money. This action is reported to have affected the Riverside first and then the Pallotti, Andretta Company until both had to be closed to protect the interests of depositors. Bank Commissioner Shippee announced that he would make every effort to avoid liquidation of the Riverside Trust Co. This bank has assets of $5,200,000. Its capital is $400,000, surplus $600,000, commercial deposits $1,600,000 and savings deposits $1,084,000. ### BRANCH ALSO CLOSED

New Haven, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The local branch of Pallotti, Andretta & Co., bankers in lower Chapel street, was closed at noon today by order of State Bank Commissioner Shippee. This action was taken because of the closing of the main office of the company at Hartford. It was also done as a precautionary measure against a very heavy run on depositors after they had heard of the commissioner's action at the Hartford office.

QUAKE IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The south portion of St. Louis, a residential section, experienced an earthquake shock today, a noticeable tremor which lasted one minute, shaking houses and frightening residents. ### BON AMI WORKERS GET BONUS TOMORROW

Employees of Orford Soap Company To Get Eleven Days' Vacation. Also.

The Orford Soap Company of Hilliard street will shut down for eleven days following the completion of tomorrow's regular working schedule. This closing will give the 150 employees nearly a two week's Christmas vacation.

All of the employees will receive the annual Christmas bonus. These bonuses range from seven and a half to fifteen percent according to length of service. W. W. Robertson, head of the firm, said that he did not believe the brief closing would seriously affect the employees inasmuch as the mill is operating on a steady schedule.

Mr. Robertson took occasion to state that the business outlook for 1931 was bright. He called attention to the expansion of Bon Ami not only in Canada but also in Australia as well, adding that these moves speak for themselves as to the growth of the Bon Ami industry.

POLICE COURT

Donald Miller of Bolton was found not guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in the Manchester Police Court this morning. The case was continued from Monday morning. Miller was arrested by Traffic Officer Joseph Prentice on Center street last Friday night. Attorney W. S. Hyde appeared for Miller in court. The officer said that his attention was called to the manner in which Miller was driving, weaving back and forth in the road. Sergeant John McGinn was at the station when he was brought in. Dr. D. C. Y. Moore was called at once to examine Miller. On the witness stand this morning both the officers testified that Miller was intoxicated and in an unfit condition to drive a car.

Dr. Moore told the court that he put Miller to the usual tests and that he responded very well. It was what the doctor termed a borderline case. However, he would not say that he was unfit to drive. Judge Johnson in giving his decision said that the court must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt and that the expert testimony of Dr. Moore showed plainly that there was no doubt. Consequently he gave Miller the benefit of the doubt and found him not guilty.

Erwin Hayes of 50 Bissell street became intoxicated last night and kicked up a row at his home. Complaint was made to the police and he was placed under arrest. The young man apparently did not know what he was doing. He so stated to the judge. Hayes has a wife and two children and has work to go to. The judge found him guilty and imposed a fine of $10 and costs in each count and remitted $10 of the fine and allowed him time to raise the money.

The distribution of gifts followed, which were in the main, fruits, nuts, candy, a small sum of money and a Christmas card, all of which were gratefully received.

OPEN FORUM

Editor, The Herald:
Perhaps, not all the readers will think of our most distinguished Herald on Christmas Day. But some readers have a silver tongue and some have a heavy tongue! The Herald has both tongues. Iron and silver.

Once a very distinguished professor said: The Bible and the newspaper both have one task—a leader in truth and right, equal rights to all! This noble task the Manchester Herald has fulfilled. And I would call the Herald the heart and soul of South Manchester, and he uses hammer and anvil when necessary.

Perhaps only a few think what a responsible task a newspaper has. And we all wish to the Manchester Herald the best Christmas wishes and a bright and better New Year!

South Manchester, Conn.
December 23, 1930.

authority so far as the House itself is concerned. There is no sentiment in the House either among the Democrats or the Republicans for an extra session.

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, supported Borah's demand. An extra session was desirable, he said, for dealing with additional farm relief legislation, the disposition of Muscle Shoals and action on the bill to regulate the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

"We have an extra session?" he asked. "If the President is not playing politics with human misery what is it that he dreads? I regret the constitutional limitation on the length of the session. Congress ought to adjourn when it is through and not before."

An augmented force at the post-office has been attacking an ever increasing amount of mail since Sunday when the largest single shipment of packages ever received here was checked. The volume of outgoing shipments is said to be nearly equal to that of a year ago.

FIRST SNOWSTORM BOON TO JOBLESS

Many Get Work Clearing Sidewalks—Stops Some Jobs, However.

The first real snowstorm of the winter season blanketed Manchester today. It had one redeeming aspect in that it provided street-cleaning work for many of the town's unemployed. A depth of four inches of snow had collected at 9 o'clock this morning and it was still snowing at that time with no signs of any immediate abatement.

The storm gave Manchester a true Christmas appearance leaving the branches of the trees and the roofs of buildings with a white coating for the first time this winter. Moderate temperature prevailed so that beyond slippery footing, the storm brought no real discomfort to those who had to venture forth.

The snow was just enough to make the manufacture of snowballs a simple task and your young men of Manchester, of course, saw pleasure in that especially since schools are closed for the Christmas holiday. And in a similar way, the snow brought the season's first sliding and also skiing for those who enjoy this more skillful sport. The snow put an abrupt termination to skating but as soon as the storm terminates, a gang of workmen will set about the task of removing the snow from Center Springs Pond.

The first flakes of the storm fell shortly after midnight increasing in intensity until the air was full of large heavy flakes. The weather man had predicted "possibly some snow" last night and this morning he indicated that the snow might turn to rain later in the day. The mercury climbed above the freezing point coming to a rest in the low thirties.

Clear Roads

The town and state snow plows were out bright and early clearing the highways and the Connecticut Company trolleys operated on an average of only five or six minutes late during the morning rush hour and shortly afterward were back on schedule. There were no trolley mishaps, although one of the company's crewmen went out of commission opposite the Carlyle-Johnson Machine Company on Bakery Hill at the north end and remained there for several hours.

The principal thoroughfares of the town were kept well scraped through continuous service by the snow plows. Workmen spent much time shoveling the snow away from points of drainage so that the water can flow freely when the snow melts.

The plows tossed up banks of snow along the sides of the streets thus narrowing the streets. Motorists could not park their cars against the curb as usual, but had to stop them several feet short in order to avoid getting stuck in the snow banks. The constant scraping of the streets together with the steady traffic and the moderate temperature made traveling not only wet but slippery as well. Cars without chains had to proceed very slowly to be safe. Auto supply stations did a rushing business selling chains this morning.

Near 8 Inch Fall

The snow continued to fall throughout the morning and it was not until shortly after one o'clock this afternoon that the sun broke through the cloudy sky and snow stopped falling. At that hour a measurement outside The Herald office revealed seven and three-quarters inches of snowfall, one of the deepest that has struck the town in one steady storm in some time. Even at that hour there was no assurance that the storm was definitely concluded.

BIG CHRISTMAS RUSH

New Britain, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Last minute shopping is reported heavy by store owners, who predict that it will be a well laden Santa Claus who will climb down the chimney tomorrow night.

MODEL 1903 BUICK AT LOCAL GARAGE

James M. Shearer Acquires Old Automobile From Bloomfield—Is Real Relic.

James M. Shearer, local Buick distributor, has acquired an ancient Buick automobile which is attracting no little attention. Its late home was a Bloomfield barn and the license plate bore numerals 1922. The elderly brother and sister who reluctantly parted with their old car claimed it was of the vintage of 1901, but from familiar earmarks about the vehicle Mr. Shearer has definitely determined it is a 1903 model. He has had it cleaned up and has given it a coat of Christmas red. Today being stormy it was housed in the garage in the rear of the showrooms. Drivers used to put their cars up for winter when this Buick was young.

There is a striking contrast between this 1903 Buick and the fine model of the present day. Climbing up into the seats of this old Buick touring car is like ascending a flight of stairs. It has to be cranked at the side, the motor is under the seat and the gasoline tank is in front. The points of difference between that Buick of 28 years ago and the car of today would make a long story of the evolution of this or any other modern-day automobile. Suffice it to say, nothing like it can be seen today unless in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, or in the museum of the manufacturers at Flint, Michigan.

Mr. Shearer has already been approached with offers but he is not yet ready to part with his relic.

TROOP 3, BOY SCOUTS, CARRY OFF HONORS

Scouts Horace Burr, Ernest Irwin and Stuart Joslin of Troop 3 were awarded the high honor of Eagle Scout at the Boy Scout Court of Honor on Friday night, December 19. This is the first time in the history of Scouting in Manchester that three Scouts of the same troop have received the Eagle award at the same time.

White Scouts Burr, Irwin and Joslin are to be congratulated on their conscientious and faithful endeavor, still recognition should be paid to the splendid work of Scoutmaster David McComb in the careful training of so many high ranking Scouts.

Eclipsed only by the award of the Eagle rank were the Life Scout awards made to Scouts Louis Dimock, Kenneth Leslie and David Muldoon. Representing as it does the halfway mark to the Eagle Scout Badge the award of Life Scout is one of the most coveted awards in Scouting. These three awards all went to Troop 3.

One of the few representatives of other troops was Walter Bantly who received the Star Scout award. Scout Bantly is one of the active Scouts of Troop 4.

In addition to these meritorious awards eighteen Merit Badges were awarded by the Court.

One of the high spots of the Court of Honor meeting was the interesting talk by Rev. W. F. Reidy, Father Reidy pointed to the Scouts what the word Scout was derived from, and stressed the importance of living up to this definition as expressed in the Scout Law.

MRS. EMERY TO TEACH BRIDGE CLASS HERE

Prominent Hartford Expert To Conduct Class At Home of Mrs. Franklin Dexter.

Arrangements are under way for a local group Contract Bridge class to start soon after the New Year at the home of Mrs. Franklin Dexter of Wellington Road. The instructor will be Mrs. Theodosia Van Norden Emery, Hartford's prominent contract teacher. Mrs. Dexter will assist and all interested in joining may obtain information in detail by telephoning Mrs. Dexter, whose number is 5833.

