

PLAN A PUBLIC DISCUSSION OF CONSOLIDATION

Selectmen to Foster Another Study of Merging Project; School Districts Alone to be Considered This Time.

A public meeting for the discussion of proposed school districts consolidation here was suggested at last night's meeting of the Board of Selectmen. The proposal was received with favor by all the members of the group and a date will probably be set in the very near future. The Selectmen believe that the entire school districts problem has been changed with the acquisition of the High school by the town and the Cheney owned schools by the Ninth district.

To Call Conference
The Selectmen propose to call the Joint School Board, and the various school district committees into conference at the Municipal building to discuss the proposition of school district consolidation entirely independent of any of the other consolidation proposals made in 1928. After the school district committees and Selectmen have met in conference it is planned to hold a public meeting for discussion of the project.

Up Again
Consolidation of school districts here has come up again at this time because the Selectmen feel that plenty of opportunity should be given for discussion before any bill is presented to the next General Assembly which convenes in January. Now that each district owns all its school buildings and the town owns its high school it is believed that the matter of equalization can be presented to the various districts much more clearly.

Cheney Urges Restudy
Howell Cheney, chairman of the Ninth district school committee, urged a restudy of consolidation on August 16, this year, in a statement released to The Herald. He said that "it may be well to again state some of the considerations that should influence a restudy of the problem of the consolidation of the schools of the town. Formerly, discussion centered on the transfer to the town of buildings previously owned by Cheney Brothers, and on how much should be paid to Cheney Brothers for the buildings. Now that the transfer has been made, the way is open to consider the question of consolidation purely from the point of view of its merits as a step toward better education for all."

Selectmen Concur
The Selectmen concur in this opinion and in order that the question can be thoroughly discussed without the added entanglements of charter revision, a fire district merging and sewer district problems open meetings will soon be scheduled.

Bus Terminal
Several acceptances of appointments to offices were received at the board and Cheney Brothers asked that Edward Vickerman and Burton Carpenter be again named special constables. The Chamber of Commerce requested that the New Haven railroad be asked to cooperate in giving the north end a bus terminal. The board learned that the Chamber's bus terminal plans will cost the town a little over $200 since it is proposed to put in sidewalk and curbing and build a better roadway where the bus turn on Woodbridge street. It is the opinion

RACE OF SCHOONERS AGAIN A FIZZLE

Thick Weather Forces End of Contest — Bluenose Was Leading.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The second race between the Gloucester fishing schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud and the Nova Scotia fisherman Bluenose was called off today after the two boats had nearly completed the first half of the course. Thick weather which made it difficult for them to find the markers caused the postponement. The Bluenose was leading at the 18-mile mark but experienced difficulty in locating the marker and while it was still searching the Thebaud came up with the Nova Scotia.

Squall Arises
A rain squall, driven by a forty-mile east wind, swept the sea as the boats reached the end of the first round of the triangular course. During much of the race the boats were hidden or half hidden by the smother of fog, rain and spume from the sea and those on the Conyngham, the Coast Guard destroyer which served as a committee and press boat, were unable to keep track of them. The Coast Guard destroyer Tampa also stood out on the course and helped to guide them and report progress.

Jake Fleagle is Dead; Was Notorious Bandit

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Jake Fleagle, notorious bank robber and murderer, shot yesterday at Branson, Mo., when captured by a posse of officers died in a hospital here today at 9:55 a. m.

Fleagle, shot through the abdomen when he was surprised by the posse of officers, as he boarded a train at Branson, was brought to the hospital here at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

Consolous, but weak from his wound and the trip from Branson to Springfield in a private automobile, Fleagle grew steadily weaker through the night and physicians early today said he had no chance to live. A blood vessel had been ruptured by the bullet.

Officers sought to question him about various crimes throughout the night, but due to his condition little information was obtained.

When Diamond arrived at the hospital Sunday, surgeons said if he lived until tonight today he would have an excellent chance of recovery. At that time, however, the odds were estimated at 100 to 1 against his living until tonight.

Crain Sees Him
District Attorney Crain saw him this morning. "There was a marked improvement since Sunday," Mr. Crain observed. "His voice was strong, his eyes were clear, and he appeared to be on the road to recovery."

Mr. Crain was not satisfied with the information he obtained yesterday from John M. Ginsberg, manager of the Monticello hotel, where Diamond was shot.

"Yesterday I let Ginsberg talk to me," he said. "Today I expect to talk to Ginsberg."

BRITISH COMMENT

No American news story in years has claimed so much public attention in England. Not only are the newspapers printing columns of news and pictures, but many of them are editorializing.

The London Daily Express with a circulation of more than 2,000,000 said editorially today: "Everybody is asking why is it that gangs in American cities are not broken up and stamped out. Here is the answer, in the extract from Mr. Diamond's dossier, which he published yesterday. Look at this summary of his record:

"Age 33; arrested in past sixteen years for most of the crimes which come between burglary and murder 23 times; acquitted or discharged 21 times; sentenced—some a term in the reformatory and one year for Army desertion. LEGGS STILL ALIVE; CRAIN SEES HIM

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Jack "Legs" Diamond, New York gangster, who was shot Sunday in his hotel room, appeared today to be winning his fight to recover from his five bullet wounds.

He rallied during the night from a pulmonary collapse he suffered yesterday afternoon, and today Dr. C. M. Burnett, chief resident surgeon of Polyclinic hospital, described his condition as satisfactory, though still critical.

When Diamond arrived at the hospital Sunday, surgeons said if he lived until tonight today he would have an excellent chance of recovery. At that time, however, the odds were estimated at 100 to 1 against his living until tonight.

COTTON MILLS VOTE AGAINST CHILD LABOR

No Women to Work at Night Nor Minors Under 18 Years of Age—To Stop Custom Before March 1.

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Delegates of the annual convention of the Cotton Textile Institute today unanimously approved elimination of night work for minors under 18 years of age and for all women. Night work was defined as being from 7 p. m. to 6 a. m.

In voting approval of the principal of such night work elimination, the convention delegates signed a document in which they agreed to stop night work for minors under 18 and for women by next March first if and so long as a policy of gradual elimination throughout the industry, outlined in the document, is continued.

The policy of general elimination was expressed in a sentence in which the signatories expressed the belief that it was practicable to eliminate the night work in question by progressive acceptance of the policy by 75 per cent of the spindles in the industry the first year, 80 per cent the next year and 85 per cent the third year and thereafter.

Before the convention opened, the document signed by all the delegates today had been sent by mail to members of the institute, which represents the majority of cotton mills in both north and south.

As a result of this officers of the institute received by mail before the opening of the convention approval of elimination of the night work in question representing 20,000,000 spindles. Today's vote added 226,455 spindles.

The mail canvass prior to the convention brought replies of approval from 84 per cent of the industry as a whole and from 88 per cent of the night runners. It brought adverse opinions from but two per cent of the industry and three per cent of the night runners.

Walker D. Hines, chairman of the institute, presided, and President George Shogren, of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, presided in speaking of the night work elimination. Hines said that night employment of younger minors and of women would gradually disappear, and predicted that the time was not far off when mills opposing such a program would be knocked upon as enemies of the industry. He was applauded for this statement.

MAN KILLS SELF AT CRYSTAL LAKE
Ellington Laborer Uses Chain From Old Well to End His Life.

Rockville, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The body of John Sarichia, 56, laborer out of work was found hanging today from a rafter in an old barn at Crystal Lake, Conn. Medical examiner Howard A. Brace, of Ellington who returned a finding of suicide said the man had been dead about twelve hours before discovery. He used a chain he had taken from an old well to end his life.

The dead man had been a resident of Ellington for ten years and formerly had been employed by the borough of Stafford Springs as a high laborer. The cause for his act is attributed to despondency over being out of work. His first attempt to hang himself failed when he used a piece of rope which broke under his weight. It was then that he finished the act by hooking a chain around his neck. His body was found by Samuel Lipman, owner of the farm on which he ended his life.

Morrow Opens Drive for Senate in New Jersey

Attributing the present business depression to war and post-war influences beyond the control of the national administration, former Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Republican candidate for United States Senator from New Jersey, is pictured above as he opened his campaign in Newark. He reaffirmed his stand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and repudiated "wholly unauthorized statements" that he may be an opponent of President Hoover for the 1932 Republican nomination for the Presidency.

ROGERS DECLARES STAND ON 'ISSUES'

Hartford, Oct. 15.—In a letter mailed from New London last night, Lieutenant-Governor Ernest B. Rogers, Republican nominee for governor, replied to the open letter Professor Wilbur L. Cross, Democratic candidate. The Republican nominee expressed his opinions on what the Democratic candidate termed the "issues" of the campaign. He made public his reply, while in Hartford, through the Republican State Central Committee.

The letter follows: "New London, Conn., October 14th, 1930. Mr. Wilbur L. Cross, Democratic State Headquarters New Haven, Connecticut. My dear Professor Cross:—I noticed that the press of Saturday morning published a letter from you presumed to have been sent to me requesting a debate and outlining what you believed to be the issues of this campaign. Having waited until today and receiving no such communication from you, I assume the letter was for the press only. Under the circumstances, I believe it is entirely proper for me to indicate generally how I feel about those matters which you believe to be pertinent issues in this campaign.

Prohibition
"First—The question of the 18th amendment. I am sorry you do not like the plank in the Republican platform on that subject. I do! Possibly if you had voted against the 18th amendment as I did for precisely the reasons set forth in the platform, it would appeal more strongly to you. As of course you must know, the question is now entirely out of the control of the states and any remedy or change in present conditions is solely within Federal control at Washington. The only possible action towards a repeal of this amendment which can be taken by a governor of Connecticut, is when two thirds of the members of both houses of congress shall pass a constitutional amendment, repealing the present amendment, the governor would then submit to our General Assembly such a repealing act. If this occurs during my administration, I shall submit it, and believing it will be in line with

HEBRON JONESES LOSE ELECTION

Hebron, Conn., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Had the full force of the Joneses of Hebron been able to go to the polls last Monday, Claude W. Jones, Democrat and standard bearer of the family name, might not have been defeated in the special run-off election for first selectman.

There are many Joneses here, mostly Democrats. But it became known today, Carlton H. Jones, brother of the candidate, was stricken with an ear infection early Monday necessitating his removal to a Willimantic hospital. His wife accompanied him. With these two defections from their ranks efforts of the remaining Joneses were in vain, their candidate losing to Clarkson F. Bailey, Republican, 114 to 113. Democrats and Joneses today were pointing out that with their full strength lineup they could have reversed the one vote victory.

RAINFALL LESSENS OUR FIRE HAZARDS
Heaviest Since Middle of August—Still More Rain is Needed in State.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The heaviest rain since the middle of August fell in Connecticut last night and early today but it failed to relieve materially the drought-gripped state.

Weather officials, predicting intermittent rains throughout the day and night said several good drenchings were needed to fill depleted reservoirs and parched streams. The rainfall, however, served to lessen the menace of forest fires. It is believed that, with further rains today the danger would be past for the present.

