MILITARY POMP MARKS FUNERAL OF FRENCH HERO

Over 10,000 Attend Requiem Mass At Notre Dame As Final Honors Are Paid To Marshal Joffre.

Paris, Jan. 7.—(AP)—All the pomp and ceremony of France was summoned today for final funeral honors for Marshal Joffre, who in 1914 in a single battle on the Marne hurled the invading German hordes back to the gates of Paris.

Military bands with drums and trumpets hung with crepe stood along the course stationed at intervals of 1,000 yards.

Arrival of the President was the signal for beginning of the requiem services at Notre Dame. With his entrance the huge organ played "Libera Me Domine."

In the services at the Cathedral of Notre Dame, Monsignor Tissier of Chalons-sur-Marne, known to all France as the "Bishop of the Marne" sang the absolution for the man at whose side he had stood when Joffre moved his armies like chessmen against the invading enemy.

REBELS' LEADER IS STILL ALIVE

Burman Found Dead In Jungle Palace Not "Man Who Would Be King."

Rangoon, Burma, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Officials today expressed the belief that Burma's "Man Who Would Be King," reported killed in a battle with British troops January 3, was still alive.

They thought the mysterious leader of the recent revolt, in which many lives were lost, escaped when his bamboo palace in the wilds near Tharrawaddy was captured and destroyed by British troops.

'Trade Wind' Arrives At Bermuda Islands

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The monoplane Trade Wind arrived here at 1:55 p. m. The flight from Hampton Roads, Va., required six hours and fifty-five minutes and completed the first leg of a projected flight to Paris by way of the Azores.

ORDERS ARE PILING IN AS MEN RESUME WORK

Advices From Industrial Centers Reveal In Many Cases That Local Conditions Are Back To Normal.

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Work and pay for many thousands of persons beneath the spreading smoke of new-built or re-built factory fires is industrial America's new year contribution to employment.

Orders for rails, for rail cars, for locomotives, for automobiles for steamships, for corn products, for hardware, explosives, plumbing and window glass as well as dwindling stocks of once over-producing textiles are demanding the laying-on of erstwhile idle hands.

Advices from industrial sections, taking no account of construction, revealed in some cases enough factory re-opening to alleviate materially local conditions. Added was the indication of numerous plants about to start in which no estimate was made of the number of men expected to be employed.

Rush Orders The Sanitary Manufacturing Company said rush orders for 800 cans of enamel work enabled it to add 2,000 men to its plants in Louisville, Ky., Baltimore, Md. and Pittsburg, Pa.

Order of 40 new locomotives for the New York Central Railroad assured an increase of employment in the Schenectady plant of the American Locomotive Company and reports from the Crown Manufacturing Company Cotton Mills, at Dalton, Ga., and Chert, Pesbody & Company at Atlanta and Bremen, Ga., indicate they expected to reach capacity production sometime during January and all of them were recalling their forces.

More than 1,000 skilled mechanics returned to work at the shops of the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Elizabeth after a shutdown of several weeks. In Newark about 1,500 men went to work on a city railway project in which steam shovels are being replaced with hand labor in order to create more jobs.

The RCA-Victor Company's plant at Camden, N. J., resumed operations affecting about 4,000 workers after a month's suspension. In the Los Angeles area 14 industrial plant expansions and 11 new manufacturing companies were expected to provide employment for 2,000 to 3,000 persons within a short time.

HIJACKING GANG LEADER CAUGHT BY POLICE HERE

One of Trio That Robbed Hotel Employee, Stole Liquors and Fought Pursuers Captured Here.

Louis E. Spencer, of 18 Warner street, Hartford, one of three armed bandits who high-jacked a liquor case and stuck-up a hotel employee for $250 in West Warwick, R. I., and later gave Connecticut state police a running gun fight outside of Plainfield last night, is being held at the police station here charged with illegal transportation of intoxicants and with being a fugitive from justice.

Hold Up Employee Spencer and his two confederates enticed John McLaughlin, an employee of the Windsor Hotel in West Warwick, R. I. from his work at 7:30 last night forced him to turn over the cash he had on his person, amounting to about $250 and then made him open up a shed nearby in which a large quantity of intoxicating liquors was stored.

Escape Into Woods Word of the holdup was broadcast through Rhode Island and the Danielson barracks of the State Police was notified. Later in the evening the Buick automobile was spotted by police on guard between Mousup and Plainfield and they gave chase. A running gun fight followed until the bandits turned their ma-

IS INAUGURATED AT CAPITAL

GOVERNOR WILBUR LUCIUS CROSS

MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR IS UNUSUALLY BRIEF

Shortest Delivered In At Least 52 Years, Executive Clerk Rood Declares; Suggests Means To Repeal the 18th Amendment.

Hartford, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The inaugural message of Governor Cross was one of the shortest in memory of the oldest member of the General Assembly. Frank D. Rood, executive clerk, who is just beginning his 52d year in that office, had to do some hard thinking to recall one any shorter and then he failed.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY MEETS AT CAPITOL New Senate and House Organized — Officers Are Named At Opening Session

State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The General Assembly session of 1931, as hereafter it will be known, was organized and began its task of making laws this morning, preliminary to the inauguration of Wilbur L. Cross as Governor.

TUNNEY GETS OVATION State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 7.—(AP)—An ovation for Major James J. (Gene) Tunney, aide on the staff of Governor Wilbur L. Cross, during the inaugural parade this afternoon, overshadowed that which greeted the new governor and his escort, the retiring governor, John H. Trumbull.

TREASURY BALANCE Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for January 5 were $6,345,700.92; expenditures, $18,008,551.45; balance, $279,511,415.83.

MRS. TRUMBULL HURT BY AUTO

Wife of Ex-Governor Not Badly Injured As She Is Knocked Down By Car—Streets of Hartford Crowded As Inaugural Parade Gets Under Way; Capitol Itself Thronged With Visitors When Officials Arrive—Ideal Weather For Marchers—First and Second Companies of Foot Guard Make Impressive Appearance — Gene Tunney Gets Big Ovation All Along the Line—Governor's Ball To Be Held This Evening.

State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 7.—(AP)—An old-fashioned Democrat who lived in the atmosphere of an educator for two generations and who only last June entered the arena of political life—Wilbur L. Cross, dean emeritus of Yale graduate school—today rode up Capitol Hill to take office as 71st governor of Connecticut.

As he pointed out later in his inaugural message read to the newly organized General Assembly, Governor Cross took up his executive duties as sole representative of his party in the state administration. Both branches of law making today were present to see the oath given and with which he will be in contact for the next five months, are dominantly Republican.

The scene and the circumstances while not unprecedented were unique in political and legislative history. Impressive Ceremonies The inauguration of Governor Cross was amid the same distinctive, simple yet impressive, ceremonies which have been used for many generations to place a chief magistrate in the State's highest and most distinguished office. It was the same ceremony which attended his predecessors in that office, the same manner of administering the oath, after the governor-elect had ridden over from the latter there was the state-ly march of the retiring governor and the high sheriff of Hartford county, the justices of the Supreme Court of Errors, and followed by the state officers elect and the staff of the retiring governor.

Allen B. Lambkin, detailed from the National Guard, with Major J. J. McGarry and James A. Shanley, who were accompanied by his wife, Mrs. John Coolidge and Miss Jean Trumbull.

Along the curb many persons waited to see the chief executive, the outgoing and incoming governors and the latter's notable aide, Major Tunney.

The guard was in its field uniform with great coat of blue and both companies wore their bear skin abakos.

The other units were in service equipment. Arriving at the capitol the Foot Guard was formed in double lines from the driveway to the portals and the staircase leading to the second floor. Between lines walked the two governors with the guard at salute.

Major Coolidge did not come up but will escort Mrs. Coolidge to the ball tonight.

When Tunney, who is the retired heavyweight champion of the world, appeared at the Hartford Club prior to the start of the uniformed escort, a great throng acclaimed him. The two governors posing for their picture together had a hearty round of cheers but this was faint compared with the uproar which greeted the newly crowned major.

IN THE SENATE The new Senate was dilatory in meeting and Secretary of State Higgins was a bit nervous, he saying he liked to have things start on the dot. On Senator Connor's desk was a floral basket and several of other Senators.

OBITUARY Mrs. Angelina Mazzoli Succumbs To Heart Disease Early Today - Ran Oak St. Store.

While the ballot was being counted Goldstein was sworn in. The first laugh came when Secretary Higgins told Senator Goldstein that he could vote and the latter replied that he had already voted (before he was sworn in).

ARISING FROM WORK, FINDS MOTHER DEAD Mrs. Angelina Mazzoli, wife of Emilio Mazzoli proprietor of a confectionery store at 21 Oak street, was found dead in her bed at 3 o'clock this morning when her daughter, Emma, mistaken in the time, tried to awaken her.

Deaths Mr. Lavery said in his speech of acceptance: "I appreciate very deeply the honor which has been conferred upon me by my election to president pro tem of this body. I hope to perform the duties devolved upon me in such a way as to win the respect and confidence of every member of the Senate."

ASKS AMENDMENT When the resolution was read to adopt the 1929 rules, Senator Bergin, who is minority leader, moved an amendment to provide for a committee membership on all joint committees. A roll call was ordered and the amendment lost by party vote.

Surprise at Session The surprise in the business done was a change adopted in the joint rules increasing the membership of Senators from two to three. Joint committees will be three Senators and 13 Representatives. The extra place will give opportunity for appointment of a Democratic Senatorship if the Republicans can do so.

G CLEF GLEE CLUB AT BEST LAST NIGHT

Charity Concert Finds Girls' Chorus In Fine Voice; Excellent Program.

Because this community, like every other one, is cutting its entertainment garments according to its cloth, the concert of the G Clef Club given at High School hall last evening for the benefit of the town charity fund was less well attended than the merits of the affair deserved.

It was the opinion of music lovers who have followed the career of the G Clef club that this group of young women never sang so well before as they did last evening.

Perhaps the outstanding choral number was the third, "God of All Nature," by Tchaikovsky, in which the voices and the orchestration by the Ralph Mixer six-piece ensemble were beautifully blended.

Other notably fine numbers were an unusual choral and orchestral arrangement of Brahms' "Hungarian Dances Nos. 5 and 6," and "Glory to God in the Highest," by Pergolesi, an echo song in which the off-stage voices of Miss Elsie Berggren, soprano, Mrs. Norma Erickson, second soprano, and Miss Esther Anderson, contralto, were employed to really remarkable effect.

None of the offerings was better received than "Let the Chorus Sing" by Gaul, with a union of chorus, ensemble and solo parts sung by G. Albert Pearson, baritone-bass, and Miss Berggren, both of the soloists acquitting themselves admirably.

The audience was especially delighted, too, with Miss Berggren's solo with chorus, "Fluttering Birds," by Manuzucca, the solo part being in the nature of an obligato of flute tones to which Miss Berggren's voice proved to be peculiarly suited.

Soloist in Fine Voice. G. Albert Pearson's contribution of a group of three solos and an encore was one of the notable features of the evening. He sang the robust "Bedouin Love Song" of Pissute in splendid voice and form, the tenderly contrasting "Der Asra" of Rubenstein and the sparkling "The Green Eyed Dragon," by Charles, with equal success. His encore was "Supreme Adventure," by Wallace.

The contribution of the instrumental ensemble, consisting of two violins, cello, clarinet, flute and piano, to the enjoyment of the occasion was not slight. The quality of its music was generally regarded as considerably higher than that provided by the ensemble at last year's G Clef concert.

The whole performance was under the direction of Helge Pearson, whose training of the club has proven one of the major musical achievements of recent years in Manchester.

