BOYD STARTS HOP ACROSS ATLANTIC

Canadian With Lieutenant Connor Begin Journey to London—Old Columbia,
Levine's Plane, Being Used

BULLETIN:
New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—
The Radio Marine Corporation received a message from the steamship Quaker City, one hundred miles east north-east of Cape Race, which told of sighting the Columbia. The plane was flying at an altitude of two hundred feet, headed "East true," the message said. It was timed 12:55 Eastern Standard Time.

Harbor Grace, N. F., Oct. 9.— (AP)—Captain Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry Connor hoped off here today in their airplane for a trans-Atlantic flight to England at 11:20
a. m., E. S. T.

The two fliers who flew here from New York more than a week ago had been fog-bound at the local airport since. Early today for still hung over the Newfoundland coast but, impatient at the delay, they prepared to take advantage of the first break in the weather.

It came during the forenoon when the clouds broke away and the fliers decided to take the leap immediately.

It will be the Columbia's second trans-Atlantic crossing if the fliers are successful. The airplane is owned by Charles A. Levine, who flew in it to Germany more than three years ago. His pilot was Clarence Chamberlain.

The veteran monoplane Columbia essayed her second trans-Atlantic crossing when she put out over the Atlantic ocean today from Harbor
Grace, N. F., with Captain Errol
Boyd at the controls and Lieutenant Harry E. Connor as navigator.

The old ship, which belongs to Charles A. Levine, is the vessel in which Clarence Chamberlain and Levine flew across the Atlantic from Roosevelt Field to Kottbus, Germany, in June, 1927.

Since then it has carried Mabel Bohl to Havana, it cracked up at the take-off of a projected flight to Rome, and it was damaged in a flight which Levine himself made in the monoplane over Roosevelt Field.

No other plane still in rigorous service has, perhaps, the sturdy record of Levine's Belanca.

At 10:55 a. m. Captain Boyd, in command of the projected flight to London which started today, began last spring to prepare for the trip. He hoped at first to start from Montreal on the flight in the latter part of May or early June.

First Canadian to enlist in the Royal Air Force during the World War, Boyd had flown the mails for several years. He selected Connor, who navigated the plane in which Roger Q. Williams recently flew to Bermuda, as his navigator.

From late August, when Boyd finally got ready for his ocean hop, until today the project had commenced misfortune in getting under way.

He reached Montreal on September 1 from Toronto and found the plane under seizure at St. Hubert Airport under a warrant obtained at the instigation of Roger Q. Williams, who insisted that he be detained for a debt he alleged was owed him.

AMERICAN LEADING IN SCHOONER RACE

Only Accident Can Prevent Gloucester Entry From Winning Over Canadian.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 9.—(AP)—
Only an accident can prevent the Gloucester fishing schooner, Cartrude L. Thebaud, challenger for the fisherman's championship of the North Atlantic from winning over the Canadian defender, Bluenose in their race off this port today.

The Thebaud led the Bluenose at the flag marking the end of the six mile leg by six minutes and thirteen seconds having gained nine seconds from the first mark.

The Thebaud turned the 24 mile mark at 1:39:01, followed by the Bluenose at 1:50:45. This meant that the Gloucester boat had gained an additional five minutes and 32 seconds on the invader. It showed that the Thebaud was distinctly the better boat in windward work as her 11 minutes, 44 seconds lead was almost entirely gained on the two windward legs, the first and fourth six miles.

DR. SMITH'S FUNERAL
Meriden, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Funeral services for Dr. Edward W. Smith, for a half century a practicing physician and surgeon here will be held from the late home on Bradley avenue, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.
Dr. Smith died at 7 o'clock last night of an acute heart attack.

DR. W. R. TINKER ROUNDS OUT 50 YEARS SERVICE

Fellow Doctors Here Honor
Him at Dinner Last Night; Occasion Complete Surprise to Guest.

Dr. William R. Tinker, medical examiner in Manchester for more than thirty years, was honored last evening by his fellow members in the Manchester Medical Association upon the completion of fifty years in medical practice. With the glowing tribute which was paid Dr. Tinker by his colleagues, was placed together a picture of the hardships and labor under which doctors labored a half a century ago. Many humorous incidents were brought to light, but there were occasions for pathos.

Surprise
Dr. Tinker was taken by complete surprise. He went to the meeting held at the Country Club with no knowledge that he was to be the guest of honor. After the supper, regular business details were attended to in the usual manner. Then Dr. Thomas G. Sloan, close friend of Dr. Tinker, arose to make the official tribute. Dr. Tinker, whose hearing is somewhat impaired, was given a typewritten copy of Dr.
Sloan's remarks just as Dr. Sloan started to speak.

All eyes were focused on Dr. Tinker. They saw first an expression of amazement creep over his face and then a smile lighted his countenance. It was most evident that he did not have the faint inkling of what was to happen. After Dr.
Sloan concluded his remarks and presented Dr. Tinker with a handsome silver loving cup as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by his fellow members, Dr. Tinker later in a brief speech of acceptance and thanks.

All Pay Tribute
Other doctors present rose and spoke briefly, all paying tribute to the guest of honor. Dr. Tinker said later that his only regret was that he could not hear all that was said

PRINCE & WHITELY, BROKERS, SUSPEND One of Oldest and Largest Firms on Wall Street Fails; No Reasons Given.

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The
New York Stock Exchange today announced the suspension of the brokerage firm of Prince and Whitely for insolvency.

The firm of Prince and Whitely was one of the largest and oldest brokerage houses in Wall street.
In addition to two offices in New York City, it maintained offices in Indianapolis, Philadelphia and Reading.

The firm had correspondents throughout the country and maintained a large security distributing organization.

Wall street regarded this failure as one of the most serious in the past decade, although no estimate as to assets and liabilities was available. The recent failure of J.
A. Sisto and Co., was regarded as the first casualty among Wall street's larger houses resulting from the collapse of the security markets nearly a year ago. Prince and Whitely, however, is understood to have much more extensive interests than Sisto and Company.

The firm was established in 1837.
In addition to its membership on the New York Stock Exchange it held memberships on the Chicago and Cleveland Stock Exchanges, the

To Serve Biggest Cocktail To Fishes in N. Y. Harbor

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The granddaddy of all cocktails is to be shaken up here shortly but nobody'll be on hand to drink it but some fish and they're going to end their drinking days at the very moment the alcoholic dish is served.

Even now the dynamite, 25 tons of it, is aboard the little two masted schooner Annetimey of Bowers, Delaware, which is anchored in Spec-masconi Cove on the inner side of Sandy Hook and about half a mile off the highland of Navasink on the Jersey coast.

It's all part of the cargo of the Bermuda liner Fort Victoria which sank at the entrance to Ambrose channel after a collision last year and which is to be dynamited within the next few days.

O'Neill defeated Monroe Johnson of Marion, S. C., the only other candidate whose name went before the convention. The vote on a roll call of the state delegations was:
O'Neill 87; Johnson 38. Upon request of Johnson, the election was made unanimous.

O'Neill is a native of Kansas and

PREPAREDNESS, KEYNOTE OF LEGION CONVENTION

Veterans Want 125,000
Standing Army and National Guard of 210,000;
No Dry Resolution.

Boston, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Preparedness was the keynote of a series of resolutions adopted by the American Legion at the opening of today's session of the organization's National convention. The first of these called for a standing army of 125,000 men and a National Guard of 210, 000.

These recommendations were contained in the report of the National defense committee as presented to the convention by C. B. Robbins of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and adopted. It called for 12,000 officers in addition to the enlisted personnel in the standing army.

Other resolutions adopted favored: Furtherance of the Legion marksmanship program; interdepartmental rifle and pistol matches and the building up of bigger and better rifle clubs; the appropriation of $50,000 for development recognition for band leaders; support for the R. O. T. C. and an investigation of lobbying against the
R. O. T. C.

Enlarge West Point
The convention went on record as favoring a Navy up to the strength permitted by the naval treaty; purchase of a 17,000 acre plot of land adjacent to West Point for the development of the U. S. Military Academy; better means of promotion for Navy warrant officers; more adequate congressional support for the merchant marine and increased co-ordination between the military and aeronautical forces.

A motion presented by the New York delegation calling for a resolution favoring the repeal of prohibition charged the hall with excitement but was defeated by a voice vote. A roll call was asked by the New York delegation, but the necessary seconding by three states was not forthcoming.

Commander Bodenhamer ruled that the motion was not germane to the purpose of the American Legion and that it conflicted with the political restrictions clause of the Legion constitution. He stated that:

WILD STORIES HEARD OF RED ACTIVITIES

Los Angeles, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Charges that dissemination of Communist propaganda in Los Angeles high schools by students was intense, and that 20,000 stands of arms in Communist hands in Los Angeles foreshadowed a revolutionary attempt to be launched here November 24 were being considered today by a Congressional committee investigating Communist activities.

The charge of Soviet activity in the local schools was made yesterday by Thomas Elson, principal of Roosevelt high school. He said the work of young Communists had been evident for years and was on the increase. In four major high schools, he said, the propaganda work was "intense." From 50 to 100 students in each of the city's 31 schools were active propagandists, he said.

Arms Imported
Lieutenant-Colonel Roy F. Smith, chairman of the Speaker's Bureau of the Better America Federation, said Communists had imported arms from Mexico and would mobilize fighting men November 24 in an attempt to seize control of the country. He said the guns would be used to arm members of the Chéka, former Russian police.

He refused to give the source of his information except in executive session.
Hamilton Fish, Jr., chairman of the Congressional committee, said information the committee had obtained through hearings covering practically the entire country indicated the Communist movement was less advanced in California than in New York.

"There is no Communist menace at the present time," he said.

BLOODY BATTLE NEAR SAY BRAZIL REPORTS

Report on Prohibition
May be Expected Soon

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)— Promise of an early report on prohibition in which there will be "no pussyfooting" emanated from President Hoover's law enforcement commission today after long hours of argument at its opening session yesterday.

It has become definitely known that the controversial subject of prohibition is now dominating the discussions of the commission and that virtually all of the day and night sessions yesterday were spent in arguing the demands of an insurgent element of the commission for an immediate report on this question.

Chairman George W. Wickham announced that the commission hoped to report to Congress by the opening of the December session. He added he believed "if the commission rather than the congress that prohibition is not enforceable I think we should say so."

All reports on prohibition are understood to have been completed. This is what is irritating some of the members. They say there is no further reason for delay.

ASKS CITIZENSHIP
FOR THE SAMOANS
FOR THE SAMOANS
Bingham Commission Suggests New Form of Government in South Sea Isles

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A new form of government for American Samoa similar to that in the Virgin Islands has been agreed upon by the American Samoan Commission and chiefs of the South Sea Islands.

Senator Bingham of Connecticut, chairman, radioed his office today from the cruiser Omaha the results of the investigation.
The commission has completed its inquiry and signed a preliminary report Tuesday, recommending American citizenship for the 10,000 inhabitants of the islands as well as a bill of rights in a proposed new organic law.

"We believe," the message said, "the Navy has done remarkably fine work but that a Samoan Legislature should make laws subject to the veto of the governor with right of appeal to the President.

To Preserve Customs
"Every effort has been made in our recommendations to preserve Samoan customs and prevent alienation of land by Samoa. The commission recommends that the President appoint a governor for as long a term as possible using either naval, military or civilian personnel as seems best to him and the same in the Virgin Islands."

The commission recommended the right of the people to appeal important criminal and civil cases to the Federal District Court in Hawaii. The recommendations were approved by the important chiefs. The islands have been governed by laws continued in force until the Congress passes and the President approves an organic act.

The Samoan islands were ceded to the United States 30 years ago. Only last year Congress ratified the secession. The islands have been governed by a naval officer designated by the president.
The governor was, next to the President, given full authority over all criminal and civil matters in the islands. Criticism of this has recurred.

SMITH STARTS OFF ON LONELY FLIGHT
Noted Aviator Hops From England to Australia on Attempt to Break Record.

