SEN. OVERMAN PASSES AWAY AT CAPITAL

One of Oldest in Senate Dies Aged 76 After Brief Illness—Working Up Until His Illness Two Days Ago.

Washington, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A sudden illness today took from the Senate one of its oldest and most highly regarded members. Lee Slater Overman, of North Carolina, died at 76 years of age in the Senate chamber shortly before one o'clock this morning.

Overman entered the Senate in 1905 and soon became a leading figure in the Democratic Party ranks. During the World War, particularly, he became essential to President Wilson. He sponsored the act which gave President Wilson war time powers more sweeping than any ever exercised by an American chief executive.

Overman kept at his duties in the Senate right up to the end. He had been at his office Monday and made calls at government departments. Yesterday, though remaining at home, he had given considerable attention to Senate affairs.

NATIONAL PARK

To forestall exploitation of tourists trade, the commission reported, it has arranged to acquire several hundred acres for a national park in the vicinity.

About $51,000 was spent during the year. Borglum has completed models for the figures of Lincoln and Jefferson, joined them to the finished head of Washington and adjusted them to the stone. The commission formally commended the sculptor's economy.

would take charge of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association and liquidate the remaining assets for the benefit of depositors.

Beezemeyer had been a leader in the building and loan movement here since 1921 and was a director of many such organizations as well as industrial firms. The association had 20,000 depositors.

Whitmore said Examiner Milton C. Shaw who was transferred here from San Francisco discovered discrepancies in the association's books. His findings were presented last night to the board of directors of the association, after which Beezemeyer arose, directors stated and said he had caused the trouble.

How much was the defalcation? One director asked.

"More than you think," he answered.

The directors guessed $1,500,000. "More than that, several millions," Beezemeyer was quoted as saying, adding: "I am a dirty crook."

Describe Details

Beezemeyer then launched into details of his operations. Whitmore said, stating he withdrew the amounts as overdrafts, loaning $40,000 to friends who approached him with hard luck stories and investing two years ago $2,000,000 in the promotion of an oil company with the hope of regaining the amounts taken.

Whitmore said the exact amount

Shining Light Circle of Junior King's Daughters will have a sale of food, fancy articles and home-made candy at Watkins Brothers store tomorrow afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

SENATE'S DISPUTES ARE NOW IN HOUSE

Fight Over Unemployment Relief Transferred — Tillson Aids Hoover.

Washington, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The dispute over huge expenditures for unemployment and drought relief was transferred today from the Senate to the House. Shortly after meeting the former adjourned out of respect of Senator Overman of North Carolina who died early today, but the House went ahead.

Representative Tillson, the Republican leader, came to the assistance of the administration in its demand that relief appropriations be confined to the limits it has set.

He declared the Senate's $60,000,000 bill for loans to farmers of the drought area as a "pipe line to the treasury."

Representative Arwell, Democrat, Louisiana, a member of the agriculture committee replied the Senate bill was supported by the President's drought relief committee and by state agriculture commissioners.

The committee has approved a measure to provide $30,000,000, the administration sponsored $25,000,000.

Refuses Amendments

The House refused to accept the Senate's amendments to the emergency unemployment fund bill and asked for a conference.

Chief among the Senate changes were amendments raising the total appropriation from $110,000,000 to $118,000,000; and a refusal to give President Hoover discretionary power in expending the money.

The Muscle Shoals conferees failed to agree on any compromise between the Senate and House, and adjourned.

Chairman Parker of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, said there was little prospect for enactment of railroad legislation during this session, due largely to the Senate's failure to vote on the bill to regulate motor buses.

MAJORS TEAM GIVEN VICTORY BANQUET

Sixty Attend Affair In the North End Firehouse — To Continue Club.

Checks are to be divided among the players who played on a "split" for the Major football team, and all bills have been paid, was the information given at a victory dinner served in the north end firehouse last evening.

Hugh Campbell, who earlier in the evening presented the trophy to the Majors at the State theater, was an invited guest at the dinner, arranged for by Francis Hart and "Bill" Griffin. They expected to have about thirty present, but it developed into sixty.

It was announced that work would start right away signing up players for next year and to make it an "all paid" team. The Major Athletic and Social Club will be continued and part of the funds received in dues will be set aside as a fund for a football team.

There was little in the way of speaking. The checks to the players that have been waiting on a "split" basis will be distributed this week.

ASKS TO POSTPONE WORLD COURT VOTE

Senator Watson Does Not Want It To Interfere With Present Problems.

Washington, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Postponement of consideration of the World Court issue submitted to the Senate yesterday by President Hoover until the next session a year hence was advocated today by Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, a leader of the Court advocates. The announcement by Swanson coupled with the demand of Senator Watson, the Republican leader, that the court issue shall not become involved in the legislative jam of the short session was believed at the Senate to end any slight prospect still remaining for final action at this session.

The Virginian said it was "obvious" that the Senate could not reach a vote on the court in the session ending March 4. He expressed fear that the interests of adherence would be jeopardized by attempting to press for a vote now.

Strength of Foes
Meanwhile, it developed today that the court foes privately claim at least 28 votes against American adherence. This total is eight more than previously counted upon by the opposition, and 11 more than voted against American entry five years ago.

"I favor reporting the World Court to the Senate from the committee at this session," said Swanson, who is ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee.

"However, I am opposed to taking it up for debate at this session for it would only result in delay on the urgent domestic problems confronting us. It might force an extra session."

"Certainly there is no chance of its being voted upon at this session. It then could be taken up at the regular session next year at the very start."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, a member of the foreign relations committee and advocate of the court, urged a special session of the Senate after March 4 for consideration of the issue.

CAREFUL SUICIDE

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Olivier E. Holmes, 32, a lawyer, ended his life last night by inhaling gas in his apartment at the National Arts Club.

His wife, Mrs. Marjorie Holmes, found his body in a chair with a gas tube from the kitchen stove in his mouth. Detecting a spark of life, an ambulance crew worked over him for an hour but were unable to revive him.

Mr. Holmes left no explanation, although he deposited under the outer door a card warning "gas, do not light matches." Mrs. Holmes, who had been visiting her parents during the evening, said he called her earlier to say he would not be home for dinner. She could ascribe no reason for his suicide.

MRS. MIX STARTS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Wife of Screen Star Charges
Desertion and Extreme Cruelty—Her Story.

Los Angeles, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A divorce suit on file here today asserted Tom Mix, hard-riding, quick shooting cowboy of the screen and the circus had galloped away from home and didn't intend to come back.

Mrs. Victoria Mix, in filing the suit yesterday, said Mix left November 26 and by way of emphasizing his statement that he would not be back, he twirled a loaded gun on his trigger finger in wild west fashion.

She was greatly frightened she said. Mix had left home several times before and on his return declined, his wife charged, to reveal where he had been.

During the last absence their eight-year-old daughter, Tomisina, became ill, Mrs. Mix said, and but for the fact that through "gossip" she learned he had been spending most of his time at Agua Caliente, and at a Hollywood hotel, she would not have been able to summon him to the child's bedside.

While Mix always was a hero on the screen, his wife pictured him as a different character outside the films. He treated her with "extreme cruelty" for the past five years, she charged.

The Mixes were married in 1918. Mrs. Mix in the suit asked the custody of their child. The actor transferred to his wife in January, 1928, property valued at $100,000, including their Beverly Hills home.

The film cowboy was married to his first wife, Mrs. Olive Stokes Mix, daughter of a cattle man, in 1909 at Medora, N. D. She divorced him in April, 1917, charging desertion.

SEEKING MOTIVE FOR WIFE MURDER

"Other Woman" Tells Her Relations With Maj. Shepard, Accused Army Officer

Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 12—(AP)—Miss Grace Brandon, young stenographer of San Antonio, Texas, who figured as the "other woman" in the murder trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, charged with the poison murder of his second wife, took the stand today for the government and wept as she related what Shepard had told her regarding his relations with Mrs. Shepard.

"He said he and his wife had not been getting along well the last five years," the girl testified, "and that they had kept up congenial appearances at social functions because of his rank in the Army."

Miss Brandon recovered her composure as government counsel drew from her the story of the love affair with her which the prosecution contends provided the motive for the alleged fatal poisoning of Mrs. Shepard at Fort Riley, in June 1923.