Mrs. Emery has written a book on Contract Bridge called "Ten Contract Bridge Lessons", which is now in its third edition. The first book was printed less than three months ago. Friends and pupils in Manchester of Mrs. Emery will be interested to hear of a letter she recently received from Milton C. Work, the country's outstanding bridge authority, in which he has chosen her as "The North player in the tenth Radio Game to be broadcast on January 27, 1931." Mrs. Emery is a former pupil of Mr. Work and he has paid her a high honor in selecting her from among the thousands of other teachers in the United States and Canada for such an important assignment. During the entire series but forty may participate.

The reasons for Mr. Work's choice of Mrs. Emery is because she is a teacher, author and lecturer of long experience; teacher at the Hartford Woman's club and other prominent clubs and hotels in Connecticut, and her state-wide reputation as a bridge educator and player. Mrs. Emery also won the silver cup for top scores on two consecutive evenings at progressive duplicate contract play during the Work-Richards teachers' convention held in New York, June 1929.

Gold production of the world for 1930 is estimated at about $405,000,000.

OLD MAN WINTER IS HERE ON VISIT

Heaviest Fall of Snow of Season Hits State — Predict It Will Turn Into Rain.

New Haven, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Old Man Winter caught the Christmas spirit today and joined with Connecticut residents in preparing for the coming of Santa Claus by decorating the state with a thick covering of snow.

The snow fall, the heaviest of the present season, not only enhanced the holiday atmosphere but also came as a relief to the army of the unemployed. Hundreds of men who faced the dreary prospect of a moneyless Christmas, were expected to find temporary employment in municipalities throughout the state in clearing streets.

Over three inches of snow had fallen in this city by 10:30 a. m. today, the local bureau reported. Flurries late last night heralded the approach of the snow storm. By midnight the fall was steady and thick.

The weather bureau announced it would probably continue snowing until this afternoon when it would change to rain.

TO REORGANIZE FAIRFIELD BANK

Norwalk, Dec. 23.—(AP)—A definite plan for re-organization of the suspended Central Fairfield Trust Company was announced today by a committee of stockholders who have been working out the problems of the institution since it was closed several weeks ago by State Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee.

The present capital stock of the bank is to be reduced from $200,000 to $50,000, with the present shares of the bank's stock having a par value of $25 instead of $100. The present stockholders lose 75 percent of their investment. An additional issue of 6,000 shares at $50 per share is to be floated. One half of the amount raised in the sale of the new stock, $150,000, will go to make a capital of $200,000. The remaining $150,000 will be designated as a surplus.

Old stockholders are to be given the preference in the purchase of the new stock.

A committee of six prominent Norwalk professional and business men will co-operate in the re-organization and an outside bank is signified its willingness to operate the local institution of the re-organization efforts are successful.

KIDNAPERS AND COPS IN DESPERATE FIGHT

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Gangsters who kidnaped E. L. Carress, Los Angeles race track man, and his wife and forced him to sign checks for $50,000, battled three policemen at a dock here yesterday, wounding one.

One suspect, James J. Shegman, was captured. Policeman W. H. Waggoner was wounded critically. Carress told police he and Mrs. Carress were kidnaped in Hollywood Saturday night by three masked men.

The first demanded $100,000 ransom, he said, but agreed to take $50,000 in checks if he would direct George P. Bruneman, a friend, to accompany them aboard a gambling ship and vouch for them.

While the gangsters and Bruneman were parked at a dock here, Police Officers Waggoner and C. A. Jenks sought to question them. One man fired at Jenks and general shooting began.

Mr. and Mrs. Carress were released by the kidnapers shortly after the shooting.

NEW AUTO ENGINE KILLS POISON GAS

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Virtual elimination of carbon monoxide gas is claimed for a carburetor invented by John Jubasz.

The device also permits the use of gasoline, kerosene or fuel oil in any automobile, airplane, motorboat or other internal combustion engine. It was reported by industrial physicists and engineers to whom it was submitted.

It has three carbureting chambers instead of one, with a separate nozzle in each and five outlet holes in each nozzle.

City Health Commissioner Wynn, who had an industrial physicist's study of the carburetor attested at New York University, said the device indicated that "we are on the way to a solution of the carbon monoxide problem."

Austin M. Wolf, N. J., automotive consulting engineer, reported the carburetor showed a seven and a half mile gain per gallon in mileage on a stock motor car to which he attached it.

MASONS WILL REVERE MEMORY OF G. M. BARBER

Resolutions On Death To Be Read Before Manchester Lodge Tonight — To Install Officers.

Manchester lodge of Masons will pause during its installation ceremonies this evening to listen to a word of tribute to one of its beloved members George M. Barber, who recently died, after more than eighty years of faithful service. Mr. Barber of Gardner street, one of Manchester's best known citizens and a Civil War veteran, was a trustee of Manchester lodge at the time of his death.

During the communication tonight Secretary Harry R. Trotter will read the following resolution: "In appreciation of the life and service of our late beloved brother, George M. Barber, the craft of Manchester Lodge No. 73, A. F. & A. M., gratefully place on record this memorial of their love and respect.

"In years far beyond the normal span of earthly life, he went daily in and out in the sight of his brethren and fellow citizens, a modest, upright, reliable example of the best of the manhood of America, characterized by Lincoln as the common people.

"As a boy he heard the call of Lincoln for the defense of the Union and cheerfully gave three years of his young life to the service of his country.

"His term of service as Master of the Lodge and his long term of usefulness as Trustee were marked by loyalty and efficiency. His interest in his Lodge and Masonry never ceased.

"Full of years, respected by all, mourned by family and brethren, he rests from his labor. His memory will always be cherished by all who knew him."

The recently elected officers of Manchester lodge will be installed tonight by Clinton G. Nichols, of Hartford. Albert T. Dewey, past master of Manchester lodge, will act as marshal.

SENTENCED TO DEATH MURDERER FLEES JAIL

Salem, N. J., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Charles Fithian, 22, who escaped from the Salem county jail less than eight hours after he had been sentenced to death for the murder of a paymaster, still was at liberty today.

Fithian escaped last night by filing the bars of his cell and squeezing his slim body through two ventilator shafts after threatening other prisoners with a pistol.

Police expressed the belief the file and pistol were smuggled into the jail.

With Peter Giordana, 25, Fithian was sentenced by Judge Henry Burt Ware to die in the electric chair during the week of February 8. They were convicted of murder in the slaying of William McCausland, Salem glass works paymaster, in a holdup October 24. New London, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Holiday cheer of the "bottled in bond" variety may or may not be carried in large quantities aboard supply vessels at sea beyond the 12-mile limit, the Coast is non-committal, but it was definitely learned today that a double strength patrol force from the local base is doing all it can to halt smuggling in this area.

Kansas City, Kan., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Under the shadow of a life term as a wife-slayer, Major Chas. A. Shepard prepared to return today to Denver and the solace of his army associates.

Major Shepard, accused of fatally poisoning his second wife to pursue an improper love affair, was convicted yesterday by a Federal court jury on a charge of first degree murder. Under the verdict "without capital punishment" life sentence is mandatory.

Miss Grace Brandon, 24, former sweetheart of the 59 year old medical corps pulmonary specialist, expressed regret in San Antonio, Texas at his conviction.

Miss Brandon said she still was in doubt as to Major Shepard's guilt, but had said nothing as a witness to "hurt" him.

Major Shepard said he expected to return to the Fitzsimons general hospital, Denver under $25,000 bond pending arraignment before Judge Richard J. Hopkins for sentence in Topeka, Kansas, February 2, when his attorneys will seek a new trial. Officers and patients of the hospital sent him sympathetic messages.

Stockholm, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Departure for Moscow of Madame Alexandra Kollantai, the Soviet ambassador to Sweden, was interpreted today by the newspaper Nya Dagligt as really a recall by Soviet officials who are said to consider the woman's work at Oslo as unproductive of satisfactory results.

The newspaper also says the woman ambassador is charged with having lived "too bourgeois" a life at Oslo and Stockholm although until now Stalin's support has protected her from criticism.

Madame Kollantai is a famous beauty and is known as one of the world's best dressed women. When she assumed her post here last October she looked anything but a Communist. She wore a coat of rich chinchilla over a black taffeta gown against the background of which blazed the order of the Red Star. She traveled about the city in a gorgeous state coach drawn by four black Arabian horses.

MARCH TO CITIES IN U. S. KEEPS UP

But At Slower Pace, Census Bureau Reports — City Populations Doubling Up.

Washington, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The march of America's millions from the farm to the city continued, but at a somewhat slower pace, through the last decade.

On April 1, a total of 68,955,521 persons or 56.2 per cent of the national population were living under urban conditions, as compared with a percentage of 51.4 in 1920.

The Census Bureau, announced the divisions today.

In the interim, the bureau adopted a new method of computation which renders the figures not strictly accurate for purposes of comparison. Had the 1920 method been used this year the urban population would have been 55.9 per cent, or a gain of 4.4 per cent for the decade. The urban gain for 1910 to 1920 was 5.6 per cent and for 1920 to 1930, 5.8 per cent.

Trend to Cities

The trend to the cities is forcibly illustrated by a comparison with the urban percentage of 28.6 in 1880. Over the intervening period of exactly half a century, the urban proportion has almost doubled.

In changing its method of computation, the Bureau extended its definition of urban population to include, in addition to cities of 2,500 and over, townships and other incorporated places with a total population of 10,000 or more and a population density of 1,000 per square mile.

TO ASK RECEIVERSHIP FOR NEW BRITAIN BANK

Hartford, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Indicating that plans for reorganization of the institution have been given up, assistant attorney general John H. King announced his intention of asking a receivership for the Commercial Trust Company of New Britain, recently suspended by Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee, in Superior Court this afternoon.