Heston, England, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian aviator who has flown both Pacific and Atlantic oceans, left the airfield here today in a light plane on a lone trip to Australia.

The Australian's machine had been loaded with so much fuel it was estimated she will be able to fly 2,000 miles without a stop.
The plane is a two-seater and in one cockpit a large extra gasoline tank was stowed. With long hops the aviator had confidence that he would be able to better the present England-to-Australia record made by Bert Hinkler in approximately 15 days.

Kingsford-Smith was promoted to wing-commander for his flight this summer to America from Ireland. Upon arrival here he was reported to be about to give up flying because of his impending marriage to an Australian girl. He, however, announced that this solo flight would be his next. He sailed for Europe on July 28 to get ready for the adventure. In August he underwent two operations in Holland and he announced cancellation of his flight plans but his rapid recovery caused a renewal of the project.

BLAST KILLS MAN
Salem, Mass., Oct. 9.—(AP)—One man was fatally hurt and nine others injured, three seriously in a dynamite explosion at the city stone crusher today. All of the injured were rushed to the Salem hospital where James H. Kelley, Jr., of this city, died shortly after his arrival.

What caused the dynamite to explode was not determined immediately although officials were of the opinion that an overcharge was used.
Most of the injured men were hurt by falling stones. One rock was thrown 200 yards through the windshield of a truck and struck the driver's leg. Another went through a store window some distance away landing at the feet of two salesmen, neither was hurt.

Gen. Atterbury to Resign
From National Committee
Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—(AP)— Resignation of General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, as Republican National committeeman from Pennsylvania "because he cannot support all the nominees on the Republican state committee" was announced today by General Edward Martin, Republican state chairman.

Chairman Martin made the announcement upon his return here today from a conference with Atterbury at Philadelphia yesterday.
While Martin did not mention Edward Pinchot, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, it is known that Atterbury's withdrawal from the Republican National committee was prompted because of a refusal to support Pinchot.

Federal and Rebel Forces Near Battlefield; Destroy- ers Go Over to the Rebels; Volunteers Take Place of Police in Guarding Cities So They May Fight Against Revolutionists.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. 9.—
(AP)—Brazilian revolutionary troops were rushed today to the border of the states of Parana and Sao Paulo, where a battle with defending Federal forces was imminent.

Two regiments of cavalry and artillery accompanied by considerable reserves, and 800 volunteers organized into a military brigade which have left Santa Ana Do Livramento had Castro, in the State of Parana, as their destination.

Revolutionary quarters referring to Castro, which is about 75 miles from the border of Sao Paulo and Parana said in a message here that
"a very bloody battle" possibly would be fought there.

Rebels are Ready Insurgent troops already in the battle area, who probably will bear the brunt of any early fighting, are under the command of the Chief Miguel Costa.

Departure of the troops for Parana and Sao Paulo has exhausted the military power of Santa Ana Do Livramento, and as a consequence, Colonel Francisco Flores Da Cunha, in charge of the military area, has signed a decree calling for volunteers to police the area.

Colonel Da Cunha said that there were 300 police vacant.

The telegram, which was published in the newspaper El Nacional here, said further that two destroyers which had been sent to bombard Rio Grande do Sul had joined the revolution, and that two aviators who had fled from Rio de Janeiro with their planes informed insurgent leaders that all aviators there had been imprisoned and that the aerial squadron at Natal had joined the rebel force with considerable apparatus.

The daily paper, O Republicano at Santa Ana Do Livramento announced that the forces investing Recife, or Pernambuco, had captured an enormous supply of war material.

REBELS MOBILIZING
Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. 9.— (AP)—Revolutionary armies of the southern Brazilian states are converging on Sao Paulo, center of Brazil's vast coffee growing region, where it now appears, a battle marking a decisive point of the rebellion may be fought.

The Rio de Janeiro government, despatches state, is depending on troops in Sao Paulo to keep the southern armies away from the capital while the revolution is put down in the north.

Some successes are reported from the detachments and larger bodies advancing northward. Forces from Vaccari and Bom Jesus yesterday took Villa Lagos. A despatch from Porto Alegre said that Villa Anthonopolis, strategic Santa Catharina coast point had fallen to the revolutionary forces.

Meanwhile the revolutionary movement is advancing in the north, where Pernambuco and Natal have fallen to the insurgents. Pernambuco insurgents' raiders at Natal compatriots from Parahyba, have marched southward and were said here to have taken over the small state of Alagoas and to be now advancing toward Bahia, or Sao Alvado.

Federal Operations
Rio De Janeiro reports said that Bahia would be made the center of Federal operations in the north and that General Santa Cruz had been appointed chief of all loyal forces in the area.

As reported here, there is a strong revolutionary following in the Brazilian air corps. Members of the Federal aviation school at Rio De Janeiro are said to be under arrest after attempting a subversive movement. Four planes sent to bomb Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes have joined the revolution, and six airplanes at Natal have been handed over to the rebels.

The Navy will be an important factor in operations during the next few weeks. Insurgent headquarters claim some support among the naval leaders. Two destroyers at Natal last night at Imbituba, near Destroero, Santa Catharina's base, near red flags apparently denoting they had joined the revolution.

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)— Treasury receipts for October 7 were $9,853,372.30; expenditures $7, 072,873.13; balance $2,940,499.17.

LEVITT REBUKES STATE GOVERNOR

Tells Hartford Club Trumbull Failed to Order Averill to Obey Supreme Court

Hartford, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Governor Trumbull was severely rebuked today by Francis Albert Levitt, of Bridgeport, for failing to order Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill to begin ouster proceedings against the members of the Public Utilities Commission in accordance with an opinion handed down by the Connecticut Supreme Court of Sept. 30.

Responsibility for Mr. Averill's alleged neglect in proceeding against the commission was placed on the Governor by Prof. Levitt in an address at the luncheon at the Lions club here today. Prof. Levitt said his criticism of the Governor was not criticism since the latter was not a candidate for office again, but that it was based entirely on the reluctance of Mr. Averill to carry out the orders of the Supreme Court. The latter body upheld Mr. Levitt's ouster proceedings against the commission and ordered Mr. Averill to bring the members into the Superior Court. Prof. Levitt charged the commission with ignoring the state statutes requiring the new Haven road to remove a certain proportion of railroad crossings each year.

The Herald Hears

That the best story of the week concerns the North End husband who brought home a live duck to his spouse and asked her to kill and pluck it in time to grace the supper table. The wife, however, had qualms about killing the duck so the husband told her jokingly to pluck it and he would kill it when he returned home... and she did!

That the saxophonist in the Capital Theater, Hartford, who sings the chorus to "Bye, Bye, Blues," this week is a product of Manchester, and incidentally, too, Manchester young men now work in three of the city's leading theaters.

ABOUT TOWN

There was considerable activity on the part of the police last night about midnight when it became known that two men, strangers, had entered a business place and had made an effort to cash a check. The investigation that followed resulted in clearing the men involved. They had come to Manchester expecting to be paid some money that was owed them, but were unable to find the person they wished to see. They waited around for him until too late and wishing money to return to their homes had offered a check in payment. The check it later proved was O. K., and the excitement was over.

63 YEAR OLD BIGAMIST

Hartford, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Dincaza Casealone, 63, of 12 Atlantic street, Hartford, was today arrested by Detectives Grady and Dwork of the Hartford police department and will be presented in Police Court on Friday on a charge of bigamy.

The husband of Mrs. Casealone was married 47 years ago. Mrs. Casealone in July of this year married Girardo Ferrantino, of Hartford. A week after their marriage she deserted him when she learned that he was penniless after he led her to believe that he was wealthy. In September of this year, she married Gerald Laminio of Willimantic in Hartford. A week after this marriage the couple separated because of domestic difficulties.

FIND BIG STILL

Waterbury, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A 200-gallon still, 6,000 gallons of smash, 500 gallons of alcohol and two $400 gallon cooling water sets were seized by Federal agents and local police working together this morning in a raid on the house at 262 Meriden road, James T. Romano, owner of the still, was arrested. The value of the seizure is estimated at $5,000. The distilling plant occupied almost half of the available space in a one-family house extending from the cellar through two floors to the roof.

DROPS DEAD ON STREET

Meriden, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Edward W. Kraemer, 72, of 100 Liberty street, father of Superintendent of Charities Frank W. Kraemer, died suddenly this morning following a heart attack. He was stricken while standing on Miller street in front of Factory E, International Silver Company.

DAVIS FORECASTS GOOD TIMES AHEAD

Secretary Tells A. F. of L. That U. S. Will Soon Enter a Prosperity Era.

Boston, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A forecast that America soon will enter a period of prosperity surpassing any previous era was made before the National convention of the American Federation of Labor today by Secretary James Davis.

Secretary Davis warned however of the danger to labor by the tremendous increase of labor saving machinery and declared such displaced labor must be cared for. He expressed confidence that the high standard of living of the American workers would continue, and said the government would do what was necessary to protect it.

Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit also discussed the labor situation and denounced public officials who attempt to withhold all the facts of unemployment from the public.

Officials Careless

"The worst thing in the nation, next to unemployment," he said, "is the careless attitude of public officials to it." He promised that in Detroit this winter "no man will go without food or a roof over his head." Applause answered his closing statement that "the workers do not want dollars, they want wages."

To protect American workers displaced by labor saving machinery, Secretary Davis advocated further restriction of immigration and a selective system of admission to meet industrial needs.

"I have long advocated adoption of a selective system under which no unattached alien would be admitted except to meet an industrial need" he said. "If there is still an occasional outburst from some who believe that we should admit all the immigrants who desire to come, it has been stated that in the past two years two million of our wage earners have been deprived of their accustomed vocations by the increase in labor saving machinery."

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The most serious financial casualty among members of the New York Stock Exchange in recent years loomed a fresh flood of liquidation in today's Stock Market.

Although supporting orders appeared in some volume during the early hours in the market, they were not enough to prevent a steady decline in prices. Many stocks had reached good investment levels, and substantial investment buying on recessions was again reported.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with sterling cables quoted at $4.85 1/2-1/4, off 1-32.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS ORGANIZED FOR YEAR

W. B. Rogers Again Chairman With Robert V. Treat the New Secretary.

The three members of Manchester's Police Commission met at Police Headquarters last night for organization purposes. Willard B. Rogers was re-named chairman and Robert V. Treat was named secretary. Clifford R. Burr is the new commissioner.

Mr. Burr was made acquainted with the various functions of the police and was taken on an inspection tour. He was greatly impressed with the growth of the department, saying that when he came to Manchester the town had three policemen. Today there are 15 regulars and six supernumeraries. A test call for all policemen was sent in and the maximum taken by any one patrolman to answer was four minutes.

Chicago Board of Trade and the New York Board.

The firm formed an investment trust called the Prince and Whiteley Trading Corp., a year ago. Its stock was sold throughout the country, and its midyear report showed that it was one of the few recently formed investment trusts to have come through the Stock Market crash of last autumn with increased assets.

J. Mitchell Hoyt, senior partner in the firm, is connected with the management of several important companies. He is a director and a member of the executive committee of National Dairy Products Corp., and of the Kelvinox Corp. In addition, he is a director of Hahn Department Stores, Inc., L. A. Young Spring and Wire Co., and Croscoe and Blackwell, Ltd.

Other partners were G. Leslie Forman, Otto Antonson, Felix T. Hughes, James H. Stark, Laurence Sanford Critchell, Oscar B. Van Sant, Morrison E. Orr and Gerald W. Hoyt. Forman and Orr were members of the Stock Exchange.

Stock of Prince and Whiteley Trading Corp., traded on the New York Exchange today at $7.82 and immediately after the announcement dropped to 50 cents. The preferred stock dropped from a high of $34 to $15.12.

DeBerry is now executive head of the St. John's Institutional Association, an organization recently formed to meet the social needs of the Negroes in Springfield.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Led by U. S. Steel, which broke to 140-8, the lowest since 1928, stocks made another broad decline in the earlier trading today before support became effective.