LUCKY STRIKES, CREMOS CAMPAIGN ORDERED

A big advertising campaign for Lucky Strike cigarettes and Cremo cigars was announced yesterday by George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company, the concern controlling the output of these two products.

FIVE COPS ON TRIAL

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Five policemen went on departmental trial today and the half-finished trial of four others was adjourned pending disposition of a perjury indictment against one of them.

The nine are among 28 members of the police vice squad named at an appellate investigation of Magistrate's Court by "Chile" Acuna, ex-policeman, in his former employment, in "framing" women on vice charges.

EIGHTH MAY CONVENTION ON CONSOLIDATION

Meeting For Discussion Only Is Proposed—Can Be Called By Ten Voters of District.

At the monthly meeting of the Eighth School and Utilities District held last night, the matter of school consolidation was considered and while this is not a body that governs the management of the schools in the district, meetings of the district are called by the president of the directors, W. W. Robertson.

In the charter of the Eighth School and Utilities District there is a provision made that in case it is the desire of the resident of the district to meet for free discussion of matters of interest to the district that such a meeting can be called on a petition signed by ten voters of the district.

In this meeting there can be discussion only and it serves as an educational meeting on any important event that is likely to interest the district and its voters. Such action taken is not binding, but serves only as a means of showing the sentiment on the question for discussion.

On Wednesday evening, January 21, the W. B. A. members will sponsor a dance at the City View dance hall on Keeney street. The Neubauer Trio has been engaged to provide music and Griswold Chappel will be the announcer.

FALSE CREDIT SCHEME WORKED IN STORE HERE

Women Make Small Deposit, Give Fake Address, and Walk Out With Garments.

The Hartford police are making an effort to round up what seems to be a gang operating out of that city securing dresses, coats, suits and other women's apparel by fraud and in their search goods secured in a Manchester store, detected because of the tag, had been found.

The plan under which they work is to enter a store, make a selection of the goods to be purchased and then open an account, making a deposit if necessary, and furnishing references if such are asked. They have in many cases given false addresses and sometimes give an address of a local person who is in good standing in Manchester.

There were two women concerned in the operations in Manchester and just what their connections are with a ring that is acting in a similar manner in Hartford and throughout the county is not known.

President of Women's College So Explains Student's Fall From Moving Train.

New London, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A possible solution to the mystery surrounding the critical injuries suffered by Miss Wilhelmina C. Brown, of West New Brighton, N. Y., student at the Connecticut College here, was seen today in a statement by Dr. Katharine Blunt, president of the college, to the effect that the girl has been the victim of fainting spells occasionally during the past few months.

Miss Brown, who was found lying beside the railroad tracks near Stratford yesterday morning, was still unconscious at the Bridgeport hospital this afternoon where she is confined with a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries.

In speaking of the matter today Dr. Blunt said that Miss Brown, who is a sophomore, was a friendly girl who took a great interest in her work at the college and who had a large circle of friends.

Due to occasional fainting spells the college official believes that Miss Brown had gone to an open door on the train and took from New York for this city to get some fresh air upon feeling faint and had fainted and fell from the train.

New Governor In Inaugural Address Discusses the Appointment of Judges, His Veto Power, Time Limit For Signing of Bills, Business Depression and Building Program—Takes Up Pensions For Aged Persons, Re-adjustment of Taxes, Public Utilities and Other Matters—His Message In Full.

Following is the full text of Governor Cross's Message:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly: It is the will of the citizens of Connecticut that the responsibility for the government of the State during the next two years shall be divided between the two leading political parties. One party has been given control of the General Assembly and to the other has been entrusted "the supreme executive power of the State" in association with officers of State and National governments. The situation thus created, though not unprecedented in the history of Connecticut, is an extreme instance of what may occur at any time under the American form of government. As Governor I stand alone as the immediate representative, not of a party merely, but of all the people of the State. I have carefully studied my duties under a Constitution which confers upon the Governor certain advisory powers in regard to legislation and an important influence upon the courts in connection with appointments. I have sworn to abide by the provisions of this Constitution, which enjoins upon me to take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

Appointment of Judges

I am not unmindful of many unusual restrictions placed by the Constitution upon the office of Governor in this State. To these restrictions general of my predecessors have called attention. The present system of appointing judges, for instance, is anomalous. The judges of the higher courts are now appointed by the General Assembly on the nomination of the Governor, while the Governor, with one exception, has no real part in the appointment of minor judges. It has to be held responsible for the faithful execution of the laws, the power which he now has to nominate to the General Assembly Judges of the Supreme Court, and the Courts of Common Pleas, should be extended to the Judges of city, borough, and town courts. To this vision of our procedure. This is the least that should be done. With a view to improvement in the administration of justice I recommend an increase in the number of Judges of the Superior Court, and I appoint in principle an Act recommended by the Judicial Council of Connecticut that in place of the present city, borough, and town courts there be substituted a District Court system in which all judges shall be appointed by the Governor, as confirmed by the House and the Senate. The recommendation of the Judicial Council, if carried into effect, would bring for the first time in the history of Connecticut all our courts into one integrated system. I cannot speak too strongly in favor of the proposal made by a body of our most eminent jurists.

The Veto Power

The Governor's negative power over legislation also needs to be strengthened. The people of the State are, I daresay, generally unaware that the Governor's veto may be overridden by a mere majority in the two Houses of the General Assembly. This is not in accord with the provisions of the constitutions of most of the States of the Union, which, in general, follow the Federal Constitution in requiring a two-thirds vote in both Houses to overcome a veto. It may be conceded that there is a presumption in favor of any measure passed by the General Assembly, but if a Governor after careful consideration is forced to the conclusion that a particular measure is ill-advised, he should be able to exercise not formal but a vital veto against it. This, I apprehend, is a true function of his office in the interest of the people. Accordingly, I recommend that proper quite the same aims. If there is one outstanding inference to be drawn from the recent election, it is that partisanship in Connecticut shall recede into the background and give place to partisanship in the conduct of public affairs. This is the clear how far we may succeed in the task they have imposed upon us. In the end they will pass judgment upon our stewardship.

Model Government

The great body of intelligent citizens have become convinced that government is likely to be good in so far as it is severed from political considerations in a narrow sense. In the present stage of knowledge government cannot be essentially scientific as it may become at some time. In the natural sciences, knowledge rests upon the firm and sure basis of laws and formulations, which, however much they may be modified by succeeding generations of investigators, still remain unremoved from their original foundations. In contrast, very few economic and social principles lying behind good government have universal application. For the most part they are tentative and empirical. As yet there has appeared no Darwin in the science of government and perhaps none will ever appear because of the great complexity of social phenomena. Still, much has been accomplished within the present century in the study of all those human relations which pertain to good government and the welfare of the people. As I have read the current reports of various Boards and Commissions, I have not failed to observe the extent to which those in control have been assisted by experts in the fields they cover. Nor have I failed to observe that sometimes the most has not been made of accessible knowledge. There is no State in the Union more happily situated than Connecticut, with her admirable schools, colleges, and universities, for the establishment of a model government in all its branches. Such an achievement may be brought about in the course of years by wise concerted action. It is our business to advance that day.

An Emergency Committee

As an inevitable result of the disregard of sound economic principles in the decade after the confusion of the World War, the State and the Nation are confronted with an all-pervading business depression. A collapse in agriculture was succeeded by a collapse in industry, with widespread unemployment as the consequence. Even in the most prosperous times the great mass of people live on an economic border line. The moment remunerative employment ceases they fall below that line into distress which if prolonged, becomes most acute like the distress that now stares us in the face. Especially in the cities whole families are without food and fuel; and being unable to pay their rent, they are in danger of losing shelter. Municipal governments are coming to their rescue, but it is not unlikely that assistance by the State will become necessary before the winter is over. At any rate we should be ready to meet such an emergency. For this reason I recommend the creation of an Emergency Committee of Relief with a wide latitude of powers and an appropriation sufficient to meet pressing needs as they may arise. The Committee should have the power to open the armories of the State if occasion demands, to house the homeless therein, and to provide them with beds and bedding, in cooperation with existing organizations where. The Committee might well function as a centralized employment unit to coordinate the work of many agencies now in operation throughout the State. Some of you may hesitate to grant the Governor authority to appoint such a Committee because it would appear to be a departure from the traditional functions of government which have prevailed in Connecticut. But a crisis justifies unusual action. In the present instance I am quite willing to assume the leadership and the responsibility.

Thinning State Forests

There are signs, which I fervently hope may not be illusory, that we have passed beyond the lowest point in the depression, and will soon be appreciably on the upward curve. Still, there is at best a period ahead of many and difficult economic adjustments before prosperity can again be ours. The uncertain length of this period will be shortened if economic forces are permitted to work silently without the intrusion of political panaceas. In the interim, it is a sound policy for Connecticut to keep up, as is now being done, all the construction work authorized by the General Assembly two years ago, and to enlarge upon it during the next biennial period. In providing further winter work for the unemployed, the State Forester has suggested that it is a favorable time to move forward in a plan for thinning out the State forests, aggregating 55,000 acres, distributed in various parts of the State. The State Forester informs me, "are greatly in need of thinning, and there are thousands of cords of wood going to waste, which could be utilized if there were money available for employing choppers and trucks." I submit to you with approval an appropriation for the purpose he names. This work, I am assured, may be immediately undertaken under the supervision of the State Park and Forest Commission.

Building Program

You will be asked to consider a comprehensive building program which in general has my approval. Among the large items are additions to the sanatoria for tuberculosis patients, the reconstruction of the central main building of the State Hospital at Middletown; a school building and three cottages at Long Lane Farm at Middletown; the nurses' home at the Mansfield Training School and Hospital for Defectives; an administrative and service building at the Mystic Oral School for the Deaf; a home for the male employees at the Norwich State Hospital; a school, a shop, residences, cottages, and an administrative building for the Connecticut School for Boys at Meriden; a building for defective delinquents at the Niantic State Farm for Women; an infirmary for the Veterans' Home; and a home-economics building at the Connecticut Agricultural College. These participate in an incomplete survey of a building program for the next biennial period calling for a capital outlay in excess of six million dollars. Ordinarily none of the funds to carry through these and other building projects, if they meet with your approval, would be available during the present fiscal period, which closes on the thirtieth of June. There would thus intervene a delay of six months. Owing, however, to the unemployment situation, I request the passage of such legislation as may be necessary in order that a beginning on the building program may be made at once.

Tuberculosis Sanatoria

Quick action in regard to the tuberculosis sanatoria is imperative. The present capacity of these sanatoria, five in number, is approximately 974 beds, of which towards 300 are for children. There is a scandalously large waiting list among both children and adults. I trust that every member of the General Assembly will read the current report of the State Tuberculosis Commission, wherein the Chairman says: "At this writing we have more than 400 tuberculosis patients waiting for admission to the sanatoria—more than 400 citizens of Connecticut sick with tuberculosis who realize that their only chance of escaping from the clutches of the monster that is dragging them to their graves, lies in securing admission to the splendid institutions which their State has erected for their salvation. We have said so much on this subject in our last two reports that we are loath to dwell long on it in this report. The appeal in our last report was not entirely fruitless. Appropriations were made by the last General Assembly that enabled us to increase the bed capacity of Laurel Heights by 100 beds and the capacity of Undercliff by 45 beds. But when all these beds are occupied, we shall still have about 300 patients on our waiting list. The situation, therefore, demands that the General Assembly give us an immediate appropriation for at least three one-hundred-bed units, two for Norwich and one for Hartford, or preferably if future needs be considered, two units for Hartford and two for Norwich." This recommendation, asking for four rather than three one-hundred-bed units, has my full approval. In the hope that you will agree with me that work on the new buildings may be soon undertaken so that relief may be secured before the coming of another winter. Moreover, the State Tuberculosis Commission will consider whether temporary hospitalization facilities are not now available in Waterbury and New Haven, and report, with recommendations, to the Governor or to the General Assembly. I shall look back on no achievement of my administration with more satisfaction than on our mutual efforts to provide adequate facilities for the care and cure of those who are suffering from a devastating disease.

