—Colonel Lindbergh.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

BIRTH OF JOHN HAY

On October 8, 1838, John Hay, an American statesman, author and journalist, famed for his feats in diplomacy, was born at Salem, Ind.

After Lincoln's death, Hay entered the diplomatic service and was stationed successively at Paris, Vienna and Madrid. In 1897, after he had spent five years on the editorial staff of a New York paper, Hay was appointed by President McKinley ambassador to England.

Later, as secretary of state, Hay for all nations in China and laid the foundations for subsequent diplomatic relations with the Orient. When the United States began negotiations to build the Panama Canal, he negotiated a treaty with England that made this possible.

In all he brought about more than 50 treaties. He was chosen one of the seven original members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters. He died in 1905.

DON'T GO TO EXTREMES TO END CONSTIPATION

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. 7c cents a box at all drug stores.—Adv.

YOUR CHILDREN

Why do children make so many glaring mistakes in grammar? Parents are likely to answer promptly, "Because they are not taught in school," but it is time that somebody was correcting that erroneous impression.

A school room is not all grammar, neither is it all teacher. Fifty other children are reciting in it continually. Moreover, all hours are not recitation periods. In that time before and after sessions and at recess when children are congregating and disappearing they probably do more talking than in all the recitation periods put together.

Over speaking that goes on at this time, the teacher has no control. Another thing in her defense is that she cannot turn every geography, history, or mathematics class into a grammar study. If she did, the entire day would be spent on that alone.

Every time a child says "he don't" or "she don't" his teacher cannot stop him. Suppose he is telling the products of a certain country—his mind is on that, and if she persists in stopping him to correct his grammar, his thoughts about the country will fly out of the window.

As the master stands, if children are to speak correct English they must learn it at home. A child knows that "I saw" is right. Over and over his teacher has told him that he must never say "I seen," but if everyone at home says "I seen" and his playmates say it, he will say "I seen" and not "I saw."

The most shocking infraction of the rules of English are of course, "I have went," "We was," "They ain't," "I have did," "I seen," and the like.

But we are, as a people, snapping out of this type of illiteracy. What we are not curing is our national proclivity for colloquialisms, such as expressions for instance, as "Do you want to come out," or "go out." "Is that man living yet?" instead of "Is that man still living?"

But our greatest offenses are from sheer carelessness. We should ask ourselves these questions: "Do we say 'these kir' instead of 'that kind'; between you and I instead of 'between you and me'; she don't like it instead of 'she doesn't like it'; who did you see? instead of 'whom did you see?'"

Cards Pin Their Hope On Wild Bill Hallahan

Mack Depends on His Two Aces, Grove and Earnshaw; Orsatti May Supplement Hitless Bottomley.

BY BRIAN BELL

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 8.—(AP)—For the first time since 1926 a sixth world series baseball game was scheduled today with the Athletics and Cards renewing hostilities at Shibe Park. There were seven games four years ago when the Cards defeated the Yankees for the world championship and there will be seven again if St. Louis stops Philadelphia today. As it is, the National Leaguers have contributed to the last three games. In 1927 the Pirates were stopped in four straight games and likewise the Cards had no better luck against the New York Americans in 1928. Last year the Chicago Cubs won one and lost four to the Athletics.

Manager Charles E. Street pinned his faith today on his young left-hander, William A. Hallahan, who blanked the Athletics five to nothing last Saturday. Hallahan came to the majors from the Texas League tagged with the nickname of "Wild Bill" but he has not shown a disposition to be wild in his big games. In his first world series appearance he walked a total of five and allowed only seven hits.

Earnshaw and Grove both were anxious to work in the important game today and Manager Connie Mack's choice was narrowed to the two aces. No one should be greatly surprised to see both of the stars in action today and again tomorrow should the series be prolonged.

Before the start of the sixth game, many supporters of the Cards thought Manager Street might make a last minute shift either in his lineup or batting order. Jim Bottomley, the big first baseman of the Red Birds has fielded good in the series but has made only one safe hit in 20 times at bat.

Should "Sugar" Jim be taken out of the lineup, the "dope" was that Ernest Orsatti, who is an infielder as well as an outfielder would supplant him.

The Cards who arrived two hours ahead of the Americans, League managers were not downhearted by their position in a game "in the red" and promised to carry the series to the bitter end of seven games.

Weather prospects for the sixth game were uncertain, cloudy conditions with a threat of showers being forecast.

The probable batting order: Philadelphia: Bishop, 2b; Dykes, 3b; Cochran, c; Simmons, cf; Fox, 1b; Miller, rf; Haas, cf; Boley, ss; Earnshaw, p; Groves, p; Umpires, Rigler (N) at plate; Geisel (A) at first; Reardon (N) at second and Moriarty (A) at third.

A Chicago judge has ruled that adding water to good whiskey does not damage it. The decision, without question, reflects on his poor taste.

The Cleveland man who drank 11 tumblers of water and then invited all comers to compete for the water-drinking championship, must be credited with some discretion. He might have issued his challenge during the drought.

If sports writers thought they were clever in cubbing the baseball "pill," let them exercise some real ingenuity in finding a monicker for the golf and ping-pong ball.

ODDITIES IN THE FIELD OF SPORT

FISHERMEN RACE IS ON TOMORROW

Thebaud to Race Schooner Winning Two Races Over 37 Mile Course.

By TOM HOGAN Associated Press Staff Writer
Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 8.—(AP)—The men who brave the fury of the North Atlantic to reap the harvest of the deep will make sport of their hazardous calling tomorrow when the Bluenose, out of Lunenburg, N. S., queen of the Canadian fishing fleet, and the schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, pride of the Gloucester fleet, meet off here to sail for the St. Thomas Lipton International Fishermen's Challenge Trophy.

The cup will go to the schooner first to win two races over a triangular course of approximately 37 nautical miles, and with it the greater part of a large purse.

POKER GAME LASTS FOUR LONG MONTHS

New York, Oct. 8.—(AP)—What is believed to be the longest poker game on record—it lasted four months—was described in a radio talk over WABC last night by Russell Owen, correspondent for the New York Times with the Byrd Antarctic Expedition.

With money of no value, the stakes were cigarettes, he said, or when some particularly unpleasant task was to be done a game of freeze-out was played to see who would do it. When this latter was the case, he said a general conspiracy always existed to make sure Rear Admiral Byrd was so far ahead in the game he could not lose, as the men thought it not right for the commander to do the tasks they tried to evade.

SHANTY HOGAN KNIFE VICTIM

New York, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Francis (Shanty) Hogan, catcher for the New York Giants, received several slash wounds today during an altercation with a negro elevator operator at an apartment house in West 79th street.

The elevator operator, Joseph Kink, 35, was held on a charge of felonious assault. Detectives were told the fight started when Hogan objected to the presence at a party in the house of Kink, who had been invited in for a moment. They said Kink later returned and attacked Hogan with a baseball bat and when this was wrenched from his grasp drew a knife.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Hack Wilson, slugging centerfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has been voted the most valuable player of the National League by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

YALE SHUFFLES ITS BACKFIELD

New Haven, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The loss of Charley Sneed has forced Coach Mal Stevens to shuffle Yale's backfield material around somewhat. Just how much experimenting the Yale football mentor will do before the Eli's meet Georgia next Saturday is problematical, but today one of the two original backfields had three new men and a third group of backs was organized into a new unit.