The puncture of the 1929 resistance level of 150 for U. S. Steel, despite execution of a buying order for 25,000 shares at that quotation, led to fresh selling of representative stocks and industrial most of which touched new lows for the year.

Losses ranged from 2 to 5 points, but support in steel, which rallied to 150-8, steadied the entire list.

General Electric and Westinghouse, among others, likewise rose about a point from the bottom. Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Quoted values of Equity shares continued to tumble away at the opening of today's Stock Market. Consolidated Gas, A. M. Byers, Bethlehem Steel, and American Water Works lost a point and more. General Electric opened with a sale of 10,000 shares and Union Carbide with 12,000 shares, each at 150, a new low for the year. American and Foreign Power lost 1 1/2. Public Service of N. J., and United Aircraft, however, each rallied about 1/2.

Floor traders flocked to the steel pool at the bid time ringleader approached the low of last November which was 150. As the stock reached 150, a bid was offered for 15,000 shares at 150, and it quickly rallied above 151. Elsewhere, the list continued to work lower, but the decline was at the main slow, and orderly. Few shares sold off much more than a point during the first half hour, and strong support was apparent in several issues.

Gillette was again a soft spot, breaking 4 points to a new low at 41. Eastman, a higher priced issue, broke more than 2, and Allied Chemical, Bethlehem Steel and General Electric declined nearly 3 points to

MARKET IN SLUMP IN EARLY TRADING

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A large and persistent stream of liquidation swept through the stock market today, swelled by announcement of the suspension from the Stock Exchange of Prince and Whiteley, one of the oldest and one of the larger Wall Street brokerage firms.

Action of important stocks had indicated that something was hanging over the market before the announcement of the suspension was made shortly after noon. Resistance levels in several important shares, including U. S. Steel were swept aside, and new low levels for the past two years recorded. The selling, however, was orderly, and the market maintained an even keel.

Mark sponsors of U. S. Steel were forced to move back their lines of defense, which had been maintained at $150 a share since last November, when an order to buy 150,000 shares at that level was reported to have been placed. The stock dropped below that level during the forenoon, after a bid for 15,000 shares had caused a momentary uptick to $151.25. On the way down, 25,000 shares were bought at $150, and Richard Whitney, known in Wall Street as a Morgan broker, was a large buyer. Thereafter, however, it slipped to $147.50, on $3.50, and the lowest price in two years.

Bridgeport, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Taking the stand shortly after the trial of Anthony Andriou, 41, Greenwich contractor and World War veteran, who is charged with the slaying of his wife on July 25 last, was resumed in the Criminal Superior Court today, Annabelle Varese, 37, his brother-in-law, testified that Andriou came to his house on February 22 last, and threatened to kill his wife, Varese's wife and Varese himself.

At this point State's Attorney W. H. Conley introduced a revolver and asked Varese if he could identify it as the weapon. He said "it looks like it." He testified that Andriou was a heavy drinker, that he was habitually drunk and that he was on "friendly terms" with him, though not so good because he always was drunk.

Medical Examiner John A. Clark of Greenwich resumed testimony that he started yesterday. He said Mrs. Andriou had been shot three times, and the wounds being enough to kill her.

CONVICT HERRICK OF MAKING BOOZE

Ex-Congressman From Okla- homa Awaits Sentence; Acted As His Own Counsel

Baltimore, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Manuel Herrick, Congressman from Oklahoma in 1921 was in jail here today awaiting sentence on a charge of manufacture and possession of liquor. He was convicted in Federal District Court yesterday despite his insistence he had been attempting to secure evidence of dry law violation. He acted as his own counsel. The jury returned its verdict after ten minutes deliberation.

Herrick was arrested August 8 at a 500-gallon still in southern Maryland. Agents making the raid said the former Congressman, dressed in blue overalls working as a fish and wreck handyman.

Herrick began his Congressional career with the 1920 Harding landslide. In the House his interest in aviation won for him the sobriquet of "the Flying Congressman."

At this time the policy and program for the year ahead will be discussed and adopted.

GRAND JURY INDICTS GRAPE JUICE SELLERS

Los Angeles, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A nationwide grape juice selling organization, alleged to have a $5,000,000 yearly business, and nine individuals connected with it, were indicted under Federal indictment here today, charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The Federal Grand Jury yesterday returned the indictment and set bonds of $5,000 each in the case of the nine indicted persons.

Prohibition investigators said the defendants sold wine-grape juice to hundreds of thousands of persons throughout the country sending 100,000 yearly business, through the mails guaranteeing "fine old wine."

Some of the juice distributed by the company, according to the federal authorities, after being "processed" according to the instructions sent the buyers, showed as high as 15 per cent alcohol.

In several instances, the prohibition investigators said, products shipped out by the company already had been "processed" and showed an alcoholic content of as high as 15 per cent.

Providence, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Christine Cromwell, eight year old daughter of James H. R. Cromwell, and his former wife, who was Delphine Dodge, has been restored to the custody of the mother.

With the assistance of the child's two grandmothers, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, mother of Cromwell, and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, mother of the former Mrs. Cromwell, the dispute over custody of the girl was settled out of court on the eve of a legal battle.

Under the terms of a divorce decree granted Mrs. Cromwell in Nevada, the mother was given custody of the child for nine months of the year and Mr. Cromwell was to have her for three months, from June 15 to Sept. 15.

250 TRIBESMEN KILLED

Bengal, Cyrenaica, North Africa. Oct. 9.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty tribesmen have been killed in two battles during the last few days, in which the forces of Omar el Muehtar have been defeated.

The first battle, at Latrum, an oasis, cost the tribesmen 100 dead including Fadil Du, Omar's lieutenant. The second, at El Garib, cost fifty lives. It is believed that Omar el Muehtar personally commanded the tribesmen.

It was in order to deprive El Muehtar of provisions and munitions, as well as recruits, that the Italian government recently moved 80,000 persons out of the region to the coast with all their possessions.

FEDERALS FLOCK TO RED BANNERS

Shanghai, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Thousands of rebellious soldiers throughout southern China today were reported flocking to the Red banners, swelling the ranks of Communists to formidable proportions.

Changsha province said the Reds in Hunan advised had perfected an organization to a high degree and were virtually in control of the entire province.

A report from Kluikiang said Communists who captured Kian, important city in southern Kiangsi province, were continuing their looting there and were driving scattered provincial forces north toward Siankiang.

Still Critical

The situation at Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi, was said to have eased slightly as the Red Army of the outsiders of the city had withdrawn slightly toward the southeast.

The populace of Nanchang remained in a state of alarm, however, because the Red Army was considered strong enough to capture any city in the province.

Two thousand Nationalist soldiers from Hankow arrived at Kluikiang and were sent to join the Nanchang garrison while coolies in the capital worked feverishly to prepare defensive trenches.

The Reds seemed content, however, to plunder outlying communities rather than attacking the major cities.

STORM HITS ENGLAND

London, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The British Isles and English channel areas experienced wind and rain of unusual violence yesterday and last night but the elements were quieter today. Although the wind at times had a velocity of 55 miles per hour there was no material damage.

Tremendous seas were kicked up in the channel and shipping was driven to shelter after being severely buffeted. Some vessels were unable to make port, but so far as is known none was lost.

Torrents of rain fell throughout the British Isles and there was some snow in Yorkshire. Some of the Scottish mountains were covered with snow for the first time this season.

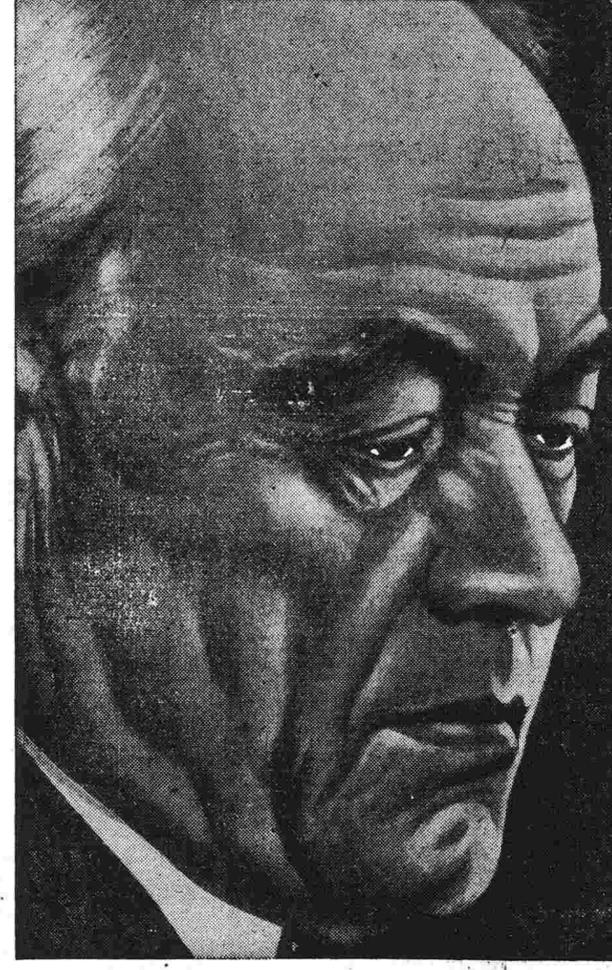

As the expert writing his views on the world series told his secretary aid, "Wither thou ghost I will go."

construction operations as the key to the problem of unemployment, is to shake out of their shells the hide bound bureaucrats who have the matter of federal buildings in hand.

For years appropriations have been available for post office buildings in Hartford and Bridgeport, and for years the Washington authorities have been fiddling and fussing with question of sites, wasting untold precious months in the splitting of hairs as to titles, condemnation proceedings, etc., while hundreds of artisans and laborers in both cities walk the streets with their hands in their pockets.

If ever there was a time when the cutting of red tape in federal construction matters was demanded this is it. But the musty and dusty meticulous routine must be completed with, to the last microscopic detail, before there is anything approaching action. And workers may starve and the public may rave—it makes no difference to the thundering old machine at Washington.

New London does well to raise a hullabaloo over a building that she may really seriously need ten or a dozen years from now. Manchester would do exceedingly well to follow her example. Let us not delude ourselves that after the government really decides to build a post office here—and our need is several times that of New London's—we shall have a post office within a few months. It is likely to be years—and then more years—before an authorized federal building gets beyond the blueprint stage.

NO LACK OF INTEREST
 Commentators about the state on the "small town" elections have taken occasion to remark, none too favorably, on the small vote cast in Manchester in proportion to the total enrollment, intimating that people in this town must take a very slight interest in their own public affairs.

These critics have overlooked the important fact that Manchester, differently from the generality of Connecticut towns, has a primary system and that the nomination of candidates is participated in by large numbers of voters, whereas in the other towns the tickets are set up by caucuses attended by very small groups.

It would surprise some of these out-of-town critics to know that more than three times as many votes were cast in the primaries as were polled on election day. It is in the preliminary balloting that Manchester settles her contests. The normal Republican majority is so large here that election day proceedings are merely a ratification of the results of the primaries.

We can assure our friends on the outside that Manchester's public is just as alive as that of any other community in the state to the business of self government and much more unwilling than many others to leave the management of its affairs to any little group of politicians. If they don't believe it, let them pay a visit to this town on the occasion of the next primary. It will be a revelation to them.

NOW HERE'S A RACE
 To that person, brine-blood or landlubber, who carries somewhere in his veins the inherited love of a ship—and that in America means most of us—the races between the Nova Scotia fishing schooner Blue-nose and the Gloucester two-sticker Gertrude L. Thebaud brings a string of the senses that even Tom Lipton's gallant efforts could not quite match.

No specially constructed racing machines, these, but real boats built for the real purpose of battling with the seas for food for men. The speed that is built into them is there not for the gratification of an ambition to win a cup or a bet, but as an element of efficiency for the job. To get to the fishing grounds quickly, to load a fare, to race back to the market port faster than any other ship of the fleet, come gale, come fog, come ice, come what not—that is the why of the high rigged, sleek modeled downeasters.