Rural Roads

There will also be presented for your consideration a very large budget by the State Highway Department, approximately $23,000,000, for the next biennial period, which, if approved by you in essentials, will still further mitigate the condition of the unemployed. The building of the trunk line system and State-aid roads has progressed rapidly during the last decade. There are, however, still several congested sections. I would particularly call your attention to the necessity of building, as soon as possible, the so-called Merritt Boulevard in Fairfield County to ease the very heavy traffic between the State and New York to points west and south. A most pressing need also is a comprehensive plan for the building and the improvement of rural roads. The time has come, in popular phrases, "to take the farmer out of the mud." During the winter months many of the rural roads are impassable by automobile and very few of them are ordinarily in good condition. The ideal towards which we should strive is a complete network of good roads from all villages and outlying districts, tied in with the state roads and trunk lines, so that all parts of the State may be readily accessible to farmers and city dwellers alike. It is for you to work out a proper program covering a number of years. I await in pleasant anticipation an opportunity to approve a bill for rural roads such as you may agree upon for the purpose of a proper allocation of the income from the gasoline tax and motor-vehicle registration fees. Again, I request that you take action during the first months of the present session of the General Assembly.

Pensions for Aged Persons

It is but a step from the relief of the unemployed and the tuberculosis to the relief of the aged who in their latter years fall into poverty and distress with no children or other near relatives able to assist them. For them now it is usually "over the hill to the poorhouse." Throughout the country, church, labor, humanitarian, and other organizations are endeavoring to find a substitute for this repulsive institution, which, though centuries old, first began to acquire its present character a hundred years ago with the dominance of the laissez-faire theory of government in the United States and Great Britain. You are all aware how Charles Dickens in novel after novel, intervened to stay the onward march of a relentless competitive system which then began to grind down the poor and the unfortunate. There must always be hospitals for the poor and aged sick, unless they can be cared for in the existing hospitals. But for aged persons, who, though not ill, are in distress, as many as twelve states have enacted an Old Age Pension Law. At this time I will not tax your patience with an array of figures dealing with the cost of a pension system, the number of people who would probably be affected by it, and such miscellaneous data. I prefer now to advocate the principle and to urge upon your legislative committee to marshal all the facts from the experience of other States pertinent to the subject with a view to early action after full and careful deliberation.

Income and Expenditures

It is hardly necessary for me to say that proposed expenditures of unusual magnitude should be kept within expected income during the next biennial period. As a general principle, I am opposed to the creation of a permanent debt except in cases of great emergency. There is, I think, a fallacy involved in the position generally taken by states and municipalities that so-called capital outlays should be financed by bond issues. The argument for this policy appears to me to rest upon a false analogy drawn from private business. The capital outlays of private business are made on the expectation that they will earn interest and amortization with the chance of something more in the way of profit. A private business concern always aims to keep solvent, with liabilities that are offset by at least equal assets. The situation is quite different in the business of government. When, for instance, money is put into a pension fund, it is not an investment in the strict meaning of the word. It will never yield interest or provide funds for amortization by the time it is worn out by use. In general it cannot be liquidated; it is not an asset which can offset a State's bonded or floating debt. I do not mean to argue that a State Government is never justified in borrowing; it is justified in so doing in order to meet the expense of some extraordinary undertaking which will not be repeated in the near future and which it is necessary that the people have in advance of the revenue with which to pay the cost. But as I assume office, I can now see no such emergency. Nor do I regard this an opportune time for any increase in taxation; for that would be a deterrent to the revival of business as well as a hardship for the public at large. At the end of the present fiscal year there will be an accumulated surplus, which, I submit, may be safely drawn upon to some extent, for unusual expenditures.

Readjustment of Taxes

In the opinion of many there should be some readjustments in the tax burdens. The income of our towns and cities is now derived largely from a tax on real estate. This class of wealth, which represents less than twenty per cent of the total wealth of the State, is paying fully sixty per cent of the cost of our schools, and our town, county, and State governments. So large a tax on real estate not only affects the owner and the rent-payer; it also enters materially into the cost of the products of manufacturing concerns. As it becomes more and more burdensome, it may compel some of our industries to move to more favorable locations, for they now have to compete on equal terms with similar industries in several other States. A situation has gradually developed which should be investigated. Accordingly, with the aim of a more equitable distribution of the tax burden and the relief of our industries, and our real estate owners, I ask your consent to appoint a commission to whom may be referred the entire question which is here raised.

National Prohibition

A large majority of the citizens of Connecticut are dissatisfied with the results of national prohibition. This is clearly an inference to be drawn from the recent election. The Eighteenth Amendment, which the General Assembly, which was unwilling to cede to the National Government rights originally reserved to the States under the Federal Constitution. It is quite unnecessary for me to present here a picture of the graft, corruption, and violent crimes in a new underworld created by National prohibition. You have also observed as well as myself an increasing use of distilled liquors by the younger generation and so great a disregard of law among the younger classes as to threaten the foundations of civil government. I would that all persons obeyed the law. I would that all persons were temperate in their habits. But it has been shown once more "in history that mankind cannot be made good under compulsion." Temperance is a virtue to be inculcated in a people by education and persuasion. What Chaucer said of his village parson

INVENTORY SELF, ADVISES ROGERS

Local Man Addresses Trumbull Electric Company on One's Own Valuations.

Invited to be the guest speaker at the Annual Sales and Production Conference of the Trumbull Electric Company headed by Governor John M. Trumbull and located at Plainville, Connecticut, Tuesday evening, Willard B. Rogers, Advertising Director of the Bond Hotels and a member of the New England Council, and chairman of the Manchester Police Commission spoke in part as follows:

"The Greatest Inventory — if Rarely Taken, the subject I am to chat about this evening, is manpower inventory, taken individually, of yourself, and by yourself. If it happened to belong to the clergy, you might suspect that my subject was 'As Ye Sow, So Shall Ye Reap,' and that I intended to sermonize with the objective of rewarding the circumspect with heavenly abode in the hereafter.

"But, my talk deals entirely with our tomorrow and our economic future so that whatever reward there is to be will eventually come in the form of justifiable self-respect, self-reliance, self-motivation, the confidence of those with whom you work, and, finally, the answer is found in the world's materialistic barometer of dollars and cents.

"Regularly, the Trumbull Electric company, and all other well-managed businesses, inventory their plants, equipment, raw materials, finished stock, accounts receivable and sundry other items. In a way, a company's inventory is an inventory of its most important asset — its confidence in those with whom you work, and, finally, the answer is found in the world's materialistic barometer of dollars and cents.

"How do you take this inventory? There might be many ways but, in short, I would rate myself by truthfully recording those factors which have been helpful in my work or play, and those factors which have been a handicap or a liability.

"If you work in the factory, for example, you might divide 100 per cent into five equal parts of 20 per cent, or a further sub-division, and ask yourself your rating in these five illustrative classifying factors:

- 1. A never-abating interest in your work.
  - 2. Concentrated application to your task.
  - 3. Constant attempt to improve your knowledge of your work.
  - 4. Correct attitude toward your fellow workers.
  - 5. Care of your health so that you are physically and mentally fit.
- "These factors could be adjusted to any activity, such as executive, supervising, producing, or merchandising.
- "To amplify them a little — under Factor One, you would decide mechanically with no thought of improving yourself or the method of production. In other words, not like 'the new broom that sweeps clean' but with a love for your job which never abates or is allowed to become so monotonous to you that you lapse into a mechanical human.
- "Mind Off Work
- "Turning to Factor Two, I can recall, as you can, scores of folks in different lines of endeavor, whose minds are rarely upon their work. These are not the inventive dreamers who make their dreams a reality, but the great percentage of factory workers, salesmen and such who could explain a hundred and one mistakes, bysights and un-finished jobs with the terrible alibi 'I didn't think.' This group constitutes the great army of 'human hat-racks.' And, entirely aside from their self-inflicted penalty of low wages throughout their lives, they are a distinct burden, economically, for they make endless mistakes and they contribute to accidents through thoughtlessness, thus forcing up the compensation rates, and, in turn, forcing employers of labor to employ only those men who are physically fit, adding to the great army of unemployed even in normal times.
- "You need spend little time on Factor Three. Statistics show, that out of the great armies of industrial workers, traveling salesmen, and, in fact, members of all occupations and professions, but a lamentably small number are imaginative or creative enough to improve upon the methods of yesterday. On the other hand, the world has progressed unbelievably, through the contribution of a relatively small number and their reward, both in the satisfaction of achievement and financial returns, is great.
- "Sell Yourself
- "Factor Four directly involves the sale of yourself through the building in any walk of life of Good Will. What is Good Will? It is the biggest single item in any business or in any individual. First, there must be friendliness toward all humans but with never the sacrifice of an honest opinion. Then, there must be the ability to build and maintain the confidence of all with whom you come in contact. Having earned Good Will, your success is assured. Your job will be safe in the factory when those without Good Will will be the first to suffer in times of trenchment. Your customers will instinctively think of you as a competitive salesman may put across an even more convincing sales talk than yours. For Good Will is the ever-present, if intangible, force that makes for success in all human endeavor. 'Without Good Will you cannot be successful and without Good Will you cannot be happy.'
- "Factor Five should require no

amplification. Yet, it is lamentably true that many failures are directly attributable to indifference to one's health. With the factory worker, this might mean indifference to diet, neglect of teeth, or even neglect of an ordinary cold. In the case of the salesman on the road, this may, and many times does, mean too late hours, or, as in the case of the factory worker, indifference to those fundamental rules of health. In the past two years, a most disturbing factor in all places of business has been either speculative investments with almost inevitable losses and a resultant disturbed mental condition, which demoralizes one's efficiency, or a mortgaging of one's wages or income in purchasing through an over-done time-payment plan, of those luxuries which all seek but which the income of many does not permit. Then, in time of sickness or adversity, one burdened with these obligations thinks only of them until it is utterly impossible for him to do a good job because his thoughts are not in his work.

"These are but suggested barometers to which you may submit yourself as a morose and gloomy factor which are important in the great problem of success or failure.

"Before us is the Golden Age of opportunity. The past few years have seen the development of aviation, great strides in radio, marked progress in television which is destined to follow closely upon the heels of the dial telephone, and many other indications of industrial and scientific progress. Yet, great as these achievements have been, they sink into almost oblivion when one studies the advanced methods that have been made in the field of merchandising and advertising. To you salesmen, upon whom in the last analysis rests the future of the Trumbull Electric company, the sales methods of yesterday which is today to be obsolete tomorrow. Yet, there remains, and it will always be the outstanding factor, that great question of confidence. In seeking new customers, remember that you must first sell yourself to your prospective customer. Having accomplished that, you must not only sell but keep sold your company's product. There are many ways in which you can sell yourself and your product that will be most profitable to you. It is up to you to choose the method that you and your product are indispensable factors in his success. The high-pressure sales methods have died a natural death. The suave sales talks of yesterday have been replaced by an intelligent presentation of the merits of your product and the service your company can render. That, again, is Good Will.

"On every hand, we see evidences of a return of prosperity. And, treacherous as has been the period through which we are passing, remember that 'it's an ill wind that blows no good.' This depression has forced everyone, individuals and companies alike, to get their feet on the ground, in all walks of endeavor it reproves that the old adage, 'the survival of the fittest,' cannot be ignored. The individuals and companies that have been able to re-adjust themselves are destined to enjoy greater rewards than ever. Those who ignored the 'rainy day' admonition will inevitably fall by the wayside. But, this great nation of ours still has a tremendous buying power. The shelves and stockhouses are empty. Improved production and selling methods have modified prices. It is definitely a buyers' market. This country always responds to a buyers' market. Every form of industry should be ready for the 'go' gun, for, in the race for business we are to watch in the next few months, the man with his chin up, with confidence in himself and his product, will outdistance the weakling, the pessimist, the cynic, the unprepared.