The receiver to be recommended by Mr. King, when he appears before a judge of the court, with the receivership petition, is F. A. Searle, vice president of Landers, Frary and Clark, New Britain manufacturers.

The bank which had been generally regarded as one of New Britain's strongest institutions, was subjected to a run of serious proportions some weeks ago, and was finally closed by Commissioner Shippee a week ago Saturday. Since then, efforts toward reorganization have been made, but today's action on the part of Attorney King are understood to indicate definitely that they proved unsuccessful.

The bank's liabilities are approximately $600,000 of which $2,000,000 are in savings deposits and capital and surplus of $625,000, according to the last statement. Liquid assets were so far depleted by the run as to make it unsafe to continue, Mr. Shippee announced at the time of the suspension.

DIED FROM POISON

London, Dec. 23.—(AP)—A coroner's jury inquiring into the recent death of Philip Heseltine, the British song writer, today returned a verdict of death by gas poison.

There was insufficient evidence, the report said, to say whether death was accidental or by suicide.

A young and attractive woman in deep mourning who told the jury she had lived as Heseltine's wife said she had last seen him on the night before he died. They had an unimportant quarrel, and he threatened to take his life, she said, but she did not take him seriously.

Heseltine's nom de plume was Peter Warlock. Among his more popular songs were "Oh Take Those Lips Away," and "Sweet and Twenty."

WORKS HAS NEW POST AT CHICAGO UNIVERSITY

Chicago, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Prof. George Alan Works, former president of Connecticut agricultural college, has been appointed dean of students and university examiner of the University of Chicago, President Albert Maynard Hutchins announced today.

This is one of the most important steps in the new Educational method of the university recently announced.

Dean Works, who returned to the Chicago institution last autumn, will have the unique position of combined educator and personnel director with the task of correlating all the university's relations with students. Not only will he be charged with deciding what applicants are to be admitted, but he will also develop a program of student recreation and social life, and will administer the comprehensive examinations which the university intends to give to determine the progress of students under the new system, President Hutchins said.

With the creation of this office, the present title of the University recorder and examiner has been changed to registrar.

Dean Works is a graduate of Wisconsin and Harvard. He was formerly dean of the Graduate Library School at the university, but resigned to become president of the Connecticut institution.

PUNCH BOARD ARTISTS HELD IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Dec. 23.—(AP)—With three men now under arrest, and a fourth being sought today, police believe they have rounded up a gang of punch board "salesmen" which has operated in Connecticut for several weeks and defrauded merchants, it is said.

William S. Quinn of Hartford and Emmett O'Connell, of Springfield and Herbert Madden, of Nashua, N. H., are being held by police while further investigation is under way. The men are charged with conspiring to defraud.

Captain Walter F. Stiles of the State Police stated that one man leaves a punch board with a merchant and later two "salesmen" come in after taking a little business and play the board. In each case they profit highly, he said. One board gave money prizes, the Captain said and after the "salesmen" had won $60 upon paying one dollar in chances the merchant complained.

Tracing down of a number plate on the "salesmen's" car resulted in their arrest and merchants in East Haddam and Terryville have identified the operators, police said.

BANDITS MURDER COUPLE BY MISTAKE

Woman and Man, Strangers To Each Other, Are Riddled With Bullets.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Discovery of a hidden gun nest in an apartment in the Rogers Park district early today led police to conclude that a man and woman, shot six hours earlier, had been the innocent victims of a miscarried gangland assassination plot.

The wounded persons were Mrs. Henrieta Guthrie, 54, a widow, and E. W. Stone, an insurance man, strangers to each other. Mrs. Guthrie was struck once and Stone twice. They were taken to a hospital with minor injuries. The shooting occurred just after Mrs. Guthrie stepped from her home to go on a shopping tour. Stone had just got out of his car when Mrs. Guthrie appeared abreast of the machine.

Four shots were fired. At first they were believed to have come from one of two automobiles passing at the time, but the subsequent discovery of the gun nest, situated near the spot where the shooting occurred, led police to revise their reconstruction of the crime.

A submachine gun, fully loaded with 100 cartridges and trained through the window of the apartment, was found. On the floor lay a shotgun with five empty shells beside it, and the theory was advanced that the men in the two automobiles had been the intended victims. Detectives said that Terry Druggan, "the beer baron," had had an undercover apartment two blocks from the scene and considered the possibility that Stone might have been mistaken for him.

The apartment, according to the janitor, was leased December 5 by a man and woman who gave their names as "Mr. and Mrs. John Collins." They disappeared.

MESSENGER BOY KILLED

New London, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Louis Eldridge, 18 year old Western Union messenger boy, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Eldridge, ten Bulkley Place, was instantly killed in Groton this morning when run over by a five ton truck loaded with crushed stone and driven by F. Wells Geer, 37 Franklin street this city. The boy had stopped his bicycle to permit a bus to pass in front of him and the truck struck the bicycle from the rear, throwing the boy to the highway and one of the front wheels of the truck passed over his head, crushing it.

State police who investigated the fatality arrested Geer on a technical charge of manslaughter and he was released in bonds of $2,500 pending the finding of Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich.

PROVIDENCE YOUTH DIES

Schulter, Okla., Dec. 23.—(AP)—A youth identified as Walter A. Green of Providence, R. I., died last night after he had been found ill in an abandoned mine south of Schulter. Hospital attendants said death apparently was from epilepsy. A note in the youth's clothing asked that in event of illness his mother, Mrs. Mary Green of Providence, be notified.

SONGS
 The death of Charles K. Harris, writer and publisher of popular songs, some of whose compositions attained an amazing popularity, will arouse anew the never dying wonderment as to what subtle quality it is that makes a song "popular" in the sense in which that word is commonly used.

It is a strange thing that almost all the songs that are taken up by the people, sung, played and whistled everywhere, are the productions of persons who are not only technically ignorant of music but have very little education of any sort, who are without cultural background and whose sentimentality or humor is of the crudest.

There is one very easy explanation of all this—that the songs of Harris, Berlin and such composers, infantile as they are, appeal to the vast majority of the American people because the people are infantile minded themselves. The trouble with that theory is that it isn't true. The average American man or woman is the best educated average man or woman in the world. Their taste in songs ought not to be less elevated than that of illiterate peasants; yet in many cases it would appear to be so, from the songs that fill the air of America.

It is anomalous to hear genuinely cultured young people playing and singing in all seriousness the banalities produced by musically illiterate and culturally benighted writers.

Possibly there may be a clue to the answer to the puzzle in the fact that the song publishing business—we refer of course to the "popular" variety—has been, for a great many years, largely in the hands of a class of persons of the same mental and educational plane as the writers; and that for as many years there has been a perpetual liaison between that group and the one medium through which a song could be "popularized"—the theatre. Since long before Harris wrote "After the Ball" songs have been "put over" by booster processes that were manipulated by precisely the same element that puts over songs now. And among that crew "Annie Laurie" would never have had a ghost of a chance.

That old timer who said, "I care not who may make a nation's laws so that I may write its songs" was entirely wet. He should have said, "I care not who writes a nation's songs so long as I publish and boost them."

THE MACHINE GUN
 In a raid on a big speakeasy in Bridgeport the State Police found a stock of imported wines, beer, fancy liquors and cordials that would have been carried in the old days, only by a very large establishment. That, however, is of significance only as showing how little regard the operators of such places have for the legitimate risks of law breaking. The really significant discovery made by the police in connection with the raid was the finding of five rifles and enough ammunition to fill a clothes basket—including belted machine gun shells.

Now Connecticut has so far been free from the bloody gang wars bred in the great cities and particularly in the middle west by the illicit booze traffic. But there are sinister implications in the digging up of this armament in Bridgeport. Of course where is machine gun ammunition there is a machine gun somewhere in the vicinity, even if the police don't happen to find it. And where machine guns are found in the hands of private individuals engaged in the rum racket there is murder lurking somewhere in the offing.

This martial aspect of the booze game, in which human life becomes as cheap as it does in international war, is spreading. Starting in Chicago, it has extended to Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and a dozen other cities. The racketeers do not arm their cohorts to fight the police but to fight each other. And as the racket extends and becomes more systematized and the competition becomes more bitter, so does the desperation of the warfare increase. If this unholy business continues another five years it is highly probable that there will not be a town of five thousand people in the country without its quota of automatic artillery and its clothes baskets full of static death.

Then how long will it be before the racketeers are using the machine guns to fight the police instead of using them to fight one another? It is only a question of how long it takes this underworld empire of which Dr. Hopkins tells to grow in strength till it feels itself powerful enough to give open battle to organized society.

BOGUS PROSPERITY
 Senator Shipstead, in the course of a newspaper article on the subject of business depression which embodied certain ideas of his as to the method of cure, none of which were of monumental importance, said: "Artificial prosperity feels about as good as real prosperity while it lasts."

He might have illustrated this idea by the story of an old resident of the town of Lyme, long since gone to his reward. He was a sharp trader and used to horde the profits of his numerous deals in cows, horses and woodlots, very seldom spending any cash since his farm supplied him with his living.

That was in the days of the old state banks and when state bank notes constituted the bulk of the currency in circulation. One day our Lyme friend heard a rumor that a certain New Haven bank had failed and, looking over his several rolls of bankbills discovered to his dismay that a couple of hundred dollars of his capital were in the form of bills of the burst bank. Straightway he hitched up, drove to New London and hurried into the bank there.

"They tell me," he said to the cashier, displaying the sheaf of New Haven banknotes, "that these here ain't no good, no more. Be they?" The banker knew the Lyme man, and his habits. "Well, that depends, Deacon; what did you intend to do with them?" "Why, keep 'em, o' course," answered the Deacon promptly. "Just as good as gold for that," Deacon," said the banker. "You take those notes right back home and put them away and don't worry about them. You couldn't have anything any better, to keep."

And so the Deacon returned home and put the valueless money away and left it there and died long after without being any the worse for the bursting of the bank.