No better sailors ever lived than the crews of these fishing vessels—and no better vessel ever slid down the ways.

No Bermuda rigs, for these brave boats, no spraddling leg-o'-mutton mastsails, but lofty tops'ls and plenty of jibs and the best fitting lower canvas ever cut—and the will to carry every shred of it in a hurricane, if need be, to get there first!

We would have liked well indeed to see the America's cup races off Newport. But not being able to chase along in the wake of these hellion speedsters with the wind motors and witness the greatest schooner races that ever were—that is a deprivation to draw tears.

DOGS
 That the city of Bristol should go into what amounted to a panic over the alarming fact of a supposedly rabid dog being at large and having bitten a number of persons is not surprising in view of the recent death of a citizen from hydrophobia. It calls for more self command that the average person possesses to keep from being frightened in such circumstances.

At this writing it is not known whether the Bristol dog actually was suffering from rabies, but there is at least a fair chance that it was, and an equally fair chance that other dogs in the community will develop the disease.

The gratuitous setting up of alarms of any sort is a poor service indeed. It is one in which this newspaper is far from wishing to indulge. Yet we cannot refrain from expressing the opinion that there are in this town of Manchester far too many dogs at large—too many under any conditions and a great deal too many in a period when there unquestionably is some hydrophobia in the state, and some of it at no great distance.

Every unlicensed dog should be put out of the way. And the running at will of all dogs, licensed or not, might very well be suspended for a reasonable length of time. We want no repetition here of yesterday's experience in Bristol, if it can be prevented by rational precautionary measures.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 9.—The "Noise Commission," appointed by New York to suggest ways and means of keeping the inhabitants from going more ga-ga than they already are, has touched upon some excellent—if slightly impractical—remedies.

For instance, they suggest the removal of elevated tracks. That's all very well. But it will be tough on such folk as myself who go frequently to have to fall back on good old color cliches such as . . . "in the sulen shadows of the overhanging elevated tracks." Or "the sun escaped through the imprisoning bars of the elevated tracks, running freely over the sidewalks and pavement, leaving a pattern of modernistic cubes and angles. . . ."

However, one suggestion of this committee has already been put into effect—the traffic policemen are now supposed to blow whistles. They are presumed to function according to the best rules of the calisthenic books. Which means that they exercise variously their right and left arms. Unfortunately, some of them still go in for two-finger whistling, at which they are not so expert.

Meanwhile, the Island of Manhattan spends umpty-thousand dollars to find out that noises are caused by auto horns, trucks, horses, hoofs on cobblestones, skilled workmen driving rivets and such like disturbances. Any of us who live here are not likely to contribute this information free gratis and for nothing.

Unfortunately, the committee did not call on me for expert opinion. My first recommendation would be made in that other noise nuisance also complained of the radio loud speaker.

We'll believe that only when the last Chinese restaurant on Broadway is gone and the last store on "radio row" has surrendered to the sheets.

However, there is some compensation in knowing that the early Greeks were annoyed by chariots passing on their way to the races, and that a certain Sybarite, of Roman days, complained because petals crumpled in his bed of rose leaves and disturbed his sleep.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 9.—Before the existing period of widespread unemployment is over, the people of the United States will be much more deeply impressed with the need of doing something about the problem than they are now.

That is the opinion of Dr. Leo Wolman of the National Bureau of Economic Research, nationally famous economist. Dr. Wolman was a member of the Harding advisory committee on unemployment headed by Herbert Hoover and is now a member of the President's Advisory Committee on Employment Statistics.

Dr. Wolman estimates, by conservative method, that more than 4,000,000 persons are out of work in the United States. He believes that there will be little or no improvement in the situation for some time to come and that this winter will be one of much distress and destitution. In order to alleviate such widespread suffering during similar periods in the future he proposes a compulsory system of unemployment insurance, to be administered by industry and its employees.

"There are sufficient indexes on the state of industry and the size of payrolls," he explained in an interview, "to give us a pretty fair view of the state of employment in this country."

"The Federal Reserve Board figures show a drop in the number of people employed in certain industries. August figures showed that in manufacturing, railroad transportation and mining there were 15 per cent fewer persons employed than in August the year before.

Ten Per Cent Unemployed
 "The drop in building employment has been at least 20 per cent. We know that unemployment is usually highest among clerical groups, but clerical employment, we can be sure, is now more than 10 per cent off. We can leave out agriculture, which is hard to measure, although it contributes to the ranks of the unemployed."

"There are perhaps 45,000,000 working men and women in the country. We know from census figures approximately how many workers are engaged in each major category.

"And it is safe to say that at least 10 per cent of the people available for jobs are out of work. That has been true at least since the first of the year.

"Now the period in which some revival might have been expected is past and there has been no revival. We used to say that men and women thrown out of work in manufacturing and transportation industries were gradually absorbed into other occupations, but there has been no absorption this year because all business activities have been hit except perhaps public works. This depression looks like a deep and lasting thing. Previously we have had possibilities of revival in building, automobile manufacture or agriculture, but there seems no such outlook now. The falling price situation is unfavorable for any pickup in business and there is no sign of a turn in prices.

Too Much Competition
 "Heretofore we have been working on the theory that business could stabilize itself and work itself out of such periods. But it is being proved that modern business is too competitive to stabilize itself; business isn't organized for any such thing.

"If we feel that we are on the threshold of stabilizing business and that we won't have any re-occurrence of the present depression and those of the past we can look at the future with equanimity. But if we think that these hard time periods are something we cannot escape, then, in a civilized country, we must work out something whereby people will not be allowed to starve.

"Industry should be obligated to create an unemployment reserve fund for the benefit of the unemployed. These funds should be managed insofar as possible by industry and its employees. The system should be compulsory, but under private administration. In Europe, more than 40,000,000 workers are now insured against unemployment under compulsory systems, and many millions more through voluntary agreements. Except during periods of great stress and the most abnormal employment these systems have paid their own way."

Cites Examples
 Asked for an example for unemployment insurance in this country, Dr. Wolman pointed to systems operating in the men's clothing industry in Chicago, Rochester and New York, covering 60,000 workers. It was under Dr. Wolman's supervision that the plan was put in effect first in Chicago in 1923. Since that time $8,000,000 has been paid out under it in unemployment insurance benefits. The Chicago funds represent 4 1/2 per cent of the industry's payroll, 3 per cent being contributed by the employers and the rest by the workers. This year 10,000 workers will receive about $950,000 from the fund.

"We are going to hear a great deal more about unemployment insurance this winter, both in Congress and the state legislatures," Dr. Wolman predicted.

WATKINS BROTHERS 56th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Hand Tailored ANNIVERSARY Innerspring Mattresses

$27.50

FIFTY-SIX years has seen great strides in the scientific study of bedding. Today we are able to present the most comfortable and rest yielding mattresses and springs imaginable. Fifty-six years ago, when Watkins Brothers was founded, it was a different story. The best was often nowhere near as comfortable as these modern pieces of bedding, and the prices almost prohibitive! $27.50 buys one of the finest mattresses made during our 56th Anniversary Celebration!

Construction

1. Hand-tailored throughout; hand tufted and finished with hand-rolled edges, which is an extraordinary feature in a mattress at this low price!
2. Contains hundreds of tiny spiral springs made of the finest oil-tempered steel.
3. Each spring encased in an individual muslin pocket, eliminating all possibility of noise and preventing interlocking of springs.
4. Each spring tied eight times. . . . 4 times across top and 4 times across bottom. . . . with strong, long-wearing durable cotton. Springs cannot be forced out of position. Insures maximum comfort.
5. Springs covered at top and bottom with hundreds of layers of pure white, fluffy, long-staple cotton felt. (33 pounds in each mattress!)
6. Because of the quality and extra layers of felt used (especially across center width) the Anniversary Mattress will not sag in center, even after long service.
7. Three strongly-woven, long-wearing striped tickings to select from: Gray and white; blue and white; and the old reliable ACA ticking.

Feature No. 2

Eleven years ago there were comparatively few model cottages built into stores. . . . and these in the largest city stores only. But at that time "The Cottage," a group of model rooms, was established at Watkins Brothers and furnished by experienced decorators. Ever since it has been a studio of ideas for home-makers, always presenting the latest fashions in home decorations.

BLOODLESS SURGERY

The science of surgery has progressed to such an extent that it is now possible to operate on every part of the body and to remove at least portions of any of the organs without producing death. Surgeons are thereby often encouraged to perform unnecessary operations which could be avoided if the patient were willing to remove the real causes which were producing this trouble.

The word "surgery" comes from two Greek words which mean "hand work." Unfortunately, this original meaning is now somewhat clouded by the skillful work which is performed with the knife. There is much valuable work which can be done in straightening out organs and deformed limbs with the skillful work of the hands and without the use of the knife. Much advancement has been made in what has been aptly called "bloodless surgery." When bony structures are out of alignment, they may be restored to their normal position with a return of their proper functioning. Misplaced organs are often replaced by the hands of bloodless surgeons.

The circulation of the blood and lymphatic circulation may be likewise restored. Adhesions often yield to the trained fingers of the hand surgeon without the use of the knife. Adhesions are formed by connective tissue growing to inflamed surfaces and often bind together vital organs and in this way interfere with their normal working.

It is true that the knife when skillfully used has often been a life saver and has corrected many deformities. However, the severing of tissue with the scalpel is always attended with danger and the shock of the injury to the body under anesthesia often brings about a complication of disorders. There are some cases where a knife is necessary, but there are many more which could be benefited by the skillful manipulations of bloodless surgery.

All therapeutic measures have their proper place in the healing art of today and when intelligent and conscientiously used have been the means of relieving much distress and unhappiness. However, no amount of treatment, regardless of how skillful, will ever correct the faulty habits of life which lead to most of the diseases from which humanity suffers. Those errors of diet, lack of exercise, faulty posture, destructive thinking, etc., must be corrected if we are to expect continued good health. The surgeons, whether his tools are the knife or the hands, can at best only patch up a condition usually caused by the patient, himself, through injudicious living.

Many patients are satisfied to return for one operation after another because they refuse to heed the lesson of their first surgical experience, which lesson, if properly understood, would have prevented future mutilations.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 Eczema

Question: G. H. writes: "I am 15 years old, and for 7 years I have been troubled with eczema of my hands. For about three months out of the year it heals up and then comes back again.

Answer: Hyperacidity of the stomach is the fundamental cause of all such skin eruptions as eczema. Such over-acidity of the stomach causes an acidosis in the entire system which causes an irritation of the skin with a great many people who are subject to this trouble. The same cause is responsible for many other disorders which develop in other parts of the body.

Uncooked Spinach

Question: Mrs. H. K. asks: "Is not the oxalic acid in spinach injurious when this vegetable is used as a raw salad?"

Answer: The amount of oxalic acid in spinach could not be considered injurious to the average person. It is one of the richest in iron of the leafy vegetables, and those who have a deficiency of hemoglobin or red corpuscles in the blood should use a plentiful supply in the raw form.

Tuberculosis

Question: Mrs. M. A. writes: "My mother died of tuberculosis. Do you think it is hereditary, and what

HOW TO PLAY. Today's BACKGAMMON

SCORING BY CHECKERS
EDITOR'S NOTE: Two methods of scoring by checkers are described in the following article, the last of a series of fourteen which have been written for this newspaper and NEA Service by Elizabeth Clark Boyden, author of "The New Backgammon" and co-author of "Contract Bridge of 1930" and "Contract Bridge of 1931."

Written for NEA Service
Probably 90 per cent of the backgammon players in this country score in the simple manner described in yesterday's article, i. e. by games, with the double for gammons and the triple score for backgammons.