Knew He Was Married
She related that she had met Shepard about Nov. 1, 1923. At that time she said he was taking a flight surgeon's course at Brooks Field, San Antonio. She said she knew Major Shepard was married.

"He asked me, if he got a divorce, whether I would marry him," she said.

"Was there any understanding that you were engaged when he left San Antonio?" (This was in December, 1923, approximately nine months before Mrs. Shepard's death.)

"No."

Unhappy at Home
The witness said Shepard had mentioned his "unhappy life" a number of times.

Miss Brandon told of a trip to Laredo, Tex., with Shepard and another couple. They crossed the Mexican border and had several small glasses of wine at a bar, she said. She was on the verge of tears as she described gifts the major had given.

In July, 1923, shortly after his wife's death, Shepard visited her in San Antonio and asked her to wed him secretly, she testified. She said she told him, however, she would not marry him for a year or a year and a half because she did not want a scandal from marriage right after Mrs. Shepard's death.

Miss Brandon testified that Shepard purchased a motor car for her and also paid the running expenses. She got the car late in November, 1923.

NEW LISBON PLOT

Lisbon, Dec. 12—(AP)—Machine guns, automatic rifles, bombs and ammunition were discovered by police in overnight raids in Lisbon it was announced today. Two persons, one the proprietor of a drug store, were arrested.

The raids began while officers of the Army and Navy were gathered at a banquet to record their loyalty to the dictatorship and their condemnation of recent revolutionary activities.

The banquet, given by officers of the Lisbon garrison, was in honor of General Beirao, commander of the Republican Guard.

In the steep climb to success, says the office sage, a little "pull" often counts as much as considerable push.

NOTED NEGRO STAR IS KILLED BY TAXI

"Angel Gabriel" of "Green Pastures" Fame Dies Before Taken To Hospital.

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—The "Angel Gabriel" has answered the trumpet call to greener pastures. Wesley Hill, negro actor who portrayed the part of the Angel in Marc Connelly's Pulitzer prize winning play "Green Pastures" was struck by a taxicab in Harlem yesterday and died before he could be taken to a hospital.

At Gabriel's funeral the Lord of "The Green Pastures" (Richard B.

Harrison) will deliver his eulogy. Cherrubim (The Hall Johnson Choir) will sing his requiem; and Adam and Eve and all the rest will attend to mourn his passing. Hill was born 35 years ago in Baltimore. New York claimed him and featured him in "Shuffle Along," "Runnin' Wild" and "Foggy" with which later troupe he went to London. In the current production, he kept a trigger finger on his trumpet and delighted thousands with his "Gangway for de Lawd" and "Okay Lawd."

BACK MATERNITY BILL

New Haven, Dec. 12—(AP)—For the Connecticut League of Women Voters the executive committee here yesterday sent to U. S. Senator Walcott a message to the effect that the league supported the Jones Maternity and Infancy Bill now pending in Congress.

Mrs. E. W. Higgins of Norwich was made chairman of the committee on child welfare and Mrs. S. B. Paradise of New Haven chairman of the social hygiene committee.

"Travelers Hour" imbued with feminine touch by Western Soprano and Woman Flutist

A touch of femininity will pervade "The Travelers Hour" from Station WTIC at 10:05 o'clock tonight, when Mabel Jackson, former middle western radio performer, and Marion Jordan Bridgman, flutist, will be the featured soloists of a varied concert of classics and current musical comedy tunes. The soloists will assist a 40-piece concert orchestra under the direction of Christiana Kriens. Mabel Jackson, after a successful radio career in the middle west, came east early last year to make her concert debut in Steinway Hall, New York. She has been featured since then on several programs from WOR of Newark and has been soprano soloist with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra. Marion Jordan Bridgman is first flutist of the Springfield Symphony in Massachusetts and has toured extensively with the Smalley Trio. Orchestral offerings will include Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries," Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" as interpreted by a string orchestra, Delibes' "Waltz of the Hours," and three movements from one of Christiana Kriens' most familiar compositions, the descriptive suite, "In Brittany."

CABINET HONORS LEWIS

Stockholm, Dec. 12—(AP)—The entire Swedish Cabinet in full court dress turned out this afternoon with other distinguished personages to honor Sinclair Lewis, the Nobel prize winner, and Mrs. Lewis at a tea given by Edward S. Crocker, the American charge d'affaires. It was a preliminary to the outstanding social function of the Stockholm season—the state banquet which is to take place tonight with King Gustave, the entire royal family and all the Nobel winners and their wives attending. Selma Lagerlof, winner of the Nobel prize in literature in 1909 was one of the guests at the tea. Some of those present expressed disappointment at the rather conventional address delivered by the American winner at last night's banquet, but they looked forward with keen interest to a talk which he is to make tomorrow, expecting that it would include Mr. Lewis' personal views of contemporary literature.

NEW MOVIE STARS

Washington, Dec. 12—(AP)—Two new moving picture actors today made their debuts on the south lawn at the White House. They were Herbert Hoover, Third, and Peggy Ann, grandchildren of the President. They demonstrated to their own satisfaction that the new bicycles they found upon their arrival early this week were very good.

GOVERNMENT INTERESTED IN MAGISTRATES' PROBE

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—Federal authorities today became interested in disclosures resulting from Courts. Reports that certain magistrates and policemen had incomes aside from their salaries brought internal revenue agents into conference with special prosecutors. Results of the conference were not made known, but the Federal agents were expected to sit in at future open hearings in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court while Isador J. Kresel, who is conducting the inquiry, questions policemen and others about their salaries and bank accounts. John Stetser, a bondsman accused in testimony at the inquiry of overcharging for a bail bond, was held for trial on $500 bond. He was accused by Sigrid Johnson, one of 97 women alleged to have been arrested on trumped-up vice charges. Another bondsman, Abraham Tribnitz, was dismissed.

A THOUGHT

The Meek shall inherit the earth. Psalm 37:11.

Meekness is the grace which, from beneath God's footstool, lifts up a candid and condescending eye, accepting God's smile of fatherly affection, and adoring those perfections which it cannot comprehend. —James Hamilton.

REVEALS DETAILS OF SOVIET PLOT

London Newspaper Says Stalin Discovered It In Time and Shifted Soldiers.

London, Dec. 12—(AP)—The London Daily Mail today revealed details of an alleged vast conspiracy to unseat Joseph Stalin as head of the Russian Communist Party, and ex-officio dictator of the Soviet Union government.

The newspaper, which sees in the revelations an explanation of reports of a month ago of mutiny and Russian civil strife, said the plan was to replace the Stalin clique with a directorate including Leon Trotsky, Christian Rakovsky and Gregory Zinoviev, all exiles since 1928. Alexis I. Rykoff also was named as a conspirator.

Plot Fails

The plans failed, the paper explained, at the zero hour because of Stalin's superior spy system and hundreds of persons were arrested throughout Russia. None of the leaders was mentioned as arrested, although the paper commented that "Rykoff's fate is sealed."

Michael P. Tomski, Voroshiloff, commissar for war, M. Unschlicht, General Budenny, the famous cavalry leader, and others of prominence were connected with the plot by the paper.

The plan was to stage a coup d'etat and arrest Stalin on Nov. 7, but on the night of Nov. 6 he is alleged to have transferred the Moscow garrison to Minsk, and ordered hundreds of arrests which successfully thwarted the movement. Other suspects were dismissed from posts in the government.

According to the paper Rykoff is considered the father of the plot, and of the conspiracy revealed in the trial of eight Russian engineers which has just ended.

CITY MARSHAL TELLS OF GIFT TO HEALYS

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—Jacob Cash, a former city marshal, who charges he paid Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, $2,000 for his reappointment, was a witness today at the retrial of Healy and Thomas T. Tommaney on charges of bartering a judicial appointment.

Cash testified today to a transaction with Healy he had not mentioned before, his sale to Healy of a white gold 15-jewel watch for $15. He also said he gave Mrs. Healy an $850 diamond bracelet at the time of his reappointment.

"You didn't tell the jury at the last trial about selling Healy a watch," Sidney Syme, defense counsel, said.

"Forgot," Cash answered.

