home for a total of 22 years. When the trolley line was first established, he was attracted to that form of employment for 12 years as a conductor. Mr. Hickey also worked for a time at the old Union Mill. For three years he was patrolman at Laurel Park and for three years he was watchman for the Connecticut Company and for another year he worked in the dyehouse at Cheney Brothers.

Wrote Poems Mr. Hickey inherited his ready Irish wit and friendly, genial characteristics from his mother, and also a great love for poetry. He has published collections of poems in books and leaflets and many of his rhymes on simple subjects possessed much merit. In all he wrote about 200 poems. One of them was dedicated to the memory of his son by first marriage, Thomas Joseph Hickey who died at the age of 26, five days before the end of the World War.

Family Mr. Hickey was married twice. His first wife, Lucinda (Blacker) Hickey, died about 35 years ago. Four children were born of the first union. He was married for the second time 27 years ago last January to Miss Mary Elizabeth Ryan and five more children were born. REDS DENY RUMORS

London, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Soviet Embassy in London today issued a statement denying recent reports of grave disorders in Moscow. The statement follows: "A crop of unusually silly stories about revolts, etcetera, in the Soviet Union that have been appearing in the press these days make it necessary to state definitely that all these stories have absolutely no foundation in fact and represent a series of stupid and free fabrications."

HURT IN CRASH

Danbury, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Wilfred Walker of the city, 39 years old, is a patient in the Danbury hospital for treatment for injuries received when his automobile overturned on Lake avenue last night when he swerved his car to one side of the road to avoid striking a dog that ran in front of the car. His condition became such today as to cause apprehension as a broken rib is believed to have punctured one of his lungs.

The normal daily consumption of water of an oyster is about five gallons and a colony of less than a million drink more water in the course of a day than all the people of London, England.

DICK HOWELL DEAD; SPORTS AUTHORITY

For Past 30 Years Has Been Writing on Boxing for Bridgeport Newspaper.

Bridgeport, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Richard Howell, one time newspaper man and sporting authority, died this noon. He had been ill for some time with a complication of diseases. To those who have followed sports, more particularly boxing for 30 years in Connecticut, Howell was one of the best known men seen on the sidelines. He was born in May 1888 and started his newspaper work in New York, and later came to Connecticut. He had been identified for nearly 30 years with the Waterbury Sunday Herald at the outset and later with the Bridgeport Sunday Herald. After the death of F. R. Swift, who owned the newspaper properties, Howell having been left a one third interest, he came editor in chief which title he retained. Some time ago he disposed of his active interests in the properties but was to retain his editorship during life.

FORMER CHAPLAIN TAKES THE STAND

Colonel Osborn asked if the witness had not the opportunity to confer with the directors and reply was that Parole Officer Bradley said that as chaplain he must confine his discussions to things in his own department. "I doubt if the prison directors had a complete understanding of prison problems," said Dr. Smith. "They are all business men living at distance from the prison and must depend upon their knowledge of the matters in the prison from the warden."

STANFORD CARDINALS PERK UP A BIT AFTER POOR SHOWING AGAINST TROJANS

Stanford University, Cal. (AP)—The Stanford Cardinals expect to wind up an unimpressive football year with a decisive victory over Dartmouth's green-jerseyed warriors here November 29. Potentially one of the strongest teams in the coast conference, Stanford's dismal showing in a scoreless tie with Minnesota and a 41-12 drubbing by Southern California, caused supporters almost to lose faith.

RECREATIONAL PROGRAM

Dr. Smith recommended an adequate recreational program for the prisoners. He said they should be given a lot of exercise, and their health built up. They should be permitted to walk around the yard daily for half an hour. He said the sick calls at the prison are very many and he blamed the condition on lack of exercise. He recommended the training of guards. Most of those employed, he claimed, were untrained. There ought to be a training school. He said only ten per cent of the prisoners are beyond re-claiming. Others are capable of normal responses. He said the guards were underpaid. He said the highest guards only receive $137 a month with board.

IMMATES ANGRY

Dr. Smith said that on the death of Warden Scott he presented a petition to the board of directors asking that Patterson be made warden. The reply was handed to him. It praised Patterson and announced appointment of Reed. Two months later came the discharge of Patterson. The witness next day discussed the discharge with Reed and the latter told him it was "no concern of yours." The Patterson discharge, the witness said, inflamed the inmates and lowered their morale. As chaplain he thought it was his duty to say something. He told Reed he would protest to the directors and was told that Patterson's discharge was due to escape of three men.

Aside from this prepared statement, Robinson expressed surprise that his letter to the White House had not been made public. DO-X TRIP NOT OFF

Berlin, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Claude Dornier, builder of the seaplane DO-X, is convinced that his ship can fly across the Atlantic, he informed his Berlin office by telephone today. The ship has performed splendidly in the air and on the water during the recent bad weather, he said and the American motors have functioned "brilliantly." It appeared that the only doubt in Dr. Dornier's mind now is whether he will take the DO-X over the northern route to New York by way of Bermuda, or across the South Atlantic to Brazil by way of the Canary Islands. A method for launching lifeboats along tracks built on the side of a ship has been developed by a Milwaukee resident.

to remain in order to avoid a Cabinet crisis. This is the second party to withdraw its support from the Cabinet, the Farmers League previously having seceded although Martin Schiele, its leader and minister of agriculture, remained in the ministry at President von Hindenburg's request. Despite today's blow, it was generally taken for granted that Chancellor Bruening will continue his course and if necessary challenge the Reichstag to unseat his ministry. Not to quit

The Reichstag adopted the government's financial program in sixteen days and it was understood that Chancellor Bruening, strengthened by this, would not quit "within sight of the goal." Bruening's program met with the opposition of the Economic Party, which is made up of master artisans and tradesmen, because the chancellor insisted that there must be a parallel drop in the cost of necessities and wages and salaries. On the other hand a conference with the Social Democratic leaders yesterday showed that this party also has grave objections to the Bruening program.

THINK SCIENTISTS LOST

Berlin, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Some uneasiness is felt here concerning the German expedition to Greenland under Professor Alfred Wegener from which nothing has been heard in nearly two months. The expedition, which since last spring has been conducting observations on the Greenland icecap, had erected an observatory at an elevation of ten thousand feet, 250 miles from either coast of Greenland. There the Hamburg meteorologist, Dr. Johannes Meier, had been studying the weather. Late in September Professor Wegener with Dr. Fritz Loewe, of the Prussian Aeronautical Observatory and 13 natives started with a number of dog sleds to provision the observatory. A telegram was received from them on October second, and that was the last word.

Winchell Smith Has Machinery and Quarters to Begin When and If—

Hartford, Nov. 25.—(AP)—"I've done about everything else, and I always wanted to make ale." It is Winchell Smith, playwright, Farmington producer and miller talking.

Crusader Ale "It will be known as Crusader Ale, out of respect for the organization of young men working in the interest of repeal. Mr. Hopkins thinks he can improve on his old brand of English ale. Machinery for the purpose, now owned by him and in good condition is to be in readiness, in case," said Mr. Smith.

Mr. Hopkins is the head of Hopkins and Company. Before prohibition he was sole proprietor of the brewery here which, under the same name, brewed and bottled Canada malt, ales and porter.

CALLS DIVORCE LAW TOO HARSH

Lawyer Here Says Liberty Will Not Undermine the Homes—His Opinions.

A happy home is the most beautiful thing in the world, but it can't be brought about by compulsion, Attorney Milton L. Davis of Springfield told a small but interested audience last night at the South Methodist Episcopal church when he went on record as favoring a modification of present divorce laws in Connecticut. He said they were too rigid and harsh.

"A liberal divorce will not undermine the home," Mr. Davis emphatically declared. "Homes are broken up before the cases reach a lawyer's desk. It isn't that the participants act too hastily, but rather that they discover they are not mated with the result that life together becomes unbearable. Why try to compel them to continue living together?" was his argument.

Not Hasty
Mr. Davis also took occasion to refute the idea that people enter marriage too hastily. He said that they fully realize the dangers of an unsatisfactory marriage. Mr. Davis' contention is that the divorce laws of Connecticut and many other states as well are too harsh. He cited several cases where women were made to suffer for life because the law permits a separated husband to "hold a club of recrimination over their heads without any right whatsoever."

Attorney Davis cited one case in particular, that of a woman whose husband left her with a baby in arms and went back to his native home across the sea because of some mistake she had made. The irate husband refused to agree to a divorce or to help support his wife in any way.

Court Intervenes
The woman in the case later became in love with another man. They became desperate when they learned that the law held them apart and still kept her in union with a man in far off Italy. They finally lived together as man and wife. Both were very happy. Time passed and it became known they were not married. The court ordered them parted.

"In your honest opinion, ladies and gentlemen, do you believe that that woman should be made to suffer for the rest of her life because of one mistake she has made early in life, or do you believe as I do, that she should be given another chance which under the conditions would have to be a divorce?" Attorney Davis queried.

Foremost Speaker
Mr. Davis was the guest speaker of the Men's Friendship club of the South Methodist church. He proved a very forceful and sincere speaker and adopted the plan of trying to "win his case" by making a jury out of his audience. Often he asked for votes as to whether his listeners were of the same opinion. It wasn't always that his audience agreed with his arguments and it was apparent that this vexed the speaker at times. On the whole, however, his listeners seemed in accord with his views, conditionally at least.

In an effort to show the necessity of divorce, Attorney Davis went back to 331 B. C. to tell of wholesale poisoning of Roman nobles by their wives who compounded drugs to kill them simply because there was no other means of separation. He told of Greece in its golden age when Athenian law permitted no divorce, citing the case of Pericles whose marriage was ruined through incompatibility with the result that his wife lived with another man and he with another woman, both illegals, yet very satisfactorily. Pericles' second choice became one of the most famous women in the world's history, Mr. Davis remarked, and is credited by many as having been the teacher of philosophy to Socrates.

Our Laws
Under Connecticut law, Atty. Davis said divorce is a remedy for the innocent against the guilty, hence if both are equally guilty, a divorce will not be granted. Such a law is both unfair and too harsh, the speaker said. When a man and wife realize that they cannot live happily together, why should they be forced by the law to try and fulfill the instincts and purposes of matrimony? asked Mr. Davis.

Mr. Davis was questioned by newspapermen after his address as to what he thought of Judge Lindsey's ideas as expressed in "Companionate Marriage". At first he hesitated and then remarked that he thought he believed Judge Lindsey only went half way. "Lindsey, you know favors no children for the first few years of married life and then divorce by mutual consent if the marriage is found unsatisfactory," he said, "but I think that divorce should be allowed at all times by mutual consent."

Favor Change
At the conclusion of his interesting talk, Atty. Davis asked for a vote as to whether his listeners favored a modification of the Connecticut divorce laws and the "yes hands" were in the majority. In closing he then asked his audience to express their opinion to help bring about a change that will benefit thousands of people. He asked them to lay aside their prejudice against divorce and not to listen to the "wild" thoughtless chorus that sings for harsher divorce laws.

"Many hearts could be made to shine out by the touch of love if only the law would make it permissible, Attorney Davis said in conclusion."

GIRLS FROM SOUTH PALS OF SUSPECTS

house here after bringing them from New Orleans.

He is being held with bonds on the technical charge of breach of the peace. A warrant for his arrest on the charge of robbery has been issued by the Stamford police. Seales was bound over to the Superior Court at Greenwich yesterday and is held under bonds of $25,000.

Maccario says he met Seales in New Haven and induced him to travel to New Orleans with him. They returned to Newark from New Haven by bus, "picked up" a sedan and drove to New Orleans. They met the girls there and took them back as far as Bridgeport, where they deserted them, he admits. He says he was not in Danbury, nor Greenwich nor any other city or town within 50 miles when a robbery was pulled off.