McLennan alone remains of the backfield of which he has been quarterback. Pat Sullivan has replaced Sneed, Kemp Dunn has been transferred from Albie Booth's quartet to replace Taylor and Joe Crowley has supplanted Parker at fullback. In exchange for Dunn, Albie Booth has received Taylor.

A new backfield consisting of Heim, quarterback; Wiener and Conklin halfbacks; and Levering, fullback was organized yesterday by Stevens during a 45 minute scrimmage which resulted in a 12 to 0 victory for the varsity over the freshmen. Heim scored one of the varsity touchdowns after a 25 yard end run while Albie Booth directed a fifty yard march which sent Al Bean across for the second touchdown.

Football players at an eastern college are charged with having the lowest marks of anyone in the school. Small worry to them... They'll kick and pass.

WILSON WINS AWARD WITH ONLY 1 "FIRST"

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Hack Wilson, slugging centerfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has been voted the most valuable player of the National League by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The election, although made by the same committee that functioned on behalf of the National League in 1929, was unofficial in as much as the league last year abandoned the annual custom of picking the most valuable player and rewarding him with $10,000. However, William L. Veck, president of the Cubs announced that the Chicago club would give Wilson the $10,000.

MANCHESTER ELEVEN TO MEET BRISTOL AT HURLEY STADIUM

Carnera Lacks Punch Maloney Win Reveals

Boston's "Ham and Egg" Heavyweight Reveals True Story of Italian's Real Value; Proves Ambling Alp Has No Killing Punch and Also That He Is Easy to Hit—All This Despite Handicap of 65 Pounds in Weight and 8 Inches in Height.

BY BILL KING

Boston, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The fist capabilities of Primo Carnera, heretofore either under or over estimated, were accurately gauged last night by Jimmy Maloney, Boston's favorite but unreliable heavyweight. Giving away 65 pounds to the Italian behemoth, the Boston "fat boy," clearly outpointed him in a furious ten round slugfest at the Boston Garden.

Maloney proved that Carnera does not possess a killing punch. He digested exactly 195 of the giant's blows and the only time he lost his footing was when he fell against the ropes after a wild "corner house" right to the Italian's jaw late in the bout.

The Boston battler's performance, at least to the 12,000 who witnessed the exciting setto, also indicated that it would be sound judgment to disregard the 23 consecutive victories, 22 via the knockout route, that the "Ambling Alp" has picked up against carefully selected opponents since he started his American ring invasion early this year.

The Boston battler also proved that Carnera was easy to hit. Jamesy scored 192 times to the head or body of his huge opponent and 90 percent of them landed cleanly. Most of Carnera's punches were short right or left chops to the head and body, struck after his brute force had pushed his 195 pound rival against the ropes or into a corner.

Maloney won on the short end of the four to one betting odds but he fought the greatest battle of his long ring career and his victory was honestly earned. Carnera's 65 pounds advantage and his eight inches in height enabled him to turn and twist Maloney as he wished to take the first two rounds.

Maloney, once he found a way to prevent the giant from pushing him into a corner or against the ropes, lashed Carnera's head with wide rights and shot straight lefts into his body. None of these blows hurt Carnera much but, from the third to the ninth rounds they stung enough to make him miss often. While Maloney gaily slugged on to his lead, Carnera instinctively closed in on him and battered his head and body with short blows.

This chopping wore Maloney down gradually but he digested his punishment in impressive fashion and beat Carnera to most of the punches up to the ninth round.

The defeat was the first suffered by Carnera since he started his American campaign early this year. He piled up a record of 23 victories, 22 by speedy knockouts, but ugly rumors followed most of his contests. The boxing public appeared convinced that his bout with Maloney would be honest and decided to judge him by his showing against the Boston avenger.

Carnera, against the aggressive Maloney was impressive only at close quarters. Giving away such weight Maloney had to depend upon fast footwork and it was seldom that the Italian could land a blow on his circling rival.

And even against the ropes or in a corner Carnera was only able to chop short but terrific blows on Maloney's head, neck and body. The Italian did not even stagger Maloney at any time and the only time that Jimmy lost his footing was when he slipped against the ropes after missing a wild swing for Carnera's head.

Philadelphian, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Hack Wilson, slugging centerfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has been voted the most valuable player of the National League by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Wilson who smashed all National League home run records this year and dethroned Babe Ruth as the major league home run king, won the distinction after a close contest with Frankie Frisch, captain of the St. Louis Cardinals and Bill Terry, first baseman of the New York Giants and the new National League batting champion.

The election, although made by the same committee that functioned on behalf of the National League in 1929, was unofficial in as much as the league last year abandoned the annual custom of picking the most valuable player and rewarding him with $10,000. However, William L. Veck, president of the Cubs announced that the Chicago club would give Wilson the $10,000.

Wilson, although he received only one vote for first place, had a total of 70 points, five of the eight writers picking him for second place, one for third and another fourth. Frisch received four votes for first place and a total of 64 points, while Terry was the first choice of three of the writers and had a total of 53 points.

East Hartford Contest Expected to Draw Big Crowd; Full Moon Adds to Ideal Weather Conditions; Batterson to Kick Off; Fisher With Locals; Game Starts at 8 O'Clock.

The first night football game in this section of the state will be played this evening at the Hurley Stadium in East Hartford where the Majors of Manchester and the Maple Ends of Bristol will clash under the rays of manufactured daylight.

Mayor Walter E. Batterson of Hartford is to make the dedicatory kick-off promptly at 8 o'clock.

Night football came into popularity toward the close of last season in Connecticut when it was tried out in Meriden. The results were so satisfactory that other clubs took to this means of attracting larger crowds.

The novelty of such a stunt is well known to Hartford fans drawn many through the turnstile. All that is needed tonight to make conditions ideal for a big attendance is fair weather. A full moon is on hand ready to glare down at the gridiron warriors.

To the Maple Ends, night football will be nothing new. For it was there that the Hurley team that helped put night football on the map at Meriden last season. The Majors will get their baptism at chasing a white football under artificial light.

At first, they would doubtless seem very unusual but the lighting conditions are so excellent that it shouldn't take the Manchester contingent long to get familiar with the new situation and profit accordingly.

Just how many people will flock through the old Velodrome passage ways tonight is problematical. The fact that neither of the contending teams is well known to Hartford fans is partially offset by the fact that night football will be making its debut in Hartford. If the Majors make an impressive showing, games which they are scheduled to play each Wednesday night will reap a bigger coffee harvest.

The Majors have the possibilities of developing into a first-class machine that will steamroller all but the best of opposition.

Included in the lineup of the Manchester outfit tonight will be Leo Fisher, former Connecticut Aggie sensation, who lives in Hartford. Fisher was with the Hartford Giants last year and ran wild through the Cubs at Mt. Hope. Leo is not so big but his brilliant broken field running ability more than makes up for what he lacks in size. Fisher will be at quarterback tonight. His ability to run back points will make him an ideal man to have in the safety position on the defense this evening.