There are, however, players both in clubs and in social circles who prefer to score by the number of checkers the loser has on the board at the end of the game. They think this better represents the actual amount by which one player defeats the other. Some players who score in this way have no extra doubles for gammons and backgammons. Others combine both methods. The older players to whom the traditions of the gammons is most definitely a part of the atmosphere of the game would be most reluctant to give them up. There are so many methods of scoring by checkers, depending on the section of the country where the game is played, that it is difficult to give a definite rule. The two most common methods of scoring by checkers are as follows:

Method 1: The winner scores:
(a) One point for every man the loser has left in the loser's inner table;
(b) Two points for every man the loser has left in the loser's outer table;
(c) Three points for every man the loser has left in the winner's outer table and;
(d) Four points for every man the loser has left in the winner's inner table or on the bar.

The result of the above is doubled in accordance with the number of matches on the bar, or added to the uppermost number on the doubling cube. There are no additional doubles for gammons or backgammons. If a double is declined during play, the game stops and the score is made up at so much a checker, in the manner explained in each table at the time the double is refused. Any previous doubles, whether automatic or optional, apply in making up the score. One disadvantage in scoring by this method is the difficulty of making up the score when a double is declined. An arbitrary ruling suggested, but I imagine not commonly followed, is that the loser, when he refuses a double, shall add ten points to the score as it stands at the moment the double is refused. This is supposed to represent the maximum number of checkers he would probably have left on the board if he continued to play.

Method 2: The second suggested method allows players to score their games and gammons as well as the checkers. This method does not give private players of this old feature of the game. The winner scores one point for every man the loser has not borne from the board at the end of the game regardless of the table in which the man is located. In case of gammons double, and in case of backgammons triple the final score.

Rules of the Game
Backgammon has been developed from early times largely by word of mouth all over the world. Each country has developed the game in accordance with the temperament of the people. Now that we are trying to standardize the game in this country, it is surprising how many different methods of scoring and playing have arisen. At the present moment there is no standard system of rules as we have in auction and contract. It is to be hoped that the time is not far off when we will have a system of rules approved by all clubs and therefore standardized. Already efforts to this end are under way.

The following simple rules are followed by practically all backgammon players today:

(1) The dice must be thrown into the table on the player's right hand and if either dice jumps from one table to the other or off the board or onto the bar, or if one dice rests on top of the other or is tilted against the other or against the bar or counter, the throw is void and the dice must be thrown again by the same player.

(2) A man is considered played when it has been moved the correct number of points according to the dice and has been quitted.

(3) If a player moves a man an incorrect number of points, the adversary may require the move to be called back. This must be done before another throw is made.

(4) Players must leave the dice face up on the table until the play is completed.

(5) A player must not throw his dice until the opponent has completed his moves and picked up the dice.

DRY AGENTS RAID HOTELS IN BOSTON Find Many Drunks But Make But One Arrest and Find Little Booze.

Boston, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Federal officers who early today started out to "make the town dry" hadn't had a great deal of success at daybreak. One arrest and a small quantity of liquor was all they had to show for their morning's work.

The raids were started at the Statler hotel, headquarters of the American Legion, in search of the lobby and upstairs hallways and rooms netted a large number of suspects, a larger number of imbibers, but only one bootlegger, the Federal officers said. The suspects were ushered out a rear door and sent on their way, the lone seller was locked up in the Back Bay police station, and the imbibers were left to their desires.

Raiding squads spread from the Statler to other Boston hotels, where no arrests were made. Suspects and imbibers however, were prevalent all over the city, officers said.

Surprise Affair
Without notifying the police of the intended raids and with the utmost secrecy, the Federal agents met in the Statler lobby shortly after midnight. The entire project was carried out quietly and it was hardly apparent that anything out of the ordinary was taking place.

The Federal agents were reticent to give out information this morning concerning the raids but the Boston police had but one man booked at the "Feds" request and it was learned that a very small amount of liquor was taken.

GOOD PROSPECTS

While the automobile industry just now, is in a state of gloom, it is hardly an economist who will say anything but hopeful words for its future.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

POOR COMPRESSION TEST

Not all the tests that are offered as means of checking the performance of cars are worth while. One in this category is the cranking test for compression.

ALL IN KNOWING HOW

In the gentle art of keeping automobiles well behaved, it isn't so much what the owner does as how he does it. Two owners may treat their engines to the same quantity of lubricating oil but one may over-lubricate the motor by always adding oil at the top rather than on the road as needed.

STRAINING THE DIFFERENTIAL

In these busy days when safety is the paramount issue at all times it is natural to pay strict attention to front tire pressure to avoid under-inflation and possibility of a blow-out but there is a tendency to neglect the rear tires.

CHECKING THOSE OIL LEAKS

Leakage of oil from the engine may develop at several points seldom considered even by the type of owner who likes to crawl under the chassis to tighten up the bolts of the oil pan.

SAME CAUSE FOR BOTH

After a trouble has been cured don't be surprised if the car seems to be developing some other ailment.

French Delegates Come for New Ideas at Road Meet

By MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris, Oct. 9.—Hoping to get some new ideas for the solution of traffic and road problems, leaders of the French automobile industry are taking a keen interest in the World Highway Congress to be held in Washington beginning Oct. 6, and the government itself will be represented by distinguished delegates.

"France is anxious to do her full share to make motoring safe for humanity," says one of them, the Vicomte de Rohan, president of the Automobile Club of France, said to be the oldest automobile club in the world.

MANY "EIGHTS"

There are 32 eight-cylinder automobiles on the market in the United States at present. Of this number only six are of the "V" type.

Many motorists have observed that as their tires grow older the air pressures do not seem to hold up as well as when new, but few realize the part the valve insides play in this process of slow leakage.

TRY TIRE VALVES

New tires hold their pressure surprisingly long because the valves provide a better seal. In time the small ring of rubber around such a valve starts to deteriorate so that it permits escape of the air.

NEW LICENSE TAGS

Thirty-five states will change the color of their license tags in 1931, the American Automobile Association reports. White on black, and white on green will be the most common colors next year, having been adopted by five states.

Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grandmother.

MARGARET R. ROGERS', her mother, divorced Mitchell and remarried and is now a widow. BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with Celia and before leaving Baltimore Celia promised to be loyal to his love.

She is lonely in her new home. Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections and agrees. She invites the girl to her Long Island home for a weekend.

TOD JORDAN, fascinating but with a dubious reputation, is attentive to Celia, and Mrs. Parsons encourages the match. When the other guests leave Celia continues her visit.

LISI DUNCAN, socially prominent, invites her to attend a swimming party. Celia narrowly escapes drowning and is rescued by Jordan. Her father hears of the affair and insists the girl must return home. The same evening Jordan calls.

Chapter XXIV

Tod Jordan stood smiling at Celia from the open French windows. He looked handsome in his dinner clothes.

"Good evening," he said. "Thought I'd find you here. Mind if I come out?"

"Of course not. There's a fine breeze. Here—won't you sit down?"

She made room for him on the wicker seat. Jordan leaned back comfortably.

"I just dropped around to see how you felt after your—damp adventure. Evelyn says you're recovered."

"Perfectly. Did she tell you the rest?"

"I don't know. She says you're driving into town in the morning. Is that what you mean?"

"Yes," Celia shook her head mournfully. "Father says I have to come. That's why I'm out here the stars and the sky. I hate leaving—saying goodbye to the garden and all this."

"Do you?" Can't say that I blame you. It's a beautiful place." He paused, then continued in a lower voice, "I'll never forget it."

The way he spoke made the girl turn instinctively. Light from the living room cast a broad golden ribbon across the porch floor, but the divan on which they sat was in shadow. Jordan could not see the delicate coloring that had risen in Celia's cheeks.

"You like it, too?" she asked in a quiet voice.

Jordan shrugged. "Like it? I—oh, I'm a fool. I guess. Celia, you know the other evening when we were dancing here I—well, I don't know—I just can't forget about it, that's all. It must have been by mistake, but you see I thought you were beginning to care for me a little. Next day you seemed different and I decided I was wrong. It doesn't change the memory, though."

His hand closed over Celia's. He breathed the words slowly.

"You know that I like you," she said. "I'd be awfully ungrateful if I didn't after this afternoon."

"But I don't want you to be grateful. I want to know if you feel the way I do about—the other night. It's the only time since we've met that I've had you alone. Celia, do you care?"

His arm had gone around her. Jordan's face was close to the girl's. His dark eyes sought hers compellingly. She could not look away. Celia felt the warm rush of color to her cheeks. Tod Jordan's handsome eyes so near—Tod Jordan's lips—

It happened quickly. A kiss sweeping aside everything else in the world. Tingly, delicious, terrifying!

Breathless, the man and girl stared at each other.

"Oh, Celia!" He tried to take her in his arms again, but Celia protested.

"What is it? What's the matter—dear?"

She shook her head without speaking.

"But Celia, I couldn't help it. It's mad about you! Oh, won't you understand!"

The girl arose and walked to the railing of the porch. Jordan followed.

"You mean," he said huskily, "you don't care about me?"

"You aren't that," Celia hesitated. "Then what is it? What else in the world can make any difference? Why, Celia—you're trembling!"

Jordan took both of the girl's hands in his. She looked up at him with frightened eyes. Their gazes met. Then Jordan dropped her hands and stepped back.

"Someone else?" he asked in the same throaty tone.

"I don't know."

"What do you mean by that? Don't you know if there's someone else you care more for? Tell me, Celia. Why do you want to keep me waiting?"

Jordan was a romantic figure as he stood there. His dark eyes seemed tragic. His pose and everything about him was melodramatic. His perfect-fitting dinner clothes had cost three times what Barney Shields had ever paid for one of his ready-made suits.

The girl was repentant.

"I don't know, Tod," she said sadly. "And perhaps I might there was someone else. Now I don't know!"

"Does that mean I have a chance?"

She nodded her head.

"You darling!"

Again she was crushed in Jordan's arms. This time when she pushed him away she was brightly laughing.

"You don't know how happy you've made me," he told her. "Celia reminded me she had once said she had a chance, and that future decisions would rest upon good behavior."

"Then I'm sure to lose," Jordan told her gloomily. "I'm not accountable when I'm with you, dear. I only know how much I want you."

Each romantic speech thrilled Celia. She tried to pretend they did not. Jordan's experienced eye took in her subtlety. For an hour they talked, sitting in the darkness, with Jordan's arm thrown about the girl's shoulder. Celia forgot her scruples and her promise to Barney.

Once she asked about Mrs. Parsons.

"Oh, she said she was going to write letters," Jordan answered easily. "She doesn't want to be bothered with you or me."

He asked how he was going to see her after she was back at the house in town. Celia didn't quite know. She had doubts about her grandmother's views on the subject. Anyhow, he could telephone. Why, hadn't he saved her life?

The Cape Treatment Is Youthful Note

Of Simple House Frocks

By ANNETTE

If you're looking for a practical smart house frock—here it is! It's just as snappy as a can be. The cape collar takes the place of sleeves. The comfortable open V-neckline is becoming too.

It's slimly shaped through the hips. The pointed seaming at the front makes a downward trend to round outline at the back makes the snug hipline more prominent. The skirt shows moderate circular fullness.

It's effectively carried out in a shadow plaid consisting in soft gray and blue. The bindings are deep blue.

Style No. 928 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It's very easily made! Shiny finished cotton broadcloth in plain or print, rayon novelties, printed dimity and men's cotton shirting fabrics make up attractively for home wear.

5 1/2 yards requires 3 3/4 yards 35-inch with 5 1/4 yards binding.

Troop 1

Troop 1 held its meeting Friday, October 3 in the Lincoln school kindergarten. The meeting opened in the usual scout manner, and later three girls were chosen to entertain at the rally. They are Evelyn Beaudette, dancer; Lillian Klinkhamer, recitation and Edna Fradin, piano solo. Captain Davis had two flags in the form of a puzzle which we solved to get in practice for the rally next week. The meeting closed with a good night circle. Edna Fradin, scribe.