Other Robberies
Police of Babylon, L. I., are on their way here to question both men about robberies in that place. An effort to connect Maccario with the killing here of Alford Carrano at a Main street luncheon several days ago failed when Everett Meyer, son of Police Sergeant Charles Meyer, who saw the gunman who shot Carrano, could not identify him last night.

The two young women in the case were taken before Judge Arthur F. Ellis and at a chamber hearing were held in $2,000 each.

They were then brought out to the Superior Court clerk's office to await transportation to jail.

The two girls sat on one chair while waiting to be taken to jail, the Lewis girl in the other's lap. After being seated in this manner for a time, the Lewis girl fell on the floor, bringing lawyers and court attaches running into the room to determine the cause of the noise.

FLOODS IN PARIS DO MUCH DAMAGE

By Associated Press
Thousands of tons of water buried the fields of Flanders today and renewed rain driving across northern and central France raised the Seine to new high levels and caused grave concern even for Paris itself.

Some of the Parisian suburbs were knee deep in water and the overflow was seeping into the cellars of the city. Pumps were at work and rowboats in some neighborhoods.

In Holland the river Maas still was at flood level and the situation was serious, but in England the storms had largely abated although heavy rains fell again this afternoon in many parts of the country.

The German Rhine flooded a large area in southern Germany but no serious increase in the trouble was expected today.

The only testimony adduced at the hearing was that of one of the Federal agents who identified Russell and his wife as the pair named in the indictment.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A little holiday cheer was infused into today's Stock Market as a few corporations provided sauce for the turkey in the form of extra or special dividends.

Share prices pushed quietly back to the high levels of the recovery, recorded last Friday. In addition to cheering dividends announcements, trade and financial news was in the main reassuring, particularly indications of further efforts to stabilize steel prices.

Trading was a little more lively than yesterday, and there were numerous gains of 2 points or so, notably in U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Byers, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, New York Central, Goodyear, and J. C. Penney. A few shares advanced about 3 to 5, including American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive, Allied Chemical, Atchafson, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Ingersoll Rand, and International Business Machines. The mail order shares sagged, after yesterday's brisk upturn.

The reopening of some of the recently closed banks in the south and southwest, together with reports from banking commissioners indicating that the crisis had passed, had a salutary effect upon sentiment, while these difficulties had been isolated and due to local situations they had been an adverse psychological influence at a time when gloom was already deep.

The steel shares were helped by a firm stand taken on sheet prices by U. S. Steel, coming upon the heels of the recent announcement of a minimum schedule for plates, shapes and bars. Furthermore, some producers have advised their customers that current minimum prices cannot be guaranteed for the first quarter of next year. Railway equipments were bid up in expectation of improvement in business after the first of the year, and in the case of American Locomotive, in response to news of further diversification of its activity.

In the motion picture shares, Fox Film and Loews, in which Fox has a dominant interest, were heaviest. This may have been in part a reflection of the adverse Supreme Court decision in the distribution case, but the practices complained of are understood to have been abandoned some time ago. It was regarded as probable that some traders were disappointed in the extra dividend of $1 by Loews, as there had been some talk of increasing the regular annual rate of $3.

Allied Chemical declared a dividend of 1-20 of a share, in addition to its regular cash payment, as it did a year ago, and International Business Machines ordered a 5 percent stock distribution, presumably reflecting its increased earnings this year. Humble Oil ordered an extra of 50 cents, in contrast to the recent trend in oil dividends.

Hope that copper producers may be able to maintain their 12 cent price, despite the fact that the metal has been available at substantial concessions for several days, was revived by an announcement that Anaconda and its subsidiaries are cutting production 10 percent.

Motor production figures for the latest week showed a smaller seasonal decline, owing to the earlier than usual announcement of new models by a large manufacturer.

The weekly condition statement of the reporting Federal Reserve member banks showed a drop of $69,000,000 in loans against securities, or $16,000,000 greater than the drop in brokers loans. All other commercial loans, increased $89,000,000, presumably indicating preparations for the holiday trade.

STOLE P. O. FUNDS
Waterbury, Nov. 25.—(AP).—Frank Carissimi, Waterbury grocer, who was until recently the clerk in charge of postal sub-station No. 4, was held in bonds of $1,000 by U. S. Commissioner Harry Kraosow on a charge of embezzling money order funds. U. S. Postal Inspector Ralph S. Edmunds arrested Carissimi after an investigation that began October 23. It is charged that Carissimi owes the government $1,083. The case was continued to Saturday.

HEAD STILL MISSING

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The identity of the man whose dismembered legs and torso were found yesterday on opposite sides of Manhattan remained a mystery today to a host of detectives working on the case.

The legs were discovered in an old suitcase at a Houston street doorway and the torso was picked up later in a trunk floating in the Hudson river. The head has not been found.

No light was thrown on the manner in which the man met his death. The amputations were neatly done, apparently after death, and there was evidence that the man, who was about 30, had been drinking heavily.

Clews in the hands of police included a hotel baggage check which resulted in the recovery of a small suitcase containing clothing. A laundry mark, 216, was on clothing found with the legs.

WANT MORE POWER
Hartford, Nov. 25.—(AP)—New legislation which will give fish and game wardens authority to make arrests for violations of laws other than fish and game laws will be sought from the next General Assembly, if suggestions bear fruit which were made today at a conference of wardens, the state fish and game commission, Major Frank Nichols of the state police department and Assistant Attorney General Jones.

The conference was held mainly for the purpose of determining just what police power the wardens have in checking the illegal hunting of deer at night with the aid of strong searchlights and high powered rifles and revolvers.

KIWANIS IS HOST TO CAMP-KIDDIES

Group of Boys Who Were Given Vacation This Summer Enjoy Turkey Supper.

The meeting of the Manchester Kiwanis club at the parish house of the Center Congregational church last night was considered one of the best parties ever put on by the club. It took the form of a Thanksgiving dinner and reunion of the boys who went out to the Hebron Kiwanis camp last summer. Every one of the 40 or more boys were in attendance, and there were very few absentees among the Kiwanians.

Turkey Supper
A turkey supper, prepared by the Hotel Sheridan and served by a large corps of white aproned Kiwanians, was enjoyed exceedingly by all present. The supper was topped off with ice cream, and each boy was given a big red McIntosh apple.

Elmer Thiens of the County Y. M. C. A. gave the boys a talk on character building, and urged them to not only try to build strong bodies but also to cultivate strong minds by doing right at all times.

Quinby Speaks
Principal C. P. Quinby of the High school followed Mr. Thiens. He told a number of stories that kept the boys in good humor, and closed his remarks with a wonderful story exemplifying the thought of consideration for the other fellow.

Several of the boys gave recitations and there was chorus singing of the songs they learned to sing while at camp. After this the Kiwanians and their small guests were given a treat when R. LaMotte Russell showed two reels of motion pictures taken at the camps. The pictures showed the camp activities and the fun the boys and girls were having while at Hebron. The scenes were taken by Mr. Russell and C. R. Burr.

Attendance Prize
The attendance prize donated by Elmer Waden of the J. W. Hale company, was a boy's sweater and was won by William McCollum, of Jackson street. The boys were conveyed to the parish hall in automobiles and at the close of the evening's program were returned to their homes.

THANKSGIVING — A New England Tradition

Established by our forefathers at the very beginning of the settlement of New England it has grown to be a national holiday.

Our forefathers paused at that time to give thanks for a bountiful harvest that meant salvation from starvation during the coming winter.

As the nation has grown it has paused at Thanksgiving time for these many years, profitable years, lean years, years of war, years of peace, to give thanks for what may have been accorded to it and with a prayer that the good things of life be increased many fold and that the hardships of life be reduced.

We stop to reflect at this time upon the period we are passing through. The political situation throughout the world has been chaotic in many countries, economic conditions are reacting from a bad downward trend but right here in Manchester conditions are even better than other cities in Connecticut and New England. There is less unemployment and want here in Manchester than in any other city or town of its size that we know of.

For Which We Have Reason to Be Duly Thankful, Each and Every Citizen.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY ALARMED BY CITY BALLOT

London.—(AP)—The Labor Party, which fared badly at the recent municipal elections throughout England, and then lost a parliamentary seat at Shipley to the Conservatives in a by-election, has opened a general election fund. An official explained: "The Labor Party National Executive feels that in existing circumstances it would be unwise to neglect or delay taking all reasonable precautions against any sudden or unforeseen crisis. Comparative insecurity is one of the special handicaps that hamper a minority government."

The next general election will be the most important in the history of the party. The electors will not only be asked for their judgment on the record of the second Labor government, but also on a special appeal to reverse last year's vote. Labor an independent parliament majority in the new parliament so that it may have both freedom and authority to proceed with its policies.

The municipal election setback has disturbed Labor party leaders. Polling took place in more than 300 cities and boroughs in England and Wales and the Labor Party lost heavily, particularly in industrial cities and towns.

At Liverpool, Leeds and Hull, for instance, the previous Labor majorities were turned into minorities. In about 100 large English and Welsh towns Labor gained 27 seats but lost 92, whereas last year's election gave them a net gain of 100 seats in the municipal councils.

The Conservatives on the other hand gained 79 seats, lost ten this year and gained 11 last year's figures, when they gained only 11 municipal council seats and lost 61.

The party gains and losses in 100 of the largest towns were:

Table with 2 columns: Party, Gains, Losses. Rows include Conservatives (79 gains, 10 losses), Liberals (9 gains, 27 losses), Labor (27 gains, 92 losses), Independents (24 gains, 20 losses).

For several years Labor has always been in the winning vein, and this year's results were a great setback. Some observers feel that the Labor government, like the Hoover administration in America, is beginning to feel the weight of the voters' dissatisfaction with business depression and unemployment.

MORO CASTLE TO LOSE WAR CASTLE

Havana.—(AP)—Moro Castle, the ancient Spanish fortress built to fend off pirates from Havana harbor, may soon fall into disuse as a military center for the first time since it was constructed 343 years ago. For two decades it has been the army's military academy, "Cuba's West Point," but the cadets are to be transferred to a new military school and the future of the venerable landmark is uncertain.

The change is a pet project with President Gerardo Machado who was largely responsible for establishment of the military academy two decades ago. At that time he was head of the Cuban army under the administration of President Jose.

When Moro Castle was built, the cost was almost fabulous for those days and when Cabanas fortress, just behind Moro, was added and the bill reached Charles III of Spain, he called for a pair of field glasses. One of his aides ventured to inquire the cause of this unusual request and legend has it that the monarch replied: "I want to look at the place. With $14,000,000 invested in it, it ought to be big enough to be visible from Madrid."

SEN. COOLIDGE FAVORS SWEDEN'S LIQUOR PLAN

Boston, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Senator-Elect Marcus A. Coolidge of Fitchburg, in his first post-campaign statement, advocated cooperation in constructive legislation with the Republican administration, modification of the anti-trust laws, and the Swedish liquor control system, during a speech at a Jefferson Society dinner last night.

Governor-Elect Joseph B. Ely of Westfield also a speaker at the dinner urged that the state spend "a few dollars, not only as a direct effort to aid unemployment but also to serve as a stimulus to the people of the country." Other speakers included John H. Fahey, publisher of the Worcester Post.

Mr. Ely also advocated the return of beer with a real alcoholic content, terming such a move as a great boon to business. He warned Republicans that any unbusiness in the reappointment of Congressional seat by the Republican controlled Legislature would meet with his veto. The governor-elect placed the rehabilitation of key industries of the state as second in importance only to unemployment. He urged that both the government and labor bring the textile and shoe industries back to their former strength.