"You didn't happen to forget that Healy paid for the bracelet, did you?" Syme asked.

"He didn't pay for it."

Healy and Tommaney are being tried on a charge of having accepted a $10,000 loan from Mrs. George F. Ewald for their support of her husband for appointment as a city magistrate.

SUGGESTS CURE FOR DEPRESSION

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—A program of higher wages, shorter hours and lower prices was advocated today by President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin as the remedy for the present depression which he termed "the most serious economic crisis in United States history."

Contrasting success in accelerating production with failure to develop wider distribution of wealth, he told the Association of Life Insurance Presidents "our panicky present is the result of our planless past."

"We have evolved a machine economy," he said, "that can, if we will but bring a far-sighted statesmanship to its direction, emancipate the race from drudgery, lift the standard of physical well-being throughout the world, and give mankind at last leisure in which to cultivate values that lie beyond economics."

"But the machine economy will never do these things unless and until the leadership of industry sees to it that a larger share of the national income is shifted into the pockets of the consuming millions, and until the margin of leisure for the millions is markedly increased."

"If we isolate any section of economic America," he continued, "we find that it has been managed admirably, but if we look for general economic statesmanship, we look in vain. x x x"

FIRE IN WESTERLY

Westerly, R. I., Dec. 12—(AP)—The public garage of Joseph Grills on West Broad street was badly damaged by fire early today. Loss was estimated at $20,000. The cause of the fire was unknown.

All but three or four of the automobiles stored in the garage were moved to safety. Two alarms were sounded when the Elm Tree Inn, next to the garage, and the Congregational church, across the street, were threatened. More than 100 guests at the inn fled to the street.

BANK OF ENGLAND REPORT

London, Dec. 12—(AP)—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds; total reserve decreased 8,437,000; circulation increased 5,255,000; bullion decreased 3,182,000; other securities increased 706,000; public deposits decreased 1,952,000; other deposits decreased 10,490,000; notes reserve decreased 8,306,000; government securities decreased 4,675,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 43.08 per cent compared with 45.51 a week ago. Rate of discount 3 per cent.

STATE IS OVERRUN BY INVESTIGATORS

Senator Lavery Says That Publicity Seekers Are To Blame For State Probes.

New Britain, Dec. 12—(AP)—Speaking at a meeting of a luncheon club yesterday, Senator Albert E. Lavery of Bridgeport condemned publicity seekers who, he said, had been active in investigations of state institutions.

"Our state today seems to be overrun with prying investigators seeking to find something in the conduct of an institution which, if given due publicity, to their mind would justify their existence," he said. "This is not only true of some volunteer social workers but the remarkable part of it is that the state is actually spending its good money in salaries paid to imported investigators who apparently have no pride in the state as a state or its institutions as institutions. These publicity seekers creep into our institutions, find some defect in institutional management, develop it, enlarge upon it and broadcast it to the detriment of the institution itself and humiliation of the men and women who, by reason of their standing in the state, have been selected to administer its affairs.

"The trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys was one of these which was recently submitted to public degradation and general criticism not only in Connecticut but throughout the United States—the victim of a state paid agent with a penchant for publicity."

Senator Lavery, who is a trustee of the Connecticut School for Boys spoke on that institution and defended his associates on the board.

RUM SELLER FINED

New London, Dec. 12—(AP)—Vincenzo Decreseno, at whose house is alleged to have been the source of supply for the liquor which has been seeping into the Army post at Fort H. G. DISTURBING THE SYSTEM

We are told that it is going to be a big problem to distribute among the nation's destitute forty or fifty million bushels of wheat now belonging to the Federal Farm Board "without disturbing the economic system of the country." Quite often we are warned that this thing or that thing suggested by way of relief to the unemployed is likely to "disturb the economic system."

There are a great many people in this country who, from their circumstances, can hardly be expected to hold the present economic system if there is any such thing—in fived respect. People who can hardly be blamed if they conclude that the present economic system might possibly undergo a considerable amount of disturbing with benefit, if not to the system, at least to the country and themselves. There are even some persons not absolute maniacs, who will fervently deny that the hit-or-miss hodge-podge of agriculture, industry, communication, transportation, distribution and service by which we exist deserves the name of "system" at all. They will insist that you cannot ascribe that word to a collection of accidental developments.

And they will go further and stoutly maintain that if it is possible to somewhat systematize this chaotic total of activities so that it can continue to function for more than a few years at a time it would be the height of folly to let fear of disturbing the status quo prevent its being done. If a good automobile cannot be made to run without taking out half its insides in order to get at the seat of trouble, the mechanic takes out half the insides; he does not permit the car to remain forever useless or forever liable to stop in the middle of the street through nervous fear of disturbing its mechanical system.

We have had, now, something more than a year's experience of national car trouble. The old bus has been surrounded by Little Willing Helpers offering all sorts of advice, all the way from that large group which keeps shouting "Step on the starter!"—meaning to start up business by buying something—to the Communist who urges dynamiting the machine and substituting his own experimental string-and-scrap iron device. Among the crowd there are, no doubt, some folks who have real mechanical knowledge. But if they offer a suggestion immediately there goes up a cry, "But you mustn't disturb the mechanism!"

We don't pretend to know whether the scheme of giving away government food in the form of bread would result in any substantial good or not. We haven't any panacea to offer for the cure or prevention of industrial depressions. But we are quite firmly convinced that this present much vaunted "economic system" of ours isn't anything very wonderful when it breaks down every once in a while in the face of constantly improving industrial and agricultural efficiency. Also that you can't improve it any without changing it some.

belief that such burdens of taxation contained the makings of Bolshevism. "When there is placed, as there has been, upon the railroads," he said, "a tax of $160,000,000 a year in addition to their normal taxes, it is not difficult to understand how impossible it is for these railroads to maintain their rolling stock, their roadbeds, and to establish rates which will make it possible to move goods. If the sum of $160,000,000 were placed upon American railroads there would be a protest, in my judgment, which could be heard from Maine to California."

To this Senator Reed replied: "When we remember that the German nation has divested itself of any interest charges on its enormous war debt and its pre-war debt; that by permitting its currency to become valueless it has effectually despoiled its creditors and stripped itself of debt and has no interest charges as have those countries which have honored their obligations; when we remember that German reparations amount to $480,000,000 a year while our interest charges alone in America amount to over $600,000,000 a year and at one time amounted to over a billion a year; when we remember that British interest charges approximate $2,000,000 a year, four times more than German reparations, it seems to me that we are putting things in a false proportion if we sympathize too much with the plight of Germany in having to pay this comparatively small amount as the only penalty for that war which she brought on civilization, which almost wiped civilization from the globe."

The comparisons between the war burdens of Germany, the defeated, and of her victorious allies are too seldom remembered.

NEW DENATURANT

Not having had the privilege of smelling the government's new alcohol denaturant, let alone tasting of it, we have only the word of United States Commissioner Doran that it is so terrible that nobody can drink it; and because Dr. Doran says it tastes like a combination of rotten eggs and garlic we feel that we have a right to be skeptical. What is a rotten egg, to say nothing of the most strenuous of garlics, to come between a real earnest yearner after a jag and his snort of hooch? Mighty little, if one can judge by the breaths that show up in police stations now and then in company with very plain drunks.

However, probably no more alcoholic addicts will be tempted to drink this new stuff, which is called alcotote, than now succumb to the urge to experiment with the poisonous denaturants hitherto used; so that the only pronounced effect of the abandonment of wood alcohol and the substitution of this more humane substance is likely to be a considerable decrease in the death rate.

There are a few militant drys so ruthless in their passionate hatred of the vice of drinking that they will probably feel that some injury has been done the cause of prohibition by the government's determination to stop making the death penalty the price of a cheap drunk, but they are undoubtedly very few. Ordinary people will feel that the prohibition administration has done something to contribute to its own respectability.

THAT POISON FOG

The recent death-fog episode in Belgium should be and probably will be watched to its conclusion by health authorities in this country. Under direct orders of the queen the strange and fatal phenomenon is being made the subject of a searching investigation and with such auspices there is very little reason to doubt that the fatalities will be fully explained. Somewhere and somehow a very deadly poison is undoubtedly being cast off by industrial processes in the Meuse Valley, a poison which in any ordinary circumstances is dissipated in the atmosphere but which, under especial conditions such as those of the phenomenally cold and thick fog, may retain its lethal qualities until brought into contact with living victims.