Water Shortage
The water shortage in New Haven was the subject of a conference yesterday between Yale sports officials and city authorities. Yale's playing fields have dried up, making them practically worthless for use, and rather than draw on the city's diminishing resources the University was considering curtailing its program of sports.

The New Haven Water Company has urged careful conservation upon its users until heavy rains fall. Other Connecticut cities find their supplies low, but in no danger of exhaustion.

DR. LOEBE ELECTED REICHSTAG'S HEAD; VOTE IS 269 TO 209

Chicago, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The "Lie Detector" machine is going to make it unpleasant for University of Chicago students who cheat in examinations.

Dr. J. A. Lasse, research psychiatrist, announced today he would use cheating students in his experiments with the machine. The purpose is to test the accuracy of the machine and to demonstrate its value in a court of law.

GIRL AUTOIST RUNS DOWN WM. DOUGAN
Well Known Local Dyer Struck by Car Driven by Miss Kathryn Newton.

William Dougan, of 14 Linden street, secretary and treasurer of The Dougan Dye Works, Inc., on Harrison street, suffered a possible fracture of the skull when struck down on East Center street by an automobile early this morning. The driver, Miss Kathryn Newton, of 218 Collins street, Hartford, in which were also riding her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Newton. The Newtons were on their way to Hartford from their summer home in Andover when the accident occurred.

Helping Another
The accident happened almost opposite Hamlin street. Mr. Page's car ran out of gas and upon seeing Mr. Dougan drive out of Hamlin street, he asked him asking for a push to a gasoline station which was only three blocks away. Dougan was willing to lend a hand. He drove his car up in back of the Page machine and started to push it forward. It happened that the Page car had no rear bumper and Dougan was unable to make a good contact with the Page machine.

Page's Version
Dougan got out of his machine and went forward to Page's car to explain the difficulty. It was while he was standing talking to the insurance agent that the car from Andover struck him. All three machines were headed west. The two cars were stopped on the right side of the road. According to Page, Dougan said: "My bumpers pass right underneath." He did not finish the sentence as the passing car bowled him over.

Miss Newton's Story
Miss Newton said that Dougan stepped back from the automobile just as she was about to pass. The roadway was exceptionally slippery at the time of the accident because of rain during the night and morning. It was also covered with wet leaves that added to the treacherous condition.

Thrown To Road
The car did not pass over Dougan but knocked him to the pavement in front of the Page automobile. Miss Newton brought her machine to a stop within a car's length. Page said in describing the accident. The injured man was helped to his feet by Dougan. The car was towed to the hospital by Dr. Edwin C. Higgins who passed by soon after the accident. Dougan was able to talk but became semiconscious at the hospital.

Police Investigate
His name was found on the running board of the car in which Page sat and his watch was found in the middle of the road 20 feet away. It was stopped at exactly 8:11 but police said the accident happened at 8:20. Dougan's glasses were also found on the road. Patrolman Rudolph H. Wirtalla investigated but made no arrest pending the outcome of Dougan's injuries.

Boned for Burnside
Mr. Dougan was on his way to Burnside with some clothing to be tailored as in his morning routine. His place of business is located on Harrison street. He had driven out to East Center street by way of Pearl and Hamlin streets when he met Page.

Many Abrasions
The attending physician said after examining the injured man that Mr. Dougan, who is 62 years of age, was suffering from many cuts and bruises in addition to the possibility of a fractured skull. "The patient has a deep laceration of the head, multiple abrasions of the face, a long laceration on his left chest and many abrasions on both legs," the physician said, adding that he has all the symptoms of a fracture of the skull.

Business

"Second—The Business Depression. You call attention to the business depression and intimate that the Republican party should assume the blame for the same. You further suggest the appointment of a commission to study the situation, etc. You must be aware that there is not a civilized country in the world which is not suffering to a much greater extent than we in the United States.

Pensions

"Third—Old Age Pension. You state that the Democratic party has pledged itself to an old age pension plan, and suggest that I reply as to why the Republican party did not do so.

LIONS ATTEND DISTRICT MEET

Gather at Hotel Hooker in Willimantic Last Night; Growing Fast.

The first get together meeting of Lions clubs of the 23rd district, comprising towns in central and eastern Connecticut and Rhode Island, took place last night in Willimantic, when delegates from Lions clubs of East Hampton, Danielson, Pawtucket, R. I., Norwich and Manchester met with the Willimantic club in the Hotel Hooker, at a banquet and meeting, the first of a series planned for the coming season.

The guests sat down to a New England baked ham dinner at 7:30 and listened to Luke Whipple governor, the guest speaker of the evening. The district governor congratulated the assembled guests on their inter-club spirit, and expressed the hope that many more such meetings would be arranged during the winter.

Mr. Whipple gave the Lions members some interesting facts concerning the growth of Lionism in America, showing that Lions membership had increased to approximately 100,000 in the United States, at the rate of one club a day for the past three years. The speaker cited the many accomplishments along the line of civic interest and betterment, and reminded the members that the Lions International was the only service club organization to keep in touch with each club membership on a monthly basis.

The governor told of the advantages gained through membership in a club that had as its objective the important work of assisting the development of underprivileged boys and girls, and described the benefits gained through association with men linked together for this worthwhile purpose.

The International convention of Lions Clubs held in Denver last year was described by the district governor, who, with Past President "Bob" Johnson of the Pawtucket club, were district delegates. He urged all members to attend this year's International convention to be held in Toronto, Canada, next July.

John Dahlberg, president of the East Hampton club, one of the youngest clubs in the state, told of his club's plans for the season ahead. Nate Blumenthal, president of the Danielson club described the past year's activities in connection with underprivileged children of the Danielson schools and of supplying uniforms for the High school band.

Past President George C. Bagley of the local Lions club related the activities of the Manchester Lions club and the many worthwhile benefits sponsored by the club culminating in the purchase of a summer camp on upper Bolton Lake for the use of junior organizations.

Messages of inspiring nature were brought to the assembly by Lew Crandall, president of the Norwich club, Dr. Edward E. Groton, president of the Willimantic club, and Past President "Bob" Johnson of Pawtucket, R. I.

The local branch of the American Insurance Union will have a dinner at Tinker hall, Sunday, October 26, at 12:30 noon. Any member wishing reservations should get in touch with any of the following ladies: Mrs. Emma Dowd, Mrs. Ida Yost, Mrs. Margaret Kellner on or before Friday, October 24.

ALLEN, GEN. EDWARDS JOIN TALL CEDARS

Big Ceremonial to be Held in New Bedford on October 22; Plan Big Celebration.

Washington, D. C., October 15.—Supreme Tall Cedar William A. Brinkman, of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, of the United States and Canada, a social, fraternal, "play-ground" organization, composed only of Master Masons, from his headquarters of the Order in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, has announced that Governor Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, and Major General Clarence R. Edwards, Retired, wartime commander of the 26th "Yankee" Division from New England have accepted invitations to become members of New Bedford Forest, No. 114, located at New Bedford, Massachusetts.

Mr. Brinkman, accompanied by his associate Supreme Officers and Staff, will attend a general meeting of District No. 6, and a mammoth ceremonial of the Forest to be held in New Bedford on the evening of October 22, at which time he will confer upon these distinguished masons the highest honor of Cedarism—that of making them Tall Cedars "at sight." This outstanding honor is one infrequently conferred by the Order, and will be witnessed by many prominent members from all sections of the country.

AUTO RUNS AWAY, CRASHES INTO POLE

Rolls Down Foster Street, Attracts Crowd When It Hits Pole 100 Yards Down.

A Nash sedan owned by Arthur E. McCarroll, 160 Benton street, started in motion while parked on the west side of Foster street between Hawley and East Center streets at 6:30 last night and rolled down Foster street, finally crashing into a telephone pole in front of the residence of William J. Hanna, 58 Foster street.

Residents in the vicinity, hearing the crash, ran out to find the driverless car well on the sidewalk with the pole jammed past the broken bumper near the radiator.

The owner appeared shortly afterward and explained that he had been calling at a home farther up the street, parking in front of that house. In some manner the car got in motion and continued on down Foster street, evidently jumping the sidewalk curbing at Hawley street.

Besides the broken bumper, the tie rod was badly bent.

Fortunately, there were no cars parked on Foster street over the course taken by the driverless car or more serious damages would have been sustained.

REAL ESTATE FAKE
New Britain, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—When Michael Conteras, owner of a confectionery store, paid $800 to Paul K. Panos of Los Angeles, Cal., last July he believed he was buying some high and dry property on the Monterey peninsula. An investigation, he told the police, revealed that the land was virtually submerged by the waves of the Pacific which lave the western coast of the continent.

At his instigation, Panos was arrested and presented in Police Court this morning on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. His case was continued until tomorrow and bonds were set at $2,000. Conteras claims that Panos represented himself as an agent of the Southern Pacific Railway.

ABOUT TOWN

The advance sale of tickets for the card party to be held in St. James' Hall this evening, the funds to be used in the purchase of land and the erection of a shack for the boys of Troop 2, of St. James' church, indicates a large attendance.

At the troop meeting last night eight applications for membership were received and only two of the other members of the troop have dropped out.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Dexter of Brookfield street attended the consecration yesterday in Trinity church, Boston, of the Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, D.D., as ninth bishop of Massachusetts. Mrs. Dexter, who was the former Miss Margaret Harris of Brookline, Mass., is a sister of Mrs. Sherrill.

Members of St. Mary's Ladies Guild are reminded of the meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 for business and work on articles for the December sale.

Mr. and Mrs. George Long of 127 Birch street are spending the week at their cottage at Stonington, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. James O. McCaw and James, Jr., moved yesterday from 69 Benton street to their new home at 33 Coburn Road. The house is an English colonial and is one of the most attractive in that new residential district. As for modern electrical equipment it is up to the minute. Mr. McCaw has been connected with Cheney Brothers electrical department, and later the Manchester Electric Company, for many years and James, Jr., is a salesman at the Main street store.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaw have installed electric cooking, water heating and other appliances in their new home.

Hose Company No. 3 answered a still alarm at 7:30 last night and extinguished a brush fire in the old golf lots off Middle Turnpike East.

ACCIDENT DELAYS PAIR'S TRIP TO NEW JERSEY

Woman Falls, Breaks Shoulder, Just Before She Planned to Go Back to Her Home.

Fate interfered with the plans of two New Jersey people to return to their home today after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Letting Caverly of 38 Williams street since last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Calhoun were planning to leave by automobile for Egg Harbor, N. J., where they live, at 8 o'clock this morning, but Mrs. Calhoun tripped coming down the stairs from her bedroom and was badly injured. She was removed to the Memorial hospital in Dougan's ambulance where it was said she may have a fracture of the shoulder. Mrs. Calhoun is about 60 years old. The accident occurred at 7:15 this morning.

PYTHIAN SISTERS MEET

Memorial Temple, Pythian Sisters, met in Orange hall last evening for a brief business session preceding a public whist and dance. An honored guest at the meeting was Mrs. Jane Lunn, past chief of Eagle Temple of Revere, Mass., who is visiting in town. Mrs. Lunn though 80 years old is very enthusiastic over the work and attends meetings of the Pythian Sisters wherever she happens to be.