With the acquisition of Fisher, the Majors have an over abundance of high-grade material. Offhand it is most difficult to select the batting ram of the Majors, is sure to hold down one berth, as Tasker of Meriden, Mickle of Willimantic, Pioli of Providence, and Reacas of Hartford. There are two or three others of no little ability.

Once this combination of aces gets to functioning smoothly, the Majors will, or at least should be, one of the most powerful semi-professional football combinations in Connecticut—and a worthwhile drawing card for weekly night games at Hurley Stadium as well as Sabbath encounters in Hickey's Grove.

Bristol and Manchester have long been rivals in all sports and when the Majors and Maple Ends clash there is bound to be plenty of loose fur. The Bell City eleven has played two games winning from the Hartford South Ends by a touchdown last Sunday and losing to the Thomaston Ponties by a similar margin the week previous. The Majors rolled up more than 50 points in mowing down the Stamford Yellow Jackets and then turned in the powerful Naugatuck Rangers 6 to 0 last Sunday.

The lineup:
Manchester: McCarthy, 1c; Swick, 1b; Turman, 2b; Boger, 3b; Seully, cf; Binskie, rf; Sheehan, 1b; Munn, c; Conroy, p; Hugret, p.
Bristol: Pioli, 1b; Kane, 2b; Mickle, 3b; G. Alexander, cf; Tasker, rf; T. Alexander, rf; Moske, c; Sienski, p.
Referee: Waters; Umpire, McGrath; Head-Umpire, O'Connell.

THE TINYMITES

For 'bout an hour the soldiers stood and put on stunts that were real good. The Tynies were amazed to see how easily things were done. One soldier grabbed another by his hands and lifted him up high. Instead of making it hard work, they made it look like fun.
And then they took up wrestling. To one wee Clowdy shouted, "You can't toss the other on his back. No, sir! I'll bet on that." The wrestler smiled and snapped, "Well see!" And then, as quick as quick could, he grabbed his strong opponent and soon had him spread out flat.
"Let's try that stunt," brave Scouty cried. And Cappy walked up to his side and said, "All right, I'll wrestle you. Look out, you'll soon be tossed." But Scouty acted much too quick. He pulled a very clever trick that caught poor Cappy unawares, so Cappy promptly lost.
The athletes then cried out,

That the squelch-elegant was overheard at a local church this past Sabbath where a visiting preacher was occupying the pulpit. On completion of his sermon he turned to face the altar as he began to pray. After the service the host clergyman rebuked him saying that it was the custom to face the congregation. To which the other retorted, "Oh, you pray to the people."

HALE'S LEADS IN FOLLOWING MODE CHANGES

Connections With New York Group Aid Local Store in Watching Style Variations.

Few towns of Manchester's size can boast of such an up-to-date department store as is the J. W. Hale Company here. Any of the leading stores in metropolitan cities are no quicker in seizing upon changes in fashions and commodities than in the Hale organization. This quick acceptance in the changes of modes demanded by the modern methods of living has stamped Hale's a store in which the buyer can have confidence in obtaining the newest and the finest Dame Fashion has to offer.

Many Advantages

Hale's was quick to see the advantage that could be had by association with other stores throughout the country in buying its merchandise. Hale's is now connected with a group of department stores located in 22 cities having a central office in New York City. Not only does Hale's receive the many advantages group buying gives, but such an association allows for the interchanging of ideas in sales promotion.

This association with other stores was augmented considerably this past year by the joining of the local store with the facilities offered by the American Department Stores, Inc., a group of department stores located in key shopping centers throughout the country. F. H. Anderson, general manager of the local store is president of the American Department Stores organization.

Leads in Price Lowering

The J. W. Hale Company can usually be found in the lead in offering lower prices in merchandise. The reason this is possible is because Hale's association with a big store group makes it possible often times to anticipate price changes. As soon as the wholesale price lowers Hale's is in a position to offer the lower price to its customers.

HALE'S FUR STORAGE TAXED TO CAPACITY

So Good Has Been the Service Rendered by Local Store That More Room is Needed.

Milady's furs, the fashionable protection against the cold during winter's biting days, need far more protection themselves during the summer months than during the winter. Hale's, Manchester's leading furriers, is well equipped to give the service that the valuable garments require when they are not being sported by their owners. One of the features of store service the J. W. Hale Company is most proud of is its fur storage vault.

This past summer furs upon which valuations totaling $40,000 had been placed were stored in Hale's frigid fur vault. These coats originally cost anywhere from $100,000 to $125,000. So satisfactory has been the service rendered Hale's patrons in the storing of valuable fur coats and pieces that the capacity of the storage vault was taxed this past season. Plans are underway now for enlarging the quarters.

The best feature of storing furs at Hale's is the fact that customers can have their goods on very short notice. Many of the biggest storage quarters in the largest cities demand at least 24 hours notice. Hale's deliver their stored goods within a few hours. The J. W. Hale Company invites you to inspect its line of new coats and urges you to keep in mind the storage facilities made possible by this local store when next summer's hot days threaten our valuable garment.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Hale's Herald in tabloid form will come to you on the first Wednesday of each month with your copy of the Manchester Evening Herald.

Its duty will be to bring to you the major events that we have planned for the month, together with authentic style and fashion information.

The new notes in household things will be expressed in a manner we think you will find most interesting. The advertising it will contain will be accepted fashion and household commodities, at prices which will bring home to its readers that THE NEW LOW PRICES will be found in all of our twenty-two departments.

C. J. McCann,
Store Manager,

THE J. W. HALE COMPANY.

Foodstuffs, Clothing Are 20 P. C. Cheaper

Hale's and Herald Find Living Costs Are Cheaper.

Living expenses for the average Manchester family have become decidedly lower this year, according to a recent survey of the town completed by the J. W. Hale Company in co-operation with the Manchester Evening Herald. Prices of food, and clothing, man's basic necessities, have been reduced to such an extent that a family can get from 20 to 30 per cent more for its money now than last year. The indications are that the merchants of this town offer better values and finer goods for the prices than they formerly received.

Foodstuffs Lower

Foodstuffs are so much lower in price that such necessities as sugar and flour are selling at a low figure equal to the price of 20 years ago. Eggs, butter, tea and coffee are selling from 10 to 15 cents lower this year, but bread and milk show a slight decrease only. Meats, on the other hand, that ranged from 25 to 50 cents a pound are now selling at 18 to 35 cents, and chickens, veal, lamb and lard, depending on quality, have dropped 5 to 10 cents the pound.

The lowering in price of the basic commodities has brought the cost of clothing for both men and women today down to a minimum. The feminine desire for luxury, expressed by the vast amounts of silk garments purchased each year, will be doubly gratified this season.

Appeal To Women

The J. W. Hale Co. is offering every inducement to the women who are preparing their fall and winter outfits and the values offered at low prices are astounding, although the very high-priced clothes do not show a decided decrease in retail price, the value given for the money is twice that formerly given. Silk stockings, even in sheer chiffon, may be had at prices as low as $1.25 and $1.09, in contrast to the former $1.95 pair. This does not mean that they are getting the same stocking, but the appearances are as good and in many cases they wear equally well, if not better, than the more expensive ones.