Whatever the processes are that carry with them such perilous potentialities, they are probably not confined to Belgium. Like enough they are employed in this country. Authorities on this side of the water will be inquisitive in this business, not out of idle curiosity but because they will want to know if, all unsuspected, similar dangers are lurking around any of our industrial centers. If they are they will, of course, be somehow eliminated when it is once known how and where they originate.

SITTING PRETTY

Ingenious is the scheme of the New York police authorities for the protection of the life of the little Chilean stool pigeon, Acuna, who has made such startling revelations of the workings of the vice squad and a group of crooked lawyers around the Women's Court. Six police lieutenants, all in line for early promotion, have been appointed as a body guard for the witness to see that he doesn't get bumped off—a fate that otherwise would excite no surprise, in these days of higher civilization, if it should overtake this young man. The lieutenants are to work in pairs and eight hour shifts. If anything unhappy should happen to Mr. Acuna the lieutenants on duty just won't get their captaincies, that's all.

If eternal vigilance will suffice to keep the object of all this solicitude alive he wouldn't appear to be such a bad insurance risk after all. However, it is not to be supposed that three New York police lieutenants are to spend the rest of their lives standing between Mapocha Acuna and "the spot." He will have to be gotten rid of somehow. There would appear to be only one nice way of doing that, which would be to ship him back to South America. Any other state into which he might be sent would have a clear case for damages against New York.

INCOMPREHENSIBLE

One of the prime puzzles of the moment is the storm of indignation aroused in Germany by the showing of the American film version of Erich Maria Remarque's book "All Quiet on the Western Front," climaxing in the official banning of the film in that country.

If the film had taken liberties with Remarque's celebrated story, if there had been in it any added element of anti-German propaganda however slight, all this would be understandable. But if this is the same film that was shown in America and it undoubtedly is—it follows the original story with a fidelity probably never equaled in the filming of any other book. All the American producers did was to translate the work of a German writer into terms of the screen. The book had been almost universally read in Germany and aroused keen interest but no protest. The intense feeling produced by its picture is incomprehensible. As it possible that the Germans, as a nation, didn't have imagination enough to visualize what they read in "All Quiet on the Western Front?"

Health and Diet Advice
 By DR. FRANK McCOY

AVOIDING POISONS

If someone said to you, "You're too late, I've just swallowed poison," what would you do? At such a time life may hang by a thread. In order that you will know what to do, I am going to tell you how to handle some common cases of poisoning.

Many people die each year from poison taken accidentally. There are others who take poison while dependent, among them even famous people and stars of the stage and screen. Usually, most of these are rescued by the stomach pump in the emergency hospital, and the next morning they are always glad to be alive.

One who has taken poison may not lose his life and yet there is nearly always an injury done to the stomach or nervous system when strong poisons are swallowed, resulting in a damaged or inflamed condition which may last for the rest of the patient's life.

Statistics show that for some reason, Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock is the favorite hour for would-be suicides. Another curious fact is that poisonings usually occur in threes, and it also happens that more people take poisons on sunshiny than on dull days.

Today the average person does not fear poisoned wines, blades, arrows, rings or lockets, and is in no extraordinary danger of having poison dropped into his food. At one time all prominent people used to make the cook taste every dish first to be sure that no deadly poison has been added to it. Although we no longer have this fear that poison has been placed in our food, accidental poisonings from home-canned foods are fairly common. If you open a jar or can which looks, smells or tastes bad, it is better to be safe than sorry. Home-canned meats and especially sausages should be carefully inspected to guard against a severe poisoning known as botulism. We often read of people dying of spoiled food such as meat, fish, mussels or sea food, etc., or poisonous mushrooms. There is very little if any danger from commercially canned foods, as the canneries are subject to such rigid inspection, and the canners, themselves, have found that it pays to give the foods the best care possible. However, if a can is puffed out or blown out at the end, or has a leak, or if the food is discolored, it should be discarded.

Howitzers
The Howitzer Company fell in on Tuesday night dressed in melton uniforms with the new-style Pershing caps, which have just been received. The new caps are made from light colored serge material and have the long visor which was introduced by General John J. Pershing.

Major Allan L. Dexter, Regimental Plans and Training Officer, who is a former commander of the Howitzer Company, inspected the company including uniforms, equipment and general training.

After the drill refreshments were served by the committee appointed to prepare the meal.

The company basketball team played its first game of the season against the Holy Trinity Five from the north end; the game ended in a score of 27 to 18 in favor of the visiting team.

Three new corporals have been appointed effective December 1st. They are John E. Anderson, Raymond E. Longhane and Alfred V. Pianeuf.

The new issue chevrons of dark blue and olive drab have been received and are being issued to the non-commissioned officers for use upon the melton uniforms.

All company officers have received notice of a dinner and school at the state armory in Hartford upon Saturday night of this week. These schools are under the instruction of Regular Army officers and are of great benefit to all who take the courses.

The quarterly drill checks for the quarter ending November 30th have been received and were distributed to the personnel on Monday and Tuesday evenings. Although Monday is not the drill night for the Howitzer Company, nearly one-half of the company appeared to claim their checks on that night.

Sergeant Eddie Doran is nursing a badly swollen nose due to accidental contact with some immovable object during the basketball game on Tuesday evening.

The new Pershing caps were issued to Company G Monday and the men presented a smart and snappy appearance wearing their new head gear. An effort will be made to induce the men to purchase a distinctive cap insignia and if they do the result will speak for itself. After the drill a short meeting was held and the members of the company listened to a talk on the benefits of belonging to the Army and Navy Association. Members of this association receive discounts of five per cent on purchases made from stores that are members of the association. A member of the men signed up and others signified their intention of joining at a later date.

Privates Jarvis, Topping and Passanichilli are applying a coat of paint on the floor of the locker rooms. They are doing a mighty good job too. The floors needed the paint and their new bright shining surface will be greatly admired and appreciated by the men of the company.

Coca Matting will be spread in front of the lockers which it is expected will be much more comfortable to stand on in stocking covered feet, than on a cold cement floor.

Pay checks for the last quarter were distributed Monday night. It is remarkable the way the attendance increases on pay night. The "regulars" who are "Sick" every so often or have to work "overtime" or find some other excuse for being absent now and then are always "Johnny on the spot" 100 per cent when pay day comes. Monday was no exception, hence a good attendance was recorded.

Until Federal inspection which takes place Wednesday, February 4, G Company's training will be somewhat intensive. The Company failed to get the "Very Satisfactory" rating last year, and every effort will be made to put it back in the V. S. column again. If necessary to acquire the proficiency needed, drill periods will be extended to 9:30. However, it is hoped this will not be necessary and that the men will come through as is expected of them.

Howitzers
The Howitzer Company fell in on Tuesday night dressed in melton uniforms with the new-style Pershing caps, which have just been received. The new caps are made from light colored serge material and have the long visor which was introduced by General John J. Pershing.
Major Allan L. Dexter, Regimental Plans and Training Officer, who is a former commander of the Howitzer Company, inspected the company including uniforms, equipment and general training.
After the drill refreshments were served by the committee appointed to prepare the meal.
The company basketball team played its first game of the season against the Holy Trinity Five from the north end; the game ended in a score of 27 to 18 in favor of the visiting team.
Three new corporals have been appointed effective December 1st. They are John E. Anderson, Raymond E. Donahue and Alfred V. Phaneuf.
The new issue chevrons of dark blue and olive drab have been received and are being issued to the non-commissioned officers for use upon the melton uniforms.
All company officers have received notice of a dinner and school at the state army in Hartford upon Saturday night of this week. These schools are under the instruction of Regular Army officers and are of great benefit to all who take the courses.
The quarterly drill checks for the quarter ending November 30th have been received and were distributed to the personnel on Monday and Tuesday evenings. Although Monday is not the drill night for the Howitzer Company, nearly one-half of the company appeared to claim their checks on that night.
Sergeant Eddie Doran is nursing a badly swollen nose due to accidental contact with some immovable object during the basketball game on Tuesday evening.
The new Pershing caps were issued to Company G Monday and the men presented a smart and snappy appearance wearing their new head gear. An effort will be made to induce the men to purchase a distinctive cap insignia and if they do the result will speak for itself. After the drill a short meeting was held and the members of the company listened to a talk on the benefits of belonging to the Army and Navy Association. Members of this association receive discounts of five per cent on purchases made from stores that are members of the association. A member of the men signed up and others signified their intention of joining at a later date.