Four candidates for membership were voted upon last evening. It

ANDRION GETS LIFE

Bridgeport, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Anthony Andrion, 41 year old Greenwich had carrier today began serving a life sentence in the state prison at Waterfield to expiate the slaying of his wife Margaret, 33, in their home on July 25.

Late yesterday he was convicted of second degree murder by a jury in Criminal Superior Court and sentence immediately was pronounced by Judge A. F. Ellis. The jury deliberated one hour and forty-five minutes.

BANQUET FOR RATS

New Haven, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—The guests of honor at the big banquet on November 4 will be—the rats of New Haven county.

And the delicacies to be served will include hamburger steak, ground fish and cereals, seasoned incidentally with a new and powerful rat poison known as red squill.

This poison, according to the New Haven Farm Bureau, and Ernest M. Mills of the United States biological survey who are co-operating in fighting the party is deadly to rats and mice, but will not harm cats, dogs or humans.

Upset Not Serious If Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, head-achy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache, no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.—Adv.

CHENEY MEN DINE, SEE FASHION SHOW

Get Together Club Holds First Session of Fall Season—75 Attend.

Spontaneously singing "Hall, hall, the gang's all here," 75 members of the Get-Together club of Cheney Brothers opened the first fall meeting at Cheney Hall last night, featuring an extensive program beginning with a turkey dinner and a song-fest of popular melodies and ending with a revue of fall fashions and an interesting speaker.

The turkey dinner with fixin's was served by the Dyeing and Finishing Department under Franklin C. Decker. Dinner music was presented by Bill Waddell's orchestra and Ed Taylor and Fred Brendal led in the singing of numerous songs. The meeting was called to order by President John L. Reinartz. The attendance present was 75, was by Ross Shirer. Two applications for membership were received from Bruce Fuller and Fred Crosby and in accordance with the usual procedure were tabled until the next meeting to be held on November 18 with the Cravat mill in charge.

No new or unfinished business was brought before the meeting and adjournment to the main hall was voted to witness the style show. Four groups of fashions were presented by seven models ranging through street and business wear, luncheon and afternoon, dinner and evening, and informal hours at home.

The models were: Shirley Dougan, Clara Jackmore, Katharine Moaden, Helen Washkiewicz, Stella Olander, Isabelle Abratis, and Anna Jones. Miss Helene Cuberly accompanied at the piano. A description of the apparel worn was given by Miss Reinita Gardner, Cheney Brothers stylist.

The speaker, Oscar A. Phelps of the Fuller Brush company, was introduced by Howard Cheney, a personal friend of Mr. Phelps. Mr. Phelps gave a vivid account of the beginning of the Fuller Brush company and told in detail of the methods and manufacture of Fuller brushes. His talk was made doubly interesting by a large number of samples, showing the brush in various stages of assembly. Mr. Phelps was given a rising vote of thanks on completion of the lecture.

CONTROL MARKETS, FARMERS ADVISED

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP)—C. Teague, a member of the Federal Farm Board, told a meeting of farmers here today that the greatest assistance to agriculture that can come from Federal and state aid is the gradual development of a system of grower-owned and controlled marketing.

This conclusion he said, was one of a group of "fundamentals" which the board has laid down for its guidance after its 15 months of studying agricultural problems. He pointed out that development of co-operatives cannot be accomplished without interference with existing agencies and expressed the hope that the necessary readjustment "may be brought about with as much consideration for existing agencies and investments as possible."

Supply and Demand
Teague listed three other conclusions that are "becoming even more clear to the board; that all of the problems of agriculture will never be solved by legislation; that stabilization corporations to deal in surpluses are only warranted in cases of emergency and must be approached with the utmost care and that the law of supply and demand cannot be lightly set aside.

In spite of the suffering caused farmers by the decline in industrial stocks, Teague declared, "the organization of co-operatives has been greatly accelerated by the very existence of this depression. "When farmers are in their greatest adversity," he said, "they recognize the necessity of securing control of the marketing of their products and are much more prone to act collectively than they are during more prosperous times when their products meet with a more ready sale at good prices."

SULTAN OF JAHORE WEDS SCOTCH GIRL

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A whirlwind courtship of almost fairy tale romance reached a climax at noon today in the marriage at the registry office of the Sultan of Johore, reputedly one of the richest rulers of the east, and Mrs. Helen Wilson, an auburn-haired Scottish beauty.

Mrs. Wilson, daughter of a business man, thus becomes queen of one of the world's great rulers with power, palaces and untold wealth at her disposal. Mrs. Wilson and the sultan first met several years ago in Johore, where she went as the bride of a young Dr. William Wilson. The Wilsons' domestic affairs did not prosper. Their marriage was dissolved and she returned to England.

The sultan, who had admired her from a distance for many years, is reported to have determined suddenly to woo her. A man of action, he dashed forthwith to England, arrived the other day with his proposal. He was accepted and asked for a quick wedding.

The sultan, 37 years old, is athletic and a great sportsman and big game hunter having shot hundreds of tigers. It is said he always follows the dangerous procedure of hunting afoot. His bride is 40.

THEATERS

Holiday

"Holiday" with Ann Harding in the leading role, is one of the most magnificent screen offerings of the year. It is a tense emotional drama of high society and vast wealth, interpreted by stage and screen players of exceptional prominence, and produced on a high pretentious scale, and at once interesting, charming, massive and thrilling. The dramatic moments, are finely relieved throughout the action by delicious comedy, while the dialogue, compact and witty, leaves little to be desired. It is an enchanting story of two sisters of high social station and unlimited wealth who fall in love with the same man—a young man with a high ideal, who scorns money and hopes to enjoy life while he is young rather than grub for wealth until life has no further joys to offer. But he loved a girl who failed to appreciate his aim, and the sister who secretly loves him seems to be disinterested until the denouement which makes almost irresistible. Here is drama which might have come from any cross-section of well-to-do America, and in "Holiday" it is pictured with a beauty and charm that will appeal to all alike with irresistible force.

Ann Harding in the featured role is simply superb, and her performance bids fair to rank with the finest of season just ushered in. Robert Ames, Mary Astor, Edward Everett Horton, William Desmond, and Robert Hoppe have the principal roles in the exceptional supporting cast.

A Johnny Hines comedy and a Vitaphone act complete this program which will be shown at the State today and Thursday. There will be an added attraction tonight in the nature of another popular Merchants' Night.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS VICTIMS ARE IMPROVED

Gay Hastings Returns to Home Here—Nancy Fike to Return Home Soon.

Manchester's two infantile paralysis victims were reported today as much improved. One of them, Gay Hastings, freshman student at Wesleyan University in Middletown, returned to his home in Highland Park yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Crowell, with whom he lives, motored to Middletown and brought the boy home from the Middlesex County hospital.

Young Hastings is rapidly regaining his strength and the attending physician has decided to lift the quarantine Sunday. It is expected that he will be able to resume his studies at Wesleyan in two or three weeks.

The other case is that of Nancy Fike, six years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Fike of 67 Middle Turnpike West, a pupil at the Harding school on Hollister street. Nancy is in the Hartford isolation hospital where she was removed a week ago Monday night. It was said at the Fike home this morning that the child was getting along very nicely and that she will undoubtedly be able to return home after the completion of the required three weeks quarantine.

Mrs. Fike said that her daughter's temperature has been normal for the past five days and that she appears as bright as ever. She eats everything given to her except cereal but she never had any particular liking for this kind of food. The dazed condition evident the first few days in the hospital has entirely disappeared. Paralysis is absent.

REVIVE KELP INDUSTRY ON IRISH WEST COAST

Dublin, (AP)—The Free State's government Department of Fisheries reveals that it has paid out $70,000 this year in a co-operative marketing scheme of kelp, gathered on the Irish west coast. Something like 2,000 tons of calcined ashes of seaweed, from which soda and iodine are obtained, have been purchased by the department, revival of the difficult industry having brought the difference between poverty and comparative affluence to thousands of the hardy fisher folk of the rugged coast.

The best kelp comes from Tory Island, Donegal, and brings about $70 a ton but there is a good quality also from around Qully in County Clare and other supplies are available along the entire Connemara coastline and the Arran Islands. An official told of a family of father, mother and five children which had netted $780 from the season's work. "This meant," he explained, "that the boy and three of the girls did not have to emigrate, as would have been the case if this money had not been forthcoming."

COWS BURNED TO DEATH

Rochester, N. H., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A fire of unknown origin which started in the barn of Willis Pease, early today destroyed the house and barn and burned to death nine cows, 20 pigs, and two St. Bernard dogs. Damage was estimated at $10,000 by Pease.

The family was awakened by the barking of the dogs, locked in their kennels in the barn. Mrs. Pease, a five year old daughter, and Mrs. Pease's mother escaped injury. Mr. Pease was slightly burned about the feet attempting to liberate the dogs.

KING ANSWERS LETTER

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Bulgarian king today acknowledged the congratulations conveyed to him yesterday from President Hoover by the United States minister. Boris' message said: "I am deeply touched. Thank you sincerely for your heartfelt congratulations and for your amiable letter. (Signed) 'BORIS'"

ASSERTS DOCTORS ARE UNDERTRAINED

Famous Surgeon Says But Two Years Are Devoted to Clinical Work.

Philadelphia, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Dr. William J. Mayo, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., told a group of prominent physicians and surgeons today that the modern university, in educating medical students, over-stresses the cultural background and pays little attention to training in clinical medicine.

Dr. Mayo, who is here attending the annual meeting of the American College of Surgeons, was the principal speaker at the dedication of Temple University's $1,500,000 school of medicine. Prior to his address he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Temple "in honor of his services to humanity in the field of surgery."

Two Years Study
Dr. Mayo said that only the last two years of a medical student's training, of from six to eight years after he leaves high school, were really concerned with clinical practice and that many medical schools had found it necessary to demand one or more hospital years to supplement this "too meager" training in clinical medicine.

"Added to this period spent in medical school," Dr. Mayo said, "is the cost, and it is quickly seen that from $7,000 to $10,000 is necessary to enter the practice of medicine. The result may be to deter men of moderate means from taking up the study of medicine, thus tending to form a privileged group, what might be called an aristocracy, which the history of medicine does not warrant."

In urging the necessity for training a greater number of general practitioners, he said: "We must have general practitioners who have sufficient acquaintance with all sides of medicine to enable them to know when special consultation is necessary, and to carry out the treatment which the joint knowledge of a specialist and the practitioner find necessary."

MURDER VICTIM CAME HERE TO VISIT OFTEN

Lived With Sister of Mrs. Fritz Mohr of This Town—Local People Going to Funeral.

Miss Jennie Carr, the 25 years old farm girl who was murdered in East Hartland Monday has many friends in town and a week ago last Sunday was a visitor here.