Silk undergarments have dropped with the silk market. Garments can now be had for $1.95 and $2.95 where former prices were up to $5. The crepe and lace in some of these things can not be duplicated at home for the same amount. Silks and other piece goods, including high-grade pieces of transparent velvet, have suffered, or enjoyed—according to the viewpoint—one of the most marked declines in the merchandise field. From $1.95 to $1.79, from $1.79 to $1.49, and from $2.50 to $1.95 are some of the price jumps made by plain and printed crepes within the last year. Transparent velvets that sold last year at $7.50 now are offered at $5.95, and wool and coating materials that cost $4.50 in 1929 sell at $3.50 in 1930.

OLD TIME BARTEE

A reminder of the days before gold, silver, and paper money was seen in a transaction at Hale's Self Serve grocery department the other day. A local farmer desired a new radio. Cash wasn't exactly easy to obtain for his first payment on the fine Atwater Kent he desired, but he did have 25 bushels of fine home grown potatoes. He struck a bargain at Hale's whereby his 25 bushels of "spuds" were accepted as first payment on the Atwater Kent. A barter just like those transacted before the days of dollars.

MANCHESTER GIRL ADVERTISING HEAD

Miss Ethel Anderson Plans and Writes "Copy" for First of Monthly Publication:

Hale's Herald, somewhat of an innovation in the advertising field in this section, has been planned and edited by Miss Ethel Anderson, advertising manager of the J. W. Hale Company. This first edition, which will be followed monthly it is expected, is one the J. W. Hale Company is exceedingly proud of.

Miss Anderson, whose advertising layouts in The Herald, have attracted most favorable comment from critics in the New York of-face of Hale's buying syndicate, is a strictly Manchester product. She graduated from the high school here and joined Hale's immediately. She soon learned the art of advertising layouts and now handles all the "copy" for the local store. She hopes that Hale's patrons and the readers of this first edition will read the many items she has gathered with pleasure and will look forward to the editions to follow.

REPORTS PARISIAN STYLE FOR HALE'S

Openings in Style Center of the World Described by N. Y. Representative of Local Store

The leadership in fashions displayed in the J. W. Hale Company store here is due to that store's connection with the American Department Stores, Inc., of which Frank H. Anderson, Hale's general manager, is president. The New York corporation has almost unlimited resources for the obtaining of authenticated style news from the fashion centers of the world. Miss Florence M. Dinnen, stylist for the big syndicate, has just returned from the Paris fall openings and has consented to write a description of her visit to the famous French city for this edition of Hale's Herald.

Paris Openings

Following is Miss Dinnen's article:

"One can scarcely go into the matter of Paris Openings without first describing the ceremonies of viewing the showing of an important Couture. First of all, when one is in Paris, one doesn't call it an 'Opening,' one speaks of it as a 'Collection.'"

"Upon reaching Paris the first step, after depositing your bags, is to notify the various Houses that you have arrived and wish to see their Collections. This may be done by mail or, if you wish to expedite matters and have even a speaking acquaintance with someone in the organization, you may drop in and make a personal call. (Under no condition trust to the telephone unless you are competing with our ancient and honorable cousin Job!)

"Of course since you represent an important American firm, you are 'invited' to view the Collection. The name of your Hotel is noted and an invitation is immediately sent to you, either by messenger or mail. The invitation is generally engraved and it is not unusual for it to have an R.S.V.P. in the corner.

The Lifts

"Arriving shortly before the appointed hour you are met at the street entrance by a man in livery, who greets you with grave formality and escorts you to the lift, if there is one, or to the stairway. (Speaking of lifts or elevators as we call them in this country—until you have seen these vest pocket editions of which Paris is so proud, you cannot appreciate the American version of this convenience. Many of the Paris 'lifts' are so tiny that only two persons can ride in them at once. Almost none of them have operators and because electricity is expensive, in most places the 'lift' only takes you up. When you are ready to descend you do it via the broad and generally very dark stairways.)

"The showroom or rooms (and there generally is a suite) are spacious and very elegantly appointed—rich carpets sometimes Oriental rugs, handsome furniture (generally French), divans, great mirrors, elaborate chandeliers and the world's most uncomfortable tiny chairs set about the room for you. The decorations have been carefully chosen and are in very lovely colors and combinations. The long French windows, which are the rule 'over there,' are hung with exquisite real lace glass curtains and portieres of finest fabric. The whole effect is one of refined elegance.

The Attendants

"Every showroom has attendants in uniform—from half a dozen to as many as twenty or thirty young women who are really salespeople. They are smart looking and generally dress alike in a chic tailored frock. This season Patou has his young woman in two piece tailored dresses with finely pleated skirts. These dresses are made of silk crepe in Patou Beige—a new and very lovely shade. Schiaparelli has her girls in black one piece dresses with patch pockets and white collars and cuffs. Molyneux' girls are in grey, the same tone as the decorations of his showrooms.

"Promptly at the appointed hour, the models begin to appear—their garments are either numbered or named. A girl sits near the entrance and announces them as they appear. You are permitted to inspect each garment, if you care to, and feel the fabric. The price is not announced. This you must ascertain later from one of the salesgirls. From one hundred to three hundred garments are shown at every Opening. After the showing, which takes about two hours, the salesgirls ask you if there are any numbers you care to see again. These are shown you, either in the hand or on the models, and prices quoted. Naturally these girls anticipate an order; if a good sized one is forthcoming, they wax quite eloquent in praise of your taste and good judgment.

The Fall Silhouettes

"Now let us consider the Fashions, which Paris sponsors for the Fall and Winter of 1930. One of the most diverting of feminine pastimes for the next few weeks will be choosing the Winter wardrobe. The woman, who would put into practical use the economy, which she has openly avowed herself as sponsoring, will study Fashion trends intensively and decide which type of the accepted vogue best suits her individuality.

"She will then buy garments and accessories that fit this particular type, thus ensembling a wardrobe which goes together, for at no time in the history of the Fashion World has it been so important—to look really smart—for the wearer to see that every article of her toilet complements every other article. It is a wonderful season for a woman of taste. She can express her individuality in clothes without looking theatrical or bizarre.

"Four important and distinctly different silhouettes interpret the Winter mode and doubtless your mood. They are: Classic, Empire, Victorian, and Russian. Each one lovely in itself and appealing to a certain type wearer.

The Classic

"The Classic Silhouette, which takes its theme from the flowing robes of the Egyptian and Early Greeks and Romans, stresses beauty of line and simplicity. Evening dresses of this type depend entirely upon their perfect fit and beautiful seaming for their charm. Some of them are so simply cut that they look like the severe Princess dresses of a decade ago. Skirts are long, coming to the ankle or toe and flare toward the hemline. Belts when shown are very narrow, and serve only to mark the normal waistline.

In Afternoon dresses this Classic type is the inspiration for charming tailored effects. Here, of course, flattering collars and scarfs are added as well as long sleeves with trimmings between the elbow and wrist.

The Empire

"The Empire Silhouette is still quite new and will find much favor

HOSIERY

'HUMMING BIRD' HOSIERY PRODUCT OF BIG PLANT

Tennessee Factory Puts Out Four Million Pairs of High Grade Women's Silk
Stockings Every Year.