FIRE WITH FIRE
 This affair between Robert H. Lucas, executive head of the Republican National Committee, on the one side, and Senator Norris of Nebraska on the other, is nothing to pass a snap judgment on; it is a matter of may facets with considerable to be said on both sides, and frankly we are without settled opinion as to whether Lucas did an improper thing in working more or less under cover to defeat Norris, Republican nominee for re-election, and elect the Democratic candidate, Mr. Hitchcock. But one aspect of the case seems clear enough. It was certainly no worse for a Republican National Committee head to work against Norris than it is for Norris to continually work against the Republican party and the present Republican administration while posing as a Republican and winning his election through the prestige of the Republican party.

Mr. Lucas can at least claim with a decided show of fairness that he was fighting fire with fire. The political wisdom of Lucas' proceedings may be called into question and it may be true that an unfortunate row within the Republican party has been needlessly precipitated, the consequences of which no one can foresee. But that there was a certain crude justice in double-crossing the double-crosser is hardly to be denied.

Lucas' trick may have been uncandid and a mistake but it wasn't, at all events, as mean a trick as many another that has been played in recent years by this same Norris.

THAT 1886 AUTO
 The passing of Henry A. House, Bridgeport inventor, at a very advanced age, has revived the story of his 1886 automobile. It is a story which has been current every few years for some time. It is to the effect that 26 years before gasoline cars made their appearance in this country, Mr. House drove a twelve horse power steam propelled automotive vehicle down the main streets of Bridgeport. Maybe so. But we know of a man who was born in Bridgeport and spent his boyhood there and never heard about Mr. House's steam automobile until, one day, he saw it. It did indeed trundle down the main streets of the city, and it did carry a number of passengers, being a converted carry-all or "barge," on several such trips until one day, loaded with school girls, it caught fire and one or two of the passengers were seriously burned. But that was not in 1886. The man in question wasn't about, watching street scenes, in 1886. It was somewhere in the '80's. And "House's horseless carriage" was the talk of the town and of its newspapers then, as a brand new thing.

"Mr. House, when he passed away, was a very old man. His memory probably played him some tricks in his latter days. It is probably true that instead of being a quarter of a century ahead of other people with the automotive idea, his steam-motive-on-the-road came into being about the time that Daimler was developing the parent of the present automobile.

SNOW FOR CHRISTMAS
 Snow for Christmas. Let us hope so; that, now that it has come, it sticks around at least until December 26.

There is something about a white Christmas. It reasserts New England tradition. It validates the Christmas cards we've been sending out. It authenticates the diamond dust on Santa's whiskers. It gives the reindeer a logical reason for hauling a sleigh. It paints out the ugliness and creates beauty where there was an ash heap. It makes a perfect sounding board for the carols. It sets the festival off from other holidays. It is, in a word, Christmasy. Welcome to the snow. And after it has served its yuletide ends may it quickly depart—and remain departed till next Christmas. Which it won't.

Health and Diet Advice
 By DR. FRANK McCOY

RICE A GOOD ECONOMICAL STARCH

Is your family tired of potatoes? Then try rice for a change. In many Eastern countries rice is served with vegetables just as we serve potatoes or bread. Rice may be considered one of the good starches. It is 79 per cent starch in a form that digests easily. Rice is never an expensive food, for it swells up so greatly while being cooked. I do you ever hear of the man who made up his mind that for once he would cook up enough rice? He choose a large pan and filled it full of rice. When the rice began to swell he filled the frying pan, the dishpan and half the sink. He did not know that five cups of water and one cup of rice make more than four cups of cooked rice.

White rice is the kind most commonly used here, and it is often coated with talc to keep out bugs and dampness. This thin coating does not injure the rice, as it is easily removed by washing. Whenever possible I would advise you to obtain the brown or natural rice rather than the polished rice. Brown rice has the advantage of having a more delicious flavor, besides containing more organic salts of lime, magnesium, iron, potassium and phosphorus which are largely removed during the polishing in the case of white rice.

In China and Japan it was found that when human beings lived on polished rice as the exclusive cereal for a long enough time they developed a disease called beriberi. This disease seemed to be almost miraculously cured by feeding either the natural rice or the bran taken from the polished rice. It was found that the substance lost was vitamin B which clings closely to the skin of the rice. This vitamin is present in the brown or unpolished rice and it was found that if this type of rice was used the disease beriberi did not develop.

Rice should not be served with sugar or fruits. It is all right to serve butter or cream with it, but leave off the sugar, as sugar and starch do not digest well together and the result is excessive fermentation. When using rice, use it as the principal part of the meal, and combine it with cooked raw vegetables. Tomatoes, being acid, do not combine very well with rice.

Rice may be used as a cereal for breakfast and may also be used in soups, muffins and croquettes. Many breakfast foods feature rice. A good wholesome breakfast food is made of rice exploded from guns so that it is puffy and crisp; another offers rice in toasted flakes, ready to eat. The most desirable method of cooking rice is to use a fireless cooker or steam pressure cooker. It also cooks well in an ordinary double boiler. A good way to serve rice is to form it in a ring on a dish and place cooked vegetables in the center.

(Callous Behind Ear)
 Question: Miss G. C. writes: "I have a callous behind my ear and it is very painful. It is caused from wearing glasses. I will appreciate it if you will tell me a way to cure this."

Answer: You will probably have to get new bows that do not press on the particular spot where the callous is at present. Possibly some local treatments by a doctor who uses actinic light would be beneficial.

(Curving Fingernails)
 Question: V. M. asks: "What causes curving fingernails? As soon as my nails grow beyond the tips of my fingers they begin to curve backward. This is very uncomfortable and also necessitates my keeping them cut short which also is unpleasant. They sometimes crack in a rakey line about half way down. I do the ordinary housework and eat plain food, so shall be obliged if you will advise me."

Answer: I would advise you to use more of the leafy green vegetables, principally the uncooked ones so that your system will be well supplied with the organic minerals necessary for the growth of your nails. Just eat all the raw food you can in proper combination.

WATERBURY MOVIE ROBBED OF FUNDS

Armed Bandits Hold Up Manager and Escape With $350—Among Shoppers.

Waterbury, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Richard Halliwell, 58, manager and part owner of the New Garden Theater here called police to the amusement house at 11:40 a. m., today and told them that the theatre had just been robbed of $350. Two young men walked into his office as he was seated at his desk, he said, one of them immediately drawing a revolver and commanding him to hold up his hands. He was ordered to reveal the combination to the safe and did so.

Walk Off With Cash
After fumbling with the combination and failing to work it satisfactorily, the bandit commanded Mr. Halliwell to open the vault. The command was accompanied with threats.

Mr. Halliwell then opened the safe, the armed bandit withdrew two money bags and he and his companion departed.

Detectives were able to obtain from Mr. Halliwell only a vague description of the bandits. Although heavy Christmas shopping throngs were passing the theater no one reported any unusual occurrence as visible from the outside.

CONVICT KIDNAPS WARDEN AND SON

Most Spectacular Escape In History of West—Prisoner
Finally Recaptured.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Raymond Stickler, 23 year old convict, was held today after kidnaping the warden of the state prison in one of the most spectacular escapes since the "bad man" era in Arizona.

Escaping from the penitentiary at Florence yesterday by a ruse, Stickler was captured here last night.

A prison tailor serving a 10 year to life sentence for robbery, Stickler had been ordered to line a coat for William Lorenzo Wright. He concealed the lining material designated as an excuse for asking permission to accompany Wright for a walk.

Wright granted the request. Taking his 4 year old son for company, Wright picked up Stickler at the prison and headed for Florence. Stickler drew a knife and forced Wright to surrender his gun. The convict then ordered the warden to drive 90 miles to Chandler Heights where Stickler ordered Wright and his son out of the car.

Hold-Up Restaurants
Police said Stickler drove to Tucson, acquired an overcoat and then came to Phoenix. On the outskirts of Phoenix, authorities asserted, Stickler attempted to rob a restaurant, but was frustrated when a waiter hit him with a coffee pot. Stickler then went to another restaurant, where officers found him.

Police said the convict attempted to shoot, but was seized before he had time to draw a gun.

While handcuffed in patrol wagon enroute to jail, officers asserted Stickler drew a knife and started slashing, injuring one policeman and so unnerving the driver that the patrol wagon crashed into a telephone pole. In the confusion Stickler again dashed for freedom, but was recaptured.

NEW BRITAIN BANK IN RECEIVERSHIP

President of Landers, Frary and Clark To Handle Affairs of Commercial Trust

New Britain, Dec. 23.—(AP)—With efforts for its reorganization temporarily abandoned, the Commercial Trust Company of this city today was in the hands of a receiver.

Upon application of John H. Kink of the attorney general's office, Judge Ernest A. Ingalls of the Superior Court last night appointed Frederick A. Searle, vice president of Landers, Frary and Clark, as receiver for the bank.

Following his appointment Mr. Searle said he plans as his first step the liquidation of the bank's assets so indebtedness may be paid off. The expenses of the receiver he said, will be given first consideration, with payment of savings depositors, commercial depositors and of other obligations coming in the order named in priority.

Mr. Searle said the Christmas Club checks given out before a restraining order was issued December 13 by Lester E. Shippe, state bank commissioner, will be classed as commercial rather than savings deposits.

The possibility of a reorganization still remains while the bank's assets are being liquidated. This might be effected by the taking over by some other institution of the Commercial Trust Company's assets.

Foreign Minister Wang Says China Must Reciprocate by Protecting Property.

Nanking, China, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Addressing the Cabinet of the Nationalist government, Foreign Minister C. T. Wang today said the year 1930 had been characterized by an increasing response by foreign powers toward China's national aspirations.

Completion of treaties with eleven countries in 1928 gave China nominal tariff autonomy, he said, but this did not become actual until this year with the conclusion of the Sino-Japanese tariff agreement last May and the exchange of ratifications with Holland last month.

Wang stated an exchange of notes with Great Britain concerning the rendition of the British concession at Amoy had been effected in September; Weihaiwei formally restored to China by Great Britain in October, and a treaty regarding the return of the Belgian concession at Tientsin had been ratified.