"Add to the above the dominant factor for success, Work, and you have a pretty good recipe. It is well to remind ourselves from time to time that there is no substitute for work. Production methods may improve. Invention and science may make it possible to do many things mechanically that are now done by man-labor. But, there is not and never will be a machine or scientific creation that can think. For that reason, there will always be plenty of work, plenty of creative opportunity, plenty of chances of success to attain for those who apply themselves intelligently and constructively.

"Happy Days

"Looking to the future, I see only a bright horizon. Opportunity is again knocking at our door. It won't be long now until this, the greatest of all nations, will be singing, 'Happy Days Are Here Again,' and, even if a bit belated, I wish each of you the success your efforts merit."

TIDE FLOODS BEACH

Hampton, N. H., Jan. 7 (AP)—The most damaging tide since 1900, pounded Hampton Beach today, flooding cottage colonies and roads and endangering the foundation of houses.

Several cottages were reported to have been washed from the foundations but the flood conditions were such as to make re-erecting difficult. Between 15 and 20 cottages were surrounded by water. In the White Rock Island section water covered the lower floors of a large number of homes, making it impossible to keep fires in stoves.

A part of the highway near Little Bear's Head was submerged.

New Canaan, Jan. 7 (AP)—James Leonard of Greenwich drove here today in an automobile bearing 1930 markers and a sign reading 'Patrolman Leonard.' Patrolman Walsh stopped Leonard and asked him what it was all about. When the latter failed to produce any evidence showing he had applied for his 1931 markers, the patrolman arrested him on a charge of using illegal markers.

Leonard drove through Greenwich and Stamford without being noticed by police before coming here.

FUNERAL ORATION AT JOFFRE'S BIER

Minister of War Barthou Hailed Deceased Warrior As "Savior of Liberty."

Paris, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Louis Barthou, minister of war, in a funeral oration pronounced over the body of Marshal Joffre in the esplanade of the Invalides today hailed the deceased warrior as a "savior of world liberty."

M. Barthou said that the victor of the Marne had found an eternal place among those who have served humanity and peace. Speaking in the name of the Third Republic and the French Academy of which Joffre was a member, M. Barthou said by saying that he was there to "voice the unanimous gratitude of the nation but that he desired that his phrases be measured by the character of Joffre himself, who did not care for useless words.

Not a Retreat

M. Barthou insisted that when Joffre fell back toward the Marne it was "not a forced retreat but was a movement in preparation for later operations."

Not Vengeful

"Yet the word vengeance did not enter into Joffre's vocabulary. He wished not that great reparation which Gambetta never despaired of obtaining but a reparation founded on the doctrine of right. But Germany, whom nothing managed, preferred force. She declared war upon us."

Not Vengeful

Joffre knew that to assure victory, to avoid disaster, that all resources and all the moral energies of France must be put into action, emphasized Barthou. He continued: "Attacked, menaced, invaded, convinced of the righteousness of his cause and confident in its power all France accepted with magnificent sangfroid the brutal challenge so unjustly thrown down.

The mobilization and concentration of troops whose slightest weakness might prove mortal were carried out in an order which showed the wonderful organizing capacities of Joffre and the unity of a people who were resolved not to perish.

Invasion of Belgium

After referring to "the criminal invasion of Belgium—the little country which was great by the heroism of its sovereign and its soldiers, the orator said that all France was asking whether disaster was not before them, for everything seemed lost—the war, the soil of France, the country, liberty, the fatherland itself.

QUESTION AND ANSWER SERIES Do You Know Connecticut?

Compiled by THE CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, Inc. 400 ARTIST STREET, HARTFORD

Q. What were the first products to be exported from Connecticut by water?

A. Pipe staves, clapboards and tar were sent to the West Indies as early as 1647.

Q. How many persons are engaged in the publishing business in Connecticut?

A. Approximately 2,000.

Q. When was the first measure for the prevention of forest fires taken in Connecticut?

A. In 1905 when a law was passed providing for the appointment of town fire wardens by the selectmen. Previous to that date, fire fighting was entirely voluntary.

Q. How does Connecticut compare with other New England states in the raising of fruit?

A. Of what is the Conn. Agricultural Station comprised? (Answers to these questions will be published in Friday's paper.)

"Yet the word vengeance did not enter into Joffre's vocabulary. He wished not that great reparation which Gambetta never despaired of obtaining but a reparation founded on the doctrine of right. But Germany, whom nothing managed, preferred force. She declared war upon us."

BAY STATE OPENS ITS LEGISLATURE

Senate 30 Republicans, 10 Democrats—In House 40 Republicans, 99 Dem.

Boston, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Massachusetts General Court convened its 147th session today. Party lines in the Senate showed 30 Republicans and 10 Democrats. In the House there were 40 Republicans and 99 Democrats with one seat vacant through the death of Representative George T. Keyes of Pepperell. Despite the substantial Republican majorities, the party advantage would not be sufficient to pass a measure over the governor's veto.

The re-election of President George G. Bacon of the Senate and Speaker Leverett Saltonstall of the House brought little show of opposition. Committee appointments were the chief interests of both branches.

Christian Nelson of Worcester, senior member of the Senate, presided over the deliberations of the upper branch of the Legislature and Rev. William S. Mitchell of the Wesleyan Methodist church of Worcester offered prayer at the opening of the session.

In the House, Representative Jabez P. Thompson of Halifax took the gavel after the House clerk had called the body to order. He invited Rev. Warren Leonard, pastor of the Hanson Congregational church to offer prayer.

The Legislature was faced with a large number of bills, many of which, it seemed, would provide bitter battles before the 1931 session goes out.

Those proposals that loomed as most certain to provide trouble included proposed changes in the compulsory liability insurance law. Governor-Elect Joseph B. Ely's announced intention to seek abandonment of the pay-as-you-go policy, and recommendations of the transit commission regarding certain expensive extensions and improvements in the Boston elevated system.

The annual bills providing for compulsory vaccination and for the abolition of capital punishment have also been filed with the clerks of the two branches.

Washington.—It begins to appear as if President Hoover had at last decided to fight boldly, as many persons hoped he would. At any rate, there has been a stiffening of the presidential backbone and it seems evident enough that Mr. Hoover is anxious to strike back at his enemies and keep the dominant conservative element in the Republican party lined up behind him.

BURMA
Recent more or less ambiguous news dispatches telling of fighting, first between inland Burmans and British soldiers in the jungle and then between Burman and Chinese factions in Rangoon, bring into notice a country of which little is known by Americans and not too much, it is to be suspected, even by the British who now control its destinies.

One hates to learn that a people who can make their children the happiest and the merriest in the world are catching the disease of political discontent so prevalent in the world. Life is fairly easy in Burma. The country is enormously fertile and not over populated; it has immense wealth in its forests.

IN NEW YORK
New York, Jan. 7.—In those grand old mauve days, when Harry Lehr and Bradley Martin and Barry Wall and such like walked the earth, the injection of eccentric and spectacular high jinx into society's smartest affairs was a man's job.

And, my dear, are they still talking of Elsa's last little frock? You should listen in! Quite nothing like it since Harry Lehr passed from the picture.

It was called "a party in opposites." Which meant that all the distinguished guests should come as something quite opposite from themselves.

Now an independent tax owner has had himself arrested for parking in one of the forbidden spaces and, backed by other independents, is planning to carry the case up through the courts if necessary.

On the face of it the independent tax man would seem to have all the better of the argument when they claim that there is no basis in right or justice for the deduction by the city of all the best tax stands to the benefit of certain favored owners.

WHAT'S THE IDEA
When The Herald, the other day, suggested that it might be well for the Legislature, before complying with Commissioner Hurley's request for more men and more barracks for the State Police Department, to provide for a somewhat more definite schedule of State Police duties, the capture of the Nightingale had not been made.

LEGION HEAD TELLS OF SERVICE PLANS

Commander Francis E. Bray Says Membership Is Primary Factor In Success.

The American Legion has a wonderful program of service for 1931, but its success depends largely upon its strength in early membership, and every veteran of the World War should join our list immediately. Francis E. Bray, Post Commander, of the Legion here, said today in an appeal to bring a new record of membership to the local organization. "In years past, the Legion has taken membership more or less for granted and extended the privilege of joining throughout the year. Now, however, we have learned that membership is a necessary factor in Legion success, and that the earlier we meet this problem, and get it out of the way, the quicker we can devote our undivided attention to the Legion's program of service," he said. "That program of service, for 1931, the Legion official pointed out the needs first of helping solve the unemployment situation now confronting the United States; of sponsoring national legislation at the present session of Congress in order that needed hospitalization bills can be passed in behalf of disabled veterans; of carrying on the Americanism activities, which include the building up of patriotism through the education of our youth; and in extending the Legion's work on behalf of children. Recently the national commander of the Legion, Ralph T. O'Neil, called upon every Legionnaire in the United States to help bring back good times, by providing a job, in some way, or using his influence to create work, for idle veterans. The National Commander pointed out that members of the Legion are men of stability in their own communities. This fact, O'Neil said, was shown by the increase of membership in the Legion last year to the highest point in the history of the organization, at a time when the depression was fully felt throughout the country. The American Legion has a financial foundation of more than $7,000,000, including the $5,000,000 endowment fund. It is carrying on the work of rehabilitation and child welfare, and the national commander called the attention to the fact that Legionnaires are rather proud of their reliability and standing in this regard. The full force of Legion influence, the local official said, depends to a great extent, upon the support given the organization by veterans through their membership, at this time. Work for the year is planned on the basis of that strength. Junior baseball, the promotion of Boy Scouting, the two hundred or more different kinds of community service, and many other endeavors, await such membership to be started on its 1931 year of record breaking achievements.

ROCKVILLE

Council Organization

In his annual message to the City Council on Monday night, Mayor A. E. Waite stressed economy. He pointed out that the city would receive a smaller corporation tax this year, and that there would be a reduction in the grand list. The city's indebtedness during the past year decreased by $17,000, making its obligations $86,000. He asked that an extra effort be made to collect outstanding taxes. He recommended that the entrance to the city by way of Union street be improved, also mentioning various bad curves and intersections such as West Main street by the Minterburgh Mill and the Elks Home corner, also Main Middle road and Park streets.

The following appointments were announced by the mayor: Finance Committee: Alderman Arkin, Councilman Markert, Draycott; Lights, Alderman Scheets, Councilmen Rogals, Mead; public works and sidewalks, Alderman Ide, Councilmen Newell, Harbert, Rogals, Mead; Health and Sewers, Alderman Ide, Councilmen Newell, Underwood, Cratty; fire, Alderman Murphy, Councilmen Dowding, Draycott; ordinance, Alderman Murphy, Councilmen Underwood, Cratty; police, Alderman Larkin, Councilmen Dowding, Markert; claims, Alderman Scheets, Councilman Newell, Cratty. The aldermen in all cases are chairman of the committees.

Legion Banquet Plans Finishing touches are being put on the arrangements for the American Legion banquet on Thursday evening, Jan. 15. Dr. Henry K. Denlinger of Storrs, A. C. has been secured as speaker. Those who heard Dr. Denlinger on Armistice night will need no urging to be present. In addition, several state officers of the Legion will be present, and a fine entertainment program is being arranged. Ticket sale ends January 12.