Since fourteen years of age Miss Carr had been a member of the household of Mr. and Mrs. John Lichdi of East Hartland. Mrs. Lichdi is a sister of Mrs. Fritz Mohr, whose husband conducts the bakery in Gorman place. Miss Carr, with members of the Lichdi family often visited here.

The Mohrs went to East Hartland yesterday afternoon and they will also attend the funeral which is to be held tomorrow in East Hartland. The murder was committed just as Miss Carr, who was wearing overalls, had come out of a barn, which is located at the foot of a hill, some distance from the house. It was not known that she had been shot until brought to Lichdi's by a passing automobile. In a dying condition she mentioned the name of George Patnode, who was afterwards located and arrested on the charge of murder. He showed the state police where he had thrown the gun in a well after the shooting.

100 GET DEGREE

Claremont, Cal., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Charles Edward Harwood of Upland, Cal., today held an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Pomona College here as a present for his 100th birthday.

Harwood was graduated from Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., in 1852, and was one of the founders of Pomona. He will become a centenarian Sunday.

BRIGANDS HOLD MISSIONARY

Peiping, China, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Frank P. Lockhart, American consul general advised the legation today that Bert N. Nelson, American missionary of the Lutheran United Mission Home, Minneapolis is being held by brigands.

His abductors belong to the so-called first red army. They captured him after the fall of Kwang-shan, southeast Honan, to their forces on October 5. A large ransom has been demanded. Lockhart is making energetic efforts to secure the missionary's release.

BRIAND SICK

Paris, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Briand still was confined to his apartments in the ministry of foreign affairs today but was said to be well on the way toward convalescence from his recent attack of the grip. The veteran diplomat is remaining indoors as a precautionary measure to regain his strength for the oratorical battles which are expected to confront him when Parliament reconvenes at the end of the month.

M. Briand caught cold in Geneva on Sept. 13. He was obliged to shed all cares of office for the time being. He has been spending much time reading detective stories.

KING BORIS GETS A DISPENSATION

May Marry Italian Princess But Children Must Be Raised As Catholics.

Vatican City, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI today granted a dispensation permitting the marriage of King Boris III of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna of Italy on the written promise from Boris that any children born of the marriage, without exception, will be baptized and educated as Catholics.

Boris is a member of the Greek Orthodox Church, the Bulgarian state religion, and the constitution of his country says that its king must be of that faith. The Princess Giovanna is known as a staunch and fervent Catholic.

Wedding Oct. 25
The wedding will take place in Assisi Cathedral, October 25, in the lower chapel at the altar of the Madonna of Good Council, near the tomb of the Infanta of Savoie, daughter of King Carlo Emmanuel I.

The Pope's decision put an end to ten days of uncertainty about the religious aspects of the marriage.

KIDNAP EX-PRESIDENT

Police Believe Abductors Planned to Take Father Instead of the Daughter.

Helsinki, Finland, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Kaarlo Juho Stahlberg, former Finn president, and his wife were saved today from forced transportation across the Russian frontier by an officer of the National Defense Corps. They were kidnaped yesterday as they were taking a walk.

The defense corps officer forced the car which was conveying the two to halt at Joensuu, 100 kilometers from the frontier and submit to inspection. The abductors escaped.

Neither of the two prisoners were harmed.

KIDNAPED HEIRESS FINALLY RELEASED

Police Believe Abductors Planned to Take Father Instead of the Daughter.

Greenfield, Mo., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Authorities investigating the kidnaping of Mrs. Alma Wilson McKinley, 24 year old heiress, released late yesterday after being held captive for nearly a day, today expressed the opinion her abductor originally planned to capture and hold her for ransom from her millionaire father, Benton Wilson.

The opinion that Wilson was first intended as the victim, was based on a note left at the Wilson home by the abductor, in which $60,000 was demanded for the release of Mrs. McKinley, an expectant mother.

Investigators said the abductors plans to collect ransom for the release of Mrs. McKinley were foiled when the Wilson motor car, in which she was forced to drive away, became mired in the mud near Jarico Springs, Mo.

Ransom Note
The note revealed last night by Wilson after his daughter had returned home was typewritten and "he" and "him" had been scratched

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15.

OVER-SENSITIVE
 It is very much to be doubted whether many Catholics will approve the criticism of President Hoover by Rev. John J. Burke, secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, for language used by the former in a message to American Lutherans for the anniversary of the Protestant Reformation.

Father Burke would scarcely be expressing the views of many American Catholics if he were to advocate a union of church and government in this country, for American Catholics quite as much as American Protestants have grown far away from belief in any such condition; and that, we believe, purely as a matter of principle without consideration of the fact that they would inevitably be at a disadvantage under a church-state government, being in a decided minority in the United States.

And yet Mr. Hoover's message to the Lutherans dealt with just that aspect of the question. It could not very well do otherwise, since it is well known that the Reformation was born of no revolt against spiritual control or religious dogma but solely of political considerations. It was the inevitable consequence of over-extension of the secular authority of the medieval church and had nothing little to do with what we all understand by religious matters. It was an affair of government and not of creeds, in its fundamentals.

As head of a country whose constitution would, of course, have been absolutely impossible if there had never been any such movement as the Reformation, the President could hardly have done less, under the circumstances, than reply to the Lutherans as he did, giving credit to that movement for its part in our having this kind of a government.

Father Burke, in his criticism, says that Mr. Hoover's remarks were historically inaccurate and emphatically denies that Martin Luther favored separation of church and state but on the contrary was a "most arbitrary advocate of state absolutism." At that point the clergyman embarks on potentially controversial waters. Perhaps he is altogether right, but the very general belief of reasonably well educated people in this country is that Luther and the Reformation did inaugurate the separation of secular from religious government; and if Mr. Hoover's information on that subject is erroneous it is not his fault but the result of a very general misconception in which, we suspect, many Catholics share.

Father Burke would seem to have been needlessly sensitive. He may rest assured that when Mr. Hoover, or any other liberal minded Protestant in the public service expresses admiration for Martin Luther and the effects of the Reformation it is with his mind upon the implication of government involved and not with slightest reference to the spiritual values of religious faiths. And surely no person of any religion would want to deny to a Protestant President of the United States, addressing a great Protestant congregation, the right to trace the preponderance of Protestantism to its authentic source—any more than he would want to deny to a Catholic President, addressing a great Catholic organization, the right to felicitate Catholics upon the great moral and religious influence of the Roman church.

OUT-MANEUVURED
 Lieutenant-Governor Rogers reply to the challenge of Dean Cross to debate the issues of the campaign, printed elsewhere in this newspaper, may bring realization to the Democratic candidate that Mr. Rogers is a better political strategist than he reckoned on, not by any means to be put in a hole by a bluff. Also that, clever as he himself may be, he hasn't learned enough about the political game yet to keep his guard up.

 When Dean Cross failed to mail to Mr. Rogers the letter of challenge which he gave to the press he left the latter an opening of which the astute New Londoner has effectively availed himself. Being under no obligation to either accept or decline the challenge, he has answered Dean Cross through the same medium that the latter himself employed, the newspapers, and has seized the opportunity to stage the debate in that field instead of on the speaking platform.

In doing so it can hardly be denied that Mr. Rogers has started off by landing one "on the button" in the matter of prohibition, which Dean Cross elected to make the major issue. If and when the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment is referred to the states, Mr. Rogers, as governor, pledges himself to recommend to the Connecticut Legislature that it ratify the act of repeal. And what on earth could Dean Cross do beyond that, in the event of his own election, in the way of promoting the termination of federal prohibition? Absolutely nothing, of course. What Mr. Rogers thus voluntarily promises to do to further repeal of the Eighteenth amendment is the ultimate in the power of a governor of this or any other state.

Dean Cross, in this challenge business, evidently thought he was poking at a cinder. He has discovered that he picked up a very live coal.

SHORT SELLING
 When stock market interests run to Washington and seek conferences with the President, hoping to get him to use the Department of Justice in prevention of short selling, it is difficult to see in the proceeding anything but an attempt to enlist the power of government on the bull side of the great gambling game. That is an activity which the people of the country would hardly tolerate. Also it is one in which the Wall Street bulls will not succeed in entrapping Mr. Hoover.

Of course these people who are running to President Hoover do not really want to stop short selling, for without that element there could be no stock market in the modern acceptance of the term. What they want is some sort of a one-sided rule to the game whereby the winnings of the shorts would be limited while those of the longs would be unlimited.

As a matter of fact it is nonsense to attribute the recent declines in the market to bear operations. The crash of last fall simply did not squeeze all the wind and water out of the general inflation of values. "Rock bottom" was not at exactly the level where it was so generally believed to be. Lately some more of the artificial values have been seeping out. The shorts are merely the boys who got this thing through their heads first.

What would make more of a hit with the ordinary citizen in this country than any proposition to slam the shorts would be a serious movement to put an end to marginal stock gambling altogether. But propose that to these people who have been besieging the President for aid, and hear their holler!

APPROVED HOSPITALS
 Periodical approval of Manchester Memorial Hospital by the American College of Surgeons has come to be so confidently expected as to be taken more or less for granted by the public and its great significance somewhat lost to sight. It is worth recalling, therefore, that such approval is earned by the continual maintenance of standards of safety and efficiency so high that up to thirteen years ago only eighty-nine hospitals in the United States and Canada met them.

So great has been the progress in standardization of technique and practice, under the influence of the College of Surgeons, that now no less than 2,063 hospitals are on the approved list.

The minimum standards which hospitals must meet in order to obtain the approval of the College of Surgeons require the keeping of clinical records, a review of every case resulting in death, laboratory examinations and various other proceedings recognized as essential to the best hospital practice.

Under the advanced conditions brought about, the average total death rate for the approved hospitals is only four patients out of each hundred admitted—and this includes the many emergency patients who arrive in a dying condition.

Naturally it is a source of gratification that Manchester's only public hospital is numbered among the elect.

TWO NAMES FOR A THING
 Dr. Hjalmer Schacht, former president of the German Reichsbank, speaking in Connecticut last night, told his American hearers that a federation of European countries would be of obvious advantage to all of them but insisted that it must have for its foundation an economic rather than a political basis, as proposed by Foreign Minister Briand of France.

Dr. Schacht is one of the wisest and longest headed of Europe's public men, but if he can find an economic basis for a European union that is not at the same time political, or if M. Briand can find a political basis for such a union that is not equally economic, somewhere between them lies the merit of being the Solomon of this century.

Schacht and Briand seem to us to be approaching the same objective from two different angles, both being bound to come out at exactly the same point if they pursue their respective courses without deviation.

The trouble with such discussions, whether they are between a great German financial authority and a French statesman or between a Republican and a Democrat in Manchester, is a failure to recognize the fact that politics is always fundamentally economic and economics the source of all politics.

The aim of politics is security, happiness and well being for mankind. Economics strives for precisely that end. Then why should the two be regarded as separate, even conflicting, sciences?

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 15.—Notes from a convenient cuff—
 Who was the wisecracking gent who commented that all columnists suffered from "I" strain?
 Far be it from me to drop my I's?