Troop 2

The meeting opened with instructions, followed by the horseshoe formation. Patrol corners were held and the houses for our scrapbooks were handed in. Games were played, then we sat around the campfire and sang and chose six girls for the contest. The meeting closed with taps. Virginia Baldwin, Scribe.

Troop 5

Saturday, October 4th, the troop enjoyed a Hare and Hound Chase at the home of Captain Welles. It was well attended, twenty-five girls participating. The hares certainly gave the hounds a merry chase by leaving difficult tasks for each one to perform, puzzling signs and all that goes with such an outing. When the panting hounds reached their goal all turned in to help prepare the much longed-for meal.

Later a knot-tying contest was held, Patrol 1 coming out victorious. Stunts of all kinds were enjoyed throughout the afternoon with a treasure hunt and a marshmallow roast to complete a happy day. The girls returned home about 6 o'clock in private cars.

The scouts were all on hand Monday, October 6 for their regular meeting at Hollister Street School. Six girls were chosen to participate in the contest at the October Rally. A Songfest was enjoyed before the closing ceremony. Court of Honor followed.

Ennice Brown, Scribe.

Troop 7

The meeting opened with a game called "Swat the Kaiser." Another game was played by which patrol leaders were chosen as follows: Buffalo patrol, Mary Marowski; Eagle patrol, Suzanne Watson; the Bear patrol, Marguerite Annis; Owl patrol, Beulah Quinn. The girls made blue prints of leaves and practiced the flag game. A team of six was chosen to take part in the contest at the rally.

Anna Daley, scribe.

Troop 8

The troop met Friday afternoon at the Highland Park school, with Mrs. Johnson in charge. Two new girls were welcomed, Arline Nelson and Eleanor Fortfield. Albert Wilkie passed sewing, thrift and knots in second class. Jane Tedford passed knots and thrift in second class. Myrta Horton passed promise in tenderfoot. Eleanor Fortfield passed motto slogan, promise and laws in tenderfoot. She was formerly in the Scout organization. Lois Agard and Madeline Carroll passed sewing.

The flag contest was practiced for the rally next week. There will be no scout meeting Friday, October 10, for Troop 8 because of the rally next week. All girls are requested to be at Hollister street school promptly at 7 o'clock.

Lois Agard, Scribe.

HEALTH

SAME BLOOD TYPES NECESSARY TO INSURE SAFE TRANSFUSION

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Several substances have been found which have the special power of coagulating the blood, and it may be necessary to apply these substances to wounds which ooze severely. It is also necessary to sustain the patient who may show signs of shock or falling heart action due to excessive loss of blood. The physician is acquainted with numerous drugs available for this purpose.

The person who has lost a good deal of blood obviously loses fluids at the same time as he loses blood, and is likely to show strong symptoms of this condition. The amount of additional fluid to be given to him must, of course, be judged by the physician on the basis of his experience.

After the hemorrhage has ceased, the physician is confronted with the problem of building the blood again to its original quantity and quality, and with protecting the organs of the patient against the blood loss that has been sustained. Normal blood contains anywhere from 500,000 to 5,000,000 red blood cells for each cubic centimeter, and it also contains approximately 15 grams of hemoglobin or red coloring matter, which may be taken as 100 per cent. It is customary to express the amount of hemoglobin in percentage.

One of the quickest ways of replacing blood that has been lost is to give a blood transfusion in order to give a blood transfusion successfully and safely, it is necessary to have blood of the same type as that of the individual concerned. Human beings vary in their blood types. Sometimes the fluid matter of the blood of one person will agglutinate, or clump together the red cells of the blood of another. Sometimes the fluid matter of the blood will break up or dissolve the red cells of the blood of another. Obviously, either of these processes is exceedingly dangerous, and it is necessary to be sure that the blood of one person will not be affected by the blood of another before the transfusion is made. The only sure way to find this out is to make certain, first, that the donor of the blood and the recipient are of the same type, and it may be desirable to make accurate tests of small quantities of blood under the microscope before the transfusion is finally made. It is then possible to inject into the person concerned any amount of blood that may be considered desirable.

In addition to injecting the whole blood, good effects are sometimes had by injecting merely the fluid matter of the blood, but under modern conditions with our knowledge concerning the mixture of blood, transfusion of considerable quantities of whole blood is considered quite safe. Certainly in cases where the number of red blood cells has fallen below 1,000,000, or the hemoglobin below 30 per cent, blood transfusion should be given quickly as a life saving measure. In cases in which convalescence seems to be unduly prolonged or in which the blood building seems to be going on very slowly, a blood transfusion may be considered desirable in order to take some of the burden off of the blood forming organs and enable them to have a reasonable ple and then proceeds to lay out her neighbors might just as well save her breath.

"Bad Example

"You must be a gentleman in the house," says father, "and not throw caramel papers around." Then he proceeds to leave cigar stubs all over the place and throws his newspaper in the fire for someone else to pick up.

"Too much dessert isn't good for you," Mother vetoes a second serving. But she herself eats everything she wants and as much as she can with a limber apology about it not being good for her; "but she just can't starve." Self-control is something she knows nothing of.

"Be prompt, my boy. It is the secret of success. Up on time—to bed on time."

Then Father is late at the office next day because he and Mother were at a party and neither of them could get up.

Certainly parents should have a little latitude. If they are full of faults and habits it is only human. But the great truth remains that they will have to be object lessons first if they want their words to be taken in earnest.

Children will obey parents in whom they have faith and confidence. If they see their elders doing everything in the world they are forbidden and not doing the things they are commanded to do, it is making bricks without straw.

The highest type of discipline is that which imposes on itself the same rules it makes for others, or at least shows the same self-control as it expects others to observe.

The Beebe expedition in Bermuda has discovered an elastic fish. It is not a new discovery if it refers to the kind which snap at bait.

How Old Are You?

I'm Fat No More—I'm 44

My Birthday Today—No Presents Please—I Lost My Fat With Speed and Ease

Why will people be fat—Is it because they never heard of Kruschen Salts—and the Kruschen way of losing fat—and at the same time gain in activity—energy—ambition—and keenness of mind?

Let me tell you how I did it—I ate three meals a day—but moderate ones—I cut out candy, pastry and ice cream—very little potatoes—plenty of vegetables and fruit.

But most important of all—I took one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—didn't miss a morning.

Nothing hard about that—is there? And best of all it's inexpensive—for a bottle of Kruschen Salts lasts a week costs but 85 cents at North End Pharmacy, South Manchester Agents, Packard's Pharmacy, Magnall Drug Co., or any drug store in the World. Not much to pay for freedom from fat slavery and to make yourself feel years younger.

These happy women from various States tell how many pounds they lost with Kruschen.

Montana—19 pounds in 4 weeks. North Carolina—47 pounds in 3 months; Kentucky, 24 pounds in 31 days; Wisconsin, 11 pounds in 6 weeks; Ohio, 19 pounds in 10 days; New York, 14 pounds in one bottle.—Adv.

WOMEN'S RISE IN BUSINESS WORLD IS REVEALED BY NEW EXPOSITION

Products of Successful Industries Run by Women Tell a Story of Feminine Progress in Many Fields.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

New York, Oct. 2.—There is no question but that women are getting to be persons of importance in the warp and woof of American business and professional life.

If there is any doubt left in anyone's mind about the extent to which they have invaded the working world, such doubt should be cleared up by this year's Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries.

Nine years ago, when the organization was founded as a kind of county fair to show the world what women of the nation could do to make their livings, the majority were making or selling gadgets of one kind or another.

This year, however, when the Exposition opens at the Astor Hotel, the outstanding, significant thing is the amazing number of women who have learned that it pays more to sell their own ability than to make gadgets with their own hands! Executives, high-powered women and exhibitors there. Women who are specialized on a single subject or product and now sell their expert knowledge—for a substantial consideration.

Many of these women now head a flourishing business of their own. Others have built up a profession unusual even for men. They have capitalized on their innate good taste and good advice, manufacturing everything from gas stoves to perfumes as to styles that the women of the nation would like and buy.

This year the woman owner of a flour mill is included, Miss Eugenia Schneider, of the results of which it is the only woman in the world. Margaret Ingalls; the woman president of the Brooklyn Gas Co., Mary E. Dillon; the president of a direct mail advertising concern, Lena Hauser; an electrical sales manager who has half a hundred salesmen under her, Lucretia Roberts Johnson; a stylist for a textile company, Mrs. R. S. Townsend; an investment broker, Miss E. L. O'Hara; and at least a dozen heads of manufacturing concerns, such as a mirror manufacturer, Mrs. A. A. Anzell.

A second fact of significance is the program arranged for the Exposition this year. Women now not only concern themselves with the social problems of today but dare be old-fashioned at the same time, a daring feat when 10 years ago suffrage was so militant! Alongside of prohibition debates, public speaking competitions, and other interesting subjects, there are quilting bees, cooking contests, choral singing and dramatic carnivals.

Perhaps the most interesting single event is the measuring contest from the results of which it is hoped that women will be able to buy their kitchen equipment, like their clothes, to fit them: From 4000 to 6000 women will be measured as to their height and the ease with which they work at a sink, a stove and a table. From this experiment, conducted by Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, industrial engineer, "made to measure" kitchens are expected to be manufactured so that women can work more scientifically and with less nerve and muscle strain.

A Budget for Meals

Quite as modern is the meal budget experiment which will furnish a minimum budget on which a busy woman, cooking her own meals at her own apartment stove, can buy her food, heat, ice and light.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Although most housewives plan desserts in close relation to the rest of the meal, the problem of choosing a tempting dessert that will please everyone is apt to loom large.

Fortunately the old-fashioned heavy pudding is seldom used except for time-honored feasts and winter dinners. The modern concoctions of gelatine and mustard provide much nourishment without taxing the digestive system.

Desserts of this type are good in winter or summer. Many of them are as good the second day as they are the first. Dried and canned fruit both are used to excellent advantage.

Pineapple Meringue Pudding

One dozen lady-fingers, small can grated pineapple, 1/2 cup powdered sugar, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cover bottom of baking dish with a layer of small lady-fingers. Spread with a thick layer of pineapple and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Continue layer for layer until all the lady-fingers and pineapple are used. Beat yolks of eggs with sugar, flour and salt stirred together. Add scalded milk and cook in double boiler until thick, stirring to make smooth. Add vanilla and pour over lady-fingers and pineapple. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and cool while making meringue. Beat whites of eggs until stiff. Beat in 6 tablespoons granulated sugar and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla. Pile on pudding.

Fruit Biscuit

One tablespoon granulated gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup milk, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups whipping cream, 1 dozen macaronis, 1/2 cup chopped candied cherries, 1/2 cup shredded candied pineapple, 1/4 cup blanched and shredded almonds, 1/4 cup broken pecan meats, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt.

Soften gelatine in cold water for ten minutes. Dissolve over hot water into scalded milk and sugar. Stir until cool. Whip cream until firm and gradually add the cooled and thickened gelatine mixture to the whipped cream. Fold in macaronis which have been browned in the oven, pecans, salt and vanilla. Turn into a mold. Let stand on ice until thoroughly chilled and firm. Unmold and serve with whipped cream.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

Children are perpetual audiences before the stage on which their parents act.

Yet most mothers and fathers feel themselves to be in a secure niche away from the observation and criticism of the youngsters. They are likely to deceive themselves into thinking that the children are so busy, so interested in their own lives that they have no time to notice what their elders do.

This is apt to lead to a certain carelessness of habit. Anything to keep the children up to the mark but no driving necessity to correct our own little failings and unlovely habits.

To go on with the simile, we assume that we may call orders from the wings like stage directors from the shadows. But that is not our part in the picture.

We play a role for them just as much as they do for us, and our acting is more potent than our orders. They will imitate the one and neglect the other.

The father who insists that his boy be on time for meals and then repeatedly comes in from his golf game an hour after dinner cannot expect much beyond the imitation of his own tardiness.

The mother who tells her little girl never to speak unkindly of people.