The Davenport Hosiery Mills Inc., makers of the Humming Bird Full Fashioned Hose located in Chattanooga, Tennessee, occupies an outstanding position in the Full Fashioned Hosiery industry, representing an investment of over three million dollars, employing native born Americans, with an annual payroll of approximately one million dollars.

This modern and up-to-date plant has a yearly output of over four million pairs of women's high grade pure silk hosiery, which are marketed under the Humming Bird brand by the stores of the better class in every state of the Union.

For Every Wear
These nationally advertised hose

have a reputation for beauty, perfect fit and long wear; there being a style for every occasion—morning, noon or evening—ranging from the heavy service weights constructed for wear, to the delicate Sheer Chiffons of genuine Grenadine yarn that are so much in vogue nowadays because of their dull tone. The Humming Bird Mills control every stage of manufacture from the imported Japanese raw silk to the finished product.

While moderately priced from $1.35 to $1.95 per pair, these stockings are properly styled by Mrs. Julie Bolegard, Humming Bird Paris Stylist, and command the respect of the discriminating buyer, or the woman in every ten who sets the style in her community.

Half Century Old
The Davenport Company's unusual success in the manufacture of hosiery dates back to the days following the Civil War when the plant first obtained country-wide prominence for its manufacture of Circular Knit Hose. This company was the first in the south and one of the first in the entire country to produce a pure thread stocking on a fine gauge circular knit machine. It is the first manufactory of Full Fashioned Hose in the State of Tennessee, and one of the first in the entire South—January 25, 1826.

The plant operates the only throwing or spinning plant South of the Mason-Dixon line and is the largest and most modern and complete Full Fashioned plant south of the Pennsylvania District.

The plant uses nothing but the very highest grade of silk—three grades higher than that used by the average manufacturer of hosiery, which silk is imported direct from Japan to the Davenport Mills in Chattanooga. Every stocking machine is of the latest design, modern and up-to-date, no machine in the plant using yarns coarser than 42-gauge. The entire equipment consists of 42 and 45-gauge machines of German design with all modern attachments—with 48-gauge division developments in its infancy.

Labor conditions at the Southern hosiery plant are ideal, the company selecting the costlier of two alternatives which involved the training, at great expense, of local labor. Every operator in Davenport's Full Fashioned plant is a product of Davenport's own school—is well paid and lives in pleasant self-owned surroundings and not in company owned houses or squalid mill villages. The plants are located in the heart of Chattanooga in a rapid growing business section—each department being located in separate buildings within a radius of four blocks of each other.

Chattanooga being the scenic and historical center of the South brings each year large numbers of tourists for a view of the battlefields also Lookout Mountain, on which the Confederate Memorial is being sculptured. No doubt quite a few of our patrons visit there annually, and in planning your itinerary, do not fail to see the modern plant where Humming Bird Hose are made, which is located in the shadow of this historic mountain, overlooking the battlefields of Chickamauga Park and Missionary Bridge.

Show Windows Always Catch Shopper's Eye

Hale's show windows are always sure to catch the eye of the passer-by because of their beauty. They are planned and executed by Eric Crawshaw, a Manchester product. The seasonal interior decorations and the hundreds of store signs, always attractive and pleasing to the eye, are also Crawshaw's work. He has received many prizes in national competition for his brilliantly designed show windows. Crawshaw learned his art with the J. W. Hale Company and he has frequently designed windows and interior decorations that ranked with the best show windows in many of the larger cities.

Once again the Fall season rolls around, and with the coming of the cooler weather, one is most interested in colors.

Stylists on both sides of the ocean have agreed that for daytime wear black will lead with brown a close second; green, third, then red and blues from medium to dark navy.

The colors of the costume seem to be more in harmony with hosiery than ever before, everything has been ensembled—costume, millinery, bag and other accessories.

The dull hose has come to stay. What is prettier than a sheer dull hose? It flatters the limbs and does away with the shine which we dread on both our nose and hose. Grenadine and crepe are the two most popular constructions used for dull hosiery. The many twists used in constructing make them sheerer and stronger, and with careful laundry should outwear a tan silk.

Somewhere on this page you will find the shade hose to wear with the different colored costumes, which we hope will be helpful in selecting your hosiery.

Hale's Millinery—Main Floor, rear.

What's What in the Millinery Mode

"Tip your hat and show your curls" is the way to wear 1931 millinery.

Berets and turbans continue to head the millinery mode — concentrating attention and trimming at the nape of the neck.

Black has completely run away with the season in hats as well as coats and frocks—black trimmed with white being best, black with turquoise next best.

After black come the "off-blacks" in importance, then brown and then the blue-greens.

Brim this season are draped to flare away from the face giving that off-the-face look. Double brims are used for becomingness and flattery—draping the hat to softer lines.

Felt leads the millinery mode. Followed by velvet, soleil, vis-a-vis and clipped veils.

The Beige Lapan Coat Is Smart—

Lapin is favored by the younger set this fall. We are showing a smart model, youthfully belted, in beige lapin with trimmings on cuff, collar and belt of nutria shade lapin. Full silk crepe lined. A smart but inexpensive coat—only $100.

How Hale's Furs Are Bought

Your Fur Coat Is As Dependable As The Merchant From Whom You Buy It.

The average woman is not buying a fur coat every year and is, therefore, very cautious and careful, as she should be, when deciding to purchase one.

Fur coats are like diamonds. Only experts really know them. When a young man decides to purchase a diamond for his fiancée, he usually selects a well-known and reputable diamond merchant, upon whom he can depend, knowing that he will secure full value for his money.

We think this is exactly what the women of Manchester think and do when they plan to buy a fur coat. For this reason we have employed the services of Mr. Greenway, a New York fur expert, whose business it is to select and buy personally every coat that comes into our stock, as well as every special order, which assures us of two things, in which you are vitally interested. First, to secure the best possible in quality in furs which are dependable and of the kind that we wish to sell; and Second, to secure them at a price, by which we are enabled to meet the keenest competition.

Mr. Greenway represents about twenty medium and large sized department stores and does nothing else but scour the New York fur market for the utmost in values and quality for his accounts.

Take for example a Hudson seal coat. There are two things paramount in his mind. The first is quality. After he has found the quality that will pass his very rigid inspection as to what a fur coat should be, he is then interested in price. The same applies to muskrats, squirrels, minks, Jap weasels, etc.

The combined purchasing power of the stores with which we are associated give us a buying power which assures us of the market's lowest prices, which we are able to pass on to our customers and which will meet any Metropolitan competition.

REMODELING AND REPAIRING
This year we have opened through the service of our New York representative, a repairing and remodeling feature in our Fur Department. Bring your coat to us and let us give you an estimate on fixing it up for you if you would like to wear it a few more seasons. All work guaranteed to be satisfactory.

ACCESSORIES

A Special Purchase!
Suede and Calf

Hand Bags

$2.98

A special purchase enables us to offer our customers such "values" at $2.98. Simple designed bags in the season's smartest and favored fabrics—calf and leather. Envelope and a few pouche models in black and dark brown. A variety of shapes and styles.

Hand Bags—Main Floor, front.

Trends in Hand Bag Fashions

Like shoes, handbags become part of the silhouette. They match the color of the coat or blend with it. Calf is a first choice for general daytime wear; for formal daytime wear—suede.