Regarding extra-territoriality, Wang said the year-end found nine treaty powers amenable to Chinese jurisdiction, namely, Australia, Germany, Russia, Mexico, Persia, Greece, Finland, Bolivia and Czechoslovakia. Conclusion of a treaty with Poland, he said, would bring the number to ten.

Butler's Plan Draws Comment Pro and Con

Called Sound in Theory But Impractical; Some Say It Would Be Difficult To Raise Money From Alumni; Coaches of Football Strongly Opposed.

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP).—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's suggestion that all intercollegiate athletics be ended by alumni to end the "importance of gate receipts" has brought forth a flood of comment, favorable and otherwise, from the country's college administrators and athletic officials.

In general the consensus seemed that the Columbia president's proposals might be sound enough in theory but they were not practical, at least at this time. It was pointed out in some quarters that endowments for academic purposes are hard enough to get now.

Dr. Butler's further suggestion that an "athletic league of nations" might be formed to solve current athletic problems, met with the rather general reply that the present athletic conferences, with their special regulations, already need all the help they can get.

A summary of a few of the comments on Dr. Butler's proposals follows: Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics, University of Michigan said "no possible value in the proposal."

Alonso Stagg, director of athletics, University of Chicago believes "athletics should be removed entirely from the income of alumni bodies and administered as a regular department of the university."

George Heuff, athletic director, University of Illinois, called the proposal "ridiculous."

President Walter Dill Scott, Northwestern, is factious vein, thought Dr. Butler's idea good but wanted to know "how to get the money from the alumni."

Major John L. Griffiths, Big Ten athletic commissioner thought each sectional group had rules enough in the ready and could see no merit in the "league of nations" idea.

President Hopkins, Dartmouth, thought the proposal worth consideration but he doubted that alumni endowment was the proper remedy to curb over emphasis.

Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Stanford coach said, "I don't think Dr. Butler's suggestion merits any comment."

Chancellor Charles M. Snelling, Georgia, thought the "greatest menace lies in the subsidizing of athletics" and that the problem of gate receipts is "secondary."

President H. V. Whitney, Princeton, thought the proposal "worth consideration but he doubted that alumni endowment was the proper remedy to curb over emphasis."

Chancellor Charles M. Snelling, Georgia, thought the "greatest menace lies in the subsidizing of athletics" and that the problem of gate receipts is "secondary."

President H. V. Whitney, Princeton, thought the proposal "worth consideration but he doubted that alumni endowment was the proper remedy to curb over emphasis."

GALLANT FOX IN PAST YEAR SETS WINNINGS MARK

Famous Racer Earned $328,165; Success Linked With Comeback of Earl Sande.

New York (AP).—The leading thoroughbred and their earnings at the end of the 1930 period indicated, follow: Gallant Fox... $328,165; Blue Larkspur... $272,070; Sun Beau... $264,819; Exterminator... $252,598; Man o' War... $248,465; Display... $237,181; Sarazen... $235,000; Crusader... $203,261.

By ORLO ROBERTSON (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Champion every inch of the way, Gallant Fox galloped his way into the turf's spotlight with a spectacular rise in racing heights during the 1930 financial season.

Winner of every important three-year-old stake, with the exception of the Travers, the Fox was easily the outstanding thoroughbred of a year featured by brilliant two-year-olds, the sensational fall campaign of Willis Shalmer's five-year-old Earl Sande and the come-back of Earl Sande.

As a climax to his parade through the three-year-old division, the big red horse from William Wood's barn established a new American money winning record of $328,165. The former record of $313,369 was held by the Rancocas Stable's Sande.

Linked with the success of Gallant Fox was the come-back of Sande. Forced by the overweight bugaboo to forsake the saddle, the American money winning record of $328,165.

Starting with the Wood Memorial in April, the Fox-Sande combination won the Preakness, Kentucky Derby, Belmont Stakes, Arlington Classic, Dwyer Lawrence Realization and stepped out of their class to account for the Saratoga Cup and the Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Their only defeat came in the muddy Travers at Saratoga, when the Fox ran second to Chief of Hearts' Jim Day, 100 to 1 shot, in the most sensational upset of the year.

As Gallant Fox ruled the turf until his retirement early in September, Sun Beau was supreme in the rich handicaps of closing days of the season. The offspring of Sun Beau had his greatest year on the turf, winning $108,005 and going into fourth place in total earnings with $284,819.

George D. Widener's Jamestown showed a clean pair of heels to his two-year-old opposition in every race he entered, including the Hopeful at Saratoga to rank as the outstanding juvenile of the year.

Winner of six races, including the rich Belmont Futurity, Jamestown won $151,925, but was forced to take second to V. Whitney's Equipose in the Whitney Stakes. Equipose picked up $156,835 with eight victories in seventeen starts.

Riley Leads Jockeys The battle for jockey honors went to the apprentice, H. R. Riley, who booted home 159 winners in every race he entered, however, was Sonny Workman of the Whitney Stable.

Workman was astride 151 winners for the best average of the year. Although Riley and Workman topped the list, the sensation of the season was Eugene James, who rode his first winner at Latonia in June. Less than a year ago James was a newsboy on the streets of Louisville, but in six months he mounted 434 horses and brought 108 of them down past the judges' stands in front.

As in 1929, death took a heavy toll of the turf's leading owners. R. T. Wilson, president of the Saratoga Racing association; Harry Payne Whitney, Gifford A. Cochran and Edward H. (Snapper) Garrison, prominent jockey who died during the course of the year.

Polo will be played in August, Ja., this winter. A string of 50 to 100 ponies will be brought to the new racing club.

In the seven times they have met Wofford college has never scored against a Duke university football team.

TWO WORDS KEY TO 1930 GOLF: 'EMPEROR JONES'

Gene Sarazen Won Most of Money Among Professionals Through Agua Caliente Open.

By PAUL MICHELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer) Chicago—(AP)—If there were a mammoth rock set aside on which to engrave the story of golf for 1930 or the most fascinating chapter in the royal and ancient game's thrilling history, the sculptor would have it easy.

All he would have to do would be to carve the features of that mightiest wizard of them all, Bobby Jones. Soaring to heights never before thought possible, the mighty Bobby dominated and told the story of golf for the year and years. He amazed the world of golf by scoring the first and only "grand slam" or game he never known or may ever know again.

Then, like a conqueror tired of conquest, he calmly abdicated his omnipotent throne by announcing on November 17 his retirement from serious competition.

It was the classic individual achievement of the game's more than 400 years and it made 1930 probably the greatest year of them all.

Conquest Begins Emperor Jones began his record-breaking conquest of the golfing world by leading the United States Walker Cup team to a decisive 10 to 2 victory over the British team.

Then, in succession he won the British Amateur, the British Open, the United States Open and the United States Amateur Championship in a clean sweep. Everything he tackled in the way of championship golf fell before the unerring accuracy of his shots. Wind, rain, fog and suffocating heat failed to stop him.

Roger Wethered tried to keep the amateur crown in England by defeating Bobby back with all his cunning strength in the final at St. Andrews but fell before the crushing margin of 7 and 6.

From there, Bobby went to his phenomenal triumph at the Philadelphia of American golfers at the end of the 72 hole stretch with a total of 291.

Takes 'Greater' Field After big welcome in New York, Bobby resumed his golfing odyssey in the United States. Against probably the greatest field that ever played, he defeated a scorching sun and a surging crowd at Interlachen, Minneapolis, to come through with another victory in the United States National Open with a tally of 287, just one shot away from "Chick" Evans' all-time low record.

Steel-nerved, he carried on at Merion, Philadelphia, where he galloped through the field, ending his triumphant career by carrying away his first "grand slam" by whipling Gene Homans, 8 and 7, with a casual but tight game.

The "Bobby Jones" of the Women's golf world, Miss Glenna Collett, followed in her invasion of Britain but kept up her march at the head of America's "powder puff" golf parade by annexing her fifth national championship.

Gene Sarazen Leads Pros Gene Sarazen of New York won most of the money among the professionals, getting a big start by taking first prize money of $10,000 in the $25,000 Agua Caliente Open, but Tommy Armour of Detroit won the most glory.

The "Black Scot" carried off the Professional Golfers' championship, the Canadian Open and helped his purse by bagging first prize money in the $10,000 St. Louis Open.

Sarazen also won the $10,000 St. Paul Open and captured the Western Open by one of the lowest scores in that tournament's history. The Metropolitan Opera went to Willie Macfarlane.

In other fields, George Dunlap of Princeton captured the National Intercollegiate title and Robert Wingate of Jacksonville, Fla., won the National Public Links crown, ending the three-year reign of Carl Kaufmann, the golfing clerk of Pittsburgh.

And That's All Wrong, Too During tournament play, Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente's morthodox, stroking self professional, smokes two packages of cigarettes a day. He usually burns up another pack of smokes at night.

Marty Brill, Notre Dame back, scored his first touchdown in two years against Indiana this year. The Chicago Cubs battery men will go to Catalina Island, Calif., for spring training February 12.

Doeg, Tilden Pace America's Tennis

By TED VOSBURGH (Associated Press Sports Writer) (Associated Press Sports Writer)

If any one had predicted, on or about January 1, 1930 that in the course of a year Henri Cochet would be beaten in straight sets by Wilmer Allison and that Johnny Doeg would defeat Bill Tilden, astute tennis followers would have registered amazement.

Yet these were the outstanding individual feats in a busy season that saw the United States lose the Wightman Cup to England's feminine stars and fall again to recover the Davis Cup from France.

The development of a surprising crop of potential Davis cup material, provided an optimistic note. Tilden, after brilliant campaign abroad, gave signs of slipping, but such youngsters as Doeg, Frank Shields, Sidney Wood, Cliff Sutter, Bryan Grant and Ellisworth Vines showed great improvement.

Helj Wilms Moody still reigns as the unchallenged queen of the world's courts although she defaulted her American title after winning again in the French and English championships.