Privates Jarvis, Topping and Passenichilli are applying a coat of paint on the floor of the locker rooms. They are doing a mighty good job too. The floors needed the paint and their new bright shining surface will be greatly admired and appreciated by the men of the company.
Coca Matting will be spread in front of the lockers which it is expected will be much more comfortable to stand on in stocking covered feet, than on a cold cement floor.
Pay checks for the last quarter were distributed Monday night. It is remarkable the way the attendance increases on pay night. The "regulars" who are "Sick" every so often or have to work "overtime" or find some other excuse for being absent now and then are always "Johnny on the spot" 100 per cent when pay day comes. Monday was no exception, hence a good attendance was recorded.
Until Federal inspection which takes place Wednesday, February 4, G Company's training will be somewhat intensive. The Company failed to get the "Very Satisfactory" rating last year, and every effort will be made to put it back in the V. S. column again. If necessary to acquire the proficiency needed, drill periods will be extended to 9:30. However, it is hoped this will not be necessary and that the men will come through as is expected of them.

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON," "THE AVENGING PARROT" and "MURDER BACKSTAIRS" © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JAUNITA SELIM is murdered at bridge. Replaying the "death hand" casts suspicion on the following: FLORA MILES, in Nita's closet reading a note sent to Nita which she thinks is from her husband; POLLY BEALE and CLIVE HAMMOND, together in the solarium; DEXTER SPRAGUE, who wrote the note to Nita and who came to Hamilton at her own suggestion; JUDGE MARSHALL, whose gun, equipped with a Maxim silencer, was used for the murder; JOHN DRAKE, interested in Nita; LYDIA, the maid, who says she did not hear LOIS DUNLAP, in the dining room with TRACEY MILES, ring for her; JANET RAYMOND, who says she was on the porch.

DUNDEE, special investigator, releases the guests and offers to guard the house until midnight. Looking in Nita's desk, he finds from her checkbook that she had no rent to Judge Marshall, her landlord; that she had deposited $10,000 since she came in the bank of which Drake is vice president, the amount indicating blackmail; and that she had paid Lydia $4 a week. Dundee also finds her will, in an envelope sealed and unopened. The contents of this will send him down to the maid's room. He asks

Lydia, whose face has been horribly burned, why she didn't tell him that Nita had burned her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

Lydia Carr, still clothed in the black cotton dress and white apron of her maid's uniform, struggled to a sitting position on the edge of her basement room bed.

"No, no! That's a lie! It was an accident, I tell you—my own fault! ... Who dared to say Nita—Miss Nita—did it?"

"Better lie down, Lydia," Dundee suggested gently. "I don't want you fainting. You've had a hard day with the abscessed tooth, the dope the dentist gave you, and—other things. I don't wonder that you lost your head, went a little crazy, 'erhaps—"

The detective's sinister implication seemed to make no impression at all upon the woman with the scarred face.

"I asked you—she gasped, her single eye glaring at him, "who dared say Nita burned me?"

"It was Nita herself, who told me," Dundee answered softly. "Just a few minutes ago."

"Holy Mother!" the maid gasped.

Let her think the dead woman had appeared to him in a vision, Dundee told himself. Perhaps her confession would come the quicker—

The maid began to rock her gaunt body, her arms crossed over her flat chest. "My poor little girl! Even in death she thinks of me, she's sorry—she sent me a message, didn't she? Tell me! She was always trying to comfort me, sir! The poor little thing couldn't believe I'd forgiven her as soon as she done it—"

"Yes," Dundee agreed, his eyes watching her keenly. "She sent you a message—of a sort ... But I can't give it to you until you have told me all about the accident in which you were burned."

"I'll tell," Lydia promised eagerly. Gone was the harshness and secretiveness with which she had met his earlier questioning ... "You see, sir, I loved Miss Nita—I called her Nita, if you don't mind, sir. I loved her like she was my own child. And she was fonder of me, too, fonder of me than of anybody in the world, she used to tell me, when some man had hurt her bad ... And there was always some man or other, she was so sweet and so pretty ... Well, I found her in the bathroom one day, just ready to drink poison, to kill her poor little self—"

"When was that, Lydia?" Dundee interrupted.

"It was in February—Sunday, the ninth of February," Lydia went on, still rocking in an agony of grief. "I tried to take the glass out of her hands. She'd poured a lot of the stuff out of the bottle ... You see, she was already in a fit of nerves, and she'd never have tried to kill herself ... It was my own fault trying to take the glass away from her, like I did—"

"She flung the acid into your face?" Dundee asked, shuddering.

"Yes," Dundee cried, glaring at him. "Nearly went out of her mind, they told me at the hospital, because she'd hurt me ... A private room in the best hospital in New York she got for me, trained nurses night and day, and so many doctors fussing around me I wanted to fire the whole outfit and save some of my poor girl's money—which I don't know how she got hold of till this day—"

Dundee let her sob and rock her arms for a while unmolested. In February Nita Selim had had to borrow money to pay doctor and hospital bills. Had borrowed it or "gold-dug" it ... And in May she had been rich enough to have $9000 to invest!

"Lydia, you never forgave Nita Selim for ruining your life as well as your face?" Dundee charged her suddenly.

"You're a liar!" she cried passionately. "I know what I felt! It's my face and my life, ain't it? I tell you I didn't even bear a grudge against her—the poor little thing! Eating her heart out with sorrow for what she'd done—till the very day of her death! Always trying to make it up to me—paying me too much money for the handful of work I had to do, what with her eating out nearly all the time and throwing away stockings the minute they got a run in 'em—Forgive her? I'd have crawled from here to New York on my hands and knees for Nita Leigh!"

Dundee studied her horribly scarred face, made more horrible now by what looked like genuine grief.

"Lydia, who was the man over whom your mistress wanted to commit suicide?"

The single, tear-redened eye glared at him suspiciously, then became wary. "I don't know."

"Was it Dexter Sprague, Lydia?"

"Sprague?" She spat the name out contemptuously. "No! She didn't know him then, except to speak to at the moving picture studio."

"When did he become her—lover, Lydia?" Dundee asked casually.

The woman stiffened, became menacingly hostile. "Who says he was her lover? You can't trick me, Mr. Detective! I'd cut out my tongue before I'd let you make me say one word against my poor girl!"

Dundee shrugged. He knew a stone wall when he ran up against one.

"Lydia," he began again, after a thoughtful pause, "I have proof that Nita Leigh Selim was sure you had never forgiven her for the injury she did you." His fingers touched the letter in his pocket—the incredible "Last Will and Testament" which Nita had written the day before she was murdered.

"And that's another lie!" the woman cried, shaking with anger. She struggled to her feet, stood swaying dizzily a moment. "Come upstairs with me to her room, and I'll show you some proof that I forgave her! ... Come along, I tell you! ... Trying to make me say I killed my poor girl, when I'd have died for her—Come on, I tell you!"

And Dundee, wondering, beginning to doubt his own conviction a little—that conviction which had sprung full-grown out of Nita's strange, informal will, and which had seemed to explain everything—followed Lydia Carr from her basement room to the bedroom in which Nita had been murdered.

"See this!" and Lydia Carr snatched up the powder box from the dressing table. Her long, bony fingers busied themselves with frantic haste and suddenly into the silence of the room came the tinkle of music. "I bought her this—for a present, out of my own money, soon as I got out of the hospital," the maid's voice shrilled over the slow, tinkly notes.

"It's playing her name song—Jaunita. It was playing that song when she died. I stood there in the doorway and heard it—"

And she pointed toward the door leading from Nita's room into the back hall. "She loved it and used it all the time, because I gave it to her ... And this!"