ROCKVILLE

25th Anniversary

St. Michael's Society of St. Joseph's church observed its twenty-fifth anniversary on Saturday, and in the morning mass was celebrated for the deceased members at 8 o'clock. Rev. Sigismund Woronicki, pastor of the church, officiated.

In the evening at 8 o'clock a banquet was held in Pulaski hall. A chicken dinner, with all the fixings was served, John Bonnan of this city catering. Joseph Orlovski was master of ceremonies and there were remarks by all of the charter members, five in number. The financial report was read, which finds the organization in an excellent condition. The address of welcome was given by the president, Casper Barron.

The committee in charge included John Pieniaz, John Sitek, Casper Barron, Felix Gotfried, Stanislaw Deptula, Joseph Orlovski, Stanley Filip and Stanley Trojkan.

Chicken Thief Caught

Much interest is taken in the arrest of John Kuntz of the Ogdon Corner section, just over the Ellington line, who lives on a small farm. He was summoned to appear in the South Windsor Court on a charge of stealing chickens. Judge Leslie Newbury is in charge of the case, which was continued from Saturday.

The man has been watched for several weeks by the State Police and it is thought that he is the thief who stole chickens from the Worcester farm and others in the vicinity of Vernon and Rockville.

City Insurance

There is much interest in the city meeting to be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 2 in the Town Hall, when the voters will be asked to appropriate a sum to insure the city workers. The appropriation for this is being asked to save the city money in case of a suit. Such a case occurred the past year and the city will be asked to pay the sum of $700 to Michael Knebel of Brooklyn street for injuries he claimed he received while working for the city.

Mr. Knebel was employed on Grand street and one day while mixing lime claims his eye was injured. He did not appear for work the following day and went to Dr. R. Ferguson for treatment. He was taken to the Hartford hospital, where it was necessary to remove the lens of the eye, causing blindness. Although Knebel claims the lime caused the injury, the specialists were of the opinion the injury was caused by a blow.

Corporation Council John E. Fisk who was in charge of the case has agreed to compromise the claim for $500 and also pay the hospital and other bills which with the $500 will total to about $700. If the city had fought the case and Knebel was awarded judgment the expenses would have been more than $2,000.

TIFLIS IS "HOT" SPOT IN SOVIET UNION PROGRAM

Tiflis, Georgian Republic, U. S. S. R.—(AP)—This capital gets its name from the Georgian word meaning "hot." And it is most apt, so far as the soviet government is concerned. There is an undercurrent here that might lead one to believe that the Russian communists have some way to go before all is "sweetness and light" in this neighborhood.

It is whispered, whether correctly or not, that, proportionately, there are more Red Army soldiers on duty in this vicinity than in any other part of the Soviet Union. The reason given is that here most of the "red hot" Georgians congregate and, if at any time they should decide that secession was in order, the government is prepared to do something.

Yet the soviet makes no display of military strength. On the contrary, the soldiery is kept out of sight as much as possible. But the potential rebels know they're there. What the government is doing is to educate the people to the belief that this is the best of all possible administrations and that the old order is either gone or going.

Already there has been constructed a huge hydro-electric station on the river Kura, near the city and numerous factories are planned. One sees here the same drab food queues as in Moscow and some other soviet cities. But there appear to be more and better shops, and a business-like stir that would indicate that some sort of commerce is in progress.

The 400,000 people of Tiflis, like other Georgians, speak their own language, rather than Russian, and the soviet government, as in other member republics, encourages use of the native tongue. But the Georgians have always resented Russian domination, and if Moscow wins reasonable friendliness and some cooperation in its industrialization plans, a considerable achievement will have been recorded.

WELSH MINERS STRIKE KILLS TWO WOMEN AND THEN SELF

London, No. 25.—(AP)—A deadlock in the South Wales and Scottish coal fields threatened today as miners referred pending wage disputes to a new national board created under the coal mines act, and mine owners announced they would refuse to acknowledge the board's authority.

Union officials, intimating that they looked for government intervention, called a national conference of executives for Friday. Meantime, disputes in other mining fields appeared in fair way of being settled by mutual agreement.

The differences in South Wales and Scotland have their roots in insistence by owners that recent regulations shortening the miner's working day also should involve a wage cut.

YONKERS STRIKE KILLS TWO WOMEN AND THEN SELF

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Francisco Masone, 35, shot and killed Mrs. Dorothy Foster, 27, and Miss Mary O'Connor, 48, and then took his own life late last night, in the three room apartment at 59 Yonkers avenue, which the three had occupied for the past two months.

Masone, according to the police, was jealous of Mrs. Foster whom he regarded as his sweetheart. In a letter found in his possession he indicated his intention to slay the two women and accused Mrs. Foster of infidelity. He charged, in the note that John Pica, his god-father, who resides at the same address, was partly responsible for the trouble.

All Three Dead Mrs. Foster was slain first and then Miss O'Connor, who had retreated, was shot as she attempted to flee. The flare of the exploding powder in the revolver set fire to the bed clothing. Masone then fired a shot into his brain. All three were dead when the police arrived.

Mrs. Foster and Miss O'Connor were foster sisters. The former was adopted by the O'Connor family when she was two years old. She had been separated from her husband, Harry Foster, who is said to be a New York city policeman, and was the mother of an eight old daughter now living with a grandmother in Long Island.

"The Grand Canyon," said the witty tourist, "is all that it is cracked up to be."

"When I Visited—I Found"

Says ROBERT H. DAVIS ("Bob" Davis) Noted Newspaper Correspondent

"Winning the public's favor is no longer a matter of shouting from the housetops—to day you must offer them something concrete. When I visited Reidsville and went through the LUCKY STRIKE plant, I found one explanation for the growth of LUCKY STRIKE. Your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the tobaccos is a splendid example of achievement. It is the new order of the day."

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

"MAJESTIC" FACTORIES PACKED WITH MACHINES

All Operations Measured and Controlled in Precise Mathematical Fashion.

Chicago, Ill.—Visitors to the manufacturing plants of the Grigsby, Grunow and Majestic Household Utilities companies, where Majestic radios and refrigerators are made, usually leave the final exit as bewildered as they are exhausted. One group of buildings is devoted to the making of radio and refrigerator cabinets. Another set makes the radio chassis and the refrigerator cooling unit. And the dominant, portentous noise in each group is the moving line of production.

Conveyor Is Keystone
The conveyor is the keystone of the Majestic system. Everywhere, conveyors. Parts of many different kinds are riding, hither and yon on hooks attached to traveling chains. Long belts carry other parts. Bigger pieces ride on ball-bearing roller lines, which drive through the buildings in many directions.

Claimed to be the largest and most productive furniture plant in the world, the radio cabinet factory is notable chiefly for its high-speed woodworking machines. One passes through this plant to get into the refrigerator cabinet plant, and having seen the radio factory, one is fully prepared to be impressed by the refrigerator manufacturing processes.

Mighty Punch Presses
Nor is the visitor disappointed. The first sight that meets the gaze is a row of mighty punch presses, which chew up sheets of steel into refrigerator cabinets, liners, legs, and tops with single crunches of their mighty jaws.

The big radio punch presses will stamp out three sides of the cabinet at one blow. Other presses punch the back, top, and legs. These clanging monsters leave an impression upon one's mind almost as lasting as the impression they make on the steel fed into them.

From these presses the various conveyor lines begin. The steel parts are bathed, sprayed, heat treated, and sprayed again, constantly on the move until they emerge into an assembly line and receive trimming and hardware. Units are installed, crates are put on with remarkable rapidity, and the ready-for-shipment refrigerators disappear over a conveyor hill into freight cars.

Cooling units are made in a separate plant, attached to the factory, which makes the chassis for the Majestic radio. This plant is almost running over the top and bursting out at the sides with machinery. Grinders, rollers, drills, milling machines, lappers, polishing machines, testing instruments—literally thousands of these production tools are arranged in orderly rows in this factory.

The first operation here is the making of the switch panels, requiring a riveting machine. Comes next the testing of check valves, and the grinding of rollers and bushings for the fan. Arter, and Brown & Sharp grinders are used for these operations, while a Herald drill press nearby is at work on gaskets.

Seven Cincinnati outside diameter grinders are next in line. These machines are able to turn out 3,000 finished pump rotors in a full working day. Four operations of rough and finish grinding are necessary before the part is considered ready for re-use. The outside diameter is held to a tolerance of .004 of an inch.

Grinding
The ends of these rotors, held to a tolerance of .002 of an inch, are rough and finish ground by four Pratt & Whitney surface grinders.

Seven Universal spline grinders then take up the task and grind four slots (.0003 of an inch tolerance) in each rotor.

The back of the rotor's face is finished by three Brown & Sharp grinders, after which two Arter grinders put a recess on the stem of each rotor.

Pump bearing plates, into which the rotor fits, are ground out by nine Cincinnati grinders, three Herald-Gage-o-matics, nine Bryant No. 3's, three Pratt & Whitney and three Blanchard grinders.

Pratt & Whitney grinders rough and finish grind two sides of the pump tap, which is held to within .055 of perfect flatness.

To grind inside and out the motor rotor sleeve, nine Bryant, three automatic feed Arter, two Pratt & Whitney, and our Herald grinders are used. An American vertical hydraulic press completes the job of turning out the sleeves.

While the casual visitor may be confused and bewildered by the profusion of grinding machines all about him in the cooling unit manufacturing plant, he never fails to revive and take a keen interest in the testing instruments, which appear at regular intervals along the journey.

Among the most interesting of these testing instruments are the Zeissometers, made in Jena, Germany. These devices test the flatness of parts by means of light interference. The operator inserts the part, and watches an illuminated scale which is projected on a tiny screen, reminding one of old-time magic lantern shows.

Another interesting measuring instrument, made by the Sheffield Machine and Tool Co., was designed especially to fit in with the Grunow theories of fine production and girl operators. A part is inserted in one of these devices, and the operator simply watches three lights, which resemble traffic signals.

If the part is exactly the right size, a brown light appears, the part is ejected, and the operator places it in the proper container. Green or red lights indicate that the part is too large or too small and it is placed in the proper rejection container.

SUE STATE OFFICIAL

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Suits for damages totalling $218,000 were started in the Superior Court here today against State Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald for the taking of land in connection with the widening of Meriden road. The Waterbury and Milldale Framway Company of which Attorney John Cassidy is the president, instituted proceedings to recover $200,000 alleging that the State is establishing a new road without proper hearing and proper reimbursement to the property owners.

Manchester's Needy Cases

CASE NO. 10
Times are bad but when desolation enters into the situation matters are made infinitely worse. In case No. 10 we have a hard working mother left with three children to support.

In many of these local cases there is sickness, in others suffering, mental and physical, due to unemployment and the undermining of faith in life itself. But cold-blooded desertion, as in this case, is in the minority but none the less a factor in the happiness and well-being of this wife and three children.

Desertion is a felony in Connecticut, punishable by a term in jail. But until such time as the lawful supporter of this family is apprehended, charity must step in and do its part. A family of this kind needs much over an undermined period but the immediate requirements are food and clothing. Will you share with these unfortunates?

NOT ENOUGH POSITIONS FOR NAVAL GRADUATES

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—(AP)—With an unusually large class scheduled to graduate from the Naval Academy in June, and an insufficient number of posts to accommodate them, a large percentage of the graduates will not receive commissions, Commander Donald Beary, aide to the superintendent, said today.

Prior to 1890, this condition was common at the academy, Commander Beary said, but has been more rare in recent years, with the average graduating class in the neighborhood of 250. The 1931 graduates will number between 435 and 440 of the present 450 enrolled, he said, and probably not more than 250 will be commissioned.

Commander Beary said the Navy is entitled to line officers equal in number to four per cent of the enlisted personnel, and the present enlistments sets the number of officers at 5,499. Deaths, retirements, dismissals and resignations during the past year have not been sufficient to clear the way for commissioning all of the present class.