The simple envelope is the leading bag fashion for daytime use.

Handbags are simple in design; there is less ornament than last year. For instance a plain calf envelope bag has only a colored button as a trimming—useful and at the same time ornamental. This bag in stock is priced $2.98.

Black and dark brown are leading colors. Trimmings when used on bags match in color and contrasts in fabric just as in shoes.

Fur Trims Dresses and Coats this Season

Furs, handled like fabrics, are used more than ever before as trimmings. One sees it on dresses as well as coats. The Russian influence is shown this season on frocks trimmed with bands of fur. It is also used on silk crepes, woollens, and wool crepes. We have received short lengths of furs which retail at $1 each that can be used on coats and frocks. Sleek furs as well as the popular long haired furs in light and dark colors.

Jewelry Fashion Highlights

Jewelry tends to be individual and to complement the particular costume with which it is worn.

Many new costume jewelry takes on the barbaric note, copying pieces seen in the museums.

Jewelry highlights the colors of the Fall costume. The new stones are colored to match the fabric colors. When worn with tweeds or prints the jewelry picks up the second color in the material.

Chokers and necklaces continue to be leaders. The new chokers are longer—the average length is 16 to 20 inches.

Pearl earrings are being worn by our smartest women. The pearl button earrings being the correct ones for daytime wear.

Flexible crystal bracelets are very popular with the younger set. These may match the handbag ornament.

Rhinestone clips are being worn by America's fashionables. They appear on hats, shoes, bags and necklines of frocks.

Crystals are always in good taste. Through a special "buy" we are able to offer the best-looking diamond cut crystal beads at the unusually low price of $1.98. Choker and long strands in crystal, smart black and white effects, and plain blues, greens, yellows, and orchids. They go so well with almost every type of costume. Many women are picking them up now for Christmas giving.

The new handkerchiefs which we have received for Fall are trimmed with all-over embroidery or colored appliqued corners. Very good quality of pure linen. These are priced at 25c and 50c.

Practically all the new frocks have belts this season. When making-up that new Fall dress why not select one of these new belts in suede or kid? Black and colors. 50c and 99c.

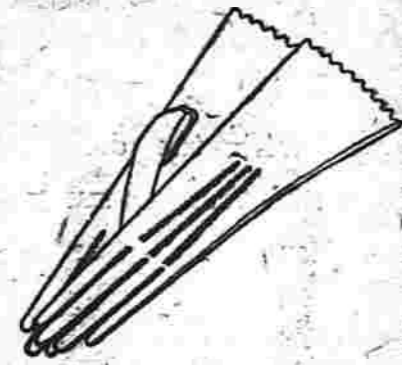

Eaton, Crane and Pike are offering lovely, new stationery packed in attractive boxes. Plain or inter-lined envelopes. These are very inexpensive, $1.

With the bridge season now in full swing and the old problem again of "what to give for prizes," we suggest visiting our Stationery Department where you will find new and unusual gifts, inexpensively priced.

Everyone in town who likes fresh peanuts always comes to Hale's for them. They know they are fresh for our rapid turnover assures you of fresh peanuts at all times. The famous Mothers Brand at week-end price of 39c.

Another week-end candy item which people come in regularly for each Saturday is Hale's assorted chocolates which are offered at 49c a pound. During the week they are 60c. Cream, chewy, nut and hard centers.

Glove News!

Gloves follow the trend to darker colors, because gloves must harmonize with the color of the coat or dress and match the hosiery.

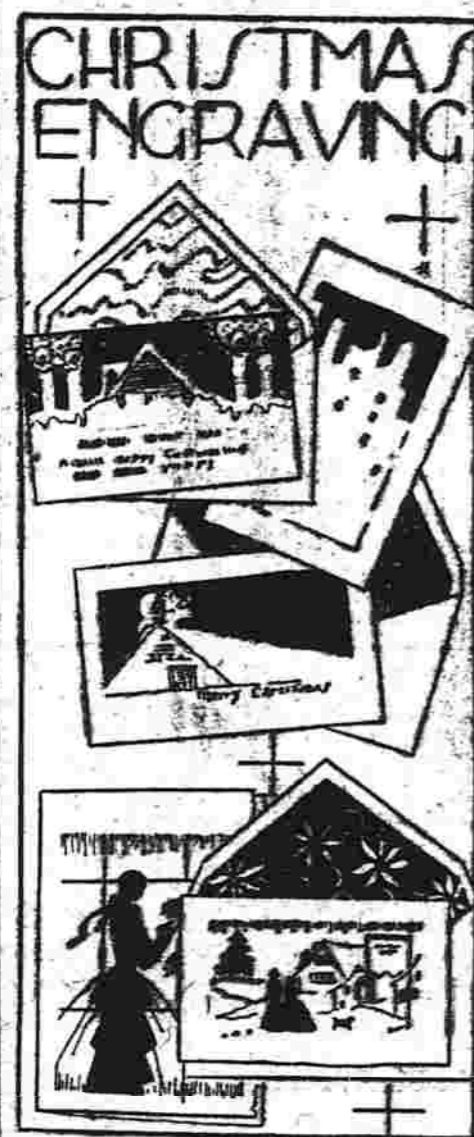

Glove fashions show greater simplicity. Pull-on gloves get increased acceptance.

Gloves are longer for daytime wear. The most popular length is the 4-button glove.

Subtle contrasts are seen on many of our new gloves. For instance on a light tan cape glove we have a dark brown contrast used in a side effect. $2.98.

Buttons again are used as trimmings, this time on gloves. A new cape model we have in stock is trimmed with three buttons. An especially good-looking model at $2.98. Brown, tan and gray.

A popular glove with women drivers, office girls, school teachers and missuses are the slip-on fabric gloves which we are featuring at $1. They have picoted ends and stitched backs and really look much more expensive. Tan and dark shades.

Lingerie Trimmings Are Back In Vogue Again

Many of the famous designers featured lingerie trimmings on their frocks at the recent openings. It is so feminine and youthful! Two or three lingerie sets for a dark frock will transform it into three different costumes. For instance, on a tailored black silk choose a white pique and a turquoise blue set for business, and for dressy wear a dainty lace or georgette set. These sets are really very inexpensive—50c and 99c.

COATS

Fashion Flashes

Coats this Fall should be long enough to cover the dress. With the dress at middle calf, the coat must be long enough to cover the dress.

Fur trimmings contrast or matches the color of the coat. This season the majority of furs contrast with the coat but in a subtle way. The long, shawl type of collar is most seen especially in long haired furs. Flat furs are high in favor but second in importance to the long hair furs. They are used especially in the draped or reverse collars and are worn with wide cuffs of the same fur.

Tweed coats are more feminine than in past seasons. Color blending in the tweed coatings is very subtle—a closer harmony rather than a sharp contrast is seen.

The most popular furs used as trimmings on the Fall coats are Persian lamb, caracul, fitch, wolf, and lapin.

The all black coat is the season's favorite, being trimmed with caracul or Persian lamb. Next in importance are the rich browns. Dark blue, dark green and red coats are also new and smart.

Our most popular selling coat is the plain Vionnet wrap-around with shawl collar and novelty cuffs in black and brown.

Coats are less bulky. They are buttoned or belted and wrap the figure.