Magic Racquet Falls Ill health kept Heien Jacobs from competing at Forest Hills and Betty Nuthall of England came through successfully in the absence of the country's first second ranking player. Paired with Sarah Paulay, blond Betty added the doubles title.

Not even the magic racquet of Queen Helen could keep the English from winning the Wightman Cup on England's ground. Paired with Sarah Paulay, blond Betty added the doubles title.

In the classic British championships which followed, the United States enters, men and women, put on the greatest display of strength ever made by any one nation at Wimbledon, capturing four of Britain's proudest tennis titles and gaining a half interest in the fifth.

The sensational victory of the dashing Texan, Allison over Cochet, smoothed the path of Tilden, who won the singles championship for the first time in nine years, beating Allison in the final before a gallery of 20,000, including the king and queen.

Mrs. Moody won the women's title for the fourth successive year and shared with the hardy veteran, Elizabeth Ryan, to win in doubles as well. John Van Ryn and Allison repeated their victory of 1929 in men's doubles and Miss Ryan and Miss Jack Crawford, to Australia to take the mixed event.

Tilden Gives In The old master's remarkable record caused the United States Lawn Tennis Association to draft him for Davis Cup service against the French. Tilden capitulated at the last minute in his usual dramatic style and proceeded to trim Borotra in the challenge round.

Even this proved to be the only match America could win and the French took the series by the convincing margin of four matches to one without the services of Rene Lacoste, who was kept out of competition all year by ill health.

Generally recognized but title claims in some dispute, or not approved by various boxing authorities.

The light heavyweights acquired a champion when Jimmy Slattery defeated Lou Soza in their home town of Buffalo but Rosenbloom lifted the title by decision in a 15 round match there June 25. Since then Maxey has been searching for opponents.

Jackie Fields lost the welterweight title to Young Jack Thompson by decision in 15 rounds in Detroit, May 9 and Tommy Freeman, Hot springs veteran, promptly outpointed Thompson in a title duel September 5 in Cleveland.

Messages Bronx Beauty The lightweights were more spectacular. Al Singer, Bronx beauty, knocked out the defending champion, Sammy Mandell, in a round at the Yankee stadium July 17, but foolishly tackled Jimmy McLarin in a non-title battle August 11 here.

Singer was battered from the premises in three rounds and seemed still suffering from shell-shock when he defended his championship against Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight king, November 14 in the Garden.

Canzoneri snuffed the youngster out in two punches. Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, won the flyweight championship in an elimination tournament here but interest in the class died. Walker kept the middleweight division from getting anywhere and the bantamweights, with Panama Al Brown recognized as the champion, got nowhere through lack of outstanding contenders.

Keep Young With Future Connie's Birthday Word

HARNES RACING HAS GOOD YEAR Fifteen Million People See Over Thousand Race Meets During Season.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Keep young with the future—do not mellow in the past, was the substance of Connie Mack's message today on his 68th birthday.

As usual, the venerable manager of the World Champion Athletics decided to go to his tower office at Shibe Park for a short time looking after off-season baseball business.

Friends told the veteran pilot that he looked splendid, to which he replied: "I feel that way." And when it was intimated he might be getting ready to retire, he shot back: "Not on your life."

Connie smiled when some one asked if he thought baseball was losing its grip on the public. "A woman told me that a few years ago," he said. "I pointed out that she was wrong, that we were drawing bigger crowds than ever and that instead of attracting 250,000 in a season we drew that many in two weeks or a month. She was merely losing interest, and supposed others were doing the same."

Asked his opinion of night baseball, Mack said he had never witnessed it and could not comment on its merits. It will be a long time he thinks before the question is considered serious from a major league standpoint.

Protector Leads Class The season's honors for two-year-old trotters went to the big colt Protector, a son of Peter Volo, owned by Ralph R. Keefer, Auburn, N. Y., and driven by Will Catton.

The colt showed himself to be a top notcher on the half mile and mile tracks. At Syracuse, Protector finished second to Charlotte Hanover in 2:04 in the rich Wet Weather Stake, and later beat the Hanover Shoe Farms filly in the American Horse Breeders Futurity.

He gained the honor of being the season's fastest two-year-old trotter when he won the opening heat of the $7,000 Kentucky Futurity at Lexington in 2:03.

Paces Record Mile For three-year-old pacers, the 1930 championship went to the crack chestnut colt, Calumet Adam, 2:01 1/4, owned by Calumet Farm, Lexington, Ky. The son of Peter the Brewer, 2:03 1/4, staged his record mile in the opening heat of the $25,000 Pacing Derby at Kalamazoo.

The good colt, Handy Volo, 2:04 1/4, owned and driven by Ed Kirby, the Coshen, N. Y. reinsman, not only carried off the championship honors for two-year-old pacers for the 1930 season but for all seasons his 2:04 1/4 is a winning race at Syracuse being the best mile ever negotiated by a pacer of his age.

ROWING—Cornell's surprise victory in the Intercollegiate Regatta; the clean sweep of the school and Syracuse in the Hudson river classic. TRACK AND FIELD—Frank Wykoff's new record of 9 2-5 for the "100"; Paul Jessup's world's record shattering discus toss of 189 feet, 8 1/2 inches; Paavo Nurmi's new six-mile record.

By WILL GAHAGAN (Secretary, The Grand Circuit) New York.—(AP)—In many ways the season of 1930 was one of the most successful in the history of harness horse racing.

There were over 1,000 race meets held in the United States during the 1930 season, drawing 15,000,000 people. Approximately 8,000 horses raced for nearly $5,000,000.

The outstanding performer of the 1930 season was the sensational three-year-old trotting filly Hanover's Bertha (3) 1:59 1/4, owned by Hanover Shoe Farms, Hanover, Pennsylvania.

Piloted by Tom Berry, who trains and races the "shoe-string," the young daughter of Peter Volo, 2:02, topped the summary of each of her starts including the $60,000 Hambletonian Stake, richest of all events for harness horses.

She trotted a mile in 2:00 at Lexington and a few days later established a new world's record of 1:59 1/4 for three-year-old trotters.

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON," "THE AVENGING PARROT" and "MURDER BACKSTAIRS" BY ROSENEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUANITA SELIM is murdered at bridge. Possible suspects include LINDY CARR, the maid; DEWEY SPRAGUE, JOHN C. DRAKE, JUDGE MARSHALL, Nita's landlord, to whom she paid no rent; POLLY BEALE and OLIVE HAMMOND, in the solarium together at the time of the murder; FLORA MILES, JANET LYMOND and KALPH HAMMOND.

Flora Miles admits she was in Nita's closet reading a note which she thinks is from her husband, TRACEY, but which is really from Sprague. Ralph Hammond, engaged to Nita, finds out that Sprague is her lover, but his statement that he spent the night at a cheap hotel trying to "drink it off" and his innocence of Nita's death until the next morning seem to clear him.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR DUNDEE

is interested in finding out who paid Nita $10,000 since her arrival in Hamilton. At the request, most of the evidence is withheld, stress being laid on the theory that Nita was killed by a New York gunman. Lydia has arranged for Nita's cremation, as instructed and is given permission to take from the house the velvet dress, 12 or 13 years old which Nita chose for her wedding, and which Dundee suspects is a wedding dress. Dundee intends to take pictures of the body in the dress.

Asked to bring Nita's jewelry to the district attorney's office for keeping, Lydia says she doesn't know where Nita kept it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX

"I said I don't know where she kept her jewelry," Lydia retorted harshly. "It was worth much more than a hundred dollars altogether, I'll be bound, because Nita sold her last diamond not a week before we left New York. She owed so many bills then that the money she got by selling that ring was the only thing she had left. Do you know whether the jewelry was in the house or in a safe deposit box?" Dundee asked, excitement sharpening his voice.

"It must have been in the house, because she wore the different pieces any time she pleased," the maid answered. "I didn't ask no questions, and I didn't happen to see her get it or put it away. I didn't see much of the lady's maid work for her, like dressing her and fixing her hair—just kept her clothes and the house in order, and did what little cooking there was to do."

CHAPTER XXX

"Her dressing table?" Dundee prodded.

"The maid shook her head. 'I was always straightening up the drawers in both her dressing table and her desk, and she didn't keep the jewelry there.'"

"Captain Strawn, when you searched the dressing table and desk for the gun or anything of importance, did you have any reason to suspect a secret drawer in either of them?"

"No, Bonnie. They're just ordinary factory furniture. I tapped around for a secret drawer, of course, but there wasn't even any place for one," Strawn answered, with an indignant grin.

"I want to see Penny Crain!" Dundee cried, making for the door.

"Then you'd better come along to the courthouse with me," Sanderson called after him. "I sent her back to the office as soon as the inquest was adjourned."

The two men passed through the now deserted morgue chapel and almost bumped into a middle-aged man, obviously of the laboring class, in spite of his slicked-up Sunday appearance.

"You're the district attorney's man, sir?" he addressed Sanderson in a nervous, halting undertone.

"Yes, what is it?"

"I come to the inquest to give some information, and will offer an adjournment so quick I didn't have time."

"Who are you?" Sanderson interrupted impatiently.

"I'm Rawlins, sir. I worked for the poor lady, Mrs. Selim—gardening one day a week."

"Come to my office!" Sanderson commanded quickly, as a lingering reporter approached on a runner.

"No, no! I'm sorry, Harper," he said hastily, cutting into the reporter's questions. "Nothing new! You may say that the police have thrown out a dragnet"—and he grinned at the wry phrase—"for the gunman who killed Mrs. Selim, and will offer a reward for the recovery of the weapon—a Colt's .32 equipped with a Maxim silencer. . . . Come along, George, and I'll explain just what Mrs. Sanderson and I have in mind."

The district attorney and Dundee strode quickly away, and the man, Rawlins, after a moment of indecision, trotted after them.

"I don't understand, sir, and my name ain't George, it's Elmer."

"You don't have to understand anything, except that you're not to answer any question that any reporter asks you," Sanderson retorted.