These members of the graduating class who do not receive commissions receive a year's pay and are dropped from the service, Commander Beary said.

The recent disarmament conference has nothing to do with the reduction of commissions, he added.

BITTEN BY BEAR

New Haven, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Gustav Anderson, custodian of East Park Zoo, who was bitten by a big bear Sunday, has had a blood transfusion but his condition remains critical today. He is 74. He and another man tried to keep the bear from leaving the zoo after it had got out of the cage.

MOVIE DISTRIBUTORS LOSE CASE IN COURT

Washington, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Ten leading motion picture distributors suffered complete defeat in the Supreme Court today in their defense against charges of using methods in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The uniform standard contracts and the credit systems enforced in leasing films to exhibitors were declared to be in violation of the anti-trust law.

The lower court had held the standard contract was in violation of the Sherman Law because it required exhibitors to submit all disputes to compulsory arbitration.

The court rules and regulations which required purchasers of theaters to assume unexpired contracts made by their predecessors were sustained by the lower courts as a proper method of protecting the distributors.

Forced To Sign
It was contended exhibitors were forced to sign the standard contracts to obtain films through 32 boards of trade established by the distributors and handling 85 per cent of all motion pictures.

The distributors involved in the litigation were: First National Pictures, Inc.; Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation; Universal Film Exchanges, Inc.; United Artists Corporation; Fox Film; Pathe Exchange, Inc.; F. B. O. Pictures Corp.; Vitaphone, Inc.; Educational Film Exchanges, Inc.

Justice McReynolds in delivering the opinion to which no dissent was announced said the motion picture distributors who normally should be competitors, had entered agreements binding themselves to act jointly in dealing with people who must do business with them.

CANDIDATE IN COURT

Stamford, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Morris Fitch, 30, colored, of Stamford, the Communist candidate for lieutenant-governor in the recent election, was arraigned in Stamford city court this morning, charged with the non-support of his two young daughters. Complaint was made by the town of Stamford, which has been paying for the support of the children since January 7 last. The charge was continued to Friday to investigate whether the support has been lacking because of Fitch's inability to get work or his distaste for labor.

The recent disarmament conference has nothing to do with the reduction of commissions, he added.

who are very liable to see him through somehow and where, at worst, he has a valid claim on whatever sources of unemployment relief may be obtained.
 The urge to get away, to try new fields when one loses his job and cannot get another, is easily understandable. But it is one that at such a time as the present it is well to resist. A very few weeks of dis-appointment, of hardship and loneliness are generally enough to turn the job seeker in strange parts into a confirmed rover. And one of the most urgent duties of American municipalities is to see to it that its unemployed men do not in any considerable numbers join the army of bums that hard times heretofore have always created.

GRAND OPERA
 To-night's the night, Hartford and the surrounding country will send to Bushnell Memorial Hall the pride and flower of their music loving element to listen to "Tosca," sung by the great Metropolitan Opera Company. And most of the crowd will be able to keep straight faces while they listen. Perhaps a few will yield to that completely irresistible inclination to giggle with which some folks are afflicted when they see murder done to the accompaniment of full throated song by the slayer and dying gurgles of the victim set to music. But not all lovers of music are cursed with the kind of imagination that makes grand opera appear infinitely funnier than the comic variety. So the Hartford audience will probably behave itself, even as the sophisticated audiences of New York, Chicago, Boston and other opera-blessed communities somehow or other manage to do.
 None the less we take this appropriate occasion for expressing the opinion that even if one finds it impossible, owing to the possession of sensitive risibilities, to take grand opera seriously he may conceivably still be ratable as a civilized human being.

Washington Letter
 (This is the first of three stories summarizing some of the findings of the nation's leading experts on children as reported to the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection which has just met at Washington.)
 BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
 Washington, Nov. 25.—A growing, concentrated interest in the problems of unemployment and child labor may give new stimulus to the once widespread agitation for effective child labor laws.
 The report and recommendations of a committee on vocational guidance and child labor to the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection have come at a time when the country is paying more attention to unemployment than ever before and experts are beginning to point out the effects of child labor both on children and upon workless adults who might otherwise have the jobs now occupied by children.
 More than a million wage earners are between the ages of 10 and 16, according to the 1920 census, and 1,700,000 are aged 16 and 17. The fact that there are between 3,500,000 and 6,000,100 unemployed persons proves, according to the anti-child labor group, that child labor is not necessary to industry.
 Time was in this country when children of eight, nine and 10 years were commonly employed in factories and mines. Glass factory molds were built so low that only small children could crouch between the handles to open and close them for the blowers. Twenty years ago, children of 11, 12 and 13 toiled in lint-laden air of cotton mills 10 hours a day or through the night.
 Those days are over, but thousands of children only slightly older now perform similar disagreeable or dangerous tasks—or others which prevent them from coming to health and maturity with health and vigor unimpaired, according to the Hoover child labor committee.
 Mostly Unskilled
 Outside of agriculture, children are employed chiefly in factories, but also in stores, laundries, offices or restaurants and as salesboys and girls, delivery boys, shipping clerks, garage workers, porters, telephone operators "and in almost every conceivable other type of employment."
 Nearly all these jobs are unskilled, mechanical and monotonous, offering little chance to acquire experience or skill likely to be valuable later on. From children's jobs most such workers enter work requiring only greater physical strength or maturity.
 Many children work in badly ventilated, poorly lighted, insanitary places. Fifty hours a week or more is common for boys and girls of 14 and 15 in factories, stores, laundries and restaurants. Hours in domestic and personal service are still longer. Many must face dusty or lint-laden air, fumes and poisonous substances which create conditions favorable to tuberculosis and industrial poisoning to which the young are especially susceptible.
 Children under 16 still work in glass factory furnace rooms. Boys of 16 and 17 sometimes work 80 and 90 hours a week in canneries and younger children 10 or more hours a day. Unemployment for working children is an especially demoralizing influence, the committee finds.
 Weekly wages for children under 16 "almost invariably average under $15 and generally under $10."
 State child labor laws vary greatly both in adequacy and stringency of enforcement. Fifteen states apply a minimum age provision on all jobs and 28 for selected jobs. Sixteen demand an educational standard of completion of the eighth grade.
 Farm Help Big Problem
 Agriculture, in several respects offers the most serious of child labor problems, involving more child workers than all other occupations including many especially young workers, "hours of whom are migratory. Hours often exceed 10 and 12 a day. The work is often too heavy or otherwise dangerous. Child labor laws seldom attempt to regulate it. This kind of child labor interferes with education; the 15 states with the highest percentage of non-attendance are the 15 with the highest percentage of child agricultural workers.
 Many thousands of boys and girls are injured in industry each year, plus "far larger numbers" whose health is otherwise affected by improper conditions. Legislation designed to protect children from hazardous tasks is found generally inadequate.
 Legal provisions for compensation of children and young persons injured in industry are often unsatisfactory. Usually the amount payable is "pitifully small" because of low earnings. Eighteen states have special provisions for totally disabled minors by computing what his wage would have been upon reaching majority.
 Among various recommendations the committee urges extension of state aid to widows and children so children may remain at school at least up to the age of 16, an age minimum of 16 for employment except for outside school and vacation work in a carefully restricted line of occupations, compulsory full-time school attendance for all up to 16 and up to 18 except when actually and legally employed, compulsory physical examinations for all workers under 18, eight-hour day and 44-hour week or all minors under 18, prohibition of night work for those under 18 except perhaps to 10 p. m. for those over 16 and employment certificates for all workers under 18.

BINGHAM'S PLAN
 There will be keen interest in the effort of Senator Bingham to bring modification sentiment in the Senate to a test by introducing and working for a vote on bills to legalize 4 per cent beer and wine and to authorize physicians to prescribe beer, ale and stout as well as whiskey medicinally. Of course the present Congress is overwhelmingly dry in its makeup and no one will have the slightest expectation that the bills will pass, even if a majority of the Hoover Commission should report in favor of prohibition modification. But there will be a very lively interest in seeing whether or not the Senate vote, if it is ever taken, will substantially recognize the lesson of the recent election.
 We have an idea that there will be a much more liberal showing of hands in favor of the Bingham proposal if the matter is permitted to go to a test than there would have been before last election day. There are plenty of dry senators who are shrewd enough to realize that the days of standing pat belong to the past and that the part of wisdom is to trim sails in the face of a coming storm. It would not be in the least surprising if the Bingham proposal were to draw a measure of support quite out of keeping with previous alignments in the Senate on the question of prohibition.
 Such measures as these are, of course, no answer to the prohibition problem itself. Conceivably they might make the situation very much better than it is today, but they could never constitute a cure. There would still be bootleggers and rum runners and demoralization, though it is probable that the extent of these evils would be very greatly lessened.
 However, on the ground that nothing could possibly be worse than the present situation and that such modification as Mr. Bingham proposes could hardly fail to bring a decided improvement, probably every wet in Congress would give approval, even if grudgingly, to the beer and light wine program.
 Likely enough a desperate effort will be made to keep these measures from coming to a vote. But in any event they are likely to produce enough action, and of such a nature, to prepare the ground for a real fight for prohibition reform in the next Congress.

THAT USELESS PROBE
 If the worse crimes known to society were the shooting of pees-at a neighbor's cat through a putty-blower or writing sassy things about "Teacher" in chalk on the school-house wall, it would probably work all right to have the penal institutions of the country in charge of such people as Rev. Dr. Smith, whose accusations of brutality have brought about the present rather nonsensical prison hearing, and Miss Genevieve Cowles, the temperamental artist person whose idea of an ideal prison is a colony of nice little cottages in which the prisoners may keep house and, presumably divert each other with discussions on mural decoration.
 Unfortunately the prison system has to deal with a lot of people who have a little rather than not rob the porboox of Dr. Smith's church and some who would be delighted to cook Miss Cowles in a furnace fire-pot if there were a couple of hundred dollars in the job. So that we really think it is better to have our prisons run by somebody who has at least a glimmering of an idea what it is all about.
 And just why it is necessary or expedient to call into the superfluous prison hearings now going on an "expert" from a state which has had a hundred times as much trouble in its prisons as Connecticut ever did is not altogether clear.
 This prison investigation seems to us to be about the most causeless thing of the kind ever started in Connecticut. It promises to become as ridiculous as it is needless. And it all costs money that will have to be contributed by the taxpayers of the state.

IMMIGRATION BAN
 It would be a rather courageous member of Congress who openly opposed the resolution which Senator Reed of Pennsylvania promises to introduce barring all quota immigration of aliens with the exception of relatives of persons already in the United States.
 It is predictable that there will be very little outcry against this measure from those groups or organizations which have hitherto been so ready to fight every proposal for the restriction of immigration. Many of those who were loudest in their demands for the letting down of the bars, while business was booming, are now themselves victims of the condition where there are more people looking for jobs than there are jobs. They are no longer so eager as they were to have more and more immigrants thrown into the labor market.
 Certainly this is no time for the bringing of alien competitors with the American jobless. Senator Reed's proposal will probably be very little debated and promptly passed—as it should be. And the celerity of its passage may just possibly convey a lesson to E. Kent Hubbard.