EARNshaw's NAME ENTERS BASEBALL'S HALL OF FAME

ATHLETICS RICHLY DESERVE WORLD'S BASEBALL TITLE

Connie Mack Bestows Accolade Upon His Tribe; Earnshaw's Great Feat; New Records.

BY BRIAN BELL

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Athletics of Philadelphia, world's champions for the second time in two years, had a right to today to characterize themselves as a "great team". The accolade was bestowed by no less a judge of baseball teams than Connie Mack himself. The 67-year-old manager of the A's refused to stamp his team as a "great" after it had won the American League championship. First he said the Athletics must also win the world championship. The American Leaguers won the title in impressive fashion by capturing the sixth game 7 to 1 from the courageous but impotent St. Louis Cardinals. The deciding game lacked the drama of some of the preceding struggles. It never was in doubt for the world champions made two runs, enough to win, in the first inning, while the Missouri team did not offer a serious threat until the ninth when they were seven runs behind. Against the effective pitching of big George Earnshaw, the Cards were almost helpless, failing to get a man to third base until two batsmen had been retired in the ninth inning. "Wild Bill" Hallahan threw the ball at St. Louis where he shut them out, was routed in short order when the battlefield moved back to Philadelphia. He was in the game just long enough to be charged with the defeat, retiring in the third to permit George Fisher to go to bat for him, with the score 2 to 0 in favor of the A's. Connie Mack paid tribute to the Cardinals as "worthy foes", and said they had some great pitchers. When told that Manager Mack said the Card pitchers were great Gaby Street, St. Louis manager, commented: "So are his."

BY ALAN GOULD

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—There was only one nomination today for the player most entitled to enter the ranks of World Series heroes. It is George Livingston Earnshaw, New Yorker pitcher and Philadelphia star, who led the Athletics to the championship. Earnshaw is 30 years old now, long past the day when he used to hear the old college cheers, but he still parts his hair in the middle and looks the part of an undergraduate. He was a great football player as well as a star pitcher in college. Earnshaw altogether pitched 23 innings against the Cards in three games, beat them twice and held them scoreless for the first seven innings of the game, which Grove finished in St. Louis and received a share of the credit for winning. The "Big Moose" of the A's held his rivals scoreless for 22 innings in a row, which in a day and age featured by the so-called "jack rabbit" ball, stands comparable with the remarkable record of Christy Mathewson in pitching 27 successive shut-out innings against the Athletics in 1905. Grove who scored two wins against one defeat, pitched a total of 19 innings, during which time the Cards collected 14 hits and five runs. Only three of these runs, however were earned, to other two being due to an error by Dykes. Al Simmons was the most consistent of the A's at bat, hitting safely in five of the six games as he lived up to the best traditions of the league's batting king, leading the regulars of both teams with the stick.

NEW RECORDS
New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Although the 1930 world series never will be famous for its record-breaking, a half dozen new marks for world championship play were inscribed on the books by the A's and the Cards. And the records are evenly divided between the most and the least. Frank Frisch, veteran Card second baseman led on the positive side as he collected five hits in the six games to set a new total series record of 45 safe blows. He tied the old record of 42 made by Eddie Collins, in the first game, then cracked out three more blows. Frisch also has participated in a series. Right behind Frisch, his teammate

Braucher Terms Him a Combination of Thor, McGinnity, Hercules and Mathewson, All in One Person; Heart, Not Arm, Carried Him Through Last Two Innings; Street's Dope About a Fast Ball Pitcher Being Easy to Beat is But An Idle Dream.

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Philadelphia, Penn., Oct. 9.—Gaby Street told me you could beat a fast ball pitcher. Maybe he's right. Gaby is right about a lot of things. Yes, you can beat a fast ball pitcher, I guess, but you can't beat Thor. You can't beat the bozo who flings those thunder-bolts at you, Gaby. You can't beat the combination of Thor, the manufacturer of electrical gadgets that bump a man off; Iron Man Joe McGinnity, the great old double-header specialist; Hercules, the big blond pitcher from the Auggan states, and a couple of other impressive gentlemen—all disguised as George Earnshaw.

There is a realm where the earth and things earthy cannot reach. Several thousand of us were privileged to view the supernatural a couple of times here in Shibe Park and Sportsman's Park down in St. Louis. It was a magnificent glimpse. At times the apparition on the mound flinging the bolts at the people from St. Louis, looked like Mathewson. This impression inevitably was corrected a few minutes later, when it seemed that it surely must be Walter Johnson out there wheeling them in.

A sweeping curve. Speed that was blinding. One fine picture after another; yet the box score indicates the man was George Earnshaw, a human being.

Statistics delved into the books to find out what it was all about they found Mathewson's marvelous record of 27 scoreless world series innings. The mark of Earnshaw was not quite as good—two runs in 25 innings. But wait, after eight miraculous innings today Earnshaw was a very tired old man. The record books give his age as 30, but in the last few innings of that final battle with the Cardinals, Earnshaw was much older than that. He was much older than Jack Quinn, himself, when he gave Jim Bottomley that final base on balls. He was 80 or 90, Earnshaw was, and very tired.

That is where his story of heroism begins. In those, last few innings, Earnshaw wasn't throwing with his arm in the last two innings. He was flinging with his heart and it is a heart that baseballs have learned to obey.

The picture of him walking to the plate in the eighth inning, as weary and worn as a man can be, is something I do not want to forget. It seemed that suddenly the realization struck every person in the stands that here they witnessed what was magnificent.

After Joe Boley had gone out on a grounder to Maggie Gelbert the roar began. Before Earnshaw even had left the dugout, a cheer started and it grew in volume when he stumbled on the steps leading up from the Athletics bench, wiping his face with a towel. They all those things "tremendous ovations." The words seem weak.

You felt some attachment to his heroism yourself as Big George walked to the plate, with that mighty cheer echoing across Shibe Park. You were part of a crowd, recognizing the courage of a man who was very weary, but who was carrying on in spite of a torn arm, a tired back and legs that merely carried him through the motions.

Chick Hafey set a new mark by slushing out five two base hits, one higher than the record. The A's set a mark of a new kind when they went through two games without getting a one base hit, all their blows going for extra bases.

The A's also put their great leader, Connie Mack still farther ahead of all major league managers in getting results with his clubs. Under his guidance Philadelphia has won five world championships and has lost in the world series only twice.

On the low side of the record-breaking, the performances of the Cardinals as assists were outstanding in the second game of the series. The Cards had only four assists, one under the former low mark made by the Yankees. Three days later in the fourth game the Athletics recorded only three assists, again breaking the record.

Among the near records the A's feat of getting 77 bases on their 35 hits is about the closest thing to a new mark.

DIRECTS ARMY FORCES

MAJOR SASSE

War, Football Alike To Army's New Coach

By CHESTER L. SMITH
NEA Service Special Writer

One of Major Ralph Sasse's biggest jobs back in the bloody days of September, 1918, was commanding a battalion of heavy Yankee tanks which played an heroic role in smashing the Hindenburg line and starting the march which led to Versailles and peace.

Twelve years later brings another September and more lines for the major to batter. This time, however, they're lines of leather-helmeted, wool-jerseyed American boys, of Notre Dame, from Yale and from Illinois, and the weapons to be employed against them in the friendly warfare for touchdowns are the young bodies of that part of the West Point corps which plays football.

There was no little surprise manifest when it was announced that Major Sasse had been appointed as successor to Captain "Bill" Jones, whose tenure as coach had seen the Army in some of its most glorious triumphs. Outside of the immediate circle in which the Cadets move, he was not as well known as some others, but the delight with which his promotion was received on the Plains was evidence that he enjoyed the confidence of cadets and officials alike.

Major Sasse was graduated from the Military Academy in 1913. He was a member of the football squad, but he never received a varsity letter. That, however, hasn't weighed against him. They once told Bob Zuppke he was too tiny to be considered at Wisconsin, but wee Robert has done fairly well by himself at Illinois. The coaching profession is filled with instances which indicate that stardom in undergraduate days has very little to do with producing winning eleven in later years. As end coach under Captain Jones for the last four seasons, Major Sasse proved his worth. At any rate, Army's immediate destiny has been placed in his hands without causing any noticeable elation on the part of her arch opponents.

This is not what you would call a propitious year to take over the Army squad, which is confronted by a schedule generously filled with potential grief at a time when considerable reconstruction will have to be undertaken. Foremost among the absentees is that swift-footed writher, "Onward Christian" Cagle, whose presence alone has made teams from the Point feared the length and breadth of the land. The major, it would appear, faces a lively autumn.

It has not yet been announced who the Cubs will play Sunday but there is a strong possibility that it will be the Middletown South Ends, the team coached by Walter Harrison, last year's captain of the Cubs.

Local Sport Chatter

Manager R. L. Huston of the Bristol Maple Ends was much provoked at the Cubs last night because he said they had called off the game between the Cubs and the Maple Ends to be played at Mt. Nebo next Sunday. Huston said the game was cancelled simply because the Bristol team saw fit to put the other Manchester team, the Majors, on its schedule. He added that the Cubs are playing the Majors at Hickey's Grove Sunday. This policy is hard to understand. Fans here like nothing better than a chance to compare the strength of the Cubs and the Majors and the attendance records would prove greatly by such a move as the Majors conclusively proved when they booked the Nauratuck Rangers after they had played the Cubs.

It was also reported today that the Cubs have called off their scheduled conflict with the New Britain Blues for the simple reason that the Blues are playing the Majors at Hickey's Grove Sunday. This policy is hard to understand. Fans here like nothing better than a chance to compare the strength of the Cubs and the Majors and the attendance records would prove greatly by such a move as the Majors conclusively proved when they booked the Nauratuck Rangers after they had played the Cubs.

The mere fact that the Cubs are not going to play the same teams that the Majors will not stop the Majors from continuing their recent policy of booking a team that makes a successful showing against the Cubs. In this manner, fans here will still have a chance to compare the two teams whether the Cubs like the fact or not.

There is a report in circulation today to the effect that the Majors may not play any more games at home after Sunday. It appears that the rental fee asked for Hickey's Grove has been raised to a point where the Majors are seriously considering "going on the road."

Leo Fisher, former C. A. C. star, will not be with the Majors again this season. It was learned this morning. The Hartford player is said to want too big a point where the Majors are seriously considering "going on the road."

Manchesteer Crowds

And yet despite this handicap, both teams performed satisfactorily. The field was sufficiently lighted for the spectators to follow the course of the ball at all times without any real difficulty. Most of the fans were from Manchester. This was made quite evident by the hearty applause the Majors received for any piece of good work. There were also quite a few Bristol persons in the stadium but apparently Hartford took only passing interest in its first chance to see a football game played under electric lights. Selectman Jarle E. Johnson of Manchester made the honorary kick-off.

Regarding the game itself, it wouldn't be far from the truth to report that the teams were pretty evenly matched. Manchester was fortunate enough to get into the lead at the start and savagely repulsed every Bristol offense once it got to near the danger point. Although Bristol made more first downs, 7 to 5 they were, Manchester seemed to possess the stronger defense. Bristol's defense was also strong but this was somewhat offset by insufficient teamwork on the part of the Majors' brilliant backfield material.

The Majors got off to a bad start when after failing to make a first down, Tasker fell back to punt. The pass from Bronke at center went way over his head and the Meriden boy did well to recover inside his own ten yard line. It looked like a sure Bristol touchdown, but the ease with which the Manchester eleven wrestled the ball on down was highly impressive. The Majors' touchdown came shortly afterward. Feele Electric's Fans.

Several other times during the game the Majors, one way or another, came into possession of the ball deep in Bristol territory but were unable to make any headway, losing on downs every time. Whole sale substitutions weakened the Majors late in the second quarter which perhaps explains the lack of a proper punch at the right moment. By far the greatest thrill of the evening was a 50-yard gallop by Feole, the Providence man, who finally appeared he would be chased off-side. Then suddenly and without the least warning, the Providence lad pivoted and darted back around the other way. For a moment it appeared he would lose some of the precious ground he had gained. He dodged tacklers right and left for a few tense moments and then finally was under full speed again. Two Major men joined in the interference. Only one Bristol man remained between Feole and the goal. It looked like a sure score but the Major interference failed and Feole was dropped on his own forty. All told, he must have run close to 100 yards—the length of a football field.