She set the musical powder box upon the dressing table and rushed across the room to one of the several lamps that hung from the ceiling on his first survey of the room. It was the largest and grandest of the collection—a huge bowl of filigreed bronze, set with innumerable stones, as large as marbles, or larger. Red, blue and green stones that must have cast a strange radiance over the pretty head that had been wont to lie just beneath it, on the heaped lace pillows of the chaise longue, Dundee reflected.

As if Lydia had read his thoughts, she jerked at the little chain which hung from the bottom of the big bronze bowl against the heavy metal standard.

"I gave her this—saved up for it out of my own money!" she was assuring him with savage triumph in proving her point. "And she loved it so she brought it with us when we came from New York. It won't light! It was working all right last night, because my poor little girl was lying there, looking so pretty under the colored lights!"

With strong twists of her big hands Lydia began to unscrew the filigreed bronze bowl. As she lifted it off she exclaimed blankly: "Why, look! The light bulb's—"

But Dundee had already seen—not only the broken light bulb but the explanation of the queer noise that Flora Miles had described hysterically over and over, as "a bang or a bump." The chaise longue stood between the two windows and at that opened upon the drive. And at the head of the chaise longue stood the big lamp, just a few inches from the wall and only a foot from the window frame upon which Dr. Price had penciled the point which indicated the end of the imaginary line along which the shot which killed Nita Leigh Selim had traveled.

The "bang or bump" which Flora Miles had heard had been made by the knocking of the big lamp against the wall. And undoubtedly the one who had bumped into the lamp was Nita's murderer—or murderer—in frantic haste to make an escape.

And that meant that the murderer had fled toward the back hall, not through the window in front of which he had stood, not through the door leading onto the front porch ... A little progress, at least!

But Lydia was not through proving that she had forgiven her mistress. She was snatching things from Nita's clothes closet—

"See these mules with their ostrich feathers? I gave 'em to my girl! ... And this bed jacket? I embroidered the flowers on it with my own hands—"

Through her flood of proof Dundee heard the whirr of a car's engine, then the loud banging of a car's door ... Running footsteps on the flagstone path ... Dundee reached the front door just as the bell pealed shrilly. ...

RHEUMATIC ILLS ON INCREASE AS SCIENCE FAILS TO FIND REMEDY

BY DOCTOR MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Chronic inflammation of the joints has been found in the skeletons of reptiles that lived long before the days of man.

The tissue of the cave bear and saber-toothed tiger show the marks of this infection. It was as prevalent in the prehistoric dweller of upper Egypt as among the first inhabitants of Great Britain.

It represents today one of the most serious of the complaints that attack human beings and which science is as yet resisting with but indifferent success. The number of deaths attributed to rheumatic diseases and their complications rises steadily.

Gout, for a while an apparently declining disease, begins to show an increased rate in recent years. In a review of the subject for the Ministry of Health in Great Britain, Dr. J. Allison Glover emphasizes the importance of the condition in London hospitals, pointing out that as many as 40 per cent of patients seen in watering resorts are sufferers from this chronic form of disorder.

In a great American clinic, seven per cent of the patients treated are sufferers from chronic arthritis, as were also seven per cent of the patients in a municipal hospital in Berlin. Eleven per cent of the patients reported by Boston hospitals as suffering from chronic and incurable diseases were the victims of chronic arthritis, whereas 19 per

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

BY ALICIA HART
© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Proud ladies are less likely to sag under the chin than meek ladies who hang their heads.

Just another reason for lifting your head above life's battles and keeping it there!

If you have let yourself take on a double chin, or—heaven forbid—a triple one, you really deserve a slapping and should give it to yourself, and many of them, right where the chin is the fattest.

Slapping and astrings are the best possible treatments for double chins. And of course dieting. If you have a good padding all over your body and haven't noticed until some one made a remark—in all friendliness—about your double chin, then step on a scale. Chances are that you will find you are frightfully overweight.

Diet should be imperative. The subject of diet we will take up later. Right now consider the actual chin treatment that should go along with it, in order to reduce your chin and not have it hang flabby.

In the first place, if you sleep on a high pillow, or any pillow at all, that encourages double chin. The carriage of your head, asleep and awake, has more to do with the contour of your chin than you may have imagined.

Sleep without a pillow and try to hold your neck and your chin up. Begin your chin treatment by massage, up from the center of the chin, towards the ears. Massage the back of the neck and the muscles going out towards the shoulders too. Then throw back your head, and begin quick stroking massage of the chin, first with one hand and then with the other, from the base of the neck up and off the edge of the chin. When you have done this 10 or 12 times, then slap on astrings and slap your neck as long as you have time to give to this. Do it mornings and nights and at noon time if you can take a little time off. Keep the neck moist with astrings while you slap. Don't be too easy on your double chins. They deserve little consideration. But of course do not be so firm-fingered that you injure the skin.

Exercise, massage and slapping will stir circulation, stimulate it and aid in breaking down the fat that has accumulated there. Only by this type of method can you hope to replace the flabby extra skin there with firm, smooth muscles.

Last, but quite important, tie up the chin at night. Get a chin strap that fits, or make one yourself out of gauze bandage. Tie your chin up just after you finish slapping. Also before going out evenings, lie down for 20 minutes with your chin tied up with astrings.

Persistent attention to that double chin will bring results. Just know it will. And keep at it!

Biggest Minor Leagues Hope To Equal Majors

Have Visions of Growing On a Par With American and National Leagues In Three Or Four Years.

By HERBERT W. BARKER

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Definitely alienated from the majors the three big minor leagues, American Association, International and Pacific Coast circuits, hoped, today to build their organizations to the point where they can challenge baseball supremacy of the National and American leagues.

Charles H. Strub, president of the San Francisco Club of the Pacific Coast League, thinks the minors in three or four years can so develop their circuits as to compete on equal terms with the major leagues.

Strub pointed out that the three class AA organizations have a far wider distribution than the majors, covering as they do the country from the east coast to the west. He believes that the big minors by keeping their stars instead of selling them to the majors can develop within a few years to leagues of major classification, in fact if not in name.

The wide open split between the two groups came over the question of optioning out players for seasons at the price to be paid for athletes selected in the draft. The majors wanted to be able to draft players who had had four years experience in the minors any where. The class AA minors insisted they be allowed to hold a player three years regardless of what previous minor league experience he had had. As for the draft price the majors offered $7,500 where $17,500 had been offered at the recent Cleveland conference. The big minors declined to accept any sum less than $10,000.

Most observers felt that a costly baseball war was in the making with both parties to the dispute sure to suffer financially through increased expenses, particularly in the price of playing talent. There were no signs at all that either would move one inch from the positions they took at yesterday's conference. A peaceful solution may be found, but it does not seem likely.

NOTRE DAME STARS ARRIVE TOMORROW

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Knute Rockne and his Notre Dame All-Stars will arrive in New York tomorrow for the benefit football game against the N. Y. Giants at the Polo Grounds on Sunday.

Rockne and his all-star outfit picked from the long list of former Notre Dame stars will be greeted at the station and then given a motorcar ride to city hall where Mayor Walker is to tender the official welcome. The Rockne party will consist of 36 players, three coaches and a trainer.

The Rose Bowl, scene of the annual Tournament of Roses football game at Pasadena, Cal., has been enlarged to seat 76,000 persons for the 1931 contest.

ALAN GOULD ASSOCIATED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

If we had obeyed that impulse early in November, after watching Notre Dame smear Pennsylvania, and nominated the Rough Riders en masse, in toto or collectively as the All-America eleven for 1930, it would all have been so much simpler.

Marshall Duffield remarked after the Southern California game that he had just finished a futile afternoon's work trying to buck the All-America team.

The "Irish" roster carries out the idea very well, for Rockne re-creates his forces from east, south, mid-west and far west.

Frank Carideo, the All-America quarterback, is from the vicinity of New York City. So is Kosky, Conley and Brill are from Philadelphia. Bucky O'Connor is a New Jersey boy.

Yarr, the star center, is from the state of Washington. Tom Kassis is from Wyoming. Mullins and O'Brien from Los Angeles. Metzger and Culver from Chicago. "Marchie" Schwartz from the bayou section of Mississippi.

Rockne's gallopers all must have looked alike, especially to the radio announcers at Los Angeles. One account gave Capt. Tom Conley credit for the first two touchdowns scored against Southern California.