IN NEW YORK
 New York, Nov. 25.—Side glances at Manhattan's strange panoramas... Well up the Hudson where the Riverside Drive apartments begin to disappear and autumn-painted hills begin, an old barkentine lies lashed to a wharf. There, unless something happens, it will eventually rot. Meanwhile its crossarms moan for forgotten sails.
 Fading faintly reveals that its name was once the Buccaneer. A lively piratical raider for such a weather-beaten craft.
 One day the good ship sailed the seven seas and one day it slipped sentimentally into a boneyard. One day romantic-minded brought old sailing ship jays within the reach of certain moderns. And one day it was reported that the old craft would be rigged out again and sent out as a "floating club." One could buy memberships in this club and go floating about in de luxe cruises. A strange end for a staunch old barkentine.
 Very well—so she wound up at a pier in the upper Hudson. And there she has stayed at least month on end.
 There came a period of unemployment when hunger and need stalked the streets.
 And in upper New York, where caves appear in the parks, men went back to their primitive homes. Fires could be seen flaring in hillsides caves and smoke went up through the trees of wooded parkways. Well—it was good enough for our ancestors!
 Colder weather set in. The caves, however sheltered, were not always searched. The primal forest for shelter and food—he went on the track again. Now in the heart of a great metropolis.
 And so 't is that the good barkentine, for many a smaller craft lying at anchor—has come to the rescue. After a nightfall, along the Riverside Drive waterfront, you'll see men making "their way under cover of night to these old boats. They'll slip aboard like stowaways and find their shelter under the creaking beams and in the rotting bunks of the sailors who have gone to other ports. Just a slice of the great city life.
 It's the apple-selling vogue, which came in the wake of unemployment, which provides the city with some of its best momentary human touches.
 Here stood a girl in a trim coat, a snappy hat and high-heeled shoes. A few months ago she was a stenographer. As she sells her wares, she looks embarrassedly upon each passer-by. Men ogle her, for she is attractive, and ask each other what such a girl can be doing there. She was there out for three days. She had gone from office to office looking for work. And now, realizing what need may bring one to, five offers for jobs come to her in a single day.
 Down the street, at the side of a huge department store, a woman parks her three children on old crates as she sells her apples. And women, with children, hurrying to the store, stop to buy, stand for a moment and talk. For the moment the woman in the limousine and the woman in the street are just mothers—meeting on that ground—and understanding.

GEN. BERDOULAT DIES
 Paris, Nov. 25.—(AP)—General Emile Berdoulat, who was military governor of Paris from 1919 to 1923, died here today at the age of 69.
 He served with distinction in the World War, and was closely associated with the American military command and with President Wilson's aides at the peace parleys. General Gouraud succeeded him as military governor.

STAY AT HOME
 The National Association of Travelers Aid Societies has issued a warning which should be repeated and emphasized in every town and city in the country. It is directed toward those persons who, having lost their employment, are tempted to quit the home town and seek jobs in strange places. No better advice could be given than that extended by the Traveler's Aid people—"Don't do it."
 Every industrial community in the country, substantially without exception, has its own quota of unemployed. In substantially every case where jobs open preference is and will be given to the home people. The drifter is at a discount.
 The larger the city the worse the chance of the jobless man from the outside to get work, because the great cities attract not only a greater actual number of the unemployed than smaller places but a number proportionately greater. The stranger is at just as much of a disadvantage, too, when there are jobs to be given out, in the big city as in the smaller one, because the element of acquaintanceship and "pull" for the local candidate is much the same in New York or Chicago as it would be in Manchester or Rockville.
 In addition to all this, the plight of the stranger, broke and homeless, is inevitably worse than that of the person out of work in his own home town where he has friends who are very liable to see him through somehow and where, at worst, he has a valid claim on whatever sources of unemployment relief may be obtained.

 The urge to get away, to try new fields when one loses his job and cannot get another, is easily understandable. But it is one that at such a time as the present it is well to resist. A very few weeks of dis-appointment, of hardship and loneliness are generally enough to turn the job seeker in strange parts into a confirmed rover. And one of the most urgent duties of American municipalities is to see to it that its unemployed men do not in any considerable numbers join the army of bums that hard times heretofore have always created.

USING WATER FOR TREATMENTS IN THE HOME

For the relief of headache, one of the finest treatments is to use a twenty-minute hot foot bath to draw the blood away from the head into the lower extremities. For the relief of headache, a hot shower directed for about twenty minutes on the sore area will be found very effective. Hot water may also be applied in the form of hot enemata, hot douches, hot packs, poultices, etc. Hot water is effective in causing boils and carbuncles to come to head. It is also effective in relaxing rheumatic pains. When a small part, such as a finger or toe is struck by a blow it is often wise to apply to use water at the proper temperature for about twenty minutes. This cold treatment contracts the capillaries and stops the flow of the blood so that the part does not become blue and swollen. But after this effect has been produced for about twenty minutes, it is always wise to follow by the administration of warm water which is gradually brought up to as high a temperature as the body can stand without burning. This is to increase the circulation and carry away as much as possible of the dead, congested blood which would otherwise stagnate. If an injury occurs such as a break in the skin, it is a wise plan to apply heat. For instance when a nail is run into the foot, place the foot at once in a tub of hot water and continue this treatment for at least a half hour or longer.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Inhaling Rock Dust)
 Question: J. B. writes: "I am working in phosphate rock dust and inhale plenty of same. Does this injure the lungs and stomach? Are twelve hours a day too long to work in this dust? Is there anything you would suggest to prevent any possible ill effects?"
 Answer: It is injurious to the lungs to breathe rock dust in quantities. The length of time that you can work at this would vary considerably with the amount of dust. It is possible that the wearing of some type of muzzle filter would help if the dust is very thick and you are unable to change your occupation.

Cornell-Penn Game One Holiday Feature

Brown-Colgate, Pitt-Penn State and Syracuse-Columbia Holiday Battles That Attract Turkey Day Crowd

By HERBERT W. BARKER

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP.)—Thanksgiving Day's football slate brings renewal of four eastern traditional rivalries of long standing and that between Pennsylvania and Cornell needs yield to none of the others in point of age or glamor. In the last six years the best Cornell has been able to achieve in its historic turkey day game has been a 10 to 10 tie in 1926. Cornell, however, is conceded at least an outside chance to stop the rush of the Red and Blue this time. Of the 36 games played since 1893 Pennsylvania has won 27, and Cornell 7, with two ties. Pitt and Penn State meet in another traditional game. Pitt will be heavily favored. The Panthers have won 17 of the 26 games played and Penn State seven. There have been two ties.

Syracuse and Columbia have played nine games since 1907 and Columbia's best has been one victory and one tie. One of the most grueling of all rivalries has been that between Brown and Colgate. Four times these rivals have battled to ties while Brown has won seven and Colgate three since 1908. Colgate will be kicked to win.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Vic Hanson's Syracuse eleven has a great incentive for a victory over Columbia. Thanksgiving Day, Warren Stevens, co-captain of the Orange, lies comatose in the university hospital and the boys want to cheer him up with news of a triumph over the Lions.

New York—And as for Columbia, Lou Little wants to accomplish what no Columbia eleven has done since 1907. The Lions began playing other major teams in 1920 and this is to win two major games in a season. The Lions stopped Cornell and hope to do the same with Syracuse.

Providence—If tradition holds good Brown will beat Colgate Thanksgiving Day. The legend is that the favorite always loses in this rivalry.

Pittsburgh—The weather is furnishing the Pitt Panthers with considerable trouble as they prepare for the Thanksgiving Day game with Penn State. The boys had to don gloves and knit soccer caps as protection from the cold wind.

MOONAN RELEASE RUMOR WITHOUT CONFIRMATION

Official of North End Team Admits Hearing Story But Does Not Give It Authenticity.

Reports were afloat at the north end today that there is some talk in the major camp of dropping George Moonan as coach as a result of failure of the team to beat the Cubs Sunday, but inquiries brought no official confirmation of any such intended action. There will be a meeting of the club tonight at 9:30 o'clock and it is expected at that time that a vote will be passed in favor of Moonan.

An official of the Major team admitted he had heard the rumors. They may of course have been the work of a group of discontented fans or players. Moonan has built up a fine gridiron machine in the Majors and if there is any criticism to offer it might well be directed at the certain men who sit around the Major bench and try to influence Moonan as to how the team should be run.

From the Cubs camp today comes word of the release of two more out of town players, Fogarty, a back from Providence, and Pfeiffer, an end from East Hartford. Schwartz was dropped last week. The team will practice at 7:45 tonight at the East Side Rec. Elated over the Cubs' surprisingly good showing Sunday, Coach Tom Keller is hard at work with additional deceptive plays which he hopes will puzzle the Majors even more than the spinner and flat pass did Sunday.

Vendrillo Injured
The Cubs have gone through the first two games without any serious injuries. Every man will be on hand for Sunday's game. The Majors are also in fine shape, it is understood, with the exception of Saville Vendrillo, star center, who is nursing a leg and chest injury, plus a cauliflower ear which may keep him inactive next Sunday.

"NIBS" PRICE QUITS AS CALIFORNIA COACH

Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 25.—(AP.)—As a climax to a football season which brought four conference defeats, C. A. ("Nibs") Price has resigned as coach at the University of California.

His resignation was accepted last night by the student executive committee whose action is final.

Benny Friedman says Joe Savoldi and Harry Newman are the outstanding players of the year. Whatever else you can say about Savoldi now, you'll have to admit he certainly is outstanding.

YOST BELIEVES MEN MORE VITAL THAN GRID STYLE

Famous Coach Says Man-power Is the Basis of Winning Football System.

By FIELDING H. YOST

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP.)—Man-power is the basis of winning football systems.

Thirty years ago while traveling eastward from a season's coaching at Stanford, I remarked in an Iowa city that "it takes men to play football."

Thirty years is a long time in this age of progress, and change for a single statement to remain true. Man-power, however, continues to be the mainspring of winning football.

This man-power is not always poundage, it is not always speed, nor is it a combination of the two. Sometimes it is spirit, sometimes intelligence. At rare times it is an inexplicable something which raises a team above its muscular or mental power to accomplish impossible feats.

A football system always is the same. The plays are inert. A system sends offensive men along certain lines to certain points. Any player of average intelligence and strength can prevent it.

An entirely different situation arises when eleven players work out the system on the gridiron. Teams exist today which could be successful with the wingback, the shift, the punt formation, the power and deception, the speed and deception systems.

These teams could be successful even with the almost discarded spread formations. The teams have the man-power to make any system succeed.

The coaches of these teams had the problem of deciding the plays which fitted the men, or if material was super-abundant, of finding the men to fit the system.

The fact that some of the best known coaches did not have the men to fit any kind of a system played for reverses, while other and less known coaches have experienced prosperous seasons.

The West Side Club, town basketball champions, will open their basketball season Thursday night, playing in the preliminary to Rec. Five-Hartford Y. M. H. A. game at the East Side Recreation Center at 7 o'clock.

Their opponents will be the St. Rose's team of Burnside who will take the floor with E. Thayer and Powell forwards, D. Thayer center, Anderson and Hickey guards. The West Siders will depend upon Larry Maloney and Falkowski forwards, Johnny Boyle center, Earle Russell and "Cop" Campbell guards, with Chapman, Hugh Moriarty and Bill Wylie in reserve.

SAVOLDI, GRANGE ON SAME ELEVEN

Chicago, Nov. 25.—(AP.)—Jumping Joe Savoldi, late fullback of Notre Dame will be a halfback for the Chicago Bears when he makes his professional debut Thursday against the Chicago Cardinals.

Coach Ralph Jones moved the Italian to half as a running mate for Fred Grange, leaving Bronko Nagurski at fullback.

"Butte Beauty"

His deeds on the fourth or fifth team might have gone unnoticed by anyone save Knute Rockne, but Joe Savoldi withdrew from the university and now Dan Hanley, above, the "Butte Beauty," is in there "taking his cuts" at fullback for Notre Dame.

Hanley rose to stardom in one game, that with Drake. With Larry (Moon) Mullins, this 195-pound youth of 6 feet 1-2 inches will handle Notre Dame's fullback in the remaining games.