Going about the stay-up-late reports these nights you'll see young Buddy Rogers flitting about with some of Hollywood's handsomest—particularly Claire Windsor, heroine of the recent Phil Plant yacht adventure.

But when Buddy sails for Europe as he will any day now—it will be with mamma. Don't forget that for a moment, girls! Buddy may step around the jazz spots. However, when he ventures abroad, you'll find mamma along.

The literary season is getting under way, what with teas for this one and for that one. The Longman-Green people are introducing Irving Fineman, who won their $7500 with "That Nice Young Man." And Grever & Warren are asking you to shake hands with Maurice de Kobra, whose sophisticated Paris tales make him a French best seller. He was over here a year ago, manners and all, and now pays a return visit hot on the heels of his "Perfumed Tigers," an interesting and amusing travelogue, as I have read in many a day. And a cuffed note tells me to be at the Riverside Drive studio of John Vassos, bizarre illustrator.

And getting around to bookish talk reminds me that there is much chatter and palaver in London and Manhattan about Somerset Maugham's "Cakes and Ale." In this novel there are two characters, both of them thinly disguised literary figures.

Just between you and me, if the book happens to come up for discussion in your town just write down on your own cuff that the grand old man of letters is Thomas Hardy and the younger gent who goes about on lecture tours is said to be Hugh Walpole—at least, according to the author's intentions.

And Carl Van Doren, who looms large in letters, comes from an Illinois town so small that it can no longer be discovered on the map. He went to the University of Illinois and then came to Columbia University in New York, winding up in Oxford. For a couple of years he has been digging his head and you over the earth for biographical material on Jonathan Swift, one of the giants overlooked, somehow or other, by the myriad biographers.

Which reminds me that Dawn Powell, author of the current Literary Guild selection, "Dance Night," is a runner-up for the wise-cracking laurels of Dorothy Parker.

Miss Powell comes from a little Ohio factory town, where she grew up among hundreds of girl workers—a town of cheap lunch counters and railroad terminals, nickel-in-the-slot pianos, billiard halls and such. At least so it was in yesteryears and hers. At 16 she became a reporter on the Shelby Daily Globe "because it gave me an excuse for hanging around pool rooms, jalls and such, which was more fun than being brought up at home." She saved her pennies and went to Lake Erie College where, unable to pay her tuition, she "typed her way through college."

Meanwhile, she has done pretty much of everything, from being movie extra to a farmerette. Now she has one of the successful novels of the year and a play has been purchased by the Theater Guild.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 15.—Once upon a time there was a president of the United States who thought that prohibition issue could be sidetracked and soft-pedaled and that if the government pretended that there was no serious enforcement problem the people doubtless would forget about it.

Somehow things didn't work out that way and today the same president's administration is more than willing to let it be known that prohibition enforcement is a very tough problem indeed, and it seems to make the inference that people shouldn't expect too much in view of what the enforcers are up against.

The seeming change of policy, observable in the doubling of the frank publicity, not only is an abandonment of the shush-shush idea, but it stands in marked contrast to the past practice of claiming that the Volstead act was being enforced, that the American people were rapidly going dry and that all critics were wicked rumhounds.

There are those, of course, who say that the way is being prepared for the Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement to recommend modification. All of which may be true, but this writer, has been unable to get anyone in authority to admit it. The occasional utterances of Chairman George W. Wickersham himself might be taken to indicate that sometimes Wickersham thinks one thing and sometimes he thinks another. It is rather doubtful whether the commission itself knows what it will recommend, if anything.

Meanwhile, Colonel Amos Walter Wright Woodcock, the prohibition director, appears to court rather than to shun publicity for his organization and its methods. In one way or another, the new administration's realistic attitude toward the job has been indicated two or three times a week.

An official estimate has been advanced that there will be 878,330,718 gallons of spirits, wine and beer available to the people of the United States during the present fiscal year.

Find Liquor Plentiful
 That is something like 12 gallons for every adult person, and even the most pronounced wets doubtless will admit that it seems like more than enough. The illegal beverage liquor anticipated is stated as 73,388,000 gallons of spirits, 118,476,000 gallons of wine and 68,444,000 gallons of beer.

The figures were cited to show that America was guzzling only about 35 per cent as much alcohol as before the war, but official frankness in admitting the presence of such a tremendous supply of liquor is a step toward enforcement that was absolutely unprecedented.

Even more frank was Woodcock's assurance that his men wouldn't molest persons who made wine at home unless they took to selling it.

Two instances might be cited, made public a detailed statement from Attorney General Mitchell showing the seriousness of congestion in the federal courts, in which prohibition cases have been a large contributing factor.

It is obvious enough that the administration wants everybody to know that it is doing the best it can in a task that may turn out to be impossible. It craves a lot of sympathy—and less abuse.

to be Hugh Walpole—at least, according to the author's intentions.

WAPPING

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Hills and son Otis Hills motored to Lebanon last Sunday and called at the home of Dr. Laura Hills, who plans to leave for Florida in the near future.

There will be a whist party at the Rye street school building next Friday evening, October 17. The proceeds are to go towards purchasing cocoa for the school children through the winter months.

Reports from the Hartford hospital are that Mrs. Mary E. Geer is improving as rapidly as can be expected, after a major operation.

Mrs. Eva L. Stoughton of East Hartford, formerly of this town, and Miss Theo Ellsworth of East Windsor, sailed for Bermuda Saturday where they will spend their vacation.

The Barber Hill Men's club held a social time at their club house on Barber Hill Saturday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Joseph B. Ackley of Larrabee street, Burnside, motored to Lake Waugumbaug in Coventry recently for a short stay. While there they attended a picnic at which those present, fifteen in number, were people who spend their winters at Hampton, Florida.

There is a big dispute as to whether the name of the great Roman poet, whose birthday anniversary is being celebrated in Vergil or Virgil. After all these years it seems the old boy is still a spell-binder.

DEFICIENCY DISEASES
 which closely resemble those of beri beri.

Pellagra
 Pellagra is undoubtedly a nutritional disease because like all of the nutritional diseases it seems to be caused by a lack of important elements in the food. Pellagra is often found in the Southern States and in the southern part of Europe and follows a restricted diet of using too much devitalized food and not enough of other protein. The diet is the most important thing to consider in the cure.

The symptoms usually begin in the winter when there is a smaller variety of food to choose from. The first symptoms are a slight nervous and digestive disturbance, followed in the spring by sore mouth, heart burn and diarrhea. The portion of the skin exposed to the sun shows a sharply defined inflammation after which the patient shows marked mental and nervous changes, even insanity. In chronic cases the patient may have a recurring attack each spring, becoming worse every year. It seems that a toxic absorption from the lower bowel is a secondary cause, and a cure rests upon a thorough bodily housecleaning program.

The best diet seems to be an occasional acid-fruit fast of from four to five days at intervals of a month apart, followed by a well balanced diet as suggested in my weekly menus found in this paper. It is especially important that plenty of meat or other protein foods be obtained. The use of these menus will usually be sufficient to correct the trouble after the fruit fast.

Beri Beri
 The Chinese are a very old race, and yet one of their first medical histories deals with beri beri, a disease which is now known to be due to a lack of vitamin B. The first suspicion that this disease was due to the lack of some unknown food substance began when it was found that those who lived exclusively on polished rice developed this disease, while those who used unpolished rice did not develop it. It was found that beri beri could be prevented either by eating whole rice, or by eating polished rice and with it some of the polings.

The patient affected with beri beri has a pronounced weakness of the legs and great fatigue upon exertion. The stomach becomes tender, and the muscles of the calves, hand and forearm usually ache. As the disease progresses, the arms and legs may become paralyzed. Some swelling or edema usually accompanies the trouble.

Nervitis has been developed and there may be much gastric disturbance.

When the white or polished rice is fed to chickens they show similar symptoms of weakness of the legs, followed by paralysis, symptoms

PEACE SCHOOL TO AVOID WAR OPENS IN PARIS

Paris—(AP)—The School of Peace opens its doors November 1 to study the ways of avoiding war. It is a real school. It has a faculty and a great big lecture hall. It is a "grown ups" school; but one where the young also may go. It is for statesmen and the common people, for the ones who in the past have made wars as well as for the ones who fought the wars or gave their children to a hungry Mars.

Aristide Briand, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, creator a year ago of the embryonic European federation, is at the top of a list of patrons. Others are cabinet ministers, present or past, socialists and conservatives, teachers, labor leaders and business men.

It is the plan of this new school to give a two-year course on the League of Nations and all international efforts to establish permanent peace.

It was founded by "L'Europe Nouvelle," a publication devoted to the discussion of foreign affairs, created and edited by Mademoiselle Louise Weiss, who has made a big place for herself in the little world where affairs of state are discussed. It is to increase the size of the world where world affairs are at issue that she has established the school. She thinks the people, after studying peace, will get it.

The school of Peace is to be a night school, with 26 lectures, one a week. The lecturers are high officials of the League, Professor Charley, capitalists, labor leaders and teamsters. Among them is Andre Siegfried well known in the United States for his books on American affairs in the famous "Free School of Political Science" here.

It will be an expensive school for some of the rich students but almost free for others. The course may be taken for as low as $1.20, but lectures are expected to finance it through life memberships.

FEAR GANGSTER WAR

Catskill, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP)—With 27 gangsters in hiding in the mountains near Catskill today—20 of them Jack (Legs) Diamond's henchmen, the other seven members of a rival gang—Catskill was in a fever of anticipation, awaiting further casualties on the Hudson Valley beer front.

The two parties of gunmen, arrived in Catskill at various times last night eventually disappeared somewhere in this little village where Diamond's home is. Reports on the shooting of Diamond in New York Sunday were feared.

One of Diamond's reputed beer runners, Stanley Kline in Catskill jail. He was arrested in New York when he was found in a bloodstained car owned by Harry Western. Catskill roadhouse operator whose disappearance some months ago never has been explained.

NOVA SCOTIA SWEEP BY FOREST FIRES

Situation Serious As Acre After Acre of Standing Timber is Destroyed.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Acre on acre of standing timber was falling today before the rapid advance of forest fires blazing on a score of widely separate fronts in Nova Scotia.

In Queen's and Lunenburg counties, where more than thirty houses and scores of timbered acres were destroyed last spring, came reports of a situation rapidly growing serious. Excessively dry growth and shortage of water added to the difficulties of many hundreds of men on the fire lines.

Fire Kings Village
In the Lake Rossignol district of Queen's county the largest fire blazed on a five mile front, almost surrounding the village of Middlefield. The fire spread rapidly through heavy timber, spruce, pine and hemlock, of sixty years growth.

Men today were making their way to the scene in canoes from another blaze at Horseshoe lake on the Medway river and water was being hauled from the river in an effort to stop the fire's advance. It was making steady progress, however, and there was a possibility of its crossing over and threatening the town of Milton, which suffered thousands of dollars damage in burned dwellings last spring.