When the trio entered the reception room of the district attorney's suite in the courthouse, Sanderson paused at Penny Crain's desk:

"Bring in your notebook, Penny. This man has some information he considers important."

A minute later, Sanderson had begun to question his voluntary but highly nervous witness.

"Your name?"

"It's Elmer Rawlins, like I told you, sir," the man protested, and flinched as Penny recorded his words in swift shorthand. "It was my wife as made me come. She said as long as me and her knowed I didn't do nothing wrong, I'd oughta come forward and tell what I knowed."

"Yes, yes!" Sanderson encouraged him impatiently. "You say you worked for Mrs. Selim as gardener one day a week—" when the steam furnace ain't being used. I live about a mile beyond the Crain place, that is, the house the poor lady was killed in—"

"Did you come to stoke the laundry heater Saturday evening?" Dundee interrupted. "Excuse me, sir, he turned to the district attorney, "but this is the first time I've seen this man."

"No, sir, I didn't stoke it Saturday night," Rawlins answered untruthfully. "You see, I was comin' up the road to do my chores at half-past six, like I always do, but before I got to the house I seen a lot of policemen's cars and motorcycles, and I didn't want to get mixed up in nothing, so I turned around and went home again. I didn't know what was up, but when me and the wife went into Hamilton Saturday night in our divver we seen one of the extras and read about how the poor lady was murdered. But that ain't what I was gettin' at, sir—"

"Well, what are you getting at?" Sanderson urged.

"Well, the extry said the police found some footprints in the front-yard of them two side windows to Mrs. Selim's bedroom, and went on to talk about the rose vines being torn, and straight off I said to the missus, 'Them's my footprints, Minnie.'—Minnie's my wife's name—"

"Your footprints?" Sanderson ejaculated, then shook with silent laughter. "There goes Strawn's case, Bonnie!" But immediately he was serious again, as the import of his own evidence came to him. "Tell us all about it, Rawlins. . . . When did you make those footprints?"

"Friday, sir. That's the day I gardened for Mrs. Selim. . . . You see, sir, the poor little lady said me he was kept awake at nights when there was a high wind by the rose vines tapping against the windows. Says she, 'I think they's somebody tryin' to get into my room, Elmer, and I could see the poor little thing was mighty nervous anyway, so I didn't waste no time. I cut away a lot of the rose vine and burned it when I was burnin' the garbage and papers in the 'cinerator out back.'"

"That all, Rawlins?" Sanderson asked.

"'Bout all that mounts to anything," the laborer deprecated. "But they was somethin' else that struck me as a little funny, when I come to the fire—"

"Well?" Sanderson prodded, as the man halted uncertainly.

"Well, it's like I told you, it was my job to burn the papers. That scar-face maid of Mrs. Selim's put everything—garbage and trash—in a big garbage can outside the back door, and I burnt 'em up. So I was kinder surprised Sat'dy mornin' when I went to stoke up the laundry heater, to find somebody'd been meddlin' with my job, and had the fire gone out. I had to clean out the ashes and build a new fire—"

"You're trying to say, I suppose, that you could sell by the ashes that someone had been burning paper?" Sanderson asked, with a quick glance at Dundee's tense face.

"That's right, sir," Rawlins agreed eagerly. "You know what kind of ashes a mess of paper leaves—layers of white ash, sir, that kinder looks like papers yit."

"Yes, I know. . . . And you found layers of white ashes, which you took particular pains to clean out?" Sanderson asked bitterly.

"Yes, sir. So's I could build a new fire—"

"Did you speak to the maid—ask her if she'd been meddling with your drafts?"

"Yes, sir, I did!" the man answered with a trace of belligerence. "She said she didn't open no dampers, claimed the heater was the same as usual when she left Friday night to go to a movie. So I reckon it was the poor lady herself, burnin' up love letters, maybe, or some such truck—"

"You're to keep your 'reckins' to yourself, Rawlins," Sanderson cut in emphatically. "Remember, now, you're not to tell anybody else what you've just told me. If that's all, you can go now, and I'm much obliged to you. Leave your address with the young lady here. You'll be needed later, of course."

The relieved man hurried out of the room on Penny's heels. Sanderson shrugged, then, when the door had closed, began heavily:

"It looks like you're right, Bonnie, about that blackmail business. Of course it all fits in with your theory that Nita had made up her mind to reform, marry Ralph Hammond, and be a very good girl indeed. . . . All right! You can have Penny in now. I think I know pretty well what you're going to ask her. And I may as well tell you that when Roger Crain stepped down with some securities he was known to possess, he hadn't got them from a safe deposit box, because he didn't have one." Sanderson pressed a button on the edge of his desk. . . .

Dundee was flushing as he put his question to the district attorney's private secretary:

"Penny, do you know whether there is a concealed safe in the Selim house?"

The girl, startled, began to shake her head, then checked herself. "Not that I ever saw, or knew of when Dad and Mother and I lived there, but—" She hesitated, her cheeks turning scarlet.

"Out with it, Penny!" Sanderson urged, his voice very kind.

"It's a night that if you really think there's a secret hiding place in the house, I believe I understand something that puzzled me when it happened," Penny confessed, her head high. "I was at the Country Club one night—a Saturday night—when the whole crowd is usually there for the dinner and dance. I'd been dancing with Ralph, and when the music stopped we went out on the porch, where several of our crowd were sitting. It was just two or three weeks after—after my father left town. Lois wouldn't let me drop out of things. . . . Anyway, it was dark and I heard Judge Marshall saying something about the simplest and most ingenious arrangement I ever saw. Of course that's where the jascal kept his securities. . . . I knew they were talking about Dad, from the way Judge Marshall shut up and changed the subject as soon as he saw me."

"Who was on the porch, Penny?" Dundee asked tensely.

"Why, let's see—Flora, and Johnny Drake, and Olive," she answered slowly. "I think that was all, besides Judge Marshall. The others hadn't come out from dancing. . . . Of course I don't know whether or not it was some 'arrangement' in the house—"

"Where are you going, boy?" Sanderson checked Dundee, who was already on his way to the door.

"Well, if it's tucked away in the 'simplest and most ingenious arrangement,' it will stay put for awhile," Sanderson said. "Lydia's dead here within half an hour, and you don't want to miss her, do you?"

"Who was on the porch, Penny?" Dundee asked tensely.

Evening Herald Pattern

No. 2834—What about a tunic frock—such a smart addition to one's wardrobe. Today's model is a crepe woolen in rust-red shade. The white wool lace collar and sleeve trim give it quite a smart finished effect. It achieves a slim neckline through the curved seaming of the circular collar at either side of the tunic. Designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The 36-inch size requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material with 1/4 yard of 35-inch allover lace and 2 yards of 35-inch lining.

No. 3230—Boys will be boys! And it is interesting to note the effect in their mannerism when garbed in mannish togs as the English sack suit illustrated. It is quite like dad's and gives young lads such a big thrill to wear a real mannish suit. Designed for boys of 6, 8, 9 and 10 years. The 8-year size requires 2 1/4 yards of 35-inch material with 1/4 yard of 35-inch lining.

No. 2665—A patterned wool and silk crepe mixture that is decidedly up-to-the-minute with its scarf neckline and sleeves that suggest leg-of-mutton shaping. It is slender too with the wrapped bodice at the front softened by a swathed movement at the waistline. Designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. The 36-inch size requires 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch material with 1/4 yard of 3-inch contrasting.

All patterns 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 23.—Just before the New Year swearing off season sets in, I have pledged myself never again to start a fledgling visitor through Manhattan's lion belt.

Of all the tame animals that roam the Manhattan jungle, the literary lion is the tamest, and yet the stranger expects him to be the most aloof and savage.

It's relatively easy to stalk a newcomer to film eminence to his lair. The screen celebrity has to attract attention for he is to become known. He must bask in the limelight and allow fingers to be pointed at him and eyes to stare at him.

But the average author is a timid soul, who runs from everything and save a lecture platform. And many run from this. I have found headquarters that when Ring Lardner appeared before the crowd recently the paper he held in his hands trembled like the well-known leaf in the wind.

And the toughest interview I ever tried to get was with the very Sinclair Lewis who has been so much in the front page limelight since he arrived in Stockholm for his Nobel prize. Lewis could never forget that he had been a newspaperman once himself, and he would interrupt his own comments a dozen times to extend the information that he felt silly about what he was saying.

All of which has to do with a recent annual dinner dance held by the Authors' League of America. I had taken as my guest a visiting fireman from San Francisco, who insisted on being shown all the

A RADIO ALDEN

New York, Dec. 31.—(AP.)—The Daily News today says that Morton Downey is doing a John Alden over the radio in an effort to reconcile Constance Bennett and her former husband, Phillip Plant.

Downey's song, "My Yesterday's With You" was written by Plant, the News says, and passed on to the tenor with the hope that Miss Bennett would interpret between the notes. Plant has postponed a hunting trip to Africa, says the paper, to await results.

Miss Bennett divorced the millionaire in Paris in 1929. Downey is the husband of her sister, Barbara.

They will meet before the annual meeting and bring in a slate of officers. Group 4 will serve as hostess at the annual meeting.

W. W. Robertson of Henry street who last week returned from a trip around the world and an extended visit in Australia, will give a talk on that country at a meeting of the Manchester Community club Monday evening, December 29, at the White House, 79 North Main street. Every one in or out of the community interested in hearing Mr. Robertson tell of his experiences will be welcome. Miss Christine Mason, director of social activities at the clubhouse, is making plans for a chicken pie supper to be given on that evening, details of which will be announced later.

Miss Ruth Behrend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Behrend of Walnut street and a sophomore at Tufts college, is home for the holidays.

Mrs. Harry Trotter of Holl street gave her annual Christmas party at her home yesterday afternoon for her piano pupils. Dorothy Johnston in the role of Santa Claus saw to it that each one received a gift. Games of different kinds and refreshments helped to pass a merry afternoon.