Albert Rajune of Eiro street broke the Charter Oak bowling record for high single last night when he rolled a score of 183 in a match with Domenico Beletti. Rajune came within a shave of setting a new town record, missing a two pin spare after a two pin filler on a spare in the tenth.

Had both of these balls gone true to the mark, Rajune would have broken 200. The town record is held by Jack Staidella, who last year hit 199. "Lefty" Curtis formerly held the Charter Oak alley record of 181 which Rajune has now shattered. Rajune made three strikes, 6 spares and missed a two-pin in the ten boxes. That one error cost him a chance to roll a score of 200 or better. Rajune rolled five games, hitting 125, 136, 183, 117, 115 for an average of 135.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

I do not know Arthur M. Arlett, editor-in-chief of the University of California campus publication, The Daily Californian. But if this department were should be converted from "Hooks and Slides" into "The Question Box," surely we would send for Mr. Arlett and offer him a fat contract.

Mr. Arlett is the champion endurance questioner of the world. Following the recent disaster to the California team, a 74 to 0 defeat at the hands of good Southern California, Mr. Arlett waxed what you might call slightly querulous. Among other things he asked:

"Has California a competent coaching staff? Does the head coach (Nibs Price), though being a Californian, a good sport and a formerly successful assistant coach, justify the payment of a large salary, or should the associated students hire a good sport who has been a successful head coach, regardless of his alumni affiliations?"

Is the salary paid because of the school attended or the job to be filled? If California were to hire someone else to coach, would he be able to do any better with the material at hand? Is a proportionate amount of good material coming to California? If there is lack of it in an institution of this size what is the reason? Should we begin subsidizing in an effort to regain our pinnacle position, or should we "go after those who now subsidize?"

"As a matter of fact, who does subsidize? Who can find out who subsidizes? And, having found out, who has the spirit and courage to say so in open meeting?"

Protesting the Protest
It goes along like that for a long while. Then students hold a protest meeting. Then there is talk of the protest and declare that if Nibs Price is fired, the team will go on strike. After that some more meetings. Southern California's football team is labeled "the best professional team in the United States."

Your correspondent doesn't know the reply to all of Mr. Arlett's burning questions. But it seems to me quite a few of them can be answered by the simple statement that Howard Jones has one of the greatest teams this year he ever has coached, while it is "an off year" at California. Things like this have happened before in various parts of the country, several times among the Big Three of Harvard, Princeton and Yale.

I don't think the answer is in the coaching. In 1928 Knute Rockne's team lost four important games. It is platitudeous before in various parts of the country, several times among the Big Three of Harvard, Princeton and Yale.

When we was approached for the job at Washington State, he asked the committee who the Cougars were, please, and where Pullman, Washington, was.

Newspaper men dubbed him "Eight-for-Ten" because whenever he was asked for 10 passes he sent eight. Another time they hung the nickname of "Felix-the-Cat" on him because he used to wear a heavy overcoat at the games, fold his hands behind his back and nervously staid up and down in front of the bench. They called him "Babe" for the same reason they gave George Herman Ruth that name.

COUGAR CLAWS SEEK VILLANOVA PREY SATURDAY

Conquerors of Both Californias, Oregon State and Washington Face Rugged Foe.

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

NEA Service Sports Editor

Eastern football enjoyed both a treat and a setback when the Galloping Gaius of St. Mary's, California, crushed the mighty Fordham machine. But that isn't all.

Another entertainment of a similar nature with every likelihood of the accompanying setback, is in store November 29, when the Cougars of Washington State move in on Villanova.

The Cougars happen to be the football team that recently beat California, and California, strange as it may seem, actually beat St. Mary's. Not only did the Cougars beat California, but they met what some of the California people recently referred to as "the best professional team in the country." Southern California, and sent the afore-said team home on the short end of a 7 to 6 score. The small item of beating California and U. S. C. was accomplished on successive Saturdays, A. D. 1930. It's pretty hard to believe, but those are the scores the papers carried.

The craving for conquest hasn't been confined to California teams. The Cougars have roamed up and down the coast, taking them as they came, including the University of Washington.

The full name of the coach of this hogwild crew is Orin E. Felix-the-Cat Eight-for-Ten Babe Hollingsber. Whenever the writers along the western jumping-off place happen to have a stray nickname in their hands, they fasten it to Hollingsber.

Of all the coaches on the coast, Babe is the only young man who never had a chance because he never went to college. Oregon has Do Spears, Dartmouth, Washington has Jimmy Phelan, Notre Dame; Oregon State has Paul Schiesser, Lombard College; California has Nibs Price, California; Southern California has Howard Jones, Yale; University of the City of Los Angeles has Spaulding, Washab; Stamford has Pop Warner, Cornell; Idaho has Leo Calland, U. S. C.; Montana has Major Milburn, West Point. Hollingsber is just a high school boy, trying to get along.

The Babe used to manufacture football teams on a mass production basis. Back in 1920 in San Francisco he was coaching three teams at a time and operating a couple of battery and gasoline service stations. The three teams were the Lick-Wilmerding High School, Bates Prep School and the Olympic Club. From 2 to 4 p. m. he coached Lick; from 4 to 6 p. m., Bates, and from 6 to 8, the Olympics.

Washington State became interested in the young man when his Olympics in 1925 beat the "wonder team" that played as the Californians in 1925, after the Bears had gone undefeated for four years. Earl V. Foster, Graduate Manager of the Cougars, recommended Hollingsber.

When he was approached for the job at Washington State, he asked the committee who the Cougars were, please, and where Pullman, Washington, was.

Jackie Fields, young Jack Thompson and Al Siner lost their championships the first time they defended them. Come on, Maxie, step up and get yours.

Chris Cagle quits coaching to go back to playing, joining the New York Giants at a salary reported to be $20,000 a year. Chris loves to play the old game, you understand.

Dick Hanley tells his players at Northwester, "You're always on offense only sometimes you haven't got the ball." Watch your hands though, boys.

California students took umbrage at a 74 to 0 defeat and Coach Nibs Price was given several inverted cheers. It seems that Mr. Price paid and paid and paid.

The dean of Princeton has been writing a series of magazine articles telling all about the school. We have been anxiously awaiting some mention of the football team but maybe that can't be explained.

Des Moines—Tommy Grogan, Omaha, Neb., outpointed Billy Wallace, Cleveland, 10.

Pittsburgh—Buck McTiernan, Sammy Baker, New York, 10.

Miami—Tommy Cello, San Francisco and Babe Herman, New York, drew, 10.

Shoots Whales From Planes
Sacramento, Cal. (AP.)—California game laws provide that whales may be shot from automobiles or airplanes but no other mammal may be killed from either of these machines.

MOVEMENT ON IN BIG SIX TO CUT GRID GAME PRICES
Columbia, Mo. (AP.)—Lower admission prices to football games are being sought by athletic directors of several schools in the Big Six conference. Present admission charges range from $2.50 to $3 a game.

Lower prices, the advocates assert, would create more interest in football and would permit many young persons to attend games heretofore kept away by the cost.

This Game of GOLF

By O.B. KEELER

The suggestion that Californians, both men and women, play too much golf, and too little stiff competitive golf, was the reason why not a California contestant got by the third round in this year's women's national at the Los Angeles Country club, was the subject of a preceding column.

Harry Pressler, professional at the San Gabriel Country club, was the proponent of this idea and he made out a good case.

Now comes my old friend Scotty Chisholm, and in one of the whimsical but always entertaining articles Scotty quotes an eastern writer, whom he does not name.

"The girls out here look over-gilded to me," said the easterner. "I don't seem to be doing much playing twelve months in the year, day after day. I don't think I would like it, myself. Too much of it without a lay-off. I really believe your western players, and this includes the men also, would be much more formidable competitors, if they laid off three or four months of the year."

This may be worth thinking about, especially in the face of the reiterated assertion that California soon will be producing the best golfers in America, or in the world, because they could "play all the year 'round." And heaven knows they have the finest golf courses on earth!

A glance at the list of qualifiers and the day-by-day score sheet from the national championship appears to give some weight to the contention of Scotty Chisholm

NOON STOCKS

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Stock Market took courage from a favorable overnight news budget today, rallying under the leadership of the steel, railroad equipment and utility shares. Announcement of a minimum price schedule on sheets by a U. S. steel subsidiary, a drop in bank loans on collateral, an increase in commercial borrowings and a less than seasonal decrease in automobile production last week favored the advance. Two to three point gains appeared in Republic Steel, Gulf States Steel, General Railway Signal, American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive, Drug, Inc., and Fenney. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Vanadium, Colorado Fuel, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone and North American were up 1 to 1 1/2. Early heaviness in the motion picture shares as a result of the Supreme Court decision and in a few merchandising issues was later overcome and the losses were generally retrieved. Call money renewed at 2 per cent. A famous opera singer who was jeered in Vienna was recently cheered to the echo in London. This may be another instance of the slowness of the English to grasp a joke.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Stocks opened slightly irregular today, although most of the pivotal shares showed a small upward trend. There was some profit-taking in the merchandise and chain store shares. American Can, National Biscuit, Union Carbide and General Motors were unchanged. U. S. Steel was up 3/8 and American Telephone, American Smelting and New York Central 3/4 each. Montgomery Ward sagged 3/8 and Sears Roebuck dipped 5/8. Dupont, International Telephone, Woolworth and Air Reduction made small fractional declines. The market ran up briskly in the early dealings under the leadership of the steels, but tapered off toward the end of the first half hour considerable selling came into the motion picture group. Realizing in the meat order issues was extended. Posting of a minimum price schedule in sheets by a U. S. steel subsidiary strengthened Wall street's growing conviction that the industry is to make an important stand on prices. Similar action was taken recently on bars, shapes and plates by another important steel corporation unit. The early rally carried Bethlehem, Vanadium, Republic, Gulf States and U. S. Steel one to two points higher. American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, North American, American Tobacco "B," American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Case, United Aircraft and Johnsonville ranged 1 to 3/4 higher. Loew's, Fox Film and Warner Brothers each declined about a point. Sears Roebuck was also heavy. Another drop in the security loans of reporting Federal Reserve Member banks, amounting to $66,000,000, and a rise of $89,000,000 in commercial loans were other favorable items in the overnight news. Sterling cables, which yesterday touched a new 1930 low, steadied opening at 44.85 1/2, up 1-16.

BOOKS ON OPERAS AT LOCAL LIBRARY

With more operas, concerts, and symphonies to be broadcast this winter than ever before, radio fans, even with little musical training, may find books which will enable them to get more out of the programs coming to them over the air, according to Miss Smith, librarian. Since the best professional talent may be brought into the home by turning a dial, it is no longer necessary for those who "aren't a bit musical" to master the piano as a social accomplishment, but it is more important than ever to know something of the works of great composers. It is here that the library offers aid in the form of books on the lives of composers and stories of the operas, Miss Smith points out. Reading must of course be supplemented by listening to good music. Listening, however, does not mean tuning in on grand opera and then sitting down to read the newspaper or to figure out tomorrow's business deal. Listening is, in fact, an art in itself, according to Daniel Gregory Mason, author of a reading course available at the library, called "Ears to Hear: a Guide for Music Lovers." In it this well known composer and musical critic not only points the way to keen enjoyment but gives practical suggestions for those who want to get the most out of the music they hear. The course is one of the "reading with a purpose" series published by the American Library Association. Books recommended are: A Guide to Music, by Daniel Gregory Mason. The Fundamentals of Music, by Karl W. Gehrkens. The Study of the History of Music, by Edward Dickinson. The Evolution of the Art of Music, by C. Hurbert H. Parry. Studies in Modern Music, 2V, by W. H. Hadow. Contemporary Composers, by Daniel Gregory Mason. Musical Appreciation and the Studio Club, by Eva Clare.