Tom's back east were advised that their boy was covering himself with glory, but it developed in the papers the next morning that Frank Carideo and Paul O'Connor had actually toted the ball across the goal line on these occasions.

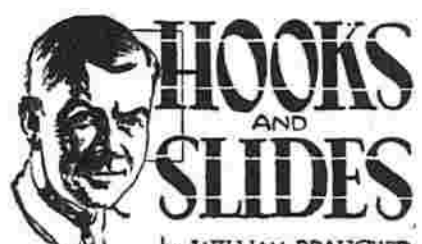

Eastern football prestige, like a drowning man clutching at any life-saving object, has about decided to annex itself to the Notre Dame chariot for the purpose of having a rebuttal when the gridiron topic is brought up by a Californian in particular or far westerner in general.

There is a strong enough bond, anyway, between Notre Dame, Rockne and his boys on the one hand, the eastern seaboard on the other, to make this a very pleasing arrangement, especially with the Rough Riders manifesting an ability to succeed where Army, Dartmouth, Pittsburgh and others have failed consistently in recent years.

Neither the Dickinson nor the Azzi Ratem system is needed to prove that Notre Dame is entitled to the national gridiron championship of 1930, with all the trimmings, trophies and tributes involved.

The Rough Riders took 'em on from the south, east, mid-west and far west. The closest call was against Army, but the teams that made the most substantial headway through the Notre Dame defense were Northwestern and Southern Methodist.

The case of S. M. U. might be used to exploit the fine brand of football played in the Southwest conference. The Mustangs were on the short end of a 20-14 count in the first game of the season for Notre Dame. Subsequently Southern Methodist trimmed Indiana and Navy as decisively as did the Rough Riders, but was licked by two conference rivals in Texas and tied by another.

A TIP TO DAPPER JACK

We are just a trifle concerned about Jack Kearns. The other day Jack sent out a bulletin to the boys, stating in effect that even the date of the Mickey Walker-Max Schmeling match for next year had been set.

Oh, yes, May 31, 1931, at Soldiers' Field! To which our only comment at this time will be that May 31 happens to fall on Sunday.

Horween Goes Back Arnold Horween, Harvard's coach, returns to the tannery in Chicago, his work for the year done well in beating Yale. No more, says he, will he coach the Crimson.

I think Yale will agree that Horween is in the right business in Chicago. Considering that the Bulldog was pretty thoroughly tanned this year, and last year, and the year before that.

Point After Touchdown Football is a game that gets its name from the practice of kicking a leather-covered spheroid. Naturally, you kick with your feet. Aside from punting and booting field goals, the try for points after touchdowns is the only kicking you see in a football game these days, aside from kicking ribs, etc.

Success in kicking the point after touchdown often brings a team victory. It is a department of the game. If they do away with kicking (I mean the football) why call it football? Is it not important that skill in kicking be retained?

Hunk Anderson Trains Hunk Anderson, hard hitting Notre Dame guard of 1921, and assistant to Rockne, went into training for that Thanksgiving morning battle between veterans of Northwestern and Notre Dame teams.

Training, of course, involved cessation of smoking. Hunk acquiesced. He bought a plug of chewing tobacco.

Andy High Goes Back The wires carried a tale the other day about Andy High's being sent back to Rochester, the St. Louis Cardinals' farm. A couple of months ago, every other day or so, the wires carried tales of the pinch hitting of Andy High winning ball games for the Cardinals at a time when the winning of ball games was most important. But then, of course, organized baseball is professional. Riding the trains is part of the life.

Nibs Takes a Ride, Too Nibs Price is going to ride some trains, too. A coach, especially at a big school like California, is supposed to win football games. Let somebody else lose them. But then, of course, collegiate football is an amateur affair.

Auburn has outscored Georgia in 34 football games, 296 to 276. Georgia has won 16 of the contests.

East Hartford Again Target for Manchester

Tonight Manchester High school faces a grand opportunity to get away to a flying start in the race for the Central Connecticut Interscholastic basketball league pennant race when it journeys to East Hartford for another crack at the weak combination upon which Coach Johnny McGrath has to bank its hopes.

Only last Friday Manchester gave East Hartford a 37 to 17 drubbing. There is no reason why Coach Wilfred J. Clarke's outfit should not win again tonight. The score may be closer, but that will not matter so long as the Clarke tribe wins.

Manchester's chief enemy tonight will be over-confidence, but Coach Clarke will no doubt warn his charges along this line. Bristol High also opens its league season tonight playing at West Hartford and the defending title-holders may find the going rather difficult. West Hartford gave the Monahanians a hard battle last year. Bristol won its opening game from Terryville with ease. A victory tonight for Manchester will, of course, give Manchester a nice start on its attempt to nose out Bristol this season.

Coach Clarke said today that there would be no changes in his lineup this evening from that of last Friday. The next game for Manchester will be a non-league affair at Rockville a week from tonight. The following Friday the High school will tackle its Alumni in its first game on the Army court to which it has shifted to accommodate a larger crowd and also gave the players more room for passwork.

COACHES, WRITERS, OFFICIALS TO JOIN IN NEA SELECTIONS

Representative All-America Board To Name All-America Elevens In The Herald Tomorrow.

BY L. S. "Larry" MacPherson

Chairman, NEA Service Board for the Selection of All-America Elevens

For the first time in history, the All-America football elevens are to be selected this year by a representative All-America board, composed of sports writers, coaches and officials in every section of the country.

Through NEA Service, organizer of the All-America board, The Herald tomorrow will be able to give its readers the most representative All-America team chosen in the last 41 years of such selection—since Walter Camp sat down with a pencil and chose his first All-America eleven.

The board has a membership of 33, allotted according to the eight geographical divisions of the National Football Rules Committee, with six members-at-large. These divisions are the East, South, Southwest, Pacific, Rocky Mountain, Missouri Valley, Big Ten and Middle-Western districts. In each section a sports writer, coach, and official have named to report and vote on All-America selections.

More than 500 recommendations for the All-America teams were submitted for the final vote of the board membership. In this final

STOWE TO COVER BAT-CHOC SCRAP

Title Bout to Be Broadcast Over WTIC at 10 O'Clock This Evening.

A large number of Manchester boxing lovers are planning to be at the ringside tonight when Bat Battalino puts his featherweight title at stake in a match with Kid Chocolate in New York.

Hundreds of others will sit by the radio and listen to the broadcast that comes over WTIC starting at 10 o'clock with Graham McNamee and Ford Erick announcing.

Tomorrow noon The Herald will carry complete details of the championship battle. Thomas W. Stowe, Herald sports editor, will be at the ringside and will wire his opinions.

In addition, The Herald will carry a coverage by the Associated Press. Stowe will remain in New York for the Army-Navy football game tomorrow and the contest between the New York Giants and the Notre Dame Stars on Sunday.

After the radio broadcast of the Battalino-Chocolate fight tonight, the Stribling-Griffith bout at Chicago will go on the air at 11 o'clock. Tomorrow afternoon WTIC will also carry the Army-Navy game starting with the pre-game drilling at 12:30.

STRIBLING MAY GET A SURPRISE

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., will risk his pre-eminence in challenger for the world heavyweight championship against the charges of Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Iowa, youth in the Chicago Stadium tonight. The Georgian was a 2 to 1 favorite today and there was lots of Griffiths conversation but little Griffiths money.

Stribling's standing among the heavyweights is of first rank—due largely to his decisive knockout over Otto Von Forst, Phil Scott and K. O. Christian, which have made the fans overlook his less impressive bouts.

BENDER WITH GIANTS

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Chief Bender, one of the wildest of the old-timers is going south with the N. Y. Giants next spring but not to pitch. He has been signed as a special instructor for Roy Parmalee, a young right-hander. Parmalee has lots of stuff but his control, is bad. Manager John McGraw thinks Bender can show him his faults.

Champion Figured To Wear His Man Down In 15 Rounds

Associated Press Reports Chocolate Has Slipped Badly and Can't Take Body Beating; Tonight Will Show the Truth of Conditions.

"down the river." Since his disappointing showing with Fidel Barba, they are convinced he is through, at least for the time being. They contend he no longer can take a body beating without losing his speed and effectiveness.