The White House on North Main street, the headquarters of the Manchester Community club, has taken on the festive air of Christmas both outside and in. Through the kindness of one of the directors the exterior of the building has been decorated. ## Airplane Pilot Discovers Victim of Gangster War

Hicksville, N. Y., Dec. 23.—(AP)—An airplane pilot leaning out of the cockpit to safeguard his take-off, spotted a victim of violent death yesterday in the tall brown grass of the aviation country club. The pilot, Benjamin Adamowicz, circled the spot several times to verify his discovery and flew to Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to report to police. They found the body lying face down with five bullet wounds in the back and one in the chest.

The man was identified from police records as Stephen E. Sweeney, 22, of Elmhurst, N. Y., an ex-convict. Police said he was six months out of Sing Sing, where he had served a two and a half to five year sentence for violating his parole on a burglary conviction. Although the motive for the shooting was in doubt, officials believe Sweeney was the victim of gangland vengeance or a personal grudge. In reconstructing the events, they said he probably was shoved from a car and ordered to run, the bullets cutting him down in flight.

PAYING DEPOSITORS

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The task of paying loans to 5,500 depositors of the closed bank of United States began today at six of its branches. Extra police guards were posted to keep order.

The loans are being made by banks affiliated with the Clearing House Association under an emergency plan worked out by the State Banking Department. The Clearing House banks offered to loan depositors up to 50 per cent of their deposits, and 5,500 persons filed application.

At a branch in the Bronx a line almost a block long formed under the watchful eyes of 15 patrolmen and several detectives.

HENNESSY SENTENCED

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—James W. Hennessy, former public administrator of Richmond county (Staten Island), was sentenced to two years and a half in Sing Sing prison today.

He was brought into court on charges of violating the probation under which he was placed several weeks ago, when sentence was suspended after he had pleaded guilty to embezzling funds of estates placed under his care.

Hennessy was given a suspended sentence November 14 and Judge Edwin S. Brown ordered him "to make restitution to the little boys and girls and to the widows from whom you took the money—inadvertently, I believe."

Hennessy and his counsel, Francis X. McNamara, also pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges growing out of the embezzlement and were jointly directed to restore to the public administrator's office, in charge of settlement of estates, $53,000, the sum of the speculations.

LONDON FOG TIES UP RAIL, WATER TRAFFIC

London, Dec. 23-(AP)-Opaque fog, thickened by soot and smoke from London's soft coal burning factories again pressed down on London and southern England today hampering communications and slowing down shipping in adjacent waters to almost complete stoppage. Veterans recalled the fogs of 30 years ago, before the soft coal nuisance had become so pronounced as being the only conditions of recent time comparable with conditions in southern England during the past few days.

The greatest tie-up of rail, highway, air and water transportation in the memory of the younger generation has resulted. One of the worst accidents occurred off Gravesend, when a ferryboat fouled a buoy in the inky darkness and 400 passengers had to be transferred to tugs for the trip ashore. Altogether seven persons have been killed within the last day in accidents due to the fog.

TALKIES TO BE USED AS CHURCH SERVICES

Houston, Tex., Dec. 23-(AP)-Talking picture machines will give mechanical church services in four Presbyterian churches here January 12-15.

H. Paul James, young member of the division of visual aids, publication department of the board of Christian education, Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., gave a private demonstration of the program yesterday.

The equipment, if it satisfies the board, will be offered to churches all over the nation. Mr. James said. The program included an organ prelude-"The Angelus"-the showing of the 23rd psalm, illustrated in color with musical background; a number of hymns, two talking pictures in which Dr. William Ralph Hill, director of the department of home and church, and Dr. William Chalmers Covett, general secretary of the board, spoke-and a postlude.

Mr. James said he believed the equipment could be installed for a maximum of $1,500.

NOTED AUTHOR ILL

London, Dec. 23-(AP)-Sir James Barrie, famous author and playwright is confined to his bed suffering with a severe chills. He is 70.

It was said at his house today he had passed a fairly good night.

Sir James was "quite comfortable" it was said at his house, but his doctors asserted that he would have to spend a quiet Christmas in bed and not do any work.

700 ARE KILLED BY JAVA VOLCANO

Amsterdam, Holland, Dec. 23-(AP)-Seven hundred natives were killed and 15,000 head of cattle perished in the recent eruption of Merapi, the volcano in Java. Reports from Java today said red lava still covered the fertile grazing lands, accounting for the heavy loss of stock.

Eight native villages were wiped out, several others suffered heavy casualties and thousands of refugees are pouring into the larger towns in central Java. It has been impossible to move rescue parties into the affected area because of the showers of ashes which continue to fall.

SIX HUNDRED MILLION FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Washington, Dec. 23-(AP)-Six hundred million dollars is the total reached at the White House in adding up various funds made available by Congress for expenditure on public works this fiscal year.

A lot of it has already been spent. Even more will go out in the immediate months to come as a result of the $116,000,000 appropriation enacted last week. The fiscal year ends with June 30, but the construction program extends beyond that.

The appropriations for Federal construction for the present fiscal year, it was said at the White House, were greatly increased upon the President's recommendations by the long session of Congress as an aid to employment during the latter part of 1930 and the first half of 1931.

At the same time, the various executive departments also were authorized to take the necessary technical preparation for future construction work which was authorized but not appropriated for. Most of the emergency fund will be spent on this type of work.

LABOR FILES PROTEST

Richmond, Va., Dec. 23-(AP)-J. Fred Cherry, president of the Virginia Federation of Labor, today filed a protest with Governor Pollard against what he termed "misuse of the state's military department to spread propaganda emanating from the mill owners in Danville."

Quoting press reports of statements of Acting Adjutant General Samuel G. Waller that a large percentage of Danville cotton mill strikers would immediately return to work if they "could be given assurance of protection against the troops leave," Mr. Cherry said General Waller's statements were inaccurate and constituted "pure propaganda against the strikers."

The protest said the Federation of Labor had representatives in Danville on December 7 and December 14. These men, Cherry said, mingled freely with the strikers and reported the mill workers "are more determined not to return to work in the mills until their grievances are adjusted than they were at the beginning of the strike."

OLD INVENTOR DIES

Upon arriving in New York he came directly to this city. Five years later he removed to Meriden and while there invented the Turnbull spring scale. He sold the invention to George S. Landers, one of the founders of Landers, Frey and Clark of this city.

Twenty years later he re-entered the retail hardware business which was eventually absorbed by the Abbe Hardware company.

Mr. Turnbull was the oldest Mason in the city.

The father was driven out of his parish in November and returned to rescue his vestments and sacred vessels. Communists seized him when he arrived at the mission station, and stripped and beat him unmercifully.

Then they blinded him with lime and led him a short distance from the station with a rope tied around his neck with which they slowly strangled him. He was buried without a coffin.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

CHRISTMAS

Christmas turns our thoughts to values that are expressed by such words as home, children, friendship, love, its coming makes us realize that the aim of progress is the protection and elevation of these values.

Exceptions to the Rule

'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house not a creature was stirring, with the exception of— Father, who wants to know what happened to the Christmas tree stand when he put it away last year.

May the joys of the Christmas season be yours in abundance.

I am a Christmas tree. I am not the kind that is all aglow one day in the year and then is cast aside and forgotten.

FLAPPER-FANNY SAYS:

Some girls will fall for any old skate.

the year. But as a Christmas tree I bear upon my branches gifts for all of you. My gifts are these: News—all the news for all the people all the time; clean news, wholesome news, news of hope and not of despair, the kind of news that you can read and talk over around the family circle; Ideals and Faith and Courage—ideals toward which to strive to make our community a better place in which to live, faith the essential righteousness and honesty of our people, courage in upholding the cause of justice and condemning the wrong; Leadership and Progressiveness and Service—leadership in those causes which make for the good of our community, progressiveness in seeing beyond the immediate need and the immediate fulfillment of that need; service to the community in protecting its people from danger and fraud and sorrow.

EXPENSIVE TASK

London.—E. F. Cox, the Englishman who undertook the gigantic task of salvaging the wreckage of the German fleet at Scapa Flow, is finding his job an expensive one.

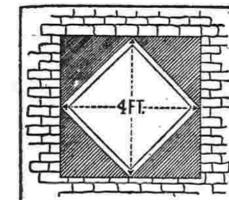

HALTING WITCHES

London.—Zig-zag patterns so often painted on walls, fire-places and other parts of a house weren't put there for mere decorations.

CLOUDY AND COLDER

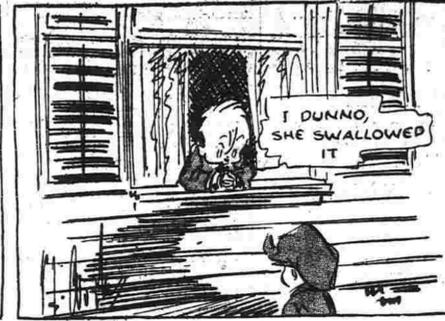

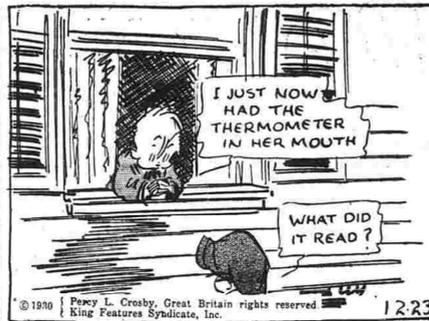

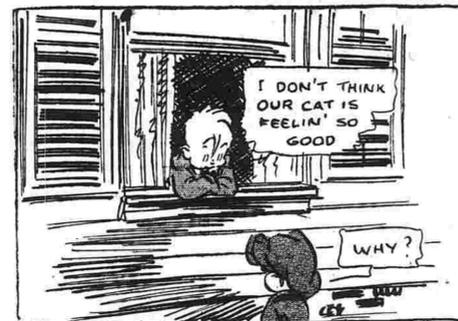

Berlin.—One of the queerest meteorological stations in the world is being erected on Greenland's wind-swept shores by the German government.