Mothers' Club The next meeting of the Mothers' Club of the Union Congregational church will be held on January 21st, Wednesday, at 8 p. m. Dr. C. E. Peterson will speak on "Children's Dentistry." Mrs. Rose O'Brien is the chairman of the committee for the social hour to follow. Emblem Club The Emblem Club held a members' social and bridge party this afternoon. Mrs. Car' Prutting was chairman with Mrs. J. F. Burns, Mrs. Charles E. Keary, Mrs. S. J. Tobin, Mrs. C. Spurling, Mrs. C. Trapp, Mrs. M. J. Smith, Mrs. Wm. Lally, Mrs. Annie Smith and Mrs. W. H. Yost as committee members. The regular meeting of the club will be held on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 14 at the Home.

The following Wednesday afternoon public bridge will be held. Second Boy Hurt John Furphy son of Mrs. Carrie Furphy of Talcott avenue, who was injured on Christmas eve while coasting is reported to be somewhat improved at St. Francis hospital. It has been learned during the past few days that the other boy who was on the same sled at the time and who it was thought was not injured, has a fractured shoulder blade.

Summer Cottage Burns

James A. Quinn of Rockville went with several other young men to his summer home in Ellington, leaving there shortly after midnight Saturday night. Sunday morning he was informed that the building had been burned to the ground. The young men who reported the fire to Mr. Quinn said they were driving by about 3:30 Sunday morning and saw the place burning. No one was in sight. Mr. Quinn said there had been a fire in the stove Saturday night, but no lamps or oil stoves were used. Mr. Quinn had recently replaced the old furniture with new and made improvements to the building. The damage was estimated at more than $2,000.

Still Alarm

The Hook and Ladder Truck in charge of Assistant Fire Chief William Conroy responded to a still alarm on Monday evening about 9 o'clock, and extinguished a fire in the stove pipe at the Siedtitz home on Vernon avenue. There was no damage to the home.

Social Work Group

The Tolland County Regional Conference of Social Workers of which Lebeus Bissell of Rockville is president, will meet here on Tuesday, Jan. 20 for Miss Mabel Sheridan of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Services is secretary and chairman of the program committee. LeRoy A. Ramsdell, secretary of the Council of Social Agencies of Hartford, will speak, as will Richard K. Godwin of Hartford, deputy chief juvenile court probation officer of the State Bureau of Child Welfare, and Mrs. Anne O'Brien Parker, chief juvenile probation officer of Hartford. A permanent Tolland county organization will be set up.

Notes

The Firemen's Fair Committee will meet on Wednesday night in the Center house at 8:15. Ralph Pogg of the Grant Store will leave Rockville shortly, and his place will be taken by Carl Yant.

OUT-PATIENT SERVICE AT HOSPITAL EXTENDED

Pediatric Department To Devote Weekly Conferences To Infants and Pre-School Children. Through the courtesy of the pediatric department of the Memorial Hospital, the local Child Welfare committee announces for 1931 increased facilities for the health examination of infants and pre-school children. Henceforth weekly conferences will be held on Friday afternoons at 3 o'clock at the hospital annex, instead of alternate Thursdays formerly. Later on it is the aim of the committee to hold occasional conferences in other sections of the town. Parents who are unable to provide a regular physical check-up for their children by the family doctor are urged to avail themselves of this health service. The object of these conferences is to instruct and advise with parents regarding the more pertinent points in the scientific care and development of children, so that love may be supplemented with knowledge and that out of the ill which now handicap the growing child in such large numbers may be prevented or at least remedied as soon as possible.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the State Motor Vehicle Department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of these drivers operating motor vehicles: John Dalley, John Mariani, Stanley Nowakowski, Albert Runke, Harry L. Walwright, Peter Woyton, Jewett City, Jerry Bonney, Naugatuck, Alvar S. Larson, New Britain, Edw. P. Martin, Adolf Staniewicz, Norwalk, Ward Malcolm, Rockville, Warren H. Skinner, Seymour, Charles H. ASK RECEIVERSHIP

Hartford, Jan. 7. (AP)—John H. King, assistant attorney general and counsel for the State Banking Department, announced that he would apply to the Superior Court here this afternoon for the appointment of a temporary receiver for the Riverside Trust Company which was suspended recently by Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee. Mr. King said he would recommend the appointment of the Hartford Connecticut Trust Company as receiver. Commissioner Shippee explained this action is taken with a view towards reorganizing the bank.

DENY BERGDOLL REPORT

New York, Jan. 7. (AP)—Reports that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wealthy draft evader who has been a voluntary exile in Germany since the World War, might be returning to the United States on the Majestic, were not borne out when that liner docked yesterday. Immigration officials said nobody answering to his description was aboard the vessel and that none of the Majestic's passengers was detained at Ellis Island. A British scientist says the earth is expanding at such a terrific rate it is exploding. Maybe this explains why so many revolutions have broken out of late. Points brought out at the recent

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 4 Meeting Troop 4's hike to Redgates last Saturday was very successful; tests passed included tracking, cooking and freemaking. Troop 4 met Tuesday evening at 7:30. The meeting opened in the usual manner. A study and test passing period was allowed after the opening exercises. Tests passed were pacing, first aid, compass and law and oath. William Weir completed his First Class requirements and will receive his longed for pin at the next Court of Honor. Several contest events were practiced such as knotting, chariot race, rescue race and signaling. The meeting was closed by a prayer rendered by Rev. Clarke. Notes Troop 4 will go swimming at the Rec from 5 to 6 o'clock and this is a chance for those who can't swim.

RESCUE ATTEMPS FAIL

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—After fruitless attempts by boat and plane, 51 seamen awaited rescue today from the freighter William N. Page, grounded between two sandbars off West Hampton, N. Y. The vessel went ashore yesterday in a heavy fog and a thrashing sea. The Coast Guard cutter Seneca and two small craft went to her aid but were unable to get a breeches buoy line to her because of towering waves. George Herzog flew his private plane over the ship and cast a line aboard but it parted before the plane returned to shore. A wrecking ship was dispatched to the scene but darkness ended all efforts for the day. The William N. Page is owned by the Mystic Steamship Co. of Boston and was on the way from Norfolk, Va. to its home port with a load of coal. She is of 5,438 gross tonnage and is 360 feet long.

ROOSEVELT ASKS ASSEMBLY PROBE

New York Governor In Message Says Magistrate Probe Is Up To Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt today left on the doorstep of a new Republican controlled Legislature the exclusive responsibility of deciding upon a New York City investigation.

In his annual message to the Legislature he described limitations placed by statute upon his investigating power and told the lawmakers that they alone possessed the power to conduct a general investigation.

The responsibility of determining the justification for such an inquiry and of deciding upon the form of investigation, he said, rests exclusively and squarely with the lawmakers. He voiced two warnings regarding an investigation:

It should have as its motive the desire to promote a general welfare and not to shield the name of a person under investigation "unless or until formally charged with crime."

Unemployment Unemployment and more rigid control of public utilities blended with the New York City investigation in sounding the heavy notes of his message, read to a joint session of the Senate and Assembly.

Waterpower Fight The governor's discussion of the long-contested waterpower fight between the Republican Legislature and Democratic administrations was terse.

DRY BROOK CULVERT TOWN'S MAJOR JOB

Construction of Storm Water Drainage System Completed During Past Year.

Manchester has accomplished several notable construction projects during 1929, chief among which was the Dry Brook, so-called, storm drain extending from the south side of School street through to Maple street which was completed early in October.

TOWN'S MAJOR CONSTRUCTION JOB

The most important work started by the Town of Manchester during the past year was the Dry Brook culvert construction. This job has been contemplated for many years but 1930 saw it actually begun.

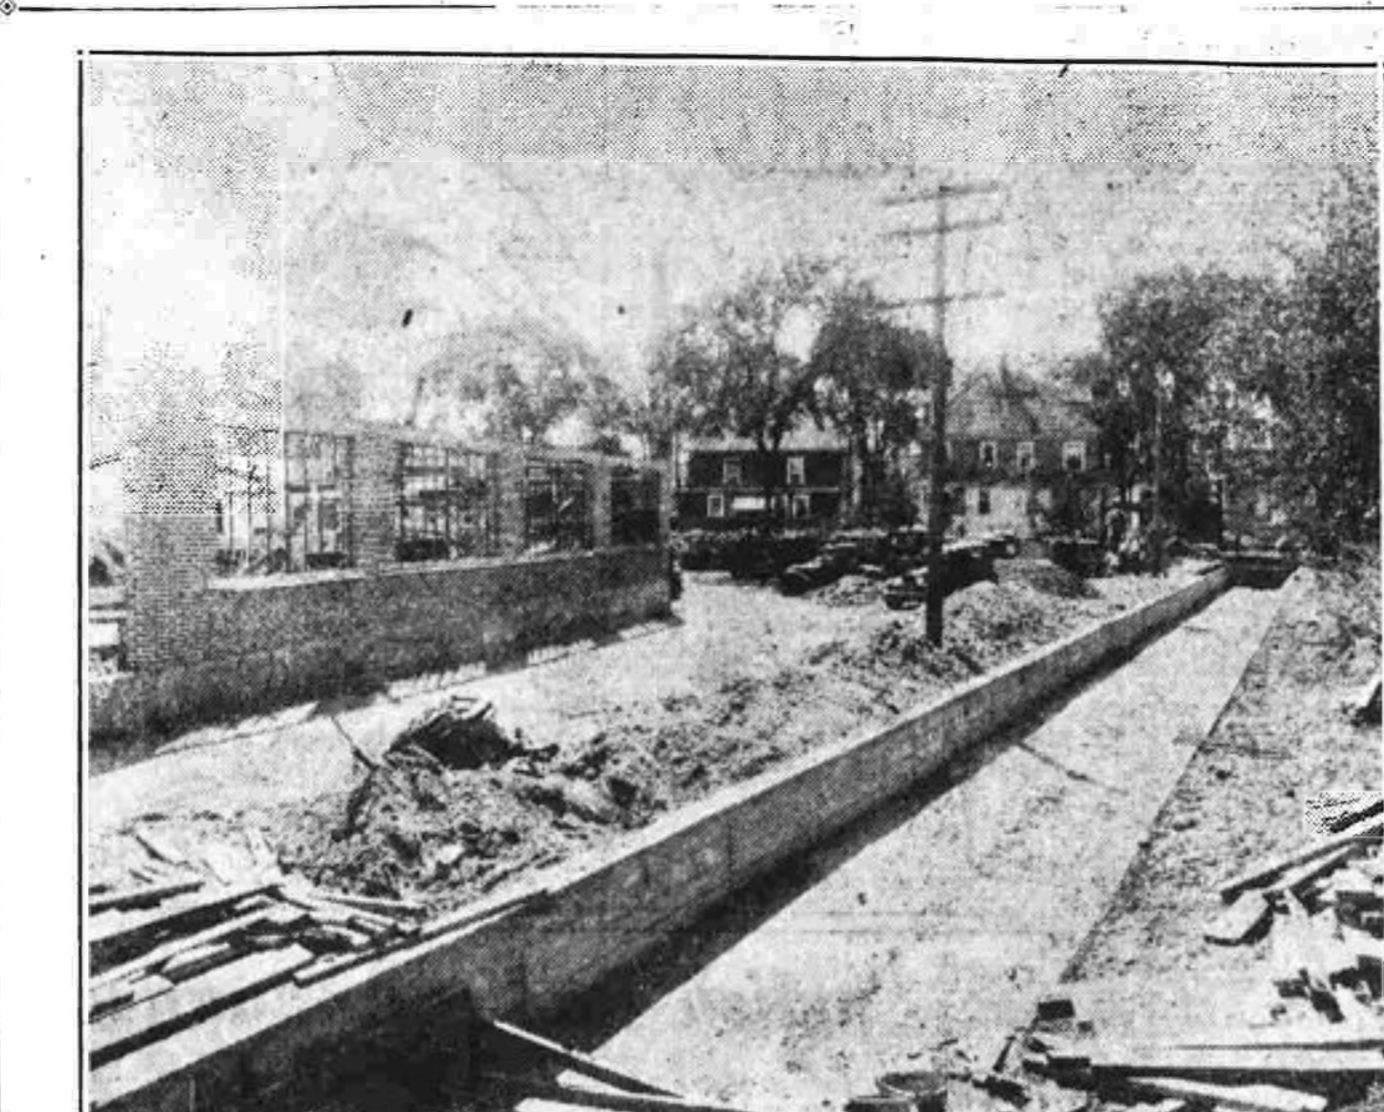

TO DEPART FLIERS

Liverpool, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Captain Antonio Rexach and Lieutenant Joaquin Collar, Spanish aviators who participated in the recent unsuccessful rebellion in Spain, today were ordered by the British authorities to return to Portugal, Jan. 10.