Chocolate certainly gave no indication that he was enjoying himself when La Barba belted him around the mid-section in their recent match. He winced repeatedly every time La Barba's jolting hooks crashed through his guard.

Battalino, whatever his shortcomings in the matter of skill and speed, can "take it" and can punch with good effect to the body. In 15 rounds he should have plenty of chance to discover whether Chocolate really has developed any serious weakness.

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Christopher (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, Conn., rough and tough body puncher stakes his world featherweight crown in a 15-round battle with Kid Chocolate, clever Cuban negro in Madison Square Garden tonight.

For the first time in his spectacular career, Chocolate may enter the ring an underdog in the betting. Prospects today were that the champion would be on the long end of the odds of 6 or 7 to 5. The experts have sold Chocolate

Several tickets were sold for $2 each and a high school boy would be sent with the ticket and would collect the money.

The local legion boys hearing of the men working here made an investigation and the police also investigated and found the young men were working under the direction of a member of the organization. They had credentials. They agreed to leave town and withdrew from the local field on Thursday.

They will be linked to the microphones of a net network, the WABC group and combined WEAF-WJZ chains.

Veteran sports announcers will give the story of the battle in addition to the pre-game ceremonies. Ted Husing, assisted by Knute Rockne, coach of Notre Dame, will be on the air for the WABC chain at 12:15 p. m. Graham McNamee for WEAF-WJZ which starts to broadcast at 12:30 is to have Arthur P. McNulty as his aide. The game itself is to begin at 1 p. m.

MEXICO EXPELS NEW YORK BANKER

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Luis Gallopin, known here as a New York banker, and said to be in Mexico as an agent of European holders of the Mexican external debt, sailed from here today aboard the French steamer Espagne for Havana after expulsion from this country.

The official version of the expulsion is not known here, but Gallopin said that four agents of the government cornered him on a Mexico City street, made him enter an automobile and drove him to the Valbuena flying field where they put him into an airplane which brought him to Vera Cruz. Here they obtained a third class passage on the Espagne for him and saw that he went aboard immediately. A newspaperman here lent him enough money for expenses en route to Havana.

It is supposed here that Gallopin's lobbying activities in opposition to the Luis Montes de Oca-Lamont agreement for liquidation of Mexico's foreign debt led to his expulsion.

EINSTEIN NO MYSTERY TO STEAMER'S STEWARD

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—No man—not even Professor Einstein—is a mystery to his steward. So says John Delgado, of the liner Soerenga, who looked out for the German scientist's welfare on his voyage to America.

"Sure, I understand him," says Delgado, "he is just like me. He likes to be quiet. I always knew just what he wanted."

Delgado listed Dr. Einstein's department in this manner: He liked his bath very hot. He scorned a dress suit. He hid his pencils and paper. He looked at the stars all night. He ate double portions of grapes. He was silent but friendly. He never complained.

"What a passenger," said Delgado. "I wish I had to take care of twenty Einsteins. I never saw anyone like that before. Whenever I inquired if he wanted anything, he just said 'Schon gut.'"

"Yes sir, that's the kind of a man I understand."

NO CABINET YET; FRANCE WORRIES

Cabinet Crisis Drags Along For Over a Week and No Agreement Is Near.

Paris, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Senator Theodore Steege, premier designate, informed President Doumergue today that he had not yet succeeded in forming a Cabinet, but that he would continue his task today and inform the president of the results tonight.

France began to wonder whether President Doumergue eventually will not be obliged to resort to the drastic expedient of dissolving Parliament as a resolution to the ministerial crisis which has dragged along for more than a week.

There is a precedent for such a

NEWSPAPERS SCORE CHURCHILL SPEECH

London, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Winston Churchill, vigorous British Tory of the Empire school, was compared to George III, monarch whose colonial policies cost England her American colonies, by the Daily Herald in an editorial today vigorously condemning the former chancellor for his speech on India in the Commons yesterday.

The Herald, which is the organ of the Labor Party and indirectly the ministry, declared that Mr. Churchill's speech was eloquent with evil, and it called for a repudiation of his disapproval of the round table conference and its work for greater Indian autonomy by the responsible statesmen of every party.

"Could blindness to history go further?" the Herald asks. "This was the temper of George III in dealing with America."

The liberal News Chronicle regarded the utterance as wicked and parts of it as grossly offensive: "We do not believe that Stanley Baldwin (Conservative Party leader) would dare to give it approval and it is his duty to repudiate it immediately in the plainest terms."

The Conservative Post on the other hand described the address as "characteristically patriotic and forcible," and stated a belief that "millions of Indians will be grateful for the firm candid assertion of British right and purpose to maintain the Indian empire under good government."

The Manchester Guardian referred to the Churchill speech as "peculiarly mischievous," asserting that the Tory statesman had virtually repudiated the round table conference which the "vast majority of Englishmen are watching anxiously, knowing that if the conference fails the future of India will be black indeed."

JOHN JAY'S BIRTH
On Dec. 12, 1745, John Jay, an eminent American jurist, was born in New York City, the son of a wealthy merchant.

Following his graduation from Columbia College in 1764, Jay studied law in New York City and soon attained eminence in his profession. He was a delegate to the First Continental Congress in 1774 and formed one of the committees of three which drew up the celebrated address to the people of Great Britain in which the "rights of the colonies" were stated.

After he had served as chief justice of New York and president of the Provincial Congress of New York, Jay was appointed United States minister to Spain. His real diplomatic fame, however, rests with his services at Paris, whence he had gone to join Franklin in negotiating the treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States. Jay is considered to have had a prominent share on the American side in the signing of the Treaty of 1783.

When he returned to New York, Jay was appointed secretary for foreign affairs. Upon the organization of the federal government he was allowed by Washington his choice of all the public offices to be filled by the president's appointment. He chose to be chief justice of the supreme court, which position he filled with marked dignity and ability until 1795.

Several from this place motored to the High school hall at South Manchester last Wednesday evening where they enjoyed the three-act comedy play "Deacon Dibble" which was presented by the members of Manchester Grange.

Mrs. Theodore Peterson and infant have returned to their home here, from the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Erastus D. Burnham of Pleasant Valley Road entertained recently at the Haywood Grill in East Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Burnham of South Windsor, Mrs. E. E. Clark and daughter, Miss Elma Clark, of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Segge and Master Donald Segge of this town.

The Pleasant Valley Club will hold a home and fancy work sale at the school house next Saturday, December 13, at 2 o'clock. A free chance on a one-pound box of chocolate will be given to anyone purchasing food or fancy work. There will also be a turkey raffled off at the sale.

BUILDING U. S. PLANES
UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Washington, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Admiral Moffett believes building up the aircraft squadrons of the Navy to the full strength permitted by the London treaty would be the finest kind of unemployment relief.

He told Secretary Adams so in the annual report of his Aeronautics Bureau, which was made public today. His plan would mean 55,200 tons of aircraft carriers and a lot of cruisers carrying landing decks.

The bureau chief also asked for legislation to increase the present limit of 1,000 planes under the 5-year aircraft program to 1,125, so additional planes might be allotted the naval bases at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Coco Solo in the Canal Zone.

Other recommendations were for larger enlisted personnel for maintenance and overhaul of planes at Hampton Roads, Virginia, and San Diego, California, or an increased appropriation for civilian labor, and pursuance of the policy of increasing the number of naval reserves in aviation.

BUILDING U. S. PLANES

Washington, Dec. 12. (AP)—Admiral Moffett believes building of the aircraft squadrons of the Navy to the full strength permitted by the London treaty would be the finest kind of unemployment relief.

He told Secretary Adams so in the annual report of his Aeronautics Bureau, which was made public today. His plan would mean $5,200,000 of aircraft carriers and a lot of cruisers carrying landing decks.

The bureau chief also asked for legislation to increase the present limit of 1,000 planes under the 5-year aircraft program to 1,125, so that the planes might be allotted the naval bases at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Coco Solo in the Canal Zone.

Other recommendations were for larger enlisted personnel for maintenance and overhaul of planes at Hampton Roads, Virginia, and San Diego, California, or an increased appropriation for civilian labor, and pursuance of the policy of increasing the number of naval reserves in aviation.