PAPER FROM ALASKA

Washington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—American plans to break the virtual newsprint monopoly of Canada through establishment of power and paper pulp plants in Alaska, were before the Federal Power Commission today. The commission considered applicants for licenses to construct two such projects to cost approximately $30,000,000. Stamford, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two holdup men secured $95 early this morning when they stuck up Leonard Wamby, lone employe of a lunch cart on the outskirts of the city. Wamby lost $45 of his own money and the register was looted of $50. Both men were armed. One was described as dark, about six feet tall. The other was blonde and five feet, six inches tall. Both wore blue suits and did not wear hats or masks. After robbing Wamby they locked him in a lavatory and they escaped in an automobile.

TRADE SCHOOL NOTES

Trade school will close for its annual Thanksgiving vacation on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 25 until Monday morning, Dec. 1. On Wednesday, Nov. 19, an assembly, under the auspices of the school athletic association was held in the auditorium. The entire program was arranged by W. E. Schorer, faculty manager of athletics, and consisted of a varied and well balanced program of orchestral music, monologues, solos, harmonica playing, playlet, and group singing led by P. J. Volquardsen. The school orchestra under the leadership of William Hanna did exceptionally well for the short time they have been practicing. In a short talk Director J. G. Echemalian stressed the value of sportsmanship in school and everyday life. A silver cup was presented to the electrical dept. for winning the baseball championship of the school. F. J. Crowley coach of baseball presented school letters. Arrangements have been made whereby assemblies are to be held at least once a month. Basket ball team is having practice every day, and exceptionally good team is expected to represent the school this year. Part of last year's squad is expected to show up very well this year. Games with local High Schools and State Trade Schools are now being arranged. A large number of part time students are taking advantage of the opportunities offered by the Trade School. Men now working on short time in industry are enrolled in various unit courses on days that they are not working at their trade. Teacher training courses for prospective instructors will begin on Dec. 9 at such points through the state as may seem desirable. Should registration warrant it courses will be given here in Industrial Education Course I. Registration may be made at the Trade School any day from 8 a. m.-5 p. m. or between the hours of 7-9 p. m. on Tuesday and Friday evening.

CHAMPION QUAIL HEN

Thomasville, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Pebble Hill plantation, owned by P. W. Harvey, Cleveland, Ohio capitalist, claims the champion egg laying quail hen. The nameless bird has a record of 135 eggs in 180 days. She weighs a half pound and it takes four of her eggs to weigh an ounce. The average quail egg production for the year from all the plantation hens was 72 eggs. Something should be said in favor of the son of the former Crown Prince of Germany who is in this country looking for a job. He might have come here on a lecture tour.

LUNCHCART ROBBED

Stamford, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two holdup men secured $95 early this morning when they stuck up Leonard Wamby, lone employe of a lunch cart on the outskirts of the city. Wamby lost $45 of his own money and the register was looted of $50. Both men were armed. One was described as dark, about six feet tall. The other was blonde and five feet, six inches tall. Both wore blue suits and did not wear hats or masks. After robbing Wamby they locked him in a lavatory and they escaped in an automobile.

PLANNING TO RESTORE AMANULLAH TO THRONE

London, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A movement to restore former King Amanullah to the throne of Afghanistan was reported in a Peshawar dispatch to the Daily Herald today. The Suleiman Khels, a powerful trading tribe, were stated to have turned against King Nadir and to be ready to fight his armies if any are sent from Kabul. Deserter of the Suleiman Khels was the immediate cause of Amanullah's flight from Afghanistan last year. At that time Bacha Sakao, "The Waterboy of the North" organized a revolt against Amanullah and drove him from Afghanistan. Nadir Khan, powerful figure in Amanullah's old government, took the field against Bacha Sakao, conquered him and finally executed him. Since then Amanullah has been living in exile in Italy. At a recent jirga or tribal conference, called at Gardez by the Afghan government, the tribesmen were said to have stated they had written Amanullah asking him to return and assuring him of their cooperation.

STEEL PRICES TO GO UP

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The New York Times today said that major steel interests soon would announce a moderate increase in prices, pointing the way to a revival of business generally.

He had been working on a farm in New Hampshire. When the boy disappeared, his father and friends scoured airports in several nearby states as young Andy had frequently expressed interest in aviation. South African 1929 diamond output totaled 5,661,212 carats, valued at more than $51,437,400.

SPORT PLANTS

ALAN GOULD
ASSOCIATED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR
"I read your column regarding the great Georgia Tech team of 1917 with a lot of interest," writes Dick Jemison of the Ohio State Journal, "because at that time I was writing sports on the Atlanta Constitution and saw them play eight of their nine games."

"The one game I missed and one of the two you don't mention in your article, was the opening game when they ran up the record score in the history of football, beating Cumberland university 222 to 0. "Every team that they defeated that year was defeated by the largest score they had ever been defeated by. I am listing below the complete scores for that year:

- Cumberland university . . . 222-0
- Davidson 47-0
- Pennsylvania 41-0
- Washington & Lee 63-0
- Vanderbilt 83-0
- Tulane 49-0
- Carlie Indians 98-0
- Georgia 21-0
- Auburn 68-7

"I have always contended that this was one of the greatest football teams that ever played. Every lineman was in excess of six feet tall and the team average as a whole including the backfield, which contained two light men in Hill and Strupper, averaged 193 1/2 pounds, and its speed was marvelous, considering its size.

"As an illustration, 'Pup' Phillips, the center, weighing 215 pounds, would beat both ends down under punts.

"You will note the Georgia score was 21-0, which was simply a carrying out of the old adage that when these two meet past performances don't count. They fight each other tooth and nail and I don't think either one has beaten the other by such a score since they've been playing."

Dick Jemison can charge omission of Georgia Tech's massacre of Cumberland to the official Spalding Football Guide; also to John Heisman, Tech coach in 1917, who wrote Spalding's story of his team accomplishments without making mention of the record score, whether from modesty or embarrassment.

Spalding's, after noting the size of that score, representing over 80 touchdowns, perhaps decided to refer the matter to its track and field department.

Incidentally, this year's renewal on December 6 of the ancient rivalry between Georgia Tech and Georgia may be anything but the expected romp for Harry Mehre's boys from Athens. Georgia looked like one of the best teams in the country when it bowled over Yale at New Haven early in October, but that "peak" could not be held. Tulane's defeat of the Bulldogs probably will revive some optimism on the Tech campus in Atlanta.

DOCTORS TO EXAMINE CANCER CURE CLAIMS

Cleveland, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Formation of a group of competent scientific men to keep the public informed as to "what's what" about cancer cures, remedies and alleviators, is the proposal that Dr. Robert J. May of Cleveland, president of the Radiological Society of North America, will take to the annual convention of that organization at Los Angeles next week.

Dr. May made this announcement today saying that the public is being misled by the numerous announcements of cancer cures that come out every year.

According to Dr. May's plan the scientific men would be selected from such organizations as the Radiological Society, the American Medical Association, and the American College of Surgeons.

They would examine the claims of the discoverer for his remedy and then announce in the public press what may be expected of it.

Dr. May said that the proportion of cancer cases cured today "is much greater than the public ordinarily supposes, especially in those cases that are not too far advanced."

COUNTY DAIRYMEN TO MEET AT STORRS

Fred Pitkin of This Town Among Those Who Will Study Results of Survey.

Twelve picked Hartford County dairymen will spend tomorrow and Wednesday at the Connecticut Agricultural College studying the results of a survey of some 200 dairy farms made in Hartford County last spring by the Hartford County Farm Bureau and Economics Department of Connecticut Agricultural College according to Chas. D. Lewis, County Agricultural Agent for the Hartford County Farm Bureau.

Forty-six per cent of the alfalfa seeded as far back as 1924 in Hartford County is still in good condition according to this survey, which also shows that only 64 per cent of the man labor on the smaller farms is utilized that 72 per cent of the farms owned purebred bulls and a fund of other information relating to methods of feeding, growing of feed, disease, milk production and so forth.

We are inviting this picked group of practical dairymen over to study the results of this survey and sort out the things most needed to improve the economic status of the individual dairyman and the industry as a whole," says Mr. Lewis, "and we expect to spend Tuesday reviewing the survey with Messrs. Owens, Manchester and Merrill, Tuesday evening in an informal discussion and Wednesday will be devoted to planning a practical program for getting the facts before the dairymen of the county this winter."

The men who will attend this two day session are Chas. D. Clark, Granby, president of the Farm Bureau, Fred Pitkin of Storrs, J. Anderson, Avon, S. F. Holcomb, Granby, A. F. Sheldon, East Granby, Burton L. Harris, Wethersfield, Harry Farnham, South Windsor, O. D. Tuller, Simsbury, H. W. Humphrey, Canton, Robert Nicholson, Suffield, J. C. Thompson, West Avon and C. Fred Woodford, Avon.

SO. METHODIST EPWORTH LEAGUE'S ACTIVITIES

At the devotional service of the Epworth League of the South Methodist Church held on Sunday evening, the Third Department of Social Service was in charge, and Thomas Corder spoke on the topic "What It Means to Believe." Special musical numbers were rendered by Chester Shields, cornetist, and Miss Irene McMullen, soloist. A unique candle-light service, entitled "The Light of the World," was also held at this meeting.

The league under the direction of Miss Ethel Brookings, Third Vice-President, distributed this week a number of Thanksgiving baskets of fruits and delicacies to the shut-ins of South Church Parish. At its monthly business meeting held recently, the league elected Miss Gladys R. Harrison, president, to succeed Robert Wilson, who has resigned from that office. Miss Marion Brookings has been elected secretary to fill the office vacated by Miss Harrison. Clarence Turkington has been appointed chairman of a committee to manage the presentation of a play to be given by the league in February or March, the specific date to be announced later.

FIND PLANE WRECKAGE

White Horse, Yukon Territory, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The wreckage of an airplane in the headwaters of the Laird River was believed to hold the secret of the fate of Captain E. J. A. Burke, Canadian flier, and two companions who were lost in that area October 11.

Weeks of search by airplanes were climaxed yesterday when pilot E. L. Wasson returned to White Horse and reported sighting the wreckage. A shortage of gasoline compelled him to return without landing.

The Burke party was lost while flying from the Laird River mining district to Atlin, B. C., on a prospecting trip.

WAPPING

Miss Anne Nellie Zokites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Zokites of Foster street, Wapping, and Stanley B. Strelchun, son of Mrs. Stephana Strelchun of Newington, were married Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock at Holy Trinity Church in Hartford. The Rev. John J. Ambot performed the ceremony. The wedding was followed by a reception at the home of the bride on Foster street. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Mary A. Zokites, as the maid of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Lydia Strelchun, sister of the groom. Benedict Strelchun, brother of the groom was the best man. The usher was the bride's brother Anthony Zokites, Jr. The bride wore a white satin princess style gown and a veil caught with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of green taffeta and a hat of green malone. She carried coral tea roses tied with a ribbon to match her hat. The bridesmaid wore an orchid satin gown and a hat to match. She carried red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Stanley Strelchun returned Saturday from a wedding trip to Washington and have made their home at Newington. Before her marriage Miss Zokites was employed by the Aetna Life Insurance company of Hartford, and thirty of her associates gave her a surprise miscellaneous shower, Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Moore in Suckland.

HELD FOR HIGH COURT

New Haven, Nov. 25 (AP)—William R. Reilly, of New London who was arrested charged with thefts from Yale dormitories on November 3, was held in $3,000 for Superior Court today. He waived examination through counsel when taken before the City Court. Reilly was caught with overcoats and two suitcases containing apparel and police later said he confessed to the thefts on several days.