In coats as well as dresses, sleeves emerge into the style spotlight this season. There is the bell shape sleeve trimmed with bands of fur; many coats have elbow deep fur cuffs.

Sports coats are worn at upper calf; dress coats at middle calf.

Dress Highlights

Sleeves, after many years of fashion obscurity, emerge into the limelight again. Just to mention a few of the many new treatments, there's the leg-o-mutton sleeve—an ancient reminder of the 19th century—the puffed sleeve, and the short sleeve with tied bows.

Black and white frocks are especially chic this Fall. The all black frock relieved by a touch of white fur or by a soft lingerie touch at neckline. Turquoise blue is another smart contrast on black and it is being adopted by some of our best dressed women.

The bolero and peplum-effects do not diminish in popularity for the new season. Folds of self-materials are used on the new frocks to indicate boleros and peplums.

Wool lace and beads trim many of the newest frocks and they will increase in popularity as the season advances.

Even hemlines predominate on daytime and evening dresses.

The Russian influence is strongly manifested, with several of the new frocks featuring long tunics belted at the waist. A style especially becoming to the tall girl.

Sheer woolen dresses have come back into fashion's favor again. One sees them in wool crepes, jerseys and knitted fabrics.

"Button, button, whose got the button"—the frocks have them this season. Buttons are used for decorative purposes on many of the new models featured in self-materials or in contrasting colors. Many times being the only color contrast on a plain frock.

Women are selecting "travel prints" daily for utility wear as they will not wrinkle. In new Autumn colorings in softly tailored models.

Another silhouette which is very well suited to the larger woman is the wrap-around silhouette which ties at the side and is adjustable to the figure. This was originated by Viomet in 1928-1929.

Neat Printed Frocks

Dress Lengths Remain the Same for Fall 1930.

Skirt lengths remain the same for this coming season—lengths increasing as the day advances. Lengths not measured in the exact number of inches from the floor, but that length which is appropriate to the occasion and becoming to the individual.

When buying new Fall frocks it is a safe guide to go by this schedule: upper calf for sports, upper and middle calf for street, middle and lower calf for afternoon, and ankle length for evening wear.

Deep, Rich Colors for Autumn

Black is generally conceded to be the smartest shade of the season, and black and white is even smarter still. Browns are considered next in importance. Wine reds, ruby reds and greens vie next in importance. Blues have become newly interesting since Lelon expressed his approval of them so strongly in his recent showing.

RADIO

Monster Home of Atwater Kent Radios

General view of great Kent factory in Philadelphia.

ATWATER KENT RADIOS HIT 3 MILLION MARK

The eighteen million milestone in radio manufacture in the United States was marked this week by the production of the three millionth radio set in the Atwater Kent factory, in Philadelphia. Without ceremony, except for the presence of Mr. Kent and some of his close associates, the three millionth set was received by Mr. Kent, personally, and the factory proceeded without a break toward the production of its four millionth radio.

The eighteen million sets include only those produced in radio factories and not sets made by amateurs, which, it is estimated, would add three million more to the total number of radio sets made in the United States, since 1922, this making the total 21,000,000.

Last year alone, it is estimated, the buying public spent $850,000,000 for radio sets, whereas the amount of money spent in the purchase of radio sets in 1922 is said to have been only about $5,000,000.

The number of American homes equipped with radio is variously estimated. No exact figures are expected until the United States Bureau of Census tabulates and gives out the totals obtained in answer to its official Census question, "Have you a Radio?"

The New York Times, quoting figures from a survey made by one of the large life insurance companies, at the first of this year, estimated the American radio audience at more than forty million listeners. In special nationwide broadcasts the number of radio listeners has been estimated at over fifty million.

The same authority reported that its survey revealed that nearly sixty per cent of radio set owners had possessed their sets less than two years. That the old crystal set, representing the first stage of radio, has practically disappeared is shown by the report from the same source that approximately only three per cent of radio owners now have crystal sets.

A. Atwater Kent, looked upon as a leader in radio manufacturing, said, "the best answer I can give to the question of what I think of the future of the radio industry is that we have started on the production of our fourth million sets with an unshaken confidence in the future of American business prosperity. I have a deep, abiding faith in the future of this big, fast, exciting business which we call 'radio'. My belief in its future, which impelled me to expand my production facilities, is today stronger than ever."

The factory has been taking on new employees and increasing its output correspondingly and it is expected that the production in the plant will be stepped up still further from now up until Christmas.

If the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company is a true index to the situation in the radio industry, the radio business is growing decidedly better. Of course, it is always expected to show an improvement in the early fall, when radio manufacturers start in on the heavier production of their new models for the winter and Christmas trade. But this fall, there has been much speculation as to how the radio business would stand up. Although radio is becoming more and more a necessary thing in the lives of Americans, it still has features of a luxury. And for that reason, it was commonly predicted that radio would perhaps be hit hardest by any crimp in purchasing ability.

The Atwater Kent Company is not in all ways a true index to the radio industry because Mr. Kent, individual in everything he does, is unique in the management of his great business. For instance, his company has never had any shares of its stock on the market. In the twenty-seven increasingly profitable years of its existence, it has always done business on its own capital and has never borrowed a dollar. It owns its business and its manufacturing plant outright.

Mr. Kent has always been prompt in mulling every rumor of a possible merger with any other company. Last fall, when rumors of a combination with this, that or the other radio organization persisted, Mr. Kent declared that nothing had occurred to lead him "even to consider joining forces with any other company. I have no idea of either dividing the direction of my business or the responsibilities which it involves," he said.

In the period early this year when most radio distributors and dealers still had heavy stocks of radio receivers on hand, Atwater Kent distributors were sitting pretty with practically empty shelves since the Atwater Kent inventory has never been excessive. Mr. Kent's collections, it is announced, has been normal and good. At no time has he been overproduced and now at the beginning of the 1930-31 season, his factory is in a healthy condition and has been running a little behind in orders.

The Atwater Kent plant has been taking on new employees constantly this fall and has increased production correspondingly. In the last week or ten days, production has been about 4,000 sets a day. It is expected that the daily output will be stepped up considerably from now up until Christmas.

"The demand for our new 'Golden Voice' has exceeded all our expectations," Mr. Kent said this week. "Our factory production is increasing steadily, the immediate outlook is bright, and I have an unshaken confidence in American business prosperity."

Mr. Kent is quick to alter factory conditions whenever he thinks it is for the best. Thus his force of employees varies from time to time. Probably no plant of its magnitude—thirty-two acres—is more favorably situated for efficient, economic production or to share its economies with the public. Production is scientifically controlled so that its distributors and dealers are never overstocked.

It is understood that Mr. Kent feels that the shaking down of the industry has been as with other industries which generally have suffered from overproduction, a beneficial thing and will lead to greater stabilization.

Mr. Kent has always enjoyed the reputation of doing unprecedented things and pioneering in various phases of radio. For instance, when the musical world was decrying radio as a thing that might ruin concert artists' careers, he made arrangements by which he put the foremost grand opera and concert artists of the world on the air, entering the sixth consecutive year of such broadcasts, October fifth.