BRIDGE STREET

Other constructive work by the town during 1929 was the widening of the roadway on Bridge street. To do this it was necessary to build parapet walls 6 feet in height on the stone bridge and to extend the four wing-walls about 18 feet.

TOWN'S MAJOR CONSTRUCTION JOB

The most important work started by the Town of Manchester during the past year was the Dry Brook culvert construction. This job has been contemplated for many years but 1930 saw it actually begun.

765 linear feet of construction. The work was started July 7 and was completed Oct. 6, 1929. The average number of men employed was 15.

There were 3,608 bags of cement used to construct approximately 700 cubic yards of concrete; 361 tons of trap rock; 358 cubic yards of gravel; 354 cubic yards of sand; 16 tons of reinforcing steel and other miscellaneous material.

Still another worthy project was consummated late this fall in the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge at Parker village, so-called, replacing a wooden plank structure.

ENGLISH TORCH MYSTERY

Otterburn, Northumberland, Eng., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Her head bashed in and her body virtually roasted, pretty Evelyn Foster, 28, was found semi-conscious beside the smoking ruins of her automobile near here last night.

Before she died this morning she told her father that a stranger had accosted her last night asking for a lift to Newcastle.

About fourteen miles from Newcastle the stranger ordered the girl to halt the car. He then clubbed her over the head, tossed her on the back seat and set fire to the automobile which he shoved over a cliff.

This little Northumberland town has become greatly excited over the crime, which is the third "torch murder" mystery in England of the last few weeks.

Murder At Bridge

By ANNE AUSTIN, author of 'THE BLACK PIGEON'.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUANITA SELM is murdered at bridge; four days later DEXTER SPRAGUE is also murdered during a bridge party at the TRACEY MILES' home. Police think they were killed by a New York gunman, to avenge the death of "SWALLOW-TAIL SAMMY" SAVELL. "BONNIE" DUNDEE thinks the murders were committed by one of six people, guests in both homes at the time of the murders.

Nita banked $10,000 since her arrival in Hamilton, which the police think was her pay for double-crossing Savelli, and which Dundee thinks is blackmail. The possible case against FLORENCE MILES is strong. He reasons it this way. After paying blackmail to Nita, Flora sees a note to Nita on Tracey's stationery, and thinks Nita has told her secret. In desperation, she shoots her, hides the gun in the secret shelf in the guest's closet, and returns to destroy the note, finding it is from Sprague, she faints in horror just before the body is discovered. Miles, who returns later to the Selim house to take LYDIA, Nita's maid, she tells some with her, she has opportunity to remove the gun. If Flora has confessed her crime, he himself could have killed Sprague from outside just after his guests leave if Sprague is threatening to expose Flora. Dundee learns that Miles was rushed into the engagement of Flora, an intensely passionate girl, who scared off her prospective suitors. PENNY CRAIN assures Dundee he is on the wrong track, but she has a clue. Dundee asks at the store where Nita bought the dress that was her shroud, for the date of the sale.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLII

The white-haired, smartly-dressed buyer accepted the sheet of photographs Bonnie Dundee was offering. "I'll do my best, of course," she began brightly, then paused and uttered a sharp exclamation as her eyes took in the topmost picture. "This is Juanita Leigh, isn't it? . . . But—" she shuddered, "how odd she looks—as if—"

"Yes," Dundee agreed gravely. "She was dead when that picture was taken. Did you know Mrs. Selim?"

"No," the woman breathed, her eyes still bulging with horror. "I've seen so many photos of her in the papers. I think that it was one of our dresses she chose for her shroud! But you want to know when the dress was sold to her, don't you?" she asked, and brought out a card. "We keep a record of all our French originals and of the number of copies made of each. . . . Let me think! I've been going to Paris myself for the firm for the last 15 years, but I can't remember saying this Pierre model. . . . Oh, of course, I didn't go over during 1917 and 1918, on account of the war, you know, but the big Paris designers managed to send us a limited number of very good models, and this must have been one of them. Otherwise, Miss Thomas, buy it! . . . If you'll excuse me a moment—"

When she returned about 10 minutes later, Miss Thomas brought him a penciled memorandum.

The record of all our dresses imported in the summer of 1917, several months in advance of the winter season, of course. Only five copies were made—in different colors and materials, naturally, since we make a point of exclusiveness. The choice on this copy was sold to Juanita Leigh in January, 1918. I am sorry I cannot give you the exact day of the month, but our records show the month only. I took the liberty of showing a picture of the dress in the only salesman in the department who has been with us that long, but she cannot remember the sale. Twelve years is a long time, you know."

"Indeed it is," Dundee agreed gratefully. "You have been immensely helpful, however, Miss Thomas, and I thank you with all my heart."

"If you could just tell me—confidentially, of course," Miss Thomas whispered, "what sort of clue this dress is—"

"I don't know myself!" the detective admitted. "But," he added to himself, after he had escaped the buyer's natural curiosity, "I intend to find out!"

Before she could take any further step along that particular path, however, Dundee had an appointment to keep. After arriving at his hotel that morning he had made two telephone calls. He smiled now as he recalled the surprise and glee of one of his former Yale classmates, now a discouraged young bond salesman, with whom he had kept in touch.

"You want to borrow my name and my kid sister?" Jimmy Randolph had called. "Hop to it, old sport! But you might tell me what you want with such intimate belongings of mine."

"You may not know it," Dundee had retorted, "but young Mr. James Wadley Randolph, Jr. is son of the famous old Boston family, is going to visit that equally famous school, Forsythe-on-the-Hudson, to see whether it is the ideal finishing school for his beloved young sister, Barbara. She's about 15 now, isn't she, Jimmy?"

"Going on 16, and one of Satan's prize hellions," Jimmy Randolph had answered. "And the family would be eternally grateful if you could Forsythe to take her, but make them promise not to have any more chorus girls who plan to get murdered, as directors of their amateur theatricals. Bab would be sure to be mixed up in the mess. . . . I suppose that's the job you're on, you fat-footed dick, you!"

The second telephone call had secured an appointment at the Forsythe school for "Mr. James Wadley Randolph, Jr. of Boston," and Dundee, rather relishing his first need for such professional tactics, relaxed to enjoy the 10-mile drive along the Hudson.

It was a quarter to 12 when his taxi swept up the drive toward the big, grey-stone, turreted building,

English Radio Announcer Merely Voice of the Air

By EDWARD STANLEY.

London.—(AP)—Broadcasting in England lacks the personal touch for which Americans "give all." Its personality is something like that of the postoffice, not very warm, but efficient. Indeed, the programs of the semi-official British Broadcasting corporation must satisfy the postmaster general.

Fan mail isn't encouraged and letters that do come in aren't dignified by reply. There isn't any fan mail in the American sense—a score of letters a week, perhaps.

Announcers are all either anonymous—so this is Howard Hoopwood speaking—and they are barred from any asides. The nearest to a personality is the senior announcer in the London studio who has been called "the golden voiced announcer." But listeners never know whether he or another is speaking for that description isn't used on the air.

"Our attitude," said an official of the corporation, "is that the announcer is merely a voice speaking for the BBC. He is a part of the corporation and shouldn't have a place apart."

But the BBC's attitude toward the program is another matter. There "big names" are sought, the theater, movies, concert stage, noted authors, public men, royalty—all are used to put street talk into the main program. This is the program intended for the whole kingdom. On another wavelength a local London

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Beautiful eyes can give the plainest face real charm. Eyes, as a matter of fact, cannot possibly have their importance over-stressed. They are the most expressive single feature you have.

Eye care is not merely make-up. But we have gone into the health care and the resting care of eyes. Now, once you are in excellent health and are resting them whenever they show any strain, how to make them up is the question.

Eye make-up is the most difficult for the eyes. First of all, eye shadow. First of all, eye shadow. First of all, eye shadow. Next, eye-brow pencil. Third, mascara, or eye lash make-up.

The eye shadow is a beauty aid that the average American woman is slow to appreciate. Now many women are using eye shadow, with wonderful results.

Comes as a Cream

Eye shadow comes in cream form and in different shades. Blue is usually used to best advantage by blondes, though the tone of your skin should decide this instead of the color of your eyes.

There are mauve eye shadows and now some exotic shades for special lighting in the evening, such as green.

To apply the eye shadow, shut one eye, and with the first finger gently stroke over the upper lid enough tint to darken it slightly. If your eyes are small and do not have much depth to them, eye shadow will bring them bigger and give them more greatly and beauty.

If your eyes are deep-set, tint only the eyelid nearest the temple and, by leaving the part near the nose untouched, you seem to draw them out from the face.

No eye shadow should be applied so thickly that it shows. Just the touch of darkness to accent the color of the orbs.

That is the primary use of eye shadow. Remember that and tint sparingly. But do tint. If you haven't some tint before you may be surprised to realize that never before have you realized what an asset you had in those eyes of yours.

About New York

By RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Torso murder mysteries and South American revolutions are bad for some, but good for the tattooing industry.

They send young men, you see, into tattoo parlors to have identification marks drilled into their epidermis.

Torso murder mysteries, as readers of headlines know, are those in which a decapitated body is found, but the distinguishing head is missing. As for South American revolutions—

Young and wanderlust men, would-be soldiers of fortune, who hang out around the port of New York, are avir stirred by reports of prosaic adventures and are promptly off in the search for adventure.

FRESH CURTAINS

Do you know that semi-glazed and glazed chintz can be dusted thoroughly by going over with a damp cloth? This not only freshens the pattern but takes out some of the wrinkles as well.

PUTNAM'S BIRTH

On Jan. 7, 1718, Israel Putnam, an American soldier prominent in the French and Indian and Revolu-tionary wars, was born in Danvers, Mass.

When news of the battle of Lexington reached him while he was plowing on his farm, Putnam left his plow in the field, and rode a horse to Cambridge in one day, a distance of 68 miles. In May of that year, he led a battalion to Noddie's Island, burned a British schooner and captured a sloop. He later won renown for his bravery in the Battle of Bunker Hill, which was fortified largely on Putnam's advice.

On the evacuation of Boston, Putnam was placed in command of New York, but following his defeat at Brooklyn Heights, he was removed from command. He later was restored to the command when he was found guiltless for the defeat. In 1777 he was appointed to the defense of the Highlands on the Hudson.

STAINED NECKS

If your necklace "comes off on your neck" and leaves a dark ring around your neck, dip it into Shellac. This keeps it from tarnishing—or marring the skin.

EVERLASTING FLOWERS

Preserved flowers are in vogue. "Everlastings" or straw flowers, dried grasses, combined with fresh greenery often make a minimum cost.

On one of the first railways in America, the Mohawk and Hudson, horsepower was used at night and steam in the day. It was not considered safe to use steam after dark.