Other Blazes
Burning steadily since Sunday, a fire on the barrens between Dalhousie and Forties settlement in Lunenburg county still was spreading. Other parts of the province most affected were Colchester county, where the Wentworth valley lay under a pall of smoke from blazes on both sides of the Cobequid mountain, and Hants, where fires were spreading near Clarksville and Stewacks. In Annapolis county, a fire near Douglassville, on the North mountain, was being held in check.

PEACEFUL OLD TOWN BRISTLES WITH GUNS

George Bagley Goes Back Home to Find New York Gunmen Fighting It Out in the Country.

A visit to the old home town sometimes has its disillusion and dangers as in the case of George Bagley yesterday. The local automobile dealer drove to his old home town, Catskill, N. Y., Monday and was back in town again last night. There is a reason behind his sudden decision to return.

Acra, N. Y., a suburb of Catskill is just to the northward of the hills that give the town its name and is the home of Jack "Legs" Diamond, beer racketeer who was shot in a New York hotel Sunday morning. Following the shooting the scene of action changed to Acra where Diamond owns a country place up in the hills.

When Bagley arrived in Catskill he was just in time to witness the arrival of 17 gunmen from New York, enemies of Diamond, who were enroute to Acra to wipe out the Diamond stronghold. There was a note of apprehension abroad in Catskill until the organized gang got under way out Acra with the evident intention of applying the torch to the enemy hangout.

The underworld telegraph had been working, however, and no sooner had the 17 racketeers with suspiciously bulging pockets had disappeared in the direction of Acra, than the Diamond henchmen put in appearance bristling with "hardware" and ready to go in the same general direction. As a matter of precaution Catskillites sought the safety of their homes and awaited the opening barrage.

But the quiet town along the Hudson was spared the horrors of the western front, for the gangmen adjourned their feud to the Catskills, preferring to fight it out in a less wholesale destructive manner. The last heard from them they were entrenched in the fastness of the Catskills awaiting each other's next move.

VICE CONSUL HURT

Vigo, Spain, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Raymond Orel Richards, United States Vice Consul, whose home is in Appleton, Me., was injured in a train wreck yesterday which killed an engineer and hurt a score of other persons severely.

Mr. Richards was reported much better today. Physicians said his hurts consisted of bruises and lesions of a nature not serious unless unexpected complications arose.

IT COULDN'T BEE

"Do you know, my dear," said the young husband, "there's something wrong with that cake. It doesn't taste like serious unless unexpected complications arose."

HURT BY FALL

New Haven, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Peter Beaudette, 47, either fell or jumped 20 feet into the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad viaduct here early today. His spine was fractured and his condition is critical.

He was unconscious when found and has not recovered since to tell police what occurred. It was said, however, that he was laid off from work yesterday and he may have attempted suicide.

Beaudette has a wife and nine children in Willimantic to whom he was sending a part of his wages. He came to that city five years ago from Lowell, Mass.

HOOVER CONSULTED ON STOCK MARKET

Financiers Visit President and Have Long Conference; No Details Given Out

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Two students at Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University narrowly escaped death early today in a fire at Vanderbilt hall. They were Joseph Lee Lillenthal Jr., of New York City, and Gordon E. Woodruff of Louisville, Ky., both sophomores.

The blaze, which caused damage estimated at $1,000 was confined to the fifth floor study and bedroom of Woodruff and Lillenthal who roomed together. No cause for the fire had been ascertained.

Students Flee
Scores of pajama-clad students fled to the street from the dormitory and stood about in the early morning mist watching firemen battle the flames.

Lillenthal discovered the fire shortly before 7 a. m. when he awakened to see smoke seeping into the bedroom from under the closed door. He roused his companion and together they ran through the blazing study into the corridor. Lillenthal remained to awaken other occupants of the dormitory while Woodruff notified the fire department.

A radio set, books and much of the students' clothing were destroyed.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Charles Hatesch has received word of the arrival of her first grandchild, a son, born Friday to her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Halvey Natesch of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Julia Little, Horace Little, and Clarence Bissell of Hartford spent the weekend at Mrs. Little's summer home at Columbia lake.

Mr. and Mrs. James Powell of Ozone Park, L. I., spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Tucker.

Rally Day exercises were held in the Columbia Sunday School Sunday with a special program. A button was given each one attending.

Miss Anne Dix returned to Columbia Tuesday after a two week's stay in the Hartford hospital following an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester P. Winsor and two children of Johnston, R. I., spent part of Monday at the home of Mr. Winsor's sister, Mrs. Clayton Hunt.

Mrs. Asa Mellinger is spending a few days in Boston.

A family named Nedrowski, who moved into the old Brouseau place in Leonard's bridge last Saturday night, are starting out in bad luck, their three week old baby dying of convulsions Monday morning.

Traffic over the weekend was very heavy, continuing up to late Monday night, as is always the case when a holiday comes over the weekend, and especially when the weather is pleasant and warm. Columbus Day was not observed here in any way.

FESS AS A LEADER OF THE DRY FORCES

Prohibitionists Are Already Looking About for Champions of the Cause.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—There are signs of increasing activity in the dry ranks and of casting about by the prohibition advocates for leaders.

Such prohibition champions as Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican National committee and Sheppard of Texas, a Democrat, admit no alarm over the persistence of the wet and dry issue in this year's campaign but they are frankly preparing to accept the battle if the election shows any marked inroads in their constitutional fortress.

Aroused by the appeals of such leaders as Dwight W. Morrow, New Jersey Republican Senatorial nominee and Governor Roosevelt of New York, potential Democratic presidential candidate, the dries concede privately it is time to look for leadership at least.

Talk of Fess
Already there is talk among some friends of Senator Fess of calling upon him to resign his chairmanship of the National committee after the forthcoming election so he may go to the prohibition battle-front.

As chairman of that committee his voice is silenced on prohibition, for he must look after the interests of both wets and dries in this campaign.

The dries are also awaiting the attitude of Senator Borah of Idaho if the prohibition controversy flares up.

The Next Issue
He is regarded as a staunch supporter of the prohibition amendment.

Of course, if the predictions of some of the politicians that prohibition is to be the issue in the 1932 presidential race, comes to be true, the nominees of the two parties would assume the leadership in the contest.

Meanwhile President Hoover who has declared against repeal of the 18th Amendment, is regarded unlikely to become an active campaigner on prohibition.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, and Senator Sheppard, both insist that the prohibition discussion these days is the result of "highly financed propaganda" and is not representative of the thoughts of the people.

FALLS INTO MAIN ST. CELLARWAY ENTRANCE

Miss Elizabeth Groot Hurt last night when she stumbled over iron doors at State Theater.

Miss Elizabeth Groot of Birch street, who is one of the girls employed in the Three Girls Coffee Shoppe met with a peculiar accident last night shortly after ten o'clock.

Miss Groot had been at the moving pictures and had left her companion to go into the State Soda Shop to purchase a bar of candy. She hurried out and did not notice that the iron doors, leading to the basement of the building were opened, and she stumbled into the cellarway.

Andrew Ferguson of Birch street saw her fall and called into the Soda Shop for help. Mr. Ferguson ran down the stairs to give assistance. The girl was conscious and one leg was maimed. William Sperber and R. E. Carney who were in the soda shop also helped her up the stairs. She soon rallied and was taken to her father's store in the Cheney building.

Last year Miss Groot figured in an automobile accident in California, which resulted in the death of her mother and the girl was then confined to the hospital at Woodland, Calif., for seven months. Since returning to Manchester she has been a patient in the Manchester Memorial Hospital for seven weeks, and was discharged about three weeks ago.

Nearly six tons of macaroni were exported from this country last year. Advice to consumers: Cheese it.

PACKERS PROTEST HIGH COURT RULE

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Evidence showing the wide dissemination of livestock market reports to newspapers was submitted in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today by counsel for the meat packers in their effort to prove unfounded charges that the packers were controlling market information.

This was one of several charges made by the government in 1920 against the packers and later a consent decree sharply limiting their activities was entered into.

Armour & Company and Swift & Company are now seeking modification of the decree to enable them to retail meats and other food products.

FIRE IN DORMITORY EXCITES STUDENTS

Two Yale Men Have Narrow Escape From Death; Clothing Destroyed.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The recent chills and fevers of the Stock Market have been the subject of consultation at the White House between President Hoover and officers of the New York Stock Exchange.

The conference took place last Sunday night. It was held, White House attaches said, at the request of the Exchange officials. The exact nature of the conversation remained undisclosed, but it was made known that it bore on business conditions with particular reference to the Stock Market situation.

Three At Party
Richard Whitney, president, and Allen Lindley, vice-president of the Stock Exchange, were those who talked with Mr. Hoover, after being his guests at dinner following the chief executive's return from a trip to his Rapidan camp in New York last night.

Whitney was an old friend of the President.

As to what was discussed, he said: "We spoke about everything in general. It was a delightful evening."

Short Selling
In the speculation surrounding disclosure of the conference, which came after the New York market had closed yesterday on an upward trend—the question of short selling of stocks was uppermost.

There has not been the slightest official intimation of any proposed government interference with the Stock Exchange. It is known, however, that the President's attention has been drawn to the short selling phase of market operations since the general deflation set in.

GOVERNOR SUSPENDS TREASURER OF STATE

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 15.—(AP)—State Treasurer Larry Brink today was suspended from office by Governor Henry S. Caulfield after several months investigation of Brink's official acts. Brink has been under fire for alleged acceptance of insufficient securities for state deposits.

Governor Caulfield, who launched the investigation of the treasurer's acts last summer after the closing of the Bank of Aurora said in a statement that the inquiry "convince me the treasurer has failed to deposit the state's money as required by law; has drawn out of the Bank of Aurora funds in a manner not provided by law and that his monthly reports required by statute did not state the true balance in the bank because it failed to include interest due and owing the state and remaining in the bank."

ARREST LEADER'S DAUGHTER
Labore, India, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A daughter of the late Lala Lajpat Rai has been arrested on a charge of sedition.

Lala Lajpat Rai, Indian Nationalist leader, died of a heart attack in November, 1928. The extremists exploited his death as propaganda against the government, alleged that he had died of injuries received from the police while leading a demonstration at Labore against the Simon commission.

Haughty Philadelphia baseball fans now refer to the Great Gabley as Easy Street.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she learns her father she has succeeded in being alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grandmother.

MARGARET ROGERS, her mother, divorced Mitchell and remarried and is now a widow. BARNES SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl, and before leaving Baltimore Celia promised to be loyal to his love. She is lonely in her new home.

Mitchell meets EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections and agrees. He invites the girl to her Long Island home for a weekend there. Celia meets TOD JORDAN, fascinating but of dubious character. Mrs. Parsons encourages the match. Celia treats Jordan coolly at first but wins his romantic love making after he has rescued her from drowning.

LISI DUNCAN, socially prominent, becomes Celia's loyal friend. With Mrs. Parsons' assistance Mitchell arranges an elaborate party in honor of his daughter's 18th birthday. The party is a dinner dance. Jordan persuades Celia to leave early and when she arrives home at 2 a. m. her father is furious.