Recently, he invited his distributors to assemble all Atwater Kent dealers at eighty-seven separate points in the United States. Then he engaged the biggest hook-up of broadcasting stations ever used in such a commercial program—fifty-three—and himself addressed every single one of his dealers over the air. His talk and that of his General Sales Manager, F. E. Basler, and of his Chief Engineer, Frank Aiken, were heard by every Atwater Kent dealer in the United States over the new "Golden Voiced" Atwater Kent radio. This, in effect, was the largest convention of retail merchants ever assembled to listen to one program.

REPORTS PARISIAN STYLE FOR HALE'S

particularly with the younger set or the woman of slight build. To visualize this charming mode one has only to recall those lovely pictures of the Empress Josephine. The waist is higher than normal. Fetching puffed sleeves appear in the formal evening dresses and the skirt is full, adding considerably to its breadth as it approaches the ankle. Many dresses of this type show skirts of three and four tiers, the tiers being joined by rows of fullness or tiny headings.

Victorian
"The Victorian Silhouette recalls those charming old daquerreotypes of our Great Grandmothers. Dropped shoulders appear in many evening dresses. The Leg-o-Mutton sleeve with its elaborately trimmed cuff and lower portion is also shown, together with the Bertha collar and the snugly fitted corsage. Truly this is a lovely Fashion for the feminine type of wearer.

Russian
"Next we come to the silhouette of the Russian influence. The most important Fashion note of this group is the Tunic dress, which means there is a separate skirt over which one wears a blouse, which may end at the hip or extend anywhere from the hip to the upper calf. Because contrasting colors are important for this season many creators show the Tunic blouse in the shade and the skirt in a deeper shade. For example, for afternoon wear an eggshell Tunic is worn with a black velvet or satin skirt. For daytime wear one sees such a dress fashioned of two shades of brown or of red and black or blue and black.

Winter Coats
"Speaking of coats they're referred from collar to hem. The Russian influence is an important style trend in these too. Such a coat is fitted at the waist and the skirt flares gently toward the hem. It fastens at the side front and wraps very generously about the figure, thus affording ample protection from wintry winds. A belt at the normal waist, fastens with a rather large military looking buckle or clasp. The cuffs are generally of fur and are set slightly back from the wrist and flare toward the elbow. The collar may stand up about the chin or be a variation of the shawl or crush type.

"One also finds the Classic coat which is particularly good for formal wear. Its seamings are very carefully studied and in many cases, particularly if the wearer is not slender, no belt is used. One of the most picturesque coats for Winter is the Victorian type, which chooses an adorable little cape, which fits tightly about its shoulders. This is generally of fur for Winter wear and sometimes fastens toward the side rather than directly in the front. Of course, the wearer will want one of the cunning little ball muffs to carry with this and may even go a step farther and indulge herself in a tiny fur beret. All coats have sumptuous fur trimmings—great collars, deep cuffs, wide bands down the front and fetching capes!

Contrasting Colors
"The past few seasons have favored monotone Ensembles. Paris seems to have tired of this mode of dressing and has swung to the other extreme—that of strong contrasting colors.

"This Winter the black coat (and you will see hundreds of them) is not going to be a sombre affair, for under it the smart woman is going to wear a frock of brilliant blue, red, brown, beige or green. Or she may choose a Tunic dress with the tunic in a high shade and the underskirt in a darker color. To be sure, her hat will generally match her coat rather than her dress, and her handbag will be inconspicuous, but this idea of a high shaded frock comes as a welcome Fashion Innovation to many of us!

Look to Your Sleeves
"Try to find a plain sleeve! The vogue for elaborate detail expresses itself conspicuously in sleeves. Just look at them! Scarcely a one conforms to its Puritanical simplicity of last season. They are tucked, pleated, puffed, slashed, lace trimmed, wide cuffed, and what have you! A sleeve that is just a sleeve—serving a strictly utilitarian purpose is scorned by the simplest morning frock or the sturdiest sport coat.

"By Spring we may be crying out for simplicity or indulging ourselves in the paper padded monstrosities of the Gibson Girl Era. For the present, however, let us emit 'Ohs' and 'Ahs' of genuine pleasure over the Leg-o-Mutton sleeves that one may very well own in one's velvet afternoon dress and if the family budget permits, a bit of real Venice lace is sure to find its way about the wrist.

Consider the Belt!
"Belts are many and varied, it seems, but naturally if one's waist is to be snugly fitted, then belts play an important part. Rising to the demand of the occasion, narrow belts attach themselves to tailored woolen frocks—while the long sash-like variety chooses devious ways of marking the waistlines of the very feminine afternoon frocks. Many a tweed boasts a leather belt, while the jaunty short fur jackets, that you are going to see a lot of, add a fabric belt which matches the woolen skirt worn under it.

"Many formal afternoon and evening dresses dispense with belts particularly those of the Classic type, but where a belt is considered important, it narrows down to less than nothing and fastens with a decorative buckle.

Woolen's Return
"For the first time in many many seasons wool frocks occupy an important place in the Fashion World. I think I can truthfully say that of the daytime dresses shown in Paris, two out of every three were of Wool. One naturally imagines these, remembering the wool frocks of yesteryear, to be rather clumsy affairs. Such is not the case, for the woollens are so light in weight and so soft in texture that they have the appearance of heavy silk. The silks by the way are much heavier this season. So much so in fact, that many of them look like woolen fabrics. Indeed it was sometimes necessary to actually touch the garment to know whether you were looking at a silk or woolen dress.

"Of the Woolen fabrics, Broadcloths, Jerseys, Tweed Mixtures, Knitted Weaves, Basket Weaves, and Suede Cloths are most important for dresses. Of the Silks one chooses Canton Crepe, Flat Crepe, Faille and some Crepe Satin for Daytime. For Formal Afternoon and Evening wear, there are Crepe Satins, Heavy Sheer Crepes, Canton Crepes, Taffetas, and Velvet. There is a great effort on the part of the Couturiers to bring back the old-fashioned Pile Velvets as well as Velvetens.

Laces Important
"Another important revival is the vogue for real laces. One finds lovely collars, vestees and cuffs of lace. These are particularly good with velvets. You, who put Grandmother's real lace collar away in blue tissue paper, may well take it out and put it on your "best Sunday frock," for it is quite the Fashion. If you are treasuring a bit of Irish Crochet, that too should see the light of day again for it is now going to the smartest teas and the most exclusive bridge luncheons.

Accessories Inconspicuous
"Accessories like little children should be seen, but not heard! No woman who achieves smartness will treat her accessories lightly. They must blend in perfectly with the costume as a background. If she wears a black coat, she will carry a black purse. By the same token her hat will be black and in all probability her shoes. Of course, there is a certain amount of latitude—for example a woman may decide upon a dark Ensemble choosing a dress, hose, shoes and hat to match her coat, so that there will be no glaring spot of color against the silhouette of her coat.

Your Hosiery
"Hosiery is much darker than in many a season, excepting for Evening wear. Light skin shades are rarely seen. In their place dark heiges and quite dark browns are used and for wear with black one chooses gunmetal or the new and very interesting Ink shades, which some shops term 'Off-Black.' Sheer black hose are accepted by some smart women, though since it is very difficult to have the black take evenly, satisfactory sheer black hose are rather expensive and will probably not be in great demand.