Bifurcated Skirt

Very popular style for winter sports. This one of soft black wool has pleats and handsome buttons for trim.

Human Document

Sometimes they have found, it is hard to get back into the country as an American citizen, or something may happen to them in the transit. So they want to be sure that their identity will always be on their bodies.

It was for this reason then, that during the recent difficulties below the equator, one young man had his honorable discharge from the United States navy tattooed across his back by Charlie, veteran tattooer of the Bowers.

Charlie has been on the Bowers 40 years, inscribing sweethearts' initials, flags, the buxom figures of girls and other insignia of romance or adventure on the arms and torsos of sailors, their girlfriends and anyone else who craved indelible adornment.

He has seen others take up his trade, until there are about a half-dozen tattooers in town, most of them on the Bowers or the Brooklyn waterfront.

One of them is a tailor, Charlie said, who once rented a bit of space in his shop to a professor of tattooing. The professor disappeared one day, owing his rent, so the tailor kept the outfit and took up tattooing as a sideline.

Women Customers

Women are more frequent customers than one might suspect. They have beauty spots tattooed on their faces, butterflies on their shoulders, or ever vaccination scars. One woman who didn't know about the Bowers, wrote to Washington to enquire where she could find a tattooer. The patent office sent her Charlie's address.

When she came to him she asked to have her marriage certificate tattooed across her back. She explained that she and her husband were about to embark on a European trip.

Charlie's studio is in the back of

Evening Herald Pattern

By Anabelle Worthington

Here's a fascinating little outfit for the little darlings of pre-school or kindergarten age.

It is easily laundered which means so much to the busy mother.

It's a simple one-piece affair without frills or plaits to be ironed in place. The pin tucks at the front and at the center-back provide a nice fullness to the skirt. The patch pockets are useful and decorative.

Bloomers accompany this smart conservative dress.

Style No. 2780 may be had in sizes 2 4 and 6 years.

The 4-year size requires 2 3/4 yards of 35-inch material with 1/4 yard of 32-inch contrasting.

It's so utterly simple to make it! Linen, cotton broadcloth prints, gingham checks, dotted plaids, sturdy batiste and dimities are suitable fabrics to select.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

YOUR CHILDREN

Olive Roberts Barton © 1931 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

Babies cannot sleep if they are cold. The older children may manage it through sheer fatigue, but even so their slumber is likely to be restless and shallow if their bodies are not comfortably warm.

Yet they have to have fresh air, and the air these winter months is decidedly frosty at night, but as for that, the air we breathe when sleeping should be cool, never over sixty degrees, and can be as low as forty.

Some adults and some children who are accustomed to cold, can stand it even lower, but where there is a baby we have to use care.

Many houses are equipped with heating systems that take the edge of the outside air at night. Where this is the case many of the problems of the sleeping question disappear. But however that may be, the air should be fresh outside air, and it is necessary to use a little ingenuity to keep bodies warm and prevent colds. It is settled fact that children who breathe unclean, contaminated air suffer less from nose and throat trouble and consequently other diseases than those who take their air as they find it.

Air May Hold Peril

But I am no Spartan and this fresh-air business I learned years ago can lead to untold trouble if it isn't managed properly.

To begin with, I shouldn't sleep in a bed with open sides or top without its being lined; and if the bed of the other children have open or slatted tops a blanket or some sort of cover should be placed between them at night to keep drafts from playing between heads and walls.

Night caps are excellent things on the bitterest nights. They can be made any shape and tied under the chin out should not be tight. The thin out should not be tied. The tops of stockings can be used, or jersey or flannelite. Boys with close cropped hair particularly need protection from wind drafts.

Watch the relative position of windows and beds. I often wish that air were colored as we could see where drafts go. Sometimes by pulling a bed two feet away from a certain spot, or away from the wall a few inches, it is possible to avoid a dangerous eddy. Study bed positions in your house and investigate those night colds.

Cheese-cloth over wooden frames, set in open window sashes at night allow air to come through and break drafts; also there are shutter-like affairs that direct the outside air toward the ceiling. Window sashes lowered from above also help in obviating night drafts.

For Sleep in Cold Climates

In the country and in bitter climates, I should use outing blankets instead of smooth-finished sheets. They are as easy to wash and so much warmer. Sleeping bags are becoming more popular. This is made of a blanket folded and sewed at the sides and top except for a "necklet" for the head to go through. A loose drawing goes around this.

The portable screen is another way to break the breath of Old Man Winter. Every family needs one or two where there are children. They can be made at home or bought rather cheaply.

See that beds are dry, and that mattresses are not too thin. If they are and you suspect that cold air comes up from underneath, lay a thick cover over them, under the sheets.

If beds are icy cold, don't let the children crawl in and chill; a hot water bag, or even the despised brick heated, isn't a bad idea at all. Never lay the baby in a cold bed.

HEALTH

RESPIRATORY INFECTIONS OFTEN CAUSE DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

It is generally recognized that the most frequent causes of acute inflammation of the kidneys are infections of the upper portions of the respiratory tract, including the nose, throat and the bronchial tubes, and particularly the common cold and tonsillitis; thereafter come infections of the sinuses and the teeth; then the common infection which develops following diphtheria, pneumonia, erysipelas, scarlet fever and measles.

Sometimes the poisons that develop in the body during pregnancy are associated with acute inflammation of the kidneys, whether or not infections associated with the delivery of the child are followed by inflammations of the organs.

Obviously, the prevention of attacks of inflammation of the kidneys involves the attack on the diseases that have been mentioned. Since it is exceedingly important to determine the presence of infection at the earliest possible stage, it is quite common in hospitals for infectious diseases to examine the urine of the patient each day in order to determine whether or not the organs of excretion are functioning satisfactorily. Should albumin be found, or excessive amounts of casts, indicating destruction of the kidney tissue, the patient is put at once on a rigid diet or perhaps caused to go without food for a considerable period. The attempt may also be made to relieve the stress on the kidney by the use of sweetening baths which aid excretion through the skin.

The person who is sick with an infectious disease is, of course, at bed. However, some patients get up much too soon after an infection. In such cases the first appearance of an involvement of the

This is the first of a series of three articles detailing the tennis career of William T. Tilden II, the "Big Bill" of national and international fame.

By LOREN DISNEY (Associated Press Staff Writer) New York.—(AP.)—"Game, set, match—Tilden!"

The cry that has rung out seven times since 1920 at the end of the final match for the American singles tennis championship; that has been the bulwark of American success in Davis Cup play during the last decade, and that as late as 1930 signified a 57-year-old man had overcome the thundering service of the youthful Wilmer Allison at Wimbledon.

William Tatem Tilden II, whose multitudinous victories gained him the title of the greatest tennis player of all time, has turned professional. Henceforth he will figure in the game of amateur tennis which has absorbed his energies since the age of five, only as a coach of young players.

Such teaching, Tilden says, will be done "gratis" for "love of the game." Tilden, like Bobby Jones, gave up his amateur standing to demonstrate his specialty in motion pictures. But unlike Jones holder of all four major golf titles, Tilden outlived the peak of his form long since behind him.

Two years ago Tilden realized that the slowing up of his legs had turned him into an "aged net star" and announced his retirement then.

He, however, decided on one last thing—took his tottering underpinning to Europe, cleaned up everything along the Riviera, won the 1930 British title, and the United States Ambassador to France requested of the U. S. L. T. A. that he be allowed to play in the Davis Cup matches.

He won the only match the Americans took from the French, but he was unable to climax his last campaign with another American singles title. John Doeg of California beat him in the semi-finals.

During the decade that Tilden was wind-swept sport light, he occupied much the same position that Jack Dempsey did in boxing. Jones in golf and Babe Ruth does in baseball. He was the colorful "superman" of his sport.

Most of the Tilden "color" was supplied by his cannon ball service, his last minute rallies to come from behind, his limping to victory after a trick knee had felled him, and his stubborn battles with American tennis heads in which he contended appearing in plays and writing about tennis were not violations of the amateur code.

Tilden's first national singles title came when he was 27. At the age of 18, after 13 years of tennis Tilden completely made over his game and worked six years to perfect a new system in the teeth of universal criticism of his friends. As he explained:

"I started to play as soon as I was old enough to hold a racket, at the age of five."

"From the age of 12 to about 19 or 20 I played pretty badly. I was wild as a hawk. I was just a 'swatter type.' At about 18 I made up my mind to remodel my game, which was very erratic off the ground and had as its only redeeming feature a fast service.

"I realized it wouldn't get me anywhere and that I needed a sound ground game. On that theory I analyzed my play along common-sense, scientific lines and for the next half-dozen years, or until I was 25, I worked on an all-court game."

"Everyone, including my friends, told me I was foolish that I couldn't be both a baseline and net player but fortunately I was pig-headed enough not to believe them and kept at it."

"As a result in 1918 I got to the finals of the national singles, losing to Lindley Murray, and found a place in the 'first ten' for the first time."

AGUA CALIENTE RICHEST GOLF TOURNEY SOON

Professionals Will Find Tougher Going This Year Than Last When Sarazen Won.

By CLAIRE BURCKY NEA Service Sports Writer

Privileges of a top flight golfer may be all that are afforded the bluebloods of the turf world but—to the owner of a thoroughbred capable of negotiating the mile and a quarter of the Agua Caliente Handicap in 2:03 or thereabouts, officials of the Agua Caliente Open, these same officials offer only $10,000.

Apparently it hasn't dawned on the professional golfer that his 15 miles or so of plodding through rough for four days repays him only one-tenth of what the equine star draws down for a two-minute gallop around a smoothly-groomed oval.

And when that realization comes, what of it? Ten thousand dollar golf prizes come but once annually during the deflated years.

The current Agua Caliente affair, with $25,000 in cash prizes, is only a few days in the offing. The list of starters includes more than 50 outstanding professionals, some of which are Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Horton Smith, A. Espinosa, Johnny Farrell, Tommy Armour, Tony Mariano, Craig Wood and Bill Melhorn, if he gets back from the Orient in time.

In addition, a reaper handful of amateur and "business-man" golfers will parade to the post in the second annual "hot water" open event, Jan. 12-17.

A dozen contestants a year ago had their eyes on the winner's share of $10,000 as they drove down the stretch. Sarazen saw it plainest, however, and nudged his ball just 88 times on the last lap to win the prize. His score of 295 was two under Horton Smith and A. Espinosa, sharing second place. But that was 1930; it will be tougher this time.

Limitations of the new larger and lighter ball and the winds of gale-like velocity that sweep up down and across Agua Caliente terrain, are responsible for the changes. Three holes—4th, 10th and 11th—have been shortened a few yards with par remaining the same for each. To that, it has been lengthened to a three-shotter and to No. 16, 40 yards have been added, raising par from 71 to a year ago to 72 for the 1931 tourney.

Some of the pros are convinced that a 295 on the new layout ought to draw a sizeable bonus in addition to the $10,000 for first place. Many have predicted that a 72 hole total of 310 will capture honors which indicates just how they regard Agua Caliente's length, these cross-winds and the new ball.

When Architect Billy Bell drew up plans for the "hot water" layout he wasn't counting on bettering one who has been shortening the same for a player. Those who traversed it last winter voted it one of the hardest in the land. It was new and soft then and though high winds blew only one day of the four the winning score was about 10 strokes higher than the winning total for the average winter tournament.

"It may have been upon a suggestion of Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente professional, who has been experimenting with the new ball on those wind-swept stretches, that the course was shortened at some holes and lengthened at others. At any rate, Diegel probably felt that the $10,000 first prize might just as well stay to the home professional.