Two days later she goes shopping with her grandmother and is scolded for talking to a shop employee. Celia declares defiantly that her own mother works and working is no disgrace.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX

Mrs. Thomas Worthington Mitchell froze into dignity. If icy stares could have killed the girl beside her would have been a lifeless victim.

"Hold your tongue!" Mrs. Mitchell shouted.

Celia was angry. There were bright red circles in each of her cheeks. Resentment that had been slowly gathering now burst forth.

"My mother sews for a living!" she exclaimed. "She's not ashamed of it, and neither am I. She's the finest person in all the world! You've no right to say things like that about people who work. They're just as good as you are—they're better!"

She stopped, flushed, and looked at Mrs. Mitchell. It had been like touching a match to the fuse of a giant fire cracker. Realization of what she had done came over the girl gradually. Her face was white with excitement. Celia looked out the window of the car at the street.

"She could not trust herself to speak. She thought that her grandmother did not say something. Pride kept her from turning her head.

They rode in silence until they reached Grammercy Park. Thompson's car halted and held the door for them to descend. Celia darted a quick glance at Mrs. Mitchell. Frigid, informal, the white-haired woman stepped to the sidewalk. Not by the faintest sign did she recognize the girl's presence. Mrs. Mitchell moved majestically up the stairs and into the house.

Celia followed. She knew she had done a terribly thing but, stubbornly, was not ashamed. Apologize? Never.

Her grandmother was half-way up the staircase when the girl entered the hall. A minute later Celia heard the door of Mrs. Mitchell's sitting room shut loudly.

She went to her own room and took off her hat. She tried to read, gave up the attempt, and finally went downstairs.

Martha was talking over the library telephone. "The doctor's office?" the maid asked in her low, even tones. "I'm speaking for Mrs. Mitchell. She wants the doctor to come as soon as possible. What's he can't? Oh, yes, he must come right away! Mrs. Mitchell is very sick. You say half an hour? Yes, very well!"

Celia had been listening. Solemnly, she stepped forward as Martha put down the telephone.

"What's grandmother ill?" she asked.

"Why, how?"

Martha nodded. "The doctor'll be here in half an hour," she said. "Mrs. Mitchell's had a chill. Excuse me, I must hurry back upstairs."

Martha disappeared on noiseless feet. Celia sank into a chair waiting for what might happen next. Throughout the rest of the afternoon she was like a prisoner. Lunch was announced and she went in to sit down to a dreary, solitary meal. She could not eat the food. After one or two half-hearted efforts she rose, leaving most of the dishes untouched.

There could be only one explanation of her grandmother's illness. What would John Mitchell say to this?

Dr. Griswold arrived. He was a short, rotund individual who came into the house briskly. Celia heard Martha conducting him up to Mrs. Mitchell's bedroom. The girl waited anxiously until footsteps sounded on the stairs. Then she went into the hall.

"Doctor—" she began uncertainly.

"Yes, I'm Dr. Griswold. What is it?" His voice had an energetic ring that matched his brisk walk.

"Mrs. Mitchell's grandmother is very ill," the girl explained. "Is she very ill?"

The doctor tipped his head to one side.

"Nervous relapse," he said shortly. "Subject to them? Treat her for years. She'll have to have rest, absolute rest. I've left prescriptions and I'll be here again in the morning. Good day!"

Dr. Griswold's straw hat was clapped on his head and in another moment he was gone.

A little later Martha came down the stairs again and Celia accepted her

"Martha," she asked timidly, "do you think I could see my grandmother for just a minute?"

"Oh, no, miss! No, I couldn't let you. The doctor said she was to be kept undisturbed! Nobody can go in to see her now!"

"But I thought—I mean I feel I ought to—"

Martha shook her head negatively emphatically.

"I couldn't let you go in, Miss Celia!"

The girl waited a while, then returned to her own room. She had no place in this house now. She felt like an intruder. For a long while Celia stared out the window. Suddenly she became alert, rose to her feet and set to work. She was still there when John Mitchell knocked on the door at five o'clock.

Celia hesitated, then opened the door.

"How do you do, father. Will you come in?"

"Why, Celia—what are you doing?"

She stood before him in the brown silk traveling costume Margaret Rogers had made. A brown felt hat was pulled down over the girl's head. She looked exactly as she had the day they arrived from Baltimore. Spread open on the bed was a half-filled traveling case.

"I had to wait to see you," the girl said slowly. "There isn't quite enough in my purse. I'm afraid I'll have to ask you to lend me five dollars. I'll send it back."

"What's this nonsense? Why are you packing that traveling bag?"

"I'm going home. Back to my mother."

Mitchell turned and closed the door behind him carefully.

"So that's it," he said. "What's the matter? Don't you like it here? Tired of the place?"

Celia had expected to hear thundering wrath when she confronted her father. She had supposed it would be a good deal like their interview after she arrived home late from the party. This time she was prepared to surrender quickly.

"It's not that," she answered. "But I'm going. I telephoned about trains and there's one at seven o'clock."

"Determined to leave, are you?"

The girl was embarrassed. Was it possible he didn't understand? She tried to make it plainer.

"I can't stay here," she insisted. "Grandmother doesn't want me. Have you seen her? Martha wouldn't let me go in, but I thought probably you could! I hope she isn't very sick. It was my fault—I know I shouldn't have said what I did, only I couldn't help it—"

"Celia," said her father, "I've seen my mother. Will you sit down beside me and tell just what it was that happened? Here, take off that hat."

Mitchell tried clumsily to smooth the girl's curls back. He sat down on the side of the bed and drew her beside him.

Celia darted him a quick, suspicious glance. She could not read what was in the man's mind, but she did not look angry. Her courage rose slightly.

"I didn't mean to be rude," she began. "I said it before I thought, but, oh, don't you see I couldn't have anyone say such things about my mother? Mother's not common! I couldn't listen—even to grandmother—and hear a thing like that!"

A dark glow spread slowly over the man's face.

"What was said about your mother?" he asked steadily.

Celia was talking excitedly now. She had to make this clear before she went away.

"We were at Charlotte's," she explained. "Grandmother was having her hair got fitted, and the fitter dropped a ball of pins. I said 'let me get it,' and handed it back. After we got into the car to come home grandmother said I was never to speak to working people or treat them as equals. She said they were common. That was when I couldn't stand it any longer. Why mother's a fitter! It just seemed as though grandmother was talking about her. I—I told her she didn't have any right to say such things. Then I said working people were as good as she was, or better."

The girl looked up, flushed and defiant. She had told the whole story. Now she was ready to go. Mitchell gazed at her for a moment.

"Is that—all?" he asked.

"Yes. After that grandmother didn't speak to me. She went to her room and then I heard Martha telephone for the doctor. I—I'm sorry she's sick."

The man studied. It was several seconds before he spoke.

"You see, Celia," he said slowly, "my mother has some ideas that are rather old-fashioned. She was trained to believe they were right. She doesn't realize times are different now. I'm sorry for what has happened. It's very hard for an old person to understand."

The girl was amazed. Could it be possible that he was taking her side?

"I—I was willing to say I was sorry," Celia mumbled. "Martha wouldn't let me!"

"That was right," Mitchell agreed. "You couldn't mend matters. But, Celia, I know your grandmother didn't honestly mean to say anything to reflect on your mother. She didn't realize how it would sound to you."

His arm moved around the girl. In an instant Celia had hid her face against her father's shoulder. Hot, quick tears came.

"They sat there until shadows began to darken the room. At last Mitchell said, 'Put away those things now, Celia, and dress for dinner. We'll talk later.'"

The two dined at seven o'clock. Later Mitchell went to his mother's room. He returned to inform Celia that the "nervous attack" was not serious. Mrs. Mitchell was subject to such illnesses. He believed in a few days everything would be all right.

The household storm was not calmed so easily. After two days it was decided, on Dr. Griswold's advice, that Mrs. Mitchell should go to her country home in Connecticut. Celia would stay with Evelyn Parsons.

It was the widow's suggestion and solved a problem for Mitchell. The girl herself was pleased.

She was in the living room, idly turning the dials of the radio, on her first evening at Larchmont, when suddenly Celia became aware of another presence in the room.

She turned to confront Tod Jordan.

"Why—Tod!" she cried.

Evelyn Parsons watched them from the doorway. Her smile was sinister.

ASSISI MAY BE SCENE OF PRINCESS' WEDDING

Assisi, Italy, Oct. 15.—(AP)—This city of St. Francis appears definitely to have been chosen for the wedding of King Boris and Princess Giovanna, since two gentlemen of the Royal Court arrived today to inspect the arrangements.

It is understood that the ceremony likely will be performed in the lower basilica of St. Francis Cathedral.

The understanding here is that the wedding will be performed October 25. Princess Giovanna, who has long loved the city, has ordered that the poor of Assisi be given a big dinner on her wedding day.

The principal patrician families here are vying with one another in opening their magnificent palaces and villas for accommodation of the royal suites.

CALLS PROHIBITION IMPOSITION ON U. S.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Father John Russell, of St. Patrick's church says prohibition is an imposition on the American people.

Speaking at the 33rd anniversary dinner of the Russell Council of the Knights of Columbus, of which he is patron, Father Russell asserted that "the large number of people who want to get rid of this unpopular piece of legislation are justified in their belief" and that the "prohibition law implies that they are all drunkards and that legislation is necessary to control them."

One way in which the K. of C. can be of service he said "is to help curb the excessive drinking we see now. It seems to me we see more drunkards these days."

NEW ECONOMIC PLAN

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The claim that more than two billion dollars could be placed in circulation by the Federal government to mitigate the effects of the present nationwide economic distress by diverting war debt retirement funds to payment of World War veterans' adjusted service certificates, was made today by Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas.

The Texan said he believed Congress should enact a law giving veterans the right to receive 80 per cent of the cash value of their certificates. He outlined a program which, he said, would create no additional burden for the Federal taxpayers, and at the same time permit the government to reduce the effects of the depression by increasing the amount of money in circulation.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

If we want to set habits in children we must begin when they are young—very young.

If we want them to be kind, we must teach them real kindness at two, three, and four years of age. Obedience, generosity, in fact all the graces must be incorporated in their training from the first year on.

There is no question about it, the longer we defer setting a habit the less likely it will be to "take."

Now we come to a habit that the great American public is too prone to neglect. Thrift!

Surely not when they are still mere babies, before they have any conception of the value of money.

That comes as we know in the sixth year.

But if thrift is a habit and habit must be set early, it is reasonable to believe we must start at a very early age. I should not say at three, but I think that four is not too early.

A little child may not know exactly what or why he is saying, but that is not what we are after here. What happens when a seed of character starts to sprout is as obscure as the actual swelling of the life germ in the seed of a plant. Just when and how it begins, we cannot say.

By the time it comes within the scope of our mortal conception it

WHAT New York IS WEARING

SCHOOL GIRL SMARTNESS

A smart interpretation of coat frock in dark green crepe woolen with white flecks will answer fashion's call for all winter long for the sophisticated miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

It closes at the front with green enamel buttons. The comfortable open V neckline is finished with a collar of lighter green woolen which is repeated in the cuffs and triangular pocket flap.