LEVINE IS RELEASED ON BONDS OF $7,000

Vienna, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Vienna Bar Association today recommended a bail of $7,000. Levine's attorneys yesterday handed the Superior Court a petition for the release of their client on bail and this was passed along to the bar association for its consideration. The Vienna police charged that Levine ordered dies and matrices to enable him to coin French money. Levine denied such an intention and said he had ordered dies from which he could cast medals for distinguished airmen. On the advice of the Bar Association, the Superior Court informed Levine's attorneys that the prisoner would be released against surety of $7,000. Levine must take an oath that he will not leave Austria and that he will be prepared to attend court whenever summoned.

PREDICTS NEW PARTY

Bridgeport, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Congressman Merritt who next to Congress for his last session next week, said yesterday in talking on political matters to the Chamber of Commerce that the differences of opinions as to great among Republicans and Democrats that new parties may be formed. He made this forecast in discussion of prohibition. Mr. Merritt said he expected President Hoover to "do great things" in the next two years.

DIES AGED 103

Gouverneur, N. Y., Nov. 25.—(AP)—M. Sabin Parker, 103, a native of this village, died yesterday. He was active almost to the end.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Estelle Lyman of Ozone Park, I. L., has been a guest for several days of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Tucker, and upon leaving Columbia will spend Thanksgiving in Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. James Grimm of Bridgeport spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Collins on Chestnut Hill. Mr. Grimm returned to Bridgeport Sunday night, Mrs. Grimm remaining for a visit with her parents.

Miss Doris Pinckney and her friends Irving Anderson of New Haven were Sunday callers at the home of Miss Pinckney's aunt, Mrs. Howard Rice.

The religious play "And he came to his father" given in the Columbia church a week ago Sunday evening by local people, was given by them at the Westchester church Sunday evening before a large audience. The Columbia pastor, Rev. A. W. Mellinger, is in charge of the production.

Joseph Little of Detroit, Mich., was in town recently calling on relatives.

Miss Madeline Congdon of Williamsport spent the week-end at the home of her cousin, Miss Harle Feld.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Squier of Hartford spent the week-end at the home of Mr. Squier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Squier.

The traffic through Columbia Saturday and Sunday was of great volume, as this town is on the direct route between Harvard and the Yale Bowl. Some say more cars passed through than they ever saw before, and it was a difficult task to find a space to cross at the corner, the cars coming in a steady stream. Some one counted 50 cars in 4 minutes, and that ratio kept up for hours. It would seem from the beautiful cars that went through that there are still a few not badly affected by the existing hard times.

Miss Bertha Buell who has been a patient at the Hartford hospital for the past 5 weeks, is reported as improving.

The mild weather prevailing recently has been very acceptable to all, and the rainfall Monday is also most acceptable, with wishes for more. During a recent warm spell, several people in the West street section of the town who have a good reputation for telling the truth, reported that they have heard frogs peeping for several nights, evidently on the mistaken supposition that

SPORTS 'GALLOPING GHOST'

Buckhannon, W. Va. (AP)—West Virginia Wesleyan fans hail their star halfback, Clifford Battles, as the 1930 "galloping ghost of the gridiron."

Six times he has broken loose for touchdown runs of 65 yards or more.

He sprinted 66 yards and over New York University's goal line.

He awed Georgetown with runs of 66 and 88 yards.

Against the opposition of Waynesburg of Pennsylvania he clicked off gallops of 97, 96 and 80 yards.

POLICE COURT

Joseph Chambers of 69 Capitol avenue, Hartford, was before the Manchester town court this morning on a serious charge, that of assault on Mary Hilderbrand of this town. Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $25 and costs and a jail sentence of 30 days. He suspended the jail sentence because of the testimony showed that the man had been drinking, and the fact that the girl whom he had assaulted did not care to see him severely punished. Chambers is married and lives with his wife in Hartford.

According to the testimony of Miss Hilderbrand, Chambers had come out here to attend a party and while she was on the way home with Chambers in the vicinity of the Blue Ribbon bakery on Cottage street, he made advances that she resented. When he persisted she screamed for help and two of the employees of the bakery came to her aid. In her testimony it was apparent that she was letting Chambers down as easy as possible.

In his own behalf Chambers told the judge that he had come out to Manchester in search of work. He attended the party mentioned above and said that he had a few drinks. He denied that he had any intentions of harming the girl and that in fact he did not remember just what had happened. His sister who was in court at the hearing lost no time in going to Hartford and later she and Mrs. Chambers returned with the money to pay the fine and costs.

AUTO VICTIM DIES

Meriden, Nov. 25.—(AP)—William Fols, 45, of Fols avenue, died at the Meriden hospital at 4 o'clock this morning of injuries suffered last night when struck by a motor vehicle on Broad street. Alexander Deslet, 41, of Springfield, who is held for the death of Fols, was arrested in Danbury at 2 o'clock this morning after a description of the vehicle which had been seen at the place of accident was broadcast over the teletype system.

A SELENDID IDEA

Waterbury, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Edward W. Goss, Congressman elect from the Fifth District, has his own idea about a victory dinner at which he was to be the chief guest. He has suggested it be called off. Those who were going to be there dip in the price of the ticket to unemployed relief fund. Now it is up to the committee to decide.

The Hungarian government has granted a concession for an electric power plant that will burn the low-grade peat of that country and supply power to Budapest and other cities.

KILLED ON HONEYMOON

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 25.—(AP)—On his honeymoon, Nelson Cressman, 22, of St. Jacobs, Ont., was killed early today in an automobile collision near here. Three other persons were injured.

Cressman and his bride were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cressman, who police said were his parents. The elder Cressman was driving and the car collided with another in which were Edwin Sweeney and Benjamin Edmonds, of Hagerstown. Police said a third man, who was driving this machine, disappeared. The bride was slightly injured and the elder Cressman and Edmonds were cut and bruised.

HELP FOR JOBLESS

New Haven, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Municipal relief to the unemployed the coming winter will be given by co-ordination efforts of nine groups of persons named by Mayor Thomas A. Tully last night after outlining his plans to the Aldermen.

These groups will be made up of representatives of various organizations to the end that there will be no overlapping of relief and no waste. A group will serve as the clearing house for applicants and the ninth group will be the one to place the applicant at some remunerative task. The mayor had suggested a $200,000 bond issue for use in meeting acute cases of distress.

Edward L. White, former National vice commander of the American Legion, has offered his entire time without compensation.

Several young people and others from the Center motored to Westchester Sunday evening to hear the religious play, "The Frodgal Son," given by Columbia Christian Endeavorers at the Westchester Congregational church. There was a large attendance and the collection taken up was received by the Columbia C. E. Society. Orchestra music was furnished by Albert E. Lyman, who directed and played the horn; John Tolokan, violin, and Mrs. Fred Abell, piano accompanist. The play was effectively presented and well received.

Announcement has been made that a film will be given at Gilead Congregational church next Sunday evening, at a Tri-County Union Christian Endeavor service at that place. Mr. and Mrs. George Lyman and Robert Lyman, who have been employed in Pennsylvania have returned to the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lyman, on account of unemployment.

FLIGHT POSTPONED

Columbus, O., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Reports of hazardous flying conditions en route to St. Louis today caused Miss Ruth Nichols, New York society aviatrix, to postpone her start of the second leg of a flight in quest of the women's transcontinental speed record now held by Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, of Australia.

WANTS AGAINST BUYING FAKE PHONE DEVICES

Exchange Manager W. B. Halsted of the Southern New England Telephone Company stated today that in some sections of the state a device is being sold which, it is claimed by its makers, will result in an improvement in the transmitting and reception of telephone conversations, while, as a matter of fact, the device is more a hindrance than a help.

Moreover, it is officially stated by the telephone company that this device is likely to cause serious service difficulty. This attachment to the ordinary telephone is equipped with a device which muffs transmission when a button is depressed. This button actuates a lever which causes a pressure against the telephone's transmitter diaphragm, thus preventing the diaphragm from vibrating. It is quite certain that the repeated operation of this lever on the diaphragm will cause service difficulty to subscribers and it is for that reason that the company advises against the attachment of this device to its instruments.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

A blonde flapper called at the hospital the day after the accident. Flapper—I want to see the young man that was injured in the auto wreck last night. Nurse—Are you the girl that was with him? Flapper—Yes, and I thought it was only right to come and give him the kiss he was trying to get when the car wrecked.

The members of the younger generation needn't think the clutch used in the automobile is something new. Dad can tell you it was often used in the old-time buggy on a quiet country road.

In two and one-half hours the four-miles-per-hour runner would travel 10 miles. As the five-miles-per-hour runner gains at the rate of a mile an hour, it will take him 10 hours to make up this distance, by which time the four-miles-per-hour runner will have traveled twelve and one-half hours and will be 50 miles from the starting point.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The lamb said, "Bah!" and Copy smiled. Said he, "It sounds just like a child. I'd like to hold it in my arms. Perhaps 'twill go to sleep." The kindly shepherd said, "All right, but don't squeeze it with all your might. If you are very kind, you'll find it will not even peep." "Be careful? Gee, I always am," said Copy. Then he took the lamb and all the others envied him. "My, you look cute," said one. "The lamb looks very satisfied. Within your arms he likes to hide. Say, let me hold it for a while. I'll bet it's heaps of fun." "You all can have a turn. You bet!" snapped Copy. "I will gladly let each Tiny pet this lamb and then we'll journey down the road." He then turned white, just like a sheet, and cried, "What jumped across my feet?" The other Tynymites laughed aloud. 'Twas just a tiny toad. Soon Clowny asked, "Say, do

THANKSGIVING GOODS FOR NEEDY ALL READY

Big Assortment of Eatables To Be Distributed To Families Here Tomorrow.

An ever increasing flood of good things for Manchester's needy people for Thanksgiving is being assembled today in the basement of the South Methodist church. Apples, potatoes, onions, canned goods of all kinds—almost everything imaginable is to be found there ready to be placed in baskets to be distributed about tomorrow when the Thanksgiving bird has been added to the assortment of goodies.

Workers were busy all morning gathering vegetables, fruits and other contributions from the schools and other centers for assembly and final checking up at the church.

According to Miss Jessie M. Reynolds, town social worker, this year's contribution is the largest ever assembled in town. Although there has been a ready response for aid, there are cases being reported each week to Miss Reynolds that has increased the demands upon the store of food and clothing contributed in the past month.

Thanksgiving, and for many days to follow will be a happy one for many needy families in Manchester.

JUNIOR MISSION GROUP IN PROGRAM SUNDAY

Swedish Lutheran Society To Entertain in Afternoon—Handiwork Exhibition.

Children who are members of the Junior Mission society of the Swedish Lutheran church are to present an interesting program Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. They have arranged with Mrs. Ruth Winberg of Springfield, Mass., junior mission district secretary, to speak on junior work; piano solos will be played by Astrid Benson and Eleanor Berggren, Marion Olson will give a reading and there will be songs by the children's chorus.

An exhibit of the handiwork of the juniors will be arranged for this meeting, also a collection by the local society. All attendants of the church and friends will be welcome. A group of the Sunday school teachers will serve refreshments after the program.

A real old fashioned social will be held by Linne Lodge, No. 72, Knights of Pythias, at Orange Hall at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, in celebration of Thanksgiving. A Swedish dinner will be served with the amusement committee in charge, Carl Gustafson, chairman.

An oyster stew and clam chowder dinner was enjoyed by the Beethoven and Boys' Junior Glee clubs last night at the Swedish Lutheran church. Burdette Hawley, well known pianist, acted as chef. A musical program was presented after the dinner.

The South Manchester Library will be closed Thursday, Thanksgiving Day.

Constable James Duffy is now taking his vacation. Since but a few days of the hunting season remain he will spend most of his time in the woods.