Sinks Five Successive Long Shots In As Many Attempts; Score, 49-39

Jack Dempsey says Max Baer has the build and general appearance of a fine fighter. . . Never having seen Max fight, he does not care to commit himself. . . Pa Stribling says the Chicago Stadium people have been much friendlier toward him and will than the Madison Square Garden folks. . . The answer to that may be that Chicago likes Will better than New York does. . . Perhaps because Will put up some smashing battles for the loopounds. . . Whereas Broadway has often seen him in several unwarlike adventures. . . The Chicago Stadium seats 5,000 more earnest souls than the Garden. . . Rabbit Maraville's fielding average of .985 led all the other National League shortstops for the 1930 season. . . which led Babe Ruth to remark: "Well, the guy ought to be good. . . he's been out there practicing 18 years."

Manchester basketball lovers who saw the Rec Five outpoint the Philadelphia Colored Giants 49 to 39, at the Rec gym last night, were electrified by the super-spectacular shooting of Jack Bethards, chunky backcourt star on the visiting team.

Due to a sprained ankle, Bethards did not enter the game until well after the third quarter got underway. But he more than made up for lost time by tossing five successive shots from midfloor or better. Every shot of the star, who is a playground instructor down in Philadelphia during the off-season months, took only five shots from midfloor and made everyone of them. The only other shot he took was a one-hand flip from the side court which just fell short of the mark.

Saved the Day The game had been rather listless and somewhat one-sided until Bethards took Oatman's place, but he "saved" the game. The Rec Five was in rare form last night and when "Chue's" outfit is clicking properly, it is a tough team to beat. Ty Holand was having another of his "on-ights" and everybody on the Manchester team took a personal hand in the score.

Bethards had scarcely entered the contest when he won the title with his exceedingly clever stunts with the ball. He was a scream to watch, yet deadly accurate with his tricky, deceptive and totally unexpected passes. Incidentally, not one of his passes went amiss and on at least two or three occasions, they led directly to twin-pointers for the visitors.

By far the outstanding piece of individual work was contributed by Bethards when he landed in the circle at the middle of the floor, he feinted a long shot, turned completely around for a moment, then did as clever as about-face as one could ask for, and instantly flipped the ball for the basket. It stalling up high, sniping a perfect arc as it dropped into the net. The crowd gave Bethards tremendous applause.

One of the colored gentlemen sitting on the bench keeping tabs on the score and time, said that Bethards is considered one of the greatest basketball players in the world's history. He added that the Renaissance have offered Bethards all kinds of money to join their club but that Bethards prefers to stay with his own standing friends.

The scorer, however, said: "You think Jack is good tonight, well, you want to see him when his ankle is okay."

The Giants presented only two of the same players who were here with the Philadelphia team against the Rec a couple of years ago. They were Bethards and Tommy Chambers, and by the way this Chambers is not their star center of bygone years, is missing and Slater who stands about six is the new guard of the post. The Giants are not as strong as they were a year or two ago to be sure, out any time that Bethards puts on one of those exhibitions, it is worth going to see.

Instead of having won 35 straight games as Billy Leonard, booking agent of the team at Boston, wrote Manager Clune, the Giants came here with a record of 14 victories in 16 games this season. They lost to Plainfield, 39 to 28, and to Northampton, Mass., 39 to 35 the night before they came here. This evening they play in Summerdale, Mass. The Giants are much more to home under professional rules although they didn't appear to be seriously handicapped last night. They did, however, pay the price of unusually strict officiating. It was apparent that Referee Danny Ahern of Middletown has not forgotten the trouble he once had with another colored team.

Stafford A. C. Is No Match For Local Hoopsters Who Show Considerable Strength.

The Stafford A. C., proved no match for the newly organized East Side Club last night in the preliminary basketball game at the Rec gym. The final score was 52 to 8. Campbell and Opizal led the attack with seven and eight baskets respectively. At halftime Manchester was leading 34 to 7. One thing is certain and that is that it is going to take a good club to turn back the East Siders. It also shows the more obvious that the forthcoming East Side-West Side series will be an attraction in itself, regardless of the game it precedes.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)
The bridge, deep in the forest, was a very pretty sight because it was all built by the natives out of logs from great big trees. It stretched across an open space. Said Clowdy, "What holds it in place?" And Scouty answered, "Those big logs can hold it up with ease."
The Travel Man said, "Natives work real hard and never stop to shirk. That's why they do all things up right. They know that plan is wise. You'll find it's never any fun to only have a task half done. Results are bound to always come to anyone who tries."
Wee Cappy laughed and swung about. "A lecture's being handed out," said he. "But I don't mind it 'cause I think that's what we need. Whenever there's work that must be done, we always loaf through it, in fun. I know that we'd better work if we would show some speed."
They all piled in their truck again to ride a mile or so. And then they heard a funny snorting. "What is that?" one Tiny cried. The Travel Man said, "I don't know, but we can find out if we go forward where the snorting came from. Surely something will be spied."
They rode a hundred yards or more and then found out what was so store. A great big elephant stood near. The snorting came from him. "Oh look!" cried Cappy. "If you please, he's helping pull down great big trees. His winding trunk must be real strong; the way he grabs a limb and he was absolutely right. The Tinies saw a wondrous sight. The husky looking elephant was strong as he could be. He'd pull and snort and snort some more. The Tinies thought that he was sore, but 'twas his way of doing things. Then, down would come the tree."
(The Tinymites watch natives work on a bridge in the next story.)

The Grezel-Johnson Co. report the sale of two Kelvinator refrigerators and two Zenith radios yesterday.

Mrs. Sophie Jacobs, of New York City is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Herman Adams of 19 Strant street. Mr. Adams is proprietor of the Style Shop here.

Card parties at St. James's church, which have been omitted over the holidays, will be resumed with the usual bridge, whist and setback tonight at 8 o'clock, in charge of Mr. and Mrs. James Burke, co-chairmen, and the following committee: Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzgerald, Mrs. Jacob Corchilus, Miss Mary and Miss Catherine Fraher, Mrs. Frank Mahoney, Mrs. James Roache. Six prizes will be awarded to the winners in each section and refreshments will be served.

The final lesson in the Brownie leaders class will be given by Mrs. H. L. F. Locke of Hartford on Friday afternoon, January 9, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Robert Dewey, 43 Stephen street. The subject will be "Ceremonies," and everyone is urged to be present as this lesson completes the course.

Officers of Mary Bushnell Cheney Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, will be installed tomorrow evening at the State Armory by Past President Mrs. Florence Treadwell, assisted by Past Department President Mrs. Jennie Sheridan. A turkey supper will be served at 7 o'clock in the mess hall of the Armory, and this together with the installation, is to be held jointly with Ward Cheney Camp.

The Weldon Beauty Parlor will give a sleeping cap free to every woman who has a facial, shampoo and wave during January.—Adv.

WOMEN'S TEMPERANCE UNION MEETS HERE
 Business, Social and Prayer Program At Home of Mrs. Carl Nyman of Pine Street.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Nyman of Pine street. The attendance was good considering the stormy weather. A prayer service led by Miss Ella Stanley followed the business. A discussion of various topics of interest to the organization ended with a social hour during which tea, sandwiches and cake were served. Mrs. Arthur H. Illing assisted the hostess.

The hope was expressed that many of the local Union would attend the prayer service at Central Baptist church, Hartford, tomorrow afternoon, and the law observance luncheon at the Hotel Bond, January 17, reservations for which must be made by January 12 through Mrs. Louis St. Clair Burr. Guest speakers at the luncheon will be Dr. Stanley High and Ben H. Spence, Washington correspondent of the Toronto Globe.

CHURCH BENEVOLENT SOCIETY CEASES WORK

Center Congregational Church Ends Functions, Turns Funds Over To The Church.

The Center Church Ladies' Benevolent Society ceased to function at a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the ladies' parlor, after service to the church and community continuing over a period of 60 years. The final meeting was attended by 36. A sum of more than $500 remaining in the treasury of the society was turned over to the church, the fund to remain in the name of the Ladies Benevolent Society as a tribute to the early workers of the organization, which corresponded to Ladies' Aid Society in other churches, with perhaps more effort directed along home missionary lines. The society was organized in 1871 and the by-laws were neatly copied on a large sheet of paper by Mrs. M. S. Chapman, sister of R. O. Cheney, both of whom passed to the great beyond years ago. This document was framed and was often referred to by the members as their "charter."

Mrs. Emma Lyons Nettleton, has been requested to prepare a short history of the society which went out of existence yesterday, to be read at the annual meeting of the Center church family later in the month.

Mrs. Mary C. Jennie Moeser of East Center street is the oldest living president of the society, and although she is well, through misunderstanding as to dates she was absent yesterday.

The business session was followed with a little program consisting of a piano solo by Miss Carrie Lull, a piano duet by Mrs. Maude Norton and Mrs. Edna Case Parker, recitations by Mrs. Nettleton and Mrs. Annie Lownd, winding up with the song "Auld Lang Syne" sung as a solo by Mrs. J. A. Hood and acted in part by Mrs. Nettleton and Mrs. Lownd. Adjournment was made to the Robbins room where a delicious supper was served under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Lull, chairman. The party broke up with the singing of a verse from "Auld Lang Syne," in chorus.

BURR "HIGH, LOW, JACK" TEAM MAKES BIG SCORE

Jump From Ninth Place In Community Setback League To Fifth Last Night.

The Burr Nursery team playing in the Community Setback Tournament in progress at the White house, broke all records as to points scored in one night's sitting when they rolled up a total of 106 points last night advancing them from ninth place in the standing to fifth. The Dark Horses also made a spurt last night and came under the line with the whip to jump from seventh place to third. The lead that was held by Hose No. 1 was cut by the Foley's Express team, who are now in second position.

The reason given by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters for these increases is the greater power and speed of automobiles; improved roads, permitting all-year traffic, the operation of closed automobiles in inclement weather when hazards are increased, and greater congestion on the highways.

HOSPITAL NOTES

A son was born at the Memorial hospital yesterday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Murphy of 37 Apple Place.

There will be a pre-natal clinic at the Manchester Memorial hospital at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

LIGHT AUTO OWNER'S INSURANCE RATE UP

New Charge On Public Liability and Property Damage Types Increased 32 Per Cent.

The new insurance rates effective Jan. 5, 1931, as set by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters are being received by the local insurance brokers. In this new revision of public liability and property damage rates the local owners of a light car finds himself face to face with the necessity of paying $14 more this year for the same insurance that he had last year, if he is to be fully protected on the State highways.

Comments of several local insurance brokers on the new revision of liability and property damage rates are to the effect that the increases will work considerable hardship on owners of light cars, who, although possibly under the classification of merit-rated car owners, will nevertheless be forced to pay the high rates for light cars which constitute approximately a 32 percent increase in this section.

The owners of light cars are not the only ones to suffer under this new classification. Trucks of all kinds are given a much higher rating, in some cases nearly 40 percent increase over last year's figures. Coming at this time, when owners of small cars are trying their best to keep the car on the road for the benefit of the small family for at least a part of the year, the current increases will have one of several effects. Owners of small cars will either put their cars on the road without this form of insurance; withhold the licensing of their cars until summer to gain the reductions permitted, or fail to license their cars at all the coming season.

First Quarter Only One To Show Increase Over Figures of Previous Year.

Postmaster Ernest F. Brown of the Manchester post office late yesterday afternoon completed the figures showing the business done at the office during the year 1930. The result shows a falling off of $1,343.67 from the figures of last year. In 1930 the office did business to the amount of $19,733.91 against $21,077.58 in 1929.

In only one quarter, the January to April period of 1930, was the office ahead of last year's figures with a gain of $800, but this gain was lost and a further falling behind made in the second quarter when there was a loss of nearly $1,700. In the third quarter there was only about $150 lost and about $125 in the last quarter.

The largest receipts recorded at the office since Mr. Brown's term were in 1928 when the total for the year was $27,552.82.