It is slenderly fitted through the waist and hips. A green leather belt in matching lighter shade makes the natural waistline and accents the easily bloused bodice.

The skirt is especially neat and practical. The fullness is concentrated at the front through a circular godet with unique pointed outline at the upper edge which creates a chic tailored air.

Style No. 3301 may be copied exactly for an almost invisible check pattern in black with the collar and cuffs of self-fabric cut on the bias and worn with a black suede belt.

Hunter's green wool jersey, rust brown covert cloth, French blue linen and tweed-like cottons are unbelievably smart, practical and wearable suggestions that lend themselves perfectly to this model.

Our new Fall and Winter Fashion Book shows how to dress up-to-the-minute at very little expense. You can save on every dress and on the children's clothes too, which means better frocks for you and yours. It costs 15 cents a copy but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered same time as pattern.

SEVEN PASTORS ENOUGH

New Britain, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Seven pastors for a church having a congregation of 18 members is sufficient, Captain George Kelly agreed today when two members visited police headquarters and reported that an eighth spiritual leader was trying to make a niche for himself on the life of the parish. They told the captain that seven pastors were now engaged in ministering to the souls of the group and they asked the police to come and discourage the eighth, a Hartford man, from affixing himself to the congregation. The church calls itself the Union Congregational. Its membership is confined to negroes.

The Coolidges recently celebrated their silver wedding anniversary, but the silence was golden.

HEALTH

PHYSICAL DEFECTS MAY CAUSE INFANTS TO BANG THEIR HEADS

MORRIS FISHER

Not infrequently an apparently normal and healthy young child or infant when first put to bed will beat his head against the pillow or sides of the crib so hard that actual bruises will appear on the side of the head.

In other cases, the child when put to bed will roll the head violently from side to side, so severely as to develop a bald spot on the back of the head.

On many occasions, specialists in diseases of the children have considered the cause of this phenomenon, but apparently have been unable to find any definite basis for it. It has been accredited to rickets, painful itching, bad nutrition, irritation of the most constant source of irritation in obstruction to breathing caused by adenoids, which is especially severe when the head is low.

Dr. Alfred Hand, discussing the subject before the American Pediatric Society, feels convinced that the most constant source of irritation is obstruction to breathing caused by adenoids, which is especially severe when the head is low.

Under these circumstances the nasal secretions tend to accumulate and the child makes the movements to try to free the air passages. When the adenoids are removed, the symptoms usually clear up, although the rolling and banging of the head may continue if there is chronic congestion of the nose due to chronic cold or infection of the sinuses or due to irritation from an erupting tooth.

In further consideration of the subject, Dr. Max Seham expressed the view that there may be mental causes for this disturbance as well as physical causes. Thus a three-year-old child who constantly bit his lips first began the habit when he had chapping of the lips as result of cold or infection of the nose. When these conditions were prevented, the child promptly stopped the lip biting.

In two cases of head banging the children were made to sleep soundly for seven nights in a row by the use of proper sedative drugs; they were then taken home from the hospital and a similar treatment was continued for two more weeks. During that time the head rolling stopped and thereafter did not return.

Dr. Charles G. Kerley thought that in some instances head rolling was due to the fact that children had been rocked to sleep in an old-fashioned rocking chair and that when put to sleep in the crib they missed the rocking and therefore rocked themselves. Certainly when this symptom occurs, the child's habits should be studied carefully.

NOW, HE ENJOYS FOODS THAT USED TO DISAGREE

"For over five years it seemed like everything I enjoyed eating would disagree with me," says Charles L. Garman, 5438 Irving St., Philadelphia. I suffered from headaches; was nervous; couldn't sleep right.

"I tried a lot of things for indigestion, but nothing really helped until my doctor started me on Pape's Diapepsin. I have used five packages and have gained five pounds. I eat anything—fried things, hot cakes; foods that used to disagree. I seldom feel the least discomfort nowadays, but when I do I just take a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and in a moment my stomach is all right."

When thousands like Mr. Garman are coming right out in public to praise Pape's Diapepsin, there seems no reason to doubt that it does what is claimed for it to help people who suffer from acid-dyspepsia, and the heartburn, gas, nausea, belching, headaches, dizziness, etc., caused by this common ailment. But those who wish further proof before buying may easily have it. The makers agree to send anyone a trial package absolutely FREE. Just write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va.

Rain Puts Off Major Game 'Til Tomorrow

Threatening Weather Makes Postponement of Night Football Game With Sons of Italy Advisable.

Rainy weather, long a nemesis of boxing bouts at the Hurley Stadium in East Hartford, came back today to wipe out another scheduled sport attraction. This time it was a football game that was forced to step aside in favor of the elements.

The Majors of Manchester and the Sons of Italy of Middletown were scheduled to clash tonight under the glare of electric lights at the stadium but adverse weather made a postponement until tomorrow night advisable. This action was taken at 11 o'clock this morning by the Manchester team. The game tomorrow night will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

RACE OF FISHING BOATS HALTED BY CALM SEA

Only a faint breeze ruffled the waters off Gloucester, Mass., where, as pictured above, the fishing schooners Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, and the Bluenose of Nova Scotia engaged in their second unfinished race. Here you see the two picturesque vessels, with the American boat slightly in the lead, moving almost side by side early in the race. After an hour and a half the ships had gone only eight miles around the 37-mile course and the contest was postponed. The Thebaud won the first of three scheduled races.

Drastic Change Made in Attempt to Increase Scoring Power of Town Champions; New Coach Takes Immediate Charge.

Arthur J. Mulligan was released today as coach of the Cubs football eleven and Thomas F. Kelley, last year's coach, re-called to take his place. This drastic step was taken by Manager J. Bennett Clune in an effort to increase, if possible, the scoring power of the town champions, who have been held to scoreless ties in two of their three games this season.

Thomas F. Kelley

The announcement by Manager Clune late this morning came as no startling surprise. For the past two weeks, the air has been full of rumors that a change was being contemplated, but it was not until today that the deal was actually closed.

Not Enough Scoring

The first game of the season resulted in a scoreless deadlock with the Naugatuck Rangers who were beaten the following week by the Majors. Then the Cubs smacked down the nose-to-nose Windsor Locks eleven 26 to 0 but Sunday were again forced to accept a no score tie although in position to score more than once.

It Has Been Very Evident That the Cubs of this year and the Cubs of last November are widely contrasted. That this has been partly, perhaps largely, due to the wholesale loss of stars from last season's crack team, is also apparent. But with Kelly's back in charge, it is a foregone conclusion that the Cubs' attack will be much more varied and spectacular.

Many Cub supporters who were inclined to believe the Majors would beat the Cubs this fall, now have hopes that the title will stay south of Middle Turnpike after all. They have great confidence in Kelley's ability to develop a winning team, one with plenty of teamwork and a bagful of tricky and deceptive plays that will raise havoc with the opposition.

ERRORS GRAMS

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below and unscramble it...

SENSE AND NONSENSE

THE LUCKY ONES
The people on the billboards, They have a lot of fun; They smoke a certain cigarette And all their goals are won.

They never fret or worry, They're always bright and gay, They use the right electric range And work becomes as play.

The people on the billboards Wear everlasting smiles, They always pick a tire that lasts Some 20,000 miles.

They always choose tobacco That cannot bite the tongue, Or soap that keeps a woman's face Perpetually young.

I'm glad that on the billboards Life is thus full and free, Because along the public roads There's little else to see.

And how it gives one courage Mid punctures, sand and rocks, To find one may achieve success, By careful choice of socks.

Hush, restless little calf, Don't you cry, You'll be chicken salad, By and by.

And then there's the story about the Scotchman who stayed away from a municipal banquet because he didn't know the meaning of the word "gratis" on the invitation. The next day he shot himself over an open dictionary in a public library.

When told to quit pulling the cat's tale for fear she would bite him, Tommy replied: "Aw no she won't. Her head's on the other end."

WHILE YOU ARE PITTING A BIRD IN ITS GILDED CAGE, PAUSE AND THINK OF GOLDFISH. THE BIRD CAN SING, BUT IF A GOLDFISH EVER TRIES TO WHISTLE THE ONLY RESULT IS BUBBLES.

It is told of a shiftless farmer (who could never get out of debt) that he christened his young son

Mortgage, with the explanation: "You see I'm hoping he may always stick on the farm."

THE LARGEST REWARDS GO TO THOSE WHO MAKE THE MOST OF THE TASK BEFORE THEM.

Judge (to husband who had found his wife in the arms of her lover)—Why did you kill your wife instead of the man?
Prisoner—I'd rather kill a woman once, than be obliged to kill a man every day.

Husband (to friend)—I look forward every Sunday to the after-dinner nap.
Friend—I thought you never slept after dinner.
Husband—I don't, but my wife does.

Applicant—Say, I want you to tell me whether or not I have grounds for divorce?
Lawyer—Are you married?
Applicant—Yes.
Lawyer—Well, you have.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The wind kept blowing waves up high till frightened Clowny shouted, "I have had enough of this wild stuff. I'm going down below. The cabin is the place for me. I won't be washed into the sea. I won't be washed into the sea." Then Scouty answered, "If you're scared, that is the place to go."

"But I am going to stay up here. I hardly think there's much to fear. The ship is large and, I am sure, can ride the waves all right." And then, amid a sudden roar, the boat rose up high once more. And then it dropped down with a wave till almost out of sight.

The Travel Man looked worried. He said, "You had all best come with me. There is no sense in getting soaked. The cabin's nice and dry. We'll sit and talk and maybe sleep and very good watch I will keep. I'll tell you little fellows when the storm has passed by." The Tinies didn't argue. They soon found some cards with which to play. And thus they spent an hour or so and then the wind died down. They didn't go on deck until the sea seemed very nice and still. Then Copy asked the Travel Man, "Will we soon reach some town?" "Well, not a town," the man replied. "When our next stopping place is spied, you'll find it is a real big place where we can have much fun. They call it Barcelona and the scenery is simply grand. As soon as we pull into shore, we'll file off, one by one."

"They reached the town and went ashore and started looking round once more. Along a winding road they went to see what they could see. Right soon an old house came in view. "There, lads, is a treat for you," exclaimed the friendly Travel Man. "It's quaint as it can be."

(The Tinymites roam around Barcelona in the next story.)

BIG NEWS HERE
Political wars on a hundred fronts, physical battles on two in Brazil, riots in Berlin, new airplane and speedboat records, big-shot gangster shot by his own gang—all news, big news. But in Pinehurst there's bigger news—to Pinehurst. A pound of butter was left out of a customer's order when it was delivered.
To be sure, twelve minutes later the shortage had been discovered, phoned in and the butter delivered by the little Austin. But it was a big, a serious, almost tragic event.
You see, we don't do things like that at Pinehurst. Not more than once in a blue moon. For us it's like a kid flunking in exam in school or a college team losing its "big game."
Not once again before Christmas—that's the mark today. Not if we know Pinehurst—and we think we do!