Leo Fisher, former Connecticut Aggie star, was at halfback for the Majors part of the game. He made a big gain around and the first time he carried the ball but was often smeared for a loss afterward because of two reasons. He was too fast for his own interference and the latter was not removing the opponent in the proper manner. In some respects, Fisher's resemblance each other. They are about the same size and run much in the same fashion. Both are streaks of lightning, once they get into full steam. Tasker, another Providence man, did mighty well in the Majors' backfield.

Ris Cassi Makes Score After Bristol Fumbles

Teams Handicapped by Glare of Lights But Play Well; Feole Makes Sensational Run; Over 600 Pay Admissions; Majors Clear Expenses.

The Manchester Majors won their third straight game of the football season last night when they took the measure of Bristol Maple Ends in the first night football game ever played in this section of Connecticut. The contest was staged in Hurley Stadium over in East Hartford but attracted only a comparatively small crowd. The score was 6 to 0.

Manchesteer scored its lone touchdown early in the first quarter. The recovery of a fumbled punt near the thirty yard line was the "break" that gave Manchester its opportunity. Scully rescued the loose ball. The Bristol defense stiffened but on the fourth down with three yards to go, Quarterback Tommy Miele broke through center on the old-fashioned quarter-back-sneak for a big gain. A moment later Ris Cassi shot around left end and behind good interference to cross the Bristol goal line. Miele elected a plunge for the point but failed.

There was quite a bit of fumbling of punts and forward passes, but this was due to inadequate lighting conditions more than anything else. No extra flood lights had been installed, the stadium being lighted with the regular system that is used for bicycle races or between rounds of boxing bouts. The location of the lights at the top bank of the race track was such that they shone almost directly into the players' eyes at all times.

Interest to Local Soldiers

Company G held their usual weekly drill last Monday night. The company commander reported that the company would complete the required range practice soon before cold weather calls a halt on outdoor activities.

Basketball is expected to be one of Company G's preoccupancies this winter. In times past the company has had range practice soon before a fine floor available for basketball; there is no good reason why two good teams cannot be found among the boys of both local companies.

Another member of Company G has "gone and done it" in the person of Sergeant Jimmy McConaugh. There must be something in those stripes, "Jimmy," that makes the girls fall for Company G's non-coms. At the rate they are being paraded before the altar to the time of McConaugh's Wedding March, it won't be long before the entire non-commissioned personnel of Company G are in double harness. More power to you, boys. We were for it ourselves.

One of the Howitzer boys on the range last week was having his troubles locating the target. His hand was a bit unsteady as his "gat" described an arc aimed at no particular object.

"What you aiming at, buddy?" asked a bystander.

"I dunno just yet, partner," replied the unsteady marksman. "I'm hoping to hit one of those targets—just which one I can't say at the present time."

Private Frank Vitullo of the Howitzer Company won the enlisted men's pistol qualification competition on the Keeney Street range last Sunday. The cup which the company officers offered for the high man, will be suitably awarded and presented to Corporal Vitullo.

Private Douglas Lynne of the Howitzer Company has moved to Larchmont, New York; his discharge for non-residence has been requested by the company commander.

Local officers of the 199th Infantry will attend a dinner, meeting and school at the Hartford Armory on Saturday night of this week.

The sixth squad in the Howitzer Company won the close order drill competition for this week. Corporal Vitullo's squad was a close second. Considerable rivalry has developed between the first and sixth squads as to their respective proficiency in drill; so much that they are issuing challenges for contests after the regular drill periods.

Herbert J. August of Bissell street enlisted in the Howitzer Company on Tuesday night. James McCann of the Manchester Memorial hospital enlisted last week and was in uniform for the first time on Tuesday night.

The Howitzer Company Association held its regular monthly meeting after the drill on Tuesday. It was voted to buy a radio for the company room, also to have benches constructed for the locker room. A committee was named to serve the refreshments after the next drill.

Sergeant Joseph Fatscher, the Army caretaker, has started the repainting on the lower hallway in the headhouse; a few weeks will make a decided improvement in the general interior appearance.

Attendance standing of the Howitzer Company squads to date is as follows:

Squad	Leader	Percentage
1	Vitullo	87.9
5	Bober	89.5
6	Doran	97.5
3	Mozzari</

SENSE AND NONSENSE

It takes less money to buy a bank account than it does anything else in the world of equal value.

Never Take Yourself Too Seriously Against the world's stupidity. I know the land is full of kicks, I know it's always going to be; I'm conscious that my friends and I are much superior to the race. Deserving, when we come to die, to go to some real high-brow place.

So let me strut my little day Among my foolish peers, and be filled full of gratitude that they can furnish pleasant sport for me; And when I go to my reward, I hope that, in my pride's behalf, A gracious and indulgent Lord Will tell the angels not to laugh.

It's a mighty wise chicken that can tell a bad egg when she sees one.

Doctor—You are working too hard. Patient—I know it, but its the only way I can keep up my easy payments.

If you should invite one of the present-day children to come in and see the nice, little sister that the stork brought, the chances are that they will ask you to show him the stork.

Simile: As scarce as nickels and dimes in a taxi driver's pocket.

Just What Is a Typewriter?—A typewriter is one who typewrites on the typewriter and the typewriter is a machine on which the typewriter who typewrites on the typewriter typewrites. Now, the typewriter who typewrites on the typewriter until there is no more typewriting to be typewritten by the typewriter on the typewriter on which the typewriter who typewrites on the typewriter typewrites.

Carl—I'm going to speak to your father now. And what shall I tell him? Agnes—Well, he'll want to know what you work at—by the way, what do you do? Carl—I'm selling electric refrigerators, now.

Agnes—Perhaps you'd better not mention that. Father drives an ice wagon.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

A girl is not a shining light merely because she burns the candle at both ends.

One thing that short skirt revealed, was that the family skeleton didn't spend all her time in the closet.

The best way to save time is to use it!

Work was the first curse sent on man; possessing a musical talent but can't make their own hood.

Oh, Mary! "Mary had a little lamb" That's what the poet wrote. But Mary's grown to be a miss And now she's got my goat.

A Republic, is a country in which the people can make their own laws but can't make their own hood.

A teacher lately passed on to us the following information, gleaned from the papers handed in to her by her pupils: The British subjects have the right to partition the King, that the Pope lives in a vacuum, that the Puritans found an insane asylum in the wilds of America, that nothing is whiter than the driving snow, and that a palmetto is a child of black and white parents.

The average woman is not only a great deal better than her neighbor, but she knows it.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

OPENING OF YALE On October 9, 1701, Yale University, then known as the Collegiate School of Connecticut, received its charter from the Colonial Assembly and was formally opened at Saybrook. For 60 years before the opening of the new school the people of Connecticut had been sending their sons to Harvard. In 1701, a group of 10 principal ministers, Harvard graduates, formally founded a collegiate institution by the gift of books for a library and were subsequently given a charter. The trustees, in order to obtain the support of the towns on the Connecticut river, voted to establish it at Saybrook, "as the most convenient town for the present." In 1716, in the face of much dissatisfaction, the school was removed to New Haven and permanently located there. A wooden building was erected where Osborn Hall now stands, and was formally opened at commencement in 1718, when the name of Yale College was adopted in honor of Elihu Yale, who had made large gifts to the school.

NCE UPON A TIME

When fire and earthquake destroyed his book keeping job in a San Francisco lumber office, Peter B. Kyne, noted author, police officer, and militia cavalryman, then opened a men's furnishing store of his own in a shack.

THE TINYMITES

Said Scouty, "Tell us 'bout your farm." The kindly man just waved his arm to indicate the land he owned, and said, "Well, right nearby we have a barn where we milk cows, and too, a field where fat sheep browse. And just behind the barn's a sight that's pleasing to the eye. "Oh, let's go there and look," said one. And off the bunch went, on the run. They scampered 'round behind the barn and scouty shouted "Gee!" The others exclaimed "Ah," and "Oh," "cause what they saw was quite a show. It was a little baby calf, as cute as it could be. Just then a farm hand came in view. Said Clowny, "What's he going to do?" The man replied, "He'll feed the calf. It is its dinner time. If you've never seen this stunt before, I'll bet that it will make you roar. I'll get a real good view, up on the fence you'd better climb." The Tinymites promptly did as told. The farm hand walked right up, real bold, and grabbed the wee calf 'round the neck and held him good and tight. Some milk, and oil was shortly poured right down its throat. The Tinymites roared. The way the calf enjoyed it was an interesting sight. Then came the sound of squeaky wheels. Each Tinymite took to his heels and scampered down a winding road to meet a load of hay. The hay man cried, "Hello, there, boys. My, don't these wheels make lots of noise. I guess they're kinda rusty and that's why they squeak that way." The Tinymites were surprised to see the hay piled high as high could be, but not in just one great big stack, like they had been before. Instead, in cloth the hay was wrapped and on the big hay wagon strapped. Said Scouty, "It's done that way so's to carry that much more." (The Tinymites drink from a fine fountain in the next story.)

The Ladies' Aid society of the Second Congregational church will hold a food sale on Saturday at Pagan's store on Depot Square, making a specialty of baked beans and brown bread.

Mrs. Henry C. Coleman of Hilliard street and Mrs. Edward Coleman of Walnut street returned last evening from Boston where they went on Monday for the American Legion convention.

The Christopher Columbus society of Manchester will celebrate its twenty-second anniversary on Sunday, and all members are invited to a banquet to be held at the Italian club on Norman street. Urbano Osano will cater. The committee that is arranging the celebration is Frank Facchetti, Joseph Antonio, Amerigo Agostinelli, Biagio Diana and Pietro Urbanetti.

Mrs. Maria Foglia of 131 Maple street has a beautiful rose bush of the Souy de Claudius Pernet variety in blossom in her garden at the present time. It was planted in the spring and is blooming again for the third time this season. It now has four pinkish-yellow roses and four buds.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the South Methodist church will meet with Mrs. Howard Keith, 50 Hill street, tomorrow evening. Every member is urged to attend and bring another.

The Ladies Aid society of the North Methodist church has set the date of Wednesday, October 5 for its annual chicken pie supper, one of the big undertakings of the year with this organization.

J. E. Fuller of the Laurel Garden Club of East Hartford, who recently returned from a camera trip to California, will exhibit his motion picture films of gardens across the continent at the October meeting of the Manchester Garden Club. Some of these films are colored, bringing out the actual tints of the flowers. The meeting will take place at Center church house at 7:30 Monday evening, and a large turnout of the members is hoped for. L. J. Robertson, Jr., is in charge of the program.

The Home Builders meeting at the South Methodist church will take place Monday, October 13, and will not be postponed until the 20th. This will be the annual session with election of officers and supper at 7 o'clock. Raymond Hunt heads the committee in charge.

Miss Florence Strickland who is leaving on Sunday for Honolulu, T. H., was surprised last evening at her home on Strickland street when a party of her former associates in the office of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company came to present her with a beautiful white gold and diamond bracelet to which seventy-five of the employees had contributed. Her mother, Mrs. Elsie Strickland, had been apprised of the farewell visit and provided a dainty luncheon for the girls.

Helen Davidson Lodge, Daughters of Scotia, will hold a food sale at Watkins Brothers store on Saturday at 2 o'clock. In addition to the usual line of cakes, pies and baked goods, there will be jellies and marshmallows, potted head and Scotch baked foods. The committee includes Mrs. Abram McCann, chairman; Mrs. Selma Sommerville, Mrs. Margaret Brown, Miss Bessie Brown, Mrs. Margaret Sutherland, Mrs. Mary Thompson and Mrs. Alfred Anderson.
